'Lock out' for your information hits two clubs

> A selective strike by a 1,700 member Detroit culinary union against the Detroit Boat Club and the Pine Lake Country Club in Oakland County led 22 other country clubs into a retaliatory lockout of the union employes last weekend. Local clubs in the Pointe that saw picketers protesting in the lockout were the Little Club and the Country Club of Detroit, where perhaps a dozen union employes walked peacefully at the club's entrance. One of the CCD picketers said the protestors had been successful in turning back two trucks driven by the Teamsters Union, but that the atmosphere between the picketers and the club management was "amiable," with the club allowing the picketers to use its restroom fa-cilities. While some club members drove grim faced through the picket line, most others smiled or waved at the protestors as they entered the club's grounds. One long time member of the club, who wished to remain anonymous, said the situation at the club was "bearable" as long as the golf course was still open. The manager of the Country Club of Detroit was unavailable for comment on the lock-

Schools to test all-day kindergarten

By Susan McDonald

Parents of kindergarten children at three schools will have a chance to send their kids to school all day long as part of a pilot program that will be tested next year at Defer, Monteith and Ferry.

The program, which is entirely optional, will cost $1,250 per student, or about $7 a day, a figure administrators say is comparable to surrounding charges.

The pilot program and continuing study of the possibility of offering a pre-school program, as well, were approved May 14 by the Board of Education.

The all-day kindergarten came strongly recommended by a committee of 11 administrators, teachers and parents which conducted a year-long study of early childhood education.

"As a community, we have to keep up with what's happening in the world," a parent member of the committee, Linda D'Angelo, told the school board at an earlier study

"These programs have been happening all over the country. It's exciting and it's great. I think there will be such overwhelming response, all-day programs will be in every school soon," she said.

Supt. Kenneth Brummel, who recommended the program be adopted, said the board should con-

He said the plan is a good way to make use of classrooms that remain empty because of the system's steady enrollment decline. "Parents complaining about school closings have repeatedly pressed for the school board to find other uses for buildings. This is one," he

The full-day classes will be separate from the normal half-day kindergarten, according to Alfrieda Frost, director of elementary curriculum. The extra time will be used for enrichment of the normal program. "Both programs will continue to be excellent," she said.

In her study, Dr. Frost found that nearly one-third of the parents of 3 and 4 year olds surveyed said they would favor a full-day option at family expense. She found that parents' primary interest in the program was to expand the curriculum their children are exposed to, rather than for day care. Only 20 percent of the parents said their children would be cared for outside of the home after the current halfday session ends.

Other members of the study committee, in addition to Dr. Frost and Ms. D'Angelo, were Ann Scott, Linda Bachteal, Carolyn Sands, Dorothy Schade, Diane Barnard, Audrey Burchett, Jack McMahon and Carol Marr.

The school board approved the pilot program with a unanimous vote, but some members expressed concern about the fairness of charging tuition. Dr. Frost said every optional full-day kindergarten program she found in other school districts charged tuition, including Bloomfield Hills, where half of the students participate.

No hike in taxes in Park

By Harriet Nolan

The Grosse Pointe Park City Council approved its 1984-85 annual budget to the tune of $4.8 million dollars on Monday, May 14, and for the second year in a row, homeowners will see no increase in their Property tax values are going up by 2.67 percent," said Nunzio Ortisi, city treasurer. "In order to compensate for the increase we had to reduce the tax rate from 16.75 to 16.23.

"This means homeowners will pay about the same taxes as before," he added.

But the city plans to dip into its Surplus Appropriation Fund to pay for many of its services next year. The fund is estimated at $362,000. an increase of $128,000, said Ortisi.

However, councilman David Gaskin noted that while money can be taken from that fund for "maybe one more year if the projections come true, after that we'll have to do something else for an increase."

The largest expenditures are earmarked for police and fire department salaries. The budget for both departments is estimated to increase by $62,000 and $37,000 respectively.

Ortisi said these increases were the result of raises agreed upon during previous contract negotiations, but not due until the 1984-85 fiscal year.

He added that the $29,700 in the General Government Contingency Fund will not cover all of the raises given. So the rest of the money will have to come from the Surplus Appropriation Fund.

A separate tree maintenance fund of $110,000 has been established for the first time this year. In the past this service was paid with fees collected from road

Some other areas that showed substantial increases were the Rubbish Fund, up $42,000, and the Debt Service Fund (park improvement), up $20,000. Ortisi indicated these increases were necessary to pay for the planned tree trimming

City council estimated a $5,000 increase for its operations, Finance asked for $15,000 more than last year and General Administrative costs have increased by $28,000, according to Ortisi.

trative reorganization plan approved May 14 by the Board of Education. Supt. Kenneth Brummel recommended the changes last week to "add new life to the system" and help reduce administra-tive costs in light of the declining number of students in schools.

As a result of the shuffle and retirement this spring of seven administrators, the number of supervisors in the system will be reduced to 32 next year, from a 1980 high of 42 administrators.

"The changes will save schools almost a quarter of a million dollars," Brummel told the school board May 14. "All our administrators are competent people, evaluated annually. My program places them in positions where their talents will be fully utilized.'

One of the recommendations Brummel made last week was dropped before he presented his plan to the school board for approval May 14. Brummel had proposed combining the job of director of public libraries with director of

Lawyer faces theft charge

By Susan McDonald Farms attorney Stanley Redding

turned himself in to City police Tuesday afternoon to face charges in a four-count warrant accusing him of embezzling $30,900 from a dead man's estate.

Redding, 40, of Kenwood Court, practiced law out of offices on Mack in the City before he was disbarred last month by the State Supreme Court's Attorney Grievance Commission.

The warrant issued against Redding last week charges he embezzled money from the estate of Robert Guenzel, Jr., of the Woods, who died on March 30, 1981. Checks written by the estate's executor presumably for the purpose of pay ing taxes on the estate were embezzled by Redding and put to his own use, the warrant charges. Only $1,000 of $30,900 due in taxes was paid to the IRS, according to investigators.

Redding admitted misappropriating the funds on April 28, 1983, when he was testifying on his own behalf before the Attorney Grievance Commission, which was considering charges against him which eventually resulted in his disbarment. The senior minister of a Grosse Pointe church also testified for Redding in front of the Commission. The minister said Redding had found himself in strained circumstances with financial responsibilities beyond his ability to meet them, according to commission records Redding served as the church's treasurer and as a member of its board of trustees, the documents said.

Issuance of the warrant naming Redding was the result of months of work by Grosse Pointe City Det John Drummond, who pursued the case with help from the Internal Revenue Service, Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Wayne County Organized Crime Force headed by Patrick Foley. The Task Force is in charge of the case now.

Campaign season opens with Barnes forum

By Susan McDonald

The cast of characters involved in the most controversial race for board of education in years met faceto-face last week at Barnes Elementary - the first and only school building in the Pointe ever slated to close because of the 12 year enrollment decline. Barnes was not only the site, but the subject of most discussion

The event was a forum sponsored by parents at the school and all five of the candidates competing for two seats in the June 11 election were there. The next forum is a League of Women Voters sponsored event at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 29, at the War Memorial

About 180 citizens turned up at Barnes to grill the five candidates on their background and qualifications and to talk about the controversial reorganization plan approved last November by the school board.

The plan, the third one presented by Supt. Kenneth Brummel, calls for closing Barnes and transferring sixth graders to middle school next fall. It is designed to boost enrollment in some schools and cut costs in light of the drop in number of students from 13,500 in 1971 to 7,500 this year. The Board agreed this week to house its instructional materials center, maintenance and community education at Barnes next year

Two incumbents in the race, Roger Mourad and Joan Hanpeter, were on the Board when the plan was approved. Mourad was the only trustee to oppose the reorganization plan and his reiteration of his belief in the "neighborhood school concept" brought him plenty of applause at Barnes last week

Mrs. Hanpeter, a 12-year veteran of the board and three times its president, defended her vote to close the school and won audience support, too. But, she added, the board is not anxious to tackle the issue

Of the three newcomers in the race, only one supported the reorganization — Fred Adams, 73 year old refired director of consumer affairs for the federal department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C. who also worked for Packard and American Motors

Adams, who lives on Rivard, stressed the economic side of reorganization. "While our costs have been spiralling upward, our enrollment has been going (Continued on Page 2A)

The restaurants obviously make one intitial investment in a piece of parsley and it lasts a lifetime.

Our second theory concerns where parsley comes from. It's Peggy's contention that parsley isn't really grown. It's manufactured somewhere in a little factory in Hazel Park.

you noticed how every piece looks exactly the same? Same color, shape and size? Have you ever gotten a bad piece of parsley? We've all owned bruised bananas, rotten apples and limp lettuce, but have you ever seen anything less than a perfect piece of parsley?

Think about it. Have you ever seen a parsley farm? Or been at a cocktail party and heard a guy say, "Yea verily I am a parsley farmer, as was my father before me and his unto him"? Never happen G.I

My theory holds that parsley does indeed grow somewhere, but out in the wilds unobserved. We'd need someone like Marlin Perkins, from the Old Mutual of Omaha's "Wild Kingdom" TV program to prove Greenwood's "Law of Increasing Parsley Returns." Can't you just see old Marlin now?

"Yes, folks, here we are in Upper Nutlog, Oklahoma, stalking the wild parsley. With me is my assistant Jim, who will help me capture one of these great beasts so it can be tagged to determine it's territorial range. "These great parsley herds used to cover thousands of square miles here in America before nearly being hunted into extinction by the great chefs of the world. They're very wary now and especially dangerous during the mating season when the "Bull" parsleys are out rounding up herds of females. "And there's one now," continues Marlin. "And he's a big one. Jim will attempt to tranquilize it with a dart gun while we hover above it in our helicopter. Nice shot Jim. Got him right behind the curlicue! Now while we wait for him to drop, a little more information on the great American parsley. Did you know that before the herds were decimated by gourmets, the plant was actually worshipped by the Wazoo Indians of Upper Nutlog? "Well, it looks like that last fact and the tranquilzer finally put him under. Jim will cautiously approach the beast to measure and weight him while I sit in the air conditioned copter and drink iced tea. There, Jim has just stapled an electronic beeper into the parsley's ear so we can track it with our homing device, and just in time Jim! The big brute is coming around fast and can be very dangerous if it feels cornered.

"He's a little wobbily, but should be alright in a few minutes." Later in that program. Well, this is Marlin Perkins, along with my assistant Jim in an alley just outside of "Carmine's House of Cellulite" restaurant in Sponge Cake, New Jersey. I'm happy to say that our theory was right. Our tagged parsley, which was delivered to Carmines, made six trips from the kitchen to the dining room, garnishing one relish tray, two plates of spaghetti, one dish of ring bologna ala Cheese Whiz, poached oysters and Carmine's famous chitlin' bouillabaisse, before the eatery was closed by the Board of Health.

That's all for this week folks. Join us next time when Jim and I graphically show why you should never order stew in a Tijuana restaurant. Here's a hint. It comes served on a Frisbee." Along with a sprig of parsley.

• At central office, former Richard principal Claire Basco will become the new director of special education, a position from which Reginald Sienkiewicz retired this spring. The director of support services job, held by retiring Benjamin Zenn, will be split between David King, Christian Fenton and other administrators.

Brummel's recommendations were approved unanimously by the school board. Several residents in the audience of the May 14 meeting, including one candidate for school board, protested that the appointments were made too quickly and without adequate notice to the public. Brummel defended them, saying they had been well-considered and their $250,000 savings to the school system was "substandown, down, down," he said.

Two other challengers both oppose the board's reorganization plan. William Brownscombe, a 37-year-old dentist who lives on University, organized the Committee for Neighorbood Elementary Schools to fight the plan and has been active in a drive to recall three board members who supported it.

"Quality education does not decline with enroll-ment, but quite the contrary," Brownscombe said. "Greater one-on-one relationships between teachers and students improve education.

The other challenger, Robert Radnick, 41, of Severn Road, is a Wayne County Assistant prosecutor who agrees with Brownscombe and Mourad that no schools should be closed.

"My position is schools do not close. I fully expect the population to go up in the next few years," Rad-

A Grosse Pointe News reporter and editorial writer sat down with all five candidates separately the day after the Barnes forum to talk more about the issues. The candidates were asked about their motives for seeking office; their qualifications; their ideas about how to deal with the enrollment decline; recall and other questions. The story and an editorial appear elsewhere in today's paper.

Candidates in June 11 school election go on the record

William Brownscombe

Q. Why are you running? What really brought me into this was our children. I was not able to accept the reorganization. I thought the best way to change was the political route. I want to have an active part in my children's education. But it really was the reorganization and all the controversy that drew me in.

Q. Why should people vote for you? I have lived here for a long time. I went through the school system here. Grosse Pointe is a unique community and I think you have to live here for a while to understand

I bring as qualifications my activities in the Committee for Neighborhood Elementary Schools, I was co-chairman and treasurer, and mywork in my profession, president-elect of the Eastern Dental Society and scientific committee of the Michigan Dental Association. I really wanted to run because the community may perceive me as a negative person, always com-plaining. That's not true. I'm a positive person and I want to show there are other ways to deal with declining enrollment than closing schools.

Q. How do you think the board should deal with the enrollment decline

There has been a 40 percent decline in enrollment, but at our peak the school system was overcrowded. There were large student-teacher ratios, students were in trailers. If you look at what the school. system was built for, really we're not running at 60 percent of capacity but at 75 percent of capacity

Instead of closing schools, I personally feel we will have an increase in enrollment. I can show you articles that say we will regain 75 percent of the students we lost. We checked birth rates to Grosse Pointe parents at St. John and Cottage, when it still had a maternity ward. We are in the middle of a mini-boom in Grosse Pointe. We're never going to get back what we once had, but I don't think we should close schools now, because we may need them in the future. It is very expensive to reopen a school.

I don't have a problem with having one teacher for as few as 20 students. I think this is the first time Grosse Pointe schools can compete with private schools on student-teacher ratios. We should market that. Keep all schools open until millage fails, but you must be sure to market, tell people what you're doing.

There may come a time when we have to take a close look at the viability of maintaining two high-schools. When North High was built, the designers had considered the possibility that it may become a community college at some point. Q. Do you support the recall?

The recall is the final approach a number of people took. I wanted the board to go for an advisory referendum. I think this would have done more for this community than anything else. But they wouldn't do (Continued on Page 9A)

Joan Hanpeter

Q. Why are you running?

I had a last-minute change of mind. I was very distressed at what was happening in the school system - Dr. Brummel's leaving in particular. I was working very hard to find competent, hard-working people to run. I must have talked to a dozen people. Many expressed a real interest in the schools but said "not now." They felt they couldn't take all this controversy on.

Q. Why should people vote for you? I represent experienced leadership. I have been deeply interested in schools during my 12 years on the board. I've been president of the board for three terms, worked under four superintendents and community countless organizations.

I have lived in five elementary areas during my 30 years in Grosse Pointe. I have a broad sense of the community and have been involved in the schools at every level.

As a member of the Wayne County Intermediate School District board, serving as its treasurer, I am in touch with many issues at that level. I have experience in business and I'm a Cornell University graduate with a major in government.

Q. How do you think the board should deal with the enrollmen decline?

What we've done already by closing Barnes will make a tremendous difference at Monteith and Ferry next year by boosting enrollment at those schools. You know half the children at Barnes live as close to Monteith as they do to Barnes.

I do believe in neighborhood schools, but I believe we are going to have to make accommodations. to change our idea of the neighborhood.

The school board is not interested in tackling this problem again. I'd say we won't do anything until one of two things happen: we have a financial crisis or parents finally come to us and say "our school is too small" and "we don't have enough flexibility" and demand we do something.

greeted with the news my name had been filed — and I knew nothing about it. But I figured I'd make an effort. The problems that face us are important.

Q. Why should people vote for you? We've been residents of Grosse Pointe for 34 years and, when my kids were young, we were very active in the schools. More recently I've been showing my interest in education for the last 20 years by serving on the Board of Trustees of Western Michigan University. It's a 300 mile round trip to Kalamazoo and I don't think I've missed a halfdozen meetings in 20 years.

With my responsibilities there and my experience, I feel I might be able to be of help in Grosse Pointe. I have worked as a teacher, as an ad manager for Packard Motor, director of marketing for American Motors and director of Consumer Affairs for the department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C. Q. How do you think the board should deal with the enrolment decline?

The first thing is to patch things up so the board is once again working for the community. There's too much at stake here to spend so (Continued on Page 9A)

Q. Why are you running?

I became convinced that if I did not run for a second term it could have been construed as backing away from what I recognize to be an unpopular stand among my fellow baord members. I didn't want them or the Grosse Pointe community to think I took a stand knowing I wouldn't be around to follow through.

Q. Why should people vote for you? I don't believe I have any specific qualities that most members of our community who've been here a while don't have. I went to school here, my kids enjoyed school here.

Q. Why are your running?

I've assumed a civic duty, a res ponsibility and that sense remains I'm convinced without any doubt that the issues are several but one is paramount; Board accountability to the community. I'm confident the position I've expressed clearly represents the community position. I think I can carry that community position to a more effective conclusion by being re-elected. Q. How do you think the board should deal with the enrollment decline?

The current enrollment fills our schools to 75 percent capacity. So we're really talking about 25 per cent area of unused space. I know there is a multiplicity of community uses that could go into that space. The board could make portions of space in each school available to community agencies. It can be equated to a family with a four-bedroom house. When the kids grow up some say the house is too big and move on, others close off a few rooms.

Our strength is in community schools. We should strive to main tain them

Our own studies of enrollment decline have been way off in some years. The decline is not only levelng off gamer than no expected. but I think it's indicating the beginning of an increase that we didn't expect.

I don't think small schools are a problem. Educators differ with each other. Some, many, say smaller schools create a better en-(Continued on Page 9A):

mentary schools should be closed. In am not anxious to split the vote between the two other candidates who oppose school closings, but that is my stand.

Q. Why should people vote for you? I appreciate representative government. I am interested in education. I started out studying education, my wife is an educator and so is my sister. I've been involved at Bishop Gallagher high school as well.

For this election, at least, it is a black and white issue. Do you close schools, or not? I am opposed to closing schools and those who agree with me should vote for me. Q. How do you think the board should deal with the enrollment decline?

We can't do anything about the decline, first off. I do think we will see an increase (in students) in the next five years, but I can't say how much. The population fluctuates in peaks and valleys and we're in a valley right now

I don't know that I have any particular programs to change the status quo. There is a $1 million surplus which means to me that overhead is being paid, teachers are being paid and there is money left for (Continued on Page 9A)

People interested in serving on the WCCC Board may obtain nominating petitions from the Election Bureau of the Wayne County Clerk in Room 207 of the City-County Building, Individuals seeking a position must be at least 18 years old and a resident of the district they would represent. The petitions must be filed with the Election Bureau.

The names of two persons from each of the nine Board of Trustee districts receiving the highest vote in the Aug. 7 primary election will appear on the Nov. 6 general election ballot.

This marks the first time a primary election has been held for candidates seeking election to the WCCC Board. In the past, the names of WCCC Board candidates appeared only on the general election ballot and the person receiving the highest vote from each district was elected to the Board.

The bill creating the new Board of Trustees, which was sponsored by Rep. Morris Hood of Detroit. was approved by large majorities in both the House of Representa-tives and State Senate. New Detroit, Inc., and the WCCC Monitor's Citizens Advisory Committee supported the restructuring of the college's governing Board.

Opinions & letters

The choices for June 11

Interviews with the five candidates running for the school board reinforce this newspaper's opinion that the June 11 elections — the regular school board election and the recall - have really become a referendum on the reorganization plan adopted last November by the board at the recommendation of Superintendent Kenneth Brummel.

That plan, the third put before the board, calls for closing Barnes Elementary School next fall and moving sixth graders into the middle schools. Like the two previous plans submitted to the board, that reorganization did not satisfy critics. As a result, they are supporting their own candidates for the two posts to be filled June 11 and, in addition, have organized a recall campaign against three incumbent board members who voted for the reorganization plan.

In effect, there now are two slates running for the board positions. One backs the board's reorganization plan and opposes the recall of the three board members. The other opposes the board's reorganization plan and its members favor, in varying degrees of intensity, the recall of the three incumbents.

One of the candidates, Board President Joan Hanpeter, acknowledges she helped initiate the support group for the board which evolved into CARE (Citizens Against Recall Effort), while one of the challengers. William Brownscombe, served as co-chairman and treasurer of the Committee for Neighborhood Schools which led the fight against the reorganization plans. The two groups appear to reflect the community division on the school issues.

YET AFTER INTERVIEWING the candidates separately, this newspaper is convinced that the major differences between the two slates boil down to the different approaches they take to the problems caused by the decline in the district's enrollment. Mrs. Hanpeter and Fred Adams, a retired business and government executive, support the board's actions while the other three candidates oppose the closing of Barnes Elementary School and the reorganization plan but do not really offer any alternative.

Mrs. Hanpeter reiterates her support for the neighborhood school concept but points out the district has to "make some accommodation" to the declining enrollment. This year Barnes, targeted for closing in the fall, has fewer than 200 students. Adams agrees with Mrs. Hanpeter. He says the district cannot operate all of its schools without consideration for the overall enrollment and must act to cut some place.

The other three candidates take a different view of the enrollment decline. In effect, they would do little or nothing to meet the problems caused by the fall off, contending that it soon will end anyway.

Roger Mourad, the only incumbent on the seven-member board to vote against the reorganization plan, says the wisest solution is not to close any schools but to section off space not needed, just as homeowners often close off ooms of a house when the children leave home He and the other two candidates opposing the plan contend that the decline is at least levelling off and we may soon see the beginning of an increase not expected a few years ago.

Brownscombe argues that a lower studentteacher ratio is good, that this is a fact that ought to make the public schools more competitive with private schools and that the district ought to market this advantage. Robert Radnick, the assistant county prosecutor who is the third foe of reorganization among the candidates, agrees with this view. He contends the situation doesn't warrant any closing and doesn't think the need will ever arise.

THE OPPOSITION TO CHANGE by Brownscombe and Radnick, who still have children in the elementary schools, is perhaps understandable. Yet the enrollment decline is continuing and as it goes on will work its way through the middle schools and into the high schools as well. As Dr. Brummel pointed out in a statement to the board last October. "Where we once had 13,529 students present in our 15 buildings, we now have 7.358." This represents a system-wide drop of 45 percent in 12 years and an elementary enrollment decline of more than 50 percent. As the superintendent pointed out, the district still had continued to operate its buildings and programs as if there had been no appreciable decline. The result could be damage to quality education without reorganization.

If there is only one section per grade in a school, for example, it becomes difficult if not impossible to resolve personality conflicts between students and the teacher or between parents and the teacher. As enrollment declines, there also is less opportunity to organize groups of students within a grade for special learning opportunities. As an example, increasing the number of reading groups per classroom becomes more difficult as enrollment declines. It also becomes more difficult to offer new electives, such as a foreign language in some elementary schools, if enrollment in the chosen schools declines.

Opportunities for team teaching and cooperative grade level staff planning also become more limited as enrollment declines and the number of teachers drops. Under these circumstances, there is an increase in the number of part-time teaching assignments which tends to lessen program continuity, cause a loss of teaching time and result in less scheduling flexibility. The continuing decline could require the dropping of some programs and even the elimination of some athletic competition and other extracurricular activities. Such factors all argue for school closing to ease the problems caused by enrollment decline.

This newspaper long has believed that some buildings would have to be closed as enrollment declined and at one point we even accused the board of foot-dragging on the issue. By and large, however, the Grosse Pointe News believes the school system has been well administered by the present superintendent and his staff and that the board has been responsive to community concerns in adopting its policies. In revising the early school closing plans, for example, the board obviously took community opinion into

FURTHERMORE, WE THINK Mrs. Hanneter with her 12 years of board experience, her three terms as board president, her service with four superintendents and her long involvement in Grosse Pointe public school activities, is admirably qualified to continue to serve on the board. Adams, with his long residence in the Pointes. his 20 years of experience on the Western Michigan University board, his continuing interest in education and his business and administrative background, is also highly qualified direct board policies in the interest of all Pointe residents. So this newspaper endorses Mrs. Hanpeter and Adams and believes their election would best serve the interests of the community.

The News has no personal quarrel with the other candidates. All are conscientious, interested and concerned people. But on the key problem — the way to deal with the enrollment decline — we think they are wrong. With the district now searching for a new superintendent to succeed Dr. Brummel — whose departure was hastened if not prompted by the differences over reorganization and recall - it is essential to have a board that presents a united front on the selection of a new administrator and in dealing with the problems arising from the enrollment

Writer sees McCarthyism revived

To the Editor:

A few of Grosse Pointe's conservatives, as they like to designate themselves, have, been busy in recent weeks denouncing Lenin, Castro, the KGB, Communism, etc., etc., etc. It's like the 1950s all over again. But the most prized targets locally, in this comedy of condemnation, are "ministers and priests," the latter phrase coming. strangely enough, from a Mrs. C.D. Blessed.

Old Joe McCarthy, floating around up there amid the seraphim and cherubim, must be rejoicing at these born-again saviors of the world in general and of the Pointe in particular. Grosse Pointers, here are your real redeemers. A warning from the surgeon-general might well read: Be careful when you go to church. Listening may be dangerous to your political health.

Now retired, I've been hearing this noxious patent medicine bellowed forth with the same fervor since I was a schoolboy. Haven't we had enough of this wearisome stuff? we keep our eyes, at least for the next six months, on the real job at hand: getting Ron-ald Reagan out of office and building a better U.S.A.? Look homeward, angel.

I note with the interest, too. that Mrs. Blessed is "purchasing a one-year subscription for an (unnamed) Washington paper" for Grosse Pointe News staffers - for their edification and, presumably, to lead them not into temptation. But will one year do the job? Will just one year of the gospel according to Jesse Helms make over Robert Edgar, Janet Mueller, Peggy O'Connor and Tom Greenwood, to name only a few? Aren't they so hardened in sin (printing interviews with dangerously subversive Presbyterian ministers and leading us all astray) that it will take at least five years of this (unnamed) "Washington paper" to turn them around? Why scrimp on a task so vital to the moral health of the Grosse Pointe community?

And there was another puzzlement: why did Mrs. Blessed put quotation marks around the word "leader" to describe Duren Pierce, who was apparently tour guide to the U.S.S.R. for the group of which Mrs. Blessed was one? (She even "ran a meeting in Moscow with the mayor of the city"! Dangerous company, that. I hope she sends this Muscovite politician a subscription to that (unnamed) "Washington paper." Maybe he'll be converted. defect to the West and get a job writing uncontaminated news for the Grosse Pointe News.)

But back to Pierce. Do the quotation marks mean he was a poor leader, a fellow-traveler, a tool of Moscow, a fuzzy-minded minister or priest? What gives on those quotation marks for Duren Pierce? Would the lady write a letter of reference for him, recommend him as a tour guide? The possibilities of her meaning are endless and fascinating.

By the way, why does a Detroit subscriber have to come to the defense of Grosse Pointe ministers and priests (one in particular, who shall remain unnamed, just like that "Washington paper"). Where is his vestry? Where are the parishioners? Where are the church's distinguished civil libertarians and attorneys? Has the cat got their tongue? Only one Grosse Pointer has spoken up for reason and common sense in the face of this McCarthyite red-baiting and mud-slinging.

In any event, I trust that readers of the Grosse Pointe News, who are being led to suspect the worst about their ministers and priests, will see all this spate of grisly denunciation in proper perspective: this is yesterday's history (the 1950s) being revived and today's absurdity in full bloom.

Success from innovation

To the Editor:

mailed in 1973, in the midst of another school controversy. But I believe it is as appropriate today as it was 11 years

The several years of Theos Anderson's tenure as Superintendent of Schools have been disappointing. But I can find no cause and effect relationship.

Shortly after Andy arrived in Grosse Pointe two national magazines published articles listing what the authors considered to be the outstanding public school systems in this country. The Grosse Pointe system did not appear on either list. Andy was asked to comment. He expressed his opinion that the excellence of the listed school systems was not due to the expenditures per pupil, to pupil-teacher ratios or to physical plants but rather that those systems encouraged, actively promoted and sponsored innovation.

They were vibrant, alive and dynamic. To the contrary the Grosse Pointe system, if it accepts change, does so only after The following letter was the more progressive systems have introduced procedures superior to what we adopt. In the economic system of free enterprise, success results from innovation, failure from stagnation. Next year we will have a new Superintendent of Schools. The years of his term may be as lethargic as past years unless the trustees, the faculty and the community create an atmosphere which sponsors, proand encourages innovation.

We have the resources to regain our status as one of the top ten school systems. That will happen only when more positive signs of a sincere desire to nove forward are given.

Dr. Anderson will be remem: ared as the person who made in honest evaluation of the community and its school system.

We should also remember that the observation fell on too many deaf ears.

A vote on tax rates?

As legislative conferees continue to seek ways to solve the House and Senate deadlock over the income tax rollback, Rep. William Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe has proposed that the voters of Michigan themselves make the next major decision on the tax problem. It is an idea that might even end the deadlock between the House and Senate on the rollback issue.

UNDER BRYANT'S PROPOSAL, a one percentage point increase in the state sales tax. raising it from 4 percent to 5 percent, would be matched by a reduction in the state income tax to 4.5 percent, effective Jan. 1, 1985. To become effective. Bryant's proposal would have to go on the ballot in November as a constitutional amendment and then be approved by a majority of the voters

In order to make it more difficult to boost income tax rates in the future. Bryant also would require a three-fifths vote of the Legislature. rather than a simple majority, to raise the income tax again so long as the sales tax is above the 4 percent rate. At present, the income tax rate is 6.1 percent but both houses have approved bills to roll it back to 5.35 percent. The Democratic House accepted Gov Blanchard's recommendation for an Oct. I rollback while the GOP Senate would make its first rollback effective July 1, 1984, and a second to 4.6 percent on Jan. 1, 1986. The 4.6 percent rate was in effect before last year's 38 percent increase.

As a member of the special conference committee on the tax rollback issue. Republican

Bryant said he has been encouraged by the constructive approaches made so far by both sides but conceded that the eventual reconciliation of the differences between the two houses probably will come as a result of political and practical decisions. So far, while Bryant is supporting the Republican Senate approach, the conferees have been seeking more information with respect to such matters as the 1984 income tax collections. the single business tax returns and the latest figures on sales tax revenues. The GOP position is that rising revenues make possible a bigger and faster cut than the Democratic governor and House have proposed.

BOTH PARTIES SEE the tax rollback as a campaign issue in this election year in which Michigan House members will face the voters. Rick Cole, the governor's press secretary, has accused the Republicans of "playing Russian roulette" with the state's fiscal future by their effort to speed up the rollback. On the other hand, Spencer Abraham, the GOP state chairman, is circulating an appeal for funds that attacks the 'hig spenders and taxers" in the Democratic

So while we still think it likely that the two parties will find some basis for compromise, they might finally settle on Bryant's proposal to let the public make the decision in the fall. That would also offer a more attractive amendment than the Voters' Choice proposal which would require a much more drastic cutback in state taxes and spending.

Brownscombe's letter was on target

To the Editor:

"off base." How nice it would have been if she had only written all of the facts in her reply to Judy Brownscombe. As a Grosse Pointe taxpayer, I am really getting sick and tired of only being told part of the story by many of our Board of Education members. Yes, Nola Bell, there have not "technically" been elementary assistant principals, however, all of the "First Assistants" to the elementary principals have been eliminated. Please, stop playing semantics games and tell it the way it really is. The position of First Assistant was included with the "TAG" and "library" position — and this position was eliminated from each elementary school.

Equally misleading was your comment that the "elementary schools will employ the services of trained librarians" for the first time. You failed to include the fact that as of this time, according to Bruce Kefgen, assistant to the superindendent, on May 10, there is no position designated as full time certified librarian for each of the elementary schools. Actually, Mr. Kefgen asserted, that perhaps several schools may share one librarian. How is this any kind of improvement? At least, now, each and every elementary school has someone on its staff whose responsible duties include that of librarian! To me, this appears to be better than having one certified li-brarian moving from school to school during each day.

Another rather misleading statement occurred when you discussed the pilot elementary school science program to be initiated next year. You implied that this was a tremendous step forward towards quality education, but you failed to mention that this science program will be only at Trombly School next year. When questioned about this, Dorothy Kennel answered that

The letter in your May 10 issue by Nola J. Bell was way "off base." How nice it would have been if she had only written to see how the 6th grade would fare in the middle schools before moving all of the 6th graders into the middle schools. I was one of the 6th grade teachers in a middle school here in Grosse Pointe about 14 years ago and vividly remember what a dismal failure that program was then. Actually, over 10 years ago, when the time came for that Board to make the decision to move the 6th grade back to the elementary school, wasn't Joan Hanpeter the only school board member to vote to leave the 6th grade with the 7th and 8th. when it was generally agreed that the program unsuccessful?

Granted, at that time the rational for moving the 6th grade was merely because they could not be accommodated in the overcrowded elementary schools. However, it seems that once again we are using the 6th grade as pawns — only now this move is being made to solve the "Middle School Problem." If history is supposed to help us learn from our past and correct our mistakes what has the present school board learned?

I agree with Bill and Judy Brownscombe when they assert that there is no apparent rea-son to move the 6th grades to achieve quality education. Let's bring the quality in education to the elementary schools where it belongs. Offering an improved science program does not need a pilot program, let's provide it for all of the elementary schools and provide an equal opportunity for all of the students. Let's not be misled by only a few facts — in-deed, intelligent decisions de-mand that all of the story be provided.

Surely, by now you also realize that the school board is not closing Barnes School, merely transferring students out and replacing them with service offices, at additional costs. This is going to cost us, the taxpayers, a considerable amount of money, a fact which the school board has already acknowledged. The classroom walls that were torn down at Brownell to accommodate the Continuing Education Office will now have to be rebuilt so that the 6th grades will fit — but now will we have to pay again to have walls at Barnes eliminated, flooring redone, etc., in order to build new offices for the Continuing Education? Obviously, this has to cost us money! In addition, as the Excess Špace Committee pointed out, Barnes is unique because all of the plumbing facilities were built child-size. Keeping this in mind, I cannot help but wonder if the taxpayers will now have to foot the bill to change the facilities to accommodate a building for adults.

Common sense dictates that we leave the kids alone, for now, close the Kerby IMC Building, and move that to the empty space at Pierce Middle School. We could then move the Central Maintenance to Parcells, a school that is on two main cross streets and has a far larger parking lot to accommodate the maintenance vehicles. Just think, then we could add the possible full day Kindergarten pilot program to supplement the current Barnes enrollment. What perfect facilities little children would have.

I further agree with the Brownscombes that it is time to move forward, to make changes that are truly in the best in-terests of the children, and to maintain the high quality of our educational system which past school boards have worked hard to achieve. Jeanne Bunn Grosse Pointe Farms

Musicians were 'outstanding'

To the Editor:

The Grosse Pointe North Bands and Orchestra's (and their guests, the Romeo High School Band) performance at their 50th anniversary Spring Concert May 10, was outstanding! The progress of the Festival Band, particularly, was indeed noticeable from their first performance in the fall of 1982, when the Orchestra already had established more experience in performing. The respect shown by each school's band by their undivided attention for the other school's band was especially commendable. Conductors, Nathan C. Jud-son, North High, and William L. Middleton, Romeo High, de served all the extended ap plause they merited, and more. for training these students not only to be fine musicians but to be good citizens as well. I'm sure the other parents present were as proud to be parents of these North students as I was. It was unfortunate that the Romeo High parents weren't able to be present to share in our pride. The prison would have stateof-the-art electronic systems and escape is highly unlikely. The neighborhood hardly exists any more toward Jefferson across Warren, and the other surrounding area is all industrial except for the housing project at Warren and Conner.

road tracks. Legitimate objections may surface and, if they do, I will oppose the prison at that site. However, I'd rather have criminals in a prison than on the street and that menas we must have more prisons, and it means it isn't a bad idea to have that reminder to criminals on the east side.

Governor Blanchard shows little guts saying, "Oh, well, if you don't want it there it can go somewhere else." There are always objections to putting a prison elsewhere.

After it is there, there are rarely any objections. What do you think?

BOEC sponsor says thank you

To the Editor:

For the second consecutive year, students from South High School's BOEC, Business Office Education Club, qualified for attendance at the annual BOEC National Leadership Conference. This year's conference was held in Indianapolis, Ind., April 28 to May 1.

I would like to extend a "thank you" to the South High School Mother's Club and the South High School Dad's Club for the money they donated to help my students defray the cost of this event. Although the students worked hard at fund raising, they would not have been able to afford the trip without the support of the parent organizations.

A very special "thank you" must also go to Gene Vyletel of Bishop Road, owner of Vyletel Buick, who donated a ninepassenger station wagon for transportation to and from Indianapolis. His generosity not only saved my students considerable money, it also allowed us to travel together and to arrive in Indianapolis in comfort

As a member of the community as well as the sponsor of South's BOEC, I am proud not only of the fine efforts my students have made this year but also of the support our club has received from others.

Q. Do you support the recall?

I said last fall if they tried to recall me or anyone else I would use all my energy to fight it. I worked to establish a support group for the board that has developed into CARE (Citizens Against Recall Effort).

I think recall is wrong. If we had someone on the school board who had run off with some money, that would be different. The threat of recall makes it difficult to conduct open, frank discussions. It divides the community. And the threat of recall was on the minds of many people I talked to about running for the board. If they're honest, decent people, they don't want to face

Q. What should the board's role in day-to-day operations be?

The administration runs the

much time working on these special issues.

There should be a long range plan. We have a school system built for 13,000 and the figure's down to 7,500. We can't go on.

When the new superintendent comes in, he needs recommendations from local constituencies as to what can be done. I don't think with the money that will be available in the future and a school system that has so few students we can continue with all 15 buildings. The taxpayers, I should think, will become upset with all the dollars involved in this.

Q. Do you support the recall?

I think recall is a legitimate way to work. However it's a threat over people. Here you have three board members who have conscientiously given their time working on budgets, labor negotiations, etc. Here comes one issue that's not to people's liking. There are other ways of handling it, besides recall.

The way they convinced many people to sign recall petitions was to say it was a referendum and that there was poor communication between the school board and community. They shold have taken their action during the regular course of elections. When these people come up for re-election, vote them out.

Q. What should the board's role in day-to-day operations be?

Setting policies, but not getting into the nitty-gritty. In the university, I've seen boards that like to dictate hiring of people and programs. When you hire a superintendent, the buck stops with him.

YOU'LL NEVER SAY

schools. The school board's role is to provide adequate financing, the tools the administration needs. I always address my concerns to the superintendent.

Q. What other issues will you address if elected? The biggest thing will be to work on hiring a new superintendent. We have to bring this community together again, do some healing. We need these young parents, they are our future. We must establish an atmosphere where they can feel part of the system.

We're going through a period of great change, and we have to work closely with staff. People like progress, but they often don't like change.

And we're all going to have to work very hard on our financial situation. I think it's going to be tough for all school districts to keep costs down. As enrollment goes down, we have fewer people involved in the school system. They're not people who come to school board meetings, but they have to pay taxes, too.

vironment for teaching. If the community is willing to spend the money to maintain small schools. I say okay. Whatever approach we take, we must have total community acceptance. That is paramount. Q. Do you support the recall?

I have not been actively working on it. I do not criticize the right of citizens to exercise their constitutional right and I become incensed when a person seeking a constitutional right is admonished for do-

I think the recall reflects the frustration in this community. What convinced me the board had not taken the right action is when we received such an overwhelming number of letters, phone calls, letters to the editor and speakers at public meetings against it. There's no reason this "silent majority" everyone's talking about couldn't write letters too. I received three letters of support and nearly 100 against.

Q. What should the board's role in day-to-day operations be

It takes a great deal of time to serve on the board. I think the role should not be intrusive in the administration of the district. I don't feel the board should play an active role in day-to-day operations. I'm a strong believer that the board determines the wishes of the community and then hires an administrator to carry that policy out. Q. What other issues will you address if elected?

I'm going to be interested to see how the seven-period day works out at the high schools. On paper it sounds great and it has really excited people. But it still hasn't gotten off the ground yet. Five of the six high schools picked as "outstanding" in the state of Michigan only had six period days, you know.

I supported the recall after we tried all we could. I did take a part in passing petitions and will vote

Q. What should the board's role in day-to-day operations be? It should strictly be used as a check and balance in the system. The superintendent should make proposals for educational programs. It's not up to the board to administer those programs. By doing their home work, they must make sure what the superintendent proposes is accepted by the ommunity.

In selecting a new superintendent, I would give as much input as possible for greater representation from elementary schools. What I'm alluding to is that teachers' morale at that level is very low. Teachers have not been listened to. Nine of 10 elementary principals met in January and made seven recommendations to Brummel. Not only were they not implemented, but they weren't even respon-

Radnick

(Continued from Page 3A) more programs in the school. I don't see that the situation warrants that schools be closed now.

Voters are in a position to say if they want schools opened or closed. If they say they want them opened they're going to have to answer another question: how much are they going to pay for all this? Q. Do you support the recall?

I'm not actively involved in the recall. I did sign one of the petitions. I do believe if an elected official does not respond to his consti-tuency, that's the constituency's right - recall. This is grass roots democracy.

This is how it all happens. It is interesting that the mechanism is every so often just to remind public officials it's there. Q. What should the board's role in available and it has to be used day-to-day operations be? Not very much, frankly. I think the school board has one serious obligation and that is to select a superintendent. They evaluate his education, his background and his philosophy and let him do his work. I would not presume to impose on that superintendent how many students should be in a class, or who he should hire.

The board should supervise the superintendent, make sure he is performing, and make sure the funds are there.

Q. What other issues will you address if you're elected? I'd rather wait until the new superintendent is hired and let him make his recommendations. That's what we hire him for.

Kercheval shoppers are loyal, survey says

By Susan McDonald

People who shop at the more than 75 stores on Kercheval Avenue in the Village and on the Hill are a loyal group who spend far more than average shoppers, according to a survey conducted this spring by the Charles N. Hakes Marketing and Research firm of Southfield. The survey was funded by the Detroit Free Press.

More than three-quarters (78 percent) of the shoppers surveyors talked to were women, and 54 percent were over 50 years of age. Two thirds of the 300 shoppers interviewed had no children.

Three-fourths came to the shopping area from less than 10 minutes away, the survey concluded. They shop primarily at Jacobson's (80 percent) Kroger (48 percent), Kresge (40 percent) and Damman (33 percent).

The surveyors also concluded that "loyalty of Kercheval area shoppers is unusually high, with 94 percent of shoppers considering themselves to be regular shoppers of the Kercheval area.

Eastland Shopping Center was found to be Kercheval's greatest competitor, with 64 percent saying they are regular shoppers there. Respondents said the reason for their choice of a shopping area was proximity (37 percent), selection (24 percent) and atmosphere (12 percent).

The shoppers said they planned to spend an average of $41 in one trip, which the survey concluded was "an unusually high average in comparison with other shopping

CAR TALK

From RAY LAETHEM Pontiac, GMC, Truck

BY RAY LAETHEM BRAKES HAVE THEIR LIMITS

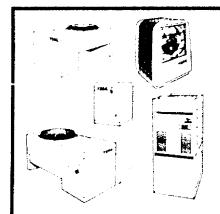

Modern brakes are designed to give you a dependable margin of safety for thousands of miles of driving. In repeatedly slowing and stop-ping of the car, they absorb enormous punish ment - without complaint. But they shouldn't be expected to do the impossible

Contrary to popular opinion, the brakes will not stop a car on a dime. Although you can stop your car in about five feet from 10 mph stopping distance from 60 mph is closer to 200 feet - not counting reaction distrince. Al 60 mobilized travel 88 feet per second, and ever with a lightning last reaction time of a nat! second you altered 44 feet before you can be the brake pedal. Folar stopping distance, about 240 feet, or nearly the length of a logicali field

Another misconception concerns power brakes which reduce the diffort required to apply the brakes. Power brakes however do not slow or stop the car any faster than non-power

Jenny J. And The Numbers Game

Emmanno Carriagam

This is Jenny J., she's a fourth grader who has a straight A average in just about everything, including life. She's a Giri Scout, loves summer camp. takes ballet lessons, is on a community swim team and made third base on her Little League team this year

She's very helpful around the house, watching her baby brother and doing things for Morn and Dad. Her teachers think she's pretty special, but Jenny is having trouble with math. While her classmates are learning fractions, multiplication and division, she is not really understanding the more basic concepts of addition and subtraction. As a result she is getting very frustrated.

Jenny has already shown leadership qualities and is a year and a half ahead of her age group in reading skills, out her confusion with mathematics is beginning to strain her in other areas

Fortunately, Jenny's parents heard about Youth Enrichment Services, Inc. (YES) and took her there for diagnostic testing, Herstrengths and wearnesses were clearly indicated > session she will be on her way to overcoming her adding and subtracting handicass, and begin earring her multiplication tables and smole division

Reports on Jenny's Progress Her parents, through meetings with Youth Enrichment Services' educators, have been able to stay on top of Jenny's progress and help her at home with learning, physical and personal development. They are very happy with Jenny's progress and plan to sign her up for summer sessions at Youth Enrichment Services.

The YES program only involves 2 to 3 hours a week at the facility, divided between individualized computer learning and small group sessions. Jenny can continue her growth in all areas at home and in her everyday activities. Her parents can continue working on her development without any major changes in their daily routine, as well. They appreciate the special individualized program YES put together for Jenny and the time YES took with them to explain the areas of growth and how to develop them, before it was too

At the rate Jenny's mathematic skills are developing and with her confidence back up. where it was, Jerny should begin fifth grade with her math skills at that level and she will be competitive with her peers again in all areas. Giving her a competitive edge at school, as well as other areas, will have Jerny near the too of her class throughout school and make the college of her choice that much more accessible Jenny's parents want the best for their children Through Youth Enrichment Services they are confident they are getting it, now, before it's too late.

Vick takes DECA office

By Laurie Smith South High

Soon to become the Michigan president of the Distributive Education Club of America, Tom Vick is one student at South High who is definitely not sitting still. A senior, Vick was elected at the state leadership conference at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn in March.

"It was something I decided I would like to do, and so I applied for the position, said Vick. Be-sides having to write about himself and his qualifications, he had to have two letters of recommendation which he got from his boss at Jacobson's and from South assistant principal Bernie LeMieux. He was then granted permission to

The presentation was part of a five-day Michigan tour which took the young writers to six cities. The tour is supported by the Michigan Council for the Arts' "Outreach: Show-On-The-Road" program. Lo-cal sponsor is The Grosse Pointe Academy.

In addition to public readings, the Interlochen writers presented workshops and other school activities. Accompanying the group was Dr. Nick Bozanic, creative writing teacher and chairman of the Creative Writing Division at Interlochen Arts Academy.

Established less than 10 years ago, Interlochen's creative writing program has already gained notoriety for the number of major high school writing awards its students win annually. The program has produced two Presidential Scholars in the Arts and numerous winners of writing competitions sponsored by Scholastic Magazine, Wayne State and Brigham Young Universities and Hollins College, among others.

Interlochen writers are given the opportunity to work with established authors and poets, including Judith Mint, Mark Strand and William Stafford, through the Academy's writer-in-residence program.

This year's touring writers are among nearly 400 high school-age students who come from all over the world to study at Interlochen Arts Academy, part of Interlochen Center for the Arts which includes the summertime National Music Camp and a public fine arts radio station.

Interlochen's Arts Academy was established in 1962 by Dr. Joseph Maddy as a complement to the school's national music camp. The school seeks to provide a balance of creative and performing arts training with academics, according to the school.

Any major home improvement requires a substantial investment on your part of time, energy, and money. While that investment has an immediate return, providing you with the additional space you need or allowing you to make better use of the space you already have, it will also have some significant long-term effects on the cost of heating and air conditioning your home and the ease of maintaining your home. On the comfort and value of your home, today and tomorrow. Windows, as a part of your remodeling plans, have a lot to do with the success of those plans and your investment. Because the windows you select now will have a significant effect on all of the long-term considerations mentioned above. How should you look at a window? In person. Very carefully and with an eye to the future.

You buy a window once, but you live with it every day.

Windows, like any other working part of your house, require a certain amount of attention and how much time and energy you'll have to spend caring for your windows, once they're installed, depends almost entirely upon the kind of windows you start with. For example, every Pella Wood Window that opens and closes can be washed. inside and out, from inside the house and comes with self-storing screens. So you don't need a ladder, and a lot of courage to clean your windows or make seasonal adjustments. Pella Wood Windows also offer you the option of a Pella Clad exterior finish (an aluminum skin) which eliminates outside maintenance by its ability to resist chipping, peeling, flaking, chalking and other recurring problems common to painted outside surfaces.

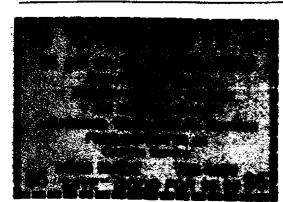

Another way you can conserve energy is to select windows with good insulating properties. Pella Windows combine the natural and excellent insulating qualities of wood with quality construction features that do an exceptionally effective job of reducing unwanted heat loss, heat gain, and noise. The Pella Double Glazing System, for example, gives you more insulation that ordinary, welded insulating glass yet it costs you less. So with our Double Glazing System, you save two ways.

Why settle for less? See all the new Pelia ideas at your local Pelia Planning Center-Showroom

Woods cited for traffic safety work

The Woods public safety department recently received an honorable mention for a traffic safety award from the Michigan As-sociation of Chiefs of Police.

Director Jack Patterson said the award is for the city's "well-rounded" traffic enforcement programs, which include selective enforcement and prevention programs. In making the award for cities of populations between 20,000 and 35,000, the association credited the city with "reducing the human and economic losses of traffic accidents."

Bon Secours seeks state OK for center

Bon Secours Hospital has made application to the Michigan Department of Public Health for approval to expand it ambulatory surgery operations to the soon-to-be built medical office complex in Grosse Pointe Park. The proposed building will be jointly owned by the hospital and the Detroit Institute of Opthalmology (DIO), and will be located at the corner of Nottingham and Jefferson.

The application, received by the state on March 20, calls for the satellite center to be housed in 11,000 square feet of leased space. The cost of the project is listed at $400,000. Larry Payne, of the health department, said the state will either disprove or approve the request within 90 days.

The $5 million building was given the stamp of approval by Park Council on Feb. 27, when it approved formation of an Economic Development Corporation. Now the hospital will have the power to sell low-interest, tax free bonds to raise

Circuit Court date set for robbery suspect

A 42-year-old Detroit man was bound over last Thursday after-noon to Wayne County Circuit Court by Park Municipal Judge Beverly Grobbel to face arraignment on four charges of armed robbery.

The defendant, Robert Lee Moore, waived the scheduled preliminary examination. Bond was continued at $500,000 cash by Judge Grobbel.

Moore is alledged to have been involved in the robbery last month at Active Realty Co. in the City.

Moore, who told the court he was married and the father of one son, was brought into the courtroom in handcuffs and restraints by Grosse Pointe City detectives. Wearing navy-blue jail-issued clothing and gray slippers, he spent much of the 40 minutes waiting for his court-appointed attorney to appear resting his head in his hands.

Moore and his attorney asked that a physical line-up be ordered by the court to supplement the photographic identification session held by police. In requesting the line-up, Moore said he wanted to tell the court a "parable."

"You shoot me in the head but I'm not dead and you bury me," he told Judge Grobbel. "How can you have a line-up when there's nobody there? I want a line-up of bodies.

Detectives told the court they conducted the photo identification because Moore was hospitalized at the time. The department had a representative there from the county Public Defenders Office to represent the interests of the defendant, they added.

Judge Grobbel, ruled against the defense motion for a line-up. She said Moore's right to due process had been protected by the public defender at the photo identification session.

A preliminary examination in 40th District Court on other charges against Moore was scheduled

Home robbed

Grosse Pointe Park police said that the owner of a home in the 700 block of Trombley reported someone had taken a portable television. telephone, rifle and shotgun.

The loss occurred between April 19 and 29, they said. Police theorize that the crooks scaled the second floor rear porch and entered through an unlocked door. The case is under investigation, said Henry Coonce, Park police chief.

to continue Tuesday afternoon. Moore is also accused of assault with intent to murder and carrying a concealed weapon in connection with a shooting of a St. Clair Shores officer in a restaurant in that city after the robbery last month.

During the bond hearing in the Park, Moore's attorney requested his bond be dropped from $500,000 to $250,000, 10 percent cash or security, pointing out that Moore was being held on $250,000 bond in St. Clair Shores.

Moore told Judge Grobbel he had served time in prison for breaking into a car and armed robbery, but was released in 1980 when the state Supreme Court overturned his conviction.

Judge Grobbel said the arraigning judge had set the proper level of bond and continued it.

City detectives say Moore has several aliases and a criminal history that includes armed robbery and carrying a concealed weapon.

Moore's Wayne County Circuit Court arraignment is scheduled for next Thursday morning in the City-County Building. The charges stem from the April 19 robbery at Active Realty that Moore was allegedly involved in.

According to police, a man walk-ed into the realty office that day and after talking with an employe about homes, asked to use the restroom. He then called out to say there was water on the floor and when the employe came back to check, the man placed a gun to his head.

The man spent 10 to 15 minutes in the building, rounding up office workers, locking them in the restroom and rifling personal effects and desk drawers. He escaped with about $100 in cash, reports said.

Minutes later, Shores police stopped a car northbound on Lakeshore that was driving at a high rate of speed and straddling the center lane. The driver presented a drivers license to the officer with the name Robert Dea Washington, which investigators say was one of the aliases supposedly used by Moore.

The driver took off after the officer took his license. A chase through the Shore Club apartment complex and St. Clair Shores ended a Nine Mile and Harper when St. Clair Shores patrolmen William Todd was shot once while arresting a man believed to be involved in the robbery inside the Blue Gables restaurant.

There were a lot of "high steppers" at the War Memorial's All-Breed Dog Show last week. Farms Patrolman Dan Jensen was one of them.

A day for the dogs

By Tom Greenwood

If "every dog has his day," then that day was last Saturday at the War Memorial.

The Center was the site of the first "My Dog's Better Than Your Dog" all-breed fun match which pitted about 200 dog owners and their pets in tension filled, highly competitive contests such as the 'smallest, largest, oldest, youngest, cutest, biggest paw, longest tail, best trick, dog and owner look you-must-get-the-idea-bynow" contest.

War Memorial Director Dr. Mark Weber, with the help of "Gunther" Weber, the Center's mascot, was host for the event. Helping Dr. Weber with the judging were Center board members Jim Schrage and Bill Monahan, Farms Mayor James Dingeman, Farms Police Chief Robert K. Ferber and a true Dalmation fan, Fire

Chief Warren Schultz. "Everyone was a winner and everybody's dog got a prize," said Weber, after the contest ended. 'We made sure each and every contestant got a dog bone treat before they trotted off the stage. We were also lucky the weather co-operated. It was a beautiful day and that helped with the turn out.

Initially we were worried that not too many people would turn out for the event," added Weber. "At about 10 until the hour, there weren't too many contestants, then all of a sudden, wham! The place was filled with owners and ani-

The contest was such a hit that it was sometimes difficult to find a parking space in the Center's lot. Dog owners and spectators were hard at work capturing it with their Instamatics, while Grosse Pointe Cable Television recorded it for local broadcasting.

All in all, it was difficult to tell who had the most fun — the dogs, their owners, the spectators or the

'This has proven such a hit that I believe the War Memorial will schedule the contest again next year," said Dr. Weber, watching carefully where he stepped. know I really enjoyed myself."

Categories the judges might consider next year. How about "most yappy, most tangled leash, wettest nose and highest leg lifter"?

Just a thought.

The "biggest" met the "littlest" at the dog show last weekend. That's 'Georgie Girl," owned by Helen Van Loo, touching noses with "Luther Anne," owned by Kenneth Carruthers.

From Another Pointe Of View By James Mueller

Ever tried Nouvelle Kiln-Sine? Actually, it's Californiastyle pizza, donated by Sparky Herbert's Restaurant and baked by members of the board of directors of the Pewabic Society in the same kilns Pewabic Pottery's potters use to fire their ceramicware. Sounds interesting, at the least.

As to how it tastes . . . you can check that out yourselves next Thursday, May 24, at the "Spring Party" sponsored by the Pewabic Society's board. It will run from 5 to 8 p.m. in the Sculpture Garden at Pewabic, the nationally-known ceramics learning center located on East Jefferson Avenue, across from Detroit's Waterworks Park.

If you discover Nouvelle Kiln-Sine isn't to your taste (a slightly "earthy" flavor to the tomato sauce, perhaps?), you won't starve: the buffet will be topped off by desserts donated by such noted caterers and restaurants as City Delights, Lucy Divine, the Harlequin Cafe, Bistro-La Marmite, the Merry Mouse, Sara McKay and Van Dyke Place.

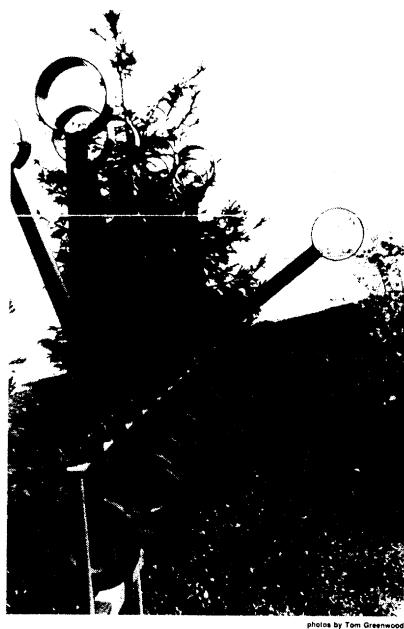

If you're eating lightly these days — it is, after all, the Moment of Truth Season, when the sight of oneself is one's old (last year's) bathing suit sends one off to fitting rooms where the sight of oneself in a series of new bathing suits brings sweat to the brow, horror to the eyes and a firm resolve to look less like a lump by Memorial Day — not to worry: Pewabic's Spring Party promises more than food.

There'll be entertainment by a Detroit Classic, the Bess Bonnier Trio. There'll be a chance to acquaint yourself with one of Detroit's cultural treasures, the 75-year-old ceramics learning center, museum and gallery that, in keeping with its rich historical tradition, is once again producing fine, handcrafted tiles and other clay products. Like Bess, Pewabic is a Detroit Classic.

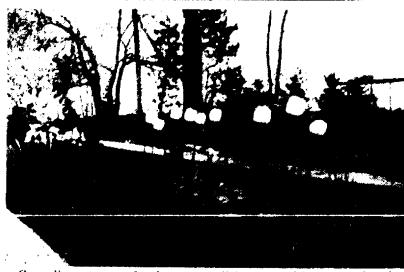

The pottery was founded by Mary Chase Perry Stratton with the support of Horace S. Caulkins, inventor and manufacturer of the Revelation Kiln. They experimented with high-heat kilns, clay bodies, glaze formulae and firing techniques and, shortly before the turn of the century, set up a workshop in a carriage house on Alfred Street in Detroit.

In 1903 the name "Pewabic" (a Chippewa Indian word for copper-colored clay) was adopted, and as the enterprise grew it branched into production of the architectural tile for which the pottery became famous. Groundbreaking for the current pottery took place in 1906. The building was designed by William Buck Stratton, whom the then-Mary Chase Perry later married.

Mrs. Stratton died in 1961, at the age of 94. Five years later, Henry L. Caulkins deeded the pottery to Michigan State University, which operated it until 1981 when ownership was transferred to the Pewabic Society, Inc., a Michigan non-profit, tax-exempt organization. The Society op-

As is the custom in the cozy wine taverns in villages that surround Vienna, the Suczeks will present a traditional group of Viennese lieder with words printed in the program, so that everyone can sing along in the chorus of each song.

This year, Maribel and Alex will be joined by the Salon Orchestra's principal violinists, George and Kathy Sepulla, who will play authentic arrangements of these songs, ob tained by Mr. Suczek in Vienna, forming what the Austrians call a Schrammel Group.

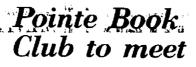

Scores obtained in Vienna will also be used by the Salon Orchestra when it performs the waltzes, polkas and other dance music of Strauss, Lehar, Lanner and other Viennese composers.

During the evening's second intermission the Folk Dance Ensemble, six young couples from the Austrian Society's youth group, directed and trained by Karla and Jim Daniska, will present three dances.

The first, a Rheinlaender, is a pat-tern dance from the Rhine River Valley. It resembles a polka, but has a more complicated step and is somewhat slower. The second, Siebenschritt ("seven-step"), is danced to a children's counting song and uses a tricky seven-step

The last, the Treffner Tanz, is a particularly lovely routine in waltz time, rather like the famous Austrian Laendler, with intricate turns and twists in 12 different figures which imitate familiar things, such as a turning mill. The Treffner Tanz is the official folk dance of the Austrian province of Corinthia.

Admission to the ball is $10 per person. It will be followed by an optional midnight supper served in the War Memorial's Alger House, at an additional $7.50 per person. Space is limited, so reservations are required in advance at the War Memorial office, 881-7511.

Late spring wedding plans have been made by Deborah Ellen Pittel, daughter of Mrs. Anthony J. Pittel, of Shelbourne Court, and the late Mr. Pittel, and John W. Dohan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Dohan, of Dearborn.

Miss Pillel, a Grosse Pointe North High School alumna who received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Education from the University of Michigan, is a computer teacher at Golightly Educational Center, Wayne State University. She is a member of Pi Lambda Theta and the Fontbonne Auxiliary of Saint John Hospital.

He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan and his J.D. from the University of Detroit. He is a member of Sigma Phi social fraternity and the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

Pewabic offers beginning and advanced afternoon and evening ceramics classes. It sponsors current and historic exhibits and a consignment gallery that are open to the public Monday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., throughout the year. When the Michigan Foundation for the Arts honored three state residents as 1984 Patrons of the Arts earlier this month, Pewabic was the source of Chief Justice G. Mennen and Nancy Williams, of Tonnancour Place, and Dr. Dacho Dachoff, of Big Rapids, the MFA's 1984 Patrons of Arts, took special commemorative plaques of Pewabic pottery home with them from the awards ceremony and reception in the Lecture Hall of the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Membership in the Pewabic Society is open to all who are interested in preserving the pottery's cultural heritage and historic building. A single, one-year membership is included in the $35-per-person admission to next Thursday's Spring Party. Included, too, are cocktails, food and entertainment. Valet parking will be available.

Reservations may be made by mail (Pewabic Pottery, 10125 East Jefferson Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48214), by phone (822-0954), or by stopping at the pottery, which is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day except Sunday. Admission checks should be made out to the Pewabic Society,

The party is designed to introduce Pewabic to as many people as possible, for despite its national reputation, the pottery somehow-or-other remains one of Detroit's bestkept secrets. Co-chairing the event are two of the area's most innovative party givers, Joy C. Emery and Dr. Audley M. Grossman. Their committee includes James Bridenstine, Gayle Camden, Anne Crane, Julie W. Corbett, Elizabeth DuMouchelle, Margaret Gillis, Joan W. Hicks, Sara Hill, Lydie A. Hudson, James Jennings, Dorothy Karpus, Kim Norlund and Nicole Stroh.

Another Not-to-Miss Party

"Ticket sales are off to the races," reports Mike Cavanaugh, of Kerby Road, co-chairman of the University of Detroit's 1984 Grand Prix View Party Package. "The Grand Prix is still five weeks away, but more than onethird of our 1500 tickets already have been sold.

That's great news for Mike and the U. of D., buoyed by last year's sell-out success, which is once again capitalizing on the location of its Law School on Jefferson Avenue, inside the race circuit, to offer a spectacular Grand Prix Weekend with luxury options. But it means that those of you who haven't reserved space at the U. of D. Grand Prix extravaganza had better get a move on!

The Detroit Grand Prix is scheduled for Sunday, June 24, this year. Tickets for the U. of D. Party Package at $125 per person (partially tax deductible) cover outdoor grandstands situated where the cars swing out of the Jefferson

Law School, indoor large-screen TV, outdoor TV monitors - and private indoor restrooms. That last offering is not to be sneezed at.

Pointe AAUW to mark its 40th anniversary

The Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women will celebrate its 40th anniversary next Wednesday, May 23, with dinner served at 6 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Fries Ballroom, followed by a program beginning at 7:30 p.m. Installation of new officers, recogni-tion of all named-fellowship honorees and a Revue of the Branch's History, written, performed, sung and danced by its members, will be featured.

AAUW is a 102-year-old organization, formed to open the doors of education to women and to unite alumnae of different institutions for "practical educational work," such as fellowships for eligible college graduates. It encourages member involvement in state and community affairs, and has fought hard in recent years for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment.

Membership is open to any woman who holds a baccalaureate or higher degree from an institution on the AAUW list of qualified schools, or a degree from a foreign college recognized by the International Federation of University Women.

The Grosse Pointe Branch was formed in 1944, with 30 women present at the charter meeting in March. The branch's first general meeting was held in May. Two study groups were formed: one on International Relations and Legislation. the other on Education.

In those early years, branch members made cancer pads, prepared boxes of Christmas items for Marine Hospital veterans and mailed textbooks and food to warravaged Europe. The Pointe Branch focused attention on veterans' rehabilitation, education in the postwar world and the influence of Such timely issues as race relations and the problems of education in the United States were among the branch's concerns during the 1950s. It sponsored studies of Africa and Lebanon, and presented speakers like Ray W. MacDonald, vice-president in charge of Burroughs Corporation's International Relations Division, who discussed "The Changing Pattern in World Trade."

Community efforts during this time included a committee to revitalize the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and local sponsorship of Michigan State University productions of plays for children. Study groups expanded, with morning, afternoon and evening meetings to accommodate all members. Topics ranged from creative writing to social studies to "The Status of Women.

In the 1960s, branch speakers in-cluded Supreme Court Justice Theodore Souris, who gave a thumbnail sketch of the function of Michigan's courts. Brigadier General S.L.A. Marshall, who spoke on "Some Aspects of the Present Crisis," Oakland University Chancellor Durwood B. Varner, who discussed "The Problems and Prospects for Education," and Dr. John A. Mendelsohn, co-investigator of the report "A Social and Psychiatric

The branch was also active in the legislative arena, urging support of H.R. 10609, a bill for further development of educational television in Detroit and Michigan. It was a member organization of the 14th Congressional District Coordinating ommittee for the State Constitutional Convention, supporting open housing and the seeking of exemptions in tax expenditures on verseas travel.

International relations studies centered on the problems of In-donesia and Malaysia. Community outreach programs encompassed 25 members who worked during 1967 as volunteers in the tutoring prog-ram at Detroit's Lingeman School. and the formation of an interbranch committee to attack social schisms revealed in the Kerner Report.

Fellowship funds were raised via sponsorship of Traveling Playhouse of New York productions for local children. The first AAUW Used Book Sale fund raiser, to benefit the community and AAUW Fellowships, was held in 1963, in the old Gas Company Hospitality Center on Ker-cheval Avenue. It was a great success; in 1965 the branch discontinued children's theater sponsorship, electing to place all its fund raising energy on the book sale

Study group projects included a three-month Social and Economic Issues' focus on Segregation and Discrimination. Other groups turned their attention to such topics as art appreciation, contemporary literature and the politics of public education.

The '70s brought positive action by the Pointe Branch toward correcting environmental ills and a look into "Oil — The Strategic Part It Plays in World Politics and Trade."

The branch sponsored a public meeting, "Drug Update — What Has Been Done to Cure Drug Abuse and What Remains to Be Done,' and an open-to-the public community service program based on topics and techniques used by women's continuum centers across the country. It sponsored a series of programs on the Bill of Rights, and one on Personal Safety, and started a group to discuss aspects of the Learning Disability Program in the Grosse Pointe School System. with special emphasis on state and federal funding, which was instrumental in establishment of the Grosse Pointe Chapter of the Michigan Association for Children with Learning Disabilities in 1978.

Members made a Michigan Historic Quilt and raffled it off, donating the $1500 proceeds to the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's new Art Wing, An Urban Space Study Group worked on obtaining signatures for a petition supporting legislation outlawing non-returnable glass bottles. The branch participated in the Michigan Division of the AAUW Task Force engaged in a four-year Great Lakes Basin Authority researching project.

The AAUW Chorus, which performs in hospitals and nursing homes, for civic and community groups, was formed in February of 1978. A new branch study group focused on "The Politics of Food," and international relations attention centered on the Middle East in order to achieve an in-depth understanding of the historical and cultural heritage of the Islamic World and of the region's current problems.

General meetings featured such speakers as Michigan Secretary of State Richard Austin and Sally Shelley, Chief of Education Information Programs for the United Nations Office of Public Information, who focused on 1975 as the International Woman's Year.

The '70s decade ended with a meeting on Estate and Financial Planning for the 1980s. In the first years of the current decade, the branch has examined the motherdaughter relationship, established a volunteer grandperson program at Ferry School and formed the Women's Connection of Grosse Pointe. It has set up support groups for Transferred Women, New Mothers Over Thirty and the Separated/Divorced, and Professional Rap and Understanding Your Teenager groups. The U.S. Government's kill of fur seals on their breeding grounds — the Pribilof Islands off Alaska - is forced by a treaty with Japan, Canada and the USSR. You cannot stop the 1984 kill which starts July 2.

BUT you can stop the 1985 kill and those for future years. The treaty expires in October 1984. If it is not renewed, the seals will be protected by the Marine Mammal Protection Act of 1972.

The U.S. Senate will vote on the treaty.

Bridget is coming back to lecture

BRIDGET PAOLUCCI - you knew her as Bridget Rizzo during her schooldays in The Pointe - is still doing what she was doing last year, only more of it. She's lectured extensively for the Metropolitan Opera Guild this past season, as well as for the New York City Opera Guild. She's still a music correspondent for National Public Radio as well as networks in Canada and Australia. She still lectures at her alma mater, Manhattanville College, located in Purchase, N.Y., just down the road apiece from her Larchmont, N.Y., home.

And lucky us! ... Bridget, intermission speaker last season for the Texaco-Metropolitan Opera radio broadcasts, has been invited to give two opera lectures at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial in anticipation of the Metropolitan Opera Company's Centennial Tour performances in Detroit. And she's said Yes.

Her two-part series, "Enjoying Opera," will be presented at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, May 22, and Wednesday, May 23, and is designed for the nonmusician. "On Tuesday I will talk about Verdi's 'Ernani','' she says. ''On Wednesday the subject is Puccini's 'Tosca'.'' She selected these two operas not only because they are being presented by the Met in Detroit the following week, but also because they are by two very popular composers. "The first is a rarely-heard opera; the second, of course, is well-known," Bridget observes.

She has entitled her first lecture "The Essence of Verdi: Ernani" because she plans to show how this early Verdi opera reveals the essence of the composer's musical and dramatic gifts. In her second lecture, "The Genius of Puccini: Tosca," she will focus on what makes Puccini's musical language unique in a program designed to enable the opera-goer to appreciate and enjoy "Tosca" and other Puccini masterpieces more fully. "I've attended rehearsals as well as performances of the Puccini opera, and should be able to give some interesting insights," she notes.

Tickets for the lectures at $6 each ($12 for the series) are available at the War Memorial, 881-7511. That's a bargain to hear Bridget in her first appearance as an opera lecturer "back home." She's thrilled to be speaking in Grosse Pointe, she says. We're thrilled to have her.

STREET, STATES ...

What hath spring sprung?

Franky, I'm getting a little nervous.

With the way some of these Grosse Pointe teams and individual athletes have been performing this season, I keep wondering when the balloon will burst. When the jig is going to be up, when the cookie is going to crumble, or when the walls will come tumbling down. Well, you know what I mean. All this winning and the many fine individual performances can't last. Can they?

With less than one-quarter of most of the spring sports schedule remaining, Grosse Pointe teams have rolled up some impressive totals. University Liggett School's boys' tennis team is ranked No. 1 in Class C-D. Both North and South varsity baseball squads lead their leagues and threaten to make some real noise in the playoffs. Our Lady Star of the Sea High School has yet to lose a softball game in 1984. Ditto for North High's girls' soccer team. St. Clare's track and field squad is unbeaten . . . just like its baseball team. And players on every team from South to Star and everywhere in between are busy turning in personal bests.

Pinch me, I have to be dreaming. See for yourselves:

Item 1: South faces one of Michigan's best fast-pitch softball players, Chris Harms. Harms had an off day, she could only throw a three-hitter as South's Lynn Vismara bested that with a one-hit game. South got off to a 7-1 start this season. (The girls have taken a few batterings recently, but hey, even the Detroit Tigers lose, once or twice per month.)

Item 2: Every year, people panic when Bob Wood's ULS tennis team experiences a rocky outing or three during the regular schedule. And every year in the pre-season, Wood keeps reminding people that he could care less about the regular schedule, that ULS deliberately schedules the tough teams to give the Knights the best kind of experience

And every year, at least for the last 12 straight years and 15 out of 18 seasons, Wood is right. ULS recently won its own invitational — for the 10th straight season — and last weekend finished in a first place tie with No. 1 ranked Class A dominant Midland Dow in the Midland Invitational.

The Knights' prime time has always been tournament time and it looks that way again this year. One thing is for sure anyway, nobody will make a living betting against "Team June.

Item 3: Speaking of June, I wouldn't be surprised if North's Guido Regelbrugge wouldn't mind playing soccer that month. At press time his team was undefeated and seems to have exceeded even Regelbrugge's most optimistic expectations. North still has some tough opposition ahead of it, but the way this spring has been going . .

Item 4: St. Clare keeps on rolling. The Falcons dominate the fall sports scene, they rule the winter schedule and now this spring, they seem to be making an easy time of CYO play in track and baseball. The St. Clare baseball team is 5-0 and counting and the track teams are (excuse the pun if you like, but I meant it), running away with things.

North's league-leading varsity baseball team went on a tear last week, winning seven straight games, including last Friday's contest with L'Anse Creuse, pictured above.

St. Clare 5-0 in baseball

St. Clare of Montefalco shutout St. Matthew, 5-0, May 12, to finish the first half of its season with a perfect 5-0 record.

Doug Lucas fashioned a two-hitter, fanning 12 and walking only five, for his second win. He also chipped in with a triple, drove in one run, scored another, and stole two bases.

Marcus Wysocki doubled and drove in one run, while Derek Schafran's perfect squeeze bunt accounted for another Falcon tally. Jason Whelan and Matt Montagne garnered the winners' other hits.

Loser Steve Nicosia struck out 14 St. Clare batsmen, and also broke the ice with St. Matthew's first hit in the sixth inning.

North streak at seven

By Rick Markel North High

Led by Dennis D'Agnese's near flawless pitching, North High's varsity baseball team had an excellent week. The Norsemen went on a seven-win tear without a loss, one of the team's finest weeks of the season.

First, North swept a doubleheader from Lake Shore, 13-1 and 8-6, as er from Lake Shore, 13-1 and 8-0, as everything seemed to go North's way in both games. D'Agnese tossed a three-hitter in the 13-1 triumph and recorded his sixth win of the year. Frank Vento, Mike Hall, Brian Ulatowski and Shawn Dowden had three-hit games in the first contest. Mark Bilkovic and first contest. Mark Bilkovic and Ulatowski each had homers.

North (17-5, 7-1 in league play) went on to shut out L'Anse Creuse. 1-0, in an important Bi-County League game. All league games mean something to the Norsemen now that they are in the stretch drive, but the victory over L'Anse Creuse was a big one since that team is a main contender for the league title.

North closed out the perfect week with a 13-0 and 12-9 sweep of a doubleheader with Northwestern. They beat Clintondale 9-7 and 7-1 on ly, split two doubleheaders and won a single game to improve its record to 5-9.

Craig Como was the hero in a narrow, 3-2 win over Lake Shore. He singled and batted in two runs to win the game. Colin McNeil fired a three-hitter for North.

A bases-loaded double by Pat Kilcline and a four-for-four day from Chris Dudeck highlighted North's 5-2 win and 7-5 loss in a doubleheader with L'Anse Creuse North. Dudeck had another two-hit game as did Mike Miller and McNeil to help the Norsemen JV split another doubleheader with Fraser. Como pitched a four-hitter and struck out 10 in the opening 8-2 win; North dropped game two, 6-3.

Soccer team on roll

Continuing to gobble up victories, North's girls' varsity soccer team is cruising through a brilliant year. Guido Regelbrugge's team posted 3-1 and 3-0 victories over Chippewa Valley and Sterling Heights last week.

Balanced scoring was the key in the two victories as North depended upon five different scorers in the two games. Marlene Preisz, Jenna Burt and Amelia Dugan scored against Chippewa Valley; Sharon Armstrong, Burt and Beth Item 5: All Frank Sumbera's North High baseball team had to do this year was top last year's 30-5 mark and get over the loss of three starting pitchers. Well, the Norsemen aren't all the way there yet, but at 17-5 (7-1 in the league) and with the work of pitching ace Dennis D'Agnese and some timely hitting from everybody else, they're looking good.

Item 6: And not to be outdone, Dan Griesbaum's Blue Devil baseball squad decided that it would lead the Eastern Michigan League and it is doing just that. The Devils were 8-1 in the EML (10-8 overall) at press time and waiting for their first tournament action under Griesbaum's leadership.

Item Last: If all of that isn't enough, consider the following: North's girls track team is 7-0, the boys are in a threeway tie for the Bi-County track title, South's Andrea Roesch has one no-hitter under her belt and South's girls soccer team is well on its way to accomplishing its "over .500 in 1984" goal for this season. John Case's girls are 6-3 and last weekend they bested Bishop Gallagher in an important state tournament game.

That's it, let's roll on with this already fantastically successful spring sports season. And hey, let's be careful out there. This is one bubble that's too nice to burst.

Norsemen

The JV team added two more wins to run its record to 6-0-2. Becky Lelli scored three goals in a 4-3 win over Regina and Laura Vilator scored the lone tally in a 1-0 victory over Southfield Lathrup.

Track team in race

The Bi-County league race is heating up for the North boys' track team. After a 70-67 win over Clintondale, the Norsemen find themselves in a three-way tie for the league title with Lakeview and Clintondale.

Keying the Clintondale victory were Steve Saigh and Chris Bingaman. Saigh won the 100 and 200 meter events and Bingaman took a win in the 400. A big factor was also the performance of the relay teams as both the 3200 and 1600 teams

The girls were on the right track last week, too, rolling up two more victories and running their record

North took 11 of 13 events in a recent 101-27 thrashing of Roseville Brablec, winning all four relays and cashing in on Donna Marsden's school record discus throw of 118 feet, 9 inches.

The girls then topped Clintondale, 96-32. Finishing first in all the field events, North also managed to win three of four relays and sweep the one and two mile runs. Sue Roland broke her own school record in the 300 yard hurdles.

Frosh win, too

The freshman track squad flexed its muscles last week, beating Royal Oak Dondero, 105-31, and topping Lakeview, 77-59. The frosh dominated by winning 16 out of 17 events in the Dondero contest. Phil Schefferly pole vaulted to a height of 9 feet, 6 inches and Tom Shehab threw the discus 95 feet, 3 inches.

The win over Lakeview ran North's record to 4-0. Tom Rice won the 3200 run.

Tennis team improves

Tennis coach Tom Berschback thinks this season has "gone as expected," for his North boys' squad. By dominating the Bi-County league and doing well in tournament play, the team is on schedule.

North placed third in the difficult University Liggett Invitational and was second in the Grosse Pointe tournament. The Norsemen also grabbed two league wins recently, topping L'Anse Creuse, 8-0, and beating Southlake, 7-1.

North's present success can be attributed to health, depth and its schedule. The Norsemen are 100 percent healthy and can also benefit from having good depth to rely on as the season progresses into its final stages. The Norsemen have also benefitted from a schedule which features strong teams to test the squad and weaker teams that help North gain experience.

Arms take South to league lead

By Mark Froehlich South High

Pitching was the difference last week as the South High varsity baseball team downed Anchor Bay, South got two strong performances on the mound from senior John Tavery and sophomore Richard Cordova. Tavery went 613 innings allowing just four hits, one run and one walk while striking out three. Cordova went the final twothirds of an inning working South out of a seventh inning jam by striking out one and getting the last batter to ground out. Tavery's record went to 2-1 and his ERA dipped to 1.94. Cordova (1-1 2.74 ERA) chalked up his third save of the year.

Pacing the offense for the Blue Devils was senior Rich Suhrheinrich who went two for four and had one run batted in. Tavery helped himself out in the first inning by rolling a bases loaded single into right field, giving South a 1-0 lead, and himself the game winning RBI. South went on to score a run in each of the first four innings, before Anchor Bay picked up a run in the top of the seventh off winner Tavery.

"He (Tavery) threw very well in his last outing, so I was expecting a strong showing from him today,' said head coach Dan Griesbaum.

As for Cordova's killing the late inning rally, Griesbaum commented, "He has been doing a lot of that lately. I know now that if we're in trouble he is going to be coming in."

The victory kept South on top of the Eastern Michigan League standings with a 7-1 record, 9-8 overall. Anchor Bay dropped to 1-5. (In later action, South improved its mark to 8-1 and 10-8 with a May 10 win over Anchor Bay, 3-0. Spindler got the shutout and ran his record to 1-1 with a 1.94 ERA. He gave up three hits, two walks and struck out five.)

Griesbaum feels that South's 2-1 win over L'Anse Creuse was a big victory, confidence-wise. In that game, pitcher Rob Bigham (3-1, 1.19 ERA) went the distance, striking out three. Offensively, Rick Waugaman and John Williamson had run-scoring singles.

Entering play this week, batting leaders for South have been Williamson (400, two homers and 14 RBI); Tony Tocco (.353, three home runs and 18 RBI); Steve Carrier (.327, 16 RBI); and Jim Arnold (.282, three homers and 18 RBI).

Pitching, which was the question mark for the Blue Devils before the season, has been the key to South's success so far this season. The inconsistant hitting and defense must improve, Griesbaum says.

Soccer split

South's girls' varsity soccer team had an even split in last week's action, losing two of its four games. On May 7, the girls squeaked by Utica Stevenson, 1-0, with sophomore

Claire Busse scoring the lone goal. The next game, on May 9, brought defeat to the Devils as they were trounced by Fraser, 5-0. A strong Fraser offense kept the Devils at their own end of the field a majority of the time, and gave goalies Denise Ruwart and Marcia Wright a good workout. On the following day, the girls bounced back to win a crucial State Tournament game, defeating Bishop Gallagher, 3-0. Sophomore Cindy Bowman nailed two goals, with

FREE PACK

Busse adding the third late in the second half. Aided by a tight defense, Ruwart and Wright prevented

Gallagher from scoring.
On Friday, May 11, the Devils again lost control and were defeated by Chippewa Valley, 5-1. Busse once again scored for the Devils, and Ruwart tried to keep the too-strong Chippewa team from scoring. The Chippewa team proved too much for the Devils, but the girls gave Chippewa a hard fight.

South's record was 6-3 (at press

South's JV soccer team played one game last week, losing to Bloomfield Lahser, 2-0. Although the Devils dominated the game and had possession of the ball a majority of the time, they were unable to get the ball in the net.

Earlier action . . .

After starting out the season with a 2-3 record, the future for the J.V. baseball team was in doubt. Then the J.V. clubbers went on a roll winning seven of their next eight.

The team began the streak with a 7-4, 7-3 twin bill sweep of North. Scott Tucker pitched the opener for South, allowing only two hits, while striking out four and walking six. Sean Bruce provided the offense punch, hitting an even four for four in the opener.

The second game was like the first. South was paced by the arm of Brady Krasuhaar who allowed only three hits while striking out two and walking four.

A day later, the Blue Devils took a double dip from Mount Clemens, winning the opener 9-3 and the night

Rick Leonard led South in the opener, allowing two hits while fanning 10 and walking two. Jason Colegrove paced the offense with three singles and two RBI.

In the nightcap, Jerry Joliet pitched South to a 7-6 victory, while allowing five hits and four walks. Leading the offense for South were Sean Bruce with two hits, and Dave Arnold who tripled for South. The game was won in the bottom of the seventh inning on a Chris Pettit single which scored Bill Adlhoch.

The four game winning streak was snapped when DeLaSalle manhandled South, 7-3. Pitching hart South as 12 years to hurt South as 13 walks went to DeLaSalle Arnold and Adlhoch highlighted the offense with a triple

Three days later. South was again on the winning streak behind the masterful pitching of Leonard, as the Blue Devils downed Port Huron, 5-4. Leonard allowed seven hits and struck out two in the win. The game was won in the top of the seventh inning on two out singles by Tom Fellows and Steve Kinsely.

A day later, South took two from Fraser, winning the opener, 11-6, and the nightcap, 8-7. In the first game, South was paced by Sean Bruce who had three hits, including two triples, while Leonard had a home run, a single, and two RBI.

South won the second game in the eighth inning on a Kinsely single, after tying in the seventh, on a four run rally, with four hits. Ted Kolp got the win in relief for South with two scoreless innings of relief.

Falcon track team unbeaten

St. Clare's track and field team remains undefeated on the season after downing league opponent St. Joan, 54-37. The Falcons took six first place finishes (out of 11 events) and took the majority of seconds and thirds enroute to the victory.

Pete Astfalk ran his best 800 meter time of th year (2:19.1) and high jump 4 feet, 10 inches to give St. Clare first and second in those two events. Mike Peplowski improved his school record shot put to 49 feet, 10 inches - that's three feet over the C.Y.O. metro-De-

Dreams and nightmares: Visions in Modern Art

By David M. Maxfield

Smithsonian News Service "In the early 20th century, the vision of a future society (was) unbelievably rich, leisured, orderly and efficient - a glittering antiseptic world of glass and steel and snow-white concrete.

"(But) the ideal set up by the party was something huge, terrible and glittering - a world of . . . monstrous machines and terrifying weapons, a nation of warriors and fanatics . . . all thinking the same thoughts." George Orwell, 1984.

Orwell's dire predictions for 1984 may still be just nightmarish fiction, but from the turn of the century through the 1920s there were scores of intellectuals, writers and artists who actually did draft blueprints for a Utopian world of the fu-

There were all sorts of idealistic scenarios and plans, among them manifestos for spiritual fulfillment. drawings for wondrous cities and an architectural model for a great thrusting tower to be built in Moscow, challenging the Russian people to create a shiny new world. Like Utopia itself, it has never been built.

Not only in Russia but throughout Europe many artists were convinced that the time was right for constructing a more perfect civilization — and, indeed, it seemed that Americans, guided by their optimistic expectations, were building just such a society.

Yet in the wake of events of the. past 50 years, at a time when Westerners look negatively at worldsaving schemes, that earlier goal seems a fantasy. "We have become so accustomed to considering the ideas of Utopian dreamers as naive, or potentially dangerous, that we find it difficult to understand their commitment, their enthusiasm, says Valerie Fletcher, author of 'Dreams and Nightmares: Utopian Visions in Modern Art" and curator of a related exhibition which ran through Feb. 12 at the Smithsonian's Hirshhorn Museum in Washington, D.C.

These visionary artists and thinkers lived in an era of great advances, and easy confidence, in' science, technology and industry. It was a hopeful period. Europeans, looking for relief from time-worn customs and political headaches, thought they could see ahead to a world of dynamism, precision, order, abundance, cleanliness and efficiency.

Even four years of blood and tears on European battlefields did not stifle this hope. By the time World War I broke out, a generation of young European artists was convinced that a revolution of values was needed to wipe away the old imperial powers that had harshly and selfishly ruled on the continent.

"Dreams of a new era for mankind not only survived the war, they were fueled by it," Fletcher says For many, it was the "war to end all

This hope was nurtured by the Russian Revolution, which had shown that an ancient, repressive regime could be overturned, and by the founding of Germany's Weimar Republic in 1919, with its promise of progressive reforms. The Hungarian artist Laszlo Moholy-Nagy spoke for many when he said: "Utopia, that is the goal of truly living men, that is the idea for which one (longs) to die . .

In that era of hope, Utopian goals ranged from spiritual ideals to practical concerns. Such artists as Kasimir Malevich in Russia, Wassily Kandinsky in Germany and Piet Mondrian in Holland distrusted modern materialism. They set their sights on a more profound (and difficult to define) spiritual awareness that, in Kandinsky's words, would "lead us into the realms of tomor-Mondrian's now-famous horizontal and vertical line arrangements were designed, the artist once explained, "to bring to fore the innerharmony of all life.'

On the concrete level, there were artists who set to work to create new architectural environments for humanity as it supposedly struggled for perfection.

In America, especially, some argued that the new art should reflect the power of assembly lines and steps toward standardization, because these promised a life of plenty. Thus the painter Louis Lozowick contended that art could reveal to the public the geometric beauty of new factories and urban centers. 'Beneath all the apparent chaos and confusion," he wrote, is "order and organization which find their outward signs and symbols" in the verticals of smokestacks, the squares of streets, the arcs of bridges, the cylinders of gas tanks.

"Artists who espoused geometric abstraction," Fletcher points out, 'believed that if people could learn to perceive logical relationships. they would apply these qualities to life and recreate the world on a more reasoned and cooperative foundation.'

The fascination of the Utopian artists with science and technology extended even to making man himself over into a muchinelike image. The idea of man-as-machine, Fletcher notes, was intended as a positive analogy. If man would evolve and develop to be as logical, rational and productive as a machine, he presumably would be better off.

This New Man fascinated many artists. In 1931, Oskar Schlemmer created a shining vision of a 10-foot relief figure cast in nickel-plated steel wire and zinc.

This man of metal was decidedly humanistic when contrasted with the vision of F.T. Marinetti, a poet, who argued that "nothing was more beautiful than a great humming central electric station." He prophesied an inevitable merger of man and machine, "a constant interchange of intuition, instinct and metallic discipline.

Some Utopian artists even planned to make over the natural landscape. Giacomo Balla envisioned an artificial garden of colorful, abstract flowers, their forms implying, Fletcher notes, "an altogether new nature over which man exercised total control.

The centerpiece of many Utopian plans was the creation of new cities. Italian artist Antonio Sant'Elia foresaw fantastic, soaring structures linked underground by swiftly moving pavements. American artists imagined crisp, clean cities and industrial sites. Some Germans planned spectacular, colored-glass architecture glittering jewels — that would also provide emotional and spiritual beauty. This vision was soon shattered. By the 1930s, the road to Utopia began to be littered by nightmare realities: first by the turmoil of worldwide depression and Hitler's rise to power, then by the bloody purges of Stalinism that soured Soviet idealism. Next came the horrors of World War II, the cruel heritage of the atomic bomb, the spirit-deadening Cold War and the international troubles that rage today.

Inevitably, questions arose in the artistic and intellectual community. This Utopia, would if be such a perfection after all? Were the proposed cures for society's ills not far worse than the disease? If society went down the road of ultrapowerful government, behavioral modification, a controlled economy, the primacy of science and technology, the creation of a machinelike New Man, would there be happiness or slavery - at road's end?

The warnings of a failed future came as early as the 1920s. The artist George Grosz was caught up in the dream of a Utopian society when the German revolution broke out after World War I. He joined the Communist Party — but by the middle of the decade he was disenchanted with its authoritarianism.

When Hitler rose to power, Grosz fessing to "unbelief in any form of progress. I have no more illusions." Later, in his painting The Pit, he depicted a totally nightmare world: a burning city in a great hole overrun by rats, a world without focus or reason.

Other anti-Utopians had little faith in technology and less in the concept of a machinelike man. Dada artist Raoul Hausmann early on mocked the New Man and his New Era. He fashioned an ideal human head... then added a measuring tape and mass-produced objects dear to many Utopians.

A number of other anti-Utopians created fallen or victimized figures. The American artist Ben Shahn, in The Fall (1967), suggested the plight of Icarus of classical mythology, who dreamed of flying but plunged into the sea when he flew too close to the sun and his wax wings melted. Shahn insisted some chaos was necessary for a full life. "I love chaos," he wrote. "It's the unexpected, the way out; it is freedom ...

Urging social change, another American artist, George Tooker, turned from political activism to art. By the 1950s he was portraying ordinary people being processed by uncaring clerks in anonymous assembly lines, the numbing sense of unending sameness seemingly almost sketched from passages of Orwell's 1984.

Implicit in the art of the anti-Utopians, author-curator Fletcher writes, is a warning that "any ideal state would require either an oppressive political regime or, at the very least, an overly dominant bureaucracy for enforcement.' Though an anti-Utopian mood has settled over Western society and its artists, the Utopian spirit, she believes, is not entirely dead. In 1971, artist Karl Kraus sought to deliver an alert with his Freedom Object. This artwork is a sealed box that causes a sequence of commercials to rotate through the 'mind'' of a blank-eyed figure, as martial music softly plays. In Fletcher's view, it mocks the "near obsession with material comforts that has characterized industrial nations." Yet, she says, "underlying Kraus' work is a Utopian hope of freeing people from cultural restraints of all kinds."

DIA is ready to celebrate 100 good years

In April, 1985, the Detroit Institute of Arts will begin a special year-long celebration to honor its 100th anniversary. The Centennial program, titled "The Celebration of Excellence," will encompass all areas of the museum and include major exhibitions, performing arts presentations, art commissions and one-time events, special educational programs and publica-

Among the highlights of the cen-tennial year will be an exhibition exploring automotive design and its impact on American Renaissance sculpture, an exhibition of works by contemporary painter Romare Bearden and retrospectives of the works of Mexican artist' Diego Rivera and French painter Francois Boucher.

During the Centennial, the DIA will also highlight its own collection, one of the finest and most comprehensive in the U.S., and tour special exhibitions based on its holdings throughout the state of Michigan.

Joseph L. Hudson Jr., president of the Arts Commission of the City of Detroit which supervises the museum, notes, "The year-long Centennial program provides the Detroit Institute of Arts with the opportunity to celebrate the achievements of the past 100 years and build excitement and momentum for the next 100."

"The DIA has continuously made significant contributions to the quality of life of this city, state and the U.S. The museum has served the city well through the years, maintaining the highest standards as a model of what a museum should accomplish for an urban community," says Mayor Coleman Young of Detroit.

The DIA's premier Centennial exhibition, "Automobile and Culture — Detroit Style," will open in June, 1985. This exhibition is made possible through the generous support of Time Magazine. Walter B. Ford III, president, Founders Society, noted, "We are extremely gratified at the major commitment Time has made to our year of celebration. Their generous support will help guarantee that our Centennial is truly a year of achievement and excellence.

Ralph P. Davidson, chairman of Time Incorporated and also chairman of the Business Committee for the Arts, responds, "We are impressed with the extraordinary group of exhibitions and activities that the DIA has developed for the celebration of its centennial year. We hope that many corporations throughout the country will assist with the funding of this unique and

'Tis the time of asparagus

Economical meat prices share the spotlight with fresh, homegrown asparagus in Michigan's May food outlook, with market analysts now saying that beef supplies in May, June and July will be significantly higher than forecast

The factors responsible for the increased beet supplies include 10 percent greater cattle placements in the first quarter of 1984, cattle being finished at higher weights and reduced consumer demand for red meats.

Consumers can anticipate higher prices almost immediately for the quick-cooking, tender steaks which increase in popularity during the outdoor grilling season. Retail pork prices are also expected to increase this summer, because pork production was cut earlier in the year.

Consumer demand for poultry remains strong. Look for retail prices of whole birds to stay at or exceed current levels, as demand by fast-food operators puts pressure on broiler supplies. Turkey production is at or slightly below that of a year ago - but inventories are down. Increased consumer demand for further-processed turkey products during the sum-mer will bolster prices. Retail egg prices are moving down more slowly than anticipated, as breakers' inventories are down and their pur-chases are helping maintain prices. Fresh Michigan asparagus should be available now until as late as June 25, depending on the weather. A warm spring with the right amount of moisture brings an extended season and a bigger crop; look for large (10 or 20-pound) bulk packages of asparagus to be featured during the peak of the harvest. The per-pound prices on these packs will be a bit below those of meal size packages.

Michigan Cooperative Extension horticulture agents report that the state's fruit crops came through the winter in good shape. If all goes well, Michigan strawberry produc-tion will start about June 10.

East Grand Rapids No. 2, Class B). We won something we were not supposed to win. I'm sure that the competition we play week in and week out played a major role in this championship. It was a busy week for the ULS JV tennis team. After playing three dual meets and one tournament by late Saturday afternoon, the team was tired, but mostly successful.

The junior racquetmen battled to a 3-3 tie with Detroit Catholic Central, took a 6-2 loss from Brother Rice, finished fourth at the Holly Tournament and won a 6-1 victory over South High.

Bill Reuther and Robert Niccolini won all three of their No. 3 doubles matches, while Mike Fozo won two of his three.
