Thursday, November 14 THE AMERICAN CIVIL LIB-

ERTIES UNION attacked certain practices of welfare agencies, especially midnight investigations. The ACLU charged this was a violation of the Fourth Amendment which protects citizens against illegal search and seizure by demanding entrance to the homes of women's aid recipients. Investigators must have warrants to enter a home, but if the householder refuses entrance, she stands to lose aid.

ALL THE DOGS at the dog pound in Sturgis were let loose by some well-meaning soul Monday night. However, Miles Kirkpatrick, dog warden, was heartened when he returned to work Tuesday morning. He found all the dogs waiting outside the gate, hoping to be readmitted.

FIRE-ALARM BOXES should be equipped with loud sirens, according to Mayor Cavanagh. This would help avoid false alarms being turned in, such as the one that led to the death of a Detroit fireman. Mcanwhile, a 15-year-old youth confessed to turning in the alarm "just to see what would happen." Plans are under way to have the culprit, Maurice Fountain, tried as an adult.

of the cost, or $124.32. The Association stated that a recent break occurred in a connection to the sewer under the road, and that the total cost of the repairs, $134.25, was paid by the Association. The group informed the city body that 7.4 percent, or $9.93, was reimbursed by the Country Club, and therefore, the payment balance be shared between the Farms and the Association, as was done at the time the sewer was originally in stalled.

Queried by the council, Smith disclosed that although Provencal is a private road, owned by the residents, the water main and sewer connection are owned and services by the city. He recommended that the city pay half of the remaining balance of cost of the repair. The council approved unani mously.

PLAYER INJURED While playing football at the Grosse Pointe High School field, Craig MacPherson, 15, of 20425 Lochmoor, Harper Woods, suffered a broken right leg He was taken to Bon Secour Hospital by Farms firemen. The leg was set in a cast, and later he was permitted to go home.

WEATHER FORECASTING IS IMPROVING steadily ... a fact that's mighty important to Michigan farmers and to city folk, too. One big reason for the improvement is Tiros. our country's weather satellite. The Bell Telephone System, of which Michigan Bell is a part, plays a vital role in Operation Tiros. Telephone people helped put Tiros in orbit. Now, Beil communications help flash Tiros' findings to weather scientists, then rush their analyses to field stations, newspapers and broadcasters across the nation . . . giving you the latest, most accurate weather information possible.

"-AND TWO IN BLUE ...." When you're busy with the children or the weather's bad, you can still get your day's shopping done. Just use the phone! You'll be surprised how many items on your shopping list can be handled quickly with just a few telephone calls. Try it soon.

ALWAYS THERE! Have you ever wondered how Michigan Bell makes sure the necessary personnel are on hand to take care of your calls? Having the right number of people to serve you at all times requires careful planning. The volume of calls can vary widely from one hour, one season, to another. We constantly study our records to determine the volume of calls expected . . . and the proper number of people needed to handle them. This way, Michigan Bell can provide the telephone service you

Belated Acknowledgement

Early in September Matthew M. Goebel, advertising manager of the Crosse Pointe News for more than 20 years, asked to be relieved of his duties because of ill health. With his characteristic sense of fairness, Matt left it completely up to us as to how and when to sever his connection with the paper. No official announcement was made of his resignation because uppermost in our mind was the hope that Matt would recover sufficiently to be able to return and continue to serve the paper.

We are happy to report that Mr. Goebel's health has improved and he is feeling better, but he doesn't want to jeopardize the improvement by going back to the rigorous schedule that his position demanded. With the completion of our fiscal year the first of this month, his resignation became official.

Matt Goebel joined the Grosse Pointe News staff when this paper was less than a year old. A fiercely * 9:30 a.m. and 11:15 a.m.—Children's Art Classes --- Mrs. independent individual always, he never asked for a salary. He was, and is a member of the school that believes that everyone should earn success completely through his own efforts. Anyone who can't earn a decent living through working on a fair commission basis isn't worth his salt. He insisted on starting out on this basis. We remember some of his first checks were pretty paltry, for the paper was very young, but he just kept plugging along, sure that his efforts and dedication to his job would pay off. They did; within a year he was managing the display advertising department.

No one ever paid less attention to working hours than did Matt. He was a pro at burning the midnight oil. He was a stickler for detail, a constant seeker for perfection in the ads he created. He could be short-tempered when workers in his department didn't completely agree with his meticulousness and he could be a tough taskmaster when he felt someone was compromising with the standards which were his goal. The News never had, nce ever could have an employe more loyal, nor more intensely proud of its product. Matt was the instigator of the Grosse Pointe Business Men's Association and was president of this organization during a period of its greatest growth. He had a guiding hand in the start of uncounted Pointe businesses, and was at his best while laying out a campaign that would help a new establishment obtain the recognition that is so essential in achieving success. Matt could fight at the drop of a hat with anyone in the office he felt was letting the paper down, but his temper cooled quickly. Shortly after stomping out of the building in a rage he would be back, bearing icecream, a cake and coffee, or a box of candy. No apologies ... just a quiet gesture of understanding and contrition. Matt Goebel's contribution to the success which the News has enjoyed has been a great one. He has taught us all a great deal and gave much of himself to his job. We are grateful and shall miss him. We hope his health continues to improve, that the future holds many years of happy and useful living for him, and that he comes to see us often.

How to Brew Excellent Coffee

Chances are that sometime during the holiday months ahead, you'll be called upon to serve coffee to a large group. Happily, coffee in any quantity is one of the easiest refreshment assign-ments you can draw. Once you know a few rules, you can maka excellent coffee for any number of people. Let's assume you'll be making forty average servings. Allow one pound of ground coffee to two gallons of water. Some simple arithmetic will enable you to adapt the recipe to a larger or smaller group. Even easier: empl ying any standard macquing smaller group. Even easier: employing any standard measuring device, use one part coffee to six parts water for perfect results. If you use a coffee urn, use the suggested coffee-to-water proportions—drip grind coffee, of course—then follow the brew-ing instructions given by the manufacturer of the urn.

Coffee in a Kettle

Excellent coffee can be made in an open kettle, too. First, Excellent coffee can be made in an open kettle, too. First, measure freshly-drawn cold water into a spotlessly clean kettle and heat it to boiling point. In the meantime, measure regular grind coffee into a clean cloth sack which has been soaked and rinsed thoroughly. The sack must be large enough so that it is not more than half-full when the ground coffee is placed in it. This allows for expansion of the coffee and free circulation of the water. Tie the top of the sack tightly, allowing enough cord for fastening to the kettle handle. When the water comes to a full rolling hold reduce heat to

When the water comes to a full, rolling boil, reduce heat to hold just below the boiling point. Fasten the sack to pot handle, then submerge the sack into the water. Keep the kettle on low heat and push the sack up and down frequently to get the proper extraction. Brew 6 to 8 minutes. Do not let the coffee boil. When the coffee is ready, remove the sack, permitting all the beverage to drain into the kettle. Then, serve your delicious coffee as soon as possible. soon as possible.

Looking for a new way to entertain the high-school set? Try a Holiday Box Social, and share the fun of hostess-ing with your guests!

Have each young lady prepare a lunch or late-evening snack for two, wrapped in fancy Christmas dress with her name identified on the package top. Have the guests, on arriving at the party, place all the pretty Christmas surprise lunches under the Christmas tree until refreshment time.

In the meantime, write the name of each girl on a small piece of paper; roll up the paper with name inside and fasten roll with a bit of transparent tape. Insert each name in a balloon.

At serving time, each young man can choose a balloon and blow it up until it pops, revealing the name of his lunch partner. Lunch boxes may be made from old cereal, shoe or candy boxes. Gummed lace paper edgings and decorative designs pasted on the boxes give them a handsome appearance. Paste-on letters can be used for the girls' names. Ribbon, sequins, small glass 'jewels" and tiny Christmas ornaments are other package trims that can be used.

To make a wreath on the party box, wrap cookies in saran and fasten them to box securely with double-edged transparent tape. Flower spray decorations can be made by individually wrapping cookies and candy tightly in saran and fastening them together with wire. Use ribbon and artificial leaves to transform the "flowers" into a corsage. And here's a hint to the girls who are preparing the lunches-

SO HE'S LEARNING -- "When I get some legs, I'll learn to walk," 4-year-old Richard Matlock told his mother, Mrs. Windle Matlock, in Dallas, Tex., and now he's got them and he's learning, at the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. He was born without legs, without a right arm and with a deformed left arm. Richard also said, "I want some bluejeans when I get my legs." A member of the Scottish Rite heard about the request, and now the lad has his legs, an artificial right arm, and that he-man getup.

A very talented lady is Mrs. Jack Martin, of Hampton road, who designs and makes all her own clothes, coats included. When not busy sewing for herself, Mrs. Martin designs rugs for Mrs. Emory Moran Ford to weave.

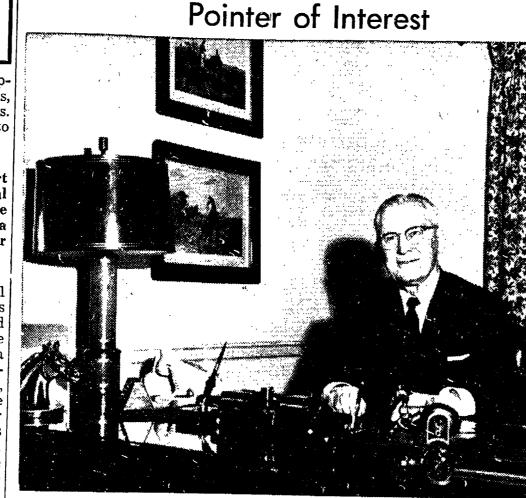

Picture of a strong-willed man: The Kenwood court attorney who gave up smoking "cold turkey" several years ago, framed his cigaret lighter and hung it in the library of his home. The trophy stands today as a permanent reminder of the power of determination over tobacco.

The world's workers have united, but there still remain various splinter groups—including those workers who, no matter how early they start out or how good their intentions, always seem to arrive "on the job" five or ten minutes later than everyone else. They need a spokesman. On behalf of the chronically-overdue proletariat, we offer Miss Cecile Sheean, of McKinley avenue, whose excuses, delivered in a breathless voice as she dashes into her downtown office, intrigue her employer to the point where he looks forward to a "late" day. Miss Sheean recently returned from a California vacation. Determined to be on time her first day back at work, she boarded an early bus, settled down for a leisurely ride along Mack avenue, and smiled at the school children who travel the same route every day, carrying their lunches in brown paper bags or tin boxes. Halfway downtown, the "Sheean luck" struck. As the driver, pulled up to discharge passengers, opened his doors, a big black dog bounded into the bus . . . and refused to bound out again. The driver tried to catch him, the passengers tried to catch him, the children, holding their lunches over their heads and shrieking, (in delight?), this month, Mr. Verheyden relooked as if they were trying to catch him. After 15 minutes of utter pandemonium the dog was ejected- handsome plaque to add to the but Miss Sheean was late for work.
