Ex-Postal Clerk Given Probation

Therman Taylor, 24, of 9810 Lawton, Detroit, a former postal clerk, was sentenced to two years probation for stealing from the mail, it was disclosed by Park Det. Lt. Stanley Enders on Friday, July 5.

The lieutenant said that he received information from postal authorities, revealing that Taylor was sentenced in Federal Court on June 17.

Taylor was arrested by Park police last December 7, and charged with making an obscene phone call to a 20-year-old Park girl. The call was intercepted by the girl's mother.

Det. Lts. Stanley Enders and Arnold Hough and Det. James LaPratt, told the mother to make the date and tell the caller to meet her at the corner of Kercheval and Beaconsfield. This was done.

The three officers set a trap. When Taylor arrived to keep his "date," the policemen closed in and arrested him.

Taylor was arraigned before City Judge Douglas Paterson on the date of the arrest. The judge presided in the absence of Park Judge C. Joseph Belanger.

Judge Paterson sentenced Taylor to 15 days in the Wayne County Jail after finding him guilty of being a disorderly person.

After completing his jail term, Taylor was rearrested by postal authorities and bound over to Federal Court on the mail theft charges.

Lt. Enders said that the federal judge, besides putting Taylor on probation, ordered the former postal clerk to make restitution for the unrecovered loot, and to continue psychiatric treatment.

Teen Battlers To Face Court

Assistant Wayne County Pros. Dale Devlin said that no felonious assault warrants will be issued against any of the youths involved in a fight on June 23, in which a Woods boy was stabbed in the chest and another was slashed on the back, because of lack of evidence.

On Wednesday, July 3, Devlin took statements from the 11 youths who took part in the melee at Mack and Fleetwood, and from a witness. Each boy claimed that he did not see who had a knife in his hand.

James DeYonker, 16, of 1582 Bournemouth, who was stabbed in the chest; and Steven Lumley, 17, of 1141 Wayburn, whose back was slashed, both claimed that they did not know they had been hurt until after the fight was over.

Det. Sgt. Walter O'Dell and Det. Leroy Tobian said that even though no warrant has been issued charging felonious assault, all participants in the melee will be arraigned before Judge Don Goodrow on charges of disturbing the peace.

No date has been set, the detectives said, but it is believed that it will be about two weeks before a trial date is set.

DeYonker, who was listed as in critical condition following the stabbing, was released from St. John Hospital and is recuperating at home.

Lumley was treated at the hospital on the day of the fight and released without being hospitalized.

With DeYonker and Lumley, were Edward Harrison, 17, of 1107 Beaconsfield; Michael Brady, 18, of 232 Kerby; Pierre Zaranek, 17, of 1686 Anita; and John Renke, 17, of 20919 Hawthorne, Harper Woods. Harrison was the driver of the car the boys were in.

The other battlers, who were in a second car, are, Barney Ledford, 18, of 24426 Berry, Warren; Michael P. Aliotta, 19, of 16110 East State Fair, Detroit; William Sands, 18, of 15151 Stevens, East Detroit; Robert Farmer, 19, of 16201 East State Fair, Detroit; and James Savageau, 18, of 14674 Springarden, Detroit, on leave from the Army.

The group in Harrison's car said that they were riding east on Eight Mile road and passed a drive-in restaurant in Harper Woods. Harrison, according to information given to police, thought he recognized a friend and blew his car horn as he passed.

At this point, it was said, the boys in the second car gave chase, and attempted to force Harrison and his friends to the curb at Vernier and Harper.

The chase continued to Mack and Fleetwood, when all got out of their respective cars and the melee began. The boys from the second car fled before police arrived, but were later rounded up and held for investigation.

LIKE TO GET IN ON A TRADE SECRET?

Of course you would—especially when it's to your advantage.

The secret is simply this: Your Cadillac dealer has been enjoying such phenomenal sales this year that he has welcomed a record number of first time owners into the Cadillac family . . . and he'd like to welcome you, too.

That's why, when you trade your present car in on a new Cadillac, you'll probably be delighted to discover how much it's worth.

This happy couple just recently got in on the secret . . . and no wonder they acted fast when they got the facts.

For right now they're living the motoring dream of their lives.

From a styling standpoint, they are enjoying the handsomest Cadillac ever built. It has size and stature, as well as dignity and elegance. Its interiors are wonderfully roomy—and singularly luxurious in appointments and convenience.

The car's performance is a revelation even to experienced Cadillac owners. Its advanced engine, improved Hydra-Matic and True-Center drive line make every journey a unique delight.

All this, of course, is in addition to the traditional Cadillac virtues of great dependability, superlative quality and high resale value. Come in and see for yourself.

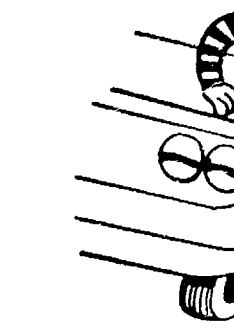

And be prepared to learn the most delightful trade secret you've heard in years!

Miss Ruth Bickes Retires After Teaching 35 Years

"Very happy at Richard for many years. Retiring in June." With this simple statement on her yearly personnel questionnaire, Ruth Bickes, fifth and sixth grade teacher at Richard School, signaled the end of a career of 35 years of service to the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

A native of Cheboygan, Mich., Miss Bickes was awarded a Michigan Life Teaching Certificate by Michigan State Normal College in Ypsilanti in 1918. She received her Bachelor of Science degree from Wayne State University in 1934.

Her early teaching years kept her in Alpena, in northern Michigan. Her principal at Churchill School said of her two years there, "The children liked her and wanted to give her their best." Her portfolio carries a comment on her eight years as a third and fourth grade teacher in Flint as "being among the top five in the city as a geography teacher."

With such recommendations, it is not difficult to understand why Samuel M. Brownell, then superintendent of the Grosse Pointe schools invited her to an interview in the summer of 1928.

Having visited the community, Miss Bickes stated a preference for the Cadieux School. In the days of teacher-ranking procedures by their immediate superiors, Ruth Bickes ranked at the top of the list. Her principal for many years, Clarence Messner said, "She is a decided asset to the educational program in our school." On another occasion he wrote: "She is a very fine person who is making an excellent contribution to the education of the children of the Pointe."

Messner characterized his former staff member in these terms: "Over the years she has been a conscientious, dedicated and enthusiastic instructor of hundreds and hundreds of boys and girls. She has continuously put great effort in her teaching duties. Not only has she been a good developer of the skills, but she has promoted excellent citizenship qualities at all times.

"She is personable and one always ready to accept new assignments. She truly shows in many ways that she enjoys her job. Parents and children like her very much."

During the busy years, first at Cadieux and later at Richard, Miss Bickes participated as a vital and contributing member to many phases of school life. Although her major activity was the sponsorship of the Girls' Service Squad, she worked on the Richard PTA Board and Policy Committee, on numerous textbook selection committees, as grade group chairman, on planning committees for the teachers' institutes. At other times she did public relations work for the AAUW, participated in projects for the Girl Scouts, the Congregational Church and the Eastern Star. Two special personal interests include flower gardening and an appreciation of the fine arts.

Many summers found Ruth Bickes traveling to the four corners of the United States. Other memorable jaunts took her to Canada and Europe. On a number of occasions she continued her formal education by enrolling for graduate courses at Wayne State University.

Retirement plans include some time for travel and the earmarking of part of her newly-acquired leisure to a long-time interest in social work. For the summer, she is enjoying a sojourn at Mullett Lake.

Commenting upon changes in the educational scene in Grosse Pointe over the years, Miss Bickes remarked on the wealth of instructional materials available today which tend to make learning more profitable for children. She mentioned that she made a concerted effort to expand and improve her own efforts in science teaching. She summarized her reminiscences by stating, "I tried always to be ready to consider new methods and to apply them to my work in Grosse Pointe."

When asked for the highlight of her career, Ruth Bickes did not hesitate before answering, "Working with outstanding people in the community and with alert girls and boys."

Pet Skunk Found

Daniel H. Johnson of 77 Moran called Farns police at 1 a.m. July 1, and said that his dog had been barking all night for no apparent reason. Upon investigation Johnson had found what the dog was excited about—a skunk caught in a window well in front of his home. Police called David Engstrom of 65 Moran, who had asked police a few days earlier to be on the lookout for his (de-scented) pet skunk. Engstrom came and got his lost pet.

College Players Finish Casting

Casting has now been completed and rehearsals are under way for the College Players' Summer production, "The Thieves' Carnival."

The three thieves, Peter Bono, Hector, and Gustave, will be played by Grosse Pointers, Ron Brennan, 885 Hidden Lane, Bruce McConachie, 272 Mt. Vernon, and Wolfgang Baer, 240 Lakeland.

The rest of the cast is as follows: Lady Hurl, Denise Backinger, 1168 Bedford; Lord Edgar, John Ditzler, 581 Rivard; Eva, Kitty Kahlich, 301 Roosevelt; Juliet, Candy Mason, 805 Harcourt; Dupont Dufort Sr., Dave Rosen, 1534 Chateaufort; Dupont Dufort Jr., Bart Elmer, 1100 Berkshire; Musician, Rial Hamann, 441 Rivard; Child, Betty Luberto, 916 Lincoln; Policeman, Jeff Kurtz, 1230 Bishop; Nursemaid, Paula Luberto, 916 Lincoln.

Committee chairmen for the behind-the-scenes work have also recently been announced. They are: business, Mimi Amerson, 136 Moran; publicity, Dave Rosen, 1534 Chateaufort; make-up, Paula Luberto, 916 Lincoln; props, Wendy Einfeldt, 317 Stephens; costume design, Kitty Kahlich, 301 Roosevelt; lighting, Chuck Chrisman, 728 Anita; stage manager, Jeff Kurtz, 1230 Bishop.

The production dates for this uproarious spoof on a bored aristocracy are August 2nd and 3rd at the Fries Auditorium, 32 Lakeshore road. Tickets will be available soon on weekends in the Grosse Pointe Village, on the "Hill," and from the Ticket Office.

Man Innocent In Assault Case

George Mucutza, 47, of 1176 Gray, Detroit, accused of aggravated assault, entered a plea of not guilty at a hearing before Park Judge C. Joseph Belanger on Wednesday, July 3, and was found not guilty.

Mucutza, a bartender, was charged with severely beating Fred Ihme, 62, of 19126 Omira, Detroit, also a bartender, on May 12, outside a Park bar, following an argument.

As a result of the beating, Ihme was hospitalized for several weeks with severe facial injuries, internal injuries and a broken leg.

According to information released by police, Mucutza and Ihme became involved in the argument in the bar. When Mucutza went outside, Ihme followed and continued the argument and pushed him.

Mucutza struck Ihme and knocked him to the ground, then continued beating him.

Judge Belanger rendered the not guilty verdict on the grounds that there were no direct witnesses to the assault on Ihme.

A witness who made a statement following the assault, to Park Det. James LaPratt, who was assigned to the case, repudiated the statement in court. The witness had told the officer that he had seen Mucutza standing over Ihme and making motions that appeared that he was beating and kicking Ihme as Ihme was on the ground.

At the trial, Ihme gave the impression that he was in an unconscious state, and therefore, was not aware that Mucutza was assaulting him. Under this circumstance, he could not actually say if it was Mucutza who administered the beating, although it was Mucutza who knocked him down.

All-A Students At Pierce Named

Thirty-two students from Pierce Junior High School are listed as all "A" students for the 1962-63 school year, announces Charles Leavitt, principal. Ratings for ninth graders are based on yearly marks; for seventh and eighth graders on semester marks.

The 11 outstanding ninth grade scholars are: Lindsay Acornb, James Balcerski, Carol Bashara, Stephen Bowles, Nancy Gajewski, Paul Grams, Richard Ludwig, Adrienne Mortier, Sally Rasmussen, Jennifer Will and Gwendolyn Wilner.

Eighth graders on the honors list include the following: 10: Martha Brand, Catherine Devlin, Mary Donath, Kimberly Evans, Elizabeth Grams, John Laitner, Sally Le Pla, Christine Poole, Mary Van Dike and Mary Woodrow.

if the ROSE MAN wants to plan your vacation trip... hide the map!

...he can't find his way out of town. Yet, to your neighbor, your neighbor's neighbor and families everywhere, this fellow is an outright hero.

In fact he's almost becoming a legend. Strange? Not when you think about it. For instance, after he shows up, there's no more need to keep paying out good money for those "kill 'em quick", by guess and by golly insect-pest powders you've been futilely using.

Rose Home Service lets you relax and enjoy your home without sharing it with nasty ants in the kitchen, moths in the closet or mice in the basement.

And, no more worries about the dog or the kids sampling any highly toxic pest powders that might be spread around.

Even in homes clean enough to eat off the floor, roaches smuggle their way in. And unless you're smarter than they are, they stay.

That's where the Rose Man shines! He's a skilled, professional pest control expert. On regular inspections he provides preventive protection as well as immediate control, all for only pennies per day. You just can't buy his knowledge, his scientific methods and modern materials at the corner store!

Call the Rose Man today and be safe!

Service Project Leaders Needed

The Neighborhood Club is seeking college students and high school seniors interested in volunteering as playground leaders on inner-city playgrounds, between now and Labor Day.

Individuals will conduct craft programs, group games, supervise softball games and instruct tennis. A training period for all workers will be offered by the Neighborhood Club and professional supervision will be available throughout the summer for all workers.

It is anticipated that small teams of three to four persons will be formed and assigned to playgrounds for two to three-hour periods on a weekly basis. Each team will be headed by a college student and will work out its own transportation to its assigned playground. A training session will be held on Wednesday, July 17, for all volunteers.

Cudlip Named To Park Agency Film Festival Starts Monday

Robert S. Cudlip, assistant to the director of public relations of the Metropolitan Park Agency, has been named to the Board of Commissioners of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority by Mayor George Romney.

He will serve for a four-year term ending in 1967. The Authority is a five-county regional park agency serving the counties of Calhoun, Macomb, Oakland, Washtenaw and Wayne. Its best known recreational sites include Kensington Metropolitan Park southeast of Brighton, Metropolitan Beach along Lake St. Clair, Inver Huron Metropolitan Park near Howell, and Hudson Mills Metropolitan Park northwest of Van Arsdale.

Cudlip also resides at 347 Ferguson road, attended Phillips Auditor Academy Grosse Pointe High School and the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York, and was in the United States Marine Corps from 1951 to 1953.

Prior to joining the McLouth Steel Corporation, he was with the styling section of the General Motors Corporation and a manufacturer's agent with the Motor Car Materials Company in Detroit.

He is a director of Acoustics Manufacturing Corporation, the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce and the Greater Detroit Safety Council. He is also a member of the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council, the Economic Club, Industrial Development Committee of Gibraltar and Riverchase, the Detroit Athletic Club and Country Club of Detroit.

As a governor appointee, he will serve as a representative at large on the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority and replace Miss Olga M. Madar, FAW Recreation Director and a Detroit resident.

The festival will be brought to a conclusion Monday evening, July 29 when the French film "Man in a Raincoat" will be shown starring the famous comic Fernandel. This picture is sort of a gallic "arsenic and old lace." Newsweek's review said "see Fernandel's Paris and die laughing."

"Man in a Raincoat" will be introduced by Detroit's French Consul and his wife M. and Mme. Chailous, neighbors of the Center who will also be guests at the reception following the show.

Series tickets for the Film Festival may be purchased at the Center. They are $3.75 for adults and $2.25 for students. Single show admissions are $1.50 for adults and 90¢ for students. The receptions following the films are complimentary.

The festival is being co-sponsored by the War Memorial Center and the Community Service Department of the Grosse Pointe School System.

2 GP Dentists Installed as Officers of DDDS

Two Grosse Pointe dentists were among those taking office in Detroit District Dental Society ceremonies at the Statler Hilton Hotel. They were: Dr. Donald K. BELLOWS PARTNERS CHOICE

BE A REBEL TONIGHT; JOIN THE WHISKEY REBELLION

Every day of the year, a few men—a handful of rebels—stop buying their whiskey by habit.

They join the ranks of the discriminating people who buy by choice.

Bellows Partners Choice. Why?

They hear from someone (maybe their bartender) that Partners Choice is gentle on the tongue. And it is.

There's a good reason. It's made with more gentle premium whiskeys in the blend. They hear, too, that it's gentle on the pocket (only $4.36 a fifth).

In fact, Partners Choice is the gentle taste in whiskey. Don't wait till someone tells you...be a rebel yourself.

Instead of habit...make it "Choice," the gentle whiskey from Bellows.

Local Teachers At Convention

Two Grosse Pointe elementary teachers served in positions of major responsibility in connection with the recent convention of the National Education Association in Detroit.

Mercedes and Ted Jacobs acted as co-chairmen of the committee in charge of Classroom Teachers' Night, a traditional part of each yearly gathering of school personnel from throughout the nation.

The program consisted of a dinner for 4,000 guests held in Cobo Hall and an offering of music and dances by students from the National Music Camp in Interlochen, Michigan for 9,000 later in the evening.

Assisting the Jacobs in their organizational endeavors were three Grosse Pointe staff members. Lillian Goodwyn of Richard School was charged with the collection and placing of table centerpieces made by 600 volunteers throughout the state.

Joan Kubista of the Mason staff, assisted in the designing of the main backdrop, place cards and centerpieces for the main tables. William Raupagh headed the group of ushers. In addition, 30 teachers from the local school system worked as hosts and hostesses.

Bill Proposed Police Training

Six police chiefs from the Pointe and Harper Woods attended the 1963 Annual Convention of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police, held in St. Joseph, Mich., Monday, June 24 through Wednesday, June 26.

The chiefs from the Pointe area are: Arthur Louwers, Park; Andrew Teetaert, City; James Furton, Farms; Fred Duemling, Shores; Vern Bailey, Woods; and Allen Miglio, Harper Woods.

The Association adopted a resolution to present to the Michigan Legislature, a Training Bill for the creation of a Michigan Law Enforcement Academy at Michigan State University, and a council to direct the academy's activities.

The resolution was presented to the law enforcement group by Chief Louwers, who is chairman of the MACP Training Committee. Adoption of the resolution was unanimous.

The proposed bill would provide a central training facility, and regional facilities, for police officers throughout the State, Chief Louwers said.

The bill will provide that the council will direct and approve the type of training for police officers from cities that wish to

Class in Art Proves Popular

"I'd like to see more experiences of this kind offered during the summer school." When Jerry J. Gerich, high school principal and director of the summer session made this remark, he was speaking of the newcomer to the roster of courses offered in the July 17-July 28 period, "Drawing and Painting."

Taught by Robert Rathbun, instructor in art at Pierce Junior High School, the enrollment, numbers 24, Rathbun echoes the principal's sentiments. He states, "A non-credit enrichment class like this one offers students the opportunity to explore interests which might otherwise be unfulfilled. I am especially pleased to have four recent graduates of the eighth grade in the group. I am happy that we are able to encourage the junior high age talents. This differs from most other offerings at the high school in that it is open to students in grades 9-12. The membership includes one high school post-graduate student."

With the world as their classroom, Rathbun and his enthusiastic students range the metropolitan area in search of subjects. During the first week they took their sketch pads and left their assigned room in the Industrial Arts annex to draw the high school building, the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The second week found the artists surveying the industrial scene at the Chrysler plant and the Horn Machinery Co. Following this, the group painted watercolors based upon the marine aspects of Detroit life. They set up shop among the hulls at the Detroit Yacht Harbor, in a boat livery near Waterworks Park. In addition, the teenagers spent an afternoon session sketching at the Detroit Institute of Arts. Back on the home ground of the local campus, the artists translated their works into watercolors.

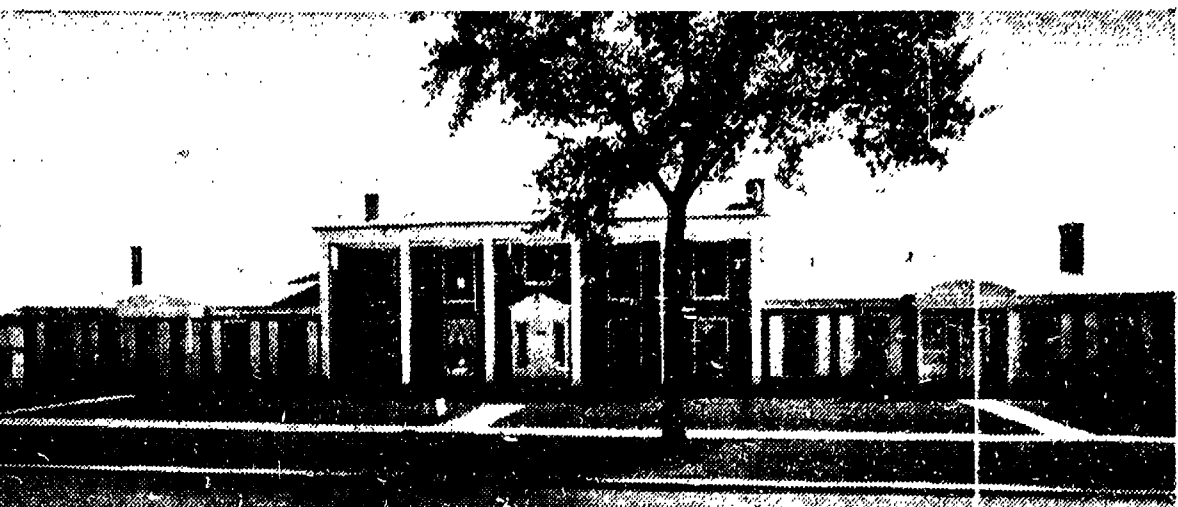

The agenda of future projects in A-206 includes figure drawing and portraiture drawn from a live model, a youthful ballerina. On a proposed visit to an artist's home, Rathbun will show the students some practical examples of art in everyday life.

The last week features a Saturday morning trip to Eastern Market to capture the bustle of noon-activity there. Quick renderings made at the Detroit Zoological Park will be turned into detailed paintings in mixed media as a final result of another excursion.

Media employed are as varied as the surroundings in which the artists find themselves doing their work: charcoal, pencil, watercolor, conte-crayon.

Eastland Place Has Colonial Grace

The new Eastland Place, which will soon be ready for occupancy, is located in the Grosse Pointe School District at 20240 Vernier Road, close to Eastland Center. The soft, graceful lines of Early American architecture give the building a distinctive air. Albert Unger and Robert Wood were the designers. It is a co-operative with one and two bedroom units. It has private

Serve Edison For 35 Years

Four Pointers are being honored by the Detroit Edison Company this month for attainment of their "35th Service Anniversary." They are:

Teacher Takes Naval Training

James Alagdelis, fifth and sixth grade teacher at Popard School since 1959, attended the Instructors Training School at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Waukegan, Illinois, June 16-30. The concentrated course covered 17 major topics ranging from lectures on the learning process and evaluation techniques through demonstrations of various kinds of teaching and specialized classes pertaining to details of Naval Reserve procedures.

On July 5 Alagdelis entered the second phase of his summer training when he reported to Norfolk, Virginia, to participate in anti-submarine warfare maneuvers. He will serve aboard the destroyer USS Waldron until July 19.

Alagdelis, a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods, holds the rank of Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve.

Reception at Bride's University Place Home Follows Marriage of Suzanne Griggs Buttrick and James Payne McCready Friday in Christ Church

Rosepointe lace from the collar of her great-grandmother's wedding gown formed a crown headpiece for Suzanne Griggs Buttrick when she became the bride of James Payne McCready at a Friday afternoon ceremony in Christ Church.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Buttrick, of University place, chose a gown of white peau de soie, with Alencon lace and miniature peau de soie rosebuds accenting the scoop neckline.

In identical gowns were the bridesmaids, Ann Buttrick, Mrs. William M. McMeeken, of Sault Ste. Marie, and Mrs. Thomas L. Orr, of Noyah, Conn. Their hats were open-crowned yellow maline straw, and they carried bouquets of daisies and ivy.

Mr. McCready, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman P. McCready, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., asked William McMeeken to serve as his best man. Ushering were Wayne C. Currie, Theodore R. Buttrick III, Matthew Pools and Thomas Veum.

For her daughter's wedding the reception at her University place home. Mrs. Buttrick chose seafoam green chiffon with accents of green satin. Mrs. McCready was in gold silk shantung.

After a trip to the Virgin Islands, the couple will live in St. Joseph, Mich.

Mrs. James P. McCready

SUZANNE GRIGGS BUTTRICK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Buttrick, of University place, became the bride of James Payne McCready, son of the Freeman P. McCreadys, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., in Christ Church Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Paul F. Decker

SUZANNE JANE SISMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sisman, of Yorkshire road, was married to Mr. Decker Saturday in Christ Church. He is the son of Mr. Herman Decker, of New Castle, Pa., and the late Mrs. Decker.

Bride Wears Peau De Soie for Rites Saturday in Christ Church; After Trip to East Coast, Pair to Live in St. Clair Shores

In Christ Church Saturday, Suzanne Jane Sisman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Sisman, of Yorkshire road, spoke her marriage vows to Paul Frederick Decker, son of Mr. Herman Decker, of New Castle, Pa., and the late Mrs. Decker.

The afternoon ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

She wore a full-length gown of peau de soie, designed with a bell shaped skirt and cathedral train. Her long heirloom veil of rosepointe lace was loaned by Mrs. Charles W. Morris, of Merriweather road, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Maid of honor Harriett Bradshaw and bridesmaids Judy Wecker, Mrs. Page Chapman III, of Morristown, N.J., and Diane Stephens, of Little Silver, N.J., wore short pink linen dresses with modified bell skirts. Their headpieces were ivy circlets, and they carried red roses and ivy. Warren Ross Sisman, of Lake Bluff, Ill., served as best man, and ushering were Peter Haendler, of New York City; Nathaniel Szymon III, of Potoskey; Robert Witt; and Richard Whittaker, of New Castle, Pa.

The bride's mother chose a Kelly green silk linen dress with a small green velvet beehive hat, and carried a straw basket filled with white violets. Following a wedding trip to the East Coast, the couple will reside in St. Clair Shores.

Tour to Visit Isle of Capri

The tiny Isle of Capri, across the bay from Naples, has been a resort for over 2,000 years. Caesar Augustus, visiting Capri in 29 B.C., was so moved by its beauty that he acquired it from the city of Naples in exchange for the larger and richer neighboring island of Ischia.

His successor, Tiberius, built 12 villas on the island, and from the grandest of these, the Villa Jovis, the entire Roman Empire was ruled from 27 to 37 A.D.

Roman ruins are still in evidence, and the scenery which delighted the Romans is still one of the island's main attractions, but modern luxury hotels and a colorful artists' colony play an important part in the life there today.

Capri is one of the stops on Lufthansa Airline's Mediterranean Holiday, a three-week tour of the romantic Mediterranean Coast departing October 11, with G.P. News staff writer Janet Mueller as escort.

Claims Bride In Indianapolis

Peter Bradshaw McKee and Nancy Louise Todd were married Saturday afternoon, July 6, in Meridian Street Methodist Church, Indianapolis, Ind.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles F. McKee, of Pemberton road. Her parents are Dr. and Mrs. Kermit Todd, of Indianapolis.

The bride chose a gown of light ivory silk organza, its portrait neckline touched with Alencon lace. Matching lace accented the sheath skirt, and an attached overskirt fell into a modified Cathedral train.

Her bouffant illusion veil fell from a white pillbox, and she carried Amazon lilies and stephanotis centered with pale pink sweetheart roses.

Erika Esser, of Logansport, Ind., was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. David K. McKee, of Evanston, Ill. (the former Alice Lynne Martin, of Grosse Pointe); Anne Powell, of Danville, Va.; and Mrs. William Barrett, of New York.

They wore shell pink floor length linen dresses and carried light pink glamelias. David K. McKee attended his brother as best man, and in the usher corps were William Miles McKee, another brother; Lawrence Fitzpatrick; Robert MacDonald, of Dayton, O., formerly of Grosse Pointe; and Peter Bach, of New York.

Among those who journeyed from Grosse Pointe to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eldridge, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Ned Fitzpatrick, Dr. and Mrs. Albert Law and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Marx, Jr.

Others were Dr. and Mrs. Lyndie Martin, Mrs. Hugh McKee and family, Mr. and Mrs. Michael McKee and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Weisenbach.

A reception at the Columbia Club in Indianapolis was followed by supper at the bride's parents' home. After a wedding trip to northern Michigan, the pair plan to make their home in New York City.

The taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those laid by the government were the only ones we might easily discharge them. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly; and from these taxes the commissioners cannot ease or deliver us.

What Makes a Successful Party? BY AMY VANDERBILT

From age five when she gave her first party in honor of the family cat, Amy Vanderbilt has led an active social life. In "What Makes a Party?" she sizes up the successful ingredients of parties she has given and others as well. Her favorite motto for entertaining is borrowed from Lady Mend—"Never explain, never complain."

Four Houses Make One

The owners' special interests and a lovely site overlooking San Francisco Bay inspired the plan for this "village-compound" house in Mili Valley, California. A steep road leads you to four pavilions—carport, studio and utility room, bedroom, and combined kitchen and living room. The four make a beautifully planned house with all elements connected by covered walks and contained by a retaining wall.

Baseball—Just for Fun

In Kettering, Ohio, every boy plays ball who wants to. There are enough teams to go around, for gifted and ungifted alike. Parents are schooled to maintain their youngster's enthusiasm for the sport by avoiding the pressure to become top man.

The Grass Is Greener

Why does one garden thrive while another fails on the same amount of water? For those who use lots of time and water and don't get good results, Garden Editor John Brimer sketches the soil and watering techniques that will produce a greener garden while saving gallons of water and valuable time.

The days are gone when Dad was just responsible for bringing home the bacon. Nowadays he does the week's shopping as well. In case you think he's delighted with his new chore, note artist Bob Bugg's picture of young men stalking the local supermarket, as their wives undertake another familiar ritual right next door.

GETTING AROUND

. . . to Our Pleasant Places and People

AH, JULY—the sunshine month, but not this summer, according to the Old Farmer's Almanac, which prophesies "Heavy rain—cools then drools—perhaps tornadoes." But some types can get a laugh out of anything. George A. Mayerchak of North Brooklyn Park, Minnesota, says he congratulated a friend on his tan when he got back from vacation and was told it had drooled most of the three weeks. "That's not tan," his friend corrected. "That's rust."

A writer in Glendale, California, puts his rejection slips to good use—he makes lamp shades out of them. (He has just collected his 35th.) Why doesn't he manufacture lamp shades full time? He'd rather write, of course—and anyway, how else would he get rejects to make the lamp shades?

The other day in Highland Park, Illinois, Enid Powell rushed to the back door at the sounds of a struggle. There was her son Jonny clinging to the neck of a strange dog. The dog was putting up a gallant fight to get away, while Jonny flung a leg over him and grappled with all his strength to keep him in place. "What are you doing to that poor dog?" she demanded. "Not doin' anything," he puffed. "Can we"—puff—"keep him? He"—puff—"followed me home."

At the opening of an art show in Coral Gables, Florida, a young man was seen wandering from room to room gazing intently about him as though he were looking for something special. Finally the manager came up to him and asked whether he was interested in a particular painting. "Nope," he replied. "I'm just interested in the girls who are interested in the paintings."

Mrs. Mildred Greer of Peabody, Massachusetts, thinks her young grandson Tracey already has found out how to roll with the punches. The other evening she was baby sitting with him and his two brothers, and when bedtime approached, the oldest made a leap for the stairs. Stanley, Tracey's twin, followed right on his heels, while Tracey plodded along in the rear. "I'm first," Gary shouted from the top. "I'm second," Stanley echoed. "I'm last!" Tracey piped up, as cheery as the others. "Do you know why I am always last?" he asked his grandmother when she got to the top of the stairs. "No, why?" she said. "Cause," he answered with six-year-old logic, "Gary's always first and Stanley's always second."

"But Why Did You Join The CATHOLIC Church?"

People are often stunned when they see a relative or friend "turn Catholic."

They can understand why someone might change from one non-Catholic faith to another, but to the Catholic religion — how could he do it? How, they wonder, can anyone of non-Catholic origin and background make such a choice when there are so many other faiths to choose from?

Thousands of converts join the world-wide Catholic Church every year. And there is no simple explanation of why they do so. Sometimes they are distinguished people whose conversion makes headlines and who can when asked, give an articulate and convincing explanation. But more often these converts are just average people who have been moved by a combination of convictions.

In either case, it involves a difficult and momentous decision... a decision no sensible person would make out of mere curiosity or as a passing fancy. It means, in many cases, the forsaking of long-held views antagonistic to Catholicity... in others, a radical change to doctrinal beliefs once considered incredible to the prospective convert.

It can be generally said, of course, that some converts are attracted to Catholicity by the apostolic origin of the Church... by its world-wide unity of creed and worship... by its Sacraments and distinctive form of ritual... by the authority claimed for its head, the Pope, as the Vicar of Christ on earth... by the whole system of truths which it prescribes for its people as a way of life.

But if you want a more intimate and specific understanding of why so many people decide to "turn Catholic," let these converts tell you in their own words. A number of them do so in a new pamphlet just off the press, a copy of which we will be happy to send you on request and without charge.

Perhaps you will see in these stories a spiritual situation not unlike your own... and possibly a decision to investigate the claims of the Catholic Church may make sense to you after you learn why these other former non-Catholics decided to make such an inquiry. In any case, you'll be thrilled to see how the grace of God can work in the hearts of men when they seek sincerely for spiritual truth.

Write today for this new pocket-size pamphlet containing such titles as "God Kept Tugging at My Heart"... "I Wanted to Believe"... "From Saint to Sinner"... "My Search for the Real Church"... "My Religious Fulfillment"—and others. They are all interesting personal accounts that will touch your heart, make sense to your reason. Write today... ask for Pamphlet No. SU-27. Nobody will call on you.

Sold! to M. W. Cobb of Wheatridge, Colorado—217 live alligators. When the great opportunity struck, Mr. Cobb was at an auction in Mesa, Arizona, and so were the alligators, because they had been left unattended at a nearby reptile farm and had started swarming over the countryside. Something had to be done, hence the auction. Now Mr. Cobb's neighbors are dreaming of handsome shoes and handbags, come fall, and meantime the alligators in that high and dry country have it made. Mr. Cobb is a plumbing contractor.

Add this to your list of offbeat gifts: a 1937 vintage fire engine (the real thing, of course). Herm Albright of Lawrence, Indiana, has a friend who presented one to his wife for her birthday, and just a week later it went into action. Husband, wife, and 26-year-old relic helped pump out nine cellars flooded by heavy rains, and in return the hard-pressed fire department provided them with a hose, coffee, and encouragement.

With summer camps wide open, Mrs. Jeanne Barnett of Fairfax County, Virginia, has some good tips for parents. Watch out, she cautions, for three parent-caused crises that can mar your child's summer: Your Good-byes—your letters—your visits. Make good-byes casual. Wear sun glasses, if you're tearful. Write chatty letters, but don't dwell on treats your camper is missing. When you visit, never promise to arrive at a certain hour (a delay may be upsetting). Keep visits short. (Who talks to their child for seven hours at home?) Observe camp rules. And when you leave, be quick about it.

We wonder if Dr. Allan Glathorn, of Abington, Pennsylvania, has won new status with his daughter since his "night on the town" with Bobby Rydell (along with 98 other winners of the "Date With Bobby Rydell Contest"—all girls). His winning poem was:

WHY I'D LIKE TO BE THE GUEST OF BOBBY RYDELL

His picture's on my daughter's wall.
She talks to it with glee.
Perhaps if I could be his guest,
She'd even talk to me.

In Grosse Pointe, Michigan, patrons attending the Academy Award-winning picture "Lawrence of Arabia" were warned they might work up a terrific thirst following Lawrence through day after blazing day on the desert. So Mrs. Edward Kleefus took heed and armed herself with two flasks of ice-cold water, which she uncorked and drank when the heat was on. After the show was over, a teen-ager—unprepared, of course—was heard to gasp, "That's enough for me! I'm not going near the beach this summer!"

Gardeners: Horace H. Hagedorn of Port Washington, Long Island, says it's easy to get earthy nails clean if you dig them into a cake of soft soap before you start grubbing. Might work for household chores, too?

What Makes a Party?

BY AMY VANDERBILT

author of "Amy Vanderbilt's New Complete Book of Etiquette,"

"Amy Vanderbilt's Complete Cookbook," etc.

ABOUT THE AGE of five, when I gave my first party, I learned a very important lesson: Never invite guests who are essentially unsympathetic. No amount of good food, charming surroundings, and meticulous service will make up for people who are uninterested in each other or actively antagonistic.

My party was in our kitchen. I gave it for our cat—a dignified feline named Abraham because he had an "A" mark over his nose. He was a battered bruiser but with a certain elegance. He had white gloves on his paws, and his back feet were white, too. Such a cat deserved a party, or so I thought.

The food was to be simple but delicious—raw liver nicely cut up into bite-size pieces and plenty of milk, with a dish of each for each guest. When all was ready, my friends and I gathered in the guests, first dressing them in dolls' clothes and than transporting them comfortably in doll carriages. Unfortunately, some did not care for either: the dress or the conveyance, and it was, I might add, a struggle to get them all there on time.

Like many tyro hostesses, I had thought good food and plenty of it would quickly break the ice. It didn't. The guests dragged themselves around the kitchen in their doll dresses, hats wildly askew, eyes shooting fire. To a cat, they refused the repast until my co-hostesses and I had divested them of their garments and unceremoniously dumped them outside where, amid much flying fur, the banquet was rudely consumed—mainly by Abraham who was a good trencher cat and very quick with his right paw.

So much for a party that didn't come off. I have been more fortunate since.

One of the best parties I ever had grew out of the arduous job of compiling and writing "Amy Vanderbilt's Complete Book of Etiquette," which took me five years, working all over the house. Finally, I decided I must have an outside office, so I ordered a 9' x 12' pre-fab cabin that could be put out in the woods behind my house, where I could watch who was coming in the back door if I craned my neck, but where the view would be mainly of the woods. The directions said that the cabin could be put up in an hour. It was 1948, a time when it was almost impossible to get anyone to do anything, so I decided to have a house-raising party. This time I invited friends who were highly compatible—men who knew a hammer from a nutcracker, and women who through the war years had developed the necessary acquaintance with carpenters' tools. It was an interesting group—a war correspondent, a Russian prince and princess, several magazine writers, a representative of the Dutch government, a hat designer, and my baby, who enjoyed holding the hammer and who surveyed the interesting activities of his elders with grave charm.

A famous authority on social life tells how to entertain 40 people easily and—from bitter early experience—how not to have a flop

I am afraid the libations attendant on the raising of the roof caused the cabin to be put up a little more slowly than the manufacturer planned, but my guests did well and, as darkness descended over "Daisyfields," we enjoyed a rewarding supper out under the trees, lighted by the romantic glow of an oil lamp with a red shade. (How important it is to have soft and becoming light to make the women guests look prettier!) A round table added to the feeling of intimacy and of a job well done. Giving guests something to do at an outside party, even when you don't need help, gets things going fast and gives cohesion to the group. Just beware of overorganization.

ANOTHER PARTY that was memorable—although it wasn't mine—occurred when a neighbor decided she had lived long enough with Early American (including coffee-grinder lamps). She decided to make a clean sweep. She ordered everything for her living room to suit her current tastes, but she made the error of imagining that everything would be ready on time for a party for which she had already issued invitations—to some 60 people. In a frenzy of anticipation, she cleared out her living room, hung the new curtains, and awaited the delivery of her new furniture. As the big date approached, her furniture failed to. She decided to go ahead with the party anyhow, and just notified her guests to arrive with cushions to be used indoors on the floor of the living room in case of rain, outdoors on the terrace on a clear warm night.

In ruefully contemplating her empty living room the night of the party she could not, of course, know what her guests had in store for her. Quietly (and I am sorry to say I was not the instigator of this) they had combed their attics and junk shops for Victorian "antiques." (Victorian was the style she was planning to change to.) I remember one young man took her a moth-eaten moose head. Other "gifts" were along the same lines—cracked plates, chipped cups, tattered antimacassars. I wish I had a photograph of her face as she began to open them up and thank us. It was a very funny gag worth repeating. The moral here? Sometimes the correct and stuffy party you have planned turns out much better if everything goes wrong.

I loved the party friends of mine on the outskirts of Lubbock, Texas, gave me last year. They live in a small closely knit community which shares a central clubhouse and swimming pool. Each family had its assigned night for entertaining and, of course, several families could give a party together when they wanted to. In this case my friends asked their guests to their own house first and when the dinner hour approached, we simply walked a few yards to the clubhouse where some 30 people were served a memorable casserole which the hostess had prepared herself in her own kitchen and then re-heated over there. A fine modern way to entertain and one other communities might well copy.

Last summer I wanted to have a party for some special house guests of mine and found my list growing to more than 40. I decided against even a buffet supper and, as I dislike cocktail parties, settled on another kind of party that turned out to be most successful. It was a dessert buffet, with the guests invited to come between the hours of nine and 11 on a Thursday night.

We had an early and simple dinner, and well before nine the dining-room table was set with a delectable array of desserts. I used no cloth, just the gleaming mahogany top of my old table, with my best majolica and Staffordshire and my grandmother's painted china fruit plates. I put forks and spoons in pressed glass celery holders and provided piles of the prettiest, softest paper napkins I could find. There was great variety in the desserts, something for everyone—a large bowl of strawberries with a silver bowl of whipped cream, a Sachertorte, a heaping bowl of fresh cherries, tiny caramel custards, an open-faced cherry tart, a mountain of schnecken, and a snowy, fluffy coconut cake. I had made some of them, and some were professional creations. I served coffee demitasse and on a side table offered a variety of liqueurs and brandy.

If you imagine people avoid desserts, you are wrong. The ones that were loaded with calories disappeared first. We had strawberries left over. This was one of the easiest and most successful parties I ever gave. Everything was prepared in advance, everything could await the late guest, and best of all, the hostess was free to circulate among her guests.

When I was a teen-ager, I loved to entertain. In those days the progressive dinner was popular, and there is no reason why it wouldn't work out well for young marrieds without any help, who want to be able to entertain with their friends on a low budget. Several couples get together and decide to have a progressive dinner, each course at another house. The guests gather at the first house and have cocktails and hors d'oeuvres and perhaps soup or another first course. They then move on to the second house where they have the main course which would include salad. The final stop is at the house where the dessert is served. You can't say that such a party isn't kept moving. It is all a lot of fun.

I gave a very nice party aboard the Queen Elizabeth once. As I said, I don't like giving cocktail parties as a rule—even the nicest people forget and absent-mindedly drop cigarettes on the upholstery—but I did enjoy the one I had on the ship. I joined with a friend, and we asked 25 or 30 other passengers. With the deck steward taking charge, we had champagne cocktails and a fine array of canapés which included, of course, smoked salmon and caviar. I had no worries about glasses breaking or burns in the rugs, we all had a good time, and the bill was very small. Liquor taxes do not apply on the high seas.

THE LATE Lady Mendel had embroidered on her sheets, "Never explain, never complain." Perhaps this is as good a motto as any for a hostess.

I remember a party I went to a season or so back in an absolutely beautiful city apartment. A big buffet had been set up in the dining room with handsomely laid card tables and gilt and velvet party chairs strategically placed. It was a caterer's work, of course (how few people have the staff nowadays to produce such masterpieces), but the hostess's own built-in domestic was at work in the dining room, too. Something went drastically wrong with the service, but the hostess, a cheerful happy woman with both feet on the ground, passed this off by whispering, "Isn't she wonderful—a real Annie Oakley. We all love her."

The party at which everything goes off to perfection is hard to remember, but guests rarely notice, or if they do notice, rarely care about the things the hostess knows have gone wrong. And the most successful hostess—like my friend with her "Annie Oakley"—should at least appear not to care, either.

Now I think it over, the parties I have enjoyed most, whether I gave them or went to them, were the ones at which I felt comfortable.

Four Houses in One

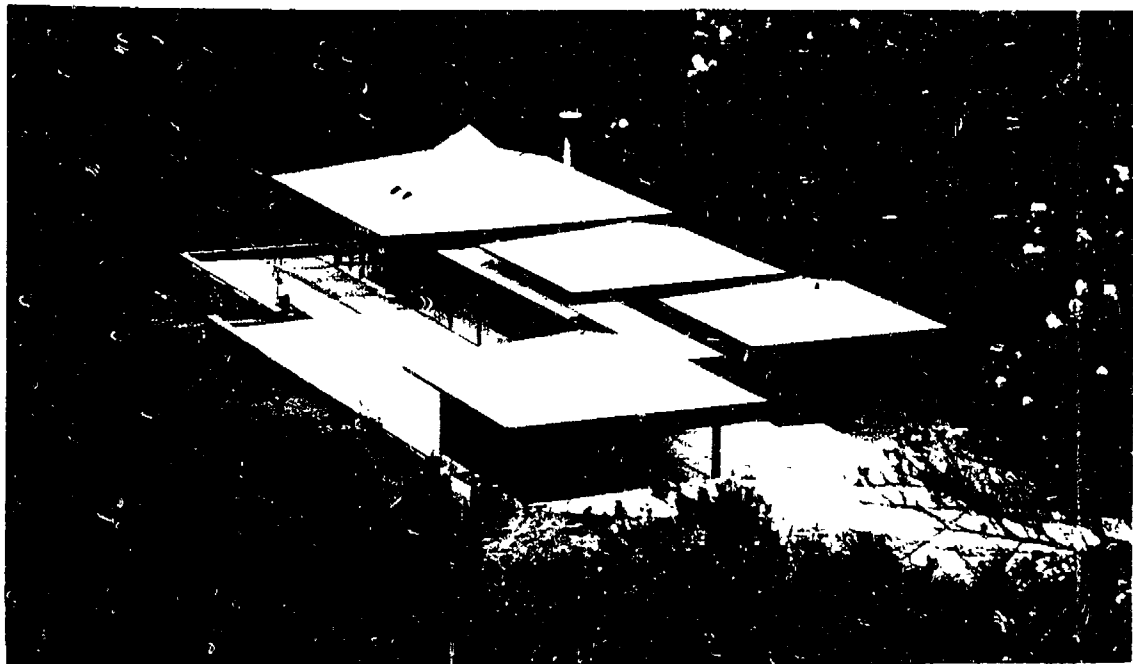

PHOTOGRAPHS BY PETE PETERS

Right: View of the pool, showing how the covered walks that link the pavilions double here for a poolside terrace.

Below: First impression, as you approach from above—the pleasing roof-scape inside redwood retaining walls.

A view of the dining-kitchen area at the east end of the living room. The cheerful skylight can be identified as the pyramid seen on the fourth roof in the picture below.

The site and the owners' interests inspired the plan for this "village-compound" house in California

■ When Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pence decided to build in Mill Valley, they wanted a place they could come home to in peace at the end of the day, and a house that would lend itself to their special pleasures and interests—reading and swimming and working with pottery and photography. The answer was this romantic and practical "compound," designed by Marquis and Stoller and built on an isolated ridge overlooking a sweep of bridges and bay and the white sky line of San Francisco, 18 miles away. A steep descending road brings you from above to the Pences' carport, the first of the four square pavilions topped with pyramidal roofs. Next comes the studio, with pottery ovens and a photography darkroom and a utility room; from here the studio court leads on to the bedroom pavilion, and last comes the kitchen and big living room looking over the bay. A covered walk links all four units and serves at one point as a covered terrace beside the pool, which is ideally located just outside the bedroom, making it possible to wake up and dive in, in one eager and continuous motion.

The remoteness of the location and the opportunity for quiet study is a special asset to Mr. Pence, who is professor of English at Contra Costa College. The Walden section of Mill Valley, where they built, is shared by four other families, and when they developed it, they all got together and personally dug the utilities trench, three feet deep by 1,000 feet long, so that no clutter of poles or exposed equipment would mar the peace and beauty of the views and surroundings.

KAISEKI TYORI—PAF DISHES

East meets West in this Kaiseki Tyori—Japanese Party Dishes—where an occidental influence is introduced Oriental Beef Stew, a glorified version of an American favorite, captures the spirit of the Orient.

ORIENTAL BEEF STEW

- 1 1/4 lbs. boneless beef (round, sirloin, sirloin tip, or rump), cut 1/2 in. thick
 - Seasoned instant meat tenderizer
 - 3 tablespoons cooking oil
 - 1 green pepper, cut in thin strips
 - 1 sweet red pepper, cut in thin strips
 - 2 celery stalks, cut lengthwise in thin strips, then into 2-in. pieces
 - 2 small onions, thinly sliced
 - 6 fresh mushrooms (about 2 oz.), sliced lengthwise through caps and stems
 - 1 5-oz. can water chestnuts, drained and sliced
 - 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 2 teaspoons sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
 - 1 1/2 cups water
 - 3 tablespoons Japanese soy sauce (shoyu)
 - 1 beef bouillon cube
1. Tenderize meat according to the directions; cut into 2x1/4-in. strips.
 2. Heat 1 tablespoon of the oil in a large skillet. Add beef strips and fry over high heat about 2 min., or until well browned. Remove and set aside.
 3. Add remaining oil and heat. Add next six ingredients and cook, turning frequently, about 3 min., or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Remove from heat and return meat to skillet.

4. In a saucepan, thoroughly blend cornstarch, sugar, and ginger; stir in the water and soy sauce; add bouillon cube. Bring the mixture to boiling and boil 3 min., stirring frequently.
 5. Pour sauce over meat and vegetables; toss lightly to coat well. Heat thoroughly. Serve immediately.
- About 4 servings*

DUCKLING A LA GOURMET WITH SAUCE ORIENTAL

- 1 4- to 5-lb. duckling, cut in quarters
 - 1 egg, slightly beaten
 - 1/2 cup packaged grated coconut
 - 1/4 cup flour
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon black pepper
 - Sauce Oriental (see recipe)
1. Prick the skin of the duckling with a fork.
 2. Place duckling skin-side up on a rack in a shallow roasting pan.
 3. Roast in a 400°F oven for 1 hr. Remove excess fat from pan as it collects.
 4. Brush duckling with the egg. Coat with a mixture of the coconut, flour, salt, and pepper.
 5. Return to oven and continue to roast for 15 min., basting once with the drippings.
 6. Serve with the sauce.
- 4 servings*

SAUCE ORIENTAL

- 1 1/2 tablespoons cornstarch
 - 1 11-oz. can Mandarin oranges, drained (reserve sirup)
 - 1/2 cup maple sirup
 - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 2 tablespoons dark seedless raisins
 - 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1. Combine cornstarch, sirup from oranges, maple sirup, and lemon juice in a saucepan; stir until smooth. Add raisins.
 2. Bring to boiling over medium heat, stirring constantly; boil 3 min.
 3. Stir in butter or margarine and oranges; simmer for 2 min.
 4. Serve hot with the roast duckling.
- About 1 1/2 cups sauce*

FISH IN JAPANESE MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 1 3 1/2-oz. can flaked coconut
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 2-oz. pkg. dried Japanese mushrooms
- 1 lb. sole, or other fish fillets
- 1 egg, slightly beaten
- 1/4 cup cornstarch
- Butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons cornstarch
- 1 scallion, sliced
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 to 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Japanese soy sauce (shoyu)

1. Combine coconut and water in a saucepan; bring to boiling. Strain, pressing coconut against sieve to extract flavor; return liquid to the saucepan and set aside. Reserve 1/2 cup coconut and toast it for garnish.
 2. Soak mushrooms according to package directions until softened. Reserve liquid and 8 or 9 mushrooms for garnish. Slice remaining mushrooms; set aside.
 3. Dip fillets into egg, then into the 1/2 cup cornstarch, coating all sides. Heat enough butter or margarine to cover the bottom of a large skillet. Add fillets and cook about 2 min. on each side, or until lightly browned and fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Arrange fillets on a heated platter and keep them warm.
 4. Blend 2 tablespoons of the mushroom liquid into the 2 teaspoons cornstarch until smooth. Add with the sliced mushrooms and last five ingredients to the coconut liquid in saucepan. Bring rapidly to boiling, stirring constantly; cook until thickened, about 2 min.
 5. Spoon sauce over fish and garnish with toasted coconut and reserved mushrooms, which have been heated in butter or margarine.
- About 4 servings*

TOASTED COCONUT—Heat 1 tablespoon butter or margarine in skillet; add 1/2 cup coconut and heat until lightly browned, stirring occasionally.

SUKIYAKI

- 1/2 cup Japanese soy sauce (shoyu)
 - 1/4 cup sake
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 3 oz. beef suet, cut in small pieces
 - 1 1/2 lbs. beef tenderloin, sliced 1/16 in. thick and cut in pieces about 2 1/2 x 1 1/2 in.
 - 12 scallions (including tops), cut in 2-in. lengths
 - 1/2 head Chinese cabbage (cut lengthwise), cut in 1-in. pieces
 - 1 lb. spinach leaves, cut in 1-in. strips
 - 2 cups drained shirataki (Cold cooked very thin long egg noodles may be substituted.)
 - 12 large mushrooms, sliced lengthwise through stems and caps
 - 12 cubes tofu (soybean curd)
 - 1 8 1/2-oz. can whole bamboo shoots, drained and cut in large pieces
1. Mix the first three ingredients together to make the sauce. Set aside.
 2. To prepare Sukiyaki in the traditional Japanese manner at the table, use a large skillet on a hibachi. (A hot plate or an electric skillet make good substitutes.) Arrange all ingredients artistically on a large platter or tray and bring to the table. Prepare two servings at a time.
 3. Heat beef suet in a skillet until sufficient fat is melted. Remove remaining suet. Add enough sauce to cover bottom of the skillet.
 4. Add the beef and cook over high heat, turning once, just until pink color disappears; remove and set aside. Arrange all other ingredients in individual mounds in skillet. Top with beef.
 5. Cook until vegetables are just tender. Do not stir. Serve immediately with bowls of hot cooked rice.
- 4 servings*

OCHA-COCONUT MOUSSE

Japanese green tea is the unique flavor-experience in this cooling dessert appropriate as a grand finale for any of the featured Japanese main dishes.

- 1 cup packaged grated coconut
 - 3 cups milk
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 tablespoon (1 env.) unflavored gelatin
 - 10 bags Japanese green tea (about 1/4 cup tea)
 - Few drops green food coloring
 - Few drops yellow food coloring
 - 1/4 cup light corn sirup
 - 1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped
1. Heat coconut and milk to boiling in a saucepan. Remove from heat and blend in a mixture of the sugar and gelatin, stirring until gelatin is dissolved.
 2. Add tea bags (or loose tea tied in a cheesecloth bag) and allow to steep 5 min. Press liquid from tea bags and discard bags. Stir in food coloring. Blend in the corn sirup. Cool.
 3. Chill mixture until slightly thicker than the consistency of thick, unbeaten egg white. If chilled in refrigerator, stir occasionally; if chilled over ice and water, stir frequently.
 4. Beat gelatin mixture until light and foamy. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into a 1-qt. bombe mold and freeze until firm, about 8 hrs. or overnight.
 5. Unmold onto a chilled plate and garnish with fresh mint leaves.

ALSO OF INTEREST TO: THRIPS, RED SPIDER MITES, LEAFHOPPERS, JAPANESE BEETLES, FLEA BEETLES, ROSE CHAFERS, LACE BUGS, BRACHYRINUS AND FULLER ROSE BEETLES (ADOLESCENT AND ADULT), CHIGGERS, LEAF MINERS, WHITE FLIES AND CERTAIN CATERPILLARS.

You are hereby notified that you have ruined your last rose, ravaged your last rhododendron, blighted your last blossom. No longer will you freely fasten on young plants and suck the life juices from tender young growth. ORTHO, on behalf of gardeners everywhere, has developed a spray that gets rid of you and your kind. Its name, so you can recognize it and run, is Isotox Garden Spray.

GOING... GOING... GONE

Isotox contains not one, but four insecticides—lindane, malathion, DDT and Tedion*. All are bad news for pests like you. They'll do you in before you have a chance to do in the plants. And just in case you thrips or red spider mites or beetles are smugly thinking this applies only to aphids, you'd better wipe the smile off your face. Isotox wipes out over 250 different kinds of insects.

GET OUT OF TOWN

The time you can begin to worry is in early spring when new leaves unfold and tender young growth is at its tastiest. Then wily gardeners are watching for the first visit by pests like you. That's when Isotox will first appear. If you're planning to arrive in the second wave, when buds begin to burst, Isotox will be around again. And when weather turns warm and blossoms are at their peak, you bugs can expect the worst from Isotox. Our advice to you is to get out of town while you still have the chance.

A PRIVATE MESSAGE TO APHID-HATERS

All gardeners who have bought everything short of a shot gun to save plants from persistent pests will be delighted with this news. All you need is a garden hose and an ORTHO Spray-Ette to protect your garden with Isotox. Just put Isotox in the Spray-Ette, and the Spray-Ette does the rest—automatically dilutes the spray with water in the proper proportion. Patented metering jets always deliver just the right amount of spray. Spray-Ettes cost $3.49, $6.45 or $9.95, depending on how big a garden you have to spray. Isotox, a highly concentrated liquid, costs $1.19 for 4 ounces up to $4.98 for a quart. Diluted to spray, it costs less than 6¢ per gallon to rid your garden of 250 different pests! And like all ORTHO products, it's guaranteed to do the job, or your money back.

A FRIENDLY REMINDER

While you're at an authorized ORTHO dealer buying Isotox, pick up some ORTHO PHALTAN Rose & Garden Fungicide to control most major diseases on flowers and ornamentals. You can spray it right along with Isotox in the ORTHO Spray-Ette and kill two blighters with one spray. A shrewd idea! The ORTHO people are always inventing ways to make your gardening easier.

Everyone Plays in This

wanderlust, anyone?

Of course! Babies, like everyone else, want to see the world. What better reason for trying to creep? And those first attempts at creeping are adorably awkward, wonderful to behold. Some try it forward, others backward. Still others fancy crabwise creeping. No matter what style your baby selects, the important thing is that he's learning the 3 big C's: Confidence, Co-ordination, Control. Happy new horizons!

Girl or boy creepers, sit-about or gadabouts, every darling one of them needs protein . . . to help develop strong muscles. Tasty way to give baby extra protein: Gerber High Meat Dinners. These baby-style "casseroles" have 3 times as much meat (and therefore much more protein) as regular combination baby dinners. And all this savory meat is subtly blended with garden-good vegetables for bright flavor . . . hearty nourishment. 5 varieties, strained or junior.

Roaming routine. When baby becomes a "four-walker" you'll really have to keep an eye on your traveler. Good idea to schedule his roaming times when you have some watching time. Say, when you're taking a "breather" or doing some sit-down chores. When you return baby to his play pen, a favorite toy, a snack of Gerber Fruit Juice or a Teething Biscuit will help overcome possible resentment at the confinement.

Lip-smacking sipping with nutritional leanings. Gerber Strained Fruit Juices leave nothing to be desired in the way of flavor delight . . . and they're high in vitamin C. Has baby tried the new Orange-Apricot or Apple-Cherry Juices yet?

Reminder division. Rooms where baby has crawl privileges should be checked constantly for safety. Household hazards which may not occur to you: floor-drooping plants, dangling appliance cords, rocking chairs, dropped pins or buttons.

A word from Dan Gerber. "Our agricultural experts work on a year-in, year-out basis to improve the quality of your baby's food. Take Gerber Green Beans, for example. Over a period of years, our Agricultural Research Department experimented with several green bean varieties to develop a superior strain. As a result of these efforts, the beans we use are tender, succulent and extra-flavorful . . . have less fiber, more flesh . . . and most important, they have a deeper color which indicates a higher nutritive value."

Important: Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods — cereals, strained and junior—to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say: "Babies are our business . . . our only business!"

Little League

BY OMER JOHNSON

THE FEELING of belonging has replaced heartbreak in the Kettering, Ohio, Little League. In this setup, if a boy wants to play, he will play.

Take one named Joe, for instance, a 12-year-old with terrible coordination. He couldn't run. He couldn't hit very well. About the only thing he could do with a baseball was throw it. But instead of telling Joe there was no place for him, Kettering put him in the lowest league in the organization. And he's happy, because he is where he belongs, competing with boys of equal ability.

Another player, Don, started out with a major-league team, but he was badly placed, and so he was sent down one league to the minors. The situation was explained to him and he, too, was happy to be playing where he could compete on an equal basis.

EMPHASIS in First Kettering Little League, which was born last year, is on the fun of playing ball. In 1963's information booklet, parents are told that it is their responsibility to put the emphasis on fun, on the enjoyment of being part of a team, and on the importance of good sportsmanship. "And never mind where the boy fits into a specific league."

The booklet further points out: "A child's mind, full of enthusiasm and void of undue pressures, can absorb many wonderful things, and even though he may never play any interscholastic baseball in later life he will have the pleasure of being an understanding spectator."

Trustees of First Kettering Little League state in the booklet, through their president, Richard D. Hill:

"Our purpose is to provide for the children of our city a clean, wholesome activity that teaches them to appreciate sports. We are not dedicated to the building of stars or certain individuals."

This is so strictly enforced that last year results of the first round of play in the various leagues were not even made available to the local newspapers.

One paper in the neighborhood did pick up the story of a major leaguer who hit a grand-slam home run on his mother's birthday. The story also pointed out that he later "singled, stole second base, and then scored the run that enabled his team to win."

A clipping of the article is in First Kettering Little League's scrapbook. There is a notation by it which says "This story was not released by any officer . . . It is against FKLL policy to play up individual performance."

ALL NEWS media were informed of this, as were all persons connected with the Little League program and parents.

Richard Hill, an engineer at the National Cash Register Company, and Bud Compton of the same firm are co-founders of the league.

A helping hand came from the Frank Irelan family, who made 15 acres available to the Little Leaguers in an almost rural setting.

The layout, on what remains of the Irelan family farm, includes one official diamond, plus seven practice fields. These are special areas set aside for detailed instruction, with two throwing pits and a sliding range.

No spectators ever are allowed in these practice areas. In fact, a player is not even allowed there himself unless he is with his team or has been invited by an authorized adult for special instruction.

The trustees have even avoided putting stands behind the backstop, and dugouts have been located where they are not easily accessible to spectators.

PARENTS are enthusiastic because their sons reflect the fun they are having. They're playing ball without being subjected to undue pressure, which is a hardship for growing boys who have plenty to contend with as it is.

Some of Kettering's minor leaguers, playing their best because they're relaxed, will progress to major leagues this summer. And many of them won't—but they'll still have a team to belong to, a game to play, and a healthy experience in give and take that they never could get on the side lines.

How Much Water in the Garden Is Enough?

Study your climate and soil, and you'll find ways to save gallons and get the same results

BY JOHN BRIMER

THE LIFEblood of the garden is water. Soil minerals and foods must be in solution—in other words, in water—before they can be absorbed by the tiny hairs and rootlets and carried through the structure of the plant to keep it growing and healthy. But by understanding your climate and soil and by adapting your operations to them, you can cut down on watering chores and save many dozens of gallons each week. Here's what to consider:

Water at low-use times, early or late, when you have good pressure and can work quickly.

Improving the soil is a sure way to save water and the time spent in watering. Everyone knows that "open" or sandy soils allow water to run right through, and dry out fast. Clay and compacted soils are too "tight" to absorb moisture, and rain or sprinkler water runs off quickly. Both sandy and clay soils can be improved by the addition of humus—peat moss, leafmold, compost, etc.—and sand will help tight soils.

You'll also have to water less often if you cultivate the soil, loosening top crusts and removing weeds which steal water.

One sure way to find out how soil absorbs water is to dig down and find out. Water for a half hour, then use a soil auger or a spade to take up a sample of soil a foot or so down. Measure depth of water penetration so that you can gauge how much time will be needed to get moisture to root levels and replenish the natural reserves. You may find you've been watering longer and using more water than you needed to.

AVOID WATERING on windy days. Even light breezes whip water away from the areas you are attempting to sprinkle, and high winds waste water by drying out plants. There is usually little or no wind in early-morning hours or after sunset—another reason why these are good watering times. Where wind is a constant problem, it will save water if you build fences or windbreaks to prevent drying out.

And consider mulching your beds with a layer of loose material an inch to six inches deep. The mulch should be open enough to admit moisture and air, yet heavy enough to shade the soil and keep it cool, thereby reducing evaporation in hot weather. Among mulches used today are peat moss; ground-up corncocks; hulls of buckwheat, rice, cocoa, and other crops; wood chips; shredded bark; salt marsh hay; and sawdust. (Be warned that sawdust may rob the soil of nitrogen needed for plant growth, necessitating the use of 1 to 1½ lbs. of high-nitrogen fertilizer per inch of sawdust to every 50 square feet.)

For sizable plants, like young trees and newly planted shrubs, heavy irrigation can be simplified by making a "saucer" of soil to cover the approximate root area and filling this with water two or three times a week, as needed, so that it soaks directly down to the roots. Vegetables and flowers grown in rows may be watered with soaker hoses placed close to the plants, delivering water directly to the soil so there is little or no evaporation and no splashing of dirt on the leaves of food crops.

With these suggestions to start you off, study your particular problem and see what improvements you can make. You'll soon have some good tricks of your own and more to show in the garden for less work and less water, too.

From this daisy.....comes the world's safest known insecticide

Slug-a-Bug is Non-Toxic when used as directed because it contains pyrethrins—Nature's own insecticide derived from a rare strain of Pyrethrum daisies that grow high in the hills of Africa. Slug-a-Bug's pyrethrin formulation is Non-Toxic to humans...yet is sudden death to insects and other household pests.

Slug-a-Bug leaves no toxic residue, no poisons that can build up in the body to dangerous, even fatal proportions. Used as directed, Slug-a-Bug can be sprayed near children, food and pets with safety. And Slug-a-Bug is not only safe, it's swift and sure—acts faster and more effectively than many toxic insecticides. What's more, Slug-a-Bug even kills insects that have become resistant to DDT and other toxic sprays.

So, don't take chances with your family's health. Look for the words "Non-Toxic" on the Slug-a-Bug label—they're your guarantee that Slug-a-Bug contains the world's safest known insecticide.
