Census to reveal drop in Pointes

By Susan McDonald

Most of Grosse Pointe is expected to show a moderate drop in population when 1980 census figures are published next year, and rough census counts distributed by the federal government last week tend to confirm that prediction.

The news is unwelcome in four communities the Woods, the Park, the City and the Farms, where 10-14 percent population drops are predicted by the still very tentative results. The loss of population, if confirmed by later results, will translate directly into reductions in funds to city budgets from several state and federal programs,.

John Schonenberg Jr., manager of the Warren District census office, warns the population figures are "still very fuzzy" and should not be interpreted as final.

"WE STILL have places to count and vacancy rates to verify before we say much of anything about population," Schonenberg said, "These results were distributed to cities as a check. We're asking them to look at the housing count in particular and tell us if it is within range of what they know.

Farms: 10,486, down 10.4 percent Park: 13,498, down 13.7 percent Shores: 3,082, up 1.5 percent Woods: 18,663, down 14.7 percent ther refinement. Schonenberg said the preliminary count will be published in September or October. More adjustments will be made after that before the final report goes to the President's desk for signing by January 2.

THE LOCAL review program was initiated by the census bureau to check the accuracy and completeness of housing and population counts. The counts were sent to the highest elected official in each of the nation's 39,500 local governments and must be reviewed within two weeks, according to the bureau.

Schonenberg, a resident of the Park, said some population drop was certain in the Grosse Pointes because of the declining birthrate.

"All you have to do is look at the schools to see that the population will be down. The schools have lost close to 4,000 in this decade alone," Schonenberg said.

The loss of population could affect the level of funding received by the cities from more than a dozen state and federal programs. More than 100 federal programs, including revenue sharing, use census statistics as the basis for distributing funds. In addition, new figures may be used in reapportionment of state and county electoral districts,

Woods Approves New Milk River Bridge

By Gregory Jakub

A seven-year-old problem was apparently solved Monday night when the Grosse Pointe Woods City Council approved a $183,000 plan to move a bridge over the Milk River at Lakefront Park and allow full use of all the park's 234 boatdocks.

Since 1973, high water in the river has narrowed clearance under the bridge to about five feet making it very difficult for boats bigger than 24 feet to pass under and utilize 53 docks on the other side.

The Woods Council and boaters have discussed several proposals to move the bridge since 1975, but questions of need and cost have delayed action.

THE PLAN approved Monday night was a proposal by the Woods Recreation Committee to remove the present bridge and replace it with a wooden pedestrian span with more clearance. A new vehicular bridge bond issue will be needed to cover the initial cost of the new bridge, according to Chester Petersen, city manager

APPROVAL OF the bridge project came before a standing room-only crowd of mostly boaters at the Woods Council chambers. Surprisingly, when Mayor George Freeman asked for a straw vote on the bridge plan, 53 out of 75 persons voting indicated they were against it.

However, most were not opposed to moving the bridge but disagreed on where in the park a new bridge should be located and how it should be paid for.

Others offered a wide range of solutions, including reopening the old park gate near the Ford estate. building a fishing pier with docks out into the lake and raising the old bridge.

Still others, including Mayor Freeman, thought the project should be financed by the taxpayers, as were the new tennis courts installed several years ago and put on the November ballot, Councilman John Sabol offered a motion to do so, but it was defeated.

After about 90 minutes of debate on the issue, Greg Heffner, a boater, offered a comment that emphasized what he said was the importance of not delaying a decision for another year.

Republican Bryant will face a tough battle revenues.

By Susan McDonald

For the first time in some years Grosse Pointe's veteran State Rep. William Bryant Jr. will face a challenge from within his own Republican party in the primary to fill his 13th District House seat.

Bryant, 42, is House Republican Leader and has served the Grosse Pointes in Lansing since 1970.

The challenger on the August 5 primary ballot is Grosse Pointe Woods dental hygienist and mother of five, Pat Higgins.

Mrs. Higgins, 43, is making her first try for political office, though she's been active in Woods community affairs and is current president of the Grosse Pointe Motion Picture and TV Council and vice-president of Better Literature for Youth.

Not surprisingly, she has emphasized a need for a "good solid law on pornography" in campaign speeches and faulted Bryant for not helping interest groups pass a strong antipornography law.

"How does anyone know what the loss in state services (under Tisch) might be until we try it," she said in a recent campaign speech. "I think this country has learned that you don't solve problems simply by throwing money at them I think it's time to take some money away and

"If they think we're way off base there is a form they can fill out, with documentation, to help us benome more accurate."

SOC names Adams as aging rep.

By Dean Brierly

Seniors Onward for Change last week announced the appointment of City resident Emogene Adams as the Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods representative to the board of directors of the new Detroit Area Agency on Aging.

Her appointment was confirmed by Mayor Coleman Young's office. The new agency, officially designated planning and service area 1-A, came into existence on March 21. The State Aging Commission approved a resolution at a meeting in Lansing on that date calling for the cities of Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Harper Woods and the five Pointes to be combined into a single area agency on aging headed by the city of Detroit

THE APPLICATION was filed by Detroit after Mayor Young decided to limit the planning and service area to Detroit and surrounding communities to allow better coordination and implementation of service programs to seniors

The remainder of Wayne County was designated planning and service area IC. The current Detroit Wayne County Area Agency on Aging will gradually be phased out and will terminate September 30. The two new agencies will officially become effective on October 1

Mrs. Adams, 77, a native of Cameroon, West Africa, has a long history of participation in local and metropolitan activity on behalf of the aged and has extensively studied needed services for seniors

Weston Croft, general manager of Cox Cable Communications, the company installing cable in the Village, says the original June deadline set for the system's completion has been sidelined by a directive from the Wayne County Road Commission calling for a complete survey of the installation plans.

However, he said the northern end of Lakeshore road up to Hampton is expected to be finished within a week or so, and adds a number of subscribers have already signed up.

THE SURVEY was requested since half of the 20,000 total feet of underground cable to be installed will lie underneath Lakeshore, a county jurisdiction road. Croft feels the commission merely wants to study the situation before granting its approval

He says he's received "encouraging first reports" from the road commission and doesn't believe the county's trying to hinder the project in anyway.

The search for the missing body of South High School teacher Geraldine Mulson came to an end last week in Port Huron.

Mulson, who had disappeared during the recent Port Huron to Mackinac race, was found floating in the St. Clair river on Sunday by a passing boater. The Coast Guard was notified and picked up the body

The popular physical education teacher had entered her 29 foot sloop Sayonara II for the June 28 race, but apparently never made it to the starting line, according to a Coast Guard spokesman. He speculated that she probably fell overboard during a squall that morning

Her boat was found around 11.40 aim that day circling in the water north of the Blue Water Bridge by the crew from another boat. A massive search by the Coast Guard and a small fleet of private craft was abandoned at approximately 6.30 p.m. the evening of the race candidates for the Congressional seat to be vacated this fall by Democrat Lucien Nedzi.

The action was consistent with local party tradition of reserving the endorsement for the August primary winner.

Five Republicans are vying for Nedzi's Congressional seat including Grosse Pointe Shores resident Vic Caputo, who left his broadcasting career at WJBK-TV in May to enter the race

Because of his name recognition. Republicans and Democrats alike think Caputo is a formidable contender in the heavily Democratic 14th District, which includes the Pointes, Harper Woods East Detroit, Hamtramck, Warren, part of Detroit and Centerline

Democrat Nedzi has held the 14th District seat for the past 19 years

The Republicans' National Congressional Campaign Committee also would like the GOP to claim Nedzi's scat and will bolster a Congressional campaign with organizational assistance fund raising, survey research and up to $5,000 in financial assistance if the local party will formally endorse a candidate

There were reports that the na tional GOP offered $30,000 to the Caputo campaign if the local party would endorse him. Based on that assumption some Republicans said they were distraught over party leaderships failure to endorse Caputo and receive the alleged campaign funds. However, officials from the Republican National Committee, National Congressional Campaign Committee, and Capito's campaign director denied that the $30,000 offer was made

The central issue in her campaign, however, is taxes. Mrs. Higgins is an emphatic supporter of the Tisch Amendment to cut taxes, and she adds that "not too many years ago, every Republican worth his salt would have been for the Tisch Amendment,' Bryant, on the other hand, calls Tisch "too drastic" and has been one of the prime movers behind a legislative alternative to Tisch's 50-percent property tax cut that is still working its way through the legislature to a spot on the November ballot.

Bryant claims Tisch would have a crippling effect on local budgets. The legislative proposal he supports calls for $800 million in property tax relief and a 1.5 percent increase in the state sales tax to make up for the lost revenue to the state,

Higgins, however, is not quite so concerned about making up lost state see if it might not result in fewer problems."

Despite her stand on tax cuts, Mrs. Higgins admits her campagin is an "uphill battle" against the Republican leader. So far, her fund raising efforts have included a garage sale and a $7.50 a person concert at the War Memorial. She's putting out flyers and attending coffees, mostly in the Woods, to get her name around.

She said she plans to conduct her campaign "in the spirit of Barry Goldwater

Wildlife thrives in Grosse Pointe

By Elsa Frohman

Along with being a nice place for people to live. Grosse Pointe is one of the area's best wildlife habitats. If you look close enough around town, you can find ducks, rabbits, several kinds of snake, raccoons, opossums, three varieties of squirrel, pheasants and ouail.

Raccoons are fairly recent arrivals on the scene. Park Police Lt. Gordon Duncan credits Mort Neff with introducing the furry bandits to the Pointes

Duncan said that several years ago, Neff kept baby raccoons as pets When they matured, they got unmanagable and several of them escaped. Park police have been going on 'raccoon runs' ever since. Duncan said

WHILE RACCOONS, squirrels and opossume are cute when they're outside in the backyard, they become a nuisance when they get into houses. Farms Dog Warden William Fowler said he has been received many calls lately because of raceoon and squirrels getting into basements and attics

'They get in through chimneys and cracks in the roof or eaves, he said. "People should check the screening on heir chimneys and replace it if it is frayed or has holes

The final motion to approve also modified the city's use of the "bumping" method to rotate rental of the docks. The process uses a reverse seniority method to open up dock usage by "bumping" those dock renters who have been in the park the longest

The bumping method will not apply to those renters who sign up for twoyear rentals under the new bridge finance plan.

members voted 14 to 6 not to endorse any candidate for Nedzi's seat.

Tompkins said the party prefers to let candidates "battle it out in the primary" before awarding an endorsement

He added that he thought the endorsement was avoided because "some people thought it might split the district" behind candidates.

The motion to not endorse a candidate was offered by committee member Richard Durant, who said an endorsement of one candidate would have shut out all the others from the primary and "that is not the proper thing to do."

"It (an endorsement) doesn't make good sense from the political point of view," Durant said

Other Republican candidates for the 14th District seat are Detroiter John Cunningham, Mark Wise of Harper Woods, and Margaret Tenerowicz of Hamtramck.

Here, black squirrels are actually the majority, and they have been increasing for the last 20 years. They are even supplanting the area's red squirrels that are much larger than grey or black squirrels and usually will push the smaller squirrels out.

RON BLAUET, the Michigan Humane Society's director of education says that urban wildlife is on the rise. When areas like Grosse Pointe were first developed, the wildlife moved out. But later wild animals began to learn that they could live off of human refuse and moved back.

Blauet said the Humane Society's recent financial troubles have cut way down on the number of wild animal calls the organization can accept. However, the Society still picks up many raccoons, opossums and rabbits.

"Every now and then we get a call about a giant rat," he said. "It always turns out to be an opossum."

If necessary, the Humane Society provides medical care to wild animals when they are brought in. Blauet said these cases are very difficult to treat because wild animals are not accustomed to being handled After treatment, the animals are released on Belle Isle or at Rouge Park.

One thing that Blauet warns against is trying to make wild animals into pets.

Squirrels, Raccoons in Pointes

"The beauty of a wild creature is in the wild," he said. "All babies are cute, but when they grow up, they have the urge to roam and find a mate. Then the owner doesn't want it any more because it is cranky and nippy, and nobody else wants it either.

"It can't be released because it doesn't know how to fend for itself. It would starve to death, Making pets out of wild animals is cruel," Blauet said

Dr. James Reahme at the Harper. Woods Veterinary Hospital treats several wild animals.

'We've set broken legs on squirrels, patched up rabbits and cleaned oil off of ducks" he said. "The worse problem is shock. The animals are very frightened of humans. If they survive the first few days, though, their chances are pretty good

There are several locations in Grosse Pointe where there is a better than average stock of wildlife. One of those spots is the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House grounds, Encompassing 86 acres of open lawns and natural woods, the estate is a treasure trove of wildlife.

PAUL ALANDT, the executive director of the property, said that it is commonplace to see pheasant in the estate's woods. Other ground employes spoke of a fox, a hawk and a wild dog that have been regular visitors

Another good place to spot a pheasant is the Lochmoor Club. The Country Club of Detroit also has its quota of the large birds.

Not all the wildlife that people spot in Grosse Pointe is as charming as the pheasants and squirrels. There have been occasional sightings of rats in the area.

Wayne County Public Health Engineer Bruce Davis said that the Wayne County Environmental Health Unit has received its share of calls about rats in the Pointes,

"Rats don't care where they are," he said, "as long as there is food available "They live and travel through the sewers," Davis said. "They can show up anywhere.' Just because a rat has been sighted, doesn't mean that the area is infested, Davis said. "If a rat isn't burrowed in, it may only be checking out the area to see if there is any food," he explained.

Davis said that rats can be controlled through careful sanitation, but they can't be eliminated.

"They were here before we came, and they will be here when we leave," he said.

a member of the American Association of Retired Persons.

She sees her role on the board as "trying to give my expertise on problems that come up. I've lived in this community for 50 years and this is a battle we've always fought."

Mrs. Adams has attended several meetings of the board and has come away impressed with the other 14 members, most of whom are over 60.

"I THINK they're a very honest group of people with a lot to do. I'm very impressed with the work they've already done."

She says the board must find the right answers to the biggest problems facing seniors today-transportation, housing, nutrition, health and information and referral services-as well as the best way to allocate the nearly $6 million in state and federal funds at its disposal

Shelton Tappes, chairman of the board of directors, says Mrs. Adams has been fully accepted by all the members. و آنر کورو پوت سرمن

"She knows what's going on, and she's very conversant with the problems and purpose of our organization. She fits right in." he said.

Tappes says the meetings held so far have served two purposes-to help clarify the needs of seniors in and around Detroit, and to effect the transition from the old agency to the new.

Transition isn't much of a problem, Tappes says, since many people from the current aging agency are being hired into the new one. The main challenge at this time is pinpointing the areas in which seniors need the most attention.

TRANSPORTATION IS one of the biggest problems facing the board, according to Tappes. Seniors need transport back and forth to meal sites, to the bank, for shopping tours. to the library, etc. Some transport is now being provided, but Tappes says that may have to be increased.

Tappes also cites a tremendous backlog of homes registered with the current agency in need of repair and states that budget and employment in this area could be expanded.

Home care, such as maid service and meal preparation for seniors physically unable to care for themselves, is another high-priority target for the board. Tappes says he would like to see the current three-days per week service expanded to fullweek coverage.

He also indicated the board may try to lever additional funds from private sources and major foundations to supplement the $6 million it has to spend on these problems.

He added that the eight percent ceiling on administrative costs could possibly be trimmed so that extra money could be channelled into program funds.

Piccadilly Deli Adds To Park Renaissance

By Joanne Gouleche

Lola Brehmer sips her morning coffee everyday at the Piccadilly Deli because it's "just a nice place to be."

"I come here every morning for coffee. We really need something like this around here, you know. It's very good, and the people are so nice," says 77-yearold Lola.

The orange-brick deli delight on Jefferson is attracting other patrons like Lola, since it opened its doors two weeks ago. Owners Bill and Sharon Spiliadis say business is "just great."

The Piccadilly, between Maryland and Wayburn, has joined other small businesses in the western end of the Park in a renaissance of the city Up until a short time ago, the Kercheval and Jefferson business districts were marked with rundown and vacant storefronts.

Now businesses like the Piccadilly and eatery Sparky Herbert's on Kercheval are changing all that and have given the area new life and a new look.

For the Spiliadis', the deli business is brand new, but friends who have been in the business for 96 years "showed them all the ropes."

"That way, when we do get permission, we'll have saved about a month," he added.

Altogether, Cox will lay close to fifteen miles of cable, at a construction cost to the company of around $180,000. The Shores will get a small percentage of the profits from the system,

THE VILLAGE went with Cox after the council awarded the company a 15-year franchise last June. The Atlanta-based company owns and operates 45 cable systems in 19 states.

Once the cable is in place and energized. Shores viewers will be offered a 24 channel system at a monthly rate of $6.95. Home Box Office will be available at an extra $7.50.

Installation for the first set will be free, with each additional hookedup set running $15. There also will be an extra $2 tacked on to the monthly rate for each extra set.

Meanwhile, Grosse Pointe Cable Comany, the firm servicing the rest of the Pointes, has been stringing cable since May and is running almost on schedule, according to general

The restaurant business is not totally unfamiliar to Bill and Sharon, though, who once owned the Carson Supper Club on Woodward near Wayne State University, Recently, Sharon left the Mini Mall in the Village after failing to make a go of a pastry shop there.

To catch the SEMTA crowd along Jefferson, the Piccadilly opens sharp at 7 a.m. each day, (except Sundays), Sharon says patrons will soon be greeted with a "Piccadilly Breakfast Special," featuring an egg muffin sandwich, juice and coffee.

Piled-high sandwiches of pastrami, roast beef, turkey, along with potato and greek salads ("we make our own") are standard menu fare. And don't forget the sliced pickle, pepper and sauerkraut, too. Palatable pastries include cherry cupcakes, rum torts, apricot-filled cookies and greek pastries manager Michael Reynolds.

Reynolds had predicted an August 1 turn on for the Woods, but recently amended that to "sometime in August," due to what he termed minor equipment delays.

"Some of the equipment will be coming in close to the August 1 deadline," he said. "We want to give it a week or two worth of use before starting up."

Reynolds says work is progressing smoothly otherwise, with some 75 miles of strand and 20 miles of actual cable having been put up to date.

The antennas which will pick up the Detroit stations have been placed on top of St. John Hospital and the two earth station dishes to receive satellite signals have arrived according to Reynolds. The latter will be installed in St. John's parking lot.

Reynolds says his office, located in the Seven and Mack shopping center, will be hiring sales representatives and office workers sometime this week. As each section is "energized," homeowners in those areas will be notified by direct mail and by sales reps going from door to door explaining the system.

Have you decided to become a serious wine drinker? If so, it is time to consider setting up a private wine cellar. The best way to get started is to buy about a dozen cases of red wines and set them aside for a couple of years. Then: buy perhaps six cases of whites to set aside for at least a year as well. Then buy wines for present drinking. It might seem like a large investment to make at one time, but over the long run. it is the best way to begin.

For the serious wine drinker as well as the individual who enjoys a beverage with his evening meal or as an extra a little later in the evening, PARKIE's PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack. Corner of St. Clair. Detroit, offers an extensive inventory from which you may choose. We purchase and stock a wide selection of beers, wines, liquors and champagnes aimed at meeting the varying and discriminating taste demands of our valued customers. Stop in any time, select your favorite or something new. Open 10-10 Mon.-Thurs., 10-11 Fri. & Sat., noon-6 Sun. Tel. 885-0626.

Board Thanks Fleming

WILLIAM FLEMING, (right) of Oxford road. received a plaque and formal resolution last week from DR. WILLIAM COATS, superintendent of schools, at the last Board of Education meeting he will attend as a trustee. Fleming decided not to seek re-election to the Board this spring after serving one term. The ex-trustee said he'd attended more than 400 school related activities during his four years on the Board and found the experience to be "one of the most fulfilling in my life." His fellow trustees said thanks with a formal resolution citing his "deep and abiding concern and compassion" for youth and his enthusiastic support for "the use of management techniques which deliver the maximum educational value from each tax dollar."

Plainly stated, there is really no such thing as a tax shelter if you think of it in terms of avoiding income tax. Many tax shelters defer taxes. but many tax shelters only became possible because Congress decided it was in the public's interest to encourage the development of certain enterprises such as the search for new energy sources or building low-income housing. According to The Michigan

Association of Certified Public Accountants, tax shelters are not for everyone. Generally, qualifiers for shelters should have a net worth of $150,000, be in the 50 percent bracket (joint taxable income of at least $60,000) and have few outstanding debts.

When you shop around from store to store for your stereo, don't just compare prices. Also compare guarantees.

You'll find that Tech Hifi gives you guarantees most stores don't.

Our guarantees mean that if anything goes wrong with your equipment, you won't have to hassle with sending it away to the manufacturer. Your local Tech Hifi will take care of it.

And our guarantees also take the worry out of buying an expensive item that you probably don't know much about. Because if the equipment you buy from Tech Hifi doesn't sound as good as you hoped it would in your home, you'll be protected by a 7-Day Moneyback Guarantee.

Listen to our 7-day moneyback guarantee.

A stereo system can sound great in a store, but not so great in your home. So Tech Hifilets you take seven days at home, after your purchase, to decide if you really love how your equipment sounds.

If you don't love it, you can return it (in working condition, along with your sales slip and packing materials) and we'll give your money back. No questions asked.

Listen to our 3-month exchange guarantee.

For up to three months after your purchase, if you happen to hear stereo components in a friend's home (or another store) that sound better than what you bought from us, we'll give you 100% credit on your purchase price towards any other brands in our store.

Listen to our 30-day price guarantee.

Nothing can be more aggravating than buying stereo equipment and then opening up a newspaper to find the same thing advertised at a lower price.

So if any store tries to undersell us, for up to thirty days after your purchase, just bring in the ad and we'll refund the difference.

With the enormous buying power of the 61 Tech Hifi stores, it's not likely you'll come across any lower prices. But it's still comforting to know you're protected by our price guarantee.

Listen to what $399 can buy at Tech Hifi.

The reason we can offer such good guarantees is we ofer such good equipment. Consider this $399 system, for example.

It features Philips 2931 loudspeakers. They're a modern, vented design with 10inch woofers. So these large, bookshelf systems deliver both deep bass and high output.

To power the efficient Philips speakers, you get a Technics SA-80 receiver. For your recoords, there's a precision Hitachi 324 belt-drive turntable with auto shutoff and a quality Audio Technica cartridge.

Come play this superb system (or any others you'd like) in our soundrooms and listen to what your money can buy at Tech Hifi.

It is best to begin with a quarterly budget, CPAs say, because it's difficult to control expenses for shorter periods. The first step is to find out where your money was spent last year. Add up what you spent for housing, food, entertainment, clothing and include taxes if they are not withheld from your pay.

A political massage from TV

What do evangelist Billy Graham, ice skater Dorothy Hamill, singer Wayne Newton, actor Jimmy Stewart, race car driver Richard Petty, hockey player Gordie Howe and the black family rock group called the Whitneys have in common? They're all performers for the Republican National Convention in Detroit next week.

It isn't that the dedicated Republicans who will be serving as delegates and alternates to the convention require the kind of diversion and entertainment to be provided by these performers. Instead, the Republican planners are aiming at the national TV audience in the belief that performers and entertainers will be more likely to keep viewers glued to the box than the politicians themselves could. The networks back this approach because the bigger the TV audience, the greater the revenue from commercials.

IN SHORT, political party conventions have become media events and, more specifically, TV events. If you need evidence, look at the space allotted to the media in Cobo Hall. The three networks alone occupy an area the size of a football field that the Detroit Auto Show fills each year. The print media, on the other hand. with their thousands of representatives, are massed together in what amounts to the basement. That may put them at the grass roots level but in fact they're just part of the supporting cast—and bit players at that —in this year's GOP political production.

maries this year. The print media got into the act to some extent but if a candidate didn't cut it on TV, he didn't win. Senator Edward M. Kennedy, for example, was given a strong shove down the losing trail by a CBS interview in which he fumbled and failed to answer specific questions about Chappaquiddick and his reasons for running for the presidency. Likewise, George Bush supposedly blew his opportunity in New Hampshire by appearing to favor, in front of the TV cameras, a two-man debate with Ronald Reagan rather than an open debate with all four of his GOP rivals in that primary.

TV SUPPOSEDLY IS a news medium as well as an entertainment | ance of works by Mendelsmedium. Yet in covering the political party conventions the TV networks and Beethoven, he returned are confusing their two roles and compressing them into one to the point that it is impossible to tell where the news ends and entertainment begins.

Newspaper reporters traditionally try to keep themselves out of their stories and seek to the best of their abilities to report fairly and objec-tively what they see and hear. TV on the contrary contributes to the planning of the news events it is covering, hypes them up to guarantee its audience and thus involves itself full recitals. This was, his State Att. Gen. Drug abuse: area concern

In common with other communi-ties, the Grosse Pointes have often called on their public schools to deal with social problems that are not directly related to their major responsibility of educating children. Whether it has been drivers' training, noon lunches or drug abuse that created a problem, the schools have been asked to provide the solution, whether they were financed and equipped to handle the matter or not.

Now the school board seems to have drawn the line against involvement in a new non-educational function. It voted last week against supporting the creation of another police bureau which would handle juvenile crime and replace the Youth Service Division that was dropped last year. In taking that action, the board supported Superintendent William Coats' opposition to having armed police officers in the schools and his view that student criminal behavior is "simply not that serious." While we are inclined to agree with Coats objections, we wouldn't go as far as Coats did in contending it was "unconscionable" to ask the schools help pay for more police officers.

Perhaps it was inappropriate but in fact the board did help finance the Youth Service Division. And the costs were not regarded as "unconscionable" until they began to take an increasingly large bite out of the school board budget and other objections were raised to continuing the school's support for the YSD program. HOWEVER, DRUG AND ALCO-HOL abuse remains a problem among young people in the Pointes. The task force that last spring recommended revival of the Youth Service Division weakned its own cause by reporting an "apparent increase" in the use of alcohol and illegal substances by high school students without producing any statistical evidence to back up that finding. But whether there has been an increase or not, there is still a problem that officer. That is why we think the board's action should not necessarily be the community's last word on the subject. More consideration ought to be given to board member Joan Hanpeter's comment that there still is "a need in our community for an organization to deal with drug and alcohol abuse" which she tends to view as "more of a community problem than an educational problem."

The new Detroit Court that eventually will come to the Pointes, as required by state law, may well be the vehicle for providing professional counseling and probation services. Unfortunately, that prospect is still more than two years distant. And the problem of drug and alcohol abuse is not likely to die out on its own in that period. Nor are families likely to exercise the parental control they once imposed in such cases. So a community solution still is needed.

the planning stages for two years? That's how long ago members of the Detroit Boat Club, figuring that Detroit just MIGHT have a chance at capturing the Republican Convention in 1980, began laying their plans for the piece de resistance convention evening.

Those plans culminate this Saturday under the stars — please, under the stars! the only thing DBC's "Meet the Delegates Party" planners can't control is the weather — when GOP delegates in town for the convention converge on the venerable Belle Isle club for a gourmet buffet and dancing to music by world famous Lester Lanin and his Orchestra.

Boat Clubbers are calling it the party of the decade. It's on the official agenda of the Detroit Civic Host Committee. Nearly 800 guests are expected, including George Bush. There's a strong possibility that Ronald Reagan and Governor William Milliken will put in appearances.

It's all been coordinated by DBC's special events committee, under the chairmanship of Farms resident Robert Wandschneider, who deserves a special trophy (instead of the traditional cup, how about a silver elephant with an oar in his trunk?) for getting it all together.

Committee members include Mr. and Mrs. Walker Graham, Mr. and Mrs. William Melville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. HERTZ #1 EXPRESS SERVICE

The Hertz Corporation has introduced an exclusive $5 million time-saving scheme for businessmen who are members of its Hertz #1 Club. Hertz #1 Express Service now allows businessmen to forego waiting at busy domestic airport car rental counters by taking them straight from the plane to their waiting cars.

On arrival at the destination, the client goes directly to a Hertz courtesy bus, hands the driver the #1 Express Pass and when he arrives at the Hertz car ready area, he should find the rental agreement prepared and the car waiting. The client then shows a drivers license and credit card, signs on the dotted line and drives off.

If you want further information on how you can spend less time waiting in car rental lines, contact Travelworld's Grosse Pointe location at 21127 Mack Ave. (N. of Vernier) 882-8190.

A wide ruffle starts at one shoulder, cascades down the bodice and skirt then hems the shirt. It's perfect for now and all thru the year. Dana Hogan's tan knit dress with a gold link belt is another season spanner. From the same designer, has come a tan and white knit jacket that tops a white blouse and a solid tan knit skirt. A silky navy and tan print blouse with a matching pleated skirt is ensembled with a tan knit cardigan buttoned with gold. This versatile costume from Venice is a good traveler. The shirt and skirt can be worn alone and the knit cardigan can go with another dress. For you Robert David Morton collectors, there's a new black cocktail dress you're sure to want. It's cut with a draped bodice, a shaped but not seamed waist caught at the side with three bows. Quilted coats are back again in the fashion picture and Parnis Feinstein has paired a quilted brown suede cloth coat with a brown suede cloth skirt and leaf print blouse. In the separates collection, the Austin Hill wool skirts, "slacks and blazers are seen in navy, gray and burgundy. Bleyle jackets, skirts and slacks come in camel, gray and there's a good looking plaid skirt to coordinate with the solids. We like the skirt and sweater from Bleyle that is made of fine wool in a color that reminds me of blue denim.

Ryan Scores Hole-in-One

Frank Ryan, of East Williams court, recently scored a hole-in-one at the Deer Creek Country Club.

Mr. Ryan's ace might earn him more than local recognition and praise. The feat qualified him for the 20th annual Rusty Nail Hole-in-One Sweepstakes.

Ryan is eligible to win a free trip to Scotland and $1,000 as a result of his holein-one.
