The Carringtons?

Went for my first ever ride in a limosine last week. It was one of those s-t-r-e-t-c-h jobbies. Blacker than midnight and longer than a weekend in Cleveland.

And it was fully loaded too. Computerized bar, television set, video games, a motorized sunroof, air conditioned, stereoized with dark, one-way windows and a chauffeur who could pilot that black beauty with the finesse of a ballet dancer.

Now don't jump to conclusions. I didn't rent this ocean liner for the night. I photographed the birthday party of a friend's wife last summer. He owns a limosine service and, instead of charging him, I simply traded off for the use of a limo for a night.

I planned carefully and decided to make an event of it. I made a date with my wife Rose, contacted another couple and we went out to dinner, to the Royal Oak Music Theatre to see "Gallagher" and then out for drinks afterward.

No one knew about my surprise. The car was due at our home at 7 p.m. For once in my married life, Rose and the babysitter were both ready 15 minutes early.

So I began to stall. I even began to talk about canning pickles with the babysitter.

This seemed natural to Rose since I had canned my first ever dill pickles the day before and was a little worried about botulism if, heaven forbid, I did

After this subject was exhausted I visited the bathroom five times in 10 minutes.

Do you have any idea what kinds of looks this earns you? Rose is a registered nurse and was about to make an appointment for me with a urologist when the car pulled up.

Rose wondered aloud who it was for until the chauffeur walked up and asked for Mr. and Mrs. Greenwood. Rose was delighted, but her smile fell away when she asked about the cost. Zero? Return of the "Big Smile."

All the way to Dearborn, we kept playing with the buttons in the back seat. There were about a dozen. Windows went up and down, (as did the air conditioning), the sunroof opened and shut and we had about half a dozen assorted drinks ready before we were 10 minutes into the

Pete the chauffeur couldn't believe it when we told him it was our first time in a limosine. I guess he thought we were naturals.

Our friends are as "touristy" as us and were just as impressed. They too played with the buttons and soon there were a dozen drinks balanced in back.

Because the freeways were crowded, we ended up shooting down Wyoming towards Eight Mile Road. The reactions the car received were too good to be true. People waved from the street and their porches. Kids chased us on their bikes and two guys tried to hitch a ride.

This was also the night Michael Jackson was in town Halfway through my third drink I began to wonder what the reaction would have been if I'd brought along a red coat an sequinned glove and thrust it up through the sun roof?

It might have been fun 'til the crowd discovered the product of (Continued on Page 14A)

Here it is the end of summer, so we thought you might like another look at the Lakeshore Beach. This stretch of glistening sand has been there, more or less all summer.

New principals head eight schools

When school bells ring next year, they will issue in a year of changes for the district. Sixth graders will be in the middle schools, there will be one less elementary school and a number of new faces for parents to get to know will be in the principals' offices.

For the next two weeks, the News will try to give parents a little information about those new administrators, where they've been and where they plan to take their schools during the coming years.

This week, we talked to William Christofferson, principal of Parcells Middle School; Robert Shover, new principal at Defer Elementary School; Shiela Joyce, principal at Trobley School; and Leo Warras, the new head of Kerby likely to find him in church — di recting the choir.

A tenor himself, Christofferson has directed the choruses at Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian and St.

Paul Lutheran Church. Music is his main interest, although he doesn't mind taking in a football game, playing a round of golf or fishing, too, from time to time.

Christofferson will move this fall from Brownell, where he was principal for 19 years, to Parcells Middle School. Ann Hoga, a parent at Brownell, said the new school is lucky to get him. "He is very kind and has good relationships with kids and parents. And he works well with staff, too," she said.

Christofferson said he believes providing strong support to the teaching staff is an important part of a principal's job. "Administra-tion should take care of the little details so they can get on with their job in the classroom," he said. He is excited about the transfer of sixth grades to middle school this fall and called it a "super idea."

One of his pet projects at Brownell When William Christofferson was improving the landscaping isn't busy being principal, you're around the school and he hopes to do the same at Parcells > Christofferson, 50, is a Minnesota native who now lives in Grosse Pointe City. He is married and has three grown children.

He was graduated from Concordia College in Morehead, Minn., and received his master's at University of Michigan, where he also worked toward his doctorate. He's been living in Michigan since 1958 and served Romulus schools before coming to Grosse Pointe.

If you don't find Robert Shover in his Defer principal's office, look for him on the playground or in the lunchroom or whereever the kids are gathering.

"I like to spend my time with the kids during their time out of the classroom," the 55-year-old Woods resident says. "You can learn a lot by being with the kids . . . and head off a lot of problems by being out there . . . instead of waiting for a report to come in."

Independents reap Kroger harvest

By Harriet Nolan

When Kroger closed its doors last month, proving to employes that what at it gives it can take away, small local grocers prospered in the windfall of displaced shoppers. But the chain has decided to reopen 45 of the 70 stores it closed in southeastern Michigan and these merchants are wondering how many customers will be lured back into the Kroger fold.

In the Pointes, two stores were affected after members of the United Food and Commerical Workers Local 876 voted overwhelmingly against accepting concessions the company said were necessary to remain in business

After the chain shut its stores they renegotiated a contract that reflected wage, benefit and seniority rights cuts. It was accepted and the Kercheval store reopened Aug. 23, and the Mack/Moross store was scheduled to reopen Aug. 29.

"We had a 50 percent increase in sales when Kroger's closed," said Patty Saad, who helps manage the family-owned Verbrugge Market on Mack. "When it reopened, what a difference! But they offered eggs at 39 cents a dozen and for that price, I'd buy there too.

She said that at least 10 percent of the new business will stay, par-ticularly after "they discover we offer quality.

And quality seems to be the key word for small operations who have to compete with large volume

"We did have about a 15 percent increase and it hasn't slowed down since Kroger reopened," said Jim-Dodd, manager at Hamlin's on the Hill "But you have to understand that this is a gourmet store with

"Supermarkets are for bargain hunters. While we put on a weekly sale to attract customers, it's not a full display to get everybody," he Hamlin's customers, according to Dodd, enjoy hand-picked produce, free delivery and no baskets. They learn to like and rely on the individualized service they get.

Another family operation since 1938, the Farms Market on Fisher Road, has had 25 percent increase in sales, according to owner Bill Moir. "People said they didn't (Continued on Page 14A)

Park will close two streets

By Harriet Nolan

Two streets, at opposite ends of the Park, will be closed and cul-desacs built, said Grosse Pointe Park city council at its meeting Monday, Aug. 27.

Petitions were submitted by resdents living in the 1000 block of Somerset to have their street closed at Jefferson Avenue while homeowners in the 1400 block of Grayton want their street barricaded at Mack Avenue.

"I'm making sure the residential value of homes on Somerset are maintained at the present level in the form of the cul-de-sac," said Park Mayor Palmer.

"There is going to be a 45,000 square foot building at the end of their block and this is to insure pro-tection against businesses," he added, referring to the $5 million medical complex proposed to be built at the corner of Nottingham and Jefferson.

Bon Secours Hospital and the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology (DIO), backers of the project petitioned to have Nottingham closed as part of the building plans. They also agreed to foot the bill for it.

But the $38,000 cost to close and cul-de-sac Somerset would be paid by taxpayers, according to John Crawford, city manager, who said it would benefit the community and insure safety of school children.

Representatives from both the Trombly and Pierce Parent Teacher Organizations pushed for the plan. They said traffic on Jefferson Avenue would increase near the outpatient clinic and pose a threat to children who had to cross Jefferson Avenue.

All of council, except David Gaskin and Patricia Forrester. were in favor of the plan. Gaskin and Mrs. Forrester agreed that a problem might exist in the future, but they wanted to take a wait-and-

A traffic analysis recently conducted when Somerset was temporarily closed indicated that nearby Beaconsfield had a 25 percent increase in daily traffic as a result.

"I'm concerned we don't have an adequate overall plan," said Gaskin. "We need clearer criteria of what it takes to close streets and that it will benefit the community as a whole.

"Will this improve the quality of life on Beaconsfield?" he added.

The Grayton Road closing is the result of homeowners banding together and agreeing to buy the empty lot at the corner of Mack Avenue.

According to James Walsh, a resident and alternate Park city attorney, all residents have verbally agreed to pay about $1 thousand per home to have the Detroit entrance blocked. But the city would be responsible for maintaining it.

Some residents on Harvard and Bishop who attended agreed it was hard to argue against the willingness to pay for the cul-de-sac and lot. But they objected to the additional stress it would put on their

And many, like Robert McCormick, of Bishop Road, disagreed. "This is a governmental decision, not a private one. This is not private enterprise at work.'

"You poke and it will pop out the other side," cautioned Robert Hart, of Harvard Road, "What is the definative plan to solve the rest of the city's traffic problems.

'Split decision' When not in the school, the father. in tax fraud trial

By Tom Greenwood

The tax rebellion of Farms resident Stuart Crane may have come to an end last week when the Cloverly Road resident was found guilty by a federal court jury of two counts of tax evasion for the years 1979 and 1980.

Crane was also found not guilty of the same charges for 1977 and 1978 and the jury was unable to reach a decision on additional charges of obstruction of justice and making false declarations before a grand jury.

Crane faces up to five years in prison and/or $10,000 in fines on each of the two counts of tax evasion and will also be subject to additional civil tax, penalties and interest, according to a press re-lease from the U.S. Department of Justice.

The testimony at trial indicated that Crane, a former accounting professor who holds a Ph.D in business from Indiana University and is a former Dean of the Business School at Bob Jones University, had evaded $27,315.35 in taxes for 1979 and $82,181.28 for 1980. He is expected to be sentenced in about two months, according to Mary Beth Gravel, of the Criminal Investigation Division of the IRS.

Crane was tried before Federal District Court Judge Avern Cohn who chastised Crane as a "tax protester who wants to use the benefits of society without paying for them." Judge Cohn also told Crane to "clean up his act" before sen-

Crane's conviction last week came on the heels of his December, 1983 conviction on 15 counts of tax fraud brought against him by the state of Michigan. In that case, Crane was also found not guilty of two counts of tax fraud involving his alleged withholding of cigarette taxes

Crane was sentenced by Recorders Court Judge Warfield Moore to three years probation.

Crane's trouble with state and federal authorities began in December, 1986 when Michigan treasury officials and the FBI raided his home and confiscated $150,000 in currency and merchandise. At his arraignment in 1982, Crane claimed that the state had

Adults can learn job skills; computer training to para-legal

Once again this fall the Grosse Pointe public school system will offer a wide range of non-credit and vocational classes for adults. Whether your interest is in computers, in learning how to operate a high-pressure boiler, in such basics as shorthand and typing, or in the fundamentals of accounting, the department of Community Education has something for you.

A four-week class, "Employability Skills and Job Placement" begins on Tuesday, Sept. 25. A single session class, "Job Stress," will be held on Saturday, Oct. 6. "Job Interviewing," will be held on Sat-urday, Oct. 20. A companion offering, "Resume Writing" will be held on Saturday, Nov. 3, and "Job Search Skills," will be held on Saturday, Nov. 10.

Again this year the department of Community Education will co-sponsor with the American Institute for Paralegal Studies, Inc. a 15-week class in "Paralegal Training," slated to meet twice weekly beginning Monday, Sept. 24.

Offerings for those interested in computers include "Basic Programming," a 10-week class offered from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays beginning Sept. 18 and "Exposure to Software," a six-week class to be held from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays beginning Sept. 24.
In addition, five-week classes in introductory "Basic Programming" will begin on Monday, Sept. 17, while a five-week "Hands-On Introduction" begins Monday, Oct.

New-for-fall is a 10-week class, 'Introduction to PASCAL,'' slated to start on Oct. 15.

Two sections of "Personal Computers: An Introduction" will begin on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

Dr. Michael Skaff, of Academic Research Systems, will teach a single-session class, "A Simple Introduction to Home Computers," designed to answer questions about the kind of equipment one might purchae, depending on individual needs and preference.

YMCA will open child care center

The Lakeshore Family YMCA will hold the grand opening of its Child Care Center for full and half days, beginning Tuesday, Sept. 4. The center is open to 2½ to 6-year children from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. and is licensed by the state of Michigan. The director is Judith Moore. Call 778-5811 for further in-

"Software Introduction" is scheduled to be introduced in two five-week classes, one beginning Sept. 18, the other Oct. 23. A three-week class, "Spread Sheets," is slated to begin on Thursday, Sept. 20.

A three-week class, "Word Processing on the Apple" will begin on Monday, Oct. 22. "Word Processing on the IBM-PC" also a threeweek class, will begin on Sept. 20

The basic secretarial skills have not been neglected in the fall roster of classes of the department of Community Education. "Short-hand - Beginning" will start on Monday, Sept. 17, as will "Short-hand Review." Two typing classes, beginning and intermediate, are stated to start on Monday, Sept. 17 and on Wednesday, Sept. 19.

"Accounting - Beginning" is offered both as evening and daytime classes beginning the week of Sept.

Another option for the fall is "Boiler Operation," a 10-week class starting Sept. 19.

Complete details on the fall program of the department of Community Education will be found in the flyer being mailed to all residences in the Grosse Pointe School District the week of Aug. 27.

For further information on fall offerings, please call 343-2178.

Council extends benefits of sick public safety officer

The Woods council approved an allowance for a public safety officer whose sick time ran out six weeks before he was scheduled to return to work after undergoing bypass

The council approved the payment to Sgt. James Davidson at the Monday, Aug. 20, council meeting. the undetermined amount of the allowance would cover Aug. 4 to Sept. 1, the day Davidson returns to work.

In a letter to the council, Davidson said he underwent the double bypass last February. His combined sick and vacation days ran out May 28 but a donation from other officers carried him through July 16, Davidson said. Without the city's help, he would payless for about six weeks, he added

Although initially denied Work-men's Compensation benefits, Davidson said he plans to appeal his case and there is precedent for him receiving compensation. It could take 10 to 12 months before the appeal is ruled on, but he would work out a payment schedule should he lose his appeal, Davidson added.

On the advise of City Attorney George Catlin, the council approved the payment of the monthly allowance to cover the last month, providing Davidson pursue his case with Workmen's Conpensation.

If Davidson wins, he is to repay the city, with credit given for at-torney fees deducted from the reschedule that is acceptable to both parties is to be developed, according to the resolution.

Catlin told the council that heart ailments among police and fire personnel are now considered to be work-related disabilities. Each case, however, still requires a hearing before an appeal panel, he added.

Colecchia resigns post

The Woods council accepted the resignation of Brys Drive resident Othello Colecchia from the city's Tree and Beautification Advisory commissions at the Monday night, Aug. 20, meeting.
Colecchia said in a letter to the council the resignation was "dictated by both work-related and personal demands on my available time.

Colecchia said he would like to continue his membership on the ci-Community Development Block Grant Commission Advisory Commission.

The council also asked that a certificate of appreciation be sent to Colecchia for his service. Mayor George Freeman said participation by residents on the city's commissions was an important part of the community.

Parking deck plans approved provement Co., whose partners in-

By Mike Andrejczyk

The parking problems on the Hill should ease considerably in a cou-ple of years after the completion of Cottage Hospital's proposed parking deck and support services facility on Muir Road across from the hospital, officials said.

With a few strings attached, the Farms council unanimously approved the hospital's site plan for the 370-space deck.

The parking deck will be located north of the city's metered and reserved lots behind the Hill shops. On the lower level of the deck would be the hospital's support services facility, which would allow renovation and expansion within the current facility, hospital officials said.

The council put five conditions on its approval Monday night, Aug. 13, that the hospital will have to meet.

The necessary easement agreements between the hospital, city and Kercheval Investment Co., which plans a commercial development in the area, will have to be reached within one year, the council said. If no agreements are made, the hospital can come to the council for an extension.

Water and sewer service for the deck and the support service building will need to meet guidelines set by the city's engineering firm, Hubbell, Roth and Clark, according to the council. Hospital officials said they will be able to meet the standards set in the engineering study.

The hospital will also have to come back to the council for approval of screening for a loading dock at the rear of the parking deck. The loading dock will serve the support services building and will be just north of the Hill metered lot. Cottage wil also have to lease 110 off-site parking spaces to provide parking during the construction of the deck

The city also asked that a number of parking spaces in the deck be made available to Hill merchants through lease or transfer agreements.

Cottage first received approval for the parking deck and support service facility in May, 1982. Subsequent approval would have been needed to cover the renovation of the current hospital, officials said. Time ran out on the first certificate of need last November.

The hospital began the lengthy process again. Approval comes from the federal Department of Health and Human Services. Along the way, the plan must collect the recommendations of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Southeastern Michigan and the state Department of Public Health. The earliest possible approval would come in April, 1985.

Were the hospital able to break ground right after approval, the deck would be finished and operating within a year, officials said.

Some departments will be able to expand by shifting functions to the support services building, Cottage officials said. By shifting laundry, computer and administrative space to the new building, Cottage will be able to add a new ambulatory surgery theater and expand its intensive care unit.

Besides the parking deck, the widening of Muir, McMillan and Kercheval Roads is planned to handle the increased truck and vehicular traffic. An increase of 20 percent was predicted when the hospital unveiled its plan last spring to Hill merchants.

The council also gave its approval last meeting to a proposed commercial building at the corner of Muir and Kercheval. The plans were presented by Kercheval Imarea. The houses were called ugly and uninhabitable by councilmemclude Bologna Construction and Peter Bologna, who was present at the meeting, said he would come back before the council in September to give a date for the removal of unoccupied homes in the project

Standard Federal Savings.

In addition, Bologna said the underground fuel storage tanks at a vacant gas station at the north end of the Kercheval block will be removed within three months. The tanks are currently filled with water, he added.

The commercial building plans include a service drive between the new building and the parking deck, allowing access to Muir Road. A driveway for service windows for Standard Federal Savings first floor offices are also proposed.

Bologna said he would like to keep his options open on three parcels involved in the parking deck proposal. Should the hospital not receive its approvals or the project founder, Bologna said he would like to rent the commercial land. He added that offers of longterm leases on the commercial property had been rejected based on the strength of the Cottage project.

Hospital officials said the cost of its project was still under discussion. Bologna could not be reached for his comment

Get that bus card

When school bells ring next week youths 6 to 18 years old with proper identification may ride large buses operated by the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, SEMTA, at all times of the day for the reduced rate of 75 cents base fare plus zone charges.

The regular fare on SEMTA large buses is $1 plus 25 cents per zone.

Proper identification includes a school identification card if it contains a date of birth, a driver's license, or the SEMTA Youth Fare identification card. The SEMTA Youth card can be acquired by filling out a form available at SEMTA and mailing it with a 1-by-11/4-inch photo to: SEMTA Youth Fare, P.O. Box 333, Detroit. MI 48231. The form will be sent by calling SEMTA at 962-5515.

Now through Sept. 30, applications will be processed free. After Oct. 1, the cost will be $1.

On weekends, youths may ride on all SEMTA large buses for a flat fare of 50 cents, with proper iden-tification. There are no zone charges on weekends.

For further information, call SEMTA's Customer Information Center, 962-5515, weekdays from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

A GOP peek at 1988

The Republican convention in Dallas not only served as a pep rally for the 1984 election but it also provided an opportunity for the party to showcase its candidates for 1988.

EVERYONE KNEW IN advance that the Reagan-Bush ticket would be nominated again at last week's convention but nobody knows who will emerge as President Reagan's successor as party leader and presidential candidate in 1988. The only thing certain about the GOP prospects for four years hence is that Ronald Reagan is barred by the 22nd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution from running for a third term. That accounts for the early interest in 1988, especially because Reagan would be too old to run then if he were upset this year. Michigan Republicans, heavily supported by those in the Grosse Pointes, gave their votes to George Bush in the 1980 presidential primary but then easily switched to the Reagan-Bush ticket which won the state in the 1980 general election. President Reagan described Bush at the convention as the "best vice president in history," but that doesn't necessarily mean that Bush will inherit the Reagan mantle. In fact, Bush still is regarded warily by some conservative Republicans, not only because he ran against Reagan in the 1980 primaries but because he still hasn't shown himself to be conservative enough to satisfy the party's right wing. One Alabama delegate at Dallas withheld his vote from Bush because he felt the vice president wasn't receptive enough to his group's view-

WHILE BUSH STILL is one of the leading candidates for 1988, assuming the victory of the GOP ticket this year, he isn't the only one. Some conservatives, including some in the Michigan GOP delegation, prefer Rep. Jack Kemp of New York who is seeking to position himself as the inheritor of the president's positions on economics and similar issues. Kemp supports the administra-

Not the route to cooperation

Everyone knows that Detroit's economy strongly influences the economy of the entire metropolitan area and the state as a whole. So most people in Michigan hope that Detroit's economic condition improves and do what they can to help it. Yet suburban residents sometimes find it difficult to adopt a supportive attitude in view of Mayor Coleman Young's continued carping about the suburbs.

THE MAYOR'S REACTION to the conviction of the defendants in the Vista Disposal trial is a case in point. After a federal jury had convicted former Detroit Water and Sewerage Director Charles Beckham and businesswoman Darralyn Bowers on all counts, the mayor opened up with a barrage of criticism against the federal prosecutors, the Detroit news media and, once again, the suburbs Young contended the Vista convictions were related to attempts by suburban Detroit officials to place the city's water and sewer system under regional control through proposed state legislation and pending lawsuits. In a speech to a group of black businessmen and women. Young said the Vista case "was really all about control," and added that "we ask for the cooperation of the suburbs," not their "permission."

The mayor also sounded off about "racism" in Detroit and Michigan and contended that the Vista verdict reflected the "overt racism" in the area. He said the federal prosecutors had not proven that Beckham received bribes and called it "a classic case of entrapment." And he defended Mrs. Bowers as an outstanding black busi-tion's supply-side economics while conservative Republicans remember with bitterness that Bush called it "voodoo economics" in the 1980 primary campaign.

Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas is another 1988 prospect, although he is regarded as more of a moderate Republican than a conservative. Dole during his showcase appearance at the convention even proposed that the party reach out for voters not now responding to the Reagan magic. The ultraconservatives prefer people they feel comfortable with, which means Dole will have to show strength in the primaries or in other ways to win much consideration in 1988. Another moderate Republican is retiring from the Senate this year to start his 1988 campaign. He is Senate Major Leader Howard Baker, Jr., of Tennessee who also gave a brief platform performance in Dallas. He has generally been a strong supporter of the President's programs in the Senate but often has argued for moderation or compromise in order to win half a loaf rather than nothing in deciding controversial issues.

Not all of the 1988 GOP hopefuls decorate the Washington scene. At least two governors, Pierre S. du Pont of Delaware and James Thompson of Illinois, also have been mentioned. And as time goes on new names are likely to be added to the list of prospects and some of those now being considered will be counted out for one reason or another.

IN FACT, IT'S really too early to do more than speculate about 1988 at this juncture. The party itself prefers to focus attention on 1984 in order to avoid the risks of apathy and overconfidence as well as premature choosing up of sides that could hurt the 1984 ticket. History shows that events often assist in the elimination process that will take place in the next four years, but sometimes they put forward a new candidate, such as Wendell Willkie in 1940. Events could do the same for 1988, to the chagrin of those now in the running.

nesswoman who had been prosecuted because the Detroit city administration had seen to it that qualified black people had obtained city con-

IT IS TRUE, of course, that federal prosecutors in the first Vista trial had tried unsuccessfully to have Young himself declared an unindicted coconspirator. And it is also true that the convictions reflect on the mayor himself because Beckham headed one of the city departments and Mrs. Bowers was a friend of Young's. So the mayor is naturally defensive about the convic-

Yet the mayor's carping about racism and his criticism of the suburbs hardly tends to bring about the cooperation from the suburbs that he seeks. Many suburban residents own property and pay real estate taxes in Detroit. Many work and have offices in Detroit. Those who earn their living in Detroit pay income taxes to Detroit. And many suburbanites join Detroiters in supporting Detroit cultural and educational institutions such as the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Detroit Public Library, and the Detroit Zoo.

BUT ABOUT ALL the suburban residents get in return from the mayor is his continued criticism. True, he's running for reelection and he finds it politically useful to make the suburbs and the federal bureaucracy scapegoats for many of Detroit's problems. But cooperation between the central city and its suburbs must be a two-way street which must be traveled by officials from Detroit as well as by those from the

Frustrations on the freeways

MOST OF US ARE heavily dependent on the freeways. We usually take them for granted and reach our destinations in the metropolitan area with a minimum of trouble, even in peak traffic periods. But when the freeways are being repaired, driving on them is something else again.

If motorists know in advance what is happening with respect to freeway repairs, they can make plans for alterate routes to mitigate their delays. But when they are caught in what could be regarded as capricious closings and detours. there is little that they can do but accept the inevitable delays.

The Detroit News recently put together a map of the tricounty road disruptions which in general served as a useful guide of routes to avoid. But the best information it provided with respect to I-94 was that the freeway "may be closed entirely from 7 p.m. to 6 a.m. nightly and from 7 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. Monday." True enough, drivers sometimes found the freeway open and sometimes found it closed, often without any advance warning on the freeway itself.

The Michigan Automobile Association gets no better information than the News obtained. Asked about conditions on the I-94 freeway between the Pointes and the airport, the AAA road service could only say that it might be closed one way or both ways after 7 p.m. It offered sympathy and an alternate route but added that it could not obtain specific information about the time of freeway closings.

WE THINK BETTER planning is possible and necessary, especially in metropolitan areas. If officials and contractors could do a better job of posting instructions and advice about alternate routes and detours, they could reduce the traffic on freeways on which several traffic lanes are being closed.

To the Editor: I think it is time the residents of the Grosse Pointes stand back and make a judgement on speeding in our communities. Except where posted, the speed limit is 25 mph. Unfortunately, that limit is a joke on most of the streets in my neighborhood.

Has anyone traveled on Kercheval, Ridge Road, Charle-voix or Fisher Road lately and observed the prevailing speed by motorists? Come sit on my front porch on Fisher Road and watch the speed to which many motorists accelerate from Ridge to Charlevoix. It seems impossible that any sane driver could go from 0 to 45 mph and stop again in one block. But they do, and in shameful num-

Drive down Kercheval from the Hill to the Village at the posted speed and get ready for cars piling up behind you and the drivers overtly expressing their frustration. Pick any street from Cadieux to Kerby and watch the racetrack on Charlevoix.

What is going on here? As with most problems, there may be several answers

1. The average driver thinks 25 mph is too slow.

2. The average driver thinks 25 mph is just right, but they need to hurry every now and again.

3. The average driver doesn't care about the safety of the children, cyclists, walkers or joggers that so courageously use or cross our streets.

4. The average driver rarely sees the police give a traffic ticket to speeders, so they think it must be all right to speed.

5. Things like this just happen. Speed keeps creeping up until the police crack down.

6. There really isn't a problem. No one is complaining and a child hasn't been killed recently;

I tell you what I think. Whatever reason is given, it's not good enough. Communities, by definition, are a gathering of people who collectively decide on the quality of life for themselves, their families and their neighbors. I think we are giving our children some very mixedup and confusing messages. Speeding is not OK; it is against the law. Do you know who speeds down my street? Not the kids coming down from South High, but mothers in station wagons and fathers in sedans: men and women who should know better.

Should the police get involved? I know they could fatten the city wallets considerably if they did. I think most of us want these public servants to do more important work for us. This is an issue we need to take care of. Let's start now to drive just under the speed limit.

Soon, it might even become vogue. Won't we be justifiably proud when guests come into our neighborhoods and see everyone driving a safe and sane speed. We can look them square in the eye and say, "This is a very safe place to live — people care about each other here."

From now until Thanksgiving Day, each driver who agrees we need to help each other slow down and obey the law should use your parking lights while driving in the Pointes. This simple gesture will remind us of a commitment we have to each other to respect the quality of life we have in our very special community.

Robert Johnston Grosse Pointe City

Don't listen to the bureaucrats

To the Editor:

In reference to letters to the editor from Joe Callahan, 26 and August 16, 1984:

In urging further economy in the school district, Mr. Callahan alleged that some schools "... had empty classrooms and idle staffs." Really? Really! I wonder why no tax-paying citizen has written to ask that this charge be substantiated. I wonder why neither Board lministrator has responded to this charge in a public forum to either confirm or deny its accuracy.

It should not have been dismissed as merely a continuation of the post-board election vituperation. Did Mr. Callahan actually see "empty classrooms and [an] idle staff" at South? How many classrooms were empty how many periods during the six-hour day? How many teachers ("idle staff" is a euphemism for "teachers"?) had fewer than the contractual five assignments? How many classes contained fewer than, say, 25 students? Did Mr. Callahan dutifully report this waste of tax money to the Board? What was the reaction of likewise economy-minded "management team''?

I also wonder if Mr. Callahan is aware that staff (read "teacher") reductions have, with far less publicity, paralleled the enrollment decline, on a percentage basis, of course. Given his expertise with figures what would he deduct from: 1) a reduced enrollment; 2) a reduced staff; 3) a curriculum offering as many if not more courses as in the peak enrollment years; and, 4) class sizes which miraculously increase as the enrollment declines? If his computer still prints out an 'idle staff," then so much for statistics or his computer!

As for the alleged rise in education costs, my parents in 1934 bought a brand new Plymouth for $499. The 1984 model of the car I purchased in 1979 has doubled in price to more than $10,000. Would Mr. Callahan have us return to the horse and buggy days in either transportation or education? Either would save money, though I understand that even "hay" is more expensive today.

Doesn't Mr. Callahan realize that statistics can be used to prove almost anything the statistician chooses? For example, the Tigers have the fourth best batting average and the se-cond best ERA in the American League East (.270 and 3.62, Free Press and News, 8/19/84). It could be argued that this averages out to a third-place team. Then why are they in first place by 11 games (8/19/84)?

Because games are won or lost on the field, not with comuter print-outs from American League's statistical offices; just as education takes place in the classroom, not in computer print-outs from 389 St. Clair. Because statistics can be used selectively; because even if "accurate," statistics are devoid of the human element.

How much could one learn of the Soviet Union if his research was limited to Kremlin hand-outs? Would Mr. Callahan depend only on bureaucrats of Washington and Lansing in studying the United States and Michigan? I think Mr. Callahan has mistaken the "friendly" bureaucrats of 389 St. Clair with their computer and files for the Grosse Pointe Public School System.

The school system really consists of students and teachers in classrooms for whom bureaucrats and files and computers are sometimes superfluous, if not a hindrance.

I wonder if Mr. Callahan wouldn't be better advised to reverse and expand his costeffective study? Begin where education happens, in the classroom, and work backward to the "Kremlin-on-St. Clair." it could change his perception of the alleged "waste" or where the "waste" exists.

From the Convention.

By C.S. Tompkins

It was 1928: the place; El Paso, Texas. My father called me. "Charles, it is most important you get out and vote. We can't afford to lose the election to the Demo-

I had graduated college and gone to Texas to begin my career selling printing presses. I had never voted. My family was staunchly Republican and I have never voted any other way.

The Dallas GOP Convention was the sixth I have attended. At most of the others, I have been a delegate. This time I was a press representative for the Grosse Pointe News. A press badge gets you most places. My wife Jean was a press representative for the Main Sheet. a monthly publication for the Detroit Yacht Club.

Our Michigan delegation was housed at the Marriot Hotel. There were meetings, gatherings, breakfasts, lunches and dinners during the whole week. The hotel was about an hour's ride from the convention headquarters, so buses picked up passengers every half hour for convention headquarters and other places where there was convention business.

Every day new passes were given to delegates, alternates and guests. Delegates sat closest to the speakers, followed by alternates and finally guests. Many delegate and alternate passes were exchanged with guests so the guests could get on the convention floor and see what was going on.

Groups of several hundred gathered in areas adjoining the main auditorium to watch the television screens and listen to the speakers. The 2,235 delegates and 2,235 alternates were only a small part of the total audience at the convention. Most of the delegates and alternates felt Dallas had done a good job handling the convention. Those who had attended the GOP convention in Detroit in 1980 agreed Dallas had done an outstanding job but it didn't come up to what we did in Detroit.

In traveling home by car with Marty and Jim Miller of Grosse Pointe, we stopped in East Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio and everywhere we stopped, we talked with natives about the convention and who they supported. In all those great numbers, only one person we talked to was not going to vote for Ronald Reagan and George Bush.

Many wanted us to send them bumper stickers and pins.

One of the most prominent people Jean and I met was former astronaut Jack Lousma, GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate in Michigan. We also met Senators Strom Thurmond and John Tower as well as Congressmen Gingrich of Georgia and Tom Loeffler of Hunt,

Texas and Sen. Jepsen of Iowa. Michigan notables at the convention included Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, Richard Headlee, Ronna Romney Frank Stella, Spencer Abraham, Robert Griffin, Clark Durant, chairman of the 13th GOP district (which includes the City and Park), Terry Gilensan, chairman of the 14th GOP District (which contains the Woods, Shores and Farms) and 14th District treasurer Jim Miller. Among the Grosse Pointe delegates were Jerry Webster, Jerry Swan and Mike

Former Michigan Governor William Milliken appeared at many of the functions as well as Paul Gadola, chairman of the Reagan/ Bush campaign in Michigan.

We met James Brady, his wife Sahra and 5-year-old son Scott, at breakfast outside Dallas. Brady was the president's press secretary who was severely injured in the 1981 assasination attempt on the president.

Brady remains handicapped and was traveling by motor van. He was at the 1980 Detroit convention and recalled the Detroit Yacht Club had given a lot of people attending the convention boat rides. Twenty-two of the 50 state delegations were so entertained.

So another great Republican convention has ended and we are back home making the hopes of Ronald Reagan and George Bush come true in November. If that happens, expect four more years of prosper-

UNICEF is working hard

To the Editor:

It has come to my attention that the July 12 edition of the Grosse Pointe News carried a letter to the editor from a Lee M. Corless of Grosse Pointe Woods.

This letter makes several incorrect allegations concerning both the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom and the United Nations Children's Fund, UNICEF. He also appeared to challenge our motive and legitimate right to meet in Grosse Pointe.

A growing number of people are expressing deep concern over the danger of nuclear confrontation, as well as the spending of our material and spiritual resources in an escalating arms race, worsening the problems of unemployment, poverty, confusion and fear. Many of these concerned people are uniting with one or more coalitions to express to their governments their desire for nonviolent solutions.

The WILPF, which was founded in 1915, has always been a peace organization completely independent of political parties and governments. Our program is to work for universal disarmament, solution of international conflicts through negotiation, human rights in this country and worldwide, inter...ational understanding and exchanges and education toward these goals.

For the past 18 years the Detroit Branch of WILPF has maintained a small office staffed with volunteers throughout the year for the purpose of selling UNICEF greeting cards, stationery, calendars, children's books, games, etc. which are designed to promote better understanding and to raise money for the United Nations Children's Fund. Except for a very small mark-up, which pays the modest rental, all profits go directly to UNICEF. It is important that the general public understand that UNICEF is in no way connected with the political section of the United

The principal aid is in the form of providing highly trained technicians to assist Third World countries in building clean water projects and educational services to improve nutrition and health care for infants and young children. Best known among the latter are the "rehydration formulas" to treat diarrhea in infants, use of breast feeding and growth

Aid is provided without discrimination on the grounds of race, creed, nationality or politics. UNICEF and the countries it works with cooperate as partners at every stage of every assisted project. On the basis of careful studies of its major needs, circumstances and goals, each government in consultation with UNICEF sets its own priorities.

In recognition of these efforts, UNICEF was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1965. Three WILPF leaders have been recipients of the Nobel Peace Prize: two American women - Jane Addams, our first president, and Emily Green Balch - and recently Alva Myrdal, who is a member of the Swedish section.

It is, nevertheless, estimated in spite of the extensive work of UNICEF and other Health and Welfare agencies, some 40,000 children die each day in Third World nations as a result of malnutrition and diarrhea. UNICEF is indeed dedicated to the world's neediest children.

We are indebted to Mr. Corless and the Grosse Pointe News for giving us this opportunity to clear up these misunderstandings concerning these two worthy organizations.

Three Grosse Pointe residents were among the 10 new members recently appointed to the board of trustees of the Detroit Science Center. Dr. Andrew Dahl, James Cordes and William McCrackin will serve on the board of the center, located in the Cultural Center near downtown Detroit

Also appointed to the board were Rodkey Craighead, chairman; Francis Gogsdill, director general of the center; William Birge, Akosua Barthwell Evans, Rachel Keith, Robert Marsac, James Nette, and Stanley Stynes.

Woods council is working for everyone

To the Editor:

On Aug. 9, The Grosse Pointe News published a letter written by Larry Sullivan, a member of the Grosse Pointe Woods Boat

Yes, for 11 years Mr. Sullivan has harassed certain council members regarding unrented boat docks at the park. How-ever, removing the present bridge and building a new one at the far end of the park near Jefferson is not the solution favorable to all residents of Grosse Pointe Woods.

It would please some boaters; others would be dismayed at having to drive to the far end of the park to cross over to the side on which their boats are docked.

Then what about the other residents who want to swim in the pool, then want to go to the other side for their picnic or the playground? They would not be pleased by having to walk to the far end of the park to get across. In other words, there would be a situation where the park then became divided.

These certain council members should satisfy the needs of the majority of residents, not only boaters.

As a council member, it's difficult to please everyone, but the dedication is there. I know because I'm married to one.

College aid is tougher-not impossible-to get

With federal cutbacks and inflation eroding the real value of financial aid dollars, down 21 percent since 1980, and the costs for one year's college education at a private institution now averaging $9,500, the use of credit to finance college costs has skyrocketed.

Since 1975, the average loan per student has risen 123 percent. The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs) says that understanding what financial aid is available and how to make the most of it is crucial.

There are six aid programs funded by the federal government:

• Guaranteed Student Loans (GSLs) are subsidized by the federal government and carry an eight percent interest rate for first-time borrowers. You apply for these loans through a bank. The government will pay the interest while you're in school; repayment by the student begins six months after graduation.

You may borrow up to $2,500 a year in each of five undergraduate years. To qualify, families with income greater than $30,000 a year must meet a "needs test." But families well beyond the $30,000 income level could receive GSLs in some cases, such as if more than one child is enrolled in college.

• Pell Grants, from $200 to $1,670, are awarded to undergraduates who demonstrate a need. The amount is based on how much the cost of education at a school exceeds the amount a family can contribute. In most cases, recipients come from families with incomes under $30,000.

• Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) offer $3,000 a year at a 14 percent finance rate and expect repayment to begin 60 days after a loan is granted. Borrowers are not required to demonstrate a need. These loans should be used as a cash flow mechanism, if a family is having difficulty making payments. Repayment terms can stretch out to 10 years.

The remaining three federal aid programs are not available on every campus, so you might qualify for aid at one college but not at another.

 National Direct Student Loans (NDSLs) provide up to $6,000 during a student's first two years of undergraduate study at a five percent interest rate. Like GSLs, repayment begins six months after graduation and extends over a 10-year period.

· Supplemental Education Opportunity Grants (SOEGs) are awarded by colleges, based on need. Grants range from $200 to Work-Study offers students parttime jobs, usually on campus. To apply for federal aid programs and other private college-aid, you must file a Family Financial Statement or Financial Aid Form, which will be processed by a non-profit agency, such as the College Scholarship Service. Based on your family's income and holdings, compared against the costs of attending college, the school determines your need for aid.

For instance, the College Board expects a family of four with one college student and with a pre-tax income of $36,000, plus home equity and other assets worth $40,000, to contribute $5,020 a year towards a student's education.

Often it is worthwhile to reapply even if an aid request was rejected previously, according to Kathleen Brouder of the College Board. Loan applications are complicated, mistakes are common and rejection can be a result of technical flaws. Also, family financial conditions change. If there have been unusual medical expenses or long periods of unemployment by a wage earner in any given year, the family's financial situation should be restudied.

In arranging loans, warns Brouder, it may be best to borrow under one program. NDSLs and sponsored or state-funded financial GSLs have their own minimum monthly payment. Borrowing under a single loan program, even if it raises the costs over the long run, gives you a single minimum monthly payment, rather than two

Park firemen help at Detroit fire

Grosse Pointe Park firefighters, responding to a call in the 1200 block of Wayburn, assisted Detroit firemen who were putting out the fire directly behind that address on Alter Road.

According to Phillip Costa, Park fire chief, his men responded to Detroit firefighters' request at 11:15 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 22, and "laid hose to protect the other exposures and people on our side of Wayburn.'

Costa said he suspects arson because the fire spread so quickly and completely engulfed the vacant home. Also, neighbors nearby reported hearing the sound of breaking glass and a loud swoosh or explosion just before the blaze

AAA will hold safety workshops

To reduce pedestrian and bicycle fatalities - a major cause of death among school-aged youngsters — the Automobile Club of Michigan is holding a series of statewide workshops as part of its "School's Open - Drive Carefully" campaign.

Thirty-three youngsters aged 5 to 14 were killed in pedestrian traffic accidents last year in Michigan, compared to 29 deaths in 1982. While bicycle fatalities dropped from 28 in 1982 to 20 last year, the 5 to 14 age group still represents 45 percent of all the bicycle fatalities in Michigan.

"During the 1984-85 school year, we will hold approximately 2,100 school safety programs statewide for some 200,000 students," said Donald Yungkans, the Auto Club's Grosse Pointe manager. "The purpose of the workshops is to instruct students from pre-school through junior high school on pedestrian and bicycle safety practices."

When Grosse Pointe schools open Sept. 4 Mr. Yungkans cautioned that area motorists should be alert to the increased pedestrian traffic near and around school zones, especially during the early morning and mid-afternoon hours.

Parents also can help ensure their children's safety by teaching them the proper procedures for crossing streets. "Special attention should be given to the 142,733 students statewide who will be attending elementary school for the first time," Yungkans said.

"Dart-outs" and mid-block crossings are the major causes for most school-related traffic accidents, he pointed out.

In addition to the workshops, safety belts, badges and training booklets will be distributed by the Auto Club to 1,800 Michigan schools. Parents may pick up free "School's Open - Drive Carefully" bumper stickers and placemats from the Auto Club's 54 full-service offices statewide.

Yungkans pointed out that Michigan law requires motorists to stop at least 10 feet behind school buses with flashers on as they load or unload. Motorists should not proceed until those lights stop flashing.

Safety rules which parents should review with school-aged children include:

• Cross only at intersections. · Look in all directions before crossing streets and watch for cars turning on green lights or making

 Dress in light-colored clothing for maximum visibility.

· Follow the safest route to school, which should be planned on streets with low traffic volume and controlled intersections.

· Walk bicycles across busy intersections.

Brownell field gets improvements

Your child is burning with fever. Your family doctor isn't available. What do you do?

Saratoga General Hospital announces EXTEND-A-CARE.

Prompt, affordable after-hours medical care for minor illness.

The most unexpected things happen at the oddest times. And now, EXTEND-A-CARE is there to help you cope.

What is EXTEND-A-CARE?

It's a convenient new health care service that's available when your doctor isn't — during evening hours, on weekends and holidays. It was conceived and designed to meet the changing needs of the community served by Saratoga General Hospital.

What does EXTEND-A-CARE offer?

- Courteous, quality health care for minor medical illnesses
- Licensed physicians and professional nurses
- Prompt, no-appointment service
- Immediate access to our modern, fully-equipped emergency department, if needed
- Only $25 per visit (lab tests, x-rays, etc., if needed, extra)
- Hours: 6 p.m. 'til 12 midnight, Monday through Friday---1 p.m. 'til 12 midnight, Saturday, Sunday & Holidays

How EXTEND-A-CARE works

Come to Saratoga's Extend-A-Care Registration Desk. After you register, a nurse will record and evaluate all pertinent medical information. A physician will examine you and determine your treatment. You will also be given the necessary follow-up instructions for your condition.

If follow-up treatment is required, you will be referred to your family physician. If you don't have one, you will be given a list of physicians in your area.

It's good to know EXTEND A-CARE is there.

Some typical medical problems handled by EXTEND-A-CARE

Allergies
Ear Aches
Upset Stomach
Diarrhea

Skin Rashes
Fever
Coughs & Colds
Sore Throat

Urinary Tract Infection

Flu Bronchitis

What about insurance coverage?

Frequently, lab tests, x-rays, and other services are covered by insurance. We accept Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Medicare, Medicaid, and most insurance plans. Please bring along your insurance card or claim form. MasterCard and VISA are welcome.

EXTEND-A-CARE is your best after-hours health care choice because...

- You don't have to judge how severe your own medical condition is — so you're charged only for the level of services you need.
- Licensed professionals will examine and treat you.
- If your problem is truly minor, you pay only the low EXTEND-A-CARE fee of $25.
 If it turns out to be more serious, you have immediate access to the modern emergency department of Saratoga General Hospital.

With a complete survey, the association said it expected the number of potential jobs to increase.

Under the rules of the community development block grant program, discretionary grants can only be awarded to municipalities. The business association will then contract through the Woods to run the program while the city distributes the money, the association

Under the project, the association will seek low and moderate income residents of the area and match them with area businesses who are looking for help. The association will also help employers by informing them of job training programs available through the county Economic Development Corporation for which businesses might be eligible.

The project is meant to create or retain jobs in the businesses along Mack, making those jobs available to Grosse Pointe residents who meet the program's guidelines, according to the association. Low or moderate income is based on individual earnings, not family income, the association added.

The $71,500 will include $65,000 for the actual project and $6,500 for the Woods' expenses in administration.

With its approvals in place by October, the association will be ready to establish its office, hire one full-time worker and start the project by the first of next year.

From January to June, the association will conduct its survey of the businesses. From March to May, residents of the participating Grosse Pointe communities will be contacted by mail to find those looking

From May to December next year, residents will be interviewed by the association's staff to determine their potential employment and needed training.

The EDC will pay half the wages of a qualifying employee during the training program, while the employer pays the other half, according to the association. Between local businesses and the EDC, the association estimates $3 million will be spent on employe training.

In September, 1985, the association will decide whether the program is successful enough to be continued past its Dec. 21 deadline. An evaluation of the project will then be submitted to the Woods at the end of November.

The Woods council voted 4-2 to sponsor the program. Councilmen John Sabol and Paul Beaupre dissented, saying a $15,000 community energy management program was "buried" in the economic development program. Councilman Ted Bidigare was absent.

Dr. Robert Linthicum, representing the association, said although the association showed funds for the energy project, the state Department of Energy was unlikely to approve the association's application. The energy program received little support when presented to the Park, Farms, City and Woods councils last

One of life's great sorrows is the Platitudes will not help. Time does not heal and keeping a stiff upper lip is not the way to go through life.

For most people the cycle will not be complete unless they share their grief with someone who has been through a similar experience.
The Rev. Kenneth Czillinger, who formed a support group in Cincinnati in 1975 for the newly widowed and has since helped to establish 20 others in the area, speaks on how valuable those who have been in the same situation can be in helping others to go on.

'They learn that death can be an opportunity for awakening, that dying people teach respect for the present moment. It's a miracle to see the widowed heal and decide to be glad they are alive," he says.

To address the problem, the American Association of Retired Persons, AARP, helped fund research on various problems conwidowed begins to wonder if it is nected with widowhood. Out of that came a proposal by AARP's Crisis Support Program to create a Widowed Persons Service, WPS.

In 1983, through 154 programs in 37 states Widowed Persons Service provided vital counsel and assistance to 115,000 newly widowed

"It can be as simple as helping the deceased's to get clothes sorted and deciding what to do with them. Friends and families tend to rush through something like that they're uncomfortable with it but a volunteer is willing to listen, to talk about what a particular garment represents, to allow the person to experience grief, to discuss their spouses and realize that it's okay to feel these things. A volunteer may stay by a newly-widowed person about a month. By then that person is usually able to cope. It is deemed unwise to let the newly-widowed make a career of widowhood and keep hanging on. WPS offers a 16-page booklet "On Being Alone," which contains advice on emotional concerns, housing choices, and financing for those who are newly widowed. Persons who would like a copy may contact WPS at Box B11, 1909 K Street, N.W. Washington, D.C. 20049. They may also request information on programs in their area.

Statistics show widowed men have a more difficult time than women. They tend to remarry hastily and are more prone to sui-

This is particularly true if the widower is retired, because over the years he has been so taken up with work that he's neglected to cultivate leisure time interests and activities.

Women who are left alone keep themselves busy maintaining their home, shopping and visiting with friends. Traditionally, men have been the breadwinners. Although this situation is rapidly changing, there are widows who have had not chance to develop skills to earn a

They were not only economically dependent, they were discouraged from learning about the management of money, beyond the handling of household expenses and a personal allowance.

If they were fortunate to inherit enough to maintain their life style, the complexities of the world of investment are a strange and unexplored territory.

There are courses available through which a woman can learn about stocks, bonds and money markets. Those who take them find learning stimulating, particularly when learning about something that is theirs.

A woman alone has other things to learn if she plans to stay in her home. Again, there are courses that will help to make that possible. Household repairs, gardening techniques and maintenance of automobiles, can be learned in adult education courses. Even if the tasks are never attempted, learning how makes women alone more knowledgable when it comes to discussing what needs to be done. Learning new skills can give a person a sense of independence and keep them so busy they will have less time to brood over the past. It equips them for the voyage. It helps them become responsible for themselves even when there are thos willing to do the job for them.

Learning to live alone takes a while and requires a certain amount of resolution not only in the area of taking care of finances and maintaining a home but in other aspects of life also.

As a couple, social contacts were no problem. The person alone may hesitate to accept invitations because they feel out of place in the company of married friends. After awhile they begin to lose contact with former friends and drift into a lonely existence.

When this happens it becomes difficult to build a social life again but it is necessary to lead a full life.

Often people form closer friendship than married couples. Confidences may be shared with a variety of people making it possible to have a wider support network to draw upon in tough times than if there was solely a husband or wife to turn to.

After losing a spouse through death — and this is true of divorce too - many men and women are able to become more independent as people, to have a greater sense of themselves as individuals.

Being alone can provide an opportunity to become more independent, more self-sufficient, and a more interesting person — a person the beloved one who is gone would be proud of were he or she

Thieves look for easy pickings

Grosse Pointe Park police continue to warn residents against leaving personal belongings in kitchens, doorways, and other areas near an outside exit.

On Saturday morning, Aug. 18, a family living in the 1200 block of Audubon discovered $500 was taken from the family's purses and wallets during the night.

The thief, who entered through a rear window, also took car keys that were on the kitchen table and stole the car.

A resident living in the 1200 block of Wayburn lost $120 and her purse that she had hanging on a coat tree in her front hall. Evidently, a passerbly saw the purse, pushed in the screen door and made off with it, police said.

Immunize your child before school starts

Summer is coming to a close and the beginning of the school year is rapidly approaching. This year don't let your loved ones start school unprotected.

Make sure your children are properly immunized against dangerous infectious diseases. All 50 states now require proof of immunization before a child can either start school or enroll in a new school.

Yet millions of preschool children are still not adequately immunized. As a result, epidemics can and do break out. It's up to parents to make sure that their children have all the necessary vaccinations.

This and other vital immunization information is contained in "Immunization: When and Why," a leaflet in Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's Staying Well

Vaccinations should be administered to children as young as two months to prevent such dangerous childhood diseases as diphtheria, pertussis (whooping tetanus. cough), polio, rubella, measles and

There are some instances perhaps because of illness or allergy - in which a child should not receive a particular immunization. Check with your physician to explain this and ask the doctor to discuss all possible side effects from immunization.

To help parents keep track of necessary vaccinations, the Metro-politan leaflet contains a suggested vaccination schedule and a sample immunization record. It's important to obtain the official state im. munization record form either from your doctor or from the city or county health department.

Take this record form with you each time you take your child for a medical checkup so that the doctor can record any vaccine dose given along with the date and sign the form. This immunization record provides the evidence needed when a child is ready to enter school, go to camp or when a family moves and must begin with a new doctor. You can keep the original record for your files and give the school a Near Bell, of the Village Food Market on Mack, said it's unfor-tunate for the independents that Kroger's reopened, that they've got everything people want. He, too, is offering service, 30 more feet of floor space, more groceries and a cold and hot deli counter in his remodeled store.

"Management in large stores push stock," said Bell. "They don't have time to talk to customers. Service is one of the ways an independent can compete with a chain.

And how does Kroger's feel about reopening?

Well, one Kroger employe, who asked to remain anonymous, said response to the already opened 16 stores "has been tremendous. The Village store has done about 70 percent of a normal week's sale the first three days it was open.'

He said Kroger's didn't suffer much during the August closing because most people are on vacation that month.

"I personally feel they'll get their old customers back because a lot have complained that other chains deliberately raised prices, have dirty stores and long waiting lines," he added.

torney, John Carlisle. "A tax eva-sion case is tough. There's only been three aquittals in the U.S. in the past five years. Your chances aren't too good any time the government gets involved in it.

'At my closing arguments I really thought we were going to win it," continued Carlisle. "Being found not guilty on two of the tax evasion charges shows it was a close call. As for the obstruction of justice and perjury mistrial, well, that really surprised me. I thought we would have an outright acquittal. Mr. rane is somewhat disillusioned. What with the little that the government proved and with all the discrepencies we showed,. it was really a strong case for us.'

Carlisle said that Crane hadn't decided whether or not to appeal the findings of the trial, and that a decision would be made in the next two weeks.

"I thought the jury bent over backwards to convict Mr. Crane," said Carlisle. "Being found guilty of two charges and not guilty on two identical charges doesn't serve the interests of justice or my client. There was no logic there. It was a compromise decision.'

Carlisle said Crane's spirits were "good in spite of the jury's findings and that in fact, "Crane's spirits were higher than my own.

Carlisle said he wouldn't comment on what Crane's sentencing would involve, but that the 'judge's attitude seemed to indicate a harsh sentencing.'

Warras, 40, and his wife Betsy make their home in the City. He holds a Bachelors of Arts in psychology from the University of Detroit and a teaching certificate and Master's degree from Wayne State University, where Warras is currently in the doctoral program for research and evaluation in education.

One of the first things he wants to do is "get to know the kids, parents and the staff" at his new school as well as "establish priorities and implement those most in need of implementation.

To do that, Warras says he will develop two-way "principal forums" between himself and parents to give both sides a chance to talk about what they see as most important. It was a practice he started at Maire, Warras adds.

The High Ability program and its implementation is one exciting thing about the coming year, according to Warras, but he's also happy with the proposed co-curriculum program, where outside help can be hired by the school to start computer or chess clubs. Warras says he would also like to establilsh a science room at Kerby.

He came to the school district in 1969, starting as a sixth grade teacher at Poupard. He went to Mason as first assistant principal in 1978, and later that year went on to become principal at Maire. besides those duties at Kerby, Warras will share the administrative tasks at Brownell.

When school's out, Warras says he enjoys sailing, and photo-graphy. During the winter, he and Betsy do a little cross-country skiing, Warras adds.

A high-visability administrator, Warras says he wants to be "very visible with the kids ... very supportive of the staff . . . and very involved with the parents."

From Another Pointe Of View By Janes Mueller

A little traveling music, please . . . for officers and directors of the Detroit Review Club, celebrating its 93rd birthday this November, who will have tales of summer journeys far and wide to tell at DRC's 1984-85 season kickoff luncheon and program Tuesday, Sept. 11, at the Village Club of Bloomfield Hills.

DRC's new president is a former Pointer, Mrs. Justin Emery, who now resides in Mount Clemens. Win Emery and her sister, Mrs. Norman Henderson, vacationed in Canada this summer.

Actually, Win took her BIG 1984 trip early in the year, heading Down Under to visit the Gibson family who reside in a lovely suburb of Sydney, Australia. The Gibsons had visited Win a few years ago, and during their visit attended that DRC season's kickoff luncheon at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club.

Win was wined and dined at various private clubs, got a beautiful sun tan at the Gibsons' pool, and returned home in time for DRC's spring benefit party at Lochmoor Club, which she chaired. En route across the Pacific, she stopped off in Hawaii and Tahiti. New Zealand was also on her destination list.

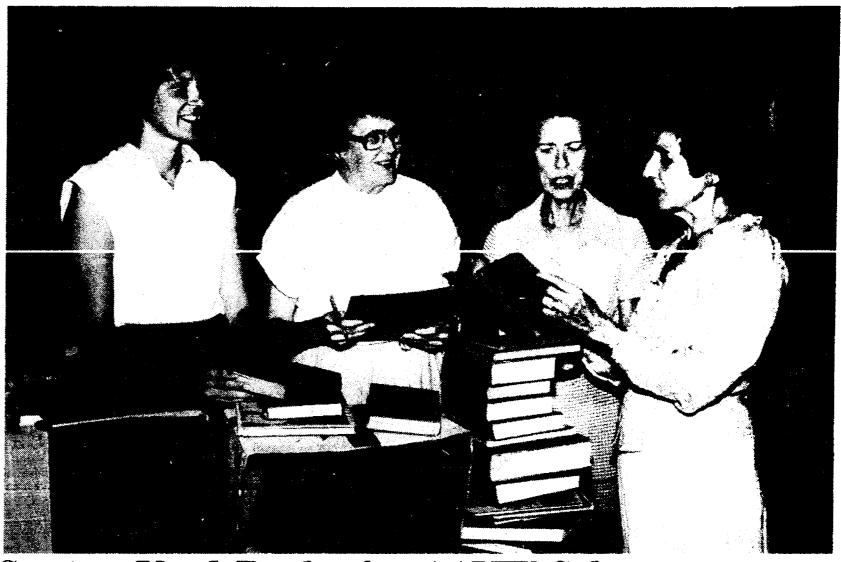

Grosse Pointer Mrs. William Bradley, the DRC's new corresponding secretary, and her husband traveled to England with an English-Speaking Union group. They were entertained in private homes, including that of Lady Onslow, who was Winston Churchill's secretary during the World War II years, and visited friends in Glasgow and Edinburgh, Scotland. The Bradleys wound up their summer trip in New York City, visiting their daughter.

Also off to England — for the 11th time! — was Pointer Mrs. Frank Welcenbach, a retiring director of the DRC and the club's official photographer. Kay Welcenbach, who attended London University, rendezvoused with old school friends and visited the Cotswold Country, famous for its beautiful homes and gardens, some dating back to the 12th century.

Kay is a docent at Grosse Pointe's own Cotswold manor, the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, as well as at Cranbrook and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. Before leaving for England with fellow Pointer Mrs. Fred Gies (Gladys is a former DRC treasurer), she set up a photo session with local ladies who will serve on DRC's new board of directors.

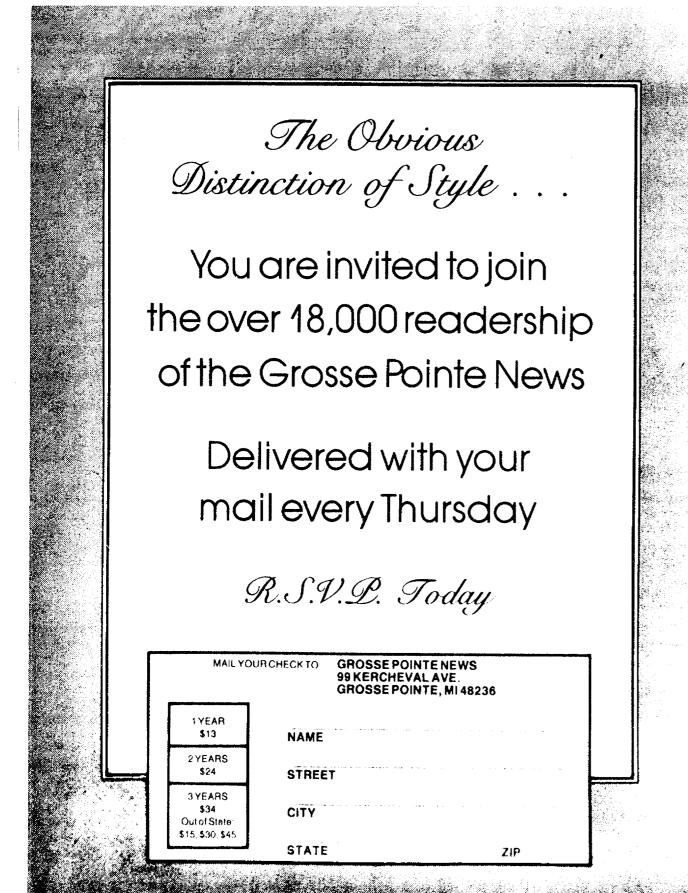

Mrs. Robert Gerisch, the club's immediate pastpresident, has taken on DRC's program chairmanship this year and will continue on the executive board as a director. The first program she has arranged, for the Sept. 11 meeting, is "Love and Nature," an audio-visual presentation by Diane Schuster and Diane Szmanski.

Sorting Used Books for AAUW Sale

ANN SCHUMACHER (left), general chairman of the American Association of University Women-Grosse Pointe Branch 22nd Annual Used Book Sale, which opens Tuesday, Oct. 2, and will continue daily through Sunday, Oct. 7, at Salem Memorial Lutheran Church, located on Moross Road between Mack Avenue and the I-94 Expressway, consults with three hard-working members of her marking committee, (left to right) CHARLOTTE COLLINS, ELEANOR WAGNER and GERRY MULLEN. This summer, while many of us have been occupied with vacations and sports, an energetic and devoted Grosse Pointe AAUW group has concentrated on books . . . books . . . BOOKS! They have been collecting, sorting and marking volumes and preparing the set-up for the sixday sale. AAUW Book Sale regulars know they can expect variety as well as volume. There'll be fiction and non-fiction, paperbacks and hardcovers, history, biography, recent textbooks, quality matched sets, children's books, specialized magazines, rare volumes and collectibles. Gift seekers, bargain hunters, inveterate readers - all have a field day at an AAUW Used Book Sale. Opening day, a 50 percent markup will prevail on all items, Saturday, Oct. 6, will be half-price day. On the final Sunday, shoppers will be able to fill a bag with books for only $3. Again this year, the AAUW is offering its Search Service: if you have been trying to track down a hardto-find item, a call to 772-0605 will alert the Book Sale sorters and markers to be on the lookout for your special book. If - and ONLY if - your book is found, a $2 fee will be charged over and above the book's regular sale price. For the convenience of donors who wish to contribute substantial quantities of books to the sale, a pickup service will be in effect until Friday, Sept. 21. Pick-up arrangements can be made by calling 882-4977 or 881-4520. Drop-off book collection barrels are still in place in several convenient locations, including Mr. McCourt's in-the-Village, Colonial Federal onthe-Hill and two Farmer Jack markets: one at Harper and Moross, the other at Mack near Vernier. In addition to those pictured above, the 1984 Book Sale committee includes Ellen Chapin, Chris Cramer, Ann Stockman and Libby Van De Putte, collections: Nina Berry, Dorothea Blum, Janet Brown, Anita Unger and Ruth Wehmeyer, markers; Suzanne Goodwin, barrels; Fran Sultzman, with Lynn Rask, set-up; Helen Peters, clean-up; Arlene Lewis, with Sue Reid and Kay Fuller, promotion; Lenore Marshall and Rosemarie Dyer, publicity; Judy Zrimec, scheduling; Jean Wright, with Florence Heath, search; Anita Unger, silent auction; and Margit Jackson, assistant treasurer. Used Book Sale proceeds will benefit the educational advancement of women, through support of AAUW national and international fellowships, and scholarships on the local level.

The 3:30 o'clock ceremony at which Father Sam Aquilla presided was followed by a reception at Phipps Tennis House in Denver. The bride wore a gown of ivory satin, styled with a Juliet lace bodice. A wreath of flowers caught her veil, and she carried a bouquet of cymbidium orchids.

Nancy Kufrin Gloede, of Madison, Wis., was honor attendant for her sister. Bridesmaids were Sarah Moran Martin, of Chicago, the bridegroom's sister, Julie McCarthy, of Washington, D.C., the bride's cousin, Patricia Hoopes, of Madison, and Jo Minich and Mary Gibbons, both of Denver.

Their tea length, off-the-shoulder dresses were periwinkle blue in color. They carried sprays of cymbidium orchids.

Alfred B. Moran acted as his son's best man. Groomsmen were Martin Hutt, Clay Minich, J. Henry Murray, Neal Riley and John Worcester Jr., all of Denver, Gary Garavaglia, of Southfield, Neal Ranstead, of Cincinnati, and Thomas Martin, of Chicago, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

The mother of the bride wore a tea length, jacket dress of dusty rose chiffon. The bridegroom's mother also selected a tea length dress of dusty rose chiffon. Each mother wore an orchid corsage.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's brothers, Edward Kufrin, of Janesville, and Thomas Kufrin, of Seattle, Wash., and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martens, of Madison.

War Memorial will preview fall classes

Next Thursday, Sept. 6, from 12 to 3 p.m., the Grosse Pointe War Memorial will, for the first time, offer a preview of its upcoming arts and crafts classes. More than 20 instructors will be present. Many will have their crafts for sale, donating 10 percent of their proceeds to Grosse Pointe's nonprofit cultural center.

There'll be demonstrations, and an opportunity to view the final products of some of the classes. Center staff will be on hand to accept early registrations for any of the classes.

Upcoming holiday-related work-shops include Miniature Christmas Trees, 18th Century Wreaths, Christmas Angels, Teddy Bears to Share, Christmas Needlepoint, Holiday Door Plaques, Williams burg Apple Cone Centerpieces and Holiday Table Centerpieces. Other craft classes include Beading (a revival of Victorian needlework, utilizing glass beads on modern evenware fabrics) and Ribbon Embroidery (popular in the 18th century, utilizing ribbons in Queen Anne embroidery).

An Herb Wreath Workshop will be taught by Carol Czechowski, who is noted for her popular annual exhibit at the Holly Mart, and a Garden Hat Workshop will be presented by Jean Riggs, from Sunshine Herb Farm in Milford.

Furniture Touch-Up is aimed at those who would like to know how to repair flaws in wood. Creative Sweats students will learn to make a personalized sweatsuit. Melon Basket Weaving will focus on the basic theories of weaving, enabling students to make other baskets.

Serving DRC in 1984-85

MRS. ROBERT LUCAS, director of the Detroit Review Club, MRS. JUSTIN EMERY, DRC'S 1984-85 president, MRS. WILLIAM BRADLEY, corresponding secretary, and MRS. ALLYNE LITCHFIELD, another director, (left to right), pause during a stroll through the Grosse Pointe Garden Center's Trial Gardens at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial to be captured by the camera of Mrs. Frank Welcenbach, retiring DRC director. This was one of the last pictures Kay Welcenbach snapped before she took herself, and her camera, off to England, where she kept her shutter clicking all through the Cotswolds. Kay is back home now, and looking forward, as are the four ladies pictured above, to DRC's first program luncheon of the season. For more about the DRC, its VERY well-traveled members and the upcoming program luncheon, check out this week's "From Another Pointe of View."

Betty and her husband cruised the Scandinavian countries in midsummer. Earlier in the year they took a "Love Boat" cruise to Mexico - but problems developed, so the company paid their way home with the guarantee of another trip free. Dr. and Mrs. Gerisch flew to Texas, checked in at an hotel ... and happened to notice that a convention was being held there, and that their son was a keynote speaker!

Never happen in a million years, right? The three Gerisches got together, of course, and Betty and her husband took a few extra days to visit their son at his home.

New DRC directors from The Pointe include Mrs. Allyne Litchfield, a former teacher in The Pointe, who has done her share of traveling but is spending her money this year re-doing her Harvard Road home, and Mrs. Robert Lucas, who spent August moving from Fisher to Whittier Road. Both have served on many DRC committees.

Mrs. James Houlihan, of Warren, steps up to DRC's first vice-presidency this year, and will have charge of the club's benefit party at Lochmoor in November. Norah has been president of the Detroit Women's Council of the Navy League of the United States and chairman of the Navy League Ball. She is a former Big Band singer, who turned down a part in a Ray Bolger show on Broadway to be with her husband when he returned from his World War II tour of duty with the Navy.

Mrs. Houlihan has also been doing some traveling this year, seeing St. Maarten, St. Thomas and other Caribbean islands with her daughter. This summer, she's spent a lot of time with friends aboard their yacht, visiting the Old Club and the St. Clair Inn.

Mrs. Rowe A. Balmer, who will serve as DRC's second vice-president, spent the warm months at the Balmers' summer home in Frankfort. The club's recording secretary, Mrs. Patrick Moylan, and treasurer, Mrs. Bernard McLellan, have been spending their extra time at their summer homes in Leamington, Canada, with Mrs. Moylan baby-sitting for her granddaughter, here from Marietta. Ga sitting for her granddaughter, here from Marietta, Ga., while HER mother and father are in Japan.

Grosse Pointe's Mrs. Aaron Wilcox, a DRC past-president and the club's publicity chairman, was away from home this summer, too — in Cottage Hospital! She's on the mend now, though still away from home, recuperating in Grand Rapids at the home of her sister, Mrs. Coby Byl.

When she does come home, Lou Wilcox will be phasing out some of her publicity chores — but not the DRC. After all, what respectable astrologer could turn her back on a club that was born in her own Sun Sign, Sagittarius?

Fall Art Festival Flowers

Take a few moments off from looking at the pottery, weavings, baskets, software, inks, macrame, jewelry, pastels, oils, watercolors, acrylics, wood carvings and metal work displayed at the 25th Annual Fall Art Festival co-sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Artists and Grosse Pointe War Memorial Associations to notice the flowers, for flowers are always an important part of a Grosse Pointe Fall Art Festival "setting."

Isabelle Goosen is flower chairman for this year's festival, which will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 8, rain or shine, on the War Memorial's grounds. Parking and admission are free. Light lunches will be available.

WSU accent on women

Wayne State University will offer 19 courses in its Women's Studies Program starting Tuesday, Sept. 4, through the Departments of Anthropology, Black Studies, English, Psychology, Sociology and Family and Consumer Resources.

The program includes such courses as "Black Women in America, "Psychology of Women" and "Marriage and Family Problems," and has several objectives, among them:

• Putting women students in touch with their own historical, sociological and cultural heritage. · Helping women define goals and values through the study of their environment and family life.

· Exploring the contributions women have made to society, art, science and the human spirit.

Registration for these courses scheduled on and off-campus continues through today, Thursday, Aug. 30. Additional information on the program may be obtained by contacting its directors, Marlyne Kilbey at 577-2802, Marilyn Williamson at 332-5729.

Start Garden Club season

Windmill Pointe Garden Club members open their 1984-85 season next Wednesday, Sept. 5, meeting at 9:15 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Douglas Borden from where they will travel to Rochester to visit Colleen's Corner. The program for the day, entitled Herbal Delights, will conclude with an herbal lunch prepared by Colleen Dobt. Club officers for the 1984-85 year are Mrs. George Malley, president, Mrs. Paul Woerner, vice-president, Mrs. Charles Begeman and Mrs. Lawrence Wickson, recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively, and Mrs. Daniel Beck,

More Meadow Brook music

John Davidson is starring in Rodgers and Hammerstein's musical "Oklahoma" now through Saturday, Sept. 1, at Meadow Brook Music Festival on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester. Performances are at 8 p.m. tonight, Friday and Saturday, with matinees scheduled for 2 p.m. Friday and Saturday, in Baldwin Pavilion.

This is the first time in its 21-year history that the festival has presented a staged musical. Information on tickets is available by calling 377-2010. Tickets also may be obtained at all Ticket World locations and AAA branch offices. Meadow Brook is offering all patrons free parking for all performances this summer.

Considering Legal Assistant training?

Registration is being taken for the Wednesday, Sept. 5, personal assessment inventory required for entry into the Legal Assistant Program offered by Oakland University's Divison of Continuing Education.

The inventory, which measures language skills and levels of abstract reasoning, will be conducted from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. in the Oak-land Center Gold Room on the university's Rochester campus.

Prepayment of a $25 application fee is required. Registration may be made by calling 377-3120 between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. weekdays.

Oakland's Legal Assistant Program, approved by the American Bar Association, is observing its 10th anniversary this fall. It trains persons to assist attorneys in a variety of law-related duties, concludes with a flexible, on-the-job 80-hour internship and includes personal job referral service - although graduates cannot be guaranteed jobs.

What do skiers do in the summer?

Seeking exhibitors for Christmas Fair

It's still summer ... but when you're planning a Christmas fair, you have to plan ahead. Diane Mertz, president of the Harper Woods High School Parents Club, has announced that a decor of red and green will carry out the oldfashioned holiday theme of the 10th Annual Harper Woods High School

Christmas Country Fair. It's scheduled for Nov. 9 and 10,

Friday and Saturday, in the South Gym of the school, located on Beaconsfield in Harper Woods, near Eastland Center. The school has ample and convenient parking.

Exhibitors engaged in creative work who are interested in participating in the fair on a table rental basis are invited to call Gloria Stevens, 521-6719, or Judi Lamberti, 882-6194.

Prints of James McNeill Whistler." a selection of 150 works marking the 150th anniversary of the expatriate American artist's birth, opened Saturday, Aug. 18, and will continue through Sunday, Sept. 16, in the Detroit Institute of Arts' Schwartz Graphic Arts Galleries.

Focus of the display is a traveling exhibition, "Lithographs of James McNeill Whistler," approximately 80 lithographs from the private collection of Steven Block, Washington, D.C., circulated by Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition

Works on display range from Whistler's first print (an etching titled "Sketches on the Coast Guard Survey Plate"—1854/55) to his last (a lithographic portrait of Dorothy Seton — 1902/03). His famous views of London and its tradesmen, portraits of friends and family, studies of models and nocturnes will be Among rare impressions are two exquisite color lithographs from 1890/93: "Draped Figure Reclining" and "Lady and Child." The exhibit is open to the public without charge during regular museum hours, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Help children get a good school start

For grade school children, the beginning of a new school year is a very special and exciting time. There is a new teacher and a new classroom. Even the other children look different, because they have grown over the summer months.

It's important that parents help their children get a good start on the new school year: here are some suggestions from "Growing Up," the child development newsletter for school-age children, on how to get that good start.

 Home-school relations It is a good idea to meet your child's teacher early in the school year; that way you establish some common ground whenever your child talks about this very important person. (This is also a good idea whenever a child transfers to

Meeting the teacher may not require a formal appointment — just a casual introduction, maybe before or after school, at an "open house" or PTA meeting.

At the beginning of the school year, it is particularly important that parents be available when their child is doing homework. A word of encouragement or a helping hand will help the child bridge the gap to a new and unfamiliar

 Supplies and clothes Delay some purchases of sup-plies and clothes until after the school year is underway. The teacher may require a composition book with lines that are less widely spaced than the one you bought, or there may be a special type of pen or pencil your child is required to have. It is better to wait and get the right kind.

There may also be special clothes your child wants to wear. She will want to fit in with the rest of the children, so she may insist on helping select her clothes. This is a good time for parents to help a child learn how to make wise decisions about selecting new clothes. For example: will the color match what she already has, will she outgrow it in two months, is the price reasonable?

The "Growing Up" newsletter follows a child's development through the school years. For more information, write to "Growing Up," P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, Ind. 47902. Include your child's school grade when writing.

Poetry fellowships offered for women

Detroit Women Writers will award four poetry fellowships to their 23rd Annual Writer's Conference, scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 27, at Oakland University and co-sponsored by Oakland's Division of Continuing Education.

Three fellowships will be awarded in serious poetry, one in light verse or poetry for children. Contestants should send two typed pages of material (single-space, if desired, and postmarked no later than Thursday, Sept. 6) to Elinor K. Rose, 5517 Navajo Trail, Pinckney, Mich. 48169.

A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed for return of entry. Judges for the fellowships include Ms. Rose and other professional writers.

Slate Prince Street Players' auditions

Auditions by appointment only for actors and actresses, pianists and drummer/percussionists for the Detroit Institute of Arts' Prince Street Players' national tour company will take place Sept 11, 12 and 13, Tuesday through Thursday. Experience is necessary. Appointments can be made by calling 832-

The Players will also be interviewing by appointment only for stage managers, who should submit resumes attention: N. Hamlin, Performing Arts Department, DIA, 5200 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48202. Stage managers will be contacted for interviews.

Simple. No one's talked about it. Because until recently, very little was known about Spina Bifida. Doctors didn't know what caused it. Nor what cured it. But now, we do know how to treat it.

There's no pretty way to describe Spina Bifida. It's a birth defect of the central nervous system that can result in paralysis of the legs, no control of the bowel and bladder, and accumulation of water on the brain, which, if left untreated, can cause retardation.

Yet even in its most severe form, Spina Bifida can be treated effectively. The catch is, proper treatment should begin immediately after birth.

So if you're expecting a child, or if a child you love has Spina Bifida, please contact us. We can help.

Phobia cures calm fears

Most of the 22 million Americans who suffer from phobias do so needlessly because they don't know that quick and reliable treatment is available, Reader's Digest reports in its August issue.

A person can have a phobia about virtually anything: flying, driving, closed spaces, open spaces, dogs, bridges, darkness, crowds, fire, death, strangers or snakes. While fears and anxieties grip everyone periodically, a phobic generates uncontrollable panic when there is no real danger

 Left untreated, victims become prisoners of their fears and avoid situations that might provoke panic. Therapists try to break this stranglehold by encouraging patients to face their fears in real-life situations.

There are a number of clinics throughout the country where such help is available. During typical treatment, a phobic meets privately with a mental-health professional, then joins a group-counseling session. Just knowing that others suffer such terrible afflictions and that help is available is in itself terribly therapeutic.

The next step is for a person to work up enough courage to confront his or her phobia. Patients have been shown that if they can repeatedly endure a feared situation for 15 to 20 seconds, the panic will subside. It also helps to distract their thoughts from panic by doing such things as counting the numbers on license plates, talking out loud or fingering a good-luck piece.

The Digest reports that, with correct treatment, more than 90 percent of phobics show marked improvement — on the average after only eight to 16 sessions.

For more information about finding help on treatment for phobias, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Phobia Society of America, 6191 Executive Boulevard, Rockville, Md. 20852.

Dr. Kaloger advances to a new place

He was born in Lowell, Mass., grew up in the Boston area and still roots for Boston teams. He was a National Honor Society member and varsity football player in high school, a commissioned officer, navigator on a B-24 during World War II - "The Big One."

But ask James H. Kaloger for THE highlight of his early life and you'll get no high school reminiscences, no war stories. He'll tell you, instead, about his two-hour battle off the coast of Maine with a 576-pound tuna. The tuna lost: Dr. Kaloger landed it.

He remains a winner as he moves into retirement as Social Studies teacher and Department chairman at Grosse Pointe South High School. Actually, he's not retiring but advancing — into a new place, a new phase of life. He expects it to be exciting, stimulating. Moving on always is.

He's under contract to author a book on Advanced Placement. He'll be doing some part time college teaching. He'll be able to get in some golf on weekdays this fall. He and his wife plan to make more use of their condominium in Florida and their Cape Cod beach house.

Dr. Kaloger came to Grosse Pointe to teach in June of 1952, armed with a Bachelors degree (1948) and Masters degree (1949) from Boston University, to which he had won an academic scholarship, plus Ph.D. work (1949-52) at the University of Chicago. He got his Ph.D. in 1970, from the University of Mich-

He's been married to Carol Wilton Kaloger for 35 years. Carol taught kindergarten at Richard School for 25 years. They have two sons, Bill and James C., both of whom went through the Grosse Pointe School

Bill, graduated from the University of Michigan as an electrical engineer, is working for Boeing in the Seattle area. James C. Will Young Fogies cross the Atlantic?

by Joseph J. Serwach

(Ed. Note: Joseph J. Serwach, of Lochmoor Boulevard, Editor-in-School's student newspaper and yearbook in 1983, reporter for The Michigan State News during the past year, has been a member of Michigan State University's London Bureau this summer.)

Young Fogies, Britain's answer to Young Upwardly Mobile Professionals (Yuppies), may soon follow the likes of American Preppies and Valley Girls and create their own handbook.

Young Fogies have been referred to in a variety of literature for several decades, but only recently became a subject of interest in British newspapers. Several articles have publicized the idea of making a Young Fogey handbook, although a publishing house has yet to come forward with definite plans.

"The phrase 'Young Fogey' has been around for ages," says Simon Hoggart, a writer for The London Observer who first mentioned the handbook idea. "I wrote an item about them partly to fill space and also because we had an excellent cartoon of the typical

Fogey. The typical Young Fogey would be a conservative man in his 20s or early 30s who likes to wear "old men's clothing, such as three-piece suits, faded club ties, collar studs and boots with laces," Hoggart says.

"A Fogey's not really a Yuppie," he explains. "Yuppies might eat the latest New York cuisine or drink an expensive California wine. A Fogey would turn down French wine, claiming certain beers would be more traditional as a British drink. He'd resolutely go the opposite way of a Yuppie, because a Fogey only appreciates the oldest things.

The surge in Fogey popularity is also a reaction to European and American "trendiness" which accepts only the newest and latest styles, Hoggart maintains.

"Fogies are very suspicious of Americans," he says. "Whereas Fogies value old traditions, America is pre-eminantly a novelty. Fogies are always looking back to a golden age, but for Americans the golden age has always tended to be tomorrow. Fogies are filled with a lot of anti-Americanism.

Although Fogies are a conserva-Ronald Reagan or British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

'They're right-wing themselves,

Reagan says, but they regard him as vulgar," Hoggart says. "They're of people who would wear pinsuspicious of Thatcher and her striped pajamas." monetarist, free-market philosophy, because it tends to promote a classless society where everyone can be equal.

"They'd prefer more of a caste society where everyone knows his/her position and is happy with

Since many British ideas have been carried over to the United States, Hoggart believes it is possible for an American version of the Young Fogey to catch on.

"I suppose an American Fogey would be someone who is resolutely Ivy League," he says. "I don't know if this is the best example, but a 19-year-old American who only wears Brooks Brothers suits might be a Fogey — as might anyone who acts a bit peculiar in a somewhat

There are some parallels between America's New Right and Young Fogies, Hoggart notes. The New Yorker's articles are often comparable to those of The Spectator, a weekly which is the Fogies' "house magazine.'

Hoggart, who says he would not consider himself a Fogey, believes the group has opposition even among Fogey children, who "often rebel against their parents and become Punk Rockers. "The extreme opposite of Young Fogies are Old Turks," he says. "Old Turks are people in their 40s or 50s who will wear something like a T-shirt with an aggressive left-wing message or a picture of someone like Boy George. A Fogey, by contrast, would affect not even to know who Boy George is.'

Since you asked . . .

Hey, sport, what's going on?

Since you asked, plenty. Take last Tuesday night, for instance. We print this paper at a quaint little factory on the east side of Detroit. I was assigned to the late shift on press night, toiling away, reading my paperback as fast as I could before any real work came up, when I heard a deafening cheer come up from the press room.

Why, I asked myself, is anybody cheering in the press room? I knew they hadn't started printing my section yet. Still, the cheers were louder than a car dealer's sportscoat.

The source of all that joy? The Tiger game was on the radio. The cheering was over a bases-loaded walk which at that point gave the Tigers a 9-2 lead.

Gee, I can hardly wait to hear what the press room boys do for a leadoff single.

Okav. ace. what else is happening?

Did you see those Tiger hats on delegates at the Republican convention? I mean, putting a Tiger baseball cap on a convention delegate is a lot like trying to sell the Pope on wearing a fez. Some of those folks look like the type who, if asked how they liked the Tigers this year, would think you were talking about one of Nancy Reagan's "pet" projects.

That's pretty nasty for somebody who didn't watch more than a half-hour of the convention. What did you do the rest of the time?

I was deep in thought. Do you realize that the fall sports season is just about one week away? North and South are getting ready to follow up last year's fine seasons. You knew there was a reason behind all this football practice, didn't you?

Yep, and in this heat.

Just wait, you've haven't seen heat until you watch the Norsemen's opening game this season. They'll be playing in the Silverdome on Sept. 8. The opponent is some little-known team from a school in Birmingham. Brother Rice, I think they call it.

North opens with Brother Rice? The perennial No. 1-ranked team in the state? What is this, Death Wish III?

Nah, they just like a little excitement with their football over at 707 Vernier Road. Last year it was an independent schedule and a forfeit for North; this year, it's facing the Big Boys from Birmingham. Besides, North's Tom Gauerke tells me North has played Brother Rice before.

Tha was before Rice joined the NFL, I presume?

Come on, now. I think the game (8 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8 as part of the Silverdome's annual two-game prep opener) in the Dome will be good for North. Gutsy group of guys, those Norsemen.

Speaking of hot stuff, you didn't take much heat this summer. What was the deal?

It's not that I didn't try. I would have thought that I might have made somebody mad at least once in three months. Then again, there's always this week.

What's the most ridiculous sports news you've read recently?

Take your pick, there's been a bunch. But I wouldn't call it ridiculous. Just a little strange, in a ridiculous sort of way.

Like Kelly Tripucka getting huffy over the Detroit Pistons' contract offer and deciding to test the waters over in Cleveland. The man has obviously never seen Lake Erie.

Or the Red Wings making a trade for Dave "Tiger" Williams, the most penalized player in the National Hockey League (2,994 minutes in 10 seasons). I can see the headlines now: "Red Wings play shorthanded . . . from October until February." The man's been in the penalty box so long, he's got his own personalized welcome mat in front of the door.

My favorite, though, was astrologist Jacqui's look at the Detroit Tigers in the current issue of Metropolitan Detroit. According to Jacqui, the Tigers have a life number of "six". She also assesses each team member, assigning them the usual star signs as well as Chinese numerology and astrology figures.

Jacqui must be a baseball fan. She sounds like she's got the Tigers pegged pretty well, astrologically speaking. For instance, she concludes that Jack Morris, born in the year of the goat and with a life number of five, "needs lots of applause." And that the Park's own Dave Rozema, life number eight and a monkey, "loves attention, plays tricks, but wants to achieve because he loves the money." Kirk Gibson, born in 1957, is a rooster, like me.

I'm not sure about all this astrology business, though. Roosters, goats, horses and pigs? Jacqui says that the Tigers represent every Chinese sign but the dragon (I don't know about that, they were draggin' a lot about a month ago). That's supposed to be good, I guess. But what do I know, I'm' just a rooster.

Anyway, I just can't picture the network guys interviewing Sparky astrologically. "Tell us, Sparky, what won it for the Tigers this year, the pitching?" "No, Joe," he says, "it's because we were a six.

Incidentally, Jacqui says that since the Tigers are a six, they will "tend to work in harmony, with balance and grace: a combination of these factors produces the kind of team that can win the World Series.'

Sure, but a lefthanded starter wouldn't hurt, either.

Diving headfirst into danger?

By Peggy O'Connor

This coming Monday is Labor Day and if it's like recent Labor Day holidays, it'll be full of picnics, parades and parties in celebration of the symbolic end of summer. It will also be a day in which dozens of swimmers across the country become paraplegics or quadriplegics as the result of diving accidents.

Statistics compiled by the National Spinal Cord Institute show that the "big" spinal cord injury days are Memorial Day, Fourth of July and Labor Day. The Institute assembled a good many other statistics on diving/spinal cord injuries in 1981 — before the program's government funding ran out. Statistics like these:

- Ninety-two percent of those who suffer diving injuries are males 13 to 39.
- The most vulnerable are those over 160 pounds and/or 6 feet tall.
- More than 1,000 persons per year will suffer a spinal cord injury as a result of diving accidents.
- Ninety-eight percent of all who suffer diving injuries become quadriplegics.
- Diving injuries are the fourth major cause of spinal cord injuries.

The Farms' Ronald Gilbert is painfully aware of those statistics. As a Detroit attorney who specializes in aquatic injury cases, he currently represents six living quads from five states. His personal interest in his clients, the nature of their injuries and his willingness to promote diving safety led to the formation of the Aquatic Injury Safety Group (AISG). Gilbert is chairman and treasurer of the 100-plus member group.

The 18-month old organization was originally organized by Gilbert and other squatic injury lawyers interested in sharing information on the subject. It has become more than that to Gilbert.

"When I got into meeting these quads, I just had the feeling that I wanted to do something to prevent such a tragedy from happening to someone else," he says.

"It's more than just an educational experience for lawyers. We get together to try to save some of these people from becoming quads. If you save one quad per year, you save around $150,000 to $300,000 per ear. That's what it costs to care for a quad — and many of them don't have private insurance.

"It's such a devastating injury to what I consider a very young group of people," Gilbert adds.

He admits that other members of the AISG aren't as intense as he is in their approach to the subject. "Most aren't nearly the crusader type that I am. I'm always giving my little speech about not diving and changing behavior patterns.'

Bringing about change is a big part of the AISG's effort. Gilbert says he feels that change should come from all directions: in the pool industry's attitude toward injuries, in the public's practice of teaching kids to dive in shallow

"First of all, I think there should be warning signs. That is something that can and ought to be done. People should be warned what can happen if they dive. The pool industry has fought warning signs, certainly since they've been making above-ground pools. They've never even admitted that these pools can cause injuries.

'The NSPI (National Spa and Pool Industry) claims it's a one-ina-million chance that a diver will be injured. They say it's statistically insignificant. Tell that to some of my quads."

Gilbert says he spends a lot of time at local country clubs and city pools, trying to spread the word about diving into shallow water. It's often a losing battle, he says, since coaches and parents teach kids what they themselves were

"Kids are trained to dive off starting blocks into shallow water. Then when they get older and their bodies get bigger, it's more dangerous. Everybody intends to do a shallow dive. But it only takes a fraction of a second to injure a spine . . . and you have absolutely no control over it.

"There's no reason - at all! - to dive into shallow water. In fact, in recreational swimming, there's no reason to dive, period.

THE PACK OF aquatic injury statistics on legal secretary Kathy Pett's desk grows thicker by the month. "Seventeen-year-old male, headfirst down pool slide, quadriplegic. Adult male, dove into above ground pool, death. Thirteenyear-old female, dove into pool, quadriplegic

The pair sees most of the paperwork involved with the AISG - and that means reading detailed reports on injuries, deaths, rehabilitation processes and legal actions, and file cabinets full of reports on spinal cord injuries, safety standards and studies by experts in the

"After an injury, the family usually contacts an attorney. Through that attorney, if he is an AISG member, we get involved. We have members in almost every state. Our job is to try to get groups like the Consumer Product Safety Commission to do something about teaching people not to dive into pools or shallow water. We've got a panel of experts, including the Diving Review Board of the National Safety Council, which has established a subcommittee related to our efforts," Ms. Pett says.

Both women agree with Gilbert that re-education of the public may be a long and difficult process.

"There's definitely a lack of knowledge. Diving seems such an innocent activity. Kids don't understand how dangerous it is; I know that I never did before I started working on the AISG. Now when I talk to people, I'm always telling them not to dive, or at least to check out the depth where they ' Ms. Navetta savs

One reason for the particular susceptibility of male teens and young men to diving injuries is a basic ignorance of the changes in their own bodies.

"As they get older, their bodies get bigger and stronger. They're still doing the dives they were doing when they were younger, but now they're going deeper into the water," Ms. Navetta adds.

"People see ads on TV and in newspapers and magazines showing happy-looking people diving headfirst into above-ground pools. I saw a story on ESPN where they showed a football player diving from his roof into his pool. Kids see things like that and imitate them, because people like football players are 'cool,' " Ms. Pett says.

"How can you fight TV? People see this stuff and don't know what they're getting into.'

Ms. Navetta and Ms. Pett conduct seminars for AISG members and diving and spinal cord injury experts in order to inform them of the grow's effects. The councils warning signs and stickers designed by these experts, and are more than willing to assist and promote the efforts of groups like the Detroit Rehabilitation Institute.

Next month, the Rehab Institute will implement a program in local schools which is geared toward (Continued on Page 2C)

Diving danger?

(Continued from Page 1C) educating young people about diving and other sports-related injuries. But both Pett and Navetta agree that much more needs to be done and more than one obstacle stands

"The AISG would like to see large organizations like the YMCA, the Red Cross or the National Safety Council get more involved. We'd like to see more of a coordinated effort. There are many smaller groups promoting safety in diving, but there could be more of a national effort," Ms. Navetta says.

One real problem is obtaining enough current statistics on injuries. "There's no central reporting headquarters for these types of accidents. There are many unre-ported incidents; unless an autopsy is done, you can't know if it was a drowning or a death from a spinal cord injury," Ms. Pett says.

The AISG would also like to see pool companies make a greater effort to prevent such injuries by the use of signs or stickers on their products. "But it has to be effec-tive. Something that would give a clear message so that when you'd see it, you'd know: don't dive," she

Both Navetta and Pett admit that the nature of their work has affected them personally. Pett says she sometimes feels like a nag, spending much of her summer telling people to watch where they dive. And Ms. Navetta, who is also a nurse, says that some of the case histories she has read have hit very close to home.

Cord Injury System (SEMCIS) is one of 17 National Spinal Cord Injury Systems across the U.S. funded by a Department of Education grant. It is linked to the program with Receiving Hospital which completes the acute care portion of treatment.

The Rehab Institute performs rehabilitation services. Part of the SEMCIS grant is to be allocated for community education. The Rehab Institute is the group which will be conducting SEMCIS community education presentations in Detroit area schools this fall.

"In rehab, the point is to work toward the highest level of capability the injured person has. That entails therapy to build up strength in the functioning area and to keep non-functioning areas limber. Occupational and vocational therapy are also available," Harrison says.

'The treatment can range in time from a minimum of two weeks in the hospital, for acute care, to two or three months in rehabilitation - barring any complications like bedsores, infections. The complications of the injured person's life, of course, last much longer.

RONALD GILBERT describes his clients as intelligent, sensitive and personable victims of what he sees is an "ambush," as one of his quads called it — an ambush by advertising, by a pool industry which until recently never even mentioned the smallest chance of diving dangers, by a system which trains children to perform shallow

"It happens to such young people: that's the thing that really gets to me. They're bright-eyed and bushy-tailed . . . and then, suddenly, they are injured in an accident like this and their entire life pattern is changed. Every little movement is something which must be guided by someone else, every bodily need or function taken care of by another person.

"It's so tragic, when just a little bit of prevention could make a difference.'

riplegics has written a moving essay on his case. It details his injury from the moment after he hit the bottom of the pool until the present. It is a chronicle filled with a first-person viewpoint of the painful, sometimes nightmarish measures taken to first save the life of, then stabilize the victim of a spinal cord injury. It is also a sobering and quite explicit view of what happens after a diving injury - and one that is often overlooked by those who have not suffered

"Diving injuries occur in shallow bodies of water. A person hits his head on the bottom or side of the pool or ground and the head is snapped back. With this type of injury you have a fracture of the cervical vertebrae. Often the spinal cord is damaged. With nerve damage to the spine, there is no return. It doesn't heal.

"Depending up the location of the injury on the cord, some functions governed by the spinal cord motor functions, etc., — may return. The higher up on the cord that the injury occurs, the more complete and permanent the injury may be," Ms. Harrison says.

The injured person is evacuated from the accident scene by personnel trained to know the signs of spinal cord injury. They will limit the victim's movement, immobilizing the head and neck, strapping the body to a flat board. The injured person is then transported to a trauma center, such as Receiving Hospital in Detroit, where he/she would receive "acute care," ac-

"Acute care would include Xlife-saving and bladder care.

"When the person becomes more stable and there are no infections or respiratory problems remaining, a rehab program may be begun, although, with acute care, the patient has already been put through some movement to keep limbs from stiffening, prevent bedsores, etc.

Southeastern Michigan Spinal

ONE OF Ronald Gilbert's quadthrough such an experience.

Cindy Harrison, a research assistant for the Southeastern Michigan Spinal Cord Injury System, at the Detroit Rehab Institute, describes what a typical patient must go through after a diving injury:

cording to Ms. Harrison.

rays, determination of the nature and extent of the injury, surgery if necessary, aid to breathing and other necessary life-saving measures, tube feedings, bowel

"First, I think the pool industry should start recognizing that such injuries occur. Then I think people have to be trained not to dive into shallow water. But that's a behavioral problem. It's a 'nobody's go-ing to tell me how to drive' kind of attitude," he says.

"Do you know what the bottom line is going to be? The insurance companies. Get them were it hurts - in the pocketbook. Make them make the people they insure do something about diving injuries.

"The only way I know for people to learn that diving is dangerous is for them to read about it in the newspapers or see it on TV — to know what truly horrible and devastating injuries can occur. But with five million pools out there, it's going to be difficult.'

Gilbert recalls the lottery scenario he often uses to illustrate his point. "The NSPI says one out of a million dives won't work. Okay, say a guy gives you a chance to be in the lottery and that the chances are 999,999 that you will win, and the guy says, 'So, do you want in?' And you say, 'What about the one chance that I won't win; what happens then?' And the guy says, "Don't worry about it, it's statistically insignificant - well, okay, let's say if you lose you'll be in a wheelchair for the rest of your life. But don't worry, with these odds you can't lose.'

"Tell me, is that still statistically insignificant to you?

Gilbert and his AISG group will continue their efforts to make changes in both the public and private sector. And he says that if threatening swimmers with what seems to be an impossible picture of life in a wheelchair or in a bed is what it takes, he'll do it.

"Fear is a great motivator. If I can use it to motivate people not to dive where it can be dangerous, I will. Love is a great motivator, too, but sometimes it doesn't have the impact of fear.

"And when it comes to diving into shallow water, people should be

Fuchs wins SISA silver

Grosse Pointe High graduate Paul Fuchs was the silver medalist in the SISA Rowing Championships in Montreal last week.

Fuchs, 31, is the son of Arnold and Betty Fuchs, of Roslyn Road. He finished second in the lightweight single sculls with a time of 7:03.55. A team from Denmark won the gold medal with a 7:02.20 finish; Spain was third with a time of 7:07.37.

The SISA championships are the "Olympics" for world class lightweight scullers, according to the U.S. Rowing Association. The Olympics does not recognize the lightweight class.

be expensive, time consuming or a hassle, according to "Fitness Five," a new exercise plan developed by the Automobile Club of

Michigan. 'The plan's emphasis is on simplicity," said Jim Zwick, director of the Auto Club Life Insurance Company. "We designed it so that individuals can exercise in their homes, without spending money on equipment or clothes. 'Fitness Five" is a series of five exercises to promote overall fitness by improving muscle tone in the arms, legs, shoulders, trunk and abdomen, as well as increasing

Getting in shape doesn't have to cardiopulmonary capacity. "This is an excellent beginning schedule, especially if it is followed on a regular basis, but we suggest individuals progress to more advanced exercises," Zwick said.

To encourage consistent participation, the Auto Club has developed an exercise chart which includes a suggested number of repetitions for individuals in various age groups

'A good general rule is that you have to exert some effort and strain for any conditioning program to pay off, but not to the point exhaustion," advised Zwick.

Get in shape at home

"Persons who find the fitness plan too easy may want to include walking, jogging, swimming or tennis in their routine.'

It is recommended that anyone starting an exercise program should consult a physician before beginning. "Trying to do too much too soon is a sure way to become discouraged. Start easily, be consistent and monitor your progress," Zwick advised. Since consistency is a key to any fitness plan, the exercises should be done daily, or at least four or five times

The five exercises in the Auto Club Life program include:

· Modified sit-ups to help strengthen abdominal muscles. To begin, lie on your back, with heels on the floor. Keep knees bent at a 45- to 90-degree angle, with hands interlocked at back of head. For count one, slowly curl forward until shoulders are about 10 inches off the floor, and tuck chin into chest. Hold for about three seconds. For position.

Trunk twist to tone muscles in waist and trunk. To start, stand: with feet about shoulder width apart and hands interlocked behind head with elbows back. At count one, turn trunk sideward to the left as far as possible. For count two, return to starting position. For count three, repeat process to right side and count four is a return to start to position.

• Half-knee bend to condition thighs, hips, buttocks and lower back. To start, stand with feet about 6-8 inches apart and hands on hips. At count one, bend knees to half-squat position while simultaneously swinging arms forward with palms down. For count two, return to start position.

· Modified push-up to improve muscles in arms, shoulders and chest. To begin, place hands about shoulder width apart on front edge of a bed or similar object. Move feet backward until legs and back count two, slowly return to start—are in a straight line, with body weight supported by feet and hands. At count one, keeping head up, bend arms at elbow and lower body until chest touches front of bed. For count two, push up, straightening arms until returned to start position.

> • Walk/run in place to improve heart and lung efficiency. Walk, without moving forward, raising your left and then right knee. As strength increases, move faster and raise knees higher. Eventually, build to running in place.

Before beginning a conditioning session, Auto Club Life recommends a warm-up period. One of the easiest warm-ups is the overhead stretch, where you stand at attention, rise on toes while swinging arms sideward and then upward, touching hands over head. Stretch body, tucking in buttocks and abdomen, then return to start position. Repeat 15 times in 30 seconds. (Next week: The importance of diet in a fitness program).

Swim, fitness classes set

The Grosse Pointe school system's Department of Community Education will offer a roster of classes and activities available to those who are interested in fitness or aquatic programs.

Offerings are slated to begin as early as the week of Sept. 10, with others scheduled to start later in September and into October.

A free demonstration by Vital Options, Inc., will be held from 7 to 7:45 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 5 in the Barnes School gym, 20090 Morningside Drive.

Fall classes include multiple sections of "Aerobic Dancing by Jacki Sorensen," JSAW Aerobic Workout by Jacki Soresen," "Basketball," "Boating Safety," "Gym-Swim," "Racewalking," "Racewalking Seminar" and "Square and Round Dancing.'

Other classes are tennis at various levels, eight sections of "Vital Options Exercise," "Vital Options Exercise — VO Lite," "Tap Dancing," "Ballet," "Jazz Dance," "Volleyball," and

'Yoga.'' The department's swim activities are geared to all levels of interest and competence.

Recreational activities include "Adult Lap Swims," "Family Swim," "Adult/Youth Lap Swim," 'Open Swims," "Senior Citizen Swim," "Sunrise Swim Program," and "Afternoon Swim." Instructional offerings include Pre-School Classes for two age levels: six months to three years and four and five-year-olds, "Beginner Classes for Children," "Advanced Beginner Classes for Children," "Intermediate Classes for Children."

Other instructional activities in Aquatics are "Fitness Swim Program," "Special Needs Swim,"
"S.C.U.B.A. Diving," "Advanced Lifesaving," "Swimmer and Advanced Swimmer Classes for Children," "Beginner Class (grades six to eight)" and "Beginner Class (9 to 12) "Beginner Classes for Adults," and "Swimnastics."

"Beginning Competitive Swimming will again be offered, as will "Competitive Swimming Programs" in conjunction with the Grosse Pointe Swim Club, and 'Masters' Competitive Swimming Program."

Full details on both the fitness and aquatic offerings scheduled by the Department of Community Education can be found in the flyer mailed to all school district residences at the end of August.

Further information may be obtained by calling 343-2178.

Run for Liberty

The Stroh's Run for Liberty, a benefit run to aid in the restoration funding for the Statue of Liberty. will wind its way through Detroit on Saturday, Oct. 13, beginning at 11 a.m. at Hart Plaza on Jefferson at Woodward.

More than 100 other cities across the U.S. will hold "Runs for Liberty" on that date. Organizers hope for a total of 500,000 runners nationwide. The event is sponsored by Stroh Brewery Company and supported by Brooks Shoe, Inc.

Entry fee is $8 before Oct. 5 and $10 from Oct. 6 until race day Runners, walkers and wheelchair athletes are eligible to enter.

Registration may be made by mailing a check or money order payable to Stroh's Run for Liberty, P.O. Box 49207, Atlanta, Ga., 30359; or by calling 1-800-USA-1986.
