Unusual Weather Brings First Snow On Christmas Day

Rainfall During Last Three Months Could Have Produced 115 Inches Of Fluffy Stuff If Mother Nature Had Been Cold

The Pointe area rainfall during the last three months was the equivalent of more than 115 inches of snow, according to official records kept at the Farms Water Filtration Plant, 29 Moross road.

Wendall Baker, superintendent of the water plant, said that the official precipitation instruments, owned by the Federal Government and maintained in the plant building, showed that 2.53 inches of rain fell on Thursday, December 21, which is unusual for this time of year.

The superintendent revealed that according to set measures, one inch of rain is equivalent to 10 inches of snow, and vice versa. So if Mother Nature had not been playing tricks, the Pointe would have had the difficult task of shoveling 25 inches of snow from sidewalks, driveways and streets!

4.5 Inches in October

Baker said that the records revealed that in October of this year, 4.5 inches of rain fell. No snow fell during this month.

In November, 2.0 inches of rainfall were recorded. On November 4, not enough snow came down to measure on the instruments, whereas, on November 13, just enough fell so that the records showed only that it was a light snow.

From December 1 through December 25, a total of 5.0 inches of rain came down on the Pointe, including the .14 of an inch that preceded the one inch of snowfall Christmas Day.

Compared to this year's unusual weather, the Pointe saw, for the same period in 1966, a total of 1.5 inches of rain, and only 8.0 inches of snow.

The rainfall was recorded in October of last year. No snow fell during this month.

In November 1966, a total of 3.0 inches of snow was on the ground, and in December 1966, a total of 5.0 inches of snow fell on the Pointe area.

The Farms is one of several communities in the Detroit Metropolitan area designated as an official weather recording station, using government-owned instruments, to measure rain and snowfalls. All reports are sent to Lansing, and from there to a Federal station which keeps records within a given district.

Window Broken In Mack Store

City Police received a call from the Detroit Police Department stating that the front window of Coins and Stamps, 17658 Mack was broken. Officers Virgil G. Beaupre and John Drummond reported that persons unknown had thrown an old rear view mirror through the plate glass window located at the east end of the building in the front.

Upon investigation officers found that two youths in a Plymouth had been cruising the area earlier. They were believed to be about 17 years of age.

Owens and Bean, and the girl were able to make their bonds, and were released. The men's examination was set for January 31. Washington, however, was not able to raise his bond and he was remanded to the Wayne County Jail until the examination date. The woman waived examination and was bound over for trial in Circuit Court.

Later, it was disclosed, the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office approved a third warrant

Pointers Elected To Top Offices And Board Of Trustees Of Newly Established UHO

Grosse Pointe residents were among the group elected officers and trustees of the new United Health Organization (UHO), established to undertake comprehensive, area-wide health planning in Southeastern Michigan.

The election was held at a meeting of UHO incorporators in the Detroit Club.

The UHO was created last summer and currently is supported through a grant from the United Foundation.

Those from this area named include: president, J. A. Mullen, chairman of the board, Sheller-Globe Corp.; vice-president, Philip N. Buckminster, vice-president, corporate staffs, Chrysler Corp.; and treasurer, John H. French Jr., president, City National Bank of Detroit.

Named as Trustees

Area residents named to the board of trustees are Wendell W. Anderson Jr., president, Bundy Corp.; Dr. Frank B. Bicknell, president, Wayne County Medical Society; James L. Blean, assistant secretary-treasurer, United Foundation; Lawrence D. Buhl Jr., 194 Stephens road; Peter E. Clark, president and publisher, the Detroit News.

J. M. Cudlip, assistant to the chairman of the board, McLouth Steel Corp.; William M. Day, president, Michigan Bell Telephone Co.; Mrs. John N. Failing, president, board of trustees, Hutzel Hospital.

Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy Jr., 735 Lake Shore Dr.; Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president, the J. L. Hudson Co.; Ray W. Macdonald, president, Burroughs Corp.; Allen W. Merrell, vice-president, civic and governmental affairs, Ford Motor Co.

Thomas F. Morrow, group vice-president, defense, space and diversified products, Chrysler Corp.; and Mrs. R. Alexander Wrigley, 1009 Bishop road.

East Side residents named trustees include John B. Olsen, of 8162 E. Jefferson, general manager and vice president, the Detroit Free Press, and Dr. Austin Smith, of 9000 E. Jefferson, chairman of the board, Parke Davis & Co.

Follows Long Study

The formation of UHO came after recommendations were received from a study committee which had worked for several years under the director of Max M. Fisher, of Franklin, chairman of the UH board of directors.

The committee report emphasized that local, state and federal legislative trends dictate the development of a strong partnership of all health agencies, both public and private, in Southeastern Michigan.

In recommending the establishment of UHO, Fisher's study committee cited the present-day view of good health as a right rather than a privilege, and the widely accepted commitment to provide quality personal health services to all as well as create an environment free from preventable hazards and conducive to healthful and productive living.

The UHO anticipates being concerned with all matters relating to health including facilities, manpower, services and budgeting, President Mullen said.

"We shall seek to effect a full and working partnership of all health resources in the area," he declared.

Mullen indicated that UHO will undertake comprehensive health planning immediately for Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties.

Steps are being taken, he said, to include Monroe, Livingston, Washtenaw and possibly St. Clair counties in the UHO area at a later date.

"The board of trustees elected today marshals the leadership of all health resources as well as community representatives," he said.

The trustees include representatives of public and private agencies, county medical societies, county health officers, dental, osteopathic, labor, and racial groups, and the medical schools.

Lack of Yule Spirit Shown By Vandals

Christmas Decorations Are Stolen Or Damaged In Four Cases In City Of Grosse Pointe

Vandals lacking the feeling of good will toward men this holiday season, stole Christmas decorations from holiday displays in four places in the City of Grosse Pointe.

City police received a report from Mrs. Albert Ghesquiere, 970 Rivard, on December 22, reporting theft of two Santa Claus, about two feet high from her display. The Santas were valued at $16.

Hans Schmatz, 983 Fisher, reported that same day that a set of Christmas tree lights were torn off of a large tree in front of his home and some 20 lights were taken. The tree was also damaged.

On the 23rd, City Police received a report from Frank Eitinger, 893 University, stating that someone had stolen several of his outdoor lights.

On Christmas day City Police apprehended two boys for stealing a tree stand from St. Clair and Mack, at the Packer Market. The boys were reprimanded and released to their parents.

Authorities Issue Warning On Confidence Gang in Area

Farms police have dispatched warnings to the other four Pointes and Harper Woods Police Departments regarding a gang of confidence men who are attempting to prey on elderly persons and the gullible. So far, the attempts are unsuccessful.

The matter came to light on Thursday, December 21, according to information released by Farms Det. Sgt. George Van Tiem, when an attempt was made to victimize a Farms resident, whose name is being withheld. The resident refused to "bite", and called the authorities immediately.

Van Tiem said that dispatches have been sent to the other departments, and he asked the NEWS to print a warning of the gang's operation as a public service. The gang has made a number of attempts to induce would-be Detroit victims to part with $3,000. In the Farms case,

Contract Awarded by Park For Swimming, Wading Pools; Work Already Begun

Separate Bids On Other Improvements Rejected By City Council; City Manager Told To Seek New Offers

At a special meeting held Monday evening, December 18, the Park council accepted the low bid of the Paddock Pools of Eastern Michigan, to build two wading pools and a regulation swimming pool for the city. The total price is $128,500, the lowest of two bids submitted. The firm was awarded a contract Wednesday, December 20.

The unsuccessful bidder was the Starlite Pool company, which offered to do the job for $130,276.

The council rejected separate bids for the construction of a bathroom and decking and other improvements in the Waterfront Park, on the premise that they were too high. The lowest offer $433,000, was made by the T and D Builders, with the high bid of $449,595 submitted by Charles Fromm company.

City Manager Robert Slone was authorized by the city body to re-advertise for new bids.

Three Pools Involved

The Paddock Pool firm will construct a regulation swimming pool and a wading pool in the Waterfront Park, and a wading pool in the Three Mile Drive park. Work on the projects have already started, and if everything goes according to schedule, the pools should be completed by June 1, the city manager said.

After many meetings between city officials and agents of the department, the Park was granted a permit to use the pool, but only under the severest restrictions. The pool was in use all summer.

Big Day Enjoyed By Car Thieves

Car thieves had a lucrative day at Leon Hairdressers, 17888 Mack, on Thursday, December 21.

Three cars were stolen from the shop's rear parking lot. The first thefts were reported by Leon Shoyan at 12:49 p.m. They were cars belonging to Mrs. David Burgess, 651 Washington and Mrs. A. King, 17449 Maumee.

The third theft was reported at 3:40 p.m., a car belonging to Marion Palms, 64 Moran.

Mrs. Burgess' car was recovered by Detroit police on December 22 and a suspect was held.

City police are investigating the other two thefts.

FBI Enters Case Against Accused Pair

Two Awaiting Trial in Jail Believed To Have Transported Stolen Car From Ohio

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has entered the case of an attempted burglary in the Park, when it was found that a car recovered near the scene of the crime had been stolen in Ohio.

Park Det. James LaPratt said that the FBI became interested when police O. Fostoria, O., called on Thursday, December 22, in answer to an interstate teletype, that an automobile found near the McDaniel Gun Shop, 15102 Kercheval avenue, had been stolen from a dealership in their city, on December 1. Transporting a stolen car across a state line is a Federal offense.

Arrested on December 12, on a charge of attempted burglary of the gun shop, were Donald E. Mundy, 23 no known address, and Donald R. Boggess, 31, of 1303 Lilibridge, Detroit.

The pair were arraigned before Park Municipal Judge C. Joseph Belanger for examination on Wednesday, December 20. Both pled not guilty as charged, and were remanded to the Wayne County Jail in default of $1,500 bond each. They are awaiting trial at the next session of circuit court.

Arresting officers said that when the pair were taken into custody, a search of the car the two drove to the area, said to be the one stolen from Ohio, revealed that it contained burglar tools.

Mundy and Boggess were apprehended through a phone call made by an alert citizen, who observed two men acting suspiciously in the area of the gun shop, at about 11:25 p.m. on the December 12 date.

Police Chief Arthur Louwers said that both are under bond in Detroit, Mundy for robbery armed, and Boggess, for burglary. Boggess has an extensive criminal record, the chief added.

BASEMENT FLOODED

Mrs. Lawrence Butler, of 401 Lincoln, called City Police on Friday, December 22, to report her basement was flooded. Officers Virgil G. Beaupre and John Drummond on call reported about five inches of water in the basement. They notified Cy Wybo, of the Highway Department.

Pointers Picked to Lead Mothers March of Dimes

The March of Dimes opened "top drawer" of leadership to lead its 30th campaign this January. The 1968 campaign marks the 10th year of The National Foundation's entry into the field of birth defects, the second greatest killer in the United States.

Mobilizing for action, Charles Gehring, General Campaign Chairman for the March of Dimes, has named the following community leaders to take charge of the Grosse Pointe Mothers' March, which will be held on Tuesday, January 30.

Mrs. Louis Decker, of 427 Manor, will coordinate the details of the March in Grosse Pointe Farms; Mrs. Lawrence Smith, of 843 Loraine, will handle Grosse Pointe City; Mrs. Paul Bagwell, of 1051 Devonshire, will be responsible for Grosse Pointe Park; and Mrs. C. J. Quirk, of 1158 Hawthorne, will be in charge of Grosse Pointe Woods. All of these women have been dedicated volunteer workers for the March of Dimes for many years.

The National Foundation-March of Dimes allocates a substantial part of all funds collected to high-caliber research projects in many parts of the country. The Mothers' March supports men and women engaged in these undertakings, who are all distinguished in the field of medicine.

Scientists associated with the March of Dimes are now investigating a number of hereditary and environmental factors that interfere with the development of the unborn child, such as the effects of infections during pregnancy, relationships of drugs to birth defects, and errors of body chemistry and structure. The results of research, then must be (Continued on page 2)

Pointers Picked to Lead March

(Continued from Page 1) translated into techniques for treating or preventing birth defects. The March of Dimes conducts intensive programs of public education because it knows that an enlightened public will demand action. Special emphasis in 1968 is on a prenatal care program which stresses that baby care should start as soon as a woman knows she is pregnant. Each year birth defects strike more than 250,000 newborns in the United States. Each year they cause the death of 60,000 children and adults, and kill more than a half-million babies before they are born. The problem of birth defects has always been greater than people realize. They are the greatest childhood medical problem in the United States today. Birth defects disable 1,375,000 children under the age of six.

In January, the March of Dimes will need all its friends and neighbors of good will to serve as volunteers in various tasks, including enlistment in the Mothers' March when townspeople are called upon in their homes to contribute. A forward march in the fight to prevent birth defects is dependent upon getting enough volunteers for our local March of Dimes. If you care enough to help, phone your local leader, or call WO 1-4153.

The blessing a March of Dimes Birth Defects Treatment Center can bestow on a family with a birth defect child is beyond price. Through early diagnosis and proper treatment a child who once would have been lost to society can often be saved and helped to become a contributing member of his community.

Under the auspices of the newly formed "Twenties Group" at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, but also open to men and women of all ages, an aviation ground school culminating in "in flight" instruction begins at the Center Thursday evening, January 11, from 7:30 to 10 o'clock.

The 10-week course enables one to pass the private pilot's written exam and with a little extra work the commercial pilot examination. Students who enroll in the course will learn pre-flight facts, F.A.A. regulations, meteorology, computer planning of flights, air navigation and rules of weight and balance. A plane and instructor are provided at City Airport for one introductory "in flight" lesson. The cost for this course is $25. Instruction is given by verified and experienced personnel. Enrollments are being taken now in the Center's office.

CHARM BRACELET LOST
City Police received a report from John Finn, 887 Beaconsfield, on Tuesday, December 19, stating that his wife, Susan, an employee of Jacobson's, had lost or someone had stolen her gold charm bracelet with Santa and a Christmas tree on it, on Saturday, December 16. The bracelet was valued at $170.

Police Remove Traffic Menace

City police officers Edmond Benthuy and Richard Lanski while on routine patrol on Wednesday, December 20, observed a two-door Ford making a left turn north on Cadieux off Waterloo.

The vehicle stalled in the intersection and was almost struck by southbound traffic. The car then headed west on Cadieux and just missed striking another automobile that was parked in front of 824 Cadieux.

The officers attempted to pull the car over to the curb with warning light and siren but the driver kept on driving. He was finally forced to the curb.

The officers removed the keys from the car and took the driver, Grover Murphy, 78, of 46 Elizabeth, River Rouge, to the station.

He received a court notice to appear on January 9 for careless driving and violating a restricted license. (He was not wearing his glasses).

The car was held at the station for his daughter.

Joseph L. La Croce On Aircraft Carrier

Gunners Mate Third Class Joseph L. La Croce USN, son of Mrs. Philomena La Croce of 1474 Wayburn avenue has returned to the United States as a crewmember aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Constellation after a seven-month deployment with the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

The Constellation spent much of her deployment on "Yankee Station" off the coast of North Vietnam in the Gulf of Tonkin, and conducted 106 major air strikes against military targets in the heavily defended areas of North Vietnam.

Air strikes against strategic targets in the Hanoi-Haiphong area accounted for the destruction of several petroleum storage areas, bridges and shipyards.

Constellation pilots flew 10,583 combat and support missions, and made more than 71,700 arrested landings aboard the ship.

Warning Issued About Confidence Gang

the resident's account by the dishonest teller, and if the resident will draw out that amount and give it to a bank investigator, or a police officer working on the case, it will be redeposited to the resident's account. The money would be taken to the suspect teller's cage, so he could be caught in the act of pocketing some of the money.

If directions were followed, the caller said, the resident would have performed a service, and will also avoid the trouble of going to court to testify against the teller when he was arrested and arraigned.

The Farms citizen was instructed to go to his bank, the name of which the confidence man now knew, where he would be met by either a bank inspector, or a police officer. The resident was also instructed to withdraw $3,800, and give it to the official meeting him, for redeposit. The caller told the resident that he would be returned home in a cab, or in his own car, if that was the way he came. He was to wait at home until he heard from the bank, the citizen was told.

If the resident had any doubt regarding this information, or the other end said, he could call his local police station, and give a phone number, and then hung up. The would-be victim dialed the number, and immediately a voice said, "Inspector Viceroy, here," as though to remove any doubt from the person's mind.

Van Tiem said that the convinced of the sincerity of the tended victim for a moment was caller but then it struck him that this just might be a confidence game, and he called the police.

The detective said not only were warnings sent to the Pointe area police department but instructions were given to all banks in the Farms Pointes and Harper to notify police immediately of any elderly person withdrawing a large sum of money. Officials were told of the confidence man's tactics.

Carolers Display Christmas Spirit

Jim Connolly Jr. of Harvard road gathered a group of his sixth-grade classmates together for an evening of Christmas Caroling on Friday, December 22. The children sang their holiday songs for residents of the Park who live in Harvard, Gray-ton and Bishop roads. They were so well received that many generous citizens insisted that the girls and boys accept money for their music. At the end of the evening the group returned to Jim's for hot chocolate and cookies.

Counting the donations they were delighted to find that they had a grand total of $8.00! With unanimous consent the children voted to donate the money to the Grosse Pointe Park police, who in turn would use the funds to buy a gift for some needy family.

Among the children present were, Chuck Sealey, Barbara Tyler, Joy Beltz, John Leverenz, Amy McGregor, Steve Brown, Lisa Spierling, Donna Marshall, LeeAnn Tock, Will Herbert, Patricia Gikkas and Jean Robinson.

Special Course Affords Opportunity to Experiment

By Pepper WhiteLaw
Introduction to Physical Science, a special course introduced by Educational Services Inc., a research group that functions under the National Science Foundation, is a new course being taught by Jim Ireton to his eighth grade class at Brownell Junior High School.

The course is oriented to individual laboratory work. Here the student has the thrill of discovery with a minimal amount of direction. Though experiments he formulates his own conclusions.

Mr. Ireton stressed that the matter of being right or wrong is not as essential in this course as how conclusions are reached. The class is made up of 16 students selected at random from the eighth graders. This permits eight working teams, two lab partners to a team.

Each team of students is equipped with a student kit containing, scales, a set of weights (that the students make themselves), a set or radio active chemicals, an alcohol burner and stand, a peg board kit that holds test tubes and other equipment, electrolysis apparatus, a density kit an atomic model kit and a conservation of matter kit.

The course is slanted toward measuring properties of matter that are measurable. Some of the properties that are investigated are the boiling point of various liquids, density, freezing point, solubility and thermo expansion.

The class operates as a lab science course. The team does its lab experiment then tabulates the information. This information is then presented to a group meeting of the class. All teams statistics are then pooled and recorded on the board by Mr. Ireton. They then are put into a graph and recorded so the student can evaluate his own statistics and the classes'.

The theory behind this type of science class is that the student learns the information through his own discovery rather than through memorization of facts. Mr. Ireton feels that if some of the features of this course were combined with existing science courses it would greatly enrich science taught on the Junior High School level.

Mr. Ireton said that the time is past when we can store all knowledge of science in our heads by memorization. We must know how to get information.

He said he was pleased with the success of this pilot course and hopes that many of the ingredients of this course can be combined with the existing good science courses at Brownell today.

He emphasized that one of the most important features of this course is that pupils will enter physics and chemistry with an improved orientation and attitude toward science and that they will be better equipped with essential laboratory skills.

Introduction to Physical Science... another step in Grosse Pointe's every improving educational system!

GPHS Humanities Course One of Best in Country

By Pepper Whitelaw

Humanities in English, a senior course at Grosse Pointe High School has developed into a course that can be rated among the best of its kind in the country.

The course, initiated a year ago with a two-teacher team handling it, was so well accepted and proved so rewarding that it was expanded to what it is today, a two-hour time block course with a four-teacher team handling it. The course is elective and open to any average or above average senior student.

Currently there are 85 seniors enrolled.

Of the four-teacher team two are English teachers, Mrs. Jane Wayne and Sue Boivin; one an art teacher, Mrs. Julia Meighan; and one a social studies teacher, Robert Bradley.

Like Jigsaw Puzzle

The course is handled like a giant jigsaw puzzle, each teacher being responsible for one portion which when correlated with the other portion ultimately forms the entire picture. This is interrelated learning.

The course is designed to approach ideas in an interdisciplinary fashion — through art, music, and history, as well as through literature. Literature is treated through big themes — What is Man? The Role of the Hero, Man's Relation to Man, Man's View of Himself. Each of the pieces of literature studied is approached through one of the major literary modes, tragic, romantic, comic and ironic. This approach involves special orientation to these modes and a gradual building to a more sophisticated understanding of what each implies.

Readings come from all areas of world literature. Heavy emphasis is placed on composition, which is treated together with a study of effective models.

History Very Important

History is of major significance in this course. The approach is different however. Here the students consider the methods of historical inquiry, and great movements in history as they relate to literature, music and art.

A workshop approach to art is used in which the student practices creatively with art materials. Creation of color and form are stressed.

Records, tapes, slides and films are used extensively in the course. Guest lecturers speak to the students on such topics as Lyric Poetry, Greek Gods and The Aesthetic and Mathematical Implications of the Golden Mean.

Conduct Field Trips

Field trips are also an integral part of the course. Currently a trip to Hillberry Theatre to view "Twelfth Night" is planned as well as the possibility of observing the rehearsals and problems involved in the production itself.

The students are also planning to attend an Open Rehearsal of the Detroit Symphony and participation in the Humanities Symposium on February 29 at Dominican High School with Dominican students.

The course is divided into three major units. The first is an introduction to each of the disciplines. The history teacher stresses the historical method, the gathering and assembling of data and the forming of judgments. Students read and report on both primary and secondary sources from an extensive list of authors.

Broad Taste of Art

In art the students consider the role of the artist as a reporter, interpreter and commentator and they learn the elements of drawing and painting both by analysis and by actual drawing and painting lab sessions.

The English portion of the course stresses the elements of literary language—image, rhythm, diction and form — as found in the most concise literary type poetry. Composition assignments stress structure rather than literary interpretation and students study effective composition models. Each part of the introductory unit establishes correspondences among the disciplines and prepares the students for more involved study which is to come.

Get Into The Classics

The second unit stresses two broad cultural epochs. Students read the Odyssey and several Medieval dramas, study the elements of classical and medieval art and architecture and explore both classical and medieval civilization in perspective. No attempt at coverage of either period is intended; rather the students will relate the heritage of these two civilizations to one another and to the present. Some of the related reading the students do are Galileo, A Man for All Seasons, The Lark, St. Joan, The Trojan Women, Twelfth Night, The Odyssey, A Modern Sequel, the Alice Books.

The final unit is organized in order to explore a basic theme such as The Quest, Revolutions or The Hero. Students study representative short stories and novels, concentrating on narrative fiction.

In history students consider various revolutions and/or heroes.

This course gives the students an opportunity to investigate, discuss, practice and consider. What more can we ask of any course?

THE FIRST ANNUAL

located at Michigan and Washington Blvd. — Jan. 3, 4, 5 (Wednesday thru Friday)

The first annual Sheraton Cadillac Antique Show at the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel, located at Michigan and Washington Boulevard, January 3, 4, 5 (Wednesday thru Friday). The Sheraton Cadillac is Detroit's most prominent hotel — home away from home to the world's leading personalities — and many of its suites are handsomely appointed with outstanding period antiques. Replicas of many of these pieces will be found scattered throughout the lobby during the antique show.

Greeting hotel visitors as they step from the escalator is a magnificent, black and gold, Louis XIV, Grand Bahut chest, by Andre Charles Boullé (the first master cabinetmaker appointed by Louis XIV), from the Sheraton's own antique collection. After a brief elevator ride to the second floor, you will enter the crystal chandeliered Grand Ballroom, which will, for three days, be transformed into a wonderland of sparkling crystal, delicate china, exquisite jewelry, gleaming silver and pewter, sweet-faced dolls of yesteryear, furniture, paintings, oriental rugs and much, much more.

If you plan to do any Christmas gift exchanging, sale-shopping or have some Christmas gift money to spend on the "just-right" gift, be sure to include the Sheraton Cadillac Antique Show on your schedule. Remember, an antique is forever and will grow in value with each passing year. As an "extra" for show visitors, included in the admission price will be a visit to the Presidential Suite (which was recently redecorated in authentic period antiques), through the cooperation of the Sheraton management.

The show hours are 12:00 noon to 10:00 p.m. daily, thereby inviting a gay luncheon date with friends or meeting your best beau or girl for dinner. The hotel houses three of Detroit's finest restaurants: The Town Room, featuring a bouncy French atmosphere and open for three meals daily; The Book Casino, a handsome, popular priced dining room open for breakfast and lunch; The Motor Bar, an old English inn which is open for lunch and dinner. If you want to rest your feet and fortify yourself with some liquid refreshment, there is the Caprice Lounge, open from 11:00 a.m. to 1:30 a.m.

This is a perfect way to wind up the holiday season, so we'll be looking forward to seeing you on January 3, 4 or 5 at the Sheraton Cadillac Hotel Antique Show — any time between 12:00 noon and 10:00 p.m.

We see in the future what we dreamed the past might be like.

People who take themselves too seriously seldom enjoy life.

Woods Church To Show Slides

David Weamer will present a color slide show at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, December 29. The slides will tell the story of Dave's work as he participated in the ministry to National Parks under the direction of the National Council of Churches.

The pictures are of the Jackson Hole area of Wyoming, presented by Mr. Weamer against the background music of "Imperial Silver" recorded and played in stereo.

David Weamer is a resident of Grosse Pointe attended and was graduated from Grosse Pointe High School, and now is a senior student at Alma College. He is preparing himself for the ministry of the church, which ministry he now conceives as being through film and sound.

Honor Conferred For City Report

When City of Grosse Pointe Treasurer-Assessor, Robert C. Bendzinski and Joseph McGannon, municipal specialist with Rutten-Welling and Company, Certified Public Accountants, compiled the Annual Financial Report, they were mighty proud of the 73-page opus.

And on Thursday, December 14, their pride was confirmed when Mr. Bendzinski received a letter from the Municipal Finance Officers Association of the United States and Canada, stating that a Certificate of Conformance had been awarded to the City for the annual report.

The letter said "It was the decision of the Special Review Committee for Award of Certificates of Conformance that the excellent report prepared by the governmental unit substantially conformed with the high standards for financial reporting as established by the association and the National Committee on Governmental Accounting."

The City of Grosse Pointe is the eleventh unit in the State of Michigan to be so recognized since the association's inception in 1945.

The City of Grosse Pointe Woods received an award in 1959 for the 1958 Fiscal Report.

Interested citizens of the City may view copies of the report in the City Offices.

Park Policemen Nab Thief in Act

Two alert Park police officers, while on patrol on Mack avenue at about 4:15 a.m. Wednesday, December 13, became suspicious of the actions of two males they observed standing in front of an office supply store on the Detroit side of the thoroughfare.

The policemen, Patrolman Edward Janestak and John Kendall, in their report, said when they saw the pair standing in the shadows of the store, 15121 Mack, they assumed that the men were up to no good. They said they surmised that if the men had committed a crime, they would not be near the store, and if about to break into the building, they would still be there.

The patrolmen placed themselves in an area where they had a clear view of the suspects and the store, but where they themselves could not be seen.

Kanestak and Kendall said that their suspicions were confirmed when they saw the pair smash the store's front window, and reach in and grab an automatic calculator machine, having a price tag of $690.

The officers went into action, and were successful in apprehending one of the men, Robert F. Goodhall, 18, of 3663 Maryland, Detroit. The second person, described as having Oriental features, and being about the same age as Goodhall, was able to escape. This person is being sought by the Detroit authorities.

The officers radioed their station, from where a call was made to Detroit's Conner Station, Fifteenth Precinct, apprising the police of this station of the arrest made. Two patrolmen were dispatched from the Conner Station to the scene, and Goodhall was released to them.

Windmill Pointe Club Will Meet

Lieut. Linden Receives Medal

First Lieutenant Robert Linden, son of the R. R. Linden, of Fisher road, was awarded a Bronze Star Medal for his heroic service in combat with military operations in an armed hostile force in Vietnam while serving there from August 1965 through August of 1966 as a Brigade Medical Support Officer.

Assuming the duties of a Medical Supply Officer, Lieut. Linden faced many difficult and varied problems, which were inadequate facilities with which to operate, on effective stock controls, a poor records system, and stocks so inadequate that the brigade medical units sometimes could not fully provide satisfactory medical care.

Lt. Linden improved the available supply facilities, established record and control systems, and increased the number of line items in stock. He assisted each medical unit to plan for their future recurring needs so that brigade medical supply could assure them of all necessary supplies when needed with minimum stock levels at both brigade and unit level.

On July 1, 1967 responsibility for storing and issuing Medical Civic Action Program supplies was transferred from the United States Army, Republic of Vietnam, Medical Supply System, Brigade Medical Supply assumed the responsibility for Medical Civic Action Program supplies Brigade S-5.

Lt. Linden, with only 30 days notice, assumed this additional load of medical supplies for 20,000 patients a month. He accomplished this in an efficient and commendable manner. Without increase in personnel or facilities, his excellent planning resulted in no serious shortages during the transition.

Former Lt. Linden is currently working in the purchasing department of Henry Ford Hospital. He was graduated from Grosse Pointe High School in 1961 and from Central Michigan University in 1965.

The fellow who watches his step will have a better chance of staying on his feet.

Woods Firemen Have Busy Day

Woods public safety officers answer an average of at least one five alarm a day, not counting emergency calls to transport ailing persons to the hospital.

On Monday, December 11, there was a change of pace, when for the first time in weeks personnel answered four alarms in any single day, a house fire, two automobile fires, and a false alarm (honest intent).

The false alarm was sounded by Mrs. Frank Marchand of 1748 Anita, who saw a huge cloud of steam coming from her clothes dryer vent, and thought it was smoke, and phoned in the alarm at 11:57 a.m. She realized her error on a second look, but too late to have the trucks return to the station. The firefighters checked the house to make sure everything was in fine order before leaving.

At 3:13 p.m., a phone call was received from Frank D'Herde, 23, of 22501 Edmuton, who disclosed that his car motor was on fire. The vehicle had backfired through the carburetor, causing a flash fire under the hood. This was doused by firemen with a hand extinguisher.

Then at 7:58 p.m. came a call from Sam K. Ulmer, 33, of 1242 Hampton, who disclosed that while his car was being driven into a service garage at 20675 Mack, for repair work on a gasoline feed line, the fuel ignited, possibly from a spark from the generator. Firemen doused the blaze with a hand extinguisher, then poured water on it.

The dwelling fire was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. McBrien, 1650 Anita. The alarm came in at 8:54 p.m.

It is believed that an electric lamp in the front bedroom shorted, igniting the bed linens and mattress. The fire extended to an adjoining single bed. The

HS Principals To Give Talks

Eighth and ninth grade students at Brownell Junior High School, and their parents as well, will be able to begin planning next year's school program with the help of high school authorities early in January. Two informal meetings have been planned for January 8 and 9, at 7:30 p.m. in the boys' gymnasium.

On Monday, January 8, Dr. William Craig, principal of Grosse Pointe North High School, and others on his staff will discuss orientation to the new high school, enrollment procedures, and answer questions from parents and Brownell students who will be attending Grosse Pointe North High School next year.

On Tuesday, January 9, Jerry Gerich, principal of Grosse Pointe South High School, and others on his staff will be present to discuss these same topics as they pertain to Brownell students who will be attending Grosse Pointe South High School next year.

If parents find it impossible to attend on the evening to which they are scheduled, they are welcome to attend the other session even though some topics will be particularly appropriate to one or the other high school.

Police Find Car Stolen In Farms

Steven Maniaci, 24, of 5575 Balfour, Detroit, parked his automobile in the lot at the rear of the Sears branch store, Mack and Moross at 12 p.m. on Monday, December 18, when he returned at 4 p.m., the vehicle was gone, he told Farms police.

On Thursday, December 21, Farms police received a call from Detroit's Conner Station, Fifteenth Precinct, in which it was disclosed that the car had been recovered at 10100 Gratiot, but it had sustained some damage.

Maniaci, who went to the Conner Station, to where the vehicle had been towed, told Farms police he found that there was considerable damage done to the right front of the auto, the ignition wires had been pulled out, the muffler broken, and the spare tire and wheel stolen.

Officers of the Detroit station found that the license plates on Maniaci's car were registered to John Edward of 1019 Anita. The authorities checked with Edward, who in turn gave his auto the once over, and discovered that the thieves had stolen his plates, and replaced them with those belonging to Maniaci's car.

Edward, a teacher at Finney School, Warren and Cadieux, Detroit, told police that his car had been parked in the school lot, when the apparent switch was made and he drove his car home, unaware of the change.

Edward's plates were returned to him, and Maniaci was notified to pick up his plates at the Woods station where they had been retained for safe keeping.

YOU Are Being Watched, At Home, Work, in Stores

Nineteen eighty-four is here. TV surveillance of streets and stores proposed for Newport Beach, Calif., is strikingly similar to the closed circuit TV system that kept track of almost everything citizens did or said from birth to death, in George Orwell's famous novel, "1984."

On November 13 the Newport Beach city council gave the go-ahead for an application to the U.S. Department of Justice for a grant to finance the TV system, for which components already exist.

This development dramatizes an apparent nationwide penchant for general surveillance of all people, honest and dishonest alike, to deter and apprehend some dishonest ones.

Most people conclude from news stories that snoopers are mostly after bookies, syndicate hoodlums and tax cheats, a survey by the Family Economics Bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance Company indicates.

However, "The average urban citizen can't go a single day without being spied on, listened to or peeped at," says Bernard Fensterwald, Jr., chief counsel for a senate subcommittee investigating invasion of privacy.

In Newport Beach, mobile TV cameras are expected to be focusing on shopping centers, intersections and four miles of beach front within a year. The mile away in the dark.

Fixed cameras will be installed in supermarkets, banks and other public places. Police officers will watch monitors and alert cruising patrol cars in case of trouble.

Already, millions of retail store customers are under daily surveillance, the insurance company survey found. The eyes of clerks and store detectives—male, female and juvenile—follow them as they shop, though they may be deacons of their churches or Eagle Scouts.

Security people lurk behind the scenes, peering at shoppers through innocent appearing floral arrangements above floor level, or observing them in strategically located, all-seeing parabolic mirrors that reflect 180 degrees of the scene in front of them.

One-way glass is the store detective's favorite ploy. He hides behind false bay windows made with one-way glass. He stations himself inside false columns with sides of one-way glass. (Such devices are called Trojan Horses.) He even sits behind the one-way glass wall of "change booths" in department stores, watching for women who slip merchandise under their clothing. Scandal-wary stores are hiring more female detectives for booth duty now, however.

Some stores train TV or film cameras on customers. Usually the cameras are in full view, to deter shoplifting. Says one camera manufacturer: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of apprehension."

Security measures seem justified. Statistics imply that honesty is going out of style in America. Petty—and not so petty—theft by customers and employees seems to be the national pastime.

At least 25 million larcenies will be committed in the United States by the end of 1967, says Paul D. Astor, president of a company that provides undercover men who pose as employees to detect employee pilferage. Thirty per cent of all business failures are due to theft by employees, according to The Fireman's Insurance Company.

As a result, business and industry has taken up employee surveillance in a big way. One expert estimates that 30,000 to 40,000 firms use polygraphs (lie detectors) regularly.

One company pulled the plug on its polygraph when the device labeled the company's president a misfit. Another lie box indicated that all employees in a Corpus Christi, Texas store were dishonest. "We decided to overlook all but the extreme cases," said the disillusioned owner of the store.

A Midwest executive said that home phones of employees with access to customer lists, advertising plans and other trade secrets are commonly tapped. Companies monitor phone calls to learn what employees think of one another, and how hard they sell.

One executive of a large firm hid tiny transmitters in the toilet paper rolls in the ladies'

Artur Rubinstein To Play Jan. 13

Brilliant concert pianist Artur Rubinstein, who comes to the Masonic Auditorium, Saturday, January 13 at 8:20 p.m., displayed musical talent at the age of three.

Two years later, Artur gave a concert for charity in Warsaw and at eight studied in that city with Prof. Rozycki. In a few months, however, he had absorbed all that teacher could provide.

By a stroke of luck, Artur's sister was going to Berlin to prepare for her marriage and took her prodigy brother to be presented to Joseph Joachim, the great Hungarian violinist and friend of Brahms.

The venerable pedagogue was so impressed that he assumed responsibility for young Artur's musical future—and sent him to study piano technique with Prof. Heinrich Barth, himself a pupil of Max Bruch and Robert Kahn, for instruction in composition and Harmony.

At 11, he made his formal debut in Berlin, playing the Mozart Concerto in A Major, with his musical godfather, Joachim, conducting the orchestra.

By the time he was 15, young Rubinstein had spread his talents to encompass most of Germany and Poland, playing once in Warsaw with the orchestra under the direction of Emil Mlynarski, whose daughter Aniela, as yet unborn, was in later years to marry the brilliant young soloist.

Rubinstein, a strapping 16 and already a specialist in Chopin, Beethoven, Brahms and Liszt, first came to America in January, 1906, under the auspices of William A. Kanbe. At the time, Charles Henry Meltzer wrote of him, "He has the intelligence of maturity and the wit of a 'boulevardier'."

Tickets to the Saturday, January 13, performance of Artur Rubinstein are available at the Masonic Auditorium ticket office as well as Grinnell's Downtown and all J. L. Hudson ticket centers.

Set New Year's Dance At DBC

New Year's Eve will come early to the Detroit Boat Club this year. The Club's black tie party celebrating the arrival of 1968 will be held Saturday evening, December 30.

Festivities begin with cocktails at 7 o'clock. A flet mignon dinner will be served from 8 to 10:30, a continental breakfast at 1 in the morning, and there'll be dancing in all of the Club's main rooms.

War Protester David Harris

former Stanford student body president, said: "Every time we had a rally there'd be an FBI agent there with his camera, with a telescopic lens, taking pictures of everybody."

"Indiscriminate surveillance, even to deter crime, may not be worth loss of privacy to people who never have and never will commit a crime against society," the insurance company survey notes.

Sen. Long advocates absolute prohibition of private wiretapping.

Findings of the Northwestern National Life survey indicated that legal controls should be based upon the premise that any spying is immoral if done without the knowledge and permission of the individuals spied upon, unless they are convicted criminals or enemy agents.

Vice President Hubert Humphrey, who believes that more controls are needed now, said in a recent speech: "We are witnessing the step-by-step perfection of the technology of eavesdropping. I am afraid that if strict measures aren't taken to control this invasion by re-

The Spirit of Christmas

Conversion of an embryo nightmare into a heart-warming experience has been the highlight of our holiday season, and it all happened on Christmas Eve.

Several weeks ago we were advised that a certain grandchild's heart was set on getting a play stove on the Big Day. It wasn't too difficult to persuade her mother that the simplest way to handle the problem would be for her to make the purchase and submit a bill. Several days later a carton was delivered, plainly identifiable as containing one toy stove . . . and it was carefully consigned to the garage, and carelessly forgotten.

Late in the afternoon before Christmas, while enmeshed in a thousand details of polishing off the pre-holiday preparations, including a bit of last minute shopping, the phone rang. "How", inquired our daughter's voice, "are you coming along with the stove?" When we asked just what she meant, we were told: "Well, you know it has to be assembled."

Panic started to settle in. It had been years since we had been through the harrowing experience of extracting toys from cartons packed by demons, then facing completely unintelligible charts telling what to do with parts beyond number, following by discovering many components missing. It had been years . . . but the memory was acutely painful.

It probably didn't take more than 10 minutes to get the cardboard cardiac inducer pried open, but faced with all the commitments of the evening ahead, it seemed like an hour. The meaningless fragments of a stove which we tore loose from intricate panels of insulation reached astronomical figures, and when we unfolded the instruction sheet it was about the size of the J. L. Hudson flag. There were 14 different illustrations of steps to be taken before victory could be achieved, and at this point conquering Mt. Everest seemed like child's play in comparison. There was just no way.

Contemplation being indicated as the better part of valor, we did just that. "Where", we asked ourselves, "would one be likely to find someone . . . anyone . . . who had time on Christmas Eve to lend the so-much-needed helping hand?" Amazed with our imaginative ingeniousness, we dialed the City of Grosse Pointe Police and Fire Department. Here, we figured, we might find some individual, (unhappy at not being home on such an important evening, bored with being alerted for trouble which everyone hoped would not occur), who could be conned into being sympathetic to our plight. We couldn't have picked a better haven of help. Our embarrassed explanation of our problem elicited a cordial invitation to bring it to headquarters, accompanied by an expression of regret that the necessity to remain available for duty precluded the possibility of an officer coming to pick up the components of the riddle.

We had just finished the traditional Christmas Eve dinner when the phone rang. It was our angel in a blue suit. "Come and get it . . . it's finished", was the joyous message. We hurried over. There was the assembled product, magnificently complete. The weight of the world off weary shoulders, we thrust payment at our savior, only to have it staunchly refused. We, as staunchly insisted. Who knows, we might have need to call for help again.

Comes the most beautiful part. Our policeman friend, who said he had been helped by one of the firemen, reported they had both been busy that day, collecting money for a family in dire straits, and, if it was all right with me they would accept the money and add it to the fund. Which brought forth the wallet again, for a further donation. We carefully stowed the stove, which by now had become a fairly expensive item, into the trunk of the car and drove off into the night. It had become one of the loveliest Christmas Eves we could remember. Aren't people wonderful?

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

May I offer my approval of your editorial page of last week and thanks for printing the letter written by Jane Ingraham. This was the most factual discussion of the open housing proposition that I have seen—it is worth reading and I very much appreciated the fact that The Grosse Pointe News gave it the space it so well deserved, without and deletion, apparently.

Much is written on this and similar subjects by people who have opinions but few if any facts. We hear a great deal of day about prejudice—from people who apparently do not understand that prejudice is opinion without facts, but opinions to be valid and of any value must be based on facts and when this is true it is FACT and not prejudice.

Best wishes for Grosse Pointe News 1968—
 K.M.G.

To the Editor:

In the December 14 issue of the Grosse Pointe News you ran an article titled "Pointe Police Chiefs Issue Crime Increase Warnings." The ideas you presented concerning the protection of your property against burglars during the holiday season were very good, but I think these suggestions should be carried out during the whole year. This could cut down the robberies that take place in the Pointe as well as Detroit.

Your suggestions on how to keep your purse from being a target for purse snatchers will also be beneficial during the Christmas season, but again I believe we should use these ideas throughout the entire year even though purse snatching is at its height.

In your article you gave suggestions on how to keep your home and purse from being burglarized, but what about the storeowner or your automobile? I think it could be beneficial for everyone if you would run a series of articles concerning personal safeguards the entire year.

Very truly yours,
 BECKY BEYER

Dear Sir:—
 I recently received from my daughter's grade school a bulletin sent by the Grosse Pointe Motion Picture and Television Council listing television programs they recommended or acceptable. To say I was stunned is putting it mildly—in-sulted, most assuredly.

The bulletin quotes David Susskind, but I notice does not include his program in their listings. No wonder television is declining into infantality and turning more toward becoming a home movie theater, with movies few of us would pay two cents to see in a theater!

When organizations like this promote bits of fluff like the "Lucy Show", "Gomer Pyle" and "Good Morning World", to select just a few listed, television can't be wholly blamed for its decline.

I don't say shows of this type should be eliminated, for they have their place. But when THESE shows are the only ones Council like this recommend, it is a logical assumption on television's part that these are the types of shows viewers desire and they develop more of these while erasing plans for meatier programs.

What Goes On at Your Library

By Virginia Leonard

Happy centennial, WORLD ALMANAC! Did you know this indispensable reference work was a hundred years old? And I do mean "indispensable." How many times have you used it to look up or verify a fact? The index itself carries a panorama of American and world history—from John Adams to the Zip Code; in between—what a magnificent collection of data!

What was America like in 1868? A large part of it was still a hostile wilderness where our ancestors struggled for survival. The most rapid means of communication was the telegraph. Now, with radio, television and the like, we can have sound and pictures leap across continents and through space. In 1868, the American Negro was going through the birth pangs of emancipation; today, he is still trying to gain justice and freedom. Thus, the ALMANAC becomes more than a mere compilation of facts; it gives quite a concise history of man's thought, of his development from the Magna Carta to the United Nations.

What was the first edition like? It was a 120-page hand-set volume which contained twelve pages of advertising, and was published by the NEW YORK WORLD. What was happening in 1868? That was the year that President Andrew Jackson was acquitted in an impeachment trial—the year in which Congress established the first eight-hour day for Government workers.

The first editor of the WORLD ALMANAC was a newspaperman whose name was never recorded. Nor is the price of the first edition known, for it does not appear anywhere in this volume. The guess would be that it sold for 20 cents or less, since the next year's edition, slightly larger, was listed on page 70 as 20 cents.

In 1868 America was in a period of transition following the end of the Civil War. Reconstruction was the issue of the day—the WORLD ALMANAC of this year devoted fourteen pages to a complete text of the Reconstruction Acts and a history of the Reconstruction.

What else did this issue contain? Besides facts, there were jokes, weather prophecies, fiction; some of its features proved to be so solid, that they still have their counterparts in the volumes of today.

In 1886, when Joseph Pulitzer bought the NEW YORK WORLD, he turned his attention to the WORLD ALMANAC to try to make it a "compendium of universal knowledge." It was also that year that the Statue of Liberty was completed, and a picture of that statue appeared on the cover of the 1886 issue.

In 1894, the book's editor (still anonymous!) changed the name to WORLD ALMANAC AND ENCYCLOPEDIA, which was its full title until 1923 when it was changed to WORLD ALMANAC AND BOOK OF FACTS. It was this issue also that contained the first mention of the radio broadcasting industry. From then on, all sorts of important events and inventions were mentioned—the incandescent lamp, the telephone, the Spanish-American War, and even the creation of Sherlock Holmes! But not until 1923 did the name of the editor of this reference book appear on its pages. The first editor to be mentioned specifically was Robert Hunt Lyman, who directed this publication until his retirement in 1937.

In 1931, Scripps-Howard acquired the NEW YORK WORLD and the WORLD ALMANAC, and the book thereafter was published by the NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM, and later by the WORLD-TELEGRAM & SUN. In 1966 the book was purchased by the Scripps-Howard feature service, Newspaper Enterprise Association, Inc.

And so for one hundred years the WORLD ALMANAC has striven not to record its own history, but that of the world. It has covered two World Wars and the arrival of the atomic bomb. During three years of World War II, it made special printing runs for distribution to the armed forces here and overseas. In 1961, a wire service photographer snapped a picture of President Kennedy's desk, and there stood the WORLD ALMANAC, along with five other reference books!

In this new, centennial edition of the WORLD ALMANAC, there has been a temptation to speculate on what the next hundred years will bring to our country and to the world. What better person to write this projected estimate than Isaac Asimov, and it is entitled: "The Next 100 Years: Science-based Estimates of What the Century Ahead May Bring." Here, the author first assumes that we have not been wiped off the face of the earth, either by nuclear war or epidemics, and that the great increase in population has somehow been controlled. If you would care to read his predictions or increase your general knowledge, we suggest you buy a copy of this 1968, centennial edition—or come in the library and check some facts in our copy.

Debate Tourney Hosted by GPHS

"Tower Tournament," a debate and speech tournament held for 19 schools and 120 students from all over Michigan, was held for the first time at Grosse Pointe High School recently.

Jerry DeGriek, who assisted Mrs. Geraldine Bertovick, speech teacher, with the tournament said, "This is the first time a tournament has ever combined debate and spring speech activities as interpretive reading and oratory."

A total of 19 trophies were presented. Dearborn High won the sweepstakes trophy for accumulating the most points by placing in the various activities. Royal Oak Kimball won first place in both varsity and junior varsity debate and Kennedy won first place in humorous reading and oratory.

An analysis of the listing presented by the Council shows they have recommended only the bland, inoffensive programs, the tapioca pudding of television. They have helped television take another giant step backward by not encouraging the faltering efforts to present programs of meaning or innovation.

Where is "The Danny Thomas Show"? At least this program tries to present original drama and humor programs. I'm sure if they'd look they'd find more.

It is a pity the work of this Council has produced so little! Sincerely,
 (Mrs.) Charles R. Hoskins

White Lace Accents Empire Waistline Of Bride's Powder Pink Velvet Gown; Reception At Whittier Follows Service

Planning to make their home in Detroit's Lafayette Park area when they return from a New Orleans vacation are Mr. and Mrs. John Woolery Ester, who exchanged marriage vows Wednesday evening, December 27.

Setting for the 6 o'clock ceremony, at which The Reverend Gary Gruber officiated, was the Barbour Chapel of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

A reception at The Whittier Hotel followed the rites.

The bride is the former Charlene Pelcher, an English teacher at Parcels Junior High School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Pelcher, of Huntington road.

Her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edward Ester, of Indianapolis, Ind.

For her wedding, the former Miss Pelcher chose a powder pink velvet gown, styled with a white lace accented Empire waistline. Her pink illusion veil fell from a pink velvet and white lace pillbox.

Her bouquet was fashioned of pink Elegance carnations and white roses.

Carolyn E. Pelcher, who attended her sister, wore a burgundy velvet frock and matching Dior headbow and carried a white muff, to which were pinned pink Elegance carnations and holly leaves.

Serving as best man was Robert Ian Hunter. The bridegroom's brother-in-law, Chad Quaintance, of Selma, Ala., and James Parrish ushered.

The mother of the bride wore a hot pink and silver brocade dress and coat ensemble, and pinned pink cymbidium orchids to her handbag.

The bridegroom's mother selected a hot pink suit with a pale pink blouse. She, too, pinned pink cymbidium orchids to her purse.

Home for the Christmas holidays is University of Colorado student DIANE VAN ZILE, daughter of MR. and MRS. JOHN G. VAN ZILE, of Kerby road.

Student Center Scene of Dance

The first Neighborhood Club Teen Dance in the new Student Center quarters was held on Friday, December 15. It was a rousing success with over 475 youngsters attending.

"The Restless Set," a rock 'n' roll group provided the music for the 10th, 11th and 12th graders who attended.

The snack machines got a real workout and the pool tables were in constant use all evening.

This dance was the first of the regular Friday night dances scheduled for senior high school students at the Neighborhood Club.

After the New Year, special activities for both Junior and Senior High School students are being planned for Saturday nights as well.

Both the junior and senior high school lounges will be open to students after school hours until 5:30 daily.

During the holiday vacation the Club will be open from 10 o'clock to 5:30 o'clock daily, and 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock, evenings.

Fine Pointes of Real Estate

By C. W. Toles, Jr., Realtor

Tax on Real Estate Sales Ends — Momentarily

On the stroke of midnight at the close of 1967, the long-standing federal tax on the sale of real estate will terminate. Such sales have been taxed at the rate of 55 cents on each $500 of sale price. If a house sold for $42,000, the seller affixed to the deed $46.20 in U.S. Documentary stamps. This tax was imposed in 1862 to help finance the Civil War. Apparently the government now feels that one of our wars is paid for.

An event as rare as the repeal of a federal tax should, at this time of year, warrant additional celebration on New Year's Eve throughout most of the country, but not here. Our legislators in Lansing have thought of a way to fill the vacuum. With the arrival of 1968, Michigan counties will begin collecting a tax on the sale of real estate. The rate? 55 cents on each $500 of sale price.

Busy New Year At Arts Institute

The first weeks of the New Year will be busy ones at the Detroit Institute of Arts, where final preparations for the biggest art show of 1968 are currently being made.

To herald the opening of this major exhibition, invitations are now in the mail to a formal subscription dinner-preview for visiting dignitaries and patrons of the Arts Institute's Founders Society, which is funding the "Century of Masterpieces" here.

The dinner-preview will be held at the Museum Monday evening, January 8.

Mrs. Lester F. Ruwe, of Touraine road, is chairman of this elegant event in honor of "Romantic Art in Britain, 1760-1860," which brings together 236 paintings and drawings by 85 British artists.

Showing the influences that led to the modern art explosions of the 19th century, it is the most important and original exhibition of British Art ever held in the United States or abroad.

"Romantic Art in Britain," under the official patronage of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and President Lyndon B. Johnson, will be open to the public January 9 through February.

An informal lecture by Dr. Frederick Cummings, assistant director of the Arts Institute, and a tour of "Romantic Art in Britain" will be a special feature of the January 11 tea and coffee reception for all members and prospective members of the Founders Society's Activities Committee.

Mrs. Henry B. Kinzie, of Beaupre avenue, is chairman of the reception, to begin at 10:30 o'clock in the morning in the Institute's Art Rental Galleries.

The Art Rental Galleries are obtaining reproductions of some of the items in the exhibition, supplementing a large inventory of approximately 300 framed paintings, prints and sculpture by Michigan artists and 1,000 framed reproductions.

"With Love, From Jean"

Let it not be said that the art of the personally-made, labor-of-love Christmas gift has been lost forever, not, at least, in the presence of any member of the family of Dr. Robert E. Burns, of Maumee aveae.

For the Burns are the recipients of such a gift: A Hensel and Gretel House, constructed from literally hundreds of different candies and confections, built over a period of many weeks by Jean T. Hewitt, of Rivard boulevard, who presented it to her friends before leaving for a Christmas holiday in New York.

The House is entirely edible — Jean's only "cement" is an egg white-and-sugar paste — and each detail is literally a masterpiece, including the Witch's Face, (ugly indeed!), created by molding and kneading a caramel until just the right expression was obtained.

Lynne Egan Bows At 'Heavenly' Party

Debutante Is Honored By Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Large At Small Dinner In Their Elm Court Home Home Preceding Dance

The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club was transformed into a holiday heaven of twinkling lights, Christmas trees and angels for the Saturday evening, December 23, dance which Lynne Marlene Egan made her bow to society.

The debutante, a fresh-faced beauty, was introduced at Endicott Junior College and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Egan, of 10000 Lakeshore road, received her guests in the Club's ballroom, where white and gold trees set the holiday mood.

Lynne wore a floor length gown of celery green silk and tulle, trimmed with crystals and pearls at the neckline. She carried her father's gift bouquet of Amazon lilies and a corsage of pink lilies.

Her gown chose a gown of pink French silk, its bodice encrusted with beads and sequins at front and back. A cage of greenery encased the chandelier in the Yacht Club's ballroom, where strings of white lights and white and gold balloons criss-crossed the ceiling and large Christmas trees, trimmed with bows and gold lights, were placed in the room.

Decorative silhouettes, centered on Lynne's name, were featured on the bandstand, where Qualey's Orchestra alternated with a rock 'n' roll group. Large figures rising from the "clouds" centered the Gamrath, of Neff road, and the late Mr. Gamrath, and John Willis Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Wood, of Charlevoix avenue, exchanged marriage vows.

Following a reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, the newlyweds left for a vacation in the Virgin Islands. They will be making their home in Detroit.

For the 8 o'clock rites the bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Tom, of Los Angeles, Calif., selected a floor length frock of candlelight satin and a matching full length coat styled with elbow length Venetian lace sleeves.

Her lace-edged illusion mantilla fell from a ribbon flower headpiece, trimmed with seed pearls, and she carried an arrangement of ivy, stephanotis and roses.

Her attendant, Charlotte Ann Taylor, wore a floor length frock of aqua embroidered ribbon on net. A short aqua veil fell from her seed pearl-trimmed ribbon flower headpiece, and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The bridegroom's mother selected a dress and matching jacket of lime green satin, and pinned a corsage of green cymbidium orchids to her purse.

It's A Dancing Debut For Merrill Casgrain

Pine Manor Junior College Student's Uncles And Aunts Fete Her At Dinner Before Her Formal Presentation

In a Christmas setting at the Country Club of Detroit Friday evening, December 22, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Casgrain, II, of Merriweather road, introduced their daughter, Elizabeth Merrill, to society.

Preceding the dance, Merrill, named after her mother, was honored by her uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Canfield, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kelly, Jr., at a dinner party.

Setting for the dinner, too, was the Country Club. Guests were seated at tables centered with hurricane lamps holding Christmas candles, surrounded by holiday greens.

For the dinner, Merrill selected a sleeveless, floor length dress of pale pink silk-and-wool, accented at the back with tiny jeweled buttons. Her mother wore a celery-colored dress of silk-and-wool, also sleeveless, accented with crystals and bugle beading at the neckline.

Merrill and her parents received their guests at the dance, which began later in the evening, in the Country Club's French Room.

The debutante's gown of white-on-white silk brocade was sleeveless, styled with a high neckline and petal-shaped back overskirt, edged with crystal beads and silver threads.

She carried a bouquet of pink and red Sweetheart roses, gift of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. William Bradford Canfield, who was unable to come from her Ormond Beach, Fla., home for the party.

Mrs. Casgrain chose a gown fashioned with a full white chiffon skirt and a bodice heavily beaded with gold and silver paillettes and iridescent crystals.

Arrangement of roses, matching those in Merrill's bouquet, were featured in the French Room, as well as Christmas green.

In the ballroom, where the One-Eyed Jacks alternated with Carl Edson, and his orchestra, a large Christmas tree, decorated with pink and red ornaments, sparkled over the dancers.

Smaller trees were placed in the Club's entrance hall. Red and green candles in gold containers, set in arrangements of holly and fern, centered the small tables at which guests gathered for breakfast.

Heading Merrill's corps of ushers, each of whom wore a small white carnation and holly boutonniere, was her brother, Charles William Casgrain, III.

Her nine other ushers were her cousin, William Bradford Canfield, III, Cleveland Thurber, III, Charles Wright, IV, John Robert Ballantyne, John B. Ford, IV, Thomas Jefferson Gage, Stephen Kemble Fischer, Nels Olson and Douglas Mitchell Boyer.

Man Is Dead

Paterson Raises Bond
Washington, who was still in custody, was brought before City Municipal Judge Douglas Paterson, who presided in the Woods court in Judge Goodrows' absence. The accused man stood mute on the third charge, and a plea of innocent was entered for him. Judge Paterson raised Washington's bond to $5,000, and the man was returned to jail when he could not meet it.

In the meantime, Owen and Bean seemed to have disappeared. Woods authorities were unable to locate them to serve the additional warrants.

Nothing was heard from Owens, nor his whereabouts known, until Detroit police called Plumb and notified him that Owens had been fatally shot in an argument at 9:10 p.m., Christmas Day, in an apartment at 1876 Gladstone. Owens had been shot four times with a revolver. A suspect was arrested and is being held for investigation of murder.

Woods police are still looking for Bean, and have asked for Detroit's help in locating him, Plumb said.

Had Market Staked
Owens, Bean, Washington and the woman were arrested on the December 15 date, while Woods officers were staking out the supermarket, in the event a gunman who has been holding up supermarkets and drug stores in the Detroit area, might hold up the store. Several days earlier, Food Fair in Mack avenue was robbed of more than $1,100 dollars by the bandit.

The foursome were in a stolen car, bearing stolen plates, and were trying to cash one of several checks stolen from The Precision Design, Inc., of 2799 Coolidge, Berkeley, Mich. All the checks were endorsed with phony names and with the address, 4000 Cooper street, Jackson, the location of Jackson Prison.

When the woman tried to cash a check for $11.14, the manager of the supermarket, William Stapledon, became suspicious and refused to honor the endorsement, and called officers taking part in the stake-out, who were in the store.

Engaged

At a small family party in their Rivard boulevard home December 26, Mr. and Mrs. Bissell Johnson, Jr., announced the engagement of their daughter, KATHLEEN ANN, to Joseph Ellul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ellul, of Yorkshire road.

Kathleen was graduated from St. Ambrose High School. Her fiancé was graduated from Grosse Pointe High School.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Bissell Johnson, of Washington road, and the late Mr. Johnson, and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Peabody.

She was presented to society last September, at a tea given by her paternal grandmother. Debby has attended the University of Colorado. Her fiancé attended the University of Kansas.

A pay-as-you-go policy is all right, but for the family budget it might not go far.

who, where and whatnot

by wboazit

And, now that the Big Day . . . is behind us, and the New Year still several days ahead, let's take a second look at the 1967 Christmas cards—and, this time, let's make it a longer look, a more leisurely one . . .

Madonna cards this year . . . range from the highly impressionistic, like the John O'Gorman's shimmering Nativity Scene, to the very traditional, like the reproduction of Giovanni Battista Pittoni's "Nativity With God The Father And The Holy Ghost" sent by Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Maguire, or Mary Conlisk Bruce's choice, Carlo Cignani's "Virgin and Infant" . . .

In between . . . are cards like the jewel-circled Madonna and Child sent by the Ed Bradys, the blue and gold Madonna and Child bringing greetings from former Pointer Mrs. C. Blount Slade, who now makes her home in the Nation's Capital, Andy and Bill Fisher's Holy Family Surrounded By Angels, the John Daniel Hitchens' gold-circled Madonna and Child, Joe and Evelyn Schrage's Madonna of the Roses, the Paul Marcos' elegant Madonna in a gilt frame, Kay Benzin's green and gold Madonna and Child, the Edward Goodriches' paler green and gold Holy Family, the Pete Fonts' Madonna of the Woods . . .

The Three Wise Men . . . are always a popular Pointe Christmas card motif. Alice and Pat Crowley's Magi come riding their camels out of a blue night, through a gold gateway. Carolyn and George Menold's gold-crowned Kings bow their heads and offer their gifts, as do the Kings on the card sent by Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Loranger. Louise and Don LaFond's gilt Magi stand upright beneath the Star, and young Heidi, Joseph and Wallace Bruce see themselves as Child Kings, bearing Child gifts to the Christ Child . . .

"Peace" . . . is the message the angel brings via Mrs. H. VerLinden Peez's stained-glass-window-on-a-red-background. "Peace" is written above the blue and gold Star of Bethlehem sent by the Gerald Schroeders, and a Dove decorates Jane Sutherland's scarlet Christmas tree . . .

The "Doration Cards" . . . are always popular here, too . . . Alma and Earl Fraser's Winter Forest Scene benefits the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America, Fred and Dorothy Hood and Mrs. Clarence J. Williams were among those sending the Michigan Cancer Foundation's Triple Peace Dove, the John Kingsley Roney and the Bruce Barseches among those who chose Christ Child Society's Madonna and Child . . . The Fred Codys selected a card from the Boys' Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit, the Jack Benfields and Mrs. Otis U. Walker both chose the card of the Michigan Heart Association. Harper Hospital's Webber Medical Center Fund's Church-in-the-City was sent by Mary and Rex Regan, the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Exceptional Children's Nativity scene by many, many Pointers, a charming "Christmas Mouse," drawn by one of the students at Clark School for the Deaf of Northampton, Mass., by Dr. and Mrs. Harold Cross . . .

And, of course, there's always Santa Claus . . . He pops up out of the card sent by Eileen and Dick Degener, wears a holly sprig in his hat on the card sent by Millie and Joe Burke, carries a table laden with Christmas goodies on the card sent by Kay and Frank Burger . . .

"Tiniest" greeting . . . we received this year was Shirley and Buz Smith's non-stirring mouse's wish for a "merry christmas and a happy new year." Marge and Dan Stack's Basketball Playing Angels. They use Christmas ornaments for balls, are delightful, as is Moira and Jack Hooper's Grinning Snowman with his "Holiday Cheer" sign . . .

Like a page out of an illuminated manuscript . . . is the Herald, Horn and Hart card sent by Grace and Dick Martin. "Friendship" is the theme of the George Herbert Zimmermans' card, and George and Audrey Johnson presented all THEIR friends with a "Map of Christmas." Lovely, tranquil snow scenes were selected by Margaret and Jimmie Kinnucan, Helen and Al Gostow and many others . . . Christmas Bells decorate the card of Charlotte and Paul Moreland . . . and a Partridge perches prettily on a Pear Tree in the center of the green and gold card sent by Serie and Luke Wigton . . .

Among the "Christmas Letter" senders . . . are Trudie and Earl Meyer, Ruth and Sheldon Drennan, Peg and Jack Bannister, (former Pointers; whose description of the lush life in Northern California ALWAYS seems to arrive at their Michigan friends' homes on the wettest, ugliest day of the year), Dorothy and Allan Foster, who moved several months ago to Warsaw, N.Y., and enclosed a picture of their lovely old, (it was built in 1822), "new" home . . .

Speaking of New Homes . . . Stanley and Esther Smith sent a picture of theirs, too: "Birch Bluff," at Harbor Springs, and the information that they will be "at home" there after May 1. The house is a chalet, nestled between pine trees on top of a snow-covered hill—we'd like to be "at home" there right now!

Talented artist . . . Ginny Thibodeau creates the cards she sends from herself and husband Bob; this year, as always, her card is magnificent . . . and Carolyn Hubbard Lucas always writes a poem for the card she and Russell send to their many, many friends . . .

MRS. WILLARD S. SMITH, OF COLONIAL ROAD

By Janet Mueller

Jane Smith had a birthday last month, and her second daughter, Susie, 13, came up with a Very Special Card—and present. "She gave me a pattern, material, everything I'd need to make myself a dress," Jane smiles.

"I told her: 'After the holidays, you can teach me how to sew . . . I suppose one's never too old to learn: I'd like to try . . .'"

Susie's card, handmade, ("All the kids always make their own cards," Jane observes), features a cartoon of Mother-literally-entangled-in-a-sewing-project.

"It makes me look very harried," Jane grins, "but I don't think IT looks half as harried as I actually will BE when I do start sewing . . ."

Notice: Jane uses the adverb "when," not "if," in conjunction with her proposed sewing project. That's typical.

Competently, Completely Once Jane decides to do something, it's only a matter of time before she settles down to doing it—and once she settles down to doing it, harried or not, she insists on doing it competently and completely.

She's been doing a lot of things competently and completely in the past few years. She's handled secretarial duties for her husband two days a week, from the time he opened his own advertising agency four years ago until a few weeks ago, when his agency formally merged with that of E. W. Baker, Inc., forming Baker-Smith, Inc.

She's served as Mother Vice-President of the Barnes School Parent-Teacher Association and is serving as secretary of the Brownell Junior High School P-T-A. (Interestingly, Ernie—the E. W. mentioned above—Baker is current president of the Brownell P-T-A.)

Four in Three Schools Two of the Smith children, Susie and her brother Sandy, 12, are Brownell students. The oldest "young" Smith, Laurie, 15, attends Grosse Pointe High School, and Doug, eight, is at Barnes.

Jane's also been involved with her Kappa Kappa Gamma fraternity's work at the Rehabilitation Institute in downtown Detroit. Right now, she's chairman of Kappa Kappa Gamma's Rehabilitation Institute volunteers. She's been going down to the Institute herself every Wednesday, taking the library cart around and generally helping out wherever she can.

Her newest project is the Grosse Pointe Motion Picture and Television Council, of which she's the present membership chairman.

Jane feels very strongly about the quality and subject matter of many modern films, especially in relation to today's young audiences.

Where Can They Go? "No one likes censorship," she explains, "but it's a real problem . . . I remember when I was a teenager, going out on movie dates . . . Where do the kids go now? Where CAN they go, if they don't want to be embarrassed?"

Recently, she became so incensed by a display of movie ads in a daily newspaper that she cut out the page, circled the ads, wrote a "covering note"—"We want to take our children to the movies this weekend. What do you suggest?"—and mailed the whole bundle off to Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America. So far, Mr. Valenti has not responded.

Jane's a transplanted Easterner, raised in Larchmont, N.Y. She met Bill, originally from Highland Park, when both were students at William and Mary.

"But we didn't get to know each other too well there (at William and Mary)," she says, "because Bill's education was interrupted by World War II."

After the War, Bill went back to get his degree at William and Mary. He met Jane again at a New York advertising agency, where she was a secretary and he was a radio and TV trainee.

Jane, like many ex-coeds, had taken crash courses in typing and shorthand after graduation in order to get a job.

Unfortunately, (perhaps we should say "fortunately," as things turned out), her shorthand style developed into something unique—so unique, in fact, that she very often found herself staying after work to decipher it. Bill stayed to help her.

The Smiths moved to Grosse Pointe 13 years ago, rented for a while and finally built their present Colonial home in Colonial road 10 years ago.

Notice: They built a "Colonial" home in "Colonial" road. That's typical.

Share Love of Colonial Undergraduate days at William and Mary have left their mark; Jane and Bill both love their Alma Mater, love the Colonial Williamsburg atmosphere, love everything Early American.

Their house reflects their taste, including such pieces as Jane's grandmother's antique clock and "Nice Duck and Naughty Duck," reproductions of Williamsburg doorsteps.

Last month, they took the whole family back to William and Mary for Homecoming. "The girls have decided definitely that they want to go there," Jane beams. "We'd like to make Homecoming an annual family excursion; if one of the girls DOES go there, it will be a perfect excuse . . ."

The Smith family had been to Williamsburg before, in 1965, via "land yacht," a hectic experiment in self-contained-on-the-road living of which Jane says, "We survived."

They Love Motoring Actually, they like to travel by car. They drove down for the Homecoming Weekend, passed the time "singing, playing games, working on Susie's Spelling List . . ."

"I'd just love to have all next summer 'off," so Bill and I could take the children and head out West," Jane muses. "That's probably a hopeless wish at this time, but some day, before everyone's 'grown-up,' I'd really like to do it . . ."

Jane thoroughly enjoyed going "back to work" for Bill, even though it meant devising a rather elastic household chore schedule. "I kept finding my self," she admits, "doing laundry on Sundays . . ."

She based her office hours around her children's schedules, making sure to be on hand when they returned from school.

Occasionally, she'd bring work home, tackle it on the "ancient typewriter" she kept in the basement. "I have a feeling I am really going to miss my job," she says—then adds, with a smile, "But I told Bill and Ernie: 'I still have my old typewriter!'"

Has Compensations Being "fired" does have its compensations, however. Now Jane can devote more time to her own special interests and activities. Chief among these is her work at the Rehabilitation Institute.

"Rehabilitation," she explains, "is Kappa Kappa Gamma's national project. The Detroit Alumnae Chapter, of which Mrs. Alexander Leete, of Lakeshore Lane, is president, does most of its work with and for the Rehabilitation Institute."

moved here from the East, "didn't know a soul" and wanted to find a few friends.

She found more than a few. "There are," she estimates, "about 150 active members in the Detroit Alumnae Chapter."

A Fantastic Place She also found a continuing, consuming interest in the Rehabilitation Institute.

"It's a fantastic place," she explains, "equipped to train patients to function as useful citizens in the world. There are even special kitchens for wheelchair patients . . ."

The Kappas assist the Institute in a variety of ways. Kappa volunteers type the patient-written and patient-edited Institute newspaper, "Rehab Record."

The Kappas give a community "Birthday Party" every three months for Institute patients. Last December, the patients "turned the tables" on the Kappas, presenting a special program, "Kappa Kapers," in honor of the irate volunteer.

Kappas have served as Rehabilitation Institute guides, as "personal shoppers" for patients unable to shop for themselves, as letter writers and, like Jane, as library cart "pushers."

Have Special Projects They've provided funds for special Institute projects and equipment, most recently for a patients' kitchen. Their big money-raising project this year is a Salad Buffet luncheon, to be held next May at the Grosse Pointe Congregational Church.

They hope this Second Salad Buffet will be as successful as the first—"Last year's," Jane reports, "was a sell-out success!"

Jane's taken her daughters down to the Institute. Laurie and Susie seem to have inherited their mother's penchant for "volunteering;" both help out at the Foundation for Exceptional Children during summer vacations.

The Smiths are more "summer" than "winter-sport" oriented. All play tennis, except Bill, (he likes golf).

Jane's been "hooked" on tennis since she squeezed on her college tennis team, ("I was the last named member; I got to take the trips"). Sandy and Laurie each won in their age-group classifications in last summer's Roland Gray Tennis Tournament.

Also Enjoy Swimming The whole family enjoys swimming. Sandy and Doug participate in Little League Baseball, everyone dabbles in art.

Both the girls sew, and Laurie is exhibiting a definite talent for fashion design.

"I can't sew a stitch," Jane says ruefully, "but Laurie and Susie learned how at good old Brownell. We gave them a sewing machine last Christmas, and they've made dresses, shifts, skirts . . ."

Very soon now, it will be Mother's turn. Jane's not exactly overjoyed at the prospect. ("I never particularly WANTED to make clever things with my hands," but she's willing to try.)

Warn Travelers On Liquor Tax

Holiday travelers to Canada have been reminded that liquor which is purchased in so-called "duty-free" export shops along the border must be declared to United States Customs if any of it is returned to the U.S.A.

District Director of Customs Louis A. Mezzano warned that all persons entering the United States from foreign countries must declare all purchases, and pay the necessary duties. Failure to declare merchandise acquired abroad can result in confiscation or fines or both. These penalties may be applied not only to gifts and other articles obtained in Canada, but also to liquor returned to this country after having been purchased at the "duty-free" export shops in the United States.

Mr. Mezzano said: "The fact that liquor was bought at a 'duty-free' export shop doesn't mean that you can bring it back into the United States without paying duty."

"Liquor sold in the so-called 'duty-free' export shops does not have the internal revenue tax paid on it, and if it is imported liquor the Customs duty has not been paid."

"This liquor is for sale to people entering Canada, subject to the legal requirements of the Canadian government. But if it is brought back into the United States, it is subject to Federal and Michigan State taxes in the same amount as though the liquor had been bought in Canada."

"If you bring back liquor purchased from these shops, it must be declared at the United States Customs, and any duty or taxes due must be paid before it can be released. Failure to make a proper declaration subjects the liquor to seizure and the importer to a fine."

Suffering in silence wouldn't be so bad if everyone knew what you were doing.

Village Retains Holiday Spirit

The spirit of Christmas does not end at Greenfield Village or the Henry Ford Museum when Santa Claus departs for the year. Special holiday activities in the Museum and Village continue through Dec. 31.

The Village continues to wear holiday trappings, with several of the historic homes trimmed with authentic early American Christmas decorations. The hospitality of earlier Christmases also is recreated as each visitor receives a complimentary cup of hot spiced cider in the 19th-Century Clinton Inn before enjoying a free carriage or sleigh ride back to the entrance (conditions permitting).
