Thursday, January 39 A BOMB DAMAGED parts of four floors of the tightly guarded State Department headquarters early today. The blast followed telephone warnings to news organizations by a self-proclaimed member of the Weathermen Organization. There were no injuries in the immediate area of a third floor restroom but broken pipes caused ex-tensive water damage. The building is under heavy guard with visitors prohibited from entering during business hours. A spokesman for the leftist Weather Underground Organization said the action was in protest of continued U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

A FIVE - YEAR financial forecast sent by the City of Detroit's budget Director Walter Stecher to Mayor Coleman Young and the city council predicts the city's an-nual budget deficit could reach $216 million by the 1979-80 fiscal year. He wrote that unless the economy recovers by the end of the 1976-77 fiscal year, the city may have to consider State receivership. Mr. Stecher pre-dicts a $100 million deficit in the next fiscal year but says it could be reduced to $50 million because of the recent layoff of 1,500 city workers.

Saturday, February 1 PRESIDENT FORD said today he will ask Congress to spend $349 billion in the next fiscal year. The figure includes record peacetime deficit spending of $1 billion a week. He said the budget includes no new government programs other than energy tee of the Michigan Senspending. This year's deficit ate in Allen Park during billion. The President said the islative proposals to regin fiscal 1976 to boost the country's staggering economy. The deficit would result largely from reduced federal tax revenues because of the recession and a sharp rise in government spending in unemployment benefits and other assistance.

YSD Counselors Pleased with Group Program

Pioneer Approach for Division Receives Favorable, Optimistic Comments from Officials, Who Want to Continue Viewing It Closely

By Roger A. Waha

"In view of member evaluation, consisting of verbal responses and questionnaires, counselors' evaluation and statistics presented, group counseling, in our opinion, is a viable alternative to individual counseling," said Youth Service Division counselors Fred Coonce and Thomas Canasi in their report outlining the division's first group program, which began last May 1 for a three-month period.

"Group counseling allows the counselor to deal with a the counselor to deal with a greater number of offenders as compared to individual counseling, while maintaining a high level of effectiveness," the pair stated. They also noted, "In essence, group counseling lends itself to a greater support of the Youth Service Division's basic goals of counseling."

The counselors have already started their second group program. This began the middle of last month and will continue through mid-April. Like last year's session, the program consists of weekly two hour meetings of boys between the ages of 14-16, although one 17-year-old is participating in the second program.
Use Many Techniques

Last summer's group began with 10 members.
After the first meeting membership ultimately settled and stabilized at eight. One youth left the community while the other requested transfer to the division's individual counseling program,

Various techniques were utilized by the counselors including role playing, trusting exercises, modeling, didactic interaction, group support/pressure and self-examination via values clarification.

This group program is a pioneering approach for the which has consistently utilized the "one-on-one" program. From the tone of their report, the counselors, who worked closely with Robert McDonald, program supervisor, children's services, Northeast Guidance Center, aren't only excited about the possibilities of the group program but are pleased with their first effort.

A hearty round of praise from members of The Farms Council greeted The Farms Police Department's Annual Report Monday, January 20.

"Usually it's a struggle to get through these things but I sat down and read this from cover to cover," commented Mayor William G. Butler.

The council members heartily agreed. Councilman Mark Stevens was so enthusiastic about the informative report that he suggested investigating some way for the police department to present the report to community res-

Association to Decide If Class C or Club License Best Fits Needs of War Memorial

By Barbara Bruno

Members of the Board of Directors of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association appeared before The Farms Council Monday, February 3, asking permission to obtain a Class C liquor license but the matter was tabled until March 17 to allow the association to research the require-ments for such a license more thoroughly. The council asked the association to notify neighboring residents of the proposed move, to determine exactly what regulations they want connected with the liquor license, and to decide if a Class C or a Club license best fits the needs of the War Memorial.

Cliff Ford, president of the board, explained to the council why the War Memorial is seeking a liquor license.

Regulated Service

He said the Center is "endeavoring to aid its own Program Committee and that of its community group users in staging charitable, cultural, educational and civic events successfully by complimenting the main project with limited and regulated alcoholic beverage service in addition to the food and beverage currently served."

He added that the Center is not trying to solicit additional patronage or have an open bar but is trying to maintain the groups it was designed to serve who have left the Center because cock-thought the suggestion a good one and the idea is accommodate the desires of nity that uses the War Memorial," he stated.

Mr. Ford said various rules and regulations controlling the dispensing of liquor would be included in the Center's By-Laws.

He noted controls would be placed on hours of service, the amount of liquor dispensed to individuals or groups and by knowing in advance which groups will be desiring alcoholic beverages.

Other Restrictions Numerous other proposed restrictions were included in the association's presentation to the council.

Speaking on Dr. Howe's contributions to this project. Mrs. Mullan called him, "One of the most interested citizens. He has done a great deal towards providing materials on what other cities are doing in this area."

On the funding front, both Mrs. Mulian and Dr. Howe cited the possibilities of utilizing the Mack avenue business occupancy tax, (Ordinance 327), as a base.

A section from this measure says that all fees received for the issuance of a certificate of occupancy will be credited to a special fund as may be designated by the city comptroller, and will primarily be utilized "for the purpose of improving or maintaining ecological, environmental or aesthetic values of any area zoned for business, commercial, professional or service operations' within the city,

He also has been invited to sit on the review board of the American Association for Respiratory Therapy for certifying new members, and he serves the Association as chairman of the National Legislation Committee.

Mr. Ingham was honored as Bon Secours' Employe of the Year where his concern for patients has been channeled into positive, constructive action to insure high quality care to all.

The well-attended banquet also honored Jaycee bosses for supporting the aims of their Jaycee employes and recognizing the value of the laycee organization.

gram," Mrs. Hanpeter said. "We are not unmindful that there are two sides to the question of binding arbitration," she added. "Sanctions should apply to both sides in the event of violation."

"Arbitrators involved this crucial process must be of the highest quality, Since this may require an upgrad ing of standards, training and remuneration, we suggest consideration be given to spelling out arbitrator qualifications in proposed legislation.

"Furthermore, definitive procedural rules must be developed for the use of the arbitrator and both parties.'

Mrs. Hanpeter's concluding remarks to the committee concerned Senator Plawecki's proposals,

"We like the provision for an automatic opening of school on the first Monday after Labor Day, This should be incorporated. We are concerned about the clauses dealing with penalties to school districts in the event of a lockout," she said

"Since our categorical aid is under $400,000 from the State, this total could be wiped out by a week-long strike. Then we assume if the strike lasted longer, local property taxes would be paid to the State. Is this legal? Is this not a double penalty on the district? If so, we oppose it. Regarding the proposed economic loss to teach ers, we feel that there should be a proration of salary for the calendar year rather than the school year.

"We dislike erosion of the school calendar. While we believe there is nothing magic in 180 days, we feel we must at least hold the line." Mrs. Hanpeter stressed, "We do not feel that the shortened school year, which penalizes the student, is a satisfactory solution."

'We are opposed to giving teachers the right to strike. The concept of options is appealing but we question what procedure would be used in determining which option the parties would select. We question the matter of the fine. No penalty should be levied against individual trustees.

"It would be difficult for our Board to accept willingly an arbitrator's decision for a program reduction that would diminish the quality of of the Jaycees and their in-volvement in the community. Hanpeter concluded.

Representatives of the four existing parent clubs at South High School have met with Dr. James Hoeh, principal to discuss the possibility of forming one parents

The group has explored the advantages that an umbrella organization modeled after North High's Parents Club could offer to South students and families.

Special interest groups such as the Dads Club, Band and Orchestra Parents and the Choral Parents Club would remain independent organizations with representatives to the Parents Club board acting as liasons and helping to coordinate all school activities.

The present four special interest groups do not satisfy the needs and interests of all parents so it's hoped that one club will offer a better opportunity for those wishing to be more involved and better informed about activities at

was the division's first "go" at this approach, that, on the surface, it appeared better results have been obtained with individual counseling.

But at the same time, he said, "As we become more experienced in group counseling, we'll become more effective and produce greater

While the approach has "we want to watch it carefully" and make certain that each new group program continues to show im#### provement, he added.

Raises Question He then cited a question in his own mind — "Should a semi- or quasi-police agency be directly involved in a counseling program?" said this particular point will be reviewed by the YSD's Board of Managers, (all Pointe city managers and a School Board representative).

In this regard, Mr. Petersen stated there may be some question legally if the division has business in this type of counseling, and this would have to be explored. In this regard, another point he felt deserved viewing is budgetary considerations for the

"This is our first attempt at group counseling, and we will naturally learn and improve as we go along," said Public Safety Director Henry Marchand, who felt this approach has "great potential."

Cites New Ideas

In noting that three of the eight youths had minimal contacts with the law four months after counseling, (in comparison with a higher contact rate for everyone four months prior to counseling), Director Marchand said a further exploration of basic problems confronting the trio would be helpful in this case, such as an in-depth interview.

The other five youths had no contacts four months after counseling, and everyone avoided contacts during the counseling period.

This is a workable approach for the future and has got to have potential, he said. 'Our counselors are always thinking in coming up with new ideas," while noting the overal! low-key approach be-

In saying this is going to be a coming thing which larger, financially strapped departments could utilize, the director stressed, "We're doing it because we want to."

Echoing the director's positive feelings is Det. Sgt. Bernard Kelly, YSD supervisor in the detective bureau. Sgt. Kelly said he was "favorably

Thanks Citrus Fruit Buyers

The South High School Instrumental Music Department recently completed a highly successful citrus fruit sale and is expressing its appreciation to all the people contributing to its cause.

The Bands and Orchestra are also grateful to the parents of students who helped distribute the fruit and special appreciation is extended to W. Philip Ardussi, National Accounts manager of Rentco, a division of Fruehauf, for the use of a semi trailer for storing the fruit until distribution.

Because of the success of this sale, the South Bands and Orchestra are planning to hold another in the fall of 1975, reports Craig Feringa, president.

LAST STRAW It's the trouble that's dumped on a man-not the trouble he expected - that is crush-

YSD Det. Michael Ferrence, who works closely with the counselors, recalled that the idea of group counprofessional back-up, as that given by Mr. McDonald), and because the counselors then weren't heavy in psychology and sociology, and possibly couldn't handle such a program." In saying this program is "worthwhile venture," Det. Ferrence cited two advantages of such an approach:

(1) The counselors have an opportunity to deal with more youths in a shorter span of time as individual counseling normally averages a span of three to six months but can be as little as one month or as much as one

(2) At the adolescent age, peer group pressures and peer dynamics are crucial and "more mileage" can be obtained from the group approach in this respect.

"The counselors felt good about this program, it was something they could handle," the detective said. "They also felt good about the youths and their contri-butions to the program." "Unique Experience"

The counselors' report con tained many points including an evaluation on the parts of both the youths and the counselors, statistics, conclusions and recommendations for consideration for future group programs, Det. Ferrence also shared his thoughts on much of the information presented.

• Members' Evaluation At the program's conclusion, the youths participated in an evaluation consisting of verbalization and the completion of a continuum questionnaire which contained six questions, e.g., "Do you feel you accomplished anything through the counseling program?" and "From your point of view did this program benefit you?"

In their summary, the counselors said, "Group counselors said, members found group counseling to be a new and unique experience. All members stated a preference for meeting with other youths their own age, sharing similar problems . . . The process of mutual interaction and communication provided for a greater understanding of oneself and others.

"Through self - evaluation members also indicated a greater self - confidence in dealing with 'stressful' situations In general the group felt this program would significantly alter their reaction toward others in both stressful and non - stressful situations.'

More Awareness Counselors' Evaluation—

members appeared to these altered. viewed as inappropriate by these counselors-overt hostility, (physical, verbal, menextreme egocentrism, seling," they said. "In addition, those behaviors viewed as appropriate by these counselors—increasseling "came up two or three | cope with stressful situations, years ago but it was rejected | greater communication, reat that time because we had sponsibility for one's behavior, improved decision mak- gram. ing process - became more apparent as counseling continued.

"In essence these positive gains were, in our opinion, facilitated through one's in creased awareness of himself | high and his environment. We credit this to the group itself and the technique employed."

While pleased at the results, Det. Ferrence said he didn't want anyone to be misled in feeling they're now all rehabilitated and are "fantastic in the community." He stated during and after counseling there was some improvement, "But we need more checks later regarding the long lasting effects of the program," he cautioned.

In individual counseling, the recidivism rate, (repeated relapse into crime), is relatively low but in group counseling it could be higher because of the small segment, he noted. Because of this small number, it's hard to make "a long, lasting statement."

More Reliable

• Statistics-In this area, the counselors conducted a survey to evaluate the effectiveness of the approach by viewing those individuals who had any type of adverse police contact after having undergone the group process.

"This offense recurrence rate, (O.R.R.), consists of the number of police contacts four months prior to counsel-ing, compared with contacts during the period of four months after counseling.

"In controlling for the variables of time and number of offenses the resulting O.R.R. proves to be a more reliable measure than the rate of recidivism "The O.R.R. gives an exact comparison of the amount of crime recorded before and after counseling for a given period of time. Where the O.R.R. is a measure of crime, the rate of recidivism is a measure of people.

"The O.R.R. for group counseling was computed to be 0.15. This implies that for every 100 offenses recorded prior to counseling only 15 offenses would be expected after counseling."

Det. Ferrence stated the O.R.R. views the frequency of offenses committed by one person. The recidivism rate of the eight youths, with three of them committing some offense after counseling, is 371/2 percent.

However, in viewing the O.R.R., a total of 20 offenses were committed by the eight youths prior to counseling Behavior exhibited by group and only three afterwards. This made the O.R.R. only counselors to be significantly 0.15. The recidivism rate and Those behaviors offense recurrence rate examples are based upon figures presented in this report only.

impulsive behavior and un-lawful activity—appeared to "viable alternative" to inselors state that "given the option of group or individual counseling, 90 percent of the individuals questioned preferred group counseling. This is an important aspect in that it adds a motivational force to the counseling pro-

"Individuals feel they have made a choice for themselves and therefore have assumed responsibility for the success or failure of the program This was exhibited in the high level of attendance and the resulting change of behavioral patterns.

Greater Range

"Group counseling, in it self, allows the counselor greater range of activities with which to work. These specifically revolve around an individual and his relationship to his peer group. Through these activities an individual learns to deal with both authoritative as well as peer pressure.

"Via the use of the peer group an individual is presented with a greater range of coping skills and alternative modes of behavior. By exchanging and developing skills each individual arrives at his own definition of social acceptability. These decisions were tempered by what the counselors described, discussed and modeled as socially appropriate behavior. "The development of each individual in gaining a greater working knowledge of social norms has, in fact, been in agreement with the goals of group counseling," to provide constructive experience which will assist the individual to feel differently about himself and others.

"Their conclusions are soundly reached," said Det. Ferrence, "but there's still no one best method." When individual counseling might be more beneficial to a specific youth, such an approach will be utilized, he stated.

He also said the division "will not deal with things beyond our capabilities," and youths, when necessary, will be referred to proper agencies. But Det. Ferrence stressed that the YSD, with the addition of the group counseling program, is placing an emphasis on growing and improving its services to the community.

In a final note, the coun-selors hope to employ a more comprehensive approach to statistical analysis in future group sessions. They also want to have a greater use of audio-visual material, e.g., a video tape recorder, thus giving a young person "the unique opportunity" to view himself with others.

Parents also were cerned with information their own children heard and how it should be handled. Mr. Mogk said when he heard something he felt parents should be aware of, he would let them know. But, he noted, when something happens off school property, "it's none of our business." Mr. Jasinski offered an alternative. It shouldn't matter what other people are doing, he said, if a youngster has already learned that it's his or her own decision to make in such a situation.

"One thing we can do," he reflected, "is treat our young people as individuals . . . and that takes a hell of a lot of

Although the Montessori in their search for under-Early School program at standing. the Grosse Pointe Academy teaches the very youngest premise states that a student pupils, it is older than the Academy itself.

In 1906, Maria Montessori brought her skills to the world's attention, stating that the younger child was more receptive to learning through his senses than ever before imagined-

She lectured throughout Europe and her methods were adopted by educators in the U.S. and Canada as well.

What motivated Dr. Montessori, an educated woman from a conservative age and culture, to persist toward her goal? Possibly she was inspired by the very real joy she perceived on the faces of children as they mastered new skills.

Very likely she abhorred the waste of closed minds and was determined to bring enlightenment and to develop the confidence which springs from self-mastery.

The same delight and excitement pervades today's Montessori classroom. Selfdirected and self-motivated, confidently handling Montessori materials, the small ground of exceptional experistudents are fully absorbed ence.

Basically, the Montessori in early school is not a "preschool" student, but a bona fide learner. Using all of his senses and physical movethe Montessori Center in ments, the young pupil becomes aware of the world

The Academy Montessori staff also includes five subject specialists in French, music, art and gymnastics. Mrs. Nicholas Larco, Aca demy physical education director, brings to the gym-nastics program a back-

For several years, the Health Education Council has presented films on female puberty to fourth through sixth grade girls in the Pointe School School but boys haven't had such an opportunity.

Mrs. Paonessa, who holds a Masters degree in family life and sex education from Wayne State University, will talk about communicating with pre-adolescent boys.

A mother of four children, two of whom are 10-year-old twin boys, she has taught a course on human sexuality at Oakland University and the Continuum Center at Oakland. Mrs. Paonessa currently teaches a high school course on marriage and child development-

Disdains Hike In Assessments

A three-point plan of action highlights a resolution proposed by Woods Councilman Rodger A. Graef which takes issue with a proposal by the Wayne County Equalization Sub-Committee to increase property assessments in the city by more than 1.05 percent of last year's assessed valuation-

Mr. Graef said the measure, which was unanimously passed by his colleagues at the regular meeting Monday, January 20, was patterned after a City of Fraser resolution.

It views the state of the economy and says serious economic conditions exist in the State, particularly in the southeastern area, and notes that many citizens of The Woods "are unemployed as a result of the depressed econ-

At the same time, the resolution states it's certain that more Woods citizens will be adversely affected by the current conditions, and cites the council's particular concern for senior citizens.

The council feels that the application of the equalization factor isn't based on real economic growth but rather on "inflated property values reflecting the inflating state of the economy," plus the fact that an increase in property assessments wouldn't work only a serious hardship on the economy's already depressed state, but "will also fuel the fires of inflation." So the solons urged (1) the

State legislature and (2) Gov-ernor William Milliken to 'take immediate action to declare a moratorium (this year) on property assessment increases due to actions of County Equalization Sub-Committees or State Tax Commission action and to during 1974 was partly to hold property assessment blame. levels at those established in

Finally, the council urges the State legislature to enact legislation requiring a corresponding reduction in millage by all levels of government at such time as there is "any increase of any asessed valuations by an equalization board.''

Drugs Play Role Robberies were up as well.

In 1973, three robberies were actually committed and there were no attempts and no cases cleared. In 1974, 12 actual robberles were committed, zero attempts were recorded and four cases were cleared.

Chief Ferber noted that the worsening economic plight of the Detroit metropolitan area during the last half of 1974 was reflected in arrest and occurrence statistics.

Again this year, drug addiction appears to be a major factor in criminal activity. Eighty-two percent of the persons arrested for major crimes had drug habits ranging from $50 to $300 per day. This is however, a drop from recent years. About 52 percent of the perpetrators of major crimes maintained residence, or formerly resided, in The Pointe area.

Murder-Suicide Short descriptions of various crimes committed in The Farms are provided in the report. The Farms' first recorded murder since the Prohibition era was experienced in 1974. This was a murdersuicide committed by a 58year-old Harper Woods man who drove his car into Lake St. Clair with his mother in the auto. Five kidnapings were re-ported in the city this past year, however none actually occurred. Ten attempted sui cides were investigated by the department this year as compared to six in 1973.

Indecent exposure inci dents also were on the rise with 14 reported in 1974 and eight in 1973. The police chief noted that the "streaking fad" which became popular blame, Narcotic and drug law arrests were down this year from last with 177 in 1973 and 116 in 1974. In addition, narcotics investigations dropped from 80 in 1973 to 64 in 1974.

Monteith Cubs in Space Derby SH Swimmers Approach Championship in EML

By Rick Thomas

South High School varsity swimmers moved closer toward their second consecutive Eastern Michigan League championship with wins over supposedly strong East Detroit, 61-22, on Tuesday, January 28, and over Rochester, 57-26, on Friday, January 31.

East Detroit was considered to have been South's main opposition in the EML title race this year. However, the Shamrocks were soundly

Austin Cagers Keeping Active

By Paul T. Denis

Despite 16 and 13 point games by senior guard Sam Ciolino, his best offensive efforts of the season, the Friars dropped two games, one to Notre Dame and the other to Gabriel Richard by scores of 81-61 and 69-55, respectively. The 20-point loss to Notre Dame on Friday, January 31, was a result of four Notre Dame players scoring in double figures. The Irish had no big spurts but played at a steady pace throughout the game. In addition to Ciolino's 16 points, junior Dan Matzka added 13.

The Tuesday, January 28, game with Gabriel Richard wasn't too bright for Austin either. The only player in double figures was Ciolino. The two losses, one in league play and the other in nonleague action, dropped the Friars' record to 2-14 overall and 1-8 in league play.

While the varsity hasn't fared too well the JV has continued to "tear up" the league. Although in the past seven games the Friars stand at 4-3, things still look

All three losses have been close; against Brother Rice by one point, 39-38; against Romulus by eight, 69-61; and against U of D by four, 54-50.

The wins were highlighted by a 30-point romp over Gabriel Richard on January 28, 94-64. Leading JV scorers in some of the games were John Champagne, (before his transfer to the varsity), with 24, 15, 12 and 11 in four games, and Dave Van Eg-mond with 21, 17 and 11 in

Over the course of the season Van Egmond is the leading scorer with an average of 10.8 points per game. Mike Emmerich follows with a 7.8 mark per game. At this point the JV cagers' record stands at 11-4.

The freshman team raced frosh have been Mark Van overpowered as the Blue Devils took 11 firsts and five first-second finishes. The win left South at 4-0 in the EML, while East Detroit is 3-1.

In the 160-yard individual medley for South, Drew Pillsbury took first with a time of 1:40.1 as he set his second varsity record of the year. Eric Rodin finished third.

The team of Mike Gaitley. Steve Swanson, Bill Brownell and Stan Smith won the 160-yard medley relay, while Mickey Montagne, Mark Osborn, Dave Strachen and Lucander finished third.

In the diving event, Gary Jackson took first place with 248.55 points. Pete Saggau finished fourth.

In the 200-yard freestyle, Mike Scott took first while Doug Waugaman finished fourt's. Scott also won the 100-yard freestyle, while Rick Speer finished second,

In the Rochester meet, eight firsts were won out of 11 events. The winners for South included diver Jackson, who set a new varsity and pool record of 281.55 points which bettered his own previous record of 268.2 set last year.

Other first place winners were MacConnachie in the 60-yard freestyle, Swanson in the 100-yard freestyle, Brownell in the 500yard freestyle, Steve Swanson in the breaststroke, Pillsbury in the 160-yard individual medley, the team of Mon-tagne, Speer, Scott and Tony Montague in the 400-yard freestyle relay, and Gaitley, Craig and Steve Swanson and Smith in the 160 yard medley relay. The Devils will face very tough competition as they rival Grosse Pointe North Friday, February 7, and Sterling Heights Stevenson Tuesday, February 11.

Both North and Stevenson are considered very dangerto a fast start but have ous, and if the Devils can dropped to 7-7. Leading the pick up wins over the two schools, it's doubtful the EML Sile with 12 points per game swimming trophy will leave and Bob Conway with 10. South this year.

"It would be a good idea to give this questionnaire to the seniors at North and South Highs. Our two college sons, (graduates of South), were home this weekend and had definite views on your questions— It was very enlightening." Interestingly enough, sev-eral other respondents also suggested that high school students also take the survey. This procedure was included in our original plan. The surwas administered at both North and South on Tuesday, January 28. The professional staff also completed the questionnaire on the same day.

Incidentally, if any school district resident a.d not receive a questionnaire in the mail, he or she may call 885-2000 and a copy will be sent.

Here are several of these new books that have been added to the collection at the Grosse Pointe Public Library.

From their first casual meeting in a photography shop to their suicide in a bunker, the private lives of Adolph Hitler and his mistress, Eva Braun, have remained a mystery. Now, Glenn Infield in his biography EVA AND ADOLF, (Grossett), has written an in-depth study of one of the most no-torious "love" affairs of modern times.

EVA AND ADOLF is based on the files of the late Judge Michael A. Musmanno, who served at the Nuremberg trials, and interviewed the survivors of the Third Reich, as well as Glenn Infield's own research in Ger-

The German U-boats of Hitler's Navy were an incredibly deadly and effective force, bent on destroying Allied arms and supplies before they could reach the battlefields.

THE ADMIRAL'S WOLF PACK, (Doubleday), by Jean Nole is an excellent account of German undersea warfare during World War II. He describes the tactics and technology of the U-boats, with emphasis on the stories of the individual commanders and crews in their daily struggle for survival.
Ladislas Farago in his book

AFTERMATH, (Simon and Shuster), brings the story of Hitler's Nazi Germany up to 1974. Subtitled "Martin Bor-man and the Fourth Reich," it is the story of the survival of this arch-Nazi.

Farago describes in documented detail his search for Borman, Borman, he claims, "survived the war and went to Argentina in 1948," was protected by the Perons, later by other sympathizers, and still lives there today, using the alias "Ricardo Bauer." Farago's engrossing narrative may seem incredible, but it is bolstered by sound data; his claim that a new Nazi hierarchy - in - hiding exists may put this whole subject into the news once again. This is a book that will trouble many readers.

We take pride in our record of accuracy in pricing new listings. It can cost you, the seller, money if your house is priced either too high or too low. ### Suspect Nabbed Following Chase

City police arrested a Detroit woman on Thursday, January 23, after a chase that began at Kercheval avenue and Neff and wound up behind the Coins and Stamps store in Mack avenue.

The woman, who officers said was several months pregnant, gave her name as Janice Bell, 12789 Fullerton, Detroit. But, according to Lt. Robert Van Tiem, a fingerprint check showed her to be Terry Walker, 6405 Theo-dore, Detroit, and wanted by Detroit's 15th Precinct on a

In The City, she is charged with larceny.

Norma Johnson, manager of the Doubleday Book store, in The Village, 17116 Kercheval avenue, told police she was in the rear of the store preparing approximately $300 for a bank deposit. After leaving the immediate area and subsequently returning, Mrs. Johnson said she saw the suspect holding a piece of orange paper that had been with the money-The suspect ran for the front of the store, Mrs. Johnson gave chase and caught up with her at the door. The two scuffled momentarily and most of the money, police said, was dropped there. Both women ran out of the store and City Fire Department Sgt. Bill Taylor, who happened to be in the area, was called upon to stop the suspect.

She managed to elude him and got to her car which was parked on Kercheval and Neff.

Sgt. Taylor followed her in the Fire Department car on chase that went north on Neff, then over to Notre Dame, north to Mack, around the Alger Party Store and down to St. Clair, then back to Mack and finally east to University where the suspect turned into the park ing lot at the rear of Coins and Stamps, 17658 Mack.

With his car Sgt. Taylor blocked the lot off and the suspect exited her vehicle and ran to the rear of some nearby apartments.

In the meantime, the incident had been reported to police so that Lt. Van Tiem, Sgt. Richard Clarke and Officer Virgil Beaupre were at the scene

The suspect was apprehended by Sgt. Clarke. A $300 cash or surely bond was set and the suspect was unable to post it. She was turned over to Detroit with a hold on her for The City.

This was a very close contest with goalie Drew Mascarin playing one of his very best games ever. Curtale was also a star on defense. Taber scored the first goal with Burkheiser and Curtale assisting, while Matt Costello netted the winning goal with assists going to Taber and Burkheiser.

In their second game Sun day morning, February 2, the Bruins met the Gloucester, Ont. Hawks and the Pointers were very impressive in this 7-2 victory. Burkheiser scored after a pass from Taber. Greg Johnston scored with John Davies assisting. Taber tallied with Burkheiser assisting.

The Bruins now start district play for a spot in the State Tournament on Tuesday, February 11.

Since Tuesday, January 7, Grosse Pointe's Squirt open team, the Blues, have played 10 games recording wins over Livonia, Southfield, Port Huron, (twice), Sarnia, Royal Oak, Sterling Heights and Oak Park, and losses to Dearborn Adray and Windsor Club 240.

Major contributors to the scoring in these games were Erich Avedisian with five goals and nine assists: Don Elland with eight goals and six assists; Phil Brykalski with four goals and five assists; John Mueller with 14 goals and three assists: John Forbes with three goals and three assists; and Tim Luzardre with one goal and three assists.

Since the disappointing elimination of the Blues from the Silver Stick Tournament, Coach Stew McLaren has revised his line-up to better distribute his scoring power which had been concentrated one line with Mueller, Avedisian and Elland. As a result, two lines are now equally capable of ex-Plosive thrusts against teams who in the past stacked their best defense against the one line; additionally, Brykalski and Luzadre are now receiving support needed to make them effective contributors. As important as the newly found scoring punch is, it alone wouldn't have been enough. Others playing important roles are Peter Moody, Ron Schocker, Gary Versichele, John Forbes, Tom Dow and Scott Brady.

The defense of Pat Boll, Terry Shook, Brian Valice, Marty Wittmer and Jeff Henschel also deserves comment. None of these boys played with the Blues last year and coach McClaren, with the help of Lyle Heavner, began a rebuilding program. As the season has progressed, noticeable improvement contin-
