Thursday, October 17 SECRETARY OF STATE John Foster Dulles vesterday bluntly warned that the United States would retaliate if Russia should attack Turkey. Asked in what manner the U.S. would "stand by" Turkey in case of attack by Russia, Dulles said that if such an attack occurred America would not be confined to a purely defensive operation.

Dulles' news conference came in the wake of a formal Syrian demand that the United Nations General Assembly conduct full-scale debate on charges that Turkey is massing troops along the Turkish-Syrian border.

FEDERAL INCOME TAX authorities are making a national check on the expense allowances and bank deposits of union officials. The inquiry is not confined to the muchinvestigated Teamsters union. It includes unions not investigated by the Senate Racket Committee.

According to labor leaders, emphasis is being put on arrangements under which union officials receive a fixed weekly allotment for expenses in addition to their regular salaries. In many unions such allowances range from $25 to

STATE INVESTIGATORS voted Thursday to supply ammunition to rank-and-file insurgents seeking to upset the election of James R. Hoffa, as president of the Teamsters. The decision was made after the rebels had obtained a subpena calling on the Senate Labor Management Rackets Committee to turn over material the senators originally had subpensed from the union.

Hoffa, who had planned to step into the $50,000-a-year post earlier this week, has been kept out of office by a temporary restraining order issued by Federal Judge F. Dickinson Letts.

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain will meet here next week. The announcement here and in London was a surprise follow-up to the American visit of Queen | chairman of the United States Elizabeth II.

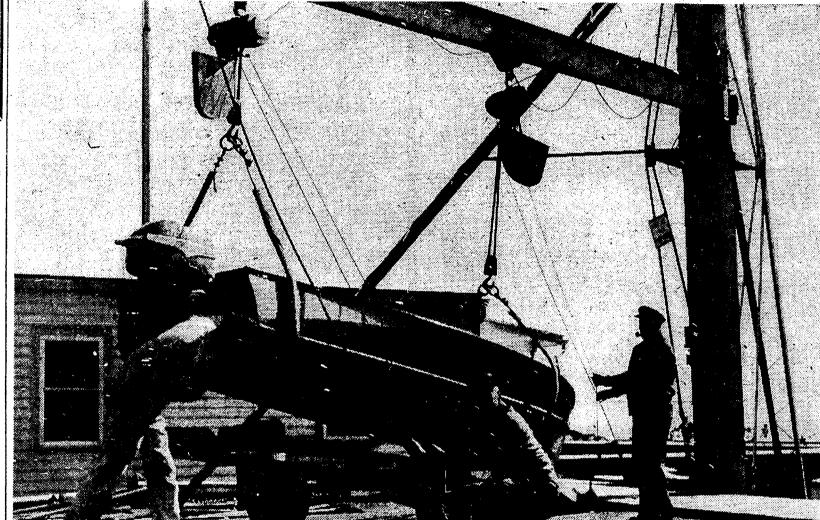

Soviet penetration of the Middle East, the sputnik, the intensified cold war, and what Anglo-American co-operation and the Western alliance can do about these problems, are expected to be the main topic for the meeting.

FORD'S LINCOLN and Mercury Division exhibited at Dearborn Thursday an optional 400-horsepower engine, biggest announced by the industry for 1958 models. At the same time the division showed its 1958 Lincoln, Mercury and Continental Mark III automobiles.

It appears in this issue. The prime function of any community swimming program should be to teach non-swimmers, consequently the program provides more time for beginning groups. Past experience with the children's outof-school swimming program which has operated at the Grosse Pointe High School pool for many years, has indicated that most parents are aware of the need for their children to learn how to swim under capable supervision.

To meet the needs of more experienced swimmers and adults, several periods a week have been planned for those interested. One period a week at Parcells and Pierce has been set aside for swimming by couples.

the advantages of the change were noted. Both the judge and the city attorney cited the fact that under Public Act 5 of 1956, municipal court designations are mandatory in cities with populations of 15,000 or more, where the justice of the peace is paid a salary in lieu of fees, as in the Farms. The city's present population is 12,500. They also cited Act 157, which became effective September 27 of this year which amends the earlier act.

The amendment provides that "any city having a population of less than 15,000 and a justice of the peace who is paid a salary in lieu of fees and required to be an attorney, may adopt by ordinance the provisions of this act, and such court shall be deemed a municipal 'court under this act for all purposes while said ordinance is in effect."

In a letter to the council, read at Monday's meeting, Mr Tilley stated that there appear to be several advantages to the city in converting to a higher court. He said that in a municipal court, the judge has specific "powers to set trials over to an adjourned date, to adopt rules, to permit motions in writing, to set aside jury verdicts in certain cases, to direct verdicts; and to render judgments non obstante veredicto (not withstanding verdicts.)

The city attorney informed the council that the change would not effect anything except the title from justice of the peace to municipal judge. The salary, term of office, and so on, will remain the same, he pointed out.

If the switch is decided, he said, a slight change, that of substituting "municipal judge" "justice of the peace" in the city charter will be re-

Speaking at a symposium on speed control at the National Safety Congress, Dr. Alfred L. Moseley said: "The problem of controlling speeders must be approached from a psychological viewpoint before it can be effectively solved."

He bases his observations on nearly 400 personal "on-thespot" interviews with drivers and analysis of records of

Dr. Moseley, who is consulting psychologist for the Institute for Safer Living, cites 11 reasons, most of them subconscious, why drivers speed:

1. Temporary relief from mental and physical tensions. 2. A hidden impulse to violate the laws so as to be caught and punished. 3. Suicidal inclinations.

4. A compulsion to surpass other cars on the road. 5. Extreme anger. 6. Simple need to flee a bad ituation—running away sub-success in beating the law. 10. A growing belief that present cars are built for higher speeds than the law

11. Speeding by deliberate

Dr. Moseley pointed out that in the majority of cases, some aspect of a person's daily life other than actual driving provides the basic reason for speeding. He said that anyone may be guilty of driving too fast at times for one or more of the above reasons. Other offenses are of a chronic na-

The psychologist recommended a program of psychiatric examinations at courtroom level for offenders guilty of driving at excessive speed, as well as for habitual speeders. "If for no other reason," he said, "those charged with enforcing the laws can no longer afford to risk their lives chasing culprits at 80 to 100 miles per hour."

The UN Is Your Business

An international police force maintains order in the Middle East, thereby lessening the chance of a war that could spread round the world.

All this is just a part of the continuing drama of the United Nations and its fight for peace—a fight which takes place not only in the political arenas of the General Assembly and the Security Council but also in the day-to-day operations of such agencies as the World Health Organization, the Universal Postel Union, UNESCO and the Food and Agricultural Organization.

The United Nations has had and will continue to have moments of great achievements just as it will continue to have temporary setbacks. In its operations, it will continue to mirror the difficulties of an uneasy world AND A PRECARIOUS PEACE. But so long as the world is beset with ominous problems and the threat of war, the United Nations will remain a sheer and simple necessity.

This will and support in the final analysis are, of course. the sum of the knowledge and understanding of the UN by Americans and, by all the peoples of the world.

A local couple who had not been East for many years, found themselves in New York last week when the man of the house had to be there on business. They caught a cab at the station and decided to have the driver go by the United Nations building since they had never seen it. When they got in that vicinity . . . the wife remarked to her husband about the number of antique shops there were . . . that hadn't been in existence before.

Later on, they drove up Madison avenue . . . and the husband said: "Look at all the men wearing bowler hats. I haven't seen those in YEARS!" At that point, the taxi driver turned to them and said: "Say ... where are you people FROM anyway, Topeka, Kansas?"

If passersby were mystified by a sign on the front door of the Grosse Pointe News on the last day of the world's series . . . we can explain it. It seems our advertising manager, Matt Goebel, was so sure the Yankees would win, he told all the office staff that he would buy them a glass of gingerale (?) at London East, if the Braves won. Hence, Mr. G. lost . . . and the entire office trekked next door after putting a sign on the place "Gone to Milwaukee for fifteen minutes!"

When Joseph Schildkraut was here last week in "Diary of Ann Frank" we had the pleasure of renewing an old acquaintanceship . . . dating from the days he was starring in "Liliom." We might add he looks terriffc. In talking about Hollywood he told us a couple of true tales that we hope will amuse you. Both concern producers. It seems one day whilst a B picture was in the making . . . a religious movie, albeit not in the DeMille class . . . the producer wandered onto the set and saw a scene which included the twelve apostles. He asked the director, "What's THAT? What are those men supposed to be in this scene?" The director explained that they were the twelve apostles. The big man of B pictures exclaimed: "Only TWELVE men in this scene? Ridiculous! I want at least 27 apostles."

The other story concerned a picture Schildkraut himself starred in years ago called "Sisters Under The Skin." He said NO one could ever figure out why at | the time. The story dealt with an aging man, his young October 24th is the twelfth anniversary of the Unit- and pretty wife, and Schildkraut who as a young Polish and by official proclamation by the President of the was originally called "Moonlight Sonata" . . . but again "Moonlight Sonata" . . . what's THAT? Wedding attendants are notorious for thinking up diabolical things to do to the departing honeymoon couple after the reception. In grandma's day the height of whoopee was to tie a tin can to the wedding car and throw a handful of rice in their direction. But not so these days. The latest and most sadistic one we've heard of happened out of town. Our hero, the bridegroom, happened to choose about 8 ex-football players for his ushers . . . so he didn't stand a chance! The first thing they did to him after the ceremony, when he was closeted with them to throw last minute things into his traveling bag ... was to hold onto him while his best man painted "Just Married" on his back with iodine! ening article on wills that we come-wise. picked up a short time ago.

A recent legal survey disclosed that five out of six Americans die without a will. Some of these people, no doubt, were conditioned against the desirability of such a document, but it is entirely likely that in many instances lethargy was responsible for this situation. Most people realize the value of planning, but too often leave the actual business

It is agreed that the first step in making a will is a good lawyer to advise and guide us as laymen who know little or nothing of fiduciary law. However, we cannot shelve all regent understanding of the precise procedures and frequent errors made in this important matter will save time for both client and attorney.

To anyone interested in preparing a will, we recommend a new book which has just been received at your library, "Your Family Without You," by N. R. Caine. This deals in a practical manner with the many phases of estate planning, and study of it should prove helpful to the layman, so that will more effectively when he consults his attorney later. Although the author points out that no two family situations are alike, he gives many examples to illustrate frequent pitfalls, and offers the man anxious to provide in the best way possible for his family, some valuable ammunition.

Another new title which touches on this subject is "Making the Most of Your Estate" by Earl S. MacNeill, This book by an attorney with long experience in trust supervision, discusses various types a bird in the hand...

A bird in hand is mighty comforting when really needed. We mean the handy, convenient feeling of money in the bank for emergencies. It's yours on short notice -and you don't need to jeopardize your long-range financial plans to get at it. Responsible brokers of real estate, securities and life insurance emphasize this point. Over and over you hear them advise: "Make this investment only after you have sufficient cash reserves in bank savings to meet critical family emergencies." Celebrations Ahead

"How would you like to spend your birthday?" asked Llywd Ecclestone of his wife last week concerning her November natal date. Mrs. E. confided that she wanted most of all to be in Paris for the anniversary.

No sooner said than done and that's where she'll be. As of now she's trying to decide whether to fly or sail on the Queen Elizabeth early next month. But however she travels she'll be there with Mr. Ecclestone, with maybe a stopover in Portugal before she comes home

House guests may seem like a lot of trouble to most of you, but the James Harlands like to keep their guest room in Radnor circle filled. For their tenth wedding anniversary next month they will invite Mrs. H.'s brother-in-law and sister, the John Beards, to come over from Cleveland and do some celebrating.

Spooks and Spontaneity

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Eric Stroh want to show off their new home in Neff road and what could be a better occasion than Halloween.

They have invited about two dozen for a party, vaguely costume, says the hostess, on Friday, November 1, for after dinner and to spend the evening.

Tomorrow eve is the annual open house of Linda Hart, daughter of the Frederick P. Harts, of Hillcrest road. She tosses this shindig every autumn about now.

Last week-end too, was the house warming Peggy Moreland gave with two of her roommates, Kitty Crane and Ann Comings, in their new apartment in Lakeshore Village. She is the daughter of the Paul Morelands, of Harvard road.

Most thoughtful party inspiration yet comes from Mrs. Thomas J. Litle III who gave a tea last week in her new Tonnancour place home for her mother-in-law, moved to the plush plaza from Meadow lane.

Cook's Field Goal Spells Victory Over Wyandotte

The Grosse Pointe Blue Devils put the "foot" back in football when quarterback Dave Cook booted a 20 yard field goal, on the first play of the fourth quarter, to give the Blue Devils a hard earned 3-0 victory over Wyandotte Bears on the latters' field under the lights last Friday. October 18.

Once before the Blue Devils resorted to a field goal to win a game. That was way back in 1947 when "Pig" Flaugher booted a 26-yard field goal against Fordson for a 3-0 win in the last minute of play to give the Pointers their first win over Fordson in 18 outa inushy Grosse Pointe gridiron.

It was at this point Cook calmly called his own number for the crucial play of the game and he made good amidst the screams of the large Grosse Pointe crowd who came to cheer their team on to victory.

No Thrilling Runs

Wyandotte tried valiantly to overcome the deficit but the Devils' defense was too tough to crack. Thrilling runs which have been the hallmark of previous Devil games were missing, but to the ardent follower of the game it was a contest of stellar defensive play on the part of both teams. Neither team was able to move the ball with appreciable long gains although the Devils had the better of it as they twice moved deep into Wyandotte territory and threatened.

Grosse Pointe first threatened early in the first quarter when Nicholson drove a punt deep in the Bear territory which rolled dead on the Wyandotte 3. On the first play Grosse Pointe 3, Wyandotte 0 Wyandotte fumbled and end Jim Brown recovered on the First Down Bears' 10½ yard line.

Beyond Help

Most of us have heard these words of hope: "Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

Now Christian Science shows how to make this promise come true in time of need. Thoughtful reading of the Christian Science textbook

Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, beginning with the brief first chapter on "Prayer," has shown thousands how to avail themselves of God's help, how to meet the pressing problems of daily life more successfully.

MARY BAKER EDDY It matters not how long or how urgent may be the human call for help. God can do what mankind You can learn how to bring to pass for yourself, or others, the promise given by Christ Jesus, the Way-shower, "Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8). Science and Health shows the sincere seeker how to find and feel this promised freedom.

Science and Health may be read, borrowed; or purchased at any Christian Science Reading Room, or send $3 and a copy will be mailed postpaid.

Steam yachts, elegant surreys . . . then the private railway car was the latest commuter creation in the gay nineties. The Pointe was as exclusive as inaccessability could make it back at the turn of the century.

Property owners along the lake, granting that a four-hour buggy ride to town was a little long even in those leisurely Victorian days, put up a terrible fuss when a neighbor, John B. Dyar, wanted to extend the interurban railway past their front doors on the route to Mt. Clemens.

No Toonerville trolley was going to desecrate the lake view from the crenallated castles of the McMillans, Newberrys, Brushes and Lothrops. Senator Newberry saw to that and Grosse Pointe boulevard was built to keep the nasty rattling cars away from the lush summer

At the foot of Fisher road in those days, next to the new Country Club, one of the Du Pont boys built a pretentious home. A part owner of the interurban then, Mr. Du Pont had the line extended to his estate and every morning boarded a special private car, No. 93, for his ride into offices at No. 12 Woodward.

The Shore line of the interurban was built along the old back road, Grosse Pointe boulevard, in the nineties, to Weir lane, and passed down the lane through the almost forgotten community of Clairview to Lakeshore road.

Best seats in the house, boasts the doctor.

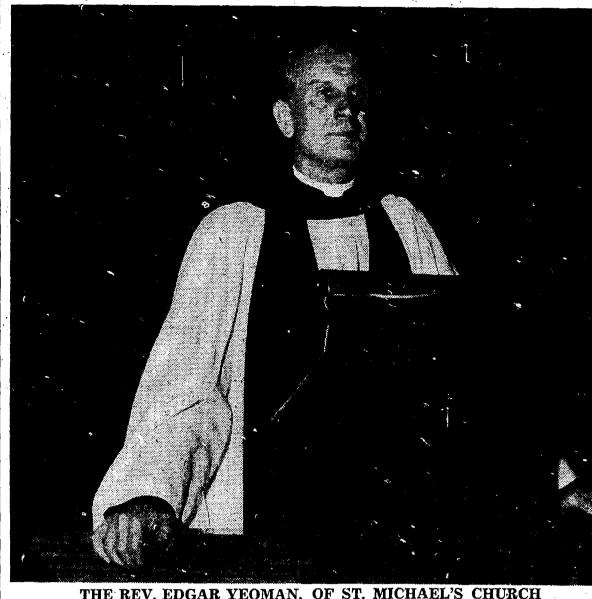

It was not a mink day for newsman Don Whitehead, who opened the Celebrity Series at the Esquire Theater last Thursday. Raincoats and purty unfurled umbrellas were worn by the fashionable, such as Mrs. Joseph Bayne, Mrs. Ellis Merry, Mrs. Harther Keim, Mrs. David Marentette, Mrs. Alonzo Allen and Mrs. Nelson Diebel. Coming on November 14, Bonita and Harry Overstreet, noted psychologists.

A harried husband we know was complaining bitterly that he never got to drive the family car to work, so one day when his wife, suffering from Asian flu, felt noble, she let him take it. That evening he arrived home very early and she was so pleased at the experiment she thought she might let him have the car more often. "The ear, the car," he yelled, "I forgot it, caught a ride with a fella in the office." She made him take the bus back down and retrieve it from parking lot. Dinner was very late that evening.

PILFERINGS

Seven-year-old Jimmy came home from school at lunch time, flushed with excitement. "Guess what, Mother? After recess, Miss Morton told me to put on my coat and go downstairs to get some gravel and stuff for our class terrarium and when I went into the school yard, there was nobody in the yard—and Mother, I could've escaped!"
