Chivalry floats

Last Friday's rain storm forced some people to take alternative modes of transportation to make their daily rounds. A case in point is an 83-year-old St. Clair Shores woman who took her first and last canoe ride that day.

According to Lois Parrish of the Parrish Beauty Shop, 17108 Mack in the City, the woman started out in her car for her appointment that day, but the car stalled in high water along a side street.

Coming to her aid like knights in shining aluminum were two unidentified youths in a canoe who gave the woman a ride to their nearby home where she had a chance to call for service for her car.

Another member of the chivalrous family then went with the woman, by canoe, back to her car and started it for her.

When the woman finally came to the beauty shop the next day, Ms. Parrish said that she was glad for the help, but "never wanted" another canoe ride.

What's new, Chip?

Ever have one of those days? Well, for Chip Ranno, 17, of Harvard Road, it's been one of those years.

For starters, Chip, who's a senior at South High School, played baseball last summer and injured his foot. After it finally healed, he tried out for the varsity football team and managed to break the first.

Undaunted, Chip let the injury heal again, then tried out for and made the varsity basketball team. That apparently was the highlight of the year.

Next, he ran for the office of class president. He lost. Much to our embarrassment, we discovered he'd lost even after taking out an ad in the Grosse Pointe News.

What's Chip up to now? He's currently in London, busy sight-seeing and healing from his latest injuries. While visiting Europe with a number of other South students and teachers, Chip slipped on a trail in the Alps near Lausanne, Switzerland, and tumbled down a 150-foot embankment.

A helicopter was brought in and a basket and doctor were lowered to where Chip lay with a severely broken arm, head injury and abrasions. Because he was wearing shorts and no shirt, he also suffered numerous cuts, which later became infected.

Chip was flown to a nearby hospital, where he spent a week recovering while the rest of his classmates toured Switzerland and Paris.

According to his parents, Chip should be flying home soon after seeing the sights in London town. Talking through the trans-Atlantic cable, Chip half-jokingly asked his mother if his good luck story would make the front page of the Grosse Pointe News.

Naaaaah.

Birthday boy

Any birthday with a zero on the end of it can be pretty traumatic, so when Nancy Hooks asked husband Russ what he'd like for his 40th birthday, he told her he'd like to be treated like a king.

It seemed like a fair request to the fair Mrs. Hooks (chosen Mrs. Michigan in 1982), so she set about making the birthday (Continued on Page 2A)

Ausherman, Spada lead in Park primary vote

Local attorneys Vernon Ausherman and Anthony Spada scored the top victories in Tuesday's primary election in the Park.

Eight candidates for city council, including incumbents John Prost, Roger McNeill and Spada, faced off for three council spots in the November general election, when Park residents will also select a mayor. The top six vote-getters in Tuesday's primary will vie for those three council seats.

Candidates for the mayoral post are incumbent Douglas Graham and attorney Palmer Heenan. Their names did not appear on the primary ballot.

Unofficial election results late Tuesday showed Ausherman with 657 votes followed closely by Spada with 651 votes. Election tallies also showed incumbent Prost with 633 votes, John Ryan with 518 votes, David Gaskin with 456 votes, incumbent McNeill with 432 votes, Robert McCormick with 299 votes and Paul Lechner with 161 votes.

City election officials said 1,448 residents cast ballots in Tuesday's primary, about 200 more than in the Park's last primary election in August, 1981, when 1,228 voters went to the polls.

A major issue in the campaign was the city's effort to secure state and federal funding for extensive street repair. On election day, City Manager John Crawford received a state contract awarding the city $1 million for street repair. The funds were generated by a $135 million bond issue by the state's Department of Transportation.

Crawford said the interest rate will be between 9 and 10 percent over 15 years. The city's payments would total about $128,000 a year, to be taken from the Park's Motor Vehicle Highway Fund.

Crawford added he hopes to present the state contract to the council before Sept. 1. The repair work must be put to bid before the end of August to meet state requirements.

Before Tuesday's primary vote, the council candidates were evenly split over who they'd support for the mayor's seat this November. Incumbents Prost and McNeill said they would support Mayor Graham, while Ausherman and incumbent Spada vowed to work for Palmer Heenan. The other four candidates said they wanted to wait until later in the campaign to make a decision.

Vernon Ausherman

During recent interviews with the News, the council candidates criticized the city's current leadership for not adequately maintaining the city's streets. An administration study showed more than half of the city's streets are in need of major repair.

Three winners in Tuesday's primary, Ausherman, Gaskin and Spada, pointed the finger at the city council for not setting aside funds from past budgets to repair the roads. When he was first elected to the council four years ago, Spada said he tried to establish such a fund for repairing local roads, but was stopped by then mayor Matthew Patterson.

Gypsy moths

State doubles trapping effort

The state agriculture department planned to double its efforts to locate the site of gypsy moth infestation in Grosse Pointe Shores last week after it found 22 moths in an area off Lakeshore Road south of Vernier.

The gypsy moths, which have defoliated millions of acres of forest in the northeast U.S. and parts of Michigan, were first discovered in the Pointe and Harper Woods two years ago.

Agriculture department regional supervisor Carl Dollhopf said field workers found 13 moths in one trap and nine in another trap in the Grosse Pointe Shores neighborhood last week. All were confirmed to be gypsy moths, which began hatching during the last two weeks, he said.

Dollhopf said the department will double its trap density in the area hoping to pinpoint the exact location from which the moths are emerging. There are now 32 traps per square mile and that will be increased to 64 traps per square mile, he said.

The orange triangular traps contain pheromone which attracts male gypsy moths. Females can't fly because they're burdened with eggs.

Last year, state workers found a number of moths in the same area of Grosse Pointe Shores. When they walked through looking for egg masses, the department found nothing, Dollhopf said. In all, 45 moths were found in the Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods area in 1982.

Gypsy moths are an imported pestilence to Michigan forests. The egg masses, which can contain hundreds of eggs, begin hatching in mid-May. The caterpillars are about one-half inch long when they hatch, but after voracious feeding grow to two inches in length.

The larvae stage is the most destructive. To reach their mature size, the larvae eat almost continually. In areas of heavy infestation, trees can be defoliated in a short time. Defoliation, while not killing the tree outright, weakens its resistance to other diseases.

In late June and early July, the larvae encase themselves in a hard dark brown pupa to emerge as moths about two weeks later. Because the female is unable to fly, it usually lays eggs near the spot where it emerged. Both genders of the moth die soon after the egg are laid. The eggs will stay through the winter before hatching the following May.

Complete results of the trapping effort won't be compiled until mid-September, Dollhopf said. Based on the findings, areas will be pinpointed for searches by field workers, who will literally leave no stone unturned in searching for the egg masses, which resemble buff-colored bits of felt, he said.

Because of cooperation from area residents, the department has lost none of the traps to vandals. The traps were placed in July throughout the area, Dollhopf said.

No-nuke letter wins support from clergy

By David Steinkraus

Now that the final text of the Catholic Bishops' letter on nuclear war has filtered down to the parish level, reaction from Grosse Pointe Catholic clergy is beginning to filter in.

That reaction is favorable. "I'm very pleased with it," said the Rev. Paul E. Wojdyla of St. Ambrose Catholic Church. Father Wojdyla added that the letter has nothing new or radical in it, it simply follows traditional theology.

The Rev. John J. Burkhart of St. Clare Catholic Church said that he favors the letter in general. He said that people do have fears and tend toward distrust. The philosophy behind this letter, Father Burkhart said, requires a great deal of trust.

Another supporter of the letter is Monsignor Francis Canfield of St. Paul Catholic Church.

"It (the letter) is a well-researched, well thought out document which reflects a great deal of study," said Father Canfield. The bishops, said Father Canfield, are aware of the disastrous potential of nuclear weapons and the ability of the human race to destroy itself and are speaking as a voice of both religion and reason.

The letter, which is some 150 pages long and was completed in

May after many months of work by the bishops, states among other things that nations should avoid civilian targets and population centers, that there is no such thing as survivable nuclear war, and that there should be no proliferation of nuclear weapons.

Community blood drive is today

The Grosse Pointe Community Blood Bank will conduct its annual drive for donations today between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m. at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Blood can be donated by anyone between the ages of 17 and 65 in general good health and weighing at least 110 pounds. The donation process, including a free mini-physical, takes about an hour.

The drive is being held in conjunction with the American Red Cross. To reserve a time for donation, call the War Memorial at 881-7511. Walk-ins also will be accepted.

A small-town tribute to Bill

For three decades Bill Madding has been the kind of mailman you could set your watch to and Monday, his last day on the job, was no exception. He carried his bag up Middlesex Road in the Park at 11:45 as usual, just in time for 40 or so kids, mothers and dads to come home from the office to jump from the bushes and surprise him with a "Wish You Well" party in the middle of the block.

Kids were there in droves because they are Bill's favorite people, full of as many smiles and giggles as Bill himself.

"There's no better medicine than a smile, and I remember that every day," Madding said. "These people here are like my family to me. I've seen their kids grow up, I've seen them when they're down and try to cheer them up."

Organizers of the party, Mrs.

L.R. Martin, the John Maniacis and Eric Lindquists, had plenty more surprises up their sleeves for Madding's send-off. They had arranged for his real family to come down for the party, including his wife, son and daughter-in-law, daughter and grandson. And they handed him a candy box packed with rolled-up bills they had collected from neighbors totalling several hundred dollars.

"People are always making snide comments about Grosse Pointe," observed Becky Slimko, another Middlesex neighbor. "I don't think many communities do small-town things like this anymore."

Madding, who lives in Warren, has worked with the U.S. Post Office for "30 years, five months and seven days," and plans to do some traveling with his wife, Leticia, in his retirement.

The neighbors invited Madding's family to the party, too, including his grandson Jay.

$2,000 reward

Police ask for help solving arson

By Joanne Gouleche

Grosse Pointe City Public Safety Chief Bruce D. Kennedy is hoping a $2,000 award will induce a reluctant witness to step forward with information about an unsolved case of arson.

The public safety department in cooperation with the Michigan Arson Committee is offering the award for information leading to the arrest and/or conviction of the person responsible for setting two garage fires in the City in June. The blazes caused extensive damage and destroyed one vehicle. Flammable liquids were found at the scene.

So far, police have turned up few clues in the case, but believe someone may have spotted the arsonist. They are asking citizens for help to solve the incident.

"We are vitally concerned about the arson and we are making every effort to close this case and prevent future crimes of this nature," Kennedy said. "In most situations like this somebody knows something, and we encourage those persons to come forward with information."

Endorse Bishops' letter

 The Catholic Church does have a doctrine known as the Just War Theory which details the circumstances under which armed conflict is theologically justified. "The bishops feel that in a nuclear age the theory rules out almost every conceivable use of nuclear weapons," said the Rev. Richard J. Cassidy, director of the Office for Justice and Peace of the Detroit Archdiocese.

There was a question when the final draft was announced of whether the letter was a move by the church to insert itself into national politics.

This contention is rejected by local priests as unfounded. All said that nuclear war has a political dimension as well as a moral dimension and that any comment on the problem will thus have political implications as well as moral implications.

Support for the bishops' letter isn't restricted to the Catholics, either.

"I'm tremendously excited about the courageousness of the statement," said the Rev. Edward A. M. Cobden of Christ Episcopal Church.

Father Cobden said that he thinks churches have a responsibility for moral leadership and that the bishops' letter is not only courageous but well thought out.

"My feeling is people have known what the bishops were dealing with but haven't come to grips with the statement," Father Cobden said.

Father Canfield said that the letter doesn't make a final judgement for Catholics on the morality of nuclear weapons. The church has to respect the rights of its members to think for themselves, added the Rev. Edward J. Mitchell of St. Joan of Arc.

There is another question remaining which is whether this letter constitutes a step toward the ultimate rejection of war by the Roman Catholic Church.

"The bishops affirmed the validity of the nonviolent approach," said the Archdiocese's Cassidy. "Followers of non-violence see a convergence between non-violence and the letter. Neither allows the morality of nuclear weapons use."

Father Mitchell said that he doesn't think that there will be a rejection of war in the short term because too many people have strong feelings on the subject.

"Perhaps it is an ideal we could work toward," said Father Wojdyla of St. Ambrose.

Arsonist is sought

According to police, the fires were set within four minutes of each other during the early hours of Sunday, June 12. Police received the first call at 2:58 a.m. of a garage fire at 659 Rivard Boulevard. Exactly four minutes later, police received a second call about a garage fire a block away at 823 University Road.

Police said a flammable liquid appeared to have been doused on both garages and they later found an empty gasoline can in a yard near the University home.

Chief Kennedy said a white male on a motorcycle was observed leaving the scene on Rivard, while the University resident said she heard a motorcycle just prior to the garage fire there. Police also said the suspect walked onto the back porch of the University residence and poured a flammable liquid over the furniture.

According to the Lt. Myron Franks of the State Police Fire Marshall Division, the Michigan Arson Committee reward program has been a success throughout the state.

"I would say the program has been effective each year it has been in existence since 1975," Lt. Franks said. "The conviction rate from those cases where the reward money was offered is over 90 percent."

The reward money, up to $2,000, is given out depending on the value of information, Lt. Franks said. Law enforcement officials, fire service personnel, insurance industry employees, victims of the fires and their immediate families are ineligible to receive award money, Lt. Franks said.

Under the program, the reward money may be paid prior to conviction and after arrest of an individual charged with arson.

Last year 44 arrests were made by local police departments in cooperation with the Michigan Arson Committee, according to Lt. Franks. The program paid out $19,450 to informants that year with the average reward set at $648.

"Normally we would not have cleared those cases if it weren't for the program," Lt. Franks said.

In the Pointes so far this year, police and fire officials have recorded at least 10 arson-related cases.

In the Park, where a majority of those cases were reported, Fire Chief Phillip Costa said arson falls under a lot of different categories.

"You have some individuals who set fires for the kick of it and others who derive some satisfaction from it," Costa said. "Then there are the ones who do it for revenge, like 'You didn't go out with me, so I'm going to set your car on fire.' But by far the most plentiful cases are those involving fraud and profit," Costa said.

Anyone with information about the garage fires in the City should contact the public safety department at 886-3200 or call collect to the Michigan Arson Committee at (517) 322-0469. The identity of the informant will be kept confidential.

 memorable by hiring a horse and carriage complete with a driver in tails, (the horse had his own).

A trumpeter, also hired for the occasion, alerted the neighborhood as Russ climbed into the carriage. Accompanied by another couple, good King Russ and his Lady rode down Lakeshore, sipping champagne and waving regally at passing motorists. The procession finished up at the Bronze Door, where the foursome enjoyed dinner fit for a 40-year-old.

Needless to say, (but we'll say it anyway), Russ was thrilled by the attention. It may have seemed even more important to him since he's originally from England.

Patmon named to council

Pointer Willie Joe Patmon, owner of Patmon Oldsmobile on East Jefferson Avenue in the Park, has been appointed to the Private Industry Council by Wayne County Executive William Lucas.

The council along with the county executive, will produce a plan for training, job search or relocation assistance, support services and job development for persons who are unemployed. The program, authorized by the Job Training Partnership Act, will replace the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) as the employment and training vehicle for the country. It is designed to help economically disadvantaged individuals.

The service area to be managed by Wayne County includes western Wayne communities, Highland Park, Hamtramck and the Grosse Pointes.

Cox Cable adds two services

Cox Cable St. Clair Shores introduced two new services on Aug. 1. Subscribers in St. Clair Shores, Fraser and Grosse Pointe Shores will be able to watch the Cable Health Network and the Nashville Network.

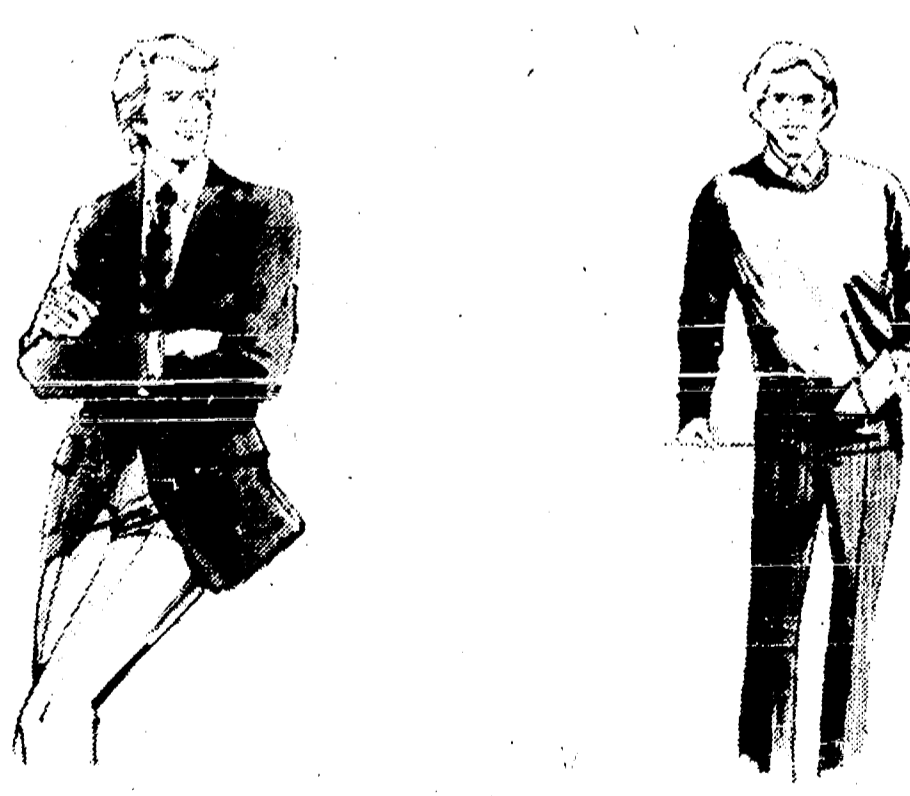

"We have always been responsive to what our subscribers have told us and these new services will bring them more choices," said Mike Zimmer, general manager of Cox Cable St. Clair Shores.

The Cable Health Network is a channel dedicated to health, fitness and life style. It blends information with entertainment in programs about health and science, fitness, relationships, human interest, nutrition and diet, growing up and getting older. It's on 24 hours a day, on channel 34.

The other new service is 100 percent country entertainment. The Nashville Network. Nashville Network is a wide range of programs, all with a country theme. The programming ranges from that great Nashville music to variety, comedy and sports. The Nashville Network can be seen on channel 33, 18 hours a day, seven days a week.

"Both services are being added to the basic cable package at no additional cost to subscribers," Zimmer said.

Woods will hold hearings on Mack rezoning

By Mike Andrzejczyk

After a joint meeting with the city council, the Woods Planning Commission decided to hold a public hearing on proposed zoning changes along the Mack commercial strip.

No date for the hearing has been set, but commissioners asked the city administration to begin preparing the necessary materials so the hearing could be held at either the August or September planning commission meeting.

The joint meeting was scheduled after the commission asked the council for some comments on the proposed zoning changes, which would turn some areas of the commercial strip to restricted office districts.

Under the proposal, some of the city's commercially zoned land on Mack and Harper would be rezoned for restricted office use, a classification added under the updated zoning ordinance passed last year.

The restricted office district, according to the ordinance, "is intended to permit those offices and restricted business uses which will provide opportunities for local employment close to residential areas, thus reducing travel to and from work."

Uses allowed in the restricted office district would be executive, administrative, professional, accounting, clerical, banking, stenographic and drafting offices; medical or dental centers, not including veterinary hospitals or clinics permitting overnight patients; offices for medical doctors, osteopaths, chiropractors, dentists, architects, lawyers, engineers, land surveyors, landscape architects or community planners; and publicly-owned buildings and public utility offices.

The commercial business district "is intended to be that permitting retail business and service uses which are needed to serve the nearby residential area."

The intent of the zoning is to concentrate businesses and commercial uses in certain areas to the mutual benefit of both proprietors and customers, according to the ordinance.

Planning consultant Brandon Rogers, who worked with planning commissioners and the building inspector to develop the proposals, told the council that the changes from commercial to restricted office district reflect existing land use in the affected areas.

The 11 areas of the city which would change classification from commercial to restricted office are already predominantly office uses now, he said. Also, the changes would codify the city's municipal parking lots, private parking lots and a vacant lot at the corner of Mack and Fairholme as vehicular parking, another new classification under the ordinance.

The changes in the zoning classification would protect and strengthen the office districts in those areas, Rogers said. At the same time, the city would be taking the first step to implementing a land-use policy passed in 1979.

Responding to a question from Councilman Robert Novitke about the effect of the change on existing commercial uses in the rezoned area, Rogers said the affected businesses would become legal non-conforming uses.

That would allow the property to remain commercial, be sold and even change tenants who would run a similar business, such as a beauty parlor becoming a barber shop, Rogers said. The change in zoning would eliminate new commercial development in the rezoned areas, he added.

By concentrating office areas near the center of the city and commercial and retail uses near the ends, traffic and noise through the central city can be reduced, Rogers said. Since office uses generate less demand for parking, some of the pressure on the city's deficient off-street facilities would be reduced, he said.

The restricted office districts would also be easier to buffer from abutting residential areas because they generate less traffic and noise, Rogers said.

Both Rogers and the planning commission warned the council about the temptation to split blocks for zoning by allowing a commercial use to remain zoned for commercial in an otherwise restricted office district block. That kind of splitting would lead to an inconsistent development along the strip and an incongruous appearance, Rogers said.

Consistent development is necessary to maintain a pattern on the strip, according to an analysis of the Mack corridor from Bournemouth to the city offices developed by Gerald Luedtke. Offices offer a stabilizing factor to a strip because they tend to stay there, he said.

To maintain a consistent pattern of development, Luedtke recommended a designation of restricted office use for central strip areas. Without some zoning controls, the offices would grow but leave some retail establishments sandwiched in between, interrupting the continuity of the area, he said.

Luedtke noted the development of such a restricted office district could take years to achieve since commercial uses would still maintain a place in the restricted office district. The city would have to enforce zoning regulations over a number of years to achieve its desired development, he added.

Rogers agreed, saying that although the commercial and retail establishments that find themselves to be legal non-conforming uses could remain so, new retail developers could be steered to commercially-zoned areas by maintaining a policy of zoning enforcement.

In addition, businesses that find themselves zoned into different categories might find it to their advantage to relocate in areas of the city that are zoned for their use, Rogers added.

By using zoning enforcement, the city can begin to develop areas with their own identities, Rogers said. Through development, portions of the city would be readily identifiable as retail or office and provide a homogenous look to the strip.

Councilwoman Jean Rice commented the map appeared to be accepting the "status-quo" in the area without proposing changes. Commissioners disagreed, saying the addition of the new classifications on the map was a step forward. Commissioner Fraley added the changes proposed for the strip were probably the first in 25 years.

He continued by saying the proposed changes were a "dynamic move" in implementing a long-term policy for the strip. The council agreed, giving good reviews to the commission's work on the zoning map.

Picture this!

Take a walk along Lakeshore Road and you never know what you'll come up with. You can always count on a beautiful view, and sometimes an artist trying to capture it. In this case it's Mark Jones, a professional painter from Oak Park, who stopped to capture the glory of Lake St. Clair. Admiring his handiwork are Mrs. Sophie Kocoves, a member of Assumption Greek Orthodox Church's Parishioners Association and Father Demetrios Kavadas, Pastor of Assumption. Father Kavadas and Mrs. Kocoves were out taking a 10 mile stroll as part of Assumption's Walk-a-Thon when they ventured upon Jones and his work. Incidentally, Jones, a graduate of Wayne State University, will soon be having a show at the Williams Gallery in Detroit.

Agency on Aging will meet downtown

The board of directors of the Detroit Area Agency on Aging will hold its regular monthly meeting Monday, Aug. 15 at 2 p.m. in the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments conference room on the eighth floor of the Book building, 1249 Washington in downtown Detroit.

The Detroit Area Agency on Aging is authorized by the Federal Older Americans Act to plan, fund and advocate for services for elderly residents of Detroit, Hamtramck, Harper Woods, Highland Park and all the Pointes.

Appropriations for programs funded by the Detroit Area Agency on Aging are combinations of federal, state and local dollars. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

Benz show next weekend

The Mercedes-Benz Club of America will host its fifth annual show of antique, classic and late model Mercedes-Benz automobiles Saturday, Aug. 13, on the grounds of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in the Shores.

Between 60 and 80 vehicles with an estimated total value of about $7 million will be on display. Tours of the main house and playhouse will also be available during the day. Musical entertainment will be provided by the Renaissance Brass Quintet. Food and beverages will also be available.

The gates will open at noon that day. Admission for the event, which runs until 4:30 p.m. is $5 for adults and $2 for children under 13. Tickets will be available at the gate or at Estate Motors, Ltd. Birmingham; Lavery Audi-Porsche, Birmingham; Wood Imports, Detroit; Magnetic Sight and Sound, Grosse Pointe; and Windsor Imported Autos, Windsor, Ontario, Canada.

All profits from the show will be donated to the Children's Hospital of Michigan, a non-profit organization dedicated to the health and well-being of children.

One of the Mercedes-Benz automobiles on display next weekend will be the 1934 Mercedes 500 K, shown at left. The vehicle is one of between 60 or 80 that will be on display Saturday, Aug. 13 from between noon and 4:30 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

DIA film series begins Friday

"The Draughtsman's Contract," the most critically acclaimed film of the 1982 New York Film Festival, will open the new 20-weekend Detroit Film Theater season at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Aug. 5, 6 and 7. Showtimes will be at 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and at 4 and 7 p.m. on Sunday in the museum auditorium.

Tickets for "The Draughtsman's Contract" and the Aug. 12, 13 and 14 showings of "Angelo My Love" will be $3.50 or one DFT discount coupon. With only one other exception - "Parsifal" (Sept. 23, 24 and 25, $5 or 2 coupons), admission will be $2.25 or one coupon.

DFT's discount books contain 10 coupons at $17.50 and may be used for admission to any selection throughout the season - good for one year from date of purchase.

Tickets, information, discount books and a detail of the season through Dec. 18 are available through the museum ticket office, Tuesdays through Sundays (closed Mondays), as well as at the door. Described by the British Film Institute as "a masterpiece... hip, stylish, erotic and subversive unlike anything you've ever seen," "The Draughtsman's Contract" is a comedy-mystery set in the Restoration period of 17th century England.

Other season highlights will include "Angelo My Love" (Aug. 12, 13 and 14), actor-director Robert Duvall's 1983 glimpse into the world of New York's gypsies which has won applause from critics nationwide; "La Nuit de Varennes" (Aug. 19 and 20), starring Marcello Mastroianni (as Casanova) and Harvey Keitel in a 17th century comedy-drama called "tumultuously funny" by The New York Times.

On Sundays, beginning Aug. 28, DFT will present four of the most celebrated films Jacques Tati, the French director by including "Mr. Hulot's Holiday" (Aug. 28), "Jour de Fete" (Sept. 4), "Mon Oncle" (Sept. 11), and "Playtime" (Sept. 18). To be shown at 4 and 7 p.m. on new 35 mm prints, these works have not been seen in the Detroit area for over a decade.

Continuing the Sunday series will be "Great British Comedy" with films by Alec Guinness, Peter Sellers and Monty Python.

In a special presentation over two evenings (Sept. 23 and 24) Francis Ford Coppola's 1982 production "Parsifal" will be shown. Music and cinema are combined in the four-hour masterpiece Newsweek called "the most stunning version of an opera ever made."

For a complete DFT schedule, call the Art Institute ticket office at 832-2730.

Janus film festival at Punch

The Janus Films collection, a library of international movie classics, will be featured in a festival at the Punch & Judy Theater, 21 Kercheval in Grosse Pointe Farms. The festival will run every Wednesday and Thursday, beginning on Aug. 10 and running through Sept. 23.

The Janus Film Festival, presented in conjunction with the New York-based distributor company Kino International, showcases the work of some of the greatest filmmakers in world cinema including Ingmar Bergman, Federico Fellini, Alfred Hitchcock, Akira Kurosawa and Jean Cocteau.

Free concert at the Park

Detroit Community Music School musicians will perform in a free concert this Sunday, Aug. 7, at Patterson Park. All Grosse Pointe residents are invited. Admission is by park pass to any of the cities' lakefront parks.

The concert will begin at 7 p.m. and conclude at 8:30. This is the second year the Detroit Community Music School has performed for Pointers at Patterson Park.

The pictures in the festival are considered classics. They have won numerous awards and prizes, including several Academy Awards. Yet despite their fame, these films are rarely screened these days. The Janus Film Festival gives Detroit-area moviegoers a chance to rediscover some of the masterpieces of European and Japanese cinema.

As an added treat, the Punch is showing a pair of films by America's greatest movie comedians: Charlie Chaplin and Buster Keaton. Listed below is the complete Janus Film Festival schedule.

- Aug. 10 & 11 — That Hamilton Woman (Alexander Korda, 1941) at 7:15 p.m. and Rebecca (Alfred Hitchcock, 1940) at 9:30.

- Aug. 17 & 18 — The Lady Vanishes (Alfred Hitchcock, 1938) at 7, 10:15 p.m. and The 39 Steps (Alfred Hitchcock, 1935) at 8:45.

- Aug. 24 & 25 — Modern Times (Charles Chaplin, 1936) at 7, 10 p.m. and The General (Buster Keaton, 1926) at 8:40.

- Aug. 31 & Sept. 1 — Allegro Non Troppo (Bruno Bozzetto, 1976) at 7:35 p.m. and Juliet of The Spirits (Federico Fellini, 1965) at 9.

- Sept. 7 & 8 — Spellbound (Alfred Hitchcock, 1945) at 7:35 p.m. and Notorious (Alfred Hitchcock, 1946) at 9:30.

- Sept. 14 & 15 — The Seventh Seal (Ingmar Bergman, 1959) at 7:30 p.m. and Smiles of A Summer Night (Ingmar Bergman, 1955) at 9:30.

- Sept. 21 & 22 — Rashomon (Akira Kurosawa, 1951) at 7:15 p.m. and Dodes' Ka-Den (Akira Kurosawa, 1970) at 9.

- Sept. 28 & 29 — Beauty and The Beast (Jean Cocteau, 1946) at 7:35 p.m. and Black Orpheus (Marcel Camus, 1960) at 9:15.

Broadway show at Golden Lion

Dennis Wickline Productions Inc. has announced the upcoming dinner theater season at the Golden Lion beginning Sept. 16 with the "Pirates of Penzance." The show runs through Oct. 29.

From Nov. 4 through Dec. 23, is "Gaelight Gaities," a musical celebration of the 1890's; followed by "I Do, I Do", from Jan 13 to Feb. 18. Feb 4 through Feb. 18 the Golden Lion will present the "Hound of the Baskervilles," with the season finishing up with "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," from April 13 through May 26.

All the plays at the dinner theatre are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings at $19.50 per person including dinner, show, tax and gratuity.

A single ticket for five shows per person is $97.50, or a season ticket may be purchased for $82.50, a savings of $15.

Tickets may be purchased from the Golden Lion, 22380 Moross Road, Detroit, 48236.

Bartkiewicz wows War Memorial

Dance or walk at Metroparks

The open air dance pavillion at Metro Beach Metropark will be the site of the Dancing Under the Stars series.

On Saturday, Aug. 6, music will be provided by Brass Connection, a local musical group. The event will run from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

Eddie DeSantis and his Orchestra will perform on Saturday, Aug. 13, also from 8 to 11:30 p.m.

The Tommy Dorsey Orchestra, directed by Buddy Morrow and noted for its music from the Big Band Era will perform on Sunday, Aug. 14, from 7:30 to 11:30 p.m.

There is no admission for these programs, but those attending will be required to pay for vehicle entry. Annual vehicle entry is $7, for senior citizens it is $2 and for daily entry it is also $2.

For details contact Metro Beach Metropark at 463-4581.

Also on Sunday, Aug. 14, the Nature Center of Stony Creek Metropark will hold a program entitled "Green Giants" which will introduce people to native species of trees. The program will be conducted by park naturalist Roger Bajorek.

There is no charge for the program, however advanced registration is required.

The Nature Center is located in the Utica/Rochester area. For information and registration call the Nature Center at 781-4621.

Thwarting the public will

There has been both good news and bad from Wayne County's troubled government in recent days. The good news is that a Wayne County Circuit judge refused to stop County Executive William Lucas from putting into effect a plan to cut worker's wages and hours by 20 percent. The bad news is that Lucas has agreed to delay start of the one-day-a-week layoffs until the 2,400 members of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees Council 25 vote on an alternative contract package.

The contract proposal includes a pay raise of about $1,300 a year and additional fringe benefits, but also imposes some restrictions on the county's free and easy employment policies. All employees would work an eight-hour day with one-half hour unpaid lunch period, a 60-day cap would be imposed on future sick leave, and, of greater significance, an annual review would compare county salaries with salaries in public and private sectors and require a raise only when employees in a specific classification fall below the average paid elsewhere. The proposal also would eliminate future cost-of-living allowances.

As Judge Henry J. Szymanski said in rejecting the union's request for an injunction to halt Lucas' cutback order, "The economic realities are harsh to both the county and the individuals. But the public interest in maintaining fiscal integrity is overwhelming." That finding didn't stop the union lawyers from promising to appeal the ruling, however.

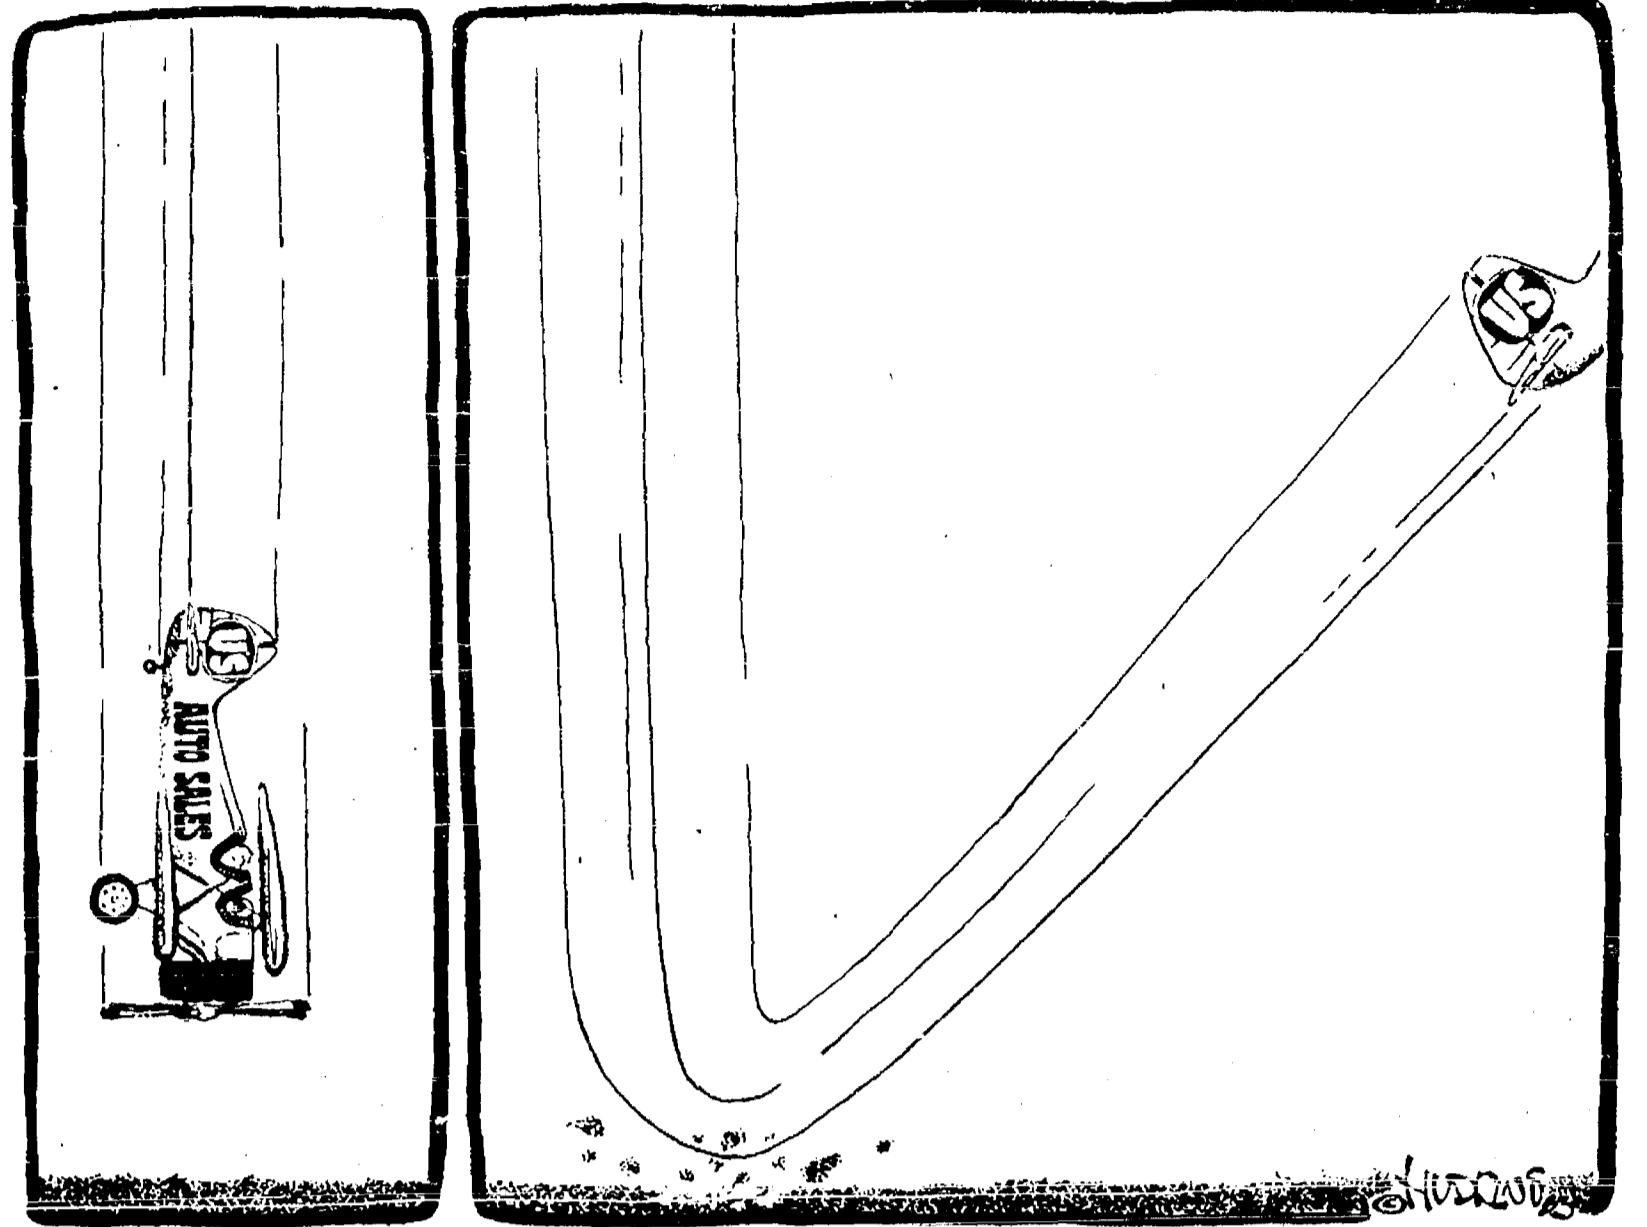

IT IS ENCOURAGING that Lucas is hanging tough in his court talks on his aim to bring county workers' pay in line with that of private and public employees elsewhere. In many categories, county workers are now the highest paid in the nation, which is a disgraceful situation in a county that has been running in the red for many years. Cutting county employees' pay would be a hardship, since they have become accustomed to their gravy train, but county government should be operated for public service, not to benefit county employees.

From the taxpayers' viewpoint, the four-day work week appears to be preferable to the new contract package even though it does contain some employee concessions. The question is whether additional cutbacks will be required if the new contract package is adopted and costs exceed the county's anticipated revenues. The four-day work week still might be required for at least some employees.

In another bad news development, the county Board of Commissioners sought last week to grab control of Wayne County General Hospital from Lucas. Even though the county charter gives him authority to appoint boards and commissions as well as department heads subject to board approval, the board approved an ordinance giving it the authority to select a pool of 10 nominees from which Lucas could pick four members for the hospital's five-person governing board. The fifth member would be the executive's nominee, but the proposed arrangement would, of course, give the board effective control through its nominating powers.

It is disappointing that the will of the majority of the voters of Wayne County, as expressed in their approval of the county charter, is being thwarted by the employees who are going to court on every possible excuse to halt county reform and by the majority of the county board which is reluctant to give up its administrative powers. It is encouraging that Commissioner John Hertel was one of two board members having the good sense to vote against the hospital ordinance on the grounds it would limit the county executive's authority and make the position meaningless. That appears, however, to be one aim of the county board majority.

Campaign report 'out of context'

To the Editor:
Your recent election summary in the July 21 issue stating the financial expenditures of the local school board candidates needs some additional clarification.

Specifically, you referred to the financial statement of Vincent F. LoCicero out of context and without stating exactly the substance of our report.

For the record, we had one wine and cheese party. We spent $462.80 for this party which was attended by over 105 people. Over 175 people contributed to the $4,570 of the total campaign receipts, not 70, the number indicated in your article. Those 70 contributed $2,960 (Itemized Receipts, Schedule 1A Page 9 of 9 and Page 4 of 4 respectively).

Further, our largest campaign expenditure was to the Grosse Pointe News, a total of $1,391.54 for this election, approximately 30 percent of our total receipts.

The purpose of the Campaign Finance Act P.A. 388 of 1976 is to provide a clear financial analysis, along with the necessary documentation, to support the Receipts and Expenditures Statements as required by law. This report should not be subject to journalistic positioning for reader effect and is not open to interpretation out of its financial context.

We hope the above clarifies our position as required by law.

Thank you, Pointe drivers

To the Editor:
As the driver for Royal Carriage Rides, Inc., I would like to say a big thank-you to the automobile drivers in the Grosse Pointes. While driving in your community, we have been impressed by the way drivers have slowed down and tolerated our slow moving horse and carriage. We have always felt safety is our number one priority and it is nice to come to your community and not be afraid that we will be run off the road by some motorist. I would also like to thank those who have allowed us to load and unload our horse and carriage in front of their house, and those people who have been so kind as to stop their dog from running out into the road to "greet" our horse.

A special thanks also goes to those members of the Grosse Pointe police departments who have been most cooperative and ready to lend a helping hand when needed. Oh, yes, my horse, Gypsy, also says thank you.

A lament for the elms

Dutch elm disease is still taking a heavy toll in the Pointes, despite spraying and injection programs that appear to have cut down somewhat on the losses.

It is sad to see another elm go. The appearance of yellow and shriveled leaves on a few branches is usually the first sign of the onslaught of the dread disease. Then it spreads quickly to other branches and often to the entire crown of the tree, especially during the period from late May through July and August when the trees are supposed to be most susceptible. Finally, the official "executioner" applies his red tag to the dying tree and down it comes.

EVEN IN DEATH, there's little respect for the diseased tree. It is cut down limb by limb through the operations of the tree surgeon. Then the remnants are sawed up and taken off for burial to avoid contaminating other elms. The whole procedure takes only a day, contrasting sharply with the 75-year to 100-year life of the tree.

In many parts of the Pointes, these scenes are repeated year after year. The result is that many areas that once boasted leafy bowers of elm branches over the streets today are open and bereft. Dutch elm disease has been no respecter of elms anywhere. It attacks them in public parks, in private yards, on golf courses and along the lake. Along one block-long street, a resident says he has watched more than a dozen trees come down in recent years. Other blocks no doubt could more than match that dismal record.

While new spraying and injection programs appear to be doing a better job of controlling the disease in recent years, there is no sure cure or preventive. Replanting programs appear to be the best solution and many ash, maple, oak and other species have been planted in the Pointes to replace the elms. But the loss of the tall, graceful elms that graced so many parts of the Pointes will be mourned for generations.

Fifth down for cable TV

To the Editor:
We had a small rain storm in Grosse Pointe this morning and our Cable TV is out for the fifth or sixth time this summer. If there was a severe storm, I could understand the system being knocked out but it appears that every time there is even a minor storm, we paying customers lose service for long periods of time. It doesn't seem fair to me that the system is so fragile that subscribers have to suffer so much inconvenience.

In the interest of good public relations, I would think that Grosse Pointe Cable would communicate with customers and explain the situation and what it is doing to rectify it rather than sitting back and making people wonder whether Grosse Pointe Cable was a progressive organization or one that was struggling to exist.

Personally I appreciate the opportunity of having cable TV and enjoy the services that it has given us. But surely they must realize that when there are frequent interruptions in the service, people are going to be very unhappy.

Why not Star?

To the Editor:
Why do you only write about three high schools in Grosse Pointe when there are four high schools? In June you had an article about the graduations at North, South and University Liggett School. In your July 21 issue you listed the names of those graduated from these three schools.

What happened to Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, 467 Fairford, Grosse Pointe

Woods? This fine school is also part of our community. It may be small but it also deserves recognition. Their students work just as hard as the others.

Our Lady Star of the Sea High School does exist in Grosse Pointe and has for over 20 years. It is about time the News realizes this.

Inviting a British invasion

News that the Country Club of Detroit in Grosse Pointe Farms had offered to host the Walker Cup matches in 1989 came shortly after the United States had won the cup in England in 1983 for the 26th time in 29 matches. While the American amateur golfers continued their winning ways, their margin of victory was only 13 1/2 to 10 1/2 in the competition at the Hoylake links, Merseyside.

That fairly close margin encouraged the British-Irish team and their backers who claim that improved coaching and widespread use of the bigger American ball have given their younger players more confidence in playing against the Americans. If so, they may be able to post an even better record by 1989 when it is hoped the British-Irish team will be guests in the Pointes.

IN RECENT YEARS, U.S. players have dominated both the amateur and professional championships at home and in Britain. This year, Philip Parkin, a Yorkshireman by birth but a Welshman by adoption, did win the British amateur by defeating an American, Jim Holgrieve of St. Louis, at Turnberry, Ayrshire, and thus became only the third Briton to take the title since 1922. Parkin also played well for Britain in the Walker Cup, winning two of his three matches in his first appearance in that event. Yet the United States can claim some credit for his performance. He's a student at the University of Texas.

In the professional Ryder Cup matches, the story has been the same as in the amateur ranks. The United States team won 18 of the first 22 Ryder matches, one was tied and British won three. Then the British asked for help from the rest of Europe but the Ryder rout continued. In the Curtis Cup for women golfers, the British-Irish team has won only twice since 1932. So the American preponderance has been true in the women's competition as well.

Why, then, are the Walker Cup matches such an exciting golfing event when they're played in the United States? For golfing enthusiasts, it's because the Scots invented the game and have been playing it at St. Andrews since at least 1552, while the British made it a national pastime long before it became popular in the United States. The Walker Cup matches also offer another reminder of the close relationship that has existed between the United States and Britain for so many years not only in athletics but in many other fields of endeavor.

In view of the improved quality of play of the British-Irish team, it's even possible the visitors could stage an upset and win at the Country Club in 1989, assuming the matches come here. That would give the Country Club the biggest golf news, nationally and internationally, since Arnold Palmer began his fabulous career by winning the U.S. amateur on the local links in 1954.

Prime Time

For Senior Citizens

Marian Trainor

Back in 1860, Elizabeth Akers Allen wrote lines which I'm sure express a sentiment many of us have shared when the affairs of the adult world rest heavily on our shoulders. They were:

*Backward, turn, backward, O
Time in your flight*

Make me a child again just for tonight!

No matter what our achievements or what degree of sophistication we reach, there are times we look down the misty road we have traveled and for a few tranquil moments it clears. Briefly we rest in the magical world of childhood wonder, a world where everything is new and bright and untried. In that never-never land, each day held a promise of adventure, a world we roamed unafraid, secure in the love of a mother and father who provided for all of our needs and shielded us from every danger.

We were happy and secure in our untried world, a world that we would later enter full of confidence because we had known love and respect.

Too swiftly the time passed and we were on our own. For many of us, it was a traumatic experience. That lovely vista built of childhood fancies was, in reality, a testing ground. It could bruise and hurt and demean. We quickly learned that if one stood up to it, it could become, once again, a land of promise. But never again would it be the carefree, wondrous place we had known in our growing years.

No matter how much the poet yearns, it is only in memory that one can return to their childhood, where free of responsibility we were left to discover, to explore and delight unscathed by reality.

And so, step by step, we progressed into adulthood, until finally we turned the corner of independence and became our own person.

Later the road to that journey widened when, strong in our faith that we were now capable and responsible adults, we were ready to assume a partnership and responsibility for others. We married and had children.

It was our turn now to work the same magic for our children that had made precious our young life. It was a harder task. Now so many forces were invading the home, taking a toll of childhood innocence. It became difficult to paint the world as a place where the only evil was that which you created for yourself and the only dangers were those you chose to risk.

These young, but somewhat older children than we were at the same age, knew differently. Television had laid it all out for them. Brutality, crime and wars usurped the wondrous world of fairy tales. The sad fact was this disillusionment was thrust upon them so early in their lives. Their minds and hearts were invaded with darkness, clouding over the goodness and glories that life still held for those who refused to let nightmares replace dreams.

Trailing clouds of glory from our own more tranquil childhood, we managed to offset what a more complex world had wrought with love and care and guidance.

And now it is someone else's turn to shield the young, yet strengthen them at the same time. Most of us are grandparents. It is not our job nor is it our duty to interfere in our children's right to raise their own children. Yet we can help our grandchildren keep glowing the enthusiasms that is every child's birthright. We can give them as much time as we are allowed and consider it a privilege to do so.

Not many, but some grandparents do willingly relinquish that wonderful opportunity to keep in touch with their own youth by sharing experiences and happy times with their grandchildren.

If this is not so, then why are there so many "retirement villages," those oases of older people who seal themselves off from the young?

Their defense: "we raised our children, let them raise theirs;" or "children make me nervous;" or "we want peace and quiet not noise and confusion."

Their choice is their right, but by walling themselves off they are choosing to live in a static world devoid of the freshness and brightness and movement that communing with children brings. Children distrust but they also bestow love without measure, a treasure no grandparent can afford to undervalue.

Not all grandparents have the privilege of sharing their experiences or the lives of their grandchildren. In this nuclear world, the chain of generations is sometimes broken when parents divorce. Grandparents are removed from their grandchildren's lives because of hostilities between the parents and their desire to begin a new life. Former grandparents are viewed as a disruption in that resolve. This is particularly true if one or both of the parents remarry and new sets of grandparents are acquired. Even sadder is a situation where one parent dies and the other remarries. The new spouse adopts the child and the bereaved parents are once again faced with a loss if the new parents exclude them from any contact with the deceased's child.

These are tragic losses as are those suffered by grandparents who are separated by miles from grandchildren whose parents have had to relocate to move up in their chosen fields.

Some of these older people cannot travel distances. Some of them are in nursing homes. They try to keep in contact with letters and phone calls but these are poor substitutes for the lovely lit of children's laughter and the loving brush of a child's kiss.

In these instances it is not only the older generation who is deprived, the children also lose out. Children who have little or no contact with older people think of them as being cranky, infirm, unattractive. They develop a concept of being old as a time of life when people stop living and retire to a rocking chair.

This is regrettable. Can you imagine living your life in fear of getting old because it is an unpleasant thought? Especially since the alternative is even less attractive.

Children who don't have grandparents of their own, or are removed from them by distance, benefit by being put in touch with older people, a sort of surrogate grandparent arrangement.

Some nursing homes and schools have cooperated in bringing children and older people together.

It has worked well. The residents gain a new interest in life and the children find that being old is not bad; that people can be vigorous, interesting and can give them first-hand information about "the olden days" from a fresh point of view because they have lived them.

A fine example of what is possible in communication between the old and young is a project in Grand Ledge, Mich. between Delta Center students there and Provincial House West Nursing Home residents.

Last fall, one of the residents visited the students at their school. He quickly became "Grandpa George" to them as they listened to him tell about his childhood. They were intrigued about what it was like "back then." They were amazed to learn that there hadn't always been television or automobiles.

Later the students visited "Grandpa George" in his home that he shared with 116 other residents. The children dispersed among their new found friends and soon they were chatting together about school happenings and viewing pictures of the residents grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

The school principal was enthusiastic about the project. "I believe this program will teach the children to be more acceptable of others," he said "and more empathetic to the needs and feelings of their peers."

The classroom teacher agreed about the benefits of the visits, adding that older people are a wealth of knowledge about events which children can only read about and added "I like to see people happy and I see a lot of happy people here, both old and young."

The home administrator had this to say. "If you could be here when the older person who has been mute, suddenly perks up and takes an interest in what's happening around her, then you know what I'm talking about when I say these kids are a positive influence on the older generation."

In Lansing about 20 senior citizens spend the day at the Senior Daytime Center. They are either from the house of a relative or their own home.

Included in the program there are planned activities with children. Among these activities was a special Christmas program put on by the sixth grade from Lansing's Holy Cross School. It was not their first visit and the residents were looking forward to seeing their young friends again.

On one visit, one of the older men challenged the kids by reciting the alphabet backwards. On this visit the students came prepared. They had put the alphabet to music and they sang it backward for him.

Coming to the center has meant a lot to the kids in terms of not only understanding older people but also in terms of making them more sensitive and caring toward all people no matter what their age.

Among some of their comments were "you get to share your feelings with them," "It taught me to love and appreciate older people," "they share with us and we share with them" and "they know much more than we know or could ever experience."

It is with such experiences as these that older people can, with their own or someone else's grandchildren, experience once again the wondrous land of childhood. Wishful thinking won't do it. It can only be relived through the eyes of a child.

Hertel says he'll seek state funds for Lakeshore

First District Wayne County Commissioner John Hertel recently met with representatives from the Pointes and Harper Woods to discuss the condition of east side roads and maintenance.

The Tuesday, July 26, meeting was held in the Harper Woods Municipal building. Also at the meeting were representatives of the Wayne County Road Commission, who had been asked by Hertel to attend.

Representing the cities were Harper Woods City Manager-Clerk Elinor Cramer, Shores Village Superintendent Michael Kenyon, Woods Comptroller-Assessor Frederick Hornfisher, Farms City Manager Andrew Bremer, City Manager Thomas Kressbach and Park City Manager John Crawford.

Representatives from the Road Commission were Commissioner Harold Bondy, newest of the three-member board of Road Commissioners, Joseph Hartmann, acting director of the road commission, and James Boggs, head of the Forestry Division.

Hertel said the meeting was aimed at preventing some of the problems that occurred earlier this year when the Road Commission was unable to maintain the medians along county roads in the six cities.

Three specific actions were taken at the meeting, according to Hertel's office. Commissioner Bondy assured the city managers that he would direct the staff of the Road Commission to immediately establish regular contact with the cities.

In addition, Hertel asked the Road Commission to provide each city with a planned schedule for mowing and maintenance so cities can plan supplemental cuttings if weather and time permit, his office said.

Also discussed at the meeting was the need to repave Lakeshore Road. Both Hertel and Bondy said they would actively seek state funds to help resurface the boulevard, on which the Road Commission performed heavy maintenance in 1981 after a court order, Hertel's office said.

Hartman promised to send a Youth Corps crew out to mow the high areas on the I-94 freeway stretch in Harper Woods and northern Detroit, the commissioner's office said.

Hertel will chair another meeting between the city managers and Road Commission representatives in September to insure actual progress has been made, Hertel's office said.

"The citizens of northeastern Wayne County must receive the services they are paying for with their tax dollars," Hertel said.

First America names Pointers

First America Bank-Detroit has announced the appointments of Louis A. Zedan (right) to assistant vice-president and William A. Yaklin to retail banking officer. Zedan, of Grosse Pointe Woods, joined First America in 1978 as a credit analyst. Last year Zedan was appointed a commercial banking officer. Yaklin, who is currently a First of America branch manager, joined the bank in 1979 as a management trainee. The Grosse Pointe Park resident was named senior assistant manager in 1982.

Moran appointed vice-president

New vice-president of Comerica's metropolitan corporate banking division is Grosse Pointe Farms resident Joseph A. Moran. Currently assistant vice president, Moran began his banking career with Comerica in 1973 as a credit analyst. He achieved officer status as a commercial loan officer in 1975 and was named an assistant cashier in 1976.

MacDonald division vice-president

Grosse Pointe Woods resident Michael D. MacDonald has been appointed division vice-president of Central Operations at Hertz Rent A Car. In his new position, MacDonald will be transferred to Des Plaines, Ill., where he will oversee operations in nine mid-western states, including Canada. MacDonald, who joined Hertz in 1973, was the company's North Central Zone manager.

Stroh's promotes Pointer Franzem

Grosse Pointe Shores resident Joseph J. Franzem has been promoted to vice-president of Corporate Project Planning at Stroh Brewery. Franzem had been director of Corporate Project Planning. Prior to that position, Franzem was Stroh's director of Operations Planning and Control.

A guide to going public

In the midst of a record breaking $4.6 billion Wall Street boom in public offerings, the Big Eight accounting firm Deloitte, Haskins & Sells, has published a guidebook, "Strategies for Going Public."

The 112-page publication is the second in a series of "Entrepreneurs' Guidebooks" published by DH&S for use by high technology and other emerging and growing businesses. The first was "Raising Venture Capital," which went into a second printing and has been released virtually throughout the world.

Deloitte, Haskins & Sells had the chief executive officer of a high-growth company in mind when preparing the second book.

"We've helped many clients go public — both in and out of Michigan — and it became clear that there was no single source of information available that described the process," said Dick Gabrys, partner-in-charge of the Michigan region of DH&S.

The book addresses the myriad of questions and problems faced by CEO's when confronting a public offering, and provides a step-by-step overview of what can be an otherwise intimidating process.

"With the new issues market booming as never before — particularly in the Ann Arbor area within Michigan — we fully expect, and have already seen, demand for this book to exceed the first one," said Gabrys.

Specialists from DH&S' national High Technology Industry Group (HTIG) wrote the book. HTIG, of which Bill Rauwerdink, Partner-in-Charge of the Ann Arbor office of DH&S, is a member, performs a full range of financial and management consulting services for the high tech industry.

Norman G. Fosback, editor of "New Issues" magazine, a Fort Lauderdale-based publication that serves as an investor's guide to initial public offerings, said "many firms in a position to think about going public will find the book highly productive." Fosback noted that 1983 has been a boom year partially because many companies held back last year due to the weak market and now are going full steam ahead, with even larger capital needs.

The intricate legal process associated with an initial public offering is explained in "Strategies for Going Public." The roles of the lawyers, accountants, underwriters and the company itself are explored and a typical timetable for going public is presented.

Special sections of the book include:

- An analysis of whether a company should go public, particularly in light of benefits to the firm and its stockholders.
- A discussion of general market criteria which determine whether a firm is at the right stage to go public.
- A plan to transform a company into an acceptable vehicle for public offering.
- A discussion of selecting an underwriter and pricing the stock.
- A typical timetable for a public offering.

• An explanation of the requirements for the registration process.

• A schematic of the rules firms must follow during the "quiet period."

• An explanation of how the stock is sold.

• A look ahead at the responsibilities a firm faces after going public.

The book is available through DH&S, venture capitalists, underwriters and attorneys servicing new and emerging companies. To obtain a copy through DH&S, call or write any of the 110 DH&S offices nationwide. For more information contact Richard Ferguson, Deloitte, Haskins & Sells, 100 Renaissance Center, Suite 3100, Detroit, Mich. 48243, 446-0100.

Deduct kids' summer camp

If your child is one of the four million U.S. kids who go away to camp, you already know the cost, but you may not realize that part of what you spend could reduce your tax burden.

The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants says working parents may apply summer camp costs towards the child care tax credit. This credit, which usually applies to costs for day care or babysitters while you work, may also be taken for the fees or tuition you pay to send your child to a day or overnight camp.

Summer camp costs are allowed because a working mother recently challenged the IRS in tax court and won. The court decided that even though summer camp provided recreation, which is usually not deductible, a working parent sent the child to camp for his well-being and protection while the parents worked. The recreational aspects of the camp were judged incidental and inseparable parts of the child's care and the costs of the camp equalled or were less than available alternative child care.

CPAs caution that the IRS will be strict about allowing summer camp costs as a child care expense; a child must be sent to camp for care while the parent works. If the purpose is educational, for example, to learn computer programming at one of the new computer camps, credit for the costs may not be allowed.

Some other restrictions also apply, (CPAs note). One is that your child must be under 15. Also, the camp fee may be an allowable deduction but the money spent traveling to and from camp is not.

In addition, the total of your child care costs for the year cannot exceed the earnings of the lower paid spouse. In other words, if one spouse earns $20,000 and the other only $2,000 at a part-time job, only $2,000 is used to compute the child care tax credit.

Nonetheless, the tax break is helpful. Depending on your total income, you can subtract 20 to 30 percent of your annual child care costs — including the summer camp fees — from your tax bill. The maximum amount allowed each year for child care costs (camp, babysitting and day care, etc.) is $2,400 for one child and $4,800 for two or more.

Special tax breaks are available to parents whose handicapped children go to special camps. While camps are usually purely for recreation, certain camps do offer medical training or special care and may qualify for a medical tax deduction.

You'll probably need a written recommendation from a doctor stating the handicapped child is being sent to a special camp for medical purposes. A doctor's recommendation is similar to a prescription, CPAs say.

Bon Secours Hospital breaks ground for new nursing care facility

The Sisters of Bon Secours last week broke ground for the 200-bed Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center in St. Clair Shores. The nursing home, located at the corner of Jefferson and Bon Brae between 10 and 11 Mile Road, will open next fall. The project is expected to cost $8,654,400 and will be financed by the Sisters of Bon Secours and private bond sales.

"This is an excellent opportunity for the community to serve and be served by working in cooperation with a religious order known internationally for its delivery of high quality, personalized health care," said Patrick J. Johnson, chairman of the board of trustees, the Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center. In its Health Systems Plan for 1980-1984, the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of South-eastern Michigan identified north-east Detroit as an area in need of 3,323 nursing home beds by 1985. As of December 1982, there were 2,300 licensed beds in the area, paving the way for an additional 1,023 beds by 1985, according to the hospital.

"By responding to the clear need for nursing home beds, the Sisters of Bon Secours are insuring effective, cost efficient health care for the community," said

David W. Benter, chief executive officer, Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center. "The Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center will provide an environment that not only cares for the needs of the elderly but also challenges them to live and grow," Benter added.

Sister Anne Marie Mack, C.B.S., president of the Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center, said: "The mission of the Sisters of Bon Secours is to provide personalized health care to those in need. Through Bon Secours Hospital, in Grosse Pointe, the Sisters have cared for the needs of the elderly by providing acute medical care, rehabilitation services, home-delivered meals, adult day care, hospice, and educational and volunteer programs. The Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center will add a new dimension to our ability to care for the needs of the elderly."

The not-for-profit long-term care facility will offer both skilled and basic nursing care along with a variety of services designed to meet the needs of the elderly. The services will include social work, dietetic and nutritional therapy, pharmaceutical service, physical therapy, daily living development, pastoral care, occupational therapy, speech therapy, recreational therapy and exercise therapy. The cost to residents will be competitive with area nursing homes, the hospital said.

Designed by Smith, Hinchman and Grylls and to be built by Turner Construction Company, the three-story, 77,000 square foot nursing care center will provide both private and semi-private rooms. Each room will have a window view of landscaped grounds, and a variety of eye-pleasing colors will give each resident his or her own identifiable room, the hospital said.

Safety and building standards will exceed state requirements. Energy efficient technology will be employed in heating, cooling and electrical systems. Each resident will control the heating and cooling of his or her own room, the hospital added.

"It will be an environment designed to provide the highest quality of life possible for each resident," said Sister Anne Marie Mack, C.B.S., president, Sisters of Bon Secours Nursing Care Center.

The Sisters of Bon Secours own and operate Bon Secours Hospital in Grosse Pointe. The 320-bed acute care facility includes specialized units for cardiac care, emergency service, intensive care, pediatrics and family-centered maternity care. The Sisters of Bon Secours also own and/or operate 10 hospitals and nursing homes in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Massachusetts and Florida.

Shores may form foundation

Grosse Pointe Shores is considering the possibility of forming a foundation similar to one currently operating in the Farms that would allow residents to make tax-deductible donations to the village, Shores officials said.

Village president Gerald Schroeder brought up the idea during the appointments to boards and committees at the Tuesday, July 19, council meeting. The trustees decided to form a study committee to consider the idea.

Village Superintendent Michael Kenyon said no members have been named to the committee and no discussions have been held since the matter was brought up. No contacts have been made with any of the people recommended to the council for service with the foundation, he added.

The institution would be a private foundation through which residents could make contributions to the village, Kenyon said.

The Grosse Pointe Farms Foundation was incorporated by the city council in July, 1980, as a private, non-profit, tax exempt foundation funded by private donations and bequests, according to the foundation's literature.

One of the first bequests the foundation handled was $330,000 from the estate of Benjamin Long, who also left $150,000 to the board of education.

One of the foundation's projects has been the construction of a new recreation center at the city's Pier Park. The Foundation plans to spend $750,000 on a face-lift for the park, which will include, besides the new boat house and recreation center, replacement of the existing recreation, food concessions and support services building.

Mr. Renouf died Friday, July 29, in Bon Secours Hospital.

Born in California, Mr. Renouf is survived by his wife, Catherine;

Park home hit by lightning

Lightning struck a home on the 800 block of Lakepointe Road last Friday, and traveled to the basement where it ruptured a gas line and caused a small fire, according to Park Fire Chief Philip Costa.

The blaze was doused by the home's residents before firefighters arrived at the scene, he said. But it could have been avoided if the home had been properly grounded, he added.

The lightning bolt apparently struck a television antenna on top of the home and traveled down its wire to the basement, Costa said. In the basement the wire crossed over a copper gas line. The wire heated up the gas line and caused a rupture and fire which scorched floor joists and sub-flooring in the two and a half story brick veneer house. A resident of the home cut off the gas and used a chemical extinguisher to stop the fire, according to the chief.

"If the antenna had been grounded properly, the lightning would probably have gone into the ground," Costa said.

In the Mogok ruby mines of Burma generations ago, each miner had to wear a padlocked mesh cage around his head to prevent him from swallowing any of the stones.

Men's Club honors past presidents

The Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe met to honor its past presidents at a luncheon at the War Memorial on Tuesday, July 26. Eight of the 11 living past presidents were in attendance, including (left to right): John King, Herb Bumpus, John Carter, Lou Decker, Woody Ross, Frank Welchenbach and Fred Flom. Not pictured are Kenneth Cary, Dale Hodges, Thomas O'Keefe and Harold Meinke. The club, which was formed in 1959, operates exclusively for charitable, literary, social and educational purposes. It has been served by 21 presidents during this period, not including current president William O. Bradley Jr.

'We're the buffer'

Crime's down, but residents complain

By Susan McDonald
The number of serious crimes reported in Grosse Pointe Park dropped by 11 percent during the first six months of 1983, compared to the same period last year, according to the police department's report. But residents of the city's western edge, Wayburn Road, say they're not seeing any improvement.

A group of the citizens went to the Park city council meeting last week to push for more police protection in their area.

"I'm part of the 'Berlin Wall' on Wayburn," an unidentified man said by way of introduction. "We're having a lot of problems over there. We need more protection than what we have now."

The citizens complained that police cars cruise their street's only once every three or four hours.

"Maybe we should skip a drive down Balfour or Devonshire and concentrate our efforts there. We are the people who are the buffers," the man said, in reference to his street's proximity to Detroit.

Douglas Graham, mayor, responded to the citizens' complaints by encouraging them to establish a neighborhood watch group and telling them to call police whenever they see or hear suspicious activity. He said a meeting would be arranged between the neighbors, police Chief Henry Coonce and crime prevention officer Sgt. Randy Cain.

The chief's June 1983 crime index report indicates illegal activity is declining in the city this year compared to last. Only 344 serious crimes have been reported as of June, compared to 387 at the same time in 1982. The number of burglaries has declined most dramatically, by 49 percent, with just 35 reported by June compared to 69 during the same period last year. Larceny also declined.

One marked exception to the general decline, however, is automobile theft, which has jumped by 68 percent this year compared to last year with 47 reported through June 1983, compared to 28 in June, 1982. The number of assaults has also increased with eight reported this year compared to five last year.

Shores hires court clerk, dispatcher

There are some new faces in the Grosse Pointe Shores public safety offices these days. The village recently hired a third public safety clerk, Glen A. Sopfe, and a court clerk, Jan DePuys.

Sopfe, 21, of St. Clair Shores, started his duties Monday, July 25. He worked as a clerk for the Macomb County Community College public safety department and holds two degrees from the college; one in data processing, the other in law enforcement.

Born and raised in St. Clair Shores, Sopfe is a certified emergency medical technician who understands sign language. Public Safety Director Joseph Vitale said Sopfe is a "bright young man" who came highly recommended to the department. He added that all three of the clerks, including David Younk and Jacqueline Renard, are working out well for the department.

Ms. DePuys, formerly with the Park municipal court, will take over as court clerk and handle the court aspects for the department, Vitale said.

Both positions were previously filled by Corporal Richard Polen, who retired from the department effective July 30, Vitale said.

Polen, who served as both dispatcher and court clerk, joined the department in April, 1983. He served as dispatcher for 12 years and handled the court duties as well for the next 18.

Vitale said Polen was "always a conscientious worker and very dedicated." Polen and his family have moved to Port St. Lucie, Fla., where they recently finished building a home. Polen had been on a leave of absence since July 8.

Two children are abandoned in Park

Park police turned over two children, aged 6 years and seven weeks, to the Wayne County Protective Services Agency last week after they were apparently abandoned by their mother, according to Chief Henry O. Coonce.

Coonce said police received a call Friday, July 29, from a 30-year-old male Park resident who said the children's mother, a relative of his, had left the children with him and not returned. He said he was unmarried and unable to care for the children.

Coonce said police were unable to locate the mother and called the Protective Services agency, which lined up foster homes for the children by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, July 30. The children were brought to the Park police station where juvenile contact cards were filled out for each and delivered by Park police to two separate foster homes, he said.

Police caution City residents against B&Es

Grosse Pointe City police are urging residents to keep their screen and front doors securely locked this summer to avoid daytime burglaries.

Police say a burglar found his way into an University Road home last week through an unlocked door and stole two wallets containing cash and credit cards while the residents were relaxing in their backyard.

"Residents should keep their screen door and front door locked if they go out into the backyard," said Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy. "It's the perfect opportunity for daytime burglars to enter and ransack the house. We're warning residents not to leave their front door unlocked if they are out in their backyards."

City police arrested a 28-year-old Jackson man and his wife at Eastland Center last week after a store clerk became suspicious when the woman allegedly tried to use a stolen credit card from the University home.

James Young and his wife, Audrey, were later arraigned before City Municipal Judge Stan Kazul on burglary charges. Both are in the Wayne County Jail pending a preliminary examination this week.

According to police, Young allegedly walked into the University home about 8 p.m. through an unlocked front door and observed a purse hanging from a closet door in the front hall. He allegedly removed a wallet from the purse and went upstairs and took a second wallet from a bedroom, according to reports. Young and his wife then allegedly drove to Eastland, where they were later arrested.

Cigaret starts fire in Shores

A smoldering cigarette was the apparent cause of a fire Friday night, July 29, on Fontana Lane in the Shores, according to reports. Shores police received a call from an alarm company reporting a fire in the home. Trucks responded and spotted flames in the front room. Police had to force open the front door of the home to gain entry. Once inside, a love seat in the front room was found to be burning. Police extinguished the blaze. Six village personnel responded to the fire, including Public Safety Director Joseph Vitale and Village Superintendent Michael Kenyon. Two Woods officers also responded. The fire was contained to the loveseat, but the rest of the home was heavily damaged by smoke, according to reports. There was little water damage, reports said. The cause of the fire was apparently a smoldering cigarette that had fallen onto the cushion, reports said. No one was home at the time of the fire.

New students can enroll this Monday

New students will be enrolled at South High School during a special 10-day enrollment session, which is being extended over a three-week period. The schedule for new enrollees will be Monday, Aug. 8 to Thursday, Aug. 11; Monday, Aug. 15 to Thursday, Aug. 18; and Monday, Aug. 22 to Tuesday, Aug. 23. Enrollment hours will be from 8:30 a.m. to 12 p.m., and from 1 to 3:30 p.m. New high school students in the South area should call 343-2151 to schedule an enrollment conference with a counselor. Students who do not enroll during the 10-day period will have to wait until the first day of school on Wednesday, Sept. 7 to do so, and may have some difficulty in scheduling their preferred course selections. The extension of the 10-day enrollment period is designed to accommodate families which might be on vacation, according to South Principal Joseph Spagnoli.

Hospitals still discussing shared services

By Mike Andrzejczyk
 Cottage Hospital and Henry Ford Hospital, one of the largest health care agencies in the state, continue to discuss the possibility of cooperative agreements between the two facilities. What areas those agreements might cover and when they might occur, however, are questions the Cottage administration will answer "when the proper time comes," administrator Ralph Wilgarde said last week. According to Midge Lawson, public relations director at Cottage, the hospital continues to discuss "possible alliances with other hospitals." The talks are not far enough along to determine how the coordination of any such agreements would be done, she added. "That's all there is to be said and I'm not going to say any more," Wilgarde said, "but when the proper time comes, I'll be glad to talk about it." Neither Mrs. Lawson or Wilgarde would comment on what services might be involved. The talks were first reported in January, when Cottage staff physicians who asked not to be identified, said the agreements would make more specialists available to the facilities and would offer the two hospitals better lending rates for bond issues and borrowing. Other staff members said they feared a takeover of Cottage by Henry Ford, which they said would change the nature of the surrounding hospital area. Rumors about possible shared services between the two health care facilities have reached the state Public Health Department's division of Health Facility Planning and Construction, division chief Ed James said. No documentation nor "any inkling" about what services are being discussed have come from the hospitals and no certificates of need have been filed by the facilities, he added. In keeping with the state and federal regulations, health care facilities need state approval and the recommendation of the local health systems agency board before making a change in service or ownership or making a capital expenditure, health department officials said. The facilities seek state approval through the filing of certificates of need with the state.

With very few exceptions, the hospitals would have to file a certificate of need before entering into any such joint services, health department spokesman Larry Payne said. Cooperative agreements between hospitals are commonplace, hospital officials said. Cottage and Bon Secours jointly operate a Computerized Tomography scanner. While the machine is housed at Bon Secours, a cable link allows Cottage doctors to study test results as it is being performed. Henry Ford currently has a purchasing agreement with Cottage, Henry Ford officials said. Henry Ford also has agreements with other hospitals throughout Michigan, Ohio and Minnesota. The major reasons for cooperative agreements is economy and the need to cut the cost of health care, Cottage board of trustees members said.

Congrats Star graduates

Recently, the News published the names of those who graduated this June from North and South High Schools and University Liggett School. At that time, Our Lady Star of the Sea High School in the Woods had closed for the summer, and we were unable to publish the names of those graduates.

Last week the News received the names of Star graduates and they appear below:

The 60 Star of the Sea May graduates included Nora Yvonne Abessinio, Karen Marie Agente, Theresa Anne Allemon, Susan Marie Badway, Claudia Borrego Acevedo, Georgette Gloria Borrego, Maureen Marguerite Boyle, Julia Ann Brennan, Karolyn Ann Bresser, Jacqueline Carol Bridge, Nancy Ann Calcaterra, Josephine Rita Cassar, Helen Maria Ciarravino and Kelly Elizabeth Clark.

Other Star of the Sea graduates included Antonia Como, Marianne Elaine Cordes, Jennifer Clair Coughlin, Jeanne Marie Couvreur, Jill Marie Davis, Mary Ellen Diugosielski, Catherine Ann Drolshagen, Claudia Doris Edwards, Colette Elizabeth Elie, Dina Ola Fahmy, Tracy Lee Flimay, Jennifer Lynn Foley, Lynda Kristen

Fulgenzi and Julia Christine Fur-taw.

More Star of the Sea graduates were Nina Mary Garcia, Marie Louise Haller, Diane F. Hanna, Lee Ann Hedeon, Linda Patrice Hedeon, Michelle Marie Iacobelli, Anita Louise Marie Iodice, Denise Moutia Jabbour, Tamara Lynn Kettner, Hanna Khalil, Rebecca Margaret King, Patricia Ann Kra-tchwill and Giannina Franca Licata.

Still more Star graduates were Melissa Ann Mabarak, Katherine Jean Madigan, Kimberly Ann Mascar, Kathleen Mary Kristine McCabe, A'Lisa Devonne McKinney, Karen Mary McNamara, Michelle Rachel Mourad, Mary Elizabeth Myers, Janice Irene Nowak, Andrea Ann Parisi, Annette Lucie Picciorelli, Karen M. Pawlowski and Tiffinni Renee McKinney Prude.

Other Star of the Sea graduates included Sidney Anne Raynal, Jill Elizabeth Reuter, Maria Bady Schaefer, Carolyn Ann Schnitzer, Laura Ann Sherigan, Manon Whitman Stone, Stacey Anne Sullivan, Susan Marie Unti, Marisa Anna Ventimiglia, Laura Louise Weber and Mary Patricia Wilting.

Storm drowns streets, power

The skies opened again last Friday morning, flooding streets, disabling cars and knocking down numerous power and telephone wires.

Shores police were kept jumping well into the afternoon, on July 29, handling calls of residents about flooded basements and inoperative garage doors which were caused by power shortages. More than a dozen false burglar alarms were reported during the storm.

The heavy rains left water standing at curb level near Verdier and north and south Bound Lakeshore. Power shortages were also reported in many areas throughout the afternoon, including North and South Deeplands. A power wire was also reported down on Stonehurst.

Sunday night's storm also knocked down wires on Ballantyne, cutting power in the area.

In the Woods, disabled cars dotted Mack and side streets as water backed up. One car was reported along Mack near Brys, while two others were reported disabled along Helen near Lancaster because of water over the road.

About 50 feet of Stånhope was also reported to be covered by water, along with a section of Newcastle, where reports said the water reached a point between the curb and sidewalk. A waste oil storage tank behind Curto & Knight, Inc., 19391 Mack, began to spill into the flooding waters and left an oil slick along the street, according to reports. Employees capped the tank with concrete to stop the flow, and told police they were unaware the tank was there until it began leaking oil.

An attic fire was reported on Severn about 10:15 that morning, police said. The blaze was apparently caused by a short circuit caused by a power surge that could have been caused by the storm, they added.

The short circuit overheated wiring in the attic of the home and ignited some stored articles. Police were able to contain the fire to the attic. Estimated damage to the home was $5,000.

Four auxiliary officers were also called in to aid officers during the day. Auxiliary and meter patrol officers handled traffic control around the numerous downed wires reported throughout the city.

Arcing wires were reported on Canterbury and behind 20039 Mack. A Michigan Bell wire was reported lying across the driveway at Woods Presbyterian Church and dangling power lines were reported along Brys, according to reports.

Wires were reported down on Cook Road, Wedgewood south of Hidden Lane, Lancaster near Helen, and along Hidden Lane. A burning pole was reported behind a Hidden Lane home. A smoking transformer was also reported behind a home on Anita.

During the storm, Woods Public Safety Director Jack Patterson took to the roads. In the Shores, an officer was held over from the day to afternoon shift to help handle the calls of residents.

Show benefits Humane Society

Jacobson's in the Village will present a "Back to School" fashion show to benefit the Michigan Humane Society on Tuesday, Aug. 9, at 7 p.m. with guest hosts John Kelly and Marilyn Turner of WXYZ-TV's "Kelly and Co."

Rascal, a comic cat who appears on many of the pages of the Jacobson's "Back to School" catalogs, is the inspiration for this year's fall fashion show — children and their pets.

Sixty-five of the latest fall fashion looks will be modeled by local children escorting their favorite adoptable pet from the Michigan Humane Society.

Tickets are available at Jacobson's by calling 882-7000. Cost is $5 for adults, $1 for children between 12 and 16, and 50 cents for children under 12. Those who attend the show are asked to use the store's St. Clair entrance.

Group to study old cemetery

The Michigan Council for the Humanities announced the award of a $2,000 grant to the Eastern Wayne County Historical Society for the implementation of a project titled, "Detroit City Cemetery Project."

John Klemanski, professor of political science at Wayne State University, will serve as project director. The purpose of the project is to do a land use and boundary determination study of the Detroit City Cemetery of Grosse Pointe Township.

The site has already received Michigan Historic Designation and this project will provide for a comprehensive historical search as to the notables of the cemetery population as well as the specific sequence of events in its placement in its present situation.

The MCH is an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities and awards grants to non-profit organizations for public humanities programs. The MCH office is located in East Lansing.

AAA honors Woods safest in pedestrian program

Grosse Pointe Woods has been named the safest city of its size for pedestrians by the American Automobile Association for the second consecutive year, the Automobile Club of Michigan reported last week.

Grosse Pointe Park also is a winner in AAA's 44th annual Pedestrian Protection Program.

Grosse Pointe Woods won both a Grand Award and an Award for Excellence for its outstanding pedestrian death and injury records and accident prevention programs. Through 1982, Grosse Pointe Woods had not had a pedestrian death for 25 straight years and did not have a pedestrian injury last year.

The city has won seven Grand Awards since 1966. This year's honors were won in competition with 1,006 cities with populations under 50,000. Other 1983 Grand Award winners are San Jose, Calif., and Haverford Township, Pa.

City officials will receive plaques this month.

Grosse Pointe Park has won a Pedestrian Safety Achievement Award for not having a pedestrian death for 14 years. Its pedestrian injury rate of 36 per 100,000 population is among the lowest for cities of 10,000 to 25,000 population.

In all, 44 Michigan communities along with the state are being honored by AAA for their 1982 pedestrian safety achievements.

Library sets cat exhibit

Cat Collectors, an international organization whose members collect cat-related items, is on exhibit this week at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, 10 Kercheval Avenue.

Cat figurines, books, antiques and calendars are on display in two library showcases.

Warren resident Marilyn Dip-boye started Cat Collectors two years ago after collecting cat paraphernalia for 10 years. Now the group boasts 300 members, including collectors in England, Switzerland and other countries. Ms. Dipboye publishes a club newsletter highlighting museum cat collections, antique buys and individual cat collections.

Polish Fest comes to Hart Plaza

The new Hamtramck Symphony will make its debut at this year's Polish Festival on Hart Plaza Aug. 12, 13 and 14. Among the other attractions of the three-day Polka Fest will be introduction of a new party dance, originated in Detroit by ballroom dancing master Waldi Wiezbowski, and a polka dance contest featuring many local bands.

Among the Grosse Pointers helping organize this year's festival are Ed Cieslinski and Victor Czerny, decorators; Harrietta Czerny, entertainment chairman, and Karen Lorenz, publicity.

Bands will perform continuously all three days on four stages at Hart Plaza. Wiezbowski's new dance will be introduced Saturday at 7 p.m. On Sunday at 6 p.m. the new symphony will perform under the direction of John Gajac and assistant conductor Bronislaw Siarkowski in concert with the Polish Chorale and Warszawski Dancers PWA Council 3A. Interlochen and Albion College scholarship winner Patricia Depa will be featured trumpeter soloist performing Chopin and Strauss waltzes.

On Sunday a special Eucharistic Mass will honor St. Francis of Assisi on the 800th anniversary of his birth. Archbishop Edmund Szoka is scheduled to give the opening prayer for the festival on Friday evening and the 1983 Polish Festival Queen will be crowned shortly after.

Each year the festival honors an individual or group for his or her distinguished achievement for the betterment of Polonia in metropolitan Detroit. This year's recipients are journalists June Crosson and Armand Gebert from the Detroit News; Stanley Kajewski, Adam Sarnacki and Helene Pierce from the Polish Daily News; Robert Perek from the Hamtramck Citizen; Danuta Sworski and Johnny Sadrack from WCAR Radio; Ted Koltowicz and Jerzy Rozalski from WPON Radio and Jane Jones, former publicity director for the city of Detroit.

In addition there will be special events for children between 1 and 4:40 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, a demonstration of paper cutting and egg decorating crafts and more than 20 food booths.

Oxford Institute Help at hand for alcohol abusers

By Mike Andrzejczyk

It looks like a country club, nestled in 55 acres near Oxford, Mich., surrounded by forest, a pair of lakes and tennis courts.

The people who come here come for their health. They come to the Oxford Institute to return some kind of structure to their lives. They suffer from a disease that infects millions of Americans from all walks of life and has been identified as the number three health problem in the nation. They come to the Oxford Institute for treatment of alcoholism and chemical dependency.

The 60-bed residential treatment center opened in May and now serves about 20 people undergoing therapy. The institute, though a separate corporation, is affiliated with St. John Hospital and will accept patients from the Pointes and the rest of the hospital's service area.

In the mid-1970s, the hospital decided it needed some kind of facility and treatment center for substance abuse, according to Oxford vice-president David Sessions. Although the hospital had a hospital-based treatment program, it was looking for a program that would offer the best treatment for the lowest cost, he added.

After deciding on the free-standing care facility, the hospital filed a certificate of need application and began looking for a site.

The institute was able to put together a financing program similar to the package developed for the renovation and construction at St. John and found the 55-acre site near the Dominican Sisters in Oxford Township, Sessions said. Construction of a new wing and the renovation of the former junior college and dormitory was begun in May, 1982 and completed a year later.

Dr. Douglas MacDonald was recently appointed president at the institute, bringing with him 20 years of experience in treatment of alcoholism and substance abuse.

Before coming to Oxford, Dr. MacDonald was president and executive director of the Donwood Institute for 11 years. Donwood, in Toronto, Ontario, is a world-renowned alcoholism and substance abuse treatment center. MacDonald was also co-founder of the Ontario Impaired Physicians Program and also provided services at Toronto's Addiction Research Foundation.

Both Sessions and Sharon Fuchs-Ligett, director of Occupational Services, pointed out the cost of operating a free-standing treatment center was significantly lower than a hospital-based program. In addition, the Oxford Institute's departments are all geared to the treatment of chemical abuse and all staff members are trained in the field, they said. In hospital-based programs, sometimes patients are dealt with by those who have little experience in substance abuse treatment, they said.

In addition, the idyllic setting offers quiet and seclusion for those residents undergoing treatment, helping the residents escape what Ms. Fuchs-Ligett called the social stigma of alcoholism or substance abuse.

"Some doctor was once quoted as saying: 'Alcoholism is a disease, not an accusation,'" she said. "Alcoholism is a chronic disease that is no different from other chronic diseases."

"When a diabetic doesn't stay on his diet and has a reaction, it's called an adjustment. When an alcoholic comes off his treatment, it's called back-sliding or falling off. We don't put all those value judgements on other diseases," she added.

The effects of alcoholism on society, just one facet of substance abuse, are devastating, St. John officials said. More than 10 million people are alcoholics and for every one alcoholic four others are significantly affected.

Alcohol is related to 70 percent of the industrial deaths and 40 percent of all violent deaths, the hospital said. In addition, half the accidents on the highway are alcohol related and alcohol-related auto accidents are the number one cause of death for high school students.

The social cost of alcoholism in Michigan is estimated at $1.5 billion a year because of lost production, absenteeism, health care costs, accidents, fire losses and criminal justice costs. One-quarter of all hospital admissions are associated with alcohol and cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth leading cause of death in southeastern Michigan.

The old theories of alcoholism and substance abuse as signs of moral weakness or a learned behavior pattern have pretty much fallen away, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. Alcoholism is a primary disease recognized by the American Medical Association, she noted, and not a symptom of some deeper problem.

"If we were to treat alcoholism as a psychological problem, we'd put them in psychoanalysis for 500 years, and their alcoholism would kill them before the treatment is over because they wouldn't have stopped drinking," Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said.

The institute focuses on a wellness program, she added. The treatment, along with family, individual and group therapy, includes education about the illness, nutritional programs, exercise and recreation and relaxation therapy, which includes bio-feedback, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said.

Part of the 28-day residential program is adding a structure to daily routine, something that's been lost through substance abuse, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. Although the day isn't planned down to the last minute, activities are put together at certain times, three meals a day are set and classes are offered at certain times to help residents establish a daily routine, she pointed out.

Routine and planning are usually the first things that suffer when a person becomes chemically dependent, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. "Let's say I were an alcoholic. I'd make a list of things I want to do today, but I'd have a couple of drinks and put them off. Then maybe a few friends would come by and I'd drink a few more, or get high. By the end of the day, I haven't done anything."

"We focus on wellness; physical, nutritional and spiritual. We stress independence by not doing things for the residents that they can do for themselves," she added.

Intervention involves a rehearsed confrontation with the alcoholic where a factual assessment of the problem is presented to the person without heavy emotional overtones or guilt, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. Family members have rehearsed what they will say and when and by the end of the confrontation, the alcoholic is usually ready to enter therapy, she said.

Another important aid is the use of an employer in intervention, she added. Using a job as a lever to get the substance abuser into therapy is often effective.

"We don't want (family members) to get hysterical," Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said, "but there is a lot of love behind it."

At the end of the four-week residential programs, the "graduates" celebrate with a ceremony. Those leaving the program are presented with a certificate and medallion. A cake decorated with the names of the graduates is presented to the group. Those leaving the program get a very positive feeling about themselves and what they have accomplished, she added.

After discharge from the institute, the outpatient program begins. The out-patient is asked to attend AA meetings while the institute maintains frequent contact over the next six months, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. After that, follow-ups and continued contacts are maintained for the next two years.

The out-patient program is just as important as the education and therapy stages, Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. "Let's face it, staying abstinent for 28 days while they're here is relatively easy. But after they leave, they go back to the real world" with all the pressures and problems they left four weeks earlier.

"We need to be creative to break through the denial," Ms. Fuchs-Ligett said. "The anger and the denial are the alcoholic's ways of saying 'Please help me, I hurt.'"

Cottage graduates

These smiling faces belong to the North and South High School students who last month graduated from Cottage Hospital's Medical Co-op Program. Students completed five weeks of nurse aide and orderly training which included an introduction to nursing care and actual work on nursing units at the hospital. Cottage provides medical co-op training for students as a community service. The program, in its 14th year, is held in conjunction with the cooperative education departments of North and South High Schools. The graduates include (first row, seated left to right) Michelle Lukosavich, Cathleen Adams, Janice Summers, Kristin Tisdale, Laura Wood and Sharon Skalba. Standing (left to right) Paula Selakowski, Robert Nelson, Jennifer Hoeting, Karla DuCoin, Lynn Wayman, Karen Campbell, Heather Walker, Judith Brisdale, Kevin Mess, Annette Domienik, John Hughes, Genivieve Galazka, Tammy Tedesco and Elizabeth Wrobel.

Woods reports serious crime drop

The Woods experienced a drop of almost 37 percent in Part One crimes during the first six months of the year, according to the department's six month statistical report.

Known Part One offenses, defined by the Federal Bureau of Investigation as murder, rape, robbery, assault, burglary, larceny, auto theft and arson, dropped from 299 for the first six months last year to 189 for the first six months this year.

All categories except auto theft were down. One armed robbery was reported during the first half of 1983, compared to four the year before. Burglaries were more than half last year's first six month total, with 24 reported the first half of 1983, compared to 54 the year before.

Larcenies dropped in all categories for the first six months of this year, according to the report, with 141 reported incidents. During the first six months of last year, 215 larcenies were reported.

There were 23 auto thefts for the first six months of this year, compared to 22 for the period the year before.

Overall criminal activity, including Part I and Part II crimes, was up for the first six months of the year. Vandalism, forgery and counterfeiting, embezzlement, narcotics law violations, drunk driving, disorderly conduct and miscellaneous complaints all showed increases.

Vandalism increased by almost 50 percent for the first six months of the year, according to statistics, with 179 incident reports in the first half of 1983 compared to 127 the year before.

Property losses were five times as great this year as they were the year before. More than $17,600 worth of damage was reported for the first half of 1983 compared to $3,579 the same period in 1982.

Forgery and counterfeiting increased four-fold from the same six months of 1982, according to statistics. Eight incidents totalling $390 were reported in 1983, compared to two incidents totalling $407 for the same period in 1982.

While the passing of bad checks decreased for the six months of 1983, the amount lost increased almost five-fold. The 21 incidents reported the first six months of this year totalled $13,397 in losses, while the 26 incidents last year totalled $2,450 in losses. Police cleared all but one of this year's bad check incidents by arrest, compared to an 80 percent clearance rate by arrest for the first six months of last year.

Curfew violations and runaways also increased during the first six months of 1983.

Traffic accidents decreased by more than 18 percent in the first six months of 1983, according to statistics. At the end of June, 116 accidents were reported compared to 148 for the year before. There were no fatal accidents. Injuries decreased from 23 for the first six months last year to 21 this year.

Tickets handed out for moving and parking violations by the three platoons increased by better than 25 percent for the first half of 1983, statistics show. The three platoons handed out 5,395 moving violations and parking tickets in the first half of this year, compared to 4,029 the year before.

Parking tickets from the city's parking enforcement division also showed an increase. For the first six months of the year, 15,732 parking tickets have been issued compared to 13,590 for the first six months the year before.

Patrol officers have also assisted more residents, opened more locked cars and houses, answered more family trouble complaints, closed more open doors and windows and investigated more suspicious persons, cars, lights and noises than the year before, according to statistics. In addition, officers have written about 500 more reports than the year before.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Interested in getting involved in a new volunteer area this fall? You may want to consider joining the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Service League. The only qualifications for membership are a desire to BE of service, and a willingness to donate between 12 and 40 hours per year to projects which pique your interest.

The Service League embraces the War Memorial Docents, who offer guided tours of historic Alger House, and a group working on the repair of the home's original tapestries, and another caring for the many plants in the War Memorial buildings. Other Service League members act as ushers at many War Memorial events. A crew is needed to maintain historical photos and records, and to take inventory.

Right now, volunteers are initiating plans for a Renaissance Festival in May of 1984. The two-day event, complete with Service League members dressed in period costumes, will include 17th and 18th century drama for children and adults, mimes, puppets, an herbary center, authentic Renaissance dancing, fencing demonstrations and a movable feast.

The three reasons for this extravaganza, reports Irene Blatchford, chairman of the Docents, are to acquaint people with the rich history of the Renaissance, to raise money to restore the War Memorial's library — and to have fun! A nominal admission fee will be charged.

Mrs. Blatchford reminds those interested in a guided walk through the War Memorial that the free Thursday afternoon tours continue through next Thursday, Aug. 11, for 1 to 4 p.m. Families, scout troops, individuals and organizations are invited to take advantage of these special tours. Complimentary refreshments are served. Further information on this Service League project may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

To learn more about becoming a part of the Service League itself, give Mrs. John McNamara a call at 881-8686. A meeting is being planned for new members in the fall. Ruth McNamara will contact those who call with the specific date and time when they have been set.

Lauds and Laurels

Congratulations to Dr. Alexander Blain III, of Stratford Place, recently honored in a ceremony conducted by the Detroit American Indian Health Center, of which he is Chief Surgeon. He was given a distinguished service award for services to the Indian community. Dr. Blain's father, Dr. Alexander W. Blain, was an honorary member of the Harbor Springs band of the Ottawa tribe.

Dr. Blain III is, in addition to a working surgeon, a working poet, with three books to his credit, including "Shu Shu Ga," a collection inspired by and focusing on Indian themes.

Those lovely . . .
lazy . . .
hazy . . .
days of summer

Cottage Hospital Auxiliary's Annual Ice Cream Social coincided with National Ice Cream Day this summer — how's that for good planning! — and balloons, chocolate sundaes and sunshine made for a delightful afternoon. Party setting was the Cottage roof garden, where auxiliaries welcomed their guests, the hospital's employees, with smiles as wide and as bright as the mid-July sky. Chairing the event was MRS. JOSEPH BARELLO (bottom, left). Assisting in dishing out the goodies were Auxiliary President MRS. WILLIAM STREIT (bottom, right), Mrs. Harold Cross, Violet Gable, Helen McIntyre and Mrs. John Nolan. If you wonder what the employees thought of it all, just look at how they looked as they lined up to place their orders. The ice cream was eaten on the spot. The memories of an especially lovely summer day went home with the guests and the hostesses, to be tucked away and taken out when they're needed, January or February, perhaps, as a pledge that those lovely, lazy, hazy days will come again.

Leduc-Byrnes rites in May

Toronto and Montreal were the vacation destinations of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis John Leduc following their spring wedding in Saint Paul's-on-the-Lakeshore. They are now at home in Warren. The 2 o'clock ceremony Saturday, May 28, at which Father Sidney Eckert presided was followed by a reception at the Shores Club.

The bride, the former Judith Jane Byrnes, of Meadow Lane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Byrnes Jr., of Lakewood, Ohio, wore a traditional, Swiss-made gown of Chantilly lace, styled with a high neck, straight, lace sleeves and a lace-edged front panel of accordion-pleated organza, and belted in satin at a slightly raised waistline.

Her chapel train was also fashioned of Chantilly lace, matching the lace that rimmed her fingertip veil, caught by a Juliet cap. She carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and white roses, stephanotis and baby's-breath.

Sharon Byrnes, who came from Lakewood to serve as her sister's honor maid, and bridesmaids Mary O'Malley and Judy Kane, of Cleveland, childhood friends of the bride, and Diane Leduc, the bridegroom's sister, wore high-waisted, self-belted dresses, deep periwinkle blue in color, hemmed with wide ruffles and featuring sheer, long sleeves ending in wide lace cuffs, and high-necked, lace bodices.

They carried Colonial arrangements of pink roses and blue and white carnations.

Raymond Leduc Jr. acted as best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Leduc, of Warren. Ushering were two other brothers, Michael and Paul Leduc, and Michael Garofalo.

The bride's mother accented her formal length gown of rose crepe, styled with long sleeves and a high, ruffled neck, with a single strand of pearls. The bridegroom's mother also selected a long gown styled with a high, ruffled neck and long sleeves, in a powder blue color. Each mother wore a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's grandmother, Georgette Brisson, of Windsor, Ont., the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lenarcic, of West Salem, Ohio, Patty Byrnes, of Tiffin, Ohio,

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis J. Leduc another sister, and the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A.J. Lofredo, of New York City.

More were the bride's college friends, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Shubra, of Penn Run, Pa., Mike Haggerty and Brian Chapman, of Chicago, and Chris Miller, of Crown Point, Ind., and from Cleveland, the John Greens, the Charles Regans, the Paul Kaness and Dr. and Mrs. James O'Malley.

Smith-Bentley vows spoken

Exchanging marriage vows Saturday, June 18, in Creighton Christian Church, Phoenix, Ariz., were Terri Bentley, daughter of the Robert Bentleys, of Phoenix, and Stephen Smith, son of former Pointe residents Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith who now make their home in Rockford, Ill.

The 7 o'clock rites at which The Reverend Ron Frazier presided were followed by a reception at The Cedars in Phoenix. The newlyweds vacationed in California, on Coronado Island. They are making their home in Tempe, Ariz.

The former Miss Bentley chose a traditional white wedding gown featuring a cathedral length train, and a waist length veil. Blue and white carnations and white roses formed her bouquet.

Honor attendant Suzanne Onea and bridesmaids Dawn Frank, Connie Nathe and Karen Hagan, the bride's cousin, all of Phoenix, wore floor length, off-the-shoulder dresses, blue in color and accented with white lace. Their flowers were blue and white carnations.

Flower girls were Jennifer and Stephanie Campbell, the bride's cousins.

Best man was Gary Lannen, of Troy. In the usher corps were Michael Frank, Ron Morales and Steve Bentley, the bride's brother, all of Phoenix, and Rich Allen, of Honolulu, Hawaii.

Rites in September for Daren Whitney

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Abbott Neiley, of Southport, Conn., have announced the engagement of her daughter, Daren Elizabeth Whitney, to Richard Wylly Stevenson Jr., son of Mrs. Claire O'Leary Stevenson, of Fairfield, Conn., and Richard Wylly Stevenson, of New York and Candlewood Lake, Conn. A September wedding is planned.

The future bride is also the daughter of David Whitney, of Wilton, Conn. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Robert Harris, of Denver, Colo., and of Mrs. Leverett Brainard Davis, of Round Pond, Me., and the late David Marshall Whitney Jr., of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Miss Whitney, an alumna of Green's Farms Academy and the University of Pennsylvania, was presented to society at the 1977 Fairfield Debutante Ball. She is a media buyer for N.W. Ayer in New York. Her father is president of Sonic Research Inc., in Danbury, Conn.

Her fiancé, a University of Pennsylvania graduate, is the grandson of Mrs. Ethel Sweet, of Camden, S.C., Robert Presley Stevenson, of Mountainville, N.J., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Timothy O'Leary, of Elizabeth, N.J.

He is a senior writer at Ad Forum in New York. His father is an advertising executive at Henderson and Friedlich in New York.

Miss Rabbideau married in June

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Edwin Moss, who vacationed on St. Croix in the Virgin Islands following their marriage Saturday, June 4, in Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, are making their home in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mrs. Moss is the former Karen Linnea Rabbideau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Rabbideau, of Touraine Road. Mr. Moss is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moss, of Cambridge, Ohio.

The Reverend Dr. Robert Linthicum presided at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the church. The bride wore her mother's floor length, taffeta wedding gown, styled with long sleeves ending in wrist points and a skirt accented with several rows of corded taffeta bands on which flower appliques, with a touch of seed pearls and sequins, were scattered.

Panels from a tiny bustle, in the form of a bouffant bow, flowed to the hem of the skirt and formed a chapel train.

The former Miss Rabbideau's fingertip veil fell from a small, lace headpiece. She carried a cascade of white Sweetheart roses, baby's-breath and ivy.

Honor maid Ann E. Rabbideau, who came from Clearwater, Fla., to attend her sister, wore a floor length gown, deep pink in color. Bridesmaids, dressed identically but in off-white, were Jill Cherry, of New Concord, Ohio, the bridegroom's sister, Lauren Jones, of Blackwood, N.J., and Laura Rush-ton. They carried nosegays of alstramaria.

Pretty-DePuys betrothal told

Early September wedding plans are being made by Janice Marie DePuys and Alan Jerel Pretty whose engagement has been announced by her parents, Marguerite DePuys, of Kerby Road, and Joseph DePuys, of Lapeer.

Miss DePuys, a Certified Court Reporter, is a Court Administrator with the Village of Grosse Pointe Shores. Her fiancé, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pretty, of Detroit, is a Police Officer with the City of Grosse Pointe Park.

Welcome Wagon plans summer brunch

The Welcome Wagon Club of Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods is hoping Thursday, Aug. 18, will be as lovely a day as the one on which CONNIE BROWNE (left), who will open her home at 175 Touraine Road for Welcome Wagon's annual benefit brunch, BEATE VREEKEN (center), president of the club, GAHELEN HUBER, chairman of the party, gathered to make brunch plans. The party begins at 11:30 a.m. Champagne punch and a brunch prepared by the Gourmet I group, under the direction of Joyce Giard, will be served poolside, with musical entertainment. Helen promises that members and their guests will be delightfully surprised by the items up for raffle. Tickets purchased before the brunch are $7. They'll be $8 at the door. Reservations should be made by the Friday before the party, Aug. 12, by contacting Sarah Gagen at 885-7701 or Linda Lloyd at 886-4829, who'll also be happy to answer any questions.

Fall Fashion Magic at Science Center

The look for fall and winter will be highlighted by special laser effects at Fall Fashion Magic at the Detroit Science Center on Wednesday, Aug. 10. Tavy Stone, Detroit News fashion editor, will comment at the invitational event on fashions provided by Design Alliance Detroit.

Lieutenant Governor Martha Griffiths will be guest of honor at a 7 p.m. wine and hors d'oeuvres reception in the Science Center's Exhibit Hall, preceding the 8 p.m. fashion show in the center's domed Space Theater.

Tax deductible tickets for the benefit evening, at $50 per person, are available at the Science Center or by calling 577-8400. Early reservations are suggested, as seating in the Space Theater is limited.

Exhibit's spotlight on picto-graphics

Picto-Graphic Communication, a visual exhibit of international marks, signs and symbols that are universal to people on all six inhabited continents, is on display now through next May at the International Institute's Hall of Nations, open to the public during the Institute's regular 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. business hours Monday through Friday, and during special events.

There is no admission charge, but it is recommended that prospective visitors call 871-8600 before arriving to view the exhibit, in case the hall is scheduled for a private function.

Seventeen different signs, marks and symbols (sun, moon, star, cosmos, tree, egg, fish, bird, serpent, horned animals, heart, eye, hand, foot, cross, triangle and wheel) in over 250 different ethnic forms are displayed throughout the Hall of Nations' showcases.

Some examples are replicated, or transformed in size to fit the display, but each item is authentic to the nationality it represents.

The International Institute, a Torch Drive Agency that provides social services for new immigrants and foreign speaking people as well as educational and cultural programs about the different ethnic communities of metropolitan Detroit, is located on East Kirby Street at John R. in Detroit's University/Cultural Center.

NAPS schedules August program

The Greater Detroit Chapter of the National Association for Professional Saleswomen has scheduled its next monthly business meeting for Tuesday, Aug. 9, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Roostertail. Round table discussions on different topics, such as Managing Your Manager, Credibility Factors of Your Customers and Entertaining Your Client, will be featured. Tickets at $10 each ($12 for non-members) must be purchased in advance by calling 261-0410.

Set Meadow Brook Hall summer hours

Summer hours at Meadow Brook Hall, in effect now through Labor Day, are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

The Summer Tea Room is also open, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday, offering indoor service in the Wilson Dining Room as well as outdoor service on the porch.

Knole Cottage, the miniature mansion built as a playhouse for Frances Dodge, is open, too, for tours during the summer, except during inclement weather; after Labor Day, both the hall and the cottage will be open for public tours and dining on Sundays only.

Tour admission is $4 for adults, $2 for senior citizens over 64 and for children under 13 and Oakland University affiliates. Knole Cottage admission is $1 for all ages. Further information may be obtained by calling 377-3140.

Jane Louisignau married in May

Jane Ann Louisignau selected a Laura Ashley gown of white cotton voile, its long sleeves and high neck fashioned of lace matching the lace that edged its scalloped hem, for her spring wedding to John Frew Kellock Brown II, M.D.

Satin streamers cascaded down her back from her headpiece, a laurel wreath of stephanotis and baby's-breath. She carried an arrangement of small, pink roses, stephanotis and baby's-breath.

The 1:30 o'clock ceremony Saturday, May 7, in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel, The Reverend Ralph Kowalski presiding, was followed by a reception at the Detroit Athletic Club. The newlyweds vacationed in the south, cruising in the Caribbean and visiting Florida. They are at home on Belanger Road.

Mary Louisignau Goodheart was honor matron for her sister. They are the daughters of Mrs. John J. Louisignau, of Wedgwood Drive, and the late Mr. Louisignau. Bridesmaids were Carolyn O'Connell, of New York City, a Denison University friend of the bride, Melissa Shackleton, of Boston, Mass., another Denison University friend and a sorority sister, Kathryn Brown, the bridegroom's sister, Mary Elizabeth Brown, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, and Lori Everett.

They wore tea style dresses, short-sleeved and mauve in color, lace-trimmed at collars and cuffs, waists circled with matching satin ribbons, and carried arrangements of large, pink Fuji mums and baby's-breath.

Charles D.L. Brown was his brother's best man. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. K. Brown, of Sunningdale Drive. Ushering were John L. Barlow and Charles McLravy, the bridegroom's brothers-in-law, Keith Alward, of Fremont, Calif., Drew Brophy, James Everett, Thomas Jerger and Lawrence Roth.

The mother of the bride, in a street length dress of mauve georgette, placed a half-circle of small, pink roses and baby's-breath in her hair. She gave her daughter in marriage.

The bridegroom's mother wore a tailored suit of oatmeal silk and pinned a corsage of small, pink roses and baby's-breath to her clutch purse.

Out-of-town guests included Mary Kathryn Thomas, of Greenwich, Conn., a Denison University sorority sister of the bride, Ken

Mrs. John F.K. Brown II Erlich, of Boston, Mark and Lynn Veil, of Boca Raton, Fla., Scott and Lynn Veil, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Denison University friends of both the bride and bridegroom Nelson and Nancy Alward, of Huron, Ohio, and Frederick and Kim Kenney, of Decatur, Ill.

Mrs. Joseph D'Agostino Miss McBride is a June bride

Kathleen Robin McBride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dana McBride, of Ridge Road and Pittsburgh, Pa., was married Saturday, June 18, in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel to Joseph Nicholas D'Agostino, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen I. D'Agostino, of Lookout Mountain, Tenn.

The 4:30 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend Francis Hillebrand, S.J., of the University of Detroit, presided was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Club. The newlyweds vacationed in Sardinia. They are making their home in Atlanta, Ga.

Kelly Anne McBride served as her twin sister's maid of honor. Christopher D'Agostino was best man for the bride.

The bride, known as Kitty, was a designer's assistant at Stuart Mager, Inc. in New York City until two weeks before her wedding. She is a member of the Junior League of New York, and made her debut as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet Ball in St. Louis. She is an alumna of St. Louis' Mary Institute and Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill.

She spent her junior year abroad, studying Art and the Italian language at the Universita Per Stranieri, Perugia, Italy.

The bridegroom, marketing manager for the Coca-Cola Company in Atlanta, graduated from Holy Cross College, where he majored in Economics and Philosophy, in 1979, and received a Master of Business Administration degree from Columbia Business School in January of this year.

Free demonstration of PEPSTEP today

Maureen Godin will present a free demonstration of PEPSTEP, Weight Watchers' exclusive exercise program, this morning, Thursday, Aug. 4, at 10 a.m. at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church. The public is welcome.

Kathryn Mast speaks vows

A reception and brunch at Lochmoor Club followed the spring wedding of Kathryn Elaine Mast, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. James Mast, of Cloverly Road, and Frederick Carl Uhde, son of Mrs. Illman Uhde, of Chicago, Ill., and Carl Uhde, of San Diego, Calif.

The Reverend William Tudor presided at the 11 o'clock ceremony Saturday, May 14, in Christ Church, Grosse Pointe. The Christ Church Men and Boys Choir sang, four trumpeters also participated, and the carillon rang out as the bride and bridegroom left the church.

The former Miss Mast, in a gown of ivory silk taffeta and French Bovin lace featuring an all-lace bodice with a high, wedding band neckline, bracelet length bishop sleeves, a full, lace-bordered skirt falling from a cummerbund-circled waist, and a chapel train, carried an arrangement of stephanotis, white Sweetheart roses and ivy.

Her fingertip veil fell from a wreath of hand-beaded Schiffli lace and silk flowers, beribboned down the back in layers of silk illusion.

Deborah Mast, of Ann Arbor, honor maid for her sister, and bridesmaids Mrs. Bradford H. Mast, their sister-in-law, and Phyllis Esposito, of New York City, carried bouquets of yellow and white daisies, with baby's-breath.

Their floor length dresses of emerald green moire faille featured scoop necklines, lantern sleeves and soft skirts belted in self-fabric.

Best man was Charles Lundfelt, of Santa Barbara, Calif. Ushers were W. Jamison Carter, of Chicago, where the newlyweds had both been making their homes and where they returned to reside after a vacation in Charleston, S.C., and Richard Beverly.

Mrs. Mast chose a short-sleeved, scoop-necked afternoon length dress of flowered print periwinkle cotton for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was a gardenia. The August art exhibit focus on 'chairs'

"Chairs," a traveling exhibition organized by Central Michigan University, will be featured in the main exhibition gallery of the Birmingham Bloomfield Art Association Monday, Aug. 8, through Friday, Aug. 26. The show features works ranging from the traditional to the avant-garde, in various media, including an audio tape, Guy Bleus' "Talking Chairs," a collection of sounds made by chairs moving across a floor.

The gallery, located on South Cranbrook Road, 14 Mile at Evergreen, is open to the public free of charge from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Further information may be obtained by calling 644-0866.

Antique show/sale in Mount Clemens

Forty quality dealers will exhibit in the Third Annual Mount Clemens Antique Show and Sale, running from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 6, on Macomb Place, the outdoor pedestrian mall in downtown Mount Clemens. Furniture, glassware, jewelry, china and porcelain are among the items to be featured. No reproductions are allowed.

A special feature of this year's sale is a display of antique cars, including a Maxwell, a Model A and a Model T Ford and a Packard.

June wedding date revealed

The wedding of Ellen Althea Engelbrecht and Terry Kuczeruk Saturday, June 4, in the Grosse Pointe Academy Chapel was followed by a reception at Lochmoor Club, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in Puerto Vallarta, Mexico. They are at home in Detroit.

Father John Sajdak, of Notre Dame High School, officiated at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony. Readings were given by Mary Roarty. Barbara Chancey presided at the Guest Book.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Engelbrecht, of Harvard Road, wore a gown of white chiffon styled with a short-sleeved bodice of seed pearl-appliqued lace. A pleated, lace border hemmed her chapel length train.

More lace and pearls accented her matching, chapel length veil, and she carried a traditional white bouquet of stephanotis and baby's-breath, with ivy.

She was attended by a sister, Mrs. William Russell, of Vernal, Utah, in a long, green and white print dress, carrying a spring bouquet of green and white flowers.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kuczeruk, of Nappanee, Ind., asked the bride's brother, John Engelbrecht, of St. Clair Shores, to act as best man. Another brother, Michael Engelbrecht, of Waterloo, Iowa, and their brother-in-law, Mr. Russell, ushered.

The mother of the bride accented her pink chiffon dress and jacket ensemble with a pale pink rosebud corsage. The bridegroom's mother also selected a dress and jacket ensemble, of rose crepe, and a rosebud corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Kuczeruk

Dela B. Devlin wed in Idaho

Dela Birdsall Devlin and Frederick Harold Brubaker exchanged marriage vows Saturday, July 30, at his home in Stanley, Idaho. A reception followed at The River Company Lodge.

The bride is the daughter of former Grosse Pointe residents Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Albert Devlin Jr., who now make their home in Columbus, Ohio, granddaughter of the late John W. Finkenstaedt and the late Cordelia and Lyle A. Devlin and niece of William B. Devlin.

She was attended by a sister, Connie Devlin, of Houston, Tex., and by Lani Fix, of Boise, Idaho. Steve Gordon, of Twin Falls, Idaho, served as best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Brubaker, of Fresno, Calif.

The new Mrs. Brubaker, a graduate of Albion College, served in VISTA and with the United States Forest Service (fire crew) in Idaho, and spent three years with the United States Antarctic Research Program, in Antarctica. Her husband, a graduate of Questa College, Questa, Calif., spent 10 years with the United States Forest Service (fire crew) in Idaho, and several years as a cross country mountaineer ski guide.

He, too, served with the United States Antarctic Research Program, in Antarctica, and will be returning there with his bride. Dela and Fred will be with the Antarctic Research Program from September, 1983, through February, 1984, after which they will bicycle and hike New Zealand for several weeks before returning to their home in Stanley.

Bach Brunch August dates

August is All-American Music Month at Brunch with Bach Sunday performances at 10 and 11:30 a.m. in the Detroit Institute of Arts' Kresge Court indoor garden. Advance reservations at $7.75 for the full brunch, $6.75 for a continental brunch may be made as late as the Friday afternoon prior to each weekend's performance.

Stairway seating, at $2.50 per person, is available on a limited basis. Detailed information and reservations may be obtained by calling the museum's ticket office, 832-2730. It is suggested that children younger than five are too young to attend.

Featured Aug. 7 will be Pointe Classics: four-part harmony in the barbershop manner, with gospel and Mills Brothers styling. Easy Street Swing Sextet, jazz from the 30s and 40s in the old Benny Goodman mood, is on the Aug. 14 agenda.

The Lost World String Band will present a program ranging from Appalachian tunes to Cajun music to Texas swing, a panorama of American folk traditions, Aug. 21, and Miche Braden and the Earl Van Dyke Trio promise music by black songwriters, including Duke Ellington and Fats Waller, Aug. 28.

OPEN SUNDAY 2-5 45 S. Duval... GROSSE POINTE SHORES... Priced to sell at $159,000. Four bedrooms, family room, country kitchen with fireplace, central air and 1st floor laundry all on a wonderfully private Cul-de-sac. Great Land Contract terms.

BY APPOINTMENT

THE MOTIVATED SELLERS of this fine 7 bedroom, 4 bath newer colonial on Lakeshore Rd. have just reduced its price to sell it before fall. The foyer and large library have pegged oak floors and kitchen, family room and garden room overlook the 40' pool and professionally landscaped gardens.

LOCATION, LOCATION, LOCATION are only three of the many reasons to take a serious look at this newer 5 bedroom, 3 bath brick colonial located on an exclusive cul-de-sac just off of Lakeshore Rd. in the Farms. The library and family room have pegged oak floors and the spacious kitchen opens onto an attached green house. The owners have just reduced the price!

ASSUME CITY CERTIFICATIONS AT A LOWER PRICE on this 4 bedroom, 2 1/2 bath home in Grosse Pointe Park. Features include large family-sized dining room, bright sun room with see-through fireplace to living room. Newer roof, electrical furnace and dishwasher. Lots of space for the large family on a low budget.

20283 Lancaster... Owner anxious to sell this 3 bedroom home in Harper Woods. Situated on well cared for street, this home features new carpet, updated kitchen, natural fireplace, lovely screened terrace. Immediate occupancy

FROM THE CURB you will immediately "feel" the charm which will again greet you when you step inside. This authentic farmhouse is listed as one of the oldest dwellings in the community. It's owners have completely restored and improved the house with new forced air heating, plumbing, roof, windows and gutters and downspouts. A new barn has been erected in the backyard which serves as a two car garage with enormous storage area above that is currently serving as a woodworking shop. If you have a penchant for Early American, this house should go to the top of your list.

IF YOU LIKE PLEASANT SURPRISES then this house on much desired Lincoln Road is sure to satisfy. It's what you can't see from the street that will whet your appetite. The new kitchen, enormous family room, cocktail-party-sized patio deck and fine landscaping make this three bedroom a stand-out in its class.

TRADITION, CONDITION AND YOUR AMBITION combine to make this one of the finest offerings in Grosse Pointe Farms. Fabulous country kitchen with authentic barn beams, a fireplace and all the goodies are sure to enchant you. A step-down living room with access to a large, covered and screened porch complement the expansive first floor plan with formal dining room and library. Upstairs are four family bedrooms and a three room apartment over the attached three car garage.

SEEING IS BELIEVING... and you'll be pleased with the graciousness of this lovely Windmill Pointe home. Living room, library, master bedroom and recreation room all feature fireplaces.

19 ROSE TERRACE... Cape Cod of continuing charm, Truly a different Home. Three bedrooms, 3 baths, possibly a Fourth Bedroom. Hardwood Floors, Fine Materials arranged by class craftsmen. Worth your inspection.

1786 OXFORD... Face brick Bungalow on compact lot close to transportation, shopping, fine for Starter's or Seniors and priced below comparables in area.

A 19th century French sculpture by Jean-Baptiste Carpeaux and a 20th century bronze by American sculptor Paul Manship, with a combined value of $580,000, have been acquired by the Detroit Institute of Arts. Both are gifts of Mrs. Allan Shelden III, of The Farms, through the Mr. and Mrs. Allan Shelden III Fund. Mrs. Shelden has been a trustee of the Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts since 1968 and is a major benefactor of the museum. Pictured at right is "Le Genie de la Danse" (1872) by Carpeaux (1827-1875). "It is recognized as one of the major sculptures in the history of art, outstanding in its immense beauty and power," says Dr. Frederick J. Cummings, museum director. "Thanks to Mrs. Shelden, this acquisition now becomes Detroit's most significant 19th century European sculpture."

Mrs. Shelden funded the $450,000 Carpeaux purchase, and donated $130,000 toward purchase of "The Moods of Time: Evening" (1938), pictured above, one of four fountain sculptures commissioned from Manship (1885-1966) for the 1939-40 New York World's Fair.

"In making it possible for the Detroit Institute of Arts to acquire these two splendid sculptures, Fran Shelden continues a family tradition of very great museum patronage shared by other Detroiters like Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, Robert Hudson Tannahill and W. Hawkins Ferry," Dr. Cummings says. Mr. Ferry is a Pointe resident, as were the late Mrs. Ford and Mr. Tannahill.

Fran Shelden continues to actively assist the museum from her own resources, though she and her late husband, a director of First of Michigan Corporation and former president of the Shelden Land Company, named the Founders Society as a beneficiary of a family trust fund. Her mother-in-law Elizabeth (Mrs. Allan) Shelden was a Founders Society trustee from 1950 until her death in 1982, and a major benefactor of the DIA.

Her generosity included $1 million for the Elizabeth and Allan Shelden Sculpture Garden now being planned, as well as frequent assistance in financing special exhibitions and many gifts of works of art.

"Le Genie de la Danse," a unique, original plaster, hand-modeled by the artist, is more than seven feet tall and is completely realized as a sculpture intended to be seen in the round.

It was originally purchased by the Baron de Rothschild of Paris from the J.B. Carpeaux atelier on May 29, 1913, and remained in the Rothschild collection until shortly before the DIA acquired it from Colnaghi and Company, London art dealers.

"Evening," a unique bronze cast from the sculptor's original model, measures 3'8" by 5'7". The Manship fountain sculptures actually seen at the fair, more than twice this size, were later destroyed. "Evening" was acquired from New York's Shickman Gallery.

Manship was renowned for his large public commissions — most prominently the "Prometheus" fountain in Rockefeller Center. Carpeaux was France's leading sculptor in the mid-19th century.

Reveal results of Spring Rose Show in Pointe

Thirty-one exhibitors of roses and rose arrangements participated in the Grosse Pointe Rose Society's annual Spring Rose Show, held at the Neighborhood Club in June. There were a total of 209 specimen roses entered in the Horticultural Division of the Show.

Bill Flom won Best Rose in Show with his hybrid tea open-bloom of Mr. Lincoln. Paul Desmet and Debbie Fergus won Queen of Show with Royal Highness and King of Show with Madras. Princess of Show was won by Ken Wheeler with Chrysler Imperial.

In the Collection Classes, John and Deanna Stephens won the Elmore Frank Memorial Certificate with a three hybrid tea cycle of bloom of Sutter's Gold. Shirley Ireland won the American Rose Society Certificate for Best Floribunda Spray with Miracle.

John and Deanna Stephens took the ARS Certificate for Best Polyantha with Cecile Brunner. The ARS Certificate for Best Climber was won by Marge Moister. John and Deanna Stephens' entry of Carefree Beauty won the ARS Certificate for Best Shrub Rose.

In the Miniature Rose Section, Paul Desmet and Debbie Fergus won the Queen of Miniatures with Peaches 'n Cream and the Princess of Miniatures for Peachy Keen. Bob Seeber won the King of Miniatures with Birthday Party. The ARS Certificate for the Best Miniature Rose Spray was won by Bill and Stella May with Toy Clown.

The exhibit of three miniature roses, each of a different variety, was won by Paul Desmet and Debbie Fergus who also won the Best Miniature English Box.

Eight-year-old William Stephens won the Best Miniature Rose Open Bloom with Magic Carousel. The best rose submitted in the Non-Member Exhibition Class was won by Deb Leslie; she will receive a one-year free membership in the Grosse Pointe Rose Society for her entry of Color Magic.

Thirty-two outstanding rose arrangements were entered in the Artistic Design Division. To be eligible for American Rose Society Gold, Silver and Bronze Arrangement Certificates, the exhibitor must use arranger-grown roses, and the design must score at least 92 points. Roses must provide the dominant flower interest.

The ARS Gold and Bronze Arrangement Certificates were won by Bernadette Biglin for two displays entitled Chef's Corner and Captain's Table. Ellen Quinlan won the Silver Arrangement Certificate for an entry entitled Dining in Elegance.

An Afternoon Tea Table design won Bernadette Biglin the Court of Etiquette Award for the best table setting.

Ellen Quinlan won the ARS Gold and Silver Arrangement Certificates for her miniature rose designs entitled Aperitif and Snacks. Amy Lynn Stephens won the Bronze Princess of Miniatures Rose Arrangement Certificate for her design, A Bride's Brunch.

This year's Rose Show was chaired by Mary Currie, the Grosse Pointe Rose Society's immediate past-president.

Investments topic for Professional Women's Network

How the working woman can protect her income through good investments will be the discussion topic at a Michigan Professional Women's Network dinner meeting next Monday, Aug. 8, at 6 p.m. at Somerset Inn in Troy. Amelia Nerdrum, a licensed commodities and insurance broker with Kidder-Peabody, will explore the general economic outlook and how it applies to working women.

She will cover the impact of taxes on working women, and will explain bonds, shelters and annuities as safeguards to a professional woman's income.

The MPWN is a two-year-old, non-profit organization designed to provide business contacts, information and support for the community's professional women. Network dinner meetings are open to everyone. Reservations may be made and further information obtained by contacting Linda Russell at 355-5580.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, SUPER SUMMER STRAWBERRY IDEAS.

CHILLED STRAWBERRY SOUFFLE

1/3 cup sugar
1 pkg. unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup water
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup unsweetened, pureed strawberries (about 1 1/2 cups strawberries, thawed, if frozen)
2 large egg whites, at room temperature
Pinch of salt
1 cup whipped topping (prepared according to package directions)

In small saucepan, mix sugar and gelatin. Add water and lemon juice. Stir over low heat about 3 minutes, or until gelatin is dissolved. Remove from heat; add pureed strawberries; stir to blend well. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly. Meanwhile, in large bowl, beat egg whites with salt until stiff but not dry. Fold in gelatin mixture, then whipped topping. Turn into three-cup souffle dish with two-inch collar. Chill at least 4 hours. Makes 4 servings. Calories about 143 per serving. Cholesterol - a trace.

STRAWBERRIES ELEGANTE

3 pts. fresh, ripe strawberries
1 cup blueberries
2 Tbsp. sugar
Juice of 1 orange
1 Tbsp. grated orange peel
1 tsp. grated lemon peel
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. brandy
3 Tbsp. Grand Marnier

Wash and hull the strawberries carefully; drain well. Separate a few of the not-so-pretty ones and mash them in the bottom of a bowl. Add remaining whole strawberries, along with washed and well-drained blueberries. Add sugar and mix well, being careful to avoid bruising the berries. Add remaining ingredients and chill for at least 2 or 3 hours. Taste the sauce; add more sugar or Grand Marnier, if deemed necessary. Serve in stemmed dessert dishes to 8. Calories about 70 per serving. Cholesterol 0.

JELLIED STRAWBERRIES ROMANOFF

1 pt. fresh, ripe strawberries
1 envelope plain gelatin
1/4 cup Curacao or other orange liqueur, or cold water and a pinch of grated orange peel
1 cup boiling water
1 can (6-oz.) unsweetened orange juice concentrate, partly thawed

Place washed, hulled berries in a round glass bowl. Leave smaller berries whole, but cut larger ones in half lengthwise.

Sprinkle gelatin on liqueur or cold water in blender container. Let stand for at least 1 minute; then add boiling water. Blend until gelatin is thoroughly dissolved. Add orange juice concentrate and blend until smooth. Pour blender mixture over fruit. Chill in refrigerator for several hours. Serve from the bowl, or invert mold on a platter to serve. Calories about 90 per serving. Cholesterol 0.

SUNKISSED STRAWBERRY JAM

This is the strawberry jam to end all strawberry jams... Wash and hull freshly-picked strawberries, after making sure that none are larger than medium-size and that they have no blemishes. In large kettle, place an equal amount of strawberries and sugar. Bring to a boil and cook 10 minutes. Spread mixture on large platters and cover with window glass. Place platters out-of-doors in the sun.

Stir mixture carefully and thoroughly 3 or 4 times a day. Take inside after sunset. It usually takes 4 or 5 days for the moisture to evaporate and the jam to attain the right consistency.

Spoon preserves into sterilized jars and cover well with a layer of melted paraffin before tightly capping.

This method keeps the berries whole and retains the brilliant red of the fruit. Raspberries may be preserved in the same manner.

Amount of preserves obtained depends on quantities of ingredients used.

The Village... will take another crack at its famous sidewalk sale Saturday August 6, 9:30 to 5:30. Due to an unfortunate rainout last weekend, the sale will take place at Kercheval-in-the-Village between Cadillac and Neff SATURDAY ONLY! The same wonderful 10% to 80% off bargains will be available with a few more added. Plan on having a happy and profitable Saturday in the Village.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

Oh, to be 8 years-old again . . .

Lou Whitaker is hitting and the Tigers are winning and I am wishing I was 7 or 9 years-old again.

My cousin Joey Bedard is 9. And this summer, Joey Bedard is in love with baseball. He talks about baseball and he thinks about baseball and he dreams about baseball. Joey watches games on TV. He collects baseball cards — he had over 1,000 at last count. He knows the major league baseball statistics like he knows his own name.

Joey Bedard is simply head-over-heels in love with baseball.

He likes the Detroit Tigers just fine, but it's Reggie Jackson and the California Angels who occupy most of his thoughts. He got Bobby Grich's autograph this summer and that made things just about perfect. Oh, and about the Tigers . . . Joey's not too sure they'll win the pennant this year. "That Eastern Division is just too close," he says.

The Anaheim, Calif., home of the Angels is about 3,100 miles away from Joey Bedard's Brys Drive home. But with that Bobby Grich autograph in his pocket and Reggie Jackson on the TV Game of the Week, 3,100 miles really isn't very far at all. Not when you're 9 years-old and in love with baseball.

Manuel Partida, 8, lives just about a Kirk Gibson home run distance away from Tiger Stadium. Manuel is an old hand at this baseball business: he started buying his first baseball cards and reading about baseball oldtimers three years ago when he was just a little kid of 5.

Manuel likes the Tigers . . . but he lives and dies with the Cincinnati Reds. He says he knows they've been having a bad time lately but he doesn't care. They'll be back, Manuel says.

The Reds don't play much at Tiger Stadium, except for an exhibition game now and then. Manuel probably doesn't care about that either, because the Reds are always playing at his house, in the shadow of Tiger Stadium.

When the Reds are on TV, Manuel fixes himself two hot dogs, pours himself a tall, cool cola, retreats to his room and plants himself in front of his television set. In Manuel's mind, that spot is every bit as good as a front row seat in Cincinnati's Riverfront Stadium.

I know how he feels. I used to be 8 years-old.

Eight or 9 year-olds don't see errors. They don't notice brushback pitches or check bats for pine tar or cork. They don't pay too much attention to newspaper articles about attendance or stories of over-paid ballplayers who find All-Star Game appearances boring.

When you are 8 or 9, the only numbers you pay attention to are the ones under "WINS" and "LOSSES" in the sports section. When you are 8 or 9, the mathematical mountains of fractions and percentages have yet to be scaled . . . but figuring out a favorite player's batting average is a piece of cake.

Most of the people 8 or 9 year-olds have to deal with don't quite understand the fascination with baseball . . . especially mothers. Manuel's mom Shirley says she's learned a lot from her little Reds' fan — she's had to since that's all Manuel talks about. Joey's mother admits to being a bit confused when all this talk about All-Star voting and pennant races starts flying around the dinner table.

"But it's fun to watch," Diane Bedard says. "He reads every word of the sports page and relates it all to the family. We've gotten very excited about baseball."

Still, with an over-9-year-old mind, it's difficult to remember those sweet summers when thoughts turn to suicide squeeze bunts and three-run homers.

Somehow, the over-9 mind just doesn't remember those things.

We dwell on things like player strikes, salary arbitrations, playing out options, trading away troublemakers, investigating players who use drugs. We forget that the stadium grass used to look so green to us on Opening Day because, after all, Opening Day means spring. Our over-9 minds keep telling us the grass is so green because the grounds crew painted it that way.

We over-9 sports fans tell ourselves that if a player complains about his salary, it should be "good riddance to that clown." We forget what it's like to be 8 or 9 and have a favorite player; one who hits home runs that seem to go on forever. We forget what it's like to have heroes to worship.

That's why I'm kind of sorry that my 9 year-old summer is over. The Tigers are playing the kind of baseball that makes those kind of summers special. The timely hits, the exciting finishes, the leaping catches and the towering home runs. For the first time in a long time, they're making it the kind of summer that makes everybody wish they could look at things through the eyes of a 9 year-old.

I'm glad I got a chance to hear about Joey Bedard and Manuel Partida; it kind of makes me feel a bit closer to that long ago summer of mine.

I wonder if Manuel and Joey would mind taking a slightly over-9-year-old to the ballgame next time they go?

Bocci earns race walk win

Most people might not want to admit to reaching the age where one is eligible to compete in a "masters" sporting event. The Park's Jeanne Bocci isn't one of them.

Bocci, who turned that "magic age" in March, competed in and won the women's national masters 10 KM championship walking in Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 18. Bocci's time of 55:16 was good enough for her to win her first masters title; in a race held along the Niagara Rapids and in 95 hot, humid degrees.

Bocci's husband Gerald also competed in a masters event — he finished third in the men's national masters 10 KM walking championships with a time of 54:23.

Winners of the Henry L. Caulkins II tennis tournament were all smiles as they took the court to show off their awards. Above, Robert Niccolini, 14, and Ellen Mayer, 13, pose with their trophies as the Henry L. Caulkins II Memorial best overall and the Ross Roy best overall, respectively. They were selected best male and female in the sportsmanship category.

Woods-Shores takes senior Babe Ruth tourney title

The Grosse Pointe Woods-Shores I team, manned by several members of the North High varsity baseball squad, last week picked up where the Norsemen left off: in line for a championship.

This time, the title in question was the Greater Macomb County Senior Babe Ruth League Tournament at North and South High Schools. The Woods-Shores I team breezed through the 11-team, double elimination event with four victories and a tournament championship.

The Woods-Shores took wins over Harper Woods (3-2), Clintondale (4-0) and the Farms-City (13-7) before facing L'Anse Creuse

South I in the championship game July 25.

Woods-Shores I took a 3-1 victory, thanks to winning pitcher Dan Kopitzke, who turned in 11 strikeouts and gave up just four hits. Losing pitcher Jim Wedding issued six walks and struck out four batters. The Woods-Shores scored the winning runs in the bottom of the fourth when Shawn Dowden walked, Marty Mitchell singled and Dan Pagel advanced the runners with a sacrifice. John Matouk singled Dowden and Mitchell home.

Woods-Shores I manager Mike Dowden accepted the winners' trophy from league commissioner Dave Hodges.

St. Paul sets sports sign-up

St. Paul grade school has scheduled its fall sports registration for Thursday, Aug. 11, from 6 to 7 p.m. in the school gym.

A fee of $25 per player, or a family fee of $75 per year is required. Checks should be made payable to the St. Paul Athletic Association.

The first practice sessions for girls' soccer, tennis and boys' soccer will be held Monday, Aug. 15.

Woods' Schmidt wins honor for academics

Cathy Schmidt of the Woods was one of five Saginaw Valley State College women's track athletes named to the 1983 NAIA Academic All-American Outdoor Track and Field Team.

A nine-time All-American, Schmidt is also a member of the President's List by maintaining a perfect grade point average. The sophomore accounting major is also a two-time Most Valuable Performer at the NAIA national indoor meet.

"These five people most certainly exemplify the student part of 'student-athlete,'" coach Bob Maybauer said. "When you can do it in the classroom, you have no problems doing it on the track."

Caulkins tennis winners crowned

The Henry L. Caulkins II youth tennis tournament held July 5 through 8 at Grosse Pointe North and South High School courts drew Pointe tennis players of all skills.

Run by the Neighborhood Club and sponsored by the Henry L. Caulkins II family, the tournament was open to all Pointe youth 16 and under. Some 107 residents participated in the various singles and doubles events. The concept of the tournament is to give the players a tournament experience at a low cost to the participant.

"For many of these players it is their first tournament experience. With our consolation matches we try to guarantee each player at least two matches in his event," said Janet Hooper, tournament director. "Thanks to the Caulkins family, the entry fee is only $1 per event. There isn't much you can do for a dollar these days, let alone play in a tennis tournament."

The event featured some excellent tennis and great weather. Following are the tournament results.

12 and under boys' singles — winner: Kurt Prisie; runner up: John Drummy. Consolation winner: Bob Winiarski; consolation runner up: Brad Stedam.

20-year wait ends in fourth place finish

Farms-City wins two in playoffs

The Farms-City Little League All-Star team won two games in District 6 playoff competition before dropping out with a tough loss to Harper Woods.

On July 23, the Farms-City squad edged Clintondale, 3-1, as Dan Monahan held the losers to one hit. Scott Adlhoch and Sean Cleland paced the hitting attack

MD bed races set for August

It's time to get in bed and roll down West Grand Boulevard in the third annual "Detroit Bed Races Against Muscular Dystrophy" Friday and Saturday, Aug. 12 and 13. The two-day event begins with a pre-race party Friday evening, with races the next day beginning at 11 a.m.

Sponsored by WHYT-FM radio, Total Health Care and the New Center Area Council, the races have raised more than $9,000 for research. The race is a 100-yard dash down the Boulevard, with trophies for first, second and third along with awards for the most original and best decorated bed.

The pre-race party Friday night begins at 4:30 p.m. in the New Center Park and along Second Avenue between Milwaukee and West Grand Boulevard. The party features entertainment, carnival games and a celebrity auction.

Any company, family or individual interested in entering the race or donating auction items may contact the Muscular Dystrophy Association at 381-3838.

The Grosse Pointe Farms-City 14 and 15 year old All Star Team finished fourth in the state tournament played in Berkley July 23 through 27. The squad was the first 14 and 15 year-old All-Star Team from the Farms-City in 20 years to win its district tournament and earn a berth in the State finals. The Farms-City won two games and lost two games in the tournament.

FIRST GAME: Grosse Pointe Farms-City defeated Alpena, 10-8. The Farms-City offense was paced by Rob Wood with two hits and three RBI, Eric Doelle with two hits and two RBI, and Mike Hennessey with two RBI. The Alpena attack was led by Dennis Keller with a triple and Pat Glenie and Trent Sherman each with a double. Outstanding relief pitching by Scott Tucker paced the Farms-City to a come-from-behind victory.

The Farms-City trailed 7-1 after two innings and 8-1 after three innings, but a six-run rally in the fourth inning and three more runs in the sixth brought the Farms-City its first tournament victory. A bases-loaded walk to Hennessey forced in the winning run. Tucker, the winning pitcher, allowed six hits and struck out four.

SECOND GAME: Ypsilanti defeated the Farms-City, 8-7. The Farms-City attack was led by Jason Colegrove who drove in three runs with a single and two sacrifice flies. Hennessey and Wood contributed two hits and one RBI each and Tucker hit a long home run to centerfield in the sixth inning.

The Farms-City had built up a 6-3 lead with single runs in the second and sixth innings and two runs in the third and fifth innings. Ypsilanti scored five runs in the top of the seventh inning to wipe out the 6-3 Farms-City lead and gain the victory. Ypsilanti scored its runs on three singles, three walks, and two costly Farms-City errors. The Farms-City scored a run in the bottom of the seventh inning and had the bases loaded before the side was retired. George Ghazal and Wood pitched for the Farms-City.

THIRD GAME: Farms-City defeated Westland, 15-4. The Farms-City offense was paced by Wood and Steve Kinsley with three hits and three RBI each. Colegrove, Costa Papista and Rick Leonard had two hits each. One of Kinsley's three hits was a home run with Colegrove on base. Rick Leonard and Jerry Joliet shared the pitching responsibility. Leonard, got the win as he pitched five strong innings, allowing only three hits and striking out five.

FOURTH GAME: North Farmington-West Bloomfield defeated the Farms-City, 12-10. The North Farmington-West Bloomfield offense was paced by Dave Einstandig with a three run homer. The Farms-City attack was led by Doelle with three hits and two RBI; Papista with two hits and three RBI; Wood with two hits and two RBI; and Bill Adlhoch with two hits.

The Farms-City scored six runs in the first inning and two runs each in the third and fifth innings.

North Farmington-West Bloomfield overcame the Farms-City 10-4 lead with eight runs in the seventh inning.

The Farms-City 14 and 15 year old All Star Team members included Adlhoch, Colegrove, Doelle, Dave Fellows, George Ghazal, Bob Gillooly, Hennessey, Jerry Joliet, Steve Kinsley, Kolp, Rick Leonard, Costa Papista, Derek Stevens, Tucker, and Rob Wood. The team is managed by Mike Johnson and coached by Jeff Von Schwarz and Phil Dara.

Park takes swim title

"Team Spirit" might be a better name for the Grosse Pointe Park Swim Team which defeated the Woods Swim Team last week and earned the dual meet championship for the 11th time in 12 years.

The Park squad arrived at the pool July 20 chanting "The Park is No. 1!" and didn't let up for the remainder of the meet. Both the Woods and the Park were unbeaten going into the final meet and after numerous close races and excellent swims, the Park alone finished its season undefeated, earning a 250-229 title win over the Woods.

The Woods won the first relay, but the Park rebounded with victories in the 12 and under boys' and girls' medley relays. B. Thompson, A. Smith, I. Thompson, C. Lash and C. Rettig won for the boys; G. Bocci, S. Dinka and H. Selig teamed up for the girls' win.

Triple winners for the Park were B. Thompson in the boys' 12 and under 50 back, butterfly and medley relay; I. Thompson, in the boys' 12 and under 50 free, breast and medley relay; McCormick, winner of the boys' 8 and 25 free, back and mixed free relay' and G. Celhar, who took the boys' 10 and under 25 back, breast and mixed free relay.

For the Woods, triple winners were K. Young in the girls' 12 and under 50 breast, 14 and under 50 free and the 57 years free relay; and A. Vanker, who won the girls' 17 and under 50 back, medley relay and the 57 years free relay.

Double individual winners for the Park were M. Smith, in the boys' 14 and under free and butterfly; L. MacDonald, who won the boys' 17 and under back and butterfly; N. Vetterello, in the girls' 17 and under free and butterfly; and W. Canu, who took the boys' 10 and under free and butterfly.

The Woods' double winners included L. Verona, who took the girls' 12 and under 50 free and backstroke; K. Ellis, winner of the girls' 10 and under back and butterfly; and N. Woods, who won the 14 and under and 17 and under 50 breaststroke.

Other winners for the Park included P. Francis — girls' 8 and under 25 back; M. Eckel — girls' 14 and under 50 back. The team of O. O'Meara, L. Leavell, T. Jogan and Celhar won the 10 and under mixed free relay and McCormick, R. Smith, J. Walter and P. Francis teamed up for a victory in the 8 and under free relay.

Wertz tourney nets $140,000

For the fourth consecutive year, golfers and sponsors donated a record amount of more than $140,000 at the Vic Wertz Memorial Golf Outing to benefit the Boys' and Girls' Club of Metro Detroit.

Over 350 golfers joined more than 40 sports and media celebrities at Hillcrest Country Club in Mt. Clemens for the annual event held last Thursday, July 28. The event was renamed the Vic Wertz Memorial Golf Outing following the July 7 death of Wertz, a Grosse Pointe resident.

Flowers goes to the games

More than 75 athletes from Michigan participated in the 17th AAU/USA Junior Olympic Games July 28 through 31 at Notre Dame/St. Mary's in South Bend-Mishawaka, Ind., and the Pointe's Joel Flowers was among them.

Flowers participated in wrestling competition during the games. Wrestling is just one of 17 Junior Olympics sports.

Circle that date!

Kristina Mandarino has her soccer jersey and ball and she's ready for the third annual Friends of F.L.E.C. soccer benefit "The Detroit Express vs. Grosse Pointe's Best" soccer game and clinic at University Liggett School this month. Another thing Kristina, daughter of Friends of F.L.E.C. past president Eileen Mandarino, has is a circle around Monday, Aug. 29 on her calendar. That's the date of the event, which includes the 6 p.m. game, a pre-game soccer clinic, hot dogs and pop and lots of fun. Advance registration at $10 is necessary for the clinic. The game fee is $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12. Checks should be made payable to: Friends of F.L.E.C., 30 Beacon Hill, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236. Further information may be obtained by calling 882-7862.

Michigan's nautical attractions offer memorable scenic cruises

With a coastline longer than the nation's Atlantic Seaboard and a long maritime past, it's only natural that the "Great Lakes State" abounds with seagoing attractions. They range from floating museums to dinner cruise ships to vessels that tour some of Michigan's historic and scenic wonders.

A natural starting point for a nautical tour of the state is at Sault Ste. Marie, on the north-eastern coast of the Upper Peninsula. This Michigan port city remains an important center of maritime commerce as it has since the 17th Century.

Soo Locks Tour Boats take you through the world's busiest locking system, occasionally in the company of a Great Lakes on-ocean-going vessel. It's a 10-mile, two-hour narrated tour that takes you up from Lake Huron to Lake Superior and back again.

Just downriver from the world-famous Soo Locks, the Great Lakes ore freighter S.S. Valley Camp is permanently moored as a maritime museum and monument to sailors of the inland seas. Board the 55-foot vessel and visit her bridge, crew's quarters, galley, engine room, and other areas. Below decks - in one of the cargo holds - the history of Great Lakes Shipping is retold with graphic displays, paintings, ship models and artifacts.

From Hulbert or Soo Junction, a sternwheel riverboat trip offers, among other vistas, the sight of famous Tahquamenon Falls, the colorful cascade immortalized in Longfellow's "Song of Hiawatha." The Tom Sawyer Riverboat and Toonerville Trolley both combine excursions on the Tahquamenon River with narrow-gauge train rides through the Lake Superior National Forest.

From Munising to Grand Marais, the Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore provides a spectacular natural gallery for a memorable cruise. The towering, multi-hued sandstone formations can only be viewed from off-shore and the three Pictured Rocks Tour Boats were designed and built just for that purpose. Their two and a half hour, 37-mile voyages take sightseers and shutterbugs past colorful natural precipices, caves, and natural sculptures with names like "Chapel Rock," "Battleship Alley" and Rainbow Cave."

Tour Detroit by bike

Perhaps the best way to view historic sites along Detroit's riverfront in the summer is by bicycle. At least that is the philosophy behind the East Riverfront Bike Tours, which began Saturday, July 16, and will run through Sept. 4.

East Riverfront Bicycle Route is a five-mile, signed route that loops through Detroit's historic east riverfront industrial area from St. Antoine (near Renaissance Center) to Belle Isle. It is designed for use during weekends and holidays when there is little or no industrial activity or traffic congestion.

On Saturdays in July, Sundays in August and Labor Day weekend, the guided tours begin promptly at 10 a.m. An easy family tour of about one hour, with stops, the tour has an optional hour extension around Belle Isle. All rides end by noon.

The tours are being sponsored by the City of Detroit Recreation Department, Partners grants by Noveau Corporation and Wildflowers of Detroit, Greater Detroit Bicycle League, and the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments. For more information, call City of Detroit Recreation Department, 224-1180 or SEMCOG's BikeTrans Program, 961-4266.

SEMCOG is a voluntary association of counties, cities, villages, townships and schools in the seven-county Southeast Michigan region. The council's principal functions are short- and long-range planning for housing, transportation, land use, public safety, recreation and open space, and the environment.

Raised from the depths of Green Bay after more than a century on the bottom of Lake Michigan, the mystery ship, Alvin Clark, attracts Great Lakes maritime enthusiasts to Menominee in the western upper peninsula. This "ancient mariner" is a 218-ton cargo schooner that plied the Great Lakes in the mid 19th Century. The Clark has been described as, "a workhorse with a racy past," and is now listed in the National Register of Historic Places.

The reconstructed, armed sloop Welcome, (identical to its 18th Century namesake), performs a similar function at the Straits of Mackinac at Mackinaw City. The original 55 foot Welcome was built in 1775 as a private trading vessel. It was later purchased by the British with the mission of supplying Fort Michilimackinac. The new Welcome gives visitors a glimpse of Michigan's Revolutionary War past.

Also at the Straits, Quest Sailing Cruises offer a "yachtsman's view" of Mackinac Island with excursions aboard a 40-foot sailboat. As you sail past the Grand Hotel and historic Fort Mackinac, the captain and crew will "spin some seafaring yarns" about the ships and men who sailed the same waters in the past. If you're interested in "learning the ropes" you can join the crew in manning the wheel and hoisting the sails.

In the Lower Peninsula, two double-decked, sternwheel riverboats offer two-hour excursions through the historic Au Sable River Valley. The Au Sable River Queens cruise two different stretches of the river giving their passengers a view of the scenic beauty that greeted 19th-Century woodsmen when lumber was the mainstay of Michigan's economy.

The last of the Great Lakes luxury cruise ships lies moored at Douglas, Michigan as a floating museum. The S.S. Keewatin is a 350-foot preservation of the gilded era of steamships when pampered passengers strolled her spacious decks, dined in a mahogany-paneled dining room, or gathered socially in a two-story lounge with stained-glass skylights.

Speaking of unique vessels, the Saugatuck Chain Ferry has its own claim to fame. It's the only hand-cranked ferry on the Great Lakes. Another one-of-a-kind, the Ironton Ferry on Lake Charlevoix, is the world's shortest according to Ripley.

There are many more nautical attractions in Michigan on all four coasts and on the inland lakes and waterways. The Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, will direct you to all of the state's many attractions, nautical and land-based. Write the Michigan Travel Bureau, P.O. Box 30226, Lansing, MI 48909.

State schools get good marks

Nearly half of all Michigan citizens believe public schools in their community earned an "A" or "B" on their 1983 report card.

The second annual Michigan Education Poll, released recently by the State Board of Education, gave the state's public schools higher marks than they received last year and significantly higher grades than public education received on the 1982 nationwide Gallup Poll.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Phillip E. Runkel said 46 percent of the 800 Michigan adults interviewed in the 1983 poll gave their schools an "A" or "B" compared to 42 percent on the 1982 Gallup Poll.

"Results of the poll are encouraging," Runkel said. "The public is aware, however, that Michigan's public schools have been dealing with serious financial problems that have resulted in curriculum cutbacks in many schools. The poll indicated that many citizens believe the curriculum in their school districts must be strengthened to prepare students for today's world."

The State Board of Education poll was conducted Feb. 7 to 9 when in-depth telephone interviews were conducted with persons throughout the state. Households called were selected by computer.

Runkel said persons who have children in public schools gave higher marks for schools than persons without children in public schools. Fifty-six percent of all public school parents gave schools an "A" or "B" when asked to rate their quality.

On the downside, 11 percent of all poll participants gave schools a "D" or "E" rating compared to 14 percent on last year's Michigan poll and 19 percent on the Gallup Poll.

Other significant findings in the 1983 Michigan Education Poll were:

- Nearly four out of 10 (38 percent) believe the quality of their schools has remained about the same in recent years, 16 percent think schools are better and 25 percent think they are getting worse.
- 43 percent feel financing is the biggest problem facing local schools, up from 33 percent who cited finances as the No. 1 issue last year.
- 57 percent believe school budgets should increase at the same rate as inflation, 23 percent said spending should remain at its present level and 11 percent said it should be reduced.
- 48 percent believe the curriculum in their schools should be changed to meet today's needs while 34 percent said it now meets present needs. This is in sharp contrast to the Gallup Poll in which 36 percent said the curriculum should be changed and 42 percent believe it meets today's needs. Michigan citizens who believe the curriculum should be changed favor greater emphasis on basic skills, computer instruction, vocational-technical training, math and "hands-on" learning.

- 92 percent of all public school parents said they feel welcome when they visit their child's school.
- 80 percent said they have confidence in their child's teachers and 65 percent have confidence in the school's principal and in their school board.
- 56 percent of all citizens would support merger of their school district with one nearby if it would result in better programs at lower cost, up from 48 percent last year.
- 63 percent of all citizens favor charging fees for driver education and 50 percent feel students participating in sports, band and other extra-curricular activities should pay a fee. However, 64 percent oppose a charge for transportation to and from school.
- 87 percent feel adult and community education programs are important and 30 percent of all Michigan adults have enrolled in an adult or community education class during the last two years.
- 26 percent believe schools should offer more computer instruction for their students and 67 percent agree that "computer literacy" should be a high school graduation requirement.
- 47 percent of all citizens gave public schools a "good" or "excellent" rating on the way they spend their money and 28 percent ranked them "fair" on this question.
- 68 percent oppose a four-day school week to reduce energy costs.

Runkel said the statewide survey, which is conducted as part of the State Board of Education's "Project Outreach," provides the Governor, the Legislature and the State Board with statewide data on major issues facing public education in Michigan.

The survey also provides local and intermediate school boards with benchmark comparative data for surveys they are doing with the same questionnaire.

Project Outreach Director Ned S. Hubbell, a national expert on education polls, coordinated the survey and wrote the 31-page report that interprets the responses made by the 800 persons who participated in the poll. The sample size was based on a 95 percent confidence that sampling error does not exceed 3.5 percent, Hubbell said.

Copies of an executive summary of the poll may be obtained by writing Project Outreach, P.O. Box 30008, Lansing, MI 48909.

Neighborhood Club softball turns sweet sixteen with big year

The Neighborhood Club's 16th girls softball program provided an exciting season for 463 girls and their 100 volunteer coaches. In the 200 games played there were many close ones, lots of outstanding plays and some very unusual situations.

Of the 32 teams grades three to eight, only one failed to win a game. Playoffs for the Midgie League, grades five and six, and Midi League, grades seven and eight, once again held some surprises.

The Midgie League tournament saw the undefeated Gulliver's Travel Inc. Flyers sweep to victory with six straight wins. The Flyers defeated the Maxwell Shutterbugs, 6-4, in the finals. The Shutterbugs had already defeated the second place Sine Realty Sluggers twice to make it to the finals. The Sluggers settled for third after an 8-1 league performance.

Upsets were the name of the game in the Midi League as both the first and second place teams were eliminated early. Fran Kirkland's Needlers came out of the losers bracket to make the finals against Edmund T. Ahee Jewelers.

Lakeshore Optimist Club, with a 5-4 league record, surprised the pack by winning their first three tournament games to finish third.

The Needlers and Ahee met in the finals with the Needlers taking the first game 7-5 to force a second contest. The second game was close, but the Needlers came out on top with an 8-7 victory. In both games, Ahee had chances to take the game in the seventh inning.

The Needlers are Tina Miller, Laura Linn, Holly Elliot, Liz

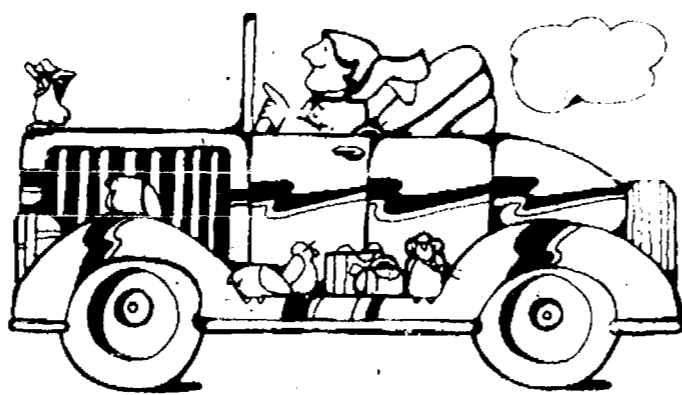

Ament, Sara Dajani, Victoria Morreale, Andi Bagne, Shelly Kritzman, Katy Turner, Nicole Sick, May Younes, Cabolina Gaskins, Susan Griffin and coaches Phillip Griffin and Georgia Gaskins.

Weapons have been made by men, water has been carried by women, historically. But the crafting of jewelry has been equal-opportunity work from the outset.

Surveytakers have learned widowers are far more likely than the widows to die within a year or so after the deaths of their spouses.
