Odds 'n' ends

Well folks, it's time to clean up my desk. I've had all these phone messages, strange stories and press releases gathering here the last three weeks, waiting to somehow tie them altogether.

It can't be done. So instead I'm simply going to write them up and drop them all in your laps. You sort them out for a change.

First, two stories from the Shores. A resident reported to the police that someone crept into his backyard on Christmas Eve and stole the cover to his Webber grill while he slept.

Then, on Jan. 4, he was awakened by noises in his backyard at about 2:30 a.m. He checked around but didn't see anyone. And there, in the morning light, he discovered that his barbecue cover had been returned.

There's probably a moral there somewhere, what with the idea of Santa flying by on Christmas Eve and borrowing the cover, or some thief suddenly being filled with remorse upon seeing a star shining in the sky. But for the life of me I don't know what it could be, so let's just forget it.

Then on Jan. 22, a South Duval resident called the police to help her with an eagle that flew into her house. Reports say the woman heard a crash at about 12:30 p.m. and thought someone was breaking into her home.

She peeked into the living room and found a large bird of prey resting on her floor wearing a rather dazed look. He'd flown right through her picture window.

Public Safety Officer John Frasad came to the rescue, first throwing a blanket over the bird, which later was identified as a sparrow hawk, then finally capturing it in a cardboard box.

The "eagle" was turned over to the Department of Natural Resources, still in pretty good shape. I'm told. I've tried to tie this story in with the one above, but it's just impossible. Sparrow hawks aren't nearly strong enough to carry off metal grill covers.

In the Farms, the Michigan Historical Commission announced that the Henry G. and Charlotte B. Sherrard House has been listed in the state Register of Historic Places.

The home is located at 59 Lakeshore Road, and was built in 1893 for Joseph H. Berry, of the Berry Brothers Varnish Co. He, in turn, gave it to his daughter and new son-in-law, the Sherrards, as a wedding gift. According to Jon Gandelot, who's responsible for the home's registration with the state, it was the first residence ever designed by famed architect Albert Kahn.

Gandelot also said the house has been completely refurbished, looks gorgeous and will soon receive national registration as a site of historical significance.

By the way, did you know that the Farms is located near Jackson Prison? At least, that's according to Tom Cahill, of a group called "People Organized to Stop Rape of Imprisoned Persons," in Napa, Calif.

Mr. Cahill sent me a press release filled with more than enough information on homosexual prison rape that began "Jackson Prison, near Grosse Pointe Farms in Michigan, may be the biggest, most overcrowded, racial hotbed in the country."

Cahill said his group was founded by a rape victim named Smith in the late '70s, and because Smith's whereabouts are unknown, he's taken over the reins of leadership. He said his is a "miniscule organization, funded by one unemployed man, officed in the cold, damp camper of an old pick-up truck, trying to shed light on a monstrous problem that has serious consequences for all of society."

I have the organization's address if anyone would care to help. And I suppose if you stop to think of it, the Farms is located next to Jackson if you're viewing it from a damp camper in California somewhere.

Ice is nice!

By Tom Greenwood

No, it's not the world's largest popsicle, but it comes close. Instead, the 25-foot-tall, blue-green ice sculpture is the creation of Bob, Pam, Jennifer and Tim Harmount, of Lakepointe Road.

The Harmounts began the sculpture just after the first of the year, first building a wooden structure to lend their creation form and to prevent it from crashing through their picture window once it begins to melt.

A portable boom helps direct water from a garden hose onto the top to form a cascading effect.

"The flow of water has to be just right," Harmount said, pointing to the top of the sculpture. "If it's too slow, the hose freezes up; too fast and it wears a hole in the ice. Just the right amount makes it look like a waterfall."

After five years of building an ice sculpture in their yard, the pillar has become something of a neighborhood tradition.

"I didn't build one last year," Harmount said. "I guess I just got lazy. Then the neighbors called and told me to get busy. Even the police seem to like it. I saw three squad cars in front yesterday. I thought I'd done something wrong and ran outside. Then they told me how much they admired it."

Lit at night with floodlights, the tower can clearly be seen from Jefferson Avenue, two blocks away. "It seems to absorb the light, then glow from within," Mrs. Harmount said. "It looks like a giant candle in our front yard. And it certainly does attract the traffic."

As in years past, the Harmounts figure their sculpture will be around until Easter.

"But once it gets warm, it disappears fast," Bob said. "One day it's there and the next it's gone."

Incidentally, Baron, the Harmounts' big, friendly Rottweiler has strict orders not to go near the sculpture. He's a very frustrated male dog.

Roll over, Beethoven! The fiddle is a fake

By Tom Greenwood

Well, the jury is in and the verdict doesn't look good. No, the world's oldest violin is not here in Grosse Pointe.

What is here instead is an interesting fake. At least that's the opinion of Bill Williams, of Charterhouse and Co. Jewelers, in the Village.

The mystery began Jan. 9 when a man entered the Village Locksmith on Mack Avenue and requested a key for an old violin case he was carrying. David Markowitz, owner of the shop, made a key in about 10 minutes and opened the case to discover a violin hidden beneath old, yellowed newspaper clippings.

The clippings described a "rare violin, worth $12,000" made in 1516 by Gaspard Diuffo-Pruggar, Bonamillio. When Markowitz and partner Bob Mowbray realized the instrument they held matched the description of the violin in the newspapers, they became excited.

The man explained the violin had been inherited by his wife. He tucked the instrument under his arm and walked away.

Word of the violin came out in a subsequent Grosse Pointe News interview and the hunt was on. A week of personal messages aimed at the instrument's owners failed to turn up a clue. Then came the call from Williams.

"It's quite a coincidence," Williams said. "Charterhouse knew of the existence of this violin before the story broke and I was reading about it in the Grosse Pointe News just as the owners came through our doors."

"While I always try to maintain a positive attitude about these things, I thought from the beginning it might not be real. There's just too much against it. First of all, the date of 1516 is against the instrument. Diuffo-Pruggar made a number of instruments, but the violin came in after his work — at least the majority of it. It's right on the border.

"It would be like finding an automobile made by a buggy maker back in the 1870s," Williams said. "But there's always the thought that maybe, just maybe, he made one during his career. But it's not to be. Even if he did, the earlier violins looked nothing like this one."

Another strike against the instrument is the comparatively poor quality of the carvings that adorn the violin.

"If the instrument is truly from 1516, the carvings would be much more intricate and beautiful," Williams said. "Labor was nothing in those days. People would work for two or three years on an instrument and it showed. Especially if this one was supposed to have been made for the king of France."

"I also like the Latin motto on the outside," continued Williams. "It translates, 'Alive I am with the living. Dead I am with God.' That's a nice touch."

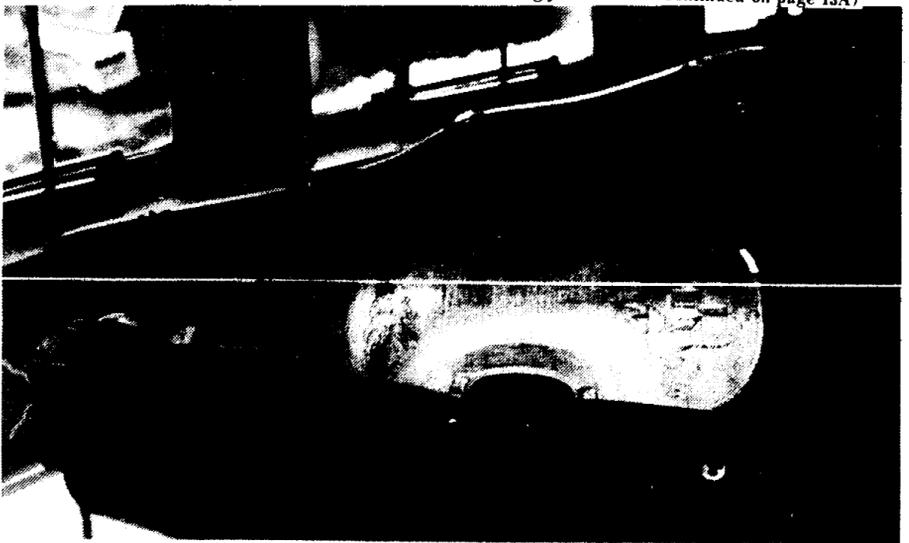

Williams believes the violin was probably made in Bohemia during a period from 1850-70. "The carving of the man's head on the bow is a strong indication," Williams said. "It looks like something you'd find on a meerschaum pipe — very German-like — and not very elegantly carved either, by the way."

The instrument may be a fake, but it's not because its maker didn't try very hard. "It's fascinating how these scoundrels will try to invent a history to go along with the instrument," Williams said.

"Notice the neck on this violin," he said, holding up the instrument. "Notice that it's new, compared with the rest of the instrument? By 1790 they started lengthening the necks of violins because it gave them better tone. By 1900 it was nearly impossible to find a new violin without a longer neck. Also,

Shores man charged with manslaughter

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A 19-year-old Shores man was bound over Tuesday, Jan. 22, to Wayne County Circuit Court to face charges of manslaughter with a motor vehicle by City Municipal Judge Stan C. Kazul.

After a five-hour preliminary examination, Kazul ordered Matthew Cardello to appear in circuit court Feb. 14 to face the charges, which stem from an auto accident in December in which Daniel Brady, 19, of the Farms, died.

Eight witnesses were called by prosecutor Augustus Hutting and defense attorney Lawrence McDonald, including the emergency room doctor from Bon Secours who treated Cardello, medical technicians from the hospital who took blood samples, and police and fire officers from the City and Park.

Kazul told counsel he was binding the defendant over to circuit court because testimony from police about the accident "was devoid of anything the defendant did to exonerate himself from the predicament" and showed "more than simple inattention."

Involuntary homicide charges require proof of simple negligence, but gross negligence must be proved for manslaughter, the attorneys said.

Cardello and Brady were in a 1984 Chevrolet Blazer truck that jumped the curb of north bound Jefferson early Sunday morning, Dec. 9, traveled about 100 feet in the easement and struck a tree.

Officer Ronald Pryor, first on the scene, said he was on patrol when the call came in. When he arrived less than a minute later, Pryor said he saw the vehicle wrapped around a tree in the easement just west of Island Lane.

There were two people in the car. The driver, who Pryor identified as Cardello, stared straight ahead and didn't speak, the officer testified. Only the upper body of the passenger, Brady, was visible, he added.

During his investigation of the site, Pryor said he found no signs the vehicle had been forced from the road by collision. The tracks showed the vehicle didn't brake before striking the tree, but the driver tired to veer to the left of the tree.

Under questioning by McDonald, Pryor said he felt the vehicle would have careened off the tree, had the driver veered more to the left. It appeared the right wheel well hooked the tree and caused the truck to wrap itself around the trunk, Pryor said.

According to a reconstruction by state police, the vehicle struck the tree going about 42 miles an hour. Pryor noted it isn't unusual for vehicles to travel that rate of speed that time of night, even though the speed limit is 35 miles an hour.

Because the vehicle's doors were jammed, Park and City fire rescue teams were called to the scene, Pryor said. After the two men were removed from the vehicle, both were taken to Bon Secours Hospital.

Sgt. Martin Buss, a Park firefighter, said Cardello was conscious during the trip to the hospital. Buss added he talked briefly with the injured man to determine what shape he was in to better inform the doctors. One of the questions Buss said he asked was whether the defendant had been drinking.

At the hospital, where Cardello was treated for a dislocated shoulder and a variety of cuts and bruises, the attending doctor ordered a blood sample taken. That is standard procedure, because the defendant appeared lethargic and semi-conscious, the doctor said. The blood alcohol and toxic substance screening tests were both performed. The alcohol level was 0.25. Under state law, a person with a reading of 0.10 is considered intoxicated.

Sgt. Robert Millington, a City police safety officer, said he arrested Cardello at the hospital.

McDonald asked the judge to

North's one of the best

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Grosse Pointe may have two public high schools recognized as being among the best in the nation this year.

North High, like its cross-town counterpart two years ago, is among nine high schools nominated this year by the state Board of Education for consideration in the national program. In all, 19 secondary schools were nominated to represent Michigan in the national Secondary School Recognition Program.

The schools were selected by panels of school superintendents, principals and teachers from among 91 applicants representing the state's nearly 1,200 junior, middle and high schools.

Principal Dr. John Kastran said he was delighted by his school's selection.

"It enhances the feelings of the student body and teachers here," he said. "It just makes you feel good to go to a school that has been recognized as one of the best in the state."

The U.S. Department of Education will make an on-site inspection in the spring, with the winners of national honors being named in June.

Kastran added he expected North to be among the national winners, pointing out it is quite an accomplishment to have both of the district's public schools so honored.

To be eligible, the school administration spent 30 hours completing a 21-page application, answering a number of questions about demographics, curriculum, educational goals and accomplishments, and personnel training, to name a few, Kastran said.

He noted that the school's Scholastic Aptitude Test scores and Michigan Assessment Test scores have improved significantly in the past two years.

"I'm really proud of this because it gives us equal status in the community," he added.

South was named one of the nation's best high schools in 1983, one of sixteen state secondary schools to be so honored in the last two years.

Interim Superintendent Dr. Joseph Spagnoli said North's nomination for the honor was marvelous.

"If South deserved and earned it, so does North," he added.

The state Board of Education will honor the 19 state nominees at a ceremony in March.

Community Events

GP Singles

The Grosse Pointe Singles have a busy week scheduled, with three events planned for tomorrow, Saturday and Wednesday.

The group will meet Feb. 1 at 7 p.m. in the library at the War Memorial. Guest speaker will be Vince Desmond. Film highlights of the 1984 World Champion Detroit Tigers will be shown. There will be an afterglow dance held afterward at the Gabriel Richard Knights of Columbus Hall, 18000 E. Warren.

A Snowflake Dance will be held Feb. 2 at 9 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club. Music will be provided by the Danny Venice Trio and there will be a belly dancer floor show.

A mid-week dancing program, scheduled every Wednesday at the Vismara K of C Hall, will begin Feb. 6 at 8 p.m. The hall is located at 20789 Harper, near 8 Mile and I-94.

All events are open to adults of the community. For more information, call 882-0316 or 445-1286.

About stars

Astronomers William Buscome will lecture on the birth and death of stars Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 8 p.m. at the Lawrence Institute of Technology, located at 21000 W. 10 Mile Road at Northwestern Highway.

Dr. Buscome, now at Northwestern University, has worked at the Mount Palomar, Mount Wilson and Mount Stromlo observatories. He will appear at LIT as a Harlow Shapely visiting lecturer and is sponsored by the American Astronomical Society.

The lecture is free and open to the public. For more information, call Dr. Richard E. Michel at 356-0200, ext. 7.

Camera club

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will meet Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 7:45 p.m. at the Brownell Middle School, 260 Chalfonte, in the Farms.

Along with the monochrome print and pictorial slide competition, a mini-program by Gretchen Parenteau, "Packing Your Camera Bag for Vacation," will be featured. Visitors are welcome.

Cinema League

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will present "Focus on Nature," a 35mm slide show by Raymond Coleman, when it meets in the War Memorial's Fries Auditorium, 32 Lakeshore Road, Monday, Feb. 4, at 8 p.m.

This presentation features a dazzling display of close-ups of a variety of colorful, exotic subjects photographed from coast to coast from Canada to Mexico, and many in the tropics.

Coleman has been a member of the Photographic Guild of Detroit for 20 years and a member of the Photographic Society of America since 1971. He has judged international shows and has had photographs published in several magazines.

The public is invited. There is a $1 admission charge for non-members.

St. Paul dance

The St. Paul Athletic Club will host its annual fundraising dance Saturday, Feb. 9, from 7:30 p.m. until midnight, at the school gym on Grosse Pointe Blvd. near Lewiston Road.

This year's theme, the Big Band Sound, will feature entertainment provided by a 17-piece band. Tickets at $10 include pop, beer, wine and snacks.

Proceeds will benefit school sports and tickets can be reserved by calling 886-2496 or 884-7951.

Textiles design

Among the 59 new-for-winter non-credit classes for adults scheduled by the Grosse Pointe Department of Community Education is "Creative Textiles Design," set to begin Wednesday, Feb. 6.

From the simple to the complex, learn to be resourceful in creating imaginative objects from trash — fabric scraps, old shoelaces, rope, even a discarded lampshade! This new-for-winter class has been designed to provide an elementary understanding of textile and their many uses in craft design. Basic supplies included in fee; extra materials at student's expense.

Taught by Martha Kerr, the five-week class will be held from 7 to 9 p.m. at Barnes School, 20090 Morning Drive. Fee is $20.

For space availability, call 343-2178.

U of M benefit

The Associates of the Kelsey Museum of Archaeology, University of Michigan, will sponsor a bacchanalian benefit Friday, Feb. 1, from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Vandenberg Room.

The event will feature the Olivia Street Stompers. Admission, which is tax-deductible, is $15 a person and $5 for students.

Diabetes series

Saratoga Community Hospital, Gratiot at State Fair, will offer a four-part series for those with diabetes on Fridays, Feb. 1, 8, 15, 22, from 7:30 to 10 a.m.

Topics covered will include causes of diabetes, self-care practices, diet and weight control, medication, exercise and stress management. This program will be taught by Saratoga's registered professional including nurses, pharmacists, dietitians, occupational and physical therapists.

This series will include a breakfast with meal planning tips. Course participants may bring one family member with them. Pre-registration is required. It is essential to attend the first session. Call 245-1450 to make a reservation.

Orchard Lake

Artists from the Interlochen Center for the Arts will perform in a string quartet concert on the "Music at the Galeria" series on the Orchard Lake Schools campus Sunday, Feb. 3, at 3:30 p.m.

The concert, sponsored by the Orchard Lake Schools and the Friends of Polish Art, is one of several events celebrating the 100th anniversary of the schools.

Admission is $5; for senior citizens and students $2.50. For further information, call 682-1885.

North concert

Grosse Pointe North bands and orchestra will present their annual Mid-Winter Concert tonight, Jan. 31, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Performing Arts Center at North High School.

The music of Corelli, R. Strauss, Bach, Irving Berlin and others will be featured by the Symphony Orchestra, the Concert Band and the Symphony Band, all conducted by Nathan C. Judson, North instrumental music director.

Under board of education policy, senior citizens living in the Grosse Pointe school district are admitted free to school programs. Admission for others is $2. For information, call 343-2187 or 343-2240.

Death Valley

Death Valley, the lowest and hottest spot in the United States, will be seen in a travel film lecture Sunday, Feb. 3, at 2:30 p.m. in the auditorium theater of the Detroit Institute of Arts. Producer and naturalist Kent Durden will narrate his work.

Tickets are $3.50 at the door or in advance by calling the DIA office at 832-2730 between 9:30 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. The film will be signed for the hearing-impaired.

Farms firemen welcome new chief

By Tom Greenwood

The fuses in his candy jar told Sam Candela he'd truly made the grade. Officially, he had received the word when the Farms recently named him as the new fire chief, replacing 34-year-veteran Warren Schultz, who retired in early January.

It can be tough going from one of the boys to the chief, but fuses hidden among his M&M's said the promotion was okay back in the firehouse.

So far, the job has had its ups and downs. Appointed chief on a Friday, he then faced a major fire the following Monday in the Shores. Even with the Farms assisting through mutual aid, the home was lost in the five-hour blaze.

To top it off, the new chief ended up soaking wet from the knees down. "It was kind of embarrassing," said Candela, relaxing in his office.

"For the first time in my career, I was wearing civilian clothes on the job. When I got the call, the police department told me our guys were already on their way back to the station. So I went over in just street clothes and regular shoes — no boots.

"The fire went on for another three hours. I was just soaked. But it was my first fire as chief and I didn't feel I should leave."

On the up-side, Candela loves going home every night to Irene, his wife of 35 years. "She loves it too," said Candela, with a smile.

"With 31 years of working 24-hour shifts behind me, she finds it a pleasant change. It seems strange to me to be working eight-hour shifts now, but I'm always on call. If they need me, I receive a call by radio or over the phone. Then it's hop in my car and race to the fire, just like the old days."

Candela joined the Farms department after his discharge from the Navy. It seemed the natural thing to do. After all, he'd had firefighting training while in the service, and then there were his wife's relatives.

"My father-in-law plus two uncles on my wife's side were all firemen," said Candela. "And when I was a boy we lived near a fire station. I used to play ball with some of their crew. I always wanted to go with them when they drove off with sirens and lights to a fire."

"Everyone told me it was good steady work, plus you received the benefit of helping people. I've never regretted it. I also never thought I'd make chief. You don't think about things like that when you first join."

Candela has seen a lot of changes enter firefighting in his 31 years on the job. Improved communications, air packs, EMS training, smoke detectors and the compilation of an ever-growing list of dangerous, poisonous materials make the job safer, yet more complicated.

One aspect that hasn't changed is the danger of being injured on the job.

Candela has had two close brushes with serious injury during his career, both involving falls. While at one fire, he was working on the roof when the timbers gave way and he fell two stories to the main floor of the home.

On another occasion, he was inside the home and fell through the living room into the basement.

"On that occasion I ended up landing in some laundry sinks," said the chief. "But luckily I walked away from both falls without a scratch."

When he's not fighting fires, Candela keeps busy playing with his five grandchildren by son Lawrence, and daughter, Karen Golden. A second daughter, Marianne, works part time at Bon Secours Hospital and is attending college.

He and Irene also spend a lot of time at their cottage near Hale and the chief likes to collect antiques.

Council gets crime report

The number of burglaries and car thefts increased in the Woods in 1984, according to a year-end report submitted to the council by Director of Public Safety Jack Patterson. He reported that narcotics offenses, involving mainly marijuana, also increased.

There were 53 burglaries in 1983, and in 1984, 78 cases were reported. Vehicle thefts, which Patterson called "a national crisis out of control," rose from 13 stolen in 1983 to 19 last year.

"The fact that our city is able to maintain this level of loss is a tribute to the officers assigned to the uniform patrol section," Patterson reported. "Neighboring communities are losing three to four times this amount."

The narcotics offenses, up from 26 in 1983 to 36 in 1984, should be monitored closely, Patterson advised. The increase could be attributed to either thorough arrest procedures or a higher number of students using drugs, he said.

"We are on top of this and will continue to pursue the Youth Service proposal to the school system as we feel this area has been most effective in the past and the schools are where most of the planning and transfers of illegal drugs take place," Patterson reported.

Vandalism, or malicious destruction to property, on the other hand was down. From 377 cases in 1983, incidents decreased to 299 last year.

Bad check complaints were down, as well as reports of fraud, weapon violations, drunken driving, disorderly conduct and family problems.

Categories in which there was little or no change included robberies, thefts and sex-related crimes.

Ambulance runs increased from 428 in 1983 to 550 last year. Advanced life support was used on 114 persons compared to 25 in 1983.

"Because we are using it (advanced life support) approximately 20 percent of the total, it's becoming more of a value and causing some reconsideration by other communities," Patterson reported.

"Our fire alarms have been reduced by almost 40 percent over 1983 and fire losses are also down," he added.

"Although we have had some increases in crime, we are still not suffering the increases occurring in many cities around us."

Newly appointed Farms Fire Chief Sam Candela displays glass containers holding carbon tetrachloride.

Danger in the attic

The Farms Fire Department considered it a lucky false alarm. The Provencal Road home was safe from fire, but its owners faced a danger hanging in the attic.

"It was this stuff," said Farms Fire Chief Sam Candela, holding up a large glass bulb filled with a wine-colored fluid. "Do you know what this is? It's an early type of fire extinguisher. This fluid is carbon tetrachloride. The bulbs were hung on the walls or ceilings, mostly in attics or basements.

"The heat would melt special hooks they were suspended from and the bulbs would break on the floor. The resulting phosgene gas would smother the fire. Unfortunately, it would also smother any firemen or homeowners there in the room."

After Candela's men told him of their discovery, the chief immediately phoned the homeowners to pick up dozens of glass bulbs, plus a large brass and glass container the size of a small oxygen tank.

"The Coast Guard was the first organization to realize the danger from carbon tetrachloride," Candela said. "Boat owners would use it to fight fires in the hold. They'd kill the fire and themselves too. Eventually it was discovered it was the phosgene gas. This material is outlawed now."

"With all the older homes we have in this city, I'm sure there's more of these containers hidden in attics and basements."

"If you find any, please give us a call right away. We'll be happy to pick them up."

Father, son die day apart

When David Beste discovered he had cancer, he accepted it with his usual quiet but determined demeanor. Instead of becoming bitter, he enrolled at the University of California-Santa Barbara to learn more about his enemy — how it could be fought and defeated.

"David consulted with cancer researchers all over the country," said Frances Wohler, his sister. "Then he would call home with information and advice for my father. The two of them were very, very supportive of each other. They were very close, even though they were separated by 2,000 miles."

Charles Beste, father of David, was also stricken with cancer. "They never complained about their condition," Mrs. Wohler said. "They talked about the good things. How their lives had been filled with happiness. They weren't bitter."

Charles R. Beste, 80, of Manchester Road, died Jan. 12 in Bon Secours Hospital. Services were held Jan. 16 at the A.H. Peters Funeral Home and Our Lady Queen of Peace Church. Interment was at Resurrection Cemetery.

David Beste, 46, of Santa Barbara, died the next day. "My mother was very brave," Mrs. Wohler said. "A call told us he didn't have much time. We left the house at 4 a.m. and were in California at 12:30 p.m. He died that evening."

At his funeral, the younger Beste was eulogized as a "complete man." "He was a father, son, husband, friend, co-worker and brother," said Mrs. Wohler. "My father was the same way. They were both quiet, strong men who went about their business with no fanfare."

Charles Beste was a member of the Chrysler Management Club and Senior Men's Club.

His son was a 1956 graduate of Grosse Pointe High School and worked as a research scientist on the technical staff at General Research Corp. in Santa Barbara.

He obtained both his bachelor of science and master's degrees from the University of Michigan, where he was affiliated with both the Eta Kappa Nu and Sigma Xi fraternities.

In 1970 he earned his doctorate in electrical engineering from the University of Southern California. While in Grosse Pointe, he was a member of the Senior Youth Council of the Woods Recreation board and established a Youth Canteen at Parcels Junior High School.

David Beste is survived by his wife, Sandra; a son, Russell; a daughter, Linda; his mother, Cecelia; and two sisters, Charlotte Mills and Frances Wohler.

Charles Beste is survived by his wife, Cecelia; two daughters; and 11 grandchildren.

Woods sued under handicappers' act

By Pat Paholsky

A man who said he was not hired by the Woods Department of Public Works because of a 20-year-old injury is suing the city for damages in excess of $10,000.

Ronald Naz applied for a job with the DPW as a mechanic in December 1982. He was called to work in September 1983. As part of the city's employment procedure, the Wayne County resident underwent a physical examination.

According to the complaint filed in circuit court Jan. 8, Naz told the city's doctor that he had suffered a broken neck injury about 20 years ago. As a result, the doctor recommended that Naz not be hired and the city, upon the doctor's recommendation, revoked its offer of employment, the suit charges.

Naz's lawyer, Henry Stancato of Goldbaum & Gattorn in Detroit, said his client's rights under the Michigan Handicapper Civil Rights Act had been violated.

"If it (injury or handicap) does not prevent him from doing the job, it's against the law to discriminate," Stancato said, adding that Naz has worked on heavy machinery, including servicing Mack trucks, for about 20 years following the injury.

"The legal issues will center on whether he is handicapped," he added.

Besides damages, Naz is seeking employment by the city as a mechanic and compensation for attorney's fees.

Stancato would not comment why Naz waited 16 months to file suit. By law, a person has up to three years to take legal action.

The Woods council referred the matter to city attorney George Catlin Jan. 21. Catlin said the case has been turned over to the city's insurance company, North American, which will investigate it.

One lawsuit was filed against the city in 1984 and nine cases are pending, according to Catlin.

Zielinskis settle into American life

By Mike Andrzejczyk
It took a long time for the Zielinskis — Jan, Ewa and daughters Magdeline and Monika — to get together in the family Park apartment. It took 3½ years, in fact.

Last month, Jan, Maggie, 13, and Monika, 6, stepped off a Lot Air jet from Poland for a reunion with Ewa at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. Jan had spent three years fighting to receive permission to emigrate from Poland to be with Ewa, who was working in the immunology department at St. John Hospital.

Six weeks later, the children are in new schools. Maggie attends Pierce; Monika Trombly. Jan and his youngest daughter were to spend a few minutes one morning talking with two reporters about their lives in the office of Trombly principal Sheila Joyce.

Monika, however, had had a bad night, suffering with an ear infection and wasn't attending school that day. Her father, dressed in a sweater and still blue Levi's, spent an hour or so talking about the family's old life in martial-law

Poland and its new life in Grosse Pointe.

The family separated in the summer of 1981, Zielinski said. Ewa, with a master's in microbiology, wanted to work toward her doctorate. The necessary equipment wasn't available in Poland, so she applied for a visa to study in the United States, Zielinski said.

It was a season of turmoil in Poland, as the newly organized Solidarity union pressed an increasingly wobbly government. Troops were milling about the borders when, that summer, martial law was declared.

Ewa saw the worsening conditions and decided to stay in America, her husband said. As the military grip tightened, the Polish borders were sealed, mail was routinely censored and leaving the country was prohibited.

"It was difficult. The government sealed the borders; there was no in and no out," Jan said.

The family had planned to immigrate to the United States, but now Jan began making the rounds to request a visa to leave the country. He was turned down "five or six times" until friends told him about a program being run by the Episcopal church to reunite families.

Jan applied to the commission and waited. After a couple more letters, he was told he could leave the country permanently.

"We got a sort of one-way ticket," he smiled. "We would need to go to the Polish consulate for a passport to return."

The time between Ewa's departure and permission to emigrate was rough, Jan said. He was unemployed for a year, fired from his position as flight engineer for Lot Air in Warsaw's airport. While some of that may have been because of his activities in the union, Ewa's being in America probably cost him his job, he added.

"For unemployed people, there is no government program. That is your own business," he said. "There are many situations open, but you can not live on the money they pay, so you must do other things.

"It was very hard. Monika was only 3 when her mother left," he added. "Everyday life there is very bad. There are ration cards and one must go 100 percent to fight for food."

Long lines were the rule, and many of the people in those lines were "working," Jan said. On some jobs, employees could sign in in the morning, then leave and stand in line at the store as long as they returned to sign out. By afternoon, shops were almost empty, he added.

Jan Zielinski

There was also Monika, who was to be put in school. Schooling isn't the automatic thing it is here, however. It takes inside pull to get a child into kindergarten, so Zielinski went to the kindergarten that Maggie attended. The principal there remembered the family and Monika was enrolled, Jan said.

Leaving the country was also difficult, Jan said. The Zielinskis were allowed to take only household items with them and were forced to "liquidate" everything else. Many of the items went to his parents, Jan said.

Coming to the United States wasn't the culture shock it is in some cases, because Jan has spent a month in New York in 1975 as part of the Lot Air flight crew there. The jobs were changed monthly, ostensibly to give everyone a chance at them, he added. There were a couple "accidents," however, where workers defected. That thought didn't cross his mind, Jan said.

"I was very young at the time. I was feeling very good about my country," he added.

There have been some changes, though, Jan said.

"I was, of course, very impressed with the shops," he said. "You know, most Americans take all these things for granted, the shops having things like fresh bananas and oranges. My children, when they saw such things, they looked squared-eyed at them."

Education is another matter. In Poland, Maggie was studying math, chemistry and biology. Also, from the fifth grade on, Russian is required study, and students may also choose to learn a Western language, Zielinski said.

"She was much stressed with all these subjects," he said. "Sometimes she would be up late into the night to finish her homework."

In American schools, however, there are classes such as home economics and woodworking, things that would normally be taught at home in Poland, Jan said.

"There is so much freedom in American schools. Not so in Poland," he said. "Maggie told me she was shocked that most of her friends wore make-up there at school. That is strictly prohibited in Poland."

Both children are adjusting well to their new schools, he added. For Monika, it may be harder, but the family tries to make it easier, Jan said.

There is also the support of classmates for Monika. Other students in Lillian Katchadourian's first grade class say they try to help Monika over the barrier of culture and language.

"It's kind of strange to have someone in your class who doesn't speak your language," Mackillin Finnley said. "I wonder what it's like to be in a class where no one speaks your language?"

While her friends try to keep her clear of trouble, bad habits and foul language, Macklin admitted it isn't easy.

"I don't always know what to do for someone who doesn't know my language. I like to be helpful," he said.

John Griffin, Meredith Aikens and Val Laveel all say they try to help Monika understand the language and the culture, and have picked up some Polish along the way. Val said a couple sentences in Polish, one meaning to come play, the other "I don't know what it means," she smiled.

After six weeks, the adjustments continue. Jan said he is still looking for work through friends and people he's met here. His speciality is engineering, in which he has a master's degree, and he's looking for something in mechanical engineering, perhaps in aircraft instrumentation design and production.

For a time in Poland, he worked as a vocational education instructor teaching flight crews, Jan said. He also has some experience designing molds for small parts for automotive instruments, he added.

"It's a different thing to find a job here," he said. "It's a different strategy to prepare your resume."

"I would someday like to work for an airline. I like planes and I like airports. I think that's the problem with me. I couldn't work in an office," he added.

There's a vast difference between the flight engineering in Poland and a flight engineer for a U.S. company, Jan said. He would have to relearn his craft to become certified here, but adds he wants to work and enjoys working.

Women robbed

Grosse Pointe Park police report two purse snatchings last week. On Jan. 19, a resident leaving a Mack Avenue bar with her husband lost her purse, containing $80, to two young thieves at 8:40 p.m. She described them as 15-year-old black males, wearing knit caps and dark clothing.

A woman wiping the snow from her car at 6:30 a.m. on Jan. 21, fought unsuccessfully with a thief who wrestled her purse from her. She described him as a 22-year-old black male, of medium height and wearing a dark cap and nylon jacket with white lettering. Her purse contained $30 and identification.

In both instances, the women were unhurt, according to police.

Computers in Kindergarten?

Yes, University Liggett School has computer education in kindergarten and calculus in high school. Students are offered the most challenging academic program they can handle, whether in computers or calculus, physics or physical education, reading or writing.

We are committed to providing the finest education possible. Our curriculum emphasizes the basics — reading, writing, arithmetic — in an atmosphere that fosters curiosity and creativity. Class discussions, research papers, oral reports, laboratory experiments, field trips, and outings help build learning and thinking skills. Additional opportunities in athletic competition, public performances, and leadership roles develop our students' talents, self-confidence and community responsibility.

If you want a school that will know your child as a special, important individual and that will support that child's growth as a caring, committed person, investigate University Liggett School.

Come and learn more at our Open House on Sunday, February 24th, from 2:00 - 4:00 p.m.

Grosse Pointe War Memorial

... as John Lake remembered it

Shortly before his death in 1984, John Lake wrote of his years as executive director of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. For those who knew him, it tells the story in a neo-Victorian style they'll well remember — a little confusing at times, but still vintage John Lake. Others will find a nostalgic and useful contribution to the history of our community. These segments have been edited by Charles V. Hicks, but they retain Lake's original language, and they reflect the unique personality of the man who directed and developed the War Memorial Center in its first 30 years.

XIV. Bits and Pieces

Among the tenets of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial was aid to new churches, and Fries Auditorium became the home of the First Church of Christ Scientist for many years. They had their Wednesday evening meetings in the ballroom. This resulted in a rather amusing incident. On a Wednesday evening, when the testimonials were being called for, the Children's Theatre was rehearsing "Annie Get Your Gun" in the auditorium. A system had been installed whereby the sound of lectures could be channeled to the ballroom for overflow crowds. For some reason, the switch had been turned on, and when the Christian Scientists were sitting thoughtfully reviewing their experiences, out came loudly and clearly "Doing What Comes Naturally." It brought the house down.

African Safari

In 1973, Lake talked World Airlines into the idea of an around-the-world trip by charter plane. For less than $1,600, people were able to travel all around the world.

In Africa, we were ensconced in the Hilton Hotel in Nairobi. We had made arrangements to have jeeps which would accommodate three or four people, so that they could stand up with their cameras and take pictures from all four corners.

This was the largest safari that Africa had ever seen. Two hundred people roaming around through Kenya was something most unusual. We tied up Nairobi's traffic completely, because the hotel was completely surrounded by Jeeps and Land Rovers.

We were fortunate in being able to stay at one point at Salt Lick, which had just opened. It was almost as though it were a stage performance, with one animal after another coming — the rhinoceros, the lions, the elephants — all seemed to want to do their little bit on stage. Lake recalled, "Never have I seen so many animals; I think they came out to find out what in the world was going on — rather to see us than for us to see them."

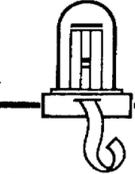

The Center has done very, very much to open the eyes of Grosse Pointers to the world.

Alger House

Noted architect Charles Platt, who designed and built many of the famous houses in this country, created for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Alger not only a perfectly magnificent building in the Italian Renaissance style, but a house that was built to stand and will stand.

It was probably never conceived at the time that there would be thousands of people pouring in, but Alger House has stood up magnificently. There is so much cement and concrete that it would be next to impossible to knock it down. In the attic, for instance, there are I-beams supporting the roof that are as tall as a very tall man. It's all steel construction; the walls between the rooms are hollow tile; and the building is really very much fireproof.

To appreciate the magnitude of the Center's site and its real beauty, one should travel by boat along the lake and look over at the shore. It's a very impressive collection, consisting of Little Club, Church and Grosse Pointe War Memorial and it is a sight that is one of the loveliest along the lake.

Bon Secours Hospital announces the promotion of James L. Rosenberg to associate administrator and the appointment of Dennis M. Koontz as assistant to the executive director. —Harriet Nolan

Discussion groups formed

The Grosse Pointe Public Library has begun the formation of a new winter series of discussion groups.

Beginning Friday, Feb. 1, at 11 a.m., is a series called "The Golden Cradle," an oral history program recalling the personal histories of immigrant women in the United States. The group will meet weekly in the library of the Neighborhood Club for 10 weeks.

The histories were selected and prepared under a grant for the endowment for the humanities by the National Council on Aging.

Another series, "Best Loved Stories," began yesterday (Jan. 30) at the Food and Friendship site at Ferry School. It will run for 13 weeks on Wednesdays at 11 a.m.

The series is based on films and uses the stories of authors such as Ring Lardner, Dorothy Sayers and Henry James. The film presentation lasts about 30 minutes with another 30 minutes for discussion.

There is no charge for either series. For more information, call Helen Leonard at 343-2316 or 343-2074.

Helping or hurting the Hill?

It will be the third time around for the Farms council when on Feb. 11 it tackles again the proposed "first floor retail only" ordinance to regulate new businesses on the Hill. It is time the council postpones the issue indefinitely or simply kills it on the theory that three strikes ought to end it.

There is even more reason now than in the past to put an end of this proposal. Pending now are at least three major property developments on the Hill that could attract the additional business and shoppers that the council wants and would do so without the added regulation that would be required under the council ordinance.

The Grosse Pointe News agrees with the council that more retail stores would improve shopping facilities on the Hill, offer more conveniences to shoppers and attract larger crowds. But the News disagrees with the council that an ordinance of the kind under discussion would necessarily bring about the changes the council seeks.

Under the proposal, new offices for realtors, doctors, lawyers, stockbrokers and other services would be relegated to the rear 50 percent of the first floor establishments unless they were moving into buildings currently used for such purposes. Present establishments would be affected only if any change in usage were contemplated. Then the ordinance would require the property owner to try to lease, rent or sell his property to a retailer before he could lease, rent or sell it to anyone else.

With realtors leading the opposition, the issue has been debated and then postponed several times since it first came up at a 1982 meeting. Protesting businessmen and property owners have contended that the ordinance would treat them as second-class citizens, would be in restraint of trade and therefore illegal, would subject them to more regulation at a time when both Washington and Lansing are deregulating business and industry, and would prompt court battles that could tie up property sales and opening of new business buildings for years to come.

Brandon Rogers, an independent planner whose land use and marketability study for the council apparently prompted the ordinance proposal, sees it merely as an effort to put a brake on further conversion of Hill property to service enterprises and to promote more retail establishments to serve people who live and work in the area. By requiring a waiting period before buildings now used for service enterprises can be sold, leased or rented, the ordinance would in effect draw more retailers into places now used by service enterprises, according to Rogers' thinking.

But rather than increasing alternative uses for Hill property, the ordinance would limit such uses. In fact, in at least one case called to this newspaper's attention, a prospective purchaser of some Hill property backed out when he learned that the proposed ordinance is still under consideration. In effect, he didn't want the council to limit his options for future use of the property in question. And that is a common view of property owners objecting to the ordinance.

In the past we have commended the council for seeking to plan for orderly growth and development. But we have insisted, and still do, that planning must be fair to all parties concerned, and especially to those whose financial interests may be jeopardized by proposals such as ordinance in question. In this case, the consequences of the adoption of the proposed ordinance might well be just the opposite of the backers' intentions. It might well hurt the Hill shopping area more than help it.

Blanchard eyes 1986

Gov. James Blanchard announced last week that "Michigan is back." The question now is whether Blanchard himself is back. Early indications are that he is on the road back from the disastrous low that followed his recommendation for a 38-percent increase in the state income tax in 1983. His State of the State address last week indicated he still intends to come all the way back to reelection in 1986.

By now Blanchard recognizes the political realities in Michigan. One reality is that political conservatism is still alive and well in the state. That means, among other things, continued curtailment of state spending. Blanchard responded to that challenge in his State of the State speech by urging a crackdown on welfare cheaters, advocating property tax relief and promising another zero-growth budget with only education exempt from his hold-the-line spending.

Some Democrats said this Democratic governor had stolen the Republicans' best lines by his conservative speech. Republican leaders, of course, did not agree. Taking issue with his property tax relief plan, they argue that the state has a large surplus that should be returned to the taxpayers directly or through a further cut in the state income tax rates no later than next Jan. 1. Under present law, the current 5.35 percent rate is scheduled to drop to 5.1 late this year and to the old 4.6 rate on Oct. 1, 1987.

In general, Republicans have favored increased appropriations for education in recent years and cuts in welfare spending. The Democrats usually have reversed those priorities but Blanchard appeared to be going Republican on both issues. Even though there has been no increase in welfare appropriations since 1979, Blanchard did not propose an increase in his new budget outline. Two years ago his recommended 5 percent increase in welfare grants was rejected at a time when both houses were controlled by Democrats. So perhaps this year Blanchard just was bowing to the inevitable when he declined to make any recommendations for welfare increases and, instead, called for further crackdowns on welfare cheating, as well as more job opportunities to get the needy off the dependency of welfare.

In his assessment of Michigan's turnaround, Blanchard claimed for the people and himself the credit for the state's economic recovery while at the same time he rejected any blame for the recession that crippled the state's economic life in the late 1970s. In looking back at the distant past, he wore blinders. In looking at the more recent recovery, he wore rose-colored glasses that made it impossible for him to see beyond the state's boundaries.

Yet Michigan always is strongly affected by the national economy. Because it relies so heavily on manufacturing one commodity, the automobile, the state perpetually is on an economic roller coaster. But if national economic conditions adversely affected Michigan and helped create the recession of the late 1970s, as Blanchard implies, then they also were chiefly responsible for the economic recovery of the more recent years. But there was little recognition of that important point in the Blanchard State of the State address.

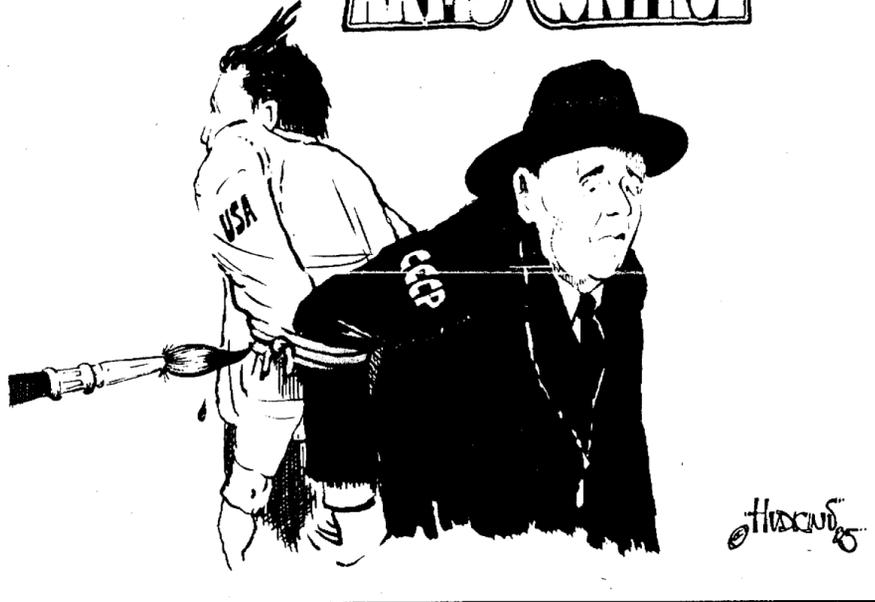

Michigan's own economic climate obviously is important and more can and should be done to improve it, as Blanchard said. Yet the quality of life is another factor that contributes to economic success. Improved education and better control of crime are two ingredients that can improve quality of life and the governor wisely paid some attention to those problems, too. But the compassion for the unfortunate that is sadly lacking in Washington does not get much practical attention in Lansing either.

An incumbent governor is in a strong position to seek reelection. Yet the lengthening list of potential candidates offers further proof that Blanchard is regarded as far from invincible. The latest to toss out a possible candidacy is Dan Murphy, the popular Republican who is Oakland County executive. With William Lucas, Wayne County executive, considering a switch to the GOP to seek the state's highest office, the field is getting cluttered with county executives as well as more traditional aspirants.

It no doubt is the approach of election year 1986 that explains why both the governor's message and the GOP response to it are couched in such political terms. Increasingly, politicians appear to be adopting the policy of some businessmen which is to plan only for short-term gains rather than to look ahead to benefits for future generations. Blanchard's State of the State address broke little new ground in this respect as he seemed to keep a low profile on issues in preparation for 1986.

Renovation plan commended

To the Editor:
Robert Edgar is to be commended for his imaginative and community-sensitive million-dollar renovation plan for the Punch & Judy. Turning it into a restaurant and offices sure beats using it as a warehouse or, worse, tearing it down.

It is sad, however, that nobody's been able to make this fine little theater work, in recent years, as a theater. Maybe they were showing the wrong films and attempting to draw from too wide an area. I think it would be wonderful to have a quality first-run film house here in our midst. A clean and comfortable theater just the right size, in just the right place, showing just the right films.

I, for one, would be willing to pay full price and maybe even a little extra to see a top-quality first-run film in such a setting. Am I the only one?

GP Lions say thanks

To the Editor:
The Grosse Pointe Lions Club report that their annual Goodfellows Paper Sale last Dec. 10 was one of the most successful sales they have enjoyed in many years.

As a result, over 90 needy families and hundreds of children had a merrier Christmas, enjoying a traditional Yuletide meal, toys for the youngsters, and much needed items of clothing, in keeping with the season.

The Lions wish to thank everyone who made this project possible; all of their friends and supporters in the Grosse Pointes and surrounding communities who generously purchased papers; the Pointe's police and fire department personnel who gave so unselfishly of their off-duty time to help sell the papers on that very rainy morning, and to all the local businesses and individual sponsors who purchased advertising space in that very special Free Press edition.

There are only four words that sum up the gratitude of the Grosse Pointe Lions Club: God bless you all!

One View From the Capitol

By William R. Bryant Jr.
The governor's State of the State speech was generally encouraging. One can only conclude that Gov. Blanchard has discovered "opportunity," "values," "work" and "future" are important concepts or, at least, buzz words. However, saying the word "future" 17 times in the last two minutes of his speech does not mean I share his vision of the future or even that he has any vision.

Saying "opportunity" is one thing, but the governor and most other Democrats still believe it is government that creates opportunity. Until that changes, nothing has changed.

The Democrats sound different as they run from Mondale, but that doesn't mean they know where they are going or are leading anywhere. They are trying to copy Reagan's speeches, but they don't comprehend the messages.

I was disappointed that the governor made no promise to do all that is necessary to get the new G.M. Saturn plant. I was disappointed that he made no mention of joining in the new cooperative spirit to solve tri-county transportation, tourism and economic development problems.

The people in the neighborhoods of Detroit finally seem angry enough to help themselves enough so others can also help them. Yet the governor hardly mentioned crime control and prevention, other than belatedly building prisons.

The problem in Lansing is still essentially the lack of credibility of the governor. This speech, as rah-rah as it was, didn't help.

In fact it hurt. It hurt to have the governor insult us and the people of Michigan with a meager tax rebate plan designed to help a targeted population during his re-election campaign. And the targeted population is the very group with whom he is in the most trouble, the suburban Detroit blue and white collar Democrat and independent.

A good county team

An hour-long interview by the Grosse Pointe News with John Hertel this week offered additional evidence that the election of the First District commissioner as the new chairman of the county board ought to serve the cause of county reform.

Hertel, the first east side commissioner to serve as board chairman, won his post with the support of a new city-suburban coalition of nine commissioners, six from Detroit and three from the suburbs. What is more important is that Hertel also won the coalition's support for his pledge of a new policy of city and suburban cooperation rather than confrontation and his agreement to seek cooperation with County Executive William Lucas in solving county problems. Adoption of such policies ought to improve cooperation between the suburbs and the city of Detroit and between the county board and the executive, and speed up the march of county reform.

It is true that actions speak louder than words, but in early test votes the coalition has stood firmly behind Hertel and these principles. In one test, for example, the board upheld Lucas' veto of an attempt by some commissioners to appoint representatives to the board of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, and then approved Lucas' own appointments to SEMTA. As Hertel sees it, these actions set a precedent that shows the board recognizes it is limited to serving as a legislative body and accepts Lucas as the county administrator.

Prior to adoption of the charter four years ago, the county board tried to serve as both an administrative and legislative body, with disastrous results so far as county government was concerned. Now there is a division of powers that is recognized by both the board and the executive and that can be the basis for further reform of county government.

Hertel as the new chairman has streamlined board committees, eliminated the time-consuming committee of the whole which tended to delay board actions, called upon committees to meet more frequently and emphasized his policy of cooperation rather than confrontation. So far he feels the new committee members have started off at a dead run and are giving him the kind of cooperation he had hoped for.

Hertel dismissed rumors that he, like Lucas, is flirting with the idea of joining the Republican Party, but made no secret of his dissatisfaction with the Democrats. He feels the voters gave the Democrats a clear message last November and the message reflected concern about the party's direction nationally and in the state. And he thinks the party has done nothing since the election to change and he, like Lucas, is impatient with its leaders.

Among the problems ahead, according to Hertel, are tackling the crime problem, making conditions in Wayne County more conducive to economic development, taking action to reduce the county's infant mortality rate and continuing with governmental reforms such as elimination of the county drain commissioner. Hertel says he has no political ambitions except to run for reelection, continue to serve the people and finish the work that has been started.

The new board chairman is obviously off to a fast start. He is teaming up well with Lucas to give citizens of the nation's third largest county some positive feelings about county government for the first time in decades. If Lucas and Hertel can live up to their early promise, even more reforms will be in store for Wayne County citizens in the days ahead.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

I watched and I waited. For what? My invitation to the inaugural. It never came.

That's all right. I'm told that the best seat in the house is in front of the television in your own home. It's cold and snowy in Washington and who wants to stand outside in that for a chance to see the president's head over the crowds when it is possible to get a close-up view of the entire ceremonies on television?

It would have been fun to attend one of the nine Presidential balls: to see in person the beautiful people done up in their gorgeous gowns and sumptuous furs complete with carefully arranged coiffures and artfully done makeup.

However glamour has its price and it is not one that most of us can afford to pay. Shall we rationalize then that it's good to know that somewhere opulence thrives?

If we can't be part of it on stage, we can enjoy it as an audience. And as an audience, no matter what our circumstances, we have a picture-window view of what money and position can bring about.

In the Depression, people went to the movies to escape the harshness of their lives. Up there on the screen, they could escape into a world of warmth and wonder.

Today, the lavish life of the very rich still intrigues audiences. Witness the popularity of "Dynasty," et al. Granted the storylines are exciting and provocative, but so are the gowns, the homes and furnishings, the elaborate "what's money" style life the characters live.

Thanks to television, grand occasions are no longer limited to 'grand' people. You are there and it had better be worth your while or off you go to another station that has the sense to know that viewers don't get angry because a world exists beyond their means. They like traveling in the fast lane if only for a little while. It gives them a chance to eat cake instead of bread. Maybe Marie Antoinette was not all wrong.

Besides giving an inside view of the better life, televised lavish affairs, whether real or fictional, give the audience something to strive for. "Hey, if they made it, so can I" is not a bad attitude for young people to develop. It's far better than one of resignation: Here I am and here I stay.

Once upon a time, say when the century was a little younger, it was popular for parents to point to the presidency and try to inspire their offspring to "go for it." He made it, so can you, they would say, ignoring the fact that with only one president, the chances of winning were lower than winning the $14 million lottery. It should be said, that being realistic, (how can you be a parent and not be a realist?) parents never expected their boy or girl to grow up to fill the highest position in the land, but it did give their offspring something to strive for. Aim high was the credo. Aiming low was blasphemy.

Looking at the presidency, parents were not all wrong.

President Reagan, while not rich, was not dirt poor. His father was a shoe salesman. He did have exposure as a movie actor, as a television star for General Electric Theater and an opportunity to develop leadership qualities as president of the Screen Actor's Guild. His breakthrough in politics came when he made a rousing television speech supporting Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential candidate. It attracted wealthy backers of the Republican Party who remembered him when he ran for governor in California. The rest is history.

We are told that Jimmy Carter grew up in an atmosphere of hard work and high expectations for good performance. His father was a farmer who bought and sold peanuts and ran a general store. While he was not poor, he had a name recognition problem which he overcame by following the tenets ingrained at home, principally that of hard work.

"I would go to the warehouse or farm early and perform my duties, along with my regular business, work until late in the afternoon," he tells us. "Then I would drive somewhere in Georgia to make a speech and return home late at night."

He won the governorship in Georgia in 1970. Still relatively unknown, he ran for the presidency against President Gerald R. Ford and won.

The rise of Gerald Ford to the presidency was both traditional and accidental. His family owned a paint factory in Grand Rapids, putting him in a financially comfortable bracket. He was a lawyer and active in local Republican politics which led to 13 terms in the U.S. House of Representatives. He became House minority leader. When Vice President Spiro Agnew resigned, Richard Nixon appointed Ford to take his place. In 1974, ironically, he succeeded Nixon, the man who had put him in the right place at the right time.

On a socioeconomic level, Richard M. Nixon started his political career on a lower rung than any of his successors. His father ran a gasoline station and grocery store. When Nixon married Pat Ryan, who was far from well off, they had little money. Pat recalled: We had $200 to drive to Mexico for our honeymoon. Sometimes we drove all night to save the cost of a hotel.

Nixon first ran for political office as a Republican. He was elected to the House of Representatives. He gained national attention by pursuing an investigation of Alger Hiss, a former Department of State employee accused of having been connected with a Soviet spy ring. The publicity helped elect Nixon to the Senate. In 1953 Dwight D. Eisenhower chose him as vice president.

Nixon lost both the race for the presidency against John F. Kennedy in 1960 and a later try for the California gubernatorial contest in 1962.

Down but not out, Nixon's career is a lesson in the value of persistence. He returned to the political arena in 1968 to defeat Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency.

The saying: Some are born great, some achieve greatness and some have greatness thrust upon them, might be paraphrased to describe the career of Lyndon B. Johnson. He was not born rich, he did not achieve wealth, but he did marry wealth.

The son of Sam Johnson, a farmer who served five terms in the Texas legislature, Lyndon worked on a highway construction crew. He grew tired of laboring and enrolled in a teacher's college.

Lyndon's political career began when Richard M. Kleberg, owner of the huge King Ranch in Texas, was elected to the U.S. House of Representatives. He took Lyndon along as his secretary.

Johnson met Lady Bird in September 1934. She was the daughter of a wealthy Texas landowner. He proposed on the second date and they were married in November of that year.

He went through the ranks politically: the House of Representatives and the Senate, where he became majority leader. His goal was to be president, but he accepted the number-two spot. He was sworn in as president on an Air Force jet in Dallas after Kennedy's assassination.

Backing up to John F. Kennedy, this treatise in how it is possible to achieve the presidency without money or power seems irrelevant. But Kennedy had other obstacles to deal with. He was sickly most of his early life and suffered from acute back problems during his adulthood.

Kennedy, like Franklin D. Roosevelt, started his career from an advantageous point of departure as far as money went, but achieved his goal more through desire, hard work and determination.

The thesis remains: Aim high. Besides being a prime example, President Reagan is a strong advocate of the maxim that individuals can, if they so will, achieve their aims.

It is a message that was emphasized during his campaign and it is a message that was bought by the young people of the nation who voted for him in unexpected numbers.

Increasingly we are seeing emphasis being put on scholastic achievement in high school and college. More than ever, employers are demanding higher work standards. Patriotism has once again become more than a watchword. President Reagan rhapsodized over "the new patriotism" in reference to the Olympics.

We saw our young people, in many ways the trendsetters of society, show that it's in style again, to put your hand over your heart when the flag goes by and it's in style again to sing the words of the national anthem.

President Reagan is in tune with young people. He looks upon them, and rightly so, as the hope of the world. One day of the inauguration ceremonies featured youth activities. That is commendable, but where in the many ceremonies were there any forums, concerts, receptions or recognition of older Americans?

Older Americans may not be the future, but they have made the present and future possible. They have kept the faith in the trying years of wars and depressions. They have fed the world with farm products. They have built industries and struggled to keep cities alive. They have raised leaders, scientists, artists, musicians and writers. They have built schools, universities, hospitals and museums. They have contributed to the poor and raised money for starving nations.

Somewhere in the ceremonies, there should have been room to acknowledge all that older Americans have done for their country.

This is a thought, not an admonishment. This is not the time to critique, to wonder about the nation's deficit, crime, unemployment or the failure of one older American to recognize other older Americans.

This is a time of celebration, of hope for the future, of recognition that economically we are better off than we were four years ago. (The percent gain in disposable income for the year was the best in two decades).

While they were not there in person to express their sentiments, older Americans join with Americans young and old in wishing President Ronald Reagan the best four years any president ever had.

Hail to the Chief!

Buckle up

The Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use, reporting on Michigan traffic deaths since July 1983, indicates the percentage of drivers who don't use safety belts hovers between 93 and 95 percent.

The numbers change but not the percentage. Through the end of 1984, there were 1,501 people killed in traffic crashes. Of those, 928 had safety belts available, yet 863 didn't buckle up.

I say

Beauty is as beauty does

A news story a few weeks ago touched a nerve. Two suburban mothers eating at Beau Jack's, a restaurant with mediocre food and upscale prices, were told in no uncertain terms to take their two little rug rats and never darken that doorstep again.

According to Gary Cochran, the owner, Adam Surnow and Brett Scharg, both about a year old, terrorized about a 15-foot section around their table.

"We needed a snow shovel to clean up the mess. It looked as if they ordered food and just turned around and threw it," he was quoted as saying.

The only thing I fault Cochran for is that he waited until the mothers had finished eating before ordering the clods out. Reportedly his final words to them were, "Is that what your children do at home?"

While Adam's father, Michael Surnow, later admitted to the press that the kid throws enough food on the floor so that he doesn't have to buy food for the family's Irish setter, one wonders what their home would look like without the canine garbage can.

And though it appears that what you see is what you get with that family, I've noticed it's not uncommon for people to behave outside their home quite differently than they do in it.

I have a friend who tells me that while she works in a predominantly female office, the place leaves much to be desired. Not that the walls are crumbling and rats are scurrying around, it's because of the every man or is it every woman for herself attitude.

These are the same ladies who head home every two weeks with money earned to buy the bacon they then have to fry each night. They also have to make sure junior and hubby have clean clothes to wear, besides pulling themselves together each day to face the world.

I wonder what their houses look returned to the refrigerator? To appease a part of the feminist in me, I often say the only time I wash my kitchen floor is when my feet stick to it. Don't believe that for a minute. My home is clean, neat and odorless. So is my desk at work.

While my one weakness is not always making my bed, it's not subject to unwanted glances and I don't make anyone else lay on the rumpled covers.

Milk, coffee and items that I know other people would enjoy sharing is available. Soap bars are left clean, sinks hairless and ashless, and toilet paper is available.

Even animals take pride in themselves. Sniffle, my cat, can quickly get her message across if she thinks her litter box needs an early cleaning.

While to err is human and to forgive divine, my hat goes off to Cochran for his stand. And all the empty coffee pots, toilet paper rolls, grimy sinks and dirty counters go to the mothers who were the real culprits at Beau Jack's.

Harriet Nolan

Do they flick cigarette ashes on their floor, sinks and counters? Leave soap bars so black with grime it could qualify for a Lava commercial?

Does the person who uses the last bit of toilet paper leave the next person to maneuver with a cardboard roll? Are empty milk cartons

Shores won't pursue appeal

Grosse Pointe Shores may be interested in the outcome, but it won't take part in the request to the state Supreme Court for a rehearing on the tax-exempt status of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, according to village attorney William Killebrew.

Two weeks ago, South Lake Public Schools, one of the parties affected by the decision, asked the justices to reconsider their decision not to review an appellate court ruling that the home was tax exempt in 1980 and 1981.

The state high court decided Nov. 30 not to review an application for appeal of a May appellate court ruling filed by the village, Lake Township and South Lake Schools.

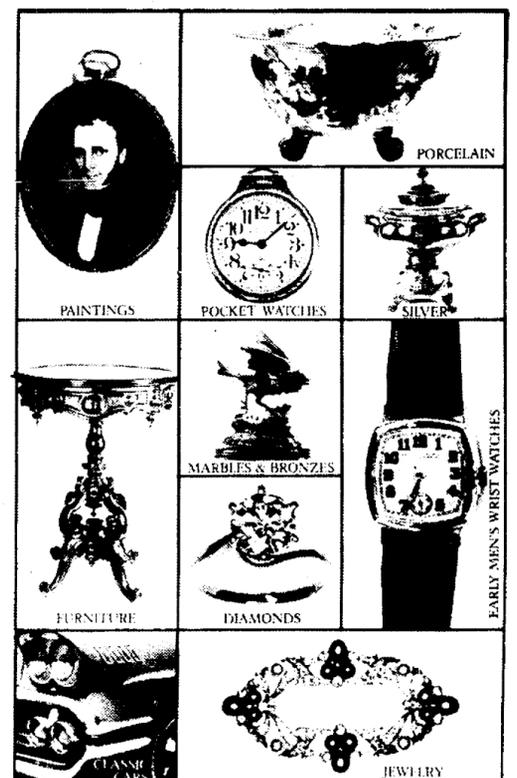

Village trustees feel they have just about exhausted their remedies to the situation and must now weigh the benefits of spending more money on a dubious appeal, Killebrew said.

The Shores and the township will lose about $32,000 in the decision. The village decided last year that under new changes in the law, the Ford House was a non-profit charitable institution and was tax exempt.

The school district could lose about $284,000 for the two years involved in the court decision and the following two years, when taxes were held in abeyance following the appellate court decision.

The school district will have to convince the high court to reverse itself and reconsider the application, Killebrew said, adding there wasn't much hope for success.

Should the school district be able to change the court's mind, Killebrew said the village and township would be able to re-enter the case and press their claim.

Volunteer work is full-time job for retiree

By Harriet Nolan

"I'm a patriot," says Farms resident Annie K. Blessed. "My country means everything to me."

Standing in a bedroom that is slowly being squeezed by stacks of papers waiting to be filed under such headings as Central American Foreign Policy, Bills Before Congress, Communism, Crime, and even a file labeled Cracked Brains, one begins to understand her reputation as a tireless worker.

She also means business. In another bedroom are more stacks of papers — reprints of news articles taken from conservative papers such as Human Events and the Washington Inquirer, both Washington, D.C. based publications.

She says she's always been active in Republican politics and worked for many years to help Richard Durant run for political office. Three years ago she began to devote about 20 hours a week to the Women's Republican Club of Grosse Pointe and President Ronald Reagan.

These women get the conservative stack of articles, she says.

Annie Blessed

"Those that are good, timely and well-written are mailed to members, to women who are interested in politics, not tea parties and that kind of junk."

"I want them to know what is really going on in this country," she adds.

adds.

To balance stories she labels "liberal propaganda," Mrs. Blessed volunteers time to help Reed Irvine, editor of the Washington-based AIM Report (Accuracy in Media). Founded to counteract what they perceive as irresponsible journalism, members stage massive letter writing campaigns to the media they feel present biased, misleading or false information.

Politicians, organizations and even the Vatican have received letters from Mrs. Blessed and her actions sometimes get her in hot water.

Years of writing to Senator Gary Hart resulted in her being dubbed "his volcano that erupts every six months," she says. "I wrote Justice Warren Burger a very mad letter and he sent the FBI to my house to find out about me. He found out, all right, she laughs.

Stopping short of calling herself an ultra conservative, she admits, "I'm pretty close to it. I'm the greatest history buff and if anyone thinks you can run a country without knowing the history of the world, they're crazy."

She grew up in a home where politics was regular dinner conversation and as a child remembers election day in Indiana marked by Republicans and Democrats walking on opposite sides of the street.

Her father died when she was three and she was raised by her mother and three aunts, all interior decorators. This, along with a love for politics, rubbed off on her.

At 16, she began to satisfy her thirst for Russian history by reading everything she could get her hands on, including works by Turgenev, Dostoevsky and Tolstoy.

She attended the Horace Mann School at Columbia University and graduated from the Parsons School of Design, later to achieve status in the American Society of Interior Designers (A.S.I.D.).

Her first real job was learning all about fabrics at Macy & Company in New York. From there, she moved to the W.J. Slone Company where she studied antiques and designed deluxe powder boxes.

She then received an offer from J.L. Hudson Co. in the '30s and was assigned to their merchandising department.

"I told them I didn't know if I had the mind for merchandising," she says. "Three months later they agreed and called me in and said, 'You don't know what the hell you're doing, do you?'"

She was transferred to the antique and decorating department, a good move both professionally and personally. It was there she met her future husband, Clarence Dewey "Bud" Blessed.

"He came to the store and told me he would be gone for three weeks and asked if I would decorate a bachelor apartment for him, except for the couch," she says.

"Now a couch is a main ingredient, but I waltzed him around the furniture floor anyway finding out what type of fabrics, lamps and furniture he liked. He had pretty good taste, too," she adds.

She had already bought a couch when he finally gave her the go-ahead to pick one. He loved it and the apartment. In 1938 they married and moved to the Pointes.

"He was always challenging me to do more," she remembers. "He said, 'I always know where I stand with you and it's a good place to be.'"

While he was the youngest vice president of a bank at the time, she devoted her life to causes which included the United Foundation, Girl Scouts of Metropolitan Detroit and the Barratt House, a home for abused girls.

She's traveled throughout Europe, the Far East, India, Kashmir, Russia and South America. She's been listed in Who's Who of American Professional Women, had her own design studio and is an accomplished photographer and artist.

According to state law enforcement officials, more than 4,000 Michigan children are missing. Nationally, more than 1.8 million children are reported missing each year. With a child's fingerprints and a recent photo on record, parents can use the identification card to help search for a missing child.

Talking to kids about drugs, alcohol

The topic for Brighton Hospital's next community education program on Tuesday, Feb. 5 is "How Can We Talk to Our Children About Alcohol and Drugs."

The free program will begin at 6 p.m. in the hospital's chapel with "Sons and Daughters, Drugs and Booze," a film showing parents how to recognize the signs of alcohol and drug abuse and how to confront their children. After the film, a trained counselor will be available to answer questions and discuss how to obtain professional help.

The hospital's community education program is held on the first Tuesday evening of each month and is currently concentrating on the concerns of the family members. For additional information and a schedule of programs, call the Community Relations Department at 227-1211, ext. 276.

Story hour begins Feb. 6

Among the new-for-winter classes in the Youth Enrichment Program scheduled by the Department of Community Education of the Grosse Pointe Public School System is a Pre-School Story/Activity Hour for Children designed for four and five year olds.

The eight-week class is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday, Feb. 6 at Barnes School, 20090 Morningstar Dr., Grosse Pointe Woods. Fee is $14.

The hour-long class will be taught by Nancy Schulte, an experienced elementary teacher trained at Michigan State University, who is a local resident and the mother of two.

The basic class schedule includes a pre-story warm-up, motivational, then settle-down activity before moving on to a featured story told in a variety of manners. Follow-up creative activities include puppetry, role playing, art projects, food-tasting, games or large-motor movement.

The tentative calendar of planned activities includes such topical items as a snowman party theme, valentines, a folk tale with the acting-out of its characters, a session devoted to "growing-up and gaining-confidence abilities," another on nutrition and food variety, puppetry and stories, one in which the children will make up their own stories and do a flannel board, and a last class titled "Parents' Presentation Day."

Classes offered for parents of teens

The Family Life Education Council (FLEC) will again offer workshops for parents of teenagers. The program, Systematic Training for Effective Parenting of Teens or STEP/TEEN, affords parents the opportunity to learn and practice effective communication and problem-solving skills while gaining insight into the specific concerns of adolescents.

Crisis counseling

A course in crisis counseling will begin Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Lifeline Counseling Center at Ebenezer Baptist Church, 21001 Moross in Detroit.

Instruction will focus on answers to problems of alcoholism, child and spouse abuse, crisis intervention, depression, rape and emotional disturbances, with emphasis on a biblical approach to counseling.

Classes will be conducted by specialists in various areas, including psychiatrists, psychologists, certified social workers, pastors and experienced counselors.

For a copy of the syllabus or a brochure, call Lifeline at 882-LIFE or the Ebenezer Baptist Church office at 882-2728.

For information on college credit, admissions and registration, contact the Office of Admissions, William Tyndale College, 35700 West Twelve Mile Road, Farmington Hills, Mich. 48081, 553-7200.

hour sessions. The cost is $15 a person or $25 a couple. To pre-register, call FLEC at 885-3510.

Baroque music series offered

Continuing his series of lectures at Somerset Mall and in the Pointe, Dr. Jack Du Bois will offer six weekly talks on Masters of Baroque Music. This series, beginning Monday, Feb. 4, in Troy, and Tuesday, Feb. 5, in Grosse Pointe, is presented in observance of the 300th anniversary of three baroque masters: Bach, Handel and Domenico Scarlatti.

Other important composers to be included are: Monteverdi, Vivaldi, Rameau and Purcell. Du Bois also plans to devote time through slides to prime examples of Baroque architecture, sculpture and painting. Artists included will be Bernini, Neumann, Rubens, Rembrandt and Poussin.

Also, many examples of Baroque music — chamber, orchestral, opera and choral — will be illustrated via recordings.

Sessions begin at 7:30 p.m. both nights at the Dinner Theatre, Somerset Mall on Feb. 4, 11, 18, 25, March 4 and 11. In Grosse Pointe, the lectures will be at the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee, on Feb. 5, 12, 19, 26, March 5 and 12.

The fee is $40 and applications may be obtained at the Somerset Mall office, lower level, or at the Unitarian Church. Those interested may call Du Bois at 882-2325.

24 more classes begin this month

Non-credit, leisure-time classes and activities for adults, sponsored by the Department of Community Education, will begin this month.

Six classes to start Thursday, Feb. 7, are Pottery, Ask the Doctor: Osteoporosis, Glass Etching, Challenging Put-Offs and Put-Downs, Architecture and Related Arts USA, and Vegetarian Cuisine II.

Two offerings beginning Friday, Feb. 8, include the second presentation for Seminar for Seniors which is Scenes from the Drama, and a Bridge clinic on Pre-Emptive Bids.

Five classes that begin on Saturday, Feb. 9 are Learn to Think and Act Positively, Voice Development, Tatting for Fun, Heart-Shaped Basket, and Job Stress.

Classes scheduled to begin on Monday, Feb. 11 include Computers: Parents' Logo Demonstration, Computers: Visicalc for the IBM and Apple, Dance: Do I Hear a Slow Waltz?, Self-Communication: Listening to Our Inner Voice, Beading, Let's Eat Italian.

Winnie the Pooh comes to stage

Grosse Pointe Children's Theater will present the musical fantasy, "Winnie the Pooh," Saturdays, Feb. 9 and 16, at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. in the William Fries Auditorium of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

There will be a special recognition for birthday parties at the performances with children celebrating birthdays receiving something special from Pooh.

Playing Winnie the Pooh are Amy Gwinell and John Armaly. Jessica Fortier and Kim Ramsey share the role of Christopher Robin. Piglet will be portrayed by Laura Wing and Lissa Oswald. Deborah DeFauw and Mike Happer appear as Rabbit, and Caroline DeFauw and Ryan Robson will play Owl. Paul Antonson and Kim Putnam appear as Eeyore.

Kanga will be played by Shana McNamee and Tricia Howard, with Victoria Cargas and Stephanie Shock playing Roo. Christine Armaly and Jennifer Channel will appear as the story-teller. Forest friends are Tracy Ganem, Celia Bolger, Maureen Ryan, Stephanie Serra, Amy Birch, Suzette Atrasz, Megan Morgan and Sara Babcock. Sally Reynolds is director and producer. Mrs. John Mazer is musical director.

Admission is $2.75 for students and senior citizens, $4 for adults and $2.50 a person in groups of 10 or more. Tickets are available at the War Memorial. Make group reservations at 886-6152 after 6 p.m.

Three classes that start Tuesday, Feb. 12, are Golf Clinic: Pitch, Chipping, Sand Shots, Handwriting Analysis, and Listening Skillfully.

On Wednesday, Feb. 13, two adult classes begin. They are Play Reading and a planetarium program, A Comet Called Halley.

For more information, call 343-2178.

Music Masters

"Music Masters," a four-week non-credit class for adults taught this winter by Patricia Junker, will begin at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 5, at Barnes School, 20090 Morningside Drive.

Ms. Junker titles the first class session, "Two Gentlemen from Salzburg," inspired by an upcoming four weeks of programming by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. It will deal with the inter-relationship of Haydn and Mozart.

The second part of the first two-hour class, "French Connection," will consist of a survey of the compositions of St. Saens, Debussy and Ravel — 19th and 20th century French composers and will continue during the second class on Feb. 12.

The program for Feb. 19 will be "From Russia with Love — Rachmaninoff the Romantic" and will look at the romantic side of the composer and his love affair with humanity and nature evidenced in many of his compositions. Guest soprano Randa Hooven Ball will perform the composer's art songs. Also featured will be a 78rpm recording of Rachmaninoff playing his own composition.

Details of the fourth and final session, to be held Feb. 26, are being completed.

Scheduled by the Department of Community Education, this class is designed to introduce symphonic music to the beginning listener. Each class will be devoted to a period in music history, with records, piano, theme sheets, lecture and discussion used to demonstrate the lives and times, personalities and writing styles of the composers to be studied.

Fee is $14. Enroll through the Department of Community Education, 20090 Morningside Drive, Grosse Pointe Woods, 48236. Call 343-2178 for space availability.

$12,610 donated to schools

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education accepted $12,610 in gifts from parent-teacher organizations, the Parcels Student Council and the Holley Foundation at its Jan. 14 meeting.

The Mason PTO donated $5,300, to be used for educational enrichment materials, professional assemblies, field trips and studies, art appreciation programs and student service club programs.

The Parcels PTO donated $2,500 for the purchase of an Apple IIe computer system, including monitor, printer and cart, which will be available to all departments through the library. Also, part of the gift will go to purchasing reading lab materials.

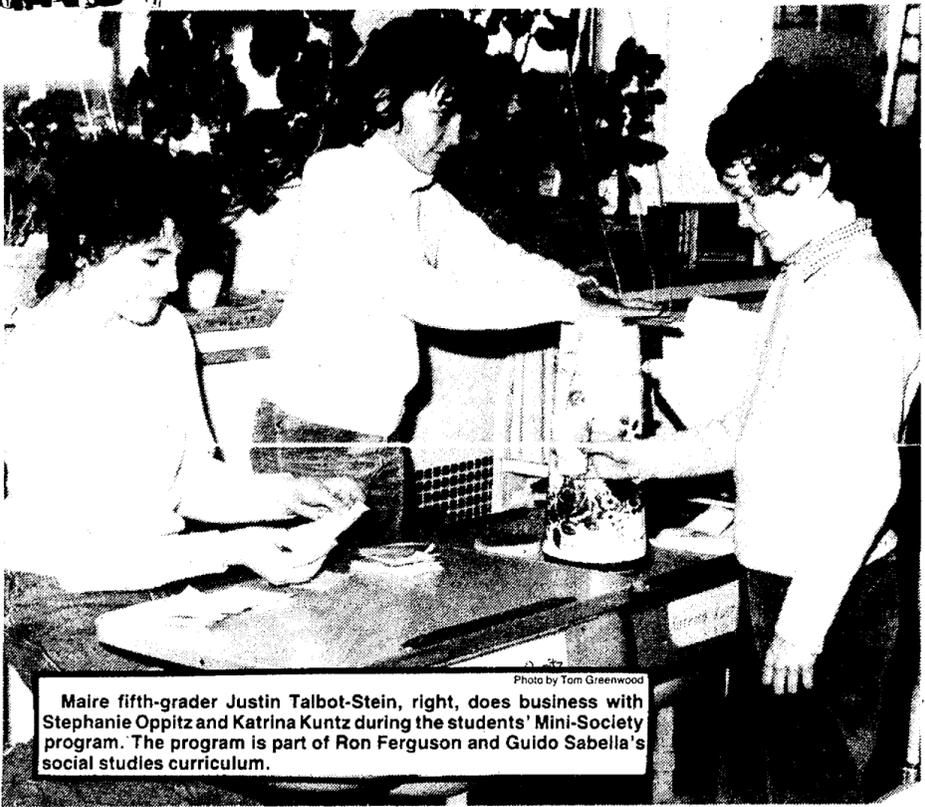

Another computer will be purchased for the school library with a donation from the Parcels Student Council totaling $1,500. Although other student councils have made donations to the school system, this was the first that was large enough to require board approval, school administrators said. The student council raised the money through a variety of activities.

The Pierce PTO donated $2,110 to cover the purchase of microcomputer software and other items such as books for the paperback book library and Junior Great Books program, trophies, flagstaffs and other miscellaneous items.

An 18-inch laminator for use in the student writing program at the school will be purchased with a $700 gift from the Defer PTO. Although there is a laminator available at the Instructional Materials Center in Brownell, having one at Defer will be more convenient for the school's teachers, according to board officials.

The public library received $500 from the Holley Foundation as an unrestricted gift.

The board accepted with appreciation all of the donations.

Maire fifth-grader Justin Talbot-Stein, right, does business with Stephanie Oppitz and Katrina Kuntz during the students' Mini-Society program. The program is part of Ron Ferguson and Guido Sabella's social studies curriculum.

Maire kids build their own society

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Maire fifth-graders have learned a new word; entrepreneur. Three days a week, they learn more about that word and a bunch of others, like scarcity, supply and demand, opportunity cost and cost-benefit analysis.

As part of their social studies program, the 10- and 11-year-olds in Guido Sabella and Ron Ferguson's classes are taking part in Mini-Society, a program developed by UCLA professor Dr. Marilyn Kourilsky to teach grade-schoolers economics.

If you think it's playing store, forget it. The children are encouraged to develop a country, complete with flag, a monetary system and an economy and learn to live the choices they make for their society. Those choices include which products are to be developed, bought or sold, now to advertise, whether to start a business or find work with an existing one.

says, "but nobody asked." Teachers become motivators and facilitators, Ferguson says. Under the rules of the society, the teacher is a member of the society, not its manager. He supplies goods and counsels kids on business matters for a fee and is bound by the decision of the students.

Ferguson's class, the Maire Economic Social Society, developed its MESSBucks with different colors for each denomination. Although he wasn't happy with the choice, it was up to the students.

Although it's the first year for the Mini-Society at Maire, principal Jay Flowers said he had a similar program running for fourth-graders last year at Defer. The students there made it work and Maire students have also shown a lot of enthusiasm about it.

First pioneered in California by Dr. Kourilsky, the patented program has spread to 40 states, according to Sabella. Teachers attend a four day seminar, learning the techniques to teach the program as well as taking part in a society's formation.

The cost of the program is split by the school system and a sponsoring business.

The program starts with the teacher discussing scarcity through a number of methods, Ferguson and Sabella say. The children are then encouraged to develop a society where things are better than in the real world. With that comes the development of a country and monetary system.

Students earn their money by meeting certain responsibilities, such as being on time, turning in their homework promptly and keeping their desks clean, Ferguson says. The payments are based on behavioral things, Sabella adds. A student gets paid for turning in his homework, not for the number of correct answers.

As time goes by, the children begin looking for ways not only to spend their money but make a little, the two say. The teacher is a consultant and gets a fee from students for giving ideas about ways they can proceed.

"I wish they had come to me; I had some real good ideas for things they could have done," Sabella says.

That's where economic education takes place.

In the beginning at Maire, baked goods were big sellers, Sabella and Ferguson say. But because cookies and brownies are a little dry, some young entrepreneur decided to open a Kool-Aid stand. From there it continued to grow until in Ferguson's room, there were 13 businesses doing everything from making stationery to selling lottery tickets.

The experience may be good, but the important part of the program is the debriefing, where students are asked to review and analyze the things they ran into during the day's transactions, distill it down to its economic principle and then integrate that into what they already have going as well as adding to their education.

Besides social studies, the students will get to learn a good deal of math as well as polishing their writing and reading skills, the two say. Sabella says one young banker lends her money at interest and inflation has struck. Other students developed supply and demand curves to decide the best price for products and current events has become a chance for students to talk about other entrepreneurs as well as issues they may otherwise have skipped over, the teachers say.

Local celebrities discuss being in the public eye

If you've ever wondered what it's like to be a local celebrity, you can find out on Tuesday, Feb. 5, when the War Memorial's Council of Sponsors presents "The Pluses and Minuses of Being in the Public Eye." At 8 p.m., Beverly Beltaire, Mort Crim, Larry DeVine, Jerry Green, Charley Manos, Nicki McWhirter, Neal Shine and Mal Sillars, all Grosse Pointe residents, will share their humorous and not-so-humorous experiences of living the fish-bowl life. Hal Youngblood, executive producer of WJR, will moderate the light-hearted evening.

Mal Sillars, WDIV-TV's chief weatherman, is a professional meteorologist who has been predicting Detroit weather for 10 years.

Charley Manos, known for his Detroit News column, says he was "born, raised and confused in Detroit," but loves nearly every minute of it all.

Jerry Green, Detroit News sports columnist, is one of about 15 sports-writers from the entire nation who has covered all 19 Super Bowls.

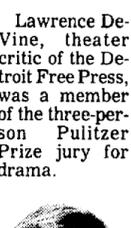

Hal Youngblood, who joined WJR in 1964, helped develop the popular "J.P. McCarthy Show" and "Focus."

Beverly Beltaire, president of PR Associates, is a former chairperson of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and an active member of numerous service boards.

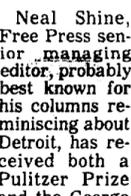

Mort Crim, senior news anchor for WDIV-TV since 1978, has combined a successful career of television and radio journalism, author, lecturer and talk show host.

Lawrence DeVine, theater critic of the Detroit Free Press, was a member of the three-person Pulitzer Prize jury for drama.

Nicki McWhirter, Free Press columnist, is syndicated in approximately 150 newspapers in the United States and Canada.

Neal Shine, Free Press senior managing editor, probably best known for his columns reminiscing about Detroit, has received both a Pulitzer Prize and the George Polk Award for national reporting.

Tickets to this media event, which is co-chaired by Council of Sponsors members Margot Kessler and Aphie Roumell, are $5 each. A question and answer period will follow.

Juveniles caught

Six juveniles are being questioned by City police about acts of vandalism committed in a Elmsleigh home under construction.

The contractor called police Sunday morning, Jan. 27, to report someone had forced open the door of the home and broke water pipes, windows and light bulbs throughout the house. The broken water pipes flooded the basement and damaged ceiling joints and dry wall. Damage was estimated at $1,300.

Police checked the area around the Elmsleigh home and found nothing. They also searched the area around a Sycamore home where similar incidents have occurred. There they found material that led them to the six 13-year-olds, according to reports.

The investigation continues.

Barbershoppers honor two

At the annual Ladies' Night dinner held Jan. 26 at the Lakeland Manor, the Grosse Pointe Chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., presented its Barbershopper of the Year Award to Bill Lane of Grosse Pointe Woods and Harvey Burr of Harper Woods.

at semi-annual district conventions, an annual two-night show, this year at Grosse Pointe North High Feb. 15 and 16, participation in numerous civic and social singing performances and various other activities.

The Chapter meets every Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo.

The Grosse Pointe chapter is one of the largest in the Pioneer (Michigan and Windsor) district, numbering approximately 95 members from the Pointes, St. Clair Shores, East Detroit and the surrounding area.

Northwestern plans reunion

Members of the Class of 1935, Northwestern High School, are planning a 50th reunion for Aug. 23. They need information regarding classmates. Call 642-7775 or 644-5415.

Theater staff needed

Stagemasters, Inc., a community theater company in St. Clair Shores, is seeking applications for staff positions for its summer 1985 production of "The Sound of Music." Positions available include producer, director, musical and vocal directors, choreographer, stage manager and set designer. Applications, which should include a resume and cover letter, should be limited to three pages and should be submitted no later than Feb. 8.

Submit applications to 21825 Sunnyside, St. Clair Shores, Mich. 48080. For more information, call Kathleen Pascoe at 773-9429.

Workshop offered

A method of personal journal-keeping, Dr. Ira Proggoff's "Intensive Journal," will be offered in Grosse Pointe on Friday and Saturday, Feb. 15 and 16 at Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Drive.

Created in 1966, this self-help technique was developed by Proggoff, a psychologist, author, lecturer and researcher.

More than 100 trained leaders also teach the process in programs sponsored by universities, churches, health centers, hospitals, prison, military bases and retreat centers.

The workshops are open to the public. Sister Christian Koontz will conduct the workshop. Reservation information may be obtained by calling toll free 1-800-221-5844 at Dialogue House, 80 E. 11 St., New York City 10003, or Mary Anne Evans at 882-5330. Tuition is $75 including workbook.

City ups dock fees

Grosse Pointe City Council voted Jan. 21 to raise its park marina fees. The 3.5 percent across-the-board increase means boaters will pay from $5 to $15 more per season. Rental fees for a sunfish rack have been increased from $33 to $35.

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

One hundred writers in 30 states, selected from more than 2,000 applicants, received National Endowment for the Arts' Fellowships for Creative Writers this year, and among them is Gerald P. Burns, who lives in Dallas, Tex., now, but grew up right here in Grosse Pointe, where

"we saw each morning coming out of church painted freighters on a painted lake"

That's from Burns' "Letters to Obscure Men," one of a series of books of poetry that began with "Botticelli's Minuet" and will conclude with "A Book of Spells," now at the printer's. He has also published "Laughter in the Gallery" (poetry) and "Towards a Phenomenology of Written Art" (prose), as well as critical essays in magazines and anthologies.

He attended Christ the King and Parcels Schools, graduated from St. Paul's High School in 1958 with a Harvard Scholarship and Grace Whitney Tuck Scholarship, picked up his Bachelor of Arts degree from Harvard four years later, did graduate work at Trinity College, Dublin, and received his Master of Arts degree from Southern Methodist University.

Currently, he's a free-lance editor and proofreader, and does rare book cataloging for university libraries. In the '60s, he was an instructor at Southern Methodist. Later, he was managing editor of "Dogs" Magazine, N.Y., and an associate professor, with tenure, at Nassau College, Long Island, until, in 1974, he had to move to Texas for his health (pneumonia).

Each Fellowship for Creative Writers is for $20,000. The idea behind the program is to enable "published writers of exceptional talent" to set aside time for writing, research or travel. As a Fellowship for Creative Writers recipient, Burns joins a very select company, for the Endowment, an independent Federal agency established in 1965, has awarded Fellowships to almost every major American writer under the age of 50.

Despite the fact that he's been a Texan for a decade, Gerald Burns continues to find inspiration in the area in which he spent his youth. As he puts it, again in "Letters to Obscure Men:"

"to grow up on Michigan light on Michigan water makes every other place Pontus."

Grant for Pointe Music Festival

The Michigan Foundation for the Arts is a non-profit foundation, funded entirely by corporate, foundation and individual contributions, not related to the state-funded Michigan Council for the Arts. MFA grants to Michigan artists, art students and cultural organizations, scholarships, awards and commissions are by no means in the National Endowment for the Arts' $2 million Fellowships for Creative Writers range

JANICE B. TRIMPE, sculptor, above, contemplates her bust of her grandfather. She did that four months before he died, in clay . . . but Janice works in other media, and in other than purely representational styles. Her standing woman (far right) is made of plastic. Her most recent work (samples below) is whimsical, humorous — and frankly earthy. She loves doing children. "They're easier than adults," she says. "Adults are more self-conscious." For a more detailed account of Janice's life and work, turn to the Feature Page; she's this week's Pointer of Interest.

To talk about Your Medical Rights Feb. 7

Sante, salute, Gesundheit, salud! ... Health is a primary concern in any language. Next Thursday evening, Feb. 7, the Grosse Pointe Branch of the American Association of University Women will present a program on "Your Medical Rights" at 7:30 p.m. in the Exhibition Room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Road.

This session, part of AAUW's ongoing series "Economic Independence for Life: Not a Trivial Pursuit," will be chaired by Joan Ferguson-Grenada, with Joyce Edwards as co-chair.

The subject's ethical aspects will be discussed by guest speaker Bruce Russell, professor in the Wayne State University Department of Philosophy. He will explore the right to health care, experimentation on human subjects, informed consent and euthanasia.

Gerald Lee, patient representative at Harper Hospital and incoming president of the Society of Patient Representatives, will cover the current situation in Michigan, including the patient's right to see his/her medical records, life-sustaining by artificial means and cases of physician incompetence.

The program is free, and open to all interested members of the community.

Visitors welcome at the Log House

The Selinsky-Green Log House Museum, located behind the St. Clair Shores Public Library at 11 Mile Road and Jefferson Avenue, is open to the public without charge every Wednesday and Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m.

A visit to the restored farmhouse, built in the early 1870s by Polish immigrants, includes many "hands-on" activities, such as playing an 1890 pump organ, using a treadle sewing machine and grinding coffee by hand.

Class, Scout and group tours can be arranged at any time during the week by contacting Mary Karshner, museum curator/archivist, at 771-9020.

Dance on Sweet Adelines' agenda

The East Pointe Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc., 1984 regional champions, held its second annual dinner dance Friday, Jan. 18, at the Royalty House in Warren.

Saint John produces another fabulous ball

Before we leave the first month of the New Year, let's take a final look at the last month of the Old ... specifically, at the 31st Annual White Christmas Ball sponsored by Saint John Hospital's Fontbonne Auxiliary. As always, it lived up to its reputation as Grosse Pointe's most elegant holiday party. Some 500 guests gathered to enjoy cocktails, dinner and dancing in a lavish Old-Fashioned Christmas setting at the Country Club of Detroit. Among them were Fred and Rosemary Cody (above), honorary chairpersons, pictured with the plaque of appreciation they received from Fontbonne for their many years of service to the hospital. At top right are Mary and John Tulloch (Mary served as chairperson of the '84 Ball). At bottom right are Sharon and Jim Snyder (Sharon is Fontbonne's current president). At center right, Jan and Roland Rinke typify the many happy couples who found the big band sound of the Meyer Davis Orchestra irresistible. And the 1984 White Christmas Ball was successful in more than a "fun" sense, raising some $60,000 for renovation of the current hospital, including the provision of 35 psychiatric beds.

'Rivals' come to Hilberry

"The Rivals," Richard Brinsley Sheridan's 18th century comedy with a cast of characters including Mrs. Malaprop, Lydia Languish and Sir Lucius O'Trigger, opens at Wayne State University's Hilberry Theatre at 8 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 7, following previews Friday and Saturday, Feb. 1 and 2.

It will play at Hilberry through Apr. 5, in repertory with "Twelfth Night," "Our Town" and "A Streetcar Named Desire." Ticket and schedule information may be obtained through the WSU Theatre box office, 577-2972.

Pointe Lawyers' Wives spread cheer

As always, admission to the Grosse Pointe Lawyers' Wives annual Christmas tea was a gaily-wrapped gift for a resident of the Wayne County Juvenile Home, and this year additional gifts were donated to the juveniles in the Wayne County Intensive Probation Department. Pictured above accepting the gifts at the Lincoln Road home of Mrs. Jack Rowe on party day are (left to right) KAY DAUGHERTY FARREL, Wayne County Intensive Probation Department; The Honorable THOMAS MAHER, Probate Judge, Juvenile Division; SUSAN (Mrs. Thomas) ROCKWELL, president of the Pointe Lawyers' Wives; and KEN DANZY, Wayne County Juvenile Home. The Lawyers' Wives began the New Year with a winter coffee for members and prospective members yesterday, Wednesday, Jan. 30, at the Webber Place home of Mrs. Donald Cook. Grosse Pointe Lawyers' Wives is an organization which undertakes projects aiding the community in the areas of legal education, crime prevention, youth services and drug and alcohol awareness. Membership is open to anyone married to a member of the State Bar of Michigan, to a Judge, a dean or faculty member of an accredited law school within the state and to widows or widowers of such individuals. The winter coffee was chaired by Jan (Mrs. Thomas) Coulter.

Sing the song in your heart

Vocal instructor Doris Pagel is offering four separate voice classes for people who have always wanted to sing, and for those who would like to polish their vocal skills, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Her Basic Voice class will meet on Mondays, starting Feb. 11, from 7 to 9 p.m. She will give instruction in proper breath control, presentation and projection, and in basic theory and sight reading.

Advanced Voice students will meet on Wednesdays, starting Feb. 13, from 7 to 9 p.m. to learn ensemble singing and professional performance techniques in preparation for a spring concert.

Both these courses are 10 weeks in length. Cost for each is $65.

Special Voice, focusing on the concert repertoire, will meet on Thursday evenings, beginning Feb. 14, and Opera Workshop will meet on Saturday afternoons beginning Feb. 16. Both these classes will meet for five weekly one-hour sessions. Each costs $55.

Anyone interested in Special Voice or Opera Workshop should call the War Memorial, 881-7511, to arrange an interview with Mrs. Pagel, so she can properly place students according to interest and ability.

Doris Pagel, a Juilliard graduate, has coached in all phases of voice, from popular tunes and Broadway hits to operatic arias and art songs in French, German and Italian. She will be teaching separate classes for children and teens at the War Memorial, in addition to her adult programs, beginning the week of Feb. 11.

Additional information on any of these programs may be obtained and class registration made by calling 881-7511.

Chefs parade for Children's

"Cuisine Extraordinaire," offering sample specialties by members of the Chef de Cuisine Association, will run from 5 to 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 10, at the Rooster Tail. It's a gourmet benefit, sponsored by the Children's Hospital of Michigan Auxiliary, and will raise funds for research in transplantation rejection at Children's.

Twenty area chefs, including Carol Haskins and Leon Korstjens, of St. John Hospital, are donating their time and talents to "Cuisine Extraordinaire," which will also feature a fine wine sale by the glass, a cash bar and a raffle of 30 dinners for two. Tickets, at $50 per person ($75 patron; $100 benefactor) must be purchased before tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 1. The number to call for more information is 494-5373.

Other chefs participating in "Cuisine Extraordinaire" include Glenn Williams, Detroit Club; Tim Mikolajczyk, Leon's Pastries; Paul Yousoufian, Schuler's; Nick Apone, Zucarro Catering, Martin Baity, Ford Motor Company Executive Dining Room; John Vanderwouw, Cuisine Moderne; Wayne Steinke, Golightly; and Joe Barone, Bloomfield Open Hunt Club.

More are Kamel Kassen, Renaissance Club; Jim Beaton, Washtenaw Community College; Richard Benson, Schoolcraft College; Terry Schuster, The Meeting Place; Milos Cibelka, The Golden Mushroom; David Hammett and Craig Julius, Knollwood Country Club; John Prectel, Italian Dens; Ray Hollingsworth, Fairfield's; and Thomas McGlone, Hogan's.

A color-full luncheon date

The Friends of Vision of the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology are planning a "Color Me Beautiful" luncheon with guest speaker Peg Tracy, trained and authorized representative of Color Me Beautiful, Inc., for next Wednesday, Feb. 6, at Lochmoor Club.

Peg has been acknowledged as one of the top 25 consultants in the world, with clients from all walks of life. Men and women from large corporations and small businesses have used her wardrobe planning expertise and praised her for it.

The luncheon program begins at 11:30 a.m. All are welcome. Deadline for reservations, which may be made by calling 774-5047 or 824-4710, is tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 1.

Call Shores Garden Club

The Grosse Pointe Shores Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association gathers tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 1, at noon in the Kenwood Court home of Mrs. Robert J. Krueger who will be assisted by co-hostesses Mrs. Stuart Cammett and Mrs. Jarvis Schmidt. Following luncheon and a business meeting, the members will meet American Field Service Foreign Exchange Students.

From Another Pointe Of View

— but they are most welcome by their recipients, both for the cash assistance and prestige they bring.

David Mikesell, of The Pointe, is president of MFA's board of trustees, and it was his pleasure earlier this month to announce grants totaling $35,000 awarded by the MFA to 30 organizations throughout the state. And it is our pleasure to report that among those grant recipients, in very select company with such groups as the Attie Theater and Harbinger Dance Company, is our own Grosse Pointe Music Festival.

Another Ex-Pointer in the Arts

Dennis Nahat lives in Cleveland, Ohio, now, where he's artistic director of the Cleveland Ballet, but he's coming back to Michigan to hold open call auditions for dancers seeking employment for the balance of the Cleveland Ballet's current season and the 1985-86 season. He'll also audition ballet students for Cleveland Ballet School scholarships.

Nahat began studying dance in Detroit at age 9, when a life insurance company offered dance lessons as premiums to customers' children, and continued his training at the studio of Enid Richardeau. After graduation from Grosse Pointe High School, he studied dance on scholarship at the Juilliard School of Music, then danced with the Joffrey Ballet and American Ballet Theatre.

He has choreographed major works for the American Ballet Theatre, the Royal Swedish and London Festival Ballets and the Cleveland Ballet, which he co-founded 12 years ago. He'll be conducting auditions Monday, Feb. 4, at the Richardeau Dance Studio on Biddle Avenue in Wyandotte, seeing scholarship candidates (they must be at least 12 years old, with a minimum of three years' training) from 10 a.m. to noon, holding open call company auditions from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

No reservations are necessary, but dancers should bring biographies and full length dance photographs, in case they're needed. Additional details may be obtained by contacting Sherry Tarrant at 216-621-3633. Cleveland Ballet performs a classically-based eclectic repertory. The company offers competitive wages on a seasonal contract of 32 weeks.

Local Artists, on-Stage Locally

Grosse Pointer Margaret Ahee, a member of the Judelaires Choral Group and the Grosse Pointe Theatre, will appear in "An Evening with Cole Porter," first production of the City of Dearborn Recreation Department Fine Arts Division's 1985 professional cabaret series.

The revue opens tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 1, and will play at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday evenings at the Henry Ford Centennial Library Theater on Michigan Avenue through Feb. 23. Tickets are $8 ($5 for students and senior citizens), and may be reserved by calling 943-2354. For group rate information, call 626-7374.

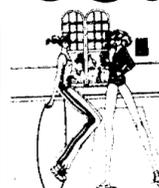

Margaret, who played the Mother Abbess in the St. Ambrose Players' production of "Sound of Music," is also appearing closer to home next month, in company with David Lemelin, baritone, a fellow soloist at St. Paul's-on-the-Lake, and Anthony Lemelin, tenor, in the Sundays at Seven concert series at St. Margaret of Scotland Church, 13 Mile Road west of Harper, in St. Clair Shores.

They'll present "Music through the Decades," a program of American music from vaudeville days and the Swing Era to the present, on Sunday Feb. 10, at 7 p.m. at St. Margaret's, accompanied by pianist Josephine Burmmell.

David Lemelin has performed with the Detroit Symphony, Michigan Opera Theatre and the Chicago Light Opera Company. Anthony Lemelin, who has studied piano since the age of 5, is making his fifth Sundays at Seven appearance. Tickets for "Music through the Decades," available in advance or at the door, are $4 for adults, $3 for senior citizens and students. Further information may be obtained by calling the parish office, 293-2240, between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m.

Arts & crafts to illuminate a dull winter

Cold temperatures, dull days... no doubt about it: winter is a drab time in Michigan. Why not try an arts and crafts class or workshop to brighten the hours until spring? The Grosse Pointe War Memorial has several such programs beginning in February.

Mary Herbert will conduct a two-session Round Reed Basket Workshop starting tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 1, from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cost is $25, plus a nominal supplies fee.

Carol Lachuisa will offer Watercolor Techniques on Thursdays, Feb. 7 through Mar. 14, from 9:30 a.m. to noon. This $48 course, conducted in an informal atmosphere, will teach technique, color and composition.

Suminagashi, the Japanese process of putting a marbled design on paper, will be taught by Patricia Collofrati on Saturday, Feb. 9, from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Using this technique originally utilized to decorate screens, students will be able to create their own designs for stationery, bookmarks and collages. Each registrant should bring a sandwich or a snack to this $15 workshop. All supplies are included in the cost.

Marilyn Derwenskus will teach Color and Watercolor on five Mondays beginning Feb. 18, from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m. The properties of color-hue, value and intensity will be explored in this $40 class.

Ms. Derwenskus will also offer The Magic of Watercolor II for five weeks beginning Monday, Feb. 18, from 9 a.m. to noon, exploring a variety of watercolor techniques, including mixed media, with emphasis on the winter landscape. Individual interpretation is encouraged in this $40 class.

Youth to be cited by Elizabeth Cass

The Elizabeth Cass Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will cite nine area high school seniors as DAR Good Citizens this year. The honorees include Kathy De Ronne, Grosse Pointe North High School; Renuka Uthappa, Grosse Pointe South High School; April Neveans, Harper Woods High; Paul A. Remick, Bishop Gallagher High; and Janet Simmons, Regina High.

More are Kimberly Bielicki, Hamtramck; Dawn Marie Gafa, Lincoln; Pam Kozak, St. Florian; and Kara Kyro, Warren.

Each has been selected by the faculty and fellow students of his/her high school as a person who has displayed outstanding qualities of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

The Good Citizens and their parents will be entertained at tea Monday, Feb. 4, at 1 p.m. in the foyer of the Performing Arts Center at Grosse Pointe North High School. Each student will be introduced by Mrs. John Kirsch, Elizabeth Cass chaplain, who will award the Good Citizen certificates, and Mrs. Frederick Heath, chapter regent, who will present the Good Citizen pins.

Mrs. Marvin Putnam, vice-regent, will give a short talk on "Personality," after which tea will be served.

Bridge Group meets Feb. 6

The Bridge Group of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club will meet Wednesday, Feb. 6, at noon in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House. All Woman's Club members who enjoy bridge are welcome to participate, but should make reservations with Mrs. William Hayduk, bridge chairman, by noon Saturday, Feb. 2.

Garden Club's focus on ferns

Margaret Converse will present a program on "Ferns" at the Windmill Pointe Garden Club's luncheon meeting next Wednesday, Feb. 6, at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club. Mrs. George W. Johnson is this month's hostess. Mrs. Samuel Rizzo is co-hostess.

Russian Icons are tea topic

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Service League will present a special, open-to-the-public tea and mini-lecture on "Russian Icons" by Virginia Kasza next Tuesday, Feb. 5, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the War Memorial. Proceeds from the $4 admission charge will go toward the War Memorial's restoration projects.

Church Circles meet Tuesday DGOA Bach Brunch slated

Grosse Pointe Memorial Church Women's Association Circles meet next Tuesday, Feb. 5, at 9:15 or 9:30 a.m., 1, 7:30 or 7:45 p.m., according to their regular time schedules.

Serving as hostesses are Jenna Tompkins at her Tonnancour Place home, Jane Warren at her Stratford Place home, Martha Nyboer at her Cadieux Road home, Wanda Leith at her Westchester Road home, Virginia Pehrson at her Harvard Road home, and Liz Aiken, in the church lounge.

Refreshments and fellowship precede Bible study at these monthly circle meetings. Visitors are welcome. Further information may be obtained by contacting Pauline Dykstra, circles coordinator, at 882-5330.

The Detroit Grand Opera Association will sponsor the 10 and 11:30 a.m. "Brunch with Bach" programs at the Detroit Institute of Arts on Sunday, Feb. 10. Reservations are necessary, and can be made by calling 832-5200 or 833-2730.

Featured performer will be mezzo-soprano Claritha Buggs, a Detroit native, winner of this year's national competition for the Leontyne Price Vocal Scholarship and a former finalist in the Metropolitan Opera District and Regional Auditions.

She has sung with Michigan Opera Theatre for the past two seasons, making her debut as Siebel in "Faust" and appearing as Ma Moss in Copland's "The Tender Land" and the Third Lady in Mozart's "Magic Flute."

Michigan artists invited to exhibit

Michigan artists aged 18 and older are eligible to submit paintings, prints and sculpture in the 13th Michigan Annual sponsored by The Art Center, located on Macomb Place in Mount Clemens. Juror will be Robert J. Wilbert, professor, Wayne State University.

Only original work completed within the past two years will be accepted, and works must be ready for exhibition, suitably framed and wired for hanging. There is a non-refundable entry fee of $15 for two entries.

Works must be hand-delivered to the Art Center between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Thursday, Friday or Saturday, Feb. 21 to 23. Cash awards range from $700 for first place (which also brings the Grumbacher Award) to $50 for honorable mention.

Further information is available by calling The Art Center, 469-8666, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday.

Time needn't limit crafts

In today's fast-paced, mass-produced world, homemade items have become increasingly cherished commodities. Everything from homemade candies to hand-crafted afghans is greeted with interest and appreciation, and along with the personal satisfaction of self-made items, the hand crafter can realize substantial savings. The following information is prepared with the assistance of Robert Gatti, vice-president of Merchandising for Frank's Nursery and Crafts.

Beads: A New Twist

Crafters can "draw a bead" on the latest fashion look: the multi-strand twisted beaded necklace. Over the years, the fashion industry has rediscovered beads in various forms; from the pearls of the 50s to the hippie necklaces of the 60s to the Bo Derek hairstyles of the 70s, beads have been at the forefront of fashion. Today, you can make a twist necklace in just a few minutes for a third less than the ready-made price. Choose from pre-strung beads, tubular glass beads or pearls.

Home Sweet Furnishings

The country look remains one of the strongest trends in home furnishings, moving away from American primitive toward a Victorian country feel, with a softer appearance. Smaller print fabrics, dusty pastel colors and ribbons and laces are more popular than ever.

Crafts that typify the country look, such as metalpunching, stenciling, basketmaking, ribboncraft and needlework, are now easier to create with new "quickie projects." These contain pre-cut pieces, scaled-down sizes and ready-to-finish items with completion times of less than one hour.

Booming Baby Crafts

Handcrafted items make special gifts for newborn babies and young children. Even a novice can create a treasured heirloom in just a few hours. Numerous kits are available, as well as open stock, offering a wide selection of projects to furnish baby's room, fill-in baby's layette or fill-up a child's toy chest.

Today's woman-on-the-go doesn't have to forego the pleasures of crafts. Even with a limited amount of time, she will find a wide array of projects designed to provide satisfaction, relaxation and beautiful finished products.

There are fine houses on the market. Maybe you CAN afford to buy one. Realtors® are experienced in what is known as "Creative Financing" . . . and that means they can often figure out ways for YOU to finance a housing purchase. Call a member of the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange.

BIG HOUSE, BIG HEATING BILLS, BIG TAX BILLS . . . SMALL FAMILY??? If you're living in that great family home you raised your family in but now the family has moved on to homes of their own, maybe it's time to consider scaling down to a smaller, more practical ranch style home in the heart of the Pointes. We have one and we would like to tell you about it. We also have an exceptional luxury condominium built just twenty years ago near Eastland. Call us today! You can enjoy lower overhead, lower maintenance, and probably extra income from the excess cash you'll put in the bank!

Short and to The Pointe

Among Kalamazoo College students named to the school's Dean's List for the fall, 1984 quarter were Andreas P. Deutz, son of Dr. and Mrs. Josef Deutz, of Chalfonte Avenue; and David J. Farina, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Farina, of Moorland Drive.

Mark H. Loving, of The Woods, received a Master of Science degree from the School of Community and Allied Health at the University of Alabama in Birmingham last summer.

Navy Seaman Apprentice Christopher A. Ganoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ganoff Jr., of McMillan Road, has been graduated from the Gunner's Mate Technician "A" School at the Service School Command in Great Lakes, Ill. He is a 1983 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School.

Among cast members of "Sheep and Goats," three biblical plays from the medieval Towneley Cycle presented by Hillsdale College in October are Joe Walker, son of Mrs. Joseph Walker, of Moran Road, who portrayed "God." A senior at Hillsdale, he has been active in many other theatre productions.

Ralph J. Ladd, of The Shores, has been reelected to the Olivet College Board of Trustees for a term ending in September, 1988. Ladd, a 1935 Olivet graduate, is chairman of the executive committee of Michigan Mutual Insurance Company in Detroit.

Farrell setting sail for exotic 'Art of 1492'

While Christopher Columbus was out discovering the New World, people in other parts of the world did not put their lives on hold. To demonstrate this, art historian Michael Farrell will discuss the cultural, artistic, historic and architectural trends of the 15th century in a three-part 8 p.m. lecture series, "1492," at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. In his first lecture next Wednesday, Feb. 6, Farrell will sail, rhetorically speaking, to Byzantium. His program will focus on Spanish and Turkish Art.

Pointer of Interest

"I'm really excited," says Janice Trimpe. "I feel good about myself and my work." There was a time, not too long past, when she thought she'd never make that statement. But now, after two years on the sick list, Janice feels great, and she's working like a house afire.

"My goal is to get back into sculpture full-time by late spring or early summer. I'm working on something new now. I have a fascination for glass and plastics: clear things."

She hasn't stopped her portrait work. It's what first brought her to public attention, and it's popular. It sells. She's particularly fond of doing children's heads. Her first were portraits of her own Aimee and Chris, at 4 and 3 respectively. Since then, she's done about 150 children's heads. Among other things.

One style leads to another. Janice points out the musculature in one of her early torsos, contrasts it with the smooth, rhythm-in-the-round lines of her more recent work. One medium leads to another. Janice has worked in virtually everything, from industrial and terra cotta clay to bronze, from porcelain to polyester resin.

Her special commissions range from a portrait of Mikhail Baryshnikov for Sheldon Gold, New York, to a giant plastic gopher mask contracted for by WCAR Radio for a promotion. Among the more than 200 private collectors who own her work are Henry Ford II (a bronze torso) and Chuck Muer.

Not bad for someone who didn't begin sculpting until she was 30. But Janice, 41 now, has always been in the arts. "From hair dressing to dress designing to painting—all the paintings in the house are mine, too—to pottery to sculpture . . . and I'd like to learn glass blowing." You move on, or you discover yourself standing aside. "I find in life that everything leads to something else."

SHE WAS BORN in Chicago, grew up on Grosse Ile, lived in Indian Village for a while before moving to Grosse Pointe. "I've lived on the water all my life. Right now, I'm farther away from water than I've been since I was 5. My Indian Village house was in the first block of Jefferson; I could see the water from my windows."

She has to bicycle down to take a look at the lake now, but she doesn't mind that. "I like to bike ride. That's why I moved here. In summer, I guess I bike about 40 miles a week.

"What else do I enjoy doing? I like to give parties; they're fun. I like dancing—when I can find a partner. I like ice skating. I love to cook; that's part of the Italian Mother heritage. But I cook by weeks."

What Janice means is that, when she cooks, she cooks up a storm, a week's worth at a time, then squirrels the results away in the freezer for day-by-day use. She even does her children's lunches by the week. Aimee, 15, a South High student, and Chris, 14, at Brownell, peel off their Baggies for the day.

Aimee is, her mother says, "my writer." (Aimee, overhearing this, says, "Oh, MO-THER!") Chris wants to be an animated cartoonist. This week.

Janice, who has been working as sales manager for a commercial printing firm owned by her father, George Goslee, would like to get back into sculpting full-time. She got into it seriously in 1975, when she enrolled at the Center for Creative Studies. "I'd taken a class from someone who went to school there." The instructor

Janice B. Trimpe, of McKinley Avenue

billed CCS as "a great school."

THE INSTRUCTOR, Janice affirms, was dead right. And it didn't take long for CCS to discover that, in Janice, they had a great student. Twelve weeks after she enrolled, she was given an advanced studio, "to do anything I wanted to do." She worked hard and she worked fast, finishing 28 to 30 pieces for the CCS student show in her first year.

She only had six pieces in the student show the following year, but she was laboring under a handicap: a broken arm. That would have knocked most sculptors right out of the ring. Not Janice. She's ambidextrous. She did the life-size standing woman pictured on Page One of this week's Second Section one-handed!

She opened a storefront studio, Jan's Artistry, on Shelby in downtown Detroit. She appeared on television and radio, was "written up" in the downtown papers. She was going great guns . . . and then the Recession hit. Jan's Artistry, opened in 1976, closed in 1979.

Still, Janice Trimpe, sculptor, was doing well, especially in regards to portrait commissions . . . and then she got sick. She continued to sculpt, but on a part-time basis. She went to work for her father, and she enjoys that work, is good at it—but it isn't Her Work. For a while, she just didn't feel good enough to get on with her sculpture as she wanted to get on with it.

And then she got well. An operation was performed, the problem found, solved. Janice was — is — back in business.

LAST YEAR, SHE entered a competition for the first time, submitting a proposal for the statue of Joe Louis to be placed in front of Detroit's Joe Louis Arena. She came in second in the nationwide contest. "I'm not a competitive person," she says, "so the competition itself was hard on me. And to take second place . . . I think I'd rather be 10th than second. To come so close!"

But it was by no means a total loss. Janice learned the mechanics of preparing and submitting a professional proposal. She did something she'd never done before. She moved on.

And it's not as if she'd never received recognition for her work. She was a Merit Scholarship (95th percentile) recipient while at CCS and received a CCS Merit Award for private studio studies. She was also a Women's Sculpturing League Scholarship recipient.

Her exhibits range from private showings in 1976 and '78 at AAA Gallery to a one-woman show at Gallery Renaissance in 1980 to a show at Goeddeke Garden Gallery in Mount Clemens last year. She's shown at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, and also taught there. Among other places. She's even taught sculpture to the blind.

"I'm a good teacher, and I love it, and I want to do it again." No doubt about it: she will. And she'll find, eventually, a storefront location in The Pointe where she can set up a new gallery, a place where she can see and be seen. People stimulate her; Jan's Artistry welcomed walk-ins. More than one curious passer-by was pressed into service as a model. And loved it!

THE TOOLS OF her trade are all over her McKinley Avenue home. She does all her own molding and processing. Her kiln and molds are in the basement. Her studio is the breakfast nook. Her house is her gallery.

She's sculpting up a storm, and she feels good about herself and her work. "If I couldn't sculpt, what would I do?" Janice, smoothing the surface of one of her works-in-progress, wrinkles her forehead. Not in a frown, but in contemplation of a new possibility. Another way of moving on.

"Probably," she decides, "study psychology. That's my second favorite thing. I'm not a 'non-conformist'—that's not the right word, but I can't think of another one—but I have studied metaphysics and psychic phenomena. The brain fascinates me."

Conquer fear with Phase I

"Overcoming the Fear of Computers" is the subject for Phase I, the single, young adults, ages 25 to 40, who gather regularly for Sunday evening program meetings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, this Sunday, Feb. 3, at 7:45 p.m.

Robert Sheridan, a training instructor at O-E Learning Inc., will provide pertinent information on computers and the future roles they may play in our society.

Phase I's monthly "night on the town" is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 2, starting at 7 p.m. at The Wishing Well in Roseville. Members may gather for dinner or join the group later to hear a three-piece band, which starts at 9 p.m.

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — collection of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth featuring, this week, SWEET TREATS to brighten a snowy day.

COCOA KISSES

3 large egg whites
½ tsp. cream of tartar
1 cup sugar, sifted
2 Tbsp. unsweetened cocoa
Beat egg whites until foamy. Add cream of tartar; beat until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in sugar, a few tablespoons at a time. Beat until stiff. Fold in cocoa. Drop batter by level teaspoonfuls on nonstick cookie sheets which have been sprayed with oil. Bake in pre-heated 275° oven 18 to 20 minutes. Cool before removing from cookie sheets. Store in a very dry place. Makes about 8 dozen.
Calories per kiss about 9.
Cholesterol 0.

CHEESECAKE

2 env. unflavored gelatin
1 cup water
1 can (1½ cups) evaporated skim milk
1 pkg. (8 oz.) Neufchatel cheese
2 cups skim milk cottage cheese, sieved
½ cup sugar or 1 Tbsp. liquid artificial sweetener
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. vanilla
½ tsp. salt
3 Tbsp. graham crackers
Sprinkle gelatin over water in saucepan. Heat until gelatin completely dissolves. Remove from heat; stir in evaporated skim milk. Beat Neufchatel cheese till smooth. Add cottage cheese. Beat well. Add milk/gelatin mixture, sugar, lemon juice, vanilla and salt. Chill until thick as unbeaten egg whites.
Beat until mixture is very smooth. Sprinkle 2 Tbsp. graham cracker crumbs on bottom of 9-inch round cake pan. Pour beaten mixture in pan. Sprinkle remaining 1 Tbsp. graham cracker crumbs over top. Chill until set. Garnish with slices of fresh or canned fruit. Makes 12 servings.
Calories per serving about 140.
Cholesterol about 18 mgs.

BUTTERMILK COOKIES

½ cup unsalted margarine
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups flour
1 tsp. cream of tartar
1 tsp. baking powder
1 cup low-calorie buttermilk
In medium bowl, beat margarine, sugar and vanilla until light and fluffy. In another bowl, sift together flour, cream of tartar and baking powder. Stir in buttermilk. Thoroughly combine the two mixtures. Preheat oven to 400°. Drop batter by rounded teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet and bake 8 to 10 minutes, or until cookies are delicately browned and almost no imprint remains when touched lightly with fingertip. Makes about 3 dozen.
Calories per cookie about 63.
Cholesterol about 2 mgs.

DELECTABITES

½ cup unsalted margarine
2 Tbsp. granulated sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 cup finely chopped walnuts
½ cup powdered sugar
Thoroughly mix margarine, sugar and vanilla. Gradually stir in flour and walnuts. Chill. Shape into marble-size balls. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in preheated 350° oven 15 to 17 minutes, until firm but not brown. Roll gently in powdered sugar. Cool; sugar again. Makes about 50 cookies.
Calories per cookie about 43.
Cholesterol 0.

ALMOND MACAROONS

½ lb. almond paste
3 egg whites, slightly beaten
¼ cup sifted flour
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup confectioners' sugar
¼ tsp. salt
Work almond paste with wooden spoon until smooth. Add slightly beaten egg whites and blend thoroughly. Add flour, sugars and salt which have been sifted together. Drop from teaspoon on baking sheets covered with heavy paper. Bake in preheated 300° oven about 30 minutes. Remove from paper while still warm. (If paper sticks to cookies, moisten it on the underside.) Makes 4 dozen.
Calories per macaroon about 40.
Cholesterol - a trace.

Sports Week

By Peggy O'Connor

Psssst. Want to know a secret? Come closer. Nobody else listening, is there? Good. Here goes: I lost another Super Bowl bet.

I know, I know. It's hard to believe. Me, being wrong about something concerning sports. Even more difficult to accept is that it happens every year; I've never, ever picked the correct winner of the Super Bowl.

I started back in 1969, when as a precocious 12-year-old, I incorrectly predicted that the Baltimore Colts would beat the New York Jets. I lost my lunch money on that one and it's been all downhill since then.

Okay, so I've had an off decade or two when it comes to picking pro football results. Wasn't I right about the Detroit Tigers winning a World Series? Didn't I correctly predict that either North or South would win the annual football clash of the two schools? I've got the talent . . . it just takes a vacation when it comes to Super Bowls.

But listen, don't tell anyone, okay? I wouldn't want it to get around. And if a guy who calls himself David Joenks (who, coincidentally, is always correct with his Super Bowl bets, darn him) starts boasting around town that he once again outsmarted a certain Grosse Pointe sportswriter on the subject of picking Super Bowl winners, don't listen to him.

(I'll get him when it comes time to pick a Stanley Cup winner).

Thanks to University Liggett School's Cathy Schmidt for the pair of "alligator" socks she sent me after I griped about how cold I get at high school hockey games. Cathy also sent a matching, mismatched pair (one blue, one red — the Knights' colors) to Detroit Free Press Macomb/East sportswriter Terry Foster. He wandered in his Jan. 24 sports column if he should take Cathy's suggestion and switch the odd socks with me, or just keep them the way they are.

Hold on to them, Terry. I'm going to. That way, the next time somebody grumbles that the folks who cover sports in the Grosse Pointe area wouldn't know their right foot from their left, we can show 'em how we keep track.

Favorite Moment this Winter: The impromptu concert I got from the ULS Lower School music class during a walking tour of the ULS facilities I took with athletic director Bob Wood recently.

I don't know about you, Coach, but I thought "Rocky" never sounded so good.

Things I Don't Want to Read About Anymore: Detroit Tiger Willie Hernandez' new contract. The Super Bowl (for obvious reasons). State basketball rankings that don't have South High in them. Groundhogs. World Series riots. Arctic cold waves and freezing temperatures in Florida (awwwwww . . .). Analysis of the Red Wings' problems.

I don't want to brag, but a check of the most recent prep basketball standings shows my alma mater, Detroit Servite, second in its division with a 10-1 record, and ranked No. 8 in Class D. The Panther's only loss was by two points to perennial Class D champ East Catholic.

Obviously a quality school, that Detroit Servite.

I usually don't get much mail (my readers like to reach out and touch, via the telephone, which is okay as long as they don't reach out and touch my skull with a heavy object). So when I get more than two letters on the same subject, I usually sit up and take notice.

Way back in September, I ran a sports quiz column. As usual, my tongue was planted firmly in my cheek. One question asked the number of professional sports teams play in New York state. My typically-facetious answer was "two—the Mets and the Islanders."

Since then, I've received several notes from helpful readers, listing the number of sports teams playing in the Empire State, and wondering at my lack of knowledge. Thanks for the help, folks, but you might like to know that I deliberately designed the answer to that question to point out that the teams from New York weren't very professional — with the exception of the Mets and the Islanders — in view of their dismal records.

I believe the word for what I was attempting to do in that column is "sarcasm." Somehow, though, when you have to tell someone you're being sarcastic, the fun kind of goes out of it.

Hereafter, then, I pledge to provide adequate warning when my column contains sarcasm. For example:

"Warning: The Surgeon General of the United States Has Determined that the Sarcasm Contained in this Column May Be Hazardous to Your Health."

Or . . .

"The Following Column Contains Graphic Depictions of Sarcasm In Its Most Basic Form, and as such, May Not Be Suitable For Children. Parental Guidance is Suggested."

Failing these, I can always suggest that readers who don't recognize sarcasm turn the page. The rest can just wait until after the family hour to read the column. Or, just call me and I'll explain. We're here to serve.

What am I going to be doing on Thursday, Feb. 12? Watching South High beat Mount Clemens in an Eastern Michigan League showdown, that's what. Don't ask me why, I've just got a hunch that the Blue Devils will pull an upset on the Bathers.

Just don't bet your lunch money on it.

South cagers rebound

By David Loffredo
South High

Rebounding from their first loss of the season, the South varsity basketball team crushed the Anchor Bay Tars, 65-48, on Jan. 22.

The Blue Devils jumped out to an early 8-2 lead and never looked back. The scoring attack was led by seniors Al Ament and Rick Whitney who contributed 18 and 16 points respectively.

South's Friday game against Port Huron Northern was postponed due to poor weather.

The JV team had trouble with Anchor Bay, losing 58-50. South teams played Roseville on Jan. 22 (after press time) and will continue their seasons tomorrow at L'Anse Creuse against the LCN Crusaders. JV tipoff is 6 p.m., the varsity contest will begin at 7:45 p.m.

South's freshman basketball team split its games last week. Losing to Anchor Bay, 38-37, on Jan. 22, before bouncing back to beat East Detroit Kelly, 75-37, on Jan. 28.

South's shooting went cold against the Tars, as the Devils hit only 13 of 53 from the floor and 11 of 25 from the line. Doug Lucas had 13 points and 13 rebounds. Also scoring were Mike Paull (nine), Nick Saros and Roger Drabant (five each), Bryan Jones (three), and Mike Finch (two).

Paull and Lucas again led the way against Kelly. Paull had 31 points (13 and four), and added nine rebounds while Lucas chipped in with 23 points and 13 rebounds.

Rounding out the scoring were Andre Bielski (eight), Drabant and Jim Johnson (four each), Marty Saad and Matt Aldrich (two each) and Saros. In all, the Devils shot 31 for 77 from the floor for a .403 percentage.

Varsity Spikers win

Ann Schwarz had 28 spikes and eight kills as the South varsity volleyball team topped Anchor Bay 8-15, 15-11, 15-6.

Andrea Roesch was second in the offensive attack with 17 spikes and two kills, while Kerry Bruce added 13 spikes and three kills.

In the serving department, Debbie Friedman and Mary Ann Maigne each served for eight points, while Theresa Schulte served the final four points of game two.

Improved basketball at ULS

By John Travis
ULS

Coming off a slow start in the new year, the University Liggett School varsity basketball team has rebounded by taking two out of its last three to improve to 3-7.

The Knights started off with a win at home on Jan. 15, against a gritty Huron Valley Lutheran squad, 48-44. Coach Tony Gallaher feels, the game "could be the turning point for the whole season."

ULS got out to a 23-18 lead at the half but came out flat in the second half and allowed Huron to come within one. However, the Knights regained control and held off a furious press near the end of the game. Senior Harold Colby led ULS with 21 points and 10 rebounds. Junior Brian David had four key steals and Keith Calcagno pulled down six rebounds.

A 10-day layoff for exams and the loss of starting guard Ben Pugliesi (broken collarbone) hurt the Knights' chances against the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference leader, Oakland Christian.

South's varsity spikers will continue their season this Friday, Feb. 1, at home against L'Anse Creuse North. Game time is 5 p.m.

The girls' freshman volleyball team split in last week's action, evening its record at 5-2.

South opened the week with a 15-3, 11-15, 15-10 demise of Chippewa Valley before losing to L'Anse Creuse 15-8, 5-15, 6-15.

The frosh play Feb. 1 at home against L'Anse Creuse North, at 6 p.m.

Wrestlers win

Wins by Dave Morinelli, Paul Andrepoint, Frank Murray, Dave Ludlow and Bill Thomas gave the South varsity wrestling team its first win of the season, a 51-24 victory over Port Huron Northern.

Later in the week, South competed in the Bloomfield Hills Andover Invitational where they finished seventh out of ten teams. Murray, Ludlow and Thomas were third in their respective weight categories.

The wrestlers will try for their second win tonight in Roseville at 6 p.m.

Swimmers split

The South varsity swim team split in last week's action, evening its record at 5-2. The Devils began with a 47-35 loss to a powerful Dearborn Mustang team.

Matt Smith finished first for South in the 100 butterfly, as did Jeff Clark in the 100 backstroke and the 200 medley relay team of Clark, Rick Leonard, Smith and David Bailey.

Later in the week, South handled Roseville easily, 98-71, in preparation for the meet tonight against Brighton. The home (Grosse Pointe North pool) meet will begin at 7 p.m.

Gymnasts win

South's gymnasts beat Ferndale, 110.45-89.35 to even their record at 1-1. Patty Leppala was first in the vault (8.0), second on the bars (7.7) and third in the floor exercise (7.5).

Other top finishers for South were Kathy Trefzer, third in the vault (7.55); Jennifer Tyrer, third on the bars, (7.3); Gwen Adik, second on the beam (7.45); and Karen Howe, third on the beam (7.4).

North cagers are Dragon 'killers'

By Bill Hoover
North High

North High's varsity basketball team topped a successful week with a 75-73 upset win over the Clintondale Dragons on Jan. 25. North coupled that victory with a 69-55 win over South Lake to even its record at 5-5 and move into first place in the Bi-County League.

Against South Lake (6-1) on Jan. 22, North dominated from the very start, racing to a 9-2 advantage after Rob "Skinhead" Skuras pinned a Cavaliers' open-court lay-up on the glass, igniting home court fans. Tough calls and a hustling South Lake team kept the game within reach, 21-15, at the end of the first quarter.

The Norsemen controlled the second quarter, capitalizing on South Lake turnovers to take an 11-point lead, 37-26, at the half. The second half was all North as it built leads as high as 18, while recording a third league win in three tries.

North was led by Art "The Wizard" Szymanski, who finished with 16 points and eight rebounds. Kevin Weidinger had 14 points and 13 rebounds while Rob Skuras added 14 points.

Facing the highly-touted Dragons at Clintondale on Friday night, North played with great intensity from the start, turning first-quarter Clintondale presses into fast break situations, getting many easy shots while forcing Dragon fouls. The score was tied at 18-18 at the end of the quarter.

Clintondale opened the second quarter with three unanswered baskets and after a missed dunk by Clintondale's Percy Daniels, North called time out. When play resumed, the Norsemen settled down to finish strongly, trailing only 35-32 at halftime.

North picked away at the Dragons' lead and with 3:57 left in the quarter, took a 44-43 lead on a jumper by Dan "Master D" Kopitzke. Two minutes later, when Clintondale starter Willie Pennywell fouled out, a cool Dragon team regained the lead with one minute left. Kopitzke then buried a jumper at the horn to give North a 54-53 lead after three.

Jon "Sweet J" Palazzo stole the fourth quarter tipoff for a lay-up to give North a three-point lead, which it held behind the clutch shooting of Szymanski and Skuras. The Dragons' Daniels, who led his team with 18 points, fouled out with 2:52 remaining. The Dragons came back to take the lead with 2:07 left, only to lose it 31 seconds later on a basket by Szymanski. Clintondale knotted the score twice more before Kopitzke hit on another key jumper with seven seconds left to hand the Dragons their first loss of the season.

Szymanski led all scorers with a career-high 35 points. Skuras finished with 14 points and Weidinger added 12. Kopitzke added eight points and 12 assists.

North's next game is at Dearborn on Feb. 1; game time is 8 p.m.

JV drops two; frosh split

North's JV team dropped both of its games last week, losing to South Lake, 52-42, on Jan. 22 and to Clintondale, 74-44, on Jan. 25. Dave Justice led North in scoring with 13 points against South Lake. Tom Shehab had 17 points against Clintondale.

North's JV plays at Dearborn Feb. 1 at 6:30 p.m.

Norsemen frosh opened last week with a 55-41 win over East Detroit Oakwood before falling victim to Clintondale, 58-52.

Steve Neiman led North with 15 points against Oakwood, while Steve Langs and Kirk Lowry had 12 points and six rebounds each and Karl Schultz finished with eight points and 13 rebounds.

Schultz led North against Clintondale with 16 points and eight rebounds. Langs had 14 points while Todd "The Tower" Dessinger collected 19 rebounds.

Spikers at 3-1

North's varsity volleyball team crushed Bi-County opponent Clintondale last week, 15-5, 15-13, to improve their league mark to 3-1.

Then on Jan. 25, North beat Warren Lincoln, 15-7, 15-9. Paula Harms, Celeste Sartor and Cindy Bowman led the spiking attack along with Heidi Jaeger, while strong setting by Dawn Cartwright and Virginia Sanders helped seal the victory.

North's JV spikers stayed unbeaten by topping Warren Lincoln, 15-3, 15-8. Julie Cook led North with eight service points and Missy Preston had six points. North's frosh lost to L'Anse Creuse, 15-10, 15-4, on Jan. 24.

Gymnasts lose

The gymnastics team fell to Dearborn, 131-0-121.4 on Jan. 23. Highlights of the meet included Jill Boardman's second place on the vault (8.65) and Cindy Dundon's third place (8.35) on the vault. (By Brooke Bessert).

North icers lose tough ones

The North High hockey team had a tough week, losing to top-rated Catholic Central, 7-2, and to Cranbrook, 5-2. The final scores made the games look lopsided, but the Norsemen stayed in both contests until the end.

The Shamrocks of Catholic Central led North, 3-0, midway through

Football Fame at Eastland

A fascinating representation of the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio will be on display at Eastland Center in Harper Woods from Thursday, Feb. 7 to Sunday, Feb. 10.

Containing more artifacts and mementos than last year's exhibit, the 1984-85 traveling pro football exhibit is packed with memorabilia and information. Featured among the multipanel displays are videotapes, statistics, action photos and a main theme center picturing all 123 Hall of fame enshrines. A new NFL kicking display has been added to the traveling exhibit allowing fans to test their skills at placekicking.

Falcon teams on winning streak

Coming off an undefeated week against Detroit Queen of Heaven, the St. Clare Falcons enjoyed another successful day last Sunday as four of the five Falcon basketball teams were victorious over Detroit St. Matthew.

The St. Clare girls' varsity squad ran its record to 12-0 by defeating St. Matthew, 36-14. Cece Rettig and Kristen Kasprzyk were high scorers with eight points each. Jenny Sparkman added another six while Jackie Marshall and Christy Wronikowski combined for 12 rebounds. The girls are first place with two league games remaining.

The Falcon fifth/sixth grade girls can move into first with a win this Sunday, Feb. 3, over St. Veronica, after topping St. Matthew, 32-19, behind Jill Johnson's game-high 14 points. Anne Sullivan and Maggie Haun combined for 10 points while good team defense was led by Kelly Darke and Beth Wronikowski.

St. Clare's varsity boys moved into first place with a 50-44 win over St. Matthew. Free throw shooting was the key as St. Clare scored 18 points from the line. Frank Zielinski had a season-high 20 points, hitting eight for 11 from the three throw line. Paul Mogielski pumped in 10 points while Jeff Whitty, Mike Pote and Chris May added the remaining 20 points.

Also in first place are the Falcon boys' fifth/sixth graders, undefeated in league play. The boys had to fight back from an 18-point deficit to top St. Matthew, 39-35. High scorers were St. Clare's Tim Gramling, John Temple, Mark Evans, Todd Goolsby and Scott Studzinski.

The Falcon boys' JV squad, coming off a fine upset victory over first place St. Raymond, saw their shooting go cold in a 41-19 loss to St. Matthew. Mike Rentz and Jim Pote combined for 11 points; Charlie Bibeau pulled down five rebounds.

Four of St. Clare's five teams are championship contenders with two weeks left in the season.

All five teams were victorious in games against Queen of Heaven and St. Raymond on Jan. 20.

The girls' fifth/sixth grade team, led by Amy Figoli and Johnson, beat Queen of Heaven, while the varsity squad took a 20-13 win over Queen of Heaven behind the work of Theresa Vitale and Rettig, who combined for 13 points and eight steals.

The boys' fifth/sixth graders jumped out to a 24-7 halftime lead and went on to beat Queen of Heaven, 36-28. Gramling had a season-high 20 points and Temple, Evans, Goolsby, Clay Cole and Kevin Rauch added the other points.

Led by Dane Lupo and Whitty, who combined for 25 points, the Falcon boys' JV posted a five-point win over St. Raymond. Lupo added eight rebounds and four steals to his totals, while Whitty hit seven of eight from the free throw line. Erik Kinning and Rentz combined for 10 points.

The boys' varsity raced out to a 28-2 halftime lead and ended up with a 43-14 win over Queen of Heaven. May, Zielinski and Mogielski were high scorers; Louis Dobbs, Pote, Gil Waitkus, John Colby, Sean Moran, John Cicala and Kevin Van Gorder also scored.

North icers lose . . .

(Continued from Page 1C) the second period when the Norsemen came roaring back on a pair of goals from Kevin Tisdale. Grosse Pointe had been badly outshot in the first period, but turned play around to control the action in the last two periods.

Catholic Central's goaltender made some impossible saves and robbed John Russell, Greg Henchel, Frank Vento, Tom Ugal and John Andary from close range when it appeared that North's pressure might tie the game. The visitors scored four unanswered goals late in the game to take the victory, but the contest showed that North is ready to compete with the top teams.

North's game against Cranbrook was another beauty. No. 1-ranked Cranbrook jumped to a 2-0 lead early in the contest before Norsemen winger Vento tied the game with two nice goals on set-ups from Russell, then Greg Henchel and Bob Rogers.

The second period was scoreless and at the midpoint of the third period, it looked like Grosse Pointe might pull an upset, but the roof caved in on the Norsemen and Cranbrook popped in three quick goals to take the win.

North's sophomore goalie Matt Dennis was outstanding in both contests, guarding the North's nets and keeping his team in the game. The Cranbrook game was practically penalty-free and treated the crowd to a great exhibition of skating, passing and team play.

The Norsemen will attempt to forget the "close ones" and continue with their dramatically improved caliber of play as they head into the last month of the season. The team faced Fraser on Jan. 30 (after press time) and will host Cabrini on Saturday, Feb. 2. Game time is 7:20 p.m.

Swimmers poised for 2nd place

North High's varsity swimmers are set for the second half of their season, after compiling a 3-3 mark and qualifying one swimmer for the state finals. Mike Woods' time of 1:03.5 in the breaststroke is currently good for state competition.

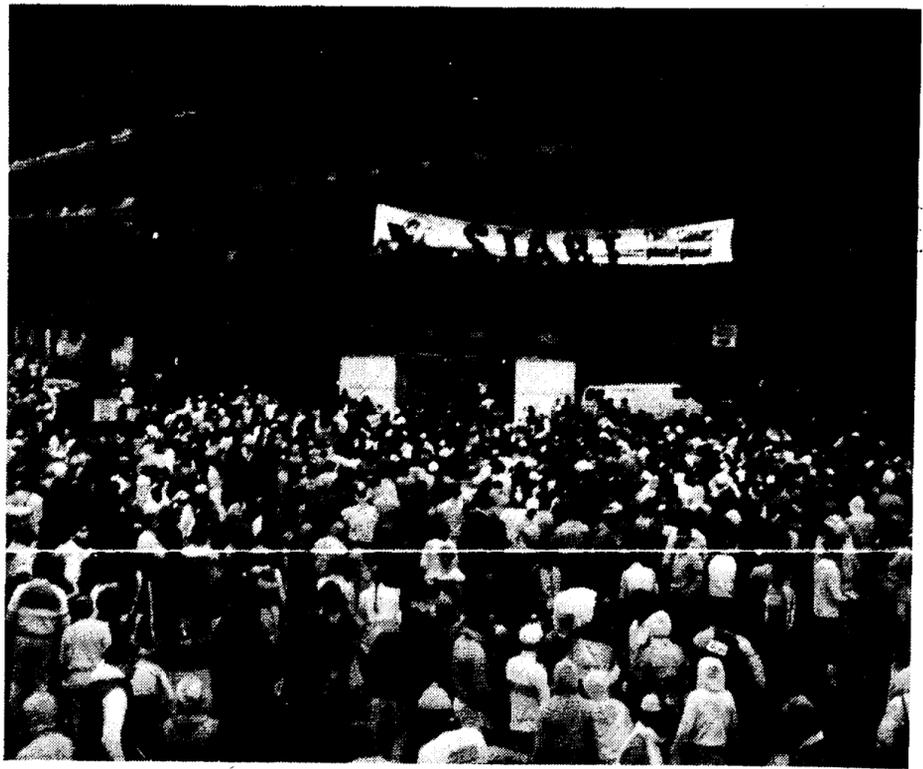

The Norsemen came off a tough Christmas-break practice schedule in which they practiced four hours per day. "The boys are tired. We were swimming over 10,000 yards each day," said coach Les Roddis.

The key to North's team remains with the younger swimmers as the freshmen, led by Greg Cooksey and Jeff Williams, make up nearly half the squad. Swimmers such as Scott Tenkel, Rod Jendretzke, David Farrell, Drew Dungan, Jeff Cornell and Rob Walters add depth to the squad as well as provide a promising future.

Sophomores contributing to the team's success was Brad Cooksey, Andy Young, Chris Colfer, and Ian MacNeil. With junior Tom Mediodia returning from an injury, North is looking forward to a prosperous second half.

"October is the lovers' month — because it includes all the seasons, revealing what the years must hold for man and woman: long days of sunshine, obscuring mists, high encounters of winds, cleansing rains and whiting frosts." — Sir Lawrence Weaver.

Part of the field of 2,500 runners for the 15th annual New Year's Eve Fun Run on Dec. 31 gathered at the downtown Detroit starting line.

Another fun run for Bocci, Little Caesar's

The 15th annual edition of the New Year's Eve Fun Run, started by Pointer Jeanne Bocci of the Belle Isle Runners as a party for runner friends, was a success, organizers say.

Close to 500 kids and 2,500 adults ran or walked in the rain and wind in the Dec. 31 event, which consisted of a one mile children's run and a four mile adult run, aerobic exercises, a spaghetti dinner and a New Year's toast.

The fastest male runner in the under 12 category was Marty Kraft, 10, of Detroit, 6:20. Fastest girl under 12 was Ann Bourdeau, of Windsor, 6:31. Doug Kurtis, 32, of Novi, bested adult males with his time of 19:16 for four miles. Ella Willis, 27, of Detroit, has the best women's time at 22:25.

A special twist to the run this year was the wedding of Tom Lipke and Charlotte Hayes. Lipke and Hayes completed the four mile event along with the Reverend Jim Chambers, who performed the wedding ceremony after the race.

Little Caesar's sponsored the event, with help from the City of Detroit Recreation Department. Any proceeds from the event are contributed to Detroit's Partner program, established to send needy children to camp.

RANGERS-RED WINGS
The Rangers turned back the Wings, 3-2. The Wings jumped out to a two-goal lead on breakaway goals by Leo Gibson and Billy Crandall; Wernet drew an assist. The Rangers finally got on the board when Paul Megler converted a pass from Mike Hendrie. Hendrie then scored the tying goal on a pass from Brian Belanger, then put in the game-winner, unassisted, with 2:45 to go. Goalies John Solobodowski and Ryan Meier were outstanding for the Rangers and the Red Wings, respectively.

PENGUINS-RANGERS
The Penguins used aggressive skating to shut out the Rangers, 5-0. Mike Weyhing got a hat trick; Mark Campbell and George Christensen added goals. Justin Braun, Billy Faber, Andy Scott and Chris Amsden provided assists. Kenny McIntyre played a fantastic game in goal, posting his third win without a loss. The Rangers' Hendrie and Phil Descamps played hard.

PENGUINS-GPD
The Penguins edged GPD, 2-1, to regain a tie for the second half lead. The game was highlighted by excellent passing and team play. Christensen opened the scoring on a pretty pass from Braun. GPD's Alex Bieri tied the game from a goal mouth scramble; Chris Coates assisted. Shane Penczak scored the game-winner at 1:54 of the second period, Weyhing assisting. Goalies Jon Romine (Penguins) and Jamie Bufalino (GPD) made several big saves. Brent Kuhar, Tom Waldron, Dave Ferguson, Jamie McMillan, Jeff Huebner and Val Covacha skated well.

GPD-RED WINGS
GPD got its second win of the second half, a 4-1 victory over the Red Wings. Tim Miller opened the scoring in the first period. Terry Brennan assisting. Scott Johns added a goal from Jamie Bufalino and in the second period, Miller got his second goal, Kevin Collins assisting. Paul Huebner closed the scoring from Alex Bieri. Mike Collins turned in a strong performance in goal for GPD. Hudson from Hage for the Wings.

GPD-FLYERS
GPD brought its record to 3-0 by beating the Flyers, 5-2. Taylor put the Flyers on the board in the first period, but GPD came on Brennan's goal from Miller. M.J. Morris put GPD ahead, Weston Norton assisting. Norton picked up GPD's third goal from Val Covacha and after Klein's goal from Meade and Platt made it 3-2, GPD scored twice. Huebner's goal was unassisted and Kevin Collins scored one on a pass from Gordie Todd.

LEARN to drive. Limited openings. Reasonable. Grosse Pointe instructor. 885-6215.

PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who make me see everything and who shows me the way to reach my ideal. You who give me the Divine Gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen.

Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Pray this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your wish, after third day your wish will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this prayer as soon as your favor has been granted. Thank you for favors received. D.B.

DIRECTOR OF ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES

We are a $30 million company, located on the east side who needs an experienced manager.

We want an experienced person to take over and manage all of the administrative responsibilities of a young, growing company.

You must have a "get it done" attitude, an eye to cost containment, lots of varied management experience and an ability to work with marketing-orientated senior management. Send your qualifications and accomplishments to: Vice President: Box N27 Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236.

WE NEED SOME "GRAY HAIR!"

We are an east side based capital equipment leasing company. Our revenue is $30 million per year and we are six years old. We are making money and having fun doing it. BUT, we could use some help in managing our growth!

We want to expand our Board of Directors to include 2 sharp persons who have: varied successful business experience and can ask intelligent, thought provoking and "have you thought about..." questions.

I know it's unusual to apply for a position on a Board of Directors, but, if you're not offended by not doing things in an unconventional manner you just might be the type of person we are looking for.

If you think it might be enjoyable to help a young company grow, drop me a note with a brief description of your accomplishments and credentials and I will call you direct to introduce ourselves. President: Box N27, Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, MI 48236.

JAMES A. MONNIG BOOKSELLER - PRESENTS -

What To Do On A Boring Winter Sunday. No more Lions games, not enough snow for skiing, you've seen all the Japanese horror movies there are and Shirley Temple is just too cute for you. How about a good book! Sundays from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m., 15243 Mack Ave. is the place to find one. No crowded malls, no parking hassles, just thousands of titles in many different categories, relaxing music and hot coffee. (Bring your own favorite cup). Sunday is also a good day to bring in your books, perhaps we can use them to make our selection even better. Call 885-2265 for more information.

Center Ice in the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association

Seals' Geoff Kimmel, Brian Braun and Ben Demski held GPD off the board until late in the second period when Bieri scored on passes from Huebner and Chris Coates. Coates scored the game-winner from Bieri and Huebner in the third period. Jeff Huebner and Tim Tracy turned in strong performances on defense.

GPD-MAJOR MAGICS

In one of the season's best games, GPD and the Magics played to a 0-0 tie. Goalies Bufalino (GPD) and Behi Rabbani (Magics) were outstanding. The lines of each team played well, reflecting some fine coaching by Mike Anway and Tom Brennan.

GPD-PENGUINS

GPD edged the Penguins, 2-1, to run its second half record to 5-0-1. A scoreless first period saw goalies Covacha and McMillan (Penguins) turn back several attempts. Bufalino put GPD on top on a second period breakaway and P. Huebner added a goal in the period's closing moments. Gracey scored for the Penguins late in the third period from Christensen. Johns, J. Huebner and Tracy played well.

GPD-FLYERS

GPD got its sixth win of the second half, beating the Flyers, 3-0. Defenseman J. Huebner opened the scoring for GPD when he picked up his first goal of the season on a shot from the blueline. P. Huebner banged one in from Mark Best and Collins in the second period and Norton closed out the scoring for GPD in the third period, Miller assisting.

Collins played well in goal, supported by the fine defensive play of Todd, Johns, Best and J. Huebner.

Squirt Division

SABRES-FLYERS

John Maycock had two goals in the Sabres' 3-0 win over the Flyers. Bryan Cass and Garrett Ryan assisted on the first goal and Erik Lindsay on the second. Ryan scored the Sabres' other goal from Cass. Gabe Erickson played a fine game in goal for the Sabres.

RED WINGS-BLUES

The Wings were in great form, taking a 13-1 win over the Blues. Alex Olmstead and Kip Gotfredson each had a hat trick; Gary Corona, Jay Berger and Tony Mari had two goals apiece and Chris Crain added one goal. J. P. Sweda, John Wise, Amy Kendall and Teddy Hanawalt drew assists. Tommy Lee and Peter Spivak also played well. Jeff Everham and goaltender Nate Eriksen were strong on defense.

SABRES-RED WINGS

The Wings staged a 2-1 come-from-behind victory in this well-played contest. Berger scored both Wings' goals. Sweda did a fine job in the nets as did Sabres' netminder Steve Wesley. Defensemen Hanawalt, Kendall, Corona and Everham played well.

BLACK HAWKS-RED WINGS

The Wings took a 5-3 win in the rematch, despite a valiant effort by the Hawks. Berger opened the scoring on an assist from Gotfredson, who later scored on a pass from Berger. Olmstead and Gotfredson assisted on Berger's second goal. Spivak scored two goals on assists from John Wise and Mari. Lee did a great job in the corners. Hanawalt and Corona played well on defense.

RED WINGS-BLACK HAWKS

Hanawalt's unassisted goal opened the scoring in this 6-0 Red Wing win over the Black Hawks. Crain added a hat trick and Sweda and Berger added goals. Lee, Crain and Gotfredson drew assists. Fine defense by Kendall, Everham, Corona and Hanawalt helped goalie Eriksen to the shutout.

FLYERS-BLACK HAWKS

The Flyers and Black Hawks skated to a 2-2 tie. After a scoreless first period, Peter Antonenko opened the scoring for the Flyers, converting a pass from Geoff Miller on a two-on-one break. In the third period, Gracey, who was stopped by goalie Tom Best on an earlier breakaway, scored on an assist from T.R. Youngblood. The Hawks took the lead on a goal by defenseman Megler, assisted by Pitters.

Just 44 seconds later, Miller broke free and scored an unassisted goal to tie the game. Fine goaltending by Best and Ryan Perkins highlighted the game. Yofre and Danny Bombich played well for their teams.

FLYERS-BLUES

The Flyers skated to their second tie in two days, 1-1. Robby Wiczorkowski scored the Flyers' goal on assists from his brother Scotty and from Antonenko and Robert Cardillo. Andy Lee scored the Blues goal from Matt Carrier. The well-played game featured excellent goaltending by the Blues' Eldridge and the Flyers' Best, particularly in the third period when each team had great scoring chances. Pat Alle, Nate Cook and Joey Suher had strong games for the Blues; Mike Ugyal and Andre Emery worked hard for the Flyers.

G.P. BLUES-SABRES

The Blues skated to a 3-0 win over the Sabres. Scott Cook scored an unassisted goal in the first period to put the Blues on top. Two minutes later, Billy Bufalino set up Chad Yates for a 2-0 lead. Yates added another goal in the second period, assisted by Carrier.

Pee Wee Division

BLACK HAWKS-NORTH STARS

The Black Hawks took another step toward their quest to represent Grosse Pointe in the district tournament, outlasting the North Stars, 5-3. The Hawks opened the scoring when Gabe Benvenuto converted passes from Peter Masouras and Danny Grundman for the only goal of the period. In the second period, the Stars scored twice in 24 seconds. Richie Harder was assisted by Derek Smith, then Smith scored on assists from Harder and Jack McSorley to give the Stars the 2-1 lead.

Scott Soule scored three straight goals — a hat trick — on assists from Jeff Antonenko and Renato Roxas. After Smith scored another goal for the Stars from Harder and McSorley, Benvenuto put the game on ice with his second goal; Roxas assisting. Peter Cueter and Dino Ricci played well for the North Stars; Kevin McCracken, David Chute and Jim Bunn did a fine job for the Black Hawks.

FRASER-BLACK HAWKS

The Black Hawks and Fraser played to a 1-1 tie in Little Caesar's League play. In two scoreless periods, first the Fraser Astros, then the Hawks took turns controlling play and dominating the other team. Then in the third period, Benvenuto converted Masouras' pass into a goal and a 1-0 lead. Despite the Hawks' continued pressure on offense, the Astros fought back and with two minutes left in the game, Fraser converted a Black Hawks' slapshot. Antonenko, Grundman and goaltender Bunn played well on defense.

BLACK HAWKS-AVON

A spirited Avon team invaded Grosse Pointe to play to a 2-2 tie in a battle for fourth place in the Little Caesar's League. After a scoreless first period dominated by the Hawks, Avon was able to score first on a rebound shot, then added to its lead after intercepting a clearing pass.

From that point, the Hawks' defense, led by Grundman and Antonenko and anchored by goaltender Bunn, inspired the offense. Roxas scored an unassisted goal and midway through the third period, Benvenuto combined with Masouras and Grundman to tie the score.

WINDSOR-BLACK HAWKS

The Hawks took a 5-2 win over the Canadiens to take one victory in the teams' home-and-home series. Benvenuto converted Antonenko's pass to give the Hawks a 1-0 lead just 24 seconds into the game. Then a minute and a half later, Josh Ferry scored his first goal of the season on a pass from Blake Crawford. After Windsor scored two goals in the second period to tie the score, Masouras added two goals on assists from Benvenuto and David Chute, to give the Hawks the lead for good. Crawford converted Roxas' pass for the final goal.

After holding off a two-man Windsor advantage, the Hawks rode the fine defensive effort of Bill Wilson, Grundman, Antonenko and Chute to the victory. Earning game pucks for their performances were goaltender Jim Bunn and left winger Masouras.

NORTH STARS-LEAFS

The stars and Leafs skated to a 1-1 tie. The Leafs took the lead midway through the first period on George Petersmark's first goal of the season on an assist from Jeff Osborne. North Stars worked off a two-man disadvantage, then played another two minutes shorthanded one player, but did not allow a goal in the second period.

Al Fisher converted a pass from Harder and used a well-played screen by Brad Kimmel to give the Stars their goal.

Despite the Leafs' pressure, Stars' goaltender Brad Hea held his ground while the defense of McSorley, Jeff Giacobbe and Paul Cavazos moved the puck out of the zone. The Stars' line of Matt Dillon, Ricci, Andy Martin and Dan Strader was able to force the play in the Leafs' zone.

Pee Wee Travel

The last three Michigan Traveler Pee Wee Minor games have been typical examples of Travelers' hockey — hard and fast. The team earned a 1-1-1 mark during that stretch.

On Jan. 20 against the Lakeland AA Hawks, the Travelers used good speed and aggressive checking to play to a 1-1 tie. Neither team could score in the first two periods, then in the third period, Bobby Clouston was pulled down on a breakaway and scored on the resulting penalty shot. Lakeland pulled its goalie for the extra attacker and tied the game with 23 seconds left.

GPD took a 4-1 win over the Travelers at McCann Arena. Donny DeSeranno scored the only Travelers' goal: Pat Duczynski and Greg Koers drew assists.

In their third straight "away" game, the Travelers came from behind to defeat the Michigan Blades, 3-2. DeSeranno, Jon Ugyal and Joel Koscielniak scored Travelers' goals; Koers, Clouston and Ugyal drew assists. Eddie Szpont stymied the Blades' attack.

Matmen meet tourney challenge

North High's varsity wrestling team has made up for what it lacks in dual meet savvy with a fine record in tournament competition so far this season. Coach Larry Aceto's squad has had to overcome a lack of depth, managing to do so in several tournaments.

In the Bloomfield Hills Andover Tournament last Saturday, the Norsemen were runners-up among the 11 teams participating. They led all day until the finals, according to Aceto.

Individually, Brian Reid was second at 98 pounds; Kevin Mack was fourth at 105; Dave Fleming was first at 119; Pat Armstrong was first, at 155, beating all his opponents enroute to the finals; Steve Taugher was second at 157; and Ken Werenski pinned everyone he wrestled in taking the gold at 198.

Middle School cagers are 7-2

The University Liggett Middle School varsity basketball team ran its season record to 7-2 with a 41-39 loss to Detroit Country Day School (DCDS) and a 28-26 win over Harper Woods last week.

The Middle School Knights host Cranbrook at 5:15 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 31, in the Briarcliff Road gym.

South High also participated. Blue Devils Frank Murray (third at 145), Dave Ludlow (third at 155), Bill Thomas (third at 157) and Barry Brooks, (fourth at 198) were medalists.

North's problem in dual meets was again evident in its Jan. 24 Bi-County League match with L'Anse Creuse which ended in a 31-31 draw. It left the Norsemen's Bi-County mark at 0-1-1.

Individually, Reid won by a fall at 98; Mack won by a void at 105; Pete Kihn lost on a fall at 112; Fleming took an 8-0 win at 119, beating Matt Brazil, who was ranked No. 3 in Michigan last year; Bill Lewis lost a decision at 126; Rob Thill lost in a fall at 132 as did Al Thomalla at 145; Armstrong was a 4-1 winner at 155 pounds; Dave Van Dale lost, 5-3, at 157; Taugher won by a fall and Werenski won on a void at 198.

Prior to that meet, North won a match, which included Bethesda and Notre Dame, on total points. Champs against Bethesda included Reid, Fleming, Lewis, Thill, Armstrong, Van Dale, Taugher and Werenski. The final score was 49-23 in North's favor.

Notre Dame outpointed the Norsemen, 39-27, but North was forced to give up 12 points in voids. "So we weren't too unhappy with our overall performance," Aceto said. Reid, Fleming, Lewis, Armstrong, Taugher and Werenski won their classes.

Continuing their fine tournament performances, North finished third in the 20-team Troy Invitational on Jan. 19. Last season, Troy came to within one-half point of a tournament victory and this year, with only seven of 13 wrestlers available, finished with 121 points to champion Troy's 136 and runner-up Lakeland's 129.

Reid was third at 98 pounds; Armstrong, fourth at 155; and Wer-

Dominican hosts cheerleaders

The "rah-rah" spirit continues at Dominican High School this Sunday, Feb. 3, the second Sunday of grade school cheerleading competition at the school, 9740 McKinney at Whitmer Road in Detroit.

Dominican's Booster club is sponsoring the "cheerdowns" for squads from schools from the east and west side of Detroit, as well as the suburbs.

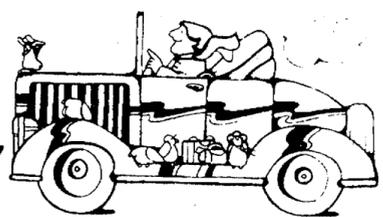

The seventh and eighth grade squads from St. Raymond, St. Brendan, St. David, Assumption Grotto, St. Juliana, St. Clare, Our Lady Queen of Peace, St. Joan of Arc and St. Veronica competed on Jan. 27. Vying for top honors this Sunday will be seventh and eighth graders from west side schools, in addition to a number of fifth and sixth graders competing in their own division — St. Raymond, St. Suzanne, St. Matthew, Our Lady Queen of Peace, St. Clare, St. Joan and St. Frances Cabrini.

The action begins at noon. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for children. Refreshments will be available.

The purpose of the tournaments is to "give the cheerleaders some competitive experience before the city championships in March," according to Pat Towne, a member of the Dominican Booster organization. No time limit will be set for the routines; other rules and restrictions will be lifted to allow the teams to perfect their routines. South High varsity cheerleaders are tentatively scheduled to judge the contest.
