LISTENERS TO WXYZ'S Mike Miller Morning Show (5:30 to 9:30 a.m.) learned of the joy of victory and the agony of defeat last week when an absolutely top drawer resident of the Pointe named "Biffy" called in to lament the loss of summer.

No more gym and tonics, khaki shorts, bicycling and tennis at the club. But all is not lost. With autumn comes Harris tweeds, argyle socks, multi-colored docksiders and the first annual "Preppy Olympics," held recently in the Park.

According to "Biffy," two of the more popular events were the 400 meter social climb and the team tantrum toss. After the events were over, mummy and daddy raised everyone's allowance.

"Biffy" is really comedian Tim Allen, who's currently appearing at "Knock Knock," a comedy nightclub in Southfield. According to Allen, "Biffy" will reappear on the Miller show on Friday, Oct. 1, to wrap up the rest of the events, and report on the parties afterwards.

AMONG HIS MANY well earned honors, Pointer GORDON BUEHRIG can now list another. He recently had a street named after him in Auburn, Ind. Known as the "Father of Automotive Design," Buehrig, who designed the classic Cord, Auburns and Duetsenbergs, received the honor at the "Cord-Auburn-Duesenberg Car Collectors Festival" held this past summer in Auburn.

THERE WAS A hot time in the old Park last week. Park firefighter JOE BIALK loves (or used to love) good chili. When he whipped up a batch for the boys at the fire station last week they commented that it was a little mild.

A big, burly kind of guy and not to be intimidated, Bialk poured in a jar of jalapeno pepper sauce a friend had given him and dinner was on. While the others noted the change with red, sweaty faces, clenched fists and wheezy voices, Bialk reportedly downed the brew with a straight face and calm demeanor until 4 a.m., when he awoke the rest of his crew with what he swore was a heart attack. The squad rushed him to Bon Secours Hospital where fortunately, the heart attack turned out to be a false alarm. The final diagnosis was heart burn. Kinda gives you a warm feeling inside, doesn't it?

EVER BEEN TO a sea-going flea market? You'll get your chance at the 12th annual Great Lakes Metropolitan Beach Park Marina, Oct. 2 to 10. The nautical flea market is just a side light to the power-sailboat show that drew in 50,000 visitors last year.

Produced by Bishop Road resident JACK LEVERENZ, the show will feature large boats in water, with smaller craft on land. All are available for inspection.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sundays; 4 to 8 p.m. on Monday to Thursday and noon until 8 p.m. Friday. Admission is $4 for adults and $1 for kids under 12. Incidentally, anyone can bring anything to swap or sell at the flea market. Twenty percent of the sale price goes to the show.

NEVER MIND THAT it was 88 degrees last week. Forget the fact that people are still wearing shorts and going to Tiger ball games. Ignore the water skiers on Lake St. Clair. (Continued on Page 6A)

Getting tough with loved ones

By Joanne Gouleche

There is a message in the times in the music that says we need to be equal with everyone else. We have swung from a rigid society to one where we must become equal.

"But that doesn't mean you can take my rights away."

Fran Pastoria, program coordinator for the Northeast Guidance Center, isn't referring to the ongoing equal rights battle between men and women. This war is being waged in the livingrooms around the country, leaving one side wounded with guilt, embarrassment and frustration.

The seemingly apparent victor in all this, however, stands to lose much more than he ever dreamed. And, at 15 years of age, that can be a lot to bargain for.

Bickering between parents and their children is nothing new. But in cases where the bickering has pushed parents against the wall after endless arguments with their kids about alcohol and drug habits, about their daughter's truancy from school, about their son's second arrest for burglary this year, parents are joining in Toughlove, a support group for parents with troublesome children.

"CHILDREN HAVE always had peer support groups," Mrs. Pastoria said. "It's only been now that parents need a support group, too. Toughlove fits that need."

The Toughlove organization was founded five years ago by David and Phyllis York, Pennsylvania family therapists who began the parental support group after a traumatic experience with their own daughter who was arrested for holding up a cocaine dealer.

It was their daughter's second arrest and the Yorks refused to bail her out of jail. Instead she spent six months in jail without a visit by her parents. It wasn't until four months after her acquittal and a vow of cooperation from their daughter that the Yorks allowed her to return home.

Here in Grosse Pointe, parents will have an opportunity to learn about Toughlove at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 375 Lothrop Road, on Monday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe office of the Northeast Guidance Center, is intended to introduce parents to the philosophy of the Toughlove program. Future meetings will be held weekly.

"The Yorks believe understanding and being nice to your kids doesn't always produce desirable results," Mrs. Pastoria said. "Parents should say what they mean and mean what they say."

The NEGC's executive director, Dr. Jonathan L. York, concluded there is a need for a Toughlove program in Grosse Pointe after hearing and reading about the program.

"IT SOUNDED LIKE a lot of problems we have here in Grosse Pointe. It's hard to say what kind of response we will have, but if other communities like Grosse Pointe are any indication, it should have an overwhelming response."

Mrs. Pastoria stressed that it is the hope of the NEGC to make Grosse Pointe's Toughlove group self-sufficient.

There are Toughlove programs already in Dearborn and Farmington Hills, according to Mrs. Pastoria, where the bottom line philosophy of the Toughlove program is preached: cooperation in the home.

"There are so many cases where teenagers have taken over the household," Mrs. Pastoria said. "Kids on substance abuse become very powerful. You really need to balance that out."

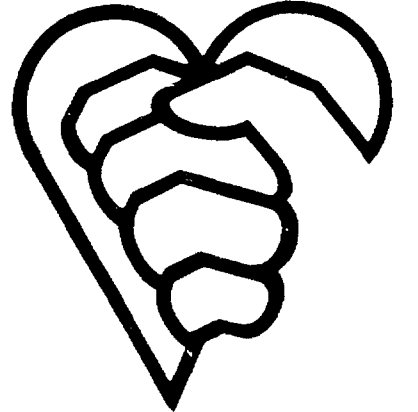

"Once you get past the conflict and move onto cooperation, it reinforces the love between parent and child."

At Toughlove meetings around the country, it's not uncommon for parents to reveal how they have piled their kid's clothes on the front steps after they return home at an unreasonable hour.

Parents then order their kids to live elsewhere until they understand what the rules of the house are, according to Mrs. Pastoria.

She attended one of those workshops in Ann Arbor last June where she heard testimonies from a couple hundred parents who have made Toughlove a way of life.

"Parents were vocal about the kind of help they were getting from one another in dealing with similar situations," she said, adding the Yorks' belief that parents need the support of other parents in crisis situations and they need to set manageable goals and issue ultimatums if necessary.

TOUGHLOVE

TOO OFTEN parents feel ashamed and guilty because they can't control their children. "They think they have done something wrong," according to Mrs. Pastoria.

After Toughlove is sprung into action at home, it usually involves parents negotiating a contract with their children outlining specific rules and regulations they must abide by.

But, the Yorks point out, Toughlove is not the answer for all troublesome children. Phyllis York has stressed: "It is a way of drawing the line against out-of-control kids and compelling them to live by reasonable but stringent rules."

Boy, 13, killed in auto accident

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A 13-year-old Woods boy died Saturday, Sept. 18, in St. John Hospital of multiple injuries he received the day before, when he apparently crossed the Mack-Vernier intersection against the light and was struck by a car.

Christopher Hohmeyer, of Severn Road, was struck by a car at 8:40 p.m. Friday, Sept. 17, as he tried to cross westbound Vernier Road on his bicycle against the light, police said.

Officers on patrol in the area said they saw Hohmeyer riding his 20-inch bicycle south along the Mack sidewalk. He was returning home after visiting a friend, police said. He had just passed the Mack entrance to A. H. Peters Funeral Home, apparently in a hurry according to reports, when officers lost sight of him behind parked cars. The patrol car was stopped on southbound Mack waiting for the red light to change.

According to reports, officers spotted Hohmeyer as he entered the intersection and was struck by a blue Oldsmobile two-door traveling westbound on Vernier. Hohmeyer was rolled onto the hood of the car and was carried about 108 feet before the car stopped and he fell to the ground, police said.

Hohmeyer suffered "obviously very serious injuries," police said, and was unresponsive to first aid administered at the scene by Woods emergency medical technicians and a St. Clair Shores EMT who volunteered his service.

He was taken to St. John where he remained in very serious condition until he died at 7:40 p.m. Saturday, hospital officials said.

HOHMEYER, a student at the University Liggett middle school, is the second pedestrian to die at the intersection since 1978. In May of that year, a 13-year-old bicyclist was struck and killed by a city garbage truck as it turned onto eastbound Vernier from Mack.

The facts of Friday's accident will be presented to the Wayne County Prosecutor to decide whether charges will be brought against the driver, Public Safety Director Jack Patterson said.

Hohmeyer, an eighth grader at Liggett, came to Grosse Pointe three years ago with his family when his father, James, became music coordinator at the school. Mr. Hohmeyer is also head of vocal and instrumental music instruction at the Upper School.

As part of a family that is musically involved at both the school and Christ Episcopal Church, according to school officials, Chris was a percussionist for the school. He played in the school band and (Continued on Page 6A)

This is it folks — the first day of fall. It's time to pack the boat away, say goodbye to all those pleasurable summer pursuits and get ready for winter's onslaught. The "Bluenose" sailors wrapped up the official competitive season on Lake St. Clair last weekend, while the football season at North and South High Schools got underway. There's no doubt about it — summer's gone.

Woods judge makes a full-time commitment

By Mike Andrzejczyk

When the Woods swears in newly-appointed Municipal Judge Patricia Schneider Monday, Oct. 4, the city will have a judge who wants to communicate with and educate residents about the workings of the court.

Mrs. Schneider was named to the judgeship Monday, Sept. 13, to fill the vacancy left by the death of Woods-Shores Municipal Judge J. Patrick Denis last Memorial Day. She will serve the rest of Denis' unexpired term in the Woods until the November, 1983, elections.

The municipal judgeship will be a change from her duties for the last five years, Mrs. Schneider said. Since 1977, she has worked as a deputy defender in the Wayne County Legal Aid and Defender's Office.

As a deputy defender, Mrs. Schneider handled felony trial cases, she said. The municipal courts handle mostly misdemeanors, ordinance violations, arraignments and preliminary examinations. Municipal courts also have civil jurisdiction over cases involving $1,500 in damages or less.

"It will be a change because I want to spend some of my time being accessible, being in contact with people," Mrs. Schneider said. "I am a former school teacher and I would like to use that experience as well by being a source of information for the community."

MRS. SCHNEIDER SAID she would like to work with schools by beginning a program to tell students about the workings of the legal system and the consequences of breaking the law. She has lectured many community groups on legal issues, she said.

Her work with the county has given her experience in circuit, district and municipal courts, Mrs. Schneider said. She will leave her private practice during her tenure as judge, she added, because she doesn't think a judge should maintain a private practice.

Mrs. Schneider was chosen from 17 candidates who were interviewed by a subcommittee made up of Mayor George Freeman, Councilmen Thomas Fahrner and Robert Novitke and City Attorney George Catlin.

Judge Patricia Schneider

"She was well-versed, well prepared and very qualified," Fahrner said, adding the committee had a difficult time of picking a new judge because of the quality of all of the candidates. Mrs. Schneider "stood out as the most qualified and the best prepared. She had some very good ideas about the court which impressed me," Fahrner said.

Mrs. Schneider has already spent some time in the court learning and observing, Fahrner said. "She's very energetic. I think she'll do a very good job."

By Joanne Gouleche

Grosse Pointe's public schools lost about 400 students since last fall, an unofficial classroom count last week showed. The count indicates the elementary schools lost 203 students, while North and South high schools decreased by 206 students.

Grosse Pointe's middle schools increased by six students, from the September, 1981 figure of 1,278 to last week's tally of 1,284 students. Overall, the district's student population stands at 7,786 as of last week, compared to the 8,189 figure the same time a year ago.

School officials noted the figures will likely change by the fourth Friday of September when the district must officially report its enrollment picture to the state.

THIS YEAR'S entering kindergarten class of 410 students (class of 1992) compares to the 837 students who will be graduated this June, figures showed.

Enrollment in Grosse Pointe's public schools has been on a declining path each year since 1971 when 13,700 students were recorded as attending local schools. The closest the district has come near last week's 7,786 students was in 1955 when 8,506 students were enrolled.

School officials concede they will never see the 13,000 figure of the early 1970s again, primarily because of a declining birthrate in the Pointes.

According to the just-released 1982 school census, school officials note a 10.6 percent decrease in the 15 to 17-year-olds in Grosse Pointe during the past two years while a lesser decrease is noted in the 12 to 14-year-old age group.

Residents fed up with noise at Steak & Egg Kitchen

By Susan McDonald

Complaining about excessive noise, fights and "bad news characters," neighbors of the Steak and Egg Kitchen on Jefferson Avenue went to the Park City Council last week seeking to limit the restaurant's all-night hours.

They were joined there by neighbors of another nearby business — the Esquire Theater — who have regularly attended recent council meetings with similar complaints on their side of Jefferson Avenue.

Petitions containing the names of 100 people living on Nottingham, Balfour, Westchester, Pemberton and Somerset Roads were presented to the council. The letter asked the council to curtail the restaurant's hours "in the best interest of the general public welfare."

They alleged noise from the 24-hour Steak and Egg keep them awake all night, there are many fights in the parking lot and prostitutes have moved into the Kitchen at nights. References also were made to the August kidnapping and rape of three young women from the parking lot of the Kitchen.

PARK POLICE, however, said they have received few complaints about activities at the Kitchen. "It's attracting some pretty trashy customers, but it's a (Continued on Page 6A)

judge "has the demeanor and the desire to be a municipal judge and she has expressed the wish to devote herself to the job full time."

Besides her five years' with the county, Mrs. Schneider has served as a law clerk for both Arthur Tarnow in his criminal appellate practice and the District Counsel of the U.S. Equal Opportunity Employment Opportunity Commission. A graduate from Cornell University, Mrs. Schneider received her law degree from the University of Detroit as well as doing post-graduate work at Syracuse University.

A MOTHER OF four, Mrs. Schneider spent 10 years with Grosse Pointe public schools as a substitute teacher and adult education instructor. Her husband, Burkhard Schneider is a vice-president of Detroit Edison Co. They have lived in the Woods for 19 years.

In 1974, Mrs. Schneider trained, organized and led 30 volunteers in a review of 2,213 felony files to determine whether attorneys retained by clients, court-assigned attorneys or assignments from the Defender's Office performed better for clients.

The study concluded that client-retained attorneys put in the most work for clients, she said. Defenders ranked second, while court appointed attorneys ranked third, she added.

The study had little effect on the system, Mrs. Schneider said, but was a forerunner for a 1981 Detroit News series that looked at criminal appeals. Both studies, although seven years separate, came to the same conclusions, Mrs. Schneider said.

Mrs. Schneider is a member of the state and federal Bar Association, the American and Michigan Trial Lawyer's Association and the Women Lawyer's Association of Michigan. She is also former vice-president, program chairman and secretary of the Grosse Pointe branch of the American Association of University Women and treasurer and executive board member of the Women's Justice Center.

Judge Schneider will replace interim Woods Municipal Judge Robert Vanweimeersch, who was appointed by the State Supreme Court Administrator's Office to hear cases in the Woods until a permanent appointment was made.

At the same time, the court administrator is deliberating the assignment of Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel to the Shores Municipal Court, village officials said. Mrs. Grobbel will serve until a district court is formed, village officials added.

$21,000 boat taken in Farms

A $21,000 boat was stolen from the Farms Pier Park Thursday morning, Sept. 9, according to police reports. Reportedly, three men showed up to help pump out the 31-foot power boat, which was filled with water.

After pumping out the boat, a witness said two of the men attached the boat to a smaller 22 to 24 foot Sea Ray and towed the larger vessel out of the harbor.

The witness told police he thought the boat was being removed for repairs. Later in the day, the owner of the stolen boat appeared at the park with a van and trailer to remove his boat for repairs.

When last seen, the stolen boat was heading east on Lake St. Clair. The Coast Guard has been notified.

Why Be Examined By An Ophthalmologist?

An ophthalmologist has had many years of training in the recognition and treatment of all kinds of vision problems, including those caused by diseases of the body as a whole. For example, it is not uncommon for an ophthalmologist to recognize untreated diabetes, high blood pressure, or the visual type migraine. And, if glaucoma is suspected, follow-up tests are required that only an ophthalmologist can perform.

So there's more to examining eyes than testing for glasses. But, if he finds that you need them, an ophthalmologist will give you a lens prescription to take to a reliable optical company of your choice.

Inter-Faith Makes Music Connection

Variety will be the key, with music ranging from today's jazz to rhythm and blues to "good-times" sounds, as the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice presents Music Connection '82 at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 3.

A featured attraction will be Bird-Trane-Sco-Now!, a 15-piece jazz ensemble of eastside young people ranging in age from 7 to 17. Founded in April, 1979, by musician-educator Donald Washington, the group features original approaches to the art of improvisation, disciplined intensity and drive. They know who Charlie Parker, John Coltrane and Roscoe Mitchell are.

Juanita McCray, who appeared at the Music Connection for the first time last year, is known throughout the Detroit area for her rhythm and blues vocal interpretations.

Both teachers at University

Liggett School. Maureen and Rich Del Grosso have become Music Connection regulars. They have an infectious style that has fun with sea chants, barrelhouse blues and campfire favorites. Karen Bouchard is a popular local folk singer.

Host for the evening will be Fr. Tom Krell, formerly co-pastor of St. Ambrose Parish.

St. Andrew's Hall, at 431 East Congress in Bricktown between the Renaissance Center and Greektown, has become a center for the performing arts. It has been called "Detroit's newest old building," following refurbishing to its original 1907 architectural details.

The hall is home for the St. Andrew's Society, a Scottish benevolent society organized in 1849 to assist Scots coming to America and help them maintain their ethnic traditions.

In addition to the musical entertainment, a $10 donation includes a European supper, served in a cabaret setting. A cash bar will be available.

Advance ticket purchase is suggested. Group reservations will be accepted. Tickets may be obtained at the Inter-Faith Center in the annex behind Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee in Grosse Pointe City, and at the door as long as space is available.

A trip to the art fair

There was plenty to see and hear at the Grosse Pointe Artists' Association 23rd annual Fall Art Festival earlier this month at the War Memorial. The show was the association's biggest ever with 174 entries, according to the artists' president George Howell, of Fisher Road. Artists and craftsmen showed their wares along with a special display of more than 40 miniature rooms by 16 collectors, and a children's crafts section. There was no admission charge and plenty of demonstrations, a carillon concert and a performance by Frank Seydler's Music Markers and their "East Side Big Band Sound." President Howell, who is the association's first male leader in 30 years, said the show was a great success for local artists. The group has more than 200 members. — Photos by Betty Carpenter.

Pointers walk to fight hunger

Grosse Pointe's third annual Hunger Walk, sponsored by the local Ministerial Association, is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 10, beginning at the usual site, the St. Paul Gym, 170 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Walkers will check in at 1:30 p.m. and be welcomed by a platform of local celebrities. The route will follow Lakeshore up to Deeplands, across Cook Road to Chalfonte, over to Mack Avenue via Rivard, down Audubon to Kercheval, then on St.

Clair to Jefferson to the finish line at St. Paul-on-the-Lake Church.

There will be plenty of rest stops provided along the route in churches and schools.

Pointers turned out 1,300 strong for last year's walk to raise $22,000 for organizations that help feed hungry people in Detroit and abroad. The first Hunger Walk, in 1980, involved 900 persons and raised $28,000. At least a quarter of the funds raised are used to help people on Detroit's east side and the rest has been donated to CROP, a overseas nutrition program, according to St. Paul's Sister Betty Flaherty.

Coordinator for Hunger Walk III is the Rev. Jack Skiles, assisted by Sister Betty, Dick Tapper, Dick Hile and Cindy and Peter Warner. For information, call 884-3075 or 884-9298. Sponsor forms are available at Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods schools and churches.

This year's goal is to involve 1,300 walkers raising $22,000.

Kressbach honored for public service

Grosse Pointe City Manager Thomas W. Kressbach was one of seven Michigan public officials honored for distinguished service to municipal government at the Michigan Municipal League's 84th annual convention on Mackinac Island last week.

A merit award was presented to Kressbach before an audience of more than 800 municipal officials and guests attending the league's banquet at the Grand Hotel on Sept. 17.

Kressbach, city manager of Grosse Pointe City for 16 years, was a trustee of the league from 1974 to 1977 and has served on the league's legislative, finance and taxation and urban affairs committees. He is the immediate past president of the Michigan chapter of the International City Management Association.

The Michigan Municipal League, organized in 1899, has a membership of 472 cities and villages throughout Michigan and is dedicated to the advancement of home rule and to the improvement of municipal government through cooperative effort.

Sunningdale construction tests residents' patience

By Mike Andrzejczyk

For residents on Sunningdale Drive between Fairway and Sunningdale Park in the Woods, it has not been a pleasant summer.

First, easements and sidewalks were torn up while trees were cut down as the city put in a new watermain on the street. The water line runs under the sidewalk on Sunningdale Park to the old Milk River, then runs under the parkway.

A sewer line, larger than the original, was also put in under the sidewalk, running from the old Milk River to Fairway. The deeper line meant excavation, sidewalk removal and the felling of trees.

Sometimes this week, forms will be laid by the contractor who will replace the street pavement. The new pavement, which could be poured in two days according to city engineer Laurence Pate, will be a foot wider than the present street. The concrete will take 10 to 12 days to season, Pate said.

DURING THE excavation, a Detroit Edison line that powered street lights was cut, leaving Sunningdale Drive and Lochmoor without street lights. City Administrator Chester Petersen said a Detroit Edison crew was to begin work to replace the line and restore the street lights.

Residents have been subjected to the noise of heavy equipment, dirt and dust since mid-May when the new sewer lines were moved into the neighborhood. It may be the middle of October before the project is complete, according to Pate.

Although there could be ample reasons for complaints, area homeowners seemed at best pleased — or at least resigned — to the project, citing the size of the project as one of the reasons for their understanding.

"They start early in the morning and they are still out until dark working," one resident said. "On the whole, I think it's coming along. I don't think there's much you can do about it."

Asked if the project had meant any inconvenience, another resident said, "We had 18 inches of water in our basement last fall, and if the new sewer will do away with that, it'll be worth the inconvenience."

There were complaints of damage to cars that hit holes left by excavations, mud, dust and the length of the project, but homeowners invariably concluded by saying "what can you do about it?"

One man said the contractors had removed his copper water — sprinkling system and replaced it with a rubber one, adding the workers said rubber was better. He finished by saying, "I think the street needed it so it's worth the aggravation."

Some residents, however, say the workers are arrogant, sloppily and uncaring about residents' complaints. Former Woods councilman E. Daniel Grady alleged the project is six to eight weeks behind schedule and that the city has tried to console and appease residents while not addressing their complaints.

"THE COMMITMENT was made that the project would be a three-month project," Grady said. "But the fundamental difficulty is that they haven't kept any of their time commitments."

The first contractor began on schedule, but finished about three weeks late, Pate said. The street paver, who was to begin work as the sewer and water line contractor finished, was slowed down, he added. Petersen said the project is about three weeks behind schedule.

Heavy equipment destroyed the street, Grady said, and the lack of barriers meant traffic continued down the street, kicking up the dust left behind from the excavations. Although some dirt can be expected, Grady said the street resembles a "sand trough" which project workers refused to sweep.

Police and ambulance access to the street has been cut now that the pavers are going to work, Grady said, leaving the street without police patrols, ambulance service and street lights.

"The patience of the residents is almost up," Grady claimed, saying the "whole process" of the projects was wrong because the city did not levy penalties against the company for slow or poor work.

Power line work is going to cost the city $16,100, Petersen said. The line was cut after street excavations hit the power line, which Petersen said was 18 inches below the surface near the city's water line.

Detroit Edison told the city the line was 31 inches below the surface. It would not have been cut had it been at that depth, Petersen said, adding the city would pay the bill under protest.

"IT IS OUR contention that if the line had been where they said it was, it would not have been cut," he said, adding crews would begin work and not finish until the lights were working again. Detroit Edison was to have a crew on the site Friday, Sept. 17, Petersen said.

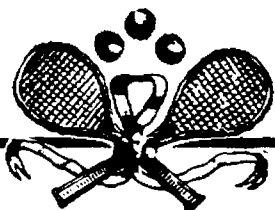

There are penalties for late work, he said, amounting to $80 a day. To insure the work be completed on time, the city could raise the penalty, but would also have to offer a bonus for early completion, he said, adding that cities couldn't do that while private companies could.

"We all recognize there is no easy way to replace a street, but there are things that can be done," Grady said. "It just shows we haven't learned anything about these projects." He likened the troubles on Sunningdale Drive to those experienced when the city undertook a similar project on Hawthorne.

Pate conceded the street looks like "hell in a hand-basket," and agreed that the tearing up of a street was inconvenient. With good weather, however, the street could be poured and ready to use by mid-October, he added.

"It looks like the wrath of God out there, but it won't be long," he said.

Conference will educate volunteers

The Volunteer Services Departments of St. John, Bon Secours and Cottage Hospitals are sponsoring their second annual Tri-Hospital Education Conference on Wednesday, Sept. 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Virginia Douglas, Director of Volunteer Services at St. John, conceived the idea for the conferences. The programs were developed by Hospital Volunteer Directors Maureen DuFour, Bon Secours, Margaret Hutchings, Cottage, and Ms. Douglas.

According to the directors, the conferences afford volunteers the opportunity to share information and conversation, promote community volunteerism, and sharpen their volunteering skills.

This year's program will feature Dr. John C. Flatter of Sinai Hospital's Problems of Daily Living Clinic, who will speak on "Interpersonal Communications" and Sister Joyce DeShano, S.S.J., vice-president of Congregational Sponsorship for St. Clair Health Services Corporation, who will speak on "Compassion." The volunteers will also enjoy luncheon and President Reagan's slide presentation on "Volunteerism."

All three of these directors were recently invited to President Reagan's "Action" Conference in Chicago which only the nation's outstanding volunteer directors were asked to attend.

Packs return

Park to use drugged meat on dogs

Park police are working with the local Anti-Cruelty Society to come up with a peaceable means of dealing with a pack of dogs that has been terrorizing a westside city neighborhood for the last few weeks.

Code Enforcement Officer Jeff

Mueller, who also serves as the city's dog warden, said the society is scheduled to visit the Park this week to feed the dogs meat that has been treated with a sedative. If the dogs are successfully sedated, the society will take them and attempt to find homes.

Park police have received dozens of complaints during the last two weeks from people in the neighborhood south of Jefferson on the west end of the city about a roving pack of dogs. Mueller said the pack sometimes includes as many as a dozen large dogs, mostly German Shepherds.

"The dogs apparently live in abandoned houses or lots in Detroit and come over on the Korte bridge," Mueller said. "We've spotted them as far east as Middlesex Boulevard."

Mueller said, so far, no one has been bitten, but several people have been chased and cats have been killed. The dogs are difficult to catch with the nets and sticks Mueller is equipped with, he said. "They just scatter as soon as I get near them."

Mueller also said the police have a problem with Park residents' dogs which are unlicensed. Dog licenses can be obtained at the police department for $3. "If a dog is licensed, we'll catch it and return it to its owner," Mueller said. "If not, it may be sedated or shot sometime in the future."

The Park had a similar problem with packs of dogs earlier this year, which led to the recreation of the dog warden's position in the police department.

Discussion topics are: Wednesday, Oct. 6, "Coping with Personal and Emotional Turmoil;" Oct. 13, "Dealing with Attorneys and the Court System;" Oct. 20, "Helping Your Children Cope;" and Oct. 27, "Developing New Social and Interpersonal Relationships."

Instead, put on your galoshes and beat feet over to Perry Drugs on the Hill and snap up those Christmas candles and cards they've just put on display. You can't miss them. They're on an aisle near the bug spray, suntan lotion and lawn chairs.

THE PARACHUTE jump that was supposed to launch the Invitational Birthday Meet of the Veteran Motor Car Club of American at North High School last weekend never got off the ground. After winning approval from the Woods City Council, the jump was nixed by school officials.

"It's not a suitable event for a school site," said Director of Support Services Benjamin Zenn. "We're very safety conscious and we have to look at this critically in terms of what activities we want at our buildings and sites."

Enrollment drops to 1955 levels

ment, there is little question but that a downward trend will continue unless some unforeseen events should occur," the school district's Department of Support Services said in the census report.

Overall, the census shows a 9.2 percent decline in the 0 to 19 age category with school age population (5 to 19 years of age) dipping by 1,523 potential students since 1980. By the 1986-87 school year, administrators predict only 5,000 attending Pointe public schools.

Faced with that gloomy forecast, the Board of Education appointed a 12-member citizen advisory committee last February to study the impact of enrollment declines in Grosse Pointe.

The Committee for the Future Organization of the School System has been meeting regularly to investigate areas of finance, building facilities and other educational concerns related to school closings. According to chairman Ed Deeb, the committee has considered more than 100 options in dealing with the Pointe's declining enrollment problem.

THE COMMITTEE will present a final report to the Board of Education this December. Meanwhile, the committee is planning a fall forum in October for residents to hear some of its recommendations.

"We have started some serious deliberations," Deeb said. "The forum will be the last chance for the community to provide the committee with additional input."

program coming from many psychologists, Mrs. Pastoria says: "Unless you're in a crisis situation, you are not going to understand what's going on. We are going to take a wait-and-see position."

"If there is a substance abuse problem in this community, then there are people in crisis who will come out to these meetings. If Toughlove doesn't change their children, it will change the lives of these parents and make them stronger people."

service people need," said Police Chief Henry Coonce. "We're certainly not aware of any prostitution in there and we have not received a single complaint to that effect."

Henry Poole, an employee of the Kitchen and other members of Steak and Egg management, said they had not been contacted by the neighbors and were surprised to hear about the petition drive.

"There are no prostitutes here," Poole said. "In the night hours, yes, we have a fight on occasion. We get the bar crowd, and when you've got a drunk, you've got a fight. But it's certainly not an every day thing."

Kevin Klein, assistant Detroit manager for Steak and Egg, said he also was unaware of problems at the location and called it one of the quietest Kitchens in the Detroit area. If the shop's hours are limited, Klein said it would probably close.

There are six Kitchens in the Detroit area (including one on Mack Avenue in the Woods) and almost 200 in the U.S. and all are open 24-hours a day. They are owned by Dobbs Houses, a division of Carson, Perry, Scott, according to Klein.

Residents' complaints about the Esquire Theater and its video game room which attracts many teenagers to the neighborhood, are similar to those across the street. People have complained to city council and police that the youths are noisy, rude and sometimes cause vandalism in the area.

Some Esquire neighbors have also blamed city management for dragging its feet on closing down the 14-game video parlor which exceeds the city's limit of five games per establishment.

The city has filed a suit against the owners of the Esquire, who say they are trying to sell the theater. The suit is in Wayne County Circuit Court and could be tied up for several months, according to City Attorney Herold "Mac" Deason.

Mayor Douglas Graham has told both neighborhood groups that police patrols in the area will be increased. He said at the Sept. 13 meeting that "if we can legally limit hours (at the Steak and Egg), I don't think anyone on the council will object."

Snowmobiles are said to be responsible for the fact that 80 percent of the Eskimo men have become hard of hearing.

the handbell choir, the school said.

Chris was also the pianist for many school functions, playing professionally during assemblies. Described by school officials as an "incredibly sensitive, caring young man," Chris was also active in sports, playing baseball with the school's varsity squad.

He is survived by his parents, James and Wendy Hohmeyer; a sister, Brooke; and grandparents Mrs. Jean Hohmeyer and Dr. William Hanfield. Services were held Tuesday, Sept. 21, at Christ Church.

Memorial tributes may be made to University Liggett School.

A TRAFFIC study of the intersection recently completed by traffic engineers Goodell-Grivas, Inc. said the design of the intersection was good and the accident incidence low.

Patterson said the study was aimed at increasing the safety of the intersection for students at the nearby schools and library, with many of the suggestions for improvements dealing with changes to be made during school hours.

Baroque Duo opens third season

Flauto e Basso Baroque Duo will open its third season of chamber "Music from the Age of Enlightenment," on Saturday, Oct. 2, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores.

"Music at Versailles," a program featuring works composed by Francois Couperin and his contemporaries for Louis XIV, will be performed on original instruments by Thomas Cirtin, recorder and baroque flute, and Daniel Jencka, harpsichord. They will be joined by Doris Williams, soprano; Kathleen Nordrum-Lidgett, recorder; James Lidgett, flute and baroque guitar; and Patricia Nordstrom, viola da gamba.

Cirtin and Jencka are well known for their authentic interpretations of baroque music. In addition, Cirtin prepares editions of 17th- and 18th-century music for publication, and Jencka builds and maintains harpsichords.

The concert will first be performed on Sept. 25 at the Birmingham Unitarian Church. It will be repeated on Oct. 2 at the Ford House at 1100 Lakeshore Road. Reservations are recommended. Tickets are $7 ($5 for children). Guests are invited to tour the main floor of the mansion, an Albert Kahn design. Upcoming programs in the series are "Music from the Camerata: the Birth of the Baroque," "Baroque Music at Christmas Time," "More Music and Letters in 18th-Century London," "The Legacy of J.S. Bach" and "An Eclectic Menagerie of Baroque Curiosities."

All concerts begin at 8 p.m. Season tickets and tickets in advance are available. Call 656-1574 for information and a free brochure. This series is presented by Baroque Music Ensembles, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Sycamores will open to public

1001 Services, Inc., and partner Richard Crawford will open "The Sycamores," a single family development located on the former Wesson Seyburn estate on East Jefferson, east of Cadieux, for public viewing Sunday, Sept. 26, from noon to 5 p.m.

The community, according to Crawford, represents a blend of Grosse Pointe tradition with the needs of present day homeowners. The development will be an architecturally controlled environment, emphasizing privacy, security and maintenance-free living.

The lots, according to Crawford, are wide to enhance privacy but shallow to limit maintenance. Sycamore Lane is a private road, and to insure security, all homes will feature custom designed alarms, Crawford said.

The development team for the project combines two Detroit professionals. 1001 Services, under the direction of executive vice-president and native Pointer John Gehrke, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Detroit. The company concentrates on equity participation in real estate investments, said a spokesman.

Crawford, another Grosse Pointer, has enjoyed a long history of development and construction in the area, including Rose Terrace, Island Lane, Lakeside Court and numerous custom homes in the Pointes.

The first two homes are nearly completed, he added, and all Pointers are invited to attend the public viewing. For a private viewing, call 961-1001.

Hertel responds to Reagan

Grosse Pointe's freshman Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-14th District) was selected by House Speaker Thomas (Tip) O'Neil to present the Democratic response to President Reagan's nationwide radio address on Sept. 11.

The text of Hertel's response, which was carried live by the Mutual Broadcasting Radio Network, follows:

Today the President talked about crime. As a member of the Democratic Task Force, I support tough action against drug trafficking. In 1975, I wrote a law that requires mandatory sentencing, certainly of punishment for crimes committed with guns. But the issue of crime is not a matter of national debate. Members of both parties support strong action against crime. The real debate today is how to deal with the worst economic crisis since the great depression. I live in Michigan where the unemployment rate is over 14 percent.

I want to talk with you about new economic programs and tell you about a major event in the nation's capital this week. For the first time the Congress voted to override President Reagan's veto. It wasn't even close, with almost half of the Republicans from over 30 states voting against the President. Why did this happen?

There was no budget busting; the issue was one of priorities. According to the Senate Republican Budget Committee Chairman, the bill was nearly $2 billion under the President's own spending. The Republicans and Democrats who voted to override wanted more funds for the handicapped, unemployed, and older Americans. The President wanted this same money for even more defense spending which is already at the highest level in this nation's history. In the bill the programs for the handicapped and senior citizens equal the cost of a single B-1 bomber.

Last year, there was a lot of talk about the President's mandate. Let's agree on one fact. There was no mandate to reduce funds for the handicapped, no mandate to greatly reduce student aid, and there is no mandate in this nation to harm senior citizens.

In America today, we have over 10 million people out of work. We have a depression in many parts of this nation. Until now this administration has won everything it has asked for. The President won every victory on the budget, this year and last. The President won his tax cut last year, and his tax increase this year. Yet, last month, the Republican Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee admitted that, "The economy has not recovered. It's been disappointing to the President, and has been felt very deeply by those who are out of work, and continue to be out of work."

According to the President's figures, for every one percent of unemployment there is a $25 billion increase in the federal deficit. We need a strong defense, but how can we have a strong defense if the President's program bankrupts the nation? A strong defense requires intelligent troops, scientists, engineers and a robust industrial base. But, he has cut federal assistance to education by 10 percent each year; he has weakened the industrial core of this nation, now at its lowest level since the great depression. John Kennedy once asked, "What does truth require? It requires us to face the facts as they are, not to involve ourselves in self-destruction; to refuse to think merely in slogans."

Members of Congress have heard the people's desire for change. It's now time for new, expansive policies that will end this course of unemployment.

I propose today that by looking to the past we can awaken the future. Under the New Deal there was a program called the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which helped to start new businesses, and to keep companies open and Americans employed. This program lasted until 1953. I propose a new Reindustrialization Finance Corporation to help Americans do what they do best: to expand opportunities, to create goods and to create jobs. It would provide guaranteed low interest loans to small and large businesses and farmers. This very week, the House will act on a $1 billion jobs bill to repair roads and bridges. We must build on our greatest asset — the ability of Americans to be creative and optimistic in the face of adversity.

It is time for this President to join the Congress, including the Republican Senators and Congressmen who have voted to override the veto. President Eisenhower in his time showed great skill in compromise with a Democratic Congress. President Kennedy in his short term had great vision. They knew when to change policy and direction. And we must be pragmatic. It is clear that President Reagan's theories have failed miserably and conclusively. It is time to change.

We can move forward with confidence and skill to solve our economic crisis with hope and purpose.

Partnership between the President and Congress is required — not posturing, but a continuous process that grows stronger if we devote ourselves to common goals. We must put Americans back to work because it is our moral responsibility.

Take a bite out of crime

By Sgt. Randall Cain

If a potential burglar can't get into your home through a door he will try to get in through a window. Burglars don't like to break windows; it makes too much noise. The burglar prefers to pry the window open and then crawl through in order to reach through and unlock the door or window. The methods used in securing your windows are really quite simple and will provide your home with much needed protection.

Probably the most common type of window is double-hung with the half-moon type latch. This window can be secured with a commercially made locking latch or by a do-it-yourself method. Drill a hole at a downward angle through the top of the inside window and into the bottom of the outside window. Do this in both corners. Nails are then inserted into both holes to prevent the window from being pried. A second set of holes may be drilled higher up into the outside window (approximately three to six inches) so that the window may be opened for ventilation but cannot be opened any further. You can also dip the heads of the nails in paint so that they match the color of the room.

Windows that utilize cranks to open them should have the cranks removed. A crank can be left nearby so that you can open the windows, but it will be out of the burglar's reach.

Latched windows can be secured by installing a self-tapping screw through the window and into the frame.

If your basement windows are the type with a plunger and chain, it is possible to secure the window by removing the chain and wiring the plunger to the bracket at the top of the window.

Large basement windows can be secured by installing an electrical conduit across the opening. Pound the conduit flat at the ends and then secure it to the basement wall. Threaded nails can be used so that you can remove the conduit if you wish.

Instead of the conduit, heavy mesh screen can also be installed over the opening. With the conduit or the screen, make sure that it is securely fastened to the basement wall. Remember to also secure the dryer vent with one of the above methods or board it up so that a burglar cannot kick it in.

Don't forget to also secure your garage windows. Garage windows can be secured by nailing them shut, installing pins, or installing mesh screen over the opening.

Inter-Faith Center on cable TV

The Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice is taking its Third Thursday Forum program to the airwaves this year on Grosse Pointe Cable TV.

Instead of the usual meetings of the forum at Christ Church, the Inter-Faith Center plans to televise discussions of current topics, beginning next week. The first program will take a look at hunger on the eastside of Detroit and Grosse Pointe with a panel of experts including Sen. John Kelly, Eleanor Josaitis, co-director of Focus: HOPE; Father James McLaren, director of Operation

Crossroads; Maureen DuFour, director of volunteer services at Bon Secours Hospital; and David Bower, regional director of CROP. Inter-Faith Center board member Richard Drabant will moderate.

The program was filmed Sept. 16, in Grosse Pointe Cable studios and will be aired in the evening on Tuesday, Sept. 28, according to Inter-Faith program coordinator Kathey McGovern.

"We're trying this out as an alternative to the Third Thursday Forum," Ms. McGovern said. "So far, things are going well and we hope to continue the broadcasts."

Medical education at Bon Secours

Bon Secours Hospital began its 20th year of continuing medical education programs with a "Half Day of Gastroenterology" on Sept. 16 in the hospital's Science Hall.

Guest speaker was Paul Sherlock, M.D., chairman, department of medicine at the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and professor and vice-chairman, department of medicine, Cornell University Medical College. Dr. Sherlock's presentation was entitled "Colorectal Cancer: Etiology and Screening" and "GI Complications of Cancer."

The gastroenterology conferences continue for 13 more weeks on Thursdays through Dec. 16, from 7 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Each session includes breakfast, a lecture, workshop and question and answer period.

The conferences meet the criteria for 24 hours in Category I of continuing medical education credit for physicians.

For registration information, call the Bon Secours Hospital medical education department at 343-1611.

It was the custom centuries ago for an older woman to wear a large hat when accompanying a younger woman in public. This is why the Latin "cappa" meaning large hat gave us our word "chaperone."

Standing tall before their classmates, the newest members of the Trombly School Safety Patrol were sworn in by Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel, with the assistance of Park Police Sgt. St. Paul offers adult education classes

St. Paul Catholic Church, 17 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, will begin its 1982-83 adult education series with four classes beginning the first week of October.

"The Fourth Gospel" will be offered Tuesdays at 7:30 p.m. from Oct. 5 through Nov. 9. Presented by the Rev. John Castelot from St.

John Provincial Seminary in Plymouth, the course will offer the reader "a model of faith in the community," according to the church.

Castelot will offer the study of the gospel in light of modern research, the church said.

"The Gospel Of Mark" will be offered Wednesdays at 1 p.m. Oct. 6 through Nov. 10. Mrs. Suzanne Howell of St. Paul parish, will offer an understanding of the gospel as well as developing themes contained in the reading.

Sister Mary Celeste Lynch, O.P., director of adult education at the church, will present "Only for The Poor in Heart: A New Way of Knowing God and His Church" Wednesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. on Thursdays, Oct. 6 through Nov. 10.

The class, made up of six sessions, will deal with some of the basic beliefs of the church. The course is aimed at members of the church or those considering membership.

"Dignity, Power and Sexuality" will be offered by the church Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. beginning Oct. 7 and running through Nov. 11. The course is directed to parents to help them communicate about sexuality with their children.

The Rev. Michael Haggarty, pastor at St. Mary's of Redford, Michael Harris, religious education director at St. Dorothy parish in Warren lead the course.

Woman robbed of purse

A 30-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms woman was robbed by two men with a knife in front of the White Tower restaurant on Jefferson Avenue in the Park at about 5:40 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 16, according to reports.

The victim told police she was walking down Jefferson when she was approached by the 14 to 16-year-old youths. One pointed a knife at her and grabbed her purse which contained $5 cash. They escaped down Alter, police said.

Few children's toys date back to the American Revolution. Antiquers say almost none existed. Play itself was thought unworthy, and playthings, unacceptable.

Music Festival wins award

The Michigan Foundation for the Arts announced last week it has awarded a grant to the Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival for the third annual piano competition.

The grant was part of an $18,150 package awarded to 12 state organizations by the foundation. The foundation is a non-profit, privately funded organization dedicated to supporting Michigan art and artists. It is supported by foundation, corporate and individual contributions and is not related to the state-funded Michigan Council for the Arts.

The Grosse Pointe grant will be used to fund two concerto performances for the piano competition winner. The competition, held in the spring, is now in its third year providing a showcase for talented young Michigan pianists.

Here's a chance to ostracize that monstrosity

What do you say to an ugly building? Give it an onion. You can do just that by picking up a ballot this week at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, 10 Kercheval Avenue. It's all part of the American Society of Interior Designers, Michigan Chapter, first Orchids and Onions Award contest, an effort by the designers to heighten public awareness of the environment.

Through public balloting, the designers group will issue awards to buildings which grace or clutter the tri-county area. The public is asked to provide specific examples of local architecture and design for nomination for an "orchid" or "onion."

Creative restoration, good planning, landscaping or taste in signs can earn an orchid. Onion awards may be presented to a shopping center without landscaping or any monstrosity that detracts from the architectural quality of an area. "We hope the Orchids and Onions program will bring the community together. It will give Detroiters an opportunity to have a say in the appearance of their environment," said Brian Collins, president of the designers group.

"Onions give the public an opportunity to register a protest against unsightliness," according to Collins. "In some cases, the onion award has provided an impetus for change. In the Chicago metropolitan program, an oil company research center was cited for an ugly sign. The firm redesigned the sign and subsequently was awarded an orchid."

The Orchids and Onions program was started by the Chicago area's Western Communities Architects' Association. There are similar programs underway in Birmingham, Ala., Miami, Fla., and San Diego.

Headlee-Brennan ticket lines up 180 volunteers

Thomas Brennan, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, last week addressed 126 volunteers gathered at the University Liggett School auditorium to begin a door to door campaign to identify Headlee-Brennan supporters.

The Headlee canvass effort was organized and chaired by W. Clark Durant, III, Republican precinct delegate in the 2nd Precinct of Grosse Pointe City. Durant also was chairman of the 14th Congressional District delegates to the state convention held in Grand Rapids last month. Durant addressed the meeting first, telling the group that in a close election, the important thing is to identify your friends and supporters early, enlist their energies to work in the campaign and make sure that they get to the polls in November.

In addition to the Central Library, ballots are available through Sept. 27 at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association, Center for Creative Studies, Colony Interiors at Somerset Mall, Detroit Artists Market, Emily's, Henry Ford Community College, Lawrence Institute of Technology school of architecture, New Center Frameworks, Schoolcraft Community College and Wayne State University art department.

Battle of bands auditions set

Grosse Pointe's largest music event for students will return to the War Memorial when the 10th annual Grosse Pointe Battle of the Bands rocks the Fries Ballroom and auditorium, Saturday, Nov. 20.

At nine previous battles, a sell-out crowd of more than 1,000 persons watched six local high school bands compete for top honors, according to the War Memorial. Many former winners have gone on to successful careers as bands, including the former Cyprus Rock, Black Velvet-Network and Adrelalin Band.

Auditions for the battle will be held until Oct. 24 at which time six bands will be chosen for the final competition. Judging will be done by local high school students. To qualify, bands must be of non-professional nature and at least half of the members must be students in the Grosse Pointe schools or reside in the Pointes and be of high school age or younger (13 to 19).

Applications for an audition should be made in writing to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Association, 32 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe, Mich., 48236, attention Jack Dotson.

Students interested in helping on the Battle Committee should call the War Memorial at 881-7511. The Battle Committee will meet Wednesday, Sept. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Market Opinion Research has identified key precincts in the Pointes and Harper Woods to canvass as being particularly important to a Headlee victory in November.

Brennan told the audience of the importance of this election for Michigan. Jobs and a better business climate are the key to Michigan's road to recovery, he said. Brennan left the Michigan Supreme Court to establish, against great odds, the Thomas M. Cooley Law School in Lansing 10 years ago. It now has an $18 million effect on the economy of Lansing alone, he said.

"We must let small business men and women know that Michigan is the place to be, not by our words but by our actions," Brennan said. "Small businesses have been leaving Michigan over the last five years at an alarming rate."

He cited a Commerce Department report which had calculated that 90 percent of the new jobs that will be created in Michigan will come from small business.

For more information on the Headlee-Brennan team call Durant at 961-6800, or Rick Rutan, at 776-6660.

Pointer Joseph Hudson is chairman of the event, which is sponsored by the designers group with the support from the Environmental Arts Advisory Committee of the Michigan Council for the Arts, the American Society of Landscape Architects and the Designers Lighting Forum.

The jury will be composed of professionals including Pointers Louis Cook, of the Detroit Free Press, and William Kessler, architect. Other jurors will be industrial designer Dennis Huguley, Illuminating Engineering Society member Stephen Squillace, designer Gale Camden and designer William Denler.

The winners will be announced at a brunch on Saturday, Oct. 23, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores. The deadline for submitting ballots is Monday, Sept. 27. Voting categories include historic preservation, graphic design and signage, landscape design, environmental planning, energy conservation, planning solutions and interior design in public buildings.

For more information, call 569-3212.

Starting in this edition of the Grosse Pointe News, "Vintage Pointe" will provide a series of brief reviews of the most recognized wine grapes and wines. We will be pleased to offer specific wine and food recommendations whenever you visit us.

WHITE (JOHANNISBERG) RIESLING

If this grape had an astrological sign, it would be Gemini — the twins.

First, the wine is labeled two ways. "Johannisberg" Riesling is taken from the famous German winegrowing town; "White" Riesling is the viticulturalist's designation.

These wines are usually light yellow and sometimes have a slight green cast. A spritz, or trace of carbonation left over from fermentation, is occasionally present in young Rieslings.

The flowery, perfumed scent of Riesling is one of the most delightful smells in all winedom. A hint of citrus is sometimes detected and adds to the fresh, fruity complexity of the wine.

Because grapes destined for this delicate style are picked relatively early in the harvesting season, the wine has a lower alcohol level than other white wines. This lighter quality is suitable for sipping with snacks, or as an accompanying wine to meals with more subtle flavors.

The taste of these drier Rieslings is crisp, with the fruit acids balancing the floral character.

The second style which has been recognized is the Riesling rich enough to be served with dessert.

Students spend summer abroad

This past summer University Liggett School students participated in a variety of activities including foreign travel, scientific study, musical performances and debate institutes.

Thirty-eight ULS singers along with faculty and parent chaperones visited Germany, Austria, France and Switzerland on an Upper School Chorale Tour in June. The package provided arrangements for seven free concerts of American folk, barbershop, spiritual and Broadway music during the two-week tour. The students are planning a 1984 tour to Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

Another European tour including ULS students Suzanne Carty and Nicholas Noecker travelled to Spain for most of the summer. The young scholars attended classes at the University of Salamanca as well as sight-seeing in Salamanca, Madrid, Segovia and Santiago de Compostela. They enjoyed the World Cup soccer championship held in Spain this year, while investigating cafes, castles, a monastery and villages.

In this country nine ULS students participated in the ULS Summer Science Enrichment Program. They studied volcanoes and earthquakes in the Yellowstone Plateau region of the northern Rocky Mountains. Through study, camping, climbing and biking these students earned science credit in this sixth annual ULS expedition. Students joining the program were Gina Dodge, Michael Gouda, Ihab Hanna, Christopher Kirkpatrick, Angela Navarro, Stefanie Sables, Kurt Schneider, Susan Smith and Monique Wise.

Closer to home, 14 ULS debaters attended institutes at various universities, where they researched their new topic in graduate libraries. The following schools were selected by the debaters: Wayne State University — Dante diTommaso and Ivana diTommaso of Grosse Pointe; Bates — Charles Lapo of Grosse Pointe; the University of Kansas — John Hunter of Grosse Pointe; the University of Michigan — Brigitte Koegler, Marc Lie, William J. McFeely, Jr.

and John Rim, all of Grosse Pointe; (for three weeks) James Cargas, Charles Colby, Harold Colby, John Hadjisky and Jeffrey Sweet, all of Grosse Pointe, and Brian Fox of St. Clair Shores. Charles Lapo and Marc Lie received special recognition by advancing to their institutes' finals.

English teachers appoint Reimer

The National Council of Teachers of English has announced the appointment of Robert W. Reimer, chairperson of the English department at Grosse Pointe North High School, as a regional judge for the 1982 NCTE Achievement Awards in Writing Program.

Through this nationally recognized competition, now in its 24th year, approximately 800 high school seniors are cited for excellence in writing and are recommended to colleges and universities for admission and for financial aid, if needed. Seven thousand students have been nominated for NCTE Awards in 1982. Results of the contest are announced in October of each year.

Students are nominated for Achievement Awards in Writing by their high school English departments and are chosen for recognition by state judging committees. (Each nominee submits an impromptu theme and a sample of his or her best writing to be judged.) The regional judging committees are composed of both high school and college teachers who work under the direction of state coordinators.

The National Council of Teachers of English is made up of more than 100,000 individual teachers and institutional members at all levels of instruction, from elementary school through graduate college. Its goal is more effective teaching of English language and literature in the nation's schools and colleges. NCTE publishes journals, books and recordings to aid teachers in the classroom and in their professional development.

More honors for Hertel?

Selection of Dennis Hertel to respond on behalf of the Democratic Party to one of President Reagan's recent five-minute radio addresses was another feather in the cap of the 14th District freshman congressman who faces no major opposition for reelection. But why would House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill pick a comparatively unknown member for this important assignment?

Richard Ryan, Washington correspondent of the Detroit News, offered two explanations. He quoted an aide to the speaker as saying: "We wanted someone from the Midwest, which has been so hard-hit by the President's economic policies, and Detroit certainly is a symbol of what is wrong with the country right now."

"And besides," the aide added, "the speaker likes him."
HERTEL IS, indeed, a likeable cuss. But there may be other reasons for his selection. He is the sixth congressman chosen to respond to a presidential radio chat. But he is the first freshman and he is young, attractive and articulate. So he meets not only the political but also the demographic requirements that political parties as well as merchants seek to satisfy in their marketing of people, products and services these days. But perhaps there's another reason.

Hertel voted against the recent tax hike passed with support of both the President and Democratic Party leaders. That vote may have made more believable Hertel's attack on the President for "the worst economic crisis since the national depression" and his charge that "the President has his priorities wrong — spending a record amount on the military while slighting the elderly, disabled and unemployed."

In his recent interview with the Grosse Pointe News, Hertel made those same points but moderated his criticism of the President by saying he could go along with two-thirds of Mr. Reagan's spending cuts although he differed with him over the reductions in some social services and the increases in military spending.

Ryan's report in the Detroit News raised the possibility that still more honors may be in store for Hertel. He is a candidate for a seat on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, one of the most powerful bodies in Congress, and his nationally broadcast response to the President gave Hertel an opportunity to make an impression upon Democratic leaders who make House committee assignments, Ryan wrote.

IF HERTEL ACHIEVES this goal, he would succeed retiring Michigan Congressman William Broadhead on the Ways and Means Committee which not only considers all tax measures but also deals with Medicare, welfare, unemployment compensation, Social Security and trade. Such matters are important to every state, but especially to Michigan in these times.

Washington is a pretty fast political track, even for a young man with experience in Lansing, but so far Hertel is running confidently with an easy stride and paying little attention to the gnashing of teeth among Grosse Pointe Republicans.

A gloomy budget picture

Another $150 million reduction in state aid for education and local governments was finally approved last week by the House and Senate Appropriations committees but the end may not yet be in sight.

This new cut was the fourth proposed by the Milliken administration during the current fiscal year which ends Sept. 30 but the economic outlook is such that further cuts in state spending are expected for the new fiscal year starting Oct. 1. Reductions from this year's original budget now total $778 million, which is 16 percent of the original $4.85 billion figure.

WHILE THE GOVERNOR pledged support for a bill to make accelerated state aid payments of $111.3 million to schools and colleges next June instead in August, 1983, and thus repay them for the $111.3 million now being cut, a new governor and a new Legislature will be in office after Jan. 1 — which leaves passage of this legislation somewhat problematical.

The Legislature also has pledged to repay next year another $80 million cut from aid to education in an earlier executive order. In view of the state's continuing depression and declining state revenues, chances of repayment of this promised sum also appears to be somewhat doubtful.

But except for Detroit there is not even a promise to repay the cuts in state aid to local governments. Their share of new burden of aid cuts amounted to $38.7 million. Gov. Milliken has promised to support a $4 million increase in state aid to Detroit to help offset the $13 million cut in its revenue sharing payments. The $4 million would be part of the special package of aid given to Detroit to help it maintain the city's cultural institutions that benefit the whole state. But smaller cities are apparently not getting even promises of any return of the new reductions in state revenue sharing.

Yet in these economic times there is not much else the state could have done in order to balance its budget, as required by the state constitution. The Legislature did raise the cigarette tax a dime and it did enact a temporary increase in the state income tax. But imposing any heavy new taxes in a period of recession — a depression in Michigan — is out of the question. Furthermore, demand for social services tend to rise in such economic times, although some cuts have been made in that area of state spending, too. But the heavy demand from that sector gave the governor and the Legislature little choice but to cut into education and local government revenue sharing funds.

In a review of Michigan government's fiscal problems, the Citizens Research Council of Michigan is sharply critical of the state's practice of using "accounting changes to show an artificial budget balance." In calling for an end to this "gimmickry," the report says it has "contributed to the weakening of the cash position and the credit of the state," and then adds:

"The fiscal provisions of the Michigan Constitution represents the will of the electorate that the state should live within its means. Repeated use of fiscal maneuvers that violate the sense of these provisions — even if they remain in technical compliance of the law — can lead only to a loss of trust in state government."

THE ACCOUNTING "gimmickry" became necessary, of course, when state revenues began to decline and demands for spending on state services increased in a period of recession and inflation. Under these circumstances, government administrators and policy makers were caught in a bind and sought ways out that would have the least impact on those in the greatest need. Yet it is difficult to argue with another Research Council conclusion:

"Neither those who receive state benefits and services nor those who pay for them are well served by actions that consume tomorrow's key fund resources to provide today's programs — creating the certainty that future programs will have to be foregone to repay past debts."

Axe the road commission

Critics of the Wayne County Road Commission finally are beginning to make some progress in their attempts to curb the political power of that controversial county agency.

The House of Representatives has just passed a pair of bills authorizing a countywide vote to abolish the commission, and while the Senate has not yet acted, there is hope that the vote could come as early as next year if the legislation gets through both houses.

IT IS HEARTENING to find both candidates for county executive in favor of the legislation. Sheriff William Lucas, Democratic nominee for the post, testified in support of it last week and Robert E. FitzPatrick, the Republican nominee, has been on record in favor of legislation to bring the road commission under control of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners ever since he headed that agency a decade ago.

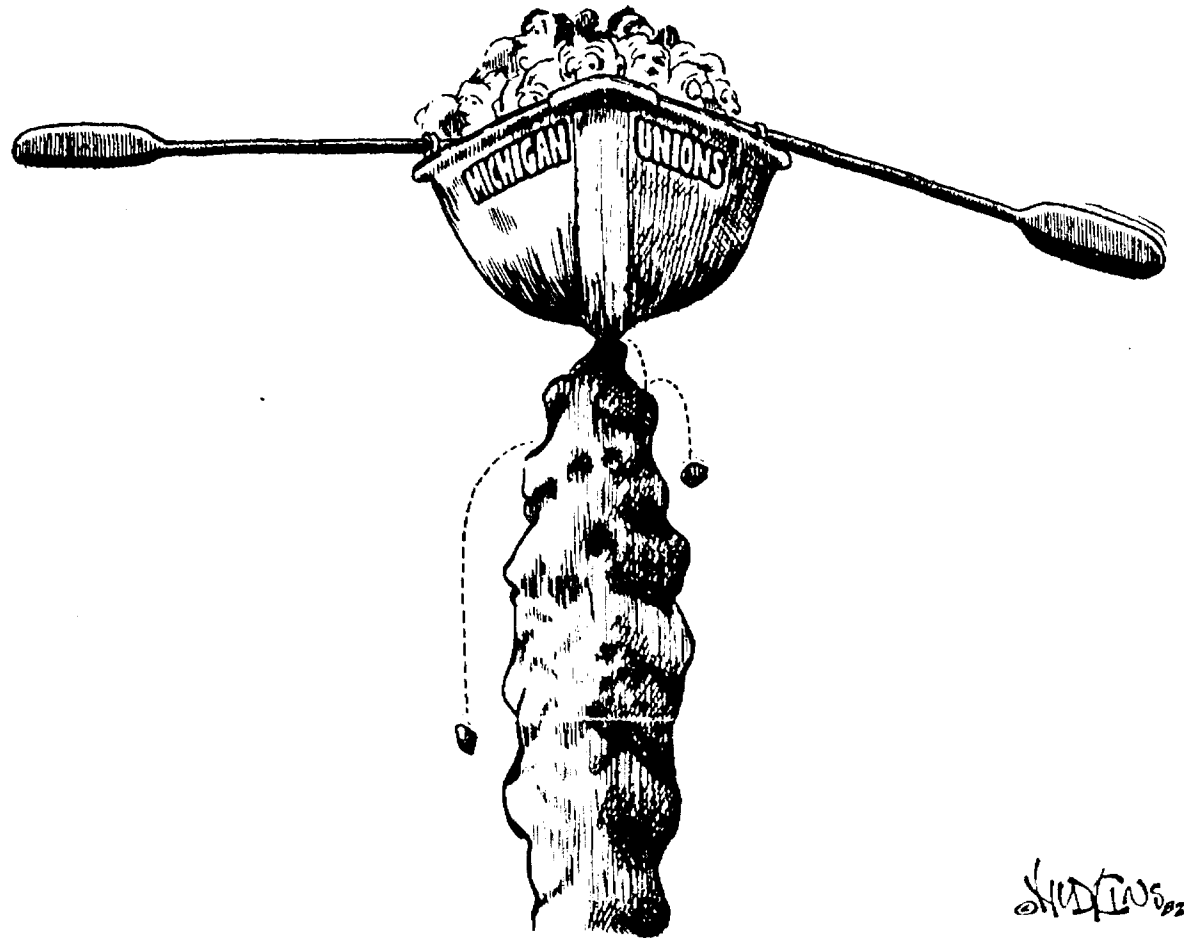

In his testimony, Lucas told the Towns and Counties Committee that "in Wayne County the road commission stands for everything that is bad," and he listed among its faults "nepotism, cronyism and excessive salaries." The sheriff insisted that the "time for change in the road commission is now."

Up to this time, Lucas' support for road commission reorganization has been somewhat suspect because as sheriff he had close relations with that agency and a number of his deputies served as the airport's law enforcement staff. But now as a Democratic nominee, Lucas has indicated support for a reform long endorsed by thoughtful critics of county government. It's a good move on his part because if elected county executive, he will need all the clout he can muster to control an agency that has been almost autonomous up to this time.

Under the charter, the county executive will have authority to appoint or remove the three road commissioners, with the approval of the county board of commissioners, and will have some control of the commission's budget. But without new legislation, it is feared that the rest of the commission's organization, with its 1,300 employees and $149 million annual budget, would remain virtually unchanged.

IN THE POINTES, abolition of the commission would be welcomed because of its foot dragging on resurfacing Lakeshore Road until the courts finally forced a patching job in the Farms last summer. It was no surprise that Rep. William Bryant of Grosse Pointe, long a critic of the commission, was one of those voting for the legislation putting the abolition of the commission up to a county vote.

Suggestions from jogger

To the Editor:
Regarding your "protecting the joggers" editorial on Sept. 16, I have an additional suggestion directed to the police.

To help us grim-faced runners/joggers, the police should enforce the ordinance, which must be on the books, regarding cars being stopped before reaching the sidewalk crossing. We have essentially no protection because very few cars stop at the sidewalk, but proceed to the major street before stopping.

Possibly the Farms would consider changing the ordinance to allow us to run single-file facing the traffic should we run on the street. Having to "stop, look and listen" at each sidewalk crossing sure takes something away from our healthy activity.

Regarding your "grim-faced" remark, I have to ask you who sees Jimmy Connors, Reggie Jackson, Billy Sims, etc., smiling while doing their thing? They smile after accomplishing something. And we do, too. When we've caught our breath.

Ruppe's tactics unimpressive

To the Editor:

Concerning the editorial about Philip Ruppe's calculated risk, I hope that Ruppe's sinister attack on Sen. Don Riegler doesn't impress many people. I for one was in favor of the tax reform, but I'm sick of candidates who run for an office by just opposing other candidates' statements and doings.

Why can't some candidates work on their own material? How is Ruppe going to decide on future bills the way Riegler wouldn't? Or once he's in office will he even care about the former senator's opinion or anyone else's? All I have to say is vote for someone whom one can believe and not on how bad he can make his opponents look.

turned to classrooms in our public schools for the start of the 1982-83 school year.

As we start the new year, it is appropriate to consider what the Board of Education and staff hope to accomplish during the 1982-83 school year for these 7,700 students, their parents, and the community as a whole. In fulfilling their responsibility for providing educational programs and services to the community board trustees have given specific direction to efforts for this year by adopting the following seven goals:

- Review, improve and develop board policies.
- Conduct a comprehensive review of the program of studies for the high schools and middle schools.
- Conduct a study of the health program, K-12.
- Conduct a study of local educational practices for high ability students.
- Conduct a study of computer education.
- Complete the two-year study of the special education program.

• Complete the two-year study of data processing services.

Some may consider these system-wide goals too far removed from what actually happens in the schools and public libraries on a daily basis, but the implementation of these goals is basic to maintaining the quality of education and services expected by the community. As the chief administrator of the school system, I am committed to meeting the challenge of attaining the goals and specific objectives associated with them. More important, however, the commitment to attaining the goals is one which must be shared by all school personnel and community residents if the goals are to be realized.

I am excited about the direction the schools will take if these system-wide goals are achieved. All residents, including those without children in the system, are invited to help us achieve the goals by becoming actively involved in school and library programs. With broad based support, the promises that this year and these goals hold can be realized.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

A new dimension has been added to the popular Meet the Masters music appreciation courses taught by Ruth Kaiser and jointly sponsored by the Continuing Education Department of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools and the Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association. Two Meet the Masters programs, both on Mondays, each consisting of four lectures, start in October in the second floor Exhibition Room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Road.

And this year, for the first time, a live performance by a fine musician will be a special feature of both the afternoon and the evening series. "A live performance is closer to the truth than recorded material," Mrs. Kaiser says, "and onlookers, in the case of an instrument, can see it first hand, observe its construction and beauty and how it is played. The same holds true with live voice performance. There is such a sense of intimacy and sharing."

Soprano Patricia Junker, Grosse Pointe pianist and teacher, will sing a group of Brahms lieder, accompanied by Mrs. Kaiser, at the Oct. 18 Meet the Masters afternoon session. Other dates in this daytime series are Oct. 4 (the opening lecture), Nov. 1 and Nov. 15. Material covered will include "The Symphony Orchestra: Its Instruments, Its Beginnings," "Johannes Brahms — Man and Musician," "Their Country's Showing" and "Portrait of Igor Stravinsky." Meeting hours are 1 to 3 p.m.

Violinist Gerda Bielitz, a librarian at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, will play selections from the "Exuberant Baroque" period at the Oct. 11 opening session of Meet the Masters' evening series. Other topics and dates in this series are "Three Mystics in Music: Cesar Franck, Scriabin, Gustav Mahler" (Oct. 25), "Child Prodigies and How They Grew" (Nov. 8) and "Renaissance in England" (Nov. 22). Meeting hours are 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Instructor Ruth Kaiser, a member of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Society's board of directors, has been a teacher of Music Appreciation for the past 30 years. She conducted classes in connection with the Cleveland Symphony and for 10 years gave lectures for the Detroit Symphony's Open Rehearsals at Ford Auditorium. She taught for Wayne State University-University of Michigan Adult Education, and conducted a winter Music Appreciation series on Florida's Sanibel Island.

Ruth is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music. She did advanced study at the Cleveland Institute of Music and Oberlin Conservatory. She is knowledgeable, talented — and fun: her informative and entertaining Meet the Masters classes are extremely popular, considered a cultural highlight of the year by Grosse Pointers who wish to expand their knowledge of fine music.

Fee for each series is $12. Checks, payable to the Department of Continuing Education and sent to 260 Chalfonte Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236 are due prior to the first class meeting. Pointe Symphony Women's Association proceeds from the lectures will go to the Pointe Symphony's Instrument Fund. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. William O. Bradley Jr., chairman of the afternoon series, at 886-0079, or Mrs. Lyndle R. Martin, chairman of the evening series, at 822-7141.

Opera Appreciation: Focus on Verdi

Meanwhile, on the other side of town (the lower level of Somerset Mall, to be exact), Dr. Jack C. Du Bois, of Three Mile Drive, begins a 10-session series of opera talks Thursday, Oct. 7. The lectures, running from 7 to 9 p.m., will focus on Verdi, covering the whole range of his output, from "Nabucco" to "Falstaff."

Dr. Du Bois has lectured on opera here at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, and for the Detroit Grand Opera Association. For the past 11 years he has volunteered his

Shelden Collection will be auctioned

The Shelden Estate at 131 Lakeshore Road, one of the last remaining great houses of Grosse Pointe's past, will be the setting this Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 25, 26 and 27, for Grosse Pointe's Auction of the Year.

The Shelden Collection features more than 300 pounds of antique and early 20th century silver, including a highly important George III English solid silver tea tray by Paul Storr, dated 1817, plus an array of fine porcelains, including two 19th century Chinese Palace Urns, each measuring 37 inches in height, plus fine furniture, including a Russian ormolu and malachite table.

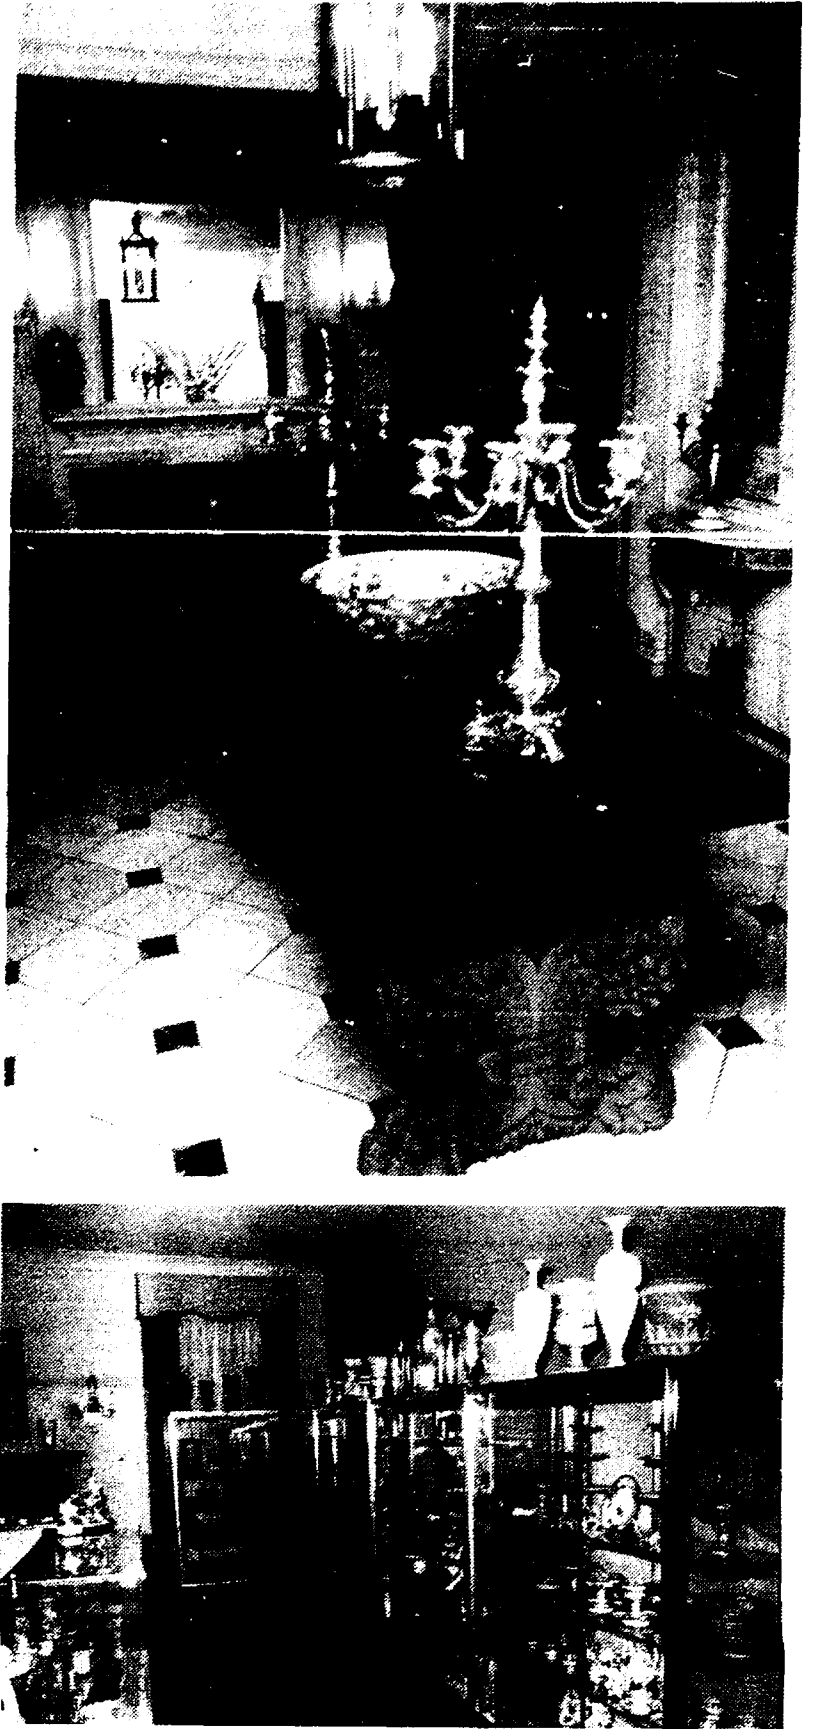

Watercolors by Emil Nolde and Rufino Tamayo are among the Collection's paintings. Crystal and furs, a group of exquisite lace tablecloths, antique jewelry and toys, linens and ball gowns — and two Cadillacs, a '76 convertible and a '78 Eldorado Golden Biarritz, each with less than 100 miles on its speedometer, are among other auction items.

It is the estate of the late Elizabeth Buhl Warren (Mrs. Allan) Shelden, one of Detroit's Great — and greatly-loved — Ladies, patron of the arts and community leader, donor of the Elizabeth and Allan Shelden Sculpture Garden to be constructed at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The Collection is on exhibition today, Thursday, Sept. 23, from noon to 8 p.m., and tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Admission to the exhibition is $3. Admission to the auction, which starts at 11 a.m. Saturday, at noon Sunday and at 1 p.m. (uncatalogued lots) Monday — the exhibition of uncatalogued lots begins at 11 a.m. — is by catalogue only. Each catalogue is $12.50, and admits two persons.

Stalker & Boos are conducting the auction. Further information may be obtained by calling 885-1118.

"WILD IRISH ROSE"

When Irene Spencer first shared her brilliant idea for this new four-plate series, it was immediately apparent that the Symphony of Roses warranted not just special attention but an entirely new format for collectors' plates.

The result, after more than eighteen months in creative development, is the plate before you. The sculptured border echoes the shape of leaves around a rose in full bloom. Unstinting use of pure gold frames the magnificent Spencer portrait.

Although cost was no object when this series was undertaken, the price of this important First Edition should come as something of a pleasant surprise. Now at issue, you can begin this significant new annual series for eighty-five dollars. In Canada the price is one hundred, twenty-seven dollars and fifty cents.

View Nations in Transition during October

A new series of thought-provoking lectures by SHERWIN WINE is on the fall agenda of the Council of Sponsors at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The programs, scheduled for Thursday evenings Oct. 7, 14 and 21 at 8 p.m., were chosen expressly for the timeliness of the subjects and their interest to people with a world outlook, such as CAROLYN MOSHER, Council of Sponsors chairman, pictured at right previewing the topics with Dr. Wine.

Theme of the series is expressed in its title: Nations in Transition. The nations in focus are those that pose the greatest challenge to and concern for our own future status in the world today — Russia, China and the Third World countries.

Dr. Wine will discuss each nation as described in a current best-selling book, providing an insightful analysis of the impact that the changes the nation is now undergoing can have on itself and the rest of the world. Change is the key to the subject. Political revolution and new technology have transformed the character of these countries. While some of the old structures remain, new and unexpected developments are emerging.

The first lecture is on Russia, as described by Serveryn Bialer in "Stalin's Successors." Bialer outlines the changes in the structure of Russian politics and society since Stalin. He examines the new wave of leadership within the USSR and how it may change Russia's impact on the world at large as well as its own internal life.

"The Gate of Heavenly Peace" by Jonathan Spence will be the focus of the Oct. 14 lecture. This book probes the depth of revolutionary change in China by showing life there as observed by generations of articulate, impassioned

witnesses: poets, philosophers and story tellers who, each in his own medium, reveal how they sought to make sense of their own lives within the turbulence of the Chinese Revolution.

The final lecture's theme book will be Richard Critchfield's "Villages," a study of the changes now underway within the nations of the Third World, the impact of these changes on the lives of the people who live there and the global significance of this changing Third World way of life.

The success of last season's series of lectures by Dr. Wine suggests that this series will be very popular. Tickets for his programs are available now at $19 (three lectures) at the War Memorial office or from any member of the Council of Sponsors: Mrs. Charles Mosher, Mrs. John R. Baker, Mrs. Keith Crain, Mrs. Robert H. Healy, Mrs. Charles L. Henritz, Mrs. Charles F. Kaess, Mrs. William H. Kessler, Mrs. Alexander C. Sucek, Mrs. Henry M. Woodhouse.

Pewabic offers four-workshop series this fall

A series of workshops — two single-session and two double-session, hands-on programs — will be offered for ceramists this fall at historic Pewabic Pottery, the 75-year-old, nationally renowned ceramics learning center, museum and gallery located on East Jefferson Avenue, across from Detroit's Waterworks Park.

The first workshop, scheduled for this Sunday, Sept. 26, from 3 to 6 p.m., is a single-session program featuring Julie and Tyrone Larson, whose Pewabic exhibit begins that day. They will discuss making a living as a potter, describing their own experience as studio potters in the mountains of North Carolina.

The first double-session, hands-on workshop will feature Adele Figon, lecturing on and demonstrating molds and slip casting tools for the potter on Wednesdays, Oct. 20 and 27, from 7 to 10 p.m. She will show how to make a variety of molds to increase studio efficiency. Workshop participants will have the opportunity to make a mold.

Wednesdays, Nov. 10 and 17. The first session will be a slide lecture and demonstration on how to photograph pottery. In the second, Bakker will assist participants in photography of their own work; a camera, lights and a pot should be brought to this second session.

Advance enrollment and payment is required one week prior to each workshop. A list of supplies will be provided at the time of registration.

The Community LINC

Nearly half of all American adults and teenagers — 90 million in fact — are volunteers in organizations ranging from social agencies to hospitals and schools.

And among the areas where volunteers are most crucial is economically hard-hit Wayne County. County agencies in increasing numbers are requesting the help that can only come from volunteers.

You can become part of this vital volunteer effort by taking advantage of volunteer opportunities being made available at the Operation LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) Volunteer Coffee tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 24, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Northeast Guidance Center, 13340 East Warren Avenue, Detroit.

This yearly event presents a chance for LINC officers and volunteers to meet with and discuss LINC needs with potential volunteers. In addition, this year's featured speaker will be Karl Bidleman, of Focus Hope.

One of the individuals most aware of the necessity for continuing volunteer assistance in LINC is its volunteer chairperson, Paddy Griem, who assumes the important task of recruiting Operation LINC volunteers. She began her own commitment only one year ago as a volunteer LINC office worker, but soon became aware of the importance of all volunteers.

"My office experience led to my current position, because I realized the critical need for volunteers within LINC." According to Griem, volunteer opportunities include soliciting financial assistance from the corporate community; investigating agencies requesting LINC's help; contacting local businesses for donations of goods; collecting goods from the community; sorting goods in the LINC storeroom; special projects such as foster care Christmas gifts; preparing publicity for public awareness of and support of LINC; and performing clerical work and office coverage in the LINC office.

Volunteers will have an additional opportunity to work on LINC's fall fund raiser, a Monte Carlo party to be held Saturday, Nov. 6, at Lochmoor Club.

Griem further explains that volunteer opportunities are varied but time requirements for each commitment are very flexible, according to individual needs.

Operation LINC will continue in 1982 and 1983 to help others help themselves by "linking" donors of services and new or used goods with agencies in Wayne County.

LINC needs and welcomes volunteers to help carry out its mission. If you are interested in learning more about LINC volunteer positions, please contact Paddy Griem at 823-2498.

If you would like to attend the LINC volunteer coffee, please call the LINC office at 331-6700 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. to make reservations.

LINC column space is provided monthly by the Grosse Pointe News as a community service. OPERATION LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or to donate usable items, please call us at 331-6700. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Michigan Opera Theatre Whirlwind Days

These are whirlwind days for Michigan Opera Theatre, which begins its season with the United States premier production of Stanislaw Moniuszko's "Haunted Castle," opening Friday, Oct. 1, at the Music Hall. Many MOT supporters have made plans to spend this Saturday afternoon, Sept. 25, at the Detroit Institute of Arts, where Count Adam Zamoyski, a descendant of Polish royalty and noted author of Polish historical biographies, will present a 4 to 6 p.m. symposium on two Polish composers, Moniuszko and Karol Szymanowski, Poland's greatest composer of modern music.

The symposium, jointly sponsored by MOT's Polish Opera Committee and the museum's Art of Poland Associates, will be followed by cocktails and dinner hosted by the Polish Opera Committee in the DIA's Kresge Court. Dinner tickets at $50 per person, including admission to the symposium, may be ordered by sending checks payable to Michigan Opera Theatre to Mrs. Mitchell Kafarski, Polish Opera Committee, 240 Chesterfield Road, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. 48013.

Incidentally, the Polish Opera Committee is collecting memorabilia and souvenirs of Moniuszko for display in the lobby of the Music Hall during performances of "The Haunted Castle." Anyone with artifacts they would like to include in the exhibit is invited to contact Mrs. Kafarski at 642-2730.

"Yes, Giorgio," the new MGM film starring Luciano Pavarotti, opens a week from today, Thursday, Sept. 30, with a gala premier sponsored by the Michigan Opera Theatre Guild. Tax deductible tickets for the MOT benefit are $50 for Patrons, including a 7 p.m. reception preceding the 8 p.m. showing at Southfield's Prudential Town Center, and $25 for Sponsors with a reception following the show. They may be ordered through MOT, 963-3717.

An additional bit of Michigan Opera Theatre news is that there's been a change in the current season schedule, with MOT flip-flopping its productions of "The Sound of Music" and "Treemonisha." As of now, "Treemonisha" will be presented in its Detroit premier Nov. 12 through 20. "The Sound of Music" will conclude MOT's 1982-83 season, running Jan. 28 through Feb. 5 at the Music Hall.

Detroit Symphony Season Is Open

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's season opening concert last Tuesday, Sept. 21, conducted by Music Adviser Gary Bertini and starring violinist Itzhak Perlman as guest soloist, was preceded, per tradition, by an elegant dinner hosted by the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Party setting was the Westin Hotel, next door to Ford Auditorium. Decorations featured violin ice sculptures draped with pearls, candles and multi-colored impatiens. Among those assisting Jo Kessler, of Huntington Woods, dinner chairman, were Grosse Pointe's Marlene Niccolini and Stephanie Germack, DSO Women's Association president.

Another traditional pre-Detroit Symphony opening "happening" is the Picnic in the Symphony Office Courtyard at which the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, assisted by the Detroit Symphony League, entertains orchestra members at luncheon between rehearsals. This year's picnic Monday, Sept. 20, featured ham, sausage and chicken casseroles. Stephanie Germack, Marge Jewell, Margaret Guertler, Marianne Endicott, Deanna Brinkman, Mado Lie and Marlene Niccolini, all of The Pointe, were among those helping to make the mid-day break a smashing success.

Teachers losing salary game

Public education, threatened by cutbacks in federal and state aid and a deteriorating economy, is facing a new crisis as schools open this fall: the exodus of teachers from the classroom. Low salaries, reports the National Education Association, are the common denominator behind this troubling exit from the profession.

The estimated national salary average for teachers in 1981-82 was $18,976, well below the $22,390 median family income the Commerce Department reported in July is necessary for a family of four to maintain a "moderate standard of living."

Comparisons of teacher salaries to those paid other workers with similar education and training show that teachers in most parts of the country are underpaid by thousands of dollars a year.

Teachers who have recently left the classroom and taken jobs in private industry report that their new salaries are generally 25 percent higher than teaching salaries. The $18,976 average teacher salary is significantly lower than the $26,746 engineers earn and the $23,545 averaged by accountants.

Blue collar workers also fare much better than teachers. The average salary for an electric-gas utility worker is $22,724. A tire factory worker earns $24,582 on the average. A construction worker makes about $21,500.

Starting salaries for teachers lag well behind those of workers entering other fields. New school teachers averaged $12,800 last year, while marketing majors started at $15,816. Business majors made $16,560 in their first year and health professionals $15,300. Even after educators have been teaching 16 or 17 years — and reached the top of the salary schedule — they are often still making less than beginning engineering and business graduates.

September tea for WNF&GA

Saint John's Armenian Church in Southfield will be the locale next Wednesday, Sept. 29, for the Michigan Division of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association's 29th International Tea.

Michigan Division President Phyllis Slattery and Marian Renaud and Artie Norian, co-chairmen of the noon to 4 p.m. party, note that this is an excellent opportunity to see the chapel and interior of this unique church with its prominent, gold dome.

Five Pointes Club convenes

Five Pointes Garden Club met at 12:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 20, for dessert at the home of Louise (Mrs. Leslie) Jones and a program featuring Deanna (Mrs. John) Stephens, showing slides and explaining about growing miniature roses.

Those attending will also be able to view 30 display tables of flower arrangements created by Division members, in Ethnic, Holiday and Special Occasion themes.

The purpose of the International Teas is to promote interest in and provide support for an exchange program between college age youth of the United States and other countries through 4H, a farm youth program.

games and/or join the players at the afterglow.

The Armington and Simms Machine Shop and Foundry, over half-restored, will become completely functional. Two saw mills and a bakery are already in operation.

Gail Giesekeing wed in August

Gail Sue Giesekeing and Peter Donald Williams exchanged marriage vows Saturday, August 21, in front of a fireplace banked with white mums and green plants in the Bedford Road home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Giesekeing.

Richard Walston, of First Lutheran Church of Detroit, presided at the 2 o'clock ceremony. Piano preludes were played by Mrs. Donald Hansen, a friend of the Giesekeing family.

The bride wore a street length dress of pale mauve chiffon accented with beige lace at high neck, cuffs and bodice, and carried three white roses. She was attended by her sister, Kathy Smith, of Union Lake, who read an excerpt from Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "Gift from the Sea" and wore a street length dress of deep blue chiffon. Kathy carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds and miniature, white carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Donald Williams, of Battle Creek, and the late Ila Williams, asked Dennis Duval, of Battle Creek, to act as best man.

The mother of the bride wore a street length dress in shaded mauve tones and pinned a phalaenopsis orchid to her purse.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Williams

Street Station in downtown Detroit. The newlyweds are at home in Columbia, S.C., where the bridegroom, a graduate of Battle Creek's Saint Philip Catholic Central High School and Western Michigan University, is an instructor at Lynnhaven Career Center. The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and Western Michigan University.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harold Hertel, of Clearwater, Fla., her brother, David Giesekeing, who came from California, her sister, Diane Moses, of Elkton, Va., and from Des Moines, Iowa, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rice, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Simpkins.

Summer rites for Amy Blood

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLean Edwards, who vacationed at Hilton Head, S.C., following their early summer marriage in Grace Covenant Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va., are at home in Richmond.

Mrs. Edwards is the former Amy Evans Blood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Earl Blood Jr., of Hillcrest Road, and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Howard Earl Blood, of Grosse Pointe Farms and Sarasota, Fla., and the late Professor and Mrs. Lewis Merritt Gram, of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Thomas Edwards, of Richmond, and grandson of Mrs. Charles Edwards, of Richmond, who attended the wedding, and the late Mr. Edwards, and of McLean Hampton, of Richmond, and the late Mrs. Hampton.

The Reverend William Dunnaway presided at the 12:30 o'clock ceremony. Vocal soloist was Donald E. Brown, of Grosse Pointe Farms. The reception that followed was held at Richmond's Westwood Racquet Club.

She wore the cathedral length veil of Chantilly lace that had been worn by her sister, Mrs. Rupert Wentworth, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, baby's-breath and pink and white cymbidium orchids.

Lisa Blood was honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wentworth, of Bloomington, Ind., Carol and Katherine Edwards, the bridegroom's sisters, and Nancy Wrenn, of Richmond.

They wore dresses of frost rose chiffon featuring long, pleated skirts, and long-sleeved jackets of chiffon cuffed and edged at the waist with Chantilly lace. Matching lace trimmed their Derby style hats. More lace trimmed the circular holders that caught their bouquets of pink Sweetheart roses, purple statice, white, miniature carnations and baby's-breath.

Flower girl Amy Wentworth, the bride's niece, wore a long dress of ivory taffeta over satin, styled with a high neck and Empire bodice and detailed with Chantilly lace. She carried a wicker basket filled with purple statice, pink, miniature roses, white daisies and baby's-breath.

Women focus on Arms Race

A conference, "The Impact of the Arms Race on Women," designed to help deal with women's rising concerns, fears and anxieties regarding the threat of nuclear war, is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 2, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Wayne State University's General Lectures Building (Warren and Third).

Barbara Levin, attorney, will chair the meeting. Marion Anderson, economist, and Arkansas' Betty Bumpers, organizer of Peace Links, the women's peace network, will speak.

In addition, expert resource persons will be available in workshops to help plan concrete programs aimed at educating women about the economic, physical and psychological effects of the arms race.

Registration is $6, including a box lunch. Reservations and further information may be obtained by calling 577-3453 or 577-3468. Flyers on the program are available in the Grosse Pointe Library Rack.

The conference is sponsored by the Center for Peace and Conflict Studies, the Detroit Council for World Affairs at Wayne State University and many participating women's organizations.

Among 23 students selected by Eastern Michigan University's Office of Financial Aid to receive Departmental Recognition Awards of Uniqueness for the upcoming academic year is Grosse Pointe North High School graduate JULIE THOMAS, of Lee Court. The $750 scholarships go to students with a minimum 3.0 grade point average and a special interest in one of EMU's academic majors.

A toast to maturity . . .

This year, the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center turns 18 years old: the Age of Majority. The League enters its 18th year healthy, happy and completely committed to support of the NEGC via fund raising projects that are also fun, projects that help to assure the continued well-being of the community mental health center, which receives no federal funds. The smiles on the faces of CHERYL WALDECK (right), outgoing League president, TONI STEWART (left), incoming president, and DR. JONATHAN YORK, NEGC director, reflect their delight in the fact that Cheryl's last official act as chief executive was the presentation of a check for $36,000 on behalf of the League to Dr. York, who accepted it on behalf of the Center. League members and their friends will be house-hopping this Saturday, Sept. 25, starting at 6:30 p.m., visiting three Pointe homes in the course of a $12.50 per person progressive dinner. Everyone is welcome at the League Follies "Meet the Director" party Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club. Further information may be obtained by contacting Jane Innes at the NEGC, 824-8000.

Cranbrook is focus for AIA House Tour

The Detroit Chapter, American Institute of Architects, will sponsor a tour of four significant Bloomfield Hills homes on Sunday, Oct. 3, from noon to 5 p.m. This year's Detroit AIA house tour centers around Cranbrook and its environs.

Steeped in the Midwestern tradition of attention to detail and quality of construction, the select homes span 75 years and exhibit diversity of design philosophy.

The cottage style mansion designed by Albert Kahn for George Gough Booth dominates the rolling gardens at Cranbrook. Saarinen House was designed by Eliel Saarinen as his private residence. He included designs for leaded windows, furnishings and tableware.

The Frank Lloyd Wright House designed for Melvin Maxwell Smith was constructed by its owner at Mr. Wright's suggestion. The Honigman House by James Cardoza is currently under construction. It offers the unique view of a contemporary home designed with great care and detail.

The tour departs from the Cranbrook Museum parking lot off Lone Pine Road. Shuttle bus transportation will be provided to all homes. Tickets are $8 per person, available by mail prior to Monday, Sept. 27, by sending a check and self-addressed, stamped envelope to Detroit Chapter, AIA House Tour, 553 East Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48226. A limited quantity of tickets will be available on the day of the tour at Cranbrook. More information may be obtained by calling 965-4103.

House Tour chairman is Charles Merz, AIA. Graphics were donated by Albert Kahn Associates under the direction of Bill Demiene, AIA, and executed by graphic designer Karen Waters.

Soiree benefits French Institute

The Edsel & Eleanor Ford House was the setting last Saturday, Sept. 18, for a Soiree au Chateau dinner dance under the patronage of the Consul General de France, M. Jacques Royet. The invitational benefit for the French Institute, a repeat because of popular demand, was chaired by Mrs. Frederick van Assche.

Proceeds from the evening will further the French Institute's educational programs, including the Lycee International de Detroit. The Institute, located on Evergreen Road in Southfield, offers instruction in French for adults, utilizing modern methods developed by the Alliance Francaise for its worldwide network of schools. It is Michigan's only school approved by the Alliance Francaise of Paris.

The Institute is a cultural, non-political, non profit, tax exempt organization. Further information may be obtained by calling 644-4110.

RESULTS

Listed below are just some of the recent results we have produced while dealing in what most professional observers consider a "very difficult" market. The successful marketing of these properties was not luck.

On the contrary, each of these sales was the direct result of a marketing program geared individually to the specific strengths and details of that particular property. This attention to detail coupled with our broad experience in "varied" and "creative" financing technique will make the difference for you too.

Considering a move, but concerned about the market? ... Call one of our associates for some straight talk that produces RESULTS.

Larsons launch Pewabic's year

An exhibit of both functional and impressionistic works by North Carolina ceramists Julie and Tyrone Larson launches the new gallery season Sunday, Sept. 26, at historic Pewabic Pottery, now celebrating its 75th anniversary year, located on East Jefferson Avenue across from Detroit's Waterworks Park. The show will continue through Oct. 16, open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 4:30 p.m. Sundays. It features two ceramics disciplines: functional work centered around ceramic bakeware and one-of-a-kind pieces highlighting lusters on different clay bodies; the latter work is more free-form, impressionistic and decorative. Tyrone, a native Detroit, and Julie, a New York native who received her Master of Arts degree from Wayne State University, are married and operate out of Bakerville, N.C., as nationally recognized studio potters. They have been full-time potters since 1966.

POINTER OF INTEREST: ANITA (MRS. ROBERT F.) UNGER, OF AUDUBON ROAD, CHAIRMAN OF THE 1982 AAUW USED BOOK SALE.

By Peggy O'Connor

These days, Anita Unger can be found sitting amidst a bundle of books — boxes of books, stacks of books, tables topped with books — and loving it. That's because she knows, come Tuesday morning, Sept. 28, those barrels of books, the objects of her attention for so many months, will have been magically transported from Room 110 at Monteith School to the Salem Memorial Lutheran Church on Moross Road.

Well, not exactly by magic. By 9:30 a.m. next Tuesday, Anita and her many helpers will have finally finished their months of collecting, sorting, marking, stacking and setting up. By 9:30 a.m., the 20th annual Used Book Sale sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women will be underway. And when the books start selling . . . that's when the memory of all that work fades away and the magic really begins.

"I really do enjoy it. It's exciting to see the people when the sale begins. We perform a service, whether it's for the collectors or people who need to find reference books. At the very beginning we do have a number of collectors. As the sale goes on, we see people who just enjoy books."

And Anita, chairing the Used Book Sale for the first time, knows that the more people who come through the doors of Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, the better for the AAUW's goal of aiding educational advancement of women.

The AAUW is a national network of 190,000 members in its second century of advocacy for women in education, employment and the family. It is the largest and oldest national organization working for the advancement of women. Last year, the Grosse Pointe Branch Used Book Sale raised $10,000, one-half of which went to the national AAUW educational foundation.

The Pointe Branch was able to collect enough to donate five $1,000 scholarships to local institutions of higher education. Anita's hopes are high for another good Used Book Sale. "I would hope that we could again raise $10,000. Perhaps we could set up some more local scholarships, maybe not five, but some. After all, these are the people who support us through the Used Book Sale," Anita says.

ANITA KNOWS ABOUT the give-and-take relationship the AAUW has, with its Book Sale patrons, its members and its prospective members.

Anita first joined the AAUW in 1968, but first heard about the group while living in her native Norfolk, Va. "I'd first become interested in the AAUW a few months before I graduated from Old Dominion. The group there held a reception for the soon-to-be graduates. I admired their work . . . these women were involved."

Anita joined the AAUW, but at the time she was very involved, too. After taking a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Old Dominion she traveled to Atlanta, where she earned a Master of Arts degree in English and Education from Emory University. She taught English in Maryland, Georgia and Ohio — and at the same time, was occupied with her family, husband Frank (Robert F.), and children Anne, Frank and Paul. The Ungers moved to The Pointe nine years ago and Anita hadn't forgotten about the AAUW.

"Once the children came along and I began to have more time, I remembered the experience I'd had in college, so I became more involved."

And involved is what Anita is. She has held chairmanships in the Pointe AAUW's Ways and Means and Membership committees, and last year served as assistant chairman for the Used Book Sale. Last year's experience, coupled with her knowledge gained as assistant treasurer responsible for the financial aspects of the sale, has served as a perfect training ground for her chairman's duties this year.

Putting something the size of the Used Book Sale together takes a lot of work . . . and Anita admits she's had a lot of help. "There have been people involved in collections, scheduling workers, marking, sorting, publicity, set-up and clean-up." There's no way Anita could do it alone — who would be there to find her when she gets lost in all of those books?

But despite the work, Anita says it has been fun. Book collecting began as soon as last year's sale was over and continued through the summer. The books were moved to Monteith School in August for hectic but enjoyable marking sessions. "Right now there's been a push, but during the summer we have time to sit and savor the books. It's very interesting. You learn a lot listening to the others' comments as we're sorting and marking."

AND EVEN THOUGH she is a Used Book Sale chairman, Anita is also a Used Book Sale patron: she just loves picking out books for her own use. "As a matter of fact, it seems to be a liability. You spot them as you see them go by. We all have our favorites."

But they don't buy them until the book sale opens, so there's no need to worry that there won't be enough good books to go around. Unless, of course, one delays a visit to the sale.

Between the unadvertised specials on Friday, Oct. 1, the half-price sale on Saturday, Oct. 2, and the $3 per bag Bag Sale on Sunday, Oct. 3, the AAUW will probably have collected a great amount of money to fund scholarships. And there may not be a book left in sight.

But until then, there will be thousands of paperbacks, plus children's books (in a special children's section set up so the kids can sit down and read), cookbooks, hardcover fiction and biographies, and sets of books including literary collections and encyclopedias. There will be a silent auction of collectibles like an 18th century Roman Catholic missal, L. Frank Baum's "Oz" books and a student-size set of the 11th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The silent auction goes on throughout the sale. Bids will be posted at the end of each day; the highest bidder at the end of the sale gets the book or books. "Our rare book lady goes around and pulls items out for the silent auction. And we really need her . . . one time we had a book marked at 25 cents, that turned out to be worth $45."

"That silent auction really gets a lot of attention."

But then: so does the entire AAUW Used Book Sale — thanks to people like Anita Unger.

The AAUW Used Book Sale runs from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, Sept. 28 through Oct. 1, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 2, and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 3. The sale is at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, 21230 Moross Road, south of I-94.

ELEGANT EATING

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth presenting, this week, a quick, economical and luscious GRILLED DINNER, topped off by a light dessert.

Accompaniments to this main dish could be unsweetened apple sauce seasoned with freshly chopped mint leaves . . . a platter of thinly sliced, bright red tomatoes ringed with overlapping cucumber slices . . . garlic-buttered whole wheat rolls toasted on the grill.

GRILLED LAMB BURGERS IN FOIL

1 lb. very lean ground lamb
1/4 tsp. Vege-Sal
Potatoes, peeled, thinly sliced
Carrots, peeled, thinly sliced
Celery, thinly sliced diagonally
Sweet onion rings, thinly sliced
Parsley, very finely minced
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. ground white pepper

Thoroughly mix the Vege-Sal into the ground lamb before making four patties. Place each patty on a large square of very heavy duty foil. Top each patty with a layer of potatoes, carrots, celery and onion rings. Sprinkle very generously with minced parsley, lightly with salt and pepper.

Fold packets, so that they are tightly sealed. Grill 5 to 6 inches from moderately hot charcoal fire for 30 to 40 minutes, turning packets every 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Calories about 480 per serving.
Cholesterol about 70 mgs.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

2 env. unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup water
1 cup skim milk, heated to boiling
1/4 cup sugar*
1 tsp. almond extract
1 qt. fresh strawberries

In 5-cup blender sprinkle gelatin over water; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Add hot milk and process at low speed until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 2 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; process at high speed until strawberries are pureed. Pour into dessert dishes; chill until set. Garnish each dish with a sprig of fresh mint. Makes 8 servings.

Calories about 80 per serving.
Cholesterol about 1 mg.
*1 teaspoon sugar substitute may be used instead of sugar, thus reducing the calorie count to 56 calories per serving.

All proceeds go to the Symphonic Band. Reservation information may be obtained by calling the WSU Alumni Association, 577-2301.

Homecoming at Marygrove

Marygrove College will host its Annual Alumni Homecoming Day, sponsored by the Marygrove Alumni Department and Alumni Association, this Saturday, Sept. 25, and several Grosse Pointe residents are active in the preparation of the day's activities.

Directing Homecoming activities is Patricia Hawkins, of The Park, Marygrove's staff director of Alumni Relations and a graduate of the college. Chairing the 1942 reunion class committee is Marjorie Gallagher Shields, of The Woods.

Two other Woods residents co-chairing their 1952 reunion year festivities are Mary Jane Howard Brennan and Hellen Gilleran Roach. Also on hand will be the chairperson of the Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores Marygrove Alumni Chapter, Virginia (Ginger) Lentine DiNatale, The Farms.

Two Grosse Pointe priests are also playing significant roles in Marygrove Homecoming activities. The Reverend Ralph Kowalski, pastor of Our Lady Star of the Sea, will be the celebrant at a noon liturgy and will give the invocation at an evening banquet at the Detroit Golf Club.

Father Val Rodriguez, of Saint Paul's on-the-Lakeshore, will be an honored guest because of his many years of service as a Marygrove professor of Spanish and Philosophy.

Homecoming on-campus features include college forums on timely topics, led by Marygrove faculty and administrators, a noon liturgy by the Class of 1957, an afternoon reception, a fashion show by Lizbeth's of Birmingham and several reunion luncheons.

Evening highlights are cocktails, dinner, dancing and an awards presentation at the Detroit Golf Club. Especially honored will be the reunions of the 50-year (1932) and 25-year (1957) graduating classes.

Additional information on the Homecoming program may be obtained by contacting Patricia Hawkins, director of Alumni Relations, at 862-8000, Extension 250.

Sports week

By Peggy O'Connor

SPORTS FANS have dreamed about it for years, a long weekend in another city, watching the hometown favorites giving their long time toes a whipping. You've dreamed about it, now you're going to get it... at least the part where you and the hometown favorites travel to another city.

On Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 20 and 21, the Detroit Pistons, Red Wings, and Lions will all be in Chicago to take on that city's Bulls, Black Hawks, and Bears. Can-Am travel is offering football fans "A Football Weekend in Chicago," Nov. 19 through 21. Lions fans will have the opportunity to see their heroes play the Bears at Soldier Field at noon Nov. 21.

The package includes round-trip train transportation, hotel accommodations, game tickets and transfers to and from the game via chartered bus. Further information may be obtained by calling Can-Am travel at 353-9740, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., or Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

You hockey and basketball fans will have to make your own arrangements to see the Wings and the Pistons. Can-Am's package is football only. Fans will also have to provide their own hot dogs, popcorn and beer. And you long-time Lion fans should remember to bring your own snowballs, just in case our boys should be getting a whipping instead of giving one.

GROSSE POINTE! RON CAMERON says you are part of the best sports area in the state. And now, courtesy of sports media personality Cameron, you great east side sports fans will have a place to discuss everything from Sparky's strategies to Little Caesar's pizza king, Mike Ilitch's Red Wings, Red Wings, Cameron, a Beaconsfield Road resident, will host the grand opening of Sports Den, his restaurant bar, this Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24 and 25. Sports Den, formerly Mr. Kay's, is located on East Eight Mile, one block west of Kelly Road. Cameron promises that a few of the Detroit Tigers and other radio, TV, and local personalities will be on hand for the festivities. The Sports Den will be open seven days a week, offering businessmen's luncheons and satellite television of sporting events. "It'll be a place where sports fans can congregate and talk sports. I hope to do a sports talk show where the people can come in and sit and ask questions," Cameron says.

FOUR MT. PLEASANT cyclists took a non-stop bicycle ride to Mackinaw City on Sept. 12. Their ride was to dramatize the relative speed and ease of bicycle travel... and if anything could do that it would be their finishing time. The cyclists, including former Woods resident George Lufty, 28, set a goal of eight hours, but arrived in Mackinaw City just six hours, 49 minutes and 10 seconds after leaving Mt. Pleasant — an average speed of 26.12 m.p.h. It may not have been easy, but it sure was fast.

DA, TRASH CAN LINERS. Niget, trash: The University Ligett School hockey team has been invited to participate in an exhibition tour of Helsinki, Stockholm and Leningrad in March, 1983. To raise funds for the trip, the players are selling 20-30 gallon trash can liners (complete with ties) for $10 per box of 100. Order forms are available at the Grosse Pointe News sports desk or at U.S. Phone orders will also be taken at 882-1688. By the way, comrade, the trash bags will be delivered to your door.

A VERY GOOD YEAR FOR SOCCER: It looks like it will be a good year, at least for North High's varsity soccer team. North beat Washington Eisenhower, 3-0, last week, handing Eisenhower its first loss in its soccer history. The win, paced by Marc Tirikian's three goals, ended a 21-game unbeaten string for the powerful Eisenhower squad. And just to prove it wasn't a fluke, the Norsemen won the weekend's Troy Invitational, topping Grand Blanc, 5-1, and Troy, 4-3, to take the tournament crown.

Lace up the skates—schools okay intramural hockey

By Peggy O'Connor

After countless petitions, surveys, letters, phone calls and meetings, the controversial issue of high school ice hockey has been settled. There will be ice hockey at North and South high school this winter — but not at the long anticipated varsity level.

The school administration last week directed high school athletic directors Thomas Gauerke and Charles Hollosy to develop an in-district intramural ice hockey program. Plans for such a program are already underway, Gauerke and Hollosy said Monday.

"We have said we would try to have intramural programs in the schools. Each school has enlisted one teacher to work with the athletic directors in developing the program. It will be an intramural program run by the schools with an in-building league in each school," Gauerke said.

"We hope we might have four teams in each building. These four teams would play one another. Then when we got through the schedule, we're thinking of choosing an All-Star team that would play South," North's Gauerke added.

Gauerke said he hopes that the intramural hockey program might start in mid-November and run through February. Both North and South would play their games at Grosse Pointe Community Rink. The schools have made preliminary contact with the GPCR. Gauerke said.

DAN GRIESBAUM has been chosen to be the teacher coordinator at South; Tom Teetart at North.

Both are adept at coordinating intramurals, Gauerke said. The first step toward creating the hockey program was to determine the interest in hockey at each school. South had its student meeting last Friday, Sept. 17. South athletic director Hollosy said that 48 boys attended the South meeting expressing their interest in playing. North's preliminary meeting is scheduled for late this week.

"At this point, Dan (Griesbaum) is going to have to start work to determine how many teams South will have, how much ice time we need, where we will get the officials and coaching help we need," South's Hollosy said Monday.

Both Gauerke and Hollosy emphasized that the planning is in the very early stages. The schools' role in providing equipment, checking equipment for safety features, and setting ice time fees has yet to be decided.

"As of right now, we will expect students to provide their own equipment. We also expect the kids to share in the costs of ice time, just as they do in the other intramural sports, like bowling and racquetball," Gauerke said. Depending upon the number of players involved, ice time fees should range are $2 or $3 per player, per session, a figure which is consistent with the fees charged in other intramural programs, Gauerke noted.

"We're going to have to have a lot of parental help. We're going to rely on that and on student interest," Gauerke said.

GAUERKE AND HOLLOSY should have little problem in the area of parental support, if Julie Bourke has her say. Mrs. Bourke has been a driving force behind the development of ice hockey at the high school level. She and her committee of parents and school board member Ronald Dalby have worked since last September toward that goal.

"Oh great," Mrs. Bourke said on learning of the schools' decision. "I'm really excited. I just hope varsity hockey is the outcome... that's what we're working for."

Mrs. Bourke and her committee worked to install ice hockey as a varsity sport because, she said, there was a great need for such a level of play in the community.

"Many of these boys have been playing hockey all their lives. When you get to be a midget or a junior there's nothing but travel... and that just takes up so much time. To have to tell them (the boys) at that level there's no alternative to travel..." Mrs. Bourke said.

"Most of the boys just can't play travel. Travel play is seven months long and school hockey would be only four months. The boys know they have to study."

MRS. BOURKE and her committee felt that varsity hockey, (where the high schools would field one or two competitive teams which would participate in an interscholastic league) would offer an alternative to the boys who wanted to continue with hockey at a level less time consuming than travel.

In November, 1981, the high school athletic directors were requested by the school system to investigate the possibilities of developing such a varsity program. Gauerke and Hollosy conducted such a study and made their recommendations to the school system in February of this year.

"Five of the eight schools with varsity hockey which responded to our survey said they would not start a varsity hockey program if they had that option," Gauerke said. The schools cited such problems as crowd control, high costs, low spectator interest for losing teams, and lack of control over the sport as an off-campus activity. "After the study, we did not recommend hockey as a varsity sport," Gauerke said. "And cost is a concern, especially when you consider that a varsity team only involves about 18 kids."

But Julie Bourke and her parents' committee were not satisfied with the athletic directors' decision. They conducted a study of their own, surveying 50 of the 54 Class A sponsoring ice hockey programs. The athletic directors' study concluded that the total start-up costs of such a program would be approximately $17,800. Mrs. Bourke's study came up with a comparable figure of $17,121.

Mrs. Bourke and her committee concluded that the problems of crowd control, drinking, fighting in the games, etc., had been controlled by the majority of the schools surveyed — and could be controlled in a varsity situation at North and South. Mrs. Bourke noted in her survey that the problems were solved by hiring a good coach with a hockey background and by laying rules down in the beginning of the program. "Use of foul language, obscene gestures and fighting often result in a two or three game suspension for the player — so that sort of thing just couldn't happen," Mrs. Bourke said of the control problems.

GAUERKE DID not deny that the parents' committee study was a thorough one, but stood behind the schools' decision. "In 1979-80 the state called some of these schools with ice hockey in and told them to clean the game up or drop it — the schools have done so," Gauerke said.

So varsity hockey isn't completely out of the question for the future, he added. "Our idea is that we'll take a second look at the varsity program... we'll see how the intramurals go."

And South and North may not just be limited to playing within each school. State rules specify that intramural teams be allowed to play a maximum three games outside the in-building league. Both Gauerke and Hollosy say that games between the two schools are definitely in the plans.

As it stands now, the intramurals are the key to future hockey development within the schools. "I don't think the varsity question is out," Hollosy said. "Definitely not. We have to be open about that. As athletic directors we want the kids to have everything they can in terms of sports."

"If it's a good program, let's have it."

Norsemen fumble win away, 16-14

A fumble on the Sterling Heights' four-yard line in the dying moments of the game spoiled a performance that saw North's football squad come back from a 16-0 half-time deficit to lose, 16-14. The loss evens North's record at 1-1 as it prepares to open the 1982 home season Saturday at 1 p.m. against a tough Warren Cousino squad, also 1-1.

"We turned the ball over far too many times," commented North coach Frank Sumner. "They're a good team, but we should have won nevertheless. The defense played very well."

Sumner added that the offense is going to have to control the ball better and hang on to it longer in order to give the defense a much-needed rest. Fred Schultz, Dave Bergeron and Geoff Tischbein starred for North. Schultz accounted for all 14 points as he scored on touchdown runs of seven and six yards, as well as running in a two-point conversion. Schultz also contributed defensively with 13 tackles. Bergeron starred both on offense and defense, earning 11 tackles, and Tischbein turned in a stellar defensive performance.

In spite of the non-league loss, Sumner remained optimistic about North's Bi-County chances. "We have as good a chance as any. We just have to execute, that's all."

Tickets for Saturday's game are

$2. A large crowd is anticipated.

A soccer upset

The Norsemen hosted, challenged and were triumphant against previously undefeated Washington Eisenhower, 3-0. North then won the Troy Invitational for the second year in succession as they hammered Grand Blanc 5-1, before holding on to beat the Troy Colts in the final, 4-3.

Eisenhower, which hadn't lost in its previous 21 games, trailed 2-0 at the half and just couldn't manage to beat North's defense and goalie Dave Loren, as it fell for the first time in its history in the very emotional game.

Junior Marc Tirikian scored all three goals on passes from Paul Regelbrugge, Ray Azar and Carlos Perez. The entire team was at its best in the winning effort.

In the Invitational, North destroyed Grand Blanc, 5-1 as Tirikian scored three more. Regelbrugge and sophomore Walter Preis added the other two goals. The Norsemen held a 4-1 lead in the highly-entertaining finale with just seven minutes to play before the Colts struck back like lightning against a heavily-substituted North line-up.

Tirikian scored twice, and Azar and Dave Waldeck also netted a goal. Tirikian was voted tournament MVP for the second straight year, while scoring five goals.

North takes on South Tuesday, Sept. 28 at Elsworth Field begin-

College rosters carry Pointers

Two Pointe freshmen will be battling for spots on their respective college teams this fall, as they try to make the transition from high school to college football.

Trying to make a permanent spot on the Hope College football team is freshman tackle Jerry Bockstanz.

That's using your head?

University Liggett evens football mark at 1-1

First-year varsity football coach Chet Janiga wasn't sure he had won his first game at the University Liggett School until the final gun. ULS had to thwart a last-minute, two-point conversion try by Harper Woods High School to win 14-13, Friday, Sept. 17 at Harper Woods.

The Knights, led by the passing and running of quarterback Jeff Parks and running back Steve Georgi went ahead in the first half, 7-0, when Parks hit split end John Kulka on a 65-yard scoring strike. John Polizzi kicked the first of his two extra points.

In the second half, ULS went ahead 14-0, with Parks scoring on a five-yard run, before Harper Woods came roaring back in the fourth quarter. The Pioneers scored twice in the final period, the second touchdown coming with just 20 seconds remaining.

After some confusion, the two-point conversion try was ruled inches short and ULS escaped with an exciting one-point victory. Players, coaches, and fans combined to celebrate the Knights' first win of the season, which now evens their record and sparks enthusiasm for this week's home opener, Friday, Sept. 24 at 4 p.m., with Flint Academy.

ULS tops South kickers

Last week the University Liggett School varsity soccer team played its most challenging game thus far this season facing Grosse Pointe South's varsity squad on Sept. 16 at Elworthy Field.

The game was an exciting one as South challenged the Knights in skills and tactics where they had been unpressured before by other teams. The first goal was scored by ULS halfback John Fern. Following immediately after, South met the threat with two goals of its own.

Larry Van Kirk tied the game at 2-2 with a shot from outside the 18-yard line. South scored once more but Marty Wittmer and Robbie Wood came back with the tying and winning goals as the Knights came from behind to win the game, 4-3.

The victory was a meaningful one for the ULS team. It proved the unity of the team's 15 players, and demonstrated excellent offensive and defensive preparation and drill.

The varsity soccer team's next home game is Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 4:40 p.m., when the Knights take on the Roper High School Varsity soccer team for their second match-up of the season. (By Matthew Carstens).

Field hockey squad ready

Contrary to popular belief, field hockey at University Liggett School starts long before the school year opens. At ULS, field hockey day camp opened on Monday, Aug. 23. Players were instructed by coaches from the University of Michigan and coaches with nationwide experience who had participated in hockey sports festivals at Olympic development camps. Hockey players from schools in Dearborn, Ann Arbor, Bloomfield Hills and Grosse Pointe also attended.

University Liggett School continued into preseason camp and the team's first taste of competitive play on Sept. 11 at Sauk Valley's Playday. Schools from Ohio and Michigan attended the Playday to get the feel for the opposition.

Muriel Brock, head field hockey coach at ULS, is working with a very young, inexperienced team. The girls open their season at home Wednesday, Sept. 22 (after press time) against a very strong competitor, Ottawa Hills, Ohio. The team's hope for the season is to continue the winning ULS tradition.

A JV tennis win

The University Liggett School junior varsity tennis team defeated Ann Arbor Huron junior varsity 5-2, Friday, Sept. 17, at ULS. No. 1 singles player Marcela Brane lost to Anne Peterson, 6-4, 1-6, 1-6.

North eaglers fall

After losing to Utica Eisenhower, 58-28, North fought hard but lost to Bishop Gallagher, 40-34, in the first round of the North Girls' Invitational.

Jean Genord and Sally Malta led the way for the Norsemen against Eisenhower with eight points apiece. Genord and Jan Hamilton's 12 points each against the Lancers helped, although the defensive effort was especially commended by Coach Scott Burns.

The JV lost to Gallagher, 50-15, while the freshmen had better luck against Chippewa Valley winning, 25-24.

Maurcen Juif led the frosh squad with seven points and three assists, and Chris Gustafson contributed with four points and seven rebounds.

JV gridders are 2-0

An excellent second half performance gave North a 7-6 win over Sterling Heights and a 2-0 season record.

Will Secor ran for 58 yards and a touchdown. Dan Kopitzke, George Kasza and kicker Tim VanEchoute also stood out in the victory.

South

Devils drop soccer opener

South's boys' varsity soccer team lost its opening game to a tough Utica Eisenhower, 3-2, on Sept. 10.

The first half was played mostly in South's end of the field with Eisenhower scoring twice to be up 2-0 at halftime. The second half was just the opposite, with South dominating to score two goals to tie the game at 2-2. With approximately 15 minutes left in the game Eisenhower scored on a breakaway from half field to win the match.

Pierce cheerleading hopefuls get help

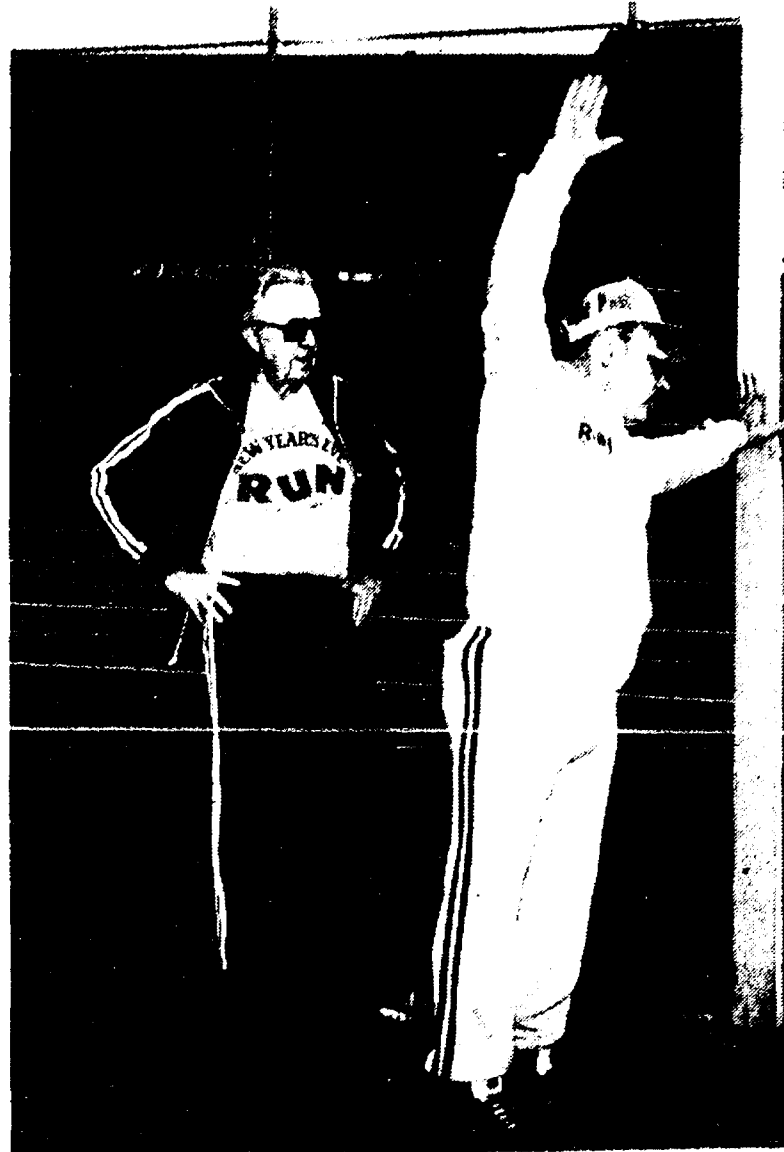

Inter-school cooperation at its finest is being demonstrated as cheerleaders from South High School are coaching 50 Pierce Middle School students who wish to try out for cheerleading teams at Pierce Middle School.

Coaching takes place at a series of four after-school clinics, the first of which was held Sept. 16. Cheerleading teams and the clinic sessions are sponsored by Pierce faculty sponsor Fran Ralstrom. Following completion of the four clinics by the end of September, six, seventh and six eighth graders will be selected for Pierce's official cheerleading teams which will lead cheers at home and away basketball games.

"The South High cheerleaders are doing a wonderful job at the clinics," said Mrs. Ralstrom.

"What makes their efforts especially commendable is the fact that they are donating their free time after school to help our aspiring cheerleaders."

Making strides . . .

Racewalking is growing in leaps and bounds in this area, thanks to the expert instruction of Frank Alongi, at right, demonstrating a stretching exercise to the Woods' John Gustke. Alongi, a former Olympian and president of the Wolverine Pacers Athletic Club and the United States team coach, is instructing the fall racewalking program at North High School for the Department of Community Services of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. Tips to make hunting safe

The typical hunting accident casualty is a male between 10 and 29 years of age who is hunting small game with a shotgun during the first week of the season. He resides in a rural area and has had one to five years of hunting experience. The accident occurred between 6 and 9 a.m. on a Saturday, Sunday, Monday, or Tuesday.

This profile is from "Hunting Mishaps — The How and Why," an article in the fall issue of Family Safety, a quarterly magazine published by the National Safety Council.

The North American Association of Hunter Safety Coordinators compiles hunting statistics from 34 states and four Canadian provinces. The latest report covers four years — 1977 through 1980. During that period, 5,784 hunting accidents occurred, and of that number 723 were fatal.

The major causes of hunting accidents are the victim was out of sight of the shooter, the shooter swinging on game hits victim, the victim mistaken for game, the shooter stumbled and fell, and the shooter's trigger got caught on an object.

The article says that hunting permits issued by the reporting states and provinces in 1980 alone totaled 15,692,802, so the 1,406 accidents in 1980 means one hunter was hurt or killed for every 11,161 licenses sold, or 8.96 accidents per 100,000 hunters.

It's estimated that one out of five American males over age 16 participates in hunting. That's approximately 17.5 million hunters.

Shotguns are involved in far more accidents than rifles, 55 percent compared to 32 percent during the 1977-80 period, probably because there is more small game hunting with shotguns.

Hunter orange generally is credited with reducing deer hunting mishaps, the article says. Thirty states and three provinces now make hunter orange mandatory to some degree, usually for deer hunting.

Waterfowl hunting is the safest of the main hunting categories, with only 71 accidents and 11 fatalities in the 1980 North American survey. That compares with 426 accidents and 76 fatalities for big game, and 666 accidents with 59 fatalities for small game.

A large number of hunting injuries are self-inflicted, the study shows. The chief reasons are stumbling and falling (a four year total of 262 accidents) and catching the trigger on brush or other objects (165).

There's no place like home . . .

There's no place like home... especially when it comes to the home field advantage at high school sporting events. There's plenty of home action on the North, South and ULS schedules this week, including the following:

SOUTH: The varsity football Blue Devils will host Anchor Bay at 1 p.m. this Saturday, Sept. 25. The girls' varsity basketball team plays crosstown rival North at 6 p.m. today, Sept. 23, preceded by the ninth graders' game at 4 p.m.

The girls' cross country team will host Edsel Ford at 4 p.m., and the swimmers will be at home to Birmingham Marian at 4 p.m. today. The varsity and JV soccer squads will play host to North High on Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 4 p.m. The girls' tennis team will host L'Anse-Creuse North on Sept. 24 and North High on Sept. 28; game time is 4 p.m.

NORTH: It's home opener time for the varsity football team as the Norsemen host Warren Cousino at 1 p.m. Sept. 25. The girls' basketball teams will host L'Anse Creuse North on Sept. 28 at 6 p.m. for the JV, 7:30 for the varsity. The freshmen play at 4 p.m. The varsity soccer team will play Roseville at 4 p.m. tomorrow, Sept. 24. The girls' swim team has a date with Washington Eisenhower today at 7 p.m., and the girls' tennis squad will host Lakeview tomorrow, Sept. 24, at 4 p.m. The combined cross country teams will host Lake Shore at 4 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 28.

ULS: The varsity football Knights open their home season tomorrow, Sept. 24, with a 4 p.m. contest against Flint Academy. The varsity soccer squad will host Roeper at 4:30 p.m. next Tuesday, Sept. 28; the JV game will precede the varsity contest.

The cross country squad will meet Bethany Christian at 4:15 p.m., Sept. 28. The varsity golfers host Cranbrook today, Sept. 23, at 4 p.m. and Bishop Gallagher on Sept. 29 at 3:30 p.m. The girls' varsity tennis team has two home matches this week: today at 4 p.m. against Our Lady Star of the Sea, and Wednesday, Sept. 29 against Dearborn at 4 p.m. The JV tennis squad takes Kingswood on at 4 p.m. Sept. 28.

Pierce resumes early bird sports

Pierce Middle School is again offering students its popular program of Early Bird Homeroom Activities this year. The activities, which begin at 7:45 a.m. daily, include basketball, floor hockey, volleyball, softball and a spelling contest.

All activities are voluntary, but have become so well liked that last year more than 70 percent of Pierce's 400 students participated in one or more of the events.

The spelling contest is a preliminary to the school's annual spelling bee and helps prepare students for the tri-county competition.

Scheduled from September through June, the Early Bird activity program is sponsored by the Pierce Guidance and Counseling Department.

For more information, parents or students can contact counselors, James Ireton or Jack Lambka (343-2099).

The biggest.

Newspapers are the largest advertising medium of them all. By far. In 1981, advertisers invested $17.4 billion in newspapers—more than they spent in TV or magazines or radio or any two of them combined.

	Advertising Volume
	1980 ($ millions)	1981 (Est.) ($ millions)	Increase ($ millions)

That's nice for us, but why should you care? Well, newspapers are Number One because advertising experts believe they work, and back up that belief with more hard dollars than they spend with any other medium.

Their confidence is well placed. Sixty-two million copies of newspapers are sold on the average day, and almost 7 out of 10 consumers read one. And readership is highest among the Upscales... those with higher incomes, more education, better jobs, greater appetites for life. Translation: people who buy.

LISTENERS TO WXYZ'S Mike Miller Morning Show (5:30 to 9:30 a.m.) learned of the joy of victory and the agony of defeat last week when an absolutely top drawer resident of the Pointe named "Biffy" called in to lament the loss of summer.

No more gin and tonics, khaki shorts, bicycling and tennis at the club. But all is not lost. With autumn comes Harris tweeds, argyle socks, multi-colored docksliders and the first annual "Preppy Olympics," held recently in the Park.

According to "Biffy," two of the more popular events were the 400 meter social climb and the team tantrum toss. After the events were over, mummy and daddy raised everyone's allowance.

"Biffy" is really comedian Tim Allen, who's currently appearing at "Knock-Knock," a comedy nightclub in Southfield. According to Allen, "Biffy" will reappear on the Miller show on Friday, Oct. 1, to wrap up the rest of the events, and report on the parties afterwards.

AMONG HIS MANY well earned honors, Pointer GORDON BUEHRIG can now list another. He recently had a street named after him in Auburn, Ind. Known as the "Father of Automotive Design," Buehrig, who designed the classic Cord, Auburns and Duessenberg, received the honor at the "Cord-Auburn-Duessenberg Car Collectors Festival" held this past summer in Auburn.

THERE WAS A hot time in the old Park last week. Park firefighter JOE BIALK loves (or used to love) good chili. When he whipped up a batch for the boys at the fire station last week they commented that it was a little mild.

A big, burly kind of guy and not to be intimidated, Bialk poured in a jar of jalapeno pepper sauce a friend had given him and dinner was on. While the others noted the change with red, sweaty faces, clenched fists and wheezy voices, Bialk reportedly downed the brew with a straight face and calm demeanor until 4 a.m., when he awoke the rest of his crew with what he swore was a heart attack. The squad rushed him to Bon Secours Hospital where fortunately, the heart attack turned out to be a false alarm. The final diagnosis was heart burn. Kinda gives you a warm feeling inside, doesn't it?

EVER BEEN TO a sea-going flea market? You'll get your chance at the 12th annual Great Lakes Metropolitan Boat Show at the Metropolitan Beach Park Marina, Oct. 2 to 10. The nautical flea market is just a side light to the power-sailboat show that drew in 50,000 visitors last year.

Produced by Bishop Road resident JACK LEVERENZ, the show will feature large boats in water, with smaller craft on land. All are available for inspection.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and Sundays; 4 to 8 p.m. on Monday to Thursday and noon until 8 p.m. Friday. Admission is $4 for adults and $1 for kids under 12. Incidentally, anyone can bring anything to swap or sell at the flea market. Twenty percent of the sale price goes to the show.

NEVER MIND THAT it was 88 degrees last week. Forget the fact that people are still wearing shorts and going to Tiger ball games. Ignore the water skiers on Lake St. Clair. (Continued on Page 6A)

Getting tough with loved ones

By Joanne Gouleche

"There is a message in the times, in the music that says we need to be equal with everyone else. We have swung from a rigid society to one where we must become equal."

"But that doesn't mean you can take my rights away." Fran Pastoria, program coordinator for the Northeast Guidance Center, isn't referring to the ongoing equal rights battle between men and women. This war is being waged in the livingrooms around the country, leaving one side wounded with guilt, embarrassment and frustration.

The seemingly apparent victor in all this, however, stands to lose much more than he ever dreamed. And, at 15 years of age, that can be a lot to bargain for.

Bickering between parents and their children is nothing new. But in cases where the bickering has pushed parents against the wall after endless arguments with their kids about alcohol and drug habits, about their daughter's truancy from school, about their son's second arrest for burglary this year, parents are joining in Toughlove, a support group for parents with troublesome children.

"CHILDREN HAVE always had peer support groups," Mrs. Pastoria said. "It's only been now that parents need a support group, too. Toughlove fits that need."

The Toughlove organization was founded five years ago by David and Phyllis York, Pennsylvania family therapists who began the parental support group after a traumatic experience with their own daughter who was arrested for holding up a cocaine dealer.

It was their daughter's second arrest and the Yorks refused to bail her out of jail. Instead she spent six months in jail without a visit by her parents. It wasn't until four months after her acquittal and a vow of cooperation from their daughter that the Yorks allowed her to return home.

Here in Grosse Pointe, parents will have an opportunity to learn about Toughlove at St. Paul Lutheran Church, 375 Lothrop Road, on Monday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe office of the Northeast Guidance Center, is intended to introduce parents to the philosophy of the Toughlove program. Future meetings will be held weekly.

"The Yorks believe understanding and being nice to your kids doesn't always produce desirable results," Mrs. Pastoria said. "Parents should say what they mean and mean what they say."

The NEGC's executive director, Dr. Jonathan L. York, concluded there is a need for a Toughlove program in Grosse Pointe after hearing and reading about the program.

"IT SOUNDED LIKE a lot of problems we have here in Grosse Pointe. It's hard to say what kind of response we will have, but if other communities like Grosse Pointe are any indication, it should have an overwhelming response."

Mrs. Pastoria stressed that it is the hope of the NEGC to make Grosse Pointe's Toughlove group self-sufficient.

There are Toughlove programs already in Dearborn and Farmington Hills, according to Mrs. Pastoria, where the bottom line philosophy of the Toughlove program is preached: cooperation in the home.

"There are so many cases where teenagers have taken over the household," Mrs. Pastoria said. "Kids on substance abuse become very powerful. You really need to balance that out."

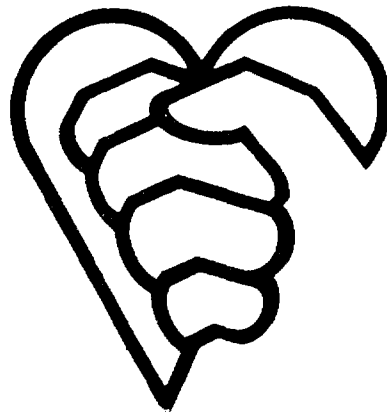

"Once you get past the conflict and move onto cooperation, it reinforces the love between parent and child."

At Toughlove meetings around the country, it's not uncommon for parents to reveal how they have piled their kid's clothes on the front steps after they return home at an unreasonable hour.

Parents then order their kids to live elsewhere until they understand what the rules of the house are, according to Mrs. Pastoria.

She attended one of those workshops in Ann Arbor last June where she heard testimonies from a couple hundred parents who have made Toughlove a way of life.

"Parents were vocal about the kind of help they were getting from one another in dealing with similar situations," she said, adding the Yorks' belief that parents need the support of other parents in crisis situations and they need to set manageable goals and issue ultimatums if necessary.

TOUGHLOVE

TOO OFTEN parents feel ashamed and guilty because they can't control their children. "They think they have done something wrong," according to Mrs. Pastoria.

After Toughlove is sprung into action at home, it usually involves parents negotiating a contract with their children outlining specific rules and regulations they must abide by.

But, the Yorks point out, Toughlove is not the answer for all troublesome children. Phyllis York has stressed: "It is a way of drawing the line against out-of-control kids and compelling them to live by reasonable but stringent rules."

Boy, 13, killed in auto accident

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A 13-year-old Woods boy died Saturday, Sept. 18, in St. John Hospital of multiple injuries he received the day before, when he apparently crossed the Mack-Vernier intersection against the light and was struck by a car.

Christopher Hohmeyer, of Severn Road, was struck by a car at 8:40 p.m. Friday, Sept. 17, as he tried to cross westbound Vernier Road on his bicycle against the light, police said.

Officers on patrol in the area said they saw Hohmeyer riding his 20-inch bicycle south along the Mack sidewalk. He was returning home after visiting a friend, police said. He had just passed the Mack entrance to A. H. Peters Funeral Home, apparently in a hurry according to reports, when officers lost sight of him behind parked cars. The patrol car was stopped on southbound Mack waiting for the red light to change.

According to reports, officers spotted Hohmeyer as he entered the intersection and was struck by a blue Oldsmobile two-door traveling westbound on Vernier. Hohmeyer was rolled onto the hood of the car and was carried about 108 feet before the car stopped and he fell to the ground, police said.

Hohmeyer suffered "obviously very serious injuries," police said, and was unresponsive to first aid administered at the scene by Woods emergency medical technicians and a St. Clair Shores EMT who volunteered his service.

He was taken to St. John where he remained in very serious condition until he died at 7:40 p.m. Saturday, hospital officials said.

HOHMEYER, a student at the University Liggett middle school, is the second pedestrian to die at the intersection since 1978. In May of that year, a 13-year-old bicyclist was struck and killed by a city garbage truck as it turned onto eastbound Vernier from Mack.

The facts of Friday's accident will be presented to the Wayne County Prosecutor to decide whether charges will be brought against the driver. Public Safety Director Jack Patterson said.

Hohmeyer, an eighth grader at Liggett, came to Grosse Pointe three years ago with his family when his father, James, became music coordinator at the school. Mr. Hohmeyer is also head of vocal and instrumental music instruction at the Upper School.

As part of a family that is musically involved at both the school and Christ Episcopal Church, according to school officials, Chris was a percussionist for the school. He played in the school band and (Continued on Page 6A)

This is it folks — the first day of fall. It's time to pack the boat away, say goodbye to all those pleasurable summer pursuits and get ready for winter's onslaught. The "Bluenose" sailors wrapped up the official competitive season on Lake St. Clair last weekend, while the football season at North and South High Schools got underway. There's no doubt about it — summer's gone.

Woods judge makes a full-time commitment

By Mike Andrzejczyk

When the Woods swears in newly-appointed Municipal Judge Patricia Schneider Monday, Oct. 4, the city will have a judge who wants to communicate with and educate residents about the workings of the court.

Mrs. Schneider was named to the judgeship Monday, Sept. 13, to fill the vacancy left by the death of Woods-Shores Municipal Judge J. Patrick Denis last Memorial Day. She will serve the rest of Denis' unexpired term in the Woods until the November, 1983, elections.

The municipal judgeship will be a change from her duties for the last five years. Mrs. Schneider said. Since 1977, she has worked as a deputy defender in the Wayne County Legal Aid and Defender's Office.

As a deputy defender, Mrs. Schneider handled felony trial cases, she said. The municipal courts handle mostly misdemeanors, ordinance violations, arraignments and preliminary examinations. Municipal courts also have civil jurisdiction over cases involving $1,500 in damages or less.

"It will be a change because I want to spend some of my time being accessible, being in contact with people," Mrs. Schneider said. "I am a former school teacher and I would like to use that experience as well by being a source of information for the community."

MRS. SCHNEIDER SAID she would like to work with schools by beginning a program to tell students about the workings of the legal system and the consequences of breaking the law. She has lectured many community groups on legal issues, she said.

Her work with the county has given her experience in circuit, district and municipal courts, Mrs. Schneider said. She will leave her private practice during her tenure as judge, she added, because she doesn't think a judge should maintain a private practice.

Mrs. Schneider was chosen from 17 candidates who were interviewed by a subcommittee made up of Mayor George Freeman, Councilmen Thomas Fahrner and Robert Novitke and City Attorney George Catlin.

Judge Patricia Schneider

"She was well-versed, well prepared and very qualified," Fahrner said, adding the committee had a difficult time of picking a new judge because of the quality of all of the candidates. Mrs. Schneider "stood out as the most qualified and the best prepared. She had some very good ideas about the court which impressed me," Fahrner said.

Mrs. Schneider has already spent some time in the court learning and observing, Fahrner said. "She's very energetic. I think she'll do a very good job."

By Joanne Gouleche

Grosse Pointe's public schools lost about 400 students since last fall, an unofficial classroom count last week showed. The count indicates the elementary schools lost 203 students, while North and South high schools decreased by 206 students.

Grosse Pointe's middle schools increased by six students, from the September, 1981 figure of 1,278 to last week's tally of 1,284 students. Overall, the district's student population stands at 7,786 as of last week, compared to the 8,189 figure the same time a year ago.

School officials noted the figures will likely change by the fourth Friday of September when the district must officially report its enrollment picture to the state.

ents who will be graduated this June, figures showed.

Enrollment in Grosse Pointe's public schools has been on a declining path each year since 1971 when 13,700 students were recorded as attending local schools. The closest the district has come near last week's 7,786 students was in 1955 when 8,506 students were enrolled.

School officials concede they will never see the 13,000 figure of the early 1970s again, primarily because of a declining birthrate in the Pointes.

According to the just-released 1982 school census, school officials note a 10.6 percent decrease in the 15 to 17-year-olds in Grosse Pointe during the past two years while a lesser decrease is noted in the 12 to 14-year-old age group.

"In terms of our school enrollment (Continued on Page 6A)

By Susan McDonald

Complaining about excessive noise, fights and "bad news characters," neighbors of the Steak and Egg Kitchen on Jefferson Avenue went to the Park City Council last week seeking to limit the restaurant's all-night hours.

They were joined there by neighbors of another nearby business — the Esquire Theater — who have regularly attended recent council meetings with similar complaints on their side of Jefferson Avenue.

Petitions containing the names of 100 people living on Nottingham, Balfour, Westchester, Pemberton and Somerset Roads were presented to the council. The letter asked the council to curtail the restaurant's hours "in the best interest of the general public welfare."

They alleged noise from the 24-hour Steak and Egg keep them awake all night, there are many fights in the parking lot and prostitutes have moved into the Kitchen at night. References also were made to the August kidnapping and rape of three young women from the parking lot of the Kitchen.

PARK POLICE, however, said they have received few complaints about activities at the Kitchen. "It's attracting some pretty trashy customers, but it's a (Continued on Page 6A)

 judge "has the demeanor and the desire to be a municipal judge and she has expressed the wish to devote herself to the job full time."

Besides her five years with the county, Mrs. Schneider has served as a law clerk for both Arthur Tarnow in his criminal appellate practice and the District Counsel of the U.S. Equal Opportunity Employment Opportunity Commission. A graduate from Cornell University, Mrs. Schneider received her law degree from the University of Detroit as well as doing post-graduate work at Syracuse University.

A MOTHER OF four, Mrs. Schneider spent 10 years with Grosse Pointe public schools as a substitute teacher and adult education instructor. Her husband, Burkhard Schneider is a vice-president of Detroit Edison Co. They have lived in the Woods for 19 years.

In 1974, Mrs. Schneider trained, organized and led 30 volunteers in a review of 2,213 felony files to determine whether attorneys retained by clients, court-assigned attorneys or assignments from the Defender's Office performed better for clients.

The study concluded that client-retained attorneys put in the most work for clients, she said. Defenders ranked second, while court appointed attorneys ranked third, she added.

The study had little effect on the system, Mrs. Schneider said, but was a forerunner for a 1981 Detroit News series that looked at criminal appeals. Both studies, although seven years separate, came to the same conclusions, Mrs. Schneider said.

Mrs. Schneider is a member of the state and federal Bar Association, the American and Michigan Trial Lawyer's Association and the Women Lawyer's Association of Michigan. She is also former vice-president, program chairman and secretary of the Grosse Pointe branch of the American Association of University Women and treasurer and executive board member of the Women's Justice Center.

Judge Schneider will replace interim Woods Municipal Judge Robert Vanweimeersch, who was appointed by the State Supreme Court Administrator's Office to hear cases in the Woods until a permanent appointment was made.

At the same time, the court administrator is deliberating the assignment of Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel to the Shores Municipal Court, village officials said. Mrs. Grobbel will serve until a district court is formed, village officials added.

$21,000 boat taken in Farms

A $21,000 boat was stolen from the Farms Pier Park Thursday morning, Sept. 9, according to police reports. Reportedly, three men showed up to help pump out the 31-foot power boat, which was filled with water.

After pumping out the boat, a witness said two of the men attached the boat to a smaller 22 to 24 foot Sea Ray and towed the larger vessel out of the harbor.

The witness told police he thought the boat was being removed for repairs. Later in the day, the owner of the stolen boat appeared at the park with a van and trailer to remove his boat for repairs.

When last seen, the stolen boat was heading east on Lake St. Clair. The Coast Guard has been notified.

Why Be Examined By An Ophthalmologist?

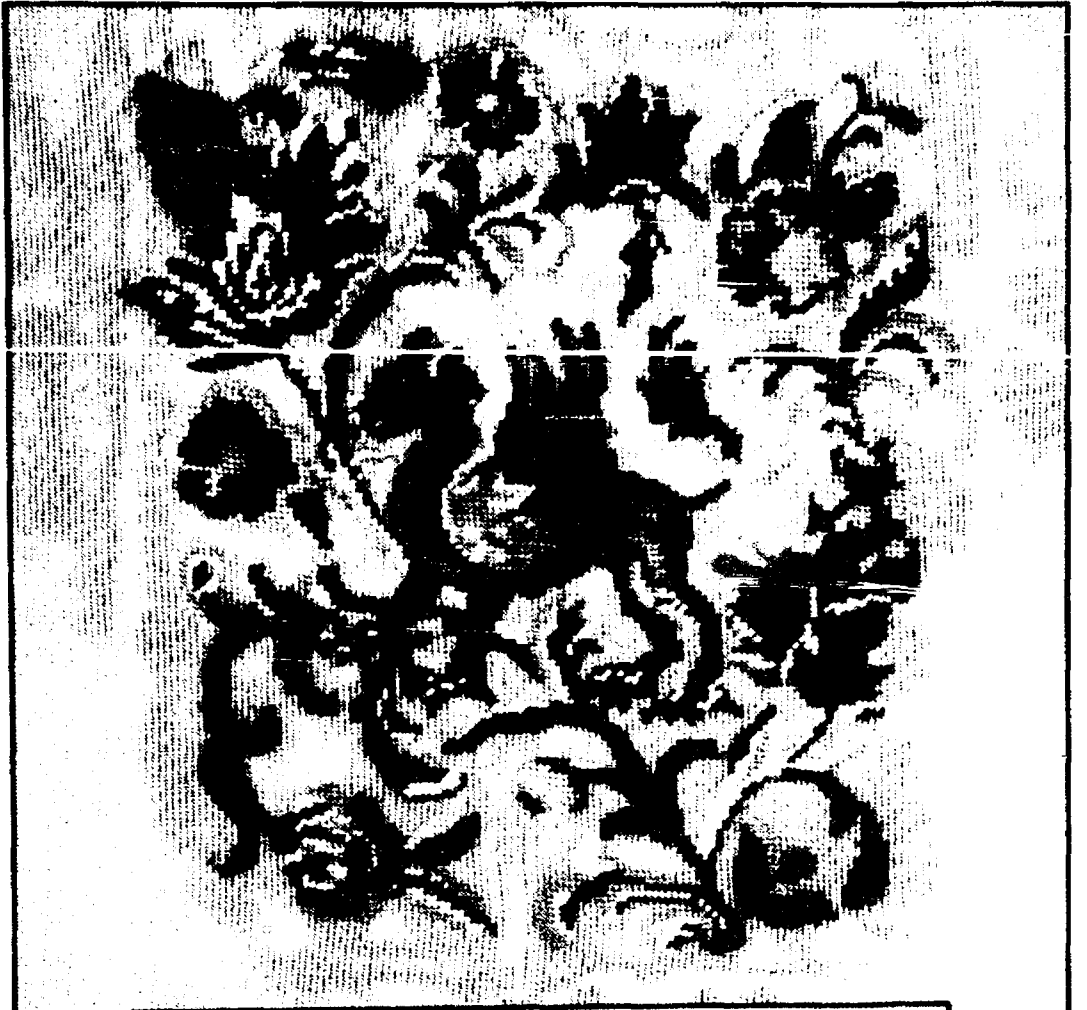

An ophthalmologist has had many years of training in the recognition and treatment of all kinds of vision problems, including those caused by diseases of the body as a whole. For example, it is not uncommon for an ophthalmologist to recognize untreated diabetes, high blood pressure, or the visual type migraine. And, if glaucoma is suspected, follow-up tests are required that only an ophthalmologist can perform.

So there's more to examining eyes than testing for glasses. But, if he finds that you need them, an ophthalmologist will give you a lens prescription to take to a reliable optical company of your choice.

Inter-Faith Makes Music Connection

Variety will be the key, with music ranging from today's jazz to rhythm and blues to "good-times" sounds, as the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice presents Music Connection '82 at St. Andrew's Hall in Detroit at 7 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 3.

A featured attraction will be Bird-Trane-Scow-Now!, a 15-piece jazz ensemble of eastside young people ranging in age from 7 to 17. Founded in April, 1979, by musician-educator Donald Washington, the group features original approaches to the art of improvisation, disciplined intensity and drive. They know who Charlie Parker, John Coltrane and Roscoe Mitchell are.

Juanita McCray, who appeared at the Music Connection for the first time last year, is known throughout the Detroit area for her rhythm and blues vocal interpretations.

Both teachers at University

Liggett School, Maureen and Rich Del Grosso have become Music Connection regulars. They have an infectious style that has fun with sea chants, barrelhouse blues and campfire favorites. Karen Bouchard is a popular local folk singer.

Host for the evening will be Fr. Tom Krell, formerly co-pastor of St. Ambrose Parish.

St. Andrew's Hall, at 431 East Congress in Bricktown between the Renaissance Center and Greektown, has become a center for the performing arts. It has been called "Detroit's newest old building," following refurbishing to its original 1907 architectural details.

The hall is home for the St. Andrew's Society, a Scottish benevolent society organized in 1849 to assist Scots coming to America and help them maintain their ethnic traditions.

In addition to the musical entertainment, a $10 donation includes a European supper, served in a cabaret setting. A cash bar will be available.

Advance ticket purchase is suggested. Group reservations will be accepted. Tickets may be obtained at the Inter-Faith Center in the annex behind Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee in Grosse Pointe City, and at the door as long as space is available.

A trip to the art fair

There was plenty to see and hear at the Grosse Pointe Artists' Association 23rd annual Fall Art Festival earlier this month at the War Memorial. The show was the association's biggest ever with 174 entries, according to the artists' president George Howell, of Fisher Road. Artists and craftsmen showed their wares along with a special display of more than 40 miniature rooms by 16 collectors, and a children's crafts section. There was no admission charge and plenty of demonstrations, a carillon concert and a performance by Frank Seydler's Music Markers and their "East Side Big Band Sound." President Howell, who is the association's first male leader in 30 years, said the show was a great success for local artists. The group has more than 200 members. — Photos by Betty Carpenter.

Pointers walk to fight hunger

Grosse Pointe's third annual Hunger Walk, sponsored by the local Ministerial Association, is scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 10, beginning at the usual site, the St. Paul Gym, 170 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Walkers will check in at 1:30 p.m. and be welcomed by a platform of local celebrities. The route will follow Lakeshore up to Deeplands, across Cook Road to Chalfonte, over to Mack Avenue via Rivard, down Audubon to Kercheval, then on St.

Clair to Jefferson to the finish line at St. Paul-on-the-Lake Church.

There will be plenty of rest stops provided along the route in churches and schools.

Pointers turned out 1,300 strong for last year's walk to raise $22,000 for organizations that help feed hungry people in Detroit and abroad. The first Hunger Walk, in 1980, involved 900 persons and raised $28,000. At least a quarter of the funds raised are used to help people on Detroit's east side and the rest has been donated to CROP, a overseas nutrition program, according to St. Paul's Sister Betty Flaherty.

Coordinator for Hunger Walk III is the Rev. Jack Skiles, assisted by Sister Betty, Dick Tapper, Dick Hile and Cindy and Peter Warner. For information, call 884-3075 or 884-9298. Sponsor forms are available at Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods schools and churches.

This year's goal is to involve 1,300 walkers raising $22,000.

Grosse Pointe City Manager Thomas W. Kressbach was one of seven Michigan public officials honored for distinguished service to municipal government at the Michigan Municipal League's 84th annual convention on Mackinac Island last week.

A merit award was presented to Kressbach before an audience of more than 800 municipal officials and guests attending the league's banquet at the Grand Hotel on Sept. 17.

Kressbach, city manager of Grosse Pointe City for 16 years, was a trustee of the league from 1974 to 1977 and has served on the league's legislative, finance and taxation and urban affairs committees. He is the immediate past president of the Michigan chapter of the International City Management Association.

Ghostly story at the Punch

Classic Film Theatre, Inc., at the Punch and Judy, 21 Kercheval Avenue, will present the Detroit premiere of "The Haunting of M" as one of the highlights of its American Independent Film Festival.

"The Haunting" will be aired Thursday and Friday, Sept. 23 and 24, at 6:30 and 10:10 p.m. as part of a double feature including "Gal Young Un," shown at 8:15 p.m.

"The Haunting" is described as an "atmospheric ghost story that uses understated menace rather than buckets of blood to scare its audience." It is set in England, 1906, and tells of a spoiled, flirtatious young woman haunted by a mysterious phantom. The film was directed by Anna Thomas.

Sunningdale construction tests residents' patience

By Mike Andrzejczyk

For residents on Sunningdale Drive between Fairway and Sunningdale Park in the Woods, it has not been a pleasant summer.

First, easements and sidewalks were torn up while trees were cut down as the city put in a new watermain on the street. The water line runs under the sidewalk from Sunningdale Park to the old Milk River, then runs under the parkway.

A sewer line, larger than the original, was also put in under the sidewalk, running from the old Milk River to Fairway. The deeper line meant excavation, sidewalk removal and the felling of trees.

Sometime this week, forms will be laid by the contractor who will replace the street pavement. The new pavement, which could be poured in two days according to city engineer Laurence Pate, will be a foot wider than the present street. The concrete will take 10 to 12 days to season, Pate said.

DURING THE excavation, a Detroit Edison line that powered street lights was cut, leaving Sunningdale Drive and Lochmoor without street lights. City Administrator Chester Petersen said a Detroit Edison crew was to begin work to replace the line and restore the street lights.

Residents have been subjected to the noise of heavy equipment, dirt and dust since mid-May when the new sewer lines were moved into the neighborhood. It may be the middle of October before the project is complete, according to Pate.

Although there could be ample reasons for complaints, area homeowners seemed at best pleased — or at least resigned — to the project, citing the size of the project as one of the reasons for their understanding.

"They start early in the morning and they are still out until dark working," one resident said. "On the whole, I think it's coming along. I don't think there's much you can do about it."

Asked if the project had meant any inconvenience, another resident said, "We had 18 inches of water in our basement last fall, and if the new sewer will do away with that, it'll be worth the inconvenience."

There were complaints of damage to cars that hit holes left by excavations, mud, dust and the length of the project, but homeowners invariably concluded by saying "what can you do about it?"

One man said the contractors had removed his copper water — sprinkling system and replaced it with a rubber one, adding the workers said rubber was better. He finished by saying, "I think the street needed it so it's worth the aggravation."

Some residents, however, say the workers are arrogant, sloppy and uncaring about residents' complaints. Former Woods councilman E. Daniel Grady alleged the project is six to eight weeks behind schedule and that the city has tried to console and appease residents while not addressing their complaints.

The first contractor began on schedule, but finished about three weeks late, Pate said. The street paver, who was to begin work as the sewer and water line contractor finished, was slowed down, he added. Petersen said the project is about three weeks behind schedule.

Heavy equipment destroyed the street, Grady said, and the lack of barriers meant traffic continued down the street, kicking up the dust left behind from the excavations. Although some dirt can be expected, Grady said the street resembles a "sand trough" which project workers refused to sweep.

Police and ambulance access to the street has been cut now that the pavers are going to work, Grady said, leaving the street without police patrols, ambulance service and street lights.

"The patience of the residents is almost up," Grady claimed, saying the "whole process" of the projects was wrong because the city did not levy penalties against the company for slow or poor work.

Power line work is going to cost the city $16,100, Petersen said. The line was cut after street excavations hit the power line, which Petersen said was 18 inches below the surface near the city's water line.

Detroit Edison told the city the line was 31 inches below the surface. It would not have been cut had it been at that depth, Petersen said, adding the city would pay the bill under protest.

"IT IS OUR contention that if the line had been where they said it was, it would not have been cut," he said, adding crews would begin work and not finish until the lights were working again. Detroit Edison was to have a crew on the site Friday, Sept. 17, Petersen said.

There are penalties for late work, he said, amounting to $80 a day. To insure the work be completed on time, the city could raise the penalty, but would also have to offer a bonus for early completion, he said, adding that cities couldn't do that while private companies could.

"We all recognize there is no easy way to replace a street, but there are things that can be done," Grady said. "It just shows we haven't learned anything about these projects." He likened the troubles on Sunningdale Drive to those experienced when the city undertook a similar project on Hawthorne.

Pate conceded the street looks like "hell in a hand-basket," and agreed that the tearing up of a street was inconvenient. With good weather, however, the street could be poured and ready to use by mid-October, he added.

"It looks like the wrath of God out there, but it won't be long," he said.

Conference will educate volunteers

The Volunteer Services Departments of St. John, Bon Secours and Cottage Hospitals are sponsoring their second annual Tri-Hospital Education Conference on Wednesday, Sept. 29, from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Virginia Douglas, Director of Volunteer Services at St. John, conceived the idea for the conferences. The programs were developed by Hospital Volunteer Directors Maureen DuFour, Bon Secours, Margaret Hutchings, Cottage, and Ms. Douglas.

According to the directors, the conferences afford volunteers the opportunity to share information and conversation, promote community volunteerism and sharpen their volunteering skills.

This year's program will feature Dr. John C. Flatter of Sinai Hospital's Problems of Daily Living Clinic, who will speak on "Interpersonal Communications" and Sister Joyce DeShano, S.S.J., vice-president of Congregational Sponsorship for St. Clair Health Services Corporation, who will speak on "Compassion." The volunteers will also enjoy luncheon and President Reagan's slide presentation on "Volunteerism."

All three of these directors were recently invited to President Reagan's "Action" Conference in Chicago which only the nation's outstanding volunteer directors were asked to attend.

AARP plans meeting at Memorial Church

Grosse Pointe Chapter 2151 of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will meet Monday, Sept. 27, at 1 p.m. at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Road.

A social hour and card playing will follow the meeting.

Park to use drugged meat on dogs

Park police are working with the local Anti-Cruelty Society to come up with a peaceable means of dealing with a pack of dogs that has been terrorizing a westside city neighborhood for the last few weeks.

Code Enforcement Officer Jeff

Mueller, who also serves as the city's dog warden, said the society is scheduled to visit the Park this week to feed the dogs meat that has been treated with a sedative. If the dogs are successfully sedated, the society will take them and attempt to find homes.

Park police have received dozens of complaints during the last two weeks from people in the neighborhood south of Jefferson on the west end of the city about a roving pack of dogs. Mueller said the pack sometimes includes as many as a dozen large dogs, mostly German Shepherds.

"The dogs apparently live in abandoned houses or lots in Detroit and come over on the Korte bridge," Mueller said. "We've spotted them as far east as Middlesex Boulevard."

Mueller said, so far, no one has been bitten, but several people have been chased and cats have been killed. The dogs are difficult to catch with the nets and sticks Mueller is equipped with, he said. "They just scatter as soon as I get near them."

Mueller also said the police have a problem with Park residents' dogs which are unlicensed. Dog licenses can be obtained at the police department for $3. "If a dog is licensed, we'll catch it and return it to its owner," Mueller said. "If not, it may be sedated or shot sometime in the future."

The Park had a similar problem with packs of dogs earlier this year, which led to the recreation of the dog warden's position in the police department.

Court will hold divorce series

A series of four group sessions designed to help people cope with divorce is being offered by the Third Judicial District of the State of Michigan, Friend of the Court, Family Counseling and Mediation Division.

The sessions are for those exploring divorce, in the divorce process or already divorced.

George Schrauder, a staff member of the Family Counseling Service, will lead the educational group meetings at Wayne County Community College's new building on Connor just east of the Ford Freeway and Connor exit. The meetings will be from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday evenings beginning Oct. 6. The cost is $3 a night or $10 for the series.

Discussion topics are: Wednesday, Oct. 6, "Coping with Personal and Emotional Turmoil;" Oct. 13, "Dealing with Attorneys and the Court System;" Oct. 20, "Helping Your Children Cope;" and Oct. 27, "Developing New Social and Interpersonal Relationships."

Instead, put on your galoshes and beat feet over to Perry Drugs on the Hill and snap up those Christmas candles and cards they've just put on display. You can't miss them. They're on an aisle near the bug spray, suntan lotion and lawn chairs.

THE PARACHUTE jump that was supposed to launch the Invitational Birthday Meet of the Veteran Motor Car Club of American at North High School last weekend never got off the ground. After winning approval from the Woods City Council, the jump was nixed by school officials.

"It's not a suitable event for a school site," said Director of Support Services Benjamin Zenn. "We're very safety conscious and we have to look at this critically in terms of what activities we want at our buildings and sites."

service people need," said Police Chief Henry Coonce. "We're certainly not aware of any prostitution in there and we have not received a single complaint to that effect."

Henry Poole, an employee of the Kitchen and other members of Steak and Egg management, said they had not been contacted by the neighbors and were surprised to hear about the petition drive.

"There are no prostitutes here," Poole said. "In the night hours, yes, we have a fight on occasion. We get the bar crowd, and when you've got a drunk, you've got a fight. But it's certainly not an every day thing."

Kevin Klein, assistant Detroit manager for Steak and Egg, said he also was unaware of problems at the location and called it one of the quietest Kitchens in the Detroit area. If the shop's hours are limited, Klein said it would probably close.

There are six Kitchens in the Detroit area (including one on Mack Avenue in the Woods) and almost 200 in the U.S. and all are open 24-hours a day. They are owned by Dobbs Houses, a division of Carson, Perry, Scott, according to Klein.

Residents' complaints about the Esquire Theater and its video game room which attracts many teenagers to the neighborhood, are similar to those across the street. People have complained to city council and police that the youths are noisy, rude and sometimes cause vandalism in the area.

Some Esquire neighbors have also blamed city management for dragging its feet on closing down the 14-game video parlor which exceeds the city's limit of five games per establishment.

The city has filed a suit against the owners of the Esquire, who say they are trying to sell the theater. The suit is in Wayne County Circuit Court and could be tied up for several months, according to City Attorney Herold "Mac" Deason.

Mayor Douglas Graham has told both neighborhood groups that police patrols in the area will be increased. He said at the Sept. 13 meeting that "if we can legally limit hours (at the Steak and Egg), I don't think anyone on the council will object."

Baroque Duo opens third season

Flauto e Basso Baroque Duo will open its third season of chamber "Music from the Age of Enlightenment," on Saturday, Oct. 2, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores.

"Music at Versailles," a program featuring works composed by Francois Couperin and his contemporaries for Louis XIV, will be performed on original instruments by Thomas Cirtin, recorder and baroque flute, and Daniel Jencka, harpsichord. They will be joined by Doris Williams, soprano; Kathleen Nordrum-Lidgett, recorder; James Lidgett, flute and baroque guitar; and Patricia Nordstrom, viola da gamba.

Cirtin and Jencka are well known for their authentic interpretations of baroque music. In addition, Cirtin prepares editions of 17th- and 18th-century music for publication, and Jencka builds and maintains harpsichords.

The concert will first be performed on Sept. 25 at the Birmingham Unitarian Church. It will be repeated on Oct. 2 at the Ford House at 1100 Lakeshore Road. Reservations are recommended. Tickets are $7 ($5 for children). Guests are invited to tour the main floor of the mansion, an Albert Kahn design. Upcoming programs in the series are "Music from the Camerata: the Birth of the Baroque;" "Baroque Music at Christmas Time;" "More Music and Letters in 18th-Century London;" "The Legacy of J.S. Bach" and "An Eclectic Menagerie of Baroque Curiosities."

All concerts begin at 8 p.m. Season tickets and tickets in advance are available. Call 656-1574 for information and a free brochure. This series is presented by Baroque Music Ensembles, Inc., a non-profit organization.

Neff Road home is burglarized

Grosse Pointe City police report burglars ransacked a Neff Road home sometime over the Labor Day weekend.

Police said the thieves smashed a small pane of glass in a rear door and reached in and then opened the door. The burglars made a thorough search of the home, taking two television sets and a silver tea set, according to reports.

Police have no suspects in the case.

Enrollment drops to 1955 levels

ment, there is little question but that a downward trend will continue unless some unforeseen events should occur," the school district's Department of Support Services said in the census report.

Overall, the census shows a 9.2 percent decline in the 0 to 19 age category with school age population (5 to 19 years of age) dipping by 1,523 potential students since 1980. By the 1986-87 school year, administrators predict only 5,000 attending Pointe public schools.

Faced with that gloomy forecast, the Board of Education appointed a 12-member citizen advisory committee last February to study the impact of enrollment declines in Grosse Pointe.

The Committee for the Future Organization of the School System has been meeting regularly to investigate areas of finance, building facilities and other educational concerns related to school closings. According to chairman Ed Deeb, the committee has considered more than 100 options in dealing with the Pointe's declining enrollment problem.

THE COMMITTEE will present a final report to the Board of Education this December. Meanwhile, the committee is planning a fall forum in October for residents to hear some of its recommendations.

"We have started some serious deliberations," Deeb said. "The forum will be the last chance for the community to provide the committee with additional input."

and are still on schedule," Deeb said, adding "the committee hopes to publish a fact sheet for residents in time for the forum."

In July Deeb said one of four committee panels had come up with a possible K through 8 structure, a restructuring of the elementary schools and some possible school closings.

While the public schools reported sagging classroom attendance last week, most private and parochial schools in the area reported that enrollment was up at their institutions.

At the Grosse Pointe Academy, admissions personnel report the Early School filled to capacity with "several openings in the first grade." Headmaster Sidney DuPont said classes were filled up last month. There are about 800 students attending the school's four divisions, DuPont said, adding the school graduated its largest eighth grade class in June.

Grosse Pointe Christian School in Grosse Pointe Park said enrollment is up 12 students over last year from 50 to 62 students.

Last week's public classroom count showed the following number of students:

- Elementary schools: Barnes, 245; Defer, 384; Ferry, 381; Kerby, 341; Maire, 318; Mason, 337; Monteith, 362; Poupard, 299; Richard, 328 and Trombly, 266.

- Middle schools — Brownell, 424; Parcels, 463; and Pierce, 397.

- High schools — North, 1,509; South, 1,732.

Sycamores will open to public

1001 Services, Inc., and partner Richard Crawford will open "The Sycamores," a single family development located on the former Wesson Seyburn estate on East Jefferson, east of Cadieux, for public viewing Sunday, Sept. 26, from noon to 5 p.m.

The community, according to Crawford, represents a blend of Grosse Pointe tradition with the needs of present day homeowners. The development will be an architecturally controlled environment, emphasizing privacy, security and maintenance-free living.

The lots, according to Crawford, are wide to enhance privacy but shallow to limit maintenance. Sycamore Lane is a private road, and to insure security, all homes will feature custom designed alarms, Crawford said.

The development team for the project combines two Detroit professionals. 1001 Services, under the direction of executive vice-president and native Pointer John Gehrke, is a wholly-owned subsidiary of First Federal Savings & Loan Association of Detroit. The company concentrates on equity participation in real estate investments, said a spokesman.

Crawford, another Grosse Pointer, has enjoyed a long history of development and construction in the area, including Rose Terrace, Island Lane, Lakeside Court and numerous custom homes in the Pointes.

The first two homes are nearly completed, he added, and all Pointers are invited to attend the public viewing. For a private viewing, call 961-1001.

Hertel responds to Reagan

Grosse Pointe's freshman Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-14th District) was selected by House Speaker Thomas (Tip) O'Neil to present the Democratic response to President Reagan's nationwide radio address on Sept. 11.

The text of Hertel's response, which was carried live by the Mutual Broadcasting Radio Network, follows:

Today the President talked about crime. As a member of the Democratic Task Force, I support tough action against drug trafficking. In 1975, I wrote a law that requires mandatory sentencing, certainty of punishment for crimes committed with guns. But the issue of crime is not a matter of national debate. Members of both parties support strong action against crime. The real debate today is how to deal with the worst economic crisis since the great depression. I live in Michigan where the unemployment rate is over 14 percent.

I want to talk with you about new economic programs and tell you about a major event in the nation's capital this week. For the first time the Congress voted to override President Reagan's veto. It wasn't even close, with almost half of the Republicans from over 30 states voting against the President. Why did this happen?

There was no budget busting, the issue was one of priorities. According to the Senate Republican Budget Committee Chairman, the bill was nearly $2 billion under the President's own spending. The Republicans and Democrats who voted to override wanted more funds for the handicapped, unemployed, and older Americans. The President wanted this same money for even more defense spending which is already at the highest level in this nation's history. In the bill the programs for the handicapped and senior citizens equal the cost of a single B-1 bomber.

Last year, there was a lot of talk about the President's mandate. Let's agree on one fact. There was no mandate to reduce funds for the handicapped, no mandate to greatly reduce student aid, and there is no mandate in this nation to harm senior citizens.

In America today, we have over 10 million people out of work. We have a depression in many parts of this nation. Until now this administration has won everything it has asked for. The President won every victory on the budget, this year and last. The President won his tax cut last year, and his tax increase this year. Yet, last month, the Republican Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee admitted that, "The economy has not recovered. It's been disappointing to the President, and has

According to the President's figures, for every one percent of unemployment there is a $25 billion increase in the federal deficit. We need a strong defense, but how can we have a strong defense if the President's program bankrupts the nation? A strong defense requires intelligent troops, scientists, engineers and a robust industrial base. But, he has cut federal assistance to education by 10 percent each year; he has weakened the industrial core of this nation, now at its lowest level since the great depression. John Kennedy once asked, "What does truth require? It requires us to face the facts as they are, not to involve ourselves in self-destruction; to refuse to think merely in slogans."

Members of Congress have heard the people's desire for change. It's now time for new, expansive policies that will end this curse of unemployment.

I propose today that by looking to the past we can awaken the future. Under the New Deal there was a program called the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which helped to start new businesses, and to keep companies open and Americans employed. This program lasted until 1953. I propose a new Reindustrialization Finance Corporation to help Americans do what they do best: to expand opportunities, to create goods and to create jobs. It would provide guaranteed low interest loans to small and large businesses and farmers. This very week, the House will act on a $1 billion jobs bill to repair roads and bridges. We must build on our greatest asset — the ability of Americans to be creative and optimistic in the face of adversity.

It is time for this President to join the Congress, including the Republican Senators and Congressmen who have voted to override the veto. President Eisenhower in his time showed great skill in compromise with a Democratic Congress. President Kennedy in his short term had great vision. They knew when to change policy and direction. And we must be pragmatic. It is clear that President Reagan's theories have failed miserably and conclusively. It is time to change.

We can move forward with confidence and skill to solve our economic crisis with hope and purpose.

Partnership between the President and Congress is required — not posturing, but a continuous process that grows stronger if we devote ourselves to common goals. We must put Americans back to work because it is our moral responsibility.

Take a bite out of crime

By Sgt. Randall Cain

If a potential burglar can't get into your home through a door he will try to get in through a window. Burglars don't like to break windows; it makes too much noise. The burglar prefers to pry the window open and then crawl through in order to reach through and unlock the door or window. The methods used in securing your windows are really quite simple and will provide your home with much needed protection.

Probably the most common type of window is double-hung with the half-moon type latch. This window can be secured with a commercially made locking latch or by a do-it-yourself method. Drill a hole at a downward angle through the top of the inside window and into the bottom of the outside window. Do this in both corners. Nails are then inserted into both holes to prevent the window from being pried. A second set of holes may be drilled higher up into the outside window (approximately three to six inches) so that the window may be opened for ventilation but cannot be opened any further. You can also dip the heads of the nails in paint so that they match the color of the room.

Windows that utilize cranks to open them should have the cranks removed. A crank can be left nearby so that you can open the windows, but it will be out of the burglar's reach.

Latched windows can be secured by installing a self-tapping screw through the window and into the frame.

If your basement windows are the type with a plunger and chain, it is possible to secure the window by removing the chain and wiring the plunger to the bracket at the top of the window.

Large basement windows can be secured by installing an electrical conduit across the opening. Pound the conduit flat at the ends and then secure it to the basement wall. Threaded nails can be used so that you can remove the conduit if you wish.

Instead of the conduit, heavy mesh screen can also be installed over the opening. With the conduit or the screen, make sure that it is securely fastened to the basement wall. Remember to also secure the dryer vent with one of the above methods or board it up so that a burglar cannot kick it in.

Don't forget to also secure your garage windows. Garage windows can be secured by nailing them shut, installing pins, or installing mesh screen over the opening.

Inter-Faith Center on cable TV

The Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice is taking its Third Thursday Forum program to the airwaves this year on Grosse Pointe Cable TV.

Instead of the usual meetings of the forum at Christ Church, the Inter-Faith Center plans to televise discussions of current topics, beginning next week. The first program will take a look at hunger on the eastside of Detroit and Grosse Pointe with a panel of experts including Sen. John Kelly; Eleanor Josaitis, co-director of Focus: HOPE; Father James McLaren, director of Operation

Crossroads; Maureen DuFour, director of volunteer services at Bon Secours Hospital; and David Bower, regional director of CROP. Inter-Faith Center board member Richard Drabant will moderate.

The program was filmed Sept. 16, in Grosse Pointe Cable studios and will be aired in the evening on Tuesday, Sept. 28, according to Inter-Faith program coordinator Kathey McGovern.

"We're trying this out as an alternative to the Third Thursday Forum," Ms. McGovern said. "So far, things are going well and we hope to continue the broadcasts."

Medical education at Bon Secours

Bon Secours Hospital began its 20th year of continuing medical education programs with a "Half Day of Gastroenterology" on Sept. 16 in the hospital's Science Hall.

Guest speaker was Paul Sherlock, M.D., chairman, department of medicine at the Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and professor and vice-chairman, department of medicine, Cornell University Medical College. Dr. Sherlock's presentation was entitled "Colorectal Cancer: Etiology and Screening" and "GI Complications of Cancer."

The gastroenterology conferences continue for 13 more weeks on Thursdays through Dec. 16, from 7 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. Each session includes breakfast, a lecture, workshop and question and answer period.

The conferences meet the criteria for 24 hours in Category I of continuing medical education credit for physicians.

For registration information, call the Bon Secours Hospital medical education department at 343-1611.

It was the custom centuries ago for an older woman to wear a large hat when accompanying a younger woman in public. This is why the Latin "cappa" meaning large hat gave us our word "chaperone."

It is supported by foundation, corporate and individual contributions and is not related to the state-funded Michigan Council for the Arts.

The victim told police she was walking down Jefferson when she was approached by the 14 to 16-year-old youths. One pointed a knife at her and grabbed her purse which contained $5 cash. They escaped down Alter, police said.

What do you say to an ugly building? Give it an onion.
You can do just that by picking up a ballot this week at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, 10 Kercheval Avenue. It's all part of the American Society of Interior Designers, Michigan Chapter, first Orchids and Onions Award contest, an effort by the designers to heighten public awareness of the environment.

Through public balloting, the designers group will issue awards to buildings which grace or clutter the tri-county area. The public is asked to provide specific examples of local architecture and design for nomination for an "orchid" or "onion."
Creative restoration, good planning, landscaping or taste in signs can earn an orchid. Onion awards may be presented to a shopping center without landscaping or any monstrosity that detracts from the architectural quality of an area.

"We hope the Orchids and Onions program will bring the community together. It will give Detroiters an opportunity to have a say in the appearance of their environment," said Brian Collins, president of the designers group.
"Onions give the public an opportunity to register a protest against unsightliness," according to Collins. "In some cases, the onion award has provided an impetus for change. In the Chicago metropolitan program, an oil company research center was cited for an ugly sign. The firm redesigned the sign and subsequently was awarded an orchid."

The Orchids and Onions program was started by the Chicago area's Western Communities Architects' Association. There are similar programs underway in Birmingham, Ala., Miami, Fla., and San Diego.

Thomas Brennan, Republican candidate for Lieutenant Governor, last week addressed 126 volunteers gathered at the University Liggett School auditorium to begin a door-to-door campaign to identify Headlee-Brennan supporters.

The Headlee canvass effort was organized and chaired by W. Clark Durant, III, Republican precinct delegate in the 2nd Precinct of Grosse Pointe City. Durant also was chairman of the 14th Congressional District delegates to the state convention held in Grand Rapids last month.

Durant addressed the meeting first, telling the group that in a close election, the important thing is to identify your friends and supporters early, enlist their energies to work in the campaign and make sure that they get to the polls in November.
Market Opinion Research has identified key precincts in the Pointes and Harper Woods to canvass as being particularly important to a Headlee victory in November.

In addition to the Central Library, ballots are available through Sept. 27 at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association, Center for Creative Studies, Colony Interiors at Somerset Mall, Detroit Artists Market, Emily's, Henry Ford Community College, Lawrence Institute of Technology school of architecture, New Center Frameworks, Schoolcraft Community College and Wayne State University art department.

Starting in this edition of the Grosse Pointe News, "Vintage Pointe" will provide a series of brief reviews of the most recognized wine grapes and wines. We will be pleased to offer specific wine and food recommendations whenever you visit us.

WHITE (JOHANNISBERG) RIESLING

If this grape had an astrological sign, it would be Gemini — the twins.

First, the wine is labeled two ways. "Johannisberg" Riesling is taken from the famous German winegrowing town; "White" Riesling is the viticulturalist's designation.

These wines are usually light yellow and sometimes have a slight green cast. A spritz, or trace of carbonation left over from fermentation, is occasionally present in young Rieslings.

The flowery, perfumed scent of Riesling is one of the most delightful smells in all winedom. A hint of citrus is sometimes detected and adds to the fresh, fruity complexity of the wine.

Because grapes destined for this delicate style are picked relatively early in the harvesting season, the wine has a lower alcohol level than other white wines. This lighter quality is suitable for sipping with snacks, or as an accompanying wine to meals with more subtle flavors.

The taste of these drier Rieslings is crisp, with the fruit acids balancing the floral character.

The second style which has been recognized is the Riesling rich enough to be served with dessert.

Students spend summer abroad

This past summer University Liggett School students participated in a variety of activities including foreign travel, scientific study, musical performances and debate institutes. Thirty-eight ULS singers along with faculty and parent chaperones visited Germany, Austria, France and Switzerland on an Upper School Choral Tour in June. The package provided arrangements for seven free concerts of American folk, barbershop, spiritual and Broadway music during the two-week tour. The students are planning a 1984 tour to Germany, Denmark, Sweden and Norway.

Another European tour including ULS students Suzanne Carty and Nicholas Noeker travelled to Spain for most of the summer. The young scholars attended classes at the University of Salamanca as well as sight-seeing in Salamanca, Madrid, Segovia and Santiago de Compostela. They enjoyed the World Cup soccer championship held in Spain this year, while investigating cafes, castles, a monastery and villages.

In this country nine ULS students participated in the ULS Summer Science Enrichment Program. They studied volcanoes and earthquakes in the Yellowstone Plateau region of the northern Rocky Mountains. Through study, camping, climbing and biking these students earned science credit in this sixth annual ULS expedition. Students joining the program were Gina Dodge, Michael Gouda, Ihab Hanna, Christopher Kirkpatrick, Angela Navarro, Stefanie Sables, Kurt Schneider, Susan Smith and Monique Wise.

Closer to home, 14 ULS debaters attended institutes at various universities, where they researched their new topic in graduate libraries. The following schools were selected by the debaters: Wayne State University — Dante diTommaso and Ivana diTommaso of Grosse Pointe; Bates — Charles Lapo of Grosse Pointe; the University of Kansas — John Hunter of Grosse Pointe; the University of Michigan — Brigitte Koegler, Marc Lie, William J. McFeely, Jr.

and John Rim, all of Grosse Pointe; (for three weeks) James Cargas, Charles Colby, Harold Colby, John Hadjisky and Jeffrey Sweet, all of Grosse Pointe, and Brion Fox of St. Clair Shores. Charles Lapo and Marc Lie received special recognition by advancing to their institutes' finals.

The National Council of Teachers of English has announced the appointment of Robert W. Reimer, chairperson of the English department at Grosse Pointe North High School, as a regional judge for the 1982 NCTE Achievement Awards in Writing Program.

Through this nationally recognized competition, now in its 24th year, approximately 800 high school seniors are cited for excellence in writing and are recommended to colleges and universities for admission and for financial aid, if needed. Seven thousand students have been nominated for NCTE Awards in 1982. Results of the contest are announced in October of each year.

Students are nominated for Achievement Awards in Writing by their high school English departments and are chosen for recognition by state judging committees. (Each nominee submits an impromptu theme and a sample of his or her best writing to be judged.) The regional judging committees are composed of both high school and college teachers who work under the direction of state coordinators.

The National Council of Teachers of English is made up of more than 100,000 individual teachers and institutional members at all levels of instruction, from elementary school through graduate college. Its goal is more effective teaching of English language and literature in the nation's schools and colleges. NCTE publishes journals, books and recordings to aid teachers in the classroom and in their professional development.

More honors for Hertel?

Selection of Dennis Hertel to respond on behalf of the Democratic Party to one of President Reagan's recent five-minute radio addresses was another feather in the cap of the 14th District freshman congressman who faces no major opposition for reelection. But why would House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill pick a comparatively unknown member for this important assignment?

Richard Ryan, Washington correspondent of the Detroit News, offered two explanations. He quoted an aide to the speaker as saying: "We wanted someone from the Midwest, which has been so hard-hit by the President's economic policies, and Detroit certainly is a symbol of what is wrong with the country right now."

"And besides," the aide added, "the speaker likes him."

HERTEL IS, indeed, a likeable cuss. But there may be other reasons for his selection. He is the sixth congressman chosen to respond to a presidential radio chat. But he is the first freshman and he is young, attractive and articulate. So he meets not only the political but also the demographic requirements that political parties as well as merchants seek to satisfy in their marketing of people, products and services these days. But perhaps there's another reason.

Hertel voted against the recent tax hike passed with support of both the President and Democratic Party leaders. That vote may have made more believable Hertel's attack on the President for "the worst economic crisis since the national depression" and his charge that

"the President has his priorities wrong — spending a record amount on the military while slighting the elderly, disabled and unemployed."

In his recent interview with the Grosse Pointe News, Hertel made those same points but moderated his criticism of the President by saying he could go along with two-thirds of Mr. Reagan's spending cuts although he differed with him over the reductions in some social services and the increases in military spending.

Ryan's report in the Detroit News raised the possibility that still more honors may be in store for Hertel. He is a candidate for a seat on the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, one of the most powerful bodies in Congress, and his nationally broadcast response to the President gave Hertel an opportunity to make an impression upon Democratic leaders who make House committee assignments, Ryan wrote.

IF HERTEL ACHIEVES this goal, he would succeed retiring Michigan Congressman William Broadhead on the Ways and Means Committee which not only considers all tax measures but also deals with Medicare, welfare, unemployment compensation, Social Security and trade. Such matters are important to every state, but especially to Michigan in these times.

Washington is a pretty fast political track, even for a young man with experience in Lansing, but so far Hertel is running confidently with an easy stride and paying little attention to the gnashing of teeth among Grosse Pointe Republicans.

Another $150 million reduction in state aid for education and local governments was finally approved last week by the House and Senate Appropriations committees but the end may not yet be in sight.

This new cut was the fourth proposed by the Milliken administration during the current fiscal year which ends Sept. 30 but the economic outlook is such that further cuts in state spending are expected for the new fiscal year starting Oct. 1. Reductions from this year's original budget now total $778 million, which is 16 percent of the original $4.85 billion figure.

WHILE THE GOVERNOR pledged support for a bill to make accelerated state aid payments of $111.3 million to schools and colleges next June instead in August, 1983, and thus repay them for the $111.3 million now being cut, a new governor and a new Legislature will be in office after Jan. 1 — which leaves passage of this legislation somewhat problematical.

The Legislature also has pledged to repay next year another $80 million cut from aid to education in an earlier executive order. In view of the state's continuing depression and declining state revenues, chances of repayment of this promised sum also appears to be somewhat doubtful.

But except for Detroit there is not even a promise to repay the cuts in state aid to local governments. Their share of new burden of aid cuts amounted to $38.7 million. Gov. Milliken has promised to support a $4 million increase in state aid to Detroit to help offset the $13 million cut in its revenue sharing payments. The $4 million would be part of the special package of aid given to Detroit to help it maintain the city's cultural institutions that benefit the whole state. But smaller cities are apparently not getting even promises of any return of the new reductions in state revenue sharing.

Yet in these economic times there is not much else the state could have done in order to balance its budget, as required by the state constitution. The Legislature did raise the cigarette tax a dime and it did enact a temporary increase in the state income tax. But imposing any heavy new taxes in a period of recession — a depression in Michigan — is out of the question. Furthermore, demand for social services tend to rise in such economic times, although some cuts have been made in that area of state spending, too. But the heavy demand from that sector gave the governor and the Legislature little choice but to cut into education and local government revenue sharing funds.

In a review of Michigan government's fiscal problems, the Citizens Research Council of Michigan is sharply critical of the state's practice of using "accounting changes to show an artificial budget balance." In calling for an end to this "gimmickry," the report says it has "contributed to the weakening of the cash position and the credit of the state," and then adds:

"The fiscal provisions of the Michigan Constitution represents the will of the electorate that the state should live within its means. Repeated use of fiscal maneuvers that violate the sense of these provisions — even if they remain in technical compliance of the law — can lead only to a loss of trust in state government."

THE ACCOUNTING "gimmickry" became necessary, of course, when state revenues began to decline and demands for spending on state services increased in a period of recession and inflation. Under these circumstances, government administrators and policy makers were caught in a bind and sought ways out that would have the least impact on those in the greatest need. Yet it is difficult to argue with another Research Council conclusion:

"Neither those who receive state benefits and services nor those who pay for them are well served by actions that consume tomorrow's key fund resources to provide today's programs — creating the certainty that future programs will have to be foregone to repay past debts."

Axe the road commission

Critics of the Wayne County Road Commission finally are beginning to make some progress in their attempts to curb the political power of that controversial county agency.

The House of Representatives has just passed a pair of bills authorizing a countywide vote to abolish the commission, and while the Senate has not yet acted, there is hope that the vote could come as early as next year if the legislation gets through both houses.

IT IS HEARTENING to find both candidates for county executive in favor of the legislation. Sheriff William Lucas, Democratic nominee for the post, testified in support of it last week and Robert E. FitzPatrick, the Republican nominee, has been on record in favor of legislation to bring the road commission under control of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners ever since he headed that agency a decade ago.

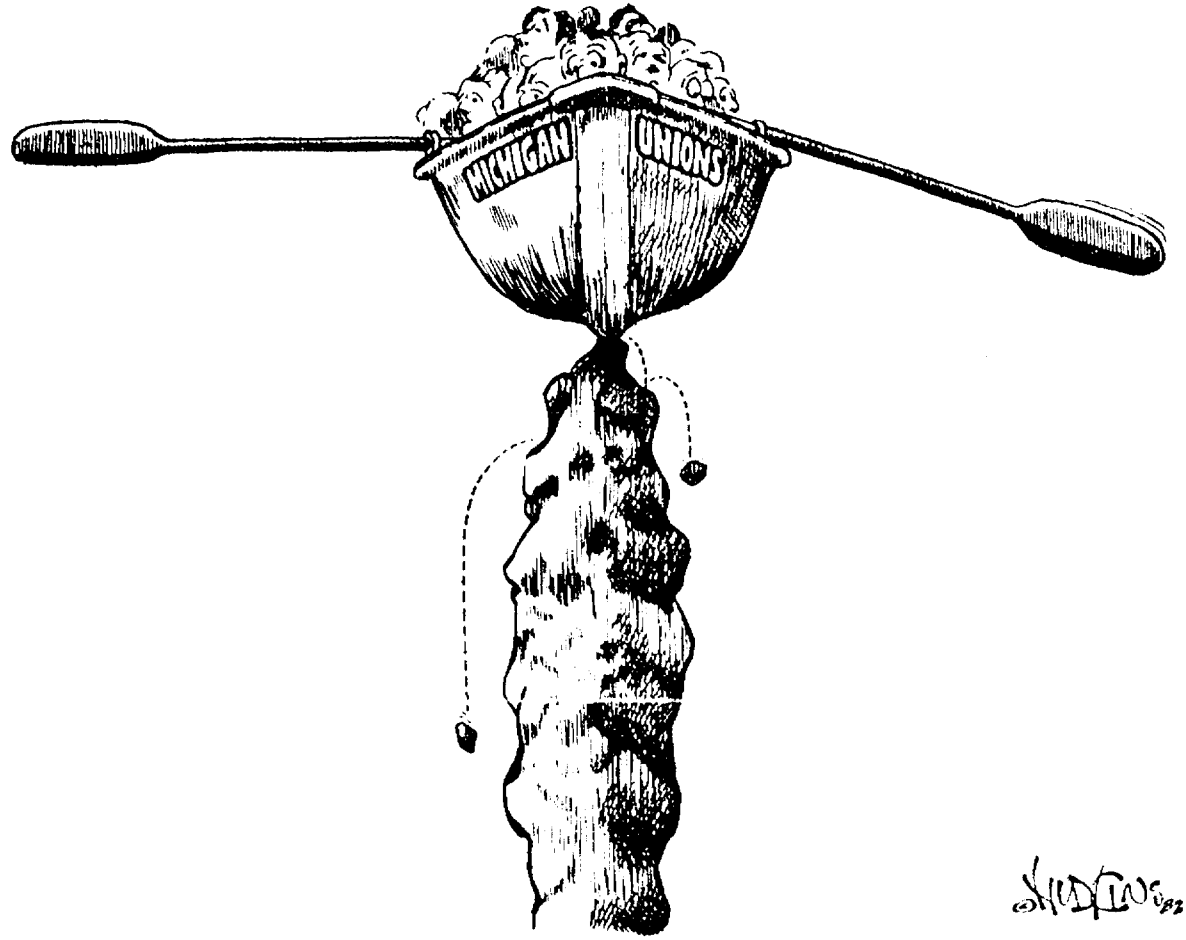

In his testimony, Lucas told the Towns and Counties Committee that "in Wayne County the road commission stands for everything that is bad," and he listed among its faults "nepotism, cronyism and excessive salaries." The sheriff insisted that the "time for change in the road commission is now."

Up to this time, Lucas' support for road commission reorganization has been somewhat suspect because as sheriff he had close relations with that agency and a number of his deputies served as the airport's law enforcement staff. But now as a Democratic nominee, Lucas has indicated support for a reform long endorsed by thoughtful critics of county government. It's a good move on his part because if elected county executive, he will need all the clout he can muster to control an agency that has been almost autonomous up to this time.

Under the charter, the county executive will have authority to appoint or remove the three road commissioners, with the approval of the county board of commissioners, and will have some control of the commission's budget. But without new legislation, it is feared that the rest of the commission's organization, with its 1,300 employees and $149 million annual budget, would remain virtually unchanged.

IN THE POINTES, abolition of the commission would be welcomed because of its foot dragging on resurfacing Lakeshore Road until the courts finally forced a patching job in the Farms last summer. It was no surprise that Rep. William Bryant of Grosse Pointe, long a critic of the commission, was one of those voting for the legislation putting the abolition of the commission up to a county vote.

Suggestions from jogger

To the Editor:
Regarding your "protecting the joggers" editorial on Sept. 16, I have an additional suggestion directed to the police.

To help us grim-faced runners/joggers, the police should enforce the ordinance, which must be on the books, regarding cars being stopped before reaching the sidewalk crossing. We have essentially no protection because very few cars stop at the sidewalk, but proceed to the major street before stopping.

Possibly the Farms would consider changing the ordinance to allow us to run single-file facing the traffic should we run on the street. Having to "stop, look and listen" at each sidewalk crossing sure takes something away from our healthy activity.

Regarding your "grim-faced" remark, I have to ask who sees Jimmy Connors, Reggie Jackson, Billy Sims, etc., smiling while doing their thing? They smile after accomplishing something. And we do, too. When we've caught our breath.

To the Editor:

Concerning the editorial about Philip Ruppe's calculated risk, I hope that Ruppe's sinister attack on Sen. Don Riegle doesn't impress many people. I for one was in favor of the tax reform, but I'm sick of candidates who run for an office by just opposing other candidates' statements and doings.

Why can't some candidates work on their own material? How is Ruppe going to decide on future bills the way Riegle wouldn't? Or once he's in office will he even care about the former senator's opinion or anyone else's? All I have to say is vote for someone whom one can believe and not on how bad he can make his opponents look.

As we start the new year, it is appropriate to consider what the Board of Education and staff hope to accomplish during the 1982-83 school year for these 7,700 students, their parents, and the community as a whole. In fulfilling their responsibility for providing educational programs and services to the community board trustees have given specific direction to efforts for this year by adopting the following seven goals:

- Review, improve and develop board policies.
- Conduct a comprehensive review of the program of studies for the high schools and middle schools.
- Conduct a study of the health program, K-12.
- Conduct a study of local educational practices for high ability students.
- Conduct a study of computer education.
- Complete the two-year study of the special education program.

Super Saturdays at library

It's billed as "Super Saturdays" by the Grosse Pointe Public Library, a way to keep the kids occupied while Dad watches college football or Mom finishes the shopping.

Beginning Saturday, Oct. 2, at 2:30 p.m., the Central Library will show video movies in the Exhibition Room. Geared to the tastes of children aged 8 and up, the movies include "Star Wars," "Close Encounters of the Third Kind" and "Superman."

Also included will be horror classics like "Frankenstein" and

• Complete the two-year study of data processing services.

Some may consider these system-wide goals too far removed from what actually happens in the schools and public libraries on a daily basis, but the implementation of these goals is basic to maintaining the quality of education and services expected by the community. As the chief administrator of the school system, I am committed to meeting the challenge of attaining the goals and specific objectives associated with them. More important, however, the commitment to attaining the goals is one which must be shared by all school personnel and community residents if the goals are to be realized.

I am excited about the direction the schools will take if these system-wide goals are achieved. All residents, including those without children in the system, are invited to help us achieve the goals by becoming actively involved in school and library programs. With broad based support, the promises that this year and these goals hold can be realized.

"King Kong," "The Super Saturday schedule, which runs through Dec. 18, includes Oct. 2, "Frankenstein;" Oct. 9, "King Kong;" Oct. 16, "War Of the Worlds;" Oct. 23, "Escape to Witch Mountain;" and Oct. 30, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind."

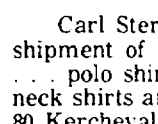

November begins with "Xanadu" on Nov. 6. On Nov. 13, "Cartoon Collection" will be shown. "Adventures of Pinocchio" will be shown Nov. 20, and on Nov. 27, "Captain America" will be aired.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

A new dimension has been added to the popular Meet the Masters music appreciation courses taught by Ruth Kaiser and jointly sponsored by the Continuing Education Department of the Grosse Pointe Public Schools and the Grosse Pointe Symphony Women's Association. Two Meet the Masters programs, both on Mondays, each consisting of four lectures, start in October in the second floor Exhibition Room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Road.

And this year, for the first time, a live performance by a fine musician will be a special feature of both the afternoon and the evening series. "A live performance is closer to the truth than recorded material," Mrs. Kaiser says, "and onlookers, in the case of an instrument, can see it first hand, observe its construction and beauty and how it is played. The same holds true with live voice performance. There is such a sense of intimacy and sharing."

Soprano Patricia Junker, Grosse Pointe pianist and teacher, will sing a group of Brahms lieder, accompanied by Mrs. Kaiser, at the Oct. 18 Meet the Masters afternoon session. Other dates in this daytime series are Oct. 4 (the opening lecture), Nov. 1 and Nov. 15. Material covered will include "The Symphony Orchestra: Its Instruments, Its Beginnings," "Johannes Brahms — Man and Musician," "Their Country's Showing" and "Portrait of Igor Stravinsky." Meeting hours are 1 to 3 p.m.

Violinist Gerda Bielitz, a librarian at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, will play selections from the "Exuberant Baroque" period at the Oct. 11 opening session of Meet the Masters' evening series. Other topics and dates in this series are "Three Mystics in Music: Cesar Franck, Scriabin, Gustav Mahler" (Oct. 25), "Child Prodigies and How They Grew" (Nov. 8) and "Renaissance in England" (Nov. 22). Meeting hours are 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Instructor Ruth Kaiser, a member of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Society's board of directors, has been a teacher of Music Appreciation for the past 30 years. She conducted classes in connection with the Cleveland Symphony and for 10 years gave lectures for the Detroit Symphony's Open Rehearsals at Ford Auditorium. She taught for Wayne State University-University of Michigan Adult Education, and conducted a winter Music Appreciation series on Florida's Sanibel Island.

Ruth is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music. She did advanced study at the Cleveland Institute of Music and Oberlin Conservatory. She is knowledgeable, talented — and fun: her informative and entertaining Meet the Masters classes are extremely popular, considered a cultural highlight of the year by Grosse Pointers who wish to expand their knowledge of fine music.

Fee for each series is $12. Checks, payable to the Department of Continuing Education and sent to 260 Chalfonte Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236 are due prior to the first class meeting. Pointe Symphony Women's Association proceeds from the lectures will go to the Pointe Symphony's Instrument Fund. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. William O. Bradley Jr., chairman of the afternoon series, at 886-0079, or Mrs. Lyndle R. Martin, chairman of the evening series, at 822-7141.

Opera Appreciation: Focus on Verdi

Meanwhile, on the other side of town (the lower level of Somerset Mall, to be exact), Dr. Jack C. Du Bois, of Three Mile Drive, begins a 10-session series of opera talks Thursday, Oct. 7. The lectures, running from 7 to 9 p.m., will focus on Verdi, covering the whole range of his output, from "Nabucco" to "Falstaff."

Dr. Du Bois has lectured on opera here at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, and for the Detroit Grand Opera Association. For the past 11 years he has volunteered his

Shelden Collection will be auctioned

The Shelden Estate at 131 Lakeshore Road, one of the last remaining great houses of Grosse Pointe's past, will be the setting this Saturday, Sunday and Monday, Sept. 25, 26 and 27, for Grosse Pointe's Auction of the Year.

The Shelden Collection features more than 300 pounds of antique and early 20th century silver, including a highly important George III English solid silver tray by Paul Storr, dated 1817, plus an array of fine porcelains, including two 19th century Chinese Palace Urns, each measuring 37 inches in height, plus fine furniture, including a Russian ormolu and malachite table.

Watercolors by Emil Nolde and Rufino Tamayo are among the Collection's paintings. Crystal and furs, a group of exquisite lace tablecloths, antique jewelry and toys, linens and ball gowns — and two Cadillacs, a '76 convertible and a '78 Eldorado Golden Biarritz, each with less than 100 miles on its speedometer, are among other auction items.

It is the estate of the late Elizabeth Buhl Warren (Mrs. Allan) Shelden, one of Detroit's Great — and greatly-loved — Ladies, patron of the arts and community leader, donor of the Elizabeth and Allan Shelden Sculpture Garden to be constructed at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The Collection is on exhibition today, Thursday, Sept. 23, from noon to 8 p.m., and tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Admission to the exhibition is $3. Admission to the auction, which starts at 11 a.m. Saturday, at noon Sunday and at 1 p.m. (uncatalogued lots) Monday — the exhibition of uncatalogued lots begins at 11 a.m. — is by catalogue only. Each catalogue is $12.50, and admits two persons.

Stalker & Boos are conducting the auction. Further information may be obtained by calling 885-1118.

"WILD IRISH ROSE"

When Irene Spencer first shared her brilliant idea for this new four-plate series, it was immediately apparent that the Symphony of Roses warranted not just special attention but an entirely new format for collectors' plates.

The result, over more than eighteen months in creative development, is the plate before you. The sculptured border echoes the shape of leaves around a rose in full bloom. Unstinting use of pure gold frames the magnificent Spencer portrait.

Although cost was no object when this series was undertaken, the price of this important First Edition should come as something of a pleasant surprise. Now at issue, you can begin this significant new annual series for eighty-five dollars. In Canada the price is one hundred, twenty-seven dollars and fifty cents.

Join in Artists Market's fun

Do you have taste, quality and pizzazz? Then join the Detroit Originals at a party in Harmonie Park tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 24, from 5 to 8 p.m. to celebrate the Detroit Artists Market's 50th anniversary. The $8 per person admission includes a special free year's membership to non-members of the Artists Market. Memberships usually run from $10 to $100.

Aside from a look at an exhibition of new Detroit art by original Detroit artists, guests will enjoy Hygrades Ball Park franks, Faygo pop, Strohs beer, Wonderbread and Taystee buns, Vlastic pickles, Sanders confections and Hudsons birthday cake. All these Detroit Original products are being donated to this second Artists Market party in Harmonie Park. About 800 attended the first party — and this year's edition should be even bigger and better. The Market is a non-profit gallery which annually exhibits and sells the work of over 500 artists born or living in southeast Michigan. It provides scholarships to area art students and conducts educational programs for members. New exhibitions, mounted approximately every month September through July, are accompanied by free, opening receptions at which artists, collectors and lookers nibble hors d'oeuvres and exchange ideas.

DGC will feature fall craft classes

Fall craft classes begin Wednesday, Sept. 29, at the Detroit Garden Center headquartered in The Moross House on East Jefferson Avenue, opposite the University Club, with Irene Losin's program on Fabric Picture Frames.

The classes run from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. They are open only to DGC members, but anyone can become a member by including $5 annual dues with the registration fee of $3 per class and sending a check, payable to the Detroit Garden Center, to the DGC, 1460 East Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48207. Pre-registration is a must, as class size is limited.

DGC members are entitled to all programs, lectures, trips and use of the center's 4,000-volume horticulture library.

Six Wednesday programs are included in the fall craft series co-chaired by Virginia Litteral and Alyce Sarver. Alice Krom will introduce participants to the Art of Wheat Weaving Oct. 6. Lucille Stoeck will conduct an Oct. 20 workshop on fall decor and miniature wreaths in macrame.

Helen Malkowski's Oct. 27 class will learn how to make a macrame bag for evening and other purposes. Band boxes are Leona Lienau's subject Nov. 3, and on Nov. 10 Marie Gasko's program will focus on pressed flower pictures and additional ideas.

Kits for each class will be purchased from the instructor. Participants should bring brown bag lunches; beverages are provided. Further information may be obtained by calling 259-6363 any Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

A new series of thought-provoking lectures by SHERWIN WINE is on the fall agenda of the Council of Sponsors at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The programs, scheduled for Thursday evenings Oct. 7, 14 and 21 at 8 p.m., were chosen expressly for the timeliness of the subjects and their interest to people with a world outlook, such as CAROLYN MOSHER, Council of Sponsors chairman, pictured at right previewing the topics with Dr. Wine.

Theme of the series is expressed in its title, Nations in Transition. The nations in focus are those that pose the greatest challenge to and concern for our own future status in the world today — Russia, China and the Third World countries.

Dr. Wine will discuss each nation as described in a current best-selling book, providing an insightful analysis of the impact that the changes the nation is now undergoing can have on itself and the rest of the world. Change is the key to the subject. Political revolution and new technology have transformed the character of these countries. While some of the old structures remain, new and unexpected developments are emerging.

The first lecture is on Russia, as described by Serveryn Bialer in "Stalin's Successors." Bialer outlines the changes in the structure of Russian politics and society since Stalin. He examines the new wave of leadership within the USSR and how it may change Russia's impact on the world at large as well as its own internal life.

"The Gate of Heavenly Peace" by Jonathan Spence will be the focus of the Oct. 14 lecture. This book probes the depth of revolutionary change in China by showing life there as observed by generations of articulate, impassioned

witnesses: poets, philosophers and story tellers who, each in his own medium, reveal how they sought to make sense of their own lives within the turbulence of the Chinese Revolution.

The final lecture's theme book will be Richard Critchfield's "Villages," a study of the changes now underway within the nations of the Third World, the impact of these changes on the lives of the people who live there and the global significance of this changing Third World way of life.

Pewabic offers four-workshop series this fall

A series of workshops — two single-session and two double-session, hands-on programs — will be offered for ceramists this fall at historic Pewabic Pottery, the 75-year-old, nationally renowned ceramics learning center, museum and gallery located on East Jefferson Avenue, across from Detroit's Waterworks Park.

The first workshop, scheduled for this Sunday, Sept. 26, from 3 to 6 p.m., is a single-session program featuring Julie and Tyrone Larson, whose Pewabic exhibit begins that day. They will discuss making a living as a potter, describing their own experience as studio potters in the mountains of North Carolina.

The first double-session, hands-

on workshop will feature Adele Figon, lecturing on and demonstrating molds and slip casting tools for the potter on Wednesdays, Oct. 20 and 27, from 7 to 10 p.m. She will show how to make a variety of molds to increase studio efficiency. Workshop participants will have the opportunity to make a mold.

Marge Levy, president of the National Council for Education in the Ceramic Arts, will lead a single-session, hands-on workshop on ceramics design Wednesday, Nov. 3, from 7 to 10 p.m. She will discuss the origin of design and form ideas and design techniques using form and color.

Dirk Bakker, photographer for the Detroit Institute of Arts, leads a two-part workshop on photography for potters from 7 to 10 p.m.

The success of last season's series of lectures by Dr. Wine suggests that this series will be very popular. Tickets for his programs are available now at $19 (three lectures) at the War Memorial office or from any member of the Council of Sponsors: Mrs. Charles Mosher, Mrs. John R. Baker, Mrs. Keith Crain, Mrs. Robert H. Healy, Mrs. Charles L. Henritz, Mrs. Charles F. Kaess, Mrs. William H. Kessler, Mrs. Alexander C. Szcuk, Mrs. Henry M. Woodhouse.

Wednesdays, Nov. 10 and 17. The first session will be a slide lecture and demonstration on how to photograph pottery. In the second, Bakker will assist participants in photography of their own work; a camera, lights and a pot should be brought to this second session.

Series cost is $58. Persons may also register for individual workshops. Fee for a single-session or first session of a double-session workshop is $12. Fee for a double-session workshop is $20. Advance enrollment and payment is required one week prior to each workshop. A list of supplies will be provided at the time of registration.

Additional information on the workshop series may be obtained by calling Pewabic, 822-0954, during regular business hours.

The Community LINC

Nearly half of all American adults and teenagers — 90 million in fact — are volunteers in organizations ranging from social agencies to hospitals and schools.

And among the areas where volunteers are most crucial is economically hard-hit Wayne County. County agencies in increasing numbers are requesting the help that can only come from volunteers.

You can become part of this vital volunteer effort by taking advantage of volunteer opportunities being made available at the Operation LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) Volunteer Coffee tomorrow, Friday, Sept. 24, from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Northeast Guidance Center, 13340 East Warren Avenue, Detroit.

This yearly event presents a chance for LINC officers and volunteers to meet with and discuss LINC needs with potential volunteers. In addition, this year's featured speaker will be Karl Bidleman, of Focus Hope.

One of the individuals most aware of the necessity for continuing volunteer assistance in LINC is its volunteer chairperson, Paddy Griem, who assumes the important task of recruiting Operation LINC volunteers. She began her own commitment only one year ago as a volunteer LINC office worker, but soon became aware of the importance of all volunteers.

"My office experience led to my current position, because I realized the critical need for volunteers within LINC." According to Griem, volunteer opportunities include soliciting financial assistance from the corporate community; investigating agencies requesting LINC's help; contacting local businesses for donations of goods; collecting goods from the community; sorting goods in the LINC storeroom; special projects such as foster care Christmas gifts; preparing publicity for public awareness of and support of LINC; and performing clerical work and office coverage in the LINC office.

Volunteers will have an additional opportunity to work on LINC's fall fund raiser, a Monte Carlo party to be held Saturday, Nov. 6, at Lochmoor Club.

Griem further explains that volunteer opportunities are varied but time requirements for each commitment are very flexible, according to individual needs.

Operation LINC will continue in 1982 and 1983 to help others help themselves by "linking" donors of services and new or used goods with agencies in Wayne County.

LINC needs and welcomes volunteers to help carry out its mission. If you are interested in learning more about LINC volunteer positions, please contact Paddy Griem at 823-2498.

If you would like to attend the LINC volunteer coffee, please call the LINC office at 331-6700 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. to make reservations.

LINC column space is provided monthly by the Grosse Pointe News as a community service. OPERATION LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or to donate usable items, please call us at 331-6700. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Michigan Opera Theatre Whirlwind Days
These are whirlwind days for Michigan Opera Theatre, which begins its season with the United States premier production of Stanislaw Moniuszko's "Haunted Castle," opening Friday, Oct. 1, at the Music Hall. Many MOT supporters have made plans to spend this Saturday afternoon, Sept. 25, at the Detroit Institute of Arts, where Count Adam Zamoyski, a descendant of Polish royalty and noted author of Polish historical biographies, will present a 4 to 6 p.m. symposium on two Polish composers, Moniuszko and Karol Szymanowski, Poland's greatest composer of modern music.

The symposium, jointly sponsored by MOT's Polish Opera Committee and the museum's Art of Poland Associates, will be followed by cocktails and dinner hosted by the Polish Opera Committee in the DIA's Kresge Court. Dinner tickets at $50 per person, including admission to the symposium, may be ordered by sending checks payable to Michigan Opera Theatre to Mrs. Mitchell Kafarski, Polish Opera Committee, 240 Chesterfield Road, Bloomfield Hills, Mich. 48013.

Incidentally: the Polish Opera Committee is collecting memorabilia and souvenirs of Moniuszko for display in the lobby of the Music Hall during performances of "The Haunted Castle." Anyone with artifacts they would like to include in the exhibit is invited to contact Mrs. Kafarski at 642-2730.

"Yes, Giorgio," the new MGM film starring Luciano Pavarotti, opens a week from today, Thursday, Sept. 30, with a gala premier sponsored by the Michigan Opera Theatre Guild. Tax deductible tickets for the MOT benefit are $50 for Patrons, including a 7 p.m. reception preceding the 8 p.m. showing at Southfield's Prudential Town Center, and $25 for Sponsors with a reception following the show. They may be ordered through MOT, 963-3717.

An additional bit of Michigan Opera Theatre news is that there's been a change in the current season schedule, with MOT flip-flopping its productions of "The Sound of Music" and "Treemonisha." As of now, "Treemonisha" will be presented in its Detroit premier Nov. 12 through 20. "The Sound of Music" will conclude MOT's 1982-83 season, running Jan. 28 through Feb. 5 at the Music Hall.

Detroit Symphony Season Is Open
The Detroit Symphony Orchestra's season opening concert last Tuesday, Sept. 21, conducted by DSO Music Adviser Gary Bertini and starring violinist Itzhak Perlman as guest soloist, was preceded, per tradition, by an elegant dinner hosted by the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Party setting was the Westin Hotel, next door to Ford Auditorium. Decorations featured violin ice sculptures draped with pearls, candles and multi-colored impatiens. Among those assisting Jo Kessler, of Huntington Woods, dinner chairman, were Grosse Pointe's Marlene Niccolini and Stephanie Germack, DSO Women's Association president.

Another traditional pre-Detroit Symphony opening "happening" is the Picnic in the Symphony Office Courtyard at which the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, assisted by the Detroit Symphony League, entertains orchestra members at luncheon between rehearsals. This year's picnic Monday, Sept. 20, featured ham, sausage and chicken casseroles. Stephanie Germack, Marge Jewell, Margaret Guertler, Marianne Endicott, Deanna Brinkman, Mado Lie and Marlene Niccolini, all of The Pointe, were among those helping to make the mid-day break a smashing success.

Public education, threatened by cutbacks in federal and state aid and a deteriorating economy, is facing a new crisis as schools open this fall: the exodus of teachers from the classroom. Low salaries, reports the National Education Association, are the common denominator behind this troubling exit from the profession. The estimated national salary average for teachers in 1981-82 was $18,976, well below the $22,390 median family income the Commerce Department reported in July is necessary for a family of four to maintain a "moderate standard of living."
Comparisons of teacher salaries to those paid other workers with similar education and training show that teachers in most parts of the country are underpaid by thousands of dollars a year.
Teachers who have recently left the classroom and taken jobs in private industry report that their new salaries are generally 25 percent higher than teaching salaries. The $18,976 average teacher salary is significantly lower than the $26,746 engineers earn and the $23,545 averaged by accountants.
Blue collar workers also fare much better than teachers. The average salary for an electric-gas utility worker is $22,724. A tire factory worker earns $24,582 on the average. A construction worker makes about $21,500.
Starting salaries for teachers lag well behind those of workers entering other fields. New school teachers averaged $12,800 last year, while marketing majors started at $15,816. Business majors made $16,560 in their first year and health professionals $15,300. Even after educators have been teaching 16 or 17 years — and reached the top of the salary schedule — they are often still making less than beginning engineering and business graduates.

September tea for WNF&GA
Saint John's Armenian Church in Southfield will be the locale next Wednesday, Sept. 29, for the Michigan Division of Woman's National Farm and Garden Association's 29th International Tea.
Michigan Division President Phyllis Slattery and Marian Renaud and Artie Norian, co-chairmen of the noon to 4 p.m. party, note that this is an excellent opportunity to see the chapel and interior of this unique church with its prominent, gold dome.
Those attending will also be able to view 30 display tables of flower arrangements created by Division members, in Ethnic, Holiday and Special Occasion themes.
The purpose of the International Teas is to promote interest in and provide support for an exchange program between college age youth of the United States and other countries through 4H, a farm youth program.

Five Pointes Club convenes
Five Pointes Garden Club met at 12:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 20, for dessert at the home of Louise (Mrs. Leslie) Jones and a program featuring Deanna (Mrs. John) Stephens, showing slides and explaining about growing miniature roses.

Gail Gieseking wed in August

Gail Sue Gieseking and Peter Donald Williams exchanged marriage vows Saturday, August 21, in front of a fireplace banked with white mums and green plants in the Bedford Road home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Gieseking.

Richard Valston, of First Lutheran Church of Detroit, presided at the 7 o'clock ceremony. Piano preludes were played by Mrs. Donald Hansen, a friend of the Gieseking family.

The bride wore a street length dress of pale mauve chiffon accented with beige lace at high neck, cuffs and bodice, and carried three white roses. She was attended by her sister, Kathy Smith, of Union Lake, who read an excerpt from Anne Morrow Lindbergh's "Gift from the Sea" and wore a street length dress of deep blue chiffon. Kathy carried a nosegay of pink rosebuds and miniature, white carnations.

The bridegroom, son of Donald Williams, of Battle Creek, and the late Ila Williams, asked Dennis Duval, of Battle Creek, to act as best man.

The mother of the bride wore a street length dress in shaded mauve tones and pinned a phalaenopsis orchid to her purse.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Williams

Street Station in downtown Detroit. The newlyweds are at home in Columbia, S.C., where the bridegroom, a graduate of Battle Creek's Saint Philip Catholic Central High School and Western Michigan University, is an instructor at Lynnhaven Career Center. The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School and Western Michigan University. Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Harold Hertel, of Clearwater, Fla., her brother, David Gieseking, who came from California, her sister, Diane Moses, of Elkton, Va., and from Des Moines, Iowa, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Rice, and cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Simpkins.

Summer rites for Amy Blood

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McLean Edwards, who vacationed at Hilton Head, S.C., following their early summer marriage in Grace Covenant Presbyterian Church, Richmond, Va., are at home in Richmond.

Mrs. Edwards is the former Amy Evans Blood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Earl Blood Jr., of Hillcrest Road, and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Howard Earl Blood, of Grosse Pointe Farms and Sarasota, Fla., and the late Professor and Mrs. Lewis Merritt Gram, of Ann Arbor.

Mr. Edwards is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Thomas Edwards, of Richmond, and grandson of Mrs. Charles Edwards, of Richmond, who attended the wedding, and the late Mr. Edwards, and of McLean Hampton, of Richmond, and the late Mrs. Hampton.

The Reverend William Downaway presided at the 12:30 o'clock ceremony. Vocal soloist was Donald E. Brown, of Grosse Pointe Farms. The reception that followed was held at Richmond's Westwood Racquet Club.

She wore the cathedral length veil of Chantilly lace that had been worn by her sister, Mrs. Rupert Wentworth, and carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, baby's-breath and pink and white cymbidium orchids.

Lisa Blood was honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Wentworth, of Bloomington, Ind., Carol and Katherine Edwards, the bridegroom's sisters, and Nancy Wrenn, of Richmond.

They wore dresses of frost rose chiffon featuring long, pleated skirts, and long-sleeved jackets of chiffon cuffed and edged at the waist with Chantilly lace. Matching lace trimmed their Derby style hats. More lace trimmed the circular holders that caught their bouquets of pink Sweetheart roses, purple statice, white, miniature carnations and baby's-breath.

Flower girl Amy Wentworth, the bride's niece, wore a long dress of ivory taffeta over satin, styled with a high neck and Empire bodice and detailed with Chantilly lace. She carried a wicker basket filled with purple statice, pink, miniature roses, white daisies and baby's-breath.

The mother of the bride wore a tea length, cap-sleeved dress of

Miss Rose wed to Rex R. Roy

At home in Ann Arbor are Mr. and Mrs. Rex Regis Roy, who vacationed on Sea Island, Ga., following their marriage Saturday, August 14, in Ebenezer Baptist Church and a reception at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Presiding at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony was The Reverend William Cummins.

Mrs. Roy is the former Tammy Lynn Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse C. Rose, of Willow Tree Place. Mr. Roy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Roy, of Sheldon Road.

The bride's gown of ivory silk organza was fashioned with a portrait neckline and bodice of beaded and beaded Alencon lace. Her chapel train was bordered with matching lace edged in satin, and a jeweled lace Juliet cap held her double-tiered, lace-edged illusion veil. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Honor attendant Shawn Mobley, bridesmaids Cheryl Dettloff, the bride's sister, Anne Borden and Cynthia Sturgeon and junior bridesmaid Jennifer Dettloff, the bride's niece, wore dresses of tissue taffeta with deep, ruffled bertha necklines. This year, the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center turns 18 years old: the Age of Majority. The League enters its 18th year healthy, happy and completely committed to support of the NEGC via fund raising projects that are also fun, projects that help to assure the continued well-being of the community mental health center, which receives no federal funds. The smiles on the faces of CHERYL WALDECK (right), outgoing League president, TONI STEWART (left), incoming president, and DR. JONATHAN YORK, NEGC director, reflect their delight in the fact that Cheryl's last official act as chief executive was the presentation of a check for $36,000 on behalf of the League to Dr. York, who accepted it on behalf of the Center. League members and their friends will be house-hopping this Saturday, Sept. 25, starting at 6:30 p.m., visiting three Pointe homes in the course of a $12.50 per person progressive dinner. Everyone is welcome at the League Follies "Meet the Director" party Tuesday, Oct. 5, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club. Further information may be obtained by contacting Jane Innes at the NEGC, 824-8000.

Cranbrook is focus for AIA House Tour

The Detroit Chapter, American Institute of Architects, will sponsor a tour of four significant Bloomfield Hills homes on Sunday, Oct. 3, from noon to 5 p.m. This year's Detroit AIA house tour centers around Cranbrook and its environs.

Steeped in the Midwestern tradition of attention to detail and quality of construction, the select homes span 75 years and exhibit diversity of design philosophy.

The cottage style mansion designed by Albert Kahn for George Gough Booth dominates the rolling gardens at Cranbrook. Saarinen House was designed by Eliel Saarinen as his private residence. He included designs for leaded windows, furnishings and tableware.

The Frank Lloyd Wright House designed for Melvin Maxwell Smith was constructed by its owner at Mr. Wright's suggestion. The Honigman House by James Cardoza is currently under construction. It offers the unique view of a contemporary home designed with great care and detail.

The tour departs from the Cranbrook Museum parking lot off Lone Pine Road. Shuttle bus transportation will be provided to all homes. Tickets are $8 per person, available by mail prior to Monday, Sept. 27, by sending a check and self-addressed, stamped envelope to Detroit Chapter, AIA House Tour, 553 East Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48226. A limited quantity of tickets will be available on the day of the tour at Cranbrook. More information may be obtained by calling 965-4103.

House Tour chairman is Charles Merz, AIA. Graphics were donated by Albert Kahn Associates under the direction of Bill Demiene, AIA, and executed by graphic designer Karen Waters.

RESULTS

Listed below are just some of the recent results we have produced while dealing in what most professional observers consider a "very difficult" market. The successful marketing of these properties was not luck.

On the contrary, each of these sales was the direct result of a marketing program geared individually to the specific strengths and details of that particular property. This attention to detail coupled with our broad experience in "varied" and "creative" financing technique will make the difference for you too.

Considering a move, but concerned about the market? ... Call one of our associates for some straight talk that produces RESULTS.

Larsons launch Pewabic's year

An exhibit of both functional and impressionistic works by North Carolina ceramists Julie and Tyrone Larson launches the new gallery season Sunday, Sept. 26, at historic Pewabic Pottery, now celebrating its 75th anniversary year, located on East Jefferson Avenue across from Detroit's Waterworks Park. The show will continue through Oct. 16, open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 4:30 p.m. Sundays. It features two ceramics disciplines: functional work centering around ceramic bakeware and one-of-a-kind pieces highlighting lusters on different clay bodies; the latter work is more free-form, impressionistic and decorative. Tyrone, a native Detroit, and Julie, a New York native who received her Master of Arts degree from Wayne State University, are married and operate out of Bakerville, N.C., as nationally recognized studio potters. They have been full-time potters since 1966.

POINTER OF INTEREST: ANITA (MRS. ROBERT F.) UNGER, OF AUDUBON ROAD, CHAIRMAN OF THE 1982 AAUW USED BOOK SALE.

By Peggy O'Connor

These days, Anita Unger can be found sitting amidst a bundle of books — boxes of books, stacks of books, tables topped with books — and loving it. That's because she knows, come Tuesday morning, Sept. 28, those barrels of books, the objects of her attention for so many months, will have been magically transported from Room 110 at Monteith School to the Salem Memorial Lutheran Church on Moross Road.

Well, not exactly by magic. By 9:30 a.m. next Tuesday, Anita and her many helpers will have finally finished their months of collecting, sorting, marking, stacking and setting up. By 9:30 a.m., the 20th annual Used Book Sale sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women will be underway. And when the books start selling . . . that's when the memory of all that work fades away and the magic really begins.

"I really do enjoy it. It's exciting to see the people when the sale begins. We perform a service, whether it's for the collectors or people who need to find reference books. At the very beginning we do have a number of collectors. As the sale goes on, we see people who just enjoy books."

And Anita, chairing the Used Book Sale for the first time, knows that the more people who come through the doors of Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, the better for the AAUW's goal of aiding educational advancement of women.

The AAUW is a national network of 190,000 members in its second century of advocacy for women in education, employment and the family. It is the largest and oldest national organization working for the advancement of women. Last year, the Grosse Pointe Branch Used Book Sale raised $10,000, one-half of which went to the national AAUW educational foundation.

The Pointe Branch was able to collect enough to donate five $1,000 scholarships to local institutions of higher education. Anita's hopes are high for another good Used Book Sale. "I would hope that we could again raise $10,000. Perhaps we could set up some more local scholarships, maybe not five, but some. After all, these are the people who support us through the Used Book Sale," Anita says.

ANITA KNOWS ABOUT the give-and-take relationship the AAUW has, with its Book Sale patrons, its members and its prospective members.

Anita first joined the AAUW in 1968, but first heard about the group while living in her native Norfolk, Va. "I'd first become interested in the AAUW a few months before I graduated from Old Dominion. The group there held a reception for the soon-to-be graduates. I admired their work . . . these women were involved."

Anita joined the AAUW, but at the time she was very involved, too. After taking a Bachelor of Arts degree in English from Old Dominion she traveled to Atlanta, where she earned a Master of Arts degree in English and Education from Emory University. She taught English in Maryland, Georgia and Ohio — and at the same time, was occupied with her family, husband Frank (Robert F.), and children Anne, Frank and Paul. The Ungers moved to The Pointe nine years ago and Anita hadn't forgotten about the AAUW.

"Once the children came along and I began to have more time, I remembered the experience I'd had in college, so I became more involved."

And involved is what Anita is. She has held chairmanships in the Pointe AAUW's Ways and Means and Membership committees, and last year served as assistant chairman for the Used Book Sale. Last year's experience, coupled with her knowledge gained as assistant treasurer responsible for the financial aspects of the sale, has served as a perfect training ground for her chairman's duties this year.

Putting something the size of the Used Book Sale together takes a lot of work . . . and Anita admits she's had a lot of help. "There have been people involved in collections, scheduling workers, marking, sorting, publicity, set-up and clean-up." There's no way Anita could do it alone — who would be there to find her when she gets lost in all of those books?

But despite the work, Anita says it has been fun. Book collecting began as soon as last year's sale was over and continued through the summer. The books were moved to Monteith School in August for hectic but enjoyable marking sessions. "Right now there's been a push, but during the summer we have time to sit and savor the books. It's very interesting. You learn a lot listening to the others' comments as we're sorting and marking."

AND EVEN THOUGH she is a Used Book Sale chairman, Anita is also a Used Book Sale patron: she just loves picking out books for her own use. "As a matter of fact, it seems to be a liability. You spot them as you see them go by. We all have our favorites."

But they don't buy them until the book sale opens, so there's no need to worry that there won't be enough good books to go around. Unless, of course, one delays a visit to the sale.

Between the unadvertised specials on Friday, Oct. 1, the half-price sale on Saturday, Oct. 2, and the $3 per bag Bag Sale on Sunday, Oct. 3, the AAUW will probably have collected a great amount of money to fund scholarships. And there may not be a book left in sight.

But until then, there will be thousands of paperbacks, plus children's books (in a special children's section set up so the kids can sit down and read), cookbooks, hardcover fiction and biographies, and sets of books including literary collections and encyclopedias. There will be a silent auction of collectibles like an 18th century Roman Catholic missal, L. Frank Baum's "Oz" books and a student-size set of the 11th edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

The silent auction goes on throughout the sale. Bids will be posted at the end of each day; the highest bidder at the end of the sale gets the book or books. "Our rare book lady goes around and pulls items out for the silent auction. And we really need her . . . one time we had a book marked at 25 cents, that turned out to be worth $45."

"That silent auction really gets a lot of attention."

But then: so does the entire AAUW Used Book Sale — thanks to people like Anita Unger.

The AAUW Used Book Sale runs from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, Sept. 28 through Oct. 1, from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 2, and from 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 3. The sale is at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, 21230 Moross Road, south of I-94.

ELEGANT EATING

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth presenting, this week, a quick, economical and luscious GRILLED DINNER, topped off by a light dessert.

Accompaniments to this main dish could be unsweetened apple sauce seasoned with freshly chopped mint leaves . . . a platter of thinly sliced, bright red tomatoes ringed with overlapping cucumber slices . . . garlic-buttered whole wheat rolls toasted on the grill.

1 lb. very lean ground lamb
1/4 tsp. Vege-Sal
Potatoes, peeled, thinly sliced
Carrots, peeled, thinly sliced
Celery, thinly sliced diagonally
Sweet onion rings, thinly sliced
Parsley, very finely minced
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. ground white pepper

Thoroughly mix the Vege-Sal into the ground lamb before making four patties. Place each patty on a large square of very heavy duty foil. Top each patty with a layer of potatoes, carrots, celery and onion rings. Sprinkle very generously with minced parsley, lightly with salt and pepper.

Fold packets, so that they are tightly sealed. Grill 5 to 6 inches from moderately hot charcoal fire for 30 to 40 minutes, turning packets every 10 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Calories about 480 per serving. Cholesterol about 70 mgs.

STRAWBERRY DELIGHT

2 env. unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup water
1 cup skim milk, heated to boiling
1/4 cup sugar
1 tsp. almond extract
1 qt. fresh strawberries

In 5-cup blender sprinkle gelatin over water; let stand 3 to 4 minutes. Add hot milk and process at low speed until gelatin is completely dissolved, about 2 minutes. Add remaining ingredients; process at high speed until strawberries are pureed. Pour into dessert dishes; chill until set. Garnish each dish with a sprig of fresh mint. Makes 8 servings.

Calories about 80 per serving. Cholesterol about 1 mg. 1 teaspoon sugar substitute may be used instead of sugar, thus reducing the calorie count to 56 calories per serving.

Wayne Women strike up band

Wayne State University's Women of Wayne Alumni Association salutes the WSU Symphonic Band, recently returned from a concert tour of the People's Republic of China, with a benefit concert Friday, Oct. 1, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

A performance by the band's woodwind quintet, under the direction of Professor Harold Arnold, will be followed by a complimentary wine and hors d'oeuvres afterward. Tickets are $10 per person. All proceeds go to the Symphonic Band. Reservation information may be obtained by calling the WSU Alumni Association, 577-2301.

Homecoming at Marygrove

Marygrove College will host its Annual Alumni Homecoming Day, sponsored by the Marygrove Alumni Department and Alumni Association, this Saturday, Sept. 25, and several Grosse Pointe residents are active in the preparation of the day's activities.

Directing Homecoming activities is Patricia Hawkins, of The Park, Marygrove's staff director of Alumni Relations and a graduate of the college. Chairing the 1942 reunion class committee is Marjorie Gallagher Shields, of The Woods.

Two other Woods residents co-chairing their 1952 reunion year festivities are Mary Jane Howard Brennan and Helen Gilleran Roach. Also on hand will be the chairperson of the Grosse Pointe/St. Clair Shores Marygrove Alumni Chapter, Virginia (Ginger) Lentine DiNatale, The Farms.

Two Grosse Pointe priests are also playing significant roles in Marygrove Homecoming activities. The Reverend Ralph Kowalski, pastor of Our Lady Star of the Sea, will be the celebrant at a noon liturgy and will give the invocation at an evening banquet at the Detroit Golf Club.

Father Val Rodriguez, of Saint Paul's on-the-Lakeshore, will be an honored guest because of his many years of service as a Marygrove professor of Spanish and Philosophy.

Homecoming on-campus features include college forums on timely topics, led by Marygrove faculty and administrators, a noon liturgy by the Class of 1957, an afternoon reception, a fashion show by Lizabeth's of Birmingham and several reunion luncheons.

Evening highlights are cocktails, dinner, dancing and an awards presentation at the Detroit Golf Club. Especially honored will be the reunions of the 50-year (1932) and 25-year (1957) graduating classes.

Additional information on the Homecoming program may be obtained by contacting Patricia Hawkins, director of Alumni Relations, at 862-8000, Extension 250.

Sports week

By Peggy O'Connor

SPORTS FANS have dreamed about it for years—a long week-end in another city, watching the hometown favorites giving their long-time foes a whipping. You've dreamed about it, now you're going to get it—at least the part where you and the hometown favorites travel to another city.

On Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 20 and 21, the Detroit Pistons, Red Wings, and Lions will all be in Chicago to take on that city's Bulls, Black Hawks and Bears. Can-Am travel is offering football fans "A Football Weekend in Chicago," Nov. 19 through 21. Lions fans will have the opportunity to see their heroes play the Bears at Soldier Field at noon Nov. 21.

The package includes round-trip train transportation, hotel accommodations, game tickets and transfers to and from the game via chartered bus. Further information may be obtained by calling Can-Am travel at 353-9740, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., or Saturday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

You hockey and basketball fans will have to make your own arrangements to see the Wings and the Pistons. Can-Am's package is football only. Fans will also have to provide their own hot dogs, popcorn and beer. And you long-time Lions fans should remember to bring your own snowballs, just in case our boys should be getting a whipping instead of giving one.

GROSSE POINTE: RON CAMERON says you are part of the best sports area in the state. And now, courtesy of sports media personality Cameron, you great east side sports fans will have a place to discuss everything from Sparky's strategies to Little Caesar's pizza king, Mike Hitch's Red Wings, Red Wings, Cameron, a Beaconsfield Road resident, will host the grand opening of Sports Den, his restaurant bar, this Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24 and 25. Sports Den, formerly Mr. Kay's, is located on East Eight Mile, one block west of Kelly Road. Cameron promises that a few of the Detroit Tigers and other radio, TV, and local personalities will be on hand for the festivities. The Sports Den will be open seven days a week, offering businessmen's luncheons and satellite television of sporting events. "It'll be a place where sports fans can congregate and talk sports. I hope to do a sports talk show where the people can come in and sit and ask questions," Cameron says.

FOUR MT. PLEASANT cyclists took a non-stop bicycle ride to Mackinaw City on Sept. 12. Their ride was to dramatize the relative speed and ease of bicycle travel—and if anything could do that it would be their finishing time. The cyclists, including former Woods resident George Luffy, 28, set a goal of eight hours, but arrived in Mackinaw City just six hours, 49 minutes and 10 seconds after leaving Mt. Pleasant—an average speed of 26.12 m.p.h. It may not have been easy, but it sure was fast.

DA. TRASH CAN LINERS. Niet trash: The University Liggett School hockey team has been invited to participate in an exhibition tour of Helsinki, Stockholm and Leningrad in March, 1983. To raise funds for the trip, the players are selling 20-30 gallon trash can liners (complete with ties) for $10 per box of 100. Order forms are available at the Grosse Pointe News sports desk or at ULS. Phone orders will also be taken at 882-1688. By the way, comrade, the trash bags will be delivered to your door.

A VERY GOOD YEAR FOR SOCCER: It looks like it will be a good year, at least for North High's varsity soccer team. North beat Washington Eisenhower, 3-0, last week, handing Eisenhower its first loss in its soccer history. The win, paced by Marc Tirikian's three goals, ended a 21-game unbeaten string for the powerful Eisenhower squad. And just to prove it wasn't a fluke, the Norsemen won the weekend's Troy Invitational, topping Grand Blanc, 5-1, and Troy, 4-3, to take the tournament crown.

Lace up the skates—schools okay intramural hockey

By Peggy O'Connor

After countless petitions, surveys, letters, phone calls and meetings, the controversial issue of high school ice hockey has been settled. There will be ice hockey at North and South high school this winter—but not at the long anticipated varsity level.

The school administration last week directed high school athletic directors Thomas Gauerke and Charles Hollosy to develop an in-district intramural ice hockey program. Plans for such a program are already underway, Gauerke and Hollosy said Monday.

"We have said we would try to have intramural programs in the schools. Each school has enlisted one teacher to work with the athletic directors in developing the program. It will be an intramural program run by the schools with an in-building league in each school," Gauerke said.

"We hope we might have four teams in each building. These four teams would play one another. Then when we got through the schedule, we're thinking of choosing an All-Star team that would play South," North's Gauerke added.

Gauerke said he hopes that the intramural hockey program might start in mid-November and run through February. Both North and South would play their games at Grosse Pointe Community Rink. The schools have made preliminary contact with the GPCR, Gauerke said.

tor at South; Tom Teetart at North.

Both are adept at coordinating intramurals, Gauerke said. The first step toward creating the hockey program was to determine the interest in hockey at each school. South had its student meeting last Friday, Sept. 17. South athletic director Hollosy said that 48 boys attended the South meeting expressing their interest in playing. North's preliminary meeting is scheduled for late this week.

"At this point, Dan (Griesbaum) is going to have to start work to determine how many teams South will have, how much ice time we need, where we will get the officials and coaching help we need," South's Hollosy said Monday.

Both Gauerke and Hollosy emphasized that the planning is in the very early stages. The schools' role in providing equipment, checking equipment for safety features, and setting ice time fees has yet to be decided.

"As of right now, we will expect students to provide their own equipment. We also expect the kids to share in the costs of ice time, just as they do in the other intramural sports, like bowling and racquetball," Gauerke said. Depending upon the number of players involved, ice time fees should range are $2 or $3 per player, per session, a figure which is consistent with the fees charged in other intramural programs, Gauerke noted.

"We're going to have to have a lot of parental help. We're going to rely on that and on student interest," Gauerke said.

GAUERKE AND HOLLOSY should have little problem in the area of parental support, if Julie Bourke has her say. Mrs. Bourke has been a driving force behind the development of ice hockey at the high school level. She and her committee of parents and school board member Ronald Dalby have worked since last September toward that goal.

"Oh great," Mrs. Bourke said on learning of the schools' decision. "I'm really excited. I just hope varsity hockey is the outcome...that's what we're working for."

Mrs. Bourke and her committee worked to install ice hockey as a varsity sport because, she said, there was a great need for such a level of play in the community.

"Many of these boys have been playing hockey all their lives. When you get to be a midget or a junior there's nothing but travel...and that just takes up so much time. To have to tell them (the boys) at that level there's no alternative to travel..." Mrs. Bourke said.

"Most of the boys just can't play travel. Travel play is seven months long and school hockey would be only four months. The boys know they have to study."

MRS. BOURKE and her committee felt that varsity hockey, (where the high schools would field one or two competitive teams which would participate in an interscholastic league) would offer an alternative to the boys who wanted to continue with hockey at a level less time consuming than travel.

In November, 1981, the high school athletic directors were requested by the school system to investigate the possibilities of developing such a varsity program. Gauerke and Hollosy conducted such a study and made their recommendations to the school system in February of this year.

"Five of the eight schools with varsity hockey which responded to our survey said they would not start a varsity hockey program if they had that option," Gauerke said. The schools cited such problems as crowd control, high costs, low spectator interest for losing teams, and lack of control over the sport as an off-campus activity. "After the study, we did not recommend hockey as a varsity sport," Gauerke said. "And cost is a concern, especially when you consider that a varsity team only involves about 18 kids."

But Julie Bourke and her parents' committee were not satisfied with the athletic directors' decision. They conducted a study of their own, surveying 50 of the 54 Class A sponsoring ice hockey programs. The athletic directors' study concluded that the total start-up costs of such a program would be approximately $17,800. Mrs. Bourke's study came up with a comparable figure of $17,121.

Mrs. Bourke and her committee concluded that the problems of crowd control, drinking, fighting in the games, etc., had been controlled by the majority of the schools surveyed—and could be controlled in a varsity situation at North and South. Mrs. Bourke noted in her survey that the problems were solved by hiring a good coach with a hockey background and by laying rules down in the beginning of the program. "Use of foul language, obscene gestures and fighting often result in a two or three game suspension for the player—so that sort of thing just couldn't happen," Mrs. Bourke said of the control problems.

GAUERKE DID not deny that the parents' committee study was a thorough one, but stood behind the schools' decision. "In 1979-80 the state called some of these schools with ice hockey in and told them to clean the game up or drop it—the schools have done so," Gauerke said.

So varsity hockey isn't completely out of the question for the future, he added. "Our idea is that we'll take a second look at the varsity program...we'll see how the intramurals go."

And South and North may not just be limited to playing within each school. State rules specify that intramural teams be allowed to play a maximum three games outside the in-building league. Both Gauerke and Hollosy say that games between the two schools are definitely in the plans.

As it stands now, the intramurals are the key to future hockey development within the schools. "I don't think the varsity question is out," Hollosy said. "Definitely not. We have to be open about that. As athletic directors we want the kids to have everything they can in terms of sports."

Norsemen fumble win away, 16-14

A fumble on the Sterling Heights' four-yard line in the dying moments of the game spoiled a performance that saw North's football squad come back from a 16-0 half-time deficit to lose, 16-14. The loss evens North's record at 1-1 as it prepares to open the 1982 home season Saturday at 1 p.m. against a tough Warren Cousino squad, also 1-1.

"We turned the ball over far too many times," commented North coach Frank Sumner. "They're a good team, but we should have won nevertheless. The defense played very well."

Sumner added that the offense is going to have to control the ball better and hang on to it longer in order to give the defense a much-needed rest.

Fred Schultz, Dave Bergeron and Geoff Tischbein starred for North. Schultz accounted for all 14 points as he scored on touchdown runs of seven and six yards, as well as running in a two-point conversion. Schultz also contributed defensively with 13 tackles. Bergeron starred both on offense and defense, earning 11 tackles, and Tischbein turned in a stellar defensive performance.

In spite of the non-league loss, Sumner remained optimistic about North's Bi-County chances. "We have as good a chance as any. We just have to execute, that's all."

Tickets for Saturday's game are

$2. A large crowd is anticipated.

A soccer upset

The Norsemen hosted, challenged and were triumphant against previously undefeated Washington Eisenhower, 3-0. North then won the Troy Invitational for the second year in succession as they hammered Grand Blanc 5-1, before holding on to beat the Troy Colts in the final, 4-3.

Eisenhower, which hadn't lost in its previous 21 games, trailed 2-0 at the half and just couldn't manage to beat North's defense and goalie Dave Loren, as it fell for the first time in its history in the very emotional game.

Junior Marc Tirikian scored all three goals on passes from Paul Regelbrugge, Ray Azar and Carlos Perez. The entire team was at its best in the winning effort.

In the Invitational, North destroyed Grand Blanc, 5-1 as Tirikian scored three more. Regelbrugge and sophomore Walter Preisz added the other two goals. The Norsemen held a 4-1 lead in the highly-entertaining finale with just seven minutes to play before the Colts struck back like lightning against a heavily-substituted North line-up.

Tirikian scored twice, and Azar and Dave Waldeck also netted a goal. Tirikian was voted tournament MVP for the second straight year, while scoring five goals.

South tops EML champs

A "fired up" South High varsity football team soundly defeated an equally enthused, reigning Eastern Michigan League champion Mt. Clemens, 14-0, last Saturday.

South scored quickly in the game when quarterback Bill Crow connected on a 72-yard touchdown pass to Paul Hawk. Dale Graham notched the extra point to make the score 7-0. An 18-yard run by Brian Rathsburg accounted for the Blue Devils' second touchdown. Graham kicked the extra point to send South up, 14-0.

Defensively, Jim Arnold made an important interception for South, stopping a Mt. Clemens drive. The Bathers rallied and tried a "no holds barred" offense in an attempt to get on the scoreboard. But the Devil defense, led by Jim Hartman, made a noble effort on its own four-yard line, holding Mt. Clemens and stopping the comeback attempt.

South's defensive tackles, Andy Turnbull and Rob Smith, made several outstanding plays. South's defensive coordinator Schroeder noted, "It was as great hitting game... a great victory over an even greater team. Our defense helped carry us and our offense did the job."

Although it is early in the season, the victory is important to South's championship hopes. Over the past eight years, the EML title fight has been between the Devils and Mt. Clemens.

South hosts Anchor Bay at 1 p.m. this Saturday, Sept. 25. (By Greg Buck).

College rosters carry Pointers

Two Pointe freshmen will be battling for spots on their respective college teams this fall, as they try to make the transition from high school to college football.

Trying to make a permanent spot on the Hope College football team is freshman tackle Jerry Bockstanz.

That's using your head?

University Liggett evens football mark at 1-1

First-year varsity football coach Chet Janiga wasn't sure he had won his first game at the University Liggett School until the final gun. ULS had to thwart a last-minute, two-point conversion try by Harper Woods High School to win 14-13, Friday, Sept. 17 at Harper Woods.

The Knights, led by the passing and running of quarterback Jeff Parks and running back Steve Georgi went ahead in the first half, 7-0, when Parks hit split end John Kulka on a 65-yard scoring strike. John Polizzi kicked the first of his two extra points.

In the second half, ULS went ahead 14-0, with Parks scoring on a five-yard run, before Harper Woods came roaring back in the fourth quarter. The Pioneers scored twice in the final period, the second touchdown coming with just 20 seconds remaining.

After some confusion, the two-point conversion try was ruled inches short and ULS escaped with an exciting one-point victory. Players, coaches, and fans combined to celebrate the Knights' first win of the season, which now evens their record and sparks enthusiasm for this week's home opener, Friday, Sept. 24 at 4 p.m., with Flint Academy.

ULS tops South kickers

Last week the University Liggett School varsity soccer team played its most challenging game thus far this season facing Grosse Pointe South's varsity squad on Sept. 16 at Elworthy Field.

The game was an exciting one as South challenged the Knights in skills and tactics where they had been unpressured before by other teams. The first goal was scored by ULS halfback John Fern. Following immediately after, South met the threat with two goals of its own.

Larry Van Kirk tied the game at 2-2 with a shot from outside the 18-yard line. South scored once more but Marty Wittmer and Robbie Wood came back with the tying and winning goals as the Knights came from behind to win the game, 4-3.

The victory was a meaningful one for the ULS team. It proved the unity of the team's 15 players, and demonstrated excellent offensive and defensive preparation and drill.

The varsity soccer team's next home game is Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 4:40 p.m., when the Knights take on the Roper High School Varsity soccer team for their second match-up of the season. (By Matthew Carstens).

Field hockey squad ready

Contrary to popular belief, field hockey at University Liggett School starts long before the school year opens. At ULS, field hockey day camp opened on Monday, Aug. 23. Players were instructed by coaches from the University of Michigan and coaches with nationwide experience who had participated in hockey sports festivals at Olympic development camps. Hockey players from schools in Dearborn, Ann Arbor, Bloomfield Hills and Grosse Pointe also attended.

University Liggett School continued into preseason camp and the team's first taste of competitive play on Sept. 11 at Sauk Valley's Playday. Schools from Ohio and Michigan attended the Playday to get the feel for the opposition.

Muriel Brock, head field hockey coach at ULS, is working with a very young, inexperienced team. The girls open their season at home Wednesday, Sept. 22 (after press time) against a very strong competitor, Ottawa Hills, Ohio. The team's hope for the season is to continue the winning ULS tradition.

A JV tennis win

The University Liggett School junior varsity tennis team defeated Ann Arbor Huron junior varsity 5-2, Friday, Sept. 17, at ULS. No. 1 singles player Marcela Brane lost to Anne Peterson, 6-4, 1-6, 1-6.

North eagers fall

After losing to Utica Eisenhower, 58-28, North fought hard but lost to Bishop Gallagher, 40-34, in the first round of the North Girls' Invitational.

Jean Genord and Sally Malta led the way for the Norsemen against Eisenhower with eight points apiece. Genord and Jan Hamilton's 12 points each against the Lancers helped, although the defensive effort was especially commended by Coach Scott Burns.

The JV lost to Gallagher, 50-15, while the freshmen had better luck against Chippewa Valley winning, 25-24.

JV gridders are 2-0

An excellent second half performance gave North a 7-6 win over Sterling Heights and a 2-0 season record.

Will Secor ran for 58 yards and a touchdown. Dan Kopitzke, George Kasza and kicker Tim VanEchoute also stood out in the victory.

South

South's boys' varsity soccer team lost its opening game to a tough Utica Eisenhower, 3-2, on Sept. 10.

The first half was played mostly in South's end of the field with Eisenhower scoring twice to be up 2-0 at halftime. The second half was just the opposite, with South dominating to score two goals to tie the game at 2-2. With approximately 15 minutes left in the game Eisenhower scored on a breakaway from half field to win the match.

Inter-school cooperation at its finest is being demonstrated as cheerleaders from South High School are coaching 50 Pierce Middle School students who wish to try out for cheerleading teams at Pierce Middle School.

Coaching takes place at a series of four after-school clinics, the first of which was held Sept. 16. Cheerleading teams and the clinic sessions are sponsored by Pierce faculty sponsor Fran Ralstrom. Following completion of the four clinics by the end of September, six, seventh and six eighth graders will be selected for Pierce's official cheerleading teams which will lead cheers at home and away basketball games.

"The South High cheerleaders are doing a wonderful job at the clinics," said Mrs. Ralstrom.

"What makes their efforts especially commendable is the fact that they are donating their free time after school to help our aspiring cheerleaders."

Racewalking is growing in leaps and bounds in this area, thanks to the expert instruction of Frank Alongi, at right, demonstrating a stretching exercise to the Woods' John Gutzke. Alongi, a former Olympian and president of the Wolverine Pacers Athletic Club and the United States team coach, is instructing the fall racewalking program at North High School for the Department of Community Services of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. Persons interested in an exciting, injury-free sport with the benefits of jogging, should call 343-2160 for further information.

Tips to make hunting safe

The typical hunting accident casualty is a male between 10 and 29 years of age who is hunting small game with a shotgun during the first week of the season. He resides in a rural area and has had one to five years of hunting experience. The accident occurred between 8 and 9 a.m. on a Saturday, Sunday, Monday, or Tuesday.

This profile is from "Hunting Mishaps — The How and Why," an article in the fall issue of Family Safety, a quarterly magazine published by the National Safety Council.

The North American Association of Hunter Safety Coordinators compiles hunting statistics from 34 states and four Canadian provinces. The latest report covers four years — 1977 through 1980. During that period, 5,784 hunting accidents occurred, and of that number 723 were fatal.

The major causes of hunting accidents are the victim was out of sight of the shooter, the shooter swinging on game hits victim, the victim mistaken for game, the shooter stumbled and fell, and the shooter's trigger got caught on an object.

The article says that hunting permits issued by the reporting states and provinces in 1980 alone totaled 15,692,802, so the 1,406 accidents in 1980 means one hunter was hurt or killed for every 11,161 licenses sold, or 8.98 accidents per 100,000 hunters.

It's estimated that one out of five American males over age 18 participates in hunting. That's approximately 17.5 million hunters.

Shotguns are involved in far more accidents than rifles, 55 percent compared to 32 percent during the 1977-80 period, probably because there is more small game hunting with shotguns.

Hunter orange generally is credited with reducing deer hunting mishaps, the article says. Thirty states and three provinces now make hunter orange mandatory to some degree, usually for deer hunting.

Waterfowl hunting is the safest of the main hunting categories, with only 71 accidents and 11 fatalities in the 1980 North American survey. That compares with 426 accidents and 76 fatalities for big game, and 666 accidents with 59 fatalities for small game.

A large number of hunting injuries are self-inflicted, the study shows. The chief reasons are stumbling and falling (a four year total of 262 accidents) and catching the trigger on brush or other objects (165).

There's no place like home . . .

There's no place like home . . . especially when it comes to the home field advantage at high school sporting events. There's plenty of home action on the North, South and ULS schedules this week, including the following:

SOUTH: The varsity football Blue Devils will host Anchor Bay at 1 p.m. this Saturday, Sept. 25. The girls' varsity basketball team plays crosstown rival North at 6 p.m. today, Sept. 23, preceded by the ninth graders' game at 4 p.m.

The girls' cross country team will host Edsel Ford at 4 p.m., and the swimmers will be at home to Birmingham Marian at 4 p.m. today. The varsity and JV soccer squads will play host to North High on Tuesday, Sept. 28 at 4 p.m. The girls' tennis team will host L'Anse Creuse North on Sept. 24 and North High on Sept. 28; game this is 4 p.m.

NORTH: Its home opener time for the varsity football team as the Norsemen host Warren Cousino at 1 p.m. Sept. 25. The girls' basketball teams will host L'Anse Creuse North on Sept. 28 at 6 p.m. for the JV, 7:30 for the varsity. The freshmen play at 4 p.m. The varsity soccer team will play Roseville at 4 p.m. tomorrow, Sept. 24. The girls' swim team has a date with Washington Eisenhower today at 7 p.m., and the girls' tennis squad will host Lakeview tomorrow, Sept. 24, at 4 p.m. The combined cross country teams will host Lake Shore at 4 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 28.

ULS: The varsity football Knights open their home season tomorrow, Sept. 24, with a 4 p.m. contest against Flint Academy. The varsity soccer squad will host Roeper at 4:30 p.m. next Tuesday, Sept. 28; the JV game will precede the varsity contest.

The cross country squad will meet Bethany Christian at 4:15 p.m., Sept. 28. The varsity golfers host Cranbrook today, Sept. 23, at 4 p.m. and Bishop Gallagher on Sept. 28 at 3:30 p.m. The girls varsity tennis team has two home matches this week: today at 4 p.m. against Our Lady Star of the Sea, and Wednesday, Sept. 29 against Dearborn at 4 p.m. The JV tennis squad takes Kingswood on at 4 p.m. Sept. 28.

Pierce resumes early bird sports

Pierce Middle School is again offering students its popular program of Early Bird Homeroom Activities this year. The activities, which begin at 7:45 a.m. daily, include basketball, floor hockey, volleyball, softball and a spelling contest.

All activities are voluntary, but have become so well liked that last year more than 70 percent of Pierce's 400 students participated in one or more of the events.

The spelling contest is a preliminary to the school's annual spelling bee and helps prepare students for the tri-county competition. Scheduled from September through June, the Early Bird activity program is sponsored by the Pierce Guidance and Counseling Department.

For more information, parents or students can contact counselors, James Iretson or Jack Lambka (343-2099).

The biggest.

Newspapers are the largest advertising medium of them all. By far. In 1981, advertisers invested $17.4 billion in newspapers—more than they spent in TV or magazines or radio or any two of them combined.

	Advertising Volume
	1980 ($ millions)	1981 (Est.) ($ millions)	Increase ($ millions)
Newspapers	$15,541	$17,420	$1,879
Television	11,366	12,650	1,284
Radio	3,702	4,212	510

Source: McCann-Erickson

That's nice for us, but why should you care? Well, newspapers are Number One because advertising experts believe they work, and back up that belief with more hard dollars than they spend with any other medium.

Their confidence is well placed. Sixty-two million copies of newspapers are sold on the average day, and almost 7 out of 10 consumers read one. And readership is highest among the Upscales... those with higher incomes, more education, better jobs, greater appetites for life. Translation: people who buy.
