You can do it Mike!

Okay gang guess what today is? It's the seventh annual "Great American Smokeout" sponsored by the American Cancer Society. The idea, as you probably know, is to urge smokers to give up the demon weed for 24 hours in the hopes they'll stop smoking altogether.

The focal point of the "G.A.S." in Detroit this year will be a Lunch Bunch Smoke-out Rally hosted by the Westin Hotel running from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. today. Music, magic and aerobic dancing will be provided to take the smoker's mind off those butts.

One of the really neat things to do to help the smokers this year is the Cancer Society's "Adopt a Smoker" program. The idea is to help a friend or co-worker make it through the day as they slowly fall apart and start to beg and whine for a cigaret.

So I'm going to do it. Since I don't have any friends, I'm going to adopt co-worker Mike Andrzejczyk whether he likes it or not. Even though Mike has a last name that looks like an eye chart, he's not too bad a guy. Hopefully I'll be able to save "Big Mike" (we call him "B.M." for short) from himself.

I'm going to take all the Cancer Society's suggestions and use them on old B.M. First I'll supply him with candy, cookies, celery sticks or whatever to crush that oral craving. I'll also buy him lunch and be available for moral consolation all day.

Most importantly, according to the Cancer Society, I will not nag, threaten or preach. Not once will I tell Mike that his lungs probably look like a coal miner's boot.

Not once will I ask him what it's like to use his lungs as a natural filter. Nor will I ever mention that stupid Topal toothpaste commercial. The one where a guy blows smoke through a handkerchief and stains it an ugly yellow. (Hey Mike, if it does that to a handkerchief, what's it doing to you inside?) I mean, after all, you can always buy new handkerchiefs. New lungs are harder to find.

Finally as a life-long non-smoker, I think it's only fair for me to give up something too. Just to keep Mike company. To let him know I'm with him morally, spiritually and physically.

I'm going to give up smoking too. I'm going to give up taking in all that re-cycled cigaret smoke Mike emits when he lights up next to me. I think it's only fair.

I'll let you know how Mikey, (he'll smoke anything), did in next week's column. Incidentally, before anyone calls me a hypocrite for being anti-smoking this week after writing about pipe smokers last week let me say I was just following orders.

Besides, it's all grist for the mill.

Very interesting . . .

Grosse Pointe is mentioned at least half a dozen times in two interesting books that crossed my desk this week. The first is "Murder, Michigan," detailing 70 Michigan murders with a dash of history and atmosphere. The killings date from an Indian murder in 1567 to the massacre of a Michigan family in 1982.

Among the more interesting stories is the cannibalized fate of Etian Brule, the first white man to explore Michigan; the (Continued on Page 2A)

School board votes 6-1 to close Barnes

By Susan McDonald

Barnes Elementary School will close its doors to students while sixth graders move into the middle schools next fall under a reorganization plan approved Monday by a 6-1 vote of the Board of Education.

The trustees' decision drew cheers and jeers from a crowd of more than 400 at the North High Performing Arts Center. A school board recall group stands ready to collect signatures; another organization says it will fight any attempt to remove trustees from office.

And some parents say they will work to make the reorganization a success despite their disappointment with the school board's final decision.

The board's vote Monday culminated months of study, public debate and spirited politicking among groups opposed to and in support of school closings. Trustees on Sunday found black boxes sitting on their doorsteps at home. They contained white Stetson hats with notes attached — be a good guy and vote against school closings — from a parent group at Barnes.

None of the trustees chose to wear their white hats Monday, but the six who voted in favor of Supt. Kenneth Brummel's recommendations defended their positions with apparent conviction.

Dorothy Kennel, a trustee and former teacher, said she firmly believes the new organization will bring improvements in the quality of education as well as economies to the school system.

"Our responsibility is to guide the school system in as economically sound and efficient manners as possible. Our challenge is also to improve the standards of this system. Without change we are merely standing still . . . If we are to maintain our standing in the nation, we are going to have to do some of the things comparable systems have done," she said.

Board President Joan Hanpeter said she has an obligation to "look for every opportunity to cut costs that does not damage our educational program.

"I hold this administration responsible for seeing that the sixth grade move is well planned and that the promised benefits do materialize," she said.

Trustee Jon Gandelot agreed, up to a point, with parents who have said they oppose school closings because Grosse Pointe is "different" from districts across the state that have closed schools because of sharp enrollment declines.

"We are different," Gandelot said. "We're unusual in that we haven't yet addressed the problem of declining enrollment . . . we haven't attempted to deal with it."

Gandelot said he had respect for the many citizens who have rallied against Supt. Brummel's proposals. "By and large, the citizens who have come to the board are good, intelligent people who have done a great deal of research. A lot of good has come from these discussions," he said.

The two-part reorganization plan approved Monday was the third proposal considered by the school board this year. Two others called for closing four schools but were abandoned after loud protests from citizens.

The reorganization was prompted by a drop of more than 40 percent in public school enrollment since 1970. The system designed for 10,000 students now houses about 7,500 and administrators predict that will drop to 6,267 in three years.

"Fifty-four out of a total of 176 regular classrooms available for teaching purposes in our elementary school are not now needed — that's one-third of our rooms," according to Mrs. Kennel.

While many citizens in the audience Monday applauded the board's action and spoke their support for trustees facing a recall, the majority was firm in its opposition to closing Barnes and transferring sixth graders. Roger Mourad, the only trustee to vote against the plan, said in a speech interrupted twice with applause that he felt he was reflecting pub-

Park council already fighting

By Harriet Nolan

The honeymoon between the Grosse Pointe Park City Council and newly elected Mayor Palmer Heenan came to an abrupt halt after council voted down his choice of Vernon Ausherman as Mayor Pro Tem by a 4-3 margin at the council meeting Monday, Nov. 14.

The standing-room, pro-Heenan audience boomed, howled, hooted and hissed whenever any hold-over council members voted or spoke. They cheered and clapped for the mayor and council members Vernon Ausherman and David Gaskin.

After Ausherman was rejected for the position, he told the audience and council he felt like the new kid on the block, that the council appeared to be polarized and he wasn't going to apologize for being there.

He then nominated Gaskin who was also rejected by a 4-3 vote. Following that, councilmember Carroll Evola nominated John Prost who was unanimously voted Mayor Pro Tem.

Does tradition foster teen drunks?

By Harriet Nolan

Sara Snyder of Grosse Pointe Park was 12 years old when her parents moved to the Indian Village home of her grandmother. Left alone most of the time, she acquired the habit of drinking her father's beer while reading, and by the time she graduated from high school she describes herself as "a full-blown alcoholic."

During the next six years, Ms. Snyder remembers drifting around Michigan, losing numerous jobs and being kicked out of several apartments. She also remembers being robbed, beaten and strapped down in hospital emergency rooms before she made the choice to "either go completely crazy and end up dead or quit drinking."

In 1974, she entered a half-way house for alcoholic women and spent the next 51 weeks fighting her way back to reality.

Ms. Snyder, now a substance abuse therapist with the Interim House Alcohol Treatment Program at the downtown YWCA, is angry that there aren't any inpatient units in the Pointes to treat residents.

"A lot of people stereotype an alcoholic as someone who intentionally destroys their life, a person defective both psychologically and socially," says Ms. Snyder. "A drunk chooses to be, an alcoholic has no choice."

She feels the community is denying the seriousness of the problem much the same as unwed pregnant daughters were shut off to undisclosed locations not too many years ago.

Two Grosse Pointe high school counselors who want to remain anonymous for fear of "losing the confidence of students who tell them everything," back up this theory.

Both say they don't believe any students are alcoholics, but that some only drink to excess on weekends.

Clementine Rice, a member of SAC, a nonprofit community council organized to address the problem of substance use and abuse, expressed a similar opinion.

"I don't want to sound naive," says Mrs. Rice. "But I don't believe there are any alcoholic teens in our schools. What we're talking about is abuse and misuse of alcohol."

However, Pointe high school students interviewed disagreed. They thought it funny that educational programs tell them how they will feel after having two or three drinks when what they really want to know is how much trouble they can get into if they are caught.

The only people interested in those programs are parents who "already know their kids have problems and mothers who haven't anything better to do with their time," they say.

Alcohol is easily purchased across Mack Avenue by kids with cars who are willing to do it for a few bucks. They also say drugs are commonplace in the middle schools from kids who get it from older brothers and sisters and then sell it to their own peers.

Christine Dodds, another SAC member, says parents need to re-vamp old habits if they are to set an example, such as serving coffee as an alternate beverage instead of cocktails.

She notes that the ads on television glorify beer and associate drinking beer with mountains, out-of-doors, and good looking men and women having loads of fun.

"They don't show the hangovers and throwing up," says Mrs. Dodds.

Mrs. Rice, of SAC, agrees, and says the old notion that every kid (male only, of course) should have one good drunk before he gets out of high school is wrong.

And according to Jim Keating, director of Eastwood Clinic, there's an image problem in Grosse Pointe not found in every community. And that problem may lead to alcohol abuse among teens.

Corrections

John Youngblood, not Thomas Youngblood, was elected to the Grosse Pointe City Council in the Tuesday, Nov. 8, municipal election. The News regrets the error.

The last line of Jim Okonoski's letter to the editor (Nov. 10) to Citizens to Support the Board of Education should have read "The fact that you've had zero input at any public hearing, decide to become the Standard Bearer for the board and manage to become the front page headline of the Grosse Pointe News, all from a position of ignorance of fact and total public ininvolvement, is phenomenal."

Horses take a hike on Mack

By Jamie Cook

Lunch hour traffic on Mack in Grosse Pointe was joined Monday by a pinto.

This was not a typical pinto manufactured by a Detroit car company. This pinto had four legs, a tail and traveled with three other friends.

While filming a television commercial using five horses as props, Grosse Pointe AMC's car dealership, at 18201 Mack, had a round-up on its hands as four of the horses escaped from the parking lot and galloped south on Mack towards Cadieux, according to witnesses rounding-up the horses.

A combination of the car dealership's employes and caretakers of the horses from Longhorn Ranch in Washington, Mich. finally caught the horses east of Mack in Grosse Pointe City, about a mile and a half from the dealership, witnesses said.

One Ricci employe, Eugene Iafraite, dressed in a suit and tie. (Continued on Page 2A) helped catch the horses and rode one back to the dealership on sidestreets in Grosse Pointe.

"People were coming out of their houses and asking 'what's going on?'" Iafrate said.

When running after the horses on Mack, Iafrate said drivers were moving their cars into driveways trying to block the horses. But the escapees would simply walk around the car.

An employe of the dealership's used car business on Mack at Cadieux, Jeff Reyoakley, was at the filming and helped round-up the pinto. He said one female driver screamed at a horse to get in her car.

"Another guy asked me if the horses had moved-in down the road," Reyoakley said.

Three of the horses caught were ridden back to Grosse Pointe AMC down sidestreets to McMillan, then were taken across Mack to the dealership, according to the horse gatherers. Whinnying part of the way, the pinto was escorted back along Mack's sidewalk by Reyoakley.

When the horses escaped, Shirley Hagood, one of the horses' caretakers, chased the horses while riding on the only horse that did not escape, she said.

The dealership's owner, Joe Ricci, laughed about the incident.

"We were going to get elephants. Thank god we didn't get elephants," Ricci said.

Hagood said she was not laughing during the escape, but could laugh afterwards.

"Now that we caught them we can laugh," she said.

Hagood said she knew the horses would try to run away, but added, "we stood on both sides of the horses and thought we could stop them if they started to walk away."

The names of the soon-to-be television star horses are Jenny, Barney, Emma, Apache Moon and Brandy, the caretakers said.

The theme of the commercial, being filmed in the dealership parking lot, is "We don't horse around," and "We'll lasso a great deal," Ricci said.

man ran on the same slate as the mayor, Heenan said he felt Ausherman qualified based on getting the most votes. Prost responded that that criteria had not been used in electing a Mayor Pro Tem since 1977.

"In each of these cases it was the mayor's choice," noted Heenan. "And the council was responsive."

According to the city charter, the whole council has the right to elect one of its members Mayor Pro Tem.

Tempers were at such a frenzy in the audience that when councilmember Patricia Forster attempted to qualify her reasons for supporting Prost, this reporter heard a man in the audience call her a G-- D--- Libber.

Forster based her vote on the fact that Prost, was the most experienced member of council and said, "I voted my conscience."

Heenan introduced a resolution that the Grosse Pointe School System be maintained in its present configuration and that the school board be encouraged to reject the present consolidation plan. It was delivered to the school board meeting that same evening after the board had made its decision.

This is Heenan's first stint at elected public office, this time grabbing a brass ring for himself after being a supporter and campaigner for other Republicans.

He served as a member of the Michigan Republican State Committee from 1957-61 and from 1970-83. From 1961-77, he was a member of the 14th District Republican Committee and a delegate to the Republican National Convention in 1968 and 1980. He was also Michigan Chairman of the Reception Committee for Ronald Reagan in 1980.

He dubbed his campaign "a miniature version" of the many congressional and senatorial campaigns he had worked on in the past.

"You plan for this the same way," said Heenan. "The only difference is we did it as amateurs using volunteers, those were with a professional paid staff."

Heenan defeated incumbent mayor Douglas Graham by 1,744-1,584 in the Nov. 8 municipal election.

Henry Ford "the Foist" attempted to intervene and bail her out of jail. Sound interesting?

The second book has been out a little while, but is still very appealing. Called "Michillaneous," the tome is a compilation of little and well known facts about Michigan, its history and residents. After reading it, I can tell you this is one strange state we have here, ladies and gentlemen.

Grosse Pointe and its residents are mentioned more than a few times. Everything from werewolves in the Park, to the per capita income statistics for the Farms and Shores compared with the rest of the nation. We come out pretty well.

Other interesting facts, and there are thousands of them, include things like: three dogs that have shot their masters; odd ball deaths; the most boring highways; unusual grave markers; celebrities who were born and died in Michigan; strange coincidences; the best selling beers and liquors in the state; the major causes of death in Michigan and anything else you think about this pleasant peninsula.

The books are both the product of Gary W. Barfknecht, of Davison, and "Michillaneous" sells for $7.95 while "Murder, Michigan" goes for $6.96. Both are available at the Book Shelf and Book Village.

GSA head comes back to Pointe

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Two years ago, Charles Davis and his family packed up and moved to Washington D.C. when Davis was appointed associate administrator of policy and management systems in the General Services Administration.

Now, he's moved back in Grosse Pointe along with his wife Susan and three children. He also has a new position as associate administrator for operations for the General Services Administration, Washington D.C.

Tomorrow night, Davis will climb on a plane in Washington and fly home to Grosse Pointe for the weekend. Sunday night, he'll be back on a plane for the nation's capital, ready to start another work week.

There's a thing called Potomac Fever, Davis said. Those who come to Washington tend to get caught up in the hustle of the city whose sole function, it seems, is to run the rest of the nation. Those who seem most immune to the fever, who tend to return home after their jobs are done, come from two places, according to The Washington Post — Grosse Pointe and Greenwich, Conn.

Originally, Davis moved his family to Washington and leased his Grosse Pointe home. When his wife quit her job with the Department of Health and Human Services, the Davises came back to their Farms home.

"The quality of life in Grosse Pointe is so much higher than in Washington," Davis said. "Washington is a good city, but the style of life in Grosse Pointe is so much better."

Susan Davis earned the congratulations of President Ronald Reagan after she left her position as special assistant to the director of the Private Sector Initiatives in the Department of Health and Human Services, one of two positions she held.

Private Sector Initiatives was a presidentially-proposed program to help move problem-solving to the local level using local resources and charities. By using the available local resources, charitable organizations and volunteers, programs such as heating bill relief for the elderly and indigent in Joplin, Mo. and disaster relief planning and coordination in Kansas City were made possible, Davis said.

One of Mrs. Davis' projects was a production of a documentary about the construction of a playground at a private school for the disabled. More than 180 companies and 1,000 volunteers donated time, material and food for the playground work that had been stalled by the lack of funding from the municipal government.

While spending $10,000 a year commuting to and from Washington is expensive, living in the nation's capital with its high rents is no picnic, Davis noted. On top of that, Grosse Pointe is just a nicer place to live, he added.

"I don't think people here really realize how remarkable Grosse Pointe is," Davis said. "In my job, I travel all around the country, and there are very few places that are even remotely similar to Grosse Pointe."

What makes it exceptional is its compactness and homogeneous make-up, Davis said. His children, who attend local schools, can get on their bikes or walk to any number of places in the area, he added.

When the family was living in Washington, he and his wife could work anywhere from 12 to 14 hours a day five days a week. Now, there's one parent home at all times, with the other offering quality time on weekends, he noted.

"When you have children, you have a responsibility to raise those children yourself and not let someone else do it for you," Davis said.

"I see my kids more on weekends that I did when they were living here in Washington," he added.

What Davis does the other five days a week is help run an office that oversees 24,000 employees in 8,500 locations throughout the country, its territories and protectorates, Germany and the Middle East. The agency is the main purchasing arm of the government, its real estate broker, property and computer system manager and archivist.

The agency, besides overseeing the 2.4 billion square feet of office space, federal supply services, National Archives and the presidential libraries, runs the seventh largest telephone company in the world, Davis said.

"For everything we do, we try to charge a commercial rate," Davis said. "We try to operate as much like a business as possible."

Because of the size of GSA, the key to running the agency is finding good people to run the local, district and regional levels, Davis said. "We try to find good people, give them the tools and motivate them to do the job," he added.

One problem when he came to the GSA in 1981 was a lack of motivation, Davis said. "Government employees were suffering from a lack of leadership. What leadership there was, was very feeble."

Ready or not, here comes Santa

What does Santa drive when there isn't any snow? How about a fire engine red Mercedes 500 SL? Santa and friends, (left to right) Darryl Finken, of Sparky Herbert's, Valarie Powell, of Eurocar and Bob Jose, of Grosse Pointe Auto Repair, gathered at Eurocar last week while Santa's sleigh received a tune up. That sleigh has to be in top shape for the annual Thanksgiving Parade sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Merchants Association. The parade begins this year at 10:30 a.m., leaving South High School and ending in front of Jacobson's. Hopefully, Sant's sleigh will be ready to go.

Parade will be bigger than ever

Marching bands, clowns, floats and dozens of young Grosse Pointers will welcome Santa Claus back to town next week in the Village's sixth annual parade.

The fun begins at the corner of Fisher and Grosse Pointe Boulevard at 10:30 a.m. next Friday, Nov. 25. The parade will travel up Fisher to Kercheval and up Kercheval to the Village, where it will arrive at about 11:15 a.m.

Santa will take official residence at Jacobson's after he receives a key to the city from Mayor Lorenzo Browning.

Joining the parade will be marching bands from Allen Park High School, Harrison High School in Farmington, the Marching Cavaliers of South Lake, Henry Ford II High School and North and South. The First Michigan Colonial Fife and Drum Corps and the Celtic Pipe and Drums will help entertain the crowd along with Waterford Majorette and Drum Corps members in sequined costumes.

The parade is sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Village Association and also will feature several floats designed by Rick Selke. A building party is scheduled for this Sunday.

Nov. 20, at 10 a.m. at Grosse Pointe Auto Repair, 15103 Kercheval in the Park. Anyone who can help should come. Refreshments will be provided by Sparky Herbert's, located next door.

Other floats in the parade will be two from North High's Homecoming, the prize-winning Band and Orchestra creation and the Chipmunk float. The Northeast Guidance Center will be represented on "Mrs. Claus and the Santa House" and the Junior Choir from St. Michael's Episcopal Church directed by Jeanne Hurst will ride yet another float.

Groups of young people will join the parade, including the Parcells Cadette Troop 282, Indian Guides and Princesses, Maire's Club Scout Pack 19, Park Campfire Girls, Guardian Angel's Brownie Troop No. 642 and Defer's Club Scout pack No. 147.

Others who have donated their time and talents to the parade are Mt. Clemens' Naval Air Facility color guard, the Fraternal Order of Police, Second Regiment of Pennsylvania Line, Grosse Pointe Theater with its Disney Heads, The Bug, Mr. Kramer and his Cal-lopie; Woods Lions Club, University of Michigan Wolverines, the Camel with Wrinkled Knees, Assumption Cultural Center, the flag corps from South and majorettes from North also will be on hand.

Paddington Bear will be grand marshal and master of ceremonies is Robert McKenna. Kiwanis, Jaycees, Rotary and Explorer Troop Post No. 418 will serve as parade marshals. Cars have been donated by Pointe Dodge and Chrysler Corporation.

AARP will meet at Memorial Church

Grosse Pointe Chapter No. 2151 of American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), will meet Monday, Nov. 28, at 1 p.m., at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Road.

The speaker will be John F. Adams, attorney and CPA, senior partner of Adams, Mott, Stanislawski, who will discuss recent changes in federal income tax regulations that apply to retirees.

A social hour and card playing will follow the meeting.

Cancer victims give, get support

By Harriet Nolan

When Jean Lane discovered she had pancreatic cancer in September 1982 she was told she had three months to live and not much of anything else. Shortly thereafter, she heard about the cancer treatment program at Harper-Grace Hospital and says "it's going to be more than one year in December."

Looking back to that period in her life when her head was filled with a million questions and her doctor either wouldn't or couldn't take the time to answer them satisfactorily, Mrs. Lane now feels she has been given a new lease on life.

And on Nov. 19 and 20 she will proudly act as a hostess and confidant to other families who live with cancer daily at the Harper-Grace Hospital's retreat called the "We Can Weekend."

"Cancer," says Mrs. Lane, "is a chronic disease, no different than diabetes and heart disease and how a person tries to live a normal life is important."

"You could be drugged out of your head and live 10 years, but you want to function to the best of your ability."

From her own experiences, she knows that cancer patients and their families have a lot of questions, but often doctors don't take the time to thoroughly answer them.

She says she didn't leave a stone unturned and even asked her doctor about drugs she saw advertised on television, out of some little town in Texas. A lot of that is quackery, she says.

Would her hair grow back, could she lead a normal life, and what could she tell people who were afraid her cancer was contagious were only a few of the questions she carried with her.

Sexuality and sensuality are two important areas that couples with cancer must come to grips with, notes Mrs. Lane.

For her, touching, hugging and holding her head when she was throwing up as a result of the chemotherapy treatment was most important.

"You need somebody to be close to you," she says. "But everybody is different."

"But the more you get out of the closet, the better off you are and that is what this retreat is trying to accomplish," she adds.

The goal of the weekend is to get patients and their families into a relaxed environment so they can share and relate their own experiences with each other.

It's also designed to provide psychological and emotional support and give a basic understanding of the various disease processes, according to Richard Pazdur, M.D. of Grosse Pointe. Pazdur is a medical oncologist at Harper-Grace Hospitals.

Pazdur says that oftentimes it means more for a patient to hear about side effects of treatment from someone who has already experienced them, rather than from medical personnel.

"Some of them already know each other," says Pazdur. "But many others will meet for the first time with the commonality, at least one member of each family has cancer."

"And sometimes parents are reluctant to deal with the disease and children have to know what's going on. This is total family commitment," he adds.

An example, says Pazdur, would be learning that many of the chemotherapy agents used to combat cancer cause a drop in the white blood count that could leave a patient open to a life-threatening infection.

"They need to know if they develop a fever they should get to their physician."

The management of local complications of cancer, learning how to handle certain discharges from the body, proper nutrition and dealing with both the patient's and spouse's fear of a poor self body image will be other areas discussed during the retreat.

"The weekend is designed around the entire individual and the way they relate to the family," adds Pazdur. "The faculty is trained in all areas of medicine, cancer nursing, social work, pastoral care, physical therapy, rehabilitation, education, art and music."

The workshop, the first one of its kind in Michigan will be held at Waldenwood Resort and Conference Center in Hartland, MI.

Special funding can be arranged for a family unable to afford the minimal $40 fee per family for the weekend. Call Ann Allen at 494-9062 for information.

Pointers 'get physical' with video

By Jamie Cook

It seems most Grosse Pointers' tastes lie in wholesome entertainment, such as in G, PG and R rated movies and in physical workout videos, according to videocassette suppliers in Grosse Pointe.

The two Grosse Pointe suppliers, Magnetic Sight and Sound, 17045 Kercheval, and Grosse Pointe Public Library, rent and sell movies with an R rating or less.

Jim Bologna, owner of Magnetic Sight and Sound, said he and his wife cater to the Grosse Pointe videocassette market with family oriented movies because of his principles. He also believes family-oriented movies become a catalyst for the family to gather together.

But he added it would be naive for him to believe there is no market in Grosse Pointe for X-rated material.

"There's no question in my mind I'm losing income by not catering to X-rated movie buyers, but I don't want the image of an adult bookstore," Bologna said.

"I don't want my wife and family harassed and I have my own scruples," he said.

He said most of the X-rated market in Grosse Pointe probably buys from MGM Video Systems, 16422 East Warren in Detroit.

MGM Video Systems' highest volume rentals are X-rated movies, co-owner Bill Woelkers said. Most of his customers of X-rated materials rent the movies for a short time, then rent newer movies.

MGM Video Systems' selection also includes G, PG and R rated movies, he said. His customers also rent the popular videocassettes on the rental and sale market, which includes "well over 1,000" videocassettes.

The most popular videocassettes, according to national figures and three local suppliers' recent business, indicate Grosse Pointers and the American public are in a "get physical" craze.

The two top videocassettes are the dynamic dancing display of "Flashdance" and the energetic exercise of "Jane Fonda's Workout."

Bologna said he and his wife believe persons want to get in shape in the spring to show off during the summer and exercise in the fall to be in shape when socializing with friends during the holiday season. These are the two periods when exercise videos by Jane Fonda and Richard Simmons sell well.

Other videocassettes Magnetic Sight and Sound sells and rents range from the classic old movies like "Casablanca," to cartoons like "Mickey Mouse" and to action-packed entertainment found in James Bond movies, he said. Horror movies like "Poltergeist" also are popular.

He said mostly adults rent the videocassettes for themselves and their families. He warns parents if a movie may be too explicit for children.

The Grosse Pointe Public Library's selection is smaller, about 100, but it has a wide range also, with movies such as "Mary Poppins" and horror movies such as "Alien," Mike Pieronek, a library employee, said.

Pieronek said the average age of renters at the library, is about 40 to 50 years old.

Woelkers said movies with a lot of action usually rent and sell well. Besides "Flashdance" and "Jane Fonda's Workout" in the number one and two best selling spots nationally, the eight other top 10 videocassettes in the country, according to statistics compiled by Billboard Magazine from retail sales, are "48 Hours," "An Officer and a Gentleman," "Dr. Detroit," "Duran Duran," "The Outsiders," "Tender Mercies," "The Year of Living Dangerously" and "The Man from Snowy River."

The range of cost to purchase a videocassette goes from $39.95 to about $70 or $80, Woelkers said.

To rent a videocassette, costs range from $1 for three days at the library to $6 for one day at Magnetic Sight and Sound. Both MGM Video Systems and Magnetic Sight and Sound have a club membership so repeat customers can obtain better priced deals.

Voting vs. 'passive consent'

Even with contests in four Pointe communities on Nov. 8, far less than a third of the voters went to the polls in municipal elections in the City, the Farms, the Park and the Woods. Why was the proportion voting so low?

Nobody really knows the answer to the question but it is true that the proportion of the registered voters who show up at the polls in the Pointes is always much higher in the presidential elections and even in state elections than it is in municipal voting. Somehow state and national issues appear to grab voters' attention more than do the local questions, even when they are hotly debated.

One explanation is that the Pointes serve as a bedroom community for Detroit and the metropolitan area. That means many people who live in the Pointes work elsewhere, either in Detroit or in other suburbs of Detroit. Their major interest often is in the area in which they work and they spend less time thinking or worrying about the municipal problems of the Pointes.

GEORGE WILL, THE syndicated columnist, may have offered another explanation for nonvoting in the Pointes. In Newsweek magazine, Will contends that nonvoting often is a form of "passive consent" or at least "the belief that things will be tolerable no matter who wins." He further contends that "the stakes in our elections, as they affect the day-to-day life of the average American, are agreeably low."

Well, maybe George has something there, at least with respect to local elections. There were no burning issues in the Pointes on Nov. 8. Even in the Park, where a hotly contested mayoral race resulted in the defeat of the incumbent, Douglas Graham, and the election of Palmer Heenan, only about 30 percent of the registered voters went to the polls. Perhaps the majority felt that they wouldn't be greatly affected one way or another. Time and Mayor Heenan may prove that view to be wrong but it is at least a possible explanation for the low vote in the Park.

In federal elections, voting has been declining since 1960 when almost 64 percent of those eligible voted for president. In 1980, only 53.9 percent voted and almost twice as many people stayed home as voted for Ronald Reagan. And in 1982, only 38 percent voted for members of the U.S. House of Representatives.

Some experts speculate that alienation accounts for the voting decline in federal elections. It is true that some citizens are disenchanted with political parties and their candidates. They feel that a single vote isn't going to change things very much if at all. And so they fail to register and are ineligible to vote. Just how large a percentage of the nonvoters can be accounted for by such an explanation nobody really knows. But alienation does take its toll of voters.

Yet there is another explanation for nonvoting which does not exactly compliment those who fail to go to the polls. It is that they just can't be bothered to read about the candidates and the issues, or listen to explanations of the issues at stake. And so, not knowing enough to vote intelligently, they don't go to the polls.

We don't have much sympathy for those who duck one of the responsibilities of citizenship, which is to vote. Yet we agree that if people are not sufficiently interested to inform themselves about the issues or candidates, they ought not to go to the polls. However, some disinterested citizens vote after getting the recommendations of some special interest group or partisan organization which endorses a set of candidates and issues. Those people vote, it is true, but they do not vote intelligently.

A DEMOCRACY DEPENDS on the consent of the governed but those who give their consent by voting have a responsibility to inform themselves and not simply serve as rubberstamps for special interest groups or organizations. That kind of thing rarely happens in municipal elections in the Pointes where residents know most of the candidates personally but, unfortunately, it is far too prevalent in state and federal elections.

In the Pointes, however, perhaps it is "passive consent" that accounts for such a small voter turnout. If so, that feeling may arise from the high quality of the candidates running for public office, which persuades citizens that matters of concern will be in good hands regardless of who wins. That is, we suppose, a compliment to the quality of the candidates even though it may not be quite as much a compliment to the highly educated, affluent voters of the Pointes.

Elementary parents must compromise

To the Editor:
Grosse Pointe is not the first community to face a shrinking school population and feel a need to react to it. Other excellent school districts have reluctantly closed schools and survived and — to their surprise — prospered.

Not too long ago, educators and parents alike despaired because the middle school concept of housing grades 6-8 in a true middle school fell before defeated millage proposals and shrinking population. The middle schools became "holding tanks" where the students attended such a short time that they never truly identified with their school and the teachers and administrators didn't have the advantage of working with a cohesive, enthusiastic group of students. The middle schools will be improved, I think, by allowing the students an extra year of continuity of program and location at this crucial point in their education.

The emotionalism and divisiveness involved in this issue are, in themselves, teaching Grosse Pointe children some pretty bad lessons. The superintendent and school board have studied the issues; they have brought in outside experts; they have tried to act responsibly for all the citizens of the Grosse Pointe school district, not just the families of elementary school children; they have listened to the feelings of the constituency and Supt. Kenneth Brummel has introduced not one, but two, compromise plans; and they have been restrained in the face of vituperative attacks. They do not stand to gain personally through their actions.

Compromise is necessary on both sides of this issue. I think it is arrogant and petulant of the Committee for Neighborhood Elementary Schools to demand complete compliance with their wishes or threaten to recall school board members who vote their conscience in opposition to the committee. Actions such as this teach our children to kick and scream until they get their own way.

Change and compromise are inevitable in life. Excellence in education can be achieved in a variety of ways. One side of this issue has tried to compromise; for the sake of our children and the community in general, it is time for the other side to do the same.

Why close if quality is high?

To the Editor:
The last year has produced three proposals from the superintendent and the Board of Education to reorganize the school system. This has resulted in a spate of proposals, counterproposals, analyses, charges, countercharges, etc., etc., etc. At no time, though, have I seen the proposals evaluated rationally and objectively from the viewpoint of logic. The following is such an evaluation.

First of all, logic states that all valid arguments can be reduced to a major premise, minor premise and a conclusion. If the major and/or minor premises are invalid, the conclusions are logically invalid. The reorganization proposals as presented are represented by the following argument. The major premise is school enrollment is declining. The minor premise is declining enrollment leads to declining quality of education. The conclusion is reorganize to prevent declining quality of education.

I do not agree that anyone can dispute the fact that the major premise is logically valid. Student enrollment has declined from approximately 13,500 to approximately 7,500.

There are four objective criteria which can be utilized to determine the validity of the minor premise. Student test scores are or are not declining. Accreditation commission reports are or are not citing increasing academic deficiencies. Student enrollment in the high school or college of their choice is or is not becoming more difficult because of academic considerations. And an increasing amount of employee time is or is not being devoted to non-academic items such as contract negotiations, millage renewals, lawsuits, etc.

To date, no report from either the superintendent or the board has indicated that student scores are declining, accreditation reports are increasingly critical of academic programs, or students are experiencing increasing academic difficulties in high school or college enrollments. And until the first proposal was made, there was no indication of increasing employee time required for non-academic affairs.

Therefore, one must logically conclude that the minor premise is invalid. And because there is thus no demonstrated correlation between declining enrollment and declining quality of education, the conclusion that reorganization is necessary is also logically invalid.

No class in closing debate

To the Editor:
Each week as I read the letters, pro and con, published in the Grosse Pointe News regarding the school closing controversy, I become more dismayed. As the conflict rages, and as each well-meaning citizen who jumps into the fray becomes verbally assaulted for daring to air an unpopular opinion, my embarrassment that our lovely home town is so shattered by tasteless and erratic behavior worsens.

It is my considered opinion that school superintendent Kenneth Brummel, one of the most able in recent memory, and the school board, devoted community servants castigated because they try to perform the job for which we elected them, should be admired for their graceful restraint.

But I am ashamed, Grosse Pointe, at the lack of breeding and manners so blatantly displayed by some residents of this area which has long prided itself for a quality called class.

The message from Ohio

The defeat of two anti-tax referendums in Ohio last week ought to offer some encouragement to the Michigan legislators who have been under siege because of their votes in support of the 38 percent state income tax increase.

In Michigan as in Ohio, those who oppose adequate financing of state government services tend to sneer at the Ohio results as a victory for "the tax-and-spend crowd" and refuse to even consider the possibility that the outcome reflected public support for not only fiscal responsibility but social responsibility.

IN MICHIGAN, those who criticize the Ohio results are the same people who are seeking the recall of legislators who voted for the 38 percent increase in state income taxes even though it is a temporary boost that will start going down again Jan. 1, 1984. Such critics consider only the tax increase, not the services the revenues finance nor even the benefit to the state's credit rating that the tax hike provided.

What Ohio residents did, in fact, was to defeat an attempt to repeal a recent 90 percent state income tax increase as well as a second measure that would have required a three-fifths legislative majority for the enactment of future tax increases. Both proposals lost by substantial margins.

While Ohio income taxes still tend to be lower than those in Michigan, Ohio voters are no more likely than those in this state to favor wasteful programs that benefit only a limited number of residents. We think they know that "taxes are what we pay for civilized society," as Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Jr., once wrote in a Supreme Court decision. We think they know, in fact, that taxes finance services, and that means aid to the poor, the institutionalized, the colleges and universities, the public schools and the other needs of a modern society.

Those who scoff at the scheduled reduction in taxes refuse to admit that the income tax rate in this state will start dropping automatically on Jan. 1, 1984, when it will go down from 6.35 percent to 6.1 percent, and that it will decline on Jan. 1, 1985, to 5.35 percent, and that it could even revert to 4.6 percent by 1987 if the recovery continues and unemployment drops.

Under the circumstances, the efforts to recall legislators who voted for the 38 percent tax increase are not only shortsighted but dishonest as well. They are dishonest because such efforts fail to consider not only the state's need but also the fact that the 38 percent increase is a temporary one. And for the cynical who say that income tax boosts never are temporary, we have only to refer to the six-month increase that came — and went — in the last year of the Milliken regime.

FURTHERMORE, THE recall efforts center on a single vote which is hardly a fair evaluation of a legislator's service. Most voters know they are unlikely to find a legislator who will rubberstamp their own views on every issue. So they tend to back candidates whose principles they endorse and whose overall records they admire.

Despite all the noise from the recall proponents, we suspect there are more citizens who do not require their legislators to march in lockstep with them on every issue than there are those who insist on recall on the basis of a single vote. Whether those responsible voters will come to the polls in sufficient numbers to prevent recall in the two legislative elections slated later this month is still the big question, however.

Fair new rules for lobbyists

By William R. Bryant, Jr.
State Representative

Michigan's new and controversial lobbying law raises great concern on the part of groups interested in state government and participation in the system. The Lobbyist Registration and Reporting Act was to become effective in 1978, but has been held up by court challenge ever since. However, a recent Supreme Court ruling upheld legality of the act. This means that elected representatives, lobbyists and citizens will have to take care to know whether they are covered by the act, and if so, to comply with a new and complex set of rules pertaining to lobbying.

In general, lobbying is defined as communicating, by a lobbyist, directly with a public official in order to influence legislative or administrative action. Under the new law, any person doing that is required to keep financial records as of now. Person includes a group, corporation or association.

So, who is a lobbyist? Under the act a lobbyist is any person spending $1,000 or more during 12 months attempting to influence legislation or public policy or spending $250 or more lobbying a single public official in a 12 month period.

Lobbyists must register with the state and file reports. One does not become a lobbyist by membership in a group which is lobbying, but many people and groups will be subject to the act who have never registered as lobbyists or even considered themselves as lobbyists.

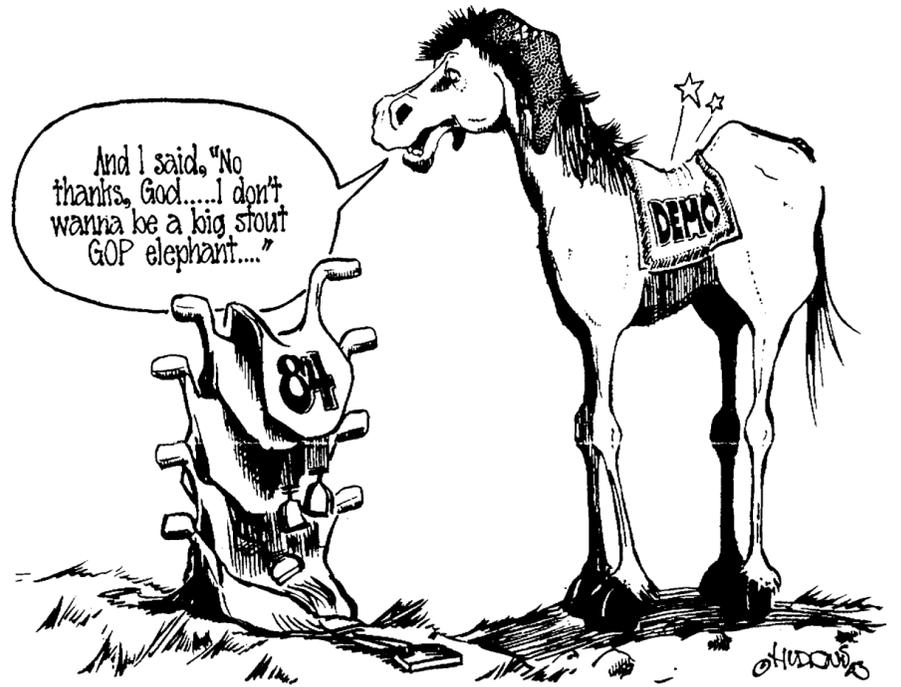

A wide range of activities is covered by the new law, such as the cost of communicating with public officials, the preparation of information used for lobbying, the purchase of food and beverages, and the cost of advertising and mass mailing.

For state lawmakers, the lobby law will mean that their names will be listed on semi-annual public reports if a lobbyist has spent more than $25 in any month for food or beverages for the lawmaker or $150 in a calendar year. I think that is fair.

There has been a five-year delay between the adoption of this lobby law and its actual implementation, and there is a lot of confusion over who must register and what must be reported.

I think the law is basically sound and while it may need some simplifying, I do not believe it will make it difficult for the average citizen to play an active role in government. It reads like what it is, a post-Watergate bill. But I supported it when it was enacted and I do not think it should be repealed.

Michigan, China can help each other

By John Kelly
State Senator

One of the most exciting events of my legislative career was on Oct. 9, when I signed an agreement on technical assistance for travel and tourism with the Foreign Minister of the Sichuan Province of the People's Republic of China. The basis for this agreement was the Capitol Sister States agreement between Michigan and Sichuan authorized by a communique between the United States and the People's Republic of China. I was a signatory of the Governor while in Chengdu, Western China, at the invitation and expense of the Chinese Government.

The more than one billion Chinese are in desperate need of economic development that only advanced technology and machinery can bring to this peasant culture. They need virtually every consumer good and household item you can imagine and the "markets" are limitless for U.S. corporations. The Chinese cannot purchase any of these things, however, since they have no way of generating U.S. currency. Therefore, they are seeking tourism as the way of bringing dollars into the country so that they can turn around and use their dollars to purchase the machinery necessary to build their own economic infrastructure.

The purpose of the agreement that I signed, therefore, is to provide the Chinese with technical assistance in developing their hospitality industry. For instance, the rooms and food service that I experienced were hardly up to western standards. Caterpillar soup and white fungus broth are intriguing dishes, to say the least, but the squalid ambience and amenities of the "best hotel in southwest China" was shocking. The hotel room service was what you would expect of a 1952 Holiday Inn, and were quite quaint, but not suited for long stays.

Through hospitality schools at Michigan State University and in cooperation with the State International Tourism Section we are making real our commitment to the people of Southwest China under the Sister State-Province relationship. With the dollars that we are generating, they will be able to direct their infrastructure purposes to the Michigan firms who have preferential status over other states.

The future of Michigan's economic destiny lies not in the U.S. alone but is rather linked to the world at large. As we seek new markets for our sophisticated industrial goods and machinery we will not be competing with Illinois, Ohio and Pennsylvania but rather, Japan, Singapore and Korea. As the chairperson for the Committee on Economic Development I will make it one of my primary tasks to seek Michigan's introduction into these world markets.

Fall victim says thanks

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the nice people who were so kind to me when I fell in the Kroger Store at 7 Mile and Mack on Nov. 10.

A special thanks to the Grosse Pointe Farms firemen who transported me to Cottage Hospital, the Detroit policeman who was shopping in the store, my senior citizen friend, Vera Taroli, who helped my husband, who is crippled with arthritis, a gentleman and his wife and a cute little clerk at Kroger who was so concerned about my condition.

I am now recuperating at home with a badly broken left arm. God bless all of them.

Pointes awarded $760,000 HUD grant

Dozens of federally-funded construction projects amounting to almost $7 million scattered among 32 communities will begin shortly as the result of action taken by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners in approving new block grant programs.

The Pointes and Harper Woods received almost $760,000 under the Community Development Block Grant program for housing rehabilitation, water, sewer and road improvements, senior citizens centers and other community-based programs as well as grants for a federal jobs program.

Grosse Pointe City received $100,000 under the 1983 grants while the Farms is slated to receive $119,000. The Park will receive $247,800 under the program, with the Woods receiving $99,000. Harper Woods will collect $194,000.

Grosse Pointe Shores does not participate in the CDBG program. Funding through the county is restricted to those communities with populations of less than 50,000 and, in many cases, was based on competitive ideas and past performance. The block grant program is expected to create hundreds of jobs, according to the county. It is funded by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Woods is using its 1983 funds for street repairs in its northwest strategy area, according to City Administrator-Clerk Chester Petersen. The remainder of the money is going to planning for the north Mack area and the continuation of landscaping and a sprinkler system for the north Mack medians from Hollywood to Vernier.

Farms projects this year being funded by CDBG monies include housing rehabilitation and Services for Older Citizens minor home repair, Clerk Richard Solak said. The lion's share of the funding, about $80,000, will go into water main and sewer improvements throughout the city.

The Park's funding includes the annual allocation based on population and deferred and planning grants, City Manager John Crawford said. The funds are being used for housing rehabilitation, minor home repair and maintenance through SOC, street improvements, streetscapes and architectural fees for Mack Avenue as well as a special grant for off-street parking development, Crawford said.

The City's $100,000 will be used for housing rehabilitation, street improvements and a comprehensive plan for the Village shopping area, officials said. The street improvements will include the widening of the Mack-St. Clair intersection as well as the purchase of grates and guards for trees in the commercial areas.

Local kids make grade

Two local high school students were among six named first round winners in a statewide competition for Senate Youth Program scholarships.

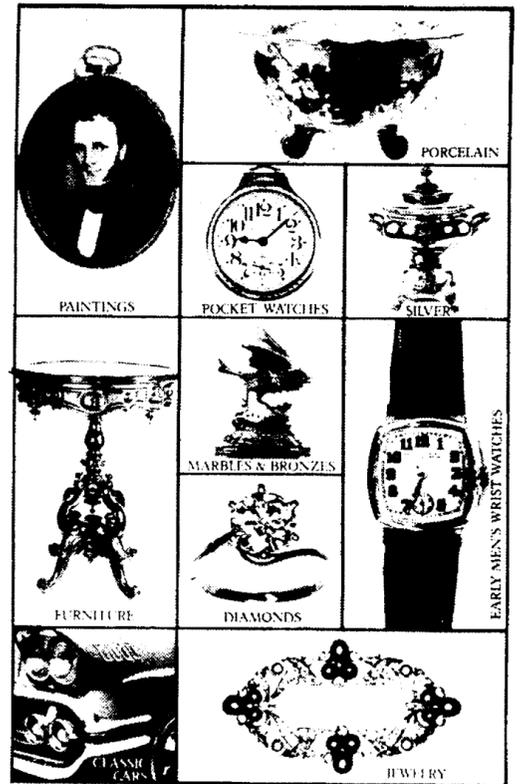

Helen D'Allesandro, a senior at South High, and Paul D'Allesandro, a senior at Bishop Gallagher, will be honored with the four other winners at a ceremony tomorrow at 4 p.m. at the Wayne County Intermediate School District offices located at 33500 Van Born in Wayne.

Both the D'Allesandros are regional winners, chosen from participants named by high schools throughout the county excepting Detroit, Livonia, Taylor and Wayne-Westland districts, who chose their own winners.

The two will later compete for two, $2,000 scholarships and a one-week visit to Washington in late January.

Each student participating in the competition is an elected officer of the student council or another school group. Each student was recommended by both a teacher and principal.

As regional winners, the D'Allesandros were tested at the Intermediate District on their knowledge of government functions, political issues and the legislative process. The highest scorers had a personal interview. Testing and evaluation of the participants was coordinated by Dr. Phyllis Robinson, intermediate district consultant.

'Christus' debuts at Christ Church

The Christ Church Chorale and orchestra will premiere the Mendelssohn oratorio "Christus" at Christ Church, Grosse Pointe, located at 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard, on Sunday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. The concert is part of the annual "Christ the King Festival." The Mendelssohn work portrays the life of Christ beginning with his birth and concluding with the crucifixion. Mendelssohn, having found hidden Bach works, was influenced in writing the "Christus" by the "St. John Passion." It is scored for tenor soloist, chorus, mens chorus and orchestra.

The 50-voice chorus, accompanied by orchestra, will also perform Mozart's masterpiece, "The Coronation Mass." The Christ Church Chorale is a choral society of amateur and professional singers that has been the recipient of the "Spirit of Detroit Award," given by Mayor Young for outstanding performances with the Detroit Symphony. In addition to this Mendelssohn-Mozart concert, the Christ Church Chorale will perform the Brahms "German Requiem" on Good Friday and the Verdi "Requiem" with the Plymouth Symphony in April.

Guest artists this Sunday will include the well known Detroit men's group, The Grunyons, singing in the Mendelssohn oratorio. Soloists for the Mozart and Mendelssohn works will include Patricia Lynne Finley, soprano, recently returning from a study at the Royal College of Music in London, and well known Michigan musicians, Sharon Babcock, alto, and Robert Branch, bass.

Conductor Frederick DeHaven is the music director of Christ Church, Grosse Pointe. He has been the organist and choirmaster at Christ Church for eight years, where he has developed a series of concerts featuring sacred music. Recently, he has been appointed music director of the Rackham Symphony Choir and organ instructor at Oakland University.

Christ Church offers a variety of music programs throughout the year, including performances by the men and boys choir, even song services on the second Sunday of the month with Bach cantatas, and two organ recitals. For more information and tickets for the performance, call Christ Church at 885-4841. Reserved seats and season tickets may be obtained.

This ensemble musicians from the Detroit Symphony and Michigan Opera Theatre Orchestras includes Mark Abbott, Bryan Kennedy and Corbin Wagner (horns), Donald Baker and John Snow (oboes), Douglas Cornelsen and Laurence Liberson (clarinets), Debra Fayroian (cello), Kevin Good (trumpet), Maxim Janowsky (bass), Victoria King, Christine Marsh and Atsuko Sato (bassoons).

Heritage Society and Coronet recording companies.

Children's Home Local foster care program meets growing need

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Children's Home of Detroit has developed two new programs aimed at serving the needs of pre-adolescent and adolescent children. A respite and emergency care service for pre-adolescents is now being offered and a special foster care home program is in the works.

The respite program operated for a short time during the summer, H.E. Tammela, executive director of the Home said. The full start-up of the program is awaiting county funding allocated in the 1984 budget, he added.

The program will offer respite for children aged 6 to 13 who need to be temporarily removed from their homes for any number of reasons, including family dissolution, illness or neglect, Tammela said. The children will use existing facilities at the Home, he added.

Referrals for the respite program can be made by agencies throughout the area, Tammela said. At the time of admission, the referral agency will specify the needs of the child, involvement of the Home's therapist, the role of the referral agency's therapist, and the involvement and programming for parents and foster parents.

The Children's Home will offer basic residential services for children, which includes cottage living, recreation and activity programs, medical follow-up, professional supervision and guidance by graduate social workers and clinical psychologists.

Training for parents and foster parents may also be offered, depending on individual circumstances. Tailoring the therapy to the needs of the child is one of the maxims at the Home.

The development of more programs allows the Home flexibility in dealing with the individual needs of the children it treats, Tammela said. "The more flexibility we have to serve, the better off the children are."

The special foster care home program allows the children who have no functioning family or who have been referred to an after-care program to return to a community setting. While foster homes are not in themselves special, the continued program of therapy for the foster parent and the child is, Tammela said.

The Home can offer a number of support services to the children and parents in the special foster homes, including educational counseling, medical and psychological treatment if necessary, Tammela said. The special foster home allows the facility's therapist to remain in contact with the child to help plan future strategies to meet the child's developing needs.

The special foster home can be considered a progression in child therapy, Tammela said. With the development of an anti-institutional way of thinking several years ago, more emphasis was put on putting people back into the community settings. The foster homes are a step along that path, he added.

In its 147 years, the Children's Home has undergone its own progression from an orphanage founded in 1836 by the Ladies Orphan Association of Detroit to care for children surviving the cholera epidemic on Cook Road in the Woods. Today, the Children's Home of Detroit offers six residential cottages, a campus school and medical facility, playgrounds, activities room and administration building on the campus.

The Children's Home located in the Woods in 1950, which was an unpopulated area at the time. The Home, in its previous 114 years, had moved twice, building and changing its facilities as the need arose. A new building erected on Jefferson Avenue in 1892, was overcrowded by 1910, forcing the facility to expand into two nearby homes.

As the facility has changed, so has the name. Originally founded as the Ladies Orphan Association of Detroit, the name has changed over the years from the Ladies Protestant Orphan's Association in 1859, The Protestant Orphan Asylum of Detroit in 1889 to the Children's Home of Detroit in 1970.

As the name has changed, so has the funding. In 1974, the Home was able to provide for 25 children without governmental subsidies, a remarkable accomplishment. With the renovation of its facilities, addition of new play equipment and increased referrals from state mental health agencies, the need for voluntary funds increased.

Fund-raising drives in 1980 and 1981 made it possible to renovate the educational center, add classrooms and activity areas as well as enlarge the gymnasium. The economy's nosedive forced the Home to cut costs as well as adopt a more aggressive approach to fund-raising to ensure not only the continued operation of the facilities but to maintain the Home's endowment fund.

Tell me about your high gas heating bills...

and I'll tell you how some people saved as much as 20%* with Ameri-Therm®

THE PROBLEM
You have a hole in your roof. The hole? Your furnace vent. Every time your furnace turns off, the warm air in your home is quickly lost up in the furnace vent, and on goes the furnace again, heating the air and running up your gas bill. When a furnace, boiler or water heater shuts off, warm air in your home is quickly lost up the furnace vent. Energy escapes, but you still end up paying for it. People want to save as much as they can, so I tell them to keep heat inside with an Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper.

THE SOLUTION
Close the hole in your roof with an Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper. The heat of your furnace opens the Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper. When the furnace turns off, the Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper closes your furnace vent and the warm air you paid for stays where it belongs, inside your home.

The Ameri-Therm® Vent Damper is...
SIMPLE
• Easy to install
• Requires no electrical hookup
SAFE
• Proven in millions of locations worldwide

Crims will chair War Memorial fund drive

The emphasis will be on the family as television personality Mort Crim and his wife Nicki accept leadership roles for the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Family Participation Campaign this year. The Crims are serving as honorary co-chairs for the annual "friend-raising and awareness" drive for Grosse Pointe's community center.

"I'm delighted there's such a place for my family to enjoy," said Crim. "We like the emphasis on quality, and not just activity," his wife added.

The center's Executive Director

Snow removers need license in the Shores

When you woke up to Friday's snow, you probably remembered putting off hiring a contractor to remove the snow. If you live in the Shores, you should mention to the contractor he has to be licensed with the village, the Department of Public Safety said.

Under a year-old village ordinance, snow removal contractors need to acquire a $75 license and post a bond with the village to cover any damages done during plowing.

Licensed operators will receive a sticker to be displayed in the windshield. The vehicle used for plowing should also have a rotating light visible up to 100 feet, according to the ordinance.

Mark Weber said "we're very proud that the Crims have not only agreed to co-chair this year's campaign, but that they really use the center as a family. To have a nationally respected radio and television journalist and his family as part of our War Memorial family is very special, and should demonstrate to many others that we maintain the best standards at the center."

This year's campaign unofficially began with the Family Open House on Sunday, Sept. 18. More than 700 people attended the event. The campaign will continue with the mailing of some 20,000 letters from the Crims to residents of the Pointes asking for participation and support. The center needs to raise $200,000 to maintain its present programming level, according to Weber.

"We're hoping to attract some new donors to the campaign this year," Crim said. "The center really needs broader support and deserves it. Many people are surprised when they hear that the War Memorial is not supported by tax dollars, and receives no funds from cable television.

"The need is real, and I hope we can all join together to meet it."

First country after the American Revolution to recognize the United States as an independent nation was Morocco in 1789.

A "scree slope" is a flat pack of rocks on a mountainside. Scree comes from a Scandinavian word for landslide.

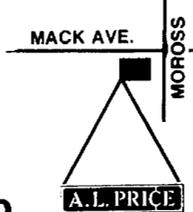

Mort and Nicki Crim are the honorary co-chairs of the War Memorial's "friend-raising" Family Participation Campaign which begins next week.

Astrology topic for Jung Center

The Center for Jung Studies will sponsor an illustrated lecture by Shirley Lloyd on "Astrology: Rediscovering an Ancient Realm" Sunday, Nov. 20, from 2 to 4 p.m. at Christ Church's Miller Hall, 61 Grosse Pointe Boulevard.

Using an actual birthchart, a dynamic inner portrait and map of potentials, Ms. Lloyd will delineate a real person. The chart mirrors the subtleties and complexities of the person it reflects and is just as complex. To see the person in the chart calls for a sensitive blending of many astrological factors within a psychological framework.

The lecture fee is $3 for non-members and is free for members. Membership in the Center for Jung Studies is open to anyone interested in the psychology of Carl Jung. The center is a non-profit organization and annual dues are $25. For further information, call 885-8792.

Smoking clinic at Cottage

The Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe will host free, introductory meetings of the "Stop Smoking System" conducted by the American Institute for Preventive Medicine. The sessions will be held Monday, Nov. 21, and Tuesday, Nov. 22, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., in the Cottage Hospital Nurses' Residence at the rear of the parking lot, 159 Kercheval Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms.

The "Stop Smoking System" has been cited in the 1982 Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health. Documented research has shown that this program has a success rate three times that of most smoking programs.

The "Stop Smoking System" utilizes a systematic series of copyrighted procedures that effectively neutralize one's desire for tobacco. It is a total lifestyle approach to smoking cessation that consists of behavior modification, stress management, cognitive coping skills, and eating management.

For more information on the quit smoking clinic, attend one of the free, introductory sessions, or call the Cottage Hospital Education department at 884-8600, extension 2390.

Police recover stolen auto

Woods and Farms police combined to make three arrests in connection with the recovery of a stolen car Wednesday morning, Nov. 9, in the Pointe Plaza.

Woods police on patrol spotted a 1978 gray Oldsmobile four-door in the southbound turn-around on Mack in front of the AAA office at Mack and Bournemouth.

Officers followed the car into the parking lot behind the Woods Theater, where the Oldsmobile took off at a high rate of speed and began working its way toward an exit through the parking lanes, reports said.

The Oldsmobile was blocked by traffic at the drive parallel to Bournemouth and three men jumped out and split up, reports said. Woods police, with the help of Farms officers and an unknown citizen were able to capture the three, aged 15, 17 and 20, reports said.

One of the youths were carrying a flat-head screw-driver, according to police. Officers, searching the Oldsmobile, found the ignition plate on the column removed and the steering column open, reports said.

Free CPR class at Cottage

People interested in obtaining cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) instruction are invited to the free class at Cottage Hospital, on Thursday, Nov. 17, 7 to 10 p.m.

The Heartsaver program is held in Boardrooms A and B on the lower level of the hospital. Reservations should be made in advance by calling the hospital Education department at 884-8600, extension 2390.

The Heartsaver class offers basic instruction in CPR training. Participants learn some basic anatomy, the most common heart attack signals, and how to respond when heart attack occurs. Certified instructors teach rescue breathing, one-man CPR, and the obstructed airway maneuver. Those who successfully complete the class receive a card for one year certification in Michigan.

The Cottage Hospital CPR Heartsaver class is conducted by the Cottage Hospital Education department in cooperation with the Committee on Emergency Cardiac Care of the American Heart Association.

Your check is waiting

The Internal Revenue Service said last week it is trying to locate six Pointers, or former Pointers, who are due tax refunds from their 1982 federal income tax returns.

The lucky taxpayers are Libby Paterek, of the Shores, Marthalee Reuter, of the Park, Marguerite White, of the Farms, Massoud Farhang, and William Nolan, both of the Park.

According to Charles A. Parks, IRS District Manager for Michigan, 1,162 refund checks worth more than $467,000 were returned to the post office as undeliverable in Michigan. He said the IRS believes most of these taxpayers moved or changed their last names during the year and failed to notify the postal service or IRS.

When a refund is returned by the post office, the IRS tries to locate the taxpayer by follow-up mail. If you think you were due a refund, but have not received it, call the IRS at 1-800-424-1041.

Unemployment drops in Pointe

Each of the Grosse Pointes' September unemployment rate dropped along with state's jobless rate decrease, a Michigan Employment Security Commission spokesman said.

The Park's rate represented the largest decrease with a 1.3 percent drop and the Shores had the smallest decrease with a 0.3 percent drop, reported the MESC official.

The reason for the state's drop from August's 13.4 percent to September's 12.3 percent, a two-year low, was unsuccessful summer job seekers and seasonal workers began leaving the labor force, S. Martin Taylor, director of the MESC, said. September of 1982's rate was 14.5 percent.

Taylor said the number of people working statewide fell slightly in September as the number of seasonal jobs declined. But the number of people working statewide fell slightly in September as the number of seasonal jobs declined. But the number of people working statewide fell slightly in September as the number of seasonal jobs declined. But the number of people working statewide fell slightly in September as the number of seasonal jobs declined.

Metropolitan Detroit's job market, which includes Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston, Lapeer and St. Clair counties, had a 12.8 percent rate, a one and a half percent decrease from August. September 1982's rate was 15.3 percent, a MESC official reported.

The Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area, in Washtenaw county, sported the lowest rate and steepest decline for September while the Flint area, in Genesee and Shiawassee counties, had the highest rate, a MESC official reported.

The release of labor force estimates for the state's labor market areas normally follows the release of statewide data by several weeks, the MESC official said. The state rate for September was reported Oct. 7.

Unemployment rates for the Pointes follow:

Rotary Clubs offer scholarships

The Rotary Clubs of Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods seek young men and women candidates who live in the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods for study abroad in 1985-86.

In 1983, more than 1,300 persons worldwide received educational scholarships from the Rotary Foundation. Each award included round-trip transportation, educational and living expenses for one academic year, and funds for intensive language training if necessary.

The Foundation's educational awards include:

- Graduate scholarships for those who have received a bachelor's degree or equivalent and are between the ages of 20 and 28; may be married.
- Undergraduate scholarships for those with a minimum of two years of university level work between the ages of 18 and 24; must not be married.
- Vocational scholarships for those with a secondary education and at least two years working experience who are between the ages of 21 and 50; may be married; may not be qualified for undergraduate or graduate scholarships.
- Journalism scholarship — must be between the ages of 21 and 50 as of the club application deadline. Must have completed two years of full-time employment as a professional journalist and be at least a secondary school graduate at the time of the club application deadline.

In 1947, Rotary Foundation started its program of sending young adults abroad to contribute to international understanding as "ambassadors of goodwill." Since that time, the Foundation has awarded more than one hundred million dollars for its various programs, and almost 20,000 young men and women have gone to countries other than their own for a year of study.

Because Rotary Scholars will speak to Rotary clubs and other groups in their study and home countries, applicants are evaluated on both their ambassadorial and scholarship potential. Each scholarship recipient is assigned a sponsoring and host Rotarian counselor who provides orientation, advice, and assistance in preparing for and accomplishing a successful study year in a foreign country.

Further information about the awards, preliminary and regular applications, is available from John R. Cobau (for Grosse Pointe residents), who may be contacted at 885-1650 during the day or at 881-1467 in the evening, and from Ronald H. Greve (for Harper Woods residents), who may be reached at 777-0202 during the day or 884-8790 in the evening. The preliminary application should be completed as soon as possible. Several interviews may be necessary. The completed application must be received by Cobau or Greve not later than Thursday, March 1, 1984.

DIA will offer programs for hard of hearing

Beginning with this Thursday's program, "Surprising Michigan," and this Sunday's, Nov. 20, "The Danube," the World Adventure Series will be signed for the hearing impaired.

An interpreter will be seated on stage near the screen so both the interpreter and the film may be seen simultaneously. Special seating will be provided for those wishing to use the service.

The Detroit Institute of Arts is one of the few museums in America offering activities in sign. In addition to World Adventure, tours of the galleries are also available for the hearing impaired. Hearing impaired individuals wishing information may call the museum at 833-1434.

"The Danube, Vienna to the Black Sea," will be shown Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Auditorium of The Detroit Institute of Arts.

Gene Wiancko, a former broadcaster and engineer, roamed the valleys of the Danube, seeking sequences to be presented to national audiences viewing his film. The presentation will include not only Vienna, but Budapest, the National Dances of Hungary, ancient rituals, fortresses, inland lakes and seas, Gypsy dances and festivities, and on to the grandeur of the mysterious Balkan mountains.

Tickets are $3.50 at the door or may be purchased under the Grandparents Ticket Plan which allows up to four grandchildren up to 18 years of age admitted at $1 each if tickets are purchased along with a regular ticket by a grandparent. For further information and reservations, call the D.I.A. Ticket Office at 832-2730 any day between 9:30 a.m. and 5:15 p.m.

Mothers' Club ends two-part series on eating disorders

The South High Mothers' Club's "En Garde: Target Timely Topics" two-part series on eating disorders will conclude tomorrow afternoon at 1 p.m. with a doctor's look at anorexia nervosa and bulimia.

Dr. Calier Worrell will answer questions about the diseases Friday, Nov. 18, at 280 Touraine in the Farms. He will discuss typical behavior of eating disorder victims and physical problems caused by the disorders.

The public is invited. No reservations are necessary.

Two join FLEC governing board

The Family Life Education Council announced the addition of Dagher B. Rahi and Reverend George E. Schelter to its board of directors.

Dr. Rahi has degrees from the University of Detroit and the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery. He is a practicing physician in St. Clair Shores and has served as city physician for St. Clair Shores and Deputy Medical Examiner for Macomb County.

He has also served on a number of boards and councils including South Lake Board of Education, Community Health Planning Council, Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan, United Foundation Torch Drive and the President's Commission for the Study of Ethical Problems in Medicine and Biomedical and Behavioral Research.

Reverend Schelter, of St. James Lutheran Church in Grosse Pointe, graduated from Christ Seminary in 1974 and is currently serving on its board of directors. Reverend Schelter joined St. James in 1974. He is a past Family Life Education board member, a member of the Grosse Pointe Ministerial Association and served as president in 1981.

Friends give $21,000 gift

The directors of the Friends of Grosse Pointe Public Library last month voted to present a gift of $21,000 to be used for new furniture, books and a computer terminal. The donation was accepted, with thanks, by the Board of Education at its Nov. 14 meeting.

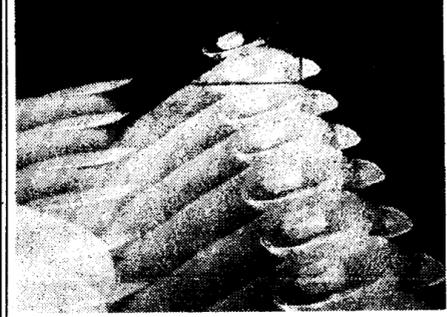

The gift will be used to purchase furniture for the Park Branch ($1,435), blinds for Central Library ($435), chairs for Central Library ($2,638), a computer terminal for Central Library ($3,000), books ($10,000), juvenile programs ($3,000) and landscaping at Central Library ($500).

Teen drinking is deep-grained

He says it's a problem getting a family to admit they have a disease or the onset of a disease because of the father's professional standing in the area.

"Usually," says Keating, "it's the mother who is left to deal with the problem, leaving the husband (who is often an alcoholic) to his career."

A greater awareness is needed by teachers and parents to redesign a lifestyle that puts emphasis on excellent students and forgets a good many of the population.

"Some of these kids feel like failures," says Keating. "If you took them into the Warren or Roseville school system they'd be the A and B students. Here they are exposed to a failure system at an age when they don't need the anxiety."

"Other systems have trade schools and it's not demeaning. But if the teachers don't believe that, then the kids will think they're failures," he adds.

He debits parents with fostering non-socialization types of ideas that encourage kids to make friendships based on wealth and prestige.

"Kids stay in cliques and some of the girls feel they are meant for better things, such as marrying into a lifestyle similar or better than their present one.

"Some kids don't feel they have a chance, experience exclusive rejection and can't deal with it," he adds. They often turn to alcohol or drugs.

Status means so much in the Pointes, notes Keating that the police have no authority in some instances. They shy away from teen drug and alcohol problems for fear of repercussions.

One police officer told him that if he arrested a kid whose father was a lawyer, the problem would be with him, not the kid.

Drinking is considered a main ingredient in the Pointe, whether at home or a private club, according to Michelle Jannazzo, counseling supervisor at the Family Life Education Council (FLEC).

Seventy-five percent of the teens referred to FLEC come from the Pointes and most are drug and alcohol addicted, she says.

She agrees with Keating that the push is for kids to "get it together early."

She also notes that a lack of affluence can cause problems for many who view it as a real source of embarrassment and frustration.

Their fathers need to interpret the reality of the outside world for them, she says. Many of these dads are reaching the pinnacle of their career, others aren't making it, and still others already abuse substances.

Roskamp wins international leadership post

Woods resident Karl W. Roskamp became the first American in 30 years to lead the International Institute of Public Finance at the organization's recent meeting in Budapest, Hungary.

Roskamp is a Wayne State University economics professor who's been a member of that faculty since 1960. He was awarded an honorary degree by the Sorbonne University in Paris in 1981 and held a U.S. Department of State lectureship in American public finance that took him to Nice, France, in 1974.

Roskamp is author of "Capital Formation in West Germany," and received degrees from University of Frankfurt and University of Michigan.

The institute he was elected to lead for the next four years has 900 members from 50 countries. Membership includes academic economists and public officials.

by a reporter. She held the sign over her face when photographers came near.

But the trustees also heard from their supporters, including Henry Clay, who said he represented an organization drawn together by the threat of a recall, not by agreement on the school closing issue.

His group of "former school board members, teachers, realtors and parents . . . stands ready to work to defeat a recall effort," Clay said. Several other speakers applauded the board's decision and called it "long overdue."

The plan will go into effect in September, 1984. Barnes Elementary School, on Morningside Drive in the Woods, will be closed, but not sold, according to board president Mrs. Hanpeter. Barnes, which was built in 1954 and opened in 1956, reached its peak enrollment of 488 students in 1970 and now has the lowest enrollment of any building in the district with 191 students. The school was named for John R. Barnes, superintendent of schools from 1947-50.

The administration says about 20 children who formerly attended Barnes "with face walking" distances to their new schools, Monteth and Ferry, of more than 1.5 miles. Some of the distances estimated by the administration, are up to 2.5 miles.

After five tries, DSO hits black

For the first time in six years, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra ended a year in the black, DSO Chairman Walter J. McCarthy said.

DSO ended its fiscal 1982-83 year on Aug. 31, with an operating surplus of $26,710. The last time DSO saw a surplus in annual operating funds was the fiscal year 1975-76.

"This achievement, following six years of financial distress, augurs well for the future health and success of the symphony," said McCarthy and Oleg Lobanov, DSO executive vice-president and managing director, in the symphony's annual report. "Those who have worked so hard to the restore the symphony to financial health can take justifiable pride in a job well done."

Robert Booth retires as WSU Prof

Robert E. Booth after nearly a quarter-century of service marked with numerous awards and honors.

Booth, who lives in Grosse Pointe Park, joined Wayne State as an associate professor in 1960 and was named professor and chairman of the Department of Library Science in 1964. In 1974 he became director of the Division of Library Science.

Named the "Michigan Librarian of the Year" for 1979-80, Booth received a citation for Library Service to Michigan from the Michigan Legislature in 1979. The Legislature also cited him for organizing the Detroit Libraries Information Project during the Republican Convention in Detroit in 1980 and for assisting the Democratic Convention in New York the same year.

Both Universities have recognized Booth as a distinguished alumnus. He has been listed in "Who's Who in America" annually since 1971.

lic opinion in his vote. "The fact is, the community doesn't want elementary schools closed," he said.

Parent Carol Lombardini said she was "very disappointed at what (the board) has done in the name of fiscal responsibility."

"I am appalled at what my son is studying in high school. I am appalled that every principal has a full-time secretary. I suggest you look into these things first and clean up discipline problems in the middle schools before you send our sixth graders there," she said.

Another speaker said poor school administrators were providing the board with bad information on which to base its decision, while others asked the trustees to consider a public vote on the matter and threatened a recall of the six who endorsed Brummel's plan.

One woman held a sign in front of Supt. Brummel and the three television cameras in the room that implied Brummel's employment in Grosse Pointe should end. She said it was a message from "us" to the superintendent, but declined to identify herself or her group when asked

are named to honors choir

Seven University Liggett Middle School students have been selected for the 1983-84 Junior High State Honors Choirs sponsored by the Michigan School Vocal Association.

Seventh graders in the group are Susan Kolodziejczyk, Brooke Miller, Daniela Rodriguez and John Tintinalli. The three eighth graders are Whitney Joondeph, Maximilian Smith and Kavita Sood.

For their audition, the young singers prepared three and four part choral pieces which they performed for the judges in trios and quartets.

The ULS vocalists will rehearse with other top student singers in preparation for the State Honors concert on Saturday, Jan. 21, at Hill Auditorium in Ann Arbor.

It was a head-to-head race to the end, but Linda Gaglio won the election for freshman president, defeating Joe Finazzo in last Thursday's student elections. Also held were senatorial elections for the upperclassmen and other freshman class officers.

With a 59 percent voter turnout, the freshmen also elected Anne Butala for secretary and Julie Matthews for treasurer. The job of vice-president remains unfilled because of a tie between Christie Ciavola and Eleanor Allen. A special election is to be held this week to determine a winner.

The 10th, 11th and 12th grades each elected six senators with a voter turnout of between 30 and 40 percent. The senators, including those to be elected by the freshmen, make up the Student Association, which plans fundraisers and recreational activities using suggestions from students and class representatives.

The Senior Class senators are Colette Bradley, Mike Domzalski, Doug McNair, Hague Ollison, Lydia Pallas and Peter Wack.

Spanish study
tour is planned

University Liggett School Spanish teacher, Mariela de Brown, says now is the time to inquire about the 1984 "Summer in Spain" study-travel trip for students. The tour, scheduled to depart June 23, 1984, will include two weeks of travel followed by an optional three weeks of study at the University of Madrid. Brown officially opened the planning sessions Oct. 19, at ULS.

Foreign language students in all Grosse Pointe schools are encouraged to seek information about the directed, chaperoned trip which Brown entitles "An Encounter With Spanish Culture."

This past June, Brown, and Grosse Pointe South Spanish teacher John Mason accompanied 12 area high school students on a three-week tour of Spain. The students visited major Spanish cities, hopped a hydroplane for a day in Tangiers, explored museums and castles, and watched a bull fight and flamenco show.

A new feature of next summer's trip is the optional combination of pleasure travel and study.

For more information call Brown at 884-4444.

'Oh Kay' opens
Players season

By Laurie Smith
South High

South's Pointe Players have been hard at work since September on their fall musical, "Oh Kay!" which will open tonight, Nov. 17, in North's Performing Arts Center.

"Oh Kay!" is a comedy which takes place during the time of Prohibition in the "roaring 20s." It is based on the book written by Guy Wodehouse and P.G. Wodehouse.

The story begins when bootleggers decide to hide alcohol in a house they think is deserted. Much to their surprise, owner Jimmy Winter (Andy Clay) soon returns with his new bride, Constance (Katie Gracey) and the problems begin.

Some of Jimmy's old girlfriends arrive to inspect Constance, who leaves when she learns that Jimmy's first marriage was never annulled.

Jimmy takes in an old friend, Kay (Jennifer Ames), who also happens to be the sister of Duke (Jeff Bosley), the leader of the bootleggers. Jimmy still has no notion of what is going on in his basement.

Other main characters are played by Pat Selby, Jim Kallardos, Joe Carion and Libby and Molly Irwin. There are more than 40 other students involved in the cast and crew.

Pointe Players director is Jeanne Chrisman. Choreography is being done by Ciro Vitale, who has performed in many groups and is experienced in stagework. He also did the choreography for the last two plays the Pointe Players have done, "West Side Story" and "The Boyfriend."

The music in "Oh, Kay!" was written by George Gershwin with lyrics by Ira Gershwin. It will be played by South's orchestra and directed by Ralph Miller.

"Oh Kay!" will be performed tonight at 7:30 p.m. and on Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the door.

Pierce Library Club picks new leaders

Recently elected officers of the library club at Pierce Middle School for 1983-84 were Elizabeth Ranno, president; Kari Dierkes, vice-president; Bonnie Berschack, secretary; and Elizabeth Emery, treasurer. The 35 club members have already set up their library work schedule and have begun planning social activities for the year. Library club members work in the school library twice a week where they assist with circulation, shelving, processing and repairing books. They also perform reference services and handle publicity for the library.

Members enjoy the advantage of access to new books before they go into circulation. They also help select new books for the library.

"Library Club members must be willing to learn, have a helpful attitude, be friendly, courteous, dependable and prompt," said Edna McKee, club sponsor.

"While we emphasize service to others, we have fun, too," Mrs. McKee added.

Among the club's social events are a scavenger hunt, swim party, bowling, Christmas party and an annual picnic to which past club members are invited.

System cuts book thefts

By Mark Froelich
South High School

It has been a little over a year now since South High School installed a security system in the library. South's library had lost approximately $5,000 in one year in book thefts in one third of the library before the system was installed in September, 1982.

Nancy Boytor, South library coordinator, said the library inventories one-third of its total collection each year and that the latest accounting uncovered 338 missing books.

The entire security system cost $9,000. The system works much like the security systems in airports, by detecting a metal slip inside the binding of each book.

Despite the presence of a security system, there were 168 books stolen from the same third of the library in its first year of use (1982-83). This is a significant reduction from the 338 books stolen the year before, Mrs. Boytor said.

It cost South a little more than $5,000 to replace the books stolen during the 1981-82 school year. Last year, with the system in use, the library still lost $2,500 in book theft.

"Stealing books from South's library will never completely stop, said Mrs. Boytor, "mainly because there are two other exits which are not covered by the system."

Most of the books that are stolen are on recreational topics or are books that students need for papers and reports.

"Everything gets stolen. The most popular are books on sports, cooking, rock'n roll, encyclopedias, and quite a few books about drugs," said Mrs. Boytor.

"We usually don't turn in anyone we catch," she added. "The students we catch are asked to return the book. We almost never turn anyone in to the assistant principal."

Overall, the system has done its job, said Mrs. Boytor.

'Chemical People' ignites response

A near capacity crowd filled the Grosse Pointe Woods Council Chamber last Wednesday to watch the second program of the two part PBS series, "The Chemical People," on a large screen projection television. The production was hosted by First Lady Nancy Reagan, also host of Program I, and featured stars from show business and sports presenting information and suggestions directly related to the formation of community task forces to address the problem of teen substance abuse as it exists in every community in America.

SAC² (Substance Abuse Community Council of Grosse Pointe) hosted the television gathering and town hall meeting which followed. SAC² president, Ruth Zinn, spoke briefly explaining the inception and accomplishments of the organization as well as inviting those present who might be unfamiliar with SAC² to become members.

The positive message, "together we can do something to combat the epidemic of teenage substance abuse," was reinforced by Mrs. Zinn as she pointed out that although we have a long way to go, many of the suggested goals for task forces mentioned in "The Chemical People" have already been accomplished in Grosse Pointe.

Panelists Suzie Decker representing the parent point of view; Dr. Kenneth Brummel, superintendent of schools; Reverend David Antonson, minister of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church; Roger LaRose, District Court Judge; and Vernon Ausherman, SAC² Legal Advisor and liaison to police departments and municipal governments spoke about the local substance abuse problems from their individual perspectives.

Mrs. Decker quoted pertinent statistics about the use of alcohol and other drugs between suggesting that all parents should be concerned about the problem and involved in the solution. Rev. Antonson remarked, "lots of parents are still asking if we have a big problem. Yes, we do! I've gone to those parties, have you? ... Mostly parents aren't home." His remarks were affirmed by Judge LaRose who stated, "It's pandemic. Particularly the problems with alcohol. It's Miller Time all the time ... The kids who are using are getting younger and younger."

Dr. Brummel addressed some of the solutions by explaining the new health curriculum being implemented by the schools and Ausherman discussed several legal issues including the SAC² draft of a proposal for uniform law enforcement which has been presented to the municipal governments of the five Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods.

SAC² plans to continue the momentum of community involvement which the "Chemical People" programs and town meeting reinforced by inviting all interested citizens to attend a regular SAC² meeting on Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the War Memorial. The meeting will be titled "A Call to Action" and will offer an opportunity to join several mini-task forces. Task forces will include those addressing chemical free weekend social activities for teens; communication among organization among groups within SAC²; the preparation and follow-up educational series related to the visit by Betty Ford to our community in January, and others.

The town hall meeting was videotaped by Grosse Pointe Cable and those who missed it may watch the listings in the Grosse Pointe News for the broadcast date on Channel 17.

Davis takes over at GSA

"What we have tried to do and what we have done is give supervisors more authority to make decisions at their level. Basically, we've given them the right to fail," he said.

The right to fail is a matter of letting a supervisor make decisions instead of passing them up the ladder to another supervisor, who in turn, will pass it up the ladder. The GSA has passed the responsibility down, allowing its supervisors to take risks and succeed if they take the proper ones, Davis said. By rewarding the positive actions while not counting failures too heavily against a supervisor, the agency has headed toward an incentive system similar to those in private industry, he said.

By making the GSA run more like a business, the administration has been able to make a number of economies, Davis said.

By reducing office space use by 10 percent, trimming its payroll through attrition by about 9,000 workers, instituting management reorganizations and changing its policy for volunteer service on government commissions, the GSA has gone from an agency that drained the treasury of $400 million in 1981 to one that returned $159 million this year, Davis said.

In the future, the GSA administration hopes to eliminate some of its levels in the chain of command and move more authority to the local level, Davis said. The agency also hopes to consolidate some of its departments and increase its sharing of administrative and support services with the hope of saving about $3 billion to $4 billion for taxpayers, he added.

"Everything we've done is turned toward making the agency a cost-effective operation," Davis said. "Because we're a government agency, we don't have a bottom line, but we've tried to recreate that. You see, taxpayers are our stock holders."

Organ concert this Sunday at St. Paul

Organist Marijim Theone and flutist Laura Wyman will appear in concert on Sunday, Nov. 20, at 4 p.m. at St. Paul Catholic Church, 157 Lakeshore Road.

Tickets are available at the door. All seats are $5; senior citizens and students with identifications, $3. A reception with refreshments following the concert will be held at St. Paul's Parish House, adjacent to the church. Supervised parking is available behind the church, and parking will be permitted on both sides of Lakeshore.

Sunday's concert is presented by St. Paul's Concert Series, and WQRS Timeless FM 105.

The program will include organist Theone's performance of the "Toccata II in d minor" by Johann Froberger, selections from the "Buxheimer Orgelbuch," "Toccata, Adagio and Fugue in C Major" by Johann S. Bach, and "Litanies" by Jehan Alain. Flutist Wyman will then join Ms. Theone in performing "Sonata da Chiesa" by Frank Martin, "Trois Mouvements pour Flut et Orgue" by Jehan Alain, "Rhapsody for Flute and Organ" by John Weaver, and selected pieces from "Miracles for Flute and Organ" by Daniel Pinkham.

Ms. Theone holds degrees in liturgical music and organ performance, with additional studies at Oxford. She is now a Doctoral candidate in church music at the University of Michigan. Her concert appearances include major American cities, England, West Germany and Venezuela.

City election results revised

The results of last Tuesday's municipal election in Grosse Pointe City were revised when the board of canvassers met last week. Although the order of candidate's standings did not change, the number of votes received by each candidate were different from results issued on election night.

Mayor Lorenzo D. Browning, who had no competition, received 1,069 votes, according to the official tabulation. Council candidates received the following: John F. Youngblood, 892; Jeannette H. Duffield, 828; Arthur S. Fetters, Jr., 660; Thomas Guthat, 567; and Thomas O'Rourke, 363. The top three vote getters, Youngblood, Duffield and Fetters, won council seats.

In the four-way race for municipal judge, the winner, Stan Kazul, received 598; followed by George W. Coticchio's 375; Stephen Kinsley's 177 and Matthew R. Rumora's 104.

A charter amendment proposal was approved by a 624-247 vote. The amendment raises the limit to $5,000 of items that can be purchased without city council approval.

Pierce will host substance abuse awareness program

Representatives of the Substance Abuse Community Council of Grosse Pointe, SAC², will present a two-part awareness program for parents at Pierce Middle School.

The first program will be Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pierce auditorium. The film titled "Epidemic" dealing with alcohol and drugs will be shown.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

Barbara Dean Davenport came back to The Pointe in late October, traveling, as usual, with one suitcase, and among the many elegant women who attended the Detroit Women's Council of the Navy League's benefit luncheon and fashion show at Lochmoor Club Barb was, as usual, a standout.

She wore the Balenciaga black wool suit she bought in Paris in 1963 (as smart today as it was 20 years ago), with a simple, high-necked white blouse. Her only jewelry was her grandmother's lapel watch, a French piece, of blue enamel with pearls and diamonds. Her accessories were white gloves and black leather boots.

She was delighted to find Grosse Pointe's fall ambiance much as she remembered it. "So many times one is disappointed when one returns to a former loved place. But Grosse Pointe still retains its charm and beauty." She noted how different, yet the same, the streets and homes looked — so different from the Spanish-influenced architecture of California.

"Life in the midwest is still traditional, not at all like the laid-back casualness of California." Barb doesn't prefer the California life style to that of the midwest, or of Europe, or of the Far East. She simply enjoys where she is. When you've lived in as many worlds as Mrs. Davenport has, you accept the life at hand, and find your place in it. And enjoy . . .

She was born in Cambridge, Mass., educated in England, Switzerland and France. She's a graduate of the Sorbonne. She became an International Bahai while still in France, and remains committed to the ideal that Creative World Peace is attainable through the Oneness of Mankind, a faith expressed in her "This I Believe" radio broadcast for the Edward R. Murrow series in the 1950s.

Just prior to the outbreak of World War II, Barb met the wife of the Attorney General of California, who had a place in Paris. "Get to America," this woman advised. "Save your citizenship." So Barb got to America, to California, where she became a successful dress designer, one of the youngest in Beverly Hills. She designed some of Edith Head's personal evening gowns.

Then along came Lieutenant J.C. Davenport, tall, dark and handsome . . . and when he was posted to Japan in 1949, attached to the Overseas Air Sea Rescue Service, Barb locked the door of her Beverly Hills studio and headed off across the Pacific to another new life. Within months of her arrival in Tokyo, she'd become Japan's foremost fashion authority.

It happened this way: a Japanese newspaper, hearing of her fashion expertise, asked her to write an article on the mistakes Japanese women made when wearing western clothes. The mail response was phenomenal.

The tinier the bubbles . . .

The tinier the bubbles, the tastier the champagne . . . and the bubbles in the Bollinger 1973 brut, especially selected for the marriage of HRH The Prince of Wales and Lady Diana Spencer, July 29, 1981, were very, very tiny indeed. To complement them, there was Beluga Caviar. Ah, Bollinger and Beluga — what a beautiful marriage they make! And so it went at the Connoisseur's Tasting of the Grand Marque Champagnes of France under the personal direction of ALEX SUCZEK, standing (right) in the picture above. "The six champagnes you will taste tonight represent absolutely the finest there is," said Alex. "We didn't bother to include anything for comparison, because it hardly seemed worth the trouble." TIM MCCARTHY (standing, left), of Cost Plus Wines, and Andrew Moquin, of The Merry Mouse, brought their expertise to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House Reception Room which, if you can't manage to be invited to a castle, is a superb setting in which to sip superior vintages. One gentleman at each table was appointed that table's sommelier, responsible for pouring the table's wine: a task undertaken in the bottom picture by MARVIN NOWAK, measuring two ounces for MARTY GALVIN as Marty's wife, LIZ, who'd already received her share from that bottle, looks on. Each champagne was accompanied by a "Congenial Companion." Smoked Salmon from Norway. A Hazelnut Torte made by Alex's wife, Marybelle, its whipped cream filling flavored with a puree of apricots from the tree in the Suczek's backyard (so much better than the sweeter commercial purees!). Petit fours prepared by Mme. Charity Suczek. And so it went . . . mellow and mellow until, finally, the last glasses of Tattling (naturally pink) 1975 brut were emptied, the last toasted almonds eaten. And the general consensus was: if one got a shade more mellow, one would be too mellow to get home. So the tasters, a capacity crowd wise enough to get tickets for this Very Special Tasting very early, because capacity was very limited, went home, to dream of tiny bubbles in golden liquid, and of another tasting, of cognac and other fruit spirits, scheduled for late February. For that one, a heavy meal beforehand is definitely advised!

Papillons flying again . . .

Les Papillons Liturgical Dancers' director and choreographer EUNICE WHITAKER (center) dances the solo part in "Psalm 23" with two supporting members of the company during a recent performance by the ecumenical troupe whose members come from Catholic, Episcopal, Lutheran and Presbyterian backgrounds. They dance episodes from the Life of Christ, Psalms and Prayers of Praise, to the accompaniment of Scripture readings as well as to music, or to a combination of the two, using ancient Israeli dance forms as well as patterns and gestures from ballet and modern dance techniques. Assisting Eunice in this, Les Papillons' fifth season, is guest director Dennis East, actor, teacher and professional dancer.

The troupe danced last Sunday, Nov. 13, at its sponsor church, Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian, during morning worship service. Looking ahead to Advent and Christmas, Les Papillons will perform in several area churches during the next few weeks, presenting "The Annunciation" with Mary Lee Strother and Ellen Probert alternating in the role of the Angel Gabriel, and Jenny Eshleman as Mary. Other selections from the troupe's extensive repertoire of new dances and old favorites will be featured Dec. 15, when Les Papillons travel to Rochester to present a program in the First Presbyterian Church there. They will perform "Christ the King," a lyrical dance, its patterns ending in the shape of a crowns signifying the risen, reigning Christ, to the music of the Corelli Christmas Concerto.

They will also dance "The Annunciation," "The Light of Christ Has Come into The World" and their new, intricate "Gloria," to be presented for the first time on this occasion. "The Gloria" will also be featured when Les Papillons appear in the Christmas Eve candlelight service at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian.

The Butterflies welcome two new dancers, Janet Miller and Marcia Ireton, to their ranks this season, as well as guest dancer Tony LoVasco. Other members who will take part in these performances are Lizzie Bolden, Steve Honkanen, Becky Englebrecht and Eunice Whitaker.

Come across in fine style

The Women's Connection of Grosse Pointe presents Esther Frank and Harriet Alpern in "Coming Across with Style" tonight, Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m., following a 6:30 p.m. subscription dinner, at University Liggitt School's Cook Road campus.

The speakers will address the topic of how women can project themselves to advantage, especially on a first impression basis. Frank and Alpern have 15 years' combined experience in the communications field, the former as a segment television producer/writer, the latter as a public relations counselor and producer/director of an educational service company.

Their program is open to the public. Further information may be obtained by contacting Bonnie Gibson at 881-0510.

Children of Mary meet at Academy

The Children of Mary gathered Friday, Nov. 4, at the Grosse Pointe Academy for mass, celebrated at 10 a.m., followed by a brief meeting. Guest speaker Marilyn (Mrs. C. Bradford) Lundy, president of the League of Catholic Women, reported on "Addressing the Issues of Today," a topic inspired by "Courage and Confidence," this year's Children of Mary theme.

A mass for deceased members and families of the Children of Mary was offered in the Academy's Sacred Heart Chapel at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Nov. 6. It was followed by continental breakfast in the Lakeshore Building's Reception Room.

Kids like to lunch and brunch with Santa at this time of year — and come Sunday, Nov. 27, grown-ups, too, may break bread with Jolly Old Saint Nick at "Supper with Santa," kickoff opening of the Santa Haus, sponsored by the Assistance League to the Northeast Guidance Center, on the Cook Road grounds of the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club. Celebrity Santa and Mrs.

Supper with Santa, which begins with cocktails at 6 p.m., is the beginning of three weeks of Santa Haus and Christmas Boutique activities benefiting the NEGC. Supper guests will be the first to wander through the three-room Santa Haus in what, before the Assistance League's volunteers and their families got to it, was the GPHC's riding lounge.

The Supper's suppers will be the first to browse among and purchase original gifts and holiday decorations in the boutique, before adjourning to the clubhouse for a meal, music and sing-a-long. Reservations for the evening, at $18 per person, may be made by calling 824-8000.

"Christmas is for kids and families," explains Ellen Cooke, Santa Haus general co-chairperson. "We feel there is a void in our community, especially in recent years, with the slow economy and the closing of Hudson's downtown store. We hope to contribute to the spirit of the holiday season."

And so, the Santa Haus . . . where children will see Raggedy Ann and Andy's playroom . . . walk with toys and friends in an enchanted forest . . . view Santa's Workshop before visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Claus. There'll also be a Children's Shop, with no gift priced higher than $2. Most will be considerably less.

Santa Haus hours are 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m. weekdays, Nov. 28 to Dec. 16, noon to 4 p.m. the weekend of Dec. 10 and 11. Special night hours are 7 to 9 p.m. Dec. 12 to 15.

Admission, donation is $1.50 per person. Group reservations and information may be obtained by calling 824-8000. The Christmas Boutique will be open, admission-free, to adults when the Santa Haus is open. The Assistance League extends a special invitation to senior citizens who might like to volunteer at the Santa Haus: Please do; you're needed!

Farm, Garden Club is busy

The Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club has been busy launching the 1983-84 season since August, when board members and officers met at the home of their president, Mrs. James C. Stewart, to make final plans for the year ahead and enjoy luncheon.

"Have Pots, Will Travel" was Mrs. Jack Duggan's topic for the first meeting of the year, in October, at the Fair Acres Drive home of Mrs. William Young who was assisted by Mrs. J. Crawford Frost Jr. and Mrs. Richard Hinks. Mrs. Duggan, utilizing a minimum of flowers, fashioned elegant arrangements in stunning containers.

A demonstration of how to make unusual holiday decorations was the program for the club's November meeting last Monday, in the home of Mrs. William Lafer. Harriett's co-hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Eugene Hawkins and Mrs. Charles Moon.

That article led to more articles, to broadcasts and lectures, many by government request, to the editorship of the Japanese equivalent of "Vogue."

Barbara Dean Davenport became the first westerner ever to be featured as a Japanese magazine cover girl. She became an advisor to the huge Japanese fabric industry. By the time she left Japan, after her husband's two-and-a-half-year tour of duty was completed, she'd received special commendations from the Japanese, and from General Douglas MacArthur.

Dav's next post was Selfridge Air Base, and that brought the Davenports to The Pointe, to a home on Vernier Road to which Barb brought more than 100 crates of furniture, clothing and Japanese treasures, and a lifetime of Japanese memories. Her reputation preceded her. There were speaking requests by the dozen. There were features in metropolitan area papers, including a NEWS "Pointer of Interest."

But Mrs. Davenport, back in The States, was embarking on a new career as the Captain's, Major's and finally Colonel's Lady as Dav moved up in the Air Force. She retained her interest in fashion, putting on many shows for her fellow officers' wives, but once again, the focus of her life had changed.

She was with Dav when he was stationed on Cape Cod, with Strategic Air Command, during the Bay of Pigs crisis. They rented a Silver King's mansion in Denver when he went to the Air Force Academy. They lived all over the United States, Illinois to Florida... and finally, when Dav retired, returned to where they'd begun: California.

Everywhere they lived, they made friends who remained friends forever. People like Lou and Ed Wilcox whose houseguest Barb, a widow now, was during her recent visit to The Pointe. People like Charity deVick Suczek, who gave a dinner party for the most welcome visitor.

People like Dan Beattie and his wife, Helen, who joined an informal group at the Wilcoxes for finger food and champagne. Among the new friends Barb made here this fall was Norah Houlihan; the two women discovered they had much in common, for Norah gave up a promising career as a Big Band singer in New York (she had a good part in a Ray Bolger show), to marry Jim Houlihan when he came home from the Navy after World War II.

Barbara Dean Davenport is back in California now, her single suitcase stashed away until it's time for another trip. Wherever, she'll make do with that one suitcase. She likes to travel light. She's had plenty of practice. Keep Life Simple is her motto, for simplicity is elegance.

And wherever you go in whatever situation you find yourself, keep your mind and your eyes open. Embrace life, and enjoy...

Pointe Book Club to meet

This month's Pointe Book Club meeting is scheduled for Monday, Nov. 21, at the home of Mrs. John Zolad. Mrs. Arthur Schmidt and Mrs. Richard Huegli will assist with luncheon. Mrs. Kenneth Locke will review "The Crooked Tree" by Robert C. Wilson.

Victoria Jenske is a July bride

The gown of white crepe selected by Victoria Lynne Jenske for her midsummer marriage to Mark Bernard Mandich featured a bateau neckline, long, slender sleeves and a bodice of Alencon lace and a hem bordered in matching, scalloped lace. Her chapel length train flowed from a draped, deeply lowered back.

A Juliet cap of matching, beaded lace caught her triple-tiered, lace-edged illusion veil. She carried a Colonial nosegay of white Sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's-breath, with Baker's Fern accents.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenske, of Lakepointe Avenue. Mr. Mandich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Mandich, of Dyer, Ind.

The 5 o'clock candlelight ceremony Saturday, July 30, in Peace Lutheran Church. The Reverend Arnold Brammeier presiding, was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The newlyweds vacationed on Mackinac Island. They are at home in Evanston, Ill.

Michelle Ann Jenske was honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids were Melissa Mandich, the bridegroom's sister, Marie Oetting and Rebecca Robert, of Lombard, Ill., and Jennifer Zinn. Junior bridesmaid was Elizabeth Mandich, another sister of the bridegroom.

Bows accented the puff sleeves of their sashed, floor length, off-the-shoulder dresses of lavender chiffon. They wore wreaths of silk lavender and purple flowers, with ribbon streamers, in their hair, and carried Colonial nosegays of Fuji, pompom and daisy mums, with baby's-breath and Baker's Fern.

man for his brother. Ushers were Glen Benninghoff, of Palatine, Ill., Kevin Kenning, of Valparaiso, Ind., Peter Koehn, of Minneapolis, Minn., and Alan LeFevre, of Naperville, Ill. Junior groomsmen were Brian Down, of Fayetteville, Ark., the bridegroom's cousin.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown, crystal-pleated and blue in color, styled with a lace bodice and mandarin collar. She carried red roses on her beaded purse. The bridegroom's mother, the V-neckline and long, slim sleeves of her pink taffeta gown outlined with ruffles, carried white cattleya orchids on her matching taffeta purse.

Among those in attendance at the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Nuechterlein, of St. Joseph, and Mrs. Herbert Jenske, of Detroit, and the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Brown, of Largo, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Demeter Mandich, of Chicago.

Collect baby food labels

Individuals in the community are encouraged to collect Heinz Baby Food labels to help patients at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

For each front portion of a label from Heinz baby foods, juices and cereals, the H.J. Heinz Company will donate three cents to Children's or to The Ticker Club, Inc., a hospital-affiliated group which raises funds to support Children's Cardiology Department.

In 1982, over 30,000 labels for Children's Hospital, and 21,000 for The Ticker Club, were collected.

"Our goal for 1983 is to top last year's results," says John Hawkins of the Hospital Development Office. "The more labels that are turned in, the greater the Heinz Company donation — and the better we'll be able to care for the sick and injured kids who come here."

The clipped labels should be banded together with a note indicating number of labels per band, and mailed or delivered, before Dec. 31, to the Development Office at Children's Hospital of Michigan, 3901 Beaubien Boulevard, Detroit, Mich., 48201.

Tear-off address labels are available at area food stores for convenience in returning the Heinz labels to Children's. They can also be obtained at the hospital, along with flyers and posters on the Heinz Label Program. Requests for these items, along with questions, can be directed to John Hawkins in the Development Office, 494-5373.

DGOA holds opera auditions

First place winner of the $3,000 Samuel J. Lang Scholarship Award in the Detroit Grand Opera Association's final auditions on Sunday, Oct. 16, at the Music Hall was Claritha Buggs, a 27-year-old mezzo-soprano from Detroit. The $1,000 Elizabeth Hodges Donovan Memorial Award was won by 25-year-old lyric soprano Sally Stevens, the $1,000 Henry E. Wenger Memorial Award by another lyric soprano, 29-year-old Shirley Jar-

The purpose of the DGOA's scholarship auditions is to discover new operatic talent and to assist young singers in their careers. The Lang, Donovan and Wenger Awards are for advanced study in voice and operatic training. The Francis Robinson Professional Engagement Award is to provide professional stage experience to the young performer making the transition from vocal study to the direct pursuit of an operatic career.

The trio, all currently apprentices at Michigan Opera Theatre, will compete next in the Metropolitan Opera's Great Lakes Regional Auditions, to be held at Detroit's Rackham Auditorium on Feb. 5, 1984.

Peter Riberi, a 24-year-old tenor from Ypsilanti, won the $1,500 Francis Robinson Professional Engagement Award which secures him a position in the Young Artists Apprentice Program at MOT.

The auditions are made possible in part through a $3,000 grant from the Lucille Drazick Prepolec Foundation. This year's judges were Lorenzo Alvary, a basso with the Metropolitan Opera Company, Francis Rizzo, the dramaturg for the Washington Opera, and Virginia Zeani, a professional singer who has performed at most of the world's major opera houses and is a professor of voice at Indiana University's School of Music.

December date for 1983 White Christmas Ball

The Fontbonne Auxiliary of Saint John Hospital will hold its 30th Annual White Christmas Ball on Friday, Dec. 9, at the Country Club of Detroit. "Christmas in Camelot" begins at 7 p.m. with cocktails and hors d'oeuvres served to background music by strolling minstrels. Dinner will follow at 8:30 p.m., with dancing to the music of Lester Lanin and his New York Orchestra.

This year, Fontbonne is honoring present and past-presidents of the hospital's medical staff. At Saint John, the president of the medical staff is a physician elected by his peers to serve in a leadership capacity and to preside at meetings of the staff.

He also has the responsibility of reporting back to the general staff, of developing ways and means of maintaining good communication between the general staff and the executive committee and of serving on the hospital's board of trustees during his term of office.

It is for these reasons that Fontbonne is honoring 10 gentlemen and their wives who, over the past 17 years, have given service, dedication and hours to Saint John Hospital, its patients and their colleagues.

This office and type of medical staff organization began at Saint John in 1966. Dr. Louis Carbone was first unanimously elected to the medical staff presidency by his contemporaries. Following in succession were: Doctors C. Jackson France, 1967; Benjamin J. Haddad, 1968-1970; Thomas J. McBryan, 1970-1971; Arthur A. Ulmer, 1971-1974; Robert A. Thumann, 1974-1976; George W. Belanger, 1976-1978; Raymond J. Christensen, 1978-1980; Paul Rizzo, 1980-1982; and William B. McIntyre, 1982-1984.

General chairman of the 1983 White Christmas Ball is Mrs. Peter (Maureen) McCabe. Her co-chairman is Mrs. K. Michael (Jan) Beizai.

Committee chairmen and co-chairmen include Mrs. Patrick J. (Alice) Crowley and Mrs. Peter (Evelyn) Wayne, acknowledgment; Mrs. Mark (Maria) Valente Jr. and Mrs. Charles (Bettie) Dawood, advisory; Mrs. Arthur (Hattie) Pfannenschmidt, beverages; Mrs. John P. (Mary Beth) Jagger, decorations; Mrs. John (Justine) Staub, Mrs. Timothy (Becky) Grajewski and Mrs. Kenneth (Gretchen) Vermiglio, sharing financial responsibilities.

Others are Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Burke and Mrs. Gerry Lilly, hospitality; Mrs. Edmund Brady Jr. and Mrs. John R. Schneider, invitations; Mrs. Edmund T. Ahee, Mrs. John A. Tulloch and Mrs. Thomas Casey, patrons; Mrs. Lee Andary and Mrs. William Cosgrove, program; Mrs. Carl Reichert, recording secretary; Mrs. Robert A. Zink and Mrs. John H. Burrows, reservations; Mrs. Thomas Beard and Mrs. George Gardella Jr. seating; Sister Verence McQuade, S.S.J. vice-president, Saint John Hospital's Patient - Community Services and director of the auxiliary; and Mrs. James W. Snyder Jr., Fontbonne president. Ticket information may be obtained by calling the Fontbonne Office, 343-3675.

Proceeds from this year's ball will be used for the hospital's Concentrated Care Building currently under construction; this will provide facilities for critically ill infants, children and adults and will feature new surgical and obstetrical suites as well as a new Emergency Center.

DIA compiling an oral history

The Museum Archives of the Detroit Institute of Arts, with the assistance of a $10,946 grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities and additional funding from the museum's Founders Society, is compiling an oral history of the DIA, one of the first projects of its kind in an American art museum.

It is under the direction of Marilyn Ghausi, museum archivist, and focuses on the history and development of the DIA, its collection, curatorial departments and physical plant.

More than 30 prominent art collectors, community leaders, members of the museum's governing boards, past directors, curators and staff members have participated to date. Among them are former DIA directors Edgar P. Richardson and Willis F. Woods and former DIA curators Sherman E. Lee, recently retired as director of the Cleveland Museum of Art, and A. Franklin Page, director of the J.B. Speed Museum in Louisville, Ky. The oral history program will continue, following the grant phase, as part of the museum's archives activities, supplementing existing historical information in the archives.

The Community LINC

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus!" This famous reply to a little girl's letter to The New York Sun reflects the sentiments of LINC in its efforts to be sure there is a Santa Claus for every child at Christmas.

For over 10 years, LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) has collected gifts from children in the Grosse Pointe elementary schools for distribution to foster care children in Wayne County. This year, many area nursery schools will also join the project.

There are 2,500 children in family foster care and another 1,000 children in residential foster care in Wayne County. All were either neglected, abused or abandoned. The state allocates only $10 per child at Christmas for gifts; LINC is hoping to provide a brighter holiday for these children with the generous help of Grosse Pointe students.

Grosse Pointe schools join in the effort to obtain stuffed animals, toys, cars and trucks, books, puzzles, mittens, hats, etc., which should be wrapped and labeled with the name of the item and the age for which it is best suited. These gifts will be collected by LINC volunteers prior to Dec. 15, and will be delivered to the Department of Social Services for distribution to the foster care children.

ANOTHER EFFORT by LINC to help Santa Claus is the Christmas Gift and Toy Chest, co-chaired by Karen Townsend and Sara Gagen. This program evolved two years ago as a result of the numerous gift requests LINC received at Christmas from agencies it services.

New or used gifts in good condition are requested by LINC for distribution to these agencies. Local churches and businesses are currently being contacted for assistance with this project, and the Detroit Area Council of the Campfire organization has named LINC's Gift and Toy Chest program as its area-wide service project again this year. The council will be providing purchased and handmade gifts for children and adults. Some area Scout troops will also participate in this program.

If there are any individuals or groups interested in helping, they may call LINC, 331-6700, for more information. LINC also receives requests for personal care items for teens, adults and senior citizens.

IN ORDER TO raise the funds which make possible these various Christmas programs and to provide assistance to those in need all year, LINC is selling poinsettia plants. The plants cost $9 and have 7 to 9 blooms.

Both red and white plants may be ordered by sending a check by Nov. 30 to Mrs. Paul Chauvin, 914 Lakeshore Road, Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich. 48236. The plants will be available for pick-up between 11:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 8, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. This is an excellent way to brighten your home or those of your friends with Christmas blooms, and also help share the Christmas spirit.

CONTINUING IN THE spirit of Keeping Christmas, a worthwhile program entitled the Michigan Maximization Project is requesting donations of books, table games, arts and crafts (drawing paper, scissors, crayons, paints, fingerpaints), balls and jump ropes to be used for the latch key program the organization is initiating.

The overall goal of the Project is to keep children safe in their own homes or home neighborhoods by strengthening community support systems. Neighbors, friends or relatives can assist families in dealing with their problems. By mobilizing these "natural helpers," the need for out-of-home placement can be eliminated.

If you can donate any of the above items, please call the LINC office.

Keeping Christmas Alive is a privilege allowed anyone who can "recognize and consider the needs and desires of little children, remember the weakness and loneliness of people who are growing old and bear in mind the things that other people have to bear in their hearts. Are you willing to do these things even for a day? Then you can keep Christmas all year." — by Henry Van Dyke, from The Saturday Evening Post Christmas Book.

LINC COLUMN SPACE is provided each month by the Grosse Pointe News as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or donate usable items, please call us at 331-6700. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Pointers PETER I. CHIRCO and WILLIAM H. DENLER have been elected as officers of the newly formed Hutzel Hospital Men's Guild. Chirco, partner of the Troy-based law firm of Chirco, Donaldson, Harrington and Runstadler, will serve as executive vice-president and legal advisor for the guild. Denler, president of William Denler & Co., has been named the guild's vice-president.

AAUW offers breast cancer information

Among the Grosse Pointe Branch American Association of University Women's new study groups this year is Women and Medicine, which will feature Dr. Silvana Martino in a program focusing on breast cancer tonight, Thursday, Nov. 17, at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Martino, a professor in the Oncology Division of Wayne State University's School of Medicine, is actively involved in current research on breast cancer. She also teaches patient care at the University Health Center. In her talk for the AAUW, she will cover self-examination and early detection of breast cancer, mammography, treatment, prognosis and cosmetic appliances.

Future topics for the Women and Medicine group include Women and Food, What Should You Ask Your Pediatrician? presented by Dr. Helene Trighelaar and a discussion of Penny Wise's books "No More Menstrual Cramps" and "No More Hot Flashes."

The Pointe Branch AAUW offers study groups in the mornings, afternoons and evenings, to accommodate members of various ages and interests, with varying schedules. Other new groups this year are Potpourri, Stocks and Investments, Issues '84 and Creative Parenting. Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, CAULIFLOWER CUISINE.

The cauliflower, a member of the Crucifer Family, was for centuries food only for the ruling class. Now modern technology has brought it to the general market place. America seems to prefer a white, snowy cauliflower head; a little milk or lemon in the steamer will retain this pristine whiteness. Italy, where the cauliflower is most popular, tends to favor the deep green and purple varieties.

Suggested Seasonings: Tarragon, savory, basil, rosemary, nutmeg, dillweed, Italian seasoning — a skim-milk cheese and wine sauce is super!

Sports Week

Keeping track . . .

Many people ask me this question: "What do you do when you aren't having a great time covering football games or writing silly columns? (I answer silly questions about what I do when I'm not covering football games and writing silly columns).

The rest of the time, I spend keeping a mental (no cracks) list of things to put in my silly column:

Things I Never Again Want to Hear a Coach Say: "They're a super team and we'll have to be ready for them;" "They just outthusted us;" "We just didn't get the breaks;" or my favorite: "I've got a great story to tell you, but you can't quote me."

Things I Can Hardly Wait to Hear a Coach Say: "We really have a pretty poor team this year and I just hope we don't get humiliated out there;" "Actually, I think we'll win the state championship — and you can quote me on that;" or: "The officiating was fantastic, couldn't have been better."

Subjects I Never Want to Write About Again: Anything to do with animals — including interviewing race horses, ice skating pigs and wrestling goats; any sport pursued by teenagers in their backyards, i.e., dirt bike racing, roller derby, darts; and my least favorite — any story about fish.

Some of the Strangest Things I've Seen in Sports: South High kids "passing" other kids over the crowd in the football bleachers (it's pretty dangerous and besides, it's a lot more effective when there are more bleachers, gang); any one of a number of hockey crowds at Joe Louis Arena; newspaper photos of sports fans wearing bags over their heads, or donning mascot suits or hats shaped like carcasses of wild animals.

Favorite Sports Sights So Far This Year: Dave Waldeck's run-scoring hit which ended a baseball marathon and gave North a regional semi-final victory; Chet Lemon's over-the-wall catch to preserve a Tiger win in the middle of this past summer's almost-pennant-race; the South Blue Devils carrying coach Russ Hepner off the field after the football win over North; Frank Sumbera's smile even after that loss; Mite House tryout day at Grosse Pointe Community Rink; Detroit Free Press Marathon runners.

Sports Stories I'm Tired of Hearing About: Marysville and Farmington Harrison not making it into the state football playoffs; Red Wing winning and losing streaks and the attendance figures of each game; U of M fighting to make it to a bowl game; the Lions' game against the New York Giants (so what if both teams stunk, I thought winning was the important part in the NFL?); the Tigers' participation (Continued on Page 2C)

Disappointing finish to fine South season

By Peggy O'Connor

If South's varsity football team could figure out a better way to end a perfect season than it has for two years — with a loss in the first round of the state playoffs. — it might make a lot of people happy. But that wouldn't necessarily include coach Russ Hepner.

"I've maintained all along that a playoff game — win or lose — cannot be the highlight of a season like that kind we had," Hepner said after South's playoff loss to Detroit Henry Ford, 34-0. "I said that early in the season and I'll say it again. It's not negative.

"This was the kind of season any coach would love to have."

But even Hepner will admit that last Saturday's loss to Ford on a snowy, muddy Birmingham Groves field was not the kind of game any coach would love to have. Nine turnovers, including two fumbles on kickoff returns, and some poor blocking helped the Blue Devils' demise for the second straight season in first round play.

South, which had given up only 25 points to opponents in nine regular season games, found itself down, 22-0, at halftime, following a turnover-filled first half.

On the second play of the game, Tony Tocco intercepted a Ford pass at the Ford 14 and after a John McDonald carry to the Ford six, South quarterback Williamson tried to hit Jim Arnold in the endzone, but the pass fell incomplete. Halfback Brian Rathsburg carried the ball to the Ford two, but South got no closer. A Dale Graham field goal attempt was wide and Ford took over.

The Trojans marched 80 yards for a score, capped by Lamar Liner's seven-yard plunge. Steve Reynolds tackled quarterback Bernard Hall as he attempted the two-point conversion.

Ford scored again, following a South fumble early in the second quarter. Liner capped an eight-play drive with his four-yard dash and Ford led, 12-0.

FORD'S HALL made it 18-0 when Hall bootlegged around the right for 11 yards — capitalizing on yet another South fumble, the third of the first half. South recovered a Ford fumble, but gave the ball back to Detroiters when Arnold's option pass was intercepted. Michael Rodriguez closed out the first half scoring with a 24-yard field goal with less than a minute to go in the half.

"We (the coaching staff) felt we could still come back in the second half," Hepner said. "We thought we could come back and put 24 points on the board and beat them. It seemed like every time we'd make a good play and get our emotions up, something would happen and we'd give the ball up. But at halftime, we talked about how we were a class football team and we'd have to play that way in the second half."

South tried to come back in the second half, but Williamson's touchdown bomb to Arnold was called back and South penalized for illegal use of hands. That seemed to take much of the steam out of South, Hepner said. Ford's Warren Bryant added a 13-yard touchdown run in the third quarter and Hall connected with Stanford Belue on a 23-yard scoring pass in the fourth period to close out the scoring. Bryant finished the day with 172 yards on 21 carries; Liner had 127 in 17 carries as the Trojans seemed to move easily through what had been a tenacious Blue Devil defense.

"We did not block well and Ford was able to throw, pass and block very well against us," Hepner said. "I think that overall, it was a matter of Ford taking advantage of our mistakes and us not taking advantage of the opportunities we had.

"When you commit nine turnovers and give the ball that many times to any team — 9-0 or 0-9 — you'll be in for a struggle."

The struggle against Ford was something new for Hepner's squad, which had not lost a regular season game in more than two years. But veteran coach Hepner is adamant that the season-ending disappointment not detract from South's season.

"WE HAD A great group of seniors. The way the team played this season brought a lot of recognition to South and to Grosse Pointe. There were so many positive things this season . . . I see no negative aspects to our football program."

Eastern Michigan League champion South finishes the season at 9-1; Detroit Henry Ford (10-0) will play Birmingham Brother-Rice, the favorite to win the Class A title, at Groves High School this weekend.

South had six players named first team All-League selections, including: fullback Paul Hawk, quarterback John Williamson and tight end Darren DeSmyter on offense; guard Steve Reynolds, tackle John Mikesell and halfback Brian Rathsburg on defense. Second team All-League defensive selections include guard Jim Kretzchmar, back Tony Tocco, end Steve Carrier, tackle Chris Marshall and Jim Arnold.

Darren DeSmyter (No. 22) had a bird's eye view of what South players and fans had more than an eye full of last Saturday: Detroit Henry Ford catching passes. They also managed to run for big yards and make key tackles enroute to a 34-0 playoff win over the Blue Devils. (More photos on Page 2C).

Correction

Poor Dino Ricci.

Dino plays for the USA squad in the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association's Squirt House Division. Dino scored his team's only goal in a recent game, but a News account of that game published Nov. 10 contained an incorrect spelling of Dino's name.

To make matters worse, his mother said, Dino's name was also spelled incorrectly on an award he received recently, adding up to a very unlucky week for Dino, name-wise.

We hope this helps a little.

A bad day . . .

If the photo below, of South's Jim Arnold just missing a pass in the endzone doesn't indicate how bad South's day was . . . the one at right should. Those tired-looking fellows are the mainstay of South's defense, Jerry Holley, Steve Reynolds and John Mikesell, who played more than their share in Saturday's 34-0 loss . . . and those uniforms prove it. Football ranking system best, MHSSA officials say

By Greg Lapinski

Now in its ninth year, the computerized ranking system is presently the fairest and best way to determine which Michigan high school football teams will qualify for the Michigan High School Athletic Association Football Playoff Series, according to MHSSA assistant director Warren B. McKenzie.

The system has come under criticism this fall.

"It's the best system we have now," McKenzie said. "If anyone can come up with something better, we'll use that one. But until then . . ."

Basically, the computer point system works like this: a team is awarded points for each win — the number of points earned are based on the class of the opposition (A,B,C,D). In addition, bonus points are awarded for the number of wins an opponent you defeated has compiled.

The total playoff points are added up and divided by the number of games that team has played. Bonus points for each opponent are added separately and written as a fraction, with the sum of the bonus points as the numerator and the number of games played as the denominator. The fractions are then added and reduced to a decimal number to determine the playoff average.

Each year, however, it seems that some teams which appear to be solid contenders for the state championship do not qualify for the playoffs because they have not compiled enough computer points. This is often due to a generally weak schedule, or an unlikely loss sometime during the season.

This year is no exception. Marysville High School, which finished 9-0 and outscored its opponents 435-20, did not make the Class B state playoffs because its opponents did not win enough games.

Defending Class A State Champion Farmington Harrison virtually eliminated itself four weeks ago when it suffered a fluke loss to a team that had won only one game previously. Many who are knowledgeable about the subject agree Harrison is still one of the top high school football teams in Michigan — although it will not get a chance to prove it this year.

McKenzie said the point system was set up and approved by the Michigan High School Coaches Association and the MHSAA, and made it clear those who do not qualify for the playoffs do not meet the established criteria and therefore should not be there.

He said the system is as fair as possible and a meeting is held each year after the playoffs to eliminate any flaws and improve the system. Some observers suggested the playoffs be expanded to include 16 teams, instead of eight thereby lengthening the season by a week.

McKenzie was firmly against this idea. "No way," he said bluntly.

According to McKenzie there are several reasons why the present system cannot be expanded. One is because since the MHSAA uses the Pontiac Silverdome for the state finals, the season must be completed by the first Saturday following Thanksgiving.

"We (MHSAA) are guaranteed the Silverdome on the first Saturday after Thanksgiving because the Lions play a Thanksgiving game every year," he said.

Money, of course, is another problem. "If we expanded the season by a week, that means extra pay for every high school coach," McKenzie explained. "Multiply that by every high school in the state and then realize that a lot of school districts can't afford athletics as it is."

He also said moving back the season another week, into August, would create a lot of conflict with kids leaving for family vacations and the like. McKenzie then emphasized that those involved lose sight of what is most important.

"Athletics can't come first," he said. "The family and education have to come first. It's a question of priorities."

Falcons end football year

St. Clare of Montefalco defeated Livonia St. Michael, 16-0, Nov. 6, in an abbreviated exhibition game at the Pontiac Silverdome, to close a very successful season. The Falcons won eight games this season, losing only to Center Line St. Clement, 6-0, in overtime.

In the Nov. 6 game, touchdowns were scored by Rodger Hunwick on a 76-yard run and Jad Pablo on a 36-yard sprint. Doug Lucas kicked both extra points. Lucas had five tackles, while Junior co-captain Kris Robbins is the No. 1 singles player at Dartmouth; Heidi Henkel plays field hockey at Pine Manor.

Peter Astfalk and Hunwick had four each. Lucas and Lou Dobbs each registered an interception.

For the season, Lucas, a full-back, topped the team in rushing with 494 yards in 79 carries for a 6.3 average. He was also the overall offensive leader with a total of 556 yards, and top scorer with 72 points on six touchdowns and 18 of 23 extra points.

Tailback Mike Paull followed with 409 yards (.371 rushing, 5.6 average). Quarterback Hunwick had 174 yards passing on 18 completions in 46 attempts, and another 167 yards rushing in 52 attempts (3.2 avg.) for a total of 341 yards. He also tallied nine touchdowns and a one-point conversion.

Defensive leaders were Astfalk with 40 tackles; Hunwick, 35; Jeff Fikany and Lucas, 29 each; and Vince McDuffy, 28. Mike Calcaterra had five interceptions.

Fuqua will swim

Grosse Pointer Sam Fuqua is listed on the Macalester College men's swim team pre-season roster.

Fuqua, a sophomore, is expected to compete on the St. Paul, Minn., school swim squad this season. The team participated in Minnesota time trials in October and opens its season at home Nov. 29.

Lining up for Albion . . .

The Albion College Britons got off to a good start this year, including a 35-17 win over Wabash, ranked ninth nationally among NCAA Division III colleges . . . and they had plenty of help from two former Pointe prep football players. Freshman John Polizzi (right) was a valuable member of the University Liggett School Knights during his football stint there; the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Polizzi, of Wellington Place is now kicking for the Britons.

Double rowing win for Fuchs

Pointe rower Paul Fuchs bounced back from a disappointing finish in the world rowing championships to take two single lightweight sculling wins in October.

Rowing for the DBC in Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 23, Fuchs, of Roslyn Road, won the Head of Charles Three Mile Rowing Regatta. His time of 17:30.04 beat the second place finisher by 31 seconds and shattered the course record by 27 seconds.

At the 2 3/4 mile Head of the Schuylkill race in Philadelphia Oct. 29, Fuchs won the single lightweight sculling crown with his time of 16:40, 24 seconds ahead of the second place finisher.

On the same course, Fuchs teamed up with Jo Hannafin, of the New York Rowing Association, to win the mixed doubles sculling event. They finished in 16:56, seven seconds ahead of the second place pair.

Least Favorite Post-Season High School Football Game: Last Saturday's South-Henry Ford debacle. I could take the mud, the cold, and even the score: a 34-0 win for Ford . . . but I'll never be able to swallow the nasty remarks made by Blue Devil fans who started filing out during the third quarter. It seems to me that a team which has run together back-to-back unbeaten seasons deserves fans who don't stoop to thinly-veiled racist remarks about the opposition and sarcastic shouts about their own coach's ability.

It was, after all, only a game, folks.

Red Barons end season

The Red Barons' football season ended Nov. 6 — but not before the varsity put on a show, winning one and tying one in the last two weeks of play.

On Oct. 30, a tough ballgame against the Shelby Lions saw a defensive struggle end up in a 13-0 victory for the Barons. Late in the first half, Matt Dillenback picked off a Shelby pass in the flat and raced 15 yards for the touchdown. The extra point was no good and the Barons took a 6-0 lead into halftime.

Rich Regalado took a handoff from Scott Smith, broke to his left, and behind a great block by Lance Harding, scampered in for the final score of the day to give the Red Barons the 13-0 win.

Then the Barons traveled to St. Clair Shores to face the Green Hornets. The freshmen and JV squads lost handily to their Hornet counterparts, but the varsity played a hard-fought game which ended in a 6-6 tie.

The Barons scored first behind the brilliant running of Regalado and Dom Martiotti; the extra point was no good and Grosse Pointe led, 6-0. The second half was all rough and tumble football and the Green Hornets scored late in the half after a long drive. The try for the winning extra point was stopped on a great tackle by Scott Smith.

The 1983 Red Baron squads had up and down seasons. Their league, the E.S.F.L., has become a very competitive one, led by Northeast Detroit, Denby and St. Clair Shores. Many of the Red Baron players will go on to play high school football with the Grosse Pointe North and South squads; others will form the nucleus of the 1984 Red Baron team.

Red Baron players and coaches sent thanks to many of the fathers who spent time assisting the team this season. The freshmen squad was coached by Bob Kutcher and Dave Cromar and their assistants; the JV's by Ray DeMeulemeester, Ron Kefgen and John Mogk; and the varsity by Don Stoeckel, Paul Garner, Pat Meathe and Randy Stebbins. Rick Moore added some late season assistance at the varsity level.

The football players draw most of the attention, but the Red Barons' cheerleading squads should be recognized for the fine year they had. The cheerleaders were coached by Cindy Pangborn.

Freshmen cheerleaders were Annie Maliszewski, Molly Wright, Patti and Chrissy Livermore, Natalie Cespedes and Kelly Weir. Cheering for the JV teams were Donielle Ashley, Kristy Stephenson, Becky Devine, Mandy and Cassie Pangborn. Varsity cheerleaders were Jenny, Kelly and Kristy Pietz, Andrea Kozak, Shelle and Amy Acord, Amy O'Hara, Christi Buell, Kelly and Jenny Reitzloff, Melissa Dickenson, Lisa Fleming, Amy Bliss, Lisa Burke, Melissa Bliss, Katie and Lauren Hutton and Carrie Cassara.

North cagers near title

By Rick Markel
North High

Coming off a big week with wins over L'Anse Creuse and Dearborn Edsel Ford, North's girls' basketball team has upped its record to 12-6. With a 9-2 mark, the Norsemen have a great shot at winning the Bi-County league title.

In what Coach Gary Bennett called the team's "biggest game," North came out a 54-31 victor over L'Anse Creuse (putting North in a first place tie). As usual, solid defense played a big role in the decisive win. Taking a 28-11 halftime lead, North was in control all the way. Celeste Sartor had 20 points, Paula Harms added 11 rebounds, and Pam Boesiger totaled seven steals, to help the Norsemen cause.

Against Dearborn Edsel Ford, North once again assumed a large halftime margin (28-12) and controlled most of the game. Leading the way was Sartor who poured in 12 points while Dawn Cartwright and Paul Harms chipped in eight points apiece.

The season hasn't been that easy for North. Getting off to a slow start, the team suffered a few early season blowouts. To turn around the year North simply went back to the basics, shoring up fundamental skills like shooting and ballhandling, and Norsemen just kept on working hard in practice.

"Now we're competitive all the way around," says Coach Bennett. "They have an excellent attitude," continued the coach.

Strength underneath has been North's bread and butter all season. With Michelle Witt and Sartor, North has not only height but also rebounding power. By controlling the boards, the Norsemen have a good shot at winning most of their games.

"Winning games" is even more important now as the season winds down. North will look forward to wrapping up a league championship and competing in the state tournament today, Nov. 17.

JV, frosh split

North's JV girls' basketball team rolled to its 11th Bi-County win, as it defeated L'Anse Creuse, 35-30. Getting off to a quick start, the Norsemen seized a 20-6 half-time advantage. North never eased up and hung on for the win. Julie Cook had a game-high 10 points and Leslie Talos added eight points to lead the winners.

North wasn't as fortunate in its next outing, as a last second shot gave Dearborn Edsel Ford a hard-fought 42-40 victory over North. Falling behind early the Norsemen were forced to play catch up ball for most of the way. They did finally tie it up 40-40 with 15 seconds left, but that proved to be plenty of time for Edsel Ford. Leslie Talos and Julie Cook each pumped in eight points for North. The team's record now stands at 13-5.

The girls' freshmen basketball team concluded its season on a losing note as North was defeated by South, 39-22. Down by only four at the end of the first quarter, South exploded and won easily. Hillary Hall topped North with 11 points. Their record was 6-6.

Swimmers qualify

Led by super freshmen Sandy Smith and Ann Verona, North's swim team heads into the Bi-County league meet. Based on the team's previous performances against league teams, North should do quite well. Ideally, Coach Scott Teeters would like to see a few more of his swimmers qualify for the state competition.

Norsemen that are already qualified for the state meet include undefeated diver Ann Attar, Sandy Smith and Sarah Robichaud. The medley relay team will also see state action. With this kind of a field representing North at the state, Coach Teeters envisions a top 20 finish.

Said Coach Teeters of the year, "It was a good year in which we developed a good background." He took first year competitive swimmers and through dedication and hard work turned them into a successful bunch; a group that now believes in itself and its capabilities.

The champs . . .

St. Clare's varsity volleyball team captured the Metro Detroit City Championship Oct. 23, defeating west-side champ St. Hugo, 15-8, 14-16, 15-1 in the CYO finals at Dominican. The wins raised St. Clare's season mark to 28-0 and added another title to the girls' league, regional and Bishop Gallagher championships. The Falcons' five year record is 183-5. Coach Larry Hines' squad includes, from left to right, (front row) Lynn Mazure, Chris Schulte, Cece Rettig, Paula Hines, Theresa Vitale, Mari-Jane Garling; (back row) Hines, Jeanne Purrenhage, Roseanne Salomone, Megan Keller, Lila Wajeeh, Kim LaBranche, Karyn Valenti and manager Matt Haun.

Mite House

The Blue Dragons won their first game of the season, defeating the Rangers, 5-2. Terry Brennan opened the scoring for the Dragons on a pretty passing play by Matt Summers.

Second period action saw Amy Steckel score on a breakaway after picking up her own rebound to make the score 2-0. Terry Brennan scored once more, assisted by Amy and Steven Steckel. In the third period, the Rangers came out flying with two quick goals by Adam McDonald and Galin Dossin, assisted by John Wise, to make the score 3-2.

It was only after goalie Tony Marl stopped a number of shots that the Dragons regained their confidence and went on to score two late period goals by Todd Dunlap, assisted by Pat Brennan, that enabled them to notch the win.

KINGS-BRUIINS

Strong defense was the key in the Art Van Kings' 2-0 victory over the Bruins. M.J. Morris and Evislacio Covacha scored for the Kings with Jacob Thomas and Morris drawing assists. Defensemen Brian Holliday, Brent Kuhar and Sebastian Yofre worked hard on the C-line, as did Ali Bararsani and Augustin Yofre on the B-line. Bruin goalie Chuckie Schervish brilliantly stopped the Kings' A-line. Newcomer Bobby Rahaim recorded his first career win in the nets and will be awarded a shut-out patch.

KINGS-SEALS

The Kings and the Seals skated to a 2-2 tie in a game highlighted by tremendous goaltending. First period action saw the Seals' David Collins open the scoring. The Kings came back in the second when Rahaim and Holliday assisted Jacob Thomas on a goal.

Ski Hi Club sets season

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial invites all former and prospective Ski Hi members to its opening meeting of the 1983-84 season Monday, Nov. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the War Memorial's Fries Ballroom.

The meeting will include a short discussion of this year's trips, changes in procedures and rules and a review of all the policies of the club. Following this will be a more detailed meeting for all new members. Ski Hi Director Jack Dotson will explain the club's policies and procedures in detail, as well as trip procedures.

Memberships will be taken before and after the general meeting. Cost is $6 for former members and $7.50 for new members, which includes a Ski Hi patch to be worn on each skier's jacket. Sign-up for all trips will also be taken throughout the evening.

Eight trips have been planned for the club this season, including one weekend trip and two day trips. Five Friday evening trips are scheduled to Pine Knob Ski Resort: Dec. 16, Jan. 6 and 20, and Feb. 10 and 24.

Students are required to use the Ski School program at Pine Knob where they are graded according to their proficiency and allowed only on the slopes they have earned patches for. They are required to take lessons to improve their skills and be graded accordingly. This program has helped to cut the accident rate nearly in half and also helps to teach students proper and safe skiing.

Cost of the Pine Knob trips is $16.50 each and includes round trip bus transportation, lift tickets, ski insurance and chaperoneage. Trips are on a first-come basis and are limited to four busses each trip.

Then on a pass from Danny Bombich, Pete Morgan found the net for the Kings. The Seals answered with a goal from Matt Kramer assisted by Jeff Huebner and Peter Blake to tie the score.

CANUCKS-PENGUINS

Strong goaltending by the Canucks' George Petersmarck, as well as the outstanding defensive play of Jeff Jensen, Garret Ryan, Greg Semack and Jamie Good-year, led to a 5-0 shutout of the Penguins.

Canucks' goal scorers were Tim Kazul, Kevin McCracken, Jeremy Church and Scott Partridge with two. Assists were had by Partridge and Kazul along with Matt Moroun, Jensen and a pair by Jay Berger. Outstanding play of Canucks' Everett Covacha and newcomer Peter Gracey should also be noted.

Penguin goaltender Dan Lefebvre played a strong game turning away many difficult shots. Other Penguins playing a strong game were Paul Slusser, Mike Petters and Paul Misiewicz.

Pee Wee House

USA-FLAMES

The USA Olympians became the first Grosse Pointe Pee Wee hockey team to defeat a St. Clair Shores team with a 4-2 victory over the Flames. John McGlone, Andy West and Jason Erbecker played well, as did goaltender Jim Bunn.

Renato Roxas started the scoring for USA on a pass from Eric Ryan. This was quickly followed with goals by Jonathan Davis and Jim Pappas with assists going to West, Nancy Alcott, Davis and McGlone. Roxas added the final goal on a pass from Rami Hanna and Erbecker. The Flames scored two late goals in the third period, but it was too late.

BLACK HAWKS-MAJOR MAGICS

The Mite House Black Hawks and Major Magics skated to a 1-1 tie last weekend.

Andy Baskel opened the scoring with his first goal of the season at 6:10 of the first period when he connected from a wild goal-mouth scramble which followed Nate Weid's blazing shot from the point.

The Major Magics got the equalizer at 10:45 of the second period when Matt Spicer fired a wicked wrist shot past Hawk goal Andy Brewer. A scoreless third period followed the end-to-end action with Major Magic goalie Chris Fox making several key saves against the Black Hawks' A-line. The last minute of the game featured three point-blank saves by Hawk goalie Brewer.

GPA soccer team wins

The Grosse Pointe Academy's sixth and seventh grade soccer team played ULS's combined sixth and seventh grade team Oct. 26, and in a well-played offensive battle, GPA scored the winning goal near the end of the second half to win, 3-2. Scoring for GPA were Peter Donaldson, Peter McDermott and seventh grader Anthony DeLuca.

On Friday, Oct. 28, GPA lost its last game of the season, 3-1, to St. Brendan on GPA's field. In a very close contest, GPA scored on a deflected kick from one of the opponents. GPA's coach this season was Tom Kelly, who joined the Academy staff in September.

On Sunday, Oct. 30, GPA's girls' soccer team met defeat, 5-0, at the hands of St. Brendan's. GPA had several scoring opportunities, but just could not put it in. John Kosmas was the girls' soccer coach this season.

GPA participated in cross-country at Oakland Christian School in Pontiac Oct. 28, in a combined race for all fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grade boys and girls.

Club softball season ends

You know winter is on its way when the last softball game is finally played in the Pointes. The Neighborhood Club's men's fall softball leagues ended in late October concluding six successful months of games in which thousands of youth and adults tested their abilities in over 1,000 games. Fifteen men's teams completed this fall in two divisions.

In the Blue Division, Borland-Earl Keim dominated the fall league and finished with a perfect 8-0 record, scoring 101 runs during the season while only allowing 34. In the tournament they won four straight to take the championship, defeating Suds in the Park, 12-9.

Suds had reached the final the hard way, losing the opening game of the tournament before reeling off four wins. Actually, the team had a 9-8 lead going into the sixth inning against Borland, but three singles and a double scored three runs to give Borland the victory. The champs were led by Don Quinn who went three-for-four including a home run and Bill Kendall with a single, double and triple.

In the Gold Division, Cellar Dwellers was the hot team in the tournament, winning four straight to take the title. They finished the season with an 8-3 record. In the opening tournament game they defeated D. & S. Equipment, 17-8, but D. & S. Equipment fought back through the losers' bracket to reach the finals. In the final game Cellar Dwellers held a 4-0 lead going into the fifth inning but held on when D. & S. Equipment struck for three runs.

Srebernak is honored

Grosse Pointe's Joe Srebernak, a senior offensive guard at Northwood Institute, has been named NAIA District 23 Offensive Player-of-the-Week for his role in Northwood's 38-14 win over Ferris State College Oct. 29. The 6-0, 235 pound co-captain led the NI offensive line in opening up holes for 450 yards in total offense. Srebernak, a South High graduate and son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Srebernak, of Lincoln Road, is the sixth NI player to earn the district 23 honor this season, but the first offensive lineman recognized as the district's Player-of-the-Week.

Picking up right where she left off last year is Albion College freshman Suzanne Carty. Carty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Carty, of Buckingham Road, is a member of the 1983 Albion college women's field hockey team. The squad started the season with a 4-1 record and was picked to finish high in the MIAA (Michigan Independent Athletic Association). Carty had a fine field hockey career at University Liggett School.

Pointe cagers are all even

The eighth grade girls' basketball teams at Brownell, Parcels and Pierce have completed very successful basketball seasons finishing the year with identical 9-3 records. This is the first time the three middle schools ended a season with the same win/loss record. The 9-3 records were better than any team's record on their respective schedules.

More important than the excellent records was the enthusiasm, dedication, teamwork and pride shown by the players and coaches.

Members of Brownell eighth grade team were: Kellie Buchanan, Susan Chappell, Barbara Denler, Lisa Fromm, Nicole Giomette, Laura Linder, Christa Mangus, and Debbie Miller. Team managers were John Applegate and Kirk Lowry. Paul Pellerito coached the squad.

Parcels eighth grade team was represented by Dawn Barla, Amy Brennan, Pam Benson, Michelle Berry, Janet Dunlop, Julie Eichhorn, Anne Finlan, Jolinda Fisher, Andrea Gustafson, Helen Mikelic, Monique VanAssche, Robin Wheatley, Nancy Woods and coach Peggy Van Eckoute.

Those eighth graders who represented Pierce were Erin Bruce, Jennifer Cruthis, Stephanie Dinka, Carolina Gaskins, Ardienne Hass, Linda Knight, Roseann MacConnachie, Christina Miller, Deanne Molinari, Nayiri Partamian, Jennifer Partridge, Patricia Pentecost, Margaret Peterson, Marianne Roy, Lisa Van Tassel, Kimberly Wittenhagen along with coach Dick Benoit.

Although the seventh grade teams did not compile a total win/loss record comparable to the eighth graders, they are anxiously looking forward to next year's competition. Members of Pierce's seventh grade team were Heather Adragna, Jill Agnew, GERALD Bocci, Katherine Bruch, Maya Davis, Kimberly DiGregorio, Lorraine Geist, Amy Hathaway, Elizabeth James, Megan Nelson, Dana Paull, Amy Steben, Antonia Tedesco, Lori VanTassel, Sarah Verlinden, Antoinette Wittenhagen and Marinda Wilcher along with coach Jim Ireton.

Parcels seventh grade team members were Lucy Barry, Anne Bakunovich, Joanie Conlan, Angie Drumm, Amy Grierson, Carrie Gutow, Krista Hill, Kyungsoo Hurr, Laura Kuntzman, Christine McCarthy, Cindy Smith, Shari Smith, Mary Spiewak, Laura Wilson, and Heather Witt. They were coached by Ann Anderson.

Brownell's seventh grade team was comprised of Tricia Buccellato, Meegan Connolly, Christine De Four, Laura DeMercurio, Leigh Leonard, Meredith Lincoln, Carrie Martin, and Kristin Peslar along with team managers, Matt Aldrick, Andre Bielski, Kenny Krausmann, and coach Christopher Bielski.
