Put it on

Remember when the March of Dimes fundraising campaign would begin and somebody's mother would knock on your door, shake a can at you and ask for change to help fight birth defects?

I guess they still do that sort of thing, only now they're shaking totally different kinds of cans.

According to a press release I just received, the "New York, New York" club, 24300 Hoover in Warren, will host the 1984 Male Strip Off for Charity, specifical-ly, the March of Dimes.

The event will begin at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 11 and last until 11:30 p.m. and will be viewed by women only. Men will be allowed in the club only after the contest ends.

Among those giving their all for charity will be groups such as the Foxy Frenchmen, the French Connection, Ladies Choice, the Ultimate Five and the International Playboys.

The press release said the contest would be judged by local celebrities, but I haven't been able to discover just who they are.

I contacted the March of Dimes and they confirmed the strip-a-thon, saying it fit in with other charity events such as bike-a-thons, softball games and so on, and should be "a lot of fun.

Tickets for those on-the-go and in-the-know are $10 and are available at all Ticket World outlets.

I wonder how Jerry and his Kids will top this?

Watch out, Grosse Pointe . . .

Gerald Luedtke is watching you.

Luedtke, a well-known urban planner, is fond of riding his bicycle around these parts after he leaves his Renaissance Center office every evening. As he pedals up and down our streets, he keeps a notebook tied to his handlebars to jot down ideas that spring into his head

Luedtke cares about aesthetics. He was trained at Yale University's School of Architecture and his work in city planning has won him five citations from the Michigan Society of Planning Officials. His firm, Gerald Luedtke and Associates, Inc., has served as planning consultant to the cities of Birmingham, Ann Arbor and Kalamazoo. He helped develop the blight prevention program for our own Mack Avenue.

And, Luedtke cares about Grosse Pointe, too. He lives here and loves it. He appreciates the mix of architecture - the older Arts and Crafts era designs in the Park, the Lakeshore mansions, antique farm houses and finely-detailed family homes throughout the area.

The Pointe is a mecca for fence-lovers like Luedtke. There are solid brick walls, stone embankments, wrought iron and wooden fences galore here, most of them built during the 1920s and '30s "when there were lots of creative ideas," he says.

But Luedtke has some complaints and concerns about Grosse Pointe, too. And in the interest of creating a better community through a bit of collective con-sciousness-raising, he agreed recently to take a tour of the cities with a Grosse Pointe News reporter and photographer.

His focus was on recent developments here, not history. He talked about the good and bad things we are doing to our community right now

"These are things that are important to Grosse Pointe that a lot of people don't discuss. There should be an open dialogue,' he said.

First, his major concerns:

 Old estates are now and will continue to be broken down, he says. And special care needs to be taken to make sure they're not replaced by too many homes, too tightly packed.

Luedtke says a certain amount of space needs to be left between dwellings so that attractive landscape transitions from one home to another can be designed. If that space is not there, it will hurt the long-term aesthetics of the neighborhood

He feels such cramped developments will not mature gracefully; people will not remain for long in them; and they will not hold their values over time.

When asked his opinion of Henry Ford II's new condominium development on Lakeshore, Luedtke said he wanted to withhold comment until more units are built.

or property owners," said Young-blood. "The council is trying to create something by ordinance and taking away from property own-ers. We're concerned enough to be getting legal options on the or-dinance. We've talked with the council and they've amended some of their language, but the bottom line remains that property owners couldn't rent out their property unless they try to rent to retail first over a period of time.

"Over that period of time, we lose rent, it limits the clients we can show the property to and can limit the credit rating of the leasee. Timing is important in real estate. Nobody likes clients to go elsewhere or for property to remain empty.

"You can't compare the situation on the Hill with the Village," con-tinued Youngblood. "This or-dinance is in effect there but the Village has more parking than the Hill and an anchor store in Jacobson's. You can't realistically legislate the Hill into real retail viability. It just won't work.'

According to Barbara Max-field, this is the second time the animals have been put up for adoption in Michigan. The program is intended to help save some of the critters, who number 60,000 in the wilds.

"The problem is, we only have feed for 25,000 animals," she said. "The rest may starve. That's why we're putting some up for adoption to private citizens.'

According to Ms. Maxfield, those adopting the animals will receive title to them one year after their purchase if they meet a veterinarian's health standards.

Adoptions will begin Friday, Aug. 17, and run through Sun-day, Aug. 19, at the Michigan Livestock Exchange in Manchester. The auction will begin at 8:30 a.m. and last til 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and run until noon on Sunday.

A fee of $205 for each horse and $130 for each burro is charged to help cover feed, handling, veterinary care and transportation costs. BLM personnel will be on hand to help adopters select their animals and load them onto trailers for the trip to their new home.

Those interested in information in advance should call Barbara Maxfield at 1-202-343-4704 or ask for her at the Exchange, August 15-17 at 1-313-428-8352.

Sharing students

Two school boards agree to cooperative plan

By Susan McDonald

Closing schools is just one way for a school system to cope with declining enrollment. The Grosse Pointe Board of Education is ready to try another approach: sharing students with another school district.

The local board will consider next Monday, Aug. 13, a proposal that would allow Harper Woods High School students to enroll in classes at nearby North High. The students would be limited to taking classes that are not offered at their own school. Deputy Supt. James Hoeh said 11 Harper Woods teens have already expressed an interest in 15 courses including advanced French and biology, psychology and medical aides

Under the plan, which was approved by the Harper Woods board this week. North students could also enroll in classes at Harper Woods High. But Dr. Hoeh said an earlier survey indicated none of the local students would participate next year.

Both school districts have enrollment problems. Grosse Pointe's has dropped from a total of 13,500 in 1972 to about 7,500 last year. Harper Woods has seen the numbers fall from a peak of almost 3,000 to just 888 students last year.

That steady decline is just beginning to work its way into Grosse Pointe's secondary schools and several advanced classes have been dropped for lack of students. North's student body has declined from more than 2,600 in 1970 to just 1,500 last year. Harper Woods High School served only 470 kids last gram," he said. year.

Dr. Hoeh said the exchange program could help both districts. "Sometimes we don't have enough enrollment to offer a course like advanced calculus, for example. If we get three or four kids from Harper Woods we might be able to offer it," he explained.

Harper Woods' new superin-tendent, Arthur Toth, said the enrollment decline has cut particularly hard into the high school's advanced math, science and foreign language programs.

"This exchange will give our students an opportunity to have a comprehensive academic pro-

The school district will charge $300 per student for full-year courses. The cost will be paid by the student's home school board.

Toth said the program will be thoroughly reviewed at mid-year and may be expanded. He said he is hopeful about the future for Harper Woods schools because of a 20-student increase in kindergarten enrollment in 1983 - the first in decades. "It's a healthy sign. We think eventually our enrollment will turn around," Toth said.

The Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods school boards have been discussing the program in private for several years, Toth said. ly if the zoning changes passes," added Solak. "Presently established businesses would be 'grandfathered' in, and there's no predictions on whether or not the zoning change will pass.

The amendment further relegates "service" businesses, such as realtors, doctors, stockbrokers, lawyers, etc., to the rear 50 percent of a first floor establishment and would, in some cases, require a separate entrance from Kercheval Avenue to be constructed to reach those rear offices.

Property owners and real estate agents would be required to try to rent or sell the property to retail establishments first, if they cannot maintain the same use.

"Well, primarily, the concern of the city has been to establish and maintain the retail nature of the Hill," said Solak. "We've commissioned studies of the market use of the Hill and they point in that direction. It's important for the front of the Hill to be retail.

Opposing adoption of the zoning amendment is the 25 member Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange, headed by Thomas Youngblood, of Youngblood Realty.

'We have strong reservations about the resolution because the ordinance infringes upon the rights

While Youngblood said the exchange was looking into the "legal ramifications" of the ordinance, he said the exchange was not contem-(Continued on Page 14A)

Robb gets 30-month sentence

By Susan McDonald

David Robb last week was sentenced to the full term of 30 months in prison that was set in his plea bargain in Judge Horace Gilmore's federal court.

Robb, the former mayor of Grosse Pointe City and a prominent member of many civic organizations and social clubs, had earlier pleaded guilty to embezzling $196,000 from a bankrupt securities firm of which he was trustee.

Robb, who for years was not paid for his services as trustee, had admitted to forging a bankruptcy judge's signature on checks and filing false certificates of deposit. He said the funds were a set-off against money owed to him as trus-

It's been a comedy of errors for the Giraldo family since they moved into their $300,000 plus home on Elmsleigh in Grosse Pointe City.

"And how do you convince the utility companies to give you service when they already have an account with the same number as yours?" she adds.

The trouble began for the Giraldos last month when they signed the final papers on their new home. That's when they discovered it was missing one important fixture, an address

Well it did have an address, three of them, in fact. First they were given number six, then number 29 and finally, said Mrs. Giraldo, they were told to call the building supervisor who baptized it number seven.

But the Giraldo's had another problem. Number seven already belonged to the neighbors two doors away. The family there had grown accustomed to it, particularly for such basic services as mail delivery.

"Eve had to make daily trips to our old house and pick up mail because we have no address here, said Mrs. Giraldo "I don't want to cause any problems for anyone else. I only want a number, any number

Several months ago, residents on Elmsleigh discovering somebody goofed in not reserving enough sequential numbers for the west side of the street banded together to find a solution

According to Thomas Kressbach, city manager, the result was 11 renumbering systems and a battle over who should be given number one Council then passed the problem to the city planner and director (Continued on Page 14A)

Judge Gilmore said Robb is to report on Sept 5 to the U.S. Marshal's Office to begin his sentence, which reportedly will be served in a prison camp facility.

Earlier this year, in a civil action brought by the Securities and Exchange Commission, Robb agreed to repay the funds taken from the securities firm accounts, plus interest. He lost his license to practice law in March, however, and was represented in the recent criminal action by the Federal Defender's Office in Detroit

Robb had also faced a contempt charge filed by the state's Attorney Grievance Administrator, which alleged he had continued to practice law without a license. He was purged of that charge last month after he formally resigned from the case and paid $100 court costs.

FOR AN ANNUITY TO BE WORTH

For the third summer now, elementary children in the Grosse Pointe area are invited to join Edmund, Lucy and their nasty cousin Eustace as they step through the picture frame and into the magical land of Narnia. Narnia is a weeklong special activity at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church to be held Aug. 20 to 24, from 9 a.m. to noon.

This year's story from C.S. Lewis's "Chronicles of Narnia" is "The Voyage of the Dawn Treader." The story will be told by Pointer Ken Kurtz and illustrated by slides produced by Rae Kuhn, Kay Candler and Anne Berry. Children starring in the slide show are Jonathan Evans, Phil Antonson, Lindsay Vick, Bob Titus, Craig Win-inger, and Louise Young as Aunt Alberta.

Twenty teenage Journey Guides will lead small groups of children to a variety of crafts and games during the week Favorites are ceramics, cooking, colonial games, fishing, dough art, woodworking, puppetry, leather work, needlepoint and kite decorating.

Children entering grades one through six are invited to register by Aug. 13. Registration forms are available in the church office at 16 Lakeshore Road.

Journey to Narnia is directed by Mary Anne Evans, director of Christian education; Lillian Goodwyn and Karen Wininger.

As they were talking with the youth, another car pulled up with several people inside and told the officers the youth "was the one," reports said. The witnesses said the youth pulled up his jersey and pulled down his shorts when they passed him.

The youth was taken home. Police are investigating.

Pops concert is festival finale Aug. 13

The Grosse Pointe Symphony Pops, conducted by Felix Resnick, will conclude the 27th annual Grosse Pointe Summer Music Festival series with a lakeside concert on Monday, Aug. 13.

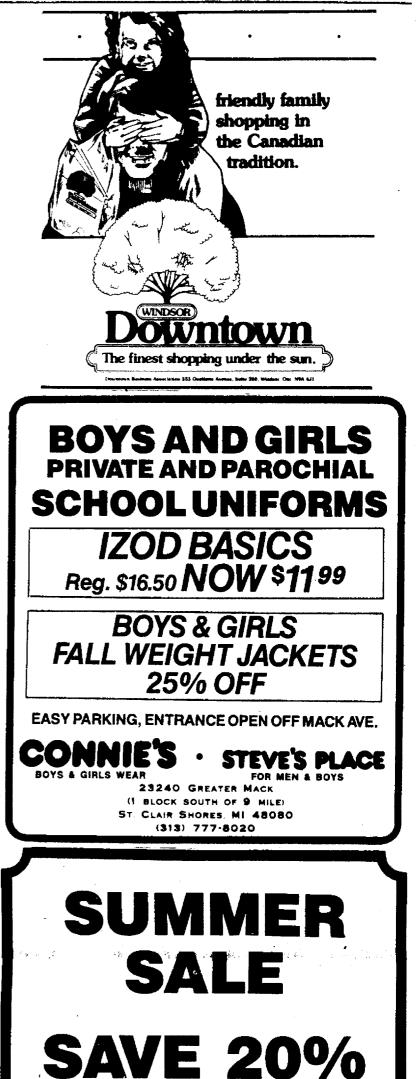

Tickets to the concert, which will begin at 8 p.m., are $9.50 for reserved chair seating, and $6 for grounds admission. The series will be punctuated by a fireworks dis-play over Lake St. Clair following the symphony's performance.

A few of the myriad selections the symphony will play include the "Festival Overture" by Shostako-vich, "Carmen Suite No. 1" by Bizet, and selections from Loewe's "Camelot," Webber's "Evita," and Bernstein's "West Side Story."

The orchestra, formed in 1954, performed its first concert at Prcells Junior High School under the direction of Wayne Dunlap. Later, Henri Nosco conducted until 1959 when the orchestra's present conductor, Felix Resnick, took over the baton.

The War Memorial grounds will open for picnicking at 6 p.m. Picopen for pichicking at 0 p.m. r ic-nics may be brought in or pur-chased from the center by advance reservation. They are $6 per person. For ticket information on the

First for America Lana Gore coaching world's best

By Harriet Nolan

Klingenthal and bayan might not ring any bells with the average person, but those words are music to the ears of Lana Gore, of Lakepointe Avenue in the Park.

"The Klingenthal" is the most prestigious event held where serious classical musicians can compete for world honors, and bayan is the Russian word for accordian, according to Miss Gore. This year those two words made history - American history.

For the first time, first place alone there were four categories with 80 entries. The whole concert Soave of Southfield, and a woman coach, Miss Gore.

"The competitions have been held in Klingenthal, East Germany, since 1947 and have been dominated by Russian winners, who have won consistently since 1972," says Miss Gore, who owns and teaches accordian to pupils at the Music Center in Dearborn Heights.

teacher and America, 20-year-old Soave, who has appeared in competition in other countries, beat out 20 other gifted performers. He survived a series of eliminations that began with playing the same concert for accordian that the others played, an accordian solo and, finally, a specially selected program.

She says this year's competition included contestants from countries that included Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Finland, France, Italy, Poland, Russia and West Germany. While there have been entrants from the United States on previous occasions, no American has ever managed to win.

Each year, different instruments are highlighted. This year it was the tuba, French horn, clarient and accordian. Next year emphasis will be on string in-struments and the accordian.

The highlight for Soave and other winners was an invitation to remain beyond the week's scheduled competition and strut prize winning form by performing with the Leipzig Orchestra. "The public comes from all over to watch," says Miss Gore.

"Soave has been asked to perform a 10 concert series in Russia and his ambition is to eventually perform on a concert level with some major symphony orchestra."

Another pupil, 15-year-old Den-nis Kubica of Detroit, placed third in the Junior Division and he's looking forward to next year to win first place, says Miss Gore, who has also been recognized by

Weather throws off moth hatch

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A later-than-normal emergence of moths or harsh winter weather could be two reasons why state workers turned up only four moths. in a spot-check of gypsy moth traps in the Pointes, state agriculture officials say.

The spot-check was "very inconclusive," according to regional supervisor Carl Dollhopf, who adds he expects many more moths to be found in the traps when they are collected in mid-August.

Mother Nature may have given the department a hand in trying to eliminate the pest, Dollhopf said. The severe winter resulted in a 60 percent kill-rate of eggs in some areas, he adds. However, a 10-fold increase in defoliation was reported by the areas with the high egg death rate.

Egg masses above the snow line were severely affected, while those covered by snow during the winter

A spot-check of the area last year at the end of July turned up 22 moths in the Shores, resulting in the doubling of trap density. About 70 moths were trapped in the Pointes last year, up from 45 the year before.

Dollhopf says he expects more moths to be found in the traps when they are collected Aug. 13 because the moths' life-cycle will be com-plete. The later-than-usual emergence of the adult moths may be because of vagaries in spring and summer weather and effects of the lake on local conditions, he adds.

Some of the orange triangular traps turned up missing in the spot-check, but they could have been knocked down by heavy weather, Dollhopf says. One of the reasons for spot-checking traps is to make sure they are still in place, he adds.

The eggs begin hatching in mid-May. Only a half-inch long at emergence, the caterpillars will grow through four or five stages to be two inches long.

To fuel its five weeks of growth, caterpillars will feed heavily on the foliage of trees until mid-July, when they form a hard pupal case. The adult moth emerges about two weeks later and dies shortly after mating. By defoliating trees, the gypsy moth caterpillars can force the tree to put a second, stunted growth of foliage that depletes the tree's energy reserves and makes it susceptible to diseases.

The Polish Festival of Detroit will be held at Hart Plaza tomorrow through Sunday, Aug. 10 to 12, the 15th anniversary of the ethnic festival in downtown Detroit.

Pointe residents working on the festival organization include Victor and Harrietta Czerny of the Woods and Karen Czerny Lorenz of the City.

The first festival was held on the riverfront behind Cobo Hall at the prompting of then-mayor Roman Gribbs, who wanted the metro area to be aware of its ethnic heritage. The first festival drew about 125,000. An estimated 750,000 are expected to attend this year's three-day event.

The festival's theme will be "Dances of Poland" featuring 22 dance groups. Paintings of Krakowiak, Goralskie and Mazur dancers done by artist Dennis Orlowski will be the backdrop for the main stage. Two concerts will be held Sunday, Aug. 12. Leszek Bartkiewicz will perform Chopin waltzes and mazurkas on the Warsaw stage. Bronislaw Siarkowski of Dearborn will conduct the Polonaise Chorale and Concert Orchestra at 5:30 p.m. at the new Zakopane stage, by the Pyramid on the group level of the plaza.

Also performing at 5:30 will be the combined dance ensembles of Wawal, Wisla and Galicia opening the concert with the Polonaise and concluding with the Mazur. The performance will mark the 40th anniversary of Monte Cassino.

An ethnic gallery will house mementos of the Battle of Monte Cassino and Polish dance groups. Admission to the gallery is free.

Also making an appearance at the festival will be one of Poland's "tall ships," the "Zawisza Czarny." Tours of the sailing ship will be held during the festival. Children can learn Polish history and culture, simple songs, crafts and enjoy story telling and cartoons at "Children's World" on Saturday and Sunday, from 1:30 to 6 p.m. under the tent at the Krakow courtyard. New this year is an adult workshop in the art of Pisanki, or egg decorating, that takes place Saturday and Sunday, 1:30 to 6 p.m., at the Zakopane stage at the Pyramid.

Each day's activities will begin with a mass followed by a performance of the Polonaise by costumed dancers. A special Sunday Mass at 10 a.m. will honor Polish veterans, especially those who participated in the Battle of Monte Cassino.

Imported Polish crystal, costumes, wood carvings, nativedressed dolls, records and candy will be on sale. Also available will be a variety of Polish foods, including sausage, stuffed cabbage, several varieities of pierogi.

Man scares off thief with gun

A Woods man surprised a burglar in his Fairway Drive home early Sunday morning, Aug. 5. The man fired four shots at the thief from the second floor of the home.

The man told police he woke up at about 4 a.m. and heard someone in the house. The thief spooked and bolted through a second floor window and ran through the backyard.

The homeowner fired four shots at the thief with a .30-caliber M-1 carbine. One spent casing was turned over to police.

The thief apparently used a picnic table to hoist himself up, where he grabbed an electrical wire and shinnied onto the roof.

The thief was last seen driving north on Fairway toward Oxford in either a Camaro or Firebird, reports said.

Spurred by a jump in larcenies, serious crime in the Woods increased almost 19 percent during the first six months of 1984 compared to the first six months last year.

The city reported 222 Part One incidents in the first half of this year, compared to 188 the year before. Part One crimes are murder, rape, robbery, larceny, burglary, assault, auto theft and arson.

Assaults and auto thefts increased during the first half of 1984 compared to the same time a year ago. Burglaries and arson decreased while robberies remained unchanged.

One robbery was reported in the first half of 1984, the same as the year before. There were two assaults in the first half of 1984 — one with a handgun — while none were reported in the first half of 1983.

Reported burglaries dropped from 24 in the first half of 1983 to 23 for the first six months of this year. While forced entries remained un-

Gary E. Borushko, of Manchester in the Woods, was indicted by a federal grand jury last week on six counts of failure to pay federal excise taxes on gasoline. The indictment alleges that Borushka evaded the payments by supposedly using a straw company and an alias for 15 months between 1979 and 1980. The payments reportedly totalled $616,000, according to the indictment.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Lavoie was assigned the case. He said the department could not comment on what kind of company was supposedly set up to collect the excise taxes on gasoline. The six counts of the indictment

The six counts of the indictment derive from six quarterly statements of collection of federal excise taxes on about 15 million gallons of gasoline that were filed between October, 1979, and January, 1981.

Borushka allegedly used an alias doing business as Peer-Co Industries to collect the federal excise taxes and then failed to file returns with the Internal Revenue Service and pay the taxes.

and pay the taxes. According to U.S. Attorney Leonard Gilman, "an indictment is only a charge and is not evidence of guilt. The defendant is entitled to a fair trial in which it will be the government's burden to prove guilt beyond a reasonable doubt."

Were he to be convicted on the charges, Borushko could face a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine for each charge. changed at 13, unlawful entries with no indication of force decreased while attempted forced entries increased this year compared to last year.

Two more auto thefts were reported the first half of this year compared to last, with 25 reported in 1984. There were no reports of arson this year, while one incident was reported in the first half of 1983.

Larcenies showed a 21 percent increase in the first half of 1984 compared to last year. There were 171 reported thefts this year compared to 141 in the first six months of 1983.

Shoplifting more than doubled during the first half of the year compared to last, with 59 reported in 1984, compared to 23 last year. Almost $34,000 was reported lost in the thetts and police were able to recover $2,900 in 1984. In 1983, $3,840 was reported stolen in thefts while police recovered $603. Police were able to clear 43 of 59 of 1984's incidents by arrest, compared to last year when police cleared eight of the 23 incidents by arrest.

While bicycle thefts for the first half of 1984 dropped from the first half of 1983, 34 compared to 42, thefts from homes and personal effects from cars increased from 10 in 1983 to 16 in 1984. Thefts of vehicles accessories dropped from 39 in the first half of 1983 to 27 the first half of this year.

first half of this year. Property lost to larcenies this year totaled $102,000, compared to $45,000 the year before. Police have recovered $19,000 this year, compared to $6,900 the year before.

Woods police also have cleared 56 of the 171 larcenies this year by arrest, a nearly 33 percent clearance rate. Last year, police cleared 16 of the 141 thefts by arrest for a clearance rate of about 11 percent.

The overall number of incidents reported to police in the first half of 1984 decreased by almost 11 percent from last year's first half. This year, 593 incidents were reported while 666 were reported last year.

Most Part Two category incidents showed decreases, the largest coming in acts of vandalism and malicious destruction of property. The first half of this year, 122 acts of vandalism were reported, with a loss of $12,500. Last year's first half showed 179 reports of vandalism costing $17,600.

Part Two crimes include forgery, fraud, vandalism, drug law violations, gambling and other offenses.

Police this year have trapped more animals and helped more motorists than the year before, while unlocking fewer car and house doors for forgetful owners.

Meter maids have written 15,994 tickets for the first half of 1984, up from 15,7323 reported last year. They are still behind 1981's first

WE ENJOY READING and hearing about the achievements of athletes who represent the bome team, even when, as in the case of Dave Grylls, the former Pointer who is on the Olympic cycling team, they do not win a gold medal. More about Grylls later.

The criticism of ABC's coverage was that the U.S. network with its flag-waving emphasis on American athletes threatened to diminish the "international flavor" of the games in the eyes of the U.S. public. In addition, the committee was concerned that what Americans were seeing on TV from Los Angeles was also what the rest of the world was seeing, in violation of the Olympic Charter requirement of "unbiased" media coverage fair to all countries taking part. After a meeting with Roone Arledge, president of ABC News and sports, the IOC committee apparently was satisfied. Arledge explained that most of the cheerleading for American winners came from former U.S. Olympic athletes used as ABC commentators and that the network is providing more "neutral coverage" of the competi-tion to foreign broadcasters. Arledge also privately told ABC's commentators to tone down their gushing while broadcasting the events.

IT IS TRUE, OF course, that the United States is collecting tremendous number of Olympic medals. That naturally generates national pride and national cheers even though ABC covered the victories and warm receptions of foreign victors as well. But with audiences made up primarily of Americans, the hoopla for the winning Americans is not surprising.

Yet it remained for Dave Grylls, the former Pointer, to epitomize the spirit of the Olympics and to demonstrate the character of a true champion when he gave up a silver Olympic medal to an injured teammate.

Grylls, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grylls ofthe City, started his bike riding as a youngster in Grosse Pointe. He won three national championships, competed abroad and qualified for the 1980 Olympic games in Moscow, only to have the United States cancel out. Undaunted, he continued training for the 1984 Olympics, and survived injuries and other disappointments to become an alternate on the 4,000-meter team pursuit squad.

When teammate Brent Emery was injured in a crash, Grylls took his place and helped the U.S. team race to victory in the semifinals. But in the finals, Grylls was forced to drop out when a toe strap on his bike slipped off his shoe and the Australian team won the gold.

GRYLLS STILL WAS entitled to a silver medal but he insisted it go to Emery who took his place on the podium. Jerry Green, who told the story in his sports column in the Detroit News Saturday, quoted Grylls as saying, "He (Emery) deserved it," adding, "We all do care for each other. We're a family.

"Perhaps in Olympic history there has never before been such a gracious gesture," Green wrote. "Perhaps never before has there been such a moment of self-sacrifice and self-denial." And then Green concluded by calling his story "the portrait of a champion in a precious Olym-pian moment." That is a fitting tribute.

n to the fall campaign

nt. Now that the primary is over, Michigan politics will heat up in earnest on new fronts because many incumbents who escaped opposition in Tuesday's voting will face determined foes in November. And that in our opinion is a good thing.

It is not unusual that nobody in the Democratic Party will challenge incumbent Democratic congressmen who are popular with the people. And it is not surprising that Republicans do not chal-Jenge popular incumbent Republican congresssinen. But the lack of a primary contest, which was the situation for incumbents in six of the seven congressional districts in Wayne County, ant that there was little debate on any of the incumbents' records.

52 IN NOVEMBER, HOWEVER, all but one of The seven congressional incumbents in the counby will face opposition. The only one to escape an opponent will be Rep. Sander Levin of Southfield, the 17th District Democratic incumbent. That is fine for Levin but it deprives the people of his district of any meaningful discussion of the issues, no matter how good a record he may have compiled during his term in Washington, in either the primary or general election campaigns. Democratic Rep. Dennis Hertel, whose 14th District includes the Farms, the Shores and the Woods, will face a Republican nominee in November and that will be good for both Hertel and the people even if the incumbent is strongly favored. Hertel escaped opposition in both the primary and general election two years ago and said he thought it was because he had made a good record in Washington. Maybe so. But even if a congressman who is unopposed does a good job of informing his district of his activities, and Hertel usually does just that, he is not likely to call attention to controversial votes that may cost him support at the polls. An informed opponent, however, will see that as his major objective. The resulting discussion should help inform the November voters.

That same point applies to two contests in which Pointe residents have more direct concern. Rep. William R. Bryant, Jr., Grosse Pointe City Republican who has represented the 13th District since 1970, will be seeking his eighth term against Jim Friesema of Harper Woods, a Wayne County Soldiers' Relief commissioner. And Democrat John C. Hertel of Harper Woods will be seeking reelection as a county commissioner against the GOP nominee, Ervin A. Steiner, Jr., a former commissioner from Grosse Pointe Farms, in the 1st District. There were no primary contests for either office but opposition now should increase discussion and help inform the voters before they go to the polls in Novem-

Delightful boat story

To the Editor:

Tom Greenwood's article on the first page of the July 19 issue related to names of boats in the Grosse Pointe Farms marina was delightful. That poor soul whose sensibilities were offended by the article should allow some humor into his life. It might help become more of leadership provided mainly by Councilman Robert Novitke that will resolve the situation.

'Old guard' blocks bridge work

During these 11 years, the "old guard" passive council members like George Freeman, Tom Fahrner and John Sabol have introduced an endless array of stumbling blocks that have effectively prevented a solution to this problem and it seems almost criminal to let 50 to 70 boat docks go unrented for such a long period of time. The lost revenue would have fully paid for a new bridge by now and future revenue will provide additional income for our city.

The report in the Grosse Pointe News reflected the small-minded thinking that has prevailed these 11 years. Fahrner suggested there might be alternate possibilities of private dockage, which is ridiculous since no plans exist. Sabol introduced a typical roadblock by saying lower lake levels would make raising the bridge unnecessary (really, John, do you think lake levels will be reduced by six feet to clear a power boat or by 35 feet to clear a sail boat?) and of course George Freeman remained neutral.

I think it's about time Sabol and the other passive council members get with it and resolve this problem so we can rent those wells to provide added city revenue and stop wasting taxpayer money by main-taining idle docks.

Good news about the Pointes

Newspapers often are accused of carrying too much "bad news" and ignoring too much "good news." That criticism is often true, simply because of the nature of news. The news media pay no attention, for example, to the thousands of freeway drivers who arrive at their destinations safe and sound on a given day, and they tend to ignore the dozens of minor fender-benders that occur. But they usually cover the unusual accidents that seem to make news. They do so, of course, because those events are departures from the norm which make them news.

YET NEWSPAPERS AND the media generally cover many "good news" items as well. They are also departures from the norm. They include the news stories about honor students at colleges and high schools; men and women who win significant promotions in business, industry and the professions; the announcements of educational and other community programs of general interest; stories about engagements and weddings, and many others which even critical readers agree are "good news" items.

Sometimes the "good news" does not seem to get as much attention or as large a headline as the "bad news." The emphasis depends to some extent on what else is happening in a given week.

Reporters and editors do have to make choices about the relative importance of the "good news" and "bad news" that is available for each issue. Such decisions determine the prominence or the play given to the respective stories.

This explanation is offered simply to call attention to last week's front page of the Grosse Pointe News which carried two long "good news" stories (and there were only four stories on the entire page) about the activities of young people in the Grosse Pointes. One told about the new SAFE RIDES program being organized in the Pointes to help insure the safety of high school students and protect them against drunk driving. The other reported on the two South high graduates who recently took part in "the Washington Workshops" educational program in Washington, D.C.

BOTH WERE STORIES THAT played up the accomplishments of young people in the Pointes. Both deserved the good display and the constructive headlines they were given. And they offer evidence that there is much that is good about Pointe young people as well as other local res-idents, despite the "bad news" that finds its way into print when there are departures from the norm that create such news.

Good job, Bob

To the Editor:

Heads are turning at the intersection of Vernier and Lakeshore roads. Robert Wakely Jr. should be commended for doing such a beautiful job of restoring and preserving the Grosse Pointe Shores municipal building.

For a change, this young architect decided to enhance, rather than tear down, one of our architectural gems. He augmented the existing structure with a personal interpretation that is harmonious and pleasing to the eye. I think it's neat!

I also think it's neat that he is a native Grosse Pointer and educated at Grosse Pointe South.

To the Editor:

On Sunday, July 22, I attended the Regatta sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Farms Boat Club. When I left the Pier Park sometime after 6 p.m. I found that I had been issued a $15 ticket for illegal parking along the grassy plot next to the fence on Lakeshore. Apparently some Regatta official had neglected to seek permission for extra parking facilities should the need arise.

Wouldn't it have been nice if the officer issuing the ticket(s) or his superior had recognized the unique situation and responded accordingly, especially since not one of the automobiles was obstructing traffic, did not create a danger to anyone, and were well out of the line of sight of drivers exiting Robert C. Gorski the park? Certainly there is

Prime Time for senior citizens-

By Marian Trainor

Government is an intriguing, complicated and ever-changing process. By and large we are content to trust our elected representatives to watch over our interests and see that any modifications or amendments work for our benefit. There is the possibility, however that if we knew more about the operation of various phases of government and its workings, we might find areas where we could have input to insure a better deal

This is particularly true of older people, many of whom are dependent on what the government provides in the way of social security, health benefits and other provisions that make the later years more rewarding.

For instance, how much do most people know about the operation of the State Commission on Services to the Aging, or The Plan, a three year proposal (1984 to 1987) which is a blueprint for state aging services which was approved by the commission, Governor and the Federal Administration on Aging?

What it covers and what it provides affects the quality of life of many older residents. While the services and advocacy goals remain the same for all three years, specific activities change each year. Both the Governor and Federal Administration on Aging must approve any amendments which come into effect on the next fiscal year which begins October 1, 1984. The State Plan is divided into two parts, advocacy and service.

Advocacy works to inform and create public attitudes responsive to the needs and concerns of older people.

The service department's goal is to improve services to older people. Where does the money come from for administering proposed programs? The Federal Government provides a block grant to the state to be administered according to priorities and recommendations. This money is augmented by other grants for senior community services, nutrition, both congregate and home-delivered, and other social services.

The amount of money granted is processed through the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review. The President makes the decision on how much money goes to each agency and how much for the total recommendation.

The President sends the budget proposals to Congress in late January. These are broken down into seminars, staff-led discussion policy area (education, defense, health care, etc.) and considered by the committees of both the House and Senate. Bills are passed by both the houses, which authorize the money.

The maximum amount of money is established. But it takes another bill, called an appropriation bill, to give the money. This is the pro-vince of the full House and Senate. The appropriation bills are then sent to the President. He may sign or veto them. If the bill is vetoed, it goes back to the Congress for another vote. To override the veto, there must be a two-thirds majority in both houses.

The question arises, beyond an intelligent, informed voting process, how do those who are affected by budget and appropriation decisions have any voice in how the money is dispersed?

In Michigan, recently there were two public hearings where older residents could voice opinions.

The hearings, one held in Detroit's City County building and the other at the Lansing Senior Center, provided seniors with an opportunity to take action. It was their chance to argue or disagree on priorities for serving the state's older residents. Those who attended offered their ideas on such issues as health care, transportation, housing and the high cost of food and heat.

There also are other means of influencing those in power, such as watching the papers for upcoming legislation and alerting representa-tives whether or not the proposals are fair and considerate. Since many of us regard government as a remote and unwieldly process that pays little attention to individual communications, we don't follow through on that possibility of influence.

However, if we could have a firsthand view of government at work, it might do much to alleviate our defeatist attitude. It would also put us in touch and familiarize us with the best methods of making our needs known.

With this in mind, The Close Up Program For Older Americans, a non-partisan educational experience in Washington, D.C. was initiated.

It provides Americans age 50 anc. older with an opportunity to exam-ine first-hand the issues, institutions and personalities of contemporary American government. Through a week-long series of sequenced carefully topical groups and study tours, Wash-ington, D.C. becomes a living classroom for adults.

Those who attend meet and talk with national leaders and experts such as members of Congress, administrative officials, lobbyists, journalists, political analysts and other members of the Washington community.

The days spent there are taken up with scheduled activities throughout Washington to make the most of the fast-paced political atmosphere of the city, its resources and its scenic beauty.

The learning experience extends into the cultural and historical side of Washington. There are visits to the city's neighborhoods, monuments and museums and an evening at the theater.

The purpose of the program is to help older Americans develop a deeper understanding of the nation's capital and the political process that shapes the course of American society.

The program is made possible by the cooperation of the Institute of Lifetime Learning of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) and Close Up Foundation.

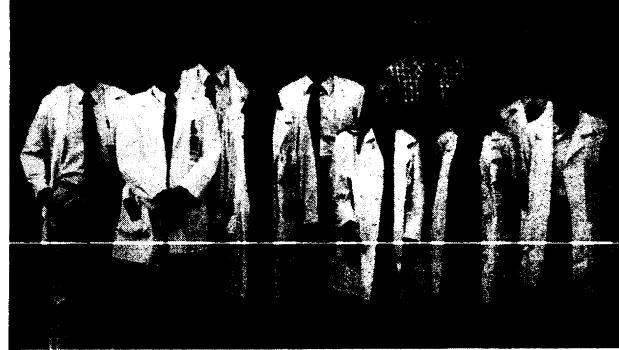

It is an outgrowth of the Close Up Foundation program which was in-itiated in 1971 for high school students. Since then, the Close Up Programs have served as the largest classroom for more than 120,000 Close Up "graduates."

This extension of the Close Up program to include older participants, besides being an outstanding education experience, is also an expression of confidence in the ability of older people to learn and to make use of information that will help them to help themselves. Besides, it's pretty exciting to have access to the same opportunities that our grandchildren enjoy. It places older citizens right in the mainstream. They are not left behind to wonder. They know and feel comfortable discussing matters and issues.

The program has been endorsed by those in government. Sen. Robert Dole (R-Kansas) calls it "one of the finest programs I've had a chance to be associated with.'

Rep. Claude Pepper (D-Florida) enthusiastically supports it.

Stephen Janger, president of the Close Up Foundation, explains its purpose "There is no more important asset in America than the willingness of citizens of all ages and backgrounds to become actively involved in the democratic process of government. Older Amerirans I ive so much to contribute to this process and their collective wisdom is one of the country's greatest natural resources," he said. The program is not for the weak. Those who apply are warned that the activities require walking and boarding buses each day. A sample day begins at 6:15 a.m. followed by a day-long schedule that includes a keynote address, a visit to the West German Embassy, a legislative seminar, a walking tour of Capitol Hill. Typical seminar topics might concern legislation affecting older Americans, the role of the U.S. in the international community, the effect of the media on the formation of public opinion, the function of lobbying or the relationship be-tween the federal government and the individual. Participants have an opportunity to examine current and upcoming legislative issues, to analyze the political personalities in power and to explore the workings of our political system. They learn about avenues open to every citizen for participating in the democratic process. As they participate in forums on national and international issues and interact with advocates of diverse positions and perspectives, they glean ideas to carry out back home. Those who have attended the week-long program are enthusiastic. One participant said "I was very impressed by the program. We got a better insight into how government works, what organizations and (Congressional) committees really do. You get a good feeling of what it is to be an American. And I think a bonus is meeting with people from other areas of the country and hearing their opinions The fuition including six nights lodging in a major, metropolitan hotel (Marriott, Sheraton or comparable) all meals, all sightseeing excursions, program instruction, curriculum materials, Washington, D.C. transportation, an evening at the theater, health, life and accident insurance and gratuities is $574

Exercise for the elderly, too

By Harriet Nolan

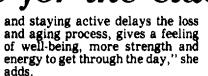

"I was feeling sluggish and gen-erally out of it," says Nell Hryciuk, of the Woods. "I would take walks with my husband and slow him adds down, but the other day I was right up there with him.' "It's become a way of life, I have more energy and instead of being hungry afterwards, it has just the opposite effect on me," says Shores resident, Peg Noble.

Both of these woman, who admit only to "being over 40," are willing to bet their last nickle on the benefits of regular exercise.

"As you grow older, a per-centage of body fat increases if you don't become more active," says Joan Thornton, co-founder of Vital Options and B-Fit Vitality Plus, a program geared to mature adults and those who want to begin exercising regularly for the first time.

"There is a loss of muscle mass

Her theory that people won't stick with something they don't like led her and partner, Diane Hawthorne, to develop the B-Fit Vitality Plus routine where participants exercise at a level that doesn't hurt. Slowly, aerobic and walking exercises are integrated and changed every 10 weeks for variety.

"We don't want them to feel like they have to bite the bullet," says Mrs. Thornton. "It's geared for their age group and if they can't do all the moves they can at least do some of them, and properly."

Older people usually start exercising because of doctors' orders or because of publicity encouraging physical fitness, says Mrs. Thornton. "It only takes about six to eight weeks of regular exercise to regain muscle tone and 10 to 12 weeks to be physically fit again."

Mrs. Hryciuk has been through the course before and decided to return after a six-month bout with medical problems left her feeling out of shape.

"I had a broken foot and surgery and felt it was time to get out," she says. "Although I went through the full program before, this one is modified.

Mrs. Noble says her whole family is into exercising and jogging, and a son living in California is a marathon runner. "I think I would have gotten into it anyway because we are so aware of it.

"You can't be the perennial 29 anymore and there are limitations when a person is over 50. I'm wise enough to know you go at your own speed and you're ahead of the game," she adds.

Regatta fills weekend

Hundreds of Grosse Pointe Farms residents competed in the lake and on land, enjoyed games and named a new Miss Grosse Pointe Farms at the annual regatta July 21 and 22.

Betty and Ray Dresden, vicecommodore of the Farms Boat Club, were chairmen of the regatta.

Gayle Klein, daughter of Walter and Delphine Klein, was the beauty pageant winner. First runner-up was Gail Stonisch and second runner-up was Sandra Lubeski. The contestants put on a dance routine, modeled and spoke before the group during the competition, chaired by Mary Messina.

In Sunday's sailboat race, Rick Fisher and Sonny Gorenflo were in charge of the 28 competitors. Winner in the PRHF A group was Ghost Walker, owned by Mike Hendrie, followed by Sonset, owned by Gorenflo. In JAM A, Paul and Corinne Franks' boat PEF was number one, followed by Tom Palmer's Joi de Vivre. Jam B winner was Hnhyhym, owned by Gil Schumacher, with Bob Chapelle's Blue Boat right behind. Jeff Smith's Sunset was fastest in the Centerboard category, followed by rhodes 19.

Results of the Fun Run, chaired by Jim and Jo Hastings, showed Tom Lapish, with a 17:17 time, first in the men's division and Patricia Loeker, with 21:50, first in women's.

The parade was a big hit, featuring a float, many antique cars and the Big Bird. Clown Frank Dansbury, who has entertained youngsters for 25 years, put in his last performance on Regatta weekend. The events finished up with an afterglow held Saturday night at the new boat house.

Kids' reading club holds a party

The Grosse Pointe Public Library is enjoying its 10th successful Summer Reading Program. Most of the children are well on their way to earning reading certificates adorned with seals, ribbons and stars. All certificates must be pickedup by the first day of school.

As a grand finale to the summer's activities, the Children's Department will hold a costume party at all three branches for Reading club members at the Park Branch on Wednesday, Aug. 15; Woods Branch on Thursday, Aug. 16; and Central Library on Friday, Aug. 17.

The program will last one and a half hours from 10:30 a.m. to noon.

Children are invited to come in costume as their favorite story-book character. The party will open with a costume parade after which the group will adjourn outside of new games. Mime artists Jerry Dzuiblinski and Anne Kingston will entertain the children with a potpourri of mime, music and puppetry. To close the festivi-ties, each child will receive a helium balloon and lollipop, courtesy of the Friends of the Library.

In case of rain, the program will be held indoors.

Farms Boat Club Commodore Gary Dysert kicked-off the two-day Regatta with a welcoming speech, after which balloons were released to officially begin the festivities.

Bryant wins party honors

Bryant gets 89, Kelly, 42, from Chamber of Commerce

Grosse Pointe's state Rep. William R. Bryant, Jr., a Republican, voted 89 percent of the time in favor of the state Chamber of Commerce's stand on bills relating to providing jobs in Michigan, according to the chamber's annual rating report.

Bryant voted with the chamber

Area Republicans hold conventions

The 13th and 14th District Republican county conventions will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 15.

The 13th District (Wayne County) will be held at St. Mary's Community Center, 1035 St. Antoine, in Greektown at 8 p.m.

The 14th District (Wayne and Macomb Counties) is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the VFW Hall, 17645 East Nine Mile, between Gratiot and Kelly in East Detroit.

Middle schools set enrollment

The Grosse Pointe middle schools are now taking enrollment appointments for students new to the community or those who haven't previously enrolled in grades six to eight. Call Brownell at 343-2115; Parcells at 343-2104; or Pierce at 343-2094.

Enrollment meetings will be held during the week of Aug. 27 to 31 at all three schools.

on eight of nine issues during the 1983-84 session. His cumulative total for the years 1981 to 1984 is 88 percent, the report says.

Grosse Pointe's representatives in the Senate, John Kelly, a Democrat, voted with the chamber 42 percent of the time, on five of a dozen issues, the report says. His cumulative, 1981 to 1984 rating was 46 percent.

Chamber president James Barrett said the votes selected for analysis were key roll calls on a wide range of issues vital to the job providers of Michigan. They included $18.5 billion in Single Business Tax relief for small businesses; changes in unemployment compensation system; and employes right to know requirements.

Barret said in all, 58 percent of the Senators voted in accordance with the chamber's position on more than 60 percent of the bills. In the House, only 50 percent followed the chamber's position on more than 70 percent of the bills. Nine senators and 43 representatives voted with the chamber on all issues, he said.

The report allows the chamber to make comparisons between legislative sessions. For example, in 1982, the average level of support for job providers from House Democrats was 51 percent. But in 1984, that figure increased to 62 percent. House Republican support increased from 90 percent to 99 percent in 1982, Barret said.

Smashed glass mars weekend

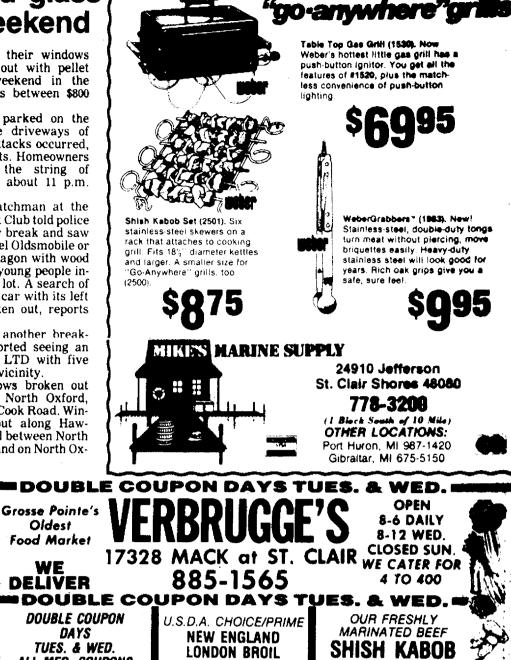

Seven cars had their windows smashed or shot out with pellet guns over the weekend in the Woods. Damage is between $800 and $1,000.

The cars were parked on the street and in the driveways of homes when the attacks occurred, according to reports. Homeowners began reporting the string of smashed windows about 11 p.m.

Saturday night. That night a watchman at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club told police he heard a window break and saw a black newer model Oldsmobile or Chevrolet stationwagon with wood paneling with two young people inside pull out of the lot. A search of the lot turned up a car with its left front window broken out, reports said.

At the scene of another breakout, residents reported seeing an older model Ford LTD with five youths in it in the vicinity. Cars with windows broken out were reported on North Oxford, East Ida Lane and Cook Road. Windows were shot out along Hawthorne, Wedgewood between North and South Oxford, and on North Oxford.

Socket overload causes fire

Grosse Pointe Park fire officials report a fire that started in the second floor of a carriage house on Ellair Place was the result of multiple appliances being plugged into one outlet.

Firefighters responded to the call on Thursday, Aug. 2, and confined the fire to the living room where it had started. However the entire floor suffered extensive smoke damage, according to reports

No injuries were reported.

Glenn A. Wesselmann, president of Michigan is structured to reduce hospital costs, and respond to community needs with the ultimate goal of providing improved patient care.

Three Michigan hospitals - Wil-liam Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak. Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, and Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids — are members of the national VHA and were key participants in forming VHA of Michigan. Other hospitals in the Michigan

VHA are:

Bay Medical Center, Bay City; Central Michigan Community Hospital, Mt. Pleasant; Community Hospital Association, Battle Creek; Cottage Health Services, Grosse Pointe; McPherson Community Health Center, Howell; Memorial Medical Center of West Michigan, Ludington; Northern Michigan, Hothigton, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Inc., Petoskey; Oakwood Hospital, Dearborn; Port Huron Hospital, Inc., Port Huron; Saginaw General Hospital, Saginaw; Southwestern Michigan Health Care Association. St. Joseph; St. Clair Health Corporation, Detroit, and United Mem-orial Hospital, Greenville.

The governing body is composed of the chief executives of each member hospital, representing more than 150 years of managemore than 150 years of manage-ment experience. Donald Walchen-bach, President of Butterworth Hospital, chairs the Board of the Michigan VHA. "We believe that the VHA demonstrates that the principles of voluntary hospitals are compatible with sound business practice," said Walchenbach. "The hospitals in-vited to participate in VHA of Michigan were selected based on criteria relating to the strengths of the intitution the institutions: sound clinical programs, solid financial performance, and good management.

'Because of such strengths and VHA's projections for at least 20 hospital networks throughout the United States by 1986, we think that VHA has the potential to become the major health care system in the country.

through his untiring efforts to recognize and meet the needs of every library patron, his development of a committed staff and his conviction that the community library plays an essential, unique role in the education of all citizens.

The members of the Board of Directors of the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library have been particularly fortunate to know and work with Bill. We owe to our knowledgeable, sensitive and witty mentor a better under-standing of the true worth and full potential of our library system.

"On behalf of all the Friends, we the undersigned honor and thank William T. Peters on the occasion of his retirement. We also acknowledge gratefully the contribution his wife, Frances, has made to his professional life and our community. "William T. Peters has been a distinguished Director of the Grosse Pointe Public Library for a decade. We are fortunate that he remains our neighbor and cherished friend.'

The testimonial was signed by several Friends, including Eugenio R. Beall, John Standish, Ethel Burwell, Thomas Peters, Phyllis Barr, Frank Welcenbach, William Hurley, Doris Brucker, Sarah Hill, Helen Fildew, Frank Sladen, Jr., John C. Prost and Lyne Kogel.

Peters worked for 17 years in the Detroit public library system before he joined the staff in Grosse Pointe, on which he served for a total of 17 years. He formerly wrote a column for the Grosse Pointe News in which he reviewed new publications and other library services.

Ms. Bielitz, who was director of the Central Branch, will serve as acting director of all three public library branches while the Board of Education conducts a nationwide search for a new director.

Auto club will begin theft investigations in auto theft claims for the first five months of 1984, the Automobile Club of Michigan has become one of the first insurers in the state to develop and implement an auto theft investigative unit.

"Car theft has emerged as a problem of epidemic proportions," said Len Bach, Auto Club field claim operations director. "As a result of auto thefts, our payments have risen from $27.2 million in 1980 to a projected $65 million this year.

"We started this unit to protect our members and policyholders from the increasing costs asso-ciated with car theft," Bach said. The purpose of the new unit is to control the spiraling costs asso-ciated with auto thefts. Last year, the Auto Club processed 14,605 theft claims, a 60 percent increase since 1980.

The unit, which includes 14 special claims representatives and two investigators, will investigate theft, fraud and auto arson. All employees of the unit are experienced in auto theft investigation and some are former police and fire department investigators. Auto theft claims reported by insureds in metropolitan Detroit will be processed by the unit in addition to some claims involving thefts throughout the remainder of the state.

"For Auto Club policyholders, the procedures for reporting thefts will remain intact. Insureds should continue to report thefts to their local branches," added Bach. The theft unit is located in the Auto Club's former East Dearborn office, 5261 Oakman Blvd. Its telephone number is 336-2515. The facility will not take payments or offer any other member services. Last year, the Auto Club unveiled

Faced with a 25 percent increase its multi-faceted ACTION (Arrest Car Thieves In Our Neighborhood) program offering rewards up to $10,000 to tipsters to stem the tide of car thefts and to help law enforcement agencies identify "chop shop" operations. The ACTION program also in-cludes the etching of VIN's on auto glass. Motorists also are urged to engrave the VIN on saleable metal parts such as doors and trunk lids.

Bach said those measures, coupled with two anti-theft bills pending in the Michigan Senate, could help reduce the company's skyrocketing loss payments and lessen the hardship auto thefts cause for policyholders.

Neighbor thwarts thief in the Park

Grosse Pointe Park police reported that a resident in the 1000 block of Devonshire thwarted a thief who came equipped with a truck to rob his neighbor's home.

The incident occurred about 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday, July 31, when the homeowner, hearing the sound of breaking glass, looked out and saw a stranger standing in his neighbor's yard, said police.

He went over and asked him what he was doing. The stranger pointed to the broken windows and said he was there to repair the glass.

He was unable to produce identification and the neighbor went back to his house to call the police. In that time the man drove off in a U-Haul trailer.

The would-be thief was described as a large built white male, about 35-years-old with brown hair. He was wearing a short-sleeved shirt and levis.

Last month, the council acting on those two administrators' recommendations passed a motion reassigning the numbers on the westerly side of the street. The Giraldo's were to be given number seven.

But homeowners involved voiced opposition and asked council to reconsider. They even suggested that part of the street be made into a court. Supposedly this would have allowed two families to be "number one," released a couple more numbers and kept the status quo.

But council didn't go for the idea because it felt two streets close together with identical numbers might pose a safety problem.

"While our public safety officers might know how the streets are numbered, we can't expect an ambulance driver from the Park, for example, to know," said Councilman Arthur Fetters.

So at a special meeting held July 30, council reaffirmed the earlier motion and renumbered the homes on the odd-numbered side of the street.

While Fetters said the state gives council the authority to establish and revise the street numbering system under the home rule charter, some of the people aren't happy, particularly, those who said council didn't do the complete job. It left number one, which is on the other side of the street where even-number homes are, the districts. But he sees far too many poor attempts, as well. They are buildings with a general lack of detail, with undersized cupolas tacked on to roof tops and snap-in plastic window frames.

Luedtke said what people in Grosse Pointe city halls often call "Colonial" architecture is really "Georgian." Colonial is rather primitive and implies the use of clapboard. Georgian architecture uses the red brick and white trim found in the Pointes.

• Office and retail functions have gotten too intermixed in Grosse Pointe's commercial areas and it's not good for either, according to Luedtke. "A visit to the doctor doesn't usually generate a shopping trip, as some people argue," Luedtke said.

· Grosse Pointe has reached the stage where restoration - not just paint and repair - is needed in some neighborhoods. "Many people just paint over trim that needs to be taken down to bare wood. Sashes are filled where windows should be replaced. It may cost $30,000 to restore a home, but in many neighborhoods it is time to do it."

City-by-city, this is what Luedtke found, sinners and winners among us:

The Farms

Luedtke gives the city a pat on the back for the street improvements it has recently made on the Hill with federal money. He likes the benches, lights and bricks. And he is very impressed with the renovation of the Meade Leasing building at the far end. "They paid attention to detail, even matching the sidewalk paving bricks to the building" he said. "It has become a major anchor for the shopping district.'

He's happy about the renovation of the 93 Kercheval building on the Hill, too, especially for the attention they paid to the rear of the building with its steeped cathedral windows. The Greenhouse and Trail Apothecary get "Apluses" for their back-door treatments decorated with bright colored awnings and signs.

But the Hill has some sinners, too. The walkway between the Grosse Pointe News office and Perry Drug Store is on top of that list. 'It's a major approachway to what's supposed to be a prestige shopping area and it looks horrible." A pedestrian concourse design is needed. He suggests tearing up the concrete and putting in bricks, installing boxes along both walls for climbing ivy, adding lights and small trees.

And the gas station near Muir Road, which remains vacant while its owner tries to develop an office building and parking deck on the site, earned Luedtke's ire, too. "It should at least be maintained, painted and cleaned up. Get rid of the weeds."

Down Kercheval Avenue, the Punch and Judy Theater is a concern to the planner. "It's a community resource, a landmark and anchor for the area. There should be some kind of community or government support for restoring it," he said. "Architecturally, as well as culturally, it is an important resource to the community. The architecture is so romantic, like the mansions we're losing."

As far as new developments go, Luedtke said he likes Briarwood (between Kercheval and Lakeshore). "The lots are ample, there is good proportion. The height of the homes in proportion to the width of the street and the lawns is just perfect." That's what planners call the street's "envelope."

deceivingly simple white picket fence on Carr-ington Place. The other, at Vendome and Kercheval, is a more elaborate curved brick wall with recessed patterns that perfectly com-plements the home.

In search of good, bad and ugly

The Shores

The Village itself deserves a pat on the back for its renovation and expansion of the Albert Kahn designed municipal office. "Renovation at its best," was Luedtke's comment. Inside, the building has been converted to light, modern, comfortable offices and an elevator has been added. And all that's been done without sacrificing the beauty and symmetry of Kahn's exterior design.

Since he complained about some recent, small-home developments, Luedtke pointed out an excellent, though older, example on Colonial Road. "Lawns are less than 20 feet deep, but the height of the homes is proportionately lower, too, creating an intimate envelope," he said. "It's well done and certainly has held its value over the years '

Luedtke also appreciates the use made of one of the few pieces of open land in the Shores. Someone has created an urban vegetable garden on Clairview near Ballantyne Road. Luedtke calls it "farm-a-lot for the elite '

He found only one major sin in the Shores, and it's a rather sad one at that. It's the poor crumbling shelter at the foot of Oxford Road and Lakeshore with a garbage can prominently chained in the middle.

"The shelter itself was once beautiful. It has a huge crack in it now and it's out of alignment. It's at the entrance of one of the most beautiful streets in Grosse Pointe Shores. It should be repaired."

The Woods

Once again, a city gets applause from Lued-tke. In this case it's for outstanding road me-dian maintenance. The Woods has elaborately planted flowers, shrubs and trees on the me-dians of Eight Mile Road and Mack Avenue at the city entrances and they make a great impression on out-of-towners heading in from the freeway.

As far as Georgian reproduction goes, Luedtke likes the Manufacturer's Trust Department building (20180 Mack) because of the quality landscaping and attention to detail in the pediments, pots and dentil work above the building.

In the sinners column, Luedtke has a serious complaint. It is the trend on Mack Avenue for stores to install metal grill work over doors and windows, also known as "ghetto gates.

"I understand insurance companies may pressure store owners and I don't mean to minimize that," Luedtke said. "But proliferation of metal grates really speaks of a declining area. People associate them with slums. That practice should be stopped.

He found maintenance in front of some stores sadly lacking, too. Weeds a foot high surrounded trees planted in the sidewalk around some Mack Avenue store fronts.

Grosse Pointe City

The City's Village shopping area gets high marks from Luedtke, mostly because he appreciates Jacobson's quality Georgian imitations which dominate the area. But the planner doesn't like the metal curlie-cues that serve as a railing on the Carriage House parking deck. "Removing them would clean up the appearance. A simple rail would be better."

As much as he likes the Village, Luedtke thinks shopowners are missing out on some of the potential of the area because they don't use the sidewalks.

"They could create some ambience with small cafes out on the sidewalks, or extended greenhouses at the corners. Birmingham has lots of that and it's real fun."

He thinks both north parking lots need more trees and shrubs planted around, too. And he gives dozens of stores in the Village a big hand for their attention to rear building details.

Down Fisher Road in the City's other shopping district, Luedtke gives Comerica's new building high marks. "It's good imitation and an aesthetic anchor for the shopping district," he said. "It's interesting that originally the building was opposed by people in the area. It has turned out to be an attribute that will add to long-term values."

The Park

The restoration of the Esquire Theater, with its colorful awnings, is a real plus for the East Jefferson area, in Luedtke's eyes. And the first blocks of Mack, near Alter Road, are coming back, too, with awnings, interesting glass and fresh paint, he notes. "All the business owners there should get credit for that.'

He appreciates the approach the city took in developing Kercheval Avenue, too. "It's a more sturdy, down-to-earth area, architec-turally," he said. "And the city com-plemented that by installing heavier street furniture and lights. It's a very sympathic relationship. They didn't try to be cutesie," he said.

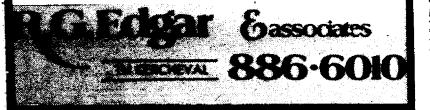

But he is worried about many of the Park's older homes that need restoration, not a quick fix-up. And he complains about many homes in the 30 to 50-year-old bracket that are surrounded with overgrown shrubs.

"They make the neighborhood look dated." They could be improved by just trimming out some of the excess and showing off some of the more beautiful specimens. The overgrown shrubs are a security problem too. "They give thieves a place to hide," he says.

Luedtke acknowledges that everyone might not agree with his point of view but he's more interested in just getting people to think about the aesthetic aspect of the community, as well as political and social sides.

And he hopes to hear from you about your picks for the "sinners and winners" among us. Write to the Editor, Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms, 48236.

Before we leave the Farms, Luedtke (the fence fanatic) wants to make sure everyone appreciates two new fences that live up to Grosse Pointe's fine fence tradition. One is a

An 18-year-old Detroit youth was pulled over by City police simply because he and a group of friends were caught swimming in off-limits waters at the foot of Sycamore. But the youth found himself facing a string of autorelated charges and violation of the con-trolled substance act before police were through with him.

Police said the youth opened the glove box of his car to look for proof of ownership when a bag of suspected marijuana and a pipe showed up. The youth admitted "the grass was in the car, but not mine" in a written statement to police.

He was also charged with driving with improper plates, with no insurance or driver's license and released on $100 bond.

The cracked shelter above, at Oxford and Lakeshore, and walkway between Perry Drugs and the New office made the sinners list.

"However, I have heard there are some private individuals who are considering it, but the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange is not part of it," he said.

Edward Kiska, of Kiska Jewelers and president of the Hill Merchants Association, would like to see the ordinance pass.

"I've talked to many people on he said. "Basically, we've got three camps. Those retailers renting property would like to see the ordinance pass. The realtors, and many other professionals are dead set against it. Then there are the retailers who are also property owners.

'They're sort of sitting on the fence. They want to see more retail on the Hill, but they're also afraid they'll have a hard time selling their property if the need arises.

"I've heard a lot of opinions, both projand con, but what I'd like to see is the council asking the people of Grosse Pointe what they want. They should approach the citizens and ask if they want a retail area or a service area. The council has a decision to make and either way it's a dilemma.

I spent Easter on Corfu this year, cruised to Crete and Rhodes, tramped the Acropolis, visited Delphi and Mycenae ... and let me tell you: if there's anything better than a Greek trip, I've yet to find it! But I will tell you, too, that the next best thing to a trip to Greece is a visit to the Annual Assumption Greek Orthodox Church and Cultural Center Greek Festival.

Assumption presents its Eighth Annual Greek Festival the weekend after this, Aug. 17 through 19. Greek music, dance, fabulous food and entertainment will all be part of the scene on the Center's Marter Road grounds, at the border of Grosse Pointe Woods and St. Clair Shores.

Prizes will be awarded every hour, culminating in a grand prize Sunday drawing for $1,000 in cash plus a 1984 Plymouth Horizon. All your favorite Greek dishes, from bakalava, souvlaki, Greek salad, spinach pie and Greek-style chicken to honey balls and diples, will be available.

This is a festival for the whole family, for whole-family festivals are typically Greek. There'll be kiddy rides, video and other games, a moonwalk, clowns and bingo. You can learn how to "dance Greek" by watching Assumption's own troupe of talented Greek Folk Dancers. There'll be entertainment, too, by the Hellenic Society for the Performing Arts and the Zorba Dancers.

Bouzouki player Dino Koukoulas and the Continentals will play popular Greek and dance music. Demonstrations of Kalosomatics, Assumption's unique fitness program, are scheduled throughout the weekend. New this year will be a "Michael Jackson Dance Contest." There's more, of course, all of it great good Greek fun, and more information is available by calling 779-6111.

At-Home Holidays

Interested in enjoying a luxurious holiday in an Englishstyle hotel: a mini-vacation offering champagne, theater tickets and overnight accommodation in an elegantly restored room, a Friday night package including selection from an extensive Saturday morning breakfast menu, a Saturday night package featuring an English Hunt Club Sunday Brunch? And never going NEAR an airport . . . never packing more than an overnight case?

Last season, Michigan Opera Theatre and the Hotel St. Regis, located in Detroit's New Center area, premiered a series of "Lyric Elegance" weekends that drew raves from everyone who took advantage of them. "Lyric Elegance" is back, by popular demand, for the 1984-85 MOT Opera Season, and reservations are now being accepted for holiday packages that include select main floor tickets to one of MOT's four 1984-85 productions, beginning Oct. 13.

HOPE-ing for a happy trip to the '20s

The elegant Edsel & Eleanor Ford House will be the setting for the fifth annual Project Hope League summer fund raiser on Saturday, Aug. 18. Grosse Pointe's HERMAN MOZER (standing, center, at back) and Birmingham's JAN THERRIAN (front row, second from right), chairman and co-chairman, respectively, of Hope's "Night in the Roaring '20s," plan to take you back to the era of the Flapper, Big Cheese and Bathtub Hooch, with musical entertainment by Chet Bogan and his Wolverine Jazz Band, featuring vocalist Dixiebelle, and activities including a Charleston contest, tours of the house and grounds, door prize drawings, dancing and a display of antique cars. There'll be hot hors d'oeuvres and an open "hooch" bar. League members have promised to dress in '20s attire and encourage everyone to do the same. Each guest, upon arrival, will receive a straw hat or tiara to "top off" his/her costume.

Not shown but equally HOPE-ful are committee members Ron Malis and Sigrid Carlson. The only thing you've got to remember is to make reservations, for you won't get down the Ford House drive without them, and to be all dressed up a la 1920 with no place to go on a Saturday night in 1984 is not a pretty picture. But since all you have to do to make reservations is to call the Project Hope Office, 649-4775, that's not much of a problem.

Kruse-Look rites in June

Saint Paul's-on-the-Lakeshore was the setting for the Friday, June 1, wedding of Rosemary Elizabeth Look, daughter of Mrs. Robert C. Look, of Whittier Road, and the late Mr. Look, and Philip Michael Kruse, son of Frank R. Kruse, of The Farms, and Mrs. Ludmila von Taube.

The 6 o'clock ceremony at which Monsignor Francis X. Canfield presided was followed by a reception, with music by the Chris Nordman Trio, at Hillcrest Country Club.

The bride wore a long-sleeved gown of candlelight silk organza over taffeta, its bodice of Alencon lace, accented with seed pearls, styled with a Victorian keyhole neckline. A wide band of matching lace bordered her chapel length train.

Her veil was also chapel length, and was also banded in Alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses, and was given in marriage by Richard W. Look.

Honor matron Mrs. Peter Bologna and bridesmaids Marina and Ludmila Kruse, the bridegroom's twin sisters, and Alix Kruse, another sister, wore floor length dresses, pink in color, and carried arrangements of pink roses, with freesia and baby's-breath. Flower girl Victoria Bowen, the

All in The Family

When the Church of Our Saviour Episcopal Church, located at Harper and Cadillac Avenues in Detroit, began its services last Sunday morning to mark the 110th anniversary of the laying of its cornerstone at that spot, Lay Reader in charge of those services was Elizabeth Ann Jessup, daughter of Dr. Ralph R. Cooper, of Lakeland Avenue.

Mrs. Jessup was born in Detroit and is a graduate of the Grosse Pointe School System and Michigan State University. She is the great-great-granddaughter of Henry Cooper, a member of Our Saviour Episcopal's first Vestry and church treasurer for 25 years.

Our Saviour's Articles of Incorporation were signed on Sept. 8, 1874, in the little red schoolhouse at the corner of Harper and Gratiot Avenues, where services were held regularly until Easter Sunday, 1875, when the first service was held in the new church. The congregation still uses the original building, but the tiny inner city church has not had a regular minister for more than 10 years.

It would not have been able to survive without the kindness of Dr. Robert H. Whitaker, of The Woods, retired president of the Episcopal Diocese's Robert H. Whitaker School of Theology. Dr. Whitaker celebrates the Holy Eucharist and takes Our Saviour's services three times a month, and cares for all its parishioners.

Mrs. Jessup has been a licensed lay reader for a year at St. Phillip and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church. Last Sunday, at Our Saviour, her father reads one lesson and her cousin, Judge David C. Vokes, the other. Her son, William James Jessup, is the sixth generation of one of the church's founding fathers.

Dr. Cooper and his daughter are also direct descendents of the Charles Lee family, which founded the little Village of Leesville at Harper and Gratiot Avenues.

If you're in Manhattan between now and Sept. 1, make a point of dropping in at the American Craft Museum II at International Paper Plaza on West 45th Street, where a pair of exhibitions, "Jewelry USA" and "Jewelry International: Contemporary Trends," survey the extraordinary diversity and sophistication of handmade jewelry today. And make a point, in the "USA" section, of checking out the work of Earl Krentzin, of Hillcrest Road, who definitely does good work — as proved by the fact that he is one of 122 artists whose 222 pieces were chosen by a Society of North American Goldsmiths' jury from 2,200 slides submitted by 575 entrants for inclusion in the national exhibit.

Gibson-Kettle vows are said

At home at Fort Bragg, N.C., where they will make their home until mid-October, when he will be transferred to Fort Benning, Ga., are First Lieutenant and Mrs. Charles O. Gibson Jr., who exchanged marriage vows Saturday, July 14, in First Lutheran Church, Detroit.

Mrs. Gibson is the former Mary Ann Kettle, daughter of Mrs. Richard W. Kettle, of Tempe, Ariz., and the late Mr. Kettle. Lieutenant Gibson is the son of Mrs. Charles O. Gibson, of Beaufait Road, and the late Mr. Gibson.

Presiding at the 5:30 o'clock ceremony was The Reverend Richard O. Walston. Organist was Clarence H. Nagel, of The Woods, who had played for the wedding of the bridegroom's parents 39 years earlier. Vocal music was provided by Wayne H. Smith, the bridegroom's former scoutmaster, under whose tutelage Lieutenant Gibson became an Eagle Scout.

The bride, given in marriage by ner brother, Richard W. Kettle Jr., of Cheboygan, wore a lace gown styled with a Queen Anne neckline, featuring a bodice trimmed with seed pearls and long, slim lace sleeves. Her fingertip veil fell from a half-cap of pearls trimmed with lace. White roses and baby's-breath formed her bouquet.

Jackie Rico, of Tempe, acted as honor attendant for her sister. Bridesmaids were First Lieutenant

Wedding set in October

Early October wedding plans are being made by Dr. Debra Gail Halsey, daughter of Martha M. Halsey, of North Oxford Road, and the late Kenneth S. Halsey, and Dr. William James Carmody, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Carmody, of Mount Clemens.

The bride-elect, a Grosse Pointe North High School graduate who holds a Bachelor of Science degree from Michigan State University, re-ceived her Doctor of Dental Surgery from the University of Detroit Dental School. She served as president of her sorority, Sigma Kappa.

Her fiance also holds a Doctor of Dental Surgery from the University of Detroit Dental School. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from the University of Michigan.

Beth Turner, Captain Mary Zvarich and Gail A. Schmidt, cousin of the bridegroom. Their dresses were pale blue in color, the blue matching the cords and shoulder boards of the uniforms of the officers in the wedding party and the Arch of the Sabers under which the newlyweds left the church.

The dresses' bodices were over-laid with chiffon and featured chiffon cap sleeves. Each attendant carried a single, long-stemmed white rose, accented with pale blue ribbon.

James R. Gibson acted as best man for his brother. Ushers were First Lieutenant Brian C. Turner, Captain Charles W. Zvarich and Stephen J. Fattore Jr.

Beth and Brian Turner came from Germany, where they are stationed, to be members of the wedding party. Mary and Charles Zvarich are stationed at Fort Bragg.

Captain Charles Zvarich and Lieutenant Brian Turner formed the Arch of Sabers, along with Lieute-nant Colonel Howard R. Schmidt, United States Army Reserve, the bridegroom's uncle, and Major

James B. Quick, of Fort Bragg. The bride's mother wore a floor length dress of cream chiffon with a small, pale blue floral pattern. The bridegroom's mother chose floor length peach chiffon. Each mother wore a wrist corsage of cymbidium orchids.

May to bring new antiques show's debut

The Edison Institute, one of America's foremost treasuries of antiques, will host a premier antiques event of national proportions next spring. Preparations are underway for the first Village Antiques Show, organized by the Institute's President's Society, to run May 16 through 18, 1985, at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village.

Some 45 dealers from across the country will be selected to exhibit their merchandise. Several events, including a preview, patrons' night, young collectors' night, lectures and tours, will be held in conjunction with the three-day show.

Several committees are being formed to work with show manager J. Jordan Humberstone and chair-persons Mr. and Mrs. William S. Mullen and Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Reed. An honorary Village Antiques Show board has been named, consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Ford II, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Manoogian, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stroh, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Taubman, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Caldwell and Mr. and Mrs. Max Fisher.

In addition to establishing a prestigious annual event featuring a wide variety of antiques commensurate to the quality and scope of the world class collections of artifacts at Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village, the purposes of the Village Antiques Show are to broaden awareness of and membership in the President's Society and to extend support of the Institute's oper-ation of the museum and the village.

Be prepared for Japanese Beetle attack

Japanese beetles and their larvae are among the most common de-structive insects, according to Dr. Bal Rao, director of Lawn Care Services with The Davey Tree Expert Company, Kent, Ohio. The beetles which normally emerge about this time of year are known to cause tree and lawn damage amounting to over $17 million annually in the eastern part of the United States alone.

As adults, these metallic green insects skeletonize valuable ornamental leaves, particularly when a large number of beetles are feeding on a single plant. As white grubs in the larvae stage, they feed on grass roots throughout the growing season and can do extensive damage to the lawn. In the adult life stage their feeding injury reduces the green photosynthetic tissue which is necessary for the production of plant sugars; as a result, plants become weakened and more susceptible to diseases.

Dr. Rao explains: "Japanese beetles complete their life cycle in one year. They emerge from your lawn in the early summer season to feed on over 300 different types of plants. After mating, females lay eggs in the soil, return for more feeding and mating, and eventually die.

"The eggs that were deposited in the soil hatch in the summer months, and the larvae begin their feeding on your turfgrass roots. This feeding continues until they burrow deeper into the soil to overwinter. "When temperatures begin to warm during the following spring, the grubs start to work their way up to the level of the turfgrass roots to begin feeding again. The cycle is completed when they emerge from the soil to being their assault on your plants in the early summer months.

There are signs to look for to prepare for the assault this year. Damage from grubs feeding on your lawn first appears as brown patches of dead grass, usually in sunny or exposed locations. If feeding is heavy, the roots are almost completely severed and the sod can be rolled up like a carpet.

Ground mole or skunk activity or numerous birds, such as starlings, feeding on a lawn usually indicate a grub problem before the symptoms are evident. Cutting a foot-square flap of turf on three sides and rolling it back will expose any grubs that are present and feeding. In general, over four grubs per square foot indicate treatment is necessary.

Controlling white grub populations in turf is often difficult for the homeowner to achieve. Your best chances are with a professional lawn care company; these com-panies are experienced in the two most critical areas of control: using the proper material and using that material at the right time.

Keep in mind, though, that insec-ticides applied to the lawn for the control of beetle grubs will not necessarily prevent adult beetle activity on ornamentals, because of beetle migration from surrounding areas.

To manage the adult Japanese beetle, insecticide treatments should coincide with the peak feeding period which is usually July through August. Since beetles emerge at different times and can migrate at least one mile during the growing season, insecticides should be applied at 10 to 14-day intervals during this period for adequate protection.

Japanese beetle traps are very effective in attracting and containing adult beetles, but trapping is generally not successful unless practiced on a neighborhood basis, because of the large number of beetles which are normally very mobile.

Injury may, in fact, be increased in the immediate vicinity of a trap, since adult beetles tend to congregate not only on the trap but on nearby plants. Be sure to place any traps you use well away from your desirable ornamental plants.

Stacey, treasurer.

Take a deep breath--enjoy summertime

Rain isn't the only thing that can ruin a perfect summer day. Individuals suffering from asthma often spend the season worrying about the weather, never knowing when they will have an asthmatic attack.

Pollen, humidity and even travelling are irritants that can bring on such an attack, says the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan (ALASEM), but warm weather can also be turned from bummertime to fantastic summertime for asthmatic children -- if properly managed.

Summer is especially uncomfortable for asthmatics who have inherited an allergic tendency toward various pollens. Because no outdoor area or climate is pollen-free, the hest idea is to steer clear of narticularly difficult areas. Contact with forests, gardens, flowers and parks should be kept to a minimum.

It is also important to limit outdoor activities on rainy, muggy days when pollen's effect on asthmatics is intensified. By taking asthma medications before going outside and watching carefully for particular asthma triggers, asthmatics can very often avoid the onset of an attack.

Another summer irritant for asthmatics is humidity. Air that is hot and has a high moisture content acts like a sponge, absorbing a great deal of pollution and pollen and making it difficult for asthma sufferers to breathe. During especiallv hot and humid weather, such individuals should try to spend as little time as possible outside.

Unlike the outdoor climate, air inside a house can be controlled. A room air conditioner or central air conditioning can significantly decrease the amount of pollen and humidity in the atmosphere.

Finally, travelling can also be dangerous to asthmatics. Great temperature and environmental changes often provoke an attack. For example: a move from the hot, muggy weather of Michigan to the dry, arid climate of the southwestern United States can be a great shock to the respiratory system.

Meadow Brook Music Festival's eighth week of the current summer season opens at Baldwin Pavilion on the Oakland University campus tonight, Thursday, Aug. 9, at 8 p.m. with pianist Paul Badura-Skoda and the Detroit Symphony Orchestra conducted by Maxim Shostakovich.

Kenneth Jean will conduct the DSO Pops at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 10 and 11, in even-ings of "Music from the Great Mo-tion Pictures," with laser light ac companiment. Scores from such films as E.T., Ben Hur, Star Wars. Raiders of the Lost Ark and Casablanca will be featured. Each concert will be followed by a fireworks display.

Badura-Skoda, Shostakovich and the DSO return for a 6 p.m. concert Sunday, Aug. 12. Meadow Brook's grounds open at 1 p.m. on Sundays and 6 p.m. on weekdays for picnicking as well as full service or a la carte dining on Trumbull Terrace

Information on tickets, lawn coupon books and programs is available at the festival box office. 377-2010. Festival tickets are also on sale at all Ticket World locations and AAA branch offices. Group discounts are available for most concerts.

Tips for well-done backyard barbecue

Summer is a time for cooking summer is a time for cooking outdoors. Here are a few tips from the National Safety Council to help keep you out of trouble when barbecuing: • Keep barbecue grills away from walls, overhangs or other flammable material.

• Never add charcoal starter fluid to a fire that has already been ignited.

• Don't allow children or pets near a grill. They can get burned, or knock the grill over.

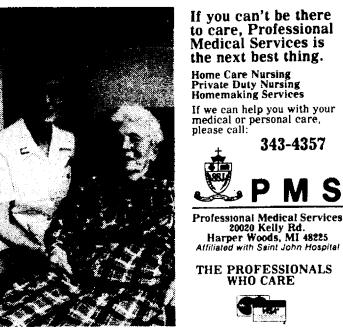

• Never use a grill in a garage or enclosed area where carbon monoxide can build up.

• When you are the cook, avoid wearing loose, flowing clothing.

Summer's 'Young Look' at WSU

Look again - your eyes don't deceive you. The farther one is from one's own college years, the younger current college students look . . . but you're right: that's an AWFULLY young trio of Wayne State University students pictured above with Dr. DENI ELLIOT, of The Park, part-time faculty member in the WSU Philosophy Department. SANDERS CHAE, of The Woods, ANDREW KNIGHT, of The Park, and JOSEPH POSCH, of The Shores, left to right, are three of 38 metropolitan area seventh and eighth graders enrolled in classes at WSU as part of the Midwest Talent Search, coordinated by Northwestern University, which identifies middle school students with strong academic achievement. The students must score in the 95th percentile of the California Achievement Test, then are eligible to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), where their verbal and mathematics scores must also be high. The SAT scores of this summer's participants average 860, placing them in the upper 25th (top quarter) percentile. The students are divided into two groups, both meeting for twohour sessions four times a week for four weeks. Sanders, Andrew and Joseph are taking Dr. Elliot's class in critical thinking or logic, which meets in the Chinese Room of Manoogian Hall on WSU's main campus. "The logic class was chosen for this enrichment program because logic has broad applications in all phases of the students' lives and studies, whether science, law, computers, debate or any form of communication," explains Dr. Francine Wehmer, director of the program at WSU. This is the second year that Wayne State has participated in the Midwest Talent Search which involves hundreds of cooperating universities and colleges, 13 of them in Michigan.

"The Making of a Competitive Athlete"

- a guest viewpoint by Al Devine

"The Making of A Competitive Athlete"

In six years of coaching, I have coached 22 teams, all of them in Grosse Pointe. I have coached the track at St. Clare grade school and at North High, tennis at St. Paul grade school, basketball at Brownell Middle School, track and basketball at South High and baseball at University Liggett School. I have also been very active in past summers coaching senior Babe Ruth baseball.

I have found that one thing most young athletes have in common is that they do not understand what it takes to be competitive.

All athletes must be disciplined. They must understand the importance of attending practice and the importance of obeying student athletic training rules (no drinking, no smoking, and no drugs). Good athletes are able to deal with peer pressure and keep away from smoking and drinking. I take one practice day during the course of the season to impress upon my players the bad effects of drinking, smoking and drugs.

I demand one thing from my players: dedication. Most sports offered at the high school level last for three months. The athlete must be a good student and attend athletic practices, as well. Practice makes a prepared athlete. A competitive athlete must be able to sacrifice a lot of his or her social life. If there is a game, scrimmage or practice on Saturday morning, I expect my athletes to stay at home on Friday night to do homework and to go to bed at an early hour.

A serious athlete will do these things. If an athlete is dedicated, there will never be a problem with academics.

Attitude is the most important factor in sports. I always stress a positive attitude. I will not tolerate a bad attitude. If a team's highest scorer has a bad attitude he or she will hurt the team more than anything else. Team leaders must exhibit positive attitudes.

The kind of attitude I expect from my players is one in which the person acts themself and gives 100 percent at every practice. The kind of attitude I do not like is the athlete that always is late for practice, out of uniform and shows no respect for self, teammates and school. These people are usually pushed by their parents into a sport that they do not like and therefore have no real interest in the event. That kind of attitude can really hurt a team . . . and a player.

The parent-coach relationship is also an important one. At Brownell and Grosse Pointe South we have a "meet the coach night," at which the coach describes his or her philosophy on the sport he is coaching. It is a time in which the parents can voice their opinions and ask the coach any question that is pertinent to them or their child.

Parents, it is very necessary to support your child athlete. I would like to see more input from you. Your child works very hard at practice and you owe it to them to make it to as many games as possible. If you are not able to attend a game show interest and ask your "star" athlete how he or she did in the game.

It's official: PASS completed at GP Cable

It's said that "all good things come to he who waits." That may also include television programs. After months of negotiations, Group W's Grosse Pointe Cable has announced that an agreement has been signed between the company and PASS (Pro Am Sports System) to supply local cable subscribers with Tiger, Red Wing, and college football games.

PASS is a John E. Fetzer com-pany, and is a package of sports events that, in addition to baseball, offers the Detroit Pistons, Big Ten, Kronk boxing and other local events to 200 cable systems in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

The one remaining stumbling block is that officials at Grosse Pointe Cable aren't quite certain just when the programming will start.

"I'm pleased to say that we signed the contract on the first of August, then sent it onto PASS to sign," said Gerald DeGrazia, general manager at Grosse Pointe Cable.

"We're moving as quickly as pos-sible to bring our new equipment in. That should really put us in gear. We'll first have to re-set our our satellite dish and obtain a decoder to unscramble PASS's signal

"Both of those are high ticket items, but we've got them on hold with our supplier. Hopefully they'll be ready when we need them delivered."

Because Grosse Pointe Cable doesn't yet have the equipment on hand, DeGrazia said the company didn't yet have a starting date for the programming, but did say Grosse Pointe Cable hoped to include as many Tiger games as it could. He didn't know if that would

Push a bed for the kids

As part of the downtown Mt. Clemens Farm-City Week festivities, scheduled for Aug. 20 to 25, a bed race will be sponsored by the Vic Wertz distributing company to benefit the Easter Seals.

The late Vic Wertz was an all star player for the Detroit Tigers and was a resident of Grosse Pointe.

Co-sponsors of the race are Miller High Life, Mt. Clemens Rotary Club, Central Macomb County Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Clubs of District 3 North.

The race is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 25, at 10 a.m. in downtown Mt. Clemens, and all businesses and organizations are invited to attend.

also include any possible playoff games for the team. DeGrazia said the fee to cable subscribers would be somewhere between $9 and $11.95 a month.

DeGrazia declined to discuss the profitability split between PASS and Group W, saying that the terms of the contract between the two companies forbade it. He did say though, that after months of. negotiations, that both companies 'gave a little and came to a contract they were both happy with." In an earlier interview, DeGrazia confirmed that the major stumbling block between the companies had been the profitability split.

According to William Wischman, Jr., the split offered by Group W initially had been 65-35, with Group W receiving the larger amount. At that time, Wischman said PASS had formulated a profitability split when it was formed of 50-50. Executives at the cable company are also hoping that the availabil-ity of PASS will deter 75 customers from cancelling their subscriptions with the local company. The 75, headed by Park resident Paul Pomaski, had threatened to cancel, unless they saw some progress in the availability of the programming.

"It's true that there are some really loyal viewers to PASS out there," said DeGrazia. "Some of them call us on a weekly basis. wanting to know about the availability of PASS's programming. They, along with our other viewers, will be informed before long through advertisements, bulletins on our local channel 6 and in stuffers included in the billing. "PASS is on the way.

In the parent-child events, the McMahons defeated the Woodrows for the mother/son title, and the Gaskins defeated the Woodrows for the mother/daughter title. Lee and Carolina Gaskins defeated Allen and Kristen Hart for the father/ daughter, while John and John Thomson retained their father/son title for the fourth consecutive year by defeating Dave DeSmyter and Chris Lee.

GPYC swimmers remain on top

The Grosse Pointe Yacht Club Swimming Team wrapped up its final 1984 dual swimming meet on Thursday, July 19, by defeating Oakland Hills Country Club 597-412, thus remaining undefeated this season.

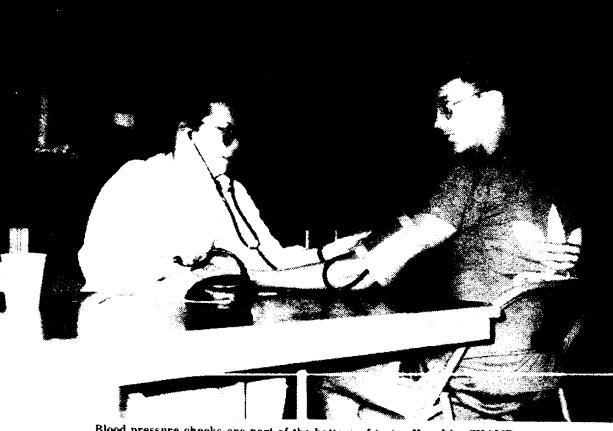

It was a busy week for the swimmers as they defeated the Detroit Yacht Club 644-340 and the Birmingham Athletic Club 595-384. Against Oakland Hills the GPYC won 36 out of 46 events and against the DYC they won 40 out of 46 events. In their competition against Birmingham, the local swimmers won 35 out of 46 events.

The blue ribbon winners in all three meets were Eric DeMuelemeester in the 8 and under category breast stroke; Sandy Smith in the 13 and under breaststroke; Mike Kirchner in the 9 and 10 backstroke; Kelly Bartsch in the 13 and 14 backstroke; Krystin Strong in the 15 and 16 backstroke; John Sieber in the 9 and 10 fly; Jenny Smith in the 8 and under fly; Kristen Youngblood in the 11 and 12 free and Kelly Bartsch in the 13 and 14 free.

Other outstanding performers singled out by Coach Tom Teetaert included Elizabeth Bursiek, Lauren Kordas, Peter Mertz, Pat Kirchner, Brenn Schoenherr, Katie Tompkins, Ashley Moran, Ellie Rice, Julie Mertz and Heather Heidel.

More were Eric Steiner, Anne Tipp, Chris Keane, Jamie Nevison, Chris Nevison, Michelle McGough and Jeff Clark.

The inter-club season ended with the Michigan Inter-Club Swimming Association finals at the Grosse Ile Country Club last weekend, July 28

The Lyric Chamber Ensemble has announced its fifth season of chamber music concerts at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House in Grosse Pointe Shores. The eightconcert series will begin in late September and continue through May on Sundays at 3:30 p.m.

The John Smith Singers will join the ensemble for the opening concert Sept. 30 featuring Gilbert and Sullivan favorites including highlights from "The Mikado," "The Gondoliers" and "Yolanthe."

Piano and strings will combine Oct. 21, on a Mozart g minor quartet, Schubert quartetsatz and Dvorak quintet.

Sonatas for cellos and piano composed by Bach, Chopin and Ross Lee Finney will be the Nov. 18 feature. On Jan. 13, the "friendly French' composers, Poulenc, Mihaud and Saint-Saens, will be featured on woodwinds and piano.

The ensemble's pre-Valentine concert on Feb. 10 will include works by Mozart and Schubert with violinist Ronald Fischer, Twopiano classics by Bach, Schaumann and Saint-Saens will be on the bill of fare March 24, followed by a mostly Baroque concert featuring Young Americans are learning that one of the best ways to become old Americans is not to smoke. According to a recent study by the University of Michigan Institute for Social Research, daily smoking among high school students dropped to 20 percent in 1982, down from 29 percent in 1977, following a trend that has seen the per capita consumption of cigarets fall to its lowest level since 1957.

The study also showed that 60 percent of the 17,000 participating high school seniors believed that smoking reflects poor judgment and that those individuals who do smoke give the appearance of being insecure: completely opposite of the image many of them try to convey. Moreover, two-thirds of the polled students said that they would personally prefer to date people who don't smoke.

Researchers involved with the study suggest that public health campaigns warning teens on the hazards of smoking may have proved effective.

"We asked kids who abstained (from smoking) or quit what their reasons were. An increasing proportion are mentioning physical or psychological health," said Lloyd Johnston, principal investigator of the study.

Jennifer Mead, program coordinator of smoking and health at the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, concurs. "I think that many health organizations like ourselves have been successful in educating students. As a result, teenagers today are more knowledgeable about smoking and know what it can do to them.

The decline in smoking among teenagers is in contrast to the spiraling amount of money and advertisements cigaret companies are using to entice youthful consumers. In 1980 alone, according to the Federal Trade Commission, the tobacco industry spent more than $1.24 billion in advertising, mostly on newspaper and magazine ads and billboards, since a 1971 ruling by Congress banned cigaret ads from the broadcast media. Today, cigarets are the most advertised product in the United States.

Cigaret companies have good reason to appeal to young adults in their advertising. Studies have shown that if a teen hasn't started smoking by age 19, there's a 70 percent chance he never will. In fact, according to Louisiana State University researchers, teenage smokers have usually established their habit by age 14. Questionnaires sent out by the L.S.U. researchers also showed a two-year gap between the time a child first tries cigarets and the time he has established a habit of at least one cigaret a week.

Despite the overall decline of smoking among teenagers, the U-M study does reveal one disturbing but predictable fact; the largest percentage of new smokers also. falls in this age bracket.

Also, about 12.7 percent of Amer-ican teenage girls smoke, in comparison to 10.7 percent of teenage boys, the first time in history there has been an age category in which women smokers outnumber men. The Lung Association's Mead explains this increase as a possible result of a "catch-up effect."

"Women began competing professionally, enduring more stress, and, regrettably, smoking more recently than men, thus, we find that the decline in number of women smokers will occur at a later date than the decline in number of male smokers began. This should apply to women of all ages, but is clearly evident in this study

The Lung Association offers several stop-smoking programs which appeal to all age groups. For further information on clinics or for "quit-tips," call the "Smoking Phone," 963-3029.

Laffey named Coach of year

By Susan Flewelling

Diane Laffey, athletic director and administrative assistant at Regina High School in Harper Woods, has been named the 1984 District Softball Coach of the Year by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association (NHSACA).

Coach Laffey, of Harper Woods, was one of eight NHSACA district nominees for the 1984 National High School Coach of the Year honor. The evaluative criteria included head coaching tenure; wonlost record; championship years; service to the profession, community and to high school athle-tics; and coaching honors.

Athletic director at Regina for the last 10 years, Ms. Laffey began coaching softball and basketball at RHS in 1970. Since then, she has led the softball team to a first-place Catholic League title in 1982, runner-up titles in 1984, 1983 and 1979, and many division titles. The basketball team finished state runner-ups this past season, as well as in 1981 and 1980 and has collected several district titles as well, all under the direction of Coach Laffey.

Prior to her work at Regina, Ms. Laffey coached basketball and softball at St. Anthony's, now East Catholic High School. She began her coaching career as a junior at Nativity High School in Detroit when she coached grade school basketball and softball for six years at Our Lady Queen of Peace in Harper Woods.

Ms. Laffey's list of honors include the 1983 Girls Basketball Coach of the Year award by the NHSACA; 1982 Coaches Award for leading the Regina softball team to a Catholic League championship; 1980 Detroit Pistons Coach of the Year; 1980 Coach of the Year for Basketball in the Catholic League; and 1977-78 Athletic Director of the Year by the Catholic League.

Coach Laffey was honored on June 29 at the 19th annual NHSACA National Convention-Clinic Na-tional Awards Banquet in Lexington, Ky.

Booklet fetes MOWA members

Persons curious about the backgrounds of Michigan's top outdoor writers and broadcasters should be fascinated by "The Wild Ones," a 75-page booklet commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Mich-igan Outdoor Writers Association.

Published in June 1984, the book contains biographies and photos plus a tongue-in-cheek look at MOWA members. Unofficially dub-bed the "Punster Laureate" by his colleagues, booklet editor Gordon Charles offers readers insight into the sometimes offbeat techniques used by MOWA members to gather outdoor reports for their publications and broadcasts.

The booklet is liberally illustrated with photographs and cartoons.

The publication is available for $6 (including postage) and re-quests should be addressed to: Tom Freel, MOWA Secretary, Automobile Club of Michigan, 1700 Executive Plaza Drive, Dearborn, Michigan 48126.
