Bryant caught in crossfire over suburban tax

By Wilbur Elston

Rep. William Bryant believes he has emerged unscathed from a legislative crossfire that found him being criticized last week by some members of both political parties for his opposition to the proposed increase in Detroit income taxes on non-residents who work in the city.

THE GROSSE Pointe state representative, who is also the leader of the Republican minority in the House, was under some fire from Democrats for voting against the proposal because it was endorsed by Republican Gov. William Milliken. At the same time some Republicans said Bryant did not oppose the bill vigorously enough.

In his district, however, Bryant said after the vote people told him their feelings about the Detroit package were similar to his own, which is an indication he had voted with his constituents on the issue.

Bryant outlines his views on the controversial issue in a brief signed article which appears elsewhere in today's issue of the Grosse Pointe News but was asked to elaborate on some of his comments in a discussion with this newspaper.

The representative explained that he had been willing to go along with a smaller increase in the income tax on both Detroit residents and commuters who work in the city but could not accept a tripling of the tax on non-residents while the tax on Detroiters would go up from 2 percent to 3 percent.

Instead, Bryant pointed out, he preferred a new statewide distressed cities program which would have aided Detroit but would have been financed by all state taxpayers rather than just the commuters and Detroit residents.

It was on this issue that Bryant parted company with some of his Democratic and Republican colleagues from outstate areas. They preferred to put the burden on Detroit and the Detroit metropolitan area, including commuters who work in Detroit. Eventually they prevailed, with the support of the Detroit representatives, in the plan to be put to Detroit voters June 23.

But Bryant also disagreed with his colleagues who didn't really want any tax package for Detroit. As he said, he "refused to use illegitimate arguments against other parts of the Detroit package as an excuse to defeat the entire package." Here he parted company with some of his own party members who felt he didn't work hard enough against the package.

THE HOUSE GOP leader conceded that he had not heard too much from his constituents in the Pointes even before the vote. But, he explained, he has lived here all his life and believes he understands community opinions quite well.

"Of course," he added, "people in Grosse Pointe never get violent on such matters. They are the most stable and reasonable people in the whole state."

Asked if his vote would change his relations with Gov. Milliken, Bryant said he always listens to the governor and has great respect for him but on this issue the Secret committee had offered the Legislature and the governor a package and there wasn't much opportunity for additional input or maneuver.

As for his reaction to Democratic House Speaker Bobby Crim's crack that his vote showed "a lack of political courage," Bryant pointed out the speaker's statement wasn't issued until after the vote had been recorded and if Crim had put it out earlier he would have lost the Republican votes needed for passage.

Bryant conceded this has been "an awful year" in the Legislature in some respects. The first task was to make huge cuts in the state budget because of sharply declining state revenues. Then came the fight over Proposal "A" which, despite the backing of the governor and legislative leaders, including Bryant himself, went down to a resounding defeat at the polls. It was at this point that the Detroit tax problem reached crisis proportions. So, in Bryant's opinion, there's been little breathing space all session.

As a legislative leader who had been criticized by at least one GOP colleague as "a puppet" of the governor, Bryant pointed out that no group or individual calls the turn among the Republicans in the House.

"There is no single group which can elect or defeat any GOP candidate and no organization, such as the UAW in the Democratic Party, which can serve as a hammer," he said. "As a result, the tasks of leadership are different for the Republicans than for the Democrats. I see my job as getting the best facts and judgments to the Republican caucus."

In his statement, Bryant gave credit to the GOP for the language in the Detroit bill that requires a balanced Detroit budget before any tax increase could take effect. He pointed out that "will require substantial wage concessions, at least freezes, on part of the employees."

While he opposes rollbacks of wages of city employees because of their cost of living problems, he does favor wage freezes of two or even three years because in many classifications, wages of Detroit municipal employees are 20 percent or more higher than those in other large cities.

Home, at last

The pilgrimage of the duck family from its nest at Ferry Elementary School on Roslyn Road to Lake St. Clair has become an annual delight to students, teachers and neighbors in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Every year, about this time, mama duck decides it's about time for her young to try out their strength at the lake and off she goes—right down Hawthorne Road. Woods police, of course, provide an escort every year.

The ducks nest in Ferry school's Nature Center, located in a formerly unused courtyard at the school. The center was designed and built by parents and neighbors last year. And it's still growing to include wildflower gardens, herb plots, a young forest and Biblical plants. A story on the center is on page 5A of this week's News.

Park okays 21% tax hike; group wants more police

By Joanne Gouleche

Better police protection in Grosse Pointe Park was on the minds of residents Monday night at a public hearing on a budget that will raise tax bills next year by 21 percent.

Midway through a city slide presentation explaining the Park's financial picture, a resident shot up and told the council that the $4,600 appropriated for beautification in the city could put more policemen on the streets.

"Don't you think the money spent on flowers and park benches could be spent on more police?" asked Wayburn resident Carol Nixon.

That statement set the stage for other residents who apparently came to the meeting to make it clear a 21 percent hike in taxes better translate into more policemen on Grosse Pointe Park streets.

"You have more people now who are afraid to come out of their homes," said Andrea Cleveland, also of Wayburn. "They don't feel safe. They don't want to put money into their homes."

Another resident came prepared with a list of 30 homes that have been burglarized since the first of the year, while others suggested a voluntary road patrol, claiming they see fewer and fewer cars patrolling the area.

Councilman Anthony Spada, outspoken critic of the way the police department is run, chided Police Chief Henry Coonce for his alleged frequent absences from the department.

"His own men didn't know where he was one time," Spada fumed.

The councilman said police morale is low and urged City Manager John Crawford to conduct an efficiency study of the department, apparently unsatisfied with an earlier study submitted to the council in January.

The city's $4.2 million adopted budget calls for two less policemen, one of whom was laid off in March to help cut a $119,000 deficit.

Even though Monday night the council approved a 2 percent mill rate reduction over last year, from 18.50 to 18.10, a state equalized valuation increase in property of about 25 percent will push tax bills to the 21 percent limit next year.

City administrators are also pointing the finger at the state for a $145,000 loss in shared revenues. That loss makes up 25 percent of the Park's $565,000 tax increase.

Total spending for the city is only up 6 percent, but because of a recent letter to the city from Blue Cross-Blue Shield raising premiums by $60,000, administrators said they had no choice but to increase taxes.

"We're not in the same situation as Coleman Young yet," Mayor Matthew Patterson said.

"You're working on it," someone catcalled at the meeting.

A homeowner with an assessed valuation of $30,000 can expect to pay $200 more in taxes in the 1981-82 fiscal year.

Councilman Roger McNeill, who said he felt reluctant to approve a 21 percent tax increase, commended residents for their suggestions on ways to cut costs and admitted the city has "continually perpetuated a

Bon Secours, Cottage combine birth units

By Gregory Jakub

In an effort to cut costs and improve services, Cottage hospital officials announced the closing of their 18-bed obstetrical unit and plans to consolidate the service with Bon Secours Hospital after Aug. 1.

Cottage officials cited the unit's low occupancy rates, better service, a desire to reduce health care costs, and the recommendations of a statewide, five-year hospital debedding effort as some of the many reasons for the consolidation plan.

The plan may foreshadow future cooperative ventures between the two hospitals. "We've been talking about a number of other things to benefit both hospitals and the community," said Dale Steiger, planning director at Bon Secours.

In a news release, Cottage Board of Trustees president W. Merritt Jones, Jr. said: "Bon Secours and Cottage Hospitals have a long history of cooperative effort in several areas; to name one, the recent announcement that the hospitals will form a new corporation to acquire and operate a nursing home in the area. I believe that our spirit of cooperation will set the stage for a successful program of service to the community."

When the consolidation is complete, Cottage will retain a total of 137 beds—101 for medical-surgical patients and 36 for psychiatric care. The two other hospitals serving the Pointes—Bon Secours with 320 beds and St. John, 573 beds—will continue handling OB cases after the change.

Throughout the consolidation, all OB and newborn Cottage patients will continue to receive complete high quality care and both Cottage and Bon Secours will continue gynecological services and prenatal classes, officials said.

THE NUMBER OF births at Cottage has declined since 1968 when there were 823. After an increase to 900 births in 1970, the rate dropped to 466 last year, the spokesman said.

"We're not primarily known as an obstetric hospital. We're a general hospital," the spokesman said.

The spokesman would not say how many staff would be affected by the change—only that efforts will be made to place them elsewhere in the hospital or at Bon Secours OB unit.

However, Steiger of Bon Secours said no staffers will lose their jobs, but substantial savings will be realized because Cottage will no longer have to staff its 24-hour OB unit, Steiger said.

After the consolidation, Bon Secours' OB unit will remain at its present 15-bed size which Steiger said is sufficient capacity to handle the expected patient load. If the load increases, more beds could be added with permission from the state health department, Steiger said.

Bon Secours has experienced an increase in births since 1975—from 660 to 1,200 to 1980. Steiger said the hospitals decided that the community would be better off if the OB services were consolidated into one unit.

The change is something that the hospitals have considered at various times during the past 10 years according to Symond Gottlieb, executive director of the Greater Detroit Area Hospital Council, a hospital research and planning group.

Gottlieb said the consolidation is happening now because the "hospitals now recognize they have to make tougher decisions" to cut costs.

Gottlieb said it was the controversial 1979 debedding plan that made hospitals see the need to look at cooperative arrangements.

COTTAGE WAS one of the most vocal opponents to the debedding plan which was mandated by a unique Michigan law that proposed cutting health care costs by phasing out about 2,500 hospital beds in southeastern Michigan by 1984. The plan named Cottage to cut 62 of its 155 beds.

That plan was scrapped last year after the state Legislature found it faulty. A revised plan is expected to be completed by the local government health planning council by the end of July.

Although the revised plan will target specific numbers of beds to be cut by Cottage and about 70 other hospitals, the plan works as a tool to help hospitals face the tough issues of cost containment through merger and consolidation, Gottlieb said.

The Cottage-Bon Secours obstetric consolidation is the second joint effort by the hospitals in a year. The first was plans to establish a joint nursing home in the area.

She keeps memories alive in historic Park home

By Susan McDonald

When Marie McCluskey sits in the oak bay that looks over her yard she can close her eyes and almost feel the trolley car rattling its way down Jefferson Avenue. She communes with the hard working, ambitious German family, the Voigts, who built her home in 1900 and lived there until the mid-1960s.

She can feel the love they had for the old place, especially the traditional French garden and landscape the Voigts so carefully preserved as part of the land's farming past.

Of course, the trolley that looped Alter to Fisher is gone and the Voigts no longer preside over 16004 East Jefferson Avenue. But there's something about the house, especially when Marie is describing it, that takes a visitor back—to trolley cars, the Voigts and turn-of-the-century Grosse Pointe.

Lest you think Marie simply has an overactive imagination, the state of Michigan goes along with her appreciation of the house's historical value. Marie was notified last month her home had found a protected spot on the State Register of Historic Sites.

It's not a thing she plans to keep a secret. When her official marker arrives (it's on order now) it's going right out in front of the house on Jefferson, for all to see. That's just her way.

Marie is anxious to open her house to the community. She welcomes visitors, groups and charities for tours, now that all the kids and the neighborhood have had their chance to inspect the house—including the spooky attic where her life-sized Star Wars characters are stored.

it a community resource. I welcome people through. Why not? The white rug in the living room is already gray—what else can happen?" she asks.

MARIE'S ROMANCE with the old Voigt home began more than two years ago, after she finished restoring a home in Detroit's Sherwood Forest and decided to move to Grosse Pointe Park.

The house, which she has determined to be built in 1900, is a basic, four-bedroom Tudor, built in the Arts and Crafts style popular in Detroit at the turn of the century. Its heavy slate roof hangs over half-timbered walls with ambie porches and bays. Inside there's plenty of natural oak woodwork, mantles and original wall sconces.

She's kept the yard as "close to the format of a French farm as possible." The old horse hitching post is still out there, next to a natural vegetable garden and plenty of old lilacs, catalpa trees and chestnuts.

But what makes the house so special for her are the Voigts, whom she has come to know in great detail through hours of research in the Burton Historical Collection.

The house was designed and built by William Voigt, Jr., president of the state board of education and the "father of compulsory education" in the state, according to newspaper clips. The land was purchased from Robert Trombley, a farmer and justice of the peace for Grosse Pointe Township.

"This was the Voigt's summer home. They built it right up on Jefferson for everyone to see. They were proud of it—it meant they had 'made it,'" she said. "The fact the house stayed in the family from 1900 to 1969 says a lot—they must have cared deeply about the place."

Marie admits she's fascinated by the family and every detail she can discover about them. "I take real pride in the Voigts, especially the women in the family. They all received educations and they all made contributions to their community."

In fact one Voigt daughter, Marie, (whose married name was Wuesthoff) became the first kindergarten teacher in Detroit. Another Voigt daughter, Christine, was eventually deeded the house and lived there for many years with her prominent dentist husband Herman Kreit.

Marie intends to make her contribution too. A former Wayne County juvenile court probation officer, Marie was one of the founding workers on a project called JOLT (Juvenile Offenders Learn Truth) which takes young criminals to Jackson for first-hand encounters with the prison world.

And through her home, Marie hopes to make a contribution too, to the community's awareness of its colorful past.

"Grosse Pointe really has such rich history. But with all the buildings it tears down, it seems Grosse Pointe is a little behind in cherishing its beauty," Marie said. The Voigt house, at least, will be one beauty that will last. Call her, at 829-4584, and ask for a tour and see.

champagne appetite with a beer income."

Clerk-Comptroller Nunzio Ortisi said later that neighboring Pointe communities with tax increases of 10 percent look good now because for a number of years the Park has pumped the city's improvement fund to maintain a high level of service while keeping taxes low.

But that kind of financial planning has cornered the Park into raising taxes almost twice as much as other cities to keep up with double-digit inflation, Ortisi said.

In approving the budget the council requested city attorneys to see if the Park can legally levy .85 of a mill for rubbish removal under the Headlee Tax Limitation Act.

State auto costs jump 14 percent

The average cost of owning and operating a 1981 intermediate-sized car in Michigan increased $469 during the last year, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"This is an increase of 14 percent over last year," said Auto Club Touring Manager Joseph Ratke. "It costs Michiganians 24.9 cents per mile to operate a new car, or $3,735 per year."

The 1980 cost of operating an automobile in Michigan was 21.8 cents per mile. In the last three years, the annual cost of operating a new, mid-sized car has increased $1,229, or 49 percent.

Operating expenses are detailed in the 1981 edition of the AAA pamphlet titled "Your Driving Costs." The operating costs were based on a 1981 Chevrolet, 6-cylinder (229 cubic inch) Malibu Classic 4-door sedan with standard accessories, automatic transmission, power steering, power disc brakes and radio, driven 15,000 miles per year and kept for four years.

The 24.9-cents figure, updated by Auto Club to include current Michigan gas prices, is broken into two categories: variable and fixed costs. Variable costs include gasoline ($1.48 per gallon), oil, maintenance and tires for a total of 9.07 cents per mile.

Fixed costs include insurance, depreciation, license fees and finance charges for a total of 15.83 cents per mile.

Insurance is based on a pleasure use category with the vehicle driven less than 10 miles to work and no youthful drivers on the policy.

"Unlike the last two years when gasoline prices jumped drastically, the major reasons for this year's increased operating costs were higher car prices and depreciation," Ratke said.

The AAA pamphlet also includes a suggested auto vacation budget. Two persons should plan on spending $44 a day for meals (not including cocktails and tips), $44 a day for lodging and $7.50 for gas and oil for every 100 miles driven in a car averaging 20 miles per gallon. The cost of vacationing is up nine percent from last year.

Pointer studies effect of alcohol on the body

An enzyme which has been the target of research for over 15 years is now being studied in relation to its effect on the body's handling of alcohol. Results of the study, now under way at Henry Ford Hospital, could hold important possibilities for future screening of potential alcoholics and for development of medications for their treatment.

The enzyme, liver alcohol dehydrogenase, comes from horse liver but there is evidence that it is very similar to a human enzyme. According to Joseph Shore, Ph.D., of Grosse Pointe, biochemist and head of HFH's Division of Biochemical Research, studies show that the rate at which animals metabolize alcohol is related directly to the amount of this enzyme in their liver.

"Excess drinking causes the blood alcohol level to remain elevated for many hours because this enzyme's reaction is slow. With the use of sophisticated equipment, we can actually watch the intermediate steps as this enzyme catalyzes alcohol breakdown," Dr. Shore explained.

He and his colleagues are investigating why the enzyme works even more slowly and becomes less effective when there are high levels of alcohol present. "The first phase of our lab study is aimed at trying to understand, on a molecular level, why the enzyme behaves this way," he said. "We are trying to take information about this enzyme and apply that knowledge to clinically relevant problems — alcoholism and alcohol toxicity (poisoning)."

For years, HFH has been involved in basic research on liver alcohol dehydrogenase, much of the funding for which came from the National Science Foundation. The most recent grant, $96,000 for the enzyme study, came from the National Institute of Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism. Assisting Dr. Shore with alcohol-related research at HFH is Mitchell Kamlay, Ph.D. of Detroit.

An additional aspect of the enzyme study involves the effect of other substances on activity. "In our work 10 years ago, we found that chloride can double the rate of alcohol oxidation by this enzyme," Dr. Shore explained. "If we understand why chloride and another substance, imidazole (a component of an amino acid), make the enzyme work faster, we could possibly use this information for development of pharmaceutical compounds to speed up alcohol metabolism. This could be very useful in treating alcohol toxicity."

Father's Day Is June 21

God and the Bible are keys to his success

By Tom Greenwood

Build a better mousetrap and the world will beat a path to your door. Maybe. But how about a better typewriter? One, according to its inventor, capable of double a person's typing speed.

Marvin Runge, 25, of the Shores, recently received his first patent for inventing a new type of keyboard for typewriters that he hopes will revolutionize typing.

"What I've done with my invention is eliminate a lot of wasted movement," said Runge. "Presently, the fingers rest on the home keys of the typewriter, (letters asdfg for the left hand, and lkjh for the right). To type other letters or numerals, you have to raise the finger, place it on another key and then press down."

With Runge's method, the fingers sit in a kind of trough on the home keys, with the row of keys above and below the home keys moved at a 90 degree angle level with and perpendicular to the plane of the home keys.

"The only downward movement now is on the home keys," said Runge. "The remaining keys are activated by moving laterally forward or backward to the keys in front of or behind the home keys. Numerals, (the top row of keys on a typewriter), are activated the same way, but using the first joint on the fingers below the fingernails."

After a month of practice, Runge believes the average typist will at least double typing speed.

A devoutly religious man, he credits God with giving him the idea while listening to a lecture on practical application of Biblical principles.

"I've worked on this idea off and on for the last five years," said Runge. "It's a lot easier to envision a project than to complete it. But I knew it would work because God doesn't give us ideas in order to fail."

"The human mind, without a spiritual connection, cannot invent anything truly original, God gave us all a fantastic data processing machine, our brain. But it can't produce anything that wasn't given to us. To get the best ideas, you must know God, and that can only be accomplished by knowing his word, the Bible."

While Runge believes God gave him his inspiration, the patent office of the U. S. government gave him nothing but a hard time.

"MY FIRST attempt to patent my invention was turned down," said Runge. "They said the idea of lateral movement wasn't original. Others had apparently tried it before."

After the denial, he did some intensive patent research. "I found out one simple, but important difference," said Runge. "With the other lateral keyboards, the keys, out of necessity, were forced to be arranged in a different pattern. They had to be moved, or the keyboard couldn't be constructed."

But with my keyboard, the keys remain in their original position. On the basis of that difference, my invention was patented."

Runge's keyboard, as yet unnamed,

Sketch by Pam Dervishi
A side view of the keyboard can be adapted to fit present typewriters, or manufactured as a totally new machine. He doesn't have a commercial backer yet, but is certain the idea will be a success.

"I have at least a dozen other ideas I'm working on," he said. "I'm hoping the commercial success of this system will help underwrite my future projects."

Runge, who runs a cleaning business with his wife, Paula, was happy, but not surprised when he received his patent.

"I knew I would be successful at this," said Runge. "God gave me the idea, and he doesn't give out the wrong information. I want this project to help me gain the prosperity that God wants for the people who obey Him."

It's an inspiration to people to seek answers from God, rather than just taking some man's word for it. God didn't put us here to fail."

Senior's forum hosted by Hertel

Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-14th) will sponsor a "Seniors for Social Survival Forum," Saturday, June 20, from 9:30 a.m. to noon at the Macomb Community College South Campus in Warren.

"The purpose of the program will be to provide local senior citizens with information on some of the critical issues facing them today. Facts about social security changes, crime, health care, housing and utility costs will be presented and discussed in the hopes of aiding our seniors in their daily struggle to maintain a decent standard of living," he said.

Commenting on his reasons for organizing the Forum, Hertel said, "the more than 24 million men and women aged 65 and over in this country — one in every nine persons — deserve to have their basic needs met. Whether it is the right to physical and financial independence, enjoying the best possible health, or simply leading useful lives, senior citizens have the right to know about all the information and services available to them."

Hertel said he plans to invite a cross-section of local resource people to discuss pertinent information in each subject area. These experts are expected to provide those present with the most up-to-date information available for senior citizens.

Hertel also said participation in the forum is not limited to senior citizens and indicated he hopes local officials, community leaders and anyone interested in the plight of the elderly attend. The forum is open to the Blood donors are needed

Pledge now to make this a better summer for someone by making regular blood donations, urges the American Red Cross Blood.

Blood needs vary according to the patient, according to a Red Cross Blood Services spokesperson. For example, open heart surgery usage can range from five units to 50 while a peptic ulcer can require as few as three units of blood to as many as 30. Accident, shooting and stabbing victims can use as many as 50 units of blood.

Blood can be donated by anyone between the ages of 17 through 65 years old in good general health. Parental consent is required for 17-year-old to donate. Giving blood takes less than an hour's time from registration to the post donation snack of juice and cookies. The actual donation takes less than 10 minutes.

Donations are accepted at the Detroit Blood Center, 100 E. Mack in Detroit on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Tuesday, Thursday, noon to 6 p.m. For an appointment, call 833-4440.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be located at the Grosse Pointe Baptist Church, 21366 Mack, Monday, June 15, from 3 to 9 p.m. For an appointment, call 881-3343.

Park professor shares safety engineering award

A research paper by two Wayne State University researchers detailing how the bones in the neck respond during a blow to the head will be honored by the Society of Automotive Engineers at its annual Passenger Car Meeting June 10, at the Dearborn Hyatt Regency.

The paper, "Mechanisms of Cervical Spine Injury During Impact to the Protected Head," by Voigt R. Hodgson, Ph.D., of the Park, and L. Murray Thomas, M.D., of Northville, has been selected to receive the SAE's 1980 Ralph H. Isbrandt Automotive Safety Engineering Award. This award recognizes the best of all automotive safety papers presented during 1980.

Dr. Thomas, professor and chairman of neurosurgery at Wayne State University School of Medicine, and Dr. Hodgson, professor of biomechanics, utilize innovative techniques in studying the action of the cervical vertebrae during head injury.

Using a combination of high speed film to record the spine movement, and strain gauges to measure the effect of impact on various locations in the spine, they are able for the first time to visualize the mechanisms of neck injury at the time of impact.

One result of their work is to dispell the theory that says helmets can cause neck injury because of a "guillotine" action at the rear rim of the helmet.

Their study also demonstrates that increased padding at the top of a helmet does not prevent injuries caused by compression of the cervical spine.

Focusing on neck injury in general, the report is applicable to preventive medicine in sports, industry and motor vehicle accidents, says Dr. Hodgson. It was originally presented at the 24th annual Col. John P. Stapp Car Crash Conference last October.

In addition, the report has been selected to receive the SAE Arch T. Colwell Merit Award at the International Off-Highway Meeting and Exposition, Sept. 15 in Milwaukee, Wis. This award recognizes the paper's value as a contribution to existing knowledge of automotive engineering and as an original contribution to the subject matter.

Whole World's polluted
Since 1937, there have been nearly 2,000 space launches. At least 5,000 pieces of space junk, believes the Aerospace Corporation Astrodynamic Department, are floating around the earth today.

Center offers riding camp

A Riding School Day Camp is available at Rochester Hills through Grosse Pointe War Memorial Center. Five separate sessions of two weeks each are scheduled from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for 6-17 year olds. Dates are June 22 to July 3, July 6 to 17, July 20 to 31, Aug. 3 to 14 and Aug. 17 to 26.

This riding camp is for young people who love horses, want to ride and welcome the opportunity to learn more about both. The day camp offers instruction in all facets of horsemanship by nationally prominent instructors. Campers will learn how to groom a horse, approve their riding skills and participate in horse shows.

In addition, there will be daily swimming, arts and crafts and special field trips. All campers will be taped and viewed on audio visual equipment of the camp. Fee is $175 per two-week session (including transportation).

The bus will pick up all youngsters at the War Memorial at 7:40 a.m. and return them at 5:45 p.m. Campers bring a sack lunch with beverages and goodies supplied by the camp. An application for the Rochester Hills Riding Day Camp will be mailed to you by calling the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 891-7511.

From St. John, First Glimmerings Of The Season — The Softness! — Ahead.

The temptation was too great. When Marie Gray revealed fall as she conceived it for St. John, when that glorious knit collection was first previewed, we knew we'd have to share it with you...pronto! The softness captivated us. The freshness of the silhouettes delighted us. The modern ease, the clean, clear shapes, the dramatic textures and colors — all were too wonderful to keep tucked away 'till fall. So here, now, for you to capture and keep 'til then...the drama of black and white suited — but softly! — in knits. A jacket closely shaped, curved, almost like a sweater-toss. A jacket more feminine, more charming than ever. And in texture-rich stripes, it becomes a perfect little treasure to pair, as here, with solid black pants, a pure white blouse...and with every other silhouette you've already cherished from St. John. For sizes 4 to 12; $480. In the St. John Boutique...where we are all the things you are.

Family Life Council elects officers

The Family Life Education Council (FLEC), the east side community's own volunteer social service agency, elected 1981 officers at its recent annual meeting.

Dr. John M. Burrows, oncologist from St. John Hospital, was returned to FLEC's presidency at the meeting at Lochmoor Golf Club, and Jane Hoey, manager of the Public Response Program at the Michigan Cancer Foundation, was re-elected as first vice-president.

J.D. Owens, vice-president of the Public Relations Group at Ross Roy, Inc., was newly elected as second vice-president; the Rev. George Scheller, of St. James Lutheran Church, is the new treasurer; and Eileen Mandarino, of Leo Gate Road, was elected secretary.

Nadine Cusack, of Lothrop Road, a member of the Friends of FLEC, a member of FLEC's Alcohol Awareness committee, and co-chairman of the 1981 FLEC Future, was elected to the Board of Directors for a three-year term.

Returned to the Board for varying lengths of service were Susan Howbert, Dorothy Gemund, David Gamble, Mary Evelyn Self, Brian Molloy and Elaine Feaser. Toni Stewart, the new president of Friends of FLEC, was elected to the Board of FLEC, the parent organization.

Center offers music, mime

For the first time this summer, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and the Detroit Music School are offering joint music classes at the Center, 32 Lakeshore Road, with the faculty of the Music School — Victoria King, Robert Oppelt, Andrea Williams and David Swank.

Orff will be taught for children ages 3 to 10 on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday in two two-week sessions, June 29 to July 9 and July 13 to 23. The younger children will meet at 10 a.m., the older ones at 11 a.m. Orff develops a child's musical response. The fee is $19 for each session.

Suzuki, the teaching of violin or cello to children through playing small sized instruments, will be taught in a six week session Monday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 29 to Aug. 7, with the younger children meeting at 9 a.m. and the older ones at 10 a.m. Fee is $63.

A summer band is proposed for grades 6 to 12 to meet four days a week Tuesdays through Fridays in two sessions, July 7 to 17 and July 21 to 31 at 9 a.m. Intermediate and advanced students are encouraged to register for both sessions to obtain high performance levels. The fee is $17 per session.

Lastly, mime will be taught in two sessions, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays at 11 a.m., July 7 to 17 and July 21 to 31, to students from grade 3 up. The fee is $20 per session.

Dance Club meets June 25

Grosse Pointe War Memorial has scheduled six summer sessions of its Thursday night Dance Club, June 25 to Aug. 6. The dance group will meet in either the Crystal Ballroom or the Library of Alger House. Both are air conditioned.

Ted and Lillian Forrest

will conduct these sessions where both the traditional and new dance steps will be taught and practiced to taped music. Beginners meet at 8 p.m. and the more experienced dancers at 9 p.m. Registration for the dance club is $18 for the six week session.

English lavender, Irish potatoes

Ferry nature center is blooming

By Joanne Gouleche

If you take a peek over your neighbor's fence, chances are you won't find drooping foxglove growing along side of pop-corn and the English lavender creeping its way in between and around Petoskey stones and boulder-like specimens of limestone.

But some youngsters at Ferry School in Grosse Pointe Woods have managed to grow just that with the green thumb know-how of many parents, teachers and volunteers.

Two years ago the courtyard at Ferry was dotted with a few shrubs and greens, but now it resembles a mini nature trail with every kind of growing thing you can imagine—from a Michigan White Pine, Irish potatoes to chamomile and a variety of Biblical plants.

Architect and Ferry parent Bob Roney conceived the idea of a nature center two years ago, and there were doubts then that such a project would see itself through, according to Karen O'Shea, director of Ferry's Nature Center.

"There have been a lot of plant donations from parents since then," Mrs. O'Shea said last week on a guided tour of the courtyard.

As soon as the project was approved by the School Board, parents, teachers and even students came in grubbies and spent many long weekends with hoes, rakes and shovels planting seeds and pulling weeds.

Before any seeds were dropped into the ground, plastic had to be put in place and school walls water-proofed — an expensive undertaking for a volunteer project, Mrs. O'Shea said.

The Ferry courtyard exhibits a wildflower garden, a herb garden, a rock garden, and a young and old forest.

Mrs. O'Shea said the purpose behind the nature center project is to teach children to have respect for wildlife.

"We have taught the kids not to take wildflowers when they are in the woods," Mrs. O'Shea said. "Many times the plants will not grow back. We tell the children it destroys the beauty for the next person who may come along. The whole purpose of the nature center is to teach respect for plants and animals."

Retired Detroit school teacher Elizabeth Wolter is one of the dedicated volunteers who designed the wildflower garden.

"I have lots of fun, and I enjoy it," said Mrs. Wolter, who visits the garden at least twice a week to tidy up the black-eyed Susans and the rugosa roses.

Directly across from the wildflower display is the rock garden where $2,000 in limestone rests after parents lugged it from the Upper Peninsula last year. Mrs. O'Shea said parents are relying on donations to complete the garden.

In the young forest, trees started as seedlings now tower at least six feet," Mrs. O'Shea boasts.

This spring, students and teachers planted over $2,000 in bulbs.

"You name it, we probably have it," said Mrs. O'Shea, who indicated art classes use the serene surroundings to sketch.

In another section of the courtyard is the herb garden which has been divided up into fragrant herbs and those used for medicinal purposes.

"Every child adopted a herb and researched its history and medicinal use. The children know not to touch or taste something that looks appealing to them," said Mrs. O'Shea pointing to the poisonous foxglove.

The highlight of the nature center is the resident duck who gave birth to five younglings last week.

"The learning experience with the ducks was just great. This is suburbia. Kids just don't see things like this," Mrs. O'Shea said.

Mama duck became somewhat of a celebrity when she and the newborn ducklings waddled out of the nature center and onto Hawthorne Road toward Lake St. Clair. The duck and babies were escorted to their new home by Woods police after worried parents and teachers feared they would not make it alone.

"The kids were very sad that we had to bury two eggs that didn't hatch," Mrs. O'Shea said. "But they have to understand that this is nature."

All wines can be divided into three basic types, table wines, fortified wines or sparkling wines. Table wines are natural and contain no more than 14% alcohol. Fortified wines are those to which spirits have been added to increase the alcohol content to between 17 and 21%. The best known fortified wines are sherry and port. Sparkling wines have air bubbles. Champagne is the most well known but wines such as Asti Spumante, sparkling burgundy, Cold Duck and sparkling Portuguese roses are also classified as sparkling wines.

Whatever type of wine you prefer, it will be found at PARKIE'S PARTY SHOPPE, 17255 Mack, Corner of St. Clair, Detroit. Meeting the distinctive beverage preferences of our customers is our goal. Cottage offers summer help Ralph L. Wilgarde, Cottage Hospital administrator, announced today that the Speech Therapy department will hold a summer speech and language program for area children, June 22 to July 29.

The program is a six-week session of group and individual work with youngsters ages three to 15, who are being treated for speech, language or hearing problems.

The program is designed for children with mental handicaps, cerebral palsy, stuttering, cleft palate, delayed speech and language, hearing impairment, vocal abuse, and difficulty with perception. Children who have problems with spelling, reading and writing due to learning disabilities are also given special attention.

The Speech Therapy summer program can help some youngsters maintain and continue progress begun in school speech therapy programs. It can also help many parents identify and obtain guidance in the early diagnosis and treatment of speech and learning problems.

Two weekly hour-long sessions are held under the direction of Gary J. Cooper, Ph.D. Therapy is supervised by Margaret LaGrant, M.Ed. and conducted by the hospital staff of speech therapists, audiologists and other specialists. It is the only program of its kind in the area.

Interested parents should contact the Cottage Hospital Speech Therapy department at 884-8600, extension 2187 for registration and information.

French Market slated July 4

Crepes, patisserie, can-can dancers, ceramics and a trip to Montreal await visitors to the ninth annual French Market at the War Memorial next month.

The free event, sponsored by the French Festival of Detroit, will feature French food, entertainment, markets and an hourly raffle.

Visitors may sample Quiche Lorraine and sip on famous French wines from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday, July 4, and from 12 noon to 7 p.m. on July 5.

Proceeds will be donated to the Detroit Historical Museum for improvements to the French exhibits.

Honors Orchestra formed

The new Grosse Pointe Honors Orchestra, formerly the Grosse Pointe Junior Symphony Orchestra, plans auditions in September and its debut concert in March, 1982.

The Orchestra will offer music students through grade nine the opportunity to enrich their musical experience by playing in a large orchestra with accomplished young musicians.

Rehearsals will be directed by E. Daniel Long of Ann Arbor, who was elected the 1981 Orchestra Teacher of the Year by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association. He holds degrees from Chardon State College, Nebraska, and the University of Colorado. Mr. Long is presently on the Midwestern Conference Planning Committee representing the American String Teachers Association of Michigan.

Eligibility for the Orchestra is extended to any student living in Grosse Pointe or attending a public or private school in the area. Membership must be by recommendation of the school music program.

The Orchestra will present one community concert in March and also perform with the Grosse Pointe Public Schools' Orchestra in Review in the spring.

Rehearsals will be held one afternoon each week after school. Students in the program will benefit from sectional rehearsals.

The Orchestra has been a stimulating experience for many young people in this community who have continued their music in college or in community orchestras such as the Grosse Pointe Symphony and various other chamber music groups. Parents can get more information about the new Grosse Pointe Honors Orchestra by contacting the music department at any Grosse Pointe school.

ALASEM backs smoking ban

Because cigarette smoke in the relatively dry air of commercial airline cabins increases the discomfort of nonsmokers — and may add to their health risks — the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM) supports a total ban on smoking in airlines.

The 20 percent humidity in most airliners exacerbates the irritation of the mucous membranes lining the sinuses and upper respiratory system. This irritation can be extremely uncomfortable for persons with allergy, asthma, respiratory infections and chronic lung diseases, the voluntary health agency said in comments to the Civil Aeronautics Board. The CAB is reviewing current requirements concerning inflight smoking.

Medical research linking secondhand smoke with lung cancer in wives of smoking husbands, and symptoms of ozone toxicity reported by flight attendants flying regularly at high altitudes also are cited by the lung association as reasons for banning inflight smoking. The ozone exposure may create enhanced sensitivity to tobacco smoke irritants in the high altitude environment, the association says.

Americans purchase nearly 300 million plane seats a year, and there's reason to expect at least two-thirds of the passengers on any flight to be nonsmokers, the lung association said. A total smoking ban is a non-smoker's best protection against the dangers of secondhand smoke in the cabin.

If the ban cannot be adopted quickly, the American

Lung Association offers alternate suggestions such as: prohibiting smoking during takeoff delays, on flights of less than two hours, in planes with less than 30 seats and during periodic intervals on flights longer than two hours.

For more information on secondhand smoke and its effects on the non-smoker, call the American Lung Association's "Smoking Phone" at 963-3028.

MUCC honors Sen. DiNello

The state's largest conservation association will honor State Sen. Gilbert DiNello (D-East Detroit) in Kalamazoo June 20 for outstanding contributions to conservation.

The occasion will be the climax of the 44th annual convention of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) to be held at the Kalamazoo Hilton Inn.

Sen. DiNello, who represents part of Grosse Pointe Woods, will receive the Legislative Conservationist Award for playing a major role in resolving the 12-year-old controversy over oil and gas drilling in the Pigeon River Country State Forest. His Senate Bill 1119 led to the compromise last year between preservationists and oil companies which will bring millions of dollars in royalties and lease fees to the state for the purchase of public recreation lands.

Ten other individuals and two organizations will also receive conservation awards at the June 20 event.

Farms okays $5 million budget

With only a handful of residents in attendance, the Farms City Council unanimously approved the city budget for fiscal year 1981-82 at its regularly scheduled meeting Monday evening, June 1.

At $5,003,597, the new budget shows a 6.7 percent increase over the amount budgeted the year before, but a 9.4 percent increase over actual projected expenditures for this year. While the figures seemed confusing, Farms City Clerk Richard Solak clarified matters by explaining that the nearly 10 percent increase resulted from decreased spending by the city for fiscal year 1980-81.

"Actually, there are some pluses as far as the budget is concerned," said Solak. "Because of especially concerted efforts to control expenditures by department heads, as well as the mild weather we experienced last winter, the Farms was able to accrue a $100,000 surplus. The surplus was appropriated into the Budget Stabilization Fund, which was established by the city in 1980."

Solak explained the fund was set up to give the city added flexibility in the face of unforeseen events which he said seem to be inherent in local government operations, today.

At the meeting, it was pointed out that the State Equalized Value (SEV) of property in the Farms for 1981 is $240,439,510 as compared to the 1980 total of $195,619,870, and is based on a residential equalization factor of $1.54 applied to the city's residential assessed value. The 1981 millage rate required to raise the necessary amount of property taxes is 13.93 mills. In 1980, it was 18.10 mills.

"To determine property taxes, the homeowner should multiply the local assessed value of his home, (for instance $100,000) times the residential equalization factor of $1.54 to reach the state equalized value of $154,000," said Solak.

"The SEV of $154,000 is then multiplied times the millage rate of 13.93 mills, (a mill equals $1 for each $1,000 of SEV), to arrive at a property tax of $2,145.22."

"The most important positive point, however, is that through this proposed budget we plan to continue to provide essentially the same relatively high level of service to our residents as we have in the past," added Solak. "We are, however, considering certain changes in operation, such as charging commercial establishments for rubbish pick ups exceeding one pick up per week. We're also thinking of charging for extraordinary rubbish, such as extensive construction debris."

Before the council voted to okay the budget, one member of the audience rose and commended the city officials for keeping the new budget increases to only seven percent, noting that the proposed increase in city expenditures was "five percent less than the rate of inflation."

Are Your Eyes in Focus?

Like a camera in principle, but infinitely more complex, the eye is a wondrous creation. By converging the beam of light entering the pupil (aperture of the eye) to a point focus on the retina (light sensitive "film" in back of the eye), sharp vision is possible.

However, if rays of light coming from a distant object enter the pupil and converge to a point before they reach the retina, distance glasses are needed for clear vision. Such people are nearsighted, and can only focus light from nearby objects.

On the other hand, if the retina is in front of the point at which light from nearby objects would focus, reading glasses are needed. These people are farsighted, and can only focus rays from distant objects.

An ophthalmologist — a medical eye specialist — can determine if you need corrective lenses, as well as diagnose and treat any possible eye disease.

Many of our subscribers also choose our premium channels which provide first run movies, specials, and sports, all without commercials or interruptions.

Offering as many channels as Grosse Pointe Cable provides sometimes creates a challenge to know what is on each channel. Beginning with this issue, I am pleased to announce that the Grosse Pointe News, in cooperation with Grosse Pointe Cable TV, will provide a complete weekly TV schedule of all our programming.

Be sure to look for this section each week so you will know what is carried via cable TV.

Coats says Board has 'hit list'

By Susan McDonald

Outgoing Supt. William Coats last week accused School Board members of having a "hit list" of administrators they'd like to fire when a new superintendent takes over July 1.

Coats' angry outburst at the School Board's June 1 meeting was directed primarily at trustee Roger Mourad.

It was inspired by the Board's 6-1 refusal to approve two-year contract extensions for most of the system's administrators.

Renewal of administrator contracts is usually tied in with end of the year evaluations of their performance by Coats. The superintendent told the Board last week he had not yet completed those evaluations for this year, but he was able to report that all administrators were at least in the "satisfactory" category and should have contracts renewed.

School Board members said they wanted to see the specific evaluations before approving the contracts, which must be completed before the end of this month. Affected employees include principals and some central office workers.

Coats said he was "suspicious" about the trustees' motivation for delaying the contract vote.

"The fact you're hesitating tends to confirm some nasty thoughts," Coats said. "I'm wondering if we have some kind of hit list this year that's going to be applied to some of the administrators. I can't imagine any other motivation. I have a real problem with that and I think it's a serious mistake to make with a very important employee group."

Mourad responded by saying there is nothing sinister in the Board's request, or any conspiracy to fire administrators.

"We're talking about a basic question — the Board's right to question the superintendent's evaluations," Mourad said.

Coats then accused Mourad of telling him earlier that he wanted a particular administrator fired. "Don't act so pious. You have talked to me about terminating (someone's) contract," Coats said.

In the final vote, only Laurence Harwood supported the superintendent's recommendation that administrators' contracts be extended through June 30, 1983. Coats will have to return to the Board before the end of June with his request.

Coats will be replaced by Dr. Kenneth Brummel on July 1. Coats will become a professor in University of Michigan's school of education, but is considering staying in Grosse Pointe and commuting to Ann Arbor next year.

86th annual meeting held

Many Grosse Pointe area Christian Scientists traveled to Massachusetts this week to join with several thousand members from around the world for the 86th Annual Meeting of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

The world's great need is for brotherhood based on "spiritual strength and Christly courage," they were told by the chairman of the Christian Science Board of Directors in a keynote address.

Board Chairman Hal M. Friesen warned members that "much of mankind is determined to continue to exalt the material over the spiritual, the superficial over the substantial. But," he added, "mankind seeks out and responds to those who compassionately seek their own in another's good. These times call for visible and active brotherhood."

Church officers reported a strong, debt-free financial condition; increased activity to correct misconceptions about Christian Science; and continuing legislative acceptance into law of the right to rely on Christian Science for healing.

Continued growth was reported in syndication of the news services of The Christian Science Monitor to radio and TV stations and some 211 newspapers around the world.

Named President of the denomination for 1981-82 was Berthe S. Girardin of Paris, a teacher and public practitioner of Christian Science.

First Church of Christ, Scientist, Grosse Pointe Farms is located at 282 Chalfonte Avenue. The church maintains a Reading Room for public use On-The-Hill at 108 Kercheval Avenue.

Linthicum's 'Bible Study' published

Members and friends of Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack Avenue, recently gathered to celebrate the May release of their senior pastor's latest work, "The People's Bible Study," a set of religious teaching materials.

The set includes a book,

"The People Who Met God," a detailed leader's guide and participant's workbook, a 64-page flipchart and 21 recorded lectures on cassette tape, all authored by Dr. Robert C. Linthicum of Littlestone Road.

"The People's Bible Study" was published by the Institute of Church Renewal and is designed to be used by local churches, both Protestant and Catholic, to introduce lay people to the Old Testament. The New Testament version is expected to be released in 1982.

The Institute of Church Renewal approached Dr. Linthicum back in 1978 with the offer to publish "The People's Bible Study" which he has taught since 1963 in several churches of various sizes and denominations. At the time he and others were teaching it, the materials that presently make up "The People's Bible Study" were being developed, tested and revised. "In fact," Dr. Linthicum said, "the textbook, 'The People Who Met God,' has been revised seven times."

"The People Who Met God" is actually Linthicum's third. Previous books include, "Christian Revolution for Church Renewal" and "Choose Your This Day: Create Your Church's Future."

"The People Who Met God" is available at Hedy's Bible and Book Shop, 19451 Mack Avenue, and at the Grosse Pointe Presbyterian Church

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Linthicum examine his new book and educational resource, "The People Who Met God."

Nickelodeon offers shows for kids on cable channel 24 during June

Nickelodeon, the Young People's Channel, introduces a new series to its weekly schedule in June on channel 24. "Nick's Family Picks," to be shown Sundays at 6 p.m. (ET), will revive the All-American tradition of Sunday matinees for the whole family. Each Sunday's selection, approximately 2 hours in length, will also bring back the old movie house "Intermission." Features will be introduced and closed by a different member of the NICKELODEON family, such as "Pinwheel's" Smitty (Dale Engle).

In June, the Sunday matinees will include "Danny" (June 7) about a girl and her horse, "Tom Brown's School Days" (June 14) from Thomas Hughes' classic novel of school life in 1840's England stars Sir Cedric Hardwicke and Freddie Bartholomew. "Storm Boy," to be shown June 21, is the story of the dramatic choice a young Australian must make when the world intrudes on the isolation he has grown up in.

"Jungle Book" (June 28), is based on Rudyard Kipling's stories of ancient India. It is the story of an Indian boy brought up by a family of wolves.

June on Nickelodeon also brings a diversity of guests and discussions to "Live-wire," the teenage talk show. Included in this month's line-up are "Ms." editor Letty Cottin Pogrebin (June 18), Basketball superstar Bill Walton (June 16), David Lucas, a composer/producer of commercial jingles (June 2) and Lori Laughlin, an actress on the soap opera "Edge of Night" (June 2). Topics for June range from Teens & Advertising (June 2), The Handicapped (June 10), Music Careers (June 4), The New Technology (June 3) to What Make A Good Parent (June 18).

"Pinwheel's" entertaining and informative format for June includes "Leonardo Da Mole" (June 23), "Families Alike and Different" (June 16), "Hobo Bug Giggle Dance" (June 5), "Coco Cooks Spaghetti" (June 1), and "Ebenezer's Wonderful Weed" (June 1). In June on "Vegetable Soup," the preschool program introduces its viewers to new cultures and lifestyles, viewers are taken to the San Diego Zoo, there is a discussion on friendship, and soul spare ribs and pecan pie are made.

Nickelodeon's "Special Delivery" includes a Father's Day Special (June 21) with Melvin Douglas in "Portrait of Grandpa Doc," on June 19 "Star City Roll Out" and on June 5 Rick Derringer in concert.

"Matt & Jenny" face new dilemmas in the wilderness. In "A Woman's Place" the Tanners and Kit wander into a small town where there are suffragettes fighting for women's rights (June 11). Victor Buono guest stars in "Mystery of the Pikes." Matt & Jenny are kidnapped and forced to work on a farm (June 18). And in "Wagon Train West," which guest stars Peter Graves, they are given a lead to help find their relatives (June 25).

"Adventures in Rainbow Country" for June finds Billy involved with an angry hermit and a land development company (June 11) in "The Hermit"; protecting a sacred Indian rock in "Dreamer's Rock" (June 18), and working with a "Skydiver," (June 30).

"Dusty's Treehouse," a place for pre-schoolers to test new feelings and information, goes to a rodeo (June 3), a prune processing plant (June 11) and a marshmallow factory (June 17). Dusty and his friends talk about being a tattletale (June 10), swearing (June 24) and taking care of plants (June 23). "First Row Features" selections for June include: "Gosha The Circus Bear" (June 5), "Mr. Horatio Knibbles" (June 10), "What Next" (June 15) and "Anoop & The Elephant" (June 19).

In June, "Studio See's" cameras follow baseball bats from wooden sticks in the factory to the hands of the players (June 5), they find out how the "Star Wars" characters were created on June 15, and they go underwater to get to know Belinda the giant Beluga whale (June 19).

'Dear Liar' by GPT to benefit hospice

The Grosse Pointe Theatre production of Jerome Kilty's "Dear Liar" will be presented in two performances, June 22 and 23, to benefit the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan.

The play will be shown at Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road, Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The GPT production of "Dear Liar" originally ran professionally at the Attic Theatre in downtown Detroit as part of its annual Performing Arts Festival last spring.

It is a dramatization of the famous correspondence between Bernard Shaw and his love and favorite leading lady, Stella Campbell.

The two-character drama stars Grosse Pointe Carol Purdon of Village Lane as Mrs. Campbell, and Bill Clyne of Detroit as Shaw. It is directed by Lois Bendler of St. Clair Shores.

Both actors and directors have been in leading roles with Grosse Pointe Theatre and other community theater groups and in numerous commercial and industrial performances, live and on film.

Purdon and Clyne recently appeared together in another two-character play, "Same Time, Next Year," at Stouffer's Eastland.

Purdon's specialty is comedy. She played Lady Bracknell in "The Importance of Being Earnest" at GPT, and she has done such comic roles as Billie in "Born Yesterday" and Corey in "Barefoot in the Park." She also portrayed Aldonza in GPT's "Man of la Mancha."

Clyne has been seen with GPT as actor, technical chairman, and director. Most recently he played Abelard in the GPT production of "Abelard and Heloise."

He has performed at the Attic in such plays as "Ashes," and "Buried Child" and was sound coordinator for the joint Attic-Music Hall production of Arthur Kopit's "Wings."

The Hospice of Southeastern Michigan offers a new health care concept which prepares the terminally ill and their families for death, compassionately and realistically, once the curative powers of medicine are exhausted.

The Hospice, which opened last fall after two years of development, is one of the largest and most comprehensive such ventures in the state.

For ticket information about "Dear Liar," call 881-7956.

Long and Short of It
New York's Robert Half firm, executive recruiters, believes the careers of many Americans are jeopardized by their physical stature; in other words, short people often get short shift from interviewers. In this vein, a study of University of Pittsburgh graduates showed men six feet two or taller received starting salaries 12.4 percent higher than those under six feet in height. Women five feet three didn't do as well as taller women.

Village art fair Saturday

Artists will exhibit a year of progress when the Grosse Pointe Artists Association takes to the streets of the Village this weekend during the seventh annual Village Arts Festival.

Co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Artists Association and the Grosse Pointe Village Association, the Festival features art works by artists from places as distant as Florida, with seven states other than Michigan represented. Watercolor, oil, photography, pottery, macrame, acrylic, metal and many other media will be represented in the 90 displays lining the streets of the Village.

The festival will open Friday June 12 at 10 a.m., and will continue until 9 p.m. It will resume Saturday from 10 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Food will be offered to patrons from two separate stands, one at each end of the Village, as well as at local merchants' locations, where indoor operations will go outside.

Awards are given to the artists by both the Artists Association and the Village Association. In the case of the latter, cash awards, called purchase awards, will be made. These awards will purchase winning pieces of art, which will be given away to the public through a drawing to be conducted Saturday. Free entry forms are available at any participating Village merchant.

Chairing the event for the third year for the Artists Association are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Pluhar of Lincoln Road.

All profits from the entry fees of the festival go to support the Arts Wing at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

If one is a grandmother — or a grandfather—but even more so if you are a grandmother, there are certain family celebrations that warm the heart, renew the spirit and generate a vibrancy that heightens the days before and after the event.

The slight reservation concerning grandfathers (and it could be just an ungrounded personal one) is not intended as biased or sexist.

It just seems that women are more emotionally tied to births, graduations, weddings and all the other milestones that bring the family together in a special way and remind them that here within this unit is devotion and love and help in good times and bad.

It may be that these occasions are more important to grandmothers because of their life-long involvement with them as wives and mothers, it is they who were charged with the task of seeing special days on the family calendar were properly honored. They prepared tons of food, washed mountains of dishes and shopped for endless gifts. As husbands and fathers, grandfathers were rarely charged with such family duties. However it must be acknowledged that they did provide the where-withal to make such festivities possible. But as the poet said "Love is for man a thing apart, 'tis woman's whole existence." So it is with family milestones. They are important to fathers and grandfathers, to mothers and grandmothers, they are sacred.

THIS POINT was aptly brought home a few weeks back when Grandparents' Day was held at the Grosse Pointe Academy. There were grandmothers everywhere. Their faces shone with pride as they sat with their grandchild in class and listened to him or her recite. The air was charged with love. To complement this mood of felicity, a warming spring sun shone on the freshly sprouted green grass of the school grounds where the two generations gathered for a picnic lunch. A soft, gentle breeze wafted in from the serene blue lake which fronted the area.

It was a memorable day, a day of renewal for grandmothers who were enjoying the same special communion with their grandchild they had once experienced as mothers. It was the sort of occasion grandfathers attend with pride but grandmothers come to bringing all the emotional involvement of years of mothering, an experience that carries with it many treasured memories that demand to be relived and savored once more. All the beautiful happenings that made life as a parent so dear are remembered. As women, grandmothers need this. It is a confirmation of life well spent in the role of mother.

Part of this belief that grandmothers are more emotionally involved in the lives of grandchildren is based on observation, partly on listening to grandmothers talk, partly on personal experience and partly on opinions expressed in print by well known grandmothers.

One such grandmother is Rose Kennedy, who on the occasion of her 90th birthday said: "Through my grandchildren, I am made to feel needed and loved and am kept in contact with events in the larger world."

This remarkable grandmother, mother of a president and two senators, has known great joy. But she has also experienced much sorrow. She saw three of her sons die violent deaths, one daughter institutionalized as retarded and another daughter killed in a plane crash. Perhaps because of these triumphs and trials, her grandchildren are very special to her. She writes of their importance in her life and how much she enjoys the laughter and talk of these young people. She contends they open her mind to the changes in beliefs and attitudes.

She passes on to grandparents everywhere the good advice that while grandparents may become very involved in their grandchildren's lives, they are not theirs to raise.

IN AN ARTICLE a few years back in McCall's she admonished: "There are times that I feel the urge to say: 'Now when I was your age we didn't act that way.' But when the urge comes I remind myself that rearing

Breathers meet June 16

The June meeting of the American Lung Association's Eastside Breathers' Club will be held Tuesday, June 16, at 1:30 p.m. at Georgian East Extended Care Facility, 21401 Mack Avenue, in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The discussion topic for the meeting will be medications and their role in the treatment of emphysema and chronic bronchitis. The use of medicines called "bronchodilators" and intermittent positive pressure breathing machines will be discussed.

The American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's Breathers' Club program is open to all chronic lung disease patients and their families. The Eastside Club meets the third Tuesday of the month. For more information on this free community service, call the Lung Association at 961-1697.

Foreigners Aid New York

Europeans and Japanese control the majority of more than 3,000 foreign companies with offices in New York City, nearly half of which have been established since 1975. The firms provide work directly for 140,000 people and indirectly for another 25,000. This is in addition to the diplomatic community, which numbers in the thousands.

Hearing Loss Is Not A Sign Of Old Age

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of one of the smallest Beltone aids of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this model, put it on and wear it in the privacy of your own home. While many people with a hearing loss will not receive any significant benefit from any hearing aid, this free model will show you how tiny hearing help can be. It is not a real hearing aid, and it's yours to keep free. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 05786, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Illinois 60646.

Talk on asthma at St. John

Guy Doyal, Ph.D., will be the guest speaker at the June meeting of the American Lung Association's Family Asthma Program meeting on June 10 at 7 p.m. at St. John Hospital, 22101 Moross, Detroit.

Dr. Doyal, a clinical psychologist, will discuss the role emotions play in asthma and the emotional problems that can often result at home and at school from repeated asthma episodes.

The Family Asthma Program is a support group for parents and their asthmatic children which meets the second Wednesday of the month. The meetings feature guest speakers, exercises, demonstration, films and discussion designed to teach the asthmatic and his parents how to best cope with lung disease.

For more information, call the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM) at 961-1697.

Park students tour hospital

Fifty seventh-grade science students and adults from St. Paul's School in Grosse Pointe Park took a first-hand look at health care professionals at work when they visited Henry Ford Hospital recently.

The presentations on health careers and tours of four areas were sponsored by the Henry Ford Hospital's Speakers' Bureau. The students had an opportunity to question Chuck Gwizdala, hospital pharmacist; Rose Snyder, athletic trainer in the newly opened Center for Athletic Medicine; Jennifer LoPatin, social worker in the hospital's special care nursery for newborns; and Bob Mohr, medical illustrator and sculptor for artificial body parts.

The career presentations were followed by tours of the hospital's cytology lab, head and body scanning unit, physical therapy department and pulmonary lab. The half-day session concluded with a presentation on drugs and alcohol by John Vetrano, substance abuse counselor.

Ryan McCarthy, St. Paul seventh grader, takes a ride on an exercise bike in Henry Ford Hospital's Pulmonary Lab where technicians test lung function and the ability of patients suffering from respiratory disease to go about the activities of daily living. Dr. Paul Kvale of Grosse Pointe Park is the head of Pulmonary Medicine.

Summer reading club begins at Pointe libraries

The Children's Department of the Grosse Pointe Public Library is again sponsoring a summer reading program for Grosse Pointe children. Last year the program was highly successful with 1,220 children participating and the library is looking forward to an even bigger and better program this year.

The purpose of the program is to encourage reading for the sheer fun of it. The approach is informal, stressing individual initiative and ability rather than numbers of books.

All children who can read are eligible to join. Registration began June 1 and continues through Aug. 1. Children are encouraged to register at their local branch.

The theme this year is Adventure '81 and reading lists appropriate to grade level are available in the children's rooms. However, children may read any book they prefer as long as it's in the library collection and at the child's reading level. Booklets are also available for children to record their books. Children must read a minimum of 10 books to qualify for a reading certificate. Seals, ribbons, and stars are added to the certificate for books read over the minimum of 10 titles.

As a grand finale to the summer activities, Reading Club members are invited to attend a costume party to be held at their library in mid-August. Children are encouraged to dress up as their favorite storybook character and participate in a morning of games and entertainment.

Children will receive information about the library summer reading club through the schools. For further information, parents should call their local branch at the following numbers — Central Library, 343-2074; Park Branch, 343-2071; and Woods Branch, 343-2072.

Book traces ULS history

Awarding of diplomas to 67 members of the Centennial graduation class was coupled with the public introduction of "Century," a chronology of the University Liggett School, at commencement ceremonies on June 9.

Raymond P. Robbins, headmaster since 1969, conducted the ceremonies at 8:30 p.m. in the graduation courtyard of the school's main Cook Road campus.

As part of the program, Theodore H. Mecke, Jr., president of the Board of Trustees, formally introduced this most unusual publication dealing with the families and early history of Detroit and the University Liggett School.

"Century" (The History of University Liggett School, 1878-1978), by Anne Getz Wormer, traces the development and merger of four schools resulting in the final formation of University Liggett School.

In the spring of 1878, seven members of the Liggett family settled in Detroit to establish a small, independent girls' school.

One-hundred years later, the school had grown from a staff of nine and an enrollment of 57, to an institution with over 100 teachers and 900 students. And, from its first facility, a converted Detroit boarding house, this metropolitan educational institution now consists of three divisions, on two campuses totaling 58 acres.

The first copies of the 237 page "limited edition" book will be presented to selected people who have been especially prominent in the school's history.

Anyone desiring copies may purchase them directly from University Liggett School.

Exercise with Vital Options

Unique and enjoyable programs of exercise are planned this summer by the Grosse Pointe Department of Continuing Education and Cottage Hospital, in cooperation with Vital Options, Inc., of Grosse Pointe.

The Grosse Pointe School's schedule of classes begins June 15 and runs for six weeks. The following schools will hold classes: Brownell School on Chalfonte Avenue, Monday and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m., and Tuesday and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m.; and Grosse Pointe High North on Vernier Road, Monday and Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m.

The fee is $12 a session for one class a week, or $24 for two classes a week.

Continuing its recent three-mile fun run theme of "Start A Healthy Habit," Cottage Hospital is sponsoring a 6:30 a.m. co-ed program open to all area residents.

Set to Country-Western music, the classes take place in the hospital's lower level Board Room and cost $3 per class.

Two of the current program participants are Ralph Wilgard, hospital administrator and Jim Southworth, hospital dietician.

the grandchild is not my job and that special wisdom may not have reached absolute perfection when I was young."

The close relationship she has cultivated with her grandchildren is revealed as she relates stories of how she shares the world she knew as a girl with them. Sitting around the table at meals she answers their questions about what it was like growing up at the turn of the century, how it was possible to swim in those long ruffled bloomer suits and what it was like to live in a neighborhood where everyone knew and depended on one another.

This is the sort of communication between grandchildren and grandparents that is needed to create those bonds so necessary for family tradition.

Centuries ago, the oldest people were responsible for transmitting history, values and culture to the young. Without this oral tradition, each new generation would have to create the world anew. Books, films and computers cannot do the job, Grandparents can.

Particularly unique because of her political background is a grandmotherly role that Rose Kennedy has played in her grandchildren's lives.

"Sometimes," she writes "I anticipate questions before they are asked. I know how painful it can be when a young child is first exposed to public criticism of his parents; and for each of my grandchildren this exposure is inevitable, given the course of our family history."

"So I try to recall for them how hard it was for me when I was young and had to listen to mean and vicious denunciations of my father. Indeed, I was so hurt and outraged by the opposition's statements in campaigns that I hoped my father would never run again, but he did and each time with more relish, and after a while I took my cue from him. I learned to accept gossip and slander as the price for being in public life, and with this acceptance came the emotional strength not only to deal with the bad parts of politics but to savor the good parts."

Certainly this bit of advice could be translated by any grandmother to prepare a grandchild for the inevitable hardships and crisis that are part of everyone's life, no matter what their station.

Currently the interest in tracing family roots has resulted in young people wishing to know more about the generations which preceded them. Grandparents have generally been the first source for information, providing the starting point of more extended investigation. Rose Kennedy has, in her capacity of family historian, added another dimension to that role. It is one which grandparents everywhere might want to follow. She has added another dimension to store of mental memorabilia. She has taught her grandchildren that pride in your family and past is commendable but there is a responsibility to continue by deed and action a history that their grandchildren can recite with pride. She has reminded them that when they think of the past, they should understand that they have also inherited a duty to the nation that sheltered and nourished their ancestors.

WHILE ROSE KENNEDY'S comments are of interest to both grandparents, it is obvious that the special rapport and insight she shares with her grandchildren is a result of a womanly intuition that guides her relationship with this younger generation. She seems to instinctively know how to listen without censure and the right time for sharing her own special knowledge and views.

Blessed are the grandmothers who live close enough to their grandchildren to develop such a relationship. For those who are removed by distance, it is more difficult but yet possible. Letters, cards, telephone calls and visits can accomplish much. A grandmother who keeps those lines of communication open can also experience that joy of special communication. They also can build that special relationship based on love and mutual sharing of two lives running parallel thought at different points on life's graph.

Social Security

New disability review plan

Recent changes or proposed changes in the Social Security program have caused concern among the more than 11,000 Pointers receiving benefits, according to James T. Moslener, district manager of the Social Security office at 17420 Mack Avenue. His staff reports an increase in the number of people inquiring by phone or in-person as to direction of the programs.

Moslener says more than 11,500 people in the five Grosse Pointes are currently receiving Social Security benefits, and they have questions: "Is the Social Security program going broke? Should I retire at 62 or wait until I am 65? Why can't I get disability benefits?" The questions reflect a true concern for a program that is a backbone for our social programs in this country, according to Moslener.

One recent change is noteworthy for people receiving monthly Social Security Disability benefits, Moslener said. Due to this change, these disability claims will be reviewed at least once every three years unless a client has a severe condition that is considered permanent.

This review procedure was started to reduce incorrect payments by insuring only eligible people get checks, Moslener said. When a client is contacted by Social Security the total case will be reviewed — if the client has returned to work or condition has improved. If for some reason a client is found to be no longer disabled, there will be an opportunity to appeal the decision.

For more information about the eligibility requirements for Social Security Disability, call the Social Security general information number at 493-1111 or visit the local Social Security office at 17420 Mack Avenue.

Nicknames are clues to Michigan summer tours

The nicknames of Michigan's cities offer clues to the variety of historical outings, festivals and sight-seeing trips vacationers can enjoy when traveling this summer, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Marshall, "The City of Hospitality," was settled by wealthy easterners who hoped the city would become Michigan's capital. The mansions they built, the state's largest and best preserved collection of 19th century homes, are open annually for tours the weekend after Labor Day.

Despite the Marshall residents' efforts, Lansing became Michigan's "Capital City." The Capitol Building is open weekdays for free tours. The state's history and people are showcased nearby at the Michigan Historical Museum, which is open daily except holidays.

History buffs also may visit Houghton, the state's "Copper Capital." Museums, mines and a 4,826 pound copper specimen at Michigan Technological University are things to see in the mineral rich region.

Because of its French, British, Spanish and American heritage, Niles is called the "Four Flags City." The city's annual Four Flags Area Apple Festival is Sept. 17-20.

Commerce is the key to several well-known nicknames of Michigan cities.

Before it became known as "Cereal Capital of the World," Battle Creek was home to cereal tycoons C.W. Post and Dr. John H. Kellogg. A Kellogg free tour shows how the company produces 5 1/2 million packages of cereal daily.

The auto industry's importance to Michigan's economy is obvious in Flint, "Vehicle City." Visitors can tour assembly lines of the General Motors Corp., the world's largest automaker, weekdays except holidays and during model changeovers.

More than a century ago, Grand Rapids, "Furniture City," became a leading producer of home furniture and today is the headquarters of the world's largest office furniture maker. An exhibit, "Made in Grand Rapids: 150 years of Furniture History," will be on display June 13-Aug. 23 at the Grand Rapids Public Museum, open daily except holidays.

Muskegon, the "Port City," is located along Lake Michigan and shipwatchers can enjoy the colorful spectacle of lake ships and ocean liners at one of Michigan's finest deep water ports. The annual Seaway Festival will be held June 27-July 5.

Situated along Lake Huron is Rogers City, the "Nautical City." Stores are decorated in a nautical theme at this port. Great Lakes freighters annually haul millions of tons of limestone from a nearby quarry, one of the largest in the world and open for tours.

One-third of the world's cherry crop comes from the "Cherry Capital of the World," Traverse City. Some 50,000 tons of the fruit are produced each season, an accomplishment to be celebrated July 5-11 at the National Cherry Festival.

Farther south is Benton Harbor in the "Heart of the Fruit Belt," an area with an ideal growth climate. The Benton Harbor Fruit Market — described as the world's largest — and numerous pick-your-own farms offer juicy, fresh produce.

Visitors also can sample a delightful array of tasty products in Pinconning, the state's "Cheese Capital."

The Abbott Co. produces magic equipment and hosts an annual Magic Get-Together in Colon, "Magic Capital of the World." The magicians' convention, Aug. 12-15, is open to the public.

The revolutionary idea of the downtown open-air shopping mall, now an American trademark, began in Kalamazoo, "Mall City." The pedestrian mall on Burdick Street, which was heavily damaged by a tornado last year, has been restored. When built it was the first of its kind in the country.

Detroit's nickname, "Renaissance City," reflects both the status of commerce and the spirit of its people. The city's rebirth is most obvious downtown at the gleaming Renaissance Center. Amusements there range from distinctive restaurants to a "World of Shops," which includes some of the world's finest designer clothing.

West on the riverfront at Hart Plaza, a computerized fountain creates water sculptures. On the Plaza, free summer ethnic festivals run each weekend through September.

Boos & Stalker will give verbal appraisals at $5 per item which monies will be donated to the War Memorial. Only books, coins, stamps and jewelry will not be appraised.

Remember the News' story and photo of a big, handsome part-German Shepherd pulled from the lake St. Clair by Farms firemen on a cold spring day? Remember how we said he was friendly and needed a good home? Remember us asking if anyone would like to claim him? Well, someone did. Phoebe Walls, of Washington Road, a sophomore at South High. As you can see, both seem pretty happy with their new relationship.

Program to ease homeenergy costs

Residential customers should check their next gas and light bills closely for information about the new Michigan Energy Saving Plan.

The new program is a concerted effort by the Michigan Public Service Commission and gas and electric companies serving 98 percent of the state's home energy customers. It is already in effect and consists of a Home Energy Analysis, zero interest conservation financing, and an insulation outreach program for low income customers.

The first component is the Home Energy Analysis. A trained auditor will examine a customer's home for a $10 charge and provide an in-depth evaluation of the energy efficiency of the dwelling. The auditor will then recommend improvements and give the customer information on the cost of installing energy-saving measures by contractors and for do-it-yourself installation as well as an estimate of the potential savings for each recommended measure.

Customers also will receive a conservation kit containing several easy-to-install energy-saving devices. For example, insulation designed for placement behind wall sockets and light switches and a device to attach to shower heads to reduce hot water use. All residential customers of Detroit Edison are eligible for the Home Energy Analysis which was mandated by the 1978 National Energy Act.

Comparatively fewer customers, however, will be eligible for the zero interest conservation financing. An estimated 500,000 residential customers of Consumers Power and Michigan Consolidated Gas companies will be eligible for as much as $1,000 to $1,500 in loans depending on which company serves them.

The Michigan Public Service Commission has approved a program for Consumers

Power customers to obtain loans from the company of up to $1,000 for contractor-installed insulation and $700 for insulation installed by the customer.

The Commission also approved a Michigan Consolidated program to provide loans of up to $1,500 for contractor-installed ceiling insulation and furnace retrofit devices and $750 for customer-installed ceiling insulation. The principal amount of the loan will be repaid in equal installments reflected on the customer's monthly utility bill for a period of no greater than 60 months.

Customers must meet all of the following criteria to be eligible for the loans:

- They must be current residential customers of either company with gas service bills paid up to date

Hungry thief swipes food

A Grosse Pointe Park woman told City police last week that someone made off with her shopping cart of groceries while she chatted with a friend at the Kroger's store on Kercheval and Notre Dame.

According to police report, the woman said she went through the checkout line and paid a $52 bill. The groceries were then bagged and placed into the shopping cart. On her way out of the store, she stopped and spoke to a friend, but when she turned around the cart was gone, police said.

Police said three weeks ago a man reported that someone took $42 worth of groceries out of his car parked in the Kroger's lot.

Smokers Up

Tobacco consumption growth today is fastest in the world's poorest countries, aggravating ill health and socio-economic problems. The World Health Organization recently reported, "Failing immediate action, smoking diseases will appear in developing countries before communicable diseases and malnutrition have been controlled." Cigarette manufacturers are focusing on the Third World, where they rarely have to print the health warnings that curb sales elsewhere, says the Third World Media Service of London. They dump lethal substandard tobacco on unsuspecting buyers while the local media, eager for tobacco advertising, keep awareness low. Cigarettes sold in the Third World usually contain twice as much cancer-causing tar as those sold elsewhere.

U.S. Air Force offers college scholarships

High school students who will be seniors next fall should begin to apply now for Air Force Reserve Officers' Training Corps four-year college scholarships, according to Col. Hugh D. McCracken, Jr., Air Force ROTC Registrar.

"Students' chances for selection increase by submitting their scholarship applications during the summer and early fall," says Colonel McCracken.

Applications for the freshman scholarships beginning in the 1982-83 academic year are now available at Departments of Aerospace Studies at any college or university hosting Air Force ROTC and at U.S. Air Force recruiting stations, or students can write to the Office of Public Affairs, Air Force ROTC, Maxwell AFB, AL 36112.

An Air Force ROTC Four-Year Scholarship provides for payment of full tuition, books and most fees, plus a $100 monthly stipend during each academic year. The scholarships can be used at about 600 colleges and universities that offer Air Force ROTC.

Competition for these scholarships has been keen. For example, more than 15,000 scholarship applications were received by Air Force ROTC from which about 1,400 students were selected as scholarship recipients for this fall.

"With so many applications," says Colonel McCracken, "the emphasis is on early application and high quality students." Three selection boards meet each academic year, one in November, another in January and a final board in March. Approximately 50 percent of those qualified students considered by the November 1980 selection board were chosen to receive a scholarship.

For the January and March boards, the percentage of students selected was considerably lower. The percentage of selections from the November 1981 board will probably be high, too, according to Colonel McCracken.

Students competing for

Air Force ROTC scholarships. Scholarship Branch, Office of the Registrar, Air Force ROTC, Maxwell AFB, AL 36112.

The minimum SAT scores required for a scholarship application are 500 in mathematics and a composite score, directly to the Four-Year of 1,000.

From one pocket to another

With each passing day it becomes more difficult to sort out tax problems at the local, state and federal levels.

In Michigan, the Legislature finally approved a tax package that will permit the city of Detroit to vote June 23 on raising the city income tax one percentage point on residents and non-residents alike.

Now the Legislature is addressing itself to the statewide tax problem by seeking a property tax cut program to replace the recently defeated Proposal "A" and to head off a more drastic reduction promised by Shiawassee County Drain Commissioner Robert Tisch.

In Washington, meanwhile, the Reagan administration finally put together a tax package which proposes a 25 percent tax reduction over a three-year period, with assorted other sweeteners being offered to win broader support from Congress.

What appears to be happening is a kind of tax shift with the Reagan administration seeking to carry out the President's campaign promises by trying to halt the growth of government in Washington by turning back more of its responsibilities to the states and local governments as well as to private enterprise.

IN MICHIGAN, however, a state government squeezed by the depression in the auto industry and continuing inflation is itself being forced to cut back in spending and services and thus is in no position to fill the gap left by the reduction in federal financing.

That means much of the burden falls on local governments — the schools and municipalities — to try to continue providing necessary services at a time when they are getting less and less state and federal aid and even face the prospect of a reduction in property tax revenues.

Elected officer is essential

Now that the Wayne County Charter Commission is in the last lap of its race to draft a home rule charter for submission to the voters next November, it is becoming increasingly clear that the key to success of the new plan for county government will be the caliber of the new chief executive officer.

Under the draft now going through its third reading, the charter gives the chief executive officer strong executive and administrative powers to reorganize and run the county government. The CEO will appoint tax executives and members of the boards and commissions, subject to approval of the county board, but these officials will serve at the pleasure of the CEO. That requirement ought to help keep in line those independent boards, such as the road commission, which now possess almost autonomous powers.

Equally important, as emphasized by Barbara Gattorn, Grosse Pointe's charter commissioner, is the power given to the CEO to "veto any ordinance, resolution having the effect of law, or approving a contract, or any line item in an appropriation ordinance." That guarantees the executive powers of the CEO and makes certain the county commissioners will serve only as a legislative body. It answers a major criticism of the present county government: that the commissioners serve in dual capacities as legislators and administrators.

IN VIEW of the county commissioners' record for playing politics in making appointments, this newspaper hopes the voters of the county, when given their choice of an elected executive officer or one appointed by the commissioners, will opt for the elected official. An elected official would be responsible in the end to the voters, while an appointed CEO would be responsible first to the board which appointed him. It ought to be possible to find a qualified public administrator who possesses the political skill to win such an election and thus become an independent servant of the people.

In the Pointes, for example, the school budget for next year calls upon local taxpayers to pay a larger proportion of school costs because of a decline in both state and federal sources of revenue. And while the school tax rate will be lower than a year ago, school tax revenues may be increased by an estimated 17 percent because of higher property assessments.

Whatever the rationale for the tax changes being proposed at all levels of government, it appears likely that Congress will pass some form of an income tax cut and the Legislature will enact some kind of a property tax reduction, while the fate of the proposed Detroit income tax hike on both residents and commuters is more difficult to predict.

If all three tax proposals should become law, the prospects are that most people — but not all — would benefit from a net reduction in taxes even though it would mean taking more out of one pocket and less out of the other.

THE TAX SHIFT proposed by Washington is itself a reaction to public demands for lower taxes. But the decline in federal revenues will put more and more of a pinch on local and state governments which provide most of the services on a local level and therefore have more contact with the taxpayers than Washington does. So local and state governments will get more of the heat for a decline in services and little of the credit for cutting government spending.

Perhaps that helps explain why only two candidates filed for two places on the Grosse Pointe school board and little competition is appearing for the municipal offices to be filled in the Pointes this year. But nobody ever said that serving the public is an easy job.

While the charter draft calls for reducing the board of county commissioners from 27 to 15, there still is strong support on the charter commission for a board of from 21 to 27 members. The Detroit faction favors a bigger board because it supposedly would increase the chances of electing more blacks. And some suburbs want a bigger board in the hope of retaining representation on the commission in the future.

Unfortunately, there also have been hints that some members of the charter commission have their eyes on these commission seats and believe their chances of victory would be greater in a large rather than a smaller board. Ms. Gattorn to her credit has not echoed this line, which, in our opinion, is unworthy of those elected to serve the public in drafting a county charter.

Retention of an elected drain commissioner and mandating the continued operation of Wayne County General Hospital are two of the proposals in the charter draft to which Ms. Gattorn objects — and we think with good reason. We suspect the retention of the elected drain commissioner was one of the political tradeoffs made by the charter commission while the continued operation of the hospital apparently was voted because of intense pressure from labor unions and western Wayne County residents. Politics rather than good government apparently dictated both decisions.

OVERALL, the draft still does not meet all of the criticisms made of county government and its organization but the proposal is obviously a vast improvement. If the draft is approved in roughly its present form, if county voters adopt the elected CEO and if the public elects a qualified CEO, the county would have a good chance of getting more efficient government which should mean improved service at less cost.

Those "ifs" are three major obstacles but the prospects are bright that they can be surmounted.

Autumn opera auditions scheduled by DGOA

The Scholarship Committee of the Detroit Grand Opera Association has announced a Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions program, among the Metropolitan annual scholarship awards will be held in the fall of 1981 instead of in January of 1982, as originally planned. Exact audition dates have not been set, but it is anticipated that the preliminary, semi-finals and final auditions will all be held on one weekend in early November in the Detroit area. The consensus of opinion among the Metropolitan Opera Regional Auditions chairman was that autumn would be more convenient than the previously scheduled mid-winter dates for all involved. Notification regarding specific dates and locale, as well as application forms, will be forthcoming.

Know Your Schools

By Superintendent William Coats

This is the time of year for graduations across the state and country. Grosse Pointe is no exception with North and South High Schools both having commencement exercises this week.

We know quite a bit about what has been happening to our seniors for the past 13 years, but what of their future? Readers of this column may be interested in the results of studies done recently at North and South which contain information about what happens to our graduates after they leave high school.

In a follow-up study of 1980 North High graduates, assistant principal Florence Miller was able to tabulate data on 97 percent of the 479 students. Her study showed that 230 (59 percent) entered degree-granting colleges; 70 (15 percent) entered junior colleges; 10 (2 percent) entered special schools such as art, business, nursing, and technical; 3 (1 percent) went into military service; 82 (17 percent) obtained full or part-time jobs; 11 (2 percent) are unemployed; and 7 (1 percent) have moved or were foreign exchange students. Since some of the 16 (3 percent) unaccounted for students also may be in these categories, the above numbers could change slightly.

Two other features of Miller's study are quite interesting. She found that of the students employed or unemployed, seven planned to enter college later. If those seven graduates follow through on their plans, that will bring the total number of 1980 North graduates pursuing advanced education to 370 (78 percent).

Another feature of the study was a survey of degree-granting colleges selected by the 1980 North graduates. Twenty-seven persons selected out-of-state schools and 253 attended Michigan schools. Michigan State University was the most popular choice with 72 North grads selecting that school while The University of Michigan ranked second with 41 persons choosing it.

At South High School, the opposite seems true, at least for 1981 graduates. In a survey of this year's seniors conducted by the student newspaper, the Tower, The University of Michigan was the most popular choice with 11 times as many students selecting it as Wayne State University, the school selected by the next highest number of South seniors. Michigan State was a very close third.

Although the Tower survey had responses from only 236 of nearly 500 students graduating, it shows that South's 1981 graduates will be attending schools in 21 states, the District of Columbia and Guatemala. The survey also showed that the most popular field of study is business, with 20 percent of those surveyed listing it as their planned major. Engineering was the second choice with 10 percent.

The results of these two studies give cause for our community to be proud of its graduates and the job our school system is doing to prepare them for their futures.

One View from the Capitol

By William Bryant, Jr.

The "non-resident" income tax, levied by Detroit and the other 15 cities which levy a city income tax, will be raised by 1 percent by Detroit voters if they vote to raise their own resident income tax.

I opposed inclusion of such an increase, from 1/2 percent to 1 1/2 percent. I refused, however, to use illegitimate arguments against other parts of the Detroit package as an excuse to defeat the entire package. Instead, I tried hard to gain consideration of a distressed cities program of state dollars for Detroit and other ailing cities.

Free clinic at Cottage

Ralph L. Wilgarde, administrator, Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe, has announced that the Cardiopulmonary Services department will offer a free pulmonary function clinic for the public, Wednesday, June 17 from 4 to 7 p.m. in Board Room A on the lower level of the hospital.

Using an easy breathing test, respiratory therapy technicians can detect the early signs of emphysema, bronchitis, asthma, or other lung diseases. No reservations are necessary. Using a computerized analysis system, results will be given at the time of the test. For more information, call the Cardiopulmonary Services department at Cottage Hospital at 884-8600, extension 2160.

Our House Republican Caucus is fairly evenly divided between suburban Detroit and outstate representatives. We held all our suburban members in opposition to the non-resident increase but most of our outstate members felt their constituents were fed up with handing state tax dollars to Detroit. They, therefore, opposed a distressed cities program and supported the increased levy on suburban workers in Detroit as the only available alternative. I could not get mad at them for voting as their constituents wanted them to vote.

So there was a coalition, without conspiracy, of Detroit representatives and out-state representatives of both parties.

What we all agreed, as Republicans, and pushed for and succeeded in obtaining, was language requiring a Detroit balanced budget before any tax hike could take effect.

Getting a balanced budget will require substantial wage concessions, at least freezes, on the part of many city employees. I do not think there should be rollbacks of wages. The families of Detroit workers need to pay bills, too. But, because many of the wage classifications in Detroit are 20 percent or more over other large cities, there should be some two- and even three-year wage freezes.

Letters to The Editor

In defense of Woods trees

To the Editor:

I am delighted to learn that the City Council of Grosse Pointe Woods has had the foresight to allocate $50,000 for a tree program. This project will benefit the entire city. The shade trees of the Woods contribute to its being a desirable residential area as much as the quality of the school system does. Just as preventing blight along Mack Avenue is important to preserving the quality of the area, so too is preventing future barrenness by implementing a planting program.

In contrast to a recently expressed opinion, I approve of individual payment for EMS. I am glad the city offers the service but never expected it to be free of charge. Lives and trees are important to the Woods. The city council has dealt responsibly with both.

Many have cared about Poupard

To the Editor:

I'd like to comment on the letter you published on June 4 from several Poupard School parents which praised the school's former principal, Dr. Peter Wharton.

Having taught art for him at Poupard two years ago, I do not dispute Dr. Wharton's record of achievement.

I do, however, take issue with these parents commending Dr. Wharton for "the outstanding job he has done with a school no one else has cared about."

That statement does a grave disservice to the many fine Poupard parents and teachers who, over the years, have given so much time and energy with such enthusiasm to the students and the school itself.

The only way I can ever foresee parents and teachers failing to care about Poupard School is if there were to be a continuance of such irresponsible, demoralizing statements and an unquestioning community acceptance of the same.

Elizabeth J. Bangs,
A Grosse Pointe Teacher

But is it art?

To the Editor:

I walked past the Central Library and was totally shocked when I saw the new "art work" in front. In my humble opinion it threw off the architectural balance of the library building, it obscured the identifying letters on the library wall (which were in themselves artistic), and it offended the elegance and serenity of the surrounding landscape.

With respect to the good intentions of the giver and artist, I certainly wish they'd picked a more appropriate piece of art. If, however, the purpose of the artwork was to cause controversy, that purpose has been accomplished.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Piers Anthony Weymouth, the fourth Lord Wedgwood of Barlaston and the sixth generation grandson of Josiah Wedgwood, founder of Wedgwood China, is coming to town next Monday to speak at the Detroit Branch English-Speaking Union's annual meeting.

It's a dinner program at Jacobson's in-the-Village, in the St. Clair Dining Room, and will be preceded (hopefully: Michigan weather is always chancy) by cocktails outdoors on the D'Hondt garden terrace, between the Carriage House and Jacobson's store.

Because an especially large turnout of E-SU members and their guests is expected, the Branch has designated a pair of transportation coordinators. Charlotte Moreland, of Harvard Road, is forming car pools in The Pointe vicinity. Hal Mabley is doing the same in the Birmingham-Bloomfield area, which is dispatching numerous ambassadors to the East Side for this special occasion.

When members of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club gathered at Lochmoor for their annual spring luncheon and installation of officers, they marked the close of their club's 30th year. The Woman's Club began life in 1950 as the Neighbors' Group, set up for new residents of the community. At that time the Grosse Pointe NEWS reported club members were "primarily women who had lived in Grosse Pointe less than a year and wanted to get better acquainted."

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association, sponsor of the Neighbors' Group, described it as a "Grosse Pointe Club for women... an organization to further the interest of its members in community activities at our War Memorial and to keep older residents (involved) in the Center's social, cultural, educational and recreational activities."

The idea for the new organization had originated with the late Mrs. Frederick C. Ford, who headed the War Memorial Association's program committee in 1950.

In the three decades since its inception the Woman's Club has continued to grow and to widen its service and community commitments. This year, a committee appointed to study and recommend to the membership community groups to receive the club's annual contributions determined to request that the club support the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association's Family Fund Drive and allocate donations to several other community organizations.

Amy Rogers bride of David Hussong

She speaks vows in Maryland in early April; attendants are bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law

At home in Upper Marlboro, Md., are Mr. and Mrs. David Hussong, who vacationed at Williamsburg, Va., following their wedding Saturday, April 11, at Christ Lutheran Church in Bethesda, Md., and a reception at the Naval Officers Club.

Mrs. Hussong is the former Amy Robeson Rogers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rogers, of North Deeplands Road. Mr. Hussong is the son of the William Hussongs Jr. of Bethesda.

For the 1 o'clock rites at which Roy Nielson presided, the bride chose a lace-trimmed blouse, off white in color, a skirt of off white crepe satin and a bolero jacket of off-white, quilted crepe satin.

She carried an arrangement of silk flowers in white and lavender shades, with baby's breath.

by's breath.

She was attended by Mrs. William Hussong III, in a lavender blouse and a purple skirt, carrying lavender and white silk flowers with baby's breath.

William Hussong III acted as best man for his brother. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Ellis Rogers, of Haslett, and Coleman Rogers, of Grosse Pointe.

Mrs. Rogers chose a turquoise chiffon dress for her daughter's wedding. The mother of the bridegroom wore deep pink jersey.

The David Hussongs

Married Saturday, April 11, in Christ Lutheran Church, Bethesda, Md., to Mr. Hussong, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hussong Jr., of Bethesda, was AMY ROBESON ROGERS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Rogers, of North Deeplands Road.

Good year has ended for Colony Town Club

Season's end is a solemn time, especially when the members of an organization gather to review all the yesterdays of their fiscal year, but for Colony Town Club ladies who met in mid-May at the Detroit Boat Club to hear reports of their 1980-81 officers and committee chairmen, smiles were the order of the day.

All the reports presented at the annual meeting were extremely gratifying, therefore all the members were happy. The success of fund raising projects enabled the Town Club to contribute a sizeable amount to the Maintenance of the Cancer Loan Closet Foundation which the club established in 1947 and for which it has received much recognition as a pioneer in the Loan Closet field.

Members also were elated by the diligence of the group within the club which meets monthly to sew bed jackets and utility bags and to knit lap robes and warm bed socks. A beautiful array of gifts for patients in hospitals and nursing homes has been produced within the past year.

Colony Town Club begins its 46th year with a slate of new officers and five new directors. Grosse Pointers among the club officers include Mrs. Oswald Zeidler, president; Mrs. Edwin Seccord and Mrs. Harvey G. Groehn, first and second vice-presidents, respectively; Mrs. Fred A. Rohn Jr., assistant recording secretary; Mrs. John S. Malcolm, treasurer; Mrs. Robert J. Hutton and Mrs. Gaylord L. Hulbert, corresponding secretary and assistant corresponding secretary, respectively.

A pair of Bloomfield Hills residents, Mrs. Robert B. Marr and Mrs. David G. Teague, were elected recording secretary and assistant treasurer, respectively.

Continuing to serve as directors are Mrs. G. Herbert Ewing, Mrs. Groehn and Mrs. Alfred W. Massnick, of The Pointe, and Miss Grayce Cruikshank, of Detroit.

McGraw-Dent vows spoken

Diana Gwynn Dent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Baily Dent, of Spartanburg, S. C., was married Saturday, June 6, to Theodore Alexander McGraw Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Alexander McGraw, of Vendome Road. The Reverend Hays Rockwell presided at the ceremony in Saint James Episcopal Church.

The bride's sister, Pauline Ketchum, was matron of honor. Cynthia White was maid of honor. Mildred Stuart, another sister of the bride, Susan Dent, their sister-in-law, and Kathryn McGraw, the bridegroom's sister, were among the bridesmaids. Polly Harrison, the bride's cousin, was flower girl.

James Treco served as best man and the bride's two brothers, Frederick B. Dent Jr. and Magruder H. Dent, were among the ushers.

The new Mrs. McGraw, a decorator with Parish-Hadley, Inc. in New York, was graduated from the Purnell School and with the Class of '77 from the University of Kentucky. Her father, who is president of Mayfair Mills, served as Secretary of Commerce under Presidents Nixon and Ford and as the latter's Special Representative for Trade Negotiations.

The bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Magruder Dent, of Greenwich, Conn., and the late Mr. Dent, and of Mrs. James L. Harrison of New York City and Bedford Hills, N. Y., and the late Mr. Harrison, who was a vice-president of the First National City Bank, now Citibank. Her paternal grandfather was president of Joshua L. Baily & Company, cotton textile merchants, and chairman of Mayfair Mills.

The bridegroom, a graduate of St. George's School and Yale University, is with Johnson & Higgins, insurance brokers in New York.

He is a grandson of Mrs. Robert Steepel, of Grosse Pointe, and the late Mr. Steepel, and of the late Dr. Theodore A. McGraw, of Grosse Pointe, a surgeon, and the late Esther Longyear McGraw Murphy, and a great-great-grandson of Henry Uihlein, of Milwaukee, president of the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company from 1879 to 1916.

It takes workable ideas to create progress — not theories.

Yesterday's accomplishments shape today and tomorrows.

there's a bit of Branch business to be taken of, primarily election of officers for the coming year, but that's expected to take almost no time at all: who'd dispute the nominating committee's slate when it's headed by Mrs. Edward J. Tutag, of Radnor Circle? The only sad thing about Curl stepping up to the presidency is that Art Schmidt, of Lakecrest Lane, who did such a super job in 1980-81, is stepping down.

Cottage Auxiliary Convenes

Mrs. Joseph Barelo took reservations for the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary's general June meeting which begins at 11:30 this morning at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Speaker following the noon luncheon is June Hallagan Shada, coordinator of Adult Education for the Detroit Public Schools and on the staff of Marygrove College's Continuing Education Department.

North/South Axis for Avis

This is the season when Michigan's north country is especially delightful, when we especially envy people like Avis and David Hinks who, having put in their time in our state's metropolitan southland, live now in the clear air/pine forest regions.

Alpena is the Hinks permanent home. They have a beautiful house on Long Lake, and they love it there in all seasons — but Avis makes it a point to make it south now and then. She has too many friends and commitments here to desert us completely.

She was over at the Country Club yesterday, hosting, along with Mary Flinterman and Edna Endicott, the Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club's annual meeting. It was a festive occasion, a celebration of Pointe Farm and Garden's 50th birthday, and Avis says Mary Flinterman deserves SPECIAL praise for her Golden Anniversary decorating ideas.

North or south, Avis maintains her enthusiasm for Detroit's great Institute of Arts. She'll be back there next year, volunteering her tour of the DIA's Ancient Galleries.

She's a member of the Michigan Artrain board of directors and traveled even farther south than Detroit this spring on Artrain business, to attend the board meeting in Ann Arbor at which development plans for Artrain's second decade were presented.

Avis serves, too, on Alpena's Jesse Besser board of directors. North or south, she remains a most involved, most committed lady, especially where art, and friendships, are concerned.

A Pair of Pointe Authors

After graduation from Grosse Pointe South High School (Class of '72), Theodore DiSante spent two years at Michigan State University, then transferred to the Rochester Institute of Technology, Rochester, N.Y., from where he was graduated in 1977, with honors, with a degree in Chemical Engineering.

For the past four years, the son of Nick and Mary Beth DiSante, of Greenbriar Lane, has been working as an editor for HP Books. Now he's written a book of his own. It's called "How to Select and Use Medium-Format Cameras," and it's published by — need you ask? — HP Books, Tucson, Ariz.

Roger A. McCaig, director of Research and Development for the Grosse Pointe Public School System, is one of the authors of a book of essays, on the teaching of writing just published by the National Council of Teachers of English.

"Perspectives on Writing in Grades 1-8" contains Mr. McCaig's report on the dramatic improvement in the writing abilities of Grosse Pointe school children: a change brought about in a few years through an intensive program of annual writing assessment, in-service education for teachers and emphasis on writing across the curriculum.

Indian Village House/Garden Tour

Grosse Pointers always turn out in numbers for the annual Historic Indian Village House and Garden Tour. It's set for this Saturday, June 13, this year, and will feature six gracious homes, three lovely gardens, Christ Lutheran Iroquois Avenue Church and the Waldorf School, original home of Liggett School.

Tickets may be purchased the day of the tour beginning at 11 a.m. at Christ Lutheran, Iroquois at Vernor. General admission is $4, with a $2 additional charge for a guided walking tour. The guided tours begin at 11:30 a.m. and continue until 5:30 p.m. Senior citizens are eligible for a 25 percent discount. No need to worry about "walking hungry": there'll be a French cafe in the Waldorf School and a pastry shop at the church.

Thirty years of service

of two subscriptions to the large print weekly edition of the New York Times, one for the Central Library, the other for the Woods Branch.

• The Neighborhood Club, for use in Senior Citizens' programs and activities.

• The Grosse Pointe School System, for "seed money" to aid students at Grosse Pointe North and Grosse Pointe South in their Christmas projects involving community families in need of help.

It was also recommended that the club support crime prevention programs in three Grosse Pointe communities and the newly-formed Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Educational Fund, whose purpose is to inform the public of the ecological impact of the loss of urban forests.

In addition, for the 28th year, the Woman's Club is presenting Achievement Awards, based on high scholastic achievement, character, good citizenship, leadership and participation in extra-curricular activities, to a graduating senior at Grosse Pointe South and Grosse Pointe North High Schools.

Although the club year has officially ended, the new president will be meeting with members of her board throughout the summer to plan next year's activities as their organization enters its fourth decade of community commitment.

Julie Burns wed to James Schrage

They are at home on Fisher Road after vacation on St. Maarten; Mary Burns is her sister's honor attendant Marriage vows were exchanged Saturday, February 28, by Julie Ann Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Burns, of Harcourt Road, and James Joseph Schrage, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schrage, of Putnam Place.

The Reverend John Nader celebrated the 4 o'clock mass in Old Saint Mary's Church. Concelebrants were The Reverend John McCormick, The Reverend Jules Toner, S.J., and The Reverend David C. Bayne, S.J. After a reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, the newlyweds left to vacation on St. Maarten. They are at home on Fisher Road.

The bride's gown was fashioned of ivory chiffon and re-embroidered Alencon lace. It featured a high neck, heirloom yoke and long, tapered, lace-appliqued sleeves.

A Schiffli lace-embroidered cap held her Schiffli lace-trimmed veil of ivory illusion. She carried a nosegay of off-white miniature roses and baby's-breath.

Mary Burns, honor maid for her sister, and bridesmaids Betsy Schrage, of Saginaw, sister of the bridegroom, Molly Duggan, cousin of the bride, and Joyce Saviano wore long dresses of taupe chiffon, with lace collars, and carried nosegays of pink miniature roses and baby's-breath.

Flower girl Carey Kotz, the bride's niece, also wore a long dress. Soft pink in color, it was trimmed at the collar with ivory lace. She carried a miniature nosegay of pink baby roses.

Richard Schrage Jr. was his brother's best man. Ushering were Robert Schrage, another brother, Larry Burns, brother of the bride, Thomas Meier and Charles Turner.

The mother of the bride wore a formal length dress of pink print silk. The bridegroom's mother chose a long, dolman-sleeved gown of hyacinth blue Qiana. Both mothers selected orchid corsages.

Boys and Girls Clubs Women end their year

The Women's Association of the Boys and Girls Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit held its annual meeting in late May at the Country Club of Detroit, and Mrs. Victor Wertz, the association's retiring president, presented the Matilda R. Wilson Award of Honor to Jeanne Findlater, vice-president and general manager of WXYZ-TV, for her outstanding contributions to the community in behalf of youth.

The Presidential Medal of Office passed from Lucille Wertz to Mrs. Ernest A. Jones, of Bloomfield Hills, who will be the group's next president. Past presidents from Grosse Pointe include Mrs. J. A. Tompkins and Mrs. Robert N. Lynch.

The Women's Association has raised funds for the Boys and Girls Clubs through the annual Detroit Auto Show Charity Preview, followed by an afterglow at the Detroit Club as well as a Garden Party Picnic at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Posselius and the Soiree de Chanel: a black tie dinner dance at the Country Club featuring a fashion show sponsored by Jacobson's.

The association also participated, along with the Boys and Girls Clubs Corporate Board, in the highly successful Vic Wertz Celebrity Golf Outing at Hillcrest Country Club.

Children's cites special volunteers

cer complete the Pointe trio. The special volunteers, whose names were not announced until the awards ceremonies, were singled out for extraordinary service to the hospital and received their citations from Dr. Robert Gregg, Children's president.

Ed, a volunteer since 1973 who works regularly in the Gift Shop with his wife, Del, was cited for his willingness to help in many other ways, from carting items to storage to repairing a adding machines, making signs, washing windows and floors and selling plants and flowers in the Resale Shop.

Betty was recognized for her "cheerful friendliness toward everyone and for never hesitating to help where needed." She has cared for premature babies and burn patients, taught new volunteers, acted as tour guide and often worked extra days or weekends.

Mrs. Powell received a special award for almost 30 years of service, given in a variety of ways. She was cited for her 25 years on the Children's Hospital Board of Trustees and for her years as a member of the auxiliary and as a regular volunteer. "Not once have you hesitated in responding to a call for help from the hospital," her citation reads. "Everything you have done has been done with all your heart."

UCAE summer courses focus on outdoors, arts

University Courses in Adult Education (Wayne State University/University of Michigan) invites you to explore, experience and enjoy the outdoors and the arts this summer by enrolling in courses designed for adults, including mature teenagers.

Classes range from Edible Wild Plants of Summer - Plus, taught by U. of M. botanist Ellen Weatherbee, to Previewing the Arts of Summer, which provides critical and historical background to enhance enjoyment of drama, music and art happenings in and around Detroit.

Performance courses in off-shore navigation, cartooning, piano, dance, photography, rock climbing and designing one's own fitness program round out the UCAE offerings.

Previewing the Arts of Summer meets on Tuesdays, July 7 to 28, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Rackham Memorial in Detroit's University Cultural Center. Professor Philip Traci, creator of UCAE's "Three for Stratford," will preview this season's Stratford production of "Coriolanus."

John Guinn, Free Press music critic, is slated to preview the July 16 concert at Meadowbrook featuring works by Berlioz and Strauss. Sixteen Ehrlich will conduct. Jesse Norman is soloist. Dr. Susan Caroselli, editor of the international exhibit catalog, will provide background on "The Golden Age of Naples" exhibit coming to the Detroit Institute of Arts in August.

Grosse Pointe's Dr. Eugenie Beall concludes the series with a preview of "St. Joan" which has recently opened at the Shaw Festival, Niagara-on-the-Lake, in a production as controversial as GBS himself.

Fee for the course is $33. Reduced fees of $18 apply for seniors and each additional family member, including arts-minded teenagers. One need not attend the actual events to enjoy the previews.

Ellen Weatherbee, co-author of "Edible Wild Plants of the Great Lakes Region," invites beginners and expert foragers alike to discover, preserve and prepare watercress, mint and spices, wild leeks, mushrooms and much more at the U. of M. Botanical Gardens and parks and fields in Wayne and Oakland counties. The class meets on four Saturdays in June and July, from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Fee is $55. Reduced fees of $29 apply - so bring the entire family.

LONG, of Barclay Road, Bachelors of Business Administration; and ROBERT DAVID MEYERS, of Country Club Drive, Bachelor of Fine Arts.

Antiques Show to offer Young Collector nights

Antiques lovers of all ages who are in the early stages of building collections will find the Young Collectors Evenings among the most exciting aspects of the 1981 Grosse Pointe Antiques Show, for internationally recognized experts will be on hand to familiarize new collectors with the antiques market to day and to give suggestions on incorporating antiques into the interior design of a home.

The Young Collectors programs, scheduled for Friday, June 19, at 6:30 p.m., and Saturday, June 20, at 5 p.m., will be held under the tent in the central courtyard at University Liggett Middle School on Briarcliff Drive, site of the show. Tickets are $15 per person for each program, and reservations are necessary.

Friday's program will feature a talk by James J. Lally, director of Chinese Art for Sotheby Parke Bernet in New York and Hong Kong. Lally is an expert on Chinese painting. He will discuss "Collecting Chinese Art," emphasizing the best collecting strategy for the 1980s and the best sources for acquisitions.

The evening's cost includes a light supper, wine and admission to the show which, for the convenience of Young Collectors subscribers, will be open until 10 p.m. Each dealer will designate objects of special interest to beginning collectors.

Saturday's headliner is decorator Mario Buatta, chairman for the past five years of the prestigious New York Winter Antiques Show, who will discuss ways to develop a room's decor around one or two fine objects. Color, fabrics and the structural design of the surrounding furniture will be covered.

The Saturday program cost of $15 per person includes a wine and cheese reception and admission to the show.

Co-chairmen of the Young Collectors Evenings are Mrs. Frank Germack Jr. and Mrs. Charles M. Endicott. Further information about the Young Collectors evenings may be obtained by calling 886-9229; written requests for tickets should be mailed to Mrs. Germack, Young Collectors Evenings, 850 Briarcliff Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. 48236.

Screen smoke as baby eats

Cigarette smoke can get into your baby's food and possibly affect his or her future appetite, cautions the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan. The unusual research finding in support of this hypothesis is the work of psychologist Frank T. Etscorn, of New Mexico Institute of Technology, who advises young parents that their infants are particularly sensitive to cigarette smoke because:

- The brain's barrier to drugs (nicotine) as well as the liver's ability to detoxify nicotine is much less developed in newborns and infants.
- Nicotine very probably stays in the infant's body longer and is more active and, as such, is potentially more toxic. Using laboratory mice for his experiments, Etscorn went on to postulate that even in small amounts nicotine can make infants nauseous.

"If the nausea occurred at the time the infant tried a new food — or even several hours afterward — the child may subconsciously associate the food with the feelings of nausea." The result? "The baby rejects this food in the future."

"Remember," Etscorn added, "nicotine is a toxin; just five microliters on the skin of a 40-gram mouse will kill the animal."

More information can be obtained by calling the "Smoking Phone," 963-3029.

To sell, show students' art at Pewabic

The 11th annual Student Art Exhibit at historic Pewabic Pottery, located directly across from Waterworks Park on East Jefferson Avenue, will feature the work of 30 promising local potters for an entire month, June 14 through July 12, this summer.

Pewabic, one of the outstanding ceramics facilities in the country, year after year has produced some of the finest potters in the state of Michigan.

Proceeds from this year's sale will be divided between the artists themselves and a transitional Michigan State University/Pewabic Society consortium.

For the past 15 years, MSU has supplied most of the Michigan youngsters are breakfast eaters

Even without a breakfast program in their schools, Michigan's kindergarten through 12th grade students are eating that first meal of the day, according to Michigan State University researchers.

In a survey of state schools, only seven percent of 780 students had not eaten breakfast (or any food) on the interview day. Seventy-five percent said they ate breakfast every school day.

The survey was conducted by faculty in MSU's Food Science and Human Nutrition Department. Its results surprised the researchers, because it had generally been believed that Michigan students ate little or no breakfast before school.

funds to keep the pottery going. In return, Pewabic supplied instructors and facilities for credit and non-credit students as part of MSU's Lifelong Education Program.

Now, due to the economic crunch, MSU is being forced to withdraw its funding; as a result, the burden of maintaining this national historic site is expected to fall on the shoulders of the newly formed Pewabic Society later in the year.

The society is looking for new members and is now in the process of contacting several area colleges and universities, offering to provide both credit and non-credit courses on a cooperative basis.

Classes in raku and vapor firing are being offered to the general public this summer in seven-week day and evening sessions that began Tuesday, May 26.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, a menu built around a succulent CHICKEN DISH.

When we eat chicken, our succulent, delicious fowl contains protein, Vitamins A, B, B1, B6, B12, Folic Acid, Nicotin, Pantothenic Acid, Vitamin C, Sodium, Phosphorus, high Potassium, Calcium, Manganese, Copper, Manganese, Selenium and Zinc plus many trace nutrients. Is it any wonder that chicken is a universal favorite of every nation in the world?

The breast and white meat is lower in calories than the dark meat, and the same is true for the cholesterol content. The fat is mostly concentrated under the skin which is about 20 calories per piece.

Not only is chicken compatible with almost all of the vegetables, it has a special affinity for most of the fruits which definitely enhance its subtle flavor! Apricots are an especially good substitute for the plums in the following recipe.

A particularly interesting and flavorful menu:
Plum Perfect Chicken*
Whole Fresh Green Beans
Tiny Whole Beets
Tossed Green Salad
Elegant Apple Cake*

PLUM PERFECT CHICKEN
1 can (16 oz.) whole red or purple plums
2 Tbsp. soy sauce
1/2 cup sliced green onions, with tops
3 chicken breasts, split
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 Tbsp. cornstarch
1/4 cup cold water

Skin chicken breasts; remove all possible fat. Rinse. Drain plums and reserve syrup. Pit and halve plums. Combine 1 cup of reserved syrup, soy sauce, onion and garlic. Pour over chicken and refrigerate covered several hours or overnight.

Place chicken in shallow baking dish, lined with foil, flesh side up. Pour marinade over chicken; cover tightly with foil. Place in preheated 350° oven. Turn and baste occasionally with pan sauce. Bake for 40 to 50 minutes; or until fork tender. When done, remove chicken to heated platter; keep warm.

Thoroughly dissolve cornstarch in cold water. Pour drippings and remaining plum syrup into a saucepan; slowly add sufficient of the cornstarch mixture to thicken the sauce. Add the plums, constantly stirring until sauce is clear and is of the desired thickness. Makes 6 servings.

ELEGANT APPLE CAKE
This is an extra delicious, vitamin and nutrient filled cake! It is surprisingly light ... and so good that icing is unnecessary.

2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups vegetable oil
4 cups peeled tart apples, finely chopped
2 tsp. vanilla
1/4 tsp. salt
3 cups flour, sifted
1 tsp. baking soda
3 Tbsp. cinnamon (level)
1 cup walnuts, coarsely chopped

Beat eggs until light and lemon colored, beat in sugar until mixture is light and fluffy. Slowly beat in oil until well blended. Slowly add flour which has been sifted with cinnamon and soda. After adding about 1 cup of flour mixture, continue mixing by hand; adding apples and nuts alternately with the flour. Pour mixture into well oiled and lightly floured 13x9-inch baking pan. Bake in preheated 350° oven for 1 hour or until cake tests done. Makes 39 slices.

Calories about 130 per slice.

Cholesterol about 12 mgs.

To pay tribute to Mrs. Ford

Two hundred patrons of the Detroit Institute of Arts will pay tribute to the late Mrs. Edsel Ford at a 6:30 to 9 p.m. meeting in her former home on the shores of Lake St. Clair this Saturday evening, June 13.

The Friends of African Art are sponsoring the occasion to mark Mrs. Ford's support in building the museum's collection of traditional African art. She did this as a member of the Arts Commission for nearly 30 years and as a private donor.

In 1975, Mrs. Ford donated $1 million to the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts to purchase African masterworks on the open world market. Her intention was to spend the principal for acquisitions rather than the customary spending of interest accumulated from endowment investment.

Now depleted, her $1 million gift has resulted in the Art Institute's possession of one of the ranking African collections in America.

Dignitaries planning to gather for Saturday's tribute include Justice and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams, who have also supported this area of the museum's growth, The Honorable and Mrs. Damon Keith, Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president of the Arts Commission, former Air Force Major General Thomas Clifford and Walter B. Ford, president of the Founders Society.

ULS wins 10th straight tennis championship

The University Liggett School varsity tennis team won its tenth consecutive state tennis championship last weekend at Stowe Stadium in Kalamazoo. The win marks the 13th time in the last 16 years that ULS has reigned as state tennis champion.

ULS, ranked No. 4 in Michigan, placed all four singles players and all three doubles teams into the finals. Individual champions for ULS were: Steve Pack, No. 3 singles; Todd McCoy, No. 4 singles; Frank Crociata and Brian Hunt, No. 1 doubles and Mike Ottaway and John Polizzi, No. 2 doubles.

Individual runners-up for ULS included Kris Robbins, No. 1 singles; Gar Knight, No. 2 singles and John MacLeod and Mike Paolucci, No. 3 doubles.

The 1981 season proved to be very challenging for the Knights. All of their matches were extremely close. Along with the state championship, other highlights include a regional championship (for the 15th time in 16 years); first place in the East Grand Rapids Invitational and first place (for the seventh year in a row) in the ULS Class A Invitational.

With six freshmen in the top 12, the future of tennis at ULS is bright.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. I've heard a lot of people endorse Chiropractic Care — But all for different reasons. Do you have a list of the different ailments that Chiro-care helps?

A. Let's get down to FACTS. A number of well-meaning people still do not know what chiropractic can do for them. Many think of chiropractic as only "good for back-ache." The following is a partial list of conditions which have responded to our methods in our office. See if your condition is listed.

Back trouble (of course)	Arm and shoulder pain	Paralysis
Skin eruptions	Poor circulation	Throat conditions
Chest pains	Numbness in arms, fingers and toes	Bursitis
Asthma	Headaches	Thyroid conditions
Sciatica	Dizziness	Shortness of breath
Ulcers	Pressure in and around head	Functional heart conditions
Leg pains	Itching	Pleurisy
Whiplash	Nervousness	Heartburn
Nervous tension	Skin diseases	Gastritis
Pinched nerves	Sinus trouble	Rheumatism
Kidney conditions	Earache	Colitis
Fatigue	Neuralgia	Menstrual irregularities
Stomach disorders	Gall bladder disorders	Knee pains
Bronchitis	Migraine headaches	Blood conditions
Emotional disorders	Menopause disorders	Depressions
Digestive disorders		Tonsillitis
Nausea
Hemorrhoids

As stated before, the PERCENTAGE OF RESULTS IS HIGH — because chiropractic gets to the very CAUSE of the disorder — the rate of recovery varies for each patient depending on their age and on how long the condition has existed — BUT THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER IS THIS: YOU CANNOT HONESTLY SAY YOU HAVE DONE EVERYTHING FOR YOURSELF OR A LOVED ONE UNLESS CHIROPRACTIC HAS BEEN INCLUDED.

All-Conference star

Two members of the Miami University tennis team, senior Wendy Sweney and freshman Anna Van Wallaghem, of the Pointe, were selected to the All Mid-American Conference squad for 1980-81.

Anna Van Wallaghem is a 1980 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School and completed her first season at Miami with a singles record of 24-19. The daughter of George and Miriam Van Wallaghem, 544 Coventry Lane, Anna is majoring in communications at Miami.

The Miami Redskins placed first at the Mid-American Conference Championship in April, taking top honors at four singles and two doubles positions. At first singles, Van Wallaghem was defeated in the finals. Van Wallaghem and Sweney also lost in No. 1 doubles. Miami's final 1980-81 record was 22-15, including a second place finish at the OASIS Division I State Championship and seventh place at the Midwest Regional tournament. In the individual tournament held concurrently with the state team championship, Sweney and Van Wallaghem joined forces to capture the doubles crown.

All Sports trophy to North

By Tim Saunders
North High

For the third time in four years the Grosse Pointe North athletic programs have won the Bi-County All Sports Trophy as the top athletic program in its league.

The trophy, competed for since the 1977-78 school year, goes, as Thomas Gauerke, North's athletic director explains, "to the school that fields the best over-all varsity boys' and girls' athletic program."

Points are awarded to each team in the reverse order that they finished in the regular season. In baseball the first place team receives seven points, while the seventh place team (or the last place finisher) receives one point. The first place team's points are determined by how many schools field a team in that sport.

In some sports, like cross country or track, points are also awarded at a league meet following the completion of the regular season.

Every team in the league participates in one huge meet or match and the points from the regular season and the league meet are averaged for the final point total. A league meet carries as much importance as the entire regular season, Gauerke says.

Over all the Norsemen finished first in eight of 15 Bi-County League sponsored sports. They were boys' and girls' cross country, boys' and girls' tennis, boys' and girls' swimming, boys' track and boys' varsity baseball.

Those eight teams compiled a 53-0 record.

Clutch relief pitching by Paul "Goose" Williams squelched a seven-run Memphis comeback effort in the last inning and preserved a 21-15 Denver triumph for starter Peter Lewis. Hawaii's offense was led by Jon Helminkski's homer and Andy Kozak's triple.

The most willing work force in America is available in June.

This summer, hire someone who will strive, scramble, toil and tackle. This summer, hire a teenager. Teenagers want to work. Teenagers are hungry to work. For some young people, a summer job holds the key to being able to continue their education in the fall. All you have to give is a job to a needy teenager who hasn't been given the chance. You'll save on your taxes. And make the most of the most willing work force in America.

Make the most of your youth. Hire a teenager

The following paragraph appeared incorrectly in the June 4, 1981 edition of this paper. It should have read as follows:

AWARD OF NOTES. For the purpose of awarding the notes, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from July 1, 1981, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the basis of the above computation produces the lowest net interest cost to the School District for the entire issue. PBS in the spotlight

To punish the family that has treated her as a poor relation, Bette (Margaret Tyzack) lures one of its members, Crevel (John Bryans), into an affair with another woman in "Cousin Bette."

What Bette wants, Bette gets

Margaret Tyzack hopes that no one will misunderstand her when she says she's "played too few villains."

"It's not that, like some people, I have a great desire to play baddies," she says, "because I do love playing good people. But I would like a few more parts like 'Cousin Bette.'"

No wonder. In her performance as that revenge-obsessed spinster in the dramatization of Balzac's novel reprising on Masterpiece Theatre's Festival of Favorites beginning June 14 on PBS, "she shoots out sparks of perverse passion so strongly you can almost feel them on your skin," rhapsodized one critic. "Toweringly able...splendid...the show is crowned by the title performance," others agreed.

"I'm better known for playing goodies than baddies," reflects Ms. Tyzack, who nonetheless won an Emmy nomination for Cousin Bette, whom she describes as "an outrageous villain...what she wants, she gets."

What neglected poor relation Bette wants—and gets—is the annihilation of her wealthy, avaricious family, whose carnal and greedy appetites she plays upon to achieve revenge.

When last seen on Masterpiece Theatre, Ms. Tyzack was Antonia, mother of Claudius, a very good apple in the rotten, "I, Claudius," barrel. She was also Queen Anne in "The First Churchills," and Winifred Dartie in "The Forsyte Saga."

Antonia was highly civilized and very moral," says Ms. Tyzack. "Queen Anne was limited by the circumstances of her position in life. Winifred was the epitome of civilized, liberal reason and humor. But Bette...she was a monomaniac."

Has she ever played a comparable villain? Ms. Tyzack, trying to answer the question, rattled off her most recent roles. Then, triumphantly, she comes up with Queen Margaret in "Richard III." She played that ruined Queen at Stratford, Ontario, giving a performance of "molten passion" according to Time Magazine.

But don't misunderstand her. Margaret Tyzack still loves to play good people.

The impact of the media

by Chuck Bins

You don't have to look far to see the pervasive impact of the mass media on our lives. Through the media, we all shared in the anger and frustration of the hostage crisis in Iran, the exhilaration of the space shuttle's maiden voyage, the shock of two back-to-back assassination attempts and even the suspense of Who Shot J.R. The media amplifies such events, be they real or imaginary, and holds them up for all to see, and more importantly to feel!

Robert DeNiro's pensive expression hides an emotional volcano that exploded into a frenzy in "Taxi Driver." Did "Taxi Driver" motivate the attack on President Reagan?

We live in a society brimming with images and ideas. The newspapers, books and magazines we read; the concerts and movies we attend; the records and radio stations we listen to; the products we buy; and the programs we watch on television—all provide us with an endless stream of information and impressions. How we process that flow helps us define who we are, what topics are important, and to an extent, how we react to the world around us. Taken together, the media forms the cultural amalgam which binds society together.

Out of this media milieu, The Coalition for Better TV has zeroed in on network TV and is planning a boycott of advertisers who sponsor network shows with what the Coalition finds to be excessive sex, gratuitous violence or profanity. Of course, network television is only a part of the TV medium, which also includes PBS, independent stations, satellite and cable TV, and on another scale such things as closed-circuit TV, video players and recorders and big-screen TV.

We all watch TV in different situations, with different people for different reasons. Some watch a program because it is their favorite, some watch a program because that is the channel that is on and some watch because that channel gets the best reception. New figures show that the average home has the set on seven hours and two minutes each day, although people of different ages watch different amounts.

How all that TV watching affects us depends on many variables—age, education, economic status, social class, family structure, family communication, levels of self-esteem and frustration, program content and the involvement of the viewer with the characters and situations.

13 (62) FAITH FOR THE 80'S

Over 2,300 studies have examined whether TV programs cause violence, but the evidence is limited to demonstrating that certain attributes of a portrayal and the viewing situation increase the likelihood of an effect in some people. There can never be any certainty that a specific portrayal, however, will have a specific effect.

In general, correlation studies are fairly consistent in showing that people who exhibit aggressive behavior and attitudes prefer programs with aggressive content. To the extent that this is true, you have to wonder if a person's environment doesn't contribute as much, or more, to aggressive behavior as the TV medium itself.

One percent inspiration

A number of recent violent acts seem to have drawn their inspiration from events portrayed on TV and in movies. John Hinckley Jr.'s fascination with Jodie Foster, who starred in the movie "Taxi Driver" is well-known. In the film, Travis Bickle (portrayed by Robert DeNiro) writes a letter to a 12-year-old prostitute (portrayed by Jodie Foster) shortly before stalking a U.S. Senator with a gun.

ABC premiered the film on network TV in 1979. (Incidentally, the Australian Television Tribunal banned the film from the country shortly after the attack on President Reagan.)

Some other violent incidents:

- In 1978, after the release of "The Deer Hunter," at least three people killed themselves while playing Russian Roulette, a prominent theme in the Academy-Award winning film.

- In 1973, six youths immolated a 24-year-old Boston woman after forcing her to douse herself with gasoline. A similar event was depicted several days earlier in ABC's airing of the movie "The Fuzz."

- In 1974, a 9-year-old girl was savagely attacked by three girls with a beer bottle on a San Francisco beach. Four days earlier, the TV movie "Born Innocent" showed a runaway teen-ager being sexually assaulted with the handle of a plunger. NBC-TV and KRON-TV/San Francisco were sued for $11 million, but the judge ruled that the plaintiff would have to prove that the network intentionally incited the act. An appeal is pending.

- In 1977, attorneys for a 15-year-old Miami youth accused of killing an elderly neighbor argued that he had been driven temporarily insane by watching violent TV programs. The jury rejected that defense and sentenced Ronnie Zamora to 25 years in prison. His attorneys have since filed a $25 million suit against the three networks in federal court. The case is pending.

The courts have traditionally rejected the argument that a given work can be censored or its creator made to pay damages simply because some people may react to it violently. It is the person, and the person alone, who improperly channels that information into an aggressive act. Convicted mass murderer Charles Manson misconstrued the Bible and lyrics to the Beatles' songs to rationalize his heinous crimes, but we do not blame the Bible or the Beatles for his actions.

Director Michael Winner, known for such violent films as "The Mechanic," "Stone Killer" and "Death Wish," summed it up this way: "From the caveman days to today, there have always been violent times. You can't say the Middle Ages weren't violent, before TV or films, so where do you put the blame then—oil paintings and books?"

If anything, there is a correlation between media and reduction of violence. Rates of violence have fluctuated over this century, however, they seem to have declined considerably since the 19th Century before the electronic mass media were invented.

Mark Shaw, a criminal defense attorney turned TV reporter said, "From practicing law I've seen that all people have a propensity for violence. It's in there. The people who get into trouble are the ones who can't handle a certain pressure point."

Since it is impossible to determine beforehand how any particular violent scene depicted on TV might affect a violence-prone individual, it is easy to jump to the conclusion that all violence on TV should be banned. However, the threshold for violence resides with the individual and not in the program content. Frustrated people could just as easily be triggered to violence by someone pushing them on the subway or a cashier giving them the wrong change.

Because research has shown that some people may emulate crimes they have seen on television, the networks always try to avoid the instructional details of a crime. Also, according to the NAB Code, programs involving violence should always present the consequences of it to its victims and perpetrators.

An increasing number of studies are examining TV's ability to reinforce such aspects of behavior as sharing, helping, sympathy and cooperation. While the Coalition for Better TV may have a point about the increase in sex, violence and profanity in network programs, its attack conveniently overlooks these beneficial effects. At the other extreme, hard-hitting docu-dramas like "Guyana Tragedy: The Story of Jim Jones" and mini-series like "Masada" and "Shogun" would have gone limp if overly sanitized, and the ability of these shows to raise our national conscience should transcend any content the Coalition might deem offensive.

Next week, this column will examine the effects of TV on children.

The courts have traditionally rejected the argument that a given work can be censored or its creator made to pay damages simply because some people may react to it violently. It is the person, and the person alone, who improperly channels that information into an aggressive act. Convicted mass murderer Charles Manson misconstrued the Bible and lyrics to the Beatles' songs to rationalize his heinous crimes, but we do not blame the Bible or the Beatles for his actions.

Director Michael Winner, known for such violent films as "The Mechanic," "Stone Killer" and "Death Wish," summed it up this way: "From the caveman days to today, there have always been violent times. You can't say the Middle Ages weren't violent, before TV or films, so where do you put the blame then—oil paintings and books?"

If anything, there is a correlation between media and reduction of violence. Rates of violence have fluctuated over this century, however, they seem to have declined considerably since the 19th Century before the electronic mass media were invented.

Mark Shaw, a criminal defense attorney turned TV reporter said, "From practicing law I've seen that all people have a propensity for violence. It's in there. The people who get into trouble are the ones who can't handle a certain pressure point."

Since it is impossible to determine beforehand how any particular violent scene depicted on TV might affect a violent-prone individual, it is easy to jump to the conclusion that all violence on TV should be banned. However, the threshold for violence resides with the individual and not in the program content. Frustrated people could just as easily be triggered to violence by someone pushing them on the subway or a cashier giving them the wrong change.

Because research has shown that some people may emulate crimes they have seen on television, the networks always try to avoid the instructional details of a crime. Also, according to the NAB Code, programs involving violence should always present the consequences of it to its victims and perpetrators.

An increasing number of studies are examining TV's ability to reinforce such aspects of behavior as sharing, helping, sympathy and cooperation. While the Coalition for Better TV may have a point about the increase in sex, violence and profanity in network programs, its attack conveniently overlooks these beneficial effects. At the other extreme, hard-hitting docu-dramas like "Guyana Tragedy: The Story of Jim Jones" and mini-series like "Masada" and "Shogun" would have gone limp if overly sanitized, and the ability of these shows to raise our national conscience should transcend any content the Coalition might deem offensive.

Next week, this column will examine the effects of TV on children.

Behind the Scenes

How they make him fly

A few months after Stephen Cannell, creator and executive producer of ABC-TV's "The Greatest American Hero," asked the burning question, "Can you make the guy fly?," actor William Katt, who plays reluctant hero Ralph, spent five working days dangling in the air while a space-age camera twisted around him. To achieve the illusion of flying, Cannell turned to Magicam, a special visual effects house in Hollywood that welcomed the chance to extend the state of the art.

Aerodynamically, our hero Ralph is a failure. In his first attempt to fly, he careens down a cluttered alley, barely skimming over the rooftops and scraping around a brick wall before he finally crashes into a building.

William Katt

The first step in filming this sequence was to film the background plates. In this case, a camera crew went to Pasadena to film a trash-filled alley. A computerized camera zoomed out and panned up the alley as if to follow Ralph in the first moments of his flight. The camera moves were recorded into a computer terminal to be duplicated later in the studio. The other harrowing parts of Ralph's first flight were filmed using an exact miniature replica of the alley. Under controlled conditions, matching the daylight in the Pasadena alley, the camera crew spent two days flying a special lens through the miniature alley to assimilate Ralph's flight from various points of view.

The final filming step took place on Stage 29 at Paramount where a blue screen completely filled the stage. The computerized camera, using the same movements filmed in the real alley in Pasadena, followed William Katt, dressed in his red flying suit, as he took his three steps and with the aid of a pulley system leaped into the air. The first sequence was complete. The perspective of the camera movements in the studio matched the camera movements in the original background plate perfectly.

The completed plates of the alley background and Katt against the blue screen were then wed in a process called electronic composite printing. To complete this task, Magicam used a custom process projector to record the two pieces of film on a high-resolution video tape. This high quality composite image was then transferred back to film. The completed flying sequences were now ready to be integrated into the master print for final editing for the two-hour premiere of "The Greatest American Hero."

When it appeared on television, Ralph's first flight down the alley lasted 15 seconds.

CableView

By Appointment

The opening night premiere of Bravo (last December) featured Carnegie Hall's birthday tribute to composer Aaron Copland. Copland, who celebrated his 80th birthday last November, is seen here narrating his "Lincoln Portrait" accompanied by the American Symphony Orchestra. Leonard Bernstein is conducting.

Bravo, the first pay cable service devoted exclusively to the performing arts, provides some of the most intellectual programming ever to be seen on television. And, in addition to the enlightening events in opera, symphony and dance, Bravo offers the first cultural news program, "Bravo News-update," a five to eight minute news segment anchored by noted arts critic, Leonard Harris.

Bravo zeroes in on the arts

"It's like any news show. It has an anchor and uses video tapes," Harris explains. "I'm just unlike most anchormen. Midway in my eight years at WCBS news, 'happy talk' took over. They regarded me as too academic. I wasn't appealing to their mass audience. I could have gone back to commercial TV but I didn't want to. I've been involved so much with culture and the arts community I've known the people for years. I know almost everyone who appears on "Bravo News-update," and I re-write the material to suit me. To people like me, that's the beauty of cable."

"I think cable is ideal for cultural channels. The advantage of cable is that it finds those who are interested and caters to them. There are those who want to see culture, and we can satisfy that need. That's what narrowcasting is. People pay for our service and we're geared to this particular audience. There's a great cultural awareness within the Bravo audience, a level of sophistication and knowledge. We have a very good response to Bravo—they all love it! I know we're working for an audience that's already sold on what we're doing."

This month, Len Harris will also host "Bravo Magazine," the only on-air video magazine program for the arts. For this month's show, Bravo goes to Boston to highlight the cultural activity of the entire city. This special edition features segments on the Opera Company of Boston and the Boston Ballet. The look at Boston's cultural arena will also include inside talks with important people who shape the Boston arts scene.

We need your help.

We are having a serious problem with our drainage system in the main kennel and annex. Due to an overload on our septic tanks which results in flooding of the shelter we must hook up to the city sewer system. This will cost money! Many of our animals were forced to stand in the water, several became ill and some died. We cannot let this continue but we cannot do anything without your financial help. Won't you please help us so that we may continue to serve the Wayne and Oakland counties. Thank you. The Oakland Humane Society, 38788 Mound Road, Sterling Heights, MI 48077.
