It's about time

St. Paul Cemetery on Moross Road was the site of archeological activity Tuesday afternoon as archeologists sought to locate the exact gravesite of the Reverend John F. Elsen, who was responsible for the building of St. Paul Church, located on Lakeshore Road. The first service held in the church was Father Elsen's funeral service in 1898.

The present pastor of the church, Monsignor Francis X. Canfield, said there aren't any plans to move the grave, just to locate it exactly so it could be marked properly. The gravesite was originally marked with a white picket fence and a large wooden cross, but over the years its location was lost to memory as the site deteriorated.

"Now that we're celebrating our 150th anniversary next year as a parish, we felt it would be appropriate to identify precisely where he is buried and erect a stone marker in prayerful memory," said Monsignor Canfield. "This is meant to remember the priest who was really responsible for the building of this great church."

So long, Jo!

It is with heavy heart that this columnist reports the imminent departure of one of our best and hardest working reporters. Joanne Gouleche, who's been with the Grosse Pointe News for the past five years, is leaving to pursue other interests.

Jo's last official day tied to her typewriter is tomorrow. At 5 p.m. Friday, News Editor Susan McDonald will unlock the chains securing her to her desk, and bid Jo a fond farewell amid the tears and cheers of her co-workers.

Over the past few years, Jo's "beats" have included the Park, the City and the schools. Of the three, the most difficult to oversee is the schools. The subject of possible school closings, school taxes, declining school population and contract talks have often raised emotions to a fever pitch in this community, but Jo has always managed to walk that fine line of accuracy and objectivity that sometimes enrages everyone involved with an issue.

It may be hard to accept, but reporters believe that when everyone accuses you of favoritism in a story, then you're doing your job correctly.

Because of these and other qualities, (plus a willingness to laugh at all my terrible jokes), Jo will be deeply missed at this paper.

A replacement for Ms. Gouleche has yet to be named, but because of the high qualifications required, the paper has narrowed the choice to either ABC's Peter Jennings or the National Lampoon's Chevy Chase.

Pick up or delivery?

Our Chutzpa Award of the Week has to go to 20-year-old Michelle Marion, of Plymouth. You may have seen her ad in last week's Grosse Pointe News asking for a "generous person to donate a 1983 Sporty Corvette" because while "it's fun to be young" the "real world can be difficult."

Michelle, a senior this year at Adrian College, told us she didn't really expect to get a "Vette" this way, but thought she'd give it a try anyway. "I remembered reading about someone else asking for a Ferrari and getting it," she said with a laugh. "The only call I (Continued on Page 2A)

Teachers threaten to delay school

40 issues stall contract talks

By Joanne Gouleche

Grosse Pointe teachers Tuesday threatened to prolong summer vacation for some 7,400 local students by scheduling a strike vote.

Teacher union president Curt Lange said Tuesday no progress had been made in contract talks with the Board of Education and added his membership was to meet Wednesday, Aug. 31, to vote on whether to return to work Sept. 6.

Lange said members would be given the option of returning to classrooms without a contract, but added: "based upon the status of bargaining we are proceeding with the job action vote this Wednesday (Aug. 31). If members return without a contract, they are extremely vulnerable."

The current contract for Grosse Pointe's 500 teachers expired yesterday, Aug. 31. Students are scheduled to return to school on Wednesday, Sept. 7.

School spokesman Bruce Kefgen termed negotiations with the union and the board "tedious and somewhat slower than expected because both the union and management have advanced proposals of considerable significance."

On the bargaining table are at least 40 outstanding proposals from both sides. Lange said, including a proposal to increase teachers' workday by 45 minutes. Lange has called the proposal "offensive," criticizing the board for not providing specifics on the plan at the bargaining table.

According to school spokesman Kefgen, the proposal is intended to increase contact between teachers and students and between teachers and parents.

"Included in that time is, of course, a duty-free lunch period and an ample amount of planning and preparation time," Kefgen said. "Since Grosse Pointe teachers already are by far the highest paid among teachers in NEA-MEA Local 1 (comprised of unions in 17 school districts in Wayne and Macomb counties), such a proposal does not seem 'offensive' to management but rather in the best interests of students and the community."

Lange said his membership's salary rank with other Local 1 teachers is "not relevant" and added current teacher salaries are based on negotiations with the board in 1981.

"Grosse Pointe teachers are earning a certain salary for a certain amount of working hours," Lange said. "With this proposal there is over a 10 percent increase in the working day. (The board) has not proposed an adjustment that is commensurate with the increase in the school day."

Under the 1981 teacher-board negotiated settlement, starting salary for a teacher with a master's degree is $18,882. A teacher with a master's degree and 11 years in the school system makes $32,036 under the current contract.

Other non-economic disputes for both bargaining teams include the displacement of teachers as the result of proposed school closings next year. Lange said the current contract for teachers does not make provisions for teachers who have to transfer if a school is closed.

Do you promise to love, honor — and run?

It didn't promise to be your average wedding and it didn't start in your average way. To kick off the day of their marriage, Brian Bradley and Rosalie Tocco staged the B and R Marathon, gathering about 30 of their friends and relatives for a three mile run at 8 a.m. last Saturday.

Rosalie wore a mini-wedding veil and carried a small bouquet of flowers, while Brian was decked out in a black formal running shirt with black bow tie.

The run started and finished at the Tocco residence on Middlesex, in the Park, and runners were urged to finish the three mile course either by running, walking, crawling, biking or hitchhiking. On the entrance form, runners were also good naturedly reminded that "injuries incurred during this event were liable to Brian and Ro only" and were urged to "seek civil court action against them."

Everyone apparently had a good time with the exception of Angelo Tocco, 28, who reportedly suffered heat exhaustion and was aided by the Park Fire Department.

One-way street debate heats up

By Mike Andrzejczyk

It is a typical neighborhood. Kids play along streets with well-trimmed lawns and neighbors keep an eye out for each other. It is almost a picture of suburbia, except for one thing.

One-way street signs have made the northwest area of the Woods the focus of a lot of attention from police, public officials and the media.

For the media, it's a good story in what's normally a slow time of the year. It has all the elements — controversy, political infighting and name-calling.

But for residents of Brys Drive and to a lesser extent all the streets in the area of the Woods bounded by Mack, Vernier, Helen and Old Eight Mile, it is a continuing fight to find a solution to a common problem.

The trouble is traffic, everyone agrees. Who's to blame and what should be done about it, however, bring divergent opinions about a problem that requires some cooperation, compromise and creativity to solve.

Raymond and Diane Bedard have lived on Brys for 14 years. In that time, they've learned to live with the 2,600 to 3,000 cars a day that use their street.

They've also learned to live with the number of minor accidents that have occurred over the years; cars clipping trees, retaining walls and fences. There's been nothing major, where anyone was seriously hurt or killed, Mrs. Bedard points out. But some day, there will be a serious, possibly even fatal accident in the area that will highlight the heavy use the street gets as the main shortcut from Harper to Mack.

A traffic count for the street done in a 1979 Goodell-Grivas traffic study of the entire northwest Woods and contiguous Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores neighborhood showed Brys getting 2,406 cars a day. The only other street in the area to record more than 1,000 was Anita, where 1,218 cars travelled from Helen to Mack. The rest averaged about 700 a day.

While the one-ways are "not as good as they could be," Mrs. Bedard said they have had a definite effect on the amount of traffic along the street. With the decrease in traffic has come a decrease in noise, odor and an increase in the safety of the street, she added.

"It's been a long, long fight to get some relief for the area," she said. "Brys is the same as Vernier without the lights."

While the traffic changes have meant an inconvenience for the Bedards as they try to head to Mack, they are willing to put up with it because of the distinct advantage of decreased traffic, Mrs. Bedard said.

McNeill quits Park council

Park city councilman Roger McNeill unexpectedly resigned from his post Tuesday, Aug. 30, saying his increased responsibilities as a surgeon at Bon Secours Hospital and in private practice leave him no time to adequately serve the community.

Dr. McNeill's term on the council was to expire this November. He sought and won a spot on the fall ballot in last month's primary election and his name will appear in November despite his resignation because of election rules.

Mayor Douglas Graham said the council will not name a successor to Dr. McNeill because the charter forbids such an appointment within 90 days of an election. Five active candidates are seeking three council seats currently held by McNeill, John Prost and Anthony Spada. Candidates include the two incumbents, David

Dr. Roger McNeill

Gaskin, John Ryan and Vernon Ausherman.

Dr. McNeill resigned in a letter to the Park city clerk on Tuesday morning. He said his professional responsibilities have recently increased and he now is putting in more than 80 hours a week on the job.

"Had I known about this before, I wouldn't even have run in the primary," the 11-year veteran of the council said.

10 percent hike

Tax hearing tonight

By Joanne Gouleche

A year ago when Grosse Pointe school board trustees sat down to set the tax rate for the school system, the meeting lasted about five minutes and drew no comments from local residents.

That's probably because the school board was proposing no tax increase, deciding to rollback millage and leave residents paying the same amount of taxes as they did in the previous year.

This evening's public hearing on the school system's 1983 tax rate could very well last longer than five minutes and may draw protests from residents, especially in light of the district's declining enrollment and proposals to close schools.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. tonight in board offices, 389

St. Clair.

Because of last year's zero tax hike, the Board of Education will propose an almost 10 percent tax increase to "catch up" on lost revenues.

School administrators say they have used up reserves to subsidize last year's budget and they need the new revenues to fund this year's $36.4 million spending plan adopted by the board in July.

School business director Christian Fenton also indicated the system expects the tax hike to take care of salary increases that may add up at the bargaining table with local teachers this month, but added there has been "no definite amount set aside for teachers."

Deadline change

If you want to buy an advertisement or submit a press release for use in the Sept. 8 edition of the Grosse Pointe News, you're going to have to do it a little earlier than usual. The deadlines for news, sports and some display advertisements have been moved up because of the Labor Day holiday.

Deadlines for that issue only are as follows:

• News and Sports press releases — 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2. The deadline for Second Section (society) copy remains Thursday, Sept. 1, as usual.

• Display advertisements for the Sports, Second Section and real estate brokers — 4 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 2.

Efforts to call or bring in classified advertisements before 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2 will be appreciated. The News office will be closed Monday, Sept. 5.

Park puts bite on 24 hour eateries

By Susan McDonald

A city code forcing restaurants in the Park to close down between 2 and 5 a.m. went into effect today despite threats from business owners that they will take the city to court over the matter.

Residents who petitioned city council for the new law, led by JoAnn Kelly, of Westchester Road, scored a victory with the council when it met this week and refused to reconsider the change in code. The law was originally passed in October, 1982, but the council postponed its effective date twice after owners of three local restaurants complained it was discriminatory and would cut their profits.

Mrs. Kelly and her neighbors directed their complaints against the Steak 'N Egg Kitchen, on East Jefferson Avenue, a small, 24-hour restaurant that has been operating at that location for more than 30 years. They said the Kitchen primarily attracts patrons coming from bars after 2 a.m. who are loud and boisterous and often disrupt the residential neighborhood.

But the new ordinance also will affect the Tower Restaurant, near the bus stop on East Jefferson, and Mama Rosa's Pizzeria, on Mack Avenue, whose owners claim they'll lose 15 percent of their business under the new law.

Brian McMahon, an attorney representing Dobbs House, parent company of the 200-restaurant Steak 'N Egg chain, blamed the council's decision on the upcoming municipal elections. Two councilmen and Mayor Douglas Graham are facing opposition at the polls in November.

McMahon warned that the ordinance will put the city "in an extensive legal battle with Dobbs House."

School Board considers 10 percent tax hike

percentage increase awarded to local teachers, taxpayers can also expect an additional six-tenths of a percent increase on tax bills.

At the special meeting this evening, trustees will propose operating the school system, including the library, by levying 30.88 mills, less than the school tax levy authorized by voters last March. (A mill equals $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property). For the typical taxpayer with a $50,000 state equalized valuation of property, that will mean $140 more in taxes this year.

Business director Fenton said for every $10,000 in state equalized valuation of property, taxes will go up about $28. Last year residents with a home valued at $100,000 paid about $1,400 in school taxes. This year, if the school board adopts its proposed tax rate at its regular meeting on Sept. 12, taxes will jump to about $1,500 for those same residents.

Although it represents a millage rollback, the tax hike will bring in about $3 million more into school system coffers to operate the general, library and debt funds.

Last March voters narrowly approved a three-year school tax levy of 35.30 mills, which includes a county allocation of 8.65 mills. Since the election, the county allocation has dropped to 7.65 mills, reducing the authorized millage for the school board to 34.30 mills.

Under the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment, the 34.30 mills has been reduced to 33.75 mills, according to the school system. This evening the school board is proposing to rollback about 2.8 mills beyond Headlee to 30.88 mills.

During the March millage election, several residents complained bitterly that school taxes are already too high when classroom attendance is at such a low. Enrollment has declined more than 40 percent since its peak in 1972 of 13,400 children.

School administrators defended the proposed millage package, indicating the school board has cut tax rates for the last four years and was not to blame for increases in property value assessments, which caused some tax bills to rise.

received was from someone wanting to know how I expected to get one."

Michelle said she chose the Grosse Pointe News because she has friends living in the city, so she "thought she'd try out here." Actually, Michelle said she'd take any donated car. Right now she's riding to work on a bicycle. She's been earning money for school this summer by cleaning houses. She said she looked around for other employment, but couldn't find any, so decided to hire herself out.

Finding out what the real world is like has changed Michelle. She's now ready to accept any Corvette, even a 1982, and the color really doesn't matter.

"My parents had different thoughts about my placing the ad," said Michelle. "My dad laughed and thought it was funny. My mother said I'd be bothered by all kinds of weirdo's. Then you called."

Was that a shot?

Check it out

I did a double take driving down Mack Avenue the other day. While tooling past the Ram's Horn, I noticed water streaming down the outside of the windows on the restaurant's new greenhouse type expansion.

A quick call to the eatery cleared up the mystery. When the addition was built (it was finished about six weeks ago), the architect added sprayers to the top of the windows. These sprayers work constantly, (except in the rain), providing a stream of water over the windows with two main benefits, according to owners William and Steve Scandalis.

The first is that the water helps cool the huge addition, which can seat up to 70 persons. The second is that it provides a nice atmosphere to the room — the feeling of being in a cooling rainstorm.

According to the owners, the water is sprayed, runs down the windows, is collected in troughs and moved to a collecting tank where it's filtered. Then it's pumped back up to the top of the addition.

What a neat idea.

Teachers

School spokesman Bruce Keften said the board does not agree with the union's view that teachers should be reassigned on a seniority basis if schools are closed. "To do so would be to place the wishes of an individual teacher above the needs of students, the instructional program and the community," Keften said.

"As a matter of fact, the latter statement summarizes fairly well the position of the two parties — the union team has been advancing proposals which it feels will benefit the majority of its membership while the management team has been countering with proposals which are intended to benefit students and the community," Keften added.

On salary proposals, union president Lange declined to comment on the union's offer but has called it "very reasonable." Spokesman for the board Keften also called the trustee's offer "very reasonable."

"The management team feels that its counter offer, in light of the modest inflation rate and the substantial salary and fringe benefit increases paid over the past several years, is very reasonable," Keften said.

Lange said Tuesday his membership is still committed to reach a settlement before the opening day of school.

"However, if we don't reach a settlement, we don't feel there is any viable alternative," Lange said.

The last time local teachers walked a picket line was in 1969 for one and a half days.

Statewide there are at least 13 school districts where teachers are on strike affecting about 43,500 students. According to a spokesman for the state Department of Education, there were 30 school strikes in Michigan last year.

Cable TV takes a look at itself

This fall Wayne State University will offer a television series over the College Cable Channel. Entitled "Cable TV as Educational Media," the 20-program telecourse has been designed for those who want to learn about the many educational uses of cable television.

Guests from local cable companies, libraries, schools and the university contribute their expertise on topics such as the history of cable TV, the franchising process, public access program development, and the many educational applications of cable TV.

Executive producer for the series is Alvin L. Edelson of Wayne State's center for Instructional Technology. Barbara Johnson Low, educational liaison for Continental Cablevision of Southfield, hosts the programs.

The telecourse begins on Monday, Sept. 19, with programs cablecast on Monday and Thursday at 5 p.m. and 5 a.m. Both programs are repeated on Sundays from 5 to 6 p.m.

Registration for the two credit-hour course (Instructional Technology 512) continues through Sept. 10 at off-campus centers of Wayne State's College of Lifelong Learning. The first orientation meeting will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 6, at 6 p.m. at the Birmingham Extension Center, 13 Mile Road and Evergreen.

For course and registration information, call Linda Robertson at 577-2258.

Pointers join march

By Susan McDonald

Last weekend's march on Washington D.C. united a wide variety of interest groups in opposition to the administration of President Ronald Reagan, according to Grosse Pointers who made the trip.

About six Pointers traveled to Washington last weekend with a contingent from the United Auto Workers.

Dave Elsila, of the Park, editor of the UAW's magazine Solidarity, was one of many who were also present at the 1983 march to the capital led by the Reverend Martin Luther King, Jr. He said he found last weekend's rally to be much more broad.

"There seems to be developing a coalition of people who are concerned about civil rights, the military build-up and the environment. I think the policies of the Reagan administration are forcing these people together," Elsila said. He added there appeared to be twice as many whites at the recent rally than at 1983's.

Mark Hardesty, another UAW staff member from the Park, agreed that the march added momentum to organized opposition to Reagan.

"I think the most important thing that will come from the (march) is the impetus it gave people to work to defeat Reagan," Hardesty said. "I was glad to see the issues of peace and disarmament were supported by so many people and linked to our economic protest."

Hardesty was accompanied by his wife, Kathy Barrett, a Baton Rouge, La., native. She said she made the trip to Washington because she thinks the nation's attitude toward minorities has not improved much since she became involved in the civil rights movement in her hometown in 1962. "I think the same problems exist today and in some cases are worse... more so in the north," she said.

Elsila and his wife Katie took their three children along to the march. She said it was an experience her 11-year-old son and 8-year-old twins will never forget. "It was inspiring and very exciting to be there, among a mass of solid people for as far as the eye could see... banded together for jobs, peace and freedom, the theme of the march," Ms. Elsila said.

Police reportedly estimated the marchers to number more than 200,000. They heard several dozen speakers.

Art exhibition at Wild Wings

Artist Jim Foote, carver Tom Shumate and taxidermist Frank Newmyer will present an exhibition of original paintings, limited edition prints, carvings and taxidermy Saturday, Sept. 10, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Wild Wings Gallery, 1 Kercheval in the Farms.

Refreshments will be served. The show will be repeated the next day at the Wild Wings Gallery in Plymouth, 975 West Ann Arbor Trail.

For more information, call 455-3400 or 885-4001.

Andrew and Jeffrey Maurer, two of 1983's UF Torchlighters.

Maurer twins are Torchlighters

Andrew and Jeffrey Maurer, 4, of the Woods have been selected as two of the 1983 United Foundation Torchlighters and will represent the thousands of people throughout Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties who receive help from Torch Drive-supported charitable organizations.

Twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Maurer, the boys will participate in the lighting of the United Foundation torch at the foot of Woodward Avenue on the eve of the Torch Drive, and appear at a variety of campaign luncheons, meetings and rallies throughout the fall campaign.

The reporting phase of this year's Torch Drive will run from Oct. 17 through Nov. 10.

Andrew and Jeffrey were born two months premature. Because of a low birth weight and other complications, the children were placed in a neonatal intensive care unit where they stayed for little over a month.

It wasn't until nearly two years later that it was learned that the children have cerebral palsy. Andrew's condition was confirmed in 1981 and Jeffrey's in 1982 at the Detroit Institute for Children (DIC).

Both boys are now undergoing weekly occupational and physical therapy at DIC. The parents say the children have shown marked improvement in muscle control since they started therapy. Jeffrey began walking with the aid of a walker last fall and Andrew has started to crawl. Jeffrey underwent surgery at Children's Hospital of Michigan this summer to further assist his walking.

Detroit Institute for Children, which received $806,583 from the 1982 Torch Drive, has been a pioneer in the care and treatment of youngsters with cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, polio and arthritis.

The Institute's programming is the only one of its kind in Michigan and has served as a model for development of comprehensive health programs for orthopaedically impaired children throughout the U.S.

Others serving as 1983 Torchlighters include Jason Ford, 13, of Hazel Park, a patient at the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan; Virginia Hunter, 60, of Detroit, who attends the Walter P. Reuther Retirement Center and Robert Dougherty, 18, of Sterling Heights, a member of the Clinton Valley Boy Scouts; and Muiywa Taiwo, 6, of Detroit, a patient at the Epilepsy Center of Michigan.

New historical society forms

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Did you know the Grosse Pointes were once a part of Hamtramck?

You would if you had attended the first meeting of the Eastern Wayne County Historical Society held last Sunday at the Park Place Cafe, 15400 Mack in the Park.

The meeting was called to discuss the new organization by State Sen. John Kelly. While still in the organizing stage, Kelly hopes to form a multi-municipal organization that can act as a support group for the historical commissions in communities east of Woodward in Wayne County.

Many of the communities share common historical facts, Kelly pointed out, such as once belonging to a single township or city. By developing oral and written historical tracts and designating certain historical sites, a sense of unity and community can be formed in the areas, he said.

While office space for the historical society is being provided in Kelly's district office on East

Warren, the senator said he will take a less active role in the society once the officers are elected and a membership is set.

One of his interests in the group, besides being a history buff, is that the common sense of community and identity offered by discovering historical origins that can enhance the value of a community, Kelly said.

With an estimated $3 billion in residential property alone in the district, the fostering of a common identity for a community can only enhance that value, he said.

People from the Grosse Pointes, Harper Woods and Detroit appeared at the Sunday meeting to begin developing a structure for the group, Kelly said. The group opted for a decentralized sub-committee structure, with the sub-committees being based on the boundaries of old communities and neighborhoods.

In addition, the group is making contact with the various ethnic societies and local historical societies to help put together a working group that represents all the communities.

Panel seeks new uses for school buildings

By Joanne Gouleche

A school committee surveying outside interest in vacant school property in Grosse Pointe is getting some response to the possibility.

Karen Knudson, member of the public school's Excess Space Committee, said response to a recent letter sent to "community-wide" groups like the League of Women Voters, the Rotary, the Lions Club and other service organizations in the area has indicated interest in possible use of empty school buildings by some groups.

Although she didn't name which groups have already expressed an interest, Ms. Knudson said some persons responded "very quickly" to the idea because of the recent publicity surrounding the school closing issue in Grosse Pointe. The space committee has asked groups to indicate their interest by Sept. 9.

While cautioning that no decision has been made as to whether any school building would be available for non-student use in the future, Ms. Knudson said the nearly 80 letters the group mailed are only inquiries right now.

The letters were sent to "anybody in the school district who we could identify as potential users of school property," Ms. Knudson said. Specifically, the letter asks potential users what school buildings they would be interested in occupying, day and time of use, amount of parking space required and how much the group is willing to pay for the use of the space.

The Board of Education appointed the space committee in June to look closely at the school system's 16 buildings and determine how excess space within the facilities could be used by community groups. Currently the 18-member space committee is touring the school system's 16 buildings. So far, there has been no final decision on what schools may close. The school board will vote on a final reorganization plan this November.

At a special board meeting in S. Clair, Mich. last month, trustees and central office administrators drew up a revised school reorganization plan that would close Barnes, Maire and Mason elementaries, along with Pierce Middle School. According to zoning descriptions of the three elementaries, Barnes and Mason are listed as "community facilities" and Maire is designated as "single family residential."

At the St. Clair meeting, administrators said they have identified 50 to 60 classrooms which could be used differently than they are now.

While the school system would have first priority over vacant classrooms or buildings, the Excess Space Committee has identified at least 16 uses for school property, including an adult education program, senior housing, a latch key program, a hospice program and a community college.

The committee is expected to file its recommendations to the school board by Oct. 3.

Bank chairman is honored

Grosse Pointe resident Dean E. Richardson, chairman of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, is recipient of the National Jewish Hospital and Research Center/National Asthma Center's National Humanitarian Award.

The award, which will be presented on Sept. 22 at Detroit's Westin Hotel, recognizes persons who have demonstrated "great humanitarian concern and outstanding community service."

Comic controversy

He may be "horribly" cute, but the Wayne County Road Commission last week said Hagar, the new tree stump sculpture on East Jefferson Avenue, must go. The commission, responding to a complaint from Park city hall, ordered the homeowner who commissioned Hagar to move the sculpture off the county right-of-way on East Jefferson and on to private property. The commission gave him 30 days to comply, or said it would move the stump itself.

Some are concerned that the sculpture, copied from the "Hagar the Horrible" comic strip, may cause a traffic hazard. But the homeowner who commissioned artist Ken Boshell to carve Hagar said it has caused nothing but joy in his neighborhood, especially among youngsters. He said he is investigating similar situations in search of a way to avoid the Wayne County order.

"I wonder how the community feels about this," the homeowner, who asked not to be identified, said. "Maybe they will let your newspaper know what they think."

PIRGIM to organize in Pointes

PIRGIM, the Public Interest Research Group in Michigan, began organizing local support in the Grosse Pointes last month, according to a press release from its Royal Oak office.

PIRGIM members began seeking local support in the City, Woods and Park on Aug. 29. The group's two issues of major concern are the problems of toxic waste disposal and fast-rising utility costs.

For more information about the group, call 545-5655 or write to its Consumer Assistance Center at 113 1/2 North Washington, Royal Oak, 48067.

Kelly proposes tax rollback

State Sen. John Kelly, D-Detroit, said he will propose legislation calling for the rollback of the state income tax proportionate to any state budget surplus.

The state may have its second budget surplus in as many years. In fiscal 1981-82, the state realized a $600,000 surplus because of budget cuts and a temporary tax increase.

Estimates of this year's surplus range from $15 million to $150 million, depending on the agency reporting the amount. Regardless, Kelly has asked that legislation be prepared that would require the state to roll back the tax rate in proportion to the size of the surplus.

Should the state have a $150 million surplus, the income tax rate could be rolled back .25 percent, Kelly said, since every .05 percent of the rate generates $30 million.

In addition, the rate will drop .25 percent Jan. 1, 1984, from 6.35 to 6.1 percent, Kelly's office said.

Kelly said the legislation is designed to counter any excess in spending in existing departments or programs or prevent new programs that the state can't afford to implement. The legislation is not a repudiation of his vote on the tax increase, Kelly said. His vote made him a target for recall, along with a number of other Democratic and Republican legislators.

Other legislators and administration officials said the surplus should be kept in a budgeted stabilization fund to help the state through bad times down the road. Such a fund was established in 1977 by the Legislature; but ran out of money in 1980.

Learn editorial cartooning

Arkie G. Hudkins Jr., editorial cartoonist whose work appears in the Grosse Pointe News and in other newspapers across the country, will teach two classes this fall for the Department of Community Education of the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

The first of these, "Cartooning as an Art Form," has been scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 20, and is a single-session introductory presentation which is designed to whet the appetite. Hudkins describes it as a quick trip through history on the pins and brushes of editorial cartoonists Raphael, Daumier, Nast, Mauldin and MacNelly.

The second class, "Basics of Editorial Cartooning," begins Sept. 27. Hudkins describes it as a "humorous eight-week course in understanding and drawing that elusive cartoon without 10 years of art classes crammed with line, shape, form, texture and color." Hudkins, a resident of Grosse Pointe Park, has a Bachelor's of fine arts degree from the University of Kansas.

Enrollment forms and further information on registration procedures will be found in the green flyer mailed to residences in the Grosse Pointe school district late in August.

Call 343-2178 for further information.

Try-outs scheduled for 'On A Clear Day'

Jack Petz, director for Grosse Pointe Theater's production of "On A Clear Day You Can See Forever," announced that open auditions will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 7 and Thursday, Sept. 8 at 315 Fisher Road, the home of Grosse Pointe Theater.

The theater welcomes singers who would like to act and actors who love to sing.

What Every Grosse Pointe Resident Should Know About the Proposed School Closings.

The proposal by the Grosse Pointe Board of Education and Superintendent Brummel will have far-reaching social, educational and economic effects on every resident of Grosse Pointe. The erosion of the neighborhood school concept is the first step in eliminating the Pointes as an ideal community to buy a home, raise a family and educate your children.

The impact of this decision will be felt not only by people who have children in school now . . . but also on residents who want to sell their homes one day. Ask any Grosse Pointe realtor, and they will assure you that the close proximity of schools is one of the biggest considerations in home buying in the Grosse Pointes. We appreciate that this is an emotional topic. One that calls for careful thought and consideration. So we would like you to consider some facts.

Fact: The closing of the 4 schools — Pierce, Maire, Mason, and Barnes would represent a total savings of $785,000. This amounts to a mere 2% of the district's 1983-84 budget of $36.6 million dollars. If all four schools are closed, the net savings to property owners would be 74 cents per $1,000 of state equalized valuation. To be specific, it would be a savings of $37 a year in taxes on a home with a market value of $100,000.

Question: Since there is no viable financial reason to close our elementary schools, and no substantial tax savings to you — are you willing to risk a decrease in property value to your home due to the closing of Neighborhood Elementary Schools?

Fact: The consolidation of elementary schools will mean overcrowding. For example, Richard school would have approximately 54 students above capacity.

Question: Is this consistent with your concept of quality education?

Fact: Children as young as Kindergarten age will be made to walk from 1.2 to over two miles to school every day. This proposal raises serious concerns about the safety and transportation of our children. To be specific, Mason students would be required to attend Poupard school in Harper Woods. This necessitates the crossing of the I-94 expressway. Question: Is this going to increase the likelihood of busing? Here's what we believe: "The Grosse Pointe citizens do NOT have to accept this proposal. We support our schools — we pay our taxes — we pass our millages — and we always have. Our school system has money and it comes from us, therefore — our Grosse Pointe school board must listen to us and act accordingly."

If you share our concern, please attend our meeting at Maire school, 740 Cadieux Road, September 13, 1983, 7:30 P.M. — in the auditorium.

Family searches for missing woman

The brother of a 39-year-old Warren woman missing for a month said police and family have extended their search to cover the entire state.

William Roberts, of Roslyn Road in the Woods, is the brother of Helen Bazzetta who was reported missing to Warren police Tuesday, Aug. 2. Mrs. Bazzetta was last seen pulling into the driveway of her home in the 11 Mile-Hoover area in Warren the afternoon before.

According to police, Mrs. Bazzetta apparently returned from a round of golf at the Fern Hill Country Club and some shopping and banking the afternoon of Monday, Aug. 1. Grocery bags were found in the kitchen and Mrs. Bazzetta's golf bag was found in the garage.

The next day, Mrs. Bazzetta's 1983 brown Plymouth Horizon

Tourismo was found parked and locked in the parking lot of Oakland Mall, 14 Mile and Dequindre, 10 miles from the family's home.

Since then, Mrs. Bazzetta's relatives and family have organized searches of Macomb and Oakland counties and distributed more than 15,000 photographs and flyers asking people who may have seen Mrs. Bazzetta after 2 p.m. Monday, Aug. 1, to call the Warren Police Department at 574-4771.

Despite the searches, the second of which covered 125 square miles, and televised appeals, Roberts said police have still been unable to locate her or substantiate any clues about her whereabouts.

The family received help from more than 1,000 volunteers ranging from Boy Scouts, dirt bikers, joggers and citizen band radio clubs in searching and transmitting information about Mrs. Bazzetta.

Mrs. Bazzetta, formerly Helen Copeland, is described as being 5 feet, 6 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds, with blue eyes and frosted blond hair. She is believed to be wearing a green and yellow floral golf dress, the same one she was wearing the day she disappeared.

"Helen Bazzetta is an ordinary, hard-working, reliable housewife... and we, Helen's family, never believed anything like this would happen to us," Roberts said. "But it did, and it could happen to one of your readers and their families. Because of this, we believe people will be interested in knowing about Helen Bazzetta."

Roberts urges anyone who has seen Mrs. Bazzetta or has any information regarding her whereabouts to call their local or state police immediately.

Park joins protest of Edison rates

The Park city council last week became the second Pointe governing body to join the growing protest against Detroit Edison's latest request for a rate increase.

The council approved a resolution Monday, Aug. 22, opposing the electric utility's request for increases in residential and municipal rates and directing its attorneys to follow the case through hearings before the state Public Service Commission.

Edison has asked for a 36.78 percent hike in order to finance operation of its Enrico Fermi II and Belle River nuclear power plants. The increases would be effective in three steps between January and July of 1984.

James A. Smith, an attorney with the Park's firm, Bodman, Longley & Dahling, said the proposed rate increases appear to disproportionately penalize cities, which pay a separate rate for street lighting systems. He said the Park has filed a petition of intervention in the case, but did not encourage the community to become actively involved in the hearings that may last as long as 100 days.

Smith said the rate hike will finance three new production units for Edison "that were started at a time when (the Detroit area's) expected growth was much greater" than it is today. He indicated the utility will have excess capacity when the three plants become completely operational.

City Manager John Crawford said if the proposed increases are approved, the city's street light electrical bill will jump from $280,000 to about $400,000 a year. Woods officials estimated it could cost the city as much as $250,000 a year. Other cities will be similarly affected.

What to do with surplus?

There is something for both Republicans and Democrats in the reports that the state of Michigan will end its fiscal year Sept. 30 with a surplus.

Republicans in the Legislature who voted almost unanimously against the 36 percent increase in the state income tax that is largely responsible for the expected surplus can say, "I told you so." They opposed the income tax boost recommended by Gov. Blanchard on the grounds that it was higher than required to balance the state budget. The expected surplus appears to bear them out.

BUT DEMOCRATS can retort with some justification that the surplus of $25.5 million estimated by the state Department of Management and Budget is not a surplus of major proportions, even though the surplus of $149.9 million estimated by the state Senate Fiscal Agency is of more generous proportions. In fact, if all of the $25.5 million were returned to the taxpayers, it would amount to only $3 per capita and even if the surplus reached $149.9 million, a rebate would only rise to about $16 per capita. So the surplus is not exactly a bonanza.

It is also true that the income tax, which had been boosted from 4.6 percent to 6.35 percent earlier this year, will start dropping on Jan. 1. It will fall to 6.1 percent on that date and to 5.35 percent in 1985, and it could go even lower under the formula written into the income tax revision.

If, however, the economic recovery that now appears on the horizon continues to thrive, state revenues are likely to continue to rise, even as the tax rate declines. That possibility raises the question as to whether, if the surplus continues to grow, the state then should take action to roll back the income tax rate or refund the tax surplus.

State Sen. John Kelly, whose district includes the Pointes, already is on record in favor of refunding or rolling back the income tax increase based on the size of the surplus. Kelly, who voted for the income tax increase, put out a press release saying, "It behooves us to stand up for the working men and women of this state, to correct our revenue projections and to reduce their tax burden." He added that he would "not endorse a philosophy that advocates spending money just because we have it."

IN OUR VIEW, however, it is too early to decide to return the expected surplus to the voters. In the first place, nobody yet knows and won't know until some time after Oct. 1 just what the surplus will be. In the second place, the economic recovery is so fragile at the moment that nobody is certain about the prospects for next year. In the third place, some of the state agencies that were forced to take cuts totalling $225 million for the current year probably could make justifiable claims on some of the surplus, however big it is.

If the economic signals remain turned to "go" and the surplus continues to accumulate, there will be time next year to decide what to do with it. There also would be time to review the income tax rates once again and phase out the increase even earlier than called for in the current law if economic conditions justify that action.

THE DANGER, of course, is that surpluses automatically generate demands for spending on some new program or an increase in spending on a current program backed by special interests. However, we doubt that frivolous spending requests will get much attention from even the Democratic Legislature in view of the controversy over the income tax increase and the campaigns to recall the governor and legislators who voted for it.

John Lauve and his recall cohorts may have accomplished something after all.

How important is a tax break?

To the Editor:

Much has been discussed about whether Grosse Pointers can afford to maintain their neighborhood schools in the face of declining enrollment. In fact, can Grosse Pointers afford to close their neighborhood schools?

Grosse Pointe is not like other communities that have closed schools. Much of the housing stock is old. A major factor in the stability of our property values is the proximity and quality of our neighborhood schools. Real estate agents do not deny this.

Neighborhoods that would be most affected by closings contain housing stock that is the most attractive to young families moving into the area. When young families find out that the nearest elementary school is over a mile away, will they want to buy these homes? What happens to these neighborhoods? If four schools close, the average tax savings, according to school board sources, is $37 per household per year. What happens to school tax savings when property values decline and revenues do, too? What happens to the health and the quality of life in the total community when it loses its youth? What happens to everyone's property values?

What about the quality of our schools? The projected decline in enrollment over the next five years in our elementary schools is only 8 percent. Two of the three elementary schools targeted to close are at capacity. Obvious overcrowding would exist at schools like Defer and Richard. Class sizes would increase past optimum levels for quality education. Safety problems are myriad. Increased curriculum opportunities, exploratory experiences and enrichment programs have been suggested, but never promised. Perhaps they are as ethereal as the $37 savings per household that has been mentioned, but never promised.

If the prestige of the Grosse Pointe schools is threatened, it affects the whole community, not just isolated areas. It is time that Grosse Pointers band together to save all their neighborhood schools. The short term savings from closing all four schools totals $785,000 or only 2 percent of a one year budget, such as the $36.6 million budget projected for the 1983-84 school year.

This is paltry when weighed against the long term threat to the quality of Grosse Pointe's schools and to our property values. If your property value declines by $10,000, was it worth it to save $37?

What happened to logic?

To the Editor:

We must be getting short on logic in Grosse Pointe.

If student enrollment is down in Grosse Pointe schools and because of that we are having to close four schools and this has been going on for years, I have a question: Why do we constantly need to raise school taxes?

The answer (by logic) is: We don't.

The answer (by the school board) is: None.

People, like myself, living on fixed incomes are getting awfully tired of this lack of logic.

Another Wayne County mess

Another sorry chapter in the dismal history of Wayne County government was written last week when the Detroit news media reported that the new $53 million, 576-bed Wayne County jail will be finished Oct. 1 — but won't open for at least six months because of a lack of funds.

Squabbling between the county executive's office and the sheriff's department about staffing and equipment for the new structure is part of the problem but the board of county commissioners appears to deserve most of the blame for the delay in opening. Fred Todd, the county's chief financial officer, says there wasn't any money in the 1982-83 county budget for start-up costs for the new building.

ACTUALLY, THE FUNDS contributed by a one-half mill property tax over a five-year period to finance the new jail was supposed to include the start-up costs. Unfortunately, according to Todd, additional construction costs because of a shift in the construction site, construction delays and various changes raised the total construction costs to nearly $53 million. That is more than double the original estimate of the cost of the new jail.

Nor was there any consideration in the budget for the cost of staffing the new building. Richard Novak, the undersheriff, contends the new complex will require at least 900 employees and blames County Executive William Lucas, the former sheriff, for not having planned better for the use of the new jail while he was still the sheriff. Todd says the new sheriff, Robert Ficano, is requesting too many employees and Todd now has hired Gus Harrison, a former director of the state Corrections Department, to review staff requirements. But Harrison won't even report his findings until three weeks after the jail's scheduled opening on Oct. 1.

These efforts to pin blame on someone else sound dreadfully familiar to Wayne County citizens who voted for a new charter in an attempt to rid county government of such controversies. Now, most of the responsibility for operating county government can be pinned on one man, the county executive, who can be held accountable when he faces the voters every four years.

Yet it is true that too many relics of the days of political favoritism and cronyism still inhabit county offices and serve as barriers to efficient operation of county services. What the delays in obtaining staff and equipment for the new jail now mean is that the Detroit House of Corrections, which was scheduled to be closed, will continue to house the overflow from the existing jail and from another county facility in Westland. And the new jail will stand empty until county authorities can find the equipment, staff and money to open it.

It's another disgraceful example of the way Wayne County government too often has operated in the past. It is also disappointing that the new county executive so far has not been able to get control of this mess.

Not a window-box farmer

John Hertel, the First District county commissioner whose constituency includes the Pointes, says he is honored to be named as Gov. Blanchard's first choice to succeed Dean Pridgeon as director of the Michigan Agriculture Department. He also says that if he is selected by the Agriculture Commission, he would be happy to accept and work hard on behalf of Michigan's No. 2 industry, Agriculture.

Beyond that, however, Hertel prefers not to get involved in the verbal controversy that has erupted since the governor announced that Pridgeon had submitted his resignation and that he, the governor, had recommended Hertel's name to the commission. While all the facts are not clear, it appears that the commission, still dominated by hold-over Republicans, has not yet accepted Pridgeon's resignation. Thus the Hertel appointment might not come until after Jan. 1 when Blanchard will have the authority to fill commission vacancies with his own people.

HERTEL IS NOT exactly the window-box farmer he has been portrayed by some of the media. He served as chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee for seven of his eight years in the Legislature, has owned a small farm in Memphis, Mich., for a number of years and has just won grand championships in the Indiana and Ohio state fair horse shows with his Percheron draft horses.

The governor indicated in a press conference last week that he had wanted Hertel in the job by early fall, presumably so that he would work on legislation affecting the department when the Legislature returns to Lansing next month. Whether that timetable will be achieved now is somewhat questionable.

Like most political figures, Hertel is no stranger to political speculation. In 1982, he was mentioned as a possible running mate with the governor and as a possible candidate for county executive. He also was invited to seek the Wayne County sheriff's job after William Lucas was elected county executive. On that occasion, County Clerk James Killeen, one of the appointing authorities, changed his mind and saw that his assistant, Robert Ficano, was named sheriff instead.

If Hertel is named to the state post, it is assumed he would resign as commissioner. Under the charter, the county board would be authorized to appoint his successor within 30 days, and would be required to pick a registered voter in the district who belongs to the same party. If the vacancy occurs this year, the appointee would serve until a successor is picked in a special election. If the vacancy doesn't occur until 1984, the appointee would serve out the rest of Hertel's two-year term.

So it is possible that the state could get a new director of agriculture and the first district a new commissioner in the next few months. In fact, the district could get more than one new commissioner if the appointment were made before Jan. 1 and if the appointee were defeated in the special election.

WITH HIS BACKGROUND, Hertel ought to be an effective head of the Agriculture Department. But he will be missed from the new Wayne County Board of Commissioners because he has been one of the few members to have supported County Executive Lucas on occasion and to have expressed opposition to playing the same old political games with county government.

Woods resident encourages talk on traffic woes

To the Editor:
I am just one of many Grosse Pointe Woods residents who was ticketed recently in St. Clair Shores after I turned right onto Mack Avenue from Edmunton Road. The new, no right turn 3 to 7 p.m. sign was posted, unannounced, by St. Clair Shores in a measure to reroute traffic on Edmunton when one way signs on Brys and Roslyn Roads were erected. The $40 ticket educated me very quickly on just how virulent the relationship between the two communities has become. I am not writing this letter, though, to complain about receiving a ticket. I am writing to ask Woods City Administrator Chester Petersen and the city council why the city granted the residents of Brys and Roslyn Roads permission to again literally close down their streets without a preliminary attempt to resolve the problems that resulted the first time these roads were closed?

The Brys/Roslyn petition was not a new one. Two years ago the residents were given license to barricade their streets. Havoc ensued as Hollywood, Hawthorne and other streets complained about changes in traffic patterns in their neighborhoods. St. Clair Shores addressed the situation by posting restrictive driving signs in their community. Studies to alleviate these problems resulted in a stalemate. The barricades came down.

First, as a show of good will, I recommend that city officials rescind their decision to allow the posted signs on Brys and Roslyn to remain. Further, our city fathers must make a firm resolve to address perhaps a tiresome task — that of establishing a dialogue on this traffic problem with residents of streets and communities who may be affected by this change. Communication should be the first step in resolving this intra-community problem; action last.

Traffic changes fill city coffers

To the Editor:
Residents of this area who travel through Grosse Pointe Woods should be aware that the latter city has embarked on a policy of avarice with reference to recent changes to one-way streets on Brys, Roslyn, Hampton and Ridgemont. The one-way sections are only between Helen and the alley running parallel to Mack.

has been waiting, obscurely, in his scout car. A ticket is written for the charge which carries a $40 penalty.

The police officer will usually say that he is sorry but he has to give out a ticket and will then also dispense a "Notice — Traffic Pattern Change." In the interest of justice, delivery of the notice of traffic pattern change would seem to be sufficient to familiarize motorists with the change. However, it is apparent the Woods is out to make money any way it can.

Charles R. King
Grosse Pointe Woods

Rather than hand out a warning to the unwary, the hapless motorist who is lucky enough to travel the one-block section in the wrong direction will immediately be pounced upon by a police officer, who

Prime Time

For Senior Citizens

Marian Trainor

My friend lay in peaceful surrender in a casket banked by floral tributes sent by family and friends who had known and loved him in life.

Just eight months before, his wife of 45 years was in the same place with the same setting. Death that had separated them, had now united them. It was fitting that two people who had shared so much in life should now share death.

Yet there was something about the situation. It was something to think about, to ponder over. Although they were together many years, outwardly there was nothing in their marriage that had suggested a dependency. They were both strong characters. You would have guessed that either one could go on without the other. But, apparently there were ties that bound them so close that each of them derived strength from the other.

He was a man of great strength and drive, self-made in every sense of the word. His father ran a grocery store in a small Michigan town. His mother died when he was very young, leaving behind six boys and a daughter. As a boy, he worked in the store. As a man, he worked his way through college.

Outgoing and gregarious, he went into the insurance business where he rose to be vice-president of a major insurance company. He had strong opinions but also strong arguments to support them. Sometimes it was hard to agree with him but it was equally difficult to refute him because his opinions were well grounded and formulated from extensive reading.

He was a man's man. He enjoyed men's company. Women he tolerated, but as a husband he cherished and took care of his wife. Her role was a very definite one. She was a wife, mother and social arbiter. His was to make the important decisions as befits the man of a house. They had one son, the focus of their lives. They lived to see him rise to the top in a law career. There never were prouder parents.

Content in her role, his wife seemed right for him in every way, particularly in her adeptness at creating and maintaining a social atmosphere. She had a way of turning acquaintances into friends and a gift for keeping alive friendships. One friend of hers recalled that they had lunched together every week for 54 years. Because she went out of her way to make friends and to keep them, they enjoyed an active social life. Dinners and dances, drop-in visitors and parties kept them active and kept their lives filled with pleasurable activities.

They danced beautifully together. One of the brightest pictures that remain in the memory is one of them gliding across the dance floor. They loved to travel and made frequent trips to the West Coast, returning with stories to amuse their friends. They enjoyed their quiet times together also, playing a lively game of backgammon, cards or watching favorite television programs.

When their son married and grandchildren arrived, they became the center of their lives. To

Films to benefit Alzheimer victims

The Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association is hosting a Rita Hayworth Film Gala Tuesday, Sept. 13, 7:30 p.m. in conjunction with the grand opening of the new State Palms Entertainment Center (formerly, the Palms) in Detroit.

Two newly released technicolor classic films, "Salome" and "Loves of Carmen" will be featured, and all proceeds will go to help Alzheimer's families.

Rita Hayworth is a victim of Alzheimer's Disease. Her daughter, Princess Yasmin Khan, is expected to attend the gala along with other local celebrities.

Honorary co-chairmen for the event are Senator Carl Levin and Mayor Coleman Young.

Alzheimer's Disease is a progressive, irreversible brain disease for which there is no known cause or cure. It is the fourth leading cause of death in people over 60. There are approximately 50,000 victims of Alzheimer's Disease in the Detroit area, and 2.5 million nationwide.

them, each one was a paragon. They were all beautiful, talented and creative.

As they grew older, as sometimes happens, he seemed to soften, become more tolerant, less insistent that his way was the only way. As sometimes happens also, she became more assertive and somehow this slight reversal added zest to their marriage.

When he retired, the years ahead looked good. With financial security and apparent good health, they could sustain any lifestyle that pleased them.

And then it happened. It began with her operation to remove a suspicious tumor and it cast a shadow over their well-ordered life, a life that had been worked for and planned for.

She recovered. The prognosis was good. Life that had been good to them was not about to turn on them now.

But it was not to be that way. Little by little she began to fade. A return trip to the doctor was made. The growth had recurred and it was malignant. She would need chemotherapy. They were shaken but confident. Everything would turn out fine. They both came from families who lived long lives. There were years left for them, years when they would see their grandchildren grow into young men and women and perhaps they would even be around for the birth of a great grandchild. One did not leave a good party early, and for them, life had up to now provided the best.

But for them, life's party was beginning to wear down. She began to grow weaker. Strangely enough he who had been so insistent on finely drawn lines between what constituted man's role and woman's role began to change. As she grew weaker, his whole manner softened. Out of his concern for her, he showed a gentleness that one suspected had always been there masked by the outgrown traditions of his time that prohibited such displays.

It was not total capitulation. What he did, he did with a show of brusqueness. But if ever deeds spoke louder than words, this was it. He took over household chores, he helped her dress, stayed by her side and took her out when she felt well enough.

All of these things he did, but one thing he would not do. He would not accept the seriousness of her illness. She was ailing. She would get better.

Sadly she got worse and once again had to be hospitalized.

He visited her every day and they would talk of the things they would do when she was well. He rented a condominium in Florida. She'd feel much better, he reasoned, if they could spend the winter there. Never did he admit to her or to himself that she would not be there to follow through on his plans.

And then one day, while she was still in the hospital, he became ill, sick enough to see a doctor who was so concerned for him that he ordered immediate hospitalization to prepare for surgery.

Without any fuss he went from the doctor's office and admitted himself to the same hospital she was in. His room was down a corridor from her. Each day he visited her. Each day they talked of their future together. And then one morning the nurse woke him, but not to pay his morning visit down the corridor. She had died in the night.

It took a while for him to absorb the message. Her last words have been, "I'm getting better." It couldn't be. She hadn't been that ill. They had plans.

Then it struck and he exploded in a torrent of grief. It was devastating — a strong man letting loose strong feelings like rushing waters from a crumbling dam.

He couldn't go to her funeral but the first night of her wake, he left the hospital to say a final goodbye. The next day he was operated on. It was a success and a week later he came home, not to his own home but that of his son.

He seemed happy there. He had people to talk with, his son, his daughter-in-law, his grandchildren. He joked with them, shared their activities and engaged in stimulating discussion. He seemed to enjoy the comings and goings and confusion of young family life. Yet it was all carried on with a certain detachment, like someone waiting for a person to return to make the picture complete.

This strong characterized man, so sure in himself, so independent and able to handle affairs big and little was lonely. He had so much left and yet it was not enough.

Just as he had refused to believe that she was seriously ill because he might have had to show how important she was to him, so now he refused to admit that he missed her beyond belief. Strong characters keep their sorrows secret. But one could sense the emptiness that had invaded his spirit.

And then it came. Things were not well with him. Once again bad news. He had to return to the hospital but he did come home again, this time to die, quietly, courageously, silently. No one would ever know his true feelings. It was not his nature to be anything but resolute.

And so he lay in a casket banked with flowers, in the same place where he had said a final goodbye to her a brief eight months before.

Free of pain and hurt and the embarrassment of degenerative disease, they were together again. This time in a place where plans and dreams go uninterrupted forever.

Students learn from mistakes

Students taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) this year on Oct. 22 will be able to "learn from their own mistakes" by using information in their score report provided by the College Board, director of guidance at South High School.

"After taking the PSAT/NMSQT, all students receive a 'Report of Student Answers' which includes the correct answers and their own responses and scores," said Luttinen. "They also receive their own test booklets so that they can review the actual questions, see which ones they got wrong, and try to figure out the correct answer and why they may have missed it."

The process can help students learn from their own mistakes by encouraging them to understand the reasoning involved in finding the right answer, an ability which will be useful for future school work, Luttinen said. Looking at the kinds of mistakes made on the test can help students identify areas in which they may be weak and need more work, he added.

Before taking the PSAT/NMSQT, students receive a student bulletin containing a complete practice test with an answer key and scoring instructions. After the test, they receive a booklet, "About Your PSAT/NMSQT Scores," that helps them to interpret their test results and to plan for college.

Other services that enable counselors and other school personnel to better understand and interpret the test results to students and parents include school summaries of students' answers, profiles of the academic characteristics and career interests of students taking the test, and a special publication for use with students as part of a general guidance program.

The PSAT/NMSQT is co-sponsored by the College Board and the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. Since 1959, more than 26 million students have taken the test.

Assuming that the above rates remain in effect for a complete statement period, if your average daily balance during your monthly statement period is $35,750.00, you'll earn 9% per year on the first $25,000.00 and 9.25% per year on the additional $10,750.00.

If your average daily balance during your monthly statement period is $65,625.00, you'll earn 9% per year on the first $25,000.00, 9.25% per year on the next $25,000.00 and 9.50% on the last $15,625.00.

If the average daily balance (the sum of the daily balances divided by the number of days in the monthly statement period) goes below $2,500.00 during a monthly statement period, interest will be paid at the rate of 5 1/4% per year for that month.

Cottage hosts Hospice Legal Aid Project

The Hospice Legal Aid Project of the State Bar of Michigan Young Lawyers Council will be holding its second training session for volunteer attorneys and other members of the general public, on Saturday, Sept. 10, 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., at the Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe, 159 Kercheval Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms.

Members of the State Bar are invited to volunteer their time to help the terminally ill patient and their families answer legal questions. This is done at no cost to the patient or their family.

Attorneys work as part of the hospice team of professionals, which includes physicians, nurses, social workers and volunteers.

The volunteer attorney maintains an attorney-client privilege and the work could involve simple consultation to more detailed will and estate planning, if the attorney chooses.

Prior to serving as a hospice volunteer, the attorney should attend the training seminar on Sept. 10 to learn more about the hospice philosophy of care and concern for the dying. He or she will also learn how hospice helps the terminally ill person and his or her family cope with pending death. In addition, the seminar gives a general overview of those areas of the law which most often concern a hospice patient, such as will drafting, estate planning, power of attorney, real estate questions and consumer areas.

If the need for outside counsel arises and the patient does not have a current family lawyer, the State Bar's attorney referral services, either locally or county-wide, will recommend a private practice lawyer.

The first training session, held last February at the Southeast Michigan Hospice, generated great interest in the project, according to a Cottage spokesman.

Attorneys interested in attending this session should call the chairperson of the Hospice Legal Aid Project, Attorney Ann M. Semaan, at her offices, 400 Renaissance Center, Suite 500, Detroit, Mich. 48243. Telephone 446-6860 during business hours before Sept. 8. There is no charge for the training session. Training kits are only available at the Saturday session.

Seniors can prepare for college testing

As the new school year begins, more than one million high school juniors and seniors across the nation are preparing to participate in the ACT Assessment Program.

The ACT Assessment, which consists of four academic tests that measure educational development and a detailed questionnaire that collects information relevant to educational and career planning, is recommended or required by more than 2,700 post-secondary institutions and scholarship programs.

School guidance counselors recommend that students participate in the ACT Assessment Program during the junior year or early in the senior year, so their results will be available in time for use in planning for post-secondary education and careers.

Students can obtain registration packets that contain all the information necessary to register and prepare for the assessment test from their high school guidance offices. The basic registration fee for the assessment test is $9.50. For 1983-84, ACT has established this test date schedule:

Test Dates	Deadlines
Oct. 29, 1983	Sept. 30, 1983
Dec. 10, 1983	Nov. 11, 1983
Feb. 11, 1984	Jan. 13, 1984
March 31, 1984	March 2, 1984
June 9, 1984	May 11, 1984

It takes about three hours to complete the four ACT examinations in English, math, social studies, and natural sciences. A sample copy of a full-length test is available in every high school. Students who would like to have copies of additional tests may obtain them at cost from ACT.

The ACT Assessment also includes a two-part questionnaire that students complete at home when they register. The questionnaire focuses on the student's interests, academic and non-academic accomplishments, and vocational and educational plans and needs.

Colleges use information for the ACT Assessment Program for academic advising, admissions counseling, course sectioning and placement, student services, and institutional research. ACT Assessment reports are sent to students, their high school counselors, and only those institutions and agencies specifically designated by the student.

The ACT Assessment Program is a major service of The American College Testing Program, which has national headquarters in Iowa City, Iowa.

Asthma program for school kids

If you are an asthmatic and you're concerned with the problems that face you at school, plan to attend the next meeting of the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan's (ALASEM) Family Asthma program. Rachele McFarland, R.N., B.S.N., will present "Back to School with Asthma" at 7 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 1, in the auditorium of Eastland Shopping Center, 1800 Vernier Road.

Ms. McFarland will speak to asthmatics and their families about overcoming problems and pressures that the asthmatic child faces when dealing with school personnel and environment, peer groups and parents' attitudes toward school. The goal of this presentation will be to increase understanding of others' perspectives and to get "back to school" relationships off to a good start.

Family Asthma Program is a free community service of ALASEM and meets at Eastland Shopping Center the first Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. Call the Lung Association at 961-1697 for more information.

The Boy Scouts are coming — in 1984

The Park Council last month granted Lakeshore District Boy Scouts permission to use Patterson Park for their Cub Scout Day Camp next year. About 150 scouts will use the park July 9 through 12, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. for a variety of activities including sports, crafts and shooting practice, according to a Boy Scout spokesman.

The theme for the 1984 camp will be "Pirates on the Pointe." The campers will use only a portion of the park and their event should not interfere with usual park activities, according to City Manager John Crawford.

The request for permission to use the park was approved by a 6-1 vote, with councilman Anthony Spada dissenting.

Mystery still shrouds ex-Pointer's death in Montana

By Tom Greenwood

FBI agents in the U.S. and police agencies in Canada are on the look-out for a 22-year-old Twin Falls, Idaho, man in connection with the possible robbery of former Grosse Pointer Frederick Pongrace, 31, whose body was discovered at the base of a 180-foot cliff July 14 in Glacier National Park, Mont. Authorities would also like to question the man about Pongrace's mysterious death.

Special Agent in Charge Bill

Fallin, of the Butte, Mont., office of the FBI confirmed that fugitive warrants have been issued charging Scott David Steel with "theft on a government reservation" and "interstate transfer" of a 1968 Volkswagen van belonging to Mr. Pongrace.

According to reports, Mr. Pongrace, who had been recently honorably discharged from the Coast Guard, picked up Steel and his dog while they hitchhiked in an area about 60 miles east of Glacier Park. Mr. Pongrace and Steel reportedly stayed over in a campground that night. Mr. Pongrace's body was discovered at the base of a cliff a day later. His van was missing.

"We currently have Steel on a fugitive warrant charging him with committing crimes on government property," said Agent Fallin. "We're working very hard trying to locate this individual. Right now the warrants involve only possible theft and robbery, but they're enough to pick him up and then talk about Mr. Pongrace's death.

"We're working with other agencies in other states and with authorities in Alberta where he's a suspect in an armed robbery."

Inspector Joe Hautzinger, of the Calgary City Police Department, Alberta, confirmed that a "Canada wide" warrant for Steel has been issued.

"I'm afraid I don't have all the details at my fingertips at the moment," said Inspector Hautzinger in a telephone interview, but a 'Canada wide' warrant tells me this person was possibly involved in the armed robbery of some sort of financial institution, such as a bank or a credit union. We also know Mr. Steel lives or lived in Twin Falls, Idaho."

Steel came under suspicion after Mr. Pongrace's body was discovered by tourists taking photos at a scenic overlook. According to an autopsy, Mr. Pongrace was alive at the time of the fall. Keys to his van, money and traveler's checks were not on the body.

Police believe Steel took the van after Mr. Pongrace died and slept in it over night. A tow operator told authorities he pulled the van out of mud along a roadway the next day, and was paid for the job with an expensive camera that belonged to Mr. Pongrace.

At that time police believed Steel was driving the van south to California where he reportedly had relatives. According to Agent Fallin, the van was recovered in Los Angeles. Several possessions belonging to Mr. Pongrace were discovered in the home of Steel's sister. Steel was not captured and police believe he is on his way to the Pensacola, Fla. area, possibly to visit a girl friend.

At the time he was picked up by Mr. Pongrace, Steel was described as a white male, clean shaven, between 5 foot 7 and 10 inches tall with a stocky build. At that time he was described as wearing a blue back pack and traveling with a black Labrador type dog. Police believe Steel may be still traveling with the animal.

"We don't have too much more to go on," said Mrs. Otto Pongrace, Frederick's mother. "We talked to the FBI recently and they said they believed this man Steel was on his way to Florida, possibly to see a girl friend."

"We were told he was tracked to his sister's house in Los Angeles, but he got away. We've heard two different versions of how he escaped. The first said he escaped out the back door as police officers were approaching the front. We've also heard he escaped the house several days earlier before police arrived. We were told the last time he was spotted was in Tucson, Ariz.

"We do know the van was recovered in L.A.," continued Mrs. Pongrace. "We heard that several men were stripping it. We don't know if it was stolen or sold to them. The police said several of Fred's possessions were recovered from his sister's home. As far as we know, there's been no trace of Fred's traveler's checks."

Mr. and Mrs. Pongrace still feel their son was murdered. "We believe my son discovered the hitchhiker was wanted for a robbery in Canada and tried to call the police," said Mr. Pongrace in an earlier interview. "The next thing you know, his body was discovered at the bottom of a cliff. His car and money were gone and there was no sign of a struggle."

"My son was very meticulous and wouldn't walk off and leave the van unlocked. His keys weren't on him and he wasn't dressed for hiking. We know it was foul play."

Battle rages over one-way streets

In January, 1980, the councils from Harper Woods, St. Clair Shores and Grosse Pointe Woods met to discuss what to do about traffic in the area.

Precipitating the meeting was the installation of barricades the fall before, along Brys, and later along Roslyn, Hampton and Ridgemont to give residents a chance to see how they would like cul-de-sacs.

The barricades had a number of repercussions. Traffic on the lower three streets increased. St. Clair Shores and Harper Woods complained that their streets were also receiving the overflow. The joint meeting was an attempt "to resolve the mutual traffic problems of the tri-city area," Woods City Administrator-Clerk, Chester Petersen said in a letter giving notice of the joint meeting.

Macomb and Wayne county road commissions were called on to help resolve what was then called "the border war."

Out of the meeting came a number of actions. The barricades along the Woods streets came down, allowing traffic back through the area. Improvements were begun at both Vernier and Harper in Harper Woods, where the Wayne County Road Commission eventually installed delayed signals to facilitate traffic.

Vernier and Mack also received a good deal of attention in an attempt to facilitate greater traffic flow and make it a more desirable route than residential streets.

But, as a traffic study pointed out at the time, the improvements would not have an appreciable effect on the traffic flow in the residential areas.

The 1979 Goodell-Grivas study, funded with Community Development Block Grant funds, came up with 15 alternatives to alleviate traffic problems in the tri-city area.

The majority of the alternatives required some type of cooperation among the three cities since traffic pattern changes in one city would affect the surrounding cities.

A major contributing factor to the use of Brys as a short-cut to Mack is the discontinuity of Old Eight Mile Road, the study said. The best solution to the problem would be for the Woods to build a road to link both sections of the street.

While having the distinct advantages of eliminating the need for side-streets to get to Mack, the solution had one overwhelming disadvantage; the city would have to get property now occupied by condominiums, raze them and drive the roadway through the development. The cost was prohibitive, the study conceded.

The next best solution the city could take on its own was what Goodell-Grivas called Prototype E, or a plan to link street pairs west of Mack. The plan would link Roslyn and Hampton, Ridgemont and Hollywood, Hawthorne and Anita and cul-de-sac Brys at Old Eight Mile.

By cutting access to Mack on all the streets by forming closed loops at their eastern ends, the city would reduce through traffic, cut accident potential and maintain access to the area.

The construction costs of such a project would be high, the study pointed out. In addition, traffic on Helen and Canton would increase as well as traffic in the surrounding areas, the study noted.

The third solution was to put the barricades up and eventually turn them into cul-de-sacs, Goodell-Grivas said. While eliminating through traffic, cutting accident potential and requiring minimal enforcement, the changes would push traffic onto surrounding streets, limit access for residents and cost a good deal of money, the study said.

A number of alternatives contained plans for one-way streets throughout the northwest area of both Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Woods and the southeastern section of St. Clair Shores. The plans would require cooperation among the three cities to implement and enforce, and involved outside agencies, such as county road commission and the state highway department, the study said. With some cooperation, a solution could be found, the study noted.

This May the Woods council asked the director of Public Safety to review the possibility of forming one-way streets in the area and recommend some solution to the council in June.

The public safety department came back with eight alternatives. The problem was not going to be solved with any of the alternatives presented, department spokesmen said.

The council, at a public hearing attended by residents of the four northerly streets, asked petitions to be circulated on those streets for residents' opinions about the changes. Almost 80 percent of the residents approved of the plan that turned all the four northerly streets into one-ways west while limiting turns during the afternoon peak from Helen, which would become one-way southbound.

The agreed-upon plan was a compilation of several alternatives from the Goodell-Grivas study, councilmembers said. But it left out one point mentioned in the traffic study; cooperation would be necessary with other communities in order to be effective.

Another aspect of the study it ignored was a suggestion that all the streets in the northwest Woods, not just the most northerly four, become one-ways. That would avoid simply shifting traffic to other nearby streets.

Woods officials said they didn't contact St. Clair Shores before proceeding with their latest plans for at least three reasons. First, they said, it would not have helped the situation since, in their opinion, St. Clair Shores is not serious about solving the problem.

Second, some of the proposals for alleviating the problem were never implemented by St. Clair Shores. One proposal which the state Highway Department would have implemented on a trial basis would be a "no left turn" sign at the I-94 ramp onto Old Eight Mile during the afternoon rush hour.

Third, Woods officials point to St. Clair Shores' failure to notify the city it was considering the widening of the Old Eight Mile bridge from two to four lanes.

In a letter to the Highway Department, the Woods will ask for the no left turn prohibition again, City Administrator-Clerk Chester Petersen said. In addition, a letter will be sent to federal authorities asking why the Woods was not allowed input on an environmental impact study which is required of all highway projects using federal money.

The widening of the bridge from two to four lanes will only compound the problem, Petersen said. The money could be used to relocate the exit ramp from the freeway to between Old Eight Mile and Vernier, thus eliminating the freeway off-traffic onto Old Eight Mile, he said.

Some additional sign improvements could be made in Harper Woods and Grosse Pointe Woods that would facilitate traffic flow along Vernier. The addition of a left turn signal at Harper and Vernier and parking prohibitions along Vernier at least during the afternoon rush would increase the number of lanes that would carry traffic, possibly eliminating the need for using residential streets, Petersen said.

Underlying the problem are currents of fear, frustration and anger on the part of all involved. Some Brys residents who talked about the plan asked their names not be used because they feared reprisals. The anger, they said, is building, and with it the fear of Brys residents that for them, there is no solution.

Businessmen, residents of Anita, Hawthorne and Hollywood and drivers in the area are angered because of what they see as an act of favoritism on the city's part.

A number of businesses are circulating petitions against the one-way streets. Tom Catalfo of Mr. C's Deli said he has collected about 750 signatures from people opposed to the signage.

"Have you been up there recently? It does make life complicated," Catalfo said. "The people they are trying to keep off the streets are citizens. They pay taxes, too."

Some people have come into the store and asked for petitions to take to their neighbors who are opposed to the signage, Catalfo said. The signs, in addition to hurting business for north Mack merchants, are inconvenient and unsafe, he added.

An anonymous letter from the Grosse Pointe Woods Citizens for Better Government was mailed to the Grosse Pointe News. The letter said residents should seriously consider recalling council members "on the basis of incompetence."

There have been no petitions filed with the county clerk, and no such group is registered, workers in Wayne County Clerk elections division said. The letter was unsigned, with no return address, and inquiries about members have turned up nothing.

Adding to the confusion are preliminary traffic counts on Brys and Roslyn that show more drivers are using the streets now than were using them a month ago, Petersen said. While there may be a psychological effect to the one-way streets, there hasn't been a drop-off in traffic to the area, he added.

The Woods council will evaluate the signage and its effects at a meeting Monday night, Sept. 19. While there are a number of predictions about what the council will do after hearing both sides of the case and looking at traffic counts, at least one side will find itself the loser.

"The solution can't please everyone," one Brys Drive resident said. "There's got to be some kind of cooperation and compromise. We have to protect the businesses, there's no doubt about it, but (should the signs come down) we are Old Eight Mile with the name of Brys Drive."

Youth is robbed

An 11-year-old Park boy was robbed of his bicycle on Thursday, Aug. 25, at about 11:20 a.m., according to Park police reports.

Chief Henry O. Coonce said the youth told police that two men in their mid-20s and about six feet tall knocked him off his bicycle while he was riding near Devonshire and St. Paul. Police have no suspects. The youth was not injured, they said.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

The Detroit Historical Society and internationally known shoe designer Stuart Weitzman were honored in mid-August at an evening reception hosted by The Fashion Group and Mr. and Mrs. Sherm Becker, during which Weitzman presented Historical Society Vice-President Mrs. Elliott H. Phillips, of The Farms, with samples of his 1984 collection for inclusion in a major new exhibit at the Detroit Historical Museum.

The Fashion Gallery, being developed by the Historical Society in cooperation with the Historical Museum, is scheduled to open in 1984. It will feature prime items from the museum's costume and accessory collection of more than 60,000 pieces, one of the nation's most significant fashion "closets," valued recently by a New York appraiser at well over $1 million.

The collection contains everything from the finest ball gowns designed by leading couturiers for Detroit's most prominent citizens to everyday street clothes, from the early 1800s to the present day. A major purpose of the exhibit, which will change periodically to allow display of a greater variety of the collection, is to educate people about the development of styles.

"The Detroit Historical Society trustees and the Detroit Historical Commission are determined that this dramatic exhibit will be one of the finest costume showcases in the country," Gail Phillips, chairman of the Fashion Gallery Committee, says — emphatically! And Solan W. Weeks, museum director, predicts that the gallery, to be funded by money raised through the Detroit Historical Society, "will give a new prominence and visibility to the Detroit Historical Museum."

Mistress of ceremonies at the Weitzman reception was Barbara Loren, vice-president of WXYZ-TV Channel 7 and president of The Fashion Group. Among the many guests she greeted was Grosse Pointe's Mrs. Ernest J. DuMouchelle, recently elected to the Detroit Historical Society board of trustees.

Your club or community organization can sample the richness and variety contained in the Historical Museum's "closet" via a color slide program prepared by volunteers of the Detroit Historical Society Guild. "One Hundred Years of Fashion" reviews changes in women's costumes from 1830 to 1930, from the first Empire Look through the rise and demise of the hoop skirt, the Gibson Girl with her leg-o-mutton sleeves, The Flapper whose short skirts and bobbed hair reflected a drastic change in life style.

It's one of the most popular of several such guild-prepared programs available for showing to adult groups in the metropolitan area. But it's not the newest: that distinction belongs to "Dolls on Parade," which debuts this fall. Although the Detroit Historical Museum's doll collection does not include a rare 1920 French bisque

TEWALT (holding the concert ticket brochure) and MR. BRADLEY, met recently to discuss details of the recital and reception set for Saturday evening, Sept. 24, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Admission is $8 for adults, $4 for students. Proceeds will help build up the fund, named in honor of the War Memorial's long-time (and first) director who retired in the autumn of 1981, to the point where college tuition grants can be awarded annually to two graduates of Grosse Pointe high schools. The concert will take place at 8 p.m. in Fries Auditorium, with the reception following upstairs in the Fries Building's Crystal Ballroom. Tickets may be reserved in advance by calling 886-0079, or purchased at the door. Mr. and Mrs. Mark Chancellor Stevens are serving as honorary chairmen of the event which — how appropriate can you get?! — is being held on Mr. Lake's birthday. Other honorary supporters are Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison Bartush, Mr. and Mrs. Wilber M. Brucker Jr., James H. Dingeman, Mrs. Robert G. Hartwick, Mr. and Mrs. Earle I. Heenan Jr., James McMillan, Theodore H. Mecke Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Parcels Jr., Mrs. Jerome H. Remick Jr., Charles F. Tompkins and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander L. Wiener. Benefit planners have been working through the summer, under Louise TeWalt's leadership, to arrange a perfect evening. They include, in addition to those pictured above, Mrs. Sterling S. Sanford, treasurer and program notes, Mrs. Joseph J. Marshall, publicity, Mrs. Bruce K. Bockstanz, John M. Rickel, Mrs. Alger Sheldon, Henry T. Ewald Jr., Mrs. Robert E. Kennel, William K. Peters, John P. Worcester and Dr. Mark R. Weber, who succeeded John Lake as War Memorial director. Varani, now artist-in-residence at Oakland University, was born in Brazil, where he began concert stage appearances at age 7. Following studies in Europe and at Juilliard and degrees from Manhattan School of Music, he has maintained a steady schedule of performances in the United States, Europe and South America. For the John Lake Scholarship benefit concert, he will play selections by Schubert, Schumann, Albeniz and Villa-Lobos.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard K. Face, of Moran Road, wore a gown designed by herself and Rose Larrabee Fox, 17th century Dutch in style, fashioned of white satin and trimmed with pearls.

The former Miss Face carried a bouquet of white roses and white lilacs, complementing her headpiece of white lilacs, ivy and forget-me-nots.

In gowns of ice blue satin and floral headpieces fashioned of stephanotis and baby's-breath were honor attendant Denise Allen, of New York, and bridesmaids Mariel Oakman, of Denver, Colo., and Eve Wantuch, of Fort Lee, N.J., the bridegroom's sister.

Dr. Fechner, son of Dr. Herta Fechner, of Hackensack, N.J., and the late Dr. Fred Fechner, asked a cousin, Frank Spiegel, of Fairlawn, N.J., to act as best man. Guests were seated by Dean Face, of New Haven, Conn., brother of the bride, David Gordon, of Great Neck, N.Y., Evan Freund, of Chicago, and Andrew Nowakowski, of Churchville, Md.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both wore floor length dresses, the former's in open blue in color, the latter's navy blue.

The newlyweds, who sailed to London aboard the Queen Elizabeth II following their marriage, are now at home in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Kitts

the bride's brother, also of Grand Rapids, Paul Lewandowski and Jim Martinez, of Milan, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both selected street length dresses, the former's aqua blue in color, the latter's navy blue, and white gardenia corsages for the late morning service.

After a luncheon reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, the newlyweds left to vacation on Nantucket Island. They are making their home in Belleville.

Miss Fleming is the daughter of Harry and Alma Fleming, Department Chairperson (English) at Grosse Pointe South High School, who reside on Sunnyside in St. Clair Shores.

The bride-elect holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Wayne State University and a Juris Doctor from Detroit College of Law. She is a member of the Michigan State Bar Association, the Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, the National Association of Women Lawyers, Delta Theta Phi professional law fraternity and the Macomb County Bar Association.

Sandra Boley is wed in July

Sandra Beth Boley fashioned the gown of organza over taffeta in which she spoke her marriage vows Saturday, July 23, to James William Kitts. She wore a small hat, with a pouf of organza, and carried an arrangement of orchids and ivy.

The Reverend Rod Hokenson came from Adrian to preside at the 11:30 o'clock rites in Grosse Pointe United Methodist Church. Bill Boley, of Ann Arbor, the bride's brother, played three guitar pieces before the ceremony. Two selections were sung by Steve Hokenson, of Adrian.

The bride, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Boley, of Moross Road, was attended by a sister-in-law, Diane Gartner Boley, of Grand Rapids, as honor matron, and by bridesmaids Tina Kitts, the bridegroom's sister, Nancy Gross, of Adrian, and Caroline Lopez, of Ypsilanti.

They accented their short-sleeved, tea length dresses, aqua blue in color, with white hats. Gardenias formed their bouquets.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sullivan, of Marysville, asked his brother, Jon Kitts, of Grand Rapids, to act as best man. Ushering were John Boley,

Houses, Spires and Stained Glass

Additional houses have been added to the Historical Society Guild's "Houses and History" program, which offers a glimpse of the variety of Detroit architecture, from the city's oldest standing brick dwelling, Moross House on East Jefferson Avenue, now headquarters for the Detroit Garden Center, to David Whitney's opulent Woodward Avenue mansion.

Information about the personalities who owned and lived in these homes, from Solomon Sibley, Detroit's first mayor, to Henry Ford, is included in the commentary.

"Spires and Stained Glass" is a tour of Detroit's historic churches: an armchair visit to 17 houses of worship within the city, including Ste. Anne's, Fort Street Presbyterian and Second Baptist, Detroit's oldest Black congregation. Interior views highlight architectural detailing, elaborate stained glass windows and hand-carved furnishings.

The Detroit Historical Society Guild is a service organization actively involved with the Detroit Historical Society and Department. It welcomes contributions to assist in its volunteer efforts on behalf of Detroit's three historical museums: the Main Museum on Woodward Avenue, in the University/Cultural Center, the Dossin Great Lakes Museum, on Belle Isle, and Historic Fort Wayne.

Further information on the guild may be obtained and scheduling of a slide program showing arranged by contacting Mrs. William Scott, volunteer chairman, at 341-9139, or the Historical Museum, 833-1805.

A Sense of Sharing

"One of the outstanding characteristics of our group," said Farms resident Mrs. Frank A. Germack Jr., in her President's Report at the annual meeting of the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, "is our members' willingness, eagerness to share with colleagues their experiences and ideas, successes and disappointments."

"This sense of 'Symphony Family' is one of the features that mark symphony supporters as a very special group: warm, sensitive, generous — altogether a joy to be associated with."

Stephanie Germack continues her association with this warm, sensitive, generous group as president in 1983-84, for she was re-elected to that position at the annual meeting. Among those serving with her on the current DSO Women's board are a pair of fellow Pointers, Mrs. Kim K. Lie, assistant recording secretary, and Mrs. Ellwyn Gilbert, director.

Stephanie also reported that the Women's Association, through benefits, donations and ticket sales, raised more than $400,000 for the DSO during the 1982-83 season. "Our purpose remains, as always, to further interest in the orchestra," she observed, "to increase attendance at concerts, secure friends and financial support, and increase public enthusiasm for the Detroit Symphony's value to the community."

This will be an especially busy month for the DSO Women, who kick off their season with a New Member Tea Tuesday, Sept. 13, at the Pointe home of Mr. and Mrs. George Simon. The 10th Annual Picnic for Orchestra Personnel is scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 27, in the Symphony Office Courtyard, and the Women's Association has a date for dinner at the Renaissance Club just two days later, Thursday, Sept. 29, preceding the symphony's Opening Night concert.

The tour will visit one of the largest Catholic churches in Detroit, Sweetest Heart of Mary, dating from 1893, and the Romanesque/Byzantine-style First Congregational Church, as well as St. John, with its magnificent Tiffany windows, and the Church of St. John-St. Luke, with its interior gallery on three sides typical of churches in southern Germany.

Year-round First Monday of the Month church tours continue with a Sept. 12 visit to First Presbyterian, legally incorporated as the First Protestant Society in 1825, and Sacred Heart, Peter Dedericks' first major architectural effort at the age of 17. Included also is Trinity Lutheran Church, outstanding for its unusual stained glass windows and elaborate wood-carved interior.

After a stop at Elmwood Cemetery, established in 1846, the tour will conclude with a visit to St. Joseph's, which started in 1856 as a German ethnic church. St. Joseph's present Gothic Revival structure dates from 1870. Two windows depict former and present churches.

Award Mercy Medallion to Bev Beltaire

Mercy College of Detroit will honor Park resident Beverly Beltaire during the fourth Works of Mercy dinner Thursday, Sept. 15. Bev will receive the Mercy Medallion in recognition of her outstanding leadership of the Detroit Chamber of Commerce and for her many contributions to community service projects and charity benefits.

She has been a member of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce for 17 years, a member of its board of directors since 1975. She was the first woman elected board chairperson (1982) in its 79-year history. Her term recently expired; she now serves as immediate past chairperson of the board.

Before founding one of the first major Detroit-based public relations firms in 1963, Bev Beltaire wrote for the "Detroit Free Press," managed three weekly newspapers, worked as a producer and writer for WXYZ-TV's Detroit Deadline news show and published "Detroit Skyline" magazine. She was also a principal in an advertising agency.

She currently sits on the boards of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, Inc., the Boy Scouts of America Detroit Council, the Greater Michigan Foundation and Hutzel Hospital. She's a former Archives of American Art board member, and has served as a director of Detroit's Adcraft Club.

She's a member of the Metropolitan Detroit Convention and Visitors Bureau, United Foundation, Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts and the Public Relations Society of America. She has served as vice chairperson of the National PRSA Counselors Academy.

The Mercy Medallion, presented to individuals whose lives and activities are examples of traditional or contemporary works of mercy, is the latest in a long list of honors Beverly Beltaire has earned, including the PRSA's prestigious Silver Anvil Award and Women in Communication's National Clarion Award.

She was selected Detroit's Advertising Woman of the Year in 1978. She was named Headliner of the Year by the Detroit Chapter of Women in Communications in 1982.

She's one of four Mercy Medallion recipients this year. Medals will also be presented to Vainutis Vaitkevicius, M.D., Walter Greene and, posthumously, to Monsignor Clement Kern during the '83 Works of Mercy dinner, a fund raiser for the college's capital campaign to provide monies for student scholarships.

Master of ceremonies will be WDIV-TV anchorman Mort Crim, like Bev a Pointe resident. The program begins at 6 p.m. with a cocktail reception in Mercy's Conference Center. Ticket information may be obtained by contacting the college's Development Office, 592-6110.

Mrs. Charles E. Cahill, of Westchester Road, is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Cynthia, to Thomas A. Brillati, son of Mrs. Samuel P. Brillati, of Mount Clemens, and the late Mr. Brillati. A mid-September wedding is planned.

Miss Cahill, who is also the daughter of the late Mr. Cahill, was graduated from Grosse Pointe South High School in 1977 and is presently employed by Michigan Skatelands, Inc.

Mr. Brillati, a Notre Dame graduate who received an Associate degree in General Business from Wayne State University in 1972, manages Highland Appliance Company's Mount Clemens store.

Bach Brunch dates continue

Brunch with Bach, the Detroit Institute of Arts popular Sunday morning informal chamber concert series, will offer three presentations by area professional musicians in September. The concerts are given twice each Sunday, at 10 and again at 11:30 a.m. in the museum's indoor garden, Kresge Court.

Two menus may be selected: $7.75 for the full brunch of main course, fruit, nut bread and beverage; $6.75 for the continental brunch of nut bread and butter, fruit compote, cottage cheese and beverage.

Advance reservations are required, and may be made through the DIA ticket office, 832-2730, as late as the Friday prior to a Sunday program. It is suggested that children younger than 5 are too young to attend.

June wedding date revealed

Ann Marie Rasmussen and Thomas Andrew Rogers exchanged marriage vows Saturday, June 25, at an early evening ceremony in the gardens at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. A reception in Alger House followed the 6 o'clock rites at which The Reverend Raleigh Spain, of Grace United Church of Christ, presided.

A violinist played the traditional wedding march on the lawn. Inside, Art Quatro's orchestra played for dancing.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Rasmussen, of Maryland Avenue, wore a dress of white Qiana, Empire-waisted and styled with a beaded lace bodice and garden train, and a matching, white picture hat. Her bouquet featured white roses, stephanotis and a single, large orchid.

She was attended by Deborah DiRezze, in a long dress of fuschia crepe de chine, carrying a Colonial arrangement of three large, fuschia-centered orchids, with fuschia ribbon.

Flower girl Jamie Erin Barach, the bride's niece and godchild, wore a long, white dress and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

The bridegroom, son of Mrs. Merle Rogers, of Nassau, The Bahamas, asked Aubrey Clark, of Nassau, to act as best man.

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both wore long gowns, the former's of dusty blue georgette, the latter's of pink chiffon, and orchid corsages.

Harbour Island and England were the newlyweds' vacation

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Andrew Rogers

destinations. They will be making their home in Nassau, where the bridegroom is in business.

Out-of-town guests included, from Nassau, the bridegroom's brother, Raymond Rogers, Steve Wrinkle and Mary McPhee. The bridegroom's niece, Anne Kanitsch, came from West Palm Beach, Fla., the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Gertrude Swanquist, her aunt, Mrs. Shirley Krueger, and several cousins from Caserville, and another uncle and aunt of the bride, Mrs. and Mrs. W. Oscar Swanquist, from Sand Point.

The new Mrs. Rogers was graduated in late April from Wayne State University, where she majored in Accounting.

Karen Rohrig wed in West

Karen Ann Rohrig, daughter of former Pointer James Rohrig, who now makes his home in St. Clair, and Christine Rohrig, of Mount Clemens, was married Saturday, July 16, in the United Church of Broomfield, Colo., to Curtis Lee Markel, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Markel, of Broomfield.

The 5 o'clock, double ring ceremony at which The Reverend Jon Almgren presided was followed by a garden reception at the Markel residence.

The bride, in a traditional white silk wedding gown and veil, carried a cascade of white roses, lilies-of-the-valley, stephanotis and ivy. She was attended by honor maid Elaine Christo, of Houston, Tex., in a one-shouldered dress of orchid linen, carrying a cascade of mini-carnations, ivy, caspia and baby's-breath.

Dressed identically were bridesmaids Mary Rohrig, of Houston, and Che-Che Rohrig, of St. Clair, the bride's sisters, Susan Markel, the bridegroom's sister, Jodi Eisenberg, of St. Louis, Mo., and Joyce Follmer, of Houston.

Best man was Scott Henderson, of Boulder, Colo. Groomsmen were Steve and Roger Markel, the bridegroom's brothers, James Rohrig, of Houston, Matthew Aguiar, also of Houston, and Dr. Steve Ross, of Casper, Wyo.

Flower girl and ring bearer were Leah Craft and Eric Hill.

After a wedding trip in the west, including five days on a houseboat in Lake Powell with several friends, the newlyweds traveled to St. Clair where they were guests of honor at a July 24 reception given by her parents.

They vacationed on Maui on their way to Southeast Asia, where the bridegroom is employed by Exxon. The bride, a Bucknell University graduate, had been employed by Lenox in Houston. The bridegroom is a graduate of Colorado College and the American Graduate School of International Management.

Donna Grunewald

Making spring wedding plans

Mr. and Mrs. Carson Grunewald, of Lakeland Avenue, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Donna Sue, to Scott Howard Johns, son of Hope Johns, of Troy, and H. Raymond Johns, of Highland. The wedding is planned for next April.

Miss Grunewald, a Grosse Pointe South High School alumna, received a Bachelor of Music Education degree from Alma College, where she affiliated with Alpha Theta, and a Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan.

Her fiance is an alumnus of Royal Oak Kimball High School and Oakland Community College.

Upton-Martin vows spoken

The wedding of Susan Margaret Martin and Bradley William Upton Friday, August 19, in Saint Clare of Montefalco Church was followed by a reception at Lochmoor Club. Father Walter McNichols presided at the 6 o'clock ceremony.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Martin, of Harvard Road, wore a traditional gown, short-sleeved, scoop-necked and styled with a chapel length train edged in Schiffli lace, and a Juliet cap holding a triple-tiered, fingertip length veil of illusion.

Patricia Martin, honor attendant for her sister, and bridesmaids Mary Kay Madison, Michelle Demairis, of Houston, Tex., Rose Marie Stephens, Lorette Shushtari, of East Lansing, and Kathleen Miller, of Chicago, dressed in soft rose chiffon, carried cascades of lilies and carnations.

Mark Upton was best man for his brother. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. James Terry Upton, of Rochester. Ushering were Todd Upton, another brother, Gregg Weaver, of Cincinnati, Steve Wilde, Dan Dwyer and Steven Thibodeau.

A wide band of beading accented the bodice of the bride's mother's blue chiffon gown. The bridegroom's mother selected magenta chiffon, styled with a pleated bertha collar. Each mother pinned a rubrum lily to her purse.

The newlyweds will return from a Caribbean cruise to make their home in Rochester.

Poetry fellowships will be awarded

Detroit Women Writers will award five poetry fellowships, including registration fee and luncheon, to the Saturday, Oct. 22, Creative Writing Conference at Oakland University.

There will be two awards for serious poetry, one for light verse and one for children's poetry, with the fifth reserved for particular talent in any area of poetry.

Contestants should send two typewritten pages of material (it may be single-spaced), postmarked no later than Sept. 14, to Elinor K. Rose, 5517 Navajo Trail, Pinckney, Mich. 48169, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope for return of entry.

Judges for the poetry fellowships are Rose, Kathleen Leo, Gladys Leithauser and Elaine Watson, all professional writers and book authors.

There will be two extra awards this year in the field of ecology conservation writing. The same rules apply as for the poetry fellowships, except that entries may be either prose or poetry. Monies for these awards will come from the proceeds of a book, "A Long Look Home," by Jeanne Wylie Torosian, a member of Detroit Women Writers.

Pointers of Interest

By Janet Mueller

First came James, then David, then Paul, and when her fourth son was born, Mrs. Smith just plain gave up. Her favorite Big Band leader was Johnny Long. "We'll call him John," said Mrs. Smith, gazing (one presumes fondly; he couldn't help it that he wasn't a girl) at her newest son.

In token amendment, John Smith received a rather unusual middle name: Adelbert. He uses the initial.

The influence of Euterpe, present at his christening — the John part; Adelbert is a different matter altogether — remained strong; today, John A. Smith is executive director of the Detroit Community Music School. He assumed that position in July of 1981, after 12 years as an administrator in the University of Michigan's School of Music.

"It was time," he says, referring to his decision to trade the university town for the big city. "There was no opportunity for me to grow at Michigan more than I had grown there. I saw myself approaching 40 (he's just passed it), and I felt I wanted to move in a new direction."

DCMS had 92 applicants for the position of executive director, interviewed five . . . "And here I am," says John Smith. "Working with the school and in Detroit has been very exciting, and very stimulating. I think it was the best possible move for me."

NOW DCMS, WHICH has been branching out in recent years from its central location in Detroit's University/Cultural Center to offer instruction and performances throughout the metropolitan area, is making a new move, coming to Grosse Pointe. University Liggett School's new Creative & Performing Arts Wing will be the site for private and group lessons taught by the Community Music School's staff.

Classes begin in mid-September, and will be held weekdays in the late afternoon and evening, and on Saturdays.

Private lessons will be offered in piano, strings, woodwinds, brass, percussion, voice — even harp. Group instruction will be given in Orff, Suzuki Strings and piano. Classes are for a 32-week period.

Registration is slated for Friday, Sept. 9, from 4 to 6 p.m. and Monday, Sept. 12, from 4 to 7 p.m. at the ULS Creative & Performing Arts Wing, 1045 Cook Road. Grosse Pointers Mrs. Laurence Scoville, Bethine Whitney and Mrs. William Y. Gard have volunteered to help welcome prospective students.

"This new East Side location will make music instruction more accessible to East Side residents of all ages, and is designed to parallel a similar program offered at Cranbrook School," says Nancy Gard, volunteer coordinator. "There seems to be a need in this area for this sort of program," says John Smith. "Grosse Pointers have always been interested in the school, and we've had a large number of them as students at our downtown location."

The Leons, for example, and Tony Cross, who at 13 played a Youth Concert with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. "These are superstars, and that's wonderful," says Smith, "but the majority of

Choose a tree for the family

Select your own family tree! Why not, on Sunday, Sept. 18, the annual Landscape-Nursery Day at Detroit's Eastern Market, when trees of all kinds — ornamental, evergreen and shade, container-grown, balled-and-burlapped and bare-root stock — are in generous display and for sale.

Hundreds of landscape association members, nursery wholesalers, horticultural experts and suppliers for lawn and garden centers will be on hand from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. A wide variety of trees, shrubs and all manner of growing greenery will be offered.

Master Gardeners will be available for free advice and counsel

those who serve are not so extraordinarily gifted.

"OUR PROGRAM IS open to the musically curious as well as the musically advanced. Our students range in age from 3 to 83. Thirty percent of our enrollment is over 18, and we've designed a program for senior citizens that we can take to retirement homes and community centers."

DCMS, a private, non-profit school, currently serves approximately 1,800 students. Its faculty totals 70 teachers, many performing artists themselves, players in the Michigan Opera Theatre and Fisher Orchestras. Several are members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Many have advanced degrees.

"Our faculty quality is tremendous," Smith says. "When I look at faculty listings of other community music schools, I can't help but feel proud. Ours is right up there."

He's proud, too, that DCMS has ended the last two years in the black. "And I'm hoping we'll be in the same position this year. We keep a very close watch on costs. DCMS was the first cultural organization in the area to engage in long-range cost planning. Touche Ross did a study, funded by the Weber Foundation, and it's certainly paid off."

In a small way, DCMS has been physically in The Pointe for two-and-a-half years now, offering Suzuki classes at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Suzuki will continue to be offered there, but instruction in everything else will be given at University Liggett.

Fees will range from $9 to $14, averaging $9.50, for a half-hour private lesson, from $4 to $14 per week for group lessons. The Community Music School is fortunate to have a well-funded financial assistance program, providing scholarships based on ability and monetary aid based on need.

JOHN SMITH, a graduate of Hartwick College and Syracuse

University, sold Great Books of the Western World one summer to make tuition money. He's never been the type to while away the hours.

He was organizer and first chairman of the American Choral Directors Association Committee on Jazz and Show Choirs, founder and artistic director of aMaizin' Blues, the U. of M.'s show choir. In July he spent two weeks, his sixth summer, teaching at the International Music Camp that straddles the North Dakota/Manitoba border.

He came home for a few days to pick up his 15-year-old daughter Suzanne, who lives in Saline; then the pair of them headed for a visit with John's parents in Albuquerque, N.M. By car, of course. It's the only way to go.

"I like to travel, primarily in the United States, and I prefer the flexibility of a car. I've been in 40 of the 50 states. Actually, other than Canada, I've never traveled out of the country, and I could be perfectly satisfied if I never went overseas. There's so much to see here."

Of course, if a transAtlantic plane ticket fell in his lap, he'd seize the opportunity. He's never been the type to balk at new experiences.

He's been a conductor and clinician for choral festivals in the Midwest, a choral adjudicator in 15 states. Last year alone, he served on the Detroit Symphony board of directors and its committee on Education and Outreach, the Southfield Business Consortium for the Arts, the Ann Arbor Chamber Orchestra board of directors (he chaired its Long-Range Planning committee), the Michigan Grand Opera Association board of directors and the University/Cultural Center board of directors.

HE WAS PANEL chairperson or presenter at three sessions of the annual convention of the National Guild of Community Schools of the Arts, assistant chairperson of a three-day session at the annual convention of the National Association of Schools of Music, active adjudicator for the Michigan Schools Vocal Association, member of the Michigan Council for the Arts Minority Arts Advisory Panel and MCA on-site visitor for four Michigan arts organizations — and tenor soloist at Christ Church, Grosse Pointe.

He served on the MCA Music Review Panel and Ad Hoc Panel on re-organization of Organizational Support Funding, and on the Arts Alliance of Detroit . . . and by the end of the 1982-83 season, he had to face the fact that one man can't do everything.

So John Smith resigned as music director of the Rackham Symphony Choir, an in-residence group at DCMS, in order to devote more time to the John Smith Singers, a professional, 16-voice group that specializes primarily in vocal jazz.

You've got to admit: "John Smith" is a much catchier name than Rackham.

For further information on the new Detroit Community Music School program at University Liggett, call 831-2870 or write the Music School, 200 East Kirby, Detroit, Mich. 48202.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, a POTPOURRI of PEA DISHES.

Peas may be the most popular vegetable in the world, enjoyed for fresh young seeds, mature dried seeds and young, succulent pods. The pea has been a favorite since pre-Christian times, a staple of households in virtually every culture, not only because of its appealing taste but because of its high nutritive value.

Nutrients: Vitamin A, B-complex vitamins, potassium, calcium, iron, zinc, magnesium, copper.

Calorie Count: One cup cooked, 114 calories; one cup canned, drained, 150 calories.

Suggested Seasonings: Mint, curry, savory, rosemary, chervil, ginger, cayenne, celery or coriander seeds, onion, pimiento, chestnuts, peanuts.

SHERRIED PEAS AND MUSHROOMS

1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
1 Tbsp. margarine
1/8 tsp. marjoram
1/8 tsp. nutmeg
2 Tbsp. sherry
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas

Drain mushrooms; reserve liquid. In a frypan, melt margarine and saute mushrooms slightly. Stir in marjoram, nutmeg and sherry. Add peas, break apart. Turn off heat, cover and let stand for several minutes. Just before serving, add 2 Tbsp. mushroom liquid and bring to a boil, stirring occasionally, until peas are tender. Makes 4 servings. Calories about 82 per serving. Cholesterol 0.

STIR-FRY PEA POD MEDLEY

Deliciously sweet, plump and tender Sugar Snap peas give this delectable vegetable dish its unusual flavor. Frozen Chinese pea pods may be used when Sugar Snaps are out of season. Chicken or beef strips are wonderful as additions.

3 Tbsp. oil
1 lb. eggplant, cut in thin strips
1 large sweet onion, halved and sliced
1/2 lb. mushrooms, sliced
1 red pepper, cut into strips
1 lb. Sugar Snap peas
1/4 cup chicken broth
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 ripe tomato, cut in wedges
Chopped basil or parsley
Salt and pepper to taste
Heat oil; add eggplant and cook a few minutes, shaking pan to brown. Push to side of pan, add onion and mushrooms, stir until transparent. Add red pepper, peas (with strings and stems pulled off) and broth; cook, stirring, 1 minute. Add salt, pepper, basil or parsley, lemon juice and tomato wedges. Stir-toss another minute or two, then serve to 6.
Calories about 140 per serving. Cholesterol 0.

EARLY FRESH PEAS

4 large lettuce leaves
2 cups fresh shelled peas or 1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen
1 green onion with top, finely chopped
3 Tbsp. water
1 tsp. sugar
1/8 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. margarine
1/4 cup evaporated skimmed milk
Rinse lettuce; do not drain. Arrange on bottom and sides of large saucepan; top with peas, onion, water, sugar and salt. ## Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

How to help a hot hockey fan . . .

Hockey fans . . . I know you're out there, I can hear you hyperventilating.

Hey, I can sympathize. This is Grosse Pointe, after all. A hotbed of hockey, home of the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association, home of former college hockey stars and pro hopefuls Jeff Johnston and Jeff Logan, home of hockey fans extraordinaire.

But it is, after all, still summer and hockey fans are a while away from relief: spelled H-O-C-K-E-Y S-E-A-S-O-N. And the idea of some weird, displaced hockey fan walking around Grosse Pointe dressed in mukluks, a knit hat and carrying a Montreal Canadiens' banner in his sweaty mittens on some hot, late summer day just boggles my mind.

Since I don't know what hockey fans really do in the summer, maybe I can come up with a few suggestions to replace what they are doing if it is too weird to talk about in a family newspaper. I think it's sort of my responsibility to help these poor souls wait out the month until hockey season starts. For example:

1. Play swimming pool hockey. Use real hockey sticks, an inflatable puck and stay out of the deep end . . . bodies are harder to retrieve from there.

2. Drive down to Joe Louis Arena to pick out a good parking spot.

3. Think up some clever cheers for the new varsity hockey teams at North and South High Schools. (Hint: "Go Norsemen" isn't clever).

4. Practice lunging out of a chair, elbowing people out of your way, racing to the bathroom, grabbing a beer from the refrigerator and spilling half of it on the way back to the chair. That way you'll be ready to attend a hockey game at Joe Louis Arena.

5. Stick your head in the freezer, wait until ice forms around your ears and pretend you're waiting in line at a Joe Louis Arena ticket window.

6. Memorize the entire Detroit Red Wing 1983-84 training camp roster.

7. Practice learning penalty signals so you can impress your friends by shouting out penalties before they announce them over the public address system.

8. Wear a hockey jersey to the beach and wait for people to ask if you are somebody.

9. Go to the Grosse Pointe Community Rink to watch the Mite teams practice.

10. Take your ice skates to be sharpened (Remember that double runners cost extra).

11. For a laugh, tell everyone that the Detroit Red Wings will finish second in their division. (keep an eye out for men in funny white coats).

12. Buy some ice time at the GPCR, get your friends together and play a game of pickup hockey. (No, this doesn't mean that there will be somebody to pick you up off the ice after one turn around the rink).

13. For more laughs, tell hockey jokes, like: "How many Red Wings does it take to change a light bulb? Six. The goalie does all the work and the other five guys just stand around and watch."

14. Stand in front of a mirror and practice saying things hockey players say, like: "play the man, eh?" or "play the puck, eh?" and "like we're really strong through the middle, eh, so we should do pretty well, eh?"

15. Fill up a bunch of plastic bottles with stones, go to a 3 a.m. pick-up game at the GPCR, cheer loudly, shake the bottles a lot and see how many new friends you make.

16. Explain the hockey terms "icing" and "offsides" to strangers at fancy Grosse Pointe cocktail parties. Introduce these new friends to the ones you met at the GPCR.

17. Sing the Canadian National Anthem loudly at 6 a.m. each day.

18. Hang around the GPCR, wait for the Squirts and Pee Wees to come out and ask them for their autographs, just in case one of them becomes famous someday.

19. Rehearse nice things to yell at referees, for a change.

20. Try out for a Grosse Pointe Hockey Association team. Remember to lie about your age if you are over 20.

If you are, don't embarrass yourself by trying out for a Mite team.

Well, I think I've done my part. Any one of these suggestions should help an overheated hockey fan, although some of the more difficult cases might need to combine two or three of the remedies.

I just hope they work. We need to get these hockey nuts off the streets and back into the arenas where they belong.

On the beam . . .

Betsy Grego's summer was pretty "well-balanced" — at least when she was participating in the Grosse Pointe Public Schools' summer gymnastics program. That's the Park's Betsy on the balance beam above, under the watchful eye of instructor Bobbi Coloni. The gymnastics program was one of several offered by the schools this summer.

Coming next week . . .

You clever Grosse Pointers! You knew something was up, what with all the whistle blowing, the caelesthenics and the crashing and banging of football pads going on all over the Pointe in recent days. You're right . . . it's football season. It's also time for the Grosse Pointe News' annual football previews. Next week, we'll profile the varsity football squads from North, South and University Liggett School. The answers to questions like: "Who's hot?" and "Who's not?" and "Can South make it to the playoffs in 1983?" can be found in the Sept. 8 issue of the News. And when it's football season, can fall sports like girls' tennis, boys' soccer and cross country be far behind? We'll take a look at the defending state champions in golf, cross country, soccer and tennis next week, too. A special fall sports preview will spotlight those teams which made 1982 the best fall sports season in Grosse Pointe history — and whether they can do it again in '83.

Bon Secours helps athletes start season right

Bon Secours Hospital is helping student athletes start this fall's sports season on the right foot with a pre-season athletic screening program.

About 80 athletes from Lutheran East High School in Harper Woods attended a screening session on Wednesday, Aug. 10, at Bon Secours Hospital's Physical Therapy Outpatient Clinic on Eight Mile Road near Beaconsfield in St. Clair Shores. The students were members of Lutheran East's boys' football and basketball, girls' basketball, cross-country and soccer teams.

"Our goal is to identify problems and certain conditions that could lead to serious injury during the season," according to Michael Beauvais, registered therapist and coordinator of the screening program.

A team of physicians, physical therapists, and a nurse from Bon Secours volunteered their time to perform the exams.

"The pros and college teams have used sophisticated screening programs for years while high school athletes have traditionally received inadequate exams prior to sports seasons. Our program will hopefully help reduce the number and severity of major injuries," Beauvais said.

Student athletes were screened at stations for blood pressure, pulse and urinalysis. Evaluations of heart and lung functions, and the musculoskeletal system were also performed.

"We're screening for medical conditions like diabetes, as well as structural problems like unstable knees or other conditions that could lead to injury during sports activities," Beauvais said.

If the problem is identified by a member of the screening team, a consultation with one of the physicians could result in an exercise prescription to build strength. If a problem is serious, the student would be advised by the physician

Delays, shortened course mark DBC's 89th regatta

Hot, hazy humid summers might be nice . . . except for Lake St. Clair sailors who find that hot, hazy, humid summers are usually accompanied by very little wind. That's been the fate of most regatta participants this year, and it wasn't any different for the 89th annual Detroit Boat Club Regatta last Saturday.

Some 200 boats were ready to participate in the Aug. 27 event, which began with a two-hour delay. And when things did get started, race officials shortened the 15.0 mile course by one-half to 8.1 miles.

The turn of events didn't really surprise race officials, since they've run most of this season's regattas under the same conditions, including late August's Crescent Sail Yacht Club event which had everyone talking about the crowd of 58 boats crossing the line at once. Race timers didn't finish compiling results until six days after the Aug. 20 event.

Clubs crowns champs

More than 1200 ardent softball players spent their summer on the diamonds throughout the Pointe this summer, thanks to the Neighborhood Club.

There were 71 softball teams competing in the various Neighborhood Club leagues. Each league season ended with a double elimination tournament crowning the division champions.

In the Club's women's league there were four divisions of competition with a total of 29 teams. In the Green Division, R.S.T. and Rustic Cabins tied for the regular season title with 8-2 records, but the tournament provided surprising results. Larson's Ladies, with a .500 record, caught fire in the playoffs, winning five straight games to take the championship.

In the finals, they defeated R.S.T. 13-3 behind the clutch hitting of Signi Larson and Jan DeFour. The Yellow Division also saw upsets as the defending champion Carlisle-King, "Honest Lawyers," although undefeated in season play, were knocked into the loser's bracket by Cottage Hospital and then lost to the Puzzlers. Cottage Hospital cruised through the winners' bracket, defeating Puzzlers in the finals, 6-1. Cottage's Carolyn Carnes and Pat Neuman each went three-for-three to lead the team to victory.

Cozy Corner Bar made sure that there were no surprises in the Pink Division after an undefeated regular season, sweeping through the playoffs. Averaging 14 runs a game, while giving up only four, the Cozy Corner Bar squad took the championship over Andary Realty, 12-2. Andary, with only a 3-7 record, played some great softball to reach the finals.

The women's Blue Division, the Pacemakers and The Granary tied at the end of league games with 9-1 records. In the tournament, they met in the finals of the winners' bracket with Pacemakers coming out on top 4-3. The Granary had come back from the losers' bracket to the finals. In the rain played finals, The Granary came from behind to take the first game, 4-3, in the seventh inning to force a second game. The Pacemakers got their hitting shoes on to take an 11-0 lead when the game was stopped by rain in the fifth inning. When the game resumed, the Pacemakers took the championship 13-0.

The Men's League also had four divisions and a total of 42 teams. In the Over 30 Division, Cal's Pizza took the division title, and with five straight playoff victories, won the championship. In the finals they defeated Suds in the Park, 10-8, with both teams putting their hits together. Suds had to fight through the loser's bracket et to get to the finals after a second place league finish.

Atsali Brothers captured the men's Gold Division regular season title with an 11-1 record, but the playoffs were a different story. Heatcraft Heating and Cooling knocked them into the losers' bracket on their way to the finals. Herb's Hideaway, (after losing their opening tournament game) played some exceptional softball, winning six straight games including a victory over Heatcraft in the finals to force a second game. Heatcraft came through putting together defense with some extra base hits to take the title, 7-0.

The Blue and Green Divisions were combined into an "A" tournament and a "B" tournament based on regular season records. In the "B" playoff, Piccadilly Pub & Deli hit a hot streak and won four games to take the title. In the finals, they scored eight runs in the sixth inning to defeat B'Stilla Bistro, 13-1. B'Stilla's only two losses in the tournament were to Piccadilly. The "A" tournament saw some upsets as division champion Suds In The Park lost its opening game and fell again in the losers' bracket. Borland Associates - Earl Keim and Edmund T. Ahee Jewelers each went through their halves of the winners' bracket to meet in the finals. Borland defeated Ahee to send them to the losers' bracket but Ahee came back to the finals and topped Borland, 12-1, to force a second game.

Borland took a 5-2 lead into the sixth inning of that contest when Ahee erupted for four runs to take a 6-5 lead. Borland came back to tie in the seventh on Terry Griffin's homerun, his third hit of the game, but Ahee was not to be denied, with back-to-back singles by Joe Baratta and Andy Agosta. Greg Ahee knocked in the winning run with a sacrifice fly for an exciting 7-6 victory.

Top cops . . .

Normally, these guys are top cops . . . but they traded in that status this summer to be tops in softball. The top ballplayers are, from left to right, Mike Van DeGinste, public safety officer in the Woods, John Trevillian, public safety officer in the Shores, and Detective Mark Brecht, of the Farms. The trio helped lead the Metro Macomb Police to three softball championships against national teams this summer.

Momentum in the economy vs. market

By Ron Hart
 July data, which are beginning to be released from government and private statistical mills, show that the momentum of the economy in the second quarter has carried over into the third. The most impressive indication of continued economic strength comes from the labor market, where the July unemployment rate fell by a half percent from the June level and where almost half a million jobs were created in one month. Initial claims for unemployment insurance, reported on a weekly basis, are running under 400,000, confirming the strong employment picture. Moreover, the monthly survey taken by the National Association of Purchasing Managers found strong gains in orders and production along with gains in employment during July. The consumer sector of the economy is the biggest direct beneficiary of much of this news. rising numbers of jobholders, coupled with the July cut in income tax rates and the reduced rate of price inflation, point toward sizable real income gains in the months ahead. Although the fraction of income saved was pushed down sharply in the April-June interval, I expect to see enough income growth to promote both increased spending and increased saving. Since consumer demand is about two-thirds of total Gross National Product, these favorable conditions will have important repercussions throughout the economy.

While the current momentum will propel economic activity to higher levels, there are changes currently unfolding that will produce some slowdown. The rise in interest rates is already having an impact upon housing prospects. In June, new home sales fell 2.9 percent after gains in the four prior months. Lumber prices have fallen about 25 percent from their highs in the grades heavily used in home construction. Mortgage interest rates have moved back into the 13 to 14 percent range from levels close to 12 percent just several months ago. Over the next three to four months, housing starts could well fall from the recent annualized pace of 1.7 million units to about 1.5 million. Indirectly, the slowdown in home building will affect the rest of the economy, and by late 1983 and into early 1984 a deceleration in the pace of the overall expansion should be apparent.

The strong economic momentum and the accompanying increase in interest rates, along with the ill-behaved aggregate money supply, have caused recent problems in the financial markets, and the pressures may well persist for a while longer. However, some relief should be coming on all of these fronts: current strength in production will abate, the money supply shows signs of easing, and the upward pressure on interest rates will turn, at least for a time. Consequently, the correction in the stock market should be completed within the next two to three months.

In light of the market's current weakness full market weighting is appropriate in only two groups of stocks, the cyclical and energy issues which comprise 20 percent and 18 percent of the Standard and Poors 500 respectively. Within the energy sector, both the international and the integrated domestic oil stocks offer some promising investment opportunities.

Study predicts teacher shortage

A report by the National Association of Independent Schools (NAIS), Boston, projects that independent schools, like public schools and other private schools, will feel the effects of the nation's shortage of mathematics and science teachers, unless steps are taken to resolve the crisis.

Statistics obtained by NAIS from Independent Educational Services, a nonprofit independent school placement service in Princeton, N.J., show four times as many openings in mathematics and science as candidates applying through the agency.

The report suggests that unless current national trends are reversed, shortages will also appear in foreign language and elementary school teaching. The authors say the situation "appears to foreshadow a more general shortage of qualified... teachers in all disciplines and at all levels" and may be "the tip of a very dangerous iceberg."

Among recommendations for solving the crisis are: National Science Foundation funding for in-service training for mathematics and science teachers in public and private schools; low-cost loans to college students pursuing studies in mathematics or science that would be "forgiven" over a period of time if the recipient teaches in elementary or secondary schools; cooperative development of technological centers for public and private school students and teachers to gain new skills and technological literacy. The report also offers practical suggestions schools can follow immediately to recruit mathematics and science teachers.

The NAIS Board of Directors ordered the report as a means of contributing to the current public discussion of solutions to the teacher shortage in the nation's public and private schools. The report, "The Critical Shortage of Mathematics and Science Teachers: Tip of an Iceberg?," is available from the National Association of Independent Schools, 18 Tremont St., Boston, Mass., 02108.

The more than 900 independent schools in the United States represented by NAIS comprise a portion of the private schools in this country. They are sectarian and nonsectarian private schools that subscribe to nondiscriminatory policies, are fully accredited or evaluated, are governed by lay boards, of trustees or directors, are recognized by the Internal Revenue Service as nonprofit 501 (c) (3) institutions, and are self-supporting (as opposed to tax- or church-supported) through tuitions, endowments and voluntary giving.

They complement rather than compete with public schools by providing additional and alternative educational resources to their communities and by offering educational choice to families. Their history dates back to earliest colonial times, and many have been established since then.

Kudos to two active seniors

Two Grosse Pointe residents were nominated Senior Citizen of the Year by their respective organizations as part of a state-wide effort to recognize contributions that elderly residents are making in today's world.

Johnny (Emogene) Adams was nominated by the Detroit Area Agency on Aging and Helen Francis was named by SOC (Services for Older Citizens of the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods).

The busy schedules these women maintain in retirement years are for each an extension of a lifetime in active community leadership roles. Mrs. Adams, or Johnny as most Grosse Pointers know her, has lived here for 53 years and during that time has been involved in almost every major public undertaking with emphasis on youth activities — TA, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, American Field Service and creation programs, to name just a few. Her administrative skills developed during those years are now aiding her in her work with the Aging Agency, where she serves on the board and is chairman of the grant review committee.

Mrs. Francis is currently on the SOC board of directors and is chairman of a SOC committee overseeing the Senior Citizen Information and Referral Services (I&R) — both organizations that she helped to start. At I&R she deals with policy matters and does telephone-intake, helping individual seniors resolve their problems. In addition she is involved in a wide variety of social, civic and education leisure pursuits.

When Mrs. Francis retired eight years ago she moved easily into volunteer community work, drawing on skills garnered during a 50-year career in social work. Much of her professional years were with the Community Services Society of New York City, including a 10-year stint with a program for aging clients. From 1966 to 1975 she was a member of the Wayne State University faculty.

This positive outlook toward the international oils is based on our forecast that demand for petroleum products should begin to increase during the second half of 1983 as the economic recovery unfolds and inventory destocking comes to an end.

Reflecting these favorable developments, as well as the rigorous spending reductions that are being implemented, earnings have begun a cyclical recovery that could be extended by world-wide economic expansion for the rest of the decade.

Labor Day should be icing on busy state tourism season

The Labor Day holiday weekend will crown what tourism officials say could be the best summer since the 1978 season, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"The fine weather has boosted many outdoor activities this summer and put tourism levels 2 to 4 percent ahead of last year's pace," said James Drury, Auto Club's Travel Operations manager. "A good Labor Day weekend combined with ideal weather for the fall color season should translate into the state's second $10 billion tourism year."

The Auto Club points out that total tourism spending hit $10.1 billion in Michigan last year.

The Michigan Department of Transportation predicts that motorists will drive a record 730 million miles over the 78-hour holiday period, a 2.1 percent increase over last year. During the first six months of 1983, travel in Michigan has increased 2.7 percent, based on traffic counts and gasoline sales.

Other upswings have been noted in Auto Club member requests for travel information, travel in Michigan by residents of adjacent states, Mackinac Bridge crossings and business activity at some popular tourist attractions.

Auto Club routing requests for Michigan destinations are up 2 percent for the first seven months of 1983. Michigan TourBook requests up 1.2 percent and requests for materials from out-of-state AAA members are up 3.2 percent, reversing a trend from last year when many residents from neighboring states traveled to the World's Fair in Tennessee.

"Day-use parks have been the biggest benefactor of the sum-

Toughlove group meets Mondays

Toughlove, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe office of the Northeast Guidance Center will meet Monday evenings at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack Avenue, beginning Monday, Sept. 12 at 7:30.

The Toughlove group was organized last year to help parents cope with their troubled teens. The group was founded by Pennsylvania therapists David and Phyllis York nearly six years ago after they experienced a traumatic ordeal with their own daughter.

For more information on the local Toughlove group, call 885-1049.

mer-long hot spell," Drury said. "While camping is down 4 percent at Michigan's state parks, day-use attendance is up 11 percent."

A spot check of Huron-Clinton Metro Parks shows attendance increases of 5 percent at Kensington near Brighton, 25 percent at Metropolitan Beach on Lake St. Clair and 40 percent at Stony Creek near Rochester.

Activity at private campgrounds is up about 5 percent, according to the Michigan Association of Private Campground Owners. Week-day business has been especially good.

The Michigan Travel Bureau reports an 8.3 percent increase of visitors at travel information centers and an 8.6 percent increase in inquiries between Memorial Day and Aug. 1. Mackinac Bridge crossings for the same period are up 3.6 percent.

Other tourism barometers on the upswing this year include attendance at Dearborn's Greenfield Village, 12 percent; bookings at the Traverse City Motel Association, 6 percent; diners at Frankenmuth's Zehnder's and Bavarian Inn, 2 percent; attendance at Iron Mountain's Iron Mine, 2 percent, and riders on Au Sable River Boats at Oscoda, 5 to 10 percent.

Gasoline supplies should be adequate for the Labor Day weekend which officially begins at 6 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2 and ends at midnight Monday, Sept. 5. An Auto Club survey of 300 stations along major travel routes shows 92 percent planning to be open daylight hours. An average 50 percent will operate after 9 p.m. and 15 percent past midnight.

Twenty-one persons lost their lives in Labor Day weekend traffic in Michigan in 1982. Two-thirds of the accidents occurred within 25 miles of the drivers' homes and 71 percent of the at-fault drivers were known or suspected of drinking. Of the 15 persons killed who had safety belts available, none was known to be wearing one.

For the first time, four helicopters used to survey traffic for State Police's Operation CARE (Combined Accident Reduction Effort) will provide information for the Auto Club's "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" Holiday News Service.

Information on traffic conditions, combined with tourism and recreational reports, will be broadcast to more than 160 radio stations from 3 to 11 p.m. Sept. 2, 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sept. 3 and 5, and 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Sept. 4.

South ready to start '83 season; looks back at '82

South's football team trailed rival North, 10-7, with just five minutes left in the game one cold Saturday last November. Junior Paul Hawk came out of nowhere to pull down senior quarterback Bill Crow's pass, sprinted 40 yards into the end zone and gave South the win, a 9-0 record and its first playoff spot in 30 years.

Since that cold November day, 31 teams have represented South in sports through three athletic seasons. The following is a summary of South High's sports year.

After the 14-10 win over North, the varsity football team went to the state playoffs, losing to Milford Lakeland 17-7. Hawk was named to the first team All-Metro, Jim Hartman was named to the first team All-Suburban, and Ken Fromm, Hartman, Andy Turnbull, David DeSmyter, Mark LeChard, and Hawk, were also selected for the EML first team. Coach Russ Hepner was named regional coach of the year.

South's JV team didn't have the luck of the varsity squad, finishing the season with a 27-0 loss to North, and a 4-4-1 record.

The freshman football team had its problems in the early going, but beat North, 15-8, to end the season with a 2-7 record. Throughout the year, Chris Astfalk emerged as the leader and promises to have a good future for next year.

The girls' varsity basketball team had trouble this year, earning only a 6-14 record. Caroline Hoski led the team and became South's fourth leading career scorer. With her 11-point scoring average, she was named to the All League team.

The JV basketball team, set a South record with the most wins by a girls' JV basketball squad, ending their season with a 14-6 record. The girls also accumulated the highest winning percentage of a JV basketball team while finishing third in the EML. Bev Zuelcher was the team's leading scorer with 124 points. Anne Schwarz finished second with 119 points and Lynn Vismara had 117 points.

The freshmen girls finished the season with a 12-2 record and a 37 point per game average. "We had a very talented team," coach Joe Beldyga said. "All of the girls improved."

The girls' cross country team capped its successful season with an 18th place finish in the state meet. The team had a perfect 4-0 EML record and was 13-2 overall. Meg Moisen finished 10th at the state meet and was named to the All-State squad. Suzanne Cebrowski, Kathy Mantrionni, Barb Giroux, and Megan McCoy all placed in the state meet.

The boys' cross country team also had a great season. The team won the EML and had a 9-1 overall record. In the league meet, Nigel Orton, and Dave Deronne finished in the top seven to collect All-League honors. Jon Roberts finished eighth.

The golf team ended its season with a 12th place finish in the regionals, a 5-5 record and was fourth in the EML. Junior Jud Kotas rose as the strongest player.

The girls' swim team concluded its season with a 12th place finish in the state meet. Earlier in the season, the team won the EML Bi-County meet and finished the season with a 9-4 record.

The boys' varsity soccer team made it as far as the second round of the state playoffs before the season came to a close. Tedd Aurelius was the team's leading scorer with 19 goals on the season and two goals in the playoffs. The team finished with a 8-7-1 record.

The boys' JV soccer team also had a good season, finishing at 8-0-1.

The girls' tennis team finished its spectacular season in a first place tie for the Class A title. In the tournament, senior Meghan McMahon won her No. 1 singles match. Madeline Willard finished second in her No. 2 singles flight, and the No. 1 doubles team of Noel Berry and Laura Gushee won its flight.

The No. 2 doubles team of Michele Coddens and Elizabeth Peterson were state runners-up.

The boys' varsity basketball team ended its season with a 52-38 loss to Bishop Gallagher in the first round of the district playoffs.

The netters finished with a 10-10 overall record and a 7-7, fourth place EML record. The Most Valuable Player award went to Tedd Aurelius; while Bill Rathsburg collected the Sportsmanship Award. Aurelius and Chris Cruthis were named to the All-EML team, and Rathsburg, Aurelius and John O'Meara were named to the All-Academic EML team.

This year's JV squad finished the season with a six-game winning streak to end with a 9-5 EML record and a 9-11 overall record. Al Ament was the team's biggest surprise with a 12-point scoring average. Rick Whitney finished second in scoring but led the team in assists. Whitney also had the high score with 29 points in one game.

The freshmen team finished a successful season with a 12-7 record. Leading the team in scoring was Chris Astfalk with over 300 points. He also had a 15 point per game average. PJ Imesh and Tim Hudson had 200 points each.

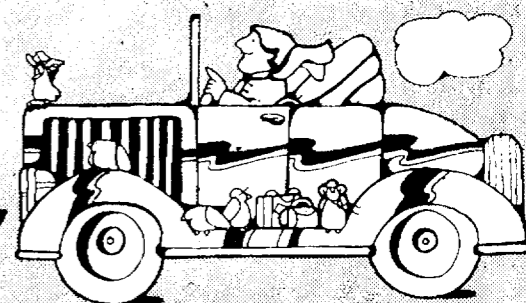

South's varsity volleyball team ended a disappointing season with an 8-6 mark and a loss to Bishop Gallagher in the districts.

Finishing the season with a 15-1 record, the JV volleyball team had a very successful year.

This year's gymnastics team will be best distinguished for its work in the regionals. Although none of the girls finished in the top eight, six girls had qualifying scores — Andrea Bay, Phyllis Ayoub, Amy Vasher, Shann Booth, Martha Young and Karen Howe. Booth was awarded the Most Improved gymnast, while Ayoub, Bay, and Young were winners of the Most Valuable Award.
