The first of two "attaboys" this week goes to Patrick J. Harity, of Vendome Road, who recently received a $300 check from Readers' Digest for a contribution to the magazine's "Campus Comedy" department.

The 35-word anecdote appears in this month's issue and concerns two students working to earn extra credit in a genetics class. We don't know how Pat did in school, but he clearly made the grade with Readers' Digest.

Our second "attaboy" goes to the Merry Mouse, in the Village, for its selection to the 1983 edition of "America's Best Specialty Food Shops," published and distributed by the Bartels Publishing Company, of Naperville, Ill.

According to Bartels, the Merry Mouse's inclusion in the cheese section was based on a rigid set of criteria, including the number of varieties offered, product quality level, merchandising excellence, attitude of personnel, cleanliness of premises and knowledgeability in all aspects of retail cheese marketing.

Gouda for them!

Yes, we have no bananas. Are the kids always pestering you for between-meal snacks? Try whipping up one of America's favorite dessert treats.

First, mix together some skim milk, sugar, water, nonfat-dry milk, hydrogenated coconut and palm kernel oil, corn syrup and modified tapioca starch.

Blend in dextrin, sodium caseinate, salt, dextrose, sodium stearyl lactylate and artificial flavor.

Finally, fold in a pinch of polysorbate 60, micro-crystalline cellulose, sorbitan monostearate, xanthan gum, carrageenan, cellulose gum, guar gum and artificial coloring. Then pop it in the freezer and serve it to the family.

If you're not much of a cook, (or a chemist), just dash out and buy the kids some banana or vanilla Jell-O Pudding Pops instead. By the way, notice anything missing from the recipe? Right! No banana or real vanilla.

Remember: Without chemicals, life itself would be impossible. Thanks and a tip of the hat to Omni magazine for the information.

Merchants say yule sales were good

By Joanne Gouleche

While the nation's major retailers reported sluggish Christmas sales last week, several Grosse Pointe merchants say business perked in December. Some even added December was their biggest holiday season ever.

In an informal survey of Grosse Pointe businesses, it was evident last month's holiday shopper was on the prowl for bargains and last-minute markdowns, merchants said.

"I would say our sales were even to last year. But, I might add, we found shoppers to be shopping more competitively than we have ever seen before," said Bob Marquarde, manager of the J.C. Penney store in the 7-Mack Shopping Center.

"I think we saw increases in women's as well as men's fashions. Those seemed to be the highlights," Marquarde said.

NATIONALLY, J.C. Penney recorded a 2.4 percent sales gain in December or $1.9 billion since 1981, according to a retail report published in the Detroit Free Press.

The Pointe's other major retail-

The school system's administration building, (right) at 389 St. Clair Avenue, is the only building put up for sale so far by the Board of Education. There have been no buyers yet. If the committee studying the sharp enrollment declines in the schools have their way, the administration building will be the only one ever put on the market. The committee recommended closing at least one school because of the drop in number of students, but also said the school board should not divest itself of any property in case enrollment picks up in the future.

Keir murder conviction upset

By Tom Greenwood
and Susan McDonald

Citing a 1982 Michigan Supreme Court ruling pertaining to a defendant's rights, the Michigan Court of Appeals last week reversed the 1981 second degree murder conviction of 15-year-old Farms resident David McKendrick.

McKendrick had pled guilty to the Oct. 6, 1980 rape-strangulation of 81-year-old Elizabeth Keir, of Kerby Road. He was sentenced by Judge Richard Dunn to 20-40 years in prison and sent to the Riverside Correctional Facility in Ionia to receive psychiatric care.

The Appeals Court reversed the guilty plea "because the court failed to inform the defendant at plea taking proceedings that he could not be placed on probation."

Appeals Court Judges Barbara MacKenzie, Kenneth H. Sanborn and S. Jerome Bronson signed the decision.

Three arrested in jewelry store theft

Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Woods police collaborated in the arrest of three Detroit men in connection with the early Sunday morning, Jan. 9, robbery of Pat Scott Jewelers, 19491 Mack in the Woods, in which $18,000 worth of watches were taken.

Woods police were alerted to the break-in about 3:40 a.m. by an alarm at the store. Officers discovered the front window and two display cases in the store had been smashed with a large piece of concrete found behind one of the display cases.

Woods police broadcast to Harper Woods to be alert for any vehicle heading for the freeway. A few moments later, according to reports, Harper Woods officers broadcast they were pursuing a

The case is remanded back to Wayne County Circuit Court and Judge Richard Dunn. If McKendrick is re-tried, it will be on a charge of second degree murder, and not the first degree murder charge he originally faced.

The Wayne County Prosecutors office has indicated it will challenge the reversal, and has 20 days from the Friday, Jan. 7 ruling date to present its appeal to the Michigan Supreme Court.

McKendrick, now 17, will remain in custody.

Farms Chief of Police Robert K. Ferber called the decision a "mockery of the criminal justice system."

"It's all up to the courts now," he said. "We'd only be involved if there was a new trial. I myself didn't know about the decision until I read about it in the paper. No one ever notified us about it."

McKendrick's parents, Robert and Virginia McKendrick, were taken by surprise by the reversal, but had "no comment" on the decision.

Mrs. Keir's battered body was found by neighbors sprawled on the living room floor of her small Kerby Road home. She had been beaten, raped and strangled. A search showed the home had been ransacked.

After a thorough investigation, Farms Detectives Sam Cardella, Earl Field and Sgt. George Van Tiem compiled a list of suspects in the murder. Among them was David McKendrick, a freshman at South High School, who had earlier contacts with the police.

POLICE RECEIVED a break in the case when McKendrick's parents reported their son was missing, and turned over assorted pieces of jewelry they thought David might have stolen. The jewelry was traced back to Mrs. Keir.

McKendrick was arrested at South High School on Oct. 9, 1980. In an ironic twist, it was learned buying up higher-priced aquamarine and diamond earrings, and custom-made pieces.

AT WOMEN'S apparel stores such as Kay Baum and Miner's of Grosse Pointe, sales tallies for December showed gains over a year ago.

"We did very well. Our sales were actually up over last year," said Miner's manager Virginia Park. Austrian wool jackets and holiday dresses sold very well, as did bottles of Paul Newman's salad dressing. "We sold that by the case," Ms. Park said.

Sales were down slightly at Personally Yours, according to owner Judy Davis. "I can't complain. Sales were down a little, but all in all, it was a good year. Everyone waited until the last minute to shop. They were watching their pennies."

Local men's clothiers said 1982 holiday sales were up, too. At Carl Sterr, receipts showed sales "significantly up from last year," according to owner Sterr.

Picard-Norton recorded "a very good Christmas" with sweaters, that McKendrick had been held by the police on Oct. 7 — the day after the murder — after a brief scuffle with school officials at Brownell School.

After his arrest, McKendrick confessed to the murder, saying he had gone to Mrs. Keir's back door and asked to use her phone. While in the kitchen, McKendrick said Mrs. Keir picked up a knife, and he went "berserk". He said he blacked out then and didn't remember anything else.

It took Farms police 50 hours to solve the murder. At his sentencing, McKendrick said he was sorry for the crime and said he was "high on mescaline" at the time.

Schools seek millage first — then face closing issue

By Joanne Gouleche

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education announced Monday it will go to voters this March to renew a portion of its current operating and library millage to run the district through the 1985 school year.

Trustees approved a millage proposal of 25.35 mills for general operation of the school district and 1.30 mills to manage the public libraries.

That request represents a slight reduction from the millage approved by voters three years ago when electors authorized the Board of Education to levy 26.55 mills for general operations and 1.42 for the libraries. (Each mill represents $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property).

School trustee Joan Hanpeter was absent from Monday's meeting, but earlier had cautioned the board "to consider the economics of the community" when voting on the millage proposal. Monday's board vote was passed without any discussion from other board members.

The millage election is tentatively set for Monday, March 7, but the final stamp of approval for that date is expected to come this week from the Wayne County Election Scheduling Commission.

The March election was hit with a new legal twist earlier this month when school administrators learned of a state Supreme Court ruling forbidding school districts to levy separate millages to those cities and townships in its jurisdiction.

According to an article in the Macomb Daily, the East Grand Rapids school district was ordered by the court to levy a common millage to cities and townships in its boundaries. It had been a practice for the district to levy one less mill to the district's townships, which is usually used to run township government, the article said.

The court also ordered the East Grand Rapids school district to refund excess taxes to those residents affected by the school system's long-standing practice.

Within the Grosse Pointe school district, Grosse Pointe Township is levied one less mill, according to school officials. But after a closer look at the court's ruling, administrators said the district will begin to levy a common millage against the township, as well as to Grosse Pointe City, Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe Park, Grosse Pointe Woods and Grosse Pointe Shores.

"In study with our counsel this past week, we learned that the case (in East Grand Rapids) indeed has an impact on Grosse Pointe," said School Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel.

The last day to register to vote in the March millage election is Monday, Feb. 7. Persons may do so at appropriate city or township clerk offices. Applications for absentee ballots are available at board offices, 389 St. Clair.

Park faces zoning decision

By Susan McDonald

Grosse Pointe Park's planning commission will make its fourth attempt to adopt a new master plan and review an accompanying zoning ordinance at a meeting Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Three earlier meetings on the documents were cancelled because two-thirds of the commission necessary for action were not present.

THE MASTER plan attempts to forecast the city's needs and potential redevelopment for decades to come. Its recommendations are advisory. The 75-page zoning ordinance implements those recommendations and upgrades requirements for building in many areas of the city. Both were prepared by Villan-Leman and Associates, planning consultants.

While the bulk of the document deals with commercial areas of the city, it was the topic of housing that sparked most concern and interest from residents at earlier meetings. Several residents, including Carol Ward, of Bedford Road, expressed concern that the ordinance does nothing to prevent government-financed high-rise

Citizen panel recommends switch to K-5 elementary

By Joanne Gouleche

Parents, teachers and school principals packed Monday's Board of Education meeting to hear a 12-member citizen panel recommend that "serious consideration" should be given to closing one middle school by the 1986-87 school year because of declining enrollment in the district.

That decision should only be made if declining enrollment trends persist, a point made clear at Monday's meeting by Edward Deeb, chairman of the committee studying the future organization of the school district.

Deeb presented the Board of Education with the committee's final recommendations of its year-long look at the problem of declining enrollment in the Grosse Pointe public schools. Along with the inch-thick final report, Deeb also handed out summaries of the committee's 10 recommendations to those who attended the meeting.

"The primary consideration throughout this investigation was 'What school organizational plan best promotes quality education in grades K-12?' and 'How can present school facilities best be used to enhance quality education and educational opportunities in the Grosse Pointe Public School System?'" Deeb said.

The report says the committee was "guided by one primary criterion, quality education."

Following is a breakdown of the committee's recommendations:

- Elementary enrollment districts should be redistricted and or consolidated. "This may result in one or more elementary schools not being used for elementary education." The committee did not recommend any specific school consolidation.

- A minimum of two sections per grade in each elementary school wherever possible.

- A change in the school organizational structure to K-5 in the elementary schools; 6-8 in the middle schools; and 9-12 in the high schools. In doing so, the committee stressed "emphasis on the sensitivity of the transition from K-5 to 6-8 levels."

- Consideration of full-day kindergarten and "latch-key" school programs, along with a recommendation that continuing education and senior citizen activities be maintained in available school buildings. "A recommendation is also made that the Board of Education adopt a concept of a community center (or centers) operating within the public school system."

- One middle school should be seriously considered to shut down by the 1986-87 school year if declining enrollment trends persist.

- The consolidation of the district's two high schools if declining enrollment "continues to impact the high schools."

- Property within the school district should continue to be owned by the Board of Education for future community use "thus retaining the option to reopen buildings, if warranted by enrollment changes."

- The philosophy statement of the Grosse Pointe Public School System should be updated.

- If the facilities presently housing the branch libraries are closed, consideration should be given to provide two branch libraries at the extreme ends of the school district.

- In order to meet quality education objectives, a minimum size of 240 students in each K-5 elementary school building is desired and recommended.

Deeb said more than 50 persons, representing a cross-section of the community put 2,000 man-hours into the study since last March.

"We tried to be open with a very open environment. We wanted to do it from day No. 1," Deeb

Committee recommends school closing

said. "We had nothing to hide. Everything was an open book." Deeb admitted there was some

"pulling and tugging" between panel members concerning the shifting of the sixth grade to the middle schools.

"It was one of our toughest decisions. There was a tremendous amount of sensitivity expressed," Deeb said. "We explored all kinds of options throughout our discussions, but the decision was made on the total effect (the decision) will have on the school system."

The report points out the present organizational plan of the school system, K-6, 7-8 and 9-12, "lacks adequate program continuity and time for establishment of peer relationships." While the recommended K-5, 6-8 and 9-12 would improve middle school continuity, it also would require closing of "some neighborhood elementary schools," according to the report.

Enrollment in the Grosse Pointe public schools has dropped off by some 54 percent since the district's peak year of 1970 when 13,337 attended the public schools.

Last fall, official enrollment in the system was 7,805. Projected enrollment for 1986-87 school year is 6,287.

At Monday's board meeting, trustees commended the citizen committee for its work, although trustee Jon Gandelot, referring to the fact the report did not name schools to be closed, quipped: "Yeah, now the ball is in our court."

School Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel said work is already underway for the next step in the administration's study of enrollment declines. The school board is expected to make its final decision regarding the committee's recommendations sometime this spring.

Copies of the committee's study are available at all public schools, public libraries and at board offices, 389 St. Clair.

City woman robbery victim

A Grosse Pointe City woman was the victim this week of an armed robbery in front of her home, according to police.

According to reports, the woman exited off I-94 at Cadieux Road on Sunday, Jan. 9, at about 2 a.m. and followed a route to Warren to Marsailles to Mack to get to her University home. When the woman pulled into her driveway, she was approached by a man wielding a gun, who ordered her to lie on the ground, police said.

Reports said the man then grabbed the woman's purse and fled in a full-size dark-colored vehicle.

The victim called Grosse Pointe City police a few hours later and reported her purse had been found in Detroit with all but $2 missing, police said. Detroit police also verified they had just received a similar report of an armed robbery in the vicinity of Seven Mile and Van Dyke.

The suspect was described as a black male, about six feet, four inches tall, with short hair and wearing a light-colored jacket. Police have no suspects in the incident, but believe the man followed the woman when she left the freeway. Anyone with any information about the incident should call the police department at 886-3200.

Zoning decisions in the Park

The planning consultant said the city couldn't zone against multiple-family developments because "so much of the city would be out of conformance with the ordinance that it would have no effect. You'd end up with so many non-conforming properties, so many appeals, so many hardship cases, that the council would be out of business."

IN AN EARLIER report to the city council, Leman said he thinks it would be good for some kind of multiple-family housing to be built in the Park. Such housing would primarily benefit senior citizens who, he said, are being forced to leave the community when they can no longer afford to maintain large single-family homes. Leman said the number of senior citizens in the Park has actually declined since the 1980 census for that reason. In most cities, the number of elderly persons is increasing.

"You have a hard time beginning your life in this community and ending it here," Leman said at an earlier meeting. Multiple-family housing would "open up some possibilities for the elderly population," he said.

"What the ordinance does is improve on what we have now," Leman said. "Today, you can build on any lot with 2,500 square sports coats, turtle necks and ties as popular gifts.

Manager Debbie Baun of the Campus Shop said things "went very well" last month and "sales were up from last year. We had a very good Christmas."

Books are always practical gift items, and two local bookstores, The Book Village and The Book Shelf reported brisk business last month.

Gwenn Samuel of the Book Village said she saw sales "significantly boom" in December with shoppers buying up copies of James Michener's "Space," William Buckley's "Atlantic High" and Andy Rooney's "And More With Andy Rooney."

FRANK SLADEN of the Book Shelf said calendars sold well, too, but Garfield was in and Snoopy was out.

Pointe Electronics recorded its biggest December in recent times, said manager Sloane Barbour.

blue Ford two-door on Moross at a high rate of speed.

Harper Woods officers followed the car onto Westbound I-94 and finally stopped the vehicle at Harper and Outer Drive.

While officers were questioning the driver, two others noticed a pillowcase containing what looked like watches under the passenger seat of the car.

Found in the pillowcases were 86 men's and women's watches with a retail value of about $18,000, police said.

Three men were arrested last October for attempting to rob the jewelry store.

Cottage quiet about shared service talks with HFH

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Cottage Hospital and Henry Ford Hospital, one of the state's largest medical agencies, are discussing possible shared service agreements between their facilities.

No hospital officials would discuss details of the possible agreements, except to say the talks were very preliminary and no decisions had been made by either hospital's board of trustees.

"We currently have a joint purchasing agreement with Cottage,"

Patricia McCarthy, director of public relations at Henry Ford said. "We are discussing the possibility of additional shared service opportunities."

The agreements would "perhaps be in areas of respective strengths," Ms. McCarthy said, adding she had no further information on what the discussions are about.

"WHAT YOU'RE talking about is one of the considerations for long-range planning by the hospital," Madge Lawson, Cottage

Hospital public relations director said. "This is one of those things we look at as we look toward the future."

Ms. Lawson said that although the agreements were being discussed, the talks were still "very preliminary" and didn't reflect any action the hospital is planning to take.

Both hospitals pointed out that mutual agreements between hospitals were commonplace. "In today's regulatory climate, hospitals are linked closely to reimbursement from state and federal funds," Ms. McCarthy said. "The idea is to seek ways to offer the best services for the lowest cost to the patient."

"This is the trend where hospitals are working out cooperative agreements to provide care in areas of mutual strengths," she continued. "This is an ordinary occurrence among hospitals."

HENRY FORD currently has cooperative agreements with several area hospitals, Ms. McCarthy said, including Cottage, Wyandotte General, Sinai, Lapeer County Hospital, Metropolitan Hospitals and others throughout Michigan, Ohio and Minnesota.

"We are continually talking with these hospitals and others to find ways to work together to develop areas of mutual interest and to provide cost-effective, quality patient care," she said.

Cottage has a cooperative agreement with Bon Secours for CT scanning, Ms. Lawson said. The hospital also recently looked at Harrison Hospital's lifeline equipment, she said, adding such discussions are frequent among hospitals as they plan for the future.

According to a member of the Cottage medical staff, doctors were told of the possibility of some kind of shared service agreements with Henry Ford at a meeting Tuesday, Jan. 4, by hospital officials. Some kind of joint venture between the two hospitals was being discussed and would be decided by the board of trustees, they said.

THE MEDICAL staff met again Monday night to discuss the possible agreements and make opinions known to the Cottage board of trustees, a staff member said.

Cottage officials would not comment on medical staff reports that the agreements would make more specialists available for patient treatment, and would help the facilities get favorable lending rates for bond issues and borrowing.

"I wonder whether we are being kept in the dark about the agreement," one doctor, who did not want to be identified, said, "or whether there really is no information about them."

Dugan faces shoplifting charges

By Tom Greenwood

A 19-year-old convict, recently released to a Mt. Clemens community residence for prisoners, was arrested for shoplifting by Farms police Sunday afternoon, Jan. 9.

According to police reports, security personnel at the Mack-Moross Sears store reportedly observed Daniel Joseph Dugan slip a $30 socket set inside his trousers, then attempt to leave the store.

Dugan was reportedly apprehended outside the store, and subdued after a brief struggle. He was arraigned before Farms Municipal Judge Robert Pytell on Tuesday morning, Jan. 11 on charges of larceny from a building.

Dugan pled innocent, and was given a $25,000 cash or surety bond. He was then moved to the Wayne County Jail on a prisoner detention charge placed by the Michigan Department of Corrections.

On Sept. 9, 1982, Dugan pled guilty to one count of breaking and entering in the Farms and was sentenced to two and a half to 15 years in Ionia Prison. In exchange for immunity, Dugan also cleared the books on 29 other burglaries in Grosse Pointe Farms.

Because of prisoner over-crowding, Dugan was released to a Mt. Clemens community residence for prisoners on Dec. 1, after serving two and a half months in a medium security prison.

According to Michigan Department of Correction officials, Dugan was only allowed out of the facility to attend CETA training school. His whereabouts were controlled by a check out log naming times to and from destinations.

"Danny Dugan did not have permission to be out of Macomb County," said Graham Walker, field agent for the Department of Corrections.

"Dugan is still a prisoner under our system. He was not out on parole. Our department has put a detention hold on Dugan. Even if he is given a low bond, he will not be allowed back out on the streets. He will be re-booked and detained."

Walker explained that a series of administrative hearings will be held on Dugan by the Department of Corrections, independent of the court system.

"If Dugan is found guilty of misconduct by our department, he will be recommended for a higher level of custody," said Walker.

Dr. Linthicum honored for community service

Dr. Robert Linthicum, who has led his parish in ministry to senior citizens and residents of Detroit's east side, was presented the 1981-82 Community Service Award by the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association.

Dr. Linthicum, senior pastor of the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, was honored "in appreciation for outstanding contributions to the community."

The pastor was instrumental in founding Seniors Onward for Change (now called Services for Older Citizens) and helped launch a luncheon program for seniors housed in Brownell Middle School. In 1977 and 1978, he directed the Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association in an analysis of the Grosse Pointe community which has shaped the association's ministry and become a primary resource document for the community. He is a director of the Business and Professional Association and recording secretary of its board.

Under Dr. Linthicum's leadership, the mission and community budget of the Woods church has doubled as ministries have been expended for senior citizens and developmentally disabled persons. Perhaps the church's most innovative program is its work with several inner-city churches in the Jefferson-Chalmers neighborhood on Detroit's east side, including a youth enrichment program of athletics, tutoring, arts and crafts and counseling, a food pantry, referral services, advocacy and emergency aid, a mission church school and housing program.

Just a few days before he received the Community Service Award last month, Dr. Linthicum and his son Bob returned to the U.S. from a month's stay in the Far East. The two visited the Aberdeen Boat People and Chinese Christian churches in Hong Kong, spent time among the Hmong villagers in a refugee resettlement camp in Thailand and visited Bangkok's floating market.

The high point of the trip was 10 days working with Mother Teresa and her Missionaries of Charity among the poorest of the poor in Calcutta, India.

Dr. Linthicum distributed food to about 2,000 families each day and worked with abandoned orphan children. His son first worked with orphans then with paralyzed elderly men, bathing and feeding them. It was a dramatic experience for both the Linthicums.

"I find I can no longer take for granted our style of life," Dr. Linthicum said. "It is clearly a gift I don't deserve, every bit as much as the Indians don't deserve the poverty that they are born into. The only relevant question is what we will do with that gift. Will we use it for our own enjoyment or use it to benefit others?"

Computers can play chess, do high math, process words, recognize speech, compose music of sorts, analyze statistics, or in brief, duplicate countless functions of the human mind. But they can't generate humor on purpose.

Woods relents to SDM transfer

It may have taken almost three months but the new owners of the Grosse Pointe Woods Market will be able to go to Lansing for the transfer of an Specially Designated Merchant license for the sale of beer and wine carry-outs.

The Woods council voiced no objection to the transfer of the SDM license from Adren, John and Phillip Roelandt's store to new owner Fadyla Kasyonan after being told the building had corrected plumbing and electrical code violations.

The council first took up the matter last Nov. 15, when the request for transfer was first heard. The council asked the matter to be tabled until the first meeting in December until a property maintenance inspection could be done by the building department.

The city then requested and received an extension of the deadline for filing objections and non-compliance with local ordinances from the state Liquor Control Commission. A property inspection turned up plumbing and electrical code violations. A certificate of occupancy was later issued Dec. 17 after the final inspection by the building department.

The council voted 5-2 for voicing no objection to the transfer. Councilmen Jean Rice and Thomas Fahrner cast the no votes.

Woods considers CDBG housing loan changes

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Faced with the possibility of dwindling funds from the federal government, the city of Grosse Pointe Woods is considering a change in its Community Development Block Grant housing rehabilitation program to stretch what money there is and make more loans possible.

The change, first brought before the council on Dec. 6, would turn the loan program for low and moderate income families into interest-bearing loans. Under the current program, the loans bear no interest and are payable in full only when the title of the property is transferred.

In a letter to the council, Administrative Aide Gerard McNamara said the change would put the city in a position where it would not deal directly with contractors and make more funds available for loans and a reserve fund.

"The changes which I have proposed require the borrower to go to a bank for the loan," McNamara said. "The bank will qualify the borrower. The borrower will pay for the inspection and decide the scope of the work. The borrower will find and enter into a contract with a contractor."

"The borrower will also repay the loan on a monthly basis, tied to his ability to pay," McNamara continued. Interest on the loans would range from between 4 and 12 percent, he said.

Loan applicants who are unable to repay a loan with interest could still get the deferred loans from the bank with city approval, McNamara said.

Under the existing program, the city accepts the application from borrowers, ranks them according to need, verifies the borrowers' qualifications, inspects homes, prepares specifications for work, advertises and awards bids to the lowest contractor.

Since the city deals directly with the contractor, a poor performance by the contractor makes trouble for the city, McNamara said. With the changes, the borrower could decide what work is to be done and choose a contractor to do the work. The city would maintain control over the program but would get out of dealing with contractors, he said.

McNamara also presented a proposal from Standard Federal Savings and Loan Association which offered to service the loans in exchange for 2 percent of the city's CDBG grant of $48,994 and out-of-pocket expenses.

Under the proposal submitted by the savings and loan association, the city would deposit its grant minus the 2 percent fee in an interest bearing account which the bank would draw from to make the loans. Monthly payments would be deposited into the account for use in making subsequent loans. The company would service the loans for a fee equal to one-sixth of 1 percent of the outstanding balance on each loan it services each month.

The city would send an applicant to the Standard Federal, which would review the applicant's qualifications using normal credit underwriting guidelines.

Before such a program took effect the city would set parameters for interest rates and terms of the loan. The bank would then try to qualify the applicant at the highest interest rate and shortest term. If the applicant doesn't qualify, the company would first adjust the term and then the interest rate until the applicant qualifies for the loan.

If the company can't qualify the applicant for an interest bearing loan, the city could tell the company to make the loan on a deferred plan.

After approval, the company would obtain a title search of the premises, prepare the closing package and close the loan. The company would receive $105 for recording and legal fees, credit report and title search. The city would provide the company with a copy of the specifications of work to be done, the winning contractor's bid and its final inspection of the property.

The company would also keep the city apprised of all the loans it is servicing for the Woods.

Council members decided the package should be let out for competitive bids to other local banks and lending institutions. In addition, Councilman Frederick Lovelace proposed the interest rate on the loans be kept below normal interest rates for home improvement loans.

He proposed a cap of 4 percent on the loans.

"We're adding in something, making it more difficult (to get money)," Lovelace said. "I originally voted in favor of this program because it helped people fix up their homes. Suddenly, we're telling them it's going to cost them more."

City Attorney George Catlin told the council that because the county doesn't have "a hard-and-fast" interest rate for rehabilitation loans, the city could set the rate.

Community Development Block Grant Advisory Commission Chairman Al Adams told the council the charges from the bank were probably less than the costs the city incurred under the present system. The loans, he added, would be based on the ability to pay and the monthly payments back to the fund would make loans easier to get.

In making the motion for the implementation of the program subject to county approval and the city's compliance with existing regulations governing such programs, Councilman Robert Novitke said the interest bearing loans were "probably the most economical way to administer the funds over the broadest range."

Board approves its MASA dues

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education recently approved membership in the Michigan Association of School Administrators for the 1983 school year.

School Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel told board trustees the $798 bill representing dues to MASA reflects a $23 decrease from 1982 because of declining enrollment in the school district.

"We believe it is important to continue our affiliation with this organization and are recommending a renewal of our membership," Dr. Brummel told trustees.

Musical opens at dinner-theater

"A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," a Steven Sondheim's slapstick musical, will open tomorrow, Jan. 14, the third offering of the season by Dennis Wickline Productions at the Golden Lion Restaurant. The show runs Friday and Saturday evenings through Feb. 19.

The twisted plot revolves around a slave, Pseudolus, who is trying to gain his freedom by helping his master, Hero, obtain the beloved virgin, Philia, from the House of Marcus Lycus, a buyer and seller of the flesh of young women. Along the way we meet an old man, Erronius, who is running around the seven hills of Rome searching for his children stolen in infancy by pirates, Miles Gloriosus, a Roman General, and assorted courtesans of various shapes and sizes.

The production is under the direction of Arlene Marie Schoen-herr who choreographed all of the major musicals at Stouffer's Eastland Dinner Theatre, including "Brigadoon" and "Fiddler on the Roof." Musical direction is being handled by John Dickinson, president of the Stagecrafters organization. Portraying Pseudolus is Dan Castle, Hero will be played by Jeffrey Woolley, and Pointer Martha Terry, will portray Philia. David McDonald will take on the role of Miles Gloriosus.

Tickets, at $19.50, include a prime rib dinner (a fish alternate is available if requested at time of reservation) and the show immediately following the apple pie dessert. Cocktails are served at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30. The Golden Lion is located at 22380 Moross between Mack and I-94 across from St. John Hospital.

Call 886-2420 for reservations. Group rates and performances are available.

9%	annual interest rate compounded and paid monthly on accounts with an average daily balance of at least $2,500.00 and up to $25,000.00 during a monthly statement period
10%	annual interest rate on the amount BETWEEN $25,000.00 and $50,000.00
11%	annual interest rate on the amount OVER $50,000.00

Rates above are currently offered by Standard Federal on Money Market Plus Accounts and may change based on market conditions. For future interest rate information, call 643-9583.

Here's how the bonus interest plan works for you:

Assuming that the above rates remain in effect for a complete statement period, if your average daily balance during your monthly statement period is $35,750.00, you'll earn 9% per year on the first $25,000.00 and 10% per year on the additional $10,750.00.

If your average daily balance during your monthly statement period is $65,625.00, you'll earn 9% per year on the first $25,000.00, 10% per year on the next $25,000.00 and 11% on the last $15,625.00.

If the average daily balance (the sum of the daily balances divided by the number of days in the monthly statement period) goes below $2,500.00 during a monthly statement period, interest will be paid at the rate of 5-1/4% per year for that month.

Woods aide goes to arbitrator

An arbitrator has been assigned to hear Woods Administrative Aide Gerard McNamara's request for more pay from the city.

The case, filed last March with the American Arbitration Association, is scheduled to be heard Tuesday, Feb. 8, Woods City Attorney George Catlin said.

McNamara filed the request a month after the city ratified a contract with his union, the Grosse Pointe Woods Supervisory Association.

The union represents the director, assistant director and superintendent of public works, the directors of parks and recreation and inspection services, the administrative aide and deputy treasurer.

Under the salary schedule in the contract, McNamara receives $19,610 this year, from July 1 to June 30. The salary is a 7.7 percent increase over the year before, when he made a base salary of $18,210.

Beginning in July, 1983, McNamara is scheduled to receive a base salary of $20,660, a 5.35 percent increase.

In addition, all members of the supervisor's association receive a cost of living allowance capped at $1,200, based on increases in the consumer price index.

As administrative aide, one of McNamara's responsibilities is the city's Community Development Block Grant program.

MONEY MARKET INTEREST, NEIGHBORHOOD CONVENIENCE.

No matter what happens in the future, your total deposits are fully insured up to $100,000. The F.D.I.C. makes certain of it.

YOU'LL ALWAYS KNOW WHAT YOU'RE EARNING.

Call Manufacturers 24 Hour Interest Hotline anytime you want to know the current rate on your investment. Just dial 222-4509. As you can see, your present money market fund has become obsolete! So stop by or call any office of Manufacturers, and ask us about a ManuFund Account today.

By Tom Greenwood

To Marya Mogk, the only thing more interesting than reading about history is seeing it being made first hand. As one of two Page Overseers working the floor of the House of Representatives in Washington, D.C., Marya has an inside seat for the making of this country's laws.

While some see the role of a page as a thing of glamor, Marya is more realistic when she wakes early to start her working day.

"We're up at 4 a.m., and in school two hours later," she said. "We have to be on the floor at about 9:45 a.m., then work until 5 p.m., or whenever Congress quits for the day. It's a busy, pressure-filled schedule."

Most persons assume all pages work the floor, but this isn't always the case. Many work as "running pages," picking up or delivering messages or materials from one office to another.

"Some pages never even see a congressman," said Marya, 17. "I was a runner for four months. The work is tedious, fast-paced, boring, but requires patience and attention to detail. I was happy to become an overseer."

Marya's current position is an important one. She sits daily at a desk on the floor, fielding calls from congressmen asking for page service. She logs calls, then assigns pages to their duties. She also keeps track of lunch hours, uniforms (all pages adhere to a strict dress code and are required to provide and maintain their own uniforms) and keeps track of the whereabouts of materials due for delivery.

"Some pages work the floor," added Marya. "Each congressman has access to a buzzer that lights up at my desk. I call out his number and the nearest page attends to that representative."

"The Documentarian Pages have an added bonus to their jobs," she continued. "Every day they climb to the top of the capital building to raise the flag. They pass through tunnels, over rafters and behind the stained glass until they're at the very top. They can look out and it's the most spectacular view in the city."

The daughter of "Walking" John Mogk (he ran unsuccessfully for Mayor of Detroit in 1973 and 1977) and Dr. Lylas G. Mogk, Marya heard about the position from her father while she was attending South High School.

She was sponsored by then congressman (now Governor) James Blanchard, and served as a page from January to June, 1982, with a six month extension to December. She then requested and received another extension to stay until June, 1983.

At this time, she'll graduate from the Capital Page School. Students aren't allowed to work as pages after graduation.

Marya considers her time in Washington as a definite plus to her formal and informal education.

"I love it because it's exciting, hard work for a person of my age," she said. "Civics class can't compare with this. You see persons in the news making history daily. It's easier to understand how our government works. It's made me a more patriotic person."

One thing that did upset Marya was the recent attention the pages received in the media after two pages made claims of a "sex and drug" scandal on Capitol Hill.

In a letter to the Free Press she rebutted the "scandal" with a three page correspondence outlining the day to day life of most pages.

"The unsubstantial accusations were made by a disgruntled former page and another whose credibility even among us was suspect," she wrote. "Very few live in apartments by themselves. Most stay in supervised dorms with nearby families. We don't have time to have scandals. For some it's the first time away from the family, and they may go a little over board with new found freedoms, but only for a little while."

"I'd say the situation is a lot less wild than it is at South," she continued. "There's a lot of peer pressure on you as a page. If you screw up, you screw up others too. Whether it's trouble or a pat on the back, you earned it yourself. If you're not in school, you're at work. If you're not at work, then you're in trouble, unless there's a doctor's excuse. They're very strict with us. That's why I was upset."

(As a matter of interest, a few weeks after the articles appeared in the press, one of the two pages making the allegations called a conference to admit his accusations were lies.)

Marya finds capital life exciting, but expensive. Pages earn $700 a month, pretty good for a 17-year-old, but not much by Washington standards. Her rent (in a dorm) is $400 per month, which doesn't leave much for food, laundry, clothes, travel expenses home, taxis or an occasional movie.

In many ways, she's paid in memories.

"I once shared a private shuttle bus with Tip O'Neill, the Speaker of the House," she said. "His presence is overwhelming. He's a huge man with this big mane of white hair."

"I was scared to death, really very nervous. Finally he leaned forward and in a big booming voice said 'So, how's your grades in school?' Then he asked where I was from and how long I'd been in Washington. He was very nice."

"Later, I held an elevator for him. As he rumbled in, he gave out with a big sigh and said it was the nicest thing anyone had done for him all day long."

Marya will be sorry when her final semester in Washington ends. She met a lot of people in a relatively short time.

"I now have friends all over the country," she said. "I've learned that not all Texans drawl, not all Bostonians are Catholics. I've met farm boys from Mississippi, courtly Virginians, Preppy New England types and laid back Californians."

Neighbor foils B&E attempt

A would-be burglar dropped his loot and fled on a three-speed bicycle after an alert neighbor spotted him leaving a Bedford Road home with a television and video game on Saturday, Jan. 8, according to Park police reports.

The neighbor called police soon after he saw the young, white male leaving the Bedford home. Police arrived within minutes but were not able to find the burglar. Chief Henry Counce said he apparently had entered the home through an unlocked door.

COMPUTERS AND TAXES

Last year Americans spent 2.5 billion dollars on personal and home computers, ranging in per unit costs from under $1,000 to $10,000. Most were purchased with bona-fide business, investment or tax purposes in mind. These purposes will entitle the purchaser to an investment tax credit of up to 10% of the purchase price, and a depreciation deduction of as much as 25% of cost. However, you should consult your tax advisor to verify your qualifying use and availability of credits and deductions.

The IRS is using their computers more effectively to match 600 million statements of income reported paid to taxpayers to 94 million individual tax returns. The program began in 1963 but was pursued more earnestly beginning with 1979 tax returns. However, not all is perfect. Attempting to collect their due IRS may be sending notices which are not totally correct or have no basis at all. Should you receive any notice from the IRS consult your tax advisor regarding its meaning and consequences to you.

Consumers benefit from paying cash

Some Macomb County residents will soon enjoy savings of up to 50 percent from local merchants by using a new International Cash Card and paying cash instead of using credit for their purchases.

A Mount Clemens firm, backer of the ICC card, hopes the idea will kick off in Grosse Pointe sometime this spring.

According to International Account Executive Scott M. Bondy, the reverse credit card can yield between a 5 and 50 percent savings on purchases, depending on the participating business. The average savings is about 10 percent, Bondy said.

While the ICC is a way for consumers to save on monthly interest charges, the reverse credit card also is a way for businesses to attract new customers, Bondy said. It also cuts down on paper work and service charges on standard credit cards of between 1 and 5 percent, Bondy said.

In late June, several Macomb County residents will be mailed their complimentary International Cash Card, along with a directory of participating merchants. Oakland and Wayne County residents will receive cards and directories for the areas later this spring.

The reverse credit card is the brainchild of Mount Clemens residents Larry Mlynarek and Howard Dekkers, who decided to combine the best attributes of direct mail marketing, advertising and discount coupons.

"Businesses for many years have enjoyed discounts associated with paying cash or payment in full within a short period of time,"

Dekker said. "These allowances have never been available to consumers, however."

"In this economic climate, paying cash and receiving a discount for doing so makes sense. Many times with credit cards, consumers pay for an item twice over by the time you include the interest and other charges."

Cards and directories will be available throughout the year at participating businesses and through the ICC.

Participating businesses include John's Lumber, Sixpence Restaurants, Mr. K Travel, Buscemi's and Henderson Glass. Discounts range from 10 to as much as 50 percent off, according to the firm.

Bondy said he has already lined up 12 potential businesses in the Grosse Pointe area. Those with questions can call 463-4340 for more information.

Investments

Floating Rate Municipal Bonds

By Dean W. Crowder III

Traditionally, municipal bonds have been an investment favored by individuals interested in tax-free, dependable income. Investors have felt comfortable purchasing municipal bonds and holding them until maturity, a practice that made sense during times of steady interest rates.

But, during times when interest rates are constantly changing, the prices of bonds also will change. Whereas the prime rate changed only 15 times during the entire decade of the 1960s, it recently changed 40 times within one year. In this volatile market, the weekly adjustment of the interest rate lets you protect your initial investment and continue to earn interest at a currently competitive rate.

Floating Rate Municipal Bonds provide you with better potential for preservation of capital, tax-exempt income, and a competitive current rate of return. These enable the long term investor to better the value of his portfolio and provide the short term investor with an appropriate investment for his needs.

Generally, Floating Rate Municipal Bonds are debt obligations of a state, municipality or corporation that are issued to finance public. Pollution control facilities, projects that benefit the general public. Pollution control facilities, turnpikes, power plants and hospitals are projects that could be financed by Floating Rate Municipal Bonds.

The benefits of the investment are many. First, we have a preservation of capital feature. Since the interest rate on these issues is adjusted every week to reflect current market conditions, they should always trade close to their face value. If you decide to sell your bonds, you should receive approximately the same amount you paid for them.

Second, you will receive tax-exempt income. Interest earned on Floating Rate Municipal Bonds is exempt from Federal income tax.

Third, is competitive current return. The interest rate is adjusted each week to keep pace with current rates being offered on other investments. A recent offer of these issues came with an approximate rate of 8 1/2 percent.

Fourth, is the marketability of these bonds. The weekly interest rate adjustment gives better assurance that there will always be a narrow spread between the bid and asked price. Accordingly, the transaction costs on the purchase and sale of your bonds is minimal.

And lastly, you will find that these are quality bonds. These bonds are issued by the same municipalities and corporations who issue other tax-exempt securities. Generally, these floaters are investment grade (A rated) or better.

Floating Rate Municipal Bonds

are clearly a timely investment for the 1980s. They provide the long term investor with better capital preservation and a current rate of return as well as the tax-exempt income available from traditional municipal bonds. In addition these bonds enable the short term investor to earn competitive current yields on an investment vehicle that can be sold readily and without threat of capital depreciation. Consider it carefully, I am sure it can complement any investment portfolio.

ULS hosts college counselors

University Liggett School played host last month to the bi-annual meeting of the Michigan Association of College Admissions Counselors.

The group is composed of secondary school admissions counselors and college admissions officers who help families and students make the transition between high school and college, and monitor all areas of college admissions practices on state and national levels.

Although the group has a variety of committees on topics such as financial aid or admissions practices, the ULS meeting was a workshop prepared by the MACAC Government and Inter-association Relations Committee.

The workshop consisted of a series of speakers designed to communicate information especially about the federal government's recent decision on cutting student aid programs. The speakers also addressed the idea of what MACAC can do on state and federal levels to make legislators aware of its concerns. Following the speeches an informal discussion period helped members clarify attitudes and plan for future action. Coordinator of the meeting was ULS College Guidance Director Pedro Arango who also is chairman of GIRC.

North volunteer mothers honored

Those mothers cited were Luda Bakunovich, Dolores Berger, Cathie Briery, Marga Goosen, Persis Graf, Mary Joe Hanshaw, Anna Marie Johnston, Jean Marcaccio, Ellen Nelson, Phyllis Osler, Mary Roland, Sue Snyder and Mary Torrence.

Other mothers were Pat Barry, Nancy Bierley, Joan Buccinna, Joan Gowen, Elza Gross, Florence Hogan, Ardy Jones, Karen Marshall, Janet Nichols, Mariann Pamerleau, Marlene Schmidt, Gail Terry and Judy Wood.

More volunteers included Rose Bendure, Joan Bock, Anita Edgell, Helen Grandis, Barbara Hayes, Diane Hearer, Debbie Lass, Ann McQueen, H. Ollis, Joanne Reaume, Pat Schriever, Carolyn Thompson and Judy Zimec.

European tour awaits students

By Salvatore Ferreri
and Kathleen Connolly

Some American faces will be seen this summer in foreign cities such as Copenhagen, Stockholm, Amsterdam and others, thanks to a European tour sponsored by the Grosse Pointe public school system. Students will have the opportunity to experience 22 days of fun and excitement, while earning high school and college credit.

The European tour will set its course June 18. Students will spend two days and nights in London, England where they will learn about the history and present-day culture of Europe's royal city. On the third day students will be transferred to Tilbury to board the cruise ship, Mikhail Kalinin, which will be their home away from home for the next 13 days. Students will first enjoy the wonderful blue sea and then the boat will dock in Copenhagen, the capital and largest city of Denmark, where they will tour its many parks, statues, fountains and beautiful buildings.

Sailing from Copenhagen, the ship will stop in Stockholm, Helsinki, Leningrad, Tallinn, Bornholm, Amsterdam, Tilbury-York, Edinburgh, Statford-upon-Avon, and back to London to see the Buckingham Palace and houses of the Parliament with "Big Ben." On July 9, students will return to the U.S.

All meals are included on the cruise ship and other meals will be paid for by students. Transportation also will be included in the $2,395 price. Brochure and other information is available through Robert D. Welch, director of secondary education, at 343-2024.

Genetic speaker visits Liggett class

A University Liggett Upper School biology class last month heard a talk by Gillian B. Ingall, of the Medical Genetics and Birth Defects Center at Henry Ford Hospital. Ingall is genetics associate program coordinator.

The class, taught by Doris Ranke, learned the purpose of genetic counseling, to give advice on the consequences of genetic disorders, and aid in the prevention and amelioration of such disorders.

Ingall outlined the work of the center which, in cooperation with the Michigan Genetics Services Program and the Michigan Department of Public Health, offers services to the southeastern Michigan population in prenatal diagnostic testing and support services. The center is part of an international network of clinics and research hospitals.

Ingall outlined the various kinds of tests available, and described how couples are helped to make decisions on family planning, with the care of children already afflicted with genetic disorders. Such disorders also are researched for future diagnosis and treatment, Ingall said.

Ingall answered many students questions, revealing that the majority of couples with prenatal counseling continue previously feared family planning. She also indicated that the state is far ahead of others in the delivery of these diagnostic and counseling services.

Views of the News

Well done, Soapy

After they leave high public office, people often carry their titles into retirement with them. Thus, we refer to a former governor as "governor," we call a former federal Cabinet officer "Mr. Ambassador" and we continue to identify a person as "judge" long after he has left the bench.

But what are we to do about that prominent Grosse Pointe resident, G. Mennen Williams, who is entitled to all of the titles we've mentioned and more and who now has acquired a new one, chief justice of the Michigan State Supreme Court?

Over the years many friends of the new chief justice solved the problem by calling him "Soapy," a nickname he earned years ago because of his family's connection with Mennen products. Many friends no doubt will continue to use that nickname, even though "Soapy" now should be addressed as "Mr. Chief Justice."

SERIOUSLY, however, we wish to congratulate the new chief justice on his election to that office by his fellow justices. He has indeed had a remarkable career, most of it in public service, and his election as chief justice is a fitting climax to his long career.

Several other Michigan governors, including John Swainson in recent times, have served on the Michigan Supreme Court but Williams is believed to be only the second ever to serve as chief justice. The first was Epaphroditus Ransom who was chief justice when he was elected governor in 1847.

Few Americans can enter a room these days trailing behind them a record like the one that G. Mennen Williams has made in public life: naval officer, assistant attorney general of Michigan, assistant to the U.S. attorney general, deputy director of the Michigan Office of Price Administration, member of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission, governor of Michigan for six terms, assistant secretary of state for African Affairs, U.S. ambassador to the Philippines and member of the Michigan State Supreme Court since 1970.

Along the way he has been awarded a batch of honorary degrees, including one from the University of Michigan, where he earned a law degree in 1936, and an impressive collection of decorations from a long list of foreign governments. He also has found time to be active in many civic, fraternal, religious military and social organizations.

Well done, Soapy . . . er, Mr. Chief Justice!

New broom starts sweeping

Wayne County government is being dragged, kicking and screaming, into the 1980's. That is one way to describe the process by which the new county executive, William Lucas, is trying to bring some order out of the chaos that has characterized county operations in recent years. The resistance is coming from the county officials who prefer the old, relaxed way of providing public service at the convenience of the officials themselves.

SO FAR LUCAS has been making the right moves but, unfortunately, the same cannot be said of the new county commission. Even though it was reduced from 27 to 15 members, the commission appears to be dominated by the same old thinking that has characterized it in the past. Perhaps that is not surprising since so many of the new commissioners are carryovers from the old county board.

Thus, even though the new commission gave up its executive and administrative responsibilities and became strictly a legislative body under the new charter, it already begins to see itself as more important than it really is and even more of a political force than it formerly was.

So it was not surprising that the commission set its members' salaries at $26,426 a year, which is about the level of the old board members' basic pay, plus the cost-of-living allowances to which they had been entitled. Even worse, however, the new commission also voted to give each member a $30,000 allowance for a personal staff, even though the previous 27-member board had no personal staff members and the operating costs of the new 15-member commission will now exceed the old board's costs by $300,000.

Lucas showed the other county officials, however, that he really meant business when he fired two officials and warned 19 others that they had been placed on "tentative" status and face the possibility of being fired if they don't "recognize that a new day has arrived." He spelled out what he meant in even more specific terms:

"If they are able to adjust to that fact (the new broom), if they are able to begin coming into the office at 8 a.m. and staying until the job is done instead of fighting to be the first one out the door at 4:30 every night, if they will recognize that we are looking to them for new and innovative ideas as well as leadership, then they can continue in their jobs. If not, I'm saying to them that they've got their two weeks notice."

The two who were fired were two former county commissioners, John Barr, county personnel director and Chester Wozniak, assistant director of the public works department. But Lucas retained three other officials and told them that their jobs are secure. One of them is Robert FitzPatrick, the economic development chief, who ran against Lucas as the Republican nominee in last fall's election. By taking that action, Lucas not only retained the services of an effective administrator but also made a good political move.

The courts, meanwhile, hold the fate of two other actions by which Lucas hopes to clean the county house. The courts will hear the disputes over whether Lucas has authority to appoint his successor as sheriff and whether he has power to remove the two incumbent road commissioners and appoint his own people to those posts. While these are legal issues, there is little question where public sympathy lies in the continuing dispute between Lucas and the incumbent officials in Wayne County.

While Lucas has won wide public approval for some aspects of his "new broom" approach, the same cannot be said for his plan to ask the county to pay his top political adviser, Dennis Nystrom, $269,000 for legal work on the former sheriff's suit to restore the road patrol. Even if the county board approves the payment, the whole issue ought to be resolved in the courts, which already seem to be playing a significant role in the county government's transition process.

AS THE NEW county executive begins to wield his broom, he is obviously making an effort to be fair by retaining county officials who are doing their jobs but getting rid of those who owe their positions to past political favors. If he succeeds in his efforts to reform county government, he indeed should be able to report that a new day has dawned for the long-suffering taxpayers of Wayne County.

Letter to the Editor

Sunday business is a mistake

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to your article on Seven Days Shalt Thou Labor. I think the Grosse Pointe City Council should not permit more businesses to be open on Sunday. God blessed the seventh day and sanctified it. On it he rested from all the work which he created. I agree some drugstores and service stations should be allowed to open because of emergencies and such, but shopping malls and restaurants — no way. God wanted us to simply stay in our homes and rest with our families.

In my opinion, the manager of Damman Hardware is in the wrong because his petition to the council for permission to keep his store open on Sunday tempts people who keep this tradition that God has made.

Esquire Theater is a bad neighbor

To the Editor:

The Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology has been mentioned in the press several times of late in conjunction with the troubled Esquire Theater. Perhaps at this time some historical perspective is in order.

The Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology owns the three parking lots adjacent to the Institute. Since we opened our doors in the fall of 1974 we have tried on many occasions to convince the owners of the theater that they had some responsibility for handling their daily debris (popcorn boxes, broken beer bottles, candy wrappers, etc.) Furthermore, we felt that since the lots were used daily by theater patrons, as well as by our patients, the financial burden of maintaining them should be shared.

Letters from the institute's attorneys to the theater owners suggesting a nominal fee for use of the lots never received the courtesy of a response. To date the costs of all resurfacing, restriping, snow removal, raking of leaves, trimming of trees and most importantly the payment of the property taxes have been borne solely by the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology. Despite this daily expense and annoyance we continued to keep our lots open in the evening in an effort to be neighborly. After all, many of the theater patrons are also our patients or employees.

Unfortunately, when the theater developed economic problems and put in video games our difficulties multiplied. For the first time the "patrons" (in addition to the "owners") of the theater became a problem. Youths began panhandling our patients for small change during the afternoons, cars were vandalized during the evening, the trash problem accelerated and the institute's parking lots became an extension of the game room "hang out." With reluctance, but with the support of our neighborhood and with the encouragement and approval of the city council, the board of directors decided to chain our lots.

Since the lots have been locked, our problems during the daytime business hours have abated and we no longer need to clean the lots several times a week, but vandalism after hours has increased. We now replace chains, we buy our locks in half dozen lots (mysterious persons damage the locks almost weekly) and we routinely repair and repaint our vandalized private parking signs.

Furthermore, we now pay additional monies for extra nightly supervision of our lots. These added costs are cumbersome, senseless and not of our making. We refuse, however, to be victimized by vandalism and threats. The theater owner's only response to the community has been threats of pornographic films and revamping the game parlor into a "love boutique."

We believe that the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology has been a credit to its community. We will continue to do everything in our means to preserve the quality of life in our neighborhood. A sincere thank you to our neighbors on Nottingham and the streets immediately adjacent to the institute who have continuously supported us. We are hopeful that this letter will help others in the community understand our problems and our course of action.

Mr. A. J. Ricca, Member
Active Board of Directors
Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology

Happy hour not so happy

To the Editor:

In an advertisement in the Grosse Pointe News, we learned the Bronze Door had opened its doors again for business. My husband and I decided to have dinner there last week.

The ad also stated that "Happy Hour" was from Monday to Friday, 3 to 6 p.m. We arrived about 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday and immediately asked the hostess if Happy Hour was still on. She confirmed this and seated us in the dining room.

Both my husband and I ordered a drink and our dinner. When the check came, however, we were charged full price for the drinks. Upon bringing this to the waiter's attention, he replied that he would have to check with the barman. He then told us Happy Hour prices were only good at the bar and not in the dining room.

We then asked for the hostess and we were told the same thing. However, she offered to take it up with the manager and reluctantly adjusted our check, pointing out the manager also confirmed one had to sit at the bar for Happy Hour. We replied that nowhere in the ad had this been mentioned.

We then confronted the manager and his answer was, "What does Happy Hour mean? I don't have to give anything for Happy Hour if I don't want to, not even peanuts." When we told him we considered his advertisement false and misleading and therefore would write to the News, he replied, "Go ahead and write."

With an attitude like this, I do not think he will increase his patronage. He certainly lost ours and we made it a point in conversation with friends to mention our very unpleasant experience and the arrogant attitude of the manager of the Bronze Door.

Don't knock the Pope

To the Editor:

I am sure that many of your readers have winced as I have in observing that your front page columnist, Tom Greenwood, (fyi, Jan. 6) lumped Pope John Paul II with Tony Orlando and Sabu the elephant boy in a vain and puerile attempt to be clever and humorous.

To use the name of a man of such extraordinary dignity as Pope John Paul II so facetiously can only be described as a cheap shot and that is putting it in terms so that Mr. Greenwood may understand, judging from his lack of sensitivity.

It is unfortunate that the editor of the Grosse Pointe News allowed the statement to be printed. It was utterly tasteless.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

"Preludes is not a fund raising event," emphasized Mrs. Ellwyn Gilbert, chairman of the Woman's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's Detroit Symphony Preludes 12th season. "It's an educational endeavor that offers an opportunity to meet with the multi-talented members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in an informal setting."

Johanna Gilbert was speaking herself in an informal setting, at a recent mailing for the mini-concert series to be presented on Fridays, Jan. 28, March 4 and April 22, at 11 a.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Among those helping her address, stuff and stamp were fellow Pointers Mrs. Winfield S. Jewell Jr., Mrs. William H. Bundeson, Mrs. John Nolan Jr., Mrs. Alfred Massnick, Mrs. Joseph Shaheen, Miss Katherine Wasserfallen and Mrs. Frank A. Germack Jr., president of the DSO Women.

The first 1983 Prelude will feature the Brass Quintette (Kevin Good and Ramon Parcells, trumpets, Corbin Wagner, French horn, Nathaniel Gurin, trombone, and Wesley Jacobs, tuba) on Friday, Jan. 28. The Bassoon Quartette (Robert Williams, Paul Ganson, Lyell Lindsey and Kirkland Ferris) performs Friday, March 4.

The series concludes Friday, April 22, with Erwin Monroe on the flute. As always, each program will be followed by a question and answer period and a subscription luncheon at 12:15 p.m. Information on tickets — $30 for the full series of three programs with luncheons; $12 for the full series of three programs only; $12 for a single program and lunch; $5 for a single program — may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Nolan at 886-6244.

She will play compositions by Faure, Saint-Saens, Rachmaninoff and Haydn.

As part of her Nester Award, Lisa, who is 16 and a resident of St. Clair Shores, appeared as soloist at the Pointe Symphony's concert last March. She's a junior at Lakeview High School, a member of both her school orchestra and the Detroit Sinfonia Chamber Orchestra, veteran of numerous appearances at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House with different music groups. She has attended Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp and the all-state summer programs at Interlochen National Music Camp. She is studying cello with Richard Piippo.

Exhibit to focus on Cranbrook's design influence on the world

Cranbrook Academy of Art and its influence on 20th century architecture and design will be explored for the first time in a major exhibition, organized by the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Metropolitan Museum of Art, scheduled to open in Detroit Dec. 12, 1983, and run there to Feb. 19, 1984.

"Design in America: The Cranbrook Vision 1925-1950" will travel to the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City and museums in Helsinki, Paris and London.

Approximately 200 masterworks produced by more than 30 Cranbrook faculty and students will trace the development and influence of the Academy from its beginnings in the 1920s until the 1950 death of Eliel Saarinen, who guided the unique institution through those years.

Works through the early 1960s will be included to show the continuing influence of Cranbrook on these individuals.

The campus and educational concept of Cranbrook Academy of Art, a part of the Cranbrook Educational Community located in Bloomfield Hills, were a creative collaboration of Detroit philanthropist George Gough Booth and Finnish-born architect Eliel Saarinen.

Excellent faculty drawn to Cranbrook included sculptor Carl Milles, ceramist Maija Grotell and textile designer/weaver Marianne Strengell as well as the Saarinen family: Eliel's wife Loja, a textile designer and weaver, their daughter Pipsan, also a weaver and designer, and son Eero, who became one of the most important architects of the 1950s. Eero Saarinen designed Dulles Airport (Washington, D.C.), the St. Louis Arch, and collaborated with his father on the General Motors Technical Center in Warren.

The Cranbrook working environment stressed an interdisciplinary, non-dogmatic approach that attracted designers Charles and Ray Eames, furniture designer Florence Knoll, sculptor Harry Bertoia, architects Ralph Rapson and Harry Weese, textile designer Jack Lenor Larsen and painter Zoltan Sepeshy. These faculty and students had a decisive influence on the 20th century arts in America and Europe.

"Design in America: The Cranbrook Vision 1925-1950" was initiated by Jay Belloli, the DIA's former curator of Modern Art, and by R. Craig Miller, assistant curator of American Decorative Arts, Metropolitan Museum of Art, with the assistance of Roy Slade, president, Cranbrook Academy of Art.

The following scholars participated: Robert Judson Clark, associate professor, Department of Art and Archaeology, Princeton University; David G. De Long, associate professor, Graduate School of Architecture and Planning, Columbia University; Martin Eidelberg, professor of Art History, Rutgers University; John David Farmer, director, Museum of Art, University of California at Santa Barbara; John Gerard, curator of Collections, Cranbrook Academy of Art/Museum; Neil Harris, professor of History, University of Chicago; Joan Marter, associate professor of Art History, Rutgers University; Mary R. Riordan, director, the Muskegon Museum of Art; Davira Spiro Taragin, assistant curator of Modern Art, the Detroit Institute of Arts; and Christa C. Mayer Thurman, curator, Department of Textiles, the Art Institute of Chicago.

A comprehensive catalogue published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc., New York, and educational programs will complement the exhibition. "Design in America: The Cranbrook Vision 1925-1950" is assisted by grants from IBM Corporation, the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

TV tour for Women in Communications

Amy McCombs, vice-president and general manager, WDIV-TV, will discuss "The Future of Commercial Television" following a 4:30 p.m. tour of the new WDIV studios at a dinner meeting of the Detroit Chapter of Women in Communications next Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Detroit Press Club.

The sneak preview of the $13 million Channel 4 studios and offices, scheduled to officially open in April, will highlight the evening. The building, next to WDIV's former downtown Detroit offices, has no individual heating source within it; instead, it is heated by three pumps which redistribute heat generated by people, equipment and lights.

At the heart of the interior, which features an open landscape designed to encourage employees to meet and communicate, is a unique series of production "suites" which will enable the station to produce local programs and spots faster and more efficiently.

Advance reservations for the evening are required, and those interested are asked to indicate whether they will be taking the WDIV tour or joining the group at the Press Club, where dinner will be served at 6 p.m. Cost is $11 for WICI members, $12 for guests and $8 for students. There is a $5 charge for members who wish to tour the studios only or wish to hear McCombs' speech at 6:45 p.m. at the Press Club only.

Reservations must be received, prepaid, no later than tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 14; there is an additional $1 charge for reservations made after that date, and no refunds will be issued for cancellations after it.

Further information may be obtained by calling 962-7225.

From Another Pointe Of View

Lisa is also a regular member of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra and looks forward to the Pointe Symphony's Sunday, Jan. 23, concert, at 3:30 p.m. in Parcels Auditorium, which will feature Detroit Symphony cellist Marcy Chanteaux, often called "Detroit's Rostropovich," as guest artist, playing the Concerto in B minor by Dvorak.

The Pointe Symphony Women's agenda next Thursday begins with a business meeting at 10:30 a.m., followed by a social hour at 11:30 a.m. Luncheon will be served at noon. Reservations for the day, at $11 per person, are being taken by the group's social chairman, Mrs. Eugene Blanchard, 422-0876.

Moving on Musically: Opera Events

DIVA — a benefit for the Michigan Opera Theatre Guild will bring patrons to the Bloomfield Theatre next Thursday evening for a 7:30 p.m. screening of the acclaimed French New Wave thriller "Diva," then take them on to Detroit's fashionable disco Cheeks to meet and dance with the Diva in person. She's Wilhelmina Wiggins Fernandez, a veteran of the MOT stage, last heard in Detroit in MOT's 1982 production of "Porgy and Bess," opening tomorrow evening at the Music Hall in MOT's "Marriage of Figaro."

A limited number of autographed copies of the "Diva" soundtrack and film posters will be featured as prizes at Cheeks. Information on tickets for the evening, at $20 per person, may be obtained by calling 963-3717 or 540-9030.

Internationally acclaimed soprano Roberta Peters, who celebrated her 32nd season with the Metropolitan Opera this past year, will be the featured guest speaker at the Detroit Grand Opera Association's annual luncheon a week from tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 21, at the Detroit Institute of Arts, and will be on hand to greet guests at the 11:30 a.m. pre-luncheon reception.

Ms. Peters recently traveled to the People's Republic of China for recitals and master classes. Farms resident Susan (Mrs. Richard L.) Measelle is chairman of the 1983 edition of the DGOA's mid-winter luncheon, held each year to generate interest in Detroit Metropolitan Opera Week ticket sales and special events. The Met comes to town May 23 and will play at the Masonic Temple through May 28, brought here for a 25th consecutive season by the DGOA. Luncheon invitations were mailed to appropriate DGOA members in mid-December; further information may be obtained by calling the DGOA office, 832-5200.

Lunch with Russell, Anyone?

Fans of political satirist Mark Russell (among the legion of whom I am) tend to make it a point to stay home when he's scheduled to appear on TV (which is not often enough) and may be interested to know (as I was) that there are still a few luncheon reservations available for the afterglow to his Grosse Pointe Celebrity Series appearance at the Woods Theatre March 10. For information, call 882-9143.

An Extraordinary Opportunity for Someone.

The Detroit Branch of the English Speaking Union is offering a scholarship for someone to attend the English Speaking Union International Summer School July 9 through 17 at Jesus College, Oxford, England. The person selected will be given an award of $1,200, covering tuition, accommodations, board and the round trip fare.

The objective of the ESU is "to foster between the people of the United States and the people of the Commonwealth mutual understanding, trust and friendship," and the ESU International Summer School provides a searching and analytical look at British policies, industry and trade, education, social questions and the arts.

It is primarily designed for promising individuals who are already achieving eminence in some field of endeavor and who might benefit from a broader experience through contact with colleagues from other countries and from the special briefings and visits that are arranged. The number attending is strictly limited, with places allocated in such a way as to obtain a good balance between participants from the United States, the European community, the Commonwealth and other countries.

Among the participants from 22 countries who attended the 1982 sessions were an attaché to the Swiss Embassy in London, an assistant manager of a group of hotels in Bombay, the director of a school of languages in Caceres, Spain, a reporter for Maryland's Sentinel Newspapers, the headmaster of a sixth form college in Norway, a youth worker and recreational supervisor from Jamaica, the corporate manager, Barclays Bank International, Britain, and the director of Marketing-International, AM General Corporation, Southfield, who represented the Detroit Branch.

Requests for application forms should be addressed to Walter E. Forster, 1317 Sunningdale Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. 48236. Mr. Forster is the president of the Detroit Branch. Other branch officers who reside in The Pointe are Mrs. John H. Mueller, second vice-president, Mrs. S. W. Sorensen Jr., secretary, Mrs. A. Stewart Kerr, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Edward J. Tutag, treasurer. On the board of directors are William O. Bradley Jr., James A. Bridenstine, Mrs. Daniel J. Clifford, Malcolm L. Denise, Ms. Frances Keyes and Arthur O.A. Schmidt.

National chairman of the ESU is The Honorable Kingman Brewster, former Ambassador to the Court of St. James and former president of Yale University.

Peter and Suzette Gebhard, who shared the Detroit Branch's scholarship award to attend last year's International Summer School at Oxford, will report on "Britain Today" at the branch's next meeting, Thursday, Jan. 27, at the Detroit Golf Club.

'Ghandi' debuts as DIA benefit

The Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts will host the Michigan premier of the film "Ghandi" next Thursday, Jan. 20, at the Theatres at Prudential Town Center in Southfield. The museum benefit evening begins with a champagne reception at 7 p.m. and will be followed by an afterglow featuring Indian refreshments and an open bar.

Proceeds from the $50 per person donation for tickets, limited to 500 persons and available at the Founders Society membership office in the DIA or by calling 833-1454 or 833-7971, will be used to fund the Founders' primary programs: special exhibitions, education, conservation and publications.

Donations are tax deductible according to current law. Founders membership is not required to purchase them. Mr. and Mrs. A. Alfred Taubman are honorary chairpersons of the event.

"Ghandi," 20 years in the making by distinguished director Sir Richard Attenborough, follows 56 of the 79 years of Mahatma Ghandi's life and includes detailed reconstruction of the ashram (commune) in which he lived in 1917. The film culminates in a 300,000-person funeral procession.

Project protects THE Star-Spangled Banner

By Laurie Wertz
Smithsonian News Service

The "rocket's red glare and bombs bursting in air" haven't been the only threats to the flag that inspired Francis Scott Key's famous poem.

THE Star-Spangled Banner, the giant (34-by-30-foot) flag that greets visitors at the National Museum of American History in Washington, D.C., had collected lots of dirt over the years: a messy mix of dust, soil, grass and even microscopic blue cotton particles from visitors' jeans clinging to the priceless flag.

Museum conservators attributed the grimy buildup to the banner's dramatic location directly in front of the busy, often drafty museum entrance on the National Mall. "The main problem was dust which comes in with visitors and on eddies of air and then settles on the flag," Scott Odell, head of the museum's Division of Conservation, explains.

Also, the mere fact that the flag has been hanging in one place, exposed to light and air for 19 years, was a major factor in the accumulation of dirt.

Clearly, the Stars and Stripes were facing new dangers. Besides being unattractive, "dust in the long run wears by abrasion as the flag sways slightly in the drafts,"

Rita Adrosko, head of the museum's Textile Division, notes. "Chemical substances trapped in dust might also contribute to degradation of the flag's surface."

The museum recently completed a delicate cleaning project to protect the flag from further deterioration. Both sides of the flag were vacuumed by conservators working from a scaffolding, using small, low-suction, battery-powered vacuum cleaners. The flag's surroundings — walls, lighting fixtures and air ducts — were also cleaned.

An opaque theatrical curtain was then placed in front of the flag to keep it in total darkness, except when unveiled for brief, hourly sound-and-light shows during museum hours. The air-handling system, which creates a clean air curtain around the flag, was upgraded to control dust as well as humidity and temperature.

The Star-Spangled Banner, which Key observed in the "dawn's early light" of Sept. 14, 1814, has had many adventures during its 165 years. Little is known about the flag's treatment from 1814 to 1907, when it belonged to the family of Colonel George Armistead, commander of Fort M'Henry during Britain's unsuccessful attack on Baltimore in 1814.

But the earliest known photograph of the flag, taken in 1874, shows it crudely tacked to a coarse backing, with one star missing and the white stripes tattered.

In 1914 Mrs. Amelia Fowler, of Boston, stitched the flag to a new backing. It was then hung horizontally in the Smithsonian Institution's Arts and Industries Building. After Pearl Harbor it was folded and stored in a tar-paper-covered package in a cavern near Luray, Va.

When the war ended the flag was rehung in a glass case, its bottom edge set in moth crystals. During its stay in Arts and Industries, the flag was vacuumed only once; no other treatment is recorded. In 1963 the banner was moved to its present location.

The recent conservation project will not undo all the ravages of age, but it should help to preserve the Stars and Stripes for future visitors' enjoyment.

The Reverend Leonard P. Blair, former archivist of the Archdiocese of Detroit, will discuss "Records of the Archdiocese of Detroit" at a meeting of the Polish Genealogical Society Saturday, Jan. 15, at 2 p.m. in the Explorers Room of the Detroit Public Library located on Woodward Avenue, opposite the Detroit Institute of Arts. The speaker is a native Detroit-er, a graduate of Sacred Heart Seminary and the North American College in Rome and has studied at the University of Michigan. The meeting is free and open to the public. Help in Polish research problems will be available one hour prior to the program. Free parking is available in the lot on the Putman Street side of the library.

True power is authentic

While much is written about powers of assertiveness and manipulation, the assertive manipulators of this world often do not win. The head of a Fortune 500 firm may not be an MBA who clawed his way to the top; he may be a man of firm principles who believed in the integrity of his product.

Ardis Whitman calls these men and women who have the power to change other people's lives, who are remembered and revered long after they are dead, authentic people. A close look at their characters and personalities reveals many similarities: they share characteristics accessible to everyone.

"Authenticity," Whitman writes in the January Reader's Digest, "proceeds from the center of a person's life but is not self-centered. It sets a glowing example for others and moves them to action. This is an uncanny power, and it is available to all of us."

Among authentic characteristics is a clear sense of direction. Whitman cites the story of the great missionary doctor, Albert Schweitzer, who as a boy reluctantly went with a chum to kill birds. But when he heard the birds singing their songs mingling with the church bells, Schweitzer shooed them away. From that time on his first priority was reverence for life — all life.

Self-generated energy is another trait of the authentic person. It is exhausting to try to impress other people. The self-honest person does not waste time on such conceits.

Striving for authenticity is not easy; it's a lifetime endeavor. Admit your conflicts, Whitman suggests, and accept the idea that nothing is wrong with being different from other people. "Solitude," said Nietzsche, "makes us tougher toward ourselves and tenderer toward others."

See why world is radioactive

The food you eat, the house you live in, the airplane you fly in... much of the world around you contributes to the amount of radiation you receive. "Our Radioactive World," an exhibit sponsored by the American Nuclear Society, comes to the Detroit Science Center from the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn., next week and will remain there for a limited time.

The exhibit, which includes a Geiger counter, lets visitors compute their individual yearly radiation dose and presents information on what radiation is via photographs, drawings and the "Energy Scrambler" computer game.

Admission to the Science Center, located at John R and East Warren Avenue behind the Detroit Institute of Arts, in the University Cultural Center, and open daily except Monday, is $3 for ages six and up, 75 cents for four and five-year-olds, including the Space Theatre, currently showing "Hail Columbia!" — the story of America's space shuttle. Children under four are free.

Information on family and group rates may be obtained by calling 833-1892.

MARY CORNILLIE, daughter of MARY and HENRY CORNILLIE, of The Pointe, was recently selected a student campus tour guide at Siena Heights College. A 1982 Grosse Pointe South High School graduate, Mary is a freshman fashion merchandising major at Siena.

Record Keeping, a one-day workshop for current or prospective small business owners, will run from 8:15 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 29, at Wayne State University's Northeast Center, located on Schroeder at Nine Mile Road in East Detroit.

The program, co-sponsored by WSU's College of Lifelong Learning and the United States Small Business Administration and directed by Albert Spalding, C.P.A., attorney, financial planner for Detroit Associates, is designed to introduce participants to various record keeping systems, instruct them in how long to preserve records, and provide time and money saving tips.

Fee is $35, including course materials and coffee breaks. Registration information may be obtained by calling WSU, 577-4710.

THE WORLD'S NUMBER ONE Crippling BIRTH DEFECT.

HOW COME NO ONE'S HEARD OF IT?

Simple. No one's talked about it. Because until recently, very little was known about Spina Bifida. Doctors didn't know what caused it. Nor what cured it. But now, we do know how to treat it.

There's no pretty way to describe Spina Bifida. It's a birth defect of the central nervous system that can result in paralysis of the legs, no control of the bowel and bladder, and accumulation of water on the brain, which, if left untreated, can cause retardation.

Yet even in its most severe form, Spina Bifida can be treated effectively. The catch is, proper treatment should begin immediately after birth.

So if you're expecting a child, or if a child you love has Spina Bifida, please contact us. We can help.

Pointer of Interest

By Janet Mueller

She specialized in Armenian Dance when she took her Masters degree in Dance Education, also studying Russian, Turkish and Greek Dance in order to define the pure Armenian style. It figured: she is, after all, Armenian, and what could be more natural than to dance the dances of her "roots?"

So what is Jeanne Fine doing in a pareu, offering coconut, bananas and other traditional South Sea islands foods to her audience at the conclusion of one of the Mahealani Polynesian Dance Ensemble's carefully-researched performances of the authentic dances of Bora Bora, Tahiti, Hawaii, Fiji, Samoa, Tonga and New Zealand?

It seems that once you get into ethnic dancing, you just keep going, and going. "I wanted to learn MORE," says Jeanne. It seems that once you begin to want to learn more about ethnic dancing, you find there are more than a few people in the metropolitan Detroit area who are just like you.

There are groups of ethnic dancers. The Cranbrook International Folk Dance Group, for instance, and Colorful Ethnic Natives, from whose members the Mahealani Polynesian Dance Ensemble, founded almost 10 years ago by Shari Lipson, drew its members.

Shari had gone to the South Sea Islands, researched some of their ancient dances, and returned to teach others in her local folk dance group (Jeanne Fine among them) the traditional Polynesian movements. And, after that first trip, Shari went back again and again, doing more research, bringing more dances back with her to Detroit — until she decided she couldn't deny the Call of the Islands any longer, in a personal sense. Shari is moving to Hawaii permanently.

Jeanne Fine is now director of the Mahealani Polynesian Dance Ensemble. It's an eight-member group, seven women and one man, originally from the Basque area of Spain, who joined four years ago and whom Jeanne describes as "absolutely terrific!" Jeanne's husband, Charles, is Mahealani's sound director.

EVERY DANCE THE Mahealani Ensemble performs is authentic, carefully researched. So are Mahealani's instruments and costumes. "We make and store and clean our costumes," Jeanne explains. "I'd call our members very dedicated. You have to be if you commit yourself to learning a new dialect for virtually everything you sing and speak."

Members of the group have come and gone over the years, but a few of the originals remain. No ensemble member is Polynesian. "But I feel," says Jeanne, "because we do love these dances, and we devote so many, many hours to practicing them, to getting them right, that we DO have a right — perhaps a small right, but a definite one — to perform them."

Mahealani has danced all over the metropolitan area, for church and school and community groups. The ensemble has danced in Canada, before an audience that included ambassadors from the British Commonwealth South Sea Island nations.

JEANNE FINE, OF BOURNEMOUTH ROAD

This Sunday, Jan. 16, the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit, located on East Kirby Street at the corner of John R in Detroit's University/Cultural Center, will be the setting for a two-hour (2 to 4 p.m.) Polynesian Program, one of a series of Ethnic Sundays presented by the International Institute throughout the year. But a very special one.

"This is a one-of-a-kind Ethnic Sunday for the Institute," says Mary Ball, its executive director. "Although there is no local immigrant group of Polynesians, Detroit is fortunate to have the Mahealani Dancers. This group has studied the least known dances of the Islands, which are not performed anywhere else in the continental United States."

In addition to a dance concert, the program will include a travel film of the Islands and a taste of South Seas cuisine.

"WE'LL SHOW THEM a movie, we'll dance for them, and we'll feed them," Jeanne says, describing what's in store for Mahealani's Ethnic Sunday audience. The menu for the day will include Polynesian chicken, Hawaiian nut bread, fruit and vegetable sticks. "We're preparing and cooking all the food ourselves. We'll probably start Saturday morning — and finish around 1 a.m. Sunday morning."

The concert program will include the candle dance honoring the Fire God Pele, the Torea and Otea welcoming dances from Tahiti, the Samoan Kava Sasa ceremony (a sitting ritual during which the potent kava drink is prepared) and the Hoe Ana canoe dance which describes the voyage of the Polynesians north from Bora Bora to Hawaii.

"Polynesian dances are basically down-to-earth stuff, stylized interpretations of what people did all the time in the Islands, his-stories of the South Pacific people," Jeanne explains. In fact, a new field of research is seeking to explore the history and culture of the South Pacific, which had no written language, through a study of its dances.

The Mahealani Ensemble uses the traditional Polynesian instruments: the ancient Ipu, a hollowed-out gourd, one of the first noisemakers; the more modern Uli-Uli, a feather-decorated gourd with the seeds left in; the slitted bamboo Puili sticks.

Jeanne's middle child (the Fines have three) is coming in from Michigan State University to throw the Maori Poi-Balls. There are long Poi and short Poi. Charlene Fine specializes in the long Poi, and performs in the costume she spent 40 hours hand-beading and embroidering.

Of course, Jeanne Fine doesn't spend all her time dancing. She teaches cross country skiing at the Neighborhood Club, and aerobics at Vic Tanny and night school. She coaches swimming and soccer after-school at Parcels.

She's read everything she could get her hands on, seen every film she could find on the South Seas. She's never been there. "But someday, I am going to go!"

RESERVATIONS ARE necessary for Polynesian Ethnic Sunday, at $5 per person including food ($4 for International Institute members). Ticket information may be obtained by calling the Institute, 871-8600, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

The International Institute is a Torch Drive-supported agency that provides social services to new immigrants and foreign speaking people as well as educational and cultural programs, open to the entire metropolitan community, about the different ethnic cultures of Detroit.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

By now, just about everyone has heard about what's "in" and what's "out" for 1983. At last word, this column was still "in" and in celebration of that fact, we bring you the ins and outs of sports so far in 1983... otherwise known as "what's great and what ain't."

What's great . . .

. . . that Free Press International Marathon runners can continue to spell relief G-r-o-s-s-e P-o-i-n-t-e. Thanks to last month's unanimous decision by the Farms City Council, the annual marathon will again be run on Farms city streets. The only qualification, that runners be limited to one-half mile on the lakeside of Lakeshore Road — the same route as last time — should pose little problem for runners, who can continue to look forward to that great Grosse Pointe hospitality.

. . . that local hockey fans got to see their old favorites again when former Red Wing greats faced off against a team of former National Hockey League superstars in the Jan. 11 Masters of Hockey benefit game at Joe Louis Arena. Seeing the likes of Gordie Howe, Bobby Hull and Phil Esposito on the ice again must have put a lump in the throats of everybody in attendance who possessed even the dimmest memory of pre-slapshot, pre-expansion, pre-Gretzky hockey.

. . . that local hockey teams have players like the Smude brothers. The Smudes may be good — or just plain lucky — but two of the teams winning International Silver Stick regional competition last month can each boast a Smude brother in their ranks. Brad Smude, 12, centers a line for the Warren Cobras Pee Wee A regional champs. And brother Chris Smude, 15, anchors the defense for the regional champion Grosse Pointe Bruin Midget A team.

. . . that the exterior of Tiger Stadium is finally going to get the sprucing-up it so desperately needs. The renovation, which in part includes the installation of off white and blue metal siding and something called "blue spectra glaze block" to replace cracked and peeling paint, begins Feb. 1 and is scheduled to be completed by Oct. 1. (In time for the World Series, no doubt.)

. . . that people still "give" things away. Take, for example, the Detroit Pistons. The Pistons, with five gift-promotion nights in January, are runaway leaders in the local giveaway standings. Jan. 14 is Pontiac Mall Pennant Night at the Silverdome; followed by Winston Baseball Hat Night on Jan. 19, Marathon Oil Jackets Night on Jan. 22; Daniels Associates Dental Kit Night on Jan. 26; and Winston Ski Cap Night on Jan. 28. Oh, yes. The Pistons will interrupt all that gift-giving with a little basketball on those occasions. And hopefully, Piston fans will soon be treated to a Tote Bag Night — how else are they going to get all that stuff home?

. . . that for one brief week, the Detroit Lions gave long, long, long-suffering football fans something to cheer about. And that by backing into the playoffs and backing right out in the embarrassing fashion they did, they proved, hopefully, once and for all, that they need a lot more help than folks thought. And what's great about that discovery is: at least it's a beginning.

. . . and what ain't

. . . that while the fact that Tiger Stadium is going to be looking better is great . . . and that taxpayers aren't going to be footing the bill is great . . . the fact that baseball fans will be paying for the repairs until at least 1991 . . . well, that isn't great. The 90-cent service fee on each ticket sold will go toward paying the repair bonds — and that service charge will stay in effect until 1991 and possibly until 2003, according to the Tiger Baseball Club. Here's hoping we see a better-than-fourth-place team playing in the prettied-up stadium before then.

. . . that boxing public relations is so typical of what is wrong with the sport. In a recent press release describing an early December "Battle of the Champions," the public relations people had Wilfredo "Bazooka" Gomez risking his crown against Guadalupe "Lupe" Pintor. The crown those two were fighting for, according to the release, was the World Super BANTAMweight crown. Now everybody knows that the boxing class is called BANTAMweight, and everybody knows that the p.r. folks probably just let a few typographical errors get by them, but goof-ups like that tend to lend credence to the belief that boxing isn't a first class sport.

. . . that television programming has to be interrupted by commercials like that new Kirk Gibson-Dave Rozema car advertisement currently cluttering the airwaves. Speaking of what isn't first class . . . even the most ardent admirers of our boys are chuckling over that silly offering.

. . . that December couldn't have been about three months longer for the Detroit Red Wings. After a winless November, the Wings took off last month, playing some fine hockey and losing only three games. But they've since reverted to their November bad habits so far in 1983, and are having a hard time adding to the win column.

Brownell cagers top South Lake

The Brownell eighth grade boys' basketball team soundly defeated St. Clair Shores South Lake, 36-10. The Bulls led at halftime, 20-2. Captain Brady Kraushaar was the key to the big win, scoring 25 points, grabbing six rebounds and dishing off three assists.

Chris Pettit scored seven and co-captains Jim Dara and Tim Piche put in two points each. Mark Bente and Caven West helped in giving Brownell its second win against no losses.

The seventh grade boys' team ran its record to 2-0 by defeating South Lake, 20-13. Andy Walker accounted for six points and 13 rebounds in a balanced scoring attack that saw all five Brownell starters score. Mike Finch, Matt Frame and Kirk Lowry chipped in four points each. Andre Bielski had two points.

"We won this game on defense," coach Paul Pellerito said after the victory.

By Paul Regelbrugge
North High

After playing very well during the Christmas break the Norsemen came upon a rude awakening last week in a 57-47 varsity basketball loss to East Detroit. North then bounced back to thrash Lake Shore, 62-35.

"It was an entirely good team effort," commented coach Ray Ritter. "I was surprised that we played so poorly against East Detroit, but I was pleased we finally played up to our potential against Lake Shore."

Mark Davey fired in 16 points to lead the way in the East Detroit loss, and Rich Pelt scored 17 points with Davey contributing 12 in the Bi-County victory.

Now holding a 2-1 Bi-County League record and despite being 2-5 overall, the Norsemen reside in second place, only one game out of first. Coach Ritter feels that North will be right in the race at the end of the season and knows that every league game will be important.

North will play at Clintondale at 7:30 p.m. this Friday, Jan. 14.

Wrestlers are unbeaten

Carrying an unbeaten Bi-County record and 6-1 overall, North wrestlers made Brablec their latest victims as the Norsemen won eight of nine bouts, including five pins to win, 55-16.

Dave and Greg Fleming, Jim Seagram, Steve Taugher and Ken Werenski earned pins, while Pat Marlow and Fred Schultz outscored their opponents. Greg Fobare, Pete Moody and Cedric Patmon won by void.

North's next home meet will be Thursday, Jan. 20 at 6 p.m. against Highland Park, Bishop Borgess and Utica.

Gymnasts qualify

The North girls' gymnastics team earned a state qualifying team score last week when it downed Farmington Harrison 115.45-93.7 to boost its record to 2-0.

Cindy Tsangalias was first on the vault (8.2), second on the bars (7.55), second on the beam (7.4) and tied for third with Andi Thompson on the floor (7.25).

Karen McCarthy was second on the vault (7.95) and first on the bars (8.15), beam (7.75) and floor (8.55). Karen Willaert placed third on the vault with a score of 7.65 and third on the bars (7.05). Alisa Jacques was third on the beam (7.3).

Swimmers lose

North's boys' swim team was edged by Dearborn, 63-61, in a disputed contest Jan. 4, despite three wins each by Tom Cobau (200 medley relay, 100 free and 400 free relay) and Bill Luberto (200 medley relay, 100 fly and 400 free relay). The swimmers visit South this Saturday, Jan. 15, at 2 p.m.

Spikers drop set

After edging Centerline, 16-14, in the first game, the girls' varsity volleyball team lost the best of three sets, 15-8 and 15-7.

June LaGrasso served four points to lead a well-balanced attack in the first game and Donna Marsden repeated that performance in the second game.

The junior varsity defeated Centerline 15-10 and 15-7.

Jenna Cook and Beth Fuchs excelled in game one scoring nine points between them, and Dawn Cartwright led the way in game two scoring five points while serving to begin the game. Celeste Sartor and Lea Koze also starred both offensively and defensively.

The freshmen split their volleyball matches as they lost to Lapeer East, 15-10 and 15-13, before coming back to earn a win over Lapeer West, 12-15, 15-3, 15-7. Sue Bond, Gina Vento, Brooke Bessert and Ellen Guoin excelled offensively.

Junior varsity wins

Getting only three chances at Brablec, the junior varsity wrestlers pinned all three of Brablec's wrestlers to win, 18-0. Bob Wells, Shawn Dowden and Dan Norey were the winners.

The J.V. cagers continued to play good ball as they squeaked by East Detroit last week, 38-36. Kevin Weidenger scored 14 points for North.

These jumpers had heart

Like the song says, "You Gotta Have Heart" — and the students at Brownell School had just that in December, when they raised $1,205.55 in their Jump Rope for Heart benefit for the Michigan Heart association.

Eighteen teams of six each jumped rope for a team total of 180 minutes and a school total of 3,240 minutes. The winning team, collecting $357.40, were Theresa Hall, Heather Horlacker, Becky Conrad, Liz Statts, Patty Roustemis and Beth Edwards. The girls will receive a trophy for their efforts.

Stoyka swims for Ferris . . .

Mark Stoyka, a 1982 graduate of North High, is a member of the 1983 Ferris State College swimming team. Stoyka will swim the breaststroke event for the Bulldogs, who finished 4-5 in dual meet action last season. A freshman majoring in business at Ferris, Stoyka is the son of Charles and Faye Stoyka, of The Woods.

Marlies split league games

The Grosse Pointe Marlboro Bantam AA hockey club traded victories with Lakeland in two league contests last week. Grosse Pointe completely dominated the first game, winning 6-3, but couldn't mount a scoring attack in the rematch, losing, 3-0.

Kevin Tisdale led the Marlies scoring in the Jan. 4 victory, setting up two goals and scoring two. Lakeland broke out on top before Tisdale tied it up after taking a pass from Scott Neid and out-racing his opponents to the net.

The Marlies took the lead when captain Joe Sullivan beat the Lakeland goalie from the top of the circle after a nice set-up pass from linemate Tisdale. Richard Pesegna put the Marlies up, 3-1, on a goal from a scramble in front of the net. Linemates Tom Ugval and Jamie Parker made the play with their aggressive fore-checking.

Tisdale capped the Marlies scoring in the second period with a fine unassisted goal scored after he picked up an errant Lakeland pass. Grosse Pointe played a little carelessly early in the third period, allowing Lakeland to close the gap with two goals. But the Marlies registered some insurance goals as Ugval blistered a 30-footer after taking a set-up pass from Parker; Parker himself delivered the finishing blow when he jammed in a goal-mouth rebound on a shot from the blue line. Brian Hein and Tisdale assisted on the play.

The rematch was all Lakeland as early Marlies pressure couldn't produce a goal and the Hawks picked up momentum to take a 3-0 victory.

The Marlies have played inconsistently this season and are hoping to get it all together in 1983. The Marlies are one of four Pointe teams journeying to South Bend, Ind., this weekend to compete in invitational tournament play at the University of Notre Dame.

Pointe athletes in action

Pointe athletes are involved in sports at their respective colleges this year, including three Pointers who were recently commended for their contributions to college athletic teams.

Kelly Kirkpatrick recently represented Skidmore College at the Northeast College Field Hockey Tournament. After she was named to play forward on the all-star team, Kirkpatrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kirkpatrick, of Whittier Road, went on to compete in the Northeast Tournament in Westport, Conn. Kirkpatrick is a Skidmore freshman.

Swimming in the freestyle event for St. John's University this year is John Hessburg, son of Dr. and Mrs. Philip Hessburg, of Park Lane. Hessburg, a senior, is being counted on to help St. John's to a Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference title.

And Northern Michigan University senior diver Jodi Stout, of the Woods, may be helping her women's swim team at NMU to a title. Stout, a North High graduate, has 64 points and four first place finishes this season. She has NMU's best score in one meter diving this year.

Stout became an AIAW Division II All-American for the second straight year when she placed 15th in three meter diving at the 1982 nationals. She scored 87 points last year including three firsts, eight seconds and six third place finishes. Stout is eighth on the NMU scoring list with 343.75 points.

Snyder leads top spikers

Our Lady Star of the Sea High School alumna Catherine Snyder helped Mount Holyoke College's intercollegiate volleyball team to the 1982 NCAA national championships with a 29-6 record. The Division III Mount Holyoke team was ranked 10th nationally.

Snyder, a sophomore, served as captain of the Mount Holyoke team. While at Star of the Sea, she received the Athlete of the Year and Scholar Athlete Award in basketball and volleyball. She served as captain of the Star volleyball team and earned All-League and All-Catholic honors.

Snyder and her Mount Holyoke team earned first place honors this year in the Seven Sisters Tournament, the Northeast Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Championships and the Class B Massachusetts State Championships.

Grosse Pointe Blues on win track

The Grosse Pointe Bantam A Blues got off to a winning start after the long holiday layoff, winning twice before heading into a busy January tournament schedule.

Facing McDonalds of Toledo, the Blues broke out on top early when Peter Guzzardo converted passes from Bob Rosiek and Mike Amore to score just 12 seconds into the game. Guzzardo ended the first period with a hat trick, and sent Grosse Pointe well on its way to an 8-1 win, when he scored twice on assists from Rosiek.

Joe Glaza's goal staked the Blues to a 4-0 lead before Tim Bohan scored after taking passes from Rosiek and Matt Tanielian early in the third period. The Blues iced the game when they scored three unanswered goals. Rosiek scored two goals to go along with his four assists and Rob Kirsch added a goal, John Kacpura and Pahl Zinn assisting. Ken Brooks had a fine game in the nets.

The Blues then traveled to St. Clair Beach, Ont., to play Riverside in an exhibition game. The Blues again broke on top in the first period when Rob Kirsch scored, with Phil Aho assisting. Ken Frank scored 13 seconds later after taking a long pass from Glaza. Guzzardo scored 45 seconds after Frank's goal when he converted passes from Rosiek and Zinn.

In the second period, the visiting Blues outscored Riverside when Bohan tallied after taking a perfect pass from Frank and then Amore converted a Blues' power play chance with the long shot from the point. Kirsch recorded an assist on Amore's goal. Jeff Lacca took a pass from Tanielian and put the puck behind the Riverside goalie to close out the scoring and give the Blues a 6-1 victory.

The Blues will play three straight league games before traveling to Notre Dame University for a weekend of exhibition games. The hectic schedule should help the Blues prepare for their participation in the International Silver Stick Tournament finals Jan. 28 and 29 in Port Huron.

The Blues will then participate in District III playdowns, attempting to qualify for the state finals for the third year in a row.

South swimmers have what it takes to win

Winning the Eastern Michigan League 1982-83 title proved that the South High girls' swim team had what it takes.

The girls finished the year with a 9-3 overall record, 5-0 in the EML. The Blue Devils placed first in the EML/Bi-County Invitational and fourth out of 10 in the Grosse Pointe North Invitational. The girls placed fifth in the Class A state finals. The team also earned an All-American ranking, an honor bestowed to the top 30 girls' swim teams in the nation.

Outstanding individual achievements included Carrie Champion's varsity record time of 1:00.55 in the 100 butterfly. In the 200 medley relay, Cheryl Chase, Ryndy Ditmars, Gretchen Ream and Nancy Vettorello earned a varsity record with their time of 1:54.26.

Team members were honored for their achievements at the Dec. 15 Awards Night at South. Ditmars was named Most Valuable and Sue Benoit was chosen Most Improved.

Team "A" members included Jennifer Agnew, Heather Amberg, Amelia Bartoszewicz, Stefanie Bechenhauer, Suzanne Benoit, Sarah Bernard, Kristen Campbell, Elizabeth Cebrowski, Cheryl Chase, Carrie Champion, Kelly Champion, Maureen Connell, Ryndy Ditmars, Julie Droste, Kathryn Eckel, Pamela Labadie, Marsha Miller, Sharon O'Bryan, Helen Ollison, Susanne Orton, Gretchen Ream, Karen Rentschler, Maureen Riley, Thomasina Tedesco, Nancy Vettorello and Christine Weinberg.

Varsity "B" team members include Sarah Colegrove, Gwen Golobic, Michele Gryzenia, Susan Hays, Margaret Hines, Kim Hudson, Anne Huminski, Merritt Palm, Sara Redding, Catherine Sickford, Sheila Thompson, Catherine Trefzer and Carol Wolski.

Center Ice in the GPHA

Grosse Pointe Hockey Association teams got back into the schedule after the holidays, with plenty of Squirt division action. The North Stars and Islanders started things off on Jan. 5, when the Stars took an 8-2 win.

Charlie Stumb scored six goals and Gabe Benvenuto added a pair for the victorious Stars. Brad Hea had two assists and Jeff Giacobbe and Jack McSorley added one assist each. The Stars raced out to a 3-0 lead early in the first period and were never headed.

HUSKIES-NORTH STARS

The Huskies topped the North Stars, 3-1, behind the sharp goaltending of Paul Cavazos in the Huskies' net. The high-flying North Stars were held to a single goal as the Huskies tallied twice in the first period and hung on for the win.

OILERS-ISLANDERS

The Islanders and Oilers played to a 1-1 tie in the season's first sudden-death overtime game. After playing the extra period, the score remained tied, forcing the teams to schedule a rematch for the following day. Only goals by Paul Bogos and Nick Lorenzini marred the exceptional goaltending performances of the Oilers' Jim Bunn and the Islanders' Kevin Bai.

OILERS-ISLANDERS

The Oilers-Islanders rematch featured the same close-checking, hard-skating style of play seen in the 1-1 deadlock of a day earlier. This time, however, goals by the Oilers' Bogos and Renato Roxas and the near-flawless goaltending of Bunn led the Oilers to a 2-1 victory. Jason Bucko, Jeff Osborne and Mark Schweitzer drew assists. The steady defensive play of Blake Crawford and John McGlone helped offset the goal by the Islanders' Steve Bai and the strong goaltending of Kevin Bai.

South's Langs takes his act to Brown Univ.

By Mike Fitzgerald
Brown University

The very sound of his name takes you by surprise: Stark Langs. It sounds like the name of a movie star or rodeo cowboy. Well, Stark Langs is neither of these, but nevertheless, at 6-10, 225 pounds, he is a striking figure. As he strides through the cafeteria at Brown University, where he is a sophomore, people politely step aside. Langs is, quite literally, the "Big Man on Campus."

It is on the basketball court, however, where Langs has really made his presence felt. As the Bruins' starting center this year, Langs has come a long way since his part-time status as a freshman. The difference, explains Brown coach Mike Cingiser, has been the hard work that Langs has put in since last winter. "Stark worked extremely hard all summer on a weight program and came back 25 pounds heavier this fall," Cingiser says.

"That extra strength has given him an added edge on the boards this year, and has made him a much better scorer inside," Langs led the team in scoring in the Bruins' first game of the season, an 80-67 win over New Hampshire, with 16 points.

But it was more than the weights which helped Langs to improve over the summer. He played in the highly competitive North Providence Summer League, a league which has seen the likes of former NBA stars Marvin Barnes and Ernie DiGreggiorio pass through its ranks. There Langs helped his team reach the finals of the league's playoffs before they were eliminated.

"The summer league was a good experience for me," says Langs, who, despite his size, is quiet and reserved. "I played against some superb players, such as Otis Thorp from Providence College and Brian Burke from Dartmouth, and that competition helped me to improve."

There is still room for Langs to improve. At 19, he is still maturing physically. He did not begin playing basketball until he was a junior at South High, but thanks to coaches Tom Molloy and George Petrouleas he picked up the game quickly and became a standout player. As a senior he captained the team and won All-Eastern Michigan League honors. When he came to Brown, there was doubt as to whether he would be able to cut it in the Ivy League. Cingiser gave Langs a chance, though, and so far the Bruins' coach has been pleased.

"It's not an easy process to develop into a great basketball player," Cingiser says. "It is a slow, day by day process which can't be rushed. The most important thing is to have patience. Stark knows he has the potential to be an excellent player, but he also knows he isn't going to do so overnight."

"It's going to take time and a lot of hard work, but Stark has shown that he is willing to pay the price."

When you watch him play, you can see what Cingiser means. Sometimes Langs shows flashes of brilliance — a blocked shot or a thunderous rebound — but other times the immaturity shows. That doesn't bother Langs... he's the first to point out the areas where he can improve. "My rebounding, without a doubt, is the area where I need to improve most," he says. "I need to be more aggressive and less self-conscious." Yet day by day, in practice and in games, he keeps getting better and better.

An economics-applied math double concentrator, Langs sees a career in business in his future. He also has goals as far as sports are concerned. "Right now the main thing is that we, as a team, keep improving. I think we've improved since last year, and I think we're going to be better two years from now. The ultimate goal, of course is an Ivy League Championship, and I think that within the next couple of years we'll be contenders," Langs says.

But right now, Brown has a young team. With only two seniors on the squad, Cingiser hasn't hesitated to use his younger players. The loss of three starters from last year hasn't dampened the coach's enthusiasm for this year, for, in his words, Brown has "maybe it's best freshman group since the mid 70's."

So it seems that Brown Basketball and Stark Langs are well-suited for each other: they both keep improving day by day, and may well be rising in the Ivy League.

Stark Langs, No. 54, in his playing days at South High.

Neighborhood Club spikers end season

The final standings are in for the Neighborhood Club's fall co-rec volleyball season. Twenty-two teams each played eight Friday night games at the Brownell Middle School.

The Club's co-rec league featured special rules to make the game fun for all participants. Female and male players alternated positions and the ball had to be hit by at least one female player before it went over the net. Spiking and blocking were not allowed.

The league was divided into three divisions — blue, yellow and green. Final standings for each division follow.

In the blue division, the Loop-holes were 8-0, Harmony House Smash Hits and the Sabre Lancers were 6-2, the Dynamos were 4-4, Cal's Pizza and the Cookie Monsters were each at 3-5, Flying Machine earned a 1-7 mark and Little Tony's Lounge in the Woods was 0-8.

The yellow division featured a three-way tie for first, with the Court Jesters, Michelangelo's and Tony's Pub finishing with 6-2 marks. The Pointers earned a 4-4 record, followed by Athlete's Feet, Modern Hard Chrome and Thompson & DeMoss at 3-5. The Club 500 All Stars were 1-7.

Leading the green division were Slow Motion and Hollett Type-writer at 7-1; Herb's Hideaway and the Setters were 4-4 and Alma Mater and Wayne County Circuit Court were each 1-7.

The co-rec winter volleyball season began last week.

Competition in the Neighborhood Club's men's basketball league is underway. The latest standings for the six divisions are as follows:

Three cheers for Troy!

What's so unique about the 1982-83 South High Blue Devil varsity cheerleading squad? Hint: he's 5 feet, 8 inches tall, has brown hair and wears braces. He's sophomore Troy Brown and he's the only male cheerleader on the squad.

Troy joined the South cheerleading squad when it was formed last March and he has worked enthusiastically ever since. He attended cheerleading camp with the team last summer and has competed in cheerleading contests several times.

Brown's strength enables the squad to perform more difficult cheerleading stunts and mounts. "Troy's coordination and form have improved drastically. He's a real asset to the team," says cheerleading coach Vicki Rust.

It was Rust who began a campaign to include boys on the cheerleading squad when she arrived at South two years ago. She is hopeful more boys will try out for next year's team in March.

Cheerleader Brown takes a lot of kidding, but says it doesn't really bother him much anymore. "If you like what you're doing, and you're good at it, then it shouldn't matter what other people think," Brown theorizes. And cheerleading teammate Jennifer Ames looks at it this way: "What other guy gets to

Cheerleaders chosen at Pierce

Pierce cheerleading sponsor Frances Ralstrom completed the selection of the 1983 Pierce cheerleading squads last week. The squads will cheer for the seventh and eighth grade basketball teams.

Eighth grade cheerleaders are Jill Cassell, Kathy Amberg, Margie Geist, Renee Pomeroy, Margie Naughton and Sue Sparling. Seventh grade cheerleaders are Bonnie Berchback, Kari Dierkes, Elizabeth Emery, Stacy Stang, Elizabeth Ranno and Jodi Zevallos.

Marjorie Jacobson, Kathy Brooks, Amy Brumme and Kathy Wittenhagen are alternates.

Williams joins Wayne State cagers

Grosse Pointe North High School alumnus Glenn Williams was ruled eligible to join the Wayne State University basketball team last week — just in time for the Tartars' fifth victory in six games.

Williams, a junior center, is one of three new additions to the Tartar squad. The trio is being counted on to supply much-needed bench strength to the 5-4 Tartars as the team begins its Great Lakes Conference schedule this month.

Bruins start '83 out right

The First of Michigan Grosse Pointe Bruins started out the new year the right way — with three straight Midget division victories.

In league play, the Bruins defeated Sterling Heights, 5-3. Marty Sanclemente scored twice and drew two assists and linemate John Hirschfield scored once and added two assists. Stacey Rickert also scored and right winger Jeff Garrett earned one assist at his new position.

The Bruins then traveled to Windsor, defeating Windsor 240, 9-2. Sanclemente again led the scoring with two goals and two assists. Mike Brykalski and Rickert scored twice with Chris Luongo, Bob Nelson and Hirschfield scoring single goals.

The third victory was the best as the Bruins bested rival Flint, 4-3, at Flint. Sanclemente ignited the team with his first period, shorthanded goal. Flint tied the game before the Bruins bounced back with goals by Sanclemente and Rickert. Rickert's goal was set up on a nifty passing play by Steve Dettloff. After the Bruins killed a two-man Flint advantage, Rickert tucked in the game-winner with just 1:35 left in the game.

The win over Flint left the Bruins tied with Flint for first place with a 12-3 league mark. The Bruins are 29-4-1 overall.

CPR class today

People interested in obtaining cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) instruction are invited to the free class at Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe, 159 Kercheval Avenue, today, Jan. 13, from 7 to 10 p.m. Reservations should be made by calling the hospital's Education department at 884-8600, extension 2390.

The Heartsaver class offers basic instruction in CPR training. Participants learn some basic anatomy, the most common heart attack signals, and how to respond when heart attack occurs. Certified instructors teach rescue breathing, one-man CPR, and the obstructed airway maneuver. Those who successfully complete the class receive a card for one year certification in Michigan.

The Cottage Hospital CPR Heartsaver class is conducted by the Cottage Hospital Education department in cooperation with the Committee on Emergency Cardiac Care of the American Heart Association.

Everyone remembers something about his middle school lessons in English grammar. Usually the memories are of tedious and interminable exercises, full of vague terms. But for students of University Liggett Middle and Upper Schools' Grammar Program, grammar can be stimulating, competitive and satisfying.

According to Eric Linder, one of its teachers, the ULS Grammar Program is a series of concentrated weeks of grammar study with 12 levels precisely identifying and defining English grammar. The program, using a notebook and workbook of exercises created by the Upper School Foreign Language Department chairman and former language arts teacher Elizabeth Ferguson, is for seventh, eighth and selected ninth graders, and help them learn parts of speech and how language is used in ordinary sentences.

The students progress in the workbook at their own rate through lessons which increase in complexity as new terminology and more sophisticated materials are added. Anne Lampe, Middle School English coordinator, schedules grammar weeks especially devoted to grammar study, when all English classes meeting at a given period are re-organized according to the level of achievement of each student. Periodically students are tested to determine mastery. Passing the final comprehensive examination completes the school's requirements of the students.

A new approach to grammar study

Created in 1975-76, and introduced in 1976 the ULS Grammar Program was the product of teacher evaluation of inadequate programs previously used. From suggestions taken from questionnaires and discussion, Ms. Ferguson wrote what ULS English Department Chairman Michael Dundas calls, "One of the best unpublished textbooks on English grammar I have ever seen." According to Dundas, it was a case of a school personalizing its curriculum for the school's needs. There was a desire to "return to foundation work, and also to integrate grammar study with other subjects, especially foreign languages," Dundas said.

During grammar weeks students are inspired to achieve and set personal goals to finish certain levels of work. Mingling with other students from different classes at the same levels heightens competition among students and increases individual mastery of material, according to the school.

According to eighth grader Andrea Wundram, "you learn a lot from it" and the program is "a good thing to do. The exercises help, even though they could be more detailed. It helps people with writing, otherwise there would be so many errors."

Andrew MacLeod is a new eighth grader at ULS this year. He says it is "a pretty good program but tough on someone new." The grammar program seemed to do "too much at once" but now he feels "it's good to isolate the work on one basic thing to understand it more. Time is taken on what's important and the program helps me in better use of words and sentence structure in writing papers."

Nevertheless there may be a few disadvantages to the ULS Grammar Program, the school said. Some teachers feel too much time and emphasis are placed on mechanics rather than usage of the English language, while some parents feel levels' competition adds frustration, tension and stress to the students' lives. A few in both groups question how much of the formal terminology remains with the students, or if the lessons demonstrably carry over into student writing for individual expression.

Despite such criticism and the difficulty of making grammar stimulating, University Liggett School has instituted a program which seems to inspire the majority of students to learn a specific set of English grammar concepts. For the most part students proceed at their own rate and receive immediate gratification for their efforts, according to the school.
