Farms orders new police cars

As part of the regular two-year rotation of police vehicles, the Farms council Dec. 16 approved the purchase of nine new Ford Crown Victorias for patrol and administrative use. Two of the cars will be used for the new traffic enforcement bureau scheduled to start operation in the late summer.

The low bidder, from among 47 dealers solicited, was Royal Oak Ford, at $88,642 plus $211 per vehicle for a 24 month-60,000 mile extended warranty. The bids ranged as high as $176,967 for Chevrolet Caprices.

"I'd have been happier if the low bidder had been our current one," Police Chief Robert Ferber told the council in reference to the inconvenient distance to Royal Oak. The current police car supplier is Roy O'Brien Ford in St. Clair Shores. O'Brien has agreed to handle the servicing, however, so it will not be necessary to travel to Royal Oak.

"The $211 is the most favorable warranty I've ever been able to get," Ferber said. Other bids ranged up to $400 for less mileage. Police cars run 24 hours a day.

Much of it is idling time, which Ferber said is particularly hard on the engine. They typically travel as much as 90,000 miles in their two years of service life.

Included in the package is a trade-in on four Crown Victoria police package vehicles and three Ford Grenadas used by the public service and inspection departments. Three newer Grenadas will be transferred from the police administration to the city departments.

The money for all but the two traffic bureau cars was allotted in the current budget. Ferber worked out an arrangement by which the six police package vehicles will be delivered by May and be road-ready by July. A $60,000 down payment is available in the city's Public Improvement Reserve account, according to Ferber's memo.

The three administrative vehicles will be delivered in June so that the remainder of the purchase may be funded from the 1986-87 reserve account.

Quit smoking in the new year

Tri-county residents can kick off the New Year by kicking the habit as the American Lung Association of Southwestern Michigan sponsors its 1986 Great New Year's Cigarette Send-Off on Sunday, Jan. 5, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Fairlane Manor, 19000 Hubbard Drive, Dearborn.

The annual event, which is entering its seventh year, features the nation's most effective one-session quit program by combining three proven methods of helping smokers to kick the habit.

Hypnosis, behavior modification and medical education collaborate to better prepare smokers for withdrawal symptoms, dealing with the urge to smoke or eat and the many problems that arise on the road to becoming "smoke-free" — all in a three-hour clinic.

For about the same price as two cartons of cigarettes ($20), participants can take part in the program and also go home with a follow-up packet which contains reinforcement materials including a cassette tape for self-hypnosis.

Tickets may be purchased through all Ticket World outlets, the Lung Association, or at the door on the day of the event.

For further information, call the Lung Association at 961-1697.

Saint John Hospital

STOP SMOKING CLINIC AT ST. JOHN HOSPITAL

The Patient Education Center of Saint John Hospital has scheduled their annual STOP SMOKING CLINIC to be held the week of January 20- January 24, 1986. The five day "cold turkey" withdrawal program will be held Monday through Friday from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the hospital auditorium. Each night will focus various medical physicians as Dr. Arthur Weaver, Dr. Donald Smith, Dr. John Burrows and Dr. James Landers, each giving information and technique training for smoking withdrawal success. Literature will be distributed and films will be presented to encourage knowledge and positive actions to quitting smoking. Registration is necessary and a $30.00 fee is charged. No registrations at the door due to large groups attending. Call Camille C. Klimecki, M.A., Patient Education Center, 343-3870 to register and for more information.

One of the visible accomplishments of 1985 was the completion of Phase 4 of the Mack Avenue street improvement program, shown here by Park City Manager John Crawford. The project included tree plantings, seating, waste receptacles and indirect lighting.

Park changes visible in 1985

By Pat Paholsky

Of all the changes in the Park in 1985, the ones that have received the most attention have pertained to law enforcement — the hiring of a police chief and authorization to develop a public safety plan. City Manager John Crawford called the hiring of Richard Caretti as police chief "one of the significant changes in 1985." New programs introduced by Caretti include the scooter patrol, unmarked cars with non-uniformed officers and one-man patrol cars at night on occasion. The one-man patrol provides greater visibility and is most effective when it's not scheduled, Crawford said.

"One of the major events obviously has been the undertaking of the public safety concept which will be presented Jan. 13," he said. He added that he has been meeting with members of the council to review the plan, which has not yet been made public. "We are making some progress," he said.

Crawford added that the consolidation of the police and fire departments will be the most time-consuming activity in 1986. "We will be in contract negotiations and deeply involved in labor-related issues."

A related goal for the new year will be computerization of all police and fire records. The council approved the purchase of a system that will eventually tie in with the other cities in the Pointes and Harper Woods. The project was developed for the six cities by the Metropolitan Affairs Corporation.

Another important program developed during the past year was the creation of the Downtown Development Authority. Crawford said the new board will hold its organizational meeting this month.

"We intend to move ahead with improvements on Jefferson Avenue, the six-block area from Westchester to the westerly city limits," he said, adding that there will be a lot of activity with the DDA in the new year.

Also during 1985 the administration developed a plan to eliminate a flood plain designation in the city.

"I hope to present a report by late spring on this," he said. "If it's implemented, it will result in a savings to all residents in the flood plain who are obligated to obtain flood insurance as a condition of obtaining a mortgage," he said.

About 200 homes are effected by the designation.

The city offices are due for some changes, Crawford said. "We are looking at the facade, but more important, we are concerned with energy and ways to reduce the cost of operation."

Inadequate parking behind the municipal building is another area of concern. Crawford said an architectural consultant has been hired to study the problem.

"We are also installing a drop box in 1986 for residents to pay parking ticket fines, water bills or tax bills without exiting their cars," he said. The location of the drop box has not been determined yet, but it will be placed either at the current driveway entrance or exit.

Other goals accomplished during the past year include:

- Completion of Phase 4 of the Mack Avenue street improvement program from Nottingham to Somerset. Scheduled next for improvement is the Wayburn-Alter Road area, Crawford said.
- Agreement between the cities of Grosse Pointe Park and Detroit on a common lot line.
- Several miles of street paving. "We will continue the street resurfacing program in '86 on a worst-street-first basis," he said.
- Completion of the traffic study for Area 3, the six-block area from Wayburn to Balfour and from Mack to Charlevoix.
- Authorization to set up a demonstration block on Wayburn for pedestrian sidewalk lighting. The project will be implemented in the spring.

"I'm really looking forward to the challenges and the opportunities in 1986 that will address the needs of our community," Crawford said.

1985 was 'year of foundation'

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Last year was the year of the Grosse Pointe Shores Improvement Foundation. The non-profit organization started this year with a plan for beautifying Lakeshore in the village and worked throughout the year to raise money and increase membership.

The most tangible signs of the foundation's efforts were put up in the summer, when the Old English script entrance signs to the Shores and landscaping was installed.

The signs were the first phase of the project, which will eventually cover the length of Lakeshore in the Shores. The foundation also began landscaping medians along the northern stretch after the village completed curb work.

The foundation also began its drive to enroll more than half the village's 1,050 families as members. Going into its second year, more than 400 families had become members.

Under its articles of incorporation, the foundation is "to be used to provide facilities and services primarily for the beautification . . . and upgrading of . . . public grounds and facilities . . . perpetuation of memory of persons, preservation of objects of historical or natural interest and to provide facilities and services for the village."

Current president is Kurt O. Tech.

On the municipal side, the village spent last year continuing its rebuilding of sewerage, streets and sidewalks, according to Superintendent Michael Kenyon. In 1986, Renauld Road residents will have a sewer line replaced, the current sanitary line converted to a storm drain to dump directly into the lake, and the street and curbs replaced. The work will take most of the summer.

The village installed a new computer system this year, which it continues to fit to its needs. When software modifications are complete, the system will greatly improve the efficiency of the municipal office, Kenyon said.

Coming up in the new year will be negotiations with the Shores three labor units, representing the Department of Public Works employees, public safety officers and command officials, he added.

A new face was added to the village council last year. John Huettelman III and incumbents Daniel Beck and Elizabeth Kuhlman were assured seats on the council after the withdrawal of Robert Roney from the race. Huettelman's election as a trustee continued a family tradition. His father served as trustee for more than 20 years and village president for 14 as well as heading the planning commission and police and fire committee.

Trustees tried to mediate some sticky disputes among residents last year. In one case, the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club's proposed landscape plan was approved after discussion between the yacht club board members, trustees and residents.

Trustees tried without success to find a solution to residents' arguments over accreted lands along northeast village properties. The case is now pending in Wayne Circuit Court. Trustees spent hours during three meetings to try to resolve problems among disputants.

There were successes for the council this year, however. Trustees maintained the same tax rate as 1984. The $2.78 million in forecasted spending is to be financed with the same tax dollars and funds from the budget stabilization account.

The public safety department is reorganizing following retirements during last year. The department added new officers in 1985 and will add two more this year to fill expected retirement vacancies.

Trustees last month approved the development of an updated master plan for the village, to replace the 1956 edition. The bulk of the work and expense is expected to come this year.

Also coming this year is the 75th anniversary of the Shores' incorporation. The village was duly incorporated under state law April 3, 1911. The measure passed by a vote of 39 for and 15 against. It is expected a committee will be appointed to develop celebration plans for incorporation day.

Also this year, the village council will take up the fate of Vernier School. A resident poll last year showed support for renovation of the building by the village, in cooperation with a non-profit organization such as the Grosse Pointe Historical Society.

Hypothermia kills Farms woman

By Tom Greenwood

"I just couldn't find the car," said Leon Sehoyan. "Visibility was less than a foot and it was a white car. Maybe if we'd been able to get to her sooner . . ."

Sehoyan, a volunteer diver for the Farms and Shores police departments, was lamenting the death of 67-year-old Farms resident Ruby Lenora Carpenter Saturday night after she drove her 1983 white Cadillac into Lake St. Clair near Newberry Place.

Sehoyan, aided by his son, David, pulled Mrs. Carpenter from the back seat of the vehicle 46 minutes after it entered the water shortly after 4 p.m. Farms firefighters Robert Beer and Jack Fischer rushed her to St. John Hospital where the medical staff was able to initiate a heartbeat.

However, they were unable to raise her body temperature and she died at 9:15 p.m., nearly four hours after she was pulled from the lake. Death was listed as cardiac arrest due to hypothermia.

According to police reports, Mrs. Carpenter's car jumped the curb and ran along Lakeshore Road for about 128 feet before entering the lake. Reports say the vehicle floated briefly before sinking in about 12 feet of water. It was located about 100 feet from the breakwall.

Reports say there was a thin coat of ice on the lake for about a yard from the breakwall. Sehoyan arrived on the scene about 30 minutes after the accident occurred. "We arrived pretty quickly, but I've never encountered such terrible conditions before," he said. "There were huge cakes of ice that kept blowing in to shore. It diverted the water. There was also a pretty bad undertow which kept me from the car."

"It was so cold that everything in my equipment kept freezing up, including my respirator. I even had cakes of ice in my mask. That's something I've never encountered before."

The Coast Guard reported the water temperature at 32 degrees. Above the water, the wind chill factor was 25 degrees below zero. Sehoyan reported there was no air pocket in the Cadillac.

Firefighters at the scene were prepared to enter the water before Sehoyan arrived, donning life preservers with lines attached but were dissuaded due to the excessive cold, lack of protective equipment and the distance of the car from the breakwall.

Farms officers also stopped a civilian from entering the water on a sailboard. Because he was dressed only in boots and canvas overalls, the police were afraid they might have two victims on their hands.

Services for Mrs. Carpenter are scheduled for 10 a.m. today at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church. For more information, turn to the obituaries.

Improvements top list of City's '84 goals

By Pat Paholsky

With a number of goals accomplished in 1985, officials of the city of Grosse Pointe, armed with another list, look forward to a productive new year.

One visible improvement has been the construction of the Village Plaza at St. Clair and Kercheval with trees, paving and landscaping. Also granite pavers surround the street trees that line both sides of Kercheval in the Village.

Chris Matthews, administrative assistant and community development director, said the improvements, begun with a study in 1983, were a joint effort between the city and merchants. After a workshop and numerous meetings, representatives came up with a project design that was submitted to the architects "for perfection," Matthews said.

About 95 percent of the project was funded through the Community Development Block Grant program.

Sidewalk repairs, $68,000 worth, were undertaken during the year. About 20 percent of that amount was paid for by the city with the remaining 80 percent divided about equally between residents and merchants who were the beneficiaries of the project.

Renovations to the public safety offices and the jail were completed during the year with the jail brought up to state corrections codes. The offices were equipped with new air conditioning and heating systems and lighting and, in general, made more efficient, Matthews said.

In the last year, the city welcomed four new businesses — Talbots, Benetton's, Walden Books and One-Hour Martinizing. City officials also approved liquor licenses for Jacobson's and the Cafe Le Chat after voters in 1984 approved lifting the ban on the sale of alcoholic beverages by the glass.

The City of Grosse Pointe Foundation was incorporated in 1985. City Manager Thomas Kressbach said there isn't a specific project in mind yet, however that would be one of the items for the board to consider in 1986.

"It will probably be geared to improvements in the city, likely physical, that the person contributing can see or is personally interested in," he said.

Under the fleet maintenance program, the city bought a refuse-packer truck, two dump trucks and a pick-up. All of the vehicles will be delivered in 1986.

The council also approved the Blake subdivision plat last year, a single family development on the former Dodge-Ranger estate, that will be known as Dodge Place.

Some of the activities planned for 1986 include street resurfacing with specific streets to be determined later.

A sewer repair and maintenance study will be undertaken at miscellaneous locations, primarily residential lines, Kressbach said.

"Many lines are 50 years old or older and we have had a limited number of repair situations. We would like to review it so we can be on top of it," he said.

Another goal set for the new year is the computerization of the public safety department through a program developed by the Metropolitan Affairs Corporation. The joint project involves six cities — the Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods.

Grosse Pointe Woods was the first to go on line and the Park recently approved the expenditure of funds for the system.

Other activities planned for 1986 include seawall work at Neff Park and the foot of Lakeland; gateway entrance beautification and parking lot landscape improvements in the Village; and an update of building regulatory ordinances.

"It was a good year, a productive year, and we look forward to a good year in 1986," Kressbach said.

Standing in front of the Village Plaza at St. Clair and Kercheval are Chris Matthews, administrative assistant and community development director, and Thomas Kressbach, city manager. The area boasts new trees, shrubs and granite pavers (under the snow).

Day trips over winter wandering

The War Memorial has scheduled several winter day trips for January.

There are some tickets for the Wednesday, Jan. 15, trip to the True Grist Dinner Theatre in Homer, Mich.

"GiGi," originally billed as the performance for that day, will be replaced with "Vaudeville or Bust," an upbeat revue with tap-dancing girls, funnymen, sketches and songs.

Tickets holders who have not been contacted regarding the change in the featured performance, may call the War Memorial at 881-7511 for details. Tickets are available at the Center located at 32 Lakeshore. The cost is $33 per person includes transportation, lunch and the play.

Crawl into a space capsule and imagine what astronauts might feel like before a space launch at the Michigan Space Center, on Thursday, Jan. 23.

Prior to the afternoon visit to the Space Center, participants will take a guided tour through the Jiffy Cake Factory. Ticket cost is $24 per person.

The January trips will come to an end with The Lettermen Wednesday, Jan. 29. The trio will perform at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts, and the War Memorial has reserved choice seating. Old favorites, as well as selections from their new album will highlight the concert. The SEMTA bus will leave the Center at 7 p.m. and return at 11:30 p.m. Tickets are $18 per person and include transportation, concert tickets and light refreshments. Reservations are limited and must be made by Jan. 10.

Shores plans sewer project

The Shores council Dec. 17 authorized the engineering firm of Hubbell Roth & Clark to prepare specifications for installation of a sewer on Renaud Road. The village will bid out the project and hopes to begin work in the spring.

Trustee Edmund Brady Jr., chairman of the public works committee, said the project is estimated to cost about $225,000. The work will include installation of a new sanitary sewer, conversion of the present sanitary drain to a separate storm drain, resurfacing and curb work on the street.

The village could have been socked with an estimated bill of more than $375,000 for the work, but a videotaping of the present sanitary sewer shows it is still usable as a storm drain, Brady said.

The village has been working to separate its sanitary from its storm sewage, hoping to cut costs from the county for treatment of the sewage. The storm drain, which handles the rain and snow run-offs, will empty directly into Lake St. Clair.

A separate storm and sanitary line has been installed on Lochmoor and repairs have been made to sewers along Shoreham, Lakeshore Lane, Hawthorne and Vernier Road, according to village Superintendent Michael Kenyon.

The village is well along on its five-year plan to refurbish the Shores' sewer system, Brady said at the meeting. It has also worked the costs of those projects into the budget process, he added.

Shores employees and Hubbell Roth & Clark continue to pull the documentation together to begin developing master street plans that will show dates and extent of sewer and water repairs and other data, he added.

A test for the tax issue?

One of the first tests of the viability of the income tax cut controversy as a 1986 political issue could come in attempted recalls in St. Clair Shores and Warren next spring as a result of the activity of John Lauve of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Lauve is credited with being the moving spirit behind the recall petitions filed last week against three Democratic legislators, Senate Minority Leader Art Miller of Warren and state Reps. John Maynard of St. Clair Shores and Dennis Dutko of Warren. In each case, the income tax issue was cited as a reason for the recall attempt.

The petition against Miller cited him for hiring former state senator and recall victim David Serotkin to the Senate staff and supporting the 38 percent income tax in 1983. The recallers cited Dutko for voting against a bill to roll back the income tax to 4.6 percent on Jan. 1 and failing to vote on a $210 million spending bill. Maynard was cited for voting against the early tax rollback and for supporting the spending bill.

The county elections commission has scheduled a hearing Jan. 9 to determine whether the petition language is clear. If the petitions are approved by the commission, the recallers will have 90 days to circulate them and collect about 20,000 signatures to force a recall election against Miller and about 8,000 signatures in each case to recall elections against Dutko and Maynard.

Whether the commission approves the petitions or not, they appear to be based chiefly on opposition to positions taken by the majority of Republican legislators. While that hardly can be regarded as a political sin, especially to Democrats, any recall elections would give the Republicans opportunity to measure the value of the continuing income tax issue in the 1986 legislative and gubernatorial contests. Such attempted recalls also would give Democrats some practice in combatting the issue.

With Michigan finances now improving, because of the improvement in the state and national economic pictures, the likelihood is that the income tax issue has had its day. That will be especially true if the Legislature and Gov. James Blanchard can reach agreement early in 1986 on a date for rolling back taxes to the 4.6 percent rate. Lauve and his kindred spirits obviously do not agree with such assessments and still hope to make political capital out of the tax issue.

There is another point here. With the state primary coming in August and the general election in November, there appears to be no immediate need for an earlier test of public opinion on the tax issue. If the public disapproves of what the three legislators did, the people can decline to nominate or elect them in August or November.

The attempted recalls at this late date appear to be an attempt to embarrass the Democrats as well as to give the GOP an early test of validity of the income tax issue. The question is whether those reasons are sufficient to justify the time and expense of circulating the necessary petitions, obtaining the required number of signatures and then, if all conditions are met, having three more recall elections. Frankly, we doubt it.

Tarnishing Lucas' record

County Executive William Lucas and his chief of staff, Dennis Nystrom, have been cleared of charges of conflict of interest and possible illegality involving at least three county deals — but each has been given what appears to be a well-deserved rap on the knuckles for his conduct in office.

Richard Strichartz, a Wayne State law professor and former Detroit city official who was named by the Wayne County board to serve as a special fact-finder, did not find any violation of laws but did raise questions about the propriety of some of the actions taken in the cases investigated.

In the major issue raised involving the renovation of the Old County Building, the investigators did find that Philip Tannian, the county executive's friend, political consultant and private attorney, will profit from the project as lawyer for the developers. Strichartz also said that the procedures in drafting requests for project proposals "were unsatisfactory," chiefly because they were so hurried.

Strichartz also concluded that both Tannian and Nystrom had inside knowledge of the project well in advance and that Nystrom's involvement in a company bidding on a renovation contract should have been made a matter of public record long before Lucas finally disclosed it. After the disclosure, that firm was dropped from consideration for the project.

Under the circumstances, the Detroit News' conclusion that Lucas and Nystrom had been "vindicated, sort of," appears to be a fair one. The Free Press, however, is not yet satisfied and wants more investigation.

The Free Press expressed hope that the county board which had hired Strichartz to write the report "will resist the temptation to use it (the report) as a political blunt instrument." Fine. But then it says the report suggests there was "a lot wrong" with the contract and that county officials "may want to consider reopening it." That sounds like advance support if the Democratic-controlled county board proposes such action.

The county board has been giving Lucas a rough time with his budget and other matters in recent months. Some of the board criticism of the chief executive appears to be justified but some of it obviously stems from Democratic criticism of Lucas because he left the Democratic Party to campaign for the GOP nomination for governor. At this writing, the board had not yet had the opportunity to review Strichartz' report in detail, but new criticism would not be unexpected.

Two additional points ought to be made about the investigator's findings. He did enjoy the advantages of the 20-20 hindsight that all of us have when we look back on a developing project. We usually can see ways in which we would have improved what we did. The second point is that the worst that Lucas has been accused of, it seems to us, is that he favored his political cronies in the Old County Building renovation. That attitude, however inappropriate, has been par for the units in this state. That does not mean we approve of cronyism or excuse it in this instance but it has been a common failing even though we had hoped it would be ended in Wayne County with the adoption of a county charter.

Overall, the investigation and the report may not have fatally wounded Lucas' chances to be the GOP nominee for governor next year but these events obviously have tarnished his gleaming record as county executive. Whether he can continue to campaign for governor, travel as widely as he has in recent months and still retain not only his popularity but his reputation as a reform politician is still open to question. His performance both in his present office and on the campaign trail may offer some hints in the coming months with the answer being provided in August — and possibly in November.

That holiday airport scam

Grosse Pointers as well as other Wayne County and Michigan residents have been among those caught in the annual holiday scam at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, but apparently there is little that anyone can do about it but complain. So that's what we're going to do.

We refer, of course, of the iniquitous holiday practice of ticketing illegal parkers at the airport, towing their cars away and requiring the owners to pay $35 each to get their vehicles out of the pound. In addition, the violators are required to pay a minimum fee of $10 each to the district court in Romulus.

It is true, of course, that the holiday traffic jams at Metropolitan are tremendous and that sheriff's deputies are required to keep the traffic moving. But when there are often no parking places — or none that can be entered — and someone is trying to meet an incoming plane, it hardly seems in the holiday spirit for the deputies to order illegally parked cars towed away even when they are not blocking traffic.

Any such forgiving holiday spirit, of course, would not satisfy the vultures of the tow trucks who circle the area awaiting fresh victims who can be towed away at $35 per head. Nor would it do much for Romulus except head off complaints to the district court. We assume, incidentally, that the tow truck owners are making the appropriate contributions to Sheriff Robert A. Ficano's campaign funds and that in Romulus a suitable memorial will recognize the contributions of the unwary motorists to its district court funds.

County Executive William Lucas is doubly busy these days, what with running for the GOP nomination for governor and running his county office. But now that he has succeeded in abolishing the nefarious Wayne County Road Commission, which used to run the airport chiefly for the benefit and pleasure of the members and their relatives, we wonder whether he couldn't find a better way of handling airport traffic not just on holidays but all the time.

And what a great boost such an accomplishment would be to his campaign for governor.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marion Trainor

As "Merry Christmas" blends into "Happy New Year" greetings, there remains the euphoric feeling that all is right with our world. We have touched base with all of our friends by way of cards and notes. We have renewed and strengthened ties with our loved ones as we gathered to celebrate Christmas. We have given and we have received and it is difficult to decide which made us happier. It was wonderful to have loved ones think of us in a special way but it was also gratifying to see the happy, pleased look on the faces of those to whom we gave gifts. Now it is over, and as we look forward to 1986 with hope and of course, resolutions, as we look backward once more and think no matter what lies ahead, let it happen that we will all be together next year for a rerun of Christmas 1985.

We realize that 1986 will more than likely have its "down" times along with the good ones. That we can handle. What we urgently pray for is the strength to accept whatever comes. We want things to go well for those who are close to us. We wish them good health, peace of mind and happiness.

Along with the rest of the world, we hope for peace to settle over war-torn countries; for those who are hungry to have food and for those who are homeless to find shelter.

We wish that all those who seek work will find it and that the lonely will have companionship.

We hope that those who abuse or neglect children will seek the help they need to become good and loving parents to the helpless treasures that have been put in their trust.

We hope also that whatever pressures are driving our young people to drugs and alcoholism will be alleviated so that then they can truly enjoy being young and store up precious memories of good times to look back on when the responsibilities of adulthood must be assumed.

We know that it was much easier to be young in past generations. There was not the competition, or the manic urgency to succeed at any cost, or the mobility that now makes it possible to move beyond the familiar, safer confines of your own neighborhood. There was the extended family living close by, all within easy access to call on for advice and help.

In the absence of this structured environment, young people often turn to their peers for guidance, most of whom are no better equipped to help them solve their problems than they are themselves.

It is possible that out of need to cope with modern problems, teenagers today will develop strengths to make their way in an uneasy world. Most of them will. It is for those who become lost and never quite find their way back to the path of a happy, fulfilled youth, that we pray.

Those are our sincere hopes and wishes for our world and those in it for the New Year.

But no list of wishes would be complete without including a personal one.

Most older people would include as a priority on their wish list, to be around to welcome not only 1987 but many years beyond that date. There is good news in that department. Researchers are working to discover the biological mechanism that characterizes the aging process and triggers the body's decline.

True, it promises to be a lengthy process.

"The science of gerontology today is about where chemistry was in the Middle Ages," says Leonard Hayflick, acknowledged father of gerontology research, and director of the University of Florida's Center for Gerontological Studies in Gainesville.

"We suffered from avoidance for years — no one wanted to study aging because it's too depressing. Realistically speaking, this science has only been seriously studied by a respectable number of people for five to eight years," he continues.

Scientists know the aging process begins sometimes in the third decade of life. While the average American lifespan is now into the 70s, most researchers predict it will reach a limit of 110 years.

The good news for 1986 is science is moving close to prolonging life and in the meantime people in their seventies today are more vigorous and healthy than in previous generations.

A good sign of that is many of them resent being referred to as elderly. In a recent article, a woman who is 71 said:

"It is all right to tell me I'm crotchety rather than stubborn. I can even stand well-preserved when said in the right manner. But you better not call me elderly, you young whippersnapper."

Another commented, "You are only elderly is you think so." She is 80.

Still another who is 82 regaled against being termed elderly. "With age being elongated more and more as time passes, and people living longer and longer, people can do wonders in being very active. I still drive and have gone 65 years without an accident or any violation of any kind; I belong to three senior citizen clubs, go on three-day trips, dinner dances, dinner shows and walk the entire downtown area three days a week. You are as young as you believe you are. If you think young, act young and feel young, you will be young."

With such enthusiasm and optimism and the help of scientists who are working to add to life's span, we may all be around to greet year 2000.

Ring in a New Year is great but ringing in a new century would be the greatest.

Happy New Year.

'Let there be peace on earth . . .'

By Senator John F. Kelly
The violent news stories that we read about every day in the newspapers can, indeed, be depressing and often challenge our optimism toward the future of mankind. Such distressing news can be especially disturbing during the holiday season. Nevertheless, our hearts should not be limited to working overtime only on Christmas Day. Forgiveness is man's deepest need and highest achievement. Yet why is it that we must always wait until late into the twelfth month before we can raise our compassion to its highest level?

In this Christmas season, let us take this time of the year to reflect on the good things in life. Christmas is a time that should bring out the very best in all of us — forgiveness, love and compassion and generosity and peace toward our fellow man.

Each day of the year we should take the time to renew our faith and bond with each other. Perhaps there is no better place to start them with one's own family.

Aristotle once said, "It is characteristic of man that he alone has any sense of good and evil, or just and unjust, and the like, and the association of living things who have this sense makes a family and a state."

A loving family is the greatest earthly blessing. The family is the basic building block for a strong and free society. The loving family is the support and refuge for the individual, and it is the only truly effective training center for the responsible citizen.

I am reminded of the story I once heard that best characterizes the inner strength of the family. The story goes something like this: There once was a young boy who had become bored and restless. Upon noticing this the boy's father tore a picture out of a magazine — it was a picture of the world. The father tore the picture into little pieces and told the boy to put it back together again. Figuring this would occupy much of the boy's time, the father settled back to read his newspaper but the boy soon returned with the pieces fitting perfectly back together again. "Why that's amazing," the father said. "How could you do such a thing so fast?" "It was simple," the boy replied. "On the back page there was a picture of a family. I simply put the family together and the world took care of itself." Truer words have never been spoken.

It must also be remembered that the family is multi-generational. It cannot fulfill its proper role, indeed, it cannot hold together if we start tampering with it for the benefit of one generation without regard to the others. I have always maintained that everything government does should be designed to keep the family together.

Christmas is also a time of peace. The hideous, vast destruction of nuclear arms and the current onslaught of domestic violence are obvious to us all. My greatest wish is to see this destructive creature of mankind, war, banished from the earth. There is nothing that war has ever achieved we could not better achieve without it. We must pray for peace, until we have removed from all nations for all time the threat of nuclear destruction. Peace, however, is not the mere absence of war. The lasting effects of love, care, concern and help may not be measured in terms of money and peaceful co-existence may not always be visible, but the effects endure.

We must work for peace at home as well as abroad and not just at Christmas time but every day of the year. This world would be a much better place if all of us followed the advice of the song, "Let there be peace on Earth and let it begin with me."

I say

By Nancy Parmenter

"Tradition? I'll tell you what tradition is. I don't know." — Tevye.

Tradition is what we don't have much of any more. Unless you count the "tradition" of showing the same old Christmas specials on TV year after year, but that's more of a rut than a tradition.

But, hey, we've still got some great traditions. How about those bowl games on New Year's Day? You can sink deep, zoning out as the Crimson Tide pours over you and the Rambling Wrecks stomp you out of your stupor long enough to reach for another beer and Alka-Seltzer.

I remember on New Year's Day, it must have been about 1978, when the Maize and Blue had an unfortunate encounter with the Washington Huskies at the Rose Bowl. Renie was home from the U Dub (as the insiders call it — get it?) for the Christmas vacation and we all gathered in front of the TV for the Battle of the Split Loyalties. She was so nervous she couldn't eat.

I can't remember anything about the game except that the Dogs won. (That's another insider, which was the best part of the game. Did you know that Warren Moon's memory is so short that he has to go to the sidelines after every play to have the next play explained to him again?) Renie was jubilant at the victory, and we joined in, because, after all, she was only home for a few days. (Besides, Spartan blood flows in the veins of most of our family.)

We had a literal taste of another great tradition a couple of weeks ago at our annual family Christmas party. Our holiday hoopla was augmented by a jigger of Chinese rice wine.

Plenty of nations share the custom of elaborate toasts, but Russia and China seem to get all the publicity — probably because their national drinks are so lethal.

One of the relatives had just returned from a trade mission to China. He brought out a porcelain flask shaped like a book, inscribed with Chinese characters explaining their Constitution. Well, it is their national drink.

It tastes better than turpentine, but it burns just as long.

The Chinese toast in the grand tradition. Toasts are long, exceedingly gracious, and followed by slugging down the whole glass. Then another toast. It's insidious one-upmanship. No sipping allowed.

Here in the United States, we used to enjoy elaborate toasting. The custom has fallen victim to our incorrigible casualness. But toasting was once not only a social grace, but a diplomatic tool. John C. Calhoun was once nailed in a toasting duel. Toasts went around the table, lauding the Union, and when the turn came to Calhoun, with all eyes riveted on him, he was obliged to laud Liberty more than Union. Washington was as much a company town then as now and his "treasonous" toast was quickly whispered around, doing his reputation no good. Vice presidents should be more tactful.

It's rare, but once in a while we improve on tradition. I'm not sure how long Santa Claus has been a department store tradition, but for the last 25 years, the village where I live has practiced a tradition that greatly improves on visiting Santa. The old gentlemen flies a Piper Cub in to a cornfield outside of town, where he is greeted by wagonloads of rosy-cheeked, runny-nosed, shivering and excited know their grandparents. But sometimes tradition is so reliant on form that the substance is overlooked. Misanthrope that I am, I believe that the wedding is one of the best examples of this. In the old days, a wedding was designed to demonstrate a family's wealth and stature in the community. Mates were chosen for what they could do to enhance one's prestige. Often the bride and groom had never met, and, if they had, no one cared whether they liked each other. How well they got along after the wedding was based not on compatibility but on respect for traditional roles. So the wedding was the message.

That's not what we usually get married for nowadays. Spouses choose each other for real or perceived qualities based on personal characteristics and there is no social need that I can see for the pomp and splendor of a traditional wedding. Not that I don't like a good party, but the bride and groom get fixated on guest lists and etiquette and gift registries and forget to reflect on their coming life together. They concentrate on the wedding instead of the marriage and tradition gets in the way of real 20th century life.

The movie, "Eleni," due to be released soon, involves the struggle of a Greek peasant woman to break free of her traditional subservient role. I read the book recently and was impressed at how deep-rooted that tradition was and how great her struggle was to free herself of it — in a village 4,000 miles away, but separated from our experience by cultural light years.

Sydney Harris says we shouldn't regard our emancipation from that kind of tradition as a complete blessing. As we "march relentlessly" away from the social and communal controls that that kind of tradition represents, we are paying the price.

"The traditional closely knit culture restrained the individual, but it also provided him or her with a sense of belonging. . . . The alienation that Marx observed in modern society was as much the result of industrialism as of capitalism. Loneliness and estrangement are the deep side-effects of a rampaging individualism," he wrote.

That's why it makes us feel warm all over when we remember to practice little bits of family tradition. It's tougher to be a total rampaging individualist when you're opening Christmas presents in front of a crackling fire with the California relatives or giving the grandkids cookies from your apron pocket or even gathering the family together in front of the TV for a good old-fashioned bowl game. Go Hawkeyes!

Minority cable partner sold

Ownership of one-quarter of Grosse Pointe Cable and its technical management may change hands in the coming year. The current provider, Group W Cable, was sold last week to five other cable companies in a deal reportedly worth $2.1 billion.

According to newspaper accounts last week, Group W's parent corporation, Westinghouse Electric, agreed to the sale of the 140-franchise system to Tele-Communications Inc., American Television and Communications Corp., a Time, Inc. unit, Comcast Corp., cable television broker Daniels and Associates and Century South-west Communications Corp.

The five cable providers will reportedly pay $1.8 billion for the system and also assume $500 million in debts and tax liabilities of Group W, according to USA Today. A decision on whether the company will be divided by the five buyers is yet to be made, according to a spokesman for the group quoted in USA Today.

Comcast, currently the 18th largest cable provider in the country, holds a number of franchises in southeast Michigan, including one serving Grosse Pointe Shores, St. Clair Shores and Fraser.

Group W in August was put on the sales block by Westinghouse. At that time, the company asked its local franchisees what conditions would be acceptable for Group W's withdrawal or transfer of the agreement.

Group W also has franchises in Dearborn and Wayne in Michigan. The company was looking to centralize its cable holdings, which stretched across 30 states, company officials said.

Grosse Pointe Cable has said it won't accept amendment of its technical management agreement with Group W without a list of reasons why the change would benefit the local franchise, according to cable president John Rickel.

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial and the five cities in the franchise — Grosse Pointe Woods, Harper Woods, the Farms, City and Park — control 75 percent of the company. The company providing the programming and technical equipment for studio use owns 25 percent.

Were dissolution of Group W to occur, it will take as long as a year to sort out the properties of the second-largest cable provider in the nation. Local officials will maintain a wait-and-see stance, Rickel added.

"The Grosse Pointe Cable board will be alert and sensitive to the communications from the buying group," he said. "The company will analyze and review with community organizations whatever options appear to be beneficial to the community."

This isn't the first time Grosse Pointe Cable has changed managing partners. A similar situation occurred when Teleprompter was acquired by Group W.

Memorial services for Mrs. Carpenter, of the Farms, are scheduled for 10 a.m. today at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

She died Dec. 28 at St. John Hospital.

Born in Detroit, she was raised in Prescott, Ontario. She returned to Detroit to attend business college. An avid golfer, tennis player, skier, hunter and fisherman with her husband, she was also a member of many clubs. They include: the Lochmoor Country Club, Grosse Pointe Garden Club, Fine Arts Club, Theater Arts Club, Hunters Creek Club, Hidden Valley Otsego Ski Club and the South Seas Plantation Yacht Club in Florida.

Mrs. Carpenter is survived by her husband, Glenn; and a nephew, Paul Jamison.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Lung Association.

Cremation was at Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Arrangements were by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home.

Clifford Charles Greenburg

Memorial services for Mr. Greenburg, 81, of Cook Road, were held Saturday, Dec. 28, at the First English Lutheran Church.

He died Dec. 22 at Cottage Hospital.

Born in Detroit, he was owner of Central Slotter Industries, retiring in 1969. An avid traveler, he circumnavigated the globe in 1973. He was a member of the Senior Men's Club, the Cinema League and Chapter 2151 of the American Association of Retired Persons.

Mr. Greenburg is survived by his wife, Gladys; four nephews and their families.

Arrangements were by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home.

Jane M. Ochalek

Services for Mrs. Ochalek, 56, of McKinley Road, were held Monday, Dec. 30, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and St. Philomena Church.

She died Dec. 26 at Harper Grace Hospital.

Mrs. Ochalek was a science teacher in the area for 20 years and taught at the Bates Academy for Gifted Students. She obtained a degree in medical technology and a master's in science and education.

Mrs. Ochalek is survived by her husband, Thomas J.; a daughter, Michele; a son, Michael; one sister; and two brothers.

Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

A.D. Ruegsegger

A memorial service for Mr. Ruegsegger, 80, of the City, will be held at noon, Saturday, Jan. 4, at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

He died Dec. 12 at Bon Secours Hospital.

Born in Boyne City, he was a graduate of Alma College and the University of Michigan law school. Known as "Duke," he was a prominent Detroit area lawyer, practicing his profession for 55 years.

He was formerly president of the Michigan Railroad Lawyer's Association, the Detroit Bar Association and president of the State Bar of Michigan. In 1984 he received the first annual award for dedicated service from the Detroit Bar Association.

Mr. Ruegsegger was an active member of the Legal Aid and Defenders Association of Detroit and he was a director of the Children's Aid Society since 1955. He was a member of the Delta Theta Phi law fraternity, the Institute of Continuing Legal Education, the National Association of Railroad Trial Lawyers, American Judicature Society, National Council of Bar Presidents, Michigan Association of Defense Council, American College of Trial Lawyers and a fellow of the International Society of Barristers.

Mr. Ruegsegger was also a member of the Detroit Athletic Club, the Senior Men's Club and the National Lawyer's Club in Washington, D.C.

Survivors include his daughter, Julie R. Kotzian, and three granddaughters.

Mr. Ruegsegger donated his body to the Wayne State University School of Medicine.

Frederick Malette Wilson

Services for Mr. Wilson, 67, of the City, will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 2, at the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church.

He died Dec. 24 at Harper Grace Hospital.

Free tax seminar

Saratoga Health Care Corporation will offer a free seminar to focus on tax law changes and explain how these new laws affect taxable income, investments and estate. The course will be taught by Robert Mondor, CLU, of Balanced Financial Programming Wednesday, Jan. 8, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., at Saratoga Community Hospital, 15000 Gratiot Avenue in Detroit.

Pre-registration is required. Call 245-1241.

Born in Geneva, N.Y., he was a writer for an advertising firm.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his wife, Maxie Sutherland Wilson; a daughter, Kim Marlette; a son, Reed Sutherland; one brother; one grandchild; and his stepmother, Mrs. William C. Wilson.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Michigan Cancer Society.

Stuart A. Fraser III

Services for Mr. Fraser, 60, formerly of the Pointe, lately of Grand Rapids, were held Friday, Dec. 27, at the A.H. Peters Funeral Home.

He died Dec. 24.

Born in Detroit, he was a real estate agent and stockbroker. Mr. Fraser was a graduate of the University of Michigan and a member of Sigma Phi fraternity. He served with the United States Marine Corps during World War II and was a participant in the battle for Iwo Jima.

Mr. Fraser is survived by his former wife, Sue; two sons, Stuart IV and Peter; two daughters, Susan and Sara Fortuna; two brothers; one sister; an aunt, Mrs. Walter Meek; and six grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of the donor's choice.

Interment was at Elmwood Cemetery.

W.H. "Bill" Smith

Services for Mr. Smith, owner of a boat supply and marine hardware business, will be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 4, at Our Lady Queen of Peace Church.

Prayers for Mr. Smith will be held at 8 p.m. Friday evening at the Verheyden Funeral Home.

Mr. Smith is survived by his wife, Patricia. Due to insufficient information, a more extensive obituary will be published next week.

Guiding gifted child

"Parenting the Gifted Child" will be the focus of a meeting Thursday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pierce Middle School auditorium.

Dr. Beverly Parke of the Gifted Child Education Program at Wayne State University will discuss the gifted child and the role of parents in guiding their gifted children.

Supplemental learning offered

Youth Enrichment Services (YES), designed to supplement schooling for all ages from elementary and preschool to high school and beyond, will be available at Assumption Cultural Center, 21800 Marter Road.

YES combines microcomputers and teacher-advisers and identifies personal strengths and weaknesses to establish a learning program for the student. The Michigan-based program is under the direction of Dr. William Coats and Dr. Terrence Davidson, both formerly University of Michigan professors of education, and Frank DeSantis, formerly superintendent

Jane M. Fitzgerald

Services for Mrs. Fitzgerald, 83, of Wedgewood Road, were held Monday, Dec. 23, at the Verheyden Funeral Home and Our Lady Star of the Sea Church.

She died Dec. 20 at Bon Secours Hospital.

Born in Canada, she was a graduate of St. Mary's Academy, Windsor, Ontario and an active member of the Detroit Yacht Club. She was a life member of the Bayview Yacht Club and a member of the League of Catholic Women. Politically active, Mrs. Fitzgerald was a close friend of President and Mrs. Harry Truman.

She is survived by a son, William B.; one sister; and a grandson. She was the widow of George Fitzgerald.

Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Patricia Knolson Lane

Services for Mrs. Lane, 63, of the Farms, were held Saturday, Dec. 28, at the W.R. Hamilton Funeral Home and Christ Church.

She died Dec. 23 at Bon Secours Hospital.

Born in Detroit, she was a graduate of University Liggett School and a member of the alumni association. She was also a member of the Junior League of Detroit, the Vassar College Club and the Country Club of Detroit.

Youth classes scheduled at Grosse Pointe War Memorial

The War Memorial will offer several activities for youngsters in January, beginning with Friday, Jan. 3, when the Children's Theatre will hold registration for new members. Grade school children may register with instructor Sally Reynolds from 4 to 5:30 p.m., while middle school and high school students will sign up from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Former students will register on Saturday, Jan. 4, at their regular class time.

course will cost $22 including supplies.

Origami, the Japanese art of folding paper to form shapes of animals, flowers and objects, will be presented for children from 6 to 9, on Saturdays, Jan. 11 and 18, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Takako Imaida will show how to make an eff and picture frame, among other items. Parents are welcome to join in the fun, too! The class will cost 16 plus $2.50 for materials. Samples of origami are on display in the War Memorial showcase.

For additional information, call 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Bon Secours seeks hospice volunteers

The Bon Secours Hospice Home Care Program will begin a six-week series of classes for nurse and lay volunteers at 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., Mondays, Jan. 13 through Feb. 17. The classes will meet in the third floor conference room of the hospital, 468 Cadieux at Jefferson.

The program provides supportive services to patients with terminal illness, and to their families as they care for their loved ones at home.

The volunteers are trained for on-call nursing or layman responsibilities and are asked to make a one-year commitment. Volunteers provide emotional support and companionship to terminally ill individuals. Lay volunteers perform light household and yard chores, run errands or prepare simple meals for hospice patients. Nurses who attend the training will receive 14.4 continuing education units, honored by the Michigan Nurses Association.

For registration or more information, call the Bon Secours Hospice Home Care Department at 343-1441.

'Mousetrap' auditions this weekend

Auditions for Grosse Pointe Theatre's March production of Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap" will be Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 4 and 5, from 1 to 5 p.m. at the rehearsal hall at 315 Fisher, Grosse Pointe.

This melodrama is the longest-running theatrical production in history, and is still running in London after 33 years. The story is of a group of people closeted in a country manor with one of them a psychotic murderer.

Director is Michael Trudel and producer, Ruth Richards. The play will be presented at Fries Auditorium at the War Memorial March 12-16 and 19-22. The cast of nine men and women spans the range of all adult ages.

Cinema League

The Grosse Pointe Cinema League will meet at the War Memorial Monday, Jan. 6, at 8 p.m. The title of the program is "Our River Remembered," a 35mm slide presentation by George Fullerton.

The presentation is a picture-postcard review of some of the ships — pleasure, service and freight boats — that at one time or another was used or seen on the Detroit River. Included are a number of views as seen from the decks of the ships as well as places where they stopped. This program covers a period from the turn of the century until the present.

The public is invited. There is a charge of $1 for non-members.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Breaking the habit

If breaking the smoking habit is on your list of New Year's resolutions, attend one of two free introductory sessions of the Smokeless System on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 6 and 7, at Cottage Hospital.

The sessions are held from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the nurses' residence at the rear of the main parking lot. Cottage Hospital is located at 159 Kercheval Avenue, between Moross and Cadieux.

For more information, call 884-8600, ext. 2456.

Lake level

Lake St. Clair at the end of November was at elevation 576.03 feet or 52 inches above chart datum. This was about 16 inches above one year ago, and the November monthly mean of 575.92 feet was 34 inches above its long-term average for November. The Great Lakes forecast shows that Lake St. Clair is expected to be 49 inches above chart datum or at elevation 575.92 feet at the end of December.

Stability returned to schools in 1985 . . .

(Continued from Page 1A) worked together to get through the rough period and find interim solutions. Credit for keeping disruption to a minimum goes to Special Education Services Director Claire Hunt and the school involved, Whritner said.

"It was something everybody felt wasn't good for the kids, but we all tried to respond the best way we could," he said. "We worked out some interim solutions and now we're looking for more permanent ones."

Special education remains a program up for more discussion this year, according to the superintendent. Among changes last year were expansion of center programs, allowing local students to remain in local schools for help, instead of traveling to regional facilities.

Special education "has been the growth part of our industry for a period of time. We have to believe there's going to be some stabilizing," Whritner said. "We'll be taking a good hard look at that part of our program."

Also up for discussion this month is the millage. The board will decide what amount and for how long it would like the millage and look to an election some time in March.

"This is a community that has always given tremendous support to education," Whritner said, adding that results of a community survey to be discussed at the Jan. 6 board meeting show support for a renewal. That doesn't make it a certain thing. The system's dollars are being well spent and the community has to know that, he added.

Another question to be decided this year is the issue of enrollment. Early projections showed a significant drop, but last year's experience may change that, Whritner said.

Closely linked to enrollment at the middle and high schools will be the ability to maintain a consistent program of studies through the secondary schools, with allowance for flexibility for teachers to encourage new ideas in the classroom, he added.

There were a number of matters settled last year. The Environmental Protection Agency found the school system in compliance with asbestos reporting procedures. An arbitrator ruled a Parcels school school worker should have been appointed to a vacancy at South for which she applied. The system began looking to improve its vocational education program and implemented a college-bound curriculum for high school students.

There are still questions to be faced this year, Whritner said. To be answered is the future of the central administration building, energy conservation programs, substance abuse and suicide prevention work as well as enrollment projections.

When asked what he would like the most significant event of 1986 to be, Whritner said the thing he would most hope for would be that the district "has turned the corner in the perception of staff in the system so that everyone feels we are going in the same direction." Work begun last year in the staff evaluation and development goals can go a long way toward making that come true.

Black, who is a resident of Grosse Pointe, said there are 2,000 senior volunteers in RSVP in Wayne County giving service to 220 organizations. There are 44 volunteers from Grosse Pointe working in hospitals, senior centers, schools, churches, the American Red Cross, the Michigan Cancer Foundation, World Medical Relief, a museum and the Meals at Home program.

"I'm really sold on volunteers, seeing what seniors can do," she said.

A person who retires from social work may want to continue in that field as a volunteer or the person may want to do something totally different, such as carpentry or literacy training. RSVP, initiated in 1969, was developed to provide volunteer opportunities for older people. It's a national program under the same agency as the Peace Corps, VISTA and the Foster Grandparents program, Black said.

Fifty percent of funding is federal and the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging provides state funding to offset transportation costs of the volunteers. RSVP in Wayne County gets its funding through Catholic Social Services. The program has been in Detroit for 13 years. There are more than 7,500 RSVP volunteers in the state.

The only criterion for participation is that the prospective volunteer be 60 years old or older. For the Care-Sharing project, a person should have a willingness to meet new people and learn new things, have empathy for the needs of the elderly and have one free afternoon a week to spend with an older person.

For more information, call Black at 883-2100, ext. 359.

Auditions

The Stagemasters Theatre Company will hold auditions Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 7 and 8, at 6:30 p.m. at Jefferson Middle School on Rockwood in St. Clair Shores. The school is one block west of the 11 Mile-Little Mack intersection.

The auditions will be for the group's first play of the 1986 season, "You Can't Take It With You," to be presented in March.

The company is also looking for a staff for its summer production of "Hello, Dolly" or "South Pacific." Anyone who wants to direct, produce, choreograph or music direct either of the two shows may submit a resume with a cover letter to Stagemasters, Inc., P.O. Box 614, Roseville, Mich. 48066-0614. Resumes are due by Feb. 5.

Call 751-3477 for more information.

Olympia evokes old memories

They're tearing down the old Olympia Stadium.

It's good in a way, I guess. I've hated to drive by and see that magnificent red brick building standing there on the corner of Grand River and McGraw, empty and forlorn since the opening of Joe Louis Arena in 1979.

My father and lots of other folks who grew up watching the Detroit Red Wings play and Sonja Heine skate and some of the world's best boxers strut their stuff there, used to call it "the old red barn." It was, but it was a nice old red barn.

I saw my first hockey game there in 1962 at the tender age of 5. I didn't really know what was going on, but I fell in love with the game and went back as often as I could for the next 17 years, even if the Wings were not most people's idea of a good hockey team. I even saved my money to buy season tickets and went to 80 straight home games over two years back in the mid-1970s — probably a record considering how awful the Red Wings were then.

My parents once took my brothers and sister and me to an ice show there that remains memorable to all of us. We sat in the first row and during the course of the evening, my dad found a diamond-studded pendant watch, my little sister was chosen by the skaters to leave the stands and take a spin on the ice, I was fascinated by the viewpoint those great seats offered, and my brothers caught head colds that hung on for a month.

I spent so much time at Olympia Stadium that when I wasn't there, I walked around feeling a little lost. (I once caught myself writing my home address as 5920 Grand River.) I got to know the ushers and parking lot attendants by name, which door the famous hockey players sneaked out of to avoid crowds of fans and which concession stands consistently had the shortest lines.

My brother (my hockey buddy for most of those years) and I even have a couple of Olympia Stadium secrets we've kept all these years... until now. Nobody knows that Sean and I used to get up early on steamy summer Saturday mornings, cruise down to Olympia and just sit in the parking lot, staring at the building and talking hockey.

The other secret, well, someone will discover it when they start tearing the old place down. After one particularly woeful Wings' performance, my brother penned a hilariously-funny, but unprintable remark about one of the players on the white-painted bricks near the escalator in the back of the building. I'd like to have that brick, only I don't quite know what I'd do with a dingy white brick bearing words along the lines that "Redmond 'chews' pucks."

I wasn't the only Olympia fan taking a jog down memory lane at the news of the barn's imminent demise. The Park's Peter Bolos went searching for his scrapbook when he heard.

Bolos was a featherweight back in boxing's heyday in Detroit, the 1930s. They used to call him "king of the six-round fighters" back then and he has plenty of memories about what it was like to box in that era.

"I didn't really know how much I remembered until I read that Olympia was being torn down," Bolos, 72, says. "They used to mail out these leaflets referring to me as 'Bolos — A Tough Customer.'"

Pete Bolos boxed Jock Leslie at Olympia Stadium, then in New Orleans, La., as the sign he holds says.

Bolos traveled the country, boxing in places like New Orleans and Oklahoma City. Some of his fondest memories, though, are of his matches in the Olympia.

"I beat Jock Leslie — The Blond Bombshell — there and then I turned around and beat him again in New Orleans. I had a TKO over Ozzie Pegnese at Olympia, too," Bolos says. "Most of those guys are gone now."

"They had some great fights and some great fighters at the Olympia. And you

In honor of an 'old salt'

Pointe sailor, writer George Van will be 'roasted' Jan. 9

I'm very flattered...
— George
Van

By Peggy O'Connor
They're going to roast an old goat next Thursday night.

The "old goat" is veteran sailor and boating writer George E. Van and since he is an Old Goat, he really doesn't mind being called one. Nor is he against the idea of a roast in his honor.

The Farms' Van, 82, will be the center of attention at the dinner party Jan. 9 at the Bayview Yacht Club. It's being sponsored by the Society of Old Goats (sailors who have sailed a total of 25 or more Bayview-Mackinac Races) and by Van's shipmates. Sailors and their spouses from all the DYRA clubs are invited to participate. Reservations must be in by Jan. 7 and may be made by mailing a check for $20 payable to the BYC, 100 Clairpointe, Detroit, 48215.

"I'm very flattered," Van says. "It means my life is a success."

he adds with a chuckle.

"I'm 82 now — dammit — and I've found as I get older I don't have anything to say about it. I'm stubborn and persistent and I didn't die... so I'm being honored."

Van has been sailing as both a vocation and an avocation since 1927. He was a reporter for the old Detroit Times and after that, for the Detroit News. "When I worked for the Times, I had instructions to 'keep the water out' — not write about sailing. But I'd sneak one in every once and a while, especially when it came to the Mackinac Race," he recalls.

Especially then. The BYC's Port Huron-to-Mackinac event has been a favorite of Van's, even though he's also covered the Chicago-to-Mackinac race, sailed to Nassau more than 30 times and covered the Southern Ocean Racing Conference for decades. All told, Van has sailed a Mackinac Race 92 times — 40 Chicago races and 52 from Port Huron.

All on somebody else's boat.

"I've always like to sail. I got spanked as a kid for going down to the river and I've never fully recovered. And I've been sailing other people's boats all my life because I learned to steer. Somebody told me a long time ago to learn to steer because 'some rich' guy is always gonna need somebody to help him play with his boat." So I did and that opened up a whole new horizon."

That horizon included class or overall first place finishes in the Port Huron-to-Mackinac, including those in 1932 aboard Rupert Bell's "Melodie"; 1933 and 1934 on Bill Fisher's "Margaret I. IV"; 1935 on Russell A. Alger's "Baccarat"; 1936 on Dr. William Koch's "Mary K"; 1948 on "Blitzen"; 1959 on Roman Brotz

Sabre"; and 1963, 1964 and 1965 on Thomas K. Fisher and Charlie Kotovic's "Gypsy."

Van says his most memorable Mackinac was aboard Blitzen in 1945. "It was the stormiest, too. It was the toughest, hardest race ever all the way to the island. Some 44 boats started and only four finished. And I happened to be on the winning boat," he says.

Which happened quite a lot, probably because he always made sure he was aboard some boat racing to Mackinac in the third week of July, even if it meant turning down a plum assignment like covering the Tigers for the Times, which Van did one season. "They thought I was nuts," he laughs.

This year's rough Mackinac was the first Van missed in some time. He'd sailed the 1983 race with sons Barry and George Jr., (sailing is a Van family affair to which wife Marge and daughters Mickey and Tracy can also attest) and on Andrew Kimmel's "Revenge" in 1984, before deciding to "swallow the anchor" and watch the race from a spectator's point of view.

"Oh, I covered the Chicago-to-Mackinac race and backed up the Detroit News' Bill Halls on the Port Huron — I was on the island for two weeks — but it's time to slow down. I'm trying to be sensible and logical even though I've never been before," Van says.

Not that he's going to say goodbye to what he calls "one of the last stands of adventure" that easily. Van says he'll head down to Florida in a few weeks for a little sailing and to cover the SORC circuit again. And he'll always follow the Mackinac race with more than a little interest.

But first there's that little matter of an old goat to roast...

The ever-smiling George E. Van, in a photo taken in 1983 at the Bayview Yacht Club

Athletes honored

The cream of the Detroit sports scene will be honored at the March of Dimes Sports Awards Dinner, scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 14, at the Main Event Restaurant in Pontiac.

Tickets to the event cost $40. Proceeds help the March of Dimes fight birth defects. Further information may be obtained by calling Pam Schwarzkoff of the March of Dimes at 423-3238.

Those to be honored include James Jones, Detroit Lion of the Year; Isiah Thomas, Detroit Piston of the Year; Greg Stefan, Detroit Red Wing of the Year; Darrell Evans, Detroit Tiger of the Year; Chuck Daly, Coach of the Year; Ed Murray, Athlete-Citizen of the Year; college athletes Lorenzo White, Mike Hammerstein and Greg Wendt; Amy Frazier, Female Amateur Athlete.

Wax up those cross-country skis

Seven Huron-Clinton Metroparks will provide a combination of cross-country ski trails and ski equipment rental service for the 1985-86 winter season.

Specially marked and groomed trails are provided, with the rates the same at each Metropark for equipment rentals, which include skis, poles, boots and bindings. Rental rates are: complete set; half-day — $6.00; skis only: half-day — $2.50; boots only: half-day — $1.50. The half-day period is four hours. An insurance fee of $2 per set is required on all equipment, along with proper identification to be left at time of rental, and $1 of the insurance fee is returned when equipment is returned in satisfactory condition. The use of trails is free and operation of all facilities is weather permitting.

Cross-country ski maps and/or brochures are available at most of the Huron-Clinton Metroparks. Metropark vehicle entry permits are required (annual: regular — $10, senior citizen — $5 or daily — $2). OILERS-SEALS
The Oxford Oilers and the Seals skated to a 3-3 tie Dec. 21. The Seals got out in front with two first period goals by Behi Rabbani and Ben Debski. Bobby Rahaim scored in the second period for the Oilers before Debski added a goal to give the Seals a 3-1 advantage. But Oilers Billy Crandall and Chris Amsden scored in the third period to salvage a tie. Goaltenders Joey Berger (Oilers) and John Solobodowski (Seals) each made several good saves.

OILERS-CHIEFS
The Oilers ended the first half of the season with a 2-1 victory over the Sequoia Chiefs. Goalies Chris Coates (Chiefs) and Ryan Robson (Oilers) were outstanding in goal. Kevin Kasiborski and Peter Blake scored the Oilers' goals in the second period. Alex Bieri scored the Chiefs' goal in the third period. Geoff and Timmy Kimmel, Terry Brennan and Jon Romine performed well for their teams.

CANADIENS-CHIEFS

Benson's Canadiens closed out the first half of the season with a hard-fought, 2-1 win over the Sequoia Chiefs. The Canadiens' Leo Salvaaggio broke open the scoreless tie with his second period goal, from P.A. Brown and Kevin O'Malley. Terry Brennan tied the score on a pass from Chris Coates. But O'Malley got the game-winner on a backhand; Brown and Jeff Heubner assisting. Jon Romine and Kenny McIntyre came through with solid goaltending. B-liners Stephen Andris, Paul Heubner and Brent Kuhar and Sarke Solomon, Cliff Czerwinski and Gordy Todd played well for their teams.

MAJOR MAGICS-BRUIINS

The Magics skated to a 3-2 win and a first-half championship in the Mite Division. It was a hard-fought game, with goalies Chuck Schervish (Magics) and Jason Santo (Bruins) holding down the score. David Collins opened the scoring for the Magics from Faber and Mike Collins. Jonathan Bayko made it 2-0 from Aubrey Elich and Brian Everham and Kevin Baskel added his first goal of the year on an assist from Kevin Collins. The Bruins' Greg Ryan and Todd Dunlap scored third period goals; Phil Descamps (two) and Ryan drew assists. The Bruins' Chris Gibsón, Chris Dettmer, Matt Lariscy and Nick Miotke had double duty. Jonathan Solaka and Danny Magdowski played great defense.

Pee Wee Division

RAIDERS-BLACK HAWKS
The Raiders bounced back from their only defeat of the season to beat the St. Clair Shores Black Hawks, 4-1. Jack McSorley opened the scoring for the Raiders from Mike Kisskalt and Geoff Giacobbe. Kisskalt added two goals on assists from McSorley and Giacobbe, then Giacobbe scored on a deflection from a McSorley shot. The Black Hawks scored late in the third period when they put one past Raider goalie Greg Semack.

Champions...

ULS sports

Varsity cagers are optimistic

The University Liggett School varsity basketball team battled powerful Troy Zion to a virtual standstill before finally losing 50-40 on Dec. 17.

Troy Zion began the ballgame with an incredibly hot hand as Tim Middleton scored 12 points to lead his squad to a 20-13 first quarter lead. ULS went to a triangle and two defense to try to slow up the hot shooting Middleton.

The strategy worked as Troy only scored five points in the second quarter and four points in the third. Meanwhile, the Knights kept chipping away at the lead and were within one point, 29-28, going into the fourth quarter. But senior point guard Kirk Haggarty fouled out and Troy Zion gradually pulled away. Haggarty and Keith Calcagno had shut down the explosive Middleton.

Kevin Darby led the Knights with 17 points while Calcagno chipped in 10.

"Being 0-5 is not fun at all," Coach Chuck Wright said. "But we made a tremendous effort, by far our most courageous of the year. There is no doubt in my mind that many wins are coming our way if we keep our heads up and keep working hard."

The next game will be played against Zion Christian on Tuesday, Jan. 7, at ULS at 6 p.m.

ULMS JV plays well

After a slow first quarter, the University Liggett Middle School junior varsity basketball team bounced back on Dec. 17, in its initial outing against Jefferson Junior High. Coach Josh Schmidt's squad played the opposition evenly throughout the rest of the contest, finally succumbing, 36-26.

Schmidt said he was pleased by the aggressive man-to-man full court press, which enabled the Knights to steal the ball 21 times and led to many fast break opportunities. Defensive stars of the game were Jay Boyer, with 5 steals, and Jerry Africa, with 5 rebounds. Offensive players of the game were Mike Whelan with 6 points, Andrew Stewart with 3 points (on perfect shooting from the floor and foul line), and Jason Shannon with 11 points and 2 assists.

The JV next plays Thursday,

Jan. 9, against Inter City Baptist, at home at 4 p.m.

Spikers open year

The University Liggett Middle School girls' volleyball team opened its season on Tuesday, Dec. 17, against Detroit Country Day School, losing to a more experienced D.C.D.S. team 16-7, 16-8, 16-7. The outstanding server was Brooke Hohmeyer. Good court play came from Paige Pelok, Molly Shields and Sarah Stackpoole.

The junior varsity had first star nerves, losing 15-14, 15-12. Star serving came from Lynn Sinkel and Julie Muz. Kathy Olson and Sara Khelokian were outstanding on the court.

ULMS cagers make finals

Over the Thanksgiving holidays, the University Liggett Middle School varsity basketball team went all the way to the championship game in its own Thanksgiving Tournament. This is the best that the Middle School varsity team has ever done in the seven-year history of the tournament.

In the semifinals, ULS again won, defeating Our Lady Star of the Sea, 26-18. John Gordon was named offensive player of the game for his three field goals, 2-for-2 from the foul line and 9 rebounds. Barnes and Abiragi were named defensive players of the game. Abiragi had a total of 12 rebounds in that game, with 1 steal and 6 points. Barnes had 1 blocked shot, 4 rebounds and 4 points. The "Unsung Hero" was John Ellis, with 4 points, 8 rebounds and 1 steal.

In the championship game, ULS played an excellent St. Paul's team and lost to the Lakers, 48-27. Abiragi was named offensive player of this game with 11 points, 2 rebounds, 1 assist and 3 steals. Wade Brown was named defensive player of the game, with 5 rebounds and 4 steals. Tip Quilter was named the "Unsung Hero" with 2 rebounds, 2 points and a steal.

Others who contributed to ULMS's second place finish were James Dobrzecowski, 2 rebounds; James Combs, 2 rebounds and 2 steals; Bo Ollison, 4 steals, and Chris Lawrence, 2 points.

Coach John Bandos recognized his players for their fine efforts. (By Tip Quilter)

Sports Week

They probably filled the place on Feb. 20, 1938. That was the night 32 Detroit Golden Gloves champions — including Bolos — boxed. Bolos shakes his head when asked who his opponent was or about the outcome of the fight.

"I do remember that Jack Dempsey refereed the fight. All of the boxers got little tokens in the shape of boxing gloves with Dempsey's initials on them. That was some night, I'll tell you. And I'd forgotten all about those tokens until I was reminded of the Olympia," Bolos says.

Bolos has long since hung up the gloves. He's a runner now, averaging around nine minutes per mile just shy of his 73rd birthday. But he's still willing to devote his time to the Grosse Pointe community teaching the finer points of boxing and/or exercise. And maybe to talk a little bit about boxing in the Old Red Barn.

"It really was something, climbing into that ring right there in your own home town. That's what I'll remember about Olympia."

Grosse Pointe's Jolynn Schneider, a 6-2 sophomore power forward on the University of Iowa's women's basketball team, has made the most of her opportunity to start for the No. 15-ranked Hawkeyes. Schneider has averaged better than 7 points and 6 rebounds per game since replacing injured teammate Lisa Long. Schneider is a 1984 graduate of Regina High School.

Among the Adrian College athletes who received varsity letters for their participation in fall sports is South High graduate Brad Restum, of the Farms. Restum is an Adrian freshman who played on the soccer team, which finished with a 7-8-3 record overall.

We told you about Kris Campbell returning to the Grand Valley State Diving team for which she finished 24th in the NCAA Division II last season. We didn't tell you about her GVSC records: 211.60 (six dives) and 384.25 (11 dives) in one-meter; 232.25 (six) and 448.57 (11) in the three-meter event.

Former North High soccer standout Marc Tirikian has been named a first team, Division III All-American, according to Kalamazoo College. Tirikian scored 42 goals and had 9 assists for the 17-1-1 MIAA-champion Kalamazoo Hornets. Some 260 colleges play Division III soccer and the sophomore was chosen for the 11-man team from among those collegiate players. According to Kalamazoo College, the All-American honor is the highest achieved by a Hornet athlete. The previous top honor was Tirikian's selection to the All-Mideast team as a freshman last season.

University Liggett School graduate Marty Wittmer is a member of the 1985-86 varsity hockey team at Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill., at the NCAA Division III level. Wittmer, a junior winger, scored six goals in the first 12 games for the Foresters, including two goals in an 8-5 loss to Division I Kent State. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wittmer, of Hawthorne Road, and majors in education/American studies.

Michigan's Masterpieces in exhibit at Art Institute

"Michigan's Masterpieces: Art from Public Collections" which opened at the Detroit Institute of Arts Wednesday, Dec. 11, presents a rare opportunity to see more than 130 of Michigan's finest art treasures in a single exhibition. The free exhibition will remain through Sunday, Jan. 26.

Originated and organized by the Statewide Services program of the DIA, the exhibition was made possible by a grant from the General Motors Foundation, a gift from the Booth-American Company and funds from the state of Michigan. The Detroit showing is supported by Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts.

"Michigan's Masterpieces" offers a revealing survey of fine and decorative arts from 32 Michigan museums in locations from Albion to Ypsilanti. It includes important and rare examples of American and European painting, sculpture and decorative arts, ancient scul-ture, unique drawings, valuable prints and African and Native American art.

In conjunction with this event, the 96-page exhibition catalogue also is a guidebook for permanent interest as it highlights more than 60 public art museums, university collections and galleries, and art centers throughout the state.

Gov. James J. Blanchard has commended the exhibition and the catalogue/guidebook as recognition of "one of Michigan's cultural resources — its wonderful and widely varied public art collections, which contribute so greatly to the quality of life in our state."

Among the loans to the exhibition are: Winslow Homer's "Answering the Horn" and Edward Hopper's "New York Restaurant" from the Muskegon Museum of Art; a Meissen porcelain "St. John the Apostle and Evangelist" from the Grand Rapids Museum of Art; Paul Klee watercolors from Olivet College, Kenneth Noland's "Bell" and Salvador Dali's "Remorse" from the Kresge Art Museum, Michigan State University; Robert Rauschenberg's "Booster" from Albion College, an Edouard Vuillard painting from the Flint Institute of Arts, Japanese woodcuts from Horoshige and Kuniyoshi from Northern Michigan University, and Eastman Johnson's "Boyhood of Lincoln" from the University of Michigan.

"Michigan's Masterpieces" will be open to the public without charge during regular museum hours: 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday; closed Mondays and holidays. Each visitor will receive a free checklist of the exhibition and free public tours will be offered all open days at 1 p.m.

The Museum Shop will feature the catalogue/guidebook at $7 and the four-color poster designed for "Michigan's Masterpieces" at $4.

The exhibition was organized to travel throughout the state for approximately one year as part of the Art Institute's Centennial celebration activities. Following Detroit, it will be seen at the Kalamazoo Institute of Arts, the University of Michigan Museum of Art and the Muskegon Museum of Art. It made its debut in June, 1985, at the Grand Rapids Art Museum, then visited the Flint Institute of Arts, the Kresge Art Museum, East Lansing; and Lee Hall Gallery, Marquette.

The Statewide Services program of the Detroit Institute of Arts offered seven different exhibitions in 18 Michigan cities, including three Upper Peninsula sites, during 1985. Drawn from the collection of the DIA as well as other state museums and private collections, the exhibitions are usually designed for a one-year travel period. During 1984-85, these attracted more than 200,000 visitors at their various sites. The DIA makes the exhibitions available to institutions that meet appropriate security and conservation requirements. It also completely produces, installs and maintains the exhibition under the supervision of a staff headed by James A. Bridenstine.

This necklace of grizzly bear claws was produced sometime around 1830. A piece of authentic native American art, it will be featured in the exhibit.

"Girl with a Hoop," a paper collage done by Joseph Cornell, will be one of the many Michigan art treasures displayed as part of the "Michigan Masterpieces" exhibition at the Detroit Institute of Arts. The piece belongs to Oakland University and is on loan to the exhibit.

Club information wanted

In editing this section, I often find that I would like to contact a club or organization and find that I don't know who the contact person is or how to reach that person. Most of you publicity chairmen have been very good about including a contact number on your news releases, but if you haven't turned anything in this week, and I'd still like to get in touch with you — I'm often left wondering who to contact.

To help me stay in better touch with you — I'd like to put together a directory of club and organization contact people. This information will not be published — so don't worry about your address and phone number becoming public information. I'd just like to have the information so if I suddenly decide that this week I'd like to do a feature on your club, I'll be able to reach someone.

If you'd like to have your club listed in my directory, please fill out the form below and return it to: Elsa Frohman, Features Editor; The Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., 48236.
