St. John Hospital recently held its annual picnic for employes who have contributed to the United Fund Foundation drive. Held in the hospital's courtyard, the picnic fetes contributors with food, balloons, cotton candy and a dunk tank.

Among the party-goers this year were Tiger stars (and hopefully World Series participants) Kirk Gibson and Dave Rozema who circulated among the crowd shaking hands and signing hundreds of autographs.

According to our source (who shall remain anonymous until near the end of this story), Rozema kept signing autographs while eyeballing the dunk tank, graced by Eleonore Heinrich, director of nursing.

Finally, the ol' major leaguer strode over to the tank, grabbed some baseballs, reared back and threw ... and threw ... and threw. Rozema reportedly threw five balls . . . er, we meant strikes. In any event, he missed the target all five times. Flustered, frustrated, but still game, Rozema reportedly turned to L. Michael Smith, SJH's vicepresident of corporate development (Mr. Anonymous) and bet him $20 he couldn't dunk a nurse.

Guess what? I hope you're not getting ahead of me here. Smokin' Smith threw two wild pitches then nailed the target and helped Ms. Heinrich to plunge into the Rozema reportedly paid up with a smile. We collected a story for you, the UF collected another $20 for others and "sidewinding" Smith collected a story for his grandchildren.

You could look it up.

Dum da dum dum

I was working the day watch out of homicide last week when the call crackled out over the police radio. "Two chickens at large in the area of Notre Dame and Maumee." A copper from the City PD was sent on the chicken caper to help a woman round up her hot footing hens.

But the birds eventually proved to be too much for the lone lawman who radioed back to his headquarters for more help. 'Uh, 24 to 20, better send another officer out here to help with these chickens," said the red-faced (we imagine) policeman. "Better send a net too.

Other Pointe officers listening in on the radio were quick to respond to their fellow officer's plea with giggles, cackles and chicken imitations (all anonymously) over the radio.

Soon the call came back to headquarters - "Cancel all fur-ther help. The chickens are in custody" reported a disgusted sounding officer.

The felony fryers were returned to police headquarters where they probably underwent further grilling. It's a dirty job. but someone has to do it.

Going, going, gone

It looks like it's auction time in the Farms again. Stalker and Boos, Inc., of Birmingham received permission from the Farms City Council earlier this month to hold a preview and auction of belongings and effects of the late Hugo Scherer, at the Scherer Estate, 205 Lakeshore Road.

For those interested in attending, the preview dates are from noon until 8 p.m. today (Continued on Page 18A)

Parents want to vote on closings

By Susan McDonald

"Don't touch our elementary schools," was the emotional plea from dozens of parents who lined up behind microphones Monday evening to protest the Board of Education's proposal to close three elementary and one middle school next fall because of enrollment declines.

More than 400 people jammed Maire School's gym, lobby and adjacent classrooms to participate in a school board-scheduled public hearing. The parents, retirees, politicians and realtors who spoke were unanimously opposed to the board's proposal. They said the plan would force property values to decline, causing overcrowding in schools and put an unfair bur-

Since schools reopened earlier this month public protest against the Board of Education's plan has grown stronger and more organized. Many parents are printing bumper stickers, circulating peti-tions, buying newspaper ads and jamming public hearings to voice their opposition.

And next Monday, Sept. 26, kids will get into the act as well. Parents at three elementaries targeted for closing next fall — Maire, Mason and Barnes — have invited school board members and administrators to join them and their children in three "Children's Walks" at 7:45 a.m. to demonstrate that the traveling distances

"dangerous, unnecessary and too great for elementary age children

At the same time, pressure is mounting on the school board to put the issue up to a vote. A dozen speakers at a Sept. 15 hearing at Pierce and the Sept. 19 forum at Maire school called for a vote of the people on the issue. Parents who are already passing petitions in opposition the latest plan say they are considering switching their efforts to gather enough signatures to force the board to hold an election.

School board members have rejected a referendum so far, saying it would be an abdication of their responsibility to lead the comden on students who must travel longer distances to class.

The longer distances to school and transportation of students appear to be the toughest issues to come out of the new plan for both board members and parents. Parents of Mason children say it's dangerous to send youngsters over the I-94 Freeway to attend Poupard elementary school. And those whose children attend Defer worry about crossing at Jefferson to attend Trombly. The administration has promised that crossing at Jefferson to attend Trombly. sing guards will be supplied.

Several school board trustees indicated in interviews last week that they consider the transportation of students for distances of almost five miles to middle school in some cases to be a serious pro-

"One thing that disturbs me is the SEMTA (Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority) cutbacks," said trustee Dorothy Kennel, referring to reductions in bus service that were threatening to go into effect throughout the Detroit area on Oct. 1. "I really would not want to close schools unless we can get a public bus company to put a line in''.

Trustee Vincent LoCicero said transportation may prove to be an "insurmountable" problem, but added "I'm not going to make a decision until the school administration has time to find out what can be done.'

Trustee Roger Mourad said at the Sept. 15 meeting that he "wouldn't support a plan that is not practically feasible. If reasonable transportation is not availab-le, I will not support it," he said.

The school system's director of support services, Ben Zenn, said he is talking to private bus com-lanies about chartering services. SEMTA, which was threatening to cut almost half its lines, has delayed a decision on the reductions. Zenn said SEMTA may add routes if ridership demands it.

Supt. Kenneth Brummel said there are no plans to provide bus services at Board of Education expenses. "Clearly, the board is expecting some people to make sacrifices. We think they are justified in the long run by solving some of these education problems," he said.

The school board was more aggressive in presenting its point of view at the Maire hearing on Sept. 19, presenting a half-hour long discussion of the enrollment decline and justification of its plan.

The number of students in Grosse Pointe's 15 school buildings has dropped from 13,400 in 1972 to about 7,400 this year, according to Brummel. The decline has been greatest at the elementary level, which has dropped by 53 percent since 1970 from 6,312 students to just 2,964 this year Middle school enrollment has dropped 40 percent in the same period, from 2,097 to 1,245. John Stendel is a house detective in every sense of the word. Semi-retired after 30 years of working in Grosse Pointe, Stendel still earns a living as an appraiser of antiques, stamps and coins, plus he discovers "treasures" lost or hidden in people's homes.

'Young people usually have a hard time realizing that older persons often squirrel things away in their homes for the hard times they think will come," said Stendel, a lean man with salt and pepper hair.

'They remember the depression, or they lost all their money in a bank, or they simply don't trust people anymore. They hide valuables in their homes. Stamps, coin collections, jewels, cash you name it. Then they die, without telling anyone where it's hidden. The heirs or the executor usually makes a superficial search then try to sell everything as quickly as they can. Many, many times I've been hired to search and found thousands of dollars in hidden items.

Anyplace you can think of to hide valuables. Stendel has checked and found them. The most common areas to hide things are the first checked.

False steps in a stairway are the most common," said Stendel. "Usually the first or second going up. I found a 12 piece place setting of sterling silver not too long ago.

A little polishing and it was fine.'

Another place used often is in bowls and cups placed high in china cabinets or in pantries. Everyone knows that, but people hiding money can get pretty

"I remember reaching up in one cabinet and dipping my fingers into a bowl on the top shelf," smiled Stendel. "I felt something wet and pulled out pretty quick. A further look showed where the person had put money in the bottom, covered it with a plastic false top, then poured water in on top to fool you. Another time, I found a bottle of Ragu spaghetti sauce filled with hundreds of dol-

"The owner had emptied the bottle, painted the inside red, filled it with money and put it back on the shelf. Anyone in a hurry would have missed it.

Stendel is usually hired by the estate to search a home for valuables on a percentage basis. He collects 10 percent if the home hasn't yet been searched and 25 percent if it has.

"That's within limits, of course," said Stendel. "If 1 find $100,000 1'm not going to ask for $10,000. We work out a level of compensation.'

Stendel also hires himself out at $10 a hour to appraise antiques, stamps and coin collections. "When I'm searching a house, I never make any attempt to buy the things I find," he said. "That constitutes a conflict of interest. I've got a good reputation and want to keep it.

Stendel got the idea about being a house "detective" after a maiden aunt asked his help in recovering money stashed in her deceased brother's home.

State narrows search for moths to Shores

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Gypsy moth traps have turned up a potential problem in the Shores, state agriculture department officials said this week. More than 60 of the 70 moths caught in the Pointes and Harper Woods this summer were trapped in the Shores.

State Agriculture Department regional supervisor Carl Dollhopf said the state set 320 traps this year in the Pointes and Harper Woods, hoping to pinpoint where the moths may be coming from. Walk-through searches of Harper Woods and the Shores area yeilded nothing last year.

The state caught 61 moths in an area south of Vernier along Lakeshore in the Shores, Dollhopf said. A walk-through search of the area is scheduled for early November after the leaves have fallen from the trees, he added.

The Woods and Harper Woods. where some moths were trapped last year, showed decreases in the number taken this year, Dollhopf said. No moths were found in the Woods or the Park. Five moths were found in five traps in Harper Woods, where last year 24 moths were trapped. The rest were caught in the Farms, Dollhopf

Moths found in the other cities could be "fly-overs" from the Shores, Dollhopf said. The male moths, the gender capable of flight, are powerful flyers and could have been borne by winds into other areas where traps are present, he said.

Last August, agriculture department workers spot-checked traps in the Shores and found 22 moths. Dollhopf said. The state then increased the number of traps in the area to help pinpoint where the pests might be coming

The weather in the past year should have boosted the number of moths found in the Woods and Harper Woods, Dollhopf said. The mild winter meant a better survival rate for the eggs, while the warm summer meant a better season for trapping the moths, he

The walk-through search will concentrate on areas near the ground where the female moths, too burdened with eggs to fly, tend to deposit the buff-colored egg masses. Workers will search wood piles and other near-ground protected areas for the egg masses, which would have been laid last

Should egg masses be found, the department would have to decide how to eradicate the moths. Generally, a double spraying of the pesticide Sevin is used, state officials said. Sevin has been proven safe for use in residential areas, but is potentially dangerous to marine life.

Farms' Frenais named to post by Blanchard

Governor James J. Blanchard recently announced that Jean L. Frenais, of Grosse Pointe Farms, has agreed to serve in state government as a member of the Governor's Executive Corps.

Frenais is the vice-president and general manager of Americas/Pacific Division of the Burroughs Corporation. He will be on loan from his regular position and will work in the Office of International Development, Department of Commerce. Frenais will receive $1 per year from the State of Michigan and will continue to receive his salary from Burroughs.

He joins six other Michigan executives who will be working on a number of high priority projects related to the state economy, assisting state officials in analyzing and developing policy initiatives.

"I am pleased and gratified that so many of Michigan's major business concerns, and some of their marketing management positions most talented and valuable including manager, EDP promoemployes, have agreed to join in the effort to rebuild Michigan's economy," said Blanchard.

"A renewed spirit of cooperation between government and the pri-vate sector is necessary if Michigan is to remain competitive on a national and international basis. The Executive Corps will serve as a mechanism to further develop this relationship."

The Governor pointed out that Michigan's program is the first of its kind in the nation to blend senior executives from business with senior executives in government.

Frenais, a native of Paris, joined Burroughs in 1949 in the accounting department of the French company, S.A. Burroughs France. He transferred to the sales department

Women, learn to grow old

The Community Education program at the Northeast Guidance Center has created a series of the challenges which accompany aging. This series, entitled "The Older Woman: Double Jeopardy," helps women understand and anticipate the issues of being female and being older, as well as exploring the options available to them to develop the skills they need to make the transition a smooth one.

The six-week program uses a support group format to discuss women's stereotypes and to examine their own view of themselves. Topics will include mood control, self-expression, personal enrichment from the environment, life changes and direction and growth. The series incorporates a number of techniques including behavioral graphing, assertiveness training, goal planning and implementation, acknowledgement of strengths and stress management.

The overall goal of "The Older Woman: Double Jeopardy" is to facilitate change for women who programs to help women address are interested in taking charge and changing their lives. A wo-man's desire for change need not indicate unhappiness - but change can enhance happiness through enhancing self-awareness and control.

There are two Double Jeopardy workshops beginning in September. The afternoon workshop will meet from 2 to 4 p.m. for six weeks beginning Tuesday, Sept. 20. The evening session will begin Sept. 22, and meet from 6 to 8 p.m., again for six weeks. Both afternoon and evening groups will meet at Salem Memorial Church, 21230 Moross Road at Chester in Detroit. That is located on Moross between Mack and 1-94.

Mary Ann Collinson will facilitate the series. For more information, or to register, call Ms. Collinson at 824-8000, ext. 290. Registration is limited

Two arrested for shoplifting

Two Hamtramck women, one in a wheelchair, were released on $50 bond each last week after Grosse Pointe City police arrested them on a charge of larceny from a building in connection with thefts from three stores in the Vil-

The two women are scheduled to be arraigned in municipal court next month, according to Det. John Drummond.

Police were called by an employe of Willow Tree, 16910 Kercheval Avenue, on Thursday, Sept. 15. The employe told police she saw one of the suspects ball up a blazer and place it in the lap of her companion, who was sitting in a wheelchair. She also told police she say a grey plastic bag on one of the women. The Willow Tree worker stopped the women and retrieved the blazer before she called police.

Police arrested the women on Kercheval Avenue and said they also retrieved a grey plastic bag about 25 feet away from where they were standing containing items taken from two other Village stores. Children who accompanied the suspects were carrying teddy bears with price tags iden-tifying them as belonging to one of the shops, police said.

Eastside Emergency

Center

LOCATION

We wish to inform you about Eastside-Emergency Center. We are located on Harper Avenue in Harper Woods near the Parkcrest Motel.

ABOUT THE CENTER

Eastside is for non-life threatening conditions. It fills the gap between hospital emergency rooms that treat major trauma victims and private physician's offices that treat chronic care patients. It is there when your doctor is unavailable or if you do not have a private physician.

HOSPITALS

The doctors are on staff at varying hospitals in the area including the medical center. If admission is needed and you do not have a private physician a good rapport is maintained here with the area hospitals and you are admitted to the one of your choice provided a bed is available.

SERVICES RENDERED

The center is equipped with X-ray, lab, EKG, and dentistry. We treat sprains, broken bones, sore throats, lacerations, minor burns, wasp stings, gynecological problems, and do physical examinations, to name just a 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. Monday - Saturday 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Sundays and Holidays. We are open 365 days a year. No appointments are needed. Hours will be extended as warranted.

WAITING

The initial contact with a patient is made an average of 30 seconds after he walks in the door. He is triaged and in treatment with a physician within five minutes on average. The usual total visit time is under 30 minutes for nonsurgical cases and under an hour for treatment needing casting or surgery.

INSURANCE

All insurances are accepted. The office fees are well below a hospital emergency room's since the center does not have to maintain the support facilities for major trauma cases.

OFFICE PERSONNEL

The staff is hand-picked as are the physicians we refer you to in order to provide excellent health care to you and your family. The center's philosophy and the physicians' practice strives to show we care.

Brahms 'comes alive' at Music for A While

This year marks the 150th anniversary of the birth of Johannes and performs their music. Brahms, the great German composer. But on Oct. 9, at 3 p.m. in the Great Gallery of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, Johannes Brahms will in a sense be recreated. Roger Jamison, through ingenious costuming and clever presentation "becomes," Brahms for an en-thralling afternoon of fine music.

As Brahms, he relates anecdotes and incidents from his life, and performs works for piano and for voice. This concert is the first in the 1983-84 Music for A While series, which begins its ninth consecutive season of programming fine chamber music in Grosse Pointe. This also marks Roger Jamison's first appearance in Grosse Pointe.

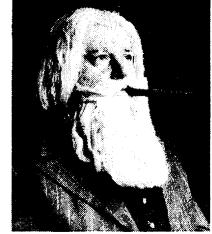

Jamison came to Michigan to join the faculty of The Detroit Conservatory of Music after receiving his Master's degree from The Ohio State University. He has performed widely both as a singer and a pianist, collaborating with such conductors as Robert Shaw, Antal Dorati and Neville Marriner. As a member of The Kenneth Jewell Chorale, he has soloed with orchestras in the United States and Canada. He has appeared on national television and in New York's Town Hall.

Jamison has performed often on the popular Brunch with Bach series at the Detroit Institute of Arts, and was featured recently with Isaac Stern and Eugene Istomin at the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's International Brahms Festival.

Currently, he is touring colleges and universities throughout the Midwest with his one-man presentation, "Spirits of Great Compo-

Jamison has served as a consultant for the Royal Oak Arts Council and as an adjudicator for the American College of Musicians. He is a member of the piano faculty at the Cranbrook Schools in Bloomfield Hills. He may be heard on recordings of the Musical Heritage

The second concert in the series, on Nov. 13, will feature Peruz Zerounian, violin, Bette Musse, cello, Virginia Shover, piano, and Patricia Terry-Ross, harp. The program will include two trios and selected works for solo harp. On March 11, Barbara Hawksley, soprano, Nicolai Lemberg, flute, Susan Ross, cello, and Janet Young, piano, will perform music of Carpenter, Faure and Ravel.

The three parts of the film are shown together as one unit. "In Search of the Soul" depicts Jung's childhood, student years and relationship with Freud; "67,000 Dreams" portrays Jung's work as a psychiatrist, the building of the tower at Bollingen, his travels, age, the Eranos Conference, the death of Mrs. Jung, silence and the silence broken, and the final dream.

Following the film, there will be a discussion.

At the conclusion of the film discussion, Anne Strang and Helen Waldron will present an introduc-tion to "Centerpoint" for inter-ested persons. Hard lessons still unlearned

Ratification of the new two-year UAW contract with Chrysler apparently has put to an The UAW obviously didn't help matters by its end fears of a strike that might well have jeopardized the auto firm's continued success on the comeback trail. That is good news for Michigan — at least for the time being.

But sometimes one wonders whether either the auto industry and the UAW have learned all of the hard lessons they ought to have acquired as a result of the recent recession and the success of Japanese competition in this country.

FACED WITH A GUN at its head in the torm of a threat of a strike that would have delayed the production of its new models, including a highly touted van that is expected to add to its sales, Chrysler quickly bowed to UAW demands for wage parity. And so costs at Chrysler soon will be back at the same high levels that General Motors and Ford are paying under their current contracts.

Chrysler expressed hope that it would get a favorable UAW reaction to its efforts to increase productivity but made it clear that it was buying labor peace in order to keep up with the competition now that auto sales are soaring again. But will the new controls that have been imposed in the industry to improve quality to meet the competition remain in place as the demand for new cars quickens? Or will they once again have to take second place to industry demands for increased output to meet public demand for new vehicles? And will the industry be able to improve productivity to the extent required to make U.S. car prices more competitive with Japanese imports or, once the bloom is off the current sales spree, will U.S.

insistence on wage equality for Chrysler workers, and by its clear forecast of even greater demands on GM and Ford when their contracts come up for renewal a year hence. Higher and higher wages, however, are costing jobs in two directions: in loss of sales to imports and in loss of jobs to increased automation, including greater use of robots. The industry's problems are not easy to cope with. The auto industry naturally wants to keep producing at top capacity when the demand is good. And so each company finds it easier to give the UAW what it wants rather than to take a long and costly strike to force the UAW to moderate its terms. So costs soar and when the economy slackens, sales dip, sometimes sharply and deeply.

This economy of boom and bust damages all of Michigan. The UAW's insistence on high rewards in good times has contributed substantially to Michigan's reputation as a high cost state. Even the employes in Wayne County, which is deep in debt, are the highest paid in the country in some job categories. That is in part a result of the scales set by the UAW for its members.

UNFORTUNATELY, we see little evidence to date that anything has really changed except that there has been an upturn in auto sales that blinds both the UAW and the industry to the likelihood of another repitition of the boom and bust cycle. And each time it is more difficult for the auto industry to take a low economic punch, get up off the floor and survive until the bell rings to end that round. Chrysler's narrow buyers turn in even greater numbers to imports which can claim advantages in price and quali-

Our waning state population

If the population trends of the 1970s continue until the year 2000, Michigan will be one of three big Midwestern states to lose population, according to U.S. Census Bureau projections released earlier this month. The report is further evidence that Michigan needs to consider greater diversification of its industry, a trend that already has begun but must be sti-mulated if the state is to offer enough jobs for even its present population.

Part of the anticipated shift in population merely reflects the continued migration of people out of the Northeastern and Midwestern states to the Sunbelt. Once regarded chiefly as a haven for retirees and older citizens generally, the Sunbelt has attracted more and more industries from the colder climate areas of the country because of its lower cost of doing business, including the weakness of its trade unions. So now it attracts workers as well at the expense of the North and Middlewest.

IT IS TRUE, of course, that a growing population is not always considered an asset. It creates more traffic and more traffic hazards. It causes crowding and boosts housing costs. It pushes up taxes to meet increased demands for more schools, roads, police and firemen and the other services required by new developments. And, let's admit it, a booming popula-tion can harm the quality of life in a quiet and protected community.

Yet when population declines, a state and a community also lose customers and taxpayers. Michigan would still remain the eighth largest state in the year 2000 if the Census Bureau forecasts are accurate. But the level of income and the quality of the state's services might well decline if a population dip were sufficient to cut into tax revenues.

Gov. James Blanchard last spring advocated an action agenda for jobs and economic development, which included small business tax relief, more activity to spur Michigan exports and training of Michigan workers for new jobs. He also has recently taken steps to cut workers' compensation premium rates to reduce the burden on Michigan business. But additional effects obviously will be required to improve the state's business climate and make it more competitive.

JOBS ARE ON the decline in the auto industry and other manufacturing industries. The have been set aside through population on the farms that constitute Michi- the years on which to build gan's second largest industry also continues to and our schools have been go down as farms increase in size. And so further diversification of industry appears to be they were placed within a rearequired. And while the state can do little in a direct way to force diversification, it can do more to attract new business and new kinds of business through wise tax policies that encourage and do not penalize investment in

The ancient elm whose spreading branches have protected the Grosse Pointe News for years and whose pictures adorns the logotype at the top of this page is facing the toughest battle of its more than 100 years of existence.

Attacked by the dread Dutch elm disease, like many other elms in the Pointes, the historic tree earlier this week lost some of its branches to the tree surgeons who are seeking to preserve it. They also subjected it to injections to try to save it.

As those who have walked past the tree may have read, it bears a bronze marker with the legend: "Historic Elm: Planted in the 1800s, this tree is hereby designated a historic landmark to be honored and preserved for future generations. Elm Research Institute, Waldwick, N.J.'

To the Editor:

I have lived in Grosse Pointe since 1921 and when my family moved here from Detroit, there were only three little old schools; Cadieux on St. Clair (the old part of the Board of Education Office); Trombly on Jefferson near the city limits; and the old Kerby School, none going beyond the eighth grade. Children wanting more schooling either went into the city or to boarding school.

At last, in the late 20s, a fine Grosse Pointe High School -South — was finished. From that day to this, Pointers have striven to upgrade and enlarge our outstanding school system, and incidentally, in so doing have given Pointe residents the use of auditoriums, pools, classrooms for adult education, senior citizens' gathering places and many other resources used after school hours.

Large parcels of land here sonable distance of large blocks of houses. Who remembers the vision and work of Charles Parcells in acquiring land for schools?

As more and more people moved to the Pointes, many came because of our fine school system. Property values and taxes went up, but the effect of our fine schools on the property values was obvious to all. And land became more and more scarce.

Now we have a so-called

"Crisis". The predicted and present enrollments are falling off. The World War II "Baby Boom" is over. There are a fow ampty eleganous in each of the control of the contro few empty classrooms in each school. Horrors! Didn't they know that "maximum usage" was a must when they built those fine structures? Even the budget will be off 2 per-

Come on, Grosse Pointe school board, those buildings were not sacrificed and paid for the enrollments of 1943, 1963, 1983 or 2003. Businessmen have been eye-increases, or the next baby boom comes along?

I have lived on Rivard Boulevard for 30 years. According to what I read, our local Richard School is not "threatened." Also, my daughter is an adult. I can be completely objective about this school "problem." But I have been a Grosse Pointer for more than 60 years, and look now at the system and what threatens it as a whole. Because I am a so-called "senior citizen" does not mean that I

In the last 30 years, our streets have been slowly changing. Many older residents have moved away and a surge of new young professional families are moving here. New babies, expected babies and lots of pre-school children are in our midst or coming. What about these children? And of similar streets all over the Pointe? We are a community of homeowners, of families who take pride in their schools, which, with the parks along the lake and the War Memorial, are the area's finest assets.

I have lived here too long to fices and other uses of lands silently sit by and let a group and buildings. This is a weal to (the school board) think of thy area and businesses do getting rid of even one school well here. Great! And there which the community worked may be other needs, but not at so hard to acquire! Wake up, Grosse Pointers, and tell this First, how do you think school board and all concerned you're going to get those that these are your schools school buildings and play- and you're willing to do with a grounds and school parking little less to keep them the lots back when the population way they are. Once they've slipped away by this present maneuver, you'll never get them back.

> Speak up for all our schools. We'll economize individually if we must to keep them, but keep them we must. Don't let someone recently from Connecticut plan where your children go to school. He has been misled. You decided where long ago when you bought your home. Now, hang on to every one.

More needs to be done for teachers

To the Editor:

There can be little question as to the importance of educating youth successfully, and its relationship to the success of this nation. Much attention, from letters to the editor to several national studies, indicates considerable concern for high educational standards. How well is the job done in Grosse Pointe? While this is not easy to evaluate, the evidence suggests that the Grosse Pointe schools are excellent. One of our high schools has just been singled out as one of 82 outstanding high schools in this country. Our students score very well on national and state tests, and most do quality work in college; a high percentage become thoughtful and productive citizens.

Letters

The News welcomes letters to the editor from our readers. Letters should be signed with a name, address and telephone number at which the writer can be reached during the day in case there are questions. Names of letter writers will be withheld under special circumstances only.

Address letters to Editor. Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. 48236.

The question might then be, "How can staff excellence best be encouraged and reward-

This community has generally shown good support of its public school staff. The teacher's job is made more meaningful to him when the public indicates an awareness for both the importance of the job of educating youth and an appreciation of success in this endeavor.

Events this fall did not echo either encouragement or appreciation. Only hours before the first day of school did negotiation talks significantly progress. Hopefully teachers will never again be put in a position requiring a threatened strike to receive a contract.

Salaries should also be considered both as a means of encouraging current excellence and with a long range awareness. When it becomes necessary to replace retiring veteran teachers with young but highly skilled professionals, the salary schedule must be able to attract the best. (Cost? This year's just negotiated increase of 2 percent plus the potential 3 percent cost-of-living adjustment in June will cause taxes to rise 3 percent. What other expenses are increasing so little?) The 2 plus 3 increase does little to encourage excellence.

This is a justifiably demanding community. It has clearly shown, for many reasons, that good schools are important. More needs to be done to maintain such standards. Our kids are worth it.

Another vote to keep Hagar

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to your Sept. 1 article about the Hagar the Horrible tree sculpture on Jefferson Avenue. Anyone who would want to remove Hagar should re-examine their conscience.

He is an asset to the beauty of the neighborhood and should be left standing. The Wayne County Road Commission is worried it causes a traffic hazard. In my opinion, it causes nothing but enjoyment to passersby. I don't understand how moving Hagar a few feet away onto private property will further improve the situation.

Instead of condemning Hagar and the individual who commissioned him, he should be congratulated in the exercise of ne ghborhood beautification.

calls for a tax revenue increase of more than $3 million, or 9.9 percent, from $30,695,000 to $33,731,000 from the 1982-83 to 1983-84 school year. The projected savings to be gained from the school closings (before any transportation costs) are insignificant or illusionary compared to the $3 million overall increase to the budget and the loss of four neighborhood schools.

We are all for giving careful attention to costs, but we are attentive as well to achieving excellence in our public school system, a very large part of which is embodied in the neighborhood school, knitting each member of the family to the educational process.

As a result of my concerns, I asked the Board of Education at the public forum on Sept. 15 to put the issue of school closings before the residents of Grosse Pointe on a ballot referendum. Much lesser issues, for example, an olympic pool at South High School, have been put to the voters by the Board of Education. Why should they be denied their choice on an issue as important as elementary and middle school closings?

Gandelot owes an Apology

To the Editor;

In view of a remark made by Jon Gandelot at a recent Board of Education meeting, I feel compelled to submit my thoughts.

I am sure that Gandelot was appalled, as was the audience, immediately after he, in a reply to a comment made by Sue Conlan, implied that his position on the Board was proof that he probably cared more for his children than did Mrs. Conlan for hers.

I consider his remark derogatory and personally offensive to Sue, as well as the entire audience.

I believe that Gandelot, as a member of our Board of Education, should and would be more than willing to make a public apology.

To the Editor:

In response to your Sept. 8 article titled "Christian Scientists face parents' lawsuit," I was shocked to learn that the First Church of Christ, Scientist, believes it has healing powers. Again we see innocent victims of a religious influence.

I am concerned that peoples' lives are being controlled by others. What happened sounds like the cult religions that we hear about in the newspapers and on television so often.

I do hope this situation helps other make their own decision between right and wrong.

Diogenes, here's Larry Marco

To the Editor;

According to legend, Diogenes, a Greek philosopher, carried a lighted lantern around the streets of Athens looking for an honest man. Well, Diogenes, look no further. An honest man is not as hard to find as a needle in a haystack in the cities of Grosse Pointe.

Recently a young man named Larry Marco (street address unknown) found my billfold on the pavement in the parking lot of the Grosse Pointe Post Office on Mack Avenue. He phoned me and brought the billfold to me with money and contents intact. Being a senior citizen this meant a great deal to me.

I found out he was looking for a job. I hope he has found one. To any personnel man to whom he has applied I would like to recommend him highly because of his honesty. Good luck Larry Marco.

Our Governor is playing games

By William R. Bryant, Jr.

In March House Republicans projected a $127 million state budget surplus would exist at Sept. 30, the end of this fiscal year for the state.

We were right! The F.Y. 1982-83 revenue and expenditure estimates House Republicans made and made public in March, at the time the Blanchard income tax bill was passed, are proving accurate. Operating estimates I gave House Republicans are proving to be far better than those of the Blanchard administration.

The Governor in March claimed revenue of $4.089 billion plus $675 million for the 1.50 percent General Fund income tax increase to a total revenue of $4.764 billion as necessary. He claimed it was necessary in order to cover expenditures he projected to be $4.993 billion or $4.768 billion after a $225 million Executive Order. This, his figures showed, would still leave a $4 million deficit.

Our estimate was that we would have revenue of $4.150 billion and that the 1.5 percent additional Blanchard income tax to the General Fund would yield another lion revenue. We estimated expenditure at $4.950 billion before and $4.725 billion after a $225 million E.O.

We projected, therefore, a surplus of $127 million if the bill

Public Sector Consultants now projects a surplus of $120 to $150 million. The Senate Fiscal Agency projects a surplus of $149 million. The House Fiscal Agency figures project a $86 to $100 million surplus.

The Governor is attempting to reduce the severe embarrassment of this huge surplus in two ways; first, by telling the budget office to keep falsely low the income tax yield. This will be done by holding down the amount shown as expected to be collected after Sept. 30. Employers have not been fully complying with the new withholding tables but this money, owed by taxpayers, should be accured.

In fact, the Governor is considering simply ordering his budget office not to accrue any of the increased income tax beyond what is normally accured.

Second, the Governor is talking deals with state lending institu-

$702 million to a total of $4.852 billion revenue. We estimated exnesses a $32 to $43 million windfall with the aid of a cooperative opin-ion from the Governor's Attorney General. This windfall is said by Blanchard and Kelly to be owned under a Court decision concerning Tennessee. However, Tennessee hasn't even paid their banks and the decision was against them.

Other methods will be sought, including restoring Executive Order cuts, to spend more this year thereby reducing the surplus.
The people of Michigan should not allow their Governor to play games with this surplus. It came out of their hides from the Blanchard 1.75 percent increase in the income tax. If it is not given back to them it should at least be given to our schools and local units.

The state is violating the Headlee amendment provision requiring 41.6% of state spending to go to local units. We owe them $135 to $150 million. The surplus could be used to end this violation of the law and help our schools and communities in the process.

I would urge you to let the Governor know what you feel should be done with the budget surplus. which will exist Sept. 30 when the fiscal year ends.

Lake cruise law progresses

Merchant Marine Subcommittee last week passed a bill cosponsored by Congressman Dennis Hertel (D-Harper Woods) which would pave the way for the re-establishment of U.S. flag cruise ship service on the Great Lakes. The legislation now goes to the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee before it can move to the floor of the House of Representatives for passage. Specifically, the legislation provides a one-time exemption to the requirement that ships flying the American flag be U.S.A. built. Passage of the bill would permit Cruise America Line of Florida to purchase and operate two Danish made liners (the Cunard Princess and the Cunard Countess) on the Great Lakes, along the East and West coasts and in the Gulf of Mexico.

Oil damage will be repaired

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The grass will get a little greener soon for Newcastle homeowners. Lawns and city easements in the Woods that were damaged by an oil spill carried by July flood waters will be replaced by the city and Goodyear Tire and

Rubber, Co.
City Attorney George Catlin told the city council Monday night, Sept. 12, that Goodyear had decided to pay for the replacement of the damaged lawns as a public relations gesture.

A number of homes along the street had lawns damaged when heavy rains backed up along the street in July. Adding to the trouble was the seepage from a waste oil storage tank in the parking lot of the Curto-Knight Goodyear dealership that collected on top of the waters. Residents complained to the council about dead grass and the foul smell from the oil re-

The city's insurance carrier will pick up the cost of replacing the damaged city easements, the portion of the lawn south of the side-walk to the curb, Woods City Ad-ministrator-Clerk Chester Petersen said.

Work began last Friday to remove the waste oil tank in the dealership's parking lot, Petersen said. The owner of the property assigned a contractor to perform the work, but delays on the part of the contractor kept the work from being completed within the city's 30-day deadline, city officials said.

The cost of partially replacing resident's lawn with sod was estimated at more than $800 by Viene Nursery and Landscaping Co., which received the city's approval to partially replace city easements with sod for $1,282.

The company will remove and dispose of the damaged grass and oil-soaked top soil and replace it with fresh top soil and sod, according to a letter from the nur-

Residents initially expressed concern that replacing the sod before removing the storage tank would be useless in case there is another oil slick. Councilman William Wilson said the storage tank had been capped with concrete and a gas analyzer in the area showed no seepage of fumes through the cap.

The Woods Country Club Progressive Association, a homeowners group in the area, came be-fore the council last month asking for the city's help in replacing the lawns and removing the tank. Officers in the association had asked the city to possibly join as plain-tiff in a lawsuit against the company if restitution wasn't made. In a written legal opinion to the council, Catlin said the city was not the insurer of residents' lawns and could not undertake action to

St. Paul gets a new principal

As the new principal of St. Paul Elementary School, Beth Burns has come full cycle in Catholic education — from student, to teacher, to assistant administrator to principal. And although she has seen many changes in the system since her own school days in Westphalia, Mich., Mrs. Burns believes that Catholic schools still offer an "extra something" many parents are looking for in the education of their children.

Asked what this "extra something" is, Mrs. Burns responds that the Catholic school has traditionally been a "value centered" institution committed to the education of the total person - the spiritual and emotional as well as the intellec-

"Throughout the whole program here at St. Paul, there is an atmosphere that is Catholic-value centered. It is constantly reinforced, not only through the liturgies, but in the classrooms as well."

An English and history graduate of Aquinas College in Grand Rapids, Mrs. Burns began her teaching career at Clarenceville High School in Livonia. She retired briefly after marriage and the births of the first two of five Burns children. When her husband John decided to go to law school Mrs. Burns rethree years. (John is now a partner with the Detroit law firm of Clark, Kelin, and Beaumont.)

Next followed nine years of substitute teaching in the Archdiocesan parochial system, as well as in Detroit public schools. Three more children were also born. John F. is now 22 and a senior at Wayne State University. Mary Shawn is 21 and a senior at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis. Mary Caroline, 18, is a freshman at Aquinas, Mary Elizabeth, 17, is a senior at Mercy High School, and Tom, 12, is in the 7th grade at University of Detroit

Jesuit Academy. In 1977 when her youngest child went off to first grade, Mrs. Burns accepted a full time teaching position at St. Agatha's High School in Detroit, and in 1978 she was named assistant principal. This was a particularly busy time for Mrs. Burns because many of her after school hours were spent at Wayne State University earning her Master's degree in educational administra-

Christian healing is lecture topic

"Prayer is not just pleading with God," says a visiting Christian Science lecturer, but rather "a deepening realization of God's presence and goodness.

In a public lecture to be held on Tuesday, Sept. 27 at 8 p.m., William C. Breen of Sacramento will speak on "Healing Through Comprehending God's Nature." The free, hour-long lecture will be held at Sixth Church of Christ, Scientist, 14710 Kercheval Avenue.

Breen describes Christian healing as the regeneration of one's entire thinking and living "by the saving power of the Christ."

In the lecturer's view of scrip-

What You Can Do To Help Save Our Elementary Schools

Over the past few weeks, parents, teachers, homeowners and concerned citizens have been meeting to discuss the ramifications of the proposal by Dr. Brummel, Joan Hanpeter and the other members of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education . . . to close elementary schools.

The meetings were intended to bring into focus — for all the residents of the Grosse Pointe school community and general public - the consequences of this decision. A decision, many feel, that could change the cultural, social and educational makeup of our cities for generations to come.

Invariably, after residents listened to the discussions and learned the facts . . . their response was "How can I help?." If you've missed the meetings, here's what we tell them:

- 1. Dîsplay a "Save Elem. Schools" bumper sticker. They can be obtained from any Committee Member.
- 2. Contact a Committee member from your school or in your area. They will supply you with petitions, fact sheets, bumper stickers and will let you know how you can help in your neighborhood. The members are: Barnes Elem. - Kathy Kasiborski & Katie Leeche; Defer Elem. - Maria Parol & JoAnn Conlan; Ferry Elem. - Susanne Roland; Kerby Elem. - Cindy Pangborn; Maire Elem. - Peggy Cius; Mason Elem. - Sue Conlan; Richard Elem. - Carol Zilke; Trombley Elem. - Loraine Mleczko; Monteith Elem. - Mary Klobusher; Poupard Elem. - Christ Azar.
- 3. If possible make a financial contribution to help support our advertising fund. Payable to: Committee for Neighborhood Elementary Schools, 364 University, Grosse Pointe 48230. Bill Brownscombe, treasurer.

4. Attend the meetings where School Closings will be discussed.

Sept. 26 - Parent/Children's Walk with Board Members, 7:45 A.M. (Contact a Maire, Mason or Barnes member for details).

Sept. 26 - Mason/Barnes Open Forum. 7:30 P.M. Mason School.

Oct. 3 - South High School Meeting. 8:00 P.M. Oct. 10 - Pre-BOE meeting rally. 7:30 P.M. Parcells

Nov. 7 — South High School. 8:00 P.M. Nov. 14 - North High School. 8:00 P.M.

- 5. You might want to express your concern directly. Phone or write Dr. Brummel or a school board member.
- 6. See democracy in action in the comfort of your own living room. The Sept. 19th public hearing at Maire Elementary School will be carried on Grosse Pointe Cable TV (Channel 19). See it, starting Tuesday, Sept. 20th, through the end of the week. The program will be shown sometime between 6 P.M. and 9 P.M. Consult local TV listing for exact time.

We believe that the closing of neighborhood elementary schools will lead to declining property values, a step backwards in the quality of education our children now receive and physical danger for young children. If you share our concern, please support us.

Guidance Center celebrates 20 years of growth

Northeast Guidance Center is celebrating its 20th anniversary this fall with a dinner-dance on Sept. 30. Founded in 1963 by a group of concerned eastside residents, the center had evolved from a one-unit child guidance clinic to a full service mental health facility with four branches in Detroit and Grosse Pointe.

Originally incorporated as the Northeastern Wayne County Child Guidance Clinic, the private, non-profit organization began as a tiny operation in donated quarters with only one full-time professional, a secretary and a few part-time workers.

Response from the community was so great that, within a year, additional space was needed.

In 1973, the Comprehensive Mental Health Services Plan was initiated. By then, three service units provided counseling services to children, teenagers and adults. Services included mental health, substance abuse counseling, day treatment, youth services, consultation, education and prevention. The center employed staff of near ly 100, and trained students from Wayne State University, University of Detroit, University of schools.

The name was changed to Northeast Guidance Center to reflect the shift to comprehensive care for children and adults.

Over the years, the center has seen many facilities open and close and a multitude of services had been added since the days that only child guidance services were offered. Fiscal circumstances forced the closing of an innovative child day treatment program in 1981 after pulling together broad community resources to build a beautiful playground for Windsor, University of Michigan the program. Ewald names 15 scholars

Grosse Pointer Ted Ewald recently presented scholarships to 15 outstanding Detroit-area students. Ewald, through the H.T. Ewald Foundation, has awarded scholarships totaling over half a million dollars to more than 250 high school and college students since 1957.

'Each scholarship is for four years for the term of their studies," Ewald said. "Every year the number of applications for scholarships has increased and the quality of the students along with it. This year about 200 students applied, making selection of the winners a very difficult matter. I only wish I could give every student who applied a scholarship." Ewald continued.

The Foundation is unusual in that Ewald interviews every can-didate personally and maintains close contact with the winners throughout their college careers. This year, 42 students will receive financial assistance from the Foundation, including the 15 new scholarships award this month. The total amount awarded for 1983 is more than $60,000.

The H.T. Ewald Foundation was established in 1929 through endowments given by the late H.T. Ewald, advertising pioneer and founder and president of the Campbell-Ewald Company, for the purpose of aiding promising stu-dents to develop their full potential through higher education.

Justice walk is slated

The 13th annual Focus: HOPE civil and human rights celebration is Sunday, Oct. 2, at 2 p.m. Led by co-chairpersons Don Haney and Pointer Neal Shine, Walk for Justice begins at the Michigan State Fairgrounds and continues 10 miles down Woodward Avenue to Hart Plaza.

A demonstration of those who share ideals on racial justice and civil rights, Walk for Justice brings together thousands, from city and suburbs, who walk to focus attention on civil and human rights priorities: jobs, adequate food, good schools and decent

"The walk will not change the way things are, but it offers a magnificent opportunity to show that we care," said Focus: HOPE Director Father William T. Cunningham. "It is both a demonstration of dissatisfaction with the way things are and a sign of our intention to change them. Sponsor pledges help Focus HOPE finance programs to provide food, jobs, and racial equality in education and housing."

At 1 p.m., a pre-walk rally will be held at the Fairgrounds featuring Ortheia Barnes, Barbara Bredius, Phil Marcus Esser and Josh White, Jr., among others.

Musical groups who will entertain at Hart Plaza are the Wayne State Jazz Band, the Sun Mess-engers and, again, Ortheia Barnes, Barbara Bredius, Phil Marcus Esser, and Josh White, Jr. Refreshments will be provided and walkers will be free to stay and enjoy the music, good company, and the sense of a hopeful future on the beautiful Detroit riverfront.

Sonya Friedman talks about the feast of life

By Nancy L. Solak

She joked about how she had considered calling her book "Men Are Just Zucchini." but decided the Fraudians would have a field day with a title like that. Sonya Friedman, Ph.D., spoke about her best seller "Men Are Just Desserts" to a capacity crowd in the auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial last Thursday

"You, the woman," she explained to the largely female audience, "are the main course in your life, and a man is just dessert — the most delicious, precious, wonderful part of the feast of

"But," she asserted, "not the part that sustains you, not the part that makes you healthy, and man is what he becomes and a not the part that feeds you on a woman is who she marries." daily basis. Because, if you made the main course dessert, you'd get fat, you'd get lazy," and she added with a smile, "you'd get

While writing her book she clarified in her own mind the different messages that were imposed on children of her generation, depending upon their gender. The message to the boys was, "yes, you'll pick yourself a wife. No, she will not be your life. You will make your own life, and a woman made of a family, will be a deligious and a family will be a delicious part of that."

The girls were told, either subtley or outright, "you take a man and you make him your life. A

Women who are now in their "middle years" as Dr. Friedman prefers to call them, were taught to tap dance around men, so the men never got to see the real woman. For example, he was never allowed to see her without make-up.

"He thought you woke up looking like that! What a shock!" Dr. Friedman exclaimed. To demonstrate how times have changed, she asked, "you know how I knew my daughter was a liberated woman? She permitted her boyfriend to see her throw up! Now there's a secure woman! We would never have done that."

Dr. Friedman's observations as a clinical psychologist have revealed to her an ironic maxim in relationships.

'The strange thing is that the more you need, the less you get, because when you are a very needy individual you are like an accident running around waiting to happen," she said. "And what happens is you bump into another accident, who's running around waiting to happen. The clue to relationships is that if you are psychologically healthy, chances are you'll meet a healthy person. We marry at the same level of our own psychological

Dr. Friedman selected the wife of an alcoholic as an example. "This wife needs, although she may not be conscious of it, the dynamics of that relationship, whether it allows her to be a martyr, or allows her to be in control, or gives her a purpose in life. She's there because he fulfills a need." This leads to Friedman's next maxim, which is "nobody audience to come up with an example where that wasn't true.

to be around them for a lifetime.' She also said that the first time a woman gets married she does so for security. If she marries a second time, and if she has matured, she marries for freedom. More and more, Dr. Friedman is hearing women who are in their middle years say that they feel so good about themselves now that they don't want someone to take away what they have worked so hard to earn in terms of who they

Former Liggett teacher reaps medal abroad

Senor Luis Gomez y Amador, former University Liggett School teacher, was honored in July by the University of Salamanca in Spain for his years of directing student tours to Spain.

Gomez, who taught Spanish and coached soccer at ULS from 1973 to 1982, received a medal from the University of Salamanca's president for conducting 17 student tours to several Spanish speaking countries in the past 20 years. He received the medal while on tour in Spain last summer.

Brummel argues that the shrinking number of students is putting a strain on programs at the middle and elementary levels. Four elementary schools have grades with only one section in them this year, a situation which greatly reduces flexibility for scheduling teachers and enrichment programs outside normal classroom activities. In addition, there are seven "split" classrooms in the elementaries this year to which students from different grades are assigned.

The board's plan would close three elementary schools and reassign students to the closest elementary buildings in order to concentrate larger numbers in each building. It also calls for closing Pierce Middle School, and moving all sixth graders into the middle school to boost enrollment at that level, where electives and special programs have been reduced because of the loss of students.

Despite the public furor and concerns over the transportation problem, school board members interviewed last week say they are committed to proceeding with their plan, at least until their final vote, scheduled for November. Last week, they voted to implement whatever plan they finally agree to in one year, instead of over two years. They also agreed to change the boundary around Trombly school to send several dozen children living in an area bounded by Jefferson, St. Paul, Wayburn and Balfour to Trombly.

Three board members interviewed by telephone last week said they are firmly committed to doing something about the enrollment decline.

LoCicero, who ran and won election to the Board last summer stating he was in favor of closing schools, said the public tirade against the board's plan has been

"We had dozens of people on committees studying the enrollment decline, in addition to school board members," LoCicero said. "Everyone, and I mean everyone, who has studied the issue has come to the conclusion that something must be done to consolidate students if the quality of education in this community is to continue.

"The citizens' reorganization committee and school board have operated on a concensus basis,' LoCicero said. "That's important to remember." The board met earlier this month with the 14member citizens advisory committee, which reiterated its support for the plan, LoCicero said.

Dorothy Kennel, who also ran and won re-election on a "close schools" platform, said she thinks the latest plan is an "excellent" one that will adequately address the problems school administrators are now facing with shrinking schools. "These schools probably should have been closed two or three years ago," Mrs. Kennel said.

Joan Hanpeter, the current board president, said she firmly believes school closings are necessary "if we're really serious about improving the education we're giving kids." She admitted that she does not think the board has done a good job of selling the public on the concept of improved quality of education.

Woods opens streets to two-way traffic

Residents in favor of the signage said heavy traffic had decreased along their streets, bring-ing with it less noise and smell. One Roslyn resident drew a parallel between the school closing issue before the school board and the streets issue in its emotion-

One Brys resident said the street "looks like a ghost town during the day" since the signs went up. "If I had my way, I'd make all those streets one-way and chase all the traffic down to Vernier," he added. His comments drew cat-calls from the audience.

Council members responded to the audience's criticism that they had done nothing to find a permanent solution to the problem by eliciting the cooperation of Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores.

Mayor George Freeman said he has been talking with Harper Woods Mayor James Haley in order to set up a meeting between the two councils to come up with some sort of solution for the area.

St. Clair Shores will be brought into the discussions later, since incumbent mayor John Roberts lost his bid for reelection in the September primary in that city, Freeman said. After the November elections, the Woods will approach the new administration to discuss cooperation to solve the problem, he added.

A similar meeting in 1979 between the three city councils and county and state officials led to a traffic study for the area, which pointed out that any final solution would have to be a cooperative ef-

Councilman Jean Rice pointed out that the addition of a Wendy's Hamburger franchise on Harper near Hampton and the possible development of an eight-story hotel in the same area will only aggravate the traffic problem. In addition, the widening of the Old Eight Mile bridge over I-94 from two to four lanes will only in-crease the amount of traffic coming into the area.

"I know the feelings of the residents in that area," Councilman Thomas Fahrner said. "We can't solve this problem without the cooperation of the other two cities. We cannot get the other two communities to sit down with us to solve it. If you think you have a problem now, wait until that Wendv's and hotel go in. Your problem hasn't even started yet.

Councilman John Sabol proposed that all streets in the northwest area be made alternating east and west-bound oneways, a motion greeted by boos from the audience. Sabol said the alternating one-ways would help the streets.

"If we don't make them all alternating one-ways, we will not make any more people happy than we have now," he said. His motion was voted down 6-1.

Councilman Robert Novitke, who made the motion to remove the signs, said there was a serious problem in the area, "but the proposed solution has created a greater problem that it was meant to

Although he had asked for an immediate recommendation from the Department of Public Safety Department and the committeeof-the-whole, Novitke conceded it could be about a month before a recommendation came to the its southerly streets.

The street sign removal ends what has been called a border war between Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores. When the signs went up initially in the Woods in August, St. Clair Shores responded with street signs of its own to limit the increased traffic along my aunt he had hidden some money in a can in some bricks in the basement," said Stendel. "I searched and finally found it stuffed down in one of those big hollow cinder block bricks right up where the basement wall meets the rafters. There was $15,000 inside. It occurred to me that if he hadn't told where he had hidden it, it would have all been lost forever, or to whomever bought the house and happened to stumble onto it. I got to thinking about the thousands of persons who die every day and decided to go into business. As far as I know, I'm the only one who does it.'

Who hides money and other valuables? "Old people, especially if they've lived alone for years," said Stendel. "Immigrants who never learned to trust banks. Victims of the depression and the just plain thrifty.'

Often the valuables aren't hidden, they're right out in the open but no one realizes it. "I've had instances where there'd be a shoebox full of old letters from friends in say, Europe," said Stendel. "Going through them, ve noticed stamps on the letters that are quite valuable. Some are worth thousands. Typical was a handful of letters to a man in Grosse Pointe from his family in "The letters were from the time of the Berlin blockade, when the U.S. flew in tons of food and medicine to help the Berliners. Letters at that time received a special stamp. They're rare and valuable today. When I told the executor how much these few stamps were worth he almost fainted. It seems he'd thrown out a bushel basket full of them the day before. They all went into the incinerator.

Other times, it's coin, post cards or baseball card collections. Some are valuable, some aren't. Often the person collected silver dollars. Besides their face value, Stendel can also recognize when some coins are more rare than others. He likes to watch the reaction of the persons' face receiving the Stendel likes being a detective. It has its drawbacks — bending and stooping is hard on his arth-ritis, plus there are bats, mice and rats to contend with along with lots of dirt and dust. But, what he really likes is the hunt.

"I love tracking things down and trying to reason like the person doing the hiding," he said. "They hide things everywhere. False bottoms in trunks are a standard. I've also found gold coins in the false tops of doors. They cut off the top, put in a bottom and hide their valuables. The top is replaced and you walk in and out under thousands of dol-

"I always check the radiators and gas tanks of old cars in the garage," he continued. "Often they'll attach hundred dollar bills to a rope, then lower it in.
Whenever they needed money they'd pull up the string and grab a few. I once found 25 gold pieces in the base of an old brass lamp hanging in a stairwell. Each one was wrapped in paper to keep it from clinking."

Often times there's money stuffed in old clothes or in the toes

"They'll usually leave just a tiny corner of the bill sticking out so they can retrieve it with a pin," said Stendel. "I once found $500 that way." Stendel also uses a metal detector to find cans and boxes hidden behind walls and under floors.

"Of course it's no good for paper money and it also is activitated by pipes and wire, but every once in a while I connect," he

Right now, Stendel is working as a detective on a part time basis, but hopes to become busier once real estate agencies, lawyers and banks handling estates learn of his talents. Until then, he'll keep on checking the inside of toilet tanks, furnaces, air ducts, chimneys and mattresses for hidden treasure.

"It should be pretty interesting when this story comes out," said Stendel, with a smile. "I can just hear everyone in the Pointe scrambling around re-hiding their money. People can't help it. We're all pack rats.'

Gypsy moths discovered

area of possible infestation is about one-quarter mile from the lake, leaving a large green belt as protection should spraying be necessary, he added.

Other areas of the state that turned up moths this year include Highland, Troy and Bloomfield Hills, Dollhopf said. In addition, two serious trouble areas were found in and around Port Huron, he added.

Since their accidential introduction into the United States about 100 years ago, the moths have defolitated millions of acres in the New England states. The moths have been traveling westward at a slow but steady pace, usually borne unknowlingly by travelers from the East Coast, according to state officials.

The moths' favorite food is hard wood, such as maple, birch and oak, state officials said. The moths will also attack evergreens. In areas of heavy infestation, the moths have been known to defoliate ornamental trees and shrubs.

The larvae stage of the moth is the most destructive. To reach full growth before pupating, the gypsy moth caterpillar will feed continually during the cooler parts of the day, spending the hottest times in shaded areas.

Last year, 96 acres in the Midland-Saginaw area were defoliated by the gypsy moth larvae. Defoliation, while not killing the tree outright, weakens its resistance against other diseases. Defoliated trees tend to put out a second stunted growth of leaves, lessening the energy reserves needed to survive the winter.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Anyone who knows anything about me at all knows this: twice each season, in June and late August/early September, I take myself off to Stratford, Ont., for a three-day festival of fine theater. And nothing stands in the way of those J. Mueller Stratford Festivals. They're my treat to me - and I deserve them!

If you've never experienced the Magic of Stratford, I'm sorry for you. If you want a taste of what you've been missing (and once you've had a taste, you'll be sorry for yourselves when you realize what you HAVE been missing), I recommend a trip downtown, to the Penobscot Building, where "The Magic of Stratford," a collection of Stratford Festival archival costumes and original designs valued at over $250,000, is on display now through Oct. 7 in the lobby

You'll see the gold-embroidered, black sheer evening gown worn by Maggie Smith as The Actress in Molnar's The Guardsman" in 1977 . . . the resplendent costume designed by Tanyal Moiseiwitsch and worn by Zoe Caldwell in a 1967 production of Shakespeare's "Antony and Cleopatra"
... the gleaming steel horses used in the 1979 production of

"Richard II" . . . costumes worn by Jessica Tandy, Nicholas Pennell, Jeremy Brett, William Hutt and other Stratford stars.

It's a breathtaking exhibit, open to the public at no charge between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. weekdays, co-sponsored by the Penobscot Building, Inc., and the Stratford Shakespearean Festival of America, a non-profit organization licensed by and affiliated with Canada's Stratford Festival. Additional information on "The Magic of Stratford" or how to become a Stratford Festival of America member may be obtained by calling 962-1500.

Local Talent on the Air

If you didn't catch the premier of "Johanna Gilbert Interviews" on Grosse Pointe Cable TV, Channel 17, last Tuesday night, tune in tonight at 8:30 p.m. when Johanna continues her talk with Fred Sibley. And tune in on future Tuesday and Thursday evenings as Johanna presents talented, interesting Pointe residents in her informal interview series. The things you'll learn about your friends and neighbors may surprise you!

Local Filmstrip to Premier

The locally created filmstrip "Sex Education, Birth through Puberty" will be premiered at the Health Education Council of Grosse Pointe's general meeting this Sunday, Sept. 25, at 1 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Road. You're all invited

The filmstrip, designed for parents, is based on a script by Detroit sex educator Mary Paonessa, M.Ed., and was developed jointly by the Pointe HEC and Saint John Hospital. It will be available to parents' organizations in Pointe elementary schools; other groups interested in a showing may contact Mrs. Paonessa, who will be present at the premier, or Saint John.

The Founding Mothers . . .

By Ted Seemeyer

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, celebrating its 70th season this year, had many Grosse Pointers involved in its founding. As with most cultural enterprise, there is usually a woman or group of women who visualize it. They generally light the spark that galvanizes the men into action. Thus it was true in the founding of the

If you had stood across the street from Old Christ Church on Jefferson Avenue on Thursday, Jan. 8, in the winter of 1914, you would have seen an elegant row of New York style, red brick townhouses to the right of the church. It had snowed slightly that morning, but the weather was moderate. By afternoon the sun had come out.

At about 3 o'clock, a number of shiny new motor cars were seen to park in front of No. 410. Fashionably dressed young women got out and went into the house. A Detroit Electric drove up, and out stepped young Mrs. Henry Bourne Joy; soon after, a street car stopped and Miss Jennie M. Stod-dard, a music teacher, got off: she, too, followed the foot tracks in the molting space leading to the in the melting snow leading to the house.

The residence was that of Mrs. Alexander Hamilton Sibley. Mrs. Sibley's daughter, Frances, had called a meeting. In the front parlor, besides Mrs. Joy, Miss Stod-dard and Miss Sibley, were young Mrs. Frederick Moulton Alger, Mrs. Newton E. Corey, Miss Clara E. Dyar, Mrs. Charles H. Hodges, Mrs. S. Olin Johnson, Mrs. Sidney T. Miller and Mrs. Frederic B. Stevens - all music lovers.

Miss Sibley's grandfather had been Solomon Sibley, who traced his ancestry back to the time of William the Conqueror. He was the pioneer lawyer who had drawn up the articles of Detroit's incorporation, was appointed by General Lewis Cass to head the muhonorary Mayor of Detroit under the initial charter of 1806, the year after the city had been destroyed by fire.

The Sibleys had intermarried with the Campaus, Trowbridges, Hunts, Larneds, Sproats, Casses, Hendries, Millers, McGraws and Wilkinses, all prominent families of early Detroit.

General Henry Hastings Sibley, Miss Sibley's uncle, had been with John Jacob Astor's American Fur Company at Mackinac Island. General Sibley later was sent to Minnesota as Astor's representative in charge of trade with the Sioux Indians. He built the famous and historic Sibley House at St. Peters, later called Mendota (meaning in Indian "Meeting of the Waters") at the confluence of the Mississippi and Minnesota Rivers near what is now the city of St. Paul. General Sibley became the first Governor of Minnesota in 1858.

Miss Sibley's father, Major Alexander Hamilton Sibley, had carved out a fortune in Northern Michigan. Her mother, the former Marie Louise Miller, was the daughter of a prominent Monroe, Mich., family. She had studied under the great composer Felix Mendelssohn and, while in London in 1865, was so affluent that sne had the same dressmaker as the Empress Eugenie, wife of Napoleon III of France.

Miss Sibley's brothers, Alexander Hamilton Sibley Jr. and Mark Miller Sibley, were also musically inclined. When the family got together, it was said that the roof of the house danced with the rhythm going on inside.

Miss Sibley herself had, at 21, gone to The Philippines in 1888-89 as a missionary. Born under the sign of Aquarius, she had the Florence Nightingale urge to help her fellow man. Weaned on music, with such venturesome antecedents, it is no wonder that fates decreed the time was propitious for this energetic young woman to play an historic part in the mo-mentous event that was soon to come to pass.

When all the young women had gathered in the front parlor of the Sibley home and their initial greetings and chitchat had subsided, their hostess announced she eral Lewis Cass to head the municipal government and became had plans: plans to found a Symphony Orchestra in Detroit. Such a statement brought immediate attention from everyone present. Furthermore, said Miss Sibley, she knew just the man who could

by Scarab Club

The Scarab Club will hold its 40th annual Watercolor Show, open to all artists living in Michigan, in October. Paintings must be executed in water media on paper. The show will be juried by Ray Loos, educated at the University of Cincinnati and the Central Academy of Commercial Art, where he taught for nine years, who has been conducting his own workshops 'hroughout the country since 1976.

Loos' work is represented in galleries in Ohio, Texas, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine and The Bahamas. He was featured with his artist wife, Diane, on the Watercolor Page of the American Artist Magazine in March, 1982.

Artists must bring their entries to the Scarab Club, where entry forms may be obtained, between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday, Sept. 26-Oct. 1. Limit is two entries per artist. Fees are $10 for Scarab Club members, $15 for non-members for one or two paintings.

The club is located on Farnsworth, in Detroit's University/Cultural Center. Entry forms may be obtained by calling Brian Smith, 821-1250, as well as at the club when delivering paintings.

Send-off night for Interlochen Arts Academy

Nearly 40 metropolitan Detroit families, including Grosse Pointers Bob and Ann Bradley, gathered Sunday, Sept. 11, at the Mount Clemens home of Ted and Helen Manuel for an Interlochen Arts Academy send-off party and buffet dinner. buffet dinner.

The event, organized by the Detroit Friends of Interlochen, headed by the Bradleys, honored several area students bound for the fine arts high school near Traverse City this fall.

Among those present at the send-off night was Bruce W. Galbraith, director of the academy, the nation's first private coeducational boarding high school to offer intensive training in the arts (music, dance, theater, visual arts, creative writing, stage production and design), and vice-president of the Interlochen Center for the Arts.

Interlochen Arts Academy was established in 1962. The Detroit Chapter of the Friends, one of seven such groups in major cities throughout the country, was founded in 1975 to increase awareness of Interlochen in the Detroit area.

New director for Pewabic

The board of directors of The Pewabic Society, Inc., has named Mary Jane Hock executive director of the Grosse Pointe Branch of the Interfaith Center tor of Pewabic Pottery, Detroit's nationally renowned ceramics learning center, museum and gallery. The one-time director of the Detroit Council for the Arts is the third director in Pewabic's 80-year history. Ms. Hock was selected following a six-month nationwide search by the Pewabic Society board. Fund-ing for the position became available through a $30,000 grant from the Detroit-based Richard H. and Eloise Jenks Webber Charitable Fund. Inc.

The new executive director assumes responsibility for all aspects of Pewabic's operations and development, reporting to the board of the non-profit organization that owns and operates the pottery. In addition to managing a year-round schedule of ceramics courses and exhibits of leading ceramic artists, and maintenance of Pewabic's museum and archives of the works of Pewabic founder Mary Chase Perry Stratton, Ms. Hock will also be responsible for completing re-establishment of Pewabic's architectural tile and production ceramics prac-tice which has been dormant for almost 20 years, since shortly after Mrs. Stratton's death.

Ms. Hock, a member of Pewabic's board since August, 1981, had chaired the board committee responsible for reviving the production tile practice. She comes to the Pewabic directorship from a position as community development coordinator for the Downriver Community Conference. Prior to that, she had served as director of the Council for the for Racial Justice.

Her early career, following graduation from Boston University, was spent as a virologist with Parke Davis.

Ms. Hock is a member of the boards of directors of Detroit Focus, the Urban Alliance and the University District Community Association. She resigned from the Pewabic board following her appointment to the directorship.

Local Ladies Caught Off-Guard

Tina Fisher and Lynn Maxwell were seen drooling in a Grosse Pointe eatery the other night. Asked about their uncharacteristically less than ladylike behavior, they responded that they had been discussing some of the items going up for bids at the 1983 Archives of American Art Jewelry Auction. Apparently, at the last auction in 1981, a $250,000 set went for a mere $50,000. "Now, if we could just do that in the $100 range" they mused, dreaming of bargains at the upcoming auction Wednesday. Local History in the Spotlight

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society presents the first in its fall series of programs this Monday, Sept. 26, at 7:30 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe Academy's Lakeshore Building (entrance on Moran Road). Anyone may attend. A small admission fee will be charged. Tony Robinson, past-president of the academy's board of trustees, is the speaker.

She promises "A History of the Academy of the Sacred Heart and the Grosse Pointe Academy," in slides and narration, followed by a tour of the Lakeshore Building, one of The Pointe's most famous historic buildings, and the beautiful Sacred Heart Chapel. The Grosse Pointe Historical Society has its headquarters, open two days a week, in Monteith School on Cook Road. New members are always welcome.

A Pair of Gala Evenings

Local members of the Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and their friends will head downtown to the Renaissance Club next Thursday, Sept. 29, for an Opening Night Dinner celebrating the Detroit Symphony's 70th Season. If you'd like to join the party, reservation information may be obtained by calling 446-0993.

Local connoisseurs of fine and rare wines will head out to Somerset Mall on Saturday, Oct. 1, for the Second Annual International Wine Auction benefit for the Detroit Community Music School. The evening begins at 6:45 p.m. with a wine tasting hosted by Brother Timothy, cellarmaster, Christian Brothers Winery, and honorary chairman of the auction of over 150 lots, to begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. under the personal supervision of J. Brian Cole, president of Christia's Fact New York Christie's East, New York.

There'll be food, too, for the bidders: an outstanding selection of dishes, hors d'oeuvres to desserts, prepared by chefs from the metropolitan area's finest restaurants, served with an accompaniment of very special domestic and foreign wines.

The Community LINC

The cool breezes of fall signal a fresh start for organizations and committees which have had well deserved rests over the summer. Although LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) volunteers have worked steadily through the summer, they too will get a fresh start on the year by visiting the Rosa Parks Community Arts Center today, Thursday, Sept. 22. Everyone is invited to join the LINC volunteers for this unique opportunity to visit one of the 300 Wayne County agencies which are serviced by LINC.

The agenda for today's outing begins at 9 a.m. at the Northeast Guidance Center (LINC's headquarters), 13340 East Warren Avenue, where a slide presentation will acquaint those attending with LINC's purpose and methods of operation. The morning continues with a tour of the Rosa Parks Community Arts Center and concludes with a function at Old Christ Church on East Jefferson Avenue. There is a $5 charge for the luncheon, which will include wine, salad, quiche, dessert and gram will continue with the tour of the Rosa Parks Community Arts Center, founded in 1980 for the purpose of increasing artistic awareness and ability in order to improve quality of life. Its funding sources include The Michigan Council for the Arts, The Webber Foundation and The Black United

The center is located in historic St. Mary's Community Center in Greektown. It offers classes for adults and children in music fundamentals, voice, piano, drawing and painting, art appreciation, modern dance and aerobics. Performances and exhibitions are held at the end of each 10-week

In addition to the tour, volun-teers and their guests will enjoy an art exhibition and a fashion show. Fashion designer S. Jill Miller will feature some of her own designs, which she will be showing at a Celebrity Fashion Extrava-ganza on Sept. 25. This fund raiser will provide money that will permit Rosa Parks Community Arts to open winter classes, and should carry it through three semesters, according to Rosa Parks' Mr. Lewis. Some of the celebrities who will model are Mrs. Rosa Parks, Judge Wendy Baxter, Attorney Milton Henry and Louise Tappes.

This opportunity to see new fashions and help the Rosa Parks Community Arts Center continue to provide worthwhile programs will begin at 6 p.m. this Sunday, at Detroit West Incorporated, 14400 Wyoming. A $20 tax deductible donation is requested.

In the past year, LINC has been able to supply Rosa Parks Community Arts with two copy machines, a typewriter, a piano, paint, hats and wigs. The organization still needs the following items in order to improve its operation and class offerings: file cabinets, desks, drawing tables, folding chairs, portable room dividers, office supplies, sports equipment and musical instruments of any kind — but especially pianos and string instruments. If you are able to donate any of these items, please call the LINC Office, 331-6700.

LINC column space is provided each month by the Grosse Pointe News as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and de-pends on your support. To volunteer or donate usable items, please call us at 331-6700. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

To sing for Fine Arts . . .

The Fine Arts Society of Detroit will launch its 78th season with a musical cookout this Sunday, Sept. 25, at the Lakeshore Road home of Gail and Robert Weber, during which the society's music committee, chaired by Muriel and Gerald Stoetzer, will present the Primachords, a barbershop quartet from the Grosse Pointe-Lakeshore Chorus. The group led by GENE HONDERICH, bass (second from right), and including JACK MESSINA, tenor (far left), SCOTT HOUGHTON, baritone (far right), and MIKE PROFFITT, lead (between Jack and Gene), will sing a number of medleys, as they have at many parties in the community and on the BobLo Boat. Willard Rohloff will supervise a gourmet group at the grills. Committee members have promised to bring savory surprises made from grandmothers' treasured recipes as special treats. Games will be leisurely: lawn croquet and horseshoe pitching. Mr. Weber is Fine Arts' 1983-84 president. Other officers are Frederick Neumann, immediate past-president, Stephen Shrader and Nita Mikos, first and second vice-presidents, respectively, Rae Kuhn, secretary, and Dorothy Ludwig, treasurer. Directors are Joan Brossy, Joann Koch and Roger Mecum. Publicity person for the September event was Muriel Stoetzer.

Bell-Cracchiolo rites celebrated

Exchanging marriage vows Saturday, August 6, in Saint Paul's-on-the-Lakeshore were Heidi Ann Cracchiolo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Michael Cracchiolo, of Lakeshore Road, and John William Bell III, son of Mr. and Mrs. John William Bell Jr., of Asheville, N.C.

The 2 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend Dr. Jerrold Lee Brooks, director of the Historical Foundation of the Presbyterian Church, Asheville, and The Reverend Bohdan Kosicki, pastor of Saint Lucy's Church, presided, was followed by a garden reception at the bride's parents' home.

The newlyweds vacationed in Portugal and Spain, and will make their home in Fletcher, N.C.

The bride wore a gown of blush ivory silk, styled with a portrait neckline edged in scalloped Alen-con lace and a basque waistline. A small shoulder bow detailed each stem sleeve, trimmed with pearled lace as were the skirt, hem and train.

Her cathedral veil, trimmed with matching pearled lace, fell from a cap of silk with pearl tracery beading. Her flowers were white African agapanthus, phalaenopsis, ivy and hosta leaves, and she clasped the pearl necklace given to her by her baptismal sponsors, her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cracchiolo, bearers of the Offertory gifts, around her neck, along with the bridegroom's gift, a gold heart locket. Thomas Cracchiolo was scriptural reader during the ceremony.

Christi Jane Cracchiolo was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were another sister, Natali Cara Cracchiolo, who also served as vocal soloist during the ceremony, Carol Noel Cracchiolo, their cousin, Katherine Lowe Maitland, Michelle Jeanne Cornay, of Sunset, La., and two sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. John Douglas Wilkins, of Charlotte, N.C., and Jennifer Lynn Bell, of Asheville.

They were dressed identically in pink taffeta gowns styled with short trains and open necklines accented with soft, pointed ruffles. Sheaves of pink flowers, belladonna amaryllis, princess lily, alstromeria, aspidistra and ivy, tied with pink taffeta ribbon, formed

Asheville, the bridegroom's brother, Mr. Wilkins, their brother-in-law, David Raymond Cracchiolo, the bride's brother, David Benjamin Harrison, of Durham, N.C., Robert Judson Camp III, of Coral Cables, Fla., Thomas Harry Fergerson, of Charlotte, Buford Horner Ortale, of Nashville, Tenn., and John Smith Prather Beeland, of Rome,

Junior bridesmaid Amy Kate Guinan, of Bradenton, Fla., the bride's cousin, wore a long dress of ivory petite lace banded with ivory ribbons, featuring short, puffed sleeves and an Empire waist accented with an ivory satin sash. Ring bearer Patrick Andrew Guinan, her brother, wore an antique lace-accented ivory linen

The mothers of the bride and bridegroom both selected floor length dresses of ivory reembroidered lace, the former's styled with double layered bell sleeves, the latter's sashed in pink

When the newlyweds left for the Iberian Peninsula, the bride was wearing a short-sleeved suit dress of pink silk, with ivory acces-

Out-of-town guests included the bride's great-aunt, Mrs. Mary Wilcox, of Peoria, Ill., and uncles and aunts Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Guinan, of Bradenton, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Forton and their child-ren, Tanya and Todd, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Forton and their children, Amanda and Anthony, of Suttons Bay, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cracchiolo and their son, John Edward, of Boca Raton, Fla.

Other cousins of the bride attending were Bernadette Crac-chiolo, of San Francisco, Mrs. William Stevens and her daughter Laura, of Scottsdale, Ariz., Joy Munaco, of Lansing, and Mr. and Mrs. James Forton, of Traverse

Also present were the bridegroom's grandmothers, Mrs. Roland B. Elam, of Shelby, N.C., and Mrs. John William Bell, of Lattimore, N.C., and his aunt, Mrs. Louise Brackett, of Brevard, N.C., along with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Spangler, uncle and aunt, who brought Kelly with them from Charlotte, and Jayne Ellen Colbert, of Atlanta, Ga., another cousin of the bridegroom.

Pre-nuptial parties included a tea and kitchen shower hosted by Miss Robertson and Cherie Stenson in Athens, Ga., and a luncheon and linen shower hosted by Mrs. William Harrison in her Asheville home.

Locally, bridesmaid Katherine Maitland and Ellen Renick entertained at a garden dinner party and round-the-clock shower. Guests were classmates and friends from University Liggett School. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Peter Cracchiolo, was hostess at a luncheon and shower at Lochmoor Club, and Chief Justice and Mrs. G. Mennen Williams entertained at a cocktail book shower.

The bride entertained her attendants at a luncheon at Lochmoor Club. Her father hosted luncheon for the male members of the wedtheir bouquets.

John William Bell Jr. acted as best man for his son. Groomsmen were Jefferson Edward Bell, of John William Bell, of cousin of the bridegroom.

More out-of-town guests were Mrs. Jenny Alberti, of Boca Raton, Mrs. Donald G. Kuhnlein, of sal Dinner.

Pair exchange wedding vows in August afternoon of Thursday, Feb. 26, at the Opera House.

The press reported the next day "the enthusiasm which it created in a house that filled even the galleries and the warm reception given it predict that it has a long and brilliant career before

The Reverend Dr. Samuel S. Marquis, Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, gave a short speech during intermission. He stated that this was "the most pertinent affair marking the city's advancement." Following the concert, the founding committee held a reception across Campus Martius at the Hotel Pontchartrain, with Gales as the stellar attrac-

Among the audience at this premier concert was Otto Kirchner, prominent lawyer, Attorney General of Michigan from 1877 to 1881 and a director of the city's German American Bank. He was so charmed by Gales' rendition of Wolf-Ferrari's new "Jewels of the Madonna" intermezzo (which Gales purposely had put in the program, knowing it would capture his audience) that he immediately decided men should also participate in promoting the cul-tural growth of the city. Kirchner began to circulate among his business friends, urging them to join the movement.

Among the first to contribute $1,000 each to the cause were Paul R. Gray and his brother Philip, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Alger, Dr. Adlington Newman, Mrs. Horace Elgin Dodge, Mrs. Henry B. Joy and Miss Stella Dunbar

On April 4, 1914, Timber Baron Frederick Weyerhauser, said to be the richest man in the world, died at his winter home in Pasadena, Calif. His great-grand-daughter now lives in Grosse Pointe. On April 11, actress Billie Burke married Broadway producer Florenz Ziegfeld Jr., former husband of actress Anna Held.

And on Thursday, April 30, Miss Stella Dunbar Ford became the bride of Joseph Bernard Schlot-man. The wedding took place at Clairview, a mansion of Edwardian grandeur, home of her sister, Mrs. Harry Norton Torrey, over-looking Lake St. Clair on Lake-shore Road. Miss Ford was the granddaughter of Captain John Battice Ford, who had made a chemicals. He founded the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and Wyandotte Chemicals.

On May 4, 1914, the Detroit Symphony Society was formed. Otto Kirchner became its first president. Hardly two months later, on June 28, Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Imperial Crown of Austria-Hungary, was assassinated at Sarajevo. The European continent was thrown into war.

On Nov. 19, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, under Weston Gales, gave its first official concert at 4 p.m. in the Detroit Opera House. The times were turbulent with war news. Headlines read: Russians Pushed Back Fifty Miles by Von Hindenburg . Pneumonia and Rheumatism Claiming More Soldiers Than Bullets in Flanders." Snow and a cold wave with strong west winds were sweeping down on Detroit. Newcomb-Endicott Company was selling Redfern Corsets at $2. B. Siegel offered women's high quality winter suits for $15 and $19.50.

The concert opened with Beethoven's Symphony No. 1, Opus 21 in C major, continued with Richard Wagner's Siegfried Idyl and closed with Carl Maria Von Weber's and Felix Weingartner's orchestration of Invitation to the Dance. Among the box holders were Mrs. William Tefft Barbour, Mrs. Louis D. Bolton, Mrs. C.M. Van Husan, Mrs. Newton E. Corey and Mrs. Stephen Y. Seyburn.

The so-called Golden Age of the Detroit Symphony was in The 20's, when Ossip Gabrilowitsch was its conductor. He had been selected by Jerome H. Remick, president of the Symphony Society, in 1917. The DSO's darkest hour came in September, 1942, when the board suspended operation of the orches-

He proposed the Detroit Plan which called upon industry, utilities, labor, trust funds, organizations, persons of means — and The Detroit Symphony Orchestra, like life, has had its ups and those without — to get together, to contribute his/her/its downs through the years and has, proper share for the advancement of music in the community.

Large industries were to pledge $10,000 per season for a period of three years. Among the first to respond were the Detroit Edison Company, National Bank of Detroit, Ford Motor Company and the Detroit Musicians Union. In 12 days, Ford raised $260,000. A reborn Detroit Symphony Orchestra opened in Masonic Temple in the fall of 1951.

In 1979 the DSO, under the direction of Antal Dorati, became a world-class orchestra, visiting Belgium, England, France, Germany, Norway, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland, winning extravagant praise from European audiences and critics during the month of November.

Heading the DSO board in its 70th anniversary season is Walter J. McCarthy Jr., chairman. Oleg Lobanov is executive vice-president and managing director. Four former conductors will guest conduct during 1983-84; they are Sixten Ehrling, Aldo Ceccato, Dorati and Gary Bertini.

The season opens next Thursday evening, Sept. 29, at 8 p.m. at Ford Auditorium, with Maestro Charles Dutoit of the Montreal Symphony conducting Berlioz's Roman Carnival Overture, Dvorak's Cello Concerto, Opus 104 in B minor, with cellist Yo-Yo Ma as soloist, and Mussorgsky/Ravel's

Another year for Questers

A new year began Monday, Sept. 19, for Windmill Pointe Chapter of Questers No. 385 when members gathered at 9:30 a.m. in Mrs. Stanley Kenn's home for a coffee hour followed by a business meeting conducted by their president, Mrs. Marc Brown. The program, on needlepoint, will be presented by Mrs. Harry Carson, who detailed the different ways in which this art can be used.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cook-book by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, CLASSIC CORN COOK

CORN BAKED IN HUSKS

8 to 12 ears corn 1/2 cup water Margarine Seasonings to taste

Remove corn husks and silk. Rinse husks in cold water. Layer husks and corn in Dutch oven, beginning and ending with husks. Pour in water. Cover and bake in preheated 400° oven about 45 minutes, or until kernel explodes when pierced with knife point. (Very fresh corn requires less time.) Serve with margarine and seasonings.

About 70 calories for an average ear of corn without margarine.

Cholesterol 0.

BOILED CORN 8 ears corn, husks and silk

removed Water

Bring large kettle of water to boil. Add corn, cover and bring to full boil. Remove from heat. Let stand covered 5 to 10 minutes, or until kernel explodes when pierced with knife point.

About 70 calories for an average ear of corn without margarine. Cholesterol 0.

CORN COOKED IN ROASTING WRAP

8 ears corn, husks and silk removed

6 Tbsp. water, divided 1/2 tsp. sugar, divided

Place 4 ears of corn in center of large piece of roasting wrap or in roasting bag. Add 3 Tbsp. water and sprinkle with 1/4 tsp. sugar. Seal wrap as directed on package. Repeat with remaining ears. Place in shallow baking pan. "Roast" in preheated 400 oven 20 to 25 minutes, or until kernel explodes when pierced with knife

About 71 calories for each average size roasting ear.

GRILLED CORN

8 ears corn

Pull back husks from corn; remove silk. Replace husks and, if necessary, tie in place. Soak in cold water 15 to 30 minutes. Broil 4 to 6 inches from heat at hottest setting, turning occasionally, in preheated broiler or over hot coals, about 20 minutes, or until kernel explodes when pierced with knife point.

About 70 calories per average ear of corn. Cholesterol 0.

SKILLET CORN 8 ears corn, husks and silk

removed cup water

1 tsp. sugar (optional)

In 12-inch skillet, bring water to boil with sugar. Add corn. Cover and bring to a boil again, then cook over medium low heat, turning occasionally, 5 to 8 minutes, or until kernel explodes when pierced with knife point. (Very fresh corn requires less time.)

About 70 calories for each average ear of corn. Cholesterol 0.

STEAMED CORN 11/2 to 2 cups water

8 ears corn, husks and silk removed

In large kettle, with steaming basket in place and water boiling, place the corn in the basket; cover immediately and turn heat to medium low. Keep water simmering for 5 to 8 minutes, or until kernel explodes when pierced with knife point, turning corn occasionally while cooking. (Very fresh corn requires less time than the more mature ears.)

Calories about 70 per ear of Cholesterol 0.

For added interest and flavor, try serving fresh corn on or off the cob with seasoned margarines, without increasing either calories or cholesterol.

DILL MARGARINE: Soften 1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted margarine in small bowl; stir in 1½ tsp. freshly snipped dill or 1/2 tsp. dried dill weed.

LEMON MARGARINE: Soften 1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted margarine in small bowl; stir in 11/2 to 2 tsps. fresh lemon juice.

Where would high school athletes be without them? In some cases, a lot better off. It's too bad if that makes some people angry, but it's been my experience that even the stereotyped wild-eyed, stage-mother of 1940s movies would pale in comparison to those telephone-wielding, pushy souls of self-righteousness known as tennis moms (or hockey dads or soccer parents - take your pick, there's one in every crowd.)

It never fails. A kid expresses an interest in sports (picking up a tennis racquet at the age of six months or tossing a football in the backyard) and some parents go bonkers.

Note the key word here: SOME. Most parents are just plain happy to help their student-athlete have fun; paying for ice time or greens fees and all the right equipment—and dropping them off and picking them up from practices and games until the family station wagon qualifies as a commercial vehicle. Those parents are a joy to have around — coaches and athletic directors don't even know they exist until fund-raising or a helping hand is needed.

To those parents, I send hearty congratulations and ever lasting gratitude. To the other kind of parents — the pushy, ego-maniacs who insist on living out their own frustrated sports fantasies through their children, I dedicate the following. (I'm sure you don't know who you are so maybe you should have somebody read this to you . . .)

My suggestions for a happy parent-athlete relationship . . .

• Investigate a sports program thoroughly before getting involved. Make sure things like fees, uniforms, transportation, schedules, coaching experience, practice time, coaching techniques and playing time are discussed in detail by the coach or sports organization BEFORE a sports season begins.

• Don't complain behind a coach's back about how little playing time Junior is receiving. Ask the coach, nicely, about the kid's playing time and be satisfied with his answer. If you've already picked a quality sports program, you won't even have to worry about asking the coach; each kid will get a fair amount of playing time.

• Try to attend as many of your child's games as possible. Sports programs are not babysitters, they are activities in which the entire family can and should become involved.

• Do not attend games to berate coaches, players (especially your own child) other fans, referees or other officials.

• Don't push a child into an organized sport if he or she is hesitant about playing for fear of injury, bigger children, not playing well, etc. Forcing a child to play a sport he or she

Medal-winning cyclist gears up for 1984

By Peggy O'Connor

This is David Grylls' year to get serious about cycling.

Not that he hasn't been serious about it before, having earned a spot on the 1980 United States Olympic Cycling Team and on every U.S. National Cycling Team since 1978. It's just that this year, the 25 year-old South High graduate is going for it all: the 1984 Olympic gold medal in cycling. And that's serious.

So far, the road to the 1984 Olympics is a lot smoother than the one Grylls traveled in 1980. For one thing, the U.S. can hardly boycott the 1984 Olympics — to be held in Los Angeles - like it did in 1980. For another, Grylls didn't start his 1984 Olympic tune-up by falling off his bike, like he did in the 1979 Pan American Games, the prelude to the 1980 disappointment.

All Grylls did in last month's Pan-Am Games in Venezuela was stay on his bike and win two gold medals in cycling, setting a record in the Individual Pursuit with 4:43.9 and participating in the medal-winning performance by the U.S. Team in the Team Pursuit, which also notched a Pan-Am and U.S. record with a 4:22.7 time.

Grylls admits that winning two gold medals is a lot better than falling off a bike and losing a ride in the finals.

"WHEN I won, I was relieved at first. You know, that I'd gotten that far. Then I felt proud . . . it's hard not to when you are standing on that podium listening to the national anthem. It's exciting to know that you've gotten to that "The funny thing is, after that there's kind of a letdown. A what-do-I-do next? feeling,' the athletically-built Grylls said in a visit to Grosse Pointe last week.

What Grylls does next is prepare for the 1984 Olympics. For that, he will leave his mechanical engineering studies at San Diego State University this winter and train for the Olympic trials in early June, 1984. Grylls insists that his next goal, following his Pan-Am success, is to win the gold medal in Los Angeles.

"For many years, the U.S. wasn't that strong in cycling. Making the Olympic team was the only goal. Now I believe that the goal should go beyond making the team . . . it should be winning a medal." Grylls says.

"I can't guarantee we'll win at the Olymics. But I know we'll do a lot better than we've done."

Grylls hasn't done too badly himself in his 10-year competitive cycling career. He started riding back in 1970 when the (Continuéd on Page 2C)

> Back on offense, the Barracudas ran into a stubborn Baron defense led by Harlan Camps, Kevin McCracken, Cromar and Matt Swikoski. A Barracuda mistake in the second quarter gave the ball to Grosse Pointe and Khoenle scored from the 11 yardline. The Barons led at the half, 14-0, and despite a see-saw second half and a lategame Red Baron drive, the score

On the JV side, the Red Barons totally dominated the Barracudas, taking a 20-0 victory behind the efforts of Brian Letcher.

The Barons scored first when Steve Shumirski dove over from the 1 yardline. Chris Stebbins had made a fine grab of a Jason DeYonker pass to keep the drive alive. On defense, Steve Horn, Rob Rinaldi and Pat Palus stopped the Barracudas repeatedly.

The Barracudas mounted a drive to start the second half, but were stopped by the defensive unit led by Mark Zoltowski and David Trent. The Barons couldn't get anything going again until the fourth quarter, when DeYonker added Grosse Pointe's final touchdown. Stebbins added the extra point to close out the scoring at 20-0.

The Barons-Barracudas varsity game proved to be frustrating for both squads, as what started out to be a high-scoring affair settled into a defensive struggle and a 6-6

Each team scored early, then both teams found that excellent running plays and passing manu-ever were being shut down. Quarterback Jamie Acord was injured on a "keeper" play and Dom Martilloti did a fine job filling in for the rest of the game.

Defensively, Sean Cleland, Rich Regaldo, Matt Dillenback, Terry Elsey and John Baal played an outstanding game. Darin Hopp was a one-man wrecking crew — he was all over the field and even intercepted a pass to stop a Barracuda drive. Offensively, Lance Harding caught key passes to keep drives alive and Jay Binder and Scott Smith ran off important yardage, as the Red Barons showed much improvement from the opening week son, there are bound to be plenty of both good and bad "bounces" North happened to be the recipient of the good bounces last Friday, when it beat Sterling Heights, 20-12.

The good bounces allowed the Norsemen to recover two fourth quarter fumbles and score 14 answered points and run their season record to 2-0. It still wasn't an easy victory; North had to overcome an early 12-0 deficit. Seven penalties for 80 yards and some mistakes typical of the early season helped put the Norsemen in a hole.

"We definitely showed we missed one week of game action," North coach Frank Sumbera said after the game. North's only contest before the Sterling Heights game was a 1-0 forfeit win over East Detroit.

North moved the ball well all night and eventually scored on a one-yard keeper by senior quarterback Chris Bingaman with just over two minutes remaining in the first half. After a scoreless third quarter, North took control of the game. Midway through the final period, Geoff Tishbein recovered a fumble for North on the Sterling Heights 8 and three plays later, fullback Fred Schultz scored the go-ahead touchdown from one yard out.

Less than two minutes later, Norseman George Kasza, with the help of Chris Piche, recovered another fumble. North again capitalized when Schultz scored on a 24yard burst through the middle to give the Norsemen the victory. Waterford Mott will visit North this Saturday, Sept. 24, at 1 p.m.

JV, frosh split

North's JV football squad lost its first game of the season, 21-7, to Sterling Heights. The Norsemen generated 341 yards of total offense, including a 32-yard touchdown run by Greg Guest.

Jamie Wheatley threw two touchdown passes and completed 10 of 14 throws as North's ninth grade football squad won and improved its record to 2-0.

Rough cross country week

North's boys' cross country team had a rough week, falling to L'Anse Creuse, 22-33, marking the first time ever that a North's boys' squad lost a Bi-County league meet. Pete Strek then led North to an 11th place finish in the Holly Invitational to close out the week.

Jenny Galvin opened the scoring with a fine assist from Nancy Alcott; Spicer and Braithwaite also scored in the first half. Braithwaite scored two more goals in the second half, one on a great pass from Mack. Haggarty and Kolp closed out the scoring. Kelly and Kathy Foley led the defense and Michelle Kovalcik played well in goal to earn her second shut-

The Mustangs traveled to Hamlich Park Sept. 16, beating the Ukrainians, 6-1. Mack had a first half hat-trick and Galvin added one goal in a first half marked by the defensive play of Kelly, Foley and Jane Rice. Beth Bonanni and Kolp added goals in the second half for the victory. Spicer and Haggarty also played well.

The Grosse Pointe squad earned its fourth consecutive win Sept. 18, trouncing the Flyers, 14-0, at Barnes. Bonanni, Spicer, Kolp, Amy Case and Galvin scored the goals; Kelly, Rice, and Foley chipped in on defense. Galvin, Spicer, Kolp, Kelly and Alcott scored in the second half. Spicer finished the day with four goals, Kolp had a hat trick and Galvin and Kelly scored twice each.

Kovalcik earned her third shutout of the season in goal.

National honor for Wood

University Liggett School ath-letic director and head tennis coach Bob Wood was elected as the third vice-president of the National High School Athletic Coaches Association during the recent NHSACA national convention in Albuquerque, N.M., Carey E. McDonald, NHSACA executive director, said last week.

"My election as third vice-president of the NHSACA is one of the highest professional honors I have received, Wood said. "I look forward to the challenge of moving the coaching professional forward as we go through the 80s."

He will be president of the NHSACA during 1986-87.

Wood, a veteran coach for more than 20 years, served as the chairman of the NHSACA National High School Tennis Committee for the past four years. He was named as the 1981 National High School Tennis Coach of the Year on the basis of his coaching performance with 10 consecutive state championships with ULS and for his service to the coaching profession. This spring, Wood's ULS team won a record-setting 12th consecutive state title.

about sports at this time of year ... even this bunch of South football players pictured in recent practice. And talking about sports, the News has added a new feature this fall, an updated score page and game pre-views called Scores and More. Coaches, athletic directors, sports club directors, players and even moms and dads who don't see their favorite team are invited to contribute information to Scores and More. Deadline to submit scores for your team and/or league is Mondays at noon. Further information may be obtained by calling the sports department at 882-0294. Virginia Slims net dates made

The Virginia Slims of Detroit Tennis Tournament, presented by Greater Detroit Olds-mobile on behalf of the Junior League of Birmingham, will make its Detroit stop at Cobo Arena Monday, Oct. 3 through Sunday, Oct. 9.

Thirty-two Interna-tional women professional tennis players will vie for the $150,000 purse. Proceeds from the event go to the various community projects and services supported by the Junior League.

Tickets are available now at CTC outlets and the Joe Louis Arena box office and at the Cobo Arena box office Oct. 3 through 9. Tues-day through Thursday general admission seats are priced at $5.50; Friday reserved seats are $5.50, $6.50, $6.50 and $10.50. Re-served seating for Saturday and Sunday matches are $5.50, $8.50, $10.50 and $12.50. Youths under 18 and senior citizens will be admitted for $2 off the ticket prices Tuesday through Friday.

Further information may be obtained by calling 646-0445.

Woods' Kristin skates to first

She's only 8, but Kristin Buckler, of the Woods, already has an ice skating championship win under her belt.

Kristin, a third grader at Our Lady Star of the Sea School, placed first in the Preliminary Ladies Division at the University Miami Summer Skating Competition in Oxford, Ohio in July. The event was sanctioned by the United States Figure Skating Association and featured skaters representing eight states.

Kristin followed that up with a second place finish in the Preliminary Ladies Freestyle Division at the Detroit Skating Club Competition. Skaters from nine states participated in the Bloomfield Hills

Kristin returned to Miami University Aug. 15, for a week of intensive training under the direction of Paul Tatton. When she's not busy training and/or competing, Kristin is a member of the St. Clar Shores Figure Skating Club, where she's been skating for three years.

The University Liggett School No. 3 singles again showed why girls' varsity tennis team stayed she is undefeated as she played unbeaten with two wins last week.

On Sept. 13, ULS traveled to Birmingham to tangle with Coach Julie McKnight's strong Marian High School racketeers and re-turned victorious, 5-2. The Lady Knights received come-frombehind victories from Paula Mighion at No. 1 singles and Leslie Mackey at No. 2 singles.

Mighion dropped the first set and was trailing 0-4 in the second set, but stormed back to win the final two sets, 6-4, 6-2, Mackey also lost her first set, but her superb groundstrokes wore down her opponent, 6-0, 6-1, in the last two sets. Charu Nautiyal, at No. 3 singles, and the No. 1 doubles combination of captain Windy White and Maria Rodriguez also turned in impressive wins to spearhead the Knight attack. The most exciting win for ULS came at No. 2 doubles, where the senior duo of solid-volleying Jenney Peck and power-hitting Laurie Evans held on to post another three-set victory, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5.

The Knights then hosted perennial rival Grosse Pointe North Sept. 15, taking their fourth consecutive win, 5-2. Mackey had the hottest performance as she hit sizzling groundstrokes on her way to an overwhelming 6-0, 6-0 victory at No. 2 singles. Nautiyal at consistent tennis in notching a 6-0, 6-2 win. Freshman Amina Ali also demonstrated superb shotmaking as she won at No. 4 singles, 6-3, Coach George Andrews said he was pleased with the performances of the No. 1 doubles team of captain Windy White and Maria Rodriguez and the No. 2 duo of Jenny Peck and Laurie Evans. Both doubles teams looked much sharper. The teams seem to be getting more comfortable with one another, and they are communicating well and moving well," Andrews said.

The Lady Knights journey to western Michigan Sept. 23, where they will participate in the East Grand Rapids Invitational. The invitational features eight outstanding teams from throughout the state. "I only hope our team continues its positive attitude and hard work," Coach Andrews commented, "and each player continues to put forth her best ef-

Knights fall, 52-0

The University Liggett School football Knights made the long trip to Saginaw Sept. 16, but their efforts went unrewarded as they suffered a 52-0 loss to St. Mary. Fine running by Jim Kitchen and captain Steve Georgi, plus some stellar defense, kept the Knights in the game early as St. Mary clung to a 12-0 lead at half-time. The bigger, quicker Saginaw team began to take command dur-ing the third period behind the runing of Derek Martin and Phil Phillips. The two running backs shredded the ULS defense during a third quarter explosion that saw St. Mary ice the game with a 32-point barrage. Phillips scored three times in the game, while Martin scored four touchdowns and rushed for 385 yards.

ULS, now 0-2 on the season, will try to bounce back this Friday, Sept. 23, with a 6 p.m. contest at Flint Academy.

Kickers are 4-0-1

The ULS boys' soccer team stayed unbeaten with three wins last week. The Knights defeated Bethesda, Roeper and Oakland Christian.

The Knights ousted Bethesda, 9-2, at home Sept. 13. Bethesda scored the first goal of the game, but the Knights came back and scored four goals in the first half. Rob Healy notched the first Knight goal, while Harold Colby scored on a head ball from a cross by Rick Roberts. Johannes Homan put the Knights' third goal on the board with Walter Connolly collecting the assist. Healy scored his second goal of the half on a pass from Rob Wood.

Knights' goals were scored by Homan, Brian David and Roberts, Sell candy with a hat trick. The assists were awarded to Healy, Homan, and Connolly, with two.

On Sept. 14, the Knights blasted Roeper, 10-0, jumping out to a 1-0 lead on a breakaway goal by Connolly. Other goals in the first half were scored by Roberts, Jim Lambrecht, Wood, Healy and David. The assists went to Wood, Roberts, Colby, Lambrecht, and Homan.

In the second half the Knights finished off their 10-0 rout with scores from Roberts, David, Connolly and Wood and some tough play by forward Bill McFreely, halfbacks Tony Malcoun and Ralph Hoenle and fullback Steve Vreeken.

The Knights traveled to Oakland Christian Sept. 16, and came through with a 4-1 victory. The Knights' lone goal in the first half was from Homan, assisted by Roberts. In the second half Oakland Christian scored first on a controversial play, as the Knights were forced to play with only 20 men when Roberts was ejected. The Knights overcame this penalty by notching three goals. Wood scored spectacularly from the 18 yardline on a pass by Homan, Colby tallied on a throw-in after one of the Oakland Christian players head the ball into his own net and Healy scored the final goal on a penalty kick. The Knights won this hard fought game on fine goal tending by Jeff Lucas and tenacious defense by captain Dan Bowen, Kirk Haggarty and Steve Eberhard.

ULS' JV soccer team got off to a promising start this year, winning four games and beating each opponent by a margin of at least three goals.

Leading scorers are Chris Butler and Bob Williams, each with four goals. Coach Domenic Facciolla considers the starting de-fense of Steve Schmidt, Jeff Lambrecht, Blasko Ristic and Mike Fozo to be the strongest point of the team. With the help of alternating goalies Pahl Zinn and John Hadjisky, they have allowed only one goal in four games, with three straight shutouts.

Cagers open year

The ULS girls' basketball team started its season last week with one win and one loss.

St. Clare wins 35-0 grid rout

Three long touchdown runs high-lighted St. Clare of Montefalco's 35-0 rout of St. Joan of Arc last Sunday, in a win which moved the Falcons' record to 2-0.

Quarterback Roger Hunwick sprinted 57 yards on the Falcon's second series to open the scoring. Doug Lucas booted the point after to make it 8-0. Lucas scored on a 76yard run early in the second quarter to make it 14-0. A few minutes later, Lucas hauled down a Hunwick pass and raced in from 23 yards to put St. Clare up, 20-0, at halftime.

Jad Pablo kept it up for St. Clare in the third quarter, scoring on a 26-yard carry; Derald Penn ran in the extra point to give the Falcons a 27-0 lead. Chris May finished the scoring with an 80-yard run in the final quarter and Lucas added the extra point for the 35-0 final.

St. Clare's offense rolled up an amazing 267 yards while holding St. Joan to 102 total yards.

Defensive standouts for the Falcons included linebacker Peter Astfalk with five tackles, Mike Paull and Lou Dobbs with four each and Pat O'Brien and Jeff Fikany, with three apiece. Penn, Hunwick, Dobbs and Mike Calcaterra each intercepted passes for the Falcons.

St. Clare will shoot for its third straight when it faces East Detroit St. Veronica at noon this Sunday, Sept. 25, at South High field.

Hike for Hearts set for Sept. 24

The second annual "Hike for Hearts' fund-raising event is set for Saturday, Sept. 24, on Belle Isle. The 'Hike for Hearts' is sponsored by the Ticker Club, which will use proceeds to purchase computer assisted, post-opchase computer-assisted, post-operative care equipment for the Intensive Care Unit at Children's

The maximum 20 kilometer (12 miles) hike is made up of three loops of nine, seven and four kilometers; hikers may choose any combination of three or all three. All participants must register before hiking; hikers must also obtain a pledge sheet to record sponsors and their donations. Registration and sponsor forms may be obtained by calling Bonnie (north) at 689-7735; Linda (south) at 383-7449; Denise (east) 774-3718; or Jean (west) at 464-1910.

Prizes will be awarded to the three hikers turning in the largest total contributions. Refreshments will be provided during the event.

In the second half the Knights outscored Bethesda, 5-1. The

The Grosse Pointe Swim Club's annual Candy Fund Raiser begins Thursday, Sept. 29 and will run through Oct. 17. Swimmers of all age groups and skill levels will be calling door-to-door in Grosse Pointe to sell a variety of Morley chocolate, candy, cookies, spreadable cheeses and popping corn, with selections ranging in price from $2 to $8.

Profits from the sale will be used to help support the Swim Club's comprehensive competitive swimming program. Other sources of support for the program include fees and dues paid by members, community services provision of coaching support and profits from the state-wide swim meet which the club hosts annually. (This year's meet will be at North High Dec. 9 through 11.)

Club co-presidents Brian Thompson and Jim Boutrous stress that a successful candy sale is essential to the continuation and improvement of the Grosse Pointe Swim Club program, says club spokesman J'aime La Nage. Instruction and the opportunity to participate in official Michigan and out-of-state USA-sanctioned swim competition is offered to all ages in five skill levels: Senior, A, B, C, and D.

During the 1982-83 swim season, approximately 200 area children swam with the G.P. Swim Club in 30 meets. The Club placed second and sixth in the boys' and girls' short course state championships and fifth in the mixed boys' and girls' long course state championship.

The profits generated by the sale will allow the Swim Club to maintain and improve its quality coaching and other programs. Each swimmer achieving sales of $200 or more will be awarded a special team jacket.

South plans hockey orientation

South High's hockey coaches are planning an orientation session for potential players in this year's varsity ice hockey program.

The orientation evening is set for Thursday, Sept. 29, at 7:30 p.m. in the South High auditorium.

Sports Week

dislikes or is afraid of is one good way to insure a miserable athletic experience.

• Never force a child to continue in a sport he no longer enjoys or is unable to remain competitive in. Children seem to instinctively know when their ability or interest no longer matches that of their peers. Parents should try to trust those

• Don't tell a child to swing a bat or hold a racquet "the way I used to do it when I was young." Each athlete must develop his or her own style; learning a sport is half the fun and too much criticism is no fun at all.

• Don't criticize your child's coach in front of him or her. Chances are the coach knows much more than you do about the sport and unfounded criticism can only serve to confuse the athlete.

• Don't make a sport more important than it is. Sports are just games and only a tiny percentage of those children involved in athletics will have futures as amateur or professional athletes. Children should always be allowed to play sports for fun, skill-building and learning.

• If, and that's a big "if," you happen to be the parent of a highly-skilled athlete, take steps to insure that the athlete receives proper coaching, training and medical attention. Most highly skilled athletes have been involved in intensive training from early ages, however, so their parents are usually aware of how to monitor their child's progress.

• There will always be children of greater skill and achievement on your child's team. Don't begrudge that child his or her talent; especially steer clear of downgrading him or her to your child. Children must learn that some people are better than others at certain things . . . how can they learn that valuable lesson if Mom and Dad refuse to accept it?

• Don't moan and groan if some athletes are praised more than your child — that happens in life, too. In quality programs, all children will receive some praise and encouragement; it's up to the parents to supply the rest. Don't count on other parents, local newspapers or athletic directors to go around singing the praises of each and every athlete — it just can't happen!

 Always stress good manners and sportsmanship. Sports are perfect breeding grounds for kids to learn some of life's best lessons and parents can and should make sure the lessons learned are the correct ones.

 Take pride in your child's athletic interest and achievement, encouraging him to put forth his or her best effort and most importantly, teach your child to enjoy himself in whatever sport he or she chooses.

Whew, I'm glad I got that off my chest. While Grosse Pointe may lay claim to some of the best, most sensible parents around, it also has some of the worst when it comes to sports. I've met most of the best (and too many of the worst) and found that these suggestions I've made are usually standard practice for these good role models.

The rest of you may feel free to clip and save this list — I'm sure it'll come in handy this fall sports season.

Color show about to begin

From the rolling hills of the southern counties to the rocky crags of the Upper Peninsula, Michigan's fall color extravaganza is a show place for the nation, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan. Michigan offers at least 85 species of soft- and hardwood trees which change colors, more than any other state. Twenty percent of the nation's sugar maples, renowned for their vivid fall colors, are located in Michigan.

Brilliant colors of brown, orange, red and yellow mixed with the green of spruce, pine and other firs supply a beautiful backdrop for many popular autumn activities.

Michiganians can take color tours by automobile, boat or train, explore a nature center, visit a college campus on a football Saturday, attend a fall festival or sip freshly squeezed apple cider at one of the state's many mills.

Colors should be best from mid-September through mid-October in the U.P. and in the Lower Peninsula north of a line from Ludington to Standish.

In central Lower Michigan south to a line from Muskegon to Port Huron, fall colors usually peak from early to mid-October. Southern Lower Michigan's forests are at their zenith between mid- and late October.

ldeal conditions for good color development are warm, bright days and cool nights. Cloudy, wet days combined with warm nights usually mean a shorter, less spectacular season. Forestry experts say this autumn has great color potential.

Many festivals and special events are in full swing during autumn.
In West Michigan, there are the Rockford Harvest Festivals every weekend in October; October Festival, Sept. 23 to 24 in Grand Rapids; Red Flannel Festival, Oct. 1 in Cedar Springs; Viking Color Festival, Oct. 1 to 8 in Cadillac; Color Cruise and Island Festival, Oct. 7 to 9 in Grand Ledge; Autumn Festival, Oct. 8 to 9 at Ludington's White Pine Village, and the Old Fashioned Fall Festival, Oct. 15 at Middleville's Historic Bowers Mill. Leisurely lunch cruises aboard the Star of Charlevoix leave daily through Oct. 15 while dinner cruises are scheduled for Friday and Saturday

East Michigan is celebrating the season with Fall Harvest Day, Oct. 1 at Alpena's Jesse Besser Museum; Fall Harvest Festival, Oct. 1 to 2 at Midland's Chippewa Nature Center: Tuscola County Pumpkin Festival, Oct. 6 to 9 in Caro, and the Harvest Bazaar Farmer's Market, Oct. 8 to 9 in Standish. In addition, the Au Sable River Queen paddle wheelers run daily weather permitting through

Hunt, fish day is Sept. 24

Tom Seaver, one of baseball's best pitchers and a three-time Cy Young Award winner, will serve as Honorary Chairman for National Hunting and Fishing Day, Sept. 24. "I'm very pleased to have this opportunity to tell people about the importance of conserving our natural and wildlife recources and how hunters and fisherman play a major role in this country's conservation efforts, Seaver said.

Seaver noted that there are more than 12 million white-tailed deear in the U.S. today; in 1900 there were only about 500,000. Expanding civilization and commercial exploitation had reduced the elk population to about 41,000 in 1907, but today there are more than one-half million elk.

"The dramatic comeback of the white-tailed deer, elk and many other species such as wood duck, pronghorn antelope and wild turkey was made possible by conservation programs supported and financed largely by America's hunters and fishermen," said Seaver. Sportsmen's contributions to conservation have totaled more than $5 billion, Seaver pointed out. Seaver, who is an avid hunter and fisherman when he is not on the mound, began hunting as a youngster. "I started hunting with my father in California and I was about 8. I had a 410 and I'd tag along with him when he'd go quail hunting," said the two-time Cy Young award winner.

September 24 will mark the 12th annual observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day. NHF Day was established by Congress in 1972 as a means of giving recognition to hunters and fishermen for their many contributions to conservation. National Hunting and Fishing Day is sponsored by more than 40 of the nation's leading conservation organizations including the National Wildlife Federation, The Izaak Walton leage and the Wildlife Society.

Each year between 10 and 14 million Americans participate in an estimated 2,500 separate NHF Day activities sponsored by sportsmen's clubs, conservation organization and civic groups.

Additional information on National Hunting and Fishing Day and conservation is available from NHF Day Headquarters, P.O. Box 1075, Riverside, Conn., 06878
