Police Urge Precautions To Prevent Home Breakins

Burglaries have become a ment, or neighbor(s) as to the major problem, and appear to date of your departure and rebe on the increase. Most of the turn; 5. Leave shades, or blinds, breakins are almost certain to in normal position, not completebe tied in with drug addiction, ly closed; 6. Close and lock all in that they are committed by doors, INCLUDING the garage. addicts who sell their loot to raise cash to purchase drugs.

Only recently a burglar, a confessed drug user arrested by Park police, admitted to mail; 9. Use pin-tumbler cylin-breaking into more than 150 der locks (with a dead lock last July, averaging about $800 worth of valuable items from each home. The man said that he traded his loot to feed his heroin habit, and that this habit cost him $150 a day, and some times more.

Drug users, unless they are "loaded" with their own personal funds, mostly do not have sufficient income to take care of their habits, so they resort to burglaries, armed robberies, muggings, and other crimes, to get money.

It was disclosed by Park authorities, following the arrest of the burglar, that when he was driven around the Park residential areas, to point out the homes he had entered and looted, he did so without error, remembering each house he had visited.

Not only that, police said, the man had become so proficient in his illegal trade, that he was able to point to other homes. almost as fast as a snap of the fingers, and state whether or not anyone was at home.

The detectives who accompanied the burglar-drug addict, said that they themselves were appalled as they passed a number of residences to note how many garage doors were wide open, with houses darkened, showing not a single ray of light anywhere on the property. This is a virtual invitation to be robbed, the officers said, whether this is during the daylight hours, or during the nighttime.

Burglars spend their daylight hours, or during the nighttime hours canvassing neighborhoods, looking for signs indicating the absence of occupants. They spend their evening hours looking for darkened houses, or inside lights that are left on too long.

It is a known fact that thievesin-the-night hate to do their work where there are lights because they can be easily seen, authorities state. The cheapest insurance a householder can have, on leaving home for a while, is to turn on outside lights, as well as a lamp or two in the house. Also, to stimulate a someone-home atmosphere, leave a small radio on, in the family room, or den.

Sure, police say, this may up your electric bill a little each month, but what is this compared to losing money and valu-ables, especially irreplaceable family heirlooms, to the nocturnal visitors. Add to this, the trouble of putting things back in order, or possibly paying the cost of probable damage to property.

"And, for pete's sake" the authorities stressed, keep garage doors closed and locked. If a lock is broken, replace it, or if you do not have one, get one and use it ! Another thing police stress, ALWAYS report suspicious persons, and questionable or dangerous actions, even if you think they might not be worth report-ing. It has been said before, and it will be said again and again, that the police officers greatly prefer to respond to a call and find nothing remiss, than not receive a call and later find a crime had taken place. Keep the telephone number of your police department near your phone, and other emer-gency call numbers, for that matter. If you cannot recall the number of your police depart-ment, dial "O" for operator. She will be glad to connect you with your department without delay. If you are leaving home for an evening, or extended period of time, here are some more rules to follow, depending on

Young Shoplifter Nabbed in City

George Sassin, manager of Krogers, 16919 Kercheval, called City police on Thursday, February 5, to report he was holding a young shoplifter. The 16-year-old had stolen two pair of panty hose, valued at $1.26 each and two packages of candy bars valued at 50 cents.

The officers also found some pen markers, which the youth admitted taking from Kresge's, at 17101 Kercheval. He was taken to the City station and his father notified. He was released to his father.

and bounced at every rut and bump.

That's because most cars are designed to provide a "boulevard ride." Provided you stay on boulevards and turnpikes.

Articulated rear axle tames rough roads.

Try that same shortcut with a Mercedes-Benz. You'll appreciate the feeling of control when you slam into that first unexpected chuckhole. And you'll notice less pitching and bouncing over bumps and railroad crossings. Even washboard surfaces and cobblestones won't produce that skitterish, you're-about-to-lose-it feeling.

Our secret: An articulated rear axle.

Independent rear suspension

Tracks like an arrow

When you aim a Mercedes-Benz down an expressway, you'll find it tracks like an arrow, without those tiny steering corrections you used to make for "road wander."

Slap it over tar strips. The suspension soaks them up with firm control. Not four or five reverberations.

And if you've ever been lulled by highspeed expressway driving into taking an exit just a bit too fast, you'll appreciate the adhesive cornering power of Mercedes-Benz' independent suspension. It gives you an extra margin of control that somehow keeps your palms a little drier and your brake foot a little less itchy.

How to judge a car

Before you judge the character of a car, you should view it as a totality. Somewhat the way you judge the character of a person. So here are a few more points to help you judge a Mercedes-Benz.

1. Our overhead-camshaft engines are precisely machined, balanced and bench tested to withstand the rigors of Germany's autobahns. At American speed limits, a Mercedes-Benz is literally loafing.

2. Subtle characteristics of tires have profound effects on the overall performance of a car. Tires used on our cars are tuned to the movements of our suspension, so they'll work as integral parts of the total system.

3. All the engineering and automotive

Congratulations, Scouts

The NEWS this week joins with all Pointers in both congratulating and praising the Boy Scouts of America on the occasion of their 60th birthday. More than 5,000 young Pointers take part in the activities of the community's 12 Boy Scout Troops each year, adding not only to their own good image but that of the community.

Dedicated to God, country and family, Boy Scouts have compiled a fine record of service in the past and hold an even greater promise for the future. From the rank of Tenderfoot to Eagle Scout, these youngsters, their sponsoring organizations and many volunteers have thrown themselves into the task of making today's boypower the successful manpower of the future. In a day and age when youthful rebellion against established codes and conduct seems almost commonplace, it is refreshing and encouraging to see the work of the Scouts.

The NEWS particularly salutes those hard-working volunteers, who strive daily to make these young men truly prepared for the leadership of tomorrow's world. P. J. L.

An Elegant Reception Did you know that the United Negro College Fund, Inc.'s reception honoring Dr. Clifton Reginald Wharton, Jr., Michigan State University's new president, and Mrs. Wharton, is set for THIS Saturday evening, at the Lake-shore road home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Glaney, Jr.?

And did you know that the elegant party's under the patronage of His Excellency The Governor of Mich-igan and Mrs. Milliken and His Honor the Mayor of Detroit and Mrs. Gribbs?

And did you know that although the invitations aren't in the least stuffy, stating only "black tie preferred," just about everyone's "preferring?" . . .

Did you know that the curtain rises tomorrow at the Players Playhouse in East Jefferson avenue on Theatre Arts' second performance of the season?

It's a three-act drama this time, "Woman Upstairs," and just about everyone connected with it, from guest director Mrs. Erwin H. Foesterling to make-up super-visor Mrs. James E. Tomkins, is a Pointer. The producers, Mrs. Rex L. Brophy and Mrs. Kenneth Locke, are . . . So are cast members Mrs. Arnold Combrinck-Graham, Mrs. David A. Coolidge, Mrs. John Denier, Mrs. James B. Doll, Mrs. J. Wilfred Harrison, Mrs. R. Gerald Jordan, Mrs. Jack Mills, Mrs. John Nelson, Mrs. Otis U. Walker and Mrs. Bernard Whitley. So are Mrs. Robert B. Healy, in charge of proper-ties, set supervisor Mrs. Edward Suits and costume supervisor Mrs. William Evans.

In fact . . . Did you know that the remaining three ladies involved in the production, actors Mrs. Mayne F. Glock and Mrs. Carl Schlegel and Mrs. Russell McLaughlin, responsible for lighting, AREN'T Pointers?
