Voters skip trip to polls, swamp mailboxes

By Gregory Jakub

A great number of Grosse Pointe voters visited the mail box instead of the polling booth to cast ballots in the presidential election this week as near record numbers of absentee voter ballots poured into city offices.

Officials estimated that between 22 and 40 percent of the total Grosse Pointe vote was by absentee ballot which probably reflects the mail-in ballots used elsewhere in the Detroit area.

"That's not exactly election by mail but it's not far off either," said Grosse Pointe City Manager Thomas Kressbach whose election-eve estimate was that more than one third of City voters would use absentee ballots route and chose to complete their absentee ballots at their city office and did so right up to the day before the election.

City officials agreed that the numerous paper ballots would not cause an unmanageable administrative problem. One reason is that a new state regulation allows absentee ballots to be counted after 8 a.m. on election day. Previously, absentees were not counted until after the polls closed which sometimes meant counters worked throughout the night.

HOWEVER, OFFICIALS disagreed on the amount of inappropriate use of absentee ballofs by those wishing to avoid long lines at the polls. Some felt that the Pointe's high senior citizen population meant many seniors voted absentee on the 34 issues on the ballot.

Others said they felt some voters Many voters skipped the mailbox took advantage of the absentee voter privilege and obtained them so they could leisurely fill out the ballot at home

Grosse Pointe Woods mailed out 3,300 absentee ballots before Nov. 4 easily breaking the record of 2,800 mailed in the 1976 election, according to Chester Petersen, city manager.

Petersen said he doesn't expect all those ballots to be used but estimated that a surprising 40 percent of votes cast in the Woods would be by ab-sentees. He added that the ease with which absentee ballots can be obtained is the reason for their increased use.

Even though Pointe absentee ballots are the most numerous in the Woods, Petersen said Louise Warnke, deputy city clerk, had the situation under control.

Warnke was supervising an assembly line-type operation in the basement of the Woods city hall where an increased staff had been working for the last three weeks on issuing and registering the ballots.

The Woods also has streamlined its absentee ballot system by using a computer punchcard system. The new system was first used in the August primary and will allow the about 2,900 returned ballots to be counted in less than an hour, Petersen said.

Counting "all those little x's" won't be as easy in Grosse Pointe Shores where people are still using absentee counting boards, according to Thomas Jefferis, village managertreasurer.

Jefferis said the Shores has issued about 500 absentee ballots which is more than the 1976 and 1978 elections. He said he expects a quarter of the Shores' votes to be by absentees. Seven additional people were required to complete the "arduous task" of tabulating the ballots, he said.

Shores voters may have a slight advantage over others in that they are the only Pointers to receive a city-mailed sample ballot before election day, Jefferis said.

GROSSE POINTE Park city employes were a bit harried last week as they issued an average of 150 absentee ballots a day for an estimated total of 1,800. Halt of those were expected to be returned between Saturday, Nov. 1, and election day according to Nunzio Ortisi, city clerk comptroller.

Boxes of absentee ballots were already piling up around the Park offices last Friday, Oct. 31 but Ortisi said the situation was manageable.

'We're well prepared after going through this experience a couple of times. 1978 was the bad one," Ortisi said adding that the Park has planned well for this year's expected deluge of absentees.

"The majority of people don't un-derstand the amount of work that (counting absentees) involves," Ortisi said adding that each ballot includes five separate pieces of paper for each section of the ballot.

In the City of Grosse Pointe, an estimated one third of the voters were absentees which is below the record of 38 percent absentce votes set in 1978, according to Thomas Kressbach. He added that the absentees don't pose an administrative problem but will increase City spending for postage.

In Grosse Pointe Farms, 2,300 ab-sentee ballots were mailed which is about the same number used during the 1978 election.

Deputy Clerk Dorothy Brown said that the Farms staff has been "working like beavers" to keep up with the influx of ballots. She said that absentees are expected to account for 30 percent of the Farms vote.

Nutrition site may find new home at Brownell

By Susan McDonald

Brownell Middle School on Chalfonte in the Farms may be the new site of the Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Nutrition Center for senior citizens if the board of education agrees to go along with a plan recommended this week by Superintendent William Coats.

The Nutrition Center provides lowcost meals to about 90 senior citizens each day. It is a federally-funded program under the Older Americans Act, administered by the Detroit Area Agency on Aging. It's been housed at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church on Mack since its inception in 1976.

BECAUSE OF space requirements for its own programs, the church has asked the center to find a new location by Feb. 28, 1981.

Coats recommended this week that the board make a room at Brownell available to the center from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Friday, year around. Those hours would mean have to be cut in half as it currently operates from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the church.

expressed a general willingness to help out the senior citizens group, some concerns about moving into the school were expressed at the board conference meeting Nov. 3. The issue will come up for a vote when the board meets Monday, Nov. 10, at 8 p.m. at Poupard Elementary School,

Questions about the proposal centered on the senior group's interaction with the teenagers at Brownellthe sharing of bathroom facilities, and congested hallways during the lunch hour, and the group's obvious need for more time and space at the school.

Coats acknowledged that it is important to work out such concerns in advance.

'To a large extent, this is a p.r. effort, so it does have to be well managed and we must make sure it's a good experience for the group," the superintendent said.

Coats also informed the board that costs of the program to the schools are "negligible." The Nutrition Center will pay $80 or donate 40 hours of volunteer service a month to defray custodial and utility costs, under

Tree tax fails in Woods vote

Grosse Pointe Woods voters narrowly defeated a proposal to add one-half mill to their tax levies for a tree preservation program with an unofficial 6,091-4,851 vote in Tuesday's presidential election.

Local voters in all five Pointes also joined the state trend to defeat all three tax-cut propositions on the Tuesday state ballot by wide margins. Tisch won the strongest support of the three with about 38 percent voting 'yes' in all five Pointes, and was just narrowly defeated in the Shores where the vote was 995-889 to defeat the measure. In the five Pointes Smith-Bullard (A) won support from 29 percent of the voters and the Coalition Proposal (C) won over 26 percent of the voters, Electors in the First District of Wayne County (covering the Pointes) also elected Barbara Gattorn over Anita McIntyre by a 19,361-5,837 vote to represent them on a charter commission to reorganize county government. They re-elected State Rep. William Bryant with a 21,660-3,994 vote over his Democratic opponent Bernard Simbole.

sheet ballot. The proposal was developed last summer by the Woods Tree Advisory Commission as a comprehensive plan for maintaining the city's nearly 6,000 trees on public and private property.

The proposal has been described as a "tree insurance" policy that will cover the costs of spraying, trimming, disease injection, removal, and re-plantation of all trees including those in city parks.

To do this, the plan proposed levying a one-half mill tax during each of the next four years, starting in 1981, to collect a total of $500,000. With those funds the Woods would first determine what maintenance is needed then to either do the work with city staffers or take bids for contracts.

Since the work would be con-tracted or take bids out on a large scale basis, the proposal was expected to ultimately save money but no savings estimates were available.

All tree work would be paid for by the city from tree tax revenues. For tree removal, residents would be

In addition to the room, the board would provide 20 parking spaces in the school's back lot, allow the delivery of catered food each day and, if possible, provide gymnasium space for recreation programs.

Coats recommended the program move in on Jan. 19 and be conducted on a trial basis until May.

The original proposal also called for limiting participation to residents of the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods, but the schools have been notified that it is impossible under laws governing the program. Absentee voters in Grosse Pointe Woods set a new record for using the paper ballots. Woods Deputy City Clerk Louise Warnke is pictured above with some of the 2,900 absentee ballots that were expected to be returned to the Woods by election day.

The turn-out for Grosse Pointe's native son Vic Caputo in his bid to win the 14th District Congressional seat was overwhelming. In the five Pointes, Caputo won 20,868 votes to Democrat Dennis Hertel's 7,655.

All the tallies were unofficial as the news went to press.

The Grosse Pointe Woods tree tax was the only local issue on the bed required to pay only the first $150 of removal costs which can range from $200 to $2,000. Currently, the Woods contracts a tree firm to do work then bills the resident for the

Ford House opens up for tours

"Where once there were many extraordinary residences, mine is the last to remain," Eleanor Clay Ford wrote in her will. And her wish to share that "extraordinary residence" with the general public will finally come true beginning next week, when the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House will open its doors one day a week for a $3 admission charge.

To begin, visiting hours will be limited to 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Sundays, starting Nov. 16. If this proves to be not enough to meet demand, additional times will be announced, according to Paul D. Alandt, executive director.

A room-by-room guide describing architectural details, furnishings and art work has been printed and will be available for purchase to persons interested in visiting and studying the home located at 1100 Lakeshore Road.

The home was placed on the Na-tional Register of Historical Places last year and is considered to be a masterpiece of the Cotswold English country house style. Built in 1926-29 by Detroit architect Albert Kahn, it is faced with Briar Hill sandstone with leaded glass windows. The interior features a great variety of fine paneling mantle work and decorative plaster copied from dozens of 16th, 17th and 18th century English homes.

The home has been maintained just as Mrs. Ford left it when she died in 1976, with most of its furnishings and decor intact.

To visit the home a reservation must be made by calling 884-3400 on weekdays and specifying intended time of arrival.

Edsel and Eleanor Ford resided in the home from 1929 until their deaths Their four children, Henry II, Benson, Josephine and William were rai-ed in the 60 room residence.

Money woes abound, but FLEC gains ground

By Tom Greenwood

FLEC is fighting for its financial life and is apparently winning the battle, according to FLEC, (Family Life Education Council), President Dr. John Burrows.

"We're sort of creeping ahead in the money department," said Dr. Burrows. "We've received enough in the last month to extend our existence at least another six weeks. Church support has been very good and we've received some grants."

"Among the grants was one from the Detroit Industrial Schools. I'm cautiously optimistic."

At one point in mid-September, FLEC officials feared financial shortcoming would permanently close its doors by the beginning of October. Dr. Burrows blamed the money wors on "reflation."

"WE'RE VICTIMS of inflation in a recession," he said. "Our fund raising efforts have failed and contributions from the public simply dried up.

In a last ditch effort to generate funds, the "Friends of Flec," have organized "FLEC 66," a one-to-one solicitation for contributions of $1 for every year FLEC has been in existence.

A.med at 2,500 persons, the $16 donation would generate $40,000 and help FLEC survive another year,

" 'FLEC 66' has just started rolling," said Dr. Burrows. "So far, the results have been promising, but it's still too carly to say. We're counting on it quite a bit."

"It should be another week or so until we really know how the campaign is going. We can use the contributions, as our work at FLEC is steadily increasing. There's a definite need for us in the surrounding communities."

FLEC, located at 18412 Mack Avenue, the Farms, is a non-profit, charitable and education corporation aimed at strengthening and establishing the family unit.

Programs offered include: Center Point a short-term youth counseling center; Medical Clinic, staffed by volunteer doctors, nurses and patient advocates; Dialogue, a confidential help phone line for adults and other special activities.

"All contributions to FLEC are tax deductible," said Dr. Burrows, "We can use all the support we can get. We're all working very hard to save this institution, we hope the public feels the same way."

FLEC was organized in 1965, largely in response to evidence of growing drug abuse among teenagers in the Grosse Pointe area. It was housed for many years in Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, where one division, Centerpoint, operated a drop-in center for teenagers.

With the apparent decline in drug abuse, other programs offered by FLEC have grown in importance, including alcohol education, pregnancy testing and birth control information. Other new programs include an evening of free legal counseling aimed primarily at senior citizens and a series that sends local teenagers into elementary schools to frankly discuss the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

Cook Schoolhouse

Doorways to the past: Grosse Pointe's historic haunts and the bricks are no longer red. But old Cook School still retains much of the character and flavor of its original purpose — a one-room schoolhouse built to educate the children of Fractional School District No. 9.

Today it contains the offices of Marc J. Alan, Inc., financial and management consultants. The school stands staunchly on its original site: 20276 Mack Avenue, south of Lochmoor Boulevard.

It was built in 1890. John Hammel, vice-chairman of the Grosse Pointe Woods Historical Commission, has the original ledger that was used to record names of Cook School students in the 1890's. The census of school children in 1891 reads like a list of street names in Grosse Pointe Woods-Cooks, Beaufaits, Brys, VanAntwerps,

In 1902, according to the ledger, Miss Lillian Kaltz, teacher, received $30 a month, in return for the responsibility of educating about 30 children in grades one through eight.

"I LIKE TO imagine what it was like for the school children at the turn of the century," says Marc Alan. "On a windy fall day I listen to the chestnuts thumping onto the roof and watch the squirrels dashing around outside — just like the children probably did."

Alan bought the schoolhouse in 1967, and did extensive renovations — always keeping in mind the original character of the building. "I wouldn't dream of putting fertilizer or weed killer on the lawn, for instance," he says. "I want to keep the grass as it was when the kids came to school here."

"The clock in front has a story too," says Alan. "There are only a few like it. It was the Engass Jewelry Company clock in downtown Detroit."

Alan had it moved, cleaned, and painted, and it now keeps perfect time. "The only problem is changing it for Daylight Savings Time. That is a big project."

Today the schoolhouse is no longer red. It is painted white. There are hand-hewn shingles on the woodshed. You have to stoop a bit to get out the woodshed door. The molding around the windws and doors inside has been preserved and replaced where necessary. The cloak rooms - one for boys and one for girls - are now a lavatory and a coat room.

"Kids — and adults — often knock on the door and stop in just to see what a one-room school looked like," says Alan. "A few years ago, a group of women came to see it. They said they went to school here in 1906. They agreed it was pretty much the same, except for the surface decor.'

140 · · · · ·

By Margie Reins Smith There's a bird's nest in the chimney, the out-ling became a mission of the Church of Christ. A houses are gone, the woodshed is a conference room circular wooden disc, now painted white, proclaimed "Church of Christ" above the front door. There is an old tomato can cover plugging a knothole on that sign. "I wouldn't remove that for the world," says Alan. "It's part of the character and history of the building.'

> Alan even leaves mouseholes in the woodshed because they are part of the building's charm. The mouse, however, has departed.

> In the 1940's John Sweeney, a pianist for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, used the building as a music studio. It then became a bachelor's apartment. It was empty for awhile, too, before Alan bought it.

The glass in many of the window panes is orginal. A peach tree (probably planted by 18th century French settlers) refuses to give up, and keeps sprouting new green shoots each spring in the back yard. And the schoolhouse bell still rings. Marc Alan will probably invite you to ring it if you visit.

The above photo of the Cook School house is believed to date back to the early 1920's. The old school house still stands on Mack and Lochmoor in the Woods, in the photo below.

Many people use wine as a marinade for meats. but it is in stews that wine really shines. From boeuf bourguignon to coq au vin, many delicious stew recipes call for meat simmered until tender in wine or a wine mixture. The longer such a stew cooks, the stronger the wine taste. However, do not expect to get high on such a dish. Cooking takes away wine's alcoholic effect. For most people, the taste is compensation enough.

PARKIE's PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack, Corner of St. Clair. Detroit, provides the selection of wines for all tastes and all purposes. Discover the fascinating delicacy of wine, appropriately utilized as an enhancement, to your next dinner party. Your guests will love it and the "flavor of the evening" will long be remembered. By Marian Trainor the cassette tape which ac-In an attempt to determine where we are going, we sometimes seek to "T.L.C." is now available understand where we have been. We turn to the past, not to recapture a world we have lost but to learn the lessons of history. This thought comes to mind after reading W. Andrew Achenbaum's provocative book, "Old Age in the New Land" (John Hopkins Press). Drawing upon a wide range of sources from social, intellectual and political history, he sketches a surprising picture of the place of the older generation in American history. Surprisingly enough, it has come full circle. from good to bad and back to better, if not as good as we would like it to be. Like all history, this one contains a lesson. If you want better things, you've got to keep working at it. You cannot afford to retire from life. MUCH HAS BEEN accomplished-Social Security, private pension systems, Medicare, Medicaid, political activism, legislation, medical advances. Yet much remains to be done, such as flexible job scheduling, a lighten-ing of the work load rather than forced retirement for those who want to continue working but not at the present pace. While older Americans today might look forward to shorter work hour or lighter work as a goal, Achenbaum in his work, finds a precedent for this problem in the past. This was due to the striking differences in the way early Americans defined older people's place in society. Americans between the Revolutionary and Civil War believed their infant republic depended upon the commitment and ability of men and women of all ages to work together in creating a new society.

They judged the assets and liabilities of being older invaluable in shaping the cultural and social life of the new land. People who enjoyed a "ripe old age" were regarded with respect because they believed that living a long and fruitful life was in itself an achievement. In a world where sickness, injury and death plagued all age groups, those who at-tained the biblically inspired three-score-and ten seemed remarkable. In fact the number of elderly people in the United States became a powerful ideological weapon to demonstrate that the New World environment as beneficial.

It is interesting to note that in 1790, as today, many of the maxims for maintaining health are still advocated: fresh air, regular exercise, moderate diet and sufficient sleep.

OLDER AMERICANS were also emulated because they had demonstrated that temperance, industry and exercise had contributed to longevity. This assumption led to the conclusion that it was advantageous to rely on clder men and women to help direct and safeguard the moral development of the young nation. Since older Americans were deemed well equipped to give sound advice, it was concluded that youth and old age could benefit by association. Older men and women were thought to serve the rising generation by admonishing vanity and idleness and by instilling a sense of integrity, honesty and responsibility. Youth repaid age by offering its companionship and sharing its joys.

Older people were expected to remain economically and socially useful as long as they were phyisically able to work. Early Americans considered it foolish to stop working because of age.

Between 1790 and 1860, older people worked as farmers, they were appointed to high public office and no profession, industry, business, craft or trade organization prior to 1860 required people to leave the labor force because of age. However, they were expected to know when it was time to let others assume some of their duties. As one writer put it, "An old horse that trotted was respectable, but one that tried to speed was contemptible. The great secret of preserving respect is the cultivating and showing to the best advan-tage the powers that we possess and not going beyond them.'

With this attitude, it is not surprising that early Americans chose the sinewy old man with long white hair and whiskers to symbolize their new land. "Uncle Sam" seemed to (Continued on Page 9A)

personify honesty, self restraint reliance and devotion to country. "Uncle Sam" not only epitomized the hopes of young America but he also seemed to demonstrate that the nation could be wise and experienced even in its formative years.

Older Americans before 1860 had problems but these were used to call attention to the advantage of following their example. It was pointed out that years of sorrow and joy gave older people valuable insights into the nature of the human condition "We perceive this as our and they should be turned to for in-'Nutcracker.' We'd like to spiration and consolation. Above all, make it an annual event and older people were the essential keys we want to tour with it in to the ultimate meaning of life.

Implicit in the earlier respect for older Americans was the idea that they were more similar to other age groups than they were different. After the Civil War the picture being at Eastern Michigan Uni- gan to change. Americans began to challenge the usefulness and merits of age. Scientists knowledge came to be more relied upon than common sense in dealing with life's problems.

Another factor in the decline of the influence of older citizens was the rise of large-scale business in the late nineteenth century. As the value of older workers in the labor force came under question, work opportunities diminished. As their image of being productive decreased, so also did their place in society.

FOR THE FIRST time dependency became a problem. The family was the primary source for consolation and assistance. If there was not family, the local community assumed responsibility. After the Civil War, privately endowed institutions helped. Fraternal and mutual benefit societies began selling old-age annuities.

But is was not until the 20th century that the actual place of older Americans in society became modernized. Due to the rise in size of the older population, the decreasing number of older workers and the increased reliance on pensions, the senior citizen as a group, has become the focus of national attention.

Writers, social and natural scientists have concerned themselves with the problems of older Americans. Alternatives to gainful employment have been searched out. People are urged to prepare for retirement years early in life by acquiring hobbies and interests that will remain stimulating. Works such as Walter Pitkin's "Life Begins at 40" and Elmer Ferris' "Who mated at more and $3 billion Says Old" have become popular. Medical researchers have started to make headway in their attempts to alleviate physical ailments associated with advancing years.

Oddly enough, it took the Great Depression to bring about an improvement in the economic situation of seniors.

Those years proved that all citizens needed an alternative means of insuring their financial independence. It convinced the American people that individuals could not themselves provide adequately for their old age. The result of this realization materialized into Social Security.

The passing of that act was more than a financial ballast for older citizens. It gave them back a financial independence and dignity that had so long been lost. Perhaps never again would they achieve the status as advisor and model for youth which they held in the nations formative years, but neither would they be dependent.

Cther benefits followed. Medicare, Medicaid, a federal government clearinghouse for ideas about older cit-izens, such as the White House Conference on Aging, the National Institution on Aging, the National Insti-cans' Act, the Supplementary Secur-ity program. Since the late 1970's it appears that older Americans as a constituency benefitted more than any other group from the legislative achievements of the past decade. AS THE SAYING goes, "We've come a long way" but there are still roads to travel. One of them might be to go back in time and try to recoup the status under modern conditions which was enjoyed in pre-Civil War days.

For instance by pressing for flexible job scheduling and demonstrating imaginative use of retirement time, older Americans can provide models for more healthful and sensible work and leisure arrangements throughout the life cycle.

If lifespan can be extended through medical technology and genetic research, the current and following generations of older Americans will be the ones who will discover first hand how the quality of later life can improve in its prolonged form.

Is the council out to lunch?

To the Editor:

Congratulations to the masterminds who conceived the new $2 meters on "the Hill." Those of us who work in the area must now pay an extra $8 a week parking-incredible enough, but the truly illogical "touch of genius" is that we must have eight quarters every morning, no nickels, no dimes, no pennies, but eight quarters everyday.

Our loyal customers complain bitterly over the raised hourly rates and remind us that the parking is free at Eastland. We need customers and have to wonder what the council had in mind.

When the council members get back from lunch, I certainly hope they will rethink the situation - this time thoughtfully and responsibly - remembering that they are supposed to be for the Farms. A Voter

I am not signing my name only because it would be unfair to my employer.

Why haven't police called?

I read the letter to the editor on exploiting victims and protecting accused and I must say I agree with this person. I do, however, realize there are laws protecting the accused, as you stated.

When I heard of the death of (Elizabeth Keir) who lived on my parents' street, I felt outraged. I had a young fellow at my door that very same day just a few hours before Mrs. Keir's death. He asked me a few questions, then asked to use my phone. I refused him entry, but he still hung around looking at my home. My neighbor noticed him and his strange actions also. We both called the police.

A friend knows the accused person and when I gave this friend a description of the person at my door he said it sounded like the accused.

As of this date, the police have not called back or questioned me regarding this incident. They ask that any information that may be helpful be given to them. However, they have not checked out the possibility that th's was the same person.

I feel they want to protect this person until people cool down and forget the incident. I, for one, will not forget it, as I thank God every day that I decided not to let that innocent looking boy into my home.

The issue is ridiculous on its face but the Detroit City Council made it worse by wording it in such a way as to elicit the response it wanted. No self-respecting pollster would have asked such a question before the election and would have been laughed out of his profession for so obviously attempting to lead the public to the conclusion sought. which was to cut defense spending. Furthermore, the proposal ran counter to the pledges of both presidential candidates and, in addition, sought a conclusion that runs counter to the popular belief that a strong defense is a better guarantee of peace than a reduction of defense expenditures. One of the results of the use of the "bed sheet ballot" is a sharp drop in the number of votes on all ballot questions. This benefits the special interests which get out the voters for their particular questions. The proliferation of proposals also causes a sharp increase in the number of people voting by absentee ballot, a practice which often delays ballot counting and increases election costs. ALL IN ALL, the "bed sheet ballot" is bad for democracy in general, bad for the lawmakers who use it to shirk their own responsibilities and bad for the voters who are asked to make decisions on complex matters about which they cannot be well informed.

As Michigan voters wended their way home after voting Tuesday, we are sure many of them complained, as we did, about the multitude of issues as well as the number of candidates they found on their ballots. Truly the "bed sheet ballot" returned to the state in the 1980 election.

In four of the Grosse Pointes, voters found seven state proposals and four Wayne County issues on their ballots while in Grosse Pointe Woods they found an additional one to impose a half-mill tax to finance a four-year tree improvement program, Grosse Pointe voters were also asked to make choices for 22 officals, which brings the total to 34 decisions, far too many for even thoughtful citizens who sought to study the background and qualifications of the candidates as well as the purposes and complexities of the referenda.

EVEN WORSE FOR the voters than the large number of candidates is the increasingly popular practice of the state Legislature, the board of county commissioners and the city councils in resorting to referenda to make decisions that they ought to make and have the. authority to make themselves. More and more we are getting "legislation by referendum".

We have complained in earlier editorials about the practice. The trouble is that many issues are so complicated that they cannot really be solved by referenda. The state tax issue, for example, ought to be addressed in all of its ramifications and the appropriate place for that to be done is the state Legislature. The state and its subdivisions get revenue from many sources - income taxes, sales taxes, property taxes, unemployment compensation taxes, workmen's compensation taxes and many more - and thus passage of a single referendum seldom does more than put a new bandaid on a tax system that needs modern surgery.

The other point about the proliferation of referenda is that officials under our system are elected to represent us and pass the legislation required by our various levels of government. So in putting referenda on the ballot our elected representatives in many cases are simply ducking their responsibility. They prefer to let the voters decide, even if the decision is usually an unsatisfactory one whichever way it goes.

True, some of the 1980 referenda were required by law because there are appropriate limitations on the powers of elected officials. especially in imposing taxes. And, true enough, some of the referenda got on the ballot through the peti-

'Demo House' goes on the market

By Joanne Gouleche

After almost two years of political haggling and a lengthy court battle, the drab grey stucco has turned to attractive beige at 1094 Lakepointe.

The controversial two-story house in the Park went on the market to the highest bidder last week after undergoing code violation corrections with the use of a $50,000 Wayne County Community Block Grant. It was the use of that money, filtered through the Department of Housing and Urban Development, that stirred community unrest and rumors the Park would be forced to accept lowincome housing.

The Park purchased the house from HUD for $1 in 1979 after the owner defaulted on a mortgage. City Manager John Crawford thought the house would be an excellent way to show or "demonstrate" to residents how to fix up their own homes, Hence the Demonstration House at 1094 Lakepointe was begun to launch interest in a low-interest loan program for homeowners. The house project, however, was later dropped because of exorbitant costs.

Last week landscapers put finishing touches on the house, and it's ready for public inspection beginning this Sunday, Nov. 9, from 2 to 5 p.m., according to John Pierce and Kathy Clawson, members of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange.

A COURT ORDER specifies the house be sold through the Exchange for a period of 60 days or up until Dec. 27. At that time, the Park will sell the house to the bidder making the highest cash offer, says Pierce.

Clawson said the house will be sold with a price tag in the area of $50,000 and offers can only be made through an Exchange broker. The broker's fee will be given to the city, according to

City Manager Crawford said the house went through extensive refurbishing through the correction of code violations. The 61-year-old house had shown its age with peeling paint, cracked plaster and broken windows when the city purchased it last year. Since then, a new kitchen, bathroom, furnace, plaster and paint have turned the house around to resemble those that line streets like Wayburn, Maryland, Beaconsfield and Notting

The Park Council officially dropped the Demonstration House project last year on the recommendation of Manager Crawford and the city's Citizens Advisory Board because bids to renovate the house to show resi-dents what could be done, ranged between $52,000 and $231,000.

Crawford said about $36,000 of out the $50,000 HUD grant was used to correct the code violations and add some extra touches.

Some months later, Park resident Art Moran filed suit in U.S. District Court against the city because 1094 Lakepointe did not appear publicly on market for 60 days.

Judge Patricia Boyle then ordered the Park to only correct code viola- as well as preservation of den magazine, which says 20 tions and list the house with a member broker of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange.

Children's Home takes step toward future

At right is the Barnard Center, a nearly completed addition to the Children's Home of Detroit on Cook Road. Mrs. William K. Howenstein. chairman of the building committee, lead the construction and renovation of the center. John Stevens Associates, Inc., and the Strobl Construction Company designed and constructed the center. Throughout the years, the community has actively supported the Children's Home through contributions, volunteer assistance, donations of goods and through memorials and bequests.

"An excellent example of this support to the Home," explains Ann Garred president of the board of trustees since January, 1980, "ocbutions from individuals, or ganizations and foundations made it possible to renovate and expand our classroom space and recreation facilities.'

"The school building, known as Barnard Center, was named after lifelong Pointe resident Harry Barnard, who in 1950 was instrumental in making the construction of the original ARUBA -- 72 square miles in size and 15 miles off the coast of South America. It takes about three hours to explore the tranquil beaches that offer all water sports and beautiful coral reefs to explore by snorkeling and scuba diving, with sunken ships for the experts. Tennis is also available at several hotels. Horseback riding is becoming very popular along the beaches and through the countryside, which is remarkably like the American West, with its tall cactus and gigantic boulders. Duty free shopping along Nassaustraat's six blocks is excellent for liquor, comeras, watches, perfume, china and linens. Also, Aruba has several gambling cosinos.

Deans honor Jean Brett

Administrators and Counselors honored Grosse Pointe's Jean Brett as an outstanding leader in the ture. field of education and college administration, during its annual meeting in October.

Jean graduated from the University of Michigan, has served as regional and vice-chairman of the women's division of the United Foundation and was a member of the Adult Psychiatric Board.

She was president of the Liggett Alumnae Association and served as trustee of ULS for six years. She became assistant professor and dean of women and director of activities at the Detroit College of Business Administration in 1962. She is presently dean of students and director of Student Activities. Jean, Mrs. Raymond C. Brett, is a resident of Lincoln Road.

Another honoree

The Shores' Grace Dimmer also received honors recently - in fact, Sept. 30 was Grace Dimmer Day in the Shores. Grace, a founder of the Detroit Chapter of the American Society of Women Accountants, was the first woman Certified Public Accountant in the state of Michigan.

The Detroit chapter of the society, which she headed from 1941 to 1942, honored Grace at their public relations dinner on Sept. 30.

Blue Devils top North, 24-7

By Tom Kisskalt South High

The Blue Devils ended a very successful football season last Saturday with an exciting 24-7 victory over cross-town rival North.

The Blue Devils went into the game dreaming of a state playoff berth after number one Livonia Stevenson went down in defeat the night before. But it wasn't to be as Detroit Cooley and Central were awarded the playoff berths.

Tom Kean expressed his feelings. "It's disappointing we didn't make the playoffs, but was a fun season. We worked as a team and the final result showed it."

It sure did! The Blue Devils won their last eight games, following their season opening defeat at Notre Dame. The Norsemen, meanwhile, closed with a 4-5 record, the first losing season they have had in a while,

One of the key factors to South's success this year was Dean Graham and John DeBoer's pass combination. DeBoer, who is a possible All-State candidate, set four season records and three career records, and Graham broke a total of four records.

DeBoer set season records for number of pass receptions, (22), number of touchdown receptions, (12), and number of yards gained, (638). In the same three categories, he also set career records of 40, 15, and 920 respectively. He also broke a record in the victory over North picking up 130 yards on passes.

Graham broke the record for number of touchdown passes in a season, (14), in a career, (15), and in yards passing in a season. Against North he completed eight of 16 passes for 201 yards, also a record.

As a team, the Blue Devils also racked up some pretty good statistics. The offense broke the record for scoring in a season by compiling 236 total points compared to the 193 scored by the 1972 team. The defense fell short by just one touchdown of breaking the record for fewest points allowed in a season. Their opponents managed only a total of 56 points.

South also had 14 players selected as all leaguers. Bill Flom, Paul Deshenes, Steve Wayman, Pete Zavell, Jon Penoyar, Karl Tewes, Graham and DeBoer were selected to the first team. Mark Martineli, John Szymanski, Ted Formanczyk, Glenn Piche, Rick Overby, and Mark Schneider were selected to the second team.

Going into the North game, the Blue Devils had everything going for them, and they proved that they are as good as their record indicates.

The first three quarters turned out to be the tough battle expected, but a fourth quarter surge by South proved to be the game's difference.

The Blue Devils dominated the game, racking up 428 yards, but turnovers proved to be costly for both teams. North turned the ball over six times and South three times.

South had the ball inside the Norsemen's five twice in the first half, but a fumble and missed field goal wiped out any scoring.

North actually struck first, scoring the first time it had the ball. A 48yard bomb set up a four-yard run by Mike Eugenio to give North a 7-0 lead.

South's only first half score came on a 40-yard run by Wayman. The extra point was missed and that's how the half ended.

At the 10:56 mark of the fourth quarter, the Blue Devils erupted. A 27-yard touchdown pass from Graham to DeBoer set the tempo.

Interceptions by Harold Conlan and Schneider led to touchdowns. Sam Palazzolo scored on a one-yard run and Graham hit DeBoer on a 60yard pass to provide for all the scoring.

Tom Gentile picked off a Norse-man pass to halt a drive and end the game and the season.

Although the Blue Devils didn't make the playoffs they proved that they are winners and one heck of a football team.

Norsemen end with 4-5 mark

By Tim Saunders North High

Cross town rivals Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South met in the last game of the season Saturday afternoon, Nov. 1 at North and the Blue Devils came away with a

Turnovers played a major role as the two teams combined for nine. North committed six while South gave the ball away three times. The difference was South's ability to turn the North mistakes into scoring drives. They accomplished that three times, twice on interceptions and

Although North's offense had its troubles, the defense looked strong most of the afternoon, despite South's 24 points. All three of South's turnovers came inside the North ten-yard line, so the score could have been

The Norsemen took an early 7-0 lead on its first possession of the day when quarterback John Clem found Craig Stafford at the four-yard line with a 44-yard pass. On the next play, Mike Eugenio took a pitch from Clem and dashed in from the four. Jerry Bockstanz made it 7-0 on the point

Neither team scored after that in the first quarter but the period ended with South threatening North's with a 29-yard pass to Paul Deschenes to the North 41-yard line. Three plays later, Graham sent Steve Wayman in on a pitch from 39 yards out and North's lead was cut to 7-6.

The remainder of the second quarter ended much like the first, with neither team scoring after the first possession.

South was unable to generate any offense on its own early in the third quarter but two fumbled punts kept North's defense on the field for much of the quarter. South failed to capitalize on the first fumble, but on the second they got inside the five-yard line. A holding call brought the ball back out to the 27 but on the next play Graham hit DeBoer with a 25yard pass to the two-yard line and he squirmed in from there to give South a 12-7 lead.

The rest of the game was pretty much all South, as the Norsemen were unable to add to their seven points. South on the other hand, scored twice in the fourth quarter, both coming after interceptions.

At 4:34 of the fourth, Sam Palazzolo scored from the one to make it 18-7: On South's next possession, Graham and DeBoer connected again, this time on a 58-yard pass for De-Boer's second touchdown of the day to finish the scoring at 24-7.

The non-conference game improved South's overall record to 8-1 as North finished up with a 4-5 mark. The Norsemen were 2-2 in the Bi-county league, good for third place.

Coach Guido Regelbrugge's North High varsity soccer team took its division championship by blanking Roseville, 4-0, in a Metro Sub-urban League game on Oct. 29

The victory gave the Norse-men a final conference mark of six wins, no losses and one tie in their first season of interscholastic soccer play.

North allowed just two goals in the seven games and had five shutouts, one of which came in a 0-0 tie with runner-up South High.

Marc Tirikian scored in the first minute of play after taking a pass from co-captain Pete Mogk. Tirikian repeated minutes later on a pass from co-captain Mike Azar.

INTRODUCING THE CHECKING ACCOUNT THAT PAYS INTEREST

On December 31, your present checking account at your bank becomes obsolete Because on that day First Federal Savings of Detroit will begin offering a new concept in money management the First Federal interest-earning checking account.

You'll use this new type of account like any traditional checking account. But it will do some • thing no checking account ever did before. It will pay you interest like a savings account—5¼% per year, daily interest, paid and compounded quarterly. Even when you write a check, the amount of that check keeps earning interest until the day the check is deducted from your account.

Your First Federal interest-earning checking account will require a low minimum balance of just $300. And as long as you maintain this balance, there is no monthly service charge. First Federal's low minimum balance requirement frees up more of your money for other needs.

This optional feature of your interest-earning checking account helps protect you from the inconvenience of accidentally overdrawing the account. It provides you with peace of mind. Be sure to apply separately for this service. When accepted, you'll have a pre-approved line of credit available.

You can sign up for your account right now with a minimum deposit of $300. For making this early deposit, you'll be entitled to 50 free personalized checks which will be sent to you after December 30, 1980. In addition, we'll put that deposit in a regular savings account until December 31, 1980, earning 51/2% per year, daily interest. On that date we'll automatically convert your account to an interest-earning checking

First Federal's more than 60 offices mean you can have your interest-earning checking account close to where you live, work, or shop—whichever is most convenient for you. Adding to this convenience are 15 Night Owl Windows (our 24-hour automatic teller machines) in key offices. With them you can transact almost all your First Federal business any time of the day or night, seven days a week.

It all adds up—a checking account that pays interest, requires a low minimum balance, offers overdraft protection and 50 free checks. And, of course, each month we will return your cancelled checks along with your detailed statement. Apply for your account by sending in the coupon below. Or visit any office of First Federal Savings of Detroit. Your Center for Family Financial Matters. Under Federal law, interest-earning checking ac- counts cannot be used until December 31, 1980. This service is available for individuals, single proprietorships, and some nonprofit organizations.
