

Reapportionment could give Grosse Pointe a senate seat

By Gregory Jakub

If Republicans have their way, the five Pointes will for the first time be united in a single new senate district increasing the local GOP's chances of electing a state senator to Lansing.

The district plan was proposed Sept. 11 by the four Republicans on the State Legislative Apportionment Commission. The Commission's four Democrats also offered their own plan for new districts. Both proposals were starting points for efforts to redraw legislative district lines according to population shifts reflected in 1980 census.

According to 14th District Republican Chairman Alfred Reuther the proposed district is exactly what Republicans ordered when they met with their Commission Cochairman in June. The plan groups the five Pointes with St. Clair Shores, East Detroit, Harper Woods and a small part of Detroit's east side.

REUTHER SAID the Pointes have been split among three senate districts preventing Republicans from uniting behind a single candidate. Senators John Kelly, John Hertel and Gilbert DiNello now represent parts of the Pointe. There are also enough Democrats in those three districts to defeat Republicans, Reuther said.

Reuther added that voters in the proposed district are about 52 percent Republican.

Besides meeting political qualifica-

The proposed district is just what the Republicans ordered tions, Reuther said the proposed senate district is only two people more than the ideal population size for senate districts which is 243,719. The entire Republican plan for 38 new senate districts statewide deviates from minus four to plus eight from the ideal population totals, Reuther said.

The Democrats' plan was not so close and missed the target by about 1,200 people in some cases, Reuther said. The Democratic Senate plan proposed putting the Pointes at the eastern end of what is now the fourth Senate district which stretches through Detroit's lower east side to west of Woodward.

According to Republican Apportionment Commission Co-chairman Richard Sanderson of Birmingham, the Republican plan serves two purposes.

First, it creates the opportunity for five black Senate seats in Detroit reflecting population trends. Detroit's present seven senators include three blacks.

Second, it creates a number of swing districts that could go Republican or Democratic. "We feel the voters of Michigan should decide who is speaker of the House and majority leader, not the reapportionment commission," Sanderson said.

Sanderson said that while the new district containing the Pointes would increase the chances of electing a Republican senator, the seat could go either way.

The Commission did not call for a vote on the Republican plan since both sides only saw it for a few minutes, Sanderson said. He added that it would be re-introduced some time in the future.

Democrats also introduced an unsuccessful House redistricting plan that proposed cutting Detroit's house delegation from 21 to 16 members. Republicans are expected to propose their House redistricting plan when the commission meets today, Sept. 24.

There is no guarantee that the bipartisan commission will be able to agree on which is the fairest plan. In the past, disagreements have caused the State Supreme Court to step in and decide on which plan is fairest.

John Lake

His retirement Tuesday marks end of an era

It was Oct. 18, 1976 when Grosse Pointe War Memorial director John Lake and some of Grosse Pointe's jeweled ladies and dapper gentlemen boarded a plane to venture behind the Iron Curtain.

What awaited them was more than a peek inside the communist countries of Eastern Europe.

LAKE RECALLS the travelers were leaving Prague to go to Bucharest when the Romanian plane they had boarded took a long time in taking off. Romanian air officials blamed it on heavy traffic. The plane's engines finally revved up and put it on its way into the clouds—but not for long.

At 1,000 feet one of the plane's engines suddenly blew up. And when the crew finally arrived in Moscow, a Towering Inferno of sorts awaited them:

"At 5 a.m. people began pounding on my hotel door," Lake said on an oral history tape made for Grosse Pointe Public Library last year. "Wake up, Lake, the hotel is on fire!" I thought they were kidding. I opened the door, and I was promptly blasted back by the heat and smoke. Then I began to realize there was really something to this. Ladies in their minks and jewels sauntered by while foreign men ran with nothing on to get out of the hotel. It was quite a trip."

For Lake, 65, it will also be one of several fond memories that will follow him into retirement next week when he steps down as administrator of the War Memorial, a job he's held for the last 30 years.

At the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Association Annual Dinner meeting next Tuesday, Sept. 29, the administration of the center will be officially transferred to incoming director Mark Weber.

The center at 32 Lakeshore has seen the prim and proper tea parties that began its program 30 years ago fade away and be replaced by lectures on art and music theory and dozens of classes appealing to all age brackets in Grosse Pointe—all under the guiding hand of John Lake, who came to Grosse Pointe after World War II to teach history.

"It was supposed to be history. We called it mystery because I didn't know what I was supposed to teach and sometimes they (students) didn't know what they were trying to learn," Lake has reportedly said.

He spent five years at South High School and gradually found himself spending more time outside the classroom, getting involved in community extracurricular activities.

John Lake

It was no surprise then on Sept. 1, 1952 when Lake took a hold of the administrative reigns at the War Memorial, becoming its first full-time director.

It was the assignment of the then young Lake to interest all of Grosse Pointe in the War Memorial's few activities that now range from the travelogue series, a cinema league and outdoor concerts to seminars.

It was also the responsibility of Lake to direct the center's first Family Participation Campaign fund drive. Lake recalls the center had a $18,000 goal and "got it."

"We still receive great support from the community," Lake said, although recently he feels there are those who believe they should pay for the activities at the War Memorial and let the nebulous endowments take care of the rest. The center just completed its 1981 campaign to raise $170,000.

While the center does offer everything from soup to nuts for residents and non-residents alike, it's important to John Lake to remember that the Memorial is a living reminder of those who lost their lives in war.

"The whole concept of the War Memorial—a living War Memorial—is to carry on the way of life which these men fought and died for. It seems to be much more useful and meaningful than a shaft of stone," Lake believes.

Retirement will not mean rocking chair days for Lake, who plans to stay involved in center activities, although minimally. "I'm not waiting to sit down and twiddle my thumbs."

The War Memorial Association's annual dinner meeting, and John Lake's farewell in the Crystal Ballroom, Wednesday evening, Sept. 29, will begin with dinner at 6:30 p.m. It costs $8 (tax and service included). Following dinner, the Grunyons, led by Bill Gard, will entertain with a half hour concert of close harmony sung with verve.

The business meeting will follow chaired by board President George J. Reindel, III, who will make a brief address outlining the center's accomplishments and plans for the future. New members will be elected to the board and the center's financial situation reviewed by auditors of Touche Ross. Statistics on center activities will be distributed as well as all committee reports.

Woods will vote on parks, docks, EMS

By Gregory Jakub

The Grosse Pointe Woods city council Monday approved three ballot questions for the Nov. 3 election asking voters whether a tax increase should be used to finance a four-year park improvement project and upgrade the city's ambulance service, and allow new boater-financed docks to be built.

Voters will have to decide whether they want an additional one mill tax levy for the next four years to finance a series of park improvements to be designated later by the recreation commission and given final approval by council. (A mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation of property.)

Another one-half mill is proposed to upgrade the Woods ambulance service to that of an Advanced Life Support system providing a cardiac unit, electro shock, and intravenous treatments before arrival at a hospital. Residents will no longer be charged for ambulance service under the plan.

The third question is an advisory issue allowing the council to authorize the construction of new boat docks at Lakefront Park using rental fees from existing docks.

Although the park improvement question does not give specific project proposals, a recently developed "Phase II Park Improvement Program" will serve as a starting point.

The council said that plan will be a "shopping list" of projects that will be reviewed by the recreation commission which will nominate specific projects and their priorities to the council.

The suggested projects are:

● Construct a new community center at Lake Front Park.

● Add health and exercise facilities to Lake Front Park bathhouse.

● Create a "village green" with band shell at Ghesquiere Park.

Projects could be added or removed from the list—the council said. The entire four-year project could cost up to $1.9 million dollars.

The non-specific nature of the park tax ballot question was the subject of some debate at Monday's meeting. Recreation Commission chairman Al Kunert said that asking voters to approve a tax hike without knowing exactly what it was for was "putting the cart before the horse." He also complained that his commission had only seen the latest list of suggested Phase II park improvements a week ago and was unable to recommend action to the council.

WILLIAM HANCOCK of Hollywood

Roald told the council the ballot issue was asking voters to approve funds then trusting it to use them to the best good. "Frankly I don't have that faith," Hancock said.

Councilman John Sabol said the question is similar to a ballot issue several years ago that asked voters to approve funds for a new swimming pool without specific plans. That issue was approved and resulted in the construction of an excellent pool, Sabol said.

The ambulance question was suggested by Councilman William Wilson and is an attempt to upgrade the service and offer it to residents at no charge. The ambulance would be equipped with the latest life support system to treat heart attack victims.

Dr. Anne Zimmer of the Woods spoke in favor of the question saying that Macomb and Oakland Counties both have superior ambulance service and the Woods should follow suit.

The boat dock question was originally part of the entire park improvement plan but was removed when it was thought that it might jeopardize the whole plan's success.

Brummel's first job, getting to know you

By Joanne Gouleche

School Supt. Kenneth Brummel is sipping his morning coffee these days with parents, businessmen, city officials and community volunteers.

It's Brummel's way of saying, "How do you do? I'm your new superintendent. How can the schools best serve you?"

It gives parents a chance to question Brummel face-to-face about enrollment decline, school millage and programs for the handicapped.

The idea is patterned after the successful "Breakfast with Brummel" program in hometown Westport, Conn., where the superintendent met periodically with parents and community leaders to discuss school issues.

"People in the community are a vital part of our school system," Brummel told a group of community leaders this week at Brownell Middle School, as he announced a "Key Communicator Network" program based on "key individuals" in the Grosse Pointes sharing information with others about what's happening in the school system.

The superintendent also spoke a little about himself, about the goals of the school system and he addressed the issue of enrollment declines "as an educational problem and not an economic problem."

"Our anticipation is that the decline will continue," Brummel said, adding that Grosse Pointe schools have dropped substantially from the 13,000 high mark 15 years ago to the 8,500 count the first week of school this year.

"There's no rush to close schools. There's a strong commitment to neighborhood schools," Brummel said.

The superintendent assured community leaders that the Board of Education will be studying the enrollment decline as part of the goals for the 1981-82 school year.

Brummel said other goals approved by the school board include:

- A study of the future organization of the school system.
- Improving staff morale.
- A study of the language arts program, K-12.
- A study of the physical education program, K-12.
- A study of the guidance and counseling services.
- A study of the middle school program.
- A study of special education services.
- A study of the need for developmental kindergarten.
- A plan for the operation of a planetarium.
- Improving school library services.
- Developing a system to conduct long-range financial planning.
- A study of data processing services.
- Developing a recommendation for summer tax collections.
- Developing plans for energy conservation and preventive maintenance.

Home grown 'hunks' beef up MSU calendar

By Tom Greenwood

If Brian Moody, Mike Brown, Dave Howe, Jim or Tom Shook tell you they spent the year "just hanging around the Michigan State University campus," please take them at their word. They really did hang around campus. On practically every wall in

Moody, Brown, Howe and the Shook brothers, (otherwise known as Mr. October, July, August, March and May respectively), are in reality "The Men of MSU."

"The Men of MSU" is the name of the most popular calendar now available in East Lansing bookstores and Grosse Pointe Book Village. It features 13 of the most eligible "hunks" on the MSU campus, as chosen by an impartial but dedicated, panel of 15 MSU coeds.

It is, you should excuse the expression, selling like "beefcakes." Five of the 13 lucky lads hail from Grosse Pointe. In fact, all five are life long friends and attended North High School together.

WHAT'S IT LIKE to be considered a male "10?"

"It's really weird," said Dave Howe, a junior majoring in hotel and restaurant management. "I cracked up when I first saw myself. You feel strange seeing yourself on a calendar like that."

While some of the photos show the boys bare chested or trussed up in tuxedo's, (complete with tennis shoes), Dave's is pretty much a straight forward portrait. He's also not the first Howe to appear in a calendar of this sort. Brother Andy, who attended Arizona State University, was previously picked as one of the "Men of ASU."

"Our parents love the whole idea of it," said Dave. "I guess it's all right. The girl I'm dating right now hasn't seen it yet. I suppose I'll also catch some gas from the guys up at school. I didn't think of that before I agreed to all this."

Another brother combination appearing in the calendar is Jim and Tom Shook. In the March photo, the two brothers grin at the camera while wrestling each other. In May, Tom

"It's a different sensation, that's for sure," said Tom. "I couldn't believe it when I saw myself. I was in shock."

According to Tom and the rest of the chosen few, they had no idea they were being stalked for the calendar.

"The first I heard of it was when Jim called and said we had been chosen for some calendar. We were both kind of leery about it, but decided it might be fun to look back at it 20 years from now."

All five beat pretty good odds to appear in the calendar. More than 70 men were chosen initially. This group was whittled down to 26, who submitted to a photo session at a local studio.

After the final cut, 13 were left. "The one who's really in the public eye is my brother Jim," said Tom. "He's not only in the calendar, but was also chosen for the 'Men of MSU' poster. That thing is plastered all over East Lansing. He called my mother and told her he couldn't even go to the library without girls whispering about him when he walked by.

"HE TOLD OUR folks it was embarrassing," said Tom with a snicker. "I know the truth. He loves it. He feels like a lady-killer."

Apparently, Jim Shook isn't the only one who loves it. Mom and Dad Shook bought 10 calendars and sent them to friends and family. "My cousin who's attending Mercy College has one up over there too. She says all her friends want one," said Tom. "This has been the greatest experience of my life."

The man behind all this furor is Mike Karabees, a 21-year-old senior in industrial design at MSU. Bright, energetic and ambitious, Karabees comes across as a preppy Herb Tarlick.

"I got the idea after seeing the ASU calendar," he said. "Women have been ready for this sort of thing for years. We're selling them in bookstores, bars and dorms. Anywhere there are women. And I don't mean just young women. Grandmothers have been buying the calendars too. I hope to gross $20,000 from this after everything is over." The models were not paid for their work.

Karabees selected a panel of 15 coeds and told them to scour the campus looking for "the" guy.

"Some of the men approached thought the girls were just trying to pick them up," said Karabees. "But they soon realized we were serious. We even had some professional models in the group. None of them made the final cut. All the guys you see are real students at MSU. You can meet up with them anywhere."

Some of the men who were cut were rather upset about it, while others breezed through the whole selection process.

"One guy, (Bob Masella, from Grosse Ile), was selected independently by all 15 coeds," said Karabees. "You might say he was a shoo-in."

After the "Magnificent 13" were chosen, each model had at least 40 photos taken at a studio before Karabees made the final selection.

"The response has been terrific," he said with a smile. "I've gotten letters and calls from women wanting the calendar. One called to say she hung it up in the women's rest room where she works. I also received a letter addressed to 'MSU College-East Lansing,' complete with the wrong zip code. In the corner it said 'Men's Calendar.' Even without my name on it, the post office got it to me.

"I've also gotten a lot of strange letters from women in Muskegon. Remind me to visit there sometime."

Karabees said he's personally sold 500 calendars (at $4.95 each), with a total printing of 1,500. His next project?

"Graduation," he said with a sigh. "That will probably be a lot more work than this calendar has been."

prevents some boats from passing under a bridge and using 53 boat docks on the other side.

The new plan could add up to 72 new docks that would be financed through rental dock fees. The docks are proposed to be built out into Lake St. Clair. Legal problems with adjacent St. Clair Shores property owners can be avoided as long as the docks are built to the south of a sightline, according to Woods Attorney George Catlin.

Cops enforce flare law

By Gregory Jakob

Flare guns commonly used as safety devices by boaters could signal trouble for their owners due to a recent ruling by state Attorney General Frank Kelley.

In an opinion issued last month, Kelley said flare guns are considered firearms and must be registered with local police and licenses are required to buy or sell them.

That means anyone violating the regulations could be convicted of a misdemeanor punishable by 90 days in jail or $100 fine. Anyone transporting a flare gun in a motor vehicle could be prosecuted for carrying a concealed weapon, a felony punishable by up to five years in jail.

The regulations could cause problems for Grosse Pointe boaters who may be docking their boats for the winter and storing boating equipment at their homes.

"If someone is storing a boat or transporting equipment, a flare gun should be wrapped in some kind of case and placed in the car trunk," advised Woods Public Safety Lt. Jack Patterson who added that police will be enforcing firearm laws pertaining to flare guns like any other law.

Until recently, flare guns made by Olin were widely available in Grosse Pointe and elsewhere, but Kelley's ruling may have changed that. Perry Druggs in the Farms, for example, now carries only flare cartridges since the Farms police requested the flare guns be removed from the shelves.

Adding to the confusion some police officials admit Kelley's opinion has caused is a federal regulation that took effect in January requiring all craft over 16 feet on the Great Lakes to carry a signaling device on board. But the regulation does not apply to boats on Lake St. Clair, St. Clair River or Detroit River, according to Lt. Tim Goldsmith of the Coast Guard's marine safety office.

"Part of the problem is that manufacturers put a big push on flare guns," Goldsmith said. For boaters who would like to carry a signaling device, Goldsmith offered several alternatives to flare guns. He said an orange and black day-time flag, SOS signal lanterns, or hand-held signal flares are all effective devices that have no regulatory problems.

Another problem caused by the flare guns sold commercially is that they have no serial numbers which are necessary to register firearms.

For those who own flare guns, the state police suggest taking them to local police departments and engraving them with the owner's social security number so they may be registered there.

Kelley also said that his opinion may represent over-regulation of flare guns, but that any change must be made by the state legislature.

Legislation is reportedly in the works to exempt flare guns from state firearm regulations.

It seemed like a brief visit to another area when dozens of vintage Lincoln Continentals rolled up to the doors of the Edsel and Eleanor Ford House last week. The gathering was part of a five day meet to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Lincoln Continental Owners' Club. With 2,700 members world-wide, the gathering drew 200 members to Detroit from all over the U.S. and Canada. Guest of honor for the evening was William Clay Ford (far left) who was presented a painting of his 1956 Continental Mark II by artist Dom Pacitti and his wife, June. County pushes for Sunday booze

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners last week took the first step toward allowing the sale of package liquor in the county on Sundays.

The board instructed its Office of Corporation Counsel to draft an ordinance allowing the Sunday retail sales of hard liquor, such as is already permitted for beer and wine. The decision was unanimous except for a single dissenting vote from George F. Killen.

The draft ordinance could be approved later this month. Legislation effective in January allows the Sunday sales throughout the state if the various county boards of commissioners concur. Oakland, Macomb and Monroe counties have already adopted such ordinances and package liquor is available there on Sundays.

The economics and business competition issues were forcefully argued by Commissioners William J. Runco, from Dearborn, Mary E. Dumas, Livonia, Kay Beard, Inkster, and Arthur M. Carter, Detroit, according to a press release from the county.

Runco said Wayne County "ought to equalize" with surrounding counties where liquor store owners are gaining business from Wayne residents, and also within the county where bar owners are allowed Sunday sales but package-store owners are not.

Mrs. Dumas said that the question is neither moral or ethical, but purely a business consideration, with Wayne County losing business to neighboring counties.

"Our small businessmen need and deserve the same equity," Mrs. Beard said. "The majority of counties in the state allow Sunday sales, and it really doesn't make any sense for us not to allow it also."

An opponent of Sunday sales in the past, Carter said additional research changed his opinion. Citing Prohibition as an example, Carter said that "people have a way of finding their pleasure" regardless of the law. He said also that he has found no evidence of increased alcoholism in neighboring counties because of the Sunday sales.

Killen spoke against the ordinance, he said, because the availability of any drug increases its use. "If somebody has to go outside the county for a drink, he is in pretty bad shape," Killen declared. "It disturbs me when I hear it said that this is not a moral issue."

Agreeing with Killen that alcoholism is a disease, Carter pointed to unemployment as "another kind of disease." Losing business means losing jobs and employment opportunity, he said, but he urged the board to continue county anti-alcohol-abuse programs.

'Meter Beater' starts Sept. 26

The Mack Avenue mini bus has been dubbed "Meter Beater" by Susan Bockstanz, who is the winner of the "name the mini bus contest" sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association (GPBPA). She will receive prizes donated by various businesses in the GPBPA.

The "Meter Beater" will serve Mack Avenue shoppers starting Sept. 26, making its run from Brys to Moross and back. Shoppers may park in a convenient municipal lot or walk to Mack to catch the bus. The fare is 10 cents but free bus tickets are available from Mack Avenue businesses.

The "Meter Beater" will run every Saturday in September, October and November, with expanded service Monday through Saturday during December. It will start at 11 a.m. and make its last run at 6 p.m. If the 14-passenger "Meter Beater" service is used by shoppers, association President Al Adams says that there is a good chance the service will be extended beyond the current March cutoff date.

The "Meter Beater" mini bus is made possible through the cooperation of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association and the City of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Hunger Walk II to benefit area, overseas poor

The Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association will sponsor Hunger Walk II on Sunday, Oct. 4. Registration will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the gym of St. Paul School on Grosse Pointe Boulevard. A celebrity kick-off ceremony at 2 p.m. will send participants on a 10-mile walk through the Grosse Pointes.

Sr. Betty Flaherty, of St. Paul Catholic Church hopes this year's walk will have twice the number of participants and money raised, although the 1980 Hunger Walk was the largest first walk anywhere in the United States, she said.

"Almost 1,000 people finished the 10 miles, raising over $30,000," she said. Film of last year's walk is scheduled to be shown this month on Grosse Pointe Cable Television.

All money raised is used to supply food to the hungry, not only in remote parts of the world, but also locally. Gleaners Community Food Bank, a local food supplier, received 25 percent of funds raised in order to supply many local centers which feed the poor. Overseas nutrition programs received the remaining 75 percent.

The Ministerial Association sponsors the Hunger Walk under the direction of CROP, an organization which sponsors fund-raising activities across the nation. CROP has been overseas walks for more than 10 years and, although the events are carried on nationwide, Michigan has had the honor of having the largest held, with the Grand Rapids area taking credit.

Sponsor sheets for Hunger Walk II are available at Grosse Pointe churches, and the front cover sheet should be brought along when registering for the walk.

The Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association consists of 24 area churches, along with civic organizations.

Just for vaccinating the children of Catherine the Great, the English physician, Thomas Dimsdale, who made house calls, was paid $50,000 in cash, an annual pension of $10,000 and the title of Baron.

Scientists slate lecture Sept. 29

"The great working-tool," is one way a Christian Science lecturer describes prayer.

In a public lecture Sept. 29 at 8 p.m., titled simply, "How Do You Pray?" Neil H. Bowles of Atlanta, Ga., examines Christian prayer — in light of Christian Science teachings — as something more "than pleading with God."

"To pray as Christ Jesus did," says Bowles, "should be the goal of every Christian." He points out that effective prayer "spiritually educates, stimulates desire for growth in grace, livens spiritual unfoldment and quickens realization."

From his many years' experience in the Christian healing ministry of Christian Science, Bowles discusses not only what prayer is, but also what it isn't. For instance, he points out that healing prayer "is not a mere recital of words, a formula, or an exercise of suggesting one's self into an improved mental attitude."

"Far from it," he adds, "prayer's motivation is a fervent desire to know God, to understand man as God's likeness and a willingness to conform to that likeness — to be worthy of what we pray for."

Bowles relates healing instances in his lecture which show the purpose of prayer to be a reforming and redeeming influence; prayer that relates to a way of life epitomized by the New Testament injunction to "Pray without ceasing."

The Bowles lecture is being sponsored by Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, Detroit, 14710 Kercheval, one block west of Alter Road.

Portraits honor three auto giants

The automotive industry honored three of its most distinguished former leaders in Detroit last month.

Saluted by the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association (MVMA) were Roy D. Chapin, Sr., a founder of Hudson Motor Car Company; Alvan Macauley, Sr., of Packard Motor Car Company, and George W. Mason, Sr., founder of American Motors Corporation.

Oil paintings of the three executives—all former presidents of MVMA—were presented to their heirs by V.J. Adduci, current president and chief executive officer of the Association, at a luncheon at the Recess Club.

"These men made invaluable contributions to the transportation industry and often were called upon to make decisions that left a deep impression on the history of our industry," Adduci commented.

"Alvan Macauley presided over Packard when that company literally gave its renowned Liberty engine to the nation during World War I. In World War II, Mr. Macauley headed the Automobile Council for War Production, a creation of the Association. The Council's members were credited with a sixth of the nation's entire war material output," Adduci said.

"Roy Chapin may well have been the father of America's unparalleled highway system," Adduci said. "He kept our domestic highway lifelines open during a winter blizzard in World War I and never relaxed in his fight for better roads. Mr. Chapin also served our nation as Secretary of Commerce to President Herbert Hoover."

"George W. Mason, a champion of the compact car, was a seer of his time. His efforts were paramount to the success of two of our largest companies today."

"He supervised the production of the first Chrysler car which made that company a force in the automotive market. It was Mr. Mason who brought Nash and Hudson together to form American Motors," Adduci said.

Adduci described the former MVMA executives as typical of the kind of leadership the industry is able to produce in times of need.

Receiving the portraits were Alvan Macauley, Jr., Roy D. Chapin, Jr., and three of Mr. Mason's children — Mrs. Barbara Bratton, Jack Mason and George W. Mason, Jr.

The paintings, completed when the men were in office, have hung in the board room of MVMA headquarters.

MVMA member companies account for the production of nearly all of the nation's cars and trucks. They are American Motors Corporation, Checker Motors Corporation, Chrysler Corporation, Ford Motor Company, Freightliner Corporation, General Motors Corporation, International Harvester Company, Mack Trucks, Inc., PACCAR Inc., Volkswagen of America, Inc., and White Motor Corporation.

Sign-up tonight for Cub Scouts

There aren't a lot of boys who look with relish on the beginning of another school year. After all, with school comes less playtime, earlier bedtime, less TV and, of course, homework.

But tonight, Sept. 24, at 7:30 p.m. there's something going on at school that a boy can actually look forward to. It's School Night to join Cub Scouting.

School Night, a state-wide Cub recruiting program, will be held at all elementary schools in Michigan, including public and private schools in Grosse Pointe. Communities involved in the Lakeshore District of the Detroit Area Boy Scout Council include Northeast Detroit, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes.

The event is designed to acquaint third, fourth and fifth graders and their parents with the opportunities and programs scouting offers.

To parents, that means things like character development, citizenship training and mental and physical fitness. To the youngsters, it means fun in the form of field trips, outings and day camps and activities like miniature car and rocket derbies and an olympics program.

For more information, parents of third, fourth or fifth graders may call Lakeshore District School Night chairperson Clare Kreher at 886-5934 or the Detroit Area Council, Boy Scouts of America at 897-1965.

Inter-Faith tours Detroit

The Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice announces a series of monthly tours of Detroit to be conducted by members of its Neighborhood Task Force.

Each tour will focus on a different area of Detroit as part of the Inter-Faith Center's program to increase the awareness of our area's rich ethnic and racial heritage and to identify factors that lead to neighborhood decay and revitalization.

The tours originate from the office of the Inter-Faith Center, 17150 Maumee, and begin at about 9 a.m. Individual tours are $4. Transportation is by van. Reservations must be made in advance by calling the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice, 882-6464.

Following is a schedule of 1981-1982 tours:

Saturday, Oct. 3, the Cultural Center, Nov. 14, The New Center area, Poletown, and Virginia Park, Dec. 12, historic Detroit churches, Jan. 16, Neighborhoods of Detroit, Feb. 13, The Medical Center and Eastern Market, Mar. 13, The New Center area, Poletown, & Virginia Park, April 24, The Cultural Center, May 22, Downtown Detroit, June 5, The Downriver area, including Fort Wayne.

Purvis retires after 20 years

St. Paul School will host a retirement reception for school secretary Catherine Purvis Sunday, Sept. 27, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the school cafeteria, 170 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Mrs. Purvis of Grosse Pointe Woods is retiring this month after 20 years of service to the school.

"She has been the mainstay of a number of principals over those years and has endeared herself to so many parents and children," said David Giles, St. Paul principal.

For more information about the reception, call the school at 885-3430.

It's School Night to Join Cub Scouting. Getting ready to meet prospective new Cubs at Kerby School are Pack 456 Scouts (left to right) Billy Auran and Merriweather Road, Lakeshore District School Night Chairperson Clare Kreher and Andrew Hoag of Lothrop Road. School Night, which starts at 7:30 p.m. tonight, is a statewide Cub Scout recruiting drive held at all elementary schools.

Ridgemont neighbors form group

The Grosse Pointe Woods Neighborhood Association, a new group of concerned citizens in the northwest corner of the city, is sponsoring a "park day" from 2 until 6 p.m. at Chene-Trombley Park on Saturday, Sept. 26 to kick off a fund raising drive to improve the facility.

"We're inviting all people in Grosse Pointe Woods to rediscover Chene-Trombley Park," said Harold Ruttan of Ridgemont, a neighborhood activist who organized efforts to upgrade the park located on Ridgemont west of Mack.

Ruttan started a petition drive several weeks ago to call attention to what he called the blighted condition of the park. Since then the city has begun to maintain the park more regularly, added new picnic tables and garbage cans, and repainted graffiti-covered playground equipment. "Don Hallmann (director of parks and recreation) and the city have responded to the people's needs and are doing a great job," Ruttan said.

Bill Catalfo, owner of Mr. C's Deli on Mack at Ridgemont will donate money from a month of pizza sales to the park effort and will supply pizza for park day, Ruttan said. Grosse Pointe Cable TV will also be there to record the happenings, Ruttan said.

Improvements to Chene-Trombley Park are part of a $1.9 million plan to upgrade all Woods parks which the city council is considering placing on the Nov. 3 ballot. The plan would be financed by a one mill increase in residents' taxes for five years.

Ruttan says the neighborhood fund raising drive will continue whether the park plan is implemented or not.

Ewald fund gives students $44,000

Ted Ewald recently presented scholarships to 15 Detroit-area students through the H. T. Ewald Foundation.

Each scholarship is for four years, or in the case of graduate students, for the term of study. It is the 25th year the funds have been presented.

The H. T. Ewald Foundation was established in 1929 through endowments given by the late H. T. Ewald, advertising pioneer and founder and president of the Campbell-Ewald Company, for the purpose of helping students to develop their full potential through higher education. Since 1957 over half a million dollars has been awarded to 217 students.

Ewald interviews every scholarship candidate personally and maintains close contact with them throughout their college careers. This year more than 50 students will receive financial assistance from the foundation, including the 15 new students who recently received their awards. The total amount awarded for 1981 is more than $44,000.

Recipients of the 1981 scholarship awards include Peter E. Mogk, of Grosse Pointe Woods, a graduate of North High School, who will attend Miami of Ohio University; Laurie Ann Grekovicz, of Detroit, a graduate of Regina High School, who will attend Eastern Michigan University; Elizabeth Wahl, of Detroit, a graduate of University Liggett School, who will attend Yale University.

Citizens called for jury duty will not have to go to the courtroom but rather will be able to serve in their own homes by watching the trials on two-way television. Such is the quiet opinion of Arthur England, Jr., chief justice of the Florida Supreme Court.

A Century of Caring

In 1881, three missionaries from the French order of the Sisters of Bon Secours arrived in Baltimore, Maryland. The Sisters, skilled and educated nurses, came to the growing city in response to a call for help during a city-wide health crisis. With black cloth bags, filled with necessities to aid the sick and poor, the Sisters went from home to home to care for those in need.

Now, it is 1981 and the Sisters' black bags have become hospitals, nursing homes, a home for crippled children, a center for the treatment of alcoholism and drug dependency, a community health care system and a spiritual center. The Sisters have successfully blended the use of modern technology with a deep concern for each patient. And today, their health care ministry in the United States extends through six states.

In our community, the Sisters sponsor Bon Secours Hospital. Guided by the Sisters' ideals, the hospital promotes progress in health care to meet changing needs.

Annually providing over 100,000 days of patient care, Bon Secours Hospital serves children, young adults, families and the elderly. Also, continuing the Sisters' mission to encourage the health of our community, Bon Secours Hospital offers many community service programs.

Prime Time
For Senior Citizens

Fresh from the SOC (Seniors Onward for Change) symposium on how to get more for less energy wise, many local seniors are undoubtedly forewarned and armed to stay warm this winter without breaking the family budget.

This is good because investing in heat-saving devices and taking advantage of discounts from utility companies is definitely better than turning down the heat to a point where it can be hazardous to the health.

Home temperatures of 65 degrees or even less may be fine for younger folks but unfortunately the physiological mechanisms that compensate for variations of temperature are less efficient in older people and sometimes so weak that they allow body temperatures in older persons to fall or rise to dangerous levels with even small changes in temperature. These changes, according to the National Institute of Health, can produce disease and even permanent damage to the body.

TO PUT IT PLAINLY, an excessively cold living condition can lead to a progressive fall in body temperature, and the collapse of the cardiovascular system which maintains the flow of blood to various parts of the body. This condition is called hypothermia.

Hypothermia can affect persons of all ages. In younger people it occurs under such conditions as exposure to severe outdoor weather as, for example, young hikers stranded on a mountain on a cold night or young sailors wrecked in cold waters. Such stringent conditions need not exist for older people to suffer from hypothermia.

Even mildly cool temperatures of 60 degrees Fahrenheit can trigger a condition known as "accidental hypothermia." Diseases of the veins and arteries and treatments with certain drugs make a person more susceptible to this condition.

Accidental hypothermia is not a new condition but recognition of it is. Credit for describing it goes largely to research done in Great Britain over the past 25 years. Those studies showed that 10 percent of the older population in Great Britain were susceptible to accidental hypothermia. The percentage in the United States may be higher because there are more elderly in the U.S. and larger areas with harsh winter conditions.

The risk of hypothermia depends on several factors. The most vulnerable are persons living alone with few visitors, particularly if the victim has an accident, can not get help and is left in that condition for several hours in a cold room.

Another contributing factor is an inability to shiver. Shivering, which is a series of muscular contractions, is triggered to convert stored energy such as sugar to heat energy. Usually this heat production is sufficient to protect the body against hypothermia. If the temperature is too low shivering doesn't happen and the person goes into cardiovascular collapse; blood flow to the organs becomes inadequate and blood pressure falls.

Various medications may increase vulnerability to accidental hypothermia particularly those given for anxiety, depression, nausea and sedation that contain phenothiazines.

AN INTERESTING sideline on hypothermia is that it is sometimes deliberately induced to slow metabolism, breathing, heartbeat and other physiological processes in surgery. Also, infants under one year are also susceptible. Immature temperature control is thought to be the reason for occurrence in infants.

The reasons for differences in cold reaction between young and old persons is not known. Studies report that older persons do not show heat production to the extent that younger people do when exposed to the cold. Older people have decreased ability to control their heat loss in a cold environment by constriction of the blood vessels of the skin. Also, scientists have reported that the old are less able to sense cold. One study showed that they complained less of the cold than younger people although they were not adapting as well to the cold.

However, not all older persons react in the same way to cold. Some are more susceptible and it is this group which needs special consideration.

Even though a temperature has generally been considered safe, some older persons with vascular diseases may need to set the thermostat higher.

There are older people who have atherosclerosis, a condition which narrows the arteries and impedes the blood flow through them. One set of arteries commonly affected is that which supplies the legs, producing a form of peripheral vascular disease (PVD).

In a cold environment the body conserves heat by constricting the small vessels to parts of the body, including the legs. This reduction of flow plus that already caused by the atherosclerosis can make person with peripheral vascular disease vulnerable to ulcer formation. People with PVD need to maintain temperature in their homes higher than 65 degrees.

Other conditions which could signal a vulnerability to hypothermia are dizziness when changing positions such as getting out of bed, standing or any change of position. If these problems are due to low blood pressure, than hypothermia must be guarded against since this involves failure of the blood vessels to constrict.

Slow thyroids that reduce the rate of metabolism, head injuries, strokes, immobilizing diseases such as severe arthritis and Parkinsons disease, or a previous experience with hypothermia are other conditions that warrant special pains to avoid chill and possible hypothermia.

However all older people and especially those 75 years and older should avoid prolonged exposure to even mild cold without taking care to keep warm. Besides maintaining comfortable temperatures they should wear adequate clothing, including sweaters, robes, warm socks and have enough blankets on their beds.

How can hypothermia be detected? One way is taking the victim's temperature by using a special low-reading clinical thermometer whose scale goes below the usual point of 94 degrees Fahrenheit. A less reliable method is to feel if the abdomen is noticeably cold. Another sign is trembling on one side of the body or in one arm or leg but not shivering. Low blood pressure, irregular and slowed heart beat, slurred speech, shallow, very slow breathing and drowsiness could be telling signs.

These signs can be confused with stroke, diabetic coma or heart conditions. Consulting the victim does not clarify the true condition because often there are no complaints of being cold. The victim should be seen by a physician. A body temperature under 90 degrees must be treated as a medical emergency and the victim hospitalized.

If the body temperature does not go below 90 degrees, the person can be treated at home. Experts in the field advise that the rewarming should be done slowly, more than one degree per hour and blood pressure must be held steady. Rapid rewarming can be fatal. Rapid rewarming may dilute the blood vessels in the skin, further lowering blood pressure. It should be supervised by a physician.

Recovery depends on the severity and duration of the exposure to cold as well as to general health before the incident.

If the body temperature does not drop below 90 degrees chances for recovery are good.

Because hypothermia has been so recently identified, there is much to be done in the way of identifying those who are susceptible. At present, the most effective way to protect older citizens from accidental hypothermia is to educate physicians on the signs and treatment of the condition and encourage older people to find out if they are vulnerable and be careful to keep themselves warm in even mildly cold environments. Although energy conservation is a goal toward which we all must strive, special consideration must be given to insure protection against hypothermia and other health hazards which the cold winds of winter bring.

Cancer victims learn to cope

A patient education program designed to help people seek strengths and resources to cope with the chronic disease cancer and its therapies is being offered at Saint John Hospital, through the efforts of American Cancer Society volunteers.

The "I Can Cope" program series which was developed at North Memorial Medical in Minnesota, will be presented on eight consecutive Tuesdays, Sept. 29 through Nov. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Saint John, 22101 Moross Road. Upjohn Healthcare Services is providing additional funding assistance to initiate "I Can Cope" programs in various locations in the tri-county area.

The objectives of the classes are three-fold: to increase the cancer patient's knowledge of the disease; to increase the cancer patient's control over his or her life, and to decrease the anxiety the cancer patient feels about the disease.

The program will be led by Camille C. Klimecki, manager of Patient Education, and Diane K. Nicodem, American Cancer Society volunteer.

The weekly class sessions help participants increase knowledge about physical anatomy, cancer, potential health problems, nutrition, communication skills, stress awareness, physical fitness, utilizing community resources and the essential role patients play in their own treatment.

Guest instructors will include a St. John oncologist, registered dietitian, medical social worker, physical therapist and occupational therapist and community resource professionals.

Cancer patients and family members can register for the "I Can Cope" course by calling Carmen, at St. John's patient service department, 343-3870, or American Cancer Society, 557-5353. There is no fee but class size is limited and participants are expected to attend every class session. Persons interested in courses held at other tri-county locations should inquire at the American Cancer Society by calling 557-5353.

His parking idea is worth $4,000

Bon Secours Hospital employee Rudy Tonello has received the largest award ever made by the hospital for an employee suggestion. His award, over $4,000 represents 10 percent of the savings gained by the hospital through the rearrangement of the parking deck.

Following an extensive study of the hospital's upper parking deck and other area parking lots, Tonello developed a parking arrangement that created 90 new parking spaces. He built a scale model to illustrate his idea.

Tonello's award is the result of a Bon Secours Hospital program to encourage and reward employees for ideas which improve the quality of patient care and improve the hospital's cost efficiency.

A modern 'Macbeth' at the Attic Theatre

Those who associate Shakespeare's plays with the traditional in theater will not be familiar with director James Smith's interpretation of Macbeth which is running at the Attic Theatre through Oct. 31.

The cast will be dressed in stone colored judo outfits and leotards. They will perform barefoot in an empty stone colored stage area with almost no props, under natural lighting that will embrace both actors and audience.

Guest director James Smith, from the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Art (LAMDA), says he aims to relate the bard's tragedy in simple terms, allowing the audience to identify with Macbeth the man, and what happens when he makes a wrong choice.

Ramon Ramos will play Macbeth. Ramos recently returned to the Attic Theatre Company after spending a year studying the classics at LAMDA on a Fulbright grant.

Performances will run Thursdays and Fridays at 8 p.m., Saturdays at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. and Sundays at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $6 to $8. Group rates are available.

The Attic Theatre is located at 525 East Lafayette at Beaubien in Greektown. Ticket information may be obtained by calling 963-7789.

Walk Thru this Sunday

An Evangelism Walk-Thru is planned for Sunday, September 27, by members of Christ the King Lutheran Church, 20338 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods. The area chosen for this event includes portions of the Woods and Harper Woods which are north of Vernier, east of Harper, and west of Morningside Drive.

Departing the church at 2 p.m., about 40 volunteers will make house-to-house visits in this area. Working in teams of two, the volunteers will approach a home, introduce themselves and extend an invitation to visit Christ the King.

A small pamphlet of literature about Christ the King church will also be offered. For those not at home, the pamphlet will be left in lieu of a personal invitation.

Weather permitting, Walk-Thru officials speculate they will visit 1,500 homes.

Christ the King has had two previous Walk-Thrus in the Pointe area. The first in 1975 and the second in 1979.

Park police stop Buckingham bash

It took Grosse Pointe Park police officers almost two hours to break up a party on Buckingham Road Saturday, Sept. 19, after several neighbors complained about excessive noise and rowdiness.

The party was sponsored by an 18-year old youth whose parents were vacationing out of the country, leaving him and his grandmother at the house.

Police estimated more than 300 people were at the party in the 1300 block when they arrived, enjoying a keg of beer and a live band. Neighbors complained as festivities spilled out into the streets and party goers were breaking bottles and being loud.

Police arrived at about 8:30 p.m. and cleared the party at 11:20, according to reports. They questioned the youth's grandmother who said she had no idea her grandson was planning a party.

Maire collects paper and metal

Marie School will sponsor a Paper Drive/Recycling Day on Saturday, Sept. 26 in the school parking lot. Hours are on Friday between 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 3:15 to 4 p.m., and on Saturday from 10 a.m.-3 p.m.

Students are collecting newspapers tied or in grocery bags. Non-magnetic scrap metal is also being collected (aluminum, brass, copper, lead, etc.). If you have any old gutters, or plumbing fixtures, bring them to the school. Proceeds of the drive will go for PTO purchases for the school.

Bloody Marys for everyone

Get a load of those tomatoes! Bill and Martha Schilke, of North Edgewood Road, are serious when it comes to tomato plants. They have three in all, and all of them measuring over 10 feet high. However, the Godzilla of tomato plants is this Burpee Big Boy that measures 14 feet tall by 10 feet across. This particular plant has provided 60 tomatoes thus far, and the Schilkes expect at least 200 from it altogether. Apparently, the Schilkes believe the secret to big plants is mixing used coffee grounds into the soil before planting. If the bush gets any larger, the Schilkes better start hiring Sherpa guides to climb up on the roof to harvest the tomatoes!

Hams move to North High

One of the largest amateur radio clubs in Michigan has moved its meeting place to North High School. The South Eastern Michigan Amateur Radio Association, known as SEMARA, has more than 175 active members from the Pointes and surrounding communities.

The club is sponsoring, jointly with the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, continuing education classes in amateur radio which prepare participants for various license examinations given by the Federal Communications Commission.

Meetings are held on the first Friday of each month in the "student commons" area of North High, near the gym, at 7:30 p.m. Visitors are welcome with no age limit. The club has licensed members from 8 to 80 who will explain the hobby and how they talk to the world.

The first fall meeting on Sept. 11 drew more than 100 members and guests to hear Duane Johnson, of the Pointes, president of the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross. Johnson presented a new Red Cross film, shown for the first time in Michigan, covering historically Red Cross services in great disasters over the years. It was well received since many amateurs furnish essential disaster communications for the Red Cross, as well as participate in civil emergency programs such as Sky-Warn tornado watch.

The club's president, Frank Baldwin, and First Vice-President Everett Hawley, are both Pointe residents, as well as many others. The club welcomes inquiries concerning its various activities or about amateur radio, or "Ham Radio" as its is affectionately called. Call Hawley at 885-6634 for more information.

Fall sculpture course is offered

Sculpture classes will be taught at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial by Hungarian sculptor, Frank Varga.

Students will work in clay often using live models. The clay works may then be fired in the instructor's own studio kilns.

Sculpture classes will be offered Monday evenings, 8 to 10 p.m., now to Nov. 23. The instructional fee is $55 for 10 lessons plus glazing fee. Either a realistic or stylized approach may be pursued.

For more information call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Yoga continues

Yoga study and practice continues on Wednesday evenings, Sept. 16 to Nov. 11 under the instruction of certified Golden Lotus teacher Betty Locke at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

The class teaches relaxation of mind and body, suppleness through stances and attitudes and elimination of worry through concentration.

Light exercise clothing should be worn and an exercise mat or rug brought to class.

The fee is $25 for the term. Beginners will meet from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. and the intermediate class will meet from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Angel Park, an animal depot

By Tad Goodwin

Several Detroit residents were surprised one Monday a few weeks ago to see Grosse Pointe Park Dog Warden Tom Schenkel drop off an injured raccoon at Detroit's Angel Park at the foot of Alter Road.

Detroit Joe Smith, of Frankfort, explained what he saw.

"This guy came into Angel Park driving a Grosse Pointe Park van," Smith said. "He took out a cage with a raccoon on it. Then he took a stick and opened the door of the cage."

Smith explained that the raccoon appeared to be injured.

"He (the raccoon) did not look happy at all," Smith said. "He limped about two miles per hour over toward some trees. Then he tried to climb a couple of trees, but he kept falling down, he couldn't make it."

Smith said that and some of his friends spoke with Schenkel who explained that he often brings animals captured in Grosse Pointe Park to Angel Park.

One of Smith's friends tried to call the Detroit Humane Society to see if someone could treat the raccoon. The Detroit Humane Society is closed on Mondays due to a lack of funds. All Smith's friend heard was a recording.

Later that day at the Park municipal building on Jefferson, Dog Warden Schenkel explained that the raccoon in question is one of several caught each week by Park residents using special traps provided by the city.

"We started out three years ago with one trap," Schenkel said. "Residents use them to trap squirrels and raccoons that find their way into an attic. We now have four traps to lend due to the great demand."

The traps are made of wire grid about 3'x2'x2' with doors on each end that swing downward.

Schenkel demonstrated how the traps work.

"The resident places the trap in the attic," he said. "They put some food like peanut butter in the trap and leave the doors open. When the animal takes the food the doors swing down trapping the animal. The trap does not hurt the animal," Schenkel added.

When asked why he left an injured raccoon in Angel Park, Schenkel replied, "I didn't realize that the raccoon was injured."

Schenkel said even if he had known the raccoon was injured, he would not have been able to find veterinary care for it.

"None of the vets around here will touch wild animals. Either we let them go, or we are forced to shoot them. I figure I'm doing the humane thing letting them go," he said.

Schenkel was questioned as to why he leaves captured animals at Angel Park rather than some other place.

"I called the U.S. Department of Natural Resources. They told me that I should leave the animals in a park near a water source. Angel Park is the closest place. To take them to Belle Isle would be too time consuming," he said.

The raccoon was last seen at Angel Park limping slowly through the long grass. Children were throwing stones at it.

ANNOUNCING THE TAX SHAVER.

Up to $2,000 in tax-free interest.

On October 1, you can start shaving your taxes down to size. That's the day you can invest $500 or more in our one-year tax-free Tax Shaver certificate. You can earn up to $2,000 in interest free of federal and state taxes if you file a joint return; $1,000 if you file an individual return.

Our Tax Shaver pays you an interest rate that's equal to 70% of the latest one-year Treasury Bill rate, the highest allowed by law. Since the interest is tax-free, the equivalent taxable yield is a lot higher. If your taxable income is high, your equivalent yield could be 24% or more.

Your investment is fully insured by FSLIC and your interest rate is guaranteed for the one-year term. And if you have a D&N 6-month Money Market Certificate, you can roll it over into the tax-free Tax Shaver with no penalty.

Check out the equivalent yield in your bracket. Then check in with Detroit & Northern for complete details. Do it now and start shaving those taxes with a Tax Shaver.

The tax-free rate on October 1, 1981 is 12.61%. A new rate will be established October 5, so call for the latest rate.

ULS seniors earn merit honors

First round results of the National Merit Scholarship competition are in and seven ULS students have been named National Merit Semi-Finalists. They are Kayvan Ariani, Hilary Feeser, Kathy Hull, Mark McKinnon, Jeff Peters, Suzanne Stroh and Roger Wu.

A great deal has been written about the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, the basis for its decisions and the scholarships. However, less is said about the kind of student who is selected to be a Merit Scholar.

Semi-Finalist Kayvan Ariani traded in his guitar and lead role in a band last summer to attend an economics course at Harvard University. While earning eight undergraduate credits, he learned about college life as well as his future major. Currently Kayvan is the Arts-Opinion Editor for the University Liggett student newspaper, Knightly News, Student Council vice-president and co-captain of the varsity soccer squad.

A former editor of the ULS Yearbook, Hilary Feeser, is equally likely to be found singing with the octet, playing lacrosse or serving as acolyte for Grosse Pointe's Christ Church. This National Merit Semi-Finalist was also elected a representative to the Student Council and is a member of the High School Activities Council at the War Memorial. Hilary, whose long-range goal is to be a psychologist, feels it important to serve the ULS community and to take full advantage of all that it offers.

Meeting bi-monthly deadlines for the Knightly News keeps its editor Kathy Hull going at a fast clip. Intent on pursuing journalism as a career, she attended classes this summer at Northwestern University and serves on the ULS yearbook staff. An avid reader and sometime photographer, Kathy plays tennis, basketball, squash and softball.

The youngest member of the ULS senior class, Mark McKinnon describes himself as a computer aficionado. Developed through course work and independent study, his expertise with computers has earned him a position at the Detroit College of Law where he does statistical analysis. Mark estimates that he reads 90 to 100 books each year, primarily fantasy and science fiction. "Reading," he claims, "is what motivated me to write a novel which is currently being considered for publication."

Jeff Peters, who hopes to pursue a law degree and eventually enter politics, plays on many ULS athletic teams but ranks football as his number one sport. For the past three years, Jeff has been his grade representative to the Athletic Council, and in his junior year was elected Junior Prom Chairman.

Recipient of the ULS Betty Ellis Award for Sportsmanship, Suzanne Stroh is currently the Junior President of Tau Beta. Always eager to play field hockey, lacrosse or squash, she hopes that a writing career will be in her future. Suzanne's curiosity about life has prompted her to try her hand at various jobs from research for Ford Rebuilders to wrangling on a Montana ranch.

Often juggling camera equipment, a cello and books, semi-finalist Roger Wu is easy to spot on campus. His photographs have appeared in all school publications and his love for music has been nurtured at Interlochen and showcased at performances in the Detroit area. Roger also serves on the ULS players' Board of Governors, a body which helps to select, produce and promote dramatic works. His interest in psychology and psychiatry led him to become a summer volunteer at Harper-Grace Hospital researching alcoholism denial.

In March, merit finalists will be named.

PTA-PTO plan busy school year

The Grosse Pointe PTA/PTO and Associated Groups Council, comprised of the 17 parent-teacher organizations in the area's 15 public schools, has announced its program and meeting schedule for the 1981-82 school year.

On Nov. 16, during National Education Week, the council will host a regular meeting at South High School where a special presentation titled, "TV Awareness for Parents," will be featured.

On Sunday, Dec. 13, the parent organization will host its third annual Christmas Sing-Along on the front lawn of South High School at 6 p.m. It will be co-sponsored by several other community organizations and feature local celebrities. Hot beverage refreshments will be served.

The council's Jan. 25 meeting at Trombley Elementary School will feature a special presentation titled, "Educating the Gifted Child."

Meetings will also be held March 2 at Barnes Elementary School, and April 26 at Brownell Middle School, although special programs for these meetings have yet to be finalized. Two years ago, the council began rotating its meetings to various schools, enabling delegates to become more familiar with the different facilities.

The PTA/PTO Council's first meeting was held Sept. 17 at Richard Elementary School, and featured a presentation by school Superintendent Dr. Kenneth Brummel and Board of Education Vice-President Ronald Dalby.

Brummel told delegates his primary objective for maintaining quality education would be to "develop partnerships" and assure input and information from as many avenues as possible.

"I am anxious to work with the council, parents, parent-teacher organizations, the Board of Education and the school staff through a partnership of responsibilities," Brummel said.

Dalby praised the effective efforts of the council and its close working relationship with the Board of Education, while striving for quality education in the community.

PTA/PTO Council President Edward Deeb said the parent organization looks forward to working with Brummel and the board in achieving educational goals.

"We are looking forward to another exciting and enthusiastic year, hoping to once again dedicate ourselves to serving the children, parents, teachers and staff of the school system," Deeb said.

The PTA/PTO organization has extended invitations to the officers of the non-public schools to participate in the council meetings.

Council officers are Sharon Carlsen, vice-president; Vincent LoCicero, secretary; and Joy Williams, treasurer.

The public is invited to attend programs sponsored by the organization, but only delegates can participate in the business portion of the meetings.

Liggett debaters open second year

At the start of the last school year, debate was an unfamiliar activity to ULS students. Under the tutelage of advisor Lestina Colby, a team was formed, progressed and by year's end ranked in the top 10 in the state.

Last summer 20 squad members attending debate camps at area universities to get an early start researching the 1981-82 proposition: the federal government should establish minimum educational standards for elementary and secondary schools in the U.S.

On Sept. 15, the 26-member ULS Debate Club attended a workshop at Wayne State and researched at that institution's Purdy Library, for its first debate.

How do you do, Mr. Superintendent?

More than 1,000 parents and students got a close-up view of new school supt. Kenneth Brummel (second from left) at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House Sept. 13. The Board of Education hosted the welcoming reception at the Ford House for Brummel and his wife, Josephine, so Grosse Pointers could meet their new superintendent and tour the home.

Yanks are liberal, says SHS foreigner

By Megan Bonanni

"This year will change my whole attitude about my life because I will see the world from a different perspective," said Catherine Lassure, who is one of six foreign exchange students currently studying at South High School.

Catherine, who lives in Paris, got interested in the program after some of her friends told her about their travel to the U.S. She is being sponsored by AFS (American Field Service). Says Catherine, "I am very lucky to be able to spend a whole year here."

"When she first arrived in Grosse Pointe she had to be Americanized," said her host Sister Liz Dobie. "She spoke British English and called a trash can a litterbin. I had to explain to her that a litterbin was for cats."

Catherine has found many differences between life here and life in her native France. One of the biggest differences is the violence on television. "This violence generates a lot of negative feelings. These feelings are bad, especially for a child," Catherine says.

Even though there isn't a lot of violence shown on television in France Catherine still feels that in both countries too much television is watched. "It seems that television sort of breaks up a family," she said.

Another difference Catherine has found is that Americans are more open and liberal. In France, she says, the people are more conservative and are afraid to be foolish. "I think when I return home I will see my friends differently. I think that my relationships will be more true."

Grosse Pointe is not the only place in the U.S. that Catherine has traveled. Earlier this summer she visited California with her host family. Before returning to France she will take a trip to New York with other AFS students from the U.S. "It is amazing to think that I am only one person in a million who has been fortunate enough to meet people from different countries. This will be an experience that I will always remember," Catherine says.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

More than 100 of Detroit's top art patrons sipped cocktails and nibbled hors d'oeuvres at a recent Sunday party at the contemporary home of W. Hawkins Ferry, chairman of the Detroit Institute of Arts' Friends of Modern Art. The party was Mr. Ferry's elegant way of saying "thank you" for major donations to the upcoming FMA Auction and Next Day Sale.

Each guest had contributed fine or decorative art worth over $1,000 to the Auction Sale, which will raise funds for the purchase of works for the Elizabeth and Allan Shelden Sculpture Garden planned for the museum grounds.

"The size of this crowd is a wonderful indication of support for the Auction," Mr. Ferry said. "The new sculpture garden will be one of the beauty spots of Detroit. Those who have participated in the Auction have the satisfaction of knowing that they have helped to make the sculpture garden a reality."

The FMA have already received well over 300 donations, including paintings, prints, textiles, sculpture, ceramics, fine tableware, jewelry and antiques from all periods, and continue to welcome donations in all categories. Many of the works to be auctioned will be on display at the Detroit Institute of Arts starting next Thursday, Oct. 1, and continuing through Tuesday, Oct. 13.

Auction date is Friday, Oct. 16. The live auction, conducted by David Bathurst, president of the New York branch of Christie's, will be preceded by a silent auction. Information on tickets, at $75 for the preview, silent auction, live auction and patron afterglow, $25 for everything with the afterglow excepted, may be obtained by calling 833-7879.

Admission to the Next Day Sale, running from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 17, at The Roostertail, is $2. Mr. Ferry, of Lakeshore Road, is honorary Auction Sale chairman. Ralph Mandarino, also of The Pointe, is general chairman.

General co-chairman and acquisitions chairman is Mrs. Maxwell Jospey, of Franklin. Among those serving on the honorary FMA Auction Sale committee are Governor and Mrs. William Milliken, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford II, Mrs. Dean Johnson and Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young.

Another Major Art Event

A major event for individuals who appreciate fine graphics is the Detroit Institute of Arts' coup exhibit of 216 rare late Gothic and German Renaissance prints, drawings and books from the collections established at Veste Coburg, the fortified castle north of Nuremberg which once sheltered Martin Luther.

"From A Mighty Fortress" debuts at the DIA Friday, Oct. 2, with a black tie, $50 per person subscription dinner preview. The evening starts at 6:30 p.m. when leading collectors and museum curators from the United States and Europe gather for a cocktail reception.

The honorary committee for the preview includes Dr.

A limited number of tickets for students and senior citizens, at $4, will be available at the box office starting at 7:30 p.m. on concert nights. MasterCard Zinman made his American debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra in the spring of 1967. Since that time, he has conducted many leading North American ensembles including the orchestras of Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, Minnesota, Toronto, Baltimore, San Francisco and Houston.

He has led many European orchestras, including the Amsterdam Concertgebouw, the London and BBC Symphony Orchestras, the Royal Philharmonic, the Paris Conservatory Orchestra, l'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande and the Israel Philharmonic.

Tocco, the son of music-loving Sicilian immigrant parents, began winning prizes, one of which carried with it a scholarship for study at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, at an early age. After further study with Magda Tagliaferro in Paris and later with Claudio Arrau, the young pianist began to concertize in Europe and North and South America.

His debut with a major American symphony orchestra was in Detroit in 1968. He performed the first Tchaikovsky concerto (which he performs in Ford Auditorium this week) under Arthur Fiedler at a DSO spring Cabaret Pops.

This was followed by a highly-acclaimed New York debut, from which he went on to win several more prizes and to appear with the Chicago Symphony and many other American orchestras, and in recital in music capitals throughout the world. Tocco is a member of the Distinguished Artist Faculty of Indiana University.

Algers return to Alger House...

DR. MARK WEBER, the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's new director, and MRS. BRUCE BOCKSTANZ, member of the War Memorial board, welcome the addition of photographs of Russell A. The photos were obtained by the War Memorial's Docent Committee: a group of approximately 30 women who have researched the past

Homecoming Day at Marygrove College

Marygrove College will host its annual Alumni Homecoming this Saturday, Sept. 26, and two Grosse Pointe alums are chairing the reunion for Marygrove's first graduating class: the Class of 1931. They are Ann Campbell Kurth and Julia Skiffington Cotter, who will welcome back 30 of the classmates who graduated with them 50 years ago.

A special Sunday brunch for the 1931 class is on the agenda for Sunday, Sept. 27, in the Bloomfield Hills home of Jane (Mrs. Judge) Bearden.

Also on hand for Homecoming festivities will be Ginger Lentine DiNatale, chairperson of the Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores Marygrove Alumni Chapter, and Farms resident Mary Command, Class of 1936, who will be hosting the History Room: a special section of memorabilia, class composites and school movies from "the good old days."

The day-long festivities will feature college forums by Marygrove faculty, a noon liturgy, an afternoon reception, fashion show and reunion luncheons. In the evening, activities move from the college campus to the Detroit

Golf Club with cocktails, dinner, dancing and an awards ceremony honoring outstanding community and alumni leaders on the agenda.

This year's special honorees are Margaret Cronyn, editor of The Michigan Catholic, Eleanor M. Josaitis, co-founder and associate director of Focus: HOPE, and Sister Anthony and Mrs. Josef Deutz (he's West German Consul in Detroit), Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Ford II, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Hudson Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stroh, all of The Pointe. Information on tickets may be obtained by calling the museum's Department of Graphic Arts, 833-9830.

Opening Night on Mack Avenue

A while back, Grosse Pointe's Forster family of Forster's Interiors read an article in the NEWS on the Sisters of Bon Secours, celebrating 100 years of service in the United States, and the Forsters were impressed . . . and, when they decided to add another fine Forster Drexel-Heritage furniture store on Mack Avenue in The Pointe, they thought it would be very fitting to make the new store's Grand Opening Preview a benefit for these sisters who have been such a long-time part of The Pointe.

And so, next Wednesday evening, Sept. 30, from 6 to 9 p.m., there'll be champagne and music and bright lights at the newest Forster's Interiors. The party is a benefit for the Bon Secours Hospital Assistance League which promises (among other things) valet parking.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kozlowski, chairmen, are coordinating the event with the Donald Valleys, honorary chairmen, the Lawrence DuMouchelles, in charge of tickets, the Laurance Harwoods, publicity chairmen, and a host committee including Dr. and Mrs. Calier Worrell, the Clayton Alandts, the J. Gordon Kroenerts and the Francis Sheas.

It will be a very Pointe Party featuring, as far as possible, local talent, including a string ensemble from Grosse Pointe South High School, but there is one special guest coming in from The East for Forster's opening festivities.

She's Judy Hymes, of New York's Georgian Lighting Studios, acclaimed for her reproductions of antique medical instruments and decorative accessories. Several of her pieces have been accepted for display by the Smithsonian Institution. Five of them will go home Wednesday with lucky preview guests.

At the preview party, Mrs. Hymes will explain the origins of such pieces as the Darwin Microscope. She'll give another, impromptu lecture at Forster's Thursday, Oct. 1, at 10 a.m. It's free, and open to the public.

Information on preview tickets, at $15 per person, may be obtained by calling 343-1520. Reservations are limited.

Star Struck Casting Call

Work on the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center's fifth annual musical production Star Struck gets underway next Tuesday evening, Sept. 29, with an open casting call Meet the Director Party at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club Tennis House.

This year's show, with Ellen (Mrs. Douglas) Cooke and Jane (Mrs. Michael) Pooley serving as co-chairmen, makes its debut Thursday, Oct. 22—which gives everyone three weeks to polish performances and bring songs, dances and skits alive. The magic mix will coalesce under the talented hands of a director from New York's, Jerome H. Cargill Agency, who promises to turn housewives into chorus line kickers, Conservative Charlies into exuberant performers. With a wave of his wand, it can happen to you, too!

Tuesday's fun begins at 7:30 p.m. with snacks and entertainment by previous NEGC Follies stars. Then the director takes center stage, to outline the 1981 show and provide glimpses of musical numbers and skits. It's all free, and everyone in the community is invited. Party chairmen are Mary and Bob Leech.

No specific talents are needed to join the Star Struck cast. Remember: if you can talk, you can sing; if you can walk, you can dance. Follies '81 will rehearse some numbers in the mornings, others in the evenings, so "I can't make rehearsals" is no excuse. If stagelights really do give you the jitters, how about working behind the scenes, on make-up, sets or costumes? Talent co-chairmen Sharyn (Mrs. Christopher) Mannino and Mary (Mrs. George) Shammass insist there's a place for everyone who wants to try out.

Proceeds from Star Struck will benefit our own local mental health facility, the Northeast Guidance Center, serving East Detroit, Harper Woods and all Grosse Pointe. This year, over 100 cast members will be singing and dancing for this worthwhile cause, and they'll have a tremendous time doing it. They'd love to have you join them. The number to call for more information is 824-8000.

Bargain Boutique East new home is GP Park

The Bargain Boutique East, a long familiar resale shop at 14922 Kercheval Avenue in Detroit, has moved several blocks down the street to 15302 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Park. The boutique sells everything from last year's high-fashion castaways to fashion accessories from past decades.

Its clothes and collectibles will continue to appeal to those looking for bargain outfits as well as those searching for a hat, sweater, belt or shoes to brighten up a plain outfit with the new "old" look so popular today.

The boutique accepts donations of men's, women's and children's clothing, toys, small household items and other collectibles. Donors, volunteers and customers will find the store open Tuesday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. The telephone number is 822-3561.

Merchandise is sold at very modest prices. Tax deductible receipts for the amount at which donations can be sold are given to those donating items.

Proceeds from the Bargain Boutique assist the five agencies of the League of Catholic Women, the oldest and largest social service organization in Detroit, which rebuilds lives and neighborhoods. These agencies are Barst Human Services, a three-component program including residence and treatment for emotionally and socially disturbed adolescent girls, an outpatient counseling and treatment center for families under stress and the Respite emergency crisis intervention center for abused children; Project Transition, a rehabilitation program for women offenders; Casgrain Hall (under renovation) a residence for senior citizens; Saint Peter Claver Community Center, serving the Brewster Housing area in Detroit; and Casa Maria Community Center, serving Detroit's Tiger-town area.

In addition, the LCW operates the Project Headstart Program in Southwest Detroit (Vistas Nuevas Headstart).

Bargain Counter East is one of four resale shops operated by the League of Catholic Women. Others are located in St. Clair Shores, Dearborn and Berkley; the league is hoping to open a fifth store on East Warren Avenue in Detroit this year. Further information on the league or the Bargain Counters may be obtained by calling 965-9000.

Open DAR state conference today

The Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be hostess for the 81st annual state conference of the Michigan Society DAR which opens today, Sept. 24, and continues through Saturday, Sept. 26, at the Troy Hilton.

Among the many Pointers who have been actively involved in preparing for the event are Mrs. George F. Ryckman, conference chairman, Mrs. B.T. Weyhing, publicity chairman, and the Mesdames Kenneth Wheeler, John F. Klein, Cornelius G. Egan, Patricia Wallace, Myron Mountz, Robert Palmer, Thomas Quilter Jr. and Robert J. DeSandy.

Attending from the Grosse Pointe Chapter, Elizabeth Cass, will be Mrs. Robert C. Becker, chapter regent, and the Mesdames Marvin Putnam, Cyrus Weatherby, Louise Bradford, William Sampich and Edwin J. Holfihan.

Mrs. John Buchanan, regent, will represent her General Josiah Harmar Chapter at the conference, with Mrs. Florence Moore Davis serving as Josiah Harmar's alternate delegate. Mrs. Buchanan presided at Josiah Harmar's meeting last Saturday, Sept. 19, in the Algonac home of Mrs. Earl Robier, where Mrs. Davis presented a program commemorating the making and ratifying of the United States Constitution and the 200th anniversary of General Cornwallis' defeat at Yorktown. Bonnie Griswold, one of the chapter's junior members, assisted the hostess.

Mrs. Richard Denny Shelby, president-general of the National DAR, will be a special conference guest. She represents over 208,000 members in more than 3,100 DAR chapters in the United States, the District of Columbia, England, France, Mexico and Venezuela.

Mrs. Shelby is a member of the Mississippi Delta Chapter and has served her state since 1960 and the National Society since 1965.

Mrs. Maxwell E. Hunt, Michigan State regent and past-regent of the Louisa St. Clair Chapter, will conduct tonight's formal opening ceremonies during which 15 DAR members will receive 50-year membership ribbons. Stanley S. Kresge will receive the DAR Medal of Honor award.

In addition to regularly scheduled business sessions, the 300 members, delegates, alternates, regents and guests will have the opportunity to attend a workshop conducted by Alice Dalligan, chief of the Burton Historical Collection, on Using the Burton Historical Collection for Research, plus a special forum conducted by Mrs. Shelby.

This evening's opening session will feature special entertainment: A Patriotic Musical Revue by the Jude-laires. Friday's luncheon will feature the DARlings, eight students from South Carolina's Tamassee DAR School, demonstrating Mountain Clogging.

"The Yorktown Spirit" will be the subject of Mrs. Shelby's address at Friday evening's banquet. A slide presentation on "America, the Sea and You" will be presented by Rear Admiral Lee L. Landers, S.C., USNR (Ret.) at Saturday's National Defense Luncheon.

Cancer Information Line needs volunteer trainees

The Michigan Cancer Foundation's Public Response Program needs Volunteer Information Specialists to staff its Cancer Information Line, offering information and referrals to a wide variety of callers. MCF is recruiting potential volunteers now for a six-session, four-hour training course beginning Tuesday, Sept. 29.

The program operates a toll-free line in the 313 telephone zone. It is part of a national network of Cancer Information Centers at 21 locations, directed by the Cancer Information Service of the National Cancer Institute. It began at the Michigan Cancer Foundation in 1978 and has since answered some 40,000 inquiries.

"We receive many different types of calls," explains Jane Hoey, manager of the program. "Many callers request educational materials. Others are concerned about a certain symptom. Still others just need a sympathetic ear." To date this year, volunteer respondents have fielded 6,000 calls—500 each month, about 20 to 25 each day.

Volunteers staff the phones from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays, but their duties do not end there. "Not only do our volunteers provide useful, accurate and compassionate help over the phone, but they assist in maintaining informational resource files, compiling current news clippings on cancer, filling requests for educational literature from the MCF and other agencies and collecting data for use in assessing public needs," says Hoey.

"We do not always have the answers ready-at-hand," she adds. "Some questions, particularly those on current research issues such as Interferon, must be researched. Other problems and queries are solved by referring the caller to other health service agencies for particular problems."

Hoey notes that volunteers in the program gain a number of useful skills. "They learn active listening, empathy responses, cancer facts and research trends, as well as community resources and services and referral techniques. They sharpen their general communication skills and gain that certain amount of satisfaction that comes from helping others."

Potential trainees do not need prior knowledge of cancer, although it is helpful; more importantly, they must be empathetic listeners, able to tune in to an individual's needs. Ongoing supervision by professional staff further trains the volunteers.

Volunteer Information Specialists are asked to commit four hours per week. Interested persons are invited to call the Michigan Cancer Foundation, 833-0710, and ask for Volunteer Services.

The MCF is a Torch Drive-United Way agency.

The Impact . . . of metallics in fall and winter fashion is strong. At Walton-Pierce you can find a smashing bronze metallic all weather wrap coat from Count Romi. It is styled in the classic manner and would go over everything from pants and a sweater to a cocktail dress. There are also metallic handbags and belts to accent and bring your present wardrobe up-to-the-minute. The good thing about the metallics for fall is that they are burnished and softened in appearance. Among the new accessories, you'll find interesting gold ropes that can be worn around the neck and looped in front or tied around the waist for one of the newest looks. Pauline Trigere's excellent reputation as a designer of beautiful clothes carries on year after year. She is now designing a special line of coats under the label "A Trigere Coat." You can see her handsome coats at Walton-Pierce. For example there's a semi-fitted black wool coat beautifully detailed and closed in front by two large pewter buttons. Also in the coat collection, is a luxurious creamy white 100% cashmere coat that wraps around you and will prove to be a perennial favorite. Speaking of perennials, a smart suit from Jerry Silverman will be in fashion for years to come. Fine navy wool is striped with cranberry and issued for a finely tailored jacket and a skirt that's pleated in front and straight in back. Silverman ensembled the suit with a cranberry blouse. There are many other delightful fashions from Jerry Silverman for day to evening. Come see all the new arrivals.

Mon Image . . . is the line of travel mirrors in the Gift Department of the Notre Dame Pharmacy. The stand up frames hold regular and double magnified mirrors are of mock tortoise and they fold to very packable proportions. There are also purse sizes.

Tony Cueter . . . of Bijouterie has just returned from South America with a new selection of precious and semi-precious stones and will create one-of-a-kind pieces of jewelry for you. He also brought back many beautiful new pieces of jewelry that are on display at Bijouterie, Grosse Pointe's fine jewelry store, 20445 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Woods. Open daily 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Closed Mondays.

The Pointe Fashions . . . has a new selection of Butte knit dresses and ensembles in regular and petite sizes and a nice choice of new fall colors. No charge for alterations at 15112 Kercheval in the Park, 822-2818.

KIMBERLY KORNER . . . Having once seen the authentic Geiger wool jacket made in Austria, you would recognize it always. Lilly Puliter is proud to be able to show you these wonderful fashion accents, committed to style, a feminine look in ladylike colors. Lilly Pulitzer, Mack at Lochmoor. Informal modeling Wednesdays during lunch.

Golf Enthusiasts . . . are sure to enjoy Tony's tabletop game called "Goof-Around Golf." It's available at the School Bell, 17904 Mack Avenue.

Do You Have . . . a favorite African Violet? Chances are you can find it at Charvat the Florist, 18590 Mack Avenue, 881-7800.

We've Been Clowning Around . . . at the Mole Hole but now we're serious about clowns! Pillows, papier mache, ceramic and stuffed clowns at our new location on Kercheval at St. Clair.

The Fabricworks . . . is now open and stocked with fabrics and paper products. Stop by The Fabricworks, 672 Notre Dame (the old location of the Mole Hole).

Ends September 30 . . . Wright's Gift and Lamp Shop's offer for a 10% discount plus FREE address printed on the envelopes when you order your personalized Christmas cards . . . 18650 Mack Avenue with free parking next to the building.

Face Facts . . . Cosmesis is the art of fitting eye-glass frames to create the best possible facial appearance without sacrificing comfort. No one does this better than the personnel at Woods Optical Studios. They are exceptionally knowledgeable in both optics as well as cosmesis. Pointer of Interest: Peggy Ptasznik

They'll start to line up at 7 a.m. at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church next Tuesday. The doors don't open on the Grosse Pointe Branch, American Association of University Women, Used Book Sale until 9:30, but what's a two-hour wait to a dedicated bibliophile who wants first crack at those gorgeous, piled-high tables of treasures? A few years ago, the Pointe AAUW, in order to make the wait as pleasant as possible, began issuing numbers.

"Now," says Peggy Ptasznik, chairman—for the second time around—of the annual Grosse Pointe AAUW Used Book Sale, "you can drop by the church any time from 7 a.m. on and pick up a number, head on up Moross Road to Dawn Donuts (at the corner of I-94) for a cup of coffee, come back and get back your place in line."

If you love books but find a 7 a.m. line-up too early for your taste, not to worry: the Pointe AAUW has literally thousands of hardcovers and paperbacks, magazines and records, all sorts of printed and print-related materials on hand for the 1981 sale. The earlybirds may get first choice, but the choices go on, and on, and on, and the sale continues from Tuesday, Sept. 29, through Sunday, Oct. 4.

TUESDAY THROUGH Friday hours are 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. There's a 50 percent mark-up on all items Tuesday, a 50 percent markdown on all items Saturday. Sunday is Bag Sale day; for $3 you get all the books you can pile into a generous bag supplied by the Pointe AAUW. Private bags (two Hefties stapled together, for instance) are not allowed. Sunday hours are 1 to 5 p.m.

On Monday, Oct. 5, anything that's left goes to the Salvation Army.

And the week after that, the AAUW begins work on next year's Used Book Sale. "If people out there have books they'd still like to donate, we ask them to wait until the second week in October, then give us a call," says Peggy. "We have winter storage." The telephone numbers are 885-3320 and 886-3785, and the AAUW will be delighted to hear from new donors—in a little while. Right now, everybody involved in the 1981 Used Book Sale is a bit too busy to adequately express appreciation to 1982 Book Sale donors.

It's a big project. So big that almost nobody volunteers to chair it for a second year. "I really enjoyed it the first time," says Peggy. "I learned so many skills and techniques that it seemed a shame just to drop them." She relished the satisfaction of taking on a task with definite time limits, seeing it through to a successful conclusion.

PEGGY PTASZNIK was born in Atlanta, brought up in Cincinnati. "I miss the hills, but I got a lake in exchange." The lake came with Victor Ptasznik, an attorney, who grew up in Grosse Pointe Park, graduated from Austin Prep School, went off to Law School at the University of Michigan where he met Peggy, an undergraduate, married her AFTER they'd both finished work for their degrees and brought her home to The Pointe.

They have two sons, David, 7, and John, 5. "We gave them easy first names because we knew they'd have enough trouble with the last one"—and live on Moran Road.

A good deal of Peggy's personal pleasures revolve around the St. Ambrose Players. She's an original member of the little theater group, appeared in its first production, "Godspell," four years ago and has been onstage or backstage in every production since, from "Fiddler on the Roof" and "Sound of Music" at the War Memorial to "The Music Man" at Pierce.

Victor Ptasznik helps build sets. He's a woodworker by hobby, and an excellent one. Peggy is particularly proud of the beautiful butler's tray table, complete with brass hinges, he made for her as a Christmas gift.

SHE TAUGHT high school for four years before her first child was born, and remains involved in education. "I was active with Lamaze through Childbirth Information Service, and spoke to high school health classes. I've been active in the Religious Education Program at St. Ambrose; my husband and I work with a teen group there." David and John are both Kerby School students. That's meant work with the Kerby Parent Teacher Organization and for the Kerby Carnival.

"I can't praise the Grosse Pointe Schools too much," Peggy says. "Our younger son has epilepsy—fortunately, it's able to be controlled by medication—and Kerby is being extremely helpful."

Peggy and Victor Ptasznik both love to travel. "We make a yearly trek to Niagara-on-the-Lake; that's our anniversary gift to us." They went to Europe independently as college students (Peggy lived with a family in England and has kept contact with them, and honeymooned abroad, taking advantage of a very reasonable U. of M. charter flight. Currently, they have the world coming to them. A young woman, a foreign student in a Law Program at Wayne State University, is in residence for six weeks at the Ptasznik home.

"We had a girl with us last year, too," says Peggy, "and we've had other foreign students from Wayne with us for two or three days."

ANOTHER OF Peggy's personal pleasures is just-for-fun reading. "I love to go to the Farms Pier all summer, sit on the beach and read my fiction." She's particularly intrigued by the rarer items the AAUW Used Book Sale offers. "We have some marvelous early stereopticon slides this year," she says. "Two sets: one of views of Yosemite. We have what our Rare Book Lady terms some 'very collectible' juveniles. We have excellent art books." The Rare Book Lady is notably impressed by a copy of "The Quiver of Love" featuring drawings by Greenaway and Crane.

Many of the Rare Section items have been reserved for the Silent Auction running the length of the sale. AAUW will post high bids at the end of each day.

"As a whole, we've been very pleased with the quality and diversity of our merchandise this year. We think we're quite good." Peggy's been very pleased, too, with the quality and dedication of AAUW members who worked through the summer, the marking sorting/pricing et al. committees. "They've been wonderful."

AND SHE'S ESPECIALLY pleased when she reflects on where the money raised by the sale will go. "The majority is turned over to the AAUW Educational Foundation, for graduate fellowships. Our Branch Committee is exploring local possibilities for a portion of the funds."

Two Pointe Branch projects Peggy is particularly interested in are the Women's Center, open to all women, working and non-working, with or without college degrees, and the Teaching/Learning Communities through which older people are encouraged to share their experiences and talents with school children.

"We're trying to get the Teaching/Learning program underway at Ferry School, and we're looking right now for people who could share, who could show the children how to make soap, for instance, or how to handle small repairs. The Grosse Pointe Schools are very excited about the Teaching/Learning program. They're working right along with us."

Peggy Ptasznik does not expect to go back into education herself. She's working parttime as a bookkeeper, trying to learn new skills. But she never expects to stop being interested in education, or to stop learning. That's what brought her into AAUW in the first place.

"I THINK EDUCATION is very important, and I think learning is an ongoing process. AAUW membership is open to any woman with a degree from an accredited university or college; no invitation is necessary to become a member. We have a variety of study groups. We can be involved as much or as little as we want, within our own lifestyles and time frames. "For me, the greatest value of AAUW has been the women I have met in it. Particularly the older women: the ones who graduated from college 50 and 60 years ago. They have such fascinating stories to tell and experiences to share!"

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol—and penny-wise—cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth continuing, this week, a series of columns on COOKING WITH OATMEAL.

Ever wonder what to do with leftover breakfast cereal or the rice from last night's dinner? The first of this week's pair of recipes takes care of that particular problem beautifully, while the second is especially geared for the autumn season when apples come into their own.

COOKED CEREAL MUFFINS

2 egg yolks
1 cup cooked rice, oatmeal or cornmeal
1 1/4 cups skim milk
2 Tbsp. melted, unsalted margarine
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1 Tbsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
Combine the liquid and the dry ingredients with a few quick strokes, then fold in the egg whites. Bake in preheated 400° oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes about 30 two-inch muffins. Calories about 40 per muffin. Cholesterol about 16 mgs.

RAW APPLE COOKIES

1 1/2 cups flour
1/16 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. soda
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. cloves
1/2 cup chopped walnuts*
1/2 cup unsalted margarine
1 cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 cup uncooked quick oats
1 1/4 cups chopped red tart cooking apples (2 large)
1/2 cup plumped raisins
1/2 cup chopped dates
Stir together flour, baking powder, salt, soda, cinnamon, cloves and nuts; set aside. In a large bowl beat sugar and margarine until creamy. Beat in eggs until well blended. Stir in flour mixture, then oats, apples, raisins and dates.

DFBp by well-rounded teaspoonful 1 1/2 to 2-inches apart on oiled baking sheets. Bake in preheated 350° oven 12 to 15 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove to rack to cool. Makes 60 cookies. Calories 62 per cookie. Cholesterol about 8 mgs. *1/2 cup dry-roasted sunflower seeds may be substituted for nuts—they give the cookies a more decided crunch.

GPHA extends record hockey registration

A record registration of newcomers to the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association's 1981-82 program has prompted the GPHA to extend the registration period. The normal cutoff was Sept. 19, however, children will be allowed to register right through September, according to GPHA registrar Bill Alcott.

During last week's registration, a number of parents called to request late registration due to conflicts which would not permit them to register Saturday. In addition, many area schools would not allow distribution of GPHA flyers until late last week and many children and parents did not have a chance to consider the program until the last weekend of registration.

Alcott said he received a tremendous number of weekend calls asking about the hockey program and requesting a registration extension. Several factors influenced the GPHA's decision to extend registration, Alcott explained.

First, a late registration won't effect the hockey season since games don't begin until early October. Also, the "grace period" will allow the GPHA several weeks to select the additional coaches needed to support the increased enrollment.

In the mite division alone (5 to 8 year-olds) there are 63 first time skaters, according to Alcott. The GPHA expects to have a nine or 10-team mite division rather than the five or six teams originally anticipated.

Total enrollment appears as though it will exceed 450 children, a figure which would represent a 12 percent increase over 1980-81.

Children participating in other fall athletic programs such as soccer or football are eligible for the hockey program since these sports normally conclude play in November. Hockey continues from October through March and late registrants won't be missing much, according to Alcott.

Alcott encourages any interested parents or children to contact him or Dar Alcott for further registration details. Alcott can be reached at 779-7676, Dar at 882-0132.

St. Paul wins soccer opener

In the season opener against St. Barnabas, on Sept. 19, the St. Paul's boys' soccer team came out on top, 3-1. P.J. Imesch opened the scoring in the first half with a strong left foot shot, on which the goal keeper had no chance.

The second goal came from Geoff Brieden, making it 2-0 at the half. St. Barnabas opened the second half with a goal, but John Joliet came back with another goal for St. Paul, making the final count 3-1. Special credit should be given to Ray Echlin who turned in a fine performance on defense.

In other St. Paul sports action, the girls' soccer team lost its first game to St. Mary's of Mt. Clemens, 1-0. The girls' tennis team lost its opener to the Grosse Pointe Academy, 5-2.

Theresa Molloy, Torrey Ollison, Laura Gagnon and Elena McDonald won double matches by 6-3 scores.

South, North lose Knights 'hold on', 6-0

A much-improved Harper Woods football team gave the University Liggett varsity about all it could handle Sept. 18 as the Knights posted their second straight shutout in a 6-0 defeat of the Pioneers.

Both teams put on quite a defensive performance as they rose to the occasion every time one approached the other's end zone. It wasn't until 6:25 left in the final quarter that the Knights were able to score as senior tailback Dave Van Elslander took a handoff and knifed off tackle for a 20-yard touchdown run. The kick for the extra point was wide.

Harper Woods took the following kick-off to its 40-yard line and in eight plays moved the ball to the Knights 19 yard line. But the Knights were not to be denied as the defense held, and on fourth and eight defensive end Mike McCarthy sacked the Pioneer quarterback for a five yard loss.

Tailback Van Elslander carried the ball 14 times for 75 yards of the Knights total 140 yards rushing.

Quarterback Jeff (J. T.) Parks had several key runs and completed six of nine passes for 63 yards.

The Knights defensive secondary including safetys Dave Chamberlin and Parks; inverts Joe Carlino, Van Elslander and Bill Scarfone and linebackers Steve Jackson, Jeff Peters and John Polizzi, limited Harper Woods to 43 yards passing minus the 17 yards the Pioneer quarterback was sacked while attempting the pass.

The lineplay of Mike McCarthy, Gil Jackson, Ron Schocker and Don Young supported the defense in holding the Pioneers to 150 yards rushing. Linebacker Jeff Peters led the defense with 15 tackles.

The University Liggett Knights hope to continue their winning ways when they travel this Friday, Sept. 25 to Flint Academy. The game is scheduled to be played at 4:30 p.m.

Blue Devils fall, 14-0

By Trevor Dinka
South High

South's defending E.M.L. football champions failed to score for the second straight week as they opened conference competition against an always strong Mt. Clemens unit.

From the kickoff, South had little problem moving the ball, yet the end zone remained all too elusive as the Blue Devils went down, 14-0.

Threatening penetration by South came when Joe Yott intercepted in midfield. Quarterback Kipp Saile then went to work, hitting Jim Arnold for a 30-yard gainer. Saile ran for an additional 15 yards to give the Devils a first and goal opportunity.

First half play saw both offenses battling defensive units, as it came to a scoreless close.

Mt. Clemens dominated the third quarter, keeping the ball in its possession for 11:44 on one drive. South was unable to move the ball effectively and Scott Suckling was called upon to punt. Tyrone McBride powered his way into the end zone for the first score as time expired in the third quarter. An extra point attempt was stifled by the Devil defense.

South's efforts to even things up were held in check by a sturdy Mt. Clemens' defense. Andre Fullwood went 40 yards and into the end zone late in the fourth quarter to ice a Mt. Clemens victory. A two point conversion was successful, leaving South with too many points to recover in too little time.

The Blue Devils' next game is on Friday, Sept. 25, against Anchor Bay at 7:30 p.m.

Red Barons win three

The G.P. Red Barons swept all three games from the Mt. Clemens Barracudas in games played at Mt. Clemens High School on Sept. 20. A large, partisan Grosse Pointe crowd was in attendance to enjoy the warm sunshine and the victory.

The Red Baron freshman squad stomped its opponents, 21-0. Steve Moore scored two touchdowns, Dominic Martilotti scored one and Jason Whelan, Mike Henry and Moore added point after attempts to account for the total.

Chris Mazey performed well at quarterback, completing several long passes to Henry. The offensive line opened huge holes in the Barracuda defensive front behind powerful blocking by David Wolber, John Maharak, Bob Straske and Brian Simon.

The Red Baron defense did not give up a first down the entire afternoon. Martilotti intercepted a pass and Simon, Martilotti and Joe Kopitzke each recovered fumbles to spark the defense. Marty Wayman, Mark Zoltowski, Paul Anderson, Dan MacDougall and Robert Crane played aggressively to preserve the shutout.

The Red Baron junior varsity outlasted a stubborn Barracuda unit, 14-6. Mike Miller and Richmond McCloud scored one touchdown each and McCloud and Mike Calcaterra tacked on the extra points. The deft ballhandling of quarterback Rob Rocheon and the solid blocking of Mike Hagen, Chuck Thomas and Chris Liagre were major factors in the win.

Defensive coordinator Paul Garner credited Eric Miller, Jon Binder, Jay Binder, Darrin Hopp, Jim Riggio and Joe Binkowski for holding the vaunted Barracuda offense in check throughout most of the game. The game's "Big Hit" honor was awarded to Eric Miller.

The Baron varsity roared back from a disappointing loss last week to rock Mt. Clemens, 20-6, for its first victory of the young 1981 Season.

Jerry Henry directed the offense skillfully in his first start as varsity quarterback and the entire offensive line pulled together and shredded the Barracuda defense. Chris Rodriguez had his second consecutive 100 yard-plus game and scored two touchdowns.

Terry MacDougall complemented Rodriguez beautifully and accounted for the balance of the scoring. Head Coach Werner Lueckhoff attributed the victory to total team effort and the commitment of his players to personal improvement each week.

Mich. bike route traces scenic stagecoach trail

The route which first linked the coasts of Michigan once took days, even weeks, to cover. Today, thanks to Michigan's own contribution to the industrial age, the automobile, vacationers may now travel from Port Huron's seaway through Battle Creek's Cereal City and on to Chicago in just hours.

But, those settlers of long ago saw much of Michigan's colorful scenery and beautiful countryside now lost to today's superhighways. They mingled with nature and visited with townspeople along the way. The vastness of the orchards through southeast Michigan, the coastline of Lakes Michigan and Huron, the parks, forests and small villages were theirs to explore.

The American Youth Hostels invites bikers to travel in the spirit of those early inhabitants, via the Stagecoach Trail, a bicycle route from Port Huron to Chicago developed by them.

The route crosses the state in much the same manner in which the first stagecoach trail did. It spans 400 miles and may be ridden all or in part, with the use of a complete set of strip maps and a guidebook offered especially for the bicyclist by AYH.

Alcohol makes lung problems worse

Alcohol can worsen most respiratory symptoms, according to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALAS-EM). Therefore, if you have a cough or a sore throat, forego the screwdriver and opt for straight orange juice.

Even when a person has no respiratory symptoms, alcohol consumption can have its poor effects — and we don't mean hangovers. Alcohol users are more prone to infections, often smoke heavily and inhale more frequently.

Approximately 3,800 persons in Tucson took part in the study reported in a recent issue of the American Review of Respiratory Disease, a Lung Association publication. Trained nurse interviewers administered questionnaires covering such information as respiratory history, alcohol consumption, smoking habits and education. The nurses also administered lung tests to the study participants.

• Only 5.7 percent of the women were heavy drinkers, compared with 20.1 percent of the men.

• In the men, alcohol consumption increased consistently with smoking, whereas in women, increased consumption was noted only in present heavy smokers.

• Among those who had never smoked, moderate-to-heavy drinkers had more cough and significantly more acute respiratory illnesses than none-to-light drinkers.

• A combination of heavy drinking and heavy smoking generally led to a higher prevalence of respiratory symptoms than heavy smoking alone — at least in men. Smoking is a far more important contributor to respiratory symptoms than alcohol consumption, but the latter is a significant risk factor, as well. For more information on smoking and alcohol, call the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's "Smoking Phone" at 963-3029.
