School aid is slashed by $200,000

By Joanne Gouleche

Grosse Pointe schools' chief financial administrator is predicting almost a $200,000 loss in state aid to the district by this November.

Larry Rankens, director of business affairs, said Gov, William Milliken's $56.6 million budget cut in state aid to education and local governments last week wiped away $47,000 from the system's general fund and $2,000 from the library fund.

Michigan lawmakers last week approved the governor's proposal in time to balance the 1980-81 budget.

Rankens said a second executive order will mean a loss of almost all of the system's categorical funding of $200,000. The state money is used for teacher and employe salaries and other state mandated programs.

Rankens said there are no immediate plans for program or department cuts because of $1.4 million in sur-plus funds. The director said, however, he expects Milliken's second cut to be deeper next time around, which would lower the surplus to about $500,000.

Meanwhile, school administrators are worried about Milliken's property tax plan calling for a 20 percent cut over the next three years.

At last month's Board of Education meeting when school trustees rolled back millage by 3 mills, Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel warned Milliken's proposal to cut SEV (state equalized valuation) in the system by 10 percent will mean a $1 million loss to the district.

During the 1980-81 school year, property taxes made up 89 percent of total revenue for the district.

Under the Milliken plan, schools would only be reimbursed for 65 percent of the tax revenue loss.

Last March, Grosse Pointe schools hired a Lansing lobbyist firm to argue its case before the Michigan Legislature. Grosse Pointe, along other out-of-formula s

Woods voters to decide on extra taxes

By Gregory Jakub

Grosse Pointe Woods residents who vote in the Nov. 3 election will decide whether they want to increase their taxes by a mill and a half for improved ambulance service and city parks.

That could be a tough decision for a city that now enjoys the lowest tax rate of all the Pointes and nearly laid off employes because of budget problems last April.

The benefits proposed by the ballot questions are many. If a tax levy of one-half mill per thousand dollars of State Equalized Valuation for one year is approved, it will generate about $150,000 to upgrade the city's ambulance service which residents would use free of charge.

According to Woods Public Safety Director John Dankel, that amount would be sufficient to upgrade the city's year-old ambulance with advanced life support equipment and possibly add more emergency medical technicians to the present staff of four.

Three of the present four EMTs now are licensed paramedics and the third has nearly completed requirements for designations, Dankel said.

"The basic premise of advanced life support is to bring the emergency room to the patient," Dankel said. That means ambulance staffers could administer drugs and intra-venous devices, use and interpret electrocardiograms and transmit the information to physicians at hospital emergency rooms, Dankel said.

He added that the state recognizes three levels of ambulance servicebasic, limited and advanced. The Woods is currently at the basic level and expects to get the limited desig-nation by the end of fall, Dankel said.

BUT A DOCTOR who spoke at the Sept. 22 council meeting in favor of the advanced system, called the esent ambulance service "a ice in Macomb and Oakland Counties has surpassed the Woods.

"If you're going to have a cardiac arrest, you probably should be away from home in Macomb or Oakland County," Dr. Zimmer said.

She cited the fact that the Woods has a growing older population as another reason for needing improved emergency service.

Dankel said advanced life support equipment would cost about $20,000. The rest of the funds generated by the proposed tax increase would be put in reserve and used to maintain the ambulance and fund continuing education for paramedics, Dankel said.

"The basic premise ... is to bring the emergency room to the patient."

If residents approve another ballot question proposing a one mill tax levy for the next four years, the city's recreation funds will increase by about $1.2 million.

The money would be used to finance comprehensive park improvements with specific projects to be decided by the Recreation Commission and approved by the council.

If approved, a starting point for the project will be the Phase II park improvement plan developed during the last few months by Woods city administrator Chester Petersen.

The suggested projects are:

• Replace four existing tennis courts at Ghesquiere Park with six new ones.

• Add playground equipment and park fixtures to Chene-Trombley Park tricts in the state, pushed for keeping the property taxes as the major source for funding education. Out-offormula districts receive only limited state aid because local revenue from property taxes exceeds state formula limits.

Grosse Pointe's contract with Capitol House Consultants, Ltd. in Lansing expired in July. Supt. Brummel said Monday the administration is "sitting tight" on the issue right now and is still reviewing whether to contract again with the firm.

Suit forces change in WC question

By Joanne Gouleche

Wayne County Charter Commissioner Barbara Gattorn of Grosse Pointe last week joined three of her colleagues in a lawsuit to remove certain language from the November ballot asking voters to reorganize the county.

Wayne County Circuit Court Judge John O' Hair ruled Tuesday at a show-cause hearing on the suit that the ballot language must be changed because it would mislead voters.

Gattorn said the language drafted by Wayne County Clerk James Killeen is inaccurate and will confuse voters if it isn't clarified by the Nov. 3 election. Specifically, the suit against Killeen and the Elections Commission charges that the ballot wording concerning the veto powers of both the elected county executive and the appointed executive "intentionally and willfully misleads" voters.

"We want the erroneous language removed from the ballot," Gattorn said.

Killeen's ballot said, voters will be asked to approve either of two identical charters to reform Wayne County on Nov. 3 and "these proposed charters are identical . . . except that Proposal 1 provides for an elected county executive who shall have veto powers . . . and Proposal 2 provides for an appoitned chief adminitsrative officer who is removable for cause by a two-thirds vote of the County Board of Commissioners."

Gattorn and commissioners George Ward and John Hand, all strong supporters of county reform, say both the elected and appointed executives exercise veto power and that the elected county executive can be removed from office by recall.

O'Hair's Tuesday ruling means the November ballot must read that both charter proposals are identical except Proposal I calls for an elected executive and Proposal 2, an appointed administrator.

Other plaintiffs in the suit against Killeen include Commissioner Arthur Carter, an opponent of county reform, New Detroit, which has remained uncommitted on the charter issue, Katherine Moore Cushman, past president of the Michigan League of Women Voters, John W. Copeland, past president of the Detroit Association of Black Organizations and Rev. A. K. Polk, past president of Detroit A.M.E. Ministerial Alliance.

Vitale of the Shores and Woods Public Safety Director John Dankel agreed that the highlight of the sixday conference was the speech given by President Reagan.

Chiefs praise Keagan speech

Speaking before a standing room only crowd, the President called for strengthening police powers and for renewed commitments from the home, church, schools and communities where "moral values are formed."

The President endorsed the death penalty, changes in bail laws, sentencing and admission of evidence plus changes in the "exclusionary rule," which forbids the use of any evidence unconstitutionally obtained. While the President did support a tough law and order stand, he pointedly refrained from offering federal money to back local law enforcement agencies.

ALL THREE POINTE officers applauded the President's stand, but none expressed surprise over the dearth of federal funds.

"Basically, we've got a friend, but no big bucks," said Dankel. "I'm not surprised we won't be receiving funds for more prisons. These things are near and dear to his heart, but the way things are in Washington nowadays, even these items are being cut." Because the President's speech was sold out. Dankel was forced to watch on a TV monitor in an adjoining hall. "Even under those conditions, it was still a very interesting event," he said. "He called for a liberalizing of rules of evidence with moral re-building in the home. I can't argue with what he said."

Kennedy applauded the speech, but wished for more specifics. "Everything sounded great," he said. "Especially to a crowd like that. But everything was so broad. There were no real details.

Even without federal funds. Chief Kennedy saw some hope on the horizon

"One thing he did mention was the possibility of using the military to stop drug trafficking," said Ken-"We waste so much time locknedy. ing up the pusher and not stopping drugs at the source. With help from the Navy and Coast Guard, plus convincing leaders of other governments to use herbicides on illegal crops, we could really stop drugs cold. That's using federal funds, only on an indirect level.'

In the Shores, Vitale echoed the President's viewpoint. "He got good support from the audience," said the chief. "They interrupted with applause many times. He has good ideas and I detected sincerity from the man. However, he'll need the cooperation of the entire judicial system and other branches of government if he's going to accomplish anything."

While Chief Vitale noted that the Fresident's speech was long, he admitted that Reagan kept everyone's attention. "Two popular parts of his speech dealt with the exclusionary rule and the moral rebuilding of the American family," said Vitale.

"We're the only country in the western hemisphere that lets the most brutal criminal off because of minor technicalities in the trial or obtaining of evidence. The President said that was ridiculous and he's right. In other countries they let the evidence stand and allow the criminal to sue the court. Here we dismiss the charges.'

The chief went on to say that there were five controlling factors in today's society that help shape an individual's ethics: home, church, school, job and community.

"THE PROBLEM is that today we live in a transient society," said Chief Vitale. "We move, so molding influences from church, school, job and community are negated. That leaves the home. It's there that problems are created or stopped. The President called upon us to strengthen our homes, schools, churches and communities because, as he said, 'only our deep moral values and strong institutions can hold back the jungle and restrain the darker impulses of our nature,' and he's right."

Detroit seeks court appeal of GP boundary

By Susan McDonald

The city of Detroit has asked the Michigan Supreme Court to hear an appeal of a recent lower court ruling on the boundary line between Detroit and Grosse Pointe Park, according to the Park's attorney, Herold "Mac" Deason.

The 33-foot boundary dispute, which has been working its way through state courts for a decade, is worth more than $100,000 a year in property and income taxes to the cities involved. So far, Wayne County Circuit Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals have ruled in the Park's favor.

PARK ATTORNEY Deason said Detroit has filed an "application for leave to appeal" with the high court. He said the Park will definitely oppose the application, and try to convince the judges not to hear the appeal.

The boundary line in question runs down the center of lots on Wayburn and Barrington Roads in the Park's far west corner. The city of Detroit maintains the line crosses near the front porches of the homes and has operated under that assumption for many years, billing residents for income and property taxes, providing police and fire protection and garbage pick-up.

The Park maintains the boundary is 33 feet west of that, near the rear of the lots along Wayburn and has also been providing basic city services (except garbage pick-up) and granting residents admission to Grosse Pointe public schools and parks

The area has attracted several Detroit municipal employes who can satisfy the city's residency requirement and enjoy Grosse Pointe services while the area is in dispute.

Park City Manager John Crawford

said he doesn't believe Detroit has sufficient evidence for a Supreme Court appeal.

"The city contends that if we were seriously concerned about the boundary we would have done something many years ago to clear up the dispute. I don't think the fact the city of Detroit has been illegally collecting taxes from residents of Grosse Pointe Park for so long is any justification for their position," Crawford said. "Detroit actually started taxing those people before Grosse Pointe Park became a city," he said.

The fight over the vague boundary began as a tax dispute, when several residents went to the Michigan Tax Tribunal to block Detroit from collecting income tax. That tax was recently raised to 3 percent.

The Tax Tribunal ruled it did not have jurisdiction over boundary disputes and the case went to Wayne County Circuit Court, where Judge Roland L. Olzark ruled in the Park's favor. Detroit then took the case to the Michigan Court of Appeals which last month also ruled in the Park's favor. The Appeals Court ruling was made by Judge George N. Bashara Jr., and concurred in by Judges John H. Gillis and Kenneth N. Sanborn.

Detroit maintains the boundary was set at 200 feet east of the east side of Alter Road in a 1916 referendum in the Village of Grosse Pointe Park that annexed a strip of land near Mack Avenue.

Park attorneys argue the boundary was set by the state legislature in 1907 and defined as 200 feet east of the center of Alter Road. So far, the courts have ruled that the legislature's definition of the boundary is supreme.

In addition to adding almost $4 mililon of property to its tax base. The Park will also be able to avoid paying taxes on a portion of Windmill Pointe Park that is in the disputed area if it wins the case.

Projects could be added or removed from the list according to recommendations by the Recreation Commission and council

The park improvement question was put on the ballot without a recommendation from the Recreation Commission which didn't have enough time to review the proposal.

Recreation Commission chairman Al Kunert said "I feel the dollars are needed. I question whether the city will approve it."

A third ballot question which doesn't involve tax dollars asks voters whether they want to authorize the city council to construct additional boat dock facilities with funds from dock rental fees.

This was originally part of the total park improvement plan but was removed so that dock rental fees, not tax dollars, would fund the project if approved.

The plan could be a solution to the eight-year-old problem of how to improve docks at Lakefront Park. The council and Woods boaters have not been able to agree on the best way to move a bridge over the Milk River which blocks access to 53 boat docks because of high water.

The proposed dock plan would avoid moving the bridge by building about 72 new docks out into Lake St. Clair. The ballot question on the docks is purely an advisory one since voter approval is not necessary for the council to authorize building the new docks.

City says high rise may help keep taxes low

By Gregory Jakub

"I'm beginning to think that we're a little Hamtramck and I want to know who the GM is in this picture," shouted the Grosse Pointe Woods resident who spoke for at least part of the people who jammed a public hearing on proposed zoning changes in the Woods on Tuesday, Sept. 22.

Her comments characterized the extreme reactions generated by the words "high-rise" and "multiple unit dwellings"---terms included in the city's three-year effort to upgrade its zoning ordinances and re-draw its zoning map.

To many residents at the public hearing held by the Woods Planning Commission, the ordinance change meant the city or some unknown developer was going to move in and either force them to sell their homes or construct a nefarious high-rise structure in their backyards.

IT IS NO SECRET that the zoning change approved by the Planning Commission that night is intended to encourage high-rise development in the 7-Mack area of the Woods now zoned commercial. But what many residents may have missed is that certain standards built into the new zoning ordinance will prevent any high-rise development from becoming the nightmare they envision, according to city officials.

In fact, high rise developments under the ordinance could benefit

Private Nickeson joins a family tradition of Army service that includes his father as well as his uncle and his grandfather.

What city officials tried to explain several times at the meeting was the new zoning ordinance was not a nightmare-come-true for homeowners. The ordinance, which establishes standards for a "downtown zone," is an attempt by the city to make sure a valuable piece of its real estate becomes even more valuable. The move was partly prompted by city officials who take pride in the Woods' relatively low tax rate and high quality services which cost more each year to maintain.

The area targeted for the downtown zone is the 7-Mack Shopping Center which planning experts say has outlived its usefulness but because of its proximity to the Pointes and major thoroughfares holds prime development potential for a hotel/ residential/commercial/office complex comparable to those in Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Chicago's John Hancock Center.

Another purpose of the ordinance is to create a strong community focal point which is something that suburbs such as Warren and Troy are now finding they lack, according to planners.

It isn't hard to see how the prospect of having a high-rise structure for a neighbor would upset those who have lived near 7-Mack, some for as long as 30 years. Residents say the proximity of St. John Hospital parking lot already disrupts their quiet streets.

City officials say the re-development of 7-Mack could be as much as 20 years away. But if a developer appeared tomorrow with high-rise plans for that area, there are three significant hurdles to clear before any ground is broken.

FIRST, THE plans must meet the stringent requirements built into the zoning ordinance by the city council and planning commission that put a cap on the height of such developments at 10 to 12 stories. Even though that is about five times higher than any building now existing in the Woods another requirement says the high-rise shall not cast its shadow on any existing single-family residential structure for more than two hours on Dec. 21. Planning experts says that this standard should assure that trees will continue to be the only thing affecting the ambience of the Woods' residential streets.

Second and third, any planned development must first be approved by the planning commission and then the city council whose jobs are to review such plans, listen to public comments, then either approve or disapprove the plans.

Sept. 22 hearing, public sentiment against such developments would be a significant political force the city officials would have to consider if and when they ever have to consider highrise developments.

Opposition to high-rise development is especially strong among residents of the Woods' northwest area, many of whom attended the Sept. 22 hearing under the impression that their area was to be considered for rezoning.

They fought for low and moderate zoning for their area in 1979 when the city drew its Land Use Plan which is the basis for all zoning. Some of them said they wanted to make sure the city wasn't trying to rezone their area again.

According to Woods planning consultant Brandon Rogers of Parkins, Rogers and Associates, Inc., the council has given him the job of looking at the Land Use Plan to see which areas can be rezoned and put to their best use.

He said he'll be looking at areas on Mack Avenue that can be converted under a new zoning ordinance to convert commercially zoned property to restricted office district:

But for those who fear the spreading of high-rise zoning in the city's new zoning map, Rogers said political and economic conditions probably dictate that the 7-Mack area is the only spot that will get high-rise zoning. Another thing keeping high-rise development in check is something planners call the floor-to-area-ratio which basically says the higher a building goes, the more surrounding area it needs. That standard assures that "a 12-story building would require a lot bigger area than is available in the Woods," except for the 7-Mack area, Rogers said.

STANDARDS limiting the height of buildings were intentionally added by the planning commission and council, Rogers said. What one new zoning ordinance-the high density residential district-would allow is the development of more efficient housing to meet the needs of the city's older residents, Rogers said.

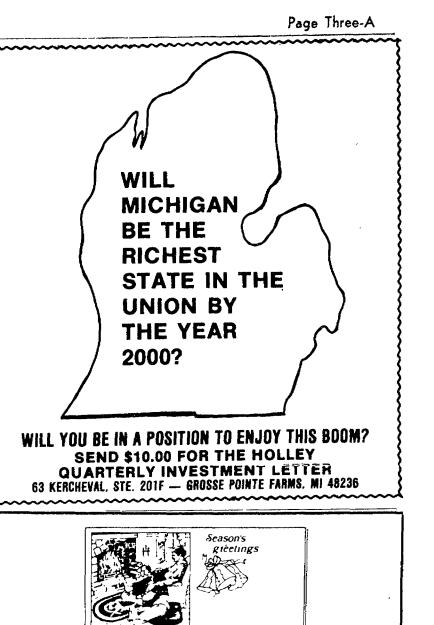

'But from a practical standpoint, it's going to be a long time coming unless there's an interest in property owners to cooperate and participate with a developer," Rogers said.

Until then, Rogers said areas marked residential on the Land Use Plan will stay that way. But the plan could become outdated and economic changes in the city could lead officials to reevaluate it.

"What the city may do in the future is up to the city council," Rogers said.

Here's what the one-year All Savers Certificate can mean to you.

- You can exclude up to $2,000.00 interest from federal income tax on a joint return ($1,000.00 on an individual return). The amount excluded is also not taxed by the State of Michigan.
- Your All Savers Certificate is insured to $100,000.00 by the FSLIC.
- Your interest rate is guaranteed for the full term of the certificate, unlike other investments such as money market funds where rates fluctuate daily.
- You can participate with a deposit of $500.00 or more.
- Funds in your Standard Federal 26-Week Money Market Certificate can be transferred to an All Savers Certificate without any early withdrawal penalty on the transferred funds.

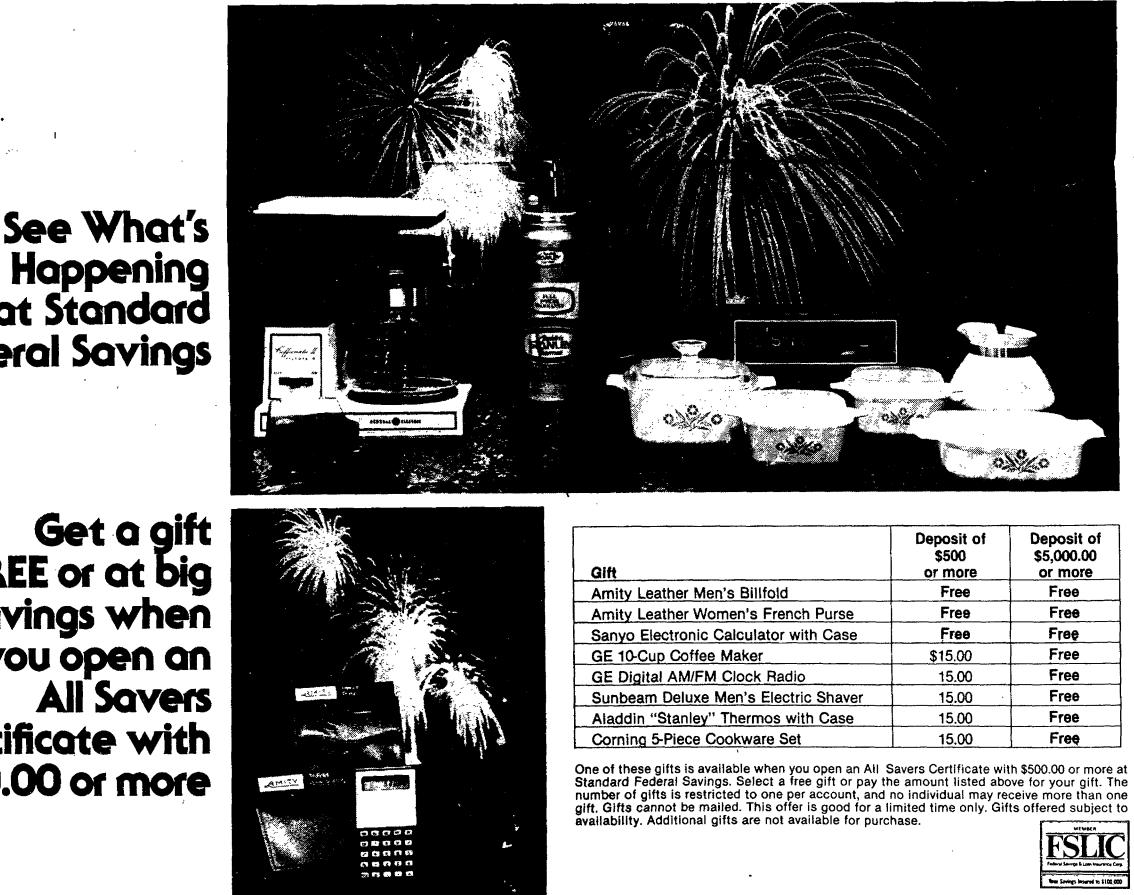

If you elect to receive interest at maturity there is no compounding and the interest rate on your All Savers Certificate will be 12.14%. If you wish to have interest payable monthly or quarterly, the annual simple interest rate on your All Savers Certificate will be 11.458% and interest retained in your All Savers Certificate will be continuously compounded for an effective annual yield of 12.14%. These rates are available for All Savers Certificates opened through October 30, 1981. Rates for accounts opened after October 30, 1981, will be announced later. However, the rate established at the time an All Savers Certificate is opened is the rate in effect for the full one-year term of the account. You should also know that in the event of early withdrawal from an All Savers Certificate federal law and regulations require a substantial early withdrawal penalty and loss of the interest exclusion for federal income tax purposes. The All Savers rate of 12.14% is equivalent to the yields for taxable investments shown in the table. This table demonstrates how the All Savers Certificates can provide you with a higher after-tax yield than you may be earning from a money market mutual fund or on other investments.

The deposit needed in your All Savers Certificate to achieve the maximum allowable deduction is $16,474.46 for a joint return and $8,237.23 for an individual return.

Compare the Tax-Free All Savers Rate of 12.14% with Yields on Taxable Investments.

The yields shown in this table are based on 1981 tax rates but do not reflect the effects of any tax credits that may be available in 1981, nor do they take into account the 50% maximum tax rate on salary and wages. If tax-free interest is received in 1982, the comparable yield on taxable investments should be calculated using 1982 tax rates. In addition, the yield for the All Savers Certificate actually will be somewhat higher because the amount excluded from federal income tax is also not taxed by the State of Michigan.

BS & I IN MICHIGAN

Much has been in the news recently about Michigan's consumer loan interest rate ceilings. We the people of Michigan National Corporation Banks feel it is our responsibility to speak out on this issue which is so vital to Michigan's economic recovery.

LOOK AT THE FACTS

Michigan savings depositors are benefiting from federal deregulation of savings interest rates. This means consumers now earn more on their savings.

The Michigan Legislature has allowed outdated, artificial ceilings on loan interest rates to remain in effect. These loan rates are often lower than the savings rates that financial institutions are paying to their depositors.

Michigan financial institutions by necessity are making loans in other states or countries in order to earn an adequate loan interest rate.

Money is leaving Michigan and going to states like Texas, California and New York which, like many other states, have deregulated loan interest rate ceilings. These states are experiencing a growth of business and jobs funded by Michigan dollars. Michigan is losing both economic growth and jobs that should remain here.

Michigan consumers are finding it increasingly difficult to find an institution that will make a loan for cars, home improvements, appliances, recreation vehicles or other goods and services because of unrealistic loan rate ceilings set by the State Legislature. The choice of whether credit is used or not should be up to you, not the Legislature.

In a free market, fair competition will control interest rates and result in Michigan consumers being able to shop for a fair "best buy" when seeking credit.

	SIGNED,
I agree that it is time for a change. Let's keep our mo and jobs in Michigan.

Man charged in armed robberies

Striking during a brief power out-tage last Thursday morning, Oct. 1, a 28-year-old man allegedly robbed two Grosse Pointe pharmacies at gunpoint before being captured by Farms police

According to reports, Keith Kozy, of Detroit, entered the Trail Apothecary, 121 Kercheval, about 9:30 a.m. while all electrical power on the Hill was out due to the extensive thunderstorms of the previous day.

After announcing a holdup, Kozy allegedly stole cash along with bottles Percodans, Perocet and Valium, before fleeing the store.

Farms police began an immediate search of the area, while an alert was broadcast to all surrounding communities. At about 10 a.m., police received a report that a man matching Kozy's description has just robbed the Park Pharmacy, 15324 Jefferson, and escaped in a small silver car.

The car was spotted at Mack and Alter Roads by Farms Cpl. Otto Glannert, who forced the vehicle to stop at the intersection of Wayburn and Frankfort Roads.

According to police reports, a starter pistol and bottles of pills from the pharmacies were found in the car with Kozy.

Kozy was arraigned Friday night, Oct. 2, before Shores and Woods Mu-nicipal Judge J. Patrick Denis on three counts of armed robbery. The third count was for an earlier armed robbery in the Woods. Bail was set at $25,000 for each count and Kozy was remanded to the Wayne County Jail in Detroit.

Detroit youth is arrested

An 85-year-old Grosse Pointe City woman told police last week her life was threatened when a youth approached her parked car near the First Federal bank building, Kercheval and Notre Dame.

The woman said the youth came up to her car about 2:40 p.m. Sept. 27 and demanded her keys and then threatened to kill her if she didn't hand them over, according to police. Police said the woman began to blow her horn and the youth fled.

After talking to witnesses, the 14year-old youth was arrested in Detroit and released to his parents. Police said a charge of attempt armed robbery is pending in Wayne County Juvenile Court against the youth.

be repeated!

Wow, what a storm While the Pointes escaped serious property destruction during last week's torrential rain storms, we suffered from our share of inconveniences. Flooded basements and downed power and telephone lines were reported in all five cities as the storm raged Wednesday, Sept. 30, and in its wake Thursday, Oct. 1.

Streets flooded too, because, as a Woods official explained, high winds before the storm dumped leaves and branches over sewer basins, plugging them and many streets well into Thursday morning. Those soggy streets slowed down police and fire response time to the usual calls for help and a rash of false alarms from home security systems that were activated by irregularities in power service.

Two uncovered boats at the Farms Pier Park sank at their moorings according to police there. Surprisingly, the Fox Creek, which received almost 60 million gallons of storm water from Grosse Pointe Park's sewers system during the storm, did not overflow for a change.

Health officials advise that all items soaked in flooded basements be throughly washed for

The best in t

15 minutes with a chlorine solution of six tablespoons of common laundry bleach per gallon of water. (Remember, chlorine bleach should not be mixed with amonia.)

The Michigan Association of CPAs reminds homeowners that casualty losses resulting from sudden, unexpected events such as a flood can be claimed as tax deductions to the extent that they exceed $100 per casualty. On business property there is no $100 exclusion. Tax deductions do not apply, of course, to any amounts recovered from insurance companies.

Those planning to claim de-ductions should take steps to establish proof of damage suffered. Photographs of what's left of the property should be taken now. Later, the "before" photographs showing condition prior to the disaster might be obtained from a family photo album or those of friends and neighbors.

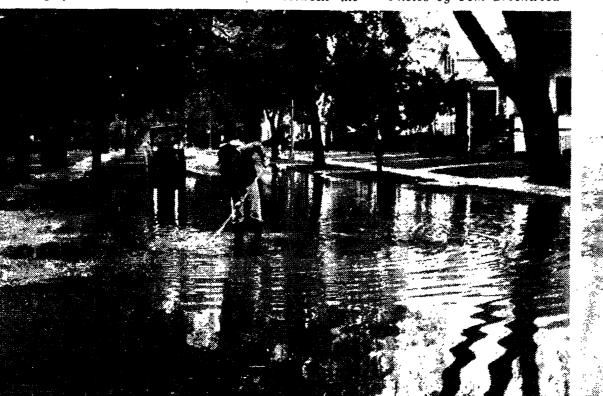

To establish the amount of loss, records of purchases and of amounts spent over the years on capital improvements are helpful, but they don't tell the whole story. Because the deductible loss is the difference between the cost or the value of the property just before the casualty (whicheever is less) and the value immediately afterward, depreciation and salvageability must be taken into consideration.

Appraisers with specialized knowledge of the types of property affected (real estate, furnishings, automobiles, etc.,) are qualified to make such assessments.

Benefits reduced for many

Several changes in the Social Security law went into effect Sept. 1, according to James T. Moslener, District Manager of the local Social Security office at 17420 Mack Avenue. These changes were enacted by Congress in order to save the Social Security system money and include the following.

Most retirees will have to wait a month beyond their 62nd birthday to qualify for benefits, instead of being eligible the same month. Starting this month, only those born on the first or second day of the month will retain their eligibility for payment in that month. This saves $205 million in 1982 and nearly $1.2 billion through 1986.

College students' benefits will be discontinued after April, 1985. Students 18 or older who start college before May, 1982, and are entitled to a child's benefit for August, 1981, will keep getting benefits. But their checks will be cut 25 percent in September, 1982, another 25 percent in September, 1983, and yet another 25 percent in September, 1984. Also, they will get no cost-of-living adjustments and no benefits from May through August.

College students 18 to 21 who become eligible for a child's benefit after August, 1981, will only get the benefits through July, 1982. Those now 18 and attending elementary or secondary school will keep getting benefits, but those 19 to 21 will receive them only through July, 1982.

A mother's or father's benefits will now end when the youngest child turns 16 instead 18, unless the child ting benefits until 18. This will take effect immediately for parents who become eligible after August, 1981. For parents eligible before Sept. 1, It will not take effect until Sept., 1983. The combined savings by 1986 are expected to be almost $1.7 billion.

Here's an inflation-fighter's quiz

Although inflation may erode savings, it should not be viewed as an irresistible force. You can do something to counteract its effects, and help yourself to greater financial security, according to a group of Michigan CPA's.

Here's a quiz which exposes the pitfalls most threatening to your financial plans. If you find yourself answering yes to half of these 10 questions, you are probably headed for financial trouble. If that's the case, remedial steps may be needed.

1. Do you rob Peter to pay Paul? If yes, and you put off paying some bills to use the money to pay others, you are living beyond your means. You need a workable budget. Set up a cash flow chart so you can see where your money comes in and where it goes.

2. Do you save for a Rainy Day? If yes, you may be worried about some catastrophe that could wipe you out financially. You might be better off with hazard insurance. That is, sufficient protection against calamities affecting life, health, property and job. Insurance permits you to cope with emergencies without dipping into capital. Determine your insurance needs by computing how much loss you could absorb without denting your capital base.

3. Do you charge everything? If so, maybe you are using credit to buy things that wear out even before they are paid for. Before using credit ask yourself why you want the item and how much you can afford to pay each month. If the price of a major item rises 10 percent in a year, it may be wise to use credit.

4. Do you put all your eggs in one basket? If so, you should diversify more. Don't put all your money in one stock, commodity or money market fund. If that investment fails, so will you.

5. Are you an impulse buyer? If so, you probably haven't set goals and spending priorities. By setting goals and a budget, you are less inclined to spend money on impulse.

6. Do you live for today? If so, it means you don't have a financial plan, which could lead to living only on social security benefits when you retire. Plan for the future now, because the longer you wait, the less you will be able to amass for future goals.

7. Do you keep a nest egg in a savings account? If you do, consider investing it in something with higher yields. Keep only enough in the bank to cover expenses for short periods.

8. Do you believe all your taxes are inevitable? They are not. You'd be surprised how many tax deductions people don't bother to claim. Consider the tax aspect of everything you do with your money, Tax planning is a constant part of your financial decision-making.

9. Do you say, "I just don't know where the money goes?" If so, go through your checkbook and add up what you spend in quarterly periods.

For the next two weeks, keep a notebook in your pocket and record expenses. This will help you find out where your cash goes.

10. Do you worry about money all set up a good record-keeping system.

the time? If you do, you may lack confidence in your ability to manage money. Talk with financial advisors, read books on money management and

Guidance Center plans dedication

The usual city scenerio was altered recently when 100 community volun-teers labored with the Northeast Guidance Center staffers, to create a playground out of an asphalt parking lot. Following 18 months of planning, the volunteers spent three full weekends using brute force, chain saws, chisels, hammers and shovels to complete the project.

Those participants will be honored at the playground dedication which will be held on the site at 12255 Camden, Detroit (near Harper and Dickerson), Monday, Oct. 12, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. as a special feature of the Northeast Guidance Center's annual public meeting.

The entire community is invited to attend the program. Erma Henderson, President of the Detroit City Council will present the keynote address on the theme, "Community Mental Health is Caring and Sharing." Adding to the program will be Dr. Jonathan York, executive director of the Guidance Center and Dr. Mel Ravitz, director of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Board.

Reservations for the complimentary light supper may be made by calling the Northeast Guidance Center at 824-8000, Ext. 290.

Degrees from 12

Forty-eight percent of executives' graduate degrees are from 12 colleges, and 25 percent earned their undergraduate degrees from an almost identical list of schools. In the combined totals, Harvard led with 5.414; NYU, 2.815 was second; and Yale, 2,255, third.

By Marion Trainor

Shopping for some folks is a tedious task that takes up valuable time better spent in more pleasurable pastimes. The true "I-hate-to-shop" individuals would rather do almost anything else-even household chores.

They dislike pushing their way down aisles that often are impassable because someone has abandoned a cart blocking both entrance and exit or because two friends who haven't seen each other since yesterday are exchanging gossip in the aisle or because boxes waiting to be unpacked defy passage and some conscientious shopper blocks three shelves with herself and a cart while she decides which size for what price she will choose. Usually it is the exact spot where the items you want are shelved. You try reaching over her parked cart, sliding your hand around her immovable body, bending down to reach under and upward. No luck.

Then there are the ankle bumpers, some of them more treacherous than others. The real menaces are the speeders who go whirling through the store, zipping around corners, crashing into all obstacles in-cluding shin bones. If you escape this traffic hazard, consider yourself lucky.

The slower travelers are less deadly. Usually you meet them at the checkout counter. The trouble is that many of them have some misguided notion that by edging the basket closer to the cash register they will get there faster. In the meantime, the person in front must endure the discomfort of metal against bone (cart against ankle). After all no one wants to make a fuss and certainly no one wants to give up their place in line to the anxious one behind. It was well earned maybe not by blood, sweat and tears, but certainly by fortitude and frustration.

Duty to a well-fed family prevails and you hang in. At last you breathe a sigh of relief because, at long last, the end is near. Only one person is ahead. But wait. There is more to come. That person has (1) an item not marked and the cashier must leave the register to go and check the price; (2) the person has bought too much and the cashier stops to make out a renort on the items which must be left behind (3) the tape breaks FINALLY THE END comes. The groceries are checked out, packed precariously in the cart and, breathing a sigh of relief, you push the wobbly pile to the car. Leg muscles bulge, shoulders strain with the effort, but you make it. It was an ordeal but thankfully you won't have to face it for another week. A sense of accomplishment and peace settles over you that is quickly dispelled when you spot your car. It can't be, but it is. You've overstayed your dime. You have a ticket. So ends the saga of a disconsolate shopper. Then there are those who love the challenge. They never seem to encounter the travails of the reluctant supermarket visitor. It could be because of their positive attitude towards the chore. Their adrenalin begins to flow the moment the door swings open. They come armed with lists of specials and neatly clipped coupons. For them it is ex-citing to beat the system and come out with $6 worth of merchandise for every $5 spent. In an euphoric state they go from store to store making pennies count and loving every minute of it.

This separation of kind is not limited to supermarkets. That area of shopping is just a prelude to the big time pursuit of attacking the shopping malls. Here the perils are more marked. To begin with it is important to remember where the car is parked. Unless the lane number is duly noted, hours could be lost searching for the car you drove that suddenly looks like any one of the 50 cars parked in the location where you are sure you left yours.

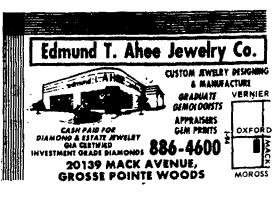

The next problem is figuring out where the shop that advertised all merchandise 50 percent off is located in the sprawling structure. Usually it is at the opposite end of the building from where you parked.

Once there and having found a really good bargain at a price you can't quite afford but are willing to do without lunches for a month to buy, you find that they don't take checks, credit cards or have a lay-away service. So much for that. You leave with the resolution to return some time before your wardrobe becomes dated by decades.

Then, there are those uncanny shoppers who enter a mall, point themselves in the direction of the best buys and come home with coordinates that they can mix and match to make them look like an ad for tomorrow's fashion.

There is no doubt that successful shopping is a skill. There are those who seem to be born with it, some who acquire it and others who have it thrust upon them but wish it were otherwise. Luckily for those who really hate shopping there are people, who, for a fee, are willing to take on that chore, grocery shopping excepted. Neighbors, friends or relatives will occasionally oblige, but not on a steady basis. But if it is anything from clothes to appliances, it is possible to get someone to do it for you. Busy executives often turn to professional shoppers to keep them well dressed and to do other errands. However it is an expensive service and unless you can afford it, you'll just have to cope and be thankful you have physical stamina for it.

But there are people who cannot do for themselves because of age or handicaps. Very few these people are in the nosiof Code of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods will meet in the Council-Court Room of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, Grosse Pointe Woods, on Monday, October 19, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. to hear the appeal of Marshall D. Beck, who is appealing the denial of the Building In-spector to construct an addition to a front porch at the residence located at 20719 Toles Lane. The denial is based upon requirements for open porches as defined in Section 5-1-1(E) of the 1975 City Code. A variance is therefore needed from the Board of Appeals. All interested persons are invited to attend. Mr. Beck is also appealing the denial of the Building Inspector to issue a driveway permit for 20719 Toles Lane. A driveway permit was denied because Section 6-12-3 of the 1975 City Code prohibits a paved parking area that exceeds 30% in coverage of the required front yard area for a residential lot in an R-1 zoned district. According to Section 6-12-5, such a driveway cannot be constructed unless a variance is granted. All interested persons are invited to attend.

and she enjoys every minute of it. Usually whatever someone requests she can find, and at a good price. There's no walking into the first store that is handy. She is a bargain hunter first and foremost.

So far she has experienced only one defeat. One gentleman had settled on a particular brand of baseball mitt for his grandchildren. Patricia looked everywhere before she found that the glove was no longer being manufactured. She sort of broods about that. "I keep thinking," she admitted, "that there was one leftover on a shelf somewhere."

There is only one drawback to the great shopping spree she gets to indulge in at Christmas. She never has time to shop for her-self. "I usually do mine on Christmas Eve," she said.

Patricia will shop for anything and has-groceries, clothes, appliances, house furnishings. You name it, she'll get it. She is a walking shopping guide to the best bargains in town (in case you're interested she knows a place where custom made draperies can be bought for the same price as readymade.)

The skill of bargain shopping comes naturally to her. Actually she has found rather a good niche for herself. She likes her work. She is her own boss. Her overhead is minimum because she works out of her home and she meets some fine people. The pleasure is mutual.

"Sometimes," she says, "I think people call me just to have some-one to visit with." This assumption is believable. She is a personable, pleasant, agreeable young lady. Also she is very pretty. Anyone would be glad to have her for a visitor.

For Senior Citizens-By Marion Trainor

Shopping for some folks is a tedious task that takes up valuable time better spent in more pleasurable pastimes. The true "I-hate-to-shop" individuals would rather do almost anything else-even household chores.

They dislike pushing their way down aisles that often are impassable because someone has abandoned a cart blocking both entrance and exit or because two friends who haven't seen each other since yesterday are exchanging gossip in the aisle or because boxes waiting to be unpacked defy passage and some conscientious shopper blocks three shelves with herself and a cart while she decides which size for what price she will choose. Usually it is the exact spot where the items you want are shelved. You try reaching over her parked cart, sliding your hand around her immovable body, bending down to reach under and upward. No luck.

Then there are the ankle bumpers, some of them more treacherous than others. The real menaces are the speeders who go whirling through the store, zipping around corners, crashing into all obstacles including shin bones. If you escape this traffic hazard, consider yourself lucky.

The slower travelers are less deadly. Usually you meet them at the checkout counter. The trouble is that many of them have some misguided notion that by edging the basket closer to the cash register they will get there faster. In the meantime, the person in front must endure the discomfort of metal against bone (cart against ankle). After all no one wants to make a fuss and certainly no one wants to give up their place in line to the anxious one behind. It was well earned maybe not by blood, sweat and tears, but certainly by fortitude and frustration.

Duty to a well-fed family prevails and you hang in. At last you breathe a sigh of relief because, at long last, the end is near. Only one person is ahead. But wait. There is more to come. That person has (1) an item not marked and the cashier must leave the register to go and check the price; (2) the person has bought too much and the cashier stops to make out a report on the items which must count and loving every minute of it.

Prime Time-

This separation of kind is not limited to supermarkets. That area of shopping is just a prelude to the big time pursuit of attacking the shopping malls. Here the perils are more marked. To begin with it is important to remember where the car is parked. Unless the lane number is duly noted, hours could be lost searching for the car you drove that suddenly looks like any one of the 50 cars parked in the location where you are sure you left yours.

The next problem is figuring out where the shop that advertised all merchandise 50 percent off is located in the sprawling structure. Usually it is at the opposite end of the building from where you parked.

Once there and having found a really good bargain at a price you can't quite afford but are willing to do without lunches for a month to buy, you find that they don't take checks, credit cards or have a lay-away service. So much for that. You leave with the resolution to return some time before your wardrobe becomes dated by decades.

Then, there are those uncanny shoppers who enter a mall, point themselves in the direction of the best buys and come home with coordinates that they can mix and match to make them look like an ad for tomorrow's fashion.

There is no doubt that successful shopping is a skill. There are those who seem to be born with it, some who acquire it and others who have it thrust upon them but wish it were otherwise.

Luckily for those who really hate shopping there are people, who, for a fee, are willing to take on that chore, grocery shop-ping excepted. Neighbors, friends or relatives will occasionally oblige, but not on a steady basis. But if it is anything from clothes to appliances, it is possible to get someone to do it for you. Busy executives often turn to professional ... shoppers ... to .. keep them well dressed and to do other errands. However it is an expensive service and unless you can afford it, you'll just have to cope and be thankful you have physical stamina for it.

But there are people who cannot do for themselves because of age or handicaps. Very few of these people are in the posi-

FINALLY THE END comes. The groceries are checked out, packed precariously in the cart and, breathing a sigh of relief, you push the wobbly pile to the car. Leg muscles bulge, shoulders strain with the effort, but vou make it. It was an ordeal but thankfully you won't have to face it for another week. A sense of accomplishment and peace settles over you that is quickly dispelled when you spot your car. It can't be, but it is. You've overstayed your dime. You have a ticket.

So ends the saga of a disconsolate shopper.

Then there are those who love the challenge. They never seem to encounter the travails of the reluctant supermarket visitor. It could be because of their positive attitude towards the chore. Their adrenalin begins to flow the moment the door swings open. They come armed with lists of specials and neatly clipped coupons. For them it is exciting to beat the system and come out with $6 worth of merchandise for every $5 spent. In an euphoric state they go from store to store making pennies tion to pay $35 an hour, (the going rate for those in the field), to do their shopping and yet they, above all others, need this service.

"I came here to grow. I was really tired of my school and the people. I wanted a change of scenery so I decided to come to America for a year," says Jyrki Kakko, a foreign exchange student from Finland.

Jyrki is from Lonja and is being sponsored by YFU (Youth for Understanding). He is staying with the Fred Shumaker family.

Now a senior at Grosse Pointe South High School, Jyrki has found some differences between school here and school in Finland. Back at home, the schools have a different type of schedule. The class schedule is on a rotating basis and changes every two weeks, according to Jyrki.

Jyrki has also found that the food is very different, disliking American food very much. "I think that the meals in Finland are healthier. Here, there are many fast food places. The food here is very greasy," he says. Jyrki also discovered that Americans snack a lot between meals. This, he says, is an American pastime, not done in Finland.

Jyrki also feels that people in Grosse Pointe seem to have a certain dress code. "People here seem to dress the same. If you wear something different, people look at you and seem to think that you are strange. In Finland no one really cares what you wear. It's very different here "

Jyrki feels that his year here will be beneficial. "This will be a life experience. I think that I will learn much about people," Jyrki says.

Know your schools

An educational partnership

The following is a partial text of a speech before Grosse Pointe Public School System staff by Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel last month.

Opening a school year is always an exciting and stimulating experience for me. This year was no exception. Watching young people walking the sidewalks, entering the schools, and meeting friends --- seeing their vigor, their enthusiasm, their promise ---creates for me, a fresh sense of dedication to the work we all call education.

Last spring, after having accepted the superintendency here in Grosse Pointe, the most frequently asked question was, "Why Grosse Pointe?" It was asked of me by people here during my pre-July visits and by professional colleagues and friends back in Connecticut.

Essentially, there are three reasons for my wanting to be here in this school system. First, I believe the Grosse Pointe Board of Education is dedicated to maintaining outstanding schools, and perhaps even more important, is ready to engage in a boardsuperintendent partnership of education responsibility. Historically, I was trained in universities committed to the philosophy that boards established broad policy and that superintendents administer that policy from day-today, that there is a marked division of responsibility between boards and superintendents.

But it has become increasingly difficult in recent years to determine where to draw the line between policy and administration. By any measure, more people are involved in more aspects of public education than ever before. The question is no longer whether citizens, board members included, should be involved in their schools, but rather how they should be involved. Board members, largely as a result of pressure from their many and often diverse constituencies, must be better informed, more knowledgeable; and more involved than at any previous time. Being better informed, however, should not necessarily lead board members to take an active role in the day-to-day administration of the schools. One board member friend of mine, from another district, searching for a way to define the role of board member, suggested the following: "Keen your nose in, and your fingers out."

An educational partnership between a board and administration operates most effectively through the process of goal setting. The board should set broad work assignments for the district after considering ideas and information from students, teachers, parents and other citizens, and after weighing specific recommendations from the superintendent.

The board cannot set goals in isolation; neither can the superintendent. If such a partnership in responsibility is to be a reality, each partner must assume a share of responsibility. In September the board approved 14 goals for the 1981-82 school year, including requests that we study the problem of enrollment decline, review our English, special education, and physical education programs and begin several long-range planning projects. I hope the staff will make a special effort to reflect on those goals, to volunteer some of their energy for work on some of these issues, and to make them a part of their work for 1981-82. Some may believe that in the final analysis there is no real difference between the board-superintendent division of responsibility and the boardsuperintendent partnership in responsibility. The philosophy, however, is different: the division of responsibility concept can lead to a division of identity and a division of unity, whereas the partnership approach to resoonsibility has a much better chance of leading to roles which all partners can accept and nurture.

I bring to the Grosse Pointe position a certain amount of training and experience, and Grosse Pointe board members bring to their duties an understanding of the public's view of the educational process and its effecttiveness. Together, through mutual trust, respect and understanding, we are in a position to forge some solutions to the complex issues facing the Grosse Pointe school system today, and those we will face in the future. My second reason for choosing to be in Grosse Pointe is my belief that the staff - teachers, aides, administrators, plant personnel, secretaries, cafeteria workers, librarians - are also interested and even excited about engaging in an education partnership with the administration and board. We usually think of the superitendency as something which involves an individual. Actually, in my opinion, the nature of the superintendent's leadership is plural. It works through an intricate set of relationships through the superintendent and the members of her or his staff, as well as through members of the community.

The superintendent cannot be effective unless she or he has followers who permit her or him to lead, and this permission is not simply given at the time of appointment and then dismissed from mind for the term of office. It must be constantly tested, reaffirmed and renewed.

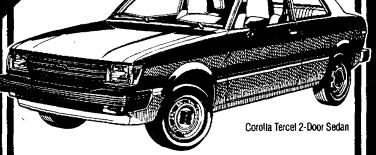

A superintendent may fill out a term of office without continued staff or public support, but without that support, he or she cannot remain a leader. A mutual, sustained confidence between the superintendent and the staff and the community is an imperative for progress.

For me, personally, the most important undertaking this year will be an assessment of staff morale. I believe good morale in education has five components. All will receive and deserve attention. They are reward, respect, trust, service and support.

My third reason for selecting Grosse Pointe is a belief that it is a community that is also ready and interested in an education partnership. Throughout the summer, I visited with some 25 to 30 community leaders to discuss with them their concerns for the Grosse Pointe school system. In these meetings, I confirmed what I had

Randy receives merit honor

National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students has awarded a commendation to University Liggett School senior Randy Gibson for performance on the 1980 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

The scores of commended students place them in the upper seven percent of over 70,000 black students who took this test and requested consideration in the 1982 Achievement Scholarship competition.

Randy, co-chairman of the ULS Varsity Debate Team, has attended debate camps for the past two summers and earned an award for his role in the successful 1981 ULS debating squad which finished ninth in Class C-D in the state. He has studied piano and music theory for many years, won a Creative Arts Award for ensemble musical composition last spring, and is a longtime member of the Grosse Pointe's Christ Church Choir.

anticipated and that is that Pointers are and want to continue to be involved in the decision-making process of the schools. They are supportive and willing to devote their energies to school system success.

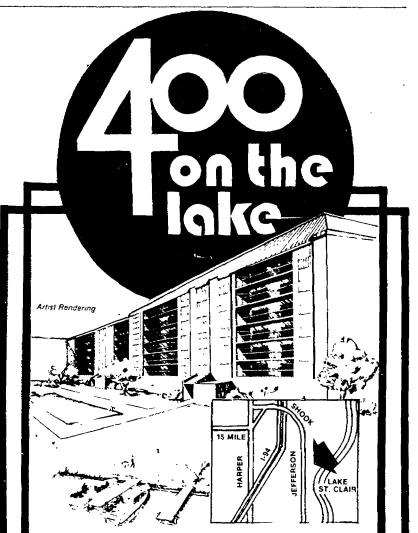

Of all the public services, education is closest to the people being served. In Grosse Pointe, education is the greatest single industry. It has the largest budget, it employs the most people, and it runs the biggest restaurant service. It also provides direct services to the largest number of consumers — the school children

And the Grosse Pointe schools do all of this while constantly in the public eye. The degree of attention the schools receive is unequaled by any private enterprise, any public service, any professional undertaking. The schools are under unremitting public examination, both by groups whose major concern is education, and by groups whose basic agenda has little to do with education. Certainly, the Grosse Pointe schools have been operating in this fishbowl for many years.

It is, perhaps, one of the reasons that I was attracted to this superintendency. The current economic and social situation in this area and in the state and country make it imperative that we recognize the challenge of the immediate future and determine what our role will be in shaping that future so that the educational needs of Grosse Pointe children and adults are met. I hope to organize the school system to rekindle the public's positive interest in the schools, to make the people of Grosse Pointe feel that they can have some impact on the school system, that the school system is aware of and responsive to community needs.

Who will the candidate be?

Philip Ruppe's announcement of his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate in 1982 appears to offer additional evidence that Gov. William Milliken will not be a candidate for that office.

Ruppe and Milliken are old friends and fellow Yale graduates, and it appears unlikely that the former congressman from northern Michigan would risk the Senate race if Milliken were entertaining serious thoughts about seeking the same job.

IN RUPPE'S CASE, it appears to be especially unlikely because of his 1978 experience. In that year, it will be recalled, Ruppe started campaigning for the U.S. Senate seat after incumbent Robert Griffin announced he was retiring from the job. Then, under heavy party pressure, Griffin changed his mind at almost the last moment and decided to seek relection. A good party man, Ruppe promptly withdrew but made no secret of his unhappiness at the turn of events that had cost him a chance at the Senate seat. Griffin's deteat at the nands of Cari Levin in November, 1978, no doubt did little to soothe Ruppe's feelings.

So why would Ruppe at this stage run the risk of a second embarrassing withdrawal which might be forced on him if Milliken were to seek the office? On the other hand, would Ruppe be likely to run against Milliken if the governor were to seek the GOP nomination? A rational person considering those questions would come to the conclusion that in announcing his candidacy Ruppe had good reason to believe Milliken will not run for the Senate and may even have the governor's private assurance he will not make the race.

Ruppe and his wife are both Milliken-type Republicans. Loret Ruppe headed George Bush's campaign in the Michigan presidential primary in 1980 and won appointment as head of the Peace Corps in part because of her support for the vice-president. But Milliken was Bush's strongest political supporter and was given much of the credit for Bush's Michigan victory. It was a victory which helped put Bush on the Republican ticket at the GOP National Convention in Detroit in 1980.

In short, Ruppe's candidacy offers strong evidence that Milliken will not be in the race. Yet as everyone knows from experience, there are few certainties in politics. And if politics often makes strange bedfellows, it also breeds almost as many quarrels as differences of religion.

In fact, there are those who claim the friendship between Ruppe and Milliken really came to an end as a consequence of the 1978 debacle. If that is true, then a number of other possibilities arise with respect to the 1982 campaign. The most intriguing possibility is that Ruppe is anncuncing his candidacy early to keep Milliken out or to tell the governor he'll stay in the contest this time regardless of who else is running.

Perhaps what this kind of speculation proves is that with almost 13 months ahead of us before the 1982 election it is almost impossible to predict who the GOP nominee will be, let alone the candidates in the Republican and Democratic parties.

Self-interest fuels charter foes

It is good to learn that a new organization, Citizens for an Elected Wayne County Executive, is taking the lead in urging support for an elected executive on the charter ballot on Nov. 3.

In recent months, a number of critics of the charter proposal have emerged and obtained a good deal of publicity. They include the most important charter foe, Mayor Coleman Young, who fears the political power of an elected county executive; present county officials who prefer the status quo and fear their own free-wheeling and free-spending ways will be curtailed by county reorganization under the charter, and various special interest groups who have cozy relationships with county government that would be disturbed if not ended by county reform.

BARBARA GATTORN, Grosse Pointe's representative on the charter commission, is treasurer of the new organization and is playing a leading role in it. But it also includes other members of the commission, community leaders from both the city of Detroit and the suburbs, and blacks as well as whites from both areas. So it is representative of the entire county citizenry.

It won't be an easy fight, even though 72 percent of the voters in Wayne County approved the charter idea when it was put to a vote. Even the wording of the proposals on the November ballot has become controversial. As a result, a group of charter commissioners, including Ms. Gattorn and others, has filed suit against Wayne County Clerk James Killeen to challenge the ballot language he has drafted.

The suit contends that Killeen "intentionally and willfully misleads" the electorate by proposing ballot language that says the elected county executive would have veto power but omits any statement to show that the appointed county executive would have the identical power. Furthermore, Killeen's language says the appointive chief administrative officer would be removable for cause by a two-thirds vote of the county board but fails to point out that the elected county executive also could be removed by recall.

į.

Since voters will be offered two versions of the charter proposal which will be identical except that one provides for an elected chief executive officer and the other calls for an appointed chief executive officer, Killeen's proposed language might confuse the public and jeopardize approval of one or both proposals. It ought to be clarified.

As the campaign begins to near the climax, it is becoming increasingly apparent that the issue really will be the elected county executive and supporters of that plan are being urged to vote in favor of it and ignore the second proposal. Concentrating on the proposal for an elected county executive ought to reduce the confusion for voters and make it easier for those going to the polls to make that major decision.

IN BRIEF, the charter would provide for an elected county executive with power to reorganize county government and thus for the first time make one specific individual responsible for minding the county store. That makes good sense to this newspaper but it is only natural for opposition to arise from people whose power would be curtailed—such as the present board of auditors which would be eliminated and the board of commissioners which would be reduced from 27 to 15 members and become strictly a legislative body.

Around midnight, Sept. 30, our son was coming home from Big Boy's in the Woods. He was driving an old car that he had purchased that day to get him back and forth to work for the winter. One block before he got home, the car stopped running. Although he tried to get it over to the curb, it was impossible. He flagged down two different Woods police cars within the next half hour, one of them being the white car that I'm sure must designate authority or honor here in our community. ### Right place at the right time

To the Editor:

I recently read the testimonial of a Grosse Pointe Farms citizen who was grateful to the Farms police for being there when he needed them. Well, Woods residents should know their police force is equally as alert and efficient.

Not too long ago I went through the frustrating ordeal of never being able to start my car. It had been in the shop twice to no avail.

One morning after I spent 20 minutes getting it started, I left it running while I ran to call the service department to tell them I was on my way in. In the five minutes I was in the house, the ailing automobile began to overheat.

Sgt. Jim Davidson and Officer Ron Hayden of the Woods Police Department just happened to be patrolling my street when they noticed the smoke billowing out of my car. Before I got outside to notice the commotion they had the engine turned off and a fire truck on its way.

I hate to think what I'd be using for transportation right now if the Woods police didn't have the instinct for being in the right place at the right time.

Now, if we can just think of a way to scramble that instinct when we're driving a little too

I attended the public hearing conducted by the Grosse Pointe Woods Planning Commission on Sept. 22 in regards to a zoning amendment for the Seven and Mack Shopping Center. At the meeting, a question was directed to the various officials about the possibility of a referendum vote if the amendment was adopted. The response indicated that such an approach was not possible as the Michigan courts have stated that the referendum process is not available to overturn a zoning amendment. I believe (based on legal research) that this response was misleading. Thus, I also believe that this information should be communicated to the community of Grosse Pointe Woods.

I am writing this letter about the article "Buckling up Benefits," which appeared on Sept. 10. In the article it was stated that the wearing of seatbelts would reduce the number of fatalities and serious injuries resulting from auto accidents.

I feel this statement is true, but I personally disagree with the mandatory use of seat belts.

Forcing automobile drivers as well as passengers to wear their seat belts, in my view, is an invasion of civil rights, and a choice which should be made by each individual.

People

of The Pointe

In years past, the Holiday Marts, featuring specialty shops from across the country offering a variety of unique gifts for Christmas giving, have been midweek events, with Preview Parties held on Tuesday evenings, open-tothe-public shopping scheduled for the following Wednesdays and Thursdays.

This year, that's been changed. Benefactors, Sponsors, Patrons and Friends of the 23rd annual Holiday Mart will preview the 1981 bazaar tonight, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m., at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, where the public is in-vited to browse and buy tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 9, from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., and Saturday, Oct. 10, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. for a general admission fee of $2.

The idea behind the new days is to open the Mart to more shoppers, especially men and teenagers. Many teens, daughters and friends of Mart committee members, will be modeling clothes and accessories from Mart stores tomorrow and Saturday. There'll be adult models, too, of course. Refreshments, luncheon and free parking will be available.

Sixteen of the 20 shops are new to the Mart this year. Taylor B. Williams is coming from Chicago with his 18th and early 19th century antique furniture, silver and brass pieces, and a collection of cast iron banks, both still and movable, especially assembled for the Mart. The Andover Shop features traditional clothing for men, boys and ladies. Harbor Springs' Rocking Horse Toy Company offers unique toys and handcrafted wooden puzzles.

The Popcorn Factory, of Lake Bluff, Ill., is bringing specialty popcorn available in three delicious flavors, packaged in six-and-a-half gallon cartons in plain or decorated styles. Gillingham's of Vermont also features specialty food, cheeses, syrup and honey, plus such craft items as place-mats, wooden articles and a beautiful mohair stole.

In Emgee of Honolulu's booth, prices range from $3.45 for a holiday bauble to $300 for a Nativity scene. Emgee specializes in handpainted, wooden Christmas tree orna-ments. Richard Hanten for Children stocks school dresses starting at $16.50-and sailor outfits fit for a prince or princess, at $185. Prices at The Acorn (women's casual clothes, nightwear, sweaters and accessories) range from $2 for handpainted barrettes to $162 for a handquilted jacket.

The Park Gallery, of Louisville, Ky., specializes in prints, posters, needle sculpture, ceramic lamps, vases, pottery and signed replicas of primitive carvings and toys. ### Holiday Mart in Pointe this weekend ...

Guess who's going Christmas shopping tonight? Benefactors, Sponsors, Patrons and Friends of the 23rd annual Holiday Mart, featur-ing gifts and goodies from 20 specialty shops home-based in states from Hawaii to Vermont, Delaware to Arizona. Guess who's going Christ-mas shopping tomorrow and Saturday? Anyone with an ounce of sense, that's who, for where else can you find such a dazzling array of distinctive merchandise, from antiques to clothing for men, women and children, jewelry to linens to specialty foods, all under one roof? The roof is that of our own Grosse Pointe War Memorial, and it was in the War Memorial's gardens that MELINDA EARLE and MARY STROBLE (left and right), co-chairmen of the 1981 Holiday Mart, a benefit for Planned Parenthood League, met recently to make final arrangements for their project. To find out more about what they talked about, check out this week's "From Another Pointe of View."

The Detroit Institute for Children (formerly the Detroit Orthopaedic Clinic), founded and sponsored by Sigma Gamma Association, will welcome visitors tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 9, from 4 to 7 p.m. at its building on Woodward Avenue near Ferry Street in downtown Detroit, introducing them to the new Variety Club International Myoelectric-Limb Research Center which can provide functioning, bionic hands to children who, through the misfortune of birth or accident, have no hands.

Five children, "The Bionic Kids," have already been fitted with bionic limbs. The Electronic Limb Research Center, funded by a grant from the Variety Club of Detroit, a group of local businessmen dedicated to raising monies for disabled children, is operated in association with and utilizing the facilities and staff of the DIC's Pediatric Amputee Clinic, under the direction of Dr. Lawrence G. Morawa.

The open house will feature exhibits and displays, tours and a slide film of DIC's work and goals, wine and hors d'oeuvres-and an opportunity to meet The Bionic Kids. Everyone interested in ongoing research into aid to the chronically ill child is welcome. Parking is available at the DIC.

Grosse Pointe at The Coach House

The Coach House Gallery on Van Dyke Place in West Village, just off East Jefferson Avenue, will be a showcase for Grosse Pointe painters for the remainder of 1981. It all began with an exhibition of abstract-color paintings by Mary Ann Field in mid-September and continues with the current display of work by Bette Prudden, known for her charming pastels of children and cats, that will run until Nov. 1, when Greg Tisdale and Mary Ewald take over.

Greg, whose watercolors are on exhibit at Lochmoor Club until Tuesday, Oct. 13, is a graduate of the Center for Creative Studies. He is now art director for Klock Advertising Agency. He'll share the Coach House spotlight with Mary, whose show of pen-and-ink drawings, Christmas cards and holiday decorations has become an annual event at the Gallery, open from noon to 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Another Art Exhibit of Note

If you get a chance, get on over to the Detroit Institute of Arts' Galleries 257 through 260 anytime between now and next Tuesday, and get a look at some of the more than 400 items to be featured in the Friends of Modern Art's Oct. 16 (Friday) auction and Oct. 17 (Saturday) next-day sale.

Historic pottery becomes Pewabic Society property

Leading members of Detroit's art, cultural and academic communities gathered on a September Saturday afternoon at Pewchic Pottery for ceremonies marking the transfer of ownership of the historic institution from Michigan State University to a local non-profit group: The Pewabic

MSU has turned over the almost 75year-old, nationally renowned ceramics learning center, museum and gallery on East Jefferson Avenue to the Society after 15 years of university ownership and operation.

A certificate that will hang at the pottery, recording the transfer, was signed during the ceremonies by MSU Board Chairman John B. Bruff and Provost C. L. Winder and Pewabic Society Chairperson Mrs. Gordon (Jane) Knight and President Donald P. Durocher. MSU President Cecil Mackey who could not attend the ceremonies signed the document earlier in the week.

The Pewabic Society, funded in part through grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Webber Foundation, will continue to offer a full schedule of ceramics courses at the pottery and to operate the museum and the pottery sales gallery.

"Michigan State should be applauded today," Society President Durocher told those assembled, "for its decade and a half of dedicated stewardship of the pottery. Hundreds of Michigan potters have learned their crafts here because of MSU's commitment to education.'

Society Chairperson Knight noted that the university's "deep feelings for the pottery were evident as it helped us so greatly this (MSU) summer in preparing to accept the pottery.

"That MSU will continue to offer academic credit for courses at the pottery will help assure the continued vitality of our ceramics education program," she added.

Michigan State and the Pewabic Society have been working closely together over the last six months to arrange for a transfer of ownership. This work began when it was learned that MSU would have to divest itself of the pottery's financial responsibili-ties as part of a $16.9 million uni-versity budget reduction.

Former pottery students on the Society board include Chairperson Jane Knight, of Indian Village; Vice-President Mrs. Lee H. (Marieke) Allen and Secretary Mrs. Boyd E. (Pat) Horne, both of Grosse Pointe Farms; and Anne Crane, of Grosse. Pointe Shores. Long-time Pewabic patron Mrs. Robert (Alice) Hartwick, of Grosse Pointe Farms, is also a board member.

Pewabic, founded in 1903 by Mary Chase Perry, who moved to Detroit from her native Upper Peninsula and developed an early career reputation as a china painter, writer and teacher, was housed originally in a stable on Alfred Street.

Initially, the Pewabic Society and MSU met with a number of Detroitarea educational institutions, according to Dr. Raymond D. Vlasin, dean of MSU's Lifelong Education Programs under which the pottery has been operated. "The schools showed high interest in cooperative arts programming," he said, "but they were financially unable to accept ownership and management of the pottery." Recommending the transfer of ownership of the pottery to the Pewabic Society to MSU's board of trustees in late June, Dean Vlasin noted that the Society "evidences the greatest capability to receive ownership and management of the Pewabic Pottery" and "shows the clearest dedication to the long term preservation of the pottery.'

Transfer to the Society continues the historical and cultural preservation and educational goals which led the university to accept the pottery as a gift from Henry L. Caulkins, son of co-founder Horace J. Caulkins, in 1966.

The Pewabic Society was formed in January, 1979, and incorporated as a Michigan non-profit corporation May 11, 1979. It now numbers as members more than 200 persons interested in preserving Pewabic's cultural heritage, education programs and historic building. It is governed by a 15-member board of directors comprised of representatives from Detroit's art and business communi-ties as well as former students and long time patrons of the pottery,

The current pottery, just east of Indian Village on Detroit's near east side, was built in 1906 and completed in 1907. It was designed by noted Detroit architect William B. Stratton, whom Mary Chase Perry would later marry.

Financial backing came from Horace Caulkins, a pioneer in high heat kilns. Adapting her partner's high heat kiln to ceramics and experimenting with new varieties of glazes, Mrs. Stratton built a national reputation over the next half century for the iridescent glazes of her tiles and pottery.

Tales developed over the years that she chose the name Pewabic because it meant "copper-colored clay" in Chippewa Indian. Actually, she named her pottery after the Pewabic Copper Mine in Hancock, which she had visited during her youth.

Under Mrs. Stratton's hand, Pewabic operated as a studio/pottery as well as a center for teaching, and earned much of its fame because of her tiles' architectural applications. She designed distinctive tiles for such facilities as Christ Church Cranbrook, the crypt and stations of the cross at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington, D.C., the Nebraska State Capitol Building, the Science Building at Rice University, Houston, Tex., De-troit's Guardian Building, Stroh Brewery, Saint Paul Cathedral and Holy Redeemer Church, the Detroit Public Library and Institute of Arts, the former Women's City Club on Park Avenue, Scott Fountain on Belle Isle and many metropolitan area homes.

She established the Ceramics; Departments at the University of Michigan and Wayne State University. U. of M. awarded Mrs. Stratton an honorary Masters degree in 1930. Three years later, Wayne (not then State) University gave her an honorary Doctorate, and in 1947 she received the highest ceramics award in the nation: the Binns Medal.

Mrs. Stratton died in 1961, at age 94. Her glaze formulas, which in-

Best blooms awarded GP Rose Show honors

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Biglin, of Robert John Road, have announced the winners of the Grosse Pointe Rose Society's Fall Rose Show. The show was held to increase general interest in the cultivation of roses, to educate the public in the numerous varieties and types of roses and to give rosarians in Grosse Pointe, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores an opportunity to compete with each other in exhibiting the Queen of Flowers.

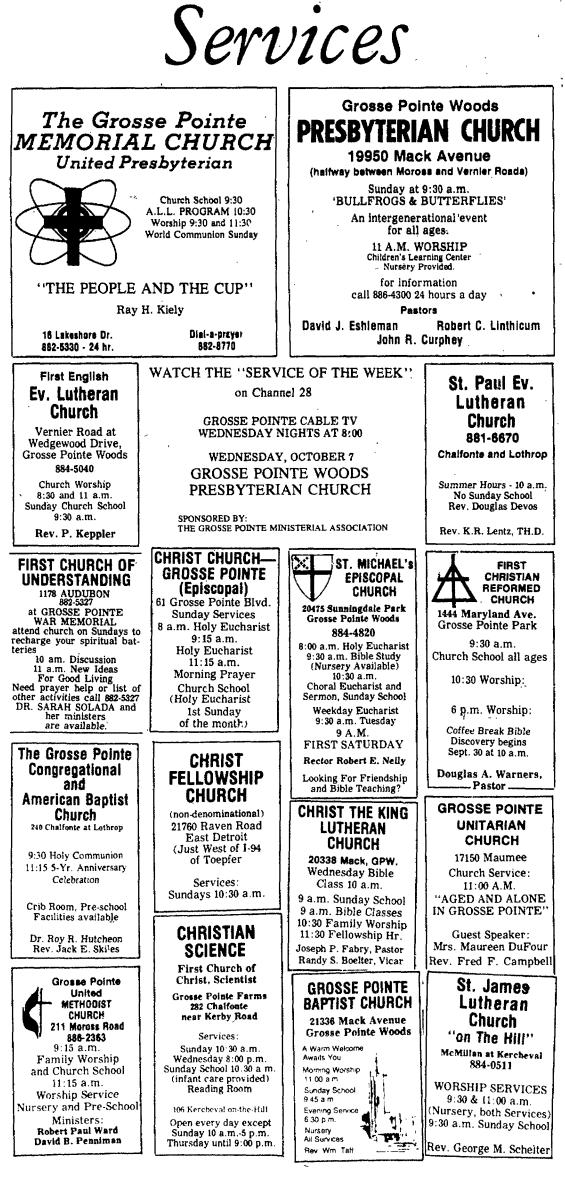

Participants were encouraged to compete in many horticultural classes, including hybrid teas, miniatures, floribundas, polyanthas and the highly successful classes of rose arrangements.

Arrangers used many types of roses this year, including teas, flori-bundas, grandifloras and the bright First Prize. John and Deanna Stephens were awarded Best English Box with their collection of six roses; in this class, each bloom must be of exhibition stage, of a different variety and arranged harmoniously with respect to color and size of bloom.

In the Miniature Rose classes, Ellen Quinlan's entry of Beauty Secret was awarded Queen of Miniatures. King of Miniatures went to Paul Desmet for Pacesetter.

Amy Lynn Stephens was awarded Princess of Miniatures for her entry of Chattem Centennial. Best Miniature Spray was won by five-year-old William Stephens for his entry of Stacey Sue. This brother-sister team are two of the Pointe's youngest

Change in opera audition plans

The Scholarship Committee of the Detroit Grand Opera Association has announced a new time and place for its annual scholarship awards competition. Final auditions for four awards -the Samuel J. Lang $3,000 Scholarship Award, the $1,500 Francis Robinson Professional Engagement Award, the Elizabeth Hodges Donovan $1,630 Memorial Award and the Henry E. Wenger $1,000 Memorial Award-will be held Sunday, Nov. 1, at 2:30 p.m. in Detroit's Music Hall.

A reception for contestants, judges and the public will follow these final auditions, which will be preceded by preliminary competition, also at the Music Hall, on Saturday, Oct. 31, beginning at 10 a.m., and semi-finals beginning at 10 a.m. the following Sunday morning. Traditionally, the opera auditions have taken place in January, in conjunction with the DGOA's Annual Luncheon at Masonic Temple. This year, the consensus of opinion among the Metropolitan Opera Regional Auditions chairmen, under whose aegis the local Scholarship Committee operates, was that autumn would be more convenient for all involved than the previously scheduled midwinter dates.

The purpose of the auditions is to discover new operatic talent and to help and encourage young singers in their careers. The Lang, Donovan and Wenger Awards are for advanced study in voice and operatic training. The Robinson Award is designed to give the young performer making the transition from vocal study to the direct pursuit of an operatic career the opportunity for professional stage experience; the winner of this award receives a Resident Internship with Michigan Opera Theatre.

Applicants should be in the following age brackets: Sopranos, 20-30; Mezzos and Contraltos, 20-30; Tenors, 20-32; Baritones, 20-32; Basses, 30-33. No age waivers are granted to former or present members of the armed services. Photostatic copy of birth certificate or similar proof of age must be submitted with applications, which are being accepted now for this fall's auditions. Completed forms must be returned by Oct. 15. Requests for applications may be made by writing to Mrs. Sam B. Williams, Scholarship Chairman, Detroit Grand Opera Association, 500 Temple Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48201.

One thing you can bet on: come Thursday, Oct. 22, when the curtain rises at North High School's Performing Arts Center. on the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center's' Follies '81, Greg and Lisbeth Oates will be on stage. They've been in every Assistance League Follies since the first one, five years ago.

"I," says Lisbeth, "usually try to stay in the background - because I'm sort of a klutz. I'm not one to dance. Greg and I usually sing."

There are times, though, when a background role just isn't possible. Last year, for instance, when Lisbeth was president of the Assistance League. High offices demand special sacrifices. "The director wrote me So . . . in as The Flashette." It was not type casting. And that's what's so much fun about the Assistance League Follies. Step right up, ladies and gentlemen, and see your friends and neighbors, lawyers and doctors, housewives and business women, stepping out in a style you never dreamt they had in them!

"YOU DON'T HAVE to be in the Assistance League to be in the Follies," Lisbeth emphasizes. "You don't have to have any special talent-or any talent at all. We take anyone who comes." Annually, that amounts to 100-plus people, newcomers and releats like Mr. and Mrs. Gregory J. Oates who, for three weeks of rehearsals and three nights of performances, are stars. At the least, like the title of this year's Follies, *Star Struck*.

You do have to be over 18, and unpregnant. Lisbeth qualifies on both counts. The Oates daughters, Wendy and Holly, in the seventh grade at Brownell and the fifth grade at Kerby, respectively, are 12 and 10.

Their mother is a Grosse Pointe South High School graduate. Their father, staff liaison engineer, manufacturing, for Ford Motor Engine Division; is from Detroit's northwest side. "We met on a blind date," says Lisbeth. "Ten years later, we were married."

Pre-children, Lisbeth worked as a dietitian for Stouffer Foods Corporation. Now she enjoys playing around with foods in her own kitchen. She is active at church, on the vestry at St. John's Episcopal in Detroit, where her family has worshipped for years. She loves to read, especially books by William Kienzle. He gave a delightful program for the Assistance League that sent Lisbeth running off to buy her first Kienzle. She's read every one since. SUMMERS, THE entire family's focus shifts from the land to the lake. Greg prides himself on getting "The Wild Oates" into the water on April 1. That's even if (and in Michigan, it could happen) it snows on April 1. The cruiser is berthed at Jefferson Beach Marina, but it's been as far afield as Mackinac. "We don't take winter vacations," says Lisbeth. "We save most of our time for the boat in summer." There are three cats currently in residence at the Oates house. Geraldine, pictured above with Lisbeth, is one half of a Tom and Jerry duo. And since Tom and Jerry are getting onthey're both 14; that's old for cats-there's also Cinnamon, a calico Persian in the prime of life. Ellen (Mrs. Douglas) Cooke, "my best friend since high school," brought Lisbeth Oates into the NEGC Assistance League. That was back in '73, when the League was putting out its first cookbook, and Lisbeth, the ex-dietitian, immediately became very involved, both in that project and the League itself. "I went right on the board." Ellen, like Lisbeth an Assistance League past-president, and

LISBETH OATES, OF HILLCREST ROAD

Jane (Mrs. Michael) Pooley are co-chairing this year's Follies. Lisbeth is ticket chairman. She was talent chairman with Ellen, who also co-chaired the 1980 Follies, two years ago. "I wanted to take the ticket chairman-ship," says Lisbeth. "I don't mind organizational work."

*STAR STRUCK* will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 22, 23 and 24, at 8 p.m. General reserved seats are $7, patron seats $15. Special category patron and benefactor seats, at $22.50 and $50 respectively, include admission to the Patron Party at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club (cocktails by subscription) immediately following the Friday evening performance.

Special rates, with seating in the mezzanine, are available to senior citizens for the Thursday evening performance. Information on the special rates may be obtained by calling 824-8000, Ex-

Three weeks later, the opening night curtain goes up.

In the interim there's a hectic schedule of day and evening rehearsals as everyone who showed up for the open casting call Meet the Director party is whipped into singing/dancing/ acting shape. The director brings the costumes with him. He also brings designs for the sets, to be built on the spot by Follies volunteers; a lot of husband help comes into play here.

"BOB DURANT will be our orchestra again this year," Lis-beth notes, "This is his fourth Follies, He really looks forward to them.'

One Assistance League member donates a room for the director at the Parkcrest as her contribution to the Follies project. Ken Meade, of Pointe Dodge, has given the director the use of a car for the last two years. Finding the director a place to stay and a way to get to and from rehearsals is part of the Assistance League's responsibility. There was one year, however, when "the use of a car" was no help at all, for that year's director, New Yorker to the core, had walked around Manhattan Island all his life, ridden buses, hailed taxis-and never learned to drive!

The Assistance League has found doctors for directors who, coming to Michigan from warmer climates, have caught severe colds.

But sneezing or squinting, the director goes on, and stumbling or croaking, the cast goes on, until, finally, the show goes on . , and it's a great one. "And the letdown when it's all over,' Lisbeth admits, "is tremendous." Fortunately, for her, it's not long lasting. ### Bruins open hockey year

The Grosse Pointe Bruin travel hockey team has opened its season in preparation for Adray League play. Preparing for defense of last year's regular season and playoff championships, the Bruins hosted Wexford, Ont., last weekend.

Coach Tom Costello's team looked ready for Bantam AA competition with a tie and a victory over Wexford. In the first game, the Bruins rallied from a 3-1 deficit to score two late third period goals for a 3-3 tie. Center Stacey Rickert and left wing Robby Wood produced the tie with goals in the last four minutes. Mike Brykalski tallied the opening goal in the first period. Goalie Peter Muer provided steady goaltending. The second game with Wexford produced an exciting 4-3 victory for the Bruins. Grosse Pointe jumped into a quick, 3-0 first period lead to provide the difference in the game. Goals were scored by Tom Davis, John Russell and Wood. Rankin Barker scored what proved to be the winning goal in the final stanza. Dino Masella was the winning goaltender.

The 1981-82 Bruins boast a solid defense consisting of Jeff Garrett, Eric Grant, Chris Luongo and Tom Madden. Forwards include Keith Barich, Barker, Brykalski, Davis, John Hirschfield, Rickert, Russell, Marty Sanclemente and Wood. Goaltending is handled by Muer and Masella. Costello's assistant coach is Jim on Sept. 28. Grosse Pointe scored from the opening faceoff when Mark Nesler banged home centering passes from Jamie Parker and Mike Fulgenzi. Parker then tipped in a Fulgenzi pass to give the Marlies a 2-0 lead in the first minute of play.

Later in the period, winger Tom Ugval deflected a pass from linemate Greg Henchel to put the Marlies on top, 3-0. The Canadians came back with two goals, but Grosse Pointe matched these when Henchel slammed home setup passes from Walter Connolly and Ugval and George Jerome whistled a shot from 40 feet out. Nesler drew an assist.

On Oct. 3, the Mariboros defeated St. Clair Beach, Ont., 4-3. The contest featured aggressive checking on both sides with a total of 18 penalties assessed. Mike Kramer started the scoring with his slap shot from the blueline. Henchel followed with two goals, one unassisted and one on a pass from Fulgenzi to tie the score.

The winning goal came midway through the third period when Henchel set up Connolly with a perfect pass and Connolly beat the goalie from close in.

The Marlies were guests of Ply-mouth in a contest played at the University of Michigan-Dearborn campus on Oct. 4. The Marlboros got goals from Fulgenzi and Connolly with Henchel and Parker receiving assists. Marlboro goalies Coley Connelly and Al Van Deweghe have been sharing the net minding chores. They've done an exceptional job, allowing just six goals in the first four games.

Named to L'Anse Creuse North job

Grosse Pointe Woods' Schleicher new L'Anse Creuse athletic director

Looking at Steve Schleicher's sports background, one might have to admit that following his starring role in three sports at Grosse Pointe North High School and in Alma College football and baseball, he'd be a shoe-in for an athletic director's job someplace.

The administration at L'Anse Creuse North High School must have thought so, too. Schleicher, a native of the Woods, was named to the achietic director's post there this past varsity assistant at Wyandotte Roosevelt High School for two years. And after two years as L'Anse Creuse North's ninth grade baseball coach, he served as varsity baseball coach last season.

Schleicher was graduated from Grosse Pointe North in 1971. He had lettered nine times in football, baseball and basketball at North. He followed that up with a four-year starting career in football and baseball at Alma College.

Schleicher made All-League selection three years in football and was

Red Barons salvage one at E.Detroit

The G.P. Red Barons won one game and lost two against their archrival the East Detroit Tiger Cats in games played under the lights at East Detroit High School on Saturday, Oct. 3.

The Red Baron freshman squad was walloped, 15-0, by a sky-high Tiger Cat 11 for its second consecutive loss of the 1981 season. Dominic Martilotti rushed for over 100 yards in a losing cause.

The Barons, decimated by illness during the preceding week, were kept alive by the strong two way play of Steven Moore, Mike Henry, Joe Kopitzke, Brian Simon, Jason Whelan and Martilotti. Chuck Weiss, Bob Crane and Dan MacDougall played well defensively despite playing out of position most of the evening.

The junior varsity unit survived a fourth quarter rally to down its opponents, 13-7, as Richmond McCloud and Mike Calcaterra each scored a touchdown and McCloud added the extra point.

Mike Miller and Ken Garner ran with power in critical short yardage situations. The solid blocking of Jay Tobias, Bill Turnbull, Scott Smith, John Vujnov and Mike Hagen and the aggressive tackling of Eric Miller. Darin Hopp, Tom Smith, Kevin Eng-lish, Karl Schultz, Mike Inman and Jay Binder contributed to the win.

The varsity fell victim to illness, vacations and the Tiger Cats in that order, losing to its opponent, 21-0. All of the scoring occurred in the first half. The defense then settled down and held an impressive Tiger Cat offense scoreless in the second half.

Jim Nelson, David Kopitzke, Joe Craporatta, Doug Hagen, Mark Belanger and Chris Dudeck were outstanding two way performers. Assistant Coach Don Stoeckel commented that, due to a short roster, many players were forced into unfamiliar positions and their inexperience showed early.

In a silent but public way, the Jack Frakes family of Buckingham Road displayed its loyalty and support of the Detroit Tigers as the team attempted to reach the American League playoffs. Alas, the Tigers fell one game (and several timely fielding plays) short. Anyway, the art work was rendered by Drew Frakes, a sophomore art student at Northern Michigan University. Hmmm . . . maybe Drew figures the Tigers should try their luck at basketball.

North in soccer tie with foe South

With wins over Roseville and Cath- a highly ranked non-league opponent, olic Central, 12-0 and 5-0 respectively, the Norsemen moved into a first place tie with arch-rival South.

North's opponents are not only having problems keeping the Norsemen off the board, but only two teams have managed to put the ball past goalkeeper David Loren after nine games

"We're playing very good ball now," said North coach Guido Regelbrugge. "Our game at Brother Rice (currently tied for second) will be very important." If the Norsemen beat Brother Rice, (which beat South) the stage will be set for a possible first place showdown against the Blue Devils next Tuesday, Oct. 13.

Leading North in the 12-0 route of the Roseville Cougars were Andy Hetzel with three goals and Paul Regelbrugge, Gerry Deeney and Isaak Simopoulos with two each. Solo tallies by Ray Azar. Dave Waldeck and Mirko Mikelic filled the referee's scoring sheet.

Catholic Central, previously tied for first and sporting a 9-2 record, met its match against the high-scoring Norsemen last Friday when sophomore sensation Marc Tirikian scored four goals to boost his season total to 27 in just eight games. Centrehalf Regelbrugge scored his ninth to lift North to the 5-0 victory.

The 8-1 Norsemen take on Brother Rice and Hamtramck this week in two interesting matches. Hamtramck,

As athletic director, Schleicher oversees the athletic departments, physical education programs, booster clubs and even the bingo games at L'Anse Creuse North's Mt. Clemens campus. That's a lot of athletic involvement, but Schleicher is used to that.

Custodian plans to go distance in marathon

By Kevin Roberts

South

South High custodians often perform miraculous duties, however, enduring 26 miles of pain and hardship is not usually one of them. But this Sunday, Oct. 11, South custodian Kevin Maloney will attempt this feat for the third time as he participates in the 1981 Detroit Free Press Marathon.

"Besides working, I also go to school,' Maloney says. "So my running has to fit into a pretty tight schedule. Still, I average about 50 miles a week, with three days of over 10 miles. This should allow me to finish in a decent time. I'll be trying to break three hours, 30 minutes this year."

"Some people run marathons to prove a point," he continued. "They race against themselves. Me, I just like to run. I'd run all day if I could. The main reason I run is the people along the side. Their cheering is a real pick up, a real kick."

"Last year's marathon was really something," Maloney recounts. "When the gun went off, it took me two minutes to reach the starting line, because of so many runners. Then you go down the Detroit-Windsor tunnel, and everyone is yelling, and the screams just echo off the walls.

"At about 18 miles I hit 'the wall' " Maloney winches. "Knowing the winners are already finishing and you've still got eight miles to go is just a killer psychologically."

"At East Jefferson you really see the impact of the marathon. People are just walking, limping, and hob-bling along. It looks like a disaster area." "The great thing about marathons," Maloney continues, "is age or sex doesn't matter. Women beat men, kids beat older runners, old guys beat young guys. It just takes all shapes and sizes.'

In answer to those who say running a marathon is impossible, Maloney says: "People who think they can't run one - people who are born relatively normal - should see the people on crutches and in wheelchairs, who enter the race and then give their all. It can be done.'

Teams from 10 schools will compete in cross country, swimming and tennis. Awards will go to the winning squad in each sport and to the overall winner.

South falls again, 14-0

By Tom Streicher South High

Costly mistakes by the South varsity football team resulted in a 14-0 loss to East Detroit last week.

'The Blue Devils' biggest mistake came in the third quarter when quarterback Kip Saile fumbled the ball on South's own two-yard line and the ball was picked up and run in for a touchdown by an East Detroit defender. The second East Detroit touchdown came in the fourth quarter when quarterback Jeff Hart scored on a six-yard run.

The Blue Devil offense was on the five-yard line in the first quarter when East Detroit intercepted a pass. Halfback Jamie Keogh contributed the most to South's offense and junior Steve Suminski also had good runs.

Suminski's best run came in the second quarter on a 13 yarder. The Blue Devil defense played well, with its biggest play coming in the third quarter when it held East Detroit on four consecutive plays on a goal line stand. Junior Bob Dodge and senior Joe Yott ended the first half when Dodge stoped East Detroit for a fiveyard loss and Yott intercepted a pass on the next play.

South's loss gave East Detroit its first win of the season as South fell to 1.2 in the Eastern Michigan League and 1-3 overall. As they head into this Saturday's game against Roseville, the Blue Devils will try to even their conference record. The game will be played at Roseville at 1 p.m. Roseville remains undefeated in the league.

Grosse Pointe North was in control of the whole game as senior fullback Dave McCarron · carried the ball over the goal line twice on short runs to give the Norsemen their second shutout victory 16-0, over Clintondale last week.

The game's first touchdown was scored midway through the first quarter when sopohomore Geoff Tisch. being recovered a fumble at the 20 and raced to the two yard line. Mc-Carron then went two yards for the score. Jerry Bockstanz converted on the extra point and the Norsemen jumped to a 7-0 lead.

North

.Continued from Page 1C) Freshmen Girls' Basketball: North's freshmen basketball squad upped its record to 4-2 by defeating East De-troit Kelly 29-17, before falling at the hands of East Detroit Oakwood, 27-26. Despite a tremendous scoring performance by Celeste Sartor, who scored 20 points against Oakwood. the Norsemen fell just short as the seconds ticked away. In the Kelly victory, Dawn Cartwright scored eight points, while Sartor and Pam Boesigner contributed seven and six points respectively.

Cross Country: Unbeaten in the Bi-County, perennial victor Joe Schmidt led the Norsemen to a perfect 15-50 drubbing of Lakeshore. Brian Boutell, Scott Cooper, Jon Mager, and Doug Schepke also starred for North. The girls took six of the first seven places as they trounced Lakeshore 17-44. Junior Martha Whitaker teamed up with Colleen Caroll, and Janet Wesselman to give North the impressive win.

Golf: Unbeaten after 10 matches, North's golf team was paced by Dave Wittwer and Alex Rothis to defeat Lakeview, 206-242 last week. Coach Dick Didur's Norsemen have a very good chance to place among the best in the state this year.

ULS netters beat South By Kathy Hull

ULS

The University Liggett School girls' varsity tennis team boosted its record to 8-1 last week with impressive victories over South and Marion.

The Liggett netters surprised Class A South with a 4-3 victory. Key matches included Ann G. Sherer's three-set win in the No. 3 singles spot over Leslie Macke and a come-frombehind victory for Julie Quigley and Laurie Evans at No. 3 doubles.

The win over Marion was also a pleasant surprise for the Knights. Marion players looked tough in a preseason tournament early in September, but the ULS netters trounced them on their home courts, 6-1. Varsity captain Lisa Peck won a hardfought match for the Knights at No. 2 singles, winning a tie-breaker in the third set.

The Knights' only loss of the season so far come against their rivals, Kingswood, two weeks ago.

This week's matches include Greenhills, Detroit Country Day and Star of the Sea. Next week ULS will compete in the Regionals in hopes of going on to defend their state championship title at Kalamazoo.

ULS golfers win: The University Liggett golf team defeated Lakeview, High School, 208-242 on Sept. 29 With this score, the Knights' lowest of the season, the team's record improved to 6-2. Paving the way to the win was Medalist Charles Farrar's score of 39. Murray Sales and Jim Valice carded 40's and Sean Thomas had 44.

Lions are part of some fantastic finishes'

It's 1970 and the Detroit Lions are playing at New Orleans. With no time remaining on the clock, Saints' kicker Tom Dempsey will try to do the impossible - kick a 63-yard field goal. After the snap from center, Joe Scarpatti gets the ball down. Dempsey kicks its solidly. And it's ... it's good. A total of 15 different Fantastic Finishes, (30second film clips), have been selected by N.F.L. Films, Inc. Prepared for Aluminum Company of America, the Fantastic Finishes programs are being shown during the fourth quarter twominute warning commercial break at the end of selected games.

Detroit is also featured in another of the Fantastic Finishes segments. The 1980 annual Thanksgiving Day battle between Chicago and Detroit is tied when Chicago Bear Quarterback Vince Evans keeps the ball and dives into the end zone. Following the toss of the coin, the Lions kick-off to Chicago. Dave Williams returns the kick-off 95 yards for a 23-17 win ---the fastest overtime win in N.F.L. history.
