

Fire fun

About this time last year we wrote about Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber and the bad luck he has with his sports coats. Seems that he set one on fire last December while attending a Christmas party thrown by former Farms councilman Jim Unfortunately for the chief, he was wearing it at the time. Luckily, he wasn't injured.

Bearing this in mind, Farms Mayor Pro Tem Joe Fromm showed up at this year's party prepared for the worst, decked out in a fireman's helmet and armed with a fire extinguisher. He even carried a letter from Farms'Fire Lt. Sam Candela, temporarily deputizing him as a fire fighter assigned to cover Chief Ferber.

But as usual, the top cop was way ahead of them all. He appeared at the party sporting a new coat and armed with an extinguisher of his own.

Smart. How do you think he got to be chief in the first place?

School news

When you're chosen as one of the 10 best high schools in the country, you rate a little air time. Accordingly, Channel 7 will feature Grosse Pointe South High School and Detroit's Southwestern High School in an hour-long documentary airing at 7 p.m. on Saturday evening, Jan. 28.

Staffers at WXYZ-TV said they began researching the program last summer after South was chosen as one of the nations' best by the Department of Education in Washington, D.C.

They spent about three weeks shooting at South and Southwestern, concentrating on five areas of concern at the two schools. The areas are order and discipline: curriculum and standards; teachers; funding and parental and community involvement.

The name of the program is "Special Report: Good Schools," and is hosted by Doris Biscoe. The producer of the show really had an inside edge when it came to researching his subject. He's Thomas LoCicero, brother of Grosse Pointe school board member Vincent LoCicero.

Cable comedy

If you're looking for a good time, you might try tuning in Gary Thison's new television program "Some Semblance of Sanity" due to premiere Monday night, Jan. 16, at 9 p.m. on Channel 6, the local programming channel for Grosse Pointe Cable

According to Thison, a local loon who performs a very funny comedy-magic act at the Sierra Station, the format includes interviews, comedy routines and magic with some of the nation's funniest new faces. The premiere show highlights com-edian-actor Mike Rapport, who's appeared in TV's "New Odd Couple" show, plus the comedy clubs of LA. Rapport will also be starring in a soon-to-be released movie titled "Hard Bodies," which Thison assures me isn't "x-rated.

"As you know Tom, most local programming tends to be pretty bad. Very boring and routine, droned Thison in a recent telephone interview. "And we don't intend to be any different. No, not really. It promises to be a lot of fun and a step above most local programs.

That's the question I've been asked a thousand times since I've been home," smiled Hacala, a trim 21-year-old. "I was sleeping in a bunker at the other end of the airport when it happened. I had just finished radio watch and hit the rack at about 6 a.m. At 6:40 the corporal of the guard called and told me the that rising black column of smoke only three of us left now. and knew 200 or 300 hundred guys

"That's my buddy Joe," said Mark. "He was killed in the explosion. He was a corpsman, just like me. What a lot of people don't realize is that between 20 and 30 of the dead were in the Navy. There were people helping out from the Italian, French, British and Lebanese forces," said Hacala. "Plus sailors and corpsmen from the ships off shore were volunteering to come and help. It wasn't 'jarhead' and 'squid' anymore. We were all Americans.

According to Hacala, the entire four-story complex was pancaked down to one level. Equipment and personal belongings littered the area. "There were ponchos, wallets, boots, clothes, knapsacks, you name it, all over the area," said Mark.
"There were also a lot of journalists getting in the way. The network guys weren't too bad, but some freelancers would jump in with their cameras when bodies were brought out. We learned to hate them."

A happier note was struck with the rescue of Marine Chaplin Dan Wheeler, who was buried alive in the rubble. "One of our favorite people in Beirut was the Catholic Chaplin, Captain Pucciarelli," smiled Mark. "He was a real joker who kept us relaxed. He was on the scene and looking for Chaplin Wheeler, who we knew was somewhere under the concrete. Then Father Pucciarelli found Chaplin Wheeler's purple advent stole draped over a piece of steel, pointing straight down. It wasn't dirty, torn or anything. Captain Pucciarelli got a bunch of Marines and started digging there. They found Chaplin Wheeler under tons of concrete, wounded but alive. He was lucky he made it. When they took him away on a stretcher to an ambulance somebody told me he said the scene was 'just like on M.A.S.H.'

As soon as possible, Mark called his parents to let them know he was okay. Happily, the Navy had contacted his parents, Martin and Carol, the day before via a special phone hook up.

Woods threatens suit to halt bridge

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Woods council Monday agreed to file a lawsuit against the state and federal highway departments in order to block the widening of the Old Eight Mile bridge at I-94.

The council asked city attorney George Catlin to wait until next Tuesday to file the papers in Wayne County Circuit and U.S. District courts to allow the city one last chance to reach agreement with Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores over the effect the widened bridge will have on traffic into the northwest end of the Woods.

The circuit court action against the state Transportation Department will seek a restraining order against the widening of the bridge until the department files an environmental impact study, according to the proposed suit.

THE LITIGATION will also seek a court order to compel the state to prepare and have approved a environmer.tal impact study of

Hospital may build on Jefferson

By Harriet Nolan

Bon Secours Hospital and the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology (DIO) want to build a multi-million dollar medical office building on the corner of Nottingham and Jefferson and asked the Grosse Pointe Park City Council permission to set the chain of events in motion at its meeting Monday, Jan. 9.

David W. Benfer, chief executive officer of Bon Secours Hospital, and Philip C. Hessburg, M.D., president and medical director of DIO, pre-sented council with a letter of intent, application to form an Economic Development Corporation and permission to have a public hearing at the next council meeting scheduled for Monday, Jan. 23.

The proposed 35,000 square foot structure would house the DIO, Bon Secours Ambulatory Surgery Center, physicians offices for Ophthal-mic Surgeons, P.C. and other private physician offices, said Benfer and Hessburg who attended the

Its use would be restricted to regular business hours and would not allow for any overnight stay of patients. The site for the venture is owned by DIO and would be extended onto the adjacent Automobile Club of Michigan site, which is currently being eyed as a joint purchase by DIO and Bon Secours, said Benfer.

Construction of the $5 million dollar facility is expected to begin this summer and will be completed by mid 1985, said Benfer. The formation of the EDC will enable the group to finance the project by selling tax free bonds.

It was incorrectly reported last week that Former First Lady Betty Ford will make two appearances in Grosse Pointe. Mrs. Ford will speak Jan. 26 at South High School. The first lecture of the follow-up series Feb. 1, will develop ideas Mrs. Ford discussed during her lecture, "Dependence: A Personal Perspec-

The U.S. District Court action will seek to prevent the Federal Highway Department from paying its share of the funds for the widening of the bridge until the state has complied with the federal agency's rules and files an er vironmental impact statement on the project, Catlin said in a letter to the council.

The city, in its circuit court action, claims the traffic from the bridge goes into the northwest end of the city causing excessive traffic. In addition, with the completion of I-696, the state Transportation Department expects the use of the bridge to increase substantially, the city charges.

The city also charges the state has not fited an environmental impact study for the project as part of federal fransportation rules and regulations. The statement would have to be filed with the federal highway authority and public hearings be scheduled to give those affected a chance to comment, according to the suit.

The state didn't file and prepare an environmental impact statement, according to the lawsuit. The Woods, because of the widening of the bridge, will be adversely affected by the increased traffic into its residential areas, the suit

The council decided to wait until next Tuesday to file the court action in hopes of finding some other solution to the problem by talking with the adjoining cities, city officials said.

The council could stop the litigation at next Monday's meeting should it reach some other solution to the traffic problem at the bridge, officials added.

The council also sent to the state transportation department a request for an engineering study to find a solution to the problem of bridge traffic and to possibly redesign and relocate the on-and-off-(Continued on Page 16A)

Graduation gets tougher

By Susan McDonald

The school board agreed Monday to give some 3,000 high school students a chance to take one extra class each semester as part of a broad program to upgrade academic standards in the secondary schools.

The new, seven-period schedule will be implemented at both North and South High Schools next fall, according to Supt. Kenneth Brummel. The length of the school days will remain the same and each class period will be cut to 48 minutes.

The expanded program could cost the system as much as $400,000, Brummel warned. But he said the cost will probably be much lower as students sign up for classes that aren't now filled to capacity; lowenrollment classes are dropped from the schedule; and low priority capital expenditures are deferred. Figures will not be available until after registration is completed.

The move to a seven-period day was hailed by parents from both North and South, who said their college-bound teens are often forced to drop worthwhile classes because of scheduling problems with the current six-period format. Board member Jon Gandelot said the action "gives students a better opportunity for a good education.

"This is really what excellence in education is all about," he said. The new schedule goes in hand with tougher graduation requirements approved by the Board of Education in December. The number of units required to earn a diploma was increased from 20 to 21 and the number of required courses increased from 10 to 14.5 units. Among the required units are four years of English, two years each of math and science and added semesters of social studies, health and fine or practical arts.

State schools Supt. Phillip Runkel was expected to announce yesterday a new plan that will require local districts to upgrade their graduation requirements. Grosse Pointe's new policy apparently will satisfy most of the state's proposal, with the exception of a requirement for computer education, which is not included in the local schools'

The seven-period schedule was not greeted with cheers by everyone, however. Teachers in three departments at North High School had opposed the plan. And, because of the opposition, at last week's school board study session, Supt. Brummel was prepared to recommend the plan be implemented only at South High next year and at North the following year. The superintendent changed his mind after many parents, including Bob Roney who was present at the study session, protested.

Gordon Morlan, a science instructor at North, said teachers in science, math and social studies departments there were concerned

Good news for Hill merchants?

Farms revives Richard land swap

By Susan McDonald

A land swap between two local government units could be the solution to a parking problem that has nagged businessmen on the Hill for years. But this week, bargainers are still far from sealing a deal.

The exchange between the city of Grosse Pointe Farms and Board of Education involves the land around Richard Elementary School. The Farms' latest proposal asks the school board to trade 21,700 square feet of unused land on Kercheval Avenue in front of the school in exchange for about 9,500 square feet of McMillan Road from Richard to Ridge.

The closed-off road would be landscaped and turned into a large continuous playground from Richard to Messner field. The land in front of the school would be paved for parking.

"Parking is definitely the greatest problem and the greatest need on the Hill," said its merchants' association president, Pat Reynolds, owner of the League Shop. "There's really nowhere else for us to go for parking. Our buildings back up to the yards of private homes and all the available spaces are used constantly," she said. The land swap has been subject of negotiations for decades. The last formal proposal from the Farms, in April, 1979, was called a "bummer deal" by one school. board trustee. He said the Farms "is asking us to give up 22,000 square feet of prime commercial land for 9,000 square feet and a bunch of dirt.

The Farms has sweetened its offer since then, agreeing to pay the $66,800 estimated cost for demolishing the road, building a cul-de-sac and landscaping the

We are very anxious to develop parking in that area," said Farms City Manager Andrew Bremer. "That's our last offer and we believe it will cover the costs of converting the street to playground." School administrators, on the other hand, aren't convinced the job can be completed for $86,800 and want the city to agree to cover all the costs. They estimate the value of their land to be more than $500,000. School administrators presented the Farms' offer to the board on Jan. 4 and the apparent concensus of the trustees was that the Farms hasn't offered enough. "We have the land and, so far, I haven't heard a serious offer to buy," said trustee Roger Mourad. But school board president Joan Hanpeter said she thinks the schools have an obligation to the merchants

'I'd very much like to see us offer parking there and to our many library patrons" at Central Library across the street from the proposed lot, she said. Trustee Jon Gandelot suggested the administration investigate the possibility that the school system could operate a parking lot on the site on its own.

The Farms' Bremer thought that was a great idea. 'If the school board wants to (develop the property) that's great, as long as they open it up to shoppers," he Bremer said the city hopes to use a $50,000 federal grant to finance the project. The grant however, must be designated for a specific project by June.

Another group which must be consulted on the land swap is the parish of St. James Lutheran Church, located on McMillan Road where the cul-de-sac would be built, according to the school board's Mrs. Hanpeter. There are no private homes on the block.

Woods police are looking for a white couple who tried to pass a forged prescription Saturday afternoon, Jan. 7, at Hollywood Pharmacy, 20853 Mack.

Police were called to the store by employes who reported a white presciption. When officers arrived, employes told them the woman had been pulled from the store by a white man in his late 20s. The couple drove away in a green car of unknown make.

Employes said the woman was white, between 23 and 26, with auburn hair, wearing a purple top and blue jeans under a white jacket with a fur collar. She came into the store and presented a prescription to the pharmacist, who checked with the issuing doctor. The doctor said the prescription was forged. employes said, and the pharmacist called police.

Fourteen Woods homes get lawn jobs

A rash of lawn jobs occurred in the north end of the Woods last weekend. At least 14 incidents were reported in two possibly unrelated incidents on Brys. Blairmoor and Canterbury.

Ten homes were reported to have been hit in the 1400 and 1600 blocks of Brys. Most often, tracks were found between the house and sidewalk across the front lawn, with an occasional half-circle where the vehicle turned, according to re-

One Brys resident said she saw headlights even with the first floor bedroom window about 3:15 that morning. Although she heard a loud crunching noise, she told police she thought it was a car driving on the icy snow in the street, reports said.

About 9:35 that morning, the homeowners called police to report that a four-wheel-drive vehicle of some kind had driven along the sidewalk of the home, through a hedge bordering the front lawn. onto the lawn where it turned around and drove back through the Police believe the vehicle involved to be a newer model of four-wheel drive vehicle because of the narrow gauge of the tire tracks. Investigators also say the damage to the hedges appeared to be from tires, not from the undercarriage of the vehicle.

The damage to the lawns couldn't be estimated because of the snow and ice covering them, reports said. jobs.

The next day, police were called to a Blairmoor home on the report of a lawn job. Investigating the rest of the north end, police found three homes on Canterbury which also appeared to have had cars drive onto the lawns.

Most common damage in the four Saturday incidents was the driving across the easement between the sidewalk and the street, reports said. One Canterbury home had a vehicle drive all the way up onto the lawn between the house and sidewalk, according to reports.

Police believe the same vehicle committed the vandalism along Canterbury and Blairmoor, but were unsure of the same vehicle committed all the weekend's lawn

Interview with Hertel

A year of progress for county

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Last year was a good one for county government, but the board of commissions is going to be faced with a number of tough decisions during 1984, according to First District Commissioner John Hertel.

During its first year, the board accomplished a number of things, including getting a handle on the county's real deficit, approving contracts with major concessions from employes and beginning to learn its role as the legislative arm of county government, he said.

There were many, many fights during the first few months between the commission and Bill Lucas, Hertel said. "Those disputes have diminished in both number and decibel level. Those who have had the most difficulty in adjusting have been the hold-over commissioners.

Among the things the commission has done this year is put into place a budget that starts the county on the road to fiscal integrity. One major mistake made by County Executive Bill Lucas was his proposal last year that the commission consider a one-mill tax increase to help balance the county budget, Hertel

That proposal fell on deaf ears, Hertel said. Commissioners reiected the idea of a tax increase and instead looked to cut the budget because the economy and the inefficiency of the old form of government wouldn't justify a tax increase, he said.

Underlying the current budget are a couple assumptions, Hertel conceded. The county must solve its problem with Wayne County General, its new jail annex as well as other problems in order to balance its first budget under the new char-

For example, the current budget for the fiscal year Dec. 1 to Nov. 30 allocated $4 million for the operation of Wayne County General Hospital and medical care for the indigent, Hertel said. The hospital has a current operating deficit of about $14 million.

The county should either sell or close the facility, Hertel said. If a single buyer can't be found, perhaps a consortium of hospitals could buy the facility after county employes have been laid off to allow them to buy the facility unencumbered.

To provide health care for the incounty has already negotiated for services through four hospitals in the county, including of services were made, Hertel said. Holy Cross on the east side. Not only does it bring service nearer northeast area residents, but solves one of the problems of having an indigent care program in Westland, Hertel said. "If a person is indigent, how are they supposed to get all the way to Westland?" he asked.

The problem of the new jail annex may be a serious one, not only for the county, but for the state as well, Hertel said. The current facility is reduced to holding 719 persons a day, and because it chronically exceeds that number, those awaiting trial for certain felonies are often released, he said.

The county is currently using the Detroit House of corrections, which was reopened to handle 50 detainees. The county is also housing 250 felony detainees at the M Building on the Westland Hospital

The use of both facilities is being challenged. The use of the hospital property was challenged by the Mayor of Westland, who asked for the removel of the detainees because Westland could not provide adequate fire protection for the site. At the same time the use of DeHoCo is being challenged because of its poor conditions. "It looks like a used concentration camp," Hertel Overshadowing these two immediate problems is the new jail facility, which the county can't open because the millage meant to build and operate the facility ran out this year, paying only for the construction of the site, Hertel said. Should the county be forced to move its detainees from both M Building and DeHoCo, it will have filled its new facility with current detainees, leaving little or no room for future detainees, he added.

On top of that, the new jail was built as a trustee facility, a minimum-security lay-out, Hertel said. The county, however, needs room for maximum security detainees, and when the builders turn over the keys to the new facility, the bills should soon be coming for the improvements needed, he said.

There are some bright spots to the new jail, however, Hertel said. It will be the facility that employes a new grade of officer recently bargained into a contract with the Wayne County Sheriffs. The facility will also contain computer monitors to aid jailers in supervising detainees, he said.

While the commission and the county as a whole face problems in the coming years, last year was one where improvements in the struc- year," he noted.

For First District residents, including Grosse Pointers, it means better service from the Road Commission as well as marine patrols and boater safety courses through the Wayne County Sheriff Department, Hertel said.

Meetings between city managers from the Pointes and Harper Woods and road commissioners have brought about better service as well as the possibility of completing Lakeshore Road and additional maintenance for some stretches on I-94, Hertel said.

Hertel, still a party to a lawsuit against the administrators union at the Road Commission, would not comment on the question of bringing the Road Commission under the control of the county executive.

"Ultimately, how the services are delivered are more important than the structure of county govern-ment," Hertel said. "There's been just a quantum leap in the amount of service the road commission is doing now. It's not where I want it yet, but it's getting better.'

The same can be said for County government, according to Hertel. While it is improving, it may take all of the allotted five years in the fiscal integrity plan as well as couple more to bring the county to the level is should operate at, he said.

One problem has been the inability for some hold-over commissioners to learn they make legislative and not administrative decisions, Hertel said.

Ultimately, it will depend on the number and divisiveness of the upcoming political battles the county will face as it tries to reorganize, Hertel said. Election results this year could possibly unseat some hold-over commissioners and ease the way for reorganization, he

And, with his term expiring in December this year, Hertel said he will be running again for the commission. Despite the number of positions he was supposedly in line for last year, Hertel said the only one that interested him was the directorship of the Agriculture Department. With that filled, he has no longing for any appointed position, he added.

Something new for the commission are meetings scheduled in the district. Hertel said. A meeting for the First District will be held in Harper Woods sometime in February, he added.

Shores closes sledding hill

Grosse Pointe Shores closed its stedding hill behind Vernier School last week, saying the icy conditions on the surface made it unsafe.

Police closed the hill Monday afternoon, Jan. 2, after coming to the hill on the report of an injury. Officers said the sledding surface was 75 percent ice. In addition, a fence to keep kids from using the back side of the hill had been removed.

Police cleared the hill and posted

"Hill Closed" signs.

Police came to the hill that afternoon on the report of an injury and found a 13-year-old local boy lying unconscious on a sled. According to other users of the sled hill, the boy was standing at the bottom of the hill and sticking his foot in front of uncoming sleds to unseat the riders.

When the juvenile did get a foot in front of an oncoming sled, he was toppled head over heels and struck his head on the sledding surface, reports said. The boy was taken to the hospital after he regained consciousness.

The sled hill has been closed at various times since it was built in the early 1960's, village officials agree to retire before March 1 of this year. They will not be offered after this year, according to Supt. Kenneth Brummel. The policy could result in retirement of between six and eight administrators by the end of this school year.

New language governing administrator layoffs allows the superintendent some discretion in making assignments, instead of the old system dictated strictly by seniority. The policy states that seniority will be used as a guideline for filling jobs after an administrator is "deemed qualified by the superintendent of schools" for that position.

Supt. Brummel told the school board that he expects most administrative staff reductions, expected in coming years because of the system's continually declining enrollment, will take place through attrition. But if layoffs are

The new policy also prohibits building supervisors from taking vacation days before student vacation periods, unless they have permission from central office. Bonuses for administrators, based on annual evaluations, are set at a maximum of $1,000 for those receiving exemplary marks, to $250 for those receiving satisfactory.

Another addition to the policy prohibits administrators from accepting jobs "which require time from regular duties and for which there is financial compensation" unless they have permission from central office. The issue arose a few years ago when the former superintendent of schools, William Coats, accepted a professorship at University of Michigan while he was employed in Grosse Pointe.

Limiting the recall threat

"It is now entirely accurate to say that election to the Michigan Legislature is by a majority of the general electorate but service is at the pleasure of a minority of that electorate.

That is the rather surprising conclusion drawn by George E. Ward, a Detroit attorney who teaches at the Detroit College of Law and who served as chairman of the Wayne County Charter Commission, after viewing the recent recall of two state senators who had voted in favor of the 38 percent increase in the state income tax last year.

Ward contends that there ought to be "some reasonable equivalency between the general 'granting' majority and the special 'retracting' majority. So ne proposes three possible amendments to specify the "majority" required to effectuate a recall:

 A majority comprised of a number of votes equivalent to at least 50 percent of the votes cast for the candidates for the office of governor at the last preceding general election in the electoral district of the officer involved, or

 A majority comprised of a number of votes equivalent to at least 50 percent of the votes cast for all candidates for the office involved for the term involved, or

 A majority comprised of at least as many votes as were cast for the election of the officer involved for the term involved.

In an article in the Civic Searchlight, published by the nonpartisan organization that also puts out Voters Guides for Wayne and Oakland County residents, Ward recommended adoption of one of the recommended formulas in order to require a larger turnout of the electorate to effectuate a

He pointed out that state Sen. Philip Mastin was elected with 38,000 votes out of 79,000 cast for governor in the 8th District in November, 1982, but he was recalled last fall at the special election which attracted only 26,700 votes. This total represents only 34 percent of the general electoral turnout and is 11,000 votes fewer than the vote by which Mastin won his term a year earlier.

Ward quotes with approval a statement by Edmund Burke, the 18th century British statesman and writer, who said: "Your representative owes you, not his industry only, but his judgment; and he betrays instead of serving you if he sacrifices it to your opinion."

And then Ward adds that the most important issue raised by the recall of two legislators" is not whether the tax increase was wise or foolish but whether the current recall procedures make elected officials so vulnerable as to put Burke's ideal hopelessly (and undesirably) out of reach in Michigan.

In his article. Ward pointed out that until a Michigan Supreme Court decision in 1960, recall petitioners had to state reasons for recall that constituted malfeasance, misfeasance or nonfeasance. Until that opinion was handed down, it was legally insufficient to say merely that the petitioners disagreed with a vote cast or position taken, as was done in the cases of the two senators recalled last November.

Because the 1960 position was written into the Constitution, Ward did not suggest any change in that wording but did propose the legislative relief to protect officials against recall by a minority. Such a legislative amendment would also create a better balance, he wrote, between the "judgment" and "opinion" that Burke mentioned.

IN EFFECT, ADOPTION of one of Ward's proposals would reduce the threat of recall by a highly organized minority. That would benefit not only the honest and courageous officials who vote their convictions but also the majority that is well served by such officials but often fails to support them in recall elections.

But we don't recommend that our readers hold their breath until the Legislature acts. In the present political climate, legislators are adopting such a low profile on all controversial issues that they would be unlikely to have the courage to provoke new criticism from recall advocates by requiring that a larger proportion of the voters go to the polls to recall any public official.

Wayne County emerged from its first year of charter government with a number of im-pressive accomplishments — but it still faces major problems in financing services and reduc-

Those conclusions by John Hertel, the First District county commissioner whose constituency includes the Pointes, are encouraging but also realistic. We commend him for his own contributions to the county's improved record and for his willingness to spell out his own views to the public, as he has done in an interview reported in eater detail elsewhere in today's issue of the Grosse Pointe News.

Hertel says the county government was able in its first charter year to "get a handle on the deficit," which is estimated now at $132 million. Through new contracts and concessions from employes, the county was able to eliminate the cost of living adjustments, reduce the number of holidays observed and make other savings in

But the county commissioner, a member of the new and smaller 15-member board set up by the charter, also thinks significant progress was made in the functioning of county government. Some commissioners who had carried over from the old board found it difficult to adjust to their new status as legislators and not administrators. But Hertel backed County Executive William Lucas in his successful efforts to exercise the administrative authority granted under the charter. That means Lucas makes appointments with approval by the board and proposes the budget, subject to board acceptance, and thus carries on the responsibilities of an executive who can be held responsible for what does or does not happen.

HERTEL ALSO believes county residents now are getting more for their tax dollars, expecially on the east side. He says he persuaded the sheriff's office to provide a marine patrol and to meet with boat and yacht owners to improve compliance with regulations. Hertel himself also called a series of meetings between officials of the five Pointes and Harper Woods and the Wayne County Road Commission to get action on such matters as completion of the paving of Lakeshore Road, grass cutting, snow removal, road maintenance and other problems. Hertel himself feels that county services are being delivered better but still not as well as they should be.

As for the major problems ahead in county government. Hertel sees them as resolving the future of Wayne County General Hospital, increasing the capability of incarcerating criminals and completing county reorganization by consolidating the office of the drain commissioner and the public works department. The hospital issue is a controversial one but the institution is running at a $14 million a year deficit. It has the highest cost per patient day of any hospital in the state, it has the highest percentage of vacant beds, and it starts orderlies at an annual pay of $19,000 a year as contrasted with an average of $10,000 a year for other hospitals. Hertel says if the county can't sell the hospital, it should turn the institution over to the University of Michigan or a hospital consortium or close it. A SECOND MAJOR problem is financing the operation of the new jail which is not yet funded because all the millage funds were used for construction with nothing left for operations. Even worse, the jail has a capacity of just over 500 in-mates, which is less than that of the old jail, which already is overcrowded. Furthermore, according to Hertel, the new jail was designed as a trustee-type institution and yet the current need is for a maximum security prison. Hertel says more money will be required to make these changes, and such funds will have to be taken from other programs.

Hertel believes the drain commissioner's office ranks high in waste and inefficiency and should be abolished. Actually, he wants Lucas to get a charter amendment on the ballot to make the commissioner an appointed official or consolidate the office with the public works department. The charter commission originally proposed a reform of this nature but under political pressure retained the position as an elective

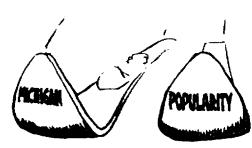

Even though Hertel at one time considered running for county executive himself and thus might be considered a potential rival of Lucas, the commissioner gives the county executive high marks for his performances even though he also finds Lucas guilty of some mistakes. Hertel calls Lucas "gutsy" and "innovative," even though the executive has been vilified by some of his former allies, including the Black Slate which is now seeking his recall.

Hertel felt, for example, that Lucas made a mistake in proposing a millage increase because of the county government's continuing inefficiency and the county's depressed economy. The county board rejected the proposal, which forced Lucas and the board into other economies. Hertel also thinks Lucas made a mistake in approving a county retirement program that included special benefits for Lucas' deputy who drafted the plan. And the commissioner contends a third mistake occurred when Lucas appointed his former deputy (when he was sheriff) as head of the office of emergency preparedness. Lucas was forced to withdraw this appointment after public and board criticism.

IN THE END, however, Hertel thinks the biggest county problems will be to balance the budget in view of the problems with the hospital, the unfinished jail and the drain commissioners' office. While he believes county government has been improved in the past year, its record still will not be very good unless it can meet these challenges. With an election ahead in 1984 for many county officials, including the commissioners themselves. Hertel points out it is difficult to know how long it will take to achieve a balanced budget and to elect county officials who will cooperate in bringing about further improvements in county government.

Hertel himself, who has been mentioned in recent years as a possible candidate for lieutenant governor, county executive and sheriff, now is talking only about running for reelection as a county commissioner. If he continues on his present course of supporting the county executive and in seeking to bring about more efficient and less costly county government, he should not have too much trouble in achieving that immediate aim.

Tis the season to be merry unless you happen to be a Grosse Pointe taxpayer who has just received his December tax bill.

Mine is up? percent this year due to a 10 percent increase in my school tax which is 77 percent of my total December taxes. Checking the July bill I find my school tax is 54 percent of my total Grosse Pointe taxes for 1983. With only 7,500 students — 45 percent less than the 13,313 of 10 years ago — why, oh why, do school taxes continue to skyrocket?

One obvious answer is that taxpayers are having to pay for facilities no longer needed. Why don't our school board members do something about it? Well, they are trying. For the first time in memory we have a board with the courage to tackle the job of doing the obvious eliminating wasting taxpayers' money on unneeded buildings.

Their initial plan was based on a year-long study by a dedicated, objective committee of public spirited citizens and called for closing four schools. Their carefully worked out plan — devised by our outstanding superintendent of schools - set forth a detailed program by which transferred students would be accommodated with a minimum of inconvenience to them and their parents. Under this plan, taxpayers would save $835,730 a year, $208,750

Jackson earns reader's respect

To the Editor: the editor alone, but to the community in general. After reading and hearing the news reports on the Reverend Jesse Jackson and his trip to Syria, I found it appalling that some of the public and government officials can belittle Jackson for his success. He should be respected instead of ridiculed. Whatever his personal reasons were for going to the Middle East, they are insignificant. The important fact is that Lt. Robert Goodman is back in the United States, where he should be, and Jackson is the one who brought him here.

If Jackson hadn't intervened, Goodman would still be in Syria, and still be a sign or reason for

The accusations that Jackson went to Syria only to gain political praise should be overlooked since. ultimately, he could be the only person who can help us avoid war in the Middle East by providing an opportunity for these two countries to negotiate for peace.

Another charge made was Jackson's mission was racist because he sought freedom for another black. This entire country be realized in income which might range from $50,000 to $150,000 annually. Further, selling the property might mean a significant onetime return to the taxpayers and, with a little luck, might even put the property back on the tax rolls and cause an annual return in tax dollars to the district. Now, multiply that by the four schools that were to be closed and you are talking about real money.

Immediately after this plan was announced, the parents of the affected elementary schools brought intolerable pressures on the board, including crude personal attacks against the integrity of members known to all of us as among our finest and most dedicated citizens, charging them with "mismanagement" and even "misappropriation." Pressures in-cluded the preposterous charge that closing unnecessary schools would depreciate property values by discouraging prospective pur-chasers, whereas the opposite is true. Most prospective buyers are much more concerned over skyrocketing taxes than proximity of

In my opinion, it's time for this country to realize that the color of a person's skin is irrelevant in one's quest for our nation's highest office.

The release of Lt. Goodman to Reverend Jackson proved to be an immense embarrassment to Reagan and his administration. They were unwilling to initiate any action that might lead to the rescue of Goodman. While Jackson, who has been fighting for the rights of blacks and minorities for most of his life, decided it was time for peace, now, and he would help. He again rose to the occasion and brilliantly pulled off this mission.

I believe that we, as Americans, need dramatic changes in our country, and the Reverend Jesse Jackson is the one to bring them to reality. We should not let the color of his skin influence us in our assessment of his worth to our government and what he can accomplish for us. I feel it's time for this nation to unite and to bring forth a color-blind society.

We have a right to wete

On Nov. 14, 1983, the Grosse Pointe Board of Education met and engaged in one of the basic guarantees of our constitution: the right to vote.

In a recent letter titled "A Personal Plea from Dorothy Kennel, Trustee," dated Dec. 9. Mrs. Kennel states "a small but vocal minority of elementary school parents is attempting to recall three school board members because of a school reorganization policy that was approved by the Board of Education by a 6 to 1 margin." The letter further states "the recall effort must have 6,734 signatures in order to put this question on the ballot." Mrs. Kennel don't sign a recall petition.' It is obvious to me, and hopefully equally clear to Mrs. Kennel, that the signing of a recall petition does not result in the immediate removal of a board member from office. The procedure does, however, permit placing on the ballot the auestion of whether or not these individuals should be recalled.

next implores the recipient,

The signing of a recall positions assures me, my neighbors and Mrs. Kennel our constitutionally guaranteed right to vote on this question.

If Mrs. Kennel, by her letter, is attempting to take away this right, perhaps it is time for the "small but vocal minority" to consider filing another petition.

Push for preservation

To the Editor:

As lifetime residents of Grosse Pointe, we are gratified to hear of the possible preservation and occupancy of the Webber House as part of plans to develop the property at 437 Lakeshore Road (Grosse Pointe News, 12-29-83). Adaptive reuse such as this has been highly successful in other parts of the country.

In considering this idea. Henry Ford II and William Caldwell display creativity and a regard for our local heritage. We urge those who advocate the retention of this Grosse Pointe landmark to write to: 457 Lakeshore Limited Partnership, 3001 West Big Beaver, Suite 230, Troy, Mich. 48084.

Bad timing for drivers

To the Editor:

The many Grosse Pointe commuters who travel downtown year-round are being "robbed." The bandit is the Detroit Department of Transportation which has allowed traffic signals to operate in violation of state standards for many years. The speed limit on Jefferson should also be reevaluated in light of the population and commerce decline along the thoroughfare.

The eastside commuters should organize to petition Detroit for an efficient way to drive daily. With only I-94 and Jefferson available, at least one of them should be free flowing to automobile traffic.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

It's all over for another year. Presents are now possessions. Cards have been perused and admired once more. All the holiday goodies are eaten. Resolutions are made and promptly broken but re-main an acknowledgment of one's shortcomings.

Now it's time for business as usual; time to settle back into a routine of work, leisure or both. Leisure activities can take many forms; sports, crafts, social groups or political action.

Recently, political action has become one of the more popular pursuits. With their swelling numbers (it is estimated that on any day in 1984, 5,041 people will reach age 65) older constituents realize they can be a powerful force in shaping their own destinies and that of the country by going to the polls,

Older people are not only voting, but are informing themselves on issues, particularly those which affect their interests. Almost weekly, issues arise that could affect their well-being. Proposals to change Social Security benefits or to adjust Medicare payments are two of the most important issues that require constant scrutiny by older voters, Only quick, concerted action by watchdog groups has prevented less than acceptable shifts in funding of these all-important, lifesustaining benefits.

For instance, last spring the Reagan administration reinterpreted the Medicaid statute permitting states to ask financially able children of Medicaid beneficiaries to help pay nursing home costs of their risen, the government is looking to relatives to help with the bills. Medicaid, a joint federal-state program to provide services for the medically needy, pays about 60 percent of the total nursing home bill. But in the last five years, Medicaid costs have risen 81 pernursing-home care is expected to quadruple from $20.7 billion to $83 billion. The states' share will go from $5.3 billion to $21.4 billion.

Who will take up the slack under this new regulation? The American family, currently so burdened with rising costs at every turn. Most families today have difficulty keeping up with expenses of raising a family, let alone trying to subsidize what they were led to believe would never be a problem.

As for those most affected, the older people, the blessings of Social Security and Medicaid were the independence and dignity they afforded. No one wants to be a burden, least of all someone who has lived many years and has carried the burden for others.

Right now, the ruling permitting states to ask for subsidies from families of older people has not been implemented. It is not likely relatives will receive an Medical nursing home bill for some time to come, but it bears watching because it could be put into effect as people live longer and, because of advanced age, require nursing-home

At this time, Idaho is the only state to respond and has become a test case. Family income and expenditures would be considered with the average contribution being $35 Up to now, the government absorbed a major portion of the costs, but because the cost of maintaining a resident in a nursing home has

The concept of families subsidizing nursing home costs has some strong support. The National Governor's Association, nursing home operators, some states and even a number of families contend that in addition to the financial boost for states, family involvement would have other fringe benefits. Children who help pay the bill might be more likely to visit their parents because they have a vested interest in the quality of care.

Those who oppose the measure believe the law would be inequitable and unenforceable. They worry that such a measure would give states the option of turning to families for even more help as health care costs continue to rise.

The general feeling is that the Idaho law will be challenged and reach the Supreme Court. While the bill's enactment is not of immediate concern, it is one that bears watching.

There is no doubt that funding nursing homes is a problem. Thanks to concerned groups, the old days when older people were placed in homes with substandard conditions no longer occur. Most of today's nursing homes offer reasonably good care, decent food and recreational facilities: 70 The Parel mo, beacording doodn't Evan Kakana(director of the Elderly Care Research/Center at Wayne State University, who has done research on the subject, "nursing homes are not the geriatric prisons many peo-residents do well in them.' This observation is the result of a four-year study of persons who entered nursing homes. Before she began her survey, Dr. Kahana had some concerns but she concluded that people who enter nursing homes can expect to live long and satisfied in those facilities.

ple imagine them to be and most

Dr. Kahana, a sociology pro-fessor, found about 10 percent of the subjects she researched improved sufficiently to return to their former lifestyles; 20 percent found the facilities better than they had expected; 10 percent thought they were worse than they expected and the rest said the homes met their expectations. The homes visited were commercial as well as churchrelated and non-profit facilities in Detroit and Cleveland.

The nursing homes Dr. Kahana studied were good ones and expensive to operate. More than likely those who resided there paid for their own care. But what happens if their funds run out? According to Medicare statistics, the average person runs out of funds in six

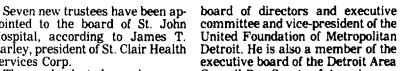

Recently there was a story in one of the papers about two women residents of a nursing home in the northern suburbs. Both of the women had used all their savings and were relying on the state-run Medicaid program to keep them in the home.

The daughter of one of them received a letter saying a list of nursing homes would be sent her to assist her in locating a new home for her mother. It came as a shock because she was told when she placed her mother there, she would be able to remain under Medicaid. The explanation for the eviction? Medicaid payments were less than the actual cost of caring for Medicaid residents.

This is the quandary. Either the person or their children must pay to remain in the home or the elderly person must be moved to a lesser facility. Legally, relatives cannot make partial payments or "con-tributions" for Medicaid recipients but must assume full obligation. Such an expense is prohibitive for most families.

It doesn't leave much choice. It isn't difficult to see why governments are looking for more funding for Medicaid. The Idaho case would make generosity mandatory. Why not make contributions voluntary? There are many who would be glad to contribute but there are others who can't.

Woods public safety officers and corporals will get a 6 percent salary increase as part of an arbitration panel's decision handed down last week. The findings end months of negotiations on the base salary in this, the last year of a three-year contract.

The arbitration panel was made up of a representative from the city, the Grosse Pointe Woods Police Officers Association, and a representative chosen by the Michigan Employe Relations Commission. The panel voted 2-1 to adopt the city's last best offer of a 6 percent salary increase for officers and corporals.

'It was a fair and equitable decision," Woods City Administrator Clerk Chester Petersen said. Neither side was really hurt by the decision.'

Under the decision, a public safety officer who has four years of experience will receive a base salary of $27,780, up from $26,208. The starting salary for officers will be $23,355, up from $22,033. Corporals will receive $29,725, up from $28,042, under the decision. The union had asked for a twotiered increase averaging 7.79 percent. An officer earning $26,208 now would have received a $792 increase for July 1 to Jan. 1 bringing the wage to $27,000.

Effective Jan. 1, an officer making $27,000 would have received an extra $2,500, a 9.25 percent increase, under the union proposal.

The union argued its wage proposal would have brought members up to comparable pay with other departments. The city's officers and corporals are now paid well below the average of other public safety departments and hoped to make up some of that disadvantage in the first half of 1984, the union

The city argued that the union's last best offer would have resulted in a base salary increase of 12.56 percent, or from $26,208 to $29,500 for officers with four years of experience. That increase "would still represent a quantum leap forward . and would place the top salary of the public safety officers of the city the highest of all the communities," according to the panel's ary of the four cities at $27,944. The city pointed out that the adoption of the union's last best offer was far above the average increase in salary for both the Detroit area and the northeast area.

The panel also ruled that, if the union's demands had been met. Woods officers would be paid well above the average in surrounding communities.

In addition to course offerings, other topics to be addressed include student activities, athletics, curriculum and scheduling procedures. Students will begin the course selection process on Monday, Feb. 6.

Correction

The artist who painted murals in South High School's Cleminson Hall was Edgar Yaeger, not William, as reported in last week's issue.

What you should do and who you should call when your phone's in a fix.

It isn't very often that you need to deal with telephone repairs, but when you do, you want them taken care of as fast as possible. Now that Michigan Bell has separated from AT&T, there are some changes in the way repair problems are handled.

We have some suggestions for you on how to identify your phone repair problems so that you can get them handled as quickly as possible. But first it's important to know ubo will make specific telephone repairs. For example, effective January 1, 1984:

1. AT&T assumed ownership of the phones Michigan Bell had been providing you for a monthly fee. AT&T will continue to lease those phones to you and will offer repair services.

2. AT&T will also offer repair service for phones that you purchased from Michigan Beil prior to January 1, 1984. Market Bell with 19 the lines that lead to your home or business. Now let's talk about how you can tell if it's your continue to service and repair

phone that needs repairing or your phone lines.

Here's how:

If you have plug-in or modular service, make sure all of your phones are properly plugged in.

Check all phones for physical damage or frayed cords. If you find damage, it's probably an instrument problem.

If you have more than one telephone, check them all for a dial tone. If you don't hear a dial tone on any of the phones, you may have a line problem. If you do hear a dial tone on at least one phone, the problem is probably in one of your other instruments.

If you determine that the trouble is isolated to one instrument at one location, and you have modular service. try that instrument at another outlet or possibly at a neighbor's (if both you and your neighbor have similar one-party service. If the instrument works at another location, the problem may be with a specific outlet. If the instrument does not work at another phone outlet, the problem is probably with the instrument.

If you have only one phone and it does not appear to be damaged, but cannot be moved to another outlet for testing, call Michigan Bell Repair Service. We will help you determine whether you have an equipment or line problem

Facts down the line. Because your telephone business office is busily engaged in normal, day to day telephone service matters, we are providing this toll free number as a source for answers to the questions you may have about your changing telephone company We also suggest that you watch for our informational messages in your newspapers and in your monthly telephone hills. 1 800 555-5000

Hunt unicorns with Jungians

The Center for Jung Studies of Detroit will sponsor an illustrative lecture titled "Hunting the Unicorn" on Sunday, Jan. 15, 2 to 4 p.m. in Miller Hall, Christ Church, 61

Grosse Pointe Boulevard. The speaker, William Vincent, Ph.D. Professor of Humanities at Michigan State University, will return to Grosse Pointe to discuss the unicorn which, like the dragon, is one of the fabulous beasts to have found a home in the universal psyche. He will attempt to track down the elusive animal as it has appeared in art, myth and literature past and present. The purpose of the lecture will be to suggest, in Jungian terms, the psychological signifi-cance of the beast.

The lecture is open to the public. Admission is free to members and $3 for non-members. For further information call 885-8792.

Arab problems will be topic

A panel of representatives of the Arab-American community will speak at the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice's Third Thursday Forum on Jan. 19.

The Woods last month decided to circulate the resolution for the engineering study to both Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores along with one calling for the notification of other cities in case one takes unilateral action concerning traffic control in any area of the city that will drastically affect traffic patterns in the area of Old Eight Mile and Harper . .

At its Jan. 4 meeting, the Harper Woods city council adopted a resolution opposing the Woods' lawsuit. In addition, Harper Woods asked the state transportation department to look into the possibility of eliminating no-through traffic on Allard into the Woods as well as the possibility of an entrance-exit at Shady Lane in St. Clair Shores.

Harper Woods council members worried the proposed change of the present exit and entrance ramps would be detrimental to their city, according to the minutes of the meeting. The Woods could open up Allard to through traffic to allow its residents to stay away from Harper and Vernier while St. Clair Shores could decide to widen the walk-over at Shady Lane to accommodate traffic for their city, council-

Corpsman back from Beirut

ALTHOUGH THEY believed Mark was safe all along, Mrs. Hacala admitted she had done most of her cooking in front of a television set, ready to gather any word that flashed across the screen. The family also received a call from an ABC free lance journalist named Ken Guest, who called to tell the family Mark was in good shape.

"Ken was a good dude," said Hacala. "He used to be a member of the British Royal Marines. He called my folks from Cyprus to tell them I was okay.

Altogether, Mark spent seven months on duty in Beirut. He picked up a promotion and four service ribbons along the way, including a combat action ribbon. "As far as I can tell, I think I'm the first corpsman to care for battlefield wounds since Viet Nam," said Mark. "I was on patrol when the first Marine got shot. It was a through and through gunshot near the top of the leg. We were pinned down and I took care of this sergeant through the night. We finally managed to 'Medivac' him out in the morning, Four of us carried him on a stretcher to a chopper. Luckily the Lebanese honored us as medical personnel. The Viet Cong didn't do that in Viet Nam. According to Hacala, 90 percent of his time in Beirut was filled with boring routine, with the other 10 percent tension filled action.

'Mostly we were fighting flies off during the day and mosquitos at night," laughed Mark. "Other times we'd be taking fire from three sides. Luckily for us, the Druze and Amal fighters were terrible shots. Usually, they just struck a gun out a window and let'er go. After the bombing, though, we were always on the alert. It seems to me there were three sure ways to draw action. First: take off your boots; second, field strip your weapon; or third, go to the head. That was our biggest fear over there. Getting killed while going to the bathroom."

Mark's unit was finally relieved, ironically, by the same outfit that invaded Grenada. "Boy, we were all packed and ready to go," smiled Mark. "Our seabags were on the trucks and we were just waiting for them to show up. One of my regrets in leaving is that I didn't get to see the New Jersey when it fired those six rounds. That must have been something, watching the Jersey throwing Volkswagons at the Syrians.''

Mark returned to the states on the U.S.S. Austin, landing at Morehead City, N.C. The chances are he'll be returning to Beirut this summer, if the U.S. still has a peacekeeping force stationed there. Until then, he'll call Camp LeJeune his home.

He's been in the Navy for two-anda-half years, with a year-and-a-half to go. He's not sure if he'll stay in, or leave the service and return to school. As former editor of the North High School paper, he has an urge to write.

Then again, his medical training in the Navy could lead to a career as a nurse or a paramedic.

"Well, I've still got some time to think about it," smiled Mark. "There's always Camp LeJeune to look forward to. I hear this February we'll be deploying to Min February we'll be deploying to Minnesota for cold weather training. Gee, the Navy is such fun!

PTOs make donations

The Board of Education this week accepted gifts totalling almost $10,000 from the Parent-Teacher Organizations at Kerby and Monteith Elementary Schools and Parcells Middle School.

Kerby parents raised $3.640 for assemblies, art appreciation programs, site improvements and supplementary instructional supplies for teachers. Parents at Monteith designated $3,412 for such things as field trips, assemblies, student awards and science room materials.

The Parcells PTO gift of $3,000 will be used to purchase a complete Apple II micro-computer system and supplies for the school's library.

The school board must approve all gifts to individual schools of more than $500 in value. The trustees accepted the donations from the PTOs with thanks.

with the decrease in class time from the current 54 minutes to 48.

"I'm in favor of a seven-period day," Morlan said. "But I think the board should have gone with a longer school day, instead of shortening class periods." He also pointed out that if students choose to take only six classes instead of seven, they will actually be getting out of school a half hour earlier.

Supt. Brummel answered that criticism by suggesting that "counselors, administrators, teachers and parents should undertake a sig nificant campaign to enroll all students in an additional subject."

John Kastran, principal at North High, noted that all the other departments at North supported the change and that many teachers there are anxious to see it implemented.

"Qu'est-ce que le Cognac de France?" A week from tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 20, at 8 p.m. in the Renaissance library of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House, the Alliance Française de Grosse Pointe and the Detroit Alliance join forces to answer this question, co-sponsoring a lecture in French followed by a degustation of the "drinkable gold which sleeps in the cask and which seems to be made of the distilled rays of the sun.'

The cognac sipping, which will include an American brandy or two for comparison, will be accompanied by cheese and French bread to clear palates in between tastes of the incomparable eau-de-vie. As a finale, after all the information, fun and imbibing, a vote will be taken to determine the group's brandy preference.

The evening's speaker, an official Alliance conferencier from France, is Paul Sabourin, professor of Public Law at the University of Paris, a permanent member of the French Commission for UNESCO and chairman of the Committee of Universities for the Council of Europe, who regularly contributes articles to technical publications and the Paris newspaper "Le Monde."

A chalky soil, similar to that of Champagne, covers much of the land in the Charente district, where the authentic French brandy is produced. Charente's capital is Cognac, and "the closer to Cognac, the better the brandy" is axiomatic in France. M. Sabourin will discuss the discovery and history of cognac, the double distillation process, the aging which gives the quality and the "angel's portion" and the great cognac producers and classifications.

Roger VanBever is taking reservations for this liquid gold program, at $5 per person. They must be made before Sunday, Jan. 15. The number to call for more information is Saint James Lutheran Church was the setting for the wedding of Cathryn Lynn Starnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Starnes, of Lochmoor Boulevard, and Scott Sherman Nixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd S. Nixon Jr., also of Lochmoor Boulevard.

Pastor George Schelter presided at the evening rites Saturday, August 27. The 7 o'clock ceremony was followed by a reception at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, after which the newlyweds left to vacation at South Seas Plantation, Captiva Island, Fla. They are at home in Denver, Col.

The bride's white satin gown was styled with a pearl-studded Alencon lace bodice and a sweetheart neckline. Satin ruffle trimming accented the top of her puffed sleeves. Her skirt extended into a modified train, and her fingertip veil fell from Pre-Natal Kalosomatics . . .

Instructor NANCY SCHUBECK (left) shows PATTY KEN-NEDY a Kalosomatics exercise especially designed to promote pre-natal fitness. Pre-Natal Fitness the Kalosomatics Way is a new addition to Assumption Cultural Center's Kalosomatics Fitness Program, with classes scheduled for Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons, from 1 to 2 p.m., for a nine-week period. Two or three-day class sessions per week may be chosen.

The classes, which began last Monday, Jan. 9, have been carefully developed to assist women to stay healthy and active throughout pregnancy. The series has been evaluated and endorsed by area physiologists and obstetricians.

The exercises, designed to improve posture, body alignment, muscle tone and conditioning, and to encourage relaxation and development of the muscles used during labor and childbirth, may be taken throughout the nine-month preg-nancy period and during the post-partum period, when the body needs a period of adjustment before embarking on a Kalosomatics Be-

No dumb questions for the genealogist

The Detroit Society for Genealogical Research gathers this Saturday, Jan. 14, at 2 p.m. in the Explorers Room of the Detroit Public Library on Woodward Avenue, opposite the Detroit Institute of Arts, for a cooperative program, "There Are No Dumb Questions:" an afternoon of give-and-take with everyone pooling knowledge and resources to solve individual dilemmas.

Assistance with vexing genealogical problems will be available during the morning in the library's Burton Historical Collection. Genealogical aides and publications will be sold after the meeting.

movements which relieve stress and discomfort and aid in rhythmic breathing. Individuals are encouraged to work at their own levels. In the final week of the session, a pediatric nurse will meet with the class to discuss care of the newborn, and a film featuring response and growth in infancy will be shown.

Additional information on the series may be obtained and registration made by calling Assumption, 779-6111.

Schubeck, who holds a Masters degree in Guidance and Counseling from the University of Michigan, has another Assumption program beginning this month. She will focus on the mental and physical development of children in the most formative stages of their lives (up to 51/2 years), and offer guidelines on how parents can be teachers in their own homes, in "Maximizing Your Pre-Schooler's Potential:" a fourweek session starting next Monday.

Classes will meet at Assumption's Eastpointe Center. Each will feature films appropriate to the subject matter, followed by a short lecture and open group interaction. For those whose children spend time in toddler centers and nursery schools, suggestions on how parents and teachers can coordinate efforts to maximize a child's growth will be presented.

Information on this series is available at Assumption, 779-6111.

A Good Book to Curl Up With

It's the time of year when curling up with a good book can be VERY attractive — especially if the alternative is slogging about in the snow - and "The Detroit Artists Market, 1932-1982: A Partnership in Creativity" is the sort of book it's good to curl up with, particularly if you're interested in the part Pointe residents have played in the Market's history, as volunteers, artists and collectors.

The pictures alone are fascinating, from a 1937 candid shot of Mrs. Edsel B. Ford, Robert Tannahill and Mrs. Ernest Kanzler at one of the Market's early garden sales to a photo of "Zap, with Pokketa, Pokketa" by Jim Pallas, a recent Pointer of Interest. "Zap" was part of the Market's Misalliance Show in 1969. You only have to look at it to know where Jim was going, and he got there.

The book, published by Wayne State University Press, costs $15. It's available at The Book Shelf on-the-Hill and Grosse Pointe Book Village in-the-Village.

Learn to judge jewel's value

W. Michael Williams, president of Charterhouse & Company, will explain the characteristics that determine a jewel's value and what a person should look for before making a jewelry purchase in a three-part, slide-illustrated series at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial this month.

The first seminar focuses on Diamonds, how color and flaws aifect their price, next Tuesday, Jan. 17. Rubies, emeralds, sapphires, opals and topaz will be the Precious Stones topics the following Thursday, Jan. 24. The final lecture on Tuesday, Jan. 31, will look at the history and value of Estate Jewelry and Antique Silver.

The series is also designed to teach participants how to look for hidden value among their own treasures. All three seminars begin at 10 a.m. Admission is $6 for a single program, $15 for the series. Further information may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Lamaze film to be shown No fee or reservation is required.

Grand Marais Questers meet

American Art Pottery of the late 1800s to the mid-1900s is still reasonably priced — which makes it particularly attractive to collectors. Most of the factories shut down during the 1950s and '60s; in many cases records have been lost, but research has begun to identify patterns and the factories in which they were produced.

Mrs. Charles T. Fisher III will pursue this subject tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 13, when the Grand Marais Chapter of Questers meets at 9:30 a.m. at her home. She will concentrate mainly on art pottery from the Ohio Valley (Roseville, Rookwood, Weller, Hull, at al.). Members are encouraged to bring examples of pottery from this area as well as from others parts of the United States (Buffalo, Redwing, Bennington, Jugtown, et al.).

Hillier-Perez vows spoken

At home in Elkridge, Md., are Mr. and Mrs. James Russell Hillier, who exchanged marriage vows Friday, October 21, at the estate of Judge Lewis in Oahu, Hawaii, in a tropical setting of bamboo trees and flowers, on the water's edge, next to a waterfall

The ceremony was a traditional Hawaiian one. The bride, the former Patricia Elizabeth Perez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Perez, of West Chester, Pa., wore a laced, tea length dress, off-white in color and styled with an off-theshoulder neckline.

Strands of pikake flowers formed her headdress, complementing the bridegroom's traditional Hawaiian maile lei with pikake flowers. White and yellow orchids formed her bou-

The series closes Feb. 7, with a program showing how fabric headboards and custom cornices can be easily made. Optional instruction pamphlets will be available at a nominal cost at each workshop. Registration information may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

Fabric fusing involves backing fabrics with a heavy, fusible interfacing. After instruction in the basics, the student can go on to create belts, envelope purses, placemats, napkin rings, fabriccovered cans and greeting cards and no-sew appliques for pillows and gift packages. The technique requires little or no sewing.

A toast to Carrie...

Carrie Morse was only three years old in 1972 - the last time the Detroit Tigers won a divisional championship.

Carrie and her mother are big Tiger fans now, but 12 years ago, the baseball team's struggle for a pennant was the furthest thing from their minds. Twelve years ago, Carrie Morse was more concerned with her own fight: the one for her life.

On March 24, 1972, Carrie Morse was burned over 80 percent of her body. She had awakened early that morning, found a pack of matches, taken them to her playroom and used them to ignite a box of crayons. The crayons set her nightgown aflame and her screams woke Susan Morse, Carrie's mother, who rolled Carrie in a blanket and called an ambulance.

Carrie was treated at Bon Secours Hospital, then transferred to Children's Hospital of Michigan and the care of Burn Unit director Dr. J.R. Lloyd, the man who, according to Susan Morse, quite literally saved Carrie's life.

"I don't think anyone understands how bad a burn is...in terms of the prognosis they can give," said Susan Morse. "When they told me they were putting her in the Burn Unit at Children's, I thought: 'great.'

What Susan Morse didn't realize at that point was what the Burn Unit meant. She found out.

"The first three months Carrie was there she was on the critical list. They did a whole lot of skin grafts..." One day that stands out in Mrs. Morse's mind is the day they had Carrie's crib in the middle of the hall, with Carrie inside and uncovered so her damaged skin could be exposed to the healing powers of the air.

Most of the skin grafts took, which the doctors didn't expect, Mrs. Morse says. But before Carrie went home seven months after that late March morning, she had to learn to crawl and walk all over again.

But 12 years later, Carrie Morse is, well, not at all unlike the average 15 year-old. She likes to ski, ride horses, take care of pets and play tennis — "I'm good but I'm not great," she says. And she likes the Tigers, especially Kirk Gibson. "My favorite guy is the one who sweeps the bases — what's his name? — yeah, Herbie."

And despite the fact that Carrie Morse has endured a lot more in life than most South High sophomores have, she remains philosophical. "There are some things I can do and some I can't. Like somersaults... I can't do them because my arm won't bend that way.

"But there's nothing I can do about things...so I don't feel sorry for myself."

What Carrie Morse does do is look fondly upon the hospital that saved her life. "It's a good hospital. I wish I lived there...you get waited on and you get to sleep late."she

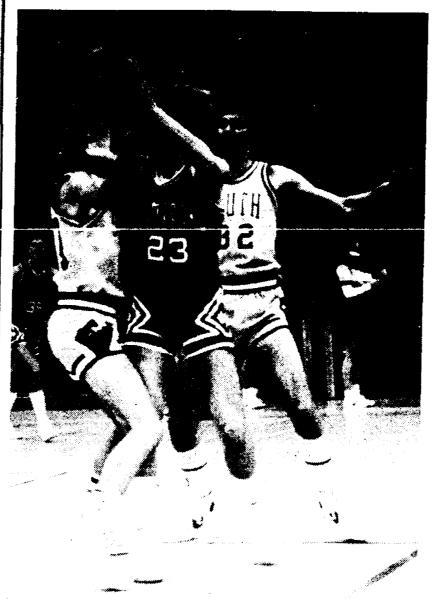

Susan Morse agrees that Children's is a good hospital — for

"I think that in my experience, it's the most incredible hospital I've ever seen. The doctors, nurses — everybody gives parents the responsibility of helping their children get better. They let parents know what's going on; you're never left out of things.

"... I don't think kids can get better care anyplace else."

For Carrie Morse, that kind of care was just what she need-(Continued on Page 2C)

North icers on track

North High's varsity hockey team began the new year with a win and a tie last week to move its undefeated regular season record to

The Norsemen traveled to Livonia Bentley Tuesday, Jan. 3 and jumped on the home team for a 5-1 lead before fading in the third period and ending up in a 5-5 tie. Sophomore John Russell was the scoring leader with two goals and two assists. Junior winger Frankie Vento also had an excellent game, setting up three North tallies and putting on the goal light once himself.

Marc Tirikian and Bob Rogers rounded out the North scoring. Grosse Pointe dominated play for two periods and then ran out of gas, holding on for the tie as Bentley owned the third period. Brad Heavner and Tirikian were awarded the other assists on North goals.

North bounced back to put three excellent skating periods together on Saturday, Jan. 7, to beat a highlyrated Saginaw Arthur Hill team, 5-2. The big, tough Saginaw club was disciplined and well-coached, but couldn't match the team speed of the Norsemen.

Senior Mark Young was the Grosse Pointe scoring leader and easily the dominant player on the ice as he scored a three-goal hat trick and set-up both of the other North goals. Young's aggressive forechecking set up the first North goal as he slipped a centering pass to center Grag Handal who class to center Greg Henchel, who cleanly beat the Saginaw goalie from 10 feet. Henchel returned the favor late in the first period when he set up Young, who skated in alone to put the Norsemen up, 2-0.

Young's goal was an unassisted effort off a faceoff with the senior sliding the puck into the net while laying on the ice. Co-captain and defenseman Bob Nelson gave the Norsemen some breathing room with a beautiful 50-foot slap shot as Saginaw closed the score to 3-2.

Kevin Tisdale set up Young's final tally with a fine effort, beating the Saginaw defense and putting the puck into the slot from behind the

Norsemen turn corner

By Rick Markel North High

North varsity basketball coach George Olman has said all along that his team would turn it around. After consecutive wins over Southlake and East Detroit, it looks like the Norsemen (2-5) have indeed turned the corner.

Playing one of their better games of the year, North wasn't out-sized against East Detroit, as the team got a much needed confidence builder in their 63-37 triumph over the Shamrocks.

The Norsemen had three players in double figures against the Shamrocks, while the offense executed as a whole and was much sharper. Art Szymanski led North's effort as he knocked home 15 points. Mike Hall with 14 and Rick Truhol with 11 points gave North a balanced scoring attack.

It's no accident that North is now scoring more points. Over Christmas vacation, coach Olman put his squad through many shooting drills. The dividends of Olman's move are paying off now.

Lake Shore, however, wouldn't buy anything about the "new improved Norsemen" as they came back to defeat North, 57-46. With the game tied at 38-38 after three periods, the Shorians were helped out by North's fouls and sometimes - questionable shot selection, and outscored North, 19-8, down the stretch.

Upcoming for North is a home game Friday, Jan. 13, against Clintondale, and a road game Tuesday, Jan. 17 against Lakeview.

The JV basketball team had a difficult assignment as they took on East Detroit. Struggling and fighting every way, North ended up coming out on the short end of a 41-34 decision.

Tough times for matmen

North's wrestling team had a fine week as it turned in two encouraging invitational performances. A one-point defeat to the surprisingly good Brablec Cougars is what North will remember most.

First came a well deserved fourth place finish in the Anchor Bay Invitational. In competition against top teams in the area, North represented itself well as most of the losses came only against top quality wrestlers.

Then came the Brablec match. Brablec, to its credit, has put together a talented squad that simply made full use of its experience advantage and defeated North in a close meet.

North then took a very encouraging third place finish for North in the highly competitive Dearborn Fordson Invitational. Steve Kennealy prevailed in a key match for North. Put in a "must pin" situation, Ken-

Carson is MVP

The Woods' Jimmy arson, the 15 year-o scoring phenomenon of the Detroit Compuware Midget AAA team, was selected tournament Most Valuable Player in the Mac's Midget Tournament in Calgary, Alberta, over the Christmas holidays.

Carson led his team to the tourney championship with his 14 goals and 17 assists in the seven-game series. The Compuware squad became the first American team to win the Mac's Tournament. WEIGHT nealy did just that as North walked away with a third place trophy. Norseman Dave Fleming was voted the tournament M.V.P.

The high invitational finishes triggered "...a nice turnaround" says coach Larry Aceto.

Steve Kennealy and Bill Smith have taken charge and won key matches. Team leader Dave Fleming continues to win everything in sight. Wrestlers like Steve Taugher also help to form the backbone of this team.

North has two invitationals, two triple dual meets, and a match against league power Clintondale, all between now and Jan. 21. If the Norsemen can survive this stretch of the season, they will be right there to the end. North has a triple dual meet at home against South, Woods Tower, and Cousino on Tuesday, Jan. 17, at 6 p.m.

Gymnasts win

Gymnastic teams beware, for North gymnastic coach Gretchen Madison claims she has the "strongest North squad in recent years." The team has both ex-perience and depth. Senior Karen McCarthy leads the way while Jill Boardman and Cindi Tsangalias round out the "big three."

Farmington Harrison found out just how good North is, as the Norsemen claimed a 123.85-116.35 victory. In that meet, McCarthy took first in every event. Her best score was 9.05 in the vault. Boardman took second in the vault and bars while Tsangalias placed second in the beam and floor exercises.

At least four scores of 117 are needed to qualify for the regionals. North already has one such performance. It could be a historymaking team if they can be consistent. The girls will get this week off before they head into the heart of the season. The big meet is at home Jan. 23 against highly-rated Troy.

Spikers are strong

Strength and experience are the keys to this year's varsity volleyball team. Coach Ann Anderson has stressed serving and serve receiving in practice so far. These, she feels, are the keys to any good volleyball team.

The girls will rely on a forceful hitting attack which will frequently result in many spikes. Coach Anderson plans to do this to take advantage of the team's strength and experience. The only other thing that the squad needs is a little bit of weekly improvement. As of now, though, Coach Anderson has been," very pleased with their progress.

The girls fared well in action last week, finishing in the semi-finals of the Bishop Gallagher Invitational. Playing very well, North then swept: Liggett 15-5, 15-8 and 15-11.
