The answer is . . .

Thanks to Brad Bartof, a second-year French student at North High, and the Grosse Pointe Central Public Library for providing us with information on how Grosse Pointe got its name. Last week, we published a letter from a sixth-grader in Colorado who wrote a fictional account of the origin of the name and asked for the real scoop. Here it is.

Brad, a freshman, said the name comes from the French meaning big or large peninsula. The library supplied us with an excerpt from "History of Grosse Pointe" by Fintan L. Henk. All of the territory from what is now known as Bewick Avenue in Detroit to the Macomb County line and a considerable distance northwest of Gratiot Avenue was part of Hamtramck Township. On April 1, 1848, this territory was set off as a separate township and named Grosse Pointe from the point of land projecting into the water in the lower part of Lake St. Clair.

Well, now we know why it got its name, but what's the how and who?

Hot air currents?

Woods Councilman Paul Beaupre told his fellow board members he had heard numerous complaints that temperatures in the council meeting hall were a source of big chills. He suggested putting in ceiling fans to circulate the air and keep an even temperature.

"How could you put anything so gross in here?" countered Councilwoman Jean B. Rice. "Gross?" smiled Beaupre. "I was thinking of about six of them."

Well, one man's ceiling fan is another woman's eyesore. — Peter

Bridging over turbid waters

We received some calls last Wednesday and so did the Farms offices about the funny-tasting water coming out of the faucets. Rich Solak, city clerk, said employees put some extra chlorine in the water because "there was some turbidity in it." (And if you're not sure what that means, it's not what it sounds like.) Anyway, he assures us that it's perfectly safe to drink. One of the city employees said it tasted just like the water up north.

And we think it's only fair that from now on, when the water up north tastes funny, the people there should reciprocate by saying it tastes just like the water in Grosse Pointe.

To each his own. I'll take mine in a bottle any day. One with a cork. — Pat

Canary Correctol

Lee Meyer, proprietor of This 'N' That For Pets on Mack, got an unusual call Friday.

Some former Grosse Pointers and customers of the pet shop, Dr. and Mrs. John Salmon, called from Alaska to ask what to do about their pet canary. The Salmons now live about 150 miles from Nome and couldn't find anyone who knew what to do about the bird or where to get supplies.

Turns out the canary was just constipated, Meyer said. A few minutes and a MasterCard number later, supplies were on their way to the bound-up budgie.

Here's hoping the bird will soon be singing a different tune. — Mike

Snow!

And did it ever Friday — almost a half-foot of it by the end of the day. For some people, it was fun and for others, well, it was work. On days like this, it helps to be a little person. The ones at the left are, back to front, Kathryn Hempstead, Katie Aiken and Elizabeth Hempstead. Operating the snow blower at the right is Bob Gialloretto of the City, trying to keep up with the accumulation.

Ad ban lifted, competition to increase

By Pat Paholsky

The real winners will be the wine-drinkers. That's the consensus of local retailers who sell beer and wine to go. And those same retailers will be looking to win the hearts — and dollars — of wine consumers by newspaper advertising, something that up to now had been denied by law.

The Michigan Supreme Court last Wednesday ordered that a 1985 Court of Appeals ruling allowing price and brand name advertising of beer and wine should stand. Such advertising has been banned since 1935.

Local retailers are generally favorable to what will be a new form of competition and some are outright jubilant.

"We are going to thank the Supreme Court, the Circuit Court and the Liquor Control Commission in our ad," said Neil Bell of the Village Food Market. "We are definitely for it. People in this area drink a lot of wine and they're very price-conscious."

The market's ads have carried TV slogans identified with certain wines, such as "will sell no wine before its time" and "the wine that celebrates food." Since price advertising was also prohibited, the ads circumvented that by listing the amount off the regular price.

Prices are regulated by the Liquor Control Commission which prohibits stores from selling below wholesale, as a leader item, for instance. A store must sell for at least a penny above its cost and prices are the same among the various wholesalers, Bell said.

The difference in prices occurs when a wholesaler offers a certain brand at a reduced price. The practice is called the post-off program. Bell said the wholesaler must post the reduced price with the state before it can be offered. "So if you buy right, you can sell right," he said.

While food markets and party stores are the most directly affected, some restaurants will find it easier to introduce a new product.

George Dallas, manager of the National Coney Island, has been running newspaper ads touting "Colorado's famous Rocky Mountain beer." Now he'll be able to advertise that he has Coor's.

"If it's Stroh's or Bud, it's no big thing, but something like Coor's that has just been out a few weeks in the area will no doubt help us a lot," he said.

A note of caution was sounded by Ron Vitale of Yorkshire Market. "It's good for the business that can afford to advertise. I'm in agreement with the groups that say it will rub out the little guy, the mom and pop operation, that can't afford to discount it, to display it and promote it. We are in a position where we can do it."

The Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers Association and the Associated Food Dealers opposed the lifting of the ban because they fear it will put the small retailer that can't afford to advertise at a disadvantage.

Don LaForest of Farms Market said he didn't think there were that many mom and pop stores with liquor licenses still operating.

"I think it's going to provide a little more competition and you'll see some of the better wines advertised," he said.

Mike Mulier of Mulier's Market agreed that "it will open up a new advertising competition in the Grosse Pointe area."

John Keller of Hamlin's Market believes it will stimulate business.

"Generally speaking, I would say it's obvious that it will be advantageous to the consumer. It should result in some lower prices."

Richard Esse of the Village Wine Shop agrees that the public will gain, but he also believes the distributors will come out ahead.

"We'll have to advertise now on some items," he said. "We have got to keep up with the competition and we know people do shop around."

Kent Cassadonte of Vintage Pointe is optimistic that the ruling will be good for everyone.

"I think it's going to help the whole wine industry and make things more competitive," he said. "It will make things better for everyone and we can run specials like they do in New York."

"I've been waiting for this for awhile," he added.

School board rejects eligibility standards

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The idea that Grosse Pointe's public school students should have to maintain minimum academic standards to stay active in extracurricular activities died quietly at the Feb. 3 Board of Education meeting.

In an uncharacteristically frank discussion, six of seven trustees said they thought the detriments of requiring students to maintain a minimum grade point average or pass all of their classes each semester before they could take part in after-school activities outweighed any benefits.

Trustee Carl Anderson, who raised the issue shortly after being elected to the school board in June, polled fellow trustees during the discussion portion of the Monday night agenda. His colleagues responded — in varying degrees of firmness — thanks, but no thanks. "At the high school level, I would like to see all students involved in at least one extracurricular activity," trustee Joan Hanpeter said. "I would be reluctant to cut off students who didn't make the grade requirements."

Students often find their social groups through participation in programs like band, theater and athletics, she added. Those who are having academic problems need the extra support from those social groups. Some students can also be considered "late-bloomers" who may find themselves through participation in after-school activities, Hanpeter said.

Trustee Dorothy Kennel added her support to Hanpeter, adding that students would quickly find a way around any requirement.

Instead of taking academically tough classes, some students may opt for "snap" classes so they re-

Airline travel fraud uncovered

By Peter A. Salinas

People throughout the metropolitan Detroit area were the recipients of some low-cost sunshine over the past three months.

They bought about $20,000 to $30,000 in airline tickets to such places as Honolulu, Maui, Dallas and Tampa for up to one-third of the normal cost — but their gain was someone's loss.

According to Grosse Pointe Woods Detective Robert Kwiatkowski, the buyers bought the tickets from a 23-year-old former Woods man, who, through a complicated scam, defrauded local travel agencies out of the tickets by using credit card numbers he had taken from carbons of credit card receipts.

John Robert Marantic, originally of the Woods and a 1981 Grosse Pointe North High School graduate, is currently in Macomb County Jail in lieu of two $50,000 bonds on one charge of false pretenses over $100, and one charge of attempted false pretenses over $100.

Kwiatkowski and Detective Carl Schuster had been following this case since early December 1985, when the original complaint of possible fraud was called in by a Pointe travel agent.

The scam allegedly used by Marantic, who has convictions in the Woods in fraud cases from the early 1980s, was complicated and it took police several weeks before they were able to fit the pieces together.

He allegedly took credit card carbons from the trash of businesses, usually Visa and MasterCard slips, "but he worked with American Express too," Kwiatkowski said.

He then allegedly took out ads in the Detroit News offering low-cost airline tickets. When deal-seekers called the number in the ad they reached an answering service.

Kwiatkowski then alleges Marantic called the would-be travelers offering them such deals as round-trip tickets to Maui for as little as $200.

"You could get the tickets at even lower fees," Kwiatkowski said, "if you asked for lower prices or if you bought in quantity."

Then Marantic is alleged to have called the travel agencies requesting tickets and charging them to the credit card numbers he had found on the carbons.

Kwiatkowski said that when making a purchase over the phone, the travel agencies call the card companies to insure there is enough available credit to cover the charge, but often, no check is made to verify the card owner's identity. This is a common practice throughout the credit card industry, Kwiatkowski said.

Marantic then used the name of the person who had contacted him as the purchaser of the ticket.

"When they asked how he could provide the tickets so cheap, he told them he was a middle man for people selling frequent flyer bonus tickets or airline personnel selling tickets they did not want to use."

Kwiatkowski said. "It sounded good so the people bought them."

He then told the travel agencies that he would send someone to pick up the tickets, and he would go to the agency himself and pick them up. He then allegedly met with the buyer and sold him the tickets.

Kwiatkowski said Marantic had customers all over the area.

"In several cases the buyers bought multiple tickets," Kwiatkowski said. "Some people were in business and giving the tickets to employees and customers. We confiscated about 11 tickets, and those people will likely be out their money, but those who used the tickets and have returned home, just got a really good deal on airfare."

The owner of a Woods travel agency became suspicious and checked with Visa to see if a card-

Wayne H. Jens

Wayne H. Jens of Grosse Pointe Park, an internationally recognized expert on nuclear energy, has retired from his post as vice president for nuclear operations at Detroit Edison, a position he held since 1980. Jens joined Edison in 1964 and has been associated with the nuclear industry since 1949.

After joining Edison, Jens continued to serve in a variety of technical and managerial positions at Atomic Power Development Associates, the research and development company that designed the fast breeder reactor which powered the Enrico Fermi 1 power plant. He was named project manager for the Fermi 2 plant in 1971 and held a number of management posts in Detroit Edison's engineering and construction department.

He is a native of Manitowoc, Wis., and holds degrees in mechanical engineering from the University of Wisconsin and Purdue University. Between degrees he worked as a structural engineer for North American Aviation and was a deck officer for the U.S. Navy in the Pacific.

Jens became active in the nuclear industry after receiving his Ph.D. in 1949, when he became head of the engineering analysis group at Argonne National Laboratory. At Argonne he worked on a number of nuclear reactors, including the submarine Nautilus.

He is a fellow of the American Nuclear Society and a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, the Atomic Industrial Forum and the Engineering Society of Detroit.

Woods' Rice takes MML post

Jean Rice

Woods councilwoman Jean Rice was elected secretary of Region III of the Michigan Municipal League at the 33rd annual meeting held Jan. 22 in Dearborn Heights.

More than 70 mayors, village presidents and other elected and appointed municipal officials attended the meeting. Region III includes cities and villages of Wayne County. Outgoing regional chairman, Dearborn Heights Mayor Lyle VanHouten, coordinated the meeting.

Inkster Mayor Betty Miller was elected region chairman. Wayne Councilman Robert Beeny was elected vice chairman.

Since 1953, the Michigan Municipal League has held the regional meetings in 10 areas of the state. The meetings are a forum to bring more than 485 member cities and villages into closer contact with each other.

The Michigan Municipal League, founded in 1899, is the statewide association of cities and villages serving to unite members in collectively striving for home rule and promoting higher standards of local government.

School board adopts AIDS guidelines

The Board of Education Monday night ended more than two months of work by adopting district policy to cover students and staff who have Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome.

The AIDS policy was presented to trustees last month for their review and recommendations. The matter was also discussed in December.

For a student infected with the disease, the school system will provide homebound instruction until an advisory commission makes its recommendations to the board on the best educational setting for the child.

The committee will include the child's parents and doctor, a teacher, and possibly a physician chosen by the district, public health personnel or any other school system personnel.

If a staff member is found to have the disease, he or she will be given a temporary special leave of absence at full pay until a committee comprised of the employee's doctor and designee and other school personnel makes its recommendations to the board.

In both cases, the board will make the final decision.

Students with the disease are to have their privacy respected, with the number of people who know of the condition kept to a minimum, according to the policy. When a known case exists in the district, the system will inform parents, children and staff about the disease and its transmission.

The information campaign will assure the best care of the individual while minimizing risk of transmission, according to the policy.

All cases of the disease, particularly when a student or staff member remains in normal educational setting, should be monitored and reviewed regularly by an advisory committee, according to the policy.

State and county education officials have asked local districts to enact policies to cover AIDS victims. Some districts have used existing policies concerning transmission of infectious diseases to handle cases.

According to the state Department of Education, there are no students in Michigan schools with the disease.

The disease attacks the victim's immune system making him or her more susceptible to other illnesses. The disease is often associated with homosexuality, but in other countries, it is transmitted by heterosexual contact.

The virus believed to cause the disease is found in blood and certain other body fluids. There are no reported cases of a person catching the disease through casual contact with a carrier — shaking hands or drinking from the same glass. Some of those who have contacted the disease are recipients of blood transfusions or intravenous drug users.

Club has fire

A fire at the Little Club about 9 p.m. Feb. 7 did a lot of smoke damage but didn't disrupt the club's weekend festivities.

"I didn't want to spoil anyone's party," said Farms Detective Earl Field, who was called in to check the club's food and liquor supply for spoilage after the fire. There were several wedding and anniversary parties held on Saturday and Sunday, Field said.

The fire started in an employees' dressing room on the second floor at the Berkshire Place club. It burned the wall and a pile of shoes and clothing in a corner before a club employee smelled smoke and went to investigate.

"It was probably careless smoking," said Farms Fire Chief Sam Candela. "Somebody tossed a match or a cigarette — who can say?"

"We needed masks to get in there. The first floor, however, remained almost smoke-free. Partygoers left reluctantly.

The fire was confined to the employees' room, burning the carpet and clothes. There was no fire alarm system in the building and the two battery-operated smoke detectors failed to work.

When there is a fire in a club or restaurant, the state liquor control commission must investigate the food and drink supply to be sure it has not been contaminated by dirty water or spoiled by the heat. Since the Little Club fire occurred on a weekend, Farms police filled that function.

"The bottles were covered with soot," Field said, "but the contents weren't spoiled." He said liquor changes color when subjected to intense heat, so it is possible to gauge its quality without opening the bottle.

Field allowed the weekend commitments to continue, although the carpet was soggy and some windows were covered with plywood. The club was required to contact the liquor control commission Monday for a complete inspection.

Park injunction delayed

By Pat Paholsky

The Park firefighters' quest to obtain an injunction against the city last Tuesday was delayed another week. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brennan decided to consider the matter further before issuing an opinion, according to James Walsh, assistant city attorney.

Walsh said it is not certain whether the judge will issue a written opinion or read it from the bench next week. A date for the principals to return to the court was not set, he said.

The firefighters requested the injunction that would keep the police and fire departments separate until an unfair labor charge filed by them against the city is settled. The charge was filed when the city council voted to consolidate the departments while the firemen's union and the city were in contract negotiations.

Walsh said the request for an injunction raised some tough questions. "Both sides say the law is clearly in their favor, but we have a question that's never been decided in Michigan before," he said. "We pretty much canvassed the country but couldn't find anything exactly like this case."

Firefighter Joseph Bialk, union president, said the judge will base his decision on who the injunction will harm more — the city or the firefighters.

In the meantime, the cross-training of police officers in basic firefighting continues. Firemen are not being asked to help in the training until the judge rules on the injunction, Bialk said.

Fire Chief Phillip Costa said the first group of four men completed two weeks of training and received certificates Monday. Training the second group started Monday.

Costa said he is impressed with the results so far. "If they would continue training in the future, they'll be as good as any (firefighter) in the area," he said.

Airman killed, victim of hold-up

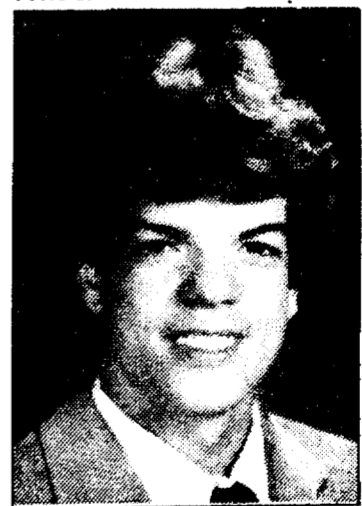

By Peter A. Salinas

He was an intelligent young man, mechanically inclined, and he loved to ride motocross bikes and go to the beach.

Airman Joseph T. Starrette, 21, a former Park resident, is dead now — the victim of a robbery attempt he tried to thwart.

Starrette was learning to be a jet mechanic with the U.S. Air Force in Dover, Del. He was in his third year of a six-year enlistment.

He is the son of Betty Starrette of the Park and Ray Star-

Joseph T. Starrette

rette of West Bloomfield. He is also survived by a brother, Daniel; and his grandparents, Allen G. and Lula Starrette of Statesville, N.C.

The young man had taken a part-time night job in nearby Camden, Del. and had worked there about three weeks when an unarmed bandit burst in and demanded money, according to Lt. Fred Helmer, a public affairs officer at Dover Air Force Base.

Helmer said Starrette apparently grabbed a baseball bat from under the store counter and threatened the bandit.

The store is adjacent to another store and the two are separated by a large pane of glass, according to news accounts of the incident. Reportedly, another robber was holding up the adjacent store at the same time. He was armed, noticed the commotion and fired a pistol through the glass striking Starrette once in the chest.

The airman died a short time later at a nearby hospital.

Helmer said reports were sketchy as to whether the two men were working together, but noted witnesses said the pair fled together. He said Camden is a quiet town with numerous historical homes and not noted for crime.

Two of Starrette's Air Force friends said he was very well-liked on the base.

"He used to love to race motocross bikes," Airman Brian K. Pouliouf, 19, of Easton, Md., said.

"You know, there's a lot you can say about Joey," he said. "Everybody liked him. He didn't have an enemy on the base. He always liked to kid around and was always in a good mood. He loved riding motorcycles and would go riding whenever he got the chance. He loved to go to the beach."

Starrette graduated from South High School in June 1982.

"I had Joe as a student," South counselor Jerry Morrison said. "He was a good student with good abilities. He took vocational automotive classes and he had good grades in the industrial arts. His teachers said he was very industrious and had a positive attitude."

"It was a shock to me when I heard. It certainly is a loss, and I feel very badly about it."

Funeral services were held last week in Statesville, N.C. Interment was also in Statesville.

Memorial contributions may be made to Air Force Aid Society, c/o CSG Personal Affairs, Wurtsmith Air Force Base, Mich. 48753.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, Feb. 15, at 10 a.m. at St. Clare of Montefalco Church.

Celebrities to speak at War Memorial

"The Pluses and Minuses of Being in the Public Eye II" will be presented at the War Memorial Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 8 p.m.

For the second consecutive year the Council of Sponsors will assemble a panel of Grosse Pointers who have earned the distinction of "celebrity" through their careers or civic contributions.

The panelists, who live with their eye on the public and the public's eye on them, will include Keith Crain, William Cahalan, Nettie Duffield, Draper Hill, David Lawrence Jr., Barbara Nichols, Tom and Diane Schoenith, and Pete Waldmeir. Hal Youngblood will once again act as moderator for the evening's lighthearted discourse. Guests will recount the ups and downs of notability.

Tickets for the evening, co-chaired by Margot Kessler and Aphie Roumell, are $5 per person. Questions from the audience will be welcome following the program.

For additional information, call 881-7511.

William Cahalan, Michigan racing commissioner, formerly held the longest term in Wayne County history as prosecuting attorney, earning the prosecutor's office national recognition as one of the most professional and efficient offices in the country.

Keith Crain, vice chairman of Crain Communications, Inc., is an internationally recognized publishing executive and a leader in corporate communications, such as Crain's Detroit Business, Automotive News and Autoweek.

Nettie Duffield, food staff writer for the Detroit Free Press, says she is the chief cook and bottle washer of the Free Press test kitchen and "loves chocolate anything!"

Draper Hill, editorial cartoonist for The Detroit News since 1976, is an artist, lecturer, exhibitor and author, including his current book, "Political Asylum," a survey of the last 20 years of his work.

David Lawrence Jr. is publisher and chairman of the Detroit Free Press. He is active in various civic organizations and has received numerous awards.

Jobs, training

The Private Industry Corporation of Wayne County has job openings and training slots for 1,000 youths and adults residing in the Grosse Pointes and other communities in its service area.

Interested persons in the PIC service area (all of Wayne County except for Detroit and the downriver communities) can apply by calling the general hotline number 261-3456 or 865-4044 at United Community Services. Residents of the Grosse Pointes also may apply directly at the PIC/UCS District Office at 13130 Woodward Avenue.

In addition to immediate full-time park system jobs paying up to $4.13 per hour and upcoming summer community service projects, training will be provided for high-demand jobs such as building services, medical/dental services and horticulture. The placement rate resulting from such training has been running at nearly 75 percent.

Besides living in the PIC's service area, applicants must meet low-income guidelines, be willing to work out-of-doors in winter weather, and be able to work shifts and weekends.

Cancer support group

The St. John Hospital Patient Education Center, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society, will present a "Focus on Living" meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 18.

Focus on Living is a self-help group for cancer victims, families and friends. The meeting allows participants a chance to discuss concerns and gain support from people who share the same experience.

Guest speaker will be Father Lawrence DuCharme, director of Pastoral Care at the hospital. He will hold an informal session dealing with issues of concern to cancer patients.

Focus on Living meetings are held once a month in the conference room on the lower level. All meetings are open to the public at no charge. They begin at 7 p.m. and end at 9 p.m.

For more information, call 343-3870.

Free job training

Applications are now being taken for free job training and placement in the occupational area of in-home child care for workers, 55 and older, who live in Grosse Pointe.

The training will be offered at Wayne State University's Merrill-Palmer Institute. Persons placed can expect to receive a minimum of $5 an hour and more.

Other occupational opportunities are also available in food services, marketing and retail sales, video technology, building maintenance, janitorial and more.

For more information, call 883-4393.

In the democratic tradition

Back in the days of the New England town meeting, the problems and issues were seldom complex and therefore could be decided by the people at the annual meeting. To this day townships often make decisions about their roads and other strictly local matters at their annual meetings with township residents taking part in the decision-making process.

But elsewhere in our democracy, we elect our representatives to serve us and our interests. We delegate to them the power to make decisions on our behalf. If we don't approve of their decisions, we can vote our representatives out of office or, under the Michigan Constitution, we can seek to reverse their decision — or to initiate a new action — when we are displeased with what they have done or haven't done.

What is happening now in Grosse Pointe Park is an effort by the city firefighters and their union to reverse a decision by the Park Council to unite the police and fire departments into a single public safety department. The firefighters now appear to have obtained sufficient signatures to put the issue to a vote this spring.

Under the Michigan Constitution, they have a right to seek to reverse the council action. But their argument for a referendum on the public safety issue leaves something to be desired. For example, firefighter Michael Smith was quoted last week as having said, "We feel eight or nine people shouldn't make a decision on this for the whole city."

The fact is, of course, that the "eight or nine people" he cites are the members of the city council and they are elected to make decisions for the entire community. That is the role of the elected representatives in a democracy. And the Park council members were simply doing their job in making a decision that they felt was for community betterment.

True, as we've said, the firefighters have a right to object to a decision which they feel affects their future jobs, and so they have sought signatures to petitions to put the issue on the ballot. But the council acted in accord with the democratic tradition in making the decision in the first place. The citizens of the Park, along with other Grosse Pointe citizens, permit their council members to make decisions on their behalf on many other issues of importance to the entire community.

Somehow the firefighters also seem to think it is permissible for them to spend their union funds to seek the election but that it is wrong for the council to spend up to $10,000 to distribute factual information on the topic to residents. Why should it be wrong for the council members to defend their actions in view of the criticisms being circulated by the firefighters against what the council did in establishing a public safety department?

We're not considering whether there is any merit in the unfair labor charge filed against the city on the grounds it should have bargained with the firefighters on the issue before establishing the public safety department. That is a legal question that is in the courts and, in fact, may be determined one way or another by the time this comment is in print.

What we are saying is that the council acted in accordance with democratic traditions in studying the public safety issue at length and then making a decision that it unanimously felt would be in the best interest of all the residents. The council had a right to make a determination for the city as a whole regardless of the self-serving arguments of the firefighters.

And it surely had the right as well as the responsibility to distribute information that it had collected during its study and the study by the citizens commission that recommended the merger. That is information that otherwise might not be available to the public which now is being asked to vote on the issue.

from our readers

To the Editor:

As one of the two minority members of the Grosse Pointe Park Citizens Commission on Public Safety, I want to comment on the city council's mad dash to merge the police and fire departments. The council's unanimous embrace of the public safety concept was made in ignorance, and now their decision to spend $10,000 of the taxpayers' money in a propaganda campaign can best be described as an affront to all Park residents.

The $10,000 expenditure comes after the council had mailed, at first-class postage rates, a three-page letter to all Park residents singing the praises of public safety. It appears the council has wasted little time spending money it supposedly will save from the proposed consolidation. The success of the Park's firefighters in obtaining enough signatures for a ballot referendum has obviously panicked city officials.

Sadly, the council and city administration have ignored the substantive issues raised in the commission minority report.

Like most U.S. cities, the Park has adopted as its fire code the Life Safety Codes published by the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA). The NFPA, an independent, non-profit organization that is not dominated by professional firefighters, has opposed public safety saying that fire readiness, code enforcement, training and related activities take a back seat to law enforcement operations. The NFPA said the Park would get better fire protection from an all-volunteer fire force than from public safety.

If the council does not believe the NFPA, why does it continue to subscribe to its fire codes and fire training recommendations? Is it to deceive the public into thinking that it will continue receiving first-class fire protection?

The city has naively and incorrectly assumed that firefighting is basically a low or unskilled occupation that could be easily absorbed between law enforcement assignments. Safety commission members could never overcome their bias that firefighters are slackers because so much "down time" occurs between fires. As the NFPA said, fire department idleness is a direct reflection of poor management and fire department leadership.

The operational plan accepted last month by the council assumes that pay raises will continue, as in the past, at a 3 percent or less annual rate. They have ignored the fact that most cities switching to public safety were forced to raise pay rates 10 percent to 15 percent across the board for all police and firefighters. This raise is in addition to the considerable costs for cross-training police and fire department personnel.

The council is understandably worried about crime and that a public safety department is a quick fix in getting a stronger police presence on the street without raising taxes. There is no public outcry for greater fire protection — until the next major fire. And then it could be too late.

Tax cut deadlock ending?

The compromise proposal by Rep. William Bryant Jr. to restore the 4.6 percent income tax rate on March 31 — or even retroactively to Jan. 1 if revenues permit — took on new life last week when it was unanimously approved by the House Taxation Committee. It now looks as if the long deadlock over the tax cut issue finally is being broken.

With House passage presumably assured, the next major stumbling block for the legislation would be the state Senate where the Republican majority has been holding out for a Feb. 14 tax cut date. But Bryant predicted last week that the Senate finally would go along with the compromise which already has won the endorsement of Gov. James Blanchard, as well as leading House Democrats and Republicans.

The compromise appears to do something for each side in the long dispute. Republicans long have been contending that the state surplus for the year ending last Sept. 30 was sufficient to permit a Jan. 1 rollback to the 4.6 percent rate. The Democrats have been claiming that such an early rollback was not fiscally feasible. Now both sides appear ready to let the actual surplus figures do the talking.

Under Bryant's compromise, the 4.6 percent rate would be retroactive to Jan. 1 if it turns out the state has a budget surplus of $150 million or more next Sept. 30. But the rate would be raised above that 4.6 percent level if the surplus is less than $150 million, the exact rate depending on the amount of the surplus. The rate would remain at the current 5.1 percent level for no more than three months of 1986 even if the surplus did not exceed $50 million.

Final agreement on the tax rate would also enable the state to go ahead with planning its tax amnesty, which has been delayed because of the squabbling over the date of the rollback. The pending legislation sets an end to the amnesty by June 30, and Bryant says the current thinking is it will probably start in mid-May and run for about 45 days. The amnesty would cover all state taxes due on or before Sept. 30, 1985.

The tax amnesty idea, which also was proposed by Rep. Bryant, could raise as much as $50 million from state tax delinquents during the 45 day grace period. Several other states have had success in sponsoring similar amnesty periods, with New York state expecting to collect as much as $200 million from its recently closed grace period for the payment of delinquent taxes without penalty.

All in all, it does appear that the long controversy over the tax cut is about to be settled. That doesn't mean it will end as an issue in the Legislature. Some Republican leaders are still insisting that it will be a major part of the GOP attack on the governor in his re-election race this fall, but many observers, including some Republicans, think the issue was defused when the rates started going down and not up.

Most taxpayers no doubt will agree that the rate is now going in the right direction, but it would seem to be difficult to mount a campaign against Blanchard and the Democrats on the grounds they were responsible for increasing it in the first place. Ancient history seldom plays an important role in politics.

Michigan not in the Union?

Sometimes the Republican and Democratic politicians in Michigan, in their eagerness to get their 1986 campaigns under way, make it appear that this state is not even a part of the United States.

The Republicans charge that the state has been grossly mismanaged by Gov. James Blanchard and his Democratic cohorts in the Legislature. If they occasionally have to admit that things are better in Michigan than they were during the deepest part of the recession, these Republicans insist the improvement has come about only because of policies pursued by the national Republican administration of President Ronald Reagan. And they seem to say that only if the GOP takes control of Michigan in 1986 will this state again be part of the union.

On their side, the Democrats claim that under Gov. Blanchard's administration Michigan has been the comeback state and they tend to downgrade the national administration's contributions to economic recovery. Instead, the governor has contended that the national administration ought to adopt some of Michigan's policies, and especially the programs that enabled the state to balance its budget, since the White House hasn't come close to balancing the federal budget in the five years of the Reagan administration. So Michigan here, too, is described as singular, not really a part of the rest of the country.

With this kind of propaganda already filling the newspapers and the airwaves, it appears it will be a long election year in Michigan. But it will get worse before it gets better because candidates are only now beginning to get into the different races.

One of the more interesting already shaping up is the contest for the Republican nomination for governor, with self-made millionaire Richard Chrysler last week becoming the first official candidate and announcing his intention to seek more jobs, lower taxes and "government built on quality, not quantity." He is to be followed this week by Wayne County Executive William Lucas, next week by Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy, and perhaps others later.

The second of the more interesting contests will be for Wayne County executive, now that Lucas will be seeking the governorship. First man into this race was Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, but last week Sheriff Robert Ficano announced his candidacy, saying, "I think I can do better." Ficano's press announcement of his candidacy was a marvel of brevity if not of grammatical construction: "Sheriff Robert A. Ficano announces his candidacy for county executive. Surrounded by his family and staff, Ficano, 33, cited his county-wide administrative experience, cooperative management reputation and fiscal integrity as answers to why he is seeking the office of county executive."

And we thought he just wanted the job. John Hertel, chairman of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, also has been considering this contest. With a $50,000 campaign contribution from a businessman who is a close friend, Hertel last week was given a fine start on his fundraising activities, whether he gets into the race for county executive or decides to seek re-election to the county board from the district that includes the Grosse Pointes.

Let's hope the Republican and Democratic campaigns finally can agree that Michigan is still in the Union, that part of its economic resurgence has been caused by the national recovery and part by the brief but timely increase in state tax revenues and other efforts by the Blanchard administration. But don't expect this agreement to be reached until after the November election.

Clouding the issue, confusing the people

Re: Public Safety in the Park
In a recent editorial published by the Grosse Pointe News and in a letter sent to all Grosse Pointe Park residents from the office of the mayor and signed by council, we again have the hard sell to convince GPP citizens that public safety is the way to go. Few attempts have been made at presenting the "other" side of the issue and way too much credence has been given to Citizens Advisory Commission's Majority Report. (There was also a Minority Report.)

The vast majority of this commission was appointed by the mayor, as was its chairman. Under the pretense of procedures, the chairman frequently cut short opposing viewpoints and in general treated people discourteously at several of the meetings I attended.

I brought the mayor of Roseville to one meeting to make a brief statement on my behalf. The chairman refused to let her speak. Later, other members requested that she be heard. The chair relented, but only after warning her to be brief and non-political.

The mayor of Roseville described their costly experiment in PSO and warned the council of its pitfalls. She spoke sincerely, and from experience, and in a non-condemning tone, but was discredited and spoken down to by the chairman after she finished her remarks.

As it turned out, this was only one instance of what I found to be a pattern at other commission meetings. Mayor Heenan and his appointees claim the firemen have spoken out of turn and twisted the issues. I propose that he and his handpicked colleagues have been doing this for two years in the newspapers, in speeches and in small groups. If anyone has clouded the issue of consolidation and confused the people, the citizens need look no further than Palmer Heenan. Discussion and debate will survive despite his thinly-guised efforts to the contrary. Hopefully, citizens will learn both sides of the PSO issue, including an in-depth cost analysis.

Drab boat covers — blah!

To the Editor:

I wish to express my disappointment with the members of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club for giving in to a few people who took offense at the colorful winter covers seen there last year.

It has been my experience that most sailors and yachtsmen are fun-loving people — drab does not reflect this personality trait. However, if drab is dignified, the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club has succeeded admirably.

Last year, the colorful touch of whimsy produced by covers on the boats caused one to grin and think "Can spring be far behind?" This year, the drab gray ice and snow blend in with the gray sea-wall, which blends in with the gray sky. The dots of color on a few boats tucked in between large gray tarps do little to relieve the monotony. The dull, monochromatic vista causes one to wonder "Will winter never end?" Blah!

Brightly colored sails and sail covers are perfectly acceptable during the summer — why not in winter, when our lives need a bit of brightening up?

About police/fire fighter solicitations

Police and firefighters play a vital role in keeping citizens safe from crime, fire and personal injury.

Unfortunately, according to the Better Business Bureau, there are a number of unscrupulous organizations that profess to raise funds for the benefit of police and firefighters, but in reality are collecting funds for their own financial gain.

Legitimate police and fire fighters organizations should be willing to provide potential donors with any information they might reasonably want to consider before making a contribution. Organizations with nothing to hide will encourage your interest.

Ask the following questions before you give:

1. Ask for a copy of the organization's latest annual report, roster of board members and financial statements. This information will give you a better understanding of the organization's purposes, how and where the programs are carried out, and how much of the organization's income is spent on its programs versus how much is spent on fundraising and administration.

2. Find out how many police or firefighter members the organization has and what areas the members are from.

3. Ask the organization about any affiliations it might have with other local or national organizations.

4. If the contribution involves your purchasing tickets or advertisements, find out how much of your contribution actually goes to the police or firefighters organization. A direct contribution might better suit your charitable goal.

5. Find out what specific programs the funds are raised to support.

If you are still interested in contributing but have other unanswered questions, do not hesitate to call your BBB or the local fire or police department to verify its connection with the fundraising drive.

Also, the BBB has a new pamphlet, "Tips on Solicitations by Police and Firefighter Organizations" which describes the different types of organizations and their solicitations, discusses requests for contributions as well as advertising space in publications and deals with the tax deductibility of these organizations. This pamphlet is available free by sending a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope to the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan, 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

Dental school offers senior citizen discounts

Persons 65 years and older who are first-time patients at the University of Detroit Dental Clinic will get a special 25 percent break on all dental fees this month, according to Dr. Charles King, dean of the Dental School and chairperson for U of D's "Smile America" observance of National Dental Health Month.

The senior citizen offer will further reduce the already low fees available to adults and children who use the services of the clinics, located at 2985 E. Jefferson on Detroit's near east side.

King said the special senior citizen rate symbolizes "the changes going on in dentistry today as we increasingly serve the older population."

He noted that today's youngsters have the benefits of fluoridated water and techniques such as bonding so that by the time they arrive in their teens they may be cavity-free.

"This is not so for most older adults," King said. Even though the older population is more dentally sophisticated than a generation ago, the sheer number of people living longer is growing. Periodontal gum disease may be on the rise itself, in terms of dental health as older persons' longevity increases.

Since Dental Health Month stresses not only care for the old but care for the young as well, the U of D children's Pediatric clinic will hold a poster contest for youngsters that stresses a dental theme.

Children who visit the clinic during the month will be treated to an apple and a balloon.

For appointments to the adult clinic, call 446-1860. The children's clinic number is 446-1919.

For the record

In an I Say column published Jan. 30, titled "What's in a name?" I referred to a letter we printed in which we were taken to task for identifying women by their husband's first name. I said the letter-writer's envelope bore her husband's name preceded by a Mrs.

The writer came in to tell me that is not true, that she has never owned stationery with her husband's name imprinted on it. Since I don't have the envelope anymore, I can't verify it and there is no reason to disbelieve the writer. If I made a mistake, I apologize to the woman for any embarrassment my statement may have caused her.

Kangaroo golf

"A ball hitting a kangaroo — play as is," states a rule at the Yeppoon Golf Club in Queensland, Australia, says National Geographic.

I say

So now I know.

The last great holdout finally gave in and took a trip to Florida. Now I know what everyone has been raving about and why I have been resisting going there. It was far more wonderful and every bit as bad as I expected.

The weather was nothing short of fabulous. Sunny, windy, almost hot, the sea and sky a deep blue, the sand fine and soft, the surf up, the ocean quite a bit warmer than Lake Superior in August. No wonder we love it. But Florida is choking in our amorous embrace.

The traffic. Crowds on the roads, crowds in the restaurants, crowds at the golf courses. I vow never again to complain about overcrowding at the Vineyard. I didn't know when I was well off.

The reputation for crowds and tinsel and plastic is what has kept us in Michigan enduring the cold year after year. When we finally decided to check it out, we picked Martin County on the Atlantic coast because it is sparsely settled (only 70,000 in the entire county, although we quickly learned that 69,047 of them drive down Route 1 at the same time) and is known as a model county for its growth policy.

Builders of residential, commercial or industrial facilities must now pay an impact fee which varies according to the planned use and location of the building. It's only in the thousands of dollars, and probably won't stop anyone from building, but at least it is a recognition that the area is crowded and fragile. The high-rise condos dotting the beaches on Hutchinson Island will be the last ones if the county has its way. They are even threatening to give away the local zoning power to the state, which — in theory, at least — will be less malleable to the lure of immediate tax gain and more conscious of the environmental integrity of the fragile barrier island.

The whole state is more conservation-conscious than it used to be. The current governor was elected on a reform platform and is politically responsive to environmental interests. Florida was crowing last week about the planned acquisition of hundreds of thousands of acres to add to Big Cypress Swamp — a project related to replacement of Alligator Alley with I-75 and the saving of South Florida's water supply. (There actually is a connection between highways and water supply. The current road has few culverts and acts as a dam. The I-75 would be constructed almost as a series of bridges to allow the water to circulate.)

But one wonders if it is all too late. Even if no more high-rises sprout, there are already too many for comfort. The crush to buy water frontage continues unabated, driving land prices sky high. A lot in a trailer park on the Indian River is for sale right now for $62,000. No trailer.

Florida has more condos and more manatees than any other state. There are 500,000 condos with more a-building. Experts count 1,000 manatees, sadly without prospect of increase.

But the environmentalists are working hard to save the manatee. The slow-moving creatures cannot react fast enough to escape the propellers of speeding motor boats. Every manatee in Florida carries a network of pro-pellor scars on its back, making it possible to identify individuals. Researchers track the sea cows' movements and have printed maps warning boaters to slow down in manatee areas. It's anybody's guess whether boaters will take heed.

Great weather, great crowds

Nancy Parmenter

I wanted to see a manatee. They like warm water and congregate on the Gulf Coast and in inland rivers and near power plants on the ocean side. We were told to take a head of lettuce down to the nuclear plant to coax them to the surface. But the weather was too warm. (I tried not smirk when I said that.)

But we saw other wildlife. Or tame life. The pelicans are shameless beggars, as everyone but me has known for years. I shot rolls of film recording their antics as they swooped and squawked around fish-cleaning stations, trying to snatch fish parts from the very hands of the fishermen. "Damn it!" shouted one frustrated fisherman, brandishing his filleting knife at the clownish thieves.

We paddled a canoe up the Loxahatchee River, billed as the last wild river in Florida. It's a sluggish stream through mangrove swamp deep in 10,000 acres of a sand pine preserve. Loaded with alligators, although we naturally saw not one. But a raccoon panned along the shore, osprey floated overhead, and a pileated woodpecker drummed in a coconut palm. Not a bad day.

Another day we toured a cypress dome swamp secluded in the depths of 12,000 acres owned by Florida Power and Light. Half the property is an enormous cooling pond for the oil-fired power plant, acres and acres are leased to the cultivation of citrus and a corner of the endangered cypress dome was saved to appease the howling environmentalists. FP & L constructed a mile-long board walk and gives guided tours to those who inquire.

It was an instructive day. Ranger Dave was in a communicative mood and spent five hours pointing out plant species and expatiating on the politics of water and environmentalism in South Florida. Between sightings of bald eagles and the endangered wood stork, Dave filled us in on water tables, dredging, dumping on coral reefs, nuclear power and the Okeechobee water project. "WPA number two," which he said was not only a boondoggle, but disrupted the aquifer as well.

I can't speak for the aquifer. Certainly Lake Okeechobee was an unexpected sight. It looks as big as Lake St. Clair, but is only about four feet deep, except where dredged for a boat channel.

It is entirely surrounded by an earthen dike and a rim canal, and almost nowhere can you get close enough to see in. The fishing is legendary.

Not far from the lake is that other endangered species, the genuine, old Florida, down-home country inn. Rumored to be the place of employ of Wallis Warfield Simpson before she went to England and met the king, the Seminole Inn serves fresh-caught, batter-fried Lake Okeechobee catfish, black-eyed peas, cornbread stuffing or, if you're there for the breakfast buffet, homemade biscuits with sausage gravy. And grits, of course.

Beefy local cattle ranchers in jeans and boots belied up to the white linen-covered tables, cowboy hats slung over the chair backs. As I wallowed in the down-home atmosphere, my sharp ears began to pick up bits of conversation: These cowboys were power-lunching! Between bites of catfish, they were doing real estate deals. Schucks.

All week I kept my eyes peeled for a 'gator. My hopes were answered the last day along the banks of a bare-looking canal.

As we walked along the bank, a three-foot young alligator swam toward a dent in the opposite bank and disappeared into it. Then another and another. Fourteen little alligators went into that den, where they lurked, peering out of the dim recesses with only their eyes protruding above the waterline. They have to be shy — even at that size, they are eaten by hawks and eagles and their own parents.

Gifts will buy science equipment, motivational talk

The Board of Education Monday night accepted almost $4,200 in contributions to the school system from the Maire PTO, the Parcels Student Council and a former Woods councilman.

The Parcels Student Council donated $1,150 for purchase and installation of a regulation volleyball net at the school. Trustees praised the student council for its efforts in raising and donating the money.

The Maire PTO donated $2,500 to the system to purchase science equipment and a demonstration table for the school. The equipment included prisms, lens, tuning forks, clamps, compasses, magnets and magnetizers, glassware, batteries, stopwatches and other small equipment.

As part of the 1986-87 budget process, the school system is putting together a list of supplies that each elementary science room should have, according to Elementary Curriculum Director Alfreda Frost. Some PTOs have taken the initiative and begun purchasing equipment this school year, she added.

Frederick Lovelace, a former Woods councilman now living in the Shores, donated $500 to North High School to sponsor motivational speaker James Tuman.

Tuman will appear Thursday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the high school to talk to all parents of school-age children. He will hold two programs the next day at North for high school students.

The Maire gift prompted trustees to ask Superintendent John Whritner for an update on formulation of a gift policy.

Administrators, representatives of PTOs and he have met and the consensus was Whritner should develop a draft policy on which PTOs could comment later, the superintendent said. It will probably be March before a draft is ready for presentation to the board, he added.

North to present 'Oliver'

North High School will present "Oliver!" the classic Dickens tale of the young orphan boy, Feb. 20, 21 and 22. The production is being prepared by the combined groups of chorus, orchestra, drama and dance. Performances are at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center, 707 Vernier Road.

Directed by Gael Barr and produced by Ben Walker, the production will showcase a cast of 80 singers. The 30-piece orchestra, directed by Nathan Judson, will provide accompaniment. Choreographer/director Barr has also cast five groups of student dancers.

Appearing in the acting ensemble are William Obeide in the title role, Jeff Witzke as Fagin, Sandi Joseph as Nancy, Dan Preifile as Bill Sykes, Brad Egan as the Artful Dodger, Joe Paluzzi as Mr. Bumble, Holly Smith as the Widow Corney, George Mashour as Mr. Sowerberry with Becky Wolfe as his wife. Others in the cast include Laurie Grimes, David Neal, Krissy David and Brian Francis. An authentic London town set is being constructed by the new technical director for the Performing Arts Center, Paul Andreacovich.

Tickets are available from any North student in the production or from the All Pointes Bookstore on Mack Avenue, South of Vernier.

General seating in the upper balcony is $3 and reserved seats on the main floor are $4.

Senior citizens with gold cards are invited to be the guests or North at either the Tuesday, Feb. 18 matinee at 9 a.m. of the Wednesday, Feb. 19 matinee at 1 p.m.

Foster parent conference scheduled

The 14th Annual Training Conference for the Michigan Foster Parent Association will be held at the Hilton Inn in Kalamazoo Feb. 28 through March 2. Organizers say it is the largest gathering of foster parents, adoptive parents, social workers and child advocates in Michigan.

More than 60 training opportunities will be available to participants. Speakers include Glenn Hester, author of "Child of Rage," and Elizabeth "Betty" Cooper Allen, author of "Mother Can You Hear Me." The Foster Parent of the Year award will be presented to foster parents in six different categories and a Social Worker of the Year award will also be presented.

For information, call Dan Coecia, vice president of the association, at 255-9257 or 354-7955.

THE MICHIGAN LOTTERY RECEIVES MANY QUESTIONS ON PRIZE PAYMENTS. THE FOLLOWING SUMMARY PROVIDES MANY OF THE ANSWERS.

- Q. What percent of Lottery revenues are returned to players as prizes?
A. State law requires that as near as possible to 45 percent of gross Lottery sales be returned to players as prizes. For example, in Lotto, this means 25 percent for the Jackpot, nine percent for the Second Prize pool and 11 percent for the Third Prize pool.
 - Q. Why are Michigan Lottery prizes paid in 20-year installments?
A. This method of payment for large prizes benefits all players by increasing the total prize money that can be awarded.
 - Q. Can you explain this benefit?
A. The Lottery invests approximately $550,000 of revenues for each $1 million to be awarded in a program similar to an annuity purchase. The combined principal and interest from this investment give the winner the entire $1 million in 20 years. The other $450,000 not needed for immediate full payment of a $1 million award then is used in the game as other prizes.
 - Q. Must winners pay taxes on prize amounts?
A. Michigan Lottery prizes are exempt from state and local taxes, but not from federal income tax. The Internal Revenue Service requires a 20 percent deduction from payment of all awards over $5,000. Total tax paid by any prize winner may be higher or lower depending on other income.
 - Q. Does this benefit winners of large prizes who receive annual payments instead of a lump sum?
A. Using a $1 million award as an example, present tax laws might cut this amount in half if it was all paid at one time, giving the winner only $500,000. Under the 20-year payment plan, a $1 million winner is paid $800,000 by the Lottery, $300,000 more.
 - Q. Do all Lottery states use this method of payment?
A. All lottery states do, for the same reasons.
 - Q. What if a winner dies before the 20-year payout period passes?
A. The Lottery ALWAYS pays out the full prize amount. The remainder of a prize is paid to the estate of a deceased winner. Payments also go to the estate of deceased winners of $1,000 a week for life prizes until the $1 million minimum has been collected.
- Send your Lottery question to:
Winner's Circle, Michigan Lottery,
P.O. Box 30077,
Lansing, MI 48909.
- If your question is used, you will receive 50 free instant game tickets. This month's winner circle question comes from Lucky Fulton of Brohman.

Parents ask Sean Hogan-Downey, standing, questions about helping their children cope with stress at the recent four-part series "Parenting the Adolescent" offered at Pierce Middle School by the P.T.O.

Pierce parents learn about communication

During the last four weeks, Sean Hogan-Downey expected the number of parents attending the Pierce Middle School "Parenting the Adolescent" seminar to experience a small decline — the usual occurrence when busy people try to fit in a number of activities in a schedule that generally runs short on time.

She found out that Grosse Pointe parents have been willing to set aside other activities on Thursday evenings to talk with her to learn more about communicating with their adolescent children.

The four-part series was designed to help parents identify stress in children and to develop communication skills that aid in alleviating that stress.

Hogan-Downey was approached by the Pierce PTO almost a year ago to teach the series. With her schedule already booked into 1987, she no longer has the time to accept one-time speaking engagements.

She believes that a series of classes helps parents more and supplements her talks with "homework assignments" to help parents practice techniques introduced in class.

Previously a teacher for 18 years, Hogan-Downey has utilized her experience with children in the school setting to complement her training as a certified social worker. These past 10 years, she has worked with children and adults, offering counseling to individuals as well as to families.

Law careers to be discussed

Grosse Pointe South High School will present a Law Career Program Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's main auditorium.

The program will consist of a panel of individuals who work in legal careers. Included in the group will be Don Atkins, an assistant prosecutor for the Wayne County Prosecutors office; Judith Collier, a corporate attorney for General Motors; and Judy Thrift, a legal librarian; Sally Berschback, a legal assistant and Marge Conn, a legal secretary, all of whom are employed at Dykema, Gossett, Spencer, Goodnow and Trigg.

Each panelist will give an overview of his/her specific job and will include information about job duties, required training, salary expectation and job opportunities. A question and answer period will follow these presentations.

Although the program is designed particularly for high school students, any member of the community is welcome to attend. Admission is free.

School events

The following events within the Grosse Pointe Public School System are scheduled through next week:

South writers win awards

South journalism students picked up four awards in the 1985-86 Michigan High School Journalism Contest sponsored by the Michigan Press Women.

Don DelPlace, a senior, was awarded second and third place for his sports stories, "Papista's dream: Playing for the NHL" and "Berschback wages legal war over transfers." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Waggoner.

Kea Joan McKinney, senior, received second place in the feature story category, her winning entry was "Troubled times, suicide is never an answer..." She is the daughter of Arthur and Joan McKinney.

Awarded third place for her feature, "Judge's art passes go," is Molly Conner, a senior and the daughter of Earl and Vicki Kester.

The students will receive certificates.

Local students to be honored

Three local students will be among 27 seniors and 10 seventh-graders who will be honored by the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Louisa St. Clair Chapter, Thursday, Feb. 20, at 10:30 a.m. at the Jefferson Avenue Presbyterian Church.

The students were essay winners in a contest to observe American History Month. The topic was "Prominent Signers of the Constitution."

First-place winners are Matthew Jacklyn of St. Clare of Montefalco and Brian D. Blabb of University Liggett. They will be awarded a $50 U.S. Savings Bond, silver medal and certificate.

Natasha Levy of University Liggett was awarded second place. She will receive a dictionary, bronze medal and certificate.

Antiques lecture

When investing in antiques, how does one distinguish between the real thing and a fake? That question and others will be answered by Barbara Seichter in the two-part lecture, "Antiques: British and American Furniture," at the War Memorial Thursday, Feb. 20 and 27. Presented by the Council of Sponsors, the classes will begin at 10 a.m.

According to Seichter, who is an interior designer and has studied at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, during the 17th and 18th centuries, Americans, while wanting to change their political and religious practices from Europe, continued to look to the Continent for cultural, social and aesthetic guidance. Through lectures and slides, she will show these influences and differences as well as discuss the subtle but often overlooked details that alert the buyer to fakes.

Tickets for the series of two classes are $12, and $6.50 for a single session. Kay Healy is the council chairperson for the program.

Call for additional information at 881-7511.

MDA dance

Bishop Gallagher High School will sponsor a dance for the Muscular Dystrophy Association Thursday, Feb. 20 at the high school located at 19360 Harper in Harper Woods.

The event will start at 7 p.m. and end at 12:30 a.m. Admission is $5 at the door.

For more information, call Irene Baird at 779-7860.

Booster dance

The Grosse Pointe North High School Booster Club's annual dance will be held Friday, Feb. 14, from 8:30 p.m. at 1 a.m. at Touch of Mink Hall, 20542 Harper. Non-members are welcome to attend.

Tickets are $10 per person. The evening includes beer and set-ups and a buffet dinner. Dress is informal. Reservations may be made by calling 886-8708.

Guilty or innocent?

The audience will play a vital role in deciding the verdict in Ayn Rand's courtroom drama, "Night of January 16th." Performed by the St. Ambrose Community Players Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 21, 22 and 23, the cast includes, from left, Anne MacLaren as Karen Andre; John Molinari as defense attorney Stevens; Shirley Chapman as Judge Heath; George Huang as district attorney Flint; and Tricia Pullis as Nancy Lee Faulkner. The play will be presented at the St. Ambrose parish hall, 1014 Maryland in the Park. A 12-member jury will be selected from the audience and there are two possible endings, decided by the jury. Tickets are $6 and include a post-theatre afterglow. Call 822-2814 or 331-3964 for ticket information.

Valentine's concert

An afternoon of romantic music will be presented by the Lyric Chamber Ensemble, Sunday, Feb. 16, 3:30 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House.

"Valentines from Mozart" will feature "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik" by Mozart, plus "Sonata for Bassoon and Cello." The program also includes Dvorak's "Quintet for Strings."

DSO artist Geoffrey Applegate (violin), Stacey Wooley (violin), Vincent Lioni (viola), Haden McKay (cello) and Craig Rifel (double bass) will perform with Peter Schonbach (bassoon). Schonbach is the chairman of Wayne State University's Music Department.

Tickets are $8, $6 for senior citizens and students. Discounted group rates are available. Visa and MasterCard are accepted for phone reservations; tickets are also available at the door.

Admission includes an informal tour of the Ford House and an after-concert wine reception with the artists. Call 357-1111 anytime for tickets and information.

Obituaries

C. Ralph Brennecke Jr.

Funeral services were held Monday, Jan. 27, for Mr. Brennecke, 38, of the Woods, who died Thursday, Jan. 23, at his home.

Mr. Brennecke was a vice president at First Federal of Michigan. He attended Austin Preparatory High School and graduated from the University of Michigan in 1969. He was a member of the Detroit Golf Club and the Grosse Pointe Rotary.

He is survived by his parents, Charles R. and S. Jane of the Farms; and one sister, Janet.

Interment was at Resurrection Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan, 28 W. Adams, Detroit 48226.

Daniel C. Labadie

Funeral services were held Monday, Feb. 10, for Mr. Labadie, 85, of the Farms who died Thursday, Feb. 6, at the Georgian East Nursing Home.

Mr. Labadie was a retired City of Detroit police officer.

He is survived by three sisters and five brothers.

Burial was in the St. Paul Cemetery in the Farms.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Verheyden Funeral Home.

Elise C. Lenfestey

Funeral services were held Friday, Feb. 7, at W.R. Potere Funeral Home and St. Andrew Catholic Church for Mrs. Lenfestey, 69, of Rochester Hills, formerly of Grosse Pointe, who died Feb. 4 at her home.

Mrs. Lenfestey was an active member of the St. Andrew Senior Citizens.

She is survived by her husband, Thomas; two daughters, Elise Murray and Barbara Lowrie; two sons, Thomas R. Jr. and Robert; eight grandchildren; one sister; and one brother.

Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to American Diabetes Research.

C. Dwight Dilloway

Funeral services were held Thursday, Feb. 6, for Mr. Dilloway, 69, of the Park, who died Feb. 4 at his home.

Mr. Dilloway was a retired engineer from Ford Motor Co. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

He is survived by his wife, Agnes; one daughter, Dianne Zyskowski; two sons, Dennis and Don; three grandchildren; and one sister.

Cremation was at Forest Lawn. Arrangements were made by the A.H. Peters Funeral Home.

Robert F. Bode

Judge Robert F. Bode, of the Farms, a retired administrative judge with the U.S. Department of Immigration and Naturalization, died Thursday, Feb. 6, at Cottage Hospital.

Private services and a memorial mass were celebrated at St. Paul's Catholic Church on the Lake.

Judge Bode was raised in Nebraska. He was awarded a bachelor of arts and a doctorate of law degree from Creighton University, Omaha, Neb., in 1938. He served with the Department of Immigration and then entered a private practice in 1943. In 1947 he became a trial attorney for the Department of Justice. He was named an administrative judge for the immigration department in 1970. He retired in 1979.

He was a member of the Michigan Bar and Missouri Bar associations.

He is survived by his wife, Mirian (Baumer); three daughters, Barbara Bridgman, Elizabeth Farquhar and Roberta Guiney; a son, William; one sister, Helen White; two nephews, Stewart and Warren White, and five grandchildren.

Memorial contributions may be made to Father Lloyd, Capuchin Soup Kitchen, 1740 Mount Elliott, Detroit 48207.

Funeral arrangements were made by Sawyer-Fuller Funeral Home, Berkley.

William J. Coulter M.D.

Funeral services were held on Drummond Island in November, 1985 for Dr. Coulter, 77, formerly of Grosse Pointe.

Dr. Coulter was an obstetrician/gynecologist who had a practice located at Alter Road and Jefferson for about 20 years. He moved to Drummond Island about 1965, where he had a general practice until his death.

He attended college in Northfield, Minn., and was awarded his medical degree from the University of Michigan.

He is survived by his wife, Norma, and their son, Frank; his former wife Mildred, of Santa Barbara, Calif. and their son, William Coulter, M.D.; and three grandchildren.

Athlete's lawsuit reinstated on appeal

The Michigan Court of Appeals recently reinstated a lawsuit against South high school officials by a student who was seriously hurt during a summer varsity football practice.

Phillip Agby seriously injured his hip during a practice in 1981, school officials said. He and his parents later sued the school district, school administrators and four coaches, alleging the defendants were negligent because they failed to provide for Agby's safety as required by the school's policy and rules.

Agby participated briefly in other sports at the school after his injury, school athletic officials said.

The Wayne County Circuit Court dismissed the suit on the grounds of governmental immunity, but the appellate court said the lower court was wrong to have dismissed the case against the school's administrators and coaches. The case was sent back to circuit court.

Although the district itself is no longer named as a defendant in the case, it will provide legal aid for the administrators and coaches because they were acting in the normal scope of their duties when the incident occurred, according to the school system.

Doctor robbed in his office

A doctor was roughed up and robbed in his East Jefferson office Thursday afternoon, Feb. 6. A pair of thieves escaped with a blank prescription pad, Park police said.

The doctor was treating a patient at about 5:40 that day, when another person began yelling that someone was rifling the doctor's desk. The doctor went to his office, where he found a woman going through the drawers.

When he approached, the doctor was grabbed by the woman's accomplice and held while a prescription pad was removed from his pocket.

The thieves escaped. The doctor was uninjured, police said.

IT'S SIMPLE: YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR.

Grammatically questionable, but how true! Some of the "Old Boys" might say of an independent school education, as of a yacht, that if you have to ask the price, you can't afford one. Indeed, the median tuition this year for 220 independent boarding schools is at least $10,000, and the tuition for a typical fifth grader in an independent day school approaches $5,000. Whatever the price, independent schools are winning a bigger public than ever. As reported in May Money magazine, while public and parochial student enrollments have declined over the past 10 years, private independent schools, that are members of the National Association of Independent Schools, have increased enrollment 15% over the same period. 45% of the students in independent schools are the first in their families to attend a private school and 57% of all students in independent schools have previously attended public schools. Today's independent school child is not necessarily a child of affluence. A good percentage of independent school children have moms who work, some specifically to earn tuition so their children can go to these educational institutions. Financial aid is available. This past year, N.A.I.S. schools awarded a record $44 million in financial aid at their 990 member schools.

The Grosse Pointe Academy is an independent school and a member of the National Association of Independent Schools. We offer a Montessori approach to education at the 2-1/2 year old through the kindergarten level. From the grade one level through grade eight, we continue to develop a child's strengths while attacking the child's academic weaknesses. Our class sizes are small, from 9 to 15 per class in grades 1-5. Our reading groups range from 1:1 to 6:1. In several public and parochial classrooms, reading groups have more students in them than we have in our entire classroom. Math groups are also small and, of course, our staff deals one to one with children in writing.

If you're looking for an excellent educational opportunity for your child, explore the opportunity of an independent school education at The Grosse Pointe Academy.

Support group to display vision aids

The Grosse Pointe Friends of Vision Support Group for visually impaired is sponsoring a display of several types of electronic magnifying equipment and other low vision aids Wednesday, Feb. 26, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Neighborhood Club, 17154 Waterloo, corner of St. Clair.

The display has been planned for the purpose of giving visually- and hearing-impaired persons an opportunity to have a "hands on" experience in order to compare various types of available appliances.

Vendors will be available to answer questions but there will be no sales at that time.

Friends of reading-impaired persons are asked to bring this notice to their attention and if possible help them by providing transportation in order to take advantage of this rare opportunity.

For further information regarding this exhibit or the support group, call 824-4710 or 822-2859.

The pink plumes of those berries looked so like the heads of cranes. Or so the Pilgrims thought. That's why they called them craneberries, later cranberries.

The Hobbit

... will be performed on two Saturdays, Feb. 15 and 22, in the Fries Auditorium at the War Memorial, at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. both days. Two of the cast members include Mike Babel, above left, as Bilbo Baggins, and David Bryant as Gandalf. Tickets for the three-act musical adventure are $4 for adults and $3 for students. For information, call 881-7511. For group rates, call 885-6833 anytime or 886-6152 after 6 p.m.

Mack Ave. group to meet Feb. 18

The Grosse Pointe Business & Professional Association of Mack Avenue will hold its first town hall meeting Tuesday, Feb. 18, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club Tennis Lounge.

This invitation-only event will gather together Mack Avenue business owners and professional people and will give them a chance to talk with association members and community leaders about some of their common problems in conducting business along Mack.

Networking is one of the important ways to make doing business more satisfying for both owners and customers, association members believe. An idea box will be provided and complimentary hors d'oeuvres will be served at the meeting.

Dr. Michael Lahey, president-elect of the association, will be general chairman of the meeting. Assisting will be Frank King, attorney, and Shelly Gillette, co-chairman of the Planning Committee; Bob and Maureen Mowbray, of Village Locksmith; Lee Meyer, of This N' That For Pets, and current president of the group; Adele Sarmary, of Lee's Inc; Jean Robbins, of Grosse Pointe Telephone Directory; Mark Fairclough, Boy Scouts of America; and Phil Andrews, of Johnstone & Johnstone. For further information, call 881-1202 or 331-3230.

MACLD will meet

Michigan Association for Children and Adults With Learning Disabilities, will present Dr. Claire Hunt, director of Special Education on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe Central Library.

Recently adopted changes in the Michigan Special Education Law, and proposed changes in special education programs offered in Grosse Pointe will affect all special ed students as early as this spring.

Hunt will participate in a question-and-answer period with parents interested in learning what these changes are, and how they will affect their children.

For more information, call 343-9168 or 886-9547.

Census official to talk at business conference

Charles A. Waite, associate director of the U.S. Bureau of Census in Washington, D.C., will be one of the leading speakers at a business conference to be held Tuesday, Feb. 25, in the McGregor Memorial Conference on the Wayne State University campus.

The conference, Census Data for Michigan Business and Industry: A Mid-Decade Assessment, opens at 8:30 a.m. and continues through 4 p.m. It was organized by the Michigan Metropolitan Information Center in the Center for Urban Studies (MIMIC/CUS) at WSU.

Sessions will be held on the 1982 economic census, the 1980 census of population and housing, population projections and estimates, and other economic data sources.

Also speaking will be William A. Gibson, a trade specialist with the U.S. Department of Commerce; and Laurence S. Rosen, director of the Michigan Information Center for the Michigan Department of Management and Budget. Other local census and data specialists will be participating along with members of the WSU faculty and staff.

Fee for the conference, including lunch, is $18. Further information may be obtained by contacting Mark E. Neithercut, manager of MIMIC/CUS, at 577-2180.

Support groups meet

The Eastside Family Support Group, an affiliate of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill, will hold a general meeting Monday, Feb. 24, at 7:30 p.m., at Bethany Christian Church, 5901 Cadieux, Detroit, between the Ford Freeway and Chandler Park Drive.

An attorney will discuss "Trusts and Legal Matters Regarding the Mentally Ill."

The public is invited to attend.

Fashion illustrator visits Defer School

Detroit News fashion illustrator Barbara Miller brought the newspaper fashion desk to two Defer classrooms Feb. 4. Her visit was a part of the school's Art in the Classroom program.

Students in Judy Morlan's fourth-grade class experienced the process of fashion illustration by role-playing. They became the various newspaper people involved in producing the fashion page, from the photographer to the copywriters and editors.

The learned illustration techniques by examining Miller's vast portfolio and by watching her sketch. They then eagerly tackled the job of illustrating classmate Tempie Krag as she modeled haute couture baggy jeans topped by an oversized sweatshirt with a duck on the front.

Second-graders in Carol Fraser's class sketched fashions that were "out of this world" as they let their creativity soar with a fashions in space theme.

Art in the Classroom is an enrichment program designed to introduce elementary school students to the world of art. It is an extension of the national Picture Lady program which encourages appreciation of the Great Masters. The Defer program has evolved to include an understanding of the many ways that people can express themselves through art.

Hypertension series

Cottage Hospital will help people control high blood pressure in a series of four classes beginning Wednesday, Feb. 19.

"Down With High Blood Pressure," to be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m., will continue on Wednesday, Feb. 26, March 5 and March 12. Sessions are held in the nurses' residence at the rear of the hospital parking lot, 159 Kercheval Avenue, between Moross and Cadieux.

During the four weeks, a pharmacist, registered dietician and registered nurse will provide a thorough review of the physiology, causes, prevention, treatment, diet, medications and emotional reactions associated with high blood pressure.

There is a $15 fee and participants are encouraged to bring along a family member or close friend for reinforcement and assistance at home. Call 884-8600, ext. 2390, to register.

Thank you, teachers

Kindergarten teachers Henry Pichla and Margaret Zapytowski had lunch served to them by parents, from left, Janice Hadgis, Pamela Rennpage and Sandra Jorgenson. The Ferry Elementary School PTO prepared and served lunch Friday, Jan. 24, to the school's staff as a way of saying thank you for caring. Friday marked the end of the first semester and it was a day when teachers completed records and made plans for the rest of the school year while students took a vacation day. Records/Planning Day is a part of the official school calendar of the school system.

Shores man charged with resisting arrest

A Shores man, 24, was arrested and charged with interfering with an officer and resisting arrest when he repeatedly walked into a Farms police officer during a drunk driving arrest last week.

As officers were administering a field sobriety test to a possible drunk driver, the passenger jumped out of the car and walked over to them. He was told repeatedly to keep back, but kept returning, according to the police report.

The officer warned him off with an open hand and after the fifth time, tried to push him away. The man unzipped his jacket and reached inside, shouting "I got a gun!"

Both officers subdued him, searched him and finding no weapon, put him in the scout car where he began to scream profanities and kick the car window and shield.

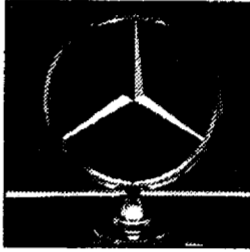

The violent behavior continued after arrival at the police station, according to the report. After a $50 bond was arranged, the man picked up a chair and threw it at the glass door of the holding room. The chair smashed the glass and bounced back, hitting the man in the forehead.

There were no injuries, but police added charge of malicious destruction of property.

Crossings

Thanks to the California gold rush, thousands of travelers in the 1850s crossed Nicaragua, first boating up Rio San Juan and across Lake Nicaragua, then going by coach across the 12-mile-wide isthmus that divides the lake from the Pacific, says National Geographic.

LESSONS IN LEASING

LESSON 1 LEASE FROM AN ESTABLISHED COMPANY.

All State Car Leasing has been a leasing specialist for more than 27 years. We'll be here tomorrow.

BWARE OF SUPER LOW PRICES.

There are many factors that determine monthly payments (the number of months, the residual value, the amount you drive, etc.) All State Car Leasing will lease you a car at a price you feel comfortable with. Without any hidden costs that can make you miserable later.

LESSON 4

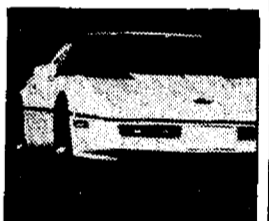

LEASE FROM SOMEONE WHO CAN LEASE YOU THE CAR YOU WANT.

All State Car Leasing is an independent leasing company. Which means we won't try to lease you any specific make or model car. Just the car you want.

LEASE FROM A "FULL-SERVICE" LEASING COMPANY.

When you lease a car from All State Car Leasing we handle everything, including the financing. Many others sell their contracts to someone else. "No Cost Loaners" are included in our leases.

Woods updates equipment, considers rezoning

By Peter A. Salinas
It will cost as much as $150,000 to replace and install new equipment at the Torrey Road pumping station in the Woods.
At its regular meeting Feb. 3, the Woods city council unanimously approved a bid from Rotor Electric Company, of about $49,000, to install start-up equipment which start motors that pump sewer water.
The council voted to replace the equipment rather than repair it, because parts can no longer be found for the almost 50-year-old equipment.
The council will divert monies for the project from several funds rather than dipping into some $246,000 in the city contingency fund, according to City Administrator Clerk Chester Petersen.
Petersen said other motors in the station will likely have to be replaced in about five years. He says the city should have built up a fund for this future repair by that time.

In other business, council members held lengthy discussions on two rezoning requests, both on Mack Avenue.
A request to rezone 19521 Mack from restricted office to commercial user, was made by the building owner, Michael Daleo.
Council members denied the request because Daleo wanted to convert the building into a hair salon. The city restricts the number of beauty shops by ordinance. The council also felt parking would be a problem on the same block which also houses a bakery and the Grosse Pointe Fish Market.
Catherine Pampalona, owner of a building at 20947 Mack, had her rezoning tabled. She asked that her business, a nail salon, not be classified as a beauty shop.

The Woods currently allows 17 beauty shops in the city, and if categorized as a beauty salon, her business may not be granted a certificate of occupancy.
Councilman Paul Beaupre suggested giving the matter to the planning and parking commissions for their recommendations. The board agreed and voted 4-3 to seek the recommendations.
The council has several choices. It could increase the number of allowable beauty salons from 17 to 18, make a nail salon a new category and create a maximum number for those establishments, or deny the request.
In other action, councilwoman Jean Rice asked that two provisions be made in the city's motion to allow Detroit Edison to trim tree limbs away from power lines.
Her motion included restricting power company to trim elms only during their dormant stage and spray any cut tree limbs over one-inch in diameter with a chemical to prevent the spread of disease.
The council approved the motion unanimously.

For prospective business owners

The U.S. Small Business Administration and SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives) will sponsor a workshop for prospective business owners and those who have recently started a new venture.
The all-day program covers subjects necessary for the entrepreneur to start and manage a business successfully: qualifications, analyzing business opportunities, financing, taxes and regulations, marketing and advertising, business plan, buying an existing business, franchising and legal organization.
The workshop will be held on Tuesday, Feb. 18 at the McGregor Conference Center of Wayne State University. The fee is $10 and includes printed reference material and guidance for continued free counseling opportunities with SCORE volunteers.

Call 226-7947 for information.

Recruiting

Life Scout Brian Jackson, second from the left, is coordinating a blood drive as his community service project to earn the rank of Eagle. Scouts from Troop 96, Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, will be helping him. The blood drive will be held Thursday, Feb. 20, at the Fries auditorium of the War Memorial. Donors are welcome to come anytime between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. Shown with Brian are, front row, from left, Terry Kavanaugh, Jackson, Ben Etschmann, Robert Miller and Billy Staats; back row from left, Jeff MacDonald, Peter Knoll, Ted Grustra, Dan Etschmann, Jeremy Bricker, Scott Schornak and Mike Marantate.

(NOTE: Following is the text of Ordinance No. 234 adopted by the Council of the City of Grosse Pointe at a regular meeting held December 16, 1985.)

CITY OF Grosse Pointe MICHIGAN

ORDINANCE NO. 234
AN ORDINANCE TO REPEAL CHAPTER 101 AND SUBSTITUTE THEREFORE NEW CHAPTER 101 OF TITLE VIII OF THE GROSSE POINTE CITY CODE CONCERNING ELECTRICAL WIRING AND EQUIPMENT REGULATIONS.

THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE ORDAINS:

Chapter 101 — Electrical Wiring and Equipment Regulations
1. That Chapter 101 of Title VIII of the Grosse Pointe City Code is hereby repealed, and the following chapter substituted therefor:

8.60. Adoption of Code by Reference. Pursuant to the provisions of the State of Michigan Construction Code Act, Act 230 of 1972, as amended, the National Electrical Code, 1984 Edition, as published by the National Fire Protection Association (hereinafter referred to as the National Electrical Code) is hereby adopted by reference. Said code is adopted for the purpose of regulating the installation, alteration, repair and maintenance of electrical equipment and for the protection of the health, safety and welfare in the City of Grosse Pointe.

8.61. Changes in Code. The following sections and subsections of the National Electrical Code/1984, are hereby amended or deleted as set forth and additional sections and subsections are added as indicated, and such changes shall control and supercede the specific provisions of the National Electrical Code/1984. Subsequent section numbers used in this Chapter shall refer to the like numbered sections of the National Electrical Code/1984. (Note: Code and specific language of modifications adopted as part of this section are on file at the office of the City Clerk.)

8.62. Exceptions. The provisions of this Chapter shall not be applied to electrical power supply companies of communications agencies in respect to the generation, transmission, or distribution of electrical power and light, to public communication transmission systems, to operation of signal systems used exclusively by public service agencies, to installation of equipment used by railway utilities and public carriers or to radio transmission systems, other than the equipment and wiring for power supply and the installation of radio towers and antennae whether erected on buildings or on the ground. Radio and television receiving sets and equipment may be installed by other than licensed electrical contractors and journeymen electricians, but such installations shall otherwise conform to this Chapter.

8.63. Electric Installation Standards. Installations of electrical equipment to the National Electrical Code rules and regulations as established in this Chapter shall be prima facie evidence that such installations and equipment are safe for use in this service intended and in compliance with the provisions of the Code.

8.64. Permits. No alterations or additions shall be made in the existing wiring of any buildings, nor shall any building be wired for the placing of any electric lights, motors, heating devices, or any apparatus requiring the use of electrical current at a potential over thirty (30) volts, nor shall any alterations be made in the wiring in any building after inspection, without first notifying the Building Official, and securing a permit therefor. Applications for such permit, describing such work, shall be made by the person installing same, and permit, when issued, shall be to such applicant.

8.65. Inspection. Upon the completion of the wiring of any building, it shall be the duty of the person installing the same to notify the Building Official, who shall inspect the installations. All wires which are to be hidden from view shall be inspected before concealment, and any person installing such wires shall notify the Building Official, giving him sufficient time in which to make the required inspection before such wires are concealed.

8.66. Fees for Permits and Inspection. Upon application for a permit as required in Section 8.64, a fee shall be paid in accordance with the Electrical Permit Fee Schedule established from time to time by resolution of the Grosse Pointe City Council.

8.67. Access to Building. The Building Official shall have the right during reasonable hours to enter any building in the discharge of his official duties or for the purpose of making any inspection or test of the installation of electric wiring, electric devices and/or electric material contained therein, and shall have the authority to cause the turning off of all electric supply and cut or disconnect, in cases of emergency, any wire where such electrical currents are dangerous to life or property.

8.68. Contractor's License. It shall be unlawful for any person to engage as an independent contractor in the installation, alteration, maintenance or repair of electrical wiring, equipment, apparatus or fixtures for light, heat or power purposes where the electromotive force exceeds thirty (30) volts in or about buildings and/or structures located within the City, without first having secured a valid license and registered same within the City.

8.69. Journeyman's License. It shall be unlawful for any person to engage in the occupation or trade of journeyman electrician in the installation, alteration, maintenance or repair of electrical wiring equipment, apparatus or fixtures for light, heat, power or medical purposes where the electromotive force exceeds thirty (30) volts in or about buildings and/or structures within the City, without first having secured a valid license and registered same with the City.

8.70. Fees for Licenses. Fees for licenses shall be as prescribed in Chapter 72 of the Grosse Pointe City Code. The issuance, expiration, renewal and transfer of such licenses shall be in accordance with Chapter 71 of the City Code, except as otherwise specifically provided in this Chapter. No electrical contractor licenses under the provisions of this Chapter shall secure permits for any electrical work to be done by any person not employed by such electrical contractor.

8.71. Liability. This Code shall not be construed to relieve from or lessen the responsibility or liability of any party owning, operating, controlling or installing any electrical wiring, electric devices and/or electric material for damages to person or property caused by any defect therein nor shall the City be held as assuming any such liability by reason of the inspection authorized herein, or certificate of inspection issued as herein provided.

2. The effective date of the within Ordinance No. 234 shall be ten (10) days after the date of publication thereof.

Prime Time for senior citizens

The ubiquitous telephone answering machine

By Marian Trainor

According to a San Francisco psychiatrist, Americans are fast becoming a nation of citizens who do not talk to each other. He offers as a case in point the telephone answering machine, an unfriendly wily device designed to accept or screen out what you have to say. It's a convenience for the owner. If he or she doesn't want to talk to you, they just don't return your call. If they do call back, they do so at their convenience and too bad if it is an inopportune time for you to talk. Besides what you had to say may not matter anymore. It was a good idea when you made the call. Now you could care less.

Another aspect of this one-way form of communication or actually no communication at all — contact would more aptly describe it — is its capacity for generating anxiety and/or stress.

You deliver a message but there's no real guarantee that it gets through. You worry. Did you talk loud enough? Is the machine working? Did the tape run out?

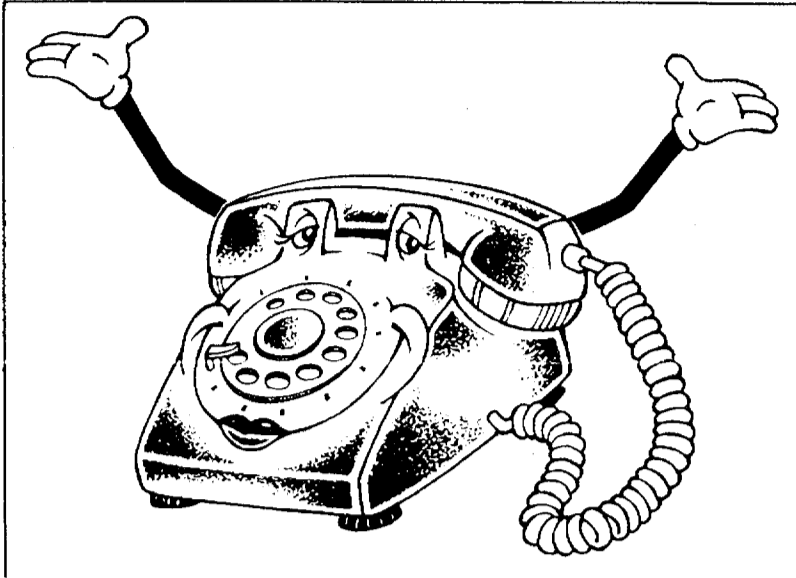

All of these doubts and frettings arise out of frustration because if you hadn't wanted to talk to a real live voice, you wouldn't have called in the first place.

This brings up the problem of need. Suppose you are really down and you've just got to talk to a certain person who has a way of smoothing things out and making everything look better, someone who you can count on. The trouble is you can't count on their phone. Instead of that warm reassuring voice, you find yourself, in your desperate need, blocked out by an electronic gadget.

Another annoying feature of this block to human communication is some of the attempts at wit that you are subjected to if you are patient enough to listen the recording out. Not content with not making themselves available to talk, they make up cutesy little messages that are supposed to let you know how creative they are. Most of them are so bad they only make you madder.

One caller who had enough of this one-way contact left a fitting message of his own. "Hi, you probably don't realize it, but I'm performing an incredible magic trick right now on your machine. I'm actually leaving two messages at once — my first and my last."

Telephone answering machines are particularly hard on those for whom the phone is not a convenience, but an addiction. No day is complete without a fix of a long chat with someone — anyone. In between they resort to little pick-ups. If they have no real business to transact, they call to clarify what was made perfectly clear to them on the last call.

Thankfully most older people have not felt the need for reading tapes instead of talking. Oftentimes the phone is their main source of keeping in contact with their relatives and friends and it is a real joy to catch up on all the important little happenings over the phone. It is the next best thing to a personal visit.

When people talk on the phone, they are fulfilling an important function of human need — the need Messages carried by homing pigeons were another means of keeping in contact. These pigeons often traveled 700 miles a day. On a comparative scale, they were at least as efficient as some mail deliveries.

It was a simple direct form of communication without the complications of fallen wires interrupting service, hearings on rate hikes or service interrupted because of non-payment of bills.

Ironically all the while our ancestors were resorting to these primitive means of communication they had the same materials available that made possible our favorite means of communication today, the telephone. Those materials were electricity and the magnet.

Someone discovered an electric current could be sent through copper wire. Someone else wound copper wire around an iron magnet making an electromagnet. This was the basis of the telegraph.

Along came Alexander Graham Bell who believed that the voice as well as dots and dashes could be sent along wires. Out of that theory came the telephone. What a magic moment that must have been. People who had been separated by miles could now have the pleasure of hearing a voice they had longed to hear.

The first telephone was a clumsy device. It had no receivers, only the mouthpiece. It was necessary to speak into the mouthpiece, then quickly hold it to your ear to listen for a reply.

We've come a long way on that original design. There are all sorts of phones to choose from now but the question remains — if the original intent was to hear the other person's voice immediately, not later when you make a call, has Bell's purpose been defeated by the answering machine?

Writer focuses on kids, moving

"Not again!"

That was the response from a child who was asked about the first thoughts or feelings he had when told that he would be moving.

Nancy Ervin, a former resident of Grosse Pointe and a child relocation specialist, has published a booklet titled, "KIDS 'On the Move.'"

The booklet is designed to aid parents in dealing with the emotional problems often faced by young people, kindergarten through college age, when faced with relocating.

Ervin says that the average American family moves every five to seven years, and the average child will move once or twice before leaving home.

Faced with the prospects of having to attend a new school, make new friends and join new clubs, teams and organizations, children often face stress and other emotional problems.

Ervin interviewed young people from 27 states and seven countries in developing her booklet. Many of their observations and thoughts about moving are contained in the booklet, along with suggestions on how to deal with them.

Ervin is a mother of six children, both adopted and born to her and her husband. She has been a foster mother to emotionally impaired children, a high school teacher, president of a small publishing firm, and a licensed real estate salesperson.

Ervin is available for seminars and workshops with parents, relocation specialists and real estate salespeople.

For a copy of the booklet or to contact Ervin, write Conquest Corp., P.O. Box 1090, Birmingham, Mich. 48102, or call toll-free 1-800-922-6629.

Beating diabetes

Four residents who belong to the Friends of Mercy, a fundraising arm of Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital, recently met to discuss plans for a dinner Feb. 28 to raise money for diabetes research and education at the hospital. Among those being honored at the dinner is the Honorable G. Mennen Williams, Michigan Supreme Court chief justice and a resident of Grosse Pointe Farms. Meeting at the Grosse Pointe Farms home of Luis Toledo, M.D., Mount Carmel's chief diabetes researcher, and his wife, Marjean, far left in photo, were Scott Saurbier, Doug Allar and Karen Fahle.

Potters show to open

The Michigan Potters' Association ninth annual statewide juried exhibition, Michigan Ceramics '86 will be held Feb. 14 to March 14 at the Detroit Artists market. The Michigan Potters' Association is an organization with 470 members who are involved with the clay medium on a variety of levels and in various capacities. The group's intent is to foster aesthetic excellence and growth, and to regularly share with the public selected examples of the rich ceramic culture of Michigan. Michigan Ceramics '86 will open with a reception for the artists at the Artists market on Friday, Feb. 14, from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Awards totalling $1,900 will be presented by Samuel Sachs II, director of the Detroit Institute of Arts. The $500 first prize was provided by the Arts Foundation of Michigan and additional prize money was donated by Michigan galleries, organizations and ceramic businesses.

Volunteers needed to deliver meals

Housed in Ferry Elementary School on Roslyn Road and Morningside in Grosse Pointe Woods is an essential service for homebound senior citizens.

Each day, Monday through Friday, a hot meal is delivered by volunteers to about 60 Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods seniors.

Meals-at-Home needs more volunteers to deliver as the need is increasing. The time commitment is about 1 1/2 hours each two or three weeks, and the meals are picked up at Ferry School and delivered around 11 a.m.

If you have some time and would like to help our homebound seniors, call 882-9781.

Air travel fraud uncovered . . .

holder had authorized a purchase and found he had not. He turned over his suspicions to the Woods police.

"Based on the description of the person who picked up the tickets I believed it was Marantic," Kwiatkowski said. "I had recently worked with Rohnert Park, Calif., on a similar case involving Marantic."

"We took Marantic's photo around and the travel agent identified him in a photo lineup," Kwiatkowski said.

Detective Schuster then issued a fraud alert to local travel agencies in January.

"We received notification of three similar incidents in Grosse Pointe Woods," Kwiatkowski said. "They recognized the photo and the M.O. from the alert. Schuster and I wondered if the names on the tickets were the actual names of the people he was selling the tickets to. After checking records we located these people, and they identified Marantic as the person who sold them the tickets."

Woods police were able to determine frauds had been perpetrated in St. Clair Shores, Warren, East Detroit, Roseville and Birmingham. The police departments were notified and alerted their travel agents to the scam.

"Earlier this month Detective Robert William of the St. Clair Shores Police Department called us with information that Marantic had placed a telephone order for 10 round-trip tickets to Maui at a St. Clair Shores travel agency," Kwiatkowski said. "We staked out the location and picked him up as he picked up the tickets on Tuesday, Feb. 4."

Marantic was arraigned in St. Clair Shores District Court. The two $50,000 bonds were set then.

Kwiatkowski said Marantic also faces an extradition warrant from Texas and another warrant from California.

"He will be held for the extradition warrant even if he were to post the bond," Kwiatkowski said. "He has been doing this for about two-and-one-half months that we know of for sure," Kwiatkowski alleged.

"There's a lot of people out there who used tickets and are not liable for anything. As I understand it, if the merchants did not require identification or a card, they are liable. If a person presents a stolen card and it is used for a purchase, then, I believe, the card company is liable."

Woods police feel that crimes like this can be curtailed if people make sure to get their carbons, and if they don't take them, the store owners properly destroy them.

"The exploding carbons that are out now which are supposed to prevent such incidents, were pieced together," Kwiatkowski said. "Store owners could also demand identification and the charge plate when people pick up a phone order."

School board rejects standards . . .

main eligible for activities, she said, adding "I don't think I would be interested in going with a C average" as the requirement.

Board Vice President Vincent LoCicero, who with Anderson and board President Jon Gandelot served on a subcommittee studying the matter, said he felt the system's current practice is sufficient.

For athletes who may not be doing well academically, coaches try to work out a personal response to get the students back on track in the classroom.

LoCicero said he felt confident knowing that what the system does now meets the needs of students, the situation bears watching in case things change.

Gandelot and trustee Fred Adams agreed that the district should keep its eye on the situation, but there didn't appear to be a need for change now.

Carol Marr said she had mixed feelings about the institution of academic eligibility requirements, saying on one hand, the system's first duty was education, but certain students, especially those with special needs, may find themselves left out of activities because of their grades. It is something the system needs to keep watching, she added.

"If we have athletes, theater students or class presidents who aren't able to read and write, then we're doing something wrong," she added.

The idea of academic eligibility is not new. At least half the school districts in the state have minimum requirements set for athletic teams that are higher than those set by the Michigan High School Athletic Association, according to that group.

It was MHSAA literature that brought Anderson to raise the eligibility issue. As a new member, he read material and rules the association sends along when it asks districts to renew their membership.

The MHSAA requires an athlete to pass at least four of six classes a semester to be eligible to play. The eligibility used to be passage of three of five courses up until this year.

Other districts in the area, including South Lake for which Anderson works, have standards students have to meet before they can take part in any after-school activity.

Since September, the system has done one study of what effect a minimum grade point average requirement of a pass-all-classes rule would have on athletes.

The October report showed that almost three dozen of the more than 400 students participating in fall sports at the high schools last year would have been declared ineligible because they didn't have a C-average in their final summer semester. Two dozen would have been dropped were the system to require students to pass all classes in which they enrolled.

Also attached to the report was a discussion summary by school principals, athletic directors and the director of secondary curriculum. Administrators agreed the system didn't need more rigorous standards, that athletic directors will continue to watch out for athletes with poor marks to get them help and that the athletic directors will look for a way to recognize those students who attain and maintain high grades.

Anderson told the board he was glad to have had a chance to discuss the matter openly.

Board sets all-day kindergarten tuition

With the Board of Education's setting of tuition, the school system is ready to begin accepting registrants to its all-day kindergarten program for next school year.

The full day program, in its second year, will cost $1,300 a student next year, the same as this year. That's lower than similar programs at private schools but higher than ones offered by parochial schools, according to Dr. Alfrida Frost, director of elementary education.

Enrollment in the program grew from 23 the first year, in 1983-84, to 46 this year. While the classes are being held at Defer and Ferry schools, students come from all elementary school enrollment areas.

One reason for doubling of enrollment is positive reaction parents have to the program, Frost said. Also, opening of registration was changed to catch parents earlier in the year when they are planning where to send their children.

The extended program runs Monday through Friday with beginning and ending hours like other classes in the buildings. The system offers the traditional half-day program, with morning and afternoon sessions when enrollment permits.

The extra half-day in the extended program gives children more time to assimilate the social, emotional, physical and school readiness development of the program, Frost says.

The full-day program is an option, not a directive, she adds, saying that there is nothing in the curriculum of the full-day program not in the half-day program, except for time. And that time can be useful, Frost says.

Slow learners have more time to practice the skills they learn in the half-day program, while children who need more stimulation and individual attention are able to get it.

A December survey of parents with children in the all-day program showed many parents had chosen the option because they felt it would give their child a head-start for the next grade. It was also a way to provide some needed educational stimulus.

Another frequently cited reason was that both parents work, according to the report. As one parent put it, it's "better than watching TV with the sitter." While there are some complaints about the cost, the program is just about paying for itself now, Frost said. If one figures in a building use cost, the program is slightly in the red.

Grosse Pointe's program is still relatively new, but in some districts, like Bloomfield Hills, enrollment in the full-day program exceeds enrollment in half-day kindergarten classes, Frost said.

Elementary school principals should begin getting information out on the all-day option soon. For more information, call your local elementary school or the Department of Elementary Curriculum at 343-2022.

Also going out to parents of 4-year-olds ready to enter school next school year is information on the district's kindergarten readiness program.

The three-program series will open Thursday, Feb. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Monteith Elementary School with speaker Dr. Linda Clinard talking about "Reading Successfully Can Begin Naturally At Home."

Clinard is the parent of three young children, an instructor in reading at Michigan State University, the author of "The Reading Triangle" and a frequent speaker to parent groups.

A panel of experienced kindergarten teachers will present highlights of the curriculum Tuesday, March 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Monteith. On the panel will be Lynda Bachteal, Paula Coppola, Sonya Harris, Henry Pichla, Joyia Sands and Ann Thomas.

Dr. David Elkind, child psychologist and author of "The Hurried Child" and "All Grown Up and No Place to Go," will speak at North High School Monday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. The appearance is co-sponsored by the Substance Abuse Community Council and the school district and is open to all parents.

For the record

The Grosse Pointe South 1976 graduating class will hold its 10-year reunion Saturday, Aug. 30, at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club. The date was incorrectly reported in the Jan. 23 issue.

Millage campaign heats up; vote is March 10

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The campaign toward the March 10 millage vote picked up in tempo and tone this week.

At the Monday night school board meeting, board Vice President Vincent LoCicero read a statement in which the board voiced its support for the millage campaign and encouraged the community to do the same.

Also at the meeting, one of the four co-chairs of the pro-millage Citizens For Continued Excellence committee, Peter Gast, outlined activities of the campaign and opened up against a group expect this week to come out in opposition of the millage renewal, which represents about three-quarters of the system's operating levy.

The group likely to oppose the renewal was to have met yesterday to poll its members. The announcement of what position the Tax Advisory Group will take will be made later, according to chairman Joseph Callahan.

The group's emphasis will be taxes, not politics, he added. The group won't have to file certain articles of organization and campaign finance reports with the county board of election division electors.

Ironically, the Tax Advisory Group was to meet the same day that the Citizens For Continued Excellence slide presentation was to have one of the first of its public showings, at the Lakeshore Optimist Club meeting Wednesday.

Citizens For Continued Excellence began its phone bank operation and identification of frequent voters, Gast said. Defeating the millage as a way to cut taxes is like "going after a bug with a B-52," he added.

Defeating the renewal won't cut taxes, but will send a message to the board that the community lacks confidence in the way it is running the system, he added. Arguments against spending should be made during budget hearings, not millage elections, he said.

The 25.35 mill renewal request represents the maximum voter-approved levy. The board has not levied that full amount, Gast said. The school system is also authorized to levy a maximum 7.65 mills by the county and a rate for payment of bonded debt. Also on the March 10 ballot is a request for renewal of 1.3 mills for the library fund.

Defeat of the millage will certainly mean another millage election, which costs the system about $10,000 to hold, school officials said. It would have to come before the system looks for buyers for its tax anticipation notes in June to fund operations until December, when property taxes start coming in.

Trying to sell tax notes when no assurance exists that the tax will be collected will be next to impossible, even with the system's high bond rating.

In his statement, LoCicero said the expected increase in property values in the school district are higher than originally projected by school officials and should give the board greater flexibility in financing the system's operations.

"The board of education now reaffirms to the taxpayers of the school district that it is our intention to continue to exercise prudent and reasonable responsibility in financing the school system's programs and services," the statement read. It was unanimously approved by the board.

Parents shine at the Star Auction

But the students are pitching in for a stellar fundraiser at Star of the Sea

By Elsa Frohman

Pat Young compares the atmosphere at the Star Auction to being locked in a department store for the night, surrounded by all the goodies you could dream of. "It's a fantasy," she said. "Being surrounded by all these things that you've always wanted. It's definitely a party atmosphere. It's festive and dressy."

The Star Auction is still a new event for the Pointes. This year's Our Lady Star of the Sea High School fundraiser, planned for Saturday, March 8, will be only the second ever held.

"The school has a nice spirit," Young said. "But it's always been very laid back as far as alumni. There have never been many alumni activities. This is still a new thing for us."

Young is this year's general chairman of the Star Auction. She and her husband, John, are working with an executive committee of Don Jensen, consultant (last year's chairman); Barbara and Dick Allor, advisor; Doris and Tom Sullivan, president of the Student-Parent-Teacher Association (STP); Don Sloan, Star of the Sea principal; and Terry Lenhard, STP president-elect.

The evening's activities center on a pair of auctions, a silent auction before dinner and a live auction after dinner. Larry DuMouchelle of DuMouchelle Galleries will be conducting the live auction.

The merchandise to be auctioned has been donated by parents of Star of the Sea students, parishioners and local businesses. It ranges from the mundane to the fantastic.

Some of the items to go on the block include a weed eater, paintings, wine, brandy, household items, the use of a Lake Tahoe condominium for a week, a day of walleye fishing on Lake St. Clair, four Steuben sherry glasses; a new concrete walk or drive, lunch for two on the Star of Detroit, and much more.

"Most items can be purchased at a bargain," Young said. "We raised $30,000 last year, but there was probably $50,000-worth of merchandise auctioned."

STAR
★ AUCTION

One of the featured items up for auction this year is a year's tuition to Star of the Sea. The value is approximately $2,000 and currently, the school is absorbing the cost. However, Young is looking for a sponsor for the tuition item.

"It's a status thing to be the one who got the tuition at the auction," Young said. "It hasn't really gotten started yet, but we're hoping it will catch on."

About 350 people attended last year's highly successful auction. The proceeds went to furnish a student lounge, buy computers for the school computer lab and purchase a copying machine for the school.

The merchandise is collected through a series of parties, one for each class at the school. Each person who attends the party brings an item for the auction. The senior class party was held at the home of Susan and Don King with the help of Pat Couvreur and Mary Gebeck. The junior class party was held at the school, under the direction of Judy Molitor and Eileen Paglia. The sophomore class party was held at the home of Terry and Bob Lenhard with the assistance of Felicia Franco and Catherine Pentis. The freshman class party was held at the home of Estela and Francisco Rodriguez with the assistance of Ann McDonald and Suzanne Seymour.

However, the auction lists are not closed. The group will continue to accept items for auction until Feb. 17, which is the deadline for the catalogue. Items received after Feb. 17 can be included in the auction, but will not be listed in the official auction catalogue.

Tickets for the auction are $20 per person, including a roast beef auction dinner, the catalogue, the two auctions and valet parking. Purchases can be made with Mastercard and Visa.

"Last year, we invited everyone in the parish," Young said. "But we're not exclusive. Anyone can come. The price is reasonable enough that this could become a popular social event. Last year it was a big success. This has got to be the year that cements us in as a winner."

Our Lady Star of the Sea High School is a parochial girls school serving about 240 students. It is located in Grosse Pointe Woods on Fairford Road between Ballantyne and Morningside.

"It's a very laid back environment," Young said. "It's a very nice location, but a lot of people don't know where we are."

About 100 Star of the Sea students will work on the night of the auction. However, student involvement has been a feature of the event from the very first stages. A contest was held to design a logo for the auction. Sophomore Karen Wilder was the winner. She received a $25 gift certificate.

The students will hold their own kickoff program for the auction at school on the morning of Feb. 18.

On the night of the auction, freshmen will be in charge of clean up, sophomores will be setting up, juniors will be doing the bookkeeping and seniors will be serving, acting as runners and spotters and as hostesses.

The committee chairmen for the event include Dianna Mott, acquisitions; Sue and Jack Guillaumin, finance; Arliss Bogenn, program book; Mary Alice O'Toole, auction supper; Mary Devine, invitations and reservations; Lorrie and Paul DeRonne, set up and bar; Margie and Jim Berg, cleanup; Pam Barthel, publicity; Pat Farrar, patrons; Susan Petersmark, visuals; Doris Sullivan, certificates and display.

The deadline for reservations is Feb. 28 and Young urges everyone to get their tickets early. Space is limited.

Members of the executive committee for the Star Auction show off some of the items that will be up for bid at Our Lady Star of the Sea fundraiser. In front are Pat Young, general chairman, and Don Sloan, principal of Star of the Sea. In the back row are Terry Lenhard with a black teddy and Don Jensen with a white teddy.

Woods Boat Club members plan reunion

For the fourth successive year, former members of the Grosse Pointe Woods Boat Club who have retired to Florida are sponsoring an afternoon buffet reunion. This year the gathering will be held on Friday, March 15 at 2 p.m. at the residence of George and Becky Tuttle, 303 S. Pebble Beach Blvd., Sun City Center, Fla. 33570.

Any present or former member of the GPW Boat Club who will be in the area is most welcome to attend. Last years meeting, at the home of Herb and Elsie Gould was attended by approximately 40 people.

A buffet will be provided with the cost to be pro-rated among those attending. Refreshments will be BYOB with mixes furnished. A letter giving further details and a map has been forwarded to the commodore of the GPWBC, and also to P/C Don Bentzen. For further information or reservations contact the Tuttle's at the above address, or phone (813) 634-3871. Sun City Center is located just off I-75 about 20 miles south of Tampa.

Future eagle

Bradford Van Tiem, left, receives the police and fire emergency telephone number decals from Grosse Pointe City Public Safety Officer Al Fincham. Van Tiem, a Life Scout from Troop 96 at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, spent 50 hours planning and implementing the Eagle project in which he and 10 scouts distributed the decals to 2,465 homes in the City. Two years ago, he received a Certificate of Merit from the Boy Scouts of America for dislodging a foreign object from the throat of a choking infant. A freshman at South High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip M. Van Tiem of the Park.

Questers support preservation program at Eastern Michigan University

Windmill Pointe Questers Chapter 385 last week awarded $1,000 to the graduate program in historic preservation of Eastern Michigan University. The money will be used to pay for books for students and the program's reference library.

Chapter President Virginia Kasza passed the check to Dr. Marshall McLennan, director of the master's program in historic preservation, Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 29, in the rare book room of the Grosse Pointe Central Library. "On behalf of the students and faculty of Eastern Michigan University, we are very pleased in your selecting of our program for this," McLennan said.

The Questers chapter began raising funds for the program in 1983, after it studied the graduate program at the university and found it to be the third largest program nationally and deserving of patronage, according to the group.

In the fall of 1983, at the Questers east area luncheon at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club, Kathleen Forster, then Windmill Pointe chapter treasurer and on the EMU study committee, told area Questers about the graduate level program at Eastern. EMU works closely with the Edison Institute at Greenfield Village on field service projects.

The next year, Questers east area coordinator Peggy Ann Brown, in looking for a speaker for the Questers state convention, invited McLennan, a professor of cultural geography and director of the program, to talk to the convention about the various programs under his control.

The Windmill Pointe chapter began accumulating money through silent auctions and voluntary donations and in December, 1984, unanimously voted to award the $1,000 to EMU.

Those interested in more information about the Questers' involvement in the program may contact the east area coordinator by mail at 423 Fisher Road, Grosse Pointe City 48230.

Weddings

Mrs. Gerard Fancovic

Bauhof-Fancovic

Anne Romeyn Bauhof, daughter of Joyce Alef Bauhof of Grosse Pointe and Richard M. Bauhof of West Bloomfield, and Gerard Russel Fancovic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis M. Fancovic of Coleman, Mich., were married Sept. 20 at St. Paul Catholic Church.

The Rev. Hector Saulino celebrated the 6 p.m. nuptial mass. Carol Bauhof of Cleveland, Ohio, aunt of the bride and Andrew Humphrey of Chicago, Ill., friend of the bride, read selected scriptures. Mr. and Mrs. Fancovic presented the sacramental gifts.

The bride wore a silk gown with a fitted bodice featuring a bateau neckline. The pleated skirt cascaded into a chapel train. A crown of iridescent orange blossoms held the full-length veil. She carried a bouquet of roses in white and shell pink, stephanotis and ivy.

The maid of honor was Lisa Bauhof of East Lansing, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids included Michaelanne Dickinson of Clare, Mich. and Sara Funke of Coleman, Mich., nieces of the groom; Lisa Allison of Grosse Pointe; Allison Humphrey of Chicago; and Melissa Uridge of Ann Arbor, friends of the bride. Flower girl was Liza Funke of Coleman, Mich., another niece of the groom.

The attendants' gowns were made by the mother of the bride of mauve tissue taffeta. They carried bouquets of pink carnations, lavender roses, lilac alstromeria, purple statice and baby's breath with streamers of double satin ribbon in rose.

The best man was Joseph Fancovic of Sanford, Mich., brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Paul Bauhof of Detroit, and Mark Bauhof of Ann Arbor, brothers of the bride; Paul Fancovic of Coleman, Mich., brother of the groom; Kevin Gross of Arlington Heights, Ill. and Paul Karr III of Flint, Mich., friends of the groom. Robert Dickinson of Clare, Mich., nephew of the groom, was ring-bearer.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of claret silk with a sweetheart neckline and silk roses accenting the sleeves and full-length skirt. She pinned a cymbidium orchid corsage to her shoulder.

The mother of the groom wore a softly draped gown with a camisole top and short jacket of dubonnet mat jersey. She wore a shoulder corsage of cymbidium orchids.

The ceremony was followed by a reception and dinner at the D.A.C.

The couple flew to Hawaii for two weeks, before returning to reside in Evanston, Ill. Anne is a marketing analyst with the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago. Gerard is an office manager with the Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education. They will be pursuing their graduate degrees.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fleischer

Reinowski-Fleischer

Robin Martha Reinowski, daughter of Charles and Martha Reinowski of Grosse Pointe Farms, and Mark Alan Fleischer, son of Harold and Renee Fleischer of Shaker Heights, Ohio, were married on Oct. 13, at Temple Emanu El in University Heights, Ohio.

Rabbi David M. Weis officiated at the 4:30 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a dinner reception at Lenderhaven Country Club in Mayfield Heights, Ohio.

The bride wore a gown of white chiffon with tucked pleats in the bodice and sleeves. It featured a high, Victorian neckline and Schiffl embroidery trim. The skirt swept into a chapel-length train. She wore a derby hat trimmed with embroidery, silk flowers and pearls. A fingertip-length veil fell from the hat. She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with ivy streamers.

The maid of honor was Jan Rose Corwin, friend of the bride, Chicago. The bridesmaid was Karen M. Reiner, sister of the bride, Grosse Pointe Farms. They wore long gowns with draped bodices and self-sashes. They wore satin Juliet caps with veiling puffs and carried cascade bouquets on Sonia roses, freesia and ivy streamers.

The best man was Dr. Alan Arthur Weiss, friend of the groom, Shaker Heights. The usher was Lester Anderson Longley, friend of the groom, Chattanooga, Tenn.

The mother of the bride wore a long gown of apricot chiffon with over-panels edged in Swiss embroidery. She carried a purse corsage of Sonia roses and ivy.

The mother of the groom wore a long gown of rose chiffon with a matching chiffon rose at the shoulder. She carried a purse corsage of white roses and ivy.

The couple honeymooned with a trip to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands. They will live in Cleveland, Ohio.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Grosse Pointe South High School. She earned a bachelor of arts in philosophy at the University of Michigan in 1980. She earned her juris doctor degree from Case Western Reserve University in 1984. She is counsel for the Health Systems Agency of North Central Ohio.

The groom is a graduate of Shaker Heights High School. He holds a bachelor of science in political science from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a juris doctor degree from Cleveland Marshall College of Law. He is the assistant director of law for the city of Cleveland.

Cantorial soloist for the ceremony was Marc Simon.

Sweet Adelines, Grunyons to give joint concert this month

Enjoy a musical trip with two area musical groups when they combine their voices and talents to produce a great musical sound in Grosse Pointe on Sunday, Feb. 23, at 7 p.m. in the Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church, 17150 Maumee Ave. This program is open to the public.

Both groups, the Eastpointe Sweet Adelines and the Grunyons are well known in this area where they draw enthusiastic praise from all age groups.

The Sweet Adelines are an international singing organization numbering more than 30,000 members. They are found in United States, Canada, England, Sweden, the Netherlands, Japan and Australia.

In this region, 22 groups will compete for Sweet Adeline honors in 1986. It is their 40th year. The winners, both chorus and quartette will go on to international competition in Hawaii.

The Grunyons are a group of professional men who got together in the Detroit area when two Yale men, members of the Whiffenpoofs in their college years, organized here with some musical friends.

They sing for civic functions, in shopping malls at Christmas and in various clubs.

Refreshments will be served.

Tickets are $6 and the donation is tax-deductible. They may be

Widow's to hear DSS speaker

The next meeting of the Widow's Organization is on Wednesday, Feb. 19, starting at 7 p.m. in room 113 of the Henry Ford Centennial Library on Michigan Ave., one block west of Greenfield.

A manager of one of the state offices of the Department of Social Services, Barbara Borden, will talk on what is available for the widowed woman. There will be a question and answer period for any further information.

A speaker from the Wayne County Office on Aging, explaining the Employment Program set-up for persons over 55, Joan DiDia, will talk further about the Job Training Partnership Act, and how widows can have a more productive New Year.

February is Membership Drive Month, and we encourage all area widows to attend one of our meetings, and further our cause to lobby Congress to change laws that are unfair to the widowed woman. For further information, widows can call the organization's office at 582-3792.

Bartev Apartian

Susan Apartian

Ecumenical minister welcomed at Memorial

On the pulpit of the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church on Sunday, Feb. 16, will be the Rev. Bartev A. Apartian from the Armenian Evangelical Church of Christ, Aleppo, Syria. Apartian with his wife, Susan, will spend six weeks at Memorial Church serving as the 1986 ecumenical minister. He will be the 16th ecumenical minister to serve at Memorial, a program started in 1971 by the Rev. Dr. Ray Kiely.

While at Memorial Church, Apartian will preach and also conduct classes during the Middle Hour Adult Education Program. He and his wife will present a program concerning their church's history in the Middle East. He will also be involved with many church and community programs.

At the Lenten Dinner on Wednesday, Feb. 26, a Syrian menu will be offered to the Memorial congregation.

Joining with the Grosse Pointers at dinner will be the Rev. Vahan Tootikian, pastor of the Armenian Congregational Church of Southfield. Tootikian, who was a seminary classmate of Apartian, will bring a number of his parishioners with him to share the Syrian dinner.

Other community appearances by Apartian will be at the Grosse Pointe Rotary, Presbyterian Village and the Presbytery of Detroit. He will offer the invocation at the Economic Club of Detroit.

Apartian is a 1966 graduate of the American University of Beirut. He received his bachelor's degree in Christian education from the Near East Theological School and was ordained by the Armenian Evangelical Churches in 1971.

He has served his church in Aleppo, Syria since 1969. He has taken part in several international church conferences, Singapore in 1972, with Dr. Billy Graham's World Congress in 1974 and the Armenian Conference at Ottawa, Canada in 1982. He studied at the McCormick Seminary in 1982.

Apartian married Susan in Beirut in 1967. They have two daughters, Shoghag and Houry Dora, and a son, Dibar Assadour.

Susan Apartian will be the guest speaker at the Women's Association luncheon on March 18.

On Saturday, March 1, the Grosse Pointe Jaycees will host its Art Exhibit and Auction at the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, 655 Cook Rd., Grosse Pointe Woods.

Beginning at 7 p.m., attendees will have an opportunity to enjoy hors d'oeuvres, wine and punch, or a cash bar during an hour's preview of the articles to be auctioned.

The auction itself will begin at 8 p.m., with the works of established artists, such as Rockwell, Neiman, Miro, Dali, Delacroix and Boulanger, as well as original works in the oil, etching, litho, and sculpture media to be offered.

For a $25 donation per couple or $15 per person, participants in this auction can take advantage of valet parking, eligibility for a piece of artwork as a door prize, and the opportunity to participate in a 50/50 raffle. Proceeds from the auction will benefit the Foundation for Exceptional Children of Grosse Pointe.

The coordinator for the auction is the Fred Grossman Gallery of Franklin, Mich. For additional information or for tickets, please contact Jean Wenn, Grosse Pointe Jaycee chapter president, at 885-4008 evenings or at the Jaycees' mailing address of P.O. Box 36124, Grosse Pointe, 48236.

Inga Markmiller

Kathie Sullivan

Woods Presbyterian to present Christian music concerts

The Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church will present a series of Sunday evening concerts featuring Christian artists on four successive evenings in March. The concerts will be held at 7 p.m. on March 2, 9, 16 and 23.

The first evening of music, March 2, will feature John Innes and Homer James, organist and tenor soloist for Billy Graham. James is the nephew of George Beverly Shea. The pair have appeared in many of Graham's crusades.

On March 9, Inga Markmiller, winner of the Angel Award for the outstanding female Christian singer of 1984, will appear at the church. She has appeared at Carnegie Hall, the Hollywood Bowl and with the Roger Wagner Chorale as a guest soloist.

The Max Davey Singers, one of Detroit's finest choral groups, will be featured on March 16. They will present the award-winning "There is Nothing Like a Good Old-Fashioned Hymn." Detroit's own John Delmonique will be the narrator for the program.

On Palm Sunday evening, March 23, Kathie Sullivan, who was for many years a featured soloist on the Lawrence Welk Show, will be performing.

The concerts are open to the public and the Rev. Dr. Irving R. Phillips, senior pastor at Wood Presbyterian, invites the community to attend. There will be no charge for the programs, but a free-will offering will be taken.

Computer class offered at OU

For those needing to expand their knowledge of operating personal computers, Oakland University is offering an advanced course, More Experience on the IBM P.C., starting Feb. 22 on campus near Rochester.

Conducted by OU's Division of Continuing Education, the four-session Saturday course is valuable to both home and workplace personal computer users. In an in-depth experience, enrollees will learn the use of DOS commands and test files, detailed BASIC programming, PC-File III (data base management), communications and graphics, and Lotus 1, 2, 3.

Instructor will be Bret Moeller, MBA, Research and Information Specialist at Oakland University.

For information and to register, call the Continuing Education office, 370-3120, 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., weekdays.

February is Camp Fire candy sale month around the area

The annual Camp Fire candy sale, which raises money for the activities of the Detroit Area Council, is scheduled between Feb. 7 and March 3. Camp Fire boys and girls will sell candy in area shopping malls, supermarkets, bowling alleys, and community centers located in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb Livingston counties. Candy will also be sold in selected downtown Detroit buildings on Feb. 14 and 28.

Camp Fire members will sell Almond Roca Buttercrunch and Mint Patties for $2 per package. The proceeds from Camp Fire's candy sale help to underwrite some of the costs of camping activities for youth at Camp Wahana, the 370 acre campground located 50 miles from Detroit which has been owned and operated by the Detroit Area Council since 1926.

Proceeds of the sale also support programming for children and youth from 5 to 17 years who participate in neighborhood Camp Fire Clubs. Volunteer leaders provide adult supervision to youth involved in outdoor skill learning activities and social service projects.

Product sales present a learning opportunity for youth members because they must plan for their group's financial needs, handle money, talk with the public, and work together in a service activity for their own organization. Members are expected to follow careful safety rules such as being supervised by a responsible adult when selling candy, wearing approved Camp Fire identification, having older youth use the buddy system along with adult supervision when selling after dark or outside the immediate neighborhood, and never going inside a house. Camp Fire has found that people in the commu-ity are happy to give support while receiving something of quality in exchange for their money.

Camp Fire, in its 76th year, is supported by funding from United Foundation, by grants from foundations, and private contributions from individuals.

The Grosse Pointe schools with active Camp Fire groups include Maire, Defer, St. Ambrose and St. Clare. All of these girls will be enthusiastically selling candy in the Grosse Pointe area during the month of February and are looking forward to making record breaking sales.

Breakfast is getting cheaper but coffee is getting expensive

The traditional American breakfast should cost consumers less during the coming weeks.

Retail coffee prices for the next week or two may be slightly higher even though they have already increased as much as $1.42 per pound during the last month. Meanwhile, retailers are having difficulty keeping up with consumer demand. Some supermarkets reported selling a three-week supply in one week recently.

This panicky buying by consumers is contributing more to higher prices than the Brazilian drought which has now eased. Anyway, the shortage has been greatly exaggerated. First, recognize that we are not dealing with a current shortage. The widely reported drought in Brazil will cut next year's production only — not this year's. Secondly, this year's world carryover is equal to almost half a year's consumption.

For these reasons, many experts do not expect today's high coffee prices to last. Indeed, prices have been tumbling on both futures and wholesale markets. Look for price fluctuations over the next few months.

It now looks like the cold snap in Florida did minimal damage. Look for more features on frozen orange juice concentrate as marketers try to increase product movement.

Retail egg prices (for Grade A, large) have plateaued in the low 70-cent range. This is nearly 20 cents above the very low prices at this time in '85. Look for prices in the upper 60s during February. The price of bacon, like that for most other red meats, continues to lag behind U.S. Department of Agriculture forecasts. Chain-store meat buyers say there simply is more red meat in the country than demand for it.

As for other non-breakfast items, look for the quality of head lettuce to improve. Fresh asparagus will be coming from California earlier this year. The same is true for strawberries. Michigan red tart cherries and cherry products are likely to be featured this month.

Gucci fashion show to benefit Detroit Symphony Orchestra

The Women's Association for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will present its annual Spring Fashion Show and Luncheon at Fairlane Manor, Dearborn, on Wednesday, March 5. Cocktails will be served at 11 a.m. with the luncheon and fashion show to follow at noon.

This year's fashion show will feature the exciting Gucci collection, produced by internationally-known Madeline deVries of New York.

General Chairman Edye Longyear of Grosse Pointe has assembled a powerhouse committee for this season's fashion extravaganza, including Grosse Pointers Penny Simon, Alice Reisig and Mary Nolan. Committee members from Bloomfield Hills are Sue Nine, Millie Pastor, Hilda Ettenheimer, Mary Ann Nelson, Barbara Diles-Zobl and Mary Lou Bagley of Birmingham. Also on the committee are Lunda Kughn, Inez King and Charlotte Benjamin of Detroit; Maxine Frankford and Marie Fetters of Royal Oak; Ida Krandle of Farmington Hills; Christine Strobos of Franklin and Pat Barlow of Southfield.

Luncheon and fashion show tickets are $25 per person. Reservations must be made by Feb. 21. Patron and benefactor tickets are also available at $50 and $75 and include a special luncheon at the beautiful Franklin home of Susan E. Harold on Wednesday, Feb. 19. Reservations for the patron party are due on Feb. 14.

Call Mary Lou Bagley at 892-1100 for reservations and information.

Church library workshop planned

The Metro Detroit Chapter of the Church and Synagogue Library Association is having its first Workshop on March 12, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. at the Aldersgate United Methodist Church located at 10000 Beech Daly Rd., Redford (1 mile south of the Jeffries Freeway and 1 mile west of Telegraph Rd.

Workshops offered will include: "Book Repair," "Promotion," "Setting Goals," "Securing and Using Volunteers." A book display by the Village Bible Bookshop in Northville as well as a book exchange table is also scheduled.

The cost is $3. Bring a bag lunch; dessert and beverage will be provided. Advance reservations are required. Make check payable to: J. Robert Waggoner — CSLA, Cherry Hill Baptist Church, 1045 N. Guley Road, Dearborn Heights, Mich. 48127. Deadline for reservations is March 5.

For additional information call Helen Bates Peirce, 836-2372 or Gail Waggoner, 278-3689.

This organization was formed to offer fellowship and to provide educational guidance in the establishment and maintenance of library service on an inter-faith basis in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe Counties and include interested persons in neighboring communities and Windsor, Canada.

Docent aides needed at Zoo

The Detroit Zoo is recruiting volunteer docent aides, 14 years and older, with an interest in communicating educational information at our Log Cabin Learning Center to the general public.

Training will be on Saturday mornings beginning April 12 and lasting four weeks. An orientation meeting will be held on March 22 in the Holden Hospital opposite the administration Building at the 10 Mile Road entrance. Appointments for interviews will be set up at that time. If interested call 398-0903, extension 65, 8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. weekdays.

Post-partum support group formed

Classes are now forming for a Post-Partum Support Group — "I A Mother." Discussions include post-partum, its roles, and adjustment to motherhood. These classes are sponsored by Childbirth Information Service, Inc. (CIS), a non-profit organization of northeast metropolitan Detroit. For more information, call the registrar at 263-9460, 885-5969 or 526-4754.

St. Joan of Arc Church

The Rev. James Bjorum from the Tribunal of the Archdiocese of Detroit will speak to members of the St. Joan of Arc congregation on annulments on Feb. 24, at the church at 7 p.m. To make reservations, contact St. Joan of Arc Church at 777-3670. For questions concerning the church's Separated and Divorced Group, contact Joanne at 774-3131.

St. Margaret of Scotland

St. Margaret of Scotland Parish in St. Clair Shores will be offering a "Youth Convention" for all teens on Sunday, March 16, from 3:30 to 8:30 p.m. The day will consist of a key note speaker, Mike Moseley — the Youth Services Coordinator from CYO — and two other sessions. Teens may select these two sessions from six different topics: "Sex Respect — Dealing with Teenage Sexuality," "Teenage Suicide and Depression," "Drinking and Driving," "Rock Music and Me," "Positive Peer Influence," and "Making the Right Decision."

St. Margaret Parish is located on 13 Mile between Gratiot and Harper. The fee for the Convention is $5, which includes dinner. Please register by March 9. If you would like to know more, call Paul Lipard at 293-3280.

Grand Marais Questers

On Feb. 14 the Grand Marais Quester Chapter members will hear two of their members give mini-talks on "Louis Comfort Tiffany — His Life and Works" and on "The Art of Scrimshaw." They will meet at the home of Helen Fisher of Merriweather Rd.

Betts Stuart will relate that Louis Comfort Tiffany is best remembered as a highly skillful and original maker of beautiful opalescent glass. He was a painter in oils and watercolors; an architect and decorator. But his prominent place in history was that he was known as the foremost American representative of Art Nouveau, which greatly influenced the tastes of his time.

Scrimshaw, as researched by Mary Lou Boresch, was created by sailors on whaling ships around the 1800s. To help pass time on board ship, men took the teeth and the roof of the mouth of whales and carved scenes and figures of great detail and beauty. These were placed on boxes of cedar or plaques and given just to their loved-ones. This art was not commercialized until many years later.

Grosse Pointe Woman's Club

Members and guests will gather Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 12:30 p.m. to honor present and past presidents of the Grosse Pointe Woman's Club and those of the Federation of Woman's Clubs of Metropolitan Detroit.

Camille Duffy, vice-president and program chairman, will introduce the guest speaker, George Fullerton, who will take us back into time via vintage post cards.

Fullerton has been a member of the Michigan Railroad Club for 47 years and the Historical Steamship Society of America for nearly 40 years. He is also a member of the St. Clair Shores Players and a very active member of the Cinema League of Grosse Pointe.

Social Chairman Lucy Chielens will use a presidential theme for the tea table. Dorothy Chauvin and Dorothy Jones will serve as hostesses. Assisting them on their committee are: Regina Lesinski, Marion Skillman, Marguerite Urso and Dorothy Waite. Past Presidents who will pour are: Adair Alexander, Avis Beemer, Winnifred Murphy and Lillian Whims.

Members planning to invite guests are requested to make reservations by contacting hospitality chairman Marjorie Taube no later than Feb. 15.

Colony Town Club

The traditional Valentine's luncheon for Colony Town Club members and their guests will be held this year on Thursday, Feb. 13, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

In addition to the social hour and luncheon, the members will enjoy a fashion show by "Pointe Fashions." Members of Colony will be the models. Afterward tables and cards will be available for those who wish to play.

This is the first luncheon of the new year and will surely be bright and festive in keeping with the valentine theme.

Mrs. Bruce Bockstanz, chairman of this affair, and her committee are looking forward to greeting our members.

Pointe Book Club

The February meeting of the Pointe Book Club will be held Monday, Feb. 17 at the home of Mrs. Bernard Whitley. The co-hostesses will be Mrs. Robert Palmer and Mrs. Frederick Schumann. Following the luncheon, Mrs. Wilber Brucker Jr. will present her book review.

Grosse Pointe Singles

Sue Worthmann, psychic, will be the featured speaker on Friday, Feb. 14, at 7:30 p.m., Valentines Day, when the Grosse Pointe Singles Group convenes in the Lakeshore Room of the Grosse Pointe Academy, 171 Lakeshore Rd., Grosse Pointe Farms. Topic: "Psychic and You — and Your Love Life."

An Afterglow Dance, immediately following the meeting, will be held at the Golden Lion, 22380 Moross Rd. at 9:30 p.m. The music of Doug Di Maria will be featured. Psychic readings will be available at the afterglow.

Saturday evening, Feb. 15, at 8:30 p.m., Jefferson Yacht Club, 24505 E. Jefferson, St. Clair Shores, will be the location for the groups' newly introduced "Saturday Night Dancing Party," open to all singles with dates or without. Dance mixers and munchies.

Sunday, Feb. 16 and 23 at 4 p.m., GPS plans Sunday afternoon Dance Parties at Za Paul's (formerly the Wellington) 18450 Mack Avenue, Grosse Pointe Farms. Live music — hors d'oeuvres.

On Friday, Feb. 21, the featured speaker will be Marcia Biggs, Detroit News feature writer and singles calendar columnist. Subject: "The Dating Game."

Any single person, 35 and up, is invited to attend the weekly functions of GPS. For information, call 882-0316 or 445-1286, GPS hotline.

Book Review Group

The Book Review Group of the Women's Association of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, will meet Tuesday, Feb. 18 at 1 p.m. in the church lounge. Marion Wilson will review "Julie," the last book written by the late Catherine Marshall.

Luncheon will be served at noon in fellowship hall preceding the review. Reservations for the luncheon are requested and can be made by calling the church office at 882-5330. Visitors are cordially invited.

Occupational Health Nurses

The Detroit Association of Occupational Health Nurses will hold its monthly dinner meeting on Thursday, Feb. 20, at 6 p.m. at Club Venetian, 29310 John R., Madison Heights, Michigan. Lynn M. Bobel, R.N.C., M.S.N., will speak on the topic "Nursing Diagnosis Overview."

Reservations may be made by contacting Jane Darrow, R.N., before Feb. 17, at 575-0170.

Pettipointe Questers

Members of Pettipointe Questers, Chapter 243, held its February meeting at the Chandler Park Drive home of Mrs. Frank Longo, who also acted as hostess. After luncheon a short business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Ralph Bleich, president. Mrs. Hein Rusen, program chairman, informed members of up-coming events for future meetings. She then turned the program over to Mrs. George Bay, a member of Grosse Pointe Questers, Chapter 147. Mrs. Bay presented a very interesting and factual talk on "Understanding Your Chinese Treasures." Members brought many Chinese artifacts to show and discuss.

Anorexia Support Group

The Family Support Group for Anorexia Nervosa, at Cottage Hospital, will now meet only once a month, the third Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. The next meeting will be Wednesday, March 19.

Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe is planning a surprise evening this month for its members. David Thoms, program chairman, would only reveal that the "Mystery Trip," which will include dinner, will start at the War Memorial at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 26. It is limited to 40 people. Don't miss the fun and hurry your reservations to Odette Sfire, 885-4313.

If you wish to become a member of the Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe and attend its various social and cultural activities, please call membership chairman Jean Van Bever at 881-7985.

Grosse Pointe Questers

On Friday, Feb. 14, at 10 a.m., Grosse Pointe Questers 147 will meet at the home of Elsie Mac Kethan of Touraine Road for a program on "Regional Architecture — the Houses of Charleston and Savannah."

Chapter member Pat Martin will, through a slide presentation, discuss how and why the houses developed as they did in the early 19th century. Settlers used local building materials to recreate the designs they were familiar with, adjusting them to local climates. The slides will show typical and unusual houses in both cities.

Barbara Crane and Mabel Van Dagens will co-host the luncheon.

Grosse Pointe Camera Club

The Grosse Pointe Camera Club will meet on Tuesday, Feb. 18, at 7:30 p.m. at Brownell Middle School for prints and slides for competition. Prints may be black and white and color. Slides may be either in the nature of the pictorial category. Visitors are welcome. For more information, call 881-8034.

Grosse Pointe Barbershoppers

At its annual Ladies' Night dinner held last Saturday at the Lakeland Manor, Grosse Pointe chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., made its Barbershopper of the Year Award to Sylvester (Sully) Mazur, past president and a 10-year member of the chapter.

The Grosse Pointe chapter is one of the largest in the Pioneer (Michigan and Windsor) district, numbering approximately 85 members from the Grosse Pointes, St. Clair Shores, East Detroit and surrounding area. Its activities include attendance at semi-annual district conventions, an annual two-night show, this year at Grosse Pointe North High School April 4 and 5, participation in numerous civic and social singing performances (quartets and chorus) and various other activities.

Five Pointes Garden Club

The Five Pointes Garden Club will meet on Feb. 17 for "Bring a Guest Day." The meeting will be at 12:30 p.m. at the home of Sally Seaton on Perrien Place. The program will be conducted by Betty and Alvin Smith on "How to Attract Birds to Your Garden."

Look of love

AARP

The regular monthly meeting of Chapter #2151 of the American Association of Retired Persons will be held at 1 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 24, at the Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

Our speaker will be Dr. Ned I. Chalot. His subject is "Psychological Aspects of Deafness — Beethoven and Goya." Newcomers are welcome.

Plans are underway for the annual luncheon and meeting which will be held on Tuesday, May 20, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Deeplands Garden Club

An exciting Easter workshop was planned for members on Feb. 10, at noon, at the home of president Mrs. Gerald Penkszik, 259 McKinley Avenue. Mrs. David Wehmeyer served as co-hostess.

Club information wanted

In editing this section, I often find that I would like to contact a club or organization and find that I don't know who the contact person is or how to reach that person. Most of you publicity chairmen have been very good about including a contact number on your news releases, but if you haven't turned anything in this week, and I'd still like to get in touch with you — I'm often left wondering who to contact.

To help me stay in better touch with you — I'd like to put together a directory of club and organization contact people. This information will not be published — so don't worry about your address and phone number becoming public information. I'd just like to have the information so if I suddenly decide that this week I'd like to do a feature on your club, I'll be able to reach someone.

If you'd like to have your club listed in my directory, please fill out the form below and return it to: Elsa Frohman, Features Editor, The Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., 48236.

Wine at heart of many traditions

By Mary C. Combs
Smithsonian News Service

In the millennia since a human first tasted fermented grapes and found them delectable, a complex heritage of imagery, symbolism and tradition, both sacred and profane, has accumulated around the fruit of the vine. Along the way, the grape has enriched the vocabulary of artists working in every medium, from terra cotta and textiles to stained glass and plastic.

"The vine and wine have been a presence in nearly all of the arts, from architecture to decorative arts and industrial design," says David McFadden, curator of decorative arts at the Smithsonian Institution's Cooper-Hewitt Museum in New York City. "The design of wine-related objects and implements reflects both continuity and change in our cultures."

A recent Cooper-Hewitt exhibition and book, "Wine: Celebration and Ceremony," explored the many ways in which the image of "wine that maketh glad the heart of man" (Psalms 104:15) has served to delight his eye as well.

From ancient times, wine has been a potent metaphor, associated with the sacramental, the frivolous and the sinister. A divine gift that made a man feel like a god — or a beast — it embodied inspiration, fertility, vice, madness, sacrifice and, since the brutally pruned grapevine surges with growth in the spring, resurrection.

Artists have long delighted in portraying the details of viticulture. Homer describes Achilles' shield, decorated with a vineyard at harvest time. Medieval calendars are full of scenes of seasonal winemaking tasks. Grape and vine design motives lend beauty to decorative titles from ancient Egypt and to 19th-century wallpaper by English designer William Morris.

The fall of Rome and the rise of the Christian church consigned the pagan gods of wine, Dionysus of the Greeks and Bacchus of the Romans, to oblivion. But the parables, miracles and wine-related imagery of the New Testament, culminating in the Last Supper, insured the importance of wine and grape in Christian iconography.

In medieval times, the Old Testament provided artists with plenty of material: Noah drunk in his tent; Moses' spies returning from Canaan laden with a huge cluster of grapes. These images endured, as did Revelations' powerful image of Armageddon as a harvest of grapes into the winepress of God's wrath.

The Renaissance revived the classical wine gods, but their significance was now intellectual and aesthetic. "Once a symbol has lost its power, it may return to live a long and healthy life as a pattern," art historian Dora Janson points out. So it was with the ancient deities. No longer awe-inspiring, Bacchus "was destined to become the ornamental finial on an elegant porcelain wine barrel."

Nowhere was this accumulating imagery more lavishly used than in design for the service of wine, for the wealthy and elite of every century have made the vessels in which wine is served, and the style in which it is presented, a matter of pomp and circumstance, not to mention pomposity.

Until recently, wine was transferred from a clay jar or wooded barrel to another vessel for presentation, usually with considerable ceremony and no expense spared. Egyptians decked amphorae with floral wreaths. In the Middle Ages, when guests shared their drinking vessels of exotic ostrich eggs, agate or horn of "unicorn," servants considered it an honor to pour the wine from elaborate flagons and ewers. "The proud aloofness of many a present-day wine steward is a dim reminder of the role," McFadden says.

Generations of artisans exercised wit and ingenuity in devising such amusing or practical forms as a 17th-century decanter designed to gurgle when poured or an 18th-century carafe with a "kick" or dent in the side to hold ice to cool but not dilute the contents.

Good hosts have always been preoccupied with serving wine at the right temperature. Wine coolers — basins of chilling wine in water — reached their zenith in the 18th century, when silversmiths provided their aristocratic clients with magnificent pieces the size of small bathtubs. The modern champagne bucket is their modest descendant.

A "symphony of variations," McFadden says, has been played on the cup, from silver-mounted horns and shells, animal-shaped rhytons, ceramic lotus flowers and silver beakers to crystal goblets, simulated shoes and the disposable plastic wineglass. The communal cup has been lavished with special attention, whether it serves a sacrament, as in the Jewish kiddush or the Christian Eucharist, or good fellowship, as in the various vessels designed for toasts and drinking games. The two-handed ceremonial "loving" cups so popular in the 18th century are the ancestors of today's sports trophies.

A stitch in time

The Grosse Pointe Alumnae Association of Delta Gamma Sorority, whose philanthropy includes aid to the blind this year, volunteered their time and talents to making testing quilts and game boards for the Greater Detroit Society for the Visually Impaired students at the Marquette School in Detroit. Pictured are some of the members of the construction committee hard at work. Seated are Priscilla Martysz, Jane Schneider, Marge Peabody and Phyllis Osler; standing, Ann Seeley, Lucy Seeley, Melissa Maghielse and Ann Baxter.

Theatre Arts presents 'One Love Had Mary'

A Valentines Day performance on Friday, Feb. 14, will be the second offering of the Theatre Arts Club in its 75th anniversary year. Mary Belanger is directing "One Love Had Mary," a one-act play about Mary Todd before she married Abe Lincoln.

The cast includes Karen Quarnstrom, Sally Schueler, Barbara Strowger, Donna Ridella, Monica Locke, Maria Erickson and Rosalie Vortriede holding script. Two short intervals before intermission will showcase the talents of two scholarship recipients for 1986-86, Laura Hagle and Cynthia Knoblock, who will collaborate on a short skit from "Couple of White Chicks Sitting Around Talking." Knoblock and Vicki Schmitt will dance the Charleston.

After the intermission, the Choraliers will sing under the direction of Margaret Lindner. Then the recognition scene from "Anastasia," will be performed by Kathy Billotti, Armita Mary Volkens and Marge Locke. The scene will be directed by Sharon Conti and Maggie Johnson will hold script.

After the performance, the audience is invited to tea in the directors room of the Players Playhouse, where the committee of Yolanda Twiner and Kathy Phillips under the direction of Marilyn Domzalski will offer Valentine surprises.

Members of the production team helping to put on this program were: co-producers Rita Stormes and Lucille Grenzke; Ruth Doll, lighting; Mary Ruffner, properties; Ruth Wrock, stage set; Mary Krueger, Nadine Seeber, Betty Kackley, Gay Healy, costumes; Sharon Conti, Shirley Worthman, makeup.

Tuesday and Thursday rehearsal hostesses are Jane Warren, Audrey Ruby, Mary Willingham, Barbara Genord, Camilla Duffy, Marge Phillips, Rosalie Menzies, Elly Burdeson, Paula Galvin. Ushers in the lobby will be Gail Weber, Dorothy Vermeulen and Charity Sucek.

SAT preparation workshop offered

Registrations are being taken now for the three-session S.A.T. (Scholastic Aptitude Test) preparation workshops, conducted by Oakland University's Division of Continuing Education, starting Saturday, Feb. 22, on campus near Rochester.

In preparation for the March 15 S.A.T. exam, Saturday workshops will be held Feb. 22 and March 1 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with an hour lunch break, and on March 8 from 9 a.m. to noon.

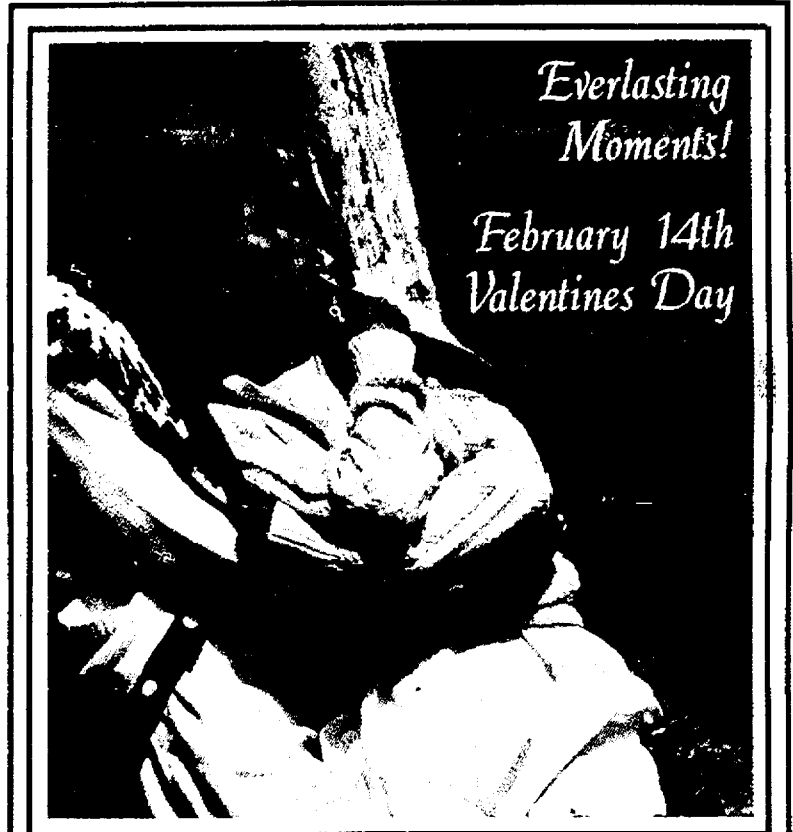

Qualified instructors will focus on the best approach to test-taking for successful results. They will analyze the mathematics section of the exam and explain reading comprehension, sentence completion, analogues and anonym sections. Tuition is $75. The course may be repeated at no charge.

For information and to register, call the Continuing Education office, 370-3120, between 8 a.m. and 8 p.m., weekdays.

Lawyers Auxiliary

TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES OF ERA

Yes, Tappan and Associates, Realtors have joined forces with Electronic Realty Associates, Inc., or ERA® REAL ESTATE and we want you to know why!

*It's because of exclusive programs like the ones listed below. They're just six of the many reasons our ERA affiliation benefits you when you buy or sell.

1. TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES  EXCLUSIVE ERA BUYER/SELLER PROTECTION PLAN

"ERA Protects you from unexpected major repair bills!"
 The ERA Buyer/Seller Protection Plan protects you as the seller from 2 weeks after you list your home until the day of sale or for a maximum of 165 days. It also protects you as a buyer for up to one full year after the date of closing. It removes the biggest fear of most home buyers -- that you'll be hit with a costly repair bill and when they've already stretched their budget to buy and move into a new home.
 What's covered? All major mechanical systems including heating and air conditioning, plumbing and electric, and most included appliances to name just a few. What makes ERA's plan different? It covers up to 100% of the full replacement value of a covered item that cannot be repaired. The only thing the seller or buyer would pay would be the $100 deductible. Since 1973 ERA has protected sales and buyers from the unexpected by paying out over 20 million dollars in claims.

2. TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES  "IF WE DON'T SELL YOUR HOME, WE'LL BUY IT"

"With the exclusive ERA Sellers Security Plan!"
 That's the promise of ERA Sellers Security Plan. The Sellers Security Plan is a combination equity advanced guaranteed sales program that gives you the maximum flexibility to make a move with the Sellers Security Plan. ERA can advance you up to $100,000 in equity on your old home to use as a down payment on a new house.
 And, if ERA doesn't sell your home within 210 days, they'll buy it at a price agreed upon by you, the seller. No longer do you have to sell your old home before buying a new one. And you don't have to worry about a long string of double house payments. Because ERA puts an end to those worries -- the Sellers Security Plan will get you moving.
 *Some limitations and conditions apply. See your participating ERA Real Estate Specialist to review the Sellers Security Plan contract.

3. TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES  EXCLUSIVE ERA MOVING MACHINE

"We have a way to show your home coast to coast in minutes!"
 The ERA Moving Machine is the only computerized national referral system that can show your home to the 40% of home buyers who come from out of town.
 In just minutes, potential buyers in any of our 3,000 offices nationwide can see a photograph and description of your home. It's like having a national multi-list -- and only ERA has this system. It's just another way your ERA Real Estate Specialist can take the worry out of selling a home.

4. TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES  ERA MORTGAGE SERVICES

"You're worth more House now!"
 Introducing affordable ERA® Mortgages. They're the custom-tailored home loans from ERA Mortgage Services that fit your lifestyle -- especially your budget. Since eligibility is based on your ability to make a lower-than-usual monthly payment, you can now qualify for more house on the same income. In fact, you can even set your own limit on payments!
 Plus, ERA Mortgages have very competitive interest rates, thanks to the same financial muscle and nationwide resources that ERA Real Estate puts to work to find the house of your dreams.
 ERA loans are fast and convenient. There's no juggling schedules to match bank hours, no dealing with a stranger. You just come back to the ERA office and apply for your loan there. You work with someone who knows you, someone interested in seeing your loan go through without delay.

5. TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES  ERA NATIONWIDE REFERRAL NETWORK

"Consistent service nationwide, wherever you might move!"
 Transferred? Moving South... or North? No matter where your new location might be, Tappan and Associates of ERA can help you find your new home with the least amount of time and worry. We've joined forces with over 3,000 quality, member brokers, from Maine to California, from North Dakota to Florida, who will provide you with the same professional service that Tappan has provided the Grosse Pointe Community for over 40 years.
 Combine this with the ERA Moving Machine and you'll be receiving the best service in the industry.

6. TAPPAN AND ASSOCIATES  ERA'S AGENT TRAINING PROGRAM

"For the best service, pick the best agent."
 Now, as ERA members, our sales agent have available to them continuing education courses that keep our skills sharp and up to date. Courses on marketing, local housing trends, and the latest financing plans all geared to help sell your home fast, and for the best price.
 Our goal has always been to give the best possible service to our clients. We feel that with better trained sales agents we can deliver the products and services that the public demands and that this will give you a complete edge in the marketplace.

With Homeric you get that hometown feeling . . . fast.

Everyone is concerned about relocation. Leaving a familiar hometown and finding a new one can create considerable worry and anxiety for a family.

Relocation doesn't just mean finding the right home.

It means finding:

- the right community
- the right neighborhood
- the right schools
- the right price . . . and so much more.

But most important is how quickly you and your family sense that comfortable hometown feeling.

Homerica can make a big difference

Our family relocation counseling services are available through Homerica offices and National Relocation Centers in major metropolitan areas. You'll also find Homerica's help in smaller cities and towns across the nation.

As soon as you get in touch with us, you'll hear from one of our Relocation Counselors. All Homerica Relocation Counselors have been selected for their extremely high standards . . . standards that have been refined over more than 25 years. That's why Homerica truly is "the first name in family relocation."

Banish the blahs with a festive meal

In the depths of February, when the arrival of spring seems beyond hope, a festive dinner is one of the best cures for cabin fever.

The following menu and recipes come from the budget-wise, low-calorie, low cholesterol kitchens of Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth.

MENU

- Chilled Strawberry Soup
- Caesar Salad
- Gourmet Beef Tenderloin
- Paprika Baked Potatoes
- Roquefort Asparagus
- Spiced Pumpkin Melange
- Mushrooms Madeira
- Elegant Feather-Light Rolls
- Apricot Souffle

Chilled Strawberry Soup
The perfect beginning of a dinner party.

- 1 quart strawberries, rinsed and drained
- 1/2 cup apple juice
- 3 Tbsp. honey
- 1 cup evaporated skimmed milk
- 1/4 cup Strawberry liqueur
- Sugar to taste

Select four perfect strawberries to be cut in half for garnish.

Puree remaining strawberries in a food processor or blender with apple juice. Add honey, evaporated skimmed milk, liqueur and sugar if necessary. Mix well and chill. Serve very cold garnished with 1/2 perfect strawberry garnishing each serving. Makes eight servings.

Calories about 111 per serving. Cholesterol 0.

Caesar Salad

- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 3 to 5 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 1 large egg
- 3 flat anchovy fillets
- Dash of fresh ground pepper
- 1/2 tsp. finely minced garlic
- 1/4 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 2 quarts torn romaine lettuce leaves
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

In a small bowl whisk oil, three tablespoons of the lemon juice, the egg, anchovies, pepper, garlic and Worcestershire sauce until well blended. In large salad bowl toss lettuce with cheese. Pour on dressing and toss well. Taste and, if desired add remaining two tablespoons lemon juice. Serve immediately to four.

Calories per serving about 193. Cholesterol about 84 mgs.

Gourmet Beef Tenderloin

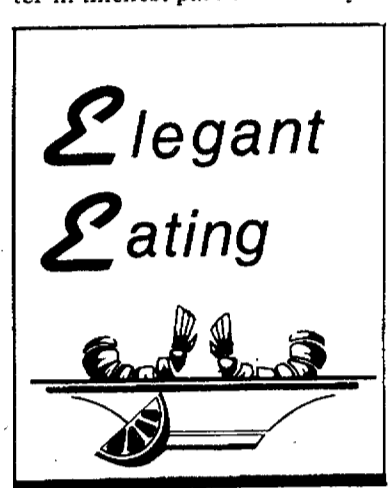

- 1 Beef Tenderloin, 5 pounds
- 1 pkg. herb salad dressing
- Strip of suet
- 1/4 cup salad oil
- Watercress and kumquat for garnish (optional)

Remove the butcher's fancy bows and French knots if your butcher has tied it up, but save the strip of suet. (Be sure to ask for some suet if not included with the tenderloin.)

Blend oil and herb salad dressing — let the meat soak or marinate in this for several hours to take on flavor. Turn it over now and then so the seasonings soak in evenly. This can be done in the afternoon.

About 45 minutes before serving time, pre-heat broiler. When ready to cook, place fillet on rack over the broiling pan and put in lowest part of broiler — about 10 inches or so from heat (use meat thermometer in thickest part of meat if you desire exact control). Broil for 15 minutes, turning three times and basting with the seasoned oil you marinated it in. Lay the piece of suet over the beef and broil another 10 minutes. At this point is should be just right — rare in the center and delicately crisp on the edges (rare 140 degrees, medium 160 degrees, well done 17 degrees). Remove fat and carve, catching any rosy juice for the platter. Garnish with watercress and kumquats.

This should serve six.

Paprika Stuffed Potatoes

- 2 large baking potatoes
- 2 Tbsp. margarine
- 1/4 cup skim milk
- Pepper and paprika

Scrub potatoes with a brush. Puncture skins with fork allowing steam to escape during baking. Bake in a hot oven - 400 degrees - for 45 to 60 minutes. Halve the potatoes lengthwise. Without breaking the skins, scoop out potato; whip until fluffy with margarine, milk and pepper. Pile lightly into shells. Sprinkle with paprika. Return to oven and heat until slightly browned. Makes four servings.

Calories per serving about 130. Cholesterol 0.

Roquefort Asparagus

A great favorite, especially of the men.

- 1 pound fresh asparagus
- 5 Tbsp. unsalted margarine
- 3 Tbsp. white wine vinegar
- 3 1/2 Tbsp. Roquefort cheese

Steam the asparagus spears. Meanwhile, heat the margarine until it melts; add the vinegar and crumbled Roquefort cheese. Stir constantly until cheese is thoroughly melted. Serve warm sauce over the hot asparagus. Makes four servings.

Calories about 185 per serving. Cholesterol about 10 mgs.

Spicy Pumpkin Melange

This dish is especially good when served with roast poultry or beef. Prepare it ahead of time and heat it in microwave oven just before serving.

- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 1/2 tsp. curry powder
- 1/8 tsp. salt
- 2 Tbsp. margarine
- 2 cups mashed or canned pumpkin

In medium skillet saute onion, pepper, garlic, curry powder and salt in margarine until vegetables are tender. Stir in pumpkin. Simmer gently, stirring occasionally, five minutes or until heated through. Makes four servings.

Calories about 110 per serving. Cholesterol 0.

Mushrooms Madeira

- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 pound fresh mushrooms, washed, dried and sliced
- 2 to 3 Tbsp. Madeira wine*
- Pinch of pepper

Heat a large, heavy skillet over moderately high heat until quite hot, sprinkle skillet with salt, add mushrooms and stir-fry two to three minutes, until golden. Stir constantly to keep mushrooms from burning. Add wine and pepper, turn heat to low and cook one minute. Makes four servings.

*Beef consomme may be substituted for the wine.

Elegant Feather-Light Refrigerator Rolls

- 1 cake compressed yeast
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 2 large eggs, well beaten
- 2 cups lukewarm water
- 4 Tbsp. unsalted margarine, melted
- 8 cups all-purpose flour, measured and then sifted

Crumble yeast in large bowl. Add sugar, salt and water. Beat for two minutes. Add the eggs which have been beaten until light and lemon colored and the melted margarine. Beat only long enough to thoroughly blend. Gradually add the flour, beating until it becomes too stiff. Then with wooden spoon stir in most of the remaining flour.

Flour a board and knead in the last of the flour until the dough is very smooth. Place dough in greased bowl, turning dough ball so it is greased all over. Cover and refrigerate.

Remove dough from refrigerator and knead a few times. Then pinch off sufficient dough for baking. On floured board roll dough to about 3/4-inch thickness. Using a 2-inch cookie or biscuit cutter, cut dough into circles, place a very small piece of margarine in center of circle and fold in half. Place in lightly greased 8x8x2-inch pan. Brush the rolls in pan lightly with melted margarine. Place in warm place to rise for about two hours. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in preheated 400-degree oven. Remove and serve. Makes about five to six dozen.

Calories about 2,322 for total recipe. Cholesterol about 8 to 10 mgs. per roll according to size. Calories about 35 for each of 66 rolls.

Apricot Souffle

A truly sensational dessert that has everything going for it. Light and airy, spectacular enough to astound your most sophisticated guest. Decorate this beauty with thin slices of fresh or canned (unpeeled) apricots and strips of green angelica.

- 1 cup water
- 1 cup dried apricots
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 Tbsp. unflavored gelatin
- 2 Tbsp. cold water
- 2 Tbsp. apricot brandy
- 6 egg whites
- Pinch of cream of tartar
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 1 pkg. whipped topping mix

In a small saucepan combine one cup water with the dried apricots, 1/3 cup sugar and 1/4 cup lemon juice. Bring the liquid to a boil and simmer, covered, for 30 minutes.

In a small bowl sprinkle one tablespoon unflavored gelatin over two tablespoons cold water to soften for five minutes. Set the bowl over a saucepan of hot water and stir the mixture until the gelatin is dissolved.

In a food processor fitted with the steel blade or in a blender in batches puree the apricot mixture. Transfer the puree to a large bowl and beat in the gelatin and two tablespoons apricot brandy.

In another large bowl beat six egg whites (must be at room temperature) with a pinch of cream of tartar until they hold soft peaks. Beat in gradually 1/3 cup sugar, one tablespoon at a time. Continue beating the meringue until it holds stiff peaks. Fold the meringue into the apricot puree.

In a bowl beat one package of whipped topping mix as directed on the package until it holds soft peaks; and fold the topping into the apricot mixture. Prepare one quart souffle dish with a 3-inch wide band of aluminum foil doubled and oiled with flavorless vegetable oil to form a standing collar extending 2 inches above the rim. Pour in the souffle mixture and chill souffle for at least six hours. Serves six.

By William T. Mixson, M.D.

There are times when a physical examination alone isn't sufficient to find out what may be bothering you. In cases like that, if you have severe abdominal pains, infertility problems, or other pelvic problems, your doctor may suggest something called laparoscopy.

It's a type of surgery that allows the doctor to actually look inside your abdomen. This procedure involves making a small incision just below the navel and inserting a slender telescope-like instrument — a laparoscope. With this instrument, your doctor can see most of your internal reproductive organs such as the uterus (womb), fallopian tubes and ovaries.

This procedure is useful in tracking down the cause of abdominal pain from any number of things. Sometimes the pain is caused by a pregnancy that develops outside the uterus or an ectopic pregnancy. Laparoscopy often allows the doctor to see the tubal pregnancy developing before it breaks the tube open and causes internal bleeding.

Sometimes if you have pain during your menstrual period or sharp pain during intercourse, you may have symptoms of a condition called endometriosis. This is where tissue that normally lines the inside of the uterus somehow finds its way outside the uterus and grows in an abnormal site. Laparoscopy can be used to spot patches of endometriosis, which may also cause infertility. The other major use of laparoscopy is to perform tubal sterilization.

Laparoscopy is generally considered a necessary part of an infertility work-up to see if the tubes and pelvic area are free from endometriosis, infection, or scarring. The procedure also is used to check cysts on the ovaries or other tumors in the pelvic area.

It can be performed with either a local or a general anesthesia and you are usually allowed to go home the same day. You may feel uncomfortable for a day or so from the procedure — menstrual-like cramps, pain in the abdomen and neck from the carbon dioxide gas, soreness in the abdomen from the incision, and some blood from the vagina for several days. Complications from laparoscopy are rare, but include bleeding, injury to nearby organs or complications from the anesthesia.

Laparoscopy is a good way to help your doctor arrive at an accurate diagnosis, and it will give you peace of mind to know what was causing your symptoms.

Single, free copies of "Diagnostic Laparoscopy" (p-061) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC 20024.

I'd like to see...

... at least one regional championship this winter. I think Grosse Pointe's got a shot in hockey, basketball and volleyball. (I'm not saying which hockey, basketball or volleyball team I think has the best shot. Hey, I'm not as dumb as I look).

... North's John Russell, South's Bill Tecos and Rob Wood and ULS' John Birgbauer earn spots on the All-State hockey team. Each has meant so much to his team and is more than deserving of All-State recognition. The funny thing is, most people probably won't realize until next year how much seniors Birgbauer, Russell, Tecos and Wood contributed to North, ULS and South hockey.

... more coaches take the attitude of South's Tim Zimmerman. "Too many times people put winning and losing as top priority. North beat us, but that night my team made me prouder than at any other time this season. Their magnificent effort was a fine tribute to each and every player."

... more crowds like the one at the North-South volleyball game at North Feb. 3. Even North athletic director Tom Gauerke had to marvel at the number of fans who showed up on a chilly Monday night. And they were very supportive to players on both squads. Nice crowd, good exciting match... all in all, a pretty positive sports experience.

... the feature-length film being produced by the Detroit Tigers. According to the Tigers, it will celebrate the triumphs and traditions of Tiger baseball and will feature Tiger footage dating back to 1900. (Wonder if that includes shots of closed-down bleachers and burning police cars?)

... nice things happen in the regionals for North senior gymnasts Jill Boardman and Cindy Dundon. They've been so much a part of that squad's success for the past four seasons; it would be nice to see them really do well in the regionals and hopefully, the states.

... people realize that if they don't see something in this paper on their favorite team or player, lots of times it's because no one bothered to tell us about a sporting event or an athletic achievement. Let me know what's happening and I'll get it into the paper. It's as simple as that, folks.

... more referees react like the guy who worked the North-South game Feb. 5. After scoring a goal, one player pulled his helmet and face guard off and tossed it into the air before he was mobbed by his excited teammates. The ref, obviously mindful of the potential injury to an unprotected face, quickly reminded the kid to celebrate with his helmet on the next time. (To the relief of many parents in the stands who probably had visions of orthodontists' bills flashing before their eyes).

... Fans of high school hockey grow up and quit cheering when the action on the ice gets chippy. You know things are getting ridiculous when fans are applauding cheap shots and hits after the play is stopped. When that stuff starts happening, it's not hockey anymore, it's big time wrestling.

... University Liggett School's vastly-improved hockey team draw a bye in the first round of regionals. Why a bye? Because the 11-7-1 (at press time) Knights just happen to play in one of Michigan's toughest regions, which includes the likes of Gabriel Richard, River Rouge, Detroit Country Day and the top-ranked Cranbrook Cranes, that's why.

... myself get more excited over the Detroit Pistons. I don't know why, but I didn't get too worked up over Isiah Thomas' MVP award in last Sunday's NBA All-Star Game. Isiah is a great player and it was nice to see a Detroit player get national recognition, but for me it wasn't as big a deal as if, say, Lance Parrish was MVP of the baseball All-Star Game.

... the people who work as team managers, statisticians and equipment coordinators get more recognition for their efforts. I know the names of some of them, like Mike Carrier, Mark Nesler, Anne Nicholson, Julie Matthews, Karen White and Jenny Kerwin, who do such a good job for South's hockey team. But I know there are lots more folks who work hard for their favorite prep team and don't get the credit they should. Come on coaches, how about some names?

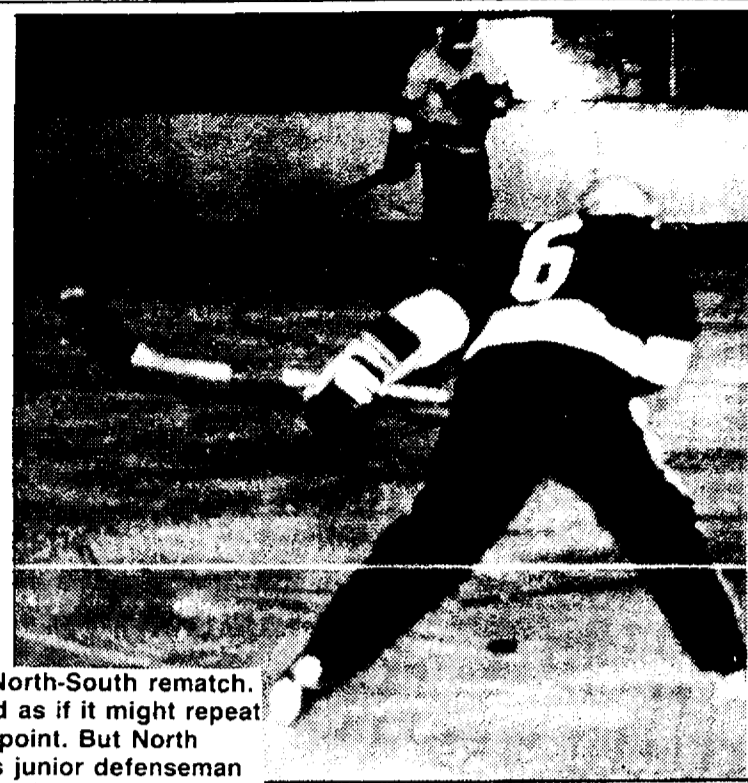

... lots of wrestling fans show up at the wrestling extravaganza set for South High on March 1. I'm told it's the junior class fundraiser for the year and it sounds like a good one. Details on the event will be forthcoming, the juniors say. (Hey, if Bobo Brazil is going to be there, count me in, too).

Revenge...

... was what North's varsity hockey team was after and just what it got in last week's North-South rematch. South had trounced North, 7-3, in the first meeting back in January and for a while, looked as if it might repeat as Rob Wood (right) put on a hockey clinic, scoring four goals before the game's halfway point. But North stormed back for a 5-4 win thanks in part to great goaltending by Matt Dennis (left). That's junior defenseman Brian Nettle fighting off South's Lance Eriksen and John Nicholson.

Schools seek to check fan rowdiness

By Peggy O'Connor

If the very popular and equally-obscene chants like those practiced by fans at last week's North-South hockey game are never heard again, it won't be too soon, say officials at both schools.

Administrators at both North and South high schools have spoken to student assemblies in an effort to curb poor fan behavior like that displayed at the Feb. 5 ice hockey game at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink. North, in fact, has informed students that they may be admitted to the Feb. 15 home game against Port Huron (North's last of the season) only if accompanied by a parent.

"We're sending a clear message to the kids that if they are going to behave in this unacceptable manner, they will not be admitted to games," North athletic administrator Tom Gauerke said Monday. "We feel we have to take strong action because we believe that this type of thing is just not acceptable."

Overall, fan behavior at the contest was favorable. A total of 24 crowd marshals — 12 from each school — patrolled the arena and kept the crowd under control. But the game, a close, occasionally rough contest, was punctuated several times by obscene chanting from some of the close to 1,000 fans in attendance, drawing complaints from many in attendance.

Grosse Pointe school board members expressed their concern over both the rough play and fan behavior at Monday night's meeting.

"You are going to have a certain number of the students misbehave because of the nature of the game," said South athletic administrator Chuck Hollosy. "The fans are right on top of the action, hockey is a contact game and many times the players are responding to the fans' reaction, and that creates more of that type of play."

"Most of the time, we can control behavior on a one-to-one basis. That becomes more difficult when you have 1,000 people as you do at the North-South hockey game. We are very disappointed in the students' actions at last week's game, especially in the type of cheering. We've discussed it with them on more than one occasion and we did again after last Wednesday's game," he added.

South has two home games remaining and administrators have not considered instituting a policy similar to that North will enforce on Feb. 15.

"We have let the students know what such behavior is not going to be tolerated at any of our games. We feel that in the games we have remaining, the students will realize that such behavior will not be accepted," Hollosy said.

The root of the problems, administrators said, seems to be a small group of student-fans mimicking the behavior of adult fans at professional and collegiate sporting events. Officials from both schools feel that the greater number of students and fans realize that such behavior is unacceptable.

"The kids' response to our warning has been good so far," Hollosy said. "I know that there are always a number of responsible kids out there who, when you get them in an unemotional setting agree that the obscene chants have no place in sports.

"But very often, in a carnival atmosphere such as exists at hockey games, you also have an element there which doesn't really care what's happening on the ice and is just there to make an appearance. That's the group that often spoils things for everyone."

Officials from both schools feel that the problem is most noticeable at the North-South games, the most popular contests of the school year. Poor fan behavior is usually not a problem at most other hockey contests, they add.

"We're enforcing this policy at our last home game because we want to start out fresh for next year and eliminate similar occurrences," North's Gauerke said.

"We want to send a strong message to our students that their behavior will determine their attendance at all the games."

Up and down week for Norsemen icers

By Josh Abbott
North High

North's varsity hockey team had an up and down week, beating South High, 5-4, after outscoring No. 2-ranked Livonia Stevenson, 9-8, and losing to No. 1-ranked Trenton, 11-0.

After being trounced in their first meeting with South, 7-3, North took the rematch, 5-4. The Norsemen struck first as Link Bessert and Kevin Tisdale combined for a goal to give North a short-lived lead.

Rob Wood, the South scoring machine, pumped in his first of four goals, a shorthanded effort, to tie things up. Freshman sensation Doug Olds put North back on top, linemates John Russell and Rob Koehler assisting. But Wood tied the game at 2-2 after one period.

He scored two more goals within a five-minute span to give South a commanding 4-2 lead. North controlled the last 10 minutes of the second period but couldn't penetrate the South goal as goalie Bill Tecos stood his ground.

But the third period belonged to North. Coach Mike Manzella called it "the best 15 minutes my team has played all year." Brian Nettle sparked North's comeback with his goal, followed by Rob Marshall, whose end-to-end rush finished with a goal. Russell followed with what proved to be the winning goal on a picture set-up from Nettle.

The final seven minutes saw both teams squander opportunities. Matt Dennis' excellent third period play sealed the victory for North.

Prior to the South game, North faced Livonia Stevenson and Trenton. The Stevenson game was a wide-open affair that saw North finish on top, 9-8.

The Norsemen trailed, 3-0, before coming back to tie on goals by Casey Quick, Tisdale and Russell. In the second period, Stevenson led 5-3, before Koehler's shorthanded goal and goals by Nettle and Olds managed to give the Norsemen the lead.

North outplayed Stevenson in the third period, taking an 8-5 lead on

Bathers top Blue Devils in EML showdown

By Stephen Ebner
South High

South's varsity basketball team took its second place Eastern Michigan League record to No. 9-ranked Mount Clemens last week, but came out on the short end of the battle, 79-59, to the undefeated, first place Bathers.

Mount Clemens jumped out to an early lead, netting all 13 of its first quarter shots and posting an impressive 38-27 lead at halftime. In the second half, South fought hard and rallied to within five points, with 6:50 left in the game.

"We just ran out of gas," explained coach George Petrouleas. "The kids fought hard for the whole game, but then tired out in the last minutes."

Sean Bruce scored 24 points and had five steals. Guard Ed Gramling had 11 points for South.

Earlier in the week, South beat Port Huron, 66-50, but lost starting center Gordie Langs on a play late in the third quarter. "It was a freak accident. He twisted his ankle. Right now, we're going day to day on how long he'll be out," Petrouleas said.

Bruce continued his excellent play, scoring 24 points, assisting on eight and coming up with four steals. Forward Tim Hudson had 14 points and before his exit, Langs had seven rebounds.

South is 7-2 in the EML, 10-5 overall. The Blue Devils will take on Port Huron Northern at home, tomorrow, Friday, Feb. 14.

The JV Blue Devils lost a pair to Port Huron, 57-54, and Mount Clemens, 81-52, last week, to drop their EML record to 3-6.

Andre Bielski had 29 points and received Player of the Game honors for his performance against Port Huron. Lance Harding had six rebounds and three steals and Bryan Jones chipped in with six assists.

Against Mount Clemens, the Blue Devils' Andy Ament had 18 points and five rebounds to net Player of the Game recognition. Jones and Marty Saad assisted on four baskets. "It was not surprise, they beat us a couple weeks ago," said coach Al Devine. "We were

 Overall, South is 5-10 with five games left, all five of them re-matches. "We're playing well, despite the record," Devine added. "In the last five games we're going to play very competitively. Right now we have a good team attitude."
 South takes Port Huron on at home Feb. 14.

The freshman team stretched its impressive winning streak to seven, defeating DeLaSalle and Fraser last week. South's record is now 11-1.
 Including a Jan. 28 win over L'Anse Creuse North, South has taken the biggest three games of the season, winning by 20 over LCN, by 14 over Bishop Gallagher and beating DeLaSalle by six.
 Against Gallagher's Lancers, Chris Kowan had 24 points and 10 rebounds. Mike Poet and Chris Gramling led the rebounds and assists against DeLaSalle. And in the 55-40 win over Fraser, Chris Markus led South in scoring with 26 points.

Volleyball victory

By Jennifer McSorley
 South High
 South's three volleyball teams won six of their eight total games played last week. The varsity beat North, 11-15, 15-8, 15-4, as junior Heather Imel made eight kills, junior Barb Van Wingerden had five kills and junior Patty Hess, four. Senior Theresa Schulte scored nine service points.
 The varsity also topped Port Huron, 15-6, 7-15, 15-13, and beat Mount Clemens, 15-8, 15-13. Imel made 10 kills, senior Mary Ann Montagne had five kills and eight service points, and both Hess and Van Wingerden had three kills against Port Huron. Junior Shannon Burns scored seven service points and Montagne was perfect on 66 sets.
 Against Mount Clemens, Imel and Van Wingerden made four kills apiece and Hess and Schulte had three each. Junior Mary Younges and sophomore Megan Keller each scored eight service points.

 South's JV also beat Port Huron, 15-5, 15-3, and Mount Clemens, but lost to North, 15-12, 15-10. Against North, sophomore Lisa Van Tassel scored 10 points serving, freshman Chris Schulte had two kills and sophomore Barb Denler had one kill.
 In the Port Huron match, sophomore Carolina Gaskins scored eight points serving. "It was a pretty balanced serving attack; most people had two or three serves," said coach Amy Argo. Van Tassel led with two kills.
 Sophomores Erin Duffy, Danielle DeLuca and Denler each scored five service points against Mount Clemens. Sophomore Carrie Donaldson made two kills and Gaskins and Schulte had one apiece. "Stephanie Dinka had to fill in for Pentecost and she did a real nice job," said Argo.

The frosh broke their losing streak with a 15-9, 15-7 win over rival North. Jessica Risher scored five points serving and Rachel Geer added six. Traci Lee and Richer were strong at the net, according to coach Jim Kuhagen.
 South's freshman closed out the week with a 4-15, 6-15, 9-15 loss to Oakwood Junior High in East Detroit.

Skaters lose, tie

The Blue Devils and the Norsemen went at it again last week at the Grosse Pointe Community Rink, with North coming out on top, 5-4.
 After North opened the scoring, senior Rob Wood retaliated with a goal on a set-up from junior Andy Roy. Wood added another unassisted goal and the teams were tied at 2-2 after one period.
 North went scoreless in the second period and Wood gave the Devils a 4-2 lead with two more un-

 Senior goaltender Bill Tecos was impressive, making 41 saves.
 The Blue Devils closed out the week with 3-3 tie with Lakeview on Saturday night. Goal scorers were John Nicholson, from Jeff Lefebvre and Wood, sophomore Rodney Goin, from Wood and Tecos, and Roy, from Wood. Wood earned both a hat trick and a playmaker for his week's work.

Matmen fall

South's varsity wrestlers continued to be on the losing end last week, falling to East Detroit, 51-21, and finishing last in the EML competition on Saturday.
 Dave Morinelli, Jamie Pangborn and Barry Brooks won their matches against East Detroit; Tony Smihal wrestled well.
 At the eight-team EML competition, Morinelli wrestled to second place and Smihal, to fourth, in their respective weight classes. JV wrestlers Paul Andreponce and Andy Kozak took second place in their weight classes.

Gymnasts come close

South's gymnastics team wasn't incredibly successful last week, losing to Dearborn and Rochester, but by close scores.
 Dearborn outpointed South, 123.55-95.7 as senior Carin Seyler placed third in the floor exercise (7.75).
 Rochester topped the Devils, 118.85-101.75. Senior Kathy Trefzer placed third on the vault (7.75) and junior Amy Tyrer was third on the balance beam (6.05).

Soccer coaches can learn from expert

Area soccer coaches will have a unique opportunity to take part in a licensing clinic under the direction of former Detroit Express player-coach Brian Tinnion. The clinic is set for 8 a.m. through 5 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 22, at the University Liggett School gymnasium.
 Registration may be obtained by mailing name, address and a $10 certification fee to Mary Busse, 1121 Buckingham, Grosse Pointe Park, 48230, or by calling her at 881-3392. Make checks payable to the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association. The fee goes directly to the Michigan Youth Association for licensing costs.

 The clinic is sponsored by the GPSA and is open to all area coaches, regardless of the community they presently serve. Soccer techniques will be covered thoroughly, as will instruction in skill development for all levels of youth soccer. Upon completion of the clinic, each coach will be awarded a certificate for a level "F" license, given through the Michigan Youth Soccer Association.

 Tinnion has been involved with soccer since his boyhood days in Worthington, England.
 Tinnion advises that even seasoned coaches, or those who are certified beyond the "F" level, are welcome to attend the clinic.

Ice Angels ...

... they're called, and the St. Clair Shores Skating Club Juvenile Precision Team is on "cloud nine" after a second place finish in the Greenbrier Precision Invitational in Cleveland, Ohio Feb. 1. The girls are looking forward to competing in the Tri-State Invitational in Midland on Feb. 15 and in the Midwestern Precision Championships at their own Civic Arena on March 15. The Ice Angels include, from left to right (following the S-formation) Tekla Warezak, of Grosse Pointe, Michele Ritter, of the Farms, Lori Sasek, Melissa Cirillo, Heather Brzezinski, Kelley Stolt, Nicole Azar, of Harper Woods, Heidi Rappert, Kristi Skwarczynski, Melissa Petix, Katrina Kalinowski, Amy Greenfield, of Grosse Pointe, Sarah Miller and Shelly Ballew, of the Woods, Kristin Kulhavi, Amy Justice, of Harper Woods, and Colleen Cantlon. They are coached by Jackie Locniskar, of the Farms.

ULS sports

Knights unbeaten in five

Undeclared in its last five games, the University Liggett School hockey team has run its record to 11-7-1 overall, with wins over Andover, Dexter, Lahser, Southview, and a tie against South Lyon.
 On Jan. 16, the Knights traveled to the Detroit Skating Club, beating Birmingham Andover, 8-4. The ULS scoring attack was led by Mike French with three goals, and John Birgbauer with two goals and two assists. Bob Jewett, Chip Davis and Bill Reuther each added a goal. John Petrilli (three assists), Brandon Pelok (one assist), and Ed Brady (one assist) all registered points.
 The Knights returned to McCann Rink on Jan. 25 to face Dexter, and, in a hard fought game, prevailed by a 3-2 margin. Birgbauer paced the ULS attack with two goals and an assist; Bill Jewett added a goal and an assist. French, Petrilli and Gordie Maitland also added assist in a penalty-filled, defensive game.
 ULS topped Birmingham Lahser, 14-1, at home Jan. 29. "I knew that we were on our way to a victory when Charlie Roby scored just nine seconds into the game," Maitland said.
 "It was the type of situation," admitted coach John Fowler, "where, in game conditions, the team could work on plays and skating patterns that we practice every day."
 Jewett and Andrew MacLeod each scored as the Knights tied South Lyon 2-2 in a grueling game Feb. 5.

The Knights, determined to avenge a Dec. 12 loss to the Southview Cougars, journeyed to Tam O'Shanter Arena in Toledo on Feb. 8, winning, 4-1. Once again Birgbauer was the difference, scoring three goals. "The team's success means more to me than personal statistics," Birgbauer said.
 "The team's overall defensive effort, and especially that of goaltender Ed Brady, gives me a great deal of confidence going into the last few weeks of play," Fowler said.
 With the season drawing to a close, the Knights begin to focus their attention on the regional tournament later this month. ULS seniors French, Petrilli, Birgbauer and standout goalie Brady play their last game at home on Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 6 p.m., as the team takes on Port Huron Northern. (By Charles Roby and Gordie Maitland).

two-match victory over Bethesda moved the Lady Knights one step closer to the Michigan Independent Athletic Conference league championship.
 On Feb. 6, ULS went on the road to face Southfield Christian, which proved to be one of their toughest opponents so far in league play. ULS split with Southfield Christian, winning a close first match 15-10, 16-14, but losing the second 15-13, 4-15, 12-15.
 The strong first match exhibited consistent serving by Ristic and Bianchi. Spiking by Van Dellen kept Southfield Christian on its toes. Excellent serve receptions by Ferris helped to set up the offense, as setters Paul and Bianchi had a slow start, but kept in range to set up the spikers. In the second match, ULS started off strong, but lost some of its intensity, allowing Southfield Christian back into the game.
 Coach Shelley Owens' Lady Knights faced Southfield Christian again on Feb. 8, at the annual Detroit Country Day School Invitational. ULS started out slowly, losing its first two matches to Pontiac Catholic and Kingswood but woke up and defeated Academy of the Sacred Heart and St. Agatha. ULS then faced Southfield Christian, winning a close game to get fifth place overall in the tournament.
 The Lady Knights' next home game is Wednesday, Feb. 19, at 6 p.m. against Kingswood. (By Cindy Paul).

Spikers take pair

The University Liggett School varsity volleyball team faced Bethesda on its home court Feb. 4. The Lady Knights proved victorious in both matches, 15-5, 15-11 and 15-6, 15-13.
 Successful bumps to setter were completed by junior Laurie Khelokian, senior Kara Van Dellen and freshman Dana Warnez. Setters Kathy Bianchi and Cindy Paul set up kills by junior Susan Cleek, Van Dellen and freshman Sylvia Ristic. This goals by John Andary and Marshall, with Dan Spitz drawing two assists. Stevenson came back with two goals, but Russell scored the game-winner with a little over two minutes to play.

 North faced five-time state champion Trenton on Feb. 1, getting manhandled, 11-0. The only bright spot was the outstanding play of Rob Marshall.
Cagers split
 North's varsity basketball team split a pair of Bi-County League games last week, falling to South Lake, 65-60, before bouncing back to beat Lake Shore, 52-48.
 Against South Lake on Feb. 4, North trailed by 10 points at half-time and went on to drop its second league game. Senior forward Jon Palazzo topped the Norsemen with 20 points. Seniors Dave Bryer, Bill Miller and junior Dave Justice added 10 points each. The loss dropped the Norsemen into a second-place tie with South Lake.
 North got back into the win column on Feb. 7 by edging Lake Shore, 52-48. The Norsemen led throughout the game, but the Shorians fought back and tied the game at 46-46 with three minutes to go. Led by Palazzo's scoring touch and some good offensive rebounding by Bryer and junior Rob Olds, North outscored Lake Shore, 6-2, down the stretch.
 Palazzo was again North's high scorer with 20 points. Bryer and Olds chipped in 11 points each. Bryer grabbed eight rebounds.

The Norsemen stand at 10-4 overall, 5-2 in the Bi-County. They are two full games behind first place Clintondale, which is undefeated in the league and 12-2 overall.
 North hosted Brablec on Feb. 11 (after press time) and will travel to Clintondale on Feb. 14.
 The JV raised its record to 8-6 with a 54-38 win over South Lake and a 62-16 victory over Lake Shore last week.
 Against South Lake on Feb. 4, Karl Schultz followed up his 22-point performance against L'Anse Creuse with an 18-point game. The win moved the JV over the .500 mark.
Matmen fourth
 North's varsity wrestlers competed in the Bi-County Tournament Feb. 8, finishing in fourth place. John Shefferly took first at 112 pounds. Other high finishers were Phil Shefferly (second at 126), Dave Van Dale (second at 185), Bill Lewis (second at 132), Kevin Mack (third at 119) and John Klostermeyer (third at 198). Chris Jensen was a JV champ.
 The squad competed in the Edsel Ford Invitational Feb. 1, finishing ninth out of 13. And on Feb. 6, the young Norsemen lost a close one, 24-30, to L'Anse Creuse.

pinning their opponents for victories, while Mack, Lewis and Klostermeyer also picked up wins.
Gymnasts win pair
 North's gymnastics team defeated Lakeview on Feb. 5, 126-112.85. The Lady Norsemen's top gymnast, Jill Boardman, finished in first place in the uneven bars and balance beam and added second place finishes in the vault and floor exercise. Cindy Dundon also placed second in the vault and the uneven bars, and took third in the balance beam.
 Earlier, North split a pair of meets with Edsel Ford and Ann Arbor Pioneer. On Jan. 27, North fell to Ann Arbor Pioneer, 126.95-119.8.
 Boardman captured one first place and three thirds; Dundon took a first, a second and a third. Two days later, the Lady Norsemen beat Edsel Ford, 121.33-116.15. Boardman was undoubtedly the star of the meet as she finished in first place in all four competitions. Dundon had three seconds and Nicole Lehman grabbed two third. The gymnastics squad faces Fraser on the road on Feb. 13.

Spikers bounce back
 North's varsity volleyball team lost a heartbreaker to South High, 15-11, 8-15, 4-15; but bounced back to defeat South Lake, 15-12, 15-9.
 Against South Lake, Barb Loehner and Tammy Donahue each had seven service points. With that victory, North raised its Bi-County record to 7-1.

Grosse Pointe's goalies

High school netminders spend their time ducking pucks . . . and loving it

By Peggy O'Connor

Maybe you don't have to be crazy to be a hockey goalie, but it sure helps.

It probably comes in handy for guys who spend their high school careers in freezing rinks, flopping on the ice and dodging hockey pucks . . . not what one would call a common pastime.

In these parts, those slightly-eccentric athletes come in all shapes, sizes, temperaments and degrees of experience. But they've got one thing in common: they are Grosse Pointe's goalies.

The underdog South High hockey team trailed No. 1-ranked Trenton, 4-0 in regional playoffs last year. Goaltender Bill Tecos had made several great stops, or the score might have been much higher. But Tecos also injured his leg and when coach Tim Zimmerman went out to bring his goalie out of the game, Tecos could only say "Sorry coach, I tried."

"He was in incredible pain and all he could say was . . . 'I tried.' Amazing," Zimmerman said in a newspaper interview shortly after that game.

"But that's the way Tecos is," Zimmerman says. "He's not only a great goaltender, he's a fine person as well."

A hockey player from the age of 3½, Tecos got started in goal at 9. You don't have to be crazy to be a goalie Tecos says, you just have to be prepared. "In order to play goal, you have to like a challenge. I do. And I play goal because it's the most challenging position."

That's because the goalie is the last line of defense in keeping the opponents from scoring. And that means pressure.

"When you get a goal scored against you, you have to put it into your subconscious that you will bounce back," Tecos says. "Otherwise, if you start to let it get you down, you can let the whole game go down the tubes. You just learn to get it out of your mind."

Not that Tecos has that problem much of the time. In three years as South's starting goaltender, the Devils are 38-24-4. Tecos has a 2.99 goals against average and an 89.6 save percentage. The affable senior puts it all down to his ability to concentrate.

"When the game starts, I don't think about the pressure. I just try to keep my level of concentration high."

"I try to ignore the nice things, too. Like people cheering for me. I believe that a team is not based on one person, but on everyone who participates. Team unity is of the utmost importance," Tecos says.

"It's nice to be recognized, but I don't let it get to me. I don't want to end up with my head out to here," he says, holding his hands far apart.

Tecos credits this year's success with the Blue Devils' close-knit spirit. He says it's part of what he'll miss when he's played his last game in a South uniform sometime next month.

"I remember looking up to the seniors when I wasn't a senior. They were big guys, like gods to me. And I'll remember the hard work. But most of all, I'll remember the coaching. I've had a lot of coaches, and I definitely think that we've got the best coach in this area."

"I'm going to miss the guys, too. The younger guys are just like brothers to me."

North High junior goalie Matt Dennis won't ever forget his first few minutes in goal for the Norsemen. They came when North coach Mike Manzella put the then-sophomore Dennis into the nets as a substitute for starting goalie Marc Cormier after the Norsemen were down, 2-0, in last year's first North-South encounter. Coming into an emotionally-charged game like the North-South contest isn't exactly what you'd call a piece of cake.

"I was nervous, I remember that. But the defense did a good job and I was okay after a while," Dennis says. North came back in that one to take a 3-2 victory.

Dennis is a goaltender who likes to make his presence felt on the ice. He says he's constantly working with his defensemen, talking to them and keeping himself in the game, mentally.

Dennis is another goalie who plays for the thrill of the challenge. "I love going out and beating the shooter. When I can't beat him, I try to see why the goal went in. Then I try to correct my mistake, or give suggestions to my teammates on how we can stop the guy the next time," he says.

Dennis says what impresses him most is that the level of hockey has improved as he himself has improved as a goaltender. "I guess that's what what makes it a challenge."

University Liggett School coach John Fowler faced a dilemma entering his first year as varsity hockey coach of the Knights: he had three pretty good goaltenders. And three goaltenders usually adds up to one big problem for a coach.

Not so this season at ULS. "It's working out very well. The best thing is for each of them to know where they stand. It's when they are unsure of their status, why they are or aren't playing, that they can get disgruntled," Fowler says. "I'm really proud of all three of them and how they've responded."

ULS' hockey netminding troika consists of senior Ed Brady, junior Jeremy Belenky and sophomore Steve Stoyka. All three have contributed to ULS' success (11-7-1) this season, both on and off the ice.

"Ed's playing really well. And that's crucial to a team's success, to have a starting goaltender play so well, especially if he's also a senior and a team leader," Fowler says.

Brady, who has played goal since his third year in Mite hockey, has played 557 minutes and has a goals against average of 2.99 and a 90 percent save average. He recognizes his role as a team leader and credits his coach with the success of the three-goalie system.

"It's a horse of a different color in comparison to playing here last year," he says. "I give Coach Fowler a lot of credit for turning things around. Game-wise, I have to give our defense credit. The way they're playing, all I have to concentrate on is the shooter."

no place to go.

ULS back-ups Belenky and Stoyka take it in stride. Stoyka has played 223 minutes for ULS, with a 3.43 goals against average and a save rate of 86 percent. Belenky has played 75 minutes, with an 0.58 goals against average and a 96 percent save rate. Both say they are pleased with the way things are going at ULS.

"A goaltender is like a team's quarterback. And we're sort of like back-up quarterbacks. We have to be ready to go in at all times," says Belenky, easily the most talkative of ULS' trio. "You don't have to be crazy to be a goalie, but it helps."

If that true, then South back-up Mike Semack has been "crazy" since he started playing organized hockey in the second grade. Semack has always been on a winning team and this year is no different. What is different is that he is not the starting goaltender on that winner.

"Mike has taken his role behind Tecos and handled it very well. I couldn't be more proud," says South coach Zimmerman.

"Sure, I'd love to play. Everybody would like to get a chance to start. But I have no problem playing behind Bill. He's really been great, helping me out, making suggestions," Semack says with a grin.

Even though he isn't a starter, Semack says he's thrilled with his first year as a member of South's varsity.

"It's been the best year I've had in hockey. I've gotten the biggest kick out of wearing this jersey. There are only 20 of us . . . and to be one of that 20 means a lot."

One of North High's 20 is Pat Carlsen, a senior who is winding up his first season of high school hockey. He was a late addition to North's team, but has filled his role well, according to coach Mike Manzella.

"I used to screw around, playing hockey as a kid. When a spot opened up on the team, I figured, well, it would be a challenge.

"Basically, you just have to come prepared to play. You never know what might happen and you try to prepare for just about anything in the warm-ups. It's just a matter of being ready when you're needed."

South's Semack and North's Carlsen are sitting on the bench as North rallies from a 4-2 deficit to win the second round of the North-South series for 1986. As usual, both Tecos and Dennis are outstanding, with Dennis keeping South off the board in a crucial third period and Tecos playing with a bruised thigh and turning away several dangerous shots.

As usual, it is an emotional, draining game. As usual, both teams are out on the ice and next afternoon, getting ready for the next contest. And, as usual, the goalies are back in position, taking shot after shot from their teammates. Tired after a night of facing shots in double figures, they're back and ready for more.

Proof positive that while you don't have to be crazy to be a goaltender, it sure helps.

Spring hockey league set

The St. Clair Shores Civic Arena will host a spring hockey league. Games begin March 31.

Included in the entry fee of $600 per team are 10 games, officials,

For more information or an application call the Civic Arena at 779-4300.

Babe Ruth merger

Starting with the 1986 season, the Farms-City Babe Ruth and the Park Babe Ruth leagues will merge operations. The natural result of this move will be that all boys from the South school district will be able to play on the same 13-15 teams.

League Directors expect seven teams in the American League East (Major) and a similar number in the American League West (Minor). With the merger, returning and new players will be drafted into the new league teams and every player registering and attending tryouts will be guaranteed a spot on a team.

Registration is set for Feb. 18 and 19 at both Brownell School and at the Neighborhood Club from 7 to 9 p.m. Tryouts are scheduled for March 16 and 23 at the South High gym.

All returning and new players will need to tryout this year. Registration must be in person this year; no mail registration will be available.

At a recent meeting, league directors elected 1986 officers. League president is Walker Henry; vice-president is Mike Johnson; secretary is John Bruce; and treasurer is Harold Connell.

For more information, call 822-5997 or 882-7014.

'F/X': Plenty of action, little suspense

By Michael Chapp

A middle-aged man dines alone in a secluded corner of a posh New York restaurant. Soft music and the sounds of refined laughter can be heard amid clicking silverware and popping corks. The festive atmosphere is rudely interrupted by a stranger in a trench coat who pulls out a gun, grins, and shoots the middle-aged gentleman six times — five bullets in the chest, one in the head. The attacker then flees, leaving his victim lying in a pool of blood, surely dead.

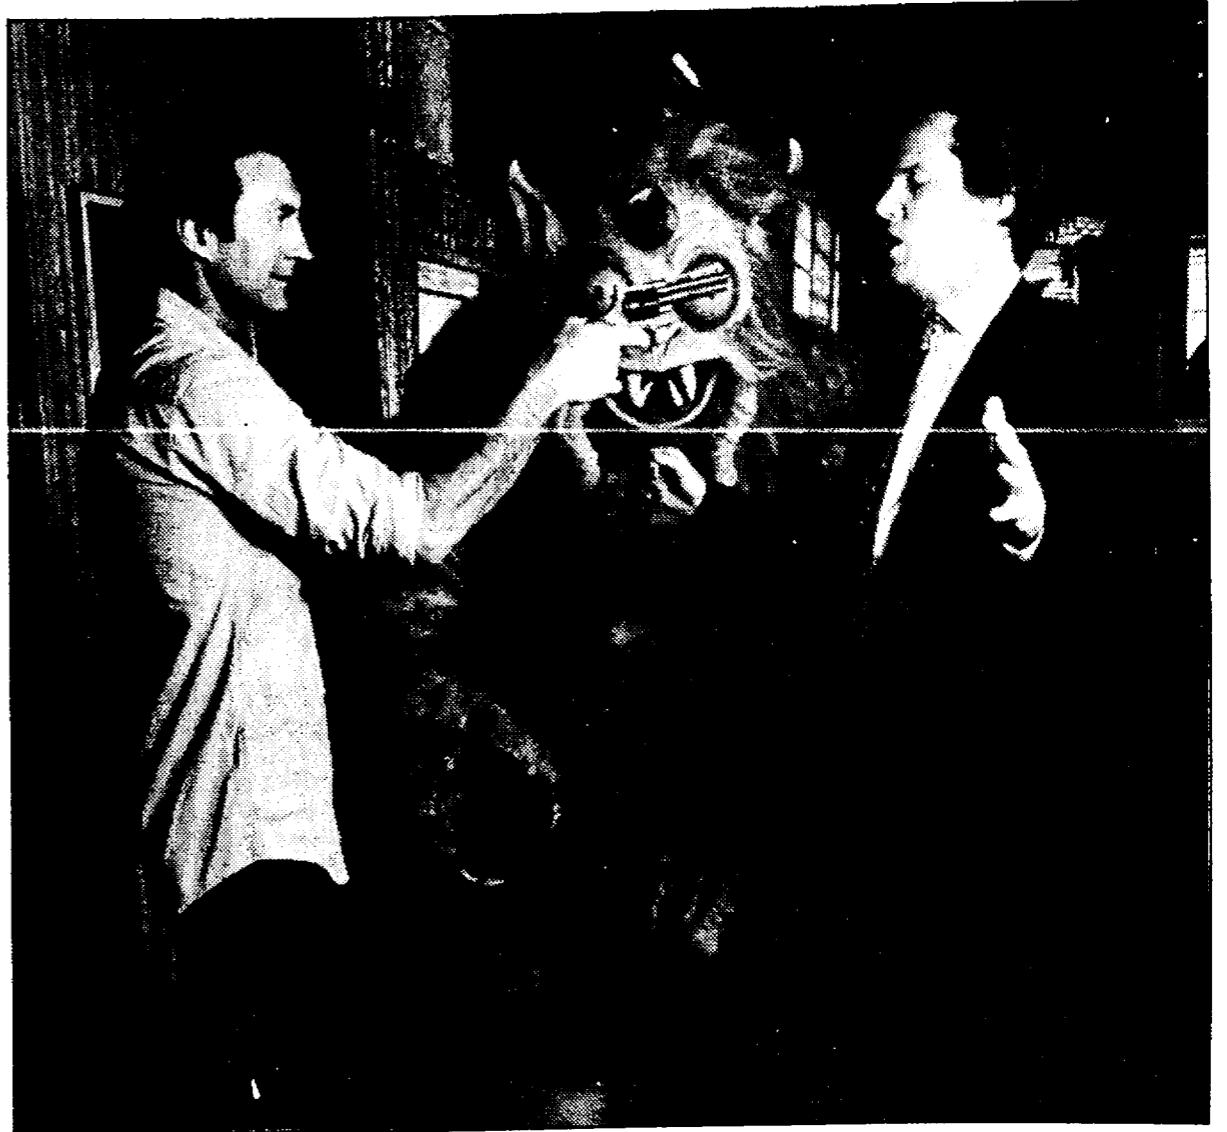

Or is he?
F/X is Hollywood jargon for special effects. And their purpose obviously, is to make what isn't real look like it. And therein lies the kicker for "F/X," a new thriller which tries to fool some of the people some of the time. In an ironic way, it is mildly successful in its endeavor.

Rollie Tyler (Bryan Brown) is a Hollywood special effects wizard. In fact, he's the best in the world at what he does, so the U.S. Justice Department seeks his help for their witness relocation program. The department head (Mason Adams) offers Tyler $30,000 to stage the assassination of one of their witnesses. It's supposed to look as if the witness has been assassinated, when in reality, of course, it's only special effects. Tyler agrees and does the job.

But when Tyler's girlfriend (Diane Venora) gets killed, and police start attacking him, Tyler begins to wonder if someone slipped real bullets into the gun in place of the blanks he loaded. If so, the witness really was killed, and Tyler is responsible.

Not a bad idea for a movie. Give credit to screenwriters Robert T. Megginson and Gregory Fleeman for the premise. But take away points for the final product. A film that easily could have been developed into one of the best suspense thrillers of the year instead slips into the already overcrowded realm of action thrillers. And in doing so, the picture becomes painfully routine.

In the movie's first 30 minutes,

A scene from the movie, "F/X," in which Rollie Tyler (Bryan Brown) pretends to shoot Lipton (Cliff De Young) before taking some shots at Rosebud.

there are shocks and plot twists, leading the viewer to expect more of the same from the rest of the picture. One expects an edge-of-the-seat nail-biter. One expects a picture which will appeal to an armchair detective's deductive skills. Instead, the remainder of the film is one dopey action sequence after another — generic car chases and shoot-outs abound.

Viewers will not find themselves trying to guess what will happen next, or for that matter, why past actions happened the way they did. Everything in the movie is blatant. There are surprises, and fewer riveting moments.

Perhaps the audience will not mind. Perhaps the audience will be fooled into thinking they're seeing something novel and entertaining.

After all, you can fool some of the people some of the time, and others all of time. In reality though, what audiences are given in "F/X" is some action and off-handed drama with a sense of humor.

All right? Maybe. But for a film which aspired to be so much in the suspense department, "F/X" is ultimately a letdown.

Events calendar

Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village are offering the public a free Calendar of Special Events for 1986.

Each month throughout the year, the museum or village hosts a variety of special events that appeals to almost every age and interest. Ranging from the colorful entertainment of Great Escape Weekends to the pageantry of the Muzzle Loaders Festival, these programs are offered at no extra charge beyond regular admission.

Of special note this year is a brand new event — Motor Muster — which will salute automobiles of the '30s, '40s and '50s during the weekend of Aug. 9-10 in Greenfield Village.

Those who want to receive a calendar can write the Office of Public Relations, Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village, P.O. Box 1970, Dearborn, Mich. 48121.

Working Mothers

A record 6.2 million families with children were maintained by mothers in 1984, and they accounted for one-fifth of all families with children. In 1985 there were about half as many such families, and they constituted only one in seven families with children, according to "Working Mothers and Their Children," a fact sheet issued by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

The Best Of Times is fun, but wait for it on cable

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Good movies usually fall into two categories; movies like "The Color Purple," "Ran" and such which will drag in critical acclaim and Oscar nominations.

Then there are movies like "The Best Of Times," which is fun to watch and will make somebody some money when it's sold to a cable company.

The best thing to say about "The Best Of Times," which opened Jan. 31, is it contains some of Robin Williams' best stand-up routines, including his Mr. Weasel lines. The worst thing that can be said about the movie is it's predictable, poorly filmed and edited and not worth the $4.50 some will shell out to see it.

The story revolves around Jack Dundee, a bank vice president whose life, he thinks, has been ruled for the last 13 years by his dropping of a pass in The Big Game.

Dundee, played by Robin Williams, finally decides that the only way to renew himself and his town of Taft is to play The Big Game over again.

From here, it's all pretty much a trashed-up version of "The Longest Yard." The town pulls together the overweight, out-of-shape players from the historic team and backs them as they try to whip themselves into shape.

Their opponents, predictably, are computer-controlled powerhouses who spend a good part of the game trouncing across the faces of the underdog Taft team. Predictably, however, everything works out in the end, for both the team and Dundee.

Lunch, theater trip scheduled

Tickets are still available for the War Memorial day trip to see "The Miser" at Meadow Brook Theatre on Wednesday, March 19.

For additional information, call 881-7511.

Auditions

The East Detroit Civic Theater will hold auditions for roles in the musical, "Yankee Doodle," with performance dates scheduled for April 24, 25 and 26 and May 1, 2 and 3.

Auditions for singers, dancers and actors will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, Feb. 18 and 19, at the East Detroit Recreation Center, 16600 Stephens, one block east of Gratiot, East Detroit. Times are 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Tuesday and about 8:30 to 10 p.m. Wednesday. Callbacks are Thursday, Feb. 20.

For more information, call Bill or Scott at 293-6193 or Donna at 774-9409.

'Matchmaker'

The East Detroit Civic Theatre will present Thornton Wilder's comedy, "The Matchmaker," Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Feb. 13-15, at East Detroit High School's John C. Enwright auditorium. Location is Gratiot and Couzens, one block south of Nine Mile Road.

For more information, call 771-6344 or 881-5881.

'Flaming Tree' has suspense, romance and a message

By Marian Trainor

FLAMING TREE
By Phyllis Witney;
Doubleday, 208 pages, $15.95

Driving along a snowy highway with her son, Mark, Kelsey Stewart's car is broadsided. Her son is killed and for Kelsey everything dies with him. Her husband, Carl, a sports announcer who had once hoped to be a star athlete blames her. He had plans for Mark to fulfill that dream. Without Mark, marriage to Kelsey means nothing. He divorces her.

Twice bereaved, first because of her son's death and then by her husband's desertion, Kelsey sinks into a depression that she can't pull herself out of.

With Kelsey, it's a case of the healer unable to heal herself. She is a therapist who has worked successfully with brain-injured children, often reaching what had been termed impossible cases and helping them become more than the vegetable they seemed to be.

When an invitation to visit her aunt in Carmel, Calif. comes, Kelsey accepts, hoping that her aunt's no-nonsense approach to life will help.

Just being on the Monterey Peninsula with its rocky seacoast, white sand beaches and windshaped cypress and pine is restful and Kelsey begins to heal a little.

But her stay there is not meant to be a vacation. She is approached by her aunt and asked to visit a 9-year-old boy who had fallen off a rocky cliff. Trying to save him, the mother had fallen with him. The mother survives as an invalid who can only move her arms but she does retain her mental faculties. The boy's injuries are more serious. He is diagnosed as being in a chronic vegetative state. The boy's father, Tyler, has decided to put him in a nursing home to live out his life.

As a last resort, Kelsey is asked to visit the boy to see if she can help him. Against her better judgment, she goes. And thus begins a story that involves danger, mystery, murder and romance.

The "Flaming Tree" is a novel with enough suspense and twists of plot to provide an entertaining read. There is an unexpected, surprise ending.

Besides the interest intrinsic in the story, the description of Kelsey's day-to-day work with Jody and the slow process involved in trying to rehabilitate him is of value. We as readers, are made to realize how important it is to keep trying to make some sort of life possible for the brain-damaged rather than consigning them to a life of living death.

The author makes clear what joy those who work with these patients experience at the smallest sign of improvement.

The author, who has won many readers with her bestsellers, "Dreams of Orchids" and "Rain-song," brings first-hand knowledge to the feelings and hopes of those who have worked as therapists or those who have stood by helplessly wanting desperately to help a loved one who cannot help themselves.

Her own grandson was only 19 when he tried to commit suicide with carbon monoxide. In a deep coma, he was diagnosed as a vegetable. His mother brought him home for treatment. Improvement was gradual, barely discernible at first, but gradually he is improving.

Her message: We must never stop seeking alternative and supplemental help no matter how grave the problem. New answers are always coming in.

Jazz-pop flutist

... Alexander Zonjic and his Quartet will appear at Sierra Station Saturday, Feb. 15. His two albums, "Elegant Evening" and "Romance With You" have received national recognition. Sierra Station is located at 15100 Mack. Call 822-1270 for more information.

Midlife upheaval explored in 'Twice in a Lifetime'

By Marian Trainor

The true appeal of "Twice In A Lifetime" is its ability to bring the viewer into a situation involving real people. The feeling that this is not a make-believe story, but one that could happen and has happened in real life pervades.

Not only that but the reactions and emotions of the characters are those that would be experienced by anyone going through a similar experience. There is no gloss of rationalization or phony attempts at understanding.

It opens on a pleasant family scene where Harry (Gene Hackman) is sitting at the dining room table enjoying his 50th birthday celebration. It is a typical family scene where his wife Kate (Ellen Burstyn), his adult children and grandchildren are gathered 'round reading birthday cards to him and handing out presents.

After dinner, the men watch a little football until the time arrives for Harry to take off to the neighborhood bar to continue celebrating with his cronies. While he is there, he meets Audrey (Ann-Margaret), a new barmaid. They are instantly and intensely attracted to each other.

For Harry, Audrey is his chance to escape the monotony of knowing exactly how each day will be when he gets up in the morning. She represents excitement and a chance to savor life. For Audrey, Harry is an attractive man, someone to love and cherish, someone to take the place of her dead husband.

The movie presents the every day adjustments and discussions that might occur in any family going through the same crisis. There are no heroes or villains. They are people who deal with a difficult situation in the best way they can and we respect them and sympathize with what they endure in order to reach that point where they can go on with their lives.

Hackman is excellent as the smitten but confused husband who wants to do right by his family but wants something for himself, too. Burstyn, far from being a nagging housewife who neglects herself, presents a bright, fun-loving attractive woman who loves her husband.

Amy Madigan turns in a notable performance as the unforgiving daughter. She is flinty and volatile, always ready to do battle and voice her disapproval.

Another character that deserves attention is Harry's pal Nick (Brian Dennehy). He and Harry make a great pair in the bar. Their scenes together lend a lot of fun to the film.

All in all, the film is an honest exploration of the consequences of a midlife upheaval in the lives of people trying to do the right things.

'The Best of Times' scores

By Marian Trainor

In "The Best of Times," Jack Dundee (Robin Williams) gets to do what many of us would like to do — go back and undo a crucial error we made in the past: Unlike Jack, however, we wouldn't let it become an obsession.

Ten years before, Jack and his friend Reno Hightower (Kurt Russell) were the star players on the Taft, Calif., football team. The game of the year was one played against a bigger and stronger team representing Bakersfield. In 60 years of play, Taft had never won. That annual defeat sort of tied in with other bad breaks that plagued the community. In a wonderful newsreel type prologue, the viewer gets to see some of those disasters. Bad as they were, none ever came close to affecting the town and citizens as the Taft-Bakersfield game of 1972.

For a few magic moments, it looked as though Taft's luck was about to change. Star quarterback Reno had the ball. He threw it to an open receiver for a final play. Jack dropped it. And his nightmare began.

He is never allowed to forget his error. Everywhere he goes, he is taunted and shamed. Reno has a little better fate. He is remembered and honored as an outstanding quarterback who had the bad luck of being on the same team as Jack. He settles down as an auto mechanic and van painter. The town itself goes into a decline and Jack believes he is the cause of that situation.

Mulling over the problem in the quiet of his bank office, Jack hits on an idea — one that will redeem him from ridicule and give the town a boost. He will gather together the same team who played on that fateful night and convince them to replay the game.

He doesn't meet with much enthusiasm but with a few shenanigans, he rallies the boys around and the fun begins.

There is first-rate comedy in the scenes showing the boys 10 years older and 40 pounds heavier trying to get into shape. The rituals of the lodge meetings, the football widows, Gigi Hightower (Pamela Reed) and Elly Dundee (Holly Palance) competing for attention with a television football game, Jack baring his soul to a roadside psychiatrist, add fun to the script.

Robin Williams as Jack is still Robin Williams. His remarkable ability to work his rubber-like face into a whole gamut of emotions is winning and amusing.

Kurt Russell is a good foil for Williams. He is his opposite, an outgoing rugged, rough and ready guy.

Rather like an adult version of "The Bad News Bears" in its appeal, "The Best of Times" scores a touchdown.

'Power' delivers a timely message

By Marian Trainor

"Power" has three compelling reasons for seeing it: three top actors share the same picture and often the same frame — Richard Gere, who gives the best performance of his career, Julie Christie and Gene Hackman.

Besides its fabulous cast, "Power" is a riveting, relevant film that delivers a timely message on the state of political campaigns and the packaging of political candidates.

Directed by Sidney Lumet, who brought to the screen "Network," "Prince of the City" and "The Verdict," all films that made viewers sit up and think, "Power" also stimulates the mental processes. It causes us to wonder whether the political process produces the best man for the job or the best front man who, if he is elected, will follow through on his well-phrased promises.

It is something to think about because as Ellen Freeman (Julie Christie, journalist ex-wife of Pete St. John (Richard Gere) remarks: "Foreigners with money for media could pick our candidates and buy their election."

"Power" explores this premise and others. It explores considerable territory as Gere considers about the business of electing two senators, one governor and one

Latin American.

The film begins with a bang — literally. A South American populist is making a speech to an enthusiastic group of supporters. In the background Gere is seen prompting his gestures and directing a camera crew. A car bomb explodes and a man is killed.

Gere rushes his man off the platform, where he cradles the dead man's bloody head while cameras zoom in all around him, shooting footage to be rushed to New York, cut, and distributed around the world. The candidate is ordered to wear the bloody shirt at every public appearance. He is instructed to cover it up with a coat and to open it at the end of every speech as he ends with the thought that the country would rather shed blood than be bought by American dollars.

Another assignment is a colorless carpetbagger who wants to be governor of New Mexico. He is completely redone, dressed up like a cowboy and positioned in front of a hundred extras also in cowboy costumes, all against the plains with a backdrop of mountains, while a voice-over reads a stirring speech about new frontiers. It's phony, but it works.

Another Gere case involves an incumbent woman governor who seeks re-election but has somewhat damaged her image by leaving her husband and children for her campaign manager. She is shown playing with her children while an animator flicks black splotches over them and voice-over deprecates the smear tactics of her opponent.

These cases are minor league compared to the main event which involves the mysterious resignation of a senator, the reason for that resignation and the race to fill his place.

There is no lack of story interest in "Power." It moves quickly and gives the viewer some intriguing insights into how the media works.

Top billing must go to Gere as the man you would love to hate but can't because in spite of his amoral attitude, he has charm, energy and a polite, disarming toughness.

Gene Hackman as Wilfred Buckley, his one-time associate and present opponent gives an excellent performance as a person who holds on to his principles, and loses out on being tapped for the big campaigns.

Julie Christie is captivating as a British journalist who turns up some nasty secrets on her own.

Kate Capshaw, Gere's assistant, Denzel Washington as a lobbyist/villain, E.G. Marshall as the retiring senator and Beatrice Straight as the senator's vulnerable wife, all add richness to an excellent cast.

March of Dimes Grantee Discovers Clue to Origin of Huntington Disease

by Samuel J. Aji, Ph.D.
Vice President for Research
March of Dimes
Birth Defects Foundation

Most people familiar with the music of folk-singer and composer Woody Guthrie know that he died before his time.

In the minds of many, his name is forever linked to the fatal, inherited disease that disabled and eventually killed him - Huntington disease (HD). But few know that at least 20,000 Americans now have HD, and up to 50,000 others are at risk of developing it in the prime of their lives.

Recently a young scientist, with research support from the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation, helped to make a giant step toward control of HD. Although HD rarely appears in children, it is a birth defect, as defined by the March of Dimes, because its origin is present in an individual's genes before birth.

The detective story involving the young biologist, Dr. Susan L. Naylor of Roswell Park Memorial Institute in Buffalo, N.Y., leads from a Venezuelan fishing village through Massachusetts General Hospital, Indiana University, and Buffalo.

NERVOUS SYSTEM DISEASE

Huntington disease (HD) is a deterioration of the nervous system. Its first signs usually appear between the ages of 25 and 45. Affected individuals gradually lose control over body movements and speech, often show disturbed behavior, may become demented, and generally die within a decade or two after the first symptoms.

Its onset in adulthood means that most patients have already had children, each of whom has a 50 percent chance of developing the disease someday.

There has been no way to tell which offspring of an HD patient have inherited this genetic time-bomb. Members of affected families face the dilemma of not knowing how to plan their lives, whether to marry or have children, or what to tell their intended spouses.

GENETIC DETECTIVES

In 1981, Dr. Naylor received a March of Dimes research grant to find human genes responsible for certain functions of body chemistry. These genes, if defective, cause various inherited diseases, often leading to childhood death or mental retardation. They have no known connection at all with HD.

However, in the course of this work Dr. Naylor found that a specific bit of isolated genetic material (DNA) is a tiny fragment of human chromosome # 4. The function of this scrap of DNA, which is contained in a larger piece of artificially combined human and viral DNA named "G8," remains unknown. But G8 could serve as a landmark for locating and identifying important genes that might lie nearby on chromosome #4.

In the meantime, other scientists were collecting blood and skin cells from families around Lake Maracaibo in Venezuela. That region contains the world's largest known concentration of HD cases. All of about a hundred affected individuals living there are descended from a common ancestor in the early 1800s.

The cell samples were sent to Massachusetts General Hospital for gene studies, and the data were analyzed at Indiana University's national registry of HD families. When doctors studied the Venezuelan cases and did similar studies of a smaller American family, they found that the HD gene is rather consistently inherited along with the natural human DNA segment corresponding to G8. Since those genes seem to be "travelling companions," doctors reasoned that the human DNA in G8 must have originated quite close to the still unidentified HD gene.

And by tracing the segment to chromosome #4, Dr. Naylor has shown us where to start looking for that HD gene. It is now only a matter of time until the location of the gene is found.

Finding it will open up exciting possibilities for prevention and treatment of HD.

The first practical use for it will surely be testing to identify members of HD families who are, or are not, destined to develop the disease. (Some will not want to know, but surveys indicate that most will.) Testing for the HD gene will be possible even before birth. For these purposes, the HD gene itself need not be identified. All that is needed is a good landmark or two in addition to G8.

Identifying the gene should enable learning what it does that makes certain brain cells die. Knowing this would be a crucial step toward devising a way to keep them alive.

CONTINUING RESEARCH

The unfinished story of the long-sought HD gene illustrates how basic research often works. The public gives its support with only a general idea of what the money will be used for. The March of Dimes allocates it to a talented scientist with only a general notion of what it will produce, or how the findings will be useful.

Dr. Naylor's work probably will continue to clarify genetic causes of the childhood diseases that are her focus of her March of Dimes-supported research. Providing an important clue to a late-onset birth defect, HD, was a surprise. But it was not a big surprise. Modern communications and jet travel allow scientists today to share findings very efficiently. One researcher's finding is often a piece to someone else's puzzle.

This is one reason why American public support for basic medical research continues to be a blue-chip investment, and a source of justifiable national pride.

BRUINS-OILERS
Two unassisted first period goals by the Bruins' Chris Gibson and Phil Descamps, plus goals from Jason Santo and Greg Ryan, gave the Bruins a 4-1 win over a hard-skating Oilers team. Ryan Descamps and Gibson also drew assists. Ryan Robson scored for the Oilers, assisted by Sebastian Yofre. Tod Dunlap (Bruins) and Geoff Kimmel (Oilers) played well in goal. Also playing outstanding hockey for their teams were the Bruins' Edith and Francois Berube, Chris Dettmer, Matt Larisey and Nick Miotke, and the Oilers' Peter Blake, Billy Crandall, Joey Berger and Kevin and Brian Kasiborski.

Pee Wee Division

RAIDERS-BULLDOGS
The Grosse Pointe Raiders

started the district playoffs with a 4-3 victory over the Rocco Bulldogs of Fraser.

The Bulldogs took an early lead on a goal by Si Soloman, from Brian Bostuba. Soloman put Fraser up, 2-0, when he converted a Dave Kasperowicz pass. But the Raiders got the next four goals to take the win and complete the first step toward a state championship.

Mike Kisskalt scored two unassisted goals and Gabe Benvenuto added an unassisted tally. Jack McSorley put the finishing touch on the game when he whistled a shot past Bulldogs' goalie Jason Boss; Kisskalt drew an assist. The Bulldogs scored one more goal to make things close, but goaltender Greg Semack shut the door on them the rest of the way.

It's playoff time in the Grosse Pointe Hockey Association and the Grosse Pointe News is happy to publish the playoff games. Deadline, as always, is noon Mondays. Further information may be obtained from the GPHA publicity director or by calling the News at 882-0294.

ULMS cagers beat Cranbrook

The University Liggett Middle School JV basketball team extended its season record 2-3 with a 37-34 victory over Cranbrook School on Jan. 30.

Key to the Knights' success was its man-to-man defense and domination of the backboards. Alex Sachs had 13 rebounds and David Darby, 12. Darby's 10 points, four blocked shots and five assists earned him "player of the game" honors from Coach Josh Schmidt.
