

There are a few gas bargains for drivers

(Continued from Page 1A) cut-rate stations are killing us. We don't drop our prices unless Standard drops them to us. We had a decrease two or three weeks ago, and I intend to drop my prices by two cents effective April 25th."

"Standard prices are the highest around," admitted Pitlock. "The company is finally realizing this, even though we think we pump the 'Cadillac' of gasolines."

LEMANSKI SHELL, on Mack Avenue, sees no dropping of prices in the near future. "We have no intention of dropping our prices until Shell drops their prices to us," said a station spokesman. "I guess we're still fairly high. The last decrease we had was about two months ago. The price dropped by two cents for a week, then a week later they raised it by three cents."

Joseph's Service Station, a Mobile

station at Mack and Vernier, sees a squeeze on dealers. "We're getting it from three sides," said the owner. "First the customers complain the price is too high.

"Second, we're being killed by cut-rates and independents. They're cheaper because they're gas stations. We're a service station. We offer full service, plus air, repairs, towing service, use of credit cards and check cashing privileges. All this costs us money."

"At their stations, you pump it, no credit cards, no bills larger than a $20 and forget about filling your tires with air.

"The third pressure," he said, "is from the company itself. They're trying to push many of us into going completely self serve. That's a high volume, low margin business. They want us to drop our prices to the customer and work on a two cents a gallon margin, while they keep their prices to us the same."

"Right now we're working on a five cents margin on regular and eight cents on unleaded. The competition out there is tough. Our volume is down by 40 percent."

According to Oil and Gas Journal of April 20, 1981, the average cost of a gallon of regular gas at a full service station was $1.35, down from $1.36 in March.

AAA headquarters in Detroit put the cost for that same gallon statewide at $1.44. What can the consumer, the third side in the oil triangle, do to lessen the impact on himself?

The answer is to be a discriminating shopper. Look around for the best bargain. There are at least 27 service stations in the Pointe area, and their prices vary. Sometimes, startlingly so.

TIED FOR THE highest prices in the area in a limited survey by the News for a gallon of regular gasoline were the Standard Station at Mack and Rivard and a Shell station at Mack and Lakeland. Both charge $1.52. Just down the street on Mack, another Shell station charged $1.36 for the same full service gallon.

Second highest was the Standard station at Mack and Moross at $1.49. Somewhere in the middle, and around the national average, was the Mobil station on Kercheval, near Maryland, at $1.35.

A Mobil station at Mack and Fisher checked in at $1.39 a gallon. However, an Arco station next door offered the same full service gallon at $1.29. A spokesman at the Farns Arco station admitted "We're not making enough on gas at that price to pay for the lights in the station."

"But we are very competitive and want to attract business to this station," he said. "We're 23 cents a gallon cheaper than the highest prices around. On a car with a 20 gallon tank, that's a savings of nearly $5. Fill up once a week, and that's $20 extra a month in your pocket. Prices aren't going to go down, but shop around and you can save."

North, ULS students are Merit Award winners

Four Grosse Pointe students were among the names of about 1,200 winners of National Merit $1,000 Scholarships released Wednesday, April 22 by National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) of Evanston, Ill.

This is the second of three nationwide announcements of Merit Scholars to be made in 1981. "Expectations for these Merit Scholars are high because they are champions in an extremely rigorous academic competition," states a corporation spokesman. "They are likely to be among the nation's future leaders in their chosen fields of endeavor. In recognizing the personal achievement of these young men and women, credit also should be given to the schools, parents, and communities which have contributed so significantly to their educational development."

The local winners included three University Liggett School students:

• Curtis Doty of Detroit whose field of study is pre-medicine will receive a $1,000 scholarship sponsored by the State Farm Companies Foundation. Doty has won awards in Mathematics and writing and is an active pianist.

• William Gore of Detroit was named an honorary merit scholar. Gore's field of study is chemical engineering and he has received various academic awards and been active in the student government and newspaper.

• Elizabeth Wahl of Detroit will receive a $1,000 merit scholarship sponsored by Owens-Corning Fiberglas Company. She is undecided about a field of study and has received awards in academics, writing, and music.

Another winner is North High student Robert Zeiger of Grosse Pointe Woods who will receive a $1,000 scholarship from organizations in the business community. Zeiger will study political science and was active in the school newspaper, national honor society, basketball in addition to earning writing awards.

All of the 13,500 Finalists in the competition were considered for these "National" awards which are allocated to winners in every state, in numbers that are proportional to each state's percent of the nation's graduating high school senior class. Most of the unrestricted awards of $1,000 (1,028 or 86%) are underwritten by corporations, company foundations, and business organizations that also finance four-year scholarships designated for students who meet preferential criteria; NMSC's own funds are financing the remaining 172 one-time awards.

A committee of experienced college admission officers and secondary school counselors judged detailed information about every finalist. In choosing winners, the committee considered each finalist's academic record, self-description, achievements outside the classroom, qualities of leadership, two sets of aptitude test scores, and the high school principal's recommendation. Family financial information was not made available to the committee and "financial need" was not considered in the selection process. Recipients of National Merit $1,000 Scholarships are the finalists in each state who, in the opinion of the committee, best combine abilities and personal qualities that lead to success during and after college.

A few students being recognized in today's announcement have been designated "Honorary" winners. Honorary Scholars receive no funds from NMSC because they have declined a Merit Scholarship to accept another award, or to attend an institution or pursue a course of specialized training not covered by a Merit Scholarship.

Over one million high school juniors entered the 1981 competition by taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) in October 1979. Some 15,000 of the highest scorers—the top half of one percent in each of the fifty states — were named Semifinalists in September of 1980.

Over 13,500 Semifinalists advanced to Finalist level in the competition by meeting a number of requirements that included being endorsed and recommended by their high school principals, submitting school records that confirmed high academic standing and taking other exams.

Residents protest in Park

Prince maintained throughout the meeting that without the special approved parking use of the lots, he could not go ahead with his plans.

"There is definitely a need for parking," Prince said. With seven tenants living above the building and five businesses occupying office space, "We need that parking lot."

Prince said while opposition indicates a parking lot would destroy the entrance way into the Park, it would in fact enhance it with his plans for an attractive fence and shrubs buffering the lot.

"I thought I was improving an eyesore in the community, but I'm beginning to wonder now with all these remarks," Prince said.

The only person to speak in favor of Prince's plan was his daughter, Linda Finger, a resident of the Park.

Mrs. Finger questioned the residents' attacks on her father's ethics and his association with retarded homes in Detroit and Howell, Mich. "We are talking about a piece of cement, not a man's reputation," she said. The council tabled the lot issue indefinitely.

Cops appeal

"There are ways to handle intoxicated people, without using a 357-magnum," Crehan was quoted as saying.

Attorney Tonkin said the officers thought Holstin was an intruder when they entered the darkened house and heard a woman yelling "Get away from me."

According to police, Holstin began shouting obscenities to the officers when they tried to talk him into surrendering. Tonkin said Holstin then attempted to grab Serwach's gun, but the officer jerked the weapon away and it went off striking Holstin in the stomach.

Holstin's widow, Linda, called the shooting "without reason and needless." She was expecting the couple's second child. Mrs. Holstin claims the house was not darkened and that she didn't scream.

North senior is honored

On Saturday, March 28, Cathy Franklin, North's Senior Violinist, was nominated at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival to participate in the 17th Annual State-wide Musical Talent Screening to be held at Central Michigan University on Saturday, April 18.

The five young musicians selected that day will perform in Mt. Pleasant with the Flint Youth Chamber Orchestra as part of the Youth Arts Festival on May 15 at CMU.

Cathy is one of 75 nominees chosen from nearly 2,000 proficiency entrants in this year's state festival. She is the daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Bernard Franklin of Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods. She plays in North's Symphony Orchestra.

Class stresses good health

James Champion and Bonnie Bridenbach will hold a course at Grosse Pointe War Memorial in Basic Nutrition and Natural Food Preparation on Thursday, May 21 to June 11, from 9 to 11 a.m.

The course covers the body's nutritional requirements. It is a common sense approach to better health and proper preparation of foods. The fee, covering instruction and the food and materials used, is $45 a person or $80 for couples.

The annual cost of accidents in the United States is about $69 billion, the National Safety Council says.

Farms police warn of B&E outbreak

By Tom Greenwood

Farms police are expressing alarm over a rash of break ins occurring in the city recently. According to police reports, the Farms recorded 12 burglaries in a recent 22-day period.

The homes involved were on Manor, McKinley, Moross, Madison, Country Club Drive, Chalfonte, Hillcrest and DePetris Way. Items taken include TVs, cash, jewelry, tools, silverware, snow blowers, stereos, and lawnmowers.

"The most frustrating thing about these thefts is that many, at least 25 percent, could have been prevented if homeowners had used crime prevention techniques," said Farms Det. Earl Field.

"In at least a quarter of the thefts, the residents left windows unlocked, doors ajar, burglar alarms off, lights off and garage doors open or unlocked."

"DON'T COUNT on your dog protecting your property," he continued. "These people aren't afraid of dogs. In two cases, they simply let the dogs out into the back yard. With proper care, many break ins can be stopped."

Among the actions that can stop thieves are closing and locking garage doors, locking up ladders that could provide access to second story windows, and keeping shrubbery away from windows so burglars won't have a place to hide.

Do not keep keys to the door under mats, in mail boxes, in the flower pot or over the door. "Burglary is normally considered a crime of opportunity," said Det. Field.

"Law enforcement officials have found that most burglars do not work long distances from the place where they reside, and furthermore, they like to work in areas with which they are familiar and know the residential patterns of movement."

"Delaying a thief for four minutes is usually sufficient time to prevent entry into a home because the burglar usually becomes discouraged and quite concerned that someone will notice what he is up to," continued Det. Field.

"The intruder doesn't want to attract attention to himself by breaking glass or smashing doors. Don't make it easier for him by leaving both unlocked."

Other crime fighting tips include installing and using outside lights, eliminating gaps between doors and frames to stop the entry of crowbars, and the installation of burglar alarms.

"If you're leaving your property for an extended period of time, notify the police department," added Det. Field. "We can then keep a closer watch on your home. Have a neighbor pick up your papers and mail. Don't let a build up tip off potential burglars. Also have your neighbors keep a watch on your house. Extra eyes always help."

THE FARMS police would also like citizens to take advantage of Operation Identification. Under this plan, residents receive the free use of an engraver to mark household valuables with their driver's license numbers.

"After the valuables are marked, we also provide home owners with decals to display on windows or doors," said Det. Field. "We can also use this system to identify your property through the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) machines used by police departments throughout the country."

"A lot of times, just simple common sense will discourage thieves," said Det. Field. "Whoever coined the phrase, 'A man's home is his castle,' may not have meant that a person is a king in his home. Rather that he had better turn it into a fortress if thieves are to be kept out."

Burglars hit City homes

Grosse Pointe City police reported three home burglaries last week in which thieves took over $4,000 in jewelry, cameras and radios.

A resident on Rivard came home from work and discovered her portable TV missing last Friday, April 24. Police said the thief apparently unlatched the window panel of a rear door and reached in and opened it. Once inside the rear porch, the thief kicked in the kitchen door, police said.

More than $3,400 was taken in jewelry and radios from a St. Clair home April 24. Police said the resident left the home for a few hours and discovered the front door open when he returned.

Neighbors called police on that same day after noticing an open front door on Lakeland while residents were away. Police said thieves broke into a side door of the home by breaking glass and reaching inside to unlock the door. Police say they

Lions sponsor White Cane week to aid the sightless

The largest White Cane Week drive ever held in Michigan will begin Friday, May 1, and run through May 10 with more than 35,000 Lions from over 500 clubs throughout the state participating.

White Cane Week is the principal source of funds for the Lions, whose efforts have helped more than 16,000 blind persons in Michigan. Through the bad economic climate, unemployment, layoffs and wage recessions, Michiganders have always come through for this humanitarian cause.

"The people of Michigan have been extremely generous in the past and it certainly has not been easy for any of us," said George Baxter of the White Cane Committee. "In these days of 'less costs more,' everyone has to budget, but the people of Michigan have not forgotten us. We hope it continues."

During the 10-day period, the Lions will be manning street corners, shopping malls, banks, businesses and other heavily trafficked areas. Also cooperating in the drive are city, county and state governments, schools, Secretary of State offices and police departments.

A prime purpose of White

Cane Week is to make the public aware of two Michigan laws dealing with the unsighted: 1) requiring all motorists to stop at least 10 feet from blind persons carrying White Canes; and 2) requiring all public facilities to permit a blind person with a Leader Dog in harness to enter or use their premises.

Monies collected from the sale of the miniature White Canes are used to support the many projects and institutions of the Lions Clubs. Thousands of Michiganders have already benefitted from the Leader Dog School in Rochester, now "graduating" more than 350 dog-student teams yearly; Welcome Home for the Blind in Grand Rapids, built to fill the needs of the aged sightless; the Michigan Lions Eye Banks, located on the campuses of Wayne State University and the University of Michigan, which assist in the restoration of sight to the unsighted; the Lions Care Program; Penickton Center for the Multi-Handicapped in Taylor.

Music Players host dinner

The Chamber Music Players of Grosse Pointe will hold its annual meeting, dinner and concert in the Crystal Ballroom of the War Memorial Friday, May 8. The social hour will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7. Tickets at $9.75 per person are available by calling 882-5860.

TV without tears

How can you watch television without harming your eyes? Here's what vision experts recommend:

Position the set at least six times the width of the screen away from the place from which you plan to view it.

Place your set at eye level, so that you don't have to look up or down to watch the picture.

Don't watch TV in a dark room. The room should have soft over-all lighting so that the contrast between the screen and the room's light is comfortable to your eyes. Avoid glare or reflections on the screen from lamps or windows or other bright objects in the room.

If the picture is not as sharp at a distance as it is up close, or vice versa, you may need glasses or else a change in prescription.

An ophthalmologist can examine your eyes for defects of focus or disease.

If corrective lenses will improve your vision, he will give you a prescription for lenses. Since an ophthalmologist is a medical eye specialist, he can treat your eyes should he find a condition not correctible by lenses.

Honors go to VanEgmond

University of Detroit student David A. VanEgmond of Anita Avenue was one of seven accounting and finance students honored by the Financial Executives Institute at a dinner April 27, at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The awards were announced by Edmund J. Whiting, president of the Institute's Detroit Chapter and vice-president and treasurer of Ex-Cell-O Corporation.

The awards for academic excellence have been given by the Institute each year since 1977 to encourage excellence in academic areas related to financial management.

VanEgmond was sponsored for the award by Dr. Thomas J. Wines, assistant professor of accounting in University of Detroit's College of Business Administration. The Financial Executives Institute is an international organization of over 10,000 corporate financial officers and educators representing over 5,500 U.S. and Canadian companies.

The Financial Executives Institute objectives are to serve as an effective spokesman for the private financial sector of the business community to governmental, professional and academic communities; to pinpoint in advance issues that may become problems for business in the areas of financial reporting, financial or cost accounting standards, taxation and employee benefits; and, to provide a medium for the exchange of ideas and experience among business, government and academic communities.

Pick your own guide is out

The 1981 edition of Michigan Country Carousel, a guide to pick your own farms and roadside markets throughout the state, published by the Michigan Department of Agriculture, is now available.

County Carousel lists more than 1,000 farms and markets in alphabetical order by county, Pridgen said. It gives the name, address, directions for driving to the farm and a list of produce available.

"Phone numbers are also listed, and it's wise to call ahead. Sometimes ripe produce has been harvested and it may be a few days before more of the crop has matured and is ready to pick."

The booklet's four-color cover features some of our state's commercial food crops and carries the department's promotion theme, "Good things growing in Michigan."

The size of Country Carousel makes it ideal for storage in the glove compartment of your car so it's handy when you're ready to make on-the-spot stops, or for use as a reference when touring Michigan's countryside.

A crop calendar which indicates the approximate ripening dates for 35 Michigan food crops is included.

Copies of Country Carousel are available without cost from MDA's Communications office, P.O. Box 30017, Lansing, 48909, 517-373-1104, at highway travel information centers, AAA branch offices and state Travel Bureau.

Three single-session classes are slated for Monday, May 4:

'Daddy Long Legs' novel

It will be 'Love from Judy' for Children's Theatre

Twenty songs and dances, some of the area's top high school and youth talent, and a stage and Hollywood story of orphans and high society will spark Grosse Pointe Children's Theater's production of "Love from Judy" May 8, 9, 15 and 16.

"Love from Judy" is the London stage musical version of the novel "Daddy Long Legs," also produced as an award winning 1955 movie starring Fred Astaire and Leslie Caron.

Show times are Friday, May 8 and 15, at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday, May 9 and 16, at 2 p.m. All shows will be presented in the Fries Auditorium at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Ticket prices are $3.50 for adults, $2.50 for children, and $2 for groups of 12 children or more. For ticket information, call the War Memorial box office at 881-7511.

According to Children's Theater Director Sally Reynolds, "Love from Judy" has the same energy and vitality of young children in orphanages that has delighted audiences during the recent Fisher Theater run of "Annie."

"The two stories are very similar," Mrs. Reynolds said. Like Annie, Judy is the oldest orphan in a run-down orphanage. The younger orphans are underfed and mistreated, but retain their spunk and energy.

"Added in is the wealthy anonymous benefactor, Daddy Long Legs, a confirmed bachelor, who sends Judy to an upper-crust girl's school to teach his high society niece about ordinary people. In the course of the play, Judy eventually meets and falls in love with her mysterious benefactor," Mrs. Reynolds said.

The story line of "Love from Judy" springs from the 1911 novel written by turn-of-the-century journalist and social reformer Jean Webster. According to Mrs. Reynolds, Jean Webster wrote many articles in the early 1900s dealing with prisons, orphanages and other public institutions.

"Throughout these articles, Miss Webster's prevailing theme was the overriding humanity of the people in these institutions. She was noteworthy for inviting orphans and even prison inmates to visit her home, even after they had left their former institutions."

"Love from Judy" is based on Miss Webster's experiences with such institutions, together with her experiences as a Vassar student in the late 1890s.

The "Daddy Long Legs" story has been the subject of three Hollywood movies and a full-scale musical treatment on the London stage. The original film version of Daddy Long Legs was made in 1919 and was one of the first screen roles for silent movie star Mary Pickford. In 1931, the movie was revived as one of the first talking pictures, starring Janet Gaynor and Warner Baxter. Following these two productions were the 1955 version with Fred Astaire and Leslie Caron, and the London stage version which made its debut in 1951.

"This year is a true anniversary year for 'Love from Judy,'" Mrs. Reynolds said. "This is the 70th anniversary of the novel and the 30th anniversary of the opening of the stage musical in London. Also, this is the 10th anniversary of the first performance of this play by Grosse Pointe Children's Theater."

Musical Director Mrs. John Mazer called the plays songs and dances as demanding as those in any professional stage musical. "Our four lead performers, Cori Carrier and Wendel Honstain as Judy, and Kevin Formolo and Tom McCarter as Daddy Long Legs, have each had to learn at least 10 songs and dances, in addition to their own solo roles," she said.

In all, over 20 of the top performers from area high schools have principal roles in the play. In addition to the four lead players, principal cast members include Paul Corbett as Jimmy, Liz Perkin and Stacey Sullivan as Julia, Jennifer Marshall and Lindsay Morris as Sally, Kristen Martin as Mrs.

Pritchard, and Mary Byrne and Katie Gracey as Mrs. Lippett. Other principal players are Roger Walker, Jim Kallardos, Carolyn Schnitzel, Carol Michaels, Jill Seely, Beth Pulio, Chris Cavanaugh and Rob Ryan. Playing the roles of orphans are over 50 elementary and middle school students ranging downward in age to four years old. Principal orphan roles are played by Mary Frances Obeid, Heather Cross, Wendy Willett, Nicole Buffo, Kristen D'Annibale, Kasey Clark, Cathy Obeid, Marla Kurz, and Donna Obeid. In addition to Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Mazer, also assisting in production of "Love from Judy" are Russ Seely as choral director, Cindy Reynolds and Kelly Roberts as choreographers, and Marianne Shock as stage manager.

Liggett artists at festival

Seventeen University Liggett Upper Schoolers have been invited to participate in the Michigan Youth Arts Festival on May 15 and 16 at Central Michigan University.

This event culminates Michigan Week and brings together the best in youth arts throughout the state's schools. To select the student participants, professional associations in music, visual art, dance and drama held regional and statewide adjudications and exhibitions during the winter.

University Liggett School students invited to play in the Youth Arts Honors Orchestra include Rhona Spitz, Matteo di Tommaso and Beth Wahl. Performing a dance selection during the festival will be Michele Grady, Michelle Brane, Tracie Matthews, Amy Sparrow, Gwen Treiber, Bridget Koegler, Renate Martino, Rebecca Thomas, Kris Robbins and Karen Cavazos.

Four ULS students were selected to exhibit their art work at the Festival. They include: Eileen McHenry, woodcut print; Carlotta Ellison, engravings; Kathy Argasinski, oil-crayon drawing; and Bill Cleland, sculpture. In addition, several ULS students will be demonstrating art processes during the final day of the Festival.

Noyer joins Liggett staff

University Liggett School has announced the addition of dance instructor Jennifer Noyer to its pre-kindergarten staff for the 1981-82 school year.

Scheduled primarily for fall and spring, Mrs. Noyer's instruction will combine physical coordination, creative expression and rhythmic activities. The free and open movement of the experiences are anticipated to increase self-awareness and self-confidence for each ULS youngster.

Limited spaces are still available for September pre-kindergarten enrollment. ULS offers full and half-day educational programs for three and four year olds. To arrange for a tour of the campus, and to obtain further information, call ULS Director of Admissions Toby David at 886-4220.

It is said that there are people who can uncork a bottle of wine by grasping the bottle with one hand, and giving it a vigorous swat on the bottom with the other. They will pop the cork and lose no wine in the process. Most of us can't seem to master this trick and few of us really care to try. We are just as happy to stick to more traditional uncorking methods. There are many choices of style and technique. A co2 powered cork extractor is even available. Beware, however, it is not suitable for all types of bottles.

Make tonight a night to relax. First stop at PARKIE'S PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack, Corner of St. Clair, Detroit, and then when you get home you can sit down, relax, loosen your tie and pop your cork and enjoy a taste of wine that will make this evening a night to remember. Stop in today at PARKIE'S PARTY SHOPPE and select the beverage that is a perfect addition to an evening at home, a dinner with friends or just a "corker" of an evening. Open 10-10 Mon.-Thurs., 10-11 Fri. & Sat., noon-6 Sun. Tel. 885-0626.

WINE WISDOM:
Do not use a co2 cork extractor with a chianti bottle.

Organ donor labels are available
 More than 350,000 participating Michigan drivers made the first three months of 1981 the best quarter ever for the Michigan Medical Information and Organ Donor Program, Secretary of State Richard H. Austin said last week. The program, authorized by the Michigan Legislature, was implemented in 1977 when medical information and organ donor labels were mailed with driver licenses. Currently, all drivers receive the labels with new and renewed licenses. The label authorizes use of organs for transplantation in event of death and shows blood type of the driver, important information in the event of an accident.

Because the first three months of 1981 were the best period ever for recovery of organs for transplantation, many lives were saved. Distribution of labels directly to drivers made the difference, said David St. Clair, Executive Director of the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan. The Department also provides labels to doctors, medical personnel, organ procurement and transplant societies, foundations and churches. Labels are available at all Secretary of State branch offices.

Seniors mark Arbor Week
 To start off Arbor Week locally, State Sen. John Kelly brought 100 pine trees to the Food and Friendship Program at Brownell on Friday, April 24. They were distributed to the guests who were showed how to plant and care for the trees. The trees are three years old and about one foot tall.

Some of the Senior Citizens who took the trees home with them will plant them in their own yards. Others will offer to plant them on school properties if permission is given by school officials. Call BRUCE WIGLE PLUMBING & HEATING 15304 KERCHEVAL • 822-9070

CRC sponsors panel on reapportionment

On Tuesday, May 5, at 7:30 p.m. the Concerned Republican Committee (CRC) will present a panel discussion on "Reapportionment 1980: How It Happens and Its Impact on the 14th District."

The meeting will be held at the Grosse Pointe North High School, 707 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods. It will be open to the public and admission is free.

Scheduled panelists for the evening are: Libby Maynard, chairperson Michigan Democratic Party; Mel Larsen, chairman, Michigan Republican Party; Alex Gage, senior political analyst for Market Opinion Research, Inc., and James Killeen, Wayne County Clerk and chairman of the Board of Apportionment Committee.

Ms. Maynard, elected chairperson of the Michigan Democratic Party in October, 1979 to fill an unexpired term was reelected for her first full term in February 1981. Prior to this, she was vice chair, serving in that capacity from 1971 until 1979. She is a graduate of George Washington University and holds a masters degree from the University of Michigan and has served on the Democratic National Executive Committee since 1976.

Mel Larsen, described by his co-workers as, "coach, educator, legislator and Republican State Chairman," was elected chairman in February 1979 and reelected at the State Party Convention in February of 1981. A former three-term state legislator, Larsen graduated from Notre Dame University and holds a masters degree from Wayne State University.

Alex Gage will discuss how Market Opinion Research will participate in assisting in the preparation of apportionment plans through the use of their Computer Assisted Redistricting Evaluation System (CARES) which takes political and census data and evaluates plans that may be submitted based on court-dictated criteria. Gage is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has done graduate work at Wayne State University.

James Killeen, Wayne County Clerk since 1974, attended American University and has lectured at Michigan State, University of Detroit and the Police College in Ontario, Canada. He was with the U.S. Justice Department for 25 years with a wide range of responsibilities, the last being the Organized Crime Unit. He is also Chairman of the Board of Visitors of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Reapportionment of the U.S. House of Representatives, all state legislatures and, in Michigan, all county commissions, takes place every 10 years following release of the official U.S. Census data. Because of the "one man, one vote" principle, new districts for each legislative body must be as equal in population as is possible. Michigan, having lost population, will lose one of its 19 Congressional seats in Congress. This means there will be 19 incumbents running for 18 seats.

The CRC feels reapportionment is an issue about which every citizen should be aware. Each of the panelists has an important role in the reapportionment procedure and will discuss the process of redistricting and its implications — for the state and the 14th District. A question and answer period will follow the formal presentation.

The Concerned Republican Committee was formed in the summer of 1980 and is dedicated to encouraging community involvement in the political process.

Prime Time

For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

The announcement read "On Thursday evening, April 23rd, we will honor a 41-year member of the Detroit Yacht Club and a past Commodore. (1958), the ageless Tommy Tompkins. April 29 will be Commodore Tompkins' 75th birthday, and we can't think of a better reason to have a gala celebration than to extend this tribute to a polished gem on his Diamond anniversary."

There must have been a general agreement among those who received the announcement because more than 100 friends and well wishers turned out to honor a man who has worked so long and tirelessly to make the Detroit Yacht Club a viable, progressive club and also has contributed to the community in which he lives.

The amazing fact is that at 75, he continues to do so. I guess that accounts for the word "ageless" in the invitation.

Tompkins is definitely not a man who lives in the past. He would much rather talk about what he is doing now than recount past achievements.

At 75 he still runs his own business—the sales of printing machinery and production of screw machine products. As President of Tompkins Products Company, he assumes all the responsibilities of that position.

Work is a habit with him. "I guess I learned how to work growing up on the farm," he said. "Living on a farm," he continued, "you get up at 4 (that's a.m.) to milk the cows and do chores. Then you go to school or work in the fields all day. When you come back at four in the afternoon, it's time to milk the cows again."

THIS HABIT of work has been a hard one for Tommy to break. His entire life has been one of work and activity on one project or another. Happily he has the stamina and constitution for it and thrives on it. A younger looking and acting 75 would be difficult to find.

Longevity, good health and a youthful physical appearance run in his family. "There were seven boys," he said. "All of us were blessed with strength and the ability to work long and hard."

His brother who is 85 still goes to his office every day at the State Farm Mutual Insurance Company in Iowa.

The in-house monthly publication there ran a feature on him this month. Besides listing his many contributions to the company, it ran a picture of a very young looking and dynamic appearing man.

Although all of the boys worked the farm while they were growing up, only one chose to make farming an occupation.

Tommy, as he went about the farm doing chores dreamed of being a lawyer. "Mother didn't like that idea," he remembered, so I settled on being a doctor. After four years of pre-med courses together with a major in journalism, he went to work for his brother selling printing presses in 1928. He had found his niche. He was a natural born salesman. You had to be good to survive in that year and those that followed. His journalism training was not a total loss. In later years, as a passenger on the Board of Commerce cruises, he wrote and sent back stories to a local newspaper describing the ports of call. Industry's gain could well have been journalism's loss for his reports were well received.

ALTHOUGH his career as a salesman began in South Dakota, Tommy found himself moving to Minnesota, Texas, Florida, moving up the ladder with each transfer until he ended up in Detroit. In 1939 he went into business for himself selling printing presses. The venture flourished.

During the war he added another enterprise making screws for various types of machinery. Today these two companies comprise Tompkins products. It has become a family business with his sons as part of the company. His wife Jeannie for 39 years (will there be another party to celebrate that 40th anniversary?) also works at the company three days a week.

Jeannie is a bundle of energy and personality herself. (Is it catching?) She is President of The Seagulls, a group of ladies organized to stimulate sociability and cooperation among the women of the Detroit Yacht Club and to encourage swimming, bridge and luncheons. She is publicity chairman of the golf league and is active in the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

"What do you do besides working?" we asked, knowing that such a fit and

League of Women Voters has the answers to proposal 'A'

The May 19 vote on Gov. William Milliken's tax reform proposal ("A" on the ballot) is just a few weeks away. To help all residents understand the proposal and its implications, the League of Women Voters of Michigan has prepared the following question and answer paper:

Would the 50 percent tax cut apply to all property taxes?

No. The tax reduction would be authorized only for agricultural and residential property. A second home or resort property would not qualify for property tax relief. The reduction would also apply only to taxes levied for operating purposes, not to millage levied to pay off bonded indebtedness.

How would taxpayers go about receiving their tax cut?

Homeowners would be required to sign a Homestead Affidavit Form and return it to their local assessing office by May 22 in order for the property tax reduction to be made on their July 1981 tax bill. If the Form is not returned by May 22, the taxpayer would have to pay the tax bill in full and then file for a refund from the State Treasurer. In order to meet the May 22 deadline, the Legislature has passed a law authorizing city and township tax officials to mail the Form to taxpayers and/or mortgage agents in early May (before the election) notifying them that they may be eligible for a property tax reduction if proposal "A" passes and if they certify by Affidavit they are the owner-occupant of the property.

What about taxpayers whose property taxes are paid from a mortgage escrow fund?

The legislation to implement proposal "A" provides that tax escrow refund checks would be sent to homeowners as soon as possible—sometimes this summer for those who pay July taxes. Some time is required to permit cities and townships to advise mortgage agents which escrow accounts qualify for the property tax cut.

What effect would the property tax cut have on my present circuit breaker benefits?

The property tax credit you now receive on your state income tax would be less because it will be computed on a greatly reduced property tax. The proposed new formula for the credit would partly offset the decreased benefits. With a smaller property tax credit to deduct there would be a corresponding increase in your state income tax total.

What is the new circuit breaker formula?

If proposal "A" passes, homeowners would still be eligible for a credit on their income tax in addition to the local property tax cut if, after the 50 percent tax cut, property taxes exceed 2 1/2 percent of the total income. Senior citizens and disabled would receive 100 percent of credit base computed according to the table. Others would receive 60 percent of the credit base. The circuit breaker credit would be in addition to the property tax reduction, and could not exceed $1,200.

Would renters receive any benefits under proposal "A"?

Yes. They would receive an increase in their property tax credit on the state income tax because of the new circuit breaker formula. Renters now receive a credit of 17 percent if annual rent is greater than 3 1/2 percent of total income. If proposal "A" passes, renters would receive a credit if 17 percent of annual rent exceeds 2 1/2 percent of total income.

Does proposal "A" contain any special benefits for senior citizens?

Proposal "A" does not include special provisions for persons over 65 years of age as did the three tax proposals on the November 1980 ballot. There would be additional benefits under the liberalized circuit breaker schedule for senior citizens eligible for this credit. The 50 percent reduction in property taxes for operations and in city income taxes would apply to everyone alike, up to the limits allowed.

Would local governments and school districts lose money under this proposal?

Proposal "A" would require the state to reimburse local governments and school districts 100 percent of the amount of reduced taxes. However, the revenue that might be lost to local units after the first year because of the 6 percent limit on property tax growth would not be reimbursed.

How does the state plan to reimburse local units of government?

Most of the funds for reimbursement would come from the proposed increase in the sales tax from the present 4 to 5 1/2 percent. A smaller portion would come from savings to the state on circuit breaker credit. These extra revenues would be earmarked for reimbursement.

How much extra sales tax would proposal "A" require me to pay?

The exact amount each taxpayer would end up paying depends on the taxpayer's income, size of family, lifestyle, etc. An estimate of what the extra sales tax cost would be for you can be computed by taking the estimated sales tax for your income and family size from the tax tables in the Federal Income Tax instructions and multiplying that amount of 1.4.

If a local government or school district votes new operating millage, would the state be required to reimburse 50 percent of the new millage too?

Yes. After the first year of the new millage, the new millage would be subject to the 6 percent limit.

How does the 6 percent "growth" limit work?

The proposed amendment to the Constitution details certain features of the 6 percent limit:

- it would be applied separately to the tax levied by each unit of local government and to each class of property subject to tax.
- revenue from new construction and improvements would be excluded.
- it would not apply to any voter approved increase in millage in the first year of the increase.
- it may be increased or waived by a vote of the people in a local unit of government.

When the property tax revenues exceed the limit for a particular class, a mathematical calculation will be made by the local unit in order to arrive at a reduction fraction. That reduction factor will then be applied to individual tax bills.

What will be the effect of the property tax cut on schools?

Because the proposal requires that school districts be reimbursed directly for the full amount of property tax reductions, there would be no real change in school funding from local taxes in the first year. In subsequent years there would be some loss in revenues because there would be no reimbursement for revenues lost when the inflation rate pushes property tax revenues over the 6 percent growth limit. For formula districts there would likely be additional losses in state aid to the district because of the need to cut at least $250 million in state spending. State school aid is a sizeable segment of the state budget, and would probably have to be subject to its share of the cuts. Grosse Pointe is an out-of-formula district.

Is there any guarantee proposal "A" would prevent any increases in property taxes in the future?

If proposal "A" passes, local units of government and local school districts could still propose a millage rate increase for voter approval—as they do now. The new millage would not be subject to the 6 percent revenue growth limit in the first year, but would be in subsequent years.

The 6 percent revenue limit may also be raised or waived in any local unit of government, if the voters approve such action. The requirement to compute growth by each unit of government and each class of property does, in effect, provide a rollback by class of property.

Therefore, while proposal "A" is not a guarantee, the 6 percent limit and indexing the $1,400 maximum tax cut would slow down or limit future property tax growth.

If my assessment goes up by more than 6 percent, would my taxes be reduced automatically?

Not necessarily. The limit applies to the growth in the total assessment for a single unit of government on a single class of property. It is the application of the limit to each class of property (residential, agricultural, industrial, etc.) that makes a rollback for individual homeowners more likely than under the present tax limitation section of the Constitution.

Presently, the growth in assessments of all classes of property, taken together, must be more than the Consumer Price Index before the rollback is triggered. Since commercial and industrial assessments normally do not increase as rapidly as agricultural and residential, there must be a much greater increase in these latter categories to bring the average for all up to the level of the Consumer Price Index.

Does Michigan have a higher property tax burden than other states?

A recent study done by the Department of Management and Budget on "A Comparison of Selected State Tax Rates" shows that Michigan's property taxes were 4.4 percent of total personal income in 1979 (U. S. Department of Commerce figures). Michigan ranked 18th among the 50 states in property tax burden (expressed as a percentage of personal income). Alaska ranked first with a 7.6 percent rate. The U. S. average was 3.8 percent in 1979.

To what extent does Michigan rely on the income, sales and property taxes respectively now?

The property tax is a local tax which generates more than $3.5 billions annually for local services. The state income tax produces approximately $2.3 billion now and the state sales and use taxes about $2 billion, with the revenues used to provide state services. Income tax revenues account for 22 percent of the total state budget, sales and use taxes, 19 percent. Total state and local taxes amount to 12.45 percent of personal income in Michigan, in comparison to a national average of 12.03 percent. Michigan ranks 19th. Alaska ranks the highest with 23.41 percent of personal income, and Ohio the lowest at 9.77 percent.

Why are we voting on a tax proposal so soon after the November election?

The governor and the legislative leaders interpreted the November election results as a mandate from the taxpayers to cut property taxes and government spending. Proposal "A" is their joint plan to achieve those objectives. Because parts of the proposal require amendments to the Constitution, a vote of the people is required. The May 19 election was scheduled in order to permit implementation of property tax relief this year, on July tax bills if possible.

from the Detroit Free Press:

"To put it simply, Michelangelo's Chicago-Styled Stuffed Pizza is the best pizza the AG has ever eaten. Anywhere."

The AG must now call (Michelangelo's) the premier pizzeria in the tri-county area. One wonders how long it will be before the westside asks for equal opportunity to savor in their area the outrageously rich quiche-like pizza that Michelangelo's produces.

The lithe, sweet texture of the cheeses, combined with generous portions of the added ingredients produce a whirlwind of taste sensations that does for the palate what Michelangelo did for the ceiling.

It takes about 45 minutes for the crew to prepare one of these in their kitchen under glass. The pizza is well worth the wait."

Park sponsors EMT class

The Grosse Pointe Park Fire Department recently became the first municipal fire unit in the state to sponsor and complete a continuing education course for emergency medical technicians (EMT).

Park fire fighter Martin Buss, instructor for the 30-hour course, said 25 EMTs, including nine from the Park, were recertified through the program using tape instruction by the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons. Fire fighters from Harper Woods and East Detroit were also recertified for three years, Buss said.

Fire Chief Phillip Costa said through the EMS Council of Detroit-Wayne County, the fire department convinced the state to sponsor the program. Usually EMTs receive recertification through certified schools, Costa said.

Fire fighters reviewed 26 individual subjects, including shock, chest injuries, fractures and childbirth, Buss said.

Theft report on Lakeshore

A law student living in a garage apartment on Lakeshore Road reported to Shores police recently that his dwelling was broken into sometime between 4 and 9 p.m. on Tuesday, April 21, while he was at school.

Property worth a total of $8,500 was stolen. The list includes, $125 in cash, a large screen projector-$3,000, Hitachi receiver-$300, Dual turntable-$150, two Advent speakers-$100, a Sony 19" color TV-$750, RCA video recorder-$1,500, an 18 karat gold men's bracelet-$1,000, a crystal wine decanter-$200, two suits-$350 and $175 and one pair of crocodile cowboy boots-$800.

Police believe because of the large amount of items, and their size, that a truck or van was used to haul the goods away. The family living in the main house told police they heard and saw nothing.

Schools receive $10,000

Four local groups donated nearly $10,000 to various Grosse Pointe public school programs at the Board of Education's April 13 meeting.

The largest gift came from the Friends of the Library, which raised $5,000 to purchase books for the Central Park and Woods branch libraries.

Local dentist William G. Jennings, DDS, donated a Chaves Dental Unit for use in the Dental Aides Program at North High School, (where it also will be used by students from South High). The unit, which is similar to those currently in use in dentists' offices, is valued at about $2,100.

Another gift, for $1,690, came from the PTO at Richard School Elementary, which asked the funds be used to purchase 10 physical fitness stations for Messner Playfield. The equipment is made of treated compressed cedar and is similar to exercise stations at Grosse Pointe Park's municipal park.

The PTO at Ferry Elementary School donated $1,150 for a gas stove and Atari computer for its school. The gifts were received and approved by the Board of Education April 13.

Sticks First Almanacs

IRS plans tax workshop on small business benefits

Free tax workshops for new or recently established small business owners are being scheduled throughout Michigan, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

IRS tax specialists will cover such topics as equipment depreciation, employment tax responsibilities, proper record keeping and accounting practices, filing requirements, IRS examination and collection procedures, tax penalties, taxpayer appeal rights, and the various types of IRS assistance available to taxpayers.

There will be practical exercises designed to teach small-business owners how to determine taxable income and how to fill in required tax forms. A question-and-answer session will also be held.

In addition to small business tax workshops, other assistance from IRS includes a number of free publications designed for small business owners. These publications, available from local IRS offices, include "Your Business Tax Kit," IRS Publication 454, which contains sample notices and forms, a checklist of tax returns and a calendar of due dates for paying taxes. Also available is the "Tax Guide for Small Business," IRS Publication 334, a comprehensive 192-page booklet which can serve as a handy reference for the business person.

For information about the workshops or publications, call the IRS local office at 1-800-482-0670, ext. 3674.

Choir festival on May 2, 3

Every third year Christ Church Grosse Pointe is the host for the American Royal School of Church Music Choir Festival, featuring four men and boy choirs performing as a Festival Choir. The weekend for this occasion will be May 2 and 3 this year, with rehearsals on both days and performances at a 11:15 a.m. service and at a 4 p.m. concert on Sunday, May 3 at Christ Church.

The choirs participating come from St. Paul's Church, Akron, Ohio, Robert Quade, choirmaster; Church of the Good Shepherd, Lexington, Ky., Robert Burton, choirmaster; Grace Church, Sandusky, Ohio, Warren Miller, choirmaster and Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, Fred-eric DeHaven, choirmaster.

These choirs have enjoyed singing with symphonies in their communities, and the last time in Grosse Pointe, the Festival Choir sang the Mahler Third Symphony with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. This Festival Choir has given concerts at Washington Cathedral, and two of the choirs have made extensive trips to England to perform in cathedrals.

The Sunday, May 3 concert will be a program of music which has been written for choirs of men and boys.

From the 19th century Victorian era, Psalm 29 by Elgar; Ascribe Unto the Lord by Wesley; Three Latin Motets by Stanford and I Was Glad by Parry, are among some of the richest anthems written for cathedral choirs in England.

Herbert Howell's Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis, written for the choir at Kings College, Cambridge; O Taste and See, composed by Ralph Vaughan-Williams for Queen Elizabeth's coronation; and Benjamin Britten's Festival Te Deum are anthems written in the 20th century.

The Sunday program is part of the Christ Church Concert Series, and the community is invited to attend the concert, as well as the morning service. Tickets are on sale at the Church Office (885-4841).

Prime Time for seniors

trim look was not maintained by sitting around an office. We were right. Tommy is a sailor. For years he maintained a sailboat competing in various races including the Mackinac race. He recalls vividly the year he won that prestigious event.

"We went sailing up to the island (there were eight people on the crew). There wasn't another boat in sight. We began to wonder about that. Then a boat came sailing towards us. There were musicians on board and they were serenading us. I asked them what this was all about. They answered: 'You've won the race.' That was a great day."

MR. TOMPKINS' children are carrying on his sailing tradition. Three of his sons sail the "Boomerang." Of course, Dad is frequently a passenger. Hopefully, the thrill of being a winner will be repeated but if it never is for Tommy, that once-in-a-lifetime will do.

The Tompkins children come naturally to water activities. "They were brought up at the Yacht Club. Every summer was spent on board our boat there," Tompkins recalled.

Which brings us to what might be termed a second career for Tommy considering the amount of time he spent doing the best job he could be doing as a Rear-Vice Commodore, Vice-Commodore and Commodore.

"I spent a good 40 hours a week working at those positions," he said, then quickly added, "that was in addition to maintaining my regular work schedule." Listing the many duties of these posts, including the difficult one of making money for the club, it is easy to see that it would be a very time consuming project, almost like running a corporation.

The list of innovations made during Tommy's term there as Commodore are impressive. One of the most successful is the Pelican Club, a Friday noon luncheon featuring an outstanding speaker.

"We've had as many as 150 gather for that one," he said. Besides the luncheon feature, the Pelican Club also sponsors trips. Tommy and Jeannie have gone on most of them. One of the trips took them to Italy where Tommy witnessed type that was set in California sent by satellite to a paper in Italy.

In China, he visited a University where he was asked to take over a class of students for a day who were learning English. He chuckled as he recalled an incident involving a friend who operates a short-wave radio. Some of Tommy's friends decided it would be a neat thing to contact him at his destination in Peru. The operator agreed. "What's he doing. Is he having fun?" the friends asked. "He's working," the operator answered.

TYPICAL? For Tommy seeing how things are done in the printing business is part of the enjoyment of traveling. Next year he and Jeannie plan to join the Pelicans on a trip to Australia and New Zealand. While there, Tommy will try to fly around the South Pole, undaunted by the fact that last year the plane that attempted the flight crashed. "It's something I always wanted to do," he declared.

Evidence that Tommy had other interests besides business on his travels are part of the decor of his home. A sunfilled living room sets off a hand-carved screen, a wall length hanging a delicately colored fan, among other mementos of trips to China.

The Tompkins' home, a stately colonial on Windmill Pointe, once looked out over the river. The area in front now is dotted with homes obstructing what once must have been a magnificent view. However the air around is fresh with river breezes and the home is fronted with a breathtaking magnolia tree in bloom.

"The tallest one in Michigan," commented Tommy proudly and he may well be right. Its branches laden with pink blossom reach clear up to the second story and stretch across the wide entrance like a gorgeous fan as the branches wave in the stirring breeze.

Have we covered the territory on Tommy Tompkins? No, there is more. Besides starting the Pelicans, he also originated the Wheels, a group made up of new members of the Yacht Club and was a co-founder and first Commodore of the Commodore's Club, a group comprised of Commodores from all the boating clubs in the Detroit area. "I decided that the experience of heading up a Yacht Club gave us a lot in common," he said, "And I was right. We were able to share ideas and solve problems together. The fun part came in when we competed against each other in sailboat races."

Politics have benefited from his organizational expertise. He was a Republican precinct delegate from 1948 to 1976, a chairman of the 15-man committee of the 14th district, a delegate to the National Republican convention. Naturally it followed that he wanted to do something for the Republican delegates who came for the convention in Detroit last summer. He hosted the South Dakota delegation and arranged for boat rides at the Yacht Club for any of the delegates who cared to come. Eighteen of the 50 states took advantage of the invitation. When Tommy and Jeannie went to President Reagan's inauguration many important Republicans told them what good time they had enjoyed in Detroit and how much they wanted to come back.

"I like to think those boat rides had something to do with the good impression Detroit made on our Republican visitors," Tommy remarked.

Never a man to run out of ideas, Tompkins has a super one cooked up for the fall. You've heard of house walks? Well as honorary chairman of the Detroit Symphony fundraiser, he is getting together a 'boat-walk'. Contributors will have the opportunity of going aboard some of the most impressive boats at the Detroit Yacht Club.

New, toothy treatment

For those Americans who one day need a full set of dentures, the time can be delayed — or perhaps even avoided completely — by the use of an "overdenture," according to a University of Detroit educator.

Fitted over a few remaining specially prepared teeth or even a single tooth in the mouth, the overdenture gives a better service than alternative methods of treatment and generally feels less artificial to the wearer, said Dr. Theodore C. Hadgis of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Speaking at the annual session of the Michigan Dental Association in Detroit, Dr. Hadgis pointed out that the overdenture is not new to dentistry as similar techniques have been advocated for many years.

"One reason the concept never gained wide use, however, was because the value of the procedure was not recognized," he said. "In truth, the current overdenture technique is quite simple and can be readily adapted to any dentist's office routine.

"The purpose of the overdenture is to provide more favorable support and stability for a complete denture. The by-product is the preservation of the alveolar (jaw) bone which would otherwise, in all probability, resorb," he said.

"In addition, because the overdenture provides greater retention, the patient is able to exert greater chewing force," he said.

Dr. Hadgis said "overdentures look much like conventional dentures except that the underside has indentations for the remaining teeth. If any of the remaining teeth are extensively damaged and an ideal contour cannot be achieved, the dentist can raise the height of the shorter remaining teeth by placing fitted gold caps over them, Hadgis said.

"Before embarking on constructing overdentures for a patient, any existing problems with the remaining teeth or the gum tissues have to be corrected," he explained. "Frequently, this may entail endodontic (root canal) therapy or periodontal (gum) disease treatment before the appliance can be fitted.

"After insertion of the overdenture, the patient must be given special instructions on proper maintenance of the remaining natural teeth by practicing effective oral hygiene measures, Dr. Hadgis added.

North teachers find science meet valuable

Two North High School science instructors attended the National Science Teachers Association convention in New York City April 3 to 5. The teachers, Art Weine and Gordon Morlan, report that the programs were most worthwhile.

Activities included speeches by Nobel winner, Dr. Rosalyn Yalow, and John Brooks Slaughter, director of the National Science Foundation; the Exposition of Science Teaching Materials, the latest in laboratory equipment, books, and audio visual aids from over 200 companies, organizations, and government agencies; and many seminars, workshops, tours and demonstration sessions.

Art Weine indicated tours of the geology area (Central Park, Roosevelt Island) led by outstanding earth scientists was the highlight of this convention for him. Gordon Morlan stressed the importance of discussion with people from all over the U.S.A. Both men agreed that the NSTA Convention was a most meaningful educational experience, certainly worth their time! Over 5,000 educators from the U.S. and abroad attended.

EMU professor studies mosquitoes, heartworm

It's us against them.

The mosquitoes always seem to win. Summer days, and especially nights, spent outdoors sometime take the cunning of a master spy to outsmart the mosquito. It's either experimenting with various insect repellents or surviving on your ability to swat quickly.

And they don't give you any rest. A peaceful summer night spent sleeping under the stars often is cut short when one insists on buzzing near your ear.

So it's hard to believe that someone would take two dogs and sit out in a woods loaded with mosquitoes and just wait for those pests to not only light, but bite.

But that's just what Dr. Elizabeth Waffle does in the name of science.

To most of us, mosquitoes are just something to be annoyed with. But to Waffle, a parasitologist at Eastern Michigan University, mosquitoes are to be studied because so much more needs to be learned about these disease carriers.

Waffle is especially interested in mosquitoes that carry heartworm, a disease that is common to dogs and wildlife, but known to infect humans and cats as well.

Heartworm is just that — worms that live in the heart, surrounding blood vessels and lungs of a dog, for example. The parasite is carried by certain species of mosquitoes that bite an infected dog and then transmit the disease to another dog.

Of the 63 species of mosquitoes identified in Michigan so far, about 20 of these are known to carry heartworm.

Heartworm gradually incapacitates a dog and may lead to death by causing heart or lung damage. Heartworms also produce embryos, called microfilaria, which travel in the dog's body causing related health problems, such as kidney failure.

It's not often easy to tell if a dog or other pet has heartworm until the disease has progressed. This is especially true for larger, younger dogs. On the other hand, a small older dog may show obvious signs of heartworm, such as shortness of breath and coughing, right away. That's why it's important that dogs be checked for heartworm each spring, Waffle states.

Preventative medicines are worth it, Waffle notes. Not only is it expensive to treat a diseased pet, but "treating a dog with heartworm is very complex. There are three different life cycle stages of heartworm within a dog and each stage has to be dealt with separately (during treatment)," she adds. Heartworm may also weaken a pet so that the treatment itself becomes dangerous.

Already Waffle's research has dispelled one myth dog owners have about heartworm.

"Many dog owners feel that long coated dogs won't get bit by mosquitoes. But that's not true. Mosquitoes will bite a dog's stomach, legs and face where there's not much hair. Mosquitoes will even bite the pads of a dog's feet," she says.

Heartworm has taken its toll on wildlife, Waffle adds. "The red wolf in Texas is an endangered species because it's not only losing its environment, but most of the red wolves also have heartworm," she comments.

Waffle has conducted her research during the past four years at four sites, three of which are wooded and one is grassland, located on 15 undeveloped acres near Milan.

So far, she has identified four species of mosquitoes new to Michigan on the property.

Waffle points out that each mosquito species has its own particular habits.

Some mosquitoes prefer to bite birds, but will bite other mammals if birds aren't available. Others favor horses or humans. Some mosquitoes appear to only bite at certain times of the day. Certain mosquitoes will not venture out of their habitat. And still others apparently fly only at certain heights.

By discovering their habits, mosquito species that carry heartworm, encephalitis and other diseases, can be controlled, Waffle says.

One species of Aedes mosquito that is common to this area and known to carry heartworm will only fly some 500 feet from a wooded area. These mosquitoes prefer to live in tree holes in very shaded areas for example. Learning more about these insects is important, Waffle states, because many parks and other recreational areas are heavily wooded.

Another species of Aedes mosquito common to this area is a large variety which appears in the spring. This mosquito is known to carry heartworm.

Although common to this area, species of Culex mosquitoes are more apt to bite birds than other mammals. However, they can be carriers of heartworm and encephalitis. These mosquitoes breed in containers filled with water such as watering tubs for livestock, bird baths or discarded tin cans.

"There are alternatives to using pesticides (to control mosquitoes)," Waffle comments. "Fish can be planted

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED USE OF FEDERAL REVENUE SHARING FUNDS

Notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held on the proposed use of Federal Revenue Sharing Funds for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1981. The hearing will be held in the Council Chambers of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, at 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 7, 1981.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON THE PROPOSED 1981-82 GENERAL FUND BUDGET FOR THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE WOODS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods will be meeting on Monday, May 11, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan, for the purpose of conducting a public hearing on the proposed General Fund Budget for the fiscal year 1981-82, as well as a possible amended version of the said General Fund Budget, and the proposed Capital Improvement Budget for 1981-82 and the proposed Planned Expenditures of Federal Revenue Sharing monies for the said City.

The City Council of Grosse Pointe Woods is voluntarily proposing to reduce the City's tax rate for the third consecutive year. The 1981 City tax rate is proposed to be reduced from the current tax rate of 11.970 mills to 10.662 mills which is a 10.86% reduction. If on May 19th the proposed Property Tax Relief Amendment is adopted by the electorate of the State of Michigan, it will be further recommended by the City Council that the City's proposed 1981-82 General Fund Budget be amended immediately thereafter to provide a City tax rate of 9.98 mills (16.62% reduction) for the year 1981.

The proposed budget for 1981-82 will increase the City taxes by only 6.29% which is less than 50% of the increase allowable by the so-called current "Headlee" limitation, as well as less than 50% of the level of the C.P.I. increase. Furthermore, if the May 19th Tax Relief Amendment is passed, the total City taxes will decrease 0.50% in order to compensate for an increase in the State Sales Tax.

Classic wine is class topic

"Classic Wines," a new four-week class presented by the department of continuing education of the Grosse Pointe Public School System and Culinary Consultants, Inc. will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 5 in room C-5 of Brownell Middle School.

Emphasis of this new class is on classic wines and grapes, including Riesling, Cabernet Sauvignon, Pinot Noir, and Chardonnay. Each session will feature comparative tasting (to determine the varying effects created by differing climates, temperatures and soils) using domestic as well as South American, Spanish, French, German and Australian wines.

In addition to the $15 tuition, a lab fee will be assessed and collected at the first meeting for wine, bread, and cheese used in the class.

For more information, call the department of continuing education at 343-2178.

Lost signs spur protest in Woods

The removal of four-way stop signs on some Grosse Pointe Woods residential streets has raised the ire of residents who say the signs keep the streets safe for children.

North band played "colors"

Under the direction of Nathan C. Judson, Grosse Pointe North's Stage Band presented its recent Cabaret Dance. The band featured big band and jazz style tunes with the theme for the night being "Color my world." Among the forty songs played were "Another Shade of Blue" by Richard Fenno, "Mountain Greenery" arranged by Art Dedrick and the theme song "Color My World" by James Pankow. North's artist in residence, Bess Bonnier, also performed various jazz piano solos which contributed to make the annual event a success. This is the stage band's last performance until they do their final one for the year at Bands and Orchestra Awards Night in June.

White Cane Week, May 2-9

For the 26th consecutive year, the Grosse Pointe Woods Lions will sell miniature white canes during White Cane Week, May 2 through 9. As always, the money from the sale of the white cane lapel pins will be used to support the many Lions Club projects.

George Tilton, White Cane chairman for 1981 for the Grosse Pointe Woods Club, said support from the Lions' many friends is most important to help reach the goal of $3,000.

Yellow Best Car Color

The safest color for cars and trucks is yellow, declares the Minnesota Department of Safety. Yellow is most valuable under almost all traffic conditions, particularly in fog or hard rain and at twilight. The second best is light green. Both yellow and light green vehicles are two to four times more visible than dark-colored cars and trucks during poor driving conditions, the agency claims.

After receiving 128 petition signatures protesting the sign removal, the Woods Council decided on April 20 to replace the signs at least temporarily.

The stop signs were removed from six residential intersections late last year after the state's Department of Transportation told the Woods they conflicted with state traffic control guidelines and a national emphasis on energy conservation. The city also stands to lose about $75,000 in state transportation funds unless the requirements are met.

Residents near the intersections of Sunningdale Drive at Fairway and Raymond Road at Bournemouth say traffic on their streets is extremely heavy and fast moving and fear for the safety of the area's many small children since the signs were removed.

The other intersections affected by the change are Westbrook at Yorktown, Van K Drive at Moorland Drive, Van K at Canterbury Drive, South Oxford Road at Wedgewood Drive.

The Council decided to replace the signs while it appeals the state's recommendation.

Seminar looks at families

The National Foundation for Ileitis and Colitis will present an open educational seminar on "The Family Fights Back" May 6, at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road.

The 8 p.m. seminar will feature Audrey Kron, founding member of the Michigan chapter of the NFIC. Panelists include Dr. Keith Lepard, chief of Liaison Psychiatry, Sinai Hospital; Dr. John Spain, chairperson, Department of Psychology, Mercy College; and Dr. Joel Weinstein, chief of Gastroenterology, Hutzel Hospital. The seminar is free.

Unpleasant alternatives

In politics as in life, people often have to choose among a number of unpleasant alternatives.

Ideally, tax reform ought to be enacted by the Legislature but only after long and serious study, perhaps by a state tax commission, that would make clear the impact of proposed changes on various elements of the state's economy.

Instead, the threat of another referendum to enact Tisch III has caused the Legislature and Gov. William Milliken to work out a tax compromise that attempts to satisfy property owners' demands for tax cuts and still not do too much damage to public services on the local and state levels.

However, local governments and the schools are worried about two parts of the tax proposal. One calls upon the state to make full reimbursement to the local units of government and the school districts for the revenues they would lose from a 50 percent cut in property taxes.

IN THE POINTES, the schools and local governments expect to lose up to $4 million from the 6 percent cap because they expect their costs to rise at a faster rate in view of the continuing inflation currently running in excess of 10 percent.

There is some cause for such complaints. Higher levels of government always are slow about making reimbursements to the local units which raise the revenue. And some of the revenue has a habit of sticking on the hands of those in higher levels of government—in this case, the state—if just for their work in handling the transactions.

But what is the alternative to voting "Yes" on Proposal "A"?

School Supt. William Coats, soon to depart for the more protective, ivy-colored halls of academe at the University of Michigan, thinks the alternative is to vote "No" because, he says, Proposal A "would result in massive layoffs, lost services for young people and erosion of local control."

With the courage of a man who won't have to worry much if he's wrong, Dr. Coats says Proposal A is "an 11th hour plan by a bunch of scared bureaucrats to ward off Bob Tisch." But is Dr. Coats himself being realistic?

What makes him so certain that if Proposal A is beaten, the Tisch supporters will not come back to the voters with Tisch III which, if approved, would be more radical in its approach than previous Tisch plans and cost the schools and local governments even more than Proposal "A" would cost them?

Everyone who takes a hard look at Proposal "A" admits that it is not an ideal tax reform plan. But under the circumstances, it is the best of the alternatives available. And by voting "No" on Proposal "A" the people of the state would give the Shiawassee drain commissioner another opportunity to take "the state down the drain with Bob Tisch. He did, after all, get the support of 44 percent of the people who voted on Tisch II in 1980.

AS WE SAID at the outset, people often have to choose among several unpleasant alternatives. Proposal "A" is still preferable to the Tisch III alternative which would cause even greater damage to local units of government, the schools and state services. And if Dr. Coats thinks the talk about Tisch III is an idle threat, it's he "who's mistaken, not those "scared bureaucrats" in Lansing who, after all, have been listening to those angry complaints from property tax owners for several years.

New Deal is still safe

Recent reviews in the news media about President Reagan's first 100 days in office might make the casual reader, viewer or listener think that the new administration is setting out to repeal the New Deal. Some of the rhetoric from the President's men seems to be aimed at persuading the public to draw the same conclusion. Yet that opinion is hardly warranted.

In his first 100 days after he took office on March 4, 1933, President Roosevelt "sent" 15 messages to Congress, guided 15 major laws to enactment, delivered 10 speeches, held press conferences and Cabinet meetings twice a week, conducted talks with foreign heads of state, sponsored an international conference, made all the major decisions in domestic and foreign policy, and never displayed fright or panic or even bad temper."

THAT RECORD compiled by historian Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr. in "The Coming of the New Deal," the second volume of his monumental "The Age of Roosevelt," indicates the magnitude of the administrative and legislative accomplishments of FDR's first 100 days.

It is true that some of that 1933 legislation has been superseded by subsequent legislative actions. And some was enacted only for specific periods of time. But some of it is still in effect and in amended form at least continues the principles of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act, providing for the unified development of the Tennessee Valley; the Home Owners Loan Act, providing for the refinancing of home mortgages; the Farm Credit Act, providing for the reorganization of agricultural credit activities, and the Glass-Steagall Banking Act, which among other things guaranteed bank deposits.

It is true that President Reagan is taking a new and harder line against the Soviet Union, is proposing to build U.S. defenses and is sharply cutting the federal budget with the aim of reducing inflation and income taxes at the same time. And overall his program is aimed more at a leaner federal establishment that is seeking to concentrate on meeting the nation's most serious needs and on limiting the role of the federal government in its relations with and its regulations over private enterprise and the individual.

True, the Reagan administration's thrust is in a new direction but it has achieved only limited goals through its first 100 days. The Reagan White House has not yet appointed all of its top administrators, although some of those named appear to be out of sympathy with the programs they have been named to administer. It has yet to get its budget cuts through Congress, although the prospects for those reductions are brighter than for congressional approval of the three-year tax cut sought by the Reagan administration. Its momentum has been slowed if not halted by the attempt on Mr. Reagan's life, although a recovering President now is trying to provide renewed leadership.

If Mr. Reagan has his way, the United States will have a more frugal, more conservative government that will not be as generous as its recent predecessors toward many citizens who have been getting various kinds of federal aid. But the safety net set up by the New Deal and augmented by later Democratic and Republican administrations still remains. And the budget, even if Mr. Reagan's cuts are accepted, will still be larger than it was last year, though much smaller than it would have been under President Carter's proposals.

SO FAR, AT LEAST, it's an exaggeration to say that the Reagan administration is repealing the New Deal. Not even Dwight Eisenhower could do that, back when the New Deal had not been in place for such a long period of time. And so far Reagan's first 100 days have been, well, another 100 days but hardly reminiscent of 1933.

Problem solvers head to Ann Arbor Bowl

Two of Grosse Pointe Academy's "Future Problem Solving Teams" qualified to participate in the second annual state Future Problem Solving Bowl held in Ann Arbor, April 11. The Academy's Jr. Division team was selected on the basis of its solution to a practice problem that dealt with the use of home computers in education. The team members were Brad Phleegeer, Carla Christensen, Wendy Osann and Reba Uthappa and coach Sheila Osann.

Intermediate Division team members Cameron Denton, Andrea Erickson, Elizabeth Ream and alternates Jim Smith and Jay Bonnell, coached by Mary Jo Johnson, also qualified for their work on the problem of privacy invasion resulting from the use of home computers.

The Academy problem-solving program was piloted this year as a once-a-week, afterschool activity for academically talented students. It was part of a national program of inter-scholastic competition in creative problem solving and future studies.

The State Bowl in Ann Arbor was the culmination of the year-long program in which students were taught to creatively identify, attack and solve problems related to projections into the future. More than 400 teams from all over Michigan, worked on three practice problems which were critiqued by trained evaluators. Based on practice problem scores, the top 15 percent of the Michigan teams from each of three divisions were invited to participate in the State Bowl.

While teams knew and researched the general topic of this year's bowl — "mass starvation and undernutrition" — prior to the competition, they did not know the specific nature of the problem until the Bowl began. Solutions were evaluated on clearly established criteria and the top four teams from each division received trophies. Winning teams were invited to represent Michigan at the National Future Problem Solving Bowl to be held in Lincoln, Neb. on May 13 to 18.

In addition to its work on the hunger problem itself, each team gave an oral presentation on the merits of its best solution. Group presentations were evaluated for originality of ideas and overall persuasiveness, and awards of merit were presented to the top four groups in each division.

Under a new program for academically talented youngsters, Grosse Pointe Academy "future problem solving teams" addressed themselves to such issues as computers in education and in the home. Team members and coaches who traveled to Ann Arbor for the state problem solving bowl are (from left to right) Cameron Denton, Mary Jo Johnson, Andrea Erickson, Elizabeth Ream, Jim Smith, Jay Bonnell, Sheila Osann, Brad Phleegeer, Reba Uthappa, Wendy Osann and Carla Christensen.

Letters to The Editor

'A' is a knee-jerk reaction to Tisch

To the Editor: I appreciate the recent coverage of tax proposal "A" and the role both Rep. William Bryant and Supt. William Coats have in this issue.

I oppose proposal "A" for several reasons. Should it pass, we will have less control over our schools. The state has often shown it can require programs which it need not especially fund.

The proposal will not give the extent of tax relief suggested. The 50 percent property tax reduction would only apply to the first $1,400 of your property tax.

Michigan now is 48th of all states in our return of federal funds. An important effect of this proposal would be to send more to Washington D. C. (remember how much you could deduct from your Federal Income Tax due to local taxes you paid? The credit now allowed for such local taxes on the payment of Federal Taxes would no longer be as great.)

But, most disconcerting to me, we seem to look to a "quick fix" for our problems and we are willing to sacrifice the education of our youth to gain some immediate personal relief. Not only is this short sighted in terms of how our potential to advance as a country is concerned, but think what it says to our kids about what is really important to us. They deserve better from us.

We should step back from the current "knee-jerk reaction" based on a fear of another Tisch crusade and give thought to long term solutions. And we should expect our leaders to do the same.

Concerned, Gordon E. Morlan, Barrington Road, Grosse Pointe Park

Cottage expands Fun Run

Women over 40 years of age who enter the Cottage Hospital "Start a Healthy Habit" Fun Run/Walk, Sunday, May 3, at 1 p.m. now will have more opportunities to win a trophy award.

Madge Lawson, Cottage Hospital public relations director announced on April 20 that categories in the women's section have been expanded. Women planning to enter the race may indicate participation in the race in five year increments identical to the men's categories. A high percentage of returns from women over the age of 40 is credited with the need to revise the race categories.

The event, which is scheduled to be run along Kercheval Avenue in Grosse Pointe Farms, is open to everyone. Three trophy awards will be presented in each age group for men and women. Two walk awards also will be presented. Each participant will receive a certificate and a T-shirt. T-shirts will be included in the race packet available at Richard School, 176 Kercheval Avenue, from 10 a.m.

until noon the day of the race. No T-shirts will be guaranteed for late registrants.

The "Start a Healthy Habit" five kilometer, 3.1 mile Fun Run/Walk is being presented by the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary to benefit the ambulatory surgical unit. Entry fee is $5. Entries are available at the hospital information window and at area merchants and libraries. An official entry blank was printed in the April 16 edition of the Grosse Pointe News.

More members wanted by International Institute

An international wine tasting reception Friday, May 15, will highlight the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit's current membership drive, co-chaired by Mrs. G. Mennen Williams, of Tonnancour Place, and Dr. Thomas Bonner, with assistance from co-chairpersons Malvina Abonyi and Justine Chenever.

Connoisseur John Miller, president of the Danish Club, past-president of the American Scandinavian Foundation and past-president of the International Puppeteers Guild, will present six different wines of the world plus one "mystery" wine.

Miller, who teaches art at Northeastern High School, promises an entertaining presentation on the nationality, quality and use of each wine, as well as how it is made.

The reception, to run from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the International Institute located on East Kirby Street, at the corner of John R in Detroit's University/Cultural Center, also will feature international cheeses, breads and fruits served against a background of musical accompaniment.

Cost of the evening is $5 for International Institute members, $6 for non-members. Reservations may be made by calling 871-8600.

"For more than 60 years, the International Institute, a Torch Drive Agency, has been the representative and advocate for the ethnic populations of the tri-county area," says Mary Ball, its executive director.

The institute has a multi-lingual social services staff which assists people with concerns about immigration, naturalization, socialization and other problems of daily living associated with acculturation.

"It also provides ethnic communities with a forum of expression for their art, history, music, dance and crafts, and has brought about cohesion, unity and intense pride in individual cultures," Ms. Ball adds. "The institute's exhibitions, children's programs and events have exposed Americans to other cultures and emphasized the central role of ethnicity in American history."

The current membership drive continues through May 31. Cost of membership is $5 for individuals, $8 for families. Student memberships are $3. Senior memberships are $1.

All members of the International Institute receive a 10 percent discount on gifts from the institute's Tiny Shop, a bi-monthly newsletter, reduction in price on the institute's ethnic programs—and the opportunity to support ethnicity.

Information on membership may be obtained by calling 871-8600.

The committee helping them plan this foot-stompin' down-home night includes Sallie Remus, reservations, Sharon Vasher, entertainers, Cheryl Nelson, decorations, Fran Pastoria, hostesses, Bonnie Woods, mailing, and Debbie Figurski, printing. Monies raised by the league go directly to the NEGC, the community mental health facility that services men, women, children and families in Grosse Pointe, northeast Detroit and Harper Woods. Offer taste of Detroit

Detroit's restaurants will display their virtuosity when A Taste of Detroit, the Michigan Restaurant Association's annual fine foods ethnic festival, kicks off the ethnic festival season at Hart Plaza at noon Friday, May 1.

The third annual festival, which continues through Sunday, May 3, will feature 26 area restaurants serving bite-sized portions of their house specialties at equally bite-sized prices beginning at less than $1, and a collection of entertainers (as diverse as the food) performing in the Hart Plaza amphitheater.

The festival runs from noon to 11 p.m. Friday and Saturday and from noon to 10 p.m. Sunday.

Among the more unusual food offerings will be octopus salad Marsailles from the Bull Market and Anton's, a farci of duck appetizer from the Historic Holly Hotel in Holly, a mouth-watering selection of international pastries from the Melting Pot in Detroit's International Institute, individual Beef Wellington from the Kingsley Inn in Bloomfield Hills and nutty chicken from Mr. Steak in Grosse Ile.

Entertainment, beginning Friday at 5 p.m., will include vocal soloists and groups, Percy Gabriel's jazz band, danceable tunes by the Frank Venice Orchestra, dance stories by Wayne State University's Movin' Stage and Dick Waskins' Puppets.

The weekend will be capped by a four hour disco party hosted by WDRQ's Kevin O'Neill.

Paquin work is on display

Ralph Paquin, of Michigan Ceramics '81, winner of the Detroit Gallery of Contemporary Crafts Award, opened his one-man show, under sponsorship of the Detroit Artists Market, in the Artists Market's "Other Space" on the seventh floor of Hudson's downtown store last week.

Room One, "Busy Space," consists of three ceramics that rock through a cantilever levered system. It is mechanically operated by the people viewing the work.

Room Two, "Quiet Space," presents three hospital beds designed and constructed by the artist, used as pedestals for three ceramic humorous heads. The background is white, for peace.

Paquin's work may be viewed Tuesday through Saturday through May 8, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The artist, graduated in 1978 as a sculptor major from Southern Massachusetts University, now attends Cranbrook, where he is majoring in ceramics.

A mighty MOT garage sale spree in May

Michigan Opera Theatre has planned a garage sale to end all garage sales — the first MOT Garage Sale Spree, set for Saturday and Sunday, May 16 and 17, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the former Bart auto dealership on East Jefferson Avenue — and will kick it off with an equally spectacular preview and auction party starting at 6:30 p.m. Friday evening, May 15.

The preview will feature many treasures, from celebrity items to theatrical memorabilia to special gifts gathered from far and wide, in silent and vocal auctions.

What's needed now is sale items from the metropolitan area's closets, basements and attics. Co-chairpersons Betty Gerisch and Sue Vittoe are looking for anything and everything, from the outgrown and outdated to the simply unwanted, but all in good, useable condition. Donations will be acknowledged for tax purposes. Grosse Pointe's Carl Bates will do the appraisals.

Drop-off sites have been located throughout the metropolitan area. In Grosse Pointe, Scott and Karen McKean have offered their Lewiston Road home. Prospective donors may reach them at 886-7343, evenings. Bulky or special items can be picked up.

Painters working on Garage Sale Spree committees, in addition to co-chairperson Sue and the McKeanes, are Edye Longyear, Tom and Diane Schoenith, Don and Dale Austin and Kim and Mado Lie.

If you'd like to join them, to work on a committee before the event or during the sale ... if you'd like more information about donations or just more information, give 863-3717 a call. Ask for the MOT Garage Sale Spree desk.

Cooperative nursery to hold open house

Interested mothers and their children are invited to observe a typical three-year-old class in session at the Grosse Pointe Cooperative Nursery, Inc.'s open house next Thursday, May 7, from 9 to 10 a.m.

The nursery is located in large basement rooms at the Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church on Moross Road.

The three-year-old class meets from 9 to 11 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays during the school year. The four-year-old class meets Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 to 11 a.m.

The nursery is accepting registrations for children who will be three or four years old by Dec. 1, 1981.

Grosse Pointe Cooperative Nursery teacher Pam Barthel is assisted by parents who rotate working days. The children participate in positive social experiences via large and small group activities and free play time.

They have opportunities to paint at easels, use the house-keeping area, do craft projects, work at water and sand tables, climb and slide on indoor gym equipment and work at a workbench.

They play with puppets, blocks, dress-up clothes, trucks and other riding toys, and participate in singing, poetry, games and field trips.

Further information on the school or the open house may be obtained by contacting Liz Ricci, 884-8683, or Kathy Kasiborski, 885-3467.

Savitch headlines MCF May recognition dinner

NBC Network News Anchorwoman Jessica Savitch and WDIV-TV News Anchorman Mort Crim will headline the Michigan Cancer Foundation's fifth annual Volunteer Recognition Dinner Tuesday, May 5, in the Detroit Plaza Hotel's Renaissance Ballroom. Nearly 1,000 guests are expected to attend.

Crim will be master of ceremonies. Savitch will be featured guest speaker at the 7 p.m. dinner which honors the foundation's 7,362 volunteers, largest volunteer corps serving any health agency in metropolitan Detroit.

Thirty-eight volunteers will receive special recognition for their contributions to cancer patients and the community, reports Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy III, of Cloverly Road, 1981 dinner chairman.

"With a collective total of 216,000 hours and 435,963 miles travelled, our volunteers contributed $1 million worth of service by transporting cancer patients to hospitals and treatment centers, distributing educational materials, assisting with cancer detection clinics and staffing the foundation's regional and neighborhood offices," says Mrs. Glancy.

Jessica Savitch has been an NBC news anchor since 1977. One of the nation's busiest journalists, she is correspondent-anchor, Senate correspondent, National Political correspondent and Update anchor for NBC's Washington office. She established a lasting friendship with Mort Crim when she worked a newsbeat with him at KYW-TV in Philadelphia.

Savitch entered the broadcasting industry as an on-air personality while still a senior at Atlantic City High School in New Jersey in 1964. As she earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Television and Radio Communications at Ithaca College, she worked at WBBF-

AM Radio in Rochester, N.Y.

She was with CBS network's award-winning station, WCBS Newsradio in New York City, in 1968 and from 1970 to 1972 was a general assignment reporter and weekend anchor on KHOM in Houston, Tex.

During her five years at KYW-TV she established a reputation for excellence in broadcast journalism as a news anchor. She received the Clarion Award from the National Chapter of Women in Communications.

She is recipient of many other awards, including the 1977 Broadcast Media Conference Award, the Women in Communications Award for her one-hour documentary "Lady Law" and the Philadelphia Press Association Award for best news feature.

She has also received the Ohio University Award for her role as NBC Weekend News Anchor.

The invocation at this year's dinner will be given by Father Malcolm Carron, S.J., former president of the University of Detroit and present chancellor of the university.

The Michigan Cancer Foundation, a Torch Drive-United Way Agency, is the state's only cancer research and control agency and one of the nation's leading cancer research institutions.

The foundation's current volunteer force is the offspring of a group of Detroit women called the Women's Field Army, which helped battle cancer in the early 1940s.

Swenson-Haddad vows exchanged

Country Club is setting for reception following late afternoon rites; newlyweds vacation on St. Thomas

Gail Leslie Haddad wore a traditional gown of ivory satin and lace, styled with a cathedral train, for her marriage Saturday, February 28, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church to Craig Donald Swenson. A Juliet cap of matching lace and pearls held her cathedral length veil. She carried an arrangement of white roses and gardenias.

The former Miss Haddad is the daughter of Mrs. Jean Hughes Haddad, of Whittier Road, and Dr. Benjamin F. Haddad, of Waverly Lane.

The bridegroom, a Deputy Sheriff with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department who makes his home in Ann Arbor, is the son of former Bloomfield Hills residents Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Swenson, who now reside in Des Moines, Iowa.

The 4:30 o'clock ceremony at which Dr. Ray Kiely presided was followed by a reception at the Country Club of Detroit, after which the newlyweds left to vacation on St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands.

Pre-nuptial music was provided by the bride's sisters, Elaine Haddad Wright, of Elyria, O., who performed J.S. Bach's "French Suite V" on the piano, and Christine Haddad Hebert, flute, and Elizabeth Haddad, harp, who played "Meditation on the First Prelude of J.S. Bach."

Carillon and organ selections were by William N. DeTurk, Memorial Church organist. Elizabeth Haddad served as honor maid for her sister. Honor matron was Lisa Buck Smithers, of Canterbury, N.H. Margaret France Roa, Sandra VanBemmelan, a former Grosse Pointe who now resides in Ypsilanti, and Mrs. Wright, the bride's sister, were bridesmaids.

They wore matching, sleeveless, three quarter length jackets over their spaghetti-strapped, floor length gowns of teal blue tulle. Each attendant carried three long-stemmed white roses, with baby's breath and fern, and wore a matching rose and baby's breath in her hair.

Junior bridesmaid Stephanie Jean Wright, the bride's niece, wore a floor length gown of ivory satin with a voile overdress accented with ecru lace inserts at bodice and collar, sashed in ivory satin and hemmed with matching lace.

She, too, carried three white roses with baby's breath and fern and wore a single rose and baby's breath in her hair.

Best man was James Stanisk, of Ann Arbor. Groomsmen were Loren Knepp, of Birmingham, Ala., Mark Curby, James Fink and James Westrick, all of Ann Arbor, and fellow police officers of the bridegroom.

The bride's brothers, William J. Haddad, of Andover, Mass., and David B. Haddad, read the marriage service scriptures and served as ushers.

The mother of the bride pinned a white gardenia at the waist of her street length dress of aqua crepe. The bridegroom's mother selected a street length dress of pale French blue crepe de chine. Her corsage was also a gardenia.

Out-of-town guests included Dr. Terrell Hebert, of Spring Lake, the bride's brother-in-law, Mrs. Knepp, who came with her husband from Alabama, the Lee Bucks, of New Canaan, Conn., Mrs. Lawrence Kinney, of Wilton, Conn., the Clayton Swensons, of Ames, Iowa, Larry Senger, of Washington, D.C., and Robin Sachs, of East Lansing.

More were nursing classmates of the bride Robin Peters, Sandra Borner and Caryn Cramer, of Kalamazoo, and Sue Keller, of East Lansing, and the Mark Jansens, Mark Trasky and Julie Quinlan, all of Grand Rapids, and Mr. and Mrs. Mark Seetsema, of Jenison, Mich.

Mrs. Craig Swenson

Married Saturday, February 28, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church to Mr. Swenson, son of the Donald N. Swensons, former Bloomfield Hills residents who now make their home in Des Moines, Iowa, was GAIL LESLIE HADDAD, daughter of Mrs. Jean Hughes Haddad, of Whittier Road, and Dr. Benjamin F. Haddad, of Waverly Lane.

Dryden, and followed by a talk on the various uses, including gardening, decorating and cooking, of herbs and spices. Speaker is Mrs. Roger W. Jamison, of the Cranbrook Herb Gardens. The meeting begins at 10:30 a.m. sharp. INCOMING LINC PRESIDENT LISA MORREALE, OF WINDMILL POINTE DRIVE (LEFT), AND OUTGOING PRESIDENT SHERRILL WOLFORD, OF BLAIRMOR COURT, SORTING DONATED CLOTHES IN THE LINC STOREROOM

By Janet Mueller

Each was introduced to LINC by a friend. For Lisa it was a Windmill Pointe neighbor, Sue Albright, LINC's president last year, who called one day and said, 'Why don't you come over to the basement and help sort LINC donations?' For Sherrill it was the president before her, Sue. 'We'd been Girl Scout leaders together. She invited me to join, suggested I would enjoy the things LINC does... and I said, 'Thank you; I'm really quite busy right now, but perhaps I can do one thing for LINC.'

Seven-year-old John, all students at Trombly School. They're a traveling family. 'We take the children abroad. My husband has relatives in Italy, and we visit them.' Closer to home, there's the Lexington house to visit on weekends, and Dr. Morreale has a sailboat. Lisa's main current commitments are 'raising three children and working for LINC,' but she does keep a finger in the Social Work pie by volunteering once a week, on Wednesdays, at the Northeast Guidance Center Outpatient Clinic.

LINC and the NEGC are physically related now. On April 1, LINC moved from St. Ambrose Community Center on Hampton Road, just off East Jefferson Avenue, into new headquarters at the Guidance Center's main building on East Warren Avenue at the corner of LaVeuve.

LINC has its own office there, and a spacious storage room with its own back door, making donation drop-off very easy. Donors can drive right up to the door and unload.

'We have babied this move along. We really wanted to come here,' says Sherrill Wolford.

Better place to be... The association with St. Ambrose had, through the years, been a happy one for all concerned, but LINC had outgrown the facilities available at the community center. 'This is a more professional setting for us,' Sherrill explains. 'It emphasizes the fact that, although we are staffed by volunteers, we are a business organization. We have professional hours.'

Sherrill, originally from Texas, came to The Pointe seven years ago. Her husband, Gary, is an oral surgeon. They met at a hospital in Texas. She was working in administration; he was doing his residency training.

Italian connection... The Morreales have three children, 11-year-old twins Victoria and Stephanie and

Amish quilts blooming at museum this spring

Amish quilts form a distinctive body of work within the large tradition of American quilting. Some 30 striking examples of this Amish folk art, done in the late 19th and early 20th centuries, are on display now through Sunday, May 31, in the Textile Galleries of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, a menu based around a delicious FISH DISH.

Dr. George Christakis, Chief of the Nutrition Division of the University of Miami School of Medicine (also formerly consultant to the World Health Organization), wrote regarding a study conducted on the Island of Crete: 'They have the lowest known incidence of heart disease... Men of middle age have the same blood cholesterol levels as American 19-year-olds.'

The Cretans' diet for 4,000 years has consisted of whole grain products, fresh vegetables and fruits, dairy products, nuts, olive oil, some chicken and fish—but rarely beef. In Cretan Baked Fish the special flavor of fresh lemon combined with olives oil teases the tastebuds and makes the fish and vegetables incredibly delicious.

An ideal menu: Iced Apple Juice, Cretan Baked Fish, Spinach and Mushroom Salad, Best Ever Salad Dressing, Angel Food Cake with Fresh Strawberries

CRETAN BAKED FISH 1 1/2 lbs. fresh pike, pickerel or white fish, filleted. 4 medium potatoes, peeled, sliced 1/4 inch thick. 4 carrots, grated lengthwise. 1 large Spanish onion (about 14 oz.) cut in 3/8" slices. 2 Tbsp. lemon juice. 1/2 cup olive oil. 1 whole lemon, thinly sliced. 1/2 tsp tarragon. 1/2 tsp. salt or to taste. dash of pepper. paprika. 1/2 tsp. dried parsley. Wash and pat dry fish fillets. Cut to serving-size pieces. Place skin side down in greased Dutch oven. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, paprika and tarragon. Layer the vegetables over the fish; salt and pepper each to taste. Top with lemon slices. Drop lemon juice over top and pour olive oil over

BEST EVER SALAD DRESSING This is the modern version of the family's traditional and most delicious salad dressing. The original recipe was devised by greataunt Thyra many years ago, and ever since has been a favorite dressing for greens and vegetables. It is often used as a dip for bits of meat. Its flavor is greatly enhanced when the fruit or herbed vinegars are used. Dry mustard also imparts a subtle flavor. Garlic and onion powders give it more body than the fresh.

6 Tbsp. chili sauce. 6 Tbsp. water. 6 Tbsp. cider vinegar. 6 Tbsp. salad oil. 6 Tbsp. sugar. 1/2 tsp. salad herbs. 1/2 tsp. dried parsley. 1/2 tsp. garlic powder. 1/2 tsp. onion powder. 1/2 tsp. dill weed. 1/2 tsp. basil. 1/2 tsp. tarragon. Place all ingredients in a mixing bowl and whisk until thoroughly blended. Place in glass jar with tight fitting lid. Refrigerate for at least 2 hours before using so that flavors may become well blended. Makes about 2 1/2 cups.

About 30 calories per tablespoon. Cholesterol 0. This dressing will keep indefinitely, if well refrigerated. The sugar may be replaced by sugar substitute, if desired. The calorie count then will be about 23 per tablespoon.

'Economical' Hilberry night

The Wayne State University Alumni Association is sponsoring an economical evening at Hilberry Theatre next Wednesday, May 6, at 8 p.m., featuring a special performance of Noel Coward's 'Tonight at 8:30' followed by champagne, hors d'oeuvres and sweets, all at $6.75 for association members, $7.75 for non-members. 'Tonight at 8:30' consists of three comedy-tinged one-act plays from a series of nine. In 'Ways and Means,' an elegant young couple whose small income has barely kept them afloat are faced with a terrible dilemma when they are evicted and have gambled away what little money they had.

Their difficulties are solved in an unconventional manner. 'Fumed Oak,' which Coward calls 'an unpleasant comedy,' zeroes in on a meek shop clerk who wants to rid himself of his shrewish wife, crotchety mother-in-law and adenaoidal daughter. Ticket information may be obtained by calling 577-2161.

Wood is tennis coach of year

ULS athletic director and tennis coach Robert Wood

University Liggett School athletic director and varsity tennis coach Bob Wood has been named the 1981 District IV Tennis Coach of the Year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association (NHSACA).

District IV of the NHSACA includes all tennis coaches from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, and Wisconsin. Wood is now one of eight district winners eligible for the National High School Tennis Coach of the Year award. The national winner will be announced at the NHSACA annual convention held in late June in Biloxi, Miss.

The 40-year-old native of the Farms, a University Liggett School alumnus of 1959, has been athletic director and varsity tennis coach at ULS for 15 years.

Wood's teams have won 12 state championships (the last nine in a row—just two behind the national record), 14 regional championships, six league championships, and 41 invitational championships.

During the past 15 years, his teams have had a regular season record of 207 wins and 59 losses. ULS plays one of the toughest tennis schedules of any high school in the Midwest.

Wood himself has had an illustrious career not only as varsity tennis coach but also as athletic director; moreover he has played a major role in Michigan high school athletics. He has been the recipient of Coach of the Year honors in 1972 and 1976 by the Detroit News, and in 1977 he was named Michigan High School Coaches Association Coach of the Year.

In 1978 he received the President's Award for outstanding service to Michigan High School Tennis. Wood is currently National Tennis Chairman for the NHSACA. He also is on the executive board of the Michigan Association of Directors of Physical Education and Athletics and was founder of the Michigan High School Tennis Coaches Association in 1976 and founder of the Metro Conference, an eight-school league, in 1968.

He is currently commissioner of the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference and in recent years has become a nationally known speaker in the field of tennis. This August, he will be a featured speaker at the National Tennis Teachers Conference in New York City. In recent years Wood has given talks at the Midwest Tennis Coaches Conference in Chicago and other tennis coaching clinics in Detroit, Orlando, Fla., Louisville, Ky., Madison, Wis., Seattle, Wash. and Biloxi, Miss.

Wood also had an outstanding tennis career both in high school and college. He teamed with George Haggarty for three consecutive state high school Class C-D titles in 1957, 1958 and 1959. As freshmen they were runners-up in 1956. One of Wood's most cherished awards came in 1962 when he won the NCAA Small College Eastern Tournament singles and doubles. As a ULS prep tennis star, Wood lost only two matches as a freshman before remaining unbeaten for the next three years.

"Although state rules prevented us from moving up, I believe ULS would have had an excellent chance of winning the Class A title in three of the past six years," observed Wood. "I am confident our boys would have held their own against the 'A' field."

In talking about the ULS tennis program which many consider to be one of the finest in the country, Wood is sure that his annual spring vacation trips to Florida are beneficial for his teams. Each spring for the past 15 years, Wood has taken ten of the tennis players on a spring training trip to Pompano Beach, Fla.

"The parents pay for each of their boy's expenses and, of course, we have always taken our four children along," Wood notes. "The players are up at 6:15 a.m. and we put them through three hours of drill from 7:15 to 10:30 a.m. They are then free until 4 p.m. and are back on the courts playing until 6 p.m."

The spring tennis trip is worthwhile in more ways than just preparing the team for the season. It provides a tremendous learning experience for the boys. They have to cook their own meals, wash their own clothes and in many other ways, take care of themselves. There is absolutely no doubt that this trip has done more for the ULS tennis program than anything else.

"However," coach Wood adds, "I would not take this trip without my wife, Sharon. She plays a very important part in the overall success of the University Liggett tennis program. She personifies that much needed ingredient that brings everything together."

Bob and Sharon Wood and children Robby, 14, Kim, 12, Doug, 10 and Jim, 11 months, live in the Farms.

North JV run mark to 6-1

By Bob Waldeck

Coach Dan Griesbaum's Grosse Pointe North JV baseball squad split a doubleheader with Bishop Gallagher on April 22. Gallagher took the opener, 4-1, while the Norsemen won the second game, 4-3, to end Gallagher's unbeaten streak at 11 games.

Gallagher built a four-run lead against starting pitcher Marty Mitchell before the Norsemen rallied for a run in the fifth inning. Then, with the bases loaded and two out, Bill McEnroe sent a hard smash which the Gallagher third baseman grabbed and the North bid was cut short.

Mitchell led off the sixth inning with a booming triple, but his teammates couldn't get him home. Mike Hall hurried the final three innings for North and gave up no runs. North hitter Dave Waldeck had two singles, while Joe Haas, Fred Schultz, McEnroe and Scott Brady had one hit each.

In the nightcap, pitcher Bob Wujek went the distance for his third win of the season, scattering ten Gallagher hits. The Norsemen scored three runs in the fourth inning when Dennis Cyr walked, Hall sacrificed, Kevin Dundon, John Matouk and Waldeck each drew walks and McEnroe slashed a two-run single.

Gallagher tied the score at 3-3 in the fifth inning. North won the game in the sixth inning when Steve Walker drew a base on balls, Pinch runner Brady stole second, was awarded third on a pitcher's balk and scored on another balk.

McEnroe had two singles for North while Waldeck smashed a triple and Walker singled.

On April 24, North swept a doubleheader from Centerline St. Clement, 9-4 and 5-2. Mitchell hammered three home runs and pitchers Waldeck and Haas hurried complete games.

In the opener, North scored twice in the second inning on singles by Rich Stroebel and Haas and a passed ball by the St. Clement catcher. St. Clement got two runs in the third stanza but North came right back with three runs when Waldeck reached first on an error, McEnroe walked and Mitchell blasted a home run over the leftfield fence.

After St. Clement scored twice in the fourth, Stroebel continued the North attack when he walked and stole second. Waldeck and Hall then hit singles for two North runs. North led 7-4 at this point and added a run in the fifth inning on a walk and stolen base by Brady and a single by Cyr.

North scored its final run in the sixth inning when Chris Schade walked and scored on a triple by Waldeck. On the mound, Waldeck allowed five hits and struck out 13 batters for his first win of the year.

North took the second game, 5-2, as gummy right-hander Haas scattered six hits and struck out seven for his first victory. First baseman Mitchell continued his onslaught against St. Clement pitching with his second home run of the day—a solo shot—in North's first time at bat. The Norsemen added a run in the third inning when Waldeck tripled and scored on Dundon's line double.

St. Clement knotted the game at two in the fourth inning before North decided matters in the fifth inning with a three-run rally. Waldeck and McEnroe singled before Mitchell blasted his third home run of the chilly afternoon.

Hitters in the doubleheader included Mitchell with three homers, Waldeck with two triples, a double and two singles; Stroebel with three singles; Dundon with a double and single; Hall with two singles; and Haas a double. McEnroe and Cyr had a single each.

Coach Griesbaum said of his successful squad, now 6-1 on the year, "The pitching has been great—just super. Our defense has also been very good with very few errors or mental mistakes. And lately our hitting has come around with a number of key hits in tough ballgames."

Norsemen playing like champions

By Tim Saunders
North High

Welcome to Grosse Pointe Woods. Home of the Grosse Pointe North 1980 High School State Baseball Champions.

Most residents of the Woods are so accustomed to seeing that sign as they cross city boundaries that few even realize it's there. But what a lonely feeling it must give every visiting team coming in to try their luck against North's varsity baseball team. As if any team needed to be reminded.

Nine times the Norsemen have had to put their reputation on the line in 1981 and nine times they've stood up to their ranking in the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association. Few felt this year's team could pick up where the 1980 squad left off but that's not an easy thing to tell a team which is still undefeated after nine games.

Early last week the Norsemen went up against Center Line St. Clement and barely escaped with a sweep of their doubleheader, winning the first game, 10-9, and the second, 2-0.

Scott Young led the way in the opener with four hits including his third home run of the year while Pete Mogk knocked in four runs with a double and a single. John Hackett started the game and in 2½ innings was touched for all nine runs. Only four were earned runs. Young pitched the last 4½ innings of shutout relief, earning his first win of the year.

In the second game John Menzo allowed just three hits in a 2-0 shutout. Erich Schuberl's solo homer in the second inning and John Hackett's run scoring single accounted for the North runs.

On Saturday, April 25 the Norsemen entertained Bay City John Glenn and with a sweep of the doubleheader kept their unblemished record intact.

Both games only went five innings due to the 10 run mercy rule, as the Norsemen hammered their way to a 12-0 opening game victory and a 15-2 slaughter in the nightcap.

John Clem's strong pitching performance as well as his heavy hitting proved too much for the Bobcats in the first game as Clem gave up only one hit. Of the 18 batters John Glenn sent to the plate, no runner managed to get past second base. Clem struck out half the batters he faced.

The Bobcats' only hit came when pitcher Dave Walter led off the fourth inning with a single up the middle. He was quickly erased on a double play. Only three other players reached base the entire game.

The Norsemen got on the scoreboard early with three runs in the first inning. (Continued on Page 3C)

Knights lose first of year

By Bill Gore

The ULS baseball team met its first defeat at the hands of the Cranbrook Cranes, 10-8, on April 21. The Knights came out swinging as they took a one run lead in the top of the first inning, but the Cranes countered with a run.

In the third inning, the Knights broke the game open by scoring a run and holding the Cranes scoreless. Although the Knights drove in another three runs in the top of the fourth inning, the Cranes wouldn't give up. Cranbrook came back with a nine-run fourth inning. This five run lead proved to be too much for the Knights to overcome, although they finished the scoring with three runs in the sixth inning.

The big bat for the Knights was senior Jerry Parks, who had three hits and an RBI in four trips. Parks and sophomore Jeff Parks had a pair of stolen bases each.

The Knights split a doubleheader with Detroit Country Day School (DCDS) on April 25. In the first game, the Yellowjackets of Country Day were victorious, 12-6. Although the Knights took a quick 2-1 lead on the Yellowjackets, DCDS scored eight runs in the third inning to take a 9-2 lead.

The Knights tried to come back with a run in the fourth inning and two runs in the fifth. The Yellowjackets scored three more runs in the seventh while the Knights could only muster one more run.

In the second game, the Knights gained a 9-4 victory over DCDS. The Yellowjackets gained a 3-1 lead early in the game but the Knights did not give up and scored three runs in the fourth, four runs in the fifth, and a run in the sixth to take a 9-3 lead. The Yellowjackets added a final run in the sixth.

Putting in a big day for the Knights was senior Parks who got four hits in five trips and scored five runs.

St. Clare Cubs race in Derby

Saint Clare of Montefalco Cub Scout Pack 399 held the finals of its annual Pinewood Derby at the regular Pack meeting on April 11. Thirty-six Cub Scouts carved race cars out of blocks of wood and raced them in competition on a 32 foot elevated race track.

Sebastian Weir's car claimed first place in the finals, edging out Peter Haun's entry. Semifinalists included Dennis Rourke and Brian Rauch. Quarter finalists were Erik Kinning, Tom Mitchell and John Purrenhage.

Additional Den finalists included Bob McCarthy, Joe Pakledinoz, Roman Magnotta, Steve and David Tunney, Edwin Claes, Eric Garr, Gil Waitkus, Joe Stanko, Keith Mitchell, Dan Roaroy, Larry Ricard, Joe Marshall and Jad Pablo.

Award winners in the overall design and construction category included Eric Garr, Nathan Wood and Matthew Wing.

Pack 399's activities schedule isn't complete, however, as the Pack's baseball season commences this month and runs through the first week of June.

Cheers, but no tears at the Boston Marathon

By Robert Holmes

The last time I cried I think I was eight years old. It was at our old house on University Place and in a somewhat less-than-fierce battle with a friend, he swung once and missed, I did the same, and we both ran home crying.

Last week it was different. After 25 miles, 385 yards of the 85th Boston Marathon I wanted to cry for a different reason. By the time I crossed the finish line in 4 hours, 18 minutes, every muscle in my body had cramped up at least a dozen times. The last fifty yards of this survival test is a race only for a select few as the calves tighten up like a vise and the feet are unable to bend.

But I finished. Seconds after finishing you grab anything that won't give and you hold on. I wanted to sob like a baby as I had almost 15 years before, but I couldn't. Crazy as it might seem, anyone who has ever run the Marathon says he wouldn't trade it for anything. I am no different. At University Liggett School I never had a dream of running in any race let alone the 26 miles from Hopkinton to Boston. Cross country was used to prepare for basketball and at the time the three mile runs were torture. In the Metro Conference Championships I finished last in a field of 100, but I finished.

So after being crowned the slowest runner in the Metro Conference, and after four years of watching the marathon as a Boston College student, my chance had come. For three and one-half months prior to Patriots Day, the Massachusetts state holiday on which the marathon is run, I would run first three miles a day, then six, and finally nine a day with once-a-week 15 mile excursions thrown in.

On race day the town of Hopkinton seemed to welcome the crush of close to 10,000 people. The streets were lined with souvenir stands selling 10 different varieties of "official" marathon T-shirts, and, of course, matching hats and buttons.

But all of these sidewalk stores closed shop when the gun went off and the likes of Rogers, Seko, Virgin and Meyers (winner of this year's Free Press International Marathon), sprinted out to what would be the first of 26 sub-five minute miles.

I never saw them. I was about 200 yards behind them following two characters dressed like Groucho Marx and carrying a banner proclaiming the glory of being a "Back of the Pack" unofficial runner.

The first half of the race is an awesome spectacle. You aren't tired enough at this point to not notice the thousands of people cheering every step of the way. As Hopkinton turns to Ashland and Ashland fades to Natick you feel on top of the world. In Natick, on top of a hardware store a full blown, fiddle pickin' southern rock band was belting out tunes that made you think you could sprint the entire course.

Then there were the girls of Wellesley College. I spent four years at Boston College, just minutes from Wellesley and never made it there once. What a fool.

As you approach the school on Route 135 you begin to understand Webster's definition of a gauntlet. For two hundred yards, you are surrounded by hundreds of screaming girls lining a narrow path maybe five yards wide. In the words of my youth, "what a trip." The girls are a tremendous shot in the arm and again you feel like sprinting the remaining 13.5 miles.

Between this distance and the famed Heart Break Hill, however, reality sets in and thoughts of sprinting to the line disappear and turn to just making it to the line.

The base of Heart Break is approximately 18 miles from the start. It is not one hill as I thought while growing up in Grosse Pointe, but rather it is a series of three. None of the hills is particularly big but after 18 miles anything looks like a mountain.

I had trained on these hills for months and as I made the turn onto Commonwealth Avenue at the base of hill No. 1, I intended to hit them hard. What my mind desired, however, my body failed to carry out. Halfway up the hill I felt like someone had stuck a knife in my side. The cramp forced me to pull over and rest for 30 seconds. After the rest the cramps subsided enough to continue and I still had hopes of running the hills hard.

Again, I couldn't. Coming down the first hill, the muscles in both calves cramped tight and I couldn't move. Again I had to stop. The second hill was more of the same. I'd run for a couple of hundred yards and the calves clamped shut. Finally, I made it to Boston College where a lot of my friends were waiting. I stopped just short to insure my calves wouldn't desert me in front of everyone.

It was a good feeling to run by my school but the pain in my legs kept me from enjoying it. Making it to the top of the hills was supposed to be a victory, too, but when you hurt it's hard to get excited.

Passing Boston College with five miles to go, your body has now burned away all its stored carbohydrates and it now is cannibalizing your own muscles for energy. With people yelling "you're looking good" or "just two more miles" you run, then walk, run, then walk. Finally, I pass Kenmore Square and Fenway Park and struggle up toward the finish—over two hours after the first place finisher Toshihiko Seko (2:09:26). I had hopes before the race to sprint those last few yards, but my calves wouldn't let me walk, let alone run. But then it was over. I had finished.

I stretched out in the back seat of a Toyota for the ride home because in the front seat my entire body cramped up on me. Once home, a cold beer helped, but the body ached all over. Words came out slurred and meaningless. That was okay, though. Words seemed kind of worthless at that point.

I felt good that I had survived that test—it was my own dream come true. My time was slow but that's okay. I finished. I only wished I had cried.

North's fourth run of the game.
The Norsemen loaded the bases with no outs in the fourth on a bunt single and two walks before Clem hit a grand slam home run. The four bagger gave Clem a team-leading 13 RBI's.
The second stringers wrapped it up in the fifth on an RBI single by Dave Babcock and then Bruce Stewart put the game on ice with a three-run home run to give North a decisive 12-0 win.
The Clem show continued in the second game. He hit a two run homer in the first inning and finished his 10 RBI day with another grand slam home run in the second.
John Glenn got one back on a solo home run from Mike Solois in the top of the 3rd inning but Young ended any doubts with a grand slam homer of his own in the bottom of the inning.
Dave Babcock was the winning pitcher, giving up just two runs on two hits and striking out seven.
Clem was running on the pitch to avoid the double play and when the fielder's throw eluded the first baseman, Clem cruised into third and Babcock went to second. One out later Menzo got two of his three RBI's on the day with a single between the third baseman and the bag and the Norsemen were up, 3-0.
Three hits in the third scored another run for North. Clem led off with a double to left-center but was out when he ran into Babcock's grounder to the left side. After Dave Monark drew a walk, Menzo knocked in his third run with a single to center scoring Babcock with

Call him Captain
Jeff Logan, of the Shores may now be addressed as "Captain Logan." Logan, a junior forward of Notre Dame Fighting Irish hockey team, has been named co-captain for the 1981-82 season. He will share the job with Dave Poulin, a junior from Mississauga, Ont. Logan led the hockey club with 24 goals and 18 assists. The Irish missed the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs for the first time in 10 years this season after finishing in ninth place with a 9-18-1 league mark and a 13-21-2 record overall.

South takes fourth
By Dawn Loeniskar
South High
The Grosse Pointe South boys' track team took one meet and lost another, then capped off a good week by taking fourth at the Anchor Bay Relays April 25.
Their only significant disappointment came against Mount Clemens April 15, losing 91-41. Coach Ed Roone commented, "We just haven't been as effective as we should."
The few bright spots in the meet came in first places by Bill Waugaman in the pole vault, Mike Arbaugh in the high jump, Bill Peattie in the 880 and the outstanding performance of the meet by Bruce Collinson in the two mile.
The Devils beat East Detroit on April 23, 77-55. Among the outstanding performances of the meet were John Szymanski in the shotput, Bruce Collinson in the mile and John Platt in the two mile.
Setting a new sophomore record was John Fischer, as he won the long jump at 19 feet, 9.5 inches and led a Devil sweep of the event. Al Feters and Gordie Johnston took second and third places in the long jump. The team also took all three relays.
Rounding out a good week was a fourth place finish out of ten teams competing in the Anchor Bay Relays on April 25. Taking a first place finish was the pole vault team of Waugaman, Paul Hedemark and Chris Boettcher. Bonne commented, "The meet was dominated by two teams, Sterling Heights and Marysville."
The boys' next meet was scheduled to be against Roseville at home April 28.

Posters begin 'healthy habit' for kids

Sixteen area youngsters who attend Grosse Pointe schools are winners of Cottage Hospital's first "Start a Healthy Habit" poster contest. The winners were selected from among 72 entries from seven schools.

Winners qualified for first, second, third and honorable mention ribbons. The first award winners in each of three categories: kindergarten through second grade, third through fifth grade and sixth through eighth grade each received a gift certificate for Jacobson's, Inc.

The first place in the kindergarten through second grade category went to Chris Monterubio, age 6; second place to Timothy Cassell, 6; and third place to Brandon Cromar, 6. All three students are residents of Grosse Pointe Woods and attend Mason School. Honorable mention awards went to Linda Morreale, of Grosse Pointe Woods, 7, of Our Lady Star of the Sea School; and Ferenc Varga, 7, also of Grosse Pointe Woods, a student at Barnes Elementary School.

In the third through fifth grade category, Anie Arabia, 10, of Grosse Pointe Farms, a student at Star of the Sea, won first place; and Roger Fong, 11, of Grosse Pointe Woods, Ferry Elementary School, took second place; Chris Duffy, 10, of Grosse Pointe Woods and Doug Giard of Grosse Pointe Shores, 10, both of Ferry School, tied for third place. An honorable mention was given to Laura Bingaman, 10, of Grosse Pointe Shores, a student at Ferry School.

An honorable mention award in the category went to Jenny Wylls, 11, of Grosse Pointe Woods, from Mason School. Meghan O'Toole, 12, of

ARTS explores Royal Shakespeare

For anyone who ever went dizzy consulting footnotes while reading Shakespeare in high school or college English, take heart. As demonstrated by two workshops produced for television by the Royal Shakespeare Company, even the finest Shakespearean actors in the world are continually challenged by those same words.

On Monday, May 18 and Tuesday, May 19, Grosse Pointe Cable's Channel 24 and ARTS, the Alpha Repertory Television Service will present these two workshops in Shakespearean verse and how actors tackle its challenge. (ARTS, the new 3 hour nightly cultural programming service from Warner Amex Satellite Entertainment Company and ABC Video Enterprises debuted on April 12.)

The two-part workshop programs are hosted by Trevor Nunn, the Artistic and Chief Executive Director of the Royal Shakespeare Company. Joining Nunn are RSC actors Ian McKellen, star of Broadway's "Amadeus;" John Barton, one of the company's leading actors and directors; Jane Lapotaire, who is currently playing the title role in the Broadway hit "Piaf;" Michael Pennington; Patrick Stewart; David Suchet; Terry Hands and Alan Howard who recently completed playing both "Richard II" and "Richard III" this winter at Stratford.

Part One features an examination of how actors from Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree in 1906 through Lord Laurence Olivier have interpreted the Bard's texts. The RSC actors also perform excerpts from a variety of plays to prove director Nunn's point that "Shakespeare's range is so great, no generalization can be made of how his verse should be spoken."

Part Two is an entertaining look at characterization through verse, highlighted by an unconventional performance of Macbeth's soliloquy by Ian McKellen, who starred in the RSC's critically acclaimed 1978 production. McKellen stops line by line to share with the audience what goes through his mind as he speaks one of the most famous speeches in all drama.

During Trevor Nunn's 13-year tenure as Artistic and Chief Executive Director, the RSC has emphasized the beauty of Shakespeare's words, whether the production is a lavish one at the main theatre in Stratford, or an economical, austere version at the company's 190 seat Warehouse auditorium.

Reviewing the 1978 production of "Macbeth," Charles Marowitz wrote in The New York Times, "The verse, so close to the audience that its texture is almost tangible, cuts through the air with a fresh and unforced clarity . . . It is Shakespeare almost pure, freed from the stodgy theatrical conventions of the past three centuries."

"It's monstrous that such a thing should exist," says Nunn. "But there really are certain plays like 'Hamlet,' 'Romeo and Juliet,' 'Macbeth,' 'Twelfth Night,' that you could perform in a hula-hula skirt, standing on your head, speaking Eskimo, and you'll still get full houses."

"We're not trying to get back to the precise conditions of Shakespeare's staging," Nunn explained to Margaret Tierney of the British theatre magazine Plays and Players. "We're trying to get back to serving more of his original intentions, creating more of a relationship between human beings on a stage than he originally had in mind."

"There's no point in doing plays unless they speak directly to an audience. This applies to classics. It applies equally to plays written today."

"In my humble opinion," added Nunn, "Shakespeare is the greatest playwright who ever lived and every generation can find something in him for themselves."

ULS netters bounce back

The ULS varsity tennis team returned from its 15th annual spring trip on April 6. On April 8, the Knights hosted South Lake and were victorious, 7-0.

Friday, April 10 saw the Knights travel to Kalamazoo for a four team invitational. ULS tied for second with Three Rivers as the tournament was won by Kalamazoo Loy Norris.

The week of April 12, the Knights defeated Catholic Central, 5-2, and Grosse Pointe North, 7-0. On April 17 the Knights were "on the road again," this time to Cleveland, Ohio to take on the top two tennis teams in Ohio. The Ohio teams proved to be too tough as the Knights lost to University School of Cleveland, 6-1 and Akron-Firestone, 3-2. For those of you who like high school tennis at its best, University School of Cleveland (defending National Inter-scholastic champs) will play University Liggett at ULS on Friday, May 22 at 3:30 p.m.

The week of April 20 saw the Knights lose to Cranbrook 5-2 and defeat Grand Blanc, 6-0. The Knights then traveled to East Grand Rapids for an eight-team invitational. This time ULS defeated Kalamazoo Loy Norris, East Grand Rapids, and five other schools to win the East Grand Rapids Tournament of Champions.

"Considering that six of our top ten players are freshmen and the fact that Kalamazoo Loy Norris defeated us handily two weeks ago, this victory has to rank at the top as far as University Liggett School tennis is concerned," commented coach Robert Wood.

The members of the 1981 University Liggett School varsity tennis team are: Kris Robbins, Gar Knight, Steve Pack, Todd McCoy, Frank Crociata, Brian Hunt, Mike Paolucci, John MacLeod, George Haggarty, Henry Woodhouse, Mike Ottaway, and John Polizzi.

Knights win track meet

The ULS boys track team raised its record to 2-1 by soundly defeating Bethany Christian School, 76-52. ULS showed its dominance by winning 12 of the 18 events.

Stand-out performances came from the team captains, Tony Alcantara and Jerry Stekete. Alcantara won the pole vault, was on the winning 400 meter relay team and ran third in the 100 meter dash. Stekete won the long jump, was a member of the winning 400 meter and 800 meter relay teams that won and won the 200 meter dash.

The surprise of the meet was freshman Jim Kitchen, who came to farm by winning the 110 meter high hurdles, ran an excellent leg of the 800 meter relay and placed second in the 300 meter low hurdles.

Other point-getters for the Knights were: junior Ron Schocker took first in the discus and third in the shotput; sophomore Steve Jackson, who won the high jump.

Father Robert Koesler, central character in the Kienzle series, is called into the case by Walter Koznicki, inspector for the police department, to interpret the Catholic connection.
