

Reapportionment sets the stage for primary battles

The Pointe won a few and lost a few in the decennial reapportionment game that has been played out this spring in various state and federal courts.

The biggest blow came at the national level where a federal three-judge panel last month accepted the Democratic Party plan for redrawing Congressional lines. The new map splits the Pointe's strong Republican voting block and divides the cities between two Democratic districts. The Park and City become part of the 13th District, which includes much of Detroit's lower east side and is currently represented by Democratic Rep. George Crockett.

THE FARMS, WOODS and Shores remain in an expanded 14th District, currently represented by Rep. Dennis Hertel, which now reaches into southern Macomb County.

That reapportionment plan was harshly criticized by local Republican leaders and one group, the Concerned Republican Committee, filed a brief in federal court protesting the split. Despite the charge from local leaders that the state Republican Party ignored their plight, the Pointe's State Rep. William Bryant said the GOP did all it could to stop the division of the cities.

"We spent $100,000 with Market Opinion Research coming up with strategies and data to present to the judges and made every possible effort to change their minds, but there wasn't much we could do," Bryant said. "Unfortunately, the Democrats had all the cards."

The federal panel that accepted the plan included Judges Damon Keith, Phillip Pratt and Stewart Newblatt.

The Pointe fared a bit better on the state and county levels, however, and none of the plans currently in place split the cities up. A legislative reapportionment plan approved by the State Supreme Court late last month preserves the Pointe's Senate and House districts and expands them into sections of Detroit.

STATE REP. BRYANT'S new 13th District still includes all five Pointes and a new 5,000-person section of Detroit bounded by the Ford Freeway and Cadieux Road. Bryant, who has already filed petitions to run for re-election to the seat, says the new district will still be 60 to 65 percent Republican, which apparently assures him of re-election.

The new state Senate 1st District includes all five Pointes, Harper Woods and parts of Detroit's lower east side and north east side. The new border through Detroit follows Conner up to Six Mile Road.

The new 1st District includes areas represented by two incumbents — Sens. John Kelly and John Hertel. Kelly said he plans to run for re-election to his seat this summer. Hertel has not yet made his plans public. He has shown interest in the Democratic Party nomination for county executive officer, but he has left the door open on running for senate again as well.

The legislative reapportionment plan was drawn up by court-appointed "master" Bernard Apol, and accepted by the State Supreme Court. But Rep. Bryant said last week it may still be appealed to a federal panel before it becomes final.

The Wayne County reapportionment plan also was approved late last month by the state Court of Appeals. It keeps all five Pointes in one district and combines them with a 87,500-person section of northeast Detroit and Harper Woods. Two incumbents are pitted against each other in the new district — Republican Erv Steiner, and Democrat Norbert Wisniewski. Both have said they plan to seek re-election. In addition, Republican Barbara Gattorn has declared her candidacy for the District One County Commission seat.

Districts, candidates ready to go in county

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Wayne County Charter Commissioner Barbara Gattorn announced last week she will file as a Republican candidate for the Board of Commissioners seat in the Aug. 10 primary. She becomes the second Republican and the third candidate to announce her candidacy for the Grosse Pointe district seat on the new 15-member commission.

The two commissioners whose districts were substantially combined into the new 156,000-person District One are Republican Erv Steiner and Democrat Norbert Wisniewski. Both have said they will run for the seat. Wisniewski filed petitions with the county clerk Friday, May 28.

Under the county redistricting plan approved by the Court of Appeals last month, the Pointes will be combined in a single district with Harper Woods and portions of northeast Detroit. Harper Woods' and the Pointes' populations, 16,361 and 51,989 respectively, will be balanced against 87,467 persons from Detroit.

Detroit maintains about 52 percent of the county population of more than 2.3 million people. District One will be split with Detroit getting 57 percent of the population, the Pointes and Harper Woods making up 43 percent of the 155,917-person district.

The new district line follows Eight Mile Road from Conner along the county line to the lake, where it follows the boundaries of the Shores, Farms, City and Park south to Alter Road. From there, the district runs along Alter to Mack, along Mack to Bedford, and from Bedford to I-94.

From the Ford freeway, the line runs east to Whittier, along Whittier to Gratiot and north on Gratiot to McNichols. The district follows McNichols to Outer Drive, north on Outer Drive to Conner, a small side street that travels along the side of Holy Cross Hospital, and then up Conner to Eight Mile Road.

Mrs. Gattorn is treasurer of the steering committee for the Reformers Opposed to Administrators Defiance or R.O.A.D. The committee is raising funds to reimburse attorney Milton Mack who is fighting the Road Commission union covering 74 department heads and supervisors.

A lawsuit challenging the union, the Association of County Road Administrators, has been dismissed twice by Visiting Circuit Judge David Vokes.

Shores trustees name assistant to Jefferis

By Mike Andrzejczyk

There is an old face in a new place in the municipal offices of Grosse Pointe Shores.

Shores Public Safety Officer Michael Kenyon assumed the post of assistant to Village Superintendent Thomas Jefferis Tuesday, June 1, and will serve a seven-month probation period while on special assignment from the department of Public Safety.

He will assume some administrative tasks from Jefferis, whose tenure as superintendent spans five decades.

KENYON, 34, joined the Shores in 1971. A Pointe resident, Kenyon has attended numerous seminars and schools for a variety of public safety and public administration topics.

You'd smile too if you were as lucky as Beth Pressler. Just returned from California, Beth won $4,300 in prizes on the daytime game show "The Price is Right." While she's not really a game show fan, Beth decided to get tickets to the program while visiting the West coast. One thing led to another, and she ended up as a contestant on the program. The show featuring Beth will be aired tomorrow on Channel 2 between 11 a.m. and noon. Tune in to the story below for more details about "Lucky" Pressler.

'The Price Was Right' for Beth

By Tom Greenwood

"BETH PRESSLER! 'C'MON DOWN!!" And Beth Pressler did. And she won.

For those unfamiliar with daytime TV, the call to "C'mon down" is the trademark of "The Price is Right," one of the longest running and most popular quiz shows in America.

One of the latest (and happiest) winners on the program is Woods resident Beth Pressler.

Beth, general manager of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Co., never intended to be a contestant on the show. In fact, she never even watches quiz programs.

But it all started on a vacation/business trip with husband Jeff to California.

"We were staying in Pasadena, when I met another woman from Detroit while lying around the pool," said Beth. "She asked if I'd tried to get on 'The Price is Right' yet and I said no. After a while I decided 'why not?'"

So Beth and her new friend waited in line for tickets and were told to come back later. Returning at noon, the women waited two hours, then were assigned a number. Next came a 10-second interview with the show's producer.

Everyone was asked their name, occupation and address.

"When I said I was a realtor from Michigan, he smiled sympathetically and wished me 'good luck,'" said Beth. "I guess he had seen a big article on our economic problems that was in the Los Angeles Times the day before. Maybe he picked me because he felt sorry for me. Who knows?"

According to Beth, only nine persons from the 320-member studio audience are allowed to vie for prizes. No one is told before hand who will compete.

"I was the first person chosen," said Beth excitedly. "I couldn't believe it when they called my name. I tried to be calm and not jump around like a lot of the idiots on those shows."

"It was very nerve-racking though. The lights are on you and the audience is yelling. I tried hard to listen to the directions."

She must have listened pretty well, because she was a big winner, coming home with $4,300 worth of prizes.

A second term for the President?

Do you think President Reagan should or will run for a second term in office?

A recent Associated Press NBC Poll of the public revealed 46 percent of those questioned would not like to see President Reagan run again, 42 percent said he should run for a second term and 12 percent were undecided. News editorial writer Wilbur Elston gives his opinion on page 12A.

The News questioned people we found walking in the Village last week. These were their responses.

Mary Edwards, the Farms — "No to both questions. No, I don't think he should run again because he will be a little too old for the position. The same applies to whether I think he will or not."

Rice Laitner, the Farms — "I don't think he will. I do think we ought to give him more of an opportunity to do what he set out to do, to accomplish what needs to be accomplished."

Julie Lawler, the City — "I think he will. I don't know if he should or not."

Tom Fitzgibbon, the Woods — "I think he's trying to do it

Mary Edwards

Rice Laitner

Sally Irwin, the Park — "I think he probably will. I don't think he should. Living in a place like Detroit is self-explanatory on why he shouldn't run again."

Andrew Moquin, the Shores — "I don't think he will. I do think we ought to give him more of an opportunity to do what he set out to do, to accomplish what needs to be accomplished."

Denise Cardaris, the City — "No, I don't think he should. I'm a teacher, and the way he's cutting back on aid it's really getting tough."

Park resident Dan Wells will compete in the Detroit Grand Prix this weekend. Photos of Wells and his Super Vee car and a story are on page 1C.

Officers checked the back parking lot and saw the judge's car there. Checking the courtroom, officers found Denis behind the bench, dead of a gunshot wound from the judge's 38-caliber pistol, for which he had a concealed weapon permit.

"Our investigation of the incident showed it was a self-inflicted gunshot wound," Public Safety Director Jack Patterson said, adding police had no evidence to contradict that finding.

The Wayne County Medical Examiner's office has yet to make a formal finding of the cause of death.

Denis, who lived on Prestwick in the Woods, served as municipal judge in the Woods since 1973. In addition, he was appointed municipal judge in the Shores by village trustees after his appointment in the Woods. He also maintained a private practice.

Denis was re-elected in 1979 to the municipal judgeship, running unopposed in the election.

"Our officers spoke highly of him," Patterson said. "He was a good judge on and off the bench."

Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel called Denis, "a likeable, happy-go-lucky person and so proud of his family," adding the judge spent a good deal of his time with his three boys.

"We're just paralyzed," Grobbel said. "He was a good judge; he used common sense. There wasn't anybody who could dislike the man."

"It's certainly a tragedy," Woods City Administrator Chester Petersen said. "It is a real loss felt by our community."

Under provisions in the Woods city charter, the City Council will appoint a judge to serve the rest of Denis' term until the general election in November, 1983, Petersen said.

The city is looking for judges, both district and municipal, to hear cases until an appointment can be made, he added.

Denis was assigned to hear a number of cases in both Detroit Recorder's and Wayne County Circuit Court, but after the reorganization last January which established a district court in Detroit, he received no more assignments.

Denis is survived by his wife Helen, three daughters, Maureen, Joan and Barbara; and three sons, Paul, David and Mark. Details of funeral arrangements were not known at press time.

Other anonymous responses include:

• "I don't imagine he will. I think he has had enough."

• "I'm undecided."

County candidates off, running

R.O.A.D. is raising funds to reimburse some of the costs Mack has incurred while filing a separate lawsuit by the Charter Commission.

Although Mack is working on a "pro domo basis," or for the public good with no desire for compensation, committee members have said the costs incurred by Mack for both legal staff and hours he has put in are becoming more than he should be asked to bear without some type of compensation.

"This is a real battle of David and Goliath," Charter Commission president George Ward said. "The public challenge must depend on contributions. The funds raised will be used to defray the expenses of attempting to fight this one-sided lawsuit."

Anyone wishing to contribute to R.O.A.D. can do so by making checks payable to R.O.A.D. and mailing them to: R.O.A.D., P.O. Box 43131, Detroit, Mich. 48243.

Mrs. Gattorn's announcement as a commission candidate ended speculation she would file for the county executive race, a new position created under the charter approved by county voters last November. Mrs. Gattorn was elected in 1980 to represent the Pointes on the Wayne County Charter Commission and has remained actively involved in that body.

Declared Democratic candidates in the race include Edward McNamara, Livonia mayor, Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas, and Detroit council Mel Ravitz. Other Democrats who may file include State Sen. John Hertel, D-Harper Woods, who under the new senatorial reapportionment plan, could face Sen. John Kelly in November.

Robert Fitzpatrick filed Tuesday, June 1, as a Republican candidate for the office of county executive officer. The only other name so far on the GOP slate is Harry Stearnes, assistant public information officer for the county.

The briefest of all biographies was James Warner Bellah's of General Custer, which in its entirety read: "To put it mildly, this was an oddball."

That lucky Beth Pressler

with a built-in microwave, a dishwasher and assorted other appliances," smiled Beth. "I wasn't the biggest winner on the show. One man won $16,000 worth of prizes, including a car and a trip to Hawaii. But I didn't mind. I'm happy with what I've got. The only problem now is that we'll probably have to remodel our kitchen to fit all my winnings in."

After signing a number of releases and agreeing to pay the tax on her prizes, Beth floated home to tell Jeff.

"He wasn't there," she said. "He worked late that night so I called my mother in Ohio. When Jeff came in, I casually asked him for $262. He wanted to know what for, so I told him it was to pay my taxes."

"He didn't believe me. It took him 15 minutes to accept it."

Beth admits to mixed feelings about her windfall. She's happy about winning, but slightly embarrassed at being on a game show.

The idea behind "The Price is Right" is competition between contestants over who can correctly guess the actual cost of items to be given away.

Contestants shriek, jump up and down and clutch at host Bob Barker while the audience acts like its at a lynching, yelling "higher-higher" at the lower estimates.

But after all is said and done, Beth admits it was a good experience.

"It was very interesting," she said. "The entire process. The interview, watching the audience and appearing before the cameras. It was also nice to discover the whole thing isn't fixed. I had no idea they would choose me."

The show, which was taped, will air Friday morning June 4, from 11 a.m. to noon on Channel 2. Beth definitely plans to watch.

"We've alerted all the neighbors and my family. We plan to video tape the program and put it in a time capsule," said Beth, tongue slightly in cheek.

"But what will probably happen is one prescient will preempt it with a state-of-the-union message. That would just be my luck."

Don't count on it. They don't call her "Lucky" Pressler for nothing.

Assistant appointed to Jefferis down from his post soon, both Jefferis and the trustees have said they will review Kenyon's performance before making a decision about Jefferis' retirement.

Kenyon's educational background includes an associate's degree in criminal justice from Lansing Community College, a Bachelor of Science in education from Western Michigan University, and a Master's in public administration from Wayne State University.

Kenyon attended the Metropolitan Police Academy and basic fire training school before joining the public safety department and since then has attended schools for courses in police interrogation and investigation, rescue and extrication, police photography and police line supervision.

Kenyon, who is married and has one son, received one citation for merit from Shores Public Safety Director Joseph Vitale and three letters of commendation, including one from the Farms.

"I couldn't be happier for him," Vitale said. "He has always been a good officer. He has one quality that is hard to find in these times, dedication along with intelligence."

Man suffers gunshot wounds

A Detroit man who had been shot twice in the legs last week was rushed to a local hospital from a phone booth in front of Big Boy's on Mack Avenue by Park emergency medical service workers who had received several calls from concerned citizens.

The victim, Peter Martin, 35, of Somerset Road in Detroit, is listed in good condition with a wound to his head and two bullet holes in his legs.

Police said they received numerous phone calls from drivers and diners in the Big Boy who said a man in a white suit covered with blood was standing in the street at about 8 a.m. on Wednesday, May 26.

When police arrived they found the victim and his wife sitting in their car, according to Lt. William Furtaw. The man told them he had been at a private residence on Harper in Detroit's 13th precinct talking to three men about a real estate deal when one man ordered another to shoot him. The victim said he was hit on the right side of his face with a gun and then shot twice in the legs, according to Furtaw.

He told police he then drove to his Somerset Road home and picked up his wife to drive him to the hospital. On his way to the hospital he decided to stop at the Big Boy phone booth to call his sister, which is what he was doing when he suddenly found himself surrounded by police cars and ambulances from the Park. Ambulance attendants said both bullets entered behind the man's kneecaps and passed through his flesh. One bullet was found in his sock, they said.

The case was turned over to Detroit police.

Smokers are more inclined than non-smokers to get depressed. Medical studies or more than 3,000 people in England are said to prove it.

Man charged with B & E

A 25-year-old Detroit man who has cases pending against him in the Farms, Harper Woods and Detroit was arrested by Park police Thursday, May 27, and charged with breaking and entering, according to police records.

The man, Scott Douglas Baker of Devonshire Road, is in Wayne County Jail in lieu of $7,500 cash bond set by Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel.

Park police were investigating a series of prowler and larceny reports, including the theft of a bicycle from a Balfour garage, at about 5:45 a.m. Thursday when they spotted the suspect pushing a bicycle up next to a building, according to Lt. William Furtaw. The suspect was known to police and they said the bicycle matched the description of the one stolen from Balfour.

He was arrested and arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering, Furtaw said.

Woods police nab three on school roof

Police officers from three cities helped Woods police corral three youths suspected of trying to break into Parcels Middle School at Mack and Vernier on Thursday, May 27.

Woods officers on patrol about 1 a.m. spotted the three, aged 15, 18 and 19, walking along Vernier Road toward the school. The officers followed the youths as they walked along Vernier to Sunningdale, then down Sunningdale and into the school parking lot.

Walking around the school officer spotted the three standing on the roof of the school's shop room. A request for assistance from the officers was answered by units from Grosse Pointe Shores, the Farms and Harper Woods.

While waiting for the units to arrive, Woods police reported they heard the sound of glass breaking from the roof. With the back-up units, police surrounded the building.

Woods police reported spotting the youths on the high roof at the school near Parcels' penthouse. Reports said the three began to run after noticing the police cars below, jumping from the high roof to the top of the school's music room before stopping.

With the help of the school's head engineer, Woods police entered the school and climbed onto the roof, where they arrested the three youths. Found scattered around the roof were 88 keys, reports said, which the head engineer tentatively identified as being stolen in a break-in at the school last month.

Investigating the area, police discovered a window on the east side of the glass penthouse had been broken out. The 18 inch-square pane was near a latch which opened the entire window structure, reports said.

Inside the penthouse, police found the heavy metal door leading into the school had been propped open with a roof vent which the head engineer said came from outside the penthouse.

Police said the metal door could only be opened from the inside. Police reports said the youths got no farther than the glass penthouse.

Later that morning, when the brother of one juvenile came to the Woods police station to pick him up, an altercation broke out. Reports said the youth began arguing with both his brother and police. He then pulled what police described as a Harley Davidson motorcycle chain he was wearing as a belt out of his pants and held it in a threatening manner, reports said.

Officers at the front desk vaulted over it to break up the altercation and wrestled the chain belt away from the youth. One officer was elbowed in the ribs during the scuffle, reports said.

After his brother refused to take custody of the juvenile, Woods police transported him to the Wayne County Juvenile Home, police said. The motorcycle chain was confiscated.

Barz tickles ivories Sunday

The Motor City Theatre Organ Society will present Victor Barz at the console of the Wurlitzer 26 Theatre Organ at the Punch and Judy Theater, Sunday, June 6, at 1 p.m.

This is another of the regular free mini-concerts given the first Sunday of each month at the Punch and Judy.

Barz, 21, from Battle Creek, is a senior at the University of Michigan, majoring in music and classical organ. He and other members of the U of M Choir have recently returned to the U.S. after appearing in concert throughout Europe.

He is a regular featured organist at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor, and also plays annually at the Mole Hole in that city during the Thanksgiving and Christmas season.

The Motor City Theatre Organ Society is a non-profit corporation of more than 450 area residents. Its purpose is to preserve and restore the theater pipe organ in its original setting where possible, and to foster interest in its music.

Membership is open to all interested individuals. Refreshments will be served in the lobby by members of the committee. Doors open at 12:30 p.m.

Man robbed on Maryland

A 29-year-old City man was robbed at knife-point at about 10:30 p.m. Friday, May 21, on the 1200 block of Maryland Road, according to Park police reports.

The victim told police he was approached from the rear by a man who grabbed his wallet which had $130 inside. The empty wallet was found later in an alley near Wayburn.

The assailant was described as a white male in his early 20s. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, had dark brown hair and a small moustache. There was one witness to the incident.

O'Briens plead guilty to embezzlement charges

A Grosse Pointe City couple pleaded guilty in Wayne County Circuit Court Thursday, May 27 to converting $76,000 in funds from heiress Lydia Buhl Morrison to their own use.

Carol O'Brien, former household manager and personal secretary to Mrs. Morrison, pleaded guilty to charges of embezzlement over $100, telling executive Chief Judge Richard Dunn she wrote checks to herself and her husband from December 1978 to last March.

"I just wrote the checks," Mrs. O'Brien said when Dunn asked if she knew how much money had been diverted. At the same time, her husband, Miles O'Brien, Jr. pleaded guilty to charges of aiding and abetting his wife during the more than three years the funds were diverted.

"I cashed some of the checks and endorsed some of the checks, some of which were made payable to me," the 47-year-old life insurance agent said.

Judge Dunn set Friday, June 25, as the sentencing date and continued bond at $5,000 personal. He ordered the socially prominent couple to undergo an examination by the county probation department before passing sentence.

Both charges carry a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

"They intend to make restitution," the O'Briens attorney David DuMouchel said. "They have every hope of making restitution."

DuMouchel said the couple came forward last March and talked with Morrison attorneys. A month long investigation by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office ended last month with the O'Brien's arraignment in the Park's Municipal Court.

"They were not investigated and apprehended," DuMouchel said. "They came forward themselves."

Both DuMouchel and county prosecutor Patrick Foley said that some $19,000 had already been repaid, but Foley said his office was waiting to study detailed bank records of receipts of deposit to determine who made the repayments.

"There were repayments" over the time the money was being diverted, by

Learn life-saving skill at Bon Secours

The Friends of Bon Secours Hospital will sponsor instruction in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) as part of the Town Hall for Health series on Monday, June 14, at 7:15 p.m. in the hospital's Science Hall.

CPR is an emergency treatment for victims of heart attack, shock, drowning or suffocation. Instruction in an emergency maneuver for choking victims will also be provided.

Admission is free but reservations must be made. For tickets call Glory Little at 343-1520. The class is limited to 50 people.

Those already certified for CPR may be recertified on the same date from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Recertification should take only 15 minutes and no reservations are necessary.

Parking will be available in the employees' underground lot for this event only.

Library computer picks your books

The Grosse Pointe Public Library is offering a new service to young adults this summer called Computer Pix.

Students in grades 7 to 12 fill out a five-question computer card concerning reading interests. The information is then fed into a computer which prints out a personalized list of about 20 titles, which are followed by a brief outline of story plots.

The Computer Pix is available at all Pointe library branches.

the O'Briens, Foley said, "but where it came from I don't know."

Mrs. O'Brien, 45, was hired in 1977 to manage Mrs. Morrison's Park home, and pay the help there. Attorneys for Mrs. Morrison said they were alerted to a problem when checks written to employees began bouncing.

In addition to her home in the Park,

Mrs. Morrison, 74, the daughter of former General Motors treasurer Louis Mendelsohn, maintains residences in New York City and Palm Springs, Fla.

Foley said he would make no recommendations about the sentence for the couple until after the probation examination is completed.

Neighbors organize to join crime fight

Growing numbers of Grosse Pointe residents are finding that there is something they can do to control crime in their neighborhoods. With help from specially-trained officers from their local police departments, the residents are organizing Neighborhood Block Watch groups in the City, Farms, Woods and Park.

Grosse Pointe City's Rivard Road neighborhood was the first to organize and recently installed special Neighborhood Block Watch signs at each end of the 600 block to let potential criminals know they are on guard.

That group, led by Mrs. Gilder Jackson, decided to get together after several breaking and enterings occurred on their street in just a few weeks' time. So far, Mrs. Jackson says, there have been no more problems.

"We're just watching out for each other, keeping an eye on cars in the neighborhood and calling police for every silly thing — except we don't feel silly calling any more," Mrs. Jackson said.

The neighbors met several times, traded telephone and car license plate numbers and agreed to keep their eyes on each other.

City Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy endorses the group and says he'd like to see more City Neighborhoods become involved.

"But it's not the kind of thing we (the police department) can push down people's throats. They have to want to do it. Then we'll do all we can to help," Kennedy said.

The City has assigned Public Safety Officer Dennis VanDale to work with citizen groups and, so far, he's appeared at almost a dozen meetings.

In the Park, Sgt. Randall Cain has taken over crime prevention responsibilities and last month held his first meeting with a block club interested in organizing.

Cain attended the Detroit Police Crime Prevention program earlier this spring and is prepared to help organize Neighborhood Watch programs as well as conduct residential and commercial security surveys and discuss home burglary and personal crime prevention measures.

"Police service has traditionally been re-active. What we hope to accomplish with a crime prevention program is to make it pro-active — to stop crimes before they happen and to reduce the fear of crime among our citizens," Cain said.

He agrees with Kennedy that it is not the police department's job to go out to neighborhoods to organize Block Watch groups.

"Interest must come from the people first. Then we can help by providing materials, giving talks, etc." Any one interested in working with Cain or having him conduct a security survey of their home or business, can call him at 822-7400.

In Grosse Pointe Farms, Det. Earl Field is directing Block Watch efforts and has met with residents in three neighborhoods. Field said he'd eventually like to see the department create a "hot line" that residents could call for up-to-date information about recent crimes in the area and suspect descriptions, etc.

In addition, Field says his office currently has available written material on 39 different crime prevention topics that it will distribute to residents upon request.

The material covers home security, business theft, common con games, muggers, rapists and even recreational items security. Call him at 885-2100 for information.

Woods Crime Prevention Officer is Pat Fagan, who is working with one homeowners group right now to organize a Neighborhood Watch Program. In addition, Fagan talks at schools and with businesses about measures they can take to stop crime. The city has operated a home security inspection program for several years which is now Fagan's responsibility.

Fagan and Det. Field won first and second place awards from the Michigan Crime Prevention Association for their efforts earlier this spring.

Officers from all five local cities are working on a series of crime prevention articles to be published weekly in the Grosse Pointe News beginning later this month.

Crockett: Welcome to the 13th

By Jenna Doe

U.S. Rep. George W. Crockett Jr. (D-Mich) welcomed Grosse Pointe City to the 13th congressional district at the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice annual dinner last week at the War Memorial.

"This is my first appearance in the new portion of the 13th district," he said. "We'll have to get accustomed to each other."

The Park and City became part of the 13th district in a reapportionment plan handed down by a three-judge federal panel last month. The Farms, Woods and Shores remain in the 14th district.

"Many of you will learn what it is to be part of a minority," Crockett said. "The 13th district is 72 percent black and four percent Hispanic and Arabian."

"THE 13TH IS now a district of contradictions between people and conditions. In this district there are some of the wealthiest and some of the poorest constituents," Crockett said. "My job is to assist and know these two groups together, and to understand where each is coming from."

Crockett, 72, said he will rely on his past experience to work effectively with both groups. As the only black in his class in the University of Michigan, Crockett learned to cultivate friends, he said. He established an inter-racial group in Ann Arbor during his college days. After graduation he served in the first inter-racial law firm in the nation, Goodman, Crockett, Eden, and Robb. And Crockett said now when he has more than five friends in his home, it is an inter-racial group.

Crockett assured his new constituents that he could represent the Grosse Pointes and not lose sight of the Cass Corridor.

"I will always have an open mind, I will always be ready to listen, and I will always be ready to be convinced," Crockett said.

Crockett also talked about the issue of racism in the U.S. in his speech before about 145 Inter-Faith Center members and guests.

He said the nation began coming to grips with its racism with the Supreme Court decision known as Brown vs. the Board of Education. "Then, we didn't think in terms of racism in the north," he said. "We thought of the south." While the south has made progress, the north remains clothed in a false sense of liberality, the congressman said.

Crockett also accused the Reagan administration of making a retreat from the Brown decision and gave several specific examples.

"THE TAX CREDIT given to private schools helps finance against integration," Crockett said. "This money should be used to make our public schools better instead of encouraging segregation."

The legislative effort to prevent busing is another example of the retreat from the Brown decision, Crockett said. This effort is coming from the North.

The supreme court and the federal courts are not hearing cases on racism under the Reagan administration, Crockett said. The judicial branch of government is where most strides toward racial equality have been made in the past.

The attitude the government has taken towards the Haitian refugees was cited by the congressman as another example of retreat. Crockett said the refugees are in detention, yet they have committed no crimes, and have no idea when they will be released.

Crockett said these examples illustrate that the job of the Inter-Faith Center is a long way from being finished. The center has an obligation to set racial relations right, he said.

Crockett added he will assist the center in anyway he can as a congressman of the 13th district.

The Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice is a non-profit organization which promotes racial understanding, confronts and challenges all forms of prejudice, and works toward equal opportunity for all, according to its literature.

The organization has been serving the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods, and the east side of Detroit since 1968.

At the annual dinner Thursday, May 27, the Inter-Faith Center also presented awards to focus on and recognize persons who live their lives and direct their energies to the advancement of social justice.

DISTINGUISHED Community Service awards were given to three honorees from the metro-Detroit area. The recipients were Dr. Robert Ward, senior pastor at the Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church, James A. Bush, principal supervisor of the Detroit Human Rights Department and Walter E. Douglas, president of New Detroit.

The Eva Fillon Award was awarded to Edith C. Taylor, a representative from Grace United Church of Christ in the Park. She was recognized for her demonstration of commitment to the cause of human rights.

It's officially Patterson Park

Sunday was Mayor Matthew C. Patterson Day in the Park as past and current city officials, friends and family gathered to honor the former Park mayor by re-naming Three Mile Park "Patterson Park." About 100 persons gathered for the ceremony, many coming from other parts of the country, to sing the praises of the former mayor and thank him for his devotion to his city. After a brief ceremony, Mayor Patterson joined current Park Mayor Douglas Graham in a ribbon cutting ceremony dedicating the park's new name and unveiling a plaque in Mayor Patterson's honor.

Prime Time

For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor

Not too long ago, Memorial Day was kick-off time for darker shades of shoes. Black, blues and browns were put in the closet until fall. May 30 was a signal for properly attired feet to go forth clad in white or pastel colored shoes.

Like some other Emily Post hints, this bit of fashion trivia is no longer de rigeur. In our more relaxed era, folks who dress well follow the weather or their own fancy in selecting shoes.

However there still remain several remnants of traditional happenings that hinge on May 30 as a starting date. Parks open, Bob-Lo cruises begin, swimming pools are renovated and cleaned, all set to welcome the first swimmers, and people begin to think seriously about vacations.

RETIREES, since they are not tied down by work or school schedules might like to plan an early vacation. The roads are not crowded, accommodations are easier to arrange and flies and mosquitoes have not yet organized their task forces.

Since we are all loyal Michiganders and are being exhorted from all sides to "Say Yes to Michigan," a trip to some of the scenic sites of our fair state might not only be in order, but could be a rewarding travel experience. With all the negative talk right now about Michigan's depressed condition, a journey forth to view its lakes and rivers, parks and streams could be a reminder that we do live in a beautiful state and surely an area with so much to offer it will find a way to renew its industry.

Generally such considerations as contributing to the state's economy or renewing faith in its future are not paramount in planning a vacation, nor do they need to be. Michigan compares with any state in scenic attractions and for those who live here, it has the added advantage of proximity to its wonders. This is an item worth thinking about. If you don't have to drive too far, it is possible to save money on gas, to spend more time relaxing at your destination and to arrive without being worn out from long hours of driving.

Undoubtedly there are many who have favorite places where they have vacationed before and went to return there to fish, camp, swim or explore.

But if you want to try somewhere new and are fascinated by waterfalls, Michigan has many to offer — about 150 named waterfalls, as well as a countless number of unnamed falls. Most of them are easy to find and there is no shortage of campsites or motels in the Upper Peninsula.

Everyone has heard of Tahquamenon Falls but not many know about Ocqueoc Falls in Presque Isle County. Ocqueoc are the only falls on public property in the Lower Peninsula and can be reached by following M-68 east through Onaway.

Actually the Ocqueoc Falls are two falls — an upper and lower falls. The upper falls are fed from the winding Ocqueoc River and form a descending torrent of small cascades which feeds eight-foot falls. Although they are not high because of the width of the river, their power and thunder are amazing. The lower falls are only two feet high but they too possess a power that makes almost as much noise as the upper falls.

If you are heading toward Mackinac and falls are your interest, cross over the Mackinac Bridge, go west on M-28 and then north on M-77 to Grand Marais to see the Sable Falls in Alger County. Here you can view the cascade from a wooden walkway and platform which extends out into the stream bed below the cascade.

In fact, if falls are your thing, Alger County is the place to go. There are eight falls there, not counting the Sable Falls.

THE TRAIL leading to Chapel Falls is lined with wildflowers and large maples. The falls begin as a small stream which breaks into three cascades and plummet over the first ledge to form one larger cascade. The water continues downward, first in multiple tiers and then in swirling sheets, spread out in ever-changing patterns. The vertical drop is about 150 feet.

Another is Munising Falls. Only one-and-a-half miles east of Munising, the water spills through a narrow crevice some 70 to 80 feet above you. The water then throws itself onto the rocks below. As it pounds against the rock, sound echoes like a jackhammer in an amphitheater.

A little south of Munising on M-94 are the Wagner Falls which are double-tiered with a small upper cascade located above a larger 10 to 12 foot lower cascade. A dense growth and the sound of water pounding on rock lend an eerie atmosphere to the area.

In sharp contrast are the Scott Falls just a few yards off M-28. Sun splashed and tranquil, the waters drop about 13 feet into a peaceful brook.

You can walk behind the falls into a grotto. Luminous moss (Schistogega is the scientific name) is found in the crevices. When sunlight enters the cave at a low angle, the moss reflects the light as tiny emerald flecks.

On the route to Baraga County, the Black River Falls south of Ishpeming in Marquette County are worth stopping to see. Twenty-five to 30 feet high, the falls roar through a narrow rock-filled gorge and come to rest in a large tranquil pool.

In Baraga County there are nine falls. One of the most outstanding is at Slate River where water plunges 25 feet over a slick, fractured slate wall. The multiple hues of the slate are reflected in the bottom of the pool at the base of the falls.

The Sturgeon River Gorge Falls in southeast Houghton County are a memorable experience. The river flows through the deepest gorge (260 feet) east of the Rockies. The area has been called Michigan's Grand Canyon. The falls flow over unusual black rocks which are part of an ancient lava flow called the South Rabge Trap. The falls are about 40 feet high and the water thunders over the black ledge with a tremendous force.

A falls approximately 70 to 80 feet high, billowing out over many ledges, can be seen in Ontonagon County. There is a large clear pool at the place which is excellent for trout fishing. Spanning this broad falls is a 100-foot high trestle bridge.

Presque Isle River in Porcupine Mountains State Park is the site of the Manido Falls and Manabezho Falls. Spanning the 125 feet of the river, Manido's series of cascades plunge over a 12-foot sculptured black slate ledge.

Huge watery columns alternate with protruding slate pillars to form the Manabezho Falls, which are adorned with all varieties of ferns and is ornately decorated with chiseled stone columns.

Farther west is the Black River where five more waterfalls are in close proximity to one another. Of the five, Gorge Falls is the more impressive. There are steep wooden steps leading down to an observation platform at river level. The high vertical walls of the gorge are composed of rock topped with imposing pines. The main portion of the falls catapults through a narrow chasm and then plunges downward about 40 feet.

THESE ARE JUST some of the memorable falls to be found in our own Michigan. There are many more, each one possessing its own peculiar beauty. Little known and away from the mainstream of popular tourist attractions, a visit to one or as many of them as you want to include, provides a respite from a crowd of sightseers. A trip planned around discovering these off-beat falls is just about that — you feel like one of the explorers of history as you spread your map and plan an itinerary to these hidden-away beauties.

Hospital retirees have reunion

Fifty former Bon Secours Hospital employees were honored on Wednesday, May 25, at the annual Retirees Reunion in the hospital's Science Hall.

Each year, Bon Secours Hospital sponsors a luncheon for the retirees who have given years of dedicated service to the hospital.

This year's event featured dancing to the sounds of The Music Makers from the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe.

Retirees attending the luncheon were Irma Anderson, Gabrielle Bailey, Lucille Bielman, Phil Brusoe, Virginia Carney, Louise Carollo, Beatrice Cateau, Mary Chavaux, Alice Cole, Antoinette Daidone, Josephine DeLong, Helen Ertel and Laverne Finn.

Others were Ruby Fournier, Josephine Gedge, Rose Gehring, Lilian Gozdziński, Julia Grzanka, Elizabeth Grundel, Barbara Handy, Helen Ireland, Celestine Janson, Etha Johnson, Wanda Lega, Violet Leming, Anna Lill, Mary Lipscomb and Dolores Lindquist.

Other retirees attending were Winifred Loranger, Michael Luckow, Florence Mackey, Isabelle MacEachran, Larry McCollister, Ruth Mirabile, Teresa Motyka, Gladys Osborne, Octavia Perrin, Jennie Pizzimenti and Clara Reyntens.

More were William Roche, Hildagard Schlegel, Barbara Sayers, Herta Schroeder, Madeline Sterck, Hilda Tedrow, Elizabeth Upleger, Marion Wallaert, Matilda Wiedyk, Helen Wisner, Charlotte Wisniewski and Jean Woefel.

Filbin to serve on trade council

The Detroit City Council appointed City resident William R. Filbin III to serve on its International Trade Council during World Trade Week. The purpose of the council is to promote better trade and international relations with other countries.

Filbin, vice-president of the W.R. Filbin & Company, Inc., was also recently appointed to serve on the Michigan District Export Council by Secretary of Commerce Malcolm Baldrige. Filbin joined the Filbin corporation in 1961 as a messenger and received his U.S. Customs Brokers License at age 21. After service in the U.S. Navy, Filbin rejoined the Filbin corporation and opened three branch offices in New York. In 1977 he was named vice-president of national accounts at Detroit corporate headquarters.

Filbin, a delegate to Gov. William Milliken's 1981 Small Business Conference, was also appointed a delegate to the governor's International Exhibition for the Suppliers of the Vehicle Industry — Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Primark Corp. elects Farms Mayor Dingeman

Grosse Pointe Farms Mayor James H. Dingeman has been elected to Primark Corporation's board of directors. Dingeman, attorney and business consultant, is former executive vice-president and director of Parke, Davis & Company. He also served as vice-president of the Warner Lambert Company from 1971 to 1977. He continued as a consultant to Parke Davis until 1979.

Primark's board of directors also elected Grosse Pointe Farms resident Robert W. Stewart as its chairman. Stewart is chief executive officer of Primark and chairman and CEO of Michigan Consolidated Gas Company. The new board chairman was named MichCon assistant vice-president, marketing in 1970 and later became vice-president, Michigan Gas and Storage Activity for the American Natural Resources System. He was promoted to MichCon executive vice-president in 1975 and assumed the company presidency in 1981.

Primark is parent company of MichCon.

ANR announces staff changes

Vice-chairman of American Natural Resources, Hugh C. Daly, and ANR executive staff vice-president James J. Trebilcock will step down from their posts this July. Arthur R. Seder Jr., chairman and chief executive officer has announced. The staff change prompted the promotion of Ray J. Lynch to vice-chairman and William T. McCormick to ANR president. Seder will relinquish his title of ANR president, but will remain ANR chairman and CEO. Daly, Trebilcock, Seder, Lynch and McCormick are Grosse Pointe residents.

Announcing . . .

Grosse Pointe Farms resident Alfred J. Fisher III has been elected to Mercy College's board of directors. Fisher is president of the General Safety Corporation . . . Social worker Donna M. Butala has joined the staff at the Psychiatric Center of Michigan. Butala is a resident of Grosse Pointe Farms . . . Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc. has awarded Grosse Pointe Woods resident Janet H. Miller a new pink Buick Regal for outstanding sales achievement. Miller joined the Dallas-based firm in 1975 and was named a sales director last year.

The Detroit office of the U.S. Small Business Administration is offering assistance to firms interested in joining the export field or to those interested in export expansion. An export marketing seminar is scheduled for June 19 and July 21. For further information call 226-7947 or 226-4276.

Corrections

In last week's edition, a private residential phone number was incorrectly listed as the number to call to file for Social Security benefits. The correct number, also listed in the story, is 885-6628. The News apologizes for any inconvenience caused by this mistake.

In an article titled "Cities fight water rate hikes" published May 20, it was incorrectly reported that water rates in The Shores will increase from $1.96 to $4.67 per 1,000 cubic feet.

In 1980 water rates in the Shores increased from $1.96 to $4.32. This July the rates will increase from $4.32 to $4.67 for 1,000 cubic feet.

A story in last week's issue about Grosse Pointe City public safety officers' new three-year contract should have said officer base pay in the first contract year will be boosted to $25,280.

Pointer studies abuse of elderly

Apparently there's a lot of truth in the saying that "you always hurt the one you love," according to Woods resident Dr. Mary Kay Sengstock.

Dr. Sengstock is half of a research team investigating abuse of the elderly for the Wayne State University Institute of Gerontology.

She and Dr. Jersey Liang conducted the study of 77 cases of abuse in the Detroit area with funds provided by the NRTA-AARP Andrus Foundation. The study, one of the largest done to date, found that the most likely abusers of the elderly are their children, followed by spouses, grandchildren, brother and sisters then roomers and landlords.

Dr. Sengstock said she believes the problem to be more wide spread than previously believed because few agencies are trained to look for this problem, plus victims are reluctant to report abuse.

The five types of abuse studied were direct physical abuse; psychological; financial; physical and psychological neglect. Interviews in the study revealed that families who abused the elderly had other problems as well, indicating that the other problems must be dealt with if agencies expect to halt the abuse.

Dr. Sengstock said the biggest factor in identifying and doing something about the problem was the concern and knowledge of the individual worker.

In the final analysis, Dr. Sengstock said clearer methods of identifying abuse victims must be developed since many symptoms of abuse are mistaken for symptoms of normal aging.

Of the five types of abuse studied direct physical abuse was the problem in only 20 percent of the cases. The largest problem was psychological abuse, which involved 58 percent of those studied and often accompanied one of the other types of abuse.

Financial abuse was suffered by 50 percent of the elders, while 23 percent suffered physical neglect. Psychological neglect was the problem in 23 percent of the cases. In about half of the cases the abuser was the child of the victim. The study also showed that agencies and social workers were reluctant to intervene in suspected cases of elder abuse. Dr. Sengstock said the biggest factor in identifying and doing something about the problem was the concern and knowledge of the individual worker.

Upturn won't end state money troubles in '83

A Senate Fiscal Agency economist provided an upbeat projection of the state's financial outlook for the coming year at a town meeting sponsored last week by State Sen. John Kelly (D-First District).

About 35 local residents attended the meeting at the War Memorial on Thursday, May 27.

Gary Olson, economist in charge of forecasts for the senate agency, said he expects the Michigan recession will near its end by the middle part of this summer. By July, he said, the local economy should pick up and the unemployment rate should drop to an 11.8 percent average for 1983, compared to the 1982 figure of 14.8 percent for Michigan.

Olson said he also expects the inflation rate to drop to 6 percent for the remainder of this year and next year. Despite the good news, Olson said state projected revenues still fall short of the $4.9 billion needed to continue current general fund programs in 1983. The agency projects revenue of only $4.673 billion in the 1983 general fund, general purpose budget, Olson said. That is up from $4.5 billion in 1982.

After Olson's presentation, Kelly asked the audience to provide ideas about where further cuts should be made or what additional revenue sources should be tapped to balance the state budget.

"There are nine senators leaving office this election year," Kelly told the audience. "And many of them make up the basic leadership group. Those of us staying in the senate are going to have to make many tough decisions in the year ahead and we need your ideas."

Kelly said he plans to run for a second term in the senate in the August primary.

Pointer wins U of M-D award

Park resident and senior faculty member at University of Michigan-Dearborn Helen Graves received the Distinguished Faculty Award from the Michigan Association of Governing Boards at a recent meeting. Graves was among 30 awardees from 15 public four-year colleges and universities.

Graves started her academic career at U of M-Dearborn in 1972 as a lecturer in political science. Last year she was promoted to the rank of associate professor of political science. She received her doctorate at Wayne State University and a masters in political science from University of Minnesota.

Graves led a petition drive to save a 20-acre lakefront property site in Grosse Pointe Park from a subdivision, property that became Three Mile Park. She was also part of a Citizens Committee that drew up a master recreation plan for the park.

In addition, Graves has been chairman and founder of the Grosse Pointe Democratic Women's Discussion Group. She was an alternate delegate for the Democratic National Convention in Miami in 1972, and was re-elected for five consecutive terms as a precinct delegate in the Park's Precinct Six for the Democratic Party. Graves created a pre-law advisory program for U of M-D and has since chaired the pre-law committee. She authored a chapter in the book, "Outsiders on the Inside," titled "A View From the Bench: The Exercise of Power."

Her other honors include being named the first U of M-D Distinguished Junior Faculty in 1975; a recipient of the International Women's Year Award in 1976; listing in Who's Who of American Women in 1977-78; and named a member of Pi Sigma Alpha, the National Political Science Honorary Society in 1974.

Another faculty member to receive the Distinguished Faculty Award from U of M-D was Richard Czarnecki of Dearborn Heights, professor of business administration.

WC3's environmental programs mean jobs

Wayne County Community College's (WC3) Coastal Environmental program, offered through its Eastern Regional Facility at 18300 East Warren, Detroit, can open the door to numerous opportunities for its participants, according to program director Elaine Wallace.

The Coastal Environmental Research program at WC3 requires a minimum of two years of study and gives the student a strong background in the sciences. Graduates may continue their education in fields of engineering, geology, chemistry and biology.

According to Wallace, opportunities also exist through the National Science Foundation at the senior college and graduate level for persons completing this program.

Park Nurse heads center

Rita Munley Gallagher, R.N., has been appointed coordinator of Calvary Services to the Aging Adult Day Care center scheduled to open this fall.

Bon Secours Hospital will join with Lutheran Social Services of Michigan (L.S.S.M.) to establish the adult day care center at the L.S.S.M. Calvary Senior Center located on Gateshead and Mack in northeast Detroit. The center will provide nursing care, social work service, physical therapy, recreation, social activities and assistance with personal care to elderly persons who need supervised care during the day.

Gallagher's duties began in January and include planning for the opening of the center and ultimately coordinating all patients' health care needs.

Gallagher has taught in Bon Secours' education and staff development department since June, 1980. She has been responsible for community health education programs such as Hypertension Screening Clinic and the Adventures in Parenting program.

Gallagher earned her Bachelor of Science degree in nursing at Saginaw Valley State College and is working on her Master of Science degree in community health nursing at Wayne State University. She belongs to the American Nursing Association and also serves on the nominating, membership, and legislative committees of the Michigan Nursing Association's Detroit district. Gallagher, her husband and daughter, live in Grosse Pointe Park.

Obituaries

Louis M. Paige
Services for Mr. Paige, 65, of Hollywood Road, were held Saturday, May 29, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and St. Clare Church. He died Wednesday, May 26. A native Detroit, he was a retired officer of Manufacturers National Bank and was a member of the Grosse Pointe Exchange Club. Mr. Paige is survived by his wife, Mary Jane Clements; three sons, Louis C., Gregory M. and Jeffrey B. Interment was in Acacia Park Cemetery.

Cass P. Lawrence
Services for Mr. Lawrence, 86, of the Pointe, were held Saturday, May 29, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and Our Lady Star of the Sea Church. He died Wednesday, May 26, in Bon Secours Hospital. Born in Poland, he was a member of the Senior Men's Club and was a member of the Gabriel Richard Council No. 2462 Knights of Columbus. Mr. Lawrence is survived by his wife, Valeria; three daughters, Mrs. Rosalie Higgins, Mrs. Christine Scheuerman and Mrs. Kathryn Tazzia; two brothers; 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation. Interment was at Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Bahia Joseph
Services for Mrs. Joseph, 71, of Bournemouth Road, were held Tuesday, June 1, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and St. Maron Church. She died Friday, May 28, in Bon Secours Hospital. Born in Lebanon, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Eva Gast and Mrs. Theresa Abood. Interment was in Mt. Olivet Cemetery.

Mrs. Irma M. D'Hondt
Devoted, dedicated and hard working. Perhaps the three best adjectives to describe Irma M. D'Hondt. Affectionately known as "Mrs. Pete," she won numerous awards for her landscaping talents at Jacobson's in the Village. "She was quite a lady," said Clarence Wascher, general manager of Jacobson's. "She couldn't do enough for people or for the store. She came in early, worked late and did the work of three people. We'll all miss her very much." "Mrs. Pete" was honored at a retirement party given by Jacobson's last March. An area between Jacobson's and the Carriage House in the Village was re-named D'Hondt Way and dedicated to her. Mrs. D'Hondt, 81, died Thursday, May 27, in Bon Secours Hospital. Services were held Tuesday, June 1, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and St. Paul Church. Mrs. D'Hondt is survived by two sons, Richard and Marcel; a daughter, Mrs. Bernice Grant; one brother; 12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Interment was in St. Paul's Cemetery.

War Memorial makes summer travel plans

Domestic and overseas educational travel opportunities are scheduled by Grosse Pointe War Memorial this summer and fall. Following an excursion to Spain to discover its Moorish background, adults and students are taking a grand tour of Europe in June and July to learn about England, France, Switzerland, Italy, Austria and Germany. The trip is sold out. A Shakespearean Festival tour to Stratford, Ontario, still has some openings. On Friday and Saturday, July 9 and 10, guests will enjoy "The Tempest" at the Festival Theatre and "The Mikado," Gilbert and Sullivan's greatest, at the Avon Theater. Accommodations and dinner are at the Victorian Inn just across the park from the Festival Theater. Dinner at the Fogcutter in Port Huron is included on the way home Saturday. A tour to the Shaw Festival at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Canada, Aug. 6 through 8 is sold out, but wait-listing is accepted with deposit. A leisurely tour of England, Scotland, Wales and Cornwall is planned Aug. 16 to Sept. 1. It will coincide with the opening of the Tattoo and Music Festival in Edinburgh, where rooms have been reserved at the Caledonian Hotel, near Edinburgh Castle. Only eight places remain open for this tour which includes round-trip air from Detroit, meals, tickets to the Music Festival and Shakespeare performance at Stratford on the Avon, plus accommodations in London's Mayfair, at the Lygon Arms in the Cotswold, and the Grosvenor Hotel in the arcaded city of Chester. The trip will be personally guided by England's Victor Moor. A special meeting will be held Monday, July 12, to discuss London theater, the Edinburgh Music Festival, the Shakespearean offering and the optional tour to the Scilly Islands. A group will set sail Sept. 4 for Alaska aboard the world class Royal Viking. Airfare to Los Angeles and return from Seattle is included in the price of a special 10-day cruise. Included are visits to British Victoria and its famous Red Dog Saloon, Skagway and a narrow gauge train ride to Frazier Lake and into Glacier Bay. Returning, travelers will visit Sitka, established by the Russians, Vancouver, Canada's western metropolis and Seattle. Fifteen seats are still available. Vienna, City of the Hapsburgs and the music capitol of the world, is the goal of a Sept. 18 to 26 trip. Round trip

Donald C. Johnson
Services for Mr. Johnson, 60, of Moorland Road, were held Monday, May 24, in the A.H. Peters Funeral Home. He died Thursday, May 20, in St. John Hospital. Mr. Johnson retired from the Michigan Bell Telephone Co. in 1980 as assistant vice-president of computer and data processing operations. He is survived by his wife, Norma, two sons, Donald and Andrew and a brother. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society. Interment was in Roseland Park Cemetery.

Marie Moran Peter
A memorial service for Mrs. Peter, 88, of the Farms, will be held at 11 a.m. today, June 3, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. She died Friday, May 28, at Cottage Hospital. Mrs. Peter, wife of the late Julius C. Peter, was a descendant of one of Detroit's original families, and was the daughter of Fred and Satilla Moran. She came to Grosse Pointe before the turn of the century as a child with her family to spend the summers and lived most of her adult life in Grosse Pointe Farms. She and her husband were ardent conservationists and the Michigan Nature Association sanctuary near Alpena is named in their honor. She was a past president of the Garden Club of Michigan and the Sigma Gamma Association, which she joined in 1908. During World War II, Mrs. Peter worked as a Gray Lady and later served as a volunteer and board member of the Detroit League for Planned Parenthood. She is survived by three daughters, Christine Gardner, Emily Wing and Patricia McFadden; eight grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren. Memorial tributes may be made to the Michigan Nature Association, 124 Millier Street, Mt. Clemens, Mich. 48043.

Dr. Laurel S. Eno
Services for Dr. Eno, 70, formerly of the Shores, lately of Palm Springs, Calif., were held recently in Palm Springs. He died Wednesday, May 26, in Palm Springs. Dr. Eno was born in South Dakota on May 30, 1911. He was graduated from Northwestern University School of Medicine and served his internship and residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology at Harper Hospital. Dr. Eno also served in Italy and the Far East with the Harper Hospital Unit in World War II. He was a member of the Wayne County Medical Society, Michigan State Medical Society, the American Medical Association, Central Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, and the Detroit Medical Club. Dr. Eno was affiliated with the University Club and in later years, was a member of the consulting staff and the executive committee at St. John Hospital. Dr. Eno is survived by two nephews. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association. Cremation was in Palm Springs.

Steak Roast is Saturday

The Grosse Pointe Boat Club's annual Steak Roast is scheduled for Saturday, June 5, at 5 p.m. at the City Park. The price is $7.50 for adults. Children accompanying their parents will be served a hot dog or coney dog at no charge. The price includes salad, potato and beverage and a steak. Boat club member Rick Brown and other members of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will be available for courtesy boat inspections at the City Pier after 1 p.m. that day. The Steak Roast is the club's second major event of the spring. On May 15, more than 130 members and guests attended the annual Fitting Out/Coney Island party at the City Park. The Grosse Pointe Boat Club has nearly 120 member families. The majority keep their boats at the City Pier. But the club also has members from a number of other communities including the other Pointes, Detroit, St. Clair Shores, Harper Woods, Warren, East Detroit, Mt. Clemens, Northville and Rochester. Future events include a rendezvous at St. Clair the weekend of June 26 and 27.

Latin student places first

By Megan Bonnani
South High

A total of 22 Grosse Pointe South High School students have received awards for French, Spanish and Latin national and state language competitions.

The Latin contest was sponsored by the Classical League and the National Junior Class League. Tom Gentile won the "silver maxima cum laude," the highest award for the fourth division. "Cum laude" awards were also given to fourth year students, Dan Burdick, Frank Charbonneau and Jim Schaafsma.

Third year students Matteo DiTommaso and Marty Montagne both received the second highest award, the "magna cum laude." Larry MacDonald and Ken Fromm received "cum laude" awards.

Second year students John Afsalk, Cathy Axe, Brad Peterson and Eric Loudermilk received "magna cum laude" awards. Brian Rathsburg was named "cum laude" for the second year class.

First year winners include Cathy Boyer, who received "silver maxima cum laude" and Matt Lane and Julie Golobic "magna cum laude" and Tom King "cum laude."

Ryndy Ditmars placed second among 500 Michigan entries in the American Association of Teachers of Spanish competition. Petra Polasek placed fourth for Spanish I.

About 50,000 students entered the French competition sponsored by the American Association of Teachers of French. In level four Catherine Hein and Karla Finger placed sixth and seventh. Amy Gaskin placed sixth for level two.

ULS ends year with Jamboree

Although they look relaxed and rested now, these four hard-working women (from left to right) Nicole Stroh, Connie Goodyear, Cynthia Ford and Frances Evans have a big weekend ahead of them. They make up the acquisition committee for the University Liggett School Silent Auction, one of 40 events to be held Saturday, June 5, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. as part of the June Jamboree on the ULS campus. Among items to be auctioned are a five-day round trip from Detroit to Duluth on an ore carrier, Super Bowl tickets, a 12-seat private box at Joe Louis Arena for any event and a "blue plate" dinner for 10 prepared by the four women above. Other activities planned during the end-of-the-year Jamboree are pony rides, a dunk-the-teacher tank, moon balloon, tennis exhibitions and a make-your-own-sundae booth. Profits from the day will go to the ULS Scholarship Fund. The campus is located on Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Tower staffers wrap up year with awards

By Dawn Lozniskar
South High

Grosse Pointe South High School's journalism classes held their second annual banquet May 18 to wrap up the year and distribute awards.

Tied for the Tower's Most Valuable Staff Member award were managing editors Paula Hanpeter and Patty Leonard. It is only the second tie in the 16 year history of the award.

Receiving the Honor Award, for a non-staff member who has made significant contributions to the journalism program, was Dawn Pysnik, a student-teacher who worked with the journalism program for the first four months of the year.

The Meg Speer Memorial Award, named in memory of a former Tower staffer, was presented for the second year in a row to managing editor Lisa Kressbach.

Business manager Suzanne Clark received the Editor's Award for determination and hard work, and opinion editor Sam Fuqua was given the Adviser's Award for significant achievement as a writer.

Newsprint award winners were Dawn Lozniskar as Most Valuable

Staff Member and Kevin Roberts for the Adviser's Award.

Added to the ranks of the Quill and Scroll International Honorary Society for high school journalists were junior Scott Bowles, and seniors Kelly Brown, Suzanne Clark and Sam Fuqua. To qualify for the honor students must be in the top one-third of their class.

South thespians receive honors

By Tara Sendebach
South High

South High School's Pointe Players conducted their end-of-the-year banquet May 22 at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Approximately 100 students attended, and the program included the induction of new thespians, the announcement of next year's officers, and the awards for the outstanding actor, actress, thespian and technical person.

The thespians are a group within Pointe Players made up of dedicated students who have received a total of 100 or more points working backstage or onstage this year. The new inductees were Katie Benoit, Patrick Boll, Paul Corbett, Matteo diTommaso, Martha Kolojeski, Philip MacNamara, David McCabe, Allyson Neily, Tim Reinman, Tara Sendebach, Chris Ann Vouduokis and Paul Lechner.

Thespian honor bars were also given to seniors who have earned 700 or more points over four years. These students were Diane Crea, Bill Dietz, Sally Fox, Julie Frear, Peter Huebner, Laurie Parres, Jane Spencer, Kaki Tindall and Dana Tuttle.

Pointe Player officers for 1982-83 are Kris Neily, president, Tara Sendebach, vice-president, Carolyn Ahee, secretary and Alexis Feringa, treasurer.

Winning outstanding actor was Pointe Player President Peter Huebner, best actress was Treasurer, Kelly Hill, and Vice President, Julie Frear won both best thespian and best technical person.

Ferry wraps up busy school year

Ferry School parents and teachers are busy preparing for their annual Ferry Fun Day Saturday, June 5 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Activity tickets will be sold for only 10 cents each. Activities will feature the moonwalk, pony rides, goldfish dip, tattoo table, basketball toss, squirt the candle, patches dart board, a cake walk and more. Fun Day chairperson is Bill Koch.

On Monday, June 7 Ferry will present a vocal music concert at 7:30 p.m. featuring the 99-member Ferry School Choir and other students.

Students from the fifth and sixth grade will exhibit their physical progress on Thursday, June 10 during field day featuring track and field events.

Ferry School Nature Center is seventh on the circuit of the Grosse Pointe Garden Club tour Friday and Saturday, June 18 and 19. The Garden Club ladies will serve lunch.

An outside concert performance by the Old Michigan Ruffwater String Band is slated at Ferry School, June 24 at 7:30 p.m.

ULS sophomore attends institute

University Liggett School sophomore Amy Rasimas has been selected to participate in the first Michigan Summer Institute for Gifted Students.

In all 145 state high schoolers will participate in the two-week institute, concentrating in one of two areas: arts or sciences. Amy will focus on the arts.

In addition to attending the Summer Institute for Gifted Students, Amy was elected to the USA Field Hockey Olympic Development Program held for one week at the University of Dayton this summer.

In these days of pressing events, difficult times and associated stress, we find ourselves often being tossed about as a child's ragdoll. Men, women, and children of all ages are seeking within to probe out solutions to the numerous dilemmas that daily face them. Hair believe me was not placed upon the head to be pulled out by a frustrated individual's hands. I take great pride in listening, caring and attempting to understand your situational needs, or anxieties, your likes and dislikes. I offer my assisting guidance to the successful resolution of your problem. After counseling for 5 years in the Upper Peninsula I've moved here to offer a listening ear to the people of the Grosse Pointe communities. May I then at this point, offer a warm welcome to you to utilize my services if you indeed feel the need for assistance or guidance. Remember: Coping has to be, but it doesn't have to be so painful!

Delivers the taste of cigarettes with up to twice the tar.

—Landmark Smoker Study

Extensive research proves 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT consistently matches the taste of leading higher tar brands.

Latest research offers the most conclusive evidence yet confirming MERIT as the proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking.

MERIT Taste Does It!

In impartial tests where brand identity was concealed, the overwhelming majority of smokers reported MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading higher tar brands.

Moreover, when tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Taste Debate Ends.

In a second part of the same study, smokers confirm that MERIT taste is a major factor in completing their successful switch from higher tar brands.

Confirmed: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT is an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Appeal of Robert S. Shammass, 632 S. Rosedale Court, who is appealing the denial of the Building Inspector to issue a permit to construct an addition to such residence which would create a deficiency in the minimum rear yard requirements as provided for in Section 5-4-2 of the 1975 City Code (Schedule of Regulations). A variance is therefore needed from the Board of Appeals.

NOTICE OF HEARING
ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in the City Hall at 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, on

at 8:00 p.m. to hear the appeal of Mr. Rudale Austin, owner of the premises located at 240 242 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Permit for the construction of two garages and two lavatories to the two family residence located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that:

- The residence located on the foregoing premises is a non-conforming use for reason that it is a two family residence located in a district zoned for one-family detached dwellings, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1500, Item 5-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged, extended, reconstructed, moved or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.
- The proposed garage addition on the south side of the structure would infringe upon the required side yard of 25 feet leaving a side yard of 16 feet, and thereby requiring variances from the provisions of Article II, Section 201, Item 50 and Article XV, Section 1503, Item 2 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

The Hearing will be public, interested property owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

'Funny Girl' wraps up theater season

"Funny Girl," the big, brassy classical musical, winds up the 34th season of the Grosse Pointe Theater with performances Tuesday, June 8, through Saturday, June 19, at Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. There is no performance on Monday, June 14.

One of the longest-running Broadway shows in history, "Funny Girl" is the musical biography of the great Ziegfeld star and comedienne Fanny Brice; a rags-to-riches true fairy tale told in such hit songs as "People," "Don't Rain on My Parade," "You Are Woman" and "I'm the Greatest Star."

In the title role of Grosse Pointe Theater's newest production is Theresa Selvaggio, of Ballantyne Road, whose own career — from walk-ons and chorus to principal roles — is a remarkable parallel to that of Fanny Brice. Fanny's optimistic and witty mother is played by Ann Diebel. Ciro Vitale is Fanny's high-rolling gambler of a husband, and Don Ross is a tenacious friend through the star's ups and downs.

Fanny's friends, neighbors and associates as she climbs to stardom are played by Gigi Gaggini, Jeanne Chrisman, Marie Boyle-Asmus, Joe Jerbon, Sue Sievert, Terri Turpin, John Wiseley and Eula Barassa.

Other performers featured in "Funny Girl" include Joe Rice and Tony Amato, Tom McCarter, Diane Graham, Pat Ellis, Tim Hallsworth, Rik Selke, Peter Walliko and Val Sisto.

The singing and dancing chorus includes Catherine Ballew, Mike Barron, Janine Bavely, Cheryl Berger, Laura Granger, Jann Hight, Karyl Morris, Tom Sanderson, Jennifer Etienne, Leslie Goodwin, Linda Held, Carolyn Innis and Peggy Stevenson.

"Funny Girl's" director is veteran Bob McKenna who, as actor or director, has long entertained Grosse Pointe audiences. Mary Lou Johnson is producer, and Gwenn Samuel is stage manager. Assistants to Ms. Johnson and Ms. Samuel are Mickey DiSante and Suellen Fausel. Keith Sipos is in charge of musical direction, and dances have been staged by Arlene Schoenerr.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Petz have worked together as scenic designer and set dresser to convey the colorful variety of New York in the 1920s and 30s, enhanced by the lighting designs of Dick Vreeland. Chuck Chrisman and Steve Linne are responsible for constructing the elaborate scenery.

Behind the scenes, Carole Lombardini is makeup chairperson, Anthony Stocki is responsible for properties, Chancey Miller supervises the many colorful costumes and David Herzberg and Doris Pagel oversee sound design and vocal coaching, respectively.

"Funny Girl" performances each begin at 8 p.m. nightly, and tickets and reservations may be made in advance by calling the Grosse Pointe Theater ticket office at 881-4004. All seats are reserved, and admission to any performance is $7.

Drama workshop at War Memorial

A two-week summer drama workshop under the direction of Grosse Pointe Children's Theater director Sally Reynolds will be held the last two weeks of June at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Beginning and advanced classes for all ages from grade school to high school will be offered. Training will be given in mime, voice and diction, stage movement, characterization, improvisation, monologues, scenes from plays and presentation for audiences.

Enrollment will be held Friday, June 18, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the War Memorial. Advanced enrollment may be made by calling the War Memorial at 881-7511.

The Drama Workshop will begin Monday, June 21, and run through Friday, July 2. For more information, contact the War Memorial or 885-6219.

Mrs. Reynolds has been directing youth productions for the past 35 years, having received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Michigan State University and her Master's from Wayne State University in Children's Theater.

Mrs. Reynolds, who has also worked with adults in both professional and non-professional theater, emphasizes the classes are for all ages. Advanced high school students will receive special training in direction. An August production is planned for the Fries Auditorium and some members of the workshop will be used.

Walsh cites two Pointers

Walsh College of Accountancy and Business Administration in Troy last month conferred Honorary Doctor of Law Degrees on Everett M. Hawley, Jr., and Frank L. Gofrank, both of Grosse Pointe, at the college's 58th Commencement ceremony.

Hawley and Gofrank serve on the Walsh College board of trustees.

Hawley is an attorney and a CPA and has served as a president of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. He is a former member of council of the American Institute of CPA's and a former Chairman of the Michigan State Board of Accountancy, an organization which he founded.

Gofrank is chairman of Newcor Corporation, an American Stock Exchange Company. His philanthropic endeavors include service to the Metropolitan Detroit Salvation Army and cancer research. Gofrank, a graduate of the Walsh Institute of Accountancy in 1949, is director and vice-president of the Boca Raton Academy in Florida and a member of the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

The generous spirits of both Hawley and Gofrank have contributed not only to the development of Walsh College, but also to the many fine volunteer organizations which they serve, the school said in a press release.

J. Marshall Robbins, vice-chairman of the Walsh board of trustees was assisted in the conferring of the Honorary Degrees by Jeffrey W. Barry, president of Walsh College.

DIA film series nears end with Double Suicide

"Double Suicide," a 1969 Japanese film directed by Masahiro Shinoda, will be presented by the Detroit Institute of Arts' Afternoon Film Theater through Sunday, June 6. Showings will be at 1 p.m. in the museum Recital Hall.

Shinoda employs stylistic theatrical techniques in the film adapted from a 17th century play to tell the story of a merchant and a beautiful young woman.

General admission tickets are priced at $1 each and are available at the door only.

Afternoon Film Theater's current "Made in Japan" series will conclude with "The Man Who Left His Will on Film," a 1970 work of Nagisa Oshima, through Tuesday, June 8.

For details about Afternoon Film Theater's upcoming series titled "The Newsreel," which features 31 historic news shorts, call the museum ticket office at 832-2730.

Cops nab man for assault

Farms police arrested a Detroit man for assault and battery and larceny from a building Wednesday evening, May 26, after receiving a call for help from the manager of Kroger on Mack Avenue.

According to reports, the manager urgently requested the assistance because the suspect was fleeing. Responding officers found a security guard from the store wrestling on the ground with the thief at a Shell service station at Mack and Gateshead Roads.

After police arrested the man, they found six steaks in the suspect's car believed stolen from Kroger.

Be social at Memorial Church

The first sign of summer is here with Grosse Pointe Memorial Church's annual Ice Cream Social. It will be held in the church's Fellowship Hall next Monday evening, June 7, from 6 to 8:30, rain or shine.

A great family event; the social features a variety of sundaes, homemade cookies and brownies, served with coffee or tea.

There will be clowns, live music and balloons for the children. Adult tickets are $1.25, children (5 and under) are 75 cents. Both are available at the door.

Will Reagan run again?

Whether President Reagan will run for a second term is already a matter of speculation of Washington even though the next presidential election is still more than two years distant.

The pollsters have fueled the speculation by asking the public whether the President should seek reelection. The most recent Associated Press-NBC Poll showed 46 percent of the respondents saying they would not like to see Mr. Reagan run again and 42 percent saying he should run for a second term. Twelve percent were undecided. When a similar question was asked in November, the split was 43 percent to 37 percent in favor of the President running again.

Although the President remains personally popular and is widely regarded as amiable and articulate, the polls also have shown a decline in public support for his programs. In addition, Howell Raines, who covers the White House for the New York Times, sees a "fragmentation in the Reagan coalition — a melange of blue-collar workers, suburbanites, religious fundamentalists, conservative intellectuals and traditional Republicans that no other candidate of Mr. Reagan's party has been able to assemble."

YET IN RECENT WEEKS the President often has looked like a man running for reelection. He visited the home of a black citizen who had been threatened by the Ku Klux Klan. He met with a group of farmers worried about declining agricultural prices. He offered a $4.6 billion program of tax benefits for parents with children in parochial schools. And he endorsed constitutional amendments requiring a balanced budget and permitting voluntary prayer in the public schools.

The President also appeared to be more willing to compromise, at least with Republicans in Congress, over the federal budget and the huge deficits being forecast. And he took a tough line against any cuts in Social Security benefits for present recipients, although the door seems to be left open for reforms after the election that would increase the retirement age, impose taxes on Social Security benefits, freeze cost-of-living adjustments or make other revisions to reduce costs.

While the President looks more and more like a candidate for reelection, it may be that he is just warming up for the 1982 congressional elections. Some people even believe that the outcome of the November elections may determine whether Mr. Reagan really will run again. If the Republicans should lose control of the Senate, for example, the President would find it even more difficult and perhaps impossible to achieve his fiscal and social aims in his next two years in the White House. Some say that might persuade him to retire. But others think it might spur him to another effort to revive the Republicans and his own programs.

Perhaps another factor might also spur the President to run again. A recent Gallup Poll showed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts easily outdistancing all of his potential rivals for the 1984 Democratic presidential nomination. Kennedy, of course, is the very epitome of the liberal politician that Mr. Reagan has been running against ever since he began his political career. The President might want to get into the race one more time to prevent the return of a liberal regime to Washington.

IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS, the Reagan administration's record is somewhat less than dazzling. Considering the complexity of world problems, perhaps nobody could have done better. But in the Middle East, El Salvador, Poland and the Falkland Islands, the administration did not distinguish itself. And it came late to the realization of the tremendous world-wide support for U.S. negotiations with the Soviet Union that could lead to arms reduction or a nuclear weapons freeze. Overall, it is hardly a record, to date at least, that would inspire a reelection campaign.

The economy, however, could be the determining factor for Mr. Reagan. His administration has succeeded in reducing the inflation rate but, his critics charge, at the expense of the unemployed whose numbers have continued to rise during the prolonged recession. However, if the long-awaited upturn begins next fall as some economists expect, the country could be in the midst of a full-fledged economic recovery by 1984. If so, President Reagan could be riding high and, his health permitting, could be planning to seek a second term with good chances of victory.

Mr. Reagan already is the oldest man ever to have served as president and if he completed a second term would become the first chief executive since Dwight Eisenhower to do so. While he would be 77 in 1988, he does appear to have enjoyed his first year and a half as president and his health seems to be excellent. At any rate, the President's options are still open in mid-1982 and as a shrewd politician he'll probably keep them that way as long as possible.

It's less than perfect

Now that the hassles over the reapportionment of congressional, legislative and commissioner districts are apparently over, we are forced to conclude that our democratic system achieves something less than perfection when it seeks to carry out the mandate for the one-man, one-vote principle.

In all three reapportionments, the courts wound up making the final decisions. A panel of federal judges took on the task of reapportioning the congressional districts after Gov. William Milliken vetoed a legislative attempt. The Michigan Supreme Court approved its own plan after declaring the state's Commission on Legislative Apportionment was unconstitutional. And the Michigan Court of Appeals finally had to approve new voting districts for Wayne and Ingham counties.

THE END MIGHT not be in sight, either. The Democratic Party is appealing the Supreme Court's legislative redistricting on the grounds it is "unconstitutional and unfair" — meaning it might benefit the Republicans in the state Senate. It is doubtful, however, that the U.S. Supreme Court will accept jurisdiction.

In such cases, the individual and his own community often feel as if they are pawns of the politicians and the courts. That feeling is especially strong in the Pointes which were split between two separate congressional districts by the federal judges despite precedents that supposedly required districts to be drawn "with an eye to compactness, political and traditional boundaries, not racially balanced representation," and said the reapportionment "must be a accomplished circumspectly and in a manner free from any taint of arbitrariness or discrimination."

But the hassles also have resulted in a delay in the primary and the filing dates for those seeking office. The primary has been set back from Aug. 3 to Aug. 10, the deadline for filing for congressional and legislative candidates has been moved back from June 1 to June 15, and the deadline for filing for statewide offices from June 1 to June 8. These changes may not be especially significant but indicate again the lack of perfection in the reapportionment process. Reapportionment is required after each census to accommodate the shifts in population that have occurred in the preceding decade. In Michigan, for example, the number of congressional districts was cut from 19 to 18 because of the national population shift from the Midwest Snowbelt and the Eastern seaboard to the Sunbelt in the South and Southwest. Population shifts within the state also required legislative reapportionment. In Wayne County, not only population shifts but the adoption of the county charter cutting the number of commissioners from 27 to 15 made the reapportionment necessary.

Common Cause's model reapportionment proposal calls for strict anti-gerrymandering standards but gerrymandering is still a problem. A League of Women Voters study, for example, said, "It is a problem whether it is the the gerrymander done by the majority political party to preserve or increase its control of legislative or congressional districts, to create safe seats for incumbents, or to dilute geographic or racial representation." Even population, it said, affords new opportunities for gerrymandering when it is the sole criterion for redistricting.

WITH RESPECT to all three reapportionments, the Pointes apparently lost one, won one and came out as well as could have been expected in a third. The congressional reapportionment was the loss, as we indicated earlier. The legislative reapportionment which kept almost intact Rep. William Bryant's district while revising the Senate district boundaries could be regarded as a victory in view of the politics that was played with earlier redistricting plans. And the inclusion of the Grosse Pointes in a larger commissioner district encompassing a big area in Detroit was about what had been expected with the reduction in the number of commissioner districts.

But we don't have to like the way the process now works and we don't have to praise the three reapportionments as perfect when they are less than that. Yet nobody to date has come up with better methods of reapportioning voter districts and, almost everyone agrees, such actions must be carried out every decade to protect voters from even more serious discrimination in the future. Reapportionment, in short, is a kind of necessary evil.

School study panel needs your help

To the Editor:

The committees studying the future organization of the Grosse Pointe school system have been meeting since January.

Although much data has been gathered, no decisions have been made nor conclusions drawn yet. The opinions and feelings of the public are needed prior to reaching any final conclusions.

Therefore, the committees are seeking the public's input through the following sources: a response form which will appear in the June issue of the school system's newsletter, Emphasis, suggestion boxes located in the public libraries, self-addressed stamped post cards available at all public schools, and letters which may be addressed to Ed Deeb in care of the Board of Education Office located at 389 St. Clair Avenue.

This is the community's opportunity to express their views and ideas regarding this important subject.

Don't let apathy be your response. Let us hear from you.

Woods police make her proud

To the Editor:

While returning to my home on Thursday, May 20, I was the witness to a serious accident on Vernier involving a woman who suffered extensive injuries. I can not adequately express my admiration for the Grosse Pointe Woods police and paramedic who responded immediately to this emergency.

Their extremely professional management of the multiple injuries suffered by the woman and their courtesy to the other driver involved in the accident made me more than proud to live in a community where well-trained professionals such as these could be taken for granted. They deserve the pride we all should feel in them. Their performance is indeed above and beyond any call of duty.

Tax board gets a pay increase

The Park Council voted May 24 to increase pay for members of the Board of Review from $100 to $300 for work completed this spring.

The Board of Review hears individual appeals of increases in the state equalized value of property in the city. This spring the group heard a record number of appeals, and put more than 60 hours apiece into the job, City Manager John Crawford said. The board granted reductions to almost 30 percent of the complainants, according to Assessor James Ellison.

Members of the Park Board of Review are Dick Mollering, Charles Merz and Diamond Phillips.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

"Detroit without the Detroit Symphony Orchestra would be a city without a soul," said Farms resident Mrs. Frank A. Germack Jr., after accepting the gavel of office from outgoing Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra President Mrs. Eric A. Wiltshire and thanking the WADSO membership for the opportunity to serve as their president and for the challenge of the position, "and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra without its volunteers would be an orchestra without a life."

Stephanie Germack made those remarks in mid-May, at the Detroit Symphony Women's annual meeting held at Orchard Lake Country Club. She might have added that without its volunteers the DSO would be considerably poorer; among Mrs. Wiltshire's final duties as WADSO president was the presentation of a check to Oleg Lobanov, managing director of the DSO, during the 1982 annual meeting. That check was for $220,727.76: proceeds from the Women's fund raising events for their Symphony during the past year.

Among those serving with Stephanie on the 1982-83 WADSO board will be fellow Pointer Mrs. Kim K. Lie, assistant recording secretary. (For a look at Mado Lie en famille, take a look at the big picture immediately to the right of this column.) WADSO 1982-83 directors include a trio of Pointers: Maralyn (Mrs. Henry) Domzalski, a Windmill Pointe Drive neighbor of Mado's, Johanna (Mrs. Ellwyn) Gilbert and Ida Mae (Mrs. Alfred) Massnick.

The Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony has been a vital cultural resource in the community since 1914. Its membership includes women from all walks of life, who give freely of their time to encourage concert attendance, increase public enthusiasm and secure friends and financial support for the DSO.

Early next September, WADSO will present "Toujours Trigere," a fall couturier showing at 6:30 p.m. at Jacobson's in-the-Village, with Pauline Trigere. Early next month, there'll be an exclusive party in The Pointe for "Toujours Trigere" Benefactor Ticket holders. Two more WADSO sponsored events are already on September's agenda: the ninth annual picnic for DSO members in the Symphony Office courtyard (Sept. 20), and the pre-performance DSO Opening Night Dinner — black tie, of course! — in the Westin Hotel's Renaissance Ballroom (Sept. 21).

It's Friendship Tea Time

The last part of May and June, ruled by the Sign of Gemini, is considered a great time for party giving or for guests — so what could be more natural than that Mrs. James Mullaney, retiring president of the Detroit Review Club, who celebrates her birthday in the last part of May, should live up to her hospitable dual-sign nature?

Two weeks from today, Thursday, June 17, Mrs. Mullaney's Chalfonte Avenue home will welcome DRC members. Occasion is the Review Club's "Friendship Tea," a strictly-for-fun post-season get-together dreamed up by DRC Past-President Mrs. Robert Kefgen, of Wicks Lane, who hosted the first one . . . and started a tradition. Martha (Mrs. C.P.) Cantine, of Maison Road, in charge of this year's tea arrangements, promises a pink-cloth, pink-carnation (the DRC's color and flower) decor for the tea table.

Representative selection of Lies bid you welcome . . .

Cooking demonstrations by Charity Sucek . . . East Indian dancing in a garden setting . . . a swimming demonstration: all this in addition to a tour of five magnificent homes, many of which overlook Lake St. Clair, is the planned bill of fare for the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit's first International Home Tour in Grosse Pointe on Sunday, June 13, and 1 to 5 p.m. The Tour, chaired by Mrs. Harold Binder, of Birmingham, president of the Michigan Architectural League, features the homes of five International Institute members, including that of Dr. and Mrs. Kim K. Lie at 15324 Windmill Pointe Drive. It's Tudor style, was built in 1927 by Albert Kahn and Associates and designed by Wallace Frost and features a massive 30 by 50 foot living room with a cathedral ceiling. It's situated on a beautiful expanse of lawn overlooking the lake where MADO LIE (center, above), surrounded by a representative group of young Lies, NATASHA, 5, and TAMARA, 7, to Mado's immediate left and right, LANCELOT, 14, (with the tie). GUNTHER, 9, (next to Lancelot), ROXANE, 19, holding year-old baby ARIADNE, and PARCIVAL, 12, holding three-year-old SERGEI, smiles a welcome. Both Dr. and Mrs. Lie were born in Indonesia and raised in The Netherlands. They have 10 children. At the Lie residence, a performance of classical Indian dance will be presented during the Home Tour by Wendy Sekhar and her younger sisters: seven-year-old Anjali and three-year-old Anandini. It's one of the unique features of this International Home Tour which, unlike most other house tours, includes an array of international performances, wine, food and cooking demonstrations. The Tour and related activities are being arranged by a planning committee consisting of Jill Best, Mrs. George Kappaz, Mado Lie, Frederick Currier, Mrs. William Targett and Mrs. John Zukowski, all of The Pointe. mittee members will also serve as host and hostesses in the homes. Tour tickets are $6 in advance and may be purchased in person at the International Institute across from the Detroit Institute of Arts or by mailing checks, payable to the International Institute, to the Institute, 111 East Kirby Street, Detroit, Mich. 48202. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The mail deadline is next Wednesday, June 9. Tickets may also be purchased at any of the homes on the Tour the day of the Tour for $7.

Participants may start the Tour at any point and will receive maps detailing each home's location. The Lie home is a good starting place for those who plan to work their way from Grosse Pointe Park to Grosse Pointe Shores. Next stop along this route would be Michigan's first passive solar home, located at 17140 East Jefferson Avenue. It was designed in 1958 by architect Marco Nobili, who lives there with his wife, painter Louise Jansson Nobili. It's a small, serene residence, full of surprise turns and sudden views of an elegant, Oriental style garden. Pale brick, dark wood and glass are the building elements, creating an illusion of space and a sense of being both indoors and outdoors; in fact, a breakfast nook addition with a solar-paneled ceiling allows the Nobilis to dine in warmth while totally surrounded by a beautiful snow scene during the winter months.

The home shows off Mrs. Nobili's modern paintings and newest collage works as well as the couple's collection of antique carved artifacts from Italy, displayed in stark contrast to modern; white walls. Dr. Nobili is a native of Florence, Italy, born to a French mother and an Italian father. He is president of the Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe. Italian wine will be served in the Nobili home.

Renowned chef Charity Sucek's home at 591 Fisher Road is the location of Le Petit Cordon Bleu of Grosse Pointe, a small, exclusive cooking school offering beginning, intermediate and advanced courses and demonstrations by appointment. Mme. Sucek, Viennese by birth, is a graduate of the original Cordon Bleu. She studied with famous chefs all over the world before settling in Detroit, where she pioneered the teaching of continental cooking in this area some 35 years ago. There are two kitchens in her home; the downstairs one is part of the cooking school and features "The Bistro," a dining room in which student masterpieces are sampled. A collection of antique cooking devices is arranged through this part of the house.

There is also a collection of still lifes and a functional herb garden; its products go into Mme. Sucek's dishes. She will be demonstrating her art during the International Home Tour, preparing a cold strawberry soup and Salade Macedoine featuring special greens, vegetables and a sesame seed dressing — perfect for summer menus. Visitors will be able to sample her creations.

A cooking demonstration is also on the agenda at the Rosemary Elias house at 900 Lakeshore Road. Here, Sandra Silven, food writer for the Detroit News, will prepare Oriental wonton and pakoda, an East Indian, curry-flavored fritter. The Elias home, a pillared, French chateau style mansion built in 1913 on the original Renaud property overlooking Lake St. Clair, features the architectural plaster work of its owner, Mrs. Elias, and her teacher, noted Detroit plaster artist Corrado Parducci. The home also features the original wood trim and paneling from the private quarters of Rose Terrace, the Anna Dodge mansion — and the decor of the second floor, with its 75-foot deck overlooking the lake, is a replica of the inside of a ship!

A tennis court, putting green, running track, indoor pool and Jacuzzi are all part of the magnificent accouterments of Leonard and Sybil Jaques' estate at 936 Lakeshore Road. This large, French Colonial home set on four acres overlooking Lake St. Clair was built in 1917. Mr. and Mrs. Jaques, its second owners, acquired it from John French, founder of City National Bank. In addition to being a personal health club, the home features exquisite Oriental rugs and numerous sundecks, porches and sunrooms. Here, swimmers will give a demonstration in the pool, tennis players will demonstrate on the court and refreshing lemonade will be served.

And that's the rundown on what promises to be one of the most exciting Home Tours ever held in Grosse Pointe. Any questions? A call to the International Institute, 871-8600, will bring the answers.

Thirst for sunflower oil brings boom in blooms

By Rebecca R. Kirtland
National Geographic News Service

The native American sunflower is not just another pretty face. Each of those broad, jolly faces uplifted to the sun nurtures from 700 to 3,000 complete flowers that become seeds; now the seeds and the oil crushed from them are a major United States export crop.

Although the Soviet Union has been the number one producer of sunflowers since the 1930s, the United States has taken the lead in exports of sunflower seeds and oil. Russia itself bought about 20,000 tons of "sun oil" from this country in January, 1982, alone.

American farmers harvested 3.5 million acres of oil-seed sunflowers with a value of $441 million last year, up from only 10,000 acres in 1966. Last year 1.7 million tons of seed and 332,000 tons of oil were exported. The harvest is expected to more than double in the next few years to meet for-ign demand for sun oil, says Larry Kliegartner, director of the National Sunflower Association.

Sunflowers are second only to soybeans as a cooking oil source around the world. Slightly more expensive than soybean oil, sun oil is the most economical highly unsaturated vegetable oil, says Harry Doty, the United States Agriculture Department's chief sunflower expert.

It also may have health benefits. The oil contains about 70 percent linoleic acid, the polyunsaturated fat believed to control hypertension, and a higher vitamin E content than all other oils, according to Judi Adams, dietitian for the National Sunflower Association.

Sun oil can even be poured into paints, varnishes and plastics. And crude sunflower oil can be used to power diesel engines, Kenton R. Kaufman of North Dakota State University told the 1982 meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

After the oil is crushed from the seeds, the meal left is a valuable protein supplement for livestock. The energy content of the hulls measures higher than soft coal, Kliegartner reports. Cargill Inc.'s big new plant in Fargo, N.D., which crushes the oil from 1,200 tons of seed a day, is fueled by burning the hulls.

Three more plants that will process about 1,000 tons a day each will open within the year in North and South Dakota. The Red River Valley region, where Minnesota meets the Dakotas, is the heart of the sunflower business.

These three states along with Texas harvested 2.2 million tons of seed last year, only a small fraction of this the snack food type. Sixty percent of the oil seeds were exported, mainly to The Netherlands, Mexico, Portugal, West Germany and Italy, to be crushed. The rest was processed domestically into oil. Then most of that was exported — to Venezuela, Algeria, The Netherlands and Egypt, according to the USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service.

But sun oil is not yet in great demand in this country.

"Americans haven't yet developed a taste preference for sun oil," says Judy Goldich, FAS economist. "But if you've ever had sun oil when it's really fresh and tastes just like fresh roasted sunflower seeds, you'd never want to use anything else."

Although Englishmen immortalized the sunflower in poetry, Van Gogh painted it, ancient Incas worshipped it and Russians have harvested it on a large scale since the late 19th century. Americans have been slow to see the virtues of the plant that grows wild from coast to coast and from northern Mexico to southern Canada.

The Russians bred American and Canadian varieties of sunflowers until they developed a strain that raised the oil content to 40 percent by the 1960s. But by 1972 American know-how had developed high-yielding hybrids.

"Although Russia harvests about 12 million acres a year, their production is down because they are using older varieties which are more disease susceptible," Mrs. Goldich explains. "In the mid-1970s the United States took the lead on exports of seed; as our crushing capacity picked up, we began exporting more oil than Russia by the late 1970s."

Sunflower's botanical name, Helianthus, comes from its characteristic heliotropism, the gradual turning of the plant to follow the daily course of the sun. Kansas, the "avant-garde" of American sunflower circles, declared it the state flower in 1903. Now it is more than a symbol — or a weed — in the Sunflower State, where 35,000 commercial acres were harvested last year.

And the sunflower may find a new niche in American history as a national symbol if bills currently before the United States Congress are passed. Sacramento landscape designer Marc Askew, coordinator of the campaign to make the sunflower our national flower, says it is the ideal symbol of United States leadership in food production and solar technology.

Workshop's focus is small business

"Billing and Collection Techniques," a one-day workshop, co-sponsored by University Courses in Adult Education (Wayne State University/University of Michigan) and the United States Small Business Administration, designed for current or prospective small business owners and managers, will be presented this Saturday, June 5, from 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Rackham Memorial Building in Detroit's University/Cultural Center.

Participants in the program, directed by John R. Parnell, attorney, will learn sound credit policies and how to deal with potentially troublesome and delinquent accounts. The fee of $38 includes registration, course materials, coffee and refreshments. Further information may be obtained by calling WSU, 577-4665.

Among 23 charter members of Northwood Institute's Honorary Accounting Society is MIKE HANCHEK, of The Woods. Members must have at least a 3.0 grade point average.

JILL MORKETTER, daughter of MRS. JANET L. MORKETTER, of The Park, and SARAH PERRIN, daughter of MRS. T.W. SMITH, of The City, were named to the Honors List for the second trimester at Leelanau School, where Jill is a senior and Sarah, a junior.

Art historian LUCY (MRS. ROBERT) HAMILTON, of The Pointe, presented an illustrated lecture, "Reflections in Color: Stained Glass in Detroit," at the Dossin Museum on Belle Isle April 21.

Top of the Prix to benefit DIA

The Detroit Institute of Arts is offering an inside way to see the Grand Prix, II's "Top of the Prix," a museum benefit for which the DIA Founders Society has use of the entire 16th floor of RenCen's new 600 Tower all day Sunday, June 6, for a bird's-eye, weather-proof view of start and finish lines, pit areas — and 70 percent of the race course.

Actually, there are three separate "Top of the Prix" parties. Guests, who first buy a $15 general admission ticket, may choose brunch, cocktails, jazz, the Renault and Vintage Races from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. for an additional $35 — race viewing, open bar and the Formula One Race from 1:30 to 5 p.m. for an additional $50... or the "Afterburner" open bar, buffet supper and dancing to music by the Urbanations from 5:30 to 10 p.m. for an additional $35 per person.

All ticket holders may park conveniently in the big lots of Detroit's Cultural Center, then use the benefit's special free bus to get directly to the 600 Tower. Contributions for the parties are tax deductible as provided by law. Tickets are on sale now at all CTC outlets. Further information may be obtained by calling 833-1719.

Garden club meets June 2

Windmill Pointe Garden Club members gathered at 11:30 a.m. yesterday, Wednesday, June 2, at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club for luncheon and their annual meeting which included election of officers for the coming season. Each member was asked to bring with her a small flower arrangement, for judging.

MR. and MRS. GEORGE GRENZKE, of Woodland Shore Drive, were honored recently on their 40th wedding anniversary with a dinner party at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, hosted by their children. Among the guests attending the celebration were MR. and MRS. GARY GRENZKE, of Troy, MR. and MRS. RICHARD GRENZKE, of the Pointe, and DR. and MRS. JAMES OSETEK, of St. Louis.

Detroit secretaries seat new members

The 300-plus member Detroit Chapter of Professional Secretaries International installed new members at its annual meeting Wednesday, May 26, in the Hotel Pontchartrain's Ontario Room. The chapter encompasses members in business, education and government. It is concerned with upgrading standards of professionalism for secretaries.

Bendel-McHenry rites celebrated

Susan L. McHenry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McHenry, of East Detroit, and D.F. Bendel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fabian Bendel, of Hawthorne Road, exchanged marriage vows Friday, May 7, at a 5 o'clock ceremony in Saint Veronica Catholic Church, East Detroit.

Katheleen Barnes, the bridegroom's cousin, came from New Mexico to sing during the rites over which Pastor Anthony F. Balogna presided. A candlelight dinner reception followed in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Fries Ballroom.

Re-embroidered Alencon lace accented the bodice and skirt of the bride's princess style gown of white Duchesse satin, fashioned with a Victorian neckline and long, straight sleeves of English bridal net trimmed with appliqued lace, seed pearls and iridescents, ending in deep wrist ruffles of Schiffl lace.

Fleurettes of tucked lace with cascading seed pearls trimmed each side of the beaded Juliet cap that held her double blusher veil. Intertwined in her crescent bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, white Sweetheart roses and greens was a rosary, made by her grandmother.

Diane McHarg was her sister's honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Connie Bendel, the bridegroom's sister, Jane McHarg, the bride's niece, and Kara Nordberg, the bridegroom's niece. They wore sashed dresses of antique pink chiffon and crescent floral headpieces complimenting their crescent bouquets of iris, pink Sweetheart roses, purple statice, lavender, baby's-breath and greens.

Brian Bendel acted as best man for his brother, Joe Pistorio and Herbert McHarg, the bride's nephew, ushered. Todd Nordberg, the bridegroom's nephew, was ring bearer.

The mother of the bride wore orchid chiffon. The bridegroom's mother selected silver grey chiffon. Each pinned a crescent of pink Sweetheart roses and miniature carnations to her purse.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Sadie McHenry, of West Branch, and the bridegroom's great-aunts, Marie and Clara Bendel, of Milwaukee, Wis.

First Night at the Opera

Pictured at the 1982 Opening Night Dinner hosted by the Detroit Grand Opera Association are MR. and MRS. JOHN B. FORD III. Mr. Ford is president and general manager of the DGOA, sponsor of Metropolitan Opera Week in Detroit. Nearly 340 people attended the black tie, $85-a-plate event which preceded the Met's performance of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffmann" in Masonic Auditorium Monday, May 24. Mrs. R. Alexander Wrigley, like the Fords a resident of The Farms, chaired the pre-performance dinner in Masonic Temple's Crystal Ballroom.

RICHARD RUSCHE, son of MRS. GAIL RUSCHE, of Lancaster Avenue, has been admitted to Olivet College for the spring of 1982. Rusche is a Grosse Pointe North graduate.

Reunion night for Newcomers

The Grosse Pointe Newcomers Club, now in its 37th year, will hold a reunion Saturday, June 12, at The Players Playhouse on East Jefferson Avenue where, from 7 p.m. to midnight, there'll be opportunities to reminisce over those past 37 years and enjoy refreshments, songs by the Sound Experience and skits by the Newcomers themselves.

Henry and Chris Clay chair the reunion committee. Assisting with the planning and producing hot and cold hors d'oeuvres for the night are Larry and Kay Rankens, Bud and Mike Chamberlain, Corky and Julie Boyd, Don and Mim Lange, Frank and Lois Ann Palazzolo, Chuck and Anne Latham and Ralph and Eileen Mandarino, who has agreed to stage manage the skits.

Many Newcomers of 30-plus years ago still live in the Grosse Pointe area and still maintain close friendships formed through the club. Couples who have recently moved from an area not touching the boundaries of Grosse Pointe are eligible for membership in the local Newcomers organization and invited to call the membership chairmen at 881-5683 or 882-9473 for further information.

June is high flying Cranbrook month

The principles of flight will be demonstrated at Cranbrook Institute of Science, the Detroit area's natural history museum located on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills, between 1:15 and 3:45 p.m. all Sundays in June.

Kathy Jo Lewis, the Institute's physical science coordinator, will show children and adults how to make seven different kinds of paper airplanes, a helicopter, a glider and several difficult-to-identify flying machines. The aerodynamics of paper airplanes will be demonstrated through actual testing in the museum and outdoors, weather permitting.

In addition, Sunday activities will include a discussion of the physics of flight and why some airplanes fly better than others. All these demonstrations, plus "History of Science Fiction" planetarium demonstrations at 2, 3 and 4 p.m., are included in the museum admission of $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for students and senior citizens.

Sunday museum hours are 1 to 5 p.m. Further information may be obtained by calling 645-3200. The Institute of Science is a division of Cranbrook Educational Community.

GP Symphony Women to meet

Grosse Pointe pianist Ruth Burczyk will play Chopin and Gershwin during the program following the Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association's annual meeting and luncheon next Thursday, June 10, at the Country Club of Detroit.

The day's agenda opens with a 10:30 a.m. business session, conducted by President Mrs. Kim K. Lie, a social hour and luncheon at 12:30 p.m., after which officers for the coming year will, per tradition, be installed. Special invited guests include Felix Resnick, the Pointe Symphony's conductor, Malcolm Denise, president of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Society, and Pamela Rapalee Ford, orchestra representative.

Reservations, which must be made by this Monday, June 7, are being taken by Mrs. Anthony Vermeulen, the Association's social chairman.

Ruth Burczyk, cited as Teacher of the Year in 1981 by the Detroit Musicians League, has played with the Detroit Symphony, all the area's community orchestras and several major midwestern symphonies. This past season she presented a solo recital at the Edel & Eleanor Ford House to benefit the National Music Camp at In-terlochen, where she has been on the summer teaching staff for seven years.

She is a member of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association and is just completing a six-year term as a director of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Society.

Metropolitan Rose Society will meet

Rose and Frank Barrett, members of the Lansing Rose Society, will present a program on preparing roses for a rose show including slides on "The Secrets of Exhibiting Roses" at a Metropolitan Rose Society meeting this Sunday, June 6, at 2 p.m. at Olivet Lutheran Church, Van Dyke at Outer Drive.

Rose has written articles for the American Rose Magazine and is an Accredited American Rose Society Judge and a Consulting Rosarian. Frank's hobby is photography. Their Metropolitan Rose Society program is open to the public.

PAMELA ANNE CAIN, daughter of AL and AILEEN CAIN, of Yorkshire Road, was graduated from the College of Human Medicine at Michigan State University on March 12. Dr. Cain will begin her residency in Internal Medicine at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., on July 1.

MONICA BODENDISTEL, a 1979 graduate of Grosse Pointe North High School and a merit scholarship student at Wayne State University, was installed in Sigma Theta Tau, a national honor society for nurses, on April 14. She also was one of two nursing students inducted into Mortar Board, a national honor society for college seniors. Monica is vice-president of the Student Nurses Association at WSU and attended the group's national convention in Minneapolis, Minn., in late April.

A PERSONAL APPEARANCE AND DEMONSTRATION BY WILTON ARMETALE CRAFTSMAN

Wednesday, June 9, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Grosse Pointe

Using a method dating back to early history, you will see Wilton molder, Pat Sterner, utilize special hand-tools, sand and molten metal. After making a sand mold from a master pattern, the impression is filled with molten metal. The sand is removed after the molten metal has cooled and solidified to reveal the casting. Wilton Armetale dinnerware and gift items are a fusion of ten metals that resembles old pewter but is more durable and non-toxic. You will see how each piece is an expression of the molder's skill in working with raw materials.

Twenty willing members have volunteered to supply the gourmet sandwiches and cakes. Pourers will be DRC's present and past-presidents, including just-elected Mrs. Robert Gerisch, of Bloomfield Hills, hostess Mrs. Mullaney, Mrs. Wayne Garrett and Mrs. Aaron E. Wilcox. Blanche Kefgen will be the official greeter and captain of the Guest Book. Other members of the party committee are the Mesdames Justin Emery, Francis Quigley, Frederic Beddows, Allyne Litchfield, Harry Graham and Francis Robinson.
They have everything in order, everything under control, with just one possible exception. Michigan weather is, as we all know, impossible to predict, but the DRC ladies, who love to "spill out" from the house into the garden, are praying raindrops won't be falling on their heads between 2 and 5 p.m. June 17. Sunny skies are definitely called for to conclude a 90th anniversary club year.

Another Annual Tea Date
Mrs. Clark Hinkley's home will be the setting this Monday for another annual tea: the spring party at which the Junior Group of League for the Handicapped-Goodwill Industries traditionally welcomes its full-fledged new members. Among this year's 15-woman "graduating class" of League-Goodwill Juniors who have served their probationary year is Mrs. Vann Fleming, of Dean Lane. Mrs. Stephen Kinsley, of Washington Road, and Mrs. John Pappas, of Fisher Road, are chairing the day. Mrs. Edwin O. Bodkin, of Trombley Road, who foresaw the need for an organized group to provide assistance to Goodwill Industries in their work of aiding the handicapped and founded the Junior Group of League-Goodwill in 1933, will be on hand to welcome her newest recruits.
Another Sort of Beverage
Those who don't class tea among their favorite liquid refreshments will find their tastes catered to next Thursday, June 10, when the Suds Express, makes the rounds of Detroit's finest taverns. It's another Michigan Opera Theater Pub Crawl, starting at 6 p.m. and continuing until the taverns close, and $6 buys you crawl space on the buses which run continuously from 6 to midnight. You can hop aboard at Joe Louis Arena's Olympia Room or any participating pub of your choice. You can hop off and on again at no extra charge: your Pub Crawl Button is your fare token for the entire night. Buttons are available at the Music Hall Box Office, the Michigan Opera Boutique at RenCen and all participating taverns. For a list of them, and more information, call MOT, 963-3717.

Sincere Congratulations to . . .
. . . local artists whose work was selected for display in the Michigan Water Color Society's 36th Annual Michigan Water Color Exhibition which continues through June 12 at Wayne State University's Community Arts Gallery. They include Pat Penoyar, Kay Beissel Smith, Evelyn Snyder, Mary Aro, Mary Louise McCarroll and Julie Strabel. Special congratulations to the latter two, who took special awards. "Rainbow Box" brought Mary Louise a $200 Michigan Foundation for the Arts Award. "Mother's Shelf" earned Julie a $200 Michigan Water Color Society Award.
Another Honored Local Artist
Grosse Pointe's David Becker also deserves special congratulations for his artistic achievement. He's one of 100 winners of the national print competition and exhibition "PRINTS USA," co-sponsored by Pratt Graphic Center and Exxon Corporation. The winning prints, selected by Gabor Peterdi, nationally known printmaker, painter and professor of Art at Yale University, are on display through June 22 at the Pratt Manhattan Center Gallery on Lexington Avenue in New York. The competition, open to all individuals residing in the United States, included all print media except photography. More than 2,000 prints were submitted.

A pair of Papillons . . .
Les Papillons Liturgical Dancers JoANNE SPENCER (left) and ELLEN PROBERT, photographed as they rehearse before a mirror, say symbolic gestures as part of their portrayal of Psalm 137: one of seven dances the group will present at An Evening of Dance and Music this Sunday, June 6, at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church. The concert, culmination of Les Papillons busy 1981-82 season, also will feature instrumentalists Barbara Porbe, violin, Nancy Ambrose, oboe, Robert Reed, cello, Margaret Fennel, flute, and soprano Ann West. The Chancel Choir of Woods Presbyterian, Les Papillons' sponsor church, directed by Richard Johns, will accompany some of the dances. So will the Bell Ringers of the church, directed by Russell Reed. A reception in the church lounge will follow the performance.
Les Papillons interpret psalms, parables, episodes from the Life of Christ and folk hymns. They dance to readings from Scripture as well as to music, and incorporate elements and patterns used in ballet and modern dance, ancient and modern Israeli dance and pantomime in their gestures and forms. Colorful costumes and lighted candles are used to create special effects.
Tickets for this Sunday's benefit concert are $3, including the afterglow, and may be obtained at Woods Presbyterian, Grosse Memorial Church, Grosse Pointe Methodist Church, Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, or from any of the Papillons: Lizzie Bolden, Jenny Eshleman, Nancy Reed, Mary Lee Strother, Molly Malecek, JoAnne, Ellen and Eunice Whitaker, director and choreographer.

Watz-Burnham Mocer-Hogan rites planned

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Burnham, of Allard Road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Susan, to Martin Watz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Watz, of Bournemouthe Road, Harper Woods. The wedding is planned for early July.

Miss Burnham, a University of Detroit graduate, is a nurse at Harper-Grace Hospitals. Her fiance, a Wayne State University graduate, is senior merchandising manager of J.C. Penney's Fairlane Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice B. Hogan, of Canterbury Court, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Mary, to Samuel Thomas Mocer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mocer, of St. Clair Shores. The wedding is planned for early November.

Miss Hogan, a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School, attended Northwood Institute and Ferris State College. She is currently a reporter for the construction publication Builders Exchange of Detroit and Michigan. She is a member of the National Association of Construction Products Manufacturers Council and co-chairman of the Association's Continuing Education Workshops.

Her fiance, a Lakeview High School graduate, attended Macomb County Community College and is a plumbing, heating and cooling contractor, currently affiliated with Higgins Management Company, Detroit.

To display Michigan photographers' work

A 1 to 4 p.m. public reception, hosted by the Newcomers Club of Macomb County, will open an exhibit of work by Michigan photographers this Sunday, June 6, at the Art Center located on Macomb Place in downtown Mount Clemens.

The show, which runs through June 20, also will feature a display of Ted Ceckiewicz' antique and collectible cameras as well as Hologram: a fascinating, three dimensional, lensless form of photography that uses laser light to capture objects in movement.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the Art Center, 469-8666, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturdays.

Strawberry time is at hand

Michigan strawberries have been busy doing just what they're supposed to do: getting red, ripe and juicy. They've been doing it so well that they're slated to begin coming to market during this first week in June — more than a week in advance of last year's late crop.

Volume will increase weekly through June 10 to 15, when the supply is forecast to peak. Volume will diminish weekly after that, with the harvest ending by the end of the month.

Strawberry acreage in Michigan is about 2,700: equal to last year's acreage. But output should be larger this year because weather to date has been superior. Fifteen days of 80 degree weather in May gave strawberries a super start, explains Harvey Belter, Extension Agricultural Agent in Southwest Michigan.

Recent rains were beneficial but cool weather may have reduced the early volume. Belter says, however, that the berries are there... and with a few warm days they'll be back on track. This rosy outlook can change overnight, of course; weather during harvest is crucial. What growers don't want is really hot, humid weather. Then the berries ripen all at once.

Prices of strawberries and other items are determined by many factors, one of which is grower cost. To enable shoppers to get a better idea of the cost of producing strawberries in Michigan, Extension Food Marketing Specialist Ada Shinabarger contacted the Department of Agricultural Economics at Michigan State University. Extension Specialist Myron Kelsey gave not only costs but a minilesson in strawberry farming.

It seems that commercial strawberry production requires two years. Preparing the soil, fertilizing, planting, cultivating and even hand-hoeing are required the first year to enable the plants to get a good start. There are no berries to pick this first year.

In the early spring of the second year a mulch applied the year before is removed, insects are controlled and fertilizer is applied again. Commercial strawberry producers have the additional expense of irrigation equipment, required both for spring frost control and watering when rain is inadequate.

These production costs, some of which cannot be recouped for over a year, figure out to $6.38 per 16-quart crate when yields are 400 crates per acre, according to Kelsey. Harvesting costs (crates, baskets, pickers) amount to an additional $7.52 per crate. This makes a total cost of $13.90 per crate, or 86 cents per quart, before the berries have left the farm!

Don't light up for baby's sake

Pregnant mothers who smoke can injure their unborn children. How and why a mother's smoking can harm a fetus or threaten a baby's respiratory system after the child is born is explained in the booklet "Smoking and the Two of You" published by the American Lung Association.

• When a pregnant mother smokes, harmful gases from the smoke enter the blood and pass through the placenta directly into her baby's circulatory system. These gases narrow the baby's blood vessels and those in the placenta. They force oxygen out of the red blood cells of mother and baby.

• Women who smoke while pregnant have a higher percentage of stillborn babies, spontaneous abortions and premature deliveries than do women who don't smoke. Their babies are more likely to be born undersized or to die soon after birth.

• After birth, breathing-smoke filled air can cause a baby's tiny airways and lungs to constrict, blocking or impairing the child's breathing. And because babies and young children breathe much faster than adults, they inhale more pollution in proportion to their total body weight.

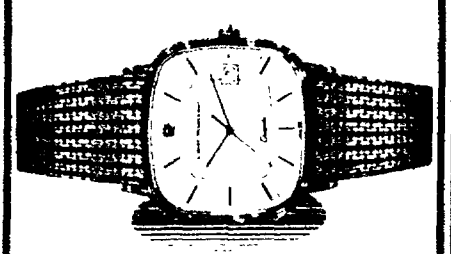

• More information about smoking and pregnancy may be obtained by calling the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's "Smoking Phone," 983-3029, and requesting a copy of "Smoking and the Two of You."

MDA March set June 8

Ten thousand Muscular Dystrophy Association volunteers in Macomb, Oakland and northeast Wayne Counties will be conducting yearly house-to-house solicitation next Tuesday, June 8, from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Proceeds from the four-hour drive will help provide diagnosis, lab tests, physical and occupational therapy, braces, wheelchairs, genetic counseling and miscellaneous medical services, free of charge, to all MD patients in southeastern Michigan. Persons wishing to join the campaign by collecting in their neighborhoods are invited to call MDA March headquarters, 774-2780.

A recipient of the 20th annual Probus Club Awards for Academic Achievement granted annually to Wayne State University faculty is DR. KENNETH V. HONN, of The Woods, associate professor in the Department of Radiation Oncology and Radiology at the WSU School of Medicine. Dr. Honn who is also head of the Cancer Biology Division of Radiation Oncology at WSU, has won national attention for his research in the field of cancer and for his study of Nafazatrom, a drug manufactured by Bayer Chemical of Germany, which has stopped the growth and spread of malignant tumors in test animals. Dr. Honn has been at WSU since 1977.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL ELECTION OF THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF THE GROSSE POINTE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM, WAYNE COUNTY, MICHIGAN, TO BE HELD JUNE 14, 1982

TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID SCHOOL DISTRICT:

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the Annual Election of The Grosse Pointe Public School System, Wayne County, Michigan, will be held in said School District on Monday, the 14th day of June, A.D. 1982.

THE POLLS OF ELECTION WILL BE OPEN FROM 7:00 A.M. TO 8:00 P.M., EASTERN DAYLIGHT TIME, ON SAID JUNE 14, 1982.

Notice is further given that at said election there will be elected one (1) member of the Board of Education of said School District for a full term of four (4) years, beginning July 1, 1982 and ending June 30, 1986.

The following persons have been nominated as candidates for the one four (4) year term:

JON B. GANDELLOT

The following advisory proposition has been placed on the ballot:
"At the request of the Citizens for a Community Pool Committee, the Board of Education is seeking an advisory opinion as to whether the electorate would support a bond issue in the approximate amount of $3,500,000 for the purpose of constructing an enclosed community swimming pool in the south end of the district. Should the Board of Education begin the necessary steps of employing an architect and conducting a feasibility study at an estimated cost of $125,000?"

The places of election will be the duly designated voting places in each election precinct in the School District and are as follows:

PRECINCT NO. 1 — Voting place at ROBERT TROMBLY SCHOOL, 820 Beaconsfield, Grosse Pointe Park, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 2 — Voting place at GEORGE DEFER SCHOOL, 15425 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Park, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 3 — Voting place at LEWIS E. MAIRE SCHOOL, 740 Cadieux, City of Grosse Pointe, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 4 — Voting place at PERE GABRIEL RICHARD SCHOOL, 176 McKinley, Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 5 — Voting place at KERBY SCHOOL, 285 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 6 — Voting place at DEXTER M. FERRY SCHOOL, 748 Roslyn, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 7 — Voting place at STEVENS T. MASON SCHOOL, 1640 Vernier Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 8 — Voting place at JOHN MONTEITH SCHOOL, 1275 Cook Road, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 9 — Voting place at CHARLES A. POUPARD SCHOOL, 20655 Lennon, City of Harper Woods, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 10 — Voting place at JOHN R. BARNES SCHOOL, 20090 Morningside, Grosse Pointe Woods, Michigan.

PRECINCT NO. 11 — (All absentee voter ballots) voting place at Board of Education offices, 389 St. Clair, City of Grosse Pointe, Michigan.

Each person voting in said election must be a registered elector in the City or Township within this School District in which the person resides.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education of The Grosse Pointe Public School System, Wayne County, Michigan.

Pewabic offers summer series class sessions

Registrations are now being accepted for six-week beginning and advanced ceramics classes scheduled to start June 21 and 22 at historic Pewabic Pottery, the 75-year-old, nationally renowned ceramics learning center located on East Jefferson Avenue, across from Detroit's Waterworks Park.

Registration forms and information may be obtained at the pottery or requested by phone, 822-0954, during business hours weekdays. Deadline for registration is Monday, June 14.

Three courses -- two new -- are being offered this summer term. Instructors James Powell and Marie Woo each will teach a raku course for beginning and advanced students in which the students will fire their own pieces outdoors in Pewabic's raku courtyard.

Powell's course will be offered Monday and Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Woo's course will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 10 p.m. Both courses will run to the end of July.

A new course in kiln building and vapor firing for those experienced in clay will be offered by Powell on Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Students will construct a castable kiln of about 20 cubic feet -- the kind suitable for their own use -- using scrap materials. The class also will offer experimental work in vapor firing using existing facilities.

Powell also will lead a new course in research in oxidation firing on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. It will stress the development of clay bodies, glazes and surface treatments suitable for oxidation firing, both electric and gas.

Undergraduate and graduate credit for courses is available to eligible Pewabic students through Michigan State University, but the courses also may be taken without college credit. Advanced students may enroll in any convenient class period and may pursue their own interests in independent study programs arranged with their instructor.

Cost of tuition, basic materials and registration fee for students electing to take the six-week summer classes as non-credit courses is $96. Cost for those registering for MSU undergraduate credit is $118. Information about graduate credit requirements and costs is available from the Pewabic Pottery registrar, 822-0954.

Eight-week Saturday sessions for parents and children, beginning June 5, will also be offered this summer. Parents must enroll with their children if they are between the ages of six and 12.

An introductory clay course will be offered both Saturday mornings and afternoons: from 9 a.m. to noon and from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. Cost of tuition, basic materials and registration fee for either session is $65 for adults, $50 for youths aged 13 to 17 and $40 for children 12 and under.

Pewabic Pottery is owned and operated by the non-profit Pewabic Society. In addition to classes, Pewabic features an exhibit and sales gallery and a museum of the works of Mary Chase Perry Stratton, the pottery's founder. Pewabic is open daily to the public from noon to 4:30 p.m.

Plant-in at the Trial Gardens . . .

Feature summer theatre at WSU

Wayne State University's 1982 Summer Theater Festival opens June 9 with the world premier of "King, Junior," the award winning play by Michigan's Donald Howard which will run through June 26 in the Hilberry Theatre. The festival continues with five comedy and mystery successes of the modern theatre, playing in rotating repertory in both the Hilberry and Studio Theatres at Cass and Hancock in Detroit July 6 through Aug. 7.

The Hilberry will present "Arsenic and Old Lace," Joseph Kesselring's famous stage and screen comedy of the '40s, and Patrick Hamilton's "Angel Street," one of the best "Victorian Thrillers," which first appeared in the '30s. The two will alternate Wednesday through Saturday evenings July 7 through Aug. 7.

For children, the Hilberry will give matinee performances of Aurand Harris' new version of the fairy tale favorite "Cinderella," sub-titled "A Toby Show," July 6 through 29.

In the Studio, downstairs at the Hilberry, "The Club," a musical revue, will alternate with Simon Gray's award winning "Otherwise Engaged" July 7 through Aug. 7.

"The Club" is Eve Merriam's off-Broadway satire of male chauvinism, set in a 1905 men's club and using melodies from popular songs of the turn of the century. "Otherwise Engaged," which won the 1976-77 New York Drama Critics Circle Award, is the comedy of a modern egoist who defends himself against a parade of eccentrics who insist on invading his private world.

The festival's opening production, "King, Junior," is a highly original treatment of the life and death of Martin Luther King Jr. Following his assassination, the famous civil rights leader faces judgment in a series of confrontations with members of his family, his assassin, Malcolm X, Mahatma Gandhi and others.

"King, Junior," one of the 1980 Netherlander Playwriting Award winners, was written by Donald Howard, who graduated from Eastern High School in Detroit, the University of Michigan, where he won six Hopwood Writing Awards, and Wayne State University, where he won a Tompkins Prize for Drama and earned his Masters degree.

Performances of "King, Junior" are scheduled for Wednesday through Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m. June 9 through 26. There will be one matinee: Sunday, June 13, at 2 p.m.

Evening performances for the remainder of the festival are at 8 p.m. Wednesdays through Saturdays, with children's matinees scheduled for Tuesdays at 1 p.m. and Wednesdays and Thursdays at 10:30 a.m.

Free brochures with complete schedules and ticket information may be obtained by calling the WSU Theatre box office, 577-2972. Season and individual tickets are on sale now.

Marathon Sale dates at DIA

The Museum Shop of the Detroit Institute of Arts opens a public Marathon Sale tomorrow, Friday, June 4, heralding a weekend of "Great Hauls in the Great Hall" inside the museum's Woodward Avenue entrance. The sale continues in the Great Hall Saturday and Sunday, June 5 and 6, then moves to the shop area in the museum's Ford Wing Farnsworth entrance lobby, where it will run through Sunday, June 20.

Discounts of 40 percent or at-cost will apply to posters, note cards featuring art by Winslow Homer, Matisse or Breughel, reproductions of Early American mugs, art glass, ceramic tiles, pillows and scarves featuring designs adapted from ancient empires in the DIA collection. 18th century floor-cloth stencil kits, needlepoint kits, tote bags, jewelry and many more items. A 10 percent discount will apply to the museum's stock of books and past exhibition catalogues.

Slides and current exhibition catalogues are excluded from the sale. The usual 10 percent discount offered to Founders Society members who show their cards will apply on top of sale prices, except on at-cost items. All sales are final; there will be no refunds or exchanges.

Marathon Sale hours are 9:30 a.m. to 5:15 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Bach Brunch dates in June

Brunch with Bach, the Detroit Institute of Arts' popular, informal Sunday morning concert series, continues with four selections during the month of June.

The Plastic Wind Quintet will present music by Ravel, Barber and Larry Singer this Sunday, June 6. The following Sunday, June 13, Maria Cimarelli, soprano, Barbara Windham, mezzo-soprano, Phillip Mooney, tenor, Roger Jamison, baritone, Alden Schell, piano, and Mariellen Scott, piano, will perform Brahms' Neues Liebesliedert Waltzes.

Renaissance to contemporary works will be featured by the Detroit Brass Society Sunday, June 20. Donald Baker, oboe, Ron Fischer, violin, Hart Hollman, viola, and John Thurman, cello, will perform works by Mozart and Stanley Hollingsworth Sunday, June 27.

Two performances are scheduled for each Sunday, at 10 and again at 11:30 a.m. Reservations at $7 for the full brunch (main course, fruit, bread and beverage), $6 for a continental brunch (nut bread and butter, fruit compote, cottage cheese and beverage) and $3 (coffee and concert only) must be made in person or by calling the museum ticket office, 832-2730. It is suggested that children younger than five are too young to attend.

Take off your shoes.

Hit the deck in shorts and a tee shirt. Or your bikini if you want. You're on a leisurely cruise to remote islands. With names like Martinique, Grenada, Guadalupe. Those are the ones you've heard of.

A big, beautiful sailing vessel glides from one breathtaking Caribbean jewel to another. And you're aboard, having the time of your life with an intimate group of lively, fun-loving people. Singles and couples too. There's good food, a grog, and a few pleasant comforts -- but there's little resemblance to a stay at a fancy hotel, and you'll be happy about that.

Spend six days exploring paradise, and getting to know congenial people. There's no other vacation like it. Your share from $425. A new cruise is forming now. Write Cap'n Mike for your free adventure booklet in full color. For reservations only call toll free 1-800-327-2600.

Legal Assistant test scheduled

Registration is underway for the Tuesday, June 15, personal assessment inventory: a test required for entry into the Legal Assistant Program offered by the Division of Continuing Education at Oakland University.

Graduates of Oakland's program are highly employable in private law firms, in legal departments of corporations, by public utilities, courts and government agencies. Oakland's six-year-old program was the first in Michigan and is the only program in the Detroit area approved by the American Bar Association. The ABA recently recommended reappraisal of the program for a second five-year period.

The inventory, which measures language skills and levels of abstract reasoning, will be conducted from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Oakland Center Gold Room on campus. Prepaid registration of $10 is required. Legal assistant classes begin the week of June 21.

To register for the inventory and to obtain information about the Legal Assistant Program, call Oakland's Continuing Education office, 377-3121, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m.

Yachtswomen meet June 10

Yachtswomen gather Thursday, June 10, at 6 p.m. at the Great Lakes Yacht Club for a potluck dinner and a program of memorabilia presented by Marie Michaelsen, historian for the group. Hostesses will be Bonita Hernan, Carolyn Hodgson, Barbara Powell and Margery Randall.

Summer fun for Phase I

Phase I, the organization of single, young adults, ages 20 through 39, who meet regularly fall through spring on Sunday evenings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, swings into June tonight with the first in a summer-long series of Thursday evening outdoor volleyball games starting at 7 p.m. at Heilmann Field on Seven Mile Road, one block east of Hayes.

Those who can't make it for the game are invited to meet the group later at The Flying Machine on Kelly

Road in Harper Woods. Further information may be obtained by calling 521-2229.

A Phase I group takes off tomorrow evening, Friday, June 4, at 6:30 p.m. from the Memorial Church parking lot, headed downtown to watch the Tigers play Seattle. Post-game rendezvous spot is Greektown's Golden Fleece. And this Sunday, at 8 p.m., Phase I's traditional June dance will feature refreshments and favorite records, at Memorial Church.

METAMORA ISN'T FOR HORSES ANYMORE!

It can also be for tennis if you have your own tennis court, or, if you have your own pool, it can be ideal for swimming, sunning and just getting away from it all. This lovely colonial country home on 40 wooded acres in the heart of the hunt country has it all. Custom built by Herbert Micou, it contains a master suite with fireplace plus 3 other bedrooms and 2 1/2 additional baths. The inviting sunken living room has a fireplace and a large bay window providing a sweeping view of the hilly countryside.

Quarter century of marvelous summer music

The Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival, a presentation of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association, opens Sunday, June 27, with the Young Artists Debut Concert featuring William Ransom, winner of the Festival's Second Annual Piano Competition. Four additional concerts will be presented, on consecutive Wednesday evenings, during this 25th Anniversary Festival Season which ends July 28 with an outdoor (weather permitting) program by the Royal Canadian Legion Band from Stratford, Ont.

Pianist Ruth Laredo returns to the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium Festival stage July 7. The Tocco-Staples-Chanteaux Trio presents an evening of chamber music July 14. Grosse Pointe's Elizabeth Parcells, coloratura soprano, is the July 21 featured artist.

It's an impressive line-up . . . but then, John W. Lake, who retired last October after almost 30 years' service as the War Memorial's first executive director (the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival was under his guidance for 24 years), remembers the Music Festival's premier season as "modest — but most impressive. It offered three chamber programs, held outdoors in the Alger House courtyard."

"The courtyard, with its reflecting pool, proved to be the ideal setting for the opening of the Music Festival's first concert series," Charity deVicz Sucek recalls. "It was a magical night, and an unforgettable moment of beautiful music." Mme. Sucek whose son, Alex, founded the Festival and remains its artistic director, has been part of the Festival Committee from the very beginning. To this day, tickets in hand, she is busy selling the series.

Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford also has been attending the Festival since its first season, when violinist Gordon Staples, cellist Paul Olefsky and pianist Ruth Meckler (Laredo now, and playing for the Festival once again) were among the performers. Olefsky recently told Hixie he has no difficulty recalling the outdoor premier concert. "I remember it well," he says. "Especially when I still find a neatly pressed fish fly in my music!"

Five years ago this spring, Mrs. Sanford found herself walking down the aisle with John Lake during a Detroit Symphony concert intermission. "Hixie," said John "please join us at a meeting next Monday." When she left that meeting, she was a very surprised general chairman of the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival. She still is general chairman — but no longer so surprised.

Alice Lungershausen, another Festival supporter through the years, became general chairman in 1970. That year's season was co-sponsored by the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, of which Mrs. Lungershausen was immediate past-president. Proceeds from the Music Festival went to the DSO's Maintenance and Pension Funds.

The season included three concerts by DSO members, all of whom contributed their services. The first featured the Summer Festival Orchestra, Sixten Ehrling conducting. The last was a Viennese Ball with the Strauss Waltz Orchestra, conducted by Paul Freeman.

Assisting Alice to make that season an outstanding success was her ticket chairman, Mrs. Pierre V. Heftler. It was Margaret Heftler's idea to hold an informal "Evening of Chamber Music" concert rehearsal at the Heftler home. Those who were there still remember that night with delight. Participating musicians were Brian Schweickhardt, clarinet, Paul Ganson, bassoon, Clement Barone, flute, Ronald Odmark, oboe, Arthur Krehbiel, French horn, Jerome Rosen, violin, Haim Shtrum, violin, Philip Porbe, viola, and Nina de Veritch Smith, cello.

During her term as president of the Women's Association for the DSO, Rose LoCicero was asked by Festival founder Alex Sucek if the Association would consider acting as co-sponsor of the Music Festival's 13th season in 1970. It was Rose who turned the project over to Alice Lungershausen.

"The Grosse Pointe community reveals its character in many ways, and quite clearly through its support of the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival," Rose says. "Grosse Pointe is world famous for its love of beautiful surroundings, homes, gardens and gracious living. Its support of all the fine arts is also well recognized. It is quite natural, therefore, that the Summer Music Festival continue to flourish at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, its home, where the beauty of sight and sound join so magnificently.

"I feel privileged to have been in the audience at the Festivals, as well as to have served on the committee for the past 20 years — and I hope to continue to serve for many years to come."

Violenla Nelson cherishes a folder holding the Music Festival's first 16 seasons' programs. That was the period when she served continuously as a Festival Committee member. "Each year brought new musical interest, with the greatest of artists," says Mrs. Nelson. "The Music Festival has always and will always add to the beauty and enjoyment of summertime in Grosse Pointe."

Tickets for the 1982 Festival may be obtained at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Office and Village Records and Tapes on Kercheval Avenue. Hixie Sanford, 881-1256, and Mrs. William O. Bradley Jr., 886-0079, are also taking reservations.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth presenting, this week, more MEATLESS SPAGHETTI SAUCES.

TOMATO AND MUSHROOM SAUCE

- 1 cup onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 2 Tbsp. oil
- ¼ lb. mushrooms, sliced
- 1 can (16 oz.) Italian style tomatoes
- 1 can (6 oz.) tomato paste
- 1 can (10-½ oz.) condensed beef broth
- ¼ tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. black pepper
- Dash of Tabasco sauce
- ½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- ½ tsp. oregano
- ½ tsp. basil

In a large pot saute onion, garlic and mushrooms in oil until lightly browned. Remove and lightly cool mushrooms; return onion and garlic to pot. Add tomatoes, tomato paste, broth, salt, pepper, Tabasco and Worcestershire sauces. Stir thoroughly. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer about 1 hour. Add oregano and basil and cook for another 45 minutes. Stir in mushrooms long enough to reheat. Makes 3 cups. Calories about 215 per cup. Cholesterol 0.

VEGETARIAN SPAGHETTI SAUCE

- 1 pkg. dry spaghetti sauce mix
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 1 cup water
- 4 zucchini
- 1 small eggplant
- 1 small green pepper
- 3 medium tomatoes
- ¼ tsp. salt
- 8 oz. uncooked spaghetti, cooked
- 4 oz. part skim milk mozzarella cheese, grated

Cut the green pepper into ¼-inch squares. Cut the tomatoes into small wedges. Cut the zucchini into ½-inch slices. Peel the eggplant and dice into ½-inch pieces.

In a slow-cooking pot mix the dry spaghetti sauce mix with tomato sauce and water.

Add the zucchini, eggplant, green pepper, tomatoes and salt to the spaghetti mix. Cover and cook for 4 to 6 hours on low setting or until the vegetables are all very tender. Makes 6 servings.

Serve over freshly cooked spaghetti and sprinkle generously with grated mozzarella cheese. Calories about 85 per serving of sauce. Cholesterol 0.

Have you tried one of Elegant Eating's past recipes, loved it — and lost it? T.G. Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth maintain a file of all Elegant Eating recipes published in the NEWS, and will be happy to replace any lost ones. Simply send a description of the recipe, plus $1 postage handling-reproduction fee, to Elegant Eating, Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., 48236. Include your name and address, of course. Checks should be made payable to the Grosse Pointe News.

Let perennials do your work

Perennials, like spring itself, faithfully return year after year. With a minimum of tending and a small initial investment you can have a glorious garden that will flower forever, increasing the value of your home and, more importantly, bringing you joy each year.

Beginners, advises Mary T. Dillon in the June Reader's Digest, should start small. "Lay out a rough plan that includes plants of various heights and colors — and a succession of blooms so that you can have color from early spring to late fall." She recommends purchasing plants, because seeds for perennials take a long time to grow to blooming size.

Experts believe that the hardiest, easiest-to-grow varieties include peonies and Siberian iris for late spring, day lilies for summer. Undeatable daffodils will multiply. Gasplant or butterfly weed persist uncared-for for decades. "False dragonhead and ageratum spread so fast that some gardeners consider them invasive," says Dillon.

Your perennials will need lots of sun, so avoid any location overshadowed by large trees. Choose deep soil, with a minimum of rocks, that can be dug ahead of spring planting. Fortunately, perennial roots run deep; if the soil is well drained they will not require extra watering.

A green thumb is not a necessity with perennials. Neither is a large cash outlay. According to Dillon: "Some individual plants endure for 50 years or even longer. And most perennials can be split four-for-one or better every few years, and theoretically multiplied ad infinitum."

What is needed, she claims, "is a garden bench — a spot where you and friends can sit and watch the sun's slanting rays deepen the color of your garden's myriad blooms."

Pointer's first Prix will be grand—and well-planned

By Peggy O'Connor

Perhaps more than any other sport, automobile racing depends upon calculated movements and detailed planning. It comes as no surprise, then, that Daniel Wells has planned each turn of his burgeoning auto racing career just as precisely.

Wells, 23, and a 15-year resident of the Park, will drive in his first professional race this weekend. After a year of racing Formula Vee and Super Vee cars in amateur nationals, Wells' first pro race will be the Super Vee competition in this weekend's Detroit Grand Prix. The fact that he will make his professional debut in his hometown is only coincidental to the career schedule mapped out by Wells and his racing team.

"We planned on racing Super Vees as a stepping stone long before we heard about the Detroit Grand Prix. We planned on racing at Michigan International Speedway (MIS) and doing limited pro racing," Wells said. "The Detroit Grand Prix is a godsend. The publicity we've received in terms of drawing sponsors has been phenomenal. . . we never expected such success so early."

It's hard to believe that Wells' early success is a surprise. Each step he's taken in racing has been a long planned and well-calculated one — ever since the day he was flipping through a race magazine, reading about cars and how much it cost to get into racing. That's the day the planning began.

"I've always admired racing, it's always intrigued me. I've been to MIS and down to the hydroplane races on the Detroit River. I was bored with what I was doing, and after I read that magazine, I thought I'd get into it," Wells said.

WELLS WENT to a drivers' school, Bertil Roos Racing School in the Poconos, then saved his money and went to a second school. But it was his success at Bertil Roos that inspired him to try to make a career of auto racing.

"Bertil Roos was my first encounter with racing. The school only takes six students at a time and I turned out to be the fastest. Ever since then I've been building confidence and a lust for racing."

The people at Bertil Roos told Wells he had potential as a racer. Since then, plenty of others have agreed. Wells is an up and coming driver who has had little trouble gaining the sponsorship race drivers desperately need. And according to Wells, he also has another ingredient important to a successful driver: a good racing team.

The team includes Wells, the driver, his fiancée Kathy Lockhart, who serves as timer, Anne Lockhart and Bay Precision, Inc., team sponsor, George Mazuro, the crew chief, and his two mechanics. Signet Investments is also a sponsor and promoter.

The team includes Wells, the driver, his fiancée Kathy Lockhart, who serves as timer, Anne Lockhart and Bay Precision, Inc., team sponsor, George Mazuro, the crew chief, and his two mechanics. Signet Investments is also a sponsor and promoter.

Wells

Wells began his career four years ago with a few races, spending his own money and racing for experience. Last year, in his first full year of racing the Formula Vee in nationals, he got a few sponsors. "I went off the road a few times and had a few minor accidents, which is typical of a young racer, but I was pleased with the results and the performance of the team," Wells said. The team's performance was good enough to warrant attention from several more sponsors.

Wells made his way to the national level of competition by racing in regionals. "It's a low-cost way to have fun and gain experience. Drivers are granted a national license when they've driven in enough regionals." Regionals and nationals are amateur races, with no purse money.

AS HE MAKES the jump from amateur to pro racing, the change in the caliber of racing will be as substantial as the one he experienced going from regionals to nationals. Wells' ability to make the adjustment to that change has been taken into consideration by the team in plotting his course in racing. The Wells team has set its sights on the Indy circuit by 1985.

"The first step toward this goal was racing the Super Vee this year. Basically, this year is a learning experience. This race (the Grand Prix) is an experiment for us. We planned on doing a limited amount of pro racing this year to see how it goes. We're doing it for a learning experience so next year, when we race the full series, there won't be any surprises."

Super Vee racing has become racing's talent pool. A number of Indy and Grand Prix drivers are Super Vee grads, among them the late Gordon Smiley, killed in an accident at Indianapolis in May.

"It's really one of the best training grounds. The guys in Super Vee are dedicated to working at making racing a career. Super Vee racing offers an excellent combination of professionalism and cars which are reasonably well-matched. There are so many attractive things about Super Vees," Wells said.

When he does graduate to Indy racing, Wells will have to adapt to the difference in cars. The Super Vee resembles Grand Prix and Indy cars, but are lighter (weighing just under 1,000 pounds), restricted to narrower tires, and use Volkswagen Scirocco engines, which produce about 200 horsepower.

That adjustment, when the time comes, will have to be made — all in accordance with the Wells' team plan. And the plan's goal, the Indy circuit, seems within reason to Wells.

"THAT'S OUR objective and as far as mechanics go, we're all set. Me — I'm still learning. As a racer, I'm very hard on myself. When I make mistakes, I go out and work harder. When something isn't going right in a race, I'm always thinking, always looking for a better way around the track."

Concentration, Wells added, is an absolute must for a race driver. "Once the engine starts I think about the race and that's it. I've been developing my concentration and my driver ability. I'm always thinking about my opponents and trying to set them up — to be thinking about how to get by them or who I have to block."

In spite of the remarkable way things have fallen into place for Wells in his racing career, he is still an amateur with his first pro qualifying race ahead of him and a lot to learn — and he knows it.

"I can drive a car fast, but I still have limited testing abilities in terms of sorting a car out. For example, as far as 'setting up' a car, I can tell my crew chief how it's steering or accelerating, but I wouldn't be able to tell them what adjustments to make.

"I'm still pretty much learning as far as setting up a car. In fact, I'm just past beginning to learn about it."

But as Wells said, "the only way a driver is going to get better is to be out there in the car, testing and driving all the time."

Driving and testing at every opportunity is all part of the Wells' team plan . . . if that helps make Wells a better driver and reach the team's Indy goal, then things are right on schedule for Dan Wells.

Tigers win Ruth League first half

The Babe Ruth Tigers defeated Colonial Federal (Woods), 20-0, on May 23. Lee Bauer spearheaded a 14-hit Tiger attack with a grand slam homer. Rick Jungwirth, Rob Wood, and Dave Fellows each had two hits while Bill Adlhoeh had three hits to pace the Tiger attack. Matt Lane was the winning pitcher. This victory clinched the first half championship for the Tigers as they won their eighth game without a loss.

In other American League action, the White Sox defeated the Indians, 9-5 on May 22. The White Sox offense paced by Steve Goodrich, Frank Hennessey and Dick Clarke. Jed Reganti and Eric Doelle led the Indian attack. Steve Gedman was the winning pitcher. On May 22, the Yankees defeated the Red Sox, 11-8. Troy Brown led the Yankee attack with three hits followed by Richard Jones and Kirk Bevier who had two hits each. Jim Rauh and Mike McFarlane each had two hits to pace the Red Sox offense. Jerry Henry was the winning pitcher.

On May 24, the Tigers squeaked out a 4-3, extra inning victory over the Yankees in one of the best played games of the season. The Tigers' Bob Gillyool pitched well for the first five innings and left with the score tied, 3-3. Wood pitched excellent baseball in relief as he won his fifth game of the season.

The winning run was scored in the bottom of the eighth inning on singles by Fellow, Peter Muer and Bill Adlhoeh. Fellows also had a triple and Anthony Eugenio had two doubles in the Tiger attack. Steve Butala and Steve Kinsley hit back-to-back doubles to account for the Yankee runs. Jones pitched very well for the Yankees, striking out eight Tigers.

The Indians defeated the Red Sox, 6-5 on May 24. Dave Spindler won his own game with a RBI single that scored Doelle with the winning run in the bottom of the seventh inning. Joel Palumbo scored three runs and Scott Evans had two hits to pace the Indians' attack. Connolly's triple and two hits each by Jason Colegrove and Matt Calcaterra led the Red Sox attack.

On May 26, Pioneer Furniture (Woods) defeated the Red Sox, 9-3. Pioneer scored three runs in the second, fourth and sixth innings. The Red Sox offense was led by Connolly and Steve Dara who each had two hits and Rick Waugaman, who doubled. Spezia was the winning pitcher. The White Sox defeated the Tigers, 12-6 on May 26. The White Sox attack was led by Steve Goodrich and Derek Stevens. Lane paced the Tiger offense with a triple. Steve Goodrich was the winning pitcher.

The Tigers, first half winners, were led on offense by Anthony Eugenio with a .636 batting average. Rob Wood (.429), Matt Lane (.417), Jeff Cunningham with (.411), and Lee Bauer with (.381). Peter Muer, Bill Adlhoeh and Bob Gillyool added steady hitting and excellent fielding support. In the pitching department, Wood was 5-0 and Cunningham was 3 and 1.

Rookies Dave Fellows and Tom Fellows along with Rick Leonard and Rick Jungwirth made their presence felt with significant contributions while Jeff Steele provided a steady influence for the young outfielders. Ted Nugent kept score while recovering from a broken leg. The Tigers are led by manager John Hoben and coach Dick Nugent.

Crown Club champs

The 1982 women's volleyball season at the Neighborhood Club was a far cry from the Club's first season in 1973. This season, more than 300 players on 28 teams played volleyball at Brownell School on Monday and Tuesday nights — far surpassing the 1973 total of five teams.

The 1982 final league standings follow.

Division I: Metrol Company (7-1), James Orlando Hair Unique (7-1), Harper Sport (5-2), Romano's Raiders (4-4), Callaghan's (3-5), Simmon Insurance (3-5), City Limits (2-7) and Jerry Schoenith Enterprises (1-7).
Division II: Dutch Treat (8-0), Alligators (5-3), Charlie's Angels (5-3), Bon Secours Cruzers (3-5), Psych-Outs (2-6) and Grosse Pointe Memorial Church (1-7).
Division III: Robert Loomis and Associates (7-1), Larry's 7-1 (6-2), Union Street (6-2), Steelers (4-4), Crazy Eights (2-6), Nite Moves (2-6), Pirates Cove Village Shoes (2-5) and Your Place II (1-7).

Tuesday Division: Captains II (6-2), Clark Brothers (6-2), Dutch Treat Too (6-2), Bumpers (4-4), Mancini's Market (2-6) and McMillan Brothers Inc (0-8).

After eight regular season games all teams participated in a double elimination playoff tournament.

In Division I James Orlando Hair Unique and Harper Sport were in the finals. James Orlando came out on top. The champs include: Dona Griffin, Gini Bruce, Ann Belloli, Sue Payne, Kathy McLaren, Nancy Marston, Debbie Schroeder, Martha Schroeder, Marie Cerku, Karen Krause and Meg Svenson.

The Division II champions were Charlie's Angels, who came from the losers' bracket to defeat Dutch Treat in two matches. Charlie's Angels were

ULS alumus is top netter

University Liggett School alumus Kris Robbins is continuing his outstanding tennis career as a member of the Dartmouth College varsity squad.

No. 1 state singles championship in 1980 and to place second in that competition in 1981.

This summer Robbins will be an instructor at the University Liggett Tennis Camp.

Physical fitness has taken on a new meaning for third graders in Shelley Livermore's class at University Liggett School.

While competition is an element of the physical fitness unit, its goals are many and integrate several academic areas.

A letter winner

Freshman Jeff Measelle of the Pointe has been awarded a varsity letter for his performance with the Brown University men's swimming team.

Park's Wehmeyer is Carleton honoree

The Park's Lisa Wehmeyer is one of 10 women athletes honored with special team awards from the Carleton College Interscholastic Women's Athletic Board.

She is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Wehmeyer.

Carleton College, located in Northfield, Minn., has just completed its finest year ever in women's sports.

Senior Cathy Maher (above, center) will compete for South High in the state track finals this Saturday, June 5.

South girls set track records

South High's girls' track team set two league records and three school records last week as the squad raced to a fourth place finish in the 18-team state regional meet.

In the regional meet, South's 1600 meter relay team of Jennifer Meehan, Val Stone, Cathy Maher and Meg Moisen smashed a school record by six seconds when they finished first in 4:09.8.

at the state finals in Flint this Saturday, June 5.

Freshman Moisen will also participate in the 400 dash in the state finals.

South junior Val Stone also took All-League first place honors in the 800 meter run with her time of 2:24.9.

finishes in the hurdle events. She holds the school records for both hurdle races.

A number of other outstanding performances were turned in at the league meet.

Little League ends May action

The Farms/City Majors played several games last week prior to the holiday weekend.

Led by the strong hitting of George Snow, Gordie Maitland and Andy Smith, the Pirates knocked out 15 hits.

innings, with Calcaterra striking out eight, walking one and giving up one hit.

Mark Belanger led the Reds' offense with five hits, while Calcaterra, Wright and Rudy Stonish each had three hits.

Crown champs

Robert Loomis and Associates won the Division III playoffs by defeating Union Street.

South spring sports season nears end

South's boys' varsity tennis team was once again crowned F.M.L champion on May 14 and tied with North for the Regional championship on May 22.

The team slaughtered L'Anse Creuse North in a dual meet on May 10, 7-0.

Top South players in the Grosse Pointe Invitational were No. 2 and 3, Tim Luzadre — Greg Rivard and Casey Grow — John Strabel — Steve Kornmeier.

Winners were Kornmeier at No. 1 singles, Bill Kahr at No. 2, Tim Stubenruch at No. 3 and Peter Wack at No. 4.

South JV softball: The JV raised its record to 7-5, winning four in a row and seven of its last nine games.

Dana DeSmyter was South's top player in a 2-1 loss to Mt. Clemens.

Medalists in the meet were Mike Arbaugh, high jump, Nigel Orton, two mile run and Paul Hedemark.

South softball: The team has been very unsuccessful in recent weeks, with games against East Detroit, Mt. Clemens, Port Huron Northern and Roseville all ending in losses.

The first of these losses was to East Detroit, 11-6. Despite a home run by Chris Coddens and a triple from Julie Miller which accounted for all six runs, South still lost.

A 9-1 loss to Mt. Clemens was a "mess" according to Hooper. With a one-run lead, South gave up nine runs in the seventh inning.

South's 10-6 loss to Port Huron Northern was another "bad game," as the girls gave up five unearned runs.

Softball is in season at Club

Softball is definitely in season at the Neighborhood Club with the Men's League play underway and the High School League gearing up for post-season, double-elimination tournament play.

A record number of teams and players are registered in the Men's Slow Pitch League.

Big week for Park league

It was a busy pre-holiday week for teams in the Park Instructional League, with four games on the schedule.

In the first game, Navy beat the Marines, 12-1. George Petersmark and Richard Nelson were the winning pitchers and Petersmark and Dany Cummins each belted two homers.

Tremonti, Hoyer and Mark Schoeneger pitched for Army in the loss. Jenny Wysocki, Danny Minadeo and Mike Stephens were the winning pitchers for the Marines.

Other fine efforts were turned in by Kathy Emmerich, Janice MacMichael, Barb Giroux, Megan McCoy, Cathy Trombley, and Kristen Campbell.
