Four Democrats compete for Senate's 1st District

By Susan McDonald

Incumbent State Sen. John Kelly faces opposition for his 1st District seat from State Rep. Thaddeus Stopczynski, insurance executive Thomas Cavanaugh and factory worker Robert Lee Wade in the Democratic primary Aug.

On the Republican side, John Lauve, of Grosse Pointe Woods, is the lone candidate. Lauve last ran for local office in 1980 when he sought the party's nomination for the 14th District Congressional seat. He lost that vote to Victor Caputo by an eight-to-one margin.

The Democratic primary promises to be a lively one. Kelly has been representing the 1st District since 1978 when he was elected to his first office. Since then the district has been expanded under the state reapportionment process and, while it still includes all five Pointes, it covers more of Detroit's north and east sides as Kelly, 32, and the father of two children, is a former Wayne State University political science instructor. He wrote the legislation making possible Wayne County's current reorganization which will be completed when a new downsized board of commissioners and a county elected officer are selected this fall.

Kelly considers the Wayne County legislation his most important accomplishment since he came to the Senate. But he also boasts of shaping most of the economic development legislation that has come through the legislature during the last few sessions.

"I think I'd be able to represent this district better than Kelly because I tend to get both Demo-cratic and Republican support, being basically an independent," Stopczynski said.

Kelly says of his opponent: "He's never done anything of consequence during all his time in the legislature. I've picked big issues. I'm in a leadership position, third in line in the Senate as majority whip. I can accomplish more."

Kelly said the "massive turn-over" in the Senate this year makes the election more impor-tant than ever. "We have an important opportunity to make said, was his amendment forcing changes we've been working on the state to pay interest on late for a long time. To develop an

It was a long, leisurely and luxurious weekend for a lot of people at the Pier Park last week. Hot dogs plumped, frisbees flew and sun tan lotion was everywhere. For some it was a time to splash in the pool or bat a tennis ball around. Others preferred the solitude of a good book, the feel of warm grass and the companionship of a flock of wheeling gulls.

Trustee campaigned for seniors

By Susan McDonald

The new Industrial Arts building at South High School is known as just that — the IA building. There are no plaques with fancy titles. That's because Laurance Harwood was school board president when the million-dollar vocational building was dedicated.

"He was absolutely against any kind of plaque being put up or any name that would honor him," said current board president Jon Gandelot. "That's just the kind of man he was. He never thought of him-

That kind of sentiment is repeated often by the friends and acquaintances of Mr. Harwood, who died on Sunday, July 4, at Harper Hospital. He was 70 years old, but you would have never known it.

Mr. Harwood could often be seen around town, usually riding his bicycle or in his Moran Road garden pursuing his favorite hobby. He began his second career in public service after his first career, as a Michigan Bell Telephone Co. executive, ended with retirement. He served for eight years on the Grosse Pointe Board of Education from 1973 to 1981. It was typical of him that he began his work on the board when his four sons had already completed their educations in Grosse Pointe's public schools.

Mr. Harwood often described himself as the senior citizens' representative on the hoard and much of his work there was directed to bringing that group into the public education fold

"He was concerned from the beginning with senior citizens and that was a thing most people didn't think much about 10 years said William Peters, director of Grosse Pointe's public lib-

After two terms on the board Mr. Harwood retired, saying it was time for a fresh viewpoint. He switched gears then and began work with the Foundation for Academic Enrichment, the Vestry at Christ Church, a citizens committee studying future utilization of school buildings and the Friends of Grosse Pointe Public Library, of which he was vicepresident last year.

He always felt the library was an important part of the commundirector Peters said. "We're certainly going to miss him around here."

Frank Sladen, another active member of the Friends, called Mr. Harwood one of the "finest, most unselfish people involved in public service here.

'He loved this area and worked very hard for it. He was interested in everything and everybody. When he talked to you, it was as if you were the most important person in the world."

One idea he the Republican Convention was in clearly understands is the need to town. Arthur chairs their two anhelp people.

Arthur, 33, is normally known for his work as chairman of the Clown Corps, a group of local residents who don make-up and funny costumes to entertain at special events.

They've appeared in the Firemen's Parade in Detroit and have been a highlight of the North High School and Wayne State Univer-

He's also known as the "Mayor of Mack Avenue," a title earned from businessmen he works for and from whom he solicits donations for charity.

Arthur is different, but not to his friends at the Woods City Hall.

He appeared there as a Boy Scout, offering to do "good deeds" after he finished his regular job as a warehouse worker for the Harold Ray Lucas Company, where he's been employed for the past 15

Arthur advanced to becoming a volunteer city employe, offering his services free of charge. He soon expanded his volunteerism to Harper Woods, working with their Department of Parks and Recrea-

Arthur's hard work was recognized and the Woods appointed him as a "honorary councilman", reserving the first seat in the audience for him, complete with brass name plate.

Arthur is different, but not to all the police and firemen of the Pointe. He makes regular visits to their departments, dropping by to chat with his friends. Naturally, the Woods Public Safety Officers are his favorites. He showed it when he helped raise hundreds of dollars for their Para-Medic division by organizing a skate-a-thon.

In fact, Arthur is fantastic at raising money for good causes. Ask the Grosse Pointe Jaycees. Arthur is a member and one of their champion money-raisers. Last year he sold 600 jars of jelly during their annual fund raiser to fight Reyes Syndrome. He sold them in one week.

It was a week's vacation taken from work without pay. On Halloween night, he tours his neighborhood soliciting funds from neighbors for the fight against Reyes.

Does Ford have a better idea?

The reaction was evenly divided last week on Henry Ford II's proposed 18-unit condominium complex on Lakeshore Road when the News polled shoppers in the Village about Ford's plans.

Ford petitioned the council on June 2 to allow construction of the two and three bedroom units on his property at 457 Lakeshore near Provencal Road. In his letter Ford petitioned the council to rezone the property to a one family attached cluster district. The home has been empty for the last two years.

The Farms Council has scheduled a public hearing on Ford's request for Aug. 23

Mary Meniaci, the Park: "I hate to see those beautiful homes torn down because they don't build them like that anymore. I would like to see them Betty Cox, the Woods: "I think it's a great idea. Why leave all that property sitting out there? The condos are what we need.

Sarah Kaysserian, the Park: "I don't think they should build them, but rather preserve the beauty of that property."

Owen O' Rourke, the Park: 'Well, it doesn't affect me too much, but it's starting something we could do without. I like to see him (Ford) keep the property pretty much the way it is now Jacques Bajer, the Park: "It's outrageous! It's highly opportunistic and moneyoriented without considering who made Grosse Pointe what it is now.

Mary Meniaci

Thomas A. Eggleston, the Farms: "I don't have any opposition to it. There's really no way out of it. Who is going to buy a home like that with all those rooms?

John Logan, the Woods: "It's purely a business approach."

Kevin Granger, St. Clair Shores: "I think it's a good idea. The standard of living is changing. Mansions are going the way of the dinosaur.

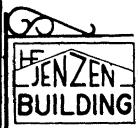

Warren Gauerke, the Farms: "I don't have any objection. Big houses are not practical and the condos are more of a practical solution. I would ask the council to approve the zoning request."

Owen O'Rourke

Donna Fournier, Detroit: "Who wants a house with that many rooms? It's a shame, though, that one of those homes has to go. I drive along Lakeshore everyday. If it were single homes they were proposing, it would be super.

Robert Fellin, Indian Village: "I think it's a good idea. Condo living is in and it's being utilized elsewhere. You don't see too much of it in this area. It's almost time for it.'

Another comment included: I hate to see the condominiums, but maybe that's the way some of the property has to go.'

Emergency ordinance regulates video games in the Woods

In addition, the owner of the machine must have one off-street parking space for each machine. Such parking is over and above that required by the city for the type of building.

An arcade operator, however, will have to provide two off-street parking spaces for each machine. The spaces will be over and above the required number of spaces for any existing occupant or business in the same building. The city defines an arcade as any business with more than four machines.

The parking requirement was justified, Mayor George Freeman for injuries and $50,000 for propsaid, because "the one re-occuring erty damage." problem in this city has been

An adult supervisor will be present at all times while the machine is operating, and no child under 12 will be allowed to play the games unless accompanied by a parent or legal guardian, under the ordinance.

The machines can only be used and during the summer.

Machine owners will be required to carry $50,000 worth of personal injury insurance, $100,000

An applicant can appeal to the council for a machine license if unable to meet the parking requirement if the applicant can show the waiver of the requirement will not "create an undue parking problem or be injurous to the surrounding neighborhood.'

That requirement, councilmen said, would allow bars and from 3 to 11 p.m. during the taverns in the city whose business school year, and from 10 a.m. to doesn't begin until others in the 11 p.m. on Saturdays, Sundays area close to get machines without having to meet the off-street parking place requirement.

> A flat prohibition of games, like the ordinance recently enacted in Grosse Pointe City, would be subject to legal challenge and would most likely be struck down by the courts, City Attorney George Catlin said

> But one man who had applied for permission to open a game room in the city with between 12 and 15 machines said the ordinance is aimed more at erecting a 'Great Wall in Grosse Pointe' against the games.

Gordon Reck, a Detroit businessman, said the combination of coupled with the parking requirement and the dead zone left no room anywhere in the city where an arcade or game room could be opened.

Reck applied last March for permission to open an entertainment center at the former Michigan National Bank of Grosse Pointe location. The bank had decided to move to another location on Mack and was evacuating its

He showed the council some "respect" by waiting for the city to enact some kind of ordinance before putting in the arcade, something the council did not reciprocate, Reck said.

"There just isn't any place to go in the city with this ordinance,' he said. They didn't want to regulate, they wanted to prohibit video games."

Reck said the off-street parking requirement was too stringent, pointing out the game room business is a turnover business. "You don't have 25 cars parked there all day," he said, noting that most players stay for about an hour.

Reck said his gameroom would elm tree loss the licensing fee, which he said is double that of any city in the area, have been strictly patrolled to ensure a family atmosphere, offering a place for teens in the area to go without the attendant pool hall atmosphere.

> "Any place can be a hangout," he said. "Where is there for a kid to go in Grosse Pointe?'

Reck said he was unsure of what to do with his request. It was just a matter of waiting for the city to reject it or withdrawing the request, he said.

Either way, Reck said, there is no chance he will fight the ordinance in court, adding, "they've probably seen the last of us." The gameroom has to fight an uphill battle because it means a change for the community, he said. don't think Grosse Pointe would ever be ready for it. I'm just trustrated, very frustrated."

Councilman Frederick Lovelace disqualified himself from voting on the ordinance and was barred from discussion. Lovelace said he has an interest in Grosse Pointe Video Entertainment, a company that leases video games.

Davey to study

An Urban Forestry Research Program designed to measure the effects of Dutch elm disease, was considered and approved last month by the Park City Council.

The program will be conducted by Davey Environmental Services and will determine the loss of property value, if any, because of the removal of diseased elm trees. This information would provide a basis to evaluate the cost effectiveness of Dutch elm disease control programs.

Included in the research program will be both the Park and the Woods, at no cost to either city. Because of the national need for information of this type, it is anticipated the U.S. Forest Service will fund the project through the state or an experiment station. The Woods budgeted $7,830 for tree removal in 1981-82. The Park spent about $60,000 for tree removal during 1981-82.

Davey Environmental Services will conduct research on two sample homes, appraising the property value of the homes both before and after the removal of the diseased trees.

Davey Environmental Services has performed an inventory of the trees in the Park and according to City Manager John Crawford, the research program would aid Davey in their inventory service.

Assistant Prosecutor Patrick Foley said was left to be repaid from the $76,000 the couple had embezzled over three years.

Both Barris and Foley said an audit would be done of Mrs. Morrison's accounts to determine if the couple had fully repaid the diverted funds. The couple had already repaid $19,000, and will pay any additional amount the audit can turn up, he said.

Barris said Mr. O'Brien was sentenced to the halfway house because Chief Circuit Judge Richard Dunn opinioned O'Brien convinced his wife to commit the embezzlement. O'Brien said he had cashed checks totally $29,000 that had been written to him at that had been written to him at the couple's arraignment.

Both the Wayne County Probation Department and Barris recommended probation for the socially prominent couple, Barris said, because full restitution had been made and the O'Briens had no past criminal offenses.

Foley said he had recommended jail terms for the pair and would not comment on Dunn's sentence. Both could have been sentenced to prison terms of from six to 10 years, he said.

The O'Briens pleaded guilty in May to charges of embezzling $76,000 from Mrs. Morrison during three years Mrs. O'Brien was the household manager and personal secretary, responsible for paying bills and domestic staff salaries.

Wayne County candidates speak July 13

An "Evening With The Candidates" program will allow members of the public the opportunity to meet the Democrats running in the August primary for the new Wayne County Executive Post. Sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Democratic Women's Discussion Group and the Grosse Pointe Democratic Club, the program will be held on Tuesday, July 13, at 8 p.m. at the home of Ed and Alice Candidates planning to speak are Detroit City Councilman Mel Ravitz, Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas and Ed McNamara, mayor of Livonia. John C. Schonenberg, Jr., president of the Grosse Pointe Democratic Club, will serve as moderator.

Caputos off to Tucson

Former television newsman Victor Caputo, who made an unsuccessful bid for Congress in 1980, has moved to Tucson, Ariz., where he is anchoring news shows on KOLD-TV, a CBS af-

Caputo's wife Sandy and their three children are in the process of moving from their Grosse Pointe Shores home to join Vic on a five-acre ranch outside the city, Mrs. Caputo said last week. Caputo worked for WJBK-TV in Detroit as a newsman and talk show host. He quit his successful television show to run for Congress in the 14th District after 10-term Cong. Lucien Nedzi retired. Caputo, a Republican, lost the race to Democrat Dennis Hertel by a 90,000-78,000 vote, despite a three-to-one victory over the Demo-crat in Grosse Pointe.

After the election, Caputo was named executive director of Partners in Michigan Foundation, a non-profit organization headed by gubernatorial candidate Richard Headlee.

Mrs. Caputo said the family is excited about Tucson, but will miss Grosse Pointe. "We'll always be back for vis-

"Before we go, though, I really do want to thank all those people who worked so hard for Vic on the campaign. We owe a lot to many, many people here," she said.

Rules change on flare guns

Remember, sportsmen, when State Attorney General Frank Kelley told you to go out and register your flare gun pistol because it was a handgun, or face criminal charges? Remember buying permits to purchase and carry the flare guns? Remember having them inspected and engraved with identification numbers?

Well, forget it. The state legislature recently passed new laws covering flare guns pistols that took effect Thursday, July 1, and remove many of the restrictions on the flare guns.

The purchaser of a flare gun under the new law no longer has to obtain a permit to purchase a handgun and have it safety inspected and registered as a handgun.

In addition, flare guns can now be bought, sold, transported and carried without fear of facing concealed weapons charges, a felony that carries a five-year maximum prison sentence.

Those who have the guns, however, will face the felony firearm law if the flare gun pistols are used during the commission of a crime, Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber said The felony firearm law carries a two-year man-datory prison sentence on conviction. The flare gun pistols can be used for navigation purposes, Ferber said, and the new laws impose strict penalties, both criminal and civil, for uses other than as navigation signal devices. Ferber said he has mailed out information to boaters and former dealers who carried the flare gun pistols and had to take them off the shelves after Kelley's September, 1981, opinion that said they should be considered handguns.

Police departments are no longer assigning serial numbers to the flare pistols for registration purposes, Park Police Chief Henry Coonce said. Police are also no longer accepting licenses for the purchase and safety inspections, either, since they are no longer needed under the new law.

The flare gun pistols are strictly for navigational use, Patrolman William Duster in the Woods said, "You can't bargains, but two Detroit women found more than they bargained for Friday morning, June 25, at two Woods garage sales.

Bargain hunt catches pair

Rose Dizazzo, 74, and her daughter Pasqualina Miller, 56, both of Detroit, were arrested by Woods police in con-nection with two reported thefts from garage sales on South Brys and Vernier Road. Both women were released later that day.

Police were called to the Vernier Road sale by the owner who said someone had taken a red blazer from her back yard without paying for it. The owner said a woman who she later identified as Miller came into the yard about 11 a.m. that day and allegedly took a red linen blazer, worth about $15. Miller then left, the woman told police, without paying for officers checked other sales in the area, and discovered Miller at a ga-rage sale on South Brys. When asked if the blazer was hers, police said Miller told them she had bought it at J. L. Hudson's. She agreed to follow police to the Vernier Road sale and clear up the matter.

On the way, police said Miller took a different route and when stopped, said she was dropping off Dizazzo, who was late for work. Dizazzo got out of the car, reports said, and started walking toward Mack along Holloywood.

When they arrived at the Vernier sale, the owner identified the blazer as hers. Miller said she would give the coat back, but was placed under ar-rest, reports said. Miller and her car were taken to the station.

Police questioned the owner at the Vernier sale, asking if Miller had been with another woman. The owner said yes, but added Miller drove away and left the other woman at the sale.

Police received a call from the South
Brys sale operator, who said she had sold a pan to Dizazzo. After she left, the owner noticed two stainless steel candle sticks and two white candles missing.

Police said they checked Miller's car at the station and found the pan and candlesticks along with other merchandise. Police found Dizazzo on Mack near Van Antwerp, and arrested her.

The pair will be arraigned Wednesday, Aug. 4.

Crim to lead Sunday worship

Hymn-Fest Worship is a good de-scriptive term for the summer worship at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church this Sunday, July 11.

Mort Crim, supported by clergy as liturgists, will lead the entire worship. His active churchmanship, theological training, and his musicianship prepare him to serve his congregation in this leadership capacity. Hymnody oc-cupies a tremendously significant place in Protestant worship. Crim will speak about this as well as make remarks about each of the hymns used. Hymns old and new have been chosen and will be so arranged as to support the progress of the worship experience.

The service, which will also feature baptisms and a junior sermon, begins at 10 a.m. A coffee fellowship follows on the church lawn

Detestable silver-eaters generate big bucks for cities

By Paula Brownlee

There seems to exist a natural animosity between Grosse Pointers and those ugly gray money gobblers that line the business districts of the Woods, Park, City and Farms. These machines can never be fed enough, always pop-ping up that inevitable "expired."

Despite the dislike of these silver eaters, parking meters do provide a large amount of revenue for the cities that employ the minute counters.

In the lead of meter-generated revenue is the City, followed by the Woods, Farms and Park.

The City's 734 parking meters generated $118,214 last year. City Manager Tom Kressbach said meter-generated revenue will fall short of the anticipated $115,000 by an estimated $5,000, leaving the City with a total revenue of $110,000 for this fiscal year. He attributes this to the bad economy. Parking meter violations generated approximately $30,000.
"Our system is one of the largest in the Pointes," Kressbach said. "We receive revenue from attendant lots that are not included in the parking meter revenue.

Second in line is the Woods. Last year its 860 time tickers. clocked in $103,800. The up-to-date total of this year's revenue for meters alone is $111,300. The money collected through violations for expired parking meters totaled $131,000 in 1980-81 and so far this year has earned $113.000.

And if Woods residents have any hopes of those machines ever get-ting yanked, they can forget it.

Woods Comptroller Frederick Hornfisher said the city needs that revenue. "The parking is short in the city and we use that money to try to keep it up and get more parking," he said. "It costs money to make parking lots and to upkeep the meters, this way we don't have assess the taxpayer

From January to December of 1981, the Farms collected $82,000 from its 500 to 600 parking meters. Revenue generated from parking meter violations amounted to $26,000.

According to Lt. Ignatius Backman of the Farms Police Department, and revenue generated from parking meters and violations is not that much, considering the expenses incurred by the parking meter operation. Backman said part of the generated revenue is used to pay for a patrolman who spends one-third or his time issuing parking viola-tions. Also costly is the replacement and maintenance of parking meters, snow removal in the lots and maintenance of parking lots.

Fourth and last in generated revenue is the Park. Its 300 parking meters netted $34,434 for fiscal year 1980-81. The projected revenue for 1981-1982 is estimated at $35,000. But Nunzio Ortisi, Park comptroller, said the actual revenue collected will be $5,000 under the projected rate.

Ortisi blames the bad winter we had last year that might have kept people home. However, the Park's meter violations revenue increased by a substantial $20,000 this year.

Commissioners make other plans

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners will drop from 27 members to 15 in January under the new county charter and, already, 15 current commissioners are certain not to return because of elections in which incumbents face-off, retirements and plans to seek new elective offices.

In three districts, including Grosse Pointe's, incumbents will be running against each other in the November election or August primary. In the 1st District, covering Grosse Pointe and Detroit's east side, incumbents Ervin Steiner, Jr., and Norbert Wisniewski face each other. Democrat Wisniewski faces a challenge in the primary from State Sen. John Hertel. Steiner will compete for the Republican nomina-tion against Wayne County Charter Commissioner Barbara Gattorn.

Other districts with incumbent batties include the 5th where Clarence R. Young and Paui G. Citkowski are running and the 14th District where William G. Suzore and William Sullivan are opposed.

Four Detroit commissioners will retire at the end of this year. They are George Killeen, 3rd District, who has served seven terms; Rose Mary C. Robinson, 9th District; Maxcine Young, 11th District, and John J. Korney, 17th District.

Another commissioner, James J. Rashid from Dearborn, is a candidate for state senate, running against in-cumbent George Z. Hart, a former county commissioner, in the state's 10th district

Seven other commissioners are campaigning for State Representative.

He has been a member of the Board of Commissioners for 10 years. He wants to represent the 11th District.

Former Board Chairman Jarrette Simmons, the only female ever to hold that position as an elected official, is campaigning for representative in the new 14th District. All the districts this year are new, based on census data compiled every 10 years with boundary changes required according to redistribution of population and state statute.

The others include: Thomas Presnell, from Westland, seeking a State Representative seat in the 38th District. Presnell has served on the board of commissioners since 1977 and is a member of the department of public works and Detroit-Wayne County Mental Health Services Board.
R. William Joyner, from Plymouth.

North High students will find something new this fall when classes resume. If they try to cross illegally west of the designated Vernier Road crosswalk at the school's entrance, Woods police will meet them with pens and ticket pads ready.

Ticketing is part of the education-enforcement program which will be run jointly by the school and the city this fall, Public Safety Director Jack Patterson said, in hopes of making the entrance safer for pedestrian and vehicular traffic.

The program will involve the school pinpointing areas of major violations and scheduling talks with Woods traffic officer Patrick Fagan to discuss the proper way to cross the entrance and the consequences of violating, he said.

The education program by Fagan will tell students what the problems are at the school entrance, where and how to properly cross the street and a warning that violators will be ticketed, Patterson said.

Unlike previous campaigns, the tickets handed out by officers will not be warnings, but pedestrain violations with fines and students anniversary season will feature chamber music by the Tocco-Staples-Chanteaux Trio. The concert begins at 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 14, at the War Memorial Center, 32 Lakeshore Road, which sponsors the Festival series

Trio members are pianist James Tocco, violinist Gordon Staples and cellist Marcy Chanteaux. Their performance in the Memorial's Fries Auditorium will include the Sonata for Violin and Cello by Rayel, three Chopin pieces, the Ballade No. 3 in A-flat Major, Op. 47, Berceuse, Op. 57, and Barcarolle, Op. 60; and Beethoven's Trio No. 7, Op. 97 (Arch Duke)

Pianist Tocco made his Festival recital debut last season. He has recently performed with the Orchestre de la Suisse Romande, the Royal Liverpool Philharmonic (with Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip in attendance), the Zurich Tonhalle Orchestra, at the Spoleto Festival in Charleston and has toured Japan. He made several European tours last year, performing in the Salszburg Mozart Festival and throughout Germany During the summer of 1980 he appeared at the Hollywood Bowl with the Los Angeles Philharmonic and at Wolf Trap with the National Symphony

Born in Detroit (the youngest of 13 children), Tocco's early studies were with Boris Maximovich, which led to a scholarship at the Mozzarteum Summer Academy in Salzburg and a subsequent French Government grant to study in Paris under Magda Tagliaferro. He completed his musical training with Claudio Arrau. Tocco The third concert of the Grosse has been a member of the music fa-Pointe Summer Music Festival's 25th culty of Indiana University since 1977. Violinist Staples was one of the seven artists who performed at the Festival's premiere season 25 years ago and was instrumental in founding the Summer Music Festival.

Staples was born in Los Angeles and began studying the violin at the age of 6. When he was 10 his family moved to Vancouver, Canada, where he studied with Gregori Garbovizky. He began concertizing at the age of 13 and 14 he was made staff soloist for the Canadian Broadcast Company. He graduated from the Philadelphia Academy of Music where he studied with Jami Szanto. His studies continued in New York with D.C. Dounis.

He performed extensively in the .S., Latin America and Canada before joining the Detroit Symphony Or-chestra in 1955. Staples was named concertmaster of the DSO in 1968, and has trequently appeared as solvist with the orchestra Cellist Chanteaux was heard in a chamber recital during the 1980 Festival season with Staples and pianist Leonard Pennario. Born in Aberdeen, S.D., Ms Chanteaux's early musical training was in piano, harpsichord and cello. At the age of 16 she was awarded the National String Competi-tion Award. Before joining the DSO as a pianist in 1970, Chanteaux was cellist with the Washington National Symphony. In 1981 she became the DSO's official pianist. After four years she moved to the cello section and in 1979 was chosen assistant principal. Ms. Chanteaux is a member of the Brio Trio and the Wayne State University Festival guests are invited to attend a reception honoring the artists in the Fries Crystal Ballroom following the concert. Pointers Mrs. J.C. Hurlet and Mrs. Winfield S. Jewell, Jr. are reception co-chairmen.

The remaining two concerts will be held on consecutive Wednesdays, at 8 p.m. Soprano Elizabeth Parcells, a native Grosse Pointer, will start on July 21 with the Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Carl Daehler. The concert will be held in the Fries Auditorium.

The Festival's closing concert on July 28 will feature the colorful Royal Canadian Legion Concert Band from Stratford, Ontario, conducted by Paul Cross. Three marching Bagpipers and drummer in full kilts will appear with the band. It will be staged outdoors on the Lakeside Terrace of the Memorial's Alger House. Contest winner perfectly honest person will admit that longevity is the ultimate goal in life. In spite of the trials and tribulations which are part of living, there are not many who would willingly volunteer to forego the experience of their statistically-allotted years of 75 to 80 and now stretching into the century range.

Congressman Dennis Hertel (second from left) recently paid a visit to North High School to offer his congratulations to Karla Groesbeck (center) whose pencil sketch was selected as the winner in Hertel's recent art contest for high school students. Karla's artwork will be displayed later this year in a special national exhibition in the corridor leading to the Capitol. The Congressional art competition, conducted for the first time this year, is part of "An Artistic Discovery," a nationwide activity initiated last February by members of the House of Representatives to recognize the creative talents of young Americans. Looking on were runner-up Donald Scott Houseman (left), art teacher Eileen Hayes (second from left) and runner-up Natalie Safron. An honorable mention designation went to Hilary Kubista of University Liggett School.

Desirable as those later years are, they come with a price tag. One price is the gradual slowing down of the body and its reluc-tance to obey the impluses that the alert mind wills it to carry

How many times have you heard your friends, neighbors and yourself say "I may be old in years but inside I'm still 21." (A more down-to-earth gentleman I knew, admitted to being $37.50).

So be it. It is that spirit that refuses to let the body dictate activities and interests that keep the image of "forever young" alive.

However it is not that easy. We just can't say "forget you" to the body. "I will not let you make me into a dispirited broken-down shell. I'm going live my life as

The only way to win the war of mind and spirit over the gradual physical limitations that come with age is to employ the same tactics brought to bear by diplomats and arbitrators. Forestall with compromise.

For instance, the 20-year old inside thinks it would be fun to disco until 2. The 65-year old body says enough already. Turn if off at 12 and stick to what you were brought up on — the foxtrot or possibly a little rock and roll." A happy medium has been reached. You've proved that you can still dance up a storm and the body goes home pleasantly exhilirated but not exhausted.

ANOTHER THOUGHT. That demanding body will not tolerate neglect. Putting off physicals, disregarding warning signals, ignoring definite problems will result in a breakdown of that body with the possible result that the youthful spirit will flicker and die. When that happens added years cease to be a blessing and become a bur-

One of the reasons that people, both old and young, shy away from doctors until they are really ill is a fear that they will hear something they would rather not know, which is too bad because almost every ailment associated with the aging process can be helped. Take arthritis for instance. The very word evokes a spector of fear and pain. People think of getting old, being unable to get around and of becoming dependent upon others. More so than any other disease, the term arthritis carries with it a sense of hopelessness and futility. But the very opposite should be true. According to "The Arthritis Helpbook" by Kate Lorig and James F. Fries, (Addison-Wesley) all arthritics can be not just a single disease, that there are more than 100 kinds of arthritis which have something to do with one or more joints of the The word arthritis means "in-flammation of the joint." The areas together with pen-and-ink term comes from the Greek words arth, meaning joint, and itis meaning in flammation. But in many kinds of arthritis, the joint is not inflamed. A better description might be "problems of the

While there are 100 types of arthritis, there are only two major ypes - rheumatoid and osteoar-

Rheumatoid arthritis is more than just arthritis. Some doctors term it rheumatoid disease because of the body aching and that accompany fatigue rheumatoid arthritis.

About one-half of 1 percent of our population has rheumatoid arthritis which is about one million persons. The second form of osteoarthritis involves the spine. Bony growths (spurs) appear on the spine in the neck region or in the lower back. Usually the bone growths are associated with some narrowing of the space between the vertebrae. This time the disc rather than cartilage is the material that becomes frayed. Changes in the spine begin early in life in almost all of us, but cause symptoms relatively seldom.

The third form of osteoarthritis involves the weight-bearing joints, almost always the hips and knees. These problems can be severe. It is possible to have three kinds of osteoarthritis or any two of them but more often a person will have

Prognosis is excellent for all forms of osteoarthritis. The good news is that osteoarthritis will not necessarily become worse with age. It may get worse for a while and then become stable for a long time. A joint that has lost cartilage may not function well at first, but with use the bone may be molded and polished so that a smooth and more functional joint is developed. Even the worse cases of osteoarthritis progress slowly. Consequently there is lots of time to get treatment.

One of the most important things you can do to help arthritis is to exercise Exercise leads to increased strength and flexibility in the muscles and ligaments surrounding the joint. In addition research has shown that exercise helps to maintain or increase the strength of bone.

"The Arthritis Helpbook" has an excellent chapter on exercise outlining the benefits, principles and types of exercise and what should be avoided. Included are diagrams that show exactly how to do the exercise to obtain the most benefit.

Another chapter is given over to protection of joints which is particularly important in rheumatoid arthritis. Included here are photographs and text showing tricks and devices that miminize stress and pain while maintaining mobility and function and conserving

There is a chapter giving 100 hints and aides if general mobility or finger coordination are impaired. Again, photos and text show exactly how to follow through on the suggestions given.

Relaxation exercises seem to be helpful in relieving pain. With this in mind, the authors have included several relaxation techniques.

One of the most frequent problems associated with arthritis is depression. Usually the first concern that sends people who suffer from arthritis to the doctor is relief from pain. In a chapter on the drug scene, the authors point out that drugs for arthritis are not simple. and a full explanation takes a lot of time. Unfortunately that time is not always available.

The most important arthritic medicines reduce inflammation. Inflammation is part of the healing process. The body increases blood flow and sends inflam matory cells to repair wounded tissues and to kill bacterial invaders. Inflammation causes the area to be warm, red, tender and often swollen. In rheumatoid arthritis, inflammation causes damage and thus suppresion of the inflammation can be helpful. In osteoarthritis there is little inflammation or the inflammation may be necessary for the healing process.

A description of various medicines used for arthritis, what they are, what they do, dosages and side effects is included in the discussion on medicines. Enlightening and helpful as this book is, it is not a substitute for professional care nor is it a treat-yourself manual It is meant to enlarge upon and to enlighten those with arthritis on the professional guidance that should be provided by their doctor.

To this end, it contains advice on how to communicate with the doctor of your choice. Three points are stressed. Come prepared (make a list of what you wnat to know). Ask questions (how many aspirins? what kind of exercise?) Discuss your problems (I would like to lose weight, but I just can't diet).

Be a CAD: Come prepared; ask questions; discuss problems.

Shores man arrested for robbery man was arrested Tuesday. June 29, by Woods police in connection with an unarmed robbery at Little Caesar's Pizzeria, 19619 Mack

The man, who police would not identify, allegedly walked into the pizza parlor about 11:15 p.m. and asked when the store would close, according to reports. He supposedly said he hoped he would be able to return before closing.

He returned 10 minutes later, according to reports, closed the door behind him, walked behind the counter and allegedly told the person working behind the counter, "I don't want to hurt you. Give me all your money."

The worker pointed to the register, and after cleaning it out, the man reportedly asked where the rest of the money was kept. He then took a tancolored bag with the rest of the night's receipts from under the counter, re-

The man allegedly stuffed the bag down the front of his pants, and, after pulling the receiver cords out of the telephones, fled on foot, reports said. Police spotted the man walking into Cromwell's Tavern near Mack and Moross after an eyewitness description had been broadcast to all units. Officers blocked the exits and went into the bar, spotting the man. He was asked to come outside, and according to reports, left without a struggle.

He was arrested and searched. Although police found two syringes and a bottle cap with a small, foil-wrapped packet, no money was found on him, reports said. Police searched trash bins between the pizza parlor and the bar, and finally the interior of the bar. The tan bag containing $550 was found inside the tank of a toilet in the men's rest-

Warrants have been issued in the man's name charging him with robbery-not armed, police said.

Register kids now for summer reading program

according to reports.

The Children's Department of the Grosse Pointe Public Library is sponsoring a Summer Reading Club program for Grosse Pointe children to encourage reading for the sheer fun of it. The approach is informal, stressing individual initiative and ability rather than mere numbers of books.

All children who can read are eligible to join. Registration began June 1 and continues through Aug. 1. Children should register at their local branch.

The theme for this year's Summer

Reading Club is Camp Wanna-Read-A-Book. Bookmarks, recommending books on grade levels 1 to 8, are available in the Children's Room. Children may read any book they prefer as long as it is in the library collection and at the child's reading level. Booklets are available for children to record their

A minimum of 10 books must be read over the summer to qualify for a reading certificate. Seals, ribbons and stars are added to the certificate for books read over the minimum of 10

As a finale to the summer activities, members are invited to attend a party at their library in mid-August. Chil-dren are encouraged to come dressed in camp clothes with funny hats and participate in a morning of games and

Two views on the income tax

In their respective newsletters to their con-the present levels of human services would only stituents, the two state legislators who represent the Grosse Pointes sharply differed again over the issue of the six-month increase in the state income tax.

Because both of these legislators will be facing the voters again this year and because the income tax hike has become highly controver-sial, in part because of the debate of guber-natorial candidates over the issue, we think it is worthwhile to compare and contrast these

REP. WILLIAM Bryant, Jr., the GOP leader in the House, said, "The decision to provide $300 million by the emergency six-month one percentage point increase in the income tax was done only after severe cuts have been taken over two years and after a four-week search by us for further responsible cuts.

"In 1978, the state general fund was $3.8 billion. This year, it is $3 billion in 1978 dollars. State budget as a percent of personal income is the lowest in 10 years and in real dollar terms the budget is the lowest in 10 years. Our spending is down 6 percent from two years ago, the federal government's is up 24 percent. State employment is down 10,000. In 1979 an ADC family got 100 percent of the federal poverty level; now they receive 65 percent. In 1979 they got $531 and now get under $500, worth only $380 in 1979 dollars.

"While we would have cut some more than did the governor, we reached the critical point where further substantial cuts would have become very damaging." Bryant added that "cutting $300 million more could not have been done responsibly, could not have been done without unfair cuts in welfare and severe damage to schools, colleges, universities, local units of government and other essential programs and "I have supported and will continue to support the programs which aid both K-12 and higher education, mental health and necessary urban and social programs. However, over the past four years I have also found that many other programs in Michigan are wasteful, inefficient and need major changes in terms of their operations before the public can accept them as credible.

"As I did with my bill on the reorganization of Wayne County when it became too bloated and inefficient, I must be dedicated to first reforming state government before we talk about increasing taxes to expand services. I know it can be done on the state level and I will spend the next four years pursuing that objective."

Both legislators expanded on their explana-tions for their votes on the income tax increase but these quotations contain the heart of their arguments. In this newspaper's view, Bryant acted responsibly and Kelly took the popular route, even though he voted against his own Democratic leadership which controls the

WE DO NOT doubt that further cuts could be made in state services. Nor do we doubt that there are tax loopholes that could be closed, as Kelly suggests. But in the time frame available to the Legislature to take action to balance the budget it was obvious that meat-axe cuts of the size required or an increase in the state income tax on a temporary basis were the only politically viable alternatives. And the Democratic leadership in the Legislature agreed with the governor on that point.

Both Bryant and Kelly are running for reelection, although in slightly revamped districts as a result of reapportionment. But voters would do well to keep in mind the explanations offered by the two men for their votes on what

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

The place to be in The Pointe this weekend is the Grosse Pointe War Memorial where the 10th annual French Market offers Saturday and Sunday delights for men, women and children. In addition to the traditional can-can dancers, an entertainment highlight will be the Madame Cadillac Dancers and Musicians (see pictures to the right of this column) appearing in authentic costumes as they perform dances of the late 17th century under the direction of Harriet Berg.

More entertainment will feature Jim Oakley, comedian and juggler, George Zeff, singer, and various other vocalists and instrumentalists, all arranged for by Janet Schroeder, who is in charge of this phase of French Market festivities.

Looking for treasures? Check out the Flea Market, chaired by Danielle Van Assche, and the Bazaar, under Dorothea Vermeulen's direction. Want to raise a glass or two? Russell Axsom and Ken Hillier head a corps that will be dispensing beer; if that's a bit too plebian for your taste, pop on over to George Skaff's booth for still or sparkling wine.

General concessions chairman is Gay Gilegan. Decorations and posters are the responsibility of Charles Collins. Vera Axsom is coordinating the Market's many volunteers: no small job when you consider that it's open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday. Audrey Jennings is in charge of publicity, Louise TeWalt of raffle tickets.

And whatever you do, don't eat before you hit the Market! The food is, as you might expect, fabulous and VERY French. There'll be sandwiches and beverages, served up under the direction of Denise Controulis and Mahie Skaff, and a pastry and gateaux table, under Dorothy Newhouse's direction, that we defy anyone to by-pass. General chairman of the Market's food booths this year is Angie Rooks.

The French Market is presented each year by the French Festival of Detroit, Inc., a non-profit corporation, founded in 1973, to further the interest of the people of metropolitan Detroit in their city's French heritage. Warren S. Wilkinson, Dorothea Vermeulen, Edward Marande and David M. Thoms are the French Festival's current president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary, respectively. Directors are Eileen Barry, Charles Collins, Audrey Jannings, Arthur Rooks and Janet Schroeder

The Festival has provided substantial support to Wayne State University via donations for the furnishings (Continued on Page 4B)

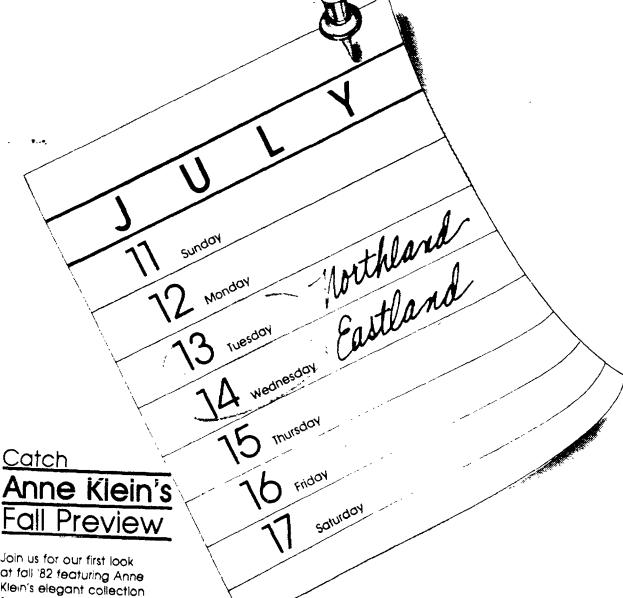

Can-can to pavanne . . . there'll be entertainment to please every dancing taste at this year's French Market. And there'll be pleasures for other tastes as well: Gailic food, fun and finds at the two-day extravaganza presented by the French Festival of Detroit, Inc., at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Bidding you come and enjoy it all Saturday, July 10, from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and/or Sunday, July 11, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. are (directly above, left to right) DOROTHY NEWHOUSE, in charge of the Market's pastry and gateaux, WARREN S. WILKINSON, French Festival president, ANGIE ROOKS, general chairman-food, DAVID THOMS, French Festival secretary, JANET SCHROEDER, entertainment chairman, who has arranged for (among other tings) performances by the authentically-costumed Madame Cadialiac Dancers and Musicians, and DANIELLE VAN ASSCHE, in charge of the Flea Market.

Put A Little Luau in Your Life

Grosse Pointe seismologists are predicting an eruption of fun at Mount St. Maschmeyer (that's the lovely Renaud Road home of Mr. and Mrs. Troy W. Maschmeyer, in case you didn't know) on Saturday, July 24. There'll be an endless flow of hors d'oeuvres and an Hawaiian dinner, complete with succulent, pit-roasted pig and fresh fruit for dessert - and, to keep the natives happy, a complete open bar.

The luau, a benefit for the Northeast Guidance Center, sponsored by the Center's Assistance League, is open to the public at $30 per person. It's co-chaired by Mrs. George Shammas and Mrs. Robert G. Vallee whose committee includes Rosemarie Lamb, Ruth Lucas, Ruth Cisco, JoVona Cisco, Karen Christman, Lillian Caputo, Cheryl Waldeck, Sandy Koester, Beth Kastner, Kathy Heitman, Mary Berndt, Sharyn Mannino, Jane Marshall and Lisa Vallee. Reservations may be made by calling the Northeast Guidance Center office, 824-8000.

An Elegant Lakeside Evening

The Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and Jacobson's of Grosse Pointe are joining forces to present this fall's first super fashion show. "Toujours Trigere" is set for Saturday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m., and Pauline Trigere, world-renowned couturiere and fashion authority, has promised to come to town to personally present her Retrospect Collection along with her 1982 Autumn Collection.

But that's still two months away . . . and Jean-Pierre Radley, Ms. Trigere's son and president of Tri-gere, is coming to town a good deal sooner — this Saturday, July 10, to be exact, to show his mother's superb vintage collection at an exclusive preview party for Toujours Trigere Benefactors at the lakeside home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Yates II in Grosse Pointe Park, where background props, in addition to blue water and red sails in the sunset, will include Mr. Yates' vintage Rolls Royce collection.

The party starts at 6:30 p.m. Committee members will be models for the informal showing of Trigere's timeless designs. Among those serving under Mrs. E. David Auer, general chairman of the elegant evening, are Mrs. John E. Young, Jr., arrangements, Mrs. Charles H. Dalgleish Jr., invitations, and Mrs. John St. Clair, reservations.

Pauline Trigere was born to Russian immigrants on the Place Pigalle. She grew up in her father's tailor shop and earned pocket money by picking up scraps of fabric off the floor. At 13, she designed her first dress. Her early marriage to Lazar Radley, also a tailor, gave her two sons, Philippe and Jean-Pierre. The Radleys left Paris in 1937, intending to move to Chile, but stopped off to visit friends in New York and decided to stay in Manhattan. The marriage ended in 1941. By 1942 Ms. Trigere was in business with her brother. By 1945 Trigere was an important name in the New York fashion world. She designs today as she always has: by shaping the fabric on a live model. Her boundless energy carries over from her workroom to a very active social life, for she attends dinner parties, theater, concerts and ballet regularly, regrouping her energies on weekends at La Tortue, her country house near New Canaan, Conn., where she also

To bring back the bald eagle

The Michigan United Conservation gram will provide funds of materials for the platforms. Clubs will try to bring the bald eagle back to southeastern Michigan as its contribution to the observance of 1982 as the Year of the Eagle. The citizens' organization has announced that it will construct seven eagle-nesting platforms in three locations in the Lower Peninsula this summer, with major assistance from Detroit Edison and the Department of Natural Resources.

We hope these nests are going to look like giant 'For Rent' signs to young adult eagles looking for a place to set up housekeeping," says Tim Eder, MUCC field representative who is coordinator for the project.

The potential nesting sites were selected when Eder surveyed coastal marshes with Sergej Postupalsky, nationally known authority on bald eagles and DNR wildlife biologist. The sites are located on the Monroe County shoreline of Lake Erie, the St. Clair Flats in northern Lake St. Clair and on Saginaw Bay.

The first two nesting platforms will be erected in mid-July in marshes surrounding Detroit Edison's Fermi Nuclear Power Plant north of Monroe. According to Postupalsky, the Fermi plant site has habitat containing an ample supply of food for eagles and offers unparalleled protection from public intrusion by virtue of the plant's security.

Eagles have successfully raised young at other artificial platforms erected in Michigan under Postupalsky's direction. Osprey nesting platforms also will be erected at the Fermi site and in the St. Clair Flats as part of the MUCC project.

In addition to offering its property for nesting platform sites, Detroit Edison has made an outright contribution of $2,500 to the eagle project. The DNR's Coastal Zone Management Pro-

Eder says that contributions from individuals, schools and sportsmen's clubs will finance other expenses of the project. Donations, which are tax deductible, may be sent to the MUCC Eagle Fund, Box 30235, Lansing, Mich.

It is believed that all seven sites will be used by eagles — if the expanding population trend continues over the next 10 years. The sites are in prime eagle habitat, large, shallow, secluded marshes with tall trees nearby, and have plentiful supplies of carp, sheep-shead and suckers for eagles to feed on. Three of the sites were used by eagles when the last nestings of the species were reported in southeastern Michigan in the late 1950s and 1960s.

Osprey and eagle populations gradually declined through the first decades of the century as their habitat was destroyed. Then fish in the Great Lakes, their main food source, became contaminated with the pesticide DDT, widely used in the 1940s and 50s, which caused eagles to lay eggs with shells so thin that they broke when they were

By the late 1960s and early 1970s. Michigan's eagle population had reached a low of about 80 nesting pairs and virtually no birds nested along the Great Lakes.

But with the DDT ban in Michigan in 1969 and nationwide in 1972, the state's eagle population has gradually increased. Today, Michigan is home to more than 300 eagles, ranking the state fourth behind Alaska, Minnesota and Wisconsin in the number of annual residents. Michigan's largest concentrations are in the western Upper Peninsula and the northeastern Lower Peninsula.

Schatz earns Olympic training chance

Amy Schatz, 16, of Trombley Road, just completed a special training program established by the United States Gymnastics Federation at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo. The program was designed to prepare the country's best rhythmic gymnasts for national and interna- Gymnastic Team to compete in the tional competitions.

training camp after competing in this year's National Championships held in Fort Worth, Tex. Her seventh place finish earned her a spot on the national team.

Internationally, Schatz has competed in the 1981 World Championships held in Munich where she and her teammates finished 11th in the group event. The young gymnast hopes to be a part of the first U.S. Rhythmic 1984 Olympics. The event will make its Olympic debut in Los Angeles. Schatz is one of 35,000 potential Olympians who have used the Center's facilities since it was opened in the summer of 1978. Miller High Life of Milwaukee is the national sponsor of the Olympic Training Center. Located at the former Ent Air Force Base, the Complex accommodates 550 athletes. All expenses for the athletes are borne by the U.S. Olympic Committee.

Alla Svirsky is the head coach of the gymnastics training program at Col-orado Springs. Svirsky led the gymnasts through six hours of daily workouts at an area high school. In addition, the team attended a one-hour meeting each day with a team of sports psychologists.

Class A honors for a top class North infielder

North High baseball coach Frank Sumbera called John Mueller one of the best infielders ever to play for North. That's high praise coming from a man who has coached state championship players - but that praise was more than justified in June when Mueller was named to the 1982 Class A All-State team.

The honor, bestowed by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association, was one of many Mueller received after his record-setting year with the Norsemen this season. He also was named to the 1982 All-State Dream Team, published in the Detroit Free Press June 27, was elected to the 1982 Detroit and Michigan All-Star teams, was voted All-Bi-County for the second year in a row and was North High's most valuable player. He was earlier honored as most valuable player for his Alpena Tournament per-formance of seven-for-10, with five doubles.

Mueller, who also earned a spot on the All-Region team, played third base and shortstop for this season's Norsemen. North finished 24-9 overall, won the Bi-County championship for the fourth straight year, and was rated No. 7 in the final state baseball poll.

Mueller led the Norsemen in hitting with a .491 average. He also led the team and collected school records in runs scored, 42, hits, 54, and in doubles, 18. He was third in home runs with five and his total of 32 RBI was second on the squad. Mueller holds the North High record for highest lifetime batting average of .468 with 88 hits in 188 at bats. He had the second highest at bats in 1982 with 110.

Mueller's bat was obviously an asset, but Sumbera says that it was in the field that Mueller was most important to the Norsemen. "He has excel-lent fielding skills and a very strong throwing arm. His best position is at third, but he played most of the season at shortstop because of our need there," Sumbera said.

Despite his relatively small size (5 foot 9, 160 pounds), Sumbera says Mueller possessed good power to the opposite field, although he is basically a line drive hitter. And although Mueller did not participate in other sports at North, Sumbera says he does have ample athletic ability.

"He is an excellent hockey player and will pursue both hockey and baseball in college." Sumbera said.

Yacht Club swimmers continue win streak

By Margie Reins Smith

Grosse Pointe Yacht Club swimmers started the 1982 season by continuing their long-term winning streak. Chalking up their 38th and 39th straight victories, GPYC defeated Plum Hollow on June 23 by a comfortable 138 points. On July 1, GPYC defeated Dearborn Country Club, 594-358, at home.

This summer marks the beginning of a new 46-event program for Michigan Inter-Club Swimming Association meets. For the first time, 8 and under boys and girls are competing not only in 25-meter freestyle events, but also in breaststroke, backstroke and butterfly. "This is an experimental program, but I'm sure the MICSA will vote to continue. It's going very well,' says GPYC Coach Tom Teetaert.

At the Plum Hollow meet, several GPVC swimmers collected four first place awards. Seven-year-old Asnley Moran placed first in the girls' 25meter breaststroke, backstroke and freestyle. The winning 8-and-under girls' 100-meter freestyle relay consisted of Ashley Moran, Julee Mertz, Alicia Cytacki and Courtney Young-blood.

Krystin Strong swept all four of her events by taking blue ribbons for girls' 13 and 14 50-meter breaststroke, backstroke and butterfly. She was on the winning girls' all-ages medley relay with Ann Mitchell, Sandy Smith and
