

Neighbors await final ruling on group home

By Susan McDonald

Their attorney says "it isn't over yet," but the residents of Bedford Road are enjoying the victory they won last week in circuit court over the state's attempts to move six retarded citizens into what is reportedly the most expensive group home in the state.

Judge Robert Colombo last week ruled the $2,100 monthly lease between the state and homeowner Andrew Barrer was "null and void" because of possible conflict of interest and state violation of its own guidelines for setting up group homes.

The opinion, issued Aug. 4, is not a formal order—yet. Attorneys representing the Department of Mental Health still have a chance to appeal, but so far they have given no indication they will do so.

"My own personal opinion is that the lawyers for the state would just as soon see this one die," Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Colombo said this week.

Assistant Attorney General Thomas Wheeler, who handled Mental Health's defense, could not be reached for comment and did not return phone calls from a News reporter. Another assistant attorney general, George McCargar, who represented the department at the July 16 hearing, said he did not know if there would be an appeal.

The only person who appears certain at this point that the state will pursue its defense is the homeowner himself, Dr. Barrer, who bought the house on Bedford last summer and has since moved to a Lakeshore carriage house.

"The state has a responsibility to the public to appeal this ruling. If they don't I'll take action to protect my interests," Barrer said in a phone interview.

BARRER ADDED he believes Judge Colombo overstepped his authority by throwing the lease out because Barrer, a psychologist, still has a contractual relationship with the department of Mental Health.

"I don't know how they can do this to me. I am self employed and contract my services to a non-profit agency which in turn has contracts with the department," Barrer said. "Even a school teacher is a contractor with the state, if you use (Colombo's) definition. And so is a doctor who takes Medicaid. Should they be excluded from the (group home) program?"

Pat Deck, one of the 29 Bedford neighbors who launched and privately financed the suit against the state, said the group is "pleased, relieved and gratified" at the ruling.

"It took a lot of courage for Judge Colombo to make this decision, in light of the fact there have been so few rulings in residents' favor in the past. It's gratifying from the point of view as taxpayers, even though it's unfortunate it had to go this far," Mrs. Deck said.

In his seven-page opinion, Judge Colombo ordered Mental Health to stop paying rent to Barrer, a former Mental Health employe, and enjoined the state from issuing any other group home licenses in Grosse Pointe until it is in "compliance with its own rules and regulations." He also criticized the defendants for their apparent "disregard for the public taxpayers' funds and the duty to zealously protect the public interest at a time when the state's finances are severely strapped."

The "rules and regulations" Judge Colombo referred to are aimed at informing communities about the nature and purpose of the community placement program, which was ordered by a Federal court in response to a suit brought by the Michigan Association for Retarded Citizens.

UNDER THE federal court order, the state must move hundreds of mentally handicapped individuals into home-like community settings by 1983. The Bedford Road home, Grosse Pointe's first, would house six severely to profoundly retarded persons who are currently residents of the Plymouth Center for Human Development. Such homes have faced hostile opposition in suburban neighborhoods across southeastern Michigan, and most suits against them have failed to stop placement. But, as attorney for the Bedford neighbors, Pieter vanHorne, pointed out, none of the communities had sued the Department of Mental Health before the Bedford case.

"In a way, it's too bad the way this case worked out," vanHorne said. "As Christians, we all realize we have a responsibility to be our brother's keeper, and this program is a good example. The problem was it just didn't demonstrate fair play. And the East Area Campfire Girls worked to get this State Historic marker posted at 16109 Three Mile Drive, at the corner of E. Jefferson Avenue. Proclaimed the oldest brick house in Grosse Pointe, perhaps the oldest in southeast Michigan, the "Wardwell House" is believed to have been built around 1849, by farmer William Buck. The property upon which the building stands has official land claim records as far back as 1802. Originally two separate buildings now joined, one used for grain storage and the other as a residence, the house has undergone many structural changes throughout the years. Formal dedication of the marker and a tour of the house will be held on Saturday morning, Sept. 26. For more information, see story on Page 3A.

WARDWELL HOUSE
William Buck, an English immigrant farmer, built the main part of this house around 1849. It has fourteen-inch thick walls and is the oldest brick house in Grosse Pointe. The rear clapboard addition, built elsewhere, dates from the 1880s. Henry Russel, an attorney and lawyer, bought the house in 1912. It became the home of his daughter, Helen Wardwell, and her husband, Harold. She lived here for sixty-five years. In 1977, the property was acquired by the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church as a bequest of Helen Wardwell.

Schools, teachers agree on opening day, little else

Tentative agreement has been reached between negotiators for Grosse Pointe teachers and school administrators as to when the system's more than 8,000 students will head back to the classroom this fall.

Assistant to the superintendent for community services, Carl Schoessel, said last week that Tuesday, Sept. 8, has been tentatively established as the back to work day for teachers and Wednesday, Sept. 9, as the first full day of school for students.

Teacher contract talks resumed Tuesday. The current two-year contract between the system and the Grosse Pointe Education Association—Local 1, expires at the end of this month.

Union and management bargaining teams are keeping quiet about issues involved in this year's negotiations. Local union president Curt Lange said no tentative agreements have been reached on significant issues, including the remaining school calendar.

"WE'RE CLOSE ON a few minor issues. Right now no major problem issues that would be an obstacle to settlement have surfaced," Lange said. "It is possible to wrap it up by the end of this month. But there's a lot of hard bargaining ahead of us."

Lange would not comment on the union's request for pay increases or other proposals it has on the table.

After tentative agreements are reached in the Grosse Pointe talks, they will be sent to the unified bargaining council of Local 1, representing 16 other school districts in Wayne and Macomb counties along with Grosse Pointe. Fifteen Local 1 districts are currently negotiating contracts.

The council was formed in 1978 to strengthen union positions at the bargaining table. The Grosse Pointe

Board of Education earlier this year joined a "Local 1 Facilitator" which is acting as a clearinghouse for information on bargaining strategies and settlements in other Local 1 districts.

The 4,000-member Local 1 has scheduled a press conference at Bennett's Restaurant in Mt. Clemens on Tuesday, Aug. 18, to discuss the group's goals for the coming year.

In 1978 Grosse Pointe teachers agreed to a two-year contract calling for 9 percent pay increase each year.

Board considers new goals for 1981-82

By Joanne Gouleche

Physical education, guidance and counseling services, languages, long-range financial planning and even the development of a planetarium are on the list of the Grosse Pointe School System's goals for the 1981-82 school year.

School Supt. Ken Brummel presented the school board Aug. 3 with a draft of 14 goals and emphasized they do not reflect overall general objectives, but instead address specific problems facing Grosse Pointe schools.

"The proposed annual goals for the board of education may appear slightly different than in previous years in that the administration is proposing goals which reflect concerns or new directions as expressed by staff members and/or members of the board. They do not include on going responsibilities of our day-to-day operation," Brummel said.

The new superintendent, who stepped into his post July 1, said he was especially interested in becoming involved in one goal — to improve staff morale. "I like to take part in it personally. I hope the board will adopt it as a good faith statement (to employees)," he said.

Initial board reaction was favorable to the goals ranging from a study of the language arts program, a study of the middle school program to a recommendation for summer tax collections and developing plans for energy conservation.

"I think it's commendable that in a short period of time you have identified these goals," Trustee Ron Dalby said.

Trustee Dorothy Kennel added, "I am pleased. These are good goals."

With regard to a goal of future organization of the school system, Brummel told board members the schools will have to take a "careful look" at the system's building utilization in light of declining enrollment.

Brummel said it's possible a citizen group and board members will meet to address enrollment declines.

The Board is expected to approve the goals at its regular meeting in September. Following is a list and brief summary of the goals prepared by the school administration:

- Conduct a study of the future organization of the school system. This study will lead to the adoption of a long-range plan for the operation of the school system. It will include a projection of the cost of maintaining the present plan of organization, and will investigate alternative plans for organization from the point of view of cost, the educational program, and community acceptance. A progress report will be received by the Board in the spring of 1982.

- Conduct a study of the language arts program, K-12. This study is planned as part of the five-year cycle to review areas of the instructional program. It will include a review of

One family's dream boat

51 feet of beauty sails the lakes

By Tom Greenwood

The Leverenz family has a new baby. Born in Taiwan, she's now two years old and lives at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. "She" is the "Pride of the Great Lakes," a 51-foot, 60,000 pound ketch that catches everyone's eye when she sails Lake St. Clair.

Carrying 1,600 square feet of sail, the double masted boat reminds many of the more romantically and swash-buckling inclined of pirate ships. The resemblance is easy to understand. Although she carries a fiberglass hull, everything else on board is wood.

The decks, wheel and cabin house are all made of a rich, root-beer colored teak. Below decks, the fore and aft cabins, sitting room, and galley are also of teak. She boasts two showers, marble sinks and hand carved doors. The galley is equipped with a refrigerator, freezer, sink and a bottled natural gas stove.

The two masts, which seem to stretch to the sun, are constructed of sika spruce, the class wood for masts and spars.

"PEOPLE ARE always amazed when they learn the boat is only two years old," said Jack Leverenz, master of the Pride of the Great Lakes. "Because of the heavy use of wood, and the design of the ship, most people assume it's alot older."

A native Grosse Pointer and a life long sailor, Leverenz considers himself a lucky man. "My avocation became my vocation," he said with a smile.

"I grew up on sailboats as a child, and now I make my living with them."

Leverenz is founder of the Jack Leverenz Great Lakes Sailing School, with franchises here and in Florida. "We utilize 10 sailboats to teach our students, and we have four more due to be delivered this fall," said Leverenz. "The Florida School is located in Punta Gorda, which ironically enough, is the Spanish name equivalent of Grosse Pointe."

For the past 12 years, Leverenz has also been the promoter of the Great Lakes Sailboat Show and the Midwest Powerboat Show. (scheduled this year for Sept. 23-27 and Oct. 1-4 respectively.) The in-water sailboat show is the second oldest of its kind in the U.S.

Not surprisingly, the "Pride of the Great Lakes" is the largest sailboat the Leverenz family, (which includes wife Audrey, and children John, Susan, Sally and Amy), has ever owned.

"We worked our way up in size as time went along," said Leverenz, a husky man with the deep tan of the dedicated sailor. "We've always tried to make this a family affair. The ship is not just for looks. We take her out every week. If not the entire family, then Audrey and myself."

Although the boat is huge, (requiring a 65-foot turning diameter), she can be sailed by one person with the aid of unique roller furling sail equipment. "Even though she sleeps 12, many times you don't have a full compliment ready to go out with you," said Leverenz. "But a ship like this should be sailed, so we'll often cruise by ourselves. Many times you'll see beautiful boats here at the club that are never used," said Leverenz, sweeping his hand across the GPYC marina.

"It's sad but true that many are bought just for looks."

The boat was constructed in Taiwan and shipped by freighter to Detroit, where it was unloaded in back of the RenCen. Total cost was between $200,000 and $300,000.

Berthed at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, the "Pride of the Great Lakes" has become a second home to Jack and Audrey Leverenz, of Bishop Road. The 51-foot ketch weighs 60,000 pounds and was constructed to their specifications in Taiwan.

Candidates are lining up for Nov. 3 election

By Gregory Jakub

So far only two candidates have filed nominating petitions in Grosse Pointe Woods for mayor and three council seats that will be filled in the Nov. 3 election. Filing deadline is Sept. 14.

Mayor George Freeman will seek a second term and so far has no opposition. A possible competitor for the mayor's seat is 22-year-old Tim Mucciante who has filed to run for council.

But according to Mucciante's campaign manager Ed Peabody, Mucciante is also completing petitions for mayor and will file those if Freeman is not challenged by another candidate.

Other councilmen whose terms expire this year are John Sabol, Thomas Fahrner and Daniel Grady. Only Sabol and Fahrner have picked up nominating petitions for re-election.

Sabol, who is also mayor pro-tem, was a former planning commissioner first elected to the council in 1973 and re-elected in 1977.

FARNER, ALSO a former planning commissioner, was elected to his first council term in 1977. Grady was appointed to the council in March, 1977 to fill the remainder of Councilman Conrad Naegel's term. Grady was elected to a full council term in November, 1977.

Grosse Pointe School Board member Catherine Brierly has also picked up a council petition but not for herself. She said it is for a candidate who has not yet decided if he wants to

NWA expands scope

A new clearinghouse operation is aiding anti-crime cooperation between citizens and law enforcement officials.

The National Neighborhood Watch Association is expanding and strengthening the community crime prevention programs by working with member citizens and neighborhood groups.

The non-profit citizens' organization is designed to draw on advice, materials, and services of security experts. It emphasizes public awareness, crime prevention education, and community cooperation.

"The information is there, but it isn't reaching the people," says Ronald L. Hyden, NWA president. "Police and security experts are as concerned about street crime as the citizens. But their techniques go to waste when they aren't used by the people who need them."

Crime analysts have credited neighborhood watch groups with reducing crime and improving cooperation between citizens and officials in communities throughout the nation. Chief Justice Warren Burger defended the positive contribution of such programs when he contrasted them recently with outbreaks of vigilantism.

"Watch groups have shown what the people can do working together with their local officials," agrees Hyden. "But volunteers are handicapped by limited local resources, and lack of contact with other neighborhoods that have already solved similar problems."

The NWA clearinghouse will provide members and community minded organizations and firms with crime prevention materials, information exchange and other problem-solving services. A membership campaign is under way to identify existing watch groups that need information and assistance, as well as encourage new neighborhood projects.

Need for local crime prevention aid has increased since funds for the federal Neighborhood Watch Program were withdrawn from the Carter Administration budget. Although NWA is recently formed and dependent on dues and contributions, Hyden hopes to focus public awareness quickly.

Citizens interested or involved in crime prevention efforts may obtain information from National Neighborhood Watch Association, Post Office Box 17400, Washington, D.C. 20041, or by calling (703) 471-0404.

Michigan freeway names salute famous persons

Highways bearing the names of auto pioneers, explorers, war veterans, politicians and other famous persons crisscross the Michigan map, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Freeways in Detroit, Flint and Lansing carry the names of well-known auto industry pioneers.

Walter P. Chrysler, whose name adorns I-75 from Eight Mile Road to downtown Detroit, began his career as a railroad machinist. He joined the Buick Motor Co. became president and then formed his own corporation in 1935 with outside financial backing.

Three other Detroit-area freeways with automobile roots are the Edsel Ford (I-94), named after Henry Ford's only son; the Fisher (I-75 from downtown Detroit south to Outer Drive), named after the seven Fisher brothers who built car bodies, and Walter P. Reuther (I-696 from southeastern Oakland County to St. Clair Shores), named after the long-time president of the United Auto Workers.

Buick Freeway (I-475) in Flint honors David Dunbar Buick who helped invent the two-cylinder "valve-in-head" Buick engine.

Also in Flint is Dort Memorial Highway (Business Route M-54), named after J. Dallas Dort, and Chevrolet Freeway (M-21), named for Louis Chevrolet. Dort was an early business partner of William J. Durant, the man who later founded General Motors Co. Chevrolet was a member of Durant's famous Buick racing team and the designer of a six-cylinder, lightweight automobile which bears his name.

The Olds Freeway (I-496) in Lansing is named after Ransom E. Olds who founded Oldsmobile and Reo Motors. Politicians and public servants have their names placed on the map. Former U. S. President Gerald R. Ford has a stretch of I-196 from his hometown Grand Rapids to Holland named after him.

M-46 in Muskegon is Tom Bolt Memorial Highway in honor of the former state senator who also served on school, road and state tax commissions. Day Memorial Highway (M-22), which provides a 105-mile scenic tour through some small towns such as Leland in Leelanau County, was named for David H. Day, Michigan's first park commissioner in 1920.

Former state highway commissioners Horatio S. Earle and Frank F. Rogers have roads named after them. Earle, Michigan's first highway chief in 1905, has his name on M-53 which runs north from Macomb County through several Thumb communities including Bad Axe. M-28 in Marquette is named after Rogers.

Flipping the pages of history back hundreds of years will produce the names of three great explorers who are honored with highways.

Leif Erickson Memorial Highway (M-95 from the Wisconsin border through Iron Mountain) was named for the 11th century Norse explorer who is believed to have reached the shores of North America before Italian navigator Christopher Columbus.

Columbus is dually honored with two Michigan roads: M-102 (Eight Mile Road) and M-53 from Sterling Heights to Washington in Macomb County. Pere Marquette Memorial Highway (U. S. 31 along the western edge of the state) is named for the Jesuit missionary-explorer who died near Ludington in 1675.

Military buffs will have no trouble finding roads memorializing wars and veterans. A link of M-13 from Bay City to Saginaw is Veterans of World War I Highway. The entire length of I-75 is known as American Legion Memorial Highway.

In West Michigan, the Red Arrow Memorial Highway, which runs from the Michigan-Indiana border north through Benton Harbor, pays tribute to the 107th Combat Engineers of World Wars I and II.

The early settlers of the Lenawee County community of Hudson are honored with a portion of M-34.

Oldest brick house gets a marker

The East Area Camp Fire Girls, who have been working to preserve local history, recently sponsored a state historic marker which has been erected at the Wardwell House, 16109 East Jefferson, at Three Mile Drive. It is believed to be the oldest brick house in the Grosse Pointes.

The house was built upon part of a French ribbon farm whose earliest land claim records go back to 1802. Three Mile Drive was so named because the farm stretched for three miles from Lake St. Clair to Gratiot.

The text of the marker reads:

"William Buck, an English immigrant farmer, built the main part of this house around 1849. It has fourteen-inch thick walls and is the oldest brick house in Grosse Pointe. The rear clapboard addition, built elsewhere, dates from the 1880s. Henry Russel, an attorney and businessman, bought the house in 1901. In 1912 it became the home of his daughter, Helen Wardwell, and her husband Harold. She lived here for sixty-five years. In 1977 the property was acquired by the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church as a bequest of Helen Wardwell."

Tax bill to help home buyers

As many as 750,000 American families may have an easier time buying a home as a result of the funds that will flow into financial institutions because of the tax exempt savings certificates authorized by Congress this week, an area financial leader said recently.

Robert E. Powers, President of Colonial Federal Savings said the All Savers Act —effective Oct. 1—"should immediately start more funds flowing into savings and loan associations. That will shortly translate into more money for mortgages."

Powers, a member of the U.S. League of Savings Associations Legislative Committee, said passage of the new law (a part of the overall Tax Bill) resulted from a nationwide "grass roots" campaign.

"With the help of a lot of people who believe it's time savers got a real tax break, we persuaded Congress — and we won," was the way Powers described the effort to pass the law.

Under the bill, savers will be able to obtain special savings certificates that pay 70 percent of the yield on one-year Treasury Bills. Then they may deduct from income on their Federal tax returns up to $1,000 ($2,000 on joint returns) of the resulting interest.

Powers said congressional passage of the act "demonstrates a concern about the seeming abandonment of the housing priority by the government in recent years."

"Getting more money flowing into the housing stream," he said, "is particularly important when you consider how many people are out there trying to buy homes."

Schools say goodbye to three

The Board of Education cited three retiring Grosse Pointe school employees at its Aug. 10 meeting.

Monteith Elementary School teacher Irene Middleton will leave her kindergarten post after 34 years in the Grosse Pointe School System. Middleton taught in Roseville prior to her teaching career in Grosse Pointe.

During the 1947-48 school year, she taught at Vernier Elementary School followed by three years at Mason Elementary School. When Monteith school opened its doors in 1951, Middleton was there to greet the first kindergarten class and remained at that post for 30 years.

Middleton received her bachelors degree at Michigan State Normal College and a Master of Education degree at Wayne University.

Esther Chase, a general office worker at South High School since 1972, will leave her post to enjoy a life of traveling with her husband. Chase has served as the school's receptionist, assisting students, parents, staff and visitors.

Accounts payable clerk in the Department of Business Affairs, Mary Phillips, has submitted her resignation. Phillips has been a school system employee since 1968.

Pointe's share of gas tax revenue drops

Distribution of Michigan Department of Transportation funds were down $9,152 in the Grosse Pointes during the second quarter of 1981, from the same period of 1980, from $237,515 to $228,363. Only Grosse Pointe Shores received an increase in revenues of $908, from $13,859 to $14,767.

Gas tax revenues for Michigan's transportation systems are still dropping, producing 8.1 percent less in the second quarter of 1981 than in the same three months of 1980, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reported recently.

Weight tax (license plate) revenue went up 13.2 percent, but the increase merely reflected a leveling off of collections resulting from conversion of the expiration date of license plates from March 31 to the auto owner's birthday. In the previous quarter, weight tax income fell 42.8 percent from the January-March period last year. Second quarter receipts in the Michigan Transportation Fund totaled $166.92 million, down two-tenths of one percent from 1980. Through the first nine months of fiscal year 1980-81, which began last Oct. 1, revenue decreased 14.5 percent, dropping by $87.1 million to $515.34 million.

The decline is the result of reduced driving by both car and truck owners and the growth in the number of lighter-weight, more fuel-efficient vehicles.

Gas tax revenues in the April-June quarter declined by $8.81 million to $99.44 million. All motor fuel taxes yielded $102.83 million, a drop of $11.66 million, or 10.2 percent. Special taxes on diesel-powered trucks produced $6 million, offsetting the six-cent-a-gallon rebate available to owners of trucks of three or more axles.

Weight taxes yielded $49.36 million, an increase of $5.74 million, while other revenues, including interest earned, brought in $6.8 million, up by $267,000.

Collection costs and grants from the transportation fund, totaled $17.89 million, up 2.4 percent from last year. That left $149,031,919 available for distribution to the state, counties and the cities and other transportation programs, virtually the same as the $149,104,411 distributed at the same time in 1980.

The State Trunkline Fund for construction and maintenance of the state highway system will receive $56,731,855 as its 38.4 percent share of the fund, up by $53,155. State-financed public transportation and rail programs will receive $12,288,087 as their 8.3 percent portion, an increase of $11,046.

The 83 county road commissions will collect $51,488,896 as their 34.3 percent share, off by $98,490. The 522 incorporated cities and villages will receive $25,583,501 as their 19 percent share by $2,216.

Together, the state, counties and municipalities maintain more than 117,000 miles of highways, roads and streets.

As the crow flies If you wanted to cross the United States at its narrowest point from coast to coast, you would travel between Jacksonville, Fla. and San Diego, Calif., a distance of about 2,200 miles.

51 feet of beauty sails the Great Lakes

 So far, the "Pride of the Great Lakes" has stayed pretty much confined to the Great Lakes. Leverenz has no plans to sail her down to Florida, where he and Audrey spend a great deal of their time during the winter.

"That's a four week trip each way," said Leverenz. "She's a great cruising ship, but I have no desire to spend two months of every year guiding it through canals between here and Florida."

The South Pacific holds no allure for Leverenz. "That ocean is just too far away," he said with a grin. "Besides, the thing is 5,000 miles across. While I love sailing, I'm basically a conservative person, and not a boat bum."

ONE TRIP THAT does intrigue him is sailing her to England some summer. "That could be a lot of fun," he said. "Accompanied by good friends, each with a special talent. One who's an engine man, another good in navigation and another who can really cook. That would be an adventure."

Another trip Jack and Audrey do look forward to every year is a cruise with friends to the Grenadine Islands, just above the coast of Venezuela. Living on board ship for weeks at a time, the group stops at numerous out-islands, making new friends, visiting old ones and living off the sea.

"Since we visit some of the more remote islands, we've developed special relationships with many of the people down there," said Leverenz. "We bring them small gifts every year and re-establish old friendships. Audrey helped deliver a baby once, and now has an eight-year-old Godchild living on one of the islands."

However, sometimes things get a bit hectic on the yearly cruise. One winter they sailed through a revolution on Grenada that eventually saw the tiny Caribbean nation fall under communist rule.

"There were Cuban soldiers all over the islands," said Leverenz. "They boarded us to search the ship. The funny thing is, they would hand you their automatic weapons to hold while they were climbing around. Fortunately, nothing ever came of the searches."

The "Pride of the Great Lakes" is the ship of the Leverenz family's dreams-for now.

"The trick to boats is to have the ship of your dreams and needs at the right time," said Leverenz. "Too many families dream of the perfect boat but get it at the wrong time.

They buy the big boat when the family is grown and moved away, or purchase a smaller boat when the family is young. Every boat is a compromise, and the correct boat can open doors to a new existence for everyone. The trick is to do it right and do it now."

With the end of summer just around the corner, the sailing season has just a couple months left before the ships hibernate till next spring. Tall and beautiful, the "Pride of the Great Lakes" will wait patiently, knowing all the while that she's also the class of the Great Lakes.

Candidates line up for Nov. 4 in Woods, Farms, City

 seek a council post. Brierly said she could not name the potential candidate but said she would campaign for him if he decides to run.

Councilman Frederick Lovelace whose term expires in November, 1983 said he will run for mayor that year. He said he hopes to be appointed mayor pro-tem this year and use that post as springboard. Councilman Sabol's current mayor pro-tem term expires this year.

Another possible challenge to Mayor Freeman may come from a candidate backed by the Woods Boat Club, according to club spokesman Larry Sullivan. Sullivan said the club has been trying to find a suitable candidate to run on platform based on strong leadership.

"We're definitely planning to support and back a candidate who demonstrates leadership rather than special interests," Sullivan said.

"We're very disappointed with Freeman in terms of leadership," he added.

Sullivan said the Boat Club is also looking for a candidate who can help it resolve boating issues but is more interested in leadership abilities on a broader scale.

IN THE FARMS, council seats held by Jack Cudlip, Joseph L. Fromm, Gail Kaess and Nancy Waugaman and the $5,000 a year Municipal Judge post held by Robert H. Pytell are up for grabs in November.

All four Farms incumbents filed petitions to run for re-election this summer. They'll have competition from a former councilman James Mast, who stepped down after serving as mayor pro-tem two years ago, and newcomer Andrew Dahl, 38, of Elm Court.

Judge Pytell will face off for the third time against attorney Anthony Penta, 38, of McKinley Avenue.

In the City, petitions for office also are due Oct. 10. Councilmembers George D. Henry, Robert Nugent and William Montgomery are up for re-election. Mayor David Robb.

State Bar endorses readability law

Consumers will see the terms of their contracts and purchase agreements written in clear, simple words, if the Michigan Legislature approves a proposed "plain English" law.

Bills now in Senate committees are being supported by the State Bar of Michigan substantially in the form they passed the House.

House Bills 4147 and 4197, introduced by Rep. Nick Ciaramitaro, a Roseville Democrat, require consumer leases and purchase agreements to be written in plain language.

Further they state consumer contract forms must meet standards of readability. Therefore, a new financial agreements, insurance policies or bank loan applications, which fail a readability test, will draw penalties.

The shift to plain language should bring word-changes such as "declare" for "deem," "since" for "inasmuch," "previous" for "aforesaid," "year" for "annum," and "because" for "by virtue of."

Previous plain English bills have died in the Michigan legislature. However, this year, the State Bar (which represents 20,000 lawyers) is actively supporting a plain language law. This is significant since the legal profession has often been criticized for awkward wording in consumer contracts.

Attorney Irwin M. Alterman, of Southfield, chairperson of the State Bar's special Committee on Plain English, explains, "Simplifying the language in consumer contracts can make the terms understandable to all persons. Simple English is no threat to complex ideas, which may be necessary in the contract."

"Clear explanations of agreement terms," Alterman added, "are not a threat to business transactions, and certainly not a threat to lawyers."

Alterman offered a random example, from a contract, of the type of difficult English the State Bar wants eliminated by the plain English law.

"The seller's acceptance of any installment or payment after it or the full amount may have become due and payable hereunder shall not be deemed to alter or affect the buyer's obligations or the seller's rights hereunder with respect to any subsequent payment or defaults therein, nor shall the seller's acceptance of any installments or payments after any other default hereunder be deemed to constitute a waiver of such other default."

Translated into plain English it might read:

"The seller can accept a late payment. If he does, that does not mean he will accept other late payments. The seller does not give up any other rights by accepting late payments."

Interest in plain English law gained attention in 1975 when Pennsylvania enacted legislation requiring that auto-insurance policies score a 40 on the Flesch Readability Scale. That scale, ranging from 0 to 100 for brevity and simplicity, was devised in 1943, by Language Expert Rudolf Flesch.

A score of 60, for example, indicates easy reading for a person with an eighth-to-ninth grade education. Random sampling of comic books on the Flesch Readability Scale shows high readability with a score of 92. Consumer magazine ads rate 82 and the Internal Revenue Code rates a minus 6.

Banks and insurance companies across the country have begun to write their personal loan agreements and insurance policies in simple language. Among some of the first, in 1975, were New York's First National City Bank, Nationwide Mutual Insurance Co., and Sentry Life Insurance.

In Michigan, plain English contract forms have been adapted by Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit and Michigan National Bank.

In President Gerald Ford's Administration, several federal laws, including the Pension Reform Act and the Warranty Law, insisted on "simple" written language.

Shores cool to Escapade?

More nudity, graphic violence, explicit sex, and foul language on the tube. That's what Shores residents can look forward to with the optional "Escapade" movie channel that will be available Oct. 1.

Escapade is an optional cable service being offered by Rainbow Programming of Chicago through Cox Cable Co. Cox Cable provides cable service to St. Clair Shores, Fraser, and Grosse Pointe Shores.

The new service is being billed as a "hard R rated" movie channel. Rainbow says it won't show X rated films on the Escapade channel.

Weston Cox from Cox Cable said the firm has received "about 150 calls from the Fraser, St. Clair Shores, Grosse Pointe Shores areas asking about the new service."

According to Cox, "We have only had two complaints from area residents so far."

Escapade will operate only in the evening and late night, from 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. at a cost of $8.95 per month.

A telephone survey of several dozen Shores residents last week revealed little interest overall in Escapade—little "admitted" interest anyway.

A large number of those queried said they "don't care for television," or "are not interested in cable service."

Some Shores residents who said they had tried some of the "softer" optional movie channels such as HBO said they felt that the programming is unsuitable for young people.

A majority of those who responded said that although they are not interested in a service such as Escapade, they wouldn't interfere with other people's freedom of choice.

One person candidly said, "I can't believe they'd have it (Escapade) in Grosse Pointe."

Mike Reynolds, vice-president of Grosse Pointe Cable which supplies cable service to all the Pointes except the Shores, said that Teleprompter, the parent company, has a nation wide policy against X rated programming or anything that might be mistaken for X rated.

"We have no plans to offer any such service in the future," Reynolds said.

community.

Bauer said the state is still looking for homes in Grosse Pointe and last week began a series of meetings with local officials to explain the program. The meeting — at which the state's notification and appeal processes were explained — was held in Grosse Pointe Park.

Thomas Bayer, group home developer at the Plymouth Center, said this week he does not think the Bedford ruling will have a negative impact on the efforts to place residents in the community.

The coming season promises to be the most varied one we have done to date," said Lavinia Moyer, artistic director.

"We are planning a wide variety of performances ranging from classical drama in Shakespeare's 'Macbeth,' to the world premiere of Detroit playwright Julie Jensen's 'Cisterns,' she added.

Performances run Thurs-

Season tickets range from $36 to $54 and can be ordered by calling 963-7789. Mastercard and Visa are accepted for subscriptions, which should be ordered before Sept. 18.

Subscribers will enjoy guaranteed seating and advance notice of special Attic activities and presentations as well as discounts on meals and drinks at a number of nearby Greentown and Brick-town restaurants.

This season includes, "Macbeth," the Attic's first major Shakespearean drama (Sept. 18-October 31); "Watch On The Rhine" by Lillian Hellman, an American classic portraying an anti-Nazi German and his family who escape from Germany to America in 1940 (Nov. 6-Dec. 19) and "A Coupla White Chicks Sitting Around Talking" by John Ford Noonan, a Michigan premiere about the comedic relationship between a straightlaced suburban housewife and her new neighbor, a flamboyant ex-cheerleader (Jan. 8-Feb. 20). "Cisterns" by Julie Jensen in which two aging sisters create a fantasy-game world in the hills of Utah (Feb. 26-April 10); "Translations" by Brian Friel, set in Ireland in 1933, describing the English/Irish relations with romance, comedy and tragedy (April 16-May 29); "Talley's Folley" by Lanford Wilson, a funny and compassionate romance about a Jewish survivor of European anti-semitism and a reclusive spinster (June 4-July 17) and "The Diviners" by James Leonard.

The Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival's most successful 1981 season came to a close on Wednesday, Aug. 5, at the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium, with an outstanding performance by the festival's first piano competition winner, Stephanie Leon.

Miss Leon's playing was a clean-cut justification of why, out of 18 entrants, she was judged as the winner last spring. She is a serious player, with strong commitment. She demonstrated great technique and power throughout her demanding program which included: Haydn's Sonata in E flat Major, Hob. XVI:52; Brahm's Fantasies, Op. 116, the Capriccio, No. 3, Intermezzo, No. 6, and Capriccio, No. 7; L'Isle Joyeuse by Debussy and Sonata in R Minor, Op. 58, by Chopin.

For an encore, Miss Leon played the "Rigaudon" from Ravel's Le Tombeau de Couperin Suite for the Piano. She also played the "Rigaudon" in a recent Grosse Pointe Cable TV filming, produced by Margaret Ann Behrends.

Wearing a violet gown, made by her mother, the poised and attractive Miss Leon remedied a too low piano bench by using a pillow. The evening's solo recital, the festival's annual Young Artist Debut Concert, was part of Leon's prize which also includes a solo performance with the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra on May 9, 1982, under Maestro Felix Resnick and an opportunity to audition next fall for Detroit Symphony Orchestra musical director Gary Bertini for a concerto performance with the orchestra.

Miss Leon received her earlier training at the Detroit Community School with Albert J. Filmore. She attended the National Music Camp at Interlochen Center for the Arts and the Red Fox Music Camp in Massachusetts. She is presently a student of Dr. Charles Fisher at the University of Michigan School of Music, where this fall she will be a senior. Miss Leon spent five weeks this summer at the Southern Vermont Music Festival studying with Eugene List. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Leon.

Before the recital, festival founder and artistic director Alexander C. Sucek thanked all for helping make the festival a success. An estimated 2,500 attended the series of five concerts. (Four were held in the Memorial's Fries Auditorium with a limited seating capacity of 509 and one was held outdoors).

Sucek related the importance and significance of the festival piano competition. "It provides a stimulus on how to compete and helps groom Michigan pianists." For anyone interested (ages 18 to 32), application forms for next year's competition will be available at the War Memorial office this September and the competition will be held in April of next year. Next year's plans are to offer a wider range of prizes which will also involve performance bookings.

Sucek also made a surprise announcement in behalf of retiring Memorial executive director John W. Lake, who has been the festival's guiding force for 24 years.

Two beautiful sets of color pictorial prints of the War Memorial were made available and designated to be placed in the War Memorial Association archives in honor of Mr. Lake. A set of 13 prints were done by Kay Welchenbach, official photographer for the War Memorial. A contribution of a set of 15 prints were made to the Summer Music Festival by Barbara McClellan, picture editor at The Detroit News. The photography was done by chief photographer Joseph Wiedelman for "The Great House" story by Irene Olejniczak Moran which appeared in the Sunday Magazine on Sept. 21, 1980. Mr. Lake, seated in the audience, was acknowledged by Alexander Sucek.

The prints were displayed in the Crystal Ballroom for a sneak preview during the reception. Actually, Welchenbach's photography was exhibited in the Grosse Pointe Library and will be exhibited in the Detroit Public Library for the festival's 25th anniversary celebration. This is being made possible through the efforts of Jim Dance, coordinator of public relations for the Detroit Public Library.

The music festival, a self-supporting community project, is one of the summer activities sponsored by the War Memorial Association.

This season's list of contributions includes: Colonial Federal Savings, Detroitbank Corporation, Edmund T. Ahee Jewelry Co., Grosse Pointe Florists, Inc., the Grosse Pointe Public Library, the Public School System, Jacobson's, Margaret Diamond Shop, Michigan National Bank—Grosse Pointe, Nugget Fine Foods, Thomas

Petit — Pianoworks, Shorewood E. R. Brown Realty and Village Records and Tapes. Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford, general chairman, looks forward to her fifth season as chairman next summer.

A reception in honor of Miss Leon followed the concert in the Fries Crystal Ballroom. A flowery welcome was arranged by reception chairman Mrs. Lyndie R. Martin.

While sipping on cool fruit punch, remarks on the Leon performance were glowing. "I thought she was fantastic! — she's matured so since her performance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra four years ago, when she played for the Education Series for the Detroit Public Schools," said Ollie McFarland, music director for the Detroit Public Schools.

Mark R. Weber, incoming War Memorial executive director, remarked, "I thought she was just marvelous. It's the first Festival concert I've had the opportunity to hear—I was taken back with the whole event."

At the reception, still holding her bouquet of flowers, given to her on stage by a young man, Stephanie remarked that this was the first time she ever played a full recital and that she was excited and thrilled about it, adding, "And just think — in my home-town"

Stephanie Leon made her Young Artist Debut at the War Memorial.

For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

When the National Council On Aging holds its 32nd Annual Conference in Washington in March, 1982, the theme will be The American Dream—Assessing the Status of Older America. It will encompass three major areas:

- Achieving Economic Security
- Assuring Quality of Life
- Creating Responsive Services.

These broad categories encompass the concerns of older Americans and their hopes for a brighter future.

On the question of economic security, retirement, pensions plans, the right to work, part-time work and the status of Social Security will undoubtedly be considered.

Social Security is one of the big issues today not only for retirees, but future retirees, their children and lawmakers. A great many people today are afraid there will be no program tomorrow. A recent survey showed that 74 percent of those polled believe the Social Security system will fold before they are entitled to receive benefits.

One problem is the over-extension of benefits. When Social Security was set up, it was implemented to pay only minimal benefits for workers who wished to retire at age 65.

It was a simple plan. Payroll taxes were collected from workers and transferred to pensioners. It worked for many years. As late as 1950, there were almost 17 Social Security taxpayers to support one retiree. That ratio has shrunk to three to one.

Looking at these facts, it becomes evident that to help salvage the system, it is necessary to slow down the increases in benefits. It is a painful solution because at the current rate of inflation monthly checks barely cover monthly expenses now.

However without some adjustments the system is in trouble.

There have been many proposals for revitalization of the program. Re-financing the entire system through general tax revision is one; provision for the transfer of funds from one trust fund to another, (the system currently operates with three separate funds: retirement, survivor, disability) is another. Still another is the 2 percent solution.

UNDER THIS PLAN the present level of assistance would not be cut but there would be a gradual slowing of grants for current and future retirees. Instead of receiving the entire rate of cost of living, they would receive 2 percent less. Thus if inflation raises the price level by 10 percent, benefits would increase by 8 percent. Experts in the field contend that placing a 2 percent floor under Social Security benefits would not greatly change the life-style of recipients but would keep the system solvent.

Obviously these are just a sampling of the alternatives that will be weighed, considered and improved upon during the conference.

The second area of considerations, considering the Quality of Life, is somewhat related to the first for without adequate means, life breaks down into a struggle for mere survival. However once life's basic necessities are taken care of, there remains a need for amenities that make life enjoyable.

The first and foremost need is for companionship. Those with husbands and children have that need taken care of. But there are those, widows and widowers, whose children may live in other areas of the country who spend many hours alone. Friends and church groups can be an answer to their loneliness. Over the years, senior centers have demonstrated their ability to enhance the physical, social and emotional well-being of large numbers of older persons. These centers are a place where older persons can come for a daily hot meal and the companionship and conversation that go along with it. They offer cards, exercise classes, lectures and other interesting pastimes such as those provided by the Food and Friendship program at Brownell and at the Neighborhood Club.

Since many of these programs depend on government grants, which are now being cut back, the conference might consider alternative financing such as a drive to encourage donations from private sectors. This

Carillon duet at Cranbrook

Christ Church Cranbrook's summer music series will be highlighted with a carillon duet Aug. 30, at 4 p.m., by carillonists William DeTurk and Beverly Buchanan from Grosse Pointe Memorial Church and Christ Church Cranbrook.

They will combine their musical talents in the first of three complimentary programs to be presented at Christ Church Cranbrook, The University of Michigan and Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

In their second annual duet performance, focus will be on "Concerto Grosso for Two to Play," a new composition by Ronald Barnes never before played in this area.

Also on the program will be musical clock tunes by Campra, Brahms, Handel and Mozart and patriotic selections "My Country 'tis of Thee," "God Bless America" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Ms. Buchanan, a member of the Guild of Carillonists in North America and chairman of its student advancement and music publication committees, and DeTurk, adjunct assistant professor of music at The University of Michigan, are internationally known performers. Their first duet concert last year attracted visitors from all over the state.

The carillon is best heard 200 feet from the church. Guests may listen to the concert from the lawn or their cars. Programs are at the front door of the church or across Lone Pine Road in the Cranbrook Gardens booth.

Immediately following at 5 p.m., there will be complimentary tours of Christ Church, which is nationally known as a fine example of modern Gothic architecture. Docents will describe art pieces, paintings and stained glass windows. Tours to the bell tower also will be included.

Christ Church Cranbrook, at Cranbrook and Lone Pine roads in Bloomfield Hills, is affiliated with Cranbrook Educational Community.

Board sets tuition rates

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education Monday approved a school administration request not to increase tuition rates for students entering the school system under special circumstances.

The board approved the following 1981-82 tuition schedule at 1980-81 levels:

- High school students — $250 per month
- Middle school students — $225 per month
- Elementary students — $200 per month

High school students completing their senior year — $200 per month for those who completed three full previous years in Grosse Pointe high schools and $255 per month for those who have less than three previous years in the high schools.

Administrators said they wished to continue an earlier commitment by the board "to ease the financial burden for incoming families and for students who will remain to complete their senior year."

Board accepts $500 gift

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education Monday accepted a $500 gift from the local committee group "Save Our Shops" to beautify South High School grounds with trees and shrubs.

The group organized last year to save Fisher Road shops, The Pointe Pedlar in particular, from plans by Detroitbank Corporation to open a new trust office in Grosse Pointe.

SOS spokesman Elaine Hartmann said after an unsuccessful campaign to defeat the bank's plans, the group wished to donate the balance of its funds to the school for general improvement of the school site.

Federal contracts open to businesses

Hoping to provide local business with a better opportunity to apply and obtain contracts for the nearly $100 billion in goods and services the federal government purchases each year from American companies, Congressman Dennis Hertel will sponsor a "Procurement Conference" at the Warren Chateau Hall, Friday, Sept. 11.

"The purpose of the one-day conference will be to help open the federal contracting process to small and medium-sized businesses and to afford a better opportunity to match intended government purchases with eligible private suppliers," Hertel said.

Hertel explained that he was prompted to sponsor the conference as a way of increasing the overall number of federal contracts applied for and awarded to firms in his own 14th Congressional District.

The first-term congressman, who serves on the Procurement Sub-committee of the House Armed Services Committee, said he felt the necessity to sponsor a Procurement Conference this fall based on:

- The $42 billion (21%) increase in Defense spending slated for 1981 and,

- The new $3.4 billion program established by Congress which prescribes that the federal government give special consideration to states with high unemployment in awarding contracts for non-combat defense supply items.

"Our best estimates suggest that states like Michigan which are suffering from excessive unemployment do not receive a fair share of federal government business — purchases and contracts which can create long-term, well-paying jobs in the private sector and I want to do what I can to change that situation," said Hertel.

"I realize that the average business owner, especially those who operate small businesses, can't possibly be on top of what is needed by the Armed Forces or other governmental agencies, because they do not have the resources or staff to pursue the information. The Procurement Conference is one way to make a sizable portion of the pertinent information and contact people available to them," he continued.

Hertel stated that he was very pleased to have the cooperation of so many local business organizations, companies and agencies in planning and presenting the conference. To date, the following groups have agreed to co-sponsor the conference: Chamber of Warren, Sterling Heights & Center Line, East Detroit Chamber of Commerce, East McNichols Business Association, East Warren Business Men's Association, Engineering Society of Detroit, Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and Hamtramck Chamber of Commerce.

Others include, Macomb County Chamber of Commerce, Macomb County Community College, Michigan Department of Commerce, OUR Chamber of Commerce, U.S. Department of Commerce, Van Dyke-Seven Mile Business Association, Inc., Wayne County Community College-

Austin Center and Whittier-Kelly-Hayes Business Association.

Among the participants involved in the conference presentation are Cadillac Gage Division of ExCello Corporation, Chrysler Corporation, Department of Defense, General Services Administration, Northeast Midwest Congressional Coalition, Small Business Administration, U.S. Army Tank-Automotive Command, United States Postal Service and Veteran's Administration.

Hertel explained that additional information about the conference, including registration procedures, could be obtained by contacting his district office at 892-4010. He also explained that a registration fee of $15 per participant had been set to cover materials and the luncheon to be provided at the Conference.

Coping with lung disease

How lung disease patients can conserve energy is the topic of the August meeting of the American Lung Association's Breathers' Club.

The meeting will be held at Georgian East Extended Care Facility, 21401 Mack, in the second floor lounge at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 18.

Rosalyn Petty, O.T.R., will discuss ways in which people suffering from emphysema and chronic bronchitis can make breathing easier by following a few simple steps to conserve energy.

The Breathers' Club is a self-support group for chronic lung disease victims and their families which meets the third Tuesday of the month. The program is designed to teach those suffering from emphysema and chronic bronchitis more about their disease and how to best cope with it in everyday living.

Seated between them is the guest of honor, Adele Ryder.

Burglars hit four in Woods

Although Woods police report burglaries are down 28 percent since last year, four breakings and entries were reported there last week.

On Wednesday, Aug. 5, a resident reported a front window broken out of a home where the occupant was out of town. Police investigation showed that the home was entered and all rooms searched. It was undetermined if anything was taken.

A home on Woods Lane was entered Thursday, Aug. 6 when someone climbed the front porch to a second floor window. The resident reported some silverware and a cable TV control box were taken.

On Friday, Aug. 7, a home on Lochmoor was entered after a window near a rear door was broken. The occupants were out of town and the entire home was ransacked. Jewelry including a $3,000 gold chain were reported missing.

Three Grosse Pointe teens were seen entering a garage on Dorthen on Sunday, Aug. 9 about 11:25 p.m. They were arrested a short while later.

Medicare helps renal victims

As most people know, Medicare coverage is available to persons age 65 or older. It also covers persons who have been receiving Social Security disability payments for two years or more. But did you know it covers a third group of individuals? The third group eligible for Medicare are those persons suffering from permanent kidney failure (chronic renal disease). Regardless of age, they can receive the same benefits from Medicare as those over 65 or disabled.

To be eligible for Medicare under the kidney disease provision of the law, a person must have worked enough in a job covered by social security or be the spouse or dependent child of a worker with enough social security credit. Only the family member with permanent kidney failure is eligible for this Medicare coverage.

Recently a young 12-year old boy came into the local Social Security Office with his parents. He was suffering from kidney failure. Medicare, based on his father's work record, was available to help with the cost of dialysis and eventually a kidney transplant. This boy benefitted from the same Medicare coverage as his 69-year old grandmother.

People can get full information on chronic renal disease or other Social Security programs at the local Social Security office at 17420 Mack Avenue or by calling the Social Security general information number at 483-1111.

WC food stamp issuance system is explained

"The new food stamp issuance system in Wayne County has caused some confusion on the part of recipients," says Robert L. Little, director of Wayne County Department of Social Services.

"The primary misunderstanding on the part of our clients is the interim procedure for obtaining food coupons during this first month of operation," Little said.

"During the start up period, three pieces of information are required for recipients to obtain food coupons," Little continued. "Though recipients were notified of this requirement, some have not adhered to the procedure and have been turned away from issuance sites."

"We have recipients reporting to food stamp sites without the paper authorization to participate (ATP) cards which we are continuing to require during the start up of the new system," Little said.

"The client must have the paper ATP card along with the new plastic card and a food stamp identification card. It also is advisable to have one other piece of identification such as a driver's license or birth certificate," he added.

Little said the paper ATP cards are being mailed from Lansing on the same schedule as in the past and should have begun reaching clients.

He emphasized that clients must wait until their assigned participation date before going to a food stamp issuance site. This is the same procedure as under the old system. The participation date matches the last number in a client's case number.

Clients whose case numbers end in zero will be able to participate between the 10th and final day of the month instead of on the first day as formerly.

Wayne is the first county in the state to adopt the new food stamp distribution system, Little said.

Additional information on the new system, food stamp sites and issuance hours may be obtained by calling the food stamp hot line, 256-3103, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Prime Time for Seniors

is in accordance with the philosophy that Americans as a people should become more self-reliant. Self-reliance involves a responsibility for the quality of our society and the well-being of our fellow-citizens.

THIS WOULD SEEM to apply to corporations which have been loudest in their demands for government to get out of their lives. Corporations can contribute to non-profit causes up to five percent of their taxable income which would be deductible for federal income tax purposes. Currently about one percent is contributed by fewer than one out of three firms for improving the quality of life for all Americans if that donation corporations. Billions could be realized if more than three percent and two out of three corporations made contributions.

At the present time 90 percent of the money contributed in the private sector is donated by individuals. A further incentive for giving could be realized by giving deductibility to contributors in lower tax brackets.

Such investments by those who have more in others who have less could pay off in dollars received and spent on services and in the end return to those who give in profits.

If such generosity were forthcoming it might be possible to enlarge programs for older persons so that pursuits other than just pastimes could be provided. Many senior citizens have been devotees of the arts throughout their lives. Because of limited incomes or transportation problems they are cut off from what was once an enjoyable segment of life.

In this community public libraries, the art museum and historical societies have made their program accessible by giving discounts to retirees. If tickets for concerts, plays and symphonies beyond the pocketbook of most older people were subsidized, it would add a whole new dimension to the lives of those who miss what they once enjoyed.

The third target of the conference, Creating Responsible Services, might take aim at consumer affairs. The retiree and dependents face the immediate prospect of a 30-50 percent reduction in income. The median income of older families is half that of younger families. Add inflation to this and the older American on a fixed income is caught in a spiral of "downward mobility."

Protection against fraud is one area where legislation requiring "Truth in Insurance," "Truth in Investments" and "Truth in Home Improvements" could help protect the assets seniors have. A campaign for better labeling of products is needed. Any older person who tries to read labels on cans and packages in supermarkets to determine contents and ingredients can tell you that the print on those containers should be much larger. Local demonstration projects which provide models for consumer education, advocacy legal assistance and advice to older consumers are also needed.

ANOTHER PROBLEM which deserves attention is crime. Statistically, older persons are no more likely to be victims of street crime than persons of other ages. Part of the reason for this is their self-imposed "low exposure." Many are afraid to go into their streets. Thus their lives are demeaned not only by actual crime against them but also by fear of crime.

If they do become victims of crime, they are more deeply affected. A slight injury to a younger person can be a serious one to someone who is older. It takes longer for them to recover from injuries and the shock of an attack. Loss of money can devastate an already low budget and possessions taken more often than not cannot be replaced.

Preventive measures against crime that might be considered include low-cost loans or direct subsidy programs at the community level to enable older homeowners to make their homes more secure; community action programs such as escort services, neighborhood patrols, telephone reinsurance, watch programs and basic education on crime prevention.

Transportation is another urgent need. Present transportation systems do not adequately serve the elderly, despite the importance of transportation in insuring access to vital services.

To improve the mobility of older persons, reduced fare programs locally and special discount fares on airlines, buses and railroads are necessary. Subsidized jitney systems, community volunteer drive programs or direct operation of such services by the local transit authority would help social service, welfare or health programs.

The high cost of energy is a problem to all consumers but particularly to senior citizens. While the average family spends about 10 percent of its income on home-energy costs, older citizens spend more than one-third of their much less disposable income.

In conferences aimed at solving so many problems there are bound to be differences of opinion. Answers will hopefully come out of discussions that will make the "American Dream" a reality for older Americans.

Views of the News

The Reagan Revolution

President Reagan's "radical change in U.S. fiscal policy, aimed at cutting back the role of the federal government in the U.S. economy," really constitutes a "Reagan revolution" we're told by no less an authority than the New York Times.

"The tax and budget cuts certainly represent the most striking change of direction since the New Deal in the balance between the public and private sectors of the American economy," Leonard Silk, Times economic columnist, explains.

He and other experts are probably right about that conclusion and in naming it the Reagan revolution because the President himself was not only responsible for drafting most of the tax and spending programs but also was credited with the successful White House lobbying that put them through Congress.

Yet several questions still remain: What will the spending cuts mean to the level of services now funded by federal money? Will the states and local governments have to pick up some of the cost of the reduced programs? What will be the impact of the Reagan revolution on the national economy? Was this program what the voters "mandated" last November?

Nobody really knows the answers to such questions at this time. Yet let us speculate about possible answers and consider the effects of the spending cuts not only on the Grosse Pointes but in Michigan and the nation.

THE POINTS which have received $2,127,000 as participants in the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Program since it began in 1975, apparently will lose only about 5 percent from their funds in fiscal 1982 despite the budget cutbacks. So their programs are likely to continue and, in fact, the local participants already have been asked to sign up for a three-year program which presumably will improve planning and execution of the programs.

Elsewhere, however, the story is not as optimistic. The Reagan administration is consolidating federal aid for 85 health, education and social service programs into block grants that state and local officials can spend largely as they wish. But the grants will be cut 25 percent from the federal aid provided in these fields in the current fiscal year. That apparently will mean a cut in federal aid of something like $12 billion that will have to be absorbed in state houses, county courthouses and city halls around the country.

Nor will that be the end of federal cuts. The administration has indicated a desire to end block grants by phasing them out over a period of years and turning the taxing power needed to sustain them back to the states. Without an improved economy, that, however, wouldn't mean much to a depressed Michigan.

As one county executive put it in an article in the New York Times, "Community health clinics will be competing for scarce funds with those who provide care for geriatric diseases. Alcoholism programs will be pitted against mental health centers." In other words, with Washington expanding on the block grant principle, the decisions on allocations at the state and local levels will become increasingly competitive. Obviously there won't be enough scarce dollars to finance all programs at current levels.

The new federalism that is shifting more responsibility back to the states and local governments means that Washington will get credit for cutting taxes and spending but local officials who have to deliver many federally-funded services will get the blame for cutbacks. In some states, governors and legislators will seek to hike local taxes to avoid excessive cuts in services but in Michigan that appears to be an unlikely course of action.

In fact, Gov. William Milliken and GOP legislative leaders last week met to discuss ways to cut state property taxes in response to public demands. House Republicans already have endorsed a cut of $560 million in state spending while Milliken is said to favor a more modest cut. Whatever they agree on, however, Robert Tisch, the Shiawassee County drain commissioner, and his cohorts no doubt will demand more drastic and radical property tax reductions either from the Legislature or in another referendum in November, 1982, if not before.

THE QUESTION about whether the Reagan revolution will work brings us to the bottom line. If the program works, if the economy gets going again, if inflation is brought under control, if unemployment drops and if interest rates decline, then it is likely there will be enough federal revenue to meet most of the national needs and all should be well. But if the program doesn't bring about relief from inflation, high unemployment, soaring interest rates and a sluggish economy, then the country will be in trouble — and so will the Reagan administration.

The Reagan administration is claiming that the spending and tax cuts were mandated by the 1980 election. Perhaps it is right. Mr. Reagan did not keep his ideas a secret during the campaign although he did not spell them out in complete detail. He did offer the country a change of direction but, more important, he offered it a change. In our view, the people perceived Jimmy Carter as a failure, however honorable his intentions, and they thought Mr. Reagan offered them not only a new course but new hope. So they voted against Mr. Carter as well as for Mr. Reagan.

If the President's gamble with his "revolution" is successful, he can claim much of the credit. But if it fails, then the public is apt to say that he misread the mandate he supposedly received last November. If that occurs, look for an end to the Republican optimism about 1982 and 1984.

A word to the wise on taxes

Those Michigan citizens who expressed sympathy with and support for the federal income tax revolt in the Flint-Pontiac area earlier this year ought to be properly warned by what has happened to four of the revolt's leaders in recent weeks.

One of the men, Joseph Webster, 27, Fenton, was sentenced last month to two years in prison and fined $2,500 after having been convicted of failing to file tax returns and filing false income tax W-4 withholding forms. A second man, Dean Hazel, 29, Drayton Plains, was found guilty last week of filing fraudulent income tax withholding forms and will face up to a year in prison and a $500 fine when he comes up for sentencing next month.

James G. Lott, 59, Royal Oak, also was found guilty last week of seven counts of income tax evasion and filing false withholding certificates. He has avoided paying income taxes since 1971 but was charged only with failure to pay from 1975 through 1979 because of the statute of limitations. Lee B. Hall, 47, Pontiac, was sentenced to consecutive prison sentences totaling three years after having been convicted of five counts involving income tax evasions. Hall, originally convicted in April, 1978, served 30 days with the rest of a six month sentence suspended, but filed another fake withholding certificate while on probation.

Leaders of the anti-income tax group known as We the People ACT (American Citizens Tribunal) argue that wages are not income as defined in the U.S. Constitution.

Hazel after his conviction, told reporters he didn't "knowingly break the law but that is what the jury found me guilty of."

YET IGNORANCE of the law never is a defense. During Hazel's trial before a federal court jury, Judge James F. Churchill repeatedly stated that the constitutionality of the income tax code was not at issue. In his instructions to the jury, he said its duty was to determine if a fraudulent W-4 form was filed and if Hazel knew the information he was providing was false. "Disagreement with the law, even in good faith, is not a defense," the judge said.

Earlier this year, government officials said the prosecution of the leaders in the tax revolt would continue indefinitely. The purpose is to emphasize "the deterrent nature of criminal tax prosecution" and thus to "heighten the public's awareness of the criminal penalties for abuse of the tax laws," Richard Rossman, then U.S. district attorney in Detroit, told the press.

The Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department have made their point. Even though the federal income tax is voluntarily assessed by each and every citizen required to pay it, the IRS obviously is not going to let taxpayers off the hook by accepting arguments of "legal gibberish" as one federal judge termed them.

Two quotations from Ben Franklin are appropriate in this connection. One is "A word to the wise is enough" and the second is "In this world nothing is certain but death and taxes."

Never too young for Suzuki

The young musicians above, practicing at the War Memorial, are students of Dr. Robert Oppelt, head of the string department for the Detroit Community Music School. Children meet Monday, Wednesday and Thursdays from 8:30 to 10:30 a.m. in two classes in the Suzuki Talent Education method. The Suzuki system teaches children to play by imitating music they learn from recordings and through the learning of a series of carefully graded skills — each designed to be fun. Parents accompany their children to class, take notes and help practice at home. The essence of the program, according to Dr. Oppelt, is "parental support and family togetherness." These and other classes will continue at the War Memorial this fall. For information call the Detroit Community Music School at 831-2870.

LWV misrepresented in Park campaign

To the Editor: It has been brought to our attention that campaign literature was dropped on many Park doorsteps the day of the Aug. 4, primary election using the name of the League of Women Voters. The literature was taken from the League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe nonpartisan Voters Guide without our knowledge or consent.

The League of Women Voters of Grosse Pointe is a nonpartisan, non-profit organization of volunteer women and men. The main goals of this grassroots organization are to promote and encourage informed voting, and to educate the citizenry about the governmental process.

Group home fight raised other issues

To the Editor: After reading Andrew Barrer's letter to the editor in the July 30 issue of the Grosse Pointe News regarding the response of Grosse Pointers to the issue of a group home for the developmentally disabled, we were very disturbed by many of the statements he made. Needless to say, Judge Robert Colombo's decision a week later was very gratifying to those Bedford neighbors who felt the strength of their convictions and who chose to fight a legal battle against the group home.

This battle was fought not because these neighbors were opposed to such a noble cause, but because this cause had become a misguided program where the state seemed to act on the conviction that the end justified the means.

In so doing, the state chose to ignore the voice and well-being of neighbors who would be impacted by such a program, the need to zealously guard the public purse, the need to follow its own administrative policies regarding site selection, the right of the local community to home rule, the need for community input, the realities of dealing with the developmentally disabled who may not necessarily receive the best care in a group home setting, and the lucrative, profit-making nature of such homes.

In his letter, Mr. Barrer characterized the opening of a group home in the Pointes as a "political issue." We question his analysis. Certainly it should be much more—it should be a humanitarian issue involving not only the well being of the proposed residents but also the surrounding neighbors.

Further Mr. Barrer states: "The real issue here is that the residents of Bedford do not want the developmentally disabled to live in the community. They feel that 'those' people only belong in the inner city of Detroit or locked away in institutions." It is very distressing to know that Andrew Barrer views us as such narrow minded, isolationist and uncompassionate persons. It might surprise him to know that many of his former neighbors are in favor of the concept of group home placement. In their lawsuit the neighbors neither condemned nor condoned the concept of group homes, rather they raised serious issues about the way the state chose to act in the Bedford home case.

We are grateful for Judge Robert Colombo's decision because it took courage to see beyond the ideals which underlie group home placement. Well-intentioned, noble causes can become misguided programs that ignore the realities of implementation. Unfortunately all this is being done at the expense of patients who cannot make a choice for themselves and neighbors, like ourselves, who are labeled as uncaring and uncompassionate because we chose to speak out against the program. It is our hope that the state and community have learned many valuable lessons from the Bedford home case.

Widows meet this Sunday

The regular meeting of the Widowed Persons Service of Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods will be held on Sunday, Aug. 16, at 3 p.m., in the lounge at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19550 Mack Avenue.

The group discussion is about the importance of hobbies, especially handicraft skills which help to ease the hours of loneliness. Everyone should bring a handmade item to share with the group.

A social hour will follow the meeting at a nearby restaurant.

ADRDA to hold Woods support meeting Aug. 24

The Detroit Area Chapter of the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, Inc. will have a family support group meeting on Monday, Aug. 24 at 7 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church at 19550 Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods.

The evening's program will include a video tape on Alzheimer's Disease from "People and Causes," a public affairs program of KTCA-TV in St. Paul, Minnesota.

The Detroit Area Chapter of ADRDA estimates that more than 50,000 people in the metropolitan Detroit Area may be afflicted with Alzheimer's Disease; many of these cases have not been diagnosed or as misdiagnosed as organic brain syndrome, hardening of the arteries, old age, or senility.

Christine Gmeiner, R.N., a member of the group's Steering Committee, as Education Coordinator, a resident of St. Clair Shores, works with Alzheimer's patients and their families at the Lafayette Clinic in Detroit.

In September an area family support group affiliated with the larger Detroit Area group will get underway to serve residents of Macomb County and of nearby areas such as Harper Woods, the Grosse Pointes and north-eastern Detroit. The group will be coordinated by Mrs. Gretchen Serra, Activities Director at St. Mary's Nursing Home in St. Clair Shores and a resident of Detroit, who has volunteered her time because she feels such a group is greatly needed now.

For more information, call Co-Chairpersons Nancy Lombardo at 646-2582, Sarah Glover 333-2795 or Mrs. Serra at St. Mary's Nursing Home, 772-4300.

From Another Pointe Of View

Did you know that the Grosse Pointe Artists Association's annual Fall Art Fair has been a starting ground for many well-known and loved artist/craftsmen? Consider Carl Owens, who first did short sketches in pastel at the Pointe Fair—and has recently done portraits of such prestigious figures as Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

And how about Ray Fleming and Robert Kidd? Both first exhibited their weaving at the Pointe Fair, and now have their own galleries.

There's a gentleman named Babcock, now at the Center for Creative Studies, who first showed his glass works at the Pointe Fair. There's Haruka, now with Pewabic Pottery, whose beautiful and original glazes were past Pointe Fair show-stoppers.

So . . . deck yourself out in your most comfortable array (including a good pair of walking shoes) and hie yourself over to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Saturday, Sept. 12, between 10 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon, and browse through displays by 170 artists from all over the country. Who knows? You may discover tomorrow's Art World Shooting Star.

In addition to ceramics, pottery, weaving, metal sculpture, acrylics, oils, leather and woodwork, et al., the 22nd Annual Grosse Pointe Art Fair will feature a carillon concert, light lunches, a clown lady for the children, a plant sale sponsored by the Artists Association (proceeds go to the War Memorial's Art Wing), free parking on the grounds—and NO admission charge.

Camping can be a vacation for mom, too

Vacation. You look forward to it all year. It's a time when the humdrum of everyday life turns into an adventure; in short, it's a get-away.

That's one of the biggest reasons why millions of people have purchased some type of recreational vehicle — to get away from the cities or suburbia and replenish the spirit cluttered parts of America.

But what about mom? The last thing she wants to do while on vacation, whether on a two-week journey to the Porcupine Mountains in the Upper Peninsula or simply a weekend escape to a neighboring campground within a few hours of home, is spend a lot of time in the kitchen planning and preparing meals, or doing housework.

She needn't worry. With a little pre-planning and some help from her fellow RV campers, there's no need for mom to spend any more than a fraction of her normal time with "house" chores. Experienced camping mothers offer the following pointers on how to best handle the cooking duties when on an RV vacation.

FIRST, remember that you're going to be cooking simple. RVs take travelers to exciting places where there's lots to do besides eat. Meals become much less formal, therefore less complex to prepare.

SECOND, vacations are family affairs. A short talk with the kids before leaving home can establish ground rules for helping out, whoever is planning to be chief cook. Rotating dish duty or appointing a daily kitchen assistant works well for many families. Others just continue the rules in effect for helping mom at home.

Stocking your camp kitchen with the right staples and utensils is also important. In the necessities category are some of the following tools: a set of nested pots and pans that take up as little space as possible, a griddle, a baking pan, casserole, water bucket and measuring cups and spoons.

You'll also need a can

The Paul M. Kochs

At an early evening ceremony Saturday, May 23, in the garden at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial SUSAN ELIZABETH GAREY, daughter of the Robert Gareys, of Whittier Road, was married to Mr. Koch, son of Mrs. Joyce Koch, of Harper Woods, and Edwin Koch, of Detroit.

Susan Garey says vows to Mr. Koch

Bride carries prayer book carried by her mother at her wedding and wears mother's wedding pearls

The spring ceremony in the garden of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at which Susan Elizabeth Garey spoke her marriage vows to Paul Martin Koch was followed by a dinner-dance reception in the War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom.

Pastor Kenneth Lentz, of Saint Paul's Lutheran Church, presided at the 5:30 o'clock rites Saturday, May 23. The newlyweds vacationed in Florida. They are making their home on Detroit's East Side.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Garey, of Whittier Road, wore a traditional white gown, styled with a high-necked long-sleeved bodice and ruffled train of silk Venice lace and a long skirt of accordion-pleated chiffon.

A lace Juliet cap held her fingertip veil, edged in matching lace. She wore the single strand of pearls her mother had worn at her wedding and carried her mother's wedding prayer book on which was a spray of stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Honorary matron of honor was Mrs. Henry Kessler, of New Baltimore. Maid of honor was Katherine Higbie. Bridesmaids were Melissa Candler, Lisa Wilke, Michele Alasin and Jill Koch, the bridegroom's sister.

They wore long dresses of maize Qiana and matching chiffon capes, with a rust-colored, floral print, and carried bouquets of yellow and white daisies accented with deep blue fleur-de-lis. Each pinned a single daisy, with baby's-breath, in her hair.

Flower girl Kimberly Thompson, the bridegroom's niece, wore a long dress, pale blue in color, its skirt edged with a deep ruffle, and carried a rainbow basket of daisies.

Mr. Koch, son of Mrs. Joyce Koch, of Harper Woods, and Edwin Koch, of Detroit, asked Alan Christie to act as best man. Ushering were Carlo Beecker, Gregory Thompson, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, William Luzon and Kirk Garey, the bride's brother.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both wore formal length gowns, the former's champagne-colored, styled with an accordion-pleated bodice and a skirt of polyester chiffon, the latter's an apricot shade.

Mrs. Garey pinned a corsage of Sweetheart roses to her dress. The bridegroom's mother selected a corsage of white carnations.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's grandmothers: Mrs. Mable Garey, of Traverse City, and Mrs. Gerson Heiss, of Clearwater, Fla.

Offer Catholic Women a trip

Members of the Council of Catholic Women, Archdiocese of Detroit, are making plans to fly off to Kansas City in the fall for the 40th national CCW convention. Dates are Oct. 5 through 9, Monday to Friday. A convention package is available; reservations, with payments, must be in by Saturday, Sept. 5. Further information may be obtained by calling 237-5896 or 371-0490.

opener, spatula, a few knives and clean-up equipment. And if you don't mind the added expense, paper plates and cups can save quite a bit of washing time.

The staples you need depend somewhat on what you plan to cook, but you'll probably want to stock your mini-pantry with flour, coffee, shortening, mashed potatoes, mustard, onions and sugar.

A little meal planning is important, too. Obviously, the fewer pots used, the less time it takes to clean up. A premium should be put on meals like stews and casseroles, hoagies or burgers. They're just as nutritious as more elaborate fare and take less time to prepare.

According to Arlene Strom's popular "Cooking on Wheels," whoever is doing the cooking should consult the head driver so that meal planning can be done around anticipated stops near big grocery stores. Your chances of finding everything you need while making just one shopping stop are obviously much greater at supermarkets than at small markets.

Mrs. Strom also warns RVers not to be unreasonable with themselves. If no one feels like cooking on a given evening — go out to eat! You'd do the same if you were at home, and on vacation the idea is to indulge yourself.

Most of the recipes you use at home can be cooked easily on the road, especially if your RV is equipped with a gas stove and oven. Camp fires may take a little getting used to, but they too can produce dishes to rival those at home.

A good tip to remember when cooking over an open fire is to coat the entire outside of the pot with some type of bar soap. Lye is best, but any bar soap will do. If you coat the outside first, the black soot virtually wipes away. It's an old Boy Scout trick.

RV dealers and camping supply stores usually stock a hefty supply of camping cookbooks at reasonable prices. The investment of a few dollars is well worth it to have proven dishes that are designed specifically for outdoor or RV cooking.

Simple rules can keep some of mom's other at-home duties to a minimum, too.

For example, if you're on a long trip, laundry duty should be rotated among family members, as should cleaning up the camper when that's needed.

The whole idea of camping is that it's a family affair... and that should include the chores as well as the adventures. Conventional housework is drastically reduced in an RV just because there isn't as much space to be kept clean. A little help from the rest of the family can make everyone, including mom, come back from an RV vacation rested, feeling like there really has been a break in the routine.

The only trick is a little planning and a lot of teamwork.

Rites at Academy for Julie Haddas

Grosse Pointe War Memorial is setting for reception following ceremony at which she is wed to Steve Ciraulo most definitely, NOT a private tournament. Preliminary matches will be played on Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 12 and 13 (yes, that is Art Fair Saturday—but who says you can't hit the courts and the fairgrounds in a single day?), with area finals scheduled for the following Saturday, Sept. 19, and the Super Finals, bringing together area winners from all over town, for Sunday, Sept. 20, at Wimbledon Racquet Club. Interested in participating? Call 885-8128 for a court assignment.

The money raised by T&C this year will be donated to the Allergy and Clinical Immunology Services at Children's Hospital. Most of the young patients treated in the Allergy Services Department suffer from asthma. The Clinical Immunology Service patients include youngsters who lack natural immunities and are afflicted with a variety of painful degenerative diseases.

The Luv Run Wants You, Too

Now suppose you like to do a bit of running around, but without a tennis racquet in hand—the Grosse Pointe T&C Committee inaugurated an activity last year that's tailored just for you. It's the Luv A Child Run, and it was a smashing success in 1980, and it promises to be an equally smashing success in 1981.

The second annual Grosse Pointe Luv Run begins at 9:30 Saturday morning, Sept. 19. Yes, that is T&C tennis tournament area finals day, but who says you can't run and watch—even play in—the area finals on the same day?

The 5,000-meter (3.1) mile Luv Run course is one of the most scenic in The Pointe. It starts at the corner of Berkshire Road and Windmill Pointe Drive, continues up one side of Windmill Pointe as far as Pemberton Road, then loops back down the other side of Windmill Pointe to Berkshire Road and around again.

Timers will read each runner's progress at the first, second and final mile of the race. And if, at the end of three miles, you aren't even winded, you can repeat the run. Timers will be available to record a 6.2 mile Luv Run progress, too.

Every bit of your $5 Luv Run entry fee will benefit Children's Hospital, for Dick Seymour, of Seymour Cadillac on Jefferson Avenue in Detroit, has assumed financial responsibility for all Luv Run expenses. Every runner will receive a 1981 Luv Run T-shirt, compliments of Mr. Seymour.

There'll be prizes, for male and female runners in seven different categories. There'll be refreshments, served following the run. Entry forms are available now at most area sport shops, tennis houses and business establishments, or by calling 882-4743; none will be accepted after Sept. 12.

This is a short run, so any caliber of runner can easily participate. It's wonderful as a family activity, fun for everyone, from grade schoolers to grandparents. It's a perfectly luvverly way to spend a Saturday morning, and the fact that spending it that way is a way of helping Children's Hospital... well, that's perfectly luvverly, too.

A Pointe tradition . . .

The Pointer Girls' annual midsummer benefit for the Grosse Pointe War Memorial is a Pointe tradition and pictured here with another Pointe tradition, retiring War Memorial Director JOHN LAKE, who has guided the community center since its inception, are three of the ladies responsible for this year's fashion luncheon and card party (left to right), MRS. CHESTER BOGAN, ticket and reservations chairman, MRS. WILLIAM KABBUSH, general chairman, and MRS. DICK WARNER, general co-chairman. The party is being staged today in the War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom overlooking Lake St. Clair; backdrop for the quartet in the photo above.

Lewis to give organ program

Grosse Pointe's Huw Lewis, regarded as a major recitalist in Britain and rapidly gaining recognition as a concert organist in the United States, will give an organ demonstration at the Masonic Temple and historic Saint Anne's Church next Thursday evening, Aug. 20, for Detroit Historical Society members and friends.

Advance reservations for the program and supper at $9 for society members, $11 for non-members, are required. They may be made by sending checks to the Detroit Historical Society, 5401 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48202; further information may be obtained by calling the society, 833-7934.

The David G. Grouts

Married Saturday, June 13, in Saint Clare of Montefalco Church to Mr. Grout, son of the Frank M. O'Briens, of Whittier Road, was KATHRYN JO WEIGEL, daughter of the Richard C. Weigels, of Nottingham Road.

Mrs. Robin Toussaint

AMY LEE MORGAN, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Donald Nye Morgan, of University Place, spoke her marriage vows to Mr. Toussaint, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Toussaint, of Birmingham, Friday, June 26, in Saint Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Kathryn Jo Weigel wed at St. Clare's

Beaconsfield Avenue is home for David Gerady Grouts who exchanged marriage vows at mid-June ceremony

The Reverend William Sullivan, O.S.A., of Chicago, Ill., The Reverend Richard McGrath, O.S.A., of Elgin, Ill., and The Reverend Ron Essman, O.S.A., officiated at the early evening ceremony in Saint Clare of Montefalco Church at which Kathryn Jo Weigel became the bride of David Gerady Grout.

The 5:30 o'clock rites Saturday, June 13, were followed by a reception at the Imperial House. The newlyweds vacationed in the Pocomos and are at home on Beaconsfield Avenue.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Weigel, of Nottingham Road, wore a gown of white chiffon styled with an Alencon lace bodice featuring a sweetheart neckline. Matching lace cuffed her long, full sleeves, and her skirt extended into a chapel train.

A lace Juliet cap held her lace-outlined, double illusion mantilla. She carried a cascade of Sweetheart roses, stephanotis, miniature carnations, baby's-breath and ivy.

Her attendants wore dresses of apricot Qiana, with chiffon capelets. They carried Colonial bouquets of Sweetheart roses, carnations, daisies and baby's-breath, and wore matching flowers in their hair.

Honor maid was Janice

Weigel. Bridesmaids were Anne Shock, Martha Shock, Susan Fischer and Ann Stack. Flower girl was Sarah Vargo.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. O'Brien, of Whittier Road, asked Robert Grout to act as best man. John Patterson, Paul Grout, Thomas Weigel and Edward Stack ushered.

The mother of the bride wore a long dress of mauve chiffon. Pink Sweetheart roses and carnations formed her corsage. The bridegroom's mother selected a long dress of seafoam green chiffon and a corsage of yellow Sweetheart roses and carnations.

The bride's brother-in-law and sister, Ron and Marilyn Stephens, came from Salem, Mo., for the wedding.

MARTIN and EMMA HUTCHINSON, of Lothrop Road, attended the Elderhostel program, a week-long educational program for persons aged 60 and over, at Western Michigan University in mid-June

Toussaint-Morgan vows are spoken

Saint Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church is setting for June service followed by reception at Country Club

A white silk gown, its high-necked bodice featuring an insert of English net, Brussels embroidery, Alencon lace and pearls, was Amy Lee Morgan's choice for the Friday, June 26, ceremony at which she became the bride of Robin Arthur Toussaint.

More pearl-trimmed lace accented her full, bishop sleeves which ended in fitted, lace cuffs. Her skirt extended into a chapel length train, and her waltz length, silk illusion mantilla, edged in matching lace, fell from a lace and pearl cap.

She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis, baby's-breath and ivy.

Following the evening rites in Saint Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church, with The Reverend Kenneth Lentz presiding, the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Donald Nye Morgan, of University Place, hosted a reception at the Country Club of Detroit.

The newlyweds have returned from a Caribbean cruise to make their home in Grosse Pointe. They are both employed by General Motors Corporation in the financial area of the Chevrolet Motor Division.

Janet Mathieu came from her home in New Jersey to serve as the former Miss Morgan's honor attendant at the 7 o'clock service. Bridesmaids were Debra Morgan, the bride's sister-in-law, Roxanne Schamante, an Ohio resident, sister of the bridegroom, Lisa Fishman and Jill Freivogel.

They wore floor length dresses of lemon yellow Qiana and chiffon capelets covering their fitted, spaghetti-strapped Empire bodices. Each carried a nosegay of white and yellow daisies and baby's-breath.

Mr. Toussaint, son of the Mason Toussaints, of Birmingham, asked Donald Leiprandt to act as best man. Ushering were David Morgan, brother of the bride, John Schamante, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Edward Williams and Charles Williams, of Missouri.

Rosepointe lace accented the apricot silk chiffon shirt-waist Mrs. Morgan selected for her daughter's wedding. It was floor length, as was the V-necked, blue crepe gown chosen by the bridegroom's mother. Each had a white orchid corsage.

Bluegrass fete this weekend

More than a dozen musical groups from seven states will participate in Greenfield Village's Bluegrass Festival this Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 15 and 16. There is no additional charge for the festival beyond the regular Village admission of $8 for adults and $4 for children 6 to 12. Children under 6 are admitted free.

Each morning during the festival, Fay McGinnis and The Sunnysiders will present a History of Bluegrass, developed in the 1940s as an off-shoot of the folk music of Scotch-Irish settlers of Appalachia. Special craftsmen will demonstrate how to make fiddles, guitars, banjos, mandolins and dulcimers: the traditional instruments of Bluegrass.

Saturday and Sunday visitors may listen to the music of North Carolina's Berline, Cray and Hickman, to that of Don Reno and the Tennessee Cut Ups of Virginia, of Bill Box and the Dixie Drifters from Illinois, of Whetstone Run from Pennsylvania and others.

Something to shout about . . .

Jubilant over the success of the Membership Tea held earlier in the summer in the Trial Gardens at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, Grosse Pointe Garden Center trustees MRS. CARL LARSEN (left) and MRS. BILL O. BRINK are looking ahead now to projects the Garden Center is planning for late summer and fall. Notable among them will be awarding of the annual trophy to the garden club whose Trial Garden plot has been the most spectacular this year. The gardens are judged three times during the summer.

Seek causes for crib death

No disease tragedy is more heart-wrenching than the crib death of an infant: one minute there is life and breath; the next the child is lifeless. Known as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome, this anomaly is one of the pediatric illnesses fought by the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, which supports research in search of a cause for SIDS. Theories about SIDS abound, but no single cause has been discovered. Theories are sometimes labeled "definite maybes." The newest "definite maybe" is reported to be a liver deficiency of biotin, a member of the vitamin B complex. Two doctors, one from Australia and the other from England, report that 35 SIDS victims had significantly lower biotin levels than 169 infants who died of other problems. These researchers believe biotin insufficiency may leave an infant in a weakened condition where SIDS can be triggered by mild stress—an infection, a missed meal, or even excessive heat or cold. Diet supplements might provide the needed biotin, but by no means is the biotin insufficiency theory accepted by all scientists studying SIDS. Other causes cited are suffocation, allergic reaction to cow's milk, metabolic disorders, change of climate and spasm or closure of the larynx. Whatever the cause, or causes, medical scientists care and are studying and theorizing over this threat.

The Thomas W. Smiths

Exchanging marriage vows Saturday, April 18, in Ebenezer Baptist Church were MARTHA LYNN KELSEY, daughter of Martha F. Kelsey, of North Brys Drive, and John Kelsey, of Birmingham, and Mr. Smith, son of Otilia A. Smith, of Riverdale, Md.

Miss Kelsey bride of Thomas Smith

Schiffli lace on English net trims her three attendants' pale dusty rose dresses; they carry orchid cascades
The spring wedding of Martha Lynn Kelsey and Thomas William Smith in Ebenezer Baptist Church was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in Florida. They are at home in Farmington Hills.

The Reverend William Cummins presided at the 1 o'clock service Saturday, April 18.

The bride, daughter of Martha F. Kelsey, of North Brys Drive, and John Kelsey, of Birmingham, wore a cap-sleeved gown of ivory silk organza and matching gauntlets. Her bodice, covered with re-embroidered Alencon lace, featured a high, lace-banded neckline and a sheer yoke.

Matching lace appliques dotted with seed pearls accented her skirt, which fell into a chapel length train.

More lace edged her waltz length veil. Her flowers were a cascade of white Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's-breath.

State Historical Directory is out

A Directory of Historical Societies and Agencies in Michigan has been published by the Historical Society of Michigan and is available for $2.95 plus $2 postage and handling (it is offered free to anyone who joins the society) through the HSM office, 2117 Washtenaw Avenue, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48104. (769-1828).

"We hope that this directory will prove beneficial in many ways, most especially as an inspiration to those involved in the work of local history," says Thomas L. Jones, executive director of the statewide organization.

The directory lists more than 375 historical societies and agencies throughout Michigan, giving the address, phone number, contact person, publications and major activities of each organization, plus membership information.

It is a valuable tool for libraries, civic groups, city governments and persons interested in pursuing the histories of their own communities.

The Historical Society of Michigan is the only non-governmental, non-profit, statewide organization working to preserve and interpret Michigan's heritage. It is supported by nearly 6,000 members and serves as the major clearinghouse of information for local historical and preservation organizations throughout the state.

Sibley House gets a grant

Gaylord W. Gillis Jr., president of the board of trustees of Sibley House, a Detroit historical landmark two blocks from Renaissance Center, has announced receipt of a grant of $30,000 from the Eloise and Richard Webber Foundation.

Sibley House, built in 1848 for Judge Solomon Sibley, the first Mayor of Detroit, is a residence of historical importance for the city and the state of Michigan. It is on the National Register of Historic Places, the Michigan Register of Historic Sites and was recorded in the Library of Congress in 1934 by the Historic American Survey as a distinguished American Building.

Gillis, announcing the grant, thanked the foundation for its help in insuring the restoration and preservation of such an important landmark.

In addition to its board, Sibley House is supported by the Friends of Sibley House, a group which contributes to the building's restoration maintenance and future operation.

The One Shoulder Look ... has been around since ancient times. Presently, Nancy Reagan's evening wardrobe includes many one shoulder gowns. At Walton-Pierce you can see it in a sensuous draped black crepe cocktail dress by Dominic Rompollo. A long black one shoulder dress by Helga is scattered with brilliants. A new variance is when one shoulder is a big puffed sleeve as seen in deep purple with a bit of sparkle at Walton-Pierce. The tunic is another fashion favorite. Jerry Silverman accented a navy wool tunic dress with wine Ultra-suede at the collar, shoulders and cuffs. Bill Geofrey does a silky loden green tunic dress with plum stitching on the bodice. Loden and plum are such good fashion colors for fall. An important accessory is the choker. A loden green rope choker holds golden leaves. A bronze, black and gold twisted rope shows off stones, leaves and other interesting "drops." A gold rope with leaves and coins are part of the new collection of jewelry that also features lots and lots of pearls in many lengths and sizes. Some of them are made from the Lotus Pearl, the finest man-made pearl that's hand dipped, hand-knotted and comes with a five year guarantee. There are even pearl trimmed combs for your hair.

Renaissance days in Pointe kitchens

A Renaissance has been underway in Grosse Pointe kitchens, as our town's great cooks prepare to present their finest dishes in the pages of "Renaissance Cuisine." Marge Cremers, pictured above cutting a hot-from-the-oven batch of her Seven Layer Cookies, has contributed the recipe for them to the new cookbook. Addison Bartush (right) is sharing his Sticky Bun secrets. "Renaissance Cuisine" is a project of the Fontbonne Auxiliary of Saint John Hospital. The book will not be available until the fall, at $9.95 in local stores and gift shops, but we've been authorized to jump the publication gun a bit, and give you a summer preview of some of the recipes this week.

State tourney play for Park

By Bob Reid
With the district and sectional title tournaments behind them, the Grosse Pointe Park Little Leaguers will travel to Bay City this week to participate in the tournament which will decide the champion for the state of Michigan.

The Parkers are one of just five teams to survive the competition between nearly 300 teams which began play three weeks ago. The Parkers' story began on July 13 when three dozen boys tried out for the team.

After a few days trial, the team was picked and included, Brian Aardema, Steve Addy, David Arnold, George Ayrault, Tony Bechara, Sean Bruce, Danny Cimini, David Feys, Doug Lucas, Joe Page, Michael Paull, Mike Rogers, Mark Sabella, and Albert Shaheen. Manager Dave Ayrault and coach Bob Feys chose James Adams, Marty Saad, Mike Schatz and Marcus Wysocki as alternates.

In the opening game, the Parkers won a 3-0 thriller over the Clinton Valley Americans. Pitcher Shaheen allowed only two hits, while Arnold, Rogers and Shaheen each drew two hits and Sabella hit a two-run homer.

In the following game, the Park won another thriller over the Harper Woods Nationals, 11-9, with the combined pitching of Bruce and Feys. Down 5-0 in the first, the Parkers rallied in their half of the first for eight runs.

Trailing 9-8 going into the bottom of the sixth, Rogers hit a two-out, two-strike pitch for a three-run homer and the win. Rogers also had a double and two walks; Cimini walked, singled and doubled.

The third game, against L'Anse Creuse North, saw the Park team pull out a 5-4 win in the bottom of the seventh on a bases-loaded double off the fence by Feys. Pitcher Shaheen hit a home run and chalked up his second win.

In their next game, the Parkers topped the Grosse Pointe Woods-Shores Americans, 8-5, behind the five-hit pitching of Feys. Arnold paced the offense with two home runs. Page also belted a round-tripper.

In the fifth game, a rematch with the excellent L'Anse Creuse North squad, the Parkers were humbled, 12-8. Arnold was again the top offensive contributor, with two home runs and a single. Shaheen also hit a two-run homer in the losing effort.

The sixth game featured a rubber match between the Park and L'Anse Creuse North for the District 6 championship. By now, and despite their excellence in defense, pitching and hitting, the Parkers were being called "the cardiac kids" by coaches and fans because of their penchant for last-minute heroics.

But in the championship game, they left no doubts, winning 12-5, behind the sixth hit pitching of Feys. For the third straight game, Arnold led the offense with three home runs, including a grand slam, for a total of nine RBI. Aardema and Cimini also collected two hits each, and the defense sparkled.

The Park team was awarded the District 6 pennant and pins by district administrator Art Getz.

Two nights later, the sectional championship tournament opened with the Parkers defeating District 7 winner, Fort Gratiot, 6-2. Pitcher Feys scattered four hits to get the win. Rogers paced the offense with a home run and a single.

The Park lost the next night, 4-2, to a scrappy Fort Gratiot squad. Fort Gratiot's Rod Shagena allowed just four hits to the Parkers.

Once again, the "cardiac kids" found themselves in a rubber match for a championship. Once again, they left no doubts, winning, 7-1, behind the two-hit pitching of Rogers. Rogers also contributed a home run and a double.

Feys and Bruce also hit homers and Sabella and Shaheen picked up two hits each.

This week, manager Ayrault and coach Feys will take their squad to Bay City to compete in the state tournament.

Rowdies win soccer division title

The Grosse Pointe Rowdies, the rough-looking group pictured above, are owners of the under 12 division title in the Michigan Youth Soccer League. The Rowdies were one of two teams representing the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association in the divisional championship. Team

Jogging is a simple way to improve health

Jogging is one of the simplest and most effective ways to improve muscle tone and the ability to withstand stress through lowered blood pressure and heart rate, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"More than 30 million Americans have discovered this inexpensive way to shape up for summer," says Walter Zeiler, Auto Club's MemberLife manager.

Joggers are reaping health benefits ranging from weight loss and increased stamina to the piece of mind knowing they are making their bodies more efficient, he adds.

Most physical fitness experts agree jogging is a better all-around exercise than such static activities as push-ups or weight lifting.

"Many exercises involve conditioning only small muscle groups such as the arms," Zeiler explains. Jogging involves many large muscles and the larger the muscles involved the more an exercise will do for the waistline, heart and blood vessels.

"The heart is a muscle and when it is exercised by moderate activity over long periods, it will operate more efficiently both at rest and under stress, using fewer beats to pump the same amount of blood," he adds.

Jogging requires minimal equipment. A good pair of running shoes, loose-fitting clothing in summer—avoiding rubberized suits which only dehydrate the body—and a warm-up suit for cold weather will suffice.

There are health guidelines which should be followed by both beginning and veteran joggers. Persons over 35 or with risk factors including high blood pressure and cholesterol levels, obesity, cigarette smoking or a family history of heart problems should see a doctor first.

"Persons who may be physically unfit should take a stress test so an exercise program can be prescribed," Zeiler said. "Joggers under 35 with no known risk factors should have had a physical examination in the last two years."

Once set on a program, frequency, progression and intensity are the bywords to attaining good health. For the average person, three days of jogging weekly is sufficient. This frequency schedule reduces the risk of knee, hip or ankle injuries, which increases with more frequent workouts.

Joggers should progress slowly, warming up with stretching exercises. A 10-minute cool-down period also is essential.

Beginners should start with brisk walks. Then combine walking with jogging short distances and gradually lengthening the time spent jogging. A good rule is to exercise at least 12 minutes at first and work up to 30 or 60 minutes.

The heart rate is the best guide to exercise intensity. To find the predicted target heart rate zone that improves efficiency of the heart, lungs and blood vessels, joggers should subtract their age from 220. First multiply by .6; then multiply by 8. The resulting figures are the approximate minimum and maximum heart rates for joggers.

It's travel hockey time in the Pointe

The Grosse Pointe Hockey Association is about to kick off its 1981-82 schedule of travel hockey activities. Travel hockey is available to area children in a variety of age groups, through a series of tryouts staged in late August and early September.

Grosse Pointe travel hockey teams represent the community in state and regional competition, as well as in outstate and Canadian tournaments during the fall and winter.

Children need not be Grosse Pointe residents to play on community travel teams. Travel tryouts are open to all children, however, only the best skaters and players are selected. The typical travel team will play 60 games between September and March, in addition to several practices per week.

In addition to the excellent coaching and skill development offered by travel hockey, the children and their families meet others and see new places. Many times during exchange trips with Toronto area teams, players will spend weekends at the home of a member of the opposing team.

In terms of play, travel hockey is normally divided into A and AA brackets. "A" teams are normally comprised of younger players in the age division; "AA" consists of the older players.

Travel team director Bob Nesler encourages all prior skaters to attend the various upcoming tryouts. Last year, Pointe teams were very successful, as the program produced five district championships, one state title and two runners-up.

Nesler may be contacted during the day at 968-2200 or during the evenings at 884-6439, to answer any questions about the travel program for 1981-82.

The following tryout schedules have been developed to allow children several occasions to "show their stuff."

Mite Travel (5 to 8-year olds): 5 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 8; 6 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 9; 5 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 10; 6 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 12, and 6 p.m., Sunday, Sept. 13.

Mackinac memories...

The 1981 Port Huron-Mackinac race is history, but the memories of those who sailed in the race linger on. The following is an excerpt from a letter written by a first-timer in the Mackinac race and sent to his parents in Illinois.

... Words can't describe what I saw, what I felt and what I went through during the height of the rough weather. I was miserably cold, wet and tired - surrounded by black, 12-foot mountains of water; 40-knot winds howling through the rigging and the Northern lights forming curtains of light all around us ... interrupted occasionally by a shooting star

... The chills that ran through me were as much from the awe and beauty I was experiencing as they were from the cold wind. The sunsets, sunrises; the blue-green, almost black, clear water. The smell of pine trees miles off shore ... the colorful spinners, Beethoven's Sixth Symphony and a bowl of hot stew when you're cold and tired ...

... Of course, the wind and the waves; the feeling of accomplishment stepping ashore at Mackinac Island; the comradery of fellow sailors; seeing friends and neighbors from back home and being reunited with wives and children.

And the boats, almost 300 of them, bobbing quietly now in the harbor; decks strewn with wet clothes and sails ...

Naw, I'll never do it again. But don't bet on it.

—By Thomas Slance

Too many doctors ahead

Warnings are out that there will be far too many doctors in the United States by the year 2000. Reports say there will be more than 600,000 physicians in less than 20 years, 145,000 more than needed. A study also predicts there will be 536,000 physicians by 1990, 70,000 more than needed. Principal contributing factors are larger medical classes during the past 12 years and an influx of thousands of foreign doctors and graduates.

Brown swims in Syracuse

Grosse Pointe North High School graduate Mike Brown (above) is one of three Michigan State University varsity divers who competed for the Midwest diving team in the National Sports Festival at Syracuse, N.Y. The festival featured athletes competing in 33 different sports and ran from July 24 through July 29. Brown is a junior at MSU.

Hockey moms plan sale

The women's auxiliary of the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association plans a sale of used hockey equipment on Saturday, Aug. 22 between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink.

Auxiliary spokesman Wanda Warezak says the sale is a perfect opportunity for parents to sell equipment their children have outgrown. The equipment sale is a fund raising event for the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association. Proceeds will be used to help purchase replacement jerseys and pants.

Anyone with usable hockey equipment including gloves, helmets, padding, pants, jerseys or skates is encouraged to mark them for sale and bring them to the community room at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink between 2 and 5 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 21.

Sale proceeds will be distributed 50 percent to the GPHA and 50 percent to the seller. If you're looking for replacement equipment for a growing child, or if you have a room full of old equipment, this sale is the perfect solution.

The community rink is on Canyon Road, between Warren and Mack Avenues. Further information may be obtained by calling Wanda at 881-3923 or Marty at 886-6340.

Fall sports begin at North

Cal 20 boat scores are in

At the midpoint of the DRYA season, Jack McAllister's Refuge continues to dominate the fleet. Out of seven races McAllister's record was 1-4-1-3-1-2-2, giving Refuge a Cox-Sprague score of 9259.

The competition for second and third places was much closer. Joe and Beth Moran's Commotion was in second place with 8516 followed by Lorax 8325, Gusto 8306 and Blau Frau 8118.

In the GYPC Regatta on July 4, Mo Brown's Hedonist broke into the winner's column for the first time this year. Hedonist went to the left side of the course on the first leg, (while the rest of the fleet went right) and led everyone to the first mark by a wide margin.

Refuge took second, followed by Spectrum, Commotion, Sweet Touch, Blau Frau, LoCal and Born Free.

In the light air, GPC regatta on June 27, the Morans earned their first place by battling the McAllisters around the course. Commotion and Refuge were followed by Bob Jenks' Sweet Touch in third.

Jenks was followed by Mark Williamson's LoCal, Lorax and five others.

After three races of the seven-race Main and Jib Championships, Series the leaders were McAllister at 9580, Bertelsen at 9268 and Kogel at 8944.

In the marathon, summer-long Sunday morning series at CSYC, George Peterson's Spectrum led with 67 points followed by the Bertelsens with 58 and the Kogels with 57.

On Wednesday evenings Sirius led with 30 points followed by Spectrum with 18 and Lorax with 15.

In the Thursday night races at the Farms Pier the Cal 20s have been finishing one-two-three in the PHRF competition almost every week. Sirius, Refuge and Yellow Jacket are in a virtual dead heat for series honors.

Down on the Detroit River, John McCloskey's Telests held the lead over the five or six Cal 20s which race every Tuesday evening in the GPSC races off the Park Pier.

The starts provide for spectacular spectating and excellent picture taking opportunities from the shore.

The CSYC regatta, a Cal 20 invitational followed by a cocktail-buffet at Joe and Beth Moran's, is set for Aug. 22.

For further information on Cal 20 activities, call Art Spindler at 885-7839.

A SMALL race for the Babcocks

Toni Babcock will pilot the plane and James Babcock will serve as co-pilot in this weekend's 26th annual Michigan SMALL race, which will start and finish at the W.K. Kellogg Reginal Airport in Battle Creek on Aug. 15.

The race is sponsored by the four Michigan chapters of the Ninety-Nines, an International Organization of Women Pilots formed in 1929 by Amelia Earhart and the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

The race is a test of skill, proficiency and safety in flying. It is a three-legged, round robin, cross-country flight of not more than 250 statute miles. Cash awards of $2,000 and many trophies will be given to the pilots finishing with an overall speed score closest to the handicap speed for his/her plane.

Traditionally, only women pilots have been permitted to race, but men, such as James Babcock, of Lakeshore Road, have served in the cockpit as co-pilots. The 1981 edition of the race, however, will feature the first male pilot.

UCS Tribute Fund Marks forty fine service years

The Tribute Fund of United Community Services, celebrating its 40th anniversary this year, began its emergency assistance to the needy as the result of a tragedy. The young sister of Mrs. Paul Jackson, a member of the Women's Committee of the Community Chest (now United Community Services) died in Indianapolis, and her friends sent memorial contributions to the Family Welfare Society in that city.

Mrs. Jackson suggested that a similar charitable fund be set up in Detroit to benefit individuals and service agencies requiring special one-time assistance. The idea was first discussed at a Community Chest Executive Committee meeting on Feb. 25, 1941, and by April a plan for a Tribute Fund was developed.

With the support of the Community Chest leadership, six Women's Committee members met and began to consider sources for donations and the best use for these charitable contributions. According to the earliest statement of purpose, their goal was to promote the idea of contributing to the Tribute Fund "to honor friends in time of joy, to memorialize a loved one in time of sorrow and to provide funds for unfortunate individuals."

The Tribute Fund, which began operating with donations of $228, soon had a 15-member committee which met monthly at the Women's City Club.

A report issued in December, 1941, stated that $300 in donations was received in the first partial year of the Tribute Fund's existence, and that the funds were used for recreational equipment (43 percent); vacation transport (children's outings to Belle Isle and other parks—20 percent); Christmas parties (10 percent); and nursing and housekeeping services for sick individuals and families (20 percent).

Early Tribute Fund records cite a music scholarship established for the talented children of poor families, in memory of the late Edsel Ford.

A special fund in memory of a well known pediatrician provided money for "pre-ambulances," special carriers to transport premature infants from their homes to hospitals for necessary care.

Many donations were used for games and sports equipment for community houses, camperships for underprivileged children, medicine and eyeglasses.

An unusual request for $10 was granted to a blind man to pay for having his Victory Garden plowed and harrowed as well as to purchase vegetable seeds for him. The money for this purpose was contributed by a widow whose husband had had vision problems; she suggested that her donation be used for a visually impaired person.

Requests for assistance were evaluated at Tribute Fund Committee monthly meetings, but emergency requests received between meetings were assigned to and processed by any two committee members. By 1947, awareness of the Tribute Fund had grown considerably in the community and its purpose was stated as follows in its descriptive brochure: "The Tribute Fund of the Community Chest is a service which is able to furnish those little 'extras' that mean so much both to individuals and to agencies. It is only used when there are no other means to fill the request, due to limited budgets or meager incomes that barely cover everyday necessities."

Forty years later, the purpose and operation of the Tribute Fund of United Community Services remains much the same, although there is no longer a United Community Services Women's Committee. Operating funds are received through honorary and memorial tributes, the sale of note cards and post-a-grams, a yearly UCS grant, individual bequests and gifts. Office space and staff support are also provided by UCS.

Members of the Tribute Fund Committee staff the office one day a week to receive, evaluate and process requests. Emergency requests received on other days are handled by Tribute Fund staff in consultation with committee members by telephone.

Requests must now come from a professional person—a social worker, teacher, clergyman or representative of a hospital or service agency who is familiar with the individual or family need.

The Tribute Fund no longer provides equipment or other items to neighborhood centers; help is provided directly to needy individuals. The Tribute Fund serves as the place of "last resort," fulfilling a need which cannot be met by any other source.

One of the unique aspects of the Tribute Fund is that an individual can receive help the same day a request is made, with a minimum of red tape. As in previous years, the Tribute Fund is used for a wide variety of purposes: medical equipment, work shoes, travel expenses to a parent's funeral, bus fare to vocational school, emergency moving expenses, books.

While the amount of money is usually quite small, the impact of the assistance upon the recipient is great. Last year, 197 requests totaling $17,835.04 were granted, including several for loans and for emergency Christmas assistance.

There currently are 25 members of the Tribute Fund Committee. The officers are Ms. Margo Easton, of Detroit, chairman; Mrs. Margaret Montgomery, of Detroit, vice-chairman; Mrs. Mary Evelyn Self, of Grosse Pointe, recording secretary; Mrs. Beatrice Epel, of Southfield, corresponding secretary; Miss Elisabeth W. Cady, of Detroit, treasurer; and Mrs. Francis X. Coughlin, of Grosse Pointe, assistant treasurer.

Other Tribute Fund Committee members who reside in Grosse Pointe include Edward M. Allardice, Mrs. William Burke, Mrs. John C. Donnelly and Mrs. Perry L. TeWalt. Mrs. Armin Stapfer serves as the UCS staff consultant to the Tribute Fund. Last year, Frances Quint, a local artist and former Tribute Fund chairman, designed note cards for the Tribute Fund to use as a fund raising source. The note cards, which depict historic homes in Detroit, received such enthusiastic response that a second card will soon be offered. Information about the Tribute Fund note cards and post-a-grams, as well as donation envelopes for honorary or memorial tributes, is available by writing to The Tribute Fund, 51 West Warren, Detroit, Mich. 48202, or by calling the office, 833-0622, any Wednesday.
