Dilber to close Ford shop on Hill

By Tom Greenwood

It appears another long-time Hill business may soon be joining a growing list of retailers closing their doors due to economic hard times and pressures.

Mike Dilber, of Mike Dilber Lincoln-Mercury, 180 Kercheval, confirmed this week that the dealership will be closing down in about a month.

"It's true," said Dilber, in a phone conversation. "The Ford Motor Company wanted me to move to another location, and I didn't want to do it. They own the building at the other location, (McDonald Ford East, on Mack avenue,) but they don't own this one, so I decided to close down instead."

Reactions to the closings in an already depressed area were swift in coming. Andrew Bremer, Farms city manager said he was "sorry to hear about it, Mike's a heck of a businessman and he'll be missed on the Hill."

Pat Reynolds, president of the Hill Association, echoed Bremer's thoughts. "We're distressed that Mike's closing, but hope he won't leave the area entirely. It's terrible to be losing another business, but the auto industry has suffered so much this year that I'm not surprised."

Dilber has been at his location for the past nine years. The building itself has served as a car dealership since 1949, according to Dilber.

Other shops closed on the Hill include the Standard Oil gas station at Muir and Kercheval Road, the League Shop, The Bronze Door Restaurant and Paskel Florists.

A spokesman at the League Shop confirmed that another Pointe retail establishment is "definitely interested" in moving into the League Shop building, but declined to name the shop "due to current leasing problems."

Jim Boucher, a vice-president at the National Bank of Detroit confirmed that there are "individuals interested in moving into the florist shop, but because the property is currently tied up in litigation, no real progress can be made."

Now wait a second here!

SOS appeals to state

Hope for a historical Fisher Road

By Joanne Gouleche

A visit from the Michigan History Division to Fisher Road in the near future may be the key to keeping merchants in business and Detroit Bank & Trust away from the popular shopping district.

At least that's the hope of Save Our Shops supporters who this week told the Grosse Pointe City Council that the Lansing-based history division will eventually review the charter of Detroit Bank and Trust to build a subsidiary where the Pointe Pedlar and other small businesses now stand.

The process will determine if the bank will impact on the cultural significance of the area, and such a review would possibly qualify the district for the National Register.

SARAH HILL, a spokesman for the SOS group, said officials at the regional office of the Federal Reserve in Chicago directed her to the history division. She didn't say what success Fisher Road may have as becoming a designated historical area.

Mrs. Hill and Elaine Hartmann, chairman of the SOS sympathizers, went to Chicago to determine what guidelines the Federal Reserve will use to evaluate the bank's charter. The bank needs the approval of the Federal Reserve before it can open its first teller window.

So far, the bank has not even applied to the state's Financial Institutions Bureau, the first step a banking institution must do before it can build.

Mrs. Hill said the Federal Reserve in Chicago can accept the bank's charter, but it has no power to deny it. If that is the case, the review process is turned over to the reserve division in Washington, D.C., Hill said.

A year ago the bank informed the shops that they had purchased their buildings for $340,000. Later, the bank extended the merchants' leases until June, 1981. The bank feels a Fisher Road location will save many residents a trip downtown to conduct trust business. Residents worry, though, a bank would create even more parking and traffic problems than the area now sees.

LAST WEEK the merchants were disturbed and angered to learn the purchase of a vacant house on Fisher Road by the bank. Former resident Mary Thoman said she sold her house

State cutbacks squeeze Pointes

For the second time this year, Gov. William Milliken has proposed severe state spending cutbacks that will substantially limit financial aid to the Grosse Pointe school system and revenue sharing funds to the five Pointes.

If approved by the legislature, Milliken's $288.5 million statewide spending cut means a more than $75,000 loss to Pointe city governments and could put an as yet undetermined crimp on the school system's budget.

Revenue sharing funds will be cut by $20 million across the state. Locally, the losses could fall out this way: City of Grosse Pointe—$7,230; Farms—$15,180; Park—$19,500; Woods—$23,310; Shores—$3,890.

THESE ARE roughly the same amounts that Milliken cut in May to help balance the state budget. The latest cuts will be slightly higher since revenue sharing allocations are determined partly on a per capita basis and will be computed on 1980 census data when available.

The Pointe's $75,110 revenue sharing loss might seem trivial compared to the projected $1.65 million cut slated for Detroit, but coupled with last May's $102,800 cut, the Pointes could be caught in a squeeze.

"It's going to hurt," said Park City Manager John Crawford who added that the cuts put his city in the uncomfortable position of either having to cut services or raise taxes.

Crawford said tax hikes are unlikely since election results of two weeks ago made it clear that "cities have had it with taxes."

Crawford was surprised that the Park's cut was only $19,500 and added he expected it to be closer to $100,000. But the proposed cut would still hurt since the Park's recent drop in population has reduced tax revenues, he said.

"The problem here is that revenues are not coming in. We either find a new source of revenue or make further budget cuts," Crawford said.

WOODS CITY Administrator Chester Petersen said his city's proposed $23,310 cut is just part of the total funding that the Woods could lose. When federal revenue sharing funds are lost as expected, the Woods could be out as much as $140,000, Petersen said.

"As far as the Woods is concerned, we anticipated the losses early and put a freeze on our capital outlay expenditures and improvements at least

"We'll continue to feel the (the losses) until the economy gets back on the track"—Kressbach until April 1 until we see how all this will go," Petersen said.

He added that eliminating planned capital outlays will allow the Woods to cover about 80 percent of the lost revenue sharing funds.

"By freezing those expenditures and with attrition in personnel, we don't think we'll be forced to lay off," Petersen said.

Both Petersen and City of Grosse Pointe Manager Thomas Kressbach said they believed the worse revenue sharing cutbacks are not evident in the Governor's recent $20 million cut.

Kressbach said that amount doesn't include a $105 million loss accumulated statewide throughout the year as a natural fallout in state collected sales, income, single business, gas, and weight taxes occurred. Those revenues are shared to various degrees with cities but are steadily decreasing as the state's economy plummets.

These revenue sharing losses are "not announced but are a fact of life... we'll continue to feel (the losses) until the economy gets back on the track," Kressbach said.

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education anticipated the latest round of state budget cuts last spring when it set its tax rate for 1980-81. It compensated then for an expected loss of $140,000, on top of a $250,000 cut that Milliken announced in May.

It's too early to tell if Milliken's latest proposed reduction will stay

Group seeks home for retarded

By Susan McDonald

A group of local parents took its first tentative step toward establishing a group home for retarded adults last week when it approached the Grosse Pointe Board of Education about the purchase of a house on Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

The house is currently owned by the school system and used as a residence for Superintendent William Coats and his family. Coats has announced plans to leave Grosse Pointe next summer and several board members have said privately they would like to dispose of the home at that time.

THE board has taken no formal action and the home is not on the market, however.

The parent group, the Grosse Pointe Association for Retarded Citizens, went before the trustees Nov. 10, with a letter asking it be allowed to present "alternatives for the use of that property as a group home."

The 60-member association is considering a six-member, coeducational home, financed entirely by private donations, according to Hal Cornelius, who represented the group Nov. 10.

Group homes are being established in growing numbers across the state as an alternative to over-crowded, dehumanizing state institutions for the retarded. The homes usually are made up of a small number of mentally impaired adults and aim to create a normal, family-type atmosphere that wouldn't be found in an institution.

More than 100 group homes are operating in the tri-county Detroit area and, in a few instances, they have encountered bitter opposition from neighbors. In the latest confrontation, a proposed Farmington Hills home was leveled by an arson fire after several weeks of controversy in the surrounding neighborhood. Six suburban communities have gone so far as to join in a law suit to block establishment of group homes.

Cornelius, from the Grosse Pointe Association for Retarded Citizens, said his group is well aware of the controversial nature of its proposal. He said it is hopeful, at the same time, that a group home will be accepted in Grosse Pointe.

"WE'RE WORKING hard to keep the community informed of our plans and to be as open as possible," Cornelius said. To win community support, Cornelius said the association will avoid use of federal or state funding and open the home to local residents.

"I think this community is an understanding one. We think our kids aren't that much different than other people. A group of six should assimilate into the community well," Cornelius said.

Ted Strozempek, president of the association, said he believes neighborhood opposition to group homes arises because "people just don't understand what 'mentally retarded' means."

"They mix up mentally retarded with mentally or emotionally disturbed. They are not the same, and often people don't take the time to find that out," Strozempek said.

The superintendent's residence is "ideal" for a group home because of its location near transportation lines and retail stores and because it is somewhat removed from neighboring homes. The house is located on Grosse Pointe Boulevard just east of Fisher Road, surrounded by South High on one side and Christ Church on the other.

The house was acquired by the school system in 1953 when it purchased land owned by Country Day school to expand South High. The house was built in the early 1920's and was formerly Country Day's Headmaster's house.

The parade is an annual event sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Village Association, combining the forces of scout troops, athletic teams, the Neighborhood Club and Grosse Pointe Theater, among other groups.

The parade begins at 10:30 a.m. at the Fisher Road entrance to South High and travels up Kercheval to Jacobson's in the Village.

With the Grosse Pointe Rotary and Jaycee groups providing safety marshals, the parade will travel through a closed Kercheval Avenue behind a City police car, autos loaned by the Fraternal Order of Police, a fire truck, antique cars loaned by Dr. John Bradfield, clowns and motor cycles. New cars from Pointe Dodge will pull floats from North and South High Schools.

School groups that will join the parade include Parcels Journalism Class members (who'll be 'red' all over), 20 Indian Princesses, Mason Cub Scouts No. 290, Cadette Scout Troop No. 282, (as Mimes in Toyland), a bookworm from Richard School, Defer Troop No. 519, a Kazoo Band from Mason Troop No. 209,

Grunyons—the harmonizing hams

By Tom Greenwood

It's not often you see 14 hams dressed in three piece suits, but it happened last Tuesday night at Pierce Middle School. On that evening, the Grunyons, a locally based, all male singing group of distinguished origin, genuine talent and shameless stage-stealing sang for the younger set.

The tunes were mostly soft rock selections from the 1960's featuring the Turtles, Neil Sedaka, Spanky and Our Gang and the Marcells. Their choreography is tight as a soup sandwich, but the fun they generate is genuine.

Some sing with hands casually shoved into pockets, others with eyes closed, lost to the world confronting them. They all dip and sway. At times, 14 crooners seem to be going in 28 directions at once.

The audience, adult and student, loved the performance. After each song, the group is practically eaten alive by spectators. The semi-final selection has six-foot plus member Woody Geist ridiculing barely five-foot plus Phil Skillman via Randy Neuman's song "Short People."

It's Santa season, deck the halls

Don't look now but the red and green ornaments are up in the stores and on the streets and, yes, that's Santa Claus in the picture. He's on his way to the Village again, as part of Grosse Pointe's fourth annual Christmas parade Friday, Nov. 28.

and the Merry Mouse with Cheese will be on hand.

Music will be provided by the combined North-South Marching Bands and the Allen Park High School Marching Band.

In addition to The Camel With Wrinkled Knees, the Disney Heads and a visit from the University of Michigan Wolverine, clowns, Mr. Mole

Floats will include designs by Rick Selke and Virginia Bowen for the Village Association, a nativity scene, trim-the-tree display, Carrier and Ives montage, and the entire Junior Choir of St. Michael's Episcopal Church led by Jeanne Hurst.

The Color Guard will be provided by the U.S. Navy Sea Cadets, NAF, Detroit.

THE SKIT IS daffy, with Skillman mugging and mining his way about the stage. Finishing, the Grunyons bounce off yelling "Encore-Encore" at the audience.

The transparent tactic works, and they bound back for a do-wop version of "Blue Moon," starring Pointer John Prost.

Slapping what looks like a furry animal on his otherwise barren brow, hidden behind mirrored sunglasses, and with hands clasped over his hammy heart, Prost belts out a version that would have the late Jane Froman seeking a bloodthirsty lawyer.

It's a toss up as to who's having more fun, the Grunyons or their audience. Everyone at Pierce is pleased and surprised. These guys are funny, and they're good.

Rehearsal at Prost's home later that evening is a semi-serious affair. Ties come off, beer is opened and jokes make the rounds. Between pretzels and potato chips, sheets of music are passed around and practice begins.

"Not everyone in the group can read music," said Prost, host for the evening. "Nor is it a requirement

Torch Drive dollars work for unemployed

Torch Drive dollars are being put to work for unemployed people in the tri-county area.

More than 50 organizations participated in People to People, an unusual shirt sleeve forum aimed at mobilizing a variety of resources available to unemployed citizens of Wayne County. The day-long event, which was held at Cobo Hall on Wednesday, Nov. 19, included two sessions, beginning at 8:30 a.m. and 1 p.m.

People to People brought together a cross section of community organizations, private businesses, and unions for the purpose of making newly unemployed individuals aware of all possible avenues of help during the unemployment interim. The forum employed a no-frills, people-talking-to-people format.

Services represented included medical insurance; legal assistance; transportation; energy programs; education and training; income maintenance programs; budgeting and debt management; recreation and family counseling.

Participants were able to speak on a one-to-one basis with representatives of the organizations concerned with these areas of interest.

The Cobo Hall event, the first of its kind in the U.S., marks the kick off of a one year Tri-County Program, Operation F.A.S.T. (Families Acquiring Survival Skills). It is being coordinated through a coalition of eight non profit family counseling agencies in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb Counties, under a grant from the United Community Services. UCS is the funds allocation agency for the United Foundation.

F.A.S.T. encompasses a three pronged program which includes:

- County based forums that provide immediate access to community resources which can help those out of work.

People to People is the first of three to be held.

- Community based groups structured to help unemployed people and their families deal with the emotional and physical stress of unemployment.
- Training programs for professionals and community "helpers." This phase of the program will heighten sensitivity of clergy, union representatives and service provider staffs to the needs of the unemployed, as well as furnish current referral information.

Operation F.A.S.T. emerges at a time when unemployment figures for the Tri County area are at a peak. Wayne County stands at 15.6 percent, an increase of nearly seven percent over the same period last year. With approximately 17,000 individual unemployment benefit periods expiring each month, many people feel they have no place to turn. With the approach of the holiday season in this kind of economic climate, the normal increase in crime, particularly in the area of family violence, could well accelerate.

The objective of Operation F.A.S.T. and its initial event, People to People is to put people in touch with sources that can ease the burden of coping with family living in a period of financial crisis.

Operation F.A.S.T. has strong backing from all corners of the community. Represented on its Steering Committee are: Chrysler Corporation, Ford Motor Company, General Motors, UAW, AFL-CIO, City National Bank, Arthur Andersen & Company, Archdiocese of Detroit, New Detroit, Inc., Wayne County Dept. of Social Services, Michigan Employment Security Commission, and United Community Services.

Tower merits recognition

By Thomas Kitchen
South High

The Tower, South's weekly school newspaper, has often been praised nationwide as an example of what a high school paper should be.

This sentiment was echoed by the Michigan Senate recently. Members adopted a resolution "commending the Tower and its staff members for achieving All-American status in their newspaper. The Tower has thus maintained this status for the 24th consecutive year, a milestone which is a mark of great praise for everyone associated with this superb newspaper."

The resolution was offered by Senator John Kelly and other state senators. The resolution was adopted Sept. 30 and signed by William C. Kandler, the secretary of the Senate. The Tower staff received the honor at the end of October.

What did the members of the newspaper think of this noteworthy recognition? Sharon Ruwart, a staff editor, said, "It was really nice to know that these people recognized what we're doing. We try to be of service not just to the people here but to everyone."

Robert Button, adviser for the Tower, was equally pleased. "This provides outside evidence that the staff is affecting the community. The most important thing a newspaper can achieve is to be a real force for its readers."

The Tower is no stranger to success. It has won the Pacemaker award four times as the best weekly high school newspaper in the country. The newspaper was recently evaluated by the National Scholastic Press Association, which judges for the Pacemaker, as a five-star All-American paper.

The Tower also received a similar recognition resolution in 1977 from the State House of Representatives.

South dental students feted

"Reaching Our Goals Together" was the theme chosen by Convention General Chairman, Dr. Thomas Johnson of Dearborn for the 39th Detroit District Dental Review held Nov. 8 to 10, at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn.

The Detroit District Dental Society's Executive Director, Marc Brown, of Fisher Road in the Farms, gives Grosse Pointe High School students enrolled in the dental aides program the opportunity to participate in the professional clinics.

Students from North and South dental aides cooperative course presented dental clinics on Monday, Nov. 10. Each student was awarded a personally engraved plaque from the Detroit District Dental Society in appreciation for the table clinic presentation. Plaques were presented by Dr. Bernt Ekvall of Jefferson, the Detroit District Dental Society Clinic chairman.

Dr. Eugene Hawthorne of Lothrop road, assisted Jeanne Bocci, dental aides teacher, in helping the students prepare and present professional dental clinics, along with area dentists, dental hygienists and dental students.

Mrs. Bocci, with the assistance of six parent volunteer drivers, attended the dental review with 53 presently enrolled dental aide students. They had the opportunity to attend clinics, dental exhibits and lectures relating to the dental health profession.

Mrs. Bocci said "I am proud of the excellent presentations by our students and pleasantly pleased with the awards received by each student."

The Dental Aides course is available to all South and North students in the 11th or 12th grades. Mrs. Bocci said "The program is so successful that I do not have enough students to fill all the jobs which the area dentists offer, we could handle twice as many students, both boys and girls."

Woods, boaters try again to replace Milk River Bridge

By Gregory Jakob
While most boat owners have already secured their rigs for the winter, some Grosse Pointe Woods boat Club members and city officials are still trying to find a way to move the bridge spanning the Milk River at Lakefront Park.

Moving the bridge means all of the park's 234 boatwells will be accessible to boaters since high water prevents most boats from passing under the Milk River Bridge to reach the 53 boatwells on the other side.

For eight years, Woods boaters and city officials have debated about moving the bridge. Some of the merits of such a project are increased revenue for the city through more boatwell rentals and greater availability of the relatively low-priced docking facilities at Lakefront Park.

The latest bridge removal plan ran aground in September through an apparent lack of interest by some boat owners who refused to advance the city an extra year's docking rental fee ($260) to help finance the $103,000 bridge project.

About one month ago, the boat club formed a committee which is moving to help the city decide on how the bridge should be replaced. The club's plan is financing mailing this week of letters to 1,200 Woods boaters explaining the proposed project which was developed by the recreation commission.

Also included in the mailing is a questionnaire which asks boaters, among other things, if they favor a new graduated rental fee schedule by which boaters would pay $10 per foot according to the length of their boats. The current bridge financing plan proposes raising all rental fees to $260 per year. In about four weeks, results of the mailing will be compiled by the club and presented to the Woods Council. The council has also asked that 75 percent of the boatwells be spoken for before any bridge project be started.

Those making commitments for the city to advance one year's rental to finance the new bridge.

But depending upon the response from the mailing, the boat club may recommend two alternatives to the original bridge plan, according to Larry Sullivan, boat club member and main mover behind the club's bridge effort.

Possible alternatives are raising the existing bridge or removing it altogether and building a new bridge farther up stream toward Jefferson which would allow sailboats access to the wells but prevent pedestrians from crossing the river easily.

Sullivan said he is 95 percent sure that boater response to the letters will be enough to convince the council to start the project. He added if enough responses are in by year's end, the project may be completely in time for the 1981 season.

However, city officials were not as confident as Sullivan. Woods Mayor George Freeman said progress on the bridge issue was being made slowly and he doubted whether it could even be completed by spring 1981.

Woods City Manager Chester Petersen was equally pessimistic.

"It could never be completed by 1981," Petersen said. He added that even if the council approved a bridge removal plan before the end of the year, there is no way that financial arrangement could be completed by spring.

Thief finds meaty cache

The thief that entered a garage on Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods apparently was not a vegetarian. The culprit went directly to a large freezer and cleaned out $200 worth of meat that was stored there.

The resident of the home told public safety Corporal Gerald Kensora that she discovered the theft about 12:15 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 2. She added that the door is sometimes left open.

There was no sign of forced entry and nothing else was taken from the garage.

Coin group to hold fall show

The 25th Silver Anniversary Fall Convention of the Michigan State Numismatic Society has set Thanksgiving weekend, Nov. 28-30, to be once again held in the new and spacious Exposition Hall at the Hyatt-Regency Hotel in Dearborn's Fairlane Town Center.

Your hosts—The Downriver, Pontiac and Warren Coin Clubs—promise several programs this year to stimulate the interests of the collectors and keep the dealers extremely busy.

Many prominent dealers from all around the country will be ready to serve the needs of the most discriminating numismatist as well as the beginning collector.

Dealer prizes will be drawn by the Program Committee with another drawing for two lucky registered dealer's spouse or assistant. These two special gold gifts for the ladies were donated by ACE Coins & Jewelry of Dearborn (Richard Marusak) and C.B.S. of Detroit (Ed Marusak). A mint-sealed bag of BU 1980 cents will be raffled off with proceeds to be presented to the ANA Building Fund by ANA Governor Florence Schook. The funds to purchase the bag of cents was donated by the Three Coins Coin Shop of Lincoln Park, Michigan. The American Numismatic Association will be represented by Florence Schook, Gary Adkins and Tom DeLorey—all programmers at the Convention.

A Sunday morning awards breakfast in each exhibitor's honor will be held with judges and other notables in attendance.

Because of improvements in grain production, pork, China's main meat, is no longer rationed in many areas.

for joining. We pride ourselves on being religiously irreligious."

Which isn't to say the group isn't serious about its singing. "We don't believe in matching outfits, or in strict attendance at appearances or rehearsals," said Sandy McMillan, newest member of the Grunyons.

"Basically, everyone will show up because they want to participate. That's why we're all in different suits. It's whatever we happened to wear from work that day. We do this mostly as relaxation, to get away from the business world."

Officially, there are 17 active members, with usually 14 to 15 making it to practice and appearances.

to the bank about three weeks ago because she "knew the bank was interested in property on Fisher Road."

A Pedlar owner, Justine Kulka, said Mrs. Thoman had approached the gourmet kitchen shop about leasing the property.

"It was not suitable for us. We're definitely negotiating on a couple of locations in Grosse Pointe," Kulka said, indicating the Pedlar owners would prefer to move somewhere on the Hill.

Bank spokesman Jane Colombo said the house lot may be used for parking, "but we have no firm use of it at the moment."

City administrators say the property is zoned for business and off-street parking.

"There's enough in the group to fill in if someone else can't make it," said McMillan. "But we can usually count on a full house, give or take a Grunyon or two."

THE GRUNYONS were formed in 1949, by two Pointers who were members of Yale's famed "Wiffenpoofs." Returning to the area, they created the Grunyons to carry on their love affair with singing.

Although the group was started in the Pointe, and five current members live here, (including founding members Bill Gard and Charlie Parcels), most live in other areas of the state.

"We've got members from Birmingham, Rochester, Romeo, Detroit, Bloomfield Hills, and even one from out in Lakeville," said Prost. "We conduct rehearsals every Tuesday night, and rotate to save members driving long distances every week."

Membership is on an "invitation only" basis, with newcomers invited over for harmonizing and mutual sizing up.

"Basically, we like to hear how a new member sounds, and see if they'd be comfortable with the group," said Prost. "It also gives them a chance to check us out in return."

The group is a non-profit organization, ("And how!" said Prost), but has performed all over the country. It is affiliated with a number of East coast groups, which all gather for a "Spring Sing," held in a different city each year.

"We've performed in the Library of Congress in Washington, and the Governor's mansion in Colorado," said McMillan, who serves as the Grunyon historian.

"Last summer, we also sang at the Republican National Convention downtown, Heli, we'd probably even sing for the Democrats if they asked us."

Other "gigs" include schools, theatrical groups, churches, charity benefits and pot luck dinners.

"We love what we're doing," said Prost, patting his "Blue Moon" wig. "We'd sing in front of two people if they asked us, and one of them could be deaf and we'd still perform."

And to think it all started 32 years ago when two Wiffenpoofs multiplied into 17 Grunyons within that $140,000 limit. The governor proposed an overall $65 million reduction in state spending on education, but the legislature has not yet determined if those funds will come out of the basic aid formula or out of categorical aid.

Changes in the basic formula will not have an impact on Grosse Pointe because the school district is one of six in Michigan which do not receive any basic state aid.

If the majority of cuts come out of categorical funds, however, Grosse Pointe schools could feel the pinch. The system last year received about $860,000 from the state in categorical funds for special education, vocational programs and lunch programs. So far this year, that has been reduced to $470,000, and it could go even further, according to Business Director for the schools, Larry Rankens.

Grunyons John Prost (in wig) and Jim Leese ham it up.

Woods vetoes car lock law

A proposed ordinance that would have allowed police in Grosse Pointe Woods to ticket car owners who leave their cars unlocked on city streets or lots was rejected by the Woods Council at its Nov. 3 meeting.

The ordinance was instigated by the Public Safety Department to help curb rising car thefts, especially in the Moross-Mack area.

It came before the council on Nov. 3 for a first reading, and modifications, and it brought strong reactions from several councilmen.

"If this city needs money so bad that we have to start ticketing cars that aren't locked, then we've dropped to a new low," said Councilman Thomas Fahrner.

Councilman Robert Novitke said the ordinance was a good idea but objected to it as overregulation. Councilman Frederick Lovelace also spoke against the proposed ordinance.

The council voted to refer the issue back to the Public Safety Department for alternative suggestions to reducing car thefts.

$10 million state aid cut puts the squeeze on WSU

Wayne State University, facing cuts in state appropriations that could total as much as $10 million in this fiscal year, moved Friday, Nov. 14, to begin a sharp paring of salaries and programs.

The action by Wayne County's ninth largest employer was prompted by Gov.

Milliken's latest recommendations for state budget cuts totaling $288.5 million, including another $60 million cut in aid to colleges and universities.

WSU President Thomas N. Bonner, in a statement at the WSU Board of Governors meeting, listed a series of immediate steps to reduce university spending, starting with a 10 percent self-imposed cut in his own salary.

Other initiatives announced by Bonner include:

- an immediate 8 percent salary reduction for senior administrators whose salaries are $50,000 or more.
- an immediate 5 percent cut for employees in specified administrative categories whose salaries are $40,000 or more.
- no salary increases for nonclassified persons throughout the university until further notice.
- a targeted 10 percent reduction in the staffing and support budgets of all university administrative offices.
- indefinite continuation of the hiring freeze already in effect throughout the University, with exceptions to be authorized only by the president.

A meeting is scheduled for 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 19, in WSU's Community Arts Auditorium, at which Bonner will describe fully to the university community the implications of the appropriation reduction. He also will outline a process for achieving the savings required to meet the shortfall. Bonner noted that because WSU is Wayne County's ninth largest employer, the ripple effect of the allocation reductions could have a serious impact on the greater Detroit economy.

"This university is facing a financial crunch unknown in its entire history," Bonner said.

The fiscal crisis facing WSU is the most recent in a series that started when the state's economy and treasury revenues both began faltering.

The university's original 1979-80 state appropriation of $98.3 million was trimmed during that fiscal year to $97.2 million through executive order.

When the Legislature failed to adopt a 1980-81 budget in its last session, Gov. Milliken notified all state-supported units to operate in the first quarter of this fiscal year at a level of state appropriations equivalent to 96 percent of the reduced appropriation in the same quarter a year ago. For Wayne State, the translates into an annual equivalent of $93.3 million.

Milliken's Wednesday evening message on budget reductions proposes $90.7 million in aid to WSU.

Wine Lines

by John Lundberg

Sometimes the magic of the grape does not work as well as it should. As a result, winemakers have developed ways to make their wines taste better. For example, an 18th century Italian winemaker felt that his wine was too bitter. He figured that he would add something sweet, something called Artemisia absinthium (Wormwood) and let it steep. The result was quite refreshing and the Germans especially liked it. They called it Wermut, their name for herb wormwood. So, Vermouth was born.

If you have an appreciation of the finer things in life, discover the "magic of the grape" at PARKIE'S PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack, Corner of St. Clair, Detroit. Civics requirement dropped at high schools

By Susan McDonald

The Board of Education last week dropped civics classes from the required list at Grosse Pointe high schools in order to provide more flexibility to incoming students.

The move was approved by a 4-3 vote after several high school teachers expressed strong opposition to the change.

Board member Roger Mourad, who voted in the minority, said he opposed the change because he is concerned about "where the critical efforts (to teach citizenship) will be made" in the high schools.

"Government at the national level is getting so complicated, so involved in our lives that it seems to me the trend should be to make (civics classes) mandatory, not eliminate them," Mourad said.

Trustees Catherine Briery and Dorothy Kennel also voted against the change at the board's Nov. 10 meeting.

Superintendent William Coats recommended the change to provide "flexibility for ninth grade students who wish to begin an extended sequential study in a number of important subject areas" such as language, science and math.

Ninth graders also are required to study English and physical education. The requirements are "restrictive, especially for college bound students," according to Coats.

"Because of current graduation requirements, students often must postpone beginning a desired three-year sequence until grade 10, thus eliminating the possibility of four full years of study in a discipline of importance," Coats said.

Coats said the administration at both high schools endorsed the change, but several teachers, represented by Carl Lord and Jack Curry, made it clear they opposed it.

The teachers pointed out that, as a course required of all ninth graders, civics is a "home base" where teachers take on the task of introducing and orienting the 13 and 14 year olds to high school life.

"In an era when society is beset with increasing citizen apathy and cynicism and when educators complain about the lack of student interest and participation, our high schools enjoy unprecedented involvement of our students in a wide variety of extra curricular activities," the teachers said in a written memo to the board.

"We feel that our civics program has been one of the major positive influences here."

While civics won't be required any longer, it will still be offered to incoming high school students. Students also must take a full year of U.S. history, a half year of government, and half year of another social studies.

As a footnote, board member Ron Dalby asked the administration to explain why two years of physical education are required in Grosse Pointe high schools, in light of the fact the state requires only one year of physical education. Dalby suggested that dropping the second year might help provide more flexibility at the schools if that is needed. Coats said he would prepare a response.

SH wordsmiths win 2nd place

By Dawn Loenlskar

South High journalists won a second place standing in the National Write Off competition held recently during the Journalism Education Association's (JEA) convention held in Detroit's Book Cadillac Hotel.

The convention drew nearly a thousand high school journalists from across the nation. The convention allowed students to broaden their journalistic knowledge by listening to speakers on subjects such as money, sexism, teacher and student stress, sports, photography and press law.

Students with at least one year of high school journalism were eligible to participate in one of 16 write-off contests.

The "Kirkwood Call" of Kirkwood, Mo., took home the first place sweepstakes trophy for the fourth year in a row. Tower adviser and JEA program co-chairman, Robert Burton, remarked about finishing second. "It was quite a surprise for South students who had no idea what to expect."

It was the first time South had ever entered this kind of competition.

Winners for South in the write-off competitions were Eric Steinhauer, first place for news magazine layout and design; Paula Kukucka, second place for newswriting category; Marcy Taylor, second in copy editing and headline writing; Bob Wagner, third in sports writing and Sue Wilmouth, an honorable mention, (fourth place), in newspaper photography.

Two Pointe residents also received media citations. Charley Manos, a columnist for the Detroit News, received a citation for his student press conferences that introduces student figures in the news, and Neal Shine, managing editor of the Free Press received a citation for his newspaper's support of high school journalism.

Next year's convention will be in Kansas City, Mo., and South's journalism staff is looking forward to it.

Burglar takes $2,500 from Woods home

More than $2,500 worth of furnishings were taken early Sunday, Nov. 16, from a home on Oxford in Grosse Pointe Woods, according to police.

A neighbor who was watching the home called police after he heard sounds coming from the house. He told police he saw someone wheeling a TV set away from the home in a fertilizer spreader. He yelled at the culprit who fled without the TV. Officer Michael Cavanagh arrived at the scene and called for tracking dogs from the Detroit Police. The dogs trailed the culprit but police were unable to locate him.

Investigation showed that the home was entered after a brick was thrown through a rear window and a door was unlocked. The entire house was searched by the intruder who took a full-size leather chair, stereo speakers, several stained glass windows and various furnishings.

South frosh name leaders

South High School freshmen went to the polls Thursday, Nov. 6, to elect six officers.

There were 34 candidates running in the primary on Oct. 30, but only 13 survived to the final election ballot. The six winners were Karen Fellows, Carey Fitzgibbons, Sue LePlae, Hague Ollison, Cathy Palmer and Chip Ranno.

As officers, their priorities will be to work with other class officials and represent the freshmen at the Student Association meetings.

Brigid Shaheen, freshman treasurer, was pleased with the way the election went.

Diabetes test at Bon Secours

Bon Secours Hospital will offer free screening tests for diabetes during National Diabetes Detection Week.

The test will be given to community residents, 18 and older from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., on Nov. 17 through Nov. 21.

To assure an accurate test, it is important to eat a high carbohydrate meal, one with large amounts of starches and sugars, two hours before the test.

A good breakfast, for example would include fruit or juice, cereal with milk and sugar, two slices of buttered toast with jam, coffee or tea. A person taking the test after lunch could have a bowl of soup, a sandwich, cake or pie for dessert and a glass of milk. The meal should be eaten within a 15-minute time period and nothing else except water should be taken before the test.

The most common symptoms of diabetes are excessive thirst, frequent urination, blurring vision, constant hunger or slow healing of cuts and scratches. The disease may also be present without any symptoms.

People who are over 35, overweight and blood relatives of a diabetic are particularly urged to take the test since they are in the high risk group of those most likely to develop diabetes.

Study land investment wisely, state CPA's

In the investment game, owning undeveloped land could bring satisfaction, security and profit several years down the road or it could leave you with less money than when you started. Keep in mind your money will be tied up, as real estate is not very liquid (not easily converted to cash).

Don't assume all land will appreciate. How much a piece of land is worth depends on many factors such as how suitable the land is for commercial development. Is there a potential for development in the future? How many years will it take?

How much you profit will depend primarily on how a buyer can use the land. Land outside the suburbs and within the urban areas generally carry a higher rate of risk than land in the suburbs.

Before investing, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants says, do some thorough research. Consider the costs involved, cash down payment, mortgage payments, property taxes, maintenance costs, tax aspects and a realtor's commission when you sell. The best place to look say CPAs, is where you are most familiar with property values and real estate development. This includes land where you live, work or vacation.

Land investment often requires a greater initial cash outlay than other types of investments with other expenses involved, too, such as property taxes and mortgage interest. CPAs say, consider your federal income tax return as these may affect your deductions.

High returns and leverage may be realized from real estate investments, say CPAs, by paying as little as possible with your own resources and as much as you can with borrowed money.

If you buy five acres at $30,000, you may contribute $10,000 cash and a $20,000 mortgage. Should you be able to sell the property at $50,000, there would be $30,000 remaining after repaying the mortgage. Then, subtracting the initial $10,000 in cash you paid, your profit before taxes would be $20,000.

Tax benefits are a major consideration with any investment and CPAs remind you investing in raw land is not treated as a tax shelter. The advantage to owning land is that profits on the sale is viewed as capital gains. When the property is held for one year or less the gain is considered to be short-term and is fully taxed as ordinary income. When owned for more than one year the gain is long-term with only 10 percent of any gain from the sale taxable.

Park businesses collect trophies on awards night

The Harvest Park Natural Food Restaurant will walk away with two awards tonight, Nov. 20, when the Park's Beautification Commission presents trophies at its first business awards night.

Earlier this year businesses in the Park were encouraged to apply for the awards. Chairman of the awards night, Councilman John Prost, said the awards recognize those businesses which have maintained interest in improving their properties.

The Commission judged the applications Nov. 3. A special awards presentation will be held in the Bath House at Windmill Pointe Park at 8 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Harvest Park Restaurant, on Mack Avenue, won the Commission's Small Business Award and took honors for architectural recognition. The Mayor's Trophy Award went to Charles Verheyden, Inc. on Mack in the large corporation category.

Other businesses to be awarded trophies include Sparky Herbert's, medium-size business; St. Clare Catholic Church and Grace United Church of Christ, church category; Piccadilly Delicatessen, Jefferson Avenue, for the Neat & Clean Award; AAA Grosse Pointe, Jefferson Avenue, for the Landscape Award; Mulier's Omer Market, Kercheval Avenue, for the Rear Entrance Award.

Two schools disaster sites

The next time disaster strikes in Grosse Pointe, run to either Brownell Middle School or North High — two sites that were designated disaster shelters last week by the Board of Education.

The designations were made in response to a request from the Red Cross, Detroit Edison Co. and Public Lighting Department, which have been working cooperatively to select schools in the tri-county area that are suitable for sheltering victims in case of disaster.

The shelters would be used in the event of a flood, hurricane, power shortage, toxic or any other disaster which might require people to leave their homes, according to a school memo.

Brownell is located at 260 Chalfonte Avenue in the Farms, North High at 707 Vernier Road in the Woods.

In 1979, Americans' purchases revealed this wine preference: white, 49 percent; red, 30 percent and rose, 21 percent.

G. P. home price jumps in October

The average sales price of a home in Grosse Pointe was $114,750 last month, a 15 percent jump over 1979 figures. Residential sales data released by the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange last week also revealed a 34 percent climb in dollar sales volume, from $5,213,900 in October 1979 to $6,999,800 this year. The statistics, however, show a nine percent drop year-to-date in the same category. The number of houses sold in October increased 35 percent, from 1979's figure of 45 to last month's 61 units. Those same figures year-to-date, however, revealed a 14 percent drop.

Officials investigate house fire

Park fire officials are still investigating the cause of a fire that gutted a second-floor bedroom of a Balfour home last week. Fire Chief Phillip Costa said the second alarm fire on Nov. 15 caused extensive smoke damage and destroyed the contents in the bedroom. Firefighters were called to the home after the owner smelled smoke. City and Farms fire units were called to assist in the blaze. Dollar damage has not been determined, Costa said.

DeCrick receives award

William DeCrick, (left) of Grosse Pointe, a member of the Michigan Emergency Patrol, accepted an award from Richard T. Kelly, (right) Wayne County Auditor and Chairman of the Executive Board of the Metropolitan March of Dimes, at a recent board meeting as poster representatives Ronnie and David Haller look on. DeCrick devotes a great deal of time with other members of the Michigan Emergency Patrol, supplying the communications for Superwalk and Superide, major events for the March of Dimes. Michigan Emergency Patrol members supply their own food and vans during these day-long events and have been responsible for their smooth, safe operation. Many members of the electronic media are also dependent upon Michigan Emergency Patrol members for 24-hour traffic reports that are in turn relayed to their audiences. Michigan Emergency Patrol is seeking additional members. Information can be obtained by calling 872-3342.

TB declines but slowest in decade

TB is declining in the United States, but, because of a recent influx of refugees, the TB rate here is declining slower than it has in a decade, according to the American Lung Association. Last year, a total of 107,444 Indo-Chinese refugees were admitted to the United States. Among the refugees, many of whom suffered through unbelievable hardships and unhealthful conditions, the rate of TB was 926 per 100,000. For Americans, the tuberculosis prevalence rate is 35 per 100,000. In Michigan, 1,641 Indo-Chinese refugees arrived in the state between January and June of this year. Sixty-seven of those refugees had active (class A) TB and 28 had inactive (class B) tuberculosis. In 1979 the U.S. experienced only a 3.8 percent anual drop in the number of new tuberculosis cases—the smallest rate of decline since 1970. If cases of TB occurring within the refugees population are excluded, the rate of decline is over 6.1 percent. While only 15 percent of the total U.S. population shows a positive reaction to tuberculin skin tests—which indicates they are infected with the TB germ—at least half of the Indo-Chinese refugees were infected. According to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, among those infected, the disease may develop within weeks after the initial infection or many years later, or not at all. The risk of developing TB for the newly infected person is about four percent per year for the first one or two years following infection. The likelihood the disease will develop diminishes as the time from infection lengthens. But the untreated, infected person carries the risk of developing the disease for his or her lifetime. Refugees from various countries—including Cuban refugees who have a much lower TB rate than the Indo-Chinese—are being screened so those with the disease can be treated. Those infected with the germs can take medication to prevent becoming ill with TB. To find out more about TB and other lung diseases, contact the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan at 961-1697.

'Variety Days' spice up class

On Nov. 12, the University Liggett Middle School English and history departments hosted the first of this year's "Variety Days." An out-of-the-ordinary program, "Variety Days" allows students to examine issues and topics related to an ancient culture which are beyond the scope of their regular classroom study.

All eighth graders chose one long, or two shorter programs about Judaism or the ancient Hebrews. One group travelled to the Detroit Institute of Arts to view examples of Middle Eastern art. Other single options were "Myths—Modern and Old" in which students created their own myth, "The Hebrew Language" which gave participants a chance to speak, write and count the Hebrew way, and "Jewish Tradition and the Modern Theater" in which students heard the rock cantata Joseph and His Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat before improvising their own dramatizations of the Joseph story.

Single period programs which allowed students to participate in two offerings included a Seder, a slide show of the Holy Lands, a program examining the Holocaust, and a chance to try Jewish folk dancing.

Zippers
Whitcomb L. Judson of Chicago invented the zipper, or zipper as it was later dubbed. It was exhibited at the Chicago Exposition of 1893, but early efforts to market it failed because of design defects. Not until 1913 did public acceptance of the improved device begin.

Sri Lanka delivers

Colombo, Sri Lanka, continues to be the darling of the budget-minded tourist as the world's cheapest city. A recent comparison (June 1980) found things costing $100 in New York cost only $58 in Colombo. Other comparisons, said the United Nations, included New Delhi $80, Dacca $89, Singapore $99, London $106, Paris $136 and Geneva $163. Tourists were living in guest houses for less than $10 a day.

Book week read-in at Brownell

In celebrating the combined Children's Book Week and American Education Week, Nov. 17 to 21, Brownell Middle School has been having a "read-in."

Each day at exactly 2:05 p.m. the chimes over the loud speaker signify to everyone — students, teachers, counselors and administrators — that it's time to stop their work and start reading. For 15 minutes, everyone reads books, magazines or newspapers — whatever they want — just so that everyone is reading something.

Recently, neighboring school systems such as Farmington, L'Anse Creuse and Livonia have implemented silent reading breaks in the day with the result that students are approaching reading as a personal experience that can be fun, exploring a variety of areas of interests in their reading, and using the school media centers more often for their reading materials.

Teachers also are very enthusiastic about the program because they read more and have more opportunities to relate to their students through reading.

"With such glowing recommendations, I thought American Education Week would be a fine time to try out the Read-In," said Mr. Christofferson, Brownell's principal. "So far we're very pleased with our experience."

Doris Zenn, librarian, is also enthusiastic. "The best aspect about the Read-In for me is seeing attitudes change from 'Do I have to read?' to 'Reading's really fun!'"

Save time and money with a shopping plan

The December holidays are creeping up on us again and with it are shopping days spent in frustration looking for that perfect gift. Unfortunately, along with you are several thousand other people with the same thought in mind.

To save on a few precious commodities such as time and money during this holiday rush, The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants says, try advance planning before making the shopping expedition.

Before setting foot in a store draw up a list of all the people you're buying for with several gift ideas for each. Once this is determined, then calculate the amount of money needed for the gifts. Will there be extras such as gift wrapping, store delivery, postage and handling charges for mail orders to be considered? Don't forget gas and parking costs or bus and train fares. And what about eating out? All these factors need to be figured in for an accurate view of the holiday shopping expenses, say CPAs. Store catalogues can be helpful in determining gift lists. If you find the right gift for someone in a catalogue, save yourself some time and order it directly either by mail or over the phone. This works best when you only have to pay a small percentage of your total purchase in shipping and handling charges. If it costs $2 to order a $6 item, it makes sense to buy it at a store during a shopping trip. Catalogues may take care of a portion of your gift needs but you'll probably have to do some of your holiday shopping in person. Select one store or group of stores, whatever you feel you can manage in one trip, and shop them completely. Do the same each time you shop and you won't waste gasoline running back and forth from home to store. In a shopping mall determine which stores to shop and stick to your plan.

If you're looking for a special item call the store beforehand and make sure it is in stock. By starting at the uppermost floor of the store and working your way down, you'll beat the traffic since most people shop from the first floor up. You may be able to have your packages delivered to

Parcells sets holiday bazaar

Parcells Middle School, Mack Avenue and Vernier Road, is getting ready for its Seventh Annual Holiday Bazaar on Saturday, Dec. 6, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The bazaar will feature two floors of handicraft articles in needlework, ceramics, copper, jewelry, paintings, flower arrangements and baked goods. Over 100 dealers from all over Southeastern Michigan and Florida will be displaying their wares. A light lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Funds raised by the P.T.O. sponsored bazaar will be used to supplement and enrich the present education program. Bazaar chairman is Marie DuCoin and questions may be directed to her at the Parcells School office at 343-2104.

New paper art class at center

Art instructor Marilyn Derwenskus will offer three all-day workshops at the War Memorial Center in the new art of "Paper Assemblage" on successive Mondays, Dec. 1, 8 and 15 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Students must sign up for all three courses. Sack lunches should be brought, coffee is available. Workshop students will group and cut paper for color and three dimensional effect, marbleize paper, give it different textures by adding lint and create new and unusual patterns. Fee for the three workshops is $40. Register in the Center's office, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Instructor Derwenskus also has been a popular water color teacher at the Memorial Center and her water color classes will resume on Jan. 5 and continue on Mondays from 12:15 to 3:15 p.m. through March 9. Mrs. Derwenskus is an instructor at Detroit's Center for Creative Studies and is on the faculty of the Birmingham Art Association. She is known for her enthusiasm, imagination and creativity.

Hold your breath when you pass the cemetery! Doorways to the past: Historic haunts of Grosse Pointe

By Margie Reins Smith

When you rode past on your bicycle in the 1940's childhood custom dictated: you must hold your breath for the whole block.

That is my childhood memory of St. Paul's Cemetery on Moross Road at the corner of Country Club Lane.

It was a good bursting lungfull of air.

Actually, St. Paul's Cemetery is almost two acres of land full of Grosse Pointe history.

VanAntwerps, Verniers, Brys, Renauds, Morans, Rivards, Beaufaits, Trombleys, Kerbys, Cooks, Newberrys, Cadieux—all Grosse Pointe street names—

Burglars hit four Woods homes within four days

Grosse Pointe Woods police are investigating a number of breaking and entering incidents in which homes have been entered through rear doors and windows.

The latest incidents happened between Thursday, Nov. 6 and Sunday, Nov. 9. On Sunday, a home on Stanhope that was being watched while the resident was away was found to be entered through the rear window. The entire home was searched by the intruders but it was not immediately determined what was missing, according to Officer Michael Makowski.

Also on Sunday, a resident on Oxford came home about 1:12 p.m. and found someone had broken in through the back door. A movie projector, tape deck, two gold pocket watches, a wrist watch, a loaded rifle, and a stereo system were reported missing and valued at more than $1,400.

On Saturday, a resident on Newcastle and his wife left their home at 5:20 p.m. and returned about 8:45 p.m. and noticed a rear patio door partly open. Officers found the home had been searched. The residents reported that a 35mm camera, jewelry, and a stereo amplifier had been taken.

The resident of a home on Beaufait returned home about 8:11 p.m. Thursday and found his house ransacked. An investigation by Officer Jack Treppa showed entry was through a rear sliding door. A black beer case containing various coins of unknown value was taken.

Leading trust officers from area banks will conduct the seminar: Robert A. Hackathorn, Jr., of the National Bank of Detroit; A. J. Tobin, of Detroit Bank and Trust; and Clark Carnaby of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit.

For complimentary tickets to the seminar, interested persons may call the Development Department at 343-1520. For those who are unable to attend the seminar, but are seeking resource information on estate planning, a complimentary explanatory brochure is also available.

As a community service, Bon Secours Hospital's Development Department periodically sponsors estate planning seminars.

all appear on gravestones in the cemetery.

Some stones are new—etched sharply with names and dates. Some are old—cracked and broken, toppled on their backs. Some have lettering so weatherworn, it must be traced with a finger. Some flat stones are overgrown with tough sod, and the grass must be peeled away to reveal names and dates. Some tiny graves reveal a lifespan of merely a few months or a few days. Some proclaim jauntily, "in the 85th year of his age," or "at age 92."

The place is fascinating.

I walked through this cemetery one crisp autumn morning recently with Ed Treanore, the descendant of a long-established Grosse Pointe family that includes VanAntwerps and Verniers. Treanore's insights and memories provided interesting embellishments to the fact and figures of Grosse Pointe history.

Treanore remembers the funeral of his grandmother, Mary Thibault VanAntwerp, in 1921. "Moross was just a dirt road then," he recalls.

THE OLDEST gravestone is apparently that of Catherine Vernier, who lived from 1766 until 1831. She was Treanore's great-great-grandmother. Her husband, John Baptiste Vernier died just three years after she did, and is buried beside her. During the last years of their lives, Detroit's total population was a little over 2,000 people, and Grosse Pointe was a scattered settlement of French farmers.

Lewis and Clark had recently explored a chunk of land called the Louisiana Purchase. The westward movement in America was well underway, although Michigan had not yet become a full-fledged state. The lives of Catherine and John Vernier embraced the Revolutionary War, the Constitutional Convention, and eight U.S. presidents—George Washington through Andrew Jackson.

It is a mystery how these two graves came to St. Paul's Cemetery, since they predate the purchase of the Moross Road land by more than 30 years. They predate the previous St. Paul's cemetery also, by more than 15 years.

The present land was acquired in 1868. The original St. Paul's church was erected in 1825, on the shore of Lake St. Clair, just beyond present-day Vernier Road. In 1848, a new church was built on today's site, Lakeshore near Moran Road. At that time, Lakeshore was a plank road. This church was rebuilt in 1899 and is today's building.

Shutterbugs meet Nov. 25

"Strobe Photography" will be the topic at the next meeting of the Grosse Pointe Camera Club on Nov. 25 at Brownell Middle School, 280 Chalfonte.

Douglas Stellberger, president of Photo Techniques Guild of Farmington, will be present at the 7:45 p.m. meeting. Visitors are welcome to attend.

THE 1848 building had a small burial plot behind the church, covering about the western one-third of today's parking lot. The graves from this site were moved after 1868, when the new land on Moross Road was purchased.

Perhaps the graves of Catherine and John Vernier were behind the original church, or perhaps they were buried for awhile on the Vernier farm and relocated later.

Cemeteries are full of mysteries.

Crunching through the yellow leaves, I was acutely aware of Grosse Pointe's rich French heritage. Many stones were chiseled in French, as was that of Victoire Rivard, who died in 1859.

Other gravestones bear the name of a French city, the birthplace of the person buried beneath.

St. Paul's cemetery even boasts the grave of a French Count: Pierre Marie Albert, Comte de Rostang. He was born in Paris, November 15, 1892, and died in Grosse Pointe on Christmas day, 1950. His wife, Jacqueline Ann Marie, Comtesse de Rostang, a native Detroit, is buried beside him. She died in 1967. Their marble marker is one of the more elaborate and ornate, and was designed by the countess, an amateur sculptress.

Old cemetery records mention an elm tree that was planted soon after the cemetery opened. This could be the large cathedral elm, now over 100 years old, that stands at the back of the cemetery. Father Elsen, a tireless worker and believer in the construction of the new St. Paul's church building in 1899, is buried in an unmarked grave beneath that tree.

The mysteries—the French heritage—and the fascinating past of Grosse Pointe—are more appropriate thoughts today, when one passes St. Paul's Cemetery.

I wonder if there are still some neighborhood children who can hold their breaths for the entire block?

Schools grant a sabbatical

South High School art teacher Gene Pluhar last week was granted a one-year sabbatical leave to complete requirements at Wayne State University for a master of fine arts degree.

Pluhar joined Grosse Pointe Schools in 1968 and first taught elementary physical education. In 1978 he was transferred to the South art department. Assessments of his performance on the job have been "consistently high," according to Superintendent William Coats.

The Board of Education approved the sabbatical at its Nov. 10 meeting. The school's agreement with the Grosse Pointe Education Association provides for such leaves for the purpose of improving teachers' ability to "render educational service."

Pluhar will receive three-quarters of his regular salary during his year at Wayne State.

Women make mark

Women now make up almost half of the American work force, bringing home annual income totaling more than $390 billion. They own more than half of the nation's wealth and control approximately $500 billion in spending each year. Moreover, women represent over 60 percent of America's households in which total annual income is $15,000 to $50,000.

Austin graduate named

Nevada Atty. Gen. RICHARD BRYAN (left) recently appointed Grosse Pointe native SCOTT BODEAU as chief supervising Deputy Attorney General assigned to the State Department of Conservation and Natural Resources. Bodeau, 31, is an Austin Catholic Prep graduate who previously served as a deputy attorney general assigned to the State Department of Transportation. Bodeau received his undergraduate degree from Michigan State University and his law degree from the McGeorge School of Law in 1977. He was admitted to the Nevada bar the same year. He is the son of Arthur and Jane Bodeau of the Pointe.

Thieves take mink coats

A Lakeland resident apparently scared off some burglars recently but not before the thieves got away with $11,700 in mink coats.

Police said thieves entered the home around noon on Nov. 5 through a side door after prying it open with a tool. According to police reports, the thieves took a figured statue valued at $3,000, but it was later found broken in several pieces near the home. Police speculate the thieves may have dropped it while making their escape after hearing the owner come into the house.

Earlier this month a Park woman reported more than $3,600 in minks missing from her home. City police say the two incidents are unrelated.

Lochmoor rehab waits okay

Owners of the Lochmoor Hardware building, one of the oldest structures in Grosse Pointe Woods, are waiting for final city approval of a plan to renovate the 54-year-old landmark store.

In the meantime, the present tenant has received a license to conduct a going-out-of-business sale to clear the store of its merchandise.

A plan to make interior improvements and redesign the store into a more contemporary colonial style went to the Woods council on Nov. 3 but was sent back to the Planning Commission for some final changes involving a possible side door opening into the parking lot.

According to Chief Building Inspector Earl Wakely the city does not approve of the side door and could turn down the renovation plan if the door remains in the plan.

The plan is expected to go before the council again at its Dec. 8 session. The Lochmoor building was nearly condemned this past summer when the city found numerous safety code violations.

Composer featured at North concert

Dr. H. Owen Reed, Professor Emeritus of Music at Michigan State University, will join Grosse Pointe North Symphony Orchestra for its concert on Tuesday, Nov. 25, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center.

Dr. Reed's music is widely recognized by professional musicians and music educators. His influence has extended to numerous young composers whom he contacted while teaching composition at MSU.

North's Symphony Orchestra will perform Dr. Reed's recent composition "Ut Re Mi," a variation of the traditional "Ut Queant Laxis," a hymn to St. John. Also appearing in the concert will be North's Concert and Stage Band.

The Concert Band will perform "Variation Overture" by Williams and the Stage Band will play "Get It Together" by Jeff Steinberg, "Steamin' Groovy Day" by Steve Spiegel, and other jazz compositions.

Admission to the concert is free.

Here's some safety tips for home heaters

A variety of portable heaters now on the market can help reduce energy costs if used for short periods of time. They can also be hazardous if used improperly.

Of special concern to Richard Pfister, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service safety specialist, are the flame-powered units being advertised for home use.

He points out that, regardless of the safety features that may be built into the flame-powered portable heaters, they use oxygen and produce carbon dioxide and varying amounts of carbon monoxide.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas that builds up in the red blood cells. It may reach toxic levels in minutes or over several hours. Early symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning include dizziness, headache, and/or nausea. Eliminating carbon monoxide from the body takes from 10 to 24 hours.

"Any flame must have oxygen to survive," Pfister points out. "So must humans. Put a flame and a human within a fairly tight, weatherized house, and they will compete for oxygen."

"I'm not saying that every flame-powered portable heater is unsafe to use," he adds. "But I do not think it would be wise to use any of these for more than an hour at a time without ventilating the house."

Some flame-powered portable heaters have carbon monoxide detectors built into them. These are supposed to turn the flame off when the carbon monoxide level in the air around the heater becomes too high.

"Even so, I'd want to be cautious about sustained use," Pfister advises. "If the flame goes out, and the unit didn't run out of fuel, the house should be ventilated immediately."

Electrical portable heaters can be energy conservers if they're used briefly to warm one part of the house rather than turning on the furnace and heating the whole house.

"This really is what they are intended for," Pfister says. "If these units are used to warm the house for several hours, the costs may become quite steep in comparison with the costs of conventional heating methods."

He recommends that only portable electric heaters that require no more than 1,500 watts be plugged into ordinary electrical household outlets. Special wiring should be provided for heaters that require more than 1,500 watts. Otherwise, fuses will blow or wiring could overheat, creating a fire hazard.

Portable heaters should carry the UL (Underwriters Laboratory) label and have an automatic shutoff in case they are knocked over. They should also have protective

Prime Time
 For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

She married her boss. It is a union that has brought benefits to many, but particularly senior citizens, for they are both deeply committed to programs and legislation which will make the later years of older people better.

She is Margheritta S. Allardice, executive director of Adult Service Inc., an organization that provides many and varied services to seniors.

He is Edward Allardice, director of the Well-Being Service Division of the Visiting Nurses Association, an agency that works to assist older people maintain their own home as long as it is physically possible.

They met when Ed was a board member of Adult Services and Margheritta was beginning her work there. Their line of rapport was a mutual concern for the status of older citizens but they soon discovered many other common interests. So, as the best stories end, they were married.

But for Margheritta and Ed it was not the end of the story but a continuing saga of shared determination to do everything possible to work for better conditions for older people.

Ed's concern began with his internship as a Yale Divinity student. A native of Rochester, N.Y., he was sent to Detroit to serve an apprenticeship in urban church work. His first assignment was the Dodge Community Center. When that closed, he decided to stay on in Detroit and was assigned to the Presbyterian Church on East Grand Boulevard where he remained for seven years.

As he worked among the people in the area, he came to realize that their problems were representative of the problems of many. He decided that the best way to help was to go into a field where he could apply his talents to helping the greatest number of people. He chose social work.

This necessitated returning to Wayne State University to earn a Master's degree in Sociology. In his position as Director of the Well-Being Service, Ed feels that he has achieved his goal.

THE WELL-BEING Service does not directly provide the services needed to maintain older citizens in their homes for as long as they wish and as long as it is possible. Instead, it acts as a clearing-house which looks into what is needed in the way of services and then contacts the agencies which provide those services whether it be a visiting nurse or housekeeper, transportation or a hot meal delivered.

Ed is particularly dedicated to his work because while he is the first to concede that there are circumstances which warrant nursing home care, he is convinced that it should be the last not a first resort. This conviction is based on his experience as a member of Citizens for Better Care, an advocacy agency for better nursing home care. He saw first hand that many homes were providing good services, there were also those that were pitifully below standard. It is understandable that after that experience, he is so happy in his present position.

Margheritta also arrived at her position of tremendous influence on the lives of older citizens in a round-about way.

When she first came to Detroit from Washington, D.C. she worked as an art teacher, directing the talents of many students at the War Memorial. It is a great source of satisfaction that many of her students went on to distinguish themselves. She is especially proud of one of her students, Deborah Wylie who is making a name for herself in architecture in California.

"I like to think I contributed something to her enormous talent," she mused.

MARGHERITTA doesn't speak of her own art accomplishments. She has no need to. Her home is a gallery showcasing her vibrant style. She does admit to designing and making jewelry.

From art to service to others began for Margheritta when she became an active member of the Junior League of Detroit. (She also served as president of the organization.) One of her assignments with the group entailed services to seniors as well as others who needed support.

Working as a volunteer she started the Adult Service center. Later she became a board member and then went on to become the director but not before she went back to Wayne to get a Master's degree in Sociology. Margheritta, as is her husband Ed, is too conscientious a person not to want to have a professional view of a field in which she is dedicated to improving conditions.

And improve she did. Under her guidance the Adult Services has grown from a staff of three to 90 members. It has implemented many exciting and innovative programs.

As an example, it is the only agency to provide mental health programs for the elderly. It now is the only agency in the country that contracts with other centers to provide mental health programs. This outreach program was the subject of a presentation made before the National Council on Aging.

Another project which is new began with a group of pharmacy students from Wayne who came to the center to study the effects of drugs on older people.

They researched how drugs used in various combinations, in combination with food or drink and how frequency and amount of dosages affect older people.

This again is something that no other agency has worked on. Margheritta thinks that the project was of vital importance, not only to the health of the elderly but also in the field of pharmacy. More and more there is a need to understand the affects of drugs on older systems. We have all seen the results of over sedation and how it removes older people from the mainstream of life. It soothes their anxieties but it also keeps them from playing an active part in their daily lives. They become passive and while they avoid problems, they also miss out on some positive experiences which they could enjoy.

ANOTHER SERVICE instituted under Margheritta's direction is the provision of social and recreational services to nursing homes. The Center now has under contract some 600 homes which had no such services previously.

A rehabilitation and vocational program is also offered at the Center. Margheritta speaks proudly of the accomplishments in that field. She recalled an instance which occurred at the dedication of their new building.

"A client for whom we had provided mental health counseling and

SOC starts new service for seniors

"Senior Citizen Information" is a new service for Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods seniors which will link persons 60 and older and their families to services available in the community. The program was announced this week by Louise V. TeWalt, presidents of Seniors Onward for Change (SOC).

According to Mrs. TeWalt, the service will have knowledgeable volunteers and resources to refer seniors and their families to social services and activities, nutritional, health, legal, and transportation services, home winterization, and volunteer and employment opportunities.

The program was developed through research by SOC into the needs of seniors directed by Elaine F. Reed, SOC program developer, and project coordinator, Virginia H. Downing.

The Senior Citizen Information program will try to respond to all questions and needs. It is located in Ferry School, 748 Roslyn, Grosse Pointe Woods, and is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Call 882-9600 for more information.

The service is funded by the Detroit Area Agency on Aging which administers federal funds distributed by the state through the Older Americans Act for the area including Detroit, the Pointes, Harper Woods, Hamtramck, and Highland Park.

The Senior Citizen Information service includes members of the Information and Referral Task Force of community organizations and agencies.

Volunteers working with the program include Helen Francis, retired professor of social work, at Wayne State University, Helen Leonard, Outreach Librarian for the Grosse Pointe Public Library, Elizabeth Gruenfeldt, AARP representative and medical social worker, and Hazel Renouf, retired librarian, Detroit Public Library system. Edward Allardice, director of Well-Being Service for Aging, is chairman of the SOC Board Program Committee which operates the service.

Students from Iran Iran had more students, 45,000, enrolled in U.S. colleges and universities last year than any other nation. Altogether, foreign enrollment was over 250,000, less than three percent of the total.

vocational guidance was one of the speakers. She had gone on to a responsible and well paying position. She broke down and cried as she described how far she had come from dependency to a happy, fulfilled life.

A brochure describing the many services encompassed in the programs offered at the Adult Service Center is awe inspiring. Although there are satellite centers located in various locations, the Butzel Family Branch offers the widest range of social services with greater efficiency for more people.

It is organized to help seniors, 55 years and up, deal with problems of isolation, loneliness, personality deterioration and situational stress. Transportation is available to and from the Center, to medical appointments and to grocery stores.

This brief survey is only indicative of the expertise and responsibility of the director of such far-reaching services.

Happily there is a Margheritta Alardice to undertake the task. Quietly, efficiently and enthusiastically she not only maintains but extends the Adult Service Center's programs.

Added to that enormous responsibility, is her service on the State Commission and Service to Aging, an office through which federal funds are channeled to various agencies who work for older citizens. That commission also supports legislation that benefit the elderly.

With all their commitments, Ed and Margheritta still have time to enjoy a happy home life. They love to entertain. She is a gourmet cook and he, with the help of Julia Child, provides some culinary delights. She is a gardener and many of her best recipes feature herbs and spices raised in her own garden. They both enjoy listening to Baroque music.

They are also world travelers. Nepal, India, France, where they love to drive around on their own, South America, Venice, Turkey and the Greek Islands have all been ports of call. Scotland is homeland to both. They enjoy comparing their Scottish ancestry and respective castles.

There is much to be admired in Ed and Margheritta. Their dedication to service, of course, is to be commended, but it also is gratifying to find two people with so many common interests that they enhance and enrich each other's lives.

Village organist comes to the Punch

Motor City Theatre Organ Society will present Fred Fahrner, Greenfield Village Organist, at the console of the two-manual, six-rank Wuritzer Organ at the Punch and Judy Theater, 21 Kercheval, Sunday, Dec. 7 at 2 p.m.

It is another in a series of free mini-concerts presented the first Sunday of each month.

Fahrner is celebrating his 25th year as the Village organist this year. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan, with a Bachelor and Master's degrees in music. He studied with Robert Noehren and Carl Weinrich.

Appearing with Fahrner will be Edward Parrine, trumpeter. Parrine has been teaching instrumentation in the Detroit Public Schools for 15 years and is a member of Grosse Pointe Theater. He received his Bachelor degree in Music Education from Akron University in Ohio.

Following the concert Sunday, refreshments will be served in the lobby of the Punch by Elaine Blatt, Dorothy Messer, Bernice and Bob Mills, Kay Robson, Irmgard Shoemaker, Dorothy Van Steenkiste and Betty Weller. Master of Ceremonies will be Michael Kwitt and Father Dana Schultz will perform a review of the work.

Head voidanoff and Herb Dave handle maintenance of the organ and will get it ready for the artist. Motor City Theatre Organ Society, a nonprofit corporation, is a group of more than 450 area residents. The purpose of the organization is to preserve and restore theater pipe organs, in their original settings where possible, and to foster interest in music.

The society purchased the Redford Theatre in order to preserve the Barton 3-manual, 10-rank pipe organ permanently in its original setting and to provide a home for the society.

All work at the theater is performed by volunteers from the membership who also maintain organs at the Royal Oak Theatre and the Michigan Theatre in Ann Arbor. Membership in the Society is open to all interested individuals.

City cop receives citation

A City public safety officer will be recommended for a departmental citation for his use last month of the life saving knowledge of cardiopulmonary resuscitation.

Officer Francis Thibedeau, 40, responded to a call from owners at the Merry Mouse, 17001 Kercheval, on Oct. 28, of a man who had just collapsed of a possible heart attack.

Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy said Thibedeau quickly applied the CPR technique to the man, 67-year-old Clarence Mehl, after he showed no signs of breathing. Kennedy said breathing was restored and Mehl was taken to Bon Secours Hospital by Park emergency medical technicians.

Mehl, a City resident, is the father of City police Lt. Gerald Mehl. Kennedy said Thibedeau would also be recommended for the Detroit News police officer-of-the-month award. Thibedeau has been on the force since 1967.

Educators cited at DCB

Dr. Edward Chiels, Chairperson of the English-Speech Department at Detroit College of Business in Dearborn, was recently named College Business Educator of the year.

The award, which carries with it a $500 cash prize and $400 traveling expenses was presented at the Annual Convention of the American Independent Colleges and Schools Nov. 3 in Bermuda.

The criterion for selection of the award, sponsored by the Bobbs-Merrill Publishing Co., were leadership in the profession, innovation in teaching, professional organization involvement, curriculum development and contributions to the community.

Chiels, a graduate of South High School, received his Bachelors and Doctorate degrees from Wayne State University and his Masters degree from the University of Michigan.

The award to Chiels marks the second year in a row that it has been won by a DCB faculty member. Last year Delores Curley, chairperson of the Secretarial Studies and Office Administration at DCB, was the recipient of the award.

Another Pointer, Jean Brett, Dean of Students at Detroit College of Business, was awarded the Harriet Meyers Service Citation at the fall conference of the Michigan Association of Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors.

This award is given to "a woman who has made outstanding contributions to women in education."

Brett, an alumnus of University of Michigan, resides on Lincoln Road.

Thieves busy in the Woods

Thieves kept Grosse Pointe Woods police busy again last week burglarizing two homes and a parked car.

On Wednesday, Nov. 12 a resident on Lochmoor told Officer John Harwood that she left home at 6:15 p.m. and returned at 9:15 p.m. and found her house ransacked. Police investigation showed that attempts were made to break into the house at two different points but were foiled possibly due to the presence of dogs in the house.

Missing from the home was an eight piece silverware set, and some gold jewelry.

On Tuesday, Nov. 11, a resident on Ridgemont left home at 4 p.m. and returned at 10:25 p.m. and found someone had cut the screen out of a rear window and entered the home through the window. Missing was a guitar and a cassette recorder valued at $220 in total.

A resident on Blairmoor parked his car Monday, Nov. 11, and left it for 10 minutes. Upon returning, he found someone had slipped the lock open and removed a $195 leather jacket and wallet with $95 cash from the car.

Church sets special service

A special Thanksgiving service will be held at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 282 Chalfonte, Nov. 27, at 10:30 a.m.

Scriptures selected for the occasion point to Christ Jesus' example of gratitude.

Related passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the denominational textbook will be read. A familiar passage from Psalms and other selections from the Old and New Testaments will be read.

The service will also include the reading of the President's Thanksgiving proclamation, hymns, prayers, and a time for church members to express gratitude for God's goodness and care.

All are welcome to attend, and care will be available for very young children.

Ford insurance policy dated 1909 donated

Marr and Associates, Inc. in Grosse Pointe Woods, has donated a 1909 insurance policy taken out by Henry Ford to the Ford Archives at Henry Ford Museum.

The policy with the Security Insurance Company of New Haven was purchased from the agency for a three year period from 1909 to 1912. The policy covered windstorm, tornado and cyclone damage on Ford's Dearborn holdings for $8,000.

The coverage extended to 25 buildings, with a premium of $60. The gift to the Archives includes a map showing Ford's properties in what is now Dearborn.

Douglas A. Bakken, director of the Archives, said the policy and map help identify the number of buildings Ford owned, their location, size and construction.

"We're pleased that the Marr Insurance agency realized the value of this and wanted it permanently available," Bakken said.

The donation was part of the Marr agency's 75th anniversary. The agency was founded in 1905 by M. R. Marr and is now operated by great-grandsons William and Richard Marr.

Ivory smuggling

Zaire and several other African countries are centers of an illegal ivory trade which is endangering elephants all over the continent, according to Sunday Nation, a Nairobi, Kenya, publication. The smuggling of elephant tusks has long been a topic of African concern. The process is attractive to many villagers because they can earn a year's normal income from the sale of just two pounds of ivory, and one tusk can easily weigh 10 times that amount.

SH Players present 'Tom Jones'

South High School's Pointe Players opened its 53rd season last night, Wednesday, Nov. 19th, with a production of "Tom Jones," which will run through Saturday night in the school auditorium.

"Tom Jones," written by Henry Fielding in 1749, received much criticism at first because of its subject matter. Bruce Keffen, director of the Players, said, "I want people coming to my plays to see what we will do and how we will handle it. They were interested in how we handled 'Pippin', (one of last year's productions), and I'm sure they'll want to see what we do with 'Tom Jones.'"

The play, an epic comedy placed in England, was chosen because Keffen felt the cast would benefit from experiencing many British customs native to that time.

For the first time the cast will be using costumes and dialect from that era. The cast is large with 24 members.

Tim Reinman plays Tom Jones, Pete Gigante is Squire Allworthy, Kaki Tindall is Bridget Allworthy, Paul Matta is Mater Bliffel, Peter Huebner is Mr. Partridge, Bob Kitchen is Mr. Western and Diane Srea plays his daughter, Sophia.

More cast members include Katie Gracy, Kris Nelly, Joe Magee, Larry Laferte, Paul Corbett, Lisa Keegan, Laura Slanczyk, Dennis Coles, Andrew Stephen, Trevor Dinka, Maureen O'Bryan, Kitsy Ecklund, Gin a Bartoszewicz, Angie Kemp, Jennifer Hoeting and Jon Stevenson.

Tickets are $2.50, and will be available at the door each night. Curtain time is 7:30 Thursday, and 8:30 Friday and Saturday.

Two Grosse Pointe communities this week joined other suburban customers of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department in hiking water rates effective Dec. 1. Earlier this year, Detroit handed its 78 customers a new rate schedule to foot improvements in the city's water system. The request has angered many suburban officials, including those in Grosse Pointe.

New water rates are approved

The Park Council reluctantly approved the new costs for the water it purchases from Detroit — from $1.92 to $3.24 per 1,000 cubic feet.

In the Shores this week, the Council passed along the stiffest increase to residents in Grosse Pointe — from $1.92 to $4.32.

Beginning Dec. 1, Park Mayor Matthew Patterson said water bills won't look like water bills anymore.

City administrators in the Park recommended increasing the water rate to $5.50 and adjusting the sewerage rate to $6 for a combined rate of $11.50 in order to recover the $185,000 increase in costs to furnish residents with water. The council okayed the recommendation.

Residents will also be assessed a storm drainage charge of $5 a month for meters 1 inch or less and $7 for meters 1 inch and above.

Under the new rate hike, residents will be billed bi-monthly instead of the present quarterly method.

In September the Woods Council approved a 57 percent hike for residents there, up to $1.22 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The Farms sells water to Grosse Pointe City, but at a combined water-sewer rate of $11.40 per 1,000 feet for City residents, the two communities are not too far behind the costs to Pointe residents from Detroit.

Pointe communities were handed a sewerage increase at the beginning of this year. The last water increase passed to residents was in 1976.

Fruit sale for South High

By Susan Sweetman
South High
Members of Grosse Pointe South's band and orchestra are conducting their annual fruit sale until Nov. 21.

Tangelos and grapefruit range in price from $7 for two-fifths of a bushel to $12.50 for four-fifths of a bushel.

"The fruit sale is our only fundraiser," said Ralph Miller, instrumental music director at South. Profits from the sale are used for $100 scholarships to various summer music camps, and student awards.

Last year, the band and orchestra collected $5,600. Therese Stocking, a member of the orchestra, said, "All of the money is returned to the band and orchestra, so it's really worthwhile."

Anyone interested in ordering fruit can do so by contacting any band or orchestra member, or by calling Miller at 343-2140 during school hours.

Food drive is a success

Bon Secours Hospital employees and volunteers sent over 50 baskets of food to the Capuchin Community Center on Oct. 15.

Valued at over $2,000, the food was collected during Bon Secours Hospital's annual Harvest Basket Drive.

Each year employees and volunteers collect food goods for people in need residing in the metropolitan area.

According to Fr. Lloyd Theil, director of the Capuchin Community Center, the food will be used to feed visitors to the Capuchin Soup Kitchen, or be given to families in emergency situations.

A warning to the GOP

Rep. William Bryant, Jr., is hardly your prime example of a flame-throwing liberal and thus his post-election warning to his own party ought to be given some attention by the national powers-that-be in the newly revived GOP.

In his column in the News last week, the Grosse Pointe state representative who is the House GOP leader said the "grant of authority to Republicans, especially by the Republican majority in the U.S. Senate, is a very tentative grant." And then he explained:

"If we fail to care about human misery, about the legitimate civil and human rights of people, if we act to deny people their chance to get ahead and to pursue the American dream, and if we fail to see to it that government does provide those basic services and sustenance to those who cannot provide those for themselves, then the electorate will withdraw its grant of authority."

Even though he was the choice of only about 26 percent of the people eligible to vote, President-elect Reagan did get a mandate to shift Washington toward a less costly government and one that is less intrusive in the affairs of both private individuals and private enterprise, Rep. Bryant conceded. But that does not mean the voters want to turn their backs on social programs that meet the real needs of people.

FOR THE NEW GOP administration, the problem will be to resolve these conflicting demands. It won't be easy, as the new regime is already learning during the transition period. But unless the GOP takes both into consideration, it could, indeed, damage its prospects for a long and successful reign in Washington and run the risk of losing its control of the Senate in two years and its occupancy of the White House in 1984.

Most Republicans understand this need to avoid too far a swing to the right. Unfortunately, some of the conservative organizations that supported the GOP presidential ticket and senatorial nominees tend to claim too much credit for their contributions to the GOP victory. They seek an ideological purity that would divide the party, force elimination of many social programs and in the end result in the loss of the "grant of authority" that Rep. Bryant warned about.

Parking IS a problem

New and higher parking rates on the Hill have aroused considerable criticism from businessmen, employees and customers. They also have resulted in many vacant parking spaces in the public parking area northwest of Kercheval and in an increased amount of parking on streets in nearby residential areas. That, in turn, has prompted some complaints from residents who find their streets clogged with parked cars.

A spokesman for the city of Grosse Pointe Farms says the city imposed its new rates because it had not raised them in 10 years and its costs had more than doubled during that period. Rates for customer parking were raised from 10 cents an hour to 20 cents an hour and for long-term parking from 50 cents to $2 for 10 hours. In effect, the city justifies its rate increases on the same grounds the merchants do in boosting their prices. Costs are simply up.

YET THE controversy over the new rates really is only the visible portion of the iceberg that represents the parking problem on the Hill. For the new rates still are lower than those that would be required to make the proposed parking ramp in the Muir Road-Kercheval Avenue area self-supporting.

True enough, parking in the ramp would be more convenient for shoppers by providing direct access to the merchants on Kercheval. Presumably it also would provide more protection for drivers and cars during inclement weather. The question is whether enough people would be willing to pay the additional amount for these conveniences. On the basis of the controversy over the new rates for the city lot, the question is difficult to answer.

In the Village, the larger merchants stamp customers' parking tickets and in effect help subsidize the parking ramp. Perhaps the same course would have to be followed on the Hill, if the parking ramp is to be economically viable. Yet some merchants by the nature of their business are unlikely to cooperate in such a program.

Grosse Pointe Farms officials could have avoided some of the controversy over the hike in rates if they handled the changeover with more courtesy and advance notice. Several persons reported to the News that they had parked in spaces that lacked operating meters, only to return a few hours later to find tickets on their windshields. That kind of treatment embitters customers and tends to persuade them to shop elsewhere.

Whatever the outcome of the parking controversy, cheap, adequate and accessible parking is a necessity for all business areas in the Pointes, whether on the Hill, in the Village or elsewhere. And if rates are too high or parking isn't available, people will decide to drive more often to distant shopping malls where the parking is free.

So the interests of the merchants and their customers must be considered along with the city government's revenue needs in whatever solution finally is reached with respect to the Hill's parking problem.

Letters to The Editor of The NEWS

Police, neighbors deserve thanks

To the Editor:
Although much of what happened at our house on the night of Oct. 18 shall forever remain inexplicable, our conclusion seems clear—our 4-year-old daughter could have been seriously hurt, even murdered, had it not been for the timely intervention of both Farms and Woods police officers.
We are truly grateful for such prompt and effective protection. We particularly want to thank the four officers who stayed with our daughter and her babysitter until we returned home. Such exemplary service, combined with the many expressions of consolation which have come from our neighbors and friends here, have helped us to feel quite close to this community though we have lived here only six months.
To all of these people we convey a sincere thank you.

When I talked to the secretary at the office, she said she would advise her supervisor of cancellation. The cancellation will not be in effect for two weeks, for which I am charged.

Please advise other customers regarding this. To us the company is a money making racket.

A horrifying hit-and-run

To the Editor:
On Nov. 3, my son was hit by a car while crossing the street on his bike at Kercheval and Berkshire. Lucky for him a very kind couple came by in their car and brought him home as the driver of the car didn't see fit to stop.
He is badly bruised and will be on crutches for a couple days but has no serious injuries. However, the driver of the car could not have known that—how can anyone leave a child laying in the street after hitting him with their car? I hope, "Mr. or Ms. hit and run," you are having nightmares for what you did.
Our son will be fine and we will help him pay for repairing the bike which he paid for with his own money, but how about the next child you hit. Will he or she be so lucky?
I would also appreciate having the couple who brought our son home call so I can thank them properly.
Sincerely,
Jayne Ridgeway,
Of Devonshire Road,

Cable TV turn-off

To the Editor:
This morning my husband and I had the Grosse Pointe Cable TV Co. install its "galaxy of stars." At the time of application for service we were not advised of the lock-key system, which fuzzes out the picture when R-rated movies are played.
I called the office regarding this matter and was told I could have this for $7.50 extra. Naturally you would think at time of application the company would advise you of this. The secretary at the office told me that parents with children are allowed to purchase this.
My husband and I do not have children at the present, but I have

Know Your Schools

By Dr. William Coats, Superintendent of Schools

Good news and bad news — both were contained in the 12th Annual "Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools."

For the past 12 years George Gallup and his organization have been surveying what our nation's citizens think of their public schools and why. Each year's poll has given educators a lot of information about how their efforts are perceived and has been useful in determining trends and attitudes. This year's poll was no exception.

Respondents to the 1980 Gallup survey were again asked to give the public schools a grade of "A, B, C, D, or F." Since 1974 when this question was first asked, there has been a decline in the grades given by the public.

This year the decline in grades stopped with 10 percent giving the schools an "A," 25 percent a "B," and 29 percent a "C." For comparison's sake, 18 percent of those polled gave schools an "A" when the question was first asked in 1974, with that group dropping to only 8 percent in last year's survey.

It was noted in this year's survey that those living in rural communities and towns under 50,000 in population gave the highest ratings to their schools, while those living in large cities gave schools the poorest grades. Generally, people living in the midwest and south give the schools the highest grades.

In order to determine how confidence in the public schools compares with confidence in other American institutions, a question to that effect was included in this year's survey. School's ranked second in organized religion, with 74 percent of the respondents saying they had a great deal or a fair amount of confidence in public schools.

Courts, local, state and national governments, labor unions and big business were in descending order behind public schools.

There also was nearly universal agreement this year that schools are important to a person's future success, with all groups surveyed — from the well-educated to the poorly-educated — holding this opinion.

Maybe even more important, the public has greater faith in the importance of public schools today than in 1973 when the question was first included in the survey. This year 82 percent of those questioned said schools are "extremely important" to one's future success, with only 2 percent viewing the schools "not too important."

These are some of the "good news" statistics from this year's poll. In next week's column, I'll summarize some more of the findings and indicate some of the problem areas — or "bad news" — the public sees with public schools.

Time down, costs up

In 1970, a patient was confined to a hospital for an average of 8.2 days, compared to 7.6 days today. But the cost in a community hospital for an average stay was $684, compared to $1,886 today, an increase of 154 percent. While a day of care in 1970 cost $81, it now costs an average of $222.

When the sagging outer wall of Lochmoor Hardware building was removed, the store's original wooden structure built in 1927 was revealed. Grosse Pointe Woods planners are currently finalizing plans to renovate the landmark structure on Mack between Hawthorne and Hollywood. Its occupants are liquidating the inventory to make room for builders. A new tenant is scheduled to take over the hardware store in January.

Research shows alcohol-accident link

Members of the American Public Health Association (APHA) were told in Detroit last month at their 108th annual meeting that drinking age change research just completed by the University of Michigan has national implications.
Dr. Richard Douglass and Dr. Alexander Wagenaar of the University of Michigan presented papers to the APHA delegates on Oct. 21, revealing the results of the first research evaluation of the impact on morbidity and mortality from raising the legal drinking age.
Findings of the researchers indicate that alcohol-related crashes were reduced among 18-20 year olds when the state's legal drinking age was raised from 18 to 21, based on a scientific analysis of traffic accidents in Michigan from 1972-1979.

This is the eighth year in which the University of Michigan has been involved in continuous applied research on the relationship of alcohol availability and alcohol-related problems.
Earlier studies by Douglass, Wagenaar and colleagues at the University of Michigan's Highway Safety Research Institute (HSRI) showed that injuries and deaths from alcohol-related auto accidents among 18-20 year old drivers increased in Michigan after the state lowered its legal drinking age from 21 to 18 in 1972.
In his paper on "The Raised Legal Drinking Age and Motor Vehicle Accidents in Michigan," Wagenaar revealed the results of the first evaluation of what happens when the legal drinking age is raised.
Wagenaar's findings showed that alcohol-related accidents and deaths have been reduced among 18-20 year old drivers in Michigan as a result of the state's raising its legal drinking age in a 1978 referendum election. Wagenaar's paper indicated a reduction of from 17.7 percent to 30.7 percent in alcohol-related accidents among 18-20 year old drivers. His findings also suggested that the raised drinking age has reduced alcohol-related accidents among 16 and 17 year old drivers as well, although not as dramatically as with the 18-20 year old drivers.

Presently the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism (NIAA) is discussing the findings of Douglass and Wagenaar with the White House and several federal agencies as they consider national model laws.

NH paper drive aids musicians

North High School Bands and Orchestra will hold a paper drive on Saturday, Nov. 22, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the school parking lot, 707 Vernier Road.
"Not only do we hope to earn a profit on this drive, we consider it a service to our environment in that using waste paper saves trees," said Band and Orchestra president Cathy Franklin, of North.
For further information call Nathan Judson, Instrumental Music Director, at 343-2240, or leave a message at 343-2187.

ULS drive tops 1979

An impressive 88 percent of University Liget Upper School students supported the school's United Foundation Torch Drive.
Students Mary Bogle, Dan Garan, David Mott, Kim Hoelle, Rhona Spitz, Bill

Cadieux, Melanie Faunroy, Beth Rizzo, Coit Ford, Nancy Hines, Camille Nowosielski, Heather Robbins, Michelle Grady, Bill Scarfone, Ann Ciaffone, Natali Craechiolo and Sandy Yonkoski promoted and organized the drive.

Christmas brunch concert scheduled by GP Symphony

The Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association, ever alert to find a new formula for supporting the orchestra, this year will launch its Christmas Concert and Brunch. The pre-holiday gala, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7, at the Roostertail, will be a happy melange of fun, fund raising, good food and a program of light music played by the Pointe Symphony under the direction of Felix Resnick.

It is open to the general public, of course, with advance, paid reservations necessary.

The social hour, with a complimentary glass of champagne, is planned for 1 o'clock. Brunch will be served between 1:30 and 3, when the concert begins. Proceeds from the event will benefit the orchestra.

Conductor Resnick has planned a program of wide general appeal, including Offenbach's Gaité Parisienne, the Gingerbread Waltz and Dream Pantomime from Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck, Pops Hoedown by Hayman, selections from Jesus Christ Superstar arranged by Henry Mancini, and Anderson's Christmas Festival.

And—lest we forget—Victory at Sea by Rogers, because December 7 is the anniversary of Pearl Harbor. Of course, everyone will have a chance to sing along with the orchestra in a round of Christmas carols.

General chairman Mrs. John E. Young, Jr. and Mrs. Michel Skaff, Women's Association president, are proud of the brunch menu, which will feature eggs benedict with hollandaise, apple-cinnamon crepes and cheese blintzes with sour cream and blueberry sauce, as well as the traditional freshly carved roast turkey and cranberry sauce.

"The Roostertail, in its lovely winter riverside setting, will be decorated for the holidays," says Pat Young. "We'll have little Christmas gift surprises on each table and a special price for children under 12, to make the party attractive to families."

Committee responsibilities are being shared by the following: arrangements, Mrs. J. Ross Bush; tickets and invitations, Mrs. William O. Bradley Jr.; reservations and publicity, Mrs. Joseph J. Marshall; gifts, Mrs. Kim K. Lie and Mrs. William Bundesen; hostesses, Mrs. Henry Dretman.

Also on the committee are Mrs. John E. Engstrom, Mrs. E. D. Flintermann, Mrs. Michael LaRocca, Mrs. Lyndle R. Martin, Mrs. Richard Mertz, Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford, Mrs. David M. Sutter, Miss Hazel Thomas, Mrs. George C. Vincent and Mrs. Bernard Whitley.

Individual adult admission to the concert-brunch is $15; children under 12 will be admitted for $8. Phone 881-2706 for additional information and to make reservation arrangements.

These are highlights.

See how they sparkle. And glitter. And glow. Would you like to have some in your hair? You can. With our special conditioners. We have some that come out of jars. And others that come out of thin glass vials. And we can tell you which one would work best for you, while not depriving your hair of any body. If need be, we can even give you more. Like to have a hairdresser who knows all about such things? Then light on to us. Quick.

Scarab Club will hold benefit auction of art

Outstanding original art-paintings, sculpture, pottery, glass—is being donated by members of the Scarab Club of Detroit for the club's annual Art Collectors Benefit Auction, Sunday, Nov. 30.

Among the donations already received is a black-and-white wash abstract watercolor by Ernest W. Scanes, of Grosse Pointe Woods. The painting was hung in the Michigan Watercolor Society's 1930 exhibition in Flint.

Eileen B. Fischer, also of The Woods, has donated two pastels done by Marilyn Zapp, a graduate of the Cleveland Art Institute who is known for her compassionate and sensitive works that capture timeliness of special moments, with emphasis upon children.

The auction, open to the public by advance reservations, will be held at the Scarab Club, 217 Farnsworth Avenue. The clubhouse in itself is of interest to persons concerned with art.

An example of pure arts and crafts style, it was designed by noted architect Lancelot Suckert and built in 1928. It has recently been designated as an historical building by the State of Michigan and the National Trust for Historic Preservation.

A preview of the art works will be held from 4 to 5 p.m., with complimentary wine and hors d'oeuvres. The auction follows from 5 to 9 p.m., under the gavel of Ernest DuMouchelle.

Berry lecture set tomorrow

A record turnout is expected for the annual Eska and Raymond Berry Memorial Lecture to be presented tomorrow in Fries Auditorium at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 10:30 a.m.

Sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Garden Center, this community event will feature television personality and horticulture expert Jerry Baker whose topic, "I never met a houseplant I didn't like," promises to be hilarious, fast-paced and informative.

Mr. Baker, a garden expert and author, has been a regular on the Channel 2 edition of "PM" since its beginning. He has appeared on the Dinah Shore Show regularly for the past five years and has been featured on many occasions on the Johnny Carson Show.

The morning lecture, free to the community, will be followed by a subscription luncheon at which Mr. Baker will be the guest of honor. He will pick the winning number in the drawing for the beautiful hearthrug which has been on display at the Garden Center.

This floral treasure, which was made by expert needlepointers Mrs. James A. Lafer, Mrs. John A. Bryant II, Mrs. Cyril J. Edwards Jr., Mrs. Carl B. Larsen, Mrs. Edwin Ross and Miss Barbara Ogden, was designed and finished by Jacobsons.

Under the direction of Mrs. Charles Bigelow, chairman, arrangements for the luncheon have been carried out by hostesses Mrs. George Fern, Mrs. H. Rollin Allen and Mrs. Carl B. Larsen. Others are Mrs. Gordon Sorensen, Mrs. J. Crawford Frost, Mrs. Julian Haydon and Mrs. Paul Hostetter.

"Christmas Heritage" opens at museum Nov. 26

"Detroit's Christmas Heritage" exhibit, at the Detroit Historical Museum, opens Wednesday, Nov. 26 and heralds the beginning of the Christmas season in the Cultural Center.

A biennial tradition at the Museum, the exhibit features Christmas trees decorated in the traditions of some of the many ethnic groups in the metropolitan area.

As in other years, the Museum has received the co-operation of the International Institute in preparing the trees. In particular, groups representing the Ukrainian, Italian, Hungarian, Polish, Greek, Japanese, Norwegian, Bulgarian, Lithuanian, and Swedish communities have participated directly in this effort.

Intricate hand-made decorations created from materials and patterns found in nature abound. Rye and wheat straw have been used to make exquisite snowflakes, stars and birds on the Lithuanian, Polish and Swedish trees.

The Ukrainian and Bulgarian trees feature beaded ornaments, straw and gilded walnuts; nuts, sweets and candies dominate the Hungarian entry; while the Norwegians added small geese to their tree.

Delicately folded paper decorations reflect Japan's famous "origami"; the Greek tree features dolls and ribbons. A three tiered "crepe" including a miniature nativity scene was prepared by the Italian group.

"Detroit's Christmas Heritage" opens Wednesday, Nov. 26 and continues through Sunday, Jan. 11, 1981. The Detroit Historical Museum is located at 5401 Woodward (at Kirby) in the Cultural Center.

The Museum is open Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free, although voluntary contributions are welcome.

The staff of the Historical Museum is currently preparing the decorations for its own traditional tree. This year another 20 foot spruce will be in place by Tuesday, Dec. 2, in the Museum's Round Hall.

Each year, an individual or individuals who has/have made dedicated and outstanding contributions to the metropolitan area is/are designated as Humanitarian(s) of the Year.

Last year's honoree was Mayor Coleman A.
Young. The year before that, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley
Kresge were joint recipients.

Serving on Judge Keith's 1981 award nominating committee were Theodore Mecke, Justice G.
Mennen Williams, Robert McCabe, Mrs. Robert
Pastor, Ms. Sondra Berlin, Walter Douglas, William
Giles and Ms. Florine Mark. The Women's Com-

Two art-full events

Margaret and Douglas Borden have invited friends to meet Italian painter and sculptor Umberto del Negro this weekend. Del Negro, showing for the first time in the United States, has exhibited throughout Europe since 1963. He'll be bringing his work to the Borden home on Lake-shore Road.

And last weekend, at Pine Knob Manor Homes in Clarkston, a two-week, one-woman art show opened that is of special interest to Pointers. Featured are paintings and drawings by Patricia Tews Boyer.

The Boyer name is well known in The Pointe.
Pat's husband, David, is the son of Frank Boyer, a lifelong local resident before moving to St. Clair.

David believes, as Patti does, that "she has to paint." Pat terms David "more than encouraging;
he is inspiring." David pursues his own craftsmanship in everything from photography to furniture making; one of his best efforts is a hand-carved wood Nativity set which delights the entire family
—Aimee, 13, Joe, 11, and Julie, six—each year.

One special benefit

Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Tracy, of Provencal Road, are honorary chairmen of the dinner dance set for Friday, Dec. 5, at the Detroit Athletic Club: a benefit for noted cancer research scientist Sister Arline Schmeer, O.P., Ph.D., whose work at the AMC Cancer Research Center and Hospital, Denver,
Colo., has received international recognition.

Sister Arline (the "Clam Sister" as she is known by her colleagues and supporters worldwide) will be there, to speak briefly about Mer-cenene, the non-toxic anti-cancer agent she has discovered in clams. She is currently seeking funds to test Mercenene on dogs with spontaneous cancers.

The evening begins at 6:30, with cocktails.
Vic Caputo, a member of the Michigan honorary board of directors of the National Fund for Sister Arline's Cancer Research, will serve as master of ceremonies. Dr. Sonya Friedman will be guest speaker.

The program also will feature presentation of two special awards to honorees who, "through exceptional dedication in volunteer fund raising efforts, have evidenced their spirit of caring for others."

The Dolores Lampe Award will be presented to General Motors Corporation Chairman and Mrs.
Thomas A. Murphy, the Matt Monley Award to Rosemary (Mrs. James) Bannon. Both awards were recently established in memory of two courageous cancer victims who lived in Birmingham.

The list of those serving on the benefit committee includes Grosse Pointe's Mrs. Gerald Gattorn. Reservation information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. B. P. Costello Jr. at 647-6220.

In the spring of 1979, Sister Arline received the University of Detroit President's Cabinet Medal for her "tireless dedication to the development of a cure for cancer." Later this month, the Dominican nun will receive the annual award given by the Mercy Medical Center in upstate New York to those who distinguish themselves in the health sciences.

Dr. Schmeer's studies, which have been independently confirmed by such leading medical scientists as Nobel Prize winner Dr. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, Sloan Kettering's Dr. Alice E. Moore and the National Cancer Institute's Dr. Andrew Hegyi, have shown 80 to 100 percent regression of malignancies in mice after treatment with Mercenene, without apparent side effects.

Sister Arline is now seeking funds to initiate tests on dogs: a final FDA requirement before clinical studies can begin on humans.

Movin' Theatre date at DIA

Wayne State University Theatre Department's Movin'
Theatre will be showcased live on stage for Detroit
Youtheatre's "Something Every Saturday" audiences in "Head Over Heels" this Saturday, Nov. 22. There will be two performances, at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the Detroit Institute of Arts auditorium/theatre.

Tickets at $2 for children and adults, $1.50 each for groups of 10 or more, may be purchased in advance through the museum ticket office, and at the door.

Featuring the dancing, fights and falls which have made Broadway plays and Hollywood movies so popular, Movin' Theatre runs the gamut from the intricate sword fights of Errol Flynn to the up-beat disco of John Travolta in this non-stop show. The performance surveys the various styles of movement and theatrical dances used in stage productions from medieval times through the present.

"Head Over Heels" is especially designed for families with young people seven years old and older. Children younger than five will not be admitted to the theatre.

'Understudies' aid Hilberry
Wayne State University President Thomas N. Bonner entertained the Hilberry Theatre's 1980-81 Sponsors at the President's Preview performance of "Boy Meets Girl" last Saturday evening, Nov. 15, at the Hilberry.
The performance was preceded by a subscription dinner at McGregor Memorial Conference Center, which also was the setting for "Art IV", the reception following the play, for all guests and the Hilberry's graduate repertory company.
The event also was the celebration of another record-breaking year for fund raising by the Theatre's Understudies, the committee of Detroit area women who have assumed the task of finding Sponsors to contribute to the support of the graduate students who make up the Hilberry company.
According to Mrs. Irving Dworkin, Understudies president, over $70,000 has been raised, mostly through individual contributions of $125 or more. This is over $10,000 more than the amount raised last season, and over $15,000 more than that raised in 1978.
Mrs. Dworkin also called attention to the hundreds of Understudies who have helped the theatre for the past 17 years, and the five past-presidents, whose photos now hang in the Hilberry's foyer with a list of Understudies who served under them.
The President's Preview annually culminates the Understudies fund raising drive for the support of the repertory company, this year composed of members from 80 states and the Dominion of Canada.
The group includes 23 actors and actresses, 17 technicians and six administrative assistants who come to Hilberry for advanced training and intensive performance experience preparatory to professional careers.
Former Hilberry members are currently working on Broadway, off-Broadway, in regional resident theatres, in Everyone wins in the annual Tennis and Crumpets tournament. Hundreds of participants enjoyed play over the weekend of September 13 and 14, with four couples emerging victorious in the separate divisions in Grosse Pointe.

Denny Cavanaugh and Karen Charlton won the Open Division. Jack Knowles and Kathy Horton won the "A." Francis Rodriguez and Pam Meehan won the "B." and Roy Solterisch and Linda Solterisch won the "C."
The teams of Cavanaugh and Charlton and Knowles and Horton also won in the Super-Finals of the city-wide tournament, at the Ren-Cen Raquet Club, in the Open and "A" divisions, respectively.
The 1980 Tennis and Crumpets tournament not only brought enjoyment to all participants but also was a winner for Children's Hospital of Michigan which, as always, reaps the benefits of T&C's financial success.
The Grosse Pointe benefit raised close to $35,000 for Children's this year. Total benefit donation from all areas was approximately $95,000.

Laura Dean at Music Hall

Laura Dean Dancers and Musicians, under the direction of Laura Dean, composer and choreographer whose works are known to either electrify or alienate audiences, is appearing at Music Hall Center now through Nov. 23.

Dean, considered by friendly critics as "one of the strongest and most individual voices on the contemporary dance scene," uses familiar movements including spinning and foot stamping. Dean's dancers, most trained in ballet before joining her company, must also be trained singers and musicians.

Her music and movement suggests to many a primitive ritual or folk tradition performed in ensemble. Heavy emphasis is placed on balance and spatial relationships between dancers. Dean does not create solos or duets.

Laura Dean Dancers and Musicians is an unusual company which elicits both positive and negative reactions—reactions audiences often are unable to explain.

At many of Dean's concerts, audience members have walked out in mid-performance. On the other hand, her style and skill have been recognized and she was recently selected by Vice-President Walter Mondale to tour China in a dance study group as part of a cultural exchange program.

Laura Dean's first ballet, "Night," premiered Oct. 29 at the Joffrey Ballet to rave reviews from the N.Y. Post's Clive Barnes and the Times' Anna Kisselgoff. Joffrey performers warmed to her choreographic style, commenting the piece was their most difficult ballet to date.

While at Music Hall, Laura Dean Dancers and Musicians will present "Dance," accompanied by electric autoharps, and Dean's new work, "Tympani," accompanied by two grand pianos and tympani. A free Dance Spinning Workshop will be offered today, Thursday, Nov. 20 at 1:30 p.m. at Music Hall Center. Call 963-7622 for reservations.

Tickets for the performances are on sale at the box office and may be purchased by phone (963-7680) using a MasterCard or Visa. Group rates are available from Joan Heidt at 963-7622. Tickets are also on sale at all CTC outlets.

A new title for Dorati

Antal Dorati will become the Detroit Symphony's Conductor Laureate, an honor bestowed as a lifetime post, on June 1, 1981, according to a statement issued last week by Louis A. MacKenzie, president of the DSO board.

Dorati, the Orchestra's music director since November, 1977, will retain his present title until May 31, 1981.

Expressing his pleasure at being named the first Conductor Laureate in Detroit, Dorati stated: "With great happiness I accept my new role as Conductor Laureate with this superb orchestra. I wish to assure the symphony family — our musicians, the staff and the public—that it is my intention to serve in this new capacity with as much interest and enthusiasm as ever. My goal is to help make certain that the DSO is maintained as a first class musical ensemble."

MacKenzie referred to the remainder of the current season as he expressed the sentiments of the DSO's executive committee: "We look forward to celebrating Maestro Dorati's 75th birthday with him in Detroit, to the continuation of the Beethoven cycle with the performances of "Fidelio" and the Ninth Symphony, to the Bartok Festival and to the East Coast tour which includes engagements at Carnegie Hall and Kennedy Center."

"These events, and the planned recordings for London Records this season and in the future, will certainly add further to the luster Maestro Dorati has given the orchestra." Commenting on Maestro Dorati's outstanding record of artistic contributions to Detroit, MacKenzie continued: "A thankful community anticipates many fruitful years of musical collaboration with Maestro Dorati in his role as Conductor Laureate. His regular visits to our podium will continue to be a high point in our subscription seasons."

MacKenzie emphasized that the management has been, is and will be consulting with Maestro Dorati as to future leadership of the orchestra and an announcement will be made in the near future.

During his tenure as DSO Music Director, Antal Dorati inaugurated the orchestra's first mid-season festivals, including tributes to Beethoven, Schubert and Brahms; directed fully-staged opera; starred as conductor and narrator in the Emmy-nominated "Beethoven Festival" series on Public Television and was instrumental in returning the orchestra to the international recording field.

Maestro Dorati also led the Detroit Symphony through a triumphant first tour of Europe in the fall of 1979.

Red Cross honors pheresis donors

American Red Cross Blood Services Southeastern Michigan Region honored more than 500 special blood donors at the fourth annual Pheresis Recognition Reception held early in November. Among the group receiving framed certificates from Dr. A. William Shafer, director, and Dr. Snatchi Shah, medical director, were a number of Pointers, including Karen V. Harmon, Gregory Fischea, Frederick Howell, Cheryl L. Le. Jon Lechner, Thomas Krell and Hazen VanVleet.

"We at the Red Cross and the recipients consider our pheresis donors as 'special people,'" explained Dr. Shafer. "Pheresis donors don't give whole blood. They give a specific component of their blood for a specific patient. They might give plasma, or platelets or white cells in a procedure that takes two or more hours."

In the pheresis procedure, related Dr. Shafer, blood is drawn from one arm and passed through a blood separating instrument that separates and collects a single blood component, such as plasma, platelets or white cells.

The remaining blood components, including the red cells, are returned to the donor usually through the other arm. The body normally replaces the component drawn in pheresis within 24 hours.

Pheresis therapy is used to treat patients undergoing cancer therapy or those who have leukemia or aplastic anemia or other diseases which respond to this type of medical therapy.

Continuing the explanation of pheresis, Dr. Shafer said that a platelet transfusion for one patient would require from six to eight donations of whole blood and that white cells are extremely difficult to extract from a whole blood donation.

Thanks to the pheresis process, a single donor is used to obtain the white cells or platelets needed for a transfusion.

"Because we can obtain enough of the needed component from one donor, it lessens the risk to the patient of a possible reaction," said Dr. Shafer.

Pheresis donors range in age from 17 (with parental consent) to 65 and have no health problems. For additional information about the pheresis program, contact the Red Cross at 833-4440, extension 252.

Christmas walk dates are set at Meadow Brook Hall

Dates, committee and theme have been finalized for the 1980 Christmas Walk at Meadow Brook Hall. Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Vining of Bloomfield Hills are chairing the annual event, which attracts thousands of visitors.

Nearly three dozen floral designers and special exhibitors (all donating their time and talents) are already at work creating elaborate trees and Christmas displays to turn Oakland University's 100-room Tudor mansion into a "Potpourri of Christmas Trees" for visitors to see from Wednesday, Dec. 3 through Monday, Dec. 8.

Committee members working with the Vining's are the Frank O. Andersons II, Bennett Bidwells, Wilbur H. Boulets, John Days, Robert W. Deckers, Robert E. De-wars, George Elges, Elliott M. Estes, Alan Gornicks, Lee A. Iacoccas, H. H. Kehris, F. James McDonalds, William L. Mitchells, John Mundells, Donald E. Petersens, Guy Pitts, Lloyd Reuss and Roger Smiths of Bloomfield Hills; L. V. Nagles Jr., John Secrests, Alvie L. Smiths, and Mrs. G. Russell Wiger of Birmingham.

The annual Christmas tour is Meadow Brook Hall's major fund-raising activity, and all proceeds are used for preserving this historic mansion, the former home of Alfred and Matilda Dodge Wilson.

When the home was completed in 1929, costs totaled $4 million. The Hall is preserved with original furnishings and art works, and serves the community as a cultural and conference center of Oakland University. Hours for "Potpourri of Christmas Trees" will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Dec. 3 only. All other days the public may tour from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Admission is $5 for adults on weekdays, $8 on Saturday and Sunday; senior citizens, $3.

For further information call Meadow Brook Hall at 377-3140.

Restore Fort Wayne Parade

Three miles downstream from the heart of Detroit at the site of the prehistoric Indian Burial Mounds and near an area known by the French as "Place Aux Fontaines" in the township of Springwells, a fort was constructed on 96 acres of land purchased by the United States Government.

The fort, named after General Anthony Wayne, was built between 1843 and 1850, and rebuilt of more durable material between 1862 and 1870.

The garrison area west of the old fortification was developed between 1866 and the early 1900's.

The Riverfront Parade Ground was part of this later development, presenting a broad vista from Officer's Row to the banks of the Detroit River, the Parade Ground was used for Garrison Parades, inspections, special ceremonies, lawn parties and weekly concerts by the Garrison Band.

During the late 1930's and World War II many changes to the appearance of the Riverfront Parade ground were made. Huge warehouses were built covering most of the site, and a powerhouse to heat the fort buildings was constructed. Railroad sidings and paved storage areas were built to handle the vast amounts of motor vehicle ordinance and Quartermaster material shipped from Fort Wayne during the 1940's and 1950's.

Between 1949 and 1971 the old fort and a large portion of the Garrison area were transferred to the City of Detroit by the Federal Government for use as a Military Monument and Museum. In 1976 the remaining property, including all of the former Riverfront Parade Ground, was transferred by the Department of the Interior to the Detroit Historical Department.

Plans were immediately developed to convert this valuable property back to open space, to once again establish the visual connection between the historic fort and the river, and to provide a beautiful riverfront park facility in a part of Detroit where public access to the water is severely limited.

The restoration of the Parade Ground and riverfront property has been accomplished through funding from the following sources: The Community Development Block Grant Program which funded the demolition of the warehouses, powerhouse and paved areas; the Coastal Zone Management Program which funded the stabilization of the sea wall and the shoreline landscaping; the City of Detroit Bond Fund which provided monies for the grading, seeding, installation of paths and sod and general site improvement of the Parade Ground; and the Gordon-Selway Company which contributed the construction of an earthen embankment to serve as a natural amphitheater.

The Michigan Consolidated Gas Company recently contributed historical gas lights and poles which will be installed along the riverfront—hopefully before the fort reopens to the public next year for its 1981 season.

The restoration of the Riverfront Parade Ground will provide Historic Fort Wayne with a site that can be utilized to bring back the band concerts, the picnics and military reviews that once took place there.

In addition, it will provide space for artillery demonstrations, muzzle-loader shoots, Civil War and 18th Century Military Musters, Independence Eve concerts, antique car festivals, Indian Pow-Wows and a host of other history-related events.

More importantly, it can be utilized in perpetuity as a riverfront park where citizens can enjoy passive recreational activities from the banks of two of Detroit's greatest historical attractions—the river and the fort.

TRAVELWORLD
By DICK D'ANDREA
AGENTS PREFER CRUISING—
SO SHOULD THEIR CLIENTS

It seems that at long last at least an inkling of proof has leaked out supporting what was so long suspected—that travel agents, given a free choice of a vacation for themselves, would overwhelmingly select a cruise. According to the International Passenger Ship Association (IPSA) which had the survey made, 86% of the agents chose a cruise over a resort vacation, an air tour or a motor trip. And that fact, said IPSA, shows that travel-perceptive agents themselves realize the unique travel product that a cruise is. Cruising is 'the' package vacation—one price does it for accommodations, travel, food and entertainment. Add to this only the drinks you want to drink and the ship or shore shops you want to shop.

While we offer a variety of destinations, itineraries, and sailing dates, we realize your personal tastes must be taken into consideration. For that reason we recommend that you spend a few minutes with us. WE can help you decide which is the best cruise for you; which stateroom best meets your needs; which time if year best fits your plans. Call the Cruise Desk of TRAVELWORLD, 882-8190.

Music Hall elects officers

The Music Hall Center Board of Trustees, at its Annual Meeting on Oct. 30, elected Thomas B. Adams to serve as its chairman. Adams has been a trustee of the non-profit arts institution since it was founded in 1973. He succeeds Harwood Rydholm, who has been chairman of the Music Hall Board since September of 1978.

Adams is chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Campbell-Ewald Company and a board member of that advertising company's parent organization, The Interpublic Group of Companies, Inc.

A native Detroit and a graduate of Wayne State University, Adams joined the Campbell-Ewald staff in 1945 as a copywriter. He subsequently became account supervisor, account executive, vice-president (1953), and president (1958). He was elected chairman in January, 1968.

Adams pledged to build on the progress achieved under Rydholm's leadership, and added that Music Hall's accomplishments come from the heart of the Detroit community. The Center has made great strides in fund-raising, subscription sales, restoration of the theatre building, and attendance. Last season, more than 308,000 people attended Music Hall performances.

As a director of a number of civic, business, and professional organizations, Tom Adams brings many and varied experiences to the Music Hall Board. He serves as a director of Detroit Renaissance, McLouth Steel Corporation, Kent-Moore Corporation, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and the Economic Club of Detroit. He is a past chairman of The Advertising Council, Inc., a trustee of Children's Hospital, and an officer and director of the Detroit United Foundation.

Other officers elected at the Annual Meeting were John W. Paynter, vice-president and treasurer, and Pointer Ruth H. Vance, secretary. New Trustees elected to the Board for three-year terms were Pointers Joseph L. Hudson Jr., Dean E. Richardson and William R. James and Alan E. Schwartz.

Ireland-Curtiss vows exchanged

Bride's three sisters serve as attendants; Newlyweds are at home in Ann Arbor

The Sunningdale Drive home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Phelps Curtiss, was the setting Sunday, August 24, for the wedding of Cynthia Ann Curtiss and Robert Charles Ireland.

The Reverend Paul E. Christ officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony which was followed by a champagne-buffet supper served in the garden. Mrs. Charles Turvey assisted in cutting the wedding cake.

The bride wore a gown of white marquisette featuring cap sleeves, a high neckline and lace appliques on the bodice and skirt. She wore a lace headband and carried a bouquet of red roses.

Honor matron Mrs. Jack (Carol) Lebee, of Silver Springs, Md., and bridesmaids Catherine Curtiss, of Washington, D.C., and Cristy Curtiss, of Ann Arbor, sisters of the bride and Carol Ireland, sister of the bridegroom, wore street length dresses in jewel tones of green, aqua, blue and claret and carried white daisies.

Torkanowsky conducts DSO in three performances

Maestro Werner Torkanowsky will be on the podium and will be joined by the highly respected Czech pianist Rudolf Firkusny for three performances at Ford Auditorium by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 28, 29, and 30.

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday, the regular Thursday concert will be played instead on Friday evening and will be repeated on Saturday evening. Both evening concerts are at 8:30 p.m. followed by a Sunday Kresge Family Concert on Nov. 30 at 3:30 p.m.

The program for the three concerts will be Berlioz's "Roman Carnival" Overture op. 9, Shostakovich's Fifth Symphony in D minor op. 47, and the DSO premiere of Dvorak's Piano Concerto in G minor op. 33 on Friday and Saturday.

For the Sunday afternoon concert, the Shostakovich symphony will be replaced by three shorter works: Debussy's "Prelude to the Afternoon of a Faun," Strauss's "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks," and three Spanish dances from the second act of Falla's ballet "The Three-cornered Hat."

Tickets for the Friday and Saturday evening performances are available at $10.50, $3, $3 and $8. Sunday afternoon Kresge Family Concert tickets are available at $9, $3 and $7.

They may be purchased at the Ford Auditorium Box Office and VISA and MasterCard customers may order tickets by phone at 962-5524. Windsor residents may phone in orders (toll free) at 258-9499. In addition, a limited number of tickets at $3 for students and senior citizens are available at the door on Friday and Saturday from 7:30 p.m.

Werner Torkanowsky was born in Germany and emigrated with his parents to Israel when he was six years old. He received his earliest training from his mother, a concert pianist. Torkanowsky made his debut as an orchestral conductor with the Minneapolis Symphony (now Minnesota Orchestra) in 1960, and since that time, has conducted nearly every major orchestra in the United States.

His DSO conducting debut was in January of 1961, and he has appeared before the Orchestra on many occasions since then, most recently leading the DSO's seventh annual summer tour of the Upper Peninsula, when he conducted five concerts.

The Czech-born virtuoso, Rudolf Firkusny is an international artist in the truest sense. In addition to his annual tour of the United States he has made over 50 tours of Europe, South America, Mexico, Australia and Israel. Acclaimed as an interpreter of both contemporary and classic works, Firkusny has been giving concerts in this country since 1938. Since his DSO debut in 1948 he has returned on six separate occasions, most recently in March 1979, when he gave the Detroit premiere of the Second Piano Concerto of his countryman Bohuslav Martinu.

Firkusny was born in Napajedla, and studied the piano with Artur Schnabel and composition with Leos Janacek and Dvorak's son-in-law Josef Suk. He has recorded widely and his artistry is universally praised. New York Times critic Harold Schonberg wrote that Firkusny has "inherited the mantle of Ossip Gabrilowitsch."

An exhibition of 150 vintage photographs of Japan taken between 1854 and 1905 continues at the Detroit Institute of Arts through this Sunday, Nov. 23.

Suspended in sepia prints, courtesans show their costumes, actors posture, warriors flaunt arms and armor, wrestlers display muscle and villages sit placidly in the shadow of Mt. Fuji.

A mix of European and Japanese photographs are eyewitnesses to Japan's transformation from an insular country to a modern world power. Some are anonymous, but a few can be identified: Felix Beato, an Italian military photographer; Baron von Stillfried, an Austrian nobleman; Kisakabe Kimbei, a Japanese photographer of tourist views; and Ogawa Ischin, the most successful Japanese society photographer of the period.

From 1630 to 1854 Japan had been closed to foreigners. The unchallenged record of everyday life was the popular woodblock print. When Japan was opened to the West, the camera was introduced in time to capture the transition from feudal shogun rule to the Emperor Meiji and modernization.

"Japan, Photography 1854-1905" is open to the public without charge during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesdays through Sundays. The museum is closed Mondays and legal holidays.

Jointly organized by Japan Society's Japan House Gallery and the American Federation of Arts, the exhibition is supported by grants from the Japan-U.S. Friendship Commission and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Inter-Faith Center fair set

The Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice will present its Sixth Annual Holly Mart, the Christmas Art Fair, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Friday, Dec. 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 6, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Holly Mart will feature 32 Michigan artists who will display and sell their works of blown glass, textiles, pen and ink, scrimshaw, watercolors, jewelry, wooden toys, ornaments, embroidery, children's items, pottery, quilting and weaving.

"Holly Mart visitors can expect to see exciting and original work," says Jane Spaulding, artist coordinator. "We think we have the right combination of old favorites, such as Janet Anderson, whose pen and ink drawings of Detroit are so popular, and new talent, such as Pointer Marion Spitzley, whose embroidered jewelry and clothing are sure to be a smashing success."

The Holly Mart will feature the work of many Pointe artists including: Chloe Boehm, Lottie Crowley, Peggy Ann Brown and Bette Prudden. Works of Kate Schuch, Barbara Welsh, Carol Sinclair, Linda Williamson and Marion Spitzley will also be displayed.

Mary Lynn Miller and Diane Honstain are co-chairs of the 1980 Holly Mart. Committee members include: Susan Bryant, Jane Spaulding, Dee Steiman, Peg Upmeyer, Jim Miller, Marianne Manion, Cynthia Fondreist, and Barbara Ward.

Admission to the Holly Mart is $1. Children will be admitted free. Luncheon will be available, as well as a bake sale and raffle.

ULS students see the past

University Liggett School student reporters in Barbara Bidigare's class covered the "beat" for the Grosse Pointe News at Greenfield Village on Nov. 4. Attending classes that day at the McGuffey one-room schoolhouse, the fourth graders learned more about mid-19th century school life than just reading, writing and arithmetic.

Reporter Ferdie Arcinue recounted, "The class wore old-fashioned clothes. We used slates, a Webster spelling book and McGuffey Reader. We had to do chores like bringing in wood for a fire and filling a bucket of water to drink."

On the subject of recess, Robert Laurie noted, "In the old days, the main games were Red Rover, tag and marbles. These were about the only games there were. They didn't have soccer and basketball. I guess they hadn't invented them yet."

The different approach to punishment impressed John Bellamy. "At the McGuffey Schoolhouse, it's hard to be good. If you forget to do your homework, you'll have to sit in the dunce chair and the teacher will tell your mother... and trouble for you. If you misbehave or talk out of turn, the whip will do the talking."

The field trip was the culmination of a ULS fourth grade history unit covering topics from geography to crafts. While the high point of the unit has passed, students are now enthusiastically tackling follow-up projects. Hand sewn patchwork pillows and detailed models of the Greenfield Village landscape will be on display in the Lower School before vacation.

Teams finish year on top

By Tim Saunders
North High

The Grosse Pointe North girls' swim team, one of the last fall sports teams to complete its schedule, ended its season by winning five of its last six meets before taking the Bi County League Championship last week.

The girls took 10 first places in two of the last three meets and nine first places in the other before the league meet on Nov. 15.

On Oct. 21, they traveled to Warren Tower and defeated Tower, 155-58. Wendy Woods and Cheryl Stoyka led the way with two first places in individual events, as well as being a member of a winning relay team. Woods took firsts in the 100 and 200 free styles and teamed with Jane Beck, Franci Shook and Ann Mitchell to win the 400 free relay.

Stoyka finished first in the 200 individual medley and the 100 breast stroke, while the team of Stoyka, Ann Vanker, Beck and Mitchell also won the 200 medley relay.

Other first places went to Beck in the 50 free style; Colleen Walter in diving; Tamara Baldwin in the 100 fly and Jill Figley in the 500 free.

Nine days later the girls handed Lakeview its only loss in the Bi County with a 110-64 thrashing. First places went to Walter, Mitchell, Stoyka, Beck (twice), Woods and Shook as well as to the relay teams of Mitchell, Stoyka, Shook and Beck and that of Mitchell, Woods, Endres, and Figley.

Although a loss to Grosse Pointe South broke a four-meet winning streak on Nov. 4, there were a couple of bright spots for North. Mitchell set a new school record in the 100 back stroke with a time of 1:06.5, while the 200 medley relay team of Mitchell, Stoyka, Vanker and Beck's time of 2:00.2 qualified them for the state meet in early December.

The team got back on the winning track three days later when it hosted Braltec on Nov. 7. Ten more first places went to Grosse Pointe North in the 128-40 victory including those to Figley, Sharon Attar, Krista Thornton, Stoyka, Christi Loehr (twice) and Shook (twice). The teams of Figley, Woods, Beck and Mitchell, and Beck, Woods, Mitchell, and Vanker also won relay events.

The Bi County League Championship

meet was held at Grosse Pointe North last weekend and the host team came away with the Dual Meet Championship as well as the Bi County League Championship.

North placed at least two swimmers in the top five of all but two of the nine individual events. Standouts were Woods, first; Figley, third and Christi Loeh, fourth in the 200 free style.

Shook took second and Stoyke, fourth in the 200 individual medley. Beck was first in the 50 free style; Walter and Janet L'Heureux were first and second in the diving competition.

Ann Vankers took third in the 100 fly; Beck second in the 100 free style; Figley third and Loehr fourth in the 500 free style.

Mitchell and Shook took first and second in the 100 backstroke and Stoyka and Woods finished first and second in the 100 breaststroke.

The girls' varsity and JV basketball teams also closed out their seasons last week. Going into the final Bi County game both teams were in first place.

The varsity team ended the month of October with a big 61-45 victory over Lakeview to improve their league record to 7-2. The "team effort" led by Nicole Walter (18 points) and Jean Genard (six points, six assists, eight steals) also gave North an 8-5 overall record.

Grosse Pointe South, who had been tough on North teams all week, took an early lead in the game and North never got closer than nine points in the 50-34 loss.

Southlake was a welcome site two days later and North made it easy, taking a 15-point first quarter lead on the way to handling the Cavaliers their fourth loss in a row. Nicole Walter led with 14 points while Chris Bommarito had 12. Jean Soulier contributed 10 rebounds.

The girls then took on first place Lakeshore and thanks to a strong second half pulled into a three way tie for first place with a 54-39 victory. Amy Walkowiak scored 21 points and Soulier had 10.

The Lakeshore win set up the decisive game against Clintondale on Nov. 13. The contest turned out to be one of the most exciting games of the year. North got

Girls capture EML swim title

By Mark Clark
South High

South's girls swim team captured its seventh consecutive Eastern Michigan League Championship last Thursday, Nov. 14, at North, scoring 144 points to runner-up Mount Clemens' 60 points.

The Blue Devils qualified the maximum three swimmers in 10 of 11 events in the preliminaries on Wednesday. They won seven events in the finals on Thursday en route to a title that they have never lost since joining the league.

Paced by three-victory performances by Sara McLeod and Sara Brieden, the Devils were in command of the meet from the first gun. The 200-yard medley relay of Cheryl Chase, McLeod, Gretchen Ream, and Michelle Desrosiers splashed to victory in 2:02.2. The 400-yard medley relay also emerged victorious as Brieden, Maureen Cross, Lara Measelle, and Susan Cebrowski took the gold in 4:02.1.

Brieden also won the 100 and 200-yard freestyles in 5:1.1 and 2:02.2; McLeod the 200-yard individual medley in 2:22.0 and 100-yard breaststroke in 1:12.9.

Chase took the 100-yard backstroke in 1:08.8, and Measelle won the 50-yard freestyle in 26.1 narrowly missing the state cut-off time of 25.8.

Tri-Captain Gretchen Maghiesle put the meet in perspective. "We measured up to our expectations."

South qualified all three divers for the Regional competition at Utica Ford on Dec. 2 as Lori Gieseking took second, Ryndy Ditmars third, and Kelly Naughton fifth. High placings at the Regional competition qualifies swimmers for the State meet.

Swimming in the state championships at Michigan State on Dec. 5 and 6 will be Brieden in the 50 and 200-yard freestyles; McLeod in the 100-yard breaststroke, the 400-yard freestyle relay of Cross, Brieden, McLeod, and Measelle, and the 200-yard medley relay consisting of Chase, McLeod, Measelle, and Brieden.

"The medley relay should do well at the state meet and strong performances by the girls could place us in the top 15," said coach Tim Kennedy.

PAINE AWARDED
Among Ferris State College women's cross country team members honored for their accomplishments this season was Juliana Payne, of the Woods. Payne received the Two-Year Award.

Grosse Pointe Swim Club is off to a great start

Johnson stars in hockey for Tech

Junior defenseman JEFF JOHNSTON, of the Woods (number 24, above) has been a solid performer for the Michigan Tech hockey squad this season. Here, Johnston steers Northern Michigan University's Steve Bozek away from the Tech Huskie's net, manned by goaltender Rob Poimantuin. The action took place in Tech's recent series with NMU. The Huskies won one game, 3-1, and tied one, 1-1, in overtime.

A MONUMENTAL MOMENT IN MICHIGAN SPORTS HISTORY: CAPTURED BY ARTIST CHARLES CICCARELLI IN THIS LIMITED EDITION PRINT.

The date was November 22, 1969. The scene was Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor. Bo Schembechler's Wolverines had defeated the Number One ranked Ohio State Buckeyes, a football team considered by many "the greatest of all time." That exciting victory gave the Wolverines a share of the Big Ten title, a trip to the Rose Bowl and established a fierce gridiron rivalry. Mr. Ciccarelli, noted historical illustrator, has painstakingly recreated memories of that game in an original india ink drawing. Signed and numbered 20"x24" colored lithographic prints of that drawing are now exclusively available at Jacobson's, $55.
