Months of Study
The Bon Secours expansion plan is the result of months of study and effort on the part of the Sisters of Bon Secours, members of the hospital's Advisory Board and an outstanding hospital consultant, Dr. Anthony J. J. Rourke of New York. Giffels and Rossetti, Detroit architectural firm, was chosen to design and execute the building and grounds plan.

Would Expand Hospital

a new and pleasing face to its neighbors and the community at large.

Zoning Changes Needed
Before the hospital can proceed with its enlargement plan, appropriate zoning changes and an exception from the recently-enacted building height ordinance must be obtained from the Grosse Pointe City Council.

In its petition to the Council, the hospital cited the gross inadequacies of its present buildings in relation to the heavy demands placed upon them and said that the high quality medical and surgical care Bon Secours offers as a matter of policy is jeopardized by severe space shortages.

For the past five years the hospital has had an average annual occupancy rate exceeding 90 per cent, a usage factor so high that it creates constant difficulties for patients and doctors alike.

Addition of the wing paralleling Notre Dame would provide room in the hospital for another 160 beds and adequate space for offices, operating rooms, laboratories and related facilities.

ducting the orchestra will be Felix Resnick.

Mrs. Walter J. Burezyk has arranged for the following young set of Grosse Pointe to act as ushers: Sandy Boss, Jana Berlenbach, Jackie DeLaney, Suzanne Chase, Nancy Kramer and Chris Nolan.

Reception Scheduled
To complete the afternoon reception will follow in the Parcels School Gymnasium where there will be a chance for guests and members to meet the conductor, orchestra players, soloist and friends. Reception chairman, Dr. Elizabeth Downie, will have attractive spring tea tables set.

Assisting Dr. Downie as hostesses will be: Mrs. Henry J. Caroselli, Miss Kay Couchman, Miss Miriam K. Crowley, Mrs. G. Leslie Denholm, Mrs. Bernt Ekvold, Mrs. Duressa Ganton, Mrs. James R. Geldart, Miss Dorothy M. LaSalle, Mrs. James Mavius, Mrs. Robert D. McClure, Miss Ruth L. Murray, Mrs. Alice Neumann, Mrs. Frank L. Olf, Miss Rita Roney, Mrs. D. M. Schoonover, Mrs. Anthony Shemansky and Miss Helen Swayze.

Upon receipt of Dr. Rourke's recommendation for a 160-bed expansion, the hospital presented its plan to the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council. The Council approved the proposed expansion as fitting within its planning total for the area.

Construction of the new unit is to be completed in November of this year. The architectural firm of Merritt, Cole, and McCallum has designed the building. Ray Misch and Son has been awarded the contract as General Contractor with Carl Bartone and Sons doing the mechanical work and Schnurr Electric Company receiving the electrical contract.

At first glance you might mistake this shirt for any other top-grade Oxford. The difference is simply that Hathaway's Bastite is one-third lighter than ordinary Oxfords. And feels cool and airy even in heat waves.

It never rumples halfway through the day like some summer weights. That's because Hathaway's weavers have kept all the substance of Oxford cloth, but none of its weight.

Seven Reappointed to Farms Posts

The Farms council on Monday, April 15, approved the re-appointment of seven members of the Mayor's Advisory Planning Committee for another full year term.

Mayor William Connolly, Jr., submitted the names of the committee, all of whom he said expressed a willingness to serve again. The term of office will expire on May 1. The following will serve until May 1, 1964: George L. Schlaepfer, Clarence E. Bessert, Franklin D. Carr, James H. Dingeman, T. Raymond Jeffs, Joseph V. McQuillen and Miles M. O'Brien.

Speeder Nabbed Following Chase

William W. Prentiss, 29, of 1419 Nicolet place, Detroit, was arrested by Shores police on Wednesday, April 10, after a chase on Lake Shore road up to 70 miles an hour.

Prentiss told Patrolmen Harry Hamilton and Stanley Otulakowski that he had some business to take care of, and was in a hurry. Hamilton gave the motorist another matter to worry about—a traffic summons to court for reckless driving.

Hamilton said that he saw Prentiss traveling west on Lake Shore at high speed, and took up pursuit, but because of heavy traffic was unable to catch up to him.

However, the officer said, he was close enough to see Prentiss run a red light at Vernier road. Hamilton said that he called for assistance, and Otulakowski responded. Both policemen said the chase continued at a 70-mile-an-hour speed.

Prentiss, it was disclosed by Hamilton and Otulakowski, cut in and out around at least 10 other drivers, between Vernier and Clairview, and was forced to slow down behind two other slow moving vehicles that were side by side.

When the driver on the right moved ahead, the officers said, Prentiss swung to the right and then to the left, cutting in front of the other car.

Finally, Otulakowski forged ahead of Prentiss and got in front of him at 500 Lake Shore. Hamilton was directly behind the motorist, and together the policemen forced Prentiss to a halt.

Prentiss was taken to the station where he was given a violation ticket for reckless driving and posted a bond of $100 pending a court appearance.

Great Decisions Panelists Air Socialized Medicine

By Bob Richard

Four speakers before a discussion group on socialized medicine last Wednesday agreed on ends, but disagreed on means. Two doctors, a hospital administrator, and a member of the Socialist Workers Party, speaking at the last in a series of "Great Decisions" discussions at the Grosse Pointe Public Library, agreed that all who need medical care should have it, but disagreed both on how many people can't afford care and on how it should be provided to them.

The four speakers were Mrs. Sara Lovell, who has been a candidate for public office on the Socialist Workers ticket, Dr. John J. Stevin, associate editor of a Wayne County Medical Association publication and chairman of its speaker's bureau, Franklin Carr, administrator at Detroit Memorial Hospital, and Dr. Raymond Reed, a surgeon who practiced in England from 1948 to 1951, during the first years of the National Health Service.

Having seen the British health plan in action, Dr. Reed said he did not think socialized medicine would be valuable for America.

"There is no question," he said, "that there was a gain to the British people by instituting the health plan."

"But," he added, "the benefits of socialized medicine to those who need assistance would be at least offset by the lowering of medical standards.

"It is not satisfactory for government control, I am certain that standards would drop under socialized medicine."

Dr. Reed said the British probably had no choice but to adopt socialized medicine because World War II bankrupted many hospitals and they either had to submit to government control or collapse. But, he added, Americans do have a choice.

Mrs. Lovell attacked American medical care as inadequate. "Despite the fact that we are the richest country in the world," she said, "there are many who can't afford medical care."

By Federal government standards, she asserted, 35 million Americans live in "real poverty" and another 40 million are "underprivileged." She pointed out that problems of chronic illness and mental health are far greater among lower income groups who can least afford medical care.

Only 125 million Americans are covered by some sort of health insurance, she said, leaving some 60 million uncovered.

"Recently," Mrs. Lovell said, "we have had a little more attention focused on older people." Those over 65 are not only less able to pay but also have greater medical needs.

Dr. Stevin answered, "The assertion is not true that the majority of old people are medically indigent." He said most old people can pay their medical bills through insurance or savings, pointing out that of 17 million old people, less than 3 million are on old age assistance.

Carr asserted that while a problem exists there is no serious crisis because this country has traditionally found ways to provide medical care for those who need it.

He pointed out, for example, that although the medical costs of those over 65 average twice those of the rest of the population and although 46 per cent of those over 65 still have no medical insurance the proportion of those in the 65-74 age bracket who are covered rose in the 1950's from just over 20 per cent to more than 50 per cent.

Dr. Stevin summarized the medical profession's philosophy as follows: "The profession believes that the individual should care for himself; if he fails, his family should care for him; then if both fail the community, state, or nation should step in."

He and Carr agreed that the King-Anderson "Medicare" bill now before Congress is not the answer to the medical problems of the nation's elders.

They objected first that it is limited to those on social security, and not based on ability to pay. In other words, President Kennedy's father is just as eligible as anyone else.

"We do not think," Dr. Stevin said, "that the poor should pay for the rich. The criterion for care should be ability to pay based on need, not age.

Further, the King-Anderson bill covers only hospitalization, and that only for limited periods, while the Kerr-Mills bill, now in effect in about 30 states including Michigan, covers many additional expenses.

Other disadvantages, Carr said, are that the work force must pay for the program through social security, and that it would duplicate much of the machinery already set up by Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

Prepared remarks were followed by questions and discussion from the floor.

The meeting was the last of ten. The first eight were on a series of foreign policy questions, and the ninth was on world federalism.

Wilmer Krogh, program leader of the "Great Decisions" group, said the series would be held again next March, and that if there is sufficient interest, additional topics would be discussed in January, before the regular series.

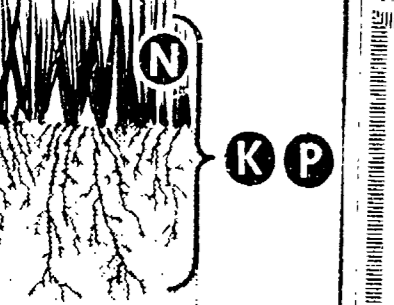

He said the Grosse Pointe News would carry information on the 1964 discussions next January.

Chairman of last Wednesday's program was Dale Pattison, history teacher at Grosse Pointe High School.

Pan American Program Held

Last Monday the Grosse Pointe Rotary heard a talk by Dr. Sebastian Rodriguez, the consul for the Republic of Columbia. Preceding the talk an excellent program was put on by three dancers performing Spanish dances.

Dr. Rodriguez spoke on the subject of "English Speaking America Finds the Other America."

"Ironically," he stated, "we now owe a debt of gratitude to the Soviet because we have now become conscious of the geography of our own continent." He pointed out in early days, Latin American societies were built around three mainstays, the Church, the army, and the rich or the "elite." Today the army and the Church are not nearly so powerful. The army is more concerned with its spiritual mission but, the elite have changed little if any.

"The problem today in the other Americas is one of awakening the elite or the rich to their responsibilities."

Dr. Rodriguez's background includes the study of law and medicine in the University of Santo Domingo. He was a career diplomat, having held several ambassadorial posts. He is now a United States citizen and is presently employed with Parke-Davis in charge of the department securing product approval from foreign health departments.

He is married, has two daughters and eight grandchildren, and resides in Grosse Pointe. He was accompanied by the Consul of Nicaragua, Senor Juan Morales.

Annual Flowers Brighten Garden

Annual flowers in a garden are like frosting to a cake. Trees and shrubs are needed for good appearance, but it's the flowers that brighten gardens with color.

Cosmos, petunias, and zinnias are popular and easily grown. But flower specialists at The Pennsylvania State University say gardeners can raise scores of other flowers that are just as attractive.

The officers said they saw the woman's car hit the curb on the east of the avenue at Colonial court. The car straightened out and headed for the scout car.

Trombley, the driver, pulled over to the curb to let the woman pass, and then stopped her at Lexington. They said the woman told them that she was trying to pick up a cigarette that she had dropped. There was evidence that the woman had been drinking, the policeman said.

In their report, Trombley and Kerving stated that Mrs. Martin became belligerent and used profane language.

The Woods officers called the Farms station and Patrolman Earl Field was dispatched to the scene. Field issued a ticket to Mrs. Martin for reckless driving, on complaint of the Woods policeman. Court date is scheduled for May 8.

U-Turn Causes Cars to Tangle

An attempted U-turn on Kercheval in "The Village" at noon Saturday, April 13, brought trouble to driver Jacqueline Turner, 17, 4801 Lakewood, Detroit.

City Patrolman Thomas McLaughlin, Jr., walking his regular beat, observed Miss Turner about-facing her car in front of First Federal Savings and Loan, 17150 Kercheval. She had almost completed the maneuver when her left front fender hooked the right front section of a car headed in the opposite direction. Driver of the second car was a 16-year-old girl.

McLaughlin ticketed Miss Turner on two counts, reckless driving — causing an accident and driving on a revoked license. Neither she nor the other girl was injured.

Fire Damages Woods Home

A glowing back burner on an electric stove is believed to have ignited a can of cooking grease and started a fire in the kitchen and dinette in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Myers, 2147 Hampton road, on Monday, April 8.

Woods Public Safety officials said that there was considerable damage to the kitchen and dinette, and heavy smoke damage throughout the first and second floor of the house.

According to a fire report Mrs. Myers was on the second floor painting, when she smelled smoke, and went down stairs to investigate. She found the kitchen in flames.

Mrs. Myers ran outside and saw Patrolman Everett Plumb in a scout car and reported the fire. The officer called in the alarm.

An investigation into the probable cause of the fire revealed the back burner of the kitchen stove was accidentally left on full, and this apparently touched off the grease which was close to the burner.

Many Students Work on Side

A recent survey by Lawrence Westerville, GPHS counselor, reveals that over 20 percent of Grosse Pointe High School's student body is employed in some part-time capacity.

Currently, approximately 250 boys and 200 girls hold part-time jobs. Most popular employment for boys is gardening, closely followed by paper routes and clerking in stores. The girls prefer baby sitting, office, hospital and library work, in that order.

The counselor undertook his survey to disprove the theory that Grosse Pointe teenagers, because they live in a high-income community, are either too lazy or too proud to get honest jobs. Westerville, head of the Work Opportunities for Youth organization at the High School, hopes to find summer employment for over 400 students.

These boys and girls, described by Westerville as "highly skilled and highly ambitious," have already applied to the Work Opportunities program for summer employment. In past years, Westerville has filled jobs only when local employers called him, but this spring he plans to canvass the area for possible job opportunities.

Dreaming of lost opportunities leaves none for the future.

Pick Sore Spots For Clean-Up

"Sore-Spots for Clean-Up" coupons are again being published in the News in connection with the "Clean-Up and Plant-Up" campaign sponsored by the Council of Grosse Pointe Garden Clubs.

Everyone in the community is urged to take a good look at the homes and streets in the neighborhood, to spruce up their own property where necessary, and to report any areas which have fallen into disrepair.

Anyone who knows of such an area is asked to fill in the coupon and mail it to the Garden Club Council, 32 Lake Shore road. The earlier the coupons are received, the quicker the "sore-spots" will be erased.

The committee handling the coupons has the assistance of the boys' service clubs at the Grosse Pointe High School, and the assistance of the cooperation of the five municipalities.

Advance orders are coming in rapidly on the Flowering Cherry trees, the Viburnum Tommentosum Mariesi shrub, and the "Blue Bird" Althea (Rose of Sharon) shrub which the Council is selling as part of the "Plant-Up" Campaign on April 27. Orders can be placed at either TU 5-3141 or TU 5-4984.

2,634 Adults Go to School

Enrollment for winter term classes in Grosse Pointe's Adult Education program numbered 2,634 persons. Forrest Geary, Director of Community Services, reports 109 class sections in operation, not including the monthly Traffic School sponsored by the local municipalities and Harper Woods.

Forty-eight evening and 17 day sections met at the Community Service Center, 22 evening sections were held at Grosse Pointe High School, eight and six evening sections met at Brownell Junior High and Parcels Junior High respectively.

There were three evening sections at Pierce, two at Kerby, and one each at Perry, Barnes and the Main Library. Classes offered for the first time this winter included Children's Clothing, Gourmet Cooking, Style and Poise—Advanced, and the Grosse Pointe Rose Society, organized in cooperation with a group of interested residents.

The Department of Community Service also co-sponsored two public meetings of special interest to area residents: Con-Con, with the Citizens Research Council; and a program on "Use of Modern Pesticides and Effects on Wild Life," with the Men's Garden Club of Grosse Pointe.

VA Launches Salvage Drive

The Volunteers of America will get underway this week in the Detroit area with its spring salvage campaign under the direction of Colonel W. G. Boswell, Area Commander.

Items ranging from worn out electrical appliances to discarded clothing, from furniture to shoes, books and magazines, will be collected by the Volunteers of America, national social welfare organization, which helps the needy without regard to race, color or creed.

Used material of every type will be picked up by the volunteers of America trucks upon receipt of a phone call. Items collected will be examined, sorted and repaired and distributed to the needy. Some are sold and any funds thus realized are used to further the rehabilitation program on a nonprofit basis.

The campaign will also provide jobs for unemployed men and women who will work in the Volunteers of America warehouse at 6060 Rivard sorting and repairing articles collected.

"Our salvage campaign is one of the mainstays of support of our campaign which is aimed at helping the unfortunate of all ages and races," Colonel Boswell stated.

In its 67 years of service, the Volunteers of America over the country have helped more than a million and a quarter men and women get a new start in life through the fine cooperation and generosity of the American people.

You can help by setting aside your old and unwanted items and phoning the Volunteers of America for a truck to pick up your discards.

97 Communities Spray Elm Trees

Even last fall some communities had sprayed their elms as the initial step in the 1963 Dutch elm disease control program and work along this line is being resumed this spring by other communities.

Trees are sprayed with a 12 1/2 percent DDT solution to destroy the European bark beetle which carries the disease from diseased trees to healthy ones.

Ninety-seven communities last year cooperated with the Michigan Department of Agriculture's plant industry division in Dutch elm disease control.

Dutch elm disease kills all types of elms, which are the principal shade tree in Michigan communities. Once a tree has the disease there is no saving it. Exhaustive tests have failed to come up with a preventative or a cure. This is despite reports heard from time to time that zinc coated nails driven into elm trunks, or the use of salt or other compounds is a cure for Dutch elm disease.

Sprays applied at the proper time plus sanitation are the only known methods of preserving elms against the inroads of Dutch elm disease, in the opinion of Agricultural Director G. S. McIntyre.

The key is prompt removal of diseased trees, which must be burned or buried. This is sanitation. Then healthy trees should receive recommended sprays applied at the proper times and at the correct dosage coupled with complete coverage of the tree surface. Communities that have done this have been able to save the greater number of their elms.

Selfridge AFB To Fete Scouts

Selfridge Air Force Base personnel are making final arrangements this week for "Scouts Day—1963"—scheduled for April 20. Officials of the Air Defense Command Base estimate more than 20,000 Scouts, male and female, American and Canadian, will attend the event.

Gates to the base will open at 10 a.m. and close at 3 p.m. During those five hours, the Scouts will have the opportunity to see and examine 14 different kinds of military aircraft, exhibits of flyers' equipment and survival gear and explosive ordnance used by the Air Force.

The Air Show for Scouts' Day will include low-altitude flyovers by C-119s (Flying Boxcar), RF-84s (Recon-photo Jet) and F-106s (Delta Dart), which are flown by pilots of the various units stationed at Selfridge Air Force Base.

The Air Show will also feature aerial demonstrations, by the SA-16A "Albatross," an air-sea rescue amphibian, and the HH-43 "Huskie," jet-powered helicopter, used for crash-scene fire-fighting and air-sea rescue.

One of the more interesting exhibits will be the 1st Fighter Wing Museum's World War I SPAD Pursuit Fighter. It is in the process of being restored and readied for flight sometime this summer.

Not So Fine Paying Fine

Lewis G. Mallory of 2155 Hurlbut, Detroit, lost his wallet on Saturday, April 13, and got it back at the Park Police Station—where he was arrested by Detroit police.

The wallet was found at Buckingham and Mack avenue by Edward H. Wallace of 1040 Whittier, who turned it over to Park authorities.

As a routine matter, the Detroit police Warrant Division was called and it was found that Wallace was wanted by Detroit on a charge of speeding.

Wallace arrived at the Park station, happy that his lost property had been recovered, but lost his glee when he found two officers of Detroit's Jefferson Station, Fifth Precinct, waiting to take him into custody.

Wallace was taken to Detroit's Downtown headquarters, where his cash asset was reduced by $12, the fine on the speeding charge.

Traffic evils must be dealt with severely—slapping an offender on the wrist is not the answer. The three most famous highways are the war path, the primrose path and the road to ruin.
