

It's a playground happening

When students of Mason School in Grosse Pointe Woods arrived at school on Monday morning, they found, much to their delight, a gigantic timber playscape assembled and ready for legs to climb on. Mason school parents worked more than 10 hours on constructing the equipment, made possible from last spring's Mason School Fair.

Board okays increase

Average wage now $42,000

By Joanne Gouleche

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education last week approved 10 percent salary increases for school administrators, leaving very few of those officials with annual incomes under $40,000.

The board also approved 10 percent pay hikes for non-instructional supervisory, personnel, hourly employes and the system's four paraprofessionals.

A nationwide test of basic skills given to students each spring shows Grosse Pointe youngsters rank in the top one percent in the U.S. in reading and mathematics, according to a public school administrator.

Results from the Metropolitan Achievement Tests taken in Grosse Pointe last May reveal students who were tested for basic reading skills ranked in the top one percent of school systems in grades one, two, three, five, seven, nine and 10. Fourth, sixth and eighth graders who took the test scored in the top 10 percent.

The Metropolitan Achievement Test is one of the most commonly used instruments for measuring skills in reading, math and vocabulary. The Grosse Pointe school system conducts its own writing and spelling tests, in addition to the standardized exams.

The schools' director of research and development, Roger McCaig, presented the Board of Education with the results last week and said there is a "legitimate cause for concern" with some of local students' scores, particularly in fourth grade math.

Local fourth and seventh graders scored in the top 10 percent of school systems nationally in math, but scores are particularly low for fourth graders in mathematical concepts, problem-solving and computation, according to McCaig.

Deputy Supt. James Hoeh said the system is working on projects to improve those scores by next May when the test will be given again.

Results of the system's own writing and spelling tests indicate skills are stable with a slight drop in some grades, according to McCaig.

The school administration uses the test scores to measure achievement of individual students, to improve learning and teaching and to pinpoint problem areas in the classroom, McCaig said. Each parent receives individual results as well

Total administrative salaries make up more than $1.5 million or eight percent of the school's $35 million

A list of 1981-82 administrative salaries show an average school official's salary is nearly $42,000 a year. Lowest salary paid to an administrator is $34,592, while the highest paid administrator receives an annual income of $52,046. Last May the school board awarded a three-year, $49,000 contract to new school superintendent Dr. Kenneth Brummel. Dr. Brummel has use of a school-owned home and paid utilities as part of

. For the 23 school principals in the system, annual incomes range from a low $36,740 to a high $51,181. Fourteen of the 39 administrators work a 12-month year, while other school officials work 11 months.

Not all school board members were anxious to approve the salary increments. Ron Dalby, who voted last month not to ratify the teachers' new three year contract, said the administrators are climbing "ahead of the people they supervise.

Administrators deserve an increase, but not more than 10 percent plus fringe benefits, Dalby said. Actually, the board's action last week will mean an 8 percent across-the-board increase for administrators, while the remaining 2 percent will be distributed based on merit performance.

Dalby was the only board member to vote against 20 percent pay increases for Grosse Pointe's teachers Under the 1981-83 contract, a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience would make more than $15,000 a year, excluding cost of living allowance (COLA). An educator with a Ph.D. and 11 years tenure would earn more than $33,000 a year minus COLA.

Deputy Supt. James Hoeh said 12.5 percent of the system's management team has resigned to take positions in other school systems, including three principals and the school's director of career and vocational education, a post that will remain unfilled, according to a school spokes-

Lively political race shapes up in Woods

By Gregory Jakub

Some of the most active political campaigning seen in the Pointes so far this year has been spurred by the race for mayor and three available council seats in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Lawn signs, a new political action group, and questionable campaign literature are all part of the race in which a young law student is challenging the incumbent mayor and a field of seven council candidates includes two incumbents.

Some candidates have begun to post signs and at least one-22-yearold mayoral candidate Timothy Mucciante-says he will use lawn signs in spite of suggestions by the mayor and council incumbents to refrain from using the signs, which they say detract from the city's appearance.

Mucciante said he has decided to use the signs because he is already at a disadvantage running against incumbent Mayor George Freeman, 56, a securities broker seeking his second two-year term as mayor. Muccinate said he sees no harm in using signs which he says will be taken down the night of the Nov. 3 election.

Also, a political action group has formed around a single issue-improvement of boat docks at Lake Front Park—and is backing Mucciante, Douglas Munro and Frederick Maddock for council.

The most unusual campaign activity so far came in the form of a flyer that was placed on windshields of cars parked at the Woods Bowling Alley. Terry Davis moves to Washington

By Gregory Jakub

Charles (Terry) Davis, formerly of McKinley Place in the Farms, was appointed last month associate administrator of the General Services Administration in Washington, D. C. The appointment is approved by President Reagan and is not subject to a Senate vote.

GSA establishes policy and manages government property and records; construction and operation of buildings: acquisition and distribution of supplies; transportation, traffic and communications.

Davis, 38, said his duties are to establish policy, evaluate programs, and institute management improvements. The post draws on his background as a financial executive for the Ford Motor Company and manager of finance for Ford Land Development, Davis said.

In January, Davis said he was being considered for several government staff positions but was looking for one that was not politically oriented and would allow him to apply his bus-

He turned down an initial offer to become the assistant secretary for Army logistics and financial management. The position he finally accepted is a little higher position than the initial offer, Davis said. An associate administrator is about equal to an under secretary post, he added.

Davis and his wife, Susan, and their three children, Chipper, 12; Jonathan, 10; and Susie, 11, are now renting a home in Washington. The children formerly attended Richard School.

Davis managed the Michigan Reagan-Bush campaign last year and was also on the federal advisory committee that screened applicants for federal jobs in Michigan and made recommendations to the Reagan transi-

"We were shocked," said Jeff solemnly, "In all the books and movies, the judges move down the tables, nibbling and tasting away. But not in pickles. It was like learning there's no Betty Crocker.'

With the theme song from "Rocky" dancing in their heads, the Evans team decided to do it up right. Up until now they'd been canning at mere "pickling parties." With visions of blue ribbons before them they ascended to, you guessed it, the "perfect pickle picking party.'

"We chose the pickles on the basis of uniformity of size, straightness of body and overall talent," said Jeff. 'The brine was crystal clear and nicely complimented with garlic, red peppers, dill weed and mustard seeds."

They didn't scrimp on jars either. We're talking imported canning equipment from (where else), Canada. "Lids and jars had to match, too," said Clay, "Mason jars with Mason

Their persistence was rewarded. Through the mail they learned they had copped second place. With the ribbon came a check for $2.50. Although they haven't decided what to do with all the money, they do know they won't let it change their lives.

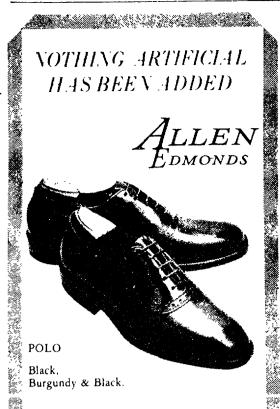

"Hey, this thing hasn't turned our heads." said Clay humbly. "We'd like everyone to know that the driving force behind this victory belongs to my wife Janet, and Jeff's fiance Patti

"Of course we were the driving force," said Patti, "We owned all the canning equipment.'

Everyone in the Evans family, (especially Mrs Evans, the boys' mother), was proud of their win. "We went up against the best and came in second place," said Clay, "The fair is very important in Hillsdale and the pickle competition is the most crowded event at the fair. We went up against 40 other jars and won. We're professionals now,'

They plan to enter again next year. (Continued on Page 2A)

McCaig added that test scores over the last three years have improved "just a notch." He credits excellent parent involvement, the professional responsibility teachers have shown in the classroom and an excellent student population for Grosse Pointe's top one percent ranking in reading and mathematics.

McCaig said the 11-year-old achievement test is outdated and does not test metric skills, although students learn about the metrics in the classroom. Administrators say they will consider changing the test before next spring.

Free boarding school directory

The Committee on Boarding Schools, jointly sponsored by the National Association of Independent Schools and the Secondary School Admission Test Board has announced publication of a directory containing information on 200 independent boarding schools in the United States and abroad. Available free of charge from the Committee on Boarding Schools, 18 Tremont Street, Boston, Mass., 02108, Boarding Schools briefly describes each school and advises parents, students, and counselors on the admission process. School addresses and phone numbers, names of admission officers and other pertinent details are included. The boarding schools described are independent nonprofit institutions governed by volunteer boards of trustees. In most cases, the board members represent a broad base of educational, business, and professional interests. The responsibility for the operation of the school is delegated by them to a school head who maintains direct relationships with parents students, faculty, and alumni in the collective effort to carry out the goals of the school.

American independent boarding schools provide an educational opportunity for elementary and secondary school students. Free blood tests to help detect diabetes will be offered by 175 Michigan hospitals and health centers during Diabetes Detection Week, Nov. 1.7. The statewide testing program is co-sponsored by the American Diabetes Association, Michigan Affiliate, and is open to persons over 18 years of age who have not previously been diagnosed as diabetic.

An estimated 200,000 persons in Michigan have diabetes and don't know it, according to the ADA. Persons who run a high risk of developing diabetes are over 40, overweight, and related to diabetics. They should be checked once a year for diabetes, advises Dr. Nancy Caputo, detection

Diabetes is a major cause of heart attack, kindey failure, blindness and when present, may include frequent urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, rapid weight loss, itching, fatigue, blurred vision and slow healing of cuts and scratches.

For best results, a meal high in carbohydrates with large amounts of starches and sugars should be eaten two hours before the test. Breakfast could be fruit or juice, cereal with milk and sugar, two slices of buttered toast with jam, and coffee or tea. A person planning to take the test after lunch could have soup, a sandwich, cake or pie and a glass of milk. The meal should be eaten within a 15minute time period and nothing else except water should be taken.

If the test indicates that a person may have diabetes, he will be advised to see his own physician for further evaluation. For further information about Detection Week and other programs and services of the ADA, call 342-9333. Bon Secours Hospital, 468 Cadieux Road, will give tests Sunday through Saturday, Nov. 1-7, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. They will test persons 18 years or over. Anyone under 18 must be accompanied by a guardian

Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval Avenue, will test Monday through Friday, Nov. 2-6, from 9 a.m. to noon. St. John Hospital, 22101 Moross Road, will test Tuesday, Nov. 3, Wednesday, Nov. 4, and Thursday, Nov. 5, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. On Nov 3 and 5, testing will be in Meeting Room A. On Nov 4, testing will be in Meeting Room B.

FLEC launches '82 fund drive'

(FLEC) will launch its 1982 fund drive with a community wide campaign to raise $120,000, according to Becci Reedus, executive director.

Reedus said the funds will be used to sustain FLEC's most vital programs, Center Point, a crisis intervention and youth counselling center at 18412 Mack Avenue, in the Farms, the Legal Center, Medical Clinic, Alcohol Awareness Program, the Juvenile Offenders Program, Family Life Ferums, and a variety of education programs on subjects of interest to the community.

FLEC is the east side community's own volunteer social service agency, serving youth in the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores. A trained staff, supervised by proto distressed and concerned young people at no cost or for a nominal fee when possible.

FLEC was founded in 1966 by a group of concerned doctors, lawyers, clergy and parents to combat what they perceived as a serious drug problem among area young people.

In 1980 the FLEC '66 Club was formed to solicit a $1 donation from each community member for each year of FLEC's existence. FLEC is a self supporting agency that receives no government or United Foundation

This year's goal is $15 from each member of the community, Reedus said. They will be solicited by letter

FLEC moved into its new headquarters, at 18412 Mack Avenue, last year under the leadership of Dr. John Burrows. The programs had been scattered in several locations. The new building greatly enhanced the organization's efficiency, and an overall increase of approximately 50 percent was noted in its patient caseload in 1980, according to FLEC spokes-

In addition to its own fund raising efforts, including a FLEC Telethon on Grosse Pointe Cable TV scheduled for after the first of the year, FLEC is supported by its auxiliary organization, Friends of FLEC, which annually raises thousands of dollars.

Two candidates are running for a two-year term as mayor, Douglas G. Graham and Anthony J. Spada.

Two candidates are running for Municipal Judge, incumbent Beverly C. Grobbel and Alan R. Devine Jr. It also is a four-year term.

The Woods candidates' forum is scheduled Monday, Oct. 26, at 8 p.m. in the council room, 20025 Mack Avenue.

By Marian Trainor

It's better to be rich than poor. and any honest older person will admit that it's better to be young than old. The first condition, being rich, is possible to achieve by hard work, good luck and the right timing. However there is only one antidote to old age and it's not at all an attractive alternative. So it's best to accept the aches and pains and problems that are part of the aging process. And that doesn't mean being miserable. On the contrary, meeting each day with a light heart and a heavy dose of humor can make those added years happy and rewarding. Laugh and the world laughs with you, even when you laugh at yourself.

These observations are brought home in "The Joys of Aging and How to Avoid Them" by Phyllis Diller, Doubleday). Her ability to combine comedy and truth makes her book fun to read and offers insights into how it is possible to accept the toll the years take and still retain a zest for

In the foreword she writes that "this book is a primer on how to look and stay young" but readily admits that it's a little incongruous for her to write such a book, "somewhat like Don Rickles writing a book on common courtesy." She says she has dedicated her life to staying young. She admits to having worked so hard at staying young. "It's beginning to age me." She promises to give inexpensive practical ways to make old age work for you and not to worry if you can't afford plastic surgery because you can always touch up the date of birth on your driver's license. Yes, although she chug-a-lugs Geritol, she'll show you how to become part of the Pepsi Generation.

THE LEGEND OF Ponce De Leon's fountain of youth is debunked. He did well by Americans when he discovered Florida, the land of sunshine, oranges and humidity but he certainly hoodwinked them with the fountain of youth scheme and he wasn't even into real estate. However, the full knowledge that the fountain is just a mirage has not deterred those who count the passing years in wrinkles and gray hairs from finding out for themselves. Phyllis is no exception.

'Wouldn't it be great," she tells her agent, "if that fountain truly did exist? You step into the water as old Aunt Agatha and come out as Brooke Shields?"

Needless to say her journey was fruitless although she has many hilarious observations about it. She concludes "There are no magic formulas for getting younger." She reiterates what many others have admitted that only hard work and the right psychological attitude will do it. You have to start to think young, talk young, act young. Learn going with the flow. Get rid of and replace everything that even suggests old.

On the subject of face-lifts, Phyllis is both pro and con. She agrees that a face-lift can make you look years younger and can enhance a battered self image. However, she warns, not everyone needs a face-lift. "You only consider it if "your face is sagging faster than the American dollar" or "if you occasionally trip over your neck." She admits to having had every cosmetic surgical procedure there is and "thanks to President Truman, I didn't have to pay a cent for it. (Back in 1951, he declared my body as a disaster area, thus qualifying me for feredal funds)."

Besides face lifts, there is a whole list of reconstructive surgery available. Phyllis lists them off. by Familiar Name, Fancy Medi-cal Name and Girl Talk Slang Nickname. For instance, a nose job in medical terms is Rhinoplasty; in slang, a beak overhaul or Schnoz Snip. BUT SHE WARNS, no matter how many surgical procedures you endure, there is one part of the anatomy that will give away your age-your hands. "The sexy dress, the tight creaseless face, doesn't mean a thing if you make an entrance at a party wearing aviator gloves. Everyone is going to know those hands have endorsed Social Security checks."

Rejuvenation is another subject researched by Phyllis. One method cited is to join the people in the Caucasus Mountains of the Ukraine where the natives through diet exercise, climate, mental outlook and "never having to listen to Musak in elevators" live to the ripe old ages of 140. Of course, she admits living that long could have its problems, among them living in a place where the day camp is filled with $5-year-olds.

Clinics and spas come under scrutiny. She seems to favor a Health Institute in Berne, Switzerland, where patrons pay $1,000 a day to receive injections of lamb placenta. She bases her conclusion on the theory that she has never seen a lamb that looked old.

Health is a very important contributor to a happy old age, although Phyllis places it third on her list, number one being gold, and number two, jewelry.

"Thank God, I feel better than I look," she writes. Generally most of us can echo those sentiments, thanks to improved medical care. She begins this discussion with a story about the man who went to the doctor com-plaining of aches and pains. "There's nothing wrong with you," the doctor said, "I know, I've been a doctor for 38 years."

"That may be so," replied the man but I've been a patient for

Being a patient for 65 years is no mean accomplishment and can only be achieved by attention to diet and exercise. Of course, first it is necessary to cure any ailments. Phyllis has a whole list of remedies from acupuncture to home remedies. She is convinced that beer is brain food. On the subject of headaches, she is less certain. She claims to have swallowed all the well known products but still woke up every morning with a nagging headache - her husband!

She has her own list of vitamins such as Vitamin Z — "it turns your liver spots into gold Krugerrands."

Everyone knows how we cope emotionally has more of an effect on our bodies than physical problems. We have to learn to relax, loosen up and not let daily anxieties traumatize us. Phyllis advises that the healthiest thing you can do is feel good about yourself. "If you have to-lie" she writes. She had a wig, capped teeth, false eyelashes, fake fingernails, rear padding and a silicone job. She then went out on the stage and sang, "I Gotta Be

"Exercise is not my best thing," Phyllis admits. "My reflexes are slower than a turtle on Sominex." Never the less she dutifully reviews the pros and cons of various types, such as jogging which she describes as a sport where you run and run and run and don't go anyplace." She claims they got the idea from Harold Stassen.

Having covered all these subjects, Phyllis has some advice on staying young by changing your life style-thinking young, dressing young and above all never showing proof of your real age.

She then proceeds to enumerate some of her ventures in disguising her age. She admits that it is illegal to change actual date of birth on documents but she claims there are clever ways of disguising and confusing the documents and the people reading them. One experience is recounted.

Agent: "We need to know your

Phyllis: "I'm 23 going on Agent: "We need a birth certificate." Phyllis: "I don't have one." Agent: "Everyone has a birth certificiate." Phyllis: "I was raised by a band of Gypsies—they didn't keep records." And on it goes. Needless to say, there are not many who could carry that one

After instructions on never revealing your true age, she runs through some other aspects of projecting a young image, such as cars (a Trans Am instead of a Studebaker) names (if you have a mature name such as Martha put an "I" at the end and change it to Marthi); vocabulary (at a political discussion don't come out with "Don't worry. The League of Nations will get us out of it").

In the "Dressed To Maim" section, she begins with a warning that we are not fashion models (Nobody has ever asked me to turn around and show them my Underalls). She admits to dressing badly but is proud that she dresses young. If we are going to achieve the young look, she advises, shop in your stores. Avoid those "One Step Before majority of people support. He said that is not always easy since the public is sometimes misinformed as in the case of the Woods zoning issue which many people strongly protested at Sept. 22 planning commission meeting. But when that same issue came up before the council a week later, the turnout was sparce, Fahrner said.

Fahrner said he often gets complaints from citizens concerning problems on their particular street. 'As a councilman I have to be concerned about what goes on at every street," Fahrner said adding that he relays concerns to city administrator Chester Petersen to at least get an

The council sometimes has a tough time with difficult issues like liquor licenses, boat docks and parking lots because of the councilmen's different responses to issues that affect different sections of the city, according to

Planners have suggested that multiple family dwellings may be in the future for the Woods but Fahrner said moving people out of their homes will never happen unless areas become very deteriorated. A high-rise development at 7-Mack area would not pose "too much of a problem," Fahrner said.

In terms of maintaining the Woods' high quality services and relatively low tax rate, Fahrner said he is counting on a development at 7-Mack to enhance the tax base so residential property taxes don't have to increase.

CANDIDATE FREDERICK MAD-DOCK said residents expect their council to provide strong leadership

and make decisions in the best intcrest of the city and form sound

He said he expects to accomplish that by adding leadership to the council and through untiring efforts and his experience as a former councilman.

He said controversial issues give the council problems because there is a lack of deep knowledge of situations and a lack of decisive leadership in meeting specific problems head on. He said the council sometimes loses insight into the best interest of the city versus personal or minority interests.

Maddock said the council should use realism when dealing the possibility of redeveloping parts of the city. He said the 7-Mack area is somewhat blighted and if re-developing it with a high-rise would enhance the city and protect property values, then "the city should move forward and not sit on it."

In handling the budget, Maddock said he would favor essential items and cut the "nice-to-have" items. "We should not have to go to the citizens for additional funds for life saving equipment," he said referring to the Nov. 3 ballot question asking residents whether a half-mill tax increase should be used to improve ambulance service and provide it free of charge.

CANDIDATE DOUGLAS MUNRO said residents expect straightforward responses and responsible representation from their councilmen who have an understanding of their needs. He said more civic awareness and participation by citizens would help the council to better act on their

He said the media is tremendously important ingredient to good government and has an obligation to communicate government doings. The community also has the obligation to read and react to what government does, Monroe said. There is also a need for a dialog that goes beyond the council members talking to each other about issues, Munro said.

He said certain issues cause problems for the council because it hesitates to make unpopular decisions. "To vacillate is worse than making an unpopular decision," Maddock

He added that he is positively and dogmatically against changing the Woods from single family dwellings to multiple family units. He said he supports the redevelopment of 7-Mack because it is a commercial zone that would be re-developed for new use.

He is opposed to converting any residentially zoned areas for multiple dwellings, he said.

Regarding the budget, Munro said an unpopular possibility for the future might be a city income tax. You cannot have fire, police, and DPW services of the highest standards without paying for them," Munro said. But he emphasized that it is the public's responsibility to speak out when the standards for city services reach the limits of reasonable taxa-

CANDIDATE JEAN RICE said the public expects council members to represent their views, form sound fiscal policy and management, and have a general overall concern for the city.

"I intend to communicate very well with residents in any way that can" to meet those expectations, Rice said. She said the council also has to be able to react and adopt its fiscal policy to unforseen forces that influence it.

She said the council's problems are partly caused by residents who don't have enough information about issues to judge what is being done. Liquor license disputes are the fault of laws governing the applicants, city and state. Problems with residents who opposed city plans to construct a parking lot at Hollywood and Mack were caused by lack of communication, Rice said.

The citizens should determine whether redevelopments should change the character of the city, Rice said. "I'm in favor of single family homes as long as we can do it. Then we should try a little harder," she

Residents can influence the council's actions on these matters by basing their views on good information and making them known.

In handling the budget, the council should "decide on what kind of city we want and what services we want. "We should set a goal for 20 years then start to develop plans that will get us there," Rice said adding that long range goals have worked successfully for her on the Woods Beautification Commission.

COUNCILMAN JOHN SABOL said residents expect the council to watch over city management and be sure improprieties don't creep in and to keep taxes at a reasonable level.

"I don't have any revolutionary ideas to provide these things to citizens. If anybody does, they're dreaming," Sabol said.

Sabol said he has strong views on the controversial issues that have faced the council and they are tough to solve because they could have far reaching consequences for the city.

He said the 7-Mack area only should be considered for high-rise developments. On the budget, Sabol said inflation is the biggest problem confronting the council and he has no magic way to stop it. CANDIDATE MICHAEL SLOMSKI said residents expect councilmen to be open with them and represent their points of view. If elected he proposes a monthly informal forum to keep in close contact with citizens.

On redeveloping the city, Slomski said "if residents want to keep single family residents, that's the way it will be." He added that he doesn't think the city needs a high-rise at 7-Mack.

He said certain issues cause controversy and problems for the council because they are matters that are uncommon in the normal course of business and he expects that they would lead to difficulty.

Regarding the budget, Slomksi said the city should cut back on excesses and certain services. "I don't think anybody can come out right now with a program to balance the budget," but certain decisions related directly to situations should be made at the right time, Slomski said.

CANDIDATE JOHN STOY said residents should expect accountability from their council representatives. 'I would be responsible to the city but vote my own conscience and reflect the will of the city," Stoy said. He added that to make sure people are informed about what goes on in city government, he would propose publishing weekly reports in the newspaper.

The council is unwilling to come to grips with certain issues that are filled with pitfalls, Stoy said. "When you get to areas of emotion rather than reason, I can see where (the council) would want to avoid them. But I'm not saying they're right or

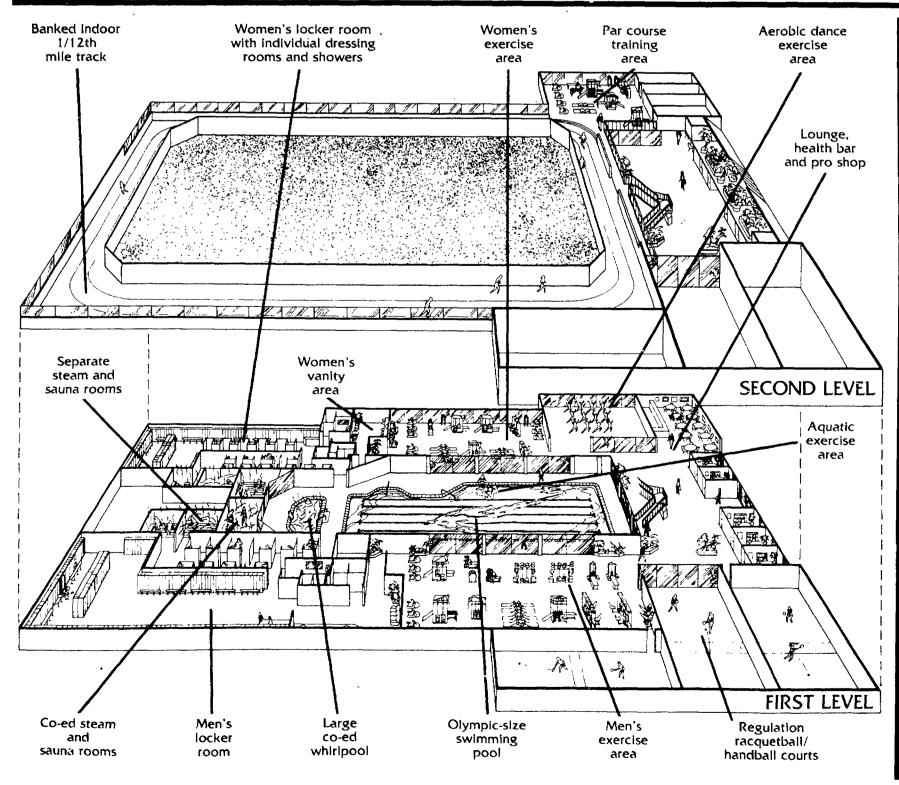

He said the council should cautiously approach the questions of future redevelopment of the city. He said he's not sure whether a high-rise development is good for the 7-Mack area and thinks it might happen sooner than 20 years from now if the money is behind it.

"I've never been a great one for eminent domain. People's rights take place over that," Stoy said.

He said he would look at the city budget like that of a household and establish priorities for what is affordable.

In the end, in spite of all these attempts to hang on to a young image, there comes a time when we have to come to terms with being old. She points out some of the highlights of aging such as "You will not be asked to join the Coast Guard."

She even admits that old age can be fun, because you can do all the bizarre things you couldn't do when you were young. People excuse eccentricity in older people.

There's not much on the subject of old age she doesn't cover. For instance, she suggests making your will read like Mad magazine with such bequests as "being of sound mind I leave all my crayons to . . . "The Joys of Aging" is typical Phyllis Diller. Humorous, sometimes raucous but always pushing truth under the guise of the ridiculous. Her point of accepting the reality of aging rather than clinging to the facade of youth is neatly made but in such a way that the reader doesn't mind accepting ner premise and can even laugh at being hilariously lampooned,

Safety glows on Halloween

What glows in the dark, is young and spunky and belongs to you? It could be your child on Hallow

That is, if your eager-to-be-trick-or treater has been outfitted with a costume containing reflective material to make him or her more visible to motorists at a distance.

The National Safety Council says parents either can buy a costume already containing reflective materials or buy reflective tape and sew it into the costume area. Another option is to dress the child in white or lightcolored clothing.

Also, the costume should be flameresistent, recommends the council. Other dressing-for-safety tips for parents include:

•Use cosmetics on your child's face as part of the get-up instead of a mask which limits vision. •If rain is in the forecast, have your child carry an umbrella and wear rain rubbers. This may seem like a burden, but a drenched trickor-treater will most likely run for cover and could slip and fall on the pavement.

•If your child will be out after dark (daylight is preferable), have him or her carry a flashlight. The council says that trick-or-treaters who glow on Halloween reduce their chances of a traffic accident and make for a safer and happier

Musicians compete for Nester scholarships

Talented young musicians are invited to join the competition for the Thomas Nester Memorial Scholarship, a Grosse Pointe Symphony Society project to honor the orchestra's foun-

High school leaders set conference

"Peer Pressure and the Motivation of People" will be discussed at a Student Leadership Conference, Thursday, Oct. 29, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, from 8:45 a.m.

Bill Martin, dean of management at the University of Michigan-Dearborn, will be guest speaker.

Students and administrators from Grosse Pointe South, Grosse Pointe North, Our Lady Star of the Sea and University of Liggett planned the conference as a way for students in leadership positions to become more effective in their roles. More than 120 students are expected to attend

The second place winner, if the judges deem there is one, will receive $200. Both winner and runner-up will be expected to play during the season in the rehearsals and concerts of the orchestra.

The scholarship fund was established in memory of the late Thomas Nester, real estate man and violinist, who launched the Grosse Pointe Symphony and during his lifetime continued to have a keen interest in its progress and its service to the

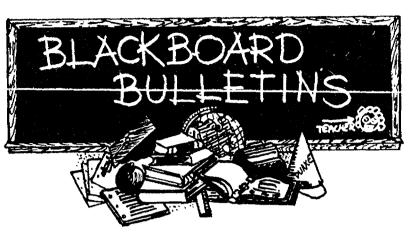

"He worked hard to get people involved in and aware of the Symphony," says his widow Marion Nester, a resident of the Farms, "It was always uppermost in his mind,"

Scholarship rules specify that students through grade 12, who play orchestral instruments, excluding piano, may audition. Applicants need not be residents of Grosse Pointe. Previous Nester Scholarship winners are ineligible. Application forms must be filled out and returned by Saturday, Oct. 31.

Each entrant should be prepared to perform, during a 10 to 15 minute period works that show a variety of musical periods and styles, and at least one selection must have a published orchestral accompaniment. Each student also will be expected to provide judges with a copy of the material to be played and to bring his/ her own accompanist. Selections need not be memorized.

The judges, who will reserve the right to withhold awards this year if they decide that no applicant qualifies, will be chosen by Felix Resnick, long-time conductor of the Grosse Pointe Symphony and a violinist with the Detroit Symphony.

The scholarship auditions are scheduted to be held on Monday, Nov. 9, beginning at 4 p.m. in the music rooms of Grosse Pointe North High School, 707 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods. Competition participants will be notified in advance of the exact time that they will be expected to perform.

Previous Nester Scholarship winners include Steve Eliason, cello, Wendy Judson, flute, Lisa Erwin, oboe, Janice Knell, bassoon, Andrew DeForest, French horn, Ann Willson, oboe, David DeFauw, percussion, Kelly Leon, violin.

Cities get first cable payoffs

The first franchise fees to four local cities from Grosse Pointe Cable TV, Inc., were distributed to city leaders last month. They represent funds generated by the system from August, 1980, to June, 1981, and totalled more than $16,000.

The cable system, which has now been completely installed, links Grosse Pointe Farms, Woods, City and Park and Harper Woods in a system that is partially owned by a firm controlled by the War Memorial Association, which drew up original plans for the consortium.

At the War Memorial's annual meeting last month, franchise fees were distributed in the following amounts: Woods, $11,014, Farms, $1,537. City, $290, and Harper Woods, $3,167. Grosse Pointe Park received no funds because it was not installed during that period.

Under the unusual franchise agreement worked out by the War Memorial, the cities own 37.5 percent of the stock in Grosse Pointe Cable TV, Inc., but that stock is held in trust by the War Memorial. The War Memorial also owns 37.5 percent of the stock and Teleprompter recently purchased by Westinghouse, owns another 25 percent.

About 7,500 local homes now have cable TV installed and representatives say the system reaches more than 23,500 individuals. About 92 percent of those families that subscribe also take at least one pay movie service.

The cable system is financing further improvements and additions to its physical plant through $7.2 mil-

Unpleasant, but responsible move

In government as in private life, people often are faced with a choice of several unpleasant alternatives. Often there is no clear alternative that simply demands adoption. Instead, all the possible choices appear to be unpopular or unpleasant or both. In such cases, people and politicians simply try to select the alternative that appears to be the "least worst" of the choices available for all concerned.

So it must have been with Gov. William Milliken when he decided last week to reverse himself and withdraw his demand that the Legislature enact a big cut in property taxes this year. He pointed to the uncertainties created by inflation, the continuing recession and the pros-pect of further cuts in federal aid to the state and to local units of government. In effect, he said the state had to improve its economy before it could afford a property tax cut. Unpleasant as it is, he indicated that delaying a tax cut becomes a better alternative than further impoverishing many state and local services.

Under the circumstances, this newspaper believes the governor made a wise decision. He also got valuable support from a study just completed by 27 faculty members of the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Wayne State University and Hope College, who found that Michigan property tazes are not as burdensome as some people have contended.

THE STUDY RANKED the state's entire tax structure second only to Hawaii's in fairness, balance and efficient administration. And while it said local property taxes in Michigan are slightly higher than the national average, it found "little substance to claims that property tax burdens on the state's residents have been increasing in recent years."

Furthermore, the governor acted only after it appeared that further cuts of perhaps $270 million would be required in state services if the budget is to remain balanced this year. So it hardly made sense to go through with his original recommendation of a 20 percent property tax cut over a three-year period which would slash revenues by $1.2 billion. Under his original plan, the state would have reimbursed only 65 percent of lost revenue to the school districts and local units of government which thus would have had to absorb the other 35 percent of the

With the new cut in spending, it is going to be difficult enough as it is for state and local government services to be maintained at anywhere near acceptable levels. The further reduction that would have been required by the proposed reductions in property taxes and the consequent decline in revenues simply would have devastated many worthwhile programs in

From one source, the reaction was as anticipated. Huffing and puffing, Robert Tisch, the Shiawassee County drain commissioner, announced he would run for governor on the Democratic ticket and that one of his major plans would be to charge Milliken with going back on his promise to cut property taxes. Being out of state office himself, Tisch can and no doubt will continue to indulge in irresponsible talk about waste in government without ever having to come to grips with the basic issue of recommending specific cuts in state services.

In several respects, the university study cited earlier did support the governor's contentions. It agreed that the high cost to employers of worker's compensation and unemployment benefits has hampered the state's efforts to diversify its economy and reduce its reliance on the auto industry. But it also was extremely critical of Michigan's high labor costs which represent nearly 70 percent of all business expenses and which include "obsolete work standards and too rigid work rules (fostered by organized labor) in a world of rapid technological change.

The comment that found labor costs a major factor in plant location decisions promptly drew criticism from labor leaders, as might be expected. Yet it reflects a widespread belief among business leaders and those who are informed about wage rates in industrial states that compete with Michigan. This problem ought to be addressed along with the reform of the worker's compensation and unemployment benefits programs already advocated by Milliken to improve Michigan's business climate.

Yet high wage rates, even though blamed often on the United Auto Workers, also are in part the responsibility of the auto industry, In boom times, it simply passed along higher and higher wage costs to consumers, the auto buyers, and it wasn't until the automakers ran into economic problems themselves that they suddenly discovered they had helped price themselves out of the auto market.

IN THE POINTES, the governor's shift of position no doubt gets a mixed reception. Some people no doubt are disappointed that the governor reversed himself on the property tax cut. Yet Pointe voters never have endorsed Tisch's property tax cut proposals, probably because they were sophisticated enough to perceive the damage such plans could do to the schools and public services. And those concerned about financing local schools and city governments can now breathe a brief sigh of relief that they won't have to find ways of coping with the cutbacks in revenues that would have been inflicted by Milliken's tax cut proposal.

As we indicated at the start, the governor's decision was not an easy one but in a period when only unpleasant solutions are available for financing government services it also represents an alternative that is a more responsible one for the state's citizens than a deep property tax cut.

Appreciation from a runner

To the Editor:

I would like to express my heartfelt thanks to all the citizens of the Grosse Pointes for their warm support of all the runners in the Free Press International Marathon.

The cheers and encouragement of onlookers were, at times, all that kept some of us first-timers going. I would especially like to thank an anonymous lady on Kerby Road near Kercheval. who was passing out orange slices as I came around at about 11:45. At that point, that single orange slice seemed to have come from heaven.

Thanks also to the police and other city support personnel for their help in making the marathon an incredible experience.

Moving toward consolidation

Slowly but surely the Pointes appear to be consolidating more services and improving their cooperation to have funds and at the same time improve public services. In these days of tightened budgets everywhere, those moves make good Pointe officials already are meeting regularly at a number of levels to talk about ways of improving cooperation in the interests of increased efficiency and improved services. They discuss specific problems such as the prospects for furuction in state aid to municipalities, including those in the Pointes, and the consolidation of Pointe municipal courts into a district court, a reorganization that is now required but awaiting specific authorization by state legislation.

UNFORTUATELY, the proposal to set up a district court in Grosse Pointe involves such matters as location, funding, staffing and possible centralization of services that threaten to delay implementation of the reorganization. It is necessary, of course, to move cautiously to make sure that everyone understands the ramifications of the district court proposal but there are some questions that cannot be answered until the enabling lagislation is in place.

For example, it is understood that the state will finance the cost of operations of the new court but some people want the enabling legislation to cover the capital costs of conversation as well as appropriations to finance operations. But such demands are unreasonable. The state is not about to make any appropriations until the enabling legislation is in place.

New legislation is required because a law that would have set up the new court expired last year largely because of the failure of the Pointes to reach agreement. But the delay in getting the new court authorized and established is also delaying justice for some Grosse Pointe people.

Since Detroit's Common Pleas court was replaced by the district court system, some civil cases originating in the Pointes are being transferred to Wayne County Circuit Court which already has a three-year backlog of cases. While civil cases still can be accepted by a Detroit district court, defendants have the right to reject such a change of venue and thus cause lengthy postponement if they feel it is in their interests to do so.

One part of the proposed consolidation of the Pointe municipal courts into a new district court does raise a serious question. That is the proposal to "grandfather" present employes of the five municipal courts into their jobs when the consolidated court finally is established. That requirement is in the revised judicature act which the Grosse Pointe enabling legislation will simply amend and thus cannot be changed without creating a new controversy. But it does not seem to make much sense to require present employes to be kept once the consolidated system is in effect. Why not wait to see how many employes really are needed? On the other hand, a proposal for consolidation of court-related services into the new court facility does look promising. In view of the fact all five Pointes man their police and fire stations 24 hours a day with a dispatcher to handle incoming calls, it appears feasible to consolidate the dispatch operation, especially during the evening hours. Here, again, it might be possible to achieve savings without any loss of service to Pointe citizens.

Commenting on the delay in achieving agreement on the bill, John Crawford, Park city manager, pointed out that the Grosse Pointe War Memorial had been able to put together a "cable television package for five cities (Harper Woods plus all the Pointes except the Shores) and secure $7 million in financing in less time than it's taken us to organize the court." That's a valid observation in view of the complicated deal that had to be put together for the TV operation.

PERHAPS WHAT those comments reflect, however, is that the benefits of private enterprise, and especially the profit motive, tend to spur action in deals like the one for cable TV in the Pointes. Perhaps so. But it would be unfortunate if the discussion about the complications of converting the municipal courts into a district court further delay a program designed to speed justice and improve court efficiency in the Pointes.

As we said at the outset, it is encouraging to see new moves being made toward consolidating of services and increasing cooperation in the interests of economy and efficiency. When such moves are supported by a majority of citizens, they also tend to increase the sense of community pride that helps make the Pointes a good place in which to live and work.

Memorial Church Fair set in early November

Which would you rather do? 1) Put off your Christmas shopping until Dec. 23, tear off to a mall, drive around in circles till you find a place to park only two counties from the mail, trudge and elbow your way through the cranky multitudes-and then try to find something interesting in the bins of trite, picked-over, mass-produced Christmas presents. Or 2) Reserve a day nearly two months before Christmas and spend it booth-hopping inside a beautiful gothic church overlooking Lake St. Clair, listening to organ and carillon music and watching tiny children carol as you shop from among hundreds of the most appealing, unique Christmas gifts to be found anywhere outside a catalogue.

If you picked No. 1 we wish you luck. You'll need it. If you picked No. 2, all you'll need is a calendar on which to mark the date of the bi-annual Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Fair: Thursday, Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is free, and a luncheon ticket may be purchased at the door for $5. The church, located on 16 Lake-shore Road, will look like a Charles Dickens novel brought to life. Visitors will find everything from inexpensive tree ornaments to a $75 gingerbread mansion. Booths will span the church from the third floor Sunday School rooms to Fellowship Hall on the ground level. Respites for the weary may be taken in the church sanctuary, where organ music will be played every hour on the hour by William De Turk, the church's director of Chairpersons for the event are Mrs. Charles Wright III, Mrs. Stanley E. Kenn and Mrs. Edgar B. Galloway. President of the Women's Association is Mrs. J. Alfred Grow Jr. Proceeds are distributed to missions and chaplaincies and are used for scholarships to church-related colleges.

Following is a partial listing of booths you can look for at the fair. Most items are made by members of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. For further information, call 882-5330.

Feature German graphics at DIA

Two hundred and 16 graphic works from a collection renowned for its excellence have traveled from Germany for the first time to appear at the Detroit Institute of Arts Saturday, Oct. 3, through Sunday, Nov. 22. The exhibit, organized by Ellen Sharp, DIA curator of Graphic Arts, is entitled "From A Mighty Fortress: Prints, Drawings and Books in the Age of Luther, 1483-1546."

The title, taken from the hymn Martin Luther wrote, refers to the massive, fortified stronghold of Veste Coburg, a remote castle north of Nuremburg, near the East German border. The castle was a secure retreat for the German theologian, leader of the Protestant Reformation in 1530, when the Lutherans presented the Augsburg Confession to the Council of the Holy Roman Empire.

The basis of the prized collection of art which now reposes in Coburg's Kunstsammlungen (art museum) and nearby Landesbibliotek (library) was formed in the 18th century by Duke Franz Friedrich Anton of Saxe-Coburg-Saalfeld (1750-1806), grandfather of both England's Queen Victoria and her consort, Prince Albert, who was born and raised at Coburg.

The DIA exhibition spotlights the Renaissance of art in Germany and explores Luther's world through the graphic works of northern artists who were his contemporaries. As Renaissance men probed the physical world and realized the worth of the individual, artists shed the decorative, stylized images of the Medieval period and reproduced their subjects in a humanistic manner, Fully modeled

Images communicating a revolutionary spectrum of ideas came from the hands of Luther's contemporaries: Albrecht Durer, the Master of the Housebook, Albrecht Altdorfer, Martin Schongauer, Hans Baldung Grien, Lucas Cranach, Hans Holbein the Younger and scores of less familiar artists of great talent and imagina-

Court life, customs, religious attitudes and concepts of fact and fantasy are all illustrated in the exhibit's thematic arrangement. Some of the loveliest and most important drawings of the Northern Renaissance are included, among them the best group of early Durer drawings outside Vienna, the best-preserved and one of the most imaginative of Holbein's many jewelry designs, an important group of Hans Baldung Grien's designs for stained glass and a thematically varied group of sketches by the Master of the Coburg Roundels, an anonymous Rhenish painter who gets his name from his fine drawings in round format at Coburg.

Coburg's print collection treasures include rarities such as Durer's "St. Eustace" printed on silk, Cranach woodcuts with hand-coloring of exceptional beauty and rare impressions of drypoints by the Housebook Master (only four impressions of his work exist in this country).

Rare woodcuts by Mathias Gerung, Erhard Schon, Peter Flotner and Monogramist MH represent a range of formal function and subject, from small, devotional images to satiric broadsides, from processions and battles to figural designs for wall-

The invention of movable type in 15th century Germany put printed books into the hands of an increasingly literate populace. The books were often illustrated with hand-colored weodcuts that enriched the text and sparked the imagination. The exhibit includes a number of these early printed books as well as the dazzling Tournament Book" by the School of Cranach, one of the few handmade books that were still produced.

Treats can trick on Halloween

Halloween brings gnosts, goblins -and, sometimes, real danger. The American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan warns about one danger for children: the risk of choking on holiday treats such as candy corn, hard candy and peanuts.

At Halloween, children go door-todoor begging. Parents should insist youngsters bring the goodies home for inspection. For the youngest, two, three or even four years old, some of the candy can be divided or mashed before eating.

The chewing and swallowing muscles of young children may not be sufficiently developed to cope with certain treats. Choking can result. Halloween goodies also may "go down the wrong way" and lodge in the lung instead of the stomach. This is called aspiration. A foreign object of any kind in the lung can cause life-long problems. At times, surgery is required for removal.

The best warning is: be sure children are old enough to chew and swallow correctly before trusting them with small, hard bits of food. Parents should always be on guard against small objects getting into the hands of children, particularly those young enough to want to put everything into their mouths. Choking, blocked air passages, even aspiration into the lung can result.

And be on guard against such items as eyes and buttons that might come loose from dolls, or wheels from toy cars. Set a good example. Don't put anything but food into your own mouth. Keep the coffee table clear of small objects a child might

Exposure of varied audiences to fine presentations was always part of the master plan of programming at Orchestra Hall, so when the Junior League of Detroit expressed an interest in making Orchestra Hall its major community project in 1980, the Friends for Orchestra Hall were ready with a proposal.

The result was a series of free, daytime performances, for which the Junior League assumed both financial and volunteer responsibility during the 1980-81 season, designed to enable senior citizens, handicapped persons and school age children to enjoy first class music in acoustically perfect Orchestra Hall.

The current, 1981-82 series of 11 free daytime performances is a fiftyfifty cofunction of the Junior League and Friends for Orchestra Hall. The first concert, last Friday, Oct. 16, offered fourth through 12th grade

Seventy Years in Tandem

Would you believe that James G. and Myrtle Cunning-ham, former Lochmoor Boulevard residents, now of Boca Raton, Fla., have been together for 70 years? Actually, raton, Fia., have been together for 70 years? Actually, it's a few days plus 70 now, for the Cunninghams celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary last Saturday, Oct. 17, in the Delray Beach, Fla., home of their son and daughter-in-law, Robert and Phyllis Cunningham. Surprise guests included son-in-law and daughter Karl and Betty Schaltenbrand of Boca Raton, grandsons Robert Schaltenbrand, of Grosse Pointe Woods, and Jim Cunningham, of Delray Reach, and granddaughters Karen Schaltenbrand Delray Beach, and granddaughters Karen Schaltenbrand, of Los Angeles, Calif., and Gail Cunningham, of Grosse

The Community LINC By Shirley Brogan

President John F. Kennedy asked his fellow countrymen in 1961 to 'ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country." President Ronald Reagan, in conjunction with his 1982 budget cuts which went into effect this month, is asking the nation to look less to what the federal government can do and more to what individuals, private business and charities can do to help those in need. He's calling for a new spirit of volunteerism.

Not everyone is optimistic about the success of such a venture, but it gives greater urgency to what organizations like Operation LINC are doing.

Calls have been very heavy, reports our LINC office coordinator Fran Mumma. Requests from new agencies have increased and our research teams will be busy visiting them. Approved agencies are calling again for household specifics-beds, furniture, cribs, linens, working appliances.

"EVERY HUMAN SERVICE agency will be looking to every possible repeople," says Mickey Allardice, executive director of Adult Service Centers, in Detroit, noting that her agency has lost 50 percent of its funds in the past year. Funds came from federal and state programs as well as from private contributions.

While her shelter for battered women has not suffered directly from government budget cuts, notes Heddy Nuriel, director of Interim House, in Detroit, her clients are affected by cut-backs in legal aid, police manpower. Aid to Dependent Children and other areas. Interim House itself, opened in 1979, was closed because of lack of funds for several weeks this year.

INTERIM HOUSE, 2230 Witherell. Detroit, shelters 65 women and children who have been physically abused by spouses or boyfriends. The largest facility of its kind in the metropolitan area and the only one currently operating within the city of Detroit, Interim House can use all types of household articles, toys, indoor play equipment, sheets and towels. The staff also welcomes anyone willing ADULT SERVICE CENTERS, INC. headquartered at 1423 Field, Detroit, was started by Detroit's Junior League as a senior center and has since expanded to serve 3,000 to 4,000 senior citizens and mentally handi-capped adults at several locations. Its funds come from the state Mental Health Department and from the United Foundation. Needed items include donations for upcoming Christmas programs-food staples, scarves, mittens and notions for adults.

If you are able to help these organizations, or any of the many others working with Operation LINC, please call our office at 331-6700. All items donated are tax deductible. Agencies served by Operation LINC make direct pickups for large items. We appreciate delivery of smaller items to our office, 13340 East Warren, in Detroit. Call to make an appointment first. Items should be bagged or boxed and have attached an itemized list with donor value, name and address. A receipt will be mailed the month following the donation.

Operation LINC also notes that we have made contact with the Grosse Pointe Board of Education's new volunteer coordinator, Marge Nixon, to see if we can work together on ideas for getting volunteers and people in need together. Mrs. Nixon, working through the Department of Community Services, hopes to identify projects for both students and members of the Grosse Pointe communities

LINC NOTES: Operation LINC's fall fund-raiser, the Lucky LINC Casino, will be held Saturday, Nov. 7, from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Friendship House, 19258 Kelly, Harper Woods. Tickets are $25 per person for an evening of dinner, drinks and gambling fun. Grand prize will be a trip for two to Las Vegas. For information, call 835-9422.

DIA Ford Plaza re-gains space The Benson and Edith Ford Plaza, and Eros, which flank the stairs from

The Benson and Edith Ford Plaza, dedicated in late September, is the new entrance to the Detroit Institute of Arts, designed to provide serenity for visitors and unity to the city's Cultural Center.

The plaza is an extensive re-design of the museum's entrance to har-monize with the neoclassic 1927 main building and two contemporary wings erected in the past 15 years. Auguste Rodin's Thinker, relocated, now ponders a reconstructed driveway, a cascading water stair, two jet fountains and new landscaping between the museum's Italian Renaissance arches and heavily-trafficked Woodward Avenue.

The $1.7 million project, first of several which will surround the DIA with a four-acre public park, was funded by a $1 million gift from the Benson and Edith Ford Fund, in memory of the late automotive family members, with assistance from the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts and the State of Michigan.

Construction is expected to start next spring on the Elizabeth and Allan Shelden Sculpture Garden on the west side of the museum's Ford (South) Wing, contigious to the plaza. Both projects are the designs of Kiley-Walker (Dan Kiley and Peter Walker) of Charlotte, Vt. Construc-tion manager is the R. E. Dailey Company, of Southfield They will be responsible for all design and construction on the public park which DIA the lower to the upper plaza. The jet fountains on the upper level complement the cascading water stair which connects the two levels. Water stairway and fountains are engineered for all-weather use. They will be illuminated and run through the night.

The original flapoles also have been relocated. They now decorate each side of the main entrance and will fly United States, Michigan, Detroit. Art Institute and foreign country flags, as occasion dictates.

The Art Institute's famous 50-yearold Camperdown elms are an integral element of the Benson and Edith Ford Plaza. One is still flourishing. One has been cut down to prevent the spread of Dutch elm disease, but will be replaced this winter.

Greatest gain in the new plan, ac cording to Peter Walker, is the space re-gained by cutting down the size and length of the former driveway. All this new space, he says, is now useable by people, not cars; as a result, he expects that the plaza will become a gathering place for informal and formal events, for meeting or sitting and for a "little more hu-manity in a space that might have been too intimidating for people faced with such an imposing facade and the enormous treasures behind it.'

Other landscaping works by Kiley-Walker include the gardens of the new East Wing of the National Gallery in Washington, the Ford tion building in New York City, the Oakland (Calif.) Museum of Art, the Scaiff Gallery in Pittsburgh, the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts and the San Antonio Museum of Modern Art. The firm has also been consultant in the park development of Detroit's Bello Isle.

Many of these 15th to 18th century textiles are being exhibited for the first time. They will be a special attraction for the Embroiderers' Guild of America during that organization's national seminar in Detroit in early November.

In the 23 examples displayed, threads of the finest handspun cotton, linen and silk, often dyed in brilliant colors, are combined with precious strands of gold to make fabrics that have served both religious and secular functions. Techniques include the stitch and hemstich as well as the less familiar reticella, buratto, punto in arla and Assisi work.

One stunning piece of needlework is an 18th century Spanish sampler embellished with no less than 77 different patterns.

The majority of the pieces were created in Italy, but examples from Flanders, Greece, Germany and Switzerland are also featured in the exhibit, arranged by the museum's Department of European Sculpture and Decorative Arts and the Conservation Department.

The display is open to the public without charge during regular mu-semu hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Suzanne Brown wed in August

A gown of white embroidered or-ganza and satin Venice lace, styled with a fitted bodice featuring a wedding band neckline and cap sleeves flounced in embroidered organza, was Suzanne Goree Brown's choice for her late summer wedding to Mark Dittrich

Bands of lace accented her flounced skirt and train, and a floral wreath held her fingertip veil. She carried a round bouquet of orchids, stephanotis, baby's-breath and ivy.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barton Brown, of Edgemere Road. Mr. and Mrs. James M. Irwin, of Pittsburgh, Pa., are the bridegroom's parents.

The noon rites Saturday, August 22, in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, with The Reverend David B. Antonson presiding, were followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Club. The newlyweds vacationed at Daytona Beach, Fla. They are at home in Pittsburgh.

Barbara Kerr Brown, who came from New Orleans, La., to serve as her sister's honor maid, bridesmaid Karen Irwin, of Pittsburgh, sister of the bridegroom, and junior bridesmaid Lisa Heather Brown, of Glen

Pointer of Interest

Step into the French Room on Wayne State's campus; you'll be impressed by the elegant, lively, red, blue and white furnishings. Spend an evening with Ludmila Kruse and the same impressions result. Perhaps that's because of her involvement in the creation of the room, but there's much more to this lady.

Her family history is as color-ful as Pasternak's novel "Dr. Zhivago." With the Russian revolution underway, the Lobanov-Rostovski family moved to France when Ludmila was three months old. Cannes and Nice were home for her, and while many of us dream of a life on the French Riviera, she planned on leaving as soon as she could.

"It was boring living there (throughout the year). People would arrive and stay just for summer or winter, and later, because of the war, there was nothing in France for me to do."

She did leave Cannes after the war-to work as an interpreter at the Nuremburg War Crimes Trials. "It was a fluke that I got there. A British general came to Cannes for R&R, and he knew my cousin, which is how I met him, and he mentioned that interpreters were needed."

ALTHOUGH THE TRIALS commenced 36 years ago next month, Ludmila didn't start work until the following April, 1948, with just one problem: she couldn't translate the German language well. Fluent in Russian. French and English, she would pass her German tran-ccriptions off to anyone walking past her desk.

"We stayed in little cubicles, receiving a never-ending flow of the day's court transcriptions, with reference books on language. "Tons of paper were used daily for the trial documents."

Was it difficult to remain impartial? "When translating simultaneously (as a word is spoken, the interpreter immediately translates to the other language), you can't afford to stop and listen to yourself. There is no time to think."

She recalls mixed emotions at the trial, however, feelings nurtured from experiencing German bombing raids in her country,

But at Nuremburg there were compensations that eased the stressful ennui of such work. Employed by the American delegation, she was paid well, "more than the French Justice, which didn't sit well with him." Another bonus was meeting her future husband, Frank Kruse, a native Detroiter whose duty, among other things, was to escort Mrs. Walter Cronkite while her journalist husband covered

THE FOLLOWING AUGUST, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kruse arrived in Detroit; in fact, the couple arrived on the day of the convicted Nazis' executions. Their experiences in Germany behind them, the Kruses settled into the area. They raised six children.

The first five, twins Marina and Ludmila, Alan, Philip, and David, are on their own now. Youngest daughter Alix is at Michigan State University.

But for a woman whose family tree includes a Russian statesman, a well-published historian and a symphony director, staying at home was out of the question. Ludmila was introduced to the head of the French Department at the University of Detroit, and shortly thereafter was awarded a Rackham Fellowship. She went on to eventually earn her Ph.D. in Comparative Literature. After six years of teaching at U. of D., she spent two years at Marygrove College. "Exhausting work. I taught 26 courses in two years, an 83-hour work week. I had to give it up; I had six children at home."

However, when the French Consulate in Detroit opened in 1960, a chapter of the Federation of Alliances Françaises in the United States also was established. Ludmila served as its president for seven years.

"It was sort of a loose, cultural organization, and eventually I was trapped with the organizational changes. So I shifted to teaching, like the Alliance Fran-caise in Europe." The end result was that she started a school, The French Institute of Detroit. She refers to the Institute as a "flying school; we have no headquarters." Classes are currently being held in Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills and in Detroit at the Center for Creative Studies. "Wherever students are, we try to accommodate."

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol-and penny-wise-cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena De-Witt Roth focusing, this week, on that ubiquitous autumn item: the PUMPKIN.

This delightful vegetable is of the squash-gourd family. It found its way to the American table through many channels, and is believed to have originated in the Mediterranean area. Its vivid orange color brightens many an autumn scene, yet the same thick, hard, vivid rind enables it to keep for many months, sometimes as long as a year.

It is used in soups, as a hot vege-table, in breads and most of all in spicy pumpkin pie, an all-time American favorite. Pumpkin contains a high amount of Vitamin A, B-complex, potassium, calcium, iron and copper. It is a highly nutritious food, and should be used to a much greater extent in our everyday diet. Try these delicious recipes and cultivate a taste for pumpkin in many new roles.

Homecoming no fun for South

Homecoming was no picnic for South this year as the defending Eastern Michigan League champions were humbled by Port Huron Northern, 10-6, and fell to 2-3 in the league. Above,

Disappointing day for Blue Devils

The Blue Devils threatened late in the fourth quarter when they were on the six-yard line, but the offense failed to capitalize for the win. The defense was highlighted by senior Harold Cote, who made many stops.

The loss set South back to a 2.4 record overall and a 2-3 record in the EML. On Friday night, Oct. 23, South will play at L'Anse Creuse North with game time at 7:30 p.m.

The Devils' only touchdown came on a pass from John Williamson to Dale Graham, Joel Flowers scored a two-point conversion to win the game. The JV will take its 4-2 record back today, as South faces L'Anse Creuse North at 4 p.m.

The Norsemen took sole possession of first place last week with soccer wins over South, 4-1, and Bishop Borgess, 10-0. If North beats Bishop Gallagher, this week the Norsemen will have captured their second consecutive Metro-Suburban League

Sporting an overall record of 12-1 (11 wins in a row), North fell behind the Blue Devils early in the first half on a goal by Ted Aurelius. But the Norsemen proved to be too much for South, getting four unanswered goals, three in the second half. Marc Tirikian scored the first of his two goals in the first half on a fantastic shot form 25 yards out. North, with an astounding 83 goals for and just five goals against, is currently ranked fourth in the state by the Michigan Soccer Weekly. They begin league championship play on Tuesday, Oct. 27.

ULS Knights win on road

University Liggett's football squad has two losses this season - both on the road. Last Saturday, the Knights traveled again, to play St. Joseph Michigan Lutheran Titans. The team nearly kept its "away" game losing streak intact.

The Titans took the opening kickoff and moved the ball to the Knight's 30 yard line, but were forced to punt to the Knights' two. ULS fumbled and it took two plays for Michigan Lutheran to score and lead, 8-0.

John Polizzi's 31 yard field goal capped a drive and made the score 8-3 at the end of the first quarter.

Michigan Lutheran recovered another ULS fumble and marched 60 yards in 10 plays to score their second touchdown and make the score 14-3. The windy, rainy conditions caused some sloppy grounds and things looked bleak for ULS, but J.T. Parks seemed to ignite a flat ULS with his pass interception.

A 30 yard scoring pass from Parks to senior end Mike McCarthy and a two-point conversion run by Dave Van Eislander narrowed the scoring margin to 14-11. Later in the second Elslander led to a 47 yard touchdown pass from Parks to junior end Dave Chamberlin as time ran out in the half. Parks converted the two points and gave the Knights a 19-14 lead.

A decision to kick with the wind in the second half payed off as Polizzi's kick was downed at the Titan two. The fired up ULS defense and a short punt paved the way for Van Elslander's 17 yard touchdown scamper. A fake kick extra point pass from Parks to Van Elslander put the Knights on top, 27-14.

Michigan Lutheran closed that margin to 27-22 after a 70 yard scoring drive, and threatened again in the final quarter, but the ULS defense held on for the victory.

Linebacker Jeff Peters was credited with 15 tackles to lead the ULS defense for the sixth straight week. Tailback Van Elslander lugged the ball 18 times for 126 yards.

Following a rash of turnovers by both sides, wide receiver Frank Badalmenti raced 15 yards into the end zone to open up a 14 point margin by halftime.

The third quarter saw Lakeview quarterback Bill Koles toss a 45 yard touchdown pass to Frank Badalmenti. The point after attempt was good and gave the Huskies a 21-0 lead:

After several other turnovers in the fourth quarter, North brought in senior quarterback Jay Hazen to help put some points on the board. It was "their best game of the season" according to Coach Paul Kappaz, Quarterback Joe Weidenbach scored two touchdowns before Will Secor added the difference. Kicker Tim VanEckhout kicked North's three extra points.

North varsity basketball: North's girls upped their Bi-County record to 4-0 (9-1 overall) with wins over Lakeshore, 57-43, and Clintondaie, 45-34, before their streak ended against a strong L'Anse Creuse squad, 38-33. North trailed by 14 points at halftime. This deficit was too much to overcome despite a 16 point fourth quarter. Jean Genord's eight points and Jeanie Soulliere's 15 rebounds led the way for the Norsemen. Amy Walkowiak put in 19 points in the Lakeshore win while Genord added 17. North J.V. basketball: Despite a great scoring week by junior Laurie Pekerek, North's J.V. basketball team won one and lost two to see its overall record fall to 3-8. Last Sunday they lost to Lakeshore, 46-34. North's Pekerek led the way with 14 points. Then in a "tremendous team effort", the Norsemen destroyed Clintondale, 51-20. Pekerek and Bob Denis scored 18 and 11 points respectively. The girls then fell to L'Anse Creuse, 36-25. Pekerek put in 11 points.

North freshmen basketball: North soundly defeated Troy Athens, 27-14, last week thanks to a strong defense and balanced scoring by Dawn Cartwright and Celeste Sartor with six points and Pam Boesiger with five. The freshmen are now 6.4.

North cross country: By winning the Oxford Invitational last week, North's cross country team re-established itself as a true state power. Joe Schmidt, Brian Boutell, Scott Cooper, Mark Denis and Doug Schepke starred for the Norsemen. North then defeated South Lake, 17-47. The J.V. also won the Oxford Invitational and beat Soutblake 15-50. Mark Przeslawski, Paul Langedock and Dan Healy paced North to the wins. South soccer: Coming away with their fifth win in six games, South's varsity kickers handed Roseville a 14.0 shutout loss, but also suffered a devastating 4-1 loss to crosstown rival North, dropping the team into a thirdplace tie with Catholic Central.

Scoring in the Roseville game were Jim Dolan and Peter Mack each with three; Tedd Aurelius with two goals and three assists; Andy Landauer and Dan Shier with one goal and two assists each; Mike Connell, Bill Gitre, Greg Jones and Joe Lafata with one goal each; Andy Stefanovich with three assists and Fred Genberg with an assist.

The game against North, though, was an entirely differnt story. The two teams played a tight first half fighting to a 1-1 tie at the intermission. North kickers Mark Tirikian and Billy Bryce scored three more goals between them, one on a penalty kick.

Tirikian also picked up two assists. Aurelius scored the only goal for South's cross country: South's girls' cross country team beat L'Anse Creuse North Oct. 6, 15-48, to top a string of three victories last week. Fifteen points is the best possible score that a cross country team can accumulate.

South was also victorious on Oct. 8, triumphing over North, 25-35, to hand the Norsemen their second loss in three years. On Oct. 10, South competed in the Grosse Pointe North Invitational and placed fourth of 10 teams.

The team ran against Roseville on Oct. 15 and came out on top, 22-38.

Top times in the meet came from Jill Tingley with a time of 200:14, Suzanne at 20:42 and Megan McCoy also at 20:42. With the victory over Roseville, the team claimed the league title. (By Brooke Reuther).

The JV girls basketball team won both of its games last week against Mt. Clemens, 55-31, and Anchor Bay, 49-33.

The game against Mt. Clemens was nice team effort. Top scorers for the team were Carol Rosasco with 19 points and Karen Thomas with nine.

The win over Anchor Bay was a spectacular one. In the final four minutes there were only four players on the court. These four not only kept the other team from scoring but one made a final basket. Red Baronswin twice

The Grosse Pointe Red Barons won two of three games played against the N. E. Detroit Shamrocks at North High School on Sunday, Oct. 18. Inclement weather limited the spectators to a loyal few.

The freshman squad fell 12-6, despite the inspired two way play of Dominic Martilotti, Mike Henry, Jason Whelan, Brian Simon, Gil Waitkus and Joe Kopitzke. The lone Baron touchdown came on a 53-yard broken field ramble by Whelan. John Baal and Paul Anderson each recovered a fumble.

The aggressive tackling of Dan MacDougall, Bob Crane, Baal, Anderson and Martilotti sparked the defense. Head Coach Ray Demeule-

The junior varsity scored a touchdown with less than one minute to play, enabling the Red Barons to defeat their opponents, 6-0. The victory avenged a frustrating loss to the same team the preceding year. Mike Miller threw a 35-yard pass to Chuck Thomas to set up the game winning score. Miller then snuck in from the three-yard line for the touchdown. Scott Smith added the crucial point

Mike Calcaterra, Rob Rochon, Bill Turnbull, Dominic Corrado and John Vujnov played well offensively. Darrin Hopp, Richmond McCloud, Jim Riggio, Karl Schultz, Jay Binder, Chris Calabrese, Mike Inman and Tom Smith were defensive standouts. The varsity scored in the first and fourth quarters to nip the Shamrocks, 13-7. Chris Dudeck threw a 48-yard touchdown pass to Jim Nelson on the first play from scrimmage. Chris Rodriguez added a second touchdown and an extra point. Terry MacDougall and Scott Stafford gained needed yardage in critical situations. The defense was anchored by Jason Bowen, Joe Impastato, Steve Gedman, Jeff Woerner, Mark Belanger, Jerry Henry and Dave Nystrom.

Despite the bitter cold and the driving rain, the Red Baron cheerleaders did their best to excite the crowd. Leading cheers were Renee Holley, Donielle Ashley, Terri Mott, Jennifer Huige, Jennifer Jesky, Katie Johnstone, Lisa Johnstone, Mary Hilgendorf and Kathy Kunert.

drench the unwary or scare the kids, but now we find out they're ganging up on us. Clusters of thunderstorms sometimes merge in an enormous, violent weather system that can cover an area the size of Iowa and Missouri combined, last 12 hours or more and dump as much as 10 inches of rain on the ground.

By Donald J. Frederick

National Geographic News Service

It's bad enough when thunderstorms

Although the monster storms are most common in the nation's heartland, they sometimes stray over the Appalachians to drench the East.

"The flooding that inundated Johnstown, Pa., in 1977 and turned Russell County, Ala., into a disaster area early this year was caused by such storms," says Robert A. Maddox, a meteorologist at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in Boulder, Colo.

But one man's flash flood is another's bumper harvest. The big storms also produce the soaking rains necessary for high yields in the corn and wheat belts. "If you're a farmer out in Iowa or Nebraska, vou won't be FALL CLEAN-UPS. Power raking, prompt, dependable happy if you don't get a few of these during the growing season," points service. Appino's Landout Maddox.

Until recently, these large, violent weather patterns were linked to loosely organized storms that were thought to rumble through an area close together, but individually. Maddox and co-worker J. Michael Fritsch found otherwise after examining huning lots, commercial/residreds of infrared cloud pictures taken

Maddox viewed. Once they join forces, they move slowly, almost reluctantly. It's still not clear why they form, although Maddox speculates that general climatic conditions such as the weak winds and heavy humidity may be at least partly responsible. With further study he hopes to find out.

Other meteorologists are trying to learn to anticipate the sudden thunderstorms and downpours that can foul up a picnic or ruin a day at the beach. It's not as easy as it sounds. Predicting the onset and movement of these sudden warm-weather showers still gives local weathermen fits.

Andrew I. Watson and Ronald Holle of NOAA's Office of Weather Research and Modification are looking at Florida, which leads the nation in thunderstorms, spawning them an average of 100 days a year. Many of these storms form when converging winds rapidly litt warm, moist air to form the tall dark cloud called cumulonimbus - the familiar "thunderhead.'

The scientists are convinced that, at least in Florida, these converging winds can be used to forecast approaching rain and thunderstorms. By setting up a network of 46 small portable wind stations covering a 24. by 32-mile area south of Lake Okeechobee, they found it was possible to predict where a thunderstorm would strike 10 minutes to an hour before the first cloud buildup was visible.

"The relationship between wind convergence and rain showers has been recognized in a general way for years, but was really spelled out only recently," Holle explains. "Now we know that by using small wind stations to measure the speed, direction and moisture content of converging winds, it is possible to pinpoint the place a thunderstorm will occur."

What works for Florida's slowmoving thunderstorms may not be as effective predicting the appearance of the faster-moving thunderstorms that are more prevalent in other parts of the country.

Cause is sought for thunderstorm Data from a similar wind station as one pushes up against the other. Strong winds develop. The typical program in Illinois are still being analyzed, and results, although encouraging, are not all in. But Holle summer thunderstorms that buffet an area usually line up ahead of the and Watson are convinced that net-works of wind stations will play an important role in thunderstorm forecasting in the future. Meanwhile, one of the most detailed studies of thunderstorms ever undertaken has just begun in eastern Mon-tana. Working in a 90-mile radius around Miles City, 200 scientists and technicians from 29 institutions will use everything from radar to weather balloons to find out just what makes prove forecasting. They will be supported by 14 aircraft which will probe the storms for an inside look. One of the craft, a sailplane, will soar along the periphery of storms seeking information in the billowing clouds there.

Organized by the National Center for Atmospheric Research and the Department of the Interior, the study, called the Cooperative Convective Precipitation Experiment, may someday prove a boon to farmers haunted by drought and hall daniage.

Scientists hope that by studying the anatomy of thunderstorms they will be able to come up with new insights that will enable them to suppress hail and increase rainfall.

"Past efforts at seeding thunderstorm clouds to achieve these results have largely been unsuccessful, because we just don't know enough about them," points out Arlin B. Super, one of CCOPE's site directors and a meteorologist with Interior's Bureau of Reclamation:

"As things now stand, many of the storms are inefficient rain producers. There are tons and tons of water up there in the spiraling cirrus clouds that accompany these storms, but the water freezes into ice erystals and is wafted away by the accompanying high winds before it can fall to earth as rain. We're still not sure exactly

There's a lot to learn about hail. too. Although scientists have been trying to suppress hail for some time, they still don't know such fundamentals as where in a thunderstorm cloud system the ice crystals form that eventually turn into hail.

Drought due House Doctors,' conservation next year? To solve America's oil crisis?

What regional fluctuations in weather are on tap for the near future? Next summer may see another drought in the Great Plains as severe as the 1980 summer's, and it could be even more destructive in the Corn

The West, too, may be drier than normal next summer, but the Ohio River Valley may have a wetter than usual spring.

The southern Plains should have good weather in June for harvesting the winter wheat but significantly lower rainfall in May—not good for filling out the grain. These prelictions come from the Climate/Food Project at the University of Wisconsin. Dr. Reid Bryson, director of the Institute for Environmental Studies there and head of the project, says the predictions have a 65 perment chance of being accurate. The Climate/Food Project prepares long-range forecasts to help predict famines around the world. It forecasted a year in advance the 1980 drought and the several cold of this winter in the East. "Our predictions are based on physical forces as far as we know them and the thermodynamic effects of carbon dioxide and other particles in the atmosphere which we link up with statistics, recorded climate patterns, or how the atmosphere has responded to these physical forces in the past," Bryson explained. "We may finally be getting a handle on longrange forecasting."

to trap and store the sun's heat in winter and reject it in summer. The earth also helps conserve because the house is built partly underground, where temperatures below the surface remain moderate year-round.

At the Tennessee Valley Authority - the nation's largest electricity producer - Chairman David Freeman has stopped construction on four of 14 nuclear reactors and turned to conservation and solar energy instead.

An innovative TVA conservation program, similar to one developed by utilities in Oregon, informs customers of conservation measures that are economically feasible and provide a list of approved contractors.

TVA pays the contractor once the work is completed and inspected, and the customers pay TVA back in installments, interest free, on monthly bills. For the typical all-electric customer, the savings in electricity just about equals the monthly charge. In Idaho, which sits on top of geysers, Boise officials are taking advantage of the geothermal potential at their doorstep. It is estimated that at least a hird of the city's buildings could be heated geothermally. 'As valuable to our co economy as conservation is," Gore points out, "it often costs more money than most people, companies, and utilities - many of which face serious financial problems — can muster. How do we raise the capital we need?" Innovative rate schemes or bond issues could help channel conservation money through the utilities, he reports. Or Congress, which encourages private investors to underwrite oil and gas explora tion through generous tax breaks, could offer similar conservation. In industry, many plants are using their own waste products to make both electricity and heat together termed "congeneration." At the Dia-mond Walnut Growers' facility in California, for example, the leftover shells are crushed, producing 35,000 tons of coarse brown powder each year. Once sold as poultry bedding and toy fillings, the shells are now burned in boilers that warm the plant and generate three times the electricity it needs.

At the world's largest garbage dump — five stories high on New turning old buried garbage into York's Staten Island - bacteria are methane - enough gas to eventually supply 16,000 homes. Brooklyn gas officials claim that their product will be "just as good as what comes out of the well in west Texas."
