Educators Conduct Three-Day Parley On Middle School

More Than 200 Members Of Professional Staff Attend Conference At Hidden Valley Financed By Gift From Henry Ford, II

More than 200 members of the professional staff of the Grosse Pointe Public School System returned to their elementary and junior high school classrooms Monday morning following three days of participation in an educational venture of unique dimensions.

The group left Grosse Pointe at 9 a.m. by chartered bus in Thursday, May 11, to attend the Grosse Pointe Middle School Conference held at Hidden Valley near Gaylord. They returned late Saturday, May 13.

With funds provided by Henry Ford II and with a staff of consultants headed by Dr. Ann Grooms of the University of Cincinnati and aided by the Institute for Development of Educational Activities, a project of the Charles F. Kettering Foundation, the Grosse Pointe educators discussed the forthcoming development of the system's three junior high schools into middle schools.

Indebted to Henry Ford "We on the public schools' staff and the Board of Education are indebted to Mr. Ford for his interest in the welfare of the schools of the community of which he is a resident," J. Harold Husband, Acting Superintendent of Schools, said.

With the opening of Grosse Pointe High School North in September, 1968, Brownell, Harcells, and Pierce Junior High Schools will house grades 6, 7, and 8. Both of the senior high schools will accommodate students in grades 9-12.

Mr. Husband commented upon the recent meetings. "The rationale behind the change in the intermediate school concept is based upon the fact that students in this age are no longer children and not quite adolescents. Therefore, the school program should provide for the special needs of pre-adolescents and the early adolescents," he said.

"Although we received much assistance from a number of national educators at the Hidden Valley meetings, the final determination on the kind of program we shall have ultimately will be made locally," Mr. Husband said. "We hope that the emerging middle school will combine the best features of the self-contained elementary school with the best features of specialized subject matter instruction offered in secondary schools.

Award Contract For Drain Sewer

Bay Construction Company, Inc. was awarded the contract for local storm water relief in Brys drive, Roslyn, Hampton and Hawthorne roads, Hollywood avenue and the easement east of Mack from Hollywood to Hampton, Monday night, May 15, by the Woods City Council.

Farms Police Department Plans Open House May 20

In conjunction with President Johnson's National Proclamation setting May 14 through 20 as National Police Week, to honor police officers throughout the country, Farms Mayor William Butler issued a local proclamation on Monday, May 15, designating the same week to honor all local policemen. The move was approved by the city council.

Both the national and local proclamations are for the purpose of recognizing law enforcement, and to pay tribute to the policemen who gave their lives in the service of their country and their communities. Farms Police Chief Jack F. Roh disclosed that his department will hold an open house on Saturday, May 20, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., to celebrate the occasion.

Charles Ives Succumbs to Heart Attack

Park Councilmen Stunned As Member Is Fatally Stricken During Budget Discussion

Park Councilman Charles F. Ives, 71, of 1024 Somerset, collapsed of a heart attack, at his desk in the municipal chambers on Monday, May 15, during a discussion on the $1,528,442 budget for the 1967-68 fiscal year. The meeting, a public hearing, was called under the City Charter which requires that a budget be passed on or before the third Monday in May.

A few seconds prior to being stricken, Mr. Ives made a motion that the budget be approved, and the motion was seconded. Mayor Matthew Patterson called for a discussion of the motion, and while he was still speaking, the councilman suffered the attack.

No one noticed Mr. Ives' condition immediately, including Councilman William Luedders, sitting next to him. Suddenly, it became apparent something was amiss, and all turned to look at the stricken man. For about half a minute, everyone seemed stunned.

Rushed To Hospital

When it became apparent that Mr. Ives had suffered a seizure, Luedders and Councilman George Verdonck placed Ives on the floor, and Verdonck began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. City Manager Robert Stone called the police and fire emergency squads, and Ives was taken to Bon Secours Hospital, where he died at 7:31 p.m., one hour after admission.

The mayor called for an adjournment of the meeting, due to what had happened, but the council was deterred from taking any action in the matter by City Attorney Richard Rohr, who informed the councilmen that the City Charter makes it mandatory that a fiscal budget be passed by the third Monday in May.

Rohr interpreted a charter section which required that the budget be passed, and that only four votes are needed for approval, and that in spite of the tragic happening, the council must carry out its duties for the people.

Poses Question

The question was brought up that since Councilman Ives had made a motion that the budget be accepted, if this constituted a yes vote. The city attorney (Continued on Page 4)

Farms Approves 1967-68 Budget

The Farms council, following a public hearing on Monday, May 15, approved the city's 1967-68 fiscal budget of $1,564,448, and announced that in order to meet the higher cost of operating the city government, the tax rate will be raised by 1.40 mills, or $1.40 more per $1,000 local assessed valuation on real property.

For the past several years, the Farms had been able to maintain its tax rate schedule at 17.20 mills, or $17.20 per $1,000 local assessed valuation. Farms property owners will now have to pay $18.60 per $1,000 local assessed to meet the coming year's budget. The fiscal year is from July 1 through June 30.

The following is what it will cost to operate the different departments in the Farms: Administrative, $127,350; Police, $295,737; Fire, $228,392; Public Service, $29,030; Public Works, $292,428; Recreation, $98,704; Sewage Pumping, $51,600; General, $112,230; Major and Extraordinary, $256,768; and Debt Service, $92,210.

Estimated revenues, which go to make up this budget, from State shared, fines, permits, licenses, fees, etc., $353,625; Surplus reappropriated, $102,008; and Tax levy, $1,108,816.

Under the Water Fund, the budget revenue is estimated at $227,470; Expenses—filtration and pumping, $98,564; Distribution and Administration, $91,309; and estimated net profit, $5,597, for a total water budget of $227,470. Proposed capital expenditures to be made from earnings is set at $10,000.

John Doelle Resigns Park Council Post

Expresses Disappointment In Fellow Members And Lack Of Interest On Part Of Citizens

Park Councilman John Doelle disclosed on Tuesday, May 16, that he had resigned from the city council, and as the Park's representative on the Grosse Pointe-Clinton Refuge and Disposal Authority, of which he was secretary. He said the resignation was effective immediately.

He said that he had intended to resign previously because of the basic conflict among the members of the Park council, but the death of Councilman Charles Ives, following a heart attack during a discussion of the city's 1967-68 fiscal budget, hastened his decision to quit the posts.

Doelle was appointed to the council in 1960 to fill a vacancy, and was elected in 1961, and re-elected in 1965. The term expires in April 1969.

Issues Statement

In a statement made to the NEWS, Doelle said: "To me it has been an outstanding civic accomplishment that locally we have maintained outstanding services, and city taxes (15.50 mills) have not risen since I was appointed to the council in 1960. However lately, a trend has developed in our city toward the philosophy that the government governs best which governs most, rather than least.

"The related compulsion to join the inflationary parade and increased taxes and spending, makes the proposition and (Continued on Page 2)

League of Women Voters Makes Community Study Of Opportunity Equalities

Probe Preparation Of Children For Responsibility Of Citizenship And Chances Given Minority Groups For Employment

Mrs. Carl J. Fischer, Jr., president, announced that the Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters has approved support for and urged: (1) teaching school children about the unique contributions to our culture of Americans of diverse races and religions, (2) recruiting well qualified teachers and municipal employees of many races and religions and (3) merit employment, without racial or religious qualification, in private enterprise.

In 1966, the National League of Women Voters announced support for efforts to provide equality of opportunity in education and employment throughout the United States. To implement this policy, the Grosse Pointe League's Human Resources Study group chose to study their own community.

They asked whether the homogeneous environment of suburbia limits too much their economically privileged children's oppor-

Six Candidates In School Race

Dr. Robert K. Whitley, vice-president, completing his eighth year on the Board, is not a candidate for re-election.

In addition to Dr. Parcells the candidates are Arnold P. Fuchs, 68 Roslyn road; Allan Neef, 46 Stonehurst; Brandon M. Rogers, 77 Moran; Calvin J. Sandberg, 20661 Wedgewood; and Bert H. Wicking, 1383 Hollywood.

Center Drive Nears Goal Of $75,000

Hope To Surpass Record Of 5,000 Donors Before Memorial Day

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial's 1967 Annual Family Participation Campaign has 12 days to go and is $1,000 short of the $75,000 goal needed to round out the operational budget for the fiscal year beginning August 1.

The final effort of the campaign is now in progress. This consists of telephone calls to givers of record who have not yet been heard from. Last year the Center's list of donors numbered over 5,000 families. To date 4,700 have been heard from.

In addition, the Center hopes to have its message reach many new residents who will wish to do their share, in maintaining Grosse Pointe's beautiful and unique civic and cultural Center which offers something to every family in Grosse Pointe in remembrance of those who gave their lives for the community. The Center does this without taking any tax monies or United Foundation funds.

Won't you join the following donors who have already contributed $74,000:

John Doelle Resigns Post

(Continued from Page One) submission of next year's (1967-68) budget very controversial. "It was very disappointing that not a single citizen appeared at our budget hearing to express pride in our holding the line in our tax achievement.

"Indeed, no one seemed to wish this continued, unless it be done so as a prelude to greater spending later. "I was profoundly moved by the death of Councilman Ives, who was my ally in this effort to minimize increased city costs. He shared my ideas of good government and lower costs. I have concluded that my resignation would be helpful in restoring this need in our city government.

Educators

Four major addresses were provided at the Middle School Conference by nationally-known leaders in education. Dr. Russel Milliken, Associate Dean of the College of Education of Ohio University, spoke on "Learning Vistas Unlimited."

League Studies Opportunity Equalities

(Continued from Page One) exciting changes, and plans for many more. The History Department is a ferment of change with courses being taught now, and more being developed for the future, that do indeed help youngsters to know and understand those different from them. The high school administrators and faculty deserve firm support in their many-levelled efforts to create a rich curriculum designed to help young people move with confidence and understanding in a difficult and changing world.

At present, only one Negro teacher is employed in the Grosse Pointe Public Schools. She has provided a success story for the community and the department in charge of hiring assures the League that Grosse Pointe is ready to hire across the board, solely on merit, and is actively seeking teachers of the highest caliber throughout the entire American community. Recruiting is done at the finest Negro colleges, such as Fisk and Howard, as well as by soliciting applicants from all backgrounds at other public and private universities and colleges.

The study brought light that religious minorities are underrepresented on the faculty. There are few Jewish teachers in the system and it has appeared that some of those who do teach in Grosse Pointe are reluctant to identify themselves.

Further insights were provided in a discussion, "Team Teaching and the Ungraded Middle School," by Dr. John Jenkins, Principal of Miami Springs High School.

Grosse Pointe's Middle School Committee is chaired by Millard D. Grell, Curriculum Planning Director. Its membership includes John Rohrer, Principal of Maire Elementary School and William Mogk, Principal of Pierce Junior High School.

Teachers serving on the committee are Marvin Rants of Monteith, Alan Schaefer of Grosse Pointe High School, Neil Curtis of Brownell Junior High School, and Willis Brown of Parcels Junior High School.

Will you pay the price of a Cadillac...and not get one?

Literally thousands of people are driving cars that cost as much as a Cadillac—yet provide far less in motoring satisfaction, distinction and lasting value. A few minutes with an authorized Cadillac dealer and a few miles at the wheel of a Cadillac can prevent you from making this unnecessary compromise. The fact is, if you're planning to buy in the medium-price range, an investigation could show that you are very close to a Cadillac in cost. And it is generally acknowledged that a Cadillac holds its value so well that it actually costs less to own than many less priced cars. Right now, your authorized dealer has a fine selection of models and colors—with all the advanced engineering, superb performance and many safety features that make a Cadillac a Cadillac. Every year you wait is costing you its price in personal pleasure and satisfaction.

Park Councilman Ives Dies

said that it could be reasonably assumed that this could be so, but this was not definite, since any discussion following a motion might lead the maker of the motion to change his mind. Mayor Patterson reconvened the meeting, and a subdued council, still stunned by what had happened, prepared to vote on the budget.

When the vote was called, it was assumed that Mr. Ives would have voted in favor of the budget. Mayor Patterson and Luedders cast a "reluctant yes" vote, explaining that they voted this way because there must be a budget, and that the 1967-68 budget was a "deficit budget."

Councilmen Verdonck and John Doelle voted a strong yes, and Councilman Charles Bowerman voted an emphatic no. Councilman Robert Hutton was absent from the meeting.

Mayor's Comments
 Mayor Patterson, on Tuesday, May 16, emotionally expressed grief for himself, the members of the council and the people of the community. He said:

"Councilman Ives had been a faithful servant of the people of Grosse Pointe Park, and one of the finest councilmen we have ever had. He had always kept the interest of the people of the community in his heart, and worked hard in their behalf.

"We have had our differences of opinion at council meetings, but these were honest differences, and presented in good faith. We have all had deep respect for Councilman Ives, and are proud that we served on the same council with him. We will miss him very much."

The mayor then issued a proclamation, declaring 30 days of mourning for the late councilman, and ordered that all flags in the city be set at half-mast during this period.

Was Dean of Council
 Mr. Ives, by virtue of his 15 years of serving on the council, was the council dean. He first assumed his post as councilman in 1952.

He was a 1918 graduate of Trinity College, in Connecticut, and a graduate of The University of Michigan Law School. He was a member of the Michigan and Detroit Bar Associations.

He was a deacon at the North Woodward Congregational Church and a member of the Grosse Pointe Congregational Church. He was also a member of the Grosse Pointe Senior Citizens Club at the War Memorial, the University Club, the Detroit Boat Club and the Players Club of Detroit, and a former member of the Country Club of Detroit.

He was a World War I Veteran, serving at the Base Hospital 36, in Vitte, France. He was a member of the Masonic Order, Corinthian Lodge No. 1, Knights Templar.

He is survived by his wife, Lula; and two brothers, Norton, and Edward T. Ives, Jr.

Funeral services will be held at the William R. Hamilton Funeral Home, 3975 Cass avenue, Detroit, today, May 18, at 11 a.m. Burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery.

Burglar Visits Dentist's Office

Except for broken glass, the thief who broken into the office of Dr. C. Roy Brooks, 18400 Mack avenue, during the night of Friday, May 12, left the place in a neat and orderly condition, according to Farms police.

The burglary was discovered by Patrolmen Ronald Wooten and Thomas Kelly, at about 5:25 a.m., while on routine checking of doors of business places. The officers found the back door glass broken and entry gained.

The doctor, a dentist, was called from his home, 583 Lakeland, to check the office to determine if anything had been taken. He told the officers that the thief had taken $17.50 from a cash box from a desk drawer. Nothing else appeared to be missing, or disturbed, it was

To Land 'Copter At Mason School

In attendance at the Woods Council meeting on Monday, May 15, was Milton L. Riggs, Jr., sixth grade teacher at Mason School, requesting permission of the Council to have a helicopter land in the Mason School playground.

This would be part of a study unit on aviation that the upper grade classes at Mason are involved in at the present time. Mr. Riggs felt that this would generate enthusiasm among the younger students in their science courses.

He had thoroughly investigated the safety aspects connected with this activity, and had contacted Nicholas Berta, principal of the Aero Mechanics School at Detroit City Airport. Mr. Berta assured Mr. Riggs that the approaches to the west playground at Mason were fully satisfactory from all aspects. The field itself was said to be more than large enough to accommodate helicopters of even greater size than the one in question.

The Council granted Mr. Riggs permission providing he met all FAA requirements and conferred with Safety Director Andrews.

Council of Governments Opposed By 'Committee'

A "Citizens Committee" which is opposed to the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, the City of Grosse Pointe, and Grosse Pointe Farms because of their filing intents to join the Southeastern Council of Governments, met at the War Memorial on Tuesday, May 9.

A crowd of almost 300 attended. The meeting was to be an informative session to make citizens aware of what membership in the Southeastern Council could mean.

A panel consisting of Marvin Boutin, Grosse Pointe Woods Councilman; Calvin Sandberg, candidate for the School Board; Mrs. Lee Brykalski, and Mrs. James Elias spoke and conducted the question and answer period which followed the meeting.

Much was said about Detroit controlling the Council and that Detroit would benefit most from the proposals mentioned in the Southeastern Council's brochure.

These citizens were opposed to the Council of Governments, Dr. Frank H. Parcels, president, and any members of the

Reckless Driver Pays Two Fines

Dorian Griffin, 18, of 490 Bournemouth, appeared before Judge Malcolm Sutherland on Tuesday, May 9, for sentencing as a result of an incident involving reckless driving and a high speed chase on October 22. His sentencing was delayed to this date pending a presentence probation report.

Griffin was driving a '64 Pontiac west on Charlevoix when City police spotted him traveling at a high rate of speed. Broadcasts were sent out to Park police.

The occupants of the car Daniel Edward Fix, 19, of 915 Cook; John Stoppelkamp, 18, of 1843 Anita; Benjamin Bailey, of 1879 Prestick, and Griffin all abandoned the car and fled on foot. They were pursued by both City and Park police.

Park police located Fix in the rear yard of 1371 Bedford. At that time Fix identified Griffin as the driver of the speeding vehicle.

City police located Stoppelkamp on Devonshire, north of Kercheval. Stoppelkamp also identified Griffin as the driver and at that time implicated Benjamin Bailey. He agreed with Fix's statement that the owner of the car, Bob Fey, had nothing to do with the incident. He had left the car to make a telephone call when Griffin took over and spying the police car decided to out run it, despite the other boys' protests.

City police arrested Griffin on Mack, east of Fisher. They advised him of his rights and gave him a copy of same to read. Griffin denied any knowledge of the incident and stated he was in Marino's restaurant at the time. The waitress there said Griffin appeared nervous and had been in the restaurant only 45 minutes. Later Griffin said he was hitchhiking on Mack at the time of the incident. His father posted a cash bond of $110 for Griffin.

When the boys were queried as to why they ran, Bailey stated that they knew of a similar incident in which Griffin was involved in the city of Detroit when the passengers with him were charged with reckless driving.

Judge Sutherland charged Griffin with driving while his license was revoked. Griffin plead guilty and was found guilty and fined $100. The Judge also put Griffin on two years probation and revoked his driver's license. He was instructed to attend four sessions of Traffic School. Griffin was also charged with reckless driving to which he plead guilty and was found guilty and fined $100.

The occupants of the car were dismissed by the judge at their hearing on November 22, 1966.

We'll help put your wife in a home

If your wife has been talking about a new home lately, maybe you'll want to know something about a mortgage. There's a lot more to it than the amount of money you borrow. Where the money comes from is just as important. And so are the things written into your mortgage.

At NBD, for example, we have the people and facilities to give you personal attention when you apply. And because we're a full-service bank, we can keep on helping you with our range of financial services long after you move in.

Our 91 offices make NBD the most convenient place in town to apply for a mortgage. There's no application fee. Closings take only thirty to forty-five minutes and are often made at the same office. This saves you a special trip downtown. And closing costs are usually less than a hundred dollars, excluding insurance.

When we write your mortgage, we spell out exactly what rate you'll be paying, what you're paying for, and what you don't have to pay for. And we'll write in pre-payment privileges that can save you hundreds of dollars if you sell your home.

Maybe you're thinking about a mortgage loan right now. If you are, be sure to think about this: we can help you.

Nowhere else can one see so many awesome wild animals in their native habitat. Great courage as well as camera skill was required to get close to the wild beasts in their lairs and film them at their kills.

The fascination of the wild animals is highlighted by the wild beauty of the country which they roam. Merl captures all this on color film to bring boys and girls and their parents an unforgettable experience.

Teens and Adults to Mix at Coffee House Gathering

by Betty Stephens

A unique gathering of teenagers and adults will be held at the Grosse Pointe Coffee House on Sunday, May 21, at the corner of Euphoria and Kercheval avenues. The popular teen coffee house, sponsored by the Euphoria Neighborhood Club, is inviting adults as well as teens to a special evening meeting from 7 to 10 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the coffee house atmosphere, and will feature a variety of entertainment. The sound of one of the famous bands, taped folk music, will be played during the session period after a presentation of contemporary music.

Not only the parents of this particular group, but also the young workers, are expected to attend. The young workers paused to talk about their expectations for the future. "I think it would be nice to sit and talk with the parents," said one of the young workers. "I mean, I want my parents to come and see what I'm doing."

The meeting was held in one of the teen-ager newspapers that had under discussion stated that the relationships between the adults and the kids are equal. No one is higher or lower in an argument because of status. This is exactly what the teens are looking for.

Project these inventive young people setting up Saturday Night Show. This new entertainment from the coffee house involves the use of translucent oils that show color patterns that float on water and

Have New Organ At St. Michael's

The public is cordially invited to attend.

job opportunities. At the time of his death in 1961 Rabaut was chairman of the District of Columbia Committee on Appropriations. In this position he played a major role in the development of the Capitol City.

Rabaut had a continuing interest in securing adequate and equitable educational opportunities for all children. Through the scholastic and spiritual development of the youth of the Country, he believed that the Nation would make a greater contribution toward securing freedom, justice, and peace for the entire world. Today, four of Rabaut's children and one of his granddaughters are in the educational field.

Sixteen members of the Rabaut family and Cong. Lucien Nedzi, who now represents Rabaut's old District, were on hand for the dedication.

"Louis Rabaut was a humane man by instinct and practice," Nedzi said, "By his devoted efforts in behalf of education in the District of Columbia, he enriched the lives of thousands of young men and women."

"Probably no man from Michigan has ever done as much for the District of Columbia as Louis Rabaut. And we must remember that because of the unrepresentative nature of the House District Committee and because of Washington's complex problems, he constantly had to swim upstream.

"Louis Rabaut's life as a patriot, family man, and legislator stands as a monument in itself. The new Rabaut school is a further living tribute to his good works. The people of Michigan and the nation are proud of him."

Farms Delays Zoning Hearing

The Farms council decided to publish a proposed amendment to the Zoning Ordinance, but agreed to postpone a public hearing in the matter. The decision was made on Monday, May 15.

The proposed amendment would affect Articles VII and VIII, and Section 10.1 of the ordinance, and pertains to parts of the Muir, George Engles and Memorial subdivisions, and is aimed at controlled parking for Cottage Hospital.

The area will, when the amendment becomes law, be changed from Residential One Zoning to Community Service use.

At the request of H. Gordon Wood, attorney for the hospital, the council agreed to postpone the hearing until Monday, June 5, to give Cottage officials an opportunity to study the proposed change, which, it was claimed, was not disclosed to the hospital until several minutes prior to the council meeting.

CAB DRIVER DOUSED

A Grosse Pointe cab driver reported to City Police on Saturday, May 13, that while he was parked on Kercheval near University Place two teenagers in a late model gray and black T bird doused him with a pail of water. Police are investigating.

Emphasize Peril Of Hitchhiking

City Police are requesting parents to emphasize to their teenage children the dangers of hitchhiking. In the third case in less than two months, two teenage boys were picked up while hitchhiking and robbed. The most recent incident occurred on Thursday, May 11, and involved four teenager thieves and two hitchhiking 15 year olds.

The victims were returning from a dance at the War Memorial when they decided to hitch a ride. They were picked up on Lakeland by four teenagers who drove them to St. Clair between Jefferson and Maumee, then robbed them.

The thieves told the boys to get out of the car and then searched them for money. One of the boys tried to escape but tripped and was caught and robbed of $6.

The thieves then told the two youths to start running and not to look back.

The victims were able to give police a good description of their assailants and their car. They were driving a dark blue, '66 Chevrolet hardtop. All of the four teenagers were about 17 years old. The driver of the car was described as being about 5'11", weighing about 170 pounds, with dark hair and dark rimmed glasses and wearing a black jacket and pants.

The second youth had light brown hair, was about 5'10" and weight about 150 pounds. He was wearing a light brown sweater and white levis.

A third boy was wearing a striped white shirt and dark pants and was described as being about 5'11", weighing 190 pounds. No description of his clothing was available.

The police remind citizens that hitchhiking is illegal and punishable by a fine of $2, as well as being dangerous.

Traffic Violation Trips Up Youth

David C. Wells, 19, of 98 Handy road, was arrested by Farms police on Saturday, May 6, on a speeding charge, and was found to have several false identification papers next to him on the front car seat.

Patrolmen James Morgan and Robert Kraiza, while on patrol, saw a car turn from northbound Kerby to eastbound Kercheval, at what appeared to be in excess of the legal speed limit. The car turned north onto Ridgemont, with the policemen in pursuit.

The officers chased Wells west on Piche, then south on Kerby. On Kerby, between Beaure and Ridge, Morgan and Kraiza said they paced Wells at 60 miles an hour. The youth was finally stopped at Kerby and Kercheval.

The policemen said they saw Wells leaning over as though putting something under the front seat, and when they approached his car on foot, ordered him to step out. The vehicle was searched and a partially empty can of beer was found under the seat. Morgan and Kraiza said they found a folder with a driver's license made out to a William D. Adams of 1956 Alter road, Detroit, with the birth date inscribed as November 1, 1944; a birth certificate made out to the same name and address, with the same birth date, a Selective Service System Registration Certificate; and a Selective Service notice of classification, also with the same name and address.

When confronted with the information that the identification material appeared to be false, Wells, the officers said, told them that he had purchased them from a man named "Al Spaulding," no address, in a building named Northwood Institute, in Midland, Michigan. He said he made the purchase over the weekend, for five dollars.

Wells was issued a violation ticket for speeding 50 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone.

The false identification papers were confiscated, and an investigation is continuing in this matter.

Ancient Church Inhabited; Haunted Only by Memories

By Betty Stephens

The kids in the neighborhood think its haunted. Sunday breakfasters at a popular restaurant across the street, fortified by pancakes and good coffee, occasionally decide to "come over for a look."

But don't! The present occupant of the old brick church at 20276 Mack avenue, now almost hidden by a new doctors' office building, is extremely loathe to divulge information about the property. Also the building is fairly well guarded by the police.

"When I first moved into the church in 1963, before I owned a car, I was regularly stopped by Woods police, especially when I took a late bus back from town. Soon I had met every officer on the force!" told Dick De Beck to the NEWS recently.

Although a friendly sort, De Beck doesn't encourage visitors to what has become a Pointe landmark any more than the former owner, a musician who turned the church's spacious interior into a studio, welcomed Sunday morning visits from old parishioners—some of whom were apparently unaware of the building's change of status.

When we came knocking by appointment, we found De Beck mixing a cake. He and an attractive young female companion, who was contributing her vast knowledge of Greek cooking to the preparation of the main course, were studying a French cookbook. We felt better later when we discovered that the cake batter came out of a box of Duncan Hines mix.

Although his enviable position as overseer of this unique dwelling gives him the privilege of occasionally growling and moaning at the doors to scare away young invaders of the property, De Beck, a Creative Writer at Jam Handy, says his real hobby is cooking, by necessity. Unless he can get help.

"One of many inspirations is Julia Childs, who appears on Channel 56. She holds up a chicken all ready for cooking in both hands and with one tug splits it down the middle. Also she has no hesitation about picking up any ingredient that accidentally drops to the floor and popping it into the pot—a PRACTICAL cook who doesn't take the joy out of preparing superb dishes."

Another developing interest for this bon vivant is wine: "One day I happened to read a book on wines, and now I am developing my own cellar."

The books and recordings in the large bookcases at one end of the studio cover many subjects—from classical music to health diets. There are a few antiques spotted through the contemporary furnishings of the 35 by 18-foot room which is completely carpeted and hung with ceiling to floor drapes at the windows for good acoustical effect. Reproductions of modern artists and an original watercolor of the church by a Pointe artist decorate the walls.

"There used to be two baby grand pianos but the former owner took one East with him," says De Beck somewhat wistfully. The outside of the building is picturesquely weather-beaten.

Along with the aromas of fine cooking and wine testing, the young writer has stamped his own personality on the building by turning the utility kitchen-shower wine cellar, built from the former wood shed attached to the rear of the building, into a sail loft. And his appetite for the coming feast had been whittled by Sunday tennis.

Some estimate the building is 90 years old. John T. Trombley, father of Earl Trombley, Grosse Pointe's famous sculptor-dog catcher, remembers walking to school there as a young child. He was born in 1891 three blocks beyond Eight Mile road on Mack. "Mack was a dirt road then with woods on both sides. It was beautiful, especially in the fall," he recalls.

"Most of the families living there then were French with a few Irish and Scotch. The teacher was Madame Broadwick; she used to sit me up on the platform near her because I was the youngest pupil. I also remember the cord wood used to burn in the stove to heat the room."

In the middle twenties the one-room school house was rented to a church group who named it The Church of Christ, an inscription it still bears. It still has a bell in its weathered wooden tower with a bell rope, but it is one of the house rules laid down by De Beck that there shall be no bell ringing at parties.

Although the church seems ideal for parties with its large 11-foot high interior and De Beck seems like the perfect host, he admits to only two bashes; "One was the wedding of a good friend and co-worker and the other was an all-day open house two years ago. At that time I was still operations manager at station WDTM. Former disc jockey Joe McClurg, jazz singers Mark Murphy and Johnny Hamilton and the cast of "Beyond The Fringe," which happened to be in town, were among the 200 people or so who came—and went—that day."

De Beck cheerfully tells this story on himself: When his mother and stepfather, the Robert K. Bloomers of Ludington, Mich., were sailing around

Charlevoix, they visited an exhibition of paintings by an artist who had formerly lived near the Pointe. Spying what they believed to be a painting of the old church their son had recently moved into, they questioned the artist. His reply resolved their doubts but jolted their paternal pride with the observation—"I think the musician has moved out and now some other nut lives there."

What changes this stout little building has seen! Rolling farmlands converted to neatly manicured suburban lots; a dirt road through thick woods to a busy divided highway strung with new small business offices; school desks and church pews to grand pianos and sailboats. Old wine and new cake mixes! As we gathered up our notes and walked out under the old bell tower, we respectfully murdered Amen!

Men who learn to think become masters of those who do not.

Those who insist on having their own way all the time must travel alone.

Where to Obtain Driver's License

It's been more than a year since the last Pointe police department closed its operator's license bureau, and this function was taken over by the Michigan Secretary of State's Office, exclusively.

Officers of the various departments said it is amazing how many people call on the phone to find out when the licensing bureau (in the departments) closed for the day, so that they can renew their licenses.

It is equally amazing, the policemen said, to see the number of people who come into the station to have this service performed, with many becoming disgruntled, and some starting heated arguments, when informed that this function is no longer done by the police.

Some of the people who phone, or come to the station in person, are aware that licensing has been taken over by the Secretary of State's Office, and only ask to be directed to the nearest branch office, for renewals, or for initial licenses, whichever the case may be, and leave with a polite "thank you."

The NEWS was asked, as a public service, to print the location of the branch offices of the SOS, nearest to the Pointes. There are three, and they are:

In Detroit—14425 East Jefferson, near Chalmers, 821-9112; and 12921 East Seven Mile road, near Hoover, 371-5900; and in Macomb County, 19350 East Ten Mile road, near Kelly road, East Detroit, 772-8700.

Lobby-Library at Barnes Proves Most Successful

By Pepper Whitelaw

"Children need an aesthetic environment that attracts and holds their attention," says Roger O'Connor, principal of Barnes Elementary School . . . and he is making sure his students have just that in the Lobby-Library.

How the whole idea for this Lobby-Library evolved is an interesting one. The room that was being used for the library was becoming too crowded for efficient library usage. New shelving was being ordered to make better use of the space on hand . . . enrollment was up . . . so it was decided to explore the possibility of placing the bulk of this shelving in the hall corridor where it would connect with the lobby and extend along the wall to the gymnasium.

It was discussed at staff meetings and before anyone realized it, the idea for moving the entire facility evolved. The spaciousness of the lobby and its inherent beauty contrasted sharply with its limited usefulness as a waiting room and entrance.

Area Transformed

So an area was carpeted with beautiful olive-green carpeting, bookcase sections tastefully arranged, pictures of the city of Detroit were hung, filmy white drapes installed and diffused lighting added. Here was Mr. O'Connor's aesthetic setting for his students.

Now when you enter the Lobby-Library you see how very much a center of the school activities this room has become. You see classes having regular library periods, committees working on classroom projects, children giving each other spelling quizzes, lone studiers working on assignments, children in the six carrels viewing film strips and some students just sitting and enjoying pleasure reading. The couch is a favorite spot for the youngsters . . . as many as six of them can be seen huddled together at one time reading there.

Although the Lobby-Library is not a permanent solution it is a wonderful interim plan. It is an example of utilizing the facilities on hand to the fullest advantage.

Prize Possession

Among the prize possessions of this Lobby-Library is a Random House Dictionary given to the school by a first grade group in economics-social studies—the money for which came from one of the many worthwhile projects these groups conduct.

The economics-social studies periods are based on a series developed by Dr. Lawrence Senesh, of Purdue University. Dr. Senesh believes there is a real need for children to understand our society and its economic situations. He has come up with a series entitled, "Our Working World." In this series he makes the children aware of patterns, organization and relationships of events and ideas. He uses different materials and methods to this end such as: social dramas, displays, records, discussions, stories, poems and film strips.

He introduces them to such concepts as: families change in size, income and tastes; the differences between wishes and choices; tools and machines and their increasing importance; how division of labor is helpful and the changes in trade and transportation. These are written, prepared, and associated with things around them to help the children better understand our world today.

Have Many Projects

Many times the teachers have projects evolving around production lines and packaging so the children can see for themselves just how they actually work. They then market their products and use the proceeds

Driver Cuts Ruts On Three Lawns

A car left in his driveway by James E. Mitchell, 30, of 1937 Huntington, was stolen and damaged on Sunday, May 14, and abandoned by a young thief, according to information released by Woods police.

A resident in the 1700 block of Newcastle called police when he observed a motorist, described as a young, white male, lose control of the vehicle, which jumped the curb and sped over the lawns of 1995, 1989 and 1983, cutting deep ruts in the grass.

The witness said that the car spun completely around and faced west on Newcastle. A youth leaped from the car and ran northward, through backyards, and escaped. The left rear wheel of the automobile was damaged, but to what extent was not disclosed.

Sgt. Jack Mast, dispatched to the scene, said that he checked out the license plate number and received a report that the car was registered to a Detroit leasing firm, and that the car was leased to Mitchell.

Mitchell told Mast that he had parked the car in the driveway alongside his house, leaving the key in the ignition, and went to a party in Birmingham at 6:45 p.m. He was not aware that the vehicle had been stolen until he was notified by the authorities.

Insurance on the car is carried by the leasing company, it was said.

School Observes Language Weeks

The first two weeks of May were language weeks at St. Paul High. The French department began the languages celebration with its annual Societe Honoraire convocation at which new and old members of the organization were honored.

The membership roll call expanded to include Sally Cardwell, Suzanne Cormier, Susan De Ponio, Kathryn Desmet, Janeene Gilbert, Libby Kilbourne, Christelle Lewandowski, Deborah Maloney, Melanie McShane, Charles Robert, Marie Robert, James Webb, Charles Wilson, Rachelle Dwaiby, Julie Phillip and Lisa Tilton.

After the ceremony of the passing of the torch, reminiscent of the ancient Greek ceremony at the opening of the Olympic games, and the recitation in French of the axiom: "To know a man well you must know his language," the convocation listened to an address by the French Vice Consul Made-moiselle Nicole Girard-Reydet.

Old hands as well as novices in the language had an opportunity to test their understanding of its meaning, for Made-moiselle delivered her address entirely in French.

Following the convocation, the Vice Consul and the members of the society attended a reception in the all-purpose room. A portion of the room had been set aside as a miniature French cafe in which pastry and soft drinks were served. The remainder of the all-purpose room lodged displays prepared by the students.

The following week, May 8-12, St. Paul's celebrated Latin week. The opening of Latin week was heralded by the announcement of awards in the nationwide Auxilium Latinum examinations.

Three students, juniors David Fromm and James Kotz and sophomore Susan Smolenski received medals for summa cum laude performance on the examination.

Three students received maxima cum laude certificates for eminent merit; 24 received magna cum laude certificates for superior merit; 21 received cum laude certificates for honorable merit.

On Tuesday, the day for which Latinists had waited, the juniors and seniors were toasted at a Latin banquet. Freshman slaves served their Roman masters as they reclined in true Roman style at a sumptuous banquet of prunes, raisins, nuts, apples. (For those Romans with heartier appetites, pizza and coke were served.)

Following the banquet, while the Romans reclined in their native costumes, the sophomores presented several plays which they had first translated from the Latin into English, then back into Latin.

The remainder of the week gave students time to observe the Latin projects displayed in the all-purpose room. Two of the projects received first honors: A tracing of the Roman alphabet back from its Greek origins by Kathe Moran and the presentation of a miniature Roman Shop by Sue Smale and Chris Duffy.

Male members of the Latin classes enjoyed the machines of war designed by Ed Riell and Dan Mageau. The machines, operative, could direct an object to a target several feet away. Frank Schwartz' Roman trireme received a great deal of attention, also.

For the two weeks of the language department's celebration, no one could call French or Latin classes at all predictable.

Little League Results

WOODS-SHORES By Cindy Tew

Saturday make-up games were necessary this week because of swamped fields and drizzling rain. All of the major league teams squeezed in all of their weekly games, but a few minor leaguers will have to wait for a vacant field next week.

The American League Indians are still on the warpath, and have yet to lose a game. The National League Red Legs hot footed it into first with a win over the Giants and a Giant loss to the Phillies.

Indians	5	0	1.000
Red Sox	4	1	.800

Yankees	3	2	.600
Orioles	2	3	.400
Athletics	1	4	.200
White Sox	1	4	.200
Tigers	0	5	.000

The Indians continued their tremendous winning streak by clobbering the Athletics and Yankees. A nine-run fourth inning led the Indians to a 12-2 win over the Athletics. Jay Henderson, Bob Arthur and Bob Straetmans combined to pitch pitching talents for the win. Arthur contributed two key hits to the win.

The Yanks went down to the Indians 7-3 in a well-played defensive ball game. Bob Scully, Mark Promack and Rick Steiger were the star defensible.

The Senators overcame the White Sox in seven innings 5-3. Kevin Clinton pitched three innings for the win, and added two timely doubles. Ernie Ney-singled and drove in the winning run with a fine homerun.

The Senators downed the floundering Tigers 11-2. Tom Michaels pitched for the win while his team mates Larry Bauer and Kevin Clinton piled up two hits each.

The Red Sox shut out the White Sox 6-0 as Mike Fricke pitched three innings for the win. The Sox also kicked the Tigers to a 10-2 loss. Tom Ogle, Pete Belanger and Mike Fricke shared the win.

The Yanks won their third game of the season 6-4 over the Orioles. Jack Downing pitched the full game for the win, and contributed a homer to the win. Tom Otto smashed a lead-off homer.

The hitting and pitching of Dave Haddad, aided by Paul Ciarmiaro's two hits, helped the Indians jump off to a fast pace. The Indians whipped the Yankees but the Yankees' double play by Steve Morrison at short to Wrobel at first to Tim Riley at second highlighted the game. They defeated the A's with a 14-2 victory.

Dave Haddad's homerun aided by hits of Ed Albert, Torina, Mabon, and Quinn and Jon Worrell plus Jon's beautiful catch in the second accounted for the 14 runs. Marco Prete hit for the A's. Paul Ciarmiaro, and Rickie Torina's hits helped account for the Indians' 12-2 victory over the Orioles.

The mighty Indians met their match when Craig Pemberton pitched his Senators to a 6-4 win. Craig Dooms homered for the Senators. The Indian hitters included Worell, Alberts, Torina and Naeyaert.

The Senators defeated the White Sox 11-4 and the A's 8-2 for their other two wins. Their loss to the Orioles resulted from Tony Chaplow allowing only 3 hits. The White Sox' win behind the pitching of Steve Pemberton and his grand slam home run reinforced their tie with the Indians. White Sox' Wid Knight also homered in this game.

The Yankees, behind the consistent hitting of John Wrobel, Bill Kendall and Mike Maloff, had victories over the Orioles, A's, and White Sox. Bill Sanger of the Orioles homered and Wid Knight of the Sox again homered and the brothers Finan, Dick Redmond, Dave Luzadre, Kevin McKernan, and Bill Woeffel, all hit for the A's but the Yankees won out.

The White Sox, meanwhile, clobbered the Orioles, 13-1 and topped the hapless Athletics, 9-6, for their two wins. The 13 runs off the bats of Jeff Gardner, Jack Fillian, Phil Wettengel, Wid Knight, Ken Caramagno, Louie Bruno and Chris Dakoske. The game with the A's was called because of darkness and ended Saturday with WS's Wettengel and Bruno hitting in two walks batters to win for the A's. Dodgers	1	2
Pirates	1	2
Red Legs	1	2

As of last Saturday the Braves led the National League, overcoming the Cards, 9-3, the Pirates, 7-6, and the Giants, 14-2. The Braves-Giants game produced three homers—a grand slam by Braves' Don Briggs, one by Greg Thomas, and Giants' Tom Stanley; Giants' Peter Rodin, Eric Abrams and Mike Stavale also hit. The Braves-Cards game, pitched by Gordie Morrison, was highlighted by Braves hitters Joe and Don Briggs, Angelo Tocco, Ted Jacobs, Manalak, and Chuck Getz of the Cards.

The Pirates tied and resumed play Thursday. Chip Gauthier got three hits and Dan Killian two, but in the seventh, Bill Tocco walked, Gordie Morrison walked, and an error got Bill on third. A hit, by Ang Tocco, an error and an overthrow brought Bill in for the winning run.

The Giants, after their loss to the Braves, bounced back to win over the Cards, 3-2, and the Dodgers, 9-6. Against the Dodgers the Giants' Peter Rodin slammed two homers and Jamie Bird hit for the Dodgers. Against the Cards, Dave Smaha and Dale Hohlfeldt hit for the Cards with Mike Stavali and Peter Rodin hitting for the Giants.

The Dodgers, behind the combined pitching of Jamie Bird and Chuck Seeley, edged the Pirates, 7-4, for their only win. In this game, Mikhail caught what seemed a sure home run off the bat of Dan Killian and hit two doubles. Curt Klebba homered for the Dodgers. The Cards' lone victory came the same day at the expense of the Red Legs with Card Phil Bowersox and Bill Stewart responsible for the hit.

The Red Legs, however, won their second game 14-7. Red Legs' Dave Welleritter hit two homers, with Andy Michalek and Dave Lauth each getting two hits. The Pirates' only victory was over the Red Legs, 9-7, with Dan Killian earning the win. In the fifth, with the tying run on third, the Reds' Ken Welleritter hit a hard ball to Kouetter in center field, who threw to catcher Chip Gauthier, who caught the runner between third and home to end the inning. Steve Vene homered, and added to the hitting of Chip Gauthier, George Kouetter and Dan Killian. The game was won for the Pirates.

Rain and cold weather canceled last Monday evening's game between the Giants and Cardinals. The re-scheduled game, played Saturday afternoon, ended in a 4-2 victory for the Giants. Frank Pollina of the Cards collected two nice singles for his team, but it was a Giant game all the way. Steve Katsaros chalked up the win, Mario Carachioke the loss.

The Phillie-Dodger game played under conditions more suitable for ice hockey or football, was called at the end of the sixth inning in a 4-4 tie. The game was resumed Saturday, and though the Dodgers managed one run in their half of the 8th, three errors in the last half of the inning contributed the two runs and the game to the Phillies. Winning pitcher, Tom Dufour; loser, Fred Rohm.

Wednesday evening, still cold, damp and miserable, saw the Cards down the Braves 6-2. Brave pitcher Humphrey Abrigiani ended the first inning with a six-run deficit. He walked 4, hit 2, allowed 1 single and the game was settled then and there. Kevin Drea, Cardinal pitcher, picked up his first win of the season.

The Phillies-Braves game was rained out Thursday and played off Saturday afternoon at the High School with the Phillies victims of a 12-3 loss. The Braves team rained hits all over the place. Doug Mann led the onslaught with a triple, double and single. Bob Sweeney picked up a triple and every batter on the team banded out at least one hit. Bob Bowerman saved two runs for the Phillies with a fantastic catch in center field, but it was the only claim to fame for the Phillies. Mike Getz was the winning pitcher; Steve Haman suffered the loss.

Friday's game between the L. A. Dodgers and the Giants was a tight, well-played game from the very first pitch. After 6½ innings of play, the Giants had squeezed out two runs, though the Dodgers out-hit their opponents 6-3. The Dodgers had the bases loaded with no outs in the last of the seventh, but were unable to capture more than one run. Final tally: Giants 2, Dodgers 1. Bill Ehrlich was the winner, and Skip Lauth, who turned in an excellent performance for his team, the loser.

The Grosse Pointe Woods-Shores Babe Ruth League held its 13th Annual Opening Day on Sunday, May 14, despite over-cast skies and a raw wind. A parade of convertibles containing the ballplayers, managers, coaches and city dignitaries began at Parcels School, proceeded down Mack to The Grosse Pointe University School where the Opening Day ceremonies were held. The season was officially opened as Mayor Kenneth McLeod's first pitch to Councilman Marv Boutin was called a ball by Umpire Werner Lueckhoff.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL

In spite of the cold weather, an enthusiastic crowd gathered at Maire School for the opening games of the girls' softball league under the sponsorship of the Neighborhood Club.

The B.H.R.'s, from Kerby School, won their first game against the Junior Bunnies of Maire School. Both teams played a tight game up to the 5th inning, with the score 2 to 1 in favor of the B.H.R.'s. Then the Kerby players went on a hitting spree, which produced nine runs in the top of the 5th. The Bunnies held them to one run in the sixth. The B.H.R.'s came through with five more runs in the 7th to a final score of 17 to 1.

Congratulations to: Cathy Lavins, Janet McConnell, Cindy Pierce, Nancy Langel, Martha Ash, Karen Mahoney, Lisa Speer, Micky Kelly, Karen Triacoff, Barbara Foster, Linda Morrow, Linda Darragh, and Sherry Tate, of the B.H.R.'s, for a fine performance and to Drema Kalajian, Sue Berres, Kathy McBrien, Karen Charlton, Susan Unger, Pam Cain, Kellie Davis, Gail Cox, Amy Roger, Sarah Matthews, Sarah Simpson, Debbie Carr, Gina Davis, Ronda Martinez, Carolyn Williams, Geri Crane, Kim Shoemaker of the Junior Bunnies and their manager and coach, Rosetta Kalajian and Assistant Coach, Guido Sabella.

The Snoopy Sockers got off to a big first inning—having scored two runs on Mimi Garrett's three base hit. Then when bases were loaded, Rhondi Johnson hit a grand slam. A total of seven runs were scored in that inning.

However, the Peanuts were not to be denied. They came back with four runs in the first inning. But the Snoopy Sockers kept building up their lead each inning adding eight runs in the second, three in the third and fourth innings, nine in the fifth and six in the sixth inning. Home runs were hit by the Snoopy's pitcher, Martha Steen, and their 3rd baseman, Mary Ellen Kondorus, in addition to Johnson's 'grand slam.'

The Snoopy Sockers made three double plays—a real sight to see. For the St. Clare Peanuts Beth Kuhnline made the first out of the game pulling down a line drive over second base. Lucy Detloff was three for three at the plate, along with Patty Ghesquire, who hit our only home run (the second one of the game). Babs Cobb pitched a good game despite the score. The team's batting average was over .500.

Council of Governments

The proposed Council of Governments has stirred up a controversy that appears to be more than usually beclouded by misunderstanding, guesswork, unfounded rumors and surmises. It has been used as an opportunity to take pot shots at local officials including councilmen, mayors, school board members and others. There have been two public meetings on the subject and the result of all this activity and intellectual lethargy seems to have created, among other things, a considerable band of mug-wumps. For the completely unenlightened, a mug-wump is an individual who can't seem to make up his mind. He is a fence-straddler, with his mug on one side and his wump on the other.

Now comes William G. Butler, Mayor of the City of Grosse Pointe Farms, who has seen fit to issue a statement on the matter as he sees it. In our opinion, it filters the roily waters and should do much to provide a basis for understanding the proposal. In the hope that many will read it, particularly those who seem disturbed without reason, we are happy to provide this space for its publication, in full. The statement follows:

A few weeks ago, Grosse Pointe Farms was asked to join a new organization known as the Council of Governments. The Council of Grosse Pointe Farms, accordingly, decided to look into the organization to determine what it is, how it works, and (most importantly) how it can benefit the City of Grosse Pointe Farms and its citizens.

We found that the Council of Governments is a voluntary organization of governmental units (counties, townships, cities and school districts) in the six county area which includes Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Monroe, St. Clair and Washtenaw. It was created on the recommendation of the Board of Trustees of the Metropolitan Fund by a Committee of One Hundred consisting of 100 outstanding and public spirited citizens. Its purposes are to foster among governmental units in Southeastern Michigan a cooperative effort in considering, discussing and resolving problems, policies and plans that are common and regional in nature with maximum efficiency, economy and effectiveness. Its functions are (i) to provide a forum for discussing regional problems, (ii) to furnish an organization for the effective solution of such problems, (iii) to provide a means for planning for regional development and conservation, (iv) to furnish liaison with other governmental units at the local, state and Federal level, and (v) to provide technical aid in resolving specific regional problems. The issues which will require attention at the outset on a regional basis include air pollution, public safety, refuse disposal, sewage disposal, transportation, water supply, water transmission and water pollution.

The proposed format of the Council of Governments is something like the United Nations in that it will have a General Assembly of all participating governmental units and an Executive Committee of 35 members; each governmental unit will have one vote in the General Assembly. It will also have a professional staff whose duties will be divided into the areas of general services; health, education and welfare; public safety; public works; and regional planning. The cost of participation in the organization is based on population; in the case of Grosse Pointe Farms it will cost $875.00.

Thus we found that the Council of Governments is a purely voluntary organization set up primarily to create a forum for discussing area-wide problems and a vehicle for accomplishing the programs which will be beneficial to all of the members. It is interesting to note that there are in excess of 400 governmental units in the six-county area and that about 125 of them have already indicated their intention of participating in the program. This is enough to enable the Council of Governments to begin to organize, to prepare by-laws and to take other initial steps.

We then considered what the Council of Governments would not undertake to do. Of primary importance in this area is the fact that the Council of Governments would not in any way undermine the sovereignty of local governmental units. These governmental units (including Grosse Pointe Farms) will continue to be governed solely by their own elected officials. Specifically, this means among other things that (i) local parks will still be under the direct control of local government,

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Why did the residents of Grosse Pointe Park vote down the bond proposal as presented by the Plan Commission last November? Surely anyone who studied the brochure should have realized it called for a well-balanced park and recreation development — something desperately needed in the Park.

A well-balanced park and recreation program does not just include swimming, but calls for a variety of activities as well as safe sanitary swimming conditions. Ice-skating facilities eventually would have been improved; as it is now, the skaters at Three Mile Park don't even have a shelter to change into skates, let alone a concession stand to buy hot chocolate, coffee, etc., or one to purchase soft drinks and ice-cream in the summer. Additional parking would have been made available plus a marina capable of handling more pleasure craft, thereby increasing the Park's revenue which would help offset the operating costs of the park and recreation program.

Our children need and deserve a decent supervised playground which maintains ice-skating rinks, ball parks (baseball and football), swimming pools and picnic areas to keep residents, both young and old, healthy and busy.

The citizens of Grosse Pointe Park should be ashamed at the lack of city recreation facilities offered to our youth. Boys and girls who live in the Park have that feeling of competition and need for athletic companionship. They also want a decent supervised place to play. Grosse Pointe Park has been lax in providing such activity. THEREFORE, and NOW, we should develop the space and areas available for our recreation WATERFRONT and THREE MILE PARKS — a gift to our children and future generations, is our only space available, and so much is going to waste at Three Mile Park which could be put to such good use.

We must keep our children, girls and boys, busy — playing — active — under supervision in well-lighted, controlled and organized play. Two pools — YES — count the swimmers. Enough athletic fields to accommodate boys and girls in active sports. Every vacant lot is being built upon and more and more children added to the Park.

Can't the citizens provide and maintain a high-class playground and park for their very own? Count the children; don't they rate something? If a well-rounded recreation program was provided for our youth, would it really cost too much? NO! Keep our youngsters active, busy, interested, playing and growing together, exchanging ideas, feeling a part of the Park, being a member. Don't you agree such a program is necessary? Let us be the envy of all. We have our chance — the two Park locations could be the answer. There is a desperate need for improvement and the opportunity is ours.

As a fellow citizen remarked at the voting polls last November — "I was against the building of a pool at Three Mile Park at first, then I thought — what have the children to do? Where can they play? We are not assessed for street, sewers, etc. as other communities and although my children are no longer at home, the other children of the Park should have a place to play. Three Mile Park is the answer. It would only cost us cigarette money."

A wise man who is thinking of others, and who lives in the Three Mile area. It isn't that our children don't want to play, it's their parents. That's why I say, WAKE UP GROSSE POINTE PARK CITIZENS, let us get our parks up-to-date and provide the necessary improvements to both of our parks. You will be proud of yourself!

ment, these items justify our joining the Council of Governments, at least on an experimental basis.

There are a few other points I would like to discuss: 1—No one is more interested in the welfare of Grosse Pointe Farms than the members of its Council. Thus if it develops that our membership in the Council of Governments is in any way detrimental to Grosse Pointe Farms or its citizens, we shall immediately resign.

2—For many years the Grosse Pointe community as a whole and perhaps Grosse Pointe Farms in particular have presented a public image of aloofness and unwillingness to become involved in community projects. In my opinion this public image is completely unjustified as evidenced by the outstanding record of public service of many of our citizens. Along these lines, I would like to see Grosse Pointe Farms participate in the program of the Council of Governments to illustrate further our willingness to participate actively in the discussion and possible solution of mutual area-wide public problems. There is no fence around Grosse Pointe Farms; and I would like to have everyone recognize this fact.

3—Most of us in Grosse Pointe Farms feel strongly, I think, that public problems should be solved if possible by local government; and that the State or Federal government should only take over in cases where such action is absolutely necessary. This philosophy, however, places on local governments the responsibility of making a good faith effort to solve their own problems; and, if they fail in this area, we can not complain about the State Government and then the Federal Government stepping in to fill the void. The Council of Governments is designed to give local governments an opportunity to solve their own problems; and I think it behooves us to take advantage of this opportunity and to participate actively in the program.

4—Since the Council of Governments is now an established fact, it is desirable, if not mandatory, for us to participate in order to know what is going on there and to influence policy, if possible, into channels which will be best suited to serve the interests of the citizens of Grosse Pointe Farms. We also should be in a position to exercise some degree of restraint where necessary. Nothing is accomplished by abstention; something may be accomplished by participation.

5—Finally, I want to stress, once again, that our participation in the program is purely voluntary and on an experimental basis. If we find that our membership is in any way detrimental to the interests of Grosse Pointe Farms or its citizens, we will immediately resign.

WILLIAM G. BUTLER,
Mayor

What Goes On at Your Library

By Virginia Leonard

By Peggy Schmitz
Guest Columnist

One of my most interesting and valuable experiences recently occurred when I moderated a panel of young adults discussing the books and ideas that are meaningful to them today. In the wake of newspaper headlines, a dulls sometimes lose sight of the fact that teenagers are bubbling over with exciting and stimulating ideas, and at the same time painfully involved in their own search for identity.

Their reading tastes reflect this — when I asked the kids what they wanted to discuss, they quickly rejected what they call the "silly" books of proms and hot-rods and selected a mature and thoughtful group of titles. All are books that explore the basic, eternal problems of human beings, that explain, in the words of one panelist, "how people have thought about themselves and their world."

The books the panel discussed were ANIMAL FARM and 1984 by George Orwell, CATCHER IN THE RYE by Salinger, GOLDING'S LORD OF THE FLIES, A SEPARATE PEACE by Knowles, Mark Twain's HUCKLEBERRY FINN, Huxley's BRAVE NEW WORLD, A MEMBER OF THE WEDDING by Carson McCullers, and THE UGLY AMERICAN by Burdick.

The great thing that these books have in common, say the teenagers, is that "they make us think." They are books that help them to see themselves and others in a new light. That these books do indeed stimulate their thinking is evidenced in some of these random comments:

"People usually know what their good points are, but it's hard to admit your faults — or even see them. When you read a book that points out faults, you can sometimes identify with them — it helps you to see your own faults and that can bring about a better understanding of all people."

"It's easy to identify with the boy in A SEPARATE PEACE — a lot of us have his feeling of insecurity, and it makes life a little easier to know you're not the only one who feels that way."

"Huckleberry Finn shows many of the qualities lacking in us today. He had no religious affiliation, but he had built-in morals."

"Few people really believe in a Utopia anymore. There is a lot of idealism floating around in the world, but very little of it is translated into action."

"ANIMAL FARM shows us that the only thing holding us back from progressing is the selfishness in man."

"Greed is the outward manifestation of a person's need to make something of himself."

"But without greed, you'd have no competition. There are different degrees of greed, and some are necessary — you can't get rid of greed without destroying some of the basic human qualities."

"Can you change human nature, or, if you can, what do you have left?"

"BRAVE NEW WORLD showed a perfect society — it worked. But people were puppets. Perhaps Huxley was saying that human life as we know it now has more value than the goals we always strive for."

"We can't have true equality, because everyone has different talents, but we should offer everyone the same opportunity, that would be fair."

"Economic equality and justice before the law aren't enough — we have to have social equality too for happiness — not cliquishness and this tendency to gang up."

I don't here want to stir up any more controversy on the question of censorship, but I would like to toss in one of the most intelligent statements I've heard on the subject: "We know that everything in the world isn't beautiful, so censorship is useless. To combat an idea, you must present a better idea, not censorship."

You will agree that these words offer a picture of a thoughtful and concerned generation. Like all young people, they are idealistic, but unlike many of their forebears, they do not blame the previous generation for all the disasters in the world. They are taking a long, hard look at human nature and accepting it realistically for what it is — a very sound step toward solving any problem, in my estimation.

One of the most encouraging facts of the evening to me was the real horror the teenagers evinced when they talked of the evil that spreads over the land when people are urged to hate and kill the enemy (one of which is always with us, of course). This is a phenomenon enlarged and graphically portrayed in Orwell's 1984, by the way. No draft card burners they, but they believe that one can be patriotic without hate and mass hysteria. I think my favorite comment of the evening was from a young man who said urgently, but quietly, "You just don't hate someone because the government is having difficulty. You try to solve the problem, but hate should not enter into it."

It makes me most hopeful.

Mischakoff Will Retire

Mischa Mischakoff will retire as concertmaster of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in August, 1968, he disclosed last week.

The noted 72-year-old violinist said he plans to complete one more year with the Symphony, including the Meadow Brook Music Festival in the summer of 1968, then devote himself to teaching in Detroit.

He has lived in Detroit since becoming Symphony concertmaster in 1952.

Mischakoff's unparalleled career includes 55 years spent as concertmaster of several of the world's greatest orchestras, including the Leningrad Symphony and Bolshoi Theatre Orchestra in his native Russia, the Warsaw Philharmonic, the New York Symphony under Walter Damrosch, the Philadelphia Orchestra under Stokowski, the Chicago Symphony under Stock, the NBC Symphony under Toscanini and the Detroit Symphony under Paul Paray and Sixten Ehrling.

His longest tenure was for 15 years with the NBC Symphony, though he will surpass that record next fall in beginning his 16th year with the Detroit Symphony.

In a letter informing Symphony President Robert B. Semple of his decision to retire, Mischakoff spoke of his long career and added, "It has been my good fortune to have been associated with all of the great men of music of my time. . . . I plan to keep our home here and to devote myself to teaching—trying to fulfill my wish to pass on to many others some of the skills and fruits of my long experience."

The Symphony has not yet chosen a successor to Mischakoff, who was born in Proskurov in the Province of Podol, Russia, on April 16, 1895, and was graduated from the St. Petersburg Conservatory at the age of 16, winning the Gold Medal as best violin student and the Anton Rubinstein Prize as the outstanding student at the conservatory.

After a most successful decade spent in launching a brilliant concert career, he left Russia in 1921, eventually arriving in America as an "unknown" in 1922. Though he knew no English, he entered a contest to appear as a soloist with the New York Philharmonic and was declared the winner over 500 contestants.

Since then, he has pursued his career as concertmaster and soloist without interruption. He has never missed a concert.

He has always been an enthusiast of fine violins and owns an outstanding collection.

Mischakoff was married to violinist Hortense Moritz in 1937. They have two sons and a daughter.

Cookout Slated By Girl Scouts

Outdoor food, fun and friendship will be the order of the day on Tuesday, May 23, when 250 Girl Scouts from Barnes Elementary School and Our Lady Of The Sea will gather for their annual Neighborhood Number 113 Cookout.

Twelve troops, ranging from Brownies to Senior Scouts, will meet after school at the Woods Park to concoct assorted campfire cookery and enjoy the opportunity of sharing skills and fun learned through scouting. The girls will be joined in their activities by some 40 adult leaders, committee mothers and neighborhood team workers, all of whom are Girl Scout members. Menus and activities will be planned by individual troops so that girls may practice the specific outdoor skills and challenges in which they are currently interested.

Troops will join in a song fest after dinner, to conclude one of the favorite "happenings" of the Girl Scout year.

Shopping at Super Market Fun When One Plays Game

By Pepper Whitelaw

The Super Market Game is one of us play at least once a week. It's a game that requires skill, patience and daring. Part of the game is keeping your eye out continuously for the cart pushers... like the "devil-may-care" driver who approaches each aisle as though she were an entrant in the Grand Prix, or the "I-wonder-what-to-buy" shopper, who isn't very well organized.

This type rarely has a list... hasn't the vaguest idea what to have on her weekly menu. (She usually has at least eight children at home and spends an astronomical amount on groceries.) Then there is the "hen-pecked husband"... he hates to shop... but has been bamboozled into it. He is usually smoking a cigar and frowning at the ladies who are shopping in slacks and Bermuda shorts. The "roadblocker" is my pet peeve. This one wedges her cart across the aisle and dares you to move it.

The mother who uses the cart as a "Kiddies' Express" is something else! She can be seen, (and her children heard), pushing her cart gaily along the aisle cautioning the children to watch out for the customers as she conveys them dangerously close to the products on the shelves.

The little ones are usually standing at the far end of the cart and having a ball grabbing at everything in sight. (The more precious ones are changing the little white price tickets in front of the shelves).

If you manage to survive the cart crisis... you find yourself at the checkout counter. (Phase two of the game). This is where you play "Learn-all-about-your-fellow-shopper." For example, the young gal in front of you with the neatly stacked piles of twos of everything, (consisting mostly of ground beef and tv dinners)... who removes her money to pay for her groceries from an envelope carefully marked "Groceries for the Week of..." (remember those days?)... is undoubtedly a newlywed.

The man behind her with all the baby formula and cereal in the cart obviously has just brought his wife and new baby home from the hospital. He must have other young children at home because he has "Whamo" cereal, and a passel of lollipops to use as "keep-quiet, your mom's resting bribes."

An elderly grandmother is next in line. She doesn't go for those new fangled, instant products. She has all the makings for homemade bread, cakes and soup in her cart and turns her nose up at the modern day woman.

The attractive matron, smoking a cigaret and tapping her foot, has a very busy social calendar. She just can't understand why she should waste her time waiting in a checkout line. Her cart usually contains imported wines, lobster and pre-cocktail munchies.

The little girl with dirt on her face is obviously a victim of a poor planning mother. She doesn't enjoy a minute of her wait. She has more important things to do—like playing ball and sticking pins in her Barbie doll.

The Most Impatient The last one in line is the working gal. She still has her washing to do, a hair appointment to keep and a dozen errands to run. She is the most impatient of all. This is her day off and she can't understand why everyone else isn't as well organized as she is. She shops with a list, budgets every spare minute of her time, and doesn't even have a minute to say "hi" to the checkout gal.

Next time you are in your supermarket play the "Game." See if you can't spot one or two of these types yourself. It's lots of fun and makes a routine shopping trip a real adventure!

Lake Front Estate

Presented above is one of the very few luxury properties available along the Grosse Pointe shore line. Built "For The Ages" of solid masonry construction, and maintained in mint condition, it offers the perfect home for the executive who wants, and can afford, the best.

A second home, somewhat smaller than main dwelling, is also located on the site. The two, however, can be sold separately or together, as they are so situated they both provide a beautiful view of the lake.

The nicely landscaped grounds of almost 4 acres, attractive stone entranceway, and the picturesque shady approach to the dwelling, provide a vista which few homes in the Pointe can equal. To such beauty, add two fine homes, reminiscent of an era long passed, and you have an estate, the like of which will probably never again be available in this area.

LAKE SHORE ROAD... GROSSE POINTE SHORES

All you need is a boat to reach these enchanting places.

This ultra modern type home was designed and built for a new way of life—the casual and delightful mode enjoyed by people in California, Florida and the Tropical Isles.

Entertaining takes on a flair not generally experienced anywhere in this section of the country and parties become glamorous without effort or expense. There is also the Japanese influence as expressed by the Shoji windows and doors which were imported from Japan; and the living room fireplace and chimney, constructed of matched Colorado Red Stone, are almost beyond description.

Add these features to a spacious landscaped site facing the lake, the road at the rear, and you have a home that is not only different and exciting, but also liveable to the "Nth" degree.

Brownell Girls To Stage Show

"Expo 67 - Man and His World" is the theme that 54 ninth grade girls from Brownell Junior High School have selected for a fashion show they will give on Wednesday evening, May 24, in the Boys' Gym at Brownell. The show will be presented at 8 for the Brownell P.T.A., which will be holding its regular meeting at 7:30 that same night.

Efforts and preparations for the show have been coordinated with the clothing classes at Brownell. Each of the girls, who are all homemaking students of Mrs. Evelyn Toll, made the fashions they will model. Creative students lent their talents to the show's production.

Like the fair itself, the fashions to be presented next Wednesday evening are works of great ingenuity and are kaleidoscopes of color. Four different scenes will make up the show.

Scene One, "Four Time," will include a variety of daytime dresses that could be worn when visiting the pavilions at Expo. Narrator of this scene will be Ann Schiessler; writers are Sue Smith and Sue Buttrey. "Amusements—Beach and Discotheque" will be Scene Two. It will be narrated by Sue Buttrey; its writers are Laurel Bassett and Shelly Boyd.

Various girls will be wearing slacks, bathing suits, beach robes and mod fashions that could be worn at Expo when visiting amusement areas there. Scene Three is written by Jo Werner and Anne Spitzley and is entitled "Diplomatic Reception." Dress gowns and dresses that one would expect to see at a reception for world diplomats at Montreal during fair time will be presented in this part of the show. It will be narrated by Betty Saltmarsh.

The fourth and last scene, "Night on the Town," will feature suits and coat dress ensembles suitable for nightlife in Montreal. Writer is Carol Steininger, narrator is Sue Smith.

In charge of scenery, music and lighting is producer Shelly Boyd. The two Expo Guides are Beth Meloy and Lynda Dupuis and Tour Director is Laurel Mace. The wardrobe mistress for the girls in the first hour clothing class is Sue Trentacosta; assistant is Carol Loeffler. For the second hour class Jan Schultz is wardrobe mistress; assistant is Sandy McLachlan.

Young ideas, hard work and originality should combine to make the fashion show next Wednesday a success!

Co-chairman, with Mrs. Lanz, of the "Experiment" project in Detroit is Charles Barlow, of Stephens road. Kay Lanz and "Bud" Barlow both hope Detroit's first three "Experiment" ambassadors are the forerunners of many more, in many years to come . . .

"Summer Prelude"

Heads high, hope in their hearts, (if one believed in summer, it must SURELY come), the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club Women's Social committee has titled its May 24 bridge luncheon and fashions by Jacobson's show "Summer Prelude."

Chairman and co-chairman of the party, which begins with cocktails at noon, are Mrs. Robert J. Jay and Mrs. Norman Werthmann. Committee members include the Mesdames Michael C. Burke, John D. Hitchens, Lawrence Kelly and R. Frederick Kolowich. General chairman is Mrs. Clarence A. Dahl.

Three Months To See The World

Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Merrill, of Stanton lane, returned just a while back from a three months' voyage around the world, on the S.S. Iberia. And they had a simply fabulous time!

They boarded the ship in Port Everglades, Fla., proceeded to Nassau, then through the Panama Canal, (after a short stop in Acapulco, Mexico), then on to Hawaii and the Fiji Islands, where the famous Fiji Marching Band greeted them at the dock.

They became "land creatures" again in New Zealand, taking several shore days to tour the country. In Australia, friends they had met on other travels were proud to show off their own country . . .

From Ceylon, Mrs. Merrill flew to Agra, India, to fulfill a dream: Seeing the Taj Mahal. "I had the good fortune to have the same guide Jackie Kennedy had when she was there," Mrs. M. reports. "He is a professor of Social Science at the University of Agra . . ."

Before rejoining the ship at Bombay, she flew to Jaipur and New Delhi.

The Iberia docked at Aden to refuel, but it wasn't safe to go shore: A revolution had been brewing. "The coming of a United Nations Commission the next day seemed to intensify the situation," the Merrills recall.

But they did get ashore in Egypt, to revisit all the places they remembered from a previous journey, eight years past . . .

A brief stop on the Island of Malta was followed by a memorable week in Paris and the Chateau County of France. And then it was time to go, back to The States . . .

Now isn't that a wonderful way to miss a perfectly miserable Michigan winter?

She'd be Happy With Any Bike

Does any one have an old 24-inch girl's bicycle they no longer have any use for, and would like to give it away? The Park Police Department came into information that an eight-year-old girl, whose family is extremely poor, would like to have one very much.

Police Chief Arthur Louwers said that a woman approached him prior to the bike auction at the police station on Saturday, May 6, and asked for a two-wheeler for the little girl. The woman was informed, however, that all the bicycles had been numbered and tagged and made ready for the sale.

The young miss, whose name was withheld because, as the chief said, the family did not wish to expose its poverty, and has no hope of getting a bike.

Chief Louwers said that if any one has an old two-wheeler, a girl's bike, even if it is in need of repair, that they might like to give away, to bring it to the Park Police Station, at the rear rear of the Municipal Building, 15115 East Jefferson.

Regardless of how much repair it needs, the men of the department will put the bike into operating condition and see to it that the eight-year-old's dream comes true.

who, where and whatnot

by whoozit

Now, we KNOW . . . you're all planning to spend next Thursday afternoon dashing about The Pointe, visiting six private kitchens featured on this year's Cottage Hospital Kitchen Tour, sponsored by the Hospital's Women's Auxiliary, so we thought you might be interested in a brief preview of the Tour, a few pointers on what-to-look-for-where . . .

At Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Bauer's home . . . in Buckingham road, watch for the "hidden laundry room" in a large, Spanish style, (tile floor, cedar-beamed ceiling, gold and black decor), remodeled kitchen with dinette area. And be SURE to notice the chandelier, (made by Donald Kaake, of Plum street), and the woodwork, (vintage oak, in a Cathedral design) . . .

At Mr. and Mrs. Murray Sales' home . . . in Audubon road, see how effective turquoise and olive wallpaper is in an English country-style setting. Look down—that's a "brick" floor you're walking on—and up—that's a natural beamed ceiling. Take time to study the Old English lanterns over the free-form counter, the Bottle Glass cupboards above the adjoining bar area . . .

At Dr. and Mrs. Robert Skau's home . . . in Washington road, note how well dark patina kitchen cabinets complement a dining area done in blue and white checked paper, foil for tan cafe traverse curtains. Don't forget to look "up" here, too—those are smoked hurricane chimneys covering each light on the chandelier over the dinette table, the ceiling is beamed . . . How do you like that built-in desk, with a brick wall behind it? . . .

At Mr. and Mrs. David Wangberg's home . . . in Sunningdale drive, let your feet sink into blue-green tweed kitchen carpeting, (Mrs. W. insists it's easy to keep clean). Take a second glance at those blue and green print tie-backs catching the white, ruffled curtains in the dinette bay—they match the wallpaper print. Don't miss the small family room adjoining the Early American cooking area . . .

At Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Tappan's home . . . in Alger place, see just how lovely a new kitchen, in Mediterranean decor, (gold draperies with green and gold pineapple print wallpaper, floors and counters in white-beige tones), can be—and just how "handy," (every imaginable appliance—cooking aid pop ups—pulls out from SOMEWHERE for immediate use), too . . . Peek into the Marine Room before you leave. It's right next door to the kitchen; notice how shutters leading from one room to the other make serving wonderfully easy . . .

At Mr. and Mrs. George Preston's home . . . in Beaconsfield avenue, marvel at Mr. Preston's "do-it-yourself" skill. He DID IT HIMSELF — all of it — laying that attractive brick floor in the cooking area, building that marvelous snack bar divider between the kitchen proper and the family room, with its new "easy-care" carpet and a firehood in one corner . . . Note how the turquoise draperies EXACTLY MATCH the wallpaper . . . When you're in the hall leading to the kitchen, watch for the convenient, built-in bar . . .

And, whatever you do, don't forget . . . one of the most important stops on the Tour, the Cottage Hospital Nurses' Residence in Ridge road, where tea will be dispensed and baked goods sold, during Tour hours, from 1 to 5 o'clock.

Now for a Final Paragraph . . . nod of appreciation to the ladies who arranged all this: general chairmen Mrs. Allen Forrest and Mrs. Arnold Davidson; bake sale chairmen Mrs. C. Lloyd Yohe; ticket chairman Mrs. Ralph Ladd; hostess chairman Mrs. O.D. Herron; patroness chairman Mrs. Ralph Quinones; tea table chairman Mrs. Beatrice Block; and "flag" chairman, (she deserves a DOUBLE nod of appreciation — how would you like to spend a whole day placing flags at strategic outdoor locations to point out homes that will be on the Tour?), Mrs. Raymond L. Dharte, Jr.

PILFERINGS

We may live without friends; we may live without books; But civilized man cannot live without cooks. —Bulwer-Lytton

A charming, mid-eightyish lady we know recieved two ducks from her neighbor upon his return from a hunting trip. Later he asked her how she liked them, and she answered candidly, "Well, I didn't know how to pick them, or clean them, or cook them, so I just took them out in the back yard and buried them." —Reader's Digest

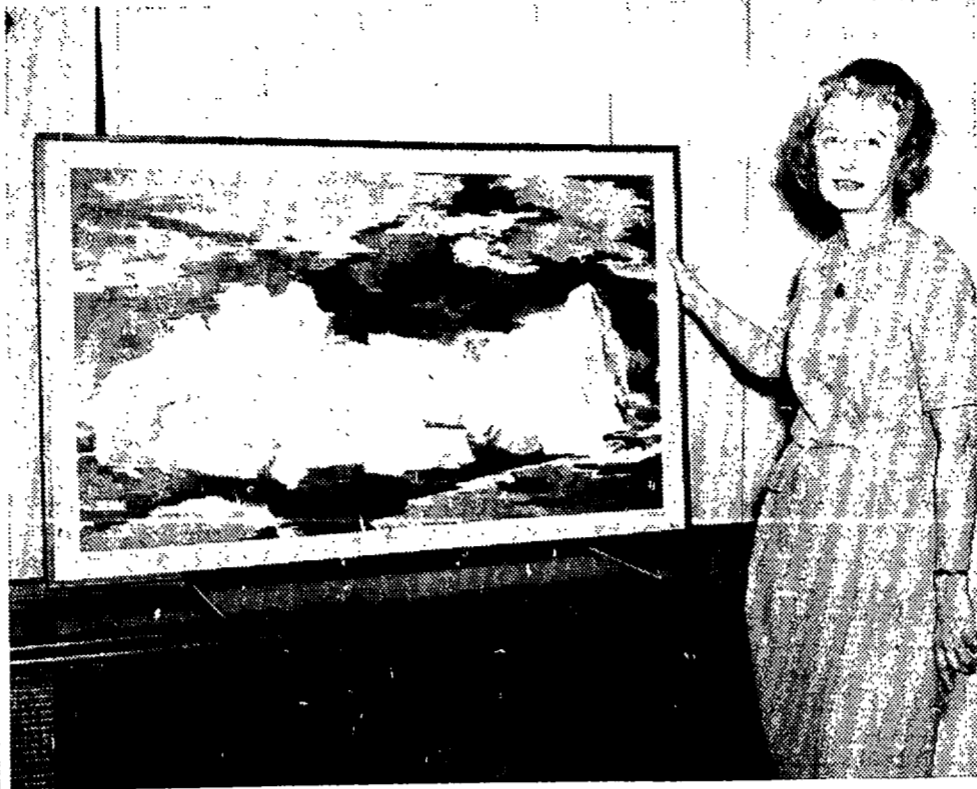

The discovery of a new dish does more for human happiness than the discovery of a new star. —Brillat-Savarin

League Makes Inspection Of Recreational Facilities

The "Go-See Trip of Recreational Facilities in the Pointes" conducted by the Grosse Pointe League of Women Voters May 10 met with great success and served as a stimulant in the League's current study and evaluation of recreation. The entire morning was filled with interest as the loaded bus travelled to, through and by all the Pointe parks and schools. The bus for the tour was provided through the courtesy of Don Hallmann, Woods Recreation director, the Woods Recreation Department and the Kiwanis Club. Driver was Niel Newman of the Woods Recreation Department. Thomas Kressbach, Grosse Pointe City Manager, Tom Reynolds, Park Recreation director, Mr. Hallmann, Lt. George Laforest, Juvenile Officer of the Shores, and John Defoe, Farms Public Service director, represented the municipalities. Each gave information and answered questions concerning their respective parks while those present viewed the facilities. Pertinent information was also given about the schools and playgrounds along the bus route. The bus completed its tour at noon and a luncheon was held at the War Memorial. Featured speakers were Ed Krattli of the Neighborhood Club, Richard Kay of Community Services and John Lak of the War Memorial. The speakers, all of whom are members of the Grosse Pointe Recreation Study Commission, reviewed the Recreation Survey recently completed by the Commission. A variety of opinions and comments were made during the discussion after the luncheon, including the need for open-space areas in the Pointes for free, unstructured play, and the coordination of efforts in programs to benefit the entire community. The question concerning consolidation of recreation with the possibility of an advisory board with reciprocal agreements and programs among municipalities was brought up, as was the need for a central agency to disseminate information on recreational schedules. Communication between the recreational groups and the residents continues to improve as types of programs offered and interest in these programs increases. The situation in the community may not be so much one of lack of acreage as lack of effective use of existing acreage.

Pointer of Interest

MRS. DOUGLAS L. SMART, OF WESTCHESTER ROAD

By Janet Mueller

Once upon a time, Eleanor Smart decided to try a "different" medium of artistic expression. "I took a course in sculpture," she recalls, "and I enjoyed it very much . . .

"But I didn't think it's possible, with the limited time I have at my disposal, to do a good job in both (painting and sculpture) media . . .

So Eleanor placed the lamp she had made, a textured, Oriental-motif base built up with clay and baked, on a living room table, and returned to her painting.

Mrs. Smart is no Sunday Painter. Art, for her, is much more than a hobby.

She's studied at the Society of Arts and Crafts under Sarkis, Midener and Palazzola, elsewhere with Weddige, Kamrowsky, Lee-Smith, Liederowsky, and in the East with Brockman.

Has Had Eight Shows

She's had eight one-(wo)man shows. Two years ago, she was invited by the Muskegon Institute of Arts to exhibit in its Main Hall. Last spring, she had a showing in the three upstairs galleries of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Less than two weeks ago, a display from her recent series, "A Western Artist Looks at Japan," closed at Liggett School.

In 1959, she exhibited in a group showing in Paris at the Raymond Duncan Galleries. That same fall, she had a one-woman show in New York at the Liguoa Duncan Galleries.

She has shown many times at the Michigan Artists Annual, the Michigan State Fair and numerous other regional exhibitions.

A member of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters, the Detroit Society of Women Painters and Sculptors and the Grosse Pointe Artists Association, she exhibits regularly in the annual showings of these organizations and has received frequent awards.

Two Now on Display

She's currently represented, with two paintings, in the Grosse Pointe Artists Association's 29th Annual Exhibition, on display now through June 2 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Last spring, the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters gave her a purchase award for her collage, "The Old Law." Selected for the Academy's permanent collection, it has been loaned for an indefinite period to Grand Valley College.

"Of course, there are many paintings I'm reluctant to part with," she muses. "I was very fond of 'The Old Law.' . . . But there's no point in just having paintings around; it's far better for them to find homes of their own, where they're wanted and appreciated . . .

Her paintings are now in many private and public collections. Monsanto Chemical Company purchased a large abstract, "The Force of Creation," for its

A note of interest is that, theoretically, the Neighborhood Club is primarily aimed at children. Community Services is considered instruction for adults, and the War Memorial exists as a "natural, cultural outlet."

Recreation surveys seem to be "in" right now. The Grosse Pointe Park Mayor's Advisory committee on Recreation was represented by F. C. Ford, Mrs. Douglas Sargent, Mrs. LaVerne Biasell, Mrs. Larry Hawkins, Mrs. Phil Wetengel and Mrs. James Webers.

The above-mentioned luncheon speakers represented the Grosse Pointe Recreation Study Commission while the League of Women Voters Resource committee on Recreation was comprised of Mrs. Dwight Hendricks, Mrs. H. Justin Davidson, Mrs. James Webers, Mrs. Paul Holvoord and Mrs. William Waugaman.

of cities and far-off, exotic places," she says. "I keep thinking what fun it would be to do a series of abstractions on Cities of the World. I've already done one on Tokyo, (back from the Liggett exhibit, it's hanging now in the Smart stairwell), one on Florence, one on Istanbul — I've never been to Istanbul, but I painted my idea of what I THINK Istanbul would be like . . .

She starts a painting by making many drawings, then begins to eliminate all but the very best designs.

"I never know, when I start, precisely how a painting will turn out," she maintains.

Usually, she paints in a series, a group of works on a given theme, executed in a similar vein, (and, therefore, lending themselves to exhibition as a whole), but sometimes other themes, interpretations, demand expression:

Right to Change

"I think it's perfectly valid for an artist to wake up one morning and suddenly say, 'I want to do something different!' My painting, after all, is more for me than anyone else; if not, then it begins to be a commercial thing, and that's very difficult, heart-breaking . . .

Her subject matter determines her choice of media. She's been doing a lot of acrylics recently, (acrylics are fast-drying, plastic-based paints which produce exceptionally bright and clear color effects), but her "Japan" series stressed collage.

"I felt that the medium of collage was best to express the space relationships and subtle color I found in Japan."

Currently, having readied her studio and sized her canvases for a long period of hard work, Eleanor is beginning to translate her "round-the-world tour into two series of paintings. The first will be a group on Cairo, the second on East Africa.

She's Not Satisfied

She's already completed one of the Cairo paintings, (actually, it's Number Two in the Egyptian series, but Number One remains secluded at her studio. "It's finished, but I'm not satisfied with it," Eleanor says), the interpretation of a "Son et Lumiere" pageant at the Pyramids with which she is pictured above.

"When we were at the Pyramids that evening, when I saw the different-colored lights playing on the monuments, all I could think of was, 'What a good abstraction that would make!'" she explains.

The finished painting is long, (the desert, after all, is wide), rich with gold leaf, (light playing on kings' tombs at night), very "solid," eternal in feeling.

Like all artists, Eleanor is interested in the work of other artists. She "discovered" the most recent addition to the Smarts' living room decor, a fascinating bit of African sculpture, at a "little Indian store" around the corner from the New Stanley Hotel in Nairobi, purchased it and had it shipped back to The States.

Plans Personal Exhibit

She also picked up quite a few bolts of material while she was traveling.

Eleanor plans to "exhibit" the material personally; she loves to sew, makes almost all her own clothes, (including the dress in which she is pictured above), finds dress-making not only a relaxing pastime "but very practical, too . . .

Her clothes, like her paintings, are unmissably the works of a "professional." Eleanor wouldn't wear them if they weren't.

She refuses to be responsible for anything less than "a good job."
