The Michigan Trial Lawyers Association, through its Macomb County Chapter, is offering a series of eight lectures by judges and lawyers on topics of interest to the general public.

Adults of any age may register. A nominal fee of $1 per student will be charged to cover copy costs.

The judges and lawyers speaking on the various topics will be donating their time in an effort to explore the myths and realities surrounding the law, the operation of the courts and the legal profession itself.

The topics to be covered are: The Courts and How they Operate, Employment Law, Criminal Law and Procedure, Family and Domestic Relations, Auto Negligence and "No Fault" Law, Real Estate, Landlord/Tenant, Medical Malpractice, Products Liability and Social Security Law.

The lectures will be offered beginning Tuesday, Oct. 23, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. and will continue for eight consecutive weeks. Students will receive a course booklet with outlines covering each of the topics to be discussed and will receive a diploma upon completion of the series of lectures.

Robert Garvey, chairman of the Peoples Law School in the Macomb County area, said similar programs have been so successful in other parts of the state that other states are now studying the Michigan Trial

The course will be geared toward the layman with question and answer periods following each lecture. Registration must be made in advance as attendance will be limited to the first 150 registrants.

All classes will be held at Lakeview High School, 21100 East Eleven Mile Road (east of I-94) in St. Clair Shores. # These seniors are the product of the super-student decade

By Mike Andrzejczyk

You might call the 13 seniors from North and South who made the 1985 National Merit Scholarship semifinals the best and the brightest of the public schools' Class of 1985.

Even if they aren't the best, they're very near the top.

For all their rivalry, the five students from North and seven who were interviewed at South who made the semifinals have a lot in common. For instance:

- They carry heavier-than-normal classloads, sprinkled liberally with Advanced Placement courses. With the college credit earned through AP courses, some of the students could enter their chosen colleges as first-term sophomores.

- On a 4.25 point system, the grade point average of the 13 are about 3.8. They range from 3.6 to 4.1, but bunch around the 3.8 mark.

- Although they're looking for high-paying careers, job satisfaction is as important as money. As one student put it, "As an engineer, I solve problems and get paid lots of money. You can't ask for more."

- They are active, balancing myriad social and extracurricular activities with their school work. Among their after-school involvements are sports, theater groups, band and tutoring younger students.

- While they haven't planned far ahead, they have dreams and they are realistic enough to work to make those dreams come true.

It's 8:30 Thursday morning when I get to the North main office to meet Julie Johnson, Randy Kuntzman, John Cobau, Pat McDonald and James Thompson. The six of us head up to the library where the interview is held.

I'm not sharp that early in the morning and, when I listen to the interview tape later, I think I should apologize to them. They put up with me, anyway.

These are active students. Pat is president of the German Club. James is in the band and attends all the sports events. Julie just started tutoring geometry. She's also a member of the yearbook staff, the French Club and she sails and skis.

John is a member of the swim team and lifts weights before school in the morning. Randy plays racquetball, sails and skis. All of them balance those activities with two hours of homework a night.

They admit to being "not the most active" in school activities, but add they still attend their share of football games, including the North/South classic. Friday and Saturday are their "out nights" as well.

Priorities have been made. Right now, the five agree they need to 1) get into college, 2) get scholarships and money for college, and 3) do well on the advanced placement testing.

Two letters that pop up when they talk about their schedules are "AP." The advanced placement classes they carry demand more of their time and sometimes make it difficult to divide their time between homework and social activities.

John admits he has a "a lot of trouble" deciding between swimming and homework.

"You just end up not doing the homework that's not as important," Randy says, adding some classes don't demand the amount of work others do.

Because of the schedules they carry, when the seventh period was offered, they used it to fill requirements or pick up a study period, the five say.

It should also be noted that having fun came in behind college plans on the list of priorities.

All of them hope to go away to school, using scholarships, savings and parental help to pay for school. While they still try to work during the summer, there's no way to work part time and keep up their class work. Grades come first.

"The kids who have part time jobs have to give them up because they're getting bad grades," Pat says.

Going away to school is a chance of exercise a little independence, the five say. College plans aren't fixed yet, with applications still being sent out and, in a couple of cases, decisions being made which school to apply to, they admit.

When they come back in 1990 for their five-year reunion, the group is unsure of what they hope to accomplish. Degrees and careers are mentioned, but most of all, they joke, they want to be rich.

It's Spirit Week at South. Thursday, the freshman have decorated the grounds, halls and themselves with pink signs. One banner facing Fisher hung below the tennis courts reads "Freshman are Radical."

Inside the counseling center at the school, seven of the eight seniors who made the semifinals are anything but radical, talking realistically about their education plans and how they hope to pay for school.

Sitting at the narrow table in the conference room are Renuka Uthappa, James "Curt" West, Christopher Bardeen, Karen Emery, Caroline Todd, Mary Dietz and William Colwell. Dave Conrad is absent.

"Homecoming puts extra pressure on the students, they say. Besides the normal balancing act of studies and activities, there are float and pom-pom parties and other activities to attend. "That's what Homecoming's for," Curt says.

They spend an average of two hours doing homework a night, although some spend as little as one or as many as five. They are active in sports, marching bands, Imprints and Pointe Players as well as keeping their weekends free for a little extra relaxation.

Scholastically, balancing activities and class work can sometimes call for "selective deletion," Curt says. Especially during homecoming, it's activities first, with homework filling the day whenever there's a spare moment.

None of the seven are slouches at classwork. They rank in the top 10 percent of the school's 440 graduating seniors. Karen quietly notes her grade point average is 4.1 of a possible 4.25. The rest are in the 3.6 to 4.0 range.

Careers they look to include law, engineering, chemistry and foreign service. Renuka says she would like to join the Peace Corps. "I'd like the help wherever it's really needed," she adds.

Mary's interest in diplomacy led her to choose a foreign service career.

Making money is nice but it isn't everything, they note. Chris and William point out there needs to be a middle ground for a high-paying job that is also rewarding.

Like their North counterparts, their schedules are peppered with AP courses. Some may enter their chosen colleges as sophomores, but most will begin as freshmen. As William points out, starting as a sophomore leaves less time to decide on a major.

Going away to school is another hope of the seniors. They freely admit they need scholarships to help defray some of the costs and note that without financial help, their plans for college would drastically change.

Senior year should be a time to have fun and get more involved in school activities, they agree. Friday and Saturday are their nights and they attend their share of sports and school dances and school-associated social functions.

Although they are a little cavalier about homework, all agree they get in time for homework and activities, no matter what it takes.

This is the "decade of the super student," they claim. Caroline, who has come to South after attending two other high schools, says she enjoys the involvement of the students, academically and socially.

They are realistic about getting scholarships through the National Merit-Scholarship program. While 13,500 of the 15,000 semifinalists advance to become finalists, only 5,500 will receive scholarships through the program, they note. While some 500 companies offer special scholarships for students entering specific fields of study, most will try for the $2,000 scholarships through the program, they add.

So they are also getting involved in other programs, through universities where possible and through the state competitive scholarship program. They have also worked during the summer to help relieve some of the pressures their parents will face to provide college money.

Coming back to their five-year reunion, they would like to bring with them college diplomas and jobs. Marriage, kids and homes can wait for a while, they add.

For those who will fill the high school halls in coming years, the seniors offer a little advice: read a lot, get involved in sports or extracurricular activities and enjoy yourself in school.

Writing 'coach' retires after 40 years

By Pat Paholsky

He began his career as a reporter for The Detroit News, but 40 years later, he retired from Wayne State University as an English professor.

While at Wayne, Jay McCormick "coached," in his words, writers, and a number of his students went on to become successful in the field. Two of them — Esther Broner and Philip Levine — will return to honor him tomorrow from noon until 5 p.m. with readings and a luncheon at the Detroit Institute of Arts.

"I had the feeling that I was misplaced," the Grosse Pointe resident said, speaking of his early days at Wayne where he taught a class one night a week.

He had taken a leave of absence from The News in order to write a novel, and his side job teaching "only involved one night a week, then a couple of nights. By the time I finished the book I was teaching full time," he said.

And that's where he's been since 1944, venturing back into newspapering as a book reviewer and into magazines as a short story writer. McCormick is also a published novelist and that is what determined he would spend a lifetime coaching writers rather than reporting current events.

He was attending the University of Michigan and working at the student newspaper, the Michigan Daily, when a novel he wrote won the Hopwood Award. After graduation in 1942, he went to work for The News for 1 1/2 years before his novel, "November Storm," was released. Doubleday, the book publishers, gave him an advance for a second book and that's when Mc-Cormick took a year's leave to write "Nightshade," which was subsequently published.

McCormick recalled that when he started at Wayne, he was teaching in old family mansions.

"About the end of the war, we were expanding rapidly and teaching in small pre-fab barracks and quonset huts," he said. "But it didn't matter how much we grew, we never got away from the students (in creative writing). We were friends; we worked closely with them."

Students over the years have not changed, he said. "It doesn't matter if it's the '50s, '60s or '70s, when they're writing poetry out of their own experience, it's fresh, it's brave and it's well-crafted. You find early in the game the students, the writers, still know how to write."

And when they meet — student and teacher — even years later, "it's always on another plane," McCormick said, adding it is nothing like a class reunion. "I used to call it the underground fellow worm. I think it's because they have hearts as much as talent and that's how they made it."

McCormick talked about the Miles Modern Poetry Committee, a group named after an English teacher who was killed on board a ship toward the end of World War II.

It began in the early 1950s, he said. "It was rather unusual when it started, bringing in major poets to the campus."

The committee is still active at Wayne.

The event tomorrow honoring McCormick for his years of teaching will be an emotion-filled experience for him. It will affirm, he said, that he was there, an active participant in all of the events of the past 40 years. Persons who would like information on the luncheon and readings can call 577-2450.

McCormick and his wife Joyce, a lifelong Grosse Pointe resident and the head of circulation at Central Library, recently celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary. They have a son and daughter, and McCormick has twin daughters from a previous marriage. And his future plans? For now, McCormick, born in Harbor Beach and reared in Detroit, fills his days playing tennis, singing in the Senior Men's Club Chorus, playing cribbage, watching the Detroit Tigers on TV, loafing and reading detective novels.

"Between reviews and teaching, I've read like hell. Now it's for fun."

He added, however, "When I find I'm about to turn on a daytime soap, I'll begin writing a novel."

Half-century chronicled

David Schoenbrun, the news commentator who lived and worked in the eye of the major storms that buffeted our nation and the world, in the past half-century, will speak at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial on Tuesday, Oct. 23 at 8 p.m.

In his address he will draw on his experience covering the Depression, the Holocaust, the Cold War, the Marshall Plan, and the creation of NATO, when he chronicles a half-century of the events, from Roosevelt to Reagan.

Currently seen twice weekly on more than 100 stations on the Independent News Network, he began his career as one of the first broadcasters for Voice of America and served as army correspondent through World War II.

As one of the original CBS news correspondents, Schoenbrun worked with Edward R. Murrow, Eric Sevareid, Howard K. Smith and Walter Cronkite. He was chief CBS news correspondent in Paris and

Washington, and won the Overseas Press Club award for best radio reporting, best television reporting, best magazine article, and best book of the year, "As France Goes."

Schoenbrun, a gifted storyteller, presents an irreverent and funny, yet profound profile of the world's leaders whom he has known and observed behind the pomp and circumstance of high office. In a recent article in "Parade" he said he once was a brash young man.

"I have changed over the years," he said. "I am now a brash old man."

Copies of his latest, and seventh book, "American Inside Out: Home and Abroad from Roosevelt to Reagan" will be on sale at the lecture, available for autographs.

Tickets to the lecture, the last in a series on U.S. foreign policy presented by Audrey Platt of the War Memorial's Council of Sponsors, are $6 each. They may be purchased in advance or at the door.

Weekend in Chicago planned

The War Memorial will host a weekend trip to the Windy City called, "All I Want for Christmas is in Chicago," Nov. 30 through Dec. 2.

The trip, via Amtrak, will include plenty of time for sightseeing and shopping up and down Michigan Avenue's Miracle Mile.

In addition, reservations have been made at the Art Institute to view the Impressionism exhibit, "A Day in the Country," which includes a lecture and audio tour. Also on display at the museum is a special exhibit of Steuben glass.

Chicago's downtown, which boasts a fairyland atmosphere between Thanksgiving and Christmas, is within walking distance of the Hyatt Regency where the tour group will stay.

The $180 per person, based on double occupancy, includes transportation, first class lodging, the museum tour and box lunches to and from Chicago on the train.

Reservations must be made with full payment by Tuesday, Nov. 6. For additional information, call 881-7511.

GP Historical Society to tour Kahn buildings

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society will sponsor a tour of the newly restored Grosse Pointe Shores Village Municipal Building and the old Vernier School on Monday, Oct. 22. Both buildings were designed by Albert Kahn.

Members of the society and guests will meet in the village council chamber of the municipal building at 7:30 p.m. Councilwoman Elizabeth Kuhlman will address the group and give a brief history of the village and buildings.

Architect Robert Wakeley Jr. will discuss his restoration of the building, a 1914 structure that has received an Orchid Award, given annually by the Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Interior Designers, the Design Society of Interior Designers, the Designers Light Forum and the Michigan Council for the Arts.

The tour will then proceed to the old Vernier School, located on the grounds of the municipal building. This will offer a unique comparison of Albert Kahn buildings of nearly 70 years ago; one an original and the other restored.

Refreshments will be served after the tour and there is no fee for the evening.

During the month of October, the Society will exhibit Indian artifacts and baskets at the Main Branch of the Grosse Pointe Public Library, 10 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms. On Monday evening, Nov. 9, at Kerby School, 285 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, there will be a program on Indians of the Grosse Pointe Historical Society, call the society office at 884-7010 between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

How much is that kimono in the window?

By Tom Greenwood
Margaret Case has given herself a mission in life. Namely, to help people re-evaluate their opinion of personal style.

And if she happens to sell a few antique kimonos along the way, so much the better.

Ms. Case, born and reared in Grosse Pointe, has recently moved back home after a 16-year absence, to open a Mack Avenue business specializing in antique kimonos. And these are the real thing, straight from Japan, thank you.

"My shop will also be handling lingerie of my own design," she said. "Everything here is multi-functional. This little black number could be used as a slip or a very slinky evening dress."

"The kimonos have various uses too and can be worn casually around the home, as evening dress or used as wall ornamentation. They're unisex, and can be worn by either men or women, just as they are in Japan."

To the casual observer, it would seem that the field of used kimono sales would be a wide open one in a town like Detroit.

"Well, kimonos sell very well on both coasts," she said. "So I just woke up one morning and decided to go ahead with it. I moved back here six months ago from the Minneapolis area where I worked with fabric designers. I also attended school there, graduating from the Minneapolis College of Art and Design."

"We as Americans don't know that much about kimonos, but they're fantastic in their design techniques. Most are of silk and are custom-made. A lot of time, work and effort goes into even the most simple design."

Ms. Case practices what she preaches and boasts of owning four kimonos. She also recently presented her family members with kimonos as presents. Her shop, which is currently being redecorated, is due to open Oct. 28 and will feature hundreds of kimonos in varying colors, sizes, fabrics and designs. She hasn't chosen a name yet, but the green banner stretching across the entrance will read "Contemporary artifacts presents antique kimonos from Japan." It will also feature a painting of a Japanese lady wearing, you guessed it, a kimono.

"We've got a very good selection from Japan right now, mainly for two good reasons," she said. "First, the Japanese are becoming more and more Westernized and have taken to business suits for everyday living. It's awfully difficult to get into your Honda and drive to the plant wearing a kimono."

"Also, the Japanese don't buy much in the way of used clothing."

Just why I don't know. Consequently there's a surplus of beautiful kimonos available to us. The kimono is worn now in Japan mainly for special ceremonies, and on very formal occasions. Many of the older citizens still wear them daily, but the young love their blue jeans."

The price range for these traditional modes of dress will vary from $10 to $100, depending on the material, condition and texture of the cloth. Ms. Case will also provide a selection of silks and sashes to accompany the kimonos.

"Kimonos aren't strictly for women either," she noted. "Men have traditionally worn them in Japan as well. Most of the men's styles are in black or gray and are severe-looking. They save most of the flash for the lining of the kimono, so it can be surprising if you turn them inside out."

Since most American men are larger than their Japanese counterparts, they might be concerned about locating a kimono in their size. Not to worry, says Ms. Case. At least, in most cases.

"I'm 5 feet 9 inches and they fit me just fine in length," she said. "The Japanese pull them up and fold them over anyway. They're made with extra material. If you're a tall, slender male, no problem. If you're tall and have a large waist, you might encounter some difficulty."

"However, I keep going through my supply looking for some large Samurai-warrior types. I know they've got to have some in there somewhere, so we'll make sure everyone gets fitted properly."

Margaret Case displays some of the antique kimonos she will be offering for sale in her soon-to-be-opened store on Mack Avenue.

Dr. David Jantz Chiropractor

Q. I have a severe case of low back pain. Can you help?
 A. Low back pain is the most common musculoskeletal problem in the United States. It is a condition that affects millions of people each year. The pain is usually felt in the lower back and may radiate down the leg. It is often caused by a herniated disc, which is a tear in the outer ring of the disc that allows the inner core to protrude. This can irritate the nearby spinal nerves, causing pain and numbness. Chiropractic treatment can help to reduce the pressure on the nerves and improve the function of the spine. We use a variety of techniques, including manual adjustments, to help to restore the natural alignment of the spine. This can help to reduce the pain and improve your quality of life. We also offer physical therapy and other treatments to help to strengthen your back and prevent future episodes of pain. If you are suffering from low back pain, please contact us today for a consultation. We will work with you to develop a treatment plan that is tailored to your needs. Our goal is to help you to live a pain-free life.

Weekend for cancer patients, family

Park resident Pat Schomaker, a social worker at Harper Hospital, is shown at last year's We Can Weekend held for cancer patients and their family and friends. The successful outing will be held again this Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 20 and 21, at the Waldenwoods Resort and Conference Center in Hartland, Mich. The retreat helps families affected by cancer to learn more about the disease and how to deal with it. Health care professionals will present information and counseling on a personal basis. Registration is $40 for families. Call 494-8444 for information.

Peace Corps offers training in math, science

The Peace Corps is offering skill-training for programs utilizing the backgrounds of college graduates with mathematics and science minors.

Under this initiative, a graduate with as few as 10 hours of biology could qualify for skill-training in fresh water fisheries. Graduates with a minor in mathematics could apply for special instruction in math education methodology.

These special trainings have been instituted to fill the increasing demand for highly skilled volunteers. Peace Corps officials admit that graduates with skills in mathematics and science are in great demand by industry here in the United States. Hence, there are fewer graduates in these fields who are available to spend two years in developing countries overseas.

The Peace Corps is also looking to retirees to fill a number of these math and science positions.

Peace Corps volunteers serve for two years. During their service they receive a generous living allowance, paid travel, language training and health care. A post-service allowance of $175 per month (about $4,200) is paid to each volunteer. Former Peace Corps volunteers have one year of non-competitive eligibility status for federal employment.

Retired people are particularly encouraged to consider the Peace Corps since the readjustment and living allowances generally do not affect Social Security benefits.

During the past 23 years, more than 100,000 Americans, nearly 4,500 of them Michigan residents, have served as Peace Corps volunteers.

For information on Peace Corps service, call 226-7928, extension 456, or write Peace Corps, 477 Michigan Ave., Room M-74, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

Elderly can be vaccinated at St. John Hospital

Five percent of the elderly population will die this year from not being vaccinated against pneumonia or influenza, according to Diane Culik, M.D., of St. John Hospital's Family Medical Center. She devised a plan last fall to tackle the problem.

"We sent letters to all of our patients over age 65 and advised them they should have a pneumonia and a yearly influenza (flu) shot," Culik said. "The patients were informed of the possible side effects and cost, and were encouraged to call for an appointment if they had any questions."

"The flu vaccination should be given every year to people over 65 and to persons of any age with chronic heart, lung, kidney or liver disease or with diabetes or cancer. Flu vaccine should not be given to patients allergic to eggs."

"Common pneumonia can be protected against with a one-time immunization. It is recommended for persons over age 50 and with chronic disease," she adds. For more information, call the Family Medical Center at 343-3040.

North plans homecoming

North High School's preparations for its 15th Annual Homecoming activities Saturday, Oct. 27, are well underway. The day will begin with a pancake breakfast at the school and end with a semi-formal dance.

The pancake breakfast, sponsored by the Student Association, will be held in the student commons from 8:30 to 10 a.m. The cost is $2. Students, parents, grandparents and alumni are invited to attend.

way. The freshmen will build Neptune, the sophomores will make Mercury, and the juniors will build Medusa and the seniors have chosen Thor as their float character. The band and orchestra will also have a float with the character Pegasus.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

There's still time to order tickets for the League of Catholic Women of Detroit's "Helping Hands-Helping Children" benefit concert next Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 8 p.m. at Orchestra Hall, featuring the Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra with Grosse Pointe's First Lady of Music, pianist Ruth Burczyk.

You can get them by sending checks, for $10 or $15 (or, if you're a student, for $5 — the special student rate for regularly $10 tickets), payable to the League of Catholic Women, to Mrs. Walter B. Fisher, 120 Parsons Street, Detroit, Mich. 48201.

Tickets are also available at Orchestra Hall, 831-3700, and all Ticket World outlets. Special Benefactor and Patron tickets are available at the League, 831-1000, only. Benefactors, for $125, receive two box tickets and an invitation to the concert afterglow in the Hall's loge. Patrons, for $75, have their choice of two tickets in the loge or main floor center front, and are also invited to the afterglow.

In a box or in the last seat in the last row, you're in for a smashing evening. The Interlochen Arts Academy Orchestra showcases the musical talents of the young people enrolled in the winter program of the internationally known Interlochen Center for the Arts. And Ruth Burczyk, who has been performing since the age of 16 when she made her debut with the Wisconsin Symphony under the tutelage of eminent pianist Irma Schenuit Hall, has appeared, to acclaim, with orchestras throughout the United States and Canada. Summers, for the past nine years, she has been a member of the distinguished piano faculty at Interlochen's National Music Camp.

The concert fund raiser, which will benefit the League's programs for disadvantaged children, was announced in mid-September by its chairman, Mrs. Joseph N. Impastato, at a party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Frohlich in their Grosse Pointe home. Mr. Frohlich is a long-standing member of Interlochen's board of trustees. Harpist Nadia Marks, who has been soloist with the Grosse Pointe Symphony, performed for the 150 guests attending.

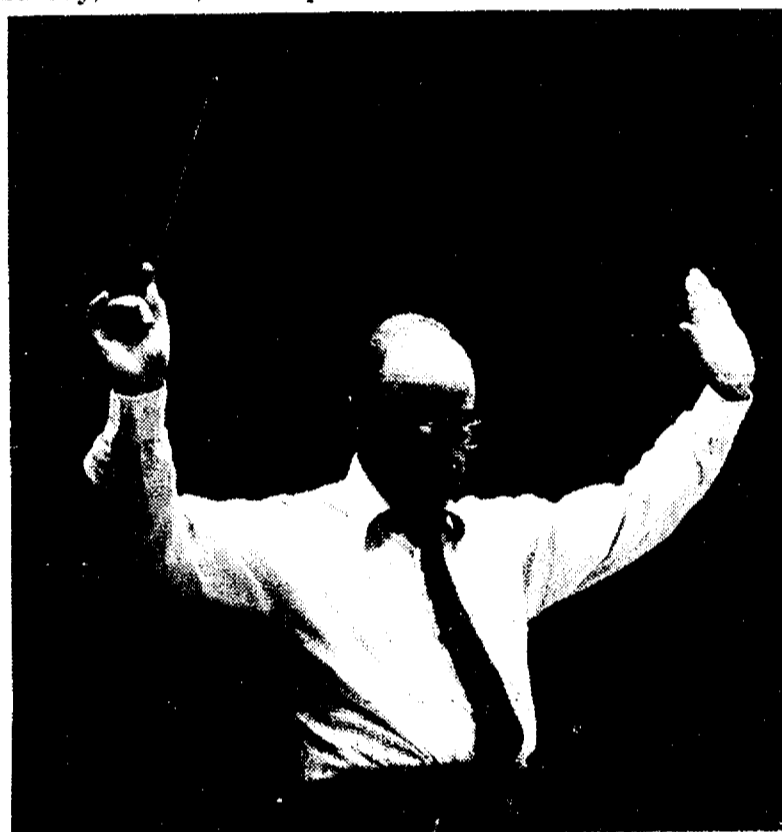

But work on the project began many months ago, long before the official announcement, under the direction of Mrs. Impastato and League President Mrs. C. Bradford Lundy Jr., of The Pointe, and a committee including Mrs. Fisher, who is taking the reservations, Mrs. Gerald Gattorn, Mrs. Noel B. Haberek, Mrs. Leo Marx and Mrs. Mark Valente Jr., all of The Pointe.

They're locksmiths and teachers, housewives and businessmen, students, parents and grandparents. They come to Parcels School every Wednesday night in everything from blue jeans to ... well, nobody's showed up in a ball gown yet, but there's always a first time!

They're the Grosse Pointe Symphony, and they're there to rehearse, and it really doesn't matter what they do "during the day," or what they wear during rehearsals. They're concerned with making music, the best possible music, to present before their audience at four concerts during an October through May season.

"I don't condescend to the quality of music we play," says Felix Resnick, their conductor. "We certainly haven't dodged any good music."

He's led the Grosse Pointe Symphony for 25 years and the Birmingham-Bloomfield Symphony for 10, and that takes care of his Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, for Birmingham-Bloomfield rehearses on Tuesday nights, Grosse Pointe on Wednesdays.

The rest of the week is taken up by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. Felix is the DSO's assistant Principal Second Violin.

Pair exchange vows Aug. 4

Jackson's Queen of the Miraculous Medal Catholic Church was the setting Saturday, August 4, for the wedding of Elizabeth Anne McQuillan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Lewis F. McQuillan, of Jackson, and Robert Edward Zaranek, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimir S. Zaranek, of Anita Avenue.

The 1 o'clock ceremony at which The Reverend George Mullen presided was followed by a reception at The Cascades Clubhouse, Jackson, after which the newlyweds left to vacation in Toronto. They are at home in Ann Arbor.

The bride wore a traditional white gown, styled with a scoop-necked bodice of embroidered organza, elbow length, puffed sleeves of matching organza, a basque waist and a bouffant organza skirt with embroidered organza accents, ending in a chapel length train.

More embroidered organza covered the Juliet cap that caught her fingertip illusion veil and blusher. Her "something old" was the heirloom pendant of 15 diamonds first worn by her great-grandmother, Elizabeth Ann Hollier-Lewis.

The bride was named for that great-grandmother. The pendant the former Miss McQuillan clasped around her neck at her summer wedding had also been worn by her grandmother, Alice Winifred Lewis McQuillan, and her mother, Charlotte Patricia Tiemeier McQuillan.

A cascade of white roses, stephanotis, baby's-breath and English ivy formed the bridal bouquet.

Honor maid Molly A. Wiarda, of Jackson, wore a sundress style, floor length dress of peacock blue lightweight linen, with a bolero jacket. Bridesmaids, dressed identically in pale blue lightweight linen, were Mrs. Lawrence Macklin, of Clawson, Mrs. Larry McWilliams, of Clark Lake, Sandi Rosema, of Grand Rapids, and the bridegroom's niece, Christine Zaranek, of Rochester.

They carried nosegays of daisies, mums and baby's-breath, with white satin streamers.

Stephen S. Zaranek acted as best man for his brother. Ushering were Richard Zaranek, another brother, Dr. Mark A. McQuillan, of Ann Arbor, and Lewis F. McQuillan, of Ypsilanti, the bride's brothers, and Keith Dunham, of Ann Arbor.

The mother of the bride, in a pale blue Qiana knit with a sheer overlay, styled with sheer sleeves and a jeweled neckline and cuffs,

In The Spotlight

Two Grosse Pointe South High School freshmen, ballet students of Mary Ellen Cooper at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, have been traveling to Royal Oak almost every evening to rehearse with the corps of 20 metropolitan area girls who will be dancing with the Pennsylvania Ballet during its Oct. 24 to 28 engagement at the Music Hall. Needless to say, Miya Yoshitani, of McKinley Avenue, and Jennifer Dahl, of Elm Court, begrudge neither the trips nor the time spent preparing for such a marvelous opportunity.

Lyric soprano (Mary) Elizabeth Smith, once a SHEP student at the Grosse Pointe Academy, is "coming home" to give a recital at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Saturday, Oct. 27, at 8 p.m., before returning to Europe for an audition-winning year's apprenticeship at the Vienna Staatsoper. The performance by the one-time Saint Lucy's chorister and Folk Group director is a Fine Arts Scholarship benefit, sponsored by the Friends of Polish Art, and will feature the world premier of Italian composer Tiziana Fumagalli's "Anemos." Tickets, at $15, may be obtained by calling 581-5677 (days), 476-6889 (after 6 p.m.).

Grosse Pointe's Fern Zwickey is among six Wayne State University alumni who will be honored this Saturday, Oct. 20, at McGregor Memorial Conference Center with WSU Arts Achievement Awards. Fern, who earned her Bachelor of Arts degree at Northwestern State University in Oklahoma and her Masters ('37) from WSU where for 32 years she was Professor of Art Education, giving hundreds of lectures, demonstrations and workshops in educational puppetry, will receive the Art Education Award. In 1983, she received a Trustee Award from the Puppeteers of America for her great service to that organization.

If you're in the market, say, for a distinctive sterling buckle, plain or monogrammed, or some other such Very Special item, the Mart's the place to look. It's open from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. today, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow, and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $2. Lunches are available. Parking is free.

The 58th Original Old World Market at the International Institute of Metropolitan Detroit is going on RIGHT NOW, at the Institute on East Kirby Street at John R, in Detroit's University/Cultural Center, and will continue there through Sunday — but if you want to see Park resident Vi Hatzjiannis model a Greek wedding dress, you'll have to hurry on down, for the "Showing of Nationality Costumes" is scheduled for this afternoon, following a Flamenco Dance workshop at 1:30 p.m. Market hours are 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily. Admission ranges from $2 for adults to 50 cents for children ages 6 to 11. Children under 6 are free.

If you elect to wait until Sunday to visit the Market, combining it with a visit to the nearby Center for Creative Studies-College of Art and Design 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday Open House, you can get a bargain: one free admission to the Market with one paid admission upon presentation of your CCS Open House invitation.

In The Future

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas for members of Saint John Hospital's Fontbonne Auxiliary, busy planning their 31st Annual White Christmas Ball, an "Old-Fashioned Christmas Gala" set for Saturday, Dec. 8, at the Country Club of Detroit.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served at 7 p.m., followed by dinner at 8:30 and dancing to the music of the Meyer Davis Orchestra. "Proceeds from this year's ball will be used for the renovation of Saint John Hospital, including the provision of 35 psychiatric beds," says Mary (Mrs. John A.) Tulloch, chairperson.

Mary's co-chairperson is Bettejean (Mrs. Edmund T.) Ahee. Honorary chairpersons are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick K. Cody. Reservation information may be obtained through the Fontbonne office, 343-3675.

DGOA seeks young singers

The Detroit Grand Opera Association's auditions for the Samuel J. Lang $3,000 Scholarship Award, the Elizabeth Hodges Donovan $1,000 Memorial Award, the Henry E. Wenger $1,000 Memorial Award and the $1,500 Francis Robinson Professional Engagement Award will be held Nov. 3 and 4, Saturday and Sunday, at the Music Hall Center for the Performing Arts.

This opera auditions program, sponsored by the DGOA under auspices of the Metropolitan Opera National Council, is made possible in part by a grant from the Lucille Drazick Prepolec Foundation.

Applicants must be in the following age brackets: sopranos, 19-33; mezzos and contraltos, 20-33; tenors, baritones and basses, 20-35. A photostatic copy of the applicant's birth certificate or similar proof of age must be submitted with the application. No age waivers are granted to former or present members of the armed services.

Requests for applications may be made by writing Mrs. Sam B. Williams, District Auditions Chairman, Detroit Grand Opera Association, 500 Temple Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48201. Completed forms must be returned by Friday, Oct. 19.

The preliminary competition on Saturday, Nov. 3, begins at 10 a.m. Semi-finals on Sunday, Nov. 4, begin at 10 a.m. and will be followed by final auditions at 1:30 p.m. A reception for winners, judges and the public will follow the final auditions.

The purpose of the DGOA's opera auditions is to discover new operatic talent and to help encourage young singers in their careers. The Lang, Donovan and Wenger awards are for advanced study in voice and operatic training under the supervision of the DGOA. The Metropolitan Opera National Council Regional Auditions offer opportunities for young singers to compete for additional cash prizes.

The purpose of the Francis Robinson Professional Engagement Award is to give the young performer making the transition from vocal study to the direct pursuit of an operatic career an opportunity for professional stage experience. The winner of this award will be engaged as a Resident Intern with Michigan Opera Theatre.

Slate Stitchery Guild evenings

The Metropolitan Detroit Stitchery Guild, a chapter of the Embroiderers' Guild of America, meets the third Monday of every month, September through May, at 7:30 p.m. at Saint Paul Evangelical Lutheran Church on Chalfonte Avenue.

The guild's purpose is to foster the development of any type of art work done with a needle. Last Monday's lesson in shadow quilting was taught by guest teacher Mary King. Upcoming programs will focus on needlepoint, blackwork, quilting, pulled thread, applique, crewel embroidery and counted thread.

Guests and prospective members are welcome at all monthly meetings. Further information may be obtained by contacting Kerry Edick at 496-3936 (days) or 882-5471 (evenings).

Enjoying Oktoberfest

Grosse Pointers MARK BELTAIRE, MRS. JOSEPH A. VANCE and MRS. VICTOR WERTZ (left to right) received their commemorative Trinity Lutheran Church Oktoberfest posters Friday night, Oct. 5, from The Reverend DAVID EBERHARD during Trinity's first annual Oktoberfest in the church Fellowship Hall, transformed for the evening into a Bavarian castle. Highlight of the party, which featured German food, music and entertainment and beer by the stein, was the first annual "Blessing of the Hops," which remain in a cylinder in the Stroh Brewery until the next Trinity Oktoberfest, on the first Friday of October, 1985, when new hops will be blessed. Fund raised via the Oktoberfest parties go towards restoration and renovation of the historic church, and its outreach programs.

Theatre Arts to open year

Mary Belanger and her cohorts are having fun with Tennessee Williams . . . does that sound odd? If you think of the playwright in terms of Southern Decadence and "Suddenly Last Summer," it certainly does.

But Williams had a light side, too, and his little-known play, "A Lovely Sunday for Creve Coeur," is really quite funny.

It's been selected as the first performance of the 1984-85 Theatre Arts' season, scheduled for presentation tomorrow afternoon, Friday, Oct. 19, before members and guests of the all-woman drama club at The Players Playhouse on East Jefferson Avenue.

Mary is directing a small cast: Nancy Mizer, Nancy Kosinski, Irene Blatchford, Trudy Schmidt and Edith Johnson holding script while rehearsing in Pat Griffin's basement.

Scurrying backstage meanwhile, under producer Leona Putnam, are Karen Quarnstrom, in charge of set design; Lillian Forrest, Jean Hawkins and Pat Griffin, properties; Betty Kackley and Mary Krueger, costumes; Monica Locke, sound effects; Amy Adams, Susan Kearney and Yolanda Turner, make-up; and Margaret Locke and Genevieve Gray, lighting.

Tomorrow's ushers will be Dorothea Bush and Dorothy Hanna. Hostesses for the two dress rehearsals and the tea following the performance are Gail Weber, Linda Zimmerman, Alice Zoya, Kay Baird, Lorine Foster, Katherine Larwin, Marian Skillman, Patricia Gitre, Marie Berteel, Frances DeWulf, Sally Jay and Isobel Verriest.

Test your child for self-esteem

"Your Child's Self-Esteem" is the topic of a presentation to be given by Dr. Kenneth Wahl at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 23, at Assumption Nursery School and Toddler Center, located in the former East-pointe Elementary School, two blocks north of Assumption Cultural Center on Marter Road.

The program is free and open to all adults interested in the self-esteem of the young child. A $1 donation is requested.

Dr. Wahl, an expert in child development, has been a teacher, principal, assistant superintendent and superintendent of schools in Bay County. He is now a curriculum consultant, with a Ph.D. in Staff Development from Michigan State University.

Bridges cross Gender Gap -- don't they?

Are women gaining ground in their quest for equality in the workforce? Are they conquering their inferiority complex? Is it true that today's woman is plagued by self-doubt, changing social mores and an undefined, but highly visible, social role?

"Bridging the Gender Gap" will be Dr. Winifred Fraser's topic when she addresses a dinner meeting of the Women's Connection of Grosse Pointe next Thursday, Oct. 25, at Pernie's Lakeshore.

Reservations for the evening, which begins with a socializing/networking hour at 6 p.m. and dinner at 6:30 p.m. and concludes with Dr. Fraser's talk, running from 7:30 to 9 p.m., are $8 for Women's Connection members, $10.50 for non-members.

Post-dinner reservations for the lecture only are $3. Accepting reservations at 882-1687 is Joan Wright. Dr. Fraser received her Ph.D. in Psychology from Wayne State University, where she was a member of the Psychology Department for many years and, more recently, served as associate dean of the WSU Graduate School.

She has been active in community as well as professional affairs. Currently, she serves as second vice-president of the Women's Economic Club, on the Executive Committee and Affirmative Committee for the Commission on the Status of Women and on the board of directors of the YMCA.

She has been a member of the State Board of Education, Special Task Force on Detroit-Wayne County Mental Health board and Friends of WDET-FM.

The Women's Connection of Grosse Pointe welcomes all interested in women's concerns and needs to its programs, designed to satisfy a diverse audience and assist each individual to realize her own potential, to learn more about herself and the world in which she lives.

Wine's focus is on France in Revolution

The French Revolution will be Sherwin Wine's topic when he kicks off another lecture series, "France: The Three Traumas," next Wednesday, Oct. 24, at 9:30 a.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Most critics view the Revolution as a positive happening, reinforcing liberty and democracy. But others view it as a disastrous event: a prelude to Robespierre and Napoleon and the forerunner of totalitarianism. Wine, director of the Center for New Thinking, will consider both aspects of the upheaval.

The following Wednesday, Oct. 31, he will talk about "The French and the Germans: Vichy and The Occupation."

Modern France has two personalities: the one that embraced the Revolution and the one that rejected it. The former dispensed the liberalism and secularism of the French intellectual elite, while the army, church and patriotic maiconsents awaited the opportunity for power given them by France's astonishing military defeat by the Germans in World War II.

This gave the "losers" of the Revolution their chance to rule — but it also made them the puppet of a hated enemy. Four years of German occupation were a major trauma from which the French have not yet recovered.

The final lecture, Nov. 7, will focus on DeGaulle and Mitterand. "The Age of Decline." DeGaulle devoted much of his time to acts of grandeur and political assertiveness suggestive of a renewal of French power. But in reality, France's performance never equalled its propaganda.

The French people were finally, under Mitterand, forced to acknowledge the truth of their decline. "Juggling their pride and their needs," says Wine, "is no easy act."

Fee for the three-lecture series is $14, for a single lecture, $6. Additional information may be obtained by calling 881-7511.

To honor newest C.P.S. designates

The Detroit Chapter of Professional Secretaries International will honor four women — Kathleen L. Cherris, Glenda D. Childers, Donna J. Huffman and Jane T. Murray — who have successfully completed the annual two-day C.P.S. examination and earned the rating of Certified Professional Secretary.

The quartet will be cited at a Detroit PSI dinner meeting next Wednesday, Oct. 24, at Fairlane Manor, Dearborn. After a social hour at 5:30 p.m. and dinner at 6:30, Helen A. Nicholis, chapter president, will introduce the honorees.

The evening's guest speaker is Sandra Buike, Ph.D., associate director of New Detroit, Inc. Ticket information may be obtained by contacting Sharon Buselmeier at 336-1149.

Operation LINC

"The Burning Bed," a made-for-TV movie about domestic violence, was telecast Oct. 8, during Domestic Violence Awareness Week. The film, starring Farrah Fawcett, told the story of Francine and Mickey Hughes, of Danville, Mich. Mrs. Hughes, after years of physical abuse from her husband, desperate for some means of escape from a hopeless situation, set fire to her husband's bed while he was sleeping.

In an attempt to help women cope with and/or leave similar abuse situations, domestic violence shelters have been established all over the country. The Federated Council of Domestic Violence Programs coordinates and centralizes these shelters within our state.

Among them are First Step (serving western Wayne County), Interim House (central Wayne County), H.A.V.E.N. (Oakland County) and Turning Point (Macomb County). All offer services such as counseling, 24-hour crisis phone lines, emergency housing, health care, legal and financial assistance, and children's services.

The Domestic Violence Council lists the following facts which substantiate the need for these facilities:

- Thirty-nine thousand Americans died between 1967 and 1973 in the Vietnam War. During that same period, 17,570 Americans died as a result of family violence.
- Forty percent of all murders are within the family.
- In one-half of spouse-abusing families, the children are battered as well.
- In the United States alone, a wife is beaten every 30 seconds.
- Twenty thousand spouse abuse cases are reported annually in the tri-county area.
- Nearly 50 percent of calls for police assistance involve husband/wife disputes, but less than five percent of police training deals with domestic violence intervention.

Absenteeism related to domestic assaults results in an economic loss to the country of $3 to $5 million per year, plus another $100 million in medical bills.

Increased incidents of domestic violence are an unfortunate by-product of prolonged unemployment.

Operation LINC (Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community) operates within Wayne County, and the two shelters serving Wayne County at this time are Interim House and First Step.

Interim House is among the largest domestic violence shelters in the United States. Executive Director Joyce Stewart reports that it provided shelter to approximately 2,048 women and children from October, 1983, to September, 1984. Interim House opened in 1979; in October of 1982, it expanded to include residential services and child care for alcohol-troubled women and their children.

First Step also opened in 1979, when it officially began serving clients in April. Since then, it has provided services on a non-residential basis to over 3,000 families. First Step moved into a shelter facility during the winter of 1983, and is currently able to service 20 women and children each month. During the past year, approximately 240 families have been sheltered.

Wine auction is a winner

A record $138,000 was raised on the last Saturday in September at the third annual Detroit International Wine Auction benefit for the Detroit Community Music School, a black tie event which drew a capacity crowd of 400 to Lovett Hall in Greenfield Village.

This amount doubles last year's figure, firmly establishing the Detroit auction as the second largest charity wine auction in the country, behind Napa Valley.

Edsel Ford II served as master of ceremonies for the evening, and remarked on the history of Lovett Hall, built by his great-grandfather Henry Ford for square dancing. "I think he'd roll over in his grave if he saw all the wine here tonight," his great-grandson teased.

Louis P. Martini, president of Louis M. Martini Winery, was honorary chairman for the event. J. Brian Cole, president of Christie's East, served as auctioneer. James Goss and Marcia Wiltshire co-chaired the evening.

Per expectations, California businessman Walter Emery was the top bidder. He continued his tradition of purchasing the first lot offered: in this case, 12 bottles of 1976 Louis M. Martini Cabernet Sauvignon, Special Selection, sold for $1,500. Emery also was high bidder on the final lot, bidding $4,000 for 24

First Step services an additional 30 to 40 non-resident clients who came in for counseling. It receives between 70 and 100 crisis calls per month. It has published a book, "Spouse Abuse Injunctions — Questions and Answers," and arranges academic credit for student volunteers through a local community college. Jane Dewey, First Step's executive director, says that since the showing of "The Burning Bed" there has been an increase in phone calls from people who recognize the need for help.

The needs of these shelters continue to increase as domestic violence becomes more visible and women learn there are alternatives to their situations. The following are always in great demand at the shelters, and can be donated through LINC: hygienic/cleaning supplies, beds and linens, house furniture, infant cribs and high chairs, toiletries, paper goods (cups, plates, toilet tissue, napkins), health supplies, office and recreation equipment.

Service project help to maintain the shelter programs is also needed. Anyone who can assist with plumbing, electrical work, carpentry, child care or transportation is invited to call LINC. A call from a locksmith would be very nice.

A new addition to the LINC program is Martha Brosky, who will be in charge of corporate funding. Mrs. Brosky, currently president of Welcome Wagon, has a background in banking and a Master of Business Administration degree. The LINC board of directors looks forward to working with her during the coming year.

Another new addition is the "News-LINC," a method of communicating with our volunteers, designed to increase their involvement with the LINC operation. It will be a newsletter, sent out periodically with information on volunteer activities, fund raisers and general programs and projects. Anyone who would like to receive a copy is invited to contact the LINC office, 331-6700.

A continuing LINC communication vehicle is the slide presentation which explains how LINC operates. Erica Lindow, past-president, now working on LINC future planning, recently presented the slide program to Welcome Wagon. If you have a group interested in seeing it, please call the LINC office to arrange a date and time.

During the Halloween season, LINC receives requests from social service agencies for candy and supplies to be used at children's parties. The parties are an alternative to Trick or Treating: a safer way for children to celebrate the season of ghosts and goblins. Anyone who is able to donate wrapped candy or other party favors is urged to call LINC.

Other items requested this month include paint brushes, rollers, thermal underwear, film and slide projectors, and a free-standing chalkboard or corkboard.

LINC column space is provided each month by the Grosse Pointe News as a community service. Operation LINC needs your generous contributions and your time. We are a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous Wayne County agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or donate usable items, please call us at 331-6700. Our office hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday, throughout the year.

Outstanding parent volunteers

Soroptimist/Venture aid to Shriners

HAL HAERING, Illustrious Potentate of the Moslem Temple, recently accepted a check for $759, proceeds from a joint fund raising project of Soroptimist International of Grosse Pointe and the Venture Club of Grosse Pointe, from MONIQUE BACZEWSKI (left), representing the Venture Club, and Soroptimist representative ANN CUNNINGHAM. The money will go to the Shriners Crippled Children's Fund which serves 11 southeastern Michigan counties, providing financial assistance to care for crippled or burned children via transportation to Shriners' hospitals in Chicago or Cincinnati, payment for orthopaedic equipment (such as braces) and many other health care costs. The two service clubs held a "Dutch Auction" to raise the money, members donating items which were auctioned off to members and guests at a dinner gathering at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The Venture Club, sponsored by the local Soroptimist International and formed less than two years ago in the Pointe area, will raise funds this year for the Michigan Lupus Foundation by sponsoring a dance and a spring fashion show. In conjunction with a celebration of October as "Venture" month, club members would like to meet other business and professional women under the age of 33 who are concerned about their community and have a desire to take an active part in its development. For more information on Venture, which offers personal and professional enrichment activities as well as community involvement, contact Judy Bowen at 772-6801.

Card luncheon for Valparaiso

The Valparaiso University Guild, Detroit Chapter, will hold "A Symphony of Salads" luncheon and card party at noon tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 19, at Saint Thomas Lutheran Church, located on Kelly Road in East Detroit.

Poles to be topic for genealogists

"The Polonians: Their Homes, Their Churches and Their Businesses" is the topic for the St. Clair Shores Genealogy Group's meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 25, in the St. Clair Shores Public Library, located at the corner of Jefferson Avenue and 11 Mile Road.

The presentation by William Gorski and Pamela Lazar, of the Polish Genealogical Society of Michigan, is based on the enormous amount of material they have gathered documenting the lives of Polish immigrants and their descendants in the southeast and other parts of the state. The meeting is free and open to the public. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mary Karshner at the library, 771-9020.

Pursuing the non-trivial

Texas home for the Stahls

Melanie Blythe McKoane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Given McKoane, of Barrington Hills, Ill., was married Saturday, June 9, to Gregory Ian Stahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Stahl, of The Farms.

The newlyweds traveled from Saint Mark's Episcopal Church, where they exchanged their vows, to their reception at the Barrington Hills Country Club via an antique horse and buggy.

The Reverend Herbert Barrall presided at the 4 o'clock ceremony for which the bride selected a gown featuring a fitted, off-the-shoulder bodice of white satin and Venetian lace and a skirt of white silk organza, with a chapel length train.

Her fingertip veil fell from a wreath of silk flowers. She carried an arrangement of white cymbidium orchids, white heather and stephanotis.

Mary Beth McKoane, honor maid for her sister, and bridesmaids Tammy Maione, Mimi Noyes, Lisa Noestrom, Susan Motherway, Carlyle Madden, Sally McKoane and Lisa Honstreiter, all of Chicago, Nancy Yapp, of Louisville, Ky., and Mary Ann Clark, of Cincinnati, carried bouquets of dendrobium and rubrum lilies and pink roses.

Their floor length, off-the-shoulder dresses were fashioned of shell pink polished cotton. Pink and white satin streamers fell from their headpieces, which were wreaths of pink and white silk flowers.

Best man was Jeffery Wardwell, of Los Angeles, Calif., formerly of The Pointe. Ushering were another former Pointer, David Boydell, who now makes his home in San Francisco, Greg Wells, of Charlottesville, Va., Michael and Matthew McKoane, of Barrington Hills, Charles Gardella, of Chicago, and Greg Nelson, John Park and Pierre DuCharme, of The Pointe.

The mother of the bride wore a pink silk dress and a wide-brimmed, pink hat trimmed with matching fabric. She carried a small bouquet of Sweetheart roses and baby's-breath. The bridegroom's mother, in pale pink silk, pinned rubrum lilies in her hair.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory I. Stahl

Bonnier back at the DIA

Pianist Bess Bonnier has returned to open the fall season at the Detroit Institute of Arts' Crystal Gallery as the museum's "Sunday Afternoons" resume, offering exotic coffees and teas, cocktails, champagne and fresh fancy pastries at moderate prices (beginning at $2) to accompany Ms. Bonnier's Best-of-Broadway, light jazz and classic piano stylings from 1 to 4 p.m. each Sunday.

Reservations are not necessary. A cover charge of $1.50 per person is customary. The Crystal Gallery, restored last year to its original 1928 Greek Revival design, with a four-story decorated ceiling, velvet drapery, hand-loomed custom carpeting and linens and tableware especially selected to complement the room, has become one of the DIA's most popular settings for art exhibition preview receptions and other activities.

GP Symphony in rehearsal

(Continued from Page 1B) That's a heavy schedule, and there's only one reason why he does or would commit to it. "I love music." Simple as that. Before you feel too sorry for him (or, perhaps more, sorry for Mrs. Resnick), reflect that he does get a five-week vacation every year.

This year, the Resnicks used that vacation to cover the country by car, visiting their son in Texas, then driving to New York where their daughter, married to an attorney, lives in Greenwich Village. Then, since the daughter's husband had never been to Upper Michigan, the Resnicks took him, and their daughter, there.

The weekly drive to Grosse Pointe and the weekly drive to Birmingham-Bloomfield from the Resnick home in Huntington Woods aren't worth blinking an eye over. The Grosse Pointe Symphony Orchestra is one of the older ones in the metropolitan area, about to begin its 32nd season. "Community orchestras have proliferated around Detroit in recent years," says Conductor Resnick. "They range from indifferent to good."

For reasons of modesty and self-protection, he declines to give any examples.

"We really try to preserve the community feeling," says Pamela Rapalee Ford, viola, orchestra manager. "We do not hire players under contract."

The Grosse Pointe Symphony players are people like Pamela, a Critical Care Clinical Specialist at Detroit Osteopathic Hospital, where she started the Open Heart program. Pamela knew she wanted a health care career when she left high school and entered Wayne

State University. But she also knew she wanted music.

So in 1965, the same year she left high school and entered WSU, she joined the Pointe Symphony. She's been on its board of directors "at least eight years."

She's a good musician, has won a number of awards over the years and goes to the Interlochen Adult Chamber Music Camp every year.

The Pointe Symphony players are people like Grosse Pointe's Best-Traveled Gentleman, Pierre Palmentier, who plays piccolo. "The biggest guy got the smallest instrument," says Pierre, with the usual twinkle in his eye.

They're people like the father/son combination of Russ Nahat, trombone, and Nicholas Nahat, violin. People like Paul Miller, trumpet, who loves instrumental music just as much as his brother, Ralph, but doesn't get to spend his days teaching it at Grosse Pointe South High School.

They're people who, every Wednesday evening, show up at Parcels School to make music. Because they want to.

You can hear the good music they make on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 28, at 3:30 p.m. in Parcels Auditorium. Twenty-year-old Mark Abbott, assistant Principal Horn with the Detroit Symphony, will be guest artist at this Grosse Pointe Symphony 1984-85 season opening concert.

Tickets, at $5 for adults, $2.50 for students, are available at the door or in advance by calling 886-6244. That's also the number to call for season ticket information.

The Pointe Symphony season continues with concerts Jan. 27 featuring Grosse Pointe's Ruth Burczyk, piano, as guest artist, and Mar. 10 with Edward Zilberkant, Grosse Pointe Piano Competition winner, as guest artist, and concludes with a May 5 concert featuring Margaret Rees, soprano, as guest artist.

All concerts begin at 3:30 p.m. in the auditorium at Parcels Middle School, Mack Avenue at Vernier Road, and are followed by meet-the-artists receptions in the school gym.

Fashion dates at Dominican

Dominican will also be the site of a workshop designed to show students what colors look best on them, running from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 7.

A coffee hour and business session conducted by Mrs. Carl Kasza, chapter president preceded the presentation.
