Ziiiiiip!

Congratulations are in order for Lee Wulfmeier, of the Farms, for his inclusion in July's Monthly Detroit magazine as one of Detroit's "Dapper Dozen." The "DD" are Motown's finest dressers, those who "never fail to meet each occasion with dapper and distinctive dress, be it black tie or pool side." My, my. Mr. Wulfmeier is pictured stretched out on a lawn next to a pond on page 69 of Monthly Detroit, along with a paragraph or two which describes his "catholic tastes, which run the gamut from conservative gray business suits to leather pants and snakeskin shoes." Oh yes, he's also the owner of the red suit that Richard Pryor wore in his movie "Live on the Sunset Strip." It was purchas-ed for him at last year's Grosse Pointe Academy Action Auction by his wife, Bobbie.

My wardrobe, on the other hand, has been rather spotty ever since Robert Hall went out of business.

Lose blues

Ever hear the saying "Them that's got, gets''? I have, and I firmly believe it. I'll give you an example. When I was in the Marines and stationed in North Carolina, I would buy a raffle ticket for the Navy Relief every year. It was almost a mandatory thing, but you never know, right? Anyhow, the raffle offered some fabulous prizes. Usually the top prizes were things like a new convertible, a small cabin cruiser, a Piper Cub airplane and things like that. On the lower end of the prize scale were items like hedge clippers, transistor radios and a bag of jelly beans.

On this particular base were approximately 40,000 service-men, the majority of whom were lower ranking enlisted men. There were perhaps 1,500 officers and just a handful of general officers, those with the rank of full colonel and above.

When it came time for the raffle drawing, the same thing happened every year. The top prizes would always go to very high You've heard of party animals? Well, these are pool animals. The only difference is they wear fewer clothes and like to get very, very wet. On a hot day at the Wood's Lakefront Park, the very best way to get wet is to take a flying you-know-what off the high board. Busy doing just that with a devil-may-care attitude recently was 12-year-old Dave Barthel, (top). The guy responsible for that tidal wave about to engulf life guard Scott Orhan, 17, is 17-year-old Pat Armstrong. At this point, young Mr. Armstrong is rapidly descending towards the bottom of the pool, while his wave reaches for the sky.

Bon Secours, DIO will build it 'their way'

By Harriet Nolan

Park city council unanimously granted a zoning variance July 9 that will allow Bon Secours Hospital and the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology (DIO) to build an office 12 feet higher than the city's brand new zoning ordinance allows.

Council members listened politely to the overflow crowd and then also approved a request by the hospital and DIO to close Nottingham Road north of Jefferson, subject to site plan approval.

Most of the people in the audience were against the project because it may increase traffic in their neighborhoods. And they didn't care for the idea of having a variance permitted on an ordinance they had worked so hard to get passed and questioned the noise that might come from the mechanical equipment room perched bey-ond the 30 foot height limit.

"What really galls me," said David White of Somerset Road, "is that organization (DIO) has the nerve to ask for a variance when it's in violation of another ordinance," referring to the build-ing's present condition and that it has been allowed to remain standing against city code. The roof of the DIO structure on Jefferson Avenue mysteriously caved in last August and the organization decided against repairing it.

Residents asked if another plan could be drawn that would be consistent with the ordinance or if the former DIO building could be remodeled and used instead.

However, David Benfer, chief executive officer of Bon Secours, said "we can't proceed with the project at the old DIO building and the project won't continue without the variance."

Plans call for the 45,000 square foot medical complex to house the DIO, Bon Secours Ambulatory Surgery Center, physician offices for Opthalmic Surgeons, P.C., other private physician offices and a mechanical equipment room at the top.

Nottingham, adjacent to the building, will be blocked off from Jefferson Avenue and a cul de sac built. Entry to the parking lots was suggested to be from Jefferson Avenue and Somerset. However, bowing to residents living on Somerset, Benfer said "our architects can make in and out traffic all off of Jefferson.

Mayor Palmer Heenan welcomed the large audience. "I'm amazed at all the community interest to help develop the project. It's required that your rights be protected and rather than being overwheimed (by the crowd), we're appreciative."

Building is 'essential' to downtown

By Harriet Nolan

The Park city council voted unanimously June 25 to establish a Downtown Development Authority (DDA) to revitalize Jefferson Avenue from the Detroit city limits to Balfour Road.

"We need to do something for the community," said John Crawford, city manager. "This is the way to upgrade Jefferson Avenue which has taken a back seat for available block grant programs.

One of the facets of the DDA is to provide methods a city can use to raise money. The ideal way, ac-cording to Crawford, would be to capture tax increases through tax increment financing (TIFA)

However, one of the stipulations for using TIFA is that any money "captured" must come from improvements made after the DDA was formed. And along Jefferson Avenue, the only new construction planned at this time is a $5 million outpatient medical building proposed by Bon Secours Hospital and the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology (DIO). It's essen-tial for the DDA's success. Crawford explained how much of a tax gain, depending on a given tax abatement, could be reaped. Using Bon Secours and the DIO as an example, he said, the current building and vacant land might now pay a total of $20,000 per year in taxes. This could include $3,000 in city taxes and the balance in school and county taxes.

ranking officers, the very people who could most afford them. It seems like all I ever heard was "And the grand prize drawing of the enlisted men who outnumbered all those heavyweights would walk away with a bag of jelly beans. Apparently the law that states

"Them that's got, gets" works in civilian life as well. A little while ago I bought a raffle ticket to help the Letter Carrier Benevolent Fund. I didn't expect to win and I didn't.

However, there were 12 prizes available and three of them went to Grosse Pointers, with two won by Shores residents who live on Lakeshore Drive.

I know what you're thinking sour grapes, sour grapes. And you're right. But it's hard enough going through life as a confirmed loser without having some irony rubbed in the wounds.

Cops are tops

I'd say the Macomb County Metro Police Softball team is just about unbeatable. My proof? The boys in blue, four of whom represent Grosse Pointe police departments, just won their third consecutive National Police Softball Tournament held recently in Dayton, Ohio.

Macomb Metro outlasted 64 of the nation's top teams, including Pittsburgh, Pa. in the finals 9-3 The 16 member team went undefeated winning seven games over teams from the Ohio State Police, Kettering County, Ohio, Warren, Michigan, Allegany County, New York, Camden County, New Jersey, and Pittsburg twice.

Pointers on the team include Woods Sgt. Michael Van De Ginste, PSO John Trevillian, of the Shores and Detective Mark Brecht, of the Farms.

The Macomb County team also featured four players on the all tournament team, including Most Valuable Player P.O. Charles DeBruine, of St. Clair Shores, P.O. Tony Cona, of Roseville. Michael McDowell, of the sheriff's department and Mark Brecht, of the Farms. Bless you boys in blue!

Car thieves just love the Pointes

By Tom Greenwood When it comes to stealing a car, car thieves can afford to be very picky.

And according to recent information obtained from the Farms police, two things are evident; they like to stalk the parking lots behind and adjacent to business in the Mack Avenue-Moross Road area and they prefer General Motors products.

According to reports, 29 autos have been stolen in the city this year, all of them manufactured by General Motors. Twenty-four of the vehicles were taken from the Mack Avenue vicinity, with 25 of the antee safety from further vandal-stolen cars eventually recovered. ism and theft. Farms police restolen cars eventually recovered. All were found in Detroit.

All the recovered cars had been stripped to varying degrees. One car had only its license plate removed. Others were stripped to the frame, then burned. Four cars were never recovered at all and police believe they were either sold out of state or broken down for parts in a chop shop. Police have estimated that an experienced crew of four in a chop shop can break a car down to its sellable parts in about 15 minutes.

Fourth of July crash claims Park youth, 18

By Harriet Nolan

From most accounts, Edward M. Sullivan, 18, was a hard worker and a friend who could be relied upon when needed. He was a co-op student at South High School and already had landed a job less than a month after graduation. Police say he also had a belly full of booze that registered .29 in blood alcohol content the night he died, almost three times the amount considered legally drunk by Michigan laws.

Witnesses to the almost unbelievable event agreed that Sullivan, of Lakepointe Avenue in the Park. was speeding and throwing a firecracker out of the passenger side window of the car he was driving at about 11:15 p.m. on July 4. They said he didn't appear to even see the tree that he struck on Windmill Pointe Drive.

"He seemed to hit it dead center and probably died instantly," said Henry Coonce, Park police chief. "Police found little or no skid marks.

It took officials more than an hour to get Sullivan's body out of the mangled wreck and they had to use a machine ironically called "the jaws of life."

"We use this tool for this kind of extradition work," said Park fire chief Phillip Costa. "The car had been wrapped around the tree and the motor had been pushed into the front seat and had pinned his legs.

The youngest of seven children of Edward E. and Mary C. Sullivan, he was described by his father as a real good kid who enjoyed going fishing and hunting with him.

"He never gave us a day of trouble." he said.

Sullivan saíd his son wasn't a drinker, didn't take drugs and that to his knowledge he hadn't been drinking that day.

However, Chief Coonce said that since the legal drinking age is 21-years-old in Michigan, whoever gave Sullivan the liquor could be held accountable both criminally and civilly

"We're trying now to find out who provided him with the liquor," said Coonce.

Sullivan was buried Saturday, July 7, from St. Paul Church. Tributes can be made to the National Multiple Scierosis Society Michigan Chapter, Inc., 6131 West Outer Drive, Detroit, Mich. 48235. ported that one car, a 1984 Buick Riviera, was recovered on Lindsdale Avenue, in Detroit.

Detroit police recovered it at 7:45 p.m. on May 22. At that time all that was missing was the radio and battery. But when police left the scene, all four tires and wheels were stolen before the 8:25 p.m. arrival of a tow truck.

There have also been six attempted auto thefts in the Farms this year, with four of them occuring inthe Mack-Moross area. Four of the thieves were scared off when the owners or passers-by confronted them. Two of the thieves were foiled by the use of "kill switches" by the car owners. Basically, a "killswitch" is an electrical device that can be installed to interrupt the flow of electricity in the car.

Police believe alcohol was the major contributing factor in the carcrash that claimed the life of 18-year-old Edward Sullivan, of the Park, on Wednesday night, July 4. According to witnesses, Mr. Sullivan was driving on Windmill Pointe Drive at a high rate of speed, allegedly throwing firecrackers out the passenger window of this 1984 Buick, when the car jumped a curb and ran 12 feet into a tree. Officials believe he died instantly. He was graduated from South High School last month.

Hidden somewhere in the car, the owner flips a switch before leaving the vehicle. Anyone attempting to start the car will only drive five to 10 feet before the engine quits. The car cannot be started without re-setting the circuit breaker located on the hidden switch.

"We would love to see all cars equipped with 'kill switches," said Farms Det. Earl Field. "It drives them nuts. It allows you to start the car, then just pull out from a parking space, or into a driving lane after backing from a parking space. Oh boy, what a way to draw attention to yourself. Blocking traffic and the car won't run.

Det. Field emphasized that on all recoverys at lots where attempts have failed, the Farms department makes the scene and processes the

However, once the complex is completed, the assessed value could jump to $120,000 or more. Taking into consideration a 50 percent per year, 12-year tax abatement the city would give Bon Secours and the DIO as an enticement for building there, the yearly assessment could end up to be a tidy sum.

"The school and county would still get their taxes based on the original $20,000 figure," said Crawford. "The city would capture anything over and above that amount previously paid in taxes and we would gain about $30,000 to $60,000.

"What we would do is use that revenue to finance a bond issue, come out with a large enough sum of money, perhaps $100,000 and acquire property, make street improvements or both," he added.

Some improvements already proposed for the area and presented to various Park commissions and business and professional associations, according to Crawford, include a 25 foot boulevard from Wayburn to Somerset Avenue, a lot of greenbelt and open space.

Downtown development Crawford says people have got to

'Consequently, there is a need for off street parking and some streets might be closed at Jefferson Avenue for parking lots," said Crawford. Those tentatively marked for closing include Nottingham, Beaconsfield and possibly Lakepointe on the north side and Wayburn on the south side, Barrington, Pemberton and Lakepointe.

Future acquisitions the city might want for parking lots and greenbelts include the funeral home, Union Gas Station and the office building at the northeast corner of Wayburn and Jefferson, including the White Tower. Crawford said the city had expressed an interest in buying the Gulf Gas Station, but didn't move fast enough and Bon Secours and the DIO bought it instead.

Because there isn't much room on Jefferson for new construction.

According to Det. Field, car thieves use a number of tools to steal an auto including, ballpeen hammers, torches, screwdrivers, slim jims, (a slim piece of metal slipped between the window and the car body), slam puller, (a steel rod with a screw attached to one end, forced into the ignition then pulled violently back to remove the entire ignition from the steering column), key cutter, (a small, mobile unit used to cut blank keys to conform to master illegally obtained keys) and freon gas, because a frozen steering column is easier to break as it becomes more brittle.

"Actually, the best way to thwart car thieves is to use common sense and take some precau-tions," said Det. Field. "Don't leave your keys in the car. Don't accept suspicious offers to buy a car. Report such deals to the police. Don't park in public lots for long periods of time.

Children's Theater reunion slated

Grosse Pointe Children's Theater is finalizing plans for a 30th anniversary dinner dance on Friday, Aug. 3, at the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road.

Festivities will get under way with an informal reception at 6:30 p.m. when alumni from the past 30 years will get to renew old acquaintances and share memories as they toast to the Grosse Pointe Children's Theater in its special year.

Dinner, dancing and a "sing-along" of show tunes will follow. Entertainment will be supplied by alumni. Marty Burke, a well-known Irish entertainer in and around Detroit, will share some of his Irish ballads. Penny Masouris, who has appeared in many dinner theaters, will play and sing some

Dog mauls child Attack still mystery

Investigators are still trying to determine why a 16-month-old dog with no previous history of aggressiveness toward children apparently attacked and seriously injured a six-year-old neighborhood boy in the Woods two weeks ago.

Michael Szkodzinski of Roslyn Road returned home last week after spending six days in St. John Hospital being treated for his injuries. The boy suffered severe bite wounds to the back of his legs, a fractured rib and a punctured chest cavity in the attack, Det. John Albrecht said.

The dog, an Akita named Yukon, was returned to owner Randolph Cornell after an obligatory 10-day observation period in a local veterinary hospital this week, according to Public Safety Director Jack Patterson, adding the department had no objections to returning the dog to his owner.

Police say they don't know why the attack occurred. Szkodzinski was visiting a friend on Brys at about 9 a.m. when for an unknown reason he went into the Cornell yard. Albrecht said Yukon apparently attacked the boy when he reached a spot between the fence and rear porch.

There were no witnesses to the incident. A caretaker couple at the Cornell home told police they heard the boy screaming while they were small husky.

in the living room of the home. After pulling the dog off the boy, the couple took Szkodzinski next door where they summoned police and an ambulance.

Albrecht said there was no apparent reason for the attack, adding the dog had no previous history of aggressiveness to small children. Cornell said the dog's attitude was "just the opposite" of aggressive.

The owner was shocked when he heard about the attack," Al-brecht said, adding the dog had been around children before. Yukon had been vaccinated for rabies and distemper, police said. "This was not a dog bite; this was a mauling," Albrecht added, saying the dog continued to attack Szkodzinski after the boy had curled up on the ground, his arms over his face.

The caretaker couple said Yukon was moody for a couple days before the attack, refusing food and growling at them, something they said was uncharacteristic, reports said.

Patterson added the severity of the attack was more characteristic of dogs of Yukon's size, who were more likely to continue an attack than a larger dog.

An Akita is a Japanese breed that stands about 25 inches tall and weighs close to 50 pounds. Police describe the breed as similar to a Broadway tunes of the past. Other alumni who plan to return for the celebration are Gwen Humble McShane of Hollywood; who has appeared in many TV specials, toured in professional shows such as "Hello Dolly" with Pearl Bailey and played the role of Paulette Godard in the film "Moviola." She will be joined by her actor husband, Ian McShane, who is currently involved in the filming of "Evergreen" in which he plays the lead role. Her mother, Mrs. Claude Humble, will also attend.

George Kappaz who has appeared in soaps such as "Guiding Light" and who is currently producing and directing a show on Broadway, hopes to fly in from New York. Ed Christian, manager of Radio Station, WNIC, F.M., Boyd Hunter and Dick Blackburn, both from Hollywood, plan on being present. Joseph Quasarano, produ-cer of "Charley's Angels." Patsy Groehn Wade of Connecticut, and Grant Collins, manager of the Music Hall, will be guests at the dinner.

Others planning to attend include Suzanne Geha, anchorwoman at the ABC station in Grand Rapids, Greg Watkins, Linda Prince, Julie Mazer Schmidt and her mother, Mrs. John Mazer, musical director Grosse Pointe Children's for Theater.

Committee members Cindy Connors, Sue Geddert, Diane Millenbach Rinderknecht and Leo Babcock have been engaged in finalizing plans for the evening.

Although they have been able to contact several alumni, there are many who have been impossible to reach due to moving or marriage. They urge all alumni, friends and present members to contact them at 261-4995 or 839-7212.

Tickets are $20 per person and checks should be made payable to Grosse Pointe Children's Theater, 11301 Sunset, Livonia, Mich. 48150. Deadline for reservations is July 23.

Competition winner Pianist is next for festival

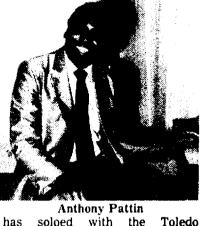

Anthony Pattin, this year's Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival piano competition winner, will perform a solo recital on Wednesday, July 18, at the War Me-morial. The concert will begin at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Pattin's program will include, among other pieces, Robert Schumann's Kreisleriana opus 16, Frederic Chopin's Scherzo in B minor opus 20, and Gabriel Faure's Theme and Variations opus 73.

Pattin, a graduate of the University of Toledo where he studied under Beatrice Erdely and Frances Renzi, has his Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan. Currently he is working toward his Doctorate under Theodore Lettvin.

He was the first-prize winner of the Irene Tintner Competition in Saginaw and has played in recitals in Ohio, Michigan and Illinois, and soloed with the Toledo Symphony.

Most recently, he received the award of Distinguished Winner at the fourth annual Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival piano competition held last April at the War Memorial.

Tickets to the concert are $6 each and may be obtained in person, by mail, or at the door.

Remaining concerts include a performance by the Baroque Chamber Orchestra conducted by Grosse Pointe's own Frederic DeHaven, music director of Christ Church, a cabaret evening starring Phil Marcus Esser and Barbara Bredius, and performances by the Russian Balalaika Orchestra, and the Grosse Pointe Symphony Pops conducted by Felix Resnick. The Pops concert will be followed by a fireworks display over Lake St. Clair to end the season.

Mood of electorate

Currier speaks to Senior Men's Club

Much of the electorate is disgruntled with aspects of President Reagan's foreign policy, but the outcome of this fall's election will be based more on economics, where his ratings with voters are higher

Frederick P. Currier, chairman of the board of Market Opinion Research of Detroit, made those observations to members of the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe, June 26 at the War Memorial.

Currier, whose organization is recognized as one of the top survey research firms in the country, noted that Reagan's rating on economics has increased between January and May surveys of voters, while his foreign policy rating stayed the same and his overall approval rating increased from 37 to 53 percent.

Currier, who lives in the Pointe, made other survey-based observations about the "mood of the electorate" five months before the presidential election. He said:

• The comments of Detroit Mayor Coleman A. Young that "racism is denying the city and all struggling cities money" helps Reagan's reelection chances because many voters are "opposed to hand-outs.

· Labor union support of candidates is "a negative" because many voters resent union wage levels and unions, at 19 percent of the workforce, are in a long term decline.

• Michigan's Democratic U.S. Senator Carl Levin has a "nearly even" chance of keeping his seat, though he will have to overcome an expected strong showing by Reagan in Michigan.

• The Republican primary contest in the U.S. senate race is very close, but there are a large number of undecided voters.

Market Opinion Research is a Detroit-based survey research firm offering research services to political and public interest or-ganizations and to companies in the business of consumer goods, financial services, health care, news and public utilities.

The percentage of twins worldwide is rising. Many twins are born prematurely, and more preemies survive now. And twins tend to breed twins.

Frederick P. Currier, chairman of the board of Market Opinion Research of Detroit, spoke last month to the Senior Men's Club of Grosse Pointe about the mood of the electorate in the presidential election уеаг.

The Woods took a different tack last week in its attempts to block the widening of the Old Eight Mile bridge over I-94. The city sent its objections to the Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments, which is responsible for approving transportation projects that receive federal funds.

The city voiced its opposition by resolution to SEMCOG. As the metropolitan planning organization for transportation, SEMCOG will now have to mediate the dispute before endorsing the bridge project, SEMCOG officials said.

When the 38-member executive committee meets to consider all the proposed projects, the Old Eight Mile work will most likely be given a "conditional review" to allow SEMCOG to review with both sides the objections to the projects, according to Paul Tait, deputy executive director for SEMCOG.

The mediation can be done at either the committee level or, finally, by a 10-member regional clearinghouse review committee which will hear both sides of the matter before making a decision, Tait said.

SEMCOG will have to decide the matter by October. If it does not endorse the project, the project becomes ineligible for federal money, Tait added.

The Woods claims the $670,000 project will exacerbate traffic problems in its northwest residential area. The project is proposed to receive $604,000 in federal highway funds.

David Robb last Friday was found to be in contempt of court and fined $100 for practicing law without a license, according to the clerk for Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Richard Dunn. And Robb, the former mayor of Grosse Pointe City, is scheduled to be sentenced this Friday on a separate charge, embezzling $196,249 from a bankrupt securities firm. He could face up to 30 months in prison.

The contempt charge was filed by the state Supreme Court's attorney grievance administrator Michael Schwartz, who alleged Robb continued to practice law after he was disbarred March 8. Schwartz said Robb filed a motion for a default judgement on May 15 in Wayne County Circuit Court. Judge Dunn granted the order and said Robb was to pay a $100 fine within seven days, by Friday, July 13.

That is the same day Robb is scheduled to appear before Federal Judge Horace Gilmore at 2 p.m. to be sentenced on charges relating to Robb's admitted em-warehouse merchandise must go-nothing held back!"

į.

Robb to be sentenced tomorrow bezzlement of some $196,249 from the bankrupt securities firm Finance House, Inc. The maximum penalty under statute for the crime is five years in prison and $50,000 in fines. But Robb entered a plea agreement that limits his sentence to up to 30 months in prison. Robb admitted last month that he misappropriated and converted to his own use money that belonged to the estate of Financial House while he was serving as trustee of the bankrupt firm from June, 1977, to March, 1983. He forged the name of a bankruptcy judge on some checks and placed other checks in his own personal bank account. He also admitted to filing false certificates of deposit.

Robb, a native Grosse Pointer and member of several exclusive clubs, was a member of the Grosse Pointe City council from 1973 until he was appointed mayor in 1979. He then won election to mayor and served until his resignation last August, shortly after the charges against him were made public.

the widening, Lambert said.

The department contends that most of the bridge traffic is local origin and the widening of the bridge will not significantly increase the use of the area, Bob Hargraves of the transportation planning division said. The state hopes its results will show that the origin and destination traffic will improve, he added.

The state and St. Clair Shores are expected to put $67,000 into the project, according to SEMCOG.

The Woods filed suit in January in federal and circuit court to block the project. As part of its suit, the city sought to block federal money for the project until an environmental impact study was completed by the state.

The following month, the Federal Highway Administration asked the state to reevaluate its decision to not perform an environmental study of the project.

Traffic in the area has caused headaches for years for residents of the Woods, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores. The cities jointly requested a state traffic study of the area after a couple months of wrangling over signage and enforcement in the area, Lambert said.

The traffic controversy in the northwest section of the city has to date spawned one major traffic study, two joint meetings between officials from the affected cities, two destination surveys, one each by the state and Woods, two lawsuits and a variety of unsuccessful solutions, among other things.

Dennison's hit in smash, grap

Grosse Pointe City police said a breaking and entering at Dennison's clothing shop in the Village this week was a typical "smash and grab" operation. The store lost about $1,200 work of merchandise in the break-in, according to reports.

A man delivering fresh food to nearby Sander's on Kercheval Avenue noticed the back door of Dennison's open at about 4:53 a.m. on Monday, July 9, and called police.

They said the door had been forced open and thieves had grabbed about three arms full of women's clothing from racks near the back They apparently never door. reached the cash register, police said.

A sensible compromise

The compromise under which Michigan legislative leaders agreed to roll back the 6.1 percent income tax rate to 5.35 percent on Sept. 1 and return the rate to 4.6 percent on Oct. 1, 1987, appeared to be a sensible one. So on first glance it is difficult to understand the Legislature's inability to accept the agreement before the Fourth of July holiday.

What apparently happened is that just as too many cooks often spoil the broth, too many ingredients damaged the compromise. It covered not only the income tax items but the budget, a 12 percent increase in state aid to the schools, a 11.2 percent increase in higher education allocations, another $60 million for the social services budget, a minimum of $31.2 million for the Detroit equity package and another $4 million for similar grants to outstate cities.

With so many items covered by the agreement, it was no wonder that legislators with special concerns for one or more of the ingredients were not willing to go along with the compromise. And so this week the legislative leaders had to go back to work to try to sell the compromise — or revise it sufficiently to make it acceptable to the rank and file.

Another explanation for the failure to reach agreement earlier is that the Democratic House and the Republican Senate have different aims. Both parties are convinced of the necessity of some income tax rollback, especially in view of the House election coming up in November, but they differ substantially on the aid packages for Michigan cities.

The Democrats are concerned about maintaining Detroit's equity package at the 1984 level of $31.2 million as a minimum while Republicans have come up with a plan to offer funds to outstate cities where more GOP votes can be found. So GOP legislative leaders really wanted more than the $4 million provided in such aid in the compromise.

Republicans tend to give strong support to state aid to the schools and higher education, while the Democrats insist upon more funds for social services. Those are general positions that have evolved over the years and they didn't really change much this year.

It is ironic that while Michigan's Legislature is completing work on two tax cuts, Congress has just passed a 1984 tax bill that increases revenue by $50 billion. In part, that federal tax increase was required because of the Reagan's administration's earlier tax cuts and increased spending for defense. Perhaps that action forecasts the future for Michigan. If the economic recovery does not continue as forecast, it is conceivable that the Legislature might be forced to reverse the decision to cut the income tax rate back to 4.6 percent on Oct. 1, 1987.

That date, of course, is still far in the future so that this year the Legislature can have its cake and eat it. It can cut the income tax rate twice in an election year — and we are assuming that is what is going to happen — but not have to worry about what the second reduction will do that the state's revenues until 1987. However, that doesn't mean that the House members running for reelection this year won't take credit for the second rollback. In fact, the election is the reason it is there.

Not No. 1 in seat belt race

Whatever happens to Michigan's mandatory seat belt proposal, this state will not be the first to enact a compulsory buckle up law. New York has just captured that honor by enacting a law to require the use of seat belts by front-seat passengers and children 4 to 9 years of age.

In New York as in Michigan, sponsors cited the results in more than 30 foreign countries as well as in six of neighboring Canada's provinces to support their contention that the legislation would save lives and money. New York used arguments similar to those of Michigan residents who contend that requiring motorists to buckle up makes the state their Big Brother, as in George Orwell's "1984." Yet if government can require installation of stop signs and traffic regulations in order to promote safety for all motorists and pedestrians, why shouldn't the state require the use of seat belts that the federal government already insists be installed in all passenger cars? Those who complain about the proposed requirement to require seat belts are carrying their defense of individual freedom to excessive lengths.

Michigan still could become No. 2 in the seat belt race by enacting the bill calling for a vote on the issue, which seems to be more acceptable to the Legislature than putting a seat belt law into effect for a trial period.

Women's League for Peace is pro-Soviet

To the Editor:

The article in the June 28, issue of the News under the headline "Oldest peace group to meet here" caught my attention, for never in recorded history has there been an example of a peace movement assuring peace or preventing war. Sure enough, the first paragraph provided the clue; 'A meeting of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom." A quick scan of two books told the story.

A book titled, "Target America, The Influence of Communist Propaganda on U.S. Media, pub-lished in 1981, mentioned this Women's League on seven different pages; one page 39, for in-stance, this Women's League is listed along with such organizations as the American Civil Liberties Union (a former liberal organization which has lurched to the far left), Black Panthers (no description needed), and Clergy and Laity Concerned (formed in 1965 to back the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong and has since backed other far left causes). Page 48 identifies the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom as a far left organization and indicated that they have a close tie with the World Peace Council which has been described as the largest international Communist Front Group.

A book titled The War Called Peace, The Soviet Peace Offensive, published by Western Goals in 1982, has about 15 pages on the World Peace Council and many of its ramifications; this book also states that the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom was made a World Peace Council Affiliate and mentions the heavy handed pro-Soviet stance, of many of the League activists. As for UNICEF (United Na-

As for UNICEF (United National Children's Emergency Fund) it is sufficient to say that while its original purpose was undoubtedly good, it has gone the way of practically everything else in the United Nations; many, many articles have been published about the UN in recent cerned. The United Nations was founded in 1945 in San Francisco with 51 members and now has 157. The average UN member has been reported as voting with the Soviets 84 percent of the time. The UN support of Marxist guerrilla forces and terrorist groups is well known and the columnist Jack Anderson has been quoted as saying that "The United Nations has become little more than a drum for the denunciation of the United States."

The question has been raised numerous times over the years as to how and where UNICEF money is spent; the latest reliable report that I have seen stated that the UNICEF money aids African terrorists.

We all need vacations, they say, in order to recharge our batteries, change our perspectives, seek out new scenes and people, and get out of the routine that guides so much of our lives.

We agree with the purpose of vacations. The trouble is that they have to end. Getting back into the old grooves is not too bad. But what is boring, time consuming and even troublesome is the preparation that is required to get back into the routine after a vacation ends.

It takes only a quick inspection, of course, to learn that the old homestead is still standing, that the grass has been cut and that the garden is thriving, even if now full of weeds. But it takes time, trouble and money to go through the mail. pay the bills that have accumulated, and catch up with the news and gossip at work and in the community.

Oh, yes, it's always good to come home but it's even better once we have gotten back into the normal swing of things and can start dreaming about next year's vacation. Anticipation of future pleasure is always half the fun. And next year perhaps there won't be as many odds and ends to be handled, so much mail to be read and so many bills to be paid once our vacation comes to end.

And yet perhaps we ought to remember Shakespeare's admonition of King Henry IV, "If all the years were playing holidays, to sport would be as tedious as to work." Safety first as Park pool?

To the Editor:

I was recently amazed to find myself involved in a public argument I never thought possible.

On June 28 I took my children (ages 2 and 4) to the Grosse Pointe Park pool to swim. My children were outfitted with U.S. Coast Guard approved personal flotation devices (PFD-III). We entered the two and a half foot section of the pool together. My children were under my personal, watchful supervision at all times.

I was then approached by Craig Campbell (head lifeguard), and directed to take the safety devices off the children as those devices were not allowed in the pool.

I told him that I am a Red Cross certified Water Safety Instructor, that these were Coast Guard approved safety devices, that there were no posted rules preventing the use of safety devices and that I refused to years none of them are good as far as the United States is con-

Hertel is mistaken

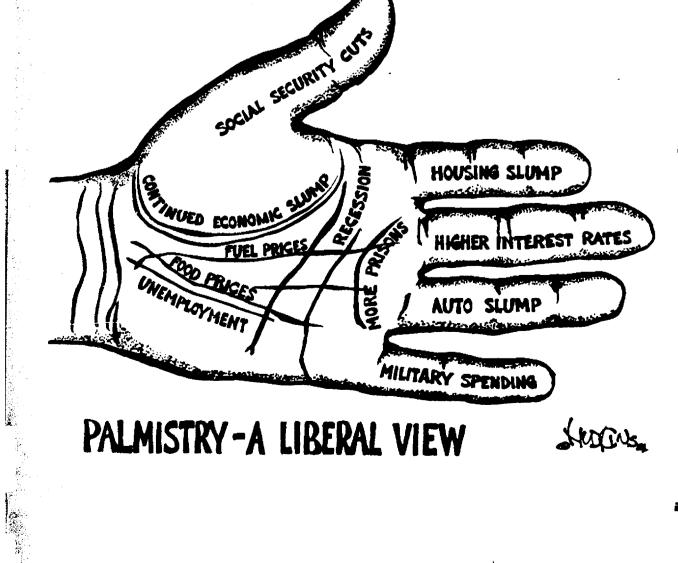

To the Editor:

This is in answer to a recent letter from John Hertel. If he is so worried about the tremendous financial drain on taxpayers, why was he the first commissioner to have a $25,000 Administrative Aide?

When County Executive William Lucas called a meeting about the hospital on a Saturday, Hertel chose to miss the meeting. He put personal business before the consideration of 600 county employes and their families. He further stated that Bill Lucas just called this meeting and was not going to tell the Commissioners anything new, so he did not feel it was necessary to attend.

If Hertel calls supporting William Lucas on such an important issue as the sale or closing of the hospital being absent when Mr. Lucas calls a meeting, he is sadly mistaken.

The Farms is 'dead last' in safety

To the Editor:

I have always considered myself fortunate to have been born and raised in Grosse Pointe. Throughout my lifetime, I have had the pleasure of residing in three of the five Pointes. The school system has long been heralded among the finest any-where, the public works rarely let you down and each of the five family parks are well facilitized, staffed and for the most part, well maintained.

Also. I can't forget about public safety in the Pointes. That is certainly one aspect that should not be left out. As a matter of fact, public safety in our community or any other should be a major concern to everyone. That is what has prompted me to voice my opinion.

I'm sure you have heard the saying, "You can never find a cop when you need one." My family has never had that problem until recently.

While growing up in the Woods, the response by the city to a safety oriented citizen request was outstanding. My parents now live in the Shores and they reiterate that sentiment about their village now.

Well about three years ago, I moved to the Farms on what many people say is one of the most desirable streets in the city. It is desirable only because of the convenience of everything the Farms has to offer. When it comes to taxes, it is probably ranked among the highest. Where public safety is concerned, it should be ranked dead last.

I do not use the word "dead" facetiously. It is evident that someone must die before the Farms public safety depart-ment, or God forbid the city council, will act to control the traffic which travels up and down Hall Place from Ker-cheval and Grosse Pointe Boulevard. Throughout the day and night, drivers use the curve at the Kercheval end of Hall Place as if it is a chicane on the Grand Prix circuit. I don't believe there is one tree that does not bear a scar as a result of a speeding automobile out of control.

Three weeks ago, just to mention one of many, a car lost con-trol coming around the curve. It traveled up onto my neighbor's front lawn, hit a tree 15 feet from their front door, glanced off that, hit another tree on the corner of their property and came to rest on the sidewalk where Radnor Circle intersects with Hall Place. The car was totalled and unrecognizable as to the make model. The driver or miraculously walked away from the accident.

Here is what worries me. There are eight children that live in two of the first five houses off Kercheval and they play on the sidewalk or on their front lawns.

It certainly is a shame and unfortunate that over the years the Grosse Pointe Farms public safety department has not and will not respond to the requests of the Hall Place residents or, by themselves, recognize this is a serious and dangerous situation that must be corrected.

I ask you. What is the city waiting for? I shudder at the thought. John F. DeHayes Jr. Grosse Pointe Farms

Editor's note: A check of the 1983 annual report published by the Farms Police Department showed that the intersection of Hall and Kercheval is the second most dangerous intersection in the Farms with nine recorded accidents. The intersection recording the highest number of accidents was Mack and Moross with 20.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

Every segment of society is represented — labor, industry, teacher organizations, medical groups, oil conglomerates, utility companies. Each one has its own lobby seeking the attention and consideration of lawmakers, hoping to persuade them to pass laws that will benefit their particular interest.

There are some 6,500 registered professional lobbyists for groups as large as the oil industry and as small as the Lefthanders International. Their mission is to com-municate to elected officials the needs and wishes of their group.

The term "lobbyist" for some voters carries with it a distasteful connotation. Lobbyists are thought of as people who push and maneuver to get laws passed for the benefit of some at the expense of others. This is not necessarily so. They are exercising the constitutional right of petition, an avenue of resource open to all as much as the voting franchise is open to all. Older Americans were made cognizant to the value of spokes-people in Washington last year when a program named Title V was threatened. This program provides community service jobs for low-income per-sons over 55. About 6,000 persons are paid minimum wages to be aides in nutritional programs, paralegal assistants and laborers working to weatherize homes. Funding comes from state and federal treasuries.

Older Americans, a segment comprised of over 25 million people, were acting in unison to make themselves heard. It worked.

Just two months later the Senate overrode the President's veto of the $14.2 billion Supplemental Appropriations Bill.

Title V, which represents only one percent ($211 million) of the appropriation package, became a pivotal factor around which many issues revolved.

While the letter campaign was an important ingredient in the successful salvaging of the Supplemen-tal Appropriations Bill, there were other influences at work.

There were phone campaigns preceeding the vote. The media was sympathetic and ran appealing s about men and wor to lose Title V jobs. An election was coming up. The movement to keep Title V and counter a presidential veto became part of a potential scenario, one which was being orchestrated by lobbyists.

(NCSC) which has 350,000 members; the National Association of Retired Federal Employes (NARFE) representing almost 700,000 retired civil servants and the National Council on the Aging (NCOA). This last group is composed of professionals in the field, most of whom run senior centers and offer nutritional and volunteer services.

These large organizations have of-fices in Washington and have fulltime staff lobbyists. Three years ago these large organizations formed a cartel with smaller ones with no representation in Washington. It is called the Leadership Council on Aging Organizations and is made up of an executive committee with rotating officials. It is too soon to tell how effective the Leadership Counwill be. Right now defense posture according to Judy Park, legislative representative of the National Association of Retired Federal Employes. It is a matter of keeping cuts from occurring. This thinking is in line with that of legislators and economists alike who profess that in today's economy not losing ground is a major accomplishment. At the same time legislators admit that when they work together, groups do have considerable political clout. To accomplish their ends, senior lobbys employ the same tactics that older, more experienced lobbys have used to gain support: excellent research to back up positions, organized "grass root" support and political contributions. Political contributions are recognized as an important persuasive force by industry, specialinterest and other groups. Lobbyists for senior citizens accept that view. Two senior groups, the National Council of Senior Citizens and the National Association of Retired Federal Employes, have political action committees (PAC), a euphemism for campaign war chests. These PAC funds are used by lobbyists to convince candidates to see the importance of their view on issues. It is conceded that carefully targeted campaign contributions are beneficial. NARFE's top lobbyist, Judy Parks says "The PAC gives us access we didn't have before. I probably know more mem-bers of the freshman congressional class because of our PAC than ever before. They remember that you helped them (get elected) ' It is interesting to note that NARFE's record of giving ranked it among the top 10 in terms of direct campaign contributions to congressional races. Money talks but it has been proven that the real power is still with the voting consituency.

It was apparent that when it came down to the wire, the lobbyists (named after the winding Capitol lobbies where the backstage persuasion takes place) were the moving force.

If lobbyists are that important, the question arises, how well are older Americans represented in Washington?

There are nearly 30 organizations across the country that represent older Americans. Among them are the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) the largest, with a membership of 4.5 million; the National Council of Senior Citizens

There are some very good reasons why the rest of your friends in Grosse Pointe trust their valued photos to SPEEDI PHOTO over all the other one-hour labs & the local drugstore.

It seems that everytime you pick up the newspaper there's another "one hour photo lab" opening up in a shopping mall promising the world's best photos. Despite these new "miracle" labs, Speedi Photo continues to enjoy the confidence and patronage of a good portion of the picture takers in Grosse Pointe. Here's why

- WE USE THE BEST EQUIPMENT money can buy. Many one hour labs today are nothing more than "converted home darkrooms" that don't have the electronic sophistication necessary to make the best possible prints from your negatives.
- WE USE KODAK, U.S.A. PAPER & CHEMICALS to guarantee consistently good color prints. Many one hour labs are trying to cut corners by using European Kodak or Japanese paper instead of KODAK, U.S.A. paper, which we receive fresh from Kodak's Rochester factory weekly.
- WE EMPLOY TRAINED PROFESSIONALS to print your photos who have been factory trained to meet our exacting standards of quality.
- WE MAKE ENLARGEMENTS up to 11"×14" as quickly as one hour as well as just develop & print standard-size color prints!
- OUR ONLY BUSINESS IS PICTURES . . . we don't use our processing as a "leader" to draw you into the store. Your processing business is our livelihood. We do your pictures better because we want your business!

Cable ratings drop no bombshells

By Mike Andrzejczyk There weren't many surprises in Grosse Pointe Cable's first Arbitron view study conducted recently, according to general manager Gerald DeGrazia. At least not in local programming viewership. In the three surveyed time slots, the local origination channels didn't have enough viewers to garner a rating by Arbitron. But then again, they're up against some heavy-duty competition.

The surprises came in the ratings for other services. DeGrazia said he was "a little disappointed" in the showing by MTV, on which Grosse Pointe Cable advertises. Also, strong showings by ESPN and USA, both sports-oriented channels, showed a viewer interest in sports, he added.

Times surveyed were the 4 to 6 p.m. time slot; the 6 to 8 p.m. and the prime time 8 to 10 p.m. slot.

In the 4 to 6 time, WXZY topped the market with a 26 percent share. At the low end were WXON and MTV, among others with 3 percent. DeGrazia said. In the prime time access and prime time slots, cable and move channels picked up considerably against network pro-grams, he said.

Although Grosse Pointe Cable is doing about the same as other local origination channels in other cities, the company plans to do more to promote its programming by advertising and increasing the number of groups that produce programs, De-Grazia said.

promote our programs," he said. We'll be using satellite stations to advertise our local programs."

The station is also developing more programs in cooperation with other organizations that will have a high viewer interest, DeGrazia said. One organization being considered is St. John Hospital, he added.

The cable company has already produced a number of programs with local organizations, the latest the upcoming "Vantage Point" series with Services for Older Citizens. The more people that are involved, the more people who will watch, DeGrazia said.

'A strong local origination channel can sell cable television," he said. "Even though people like movie channels and other programming, by seeing programs about their community ... they're more likely to watch and keep watching cable television.'

The company really didn't expect its local origination programs to make the ratings, DeGrazia said. Much of the feedback about viewership comes from phone calls, letters and conversations with residents about certain programs.

The company does plan a formal viewership survey for its local sta-tions, most likely using a bill-stuffer questionnaire.

Arbitrons aren't cheap, DeGrazia said. The cable company provides Arbitron with a random sample of subscriber phone numbers, which Arbitron then calls during specific

"We're going to do more work to time slots. The first question is simple: What station are you watching? After that, the rating company then picks up basic demographics, like age and so forth, and compiles its results.

> The information is between the cable company and Arbitron, De-Grazia said. Subscribers shouldn't worry about ending up on someone's mailing list because of their participation in the study, he added.

Boosting viewership, making the channels pay for themselves or pro-ducing slick, network-quality productions aren't really the goals of cable local origination, DeGrazia said. "The stations provide the community with the opportunity to produce its own programming. Because you have a wide range of groups, who aren't necessarily professionals, you're going to get a wide range of quality," he added. The cable company offers technical assistance and financial assistance as well, DeGrazia said.

Sometimes a group will approach the company with a good idea for a program, but will be unable to line up advertisers in the beginning, DeGrazia said. The company will take a chance, produce and present the programs and hope to pick up advertising along the way, he added.

While he would like to see the local origination channels pay for themselves some day, DeGrazia said that day may be long in coming. The channels now don't cover 10 percent of their costs, he said.

Local origin programming is turn-ing toward information instead of entertainment, DeGrazia said. "We need to develop . . . to deal with the issues that are important to the community," he added.

The cable company has presented candidate forums in city council elections and, more recently, a debate between pro-and anti-school recall sides on "People With Erv Steiner," hosted by the Grosse Pointe Farms businessman. While local origination programs can take up specific issues, the station must also stay neutral, DeGrazia added.

The city councils of the five cities in the franchise haven't developed a firm decision on the televising of council meetings, DeGrazia said. The cable company has adopted a 'don't push" policy, but continues to look for the opportunity to cover specific high-interest meetings, he added.

The company has developed a cable production curriculum with the Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods public schools that should boost the amount of educational programs presented, DeGrazia said. Also, the company plans to work with private schools to improve their access to the educational channel, he added.

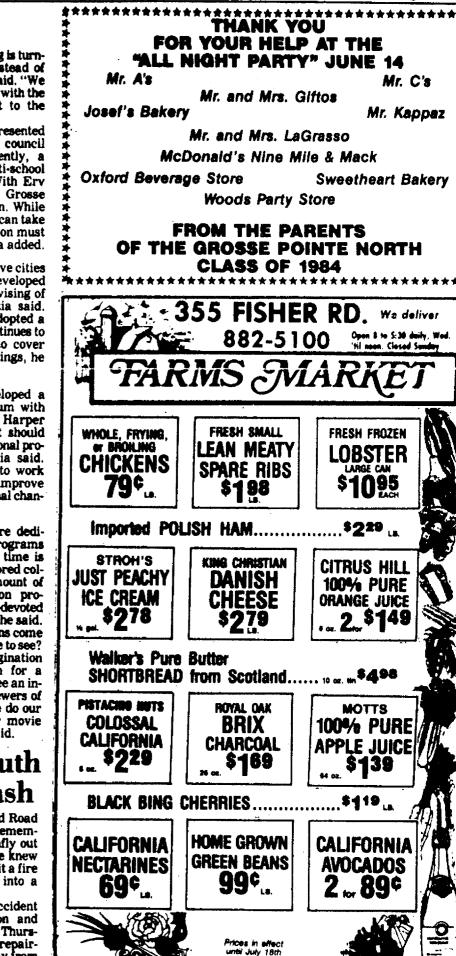

Twelve hours a week are dedicated to local education programs currently. The rest of the time is covered by WTVS-cosponsored college programs. As the amount of locally produced education programs increase, the college devoted programs will be cut back, he said. When next year's Arbitrons come in, what would DeGrazia like to see? "Obviously, a local origination rating that's high enough for a share. I would also like to see an increase in the number of viewers of satellite stations, where we do our advertising, and a greater movie channel viewership," he said.

Increased consumption and sales and the two-cents-a-gallon tax increase have raised revenues from fuel sales by more than 25 percent, the state Department of Transportation said.

Grosse Pointe cities, in turn, received payments from the receipts that were almost 25 percent more than the same quarter last year.

"Consumption has gone up even though more fuel-efficient engines and lighter-weight cars are giving motorists better mileage than ever before." state Transportation Director James Pitz said in the announcement.

The number of gallons sold in the six-month period ending March 31 totalled 1.79 billion, a 7 percent increase over the 1.66 billion sold in the comparable six-month period the year before. A 4 percent increase in the last three months of 1983 ended a run of 18 consecutive quarters in which sales were less than the same quarter of the previous year.

of 1983. That increase reflects both increased sales and the gas tax increase in effect since Jan. 1. As their share of the gas tax money, the Pointes collected $326,728, almost 25 percent more than the first quarter of 1983. The City collected $38,321 in 1984's first quarter, up from $30,681 for the same period last year. The Farms collected $69,912 for the first quarter this year, up from $55,961 the year before. The Park's first quarter payment this year was $83,584, up from $66,900 in the first quarter of 1983.

The Woods received $113,790 as its first quarter payment in 1984, up from $91,065 the year before. The Shores received $21,119, up from $16,909 the first quarter last year. The increased income will help the Michigan Department of Transportation finance another big program of highway repair and im-provement, Pitz said, "We expect to take bids on about $370 million in contracts this year, close to the $385 million awarded in 1983,'

The total construction included federal-aid projects on county roads and city streets.

Wayne county's road commission received $9.9 million for the first quarter of 1984, almost $2 million more than the previous year's first quarter. County road commissions receive a 35.2 percent share of revenues.

The total amount distributed to state transportation programs was $210.25 million, a near-20 percent increase from the year before. The state transportation department collected almost $74 million as its share, the 83 state road commissions the same amount. The 532 incorporated cities and villages which receive 19.6 percent of the total collected $41.24 million as their share, while the Comprehensive Transportation Fund collected $21 million conservation program Businessmen propose

The Woods and the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association have joined forces - for now - to apply for a state Department of Commerce grant for a community energy management program.

The Woods council decided to go along with filing the application with the business association July 2. The council asked that a revised contract be presented at the July 19 meeting to limit the city's expenses and allow it to get out anytime. Municipal Judge Patricia Schneider and Edward Kane represented the Mack business association, which also plans to ask the Farms, City and Park councils for their participation. They hope to save residents money on fuel bills which could be spent in the business districts, according to literature.

'It is estimated that if a city with 5,000 owner-occupied housing units achieves 25 percent participation in this program, energy costs will be cut by about $55,000 in the first year of the program," according to the association's proposal. "Some of this salvaged money would then tend to be spent along the Mack Avenue business strip.

The program, through the Energy Administration of the Commerce Department, would provide equipment so cities could do infrared surveys, or thermograms, of radiant heat loss.

A thermogram would be taken of each home and residents could see them at neighborhood open house meetings. Volunteers would then explain the heat loss and remedies for it, according to the association. Homeowners would then be responsible for insulating or other steps to cut heat loss.

As its part of the program, the Woods will appoint an employe as a contact person to work with the commerce department personnel. The employe will be responsible for collecting data on municipal energy usage and forming a municipal energy policy. The other cities would be expected to do the same. The usage data for the Woods was collected for a previous program and areas for municipal conservation have already been identified, according to city officials. The mayors of the four cities would appoint two residents to serve on a steering committee for the program. Dr. Kane would ap-point two representatives from the business association.

The cities will also need to appoint an energy coordinator who will devote 20 hours a week to the program. Each city would also furnish five plat maps and a pro-rated share of a $10,000 promotional budget.

Clerk Administrator City Chester Petersen said the Woods could spend as much as $15,000 as its share of the program.

The program would be carried out by the cities and the business association, which would staff an energy information office, set up business district meetings and recruit small business energy usage analysts from the area.

The business association would develop a small business energy usage program and promote the residential program as well as storing the thermograms.

Woods Councilmembers said they didn't want to commit the city to a long-term program without first knowing the benefits and costs. Councilman Robert Novitke said the present council could not bodies.

The energy program is one of two multi-city projects recently de-veloped by the business association.

Representatives from the association will come back to city councils later this month or early next month to ask their participation in an economic development program for the commercial area.

The business group, using block grant money, will identify low and moderate income residents looking for work. It will also classify the business district into professional or occupational skills to identify what kind of jobs and how many are needed.

The association would then match residents to jobs in the community or with state and federal placement or job training programs

The two programs would create an atmosphere of development as well as combatting blight along the commercial strip, according to the association.

Sinbad's 'Buster' Blancke

By Susan McDonald

Prudent O. Blancke was starting out in the restaurant business in 1949 when the nervy waitress he had just hired informed him that "Prudent" was not the right name for a bar owner.

She renamed him "Buster" on the spot, according to his long-time partner and brother-in-law Hillaire Van Hollebeke. The name stuck and proved to be just right for a bar owner.

"Buster" Blancke went on to become one of the best known and most successful restaurateurs on the water in southeastern Michigan as co-owner of Sinbad's on the Detroit River and the St. Clair Inn until 1979. He died on Monday, July 2, at his Lakeshore Road home at age

'We started off together subletting one room next to our marina," Van Hollebeke said. "We worked hard and sort of grew up with boating in these parts.

The two kept adding and adding to that room as the lines of boaters outside their door grew every summer. They sold the marina in 1981 to the city of Detroit, which was accumulating land for a proposed factory site for John DeLorean. They sold the St. Clair Inn in 1979. Sinbad's keeps packing them in

Park man robbed

Grosse Pointe Park police re-ported that a resident who tried to give a woman directions ended up being robbed by her.

The 72-year-old man was walking on Jefferson near Wayburn at about 8 p.m. on Thursday, June 28, when a woman approached him, he told police.

As he tried to answer her question, she reached into his shirt pocket, stole his address book containing $18 and fled north on Maryland, he said.

The man, who was unhurt, later found his address book on the street, minus the money.

You can take some of the danger out of this situation by warning your followers. If you approach a group of bunched up traffic assume that something has happened, like an accident and that you'll soon have to stop. Tap your brakes lightly three or four times as a warning to cars behind. Should you have to crawl, turn on your emergency flashers to reinforce the warning, I would also recommend a waving arm signal to catch the driver's eye.

ner if you are running for office. The American Association of Retired Persons and the National Council on Aging furnished much of the research on the elderly to congressional offices.

AARP is also regarded as a valuable research resource. Besides providing local lobbying efforts in state capitols, AARP sponsors activities for members of more than 8,000 chapters nationwide. It is a powerful political force in Washington. Experience, organizational skills and quality of lobbyists are impor-tant components of getting the at-tention of Washington lawmakers. But lobbyists would be the first to admit that without "grass root" sup-port, all of their efforts would be in vain. They willingly give credit to all of the individuals in the towns and cities across the country who cast votes, write letters or make a visit to a government office. Besides such effective means as these, other methods of drawing attention to people power are practiced. NCOA subtly delivers a message by encouraging and coor-dinating congressional visits to senior centers that are run by the association's professional membership.

After a congressman sees for himself how centers enrich and even prolong life for those who come to them, he thinks twice before cutting off funds for a senior center in his district

While life has improved for senior citizens during the last two decades because of social security and Medicare, it is important that what has been gained is not eroded in the ris-ing tide of cubacks in the state and federal budget.

The impending Medicare crisis is an example of the need to shore up all defenses against government cutbacks in that all important, hardwon area of health benefits. It is certain that there will be no decision before the presidential election on the proposal that Medicare beneficiaries should share some health costs. This has been a Reagan belief that is shared by many Democrats in Congress, including some members of the Senate Finance Committee.

There is a sharp division of opi-nion concerning whether controlling health costs rests with the government or whether a larger share of responsibility belongs with the patients.

It is a complex problem and one that should be watched closely for proposed solutions. If proposed reforms are going to hurt rather than help then it is time once again to muster all available resources, including lobbying to make sure that nothing is lost and hopefully something is gained in health benefits.

Quit smoking at Cottage

Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe will host free, introductory meetings of the "Smokeless System" conducted by the Ameri-can Institute for Preventive Medicine.

The sessions will be held on Mon-day, July 30, and Tuesday, July 31, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m., in the Cottage Hospital Nurses' Residence on Ridge Road at the rear of the Hospital parking lot. The "Smokeless System" was cited in the 1983 Surgeon General's Report on Smoking and Health. Documented research has shown that this program has a success rate three times that of most stop smoking programs.

The "Smokeless System" uses a systematic series of copyrighted procedures that effectively neutralize one's desire for tobacco. The program consists of behavior modification, stress management, cognitive coping skills and eating management.

For more information on the quit smoking clinic, attend one of the free, introductory sessions, or call the Cottage Hospital Education department at 884-8600, extension 2390

Sailing with a winning team

Midshipmen Tom Clark of the Farms (left) and Tony Landauer of the City stand on the bow of Cinnabar, the official U.S. Naval Academy sailing ship. The two are among 10 Annapolis midshipment who will pilot Cinnabar in the Port Huron to Mackinac race this weekend. Another area midshipman aboard is Tom Watson of Detroit. Both midshipmen, South High alumni, have piloted Cinnabar to the Grosse Pointe Club docks. The trip started in Newport, Va., to Long Island Sound and up the Hudson River, through the Erie Canal to Lake Ontario via the Welland Canal to Lake Erie and the Detroit River. The sleek S and S 50-foot sloop Cinnabar, a past winner of several major races in the United States, is one of 10 large racing boats used to train Annapolis midshipmen. Cinnabar is one of eight offshore racers under the command of Captain Neil Berthier, USN, retired, vice-commodore of the Naval Academy Sailing Squadron. Ensign Chris Kramer is captain of the Annapolis boat racing team. After the Port Huron race, Cinnabar will compete in the Chicago to Mackinac race, the Detroit-Downriver race at Grosse Isle and the Grosse Isle to Put-In-Bay competition. Boating enthusiasts will have another chance to see Cinabar fly its huge American Flag when it stops in Detroit Aug. 4. Boaters got a surprise last Sunday on the lake and river when the sleek racer did its maneuvers.

From Another Pointe Of View By Janet Mueller

There's an America's Cup Ball at Newport, R.I., during the America's Cup yacht racing series. The party is held in one of Newport's famous "cottages" — a misnomer if there ever was one; these "cottages" are fit for kings — like The Brackers, a costle built contury by like The Breakers, a castle built early in the century by Cornelius Vanderbilt. Newport's America's Cup Ball is one of the most prestigious and impressive social yachting events of the world.

But it should be matched, if not topped, this year right here in Grosse Pointe, on Saturday, Aug. 4, at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House: fitting setting for Bayview Yacht Club's first Canada's Cup Ball, a black tie affair that will draw international and national yachting and political figures in addition to local celebrities.

Honorary chairmen include Governor and Mrs. James D. Blanchard, Baron and Mme. Marcel Bich, from Paris, France, John Werthmann, Commodore of the sponsoring Bayview Yacht Club, Bruce S. McGowan, Commodore of Toronto's defending Royal Canadian Yacht Club, with Mrs. McGowan, and Llwyd and Sally Ecclestone, up from North Palm Beach, Fla. The honorary list also includes Edsel B. Ford II, the Paul D. Alandts, the Bruno Biches, the Charles E. Kirshes, the Bob Timkens, the Wendell W. Andersons Jr., the Bill Bonbrights, the John Griffins, the Miles Jaffes, the Tom Petzolds and the Walter B. Robinsons.

Also attending the climactic social event of this summer's Canada's Cup selection trials for the three Bayview Yacht Club challengers will be Charles M. Kober, president of the United States Yacht Racing Union, and the International Jury of David E. Howard, Robert Sloan, Lynn G. Stedman Jr. and Richard Latham.

Bayview's Canada's Cup challenging skippers, Bill Martin, John Fowler and Tony Knight, will be there, of course, as will RCYC defenders Tony Ronza, F.L. Dickson and Dr. E.R. Derby. Susie Griffin, daughter of Bayview's Canada's Cup chairman Mike Tapert, is chairman of the ball. She has enlisted the help of approximately 40 young, enthusiastic women as party planners.

Susie's ring leaders include Monica Barbour, Debbie Flaska, Jane Nutter, Linda Sepp, Jane Young, Cazzie Belenky, Pam Thompson, Tina Pappas and Kim Woodhouse. They're determined to put on the largest and most elaborate yachting party ever held here, a very special evening starting at 9 p.m. and including a dance and a midnight breakfast buffet.

Fruitful food July outlook

Michigan food shoppers have an increasing number of homegrown fruits and vegetables to choose from during July, including a bumper crop of red tart cherries waiting to be harvested this month.

Three organizations have estimated the 1984 crop at three different levels, but all agree on two things: the crop is more than double last year's harvested crop, and Michigan's production will constitute about three-quarters of the national red tart cherry output.

The majority of those red tart cherries will be frozen or canned. Shoppers wanting a few fresh red tart cherries will find city and roadside produce markets their best sources; these markets are also the most likely sources of fresh raspberries and blackber-

Michigan is a top producer of blueberries. The 1984 blueberry crop is estimated at 54 million pounds. That's 10 percent above last year's crop — but producers plan on increasing the fresh mar-ket portion by a whopping 72

The fresh Michigan blueberry season begins in late July and should extend into early September. Harvest should peak the first or second week in August, depending on the weather.

A wide variety of homegrown fresh vegetables also become available in July. Look for Michigan beans (green and snap), broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, cucumbers, peppers, summer squash and spinach.

At the meat counter, beef prices remain at low levels. Sluggish spring demand from consumers and over-zealous marketing by producers have kept prices down.

Pork prices are also below yearearlier levels. Broiler prices finally started to drop at the end of May, to levels more appropriate for the current marketing situation (low

Now for a bit of "what the shouting is all about" background: Canada's Cup, known as the America's Cup of the Great Lakes, is owned by the Royal Canadian Yacht Club where it is regarded as a national treasure. The Toronto club celebrated its Centennial Year "A Hundred Years of Royalty" in 1954 when it won the Canada's Cup back from America's Rochester Yacht Club.

In the 15 matches held since the first series took place in the neutral waters of Lake Erie off Toledo in 1896, the Canadians have won six times, the United States, nine. Bayview's Llwyd Ecclestone brought the Canada's Cup to Detroit for the first time in 1972. Jerry Murphy's "Golden Dazy," with Don Criner as skipper, retained the mug in the 1975 series here.

Don Green, with "Evergreen," defeated Terry Kohler and his yacht "Agape" in a bitter 1978 series, and the Cup went to Ontario's Royal Hamilton Yacht Club. Tony Ronza's "Coug" retained the trophy for the RHYC against the out-designed, three-year-old "Black Magic" in 1981, on Lake Ontario — but Mike Thompson and an expert Bayview crew gained admiration and respect by their sportsmanly demeanor, and the Canada's Cup legend was once again shining.

A Day for The Hall

"A Day for The Hall," a special feature of the Orchestra Hall Festival celebrating the 65th anniversary of that historic building, begins at 11:15 a.m. next Wednesday, July 18, with a reception at the Detroit Athletic Club preceding a noon luncheon there.

The program, sponsored by Orchestra Hall Associates and The Historic Preservation Committee of the American Society of Interior Designers, Michigan Chapter, continues with a 1 p.m. Parade through Time: a nostalgic presentation on the years since the Hall opened, featuring gowns worn by America's First Ladies, modeled by members of the sponsoring organizations, with commentary by State Senator Jack Faxon.

An Orchestra Hall tour and mini-concert at 2 p.m. will be followed by tea and champagne at the David Whitney Mansion on Woodward Avenue. Return to the DAC is scheduled for 4 p.m. Information on tickets for the Day, ranging in. price from $25 to $75, is available at Orchestra Hall.

Huntington Preserve Postscript

A few weeks ago, we wrote about the dedication of the Huntington Preserve in Doyle Township, presented by Grosse Pointe's Frances Huntington to the Michigan Nature Association in honor of her parents. And we noted that nine great-grandchildren of George Danforth Huntington, Frances' father, continue to live in Grosse Pointe.

But we neglected to mention that two more greatgrandchildren, children of the late Robert McNab Kerr III, live "just across the border," in St. Clair Shores. Frances certainly doesn't want anyone to think she's disowned them. Neither do we.

The dedication ceremony, incidentally, was a simple one, conducted by Dr. Kenneth McCall, of the Presbytery of Mackinac, currently on sabbatical leave and writing a thesis on the relationship of God to Nature. Frances had Thursday, July 12, 1984

WSU Alumni off to Boblo

The boat docks at noon, leaving a half-hour of free time before the WSU picnic and entertainment begin at 12:30 p.m. in Boblo's Picnic Area. Guests have a choice of return sailings from 4:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Cost for the boat ride, picnic and admission tickets to five shows and all Boblo Rides, including the new, 70-foot Falling Star, is $16.75 for adults, $14.75 for children aged 4 through 12, $10.75 for senior citizens. Children under 4 ride free; their lunch is $4. Adult fee for the picnic only is $6.75.

Ādvance reservations are necessary. They may be made by calling the WSU Alumni House, 577-2161. Woods resident Karen Salome is among committee members planning the day.

Busy days for Phase I

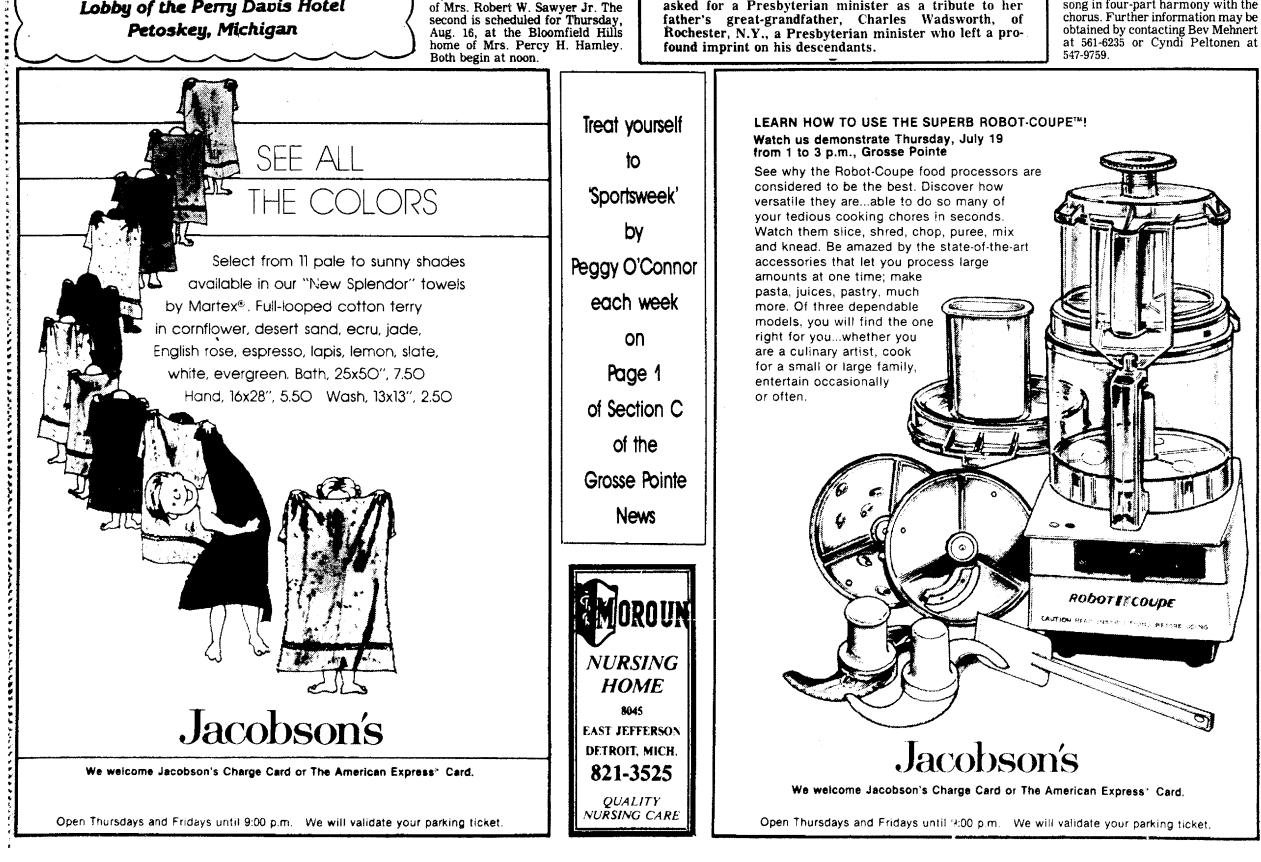

Mid-July will be a busy time for members of Phase I, the organization of single, young adults, ages 20 through 39, who gather regularly fall through spring for Sunday evening program meetings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Although those meetings have been suspended for the summer, Phase I's July/August social and athletic calendar remains full. Volleyball is scheduled for 7 p.m. Friday, July 20, outdoors behind the church, overlooking Lake St. Clair, if it's sunny; indoors, in Fellowship Hall, if it rains.

Phase I's picnic at Spindler Park (Stephens Road at I-94) on Sunday, July 22, begins at 3 p.m. Participants should bring food, blankets, tennis and softball equipment, and meet near the park entrance.

More Meadow Brook music

Meadow Brook Music Festival begins its fifth week of the summer season with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and violin soloist Dmitry Sitkovetsky, under the direction of guest conductor Stanislaw Skrowaczewski, at 8 p.m. next Thursday, July 19. Skrowaczewski and the DSO return at 6 p.m. Sunday, July 22, with pianist Stephen Hough, a Naumberg winner, as guest soloist, in a program including the works of Weber, Liszt and Berlioz.

Donny and Marie Osmond bring an evening of song and dance to festival patrons on Friday, July 20. Folk musicians Peter, Paul and Mary make their Meadow Brook debut Saturday, July 21. Both concerts begin at 8 p.m. The festival stage is Baldwin Pavilion on the grounds of Oakland University in Rochester. Gates open at 4 p.m. on Sundays and 6 p.m. on weekdays for picnicking and full service or a la carte dining on Trumbull Terrace. Information on tickets, lawn coupon books and programs is available at the festival box office, 377-2010.

Tickets also are on sale at all Ticket World locations and AAA branch offices. Information on group discounts, available for most concerts, may be obtained by calling 377-3316. For the first time in recent history Meadow Brook Music Festival, a non-profit cultural program of Oakland University, is offering all patrons free parking for every event during the summer.

Spotlight jazz at Music Hall

Launching summer's "Jazz by the Park" series tomorrow, Friday, July 13, will be The Crusaders, appearing in concert at Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts at 8 p.m. following a free party in Harmonie Park from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Food and drinks will be available in the park, where local jazz artists will be performing. All concert seats are reserved; tickets, at $17.50 and $15, may be obtained by phone with MasterCard, VISA or American Express at the Music Hall box office, 963-7680, and at all Ticket World/ CTC outlets.

The series was originally planned to open last Friday, July 6, with a concert by George Shearing, but unforseen conflicts in scheduling forced its postponement. A future date will be set for Shearing. "Jazz by the Park" programs continue with a July 20 concert featuring Alberta Hunter, an Aug. 3 concert (artist to be announced) and an Aug. 10 grand finale with Mel Torme. Each ticketed concert is preceded by a Harmonie Park party.

Rose fanciers enjoyed the varieties with American Rose Society Judge DICK SCHMIDT (center) at the 1984 Grosse Pointe Rose Society Show held at the Neighborhood Club June 22 and 23. Forty exhibitors entered 229 roses, which were displayed on pink and green decorated tables. The themes of this year's show were "The More We Get Together" in the individual arrangement section and "My Husband and I" in the table setting section. Mrs. Deborah Leslie and Debra Fergus were chairman and co-chairman, respectively. Paul DeSmet was chairman of judges, Mrs. Mary Currie, chairman of clerks, and Mrs. Fernande Biglin and Mrs. Ellen Quinlan, artistic design consultants. Residents of Grosse Pointe, Harper Woods and St. Clair Shores were invited to join the G.P. Rose Society. The next general membership meeting will be Sept. 12. Nautical themes for time capsules

The Dossin Great Lakes Museum, located on Belle Isle, is working on a unique exhibit to document Michigan's maritime heritage. Some 2,500 square feet of museum space will be transformed into Michigan's Nautical Time Capsules, slated to open in January, 1985.

In this interpretive exhibit, made possible through a $27,000 matching fund grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, Coastal Zone Management Office, the public will be able to see sailing and steam vessels which have gone down in Michigan waters between the 1850s and the 1970s. The shipwrecks, considered an historical resource of the state, give a panoramic view of Great Lakes vessels over the last two centuries. The vessels will be studied in an effort to document trade patterns, owners, cargos and types of commercial craft that once sailed the lakes. The exhibit will offer a different view of shipping history: a chance to see a vessel prior to its loss, and to see its present condition on the state's bottomlands. A select group of intact shipwrecks will be studied. With the aid of models, drawings, photographs and artifacts, these wrecks will be fully documented. For the first time, the non-diving public will be able to view the pilot house of the Edmund Fitzgerald, which sank in 1975, or the condition of a 19th century ship's figurehead. Numerous Great Lakes historians, divers and artists will be providing the documentation which will tell the story of each wreck.

"The Egyptian Mummy: Secrets and Science," an exhibition featuring a real mummy, x-rays of mummies and artifacts recovered from Egyptian tombs, is on display at Cranbrook Institute of Science, located on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills, through July 29.

The exhibit illustrates customs associated with the mummification process: a religious practice in ancient Egypt as well as an example of early science. It shows how the Nile environment and changing cultural values affected the development of mummification. It highlights examples of man's knowledge of ancient health and disease gained through extensive scientific research on mummies over the past century.

Pointe cyclist still in pursuit of Olympic dream

By Peggy O'Connor

When U.S. Olympic team members march into the Los Angeles Coliseum on July 28 for the opening ceremonies of the 1984 Summer Olympics, one Grosse Pointe product may be among them.

He's David Grylls, 26, a South High graduate who now makes his home in San Diego. In the cycling trials in Colorado Springs, Colo., last weekend, Grylls finished fifth in the team pursuit finals with a 4.23.80 According to the Denver Post, the top six finishers qualify for a spot on the U.S. team.

But officials at the U.S. Olympic cycling office would only say that Grylls had made the "long team. Some members of that team will be chosen later in July for spots on the team pursuit squad which will compete in Los Angeles.

Grylls' mother, Mrs. John Grylls, of University Place, said that the confusion was typical of what she sees as a complicated selection system.

"We've been on an emotional rollercoaster this weekend, waiting to see if David had made the team," she said this week.

As of Monday evening, Grylls was on the long team. If he makes the official team, it will culminate more than eight years worth of effort by Grylls, who won gold medals in both the individual and the team pursuit at the 1983 Pan American Games. He also overcame injuries suffered earlier this year while training. He was run over by a training van and required more than 100 stitches to close wounds. He recuperated quickly through the use of rehabilitation facilities at San Diego State.

Grosse Pointe's other hope for a connection in the upcoming Olympics, sailing brothers Bruce and Glenn Burton, did not win a berth on the U.S. sailing squad.

The pair had set their sights on the 1984 Olympic team as far back as 1977. From mid-December, 1983, they had sailed nearly every day, taking leaves from work and participating in regattas around the world in preparation for the Olympic sailing trials in May and June.

Cal Buchan and skipper Jona-than McKee, of Seattle, Wash., will sail the Flying Dutchman class in the Olympics, not Bruce, a Univer-sity Liggett School graduate, and Glenn, a South High alumnus.

"We were disappointed not so much in how things turned out, but in the way they did," Bruce Burton said this week. "It was a light air regatta in the trials and we are not the best in light air, therefore, we aren't going to the Olympics."

THE BURTONS had collected weather data which predicted that the weather would be "heavy" in Long Beach, Calif., for the trials just as it had been for the past two springs when the Burtons had sailed there. This year, they competed in heavy air regattas in Spain, Miami and France in anticipation of that type of race in the trials. The weather didn't cooperate and the Burtons lost out to an American team which the Burtons say is perhaps the world's best light air team.

"We have no regrets about the time and money we spent. But I'm not ready to say if we'll try again in 1988. Maybe. We'll wait a couple of years to decide. One thing that is good, I think we learned a lot. We learned that you can make a boat go fast without training so extensively with other people. Next time maybe we can do it with less time spent," Bruce said.

"We're not sorry we did it. We had a first class effort. We did everything we could and more and I'm glad we gave it 100 percent. The best part was how the people of Grosse Pointe and Detroit stood behind us and helped us out finan-cially. That was great," he added.

Ironically, although the Burtons will not be in the Olympics, they will have made a significant contribution to the American Flying Dutchman team. In their year-long effort, the Burtons developed an assortment of heavy-air sails which will now be used by the Mc-Kee-Buchan team.

Another Grosse Pointe native, Paul Fuchs, knew some time ago that his chances for an Olympic berth were slim. Fuchs, 31. a Grosse Pointe High School alumnus whose parents, Arnold and Betty Fuchs, live on Roslyn Road, is a specialist in the lightweight single skulls. The Olympics doesn't have a lightweight skulling event.

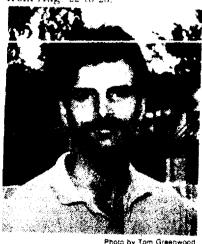

So Fuchs, who won five medals (two silver, three gold) in the 1983 National Rowing Championships. concentrated his efforts on world championship competition. Last week, he was chosen as single lightweight skuller on the U.S. National team as a result of his first place finish in the U.S. National Lightweight Trials in Princeton,

His time of 7:19.04 in the 2000 meters bettered that of second place finisher Larry Klekatski, of the New York Rowing Club, who finished at 7:24.49.

It wasn't a spot on the Olympic Rowing Team, but it was enough for a berth on the National squad.

According to Ellen Haskins of the U.S. Rowing Association, "lightweights are not recognized in the Olympics, but there are world championships for lightweight skullers.

Fuchs will go to those championships, the SISA Championships, held this year in Montreal, Quebec, from Aug. 22 to 26.

There's something about an All-State caliber player who doesn't remember her scoring totals . . . I think they call it humility. Or maybe, she's just a kid who loves to play soccer, is pleased and a little surprised at being named to the All-State honorable mention squad and doesn't quite know what all the fuss is about.

In this case, she's Kim Wood, who earned the honor for her excellent effort as a forward for the University Liggett School team, "That's Kim," said her father, Bob Wood, when told about his daughter's lack of recollection when it comes to her point totals. "She's going to be a good one . . . soccer is her game.'

Honorable Mention All-State . . . and she's just a sophomore. That kind of fuss should bring a smile to the face of Kim's coach, Candy Bousquet.

Already giving their coaches plenty to grin about are Amelia Dugan and Claire Busse. Amelia, a North High junior midfielder, was selected for first team All-State honors - the first Grosse Pointe girl to achieve such status. And Claire, a junior forward for South, was named to the second team.

She was a protege of women's tennis great Jean Hoxie. She has coached high school tennis for 33 years, 30 of those at South High School. And she has led South's girls' tennis teams to eight con-Class secutive Α state championships.

So it shouldn't have been much of a surprise to Stephanie Prychitko when she was named 1984 National Tennis Coach of the Year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association (NHSACA) at the group's annual convention and clinic in Lexington, Ky., last month. But it was.

"I couldn't believe it ... I was really excited," Miss Prychitko said last week. "It's an honor to be recognized, especially when it's by the top people in your field.'

More than 900 people attended the meeting and banquet at which coaches in 16 sports received the national honors, according to Bob Wood, University Liggett School athletic director, boys' tennis coach and second vice-president of the NHSACA and himself a former national coach of the year.

"Stephanie has meant a tremendous amount to the young people in Grosse Pointe. She's very deserving of this award. For all of the years of preparation and sacrifice an individual has to make to run a quality program ... people just don't understand the hours a coach like Stephanie has to put in to run a program like that," Wood said.

"I'm very excited for her."

"Miss P," as she is known to her students and players, was given a gold pendant with a diamond and ruby insert in recognition of her na-months ago for the area covering Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin.

MISS PRYCHITKO started playing tennis at age 12 under the tutelage of Hamtramck's own Jean Hoxie, a world-class tennis star. At one time, Miss Prychitko was ranked seventh nationally as a junior player. She remembers the days when girls' tennis took a back seat to the boys' game.

"The girls had teams but it was nothing like what the boys had," Miss Prychitko recalled. She saw what the boys' teams had while coaching boys' tennis for three years in Kalamazoo. From there, she went on to Grosse Pointe High School and took over the girls' program.

"We called the program extra-murals . . . the girls didn't have a tournament or a championship. We always had a good program - we played top teams like Kingswood and Liggett - but we didn't have a state tournament until 1972.

Talking baseball ...

Tom Greenwood, News' photographer, reporter and columnist (his FYI occupies a permanent spot on the paper's front page) was feeling guilty about how much I contribute to HIS column. So he thought he'd "help" me out a little and tossed this one off in the newsroom this week:

Tom: "Peg, do you know what Michael Jackson and Kirk Gibson have in common?"

Peg: "I'm gonna regret this, but . . . no, what do they have in common?

Tom: "They each wear a glove on one hand for no apparent reason."

I knew I'd regret it . . . but not as much as I will if a certain big, blond outfielder stops by the office to demonstrate a few new uses for his glove. I think I'll be sick that day

I think I've discovered why the United States has so much trouble winning medals in the Olympics. It's communication. For example:

Another Voice: "Cycling."

A Third Voice: "Coaching."

At least I'd have been speaking the language.

Key Club-Kiwanis mark 21 years

The Grosse Pointe South High School Key Club held its 21st annual banquet with the Grosse Pointe Kiwanis at the Crystal Ballroom of the War Memorial this spring. The annual meeting gives the Key Club the opportunity to present and explain the 14 projects the club has planned for the upcoming year including an annual Christmas tea for teachers: a back to school night; flower sale for American Cancer Drive; campus clean up and other projects. Among those present at the banquet were (left to right) Rev. Rodney Rynerson, Lt. Governor of the Kiwanis Club; Richard Stevens, President of the Kiwanis Club; Kristin Kelly, President of the South High School Key Club and Richard H. Beach, Faculty Advisor of the Key Club. The 75 guests were also entertained by the music of the Grosse Pointe Senior Men's Club, "The Music Makers," throughout the final phase of the program.

Little League winds down

Navy-Miami Home runs by Kevin Brennan, Tom Kolojiski, John Morgan-Swartz and Pat Meehan paced Miami to a 12-8 win over the Park's Navy team. Navy scored its runs on bases-loaded walks.

Army-Richmond Trost, Weyhing and Bill Palazzolo rapped two hits each to lead Richmond to a 12-1 win over the Park's Army team. Rob Joslyn added a single and Tom Heasley provided fine defensive support for the winners. Kevin Fitz-gerald singled for Army; Andy Loredo and John Prom pitched well.

Buffalo-Syracuse Kelly Sanders, Doug Martin and Ray Stone each rapped two hits to lead Buffalo to an 11-0 win over Syracuse. Britt Stebbins and Peter Gracey combined on the shutout. Beth Mozena, John Gugliari and Mike Werner knocked out base hits for Syracuse.

Rochester-Columbus Gary Campbell's first inning grand slam homer highlighted Columbus' 10-9 victory over Rochester. Messacar drove in the winning runs with his bases-loaded triple in the sixth inning.

Casey Ho's hit knocked in two runs for

Miami-Marines

Kolojiski rapped a grand slam in the fourth inning to pace Miami to a 22-13 win over the Park's Marines. Matt Reynolds doubled in two runs in the third inning. Andy Lee, Tom Rhoades, Tim Kazul and Kevin Brennan added key hits. T. Brooks got a hit for the Marines.

Farms-City AAA

Four teams qualified for the AAA playoffs after late June action. They were San Antonio, first place, Hawaii, second, Louisville, third, and Denver, fourth place.

San Antonio-Denver San Antonio clinched first place in regular season play, beating Denver, 10-2, on June 26. Dan Lefabvre, Steve Bednarchik and Mike Bell pitched for San Antonio. Tennis elbow or tendonitis may be inevitable for some players, but there are several ways to cut risks of getting the painful ailment, according to Kenneth Stringer, D.O., of the MSU Clinical Center's Sports Medicine Clinic.

He suggests 10 to 15 minutes of warmup, including easy-going volleying until a light sweat is worked up, followed by stretching exercises for arms and legs.

After play ends, a 10-minute "cool-down" period of more stretching exercises for arms and legs is advised.

Other suggestions on avoiding ten-nis elbow deal with clay courts (their slower surfaces provide less stress for players) and conditions of tennis balls (dead ones increase overload for muscles),

"Use a lighter racquet with a larger grip size, and nylon stringing with no more than 52-55 pounds of tension because tension increases risk of injury," Stringer advises. If preventive measures fail, players with tendonitis should quit play until rehabilitative measures have reduced the injury, Stringer says.

Professional health care may be necessary, and therapy is likely to include applying ice packs and alternating warm soaks, carefully gauged exercise, and very cautious return to play after tennis elbow symptoms have abated.
