

Park 'hijackees' back home again

By Dean Briery

William Fiscus must be prophetic. On the eve of his return to Detroit with his sister after visiting their grandmother in Florida, the 16-year-old Park resident joked, "wouldn't it be funny if we got hijacked to Cuba?"

The next day, Wednesday, Aug. 13, 10 minutes after their Air Florida Boeing 737 took off from Key West to Miami, seven Cubans, one of them brandishing a bottle of gasoline which he threatened to ignite, commandeered the plane to Havana.

William Fiscus wasn't laughing then.

"I wasn't sure what was going to happen," he said. "Once we landed, I felt a lot better."

Actually, said his 19-year-old sister

Karen, they were more concerned that the passenger in the next seat, a woman in her 70's with a bad heart, might suffer a heart attack.

The Fiscus' claimed the seven hijackers didn't directly threaten any of the 78 people on board, however, and praised the flight attendants for keeping everyone on board calm and collected. When the plane landed at Jose Marti airport in Havana, William added, the passengers gave the flight attendants a heartfelt round of applause.

William remembered seeing the seven Cubans get on the plane at Key West International airport as another Cuban, who was discovered to be carrying a toy pistol and tear gas, was detained.

Ten minutes into the flight, one of the Cubans suddenly stood up, waving a bottle of gasoline and shouting in Spanish. One of the passengers was able to interpret the man's shouts as demands to be taken to Cuba. Soon after, William recalled, as if out of a movie, the pilot's voice came over the intercom to tell the passengers they would be making "a slight detour to Havana."

KAREN SAID THE Cubans stayed in the rear section of the plane during the flight south and occasionally sprinkled gasoline onto the floor. The passengers for the most part were very quiet and nervous.

Once the plane landed, though, Cuban authorities quickly surrounded the aircraft, boarded it, rounded up the seven hijackers and hustled them into a waiting bus. That was the last they saw of the men responsible for their impromptu Cuban stopover.

Next, says William, the passengers were bused to the terminal. After spending 20 minutes in the baggage claims room, they were free to roam around the building and browse in the shops and cafeteria.

He laughed as he recalled how the passengers went on "buying sprees," for posters, cigars, and of course, good Cuban rum.

Everyone started drinking beer and rum and having a good time," he added.

Not one to waste such a golden opportunity, William got caught up in the festive mood himself, purchasing eight pounds of shrimp, some Cuban bread, and two seven-year-old bottles of Havana Club Rum—70 proof.

However, said the younger Fiscus, security cameras in every room and lots of Cuban authorities milling about prevented anyone from regarding the detour as a real holiday.

"The security there is so much better," he continued, noting that before re-boarding the plane, everyone's luggage had to be reclaimed and that individual packages were examined by X-ray.

Aside from receiving some strange looks from the natives, however, the Fiscus' say they were well-treated during their stay. After spending about four hours soaking up the atmosphere, it was time to get on the plane and fly back to the U.S.

They arrived in Miami a little after 4 p.m. and William was able to place a call to his mother around 5:30, something he couldn't do from Havana since the operator didn't speak English.

"The first thing I told her was, 'I just had lunch in Havana,'" he joked.

Taking Off

This 1925 Model T Ford is just one of the many attractions planned for the largest parade ever to be held in Grosse Pointe Woods to celebrate its 30th anniversary on Sunday, Sept. 7. In the car are two of the main movers behind the event—Woods Mayor George Freeman and Mrs. Doris Krohmer, chairman of the Woods Historical Commission's Anniversary Committee.

It's a mini history lesson when Woods celebrates 30th

By Gregory Jakub

The biggest problem that Doris Krohmer has faced as head of the committee planning Grosse Pointe Woods' 30th birthday party for Sunday, Sept. 7 is finding enough work for all those who have volunteered to help out with the event.

"I'M FINDING EVERYDAY that the phone rings from someone who wants to be part of this and is getting excited about it," Mrs. Krohmer said.

Since February, Woods citizens and officials have been planning what promises to be the largest party ever seen in Grosse Pointe Woods to celebrate its incorporation as a city which took place Dec. 11, 1950.

Apparently, Mrs. Krohmer and many others have gone all-out by planning to start the party with the biggest parade in Woods' history.

In addition to the usual scout troops, marching bands, little leaguers, floats, and antique cars, the parade will be a mini-history lesson about Grosse Pointe.

For instance, the parade marshal will be Al Abend, a former Woods policeman who retired in 1974 after 30 years on the force.

Also expected to be in the parade are the oldest native Woods residents whose names are already part of Woods' history. They are Mrs. Arthur Post (formerly Natalla Brys), 80, and Robert Vernier, 94. Brys Drive and Vernier road bear their family names.

There won't be one but 20 parade "queens" who will be honored when the parade, which starts at 1:30 p.m. at Van Antwerp, concludes at Ghesquiere Park. Mrs. Krohmer said to avoid the usual beauty queen syndrome, the 20 parade queens "from six to 106" will be selected from among spectators along the parade route.

At the park, TV newscaster Suzanne Geha, a Woods resident, will preside over the festivities which will include the recognition of some of the area's elected officials, a waterball contest between various Public Safety Departments, and a senior citizen dance group.

A PARTY IS NOT complete without food and there will be plenty of it. Dino's Pizza, National Coney Islands, cotton candy, snow cones and ice cream will be available at low prices from merchants who have agreed to charge only what they need to cover their costs, Mrs. Krohmer said.

"You'd be surprised at the generosity of the merchants in the area... time, money, and materials, the whole bit," she said.

There will also be a prize drawing for merchandise donated by Woods businesses. Entry blanks are available at the Woods' city hall.

Half-mill Tree Care Tax Faces Woods Vote in Fall

By Gregory Jakub

Grosse Pointe Woods voters will be asked in the November election whether they favor a one-half mill tax levy to finance a four-year, $500,000 program to maintain the city's approximately 5,100 trees.

IF APPROVED the city would begin collecting in 1981 an additional $125,000 in taxes from Woods residents for the next four years for use in maintaining all shade trees located on public and private property with owner permission.

The tax monies would supplement currently budgeted Department of Public Works funds that are used for controlling tree diseases, trimming, spraying and removal.

The proposed program was developed in recent months by the Woods' Community Tree Advisory Commission. The Woods Council voted unanimously Monday, Aug. 18, to put the program before Woods voters on the November ballot.

Tree Council chairwoman Jean Rice called the program "very exciting" and "innovative" but said her commission will have to work hard this fall to sell the program to Woods voters.

The original program proposal sought a one mill tax levy but the Woods tax levy committee cut it in half.

Many details of the program are not yet worked out such as how many trees need to be maintained and exactly how much it will cost.

THE COUNCIL will also have to determine a policy for property owner participation in the cost of tree removal.

Exact cost figures were not available at the Aug. 18 meeting but some estimated that the Woods spends about $45,000 yearly for tree removal. So far this year, the removal of 88 trees on city property has cost $13,490. Comparatively 61 trees on private property have been felled this year by private firms costing residents about $32,000, according to Chester Petersen, Woods city manager.

The proposed program has been called a "tree insurance" policy that will deal with the recently approved Woods' Master Street Tree

Plan. Besides its unusual concern with trees on private property, it also proposes studying the needs of trees in the city's parks, according to Jean Rice, tree advisory commission chairwoman.

Basically, the program would identify diseased shade trees, take steps to delay the trees' loss, and in the meantime replant so that a denuded situation is avoided, Rice said.

The intent is to avoid losing great numbers of trees which not only changes the character of the area but can put a staggering financial drain on the city and residents, Rice said.

To address the needs of principle shade trees on each lot, the program proposes bringing in forestry experts who could teach city employees maintenance and disease prevention techniques, Rice said. ANOTHER ASPECT of the program emphasizes replacing trees with the "proper trees in the proper places" and keeping them trimmed to prevent storm damage, Rice said.

Many important economic questions about the program remain to be answered such as whether it would be cheaper to hire city staff to implement the program or contract the work to private firms and whether the half-mill levy will cover program costs. Tree removal costs are now up to around $1,300 per tree so the cost of a long-range maintenance program could prove to be cheaper than removal, Rice said.

A similar program is in the works in Grosse Pointe Park and may be considered by the Park council.

Mack plan may get help from NEAR neighbors

By Joanne Gouleche

A downtown urban planning firm told the Park Council last week that while the City of Detroit may not have any immediate plans for curbing blight on Mack Avenue, a local residents group is moving ahead with its own ideas to spruce up the thoroughfare.

Neil A. Grossberger of Gerald Luedtke and Associates, Inc. said the City of Detroit is more concerned with major streets like Gratiot, Van Dyke and Livernois, where blight has already crept in and has taken its toll.

"The stimulus for Detroit is blight that has already occurred. Detroit considers Mack a healthy corridor," Grossberger said.

GROSSE POINTE PARK is counting on its western neighbor to clean up its rundown strip of stores, bars and offices that run through the city from Cadieux to Alter Road.

The Luedtke firm presented sketches and plans to Grosse Pointe officials earlier this year detailing a major facelift for Mack Avenue, including renovation of storefronts, parking facilities and new landscaping.

The study was also presented to Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and the Detroit City Council.

Grossberger said an active neighborhood group called North East Area Residents (NEAR) has come up with some ideas of what it would like to see implemented on the corridor.

Detroit merchants, Grossberger said, have responded to Luedtke's plan too, and are becoming a thriving group in the area again.

ONE MERCHANT, John Gawryk owner of Devonshire Drugs said Detroit is becoming receptive to Luedtke's plans for Mack Avenue.

"They (Detroit's Community Economic Development Corporation) want to sit down and talk with the merchants to see what can be done," Gawryk said.

The biggest problem facing Mack merchants, Gawryk said, is the lack of parking facilities.

Superintendent says he'll stay through '81

By Susan McDonald

School board members were left "speechless" last week after two, argumentative meetings to consider Superintendent William Coats' resignation. But they're talking now, trying to work over some of the hurt feelings and embarrassment of last week to get the board back on the track before school begins in less than two weeks.

Coats returned from a week's vacation Tuesday, with a statement that leaves no doubts about his intent.

"It is my preference and my intent to accept the position at University of Michigan on July 1, 1981, provided that I can work out the details of my resignation with the board," Coats said.

"Regardless, I now am and will continue to be superintendent of the Grosse Pointe school system on a full time basis, at least through June 30, 1981."

U-M regents offered Coats a full-professorship in the school's college of education last month and agreed to give him a year's leave of absence to wrap up his duties in Grosse Pointe.

Coats went to the board Aug. 11 with a request he be released from his contract on June 30, 1981, and that's when the fireworks went off.

Discussion degenerated into angry, personal attacks with board members lined up on either side of Coats. Coats' withdrew his request at the end of the Aug. 11 meeting.

But shortly after midnight Aug. 12, Board President Jon Gandelot decided to call another meeting of the Pointer Jim Hartway started out playing jazz but composing and teaching at Wayne State University are the activities that keep him involved in the international jazz scene.

Jazz is the beginning for Pointe composer

By Gregory Jakub

Jim Hartway remembers the early sixties when he played jazz in a smoky west-side Detroit coffeehouse until 4 a.m. for $5, a beer, and a hamburger.

Today, he does most of his playing on a baby grand piano in his comfortable Grosse Pointe Park home where the bay atmosphere is just dust from a kitchen remodeling project.

Though the setting has changed, Hartway's commitment to jazz has not. It is the music that started his musical career and led him to his current position as head of Wayne State University's Music Theory and Composition Department.

It also led him to Switzerland this summer where the Wayne State Jazz Band was invited to perform during "Detroit night" at the renowned Montreux International Jazz Festival.

Hartway is co-director of the Jazz Band which will appear at the five-day Montreux-Detroit Jazz Festival starting Aug. 29 in downtown Detroit.

The festival features a variety of top-name jazz artists like Oscar Peterson, Ramsey Lewis, and the Heath Brothers but also offers a heavy dose of various local student big bands and accomplished Detroit-based players such as saxophonist Larry Nozoro and percussionist Roy Brooks.

It will be the first time the prestigious 14-year-old Montreux Festival has loaned its name to a jazz event in North America and is indicative of Detroit's jazz reputation outside of the city, Hartway said.

"You see more jazz today in Detroit than I could ever remember," Hart-board for that evening, assuming Coats would re-submit his request. When trustees arrived at 8 p.m., however, they were disappointed. Coats refused to re-submit the resolution and the meeting adjourned.

At issue Aug. 11 was Coats' relationship with U-M during the next school year. Trustee Ron Dalby questioned Coats about how much time the superintendent planned to spend consulting with U-M while he remains on full salary in Grosse Pointe.

Coats refused to answer and he said this week he did so because, in his mind, the issue has no relationship to his resignation from the board.

"I have made every effort to leave this job in a positive way," Coats said Tuesday. "I've done everything, responded to every concern of board members in order to eliminate controversy.

"But when they start asking me how much time I'm going to spend at U-M, they're questioning my integrity. I've told them I'm going to be full-time superintendent next year and I mean it," Coats said.

The superintendent also said Tuesday that he will share the details of his arrangement with U-M with the board and the public as soon as they are worked out. "But that is totally separate from my request to resign from the board," he said.

Some board members, such as Laurence Harwood, are confident the embarrassment of last week can be smoothed over.

"I think a cooling off period of two or three months is needed. There were some hurt feelings, we need time to get back in the track, then I think we'll look at it again," Harwood said.

He is anxious to see Coats stay through the next school year. "I don't think what happened will impair his ability to work with the board and administrators," Harwood said.

Trustees Roger Mourad and Dorothy Kennel also said they are hopeful that compromises or understandings can be worked out that will ameliorate the differences.

But other board members see the matter differently. Dalby, for one, predicted Coats will leave Grosse Pointe within the new few months, either by board-initiated action or by action on a request from Coats.

"I think it will be impossible for him to be effective for the next 11 months after what happened Monday," Dalby said.

Trustee Joan Hanpeter, who considered asking for Coats' resignation on Tuesday, said she still has concerns about his ability to function during the next school year. "I was prepared to make a statement (Tuesday) about how disappointed I was with his over-reaction Monday night," she said.

"In light of his reaction, I think it would be well for him to leave as superintendent. He damaged his relationship with the board and degraded himself in front of the people who work with him."

Ironically, Coats said in an earlier interview that he is planning to conduct research at U-M in the area of the "politics" of education—starting right at the top with local boards of education.

Continuing education adds classes on Saturdays to 1980-81 schedule

For the first time the roster of classes provided for community residents by the Department of Continuing Education of the Grosse Pointe school system this fall includes a variety of Saturday offerings.

"We have had a number of inquiries about the possibility of offering classes for those who find it inconvenient to attend on weekdays or evenings. If this modest array of classes is successful, we plan to expand it in the winter and spring terms," according to Dr. George T. Eddington, supervisor of continuing education.

The fall schedule includes offerings in foreign language, cooking, dance and exercise.

"German—Phase I," taught by Irene Roland, will be offered from 9:30-11:30 a.m. on Saturdays, beginning Sept. 27, in room B109 of North High. Fee for the 10-week class is $25.

This is the first part of a proposed two-year program for the serious beginning student of foreign language who wishes a textbook and a structured approach. The text, which must be purchased separately, will be used during the two-year period.

Depending on student enrollment, phases II and III will be offered later this year, with phases IV, V, and VI scheduled for the 1981-82 year.

Another Saturday offering this fall will be the "Soy-craft Workshop," co-sponsored with No Nonsense Naturals. Fee for the four-week class which begins Oct. 4 is $20. Cost of food is additional for the class to be held from 10 a.m. to noon in room 198 of South. It will focus on making and using soy successfully in cooking.

"Tennis," co-sponsored with the Grosse Pointe Indoor Tennis Club, is scheduled by Continuing Education at 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. on Saturday morning, beginning Sept. 27, as well as during the week.

Fee for the 10-week class is $36. Classes, taught by Gary Bodenmiller, Tennis Pro, and Sue Loren and the staff of the Grosse Pointe Indoor Tennis Club, are held at the club, located opposite Fisher Road at Mack Avenue.

"Tone Up and Slim Down," taught by Donna Ribaldo, is slated for Saturday, Sept. 27 at 11 a.m. in Grosse Pointe South's Boys' Gym. Fee for this class is $12.50 for 10 weeks.

Two volleyball classes are scheduled for Saturday morning. Both are taught by Trudy Johnson. One will be held at 9 a.m., the other at 10 a.m. at South High.

Exercise for Fun, a new class offered this fall by Continuing Education during the week, has been scheduled from 8 to 9 a.m. on Saturday in the Boys Gym at South. Taught by Trudy Johnson, it focuses on such exercises as Hand-Cuffs, Tick Tocks, Can-Cans, Throw-Aways, Eagle Stretches and Windshield Wipers. Fee for the 6 week class is $7.50.

Three offerings, co-sponsored with Vital Options, Inc., are included as part of the new Saturday schedule. The classes are FigureFit, Moms' and Tots' Gym Class and Body Contouring.

"FigureFit," a fitness program of choreographed movements to music will be held at 10 a.m. in the gym at North High.

"Moms and Tots' Gym" class is scheduled at 9 a.m. in the gym at North. Fee for the 8-week class is $18.

"Body Contouring" will be held at 11:15 a.m. for 5-weeks in the gym at North High. The fee is $10.

In addition to the classes in the Adult Education program, two Youth Enrichment classes have been scheduled on Saturday.

"Creative Movement" (grades two-four), taught by

'Progress' publicizes Pointe HUD programs

By Susan McDonald
 HUD programs have run into a fair share of controversy in Grosse Pointe and city officials are anxious to present them in the best light. That's the rationale behind "Pointe Progress," a newspaper supplement published last month by four local city managers and paid for by federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds.

The paper was delivered inside a monthly tabloid advertiser, called "The Pointer" to almost every home in the Pointe. Four cities — the Park, Farms, Woods and City — paid $750 apiece, a total of $3,000 to publisher Paul McCarthy for the four-page issue, according to Wayne County CDBG Administrator James Curran.

The paper gave city managers a chance to tout a number of local programs paid for by HUD through Curran's CDBG office. Among them are traffic sign replacement, street resurfacing, housing rehabilitation and energy conservation. The four Pointes receive almost $500,000 from the program.

Farms City Manager Andrew Bremer described the publishing venture as an "advertisement" for city programs. But nowhere on the tabloid is it noted that the cities are paying the bill.

In fact, every effort is made to make the publication appear in the style of a regular newspaper. "Stories" were written by a professional reporter and edited by city managers and their staff. The format follows normal newspaper style with photographs, large headlines and diagrams.

Initially four issues of "Pointe Progress" were planned, but McCarthy said last week the project may be trimmed down to only one or two more publications.

The reason for that decision might stem from recent action by the citizens advisory commission on CDBG programs in the Woods. That commission voted last month not to pay for "Pointe Progress" based on the fact the commission had not approved the project, as it does for other CDBG programs in the city.

The commission said it "considers the four-page supplement to be news and it is of the opinion that it should not pay for news," according to minutes of its last meeting.

Many elected officials in other cities were not aware of the project, even as late as last week, nearly three weeks after publication. Of seven council members from four cities contacted by the News on Aug. 8, only one said she had even heard of "Progress."

That one was Ann McDonald, a Park council member, who said she supported the idea because it was not paid for by the city directly, but by the CDBG program. Funds came out of the portion of each city's grant earmarked to cover administrative costs.

Council members who said they had never heard of the project were Mayor David Robb and Jeanette Duffield in the City, Gail Kaess in the Farms, Douglas Graham in the Park, Mayor George Freeman and Frederick Lovelace in the Woods.

The names of most council members in all four cities are listed in the publication along with those of citizens advisory commission members.

CDBG Administrator Curran said he approved of the publication as an "outreach" program to residents. Farms City Manager Andrew Bremer agreed, saying it presents an opportunity to reach people who don't normally read letters and other communications that come from city offices.

In the Park, city manager John Crawford noted "the purpose is to keep citizens better informed about city programs to avoid misunderstandings similar to those that occurred prior to last year's election" in his city. HUD programs were a major issue in that campaign.

Farms rejoins SEMCOG after four year absence

The Farms city council voted at its July 28 meeting to rejoin the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) after a four-year absence from the organization.

The city withdrew from SEMCOG back in 1977 when several council members felt it would develop into another governmental layer and thereby take away some power from local units of government.

Farms mayor James H. Dingeman explained that SEMCOG's track record on local issues has put those fears to rest.

"I'm a lot more at ease about it now. We've received a high degree of cooperation from SEMCOG in the past in getting answers to questions on perplexing government issues," he said. "We look forward to being part of the council."

The voluntary association of governments provides long-range planning for land use, transportation, housing, recreation and open space and public safety on a scale that helps communities qualify for federal funds, according to SEMCOG spokesperson Cathy Harris.

Harris said federal agencies usually don't commit money for community projects unless there is a long-range plan which proves a need for them. She called SEMCOG's long-range housing plan "step one" in making Community Development Block Grants a reality in the metropolitan area.

SEMCOG also reviews all requests individual communities make for federal funding to make sure they're in order.

By joining the association once again, the Farms brings total membership in the organization up to 137. The city will pay $750 a year in dues fees which, Harris explained, are used to cover the local match which a government grant usually calls for.

Council member Gail Kaess has been appointed the Farms delegate to the association. Meetings are held once a month in Detroit's Book Building.

Games of skill set at Center

Grosse Pointe War Memorial's continuing program of games to test one's mental skills and abilities will resume Sept. 2 following Labor Day week-end. That evening Backgammon, Chess and Duplicate Bridge will be offered at 7:30 p.m. and continue on Tuesdays and at the same hour throughout the year.

Duplicate Bridge under the direction of Connin Gibbs Hodgeman and Sue Henderson also meets Monday afternoons at 12:30 beginning Sept. 8 and Friday evenings at 7:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 5. Master points can be earned in all Center Duplicate Bridge competition. There are also charity games, life master games and holiday games held throughout the year. Games are $2.50 each. Complimentary coffee and cookies are served.

Membership in the Backgammon Club is $10 a year. There is one-half hour of instruction and three hours of competition weekly. New members are always welcome.

Chess Club membership is $8.50 a year and entitles people to compete in all metro Detroit competitions. There are no age requirements. For details call president Robert Gault at 831-0335.

Beach receives Kiwanis award

At a special July 29 meeting held in his honor, Grosse Pointe Kiwanis member Richard Beach was presented with the Distinguished Kiwanian Plaque for his outstanding contributions to the club for the past 20 years.

President Bill Elliott made the presentation at the War Memorial, commending Beach for organizing and acting for 17 years as faculty advisor to the Kiwanis student Key Club at South High School as well as his participation in numerous civic organizations.

Beach, who lives on Harcourt in the Park, organized and administered the Kiwanis Co-op plaque project, which awards plaques to the outstanding co-op students at both North and South High Schools. He presently serves as trustee for the Kiwanis of Michigan Foundation, which assists all needy hospitalized crippled children.

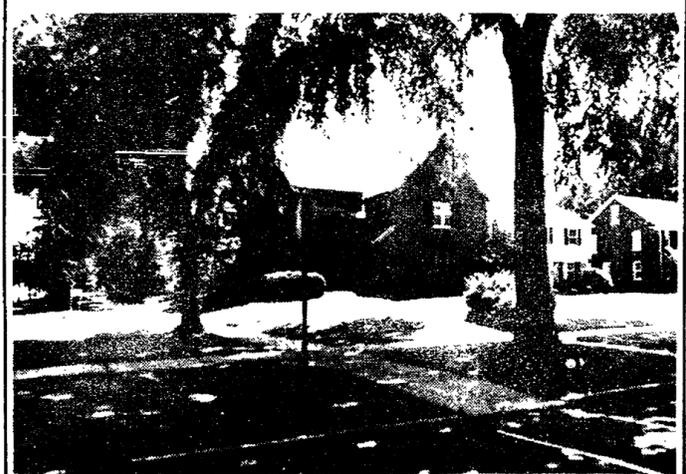

Several years ago the parents and students of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools voted him the outstanding educator in Wayne County in a Detroit News contest. Beach was Grosse Pointe Kiwanis president in 1967.

Italy has had 35 governments in the past 38 years.

Hijackees return to Pointe

Mrs. Letty Fiscus, for whom the hijacking was the caper to a miserable day.

Having just undergone a bone transplant in her mouth and feeling "lousy" from medication, she had come home to watch a little television and try to relax. The first thing that popped on the tube was the 12 o'clock news.

"And the first thing the newscaster said," remembers Mrs. Fiscus, "was that there had been another hijacking."

of a Key West to Miami plane. I knew it was my kids (on the plane) and I just sat down and cried."

The next thing she did was to call her husband, William, who was downtown waiting for his son and daughter's plane at Metro, and give him the bad news. After several nervous hours of waiting, a call came in from Miami that the plane was about to land and that everyone on board was safe and unharmed.

The Fiscus family often flies down to Key West to visit the kids' grandmother. This was the first hijacking for both Karen and William, who say one per lifetime is plenty. Karen did admit that the experience was "exciting," however, and the two have gained a measure of notoriety among their peers, who now call them "the hijackees of Grosse Pointe."

THEY'VE ALSO gone the gamut of being grilled by Detroit's news media, when a battery of reporters, photographers and technicians descended upon the pair as they landed at Metro airport Wednesday night.

Much of the interest in their ordeal was sparked by the fact that theirs was the second hijacking to Cuba within a four-day period. Another Air Florida flight was commandeered by a man who claimed to have a bomb the previous Sunday.

Since the Fiscus' return, three more flights have been hijacked to Havana in the past week, all by Cubans. Authorities believe the hijackers are probably among the 118,000 refugees who came to the U.S. in the Cuban refugee seahit last April and May.

Although Fidel Castro, president of Cuba, has made it clear he doesn't want them returning to their homeland, many seem determined to do just that, prompting officials to fear that even more planes will be seized in the near future.

Nevertheless, the Fiscus family says it has no intention of avoiding air travel in the southern hemisphere. As a matter of fact, William and his father left for Nassau in the Bahamas on Saturday.

Although he doesn't look forward to making any more stops in the land famed for its sugar, rum and revolution, William says if he should ever get hijacked there again he'll be sure not to forget to pick up some Cuban cigars.

(Continued from Page 1) way said referring to the city's tenuous jazz club scene which is currently on an upswing.

The Montreux-Detroit Festival is an outgrowth of an increased interest in jazz locally which Hartway said was instigated by consistent support of the music by many of his contemporaries.

"Maybe we've all had the guts to hang in there and it's caught on," Hartway said.

But jazz performance is a part of the city's jazz culture that thrives without Hartway's active participation. He's chosen the relatively secure life of academia which has brought him success in what he said are his most fulfilling activities—composing and teaching.

Although some of his serious classical compositions are published and recorded, he said teaching has been most rewarding both financially and personally. That is a situation that is rare in the music field which can force one to make significant financial or artistic compromises, Hartway said.

"I enjoy teaching and turning kids on to music. I can still compose and play and I can sleep with that... because teaching has enabled me to be committed to what I believe in," Hartway said.

However, believing in an abstraction like music can lead to some difficulties in the real world.

"It's very strange. I often ask myself 'am I doing the right thing?'" Hartway said referring to his roles as jazz and classical composer, teacher, conductor and performer. "I try to strike some kind of balance and do them all to the best of my abilities," he said.

He admits he sometimes is confronted with the standing controversy over whether white musicians are culturally compatible with the jazz tradition which developed out of the black American experience.

"Music is expressive and a white man has thoughts and feelings and desires and can express them as well as anyone else. I've suffered some too. I can express that in jazz and in other music too," he said.

Some of Hartway's expressions can be heard in a piece he wrote especially for the Montreux Festival called "Motor City Sequence." The composition is in three parts—"Assembly Line Boogie," "Churches of Detroit" and "Renaissance"—and can be heard when the Wayne State Jazz Band performs on Friday, Aug. 29 and Monday, Sept. 1 at the Montreux-Detroit Jazz Festival on Hart Plaza and the Music Hall.

Panty phantom prowls Park pilfering pairs of pretties

The phantom panty thief struck the Park last week and snatched a lace nightgown off the clothesline of a Lakepointe woman.

It was only two weeks ago that the thief made his way into a Nottingham backyard and took 19 pairs of lace undies off the line.

The thief, who has a penchant for panties and nightgowns in the western end of the city, is suspected of riding about town on a blue ten-speed bicycle, according to police.

The Lakepointe woman said she hung out her clothes in the morning and discovered her lace nightgown missing later that day.

"He left two wishy-washy gowns and two old housecoats," the woman said.

The woman also said she found some clothespins scattered on the lawn.

Within the last two months there have been other reports of the panty thief hitting homes in the Park. Some residents told police they once spotted the ten-speed thief stuffing nighties into his shirt and pedaling off.

Choral group holds auditions

The Cantata Academy of Metropolitan Detroit will hold vocal auditions for the coming season on Aug. 23 and Aug. 30 at Westminster Presbyterian Church on Hubbell and West Outer Drive in Detroit.

The academy is a 50-voice choir which has given professional choral performances since 1961, both here and abroad.

For an audition appointment and additional information call Janice Berry, business manager, 271-8946.

with the merchants along the Detroit side, but not everyone is going to want to spend money. As planners we can't twist any arms, but we are optimistic that Detroit will respond," Groszberger said at council meeting last week.

Locally, Luedtke's plan has sparked optimism, but right behind that optimism are questions of where the big money is going to come from to finance such a massive project.

It's going to take more than the $100,000 Wayne County Community Development Block Grant awarded to the Park, City, Farms and Woods last month to help curb blight on Mack Avenue.

All four communities made a joint application for the federal money that comes out of Washington through the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The Park also filed an individual request for $94,000 but was turned down.

ASIDE FROM financing the Mack project, Park City Manager John Crawford said whether or not Luedtke's recommendations are acceptable or workable still has to be determined.

A master plan and zoning ordinance currently being drafted by Park city planners will help dictate what can happen next on Mack in the Park, Crawford said. That study could turn up ideas for a commercial district, a business-retail district or residential area, Crawford said.

"Until answers are given to those kind of questions, the implementation of Luedtke's study will have to be put on the back burner until there are solid ideas and ways to finance them," Crawford added.

with Chet Bogan's Wolverine Jazz Band and the Austin-Moro Big Band at 7:30 p.m. The tennis courts will be open for dancing.

And what would a birthday party be without a cake? A special two-tiered cake will be specially made and donated by Josef's Bakery, Mrs. Krohmer said.

Donations of services, products and cash from businesses have provided what may be the nicest aspect of the party—it will cost the city next to nothing to sponsor the event, Mrs. Krohmer said.

She said her committee has taken care of almost all the details for the celebration but is still looking for a couple whose wedding date is the same as the Woods birthday and a convertible for the parade for Mayor George Freeman and other dignitaries.

"All we can do now is pray for good weather," Mrs. Krohmer said.

One of the most famous wine chateaus in the world is Lafite-Rothchild. Tasting almost any of their wines is a special occasion. The Rothchilds bought Lafite in 1868 and control of the vineyard has remained totally in the hands of the Rothchild family since then. Ownership is divided into six shares and are mostly in the hands of the French Rothchilds. However, Chateau Mouton-Rothchild, not a small timer in the wine business either, borders on the vineyards of Lafite and is owned entirely by Baron Philippe de Rothchild, on the English side of the family.

For those with distinguished taste, as well as those seeking a momentary thirst quencher, PARKJE'S PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack, Corner of St. Clair, Detroit, offers the overall solution. Our inventory is "balanced" to meet the varying tastes of our many friends and customers. We urge you to stop in frequently and select your favorite as well as selecting something new, exciting and different that will enlarge your taste pleasures. Prime Time
For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor
Students and scholars, geneologists and history buffs, the just plain curious and those who are proud of the Pointes and its past, will not be without material to achieve their purpose because of the efforts of three Grosse Pointe organizations.

They are: The Grosse Pointe Historical Society, The Grosse Pointe Woods Historical Commission and the Grosse Pointe Park Architectural and Historical Committee, an affiliate of the Grosse Pointe Park Beautification Committee.

All three of these organizations are busily engaged in the collection of Grosse Pointe memorabilia. Each one is interested in gathering pamphlets, pictures, books and newspapers—any item that has historical significance. Each group has for its focus a dynamic, meaningful, contemporary purpose. Their collections will not gather dust waiting for interested researchers to use on occasion.

MRS. DORIS MILLER who heads up the Grosse Pointe Park Architectural and Historical Commission pointed up the important phase.

"So much of the past has been lost," she commented. "We want to make sure that present history is preserved. This was brought home to us a short time ago when an old group picture of some 'pointers' was given to us. No one had any knowledge of who they were. While it was interesting from the point of view of hair and dress fashion, it would have been so much more so if we had had the family's identification and history."

Organizations are as good as the people who give their time and effort into making them work, and Mrs. Miller is an excellent example of the enthusiastic hard-working members who devote time and energy to the preservation of memorabilia.

A former social worker, she is now at home with her husband and four children—two teenage girls, a teenage boy and the pride of the household, a baby boy. It's a busy time of life for her but she willingly shares that time with the committee.

It is a new organization, just in the planning stages but Mrs. Miller and her committee are busy drafting plans for interviews with old time residents—"not just gossip but real insights into what it was like to live in Grosse Pointe in the past"—collecting folklore and recording contemporary historical events.

The group is also interested in pictures of old homes in the area and their history.

Over at the War Memorial, Jean Dodenhoff is busy cataloging materials which have been collected since 1940.

MISS DODENHOFF, who is a retired curator from the Detroit Institute of Arts, spends Wednesday of each week classifying photos, maps and books for the Grosse Pointe Historical Society. The materials are available for reference or just browsing each Wednesday.

Eugene Cadieux is president of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society. Although he is busy running an insurance business, he spends much of his time on the affairs of the Historical Society and is justly proud of the Indian artifacts on display at the War Memorial. "They were all dug up in one area just beyond Vernier Road," he said.

In Grosse Pointe Woods, John A. Hammel is currently working on the 30th anniversary celebration of the city's founding. He is wrapped up in plans for a parade, ceremonies in the park, games, prizes and contests.

HONORED AT THE time will be the oldest male resident, Robert R. Vernier, 94, and Mrs. Alger Post, 90, who lives on Brys and whose name was Brys before her marriage.

"Mrs. Post remembers when the Woods was literally that. Wood was cut in the area and hauled to the lake to be sent to the mills," according to Mr. Hammel. "She attended the 'Little School' on Mack. We found a ledger there that recorded salaries of teachers at the turn of the century—$30 a month."

Mr. Hammel, a retired school principal from the Grosse Pointe school system, also works as a volunteer in the Grosse Pointe library, serves as a secretary of the Grosse Pointe Senior Mens Club, is treasurer of the Grosse Pointe Woods Foundation for Academic Enrichment, is an amateur painter of landscape and portraits—and serves on the Grosse Pointe Woods Historical Commission.

These are some of the citizens who are working to preserve Grosse Pointe history. Actually it is a project that everyone could contribute to, particularly older citizens.

Any one of the groups would be glad to preserve your mementos and memories of other days and to share them with those who would have no other way of knowing about them except through your generosity.

Pointers assigned to new services office

The Wayne County Department of Social Services (DSS) recently announced that Grosse Pointe residents using the 12700 Kercheval general services district office have been reassigned to a new office at 1600 Algonquin in Detroit.

The Kercheval facility, where Pointers living in zip codes 48230 and 48236 previously went for service, is due to close sometime in the near future, according to a spokesperson for the DSS.

The closing of the Kercheval office will leave only three of the original eight locations open—640 Temple, 2905 Holbrook and 1200 East McNichols.

A Management Action Plan (MAP) initiated in 1976 to redesign the social services delivery system in Wayne County has resulted in 22 out of a projected 30 new smaller, more conveniently located offices opened to replace the original eight antiquated facilities.

The service offices offer a full range of public assistance programs and social services including aid to families with dependent children, general assistance, medical assistance, food stamps, basic family services, day care, employment-related services and emergency assistance.

The Kercheval office's closing will mark the end of a decade of service at what was once the busiest DSS office in the state. At its peak, it handled some 6,000 clients per day and 60,000-70,000 per month. The office employed nearly 500 employees.

The opening of new offices, under the MAP at 4733 Conner and 7603 Kercheval relieved much of the pressure of client and staff numbers. The DSS will open its newest office Aug 25 at 3605 East Forest with a staff of 109 Wayne County DSS employees to service 10,000 public assistance and social services cases. Clients being assigned to the new facility live in zip codes 48207 north of Charlevoix, an area now served by the Kercheval south office and 48201 east of Woodward now served by the 640 Temple office.

Other clients being served by the Kercheval office will be reassigned as follows: 48205, 48224, 48225 and 48234, all to 2905 Holbrook effective Aug 25; 48213 on or east of Conner, also to the Holbrook location effective Sept. 5, and 48207 on Gratiot and on or south of Charlevoix to 7608 Kercheval.

'Half-Gunned'
There's at least one gun in 45 percent of American homes, a recent Gallup Poll disclosed, more rifles and shotguns than pistols and revolvers. Incidence of gun ownership was higher in the smallest communities and rural areas—70 percent.

In addition to workers they are constantly in need of clean ironed white material.

The second group is Service Guild for Children's Hospital, the only group permitted to work outside the hospital. Members make bandages, bite blocks, surgery folders, tracheotomy pads and the like and assemble poison control information. They meet every Tuesday, beginning Sept. 2, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and bring a sack lunch. Service earns uniforms, caps and stripes.

Pointers soar in 'Superman'

Superman will fly into Stouffer's Eastland Dinner Theater on Sept. 6 to open the 1980-81 theatrical season.

"It's a Bird, It's a Plane, It's Superman," a 1960's musical comedy, will be Stouffer's first production of the year, featuring Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lucido of Brys Drive as Superman and Lois Lane.

Music for the play is by "Annie" composer Charles Strouse and lyricist Lee Adams. The show was originally produced on Broadway by Harold Prince and is making its area premier this fall.

The story involves a mad scientist, played by Dennis Wickline, a South High graduate, and a jealous reporter, Max Mencken, played by John Diebel of Park Lane. Other local residents involved in the production are Aden Russell, of Sunningdale Drive, playing one of the Flying Lings, and Steve Linne, of Maryland Road, stage manager.

The rollicking musical features a helicopter chase, exploding city hall tower and Strouse-Adams songs such as "You've Got Possibilities" and "You've Got What I Need, Baby."

The production is under the direction of Wickline, with musical direction by David McDonald, choreography by Arlene Schoenherr, pianist John Dickinson and percussionist Gregory White. The play will run Friday and Saturday evenings from Sept. 6 through Oct. 25. Cocktails are at 7, dinner at 7:30 and show at 8:45 p.m. Tickets are $16.50 per person including prime rib dinner, show, tax and gratuity. Children under 12 are admitted for $11.50.

Call 371-8410 for more information.

Antique auction in Chicago

Sotheby Parke Bernet, the world's oldest and largest auctioneers of fine art, antiques and jewelry, will hold its first midwest auction in Chicago at the Drake Hotel on Sept. 9 and 10.

The three-part sale will commence with a gala evening session Tuesday, Sept. 9, featuring important jewelry from the estate of Avery Brundage, former President of the U.S. Olympic Association and Trustee of the Art Institute of Chicago. On Wednesday, Sept. 10, fine English furniture, decorations, rugs, silver, and Art Nouveau and Art Deco works of art will be offered, including property from the collection of Mrs. Robert R. McCormick, widow of Colonel McCormick, one-time Editor and Publisher of the Chicago Tribune.

Council sets CPR class for instructors

The Grosse Pointe Health Education Council is sponsoring a Cardiac Pulmonary Resuscitation instructors class in September. Participants need not have any special training — only a desire to learn and the commitment to give 16 hours of their time in the next year to teaching Grosse Pointe High School students the lifesaving technique.

The course will be offered at the Macomb County Red Cross Center on Gratiot and 11 Mile Road. The training program for instructors involves a total of 16 hours in the classroom. Classes will be held on Sept. 17 and 19 and on Sept. 24 and 26 from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. It is necessary to complete all 16 hours in order to qualify as an instructor. Sign up as soon as possible because class sizes will be limited to 15-20 people.

The Grosse Pointe Health Education Council desperately needs help for Grosse Pointe's young people in order to continue to sponsor this program.

Seafaring blood runs strong in Woods family

By Elsa Frohman

Rear Adm. Robert E. Kirksey, commander of the Navy task force patrolling the Persian Gulf, wasn't always certain about staying in the Navy, his mother, Mrs. Lester (Florence) Kirksey says. Mrs. Kirksey, of Brys Drive in Grosse Pointe Woods, says that long after the winter day in 1950 when Robert boarded a plane at the Naval facility on Grosse Ile and headed for his first duty station, her son had serious doubts about his career in the service and considered turning around to stay home with his family.

His decision to stay was an important one—not only for Kirksey but for the military he serves as well.

Kirksey, as commander of Task Force 77 has been one of the principle figures in U.S. military operations in Iran. It was from his ship that eight ill-fated helicopters took off this summer for an abortive rescue mission in the Iranian desert.

Kirksey has a distinguished military career. He flew 400 missions during six tours in Vietnam and was awarded the Silver Star, the Legion of Merit and Distinguished Flying Cross for his efforts.

The Silver Star resulted from heroic action over Hanoi as a wing commander. His plane was hit and caught fire but Kirksey continued to fly for a second round of attacks before heading back to the carrier where he was based. Because his landing gear had been damaged, he had to fly on to Da Nang for a crash landing. His aircraft had 80 holes in it.

Kirksey continued flying for the Navy as long as they would let him. He stopped in 1975 to take several ground assignments.

He is rare among admirals because he did not go to Annapolis. He was just 44 when he was promoted to Admiral.

Kirksey was appointed commander of Task Force 77 in the Indian Ocean last October. The trouble in Iran broke out in November and he has been over there since with the three carriers and 25 support ships he commands.

Kirksey's older brother, Jack, says that Kirksey is likely to receive a third star and become a Vice Admiral. Jack also believes his brother is in line to become Commander of the Pacific Fleet.

Mrs. Kirksey has more than one son to be proud of. Jack, a former school principal, is a member of the Michigan State Legislature. As the Republican Representative from the 35th district, he has served in Lansing for the last three years.

Jack said he has often wondered what it is that makes the children in one family achievers. He said his family has always been a military family.

Back in 1950 Jack and Bob joined the service at the same time. Bob went to the Navy and Jack went to the Air Force. Their sister, Mrs. Anne Oliver, married a Navy Commander and is still living the service life.

Their father, Lester Kirksey, had a long career in the military. He was born Lester Kirkstewart in the Oklahoma Territory and met his wife in the one-room school house that his parents taught in. Florence's parents lived on a neighboring farm—they had donated the land for the school house.

When Lester was 14-years-old, his father died. When he was 18-years-old he lied about his age and joined the Navy.

During World War I Kirksey was an officer aboard a troop ship carrying soldiers to France.

Between wars Kirksey returned to civilian life, but during World War II he went back to the military and worked with Intelligence. When not working with the military he worked with the Border Patrol.

It was the Border Patrol that sent Kirksey and his family to Detroit in 1934. In 1950 they moved to the house in Grosse Pointe Woods where Mrs. Kirksey still lives. She has been widowed since 1975.

After leaving the Border Patrol, Kirksey worked for the Veterans Administration until he retired.

Whatever Mr. and Mrs. Kirksey did in raising their children, it must have been right. Mrs. Kirksey remembers her son the admiral as being a quiet, studious boy—but not so quiet or studious that he stood out among his peers.

"I got a letter from him the other day," she said. "He signed it Your Son, the Sultan of the Indian Ocean, which shows he still has his sense of humor."

Landmark store has 45 days

Owners of the Lochmoor Hardware building, one of the oldest in Grosse Pointe Woods, have 45 days to determine how much it will cost to bring their landmark structure up to modern safety codes.

That was the agreement reached last week between Woods officials and building owners Mr. and Mrs. William Balocchi. A city inspection several weeks ago determined that the building, which was built in 1927, is unsafe according to present safety codes. Repair estimates must meet certain building code requirements before the structure can be saved, the code says.

Earl Wakely, Woods director of buildings and grounds, said the current structure might not be able to withstand a strong storm like the one that hit the west side of Detroit on July 18.

Mrs. Balocchi said she will use the next 45 days to gather repair bids from contractors on repairing the building's dangerously sagging outer walls and sunken floors.

"If it costs too much to repair it, I'll have to forget it and tear it down," Mrs. Balocchi said.

Woods resident Donald A. Lindow has accepted a top volunteer leadership position in the United Foundation 1980 Torch Drive. As chairman of the Insurance and Brokers Group of the Commercial Unit, Lindow will be responsible for the solicitation efforts within that group in the tri-county area. Lindow is a member of the Society of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters and has volunteered to act as chairman for the last three years.

Grosse Pointe home sales drop

Grosse Pointe home sales dipped 8 percent last month from 78 sales a year ago to 72 sales. The Grosse Pointe Real Estate Board released figures that also showed dollar volume dropped 8 percent from 1979's $108,889 to last month's $100,611. Properties listed for sale, however, climbed from 141 a year ago to 252 last month. The average selling price of homes in the Pointes increased 10 percent for the first seven months of this year.

No parking for parade

To prevent the biggest parade in Grosse Pointe Woods history from becoming its biggest headache, the Public Safety Department has made some special parking arrangements for Sept. 7.

There will be no parking on the west side of Mack the day of the parade from sunrise until the "Woods" birthday party parade ends about 2:45 p.m. Also, south-bound traffic on Mack will be detoured west on Vernier between 1:30 p.m. and 2:45 p.m.

Van Antwerp street will be used as a staging area for parade floats and participants and will be blocked off between Jackson and Mack. To avoid congestion, police suggest that groups marching in the parade arrive in vans since there will be no parking on Van Antwerp.

Consumption of coffee by Americans in 1979 was at the rate of 28 gallons per person, down from 35.2 gallons in 1972.

Schools add 60 new classes in September

The Department of Continuing Education of the Grosse Pointe public school system has scheduled a total of 272 classes for the term beginning in September, according to Dr. George T. Eddington, supervisor of the program. Of this number, 241 are in Adult Education and 31 are in Youth Enrichment.

"The Fall schedule includes 60 brand-new offerings covering a wide range of topics, in addition to Continuing Education's roster of popular, tried-and-true classes in seven areas: Arts and Crafts, Sewing, Careers and Vocations, Dance and Exercise, Cooking, Foreign Language, and Special Interest," Eddington said.

New classes for fall are Basic Home Repairs: Plumbing and Heating, Basic Home Repairs: Electrical Equipment, Basic Home Repairs: Carpentry, Beer and Home Brewing, Brush Up Your Secretarial Skills, Calligraphy—Advanced, Collecting, Charity Sucek Demonstrates Recipes from the Great Restaurants of the World, Charity Sucek Presents Breads of the World, Charity Sucek Demonstrates MORE Recipes from the Great Restaurants of the World, and Charity Sucek Presents Christmas Foods.

Other new offerings in the Continuing Education roster are Economics Update, Embroidery on Perforated Paper: Revival of a Victorian Craft, Exercise for Fun, French — Phase IV, Fresh Ideas for Rooms You'd Love to Live In, German—Phase

IV, Getting Acquainted with the Piano, and Great Art of the World.

Still more among the 60 new classes are Greek Cuisine—An Introduction, Holiday Egg Decorating, Home Nursing, Ideas: Presentations by the Designers of the Decorators' Show House 1980, Introduction to Secretarial Skills, Italian—Phase I, Japanese Cooking, Macrobiotics, More Party Foods, and the New Adam.

Included among the new classes is a series of 18 one-night stands and sampler classes.

Topics to be covered include Art History—An Introduction, Blood Pressure and Vital Signs, Divorce—Its Legal Aspects, Estate Planning for Singles, $50 a Week to Feed a Family of Four? Betty Young Will Show You How, Handwriting Analysis, Introduction to Natural Food Cooking, Make the Most of Your Marriage, Oriental Folk Medicine, Pasta—Make it from scratch, Smoking Hypnosis Clinic, Stress Management Clinic, Title IX — What's it all about?, Understanding Hypnosis, Weight Control Clinic, Wilderness Survival and First Aid, Wine-Tasting — What's it all about?, and You Ought to Have a Will!

Other new offerings are Parenting — Birth to Age Two, Preparation for Parenthood, Shaping Your Future, Show Biz, Silk Flowers, Spanish — Phase I, Stroke Class — Care and Prevention, Tone Up and Slim Down, Wines of the World, and Writing Workshop.

Residents of the Grosse Pointe school district should watch their mail the week of Aug. 25 for the blue fall flyer of the Department of Continuing Education announcing the complete program.

Although most Adult Education classes begin the week of Sept. 22, others start as early as the weeks of Sept. 8 and 15, while some classes of short duration do not begin until mid to late October or early November.

Most classes in the Youth Enrichment program begin the week of Sept. 29.

Residents who do not receive a blue flyer in the mail may call the post office serving their neighborhood or obtain a copy at the public library.

Enrollments for all classes may be made by mail or in person at the Department of Continuing Education, in room A-22 of Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms 48236.

For further information on the fall program, call Continuing Education at 343-2178.

War Memorial reopens Sept. 1

Grosse Pointe War Memorial closed for refurbishing Aug. 17, and will reopen Sept. 1.

Requests for tickets and registration for educational tours and activities along with deposits and payments for same can be sent in by mail. Limited information will be available 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. over the telephone, 881-7511, but reservations for center use cannot be made during the annual closing.

Patrons' attention is also called to the fact that beginning this fall activity cards will only be mailed bi-monthly instead of monthly. The next card will be mailed at the end of October.

After New York, a nasty campaign

In nominating President Carter for a second term, the Democrats followed the advance script just as faithfully as the Republicans did last month when they selected Ronald Reagan as their standard bearer. As a result, the 1980 campaign has already begun with a battered and buffeted president who was once a peanut farmer pitted against an aging challenger who is a retired actor turned politician. For many Americans, the prospects for November still are not too pleasing, a fact that raises faint hopes for Congressman John Anderson as an independent candidate.

While Mr. Carter won the Democratic nomination from a rather unenthusiastic convention, it was Sen. Edward M. Kennedy who won the platform. Thus in both parties the platforms reflected the views of the more extreme delegates rather than those of the nominees themselves. In July, GOP ultraconservatives wrote a number of extreme right-wing planks which Reagan in effect repudiated in an acceptance speech aimed at moderate voters. And now in August, Sen. Kennedy insists on liberalizing the platform to such an extent that the President had to issue a statement of differences with it in a number of specific instances.

SO IT NOW APPEARS the campaign once again is shaping up as a battle for the middle of the ideological road. At the Democratic convention, party leaders tried to paint Reagan into an ultraconservative corner so that Mr. Carter could occupy the center all by himself. In fact, the Democratic leaders sought unity by picturing Reagan as a reactionary muckraker who if elected would destroy the social programs enacted since New Deal days.

While the Kennedy backers enthusiastically supported this picture of Reagan, they were not satisfied with the Carter middle-of-the-road stance on the platform. Instead, they wanted to make a stronger appeal to old-fashioned Democratic liberalism, presumably to sharpen the differences between Republicans and Democrats. The liberals also wanted to convert President Carter to their views—and won their way on a number of issues.

One result was that the Democrats came out of the convention recommending increased federal spending—even asking an additional $12 billion in government spending for jobs—as their major solution to the nation's social and economic problems. The Republicans, on the other hand, had made it clear they favor government moves to stimulate economic activity by business and industry in the belief that expanding private enterprise would generate more jobs than would expanding the federal government.

IN EFFECT, THE Democratic platform repudiated the Carter economic policies by insisting the party will not use high interest rates and high unemployment to combat inflation. It also called for government financing of abortion, a recommendation the President opposed, just as he also opposed abortion, even though he said he would carry out the will of Congress. So while women won greater support from Democrats than from Republicans through the endorsement of the equal rights amendment by both the President and the platform, they won little more sympathy from Mr. Carter on the abortion issue than they had obtained earlier from Reagan.

Platform planks are written largely to satisfy the special interests represented in the party and the convention. But what each presidential candidate says and does in the coming months probably will be more important. The Democrats did succeed in papering over their differences after Kennedy's speech but there still is no assurance the party will be united and work enthusiastically for Mr. Carter's reelection. Yet while the Democrats are down, it's too early to say they'll be out in November.

Unfortunately, it promises to be a nasty campaign. Many Democrats left the convention unhappy with their candidate but fearful of the Reagan they heard described in New York. The attacks on Reagan no doubt will increase as the campaign continues because Mr. Carter will find it difficult to point with pride to his record. Yet it is doubtful, as Sen. Kennedy pointed out, that a negative campaign will attract many voters to Mr. Carter in November.

SUCH A SITUATION would give Reagan his opportunity to build on the constructive beginnings he made in his acceptance speech in Detroit. The question is whether he will have the confidence and spirit to do so instead of getting down in the gutter to engage in the mud-throwing contest some Democrats started in New York.

Final recital set at church

The 10th and final event in the Summer Carillon Recital Series will be presented on Monday, Aug. 25, at 7 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Sally Slade Warner, carillonist and music instructor at Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass. will perform a program of American and British songs, light classics and original compositions. The carillon is a set of bells tuned to the chromatic scale. Ms. Warner studied organ and church music at the New England Conservatory of Music Her carillon study began at St. Stephen's Church in Cohasset, Mass. and continued with Piet van den Broek at the Royal Carillon School "Jef Denyn" in Mechelen, Belgium, where she received her final diploma in 1979.

Currently director of music at the Church of St. John the Evangelist in Boston and a member of the Guild of Carillonists of North America, Ms. Warner has conducted recital tours in the U.S., Canada and Europe. This final recital is being presented by the Musica Series of the Memorial Church and by a special fund in memory of Ann Louise Kelly. A summer series for 1981 is being planned, and any one wishing to be placed in the mailing list for this and other music concerts throughout the year can do so by calling the church office at 882-5330.

Learn about real estate in the Pointes

Back by popular demand, "Home Ownership in the Pointes" will be offered this fall through the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Board and the Continuing Education Division of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools.

The free series will begin Thursday, Oct. 2, and will run for four weeks. Topics to be discussed include the fundamentals of real estate transactions; dollars and sense in real estate investing; financing a housing purchase, condominium and co-op living; and certificates of occupancy.

The series will be held in the cafeteria at Brownell School, 260 Chalfonte, at 7:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 343-2178.

Children's Home receives $50,000 challenge grant

The Children's Home of Detroit, located on Cook road in the Woods, was awarded a challenge grant of $50,000 on July 21 by the Kresge Foundation of Troy to renovate the special education recreation building known as the Barnard Center.

The center was named after Harry Barnard, a Grosse Pointe resident who in 1949 was instrumental in developing the facility. In order to claim the grant, the board of trustees of Children's Home must raise the balance of the funds needed to complete the $250,000 project by Dec. 15, 1980.

The project calls for enlarging the existing indoor playground, creating an arts and crafts and activities room and adding classroom space in order to provide better services for the children under care. HE Tammela, executive director of the home, said the board will attempt to raise the necessary money by applying to other private foundations in the state. The Children's Home was

'Sample' ethnic cooking, art, law and more this fall

Among the 60 new offerings planned for the fall by the public school system's Department of Continuing Education are a number of one session "sampler" classes.

Meeting the week of Sept. 15, the week prior to the beginning of most adult education classes, are six classes which will be taught by the same instructors who will begin full-length courses in the same area the week of Sept. 22.

Three one-night samplers are scheduled for Monday, Sept. 15: "Art History — An Introduction," "Estate Planning for Singles" and "Introduction to Natural Food Cooking."

June Nelson, whose new 10-week Art History class, "Great Art of the World" begins on Sept. 22, will do a self-contained introductory class beginning at 7:30 p.m. in room A-61 of Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte.

Robert Ibric, an attorney whose popular personal estate planning class entitled "You, Your Estate, and Your Heirs," will begin on Sept. 22. The sampler he will present, "Estate Planning for Singles" will begin at 7 p.m. in room A-8 of Brownell.

"Because they may have different financial responsibilities than married people, singles often ignore estate planning," according to Ibric. "However, a good estate plan can help them avoid problems too."

If you are too busy to take the full-length class in Natural Food Cooking but are still interested in finding out what it's all about, the one-night survey of the topic, "Introduction to Natural Food Cooking" is for you. Co-sponsored with No Nonsense Naturals, the class will be taught by Bonnie Breidenbach at 7 p.m. in room 198 at South High, 11 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

In addition, on Sept. 15 Lawrence Wright, instructor of the popular Genealogy class which will be repeated again in the fall term, has developed a single-session offering he calls "Healing."

It's strange—nobody really understands the principles of what, for lack of a better term, is called "healing." Are we a channel through which an unknown source of energy flows? Is there a transference of energy from one person to the next? What is this curious phenomenon all about? Could it be magnetic energy? Wright doesn't promise answers to all of these questions, but he does promise a lively discussion in this class to be held at 7:30 p.m. in room A-5 of Brownell.

Two sampler classes are slated for Tuesday, Sept. 16 — one "An Introduction to Wine-Tasting," the other "Greek-Cooking."

"Wine-Tasting: What's it all about?" is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in room A-26 of Brownell. It will be taught by Rob and Betty Young of Culinary Consultants, Inc. "Wine is a fascinating subject, too complex to grasp completely in a single lesson, but this sampler will provide a sound introduction," Mrs. Young says.

"Greek Cuisine — An Introduction" will be presented by Viola Hadjiyanis in room C-5 of Brownell at 7:30 p.m. who promises a demonstration of some of the tasty highlights of Greek cooking, including a hands-on experience with phyllo dough.

Teresa Galise, who will repeat her popular, basic five-week "Italian Cooking" class beginning Sept. 24, will present "Pasta: Make it from Scratch" at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 17 in room 145 of South High.

"Food freaks are developing a new taste: upscale pasta! Today's trendy pasta is usually seasoned with herb sauces and cooked to al dente crispness," Mrs. Galise states. She promises to teach you how to crank it out on your own machine at home.

Despite its diet-busting reputation, nutritionists say that pasta provides protein, carbohydrates and vitamins at a reasonable rate of calories. On Thursday, Sept. 18, Understanding Hypnosis will be presented by George Todd and Associates in room 172 of South High. What is hypnosis? How can it be used to help people help themselves?

Those planning to enroll in sampler classes slated for the week of Sept. 15 should complete registration as soon as possible, as classes which do not draw sufficient enrollment will be cancelled. To enroll, prospective students may use the coupon in the fall flyer, being sent soon to all residences in the school district, enclosing their check and sending it to Continuing Education, 260 Chalfonte Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Fees for the new, one-session "sampler" classes range from $2.50 to $8 per student.

For additional information, call Continuing Education at 343-2178.

AAA cites 'safe' Grosse Pointe cities

The cities of Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Farms were recently honored by Automobile Club of Michigan for earning Awards for Excellence in AAA's 41st annual Pedestrian Safety Inventory. Accepting AAA's second highest safety award from ROBERT V. CULLEN (right), Auto Club safety and traffic managers are Grosse Pointe Woods Mayor GEORGE FREEMAN (left) and Grosse Pointe Farms Police Traffic Safety Lt. IGNATIUS BACKMAN (center). The two communities did not have a pedestrian traffic fatality last year and both achieved injury rates more than 50 percent below the group rate in the 10,000 to 25,000 population category. It is the ninth Award for Excellence Grosse Pointe Woods has received since 1970. Grosse Pointe Farms' award is its third since 1974. Grosse Pointe Farms' major safety programs during 1979 included outlining safest routes to school and increasing safety education. The Woods' major programs included outlining school safety routes and bicycle safety education for elementary and pre-schoolers. The awards were presented Aug. 13 at a luncheon at Dearborn's Fairlane Manor.

League of Catholic Women's social service projects to get aid from 'her helping hands'

Grosse Pointers PAT ALANDT and KATHY HENES, (left and center), and Bloomfield Hills resident BETTY WELTON plan the League of Catholic Women's sixth annual benefit fashion luncheon, to be presented Thursday, Sept. 11, at the Detroit Plaza Hotel. Pat (Mrs. Clayton) Alandt chairs the event, which was to feature actress Candice Bergen as guest celebrity—until a last-minute film making commitment caused Miss Bergen to cancel out. This happened, of course, AFTER all mailings to league members and friends had been printed . . . so the 2,500 invitations now have a card enclosed, explaining her absence. Nothing could be done, however, about the league's 8,000 newsletters. They had already been mailed out.

Well: we all know what they say about the best-laid plans of mice and men. Fortunately, it's also proverbial that when something unforeseen happens, people pull together, pledge to make what was designed to be Very Good even better than originally planned. That's what's happening with "Her Helping Hands."

The League of Catholic Women is joining forces with the J. L. Hudson Company to present a show that will, according to Gretchen Snow, Hudson's fashion events manager, be more elegant (if possible) than last year's highly acclaimed musical production.

Ms. Snow, who will commentate, promises a kaleidoscope of all-American and international classics for all sizes, shapes and ages.

Place is the Plaza's Columbus Room, where a social hour at 11 a.m. will precede the noon luncheon. The parade of Hudson's fall and winter fashions follows, and there will be a cornucopia of fabulous prizes, ranging from a Strohaus party for 10 to a set of 12 gold and turquoise Wedgwood service plates.

Special arrangements have been made for reasonable and convenient parking. Benefit tickets are priced at $15 per person, and may be obtained by sending checks to the League of Catholic Women, 120 Parsons St., Detroit, Mich. 48201.

Need more information? The number to call to get the answers to your questions is 831-1000.

All party proceeds assist the league's social service projects: Casgrain Hall, a low-cost residence for single men and women of limited means; Casa Maria and St. Peter Claver Community Centers; Project Transition rehabilitation program for women offenders; Barat Human Services, a residential and counseling program and family center; and the TASC employment training program for the jobless. Betty (Mrs. Alfred)

Welton is assisting Pat Alandt as co-chairwoman of 1980's "Her Helping Hands."

The planning committee includes Grosse Pointe's Kathy (Mrs. David) Henes and Mrs. Gerald Gattorn, plus, from Detroit, the Mesdames Edmund Gallagher, Samuel Jarrett and Christopher Rambeau; from Birmingham, the Mesdames Robert Ivory, Donald Klein and Jere Gillette; from Bloomfield Hills, Mrs. William Markley, Mrs. Jane Vetter, Mrs. Joseph Vieson and Mrs. Terrence Keating; from Troy, Mrs. Dennis Flynn; from Southfield, Mrs. Walter Murray; from Lathrup Village, Mrs. John Hanley; from Dearborn Heights, Miss Marion Ryan; and from Livonia, Mrs. Alex Motter.

Grosse Pointe's Mrs. C. Bradford Lundy is president of the 8,000-member League of Catholic Women, Detroit's oldest social service organization, which continues to be committed to providing social services to those in need regardless of race, creed or color.

BRODERSON, of Severn road, recently reported for duty with the Third Marine Division on Okinawa. A graduate of Notre Dame High School, he joined the Marine Corps in 1979.

MR. and MRS. ANTHONY MAIULLO, II, of O'Brien, Fla., announce the birth of their first child, a daughter, AUDRA MARIE MAIULLO, on July 12. Mrs. Maiullo is the former RENE DOMBROWSKI, daughter of JOSEPH C. DOMBROWSKI, of St. Clair Shores, and the late MRS. DOMBROWSKI. Paternal grandparents are MR. and MRS. JOSEPH A. MAIULLO, II, of The Farms.

Listed for the first time in "Who's Who in America" are Pointers ROBERT EDMOND BOOTH and STEVEN STAN-

LEY GORDON, JOHN MARTIN BRUCE, FRANK COUZENS, JR., FREDERICK REID KEYDEL, ALFRED RICHARD REUTHER, JR., and STANTON KINNIE

SMITH, JR., of The Farms, HORACE WELDON GILMORE, JOSEPH D. GRANO and JAMES PATRICK MELICAN, JR., of The Park, and VICTOR GERARD KEN-

YON, of The Shores.

WSU theaters look ahead to a crowded year in 1980-81

Wayne State University's Hilberry, Bonstelle and Studio Theaters have announced a season of 18 productions for 1980-81, representing five centuries of English and American drama, from Shakespearean plays of the early 1590's to the world premier of the new Nederlander Award-winning play by American playwright Tim Kelly.

Almost all of the new season's plays are "firsts" for these theaters.

Except for revivals of the Hilberry's first-ever production of John O'Keefe's comedy "Wild Oats," opening September 26, and of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," opening October 17, both held over from last season, the Hilberry repertory will consist of plays never before done by this theater's nationally known graduate repertory company.

Hilberry's new repertory season includes Shakespeare's light-hearted comedy "Love's Labor's Lost," opening October 15; Sam and Rella Spewack's famous 1935 Hollywood satire "Boy Meets Girl," opening November 19; G. B. Shaw's lively "Caesar and Cleopatra" opening January 14; William Congreve's most successful comedy of manners "Love for Love," opening February 18; Tim Kelly's mystery-thriller "Bloody Jack" (the Nederlander Award-winner), opening March 25; and an evening of Noel Coward's "Tonight at 8:30," the famous 1930's collection of one-acts, opening April 1.

The Bonstelle opens October 10 with "Native Son," Paul Green's dramatization of the novel by black author Richard Wright.

This is followed by "The Passion of Dracula," the off-Broadway hit by Bob Hall and former WSU student David Richmond, opening November 21; "Mack and Mabel," the Michael Stewart-Jerry Herman musical about Mack Sennett and Mabel Normand, opening January 23; "The Miracle Worker," William Gibson's biggest stage, television and film success, opening March 6; Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," the Bonstelle's only repeat of a play that has been previously produced here, opening April 17; and "Feiffer's People," a revue-type performance of sketches by Jules Feiffer and numbers by the Movin' Theatre, the WSU Theater's dance and mime company, opening May 8.

In the Studio Theater, downstairs at the Hilberry, the Movin' Theatre will present its new 1980-81 touring show, tracing the history of theatrical dance, on September 26 and 27 at 8:30 o'clock.

The other Studio shows, all WSU Theater premiers, are "She Loves Me," the musical by Joe Masteroff, Jerry Bock and Sheldon Harnick, opening October 15; "Absent Friends," Alan Ayckbourn's contemporary British play about cross-marital business and emotional ties, opening December 10; and "Wine in the Wilderness," Alice Childress' drama, first produced on public television, opening January 28.

The Hilberry plays are performed in rotating repertory, with evening performances at 8:30 and matinees at 2 o'clock. Bonstelle productions play for two weekends: Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 and Sunday at 2. Studio plays are each scheduled for two weeks, Wednesdays through Saturdays, at 8:30 with one second Thursday matinee at 4:30 o'clock.

To request a brochure, write or call the Wayne State University Theatre Box Office, Detroit, Michigan, 48202, (577-2972).

Plan new chamber music season

man and Mrs. James Upstill is workshop chairman. The Chamber Music Players first 1980-81 concert, to be held Sunday, October 5, will be a memorial to the late Helene Vabolis, the Players' first program chairman, who gave many years of service as a talented pianist to the organization. Memberships are open to those who enjoy performing and/or listening to chamber music. Concerts are given Sunday afternoons, October to April, at 2:30 o'clock at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Further information may be obtained by calling 882-5860.

Quit smoking help available

The rates of smoking-related lung diseases among women are on the rise, reports the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, which this summer is redoubling its efforts to convince women to quit smoking.

ALASEM encourages businesses to sponsor employee workshops to reach women smokers on the job. Women who work outside the home are more likely to smoke than non-employed housewives, according to recent surveys.

Smoking rates among women managers are higher than those for women in other positions.

Smoking is also a problem for women nonsmokers who take jobs in places where others smoke near them. Discussing the dilemma with bosses and co-workers who smoke is not easy for anyone, but it is especially difficult for women new to their jobs, and recent research shows that long-time exposure to other people's smoke, even if it is just at work, can damage the small airways in the lungs of nonsmokers.

The Lung Association offers workshops where smokers and nonsmokers can discuss mutual feelings and work out satisfactory solutions. Inviting the two groups to switch roles, to act out situations where a smoker must play a nonsmoker and vice versa, can help people develop different perspectives that can change confrontation to accommodation.

To find out more about women and smoking programs in this area, contact the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's Smoking Phone, 963-3029. It's a matter of life and breath.

Deadline date for area artists draws near

Deadline for artists in the Southeast Region of Michigan to submit slides of their work to the Detroit Institute of Arts for the Michigan Artists 80/81 competition is Monday, Oct. 20.

The largest juried art exhibition ever held in the state is open to all mediums, from traditional oil paintings to new video art forms to crafts. Well over 15,000 slides and 4,000 objects will be scrutinized by art institute-selected judges before the series ends, and the Southeast Regional competition will be highlighted by an exhibition March 8 through April 12, 1981, containing works by those artists who survive the initial judging.

Artists whose names appear on the Michigan Artist Registry will receive their entry forms through the mail. Others wishing to enter the competition may obtain forms at their local arts organizations or any of the major Michigan museums in the region, including the DIA, where forms are available at the information desks.

This regional exhibition, along with three others already in progress around the state, will be followed by an all-state show Sept. 15 through Nov. 8, 1981, at the Detroit Institute of Arts. It will be treated as a major exhibition, and a catalogue featuring the selected artists and their works will be published.

The series of exhibitions is made possible by 10 participating state art institutions, with the support of the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts.

Miss Giroux wed to Robert R. Taylor

Catherine L. Giroux is honor maid for her sister; William V. Taylor II serves as brother's best man

At home in Lakepointe Avenue are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roland Taylor, who vacationed in New Orleans, La., following their marriage Friday evening, May 30, in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel.

Mrs. Taylor is the former Josette Marie Giroux, daughter of Leonard Giroux, of Nottingham Road, and the late Mary Louise Giroux. Mr. Taylor is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William Vincent Taylor, former Farms residents who now make their home in Brooklyn, Mich.

Father William J. McKeon, from the bridegroom's parents' Brooklyn parish, presided at the 6 o'clock rites, which were followed by a reception in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom.

The former Miss Giroux wore a traditional white wedding gown, styled with a Queen Anne neckline and a bodice of Alencon lace. Matching lace accented her cathedral length train. Her cap sleeves were fashioned of lace, her skirt of organza.

Her chapel length veil, lace-edged, fell from a lace Juliet cap. Roses, stephanotis, carnations, baby's-breath and ivy, with ribbon streamers ending in baby's-breath, formed her all-white bouquet.

Catherine L. Giroux, honor maid for her sister, wore a floor length dress, sea spray in color, spaghetti-straped and styled with a knife-pleated skirt. A chiffon capelet was tied at her shoulders.

Bridesmaids, dressed identically, were Marianne Henrichs, of Berkshire Road, a college roommate of the bride, and Janet H. Hewitt, of Mundelein, Ill.

They carried arrangements of yellow and white daisies, baby's-breath and starflowers, with ribbon streamers ending in baby's-breath, matching the bridal bouquet.

William V. Taylor II, of Dearborn, was his brother's best man. Guests were seated by Donald S. McGarvah, of Detroit, John R. Frank, of Beaconsfield Avenue, Detroit, Robert C. Adams, of Westchester Road, and Glenn Olkowski, of Hampton Road.

Mrs. Taylor chose a cocktail dress, slivery gray in color, tied at the waist and featuring elbow length sleeves and a triple-tiered, flounced skirt, for her son's wedding. Her corsage was a green cymbidium orchid.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Pattyn, and their four children, Michelle, Paul, Mollie and Katie, from Eden Prairie, Minn., and the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Giroux, and their two children, Rachael and Aubrie, from Hilton Head, S.C.

The Robert R. Taylors

Married Friday evening, May 30, in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel to Mr. Taylor, son of former Farms residents Dr. and Mrs. William Vincent Taylor, of Brooklyn, Mich., was JOSETTE MARIE GIROUX, daughter of Leonard Giroux, of Nottingham Road, and the late Mary Louise Giroux.

May wedding date is made

Planning to be married next May are Margit Susan Gerstmann and Dale Henry Rezabek whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Eva Tietz Gerstmann, of Newberry place, and Peter W. Gerstmann, of Dearborn.

The bride-elect received her Bachelor of Science degree this March from Michigan State University. She expects to receive her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree from MSU next June.

Her fiancé, son of the Vernon Rezabeks, of Palatine, Ill., received his Associate in Science degree in May, 1977, from William Rainey Harper Community College, Palatine, and his Bachelor of Science degree this March from MSU.

He is affiliated with the MSU Fisheries and Wildlife Club and The Wildlife Society, a professional organization.

Open time-lay exhibit Aug. 27

A special exhibit of antique clocks opens next Wednesday, Aug. 27, at Henry Ford Museum, featuring 33 clocks from the museum's permanent collection, most on view for the first time in many years.

The clocks, to be displayed in the Street of Shops Special Exhibit Gallery, replacing a temporary exhibit of the Breech Porcelain Collection, illustrate a wide variety of styles including bracket clocks, shelf clocks, pillar and scroll clocks and column clocks.

Three tall case clocks by craftsmen of the Willard family and two dwarf tall case clocks will be the only floor clocks.

The collection dates from the late 18th to the early 20th century. Most are American made, but two are English, one Scottish and one French.

Special graphics and an exhibit of clock making tools will supplement the main exhibit, open to visitors at no additional charge beyond the regular museum admission of $4.25 for adults, $2.25 for children 6 to 12. Admission is free for children under six.

Grant to help Orchestra Hall

George E. Gullen Jr., Save Orchestra Hall, Inc.'s chairman of the board and President Paul Ganson have announced that the trustees of the Kresge Foundation have approved a challenge grant of $200,000 toward the restoration of the Orchestra Hall balcony.

Mr. Gullen observed that the grant from the Kresge Foundation carries with it the "Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval" of foundations, and that "we fully expect that banks, corporations and other foundations will wish to assist us in meeting this challenge."

He noted that the Kresge Foundation had considered 1,349 qualified proposals in 1980, and that the Orchestra Hall grant of $200,000 was one of 208 new grant commitments made by the foundation to organizations in 38 states, the District of Columbia and Canada.

Mr. Ganson pointed out that commitments of $77,266 (just over 38 percent of the goal) have already been made toward the fulfillment of the challenge. "This means we need another $124,000 from new sources before March 15, 1981 for the Kresge gift to become a reality."

CIS three-day garage sale to start today

Childbirth Information Service, Inc., a non-profit volunteer organization, will hold a garage sale Thursday through Saturday, Aug. 21 to 23, at Ottawa Junior High School in St. Clair Shores. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day.

Proceeds will be used by CIS to promote childbirth education in Grosse Pointe and other east suburban communities. Last year, the group provided childbirth preparation training to more than 700 area couples.

Ilene Bogert, of Warren, chairperson, reports the garage sale will feature such items as toys, clothes, furniture and books. Ottawa Junior High School is located at Eleven Mile Road and Little Mack Avenue.

To focus on Nigeria

The Episcopal Churchwomen, Diocese of Michigan, will present and host a conference on Nigeria Friday, September 12, at the Diocesan Cathedral Center. The day begins with a luncheon and Nigerian fashion show at noon, followed by an overview (with slides) of the country, its people and resources, its government and the state of the Christian church within it, presented by The Reverend Frederick Phinney, rector of The Church of the Holy Spirit, Lake Forest, Ill., a recent visitor to Nigeria, representing the Episcopal Church's Provincial Task Force on Nigeria, and Dr. Christopher Mojekwu, professor of Politics at Lake Forest College and Nigeria's previous Attorney General. It continues with a celebration of the Holy Eucharist as it would be celebrated on a Sunday in Nigeria, with ordained Nigerian clergy, here for graduate work at seminaries in the United States, officiating. It concludes with a hospitality hour and Nigerian buffet dinner planned by Nigerian students and friends at Wayne County Community College, and a keynote address by The Right Reverend William J. Gordon, Jr., recently returned from a provincial meeting in Nigeria. Authentic Nigerian art, photographs, artifacts and literature will be available throughout the day. There will be opportunities for dialogue with the artists and contributors. Luncheon and dinner reservations for "Nigeria: Getting to Know You" must be pre-paid, and are limited to 400. They may be obtained by sending $10 (check or money order) payable to Episcopal Churchwomen-Diocese of Michigan, 4800 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48201, before Wednesday, September 3.

Will wed

The engagement of SANDRA MAGILL and Kenneth E. MacKenzie has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Magill, of Roland Court, Mr. MacKenzie is the son of Mrs. William MacKenzie, of St. Clair Shores, and the late Dr. MacKenzie. A garden wedding is planned in September.

Cancer information line seeks phone volunteers

The volunteer information specialists of the Public Response Program at the Michigan Cancer Foundation can't give you a cure for cancer — but they can make you feel much better about it. The specialists offer advice, information and referrals to a wide variety of callers with an even wider variety of questions. "We receive many different types of calls," explains Jane Hoey, manager of the program. "Many callers request educational materials. Others are concerned about a certain symptom. Still others just need a sympathetic ear." To date this year, volunteer respondents have fielded 6,000 calls — or 500 each month, about 20 to 25 each day. The program operates a toll-free line in the 313 telephone zone. It is part of a national network of cancer information centers at 21 locations. The network is directed by the Cancer Information Service of the National Cancer Institute; the program at the MCF, one of the largest in the country, began in 1976 and has answered some 40,000 inquiries. Volunteers staff the phones from 9 in the morning to 4 in the afternoon weekdays, but their duties do not end there. "Not only do our volunteers provide useful, accurate and compassionate help over the phone, but they assist in maintaining informational resource files, compiling current news clippings on cancer, filling requests for educational literature from the foundation and other agencies, and collecting data for use in assessing public needs," says Hoey. "We do not always have the answers ready at hand," she adds. "Some questions, particularly those on current research issues such as interferon, must be researched. Other problems and queries are solved by referring the caller to other health service agencies for a particular problem. "Our volunteer information specialists are specially trained. A 24-hour, six-session training course is required, and ongoing supervision by professional staff further trains the volunteers. Potential trainees do not need prior knowledge of cancer, although it is helpful. More importantly, they must be empathic listeners, able to tune in to an individual's needs." Hoey notes that volunteers in the program gain a number of useful skills. "They learn active listening, empathy responses, cancer facts and research trends, as well as community resources and services, and referral techniques," she says. "They also sharpen their general communication skills and gain that certain amount of satisfaction that comes from helping others." During August and September, the MCF is recruiting potential volunteer information specialists for its training program. Training sessions will begin September 30, October 6, 7 and 8 from 9 to 1 o'clock. Volunteer information specialists are asked to commit four hours per week. Interested persons are invited to call the Michigan Cancer Foundation, 833-0710, and ask for Volunteer Services. The MCF is a Torch Drive United Way Agency.

Kresge grant to Fort Wayne

The Detroit Historical Society has received a $150,000 challenge grant from the Kresge Foundation to assist in the restoration of the Commander's Residence at Historic Fort Wayne Military Museum. The grant commitment requires that the balance of the funds necessary to insure completion of the project be raised by February 15, 1981. The $318,000 exterior restoration project will return the home, a large Victorian residence which was originally a frame building with porches and ornate cornice brackets, to its original appearance. Over the years, the facade was altered from frame to asbestos siding to face brick veneer. The interior will be furnished, through the assistance of the National Society of Colonial Dames in the State of Michigan, as a Field Grade Officer's residence of that period. When completed, the building will be utilized as a Victorian house museum and will be open to Fort Wayne visitors. Colonel Henry Boynton Clitz was the first Commander in residence at the house. He lived at Fort Wayne with his mother, who had been a pioneer military wife on Mackinac Island. Colonel Clitz mysteriously disappeared in October, 1888, three years after he retired from the service and left the fort. He had had a distinguished career in the Mexican, Civil and Indian Wars before coming to Michigan as Commander of the Tenth Infantry at Fort Wayne. The Kresge Foundation funded the Kresge Wing addition to the Detroit Historical Museum, which was dedicated in 1968. The Detroit Historical Society was one of 208 organizations in 38 states, the District of Columbia and Canada to receive a grant from the 1,349 proposals submitted for consideration this year.

The changing shape of fashions has reflected lifestyles for many women

By Mary Combs
 Smithsonian News Service

Even as the United States was celebrating its first quarter century of independence in 1801, American women were winning emancipation from a different sort of bondage. Gone were the layers of petticoats; gone the bustles and devices used to expand skirts during the 18th century; gone the tight-laced corsets.

Women at last were free to display a natural shape and to wear as little underclothing as their figures, modesty—or mothers—would allow.

Yet the novelty of being able to breathe and move normally seems to have paled quickly under the tyranny of fashion, and the rest of the 19th century presents a picturesque, if appalling, illustration of the adage that one must suffer to be beautiful.

During these years, women inexplicably accepted painful, disfiguring corsetry, heavy metal underpinnings and costumes so complicated that the only way to avoid entanglement or collision was to practice moving about in them.

The fleeting freedom in the early 1800s, brought about by a vogue for delicate classical dress and Oriental fabrics, demanded sacrifices. Although fashionable American women seem to have been generally more sensible than their European counterparts, who dampened their flimsy Empire gowns to display their charms (and subsequently succumbed to epidemics of consumption and influenza), it was difficult on both continents to be both elegant and warm at the same time: a dilemma appreciated by anyone who wore miniskirts a decade ago.

The history of fashion and its chronicle of pain, inconvenience and caprice has challenged sociologists, artists, anthropologists, historians and humorists. Women have gone to drastic lengths, heights, breadths, widths and weights to conform to the dictates of fashion.

"Sensible clothing does come into style," says Barbara Dickstein, museum specialist in the Division of Costume at the Smithsonian's National Museum of History and Technology, "but it doesn't always stay around."

One fixed point, however, has been the desirability of the relatively slim waist. Potbellies have not been chic (for ladies) since the 16th century. Every other aspect of the silhouette has changed; bust, hips, thighs and rear padded or pushed up; the same features mercilessly suppressed.

Skirts have swollen to 10 yards in diameter, narrowed to make a natural step impossible, trailed along the ground and dwindled to a few inches in length.

"It would appear," as Harper's Bazaar observed in 1870, "that a woman, like a jack-in-the-box, could swell or collapse at the touch of some hidden spring. Fashion is certainly endowed with a mysterious power of suddenly metamorphosing the human being."

By the mid-1820s, the Grecian goddess had become a delicate, languishing, Romantic heroine, her readiness to faint at the drop of a handkerchief due less to spiritual sensitivity than the reality that her stays simply were pushing most of her internal organs up into her rib cage.

Once back in the grip of the corset, women clung to it steadfastly in the face of constant onslaughts by physicians, humorists and sensible persons of both sexes. In spite of the obviously mutilating effects and the illnesses attributed to tight-lacing, its defenders throughout the century claimed the corset was necessary to support the frail backs of the weaker sex—a self-fulfilling prophecy since children began wearing "supporters" in infancy.

By dint of rigorous discipline, which sometimes included wearing stays to deaden a young woman might achieve the fashionable waist dimension, which ranged between 16 and 20 inches, by her 18th birthday.

The silhouette above and below this tiny waist varied considerably. By 1830, ladies like their grandmothers before them were passing through doors sideways—not because of the width of their skirts, but the width of their huge puffed sleeves. An issue of Lady's Magazine of 1832 allowed that the ballooning sleeves, although hazardous in other circumstances, might be very useful as buoys in case of shipwreck.

As this fashion deflated, Philadelphia social observer John Watson recorded his approval: "The day of five feet high and six feet wide is gone, we trust forever"—only to cry with disgust in 1856 "Hoops again!" Skirts, supported by stiffened petticoats, crinolines or an assortment of heavy metal contrivances, swelled to fill rooms, aisles and streets, giving birth to cartoons, comic songs, poems and anecdotes that ridiculed this inconvenient and sometimes dangerous fashion.

Poets deplored the difficulty of stealing a kiss. A Memphis newspaper attributed a lady's escape when struck by lightning to the conductive properties of her metal underpinnings, and in San Francisco one young woman demurely popped her skirt over her unlicensed terrier, to the frustration of the dogcatchers and cheers of on-lookers.

More serious stories included accounts of smuggling supplies to troops during the Civil War as well as frequent reports of "crinoline accidents," usually tragic fires where rescue was hampered by the huge skirts of the victim or her would-be rescuers.

Watson considered the fashion not only ridiculous but indecent. Certainly any sudden gust of wind or bending movement set it swinging. Young ladies practiced achieving a gentle, bell-like motion when walking, in addition to the ancient art of lifting the skirt to display just the right portion of ankle.

From Another Pointe Of View

Sept. 8, 1930, at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Albany, N.Y., she is a former assistant sacristan at Manhattanville College.

She, too, served in Sacred Heart educational institutions in Connecticut and New York as well as Grosse Pointe. She came to the Bloomfield Hills Sacred Heart Academy, where she is currently mail coordinator, in 1960.

Sisters Kalb and McCarthy were honored this spring at the Academy of the Sacred Heart Alumnae Association's annual meeting. They celebrate their golden jubilees officially this month, with a liturgy and reception at the Bloomfield Hills Sacred Heart Academy.

And Sister Katherine S. Wansboro, who in 1958, as headmistress, was instrumental in moving the Sacred Heart Academy from Lawrence Avenue in Detroit to Bloomfield Hills, is coming from her community at the Kenwood Convent of the Sacred Heart in Albany to be honored by Religious, family and friends at a special golden jubilee liturgy Saturday, Sept. 6, at 5 p.m. at the Bloomfield Hills Academy.

Sister Wansboro is back where she was born now, in Albany, but she's been around in the intervening years. She served as teacher, coordinator of studies, headmistress or superior at Sacred Heart schools in Newton and Greenwich, Conn., Washington, D.C., Buffalo, Rochester and New York, N.Y., and in Grosse Pointe, Detroit and Bloomfield Hills. Her longest stay was in Michigan. She spent 25 years here.

Like Sister McCarthy, Sister Wansboro traveled to Rome to make her final profession: on Aug. 2, 1930. Prior to joining the RSCJs, she received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the State University of New York at Albany. As a Religious, she earned a Masters degree from Boston College and a degree in Library Science from the State University of New York at Albany.

A committee of Sacred Heart alumnae and former parents, including Mrs. William Oldani, of The Pointe, and Mrs. Marcellus J. Sweeney, of Harper Woods, is coordinating plans for Sister Wansboro's golden jubilee celebration. Many, many local ladies, with ties to the Grosse Pointe/Detroit/Bloomfield Hills Sacred Heart Academies, join the Mesdames Oldani and Sweeney in offering their heartiest congratulations, and thanks, to Sister Wansboro, and to Sisters McCarthy and Kalb. To a (wo)man, their friends and former students say to the three jubilarians: "Well done!"

Wagons Ho!

It began with a western caravan from the home of Jack and Barbara Monahan to the Lakeshore Road residence of Rudy Stonisch—who had no idea the wagon train was heading his way.

It was, you see, a surprise, barbecued up by Rudy's three children, Mary Sue, Gail and Rudy III, who figured their father deserved something special on his 50th birthday, and determined to provide it.

The young Stonisches did a bang-up job, from the invitations with their picture of the Birthday Boy as a cowboy (and a boy, age 10 or so) contemplating his lariat, to square dancing under the stars as conclusion to a perfect midsummer evening.

Was Rudy surprised? Was he ever! How would you feel if you suddenly saw 100 cowboys and cowgirls descending on your house? Was Rudy delighted? Suffice it to say that his delight equalled his surprise, and you've said it all.

Among the many Pointers yelling "Yippeey-yi-o!" in honor of Rudy the Great were Judy and Bruce Bartsch, the Jim Causleys, the Ben Harrells, the Chuck Weitzels, Dr. and Mrs. Leonard Bartoszewicz, the Lee Schoeniths, Maria and Mark Valente, the Donald Beckers, the... well, there are just too many to list, but they all had a wonderful time.

Brunch/Bach concerts set

This weekend's Brunch with Bach concerts at the Detroit Institute of Arts will feature William Albright at the piano in "From Ragtime to Boogie-Woogie" Sunday, Aug. 24, at 10 and 11:30 in the morning.

Advance reservations are recommended, and may be obtained by calling the museum's ticket office, 832-2730.

The audience may select from a variety of menus: $6 for the full brunch, $4.50 for the continental brunch and $2.50 for coffee and the concert.

Belle Biscayne ABWA names Boss of the Year

Peter F. Barry, president of Michigan Screw Products of Center Line, was named 1980 "Boss of the Year" by the Belle Biscayne Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association and received his award from Russell Straith, of City National Bank, 1979 Belle Biscayne Boss of the Year, at the chapter's sixth annual Business Appreciation Night held at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

ABWA, now in its 31st year, is dedicated to promoting the professional, educational, cultural and social advancement of business women. The association has more than 100,000 members in all 50 states and Puerto Rico.

Trial gardens ablaze by the lake

The Trial Gardens at the Grosse Pointe Garden Center's War Memorial lakeside location are ablaze with color right now, providing a blossoming preview of the colorful blooms which will grace the annual Bonsai-Horticulture Show to be held two weeks from today, Thursday, Sept. 4, in the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium. "The Greenery" promises to be a gardener's delight.

Try a stroll this Sunday

Next in the spotlight in the series of Sunday Strolls sponsored by the Detroit Historical Society and the Detroit Historical Museum is Downtown West, Detroit's financial district, to be visited this Sunday, Aug. 24.

The tour begins at 2 p.m., rain or shine, and will last approximately three hours. It will pass by the Art Deco Guardian Building, the City National Bank Building, the Beaux Arts-inspired Manufacturer's Bank Building and the WPA Classic Federal Building.

The stroll continues on Washington Boulevard, passing the Book Cadillac Hotel and the Book Building, with a walk through the five-block pedestrian mall, to Grand Circus Park, the Detroit Athletic Club, the Music Hall and Harmonie Park.

Advance reservations are required. They may be made by sending a check for $3.50 per person ($2.50 for Historical Society members) to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. 48202.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Detroit Historical Society office, 833-7934.

Chrysanthemum Society schedules annual sale

The Greater Detroit Chrysanthemum Society's annual Blooming Cushion Chrysanthemum Plant Sale, open to the public, will take place this Saturday, Aug. 23, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at Greene Haven Gardens on Wixom Road, east of Milford and north of Wixom.

Five hundred and 75 plants will be available in 22 different varieties and 12 different colors. All have been inspected by the Michigan State Department of Agriculture, and all have been planted and cared for by members of the society since early June, under the supervision of Paul E. Machuga.

Machuga, a permanent Master Judge and national chrysanthemum society director, may be contacted at 775-6417 for further information.

Fiber and your health: What kind? How much?

In this era of diets, rising food costs, concern about food additives and a general resurgence of interest in the environment, many people are revising their eating habits to include more fiber in their daily menus.

It has long been known that fiber is a necessary part of the diet. But which sources of fiber are best? Can a person get too much fiber in the diet?

The answers to these and other questions about the role of fiber in the diet are being sought by Agricultural Experiment Station scientists at Michigan State University. The center for most of these investigations is Maurice Bennink's laboratory in the Department of Food Science and Human Nutrition.

"I've been interested in the role of fiber ever since I came to MSU," the tall, quiet researcher says. "Like most things in life, his interest has grown and changed over time."

Bennink's early work concentrated on three areas: further definition of how fiber influences bowel regularity; the effect of fiber on lipid (fat) metabolism, especially its ability to reduce cholesterol levels in the blood; and the relationship of dietary fiber to the incidence of colonic and rectal cancers.

"In the first area, we looked at the nutritional aspects of dietary fiber in terms of the benefits fiber brings to the process of laxation," Bennink says. "We studied how various types of fiber are fermented by bacteria in the colon."

"The result of this fermentation process is a series of organic acids that the body absorbs for use, or which remain in the digestive tract to aid in preventing constipation by holding water."

Bennink found that the fiber types most easily fermented by bacteria are gums and hemicellulose. Cellulose is the least digestible.

Bennink's work with the relationship between fiber and lipids has produced a whole series of studies. "I guess that the major finding is that we now know that certain fiber types have the ability to bind to bile acids in the digestive tract. This, in turn, results in a lowering of cholesterol levels in the blood."

"In one study, using chicks, we found that a diet containing 15 percent oat bran decreased cholesterol synthesis by 23 percent, compared to chicks on a fiber-free diet," Bennink says. "One of our rat studies, however, showed that wheat bran fiber can cause an increase in serum cholesterol levels."

"This provides further confirmation of the idea that the influence of fiber on cholesterol levels can and does vary with the source and type of fiber, even to the point of major differences occurring between varieties of the same plant species."

Bennink's work on colonic cancer has ranged from developing new research methods that allow easier study of the effect of environmental contaminants to actual tests of the influence of various fibers on the incidence of colonic cancer.

"Our interest in colonic cancers led us to develop a technique that involves removing cells from the walls of rat colons, and then culturing these cells in the laboratory," he says. "Various xenobiotics (chemicals foreign to the body) can then be introduced to these cultures and the cells periodically examined for evidence of mutation or other abnormal effects."

Using this system, Bennink and his colleagues in the Department of Pathology have begun to test various environmental contaminants to determine their potentials for causing cancer of the colon.

One early study involving the procarcinogen benzo(a)pyrene indicated that the by-products of the interaction between the cells and the chemicals did cause an increase in cell mutations. "As in most cases with the disease, there is no clear-cut answer to the relationship between fiber in the diet and cancer of the colon," Bennink says. "We know that increased bile acid levels increase the risk of colonic cancer. And bile acid levels are raised when fiber types that lower cholesterol levels are included in the diet."

Thus it appears on the surface that the choice is between heart disease and cancer. This isn't true, however.

"The increased bile acid levels are balanced against the fact that we know that high fat levels also are conducive to colonic cancer," Bennink notes.

There is one piece of evidence that relates fiber to cancer in a direct way. "We have found that the fiber source agar exerts an effect on the colon mucosa of mice which may augment colonic cancers induced by the chemical 1,2-dimethylhydrazine," Bennink says.

"We are still basically in the dark when it comes to the relationship between dietary fiber and intestinal cell structure," he says. "We do know that the cells in the inner walls change after diets containing fiber are fed for a while."

"These changes appear to be both beneficial and detrimental. We just don't know enough to say what is going on."

All these efforts have led Bennink to two major areas of current interest: the overall influence of dietary protein, fat and fiber on the intestinal ability to process toxic compounds (xenobiotics); and the metabolism of lipo-proteins as influenced by dietary factors and by other external situations (particularly exercise and pregnancy).

The xenobiotic work now underway is primarily a continuation and refinement of earlier studies involving colonic cancer. In the fat metabolism area, the new work diverges more from the studies done previously.

The major research effort now underway is a study of how various combinations of fiber and exercise influence the levels and types of lipo-proteins produced by the body.

"In the first phase of the project, we found that lipo-protein blood levels do change in response to fiber in the diet," Bennink says. "Hogs fed low-fat rations containing rolled oats and wheat bran had significantly lower levels of low density lipoproteins."

"This is especially important in light of the current belief that atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) is related to high levels of these low density lipoproteins."

In the second phase of the study, Bennink and his colleagues in animal husbandry and health, physical education and recreation have the pigs on a daily treadmill exercise routine. "It's too early to tell what the influence of exercise is going to be, but I think we will have some interesting information for the joggers of America by the time we've finished," Bennink says.

To hold crazy quilt workshop

Examples from the Detroit Historical Museum's collection will be on hand for inspiration during the museum's American Quilting: Crazy Quilts workshop this Saturday, Aug. 23. The class, designed for adults, begins at 10:30 a.m. Fee is $5 per person, and advance reservations are required.

Further information may be obtained by calling the museum's Education Division, 833-9721, Monday through Friday, from 8:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Detroit secretaries install new board

President of the 1930-81 executive board of the Detroit Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International), installed at ceremonies in the Stephenson Club in mid-June, is Joyce Mulecater.

President-elect, first and second vice-presidents, respectively, are Olive Francis, Ruth H. Stephens, CPS, and Hilda Neighbor. Nancy Weaver serves as recording secretary, Olga Firschau as corresponding secretary. Treasurer is Harriet Schaar.

The NSA was incorporated in 1942 in Missouri as a non-profit, non-partisan, non-sectarian organization to elevate the standards of the secretarial profession.

The Detroit Chapter, formed in July of 1947, now has 303 members. It is the largest of the 24 Michigan chapters, largest in the Great Lakes District and second largest in the United States.

NSA has over 37,000 members internationally. Joyce and Olive represented the Detroit Chapter at NSA's recent international convention in New York City.

Lehigh Club will host annual summer picnic

The Lehigh Club of Michigan will hold its fourth annual summer picnic at noon this Saturday, Aug. 23, at Kensington Metropark in Milford. Lehigh University undergraduates are invited to attend the alumni gathering at no charge.

Program chairman is Richard Nolte. Reservations may be made with club president Assadullah Nassry, of Riverview.

Stars to return in 'Fledermaus'

Two performers from the Detroit area who have achieved international recognition in their respective disciplines have been added to Michigan Opera Theatre's 10th anniversary production of the Strauss operetta "Die Fledermaus," opening at the Music Hall Center Friday, Sept. 12.

George Shirley, one of America's highly acclaimed young tenors, will sing the role of Alfred in four performances: Sept. 12, 13, 19 and 20.

Joanne Danto, principal dancer with the Pennsylvania Ballet, will be featured "entertainment" at the gala costume ball in Act II for six performances: Sept. 12, 13, 14, 17, 19 and 20.

Shirley and Danto will be joining comedienne Imogene Coca, her husband King Donovan and an array of outstanding talent in the musical comedy.

Shirley was raised in Detroit and attended Wayne State University. He has appeared with the Metropolitan Opera, Chicago Lyric Opera, San Francisco Opera, Royal Opera Covent Garden, Netherlands Opera, Scottish Opera and with summer festivals at Glyndebourne and Santa Fe as well as in recitals and with symphony orchestras throughout the world.

His first appearance with MOT was as Pinkerton in "Madame Butterfly" at the Matrix Midland festival in 1978.

Danto began her dance studies in Detroit with Joey Harris and Oswald Lemanis. She made her professional American debut with the National Ballet Company and appeared with them for two seasons before joining the Pennsylvania Ballet.

She is especially noted for her appearances in the ballets of George Balanchine, prompting Dance Magazine to call her "one of the best Balanchine dancers anywhere—which is to say, one of the best dancers."

Soprano Eleanor Bergquist will be singing the central role of Rosalinde when "Die Fledermaus" opens Sept. 12. Charles Roe, whose MOT credits include "The Student Prince," will be Elton-ten.

The same roles will later be sung by Alma Jean Smith, Howard Hensel and another Detroit area performer, Jan Albright, respectively.

MOT's "Die Fledermaus" will be followed by Carlisle Floyd's "Of Mice and Men," Mozart's "Don Giovanni" and Verdi's "Rigoletto." Tickets for all performances are now on sale at the Music Hall box office. Information on a limited number of season subscriptions is available by calling 963-3717.

Subscribers will receive first opportunity to hear Franco Corelli and Jerome Hines in concert at Ford Auditorium Nov. 16.

Dear Readers:

August 20, 1980

Current values and outstanding selections make investing in Grosse Pointe a "blue chip" decision. Yet, interest rates are poised to move higher, and 30 year Mortgages may not be available within a few months. Our staff has the competence to give you the advice you need to make the right Real Estate decision for your particular situation. And there is no obligation. Think it over . . . Then give us a call.

Pointe Counter Points

By Pat Rousseau

Relax In Style . . . in the new "at home" fashions at Walton-Pierce. Halston IV offers simple elegance and comfort. His color palette of jewel colors include ruby, emerald, turquoise plus black. You can choose flowing jersey or a satiny fine velour. Some long gowns are styled with V necks and front slits . . . some with collars and no slits. Pick your style. David Brown of California sends a pretty plaid taffeta gown that zips down the front and shows ruffles at the neck and sleeves. The plaid is a combination of green, gold, purple and rose. Lucie Ann of Beverly Hills does a long camel color velour tunic piped with black and puts it over soft velour pants. The look is tied together with a black satin string belt. Beautiful classics are found in the Odelle Barsa line. Long silky quilted robes are traditionally wrapped and self tied. The blue is heavenly and the pink cloud-soft. A brushed nylon long gown is accented with fresh white lace. Chiha has several styles of robes. One is a short brushed nylon robe with satin at the collar and cuffs. There is an ivory quilted robe with turquoise trim. Chiha's short wrap robe is prettied with scalloped lace down the front. Now is a good time to pick up your robes and gowns while there is a good selection of styles and sizes. Knits will be so important this fall, sweaters, sweater dresses and suits. Mike Korwin's hand loomed, hand crocheted black knit two piece dress has three angora flowers in lavender, purple and red woven on the top. A lovely knit ensemble by Dana Hogan is for dressy occasions. The dove gray no button jacket goes over a softly styled gray crepe bow tied blouse. The knit skirt is slender. These are but two examples of the knit collection waiting for you at Walton-Pierce.

At The Notre Dame Pharmacy . . . be sure to check the bargain table. You may find a favorite cosmetic marked way down.

Discount Fares . . . on Air Canada from September 15 to December 10 . . . Miami, Los Angeles, Tampa, Vancouver. Call Mr. Q, 886-0500.

Ron Ruel says . . . a precision cut, a gentle perm and color that adds dimension to soft waves add up to "SHAPE" a theme that runs throughout Ron's hair collection for the 80's. Ron creates new hair designs that are lady-like by daytime, but can become truly glamorous by night. Length can range from very short to chin or shoulder length. For an appointment call 886-4130.

Democrats And Republicans . . . overwhelmingly nominated Tony Cueter as Grosse Pointe's finest craftsman. Find out for yourself what he can do with your old mounting. Tony Cueter pays cash for any old gold not in use. Stop by Bijouterie, Grosse Pointe's fine jewelry store, 20445 Mack Avenue. Open daily except Monday, 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. . . . 886-2050.

Versatile Suedecloth Coat Dress . . . that can be worn as a coat or a dress comes in a rich camel color and features double breasted styling, three quarter length cuffed sleeves, slant pockets and a leather belt. See it now at The Pointe Fashions, 15112 Kercheval. No charge for alterations. Open 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday thru Friday, Saturday 10 a.m.-4 p.m. . . . 822-2818.

Now's The Time . . . that many parents are having their children's eyes examined before back-to-school days are upon them. They are then heading to Woods Optical Studios to select a good looking frame. Like the Dorothy Hamill or Bob Griese frames by American Optical. It really counts to have experienced opticians fit your youngster . . . naturally at Woods Optical Studios, 19599 Mack Avenue between 7 and 8 Mile Roads . . . 882-9711.

Lamp . . . need lengthening? Want the cord replaced, the switch repaired? Do you have an object you'd like to use as a lamp base? Head for Wright's Gift and Lamp Shop where you'll get the jobs done . . . some while you wait. You'll also find a great variety of lampshades at 18650 Mack Avenue.

KIMBERLY KORNER . . . Sunday brunch is a delight. Serving begins at 10 a.m., wear casual dress and do make reservations . . . 343-0610.

Summer Days Fly . . . and thoughts of school are evident at The School Bell, 17904 Mack Avenue. School supplies, book bags and workbooks are featured this week at 17904 Mack Avenue.

Some Marvelous BARGAINS . . . at HARVEY'S COMPLEAT TRAVELER . . . handbags 30% to 50% off, a good selection of travel hangup bags 30% off . . . Skyway Cordura Nylon luggage at 25% off . . . brown canvas luggage at 25% off. Don't miss it. There won't be another sale till spring . . . 345 Fisher Road.

KIMBERLY KORNER . . . Send her back to school with a smile and a wrap skirt in red, navy or beige. The beige has a sly little fox hand painted above the hem. Shirts to contrast or match are available. Children's sizes 4-12 at Lilly Pulitzer, Mack and Lochmoor.

Connie's & Steve's Place . . . has good looking velour fashions for boys and girls from infant to student sizes and they're reasonably priced. Grosse Pointe Academy and University Liggett School uniforms for boys are available at 23240 Mack one block south of 9 Mile Road . . . 777-8020.

If You've Shopped . . . at Neiman Marcus or Bloomingdale's for Mouson soaps, you'll be glad to know that Parfumerie Mouson in the Ren Cen carries them. The shop also carries Lavendel cologne (pure German Lavender). The treatment line is the product of German research. The creams that are water based are cosmetically tinted,

Pointer of Interest

By Elsa Frohman

Dr. John R. F. Ingall, of Washington Road, wears a lot of different hats. He holds enough jobs for five people—and still has time to paint watercolors and work for the Family Life Education Council here in Grosse Pointe.

Dr. Ingall is Associate Medical Director of the Michigan Cancer Foundation. He is also Associate Director for Cancer Control for the Comprehensive Cancer Center of Metropolitan Detroit. The Comprehensive Cancer Center is a joint operation of the Michigan Cancer Foundation and Wayne State University.

Under the umbrella of the Comprehensive Cancer Center, he is the Director of the Gertrude Levin Pain Clinic, an advisor for the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan and Medical Coordinator for the Home Assistance Program.

The Gertrude Levin Pain Clinic is an interdisciplinary diagnostic service aimed at helping victims of chronic pain. Most of the patients at the clinic are cancer patients, but victims of other types of pain are also accepted.

The clinic runs a complete set of diagnostic tests on the patient to try to find the root of the chronic pain. Dr. Ingall says that more than often the clinic finds that the problem is in the medication that the patient is taking. Many patients will have been taking medication that was prescribed by several different physicians and the different medications work against each other or form dangerous combinations.

Another common cause of chronic pain is the patient's psychological condition. The clinic includes a psychiatric evaluation in the total diagnostic screening.

The clinic does not treat the patient once the diagnostic screening is finished. The patient is referred back to his own physician for treatment.

The Gertrude Levin Pain Clinic accepts patients through referrals from private physicians.

Dr. Ingall is particularly proud of the work of the Home Assistance Program. This program helps get cancer patients out of the hospital and back into their homes.

The program works through patient advocacy; in the hospital the patient is assigned a nurse. That nurse stays with the patient and checks on his needs after he returns to his home. This nurse then acts as an intermediary between the patient and his doctor.

Because of the work of the Home Assistance Program, the percentage of terminal patients allowed to die at home, rather than in the hospital, has risen from seven percent to 30 percent.

Dr. Ingall says that the triad of the Pain Clinic, the Home Assistance Program and the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan work together to serve the cancer patient. The Pain Clinic helps the patient overcome the fears and emotional trauma that accompany chronic pain. The Home Assistance Program allows the patient the comfort and security that come with the home environment, and the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan lends support to the patient that makes it possible for him to stay at home.

JOHN R. F. INGALL, M.D., OF WASHINGTON ROAD

In connection with the Gertrude Levin Pain Clinic Dr. Ingall is the Principal Investigator for Michigan's marijuana therapy medical research program. Dr. Ingall is heading a research project evaluating the value of marijuana to help lessen the nausea that comes with chemotherapy.

Dr. Ingall says it is too soon to tell any results of the program. The study has only been underway since May of this year. He also points out that there are many problems built into any study of the crude plant rather than an extracted substance.

Because it is impossible to tell exactly how much of each cigarette the patient smokes, or the exact strength of that particular cigarette, it is very difficult to tell the exact dosage the patient is receiving. This makes it hard to get a truly accurate evaluation of the effectiveness of the drug. Dr. Ingall was born and educated in England.

He attended Kings College and Westminster Medical School of London University. He has been a surgeon at several hospitals in England, including Westminster Hospital, King Edward VII Hospital, Wessex Regional Hospital and Central Middlesex Hospital.

Before coming to the Michigan Cancer Foundation in 1977, Dr. Ingall was director for the Regional Medical Program for Western New York and Associate Dean for the University of New York Medical School in Buffalo.

Dr. Ingall's wife, Gillian, is a clinical geneticist at Henry Ford Hospital. His two children are active in the Christ Church Choir.

Dr. Ingall, despite his busy work schedule, manages to belong to several local groups. He is a member of the Grosse Pointe Artists, the Scarab Club, the Old Watercolor Society, and he works with the Family Life Education Council.

Food festival at State Fair

Michigan's 1980 State Fair, which opens its gates to the public at 10 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 22, and will run daily through Labor Day, Sept. 1, will be a food festival, offering everything from vegetarian delights to ethnic delicacies plus the traditional fare including cotton candy, fudge, lemonade and pizza.

And, if you're in the right place at the right time, there's a cornucopia of samples to be given away during cooking demonstrations in the fairgrounds' Community Arts Building.

Admission to the fair is $4 for adults. Children under 12 are admitted free when accompanied by adults.

Three Schubert studies in print

The results of research by three music scholars, first presented at the International Schubert Congress in Detroit, have recently been published in the journal Nineteenth-Century Music.

The musicologists, Otto Biba, Maynard Solomon and Walther Duerr, first read their papers at the 1978 congress sponsored jointly by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Wayne State University, with major support from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Biba's paper, "Schubert's Position in Viennese Musical Life," describes the conditions of public music-making in early 19th-century Vienna and how well Schubert was able to earn a living.

and can take the place of makeup. There are superb lipstick and blusher. Another European find is Louis Feraud II scent for women and Corrida for men at Parfumerie Mouson, located in Tower 200 next to American Express Ground Level in the Renaissance Center . . . 259-1193.

In Celebration . . . of White's Old House 72 Anniversary, they are having a sale. Save 30% off all upholstered furniture for the rest of August. Floor samples and special orders are included. Hurry to 26717 Little Mack. Closed Mondays. Open Thursday and Friday nights till 9 . . . 776-6230.

Fashion's shape changes as women change lives

Pantalettes solved the problem of warmth and modesty, but English and American women who adopted the style drew the line at the "rational dress" proposed by Amelia Bloomer, suffragette and temperance advocate, in the early 1850s. Although this costume, a three-quarter-length gown over full trousers gathered at the ankles, was overwhelmed by a storm of ridicule and indignation, it immortalized its inventor in American slang.

The technological achievements of the 19th century revolutionized fashion. The textile industry produced an unprecedented volume and variety of fabric and trimmings at high speed and low cost. All this had to go somewhere, and women ended up literally bearing the burden of conspicuous consumption. The belle of the 1870s, now trailing her burden behind her in the shape of a flounced, ribboned, fringed, ruffled, tasseled bustle, may have been dressed in the aptly named mode "a la tapisserie" (upholstery-style). A favorite schoolboy's prank was to deposit a mouse, frog or perhaps the dictionary in the schoolteacher's bustle and enjoy his hapless prey's confusion.

The industrial revolution also saw the development of magazines published especially for women. With the same neutrality that today places recipes next to the latest diet and sun-bronzed models next to articles on skin cancer, magazines like Godey's Lady's Book and Harper's Bazaar published both sides of the corset, hoopskirt and bustle controversies.

Advertisements, meanwhile, proclaimed the benefits of tortuous-looking garments, solemnly endorsed by physicians and persuasively labeled "patented," an adjective that seems to have carried all the psychological weight that

"natural" does today.

The bustle and the Gibson Girl silhouette that followed it went the way of all styles. The early decades of the 20th century ushered in dramatic change. Women who had celebrated the turn of the century trussed up, with trains draped over their arms, sent their daughters off to parties in the abbreviated tunicle-style dress of the 1920s flapper.

The memory of Christian Dior's New Look of 1947, which brought back femininity with a vengeance in the shape of long skirts, layers of petticoats, underwired bustlines and Merry Widow corsets, should prevent women from being too complacent. But it does seem reasonable to assume that they have achieved a permanent victory over that particular form of bondage. Or does it?

"You can't really make predictions," says Dickstein of the Smithsonian. "We know the eye gets bored . . . there's a psychological need for change. And you never know who, or what, is going to influence it."

And, it might be added, women have no way of knowing whether this year's styles will eventually be labeled quaint, outlandish, risique or intriguing nostalgia. One thing is certain, though: their grandchildren will consider these fashions "old fashioned."

Cabaret jazz dates at DIA

The fifth-annual Ever-Clear Invitational Golf Tournament, held for the benefit of Bon Secours Hospital's cardiac rehabilitation program, is coming up Saturday, Aug. 30.

A personal competition between golfers ROBERT EVERETT, (left), and ROBERT CLEARY, (right), began the benefit invitational. Scheduled at the Plumbrook Golf Club, the tournament will include an evening celebration and cookout at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

A $25 donation will cover green fees, favors, the evening cookout and unlimited beer.

Information and registration may be obtained by calling Bon Secours Hospital's development office at 343-1520.

Neighborhood Club crowns 1980 men's league softball champs

The 1980 Men's and Men's over 30 Softball League has completed its season after 282 games. This year's league had over 600 men participating on 38 teams. Each team played in 10 regular season games and all teams were invited to the post season double-elimination tournament.

Each league held a separate tournament. In the competitive leagues the teams were divided into two divisions for the playoffs.

Local 69 won the non-competitive tournament for the second year in a row by beating Atsalis Brothers Paintings, 7-4.

The Over 30 league saw the Suds in the Park remain champions by virtue of a 13-4 win over Joe Muers.

Mack-Moross Standard was the competitive lower division champion, defeating the runner-up Stokers, 12-4.

The upper competitive division crowned new tournament champion Art Van Furniture. They topped a strong Nino's Market team, 11-7.

The final overall standings for each league follow: In the non-competitive league, Local 69 finished with a 12-2 record, Union Street Bar was 10-3, Heat Craft, 11-5. Reflective Image was 8-5, Atsalis Brothers Painting, 9-6. Connolly Brown Gem, 7-7.

Ziebart Rustproofing finished at 5-8. Grosse Pointe J.C.'s were 5-9. H. Meer Dental Supply, 2-10 and Lindell A.C. was without a win in 12 tries.

The over 30 league was headed by Joe Muers and City Limits, 10-5 each. Club 500 finished at 8-4. Tuff Kote was 9-4. Suds in the Park, 10-6. Third Stringers and Grosse Pointe Rec. Spare (Continued on Page 2-C)

Intramurals play large role in MSU sports

Athletics at a large university such as Michigan State go beyond Big Ten football and basketball into such sports as innertube water polo, touch football and fencing.

New freshmen will find that intramural sports are a big attraction on campus. There are more than 400 football teams, 92 volleyball teams, 39 soccer teams and that doesn't even count individual sports such as tennis, wrestling, handball and others.

Increased demand at the college level and after graduation is what Rivet thinks the future will hold.

"People get involved in intramural athletics in college," he says. "When they graduate they want to continue, so they start programs in their communities. Their sons and daughters become exposed and want to continue in college.

"I have seen the sons and daughters of people I went to school with playing on the same courts their moms and dads played on," he adds. "It is a large cycle that keeps growing."

Playoffs set for Indoor Club

The winners and runners-up from the Grosse Pointe municipal parks' tennis tournaments are setting their sights on the Grosse Pointe Grand Champions playoffs, which will be held on Thursday, Aug. 21, Saturday, Aug. 23 and Sunday, Aug. 24, at the Grosse Pointe Indoor Tennis Club.

Boys' and girls' 18 and under doubles will begin at 7 p.m. on Aug. 21. The men's and ladies' doubles will be played at 9 a.m. on Aug. 23 and the mixed doubles at 9 a.m. on Aug. 24.

According to tournament director and GPITC professional Gary Bodenmiller, the tournament will be played in a round-robin format. Trophies will be awarded by the club to the first and second place teams in all categories.

The more than 30 intramural sports offered have become an important part of academic life, Rivet says.

"Growth is the goal in a university setting," according to Rivet. "Intramural sports can contribute to that growth. A student becomes aware and uses his or her physical attributes."

"In the team sports like touch football and basketball, there is a team spirit," Rivet says. "The students socialize after the game. It is an important by-product of the activity."

Another important result of the activity is the employment of students.

"We hire about 300 students a term as referees and for other positions," Rivet

Woods tennis tournament champions are listed

The Grosse Pointe Woods Department of Parks and Recreation Tennis Tournament was held at the Woods' Lake Front Park tennis courts and in the Eastpointe Raquet Club in early August.

The singles matches for the under-18 division were held on Aug. 6, 7 and 8. In the boys' 9 to 13 singles, K.C. Gutow topped Drew McSkimming in the finals, 6-0, 6-0.

The girls' 9 to 13 singles title went to Lee Ann Seymour, as she defeated Carol Fernstrum, 6-1, 6-1. The boys' 14 to 17 singles crown went to Sanjit Jayakar. He beat Glenn Rayos, 6-1, 6-0.

Nancy Kohler won the Girls 14 to 17 singles title for the third straight year when she defeated Sandy Jayakar, 6-0, 6-0.

In play in the 18 to 34 bracket on Aug. 9 and 10, Nina Van DeGinste topped Coreen Slane, 6-0, 6-0, for the women's singles title. The men's 18 to 34 singles title went to Eric Ozar when he defeated Dennis Savage, 6-2, 6-1.

Carole Drucker won the women's 35 and over singles title when she beat Delia Rayos, 6-1, 6-0. The men's 35 and over singles crown went to Conrado Garcia. Garcia outlasted Ken Gutow in a grueling first set tiebreaker to win, 7-6, 6-1.

In the mixed adult doubles, the team of Gladys Wheeler and Herb Stieger beat the team of Fred and Fely Arriola, 6-0, 6-0. The men's doubles title went to David Giles and Dennis Savage when they edged the father-son team of Kum Jung Youn and Dennis Youn, 6-3, 7-5. Allison Ayres, tournament director, called the Giles-Savage v. Youn match one of the closest matches in the entire tournament.

The team of Gladys Wheeler and Marion Unckrich topped Carole Drucker and Barb Beyster, 6-1, 6-2, to capture the women's doubles title.

Miss Ayres, a member of the Woods Parks and Recreation Department, was aided in the tournament by assistant tournament director Eric Robbins.

Some of the Woods' tournament winners and runners-up may have the opportunity to meet winners of other Grosse Pointe tournaments in an All-Championship tournament scheduled for later this month at the Grosse Pointe Indoor Tennis House.

Enrollment set at Pierce

New students who will be attending seventh or eighth grade classes at Pierce this year may register at the school during the week of Aug. 25 between 9 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 3:30 p.m.

Seventh grade student orientation is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 2. If a student's last name starts with A-L orientation is at 12:30 p.m. in the gym. Last name students from M-Z have 2 p.m. orientation.

Eighth graders may pick up their schedule cards in the auditorium lobby from 3:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

The school is located at 15430 Kercheval in the Park.

This is a scene from last season's fall sports action—and there will be more this season—but not without you! The Grosse Pointe News sports section needs the help of talented folks who follow fall sports (football, basketball, hockey, etc.) and would like to submit stories, game highlights and statistics to the NEWS for publication. No Pulitzer prize-winners need apply—anyone who can write down game scores, highlights and team names can help. Unfortunately, the NEWS cannot pay a fee for the stories—but the authors get a byline, the NEWS gets some help covering the endless schedule of fall sports, and the community gets information about the area's athletes. Interested persons (that includes students, moms, dads, coaches, players or spectators) should contact the Sports Editor at 882-0294, during business hours.

Lipke Track club plans events

The Lipke Track Club will sponsor three events between Sunday, Aug. 24, and Sunday, Sept. 28. On Sunday, Aug. 24, a 4.0-mile run for women and girls of all ages will begin at 9 a.m. near the south marina at Metropolitan Beach.

Age divisions for the race are 17 and under, 18-29, 30-39, and 40 and over. Winners in each division will receive trophies. All runners will be awarded carrying bags and special medals. Fee for the race is $5. Registration information is available at 792-4563 or 983-3022.

The 13th annual Lipke boys', girls', men's and women's cross country invitational will be held at Metropolitan Beach on Saturday, Aug. 30. Registration begins at 10 a.m., the race at 11 a.m. The nine and under and 10 to 11 divisions will run a distance of one mile. The 12 to 13, 14 and over men and women 30 and over will run two miles.

Winners will receive trophies. All runners will be awarded medals.

A three-mile run of Greenfield Village will be held on Sunday, Sept. 28. Check-in time is from 7:15 to 8 a.m.; the race begins at 8:30 a.m. Entry fee is $9. Runners must register by Sept. 19. Entries are limited to 250.

Age groups include 17 and under, 18-29, 30-39 and 40 and over. All runners will receive a T-shirt and a special medal.

Information on these races and other Lipke Track Club events may be obtained by calling Joe Smetanka, at 792-4563.

Impulse Buying

Most purchasing decisions are made after a shopper's arrival at the supermarket, a survey by Marketing Executives Digest found. Of total purchases, 47 percent were unplanned, 3 percent were substitute choices, and only 14.8 percent had been planned.

March of Dimes Superide '80 slated for Sept. 6

Long before their celebrated fights, boxing champions Tommy Hearns and Hilmer Kenty had agreed to serve as co-chairmen of the Metropolitan March of Dimes SUPERIDE '80 for Saturday, Sept. 6, at Belle Isle. Hearns and Kenty have promised they will be at SUPERIDE '80 with their manager, Emanuel Steward.

Joining Hearns and Kenty will be the Clowns of America, including Doodles and his unicycle, poster child Debbie Ott, 73-year-old Nick Feldman, remarkable cyclist and runner, and other celebrities.

Area bicycle shops are serving as headquarters for SUPERIDE '80. Sponsor forms may be picked up from them, or by calling 863-3000.

On the east side of the metropolitan area, the headquarter bike shops are Jake's Bike Shop, 18386 Kelly Road, Harper Woods; Kickstand, 16394 E. Warren in Detroit; Allied Cycle Shop, 22435 Gratiot, East Detroit. All three will have free bike safety check clinics every Thursday from now until Sept. 6.

Vernors, Inc. and radio station WDRQ-FM are sponsors of SUPERIDE '80 and with the cooperation of sponsors and participating bike shops, 25 bicycles will be given away in a prize drawing after the event. An added incentive is a free, official biking jacket to everyone turning in more than $75 in pledges. Every SUPERIDER will receive a free T-shirt when they present their sponsor sheet at the ride itself.

A community event, SUPERIDE '80 is 75 kilometers (approximately 50 miles) of a marshalled, protected course on Belle Isle. Michigan Emergency Patrol will supply the communications and Jake's Bike shop will again take care of necessary breakdowns and repairs on the course. Sag wagons will be available to pick up the weary riders and return them to the beginning of the course. It is neither a race nor an endurance contest. SUPERIDERS are urged to stop when they become too tired or too warm.

Appropriate dress for the weather is suggested and heavy back packs discouraged. In the event of rain, one kilometer will equal five. Rain or shine, SUPERIDE '80 goes on time. Further information may be obtained by calling 863-3000.

Trees are prominent in state's history

With more varieties of trees in Michigan than in any other state and all of Europe, it's no wonder many of the state's forest giants have earned places in history, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Michigan's historic trees range from towering oaks ringing Indian tribal council sites to those that witnessed formation of the Republican Party.

Still others have sheltered famous writers, loaned their names to major cities and stand as testaments to the state's lumbering history.

All the trees listed by Auto Club can be viewed up close and many are identified by markers telling of their historical significance. One such tree is in Emmet County.

Auto Parade The first known parade of automobiles took place Sept. 7, 1899 at the fashionable spa of Newport, R.I. Nineteen cars took part, driven by society leaders from New York, Boston and Philadelphia. Mrs. Herman Gelichens won a prize for her vehicle, which was draped in wisteria and featured a flock of white doves on the radiator "pulling" the car.

The Crooked Tree, two miles north of Good Hart along M-119, is reputed to be the white pine where Menominee, Chippewa and Ottawa chiefs held council after the Fort Michilimackinac massacre in 1763.

Four miles north of Charlevoix off old U.S. 31 are the Greensky Hill Mission Trees, legendary site of other Indian councils. The original trees have disappeared but new ones have been planted over the years to take their place.

Grosse Ile's basswood Treaty Tree marks the spot where Indians ceded the island to settlers two days after the Declaration of Independence was signed. The original tree was toppled by a storm in 1901, but one that grew from its roots still stands, on East River Road near Grays Drive.

Michigan trees also have figured in the nation's politics. On July 6, 1854, a Jackson oak grove was the site of an anti-slavery rally which gave birth to the Republican Party. What is left of that grove stands at Franklin and Second streets.

In 1834, Michigan's public school system was planned under the boughs of an oak tree. That white oak Free Education Tree is at 310 N. Kalamazoo in Marshall.

Several communities owe their names to surrounding forests. Ann Arbor is named after the wives of its first two settlers and the area's arbors of huge burr oaks. Some of those original oaks may be seen at the corner of Ann and Division streets.

While Royal Oak's namesake is gone, a new one grows at the intersection of Rochester and Crooks roads and Main Street, the spot where territorial Gov. Lewis Cass declared in 1819 that the original was "indeed a royal oak."

One of the many writers inspired by the state's forests was conservationist James Oliver Curwood. He wrote many short stories under the oak now bearing his name in Owosso's Harmon-Partridge Park.

Owosso also has the Mill-wheel Tree. More than 100 years ago, a millwheel rim was leaned against its trunk and in time was engulfed by the tree. Both still stand along Universal Drive off South Washington Street.

Among trees named after prominent Michiganders is Monroe's Dorsch Ginkgo at the Dorsch Memorial Public Library, 18 E. First. It was planted in the 1860s by Dr. Edward Dorsch, physician, scientist and famous German-American poet, who received it from the Chinese Ambassador to the United States.

Trees also serve as reminders of the state's pioneer past. Behind the fence at Detroit's Waterworks Park, about a dozen pear trees grow from cuttings off trees planted by French farmers more than 200 years ago.

The Estivant Pines on Manganesse Road near Copper Harbor in the Upper Peninsula and Hartwick Pines State Park on M-93 north of Grayling in Lower Michigan tell of the lumbering era when white pine was king.

Both groves of virgin timber are crossed by miles of hiking trails and Hartwick Pines also contains a replica of a 19th century lumber camp.

Witness trees were used as survey markers in early Michigan and one of the most famous is the red pine in the Pigeon River State Forest, 13½ miles east of Vanderbilt. It was marked in 1850 during the original state survey by pioneer William Burt.

Probably the youngest tree in Michigan's historic collection is the "Moon Tree" on the grounds of Fernwood nature center near Niles. The five-foot-tall sycamore in the center's nursery was grown from a seed taken to the moon aboard Apollo 14.

Michigan's tallest and no doubt one of its oldest trees is the 193-foot tulip tree in Russ Forest preserve on Marcellus Road, east of Dowagiac. The state's largest in girth is a white willow 28½ feet in circumference on Blackman Road north of Michigan Avenue in Jackson. Both also are the largest of their species in the nation.
