HE MAY NOT be doing the sagging Tigers much good these days, but it clearly helps to have center fielder Kirk Gibson on your team when you're arguing zoning variances with the Park City Council With his arm in a cast, Gibson and a girl friend appeared at the council's last meeting to try to persuade the city fathers to deny the ball player's

Country Club of Detroit, an attorney and a real estate broker to push his point. In the end, the baseball but proved mightier than the tennis racquet as the council ruled against the doctor and told him to stick to the legal, six-foot high fence around the court.

IF HARPER'S BAZAAR says it's so, then it must be true. In this month's issue, former Pointer and South High School graduate Wendy Whitelaw, daughter of former Grosse Pointe News reporter (now head of public relations at St. John Hospital) Pepper Whitelaw, has been named one of the top image makers on the New York beauty scene, Looking chicly punk on page 141. Wendy warns against using "too" much mascara and "too" much lip gloss. Who wants to kiss lips so shiny you might slip off, asks she? Elizabeth Arden's Eight Hour Cream is the one beautifier no woman should be without, warns Wendy, Another image maker merely recommended finding a rich man. Take your pick.

SIGN EM' UP Tigers! Police officers from the Pointe and several Macomb County Departments in the Macomb Metro Police Team captured the 11th annual National Softball Tournament held in Dayton, Ohio last month. The team beat out 63 other departments from all over the country, going undefeated throughout the entire tournament.

The victory came on the heels of another victory in the Niagara Falls Police International Tourney held in Buffalo last June. Our boys in blue once again were undefeated, trouncing teams from the Big Apple and Long Island in the finals.

Pointe players included Shores PSO John Trevillian, Woods Det. Michael Van De Ginste and Farms Ptl. Mark Brecht, who was voted most valuable player.

If you want to see them in action, they'll try to finish the season on a triumphant note this weekend when they'll compete in the World Classic Police Softball Tournament at Jayne Field. Games are Saturday and Sunday They'll compete against teams from Japan. New Zealand, Mexico and others. Jayne Field is located at Charles and Conant, in Detroit. Don't worry about the location. Everyone on the field will be a cop.

FRIDAY THE 13th-Part IV. In our "Let's reinforce the Grosse Pointe Stereotype" section this week is the story of the City woman who lost an $8,000 bracelet while walking her dog last Friday evening. According to police reports, the platinum bauble was studded with 33 diamonds. She's not sure, but she thinks she lost it somewhere around Lakeland Avenue. Dropped off while brushing against her mink, no doubt.

Clyne murder suspect worked in Woods

By Tom Greenwood

Woods officials have confirmed that accused mass murderer Coral Watts worked for a local cement company contracted to repair city sidewalks during the summer of 1980.

Watts, the number one suspect in the October, 1979, murder of Farms resident Jeanne Clyne, worked as a cement mason for the Grosse Pointe Asphalt Maintenance company from late June until mid-August, 1980, according to police sources.

Watts, 28, currently under arrest in Houston, has confessed to 11 murders in Texas and is the prime suspect in at least five slayings in Michigan.

Jerry McNamara, administrative aide in Grosse Pointe Woods, said the recent revelations about Watts in the newspapers and on television triggered a bell in his memory.

Once I heard about this guy, something started itching in the back of my mind," he said. "I went back through our records, and sure enough, there he was. I immediately notified the Farms police, of course."

McNamara explained that Watts applied for work through the Wayne County Employment and Training Administration (CETA) at an intake center in Highland Park. CETA in turn works with many private sector employers to help train unskilled workers and give them marketable skills.

"Our contract was with a group called the Private Industry Corporation," said McNamara. "Grosse Pointe Asphalt Maintenance was a member. They had a contract to repair our city sidewalks and to train CETA workers. Watts put in his application on June 18, 1980, and was accepted on June 30. He terminated his employment on Aug. 15, 1980. He said something about having to go to a wedding or reunion. He left, came back in a couple of weeks, collected his pay and was gone.

McNamara recalled Watts as a pleasant person. "As I remember he was very personable. Handsome and clean cut. There was nothing to make you suspect anything in his background. He looked like the all-American kid."

Farms Det. Earl Field confirmed that Watts has been the primary suspect in the Clyne killing since September, 1980, after receiving a teletype from Ann Arbor police requesting information pertaining to the recent slaying of three young women in the Ann Arbor

All three women had been stabbed repeatedly in the left chest area, as was Mrs. Clyne. One of the murders occurred on July 13, 1980, while Watts was employed to work in the Woods.

According to police reports, Watts is suspected of three murders in Ann Arbor, six in Detroit, one in Kalamazoo, one in Grosse Pointe Farms, one in Southfield, one in Royal Oak and an attempted homicide in Windsor.

In the Windsor attatck, Watts fessed to investing thousands of allegedly crossed the tunnel and returned within two hours. In that time a lone, white female, walking home from a night school class was stabbed in front of her home. She did not die and has tentatively identified Watts as her attacker, police say.

Watts, sentenced to a 60-year prison term earlier this month after pleading guilty to burglary with intent to murder in a May 23 incident in Houston, in which he attempted to drown a woman in a bathtub, has agreed to discuss as many as 30 unsolved murders of women, but only if he is granted immunity from prosecution and extradition.

On Aug. 11, Farms Chief of Police Robert Ferber requested a letter from Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan requesting the county drop future prosecution of Watts in return for information on the Clyne killing. Cahalan granted the immunity on prove it. At least this way we'll be able to clear the case and ease a lot of minds.'

Farms police officials have pro-man hours investigating the Clyne killing. Mrs. Clyne, 44, was found stabbed to death on the evening of Oct. 31, 1979. Her body was discovered on the side walk along Kercheval Avenue.

Besides using scientific evidence gathering and processing techniques, police officials also utilized tracking dogs, psychological profiles of the killer, hypnotists, artists and psychics.

Farms police also revealed that they re-staged Mrs. Clyne's killing one year later on the anniversary of her slaying. At that time, they had a police woman, in civilian clothes, re-trace the murdered woman's last known route. She was under police surveillance all the while she re-walked the route.

"We were willing to try anything," said Det. Sgt. George Van Tiem. "You don't know what kind of a mind you're dealing with. It was worth trying if he happened to enjoy re-visiting the scene on its anniversary.

Police also revealed that there was a possible witness to the killing. According to their reports, a Pointe resident was driving down Kercheval and reported seeing "a commotion" on the sidewalk. The person said it "looked like two dogs fighting in the leaves, except I knew it wasn't dogs and something was wrong." The witness, who reportedly had a child in the car at the time, turned down a side street before passing the murder spot.

Watts has been characterized by police as a very intelligent person, who frustrated surveillance efforts by the very randomness of his acts.

Friday, Aug. 13. Farms Det. Earl Field flew down to Houston yesterday to question Watts. Ford's housing "This case has been very, very frustrating to us over the past few years," said Field. Aug. 23, when Henry Ford II is expected to be on hand to petition for the re-zoning of his property at 457 Lakeshore to allow construction of an 18-unit condominium development.

If granted, the complex would be the first condominium subdivision on Lakeshore Road. Currently, the 76-room mansion remains unoccupied on the 7.85 acre parcel, which stretches from Lakeshore Road to Kercheval Avenue. Ford has reportedly tried to sell the home for the past several years without success.

In his petition, Ford will ask the from its present R-1-AA one fam- nearly eight-acre site. One family ily residential district designation attached residential cluster dis dential cluster district.

Ford will also ask the council to approve the site plan filed at the Farms city hall and to grant a variance of the 50-foot side yard requirement for the existing pool building to 34.6 feet.

William Caldwell, of the Caldwell Equity Corporation. proposed developers of the property, will make the presentation at the council meeting for Ford.

'Many persons apparently have the wrong impression of the word

'condominium' in this case," he Farms city fathers are expect- said. "It isn't row upon row of ing a full house at their next homes stuck together. They're condominiums in the legal sense only that there is joint use of the land with money to maintain it. We are doing our best to utilize the land and create open space. We intend to save the trees and formal gardens.

> The site plan submitted shows 18 units (10 two-bedroom and eight three-bedroom homes, all with two-car attached garages) interspersed along a meandering road running between Kercheval Avenue and Lakeshore.

Homes are attached via a shared garden wall, while two homes are joined at a corner. Proposed density of the developcouncil to re-zone the property ment is 2.25 units per acre on the to RC, one family attached resi-trict (RC) is allowed to go as high as four units per acre.

Citizens anguish over elm loss

The scene above in which Cal Fleming workers are removing a large elm from a city street is a common one in the Pointes at this time of year when the warm, dry weather brings out signs of

If you think those towering elm trees are disappearing too quickly from your block, think again. Local city officials agree it's wise to remove diseased trees as quickly as possible before they infect other trees.

Dutch Elm Disease.

The hot summer months of July and August are when the cancer of the tree world — Dutch Elm Disease or DED — is most evident as foliage begins to wilt and turn

Residents frequently complain to city hall that trees are cut down much too soon, alleging the pockets of tree removal companies are being padded with a little extra business.

That has been a rumor now for the last four or five years," said Chris Matthew, community development coordinator in Grosse Pointe City. "If they want to call us killers, let them go ahead. We do what we have to do.

The City lost 45 trees to DED so far this year. It removed 88 DED trees in 1981.

The City paid Shock Brothers, vate property. By city ordinance, Inc., $10,800 for tree removal in just 10 days last month. Citizens have spent over $30,000 to save the trees with injections, according to city officials.

"We're worried about the trees, too," Mrs. Matthew said. "We want to get trees down as promptly as we can. It's really for the resident's benefit to remove the trees expeditiously so the disease doesn't spread.

Because Grosse Pointe's elms are so large and were planted so close, root transmission of DED is common, officials say. City Manager Thomas Kressbach estimates 20 to 30 percent of the trees are infected through root contact with a diseased neighbor.

Mrs. Matthew said the city makes the final decision if a tree should be removed. This year, the City bid out removal costs per tree, averaging out to about $450.

Do you like Cable TV?

It started with a cable ordinance passed in January, 1980. With that the five Pointes and Harper Woods were on their way to receiving cable television. A little over two and a half years old, Grosse Pointe Cable, Inc. is still providing cable programming. But who are the people who subscribe to Grosse Pointe Cable? And do they like the service?

The News put that question to shoppers on the Hill. Their responses follow:

Lines drawn for November

Pointers can look forward to some rough-and-tumble political contests in the aftermath of last week's primary during the 11 weeks remaining before the November election

Incumbent state Sen. John Kelly won renomination by the Demo-cratic party and will face Grosse Pointe Republican John Lauve in the 1st District which includes all five Grosse Pointes and a large section of Detroit's northeast side.

Kelly, an energetic campaigner who managed a 17,345-12,435 win over Rep. Thaddeus Stopczynski last week, is as liberal as Lauve is conservative. Lauve last competed for office in 1980, losing the Republican nomination for Congress in the 14th District to Victor Caputo. Lauve was unopposed in last week's primary.

The right to represent the 1st District on the new Wayne County Board of Commissioners will be a contest between Republican Barbara Gattorn and Democrat John Hertel. Both defeated incumbent commissioners in the Tuesday balloting. Hertel is a former state senator who had expressed interest in the county executive Liz Magyar, the Farms: "No. I don't have cable. I don't know why. It's probably because we have young kids in the house and we're afraid to let them watch it.

Marie Burns, the Park: "Yes, we have it. I guess I like it. Sometimes I do and sometimes I don't. Things are repeated a lot and I don't like the real scary movies they show.'

A.P. Carpenter, the Farms: "No, we don't have it. We devote our time to reading books and things of that nature. We only have time for selected movies and from what I've heard ....

Mrs. Joseph Perry III, the Farms: "Yes, we have it. I like it. We get a much better picture than before, for the UHF stations. We only have the sports station. We're not movie watchers.

Lisa Montague, the Woods: Yes, we have cable, but I don't like it. The movies are the same, the reception is bad, we've had problems with the service, and it's too expensive. If my husband didn't like sports I would discontinue it.

Marie MacDonald, the Farms: "Yes, we do have cable. My husband and children like it. I don't really watch it. It's a good investment, a little repetitious though.

Edward Fudold, the Farms: "I have cable. On a scale of one to 10, I'd say it rates a five. There's one program I enjoy. It's called Moneyline.

Jeanette Gowdie, the Farms: 'No, I don't have it. We don't need to watch television any more than we do.

Chris Norton, the Farms: "Yes, I have cable, I like it. It gives a variety of programs."

Jerrie Sickels, the Park: "No. I don't have it. I don't watch much television.

miles before stopping someplace," said Sgt. Van Tiem. "He was under 24-hour surveillance from November until December, 1980, and he knew it. We just couldn't ever catch him at it.

Ann Arbor police nearly caught Watts in November, 1980, when a surveillance crew in an unmarked car observed a white female acting strange (ducking into door-ways, looking back over her shoulder, crossing the street, etc.) Then they noticed a car trailing her, driving slowly, with a black male watching the woman.

After contact with their headquarters, the car was pulled over and information was requested. A LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) theck showed a Watts was interviewed and placed on a lie detector, but then requested an attorney. When the attorney arrived, police were told all interviews had to stop. Within an hour and a half after the interviews terminated, the police desk received a phone call telling them that the "man you have there, Watts, is the Ann Arbor killer of the young women. You can believe what I tell you.

Police believe the caller was the attorney, since the only other persons involved were the police and the polygraph operator still at the

Officials pointed out that if the property were to remain zoned as it is now and were divided into private lots, that there could be eight to 10 more units added to the property than the 18 units proposed by Ford.

Farms City Manager Andrew Bremer confirmed that there has been a lot of interest expressed on the part of the citizens in the proposed subdivision. Bremer urged citizens with questions on the complex to view the site plan on view at the Farms City Hall, located at 90 Kerby Road.

The Aug. 23 council meeting begins at 8 p.m.

Curran named mental health

board head Grosse Pointe City Councilman James P. Curran, Jr., was appointed last week as the new director of the Detroit-Wayne County Community Mental Health Services Board. The position was last held by Mel Ravitz, who resigned last year when he was elected to the Detroit City Council.

Curran, 40, currently director of program development and coordination in the Wayne County Office of Inter-Governmental Affairs and Management, will begin his new duties

Aug. 30.

The Community Mental Health
Board contracts with some 45 agencies to provide services for enotionally disturbed youths, mentally ill adults and mentally disabled persons. It also funds in-patient care for mentally ill persons. The agency's annual budget is close to $135 million and it employs more than 30 persons.
Curran, of Rivard Boulevard, said he is "looking forward to getting back into direct human services" in his new position. In his current job he directs several programs including the HUDfunded Community Development Block Grant program which distri-butes millions of dollars each year to communities, including the Pointes, for projects such as street repairs. housing rehabilitation, sewer work, etc.

Curran was elected to the City Countil in 1981, and sits on the board of trustees of the city's employe retirement system. He received his Master's degree in community planning and social work from Wayne State University. He and his wife Carolyn, have three sons.

after 15 days notice from the city. "People are pretty cooperative about that," Mrs. Matthew said. 'Sometimes, though, we have to make extensions because the tree companies are so busy."

Mrs. Matthew expects the City's tree loss to be about the same as last year even as annual spring spraying, injections and trimming right-of-way trees continues. Tree removal, however, is backed by a replanting program consisting of 100 new plantings each year.

Last year, the City Council approved a $28,000 "retree" program to combat DED, planting about 300 new trees, including species of ash, maple and oak.

Similar replanting programs are in the works in other Pointe communities, including Grosse Pointe Farms, where a replanting program has been in operation since 1961. Public Service Director John Defoe agrees the diseased trees must come down quickly.

"The sooner you get down the tree, the less chance you have of spreading the disease to other trees." The Farms has about 5,000 elm trees remaining on public and private property. The Farms "is holding its own" as far as elm tree loss this year, Defoe says. DED took its toll of 43 elm trees on public property last year in the Farms.

In the Park, public services senior clerk Debbie Harning says there have been a few complaints from residents about the removal of trees in that city.

"A lot of people say to us they rather see the tree live than for us to take it down. It really hurts for them to see the trees go."

Review bridge bidding this fall

Bridge classes scheduled by the Department of Continuing Education of he Grosse Pointe School System are slated to begin the week of Sept. 13. Classes are available on three levels of instruction and supervised play. Beginners classes are for the novice, with focus of instruction on the fun-damentals of basic point bidding, scoring and play

Intermediate classes are for players with some knowledge of the game but who wish to review basics and learn their exceptions. Advanced classes are for knowledgeable players wanting to expand their playing skills, applying popular conventions, proper defenses and advanced playing.

Those enrolled in Play Rubber Bridge will play on a non-competitive basis with assistance given on bidding and play of the hand.

Beginning classes are scheduled at 1 p.m. on Monday and for 7:45 p.m. on Tuesday. Intermediate classes will be held at 1 p.m. on Tuesday and at 7:45 p.m. on Wednesday. An advanced class is slated for 7:45 p.m. on Thursday, while rubber bridge sessions are scheduled at 7:45 p.m. Monday and 1 p.m. Wednesday.

In addition to the 10-week classes which are slated to begin the week of Sept. 13, a new-for-fall class, Introduction to Duplicate Bridge, will start at 1 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 7. Planned for knowledgeable players, the class provides an opportunity to learn the general principles of play and scoring. In addition to the regular 10-week classes and the new-for-fall three-week class in Duplicate Bridge, the Department of Continuing Education will offer a repeat of the popular, single-session "clinics" on specific topics which were introduced last winter for the first time

"These six single-session classes have been requested by the bridge player who can't attend our full range of classes on a regular basis. This is an ideal way to refresh and improve your game. Not for beginners, these clinics are taught on the intermediate level for the average player." Instructor Pauline Bontekoe said.

The first of these, Defensive Bids, will be held from 10 a.m. to noon on Oct. 14. Other topics, times and dates are Pre-Emptive Bids - Friday, Oct. 15 7:45 to 9:45 p.m.; Penalty Doubles Thursday, Oct. 21, 10 a.m. to noon; Slam Bidding - Friday Oct. 22, 7,45 to 9:45 p.m.; Play of the Hand - Thurs-day, Oct. 28, 10 a.m. to noon; Popular conventions - Friday, Oct. 29, 7:45 to Those wishing to enroll in bridge classes are urged to mail their checks to the Department of Continuing Education as soon as possible. Fee for 10-week classes is $31, for the threeweek offering it is $10, and for the single-session clinics it is $4.

Bridge classes offered by the De partment of Continuing Education will be held in room B-4 of Parcells Middle School.

The Beat Generation met to celebrate and remember in Boulder, Colo., last month. Now mostly lower level celebrities and former names in the news. Poets, playwrights, "political prisoners," authors and 1960's revolutionaries making the lecture circuit.

The Beat Generation. The vision of goateed men in berets and sandals, girls in black leotards, bongos and smokey coffee houses didn't mesh easily with the gray bearded, wild haired (and often no haired) aging "bohemians" 30 years past the center points of

The occasion for the gathering was the Jack Kerouac Conference, a celebration of the 25th anniversary of the publication of "On The Road," Kerouac's masterpiece and the Bible of the beatnik.

What started out as a conference soon evolved into a combination reunion, 24-hour-a-day rap session, "happening" and literary Woodstock.

There were a lot of "names" there. Poet Allen Ginsburg ("Howl"), author Ken Kesey ("One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest"), author William Burroughs (Naked Lunch), poet Lawrence Ferlinghetti, photographer Robert Frank, Abbie Hoffman, Timothy Leary and Max Gail Jr. ("Wojo" in Barney Miller.)

Bob Dylan made an appearance as did Jerry Garcia of "The Grateful Dead." Somebody else was there too — Pointer Frankle Edie Kerouac-Parker, Kerouac's friend and first wife.

"I was invited to the conference because I represented the 1940's part of Jack's life," said Frankie, silver haired and in her 50's now.

"My life with Jack was a pretty heavy, wild experience for a monied, socially prominent young girl born and raised in Grosse Pointe. I spent a lot of my youth in New York City with my grandparents. I met Jack at a delicatessen and fell in love. We lived together from 1941 to 47. I married him in 1944 in a jail cell.

"We were both material witnesses to a murder, along with a number of other persons. We all had money in our backgrounds except Jack. We were all bailed out except him. The only way they would let me pay for his bail was if I was related to him. So we got married then and there."

Living with a man not your husband in decadent New York in the 40's just wasn't done. But Frankie did it anyway. During the war years Jack worked in the Merchant Marine, making trips between America and Great Britain. Photos of Kerouac in those days show a lean, rugged man with dark good looks.

Frankie was young, slender and blond. The tallored clothes she sometimes modeled looked natural on her. When times got tougher she worked as a longshoreman in a then man-depleted America. She later worked as a cigaret girl at the Club Zanzabar, "21" and Stork Club. Kerouac was out to sea for weeks at a time. When he was home they spent 24 hours a day together.

Their apartment became a meeting place for friends destined to become part of the American mainstream.

"We didn't know anything about the "Beat Generation" then," said Frankie. "We were just friends who called ourselves 'Bohemians.' We drank wine, went to nightclubs in Harlem and listened to jazz. There were no celebrities then. We were all struggling at

Friends that stopped by includ-

Burl Ives, Humphrey Bogart, John Garfield and William Sarovan.

Many of the characters in Kerouac's 19 books are based on friendships and events that occurred in the 40s. Frankie figures prominently in many of his works. The marriage finally ended in

"Things got so bad money-wise that we were reduced to eating mayonaise sandwiches," said Frankie. "That's when Jack sent me home. My parents wouldn't help out. They cut me off when they found out I'd married Jack. My mother liked him personally but found his lifestyle very threatening. We lived together in their home on Lakeshore Road and on Somerset for about two years, When he was here Jack worked for Federal-Mogul and Fruehauf ucking. We always stayed close after we split up. We had the marriage annulled, if you can believe that."

In Boulder, Frankie told her story to the crowds that came to pay homage to Kerouac's novels. She gave over 80 interviews to magazines and newspapers and appeared in three films.

"It was very enjoyable," she said. "I saw old friends, people who used to drop by the apartment. I was really amazed at the young people and visitors from other countries who came to attend the conference. They all said his books had changed their lives.

"The thing is, at the time we were doing all these supposedly 'Beatnik' things, we weren't doing it to change things," said Frankie.

We were a small group of people doing things we liked that weren't acceptable at the time. Talking 'hip,' reading poetry, smoking 'reefer,' listening to jazz and going to black music clubs. Young white people in those days didn't do those things. The Beat Generation grew up from around this. Jack's book 'On The Road' hit the country in 1957, a cultureless time in our history.

and watched Ike play golf. The Yanks always won the series and "My Fair Lady" was the hit of Broadway.

Post War America, but prepolyester, pre-muzak, pre-Golden Arches, pre-Vegas and pre-disco. American culture was as predictable, bland and tasteless as a glass of room temperature milk.

'On The Road' changed all that. The raw, snappy dialogue, spontaneity and million mile-anhour pace of the novel shook up the literary world. As in the case with many artists, Kerouac's work brought him fame, some riches and little happiness. He died in 1969 of alcoholism. He was

Frankie has, of course, gone on without him. She's written two books of poetry, edited a number of books on Kerouac's life and is currently writing her own book called "You'll Be Okay."

"That was the last line of the last letter he wrote me a few days before he died," said Frankie. "I guess I see myself as a satellite to his life. Everything I do today is based on my time with him. I even divide my speech when I refer to him. It's 'Jack' when I talk about our lives and 'Kerouac' when I talk of his work and what "I do know this," she finalized. "He wasn't the way a lot of people pictured him. He was handsome, clean shaven and very patriotic. He loved his country. He was anti-drugs and never approved of the psychedelic generation. He accepted the Beat Generation but didn't like the hippies and yippies that followed.

"When I was in Colorado and asked old friends what they thought he'd be doing today if he was still alive, we all agreed that he would never have showed up at the conference," said Frankie.

"And that's for sure."

Now First Federal makes it easy for you to put your permanent life insurance policies' idle cash value to work. You can earn $350, $750, $1,000 or more while your total insurance protection remains the same, or may even increase (see chart).

Here's how First Federal's Idle Assets program works. The cash value of your insurance contracts is usually available at a low rate of interest, 5% or 6% in many cases. We estimate the cash you have available in your insurance contracts and show how this money can earn money-markettype interest for you in an Idle Assets Certificate of Deposit for 30 months.*

Certificates are available for a minimum of $1,000. The interest rate, which is determined when funds are received at First Federal and the account is opened, is quaranteed for the full term.

Your total insurance protection remains the same or may even Increase (see chart). You will also be provided with additional

Mercedes show draws more than 1,000

Almost 1,000 spectators jammed the grounds of the Edsel and Eleanor Ford Home in Grosse Pointe Shores on Aug. 7, for the first local Mercedes-Benz automobile show, a fund-raiser for the Children's Hospital of Michigan.

The event was sponsored by the Mercedes-Benz Club of America. Inc., and may become an annual event, according to the organization. Anyone interested in competing in the future or interested in more information can call the event chairman, Murdock T. Campbell, at 891-2390.

The oldest car in the show was a 1913 Mercedes from Cleveland, Ohio, and the newest was a 1982 model. Almost every significant model in between also was represented on the grounds of the house, according to Campbell. The vehicles were judged for originality, cleanliness and general trophies were awarded to the winners. There were 75 competitors.

Best of Show award went to James Conant, of Cleveland, Ohio, for his 1913 Mercedes. People's Choice went to Hampton, Ont., resident Norbert Egli for his 1970 model.

In the Classic (1945 and earlier) category, Conant's 1913 model took prize; a 1936 Benz owned by Connie Bouchard, of Birmingham, took second; and third went to a 1927 Type K owned by Richard Kughn, of De-

In the Feature category (1946 through 1963), first prize went to Eric Luks, of Toronto, Ont., for his 1957 auto; second to Frank Malcangi, of Diamondale, Mich., for his 1958 Benz; and third to Charles Beattie, of Westlake, Ohio, for his 1955 model.

Egli won first prize in the contemporary (1964 to 1973) category. Second place went to Fred Howard of Detroit. and third to E. E. Wardlow, of Bir

Coins and Stamps employe bound by robber

A man described by Grosse Pointe City police as husky and well-built, walked into the Coins and Stamps store on Mack Avenue near closing time last week and bound, gagged and robbed a store employe after the employe told the suspect he couldn't see silver coins, authorities said. Police first learned of the robbery when they received a call from the employe's wife, who said she was unable to contact her husband for some time at the store on Tuesday, Aug. 10.

Officers Al Fincham and Dennis VanDale arrived at the store and discovered the rear door of the building ajar. They heard muffled sounds coming from a room and found the employe lying on the floor tied up with duct tape, police said.

The employe told police the suspect came into the store about 5:55 p.m. and asked to look at some silver dollar coins, according to reports. The employe explained to the suspect it was near closing time and he would be unable to do so, police said. When the employe left the counter to get a coin album instead, the suspect announced a stick-up, according to police. The employe told police the suspect was carrying a pistol.

Reports said the suspect then put on white, short linen gloves and walked the employe down a hallway, asking for the keys to the back door. The suspect then laid the employe down on the floor and tied him up with the duct tape and stuffed paper in his ears, police said. The suspect then dragged the employe to a rear room and closed the door, reports said.

Police said another man then entered the store and the employe could hear muffled talk between the two suspects before they left the store.

The employe told police he had seen the first suspect in the store about a week ago. The suspect was described as a dark complected white male in his early 30s, 5 foot, 10 inches tall and about 185 pounds. He was neatly dressed, police said. The employe told police he never saw the second sus-

The coin store has reported an undetermined loss in items to police. Meanwhile police say they have strong leads in the case.

Vic Tanny reopens

Vic Tanny East Health and Racquet Club at Harper and Old Eight Mile Road will draw the curtains on its completely rebuilt executive-class facility this week. This opening of the new Vic Tanny club will take place from Friday, Aug. 20, through Sunday. Aug. 22, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day. The public is invited to attend. The building was severely damaged by a fire earlier this year.

In addition to special membership offers and champagne guided tours of the new facility, the public will be of-fered a chance to win door prizes and will be invited to witness aerobic dance exhibitions and racquetball competition.

Detroit-area celebrities including Steve Garagiola, Larry Adderley and Kent Benson will also visit Vic Tanny East throughout the grand-opening weekend to sign autographs and meet east-siders.

Those attending the grand-opening will be offered 40 percent off regular monthly dues for as long as they remain Vic Tanny members.

Vic Tanny East had its original grand-opening last November. In March of this year a fire destroyed the

Detroit man attempts suicide in Woods cell

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A 25-year-old Detroit man was listed in guarded condition at St. John Hospital after he was discovered hanging by his coat in the Woods lock-up Saturday, Aug. 7, by officers doing a visual check of the cells.

The man was found by officers at 10:46 that morning slumped against the door of the cell with his jacket wrapped around his neck. The jacket, police said, was wrapped around the bars of the cell door.

Officers applied CPR and transported him to St. John Hospital. The man was cold, pale and not breathing when found police said.

"There was no indication he would do something like this," Public Safety Director Jack Patterson said. "He appeared alert. There wasn't anything unusual about him. He wasn't physically abusive.'

The man had been arrested for malicious destruction of property according to reports. He was allegedly observed tearing a hanging plant from its pot and destroying it. This was his second arrest for malicious destruction of property and his third arrest of the day, police said.

He was first arrested about 2:45 a.m. for tumultuous conduct. Reports said the man had an altercation with his girl friend at Mack and Oxford.

The man was released at 8 that morning, after being ticketed for tumultuous conduct. He was spotted about 20 minutes later by an off-duty Detroit police officer, who said the man had been committing malicious destruction of property, a misdemeanor.

Because the arresting officer must witness the offense in cases of misdemeanors, the man was released at 8:45 a.m., police said.

Later he was spotted by a Woods detective in front of Rabaut's, 19853 Mack, allegedly pulling a plant from its hanging basket and destroying it. He was again arrested and taken to the station.

Patterson said the man was put in the cell at 9:05 a.m. Visual checks of the cell, required by state law for lock-up facilities, were made at 9:30. 10 and 10:12 a.m., Patterson said. One officer, releasing another prisoner from the lock-up that morning between 10:16 and 10:21, reported that he had a short conversation with the man. The man walked to the back of the cell as if to sit down, the officer

Patterson said the visual surveillance routine is strictly enforced at the lock-up. The cells meet state codes and are located off a main hallway about 20 feet from the detective bureau, he added. There were officers on duty nearby, Patterson said.

After interviews with officers on duty at the time of incident, Patterson said the department had followed its

The Woods has no facilities for prisoners who show signs of being suici-dal. Patterson said. Had the man showed any indication he might hurt himself, he would have been transported to either Wayne County Jail or other facilities that can cope with the problem.

In some cases, Patterson said, officers have sat in the cell with prisoners who are possibly suicidal until transport can be arranged or the prisoner

Suppose there was a space capsule that could transport you in time to any era. Would you choose the past, the present, the future? Contemplating today's problems, there are undoubtedly many who would opt to move backwards and others who would prefer to live in what will hopefully be the better world of tomorrow.

Those who would choose an earlier period in our history would argue that the quality of life today has deteriorated. They would point to the seemingly insolubble problems of inflation, unemployment, crime, the drug scene, corruption in government and pollution as they look back with longing to the tension-free life led by their parents and grandparents.

Mathematically speaking for a retiree of 65 that would put them back about 100 years to a picturesque era of horsedrawn buggies, neighbors who lived and died in the same house, the friendly corner grocer, unpolluted air and streams, a utopia of tranquil. leisurely stress-free living.

What a romantic view. Actually 100 years ago, although there was a surplus in the U.S. Treasury (can you believe it?) because of the taxes and tariffs levied to funds during the Civil War, government borrowing was reduced and unemployment threatened the economy. The theory behind the restriction on borrowing for private investments was that swollen revenue would be devoted to extravagant expenditures. These fears were not unfounded. The swollen Federal funds were tapped for "pork barrel" bills providing funds for wasteful and useless

There were disasters then, even as there are now. In 1883 a coal mine in Illinois flooded and 70 lives were lost and another in Virginia claimed 112 lives.

Nor were political scandals unknown. The presidential campaign in 1884 was waged on the basis of personalities rather than political issues. Slurs, slander and scandals made the campaign between James Blaine, who was denied candidacy in 1880 because he had used his influence as Congressman to do favors for certain business firms, and Grover Cleveland, who was accused (and admitted) tor being the father of an illegitimate child. There were strikes too. In Chicago in 1884, at the McCormick Reaper plant, a bomb was thrown after a group of pickets were fired on by police. Ten civilians were killed and 50 wounded. That same year, the American Federation of Labor was founded with Samuel Gompers as president.

Nature went on rampages. In 1893, a tropical storm devastated coastal area from Charleston. S.C., to Savannah, Ga., killing 1,000 people.

In 1893 a depression hit. Five hundred banks failed. Before the end of the year, one-quarter of all industry was idle, over 22,500 miles of railroad was in receivership and the American Railroad Union, led by Eugene Debs went on strike. President Cleveland called out federal troops to quell the violence and Jacob Coxey, meet the enormous needs for leader of the unemployed who marched to Washington to protest conditions, was arrested for trespassing on government property.

In 1896, William Jennings Bryan wrenched the Democratic leadership away from Cleveland who was threatened with impeachment. Bryan then lost to William McKinley whose campaign manager, Mark Hanna, financed the campaign with huge sums of money from bankers, corporations and industries. Employes were ordered to vote McKinley or be

CODE NO. 10-06 MECHANICAL AND ELECTRICAL AMUSEMENT DEVICES ORDINANCE NO. 253

AN ORDINANCE TO REGULATE COMMERCIAL AMUSEMENT DEVICES AND TO PROVIDE FOR LICENSING THEREOF

The City of Grosse Pointe Farms ordains

Section 1 Commercial Amusement Device. The term "commercial amusement device" as used in this ordinance shall mean any instrument or machine which, upon the insertion of a coin or token or by payment of a fee, may be operated as a game, or for entertainment or amusement. It shall not include devices that furnish music and which are commonly referred to as jukeboxes, scales for the purpose of giving weights, medical devices providing blood pressure readings, and bowling lanes

Section 2 License Required. It shall be unlawful for any person to operate or maintain any place or establishment on which any commercial amusement devices are located or installed without first obtaining a license for each commercial amusement device

Section 3. Application For License. Application for a commercial amusement device license shall be made on forms provided by the Director of Public Service. Each application shall contain the following information

(a) Name and address of applicant, age, date and place of birth

(b) Place or establishment where the device is to be displayed or operated, the number of mechanical and electrical devices therein, and the business conducted at that place

(c) Description of the device to be covered by the license, its mechanical or electrical features, name of manufacturer, serial number

(d) The name and address of the owner of the place or establishment in which the devices are located

(e) The proposed location of each device within the premises, including the distance in feet from any wall, table, chair or other obstruction

Section 4. Issuance of License. The Director of Public Service shall not approve or issue a license for any commercial amusement device unless all of the following conditions prevail: 1. A distance of six feet of clear area will exist in all directions measured from any part of the machine, except the machine may be placed against a wall, divider or other obstruction on one side of the machine.

All electrical wiring leading to such machine will be installed such that the electric wire is not located on the floor surrounding the machine. 3. The application has applied for and obtained a business license from the City of Grosse Pointe Farms.

4. The owner has applied for and received a certificate of the Fire Department of Grosse Pointe Farms establishing the limit for the number of persons who may be on the premises at any one time. The Fire Marshall shall determine such capacity in accordance with rules promulgated by the Liquor Control Commission for Class C licenses 5. The owner shows that in addition to the off-street parking requirements imposed by the Zoning Ordinance, one additional off-street parking space is available for each commercial amusement device.

6 The owner has paid a license fee to the City in the amount established by resolution of the City Council for each commercial amusement device for which a license is sought

7 Public liability and property damage insurance in accordance with Section 9 of this ordinance has been obtained

Section 5 Restriction on Number of Licenses. No more than five (5) licenses shall be issued for commercial amusement devices at any one place or establishment. The phrase "place or establishment" shall be liberally construed to prevent circumventure. tion of this Section.

Term of License. If the applicant has complied with the requirements of Section 4, the Director of Public Service shall issue such license for a term to expire twelve months after the date of issue.

Section 7. Condition of Operation. The licensee may permit devices to be operated only under the following conditions

1. An adult supervisor shall remain on the premises at all times when the commercial amusement devices are operated or available for operation

2. The number of persons on the premises at any one time shall not exceed the capacity established by the Fire Department of Grosse Pointe Farms. 3. No commercial amusement device is to be operated by any child under the age of 12 years unless such child is accompanied by his or her natural parent or legal guardian who remains on the premises while such child is operating such machine 4. No commercial amusement device may be operated by any child 17 years or younger except during the following hours: 3:00 p.m. to 11:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. September 10 through June 10 of each year; 10:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday all year and from June 11 through September 2 of each year.

through September 9 of each year 5. The licensee has a valid business license issued by the City of Grosse Pointe

Section 8. Revocation of License. A commercial amusement device license may be revoked or suspended upon a finding by the Chief of Police, subject to review by the City Council, that such licensee has violated any of the conditions set forth in Section

7 or has misrepresented any fact included in the application for license Section 9. Public Liability and Property Damage Insurance. No license shall be issued to any applicant under this ordinance unless the applicant shall have filed with the Director of Public Service policies of public hability and property damage insurance in the following minimum amounts: 1. For personal injuries to any one person, Fifty Thousand Dollars

2. For personal injuries from any occurence. One Hundred Thousand Dollars

3. For damage to property, Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000.00)

Section 10. License Not Transferable, Licenses issued under this ordinance shall Section 11. Waiver of Off-Street Parking Requirements. In the event an application for a license for commercial amusement devices is denied because of failure to meet off-street parking requirements, the applicant may request a waiver of all or part of the additional off-street parking requirements from the City Council. The City Council may waive part or all of the additional off-street parking requirements imposed by this ordinance after a public hearing on such request and a finding by the City Council that a waiver of such requirement will not create an undue parking problem or be injurious to the surrounding neighborhood A notice of public hearing shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in the City and shall be sent by mail or special delivery to all persons to whom real property is assessed within 300 feet of the boundary of the premises and to occupants within 300 feet at least seven and not more than 15 days prior to such public hearing. Section 12. Separability of Provisions. If any provision of this ordinance is declared to be invalid or unenforceable, all other sections shall remain valid and enforceable Section 13 Penalty. Any person, partnership or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of not more than Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars for each offense, or by imprisonment in the City or County Jail for not more than ninety (90) days for each offense, or may be both fined and imprisoned at the discretion of the Court.

Section 14. This Ordinance shall take effect twenty (20) days after its enactment or upon publication, whichever is later.

Day care - New option for the elderly

By Paula Brownlee

It wasn't too long ago when the options were limited. Nursing homes and hospitals seemed to be the only facilities for the frail and disabled elderly adult. But a relatively new concept is rapidly sweeping the country. They're called aging adult day care centers.

The Calvary Service for Aging Adults Day Care Center is one such program. It provides comprehensive medical care on a daily basis. Daily meaning the elderly arrive in the morning and leave for the evening.

John Furtaw, Director of the Calvary program, recalls the speed at which the concept grew.

In 1975, there were only 20 day care centers for the elderly in the entire United States. Today, over 700 exist throughout the country. 15 of them in Michigan.

According to Furtaw, the day care centers provide an alternative to the elderly who maybe cannot afford nursing homes or do not need such extensive medical ing with families, but they can't be left alone during the day," he said. However, Furtaw is quick to point out the day care center is not a babysitting program. "The idea is to run a program offering quality services.

And the services range from health, in occupational and physical therapy and medication monitoring to social services, recreation in an individual and family surrounding, spiritual and pastoral care, physical exercise and craft classes, along with nutri-tional care. Each patient will receive a morning and afternoon snack and a hot meal at noon containing one-third of the recommended daily requirement. Transportation will also be available for a nominal fee made possible by a lift-equipped van donated by the

Mary Thompson Foundation. need demonstrated by the large proportion of elderly living in the surrounding area. "This area has the highest senior citizen populain Detroit,"

The center will be funded jointly under the auspices of Bon Secours Hospital and the Lutheran Social Services of Michigan. Bon Secours will pick up the tab for professional staff costs with Lutheran Social Services paying the auxiliary costs such as occupancy and maintenance costs. Furtaw, who said the cost to run the center for the first year is estimated at a little over $200,000, expects to operate the program at a loss.

The Center hasn't received any federal aid with the exception of a HUD grant which partially funded the cost of building renovation. In an effort to keep down costs, Furtaw is hoping the day care pa-tients will be able to participate in the services offered by the Calvary Center.

Although the cost of the program will depend on the patient's The center itself resulted from a ability to pay, Purtam said there are no income guidelines for patients.

> "We don't want to restrict the n popula- availability of the program to Furtaw people who can afford it," Furtaw said. "We're not in this to make money.

However, there are physical guidelines. In order to qualify for the program the adult must be 60 years of age or older, have one or more chronic illnesses or medical disabilities and are currently under the care of a physician. "We plan to take the patient with the greatest need, the one we can do the most good for," Furtaw explained.

The Calvary Center will begin to accept applications for its program that opens this September. Furtaw said the center will initially accept 15 to 20 patients. reaching a maximum of 35 pa-

Standing decides third suit against union

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A Macomb County judge ruled last week that the Wayne County Charter Commission lacks standing to sue the county Road Commission and its department head union to nullify a contract between the two signed earlier this

This is the third time a lawsuit against the Road Commission and the Association of Road Commission Administrators has been dismissed because those filing suit lacked standing.

Macomb Circuit Judge Kenneth Sanborn, in an opinion handed down Thursday, Aug. 12, said that although the Circuit Court has jurisdiction in the case, the Charter Commission is not the proper party to file the suit.

The commission argued the lawsuit was necessary to complete its mandate spelled out in enabling legislation. That law gave the commission the power to write the county's first home-rule charter and do "all other things necessary to complete the business of the commission in an orderly man-

Sanborn disagreed, saying, "The business of the Charter Commission is to draft a proposed charter, provide for the printing and distribution of its official documents and disseminate information about the charter.

Nowhere in the enabling statute is the commission granted the power to enforce the charter,' Sanborn said, adding that although the commission could sue and be sued on matters directly related to the charter, it could not sue on matters not directly related to its function.

The court does have jurisdiction in the case, he noted in his opinion The Road Commission and the union had argued the case fell under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Employment Relations Commission. The meat of this controversy is whether the Road Commission had the power to negotiate with defendant Association and whether the contract is valid," Sanborn said. "These are not matters within MERC's exclusive jurisdic-

The most troublesome issue raised is whether or not plaintiff commission has standing or capacity to bring the suit, continued. Standing has nothing to do with the importance of the issue, but whether the person filing suit has suffered "injury in fact." Sanborn said.

'It is not for the court to rule on what persons or bodies or officials

RINKE PONTIAC GMC

"However, it appears the County Executive will be directly affected by the contract. There may well be other bodies or officials with the necessary nexus" to bring suit, Sanborn added.

Charter Commission attorney Milton Mack, Jr. said the commission is "exploring alternatives" before making its next move. Those options include asking for a rehearing, filing an appeal, or finding appropriate plaintiffs, he said.

Those who might have standing include CEO candidates William Lucas and Robert FitzPatrick, the current Board of Commissioners or Road Commission board of directors member Claude Dukes.

who voted against the contract.
"I would not become involved," Dukes said, "because my objections to the union are different than those in the lawsuit. I wasn't against the union per se, but against the way it was handled.

"I am an organizer for the un-n," he added. "But any decision made by the courts I will abide of Commissioners Chairman Samuel Turner said the

'All the allegations I have heard so far (against the contract) have been speechism," Turner said, adding the board needed "very good legal advice" before becoming involved in very ticklish labor relations.

The item may come back to the board, but commissioners have bigger things to worry about, Turner said, such as the lay-off plan made necessary by the failure of a tax increase question on the primary ballot.

Both CEO candidates FitzPatrick and Lucas have said they would take the union to court if it interfered with their plans for county reorganization.

This is the third dismissal of a lawsuit against the Road Commission and its union. Seventy-three department heads voted to organize and signed a six-year con-

The first two cases, heard by Visiting Circuit Judge David Vokes, were thrown out when the standing of the plaintiffs was successfully challenged by union

Proponents of the contract say it protects workers from summary dismissal by the CEO who takes office in January.

Grosse Pointe Theater dedicates new building

Nearly 150 friends, neighbors, season ticket subscribers and residents were on hand last Sunday as City Mayor David Robb and former Park Mayor Matthew C. Patterson shared ribbon-cutting duties at the opening of Grosse Pointe Theatre's new home at 315 Fisher Road.

The theater hosted an open house Sunday afternoon to give the community an opportunity to tour the bulding and see the improvements which have been made over the last 10 months to the former nursing home. The building has been completely remodeled to suit the needs of the theater. One gentlemen in attendance said he was born in the building when it was a maternity hospital. Another resident who visited Sunday was last there as a patient for a short time when it was a nursing

The theater plans to hold rehearsals for productions at the new facility. Performances will continue to be held at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial as they have for 20 years. The building on Fisher Road is also intended for committee meetings, storage and other uses. Regular meetings on the second Monday of each month, to which the public is invited, will also continue to be held at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial

Although much of the restoration has been completed and the building will begin being used with "Dames At Sea" shortly after Labor Day, there is much work still to be done. The heating plant needs major repair before the cold weather sets in The theater group has one piano given it years ago, but could use at least one and. hopefully, two more pianos now that it has separate spaces for the dancers and singers to rehearse.

The large commercial kitchen in the basement of the building has been cleaned and painted, a task beyond the imagination of anyone who saw the condition of the room when the build-ing was purchased. Although there is an old stove and several refrigerators that still work, the theater is still in need of small appliances to make it a functioning kitchen, such as a mixer. blender, a food processor, utensils.

There are other items needed to help the theater with the general mainte-nance of the building, such as a floor scrubber and polisher, a snow blower. a lawn mower and a commerical vacuum cleaner. If anyone in the community would like to make a tax-deductible donation of any of these items or funds to continue the restoration of 315 Fisher Road, they may drop GPT a note at 32 Lakeshore Road, or call President John Guadagnoli evenings at 881-0079 or Treasurer George Hunt evenings at 821-2970.

War Memorial reopens Aug. 30

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial closed its doors and grounds on Sunday. Aug. 15, to normal business for a two-week period. However, behind the closed doors, there is much activity of painting, plastering, cleaning, polishing and general refurbishing.

When the doors open on Monday morning. Aug. 30, at 9 a.m. visitors will find all sparkling and in order with many improvements

During the period of closing, mail orders will be processed and one may watch Channel 5 on Grosse Pointe Cable for updates on the exciting of-ferings of this fall's season.

Only two days remain in the special are from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3:30 p.m. New high school students in the North area should call Florence Miller, assistant principal - student services, 343-2201, to arrange for an appointment. Those living in the South school district should call 343-2151 to schedule an enrollment conference with a counselor.

Students who do not enroll during the special pre-school session will have to wait until the first day of school on Wednesday. Sept. 8, to do so. They may encounter some difficulty in scheduling their preferred course selections at this late date as some classes may be closed because of high demand.

Students are expected to be accompanied by a parent or guardian and to bring with them their last report card from their previous school. Records of completed high school courses would aid in the enrollment process. Those who have never attended Grosse Pointe public schools should also bring a birth certificate.

Clothing thief strikes in Park

A thief entered a home on Three Mile Drive in the Park last month and made off with several articles of women's clothing, according to Park

The burglary was reported at about 11 a.m. on Monday, July 26. Police Chief Henry Coonce said the thief apparently entered through the sec-ond floor of the home on the 1200 block of Three Mile by climbing up a gutter. Clothing was the only thing reported missing, he said.

A plus for the charter

By retiring two incumbent county commis-oners in the primary, voters in the new 1st sion did, even though eight incumbents were A very diffic sioners in the primary, voters in the new 1st Commissioner District pulled two of the biggest surprises in the Wayne County election and gave a boost to good government in the county. In this newspaper's opinion, they also showed their strong support for the county charter which will go into effect Jan. 1, 1983, and which now is assured strong backing from this district's new commissioner regardless of what happens in November.

The defeated incumbents, Republican Erv Steiner and Democrat Norbert Wisniewski, had pledged to help work out the transition from the present regime to the new charter's reforms but both were widely regarded as having been part of the county's problems, including its record of fiscal mismanagement, nepotism and political gamesmanship.

ON THE OTHER hand, the victorious challengers, Republican Barbara Gattorn and Democratic state Sen. John Hertel, were strong supporters of the charter and the reorganization and reforms that it promises. Mrs. Gattorn, in particular, was able to cite her record as a charter commissioner and even earlier support for reform of county government. So this newspaper tends to believe that the charter was the overriding issue, even though the personalities involved obviously played a role in the defeat of the incumbents, too.

Not that the millenium has yet arrived for Wayne County. As expected, Sheriff William Lucas easily won the Democratic nomination for the new post as county executive even though his administrative skills have been widely questioned. Because of the heavy preponderance of Democratic voters in the county, Lucas will be strongly favored to win in Nov-ember. Robert FitzPatrick, the Democrat who won the GOP nomination, has pledged a tough campaign but obviously will have an uphill battle against the popular sheriff.

Bill Lucas is an attractive, intelligent man but questions arise about his capacity to serve as county executive not only because of his administrative problems in the sheriff's office but also because his connections would make it difficult for him to crack down on the labor unions and other entrenched power blocks that too long have called the turn in Wayne County. By temperament, Lucas is simply not a con-frontational type. Yet many people believe that is the kind of person needed in the county executive's post at this juncture to take the county where it ought to go.

from 27 to 15 members, is expected to give the the new county charter.

nominated and probably will be relected. On first glance that might indicate the same old crowd, even though a smaller one, will be running things for the county. Yet the old commissioners as well as the new nominees have read the election returns and especially those of two years ago when more than 70 percent of the voters backed the charter. In fact, we're told that several incumbents already have given more than lip service to the charter.

As expected, the county board's proposed one-mill increase in the property tax went down to an overwhelming defeat, which leaves the county in more of a fiscal mess than ever. It was clear the public was not in a mood to entrust more funds to a body that in the public's mind had neglected the public interest in the past and won a reputation for fiscal mismanagement that had put the county on the brink of bankruptcy.

The form and organization of government obviously are important. Yet Americans often support laws and structural changes in government because they are expected to improve or control the morality of people in government and out. Thus the country approved the Prohibition Amendment but repealed it when that attempt to legislate morality turned out be a miserable failure. Now there is strong support in Washington for a constitutional amendment to balance the federal budget. That, too, could be regarded as an attempt to legislative honesty and integrity in dealing with the federal budget. And so, too, we suggest, adoption of the county charter could be viewed as an effort not only to legislate improvement in the county's form of government but in the conduct of its officials and employes as well.

YET THE COUNTY'S tasks still will be handled by men and women subject to the same ambitions and desires that motivate people everywhere. That means the new form of county government offers a vehicle for improvement but will be unable to deliver on its high promise of reform without the election of a county commission and a county executive who are pledged to achieving lean, effective and efficient service for county voters and who themselves set high ethical standards for county employes to emulate.

Voters in the 1st District, which includes the Pointes, did their part in the primary but should continue the campaign in November to make sure they support candidates for commissioner and county executive who are best The new commission, which will be reduced qualified to carry out such a program under

End of the Milliken era

Whatever happens in November, it is now clear that the primary really spelled the end of the Milliken era in Michigan government and

The victory of Richard Headlee signifies that the Reagan brand of GOP conservatism now has taken over in the Republican party of Michigan and will attempt to enlarge that GOP beachhead into control of the governor's office and other offices in Lansing in November.

IN THE FIRST flush of victory, some con-November. Perhaps so but perhaps not. In that they may not be able to continue their control of the governorship.

Headlee no doubt expressed popular discontent with high taxes, high unemployment, high interest rates and the other economic effects of the recession in this state. Yet he also ran to some extent not only against Mayor Coleman Young and the city of Detroit but against much of the humane social program backed by Gov. Milliken before the recession required him to cut deeply into it.

One result was that Headlee was nominated with only about a third of the total Republican vote in the primary. Unless he tries to widen his appeal, he also will run without the backing of independents and even many Democrats who made possible Milliken's victories over the years. The question is where Headlee will find the support he will need to be elected if he continues to jettison the Milliken inheritance.

True, some people said they voted for Headlee in rejection of Milliken and his endorsed successor, James Brickley. Probably they did so. But was it any wonder that the voters began to accept the charges made by three well-financed Republican candidates who spent most of their time and money trying to separate themselves from the Republican governor and Brickley? In truth, Brickley simply failed to as November approaches in an effort to win put up a good defense, and even waffled on the more support from independents and the more issues to such an extent that even some Milliken supporters turned elsewhere in disap- come in Michigan

pointment and even disgust

Milliken himself endorsed Headlee after the primary results were in but added a rather cryptic warning: "I hope the candidates . . . try to reach out to this whole state and to all of the people of this state, including the people who live in Detroit and who have unique problems. We cannot write off any section or segment of our population . . . and I will not support my party if it moves that way.'

SO WHILE THE GOP outlook is not as rosy servatives began speaking as if their primary as Headlee and Co. try to make it, the Demo- erty to allow for multiple dwelsuccess assured them of a Headlee triumph in cratic nominee, James Blanchard, hardly covered himself with glory in the campaign. Yet has evoked a lot of thought nominating Headlee, the Republicans may have he did achieve one accomplishment from a narrowed their political base to such an extent campaign viewpoint. He united the labor unions in his support and collected some impressive business and industry backing as well. Lee Iacocca's commercials for Blanchard were almost as pervasive on the tube as his commercials for Chrysler. Yet Blanchard avoided taking positions on many controversial state issues, perhaps as part of his primary campaign to unite the factions within the party, and so he still remains somewhat of an ideological question erect two or three story

However, Blanchard's record as a moderate to liberal Democratic congressman backed by organized labor does appear to set up a classic confrontation in view of Headlee's backing from business interests and his own support for Reagonomics. The candidates already differ on such controversial issues as abortion funding, the equal rights amendment and other social issues. They also differ on the temporary income tax hike, with Blanchard saying he would have voted for it and Headlee contending he would have opposed it. This may be the year when neither candidate seeks the center of the road but instead promotes his own strength, Headlee with the conservatives and Blanchard with the liberals. Yet if precedent is followed, both candidates will tend to modify their positions and seek compromises moderate voters who often determine the out-

Thanks for a good election

A very difficult election has drawn to a close, and in spite of the results, I wish to extend my sincere gratitude to all of the people for your interest in this election. An important part of every election is for the voters to take the time to get to know the candidates and then take the trouble to go out and vote. In this election, voters turned out in record numbers and as an elected official, I am grateful to you for your participation.

During the campaign, I was most pleased with the receptiveness and friendliness shown to me and my cam-

This letter is to all the people of Grosse Pointe. I feel that I am a winner for the following reasons. For 12 years I have been supported by many fine people. Whereas I was highly gratified by the comforting telephone calls I received after the election, I am not pleased to tell you that a week before the election my life was threatened and of course this was reported to the police. My car was vandalized at Maire School. I suppose you can't please everyone.

To all my supporters I have new horizons and new mountains we will climb. Thank you again.

Pointes need rezoning

To the Editor:

Terry Lizza's letter about rezoning Grosse Pointe proplings for long-time residents and comments.

I'd like to see the five city councils do something about this idea for all of us. The Pointes don't need high rises or government funding, but they do need rezoning to permit builders to use existing structures for this purpose and to encourage developers to apartment buildings in neighborhoods where these folks have lived and paid taxes for a minimum of 25 years.

To the Editor:

I agree with your "one town, one district" editorial. Putting the City and Park into an otherwise all Detroit congressional district is even worse. It is helpful to add another voice objecting to this outrage.

One point overlooked is that this fight would not have been necessary if our two senators: John Hertel and John Kelly had opposed the split. The plan to divide and gerrymander the

I carried my big shop vacuum with its long, plastic tube or hose out to their area and placed the end of it near the entrance to their nesting place. one after another they disappeared into the yawning maw and out of sight. Now came the problem of what to do with them. So while the suction was still on I disconnected the hose on top of the vacuum and with a container of fly or insect spray, gave it the works. After a short time I took off the top and there lay in the bottom of the bag by actual count, 185 dead yellow jackets. Their disposal was just a matter of dumping them in the trash.

Incidentally, while I stood near their "doom machine" one very alert one made a pass at my hand and I ended up in the emergency room at a hospital with a badly swollen hand which was cured by taking a few capsules of Benzedryn, one every six hours until the swelling went down. I must admit it wasn't very smart of me to stand so close to them while they were buzzing about. I too have learned my lesson.

Opa! It's time to travel to the glorious land of Greece and you don't have to spend a fortune to get there. The Sixth Annual Greek Festival at Assumption Greek Orthodox Church and Cultural Center, located on Marter Road at the border of Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores, brings Greece to Michigan starting tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 20, and continuing through Sunday, Aug. 22.

This is a festival that offers something for the entire family, and this year's festival promises to be more exciting, educational and fun than ever before.

It opens at 5 p.m. Friday with a Greek evening of activities that continue until 11 p.m. You can learn to dance like Zorba the Greek, listen to the melodious bouzoukis of the Rhodians Show Band, attend a Kalosomatics exercise demonstration and savor the flavors of baklava, shish-ka-bob, pita and other Hellenic delights.

It continues from 1 to 11 p.m. Saturday and from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sunday, and offers favorite local and American entertainment as well as traditional Greek dances and music. The Grosse Pointe North High School Dance Band will perform Saturday afternoon, prior to a Big Band Dance Contest for all ages. There'll be a square dancing demonstration starting at 5 p.m. Satur-

Sunday brings the music of strolling musicians and a performance by Assumption's own Junior and Senior Dancers, plus the songs of Our Town's own Grunyons, plus, in the evening, the drawing for this year's grand prize: a 1982 Chevrolet Chevette. Other prizes range from a trip for two to Las Vegas to two Detroit Lions season tickets

For those planning an actual trip to Greece, there will be a travel booth offering tips and suggestions on how to enjoy Hellenic culture. You can even do a little on-thespot tourist shopping, pick up that fisherman's cap you've always wanted at the Greek Boutique, and relax in the taverna with a glass of retsina wine.

There'll be games, and rides for the children. There'll be a Greek Cultural Exhibit. As a special attraction, the festival committee is delighted to welcome back internationally acclaimed artist Manos Rovithis with a one-man show of his works.

Admission to the Assumption Greek Festival is $1. Parking is free. So are children under 12. Advance tickets (you may also get them at the door) and further information can be obtained by contacting Festival Headquarters at Assumption, 779-6111. Opa! See you at the fair

The Community LINC

Operation LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) approaches the new fall season with a long list of successes — and needs. In 1981 and the first half of 1982, LINC was able to provide badly needed goods to 84 Wayne County agencies, thanks to generous private and corporate

But in addition, LINC served as a genuine "line" of information between agencies that had goods they were able to exchange and individuals who needed the goods and services of those agencies.

According to Barbara Coluni, summer office coordinator for LINC, a network of information through which donations can flow freely has been established by LINC volunteers. "When agencies that don't have adequate resources need help finding goods, we can help them by referring them to agencies that do," she said. "And we can also serve as a 'linc' for agencies to find clients who need their services.

LINC's success rate with these exchanges is high, and an encouraging sign of the organization's value to the community.

As an example, recently the Crockett Vocational Center repaired a typewriter that had been donated to LINC. This typewriter was then turned over by LINC to the Robeson-Tubman Community Development Center which needed office equipment. The same vocational center also accepted and repaired an adding machine that LINC subsequently was able to zens to doctor's appointments and give to the Boniface Community recreational activities.

In another instance, a donation that was not critical but nonetheless greatly appreciated was implemented by LINC: 28 gerbils (small animals resembling ham-sters) found new homes when the Child Development Center gave them to another children's agency that needed the furry creatures for its kids!

Some of the valued contribucently on an individual basis include storm windows and screens to a community center, draperies to a correctional center, ovens children's desks to a day care center and a piano to a school.

All these donated items proved to be very important to the grateful recipient agencies and the in-dividuals who needed their help.

But as crucial as LINC services are, they would be impossible without the one element that helps the organization accomplish its mission - donations of goods. Donations from individuals, businesses and institutions are vital throughout the year.

Currently, Coluni lists a number of needed items that could mean success to agencies that are hijing to aid their clients.

• Baby cribs are needed by a center for teen mothers, a day care center, a health care facility and a continuing education program for teen mothers.

• Stoves and beds are in great demand by a number of agencies.

• Large quantities of paint of every type and color, including opened and half-used cans, are desperately needed by a correctional center, a community development center that helps the elderly maintain their homes, a Latin American center for educational development and a block club that aids needy individuals.

• And, finally, the most needed items of all are vehicles for transportation. Two schools need vans to transport children. And a community center needs a station wagon or van to take elderly citi-

While items like automobiles or major appliances might seem like a costly contribution, all donations to LINC are tax deductible.

Shafer-Lighton vows spoken

Mary Lynn Lighton, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jack E. Lighton, of Kenwood Road, became the bride of Thomas Charles Shafer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Shafer, of Troy, at a candlelight ceremony Saturday, June 12, in Saint James Lutheran Church.
Pastor George Shelter officiated at the 6 o'clock ceremony which was fol-lowed by a cocktail and dinner reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. The newlyweds vacationed on Nantuc-ket Island and traveled the East Coast for two weeks before returning to Michigan to make their home in Troy.

The bride wore a white satin gown, styled with an Alencon lace bodice featuring a lace-edged, off-the-shoulder neckline. Her silk-faced satin skirt was hemmed with a deep border of matching lace. Satin loops and pink silk roses edged her cathedral length lace train.

A matching headpiece of satin loops and pink silk roses held her cathedral length double veil and blusher, trimmed with scattered lace, pearlized sequins and pearls, and she carried a cascade of pink and white silk roses peach states is forecast at 360 million state. pounds: 50 percent of last year's crop.

Michigan peach crop is good

North Carolina was especially hard hit by cold weather this spring; the peach crop there is a mere 2 million pounds mony, Cresthaven and Kalhaven. Redcompared with 40 million pounds in 1981. Nationally, the fresh peach crop is forecast at 2.20 billion pounds, 21 percent below last year's harvest.

California's peach production is significantly lower in both freestone and clingstone peaches. The clingstone crop, which goes primarily into cans, is off 10 percent. California is the major producer of clingstone peaches, so this very likely will mean higher prices for canned peaches.

As a result of the good peach crop in Michigan and a short crop elsewhere, buyers from other states are looking to Michigan for fresh peaches. Consumers, therefore, can expect to pay top prices for fresh peaches.

No doubt the most economical time to purchase peaches will be during this third week in August. That's when the Red Haven variety — No. 1 in volume 1 in the Red Haven variety — No. 1 in volume 2 in three or four days at room to be required to the sum or the Red Haven variety — No. 1 in volume 2 in three or four days at room to be required to the sum or the su this third week in August. That's when the Red Haven variety — No. 1 in vol-ume and a favorite of Michigan shop-pers — will be in peak supply.

Several factors have endeared Red Haven peaches to shoppers. Besides having an extremely good flavor, Red Havens (and all other Haven varieties except Hale Haven) are resistant to browning. This makes them ideal for freezing as well as canning. Red Havens are freestone — the flesh comes off the pit easily - when the fruit is and baby's-breath, tied with satin ribbons.

Honor matron Dawn Eschenburg, honor maid Lisa Moore and bridesmaids Wendy Honstain, Janet Shafer, Susan Harrison and Nancy Genik wore long dresses of pink chiffon and silk wreath headpieces. They carried long-stemmed pink roses with baby's-breath, tied with satin ribbon.

Best man was Louis C Schmidt IV. Richard Jones, Benjiman Plaff, David C. Phillips, Jeffry Harrison and Wil-liam Genik formed the usher corps.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown of sapphire blue silk crepe and a matching stole. She placed matching flowers in her hair and wore a wrist corsage of white gardenias with pink Sweetheart roses and satin ribbons.

The bridegroom's mother selected a long dress of white chiffon decorated at the skirt line and sleeves in delicate shades of green and pink. Her flowers were white orchids and pink

A good peach crop is being harvested in Michigan. The state crop is estimated at 45 million pounds, up 29 September. Other varieties have a percent from that of a year ago. Elsewhere in the country, peaches didn't fare so well this year.

and flesh and should be firm, mature, well formed and free from decay. Look for a creamy yellow to gold skin under the outer red blush. Red blush alone is not a sign of ripeness; the amount of red blush varies with the variety. Do not purchase hard peaches with a ground color that is more green

For a break from peaches, consumers can enjoy Paulareds, a late summer apple with the flavor and texture characteristics of a fall apple. This all-purpose apple comes to market at the same time as peaches, with the qualities shoppers want.

A Dancers' Festival

More than 275 graceful teenagers from across the country gathered at Michigan State University last month to improve their dancing skills at the 31st Annual Cecchetti Ballet Conference and Seminar, and among them were six Pointers: Dana Christian, of Lakeland Avenue, a Grace Thomas Dance Studio student, and Ruth Finger, of Whittier Road, Katherine Hawhee, of Berkshire Road, Kerry Baker, of Fontana Lane, Cathy DePenne of Piver Boad and Italian and Parker DeRonne, of River Road, and Julie Heisner, of Roslyn Road, students at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Mary Ellen Cooper Dance School.

And at the end of the 12-day program, after a public ballet performance in the MSU Auditorium, 15 outstanding young dancers received scholarship awards covering tuition for the 1983 conference. And among those winners, first runner-up in the Class C scholarship dance competition was Cathy DeRonne.

The Cecchetti Method emphasizes style and quality of movement; dancers must pass exams to move on to graded competency levels. The annual conference, sponsored by the Cecchetti Council of America and MSU's Lifelong Education Programs, featured more than 150 workshop and class sessions.

This year's faculty included Desmond Kelly, ballet master of England's Sadlers Wells, who chose the performing students and choreographed the public recital, Francoise Martinet, assistant professor of dance at Iowa State University and a former Robert Joffrey Company ballerina, nationally known teacher/choreographer Irina Kladivova-Pal and Margaret Marsh, of London, England, a Cecchetti major examiner.

Babies of alcoholic women are not the only victims. Although occasional light drinking has not yet been linked to FAS, one study showed that two drinks a day can lead to low weight and increased risk of miscarriage. So far, medical research has not been able to identify a safe level of drinking. "That is why," says Nisour campaign says the best advice is simply not to drink during pregnancy.

New Pointe ABWA chapter is formed

Members of the newly formed Grosse Pointe Chapter of the American Business Women's Association, an outgrowth of Detroit's Motor City Charter Chapter, gathered recently at the German American Cultural Center to install new members and vote on new plans and policies.

The meeting was conducted by the temporary officers, former Motor City members. Installation of 27 Grosse Pointe Chapter members and the signing of a charter followed dinner.

The current officers, who will hold office for three months after which of-ficers will be elected from the newly installed members, are Marguerite Lynch, president, Patricia Artz, vice-president, Yvonne Miller and Josephine DePonio, recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively, and Diane Wollesen, treasurer.

The Grosse Pointe Charter Chapter is the new chapter's official name. An orientation session followed the installation ceremonies. Committee chairmen were also appointed. A portion of the agenda for the new chapter's meeting yesterday, Wednesday, Aug. 18, at 6 p.m. at the German American Cultural Center, was devoted to determining a location within The Pointe for future meetings.

Hold Lochmoor Ladies' Ninth Golf Invitational

Lochmoor Club's Ninth Annual Ladies' Invitational, held Wednesday and Thursday, July 28 and 29, was, per tradition, a tremendous success, with the weather, prizes, decorations and luncheons contributing to produce a memorable two-day event.

General chairpersons were Helen Zurschmiede and Sandy King. The decor featured balloons — everywhere: in the dining and locker rooms and on the golf course. Small golf purses with balloons attached were used as table decorations, all the work of Elsie Pierron and Joann Stringari. Betty Davis and Ginny Schnurr or-ganized the tournament. The prizes, all crystal, were selected by Kae Jaskolski and Lorraine Fraser. The breakfasts and luncheons were planned by Marianne Evatz and Ruth Doll. Finances were handled by Evelyn Scott, Cathy Andary and Barb Cavanaugh.

publicity, photography and the myriad Tray. other details necessary for a well-run tourney were Joan Figley, Sara Wooten, Betsy Schoof, Bev Brown, Peg Cole, Elaine Feeser, Betty Crawford, Grace McCormick, Gladys Dewey, Grace Breen, Darlene Wieringa, Pat Rentschler, Mary DiSante and Mary Batten.

The ladies were assisted by a group of men who provided willing help, including Bob Batten, Jim Doll, Hans Lovisa, Glenn Carpenter, Ray Johnson, the Wieringas (father and son) and Jim Picard.

A car was offered, through the courtesy of Don Wood of Wood Motors and Norm Merollis of Merollis Chevrolet, for a hole-in-one. Unfortunately, no one qualified — but it was exciting to

Rheumatologist work is varied

A rheumatologist is a physician qualified as a specialist in internal medicine who studies and practices in the broad field of rheumatic diseases. The most common rheumatic disease is joint inflammation (arthritis), but other organ systems (heart, lungs, circulating blood, kidneys, etc.) may be involved as well. Rheumatologists an organ sys tem but pertain to a large group of diffuse inflammatory and musculoskeletal diseases that can affect the entire body, notes the Michigan State Medical Society.

A large majority of patients are referred to rheumatologists for specialized care in arthritic disorders. Rheumatologists work with a variety of specialists, including orthopaedic surgeons, in the management of pa-tients with a congenital deformity which has resulted in muscle or bone pain or functional problems, and psychiatrists, in the area of rehabilitation. in diagnostic problems such as pain syndromes or fevers, illnesses of unknown origin and the management of patients with rehabilitative needs.

Rheumatologists normally perform only minor surgical procedures, such as injections into joints and occasional needle biopsies. They have a strong background in infectious dis-eases to help them identify and properly treat the varying degrees of severity and complexity of rheumatic diseases and those less understood disorders such as rheumatoid arthritis and lupus. While many rheumatoloto patients, most patients should also have a family physician or internist.

A rheumatologist has in his training completed four years of medical school, a year of internship, three years of residency and special instruction in the field of rheumatology

Teachers grow older, poorer

The average American public school teacher today is older, better educated, less well paid and less likely to choose teaching as a career if given a second chance than was the case in

According to a recent nationwide survey by the National Education Association, more than one in three teachers "certainly" or "probably" would not become teachers again if they were given the choice.

Other findings of the survey include: The average age of public school teachers was 39 in 1981, up from 36 in

• Teachers surveyed in 1981 had spent more time in college than those surveyed in earlier years. Nearly half the teachers surveyed in 1981 had graduate degrees, more than double the number that had them in 1961 and an increase of 12 percent from 1976

• Teacher salaries are not keeping up with inflation. In 1980-81, those surveyed had a mean salary of $17,209, an increase of 43.3 percent from the $12,005 earned during the 1975-76 school year. But that increase was 14.1 percent smaller than the rise in the rate of inflation during the same

White House is reflection of all America's dreams

By David M. Maxfield Smithsonian News Service

Times change, presidents change, and, in the White House public and family rooms, styles and furnishings

Fifty years ago, the mansion's second floor West Sitting Hall, used then and now by the president's family as a private living room, resembled a lush garden. Wicker furniture was arranged on a checkerboard patterned grass rug. Long, copper trays containing ferns and blossoming plants bor-dered palm lined walls. The deep, fan-topped window had been screened to make an aviary for Lou Henry Hoover's canaries; inside, a tree provided a place for the birds to perch and sing.

Today, what was once an airy sun room is President and Mrs. Reagan's pale yellow sitting room: a comfortable looking space containing the family's own furniture, collections, photographs and art shipped east from Cali-

Throughout the family quarters on the White House second and third floors, extensively refurbished rooms and halls reflect the Reagans' twin goals of making 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue a place to call home as well as a showcase for the valuable, historic furnishings collected by their predecessors.

"I believe very strongly that the White House is a special place and should represent the best our nation has to offer." Nancy Reagan told the. Smithsonian News Service in response to questions submitted to her about the refurbishing project. "I think the people want it that way.

Until recently, however, many of the valuable and historic antiques dating back to the republic's earliest decades "were sitting in the warehouse," Mrs. Reagan said. "Insufficient funds did not permit renovating and restoring them to their proper condition," she added. As a consequence, many pieces were "deteriorating" while reproduc-tions were substituted throughout the living quarters.

After the 1980 election, Mrs. Reagan decided that the historic pieces should be removed from the warehouse, restored and returned to the White House, where they could be used and preserved. But the $50,000 allowance allocated to an incoming administration for redecorating was considered insufficient for repairing, reupholstering and regilding the furniture, as well as for necessary maintenance work throughout the White House.

'So many things needed to be done, but the funds weren't there," Peter McCoy, deputy assistant to the president and director of staff for the first lady, said. The Reagans subsequently raised $822,640 in both "large" and "small" private donations for the now completed work, which included the furniture restoration plus painting, sanding and refinishing floors for the first time in 20 years and replacing worn and sundamaged carpets, wall coverings, curtains and upholstery.

Today, White House Usher Rex.
Scouten estimates that "95 percent" of "important" items in the White House collection are in use.

"I really didn't want to ask for taxpayer money from Congress at a time we were trying to cut back on the budget," Mrs. Reagan said. "So I decided to return the $50,000 decorating allowance to the government and the taxpayers . . ."

With several exceptions, such as painting certain State and ground floor rooms, adding a priceless sofa to the Blue Room and cleaning the mansion's' marble fireplaces, the project was confined to the family quarters. The State rooms had been extensively restored during the Kennedy and Nixon administrations.

In the 16 decades since the White House was burned by the British in 1814 and reconstructed, it has undergone five major changes — not counting the Reagans' alterations — beginning with the Monroe presidency (1817-25) and covering projects by Presidents Arthur, Theodore Roosevelt, Truman and Kennedy.

When President and Mrs. Monroe moved into the rebuilt residence in the fall of 1817 its exterior had been painted a gleaming white for the first time. They decorated the "large oval room" on the first floor with fashionable French Empire furniture: elegantly carved and gilded pieces they had or-dered from France.

On view once again in the oval Blue Room are seven chairs and a sofa from that collection. The sofa had been sold at auction in 1860 - "if you can believe it," Mrs. Reagan says -but returned to the White House in 1978. In 1981 Mrs. Reagan had it removed from storage, regilded and re-covered in blue\silk upholstery to match the chairs.

The White House, as newly renovated, represents all periods of American history, with the focus on Federal period furnishings of the late 18th and early 19th centuries. On display are tables, chairs, prints, paintings, sofas, objets d'art, candelabra and sculpture. The walls are groaning with things we recovered from storage. The Reagans' decorator, Ted Graber, told the News Service. We really ended up having a treasure hunt. We found eagle carvings, eagle brackets, engravings - things in every nook and William Seale, who is working on a two volume history of the executive mansion, recently observed that "the house has to be reshaped constantly to reflect various lifestyles. The White House is an environment of run-runrun." The Reagans, he said, "like the informal approach — an environment in which they can work and relax. That is what's been done?

Actually, the recent work completed by the Reagans is built on preservation and restoration traditions followed by 20th century White House residents. Until the early 1900s, most first families were very conscious of keeping up with the latest furnishing styles and would pay for new acquisitions by selling at auction the items bought by previous presidents.

This practice reached an extreme when President Chester Arthur in 1881 removed and sold 24 wagonloads of household goods, including all the fur-niture from the East Room and Green Room and part from the Red Room. 'I will not live in a house like this," he declared, proceeding to fill the place with the latest, ornate Victorian

But Teddy Roosevelt would have none of that. Appalled by what he considered Victorian excesses — rooms filled with bric-a-brac, bead-fringed lampshades, clumsy furnishings, gilt and shiny varnish — he brought in the well known architectural firm of Mc-Kim, Meade and White to restore the house to its original early 19th century classicism. That theme has been maintained throughout this century.

The search for period furniture for the mansion was pioneered in the 1920s by Grace Coolidge who successfully urged Congress to pass a resolution authorizing the president to accept "rare old pieces" as gifts for the White House. Though the antiques only trickled in, the Green Room was refurnished before the Coolidges left the mansion. In turn, Mrs. Hoover grouped the few remaining pieces from the Monroe era in an upstairs room and had some other original Monroe pieces copied for the White

Mamie Eisenhower launched a refurnishing program in 1959 and two years later, at the beginning of the Kennedy administration, Congress passed legislation providing that White House furniture of "historic or artistic interest" was "inalienable" property, to be used only there or loaned to the Smithsonian. With the arrival of the Kennedys, the decorating emphasis to locate and display original period furnishings on both the State and family floors went into high gear. "It's been 20 years since Jacqueline Kennedy Onassisbegan her restoration project in the White House," Mrs. Reagan said. "She did not have time to complete her work. I found there was a great deal to be done.

Until the turn of the century, the West Sitting Hall, which the Reagans now call home, was little more than a glorified stair landing, sparsely furnished and at one time covered by what one observer described as a "rich but frightfully ugly carpet." The stairs were ripped out in 1902. Thereafter, presidential families arranged the room with their favorite furnish-

The space has been described as the most cheery spot in the White House. "I wanted the room to be as homelike and comfortable as possible." Mrs. Reagan said, "and I think I have achieved that with my own furniture."

The room has a "very personal look," Graber said. Among the furnishings are red chintz covered sofas, English antiques, collections of jade objects and Chinese porcelains, paintings, miniature Chippendale chairs, plants and flowers and a needlepoint sofa pillow with the initials RR.

'My husband's study on the second floor is also turnished with personal furniture and mementos," Mrs. Reagan noted. "The desk is his own, as are the two upholstered chairs and a butler's table. Everywhere in our home there are special family photographs to remind us of earlier days."

But it is in the adjoining long Center Hall where Nancy Reagan's desire to display furnishings acquired and used by earlier presidential families is evident. Centered in the hall is an octagonal shaped, 19th century English partners desk used during the Kennedy years but later sent to storage. Along the walls are rare pieces of American Federal furniture, most of them acquired during the Kennedy presidency: a Sheraton style (1800-15) settee; two matching chairs and Pembroke tables with drop leaves in the Hepplewhite style. To one side is a 12fold Chinese Coromandel screen given to the White House in 1964.

In the room's bookcases Mrs. Reagan has placed a collection of flower patterned plates from the china collections of the Polk and Grant adminis-trations. The hall has become "an elongated drawing room," Graber points out, "divided" like an old Victorian house into two receiving rooms by the partners desk.

Off the hall and overlooking the Washington Monument is the gold-yel-, low Oval Room, decorated with Louis XVI and American Empire furnishings made about 1800. Little changed in 20 years, the Yellow Oval Room is probably the most important room on the second floor of the White House. for it is here that the president receives foreign visitors attending state dinners.

John Adams, the nation's second president (but first to live in the White House), also used the room for receptions, holding the first official party in the mansion there on Jan. 1, 1801. A few years later, Dolley Madison trimmed the room in yellow — but all the early furnishings were lost in the 1814 fire. As the years passed the Oval Room was taken over by later presidents for their personal studies, libraries or additional family living space. As late as the 1950s, President Eisenhower displayed his military decora-tions in cases along the oval walls.

Change came with the Kennedys, who restored the room to its earlier color and formality. Mrs. Reagan has maintained this look but added two comfortable upholstered sofas.

"It is a perfectly beautiful room, but we wanted to break down some of the formality." Graber says. Noteworthy here are a painted settee and two armchairs, decorated with scrollwork nd female figures. They once be-onged to President Monroe.

Among the most dramatic recent hanges are those in the formerly fororn third floor Center Hall. The area now serves as a sitting room or 'warm, large library" for the adjoining bedrooms, Graber said. The choice was to leave the space empty or to furnish it. We chose the latter; it became a good place to put many of the things that were in storage."

Located here is a collection of furnishings and art that one White House staff member says "runs the gamut" 'of the mansion's history. In this room can be found New York Empire tables, a Baltimore secretary desk, Dutch ginger jars, Currier and Ives prints, 19th century American painted chairs, a pair of comfortable English chairs and much more.

'Among the wonderful items we discovered in storage," Mrs. Reagan reported, "was a 19th century, French-made Benjamin Franklin clock," a timepiece highlighted by a figure of Franklin, who was much admired by the French. "We had it cleaned and repaired and it now sits in the third floor Center Hall. It is beau-

"There is an exquisite collection of painted and stencilled furniture we have used to good advantage on the third floor," Mrs. Reagan added. "We found an English Regency settee, circa 1820, and a pair of 19th century English side tables decorated in chi-noiserie motifs, and a wonderful set of fine New England chairs made in the early 19th century . . . It was a shame to have these lovely pieces deteriorating in storage.

A few yards off the hall, overlooking the Washington Monument and the Jefferson Memorial, is a special room to the Reagans. This is the third floor sun room, where they often slip away for lunch. Added to the White House by Mrs. Coolidge and enlarged by the Trumans, whose parakeets tweeted in their cages near the windows, the room, Graber said, "is like a garden setting, very quiet, with everything playing to the spectacular views. It is the only place in the White House where you get sun, sky and clouds." The sofas have been covered in a green-and-white print, the walls textured, painted and glazed Auduhon prints were selected for decoration.

FRENCH ORANGE CAKE

1 cup sugar

⅓ tsp. salt ½ cup unsalted margarine

1 egg, well beaten 12 cup skim milk

2 cups sifted flour Rind of 1 orange, grated 1/3 cup chopped English wal-

1 pkg. (7-34 oz) pitted dates 1 tsp. soda

1/2 cup boiling water

Juice of 1 orange

34 cup sugar Cut each date into halves or thirds. Dissolve soda in boiling water and pour over dates in small bowl.

Blend margarine, sugar and salt until light and fluffy. Add well beaten egg and beat until fluffy. Add part of the flour and milk alternately to the sugar mixture. Blend in orange rind and date mixture; then the remaining flour and nuts. Pour batter into 9-inch ring mold pan which has been well sprayed with oil and dusted with flour.

Bake in 350° preheated oven for 45 to 50 minutes or until cake tests done. Remove from oven and put on a platter which has been covered with aluminum foil. Mix 34 cup sugar and 3 Tosp. orange juice: pierce top of the cake all over with small diameter meat skewer; pour orange mixture over warm cake. Let stand until glaze has hardened before placing on serving plate. Makes 20 slices. Calories about 191 per slice.

Cholesterol about 12 mgs.

DRESSES

Fall '82 dressing will be marked by polished, pulled-together looks. Separate dressing has been left behind. Length, which is no longer an issue, may be at the knee or mid-calf, but the silhouette has a lean, narrow line. The overblown fullness of last fall has disappeared - softness will always be controlled. It seems the designers are finally listening to us and creating sophisticated, easy, sensible dressing based on clean pure lines, quality fabrics, and good workmanship. The key theme this season is "elegant day-time dressing." These are the clothes you will love to live in as they spend the day going from office to committee meetings to dinner. meetings to dinner.

SHOES

Footwear is really big news shoe styling is the closed-up looks of pumps versus the opened-up look of city sandals, slides and clogs. This trend started to take shape a year ago, picked up momentum through spring, and is in full force for fall 1982.

The pumps for fall 1982 cover three areas:

1. Dress pumps on mid to high heels with tapered toe low heels with more oval toe shapes (ideal for suits and skirts).

3. Pant or tuxedo pumps on both covered and stacked low heels and wedges.

The variety of silhouettes and detailings on pumps, along with the numerous colors and shades, is quite extensive. Heels come in an assortment of shapes, but are generally mid to low in height. The very high (4" heel) plain pump, referred to as the "Jordan Look" fashioned by Halston, Garolini, and Anne Klein will Garolini, and Anne Klein will also be in prominence. Black will be the hottest color.

The boot look is the other most important statement for fall 1982. Last fall, the riding boot started a whole different feeling for fashion boots. The lower heels made these boots more wearable with both dress and casual wardrobes, going with various skirt lengths and pants.

This year, will also see several low heel boots, particularly boots with convertible cuffs to be worn up or down ... more versatile than last year's.

ACCESSORIES

There are several distinct fashion themes being told for fall '82. The season's major influences are:

Mollie Parnis Fall 1982 Collection

Mollie Parnis, one of the leading figures in American fashion, is also a powerful influence on other areas of American life through her interests in beautification, community culture and betterment, and her fascination with and belief in the strengthening and encouragement of excellence in American journalism.

Miss Parnis is a notable member of the inner circle of New York and Washington life and her parties are a galaxy of personalities of national and international renown.

Her business career began as a designer and grew into the supervising and editing of two divisions. It's essence today lies in her impeccable eye for quiet elegance. Today she wields overall authority in her firm, with her partner Bob Kaufman. Mollie Parnis Inc. encompasses Mollie Parnis Couture and Mollie Parnis Studio ther young designer division), both of which stand for elegant, feminine and aware fashions for the world's smartest women. Mollie Parnis Livingston, the pub-lic figure, is philanthropist, collector, and the mover-doer behind two important causes which she herself originated and endowed. One is the "Dress Up Your Neighborhood competition which she first established for the City of New York and later repeated in Jerusalem, Israel. The aim of this project is to encourage neighborhoods in the city to create pocket parks and play areas, do plantings and clean up their surroundings

Along with numerous scholarships to fashion schools, Mollie Parnis contributed an elaborate group of decorative plantings to the Parsons School of Design in New York, which the school affectionately named "Parnis Plaza"

The importance of her contributions to her native New York City were heralded in February 1981 when, together with Laurance Rockefeller, she received the prestigious "New Yorkers for New York" Award made annually by the Citizens Committee for New York.

In 1981 Mollie Parnis realized a special dream, the establishment of the Livingston Journalism Awards in memory of her son, Robert Livingston. The Livingston Awards, made to recognize the talents and achievements of three outstanding young (under 35) journalists each year, for a single notable news report, local, national, and international in a newspaper print or electronic news service, television or radio during 1981. The awards are selected by a world-famous group of journalists, and conducted by the University of Michigan through Dean Charles R. Eisendrath of the University's school of journalism.

The judges of the most excellent work submitted in the competition for three annual prizes of $5,000 each, include David Brinkley, network correspondent of ABC News. Richard M. Clurman, former Chief of Correspondent's Time-Life Publications. Charlotte Curtis, associate editor of New York Times. Author David Halberstam, Mike Wallace of CBS News and Barbara Walters of ABC News.

Mollie Parnis is in the International Best Dressed Hall of Fame. She always chooses her own clothes by Parnis creed - becomingness first, in fashionable lines and fabrics.

A magazine profile on Mollie Parnis stated: "When Mollie Parnis thinks a dress will sell, it does." Her authority on what is right in fashion is taken as gospel by notables in many areas, from the White House to Hollywood, in the area of the arts and in international society.

Head of the multi-million dollar business she founded with her late husband, Leon Livingston (and re-established with Robert Kaufman), Mollie Parnis Livingston's life style is the wonder of her friends. She miraculously manages to administer her business, plan and edit the collections of both her couture and young designer divisions with her design staff, supervise the selling, advertising and promotion of her collections, entertain brilliantly and follow through in her civic interests in a day that begins at 10 a.m. and rarely goes beyond 5 p.m. "I always know what needs to be done that day, and how to see that competent people carry out my ideas," she says.

She seldom goes out to lunch. An invitation to have cold cuts and fruit compote on a cardiable in her ivory paneled office is cherished by

You could call Mollie Parnis clothes deliberately "snob" and you wouldn't be wrong

They are designed for the women of the world who wear them, women who know everything of value, and the value of everything.

They are the result of the discriminating eye and taste of Mollie Parnis plus George Samen's lively creativity and sense of chic.

And let's not forget practicality, says Bob Kaufman, president of Mollie Parnis. We make a big point of ultrasuede in each collection, because it is a material so many sophisticated doers love." Mollie Parnis is noted for doing the best fashion job of all in this medium, and George Samen begins the Fall 1982 collection with little ultrasuede suits, coat dresses and dresses.

The perfectionist suit and sleek coat dress make a dashing street scene here. Silk crepe dresses are soft and slender, in interesting colorings and prints

The Parnis silhouette is basically slim with volume added for evening through spiral flounces or big poufs of taffeta or satin.

The evening collection begins with dramatically beautiful fabric and goes on from there. They are clothes without gimmicks or self-consciousness of any kind, but each one has presence. A sinuous body-following dress in black wool crepe has a sunburst of jewels on its one shoulder and a beautiful long cape of white flannel.

The sumptuous, gem-quality beaded evening jackets which Mollie Parnis adores and regards as a signature each year, more than live up to their reputation in this collection. Intricate looped beading in gold and silver give some of them a fascinating shimmer and others are paved in mixed jewel colors in sequins, and still others in intricate beaded stripes like lace encrustations.

Loden-Frey of Austria New "European Preppy"

Loden, the fabric that for centuries has met the toughest challenges of mountain sports and rough weather, now has smart city manners and sophisticated new styling.

First in the Grosse Pointes to feature the line is Shirley Hartley of Hartley's Country Lane Gentry Clothes, 85 Kercheval on the Hill. Shirley tells us the secret of Loden-Frey fabric is in the milling and finishing. Loomed only of finest quality yarns, the fabric undergoes a tough scouring/milling process to felt the fibers under controlled shrinking, producing its dense yet lightweight and "breathable" texture. Complex dry-finishing steps, including teaseling and brushing, give it its fine Since Loden-Frey was founded in 1842. its master craftsmen have put quality in every step. No wonder that in old Vienna. Emperor Franz-Joseph decreed that Loden qualified as formal wear for dress occasions! Another advantage of this fabric worth mentioning is how little care it requires. Regardless of whether you have just come in from out of the rain or snow with a few strokes of a brush. your water-repellent loden coat is wrinkle free and neat again. The original Loden-Frey coat was a hunter's coat. The back sported a deep center vent for freedom of movement, it was unlined but had a double layer of cloth over the shoulders and the buttons were covered by a fly-front so they did not get caught in the underbrush.

Hartley's features classically elegant coats that retain their traditional freedom of action plus suits, jackets, vests, capes with meticulous tailoring details, impeccable double-stich double-stich trim, dyed-to-match linings and pipings.

Political Science subjects have never been required for future fashion designers, yet Joan Wieseneck (pronounced Weez-neck) born in Florida is the possessor of a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Washington.

Encouraged by her studies to see the world, Joan decided to do it on company time, signing up as an international flight attendant.

Between flights, Joan developed an interest in creating handthrown and hand-glazed pottery pieces which evolved from a serious hobby into a small but thriving pottery shop.

Literally dashing from kiln to Kennedy International Airport, her continuing career with the airline took her frequently to Brazil where she greatly admired the loose, airy, sensual garments of the Brazilian women. Inspired, she designed similar garments for herself and her friends. Eventually Sara Mique the pottery shop was reborn as Sara Mique, a collection of lucious hand-dyed evening dresses noted for their slender columnar silhouettes lavishly trimmed with frothy lace ruffles.

Ralph Lauren Fall 1982

The Ralph Lauren Fall 1982 Collection captures and refines all the moods and themes he's always been known for — the country prairie look; the well-bred tweedy country look; the sophisticated, polished city mood; and each mood finished to perfection — in fabrication, in silhouette, in ambiance. This is truly the way the modern American woman wants to dress. A mode, an ambiance for all the different lives she leads. One not more valid than the other. Each right for her different moods, her varying commitments. Each the ultimate in the look it represents.

experience. This fall Ralph Lauren has taken early American folk motifs and fabrications, and incorporated them into a spirited charming salute to primative Americana. Authentic patchwork quilts have been transformed into beautiful full length skirts and fitted cropped jackets, and old woodwork stenciled patterns appear hand painted on suede wrap skirts.

Complimenting these pieces are a series of sampler sweaters with schoolhouses, horses, and heart motifs, all handknit in warm earth shades of lovatt and taupe, and all signed and dated to become collectable treasures. This whole primitive American feeling is pulled together with pure linen smock blouses with full sleeves and embroidered collar and cuffs for a romantic home spun feeling. Lace scarves and antique cameos worn under collars add a touch of feminity, while thick rag socks and heavy leather sandals add a gutsy ruggedness.

HELENE SIDEL

No one could be more definite in direction than Helene Sidel, a graduate of Laboratory Institute of Merchandising.

Her father was a well-known New York dress manufacturer, her mother owns a retail shop.

She started designing blouses and in 1975 created the cassock blouse that became so popular, it was made in numerous fabrics and colors and almost became a "uniform". A reminder of its tremendous popularity is conspicuously displayed in the designer's Seventh Avenue offices in the fabric symbolic of the success it brought — gold lame.

From then on, the Sidel story has been straight up the ladder.

Her design philosophy? "Knowing the need and filling it. I think like a customer instead of

"Speak softly, but say it in sequins" is her new festive fall message.

A designer who refuses to be pigeonholed under either "classic" or "kicky", Sidel loves to mix the two in a carefree way of the own.

Her latest is to turn all the familiar sportswear shapes — the tee shirt, sweatshirt, the tank top, sportshirt, pullover, cardigan, blazer and slacks — into a bedazzlement of glitter by cutting these classic shapes in chiffon and paving them in solid paillefte embroidery.

Textured yarns are featured in chunky cottons, popcorn knits and geometric knits (aztec to Oriental). Also important are color blocking, animal motifs and architectural designs. Shetlands are better than ever with traditional tipped necks, horizontal rugby striping, fair isles and all-over flecks. New in shetlands are the thicker, brushed shetland looks. Novelty styles will feature blousons with big dolman sleeves, three-quarter or puffed sleeves, boat necks and button or flanged shoulders. Another item to play close attention to is the vest. These will range from basic styles (Sidney Gould's three-button tuxedo style), weskits in both solids and prints, and bigger, over-sized looks with shawl collars and Aztec prints for lots of layering. In bottoms, early challis and cordurov styles will be prevalent. The flounced country prairie theme is carried over here. Skirts are one, two-, and triple-tiered and the soft fabrics look great in the fuller cuts. Some will feature full styles with lots of waist detail in soft denim and corduroy. Lightweight wools, again in very full silhouettes in both solids and plaid with special waist detail, will also be in for transitional wearing. The heavier wool and wool blends will arrive to give a great selection of slims, dirndls and pleats in plaids, herringbones and solid flan-

Winter Hair Care Tips

By Helmut L. Melzer, Vice-President & Director of Research & Development for Ogilvie Hair Care Products.

There is nothing more attractive than silky, shimmering, gorgeous looking hair. Long or short, thick or thin, it's a measure of your personal identity. Unfortunately, though, during the cold wintery months, the low humidity that accompanies winter can cause as much havoc for your hair as it does for your skin. Excessive exposure to cold and dry air can weaken the hair shaft's outer layer, or cuticle, resulting in damaged, lifeless looking hair.

Super looking hair is not something you are born with. It can only be achieved with the right knowledge and regular care. Your hairstyle is as attractive as the hair it's fashioned from, which is why a routine conditioning regimen is essential with an instant conditioner following every sham-

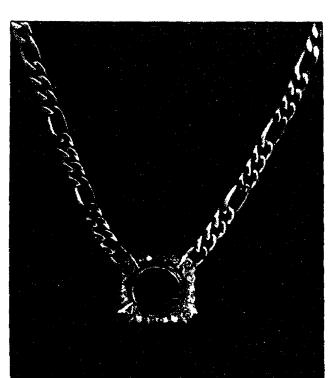

If your hair appears dry and brittle, it could unfortunately already be damaged by excessive wear and tear and is undoubtedly crying out for a penetrating conditioner. Since damaged hair accepts conditioning agents and body builders more readily than normal hair, deep down conditioners are provided with more of these substances.

Frequent shampooing is good in winter. Indoor heat dries skin at the scalp causing it to turn white and scaly, resembling flakes of dandruff. Irritation or redness at the scalp is a sign of dandruff while flaking simply indicates dryness. An effective shampoo with thorough rinsing is safe and will resolve the problems for most people who really don't require a dandruff shampoo.

The best time to shampoo your hair on the coldest winter days is before you start the day. You rinse away nighttime perspiration and wear fuller and fresher style. To limit the time you blow dry your hair, quickly blot excess moisture with paper towels. They will absorb water more readily than terry ones and reduce drying men's fashion industry. In the very laid-back sixties and early seventies, many young men were content to keep their wardrobe pared down to bare basics.

Target customers for young men's fashions in the 1980's have grown up with more sophisticated lifestyles and distinct clothing preferences.

"Contemporary" is really the word to use in describing today's young male customer who wants to dress in a way that reflects what's going on in fashion.

This consumer is earning his own income and buying his own clothes (as opposed to older, more traditional male consumers who permit women to make or influence approximately 60 percent of their clothing purchases.

The contemporary customer is aware of his body and concerned with the fit of his clothes, a fact that is hardly suprising in light of the current national preoccupation with physical fitness

Because he is very conscious of fashion and what his friends are wearing, he identifies strongly with status brands, designer names and labels

The origin of the role of bridesmaid goes back to primitive times when marriage-by-capture was the norm.

According to Marcia Seligson, author of "The Eternal Bliss Machine," the captive bride, to protect herself from invading tribes, surrounded herself with girl friends to attempt to stave off the kidnap-

Tradition has it that bridesmaids give the bride a special luncheon often in pink and white or colors of the forthcoming wedding.

If you're a bride-to-be, why not give a luncheon for your bridal attendants, regardless of what the custom is in your community? It's not only thoughtful, but an ideal time to pause and reflect on the happiness of the occasion and to present the girls with their gifts.

Interior designer Shelley Weiss has created a casual but elegant setting for such a "party" on a round pedestal table. Appropriate for intimate dining, it allows equal billing in a group.

Ms. Weiss, well-known for her innovations, has used as a centerpiece a large brass goose festooned with fresh napkins in reserve for dessert. The bobeche-topped crystal candleholders are graced with a twisted silk flower and paper ribbon "curls." The table is simple but festive and ofers the bride-to-be a prenuptial opportunity to display her new china even if her place settings are limited in number.

Attendants incur considerable expense to honor the bride, e.g. cost of gowns, shower and wedding gifts. Best friends, which bridesmaids usually are, deserve special recognition. Turnabout is only fair play.

ENGLISH AND ORIENTAL ARTISTRY influenced many a home interior in 18th-century America. Today's revival of enthusiasm for 18th-century environments is reflected in this bright, eclectic living room. Eastern design details appear on a cocktail table with its brassframed top and bamboo-motif carved wood base. ## Pint-sized Pointers learn karate the Panagos way

By Jenna Doe

"If I yell loud, it's that I just Wee Karate class.

Bill and his two brothers, Gus Panagos, 27, and Chris Panagos, 25, teach the class in Tai Kwon Do geared down for the younger set at Assumption Cultural Center on Saturday morning. Some students are no taller than the black belts that their instructors wear, but they are getting their first exposure to the ancient martial art.

Because of the short attention span of younger students the class is broken up into a variety of activities to keep them interested. The class begins with stretching exercises where students stretch to warm-up hamstrings and test their legs by trying splits. Students must be limber to perform the art effectively. Then, each instructor takes a group of children to work on a particular skill.

One group works on kicks. The instructor holds a mat up and the stud-ent runs and throws a kick into the mat, both feet are off the floor. Another group is taking turns throwing a classmate over a shoulder and onto mats on the floor. Each throw is accompanied with a chorus of giggles from the spectators as they watch their classmates fall to the mat. And, another group works on patterns. These are combinations of steps, punches and blocks that must be memorized in sequence.

"There is no fighting in the pee-wee class," said Gus, the oldest brother. Right now we work on coordination and concentration. This way the younger kids are not prone to go around chopping up things.

The Panagos brothers also teach adult karate at the center, on Tuesday and Thursday nights. In this class where the ages range from 10 to 65, harsh commands given first in Korean students need to be reminded of their and then in English. The class is based on the discipline required to successtalk loud," explains karate in-structor Bill Panagos to his Pee-spect for the rank of the instructors is

> The students bow when entering and leaving the classroom. Sometimes as the students take their commanded positions the instructors will test them by kicking at the legs that should be straightened, or pushing the student to be sure the position is firm. Students are expected to withstand small doses > of physical discomfort.

> Each class ends with a sparring session. The students do spar with another student who is equal in ability and size.

> Chris, the youngest brother, said that although karate is a lesson in self defense their class has one of the lowest injury rates at the center. "Only golf outranks us," he said.
> "Students seem to expect some > roughness, we've gotten no complaints, roughness is part of the Hollywood image of karate," said the middle brother, Bill. The students in the karate classes

> "The biggest pressure cooker a man can find himself in is when someone is being aggressive. If one is able to function well in those adverse conditions, he can function well in other less threatening situations."

Humility is another personal quality that grows with the practice of karate. Gus said that to be proud one must first be humble. He said all things in life are in contrast.

"Humility comes with the respect for the more advanced levels of the art. Sometimes even the advanced position," said Gus, "This is when we let them spar with us.'

To be promoted to the next level, whether it is from a white belt to a yellow, the first level of accomplishment, or from a red belt to a black belt, the highest level of accomplishment, the student must go through rigorous testing. They must be able to perform their patterns perfectly. With each level the student achieves, a degree of confidence is obtained.

Bill, however, said brute force alone is not enough for any person. The Panagos brothers go to great lengths to impress on their students that they must also use their minds with their karate strength. Although karate is a violent art, the karate students at Assumption are told to avoid violence whenever possible.

Bill, Gus, and Chris hold black belts, et they have never used their art in a fight.

"I believe there is always another
"Violence is a last way out," said Gus, "Violence is a last resort, God gave us a mouth to reason.
"But," Gus admits, "It is nice to have something to back you up."

Bill said, sometimes just a push can be enough to discourage an aggressor. This is what he did when he met with trouble during his high school years.

The Panagos brothers are very successful outside of the karate class. They financed their education themselves through summer jobs and working after school. Gus is project engineer at the Warren Tank Plant, Bill is an attorney who began practicing law last June, and Chris is in his last year of dental school at the University of Detroit.

They live with their mother, their father died 20 years ago. Their home is decorated with beautiful oil paintings done by Gus and Chris. All three brothers play the mandolin for their own entertainment, and chess and tennis for recreation. Gus does some running and all three do some weight

They speak fluent Greek and German. And, they enjoy reading and collecting books.

Bill said he believes in being a renaissance man. "I want to know some-time about everything," he said. In karate class we tell our students to develop their potentials," Gus said.

They do have an influence over their students. Chris said some of the students in karate have gone on to pursue careers in law or dentistry. "We be-come sort of counselors for our students," he said.

Who influenced the Panagos brothers? "Mom was real supportive and she was there when we needed a kick in the pants, and she has no black belt, she has a mother's belt," Gus

It's travel hockey time

The Grosse Pointe Hockey Associa-tion is ready to kick-off its 1982-83 travel hockey season. Travel hockey is available to area children through try-outs which will be conducted in the coming weeks.

Pointe travel hockey teams represent the area in state and regional competition, as well as in outstate and Canadian tournaments during the year. Children need not be Pointe residents to play on community teams. Travel tryouts are open to all children, however, the higher skilled players and skaters are selected for travel

Travel hockey is normally divided into A and AA brackets. "A" teams are comprised of younger players in the division; "AA" consists of the older players. Questions concerning the proper age bracket will be handled by the coaches.

Travel team director Dave Dennis encourages all prior skaters to attend the upcoming tryouts. Dennis may be contacted at 268-5200 or 882-5675 to answer questions regarding the travel

The following tryout schedules have been developed to allow children several opportunities to demonstrate their

GPYC swims to third in area meet

By Margie Reins Smith

The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club swimming team took third place in the Michigan Inter-Club Swimming Association's 43rd annual championship meet. Forty of GPYC's best swimmers competed against 13 other MICSA member clubs on July 31 and Aug. 1 at Birmingham Athletic Club.

Birmingham Athletic Club won the championship with a score of 707. Lochmoor Club took second place with 573 points. GPYC swimmers were third with 546 and Country Club of Detroit came in fourth with 473.

Two GPYC swimmers set record times at the two-day event. Kelly Bartsch swam the girls' 11-12 50 free in 28.57 seconds, beating the old mark by .17 seconds. Sandy Smith swam the girls' 11-12 50 breaststroke in a record-breaking 37.23, beating the previous time of 37.78.

GPYC's girls took home the Girls' High Point trophy — an annual award given to the team whose girls score the most points during the champion-

The team also took the MICSA trophy for the girls' 200 free all-age relay on the efforts of Ann Tipp, Kelly Bartsch, Nancy Georgi and Ann Mitchell

The trophy for the girls' 200 medley all-age relay was captured for GPYC by Kristen Youngblood, Sandy Smith, Krystin Strong and Ann Mitchell. Ann Tipp swam to a first in girls'

9-10 50 breaststroke, while Jennifer Youngblood took a second place rib-bon. Strong and Michelle McGough took second and third in the girls' 13-14 50 breaststroke. Seven-year-old Ashley Moran took second in the girls 8-andunder 25 backstroke.

In girls' 13-14 50 backstroke, Krystin Strong placed second and Nancy Georgi placed fourth. Nine-year-old Charlie Stumb took seventh in boys' 9-10 butterfly and 12th in boys' 9-10

Kristen Youngblood won third place in the girls' 9-10 free. Jeff Clark, Eric Steiner, Tim Monahan and Tom Anderson won fifth place in the Boys' 200 all-age medley relay.

Detroit-area private clubs which compete in dual meets and a finals championship each summer. GPYC took first place in the seven-member upper division dual meet competition for the seventh straight year. They were un-defeated in the six dual meets of the season. GPYC won the championship finals in 1978 and 1980.

Member clubs in the upper division of MICSA for the 1983 season were determined by their performances in this year's finals. The upper division competitors will be: Birmingham Athletic Club, Lochmoor Country Club, Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, Country Club of Detroit, Oakland Hills Country Club, Red Run Golf Club and Dearborn Country Club.

Lower division MICSA members for 1983 will be: Plum Hollow Golf Club, Grosse Ile Country Club, Detroit Yacht Club, Detroit Golf Club, Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, Western Golf and Country Club, and Detroit Boat Club. Next year's championship finals will be held at Detroit Yacht Club.

Sports physics on exhibit at Science Center

What makes a fork ball dip and drop? How does the quarterback keep the tight spiral on his pass while he throws it 60 yards? Why do players talk of spin when they make shots in basketball, golf and billiards?

Contests and exhibits on the physics of throwing the ball will be featured at the Detroit Science Center Saturday, Aug. 21; at 2 p.m. Contestants can test their skills in distance and accuracy. Throw a basketball through a hoop or a football through a tire. For baseball fans, speed and accuracy will be the test as well as making the ball curve across the plate

A donation of $1 for each contestant will go to the Police Athletic League. Contest prizes have been donated by Detroit Lions Club, East Side Sporting Goods and World of Sports

Special outside exhibits at the Science Center will illustrate the various aspects of the physics involved, including action/reaction and conservation of

A Bernoulli Blower illustrates the principle of spin to indicate which way the ball will turn in flight. The "sweet, spot" on a baseball bat will demonstrate the effect of mass and speed in another exhibit.

Members of the Police Athletic League will be on hand to assist. P.A.L. is a community organization under the sponsorship of the Detroit Police to further interest in sports among young people.

The Detroit Science Center is located at 5020 John R and East Warren. The center is closed Mondays, but open Tuesday through Friday 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Sunday noon to 8:30 p.m.

Winners lauded in Park tennis tourney

The Grosse Pointe Park Tennis Cindy Tewes. Tournament, held Saturday, July 18, through Friday, July 23, crowned champions in singles and doubles play. The week-long event of matches and picnicking attracted many new players as well as the perennial participants.

Children's matches were held during the day while adult matches were played in the evening.

In the girls' 12 and under singles, Nicole Sick took the title after a close match with Amy Brumme. Two friends battled in the 16 and under match in which Lil Petersen took the event from Mary Beth Turner. The girls' doubles was won by Sara Mayer and Katy Turner who took the title from Meg Petersen and Nicole

The boys' 12 and under singles title went to Tom Sullivan as he defeated David Ligan. The boys' 16 and under singles event was won by Colin Barr with Geoff Centner named runner-up. Centner and Jason Shilson teamed up for the boys' doubles victory over Brian Kesteloot and Ligan.

The Petersen family dominated both the mother-daughter and the father-daughter matches. Pam and Lil Petersen took the match for the mother-daughter title over Nancy and

Meg and her father Jerry Petersen than teamed up to take the father daughter match from the Walker

Lack of entrants gave the one-round mother-son match to Elanor and Rankin Barker, as they defeated Mary and Joe Wierzbicki. The father-son title went to John and John Thomson Jr. as they took a close match from

Tom and Tim O'Neill. Chee-Chee Williams took the women's singles title by defeating Nancy Mayer in the final round of the event. Joining Ann Stephan, Ms. Williams hung on until the last few points but lost the women's doubles title to Lil

Petersen and Stephanie Shulte.
The largest event was the men's singles competition. Forty men competed in the 45 and under event in which Todd McCoy was crowned champion after a tough match with Dan Watson. In the men's 45 and over singles, an addition to this year's tournament, Tom O'Neill took the title

after defeating Vern Aushorman
After a hard-fought match, Chris
Lee and Don Garver took the title from Stephan and Jerry Petersen in the men's doubles. In mixed doubles; Mary and Bill Hodgeman took the victory over runner-ups Jennifer Tewes and John Algren.

BUT WE HAVE OUTGROWN OUR 3 BEDROOM, 21/2 BATH CENTER ENTRANCE COLONIAL on BROADSTONE, a quiet tree-lined street in Grosse Pointe Woods.

Our home has a large living room with fireplace, an over-sized master bedroom with attached master bath and sun deck, and a large paneled family room with beamed ceiling, parquet floor, Pella windows and a doorwall leading to a large covered porch and patio with gas grill. The spacious kitchen has a Solarian floor, dishwasher, disposal and a large eating area. The basement is fully paneled and tiled, with an accoustical ceiling. The attic is complete with extra insulation, plywood floor, lighting and pulldown stairs. There are custom moldings throughout the house. The roof, driveway, aluminum siding, and gutters are only 4 years old.

Best of all, there is a large beautifully landscaped lot for the children to play in. We are looking for another family to make our house their home.

Take a bite out of crime

By Det. Earl Field

Don't scrimp on this vital protec-

There was a time when those who lived in small towns didn't bother with locks. Even today you can hear the wistful remembrance — "why, when I was growing up we never locked our doors. Who would've bothered us?"

That is, unfortunately, a nostalgic view of a situation that could literally mean the difference between life and death. It is truly unfortunate that in these days of high crime risk and pro-fessional 12-year-old burglars it is necessary to turn our homes into fortresses, but to ignore the situation is

No lock is foolproof, but if it can cost a burglar vital seconds and thus increase his fear of getting caught, or force him to consider breaking a window and rousing the neighbors with the noise. It increases your chances that he'll go elsewhere with felonious attentions.

Remember that the primary purpose of a lock is to provide solid security. If you want outward appearance, that's fine, but don't purpose that the primary purpose in the purpose of the pu chase locks on the basis of their beauty. Something may cost alot because it is stylish, but offer far less security than a system costing much less. Also remember that locks and other security hardware vary in cost from location to location and from store to store. So be a good customer, know what you need and compare. Locking devices range from a simple chain-latch to double cylinder dead-bolts as well as some exotic recent developments that are probably more expensive and sophisticated than an average homeowner requires.

Chain Latches The too popular chain latch may actually contribute to crime by providing a false sense of security. You may be tempted to trust the latch and open the door for a "quick-peek" at the person trying to gain entry. One sharp blow with a foot will usually rip the latch right out of the door, and your home is wide open for assault.

By far the most common lock in America today, the spring-latch lock usually found on the outside doors, is easily popped with a credit card or screwdriver slipped between the latch and the strike plate. The deadlatch (not to be confused with a dead-bolt) type is similar, but it has a small bar or plunger which prevents the lock being shimmed with a credit card. Even so, the lock is not useful, because the plunger is too weak and too short to be of much use. In addition, both kinds of knobs are easily snapped off by a would-be thief.

Cylinder Deadbolts

The lock of choice among most police professionals, deadbolt locks are operated with a key from outside. The single cylinder deadbolt has a key on the outside and a thumb turn-piece on the inside of the door for ease in use. It's more convenient than a double cylinder lock, since you don't have to use a key on the inside as well, but the single dead bolt should be used only if there is not glass or plastic within 40 inches that could be broken by an intruder. It would be a simple matter to break the window and simply turn the single deadbolt lock by hand from the inside.

The double cylinder deadbolt uses a key to open and operate it from both inside and outside. It can be securely used even if there is a window within arm reach and will hold the door securely in place. All deadbolts, whether single or double cylinder should have at least a one-inch throw bolt of casehardened steel or contain a case hardened steel insert. If the insert is pinshaped, it is even more effective since even a hacksaw blade will roll off its rounded edges. The cylinder guard itself should be made of solid metal with a retaining ring that's tapered and free turning. This way a burglar can't grip it with pliers or a wrench. The heads of connecting screws must be as heads of connecting screws must be on the inside so that a burglar can't sim-ply unscrew the lock. The strike plate should be attached to the door with three inch screws which go all the way through the frame into a structural member of the house.

Dead bolts are available in do-it-

at three international jazz festivals in Europe in 1982.

Adams, Heard, Hanna, Belgrave and others will play together in the free-wheeling Detroit Jams III, the culmination of the jazz celebration of sociation with this important interna-tional celebration," he said.

The Montreux-Detroit Kool Jazz Festival is co-sponsored by the Detroit Renaissance Foundation and Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.

yourself kits with cutting templates and all hardware from most hardware stores. You will need a drill for the installation, but you can manage the job yourself in a short time. On the other hand, you may also wish wisely to let a professional locksmith handle the installation of this vital security link for you.

Rim or Surface Locks
Many apartments, especially older apartments, have interlocking rim locks, which are jimmy resistant.
They're mounted on the inside surface of a door that swings in. They're useful and effective, but it's important that the strike is secured to the door with at least two-inch wood screws The lock itself must be bolted through the door (with the nuts on the inside), with carriage bolts, not with wood screws. Frequently the rim lock is used in conjunction with the so-called 'police lock.''

Buttress Locks (Police Locks)

The buttress lock is a metal bar that's angled down from the door to fit into a recessed block in the floor. It's basically a sophisticated version of the old "chair under the doorknob" trick If the buttress lock is used alone, it can be maneuvered out of the way by rocking the door or sliding something underneath to jimmy the lock out of position. Used in conjunction with other locks, it adds an extra measure of protection.

Padlocks and Hasps
Used to secure doors both in and out of the home, both padlocks and hasps should be made from case hardened steel with at least a 9/32 inch hackle. The padlock should be on both the heel and toes of the shackle and should be of heavy construction with a five pin tumbler. Keep firmly in mind that a strong padlock is only as good as the hasp its attached to. A padlock on a weak hasp is useless. The hasp must be at least as strong as the padlock and should have no screws or bolts visible when it is secured. Use screws as strong as the door permits or-better yet — use carriage bolts through the door. If you use carriage bolts, be certain to multilate the threads of the bolts after installation by beating them with a hammer. This keeps the nuts from being removed.

Special Problems If you have sliding glass doors in your home, it's easy to make certain they'll stay closed. Simply drill a narrow hole in a downward angle in the overlapping frames at the top center. Then insert a steel pin or heavy gauge nail. To keep the doors from being removed from the tracks, install a 114 inch pan head (large head) sheet metal screw in the upper track at both ends and the middle of the frames in such a manner that the screw just clears the top of the door frames. This keeps the frames from being lifted off their tracks and removed.

To keep the doors closed, the easiest method is to jam a cut-off broom handle in the track so the door can't be opened. Another version of this is a hinged metal bar available at most locksmiths and hardware stores that folds against the side. Remember, after installing good locks, use them. It only takes a burglar a few seconds to enter your home or business place via unlocked doors. and to walk out with your valuable property.

Use "Operation Identification" on all of your portable property, it has ef-fectively reduced burglar wherever it has been properly implemented.

		TOTAL

If you scored over 110 points, you're potentially a heavy cable viewer and a prime candidate for Galaxy. If you scored between 90 to 105, you are potentially a serious cable viewer of at least one pay service. If you scored between 70 to 85, you are potentially a moderate cable viewer who may consider a basic cable service for extra channels and better reception

If you scored between 50 and 65, chances are cable is not for your family at this particular time.
