Park may change zoning law

A new zoning ordinance for Grosse Pointe Park that would allow development of multiple-family housing in certain areas of the city will be presented to the public for comments at a Tuesday, March 15, 7 p.m. meeting of the planning commission.

The 75-page proposed ordinance covers everything from allowable lot sizes to canopies in residential and commercial sections. It is the first thorough revision of the city's zoning law in decades. The final version must be approved by the city council before it becomes law, but the code is generally interpreted and enforced at the planning commission level.

Charles Leman, of Vilican-Leman Associates, wrote the new ordinance and accompanying map which divides the city into eight zones for residential, commercial and parking uses.

Multiple-family housing is allowed in one of four residential zones, R-D, which is scattered through several blocks between Westchester and Lakepointe Roads between Jefferson and Essex and between Balfour and the city limits north of Jefferson.

The proposed ordinance requires 1,500 square feet of land per dwelling unit for multiple-family developments. In addition, such developments would be restricted to parcels of five-acres or more and site plans must be approved by the city's planning commission before a building permit could be issued.

At earlier review sessions with city leaders, Leman has said he believes the sites now occupied by auto dealerships on Jefferson and public school buildings may be prime parcels for multiple-family development, if they should become available. He has defended the need for "alternative" housing to attract young adults, retain "empty-nesters" and senior citizens who've outgrown their single family homes in the community.

The old zoning ordinance now in use is more liberal in regards to multiple-family housing than is the proposed code, Leman said.

"There are large areas of the city now that allow multiple-family housing as high as 50 to 60 persons per acre," Leman said at an earlier planning commission meeting. "If anything, this ordinance tightens up on requirements."

In two other residential zones, R-A and R-B, both designated for single-family use, minimum lot sizes are increased to 10,000 and 7,200 square feet respectively. The R-C zone, which allows one and two-family development, requires lot size of 5,000 feet for single and 3,600 feet per dwelling unit for double-family use.

The zoning map also contains three different business zones — office-service, local business and general business. The changes recommended in this area are geared to "improve the business environment and enhance the residential quality of neighborhoods," according to Leman. The ordinance seeks to eliminate light industry from neighborhood business strips on Charlevoix. The strip of auto dealerships at the Jefferson Avenue entrance to the city is zoned for office-service use, which means if any dealership should remain closed for six months or more, the land would lose its "existing non-conforming use" designation and be forced to conform with the office-service limitations.

The only area of the city zoned for parking in the new map is on the southeast corner of Lakepointe at Jefferson.

State mediators enter Children's Home talks

By Mike Andrzejezyk

Union and management bargainers at Children's Home of Detroit are scheduled to meet with a federal and state mediator Friday, March 11, union officials said, as wage talks continue between the home and 62 child care and kitchen staff workers.

American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees local 1640 president John Waller said both sides agreed to the mediation after wage talks deadlocked.

The union signed a two-year contract with the home in December, 1981, he said. One clause in the contract allowed the reopening of wage negotiations in the second year, which the union did last year, he added.

Bargaining last month left the two sides far apart, Waller said, leading to the Children's Home request for mediation which the union accepted. Mediation was the next step in the negotiating process, he added.

Waller said the last management offer was a $400 raise over one year and an extension of the present contract, due to run out in December. Waller said the union was demanding a 19 percent pay raise, a figure he said will most likely come down, adding the extension of the present contract was also unacceptable to union bargainers.

Waller reiterated the workers' plan to stay on the job rather than strike. "Most of the people don't want to do it," he said. "We don't want to shut things down."

Caring for the home's residents "is not like making carburetor parts," Waller said, adding a shut-down by workers would disrupt the children's lives.

The home, on an 11-acre site on Cook Road in the Woods, offers care to emotionally disturbed children aged 6 to 12 as a voluntary, non-profit, non-sectarian residential treatment center.

Workers staged an informational picket at the home last month which they hoped would put pressure on the management bargainers to come to the table with a working offer, Waller said. The picket, however, had very little effect, he noted, adding it was referred by management to only once since it occurred.

Mediation is the next step of the bargaining process, Waller said. The findings of the mediator can be rejected by either side but part of the mediation will include substantiation of management claims the home is financially unable to pay higher wage increases than offered, he added.

Children's Home was founded in 1936 after a cholera epidemic. Originally called the Protestant Children's Home of Detroit, the home was located on Jefferson Avenue and cared for seven orphans with an annual budget of $200.

In 1950, the home moved to its present site. The board of trustees relocated to the site to provide a campus type environment.

Camp for sneezers

The Allergy and Asthma Information Association, in conjunction with St. John Hospital, will present a free camping and asthma-matics program on Wednesday, March 9, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., in the Hospital's education center.

Dr. Thad Joos will discuss camping and problems encountered by asthmatics.

The program is open to adults and children seven years of age and older. For information contact Ron Harvey, at 343-3769.

Academy has Family A-Fair

Everyone had a good time at Grosse Pointe Academy's Family A-Fair last month, including Clyde and Dale, two Clydesdale horses that provided hayrides for all the school's visitors. The second annual affair brought students, parents and faculty together for a day of fun involving clowns, mimes, balloons, puppet shows, games, art displays and foods from many lands. Even the horses thought it was a good idea.

our present and ideal capacity of 9,900."

While enrollment has sagged considerably in the Pointe's public schools, it doesn't necessarily mean lower costs for the school system, Schoessel said.

A national study showed operating expenses to manage a school system rose 187 percent over a 10 year period, twice the increase of other consumer goods and services, Schoessel said. Because students leave the system gradually, it often limits what administrators can do to cut costs. "IF ENROLLMENT stayed the same, it would be a different story," Schoessel said. "But it doesn't and kids don't leave (the school system) in big chunks. We operate more efficiently when we have lots of kids."

Because of the Pointe's declining enrollment problem, the school district has made several cuts in personnel over the last three years, Schoessel said, including three central office administrators and their secretaries, 1.5 assistant principal positions and 50.5 teaching positions. He added talks with teachers have not started: "We don't know what exactly is going to happen."

In 1981 Grosse Pointe teachers won a 20 percent pay hike over two years. Cost to the school system of the first year of the contract was $1.4 million.

Supt. Dr. Kenneth Brummel will answer questions about the March 7 millage election on Grosse Pointe Cable's Channel 19 Friday, March 4, at 7:30 p.m.

On election day, polls will open at 7 a.m. Residents can vote up until 8 p.m.

Nada's condition improved

Nada Radulovich, the South High School music student seriously injured in an automobile accident last month, is improving at Bon Secours Hospital, a spokesman said this week. She was taken off the critical list and described in fair condition after brain surgery.

Nada, 17, of Grosse Pointe City, suffered severe head injuries, a punctured lung and broken ribs in the accident which occurred while she was driving down Mack Avenue with a friend on Feb. 19.

According to police, the Ford pick-up truck Ms. Radulovich was riding in, hit the median on Mack near Neff Road and tipped upside down after traveling 117 feet.

Police charged the driver, a 21-year-old Grosse Pointe Park man, with careless driving. They said the man told them he had turned his head for an instant when his truck struck the median. Officers found an empty beer can at the scene, which the man admitted drinking, reports said. The man appeared to be coherent, police said. Ms. Radulovich, a cellist, was 1982 winner of the Thomas Nester Memorial Scholarship, named to honor the founder of the Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra. She was scheduled to play with the symphony this Sunday.

The South senior is an alumna of the Interlochen Summer Program and played with the Congress of Strings in Cincinnati last year. Ms. Radulovich is studying on scholarship at the Detroit Community Music School.

Mogk sets his sights on the Chinese connection

By Michael Raveane

A Grosse Pointe Park attorney who recently went to China as part of a trade delegation says there may be a bright future for Michigan firms hoping to do business with China.

The attorney, John Mogk, 44, was named to the Michigan and China committee by former governor Milliken because of his expertise on a wide range of problems facing the state. Since 1969, he has worked as a consultant for the governor and a variety of state offices, including the state Department of Management and Budget, and the Housing Development Authority. He is also a former Wall Street attorney and is president of the Michigan Energy and Resource Research Association (MERRA), a state government, universities and industry partnership created to find solutions for the resource and technology problems facing the state. He is currently a law professor at Wayne State University. He ran against Detroit Mayor Coleman Young twice as an independent.

THE TRADE delegation, headed by Helen Milliken, signed an agreement with Governor Lu Dadong of the central Chinese province of Sichuan. The agreement, signed last Nov. 4, will expand economic, scientific and cultural ties between Michigan and Sichuan. It was the result of two years of negotiations.

Mogk said that the committee identified Sichuan as the province of most interest to Michigan's high technology industries because it must improve its electrical power capabilities and machine-tool industry in order to expand its overall industrial base. "We can offer quite a bit to them, I think, because we are the center of the world's machine-tool industry, which is very important to early industrial development," Mogk said.

Mogk's main task is to list the organizations that best meet Chinese needs and to coordinate the activities of these companies once the needs are identified. Burroughs Corp. and the Ex-Cell-O Corp. have already been successful in selling machinery and technology to China as a result of a 1979 trade mission.

THE FULL committee met earlier this month to develop a list of machine-tool companies that might be available to market their products in China. The group is also identifying technologies that Michigan firms might sell to the province. In addition, the group hopes to invite a trade delegation from Sichuan to visit Michigan. The committee has asked Govern-nor Blanchard to reinforce Milliken's commitment to expand the state's trade with China.

As a followup to last year's trip, Mogk said a letter is being drafted to Governor Lu of Sichuan outlining areas in which Michigan companies can help his province's industry rebuild. Similar trade delegations from West Germany, Japan and Sweden are competing with Michigan, Mogk said, but he is confident that Michigan companies will get the job because of the state's level of advancement in its machine-tool industry and its energy production and distribution technology.

"Despite advances made around the world, there are a number of technological areas where this country — not only by virtue of its early leadership through World War II, but by its advances made since — still represents leadership in the world," Mogk said.

Because of political upheavals, Mogk said that Sichuan's machine-tool industry is about 30 years behind the United States. "The same processes we used 30 years ago are being employed by the Chinese today," he said.

As part of a drive to expand overall industrial capabilities, Mogk said the central government in Peking plans to double or triple its electrical power output by the year 2000. This expansion of power output, Mogk said, is needed because "...you can't expand industry without expanding power generation." About 40 percent of China's electrical power is consumed by industry, he said.

AS PART OF an effort to increase Sichuan's power output, a subcommittee has been formed to present ideas to Governor Lu in the letter now being drafted. Mogk said the Michigan Public Service Commission, the Michigan Department of Commerce and the state's two electrical utility companies are represented on the subcommittee.

Mogk said that Detroit Edison and Consumers Power have provided similar consulting services to other countries that nobody knows about.

"They are highly advanced energy companies," Mogk said. The opportunity is there, he added. For them to sell consulting services to Sichuan in the areas of planning and development for power generation and the providing of equipment.

To illustrate China's lack of electrical power generation, Mogk compared Michigan's output to that of Sichuan Province. Michigan, which has one-tenth the population of Sichuan's 100 million, produces 16 thousand megawatts of power at maximum output. By contrast, Sichuan produces 2,000 megawatts. "Think of the difference," he said.

Mogk said that China is seeking this type of assistance from abroad because its overall technological development was set back about a decade by the Cultural Revolution of the 1960s and '70s. The Cultural Revolution, a political upheaval that was engineered by the late Chinese leader Mao Zedong, disrupted industrial progress and intellectual growth by shutting down universities and sending scientists and intellectuals into the countryside, Mogk said.

"The Cultural Revolution essentially closed the doors of China to the rest of the world and disrupted the development of intellectual capacity in the universities and the industrial sector. A whole generation of minds was lost."

BECAUSE OF this, the current leadership under Deng Xiaoping, has begun a policy of cooperation with Western countries in an attempt to broaden its scientific and industrial development. Mogk said the central government in Peking has adopted a policy of decentralization that will give more decision making authority to the provinces, though all policies will still have to get the approval of the authorities in Peking.

Mogk said this "signal to the West" has prompted trade delegations from different countries to visit various Chinese provinces now given more latitude in planning and development.

"The thinking is that we in Michigan and our industrial sector could benefit by cutting through the red tape and working with a province where there is a direct need for goods and services," Mogk said. Sichuan was chosen because of its existing industrial base.

Mogk said there is little concern or apprehension among the companies interested in trading with China that its Communist leadership might try to take advantage of them or renege on a deal in the event of another political upheaval or worsening diplomatic

John Mogk relations between Peking and Washington.

"The arrangements are not so structured as to cause them concern in terms of a loss of capital since the companies would not build and operate the facilities in China," Mogk said. "The Chinese are more interested in buying ideas and products from the West rather than having American firms build and run the facilities," he explained.

MOGK SAID THE Chinese can be trusted to pay for these goods and services because they already have a good track record. "They're considered to be very honest. If they say they will pay a debt, it will be paid."

In addition, Mogk said that there have already been some cases when some previously

Kids and the religious cults

Do you know how to recognize a cult? Do you ever wonder how to prepare your child to avoid cults? Do you need to know how to break someone away from a cult? Given the right set of circumstances everyone is vulnerable, especially our young people.

Gail Kaess and Kay Healy, members of the War Memorial Council of Sponsors, have organized a public service forum to address these questions, Sunday, March 6, at 2 p.m. at the War Memorial.

A group of panelists will provide insight into the various perspectives of cult life: Dr. Thomas Keiser, Ph.D., psychologist; Dr. Kenneth R. Lentz, pastor of St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church; a former cult member, and a parent of an ex-cult member.

The film, "Ticket to Heaven," will also be presented.

Admission is $1. Call 881-7511 for more information.

Greek dance night

For those who have yearned to learn Greek dancing, the War Memorial will offer a special Greek night, Thursday, March 10, 8 p.m. Cost is $5 per person, or $3 for students in instructors Ted and Lillian Forrests' dance classes.

Regular ballroom dancing classes will begin March 21, with separate sessions for beginners and continuing students. The classes will be in the evening and are $30 for $10 lessons.

Segar to perform

Operatic afternoon with symphony

Mezzo-soprano Kathleen Segar, a 1982 winner of the Metropolitan Opera Auditions, will be the featured guest soloist at the Grosse Pointe Symphony's Sunday, March 6, concert, at 3:30 p.m. in Parcels Auditorium, Mack at Vernier in Grosse Pointe Woods. She will perform arias from operas by Purcell, Mozart, Donizetti and Massenet.

"Kathleen Segar would seem to be an opera singer who is destined to make the big time," said John Guinn, music critic of the Detroit Free Press, when the mezzo was chosen one of 11 first prize winners in last year's opera competition. In addition to $5,000 for further study, all winners were invited to perform on the Met stage in New York in a concert which was broadcast nationwide.

At that time, following her personal conference with the panel of notable judges, Miss Segar reported, "they said that basically my instrument was one of the best mezzos they had heard".

The singer, who holds a Master's degree in voice from the University of Michigan, made her debut with the Detroit Symphony in a 1979 fully-staged production of Strauss' "Elektra," under the baton of Maestro Antal Dorati and, subsequently, with the same orchestra, sang solos of compositions by Bach and Beethoven.

She has also appeared with the symphonies of Toledo, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Dearborn, Grand Rapids and Fort Wayne, where her performance rated this accolade.

"As she has demonstrated many times before, her strong clear voice is a delight."

For three consecutive seasons Miss Segar played major roles with the Northern Indiana Opera Association and has appeared numerous times with the Michigan Opera Theatre including productions of "Carmen," "Anoush," "The Haunted Castle" and "Marriage of Figaro" at the Music Hall, "Madame Butterfly" on tour, as well as "Alice in Wonderland" at Kennedy Center, Washington, D.C. She has also sung with the Dayton Opera and the Washington Opera.

Tickets for the March 6 concert can be ordered by calling 886-4084 in advance or purchased at the door for $5, adults, $2 students. Felix Resnick will conduct the Grosse Pointe Symphony.

National ham hook-up today

Members of the South Eastern Michigan Amateur Radio Association club will hook up their VHF "repeater" today, March 3, at 8:30 p.m. to the national teleconference facilities sponsored by the Honeywell Radio Club in Minneapolis, Minn.

Some 60 repeaters coast-to-coast will carry the hour-long program. Several thousand amateurs and short-wave listeners will be tuned in to the broadcast, the organization said.

A repeater is a remote-controlled radio station that receives

FM transmissions from individual licensed amateurs on their two-way equipment from perhaps 20 to 30 miles away and then retransmits the same voice signals through its high antenna to other short wave equipment perhaps 20 to 30 miles away.

The SEMARA club's repeater is located atop St. John Hospital and other repeaters will pick up the program from the transmissions and cover the tri-county area, the group said.

ARE YOU LOSING MONEY BY INVESTING IT THE WRONG WAY?

Just because you're earning interest on your money, doesn't mean you're earning the most interest you can. Because now there are a lot of investment options that can make your money work harder. Of course, with so many to choose from, it's tough to know which one is best for you.

WHAT DO YOU WANT FROM YOUR MONEY?

Everyone has different needs and wants. If you would like to earn high interest and still have access to your funds for example, there's MANUFUND. Our insured money market account. And NOW INTEREST CHECKING, a high interest account with checkbook convenience. Still you might have some money you can afford to put away for a while and not touch. So you might want our 6-month or 30-month MONEY MARKET ACCOUNT. Both guarantee a high fixed rate of interest for the term of your investment. But these are just a few of the investment plans we offer, that make your money work harder.

WE CAN TELL YOU WHAT'S RIGHT FOR YOU...RIGHT NOW.

At Manufacturers we can take the confusion out of choosing the right investment plan by giving you just what you want...Straight talk and simple answers. We'll explain everything you need to know so it all makes sense. And can even help tailor an investment plan to meet your needs and wants. Michigan National announces 11-3/4 percent home financing

Michigan National Bank-Grosse Pointes last week announced it is offering mortgage loans for terms of from five to seven years with interest rates as low as 11 3/4 percent, amortized over 30 years.

"We believe conditions are right to put carpenters, bricklayers, electricians, plumbers and other building tradesmen back to work," said bank President Gerald J. Hulber. "Falling interest rates, deposit growth and a desire to put local deposit dollars back to work in the Grosse Pointe area have prompted the return to residential mortgage lending."

Dennis Nichols, the bank's senior vice-president in charge of mortgage lending, said the loan offer reflects the "inflation risk, as well as the credit risk" to the bank.

"The greater the inflation risk the customer is willing to assume, the lower the current interest cost will be," he said.

Nichols said he thinks there is a pent-up demand for low cost, fixed rate mortgages to refinance mortgages and land contracts entered into during the "creative financing" period of the last three years, (when mortgage interest rates were as high as 17 percent.)

"However," he cautioned, "in mortgaging a home today, both the borrower and the bank must take into consideration a fundamental difference in the economic climate. The home buyer must be prepared to commit a relatively constant portion of his or her income to a mortgage payment. Buyers should purchase only as much house as they can afford."

The new mortgages will be paid in full or renegotiated after their term expires to reflect the inflation rate between now and that time, Nichols said.

Michigan National Bank-Grosse Pointes is headquartered at 21110 Mack Avenue in the Woods. It has total assets of $24 million and is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Michigan National Corp., which is comprised of 26 banks with consolidated assets more than $6.5 million, according to the company.

Cottage receives project approval

Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe recently received approval from the Michigan Department of Public Health to begin a $331,000 project to replace radiographic/fluoroscopic equipment in its radiology department.

Woods manager pay is increased

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Woods City Administrator-Clerk Chester Petersen will get his first raise in three years next July. The Woods council voted Monday, Feb. 28, to increase Petersen's salary from $49,000 to $50,000 and pay him a $1,500 bonus effective July 1.

The salary increase recommendation came from the Woods Compensation Evaluation Committee which met for the last two months. Chairing for the committee was Councilman Robert Novitke, with members Councilman John Sabol and Mayor George Freeman.

In addition, the council approved a recommended increase in City Attorney George Catlin's fee from $50 to $55 an hour. City Comptroller-Assessor Frederick Hornfisher will receive a 4 percent raise in July, from $34,500 to $36,000.

The Woods became the second city in as many months to offer its top appointed officials a pay raise. Last January, the Park city council voted to give its city manager and comptroller-assessor 9 percent pay increases. The Park city manager received $46,000 up from $42,000, while the comptroller-assessor received $43,000, up from $39,900.

While the Park pay raises are retroactive to July, 1982, Petersen pointed out his 5 percent raise was not retroactive, taking effect at the beginning of the city's next fiscal year.

Salaries for other city managers are, according to Park Mayor Douglas Graham, $4,900 in the Farms and $50,800 in the City.

Currently, the $3,400 salary paid in the Shores is split between the Village Superintendent and Township Clerk.

The council also voted to continue the same fringe benefit package for the appointed officials, following the recommendation by the Compensation Evaluation committee which said it reviewed the package and had no suggested inclusions.

Farms cops stop Moran break-in

A phone call from an alert neighbor was instrumental in helping Farms police capture a Detroit man suspected of breaking and entering a Moran Road home Sunday morning, Feb. 20.

According to police reports, the neighbor became suspicious after seeing an older model car with a loud muffler cruise slowly down Moran at 3:45 a.m.

After pulling into a driveway, the citizen phoned police and reported seeing a lone male leave the car and run behind a nearby garage.

Responding officers Cpl. Otto Glanert, Cpl. Gordon Evans and Ptl. Robert Ireland found the car, a 1971 Pinto, and blocked it before investigating further.

The officers said the suspect had made entry into a home via a milk chute. Unable to raise anyone in the house, Cpl. Glanert entered the home through an unlocked window and unlocked the back door.

While Cpl. Evans checked the basement, Cpl. Glanert moved to the second floor of the home, where he came upon a ransacked bedroom.

Both officers conducted a room-by-room search of the floor, before discovering the suspect hiding beneath a bed. The arrest was made without incident.

A search of the suspect's jacket turned up a woman's wrist watch and diamond necklace, police said.

Arrested before Farms Municipal Judge Robert Pytell on Tuesday, Feb. 22 on a charge of breaking and entering an occupied building was Shawn Patrick McCarthy, 21, of University Road, Detroit.

McCarthy was released on $5,000 bond.

Baby boom focus of pilot program

"The Baby Boom and What It Means to America" will be the topic of first of two pilot programs this spring sponsored by the Department of Continuing Education of the Grosse Pointe public schools. The programs will be an introduction to a new monthly discussion group this fall.

Speaker at the first meeting on Thursday, March 24, at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria of Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte, will be John J. Schonenberg, Jr. Schonenberg is a member of the American Academy of Actuaries, a past president of the Michigan Actuarial Society and has an interest in demography.

Schonenberg's presentation will highlight the impact that the past World War II baby boom has had on society, and will look at the effect of 75 million births in the years from 1946 through 1964, focusing on social and psychological implications.

Serving as moderator for the March 24 session will be Janet Brown, past president of the American Association of University Women, Grosse Pointe Branch.

The presentation and a second scheduled for April 28 are as a result of recent deliberations of the Department of Continuing Education's Citizens' Advisory Subcommittee. Future speakers and discussion leaders for the group are expected to come from among the community's retirees. "Our community is fortunate to have a relatively high percentage of residents with 30 to 40 years of professional, technical or executive experience in a variety of fields," Schonenberg said.

"Much of the social, economic, educational, political and industrial life of today has origins in the developments occurring during the active working life of these individuals and in which they played a vital role both as participants and observers," Schonenberg added.

The Department of Continuing Education is recruiting these individuals to encourage them to share their knowledge and experience with others in the community, Schonenberg said.

"We hope to encourage a cross-generational experience, with our older generations speaking to our younger generations on relations with the past and present — and with thoughts about the future," said Dr. George T. Edgington, supervisor of Continuing Education. He added that the "intellectual stimulation" project emanated from a suggestion by Dr. Kenneth Brummel, superintendent of schools.

Serving on the planning committee for this spring's pilot program and for next year's series are members of the public schools' Department of Continuing Education Subcommittee on Senior Citizen Activities. They are Mary Ann Collinson, Dr. Arthur Hillegas, Howard Hush, Eugene Ivanso, Marion Koch, Helen Martin, John Schonenberg, Louise TeWalt and John Wayne.

The group has compiled and will continue to compile a roster of retired residents and others willing to participate in the proposed presentations.

Chairing the April 28 session will be Eugene V. Ivanso, retired registered professional metallurgical engineer and past director of adult education at Wayne State University, who will present the topic "The Past Fifty Years or So in Technology, Research and Development." His presentation will include examples of materials, processes and products which have emerged and their effects on society now and in the future.

At each meeting questions will be answered from the audience.

Another cigarette brand that failed in the marketplace was a tobacco-less smoke made of cabbage called "Bravo." Then there was one of cocoa beans named "Free." Another of herbs was labeled "Honey De Luxe."

City rejects summer tax plan

Members of the Grosse Pointe City Council joined their colleagues in the Park and Farms last week by rejecting a request for summer tax collection from the Wayne County Intermediate School District.

According to a council resolution, the county collection "would be confusing to taxpayers, would not correlate with the city's summer payment of two (tax) installments and (would) administratively be more costly to collect in relation to the size of the levy."

Local cities prepare property tax bills for all units of governments. The county school district collects 1.09 mills from City residents (about $140,000 a year) and would save money by collecting the money early. With its current winter collection, the district has to borrow money to carry it through until the winter property taxes are paid.

Grosse Pointe Park and Grosse Pointe Farms Councils also have turned down the summer tax request, saying the plan may cause hardship for residents. Grosse Pointe Shores does not collect taxes for the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Officials in Grosse Pointe Woods are still reviewing the plan.

Although a new state law allows school districts to collect taxes six months earlier, the Grosse Pointe public schools will continue with its winter levy according to officials. School board trustees voted down a summer tax plan last year saying it would be burdensome for some residents to come up with a tax payment earlier in the year.

FLEC sponsors VD lecture

Those interested in discovering more about the prevention and treatment of venereal diseases should attend "V.D. Update 83" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, March 3, in the Parcels School Auditorium, at Mack Avenue and Vernier Road.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Lawrence R. Crane, chief of Infectious Diseases Division at Harper Grace Hospital. The program is sponsored by the Family Life Education Council (FLEC) and the Health Education Council (HEC). Each organization is located in the Farms.

Donations will be accepted at the door.

Farms man faces trial this month

A Grosse Pointe Farms man last month was ordered to stand trial for manslaughter in the Jan. 15 death of a friend.

Grosse Pointe City Municipal Judge Stan Kazul ordered Edward W. Caulkins, 20 bound over for trial in Wayne County Circuit on the charge stemming from a fatal automobile accident involving 21-year-old Todd Elvidge of Grosse Pointe City, who died instantly in the crash.

Caulkins, Elvidge and another friend were driving down Jefferson Avenue at a high rate of speed early on Sunday morning, Jan. 15, when Caulkins lost control of the car and it overturned, according to police.

Police said Caulkins was legally intoxicated and a breathalyzer test showed his blood/alcohol content at .20. Under state law, a person is legally drunk with blood/alcohol content of .10.

According to police, Caulkins is free on bond pending pre-trial in circuit court on March 10.

Memorial contributions may be made to the St. Bonaventure Monastery, c/o the Soup Kitchen. Interment was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.

Nutrition class begins March 5

The Grosse Pointe public school system's Department of Continuing Education and the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross have joined forces to co-sponsor a recently-developed class called "Better Eating for Better Health."

The free class, which focuses on new ways to learn about food, health and a proper diet, is a pilot program in nutrition which was developed by the American Red Cross and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The first pilot was conducted on the east coast last spring.

The four-week class will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. beginning Saturday, March 5. Three-hour sessions also are slated for March 12, 19 and 26. All classes will be held in the cafeteria of Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte Avenue, in the Farms. Students wishing to enroll in this class must contact the Department of Continuing Education. Call 343-2178.

"Those enrolling should be aware that they will be expected to make a commitment to an important research project and should plan to attend all sessions and to participate in all activities," said Dr. George T. Eddington, supervisor of continuing education.

The class will be taught by Paula Gerow, a local resident and registered dietitian. Currently employed as outpatient dietitian at Hutzel Hospital, Mrs. Gerow holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Dietetics from Michigan State University and a Master's Degree in Health Education from Wayne State University.

Mrs. Gerow is not a newcomer to this kind of community service, having taught a general adult nutrition class, "Eating Your Way to Better Health," and having served as a guest speaker at various educational institutions, as well as professional associations and corporate functions.

Assisting Mrs. Gerow in several sessions of the new class will be Mary L. Tucker, a dietetic assistant certificated by Wayne State University who completed an internship at South Macomb Hospital. Mrs. Tucker has been director of Food Service with the Red Cross for seven years.

"Think of the 12 hours you spend with us as an important investment for health," Mrs. Gerow said. "You will learn how to plan nutritious meals and how nutritional needs change as people grow older. You will learn how to identify your own toughest eating problems and the strategies you can use to overcome them.

"Most important, you'll learn how to eat wisely, no matter what your eating habits may have been before. And you will learn to do so in a simple way that does not complicate your lifestyle," Mrs. Gerow said.

Marjorie Gaunt, director of Nursing and Health Services for the Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross, said that "Better Eating for Better Health" will take the guesswork out of nutrition, and show those who enroll now to read food labels, evaluate food additives, consider the relationship of diet and disease, and think about the vitamins, minerals and other nutrients in their food.

"You can make good nutrition a regular, enjoyable part of your life," Mrs. Gaunt said. "No matter what age you are; no matter what kind of lifestyle you lead or how busy you are; smart eating will work for you and your family. Chances are that you'll look and feel better, be healthier, live longer and save money, too."

Cinema League will tour Yugoslavia

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present "Yugoslavia: from Belgrade to Dubrovnik," a color slide travelogue by Esther Peters on Monday, March 7, at 8 p.m. The program will feature views of scenic and historical significance as well as scenes of life in Yugoslavia.

Scenes of markets, country people and folk dances are also included in the travelogue.

The public is invited to attend the program at no charge. Cinema League members are invited to attend the social hour following the program.

Orchestra Hall hosts Ms. Leon

Suzanne Lai Leon, violinist and winner of the 1982 String Competition sponsored by the Junior League of Detroit and Friends for Orchestra Hall, will perform a solo award recital Sunday, March 6, at 4 p.m. at Orchestra Hall.

Ms. Leon, a Grosse Pointe resident and recent graduate of Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, will be accompanied by her sister, pianist Stephanie Leon in a program of Stravinsky, Beethoven, Prokofiev and the Sarasate-Zimbalist arrangements of Bizet's "Carmen."

Tickets priced at $5 are on sale in the box office at Orchestra Hall. Student or senior citizen rates are available by calling Friends of Orchestra Hall, 833-3702. Mail orders can be charged with MasterCard and Visa at P.O. Box 02130, Detroit, 48202.

Council sets $25 fee for mobile toters

By Susan McDonald
People who live in the west end of Grosse Pointe Park will be charged $25 for each of the new mobile trash toters they receive, under the city's program to clean up alleys with a semi-automated garbage system.

The Park council passed an ordinance Feb. 28 making toter use mandatory in the section of the city with open alleys and setting the $25 charge for the new garbage cans on wheels.

A spokesman representing Rubbermaid, builders of the system, said some 1,200 toters will be delivered to homes within four weeks. The toters carry 85 gallons of trash and roll on wheels. They also have heavy snap-on lids to prevent spilling.

Use of the new system won't be limited to the west end of the Park, though. Any Park resident who wants to take advantage of the below-cost offer of $25 per can can order one through city hall, (822-6200), under the rules approved by a 6-1 vote of the council. Councilman Anthony Spada voted against the new system, saying he did not think the city had given it enough study.

The $25 charge will be in effect for each homeowner's first toter only. The cans cost almost $40 each, and that will be the charge for any additional purchases, officials said.

Mayor Douglas Graham said the city expects to encounter individual problems with the toters — handicapped persons who can't wheel them out, homes with narrow gates to the alleys, etc. He directed the city administration to work with each citizen to insure the program is a success.

"This program is new, and we found in our pilot study, it is great for cleaning up alleys and reducing litter," the mayor said. "I expect everyone in the city, not just people who have to, will want to buy one of these."

The toters are lifted onto garbage trucks by an automatic mechanism and can reduce the workload and number of injuries for trash collection crews, the Rubbermaid spokesman said.

Waverly Consort at Memorial

New York City's popular Waverly Consort will present a concert Sunday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. Highlighted by reproductions of authentic Renaissance instruments and costumes, the group's program is entitled "Italia Mia—Songs and Dances of the Italian Renaissance." The group has consistently received rave reviews in the New York Times, New York Magazine, Time and Newsweek, Stereo Review and others, which result in sold out concerts in New York City. Tickets are available at the church office and at the door for $5 for adults, and $1 for students. Call 882-5330 for more information.

Thieves take $15,000 from home in Park

A Grayton Road family returned from a two-day trip to find their home had been ransacked and $15,000 worth of valuables stolen, according to Park police.

The breaking and entering was reported at about 2:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 27, according to Chief Henry Coonce. Among the missing items were four television sets, a stereo with speakers and turntable, microwave oven, sterling silver, Atari tapes, a clock radio, garnet rings and $300 in cash.

The thieves apparently gained entry to the home through a sliding glass door and left the same way, officials said.

The method of operation is similar to that in recent crimes in the Farms and Park, according to police.

Ms. Dorothy M. Kennel, President
Grosse Pointe Board of Education
389 St. Clair Avenue
Grosse Pointe, Michigan 48230

Feb. 17, 1983

Dear Ms. Kennel:

I am writing you because I am troubled by the finances of our schools.

I have always believed in good schools, have always supported them, and have never objected to paying high, or higher, taxes for worthwhile public services.

Nevertheless, I cannot help but wonder if our school expenditures are out of control. I am more and more conscious of a similarity between teacher unions and those of auto workers and steel workers, who through coercion of weak, short-sighted managements have established themselves as economically privileged elites, with consequent destructive effects.

Opinion is one thing; facts are another. So I have sought the facts from the school administration.

I am told that the median salary for a teacher is $34,845, for 180 days of teaching. Adjusting for an annual basis results in an equivalent salary of around $46,000. This does not include fringe benefits.

This is really a shocking number. With all deference to the importance of education of our children, it is difficult to accept that a teacher in elementary or high school should be paid at that level. I am sure that the median income of working residents of the Pointes is less than that, and perhaps substantially less. And this is to a large extent a community of upper income, white collar professionals, many of whom work longer hours and are under more pressure than the teachers.

In 1972 the annual per pupil cost in the District was $1,067. In 1982 it was $3,742, an increase over ten years of 250%. No management of any corporation would survive with that kind of a record.

Surely there is some state of mind of the school board at the base of this. Can you tell me what it is? I fear that you have no appetite for confrontation and that cost consciousness, if present, disappears through some process of rationalization.

Sincerely,
E. S. McCollister

Note: No reply to this letter had been received from Ms. Kennel through Feb. 28. Although open to reason, I will vote against the millage at the election on March 7.

Students score music honor

South High School's Instrumental Music Department recently participated in District Solo and Ensemble Festival at L'Anse Creuse High School.

The festival, an annual competition sponsored by the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association, judges students on five areas of musicianship: tone, intonation, rhythm, technique and interpretation. Each event is graded on these areas with letter grades (A through E), and awarded a divisional rating (I through V) based on the grades received. This year South students earned 29 I's, 15 II's, and four IV's.

Those students who received I's are eligible to compete at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival on March 26. Students receiving first divisions last Saturday were Beth Miller, Julie Parker, Christina Nihem, Carrie Krogh, Lisa Tacke, Effie Papadakis, Helen Anne D'Alessandro, Katherine Hein, Peter Nicholson, Nada Radulovich, Michael Ward, Marty Heger, Nick Markus, Vicky Webster and Julie Henderson.

More were Liesa Busse, Peter Wack, Lynn Armbruster, John Dunn, Chris McKeenan, Amy Gaskin, Jila Shafadeh, Laura Weidig, Matteo di-Tommaso, Scott Miller, Jennifer Ward, Kay Horton, Curt West, Steve King and Kirk Sanders.

Students receiving second divisions were Betsy Ward, Kim Kurrie, Adele DiNatale, Helen Markus, Mary Warner, Sharon Lee, Donna Emery, Lisa Manthe, Kristin Kelly, Chris Herrinton, Rob Eirik, Julie Harbold and John McNamara.

Receiving the three marking were John Williams, Jeff Bosley, Arif Ulku and Paul Tacke.

South's Instrumental Music students are preparing for the District Band and Orchestra Festivals on March 12 and 19.

These University Liggett students, (left to right) Mike Henein, John Hadjisky, Jim Kitchen and Rob Ryan, beat 52 contending teams to win special honors in the recent Computer Bowl VI, the University of Detroit's 1983 math-computer contest for greater Detroit and Windsor high school students.

Career Night

Students explore their future jobs

Forty-five careers, ranging from accounting to veterinary medicine, will be featured in the third annual Career Night at South High School on March 16, at 7:15 p.m.

The two-hour program, entitled "The Next Frontier - A Career Expo," will be presented jointly by South High School and the Mothers' Club.

A 30-minute keynote address, a futuristic look at career, will kick off the evening's activities. Dr. Albert L. Goldberg, an educational consultant at Wayne County Intermediate School District, will speak on "The Outlook on Careers in the Future Emphasizing Change."

Dr. Goldberg, who is a member of the World Future Society, has published more than 50 articles and is a speaker on computers, futures, jobs and high technology.

Practicing professionals from 45 different career areas will make 30-minute presentations at 8:10 p.m. in various designated rooms at South High School. The same presentations will be repeated at 8:50 p.m. so students and parents can hear a second career presentation.

The focus of small group meetings will be on the latest information about duties and responsibilities of the job, required education and training, salary expectations and the current job outlook.

Although the program is designed for high school students and their parents, anyone in the community who is seeking career information is welcome, according to Mrs. Terry Lloyd, South's career counselor.

"Those residents who may be re-entering the job market or those who might be contemplating a job change would also find this program especially beneficial," Mrs. Lloyd said.

Local students with math honors

Three Grosse Pointe high school students were honored at Alma College last Saturday, Feb. 26, for placing in the top 100 out of 21,000 students who participated in the 26th annual Michigan Mathematics Prize Competition.

At North High School, senior Alex Rothis was honored for placing in the top 100 entrants. South students were seniors Robert Bailey and Christopher Whitney.

The competition is sponsored by the Michigan Section of the Mathematical Association of America and is designed to foster a wider interest in mathematics, to focus attention on the necessity for mathematical training in most professions and trades, and to identify and provide scholarships for capable mathematics students in the state of Michigan.

Competition funds include contributions from the Burroughs Corporation, Michigan Bell, the Kuhlman Corporation and the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics.

Vote NO on the School Millage Proposal!

Why?

In 1971, Grosse Pointe's school enrollment was 13,337 students.

Today — 1983 — enrollment is only 7,805 students.

This represents a 41% drop in enrollment over a 12-year period! And school officials predict there will be only 6,287 students enrolled by 1986-87!

It seems clear that, in view of the steady, substantial decreases in Grosse Pointe's school enrollment since 1971, major reductions in the system's operating budget are justified and called for.

It is our feeling that the millage reduction proposed by the Board of Education — from 26.55 to 25.35 — is far from major and does not begin to adequately reflect the shrunken — and still shrinking — student enrollment.

This is why we urge you to vote NO in the March 7 referendum.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in the City Hall at 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms on

MONDAY, MARCH 21, 1983

Know Your Schools

Smaller classes don't mean lower costs

By Dr. Kenneth Brummel Supt. of Schools

As regular readers of this column know, I have been using these articles to provide information about the millage requests which the Board of Education is presenting to the electorate on March 7.

One concern that we in Grosse Pointe share with many school districts across the state and nation is the dilemma of increasing costs for education despite declining enrollments. Some citizens have suggested that the decline in student population which our schools are experiencing should enable us to reduce the millage rates being requested to levels even lower than what they already are.

Your Board of Education is very concerned about declining enrollment and has taken a number of cost-saving measures, including cutting central office administrators, laying off staff, and reducing program offerings, in response to the decline in student population.

Unfortunately, it doesn't always follow that lower student enrollments mean lower costs for the schools. Statistics from a survey done by the National Committee for Citizens in Education show that public school enrollment was down 2 percent nationally at the end of the 1970s, but costs were up 13 percent. Those figures follow a 10-year trend during which time the cost of supplies and services used in providing a public education increased 187 percent, more than twice the rise of other consumer goods and services.

Perhaps the best example is to compare the operating expenses of a school to those of a household. Parents can reduce a few expenses when a child leaves home for college or work, but the mortgage is the same, and utilities, insurance and similar costs still go up.

Schools, like households, lose their students gradually from different grades and schools. Since enrollment decline doesn't take the form of large blocks of students leaving from one grade level, or from one school at any one time, class sizes drop slightly from year to year, and often limit what can be done in terms of layoffs and disruptive shifting of attendance lines or school consolidations. The end result is that some expenses can be saved, but many still increase.

According to a study conducted by the National Institute of Education, it takes up to 10 years for a school to realize full savings from declining enrollment. Even then, the chances are slim that the savings will approach or equal the cost of educating each child lost because school services are most efficiently provided collectively rather than individually. In actuality, providing the same services to an individual or a group of smaller size is not as economical. In many situations, per pupil costs actually may increase as enrollment declines.

What I have tried to explain in this article is that it is possible to save money under certain declining enrollment situations, but not as much money as most people think. A separate but related issue is that in addition to the steps to save money taken by the board to date, the board soon may choose to take more drastic measures such as school closings and consolidations. However, any changes in the organizational structure that the board decides to make will not occur until the 1984-85 school year, so we do need the money this millage will provide to operate next year. Then, millage rates can be adjusted through voluntary rollbacks to reflect any changes made by the board during the 1984-85 and 1985-86 school years.

Although enrollment has declined in our schools, and some may think that the millage reduction should be greater, the board has considered all factors and demonstrated its fiscal responsibility with this particular millage proposal.

As a recent article in "The Detroit News" noted, "You usually will find the biggest property tax bargains in the posh communities. People frequently pay high property taxes in cities with little prestige and minimal services. But others who live in such prestigious communities as Bloomfield Township or the Grosse Pointes, pay relatively modest taxes."

Passage of this millage request is essential for a continuation of excellent educational programs and services in this community at the "bargain" rates noted in the News.

"Sequoia" is not the only word in the English language with all the vowels, but it's the only one with at least four in a row. Mountain climbers have to wear wool and not cotton, because wet wool dries out quickly even in the high cold. Cotton doesn't.

Liggett offers adult computer workshops

University Liggett School Computer Education Coordinator Mary Kosak is conducting introductory computer workshops for interested ULS parents, familiarizing adults with basic computer skills.

The first topic of Kosak's workshops is called "Meeting the Computer" where computer terminology and an introduction to the BASIC language are taught. The second workshop is "Learning the Logo Language" to understand the computer language developed by Dr. Seymour Papert at MIT. Workshop III is "An Introduction to Word Processing," teaching word processing skills and capabilities. The final workshop is "Software Review," illustrating the variety of available software packages and programs with a presentation by Dr. Gerry Goldberg of Micro-Station in Southfield.

Kosak said participants are only exposed to beginning computer training, and that with further training they can do much more. Participants will learn useful information for selecting their home computers, Kosak said.

For more information, call the school at 884-4444.

Teens worry what future will bring

When the nation's top teens worry, they worry most about the future, which may partially explain why they avoid drugs, sex and alcohol.

The thirteenth Annual Survey of High Achievers, conducted by "Who's Who Among American High School Students," revealed that most of the country's best students (32 percent) worry about the future more than dating (22 percent).

The survey also found that, as in the past, "Who's Who" students adhere to tradition in their personal lives, which may spring from their worries about the future. As one teen put it, "I don't want to do anything foolish now that might ruin my life later on."

Three-fourths of the achievers have never had sexual intercourse

North concert set March 10

Grosse Pointe North Bands and Orchestra will present a Pre-Festival Concert on Thursday, March 10, at 8 p.m. in the Community Performing Arts Center at North High School.

Under Conductor Nathan Judson, the Symphony Orchestra will open the program, playing "Egmont Overture" by Beethoven, a movement of Bach's "Brandenburg Concerto No. 3," and "Ballet Egyptian" by Luigini.

The Concert Band will continue with "Toccata for Band" by Erickson, "Little Italian Suite" by Beeler, and "Eubie" from the musical show which honored jazz musician Eubie Blake.

The Symphony Band will close with "Golden Jubilee" by Sousa, two movements from "First Suite in E Flat for Military Band" by Holst and "American Civil War Fantasy" by Bilik.

Symphony Band and Symphony Orchestra are preparing for a district festival at Avondale High School in Auburn Heights at 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 12. District Orchestra Festival will be at Pierce Middle School in Grosse Pointe on March 19. North's orchestra will perform there at 2:45 p.m.

The March 10 concert is free. The public is invited to attend.

and nearly half believe that premarital sex is unacceptable under any circumstances.

They aren't drug users either. Eighty-three percent have never tried marijuana, 97 percent never tried cocaine, 98 percent never tried angel dust and similar percentages have abstained from using other illegal drugs.

Unlike their contemporaries, they are not heavy drinkers. While 43 percent admitted to drinking occasionally, nearly a third said they never drink, although they've tried it. Another 13 percent have never even had an alcoholic beverage.

Cigarettes are also out for 89 percent of the teens, who never picked up the habit. Seven percent said they have quit smoking. Still, religion may play a part in their conservative ways. The majority (68 percent) of the survey respondents are members of traditional religious groups. They attend religious services weekly (40 percent) or at least regularly (29 percent).

No matter what the reason, their avoidance of some of the in-

Lisa Lee, Cheryl Bungard and Kelley LaPryne placed in the finals for spelling.

The 1983 Provisional Class of the Junior League of Detroit is moving quickly these days to finalize plans for a fund raiser to assist the League's cookbook project and a food raiser to assist the needy in the area. Each guest at the Friday, March 11, party is encouraged to bring along canned goods for later charitable distribution.

It will be a casual, lively evening at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Time is 7:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. Each $20 advance admission ticket covers music for dancing and a sumptuous buffet. A cash bar will be available.

The inspirational efforts of cooks and food lovers attending the affair will also be focused on a Creative Apron Contest, with prizes awarded to guests wearing the most imaginative originals. There'll be other prizes, too, for there's a raffle on the fundfood night's agenda. Tickets for the raffle will be sold at the party. The number to call for information on tickets for the party itself is 881-5683.

Tuesday Musicale Artist Concert

Tuesday Musicale of Detroit's regularly scheduled concerts feature performances by the musicale's own talented members through the year, but a highlight of the musicale's year is always the Artist Concert, which brings very special performers on-stage before musicale members and guests.

Carl Kaiser, operatic tenor and professor at Calvin College, and Daune Mahy, soprano, associate professor at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music, are this spring's Artist Concert stars. They'll present a program of art songs, operatic arias, solos and duets, works by Haydn, Beethoven, Schumann and 20th century Italian and Elizabethan songs by Argento. Tuesday, March 15, at 10:30 a.m. in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Fries Auditorium. Accompanists will be Joanne Warners and Lydia Frumkin.

Mr. Kaiser has delighted artists throughout Europe. Ms. Mahy's notices describe her as a "stunning interpreter" and praise her "poise and maturity."

The recital will be followed, per Tuesday Musicale tradition, with a gala luncheon, in the War Memorial's Crystal Ballroom, where spring flowers will decorate the tables. Guests will be greeted by the musicale's president, Mrs. Russell H. Skitch, M.B.E., and the group's social chairman, Mrs. Michel Skaff.

Members of the social committee planning the luncheon include Mrs. Russell Axson, Mrs. William Bradley, Mrs. William Bundesen, Mrs. V. Everett Kinsey and Mrs. John E. Young. Mrs. Joseph Shaheen is in charge of reservations. Mrs. C.E. Pardee is Artist Concert chairman.

To open Dance Slimnastics '83 spring session

Are you looking for a fun — but safe — way to exercise? Join the local members of Dance Slimnastics, Ltd., as they shape up for spring in a new, eight-week session of aerobic dancing scheduled to begin the week of March 7.

In The Pointe, classes will be held at Christ the King Lutheran Church, located on Mack Avenue, at 9:30 a.m. Mondays and Wednesdays and at 6:45 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays, and at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, also located on Mack Avenue, at 6:45 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, as well as at Saint Michael's Episcopal Church, on Sunningdale Park, at 5 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

AquaFit, aerobic exercise for the non-swimmer, meets at 5 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays in the Pierce Middle School pool.

Classes will be held in Harper Woods at the JFK Library at 7 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays. Further information on any of the above sessions may be obtained by calling 886-7534 or 882-5783.

All classes include a prewarmup routine, sit-up portion, stretching dance, vigorous aerobic routines and cool-down dances. All instructors are CPR certified and evaluated by corporate Dance Slimnastics personnel. The club is affiliated with many prestigious fitness institutes, among them the Aerobics Center, Dallas, Tex., which has certified Ruth Sova, Dance Slimnastics executive director, to manage a health/fitness program, and the American Physical Fitness Research Institute.

What makes Dance Slimnastics different? Every session offers new, upbeat music — not the same songs week after week, but fun, simple dance routines, challenging enough for the advanced student but easy enough to be learned by the newcomer.

Every routine is put together for the proper muscle workout as well as for its aerobic content. And all students are closely monitored to make sure they are receiving an effective, but SAFE, workout.

From Another Pointe Of View

son Engle and his associate, Sidney Kirkpatrick, slipped quietly into Detroit recently to join Leonard B. Smith and the Detroit Concert Band, headquartered on Mack Avenue in The Woods, in production of music for "The Indomitable Teddy Roosevelt," they were rewarded with performances demonstrating the quality and professionalism that have catapulted the DCB into worldwide recognition as The Great American Concert Band.

"You were marvelous," Engle told the DCB at the conclusion of five three-hour sessions which provided 73 minutes of music for the movie. It's the second time the band has been featured in a full-length, major film: in 1970, the BBC flew its television crews to Detroit to film and record the DCB for a documentary on the life and music of John Philip Sousa, America's March King.

The Sousa film premiered in London, on BBC-1, and received a glowing tribute from reviewer Henry Pleasants in The International Herald Tribune. Repeat network telecasts in this country and abroad produced such a bombardment of requests for DCB recordings that Smith promptly launched production of an LP series containing all of Sousa's 116 published marches. The series has been adopted by the Book of the Month Club and is one of its current major record promotions.

Following a 1982 program of 17 concerts at the John Philip Sousa Memorial Band Shell on the Michigan State Fair Grounds (a series made possible entirely by private support), the DCB went into several recording sessions that will soon add four more albums to its other, on-going LP series, "Gems of the Concert Band." The Gems series of complete concerts in an auditorium performance format features a broad variety of composers, instrumental and vocal soloists, in a range of classic, semi-classic and popular music — including, of course, the staples of the band's repertory: the great marches.

For the layman who might wonder why it took 15 hours to get 73 minutes of music for the Teddy Roosevelt film, Smith explains, "It is a union requirement that not more than 15 minutes of 'usable product' be acquired in a three-hour recording session."

Saturday Night Fun a la 40s

The Friends of St. Francis Home for Boys are just that: a loosely-knit group of "friends," east side, west side, all-around-the-town residents, united by their common interest in and desire to promote the good works of St. Francis Home, now in its 94th year of serving metropolitan Detroit youngsters with special needs.

Fund raising is one way the Friends can definitely help the Home, and they've come up with an especially fun way to do that this month, a Saturday Nite Out — 1940s Style at Mrs. Morgan's Boarding House, Dorothy Morgan's popular restaurant located on Puritan at Linwood in Livonia.

The fun begins at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 12. Guests, who are encouraged to come dressed for the decade and the occasion, will dine family style, on chicken, with Mrs. Morgan's famous peach cobbler topping off the meal. There'll be music, by Detroit songstress and jazz pianist Mico Braden, and a fashion show by vintage clothier Mary Jo Atkinson of The Pointe's Two-Timer resale shop.

There'll be a mini-auction of clothing and memorabilia from the 30s and 40s. Sounds like a super way to spend a Saturday night, doesn't it? So don't put off getting your tickets ($25 per person), for the only drawback to the affair is that it's limited to 150 people. Reservation information may be obtained by calling St. Francis Home, 861-2400.

A Distinguished Visitor from France

Grosse Pointe's Ludmila Kruse, president of the French Institute of Detroit, is hosting a distinguished visitor this week. He's Count Gerard de la Villesbrunne, Conferencier Officiel of the Alliance Francaise, and he's coming to town to lecture, in French, on "La Carriere Diplomatique" at the French Institute's luncheon program at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club this Saturday, March 5.

Count de la Villesbrunne, who started his own diplomatic career at the Elysee Palace on special assignment to General Charles de Gaulle for two-and-a-half years, has held important posts in Austria, Germany, Brazil, Nicaragua and the Orient.

He's been French Ambassador to Central Africa and Consul General of New York City. He was in charge of Public Relations under Herve Alphand at the French Embassy in Washington. He's entitled to wear the ribbon of the French Legion of Honor, and he's also been honored by the United States; the military unit in which he was serving during World War II received an American Presidential Citation.

He is the first Frenchman to serve as vice-president general of the Society of Cincinnati, created by George Washington in 1793 for American and French officers who fought in the War of Independence and their direct descendants.

If you'd like to hear him speak (and your French is up to it), call 644-4410 or 292-2750 for information on Saturday's lecture/luncheon.

'Zorba' coming to Assumption

Following his evening performance as "Zorba" next Tuesday, March 8, at Masonic Temple, Anthony Quinn will head for Assumption Cultural Center and a gala afterglow featuring entertainment, Greek hors d'oeuvres, Greek wine and sumptuous pastries.

During his appearance to benefit the center, Quinn will place a memento into a time capsule located in Assumption's new church, which will be opening soon.

Assumption is offering select tickets for that evening's performance at $25, including bus transportation to and from Masonic Temple, and $25 tickets for the afterglow. The tickets may be purchased separately.

Reservations should be made by calling 779-6111; DO NOT call Masonic Temple, since these tickets are not available through the box office.

Assumption Center, established in 1977, has become widely known for the cultural activities it offers to the community at large as well as to members. The center is located on Marter Road, at the border of Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores.

MARILYN BIRETTA, daughter of EDWARD and RENATE BIRETTA, of The Woods, was named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at William Woods College, Fulton, Mo. Students so honored earned at least a 3.5 grade point average.

ULS cagers in first

The University Liggett School basketball team fought its way into a tie for first place in the Michigan Independent Athletic Association and raised its record to 15-3 with a 50-46 victory over Southfield Christian High School in overtime Feb. 22. Southfield and ULS have identical 11-2 league records with one game to play.

The game was close throughout, with ULS holding four and two-point margins at the first quarter and halftime breaks. Southfield Christian forged a tie after three periods and moved to a four-point lead with a minute to play.

Senior guard J.T. Parks closed the margin to two with a baseline drive and junior center Brian Hunt sent the game into overtime at 46-46 with a 10-foot jump shot off a feed from senior guard Larry Van Kirk. Hunt scored the only field goal in the overtime period as ULS forced Southfield Christian to miss two shots, and ran the clock down to 7 seconds with a four-corner delay. Van Kirk added a free throw to make it 49-46. Parks added one more free throw with two seconds left to complete the scoring.

Hunt was once again ULS leading scorer and rebounder with 16 points and 10 rebounds. Parks and Van Kirk added nine points each. Parks also had five rebounds while Van Kirk contributed four steals.

Iciers split

The ULS varsity ice hockey team split a pair of games last week, ending a seven-game winning streak and heading into regional competition with a 13-6-3 mark.

On Wednesday, Feb. 23, the Knights traveled to St. Clair Shores Civic Arena to play Lakeview High School. Lakeview scored first late in the first period. Less than a minute later ULS senior forward Jim Raymo scored his 12th goal of the year with the assist going to Ramsey Gouda to tie the game at 1-1.

Racquetball anyone?

The second period saw ULS come out shooting, outscoring its opponent 3-0 and outshooting Lakeview, 21-9. Marty Wittmer scored twice and Tom Dow, once, as the Knights took a 4-1 lead after two periods. Assists went to Walt Connolly, Dan Bowen and Rob Wood. ULS and Lakeview traded goals in the third period the final ULS goal was a power play goal by Rob Wood, assisted by Marty Wittmer, to give ULS a 5-2 win.

Last Saturday, Feb. 26, ULS ended its regular season play by losing, 5-2 to No. 1 ranked Catholic Central. The first period ended in a 0-0 tie. The second stanza saw the Shamrocks score a power play goal and take a 1-0 lead to the locker room. Catholic Central came out and scored a power play goal just 16 seconds into the third period but ULS countered with goals by Gouda from Raymo and an unassisted goal by Wittmer. Catholic Central rallied three more times before the end of the period to hand the Knights a 5-2 loss.

Spikers are up, down

On Tuesday, Feb. 22, the ULS varsity volleyball team faced Southfield Christian, the toughest team in the MIAC league. ULS had trouble defending against its opponent's incredible spiking and lost the first game quickly. The team was able to keep its spirits high and won the second game, but Southfield Christian won the third game and the set.

The second set was even more exciting with each team demonstrating excellent skills. Southfield Christian won the set in two games, although ULS put up a good fight.

On Feb. 23, the team played a doubleheader at Kingswood School. Despite the outstanding play of rookie player Barb Roman, ULS was defeated 9-15, 7-15.

The ULS spikers were victorious again last Friday, Feb. 25, when they met Plymouth Christian at home in a doubleheader. Thanks to the excellent playing of every member of the team along with the exceptional serving of Muffy Hastings and Elizabeth Warren,

Jason turns tables, wins $50

Most of the time, Jason Chevaller, 8, of Allard Road, plays goaltender for the GPHA Mite Flyers. But last week, Jason turned the tables and became a scorer — and he's $50 richer because of it.

Jason won the $50 playing Score-O, the between-periods intermission game, during the Feb. 22 Detroit Red Wings contest at Joe Louis Arena.

All Jason had to do was stand between the blue line and the net and shoot a puck through a hole in the board covering the regular net. Jason did the job, won the $50 and left Joe Louis with the cash, a Red Wing win and the charge he got out of being on the other side of the puck for a change.

Pointers win squash titles

The State 'A' and Veterans Michigan Squash Racquets Association tournaments were held last week at the Executive Athletic Club in Southfield. Three Grosse Pointers captured state titles in the Veterans divisions.

In the Men's 35's, Rich Griffin of the Detroit Athletic Club defeated Dennis Potocsky of Southfield, 15-8, 15-14, 15-6. In the Men's 40's, Detroit Athletic Club's George Haggarty, who is ranked No. 4 nationally, defeated Paul Hellens of Franklin, 8-15, 15-12, 15-11, 15-9.

In the Men's 50's, Tony Crociata of the University Club of Detroit defeated Dr. T. Tchen of Farmington Hills, 15-8, 18-14, 14-15, 15-8.

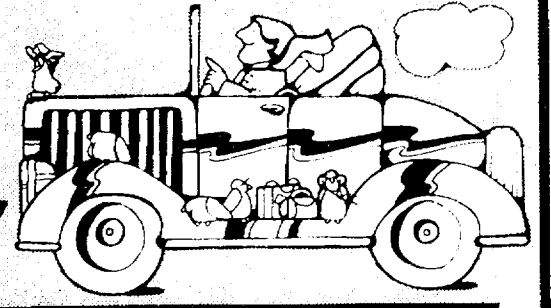

Pointers lead Squirts to win

The St. Clair Shores Squirt AA Wings can claim the title of champion after taking the finals of the North American Silver Stick tournament at Sarnia, Ont., in late January. Two Woods skaters are among those St. Clair Shores champs.

Fifth graders Ross Kogel and Bradley Russell are members of the championship team which beat Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., 4-0.
