Could it be . . . a decline in tax assessments?

Rob Patansu, owner of the Esquire Theater, last week announced a new admission policy, good for all shows on Wednesday and Thursday. Any patrons who bring in an item of non-perishable food will be admitted for 50 cents

Putansu is donating the food to Crossroads East, just down the street on East Jefferson, in Detroit. The organization dis-tributes bags of food to the needy and runs a soup kitchen on East Forest.

"It's a great deal," said Putansu. "For 50 cents people can see a movie and be entertained, and help someone else at the same time." Regular admission to the theater is $1.

They say everyone has an exact double of themselves somewhere in the world. We at the News have narrowed that down considerably, at least as far as our Society Editor Janet Mueller is concerned.

Janet has a hair dresser, (Leo, of Leo's Hair Fashions), who at their last session asked Janet how her sign business was going? Sign business, queried our Jan?

Whereupon Leo whipped out a business letter and card from Janet Mueller, of Pointe Promotions, producer of "unique, eye-catching indoor signs." Suddenly, it was doppelganger

It seems there is another Janet Mueller, who lives on Bournemouth Road, who is the creative light behind Pointe Productions. When contracted; she admitted she had experienced some crossed wires concerning identities and had been expecting a call.

"People keep telling me they enjoy my writing and to say hello to my mother," said the other Janet. "When I explain on't write and mean someone else's mother, they start getting confused. My mother lives in Ohio.'

The two Janets finally met via telephone and admitted it was strange talking to them-selves. Both agreed the situation was a hoot and wished each other luck.

Farms City Manager Andrew Bremer was absent from last Monday night's council meeting, but with good cause. He and wife Kathy were in East Grand Rapids celebrating the birth of grandson Thomas Andrew Bremer.

T.A.B., son of Jeff and Sandra Bremer, checked in Sunday night, Jan. 23. According to a city hall spokesman, the youngest Bremer weighed eight pounds, is 20 inches long and can "already palm a basket-ball." Congratulations grandpa.

Year after year they climbed — 10 percent, 17 and then more than a quarter — striking dread in the hearts of Grosse Pointe homeowners. Typed notices of the new assessed value of your property for the coming tax year, usually in the mail by mid-February, had become the most unwelcome sign of spring.

But this year it's going to be different, according to officials in the county assessor's office. For the first time in more than 30 years — possibly since before World War II - assessed values may actually go down. Not up, but down.

The reasons are the depressed real estate market and changes in the state Tax Commission's guidelines for figuring assessments. Instead of using 30-month studies of sales to compute average home values, assessors will be allowed this year to use studies based on the 12 months of 1982, which should more accurately reflect the down swing in home

The decision on whether to use those 12-month figures or also legal 24-month sales studies will rest with local city officials, according to Wayne County Director of Taxation George McEachran. He said 24-month studies in Grosse Pointe show no change in home values compared to last show a 1 to 5 percent decline in the five Pointes, he added.

The assessed value of property is used to compute all property taxes owed to cities, the local school system, Wayne County and the county community college. While values were climbing (by as much as 29 percent in one city in 1981), those units of government were reaping the benefit of increased revenue without voting to hike tax rates. Now that they're coming down, those governments may face problems.

McEachran said he estimates revenue loss to the county will approach $5 million, based on tentayear's figures. But 12-month tive assessment figures. The studies, still incomplete, may Grosse Pointe public schools' Grosse Pointe public schools' Business Manager Christian Fenton said the system would lose at least $300,000 for every 1 percent drop in values at current tax

The cities have been asked to last spring (with record numbers of appeals), I think they're going to go with 12 month studies. Not that they want to, but from a political standpoint I think they'll have to," McEachran speculated.

"If they don't, they'll probably have a real problem with their people."

Thomas Kressbach, manager of Grosse Pointe City, said the decision will be tough for small gov-

"I don't know if you're doing the taxpayer a favor by rolling back taxpayer a tavor by rolling back assessments, then increasing the tax rate because you need the money," he said. "The likelihood is that next year, if the economy picks up at all, the assessments will be increased again anyway."

Kressbach said he had not yet evaluated figures for his city and did not know what approach he would take.

Divorce and age are on the rise, 80 census says

By Susan McDonald

It's been well over a decade since the state Attorney General ordered Grosse Pointe realtors to stop their racially discriminating 'point system'' for evaluating and excluding prospective homeowners. But since that time, the number of black persons in the five Pointes had decreased, according to 1980 census figures recently made available by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments.

The census bureau found only 87 blacks (less than 1 percent of the total population) in the five Pointes, compared to 96 in 1970. But it also found a substantial in crease in other minorities, primarily Spanish speaking persons. The number of all non-white persons reached 1,062 in 1980, almost 2 percent of the total population. That includes 442 of Spanish descent. There were more than 4,000 persons who do not speak English as a primary language at home.

The census report also confirmed what many expected: that the age of persons in the Pointes and the number of senior citizens have increased dramatically in the decade. In Grosse Pointe City, 18 percent of the population is 65 years of age or older, in the Farms it's 17 percent, Shores and Woods it's 14 percent. Only in the Park, did the ratio of seniors decline slightly, from 14 in 1970 to 13 percent in 1980. Charles Leman, a planning consultant for the city of Grosse Pointe Park, speculated the reason is a shortage of con-dominiums and apartments for the elderly in that city.

THE MEDIAN AGE increased by four years in three of the cities, but remained stable at 33 and 39 in the Park and Farms, respectively. The median age of the City is 39, the Shores 43 and Woods is 38.

The census report also tells a great deal about the family life of Pointers. More people are living alone or in non-family households, more people are divorced and more children are living with single parents.

Of the 18,572 households in the Pointe about three-quarters were what the census bureau considers "families," two or more related persons living together. About 12,600 werre married couples and fewer than half of them (47 percent) have children under 18 years at home.

In 1970, the bureau found more than half (53 percent) of the married couples had children at home. In 1970, the census reported that 92 percent of the children under 18 in Grosse Pointe were living with two parents. By 1980 that number dropped five percentage points, leaving 1,682 children living with only one parent or another person. Nationally, only 77 percent of the children lived with two parents in 1980, according to the bureau.

THE DIVORCE rate also was on the rise in Grosse Pointe. In 1980 the census bureau found one divorced or separated person for every 13 married persons. Ten years ago, that ratio was one to 24. The recent census located three times as many separated or divorced females (1,350) as divorced or separated males (only 701) in the five Pointes. There were more than five times as many widows (2,957) as widowers (524) in the cities.

Per capita income figures compiled by the census bureau reflect income in 1979 dollars. The Shores, as usual, lead the way in Grosse Pointe with a per capita income of $27,813. It was followed by the Farms at $21,701 per person, the City at $16,533, the Woods at $13,808 and the Park at $13,271. Median family incomes were $57,951 in the Shores, $38,400 in the Farms, $32,434 in the Woods, $31,514 in the City and $29,644 in the Park. That compares with a 1980 national median family income of just $19,661, according to the census.

At least two other Michigan cities outranked the Shores on per capita income: Barton Hills Village, with $33,525, and Bloomfield Hills with $35,327, which is one of the highest income figures in the nation, according to a SEMCOG official.

The bureau found poverty in Grosse Pointe too, about 1,564 families living below the 1979 poverty level in the five cities, or about 3 percent of the total population. Those figures were basi-

Prosecutor to appeal murder reversal

By Tom Greenwood

The Wayne County Prosecutors Office last week confirmed it is pushing ahead with plans to appeal the recent ruling of the state Court of Appeals reversing the 1981 murder conviction of Farms teenager David McKendrick.

Citing a 1982 Michigan Supreme Court ruling pertaining to a defendant's rights, the Appeals Court earlier this month reversed McKendrick's guilty plea because "the court failed to inform the defendant at plea taking proceedings that he could not be placed on probation.'

McKendrick, then 15, pled guilty to second degree murder in the October, 1980 slaying of 81-yearold Kerby Road resident Elizabeth Keir. He was sentenced by Judge Richard Dunn to 20-40 years in prison and sent to the Riverside Correctional Facility in Ionia to receive psychiatric care.

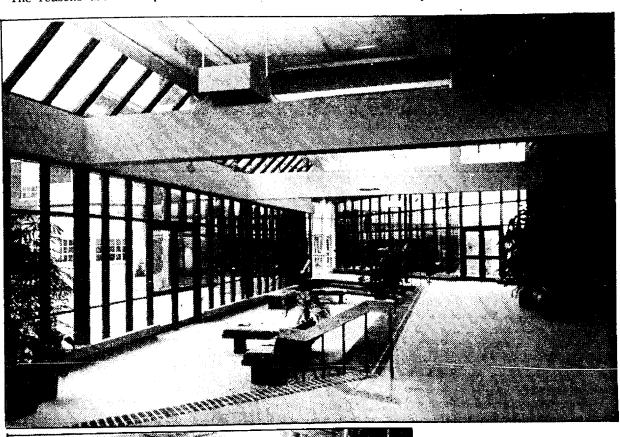

A spokesman for the Wayne County Prosecutors Office said paper work on the case had been completed and sent to Lansing appealing the reversal.

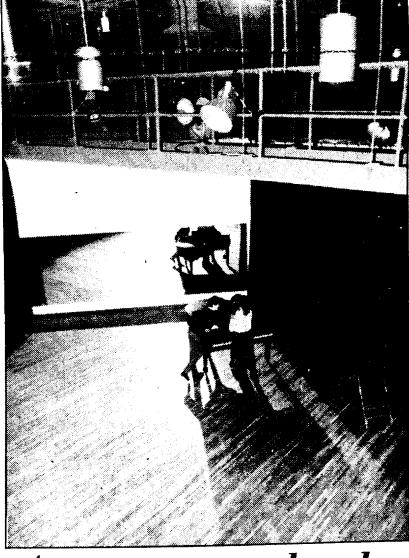

Jim Neuhard, director of the state Appellate Defenders Office. confirmed that his department handled the appeal at McKendrick's request.

"The request has to come from the defendant himself," said Neuhard. "Not from his family. Everyone convicted in Michigan, whether civilly or criminally, has the right of appeal.

"McKendrick had to take definite steps to appeal his case. He was told at the time of sentencing that he has 60 days within which to send back papers asking for an appeal.

Park asks court to close arcade

By Susan McDonald

A face-off over the future of a video arcade at the East Jefferson "gateway to Grosse Pointe" is scheduled to resume next Friday, Feb. 4, in Circuit Judge Maureen Reilly's courtroom.

The city of Grosse Pointe Park will ask Judge Reilly to close down the arcade in the lobby of the Esquire Theater because it is in violation of local ordinance. A city law, passed three days after Several people who live and work in the neighborhood pushed the city to take action against the arcade. They have attended council meetings complaining that youngsters who frequent the game room litter, vandalize and create a nuisance in the neighborhood.

A LITTLE MORE than a year ago, this was all but a dream for Jacomo, Liggett's creative and performing arts chairman. It was then art classes were squeezed into two rooms, while dancers plied on a hardwood gymnasium floor and musicians rehearsed in cramped quarters.

Jacomo went to school administrators with a plan to house all art classes under one roof, a concept the arts chairman says he picked up bit by bit around the country in his contacts with the U.S. Office of Education years ago. Jacomo soon received the support of ULS school Headmaster Raymond P. Robbins and financial affairs director George Herbst.

School officials now believe the new arts facility is one of a kind in the state.

"A technologically explosive society needs the integrating rewards of arts experience, Jacomo believes. "They are the most human thing we do.

Pemberton homes hit by thieves

Thieves broke_into three homes on Pemberton Road in Grosse Pointe Park last week according to police records. Police Chief Henry Coonce said the crimes apparently were not committed by the same people. The first was reported on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at about 10 p.m. in the 900 block of Pemberton. The homeowner said two. black males were seen getting out of a car and forcing open a door to the home. They were frightened away by the home-owner, his wife and two large dogs, police said.

The second crime was reported at about 5:16 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 20, on Pemberton's 600 block. Police said three white males, about 18 years old, were seen fleeing the home on foot when the homeowner returned from work. Entry was apgained parently through a basement window. About $150 in cash was reported missing, Coonce said.

A house on the 800 block was thoroughly searched sometime between 6 and 8:15 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 21, police said. Entry was gained through an unlocked door according to Coonce, and a camera and Intellivision video game was reported missing.

Purse snatcher strikes

A 31-year-old Fraser woman told Park police her purse containing $40 and personal papers was stolen at about 1 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 15, in front of Union Street bar on Mack Avenue.

The woman said she was with a girlfriend when two men approached her from the rear, grabbed her purse and ran west on Mack toward Alter Road. Police have no suspects.

Arts facility opens at ULS

"The arts chronicle the past, make the present present, and are a mirror of the future. They are and must be potent in an education which focuses on the total person. The arts reflect who we are. They are how we present ourselves to ourselves and to the

The $3 million arts addition, funded solely through major donations, was designed by Louis G. Redstone and Associates, Inc. of Livonia. The architect makes heavy use of natural light, especially in the addition's gallery, where muted browns and live plants create a warm atmosphere for any student to catch up on some reading.

School officials hope works from Liggett alumni will be displayed in the gallery sometime soon. The school has already acquired some pieces from Detroit artists.

ACROSS FROM the gallery is the facility's largest room — the multi-arts studio — a circular room with an overhead catwalk for lighting and other special uses,according to Jacomo.

"It was designed as a dance studio, but we have many other things planned," Jacomo said, in-cluding one-act plays and musi-

A tour throughout the arts center also reveals a visual arts studio, a textiles toom, a photo-graphy lab, a patio performance area, and vocal and instrumental music facilities.

"The kids have been here only a week, but they fit right in as if they were in their old rooms" Jacomo said.

Off to the right of the gallery is a comfortable conference room where a hugh circular window looks out onto the school grounds. Jacomo said ceilings in almost all the rooms were left exposed. "The ceilings were actually so expensive so I thought 'why have any?' 'Several of the rooms are lighted with sodium-vapor bulbs,

The million dollar project also included a new student commons and a student dining room where faculty and students may dine to-

The Creative and Performing Arts Center clearly shows the arts at University Liggett School are just as important as any other part of education, school officials point out.

Jacomo says: "Our ULS students inherit tomorrow and they also invent it. The arts in our curriculum play an integral role in their total education. The Department of Creative and Performing Arts is working toward providing quality education in, through and by the arts for the entire ULS community.

"The ULS Creative and Performing Arts Center will provide much of that quality for everyone at ULS."

The community will have an opportunity to see the arts facility at an open house on Sunday, Feb. 6, from 2 to 4 p.m.

cally unchanged from the 1970 Pointe census. The national count found 11.6 percent of the population U.S. living below the poverty level.

IN THE AREA of housing, the census bureau found that 87 percent of the 18,572 occupied units in Grosse Pointe were owner occupied. That figure ranged from 72 percent in the Park, 78 in the City, 94 in the Farms, 95 in the Woods to 97 percent in the Shores. The bureau found only 367 condominium units in two Grosse Pointes, the City and Woods, and no condominiums in the other Pointes.

Mean rents ranged from $241 a month in the Shores (where there were only 24 units) to $320 a month in the City, which had 512 units. The Park had the most apartments at 1,358 with a mean rent of $245.

The mean value of homes was led by the Shores at $177,700, followed by the Farms at $113,087, the City at $104,469, the Park at $98,165 and Woods at $87,435.

Shouting match erupts at 14th GOP meeting

By Christine Kuskowski

Cries of "division of the house" echoed through the 14th Congressional District Republican convention held last Thursday, Jan. 19.
The convention, held at South

High School, met to select 86 district delegates to attend the state Republican convention at Cobo Hall on Feb. 18 and 19.

The 14th District covers portions of Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, including Grosse Pointe Farms, Woods and Shores. Eldon "Andy" Andrews, political activist from the Farms was elected chairman of the district's Wayne County convention.

In the past, each precinct delegate was sent a card prior to the district convention which gave each delegate a choice as to whether he would be interested in becoming a delegate to the state convention. The roster of delegates was then chosen from among those persons interested. This year, the precinct delegates were not given that option. Chairman Andrews appointed the three convention committees: Credentials Committee, Rules and Order of Business Committee and the Delegates to the State Conventees had the authority to verify each delegate's credentials, set district convention regulations and to choose the delegates to the dstate convention, respectively.

During the Delegates Committee's closed meeting, Joan Woodhouse, Shores precinct delegate, questioned why each person does not have the option of becoming a state convention delegate as in the past.

"We have a right to input to the committee our interest in becoming a delegate," Ms. Woodhouse said.

She was ruled "out of order" by Chairman Andrews who explained that they (the party as a whole) had a right to appoint one delegate, which they had done earlier in the meeting.

Chairman Andrews was speaking about the appeal that was made by David Haugan, precinct delegate from Harper Woods, requesting that John Lauve be appointed as a delegate and to serve on one of the convention's committees. The appeal was granted.

After the convention reconvened and reports were given by each of the three committees, and the 36 delegates and alternates from Wayne County were enumerated, Ms. Woodhouse again questioned the election process.

"Dick Durant is behind all this," she said. Durant, a political leader from the 13th Congressional District, was also elected Convention Chairman for that district, which includes Grosse Pointe City and Park.

"He and his people choose who they want to go," Woodhouse claimed. She said those who won the precinct election should become the state delegates. According to Durant's system, she stated, those who lost the election, who aren't even precinct delegates, will be elected as state delegates.

Haugan reaffirmed her point as he shouted before the convention about "the nonsense in this district" and how he wanted to "return the Republican Party to the people."

Haugan was ruled "out of order" by Chairman Andrews who said. "these last 10 minutes have been the most obnoxious display I have ever seen," as he ordered the Sergeant-at-Arms to remove Haugan from the convention.

tion Committee. These commit- manis countered Haugan's attack by pointing out that the committee's reports were read and accepted. If everyone approves the reports, one cannot argue the decision afterward. "If there is a disagreement," Heitmanis said, "the problem should be brought to the issues committee.'

Even after a motion was made to adjourn the convention, Haugan was still trying to appeal the committee-appointed delegates.

A handful of precinct delegates remained in the convention room after adjournment to sign a petition to appeal the decision of the chair. The group amended the list of appointed delegates to include those precinct delegates interested in serving as state delegates.

Haugan intends to present this appeal to the Credentials Committee of the State Convention in

Prosecutor appeals reversal

"At most trials, people spend most of their money defending themselves," said Neuhard. "They sometimes don't have much left over for appeals. If the presiding judge at that trial (in this case Judge Dunn) receives the papers after sentencing and decides the defendant is indigent and can't afford a private attorney to handle the appeal, then the case is sent to us. That's what happened in this case. We received it, researched it, sent it to the appeals court and won.

Neuhard added that state wide, about seven percent of all persons convicted appeal their cases. About one-third of the appeals are handled by his office, with the rest conducted by private attorneys.

Neuhard indicated that the McKendrick ruling was not unique, and was one of many reversals in the past six months based on the "Rogers" ruling.

In that decision, the court decided that the failure to inform defendants at plea taking proceedings that they could not be placed on probation was not cured when the court later informed the defendant because the plea had already been taken at that time; because the court mistakenly told the defendant that he had been given this information at plea taking proceedings and because the court did not offer the defendant an opportunity to withdraw his

'There's been a lot of litigation on the 'Rogers' issue lately," said Neuhard. "McKendrick's case, and a lot of others, will rise and fall on it. The Supreme Court will look at it with a lot of issues in

While the Wayne County Prosecutors Office had 20 days within which to appeal the ruling, the Supreme Court in Lansing has no time limit set upon it in which to decide the case, said Neuhard.

"McKendrick's case will have to get in line with all the others, civil and criminal," he added. "The court has been backed up of late. It could take six months to a year to make any sort of ruling. Then, once a ruling is made, any number of options are open.'

Neuhard explained that if the court sided with the prosecutors office, McKendrick's reversal would fall and he would see no change in his sentence.

If the court upholds the Court of Appeals ruling, the McKendrick case will revert to a pre-trial stage. "Then it'll be just like any other case in a pre-trial stage," said Neuhard. "The prosecutors office can drop the charges, go to trial or allow McKendrick to once again plead guilty. It's all up to the prosecutors office."

Neuhard stressed that if the case goes back to pre-trial'stage, his office would no longer be involved. "We only handle appeals," he said. "Not re-trials."

McKendrick is still imprisoned at Ionia. If his case reaches a pre-trial stage, he will still remain behind bars unless someone takes action to have him released, said Neuhard.

"It would take a court order to have him released," he said. 'However, if and when it reaches a pre-trial stage, the defendant can be removed from prison and returned to the Wayne County Jail. Generally it's up to him to decide where he wants to stay."

from the video games. He earlier threatened to turn the arcade into a "love boutique" and switch to x-rated movies if the city is successful in court.

But lately, Putansu has been taking a different tack to bolster business and improve the theater's image. He cut admission prices to $1 for all shows, is booking popular, general run movies and, last week, began offering 50 cent admission on Wednesdays and Thursdays to persons who bring canned food to donate to Crossroads East, a church-operated agency that helps the poor.

He said he's also been trying to mend fences with his neighbors at the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology, but with no success.

"I've called Hessburg because I want to offer to clean up those parking lots or pay some of the costs of maintaining them, but he won't talk to me," Putansu said. "His secretary won't even return my calls.

is overreacting to a small group of complainers. "I think it's a select few who are pushing the city on this. The average Grosse Pointe Park citizen doesn't mind us being here - many like us.'

PUTANSU SAID he's still hoping the issue can be settled before the courtroom face-off Feb. 4. The case was originally scheduled to be heard on Jan. 14, but was postponed a week because the judge was out of town. The Esquire's attorneys requested another postponement the following week, pushing the date to Feb. 4.

Assistant City Attorney John Cashen, of Bodman Longley & Dahling, said he agreed to the postponement grudgingly. "We weren't keen on it. It's our position that game room is a nui-

The Park was the first Grosse Pointe city to approve an ordinance restricting video games about a year ago. The law requires a $50 city license per machine and limits the number in any business to five.

Since then the City, Farms and Woods have approved ordinances. The City has banned all video games and the Woods allows four games per business but also requires a $300 license each, two off-street parking spots per game and bans kids under 12 from playing without adult supervision. The Farms allows five machines and requires a $300 license for the first, $600 for the second and $1,000 for the rest.

Putansu said he thinks the city Park to replace marina piers

P & M Marine company was awarded a contract to replace several wooden finger piers at Grosse Pointe Park's Windmill Pointe Park at the council's Jan. 10 meeting.

P & M was the lowest of five bidders who competed for the job, including the Charles Fromm Co., E.C. Korneffel Co., Waterfront Construction and Champion's Marine. The price is $9,670.

Council approves CDBG fund

The Grosse Pointe City Council last week authorized approval of city administrators' recommendations for 1983 community development block grant projects, including tree preservation and a plan to redesign and widen the St. Clair/Mack intersection.

The city submitted its application to the Wayne County Office of Program and Coordination following the council's meeting on Jan. 17. The basic CDBG grant to the City for the 1983 program year is $80,000. The 1983 program represents the second year of a three-year plan.

Under residential related projects, the council approved $7,000 for SOC (Services for Older Citizens) Minor Home Repair; and $8,000 for tree preservation in the Commercial related projects include tree guards and grates in the Village ($13,000); a trash compactor for a one block area in the Village ($12,000); and a conversion of overhead electric lines to underground lines in the Village ($11,000).

Other community projects include $21,000 to redesign and widen the St. Clair and Mack intersection.

The council also approved a separate $25,000 application for housing rehabilitation in the City. To date, the City has expended $69,900 in federal monies to rehabilitate 16 homes on Loraine, Neff, Notre Dame, Rivard, St. Clair, University and Washington, according to administrative aid Chris Matthew.

The City also expects to rehab ilitate three houses with a $15,000 allocation left from the 82-83 CDBG program. Previously, rehabilitation was targeted toward the city's Neighborhood Strategy Area — on Neff, Notre Dame and St. Clair - but now the housing monies may be used throughout the community on any eligible property, according to Ms.

Woods police catch two in store hold-up

Woods police arrested two Detroit men early Thursday morning, Jan. 20, in connection with an armed robbery at a St. Clair Shores convenience store.

Woods police on patrol heard a Harper Woods broadcast that a 7-11 store at Harper and Shady Lane in St. Clair Shores had just been robbed by a lone gunman. Woods police spotted a car heading southbound on Mack at a high rate of speed a short time later that matched the description of the involved vehicle, reports said.

The car was stopped at Mack and Allard. According to reports, the driver immediately left his car and started walking to the Woods patrol car. Officers ordered him to stop and warned the man and his passenger they were investigating a robbery.

Looking in the open door into the car, officers spotted what they described as a chrome-plated, bone-handled revolver on the floor of the car. Police arrested the two men and drove the car to the Woods station. The weapon, according to reports, turned out to be a toy cowboy cap gun.

At the station, police also found a nickel-plated ivory-handled Colt .38-caliber revolver in the car, reports said. In addition, $149 in cash was found in the car.

The two Detroiters were transferred to St. Clair Shores where they were arraigned on charges of armed robbery. Both had bond set at $25,000 pending examination in 40th District Court.

Shores officials were pleased but cautious about a proposed water rate adjustment from the Detroit Water and Sewerage Board that could cut the rate per 1.000 cubic feet the village pays by more than 21 percent.

The Water Board, in approving its 1982-83 budget Wednesday, Jan. 12, proposed a rate for the village of $3.66 per 1,000 cubic feet. The village is currently charged $4.69 per 1,000 cubic feet.

Village officials said the decrease would be welcome, but noted the rate had not been ap-

Water Board officials recalculated the rate after the Shores passed along information at the Jan. 5 public hearing which they called "very convincing."

The village set up a conservation plan, warning residents to avoid lawn watering at peak hours of usage, and instituted other savings measures, Superintendent Michael Kenyon said. In addition, the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House has switched to using lake water to sprinkle the estate's lawns.

Proposed water rates charged the other Pointes who use Detroit water remain unchanged. The Woods rate would fall from $3 to $2.69 under th proposed schedule for 1,000 cubic feet of water, while the Park would pay a proposed rate of $3.60 per 1,000, compared to $4.01 the city presently is not under our control in some

The Farms and City use water pumped by the Farms from Lake St. Clair. The City decided in January to hold its residential water and sewage rate despite being hit with an 11 percent increase in the amount it is charged by the

The council decided to absorb the additional water purchase cost, and review the rate after the June, 1983, sewage rate is announced by Detroit.

The Water Board passed its budget and rate schedule onto the Detroit Common Council, which scheduled hearings for late February on the rates. The council will then approve the budget and the rates, which will go into effect

The board's proposed water and sewer budget forecasts an increase in water revenue of 2.4 percent from $102.6 million to $105.1 million. Sewer rate revenue would increase 4.3 percent, from $154.6 million to $161.5 million.

Water board officials said directives from director Charles Beckham and a "fine pencil" taken to the budget kept the overall increases down. "The director made it clear not under our control in some cases," William Carney from the engineering division said.

Water Board official William Krause said the department made "a conscious effort" to keep rate increases down. Because the department has met clean air and water standards set by the federal government, the board has been able to slow its construction and staffing program, he added.

Krause said the increases were "especially small" since a 6 percent age increase for both water and sewer employes will take effect the same time the new rates do.

Sewer rates have been increasing since a 1977 U.S. District Court decision ordered the Detroit wastewater treatment plant brought up to federal clean air and water standards. Water and Sewerage department officials estimate it cost over $500 million to bring the treatment plant up to standard, the costs being passed on to users of the system.

Detroit also pumps water to more than 100 suburban communities and charges rates based on cost of delivery. The average water bill for a Detroit customer will increase 9.6 percent under the proposed rates, while sewage bills will increase about 6 percent with the magnitude of some of the under the rate schedule.

Headmaster's passion is whales

By Joanne Gouleche

When Grosse Pointe Academy headmaster Dr. Sidney I. DuPont is not looking over enrollment lists or curriculum changes, you'll probably find him talking to students about his passion for whales, of all things — a love affair that began during a rainy week on Cape Cod more than 10

A noted environmental educator, Dr. DuPont unravels the seaside romance:

"I was on vacation with my wife on Cape Cod where it rained every day. I had to do something. I could have gone shopping with my wife, but then I saw this fin back whale swim by the beach.'

It never got above 60 degrees that week, and it continued to rain. The mammal captivated DuPont so much he decided to do some research on whales. The captivation has stayed with him through the years and he has become somewhat of a noted expert on the subject at the Academy.

He takes the subject seriously, having carved 17 whale models outside his office for students and interested faculty to see and learn more about the misunderstood

It's evident Dupont thoroughly enjoys explaining whale mysteries and myths to students at the Academy. ## Three alarm blaze in Park

Firefighters from three departments were called in to help douse a blaze in a vacant two-story house on Pemberton Road in the Park on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 10

Fifteen officers from the Park, City and Farms pumped water on the fire for 45 minutes before it was dead, according to reports.

The vacant house, which was gutted some years ago when frozen water pipes burst, was being remodeled by its current owner, a Park resident, according to reports. Fire officials said the fire began in a fireplace in the living room and burnt its way through wall studs, the floor to the second story, outside wall studs, roof rafters and sheeting before it was extinguished.

Officials said the fireplace was being used to heat the house, which has no furnace. The loss was insured, they said.

Council okays pay hike for city manager

approved 9 percent pay increases Pointes, Graham said. for the city's manager and comptroller-clerk to bring their salaries in line with those in other Pointe communities. The increases, approved by a 6-1 vote, still leave the Park's top employe's salary below equivalent Grosse Pointe positions, according to Mayor Douglas Graham.

The pay raises were opposed by Councilman Anthony Spada and four members of the audience who said they were inappropriate in light of the city's 11.9 percent unemployment rate and the bad economic climate. Unionized city employes agreed to 6 percent pay increases earlier this year. Spada also said increased insurance costs and payments to a deferred pension plan which are based on salary push the real cost of the increase over the 9 percent presented by the mayor. The salary increases were recommended by a three-man council committee including Mayor Graham, and councilmen John Prost and Roger McNeill.

Prost defended the increase, saying the city manager "has done a good job and was continuing to do a good job. We want to keep him here."

The Park city manager's salary was increased from $42,000 to $46,000 a year. In addition, the city agreed to provide him with an auto in exchange for dropping a $150 a month car allowance he received in the past. The city also pays 5 percent of his salary into a deferred compensation pension plan and $600 a year for longevity. The 9 percent increase in compensation reflects "some catch-up factor" to bring the manager's

Lucas talks taxes, officials say

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Topping the agenda at the Wednesday, Jan. 19, meeting between Wayne County Executive William Lucas and suburban government officials was the poor financial condition of both the state and county, local officials said.

Representatives from the Woods, Farms and Park attended the meeting with Lucas and 40 other suburban officials at the Ford Motor Co. headquarters in Dearborn last week.

Pointe officials said they were pleased with the meeting, adding they felt the purpose was two-fold - to open lines of communication between the county executive's office and outcounty governments and to seek support for a possible state income tax increase that could free-up delayed revenue sharing payments to governments.

Gov. James Blanchard announced the delay of revenue sharing payments to governments and universities recently as part of a budget-balancing plan. He has hinted the delays may become permanent, according to published reports.

LUCAS SAID the county could see payless paydays by April if the state does not make its revenue sharing payment, which Lucas said is close to $15 million.

Farms Major James Dingeman said the idea of a state income tax increase was discussed, but as part of a general discussion of the state's poor financial condition and its effect on the county and local governments.

"I think what was discussed was the terrible financial condition of both the state and county governments," Dingeman said. tax increase which could free up "There are tremendous problems the delayed revenue-sharing in the county, and as a part of the money. State shared revenue county, we are concerned with those problems.'

He added he thought the meeting was well-handled and he was pleased to be there. Dingeman also said he had been appointed to a liaison group with other sub-urban officials.

Farms City Clerk Richard Solak said he thought the meeting opened lines of communication between the county executive and local governments and gave local officials a chance to air their feelings about the county.

"I thought it was a constructive first meeting," Solak said. "There was good give-and-take." There was also some discussion of a state income tax increase, he ad-

The delay in the state's third quarter revenue sharing payments and the delay in receiving the second quarter payments has cost the Farms about $75,000 so far, officials said. The state has not said whether the third-quarter delay will become permanent, Farms officials said.

Woods City Administrator Chester Petersen was less pleased with the meeting, saying he had hoped to see specific plans for cutting the county's deficit and getting the delayed payments from the

'The new county executive's office didn't mention anything they would do to cut their own deficit," Petersen said. "We were expecting to hear some kind of plan to get the state funds, but a deficitbalancing plan for the county was talked about in broad terms."

The meeting, Petersen said, was aimed at getting local governments to support a state income from income, sales, single business and gasoline taxes are paid quarterly in the state's fiscal year.

The state has not said whether the delayed payments will be made, Petersen said, adding the combined loss of two revenue sharing payments from the state could cost the city $400,00.

By garnering support and passage of the income tax increase, Petersen said, the county and local governments could get the state money owed them.

Woods' Mayor George Freeman said the meeting showed Lucas' wish to cooperate with the suburbs. He said two of Lucas' points impressed him.

One was that certain services that they are offering can be covered by the cities which would cost both the county and the cities less," Freeman said. "Mr Lucas also wants to work with cities on the various projects that are going

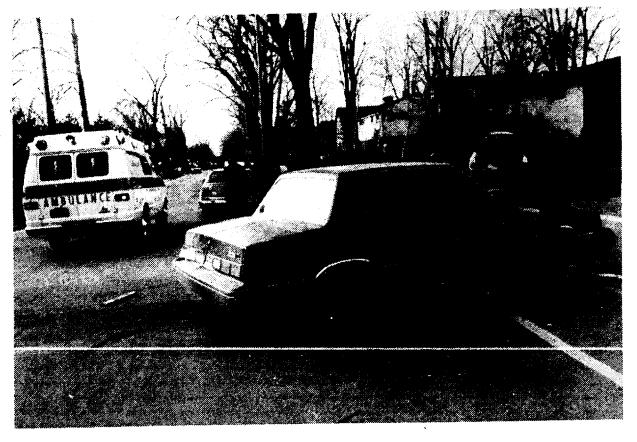

Park City Clerk-Assessor Nunzio Ortisi said the meeting allowed local officials to air their positions and Lucas' staff to say where they

Although Lucas never specifically endorsed the idea of a state income tax increase, Ortisi said, there was some discussion about it. Officials opposed the increase without some justification provide by better services, he added.

The revenue-sharing was a good news-bad news item, Ortisi said. "The good news was the advanced notice," he said, pointing out the bad news was the city "could lose quite a bit" or about $300,000 if the payments aren't made.

Shores president Gerald Shroeder was unable to attend the meeting, Shores officials said. City manager Thomas Kressbach said no City official attended the

Accident injures two

Two persons were injured slightly in an accident las Thursday afternoon, Jan. 20, at the intersection of Kercheval Avenue and Kerby Road. According to police reports, an east bound car driven by a Woods woman ran a red light, striking a north bound auto driven by a Farms man. The Woods car ended up on the front lawn of 152 Kerby Road. ## By Mike Andrzejczyk The Wayne County Board of Commissioners decided to postpone a decision on hiring staff while getting the county some clout in Lansing by approving a contract with a Lansing lobbying firm at its Jan. 20 meeting.

The board, according to public information director Leito Durley, postponed action on three resolutions that would have dismissed staff from the former commissioners while allowing some employes bumping rights under civil service and approving a $1.5 million allocation for personal and core staff for the 15-member commission.

Under two resolutions, the continued staff from the former board would be dismissed. Those officials able to would be allowed to use civil service bumping rights to move into another position with similar classifications.

The board recommended in a committee-of-the-whole session an allocation of $25,000 per commissioner for personal staff while allocating a total of $1.5 million to cover the board's total staffing

First District Commissioner John Hertel said the board decided to pass on the resolutions because union officials had raised legal questions about the civil service rights of the affected officials.

Under the proposed resolutions, new employes of the commission would serve at the pleasure of the commissioners, subject to dismissal without cause, Durley said. Under civil service rights, an employe can be dismissed if there is cause for the firing.

Hertel said the commission had not set a date when it would again take up the resolutions, adding he had voted against the proposal for the $1.5 million staff allocation.

At the same time, the board approved the signing of a contract with the lobbying firm Public Affairs Association, to represent the county's interests in Lansing. The company is retained at $48,000 a year, said Hertel, who questioned the signing of the agreement.

There are two members of the county executive's staff who could do the lobbying in Lansing, Hertel said. In addition, the firm may have other clients whose interests could conflict with the county's.

The Michigan Hospital Association, according to Hertel, is also represented by Public Afafairs, which is the second-largest lobbying firm in the state. If the county were to propose the closing of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland, the company may find itself trying to represent two op-lobbying firm posing interests, Hertel said. Wayne County Executive press secretary Bill Johnson defended the hiring, saying there was pending legislation in Lansing that could amend the county charter.

The county, he said, needed someone in Lansing full-time to represent the county's interests.
Using current staff members to lobby in Lansing would not be as effective as hiring the firm, Johnson said. "We would have to establish relationships. Those who are there are established and can be more effective."

No conflict could arise from the possible closing of the hospital. since the county executive holds supervisory power over the facility under the charter, Johnson

"The charter provides for the superintending control over the hospital by the county executive. He doesn't need to go through the lobbying firm," Johnson said. "It doesn't take state legislation to close that hospital. It's in the charter.'

Public Affairs Association company officials could not be reached for comment.

FINANCIAL GAME PLAN

SINSIB.

Company Comments

We all have heard of 'Game' Plan," "Battle Plan," "Work Plan," and now the Financial Plan. It's as old as wealth. If you want to succeed, you must have a "plan," for the lack of it will most likely lead to failure, whether you plan for that or not. The objective of financial planning is the individuals goal; accumulation and/or preservation of an estate, re-tirement, etc. Financial planning for business is such a crit-ical point in the total business plan it is addressed within the firm by an accounting staff performing financial analysis and financial management. Financial planning is, for the individual, the financial analysis of ones income and expenses and a plan for the accumulatio of savings (cash flow analysis) protection from economic losses due to death or illness (risk management), and the investment of those savings.

Because of inflation, many of us have crept into higher tax brackets. Tax planning became a strategy in itself, pro-ducing the highest cash rates of return of any part of "the

The final stratagem of the "plan" is the estate plan; how to retain and confer the accumultation of wealth from gener ation to generation.

Financial planning as a mid-dle class pheomena is in vogue. Pinancial planning services are being offered by attorneys, accountants, insurance agents, stockbrokers, and others. The important factors in choosing a financial planner is their professional ability, sensitivity to the clients goals and objectives, and the planner's objectivity regarding financial products. Fees range from complimentary from salesmen who earn commissions from selling financial products to several thousands of dollars for large complicated plans.

However, there is no doubt, professional financial planner's service may be the visest investment you make.

out of the ground."
What about the intergeneration gap one hears about so much how did students and the elders get along?

'Too tell the truth, we didn't want to force this on anyone - we just asked at the Student Association for volunteers. The others who responded were Frank Martiloutti, David Bergeron, Tanya Volis, Laurie Peters, Joe Cuter, Patty Hayosh and Sue Rinke.

"At first some of the people seemed a little withdrawn, maybe a little suspicious — but that didn't last long, and then everyone was friendly. Most of them came outside to talk with us while we

According to Mrs. Downing at the Referral Center, response from the senior citizens was 100 percent and very positive — as evidenced by a letter from Agnes C. Louth of Harper Woods, who wrote: "I feel as if I made two new beautiful friends. That is how friendly and sincere they (students) were.

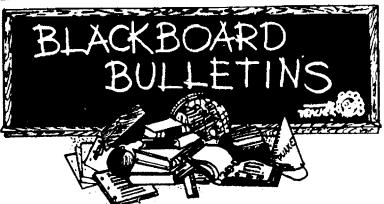

Chrissy summed up, "It really was nice to have contact with these people we didn't know before — everybody said it was a 'good experience.' " And students at North are now talking about getting together a permanent committee in order to repeat the senior project in the spring and next fall.

working with Republican governors for many years, now have a new responsibility. It is to examine the proposals made by a new Democratic governor and come up with their own alternatives or improvements. The early evidence is that the Republicans will take a hard look at every proposal by Gov. James Blanchard before deciding exactly what they will do — and what they can do. That, of course, is the essential role of the "loyal opposition."

It is clear that the GOP is not going to join in the Democratic hoopla that tells us a needed increase in the state income tax has already been determined and that a new path to fiscal rectitude and budget balancing has been neatly charted by the governor's Financial Crisis Council. Instead, the GOP wants to make its own conclusions about the size of the deficit and the actions needed to overcome it.

REP. WILLIAM Bryant, Jr., of Grosse Pointe made the point in his interview in the Grosse Pointe News last week. He said he didn't think the case had yet been made that another income tax hike is the only way out of the state's current budget crisis. The former GOP House leader, who now is vice-chairman of the House Taxation Committee, also was not convinced that the deficit had grown as alarmingly as the Democrats have contended since they took control of the governor's office Jan. 1.

Rep. Michael Busch of Saginaw, who succeeded Bryant as minority leader when Bryant stepped down, has said roughly the same thing in newspaper and TV interviews. He pointed out that many Republicans also campaigned against tax increases of any kind in last year's election and, he added, "This is going to make things politically difficult.'

The scenario written by the Democrats, however, is to convince reluctant legislators and citizens that an income tax hike of from 4.6 percent at present to either 5.6 percent or 6 percent is "inevitable," along with further cuts in state spending. The governor's crisis council

Michigan's Republican legislators, after suggested that range but proposed the income tax hike be made for a four-year period only, after which it recommended as a replacement, an increase in the state sales tax. The reasoning behind that shift is that the additional money is needed quickly and that a sales tax boost would require not only legislative approval but approval in statewide referendum as well, which would take more time than passage of an income tax hike.

Urgency seems to be a key word in the Democratic scenario. That, of course, poses problems for legislators who may want to drag their feet a bit to get more factual information and to try to get a more up to date fix on the state's economic plight. But the demand for urgent action also tends to focus attention on the proposal already in the governor's hand and to make it difficult for legislators of either party to come up with alternatives. Just how much the Republican legislators can do, even if they come up with valid alternalives to the governor's tax and spending programs, is obviously doubtful but their experience in dealing with governors of their own party will stand them in good stead. They didn't always go along with Govs. George Romney and William Milliken, either, and yet they often left their mark on the final bills that were enacted. If they can come up with a better idea than Blanchard's crisis council, they might even have a chance of converting some of the less rigid Democrats to their cause.

WHATEVER solution finally is adopted to mend the current crisis, it clearly will be of the short-term variety. That still leaves open the opportunity for an overall review of Michigan's entire tax program — to see how it matches up with programs in states that are industrial and business competitors — and for long-range moves to improve this state's tax and business

So far, the fiscal bailout package looks suspiciously like a couple of limp band-aids that are being applied to a running sore that could be malignant.

Lucas: Right and wrong

tive, William Lucas, continues to act like a sure-footed mountain goat in negotiating his way through the politically rocky transition from a government-as-usual to a governmentof-reform that county residents endorsed in approving the county charter that became effective Jan. 1.

Extending the "hand of friendship" to suburban officials last week, Lucas urged the leaders of 43 outcounty communities, including several officials from Pointe governments, to bury their differences and work with him. Afterward, Lucas said he was encouraged by the response he received, and the officials were sufficiently encouraged to agree to continue meeting with Lucas every two months.

EVEN LIVONIA Mayor Edward McNamara, who ran against Lucas in the Democratic pricounty executive for working "to open up the nence. lines of communication between the county and the municipalities." Others from outcounty communities agreed. The point seemed to be that if the communities and the county band together, their voices will be more likely to be heard in Lansing and Washington.

Perhaps it was just as well that Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit was absent. He was invited but was vacationing out of town. But he is not the most popular public official among suburban representatives who tend to blame him for Detroit's "taxation without representation" of those who work in the city and live in the suburbs. There are hints, too, of rivalry between Lucas and Young for the overall leadership position in Wayne County.

At the meeting, Lucas apparently did get in a few words of support for the proposed boost in the state income tax which might restore some state aid, and so he had some political motives in mind. The governments in the Pointes don't get much state aid anyway and Lucas' appeal on that issue was not as meaningful to them as it was to communities more hard-pressed to

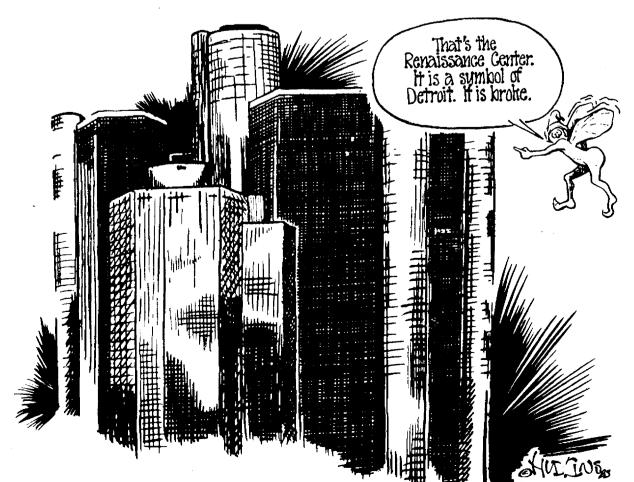

Most of the time Wayne County's new execu- finance their public services. But, all in all, the meeting had to be regarded as another Lucas success.

As we said at the outset, however, Lucas is sure-footed most of the time — but not all of the time. Several times he has complained about the fact he has not been able to hire certain people he wants because of the low pay he can offer in comparison with private employment. His chief financial officer, for example, should be able to earn "80,000, $90,000 or $100,000," Lucas said, "but we can only pay in the range of $50,000 to $60,000." Well, isn't that too bad!

It may be true that Lucas wants to hire good people who, in private employment, now earn $100,000 a year or more. But do counties anywhere pay their financial officers that big a salary? Wayne County already pays the highest rates in the country in many of categories and mary last August, showed up and praised the we doubt that others achieve the $100,000 emi-

Actually, $100,000 a year is more than Michigan's own controversial David Stockman earns as director of the U.S. budget and it's also more than Gov. William Milliken paid his budget directors or Gov. James Blanchard now pays his. In public employment, salaries are not always comparable with those at the top in private employment, and Lucas ought to halt his campaign in this respect. It sounds too much like a self-serving effort to get his own $72,150 pay increased, even though that is more than the $70,000 the governor receives and only slightly less than Mayor Young's $75,172.

SUCH A CAMPAIGN also is inconsistent with Lucas' determination to require new concessions by county labor unions once pay negotiations get under way. Lucas won a tremendous victory in November and he has made an excellent start in his efforts to turn county government around. But politically he'll never win on this issue. He ought to quit complaining about it and hire the people he needs at the salaries the county can afford to pay in these hazardous

To the Editor:

I am very upset about the recent theft of my bike from the bike racks at North High School. I came to school at 8:05 a.m. Friday, Jan. 7, and locked my bike to the racks between the Performing Arts building and "B" building with a cable and Master combination lock. When I came out of school at 3 p.m. both the bike and lock were gone.

I feel there is not enough protection for bicycles at North. The bike racks are spread out all around the school and the parking lot attendants are never near and could not tell who was the owner of the bike.

I suggest North provide a fenced-in bike rack that is locked at 8:15 a.m. and opened at 3 p.m. It should also be in

What can accelerate to 100 mph and run over trees? The car or cars of vandals that are ruining Grosse Pointe. Parcells Middle School has had 10 "lawn jobs;" there's more dirt than grass and it looks awful.

Several Grosse Pointe residents have had lawn jobs. One example is one victim who has had over 15 in the last three years with total costs of lawn replacement of $2,000. One vandal was stuck on a victim's lawn, leaving a vicious trench. The car had to be towed off the lawn. The driver's excuse was, "There were two cats fighting in the street."

The terrorist was told to re-sod the lawn, but nothing was ever done. These people must be brought to justice. When laws are more severe, these drivers will think twice before riding over a lawn or

The Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. birthday celebration sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice proved to be an educational and fun-filled after-

The program started with a play depicting the major events in the life of Dr. King. For the youngsters in the group, it was a time to be told the story of a heroic young man. Dr. King believed that changes in the way blacks were treated in this country were necessary and that those changes should be brought about through non-violent means. For the older members of the group, the play brought to mind a rather violent era of our history despite Dr. King's peaceful methods.

The atmosphere was homey and friendly. There were no paid entertainers. The party was put together basically through the efforts of volun-

Each year, Women for the United Foundation and the Heart of Gold Awards Council honor outstanding volunteers in the metropolitan Detroit area for their contributions to the community, presenting them with "Hearts of Gold" at a very special luncheon at Cobo Hall. The presentations are always made during February (that is, after all, Valentine Month), and the speaker at the Heart of Gold Awards Luncheon is always someone Very Spe-

This year is no exception. We can't tell you who the 1983 Hearts of Gold will go to because we don't know the names of the recipients are kept secret until they are announced at the luncheon - but we can tell you that the Very Special speaker at this year's luncheon will be United States Ambassador to Mexico and former screen personality John Gavin.

He's best known for his film, stage and television performances over the past 25 years, but much of his educational and professional experience has been focused on Latin America. As president of Gamma Services Corporation since 1968, he has been involved in real estate and international business consultation in Latin America and Europe. He was named Special Advisor to the Secretary General of the Organization of American States in 1961 and served in that capacity until 1974.

He's a graduate of Stanford University, was a spokesman for Bank of America for seven years and served as an officer in the United States Navy for three years, winning four battle stars during combat duty in Korea and with the 7th Fleet in the Pacific. He served on the board of the Screen Actors Guild from 1966 to 1973, and was president of the Guild in 1971.

The United Foundation's 16th annual Heart of Golds Awards luncheon is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 8. Approximately 90 men and women, several of them Pointers, have been nominated for this year's awards, and a pair of Pointe residents, Mrs. Alfred R. Glancy III and Mrs. Dean E. Richardson, are serving as chairman and vice-chairman, respectively, of the event. Another pair of Pointers, Wilhelmina Boersma and David Lawrence Jr., served on the panel of judges which selected the 1983 awardees.

Tickets for the luncheon, at $12.50 per person, may be obtained by calling the United Foundation, 965-7100, Extension 263.

If Winter Comes . . .

Last year's was a white winter. This year's seems to be shaping up as a green one. And that's about it in Michigan: winter offers us a choice of two colors, white or green, but oh! . . . come spring, Grosse Pointe literally bursts into a bouquet of rainbows as the trees and flowers bloom. When you've come through a Michigan winter, spring is a gift of color.

Consider the roses. The Grosse Pointe Rose Society is already considering them, gearing up for the growing season, with officers for 1983 already elected. They are Matthew Patterson, president. Joyce Russenberger and Robert Kissel, vice-presidents, Anne Loush, treasurer, Avis Kirsch and Margaret Young, recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively. Mary Currie is immediate past-president.

Directors for 1983 are James Stone, Mary Dziuba and Marianna Sterr. Directors elected for 1983-84 are Mervin Gaskin, Ellen Quinlan and Shirley Ireland. Paul Desmet is the Society's Consulting Rosarian. Editors for its monthly publication, "Rose Pointes," are John and Deanna Stephens.

Members and guests of the Grosse Pointe Rose Society gathered recently for a midwinter celebration: cocktails at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sterr, then on to the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club for the Society's annual meeting, during which the new officers were elected, and banquet

The evening, planned by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Loush, Mr. and Mrs. John Kirsch and Gladys Gies, included entertainment, by Julius Jodts and by The Imperials who presented a program of selections from musical comedies and Big Band sounds, and presentation to Past-President Currie of an American Rose Society Pin plus several gifts from out-going executive board members.

The Metropolitan Rose Society of Detroit, which services rose growers from all the suburban communities and welcomes everyone interested in growing better roses to its meetings at 2 p.m. on the first Sunday of each month at Olivet Evangelical Lutheran Church on Van Dyke Avenue, near Outer Drive, has elected Grosse Pointe's Forrest Geary, of Cadieux Road, president for 1983

Other Metropolitan Rose Society 1983 officers are Roger Bissy, vice-president, Ann Mooney, treasurer, Angie Beutel and Al Knight, recording secretary and assistant recording secretary, respectively, and Pat Hibbard, corresponding secretary. Immediate Past-President is Ann Gualdoni. Directors are Frank Von Koss, Frances Trombley, Ida Wild, Lillian Modzel, Jay Dixon and Mary Ennes.

'Play Up Detroit'

Did you know that you can "Play Up Detroit" with a T-shirt, poster or mug supporting the Detroit Symphony Orchestra-WQRS Timeless FM 105 Radio Marathon, available by calling 833-6105 during business hours? Or that, if you prefer, you can pick up any/all of these items at The Mole Hole in-the-Village and at RenCen?

The T-shirt at $7, poster at $5 and mug at $5.50 (assorted set of four, $18.50) feature the DSO '83 Marathon slogan, "Play Up Detroit," and a whimsical, four-color instrument design, winners of the '83 Marathon slogan and design contests. All proceeds from the T-shirt/poster/mug sales go toward the Marathon, a DSO benefit, scheduled to air Feb. 23 to 27.

The British Are Coming

A very special, black tie evening is planned for the gala opening of the Hotel St. Regis this Saturday evening. Invited guests representing the Detroit metropolitan area's civic, industrial and cultural communities will join officials of the Rank Organization of London, England, for festivities marking the first property in the United States managed by Rank Hotels, London.

Hotelier Michael Kahler, a Pointe resident who holds dual British and American citizenship, and Anthony Harding, a Rank Hotels' director, will welcome the guests to cocktails and hors d'oeuvres in the lounge, where the Detroit Community Music School's faculty string quartet will perform, followed by a five-course European dinner in the Palace Ballroom, followed by a gala program of Detroit's Best (including the premier presentation of the song "Detroit" by composer Scott Wilkinson), followed by dancing to music by Jimmy Wilkins' 17-piece orchestra.

Star of the evening will, of course, be the St. Regis itself, now offering the services of a concierge and daily afternoon tea, among other British/European amenities. When the original St. Regis opened in 1966, it was reported to be the most expensive ($39,000 per room) and luxurious hotel in the United States.

Saturday evening's celebration marks the culmination of a six-month, $2.5 million renovations program which began last June and encompassed all 117 rooms plus the public and staff areas. The comfort extends to eight new suites which have been elegantly restored and re-named to reflect their English relationship: the York, Canterbury, Chichester, Devonshire, Hampshire, Gloucestershire, Warwickshire and Staffordshire.

Clay Art, an exhibition of the work of graduate and advanced ceramic students at Cranbrook Academy of Art, the Center for Creative Studies, Eastern Michigan University, the University of Michigan and Wayne State University selected by instructors at versity, selected by instructors at their respective schools, is on display at Detroit's historic Pewabic Pottery, located on East Jefferson Avenue opposite Detroit's Water-works Park, now through Saturday, Feb. 12.

Admission and parking are free at the pottery. The Pewabic gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from noon to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

Experimentation is the thread tying the Clay Art exhibit together, according to Donald Durocher, president of the non-profit Pewabic Society, Inc., which owns and operates the 75year-old, nationally renowned ceramics learning center, museum and gallery, which re-cently began reviving the hand-made production tile business on which the pottery's reputation was built during the first half of the

The Community LINC

For many organizations, the first month of a new year represents a month of planning and brainstorming designed to make the current year more successful than the last.

At Operation LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community), January has indeed been a month of planning: planning for a revised internal structure, for new ways of raising funds, for the organization's first annual report (which will replace the semi-annual newsletter), for the annual meeting in March with a special party featuring the work of Michigan artists, for nominating and voting on a new board and for the debut of the LINC slide presentation this spring.

Weekly meetings of LINC's future planning and evaluation committee, chaired by LINC Past-President Sue Albright, have been held for several weeks to examine LINC's current structure and ways in which it might be streamlined to enhance the organization's efficiency. The committee's recommendations will be presented to the board early this year with expectations for some exciting changes.

LINC is already planning for spring — that fix-up, paint-up, clean-up time of year when LINC helps neighborhood block clubs freshen up their homes and parks with donations of lumber and fencing materials and paint and cleaning products. And spring is a busy time for the Farm-A-Lot program; its needs range from rakes to rototillers to fertilizer and fencing.

LINC will solicit all these items and more in preparation for spring cleaning and gardening. Those of you who wish to get a head start on spring might begin now to check basements and garages for home repair and rejuvenation supplies you no longer need . . . and contribute them to LINC.

LINC has a joint venture of sorts with the Junior League of Detroit. "Give Hand-Me-Downs A Second Change," a project initiated by the League's child advocacy committee to distribute second hand clothes to needy Detroit area children, joined forces with LINC last fall. League members contribute the clothing. LINC aids in its distribution to needy Wayne County families and agencies.

While Junior League members are the primary contributors to this program, "Give Hand-Me-Downs A Second Change" happily accepts contributions of clothing in good condition from anyone prepared to make a donation.

LINC Past-President Lisa Morreale attended a Human Resources Forum at the State Fair Grounds Jan. 19. New Detroit, Inc., the same organization which germinated the LINC idea in 1971, sponsored the forum for human resources organizations. Employes and representatives of more than 100 organizations gathered for panel discussions and to exchange ideas geared to enhance each other's operation and worth to the community.

Helping Hands help LINC. Each year employes of Allstate Insur-ance in Michigan sponsor fund raising events, supported by company matching funds. Together, these funds make up Allstate Employes' Helping Hands Fund. This year, LINC was fortunate to be designated as one of the recip-

Helping Hands presented LINC with a check for $300 to purchase institutional size cookware (a need LINC has been trying to fill for several months). According to Rene Wilson of Allstate: ' were impressed with the effort you are making to improve the circumstances of those in need."

LINC column space is provided monthly by the Grosse Pointe News as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous support of time and contributions. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies. To volunteer or to donate usable goods, please call us Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at 331-6700. All donations are tax deductible.

"I suppose I'm one of today's 'emerging women.' I want to combine a family base with emerging into an area of self-actualization and personal development. I believe it's never too late: to enrich my own life and the lives of these around me. Lam. I hope conthose around me. I am, I hope, continuing to evolve into the new me."

Irene Burchard has completed the course work and qualifying written examinations for her Doctor of Education degree at Wayne State University, and will send out her dissertation research instrument at the end of this month.

Her topic is Education Legislation — specifically, "The Utiliza-tion of Funds under the Omnibus Education Reconciliation Act of 1981." She intends to survey school superintendents to find out which programs their districts are/will be implementing, how and Why Education Legislation? "It seems to determine what our schools can do, how much they can provide." It's where the money comes from, and Irene enjoys working with figures. Also: she finds politics fascinating.

While working for her Educational Specialist degree at Wayne State (she got it in May, 1980), she took an elective four-hour seminar, Politics in Education, held in Washington, D.C. Her internship with the Wayne County Intermediate School District involved a descriptive research project: "A Report on Federal, State and Foundation Funding in 36 School Districts of Wayne County, Michi-

Irene's come a far piece from the young woman who picked up her Associate of Arts degree in English/Social Studies from Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., a while back, picked up a husband and embarked with him on a career as a hotel entrepreneur in southeastern Missouri.

TWELVE YEARS and fourand-a-half children later she was back in Detroit, where she'd been born and raised. Her fifth daughter, Lisa Sample, an Endicott stu-dent last year, now an Eng-lish/Creative Writing major at Wayne State, was born here.

Irene's first daughter, Shelley Sample Burris, lives in St. Louis, Mo., with her husband and their two children. Shelley has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Criminal Justice from Michigan State University, and worked for six years before starting her family.

Paula Jeanne Sample works for C.A. Muir at the Pontchartrain. Carol Sample vandenBerg, a Western Michigan University Chemistry/Biology graduate, and her husband have one child. Andree Sample is in California, a student at Pepperdine University, and expects to receive her degree in Psychology next year.

Matriarch of the family is Irene's mother, Paula Burchard, a career business woman (real estate, interior decorator) all her life. Irene's decision to go by the name of Burchard is in a sense a tribute to her mother. "I feel that a name is a very important thing for personal identity. I'm proud of my mother, of what she's done with her life. I'm proud of the name Burchard." Irene, divorced from her children's father years ago, feels like a Burchard.

She received her Bachelor of Science in Education degree (major: Vocational Education; minor: English/Social Studies) from Wayne State in June, 1968. It took her four years to complete the two years' work necessary for her to earn that degree (she was, after all, the mother of five, and her voungest were VERY young). She went on immediately for her Master of Education degree (major: Vocational Education; minor: School Administra-

And that, Irene Burchard thought, was that, as far as higher education was concerned, and she turned her full attention to continuing her career as an educator - in which career her administrative capabilities kept surfacing.

The program featured consideration of reorganization ideas from the membership. Letters on the M-X Missile from United States Senators Riegle and Levin and Congressmen Hertel and Crockett were read and acted upon.

Millionaires' party uate of Grosse Pointe North High School, Hamel plays violin and is date at DeLaSalle

A millionaires' party benefit for DeLaSalle Collegiate High School has been scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 12, starting at 7 p.m. at the school, located on Common Road, between Hayes and Schoenherr, in Warren. Admission is $5.

The Detroit News has quoted Cotton Fitzsimmons, head coach at Kansas City, as saying his National Basketball Association Kings "don't get any respect. When we go somewhere to play, it's always ball night, wrist band night, stocking cap night or something to get somebody in the

What Fitzsimmons was referring to, of course, was that great American practice, Giveaways.

Who says you can't get something for nothing? Giveaways, American sports' fastest growing practice, are proof that you can. Giveaways, Gift Days or Free Whatever Nights — no matter what you call them, they still stand for the gimmick adopted by every sports' team worth its hot dog stand.

And getting in on the Giveaways is simple. All a kid has to do is be among the first (pick one) 4,000/6,000/10,000 to enter a professional sporting event on a fully-paid admission and he's entitled to the free gift offered that night. Just get dad to pop for the $15 admission price and Junior gets an official (pick one) NBA/AL/NL/NHL/NFL trinket complete with the home team's logo as well as the name of the sponsoring commercial organization — for absolutely no cost ... and it's worth every penny.

And even if Cotton Fitzsimmons doesn't like it, what kid could pass up terrific freebies like official team tote bags, official team sweatbands or official team Q-Tips?

Cotton's complaints to the contrary, giveaway days are becoming more and more popular. After all, professional sports organizations have a duty to give fans something for their money. And no sporting event would be complete without taking home a free, souvenir, authentic, scaleddown plastic replica whatever, would it? And if the home team gets a few extra fans in the bargain, who could complain? And if they spend a little more cash after they get their "free" gift . . . that's great, too.

Why not try it here?

So since those giveaways are so popular in professional sports (and they are - official major league authentic replica copies of American sports trinkets are always in big demand in black market countries) — why not try give-ways nights on a smaller level? Why not right here in Grosse Pointe? For example:

Basketball crowds are usually pretty small at this time of year. Unless their boys are playing exceptionally well or are in the playoffs, Pointe locals don't get too excited about basketball as a rule. But that would change in a hurry if, say, South High started giving away free, official Blue Devil/Local Gas Station leg warmers. What Pointe teenager could turn down a shot at free pink legwarmers complete with the Blue Devil logo on the side and the gas station logo (tastefully done, of course) on the other?

And who wouldn't jump at the chance to see a basketball. game at North — and go home with your official "Coach Sumbera's Pointers on Sports" map of Grosse Pointe? This beautiful, completely accurate, scale map of the Pointes would feature the helpful sports tips of North Coach Frank Sumbera printed just below the street names on the map. Imagine driving home on a dark, foggy night and saying to the driver: "I think you were supposed to turn left at 'Sumbera Says Pitch Him High and Tight' Boulevard." Or telling a cab driver: "Just drop me off at 'Sumbera Says We Have To Improve On Defense' Lane.'

We'd have the other suburbs green with envy over how many fans our high school sports teams draw to games. And talk about big league promotions, we'd have standing room only every night when we gave away our official, Grosse Pointe Athletic Cups. These high-quality, authentic plastic drinking cups would feature a photo of your favorite varsity player, plus a summary of past Pointe athletic triumphs printed in calligraphy around the bottom of the cup. Available in Point Guard Pink or Golf Course Green, these cups would be distributed one per customer. What fun the local folks will have going back to game after game to collect the complete set of eight of these beautiful glasses!

But wait, there's more!

The value this promotion would have in improving the Pointe athletic programs would be inestimable. People would attend games, and not just the so-called "big" sports like football and basketball, but the usually sparselyattended tennis, cross country, wrestling and gymnastics,

And with more people at the games, the teams would take even more pride in their performances and begin to play better as a whole. And the community would take greater pride in its school athletic teams.

And the great thing about it is: it's free! The cost of these souvenirs would be passed on to the local businesses interested in advertising through the athletic programs. What businessman could turn down the chance to have his company's name and phone number printed on, say, an official Star of the Sea Tunas Nightlight? And best of all, it's tax deductible.

So, as they say on television, everybody wins. Businessmen get their advertising by purchasing these inexpensive trinkets and passing them along to the schools for free. The schools get increased revenue for their athletic programs from the increased traffic at sporting events. Athletes get a larger, more appreciative crowd cheering them on. And the Pointe will join the rest of the country in that great giveaway spirit.

Think about it gang. If it's good enough for the pros, it's good enough for the Pointes.

Besides, how much longer can your home be without a Star of the Sea Tunas Nightlight?

'Soccer for everyone'

That's premier promoter Preston's goal

By Peggy O'Connor

When Gordon Preston arrived in the Detroit area from England via Canada in 1956, he found that his beloved soccer was not a popular sport in the United States. In fact, it was barely a sport.

'There was no soccer at all for kids here, only one team at Cranbrook," Preston says.

To say that Preston decided at that point to devote his life to develop soccer in these parts might be a bit dramatic — but that's exactly what Preston has done in his 27 years in this area.

"Twenty years ago I went over to Grosse Pointe University School when Bill Yeager was the athletic director there. He asked me to start a soccer program at the school. The first day, Yeager told the kids they had a choice between football and soccer ... three kids decided to come out for "The next day, Yeager told the sport in the United States. But peted playing surface, a pre-game rest of them they couldn't just sit Preston still wasn't finished. He warm-up area, locker rooms, around and he sent a bunch of disgruntled would-be football players over to me. In one year we had more kids in the soccer program than in the football program and in two years we had a varsity team," Preston recalls.

PRESTON'S DEDICATION to the promotion of soccer didn't end at GPUS. He went on to start a soccer program at Notre Dame High School, became president of the Michigan Youth Soccer Association, served as director of public relations for the Detroit Cougars soccer team, promoted indoor soccer at the Michigan State Fairgrounds and was a co-founder of the North American Soccer League's Detroit Express.

And in the last five years or so, Preston's faith in soccer was justified when soccer took off as both a spectator and participatory wanted "soccer for everyone" and. about one year ago, he set out to Preston decided that a hot bed of soccer like the Grosse Pointe-St. Clair Shores area needed a first class soccer facility, where anyone and everyone could play soccer - all year round.

"I tried to start it last year," Preston says. "I looked at several locations in town. I had an agreement at one place, but they wouldn't supply shower facilities, so I quit them. But they obviously liked what they saw, as they've since started an indoor facility themselves," Preston says.

In the meantime, Preston found Lakeshore, an indoor tennis facility on Marter Road in St. Clair Shores. With some financial backing, a lot of hard work and some heavy-duty attention to promotion, Preston has turned the facility into THE place to play soccer in this area.

"At first it was a little slow. We got a late start and we were finishing everything up when we opened for the first session (Nov. 5). We almost gave away that first session, money-wise, but we're making it up in the second session (which began Jan. 7).

"THE PROBLEM was getting hold of people to let them know we were here. Grosse Pointe is very active in soccer ... but I'll bet half the people there still don't know about us," Preston says.

What they should know is that the Lakeshore Soccer Dome offers a professional-sized field with dasher boards and a plush car-showers and sauna, a lounge and a pro-shop and even a spectator viewing area.

It sound pretty impressive, looks even better and comes at a time when the Pointe is having a hard time finding room to accommodate everyone who wants to play soccer.

If half of Grosse Pointe still doesn't know about the Lakeshore Soccer Dome, the half that does is packing the place every weekend. For now, the Dome is only open on weekends, with play underway from 4 to midnight Fridays, 7 a.m. to midnight Saturdays and 7 a.m. to midnight Sundays.

"But that's just until next session when we'll be in operation seven days a week," Preston says. As of now, he adds, the Dome is "sold out solid." In addition to the four under 10 teams, the six under 12 teams the pipe. the six under 12 teams, the nine under 14 teams, the five under 16 teams, the four under 19 teams, and the four 30 and over teams, there is quite an assortment of teams using the Dome. On Friday nights, a women's recreation team takes over the Dome. "There are about 23 women in that group, most of them are the mothers of soccer players — and some of them never kicked a ball until they came here," Preston says. A group of Grosse Pointe doctors takes over at noon Sundays, he adds.

AS FOR Preston, he sits back and enjoys the fun . . . and keeps up the hard work. As director of Lakeshore Soccer Dome, he's there to make sure everything works fine, including the Friday night transformation from tennis court to soccer field. It takes Preston and six assistants about three hours to roll out the 16 rolls of 85 by 12 foot carpeting, set up the dasher boards and install the goals. When that's done, Preston can relax and watch his favorite

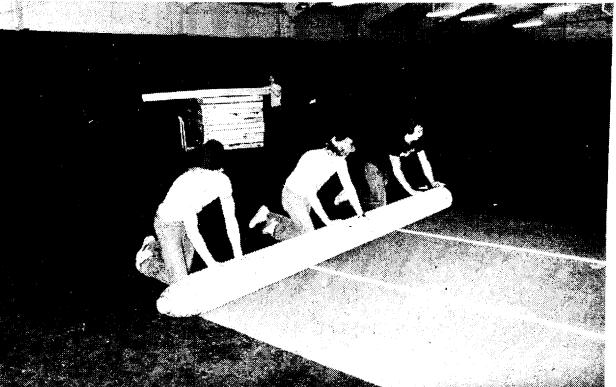

"Soccer for everyone" was and still is Preston's dream. He thinks the Lakeshore Soccer Dome is making that possible. He says he thinks the indoor surface will help young players develop better passing skills, as the boards act almost like an extra player. "The kids get to play the ball more — the field is just right for them.

Preston believes indoor soccer like the brand he offers is more suited to American tastes. "It's going to make it big because it lends itself to the American soccer mentality. Americans are used to a higher scoring, rougher game found in indoor soccer.

So if indoor soccer takes off like Preston thinks it will, he's gotten in on the ground floor. And after his Lakeshore Soccer Dome is settled into a regular pattern of activity, what's in store for Gordon Preston?

"I'm interested in what the N.A.S.L. is doing. They've created a Team America which will play out of Washington, D.C., and every player will be American-born. I think that will be great for the game. I'd like to work on bringing that team here ... and we're working now on bringing college teams here for a match,,' Preston

Parcells runs mark to 6-0

Parcells eighth grade boys' basketball team ran its season record to 6-0 with a pair of victories last week.

Parcells got things started with a 58-21 victory over Romeo Middle School on Jan. 18. Parcells starters scored 23 points while playing only a little more than one quarter. Robert Olds and Chris Dudeck led this group with eight and six points, respectively.

The substitutes came off the bench to score 35 points, led by Mike Hitch and Anthony Meier, with six and five points each.

Jamie Wheatley scored 15 points and Dudek added 14 in Parcells' Jan. 20 win over Romeo Powell, 47-34. David Justice had seven points and chipped in with fine rebounding. ## ULS cagers fall, 46-32

The University Liggett School varsity basketball team stumbled badly last week, losing to leagueleader Southfield Christian, 46-32. ULS was unable to develop any offensive cohesiveness and suffered through a prolonged spell of cold shooting, scoring only two points in the second quarter.

Things improved somewhat in the second half but not enough to allow the Knights to trim the lead. During the second quarter ULS was able to make only one of 13 field goal attempts and for the entire game made only two of 20 free throws. J.T. Parks was high scorer with 12 points. Brian Hunt contributed 12 rebounds.

The Knights hope to get on track this week with an away game Friday, Jan. 28 at Huron Valley Lutheran. ULS' record is Senior forward John Kulka had two goals and an assist and senior defenseman Brian Valice and freshman defenseman Costa Papista each had a goal and an assist. Freshman forward Rob Wood had two assists while the team's leading scorer Tom Dow added a single goal to the win.

Goalies George Zinn and Todd Blake also put in fine performances, turning aside 38 South Lake shots. Coach Jay Peacock stated. "Zinn has kept us in many games until our offense could come around and put the puck in the

Last week's loss came at the hands of arch rival Cranbrook on Saturday, Jan. 22. Cranbrook led, 1-0, after one period but Peacock and the Knights let things get away from them, allowing Cranbrook to score four unanswered goals in the second period. Dow's unassisted power play goal was ULS' only tally in the 7-1 loss.

The Knights travel to Ann Arbor Pioneer on Friday, Jan. 28 and to St. Clair Shores on Saturday, Jan. 29 to play Lake Shore High School, a team that tied the Knights just two weeks ago.

In the second round ULS was again victorious, but this time it took three games. ULS fell, 15-11, in the first match, but the Knights came back to win two out of three, 15-4 and 15-8. The awesome service of captain Lisette Wolfe was the key to the second round vic-
