We called John Center and asked v reticent to discuss t allowed to say was that there was a conflict of personalities. We asked if this meant that General Taylor would not appear to give his lecture, and received the reply:-"We certainly hope he will."

Since then we have tried to contact others connected with the lecture series, but have encountered a series of calls not returned, and stony silence. Which is a pretty silly way to handle the medium on which the War Memorial depends for so much of its publicity. Mrs. Paul Bagwell, president of the School of Govern-ment, co-sponsor of the series with the War Memorial *12 NOON *12:30 p.m. Association, said she was completely surprised by the development and promised to find out about it im- * 9:00 a.m mediately and call us back. The many hours since have * 9:00 a.m brought no word from her, nor anyone else.

There is also an apparent hesitancy about announc-ing dates for other speakers scheduled to round out * 1:00 p.m the lecture series. General Taylor was the last one for whom a definite date was set, but there were to be two # 4:00 p.m more lectures for which dates were to be announced.

If any of you find out just what is cooking with the Forum we'd appreciate your giving us a call. Our phones have been far too silent during our search for the truth.

Smith Club Program

The Birmingham and Toledo Smith College Clubs are joining the Detroit Club this afternoon for luncheon at McGregor Memorial, followed by a tour of the exhibition "Art Treasures from Japan" at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Arrangements for the program were made by Mrs. M. Whitney McCutcheon, and reservations were handled by Mrs. Richard A. Weber. Tour planner was Miss Jean Dodenhoff.

Among those who will be gathered for luncheon and the walk through the exhibit are the presidents of the three Clubs, Mrs. Gerard C. Mooney (Detroit), Mrs. Maurice O'Connell (Toledo) and Mrs. John P. Denio (Birmingham).

What America Is Reading

Unique invitations that could double as bookmarks have heralded a Booktalk-Luncheon to be held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club next Wednesday, January 19, starting at 12 o'clock noon.

Robert M. Orr, director of the Grosse Pointe Public Libraries, will discuss "What America is Reading, and Why." He will give thumbnail sketches of several books, including "The Source," "Hotel," "Memoirs of an Am-nesiac" and "Intern." A discussion will follow the program.

Among those with early reservations are Mrs. Roland Benge, who will preside at a table for four, and Mrs. Clarence H. Koebbe, whose table will be set for six.

Mrs. Roger K. Smith is chairman of the affair. Her committee includes Mrs. Clarence A. Dahl, Mrs. Roy K. Erickson, Mrs. J. Daniel Hitchens and Mrs. Joseph P. Kaiser.

Colonial Dames of America

Mrs. Howard Freeman Smith is entertaining members of The National Society Colonial Dames of America in the State of Michigan at a tea in her Provencal road home Friday afternoon, following the Society's midwinter meeting.

President Mrs. Hansel Dwight Wilson will conduct the business meeting at 2 o'clock, and program chairman Mrs. John G. Garlinghouse will introduce the speaker, Dr. Philip P. Mason.

Dr. Mason, author of several books on historical subjects, is director of the Labor History Archives, past president of the Detroit Historical Society and a professor of History at Wavne State University.

Hospitality chairman Mrs. William H. Ledyard is in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

We can't wait . . . to take our seat at the Esquire Theater this morning and hear Eddie Frederics discuss "The Art of Inferior Decorating and How to Aveid It" ---a title which has intrigued us from the moment Bon Secours Hospital Assistance League's 1965-66 Celebrity Series committee announced its roster of speakers and subjects.

There was plenty of "pleasure" . . . as well as "business" on the Garden Club of Michigan's agenda Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Frederick W. Campbell delighted members with her beautiful slides of the Garden Clubs of America's Garden Tour of England. Hostesses at this Business Meeting in the War Memorial were Mrs. Nelson Holland, Mrs. Neil McMillan, Jr., Mrs. Hilary H. Micou, Mrs. William K. Muir and Mrs. William P. Stevens.

We personally guarantee . . . you'll have a whale of a good time at the Council of Grosse Pointe Square Dance Clubs' fifth annual free dance — for novice couples as well as experienced do-se-do'ers — beginning at 8 o'clock next Monday evening, in Brownell Junior High School. Purpose of the affair is to give couples who have never square danced before an opportunity to try this popular activity. Local caller Wes Rea explains each call before the music starts, and men and women who have never "circled left and four hands round" in their lives are amazed at their success . . . so much so that enrollments in the sponsoring clubs tend to skyrocket after these annual dances.

In the midst of tearing our hair out ... in our effort to get all our holiday brides tucked into four- and fivepage post-Christmas NEWS Society sections, we got a good laugh cut of one Wedding Questionnaire description of a mother-of-the-bridegroom's Ceremony and Re- managed to so involve themselves in local affairs, so ception dress: The lady, according to her future daughter-in-law, intended to arrive at the Church clad only residence as Ruth has after a single year. in ORCHIDS, (now who, we wonder, looked at the bride?)!

Here follows . . . a Scandinavian impression, courtesy of Michigan Lucia Cherie Moore, back home after her trip to the lands of the Norsemen: "I loved the many fresh flowers — in the homes, in the stores, in the beautiful bouquets that greeted me on arrival in each years in Lakewood, O., a sub city . . . and then the ride through the streets of Stockholm in open horse-drawn carriages! It was one of the coldest Lucia days of this century, but each Lucia was bundled up in a big fur-lined white parka, and though I wore Mrs. (Sixten) Ehrling's warm boots my feet remained cold. But the thousands of people who lined the streets made me warmer, as I felt they really had the Lucia spirit in their hearts."
