Persistence in the face of great odds, plus a longing to see the family together again over the holidays paid off for two Grosse Pointe Woods women recently.

Mrs. Charlotte Bradley and Mrs. Betty Dube, were among 20 lucky winners in WMJČ (Magic) Radio's Holiday Reunion contest held recently on the station's Jerry St. James and Jeff Elliott morning show.

More than 10,000 entries were received, with only 20 winners selected and awarded two round-trip tickets from anywhere in the continental U.S. to Detroit

Mrs. Bradley, and husband Russell will meet daughter Barbara and grandson Justin at Metro Airport today. They're flying in from Florida, and the reunion will be the first time in seven years the family has been together.

Bob and Betty Dube will welcome sons Bill and Tom home from Dallas, where both moved seeking greener pastures. Mrs. Dube said she had a feeling she'd win the contest. A combination of woman's intuition, plus the 50 entries she sent in helped, no doubt.

Anthony Mangiarelli, coowner of The New Bronze Door called last Saturday night's opening reception cocktail party a huge success with about 250 patrons standing elbow-to-elbow admiring the new decor.

According to Mangiarelli, there was a steady stream of visitors to the restaurant from about 2 p.m. until the final crowd was "shooed" out at 2

Here's hoping the New Bronze Door outlives its bad luck predecessor and even makes the list for next year's "Meet, Eat and Enjoy Detroit Cuisine" by local dining detec-tives Mary Conway and Harry Satchwell.

This year's edition, which includes 16 new additions (don't get them confused) lists at local bookstores for $1.95, down from last year's $4.95.

The book received a plug in Monday's Page 3 section of the Free Press in which Harry Satchwell reportedly "whined" about dropping the Internal Revenue Service from their mailing list because of tardiness in paying.

Conway and Satchwell were both reportedly thrilled about the Friendly's plug, but puzzled about the "whining" descrip-"Anyone who knows Harry knows he may scream. moan, bellow and shout, but he never whines," said Conway.

downtown just got its "Whining and Dining" all mixed up.

After a titanic struggle with its conscience. Congress managed to vote itself a 15 percent pay raise this week, boosting its salary from $60,662 per year, to a sizeable $69,800.

While voting the measure in on a 232-54 standing (no roll call) vote, the lame-duckers also abandoned a jobs program for unemployed workers.

One lone congressman from California apparently tried to call for a roll call on the pay raise, but couldn't muster enough support. Aides said the proposal would have died if a roll call had been forced.

The pay increase doesn't include the Senate, where senators voted 55-41 against the measure, with Michigan Senators Riegle and Levin voting against the bill

The bill limits Senate members to a yearly $60,662 salary but don't weep for them. In exchange, the senators are allowed to earn unlimited outside income, including honoraria. House members would be limited to 30 percent of their new salary.

Prison overcrowding: A case study

By Tom Greenwood

In March of this year, Farms police caught a burglar who had just broken into a home on Cloverly Road. His name was Danny Dugan, and he was 19.

Dugan, and a partner named Smith, subsequently pled guilty to one count of breaking and entering. In exchange for immunity from prosecution, Dugan also confessed to and cleared the books on 29 other burglaries in the Farms.

On Sept. 9, Dugan appeared before Circuit Court Judge Richard Dunn and was sentenced to two and a half to 15 years in Ionia Prison. In December, Dugan was out of prison and living in a Mt. Clemens community resident facility for prisoners.

"It's typical of what's going on today in the judicial system," said a disgusted Farms Det. Sgt. George VanTiem. "We, as police, have spent more time trying to catch this guy than he's spent in jail. We catch him and they let him go. It's a very frustrating

The story or Dugan and his involvement with the law is long and involved, costly to the communities he's victimized and discouraging to the police who've apprehended him.

Farms police were plagued with a series of burglaries in 1981, and felt many were being committed by the same team of thieves. The police kept adding the list of sto-len items to the LEIN machine (Law Enforcement Information Network), hoping a stolen item would appear and be traced back

Finally, in November, 1981, Farms police received a teletype from Knox County, Tenn., police saying Dugan and three other men had been arrested by narcotics offic-

Shores wins bond election after all

By Mike Andrzejczyk It's a rags-to-riches story.

More accurately, it's a rejection-to-renovation story.

Shores officials were delighted to discover Wednesday, Dec. 15, that state law in effect since 1965 superceded a village charter provision which requires a 60 percent majority for approval of a general obligation bond issue.

The village earlier had conceded defeat in its bid for voter approval of a $1.3 million bond issue to cover the costs of renovating its 67-year-old municipal build-

In last week's election, 148 voters approved of the issue while 106 opposed it. Under the 60 percent provision, the village would have needed 152 for passage.

The Board of Canvassers met Wednesday and certified the results, noting the question had failed by four votes. Later that day, however, officials received a call from bond attorney George Stevenson, who said state law called for a simple majority to ap-

Farms clears track for marathon

By Tom Greenwood

The sixth annual Free Press International Marathon scored a run-away victory Monday night when the Farms City Council voted unanimously to allow the race to be run again through their city streets.

The vote came after the council listened to objections from a consortium of Grosse Pointe and Detroit clergymen objecting to the timing and route of the race.

Before the vote, the council listened to debate concerning the race with Rev. Ray Kiely, of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. speaking on behalf of the church-

The minister added that the compromise reached before last year's race, in which runners were restricted to only half a lane of Lakeshore Road, did relieve the "land locked" problem of his church, but did nothing to relieve the problems of neighboring Grosse Pointe churches, notably St. Paul, St. James and Christ Church.

the burglary in their city, for which Dugan was sentenced again to an identical term in prison.

"What obviously happened was that his second sentence was made to run concurrently with our sentence," said Facemyer. "The criminals know what's going to happen. With that type of thinking, if you do one thing wrong, you may as well do 100 things wrong, because it all goes down the same

This type of thing happens constantly," said Det. Facemyer.
"It's a joke. The only ones who really suffer are the victims. And they suffer continuously. We arrest them and, bingo, a few weeks later they're back out on the street or in half-way houses."

According to police reports, Dugan spent the summer of 1982 in the Macomb County Jail. Farms police brought him back to Wayne County where he was sentenced to Ionia Prison. Dugan then spent four months at the Michigan Training Unit at Ionia, a Resident Home program on Dec. 1, 1982.

EPAs were declared in May, 1981, with 900 prisoners being released early, and again in May, 1982, with another 900 released. A third EPA was declared in August, 1982 and again this month.

Dugan received time off his miniumn sentence for the time he spent in the Macomb County Jail, plus a 90 day reduction in August and another 90 days this month,' said Goddard. "EPAs will be dechared a couple of times a year for the next 10 years. It's a short term relief valve. Without it, we'd be in big trouble. EPAs will effect minimun sentences until the year 2000. It's not meant to be a long term solution.

State officials admit they often share the frustration felt by the medium security prison, before police, but are handicapped by his release to the Mt. Clemens current prison over-population.

The application will be sent to the Michigan Municipal Finance Commission, which will review the bond issue, consider the village's financial status and then approve or deny the request, state officials said.

With voter approval, the Shores has the power under law to raise its tax levy to cover the principal and interest payments. Shores officials calculated that property taxes could rise from between $1 and $1.35 for each $1,000 in state equalized valuation to cover the bond payments.

A home with an SEV of $100,000 will pay an extra $100 to $135 a year in property taxes.

With approval from the state, the Shores would then advertise for bids on the bonds from banks, financial institutions or brokerage houses, state officials said. The village would award the bid to the firm offering the most favorable package of interest rates and terms on the bonds.

After that, the bonds would be sold through banks and brokerage

THE GENERAL obligation bond question is the first to pass this ear in the Grosse Pointes. In June, the Board of Education placed an advisory question on its ballot to decide whether to conduct a $125,000 feasibility study of a community pool. The question was defeated by a near 15-to-1 margin.

Last August, the Park asked residents for 2 mills to resurface the city's streets. Though Park officials said the roads needed an estimated $2 million work, while the budget contained only $100,000 for it, voters defeated the hike by a 3-to-2 margin.

Students remember the season's needy

By Joanne Gouleche

Along with the traditional eggnog, mistletoe and Santa's steighbells, Christmas also means remembering those who are unable to afford pretty packages under the tree and those who can't provide a hearty holiday meal for loved ones. The News found some local students who, through Christmas basket donations, will make this holiday season a happy time for many needy families in Grosse Pointe and Detroit

Don't tell students in Room 315 at South High School that caring for others has gone out of style. They know no such thing

And don't tell math teacher Carl Justice that his students aren't aware of the true meaning of this holiday season. They know all too.

It's been nothing but "Tis the season for giving" in Room 315 this month as Justice's kids began to fill no their food baskets, each day coming closer to making one tamily's Christmas wishes come

The day finally arrived last Friday when the kids delivered boxes, boxes and more boxes of Detroit's near eastside

They also made sure the family would have plenty of gifts under the tree this year. Armed with the pretty packages and brim-full boxes of food, they loaded up cars and vans. Lots of smiles and a whole bunch of "thank-you's" awaited them.

Justice says he's been coordinating Christmas food basket deliveries to about eight families in his 15 years at South. This year, about 40 students donated nearly $1,000 in food, along with clothes and even a used vacuum cleaner and dryer

"We had some kids bring in brand new clothes," he points out. A student's mother donated new clothing still wrapped in packages because her store went out of business. We got a blouse from her with a $40 price tag on it.

Justice said his students also collected 30 pounds of margarine, 100 pounds of flour, five gallons of oil, 100 pounds of peas, 100 pounds of beans and a case of patmeal.

After the students made their delivery last week, they sat down South High School's Student Association President Joann Cullen excitedly tells you that her group's food drive for eight needy families this year was just "tre mendous.

We surpassed our goal this year by 1,000 cans," she boasts. The food baskets were delivered to the Capuchin soup kitchen in Detroit last week.

Posters went up all around school only the week before. Which homeroom class would col lect the most cans for the Capuchin soup kitchen?

The competition must have been stiff. Joann says the Student Association collected about 1,700 cans of food and collected $700 in Fifteen families from Detroit's near eastside sure are lucky this year. They were adopted by the students at Parcells Middle School.

Assistant Principal Sheila Joyce says kids from each homeroom filled trash bags with turkeys, hams and other food until they couldn't hold any more.

"It's just amazing how these kids came through," Mrs. Joyce

The freshman class at Univer sity Liggett School had a novel idea to help solicit canned food for St. Bernard's Community Center at Fairview and Mack in Detroit this Christmas season Why not ask students to bring and use canned goods as admission to a school dance? It worked.

Special bagel and doughnut sales also helped to fill Christmas baskets with canned goods, turkeys and usable clothing for 50 local families.

"The depression has finally arrived in Grosse Pointe," says Don Dungan, North High School's Student Association advisor. This year food baskets went out to 25 Grosse Pointe families. Last year only four local families received food boxes. Dungan points out.

This is year number 10 for North High students and staff, who traditionally begin the food drives around Thanksgiving. This year the school also adopted 35 families in Detroit.

"The Grosse Pointe families are referred to us from the elementary and middle schools," Dungan says. "Then the administration gets together with the teachers to see if there is a need. Next, the families are contacted to see if they are willing to accept the bas-

This year the staff at the school district's administrative offices also adopted a family in Grosse Pointe.

Dungan says the annual food drives "raise the awareness level of our students when the baskets are delivered.

'It unifies our student body and Christmas means much more for our students and staff.

You kind of know what Dungan means when he gets letters like this: "This year has been difficult to my pride as well as to my finances. Thank you very much for your generosity.

Tax break for Wayburnites

By Susan McDonald

Those residents of Wayburn and Barrington Roads who've been wondering for years just which city they reside in got an early Christmas present last week from a Wayne County Circuit Court

Judge Irwin Burdick formally enjoined the city of Detroit from "any and all efforts to assess or collect taxes" based on a disputed boundary line between the city and Grosse Pointe Park

The boundary was moved 33 feet west of where it was thought to exist by the Michigan Court of Appeals late last year. But Detroit's tax department billed residents on Wayburn and Barrington for property taxes based on the old boundary line, arguing the appeals court ruling pertained to in-come taxes only. It was an argument that Judge Burdick did not

The ruling means residents can forget the tax bills they received earlier this year and wait for new. smaller bills to be issued by Detroit, city officials said.

The appeals court ruling came after almost a decade of legal arguing by residents of the area who were protesting a 1971 Detroit decision to bill them for resident in-thought to run through the middle of houses on Wayburn Road and, as a consequence, the residents received services from both cities, sent their children to Pointe publie schools and could satisfy residency requirements for being a city of Detroit employe.

The Park's assistant city attorney James Walsh, who represented the city before Judge Burdick last week, said he hopes the ruling will finally end the 10-year court battle. The judge promised to deliver an accelerated judgement on Detroit's counter-suit, which sought to stop the Park from collecting taxes on the same land, the attorney said.

Walsh said residences on the two streets will certainly be added to the Park's tax rolls for 1983. The Park also sued Detroit under the Freeom of Information Act in order to receive assessing infor-mation from Detroit's files. Detroit handed the information over before a hearing on that suit was

City administrators estimated the amount of property tax involved may be close to $30,000 for the city and even more for Grosse Pointe public schools.

John Kelly (D-Detroit) has said he plans to introduce a bill next year that would move the boundary even further west, so it coincides with lot lines.

St. John plans Seven-Mack improvements

St. John Hospital announced this along Mack and Moross, replacing week it will begin a beautification the Seven Mack Shopping Center project early next spring in the Mack-Moross area and Seven-Mack Shopping Center. Hospital officials estimate the project will cost between $25,000 and $35,000.

The project, part of a federal Community Development Block Grant project involving the Woods, Detroit and the Farms, will be done even if the cities' funding is not approved by the government, L. Michael Smith, vice-president, corporate development said.

The hospital is hoping to coordinate its project with the cities involved, Smith said, and will begin in early spring after the completion of the necessary groundwork.

ing Skills Workshop is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 5, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The workshop will

The project, to be paid for with shopping center revenues, represents a long-term commitment on the part of the hospital to continue operating the center as a shopping area through the rest of the decade, Smith said. "As we have previously stated, we have no plans to operate the shopping center as anything other than a shopping center through 1990," Smith said. The hospital has "no plans at all" after that time, he added.

"The project is part of the hospital's commitment to seeing that The beautification project will which shoppers want is met," he include planting trees and shrubs said. "This is yet another step to provide what the shoppers want."

Smith pointed out there are no empty storefronts in the center because the hospital is using of-fice space and the Wrigley build-ing for storage and billing operations. There is no room for new construction at the center, he said, and no place for a new business to locate.

In a resident survey done for the Woods last September by Nordhaus Research, Inc., respondents said they would like to see the addition of clothing stores, a grocery store or a restaurant at the center. In addition, residents said the lack of variety as well as high quality stores were the reasons for them not shopping at the center, even though seven of 10 of those polled said they shopped

Smith said the hospital would accept new tenants for existing buildings if one were to vacate. We would like new tenants" if something opened up, he said.
"We would like to keep the stores active and open at the shopping center.

He added that parking congestion at the center should ease as soon as the hospital opens its parking deck for employes and visitors next February. Congestion in the lots are commonplace in the morning and afternoon when shift changes at the hospital coincide with shoppers heading for stores.

Since assuming the master lease for the shopping center in 1979, Smith said the hospital has attracted new tenants to buildings, notably Arbor Drugs moving into the old Cunningham building, rate headquarters.

The relining also made Woods police patrols of the lots easier, he

The hospital endorsed the idea of the beautification project in a letter to Woods Mayor George Freeman last July. The hospital also intends to exercise its option to buy the center in 1987, a plan the hospital announced last year.

According to Smith, hospital executives said that recent and future changes around the center call for a new name "which more realistically reflects the new atmosphere at the center."

Smith said the tenants at the shopping center were pleased with the hospital's plans for the beau-tification and new name and sign. No costs will be passed on to the stores, he said.

YOUR MONEY MARKET FUND HAS JUST BECOME OBSOLETE.

MANUFACTURERS BANK INTRODUCES THE MANUFUND INSURED MONEY MARKET ACCOUNT.

There's no doubt money market funds are wise investments. But there are drawbacks. Your money may be far away with a broker or investment firm in another city. Can you get to your money when you need it? How secure is your investment? Manufacturers has an answer to all these questions: The ManuFund Insured Money Market Account.

MONEY MARKET INTEREST, NEIGHBORHOOD CONVENIENCE.

ManuFund earns you high money market interest rates. But you have an added advantage: unlimited access to your account at your local Manufacturers branch. You can withdraw in person, by mail or by simply using the ManuWay card you get when you open a ManuFund account.

F.D.I.C. INSURANCE KEEPS YOUR INVESTMENT SECURE.

No matter what happens in the future, your total deposits are fully insured up to $100,000. The ED.I.C. makes certain of it.

A SMALL DEPOSIT EARNS BIG INTEREST.

All you need is a minimum deposit of $2,500 and you'll be earning high money market interest. Most money market funds require a much larger minimum deposit.

THE MORE YOU PUT IN, THE MORE YOU GET OUT.

Deposit $5,000 or more and you'll get a N.O.W. Checking account and a Master Card or Visa, with no annual fee. You'll also get a year's free supply of ManuFund checks. A $20,000 deposit gets you all of these benefits, but more importantly, an even higher rate of interest through January 14th.

YOU'LL ALWAYS KNOW WHAT YOU'RE EARNING.

Call Manufacturers 24 hour Interest Hotline anytime you want to know the current interest rate. Just dial 222-4509. As you can see, your present money market fund has become obsolete! So stop by or call any office of Manufacturers, and ask us about a ManuFund Account today.

Cause of death undetermined

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Joyce Murphy was laid to rest Saturday, Dec. 18, but the circumstances surrounding her death Tuesday, Dec. 7 are far from settled by Woods police.

Ms. Murphy, 47, was found dead in her Renaud backyard swimming pool about 10:30 p.m. Dec. 7 by members of her family. Investigators are still not sure whether her death was accidental or intentional.

"We know what happened, but we don't know why," Det. Lt. Peter Thomas said. Family members said no note was found and reported nothing abnormal about the day, no event that may have set off a suicide attempt, Thomas said.

The pool had been covered for the winter, police said, but the cover had slipped down into the water. Water depths above the cover ranged from two to three feet in the shallow end to four to five feet in the deep end.

There were indications of a fall onto the cover, Thomas said, pointing out that material and debris on the cover had been disturbed. There was no water on the outside ledge of the pool when police arrived, he added.

Complicating the investigation is the slow return from the Wayne County Medical Examiner's Office of the autopsy and toxicological reports, and an article in the Thursday, Dec. 9, Detroit News which called Ms. Murphy's death a suicide. The News reported the death was triggered after Ms. Murphy became despondent over her children's grades at

"There is no basis in fact for the statement in an earlier article for the suicide on a hasis of grades, Thomas said, adding that the police investigation showed nothing along that line. The delay in receiving reports from the county has meant no information is available about whether or not Ms. Murphy was under the influence whether or not Ms. Murphy was under the influence of drugs or alcohol when she died, police said. Family members reported she had been drinking during the day, reports said. Ms. Murphy was also under a doctor's care, but police did not say for what.

Without the autopsy, no cause of death can be set, police added, although it had been tentatively set as drowning. In addition, police may have difficulty.

drowning. In addition, police may have difficulty setting a time of death, because the temperature of the pool water was low enough to cool Ms. Murphy's body, making determination of the time of death by the coroner almost impossible, police said.

Ms. Murphy was last seen by her family about 7:30 that night, and her body was found about 10:30, reports said. Police are unsure about what happened during that three hours.
"It is entirely possible the death was accidental,"

Thomas said, adding the department has come to no official conclusions as yet.

Food and Friendship is a federal and state funded program provided by the Detroit Area Agency on Aging. The program offers hot lunches five days a week to seniors and their spouses 60 years of age and older who are residents of Wayne County.

About 240 lunches are served weekly, with an average of 48 served daily, the group said. In addition to the hot meal, the program also offers social, recreational, and educational pro-

CITY TREASURER

Editor's Note: Everybody knows what a great sports area this is. And while we've had plenty of excitement provided by our own North, South, ULS and the rest, there hasn't really been too much to cheer about, pro team championship-wise, for a long time. So long, in fact, that sports fans born after 1968 think World Series and Stanley Cup are names for new video games. I know it's a little late, but I thought we could use a little help from the North Pole.

Dear Santa,

I know you and the little guys are pretty busy right now, but we could really use some assistance down here. The metropolitan Detroit area is what we call a hotbed of sports. You name the sport and we follow it ... from pigeon racing to Piston basketball and everything in between. (Not including reindeer-hunting, of course.)

People around here invest a lot of time and money in sports. And while we usually have a lot of fun, we don't always get our money's-worth. In hopes that you might remedy that, I have enclosed this sports fans' Christmas

• For the Detroit Lions: A defensive secondary that isn't secondary; an offensive game plan that is daring, unpredictable and accurate at least half the time; a defense that specializes in the sack - applying it to opposing quarterbacks, not playing like they just got of it.

• For the Lions' Monte Clark: A cream puff schedule, receivers who can hold on to the football and one complete season without a second guess.

• For the Pistons: A great draft every year; no more three-games-in-four-nights schedules; eight extra lives apiece for Kent Benson and Kelly Tripucka; and a warmer Silverdome on those cold Pontiac nights.

• For the Red Wings: A 50-goal scorer on each line; defensemen who throw one hipcheck per game - and don't get a penalty for it; 10 more games per year against weak-sister Toronto; and one great draft choice per year until 1996.

• For the Express: A stable league to play in; more paying customers; young fans who will grow up in a hurry and become older, ticket-buying fans; another great championship season for a classy team.

• For the Tigers: An eastern division championship, just for starters; a relief pitcher with 35 saves and 10 wins in his arm; a 20-win season for Jack Morris; a batting title for Larry Herndon; warm weather in April and October.

• For Kirk Gibson: The ability to understand why people look up to him, to know that when they ask for autographs they really don't want a silly signature, they just want to be near him, to be able to say they actually spoke to a 'real, live, baseball player;' the wisdom to realize how lucky he is now, that in 30 years, he'll give anything for someone to recognize him and ask for an autograph; just one complete, injury-free year and the chance to show people he's as good as everyone hoped he would be; just to be able to go out and play, without the pressure.

• For Dave Rozema: A year's worth of Tae Kwon Do lessons; a good spanking and a lecture on how to act his age; a sound knee.

• For Lou Whitaker: A heavy-duty wallet to carry around all that money he collected this year.

• For Jim Campbell: A pocketbook transplant with

George Steinbrenner as the donor.

 For Tiger fans: Smelling salts for when they get a look at ticket prices; paper bags to put over their heads when the Tiger bullpen fails.

• For North baseball/football coach Frank Sumbera: Clones of Bill Babcock and Dave Bergeron, one each please, suited up and ready to play in 1983.

• For South High: Cardiac care for coaches of South teams which win games with 15-foot jump shots with four seconds left and 88-yard touchdown passes with two minutes left.

• For South basketball coach George Petrouleas: Another 19-3 season and a packed house every time the Blue Devils hit the floor.

• For University Liggett School: A bigger trophy case for all the varsity tennis and soccer state championship trophies ULS teams keep bringing home.

• For Our Lady Star of the Sea High: Many more talented athletes for a great program already filled with talented athletes and winning teams; and a special gift for the person who picked the nickname "Tunas" for Star's

Bantam Blues win tourney

The Grosse Pointe Bantam A Blues won the Michigan Regional of the Silver Stick Invitational Tournament. Eight teams were invited from Michigan to compete at St. Clair Shores Civic Arena for the right to go to Port Huron for finals against teams from throughout North America. The Blues task was formidable, since they would have to play teams who are leading their respective divisions in league competition.

The Blues' first rival was Fraser. The Pointe quickly broke on top with Ken Frank scoring early in the first period on a nice passing play by Phil Aho and Rob Kirsch. The Blues then went ahead 2-0 in the second period on a goal by Rob Kirsch with assists going to Pete Guzzaro and Frank. Fraser closed the gap to 2-1 early in the third period, but Kirsch iced the game three minutes later to preserve the 3-1 win.

The Blues' next opponent was the Warren Sabres. This close checking game was tied at the end of the first period, goal was scored by Pahl Zinn on a rink-long dash. Finally, late in the second period, the Blues took the lead on a goal by Kirsch, his first of three, on an assist by Matt Tanielian. The Blues broke the game open in the third period when Kirsch scored his other two goals to complete his hat trick. Pete Guzzardo and Phil Aho completed the Blues scoring in the 6-1

The two victories assured the Blues a spot in the semifinals, so the third game did not take on great importance. Unfortunately the Blues played that way, losing 2-1. Frank scored the lone Blues

The semifinal pitted the Blues

St. Clair Shores. The Blues scored first on a goal by Kirsch, but were quickly tied by Shores. The Blues went back on top when Guzzardo scored with an assist by Mike Amore. Shores again tied the score before the end of the first period. The score again seesawed early in the second period as Kirsch scored again for the Blues, but Shores scored a minute later.

The Blues finally took charge and routed St. Clair Shores as Kirsch completed his hat trick, Aho scored two goals and Frank scored on an assist by Jeff Lacca. The 7-4 victory was anchored by outstanding goaltending of Ken Brooks.

The Blues found themselves in the finals against a big and strong Southfield team. The Blues had been unable to beat Southfield on three previous tries, with one loss and two ties. But on chanpionship day the Blues were not to be denied. An early goal by John Kacpura set the tone and two more goals in the second period by Zinn Kirsch was all the Blues needed.

Pesky forechecking by Tim Bohan, Bob Hastings and Rob Rosiek kept Southfield bottled up in its own zone much or the game. When Southfield did manage to get into the Blues' zone, the defensive work of Joe Glaza, Amore, Lacca and Zinn, as well as the superb goaltending of Matt Dennis, prevented any scoring by Southfield. The 3-0 victory was certainly a team effort.

The Blues will now prepare to represent Grosse Pointe and Michigan in the final round scheduled for late January in Port Huron. The Silver Stick Tournament is dedicated to Citizenship International Goodwill The semifinal pitted the Blues and International Goody against neighboring archrival, through "Silver Stick Hockey."

Well, Santa, I think that's about it for this year. I hope you can come through, old buddy, because we've really been good. We don't throw things at hockey games, we've managed to keep the obscene chants down to a minimum and even the bleacher fans at Tiger Stadium are so proper and squeaky clean, you need to wear a three-piece suit just to get in up there.

Thanks in advance, Santa. And Merry Christmas.

South edges past North, evens record The South varsity basketball team well-rounded player," said Cruthis even its record at 2-2 with a 44-42 of Davey. But the South forward center should be give credit overtime win over crosstown rival North on Dec. 14 at South.

South's balanced attack was led by sharpshooting Tedd Aurelius, with 11 points. Brian Rathsburg scored eight and Chris Cruthis connected for seven, while grab-bing four rebounds. North center Mark Davey led all scorers with 18 points.

"We didn't play that well, but we hit shots at critical times,' said South head coach George Petrouleas. Some examples of South's big shooting were six of seven free throws down the stretch, and Aurelius' two pressure jumpers late in the game.

It was a game of many battles
Besides South vs. North, there was the coaching duel between Petrouleas and North skipper Ray Ritter and a shooting contest between opposing guards Aurelius and Bill McEnroe. There was also a battle of the big men: Cruthis vs. Davey. The Devils lost some of the battles but won the war.

The Cruthis-Davey confronta-tion was a fierce one. Davey's 18 points seemed to indicate that he got the best of it as the 6-6 North center was dominant inside and hit some key buckets. "He's a very also. Cruthis, who led South in scoring in its first three games, was a main part of the Devil's win with good defense and some key baskets of his own. South also got some good play from Jim Arnold, who played his best game so far this season. The 6-2 forward poured in six points and pulled down seven rebounds. Mike Williams continued his good board play with four rebounds in limited playing time.

The Devils had trouble executing in the first quarter; they were missing shots and North was clearly outboarding them. The Norsemen were also breaking South's ineffective press with ease. North led at the end of the first quarter, 9-4.

South came back in the second quarter with some good offensive rebounding. John O'Meara, who seemed to be all over the court, led a rally in which the Devils scored 10 straight points. Arnold, Brian Rathsburg and Cruthis also helped in sustaining the streak. The good offensive boarding allowed them to take numerous shots each time down the floor. At the half, South led 16-15.

The second half was close all the way. The traditional rivals exchanged costly mistakes late in the third quarter with the game deadlocked. The game was tied 25-25 heading into the fourth quar-

South fell behind after throwing the ball away, but they battled back and Arnold tied it by sinking two free throws with 2:58 left in regulation time. McEnroe, who scored 11 points for the Norsemen, put North up, 39-37, after the teams exchanged baskets for two minutes. With loss than 11 points and 12 points and 12 points. minutes. With less than one minute on the clock, the Devils worked the ball around and, with about 20 seconds remaining, Aurelius buried a 20-footer to tie the score at 39.

South got the ball back on a steal by Bill Rathsburg, but failed to score. The game then went into three-minute overtime period. Brian Rathsburg got the South crowd jumping when he hit on a jumper from just inside the top of the key. The teams then took turns at the line until, with South up, 42-40, Rathsburg put the Devils seemingly in the lead for good with a steal and a lay-up from Davey at the other end with 0:29 remaining. But North got a tip-in from Davey and then stole South's careless inbound pass with four seconds left, but McEnroe missed a jumper while heavily guarded, and the Devils had their second victory of the year. (By Stuart Whitney).

A jingle bell run

One hundred ninety-four chilled runners raced through the streets of downtown New Baltimore on Dec. 12, in the 1982 Jingle Bell Road Race. The run was the first race in the United States to feature runners wearing two large jingle bells on each shoe.

The fastest runner was Bill Leenhouts, who finished in 31:23. The first woman finisher was Pointer June McDonald (39:13); Masters runners were led by Gerald Bocci of Grosse Pointe who ran a 40:44.

There was also a three mile Sport Walk event in which running, jogging and heel toe racing were disallowed. About 200 people showed up, the youngest being three years old. After the race the athletes were invited to St. Mary's School for coffee, hot chocolate, cookies and hot bread. Plaques were handed out to age group winners. (By Craig Bagno).

South freshmen win

The game between South's devastating freshmen and Oakwood on Dec. 10 was close, but thoroughly dominated by South, (68-52). The win was led by center Tim Hudson, with 23 points, Dave Cameron, with 19 and Chris Astfalk with 18.

South was expected to have a somewhat crippled offense, due to the absence of star guard, P.J. Imesch. However, Jerry Joliet took over and did an exceptional Commenting on South's victory was head coach Tom Molloy, "We really executed our plays well, though we played a little shaky on offense." This win evens the Blue Devils record at 1-1.

Tim Hudson said of the win, "I thought the team played well as a whole unit, and we were hustling at our positions. We also had outstanding individual performances from everyone on the team."

The game was clearly led by South from the Start. Oakwood came back from a temporary 12-point deficit to cut it to four, but that was as close as they could come. (By Don Del Place).

Ski areas expect good holiday crowds

Skiers hoping to test new equipment on Christmas Day or those eager to welcome 1983 on Michigan's slopes should find adequate numbers of lodge rooms available although space could become limited as the holidays near, according to the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Advance reservations at most ski lodges with accommodations are about equal to last year's pace despite the state's continuing economic problems," said Auto Club Travel Operations Manager James Drury. "Ski areas traditionally take in up to 25 percent of their season's profits over the holiday period."

An Auto Club survey shows most resort operators believe that good snowfalls before the holidays could put their facilities on track toward the $143 million in revenues projected for this winter, which is 2 percent more than last season. The record is $145 million in revenues in 1978-79.

Of Michigan's 17 ski resorts with lodging facilities, space still is available over both the Christmas and New Year's holidays at these West Michigan lodges: Boyne Highlands, near Harbor Springs; Boyne Mt., near Boyne Falls; Crystal Mt., near Thompsonville; and Caberfae, near Cadillac.

In East Michigan, Tyrolean
Hills, near Gaylord, has lodging for both holidays. In the Upper Peninsula, Pine Mt., near Iron Mountain, and Ski Brule and Ski Homestead, both near Iron River, have space.

West Michigan ski areas with lodging available over Christmas only include: Sugar Loaf, near Traverse City, and Schuss Mt., near Mancelona, and the Upper Peninsula's Big Powderhorn, near Bessemer, Briar Mt., near Vul-

can, and Indianhead Mt., near Wakefield.

"Hotels and motels near the state's winter resort areas still have rooms available for both holidays and ski areas that are booked could have rooms open due to last-minute cancellations, said Drury, who suggested skiers should reserve now to avoid dis-ppointment.

During each of the 78-hour Christmas and New Year's holidays, motorists are expected to log 586 million miles in Michigan, about equal to last year. The Christmas holiday starts at 6 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 23, and ends at midnight Sunday, Dec. 26, while the New Year's period runs from 6 p.m. Dec. 30, to midnight Jan. 2.

Holiday vacationers seeking warmer climates should encounter airport crowds and airline seating availability similar to last year.

"Airlines serving popular sun sports, which include the Carribbean, Florida and the West Coast, are busiest," Drury said. "Although some report most flights are booked there are limited are booked, there are limited seats available for passengers with flexible schedules.

Major carriers recommend traveling before Dec. 20, on Christmas Day or Dec. 27 to 31. Heaviest air travel is expected from Dec. 20 to 24 and Jan. 1 to 5.

The Auto Club suggests travelers plan on arriving for flights at least one hour prior to departure. Passengers may want to arrange for transportation to and from the

The Auto Club's pre-holiday "fuel guage" survey of 300 stations along main state tourist routes shows gasoline in excellent supply. Thirty percent of the surveyed stations will be open daylight hours Christmas Day.

Board approves course changes

Grosse Pointe school board trustees last week approved re-commended high school curriculum changes for the 1983-84 school year.

School Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel said the changes reflected enrollment declines in some classes and a lack of student interest in other courses.

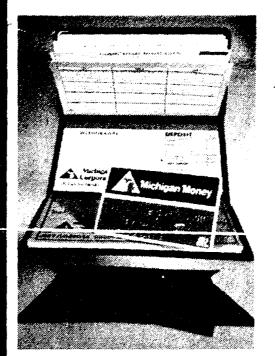

Classes which are not expected to be offered during the 1983-84 school year include Office Education, Acting, Forensics, Speech II, American Musical Theater, and Radio and TV Repair. Dr. Brum-mel said a final decision to drop the courses will not be made until the administration completes its comprehensive review of middle and high school programs.

Course additions to the high school curriculum for the coming school year include Adventures in German I and II, Italian IV and Botany/Horticulture. Other new offerings include Food and Fitness, a consolidation of two offerings in the Home Economics Department, and a credited course in Marching Band.

The high cost of high pay other day was a story that revealed one of the workers struck in Canada and threatened to curious aspects of Michigan's continuing economic depression — and helps explain why the depression continues in this state.

The story reported that the average Michigan worker earned $18,143 in 1981 which was the highest average for any state in the continental United States. That average was exceeded only by Alaska and the District of Columbia among the reporting units.

So how do you explain the fact that Michigan workers have the highest average pay in the continental United States at about the same time that Michigan also has the highest unemployment rate in the entire country at more than 17 percent?

WE'RE NOT sure we can explain the seeming contradiction but there is a relationship between the two figures, as we see it. The fact that Michigan's pay scales are higher than other states means that it has in part priced itself out of the market, especially in the manufacturing industries.

Much of the blame can be assessed against the United Automobile Workers who have consistently pushed wage rates higher, until the depression really begin to hit in Michigan. The UAW's success affected all wages in the state because one union's success leads to increased demands by other unions and by non-union employes as well.

As we all know, one result has been the loss of much of the domestic auto market to foreign auto makers, especially those in Japan. Part of the blame must be laid at the door of the UAW not only because of its success in obtaining higher wages but also because of its failure to contribute to increased productivity and efficiency. This failure led to a decline in quality at a time when imported cars were improving in quality. The auto companies bear a major share of the blame, of course. When they were riding high with annual sales skyrocketing, they did not drag their feet very much against the UAW's demands. Instead, they found it easier to cave in and simply pass along the increased costs to the car buyer. So long as sales surged to higher levels almost every year, nobody worried very much, even when smaller imports began to displace larger U.S. models.

Once the recession hit and smaller foreign models began to take an ever larger share of the market, the picture changed. But even then domestic auto makers were slow to emphasize quality control, a factor that also had helped foreign sales in this country.

It is true that the domestic auto makers have persuaded the UAW to make some concessions employed.

Hidden away inside a Detroit newspaper the in the past year or so. Recently, Chrysler strike in this country unless some of the concessions were restored. The Chrysler workers won the argument, even through they still lag behind similar workers at General Motors and Ford. But the auto workers still are among the highest paid workers in this country.

> The UAW is proud of its record, of course, but its success has meant that decreasing numbers of workers are hired. Instead, management finds it can save money by installing more and more machines, further automating factories and reducing the number of workers needed. In related industries, pay scales also have been pushed higher and even in public service in this state pay tends to be well above the national average. In Wayne County, for example, workers in many classifications are being paid more than workers in identical jobs in county government anywhere else in the na-

> While Michigan workers were first in average earnings in the continental United States with $18,143 in 1981, among industrial states New York was next with earnings of $17,132 and the average for the entire country was $15,691. In other words, the differences between Michigan's average earnings and the national average and the average in another high-pay industrial state such as New York were sub-

> The Labor Department's figures were based on reports submitted by employers participating in state and federal unemployment insurance programs and covered roughly 90 percent of the U.S. civilian labor force. According to these reports, the average pay increase for all workers in 1981 over the previous year averaged 9.2 percent, but in this respect Michigan workers lagged somewhat, receiving only a 7.8 percent hike.

TRADITIONALLY, Michigan people as well and cut taxes as UAW members have been proud of the success of the auto industry and even the fact that its pay scales were higher than most if not all other manufacturing industries in the United States. Now, however, the state is paying a severe price for those high rates and so are hundreds of thousands of workers.

Among all unions, the UAW has been a leader in supporting programs for social reform. In our opinion, it is the UAW's credit that it takes a broader view of its role than more traditional unions have done. Yet it is ironical that this union is also contributing to a greater earnings gap in Michigan between those whose pay soars to record levels — and those who are un-

A Lucas spokesman said later that the new county executive "will use the report as a solid basis for restructuring county government," but added that there will be "some revisions" in the plan before Lucas submits it to the new In fact, the key to county reform may well be Wayne County Board of Commissioners early the recommendations that Lucas himself next year.

UNLESS LUCAS makes major modifications in the plan — and it is assumed he won't because of his expressions of confidence in the respected group that drafted it - the plan no doubt will arouse a good deal of criticism in some political circles and in some county of-

For openers, two of the major recommendations in the proposed plan — dismantling the Wayne County Road Commission and the drain commissioner's office and putting their duties directly under the new county executive would require a referendum of county voters that could come as early as November, 1983. Since both agencies long have been regarded as independent political fiefdoms subject to little control, the opposition could seek to scuttle not only these proposals but the entire reorganization plan if the issues get on the ballot.

If Lucas and then the county board accept the plan virtually as recommended, county governmental operations would be grouped into six major departments, each headed by a per- excellent proposals for reorganization.

eventually proposes to the county board and the vigor with which he pushes for their adoption. A couple of commissioners appeard to be supportive and one said the plan needed "only a few refinements." That should put Lucas on notice that the county board may attempt to 'improve' on his proposals in the same way that the same body killed off reform proposals in the past.

The public would be well advised to keep an eye on the "revisions" Lucas plans to make and the "refinements" some commissioners are talking about. Some changes may be required when Lucas reviews his committee's recommendations but in view of the county's record of political opportunism, the public has a right to be concerned about the use of such words. Too often in the past they have been used to describe proposals to weaken proposed reforms rather than to strengthen them.

And by the time Lucas forwards his own cerned with Substance Abuse, recommendations to the county board, we hope he will at least have read his own committee's

"I have to tell you," said my brother-in-law, "that you may not be able to stand it."

"Living with another human being is never easy," I said.

"Living with THIS human being," said Richard, "is the ultimate test of survival skills. I mean: she yells at you, in the middle of the night, and tells you to stop breathing! And when you tell her, quite reasonably, that if you did that you'd be dead, she says, 'At least then I'd get a good night's sleep' I know she has very acute hearing, but that's not a kind thing to say."

I know he's not exaggerating. It has been 20 years since I've shared a room with my sister, but the memories are vivid: Judy was born able to hear pins drop and leaves fall, and her first words were, "Shut up so I can get some sleep." Since the only noise I was making at the time was a slight woosh that accompanied hugging my Teddy Bear, I found her request somewhat unreasonable. So I threw the Teddy Bear at her. And she cried. And our mother came in and told me I was a really rotten Big Sister. Which I was, probably, but I had provocation.

Well . . . we grew up and, grown up, got to rather like each other. Not sharing a bedroom helped. Judy in a living room, dining room or den can be a very delightful person. It's only in the bedroom that she becomes Mr. Hyde with Elephant Ears, and that, upon their marriage, became Dick's problem. I have to give him credit: he's endured through the Ear Plug Era, the Ear Muff Era and, for the past year, the Era of the Sound Sleep Machine; this is a marvelous little number that plays "soothing" water sounds that are supposed to mask other sounds (like breathing), encouraging a quiet drift-off to Lullaby Land. For Judy. Dick does not find the water sounds particularly soothing, since Judy, ignoring the machine's lower registers (wavelets lapping a sand beach, e.g.), goes for the biggies.

For the past year, Dick has been sleeping at the foot of Niagara Falls.

"Do you really think," I asked, "that I won't be able to

"Ummm," said Richard, "I do (stand it, he meant), of course . . . but then, I am a Saint. You, unfortunately,

Sanctity never ran in our family. A love of the theater, on the other hand, did and does: none of us ever had a burning desire to be in it, but we are the ultimate audience, ready for anything, from "Antigone" to "Sugar Babies." So, when the Associates for the Performing Arts, Detroit Institute of Arts, offered a late October Tour of Britain with theater EVERY night but one, and that one taken up by a Stately Dinner at Castle Howard (the "Brideshead" of television's "Revisited"), Judy and I decided to give ourselves a pre-Christmas present — and go. Even if it meant we'd be back to square one, sharing a bedroom.

"It wasn't the bedroom that got me so much with you," Judy said, referring, pre-trip, to our pre-pubertal days as roomies. "It was the bathroom. You never let me in it. You've got to promise, when we're in England, to let me into the bathroom every so often."

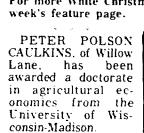

"I plan to," I said. "I wouldn't want to spend 10 days with an increasingly dirty person. But YOU'VE got to promise not to yell at me when I breathe."

"I promise to try," said Judy, "but sometimes it just gets away from me. I really do have very acute hearing, you know.

I knew. I remembered when the doctor tested her, because no one could believe this child could hear what she claimed she heard. Judy could pick up a tuning fork's vibrations through three closed doors and down a

In the month before we flew off to England, I practiced quiet breathing and how to get completely clean in a less-than-10-second shower. Judy bought three new pairs of ear plugs. We were determined to work at accommodating one another, and the accommodation worked, largely because we were going at such a pace that, at the end of the day (which was generally in the early hours of the morning). I was too pooped to take more than a 10-second shower and Judy was too pooped to respond if a brick fell through the window, let alone a leaf outside it.

And we were having a ball. It was a serendipitous experience; everything worked, even the things that didn't, like our inimitable bus driver, Bert, who, we decided, should form his own tour company: Backwards on Back Roads through Britain. Without Bert, whose map-reading skills surpassed Wrong-Way Corrigan's, we would have gotton to bed much sooner every night but would have formed a group camaraderie much later in the trip. From the beginning, Bert was a unifying experience. Everyone knew, given a choice, he'd take the wrong road — and refuse to admit it, even in the face of passenger mutiny.

We liked the people we were traveling with. We liked (with one exception) the plays we saw. We liked the experience of eating grouse, if not the taste of it, and we actually rather enjoyed sharing a room.

Although, waking up in the first room we shared, at the Peveril of the Peak Hotel in Izaak Walton country, I had a moment of panic — "Did I breathe too much?" — when I saw Judy's feet on the pillow in the next bed instead of her head.

'It is in no way your fault,'' Judy explained, and went on to explain that some people do not sleep well unless they align their bodies with the poles (north and south), that she was one of these people and that Peveril's alignment was out of whack.

"Well, that's a new one," I said. "I don't remember you having this problem when we were children."

"I didn't," she said. "Or maybe I did, but I didn't know it. It's something I discovered as an adult, when I wasn't sharing a room with you any longer. You think, as my sister, you know everything about me, but you

And that, when it comes right down to it, is the real delight of sharing a room with a sister after 20 years: learning that there's more to learn about her. That's the nicest pre-Christmas present we gave each other.

Of course, "plus ca change, plus c'est la meme hose." There was the night, driving home (in the wrong direction) on Bert's bus, that, thinking Judy was dead to the world, I dug down in my purse and pulled out an unopened Kit Kat bar. Thinking to eat it all by myself. Being very careful to unwrap it quietly, so as not to disturb her ...

"Half of that's mine, you know."

I jumped. "Good lord! I thought you were sound

Husky sales in a "thin ket."

Retailers will generate one trillion dollars in sales this year using newspapers as their basic advertising medium. Why? Because newspapers reach the very few consumers who are ready to buy...right now.

On any given day, only a very small percentage of all consumers are actively in the marketplace for any particular product. When's the last time you bought a refrigerator or a new pair of shoes or even a bar of soap?

And these relatively few consumers must be divided among all brands and all retail outlets which carry the item. The trillion dollar retail business resolves itself into a multitude of "thin markets."

To get a share of this "thin" business, retailers advertise consistently to stay top-of-mind with those customers who are ready to buy. They use newspapers because 7 out of 10 adults read a newspaper on the average day and newspapers ring the cash register.

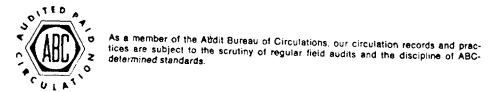

We believe all advertisers can profit from the lessons learned by retailers. Don't limit newspapers to product introductions or coupons or special promotions. Use them day after day to reach your "thin market" and generate sales. Really, all advertising has only one goal...to move the merchandise.

Good holiday cooks' season

Holiday cooks and bakers h ve virtually no real shortages to contend with this season. Some prices of basic ingredients are even below those of a year ago.

Egg prices strengthened earlier. but market analysts say egg prices this month will still run below year-ago prices. The reason: shell egg and egg product demand has not been strong this year. Most family-size recipes are ormulated for medium or large eggs. These two sizes can be used interchangeably with good results in most recipes.

Dried fruits are a component of many Christmas holiday foods. The raisin crop was first pegged at 270,000 to 300,000 tons, but rains and the resulting mold cut it by more than half. In spite of this shortened crop, the raisin supply will be adequate for the holidays and beyond, but prices are increasing 10 to 20 percent. The fairly high carryover from a bumper 1981 crop is making up some of the difference.

The dried prune crop is now estimated at 125,000 tons: 22 percent below last year's crop. Movement has been somewhat slow for dried apricots and dried mixed fruits. Prices on both items remain about the same. The United States Department of Agriculture estimated the peanut crop at 3.43 billion pounds, as of Nov. 1. This is 14 percent below last year's bumper crop but well above 1980's short crop. The good supply of peanuts is reflected in lower prices for peanuts in the shell, jar peanuts and peanut but-

The 1982 United States pecan crop is 39 percent below last year's. Because of a large carryover and only moderate demand. pecan prices should hold steady
