

14th District turmoil spawns splinter GOP group

By Gregory Jakub

In the past 25 years, 14th District Republicans have elected only two candidates from their own ranks to a political office so members of a new political action group say they've organized to do something about it.

Calling themselves the Concerned Republican Committee (CRC) members say their objectives are to work at electing Republican and other selected candidates for national, state and local offices and to foster an ongoing commitment to Republican activities and ideals within the 14th District where most Republicans reside in the Pointes.

Several CRC members are those who were critical of how 14th District leaders selected delegates to the GOP convention at the district convention in July.

"We're not trying to take over the 14th," said CRC member Barbara Gattorn, one of two former party officers who resigned their posts in June to protest the handling of delegate selection.

Gattorn, a current candidate for the Wayne County Charter Commission,

Volunteers hope to foster local candidates

said the 14th has a tradition of internal turmoil which sometimes discourages Republicans from becoming politically involved.

"Lots of people want to be politically active but don't want the turmoil," Mrs. Gattorn said.

"We're not an 'anti' group," explained Joan Woodhouse, co-chairman of the 14th's Reagan-Bush committee. "We're a positive force for electing candidates, issues and non-partisan candidates," she added.

Other charter CRC members include Priscilla Brown, Wilbur M. Brucker, III, John Prost and Warren S. Wilkinson who generally represent the moderate faction within the 14th compared to the more conservative Republicans represented by former district chairman Richard Durant.

CRC established its by-laws in August and has received the blessings of Gov. William Milliken. The group's commitments to the November election include running a Michigan Republican phone center at the East Detroit headquarters of Republican Congressional candidate Vic Caputo and to do voter identification for the Reagan-Bush ticket and Caputo. On Sunday, Oct. 5 at 5 p.m., CRC will host a fund raiser for Caputo at the home of Warren Wilkinson.

CRC members cite the Caputo campaign as a cause for which their group can help by mobilizing volunteers needed to run a campaign.

"If this were a Democratic candidate, the unions would open the doors and people would fall out. The belief that if you're a Republican you've got money is just not true," Mrs. Gattorn said.

Diseased elms return as firewood

By Peggy O'Connor

While members of local tree councils and beautification commissions fight for ordinances to stop the blight caused by Dutch Elm Disease, residents of four of the Pointes can buy, store and use diseased wood as firewood—without being required to take any special precautions to prevent the spread of the disease.

According to the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the state rescinded all state elm wood ordinances in 1972. And with the exception of Grosse Pointe Woods, none of the Pointes requires citizens to prepare elm wood in any special way before using it as firewood.

The Woods requires that any part of a diseased elm must be debarked and the bark disposed of if the wood is to remain on the premises for longer than 72 hours.

TREE ORDINANCES in the remaining Pointes simply refer to diseased elms as "public nuisances" and require homeowners to have them removed or else pay a fine. The cities themselves spend thousands of dollars each year to spray, trim and remove diseased elm.

Lou Atkins, an inspector with the Department of Agriculture's plant industry section, tells people who call the department to see if they may use elm wood as firewood to go ahead and use it—with one condition.

"I'm not telling people to go against their city ordinances, but if they have elm wood, they should go ahead and burn it as firewood—as long as they do so before spring time, when the disease-carrying insects become active after a dormant winter."

Elm wood is valuable and a good wood to use as firewood, Atkins says, and burning is a good way to destroy insects and the diseased wood.

As for preparing the diseased wood

Grosse Pointe cities and homeowners spend thousands of dollars each year trimming and removing diseased trees to prevent the spread of Dutch Elm Disease. Tons of beetle-infested wood, however, is returned to the community each winter, chopped up for fireplaces.

for use as firewood by spraying or debarking, Atkins says he doubts these are useful alternatives.

"I wouldn't recommend spraying... it makes the wood undesirable to burn. Most people would hesitate to spray the wood they are going to use as firewood." Debarking, Atkins says, is a long, difficult, process which most people probably would not want to go through.

Atkins says he supports the community in its efforts to save the tree population and advises people to check local ordinances before they burn wood. He also suggests that people ask what type wood they are buying.

He admits that it is almost impossible to enforce local ordinances because so many people use firewood—and most people can't identify the wood as elm wood after it's been cut up.

Jean Rice, chairman of the Woods beautification commission, and Gerry Krag, of the Park Tree Council agree that the burden lies with the homeowner.

"Because of the fact that all elm laws were repealed by the state, we must go on every local law," Rice says. "If you have an elm taken down, you should not accept the diseased wood. In fact, you should be damned indignant because you are providing a breeding ground for beetles which

Money woes may close FLEC's doors by Oct.

By Tom Greenwood

Calling itself a victim of "reflation"—inflation in a recession year—the Family Life Education Council, (FLEC), announced this week it may be forced to close its doors by the end of September.

Located at 18412 Mack Avenue, in the Farms, FLEC has provided legal, medical and personal counseling to troubled youngsters and their families for nearly 16 years.

FLEC President, Dr. John Burrows, feels the time is critical. "I believe we'll probably fold within the next month," he said. "As usual, the problem is money. We've got a payroll of $1,500 due this week, and we've only got $1,000 in cash. Our monthly building costs are $1,000 plus we're $6,000 behind in mortgage payments. We made our last payment three months ago. Something has to give. Our creditors are getting nervous, and I don't blame them."

Dr. Burrows believes $25,000 would meet their barest expenses and save the rest of the year. In an effort to raise it, FLEC plans a final "last ditch" fund raising drive to begin in a week to 10 days.

"The drive will be called FLEC 66," said Dr. Burrows. "It's a plan to get people to donate $1 for every year FLEC has been around. We were founded in 1966, so if we reach 2,500 people, at $1 a person, we hope to raise $40,000."

"This will be a direct, one to one solicitation," he continued. "No mailing will be involved. We will also appeal once again to various foundations."

According to Dr. Burrows, public donations have dried up and fund raising efforts have been in vain. "We spent $3,000 on a direct mailing appeal this summer and only raised $1,200. We didn't even meet our expenses. We expected to recover $10,000 to $15,000 as in previous years."

ONE IRONIC TWIST for FLEC supporters, is that while funding has decreased, the utilization of FLEC services, (Center Point, a short term youth counseling center; Dialog, a confidential help phone line for adults, plus medical and legal aid), has risen dramatically.

"That's the saddest part," said Dr. Burrows, "our counseling program is going great guns. We should be hiring another full time counselor instead of laying people off. After the Youth Services Division, (YSD), folded, our contacts increased tremendously. That's one reason we need the new building we're in now. Some feel we over-extended ourselves. Maybe they're right. But the fact is we need it to handle our increased load. We're handling 50 percent more cases this year than in 1979."

Aid from the five Pointe cities is apparently not on the horizon either, according to Dr. Burrows. "We've been told unofficially not to approach any of the councils for funding because they fear setting any precedent in this area," he said. "They like the work we're doing but feel others will approach with their hands out for money."

"Everyone pats us on the back and tells us to continue the good work, but no one wants to help. In communities this affluent, that's difficult to believe."

"Perhaps Pointers feel this type of help isn't needed here," he said.

"They're wrong. Pointe kids contract venereal disease. Pointe girls get pregnant. Their kids come for birth control information and birth control pills. Seventy percent of our cases involved Pointe kids or kids from Harper Woods."

According to Mary Ann Cook, Director of FLEC, half the 500 young people utilizing the center medical center are Pointers. "Most of them are under 20," she said. "Of 43 pregnancy tests conducted last year, 21 were positive. Of 33 VD tests, nine were positive. These are facts."

"HERE AT FLEC, we take a non-judgmental approach to their problems. We explain things to them. If they're going to be sexually active, we tell them what can happen."

The purchase of this building on Mack Avenue contributed heavily to FLEC's money problems, but the social agency's leaders say it was necessary to meet rapidly increasing caseload

Employee held in stabbing

An employee of the Big Boy Restaurant, 16624 Mack, allegedly stabbed his manager this week when he returned after hours to rob the restaurant.

Police said a 16-year-old Detroit juvenile will be charged later this week with armed robbery and felonious assault. A Detroit man, another employe of the restaurant who allegedly accompanied the juvenile, will probably have a warrant sought against him on the charges.

According to police, the juvenile went to the restaurant at about 12 a.m. and forced manager Leslie Campbell, 21, to the basement to open the store's safe. The juvenile allegedly bound and stabbed Campbell in the neck, chest and leg before making his escape.

Other employes in the restaurant called police after hearing Campbell's screams.

Police arrested the juvenile a few hours after the incident in a nearby parking lot when they discovered him hiding in a car.

Campbell was treated and released from Bon Secours hospital.

Economics key issue to candidates

By Gregory Jakub

The first time Democrat Dennis Hertel and Republican Vic Caputo faced each other in public was in 1978 when State Rep. Hertel was a guest a WJBK-TV talk show hosted by Caputo. The discussion topic was legislation authored by Hertel banning fireworks and double-bottom tankers in Michigan.

That event characterizes what may be the major difference between the two men who today seek election to the 14th Congressional seat in the U.S. Congress.

Hertel, a six-year veteran of the state House who instigated the state's first mandatory sentencing law for crimes involving firearms, plus a ban on double-bottom tankers and firecrackers, says that his legislative record proves he can make it in big league Washington politics.

Caputo spent 23 years as a broadcaster, the last 12 with TV-2 in Detroit where he reported hard news, was an anchorman, and hosted his own local interview programs, which he said taught him to listen to people and to probe issues. That background makes him "eminently qualified" to represent the district in Washington, Caputo said.

Caputo and Hertel will square-off in a debate scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Dominican High School's auditorium, Whittier north of I-94 in Detroit.

Voters from the 11 cities in the 14th District — five Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, East Detroit, Centerline, Hamtramck, part of Detroit and Warren — will send Hertel or Caputo to Congress to fill the vacancy created by Lucien Nedzi's retirement after 19 years in Washington.

Both candidates see the role of Congressman as one which requires serving the needs of constituents and concern for the nation as a whole.

"You have to do both. It's not 50-50 because you have to do it all," said Hertel in an interview in his eastside Detroit campaign office.

Congressmen should "serve the best interest of their districts" which in the case of the 14th is "obviously good for the country, even though they're not necessarily the same," said Caputo at his East Detroit cam-

Vic Caputo (above right) has gotten the support of Republicans including Gov. William Milliken (above left) in his bid to move from broadcasting to public office. After six years as a state representative, Democrat Dennis Hertel (below) is becoming a familiar face in 14th District neighborhoods.

Locals say keep drinking at 21

By Joanne Gouleche

Advocates of a November ballot proposal to lower the drinking age from 21 to 19 won't find much support from Grosse Pointe police and school officials, even though the proposal has the backing of the State Board of Education and a faction of the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs.

Some members of the MACP, which supported a move to raise the legal drinking age from 18 to 21 two years ago, say a significant drop in alcohol-related arrests, accidents and deaths in that age group is clear evidence the drinking age should remain at 21.

But other MACP board members have come forward with the rationale that since 19 year olds are allowed to vote and sign mortgage contracts, they are mature enough to handle a glass of beer. They add that the current law on the books is just too tough to enforce and many teens engage in "backseat" drinking.

LOCAL POLICE and school officials disagree.

"I have mixed feeling about the law, but in light of reduced traffic accidents and arrests involving drinking of this age group, I would support keeping the drinking age at 21," City Director of Public Safety Bruce Kennedy said.

"The lower the legal drinking age, the greater the possibility of a spin off effect on younger persons under 19 drinking alcoholic beverages because of the close association between the age groups," Kennedy added.

Michigan State Police statistics show a decline in alcohol related accidents involving 18 to 20 year olds since the drinking age was hiked—from 12,567 in 1978 to 9,627 in 1979. Fatal accidents for the 18 to 20 age group decreased 12 percent also.

That kind of data doesn't impress

Citizens for a Fair Drinking Age whose push for legal drinking at 19 put Proposal B on the November ballot.

The group's chairman, State Rep. Richard Fitzpatrick, D-Battle Creek, says the proposal has a "good chance" to win with voters after a survey indicated more people think 19 and 20 year olds are unfairly discriminated against when it comes to telling them what they can drink.

"It simply is not fair in Michigan for thousands of 19 and 20 year olds to be denied the choice of having a legal beer or glass of wine when the law otherwise considers them adult enough to get married, commit to 30-year mortgages, start career jobs, vote and exercise mature judgment with weapons while serving in the armed forces," Fitzpatrick said.

Not really, says Grosse Pointe Shores Lt. Charles Wenrich, who believes 21 is just a more mature age to drink than 19.

Visit English castles and enjoy English pudding

If you would like to live like a king or queen, an English monarch or noble for a while, then "Come to the Castle" with Howdee Meyers and Lucia Perrigo on the travelogue stage at the War Memorial.

This team, creators of Travel Theater, will present A Romance of Royal England for Memorial patrons on Wednesday Oct. 1 at 8 p.m. in Fries Auditorium. The show will be preceded by a traditional English banquet served in the Crystal Ballroom at 6:30 p.m. complete with roast beef, Yorkshire pudding and trifle. The complete evening — dinner with tax and service included and show is $11.85. The show only is $3.25.

The film takes audiences inside incredibly lavish palaces, inviting them to enjoy the glories and stories of the stately homes of England. Fifty million visitors a year pay their coins to pass through the palace wickets to peer at the Peers and to wonder at the treasures of the Great Houses.

"It's a show business success story unparalleled in our times in which the nobility of England play a leading role and the stages are castles, manors of magnificence, palaces redolent with the romances and riches of the ages," said Miss Perrigo. "Threatened by death taxes and the death beetle eating away miles of the timber, these 400 year old castles were headed for extinction until enterprising noblemen abandoned their privacy and invited the paying public to become partners in a great adventure, a great achievement, the saving of English history and heritage for a whole world."

Applauded and awarded for adding a new dimension to travelogue the Meyers were allowed into some of the world's most historic homes to record the life within, reminders of a proud and adventurous past. The curtain rises on "Come to the Castle" as Henry VIII comes a-courting to Hever Castle, home of Anne Boleyn and today the moated residence of Lord Astor.

For four centuries, these enormous and elegant country seats have stood — Chatsworth, where Elizabeth I imprisoned Mary, Queen of Scots; Blenheim, built by Queen Anne as a tribute to the Duke of Marlborough;

Hatfield, where the child Elizabeth lived in isolation and virtual imprisonment and where she was notified that, miraculously, she would be crowned Queen of England; Warwick, incomparable bastion of earliest England; Longleat, an Elizabethan favorite, where now prides of lions rule.

Secure in their stately homes, nobles never dreamed of a day when their descendants would lose their wealth and country manors. But the 20th century brought two world wars, near bankruptcy to England and taxes and death duties to strike mortal blows at those manors and mansions. Many Lords and Dukes had Earls saw their great estates turned into schools, factories and asylums.

"Fortunately for England and the world," said Howdee Meyers, "there were enterprising Lords who turned deaf ears to that ringing. It's their remarkable story we have caught with camera."

The Meyers' camera reveals that beneath every coronet of a successful state-ly home owner is a hard-headed business man, a showman in tweeds or corduroy or—jeans, the garb favored by the Marquess of Bath who rescued Longleat by turning 800 acres of parkland into England's first safari park.

With imagination and inventiveness and industry, the peers pull out all the stops and present game reserves, antique car museums, Rolls Royce rallies, balloon ascensions, rock concerts, tours of the Great Houses, Medieval banquets, jousting tournaments, costume collections, aggregations of antique shops, doll displays and dolphinariums, flower and horse shows, whole days in the country for families.

In intimate views of life upstairs and downstairs, when you "Come to the Castle", you will dine with George IV at his Royal Pavilion in Brighton, an exotic extravaganza looking like a setting for Scheherazade; enter Blenheim where Churchill was born and Chartwell where he spent his happiest hours; marvel at Wilton House where the Earl of Pembroke trots out Golden Wings, his national champion Arabian stallion; dance at a Summer Ball at Ragley at the invitation of the Marquess of Hertford; and thrill to a joust at Knebworth.

Officials say no to age change

"Voting and drinking are two different things. You act differently when you are under the influence of alcohol," Lt. Wenrich said, adding that 21 year olds are more apt to control their feelings a little better when they drink.

Woods Public Safety Director John Dankel says the argument that 19 year olds are allowed to vote but not to drink, is an "emotional issue."

"I'm not so sure the two are related. That's just like saying 'my parents drink beer so why can't I smoke marijuana?"

Dankel said state police data revealing declining alcohol-related incidents among 19 and 20 year olds is concrete evidence to keep the legal drinking age at 21.

Grosse Pointe School Board President Jon Gandelot said the board will probably not take issue with the ballot proposal, but members Laurance Harwood and Joan Hanpeter have individually said they support keeping drinking at 21.

"I'm not strongly in favor of dropping the drinking age, since the 21 age limit apparently has resulted in a decrease in traffic fatalities. But I do sympathize with the rationale for lowering the age to 19. It really is basically inconsistent to be able to vote, buy a house and borrow money —take on adult responsibilities—and not drink at 19," Hanpeter said.

The school trustee supported the increase from 18 to 21 for the purpose of getting alcohol out of the schools in 1978. "I'm not sure the 21 age has made a real difference in the high schools in terms of liquor consumption, however," Hanpeter said.

paid headquarters.

According to Hertel, experience is the key which will make a good congressman — experience that he said he has gained through designing legislation and committee work.

"THERE IS A direct comparison between the legislature and Congress," Hertel said. "I've worked in that process for six years and I know how to challenge someone's credibility. I've seen things wrong and tried to change them no matter who I've angered," he added.

Caputo, who's never held a political office, writes off legislative experience and says that a congressman is one who will represent the district in Washington—something he'll do by listening to the concerns of constituents.

Hertel responds: "I've listened and done things. He (Caputo) has listened and hasn't done things."

"The mere virtue of serving in a legislative body doesn't qualify someone," Caputo said adding that an experienced legislator isn't necessarily effective.

The actual writing of legislation is done by technical writers, Caputo said, adding that making sure legislation achieves its end requires thorough probing of the issues which he has learned to do.

Both candidates said that economic problems would be their first objective in Congress but each would focus on a different aspect.

Inflation is the primary problem according to Hertel because it affects virtually all income and age brackets in the 14th district, he said.

Hertel favors increasing interest rates to encourage saving which could reduce an inflated money supply, he said. Government's role in controlling inflation is to accelerate depreciation of industrial equipment to spur the purchase of new equipment and increase output of goods, creating more jobs, Hertel said. The government could also adjust tax indexing so that inflation doesn't swallow up pay increases. "Taxes should never go up," Hertel said, but he disagrees with tax cuts proposed by the Republican backed Kemp-Roth bill.

Caputo said his primary job as a congressman would be to solve the unemployment problem without the infusion of federal funds. His philosophy is for government to create incentives such as tax breaks and attract small businesses back to the 14th District to hire people that aren't working, then to eventually phase out tax breaks to produce more government revenue, he said.

He said he also favors the 10 percent Kemp-Roth tax cut which has the immediate effect of cutting government revenue but makes more money available to purchase goods. Then the production of goods to meet increased demand will create more jobs, Caputo said.

Both candidates said they believed the government's rescue of Chrysler Corp. was justified since so many jobs were threatened by the company's imminent demise.

Both thought taxes shouldn't increase but advocated more government spending for military defense justified by eliminating wasteful government spending.

TO HERTEL, THAT means cutting out wasteful social services characterized by the "welfare cycle" and Aid to Dependent Children which discourages people from seeking jobs, he said.

Caputo's advocacy of an increased defense budget is based on five percent cuts in all government departments without touching social welfare programs, he said.

Whether defense spending should supplement conventional military forces or strategic nuclear weapons depends on the specific project proposed and the time, Hertel said, but national defense would be his top priority.

"If we don't have a strong defense... then we can't talk about better schools or services, because we won't be free," Hertel said.

Caputo said he would favor an increase in spending for conventional military forces so that nuclear weaponry doesn't become our only means of response to aggression.

Both candidates approved of the recently revealed STEALTH technology which allows planes to fly undetected by radar.

The candidates were split on the ERA with Hertel saying he is on record supporting it and hopes it is eventually passed. Caputo said that as a congressman he wouldn't have to deal with the ERA until 1982 at which time he would vote against extending ratification time, if that were the case.

Both candidates' anti-abortion stance won them both endorsements from Michigan Right to Life, Inc. in the August primary but Hertel has earned that group's endorsement for the November election.

staff members, two full and one part-time, plus 15 volunteer counselors. "We also call upon the services of 105 volunteers," said Ms. Cook. "Among them are doctors, lawyers and nurses. All their efforts, all our work, will go down the drain. Just when we're needed the most."

Director Cook believes three things will happen if FLEC is allowed to fold. "First, I feel that within a year of our closing, some other organization will open up and start all over again," she said. "They'll probably be funded by the cities, as we should be now."

"Second, the staff at the Northeast Guidance will be overloaded, when our cases shift there. Kids will be put on waiting lists for help. Here they're often seen the same day they apply for counseling."

"Third," she continued, "drugstores in the area will see a big rise in the number of self-pregnancy test kits they sell. Girls will now find out in their homes whether they're pregnant or not. Instead of here at the clinic, under medical supervision."

"FLEC has too much to offer the community to allow it to go under,"

said Ms. Cook. "We provide so many services to so many people. If we fold, it'll be a helluva loss to the community."

Almost since the beginning of wine making, vintners have been trying to think up ways to cover up off tastes of some of their wines. A sweetener could often cover up a variety of unpleasant tastes. Persians added honey to their wines and sometimes flower blossoms. Greeks added pitch to minimize the already too sweet taste. The Romans used so many aromatic herbs and spices that mixing of wine became a special skill. The Phoenicians went as far as to bring snow down from the mountains to take the sweetness from their wines.

Prime Time

For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

Lest we forget . . . There are those who are so low key about their immense contributions to the growth and welfare of a community that the full importance of their work is difficult to appraise.

Such a person is our own Walker Lee Cisler, (known as Mr. Energy), retired Chairman of the Board of the Detroit Edison Company, undisputed leader of the energy industry, advisor to national and state leaders, and an active member of civic and cultural groups.

At 82 he heads up Overseas Advisory Associates Inc. The staff is made up of retired executives. The not-for-profit company provides consulting services on energy to countries overseas.

On Sept. 10 of this year, Mr. Cisler was honored at the World Energy Conference in Munich for his outstanding leadership and service to the reconstruction of Europe's energy supply after World War II. He has made 314 trips abroad.

A CHRONOLOGY in his memoirs "A Measurable Difference" lists two dozen honors that have been conferred upon him by grateful countries. Some of them include the Bronze Star and Legion of Merit (United States), Legion of Honor (France), Royal Order of Phoenix (Greece), Order of Merit (Italy), Order of the Rising Sun (Japan).

Floyd A. Bond, dean of the Graduate School of Business Administration, University of Michigan, says of him: "No man in history has been as active in promoting the welfare of people in many different lands through the development of energy resources as Walker Cisler.

When Mr. Cisler retired in 1975, it was a retirement in name only. At 78 he had a future of service mapped out for himself. He asked himself: "What does a man who is 78 years old do with the rest of his life?" His answer: "Many of the same things he did in the early part except on a reduced scale; remain active in voluntary and philanthropic projects and continue with useful, satisfying work."

WALKER CISLER WAS raised on a farm in Gradyville, Pa. He recalls that his life there was closer in many ways to early agricultural life than it was to the world of present day activities. He remembers.

"A wooden windmill pumped water from the well to a tank in the loft of the barn for our running water. My earliest contact with electricity came from an alarm system in the barn. It was run by a battery, and I bought 10 cents worth of salinomic powder to power it, rigged it to a doorbell and then ran a line to the house. It has been a source of satisfaction to have lived in a period and place, when nations have begun to have energy to satisfy their basic needs for food, shelter and transportation. Energy makes a 'measurable difference' in the world. An adequate supply of energy makes the 'measurable difference' between primitive existence and civilization.

"From my experience I have learned that the world as a whole contains ample resources to enhance both the economic advantages of people and physical environment. What is needed is continuing inventiveness and better management."

THE PROBLEMS and doubts concerning the present supply of energy are the topics which will occupy the Munich World Energy Conference. The Conference is made up of scientists and engineers interested in energy. They meet every six years to share ideas. Representatives from 71 countries are involved. The last meeting was in Detroit and was chaired by Mr. Cisler.

Cisler, who has studied energy in 20 countries at the request of the State Department, believes in the atom as the new source of primary energy. He contends that scientists have gained the necessary understanding of how to sustain the fission of the uranium atom in a chain reaction. He predicts that all electricity will be produced in nuclear plants by the year 2000.

He is a strong advocate of the peaceful use of nuclear energy and in the need to get information on nuclear energy to the public. As chairman of The Atomic Industrial Forum, a national organization to inform people about nuclear energy, he helped to raise money for educational programs in schools and universities, for informative magazine articles, and for appearances before congressional and administrative groups.

The period following World War II was a particularly busy time in Cisler's life. He was working with Detroit Edison to create electrical power to meet the growing demand at home and also with the Organization for Economic Cooperation, organizing groups to send American engineers to rebuild power stations in Europe and to bring Europeans here for study and training.

More than energy was generated. A tremendous amount of good will was established. "I found that the language of the Kilowatt was universal," he remarked.

IT IS APPARENT that Mr. Cisler is a man of great drive and determination. He also is at ease with people—leaders and the man in the street. He is moved by the dignity of men and women everywhere. He has great stamina and is able to work 18 hours a day, seven days a week.

"I find the rhythm of wakefulness exhilarating," he remarked. He gets up at five and rides a bike five miles before breakfast. He enjoys good health. "I have seldom had so much as a cold," he boasted.

Cisler came to work for the Detroit Edison in 1943. In 1951 he became president and general manager; in 1954, president and executive officer and in 1984 chairman of the board. During those years, his priorities were with the company even when he was working on national and international energy problems.

He managed also to serve the community. He believed that corporations do not exist only to make money but also to serve people. Expounding this philosophy, he persuaded many representatives of organizations to contribute their efforts to making the community a better place to live. He willingly gave his time to such projects as the 250th anniversary of Detroit in 1951 as a chairman of the International Visitors Committee set up to welcome participants in the

SA leaders have big plans

By Tom Kitchen
South High

The school year has just begun, but South's new Student Association (SA) has been in action ever since the elections last spring. Joe Magee, president, Liz Maher, vice-president, Julie Dettloff, secretary and Cheryl Nelson, treasurer, form the administration that promises one of the best school years possible.

All four have been working hard during the summer to get ready for the beginning of school, setting up meetings and scheduling events for the year.

While the SA hasn't established a set schedule for the year, some of the activities in upcoming months include class senator races, freshman elections, Spirit Week, and the big event, Homecoming, Oct. 18.

Magee has expressed his desire to instill more spirit and enthusiasm in South, while getting students involved in extra curricular activities and programs.

"I believe we have to coordinate new ideas and devise more organized activities to make every student belong. Participation gives kids the opportunity to work with others, meet new people and make their school year a more enjoyable one."

Maher feels the SA's purpose should be like that of an executive board of a company, keeping things running smoothly and making the school and community a better place.

When asked to describe this year's SA, she said, "It's going to be more organized and the students will have a bigger say in things happening in the school. The SA is going to have a better relationship with the teachers, too."

Diseased elms return to GP

would destroy other trees."

BUT KRAG SAYS she agrees with Atkins that it is safe to use elm wood as firewood — provided it is used up before spring.

"The problem with wood piles becoming breeding grounds would be eliminated if people would completely cover the wood with a plastic tarp or store it in a closed garage. This would keep the beetles from flying in and out and would kill the beetles in the bark of the cut wood."

"The problem is a lack of public knowledge . . . we go out to inspect trees and invariably, when we go into the back yard, we find an open wood pile with diseased elm in it."

Mrs. Rice says that the lack of knowledge isn't unique to homeowners. Contractors can spread the disease, she says, by failing to sanitize their equipment—which is not all that uncommon, according to one local contractor.

Wayne Nemeth, owner of J&W Tree Artisans, a company which does a lot of work in the Pointes, both private and public, says that many contractors are very careless in their operation.

"A lot of the stuff that is done by tree companies doesn't do much to help prevent the disease from spreading. For example, I've seen chippers parked under healthy trees — and there's just a cloud of bark beetles in those chippers," Nemeth says.

J & W CHIPS SOME of the diseased wood it removes and dumps it in nurseries. Nemeth says that many city DPW departments will pick up some of these chips and spread it around on playgrounds or use it as mulch. That, he says "attracts bark beetles like crazy."

Nemeth says that all of his crews carry bleach to sterilize saws and equipment—even if they are going from one diseased tree to another.

Nemeth and spokesmen for Cal Fleming and Shock Brothers companies each say that they run across few people who want their diseased trees removed and cut up for firewood. The companies charge more for that service and say few people are willing to pay extra.

Each of the contractors says that most of the wood they remove is given away or sold to firewood companies — another target of the Woods' Rice.

"The average person can't tell what an elm looks like once it's been cut up for wood—so people are getting diseased wood and they probably don't even know it," Rice says.

In addition to the precautions that most of the wood they remove is given away or sold to firewood companies — another target of the Woods' Rice.

Loren Blum, a buyer for Franks Nurseries, says a lot of people inquire what kind of wood is in the firewood they buy, but most of them aren't very knowledgeable about it.

Although Franks will not be selling firewood this season, Blum says that most nurseries will be selling mixed hardwoods including oak, maple, ash and some elm, as firewood.

SINCE FIREWOOD season is approaching, people will be out shopping for their winter stock and since it is perfectly legal to burn elm wood in the Pointes, Gerry Krag says she can't emphasize enough the precautions for the safe use of elm wood.

"It is most important for people to use up their stockpile of wood every winter while the disease-carrying bark beetles are dormant."

But the final solution to the problem, Rice adds, is to make such precautions a state-wide requirement.

"Let's face it—wood is a valuable commodity. It's a necessity yet it is becoming so hard to get. The ways to treat the diseased wood, with sprays and treatments, won't solve the problem unless their use is widespread."

"The type of thing that would work would be to go to Lansing—it has to be statewide or the problem isn't stopped."

Jr. Symphony sets audition

Grosse Pointe's Junior Symphony will expand its program this season to allow greater numbers of students to participate by sponsoring a Junior Symphony Orchestra as well as a Junior Symphony Band for the first time.

North High's Nathan Judson and South's Ralph Miller will co-conduct the two groups which will provide advanced music experience for students through 10th grade from public and private schools.

Students who wish to audition for either group should pick up an application form at any local school and send it along with a check for $12.50 to Judson at North High, 707 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, 48236. The check should be made payable to the Grosse Pointe Junior Symphony Orchestra. It will be refunded if the applicant is not accepted.

Auditions will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 29, 30 and Oct. 1, at North High. Students will be assigned a time for audition.

For more information call either North or South High.

ULS debaters win honors

ULS junior, Randy Gibson, and freshman, Charles Colby were among 70 high school students selected to attend a debate institute at Central Michigan University from July 6-19. The institute was conducted by college debate instructors, who offered workshops in the fundamentals of debating.

The construction of debate flow charts and the use of the library as a resource were stressed. Time was also devoted to actual debating.

Colby, the youngest student to be accepted into the institute, was distinguished with trophies for Best Affirmative Speaker and Best Affirmative Team.

Mopeds Fill a Need

The moped is not just a fun thing anymore. The motorized bicycle that gets more than 100 miles per gallon of gas is a fast-growing type of transportation that is substituting on many trips when it is not absolutely necessary to roll the big gas-guzzler out of the garage. In 1975 there were 50,000 mopeds in the U.S.; today, more than a million.

Election law bends at 18

Believe it or not, if your 18th birthday falls on the day after the Presidential Election—Nov. 5—you still can vote for president on Nov. 4.

To do so, however, you must register by Monday, Oct. 6.

According to Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, the Michigan election laws, having its roots in English common law, permits an individual who becomes 18 on Nov. 5 to vote on Nov. 4.

The theory behind the interpretation is that on Nov. 4 the individual lived exactly 18 years to the day — enough to fulfill Michigan's legal requirement to vote.

Individuals may register at any of 200 statewide Secretary of State branch offices or the office of the city or township clerk where they live.

Although New York World Trade Center's twin 110-story towers stand on only two acres, they can accommodate 130,000 people.

More than three-quarters of the 1,520-mile "Alaska" highway lies in Canada and is maintained by that government.

Vic Caputo On The Economy

We must reduce the burden of high federal income tax rates. I support an immediate 10% tax cut, with further reductions to depend upon resulting economic conditions. I also favor the indexing of tax rates to prevent workers from being artificially pushed into higher tax brackets by inflation.

Extravagant and wasteful government expenditures must be curtailed through major cuts in future government spending. The federal government now consumes over 25% of all the income generated by the American economy.

We must seek a reduction in the federal budget deficit that now preempts the credit market, and place effective restraints upon expansion in the supply of money.

I support tax cuts for private industry to increase productivity and boost the supply side of our economy. Capital cost recovery should be the centerpiece of business tax relief in 1980.

I reject mandatory wage price controls as ineffective, inequitable, too costly, and ultimately damaging to the long-term health of the economy.

We must put an end to excessive government regulation that tells us how to do our jobs or run our businesses. Regulation is estimated to cost American business approximately $100 billion each year.

Our people cannot and need not endure continuing cycles of devastating inflation and crippling recessions. As your Congressman, I will work hard to reduce the interfering role that government plays in our economy, and restore a proper balance between government and private enterprise.

I believe that current government policies have denied our private business sector the ability to reach its full productive potential. In so doing, those policies have denied all of us the opportunity for full employment and stable prices.

Government must work effectively for people, not tax us out of our paychecks or destroy the incentives that can create a prosperous economy for everyone.

The first step must begin with a commitment by our national leadership to economic growth in the United States.

A Positive Voice for Change

ULS graduate receives Ewald scholarship

Grosse Pointer Ted Ewald presented scholarships to 10 Detroit area students last month including Allen Taber, of the Woods, a University Liggett School graduate who will attend Dartmouth.

Ewald presented the awards through the H. T. Ewald Foundation, founded in 1929 through endowments given by the late H. T. Ewald, advertising pioneer and founder and president of the Campbell-Ewald Co., for the purpose of helping promising students develop their potential through higher education.

The foundation is unusual in that Ewald interviews all scholarship candidates personally and maintains close contact with them throughout their college careers. This year more than 40 students will receive $34,000 in financial assistance from the foundation, including the 10 new recipients who received awards last month.

Ewald also serves as an advisor to the North Detroit Optimists Foundation scholarship program, formed in 1976 by two former Ewald Foundation scholarship winners.

Other 1980 scholarship recipients were Athena Kalkas of Warren, Stephen J. Krzeski of Rochester, Katherine Ann Allen of New Hudson, Gregory Lambert, Kim Marie Jagers, Joseph William DeLave and Carl Norris of Detroit, Beth Allen Clark of Wayne and Teresa Powell of Redford.

The church of the Nativity is filmed in Bethlehem, and there are views of Masada, site of Jewish resistance to oppression.

The Dead Sea, lowest body of water on earth, and Tiberias, nestled on the shores of the Sea of Galilee, are filmed, as is Tel Aviv. A sand dune 56 years ago, Tel Aviv is now a bustling and sophisticated metropolis. The Cinema League welcomes new members. Meetings are usually held the first and third Mondays of the month. Annual dues are $7 per person. The organization is especially interested in adding 8mm and 16mm movie makers to its ranks.

ANDERSON CAN WIN

Who thought the U.S. Hockey Team would win the Winter Olympics? (The odds-makers gave them about the same chance they're giving John Anderson now.)

A whole lot of people — and there's a good chance you're one of them — agree that John Anderson and Pat Lucey are the best team to lead this country. In fact, if all the people who believe that were to vote their convictions they could achieve a stunning upset victory over the old politics in November.

The sad thing is, though, that many of these same believers have reluctantly accepted the conventional wisdom that they'll lose their vote unless they cast it for whichever of the current poll-leading candidates they think is the lesser of two evils. (And when they indicate this reluctant choice in the next poll, the circle is completed.)

In other words, they think they have to back losers to win. This just isn't so. And together we can prove it!

Between now and November 4th, POINTERS FOR ANDERSON will be demonstrating in a series of ads just how widespread is the belief that John Anderson should be President — and working to turn that belief into votes. You can change the odds. We need your good name for our next ad.

This ad has been paid for by the following Grosse Pointe residents:

The Park Council voted last week to do away with the last of the penny meters locally in Grosse Pointe because of an increase in cost.

celebration. He remained active after the celebration and in the next decade hosted 38 leaders plus political leaders from 25 countries who came on business. He worked assiduously to help to reinstate the reputation of Detroit as a leader.

"During the war," he recalled, "Detroit was known as the Arsenal of Democracy. People unfamiliar with the name of Michigan and occasionally with the City of Washington responded to mention of Detroit."

He was chairman of the Detroit Conference on Civic Development and the Committee for Economic Growth. He worked to secure funds for the Model Cities Act and served on the New Detroit committee.

In addition to involvement with the economic life of the city, he also participated in its cultural life, helping to raise funds to operate Ford Auditorium. He is a member of the Detroit Institute of Arts Founders Society, a member of the Friends of the Detroit Public Library and the Historical Commission. He is a member and served as chairman for 20 years of the Detroit Economic Club.

EDUCATION IS A very special interest to Mr. Cisler. He remarked: "Education has been in my life what technology is to the life of a nation." He recalls the advice his mother gave him; "Whatever may be your good fortune to do in life will largely depend on the success with which you acquire an education."

He believes that an education is one of the most important tools a man can put his hands to. He commented: "I found satisfaction just in knowing more and more about both the social and physical sides of life.

I believe education is one of the primary needs of the world. With formal training we learn to cultivate our minds and it is through the mind that we manage our own lives and the planet, Earth."

He followed with: "I have always tried to put into the educational system some of the good things I have received from it." He remains an active member of Cornell's board of trustees, the university which he attended, and he is active in both national and state programs that support schools.

Mr. Cisler married Gertrude Rippe, the widow of his close friend and business associate Bill Rippe in 1939. He adopted their two children and "loved them as if they were my own." Mrs. Cisler died in 1975. It was a happy marriage and he recalls his years with her with love and tenderness.

He still owns his farm in Gradyville and the oak board that hung over the hall fireplace when he was a boy is still there. It carries a handwritten message: "Each man's chimney is his golden mile stone, the central point from which he measures every distance."

"I am not an introspective man," Cisler says, but he is certainly a thinking one and it is reassuring when he states:

"I have confidence that we can extend the material well-being of all people and that by the year 2000 everyone will enjoy a higher quality of life. Such is the power of the intellect that if mankind can conceive these things, we can accomplish them. I have seen it happen time and time again. The greatest force on earth, other than that of the Almighty, is the human mind.

Thug demands woman's wallet

A Park woman waiting in a car behind Sanders in the Village told police she was approached by a man carrying a knife last week.

Police said the woman was sitting on the passenger's side when a man wearing a tan jacket and blue pants came up along side of the car with a knife and demanded the woman's wallet.

When the woman refused to turn over her wallet, the thug escaped on foot.

The man was described as about 30 years old and slight to medium build with light brown hair.

Now — when you need it most: DuPont GAS BOOSTER can help pave the way to better mileage.

The fuel-saving benefits of Du Pont GAS BOOSTER can be more important than ever with the rising cost of gasoline. A dirty fuel system — including the carburetor, intake manifold, ports and valves — can cause you to lose valuable mileage.

Know Your Schools

By Superintendent William Coats

When school started two weeks ago and our students and staff returned to their buildings, many of them commented that a lot of paint-up, fixup, and clean-up work must have gone on during the summer months. Indeed a lot of work was completed over the summer, and I want to summarize some of the projects.

Every one of our buildings had some interior painting done, and most had exterior tuckpointing and other brick work projects. In some buildings the painting was extensive such as at South High School, where over $20,000 worth of painting was done. When the painting and brick work was coupled with ceiling repair and sidewalk improvements, some of our buildings seemed to take on new appearances both inside and out.

Areas which already experience a great amount of wear and tear in every school are the physical education spaces—the gyms, swimming pools, locker rooms, and athletic fields. Our schools are no exception and this summer saw a complete replacement of the lockers in the North High boys' locker room; extensive patching and repainting of the North pool; repairing and refinishing of the gym floors at South High and Brownell; and resodding of the South football fields and development of a softball field at North.

Another common summer project is the repair of roofs. Half of our 15 school buildings had roof work done with an average cost of each job approaching $30,000.

Quite a bit of work to make our buildings more energy efficient was also done during June, July and August. While most of the projects consisted of upgrading and repairing heating and ventilation systems, the biggest project was the window replacement at Poupard Elementary School.

When it became obvious last year that extensive work on the old window frames was needed, it was decided to completely replace them with a type of window and frame designed especially to conserve energy. Not only do we expect to achieve a considerable energy savings from this project, but the new windows have really improved the appearance of Poupard School.

These are just a few examples of the type of work that was performed this summer, and while some of the projects were given to outside contractors, many of them were completed by our own district and building maintenance staff members.

Representatives of almost 100 colleges and universities will be on hand to discuss their institutions with Grosse Pointe students and parents at a series of three college and career nights at South High School.

The first will be held Wednesday, Sept. 24, at 7:15 p.m. when Michigan colleges and universities will be represented. About 40 schools will provide information about their campuses and answer questions from students and parents. George Emery from Wayne State University will discuss financial aid for students, and representatives from ROTC programs and military academies also will be present.

Students from both North and South High are invited. To accommodate the usual great interest in University of Michigan and Michigan State, three large group meetings will be held with their representatives on Wednesday between 7:15 and 9 p.m.

The second evening of the series will be held Wednesday, Oct. 1 at 7:15 p.m. when out-of-state colleges and universities will be represented. A panel discussion will begin the evening with Linden V.T. Smith, Yale University, Charles Curry, Michigan State, and G. Bruce Lemmon, Colorado College.

The panel will discuss application procedures, admittance tests, subject and extra curricular requirements. After the panel discussion, rooms will be open for individual colleges and universities and Howard Thomas, Albion College, will meet with interested persons on the subject of financial aid.

The final meeting, Career Night, will be next Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 7:15 p.m. with experts in business, industry, health occupations, retail and merchandising. Adults who are contemplating a new career also are invited.

The series is co-sponsored by the South administration and Mothers' Club. Co-chairmen from the Mothers' Club for the Michigan and Out-of-State college nights are Mrs. Edward S. Evans III and Mrs. Walter B. Robinson.

Mrs. Larry Stephan served as chairman of Career Night. Faculty advisors are Frances French, Terry Lloyd and James DeWorken. Mrs. Howard Kay is in charge of logistics. Mrs. John Standish, information envelopes, Mrs. Richard Kost, hospitality room and Mrs. Charles W. Davis, Jr., publicity. Catherine Briery is liaison from the North High Parents' Club.

By Ned Sparrow
South High
"The best part of the week was getting to know people from different parts of the country," said Mark Martinielli, president of South's Latin Club.

Mark and 52 other Latin enthusiasts from Michigan attended the National Junior Classical League (NJCL) convention at the University of Knoxville in Tennessee.

The students took part in mythology tests, seminars, and athletic activities during the first week in August. "A day in Old Rome" was a high point of the activities.

The students paraded in their togas to the university athletic field for activities such as olympic finals, chariot races, and "personam gerere" slave selling meaning "to play a role." Mark was captain of Michigan's basketball and volleyball teams and participated on Michigan's four-man debate team.

When asked about plans for South's Latin Club, Mark stated, "We would like to increase membership and revive interest this year."

Mark may get that increase in Latin Club members because of an additional Latin I class at South.

Panty phantom hits the Park

A man in his late teens wearing a plaid shirt and jeans slipped into the backyard of a Nottingham home last week and snatched a woman's bodysuit off a clothesline.

The man, suspected by Park police as the area's panty thief, sped down an alley on a blue 10-speed bicycle according to the Nottingham woman, who spotted him leaving her yard at about 2 p.m.

The woman described the man as 5'9" and 160 pounds, medium build and possibly wearing a long, dark-haired wig.

Since June, police have received numerous reports about the panty snatcher who appears to hit homes in the western end of the city. Police have no suspects in the incidents.

Delinquency on the upswing?

To the Editor:
Last week I wrote a letter to the editor concerning the immediate need for re-establishing a Youth Bureau in all of the Grosse Pointes. Since then my home has been robbed and vandalized in the middle of the afternoon. This is the second time this has happened over the last eight months.

Not only do a great deal of us as parents feel that drug and alcohol abuse is at an epidemic proportion, but now the thefts to our homes are occurring more frequently and becoming a threat to our future. We are beginning to be victimized because of the dread disease that is being spread throughout our community. This disease is known as "juvenile delinquency," which is a result of the need for "illegal substances," by some of our youth. There has been an apparent increase in the use by high school students of alcohol and illegal substances and when these young adults first encounter this new way of life they do not realize the consequences it will bring.

Once "hooked" on their new habit they now have to find a way to make money fast to support it and now is when they take that first step into crime. Though sentiment resists it, reason and fact tell us crime will most frequently be committed by the young.

A great deal of us as parents feel it is in the best interests of the Grosse Pointe communities and the Board of Education to implement a "new" Youth Bureau in cooperation with the Police Departments of the five Grosse Pointes now more than ever before.

We have some fine police officers in our community who still care a great deal about the futures of our youth who need help. But they can only do so much without the manpower that is required for such an undertaking, which they once had when the youth services existed in all the Pointes. It supplied the counseling and guidance that they no longer have.

Please parents and concerned people of our communities, let's stop the thefts caused by the misuse of drugs by a great many of our youths and help them take the right road to maturity. Let's fight to get our Youth Department back. Write your feelings on this matter to your councilmen and letters to the editor.

Pointe-wide effort to save our trees

To the Editor:
Last Thursday's editorial on tree preservation asked an important question, "... wouldn't it be a good idea to appoint a committee or even an official commission to represent all of the Pointes and to develop a unified strategy in preserving our trees?"

I would like to respond that there already is a viable organization made up of official representatives from the five Grosse Pointes as well as other areas in the community. The Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council was established for the purpose of educating both citizens and community leaders in areas of comprehensive tree management. Our five representatives are Liz Kuhlman, Jean Rice, Gail Kaess, Laura Huebner, and Michael Krag.

The council meets the first Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at Standard Federal Savings, 19700 Mack. The meetings are open to the public.

An important aspect of the Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council is communication and sharing of information. Last April the council, in conjunction with the Park Tree Commission, sponsored a seminar on Dutch Elm Disease. Currently we are working on a tree planting guide to educate residents on appropriate trees for urban areas. The council is investigating measures that will help control the storage of diseased elm firewood which provides a breeding place for beetle: during the growing season.

During the latter part of September, the council organized meetings for community leaders and citizens with three researchers from the Chevron Chemical Company. These scientists would like to use the Grosse Pointes for a field test area in 1981 for a new treatment in Dutch Elm Disease control. This treatment is a biological control where a bacteria, Pseudomonas syringae, is injected into the tree and is able to irradiate the fungus that invades the vascular system of the tree. This treatment has been tested successfully in other communities, but will probably not be marketed for several years.

Letters to The Editor

The Shade Tree Council hopes that through the many activities it has promoted during the 1980 growing season, (i.e., Elm Watch, quick removal of doomed trees, replacement with appropriate trees for urban areas, treatment of minimally diseased trees with trimming and fungicides) that a unified strategy among the Pointes will emerge.

As the spread of Dutch Elm disease increases throughout the Pointes, the Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council will be available to provide information, the latest research, and alternatives available to both citizens and municipalities in dealing with this devastating problem.

Business law is a fair one

To the Editor:
In reply to your editorial, "Fingerprint Businessmen?" which appeared in the Sept. 4 issue, I believe that the ordinance is a fair one.

It would help to regulate the types of businesses that are on the Hill to make it a more harmonious place in which to shop. For example, there could be a grocery store, separate men's, women's and children's stores, a sports shop, restaurant, bank and book store. The ordinance could also help to bring a variety of different age groups into the shops.

Yours truly,
Vicky VanNote,
Of Whittier Road,
Grosse Pointe Park

Fingerprinting is degrading

To the Editor:
I would like to comment on the editorial that was printed in the Sept. 4 issue of the Grosse Pointe News called "Fingerprint Businessmen." I think it's a constitutional right for any person to start a business without having to go through governmental harassment, such as an investigation or fingerprinting.

If the people of the city find out that it's a corrupt business, then officials of the city should take the necessary legal steps to alleviate the situation.

Furthermore, if the council wants to personally investigate, there are many other avenues to pursue, rather than fingerprinting.

Grosse Pointe has never had a reputation for supporting any businesses that would be degrading to the community, nor has it ever had methods that would be degrading to the merchants.

The Punch should have a full house

To the Editor:
This summer I took my two children to see "You're A Good Man, Charlie Brown" which was presented at the Punch and Judy Theater as part of its summer family theater program. The production was very well presented. In fact, my children liked it so much they re-enacted bits and pieces from it for several days thereafter. The only unfortunate aspect was the handful of audience present.

If this play was any indication of the caliber of theater presented by the Punch and Judy, each production should be playing to a full house.

Sincerely,
Laurie L. Harris,
Of Balfour Road,
Grosse Pointe Park

Give to save, say CPA's

Americans have been donating collectibles to charity for years, not only because they want to fill museums with great paintings but because they receive a substantial tax benefit for these contributions. A recent survey indicates that of the top 11 inflation hedges, eight are "collectibles" such as coins, gems, paintings, rare books and stamps.

Although collectibles are a popular form of investment and available to the small and large investor alike, you should know what to do with them before you invest, says The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Will it be for a long-term capital gain or a short-term speculation? Do you want to provide future capital for your heirs or donate your collection to charity and reap a tax benefit?

There are some disadvantages to these types of investments. Collectibles are not liquid, meaning you can't easily sell them for cash on a short notice. Some collectibles can be expensive and may incur storage, insurance and appraisal fees. There may also be dealers or brokers fees when you sell.

"Fad" collectibles should be avoided since only the best quality objects are sure to appreciate in value. A less than perfect object even with a minor flaw could end up being worthless after the fact.

Being an investor rather than a collector makes for a better tax benefit, CPAs say. In either case your profit from the sale of an appreciated object is subject to a 40 percent capital gains tax. However, a collector cannot deduct from his income any losses he might incur.

There are tax law requirements to becoming an investor which should be checked with first before making any status change. While your tax consultant can explain the list of prerequisites, the major concern is showing a reasonable profit from your investment in two out of five years.

What Goes On at Your Library

By William Peters

During the long hot summer a number of new books were published that will appeal to Grosse Pointe readers.

Merle Miller's latest book LYNDON: AN ORAL BIOGRAPHY, (G.P. Putnam's & Sons, 1980), will, like his bestseller PLAIN SPEAKING: AN ORAL BIOGRAPHY OF HARRY S. TRUMAN, be read by tens of thousands of Americans.

These Americans will be enjoying an immensely readable oral biography of Lyndon Baines Johnson, told in large part by the people who knew him. Basic to the book are 276 oral histories the author consulted at the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library and the hundreds of interviews with family, friends and political acquaintances.

Of course an author cannot be completely objective in writing a biography, but Merle Miller comes close to it. He presents the human side of LBJ as well as the political and what emerges is a vivid portrait of one of our most controversial Presidents.

Another famous American that was no stranger to controversy was Ed Sullivan. Sullivan wouldn't believe that vaudeville was dead and for 23 years he single handedly kept vaudeville alive—cleverly disguised as a TV show.

Jerry Bowles tells the story of Ed Sullivan and the CBS TV show Toast of the Town, later known as The Ed Sullivan Show, in his book A THOUSAND SUNDAYS, (G.P. Putnam's Sons, 1980).

The first Sunday show was televised on June 20, 1948. A young Italian-American crooner and a second-rate Borscht comic were the stars of the show. Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis were their names.

Bowles introduces readers to the behind-the-scenes workings where both comedy and tragedy occurred every week. Sullivan became the biggest powerbroker in the emerging medium of television even though he couldn't sing, he couldn't dance and he couldn't act.

Some readers may recall the run-in Sullivan had with Jack Paar, then host of NBC's Tonight Show back in the early 60's. Bowles gives all the juicy details clearly demonstrating that Ed Sullivan could argue.

Billie Jean King left her arguments with the line judges at the tennis court when she teamed up with fellow tennis star Fred Stolle in writing HOW TO PLAY MIXED DOUBLES, (Simon & Schuster, 1980).

Tennis players, the authors tell us, must be compatible on three levels—personality, psychology and attitude and it doesn't hurt to have a smashing serve or a strong backhand. Court strategy is explained as is the technique for playing particular shots. No reader will play a poorer tennis game by having read this book.

Like any long married couple telling about their early days of their marriage, Ann and Art Buchwald each have a little different view of just what happened. SEEMS LIKE YESTERDAY, (Putnam, 1980), written by Ann Buchwald, interrupted by Art Buchwald, is about the Buchwalds' 13 years abroad starting in 1951 when Art was an itinerant columnist and she was in the fashion business.

Lots of celebrities are mentioned in this book including Danny Kaye, Faye Emerson, Mary Martin, Helen Hayes, Betty Bacall, Humphrey Bogart and Elizabeth Taylor. Good pickup reading. The big novel of the summer was THE FIFTH HORSEMAN, (Simon & Schuster, 1980), by Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre. This is the first novel written by the men who brought us IS PARIS BURNING? There is a terrifying timeliness to this novel involving a terrorist's threat to set off a three megaton nuclear device in New York City if an autonomous Palestinian state is not established. All the action is packed into 36 harrowing hours.

THE FIFTH HORSEMAN is already on the best seller list, it will be there for a long, long time.

Musings on the inevitable

With Michigan facing the prospect of voting on several tax reform plans in November, it is appropriate to review some of the purposes supposedly served by taxation in general.

Taxes are, for most of us, a necessary evil. But they are needed to raise the revenue to finance governments at the local, state and federal levels. The arguments arise over the extent of government, the amount of taxes required to finance its services and operation, and the way in which taxes are imposed on different segments of society.

Some rich people view taxes as merely a method of redistributing the wealth, which is one way to view the graduated income tax imposed at the federal level. Poor people and low income groups usually prefer income taxes (from which they are often exempt) to sales taxes which they claim taxes the ability to consume rather than the ability to pay. And almost everyone objects to the property tax which is in reality a necessary form of capital levy.

Because of the recession and the rising cost of government, tax rebellion has broken out in most of the country, including Michigan. People no longer believe that problems can be solved just by throwing public money at them. But while poverty cannot be ended by welfare programs, for example, the needs of the aged, the infirm and others unable to care for themselves cannot be ignored either. And the Biblical saying, "For the poor always ye have with you," is still appropriate.

SO TAXES CANNOT be eliminated. But they can be cut, or their thrust revised, or their burdens shifted. The need for support for some government services remains but it is legitimate to ask such questions as: Just how much service should government provide—and to whom? How much protection should government rules and regulation provide for the individual in a free society? And how much security does the nation need to protect it from its potential foes? Everyone has his own answers to such questions.

Taxes, of course, are as old as organized society. The Bible, according to the Gospel of Luke, reports, "There went out a decree from Caesar Augustus that all the world should be taxed." And we have to believe it was, and still is. Which is why, in part, Ben Franklin once wrote, "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

Today many people would agree with Chief Justice John Marshall who wrote back in 1819 that "the power to tax involves the power to destroy." And yet we can recall, too, Montesquieu's declaration that "in constitutional states liberty is compensation for the heavy taxation; in despotic states the equivalent of liberty is light taxes."

SO IN THE END we come to a conclusion more attuned to our day, the comment by Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr. that "Taxes are what we pay for civilized society." That is an opinion we ought to keep in mind as we examine the various tax reform proposals that will appear on the Michigan ballot in November.

High price for fairness?

Lines already are being drawn in Michigan over the proposed constitutional amendment to lower the drinking age from 21 to 19, with most of the publicity to date seeming to come from the "pro" side of the highly controversial issue which will be on the November ballot.

Thus, among those counted in favor of the proposal so far are both Detroit daily newspapers, Gov. William Milliken, the chairman of the state Liquor Control Commission, the state Board of Education, both the Republican and Democratic state political conventions and the Michigan Sheriffs' Association, representing county sheriffs from Michigan's 83 counties.

An organization called Citizens for a Fair Drinking Age, which is funded chiefly by the Michigan Licensed Beverage Association, spearheaded the campaign to obtain signatures to put the constitutional amendment on the ballot before the Legislature finally voted to do so. The beverage association obviously is protecting its own interests but many private citizens with no axes to grind also support the Citizens for a Fair Drinking Age and the amendment.

Rep. Richard Fitzpatrick, D-Battle Creek, voluntary chairman of the Citizens for a Fair Drinking Age, puts the argument on the basic issue of fairness. He says the current law "is unfair to young adults who have been deemed mature enough to vote, marry, commit to long-term bank mortgages and register for military service." He also contends the present law is unenforceable because the equal rights law prohibits refusing entry to a licensed public establishment on the basis of age discrimination.

THE SHERIFFS ALSO find the law unenforceable on the grounds that despite the raising of the age to 21 two years ago 19 and 20-year-olds have continued to drink but have shifted their drinking from licensed businesses to the back seats of cars, to keg parties and to crowded public parks.

Those are pretty impressive arguments. But what about the other side?

The Coalition for 21, which pushed the amendment that raised the drinking age to 21 two years ago, is opposed to the current proposal. So are various other church and church-related groups. And so is Michigan Living Motor News, the official publication of the Automobile Club of Michigan. And it has published some impressive statistics on the "anti" side of the argument.

In an editorial by the editor, Len Barnes, the publication cited a report by the Michigan State Police to support its opposition to reducing the drinking age. The report said that total alcohol-related accidents by 18- to 20-year-olds decreased from 12,567 in 1978 to 9,627 in 1979, fatal accidents declined by 12 percent and drunk driving arrests went down by 11 percent. In other words, accidents and fatalities declined in the specific age group affected by raising the drinking age to 21.

WHILE THIS newspaper is impressed by the fairness argument in favor of lowering the drinking age to 19 as well as by the complaints of law enforcement officials about the difficulties of enforcing the present law, those statistics cited by Len Barnes are also impressive. So the News is going to delay its decision on the issue until it can decide whether passage of the amendment would exact too high a price for the fairness it would provide for the 19 and 20-year-olds of Michigan.

From Another Pointe Of View

by Janet Mueller

The year was 1910. Women did not yet have the right to vote. And yet, things were stirring as 12 women met in the Charles P. Larned home on Woodward Avenue, where the Cultural Center now stands, to seek a means of expressing themselves culturally.

They were very "modern" women, and they determined to form a group to present plays by the "modern" writers, J. M. Barrie, for instance, and Alice Gerstenberg. Not that they'd neglect Shakespeare; they'd simply not limit themselves to the classics.

They called their group Theatre Arts Club of Detroit. Today, as this all-woman drama club enters its 70th year, it continues to retain its youthful vitality by presenting works by current writers. Opening show of the 1980-81 season will be Neil Simon's "The Good Doctor."

And Theatre Arts remains young by supporting the young. In 1952, realizing the need to encourage and assist young women enrolled in the theater department of Wayne State University, Theatre Arts established the Eva Woodbridge Victor Scholarship Fund.

The fund is supported through Theatre Arts' annual Eva Woodbridge Victor Scholarship Tea, for which Mrs. W. Victor Benjamin is opening her Ridge Road home this afternoon, at which this year's Eva Woodbridge Victor Scholarship student, (Continued on Page 6B)

Fitting tribute for Dorothy

Dorothy McGiverin co-founded the Women's District Golf Association of Detroit in 1919, and was a strong worker for all 60 years of the WDGA's existence.

She died in mid-July in Harbor Springs, but she had lived in The Pointe, on Rivard Boulevard, for many years, and it was here, at Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, that her Pointe friends gathered last Tuesday afternoon for a memorial service.

To perpetuate Dorothy McGiverin's life-long contribution and devotion to the game of golf, the Women's Golf Committee of the Country Club of Detroit and the Women's District Golf Association are establishing a memorial fund in her honor. The WDGA's annual stroke play tournament will in the future be known as the Dorothy McGiverin Stroke Play Tournament. The fund is being established at the Country Club of Detroit for the purpose of purchasing a silver trophy for this event; through contributions to it, Dorothy's fellow golfers have an opportunity to display their love and appreciation for the WDGA's founder.

Checks should be made payable to "The Dorothy McGiverin Memorial Fund" and sent c/o the Country Club of Detroit, 220 Country Club Drive, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

Lise Stevens wed to Bruce R. Taylor

Alencon lace accents bride's gown of white English net over slipper satin; her bouquet features lilies

At home in Kerby Road are the Bruce Robert Taylors, who vacationed in Wyoming and Colorado following their wedding Friday evening, June 13, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Both the bride, the former Lise Michele Stevens, daughter of George Stevens, of Lansing, and the late Mrs. Stevens, and the bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Taylor, of Grosse Pointe Boulevard, are seniors at Wayne State University School of Medicine.

The former Miss Stevens chose a gown of white English net over white slipper satin for the 8 o'clock ceremony at which Dr. Ray Kiehl presided.

Alencon lace accented her illusion neckline and Empire waistline. A satin border gave the gown a double skirt effect.

Her veil, caught by a modified Juliet cap, fell the length of her chapel train and was accented with Alencon lace appliques and seed pearls. Her bouquet featured lilies, stephanotis and baby's-breath.

She was attended by honor matron Mrs. Gerald Poppy, of East Lansing, and bridesmaids Mrs. Barry Stevens, a sister-in-law, and Mrs. Jeffrey Taylor and Mrs. Douglas Taylor, sisters-in-law of the bridegroom.

They wore two-piece dresses, featuring maple cambrics and floor length, removable skirts, and ivory-colored, drape-necked tunics, and carried arrangements of snowball mums and stephanotis.

Douglas Taylor was his brother's best man. Guests were seated by Jeffrey Taylor and by Gregory Taylor, of Fort Collins, Colo., two other brothers of the bridegroom, and by Barry Stevens, of Lansing, brother of the bride, and Peter D. Haller, of Portland, Me.

For her son's wedding and the reception following at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, Mrs. Taylor selected a floor length dress of pale blue chiffon. Her flowers were cymbidium orchids and baby's-breath.

In attendance were Mrs. Nell Taylor, of Grosse Pointe Farms, the bridegroom's grandmother, and Mrs. Thelma Mulholland, of Atlanta, the bride's grandmother, as well as the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Burch Rivers, of Holiday, Fla., the bridegroom's great-uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Erdman, of Chicago Heights, Ill., and the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mulholland, of Grand Blanc.

Orchestra Hall steering committee; (standing, left and right) MRS. JEFFREY W. BARRY, the steering committee's performance coordinator, and MRS. MADELYN C. LAW, the committee's assistant chairman.

The Junior League announced this week, on the eve of Save Orchestra Hall's 10th anniversary, that it has adopted a new program for Orchestra Hall as one of its community projects for the next two years. It was first learned on Sept. 17, 1970, that the acoustically perfect hall was to be torn down to make way for a fast food restaurant.

Save Orchestra Hall, a massive community effort led by members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, saved it.

Susan Davis' Junior League committee has been working through the summer months to develop a special, on-going program to utilize Orchestra Hall's facilities during the daytime hours. Besides Jane Barry and Lyn Law, that committee includes the Mesdames A. J. Glasterer Jr., Ramon M. Brinkman, Roger Stanton, Verne C. Hampton

II, Charles B. VanDusen, Stephen F. Wasinger, William D. Grierson, Frank P. Henderson, Allen B. Osborne, Douglas W. MacKelcan, Charles A. DuCharme III, Donald F. Chamberlin, Michael A. Conway, Douglas W. Gmeiner, Thomas R. Quilter III and William F. Zoufal, and Diane Norton.

They have been able to structure a program of a minimum of 10 performances during the 1980-81 season, aimed primarily at school-going children, senior citizens and handicapped children and adults. "The league will provide the entire funding for the first year," Mrs. Davis explains, "and a portion of the costs for the second year, with Friends for Orchestra Hall supplying the remaining portion."

By the third season, total responsibility for the program will be assumed by the Friends for Orchestra Hall.

At the anniversary celebration, Paul Ganson, president of Save Orchestra Hall, Inc., thanked the Junior League for its initiative in bringing this project to Orchestra Hall. More than 90 members of the Junior League have signed up to participate in the project.

Mr. Ganson also thanked Friends for Orchestra Hall for their financial commitment for the second and third years of the program.

Ms. VanDewater noted that the league's leadership in this area will help fulfill one of Orchestra Hall's main functions: bringing performances by important artists to audiences who may otherwise find it difficult or impossible to participate.

Many donate to Detroit's Music Hall Center

More than 600 Detroit area corporations, foundations and individuals contributed to the non-profit Music Hall Center's operating fund drive during 1979-80, and support from these private donors, combined with an operating grant received from the Michigan Council for the Arts, brought total contributions for the year to more than $420,000.

This significant level of giving furthers Music Hall's efforts to match a $75,000 National Endowment for the Arts Challenge Grant, awarded to the center in October of 1979. The past year's donations have enabled Music Hall to meet 95 percent of its initial matching requirements two years ahead of the NEA's deadline.

Music Hall is using its award to build a Cash Flow Fund to maintain the smooth level of fiscal operation of a performing arts center.

The campaign for corporate contributions, led in 1979-80 by Bendix Chairman William M. Agee, raised nearly half of the total donations received. Major corporate donors included the Bendix Corporation, Burroughs Corporation, the Chrysler Corporation Fund, Ford Motor Company Fund, General Motors Corporation, the J. L. Hudson Company, K mart Corporation, Masco Corporation and the National Bank of Detroit.

Leading foundation contributors were the Henry Ford II Fund, McGregor Fund, the Skillman Foundation and the Richard H. and Eloise Jenks Webber Charitable Fund.

Music Hall is also raising money to restore the theater.

Festive Colony Town Club day

When is a fund raiser a social affair? Members of Colony Town Club think it is when the setting is the gracious Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Gaukler Point, where they invited husbands and a few friends to join them in mid-September for hors d'oeuvres and cocktails served on the large patio overlooking Lake St. Clair.

Dinner followed in the gallery, where seating was at round tables centered with large, cut glass bowls filled with flowers from members' gardens. Mrs. Alfred Massnick had the responsibility and delight of arranging the centerpiece.

General chairpersons were Mrs. Walter G. Bernard, chairman of the Cancer Loan Closet of Greater Detroit, and Mrs. Harvey G. Groehn. Party proceeds will be used for the maintenance of the Cancer Loan Closet, established by the club in 1947 for the purpose of giving aid and comfort to cancer patients.

The Mesdames Bernard and Groehn received advice and assistance whenever needed from Mrs. Oswald Zeidler, chairman of projects, and a committee including Mrs. Fred A. Rohn and Mrs. Massnick.

Conversation during cocktails and dinner revolved, of course, around the very interesting Ford House and its furnishings, and there was a bit of reminiscing about the very successful garage sale the club had held earlier in the month at the Balfour Road home of Mrs. Richard Parks. Proceeds from this project, also, will go to maintain the Cancer Loan Closet.

Constitution to be topic for Josiah Harmer DAR

The General Josiah Harmer Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will celebrate Constitution Week at a meeting Saturday, Sept. 20, at the Eastland Village Drive residence of Mrs. Forbes Lutton who will be assisted by co-hostesses Miss Frances Bidwell and Mrs. R. Banks Clarke.

The program will deal with the origin of the Constitution and the men who worked out its provisions. Also on the agenda is a short discussion, to be led by Mrs. John Buchanan, on Antony Sutton and Patrick Wood's controversial book "Trilateralism Over Washington."

Mrs. Buchanan, Mrs. Clarke and Mrs. F.P. Davis will be attending the 80th annual meeting of the Michigan DAR Tuesday, Sept. 23, in Flint.

Shurly-Bucacink vows exchanged

Newlyweds are making their home in Woodhaven after a Northern Michigan vacation

A reception at the Dearborn Inn followed the wedding of Victoria Maria Bucacink and Robert Fulwell Shurly Saturday morning, August 23, in Saint James Chapel, Grosse Ile. The Reverend William Evans presided at the 10:30 o'clock ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bucacink, of Country Club Drive, wore a short-sleeved, voile gown accented with Cluny lace and featuring a square sweetheart neckline and an Empire, horizontal, lace band skirt.

Cluny lace also trimmed the bride's old-fashioned picture hat and fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of silk carnations, roses and baby's-breath.

Wearing long, yellow, spaghetti strapped sundresses and shawls were honor maid Mary Clare Toffanetti and bridesmaids Wendy Dupuis and Katherine Van Hoven, sisters of the bridegroom, and Linda Schmidt, and junior bridesmaid Patricia Bucacink, sister of the bride.

Each attendant carried a cascade of silk daisies, yellow roses and baby's-breath and wore daisies with yellow streamers in her hair.

Henry Grimm acted as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Richard Shurly, of Grosse Ile. In the usher corps were John Bucacink, brother of the bride, Edmund Shurly Jr., brother of the bridegroom, and Michael Dupuis, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

The mother of the bride wore a street length chiffon gown, champagne in color, featuring a wrap-around front and a handkerchief hem. She also wore a corsage of coral roses. The bridegroom's mother chose a street length gown of dusty rose, with an attached scarf. She wore a corsage of pink cymbidium orchids.

The newlyweds vacationed in northern Michigan. They will make their home in Woodhaven.

LISA MAE HORN, daughter of the Harry Horns, of Richmond, Ind., became the bride of Mr. Maghielse, son of the George T. Maghielses, of Lakeland Avenue, Saturday, August 23, in Richmond's Trinity Lutheran Church.

Miss Horn bride of Mr. Maghielse

ASWA to mark 40 good years

The Detroit Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants (ASWA), chartered Sept. 28, 1940, will celebrate its anniversary by honoring Grace Dimmer, a founder of the chapter and the first woman granted a CPA certificate in the State of Michigan, at a scholarship fund raising dinner Tuesday, Sept. 30, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

ASWA was organized in 1938, and has grown to 117 active chapters throughout the United States. Membership presently exceeds 6,300, and since 1974 has been open to men.

Grace Dimmer attended Walsh College and Detroit City College. She was granted her CPA certificate after completing her experience with a national firm, then started her own firm which later merged to become Shaw, Olson & Dimmer.

After Miss Dimmer retired, her firm was merged with Arthur Young & Company.

Featured speaker at the anniversary dinner will be William R.D. Martin, dean of the School of Management, University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Mr. Martin attended Canada's McMaster University and holds a Master of Business Administration degree in Industrial Relations-Economics from the University of Chicago. His topic will be "Motivation - The Lost Work Ethic."

Further information and reservations may be obtained by contacting Susan Clark at 354-8000.

Professional education and advancement are high priorities for ASWA. Regularly scheduled chapter meetings feature programs of educational and technical interest. Area meetings, spring conferences and annual meetings provide further opportunities for continuing education.

Many chapters engage in worthwhile community projects. All have outreach programs to interest high school and college students in the field of accounting, as well as to assist and encourage women returning to interrupted careers.

The Detroit Chapter sponsors student membership programs and offers scholarships. National scholarships, funded by the Educational Foundation of ASWA, are offered annually to accounting majors.

The second will be held today, Thursday, Sept. 18, at 2 p.m. at the Federation of Women's Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit on Fenkell Avenue, two blocks west of Greenfield.

Another Art Form

Detroit has a new showplace for art, the Sarkis Galleries, dedicated yesterday at the Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design, open to the public for the first time today.

The facility is named after Sarkis Sarkisian, former director of the Society of Arts and Crafts (now the Center for Creative Studies), and, fittingly, its first show features Sarkis' paintings from public and private collections.

Among them is "Woman with Bird," loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Ford II. Other Pointers who have contributed to the retrospective include Mr. and Mrs. Wendell W. Anderson Jr., Mrs. Allan Sheldon III and Mrs. Joseph Vance.

The show will run through October 31. Exhibition hours are 8:30 to 4:30 o'clock Monday through Friday. There is no admission charge, and free parking is available on the center's campus.

Petanque, Anyone?

Three Pointe residents are members of the team from the Petanque Club of Detroit representing the United States at the Petanque World Championship which opens today in Nevers, France. Competition continues through Sunday.

Thirty-two teams from more than 20 countries are vying for the international title.

The local sportsmen involved are Rene Robert, an engineer with Ford Motor, Jean Fresnais, a vice-president of Burroughs' International Division, and Raymond Tirikian, who is affiliated with General Motors. The fourth team member is Camille Pontols, of Mount Clemens.

Petanque, derived from an ancient sport Le Jeu Provençal, is the immensely popular French game of bowls. It is played on a hard surface or earthen court rather than on grass. It originated in 1910 in La Ciotat, on the southern coast of France between Marseilles and Toulon.

"The French Federation of Petanque has more than 400,000 members," says Rene Robert, "and it is estimated that in France more than two million people play the game."

Locally, the Pentaque Club of Detroit plays regularly during the outdoor season on the Trombly School playground. The club attracts members from all parts of the Detroit metropolitan area.

A San Francisco team represented the United States at last year's championship playoffs. This year, M. Alfred Levitt, president of the United States Federation of Petanque Clubs, chose the Detroit group "because of our excellent players," says Robert.

All show judges received a beautiful plate, roses decouped under glass made by Mrs. Biglin. A table setting featured the same pattern. The white flowered plates were placed on a dark green cloth, and crystal complimented the setting.

First prize blue ribbons for single miniature blooms were received by Mr. and Mrs.

John Stephens (for three all different roses) and Mr. and Mrs. William May.

Hybrid Teas brought blue ribbons to Joyce Russenberger, B. Martin, Mr. Desmet, Kenneth Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens, Trudy Marchetti, Mrs. Franklin Williams and Irene Danasuski.

Of high interest in the show was the "English Box" which consists of six hybrid tea roses, head only exposed — no leaves. Flowers must be of uniform size and uniform degree of openness. They are all of different variety. This special prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. Stephens.

Offer classes in mothercraft

Saint John Hospital is offering eight sessions of free Prenatal Mothercraft Classes as a special service to members of the community on Tuesday afternoons starting next Tuesday, Sept. 23, from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. in the Saint John Education Center.

Pre-registration is not required; anyone interested in attending should go to the information desk in the hospital lobby on the day of the lecture to receive directions to the conference room.

The program's aim is to provide information and instruction for the prenatal health of expectant mothers and the care of infants. Among the topics to be discussed is an explanation of the types of anesthesia which may be administered during delivery.

Hygiene and nutrition during pregnancy will also be covered, as will breast feeding, formula preparation, a baby bath demonstration and the first two years of the parenting experience.

Saint John, which has been offering Mothercraft classes since 1955, has added two special programs on Cesarean Birth this year. Part I will be offered Oct. 21, Part II on Aug. 28.

Further information may be obtained by contacting Geraldine Condon, R.N., B.S., nursing instructor, at 343-3380.

The Kerr House

The Kerr House is a Victorian mansion built in the 1880's in Grand Rapids, Ohio. Nostalgia of the past has been combined with the modern conveniences and luxuries of a health retreat. The emphasis of The Kerr House weekly program is revitalization. Yoga exercises, natural foods, massage, facials, reflexology, sauna, mineral bath and whirlpool renew the weariness of souls, and simply reinforce the positive. Weight loss (for those who need it) and muscle tone are welcome fringe benefits.

Gift Certificates are available.

The morning Fran Murray took her youngest child to kindergarten, she proceeded straight to the Michigan State University campus and enrolled as a freshman.
Today, 12 years after earning Bachelors and Masters degrees, her enthusiasm for education is still reflected in the newly revised handbook, "Adult Female Human Being in the 1980s."

Fitness for mothers classes are offered
The Macomb YWCA is offering Pre-Natal and Post-Natal Fitness classes beginning Monday, Sept. 22. Pre-Natal Fitness combines breathing techniques with simple exercises for the expectant mother. Post-Natal Fitness is a program designed to help new mothers combat fatigue and tone up muscles after delivery.
A doctor's permission is required for participation in both classes. Further information may be obtained by calling 772-4435 or stopping in at the Macomb YWCA, located on East Ten Mile Road in East Detroit.

Co-authored by Murray and Dr. Mildred Erickson, now retired from the post of assistant dean of MSU's Lifelong Education Programs, the publication advises women that they should learn more to earn more.
Women, on the average, now earn 60 cents for every dollar men earn, but economics is not the only reason to explore the idea of college, according to Murray.

Woods church women to meet
The Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church Women's Association will open its fall season with a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. next Tuesday, Sept. 23.
Current president Mrs. Joe Craig will preside, and devotions will be given by the association's first president, Mrs. Gordon Cameron.
Mrs. Richard (Virginia) Knobloch will speak on "Listening with Your Heart."
September is traditionally the time for the association's yearly in-gathering and dedication of sewing and knitting projects, cancer pads and baby layettes for the mission field.

Phase I focus is on stress

This Sunday, Sept. 21, at 7:45 p.m. Bob Marrs, a Certified Social Worker, counselor at Macomb Community College and member of the Nurses Counseling Associates, will discuss "Handling Stress and Life Situations."

On the contrary, each of these sales was the direct result of a marketing program geared individually to the specific strengths and details of that particular property. This attention to detail coupled with our broad experience in "varied" and "creative" financing technique will make the difference for you too.

High Tar Smokers Convert To Merit.

"Best tasting low tar I've tried," report MERIT smokers in latest survey.

Taste Quest Ends

Latest research provides solid evidence that MERIT is a satisfying long-term taste alternative to high tar cigarettes.

Smoker Tests Offer More Proof

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar.

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed.

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.

new fall shows

THURS., SEPT 18
9:00 PM NYT NBC SHOGUN (PART FOUR). This engrossing adventure story began on the 15th. To update you a bit, Richard Chamberlain stars as Blackthorne, a cunning shipwrecked English navigator who becomes a samurai (knight) in 17th century Japan. It involves Blackthorne's imprisonment, tension filled escapes and his forbidden love affair with beautiful Lady Mariko (Shimada). A tale of political intrigue in feudal Japan.

Toshiro Mifune, the world renowned Japanese actor (The "John Wayne" of his country) co-stars as the powerful war lord plotting to become supreme military dictator. One of the big problems that faced Jerry London, the director of this gaint mini-series, was overcoming the language barrier. You will not have any trouble understanding this powerful presentation with its unique manner of handling the language barrier.

On with the fourth episode.

Pointer of Interest

By Janet Mueller

She joined ("so many years ago I can't remember") because of the people. "I had young children at home, and I needed the companionship of women who had the same kind of interests I had." She stayed because of the people. "Why do I remain active in the American Association of University Women? Definitely, it's the people: the varied people AAUW attracts. Young, Middle-aged, Older. Women who have worked. Women who haven't. Women who work outside the home, and women who are homemakers.

"It's an amazing organization. There is much similarity between the members—and, at the same time, so much that is different."

There is only one requirement for AAUW membership. You must hold a baccalaureate degree from an accredited United States college or university or from a foreign institution recognized by the International Federation of University Women.

It's non-exclusive. "You DO NOT HAVE TO BE INVITED to join," Phyllis emphasizes. And, once in, you do not have to do anything; attend so many meetings a year, for instance, or put in so many volunteer hours on an AAUW-approved project. "You are free to join the study groups you want, to pursue your own interests. You are free to do nothing but pay your dues." Of course, Phyllis adds, the more you're involved, the more you enjoy an organization.

Right now, she's very much involved, at the beginning of a two-year term as president of the AAUW's Grosse Pointe Branch, with 400 members one of the three largest (the others are the Birmingham and Dearborn branches) in the state.

This morning, she's over at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Fellowship Hall, where the Pointe Branch is holding its autumn new member orientation.

You're welcome to join her there. Each of the branch's many special interest study groups has set up a display, and there are hostesses on hand to answer all your questions.

Next week, she'll be over at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church on Moross road, just up the street from Saint John Hospital, where the annual Pointe Branch AAUW Used Book Sale opens to the public Tuesday, September 23, and will run through Sunday, September 28.

Why the books? That's the reason Phyllis is almost buried in books in the picture that goes with this article. That's what a nice girl from Ironwood, Mich., is doing in a place like this.

Dick Rabbideau is from Ironwood, too; he and Phyllis have known each other since the 10th grade. They both went on to the University of Michigan, married, and Dick went on to Law School while Phyllis began to have babies. There were two Rabbideau daughters by the time he graduated.

Ann is 20 now, a junior at Boston College, majoring in Economics and Computer Science. Karen, 18, is a sophomore Computer Science/Accounting major at Muskingum College in New Concord, O., the home of John Glenn.

Dick is with Dykema, Gossett, Spencer, Goodnow and Trigg.

Two Rabbideau sons, Paul, 12, who has just begun his first year at Brownell, and David, nine, still at Kerby, complete the family. It's been a Pointe family for 15 years. When Phyllis and Dick first moved to the Detroit area, they rented a house in St. Clair Shores. The expressway ran only to Eight Mile Road then, and it took Dick as long to get from Thirteen Mile Road to Eight Mile Road as it did to get from Eight Mile Road downtown.

In to the Pointe. Commuting convenience, coupled with the fact that Ann and Karen were getting on, and The Pointe schools had an excellent reputation, prompted the Rabbideaus' move farther in toward the city.

Phyllis became involved in her new community. There were Brownies and Girl Scouts. There was a stint as coach of a Neighborhood Club-sponsored girls' softball team. There was the Health Education Council, and two years' work developing and implementing Grosse Pointe's volunteer, after-school Sex Education program.

What can a mother with four children do? Well . . . Phyllis became interested in the Rehabilitation Institute, and continues to volunteer at least once a month in the Rehab Institute's Gift Shop.

She joined the Junior League, chaired its Public Affairs Committee, worked with her Junior League "class" at the end of their probationary year to produce a film on poison prevention. "250,000 Ways to Destroy A Child's Life Without Leaving Home," with guidance from Dr. Regine Aronow, director of the Poison Control Center at Children's Hospital of Michigan. It was an international hit, and is still being shown.

Always, she's loved to garden. "And we travel when we can—depending on how many children we can collect." There've been family trips and trips for two. The Rabbideaus have a place on St. Croix, and formerly had one at L'Arbre Croche.

It seems to Phyllis that there's never been enough time for all the reading she'd like to do. This summer, though, she had a plan. "I spent the summer reading books that pertain to women and women's issues." About to begin her first Pointe Branch AAUW presidential year, she thought she should be aware of all the current, causes and concerns affecting women's lives today.

Always AAUW

Always, there's been AAUW. The Pointe Branch became involved in Celebrating Families last year. Phyllis worked on the Celebrating Families Almanac and Family Fair. She has served the AAUW in many capacities, including chairman of the Pointe Branch's 1978 Used Book Sale.

The Used Book Sale is the one project of the year that involves virtually every Pointe AAUW member, for hundreds of hands are needed to sort, price, pick up and set up the thousands of books that change hands during the six-day event.

It's not a simple affair. Sunday is moving day, when the hardcovers and paperbacks, hobby magazines, records and sheet music come into the church hall. Monday is set-up day, when the merchandise is arranged according to topics. Cookbooks on this table, novels on that one, foreign language books over there . . .

The sale opens Tuesday, and on that day there is a 50 percent mark-up on all items. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday hours are 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. All merchandise comes down in price by 50 percent Saturday, Sept. 27, when the sale runs from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The final day is Sunday, Sept. 28. Hours are 1 to 6 p.m. This is "bag sale" day—for $1.50, you can fill a shopping bag with as many books as it will hold. "And we provide the bags," Phyllis says.

Bouquet of delights

She's delighted that, this year, the Grosse Pointe School System cooperated with the Pointe AAUW and rented the branch a room in which to store its books before the sale.

She's delighted that, once again, there'll be a silent auction of some of the rarer donations. "That's something I started when I was chairman." Among this year's choice items are a six-volume, leatherbound second edition of "The Life of Scott" and—this is really special!—Greenhill's 1705 "Treatise on the Art of Embalming."

But most of all she's delighted that all proceeds from the book sale go to the AAUW Educational Foundation, to promote the goals and purposes of AAUW. The foundation is the tax-exempt branch of AAUW. "This means we can give our donors tax receipts for substantial donations."

Phyllis is also delighted that the foundation is looking into possibilities for broadening its scope to handle the changes women are facing in today's society, but that it's not throwing out the baby with the bath water.

"We will continue to provide fellowships for women doing graduate work. Currently, we offer some public service projects and research grants. We have had a few of our own Pointe Branch members receive funds through Project RENEW; that's designed to assist women who would like to return to school, brush up their skills, but do not—as yet—have a specific goal in mind."

Thinking ahead

And the foundation is thinking ahead. How about a continuing education conference for women? How about getting into providing increased services for the more than one-half of the AAUW membership that works outside the home?

AAUW will hold its 100th birthday party in 1982 in Boston. Phyllis Rabbideau will be there in her official capacity as Pointe Branch president; if she weren't president, she'd probably be there anyway. That's the way she feels about AAUW.

"We're the largest and oldest national organization for women. We are basically concerned with the advancement of women, with action and advocacy, research and lifelong learning."

Back in the 1880's, that last sentence could have been spoken by one of the founders of AAUW. They were Today's Women. In 1980, AAUW members still are.

They've been working since 1971 on their Centennial Fund. Their goal is to raise $10 million for new endowment money, as a birthday present to themselves, and to the women of tomorrow.

Rice stuns Norsemen, 27-0

By Tim Saunders
North High

Billed as the battle of two high school powers, the Grosse Pointe North-Brother Rice varsity football game turned into a one-sided affair on a wet and dreary Saturday afternoon.

The Warriors set the tone early as Glenn Shagena returned the opening kickoff 82 yards for a Rice touchdown. Rice went on to defeat the Norsemen, 27-0. The loss may have spoiled North's chances at the State championship.

The rest of the first quarter progressed quietly but ended with Rice knocking on the door again. The Warriors marched down the field and with 1:11 gone in the second quarter Paul Jokisch squirmed through the hands of John Clem to cap a 44-yard touchdown drive. Rice made good on the two-point conversion to give them a 14-0 lead.

Midway through the second quarter North's offense looked to be on the move when John Clem, at quarterback, went to the air for the first time in the game. He hit Scott Eaton for a 10-yard gain, but one play later Rice's John Bergman intercepted a pass intended for Craig Stafford and brought the ball back to the Rice 48.

The Warriors failed to take advantage of that turnover, but with 3:25 left in the half Rice capitalized on a great defensive play by Fred Kunkell who batted a pass out of the air, controlled it and ran 31 yards for the touchdown. The extra point was wide and the half ended with Rice leading North, 20-0.

Warrior runningback Mike Neff, who finished with 71 yards rushing, led his team back inside the North 10-yard line. The North defense came up with some vicious hits, particularly by Gregg Langone, and forced a Rice fumble and John Caputo pounced on it for the Norsemen.

On the next play, Rice got another of the game's many breaks when they recovered a North fumble just shy of the 10-yard line. Quarterback Dave Yarema wasted no time as he lofted a pass into the hands of his receiver in the endzone to put Rice ahead 25-0. The extra point was good to cap the scoring.

In the final 12 minutes, North tried to avert a shutout. The best chance came when they recovered a Rice fumble after Langone nailed the ball back to the Warriors on a North punt.

Quarterback Clem hit junior Chris Neal with two passes to put North on the Rice 21.

Mike Eugenio gained his second first down of the drive to the 10-yard line and then with second left went around the defense and was headed toward the endzone untouched. Clem spotted him but at the last minute a defender got a hand on the pass and knocked it away.

It was the first time in over a year that North had been shutout. The last time was in 1978 in a game against Lakeshore.

Rice's defense was impressive as they limited North to just 39 yards in total rushing. Few teams will be able to control the Norsemen's strong running game as well this season.

North hopes to regroup in time for tomorrow's game at Warren Cousino.

A win over Cousino is a must if the Norsemen hope to reestablish themselves as the favorites to win the Bi County League title.

Winning week ends for North harriers

North's harriers finished in second place in the prestigious Holly Invitational last weekend, and posted a dual meet win over Mt. Clemens earlier in the week.

On Sept. 9, North took an easy 45-20 win over Mt. Clemens. The only bright spot for the Bathers was their number one runner Tim Brady. Brady, who is a contender for all-state honors, ran an amazingly fast time at North's treacherous home course to spoil North's shutout.

On Saturday, Sept. 13, North finished behind a strong Ann Arbor Pioneer squad at Holly. Sophomore Joe Schmidt, who doesn't seem to be feeling the pressure of following in his brother's footsteps, led the team with a dazzling second place finish.

Senior Mark Rolain ran an outstanding race to finish 10th in a field of over two hundred. Another commendable performance was that of senior John Pamerleau who finished a respectable 21st.

Although they ran well, doubts still linger about the future of this year's squad. Dan Hammer, North's number three runner, has been hampered by injuries and illness and has missed the last two meets.

Another problem facing this year's team is the time difference between the first and fifth men. Since the top five runners' places are added to obtain the team score, it is important that these five remain within 20 or 30 seconds of each other. However, at the Holly meet, there was almost a 60-second span between North's top five. The harriers have one month before the state championships in which to close the gap.

North's junior varsity team finished first at Holly to successfully defend their reign on that competition. Doug Shepke led the Norsemen to victory.

North's next big meet is the Shrine Invitational which will be held at Marshbank in West Bloomfield this Saturday, Sept. 20. The biggest dual meet of the year will be against the tough Warren Cousino team. That classic cross-country dual will be held on Oct. 19 at Vernier hill at 4 p.m.

The girls' team has begun another successful season by finishing first against Mt. Clemens and sixth out of a field of 25 at Holly. Kathy Schmidt and Martha Whitaker seem to be taking charge of the team. They finished seventh and 14th at the Holly meet.

Knights win second, 19-6

The University Liggett varsity football team upped its record to 2-0 on Sept. 12 by defeating Flint Academy, 19-6.

Kevin Jackson returned the opening kick-off 45 yards to put the Knights in good field position and tailback Jerry Parks capped a 43-yard drive by slashing off right tackle for a four-yard touchdown run. John Polizzi's extra point gave ULS a 7-0 lead.

Midway through the second quarter, Jerry Parks scored again on a three-yard plunge to give the Knights a 13-0 half-time lead.

On ULS's second offensive play of the fourth quarter, quarterback Jeff Parks hit end Jackson with a perfect execution of a cross-back play action pass for a 55-yard scoring toss. The conversion pass attempt was unsuccessful.

Flint Academy got on the scoreboard with their own 55-yard touchdown pass play from quarterback Tony Price to wide receiver Tom Triplett. Their conversion run failed and that ended the scoring for the day.

Senior tailback Parks sparked the offense again this week with another 100 yard plus performance — carrying the ball 17 times for 145 yards (8.5 yd. avg.) and two touchdowns.

Sophomore quarterback Parks directed the offense competently and completed five of seven passes for 97 yards.

Upback Bill Hoey did a fine job blocking and running while the starting offensive line of Dave Chamberlin, Mike Kirkpatrick, John Polizzi, Phil McCormick, Charles Culp, Ron Schocker, and Mike McCormick continually opened gaping holes at the line of scrimmage for the ULS Backs.

The stingy ULS defense held Flint Academy scoreless for over three quarters to give the Eagles their first loss of the season.

The linebacking trio of co-captains Parks-Jeff Peters and Jackson total 46 tackles in their individual defensive statistics. Even though Peters, a junior, playing with a shoulder injury, he still managed a solo tackle, five first hits, and eight assisted tackles. Inverts Robert Green and Dave Van Elslander did an excellent job of containing the outside run and pass protecting while the defensive line, spearheaded by Mike Kirkpatrick, Joe Walker, John Polizzi, Dave Chamberlin, and Gil Jackson did an outstanding job of plugging up the middle.

The Knights travel to nearby Harper Woods High School to take on the Pioneers tomorrow, Sept. 19 at 4 p.m.

Field hockey play is Sept. 18

University Liggett School girls began their 1980 field hockey season with a sense of enthusiasm as pre-season practices opened Aug. 25. Coach Muriel Brock hosted a week of drills and play at the ULS fields for all interested players in the Detroit-Birmingham area.

Hockey camp was a great success and the girls skills were improved as a result of the coaching. Players from the Detroit Field Hockey Association team were present as coaches. The Michigan State University varsity coach also was present. ULS players also attended a play-

Actual season play begins tomorrow, Sept. 18. Brock is assisted by two teachers new to ULS, Francie Dobbin will coach the reserve teams and Mary Fish will act as athletic trainer and advisor.

All three coaches anticipate an exciting season as the general caliber of hockey has improved greatly over the last few years. Seniors returning this year include Sheila Howenstein, Evie Scoville, Chrissy Tolleson, Carol Cracchiolo, Chrissy Ford, Mary Warren, Cindy Head, Tracy Taber, Sandy Noble, and Amy Durno.

Slow start for soccer team

By Bill Gore
ULS

The ULS Kickers got off to a slow start this year by dropping a 4-1 decision to the Hamtramck Cosmos on Sept. 9. Although the young team was able to hold off the Cosmos during the first half, they couldn't contain them during the second half when the Cosmos exploded for four goals.

'Bicycle Challenge' aids Mich. Lung Assoc.

Detroit's own rock group, The Rockets, and radio station WWWW (W4) announcer Howard Stern, have issued a challenge to all tri-county area residents to take the Michigan Bicycling Federation's Bicycle Challenge to benefit the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM).

The Challenge is a 50-mile achievement ride to be held at Metro Beach-Metropark on Saturday, September 20, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Also included will be a Tourist Evaluation Competition (T.E.C. test) of bicycle safety abilities. Stern and The Rockets are serving as honorary chairmen of the Challenge.

Participants in the Challenge Ride, co-sponsored by Radio Station W4 and Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan will raise funds for the Lung Association by collecting pledges for every mile they ride. The Challenge Ride will begin at Metro Beach and continue along the closed inner lane of Metropolitan Parkway to L'Anse Creuse and back. One lap is seven miles and each rider is challenged to complete the course seven times.

Each entrant will receive a special event patch and will be eligible for a package of additional prizes. Dinner with W-4's Howard Stern, tickets to a Detroit concert and appearance by a major rock group, a one year membership at a Vic Tanny Health Spa, a selection of 10-speed bicycles, an array of jeans from Scarborough Fair stores, record albums by top artists, a racquetball racquet, and many more prizes are available.

In addition, each Challenge rider raising $25 or more for ALASEM will receive a T-shirt. Trophies will be awarded for high points achieved in the riding and proficiency sections of the Challenge Ride and T.E.C. test.

According to Mike Walden, president of the Michigan Bicycling Federation, "The Challenge Ride is not a race. It is an achievement ride for fun and enjoyment with a chance to improve riding skills in the process."

"We want to promote healthier minds and bodies in helping the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan strive toward a healthier community, free from lung disease."

Challenge sponsor forms to join Howard Stern and The Rockets in the Bicycle Challenge are available from local bicycle dealers, Radio Station W4 or by calling ALASEM at 961-1697.

In 1950, 57 percent of the general public were church members. That increased to 63 percent by 1958, and is 67 percent today.

Blue Devils lose twice

South's JV drops two close games

By Scott Bowles
South High

South's junior varsity football team came within half a minute of winning its opening game, but the Notre Dame Irish ran back a kickoff for the winning touchdown with only 30 seconds on the clock to beat the Blue Devils, 12-8.

In the second game a week later, South lost to East Detroit, 21-6.

In the first game, on Sept. 4, the Irish struck early in the first quarter with a six-yard touchdown run to make the score 6-0. Notre Dame missed the extra point attempt.

There was no more scoring until the fourth quarter, when the Irish threatened with a first down and four yards to go for a touchdown. South's defense, refused to give and held Notre Dame to two yards on four attempts.

South then marched 98 yards for a touchdown in a five and a half minute drive. The touchdown came on a six-yard run by John Fisher with only 30 seconds left to play.

The two extra points were scored on a two-yard run by Steve Suminski. However, upon scoring, Suminski threw the ball in the air, which is illegal.

Although the extra points were counted, making the score 8-6, a 15-yard penalty was tacked on for the kickoff. Instead of kicking from its own 40 yard line, South had to kick from its 25 and Notre Dame scored the game winner.

JV offensive guard Dave Desmyter of the Blue Devils, said "The last six minutes would have made you cry."

In last week's game at home, East Detroit beat South 21-6. The first quarter of the game was filled with errors, with each team fumbling twice.

South scored first on a 50-yard run in the second quarter, by Eric Woerner, making the score 6-0 after an unsuccessful extra point attempt. East Detroit threatened twice in the second quarter but came up short both times.

With less than two minutes to play in the first half, the Shamrocks drove to the Blue Devil's seven but were stopped as time ran out.

Trailing 6-0 starting the second half, East Detroit drove 53 yards for a touchdown, which came on a one-yard plunge, and a two-point conversion made the score 8-6.

In the fourth quarter, East Detroit again drove 53 yards for a touchdown, this one also on a one-yard touchdown run. A one-point conversion made it 15-6.

South made two comeback attempts but fell short on both occasions. The first attempt was halted when the Blue Devils fell inches short of a first down on East Detroit's 19-yard line.

With South on its own 40-yard line and only 1:24 left in the game, an East Detroit defender intercepted a short pass by quarterback Bill Crow, the seventh turnover of the game, and ran all the way for a touchdown, sealing the 21-6 victory.

South girls begin net play

By Jeff Measelle
South High

South's varsity girls' tennis team swings into gear this week with an away match against LaSalle Creuse North. From the looks of the team, the girls could go on to win their fifth straight state championship.

The squad is composed of some very experienced players, most of whom were on the team last year. Playing number one singles is junior, Liz Wachter. Wachter has been on the team for three years, playing in the same spot all three seasons.

Playing number two singles is sophomore Megan McMahon, followed by juniors Paula Reichert and Nancy Wright playing third and fourth singles. All four girls are very experienced tennis players.

According to Wachter, they can challenge her for her spot any time. "They are very tough. Any one of them has the talent to play number one singles," Wachter is one of the top amateur players in the country, which says a lot for the other girls.

Like the singles, South's doubles bracket is just as strong. "Both our singles and our doubles teams are strong. I think that with our depth we have a great shot at winning the state," commented junior Tracy Echlin, who teams up with senior Linda Murtaugh. Unlike the singles, the number one doubles spot is still not occupied. According to Echlin, it is between herself and partner Murtaugh, and the pair of senior Sharon Ruwart and junior Laura Hackman. The rest of the doubles spots and doubles teams are still undecided.

All the girls on the team have their individual goals, but as a team the main objective is to go undefeated and win their fifth straight state championship in October.

Asked if she thought the girls could duplicate last year's record, Stephanie Prychitko, the girls coach, said, "I can't tell because we haven't played yet, but I should be able to tell after our first couple of matches, and after the Kingswood Invitational."

The Kingswood Invitational is on Sept. 27, and will be attended by Portage Northern, runner up to South last year at the state championships.

Prychitko, who has guided the team to four straight state championships feels the squad is very "talented."

Prychitko was also very enthusiastic with the turnout for the JV team. "Several of the girls who came out are very strong, and with some hard work, could have a shot at varsity."

Sports week at South High School

South will play at Silverdome

By Jeff Measelle
 South High

Playing under the lights is always a thrill for any football team, but playing under a dome several hundred feet over head, and in a stadium that seats over 80,000 spectators is truly big time. On Saturday, Sept. 27, South's varsity football team will play Mt. Clemens in the Pontiac Silverdome.

This year has been a real incentive to players who have been training hard since the first week in August.

Obviously the players on the team are very excited, it's not every day that you play in a National Football League Stadium.

Senior quarterback Dean Graham said, "It will be great to play in the Silverdome, but the idea that we are playing on the same field that great football players have played on is also very exciting."

ently. "It's going to be fantastic playing in the Silverdome, but we are going to play a game, and we can't get so excited that we blow it."

The question that the team will get too nervous seems a good one, but according to head coach Russ Hepner, the game is going to be treated like any other. Hepner commented, "Our biggest concern is Mt. Clemens." Last year South defeated Mt. Clemens 55-8. Hepner feels that they will be gunning for the Blue Devils this year.

The South-Mt. Clemens game is just one of the three games being played in the Silverdome on Sept. 27. The other two games are also between Eastern Michigan League teams.

South's athletic director Charles Hollosy was very instrumental, along with the directors of the other schools, in getting South the chance to play in the Silverdome. "We want to show people that the EML does have good football, and we hope to attract lots of people to see the games," commented Mr. Hollosy.

South will play in the last of three games, the first one starting at noon, the last at 5 p.m. South will be selling 2,000 tickets, at $3.50 each. Tickets will be sold at the gate for $4. Since it is an away game, no season passes will be honored, and the holder of a ticket may attend all or just one of the games.

The one detail that Mr. Hollosy is leaving the students to solve for themselves is transportation. Hollosy stated that parking will be available for $1.50 per car, but that he hopes maybe the SA will try to rent buses in order to promote "school unity," and to insure that as many people as possible have means of attending another South victory.

Cross-country team is ready

By Libby Dietrich
 South High

With one win behind them the South girls' cross-country team is looking forward to a winning season.

The Blue Devils defeated Denby High School on Wednesday, Sept. 10, 37-23. Senior Jane Wilson took first place, with Denby team members capturing second and third places. South came back to take third through 11th place.

Placing fourth was freshman Mary Jo Kelm, followed by Christina Nihem, also a freshman, taking fifth. Placing sixth and seventh were sophomores Liz Kane and Valerie Stone.

Composed of 17 girls this year, the team includes six seniors, one junior, six sophomores and four freshmen. According to cross-country coach Steve Zarenek, in comparison to last year, there is a lot more depth among the team. Zarenek is returning as cross-country coach-and was also the girls' track coach last spring.

"We're off to a really good start and we're working hard," Zarenek commented.

Some of the girls have been practicing since Aug. 11, while a few new members have joined since then. "Right now we are primarily doing a lot of conditioning and distance work," Zarenek said.

The team practices at various places, including Balduck Park, Three Mile Park, and South's track.

As more of the girls start getting in top shape, they will start some short distance runs and working on speed. Although it is hard to tell who the top seven runners will be, Zarenek said that Wilson will definitely be a key team member. Wilson qualified for the state finals last year in cross country and also in track.

The girls were scheduled to meet Mt. Clemens on Tuesday, Sept. 16 and on Saturday, Sept. 20, they will participate in the Lakeshore Invitational at Metro Beach.

New soccer teams show promise

By Ned Sparrow
 South High

South soccer has kicked its way from an intramural sport into varsity and junior varsity teams that will play 14 and 10 games, respectively, this year.

"More people came out for the team than for the intramural team last year," said Ted Aurelius, varsity forward. "We have better players as a result."

Of the 66 players that went out for the team, 26 made varsity and 18 made JV. Varsity coach John Case described making the cuts as very trying.

The varsity was scheduled to play Monday at Hamtramck and Wednesday at by senior Kris Robbins. The Knights came back in fighting style during the next game on Sept. 11, by defeating Chippewa Valley, 3-2. Larry Van Kirk, a ULS sophomore, scored a quick goal, but it was countered by two fast goals by the opponents.

Early in the second half, the Knights broke through Chippewa's defense with a goal from Senior Tony Alcantara. Later in the half, senior Kris Robbins scored on a penalty shot to break the deadlock. Superb second-half play from the ULS defensive line kept Chippewa Valley shut out through the remainder of the game.

Varsity netters begin season

By Amy Salot
 ULS

The ULS girls' varsity tennis team began its season last week with matches on Wednesday, Sept. 10 and Thursday, Sept. 11. Liggett lost the first match to Marion High School, 5-2. Four of the seven matches were carried to three sets. Winners were the first doubles team of captain Amy Salot and Angie Scherer 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, and Kathy Hull and Suzanne Zinn 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

The Knights came back on Thursday to defeat Ann Arbor Huron 5-2. ULS looks forward to playing Kingswood and Grosse Pointe South this season.

Hockey league needs coaches

The St. Clair Shores Hockey League is in need of coaches for the 1980-81 season and advises that there are five coaching positions available immediately.

One Mite House coach, one Squirt House coach, two Midget House coaches and a Junior "C" head coach are needed. Interested persons should contact Ted B. Wahby, league president, 296-5576 for further information.

SH girls' team beats Warren

By Susan Sweetman
 South High

South's girls' basketball team got off to a good start this season with a 64-52 win over Warren Tower.

The game, played at Tower, was the second of the season. The girls lost earlier to Warren Cousino, 64-49.

Anne Rosasco scored 20 points in Thursday's victory. The team consists of 14 players, with five seniors in the starting line-up and six players returning from last year.

When asked about the team's potential this year, Anne McCafferty, captain, said, "We have to rely on our experience."

Anne also mentioned that their toughest competitor in the league is L'Anse Creuse. South's junior varsity basketball team lost both of its games last week.

BOCCI ON STAFF

Grosse Pointe's Jeanne Bocci is listed as a staff member for the fall session of Total Running at Camp Walden. Bocci is a world-class runner, holder of the world's record in the 30km racewalk and the first Michigan woman to run the Boston Marathon.

SH drops season opener

By Tom Kluskalt
South's varsity football team played as if it was using a 90-yard field, as the Devils lost to the Irish of Notre Dame, 10-0 in their first game of the season. They rebounded to whip the Shamrocks from East Detroit, 29-14, on Sept. 12. They used the running of Ted Formanczyk to win their Eastern Michigan League (EML) opener.

The Blue Devils' offense dominated the Shamrocks. Formanczyk rushed for 118 yards in 27 carries and scored one touchdown, and Dean Graham had an exceptional game, scoring twice and passing for one more. The offensive line did a superb job opening the holes and giving Graham pass protection.

South's victory was an encouraging one. The Shamrocks were coming off a disappointing 20-14 loss at the hands of state power, Grosse Pointe North and were expected to give South all they could handle.

But the Blue Devils proved otherwise. After an even first half, South totally dominated the second half, both offensively and defensively, and outscored Shamrocks, 15-0.

The Shamrocks had struck first. Early in the first quarter they scored on a 45-yard pass and then made the two-point conversion to make it 8-0. The Shamrocks' only other score was an eight-yard touchdown run in the second quarter.

Formanczyk displayed one of his more outstanding plays of the night by setting up South's first touchdown with a 46-yard pass reception from Graham, who eventually scored on a one-yard plunge to make it 8-6.

Formanczyk set up and scored the second touchdown just before the half to tie the score 14-14. He ran 26 yards to set up the play, then scored moments later on a 10-yard run.

With 3:08 left in the third, Formanczyk ran 90 yards for a touchdown on a punt return, but the play was called back to South's 45 because of a controversial clipping penalty.

A fired up Blue Devil team scored just one minute later when Graham hit John DeBoer with a 66-yard touchdown pass. Graham ran the ball for the two-point conversion, and South took the lead, 22-14.

Early in the fourth quarter Paul Deschenes punted a 50 yarder from his own end zone, but a Shamrock dropped the ball and Harold Conlan recovered for South. After some good running by Formanczyk and Sam Palazolo, Graham scored on a nine-yard run and kicked the extra point to give South a commanding 29-14 final score.

South's offense really didn't do too much against Notre Dame's Irish in the first half of that game, and the defense had to be reliable. Except for a misunderstanding, which the Irish took advantage of, the defense played well.

Chris Kohut blocked an attempted Notre Dame field goal, but a happy defense started running off the field and Notre Dame recovered for a first down. On the next play they scored on a four-yard run to take a 7-0 lead.

With 4:56 left in the first half, the Irish added a 34-yard field goal.

The second half was a good one for South — unfortunately they only played a 90 yard field, something that they hope to eliminate in the future, as they got inside the Irish 10-yard line three times but failed to score.

The Blue Devils have some important games coming up, and the schedule is in their favor. They have a total of six home games, with three on the road. The road games are also encouraging. They meet Mt. Clemens in the Silverdome next week, and have to travel across town to North on Nov. 1. Formanczyk points out, however, "We can't be thinking about the Silverdome or North. We have to take one game at a time."

South golfers win opener

By Dawn Locniskar
South High
Jud Kotas scored a 38 for the varsity and Eric MacMichael a 36 for the JV to lead the South High golf teams to a win in their first match, on Sept. 9. The defeated Mt. Clemens at Partridge Creek Golf Club, 210-216. (The low score wins the match.)

Kotas and senior Mike Lynch both won their matches, and Lynch scored a 40 for nine holes.

The JV also defeated their Mt. Clemens opponents, 225-257. MacMichael, Steven Sanford and Tom Weisknar each won their matches. Sanford and Weisknar each shot 47's.

Coach Harvey Richardson indicated that MacMichael will likely be moved to the varsity.

The teams were scheduled for meets on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 16 and 17, against Grosse Pointe North and University Liggett School.

Oil imported by the United States in 1979 amounted to about 8.2 million barrels a day.
