

North Classes Slate Revue

North High School's Distributive Education, (DE), 1 class will present a fashion revue with the theme, "I Like What I Like," in the school auditorium on Thursday, January 9, at 7:30 p.m.

The two DE classes at North have been working on the project with teachers Brian Killian and William Thorpe since the end of November.

Among merchandisers being represented are Jacobson's, Kay Baum, Leed's Men's Wear, A Little Bit of Everything and Bridal Originals by Jackie.

Students have taken charge of the entire revue and their duties include supplying props, backstage sets and lighting.

Loretta Green, a top model for Ebony magazine, will coach both boys and girls on walking and turning.

"This will not be a tea and crumpet show," asserts Mr. Killian. "There will be a wide range of fashions — everything from 'Susie Sorority' to David Bowie."

The idea behind the show is to give first year DE students experience, and to thank community merchants for hiring North co-op students. The DE classes also are hoping to learn effective ways of promoting the sale of merchandise.

Tickets for the revue are $1 and may be purchased at the door.

Inherited dishonesty is the only thing some honestly acquire.

'Partners' Retiring Together

By Roger A. Waha

While retiring Woods Public Safety Officers KENNETH METCALF, 55, (left), and RUSSELL ALLARD, 53, didn't join the department the same year, they still have a great deal in common. Besides their friendship, both spent their last day at work on Tuesday, December 31, and both will be honored the same evening at their retirement party Thursday, January 16.

And that's not all. Both are former Shores public safety officers and both were partners for seven years as fire apparatus engineers during the 24-hour shift period.

Officer Metcalf spent over 13½ years as a Shores officer before joining The Woods department in September 1952, while Officer Allard was a Shores officer for over three years before going to The Woods in July 1949.

While each enjoyed his work in The Shores, they went to The Woods department because the city, at that time, was a growing community and officers' activity was broader.

Officer Allard recalls as a Shores officer, "I handled ambulance runs in Grosse Pointe Woods and Gratiot Township, (Harper Woods), in 1946 as there were no ambulances in either. These communities were serviced by the police end of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department."

After both men became Woods officers, they had a variety of responsibilities besides the regular police and firefighting duties of a public safety officer.

These included being driver's license examiners, plus that most enjoyable "partnership."

"We went into a 24-hour shift where we were driving engineers and partners for seven years," said Officer

Metcalf. "Russ ran the first truck, (the pumper), and I ran the second truck, (the snorkel). We knew what the other was going to do, and we ran as a good team."

They worked together from February 1963 to June 1970 with 24 hours on and 24 hours off.

During this period, Officer Allard also was the fire inspector, a post he held for 13½ years until 1971 when budgetary considerations by the city resulted in a policy change with the job being removed from the public safety department.

"I'd come in at 8 a.m. and go out around 9 a.m. as a fire inspector," said Officer Allard. Then, there was paper work in the afternoon and from 5 p.m. on he was an engineer in the firefighting part of the job.

Meanwhile, Officer Metcalf, besides being an engineer, also drove the emergency ambulance and served on the police desk with its variety of duties.

Both have enjoyed many contacts with youngsters in the schools and at the department. Officer Allard gave many fire safety talks to children in the school, while Officer Metcalf was a "tour guide" par excellence to groups who visited the station.

"I'd work with the chil-

Police Officers in Woods Retire Together

dren during the tours, explain the equipment and how it works and talk on school, street and fire safety. I enjoyed being with the youngsters. They were just great and this work gave me lots of satisfaction... plus lots of "thank you" letters," stated Officer Metcalf.

Both men have had, as one might imagine, innumerable experiences throughout their careers. Officer Metcalf had two particularly harrowing ones which almost cost him his life.

In the early 1960's, Lt. Jack Patterson saved his life by pulling him away from an oncoming car after Officer Metcalf, during a fire at Peters Funeral Home, walked in front of the fire truck and was grazed by the motorist, who didn't see him.

The second incident happened several years ago. This was at a house fire at Vernier road and Fairway lane in which three children lost their lives.

While fighting the blaze in a smoke-mask, the fire was so hot that it burned the oxygen out of the mask causing him to lose consciousness. Officer Donald Sun saved his life by pulling him out of the building. The next thing he knew was waking up in Saint John Hospital.

Officer Allard said one highlight of his career occurred this year when he stopped a car on Mack avenue with one headlight illuminated and discovered various electrical equipment inside which proved to be stolen from a St. Clair Shores home.

The trio involved were all convicted with one man admitting that he could have been involved in around 1,000 burglaries in Wayne and Macomb Counties over a five-year period.

A more agonizing experience occurred in the late 1960's during a July 4th fireworks display when an aerial bomb failed to reach its attained height and exploded in a crowd of people on Sunningdale. Seven were injured and the officer received a nasty eye burn from a piece of phosphorus.

Both officers stressed they will miss the men with whom they work, the most.

"After being here so long, retirement is a big change. I'll miss working with the guys, plus it's interesting work with something different every day. Young guys, who are coming in, look after the older guys on the job. We are almost like fathers to them," stated Officer Metcalf, who added he also will miss the challenges of firefighting.

"I'll miss the men. You can't work with fellas for 30 years and not miss them," stressed Officer Allard. He also said he'll miss the tactical shift, (from 5 p.m.-1 a.m.), because "if anything comes up, I'm usually in there."

Officer Metcalf said he plans to move to Florida in the fall and work for another four to five years to get the rest of his social security in. He wants to pursue some kind of security work, possibly as a bank security guard.

His "partner" plans to stay in The Woods for a year and then move to a home near Atlanta, Mich., where he has 10 acres near the Thunder Bay river.

Drawing upon their years of experience as police officers, both men had some helpful advice for their young associates.

Officer Metcalf cited changes in the training program including a greater emphasis upon acquiring a "better education." But he said, "I want them to realize the most important thing about our job is common sense."

Chiming right in, Officer Allard said, "It's not all in the book. You either know it or you don't. You can acquire common sense, (as related to police work), with time and experience. Every day brings something new in this regard."

Some departmental members might feel "the end of an era" is approaching with the retirements of the officers, who have played solid and steady roles in the growth of the department.

Public Safety Director Henry Marchand said, "They have been fine, dedicated police officers and have put the city first. I'm sorry to see them leave. They have worked hard and deserve their retirement, and I want to wish them a continual, healthy life."

Their retirement party will be held in the Revere Hall, 24725 East Jefferson avenue, St. Clair Shores, at 8 p.m. Tickets at $10 per person are available at departmental headquarters, 20025 Mack avenue.

As for the retirement party, Officer Metcalf said, to his knowledge, this is the first time two Woods officers have retired together and have had a party at the same time.

But that's the way it should be for the "partners."

Men who consider consequences are able to control causes.

Guests' Wallets Looted at Party

A rip-off artist was hard at work during a gathering held at the Lincoln road residence of John Hoben early Saturday morning, December 28.

Mr. Hoben told City police he and a group of his friends had gone to Olympia Stadium to see a hockey game and returned to his home afterwards.

It wasn't until the party broke up that several of the guests noticed their wallets were missing from their purses.

Two of the women had left their purses sitting alongside the sofa in the living room and another purse had been placed on the dining room table. One wallet contained about $40 and 10 charge plates, another about $7 or $8 and one charge plate. The third had some charge plates.

At 7 p.m. Saturday police heard from Mr. Hoben who said all the wallets had been found, minus the cash they had contained, in a paper bag in his home. Police surmise one of Mr. Hoben's guests had taken the money.

ULS Juniors Planning Sale to Finance Prom

University Liggett School juniors will be sponsoring a rummage sale Thursday-Saturday, January 9 through 11, in hopes of raising enough money to fund their prom.

Bill Gilbride and Patty Perry, co-chairmen, report this year's event, to which all ULS students and faculty are invited, will be held on February 1, in the Crystal Ballroom of the War Memorial.

The two say the prom is an annual event; something each Junior class plans, organizes and presents. Ideas on how it might be financed start circulating when each class enters high school as freshmen.

Claiming they started out with 79 cents, Patty and Bill explain that last year class members sold soda at various athletic events and this year a bake sale and car wash boosted their kitty to $500. "We would have had more," Patty explains, "but someone stole $75 during a basketball game last year."

Patty and Bill have experienced other setbacks. "It's difficult to get things moving," Bill asserts. "When we try to make arrangements, people just think of us as kids and put us at the bottom of the list."

However, the class has been assisted by mothers and the services of faculty advisor Mrs. Mary Remillet have been greatly appreciated.

Organizational meetings are held each Saturday and Patty and Bill figure they dedicate an average of five hours a week to working out prom business. This year's theme is Winter Wonderland which will be carried out with handmade decorations constructed from all sorts of imaginative materials.

ULS students and faculty seem to enjoy their proms. Patty and Bill estimate 250-350 people usually attend the event—a figure which might seem surprising these days. But the school has no homecoming and the price of a prom ticket is relatively easy on student wallets: $5 a couple, $3 a person.

Seniors are invited to attend free of charge. Admission basically just covers the cost of printing invitations and paying the War Memorial for everything, including overtime since the prom goes on from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The co-chairmen say they need an estimated total of $1,500 to make all the ends meet and they are hoping for a successful rummage sale to reach their goal. "We have to make sure we raise enough," they maintain, "and this is our biggie."

The sale will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Field House at 1045 Cook road. Mothers will be assisting with sales and students will work during their study hours.

"People always have rummage," Bill reflects, "and we'll take ANYTHING."

Patty, (881-6845), or Bill, (885-5023), will be only too glad to supply further information and/or pick-up services for donated items.

It follows that a man must raise the standard of his work if he's working for a raise.

School Retirees Receive Thanks

A number of school system employes are retiring at the end of the 1974-75 school year, and at a regular School Board meeting held Monday, December 9, Superintendent of Schools Dr. James A. Adams extended his thanks to each for their dedicated, unselfish and long-standing service to parents, citizens and children.

After 21 years of service, Director of Business and Finance Ray MacArthur plans to enter early retirement in mid-summer.

Mary McElroy, secretary to the Superintendent and the Board, will take mandatory retirement after 45 years of service.

Edward Snell, who was hired as a night watchman in 1934, for 50 cents an hour, will retire after 41 years of service. Since 1943 he held the position of Purchasing Agent for the system.

Frederick Renaud, head engineer at Brownell School, will enter mandatory retirement after 37 years on the job.

Mildred Trembley, secretary to the principal at Brownell, will take mandatory retirement after 18 years of service.

And finally, Frank Ervinek will retire from his post as custodian at North High in June.

Wealth is within the reach of all—but all do not reach it.

Charge Driver with Drinking

Joseph R. Brode of 18932 Lenore, Detroit, was arrested by Shores police at 2:19 a.m. on Thursday, December 26, and charged with driving while under the influence of liquor.

Public Safety Officers Michael Kenyon and Gary Mitchell were patrolling south on Lakeshore road, when at the Clairview intersection, they observed a car traveling at a high speed and in an erratic manner. The policemen gave chase and stopped the driver, Brode, opposite the George Osius Park on Lakeshore.

Kenyon and Mitchell said they witnessed the driver, Brode, weaving from right to left in one lane, and straddling the center lane.

Brode was traveling in excess of 50 miles an hour on the road, which is zoned for 35 miles, the officers said. They said they detected a strong odor of alcohol on Brode's breath, and that he had some difficulty in producing his operator's license when he got out of his car.

Brode was taken to the Woods station, with his consent, to take two breathalyzer tests, at spaced intervals. He failed both tests, it was said.

Brode was returned to the Shores station where he was issued a violation ticket for driving while drunk. He posted a bond of $150, after he sobered up, and is scheduled to appear in court on February 26.

Thieves Steal Cash, Vitamins

Thieves entered Vim and Vigor, Inc., 21151 Mack avenue, and took $84.30 and eight bottles of vitamin "E" tablets. The incident was reported to Woods police early Monday morning, December 23.

Officers said $83 in cash was taken from a petty cash box, while $1.30 in miscellaneous change was removed from a cash register.

Seven bottles of tablets, valued at $3.79 a bottle, plus one bottle of tablets costing $17.50, also were taken.

Police said entry was gained by breaking out a plate glass window north of the entrance door.

Take Three TV's In Woods B-E

Three 19-inch portable color television sets, with a combined, total value of around $1,000, were snatched from Curto and Knight Goodyear, 19391 Mack avenue, said Woods police. The incident was reported on Sunday morning, December 29.

At the scene, Officer Robert Kwaitkowski discovered where the culprits shattered a 12-foot by 7½-foot window at the front. An 18-inch tire iron was found in the grass some eight feet from the broken window. Police believe this implement was used to crack the glass.

Two portable television stands were found lying on the floor, while two boxes containing 12-inch portable TV's were pulled partially off a display stand, police said.

WOMEN'S PAGES

From Another Pointe of View

By Janet Mueller

Joy came to Judy and Don Jensen this Christmas, and as presents go she simply can't be beat.

Joy is three years old, with the biggest blue eyes and the biggest dimples you ever saw. She walked into Don's heart last August 21, at noon. He was working at The Arrangement, his shop in Fisher road, when a woman came in with a lovely little girl. Don and the lady began talking, and in the course of their conversation it came out that the beautiful child Don couldn't take his eyes off wasn't the lady's little girl, was adoptable . . .

Don came home and told Judy all about the little girl, and there was no question of Judy "agreeing" that it would be nice if that little girl could be their little girl — before he got to the end of the story, she was way ahead of him.

Right then and there, they started the adoption ball rolling.

And three weeks ago last Tuesday, two weeks before Christmas, Joy came to the Jensen home in Rivard boulevard to stay.

And if you don't think THIS has been a happy Christmas for the three Jensens . . .!

Short and to The Pointe

North High School senior BRENDA SPIEWAK has received word from the director of the Wayne State Southeastern Michigan Junior Science and Humanities Symposium that she is to present her paper on a little-known ocular disorder, Adie's Syndrome, which she researched last summer at the University of Iowa as a participant in the Secondary Science Training Program, at the 11th Annual Symposium scheduled for Friday and Saturday, February 21 and 22. This year's Symposium theme is The Social and Moral Consequences of Science. Approximately 150 students participate. Twelve are selected to read papers, six chosen as alternates. North High's DAVID HOWELL has also been asked to participate in the 1975 Symposium, and may be asked to present his paper on Zoology, (Behavioral Objectives).

Among Siena Heights College students who spent part of their Thanksgiving vacation collecting toys to be distributed by the Adrian Kiwanis Club to needy families at Christmas was Pointer DENNIS MENZO.

Eunice Receives Her Eunice Orchid

Pinning his new orchid, named Cattleya EUNICE KURZ by JERRY KULAJA at the December Christmas tea of the Women's Guild of Saint James Lutheran Church, on Eunice herself is Mr. Kulaja. The new orchid, a large white cattleya, first blossomed this December, following successful cross pollination in November, 1967, of Cattleya Star Kissed and Cattleya Edgewood Pearl by Craig Foster, Blue Grass Orchids, Lexington, Ky.

During this year's Christmas services a floral arrangement of the Eunice Kurz orchids was placed on the altar cross and other white and red cattleyas were placed throughout the Church by Mr. and Mrs. Kulaja in memory of Saint James members Anita Bauman, Frederick Flemming, Leo Gale, James Montgomery, Alfred Munderloh, Norman Reynolds, Marion Robinson, Mabelle Rosenbusch and Paul Tossy who died during the year.

Mr. Kulaja has been a certified judge of the American Orchid Society since 1949, is a past-president of the Pointe Orchid Forum and a member of the Michigan Orchid Society. He carefully tends over 2,000 plants under glass at his Stonehurst road home. Mrs. Kurz, in whose honor the new orchid was named, is the wife of The Reverend George E. Kurz, senior pastor at Saint James.

Barbados is Vacation Destination for Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kins Alexander; Warren Home Awaits Their Return

Suzanne Elizabeth Ackerson wore her mother's wedding gown of ivory Chantilly lace, styled with a Sweetheart neckline, for the evening ceremony Saturday, December 21, at which she became the bride of Ronald Kins Alexander.

The Reverend Eugene T. Locke presided at the Barbour Chapel of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

The bride's ivory lace mantilla was shoulder length. She carried a cascade of white roses, white and red candy-striped carnations and holly.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Vivian Kent Ackerson, of Notre Dame avenue, and Lieutenant Colonel Earle L. Ackerson, of Holmdel, N.J.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Peterson, of Neff road.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Douglas Howlett, the bridegroom's sister, whose red velvet frock featured an ivory satin collar and cuffs. She wore a red velvet ribbon in her hair and carried a cascade of red carnations and holly.

Best man was Robert Wanke, Traver John Pelkey, Jr., and William J. Scott, III, ushered.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House following the ceremony Mrs. Ackerson selected a long, pleated dress of powder blue crepe.

Mrs. Peterson wore a long charcoal grey skirt with a white crepe blouse. Both mothers chose cymbidium orchid corsages.

The newlyweds will make their home in Warren upon their return from a Barbados vacation.

Grams Returns For Workshop

Former Pointer Dr. Armin Grams, professor of Human Development at the University of Vermont, will conduct a workshop titled Facilitating Learning and Individual Development: Shared Responsibility at The Merrill-Palmer Institute Saturday January 18.

Dr. Grams who served as a member of Merrill-Palmer's faculty from 1962 to 1971 is nationally known for his work in the area of family life.

The workshop will stress importance of the cooperative responsibility of home, school, community and professional services and agencies in the learning and development of children.

Dr. Grams is author of numerous professional articles and several books, including "Children and Their Parents," "Changes in Family Life" and "Sex Education: A Guide for Teachers and Parents."

He has served as a member of the faculties of DePaul University, the University of Wisconsin at LaCrosse and the University of Tubingen in West Germany. From 1957 to '62 he was an associate professor in the Institute of Child Development at the University of Minnesota.

He holds a Ph.D. from Northwestern University.

The workshop is open to the public. It will begin at 9 in the morning and conclude at 3 o'clock. The registration fee includes lunch.

Further information may be obtained by contacting workshop coordinator Claudia Walker at the Institute, 875-7450.

Mrs. R. K. Alexander

Marriage vows were spoken in the Barbour Chapel of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Saturday evening, December 21, by SUZANNE ELIZABETH ACKERSON, daughter of Mrs. Vivian Kent Ackerson, of Notre Dame avenue, and Lieutenant Colonel Earle L. Ackerson, of Holmdel, N. J., and Mr. Alexander, son of the Charles R. Petersons, of Neff road.

"It's just like she's lived here all her life! It's just super!" (That's a lot of exclamation points, but Judy has been living in an exclamation point world this holiday season.)

As for the new father . . . Don doesn't mind a bit being awakened in the middle of the night when it's by Joy, who puts her arms around him and says, "I love you."

They're Doing Their Bit

We're indebted to Brion Coury, a Certified Court Reporter in Detroit, for tipping us off about the Peter Bolos family, of Westchester road, who are doing their bit, practically, to conserve energy and cut down pollution.

The Boloses, Peter, his wife Georgette and Sadie Marie, 18, Steven, 17, Ramona, 14, and Barbara, 12, are a one-car family. By choice. With four drivers in the family, all going their separate ways, this takes some careful planning, but it CAN be done, and here, in a typical week, is how the Boloses do it:

Each weekday morning Peter drives to the bus line at Alter road and East Jefferson avenue. There he catches a bus and goes to work in downtown Detroit.

Later, Steven walks over to the bus stop, (about seven blocks from the Bolos home), picks up the car and brings it back to his mother, who drives the two younger children to school and does her own errands.

Mondays and Wednesdays, at 10 o'clock in the morning, Georgette goes out to Macomb County (Continued on Page 18)

Peterson-Johnson Rites Celebrated

Neff Road Home Awaits Pair Upon their Return from Bahamas Vacation; Pearl-Beaded Lace Yoke Accent: Bride's Gown

A reception at the University Club followed the Saturday, December 21, wedding of Susan May Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Johnson, of Trombley road, and Robert John Peterson, which the bride selected a white maracaine jersey gown fashioned with a pearl-beaded lace yoke and a chapel train.

Her illusion veil fell from a matching lace cap. She carried a Colonial arrangement of white roses.

In winter jade jersey frocks were honor matron Mrs. Michael Sheehan, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids Julie Burns, Sue Peterson, the bridegroom's sister, and Carol Schwartz, of Southfield.

Their Colonial bouquets were fashioned of red carnations and holly.

Junior bridesmaid Molly McBrearty, the bride's niece, wore a jersey dress floral-printed in jade and cranberry and carried a Colonial arrangement of red Elegance and holly.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Peterson, of Neff road, asked Ronald F. Berli to act as best man.

John Mabley, Robert E. Milligan, III, John Kendall, of Marshall, and Robert F. Ottaway seated the guests.

The mother of the bride wore a pale green silk gown, the bridegroom's mother a bone costume. Both selected green orchid corsages.

The newlyweds will be at home in Neff road after a vacation on Harbour Island in the Bahamas.

Among 35 recent "students" in Blue Shield's free medical assistants training class was Pointer VIRGINIA D'HONDT.

Nature's Crisis Time Is Here

Winter's Nature's annual crisis time and wild animals and birds need three essential elements to ensure their survival.

"The availability of food, shelter and water determines whether a wild animal will survive Michigan's long, cold winters," says Glenn Dudderar, Wildlife Management Specialist at Michigan State University. "Severity of weather is always a secondary consideration."

Dudderar explains that a pheasant with plentiful food and a spruce tree to sit under can survive the worst blizzards. But a well-fed bird with inadequate shelter may die under relatively mild weather conditions.

Wildlife adapts to cold weather in many ways and these changes are stimulated by a decrease in the number of daylight hours.

"Most animals go on a crash feeding program, building up thick layers of fat under the skin and around vital body organs. This helps preserve body heat and provides a convenient source of food energy."

In addition to increasing their body fat some animals cache food stores. Squirrels bury nuts over a wide area but often forget where they've stored their treasures.

As a result they unwittingly became tree planters, responsible for dispersing many of our nut-bearing species.

Changes also take place in the fur of some animals. "The white-tailed deer is more difficult to see in winter because the reddish summer coat is replaced by a grey coat of hollow brittle

Pointers Help Plan for Bicentennial

Among 500 attendants at the November 15 Detroit Bicentennial Conference at McGregor Memorial Conference Center were Pointers G. hairs," explains the MSU wildlife expert.

"The air trapped inside these hollow insulating barrier that readily sheds water and retains body heat."

Other animals grow a thick covering of fuzzy hair that resembles down.

"The effect is the same," notes Dudderar. "The normal long guard hairs that are present all year shed water and prevent the underfur from becoming damp. The underfur in turn traps a layer of warm air against the body."

Waterfowl, such as geese and ducks, are protected by a downy underlayer that permits them to move about happily in a snow-freezing water during a snowstorm.

A recent discovery indicates that animals reduce their activity during the most severe winter weather. "The more we study animal activity, the more energy-saving behavior we record," says Dudderar. "Everything is done more slowly during cold weather."

Few animals in Michigan truly hibernate. "Most of the so-called hibernating animals will sleep through the worst storms and extremely cold weather, then begin foraging for food again when milder days arrive," Dudderar explains.

"For example, it's not uncommon to see squirrels, skunks and chipmunks rummaging around on sunny days in January and February."

But, Dudderar advises people to recognize that winter is a time for dying, just as spring is a time for rebirth. "For some animal species survival is assured by the fact that most of them die off during the winter. Grouse and rabbit populations may be reduced as much as 66 percent."

Offer Arts Internship Program This Summer

The Michigan Council for the Arts, a state agency, is actively seeking individuals interested in advancing their careers in Arts Administration.

One or two qualified persons will be recommended for a 13-week Work Experience-Internship program conducted by the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D.C.

Internships will run from June 2 through August 29, 1975.

The program is designed to acquaint participants with the policies, procedures and operations of the NEA and to give them an overview of arts activities in this country.

Each intern will be assigned to one program division or office of the Endowment throughout the summer. Internship activities will include seminars, panel and National Council on the Arts meetings, grants-making procedures and administration of the Endowment.

There is no cost to the individual. A special NEA grant will be made through the Michigan Council to cover individual travel costs and fellowship stipends.

Candidates should submit an application to the MCA, a resume, academic transcript or description of current job responsibilities, letters of recommendation and a brief essay dealing with their career plans. Application deadline is March 17.

Phase I Topic To Be Detroit

The Future of Detroit will be topic Friday, January 5, for City Planner William Smith at a meeting of Phase I, the all-singles group which gathers at 7:30 o'clock each Sunday at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. A social hour will follow the program.

Phase I invites singles from 20 to 39 to attend its meetings and special events. The group is coordinated by G. T. Janke, 882-5330.

DSO's Players Go to Lansing

Eleven Detroit Symphony Orchestra musicians participated in a special Inaugural Day concert in Lansing on New Year's Day.

DSO executive director Marshall W. Turkin introduced the musicians to the assembly as they appeared on the program beginning at 1:30 o'clock in the State Capitol Building.

The Detroit String Quartet, comprised of musicians who have performed together professionally for nearly 20 years, was featured in Turkin's "La oracion del torero" and the final movement of Ravel's Quartet in F.

Quartet members are James Waring; Inez Redman, violins; David Ireland, viola; and Mario DiFiore, cello.

The four players were joined by seven additional musicians to complete an ensemble which offered works by Scott Joplin, ragtime selections including music from the motion picture "The Sting."

Participating in only this segment of the musical program were Ervin Monroe, flute; Oliver Green, clarinet; Gordon Smith, trumpet; Joseph Skrzyński, trombone; Rhonda Kersey, tuba; Muriel Kilby, piano; and Raymond Makowsky, drums.

Other institutions represented in this special presentation were Interlochen Arts Academy and the Michigan Opera Theatre. Admission to the performance was by invitation.
