A woman called the paper with what turned out to be a funny story. It seems she was visiting the Woods Optical shop on Mack Avenue when she overheard a conversation between another customer and optician John Wylie.

The other customer was sitting next to John saying "You are wonderful, you are great" and other sentences equally lavish. Embarrassed at overhearing such private praises, the lady moved away.

Not to worry. It turns out the customer was testing her new glasses for John by reading from a specialized chart they have instead of the regular alphabetized model.

John says hearing all that praise really makes his day. The only problem is most people can't read the bottom line of the chart, which says in teeny, tiny letters "You are extremely conceited if you believe all of this."

Wylie says the only people capa-ble of reading it are "really young guys ready to join the Air Force and fly jets."

Off we go, into the wild blue yonder. Read the next story.

Auction action

Isn't it interesting how things have a way of coming around? The auctioneering firm of Stalker and Boos is world famous, handling the estates of some of the most prestigious and influential people in the world.

Now it appears they're going to have an estate sale themselves. At least that's the information we received in a newsletter titled "The Collector's Item" from Stalker and Boos.

According to them, the estate of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stalker, of Lakeland Avenue, will be auctioned off on Saturday and Sunday, June 23 to 24. If you're really into auctions, this one has got to be a dandy.

If it's true that "narcs" smoke the best dope, it must also be true that an auctioneer must have the best antiques. Personally, I've got my eye on a pair of green, warty Chinese toads, (item 481), on page 67 of the Stalker catalog.

Happy CLth

Happy birthday to St. Paul's Church. This Sunday, June 24, St. Paul's will have a final jubilee celebration of its 150th

A special Thanksgiving Mass will be celebrated at 1 p.m. with the Most Reverend Edmund C. Szoka, Archbishop of Detroit, in attendence. Also in attendence will be John Cardinal Dearden, former Archbishop of Detroit and Homilist, Rev. John C. Nienstedt, from the Vatican and a native of Grosse Pointe.

Builders back out of Park project

By Harriet Nolan

Builders Cox and Baker packed up their blueprints in favor of greener and more receptive pastures after Grosse Pointe Park council nixed their request for a zoning variance on the proposed Carleton Place Subdivision.

Baker had bought the 70-year-old J.B. Ford estate and wanted to demolish the home and build houses that would sell for between $200,000 and $300,000. But the whole deal hinged on getting council's approval for a shoreline variance which was unanimously denied at the June 11 meeting.

"We've reluctantly abandoned the project," said William Baker, president of the firm well-known for building custom homes in this area.

is bending to its constituents.

"It may be good for those directly interested, but not for the city which is losing a great tax revenue. The Park needs revitalizing and it's certainly not the finest of the Pointes," he added.

Baker told council that while he could legally build up to 18 homes and have four face the lake, he'd prefer to build 16 with two on the water. He wanted the two homes on the water to be 130 feet from the shoreline, a far cry from the 211 feet allowed by the recently passed zoning ordinance.

Citing undue hardship, he said his proposal would leave a great deal of open space so all the homes could have some feel of the water. "But if "I can't drop my quality standards to accommodate the council which we have to go with the 211 foot setback, it would eliminate two more lots and then the numbers aren't there.'

> Council listened to Carol Ward who represented the Southeast Park Association. She disagreed with Baker's contention that losing two homes would cause undue hardship.

Mrs. Ward said passage of a variance would change the character and beauty of the community by blocking the lake for the current neighbors. She accused both the developers and attorneys for the estate of ignoring other homeowners' interests and "not giving anyone a chance to see what you're doing until the last minute.

However, Robert L. Heritier, cotrustee of the Ford estate, said this possibility has been common knowledge, that Pointe realtors have known the property has been for sale and it's been on the market unofficially for a couple of years.

"If we had put a listing on it, anybody could be coming in and we want the right kind of people for that home," said Heritier.

Heritier later said that the J.B. Ford family was distressed over the outcome and is re-evaluating the

"Maybe some other developer will step forward with a less desirable plan and it may be the only way for the Ford family to realize the values on its property," said Heritier "Of course in three years no other buyer has been willing to make an offer. I believe the neighborhood would like to see it but it

Park Mayor Palmer Heenan said he had mixed feelings over the outcome and felt "very badly that a home with that much character would have to be demolished. We'd like to have as many traditional homes maintained and kept viable as possible."

He said that when subdividing is necessary it should be in keeping with the character of the community and not try to compress houses too tightly.

"It was just a question that they wanted too big of a variance and you can't expect the neighbors not to be astounded.

"I think council was responsive to the neighbors who turned out in force," he added.

Memories for sale

An estimated 5,000 persons showed up for the estate sale of the late Thelma Clark Lindzay, of Balfour Road, last week. Known for her love of the finer things in life, Mrs. Lindzay was a long time Grosse Pointe resident and a former pilot, was a friend of Amelia Earhart. According to reports, a couple living in Indian Village bought the living room furniture to use in their music room, which is a miniature of the one in Versailles. The first item to be auctioned off was a watch manufactured to commemorate Charles Lindbergh's cross Atlantic flight. Mary George Caleal and Associates, auctioneers for the estate, reported that 95 percent of all the lots were sold. Out of respect for Mrs. Lindzay, her memories and mementos, the theme from "Gone With the Wind," her favorite movie, was played during the sale.

TV documentary made in GP

There were a lot of "lights, cameras and action" in Grosse Pointe over the weekend as a television crew tried to capture the story of a secular revolution on

The docu-drama, titled "A Priest Indeed," tells the history of the "irregular" ordination 10 years ago of 11 women deacons as priests in the Episcopal Church of America, against the authority, customs and traditions of that religion.

Teachers vote

Schools win labor peace'

By Susan McDonald

Grosse Pointe teachers voted 3-1 last week to extend their current contract with the school board for two more years. It was the first time in the teacher union's history that a contract was negotiated ahead of deadline.

The teachers, represented by the 490-member Grosse Pointe Education Association, are just finishing up the first year of a two-year pact that calls for five percent pay increases annually. With the approval of a two-year extension last week, their contract now stands through the 1986-87 school year.

They will continue to receive five percent raises each year at two percent flat selary hitse and Cost of Living Adjustments (COLA) capped at three percent. The COLA payments could go as ich account in the last year high as four percent in the last year of the contract, according to school system director of personnel, Ronald Tonks.

School board president Joan Hanpeter said she was pleased that the extension was approved and the system could look forward to at least two years of "labor peace," especially because the board is now looking for a new superintendent to replace Kenneth Brummel, who leaves the post this month.

Tonks said the settlement is consistent with others that have recently been negotiated in the Detroit area. "It's good and fair: it's tied to inflation, but there are caps on that," Tonks said. He added that without the settlement, the school district would have been back at the bargaining table in May.

Tonks estimated the contract's cost at $1.7 million over two years. An average Grosse Pointe teacher's total compensation this year, including salary, pension funding and fringe benefits, totalled

The two-year extension was approved by a 259-78 vote on Thursday, June 14, despite organized and vocal opposition. The extension had been recommended by the local union's executive board, according to president Jim Garlough, but the board of delegates had refused to take a stand before the election.

The proposal also had been reviewed by the Local One Unified Bargaining Committee. Local One is an umbrella organization go-verning 18 school districts' teacher unions which are affiliated with the Michigan Education Association.

board negotiators School originally proposed the contract be extended just one year, Garlough said. But local union leaders came back with the two-year proposal because that would put Grosse Pointe teachers on the same negotiating schedule as other Local One districts, whose contracts expire in

The school board recently approved a new two-year contract with its other major employe group, plant personnel, with provisions for five percent annual improvements. Secretaries, members of the Association of Educational Office Personnel, were scheduled to vote on a similar offer Wednesday, June 20, after the Grosse Pointe News went to press.

On Wednesday evening, the board was also scheduled to vote on salary improvements for administrators, including distribution of bonuses of up to $1,000 per person based on performance evaluations.

first conjure up scenes from Star Wars movies where Luke Skywalker and Darth Vader battled it out on mega-fighter space ships. But laser technology is now being used in the treatment of lung cancer and other tumors, and operations that require precise intervention.

"Statistics indicated 139,000 new cases of lung cancers this year,' says Paul Kvale, M.D., of the Park. "It's already the most common type in men and it will soon surpass breast cancer as the most common

"The big problem of lung cancer is it tends not to produce any symptoms until it's spread beyond the early stages. By then the cure becomes difficult," he adds.

Kvale, division head of pulmonary and critical care medicine at Henry Ford Hospital, says he's been caring for patients who are in final stages of lung cancer using the Yag laser. "Not as a cure but to open their airways.

Of the 29 patients already treated, Kvale says the longest survivor lived 512 days and three others lived between 200 and 300 days. Without treatment death would probably occur in less than three months and three weeks for those whose treatment wasn't suc-

Procedures involve putting a 'flexible fiber-optic bronchoscope' (a many-channeled instrument) in the bronchial tubes. Kvale says its flexibility is more comfortable for the patient, less risky and can extend further into the lung to areas formerly not accessible.

A quartz fiber which acts as a conductor for the laser is passed through one of the channels down into the windpipe and main bronchial tubes. The laser is fired up and heats the tissue, causing the water content to boil and vaporize.

"It destroys a portion of the tumor so the windpipes and bronchial tubes are open," says Kvale.

One of the "beauties" of this treatment is there is only a minimal amount of damage, if any, done to the surrounding areas compared to radiation treatment.

"Radiation has to be used sparingly because of that," says Kvale. "But damage done using the Yag laser is generally repaired by itself. The patient can come back again and again making his last days as comfortable as possible."

Some patients aren't candidates for surgery either because of the location of the tumor or other medical problems, but they might benefit from radiation treatment.

For those, Kvale first uses the Yag laser to open the breathing passages. This gives the patient some relief and at the same time gets rid of a bit of the larger tumor.

'Normally, this type of patient isn't quite as sick in terms of survival," says Kvale. "Of five treated all have survived for greater than 200 days and will probably be pushing a year.'

A third group of patients who have benign tumors blocking their windpipes and larnyx are being treated with the Yag laser. Kvale says two-thirds of those have been able to avoid standard surgery.

The argon dye laser is another relatively new laser Kvale uses to detect lung cancer in the early stages. It's used in conjunction with a dye made from hemoglobin which when injected into the bloodstream is drawn to malignant cancer cells.

When the violet light emitted from the argon laser comes intocontact with the red light emitted from the dye, a fluorescence occurs. This "light" helps to localize the small cancer which may have been invisible on x-rays and even to a trained eye, says Kvale. This headstart makes standard surgery and radiation therapy more likely to be successful

Kvale says it's possible that as many as five to 10 percent of all lung cancer patients may be candidates for diagnosis and treatment using one or more of these Another Pointe physician who uses lasers is Daniel Megler, M.D., staff physician at St. John Hospital. While he says treatment is still fairly limited, he sometimes uses it on patients with ear, nose and throat problems.

'It gives us a great advantage in gaining access to certain areas we couldn't approach before and it's very precise.'

Megler doesn't see any advantages to using lasers on big tumors. "Standard surgery would be more effective," he says. "But, it's crucial to areas of the voice box and trachea where post operative swelling must be kept to a minimum so the patient can breathe.

"This is especially useful to singers and professionals who use their voice a great deal. We can remove polyps and nodules on vocal cords, but at the same time take a minimal portion of the vocal cords to preserve the voice," he

Megler finds lasers good for a small percentage of children who get warts which multiply very fast on their voice box. "While it's not common and not a form of cancer, it can be deadly by just choking the child," he says. "So we have to keep repeating the procedure on a monthly basis for those who are prone to it."

To zap these warts, Megler would use a carbon dioxide laser. Unlike the Yag and Argon which requires a flexible Bronchoscope, the CO, uses the more uncomfortable rigid bronchoscope. The beam of light evaporates the water from tissue and then the remnants are suctioned off.

While discomfort is about the same for standard surgery, laser treatments can be done on an outpatient basis and the swelling is reduced, he says.

The Argon dye laser which is attracted by the color red can also be used to remedy certain types of hearing loss. When it's necessary to replace a little bone in the ear with an artificial prosthesis a few milimeters in length, removal and inserting has to be delicate.

"Otherwise it can produce disturbances of balance or nerve damage that destroys the hearing," says Megler. "The argon's steady beam of light as a guide is more controllable vs. using the

While he doesn't use lasers for cosmetic surgery, he says some congenital deformities which completely obstruct the nose and the mouth can be opened up to establish communication between the failed by a 2-1 margin.

"The young people have been disenfranchised and realize now they don't have a voice in this com-munity," Mrs. Saari said. "I think it will have a long-term effect on the community. It will be hard to attract young people to move here. There will be a decrease in the number of volunteers in the schools, especially for fund-raisers," she said.

Echoing Mrs. Saari's sentiments was Roger Mourad, the only board member who voted against Brummel's reorganization plan. Mourad sought re-election June 11 lost his seat to a newcomer, stores. Refreshments will also be Fred Adams, who had supported have taken a conciliatory apthe board's action.

Mourad used his closing statements at his last formal school board meeting last week to reiterate his belief in the position he took. The controversy surrounding the recent election "revived community interest as it has never been revived before," he said. "I'm confident the affairs of the school district will never be the same again.'

And Mourad predicted "there is a community perseverance to continue the noble cause . . . to pursue maintenance of our neighborhood school system.

"It is a right cause," he said.

The June 11 winners, including board President Joan Hanpeter and three trustees who escaped recall, Catherine Brierly, Jon Gandelot and Ernest Buechler, proach. They have publicly agreed to a two or three year moratorium on more school closings and said they will work to "heal the wounds" left by the controversy.

"We need those young parents (who opposed the closing)," said Mrs. Hanpeter. "We must all concentrate our efforts on healing the wounds and drawing the communi-ty together to improve our schools.

Several of the recall supporters said, after the election, that the controversy actually boiled down to a fight between generations: David Easlick, chairman of the recall, said the school board "trap-ped" senior citizens into favoring its cause by saying the closing pro-posal was an "economic issue." And Mrs. Saari said "most senior citizens felt that if they encouraged the closings of schools their taxes may go down.

the state of the control of the state of the

when the board doesn't lower taxes," Mrs. Saari added.

Next year's tax rate won't be set until September, but the budget for 1984-85 calls for an increase of about 4.8 percent in property taxes. The budget reflected a savings of $115,000 from the closing of Barnes school and about $40,000 in onetime costs for converting the building to house non-instructional departments.

While most city councils in the Pointe steered clear of the school closing controversy, the Park was an exception. Its mayor, Palmer Heenan, won election last fall in the midst of the controversy by strongly opposing school closings. And he remained involved by contributing funds to the recall committee and attending meetings of the group.

Heenan said last week he thinks the end result of the election will be Easlick said. "Gaskin was elected "I don't know how they'll feel that the school board will be "more by school (recall) people."

responsive and concerned" about its facilities in the Park. The recall failed, he said, because the school board backed off on its original plans to close four buildings.

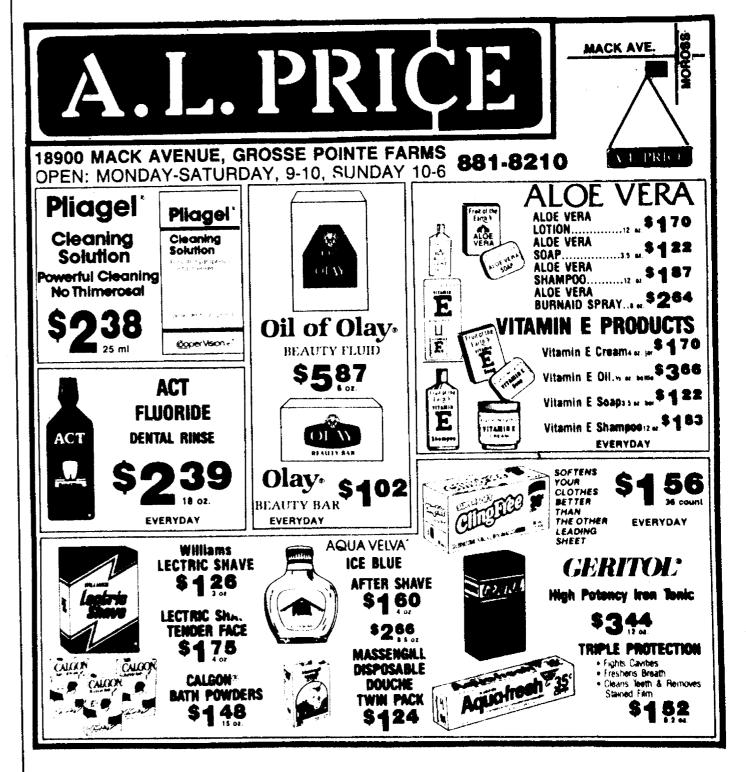

"They (voters) were counting on the board not to pursue (school closings) any further," Heenan said. He added that voters found recall a "distasteful activity.

A coalition of people who felt the board would save money by closing schools defeated the recall, Heenan said. "It will be interesting to see how they respond to the next mill-age election," he added.

Recall chairman Easlick noted that the closing issue had split the Park council. "All the people there who supported the board — (councilmen John) Prost, (Carroll) Evola and (David) Gaskin — have some fence mending to do,"

Woods may farm out rubbish collection

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Woods may hire a private company to collect city garbage. The move would allow the city to lay off eight part-time employes and sell the bulk of its collection equipment, officials said.

The city council Monday night, June 11, asked City Administrator-Clerk Chester Petersen to prepare cost comparisons of service by the Department of Public Works and a private company, Painter & Ruthenberg, Inc., which collects rubbish in Harper Woods.

Painter & Ruthenberg was the apparent low-bidder for a five-year rubbish collection contract, underbidding the DPW by 6.5 percent. Bids were collected in May as part of a periodic check to make sure the city is delivering services at market value, Petersen told the council.

Over five years, Painter & Ruthenberg said it would cost $1.305 million to collect city rubbish. The DPW bid $1.39 million for the same period. The next closest bidder was $1.56 million.

Although the city initially expected to save between $20,000 and $30,000 a year by going to private collection, Petersen said the city would have to continue picking up its own brush and leaves, bringing Petersen said. The DPW can offer "personalized service" in some cases, something the private company couldn't do, he added.

The city wouldn't have to pay the rising maintenance and repair costs that took away the city's "competitive edge" in the first place, Petersen said. Because of the layoffs, the city would save on wages and liability and workers compensation insurance, he added.

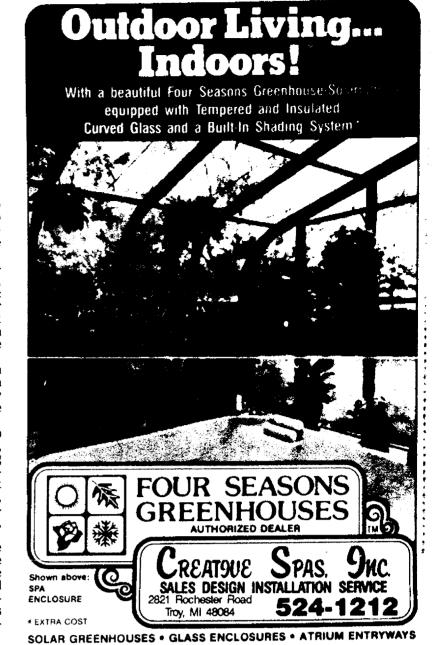

Most of the savings would have to be invested in a depreciation fund to allow the city to purchase equipment should, after five years, the cost change dramatically.

Other problems with private collection include incineration, Petersen said. Since Painter & Ruthenberg collects in Harper Woods, the company would collect the rubbish the length of streets in both cities, instead of stopping at the boundary.

Each city pays for incineration based on the amount sent, Petersen said. The company did not say how the two cities would be billed for the refuse it hauls to the incinerator.

The city switched from private to city rubbish collection in 1967, Petersen said. A company bidding for the contract "low-balled" the city that year to win the contract, but gouged the city the following year, so the Woods bought its own equipment and began collecting garbage, he added.

Petersen was asked to collect the figures and return them to the committee-of-the-whole, where the matter will be discussed. Council will make a recommendation for official action. Petersen said he hopes to have the figures ready for the July 2 regular council meeting.

Born in the desperate days following World War II when it was not possible to get their instruments or money to play their beloved Calypso music, the natives of Trinidad discovered that abandoned oil drums could be used for musical tunes. # Healing the wounds

The Grosse Pointe News has been impressed by the emphasis that the winners in the recent school election have placed on "healing the swounds" caused by the attempt to recall three board members and reverse the board's reorganization plan. We think this attitude augurs well for the future.

HOWEVER, TO HEAL THE WOUNDS of the election controversies requires the cooperation of the losing faction as well as the winners. And while it is obviously easier to be a good winner then to be a good loser, statements by some of the leaders in the opposition to the board's actions indicate they are not yet ready to accept the election results.

It is their privilege, of course, to continue their fight against the closing of Barnes Elementary School and the shifting of sixth graders from the elementary to the middle schools. But the fact is that the community has spoken, in rather decisive terms, as to its feelings about these mat-ters. The people defeated the recall proposed by a two-to-one margin. They defeated the lone school board member who opposed the reorganization plan that was adopted. And they defeated a second candidate who opposed the board's position. Yet one leader in the recall group said, "We'll continue to work within the electoral process to reverse the decision.

C Another leader in the losing faction also contended the campaign in support of the board "brought out . . . many people who are concerned about taxes" but have no direct link with the public school system. He mentioned specifically senior citizens, those whose children no longer attend Grosse Pointe public schools and those with children in private or parochial schools.

One implication of those remarks is that only those with children in the public schools should vote on school issues. Another possible implication is that only those who do not have children in the schools are concerned about taxes. In our opinion, the leader who made those remarks was wrong on both counts.

Quality education does serve the entire community, a fact that is as well recognized by residents who do not have children in the public schools as by parents of school children. But in these days of constantly rising costs, most people are also concerned about rising taxes. And that concern is shared, we are sure, by most parents of school children.

Nor, in fact, has the board ever said it would save large sums of money by closing schools. Instead, it has said that closing some schools and more efficient operation of them could prevent taxes from going up more rapidly than they otherwise would. And that sensible position is not held just by "the forces that traditionally vote against the millage in Grosse Pointe," despite the board's critics.

OUR POINT IS THAT IT is sensible for Grosse Pointe residents to be concerned about the maintenance of quality education, about efficient operation of the public schools and about costs and taxes. Those matters are of interest to all residents, whether they have children in the public schools or not.

As for those who lost in the recent election, we hope they will not follow the advice of the leader who still wants to reverse the board's reorganization plan but instead, will now join in the "healing" process. That does not mean the critics should remain silent but in view of the election results they ought to give the board's reorganization plan a chance to work.

The board already has pledged not to close any more schools for two years. That moratorium will give the schools and the community time to study the results of the Barnes closing and the shifting of sixth graders into the middle schools. It also will provide more time for developing plans to meet the needs of both the community and the schools if more school closings are required in the future.

Perhaps most important, that moratorium will provide additional time for the "healing" to take place, especially if those who lost in the June 11 elections join in that "healing" process.

Let's close more schools

To the Editor:

Hearty congratulations to the citizens of the five Grosse Pointes. Many people have assumed that they were half alseep and uninformed and foolish. But that assumption was refuted thoroughly last week by the turn-out for the recall election.

Congratulations are due because of the re-election of President Joan Hanpeter to the Board of Education, because of the citizens refusal to give Grosse Pointe a black eye by recalling the three responsible and excellent members of the board and by defeating the one board member who was opposed to closing a single school, even though the school popula-tion had declined almost 50 percent.

Now it's time for Grosse Pointers to support the board in its original plan to close at least three other schools so that taxes in these cities can get in fixed incomes. The taxes of line with the declining school population.

I think it's also time for the citizens of Grosse Pointe to take a hard look at their whole system of government and time to ask "Why does a community of about 55,000 people have to put up with the waste and excess taxation that comes with having five separate city governments?"

Although the opponents of the reorganization of the school system refused to admit it, some major changes are occur-ruing in our small cities and in our entire society. It's about time that we have an efficient, up-to-date system of city government and school system.

An important fact is that many of Grosse Pointe's citizens, who have lived here for decades and have supported the schools and the city governments during this time, are now becoming senior citizens with many people have tripled in the past dozen years or so. If this happens again in the next decade or so, these people will be forced to move elsewhere. Let's continue to support policies that are responsive to the changes now occuring in the Grosse Pointes, as we did last

Dull conventions ahead?

Michigan Democrats this year jumped onto the Mondale bandwagon early with the result if there is going to be any payoff for the early supporters of the former vice president, the Michael delegation should be near the head of the line of the recipients.

Unfortunately for state Democrats, however, the real payoff will come only if Mondale wins in November and to date he is running well behind President Reagan in the public opinion polls. That picture may change as the memories of the nasty Democratic campaign recede and the party begins to attack the Republican opposition, but a Mondale victory would be an upset on the basis of current public opinion.

FOUR YEARS AGO JIMMY CARTER and Mondale won only 49 electoral votes against Reagan-Bush ticket's 489. The Democrats carried Georgia and Minnesota, the home states of their nominees, but only a handful of other states as the Republicans swept to an easy victory. With the economic picture now improving, with both unemployment and inflation being reduced, what appeal can the Democrats make on the domestic scene except for public concern about the rising federal deficit? And if foreign affairs becomes a major issue in the fall campaign, how will that issue play in Michigan, which went for Reagan in 1980?

With the Reagan-Bush ticket firmly in place without opposition and with Mondale now having enough delegates to win the Democratic nomination, it appears the two national political conventions will be fairly unexciting. Mondale has been interviewing candidates for his party's vice presidential nomination but is unlikely to make his decision known before the convention meets. That choice should add some mild suspense to the Democratic session.

There could be some controversy over the arty platforms — especially at the Democratic convention — but platform arguments seldom make for exciting television coverage. Platforms usually are written to run on, which means seeking as wide agreement as possible within each of the parties and avoiding controversies that might damage the ticket.

All in all, the prospects are for party conventions that are likely to bore the TV viewers if not the participants. But surprises always are a possibility during the conventions and almost a certainty during the fall campaign. So don't give up on the great democratic process yet.

There's no school better than Barnes

To The Editor

When Jack McMahon sent me the notice about the last "Ice Cream Social" to be held at Barnes School, I had to make the journey from California to attend. It would be a sad but sweet journey - sad because of the event, sweet because I would see once again some of the people with whom I had worked at Barnes while I was principal there from 1963 to 1968. Now I find myself writing to the com-munity about the school, something I would not have imagined, but which I cannot help.

I know how painful it is to close schools and how no one takes pleasure in doing so. Many schools have been forced to close because of declining enrollment in the area where I work, and I have followed the public and professional anguish that accompanied these actions. However, I must try to explain something beyond the Barnes situation that seems to me to be above and beyond the ordinary school closing.

During the sixteen years since I left Barnes, I have visited many schools for purposes of evaluating programs and for other reasons. I have found few schools that compare with cipals has contributed to the Barnes and none that surpasses record of Barnes School. Barnes and none that surpasses it. The creative vision of those who planned it and the pride of the community that supported its construction 27 years ago should be celebrated today. It is an ideal neighborhood school, one that is still a mark for other communities to attain.

The setting for Barnes School is breathtaking. Few elementary schools have such beautiful and generous locations. Few are designed with such openness and ampleness of space. None has the gracious and lovely interior. Barnes exerts a kind of spell that carries students and teachers along and that raises education to a level of achievement and pleasure unfelt and unexperienced in other places.

In the few years it has been in existence, Barnes has attracted outstanding teachers. They have stood for a strong and steady education but have conducted their classes with great individual inventiveness and exploration of knowledge. They have taught with keen personal attention to students' needs and with regard for the parents.

I can say - selfishly in my own case — that each of the prinFlorence Cumings set the course, I believe I expanded it, and I know that Jack (McMahon) has carried it to higher levels of performance than ever before.

Principals and teachers alike have been borne along by an extraordinary group of parents. They are interested in their children's education and in the continual development of their school. They are eager to participate in its life. They are kind, generous and just a pleasure to work with.

Barnes is an educational center for the neighborhood; it is an intellectual, aesthetic, and moral center for the pupils it serves. I cannot believe that pupils and teachers will not be in that building.

Grosse Pointe has always revered education and its schools - and I can personally attest that this reputation extends beyond its borders. Grosse Pointe has ever been the preserver of the best and it should preserve its gem -Barnes School.

A death in the family.

There is sorrow in one Grosse Pointe household this week, the kind of sorrow caused by a death in the family. Indeed, the sorrow we're mentioning is caused by a death in the family even if the death is that of a 15-year-old Angora

Like most cats, Smoky was an individual with special characteristics. When she looked at you with those cold green eyes, she seemed to be saying, "Look, buster, I'm due for a little attention or food or something." On her good days, she looked and acted like a queen, but she tolerated the family. On her bad days, well, we won't speak unkindly of the dead.

Smoky did not live out the cat's traditional nine lives. But she did manage a narrow escape from death at least once. Hit by a passing car, she dragged herself into a window well where she lay for several days before being found. It turned out she had suffered a fractured hip. For several months, she was a noisy and not very active cat as she limped around with one of her hind legs in a plaster cast. Her normal activities were eating, sleeping, hunting and playing. Until her declining months, she remained the hunter, bringing in a variety of unwanted mice, birds and even small rabbits to the back door, apparently as offerings of food. As for playing, she batted a small red and blue cloth mouse around the kitchen for years, sometimes tossing it high in the air and then pouncing on it gleefully as it fell back to the floor.

Smoky was a lap cat. As a lap cat, she preferred the solid stuff of books to more perishable newspapers and magazines. It was easier for her to leap into the lap of a book reader than to reach the lap of someone reading a newspaper or magazine. She also liked to join family members in naps but especially seemed to enjoy leaping onto a unsuspecting napper's stomach just as he had dozed off.

Smoky was also a purring cat. Sometimes she would purr at being fed. Sometimes when she was petted. Most often after she had curled up in a lap and was apparently asleep. The purring seemed to reflect contentment and Smoky's belief that a cat's life is not all bad.

Smoky left her mark in several places around the home. On the screen door and the screen porch, which she clawed when she wanted to get back in the house. On a favorite chair where she sharpened her claws. On the sofa where she often gave herself a bath. On several rugs when accidents happened. Most of all, of course, in the hearts of the members of their family.

Can this be a new start?

To the Editor:

Your pages have been filled for months with charges and counter-charges from each side of the recent school elections. Upon reading your June 14 lead article by Susan McDonald I was insulted to read a quote from Supt. Kenneth Brummel which divides the voters into two groups, the thinking and the non-thinking.

was cast in a losing effort that I and the thousands who supported losing candidates and the recall issue are cast in the role of non-thinkers.

This attitude by our school superintendent leaves this nonthinking Grosse Pointe taxpayer extremely disgusted and upset. I hope the school board I must assume since my vote does not share Supt. Brummel's attitude regarding the taxpayers of the Grosse Pointe school system.

I, for one, hope that this election can be a new start, but comments like this leave me in

Voters showed concern

To the Editor:

The Grosse Pointe voters are to be congratulated for the excellent turn-out in this most important school board election. Once again we have had substantiated the fact that Grosse Pointers care what happens to our community and welcomed the opportunity to demonstrate their concern as they exercised their right to vote.

I am grateful for the very encouraging vote of confidence which has called me to serve on the Board of Education for the Grosse Pointe school system. I anticipate busy and challenging days and weeks ahead as the board moves to address that which is in the best interests of the whole Grosse Pointe community.

It is my sincere hope that out of the total effort which has gone into this recent campaign all of us together will move in positive directions. Speaking for myself, I can do no less.

I want to express sincere appreciation to those persons who supported me in so many ways throughout the duration of the campaign. My personal thanks to each of you for your efforts on my behalf.

CHEC thanks contributors

To the Editor

The Community Hospice Education Committee (CHEC) wishes to extend its sincere appreciation to everyone who contributed to the successful benefit performance of "Whose Life Is It, Anyway?" on April 26, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Fries Auditorium.

Special thanks go to Dr. and Mrs. John Schneider and Dr. and Mrs. Eudoro Coello, honorary co-sponsors, volunteers, members of the Grosse Pointe Theatre, and other supporters of hospice care. Many people commented that this production surpassed the Broadway performance. Proceeds from this benefit will be used to continue our efforts to strengthen community understanding of hospice as an alternative to traditional care for terminally ill cancer patients. We are grateful to all of you for making this possible.

No winners in school election

The recent Grosse Pointe school board election has nothing to do with schools, quality education — or education at all. It was purely and simply a power play that pitted the older citizens of our community against the younger ones, and the "slick" political machine won out.

To quote one mother: "I can usually accept the outcome of an election, but this time I feel that I have been violated.'

Indeed, this whole community has been violated. Our senior citizens have been misled, misused and in a certain sense somewhat abused. An apology is owed to them. Those who wanted to protect their social status once again compromised their own convictions and were willing to sacrifice the integrity of their schools and community. Sadly, this is a story Americans write over and over again. Power and money are gods!

True quality of life has nothing to do with money or power. It has to do with the human spirit and the desire of people to work together for a common good. It can't be bought.

This community can rightfully be proud of the hundreds of citizens who dedicated almost a year of their lives in trying to preserve the integrity of their school system and their community. Don't tell them to "love it or leave it." That kind of statement is made by people who are either too scared or too lazy to extend themselves to any useful endeavor. I am tired of all the gutless wonders of the world.

'It seems that quality education has never been a top priority in our country. We either consolidate schools or pour money into unnecessary programs and still our educational system remains second-rate to that of many other countries.

The classes offered by the Grosse Pointe school system at the secondary level read like a college catalog. It looks good on paper. But, even if half those classes were eliminated, I bet there would be no need to close any schools. The National Council on Excellence in Education has urged us to "get back to basics," and the Grosse Pointe schools just keep adding more unnecessary programs. The area where we should have more attention is at the elementary level. That is where the basics are taught and should be reinforced, but this is being left to stagnate.

In the final analysis, when the school board members have recovered from their "sweet taste" of victory and can think rationally, they will realize that they have won nothing at all. They are surely losers just like our children and the rest of the community. That is the tragedy! Unfortunately, the power still rests with them but they also have a profound responsibility to use that power very wisely.

Remember the old saying; Give a man enough rope . . .!

The need for such parking and the plan to develop it have been reviewed by traffic engineers, parking consultants, city planners and landscape architects.

"To summarize our position, the city has been interested in obtaining additional parking in the lower Hill area for the purpose of satisfying a parking deficiency in this area which had earlier contributed to the vacant status of the Punch and Judy Theater for several years and the diminished viability of the lower Hill in general.

"Significantly, the benefits derived from the proposed lot are essentially the same to the Grosse Pointe school system as they are to the city of Grosse Pointe Farms, namely:

". If the proposed parking lot should improve the viability of the area businesses so that a repetition of a vacant Punch and Judy Theater and other vacant structures is made unlikely and perhaps even result in a physical upgrading, both the city and the school system benefit. A vacant or deteriorated structure in the vicinity of an elementary school building is of utmost concert to us all.

 If the proposed parking lot should improve property values in the vicinity, the city and school system will receive the benefit in increased tax rev-

"• In addition to adding parking to relieve commercial demand, parking at this area will help to alleviate parking for Richard School functions (PTO meetings, assemblies, etc.); parking for the Grosse Pointe Central Library; parking for activities at the South High playfield.

It is evident from the above that there is benefit to the city, to the school system, and to the community as a whole.'

Senator's view from Lansing

Legislature faces critical issues

By John Kelly State Senator

Normally, at the beginning of the State Legislature's summer recess, I report back to my constituents on those items of interest which we have finished work on during the spring sum-mer recess. The Michigan Senate, rather than adjourning for the balance of the summer, has gone into a quasi-recess. designed to allow us to come back into session as various conference reports on appropriation bills are reported for passage. The House of Representatives remains in session for the purpose of working on legislation passed by the Senate in the last few weeks.

Despite the various reports by the media that the legislature has been neglect in deciding various issues, and quibbling on both sides of the partisan aisles that each political party is holding up progress on certain issues, I believe that the legislature has some very critical issues and policies before it and that a lot of work has been put into the careful deliberation on these crucial pieces of legislation.

that have been dominating our work in Lansing these past several months. I will highlight a few in this column so that you can either write my office for further information or to voice your opinion on them.

Seat Belts — Senate Bill 741 would require the mandatory use of seat belts in our state. Currently there is disagreement as to whether the law should go into effect for a given number of years, and then once we have experienced the law and see the statistics, have its continuation voted on by the people; or, as in the Senate passed version of the bill, have a vote of the people first.

Income Tax Rollback - Senate Bill 660 has been in confer ence committee for the past two months. However, there has been a lot of constructive dialogue between the conferees as well as legislative leadership. Essentially the issues come down to the date of rolling the tax back to 5.35 percent (Oct. 1, July 1, or somewhere in-between) and the date of the final tax cut to return to 4.6 per-cent. Because I sponsored Sen-cers.

There are a number of bills ate Bill 427 which would have rolled the tax back proportionately to the size of any state surplus at an early date, I was asked to be a member of the conference committee.

Vehicle Inspections — Senate Bill 772. Under threat by the federal government of a cut-off of federal funding for transportation and economic development projects, the state has been ordered to come up with a vehicle inspection program that would meet certain federal guidelines. There is currently debate whether the state should sue the federal government over this imposed program, allocate the money for a start-up program, or put pressure on our congressional delegation for a delay on the sanctions.

Appropriation bills - The State budget bills are currently in conference committees with many items of disagreement. I have amended House Bill 5332, which contains the Detroit Equity portion of the budget, to strip the discretionary money sent to Detroit and instead earmark those monies to be spent on rehiring of Detroit police offi-

Agreement close on rollback

By William R. Bryant State Representative

The Legislature should be adjourning this week, but as I write this I am doubtful it will adjourn.

It would take only an hour, or less, to resolve the issues which keep us in session, the tax rollback and key decisions about the budget.

Talks have been going on for two weeks between the four legislative leaders and their key people on the Appropriations Committees. And progress has been made.

At this point the most likely outcome of those talks as they apply to tax rollback is for an expansion of the Governor's proposal to cut the rate to 5.35 percent on Aug. 15 instead of Oct. 1 as the Governor had recommended.

In addition, there will probably be another rollback component based on surplus, if any, existing at Sept. 30, 1985. A third component, if agreed by the reluctant Democrats, would return to the normal rate of 4.6 percent no later than Jan. 1, Budget agreements will probably involve at least $60 million added to the school aid bill and before July 4.

recognition that the Governor shortcut the Social Services appropriation by at least $60 million. In return for the Governor admitting this, the Senate Republicans will agree, hopefully, to fully fund the General Assistance Program.

There are other issues, but they are minor compared to these.

If there is no agreement it will be because somebody doesn't want agreement, and I am convinced both House and Senate Republicans do want agreement, do want the tax rollback and budget decided

There are some very good reasons why the rest of your friends in Grosse Pointe trust their valued photos to SPEEDI PHOTO over all the other one-hour labs & the local drugstore.

It seems that everytime you pick up the newspaper there's another "one hour photo lab" opening up in a shopping mall promising the world's best photos. Despite these new "miracle" labs, Speedi Photo continues to enjoy the confidence and patronage of a good portion of the picture takers in Grosse Pointe. Here's why .

- WE USE THE BEST EQUIPMENT money can buy. Many one hour labs today are nothing more than "converted home darkrooms" that don't have the electronic sophistication necessary to make the best possible prints from your negatives.
- WE USE KODAK, U.S.A. PAPER & CHEMICALS to guarantee consistently good color prints. Many one hour labs are trying to cut corners by using European Kodak or Japanese paper instead of KODAK, U.S.A. paper, which we receive fresh from Kodak's Rochester factory weekly.
- WE EMPLOY TRAINED PROFESSIONALS to print your photos who have been factory trained to meet our exacting standards of quality.
- WE MAKE ENLARGEMENTS up to 11"×14" as quickly as one hour as well as just develop & print standard-size color prints!
- OUR ONLY BUSINESS IS PICTURES . . . we don't use our processing as a "leader" to draw you into the store. Your processing business is our livelihood. We do your pictures better because we want your business!

Quite a mess. Actually, this represents only a fraction of the debris that was scattered to the winds, and the neighbors, of North High School last Wednesday when school let out for the summer. Thousands of papers also littered the parking lot and soccer field adjacent to the school. Over at South High School the littering was held to a minimum, but Farms police officials confirmed that parking meters located near the school were vandalized, with about 10 meters completely removed. To their credit, officials at North High School had the thousands of papers mostly picked up by the next day, when North conducted its first ever out door com-

HOT SPARK PLUGS

It's not unusual for an engine to lose pep power and smoothness because of the wrong spark plugs. This is particularly true when engin speed and mileage demands are such that plugs tend to run too hot.

Hot plugs are fairly common cause of a serious engine condition known as preignition This means the fuel and air mixture in one or more cylinders is being ignited prematurely by the heat of the plug firing ends, or before the plug actually fires a spark. When preignition becomes severe, engine noise (detonation) develops. This signals a dangerous situation on which can quickly result in engine damage

If you suspect preignition problems, have the torted electrodes (firing points) indicate plugs are too hot for your driving needs. The cure, of course, is to change the plugs for ones in a lower heat range

Park thief ieaves mess

A family living on Bedford Road will be in for a rude awakening when they return home and find their home in shambles.

Police were called about 8 p.m., Saturday, June 16, after a neighbor discovered the door open, said James LaPratt, Park detective.

They entered and found the home skillfully ransacked. Dressers and contents were strewn all over, mattresses and chairs overturned. Even the refrigerator and freezer had been searched.

LaPratt said he's waiting for the owners to return and the case is under investigation.

To add insult to injury, the thief apparently cut himself getting in through the basement window and

Eastland adds food court

Eastland Center recently announced plans for a $2.5 million renovation project that will bring nine new restaurants to the center in a food court.

"Market East" will feature a skylighted atrium food court, where shoppers and diners will be surrounded by two full-line restaurants, Baguette's and D. Dennison's. The Real Seafood Co., and seven other establishments.

The food court area will occupy more than 24,000 square feet on the east side of the center, in an area formerly occupied by Stouffer's restaurant. There will be no disruption to normal mall shopping dur-ing the renovation project, according to Robert R. Jenkins, senior vice-president of The Center Companies, the firm which manages Eastland.

With the modern American lifestyle and so many two income families, eating out is increasingly popular. By offering a pleasing atmosphere with such a great variety of foods, Eastland will be meeting contemporary trends in the restaurant business, while providing an extra special attraction. D. Dennison's, The Real Seafood Company, will be moderately pric-

Seniors join Phi Beta Kappa

Seventeen senior South High School students were among those recognized at the 36th annual Honors Convocation of the Detroit Association of Phi Beta Kappa May 8 at the Ford Auditorium.

The event is held to recognize the scholastic achievements of students in more than 100 high schools in the Detroit metropolitan area.

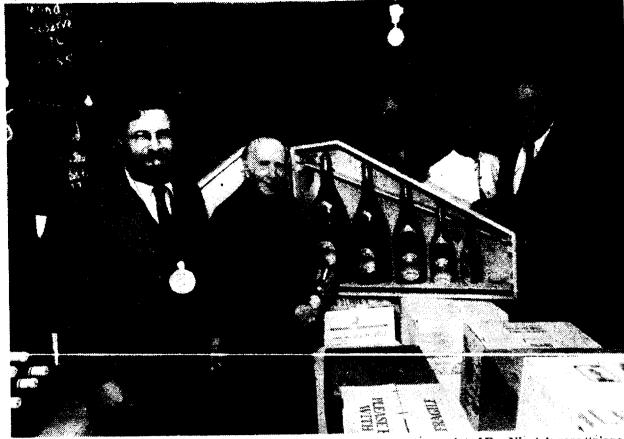

811-5272

A grade point average of 3.8 or higher in the five academic areas qualifies a high school senior for the Certificate of Recognition. Only mathematics, English, social sciences, foreign languages and laboratory science grades are used in computing the honor point ave-

Students must also have maintained a good citizenship rating throughout the three years of senior nigh school.

South students honored were Scot R. Alien, Ranya Dajani, Helen D'Allesandro, Kathryn M. Eckel, Amy S. Gaskin, Katherine D. Hein, Jennifer Hoeting, Matthew W. Lane and Eric Loudermilk.

Other South seniors recognized were Scott R. Miller, Christopher Morlan, Helen Hague Ollison, Lydia Pallas, Bradford Peterson, Kathleen M. Reid, Frances M. Thompson and Lisa Tucker.

Dolce far niente, "without a care," was the toast of this happy group upon receipt of Far Niente's rare "piano case" donations to the Detroit International Wine Auction to be held on Saturday, Sept. 29 at Greenfield Village's Lovett Hall in Dearborn, Mich. From left to right are: Richard Scheer, auction sommelier; internationallyknown concert pianist Misha Kotler; auction co-chairs Jim Goss, of the Pointe; and Marcia Wiltshire; and Pointer and owner of Detroit's Ponchartrain Wine Cellers, Joe Byoir. This event is the second-largest charity auction in the country and all proceeds of the sales will benefit the Detroit Community Music School.

Festivals are everywhere this summer

Chances are, if you're in Michigan this summer, you won't be able to pass a weekend without seeing a musket shot, a cherry-pit spit, or a frisbee fling away from a fantastic summer festival. From Memorial Day through Labor Day, more than 200 such celebrations will be held across the state in places like Detroit, Hesperia, Grand Rapids, Hodunk, Kalamazoo, Mulliken and Blanchard.

The fact is, Michigan is one of only four states to have three of its travel events rated among the nation's top 100 for 1984 by the American Bus Association. Of the three, every week through mid-September. If you happen to miss the culture of your choice, there's a good chance you can catch it at the Yack Arena in Wyandotte where a similar series of ethnic events is held throughout the summer.

Detroit will team up with Windsor, Ontario to honor the friendship between Canada and the U.S. during the International Freedom Festival (June 29-July 8) which will include Canada Day (July 1) and the U.S.'s Fourth of July. The highlight of the more than 50 events happening in both cities is the famous fireworks display over the Detroit River.

Those who have grown up but still love to wear their Davy Crockett hats began the summer at the Muzzle Loader Festival at Greenfield Village in Dearborn (June 16-17). More ball and power will fly at the annual Voyageurs Rendezvous, a recreated 18th-century encampmellimackinac in Mackinaw City (July 4-7).

More of Michigan's history is uncovered in a wealth of festivals that recall the days when lumber was the mainstay of the state's economy. In Ewen (just east of Matchwood), burly lumberjacks will congregate to saw, chop, climb and throw pulpsticks at the annual Log-Jam-Boree (Aug. 27-28). Leave your atlas open because there are similar events in Baraga (July 3-4), Mio (July 19-21), Oscoda (July 24-29), and Manistee (June 29-July 4).

Traverse City's fame as the World's Cherry Capitol is celebrated during the National Cherry Festival (July 8-14). It's one of the midwest's biggest summer festi-vals; it features no fewer than three famous parades, band competitions, orchard tours, a milkcarton boat race, and the unforgettable sound of 5,000 children warming up for a big-wheel race.

Other Michigan "food" festivals honor: Asparagus (Shelby/Hart, June 8-10), Fudge (Mackinaw City, June 16-17), Strawberries (Belleville, June 22-24 and Chassell, July 13-14), Thimbleberries (Copper Country, June 23-July 1), Blueberries (South Haven, July 18-22), Peaches (Coloma, Aug. 3-5), Melons (Howell, Aug. 17-19), and other tributes to Michigan's agriculture prowess. The visual and performing arts was showcased during Festival '84 (June 1-3) in Calder Plaza in downtown Grand Rapids. West Michigan artists performed on seven stages sinultaneously among dozens of booths offering ethnic foods and other wares. There was also an art sales tent, photo exhibit, and daily film showings in addition to special children's participation programs.

Matrix Midland (May 30-June was a one-of-a-king happening that offered things fascinating and fun for just about everyone.
World-famous guests like singers
Shirley Jones and Chuck Berry, tennis whiz Vic Braden, astronaut Ronald Evans, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, and many more entertained and enlighten in what has quickly become one of the nation's finest gatherings of artistic and scientific minds.

That, of course, isn't the half of it. The Great Lakes State will be aswarm with festivals large and small and with themes varying from the classical to the absurd this summer. And, they're listed in the Michigan Travel Bureau's Calendar of Summer Travel Events. Copies of the calendar and other free Michigan travel literature may be obtained by writing the Michigan Travel Bureau, P.O. Box 30226, Lansing, Michigan,

Near will beautify east side

Neighborhood East Area Residents, NEAR, will sponsor a community beautification contest to add a touch of class to the east side of Detroit.

NEAR represents an area bounded by Mack, Harper, Alter and Outer Drive across from Grosse Pointe Park. NEAR president Marc Thibault said the group hopes to get "the broadest possible par-ticipation and to make NEAR the best-looking neighborhood in Detroit.' Block clubs in the area will compete for three prizes totalling $500. First prize includes 10 trees, six to seven feet tall, to be planted in easements by the city. Second prize is a $100 gift certificate from a local garden center. Third prize will be $50 worth of spring bulbs.

Judges of the NEAR Beautification Committee will scout neighborhoods during July to identify the best-looking blocks. Winners will be selected on total block neatness, landscaping and plantings, and maintenance of lawns. Winning block will be announced at the NEAR picnic Aug. 11 at Clark

Fingers give way to firecrackers

A Grosse Pointe Park man discovered that firecrackers can be hazardous to one's health.

Fire officials responding to a call on Friday, June 8, found the 47-yearold Wayburn resident dazed and holding his hand after a M-80 firecracker blew the thumb and tips of his first two fingers off.

They were unable to save the detached stubs which they described as "hamburger." He was taken to Bon Secours Hospital, treated and released, they said.

Businesses may also compete. Two plaques will be awarded; the first for most consistently maintained, the second for most improved appearance. Winners of the business category will be selected by residents and merchants of NEAR. Ballots are available at stores along the commercial strips.

Winning merchants, will have their names engraved on a travelling plaque to display in their establishments for a year until new winners are selected in 1985.

Thief caught in the act

A man who thought he'd covered all the bases by making sure his intended victim wasn't home didn't count on being watched and caught in the act, said Henry Coonce, Grosse Pointe Park police chief.

Coonce said the man was under observation by Detroit police Thursday morning, June 7, when they followed him to the Park and saw him go to a home in the 1400 block of Grayton. He knocked on both entrance doors and after getting no response went to the backyard and removed the lawnmower from the garage

Police then followed him to a home in Detroit where he was arrested and later turned over to the Park police and charged with breaking and entering and larceny.

The man, identified as Frank Maisano, of 1244 Conner, in Detroit, was arraigned before Judge Beverly Groebbel and released on $3,500 bond. Coonce said Maisano was recently released from Jackson

In addition, she has volunteered for the United Foundation for many years and was active with the Farms Girl Scouts for two years as a troop leader. She holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan State University.

Mrs. Gerard Slattery, also a Farms resident, is a board member emeritus of the Southeastern Michigan Chapter. She has served on that board for 30 years, sitting on various committees, including Financial Development and Blood Services Advisory. Red Cross is just one of the many, many volunteer commitments for which she has received many, many awards, including the United Foundation's Heart of Gold. She is also an honorary Grosse Pointe Academy trustee.

Tracy Trophy Debuts in July

The once-neglected and abused children now sheltered at Detroit's Christ Child House will be the undeclared winners of Christ Child Society's fourth annual Mixed Golf Tournament on Monday, July 9, at Red Run Golf Club but this year's declared winners have something special in store for them. Theirs will be the first names inscribed on the newly-established Emmet and Frances Tracy Trophy.

The trophy, a silver bowl, will be kept on display at Christ Child House. Tourney winners' names will be added to it annually, and the winners will receive take-home, smaller replicas of the trophy bowl.

Prizes will also be awarded for longest drive, nearest-the-pin and hole-in-one contests. Martin J. "Hoot" McInerney is honorary chairman of the tournament. Team scramble play begins with a shotgun start at 1:30 p.m. The $125 entry donation includes a buffet luncheon, open bar, gourmet award dinner at 7:30 p.m., golf, carts and gifts.

Reservation deadlines are June 30 for players, July 6 for the dinner only ($28 per person). Registration information may be obtained by calling Christ Child House, 584-6077, between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

Funds raised via the tourney will help Christ Child House continue its much-needed residential treatment services. Last year, those services were provided for 62 children between the ages of 5 and 10, with the support of the Detroit Chapter of Christ Child Society, a national association of lay Catholic volunteers.

In addition to the individual exhibitors, there'll be special displays by Friends of the Fleece (handspinning and weaving) and Friends of the Alphabet (calligraphy art). Bea Ann Reid's Mimes will be on hand from noon to 6 p.m. all three days. If you show up on Saturday, make it a point to take in the Senior Citizens "Over 50" Follies between 5 and 5:30 p.m. The St. Clair County Community College Symphonic Orchestra will present a concert at 1 p.m. Sunday.

ALTER WARRING THE LABORATOR IN THE FIRE LINE

Operation LINC

Winter storms have given way to summer breezes and the cold, barren landscape is now green and lush with the promise of fresh fruits and vegetables from back-yard gardens. Thanksgiving and Christmas are seasons which seem to emphasize and promote the needs of people in distress — individuals and groups mount full-scale efforts during the holidays to educate the community about areas of need and recruit help for those in need - but what happens when the holiday seasons are over, and the efforts of so many slowly disappear with the snow?

An organization called SEMFCO/ UCS Emergency Food Communications Network is a vital force in developing, maintaining and increasing resources which assist emergency food providers in the delivery of their services: volunteers, transportation, food sources, equipment, etc.

Working with groups such as the Southeastern Michigan Food Coalition, which has served thousands of Detroit area residents since 1978, and United Community Services of Metropolitan Detroit, the network increases the information flow between Emergency Food Providers (EFP) and related agencies.

The project was established this year as a combined effort by SEMFCO and UCS to meet emergency food needs more efficiently. One hundred and sixty surveys of existing EFP in Wayne County have been collected, and investigations are continuing into other possible EFP in an attempt to coordinate the efforts of many groups which share a common goal.

The need for emergency food as- other LINC volunteers, and of sistance remains crucial throughout the year. The network has just established its headquarters, and Ruth Biersdorf, project coordina-tor, says the offices definitely need an air conditioner. June has been unusually hot, with a promise of similar weather in the months ahead. The network office has no cross ventilation, and is extremely hot and uncomfortable.

The windows are long and narrow, measuring 3334" by 194". Anyone who has an air conditioner of this size, could suggest an alternative or has a skill which could produce a solution, is asked to contact the LINC offices, 331-6700. Other network needs include a dictaphone and photo copier. Any help would be greatly appreciated.

LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community), like the network, is an organization which spans seasons and holidays. It is also one which realizes the value of its workers, as does any organization which depends on volunteers.
During LINC's Spring Volunteer
Luncheon on May 31 at the Detroit Institute of Arts, an Outstanding Volunteer Service Award was presented to Jon and Barb Earl, of Grosse Pointe Woods.

The Earls have devoted many hours and talents to LINC. They have helped instruct office staff and volunteers in how to best im-plement the LINC computer, and have done computer work for many LINC fund raisers involving record keeping and mailings. Barb is LINC treasurer, and successfully juggles her volunteer work with dedication to her family. She and Jon have touched the lives of many those who benefit from LINC's efforts. They are exemplars of the importance of volunteers to the success of LINC's efforts.

Requests for LINC's services have increased annually over the last 13 years, and a need has been found for an assistant office coordinator. Fran Mumma, office coordinator for the last four years, handles all phases of office organization, receipt and sorting of donated goods and contacts with Wayne County Social Service Agencies.

The clients of these agencies continue to increase in number, and this in turn increases the need for LINC. Janet Kelmer is the new assistant coordinator. She will be working two days a week at LINC during the school year, and every day during the summer.

Janet is a dynamic woman who has done volunteer work in a variety of community areas: Girl Scouts, school, for the last two years at the Detroit Grand Prix. She has been a secretary at the Campbell-Ewald Advertising Agency and has run a variety of businesses, including dog breeding and grooming, out of her home.

Her husband is a sergeant with the Detroit Police Mounted Divi-sion. Her daughter, Jodie, will be a sophomore at Bishop Gallagher High School this fall. Janet's interest in volunteer work seems to run in the family; Jodie and her cousin Julie, who will be a freshman at Lutheran High North, will be Candy Stripers this summer at Saint John Hospital.

As summer vacation begins, many area children will be looking for activities to keep themselves busy. LINC has many agencies which welcome opportunities for summer diversions for Wayne County youth. Tickets to events such as concerts and ball games, admissions to the zoo and the movies, would be much appreciated.

Other summer needs include canning jars, canning equipment and bushel baskets for the 4-H Growing Roots program offered to urban residents through Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service. LINC has received two dozen canning jars so far - but Growing Roots needs many more.

LINC column space is provided monthly as a community service by the Grosse Pointe News. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which depends on your donations and your help. If you are interested in supporting LINC with a donation of goods or time, please call the LINC office, 331-6700. The office is open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Raku exhibit at Pewabic

Four of the most accomplished raku artists in the world will display their work at Pewabic Pottery, located on East Jefferson Avenue, across from Detroit's Water Works Park, June 22 through July 18. Robert Piepenburg, of Ann Arbor, who curated the show which ends the current exhibition season at Pewabic, chose the three raku artists he felt most honored to exhibit with: Wayne Ngan, of Hornby Island, B.C., David Roberts, of Holmfirth, England, and Paul Soldner, of Aspen, Colo.

Raku is a low temperature technique, noted for its immediacy and unpredictability. It involves a very rapid glaze firing cycle. The pots are placed in a red-hot kiln and removed within 20 minutes.

In Eastern raku, the pots are then oxidized, air cooled and often hand-painted. Modern Western raku has developed differently. It with a salt and vapor-fire exhibit often involves sawdust reduction (blocking off the oxygen source) and quenching in water to freeze results, rather than allowing them to gradually transform as they reoxidize.

The show, fourth in an on-going series of Pewabic exhibits of fine ceramic art using specific techniques, debuts Friday, June 22, with a 6 to 9 p.m. open-to-the-public reception. Gallery hours through July 18 are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

In conjunction with the raku exhibition, Piepenburg will teach a one-day workshop running from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, July 7. His program will include a slide presentation, and he will demonstrate his own raku techniques. Workshop fee is $5. Registration information may be obtained by calling 822-0954.

Pewabic will inaugurate its new exhibition season in September and workshop.

It's time for strawberries

Michigan-grown strawberries are the highlight of the June food outlook, for strawberry bloom has been heavy and a good crop is forecast. Shoppers found the first berries last week. They will likely be in peak supply the following week or two.

Prices aren't likely to be below those of California strawberries, but the home-grown berries are definitely more flavorful, fragrant and juicier than shipped-in berries.

Michigan-grown asparagus was in peak supply the first week in June. Wise shoppers know that quality is best and prices are lowor vegetable peak; that's the time mid-summer. to make quantity purchases.

Good supplies of Michigan apples are coming from controlled atmosphere storages. They continue to be one of the better fruit values as citrus fruits ebb. The Valencia orange crop is small; prices are double those of a year ago.

Good crops of nectarines, southern peaches and melons come to market this month — but don't eat too heartily, because good crops of Michigan peaches and cantaloupe (first available in July) are also predicted.

A Pipe Major from the St. Andrew's Society piped the bride and bridegroom down the aisle to the strains of "Ode to Joy," and played "Amazing Grace" at the conclusion of the ceremony. It was attended only by members of the immediate families, who went on to luncheon at the Golden Lion following the

'Happily married people never unload personal problems on their spouses." One family-relations specialist estimates that among 85 percent of the couples he has worked with, at least one partner was stewing over something without telling the other. While people are afraid of appearing vulnerable in front of their spouses, it is this very opening up that encourages deep intimacy.

What is needed is the development of a relationship based on realistic expectations and tolerance of imperfections; they are, after all, the ingredients of a strong and successful marriage.

Woods Lions have a ball at Ford House

One hundred and eighteen Grosse Pointe Woods Lions Club members and their guests gathered at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Saturday, June 9, for the Woods Lions' annual President's Ball and formal installation of offi-

They dined in the Great Gallery of the estate patterned after those in England's Cotswolds. They heard guest speaker Roy Cairns, of Royal Oak, member of the Highland Park Lions Club and current District Governor of Michigan 11-A-1 (Wayne and Monroe counties), express his appreciation for Woods Lions' support and urge all Lions to become more active in the fight against diabetes, emphasizing the vital need for early detection of this insidious disease.

City Manager Chester Peterson, representing Woods Mayor George Freeman, praised several local municipal Lions' projects and ex-pressed amazement over the extent of the Woods Lions' contribution to Lions-sponsored projects beyond the city's borders. District 11-A-1, one of Michigan's largest, is the state's top fund raiser, contributing over $12 million annually to Lions-sponsored projects.

David E. Littler, of Farmington Hills, elected Governor of 11-A-1 at the annual district convention in April, presided at the installation of Woods Lions' officers. Littler, who will take office next month following his formal installation in San Francisco, will oversee fund raising efforts of 61 Lions Clubs more than 2,500 claiming

So many stories, so little space . . .

It's Thursday morning — the day the Grosse Pointe News hits the stands — and the day invariably begins with a telephone call . . .

Me: "Hello?"

Angry Voice: "Yeah, can you tell me why Little League didn't get in the paper this week? We turned the copy in on time and we advertise in your paper and we've lived in Grosse Pointe for 30 years and you never put anything in the paper about Little League . . . "

Me: "Excuse me, but Little League is on Page 1C . . . right under the heading that says "Little League.' See it?"

Voice: "What? Oh, yeah. Well, uh, ummm, thanks."

A little while later the phone rings again.

Voice Dripping with Barely Restrained Hostility: "Sports desk? Yeah, well, we haven't seen anything in your paper on our team, the Hebee Jebees. You know, these little kids are throwing themselves off bridges and going into severe earlylife crises because you're not getting their little names in the paper. What are you going to do about it?"

Me: "Well, I won't be standing under bridges, I'll say that Anyway, you get a pretty good idea of what goes on around here on Thursdays. And all of this is by way of explaining the procedure for submitting copy to the News, in particular the sports section.

We're happy to run game summaries, stories, photos, etc., of your favorite team or athlete in any sport. Deadline is Monday at noon. We're also happy to accept suggestions for future stories. We cannot, however, guarantee that the item or story will appear in the issue in which you want it to appear. We can only do our best.

We try, but it's tough to get everything that's submitted to us into the paper each week, particularly since so much goes on in Grosse Pointe, sports-wise. For example . . .

. . In May, we ran a photo of a South soccer player, identifying the poor kid as "unidentified South player" because we coundn't find anybody who could get a correct ID. I'm happy to say that she has been identified and when she's not going around being unidentified or recognized as "South's No. 14, she's Sue Storen. Sue had a fine year for South this season and, now that she can end her search for monogrammed sweaters with the initials "USP" (Unidentified South Player), she can have a nice summer.

... From the "Woooo, that's spooky" department: John McNamara III, 21, of Neff Road, shot a hole-in-one during the course of his golf game on June 8. Big deal, you say? People do that all the time, right?

Yep. But not many do what McNamara did. His hole-in-one was on the No. 5 hole at Maple Lanes Golf Club - the same hole on the same course where his great-grandfather, Joseph F. Stone, sank HIS hole-in-one on Sept. 30, 1928.

And that's not all. McNamara accomplished his feat on his great-grandmother's (Stone's wife's) birthday, according to his grandmother, Ruth McNamara, who kept all the press clippings of the first hole-in-one and never dreamed there were be another in the family.

There was, thanks to John McNamara III, who has also managed to change his grandmother's opinions on ideas like deja vu, reincarnation and things that go bump in the night.

. . . Danielle Varga of Grosse Pointe is one of the nation's top runners. You may not recognize her name from Boston Marathon fame . . . and that's because she's still only 15. But as a result of her performance (3:45:40) in last year's Free Press International Marathon, Daniel is the sixth-fastest runner in the nation in her age group (women 14-15), according to an article which appeared in the April issue of Motor City

... But then, Grosse Pointe and Grosse Pointers have always ranked with the best and the recently-completed high school sports season was no different. No less than 12 different teams from South, North and University Liggett School were ranked in the state's top 10 teams at one time or another during the year.

Earning top 10 rankings in their classes or sections were the boys' and girls' tennis teams and the boys' soccer team from ULS; the boys' baseball, football and hockey teams and the girl's soccer and gymnastics squads from North; and the girls' tennis and boys' football, hockey and swim teams from South

One of the those teams, Guido Regelbrugge's girls' soccer team at North, managed to finish a very-respectable 15-2 this season and win a league title - despite playing seven games in 10 days. Regelbrugge says he's delighted with the season and the way his girls "played their hearts out."

Anyway, with all this winning, the gutsy performances and top-ranked teams, it seems to me that the quality of the high school and community sports programs in Grosse Pointe has spoken for itself this season. But just in case the rest of the state doesn't know it, maybe we should all start wearing T-shirts saying: "GROSSE POINTE IS RANK(ed)." That should get their attention and then we could tell 'em about it.

It was just a thought.

Pssst! Want some fishing secrets?

By Susan McDonald

Listen up, anglers. The season of great fishing is now upon us. Bass, walleye, salmon and muskie are now being taken.

According to Bryan Helin, the young heir to a fishing tradition that stretches back three generations to his grandfather Charles (founder of Helin Tackle Co.) muskies up to 30 pounds have already been caught this season in the middle grounds off Belle Isle and the dumping grounds on the Canadian side off Grosse Pointe.

Walleye are small right now, but they're being caught, too, from Ambassador Bridge to the Delphine Channel (the Little Club), Helin says. "They're bitting on spoons in the day and at night, and slowly getting better, on pencil plugs and larger rapalas."

Trollers are doing best on spoons and rod and reelers are starting to pick them up on crawler harnesses and flat fish and worms, he says.

If anyone knows where the fish are biting, it's Bryan. His sturdy frame and sun-bleached blond head are a familiar site to fishermen in these waters. He's been living off and on the river since he was a kid and has pulled a 26-pound muskie, a 14-pound northern pike and eight-pound steelhead from waters here.

Bryan, 26, learned to fish at the side of his grandfather, Charles, and his father, Larry. Both have permanent places in the national Fishing Hall of Fame.

He's fished in exotic waters across the country, but Bryan is sold on the fishing hole we have right here.

'Lake St. Clair is the world's best fresh water fishing hole for a variety of game fish," he says flatly. The key phrase there is

"variety of game fish." "You throw your line out here and you never know what you're going to get," he says. "For example, you're not likely to catch a muskie in Lake Huron or Lake Michigan, but you can here." There are shallow waters in the river and lake "so pike, small and large mouth bass and all sorts of pan fish" can be found. "We're connected to the Great Lakes and have such a severe winter that salmon and trout move in, too," he said.

Bryan Helin poses with his

catch, four, four-to-six pound pickerals.

So why aren't we all bringing in enough fish to supply our dinner all summer long?

Shook signs with K.C.

By Peggy O'Connor

The date June 14 is beginning to have more than a little significance in the life of the Woods' Tom Shook.

It was on June 14, 1980, that Shook helped pitch his North High team to a state Class A baseball championship. Four years later, June 14, 1984, was the first day Shook spent as a professional baseball player.

Shook, 22, signed a contract with the Kansas City Royals last week. Last Thursday, he reported to Eugene, Ore., the Royals' Class A team in the Northwest California League. That's also the day he started sevenhour per day drills in preparation for the league's 72-games-in-74 days schedule which began this week.

"He called and told us he's never worked so hard in his life . . . and he's always been a hard worker," Shook's mother, Ann Shook said Monday. "I told him that there was nothing fun about the minors. 'No kidding,' he told me.

Mrs. Shook added that her son. who was recently graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in telecommunications, is still excited about the prospects of being a big league ballplayer, despite the hard work. "Oh, absolutely. This has been his dream since he was even younger than Little League age. He told us that he was getting a shot and that's all he wanted," Mrs. Shook

Shook, who is also the son of John Shook, was scheduled to pitch middle relief for the Eugene team this week. Other than his role with Eugene, he wasn't sure what the Royals' organization had planned for him, career wise. "He's hoping to progress in the organization, that's been his goal. But he was happy to get his degree from MSU," Ann Shook said.

"He told us that with that degree. now he knows that it's not a matter of life and death every time he puts a toe on that pitching rubber. And for a lot of guys in the minors, it is."

Shook is the second member of that 1980 North championship team to sign a pro baseball contract. Bill Babcock, a hard-throwing lefthander, signed a contract with the Chicago

White Sox after his 1981 graduation and is in the Sox' minor league

Shook's coach on that 1980 squad, Frank Sumbera, has kept in touch with Shook and his family and got a chance to watch him pitch for MSU this season.

'He's done everything I thought he'd do. He and Bill Babcock gave us a heck of a right-left punch in 1960. I'm overjoyed that he's getting a chance to pitch pro ball," Sumbera said.

Sumbera describes Shook as an excellent control pitcher, who, while he may not have an overpowering fastball, can put the ball where he wants and throw strikes when he has to.

"To go and throw in the Big 10 and lead the league in ERA on a team that was really not that outstanding a ballclub is outstanding in itself. He's getting his chance now and I think he'll do very well."

St. Paul honors athletes with Lauer Award

St. Paul School presented awards to students in all grades for their participation in baseball and track and field at the school's annual Spring Sports Awards banquet on May 31.

Highlighting the evening was the presentation of the Ed Lauer Award, given in memory of Mr. Lauer, who was athletic director at St. Paul School for 40 years and managed the Farms Pier until his death in 1983. The award is presented each year to a St. Paul girl and boy who best exemplify allaround acheivement and sportsmanship, commitment and leadership. This year's recipients are Carrie Wild and Julian Lubitz.

Carrie Wild played basketball for the St. Paul Lakers for six years, and during that time matured into a formidable guard for the girls' team. She also played softball and soccer for the Lakers for three years, while maintaining a "B" average and taking second place in the St. Paul Science Fair this year.

Julian Lubitz, a three-year veteran of the Laker basketball team, was team captain for the cagers this year and also was goalie for the soccer team. He also participated on the track team for three seasons, this year breaking school records for both the long jump and the 200 meter dash.

While maintaining a "B-plus" average this year, he also won honors awards in forensics, science and history. Julian is currently training for the Junior Olympics to be held in Cincinnati, Ohio, July 7

Bocci on road

The Park's Jeanne Bocci is on the road again — this time, to the Olympic Trials in Los Angeles.

Bocci earned an expense paid trip to the June 23 10 km racewalk trials with her qualifying time of 53:19 for the 10,000 meters. Although there is no women's 10 km racewalk event in the 1984 Olympics, there will be a racewalk event in the 1988 Games.

Bocci is the eighth best woman racewalker in the U.S. The top four women from the Olympic trials will make the team which goes to Columbia this fall for the world championships.

"I was very pleased with the fact that I qualified," Bocci said. "The great thing is that I get to go to the. Olympic trials and see all the other athletes competing."

Shootout!

Grosse Pointe three-man basketball specialists should sharpen up their games - the Great Southeast Michigan Three Player Shootout is coming to Oakland University this week, June 23 and 24, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Teams are limited to four members, NCAA varsity players excluded. It's a double-game elimination, 31 points wins. All games are refereed; 21 foot — three point plays allowed. Tournament director Alan Synder, head coach at Mt. Clemens High, has planned two flights: the Junior Flight (18 and under, 6-2 and under mixed) and Senior Flight (19 and over, 6-2 and under, mixed). Fee is $40 per team, senior; $20 per team, junior.

Further information may be obtained by calling 469-4269.

St. Paul Ed Lauer Award-winners Carrie Wild and Julian Lubitz.

School's out, swim is in

School is out and the summer swim season is set to begin for swimmers on nine area teams.

Lochmoor Club, the Country Club of Detroit, the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club and the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club swimmers compete in the 14-team Michigan Inter-Club Swimming Association (M.I.C.S.A.). The City, Farms, Park, Shores and Woods recreation department teams comprise the Lakefront League, which also includes St. Clair Shores.

Many of the state's finest age group swimmers compete with the clubs from Grosse Pointe. Dual meet action begins this week and will continue until the last week of July, when each league conducts its

This is an excellent opportunity to enjoy an exciting outdoor sports activity, said swim coach Scott Teeters. It's also a chance for people to see what over 800 area youths have been involved with every summer for over 15 years.

Some of the "hottest" meets are expected to be the CCD versus Lochmoor matchup. Last year's meet went down to the final event. Other top meets are Lochmoor -GPYC and CCD - GPYC. In the Lakefront League, the Woods-Park, City-Park and Farms-Shores contests are anticipated to be the most spirited.

Leading the way this season is the GPYC, with a 49-dual meet winstreak going which dates back eight years. The GPYC's strong groups are expected to be the 8 and under, the 9-10 boys and girls and the 13-14 girls. (1983 record: 6-0 in dual meets, first at finals)

Lochmoor has the strongest boy's team in either league and with the addition of a few new swimmers, should do well. The club's strong groups include all boys, 9-10 girls, 13-14 girls. (1983: 5-1 dual meets, third in finals)

Country Club of Detroit has an evenly-balanced team, with many young swimmers developing well over the year. CCD's strong groups are the 8 and under, 9-10 girls, 11-12 boys and 13-14 boys. (1983: 4-2 in dual meets, fourth at finals)

G.P. Hunt Club is coming off of its two best years ever. With many good young swimmers moving into other age groups and a fresh supply of 8 and unders, this squad should move up in the standings. The 9-10 girls, 11-12 boys, and the 15 16 boys look like the strongest groups. (1983: 1-5 in dual meets, 12th at finals)

In the Lakefront League, the Park seems to be the team to beat, with a streak of dual meet wins going back several years. The Park has won four of the last five finals. Strong Park age groups are the 9-10 boys and girls, the 11-12 girls, the 13-14 boys and girls and the 15-17 girls. (1983: 5-0 in dual meets, second in finals)

The Woods should be close to the Park, after adding depth and depending upon a new spirit which resulted from last year's finals victory. Strong age groups include 8 and under boys, 11-12 girls, 13-14 boys and girls, 15-17 boys and girls. (1983: 4-1 dual meets, first at finals)

The City team could challenge the leaders with an improved showing. That and last year's strong finish could make the City a team to be reckoned with. The 9-10 girls and boys, the 13-14 girls, 15-17 boys and girls are the 1984 strongest age groups (1983: 3-2 in dual meets, third at finals)

The Shores team is usually a small one, but makes up for lack of numbers with an abundance of quality and this year should be no different, Teeters says. Look for strong performances from the 9-10 boys, the 11-12 girls, the 13-14 boys and the 15-17 boys. (1983: 1-4 in dual meets, fifth at finals)

The Farms team could be a surprise after several good showings at meets last season. The team could play the role of spoiler. Strong age groups are the 8 and under, 9-10 boys and girls, 11-12 girls and 15-17 boys. Following is the Lakefront Swimming Association 1984 schedule: Saturday, June 23 - 10 a.m., relay meet at the Shores: Wednesday, June 27 - the Park at the Woods, the City at St. Clair Shores and the Farms at the Shores, all at 5:30 p.m.; Saturday, June 30 — City at Park, Woods at Shores and Farms at St. Clair Shores at 10 a.m.; Saturday, July 7 - Shores at Park, Farms at City and St. Clair Shores at Woods at 10 a.m.; Wednesday, July 11 — Park at St. Clair Shores, Shores at City and Woods at Farms at 5:30 p.m.; Wednesday, July 18 — Park at Farms, City at Woods, St. Clair Shores at Shores at 5:30 p.m.

The preliminaries are scheduled for the Shores at 10 a.m. Wednesday, July 25; and the finals, at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, July 26.

Woods doctor retires after 50-year career

Fifty years ago this month a young medical student. Walter L. Anderson of Grosse Pointe Woods, newly graduated from the University of Nebraska Medical School, came to Harper Hospital for an internship program under the direction of Dr. Lawrence Reynolds.

"In those days we received no pay, only a room and 80 cents a day for meals," said Dr. Anderson. "We had to do our own blood and urine work because there was no lab like we have today."

Anderson remembers working under the tutelage of Dr. Luther Leader and such stalwarts as Drs. Louis Hirschmann, C.D. Brooks, and Hugo A. Freund.

'When I arrived in Detroit with another chap from Nebraska who was taking an internship at Grace, I had only $15 to my name and $3 of that went toward the white shirts I had to buy to go along with the hospital-provided white coat and pants. It was tough going on so salary and I really skimped along until my sister sent $5 for my birth-day in October. In the second year we got $25 a month, third year $56 and it seemed like thousands to us at the time," Anderson said.

One memory he carries with him is the date July 22, 1934. Ringling Brothers Barnum and Bailey Circus came to Detroit and brought with them an epidemic of typhoid fever. Seventy-seven cases were admitted to Harper. Anderson and another intern named Haygood from Georgia had to do all the history, physicals and blood work. For days at a time they got only a few hours sleep. Isolation at Harper helped prevent an epidemic from spreading throughout the city.

The doctor has many fond memories of his 50 years at Harper. He was an assistant clinical instructor from 1939 to 1946, a clinical instructor from 1946 to 1960. At Wayne State he was clinical assistant professor from 1960 to 1974, clinical associate professor from 1973 to 1976, and clinical professor from 1976 until his retirement.

He helped found the Michigan Diabetes Association and was president serving two different terms. During the 1960's and 1970's he served as vice chief of medicine under Dr. Thomas McKean and later Dr. Sidney Miller, and has served on a number of hospital committees over the years. He is a past president of the Detroit Academy of Medicine.

Camping increase expected

Michigan's state park and private campground operators expect a strong summer camping season this year, up as much as five percent over last year, reports the Automobile Club of Michigan.

"State parks are keeping campsite fees at last year's level and private campgrounds have raised their average price per campsite only 44 cents," stated James Drury, Auto Club Travel Operations manager.

'Michigan Department of Natural Resource officials report that confirmed state park reservations already are up 16 percent over a year ago," he added.

The average cost for a campsite with electricity at the 371 private parks listed on the Auto Club's 1984 Private Campground Guide is $7.89, with prices ranging from $17.50 to $1.50. State park campers will pay $7 nightly for a site with electricity. Other state park fees -$4 for a rustic site, $3 for an advanced reservation and the $2 daily or $10 annual park entry permit also are unchanged from last year.

Rustic site fees at Michigan's state forest campgrounds remain $1 to $4, with fees at the National Forest Campgrounds generally ranging from $3 to $5.

Cottage to offer language program

Cottage Hospital will hold a summer speech and language program for area children, June 25 to Aug. 1. The summer program supplements individual speech therapy sessions which are offered for children and adults throughout the year at Cotof group and individual work with youngsters ages 3 to 15, who are being treated for speech, language or hearing problems.

The program is designed for children with mental handicaps, cerebral palsy, stuttering, cleft palate, delayed speech and language, hearing impairment, vocal abuse, and difficulty with perception. Children who have problems with spelling, reading and writing due to learning disabilities are also given special attention. The speech therapy summer program can help some youngsters maintain and continue progress begun in school speech therapy programs. It can also help many parents identify and obtain guidance in the early diagnosis and treatment of speech and learning are held under the direction of Gary J. Cooper, Ph.D. Therapy is supervised by Margaret LaGrant, M.Ed., and conducted by the hospital staff of speech therapists, audiologists and other specialists. #### Bike ride lands man in trouble

Grosse Pointe Park police stopped a man to inquire why he was riding a bike up and down driveways on Berkshire and discovered the bike had been stolen earlier from a Park resident.

Henry Coonce, Grosse Pointe Park police chief, said when officers stopped Gregory Hicks, 28, of 2192 Alter Road in Detroit, for questioning they noticed that the bike license matched one reported stolen on May Hicks was charged with possession of stolen property, arraigned before Judge Beverly Groebbel and released on $1,500 personal bond, said Coonce.
