Let us pray

Sally Reynolds, director of Children's Theater which will present "Oliver" May 10, 16 and 17, stumbled across an effective prayer. The group's latest production has a number of adult roles and after everyone was cast and the company was well into rehearsal, one of the adult male actors had to drop out for medical reasons.

"Our prayer will be amen," the resourceful director told the cast, "like ah-men and men will appear." And wouldn't you know it, a man did appear in the form of one of the children's fathers. He stepped right into the role, averting another minor crisis in the annals of the theatrical group.

Break a leg, Dad!

Acting is full of ups and downs

Another story from rehearsals of "Oliver," the next production of Children's Theater...

Young Kim Ramsey, who is cast as one of Fagin's gang, a member of the workhouse and a singer, watched her father Jim, also in the play, being directed by Sally Reynolds. He was told to move upstage and when he drew a blank look, Kim showed her father what was up and what was down. "Don't worry, Mrs. Reynolds, I'll work with him," Kim said.

Even fathers, who always know best, need a helping hand now and then.

Deadeye Dick, for shame

It's a sure sign of spring when the BB guns come out of wraps. Apparently a lot of Farmstolks think they're Frank Buck in the wilderness — and it's taking a toll on property and wildlife.

Farms police logged four BB incidents in just one day last week. Three Grosse Pointe men in their 20s took down their trusty Daisies and bagged 'em a robin, yes sir. An officer confiscated the guns and the bird and charged the men with discharging a weapon inside the city limits.

Later that day, an unsuspecting driver was startled by two loud noises and discovered that his car's rear window was shattered by a BB. Two windows worth more than $100 in a house on Lakeview were also found to be shot out.

And, also on Lakeview, somebody called and complained to the police that kids were shooting guns. An officer saw a couple of boys come out of the house, firing their guns in the air.

When they spotted the law, the kids ran in and tried to hide the guns, but it was no go. Two loaded BB rifles were confiscated.

Isn't there some place around here where the kids can go to practice without killing or breaking anything?

Calendar caller called

Last week a Woods couple called to tell us about their city's calendar which contained a small error. The calendar lists 31 days for the month of April. We lost their names, but they called back to remind us who they were.

They were Richard and Marion Gale.

First group home set to open this summer

By Pat Paholsky

After more than six years of looking to open the first group home for mentally retarded adults in one of the Pointes, a local organization is trying again. The Association for Retarded Citizens (ARC) of Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods bought a house at 615 Lakepointe in the Park for $91,000 on March 24.

Plans are to place six mentally retarded adults in the home, according to a spokesperson for an agency of the Department of Mental Health. Denise Mogos, acting director of public affairs for Wayne Community Living Services, said it's her best guess that the group home would be in operation this summer. Four of the six residents placed in the home will be Grosse Pointers who are currently living with their parents, she said.

The initial response by residents in the area raises the specter of the legal battle waged in 1981 when the Department of Mental Health bought a house on Bedford. Residents then — on a legal technicality — were successful in preventing the home from opening. Their legal fight cost them more than $10,000.

About 70 residents met Saturday at Windmill Pointe Park to discuss their options. Some spoke of taking legal action and a few spoke in favor of the home, City Manager John Crawford said. "In general, the meeting went very well. They understood there's nothing the city can do."

Letters notifying residents of the agency's intent will be mailed this week, Mogos said. She said residents within 1,500 feet on each side of the house and 500 feet in front and behind will receive notices.

Local approval is not required, according to a 1976 state law. P.A. 393-398 states no special zoning or approval is required when six or fewer persons live in a licensed home in a residential area. The state law supersedes a Park zoning ordinance which prohibits more than two unrelated adults from living together in a house.

There will be an information center set up at Trombly School Monday, May 12, from 5 to 8 p.m., for residents to come at their convenience, Mogos said. It will be hosted by the Group Home Advisory Council of Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods, Wayne Community Living Services and Community Administrative Services, Inc., the private, non-profit agency that will operate the home.

Mogos said her agency provides funds to the operating agency, selects the people who will live in the home and provides the services. These include an interdisciplinary team consisting of a social worker, speech therapist, nurse, psychologist, dietician and occupational therapist — all of whom will make regular visits to the house. Direct staff will provide 24-hour care. There will be two people on staff when residents are home, she said, and at least one person when the residents are at school or work.

Buying the home is the latest in an effort begun in 1980 by ARC to find a home for mentally retarded adults. At that time, the group approached the board of education about the school-owned house on Grosse Pointe Boulevard used as a residence for the superintendent. Then superintendent William Coats announced plans to lease the district and there was talk of selling the house. The school board, however, decided to keep the house as an incentive for future superintendents.

The organization was set to begin house-hunting in 1981 when plans by the Department of Mental Health to place six mentally retarded adults in a house on Bedford resulted in a lawsuit that succeeded in stopping the venture.

Then last year ARC teamed up with the Group Home Advisory Council of Grosse Pointe-Harper

Woods to find a house in the Pointes. The group had enough money from six years of fundraising for a down payment on a house up to $100,000.

ARC President Frank Evanski, a Farms resident, said application to operate a group home at the Lakepointe address has been made. "If they approve the application and the home meets all the requirements, the Department of Mental Health will lease it from us."

This house at 615 Lakepointe was bought by the Association of Retarded Citizens for a group home.

No incidents reported first weekend of curfew

By Nancy Parmenter

It was all quiet on the Hill this weekend. The warm, summer-like temperatures brought about 30 youths out to congregate in the residential Radnor-Hall area just off Kercheval, but they "dispersed without incident," according to police.

The Farms police beefed up their presence with additional foot patrol, which will be continued for an unspecified period, said Police Chief Robert Ferber.

"The parents are the ones to be complimented," Ferber said. "They've taken responsible actions to keep their children off the streets."

Meanwhile, parents and officials are organizing to respond to the youth complaint that they have nothing to do. Mark Weber, director of the War Memorial, said Monday that he has been talking to John Bruce, director of the Neighborhood Club, and Farms councilwoman Gail Kaess.

"There are lots of different groups sort of talking about the same thing," Weber said. He said a small group is forming to look at both structured and unstructured activities.

"There's no more open space to go where you're not infringing on somebody," he said. "You can't just go out to the woods or the field any more. If you're from the Park and your friend is from the Farms, you can't even go to the city park together."

Resident Dee Szmrecsanyi of the South High Mothers Club is also looking for alternatives to a curfew. She was a member of the committee that set up a teen center at the Neighborhood Club last year.

"It was decided by the committee that the kids weren't interested," Szmrecsanyi said. "We reluctantly concluded that the kids would rather drink and party. Now we'd like to try it again."

Although students were involved in the planning for the teen center, Szmrecsanyi said they didn't support it. Now she has student interest among a support group looking for activities that don't focus on drugs or alcohol.

"What has impressed me most is the ideas (the students have suggested)," she said. "They want fun, unstructured activities. The problem is that kids who are off substances still have friends who use them."

Szmrecsanyi said her main thrust is to keep teenagers occupied with worthwhile activities and off alcohol. "We learned in SAC that kids can become alcoholics in six months (of starting drinking)," she said. "They miss so many stages of development in adolescence."

Drinking water is safe, health department says

By Nancy Parmenter

The Farms will be able to treat its harbor for aquatic weeds this spring after all. A quick study last week by the state Department of Public Health determined that 2,4-D, copper sulfate and other chemicals used to retard weed growth will not enter the water supply for Grosse Pointe Farms, Grosse Pointe and Highland Park.

Richard Lehner of the health department said his maps do not show the exact location of the water intake in relation to the harbor, but he estimated that the 36-inch intake lies 2,300 feet offshore.

"Upstream or downstream wouldn't make any difference because the (outflowing) chemical would hug the shoreline," he said. "If we had determined there was a problem, we would have pulled the permit."

Lehner said the state health department does not regulate swimming and that the Farms swimming area is not shown on the map. "If there is a beach in the area, I would expect the DNR to contact the local health department," he said.

So far, the Wayne County Health Department has not heard from the DNR. "I don't know if the DNR knew there was a beach there," said the department's Tom McNulty. "If they did, they would notify us."

The county health department samples the water at the Pier Park on a weekly basis throughout the summer. Normally they monitor fecal coliform, but if they are aware of specific chemicals, they can run a test for them, McNulty said.

This year the department hopes to have an officer running samples as early as May 5.

The aquatic weed control chemicals have a short-lived toxicity, according to McNulty, but swimming is contraindicated for a specified period in the treated area. "I hope they post the beach," he said.

It is possible that the chemicals will not reach the beach in spite of its closeness to the marina.

Boaters have complained for years about the poor water circulation of water inside the harbor, according to Farms Clerk Richard Solak.

Lehner was inclined to agree. "I would expect very little to get out of the harbor," he said. "That's probably one reason they have weeds in there, because of its poor circulation."

The DNR did not order a health department review of the case when it first granted the permit last year. No review was done when the second permit was granted this year. Without a review, it is impossible to know whether the chemicals would invade drinking or swimming water. Lehner's review last week rectified the oversight as far as drinking water is concerned.

The DNR granted the permit April 1 to Rose Aquatic Control Service to treat the harbor with 50 gallons of Aquathol K, 1,000 pounds of 2,4-D, 11 gallons of Hydrothol 191 and 104 pounds of copper sulfate. Further, Rose Manager Russell Lemons said that the firm would apply Diquat later in the summer if the weed growth requires it.

The DNR requires the posting of a 24-hour ban on swimming in the treated area. This would apply only to the harbor itself. 2,4-D carries an indefinite restriction on domestic use, including drinking, cooking and bathing. It is not clear why bathing is restricted indefinitely and swimming is not.

The city has sat on the sidelines as the questions swirled around it. There is no city role in the entire procedure beyond letting the initial contract.

Monday Solak said he planned some telephone calls to find out what the city should do. "We don't want to do anything that would hurt anybody," he said.

Meanwhile, the DNR and the state health department have "clarified" their procedures, according to Lehner.

"We expect it not to happen again," he said. "We really don't want to have any of that in the drinking water."

Building to go up after 7-year delay

By Nancy Parmenter

The Bologna-Standard Federal building is finally set to start. After a late June groundbreaking ceremony, actual construction will start "about the Fourth of July," developer Peter Bologna said.

Held up recently by a complete architectural redesign, the building will make only a slight bow to the traditional style prevalent on the Hill. It will feature a round smoky glass, tower-like entrance and each shop will be set off by a copper awning. A model is on display at the new Standard Federal branch on the Hill.

"We wanted a 1986 building that incorporated the values of the traditional," Bologna said. "So we used the copper, the Mankato stone trim — that's the principal decorative material at the Kingswood School — and the bow windows on the corners."

The 60,000-square-foot building will run from Muir Road to the Bronze Door, with a tunnel-like drive-through to the Standard Federal drive-in banking window which will be located at the rear of the building. It will be three stories high, with the third level recessed to be less obtrusive from the street.

This will be the first speculative commercial building in the Farms in two decades. Standard Federal, which has a part-interest in the project, will occupy 3,000 square feet at the Muir Road end of the building. The remainder will be available to lease for commercial or retail use.

Only the office/retail portion of the project is being built now. A parking structure will eventually be built behind the Standard Federal building. Bologna has guaranteed to erect the structure if Cottage Hospital does not do it within three years.

The Standard Federal building will change the flow of traffic into the Farms municipal parking lot starting with the July construction date. The entrance from Kercheval will be closed and a new road with access from Muir will be opened.

The new building will have 10,000 square feet of retail space on the first floor, in conformance with the Farms city council first-floor retail resolution. It was designed by Neumann-Greager & Associates of Southfield and is expected to cost $6.5 million.

Bologna anticipates a 1987 completion date.

The Bologna-Standard Federal office/retail building fills all the vacant space left on the Hill. At the left is the building housing the defunct Bronze Door; next to it is the tunnel-like drive-through to the Standard Federal banking window. The glass tower main entrance to the building will be located just to the north-east of the present Kercheval entrance to the Farms municipal parking lot. The model went on display last week.

Clarification

The front page photo last week of groups of teens was not representative of the new curfew and impending ordinances that were passed in the Farms last week. Filippo Licavoli, owner of the Caffe Trevi that was shown in the photograph, said he has no problem with the students on Fisher Road. He feels that there is a problem on the Hill because the students there are younger than the high school-age clientele his business serves.

Safe Rides wins award, program spreads to 3 local schools

By Mike Andrzejczyk

It's been a busy month for Safe Rides programs in Grosse Pointe. The chapter that operates out of the War Memorial received an award from the Boy Scouts of America Explorers division last month, while three local high schools have banded together to operate a program.

The Safe Rides program which has operated out of the War Memorial for the past two years, is an Explorer Post of the Boy Scouts, because the national organization is the provider of the program's insurance, according to War Memorial director Mark Weber.

Grosse Pointe Safe Rides was named the Outstanding Program of the Year by the Boy Scouts of America Exploring Division at its annual recognition dinner April 24 at the Warren Chateau. The award is given yearly to the Boy Scout troop or Sea Explorer post for the best content of a non-vocational program.

The program is organized and operated by students and is designed to provide a free confidential ride home, within certain boundaries, to any student who is not in a condition to drive safely or to any student who wants to avoid being a passenger in such a situation.

The program was first organized in 1984, when South High School students and the School Team decided to organize such a program, patterned after those operating on the East Coast.

The cost of insurance was prohibitive, however, so participants joined with the Boy Scouts to use that group's insurance coverage.

The War Memorial has been involved in the program for the past two years, providing some financial support as well as a base of operations, with telephone and radio equipment.

The program was developed as a way to combat drinking and driving by students. Those who call 88-HOME-8 Friday or Saturday night between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. will receive a ride home.

The group averaged about five rides a night last year, according to president Martha Berschback. This year, the average is 10 or 11, she said. There have been as many as 25 requests on some nights, but that varies with the time of year.

Trouble with radio transmission carrying to the north end of the school district prompted students and parents from North High School, Our Lady Star of the Sea and University Liggett School to work together to base a Safe Rides program out Liggett, according to Margaret Steele at North.

The north-end program has been in operation since the end of March. North has about 70 members active in the program so far, she added.

The program serves all of Grosse Pointe and Harper Woods, overlapping somewhat coverage of the War Memorial-based programs. It operates the same as at the War Memorial; students who call 884-9494 between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. on Friday or Saturday night can get a free, confidential ride home.

The north-end program was really born last September at a rally held by Project Graduation, sponsored by television stations in the area, Steele said. Those who attend came away from the meeting wanting to do something and decided to put together the Safe Rides program for the north end of the district.

Once the plans were laid, invitations were sent to the non-public schools to offer a joint operation, Steele said.

The north-end program, based at Liggett's Cook Road campus, helps provide students from the three schools a chance to serve the needs of their peers while fostering interaction between the schools, she added.

Underground gas tanks removed

By Nancy Parmenter

It wasn't done quite according to Hoyle, but the underground gas tanks at the razed gas station on the Hill are gone. Apparently spurred by a police threat to call the state fire marshal, owner Peter Bologna quickly ordered the tanks' removal last Thursday without notifying the local fire marshal.

The law requires that the local fire marshal supervise the removal of any underground gasoline storage tank to see if there have been any leaks. Nobody at the Farms fire department knew of the removal until after the fact.

"Our role is to make sure it's safe," said Fire Chief Sam Candela this week. Candela said the tanks were made safe after they were exposed two weeks ago.

"We ordered them to be plugged. A wooden plug with a rag wrapped around was hammered in with a sledge hammer — you can't get them out," Candela said.

Following an April 19 incident when teenagers reportedly set fire to a backhoe parked at the site, police became concerned that someone could drop a match in the tanks. "A cup of gas is worth six sticks of dynamite," said Farms Det. Lt. Earl Field. "The tanks had been pumped out, but there's always a residue."

Candela said he was on the scene when the tanks were emptied of water two weeks ago. He said there were no spills or leaks. The gas in the tanks was pumped out several years ago after the station closed, according to Candela and Bologna.

"The tanks were filled with water a couple of years ago," Bologna said. "They still had sludge and some vapors. . . There was some (standing) water and gas mixed together outside the tank (last week) and we had the tanker pump that out, too."

Bologna said the tanks were not dangerous after the plugs were installed. "I've been handling gas tanks since 1967 (as a contractor)," he said, "and the truth is that as long as they're vented, there's very little danger."

Mike Czuprenski of the DNR groundwater division said his department relies on the local fire marshal. "We have so many gas tanks and so few resources," he said. "We don't investigate unless the inspector on the scene feels there has been a release of product."

If gasoline leaks from an underground tank, there is a danger of contaminating the water table, Czuprenski said. To avoid that, the DNR would order the owner to excavate the surrounding soil.

The soil at the site was filled and leveled a week ago.

Farms considers city hall expansion

With the current drop in interest rates, the Farms is looking into a major expansion of the city hall, instead of the renovation and beautification previously planned.

"With these interest rates, it's better to bite the bullet and issue a bond if necessary," said Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Fromm at the April 7 city council meeting.

Several months ago, the council approved spending $75,000 in community block grant funds to add an elevator, improve the building's rear entrance, pave and enlarge the parking lot and plan shrubbery. However, all departments housed in the building are overcrowded.

"Rather than spread the grief and move people into the file room, we should take a look at an addition to the back of the city hall and the police department," City Manager Andrew Bremer told the council.

Bremer said that in the interest of preserving the building's architecture, he had invited the original architect to look over the situation and submit preliminary sketches.

Two weeks ago, the initial architectural drawings were being checked for space requirements by city department heads, according

Tanning talk

There is no such thing as a healthy tan, according to Myron Barlow, M.D., dermatologist. Dr. Barlow and his associate, Judith T. Lipinski, M.D., will present a community program at Cottage Hospital, "Sunlight and Your Skin," Thursday, May 8, 7 to 9 p.m. in the hospital's lower level boardrooms.

Reservations are required for this free community program. Call 884-8600, ext. 2390, for more information or to reserve a seat.

Police, firemen required to sign statement

By Pat Paholsky

Police officers and firefighters in the Park have until May 15 to sign a statement requesting employment with the public safety department. If they don't, they'll be out of a job come July 1, when the two departments are scheduled to be consolidated.

A letter along with a Request for Employment form was sent to all fire and police personnel April 17. As of April 28, "about a half dozen" police officers and firefighters responded, City Manager John Crawford said.

Including the chiefs, there are 30 officers and 19 firefighters. The unions for both departments have posted notices asking employees to hold off signing the forms until their attorneys look at them, Crawford added.

"The letter is not intended to discharge employees," he said. "The letter is intended to give them assurance they have employment. We are trying to give everybody a job."

"It's intimidating to all of us," firefighter Joseph Biak said. "Our jobs are on the line. I feel it's a tremendous power play. If they can get us to sign it, what the heck do we need an election for?"

Student apprehended in pipe bomb case

A 17-year-old Grosse Pointe North High School student has reportedly signed a confession, admitting his involvement in the April 14 bombing of North High.

According to Woods Lt. Peter Thomas, the city's youth officer and two detectives worked together to come up with the name of a suspect and the effort paid off.

A pipe bomb exploded outside of the school's glass-enclosed staircase April 14. Two windows were shattered and three others were broken. School officials had set damage estimates at about $2,500.

Police are withholding the name of the Woods resident, pending arraignment in municipal court — sometime in June, according to Thomas.

The special election, giving voters the final say in whether the two departments should be consolidated, is now set for August, more than one month after the merger process officially begins.

As a result, the firefighters, who are banking on the voters agreeing with them in August, find themselves in the awkward position of requesting employment with a department they hope does not become a reality. They feel the signed statements will imply endorsement of the concept prior to the election and can be used against them in any informational literature the city distributes before the primary.

The city's action triggered a letter by the Save our EMS/Fire Department Committee. A three-page letter, signed by Biak and mailed Friday, appeals to residents to become involved. The response as of Monday has been good, according to firefighter Lee Fallieres who, along with his wife Jean, has been receiving calls at home. He said they received about 20 calls favorable to their position.

Mayor Palmer Heenan, who is referred to by name in the letter seven times, feels it is a personal attack. "The issue we are trying to address is how to get more patrols around the borders of our city. We have very few fires and we are trying to prevent lawn mowers and snow blowers from being taken by having an increased police presence," he said.

Of 18 firemen, four live in the Park, Heenan said, and the rest "should be changing the charters of the cities in which they live, not the charter of Grosse Pointe Park. The others are not concerned with police presence because they don't live here. They're only concerned with union benefits."

Park merger vote set for August

The Park firefighters lost a big one Friday. A circuit court judge ruled that a special election the firefighters sought regarding the merger of the police and fire departments could be piggy-backed with the August primary.

The group was aiming for a June election in which the issue would be the only one on the ballot — "a clear-cut, one-item issue that couldn't be muddled," firefighter Joseph Biak said. They succeeded in collecting enough signatures to force a special election before July 1, the date the two departments will officially consolidate into a public safety department.

The Home Rule Act, which requires that an election be scheduled between 120 and 130 days after the petitions are filed, conflicted with another election law that prohibits two local elections from being held within 30 days of one another. The special election was to take place in June, according to the Home Rule Act, however, there is a school board election set for June 9.

The city went to court to request that the election be held in conjunction with the August primary and Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brennan ruled in its favor Friday.

"What the judge held, in essence, was that the Michigan election law controls the more general provisions of the Home Rule Act," city attorney Herold McC. Deason said.

Reading, readers topic at annual library dinner

The guest speaker for the annual dinner of the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Library will be Susan Willens who will talk about — what else? — books.

"She's an excellent speaker," said John Williams, who is on the board of the Friends. "She tells what's interesting in books and how to glean the most out of them."

Willens, who earned a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan, a master's from Yale and a doctorate from the Catholic University in Washington, D.C., is the director of Arbor Seminars, a series of book-discussion groups for adults. She has lectured on English literature for the Smithsonian aboard the cruise ship Argonaut as it toured the British Isles.

She lectures to groups around the country, sharing her enthusiasm for reading poetry and novels. Her topic, "Have You Read Any Good Books Lately?" highlights current titles that inform, amuse and elevate. Willens believes that good writing gives pleasure and keeps people sane in troubled times.

The event, open to the public, will be held Tuesday, May 6, at 7 p.m. in the Fries auditorium at the War Memorial. The dinner is $12 and reservations must be made by Friday, May 2, at the Central Library. Ask for Linda Kaplinski. There is no charge for the talk which is at 8 p.m.

Loaded gun lands owner in Shores jail

A Dearborn man was arrested for carrying a concealed, loaded gun by Shores police April 19. The weapon was not registered.

An officer stopped Steven John Nystie, 36, for speeding down Lakeshore at 65 m.p.h. on his Harley-Davidson motorcycle early Saturday morning. When Nystie opened a compartment on the motorcycle to get his registration papers, the officer saw a small handgun.

The officer returned to his scout car to radio for assistance. Police in two other cars responded, according to the report.

The officers asked Nystie to step off his bike and put his hands over his head. They then removed the gun, a .38-caliber five-shot Charter Arms revolver — an "undercover special" — loaded with five teflon 38 special bullets, so-called "cop-killers."

The state computer system showed no record of the gun. Nystie, a member of the Scorpions motorcycle club, was held until his arraignment April 21, then released on $5,000 bond.

Board considers gift policy

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Board of Education took its first official look April 15 at a new gift policy covering donations to the schools and public libraries.

The document ends months of discussions among administrators, community groups and PTOs. Superintendent John Whritner said.

The only change suggested by the board was a provision that members be informed of all gifts to the system, but need only approve those of more than $500.

Trustee Joan Hanpeter said the school board is interested in the amount given each year to the schools by PTOs and other groups.

"Sometimes it appears that some schools' parent organizations aren't making any gifts at all because we don't see them coming before the board," she said. She suggested a yearly accounting of donations to each school.

The board supports gifts which enhance, expand or enrich the school and library program and may include such things as playground equipment, site improvement projects, library books, field trips, art work and small supply funds for teachers, according to the proposed policy.

The board will decide if a gift is to be accepted or rejected and gifts with unusual conditions of use will not generally be accepted, according to the policy.

The board does not encourage organizations to raise money for required equipment or personnel, basic texts and other materials needed for district-approved curriculum, but encourages gifts of books and other materials for school libraries, provided the material meets the same standards of selection as those applied to the purchase of all school library material, according to proposed policy.

Contributions that require major costs to the system for operation and maintenance must have board approval in advance. Any gift that changes the approved curriculum or requires adding employees also requires advance approval, according to the policy.

Planning for gifts should include, when possible, ideas from building staff. Gifts intended for a specific building require approval of the building principal before submission to the central office.

Fundraising shouldn't interfere with class time or mean door-to-door solicitation by students. Fundraisers for field trips need the approval of the appropriate director of curriculum, according to the proposed policy.

In accepting gifts, the board will try to avoid creating significant differences among facilities or programs of the various schools. Gifts may be rejected for that reason, the policy reads.

The guidelines covering gifts to public libraries are similar to those covering school gifts.

"We have been working with PTOs and the administration trying to come up with a policy that will clearly define where we are going with gifts, what the role of the school board will be and what the role of the various organizations making donations will be," Whritner said.

"We will distribute this to the various parent organizations and others who might be involved for their reaction to it and hopefully ... have it ready for action next month," he added.

Grosse Pointe Education Association President Doris Cook, speaking at the end of the meeting, said she had some concerns about the policy. She asked the school board to consider deleting the section of gift acceptance for small supply funds for teachers, saying such a provision often fosters competition among buildings.

If such funds are considered useful, they should be included in the school program in another way, she added.

Cook also asked that time used up with handing out of materials in classrooms be monitored. Often, organizers depend on teachers to motivate students for fundraising activities, something that should be done by the organizers, she added.

In support of law and order

Some people seem to think the Grosse Pointe Farms Council over-reacted to several recent incidents on the Hill in tightening regulations aimed at better control of teenage behavior. Yet it is difficult to argue with the council's action in light of the acts of vandalism reported in the Grosse Pointe News last week.

Several recent fires in dumpsters and other rubbish containers threatened business places on the Hill. Playing "chicken" in the public streets by lying down in front of approaching cars — and then jumping on the cars that stop — are activities that could lead to serious consequences. And the harassment of customers and blocking their passage on the sidewalks also constitute behavior that is inconsistent with the public's need for law and order.

True, it is impossible to legislate morality, as the nation found with the prohibition amendment. But the ordinances that prohibit casual congregating of teenagers and impose earlier curfews at least set standards for behavior. And if they are enforced quietly and efficiently, they may serve as the warning that was intended.

The imposition of a $500 fine or a 90-day jail sentence on parents of a minor who violates the curfew ordinance may be regarded as too tough, but it ought to tighten parental control. It is difficult when both parents are employed outside the home for them to exercise their traditional parental supervision. Yet neither the police, nor the schools, nor the churches, nor other community organizations can really provide an effective substitute for the kind of supervision that can be provided by the home. So perhaps the parental responsibility that will be required by the ordinance will help curb juvenile misbehavior.

It is true that regulations such as those imposed by the Farms council tend to punish the many young people who are not involved in the incidents that have disturbed local authorities and other residents. But to say that the community should avoid any regulations because the majority of young people behave is to ignore the behavior of the minority who have created problems for business people, their customers and the police.

More organized youth activities have been recommended as one solution to juvenile delinquency. Attempts to achieve that goal have not been too successful in the past, but perhaps better organization will enlist the wider participation needed if such activities are to serve as a curb on lawless behavior. Efforts of the War Memorial and other organizations will be welcomed as the community seeks to provide more recreational activities for its youth.

Farms Police Chief Robert Ferber says he regards the ordinances as "the first step" in controlling juvenile behavior in the public parks, streets and alleys and around business places in the Farms. If the "first step" taken by the council proves successful and if community organizations can agree on youth activities that will encourage widespread participation, perhaps no additional regulations will be required.

As all parents know, young people often have so much energy and enthusiasm for life that it is difficult to keep them busy in useful and acceptable pursuits. But perhaps a community-wide approach will help achieve the law and order sought by the Farms ordinances and, indeed, desired by most residents, young as well as old.

Our readers say

Spirit still prevails in Pointes

To the Editor:

One morning in early March, I was walking on Fisher Road across from the library when I slipped on a piece of ice and fell. I soon discovered that I had injured myself to the extent that I was unable to stand on my feet. Consequently, I had to remain lying on the damp ground.

There was no pedestrian traffic to whom I could appeal for help, but fortunately before too long a driver stopped and asked if she could be of assistance. She was Marguerite Annessa from the nearby Sports on the Hill shop. I told her of my accident and she volunteered to telephone for help. She tried three houses on Fisher but nobody responded. She then called from the library.

When a scout car arrived, the officer decided that an ambulance was needed. The ambulance came and I was taken to Cottage Hospital where X-rays showed a fractured hip and leg.

I would like to express publicly my appreciation to Ms. Annessa and the officers, who volunteered to notify my wife, who was attending a meeting at a local church. The solicitude of these people is a good example of the community spirit still prevailing in the Pointes.

Come enjoy our hospitality

To the Editor:

It was with pride, pleasure and anticipation that we opened our newest business venture the Caffe Trevi, an ice-cream parlor and cafe in the European tradition, in the city of Grosse Pointe. We chose our location on Fisher because of its accessibility to residents of all the Grosse Pointes and the students of Grosse Pointe South. We wonder if you can imagine our dismay when we picked up the Grosse Pointe News and saw a picture of the Caffe Trevi as pictorial support for an article that does not present our story or reflect any of our experiences. Not only are this community's youth our valued customers, but they are also our quality employees.

We are concerned that this photo of the Caffe Trevi implies to this community and especially our youth that our thoughts coincide with those expressed in the accompanying story. They do not.

We invite our customers of all ages to come in and enjoy Caffe Trevi hospitality and respect.

Clarification

To the Editor:

We are compelled to correct the misstatements contained in your article in the Grosse Pointe News on Thursday, April 24, 1986, including the statement that the Bronze Door liquor license was transferred from Standby No. 5, Inc. to Paul Marco, individually, and the statement attributed to me that "Marco would hold the license in escrow for a year while he considers plans for the building."

The actual fact is that the liquor license was transferred from the Bronze Door to Standby No. 5, Inc. and will be held in escrow by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission pending determination of its use in connection with the possible restructuring of the Bronze Door building in view of the contemplated new building construction in the immediate area.

Furthermore, the acquisition of the Bronze Door by Standby No. 5, Inc. is entirely unrelated to the War Memorial efforts to obtain a liquor license and any statement or implication contained in your article to the contrary is incorrect.

Joyous evening at South

To the Editor:

If you missed the "Beach Scene" at Grosse Pointe South High School on April 25, it was your loss. It was truly a joyous, entertaining evening. Five hundred to 600 students were there. The dress was outlandish: jams, skirts, jeans, tennis shorts, a rainbow of color of T-shirts. One boy had polka-dotted shorts, life jacket and scuba mask. They all wore smiles (macho men had half a smile).

The D.J. said they shouted louder than Bishop Gallagher in the "shout" dance. For the "get down" dance, 500 students laid down on the floor with their legs extended in the air flailing about. The stench from the BO at the end of the dance was enough to gag a maggot. All they had to drink was water.

But these 500-600 students had found something to do in Grosse Pointe on a Friday night and were thoroughly enjoying it. It was so comforting to see and know that a lot of Grosse Pointe teenagers can be very polite to adult chaperones, to each other, and enjoy the event without vandalism and substance abuse.

A GOP idea becomes law

An idea hatched by a Grosse Pointe Republican and endorsed by the Democratic state administration as a means of raising an additional $50 million in state revenue will go into effect next month and run for 50 days.

It is, of course, the tax amnesty law passed by the Legislature after Rep. William Bryant Jr. proposed that Michigan follow the precedent cent cut in the state income tax from 5.1 percent to 4.6 percent, effective March 31, but payments above the $50 million could cut the tax to less than 4.6 percent.

On a specific basis, state Treasurer Robert Bowman says that the rate will be reduced retroactively by one additional day beyond March 31 for each $1 million collected above the $50 million target.

The Democratic administration's packet of press information on the amnesty does not mention the fact that the idea came from Bryant, although a number of Democrats earlier had conceded that the Grosse Pointe Republican was the first to really propose it in Michigan. If something goes sour with the plan — or it doesn't work out as expected — the Democrats then no doubt will be more than happy to shift the blame to Bryant.

Trouble is not expected, however, except for those tax delinquents who do not now pay up. The state has announced that it will impose stiffer penalties and have more enforcement of officers available to catch the culprits who do not take advantage of the amnesty. After amnesty, penalties will increase from 25 to 50 percent of the amount owed and a 100 percent penalty will continue to exist for deliberate tax fraud.

The amnesty will be available on a dozen forms of Michigan taxes ranging from the individual income tax to the intangibles tax to the highway gasoline tax to the utility property tax. Delinquent taxpayers will be allowed to pay their back taxes without fear of penalty or prosecution. However, they will have to pay interest on their delinquent taxes and those who are involved in criminal or civil court litigation are not eligible for the amnesty.

The state is taking a tough line in selling the amnesty program. Its slogan is: "Get to us before we get to you." On the basis of what the state has said, that sounds like good advice.

of Massachusetts, New York and several other states in order to increase revenues on a one-shot basis. Gov. James Blanchard signed the bill into law March 25, and the effective dates now have been set for May 12 through June 30.

Some taxpayers who have kept their payments current have complained about this break for tax delinquents, but the fact is that the tax amnesty could reduce taxes still further for everyone. The program is expected to raise at least $50 million and thus help finance the re-

Much ado about nothing?

If the Board of County Commissioners does not permit county voters to decide the fate of the elected drain commissioner in the August primary, county board Chairman John Hertel may start a new petition drive to put the issue on the ballot next November.

But isn't there already a petition drive under way to put the drain commissioner issue on the ballot in November?

Yes, there is, but Hertel believes the proposal being backed by Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara and County Executive William Lucas is fatally flawed. He contends that even if successful, it would permit County Drain Commissioner Charles Youngblood to remain in office until his current term expires in 1988. Furthermore, according to Hertel, the McNamara-Lucas proposal would not require that the drain commissioner's office be merged into the public works department.

Before starting out on a new petition campaign, assuming he still will have time to get the required number of signatures, Hertel plans to make one more attempt to get the county board to reverse itself and put the issue on the ballot in August. That proposal would enable voters to oust Youngblood immediately and require the merging of the office with the public works department.

Since both Hertel and McNamara are running for the Democratic nomination for county executive, some people might view Hertel's latest proposal as a political move against his opponent. But Hertel denies that accusation and says that, instead, he wants a second petition drive to get the kind of reform the county needs and would get if either the board or his petition drive put the issue on the ballot this fall.

These maneuvers may appear to be much ado about nothing to the residents of Grosse Pointe and the other urban areas of Wayne County. Yet county taxes support the drain commissioner's office and that should be of concern to all taxpayers, especially since Youngblood has been accused of improprieties. Whether Youngblood stays or goes, the office ought to be run efficiently, it ought to be supervised by the county executive and it ought to be part of the public works department in order to eliminate overlapping duties and duplicated equipment.

Furthermore, elimination of the office would be a continuation of the county government reform that began with enactment of the charter in 1980. One reason for the heavy endorsement the charter got at the polls was that it offered specific ways to improve county government. Further improvement came with the voters' strong support for the amendment to eliminate the Board of Road Commissioners. Still more improvement could come from the current plan to end the drain commissioner's job and merge it with the public works department.

Reform often moves slowly but with continuing public support it will make new gains in Wayne County. Concern about reform is not much ado about nothing. It is much ado about something.

A $500 fine may wake up parents

To the Editor:

In a situation like Grosse Pointe's teen problem, there are usually a number of parties responsible. To date, the community, Farms City Hall, Farms Police, and the innocent owners of Over The Rainbow ice cream shop have all been singled out as guilty for the actions of these high visibility teens.

With accusations flying, it seems that one group is missing — the teens' parents. Teens are minors, and by definition, are the responsibilities of their parents. Until the parents of these minors realize what their children are involved in, the community, the police, and the ice cream shop owners can do little to effectively arrest the problem.

In truth, it is not their problem to solve. These named groups are reacting to symptoms of problems that originate at home. Parents who take their positions as parents seriously, need not feel belittled. Parents like these are responsible for their children and help them organize their lives. Teens need help deciding what to do with their time, and one only need look as far as the Neighborhood Club and organized Little League baseball to observe concerned parents and teens interacting with the community in successful activities.

More community activities are always welcome. Increased city hall and police activity is sometimes necessary. The actual solution to the problem is getting parents to wake up and notice what their children are doing. Unfortunately, two visits from the Farms Police and a $500 fine may be the only way to reach these particular parents.

Ordinance is misguided

To the Editor:

The Farms City Council has just passed a misguided and punitive ordinance — curfew forbidding persons 15 and under to be outside after 10 p.m. except under a few specified circumstances.

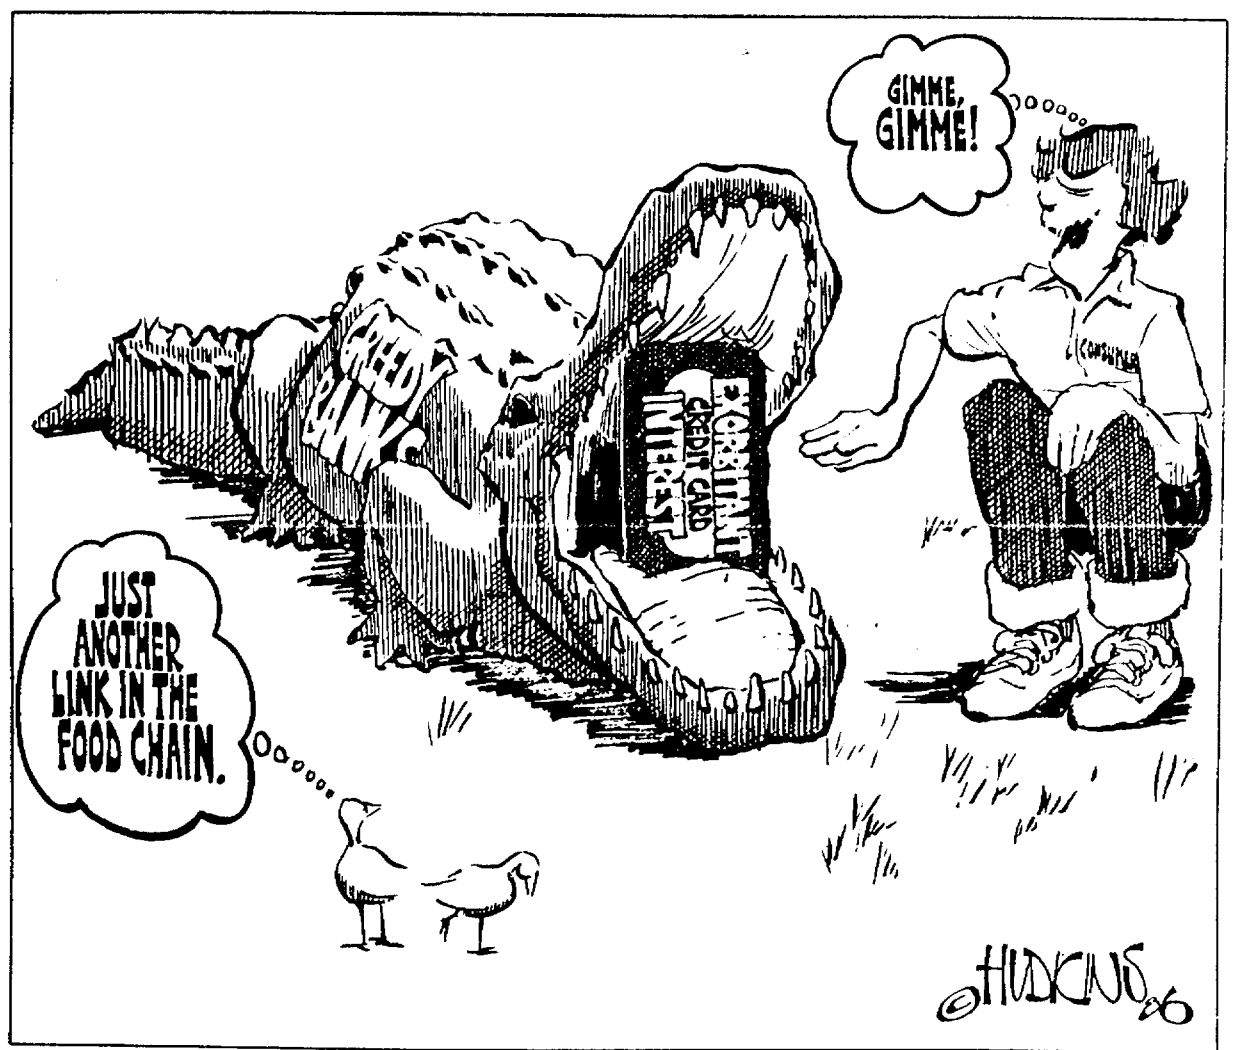

Police Chief Ferber, frustrated by his department's inability to control reported vandalism and substance abuse by minors, recommended the ordinance, noting that this is only the first step in a series of efforts. The rest of the strategy has not been revealed, but if this new curfew represents his best thinking, God save us from the rest!

It's important to understand the meaning of the new curfew. Now a 15-year-old cannot legally walk or bike home alone after 10 from a friend's house or from a babysitting job. Knowing this, the city council compared this new curfew to other local ordinances forbidding joggers from running in the street and cats from sneaking around the neighborhood unleashed. Chief Ferber noted that all law enforcement is selective — a statement of fundamental hypocrisy. Will my son be arrested, my cat caged, or my jogging wife and I lifted from the streets by the local constabulary?

The frustration of the selective law enforcement offer is real. The city council has failed to provide leadership. Half of the council said nary a word even in discussing the ordinance. Grosse Pointe Farms as a community has a history of neglect in regard to reputed social problems that have apparently occasioned this new law: teenage drinking and other forms of substance abuse. There were only a handful of Farms residents at the council meeting and most of them were there because of their interest in the Bronze Door's liquor license! A vacuum of leadership will be filled, however ridiculous. And it's happened. I look forward to the day, by the June 1986 council meeting when we can repeal this ill-conceived ordinance and establish a process for identifying and caring for the real issues.

I say

With my California vacation behind me, I can honestly say it's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there.

The weather was splendid. I enjoyed seven straight days of sunshine and mild temperatures. I even got a sunburn.

But that's no surprise — California is the land of bright sunshine and tanned bodies. However, in the midst of that land of bronzed pectorals and string bikinis, there is a note of caution. According to several newspaper articles I read while I was there, skin cancer is becoming epidemic in the sunshine state. The beach bunnies are being warned to wear a sunscreen at all times and the old zinc-oxide white nose is coming back into style.

The television and motion picture industries have made California culture our national culture in many ways. The year-around mild weather makes California an easy place to shoot television series and movies through the winter. In a way, it's a shame. Several hundred years from now, when the historians characterize our culture from the body of electronic and filmed literature we leave behind, they'll be making generalizations about California, not the rest of the country.

But the society depicted in all those television shows and movies isn't even typical of California. The part of the state everyone is familiar with is only a narrow strip of habitable land between the mountains and the ocean. In many places that strip is less than a mile wide.

Nearly 10 percent of the United States' population lives in that narrow strip, so space is at a premium. Housing is unbelievably expensive along the coast and many Californians are willing to pay a price that would buy a mansion in Grosse Pointe for houses that most Grosse Pointers would think better suited for their pets.

I flew into Los Angeles late Tuesday night. My first impression of that city was of its mind-boggling size. As the plane descended, the ground was covered, horizon to horizon, with the pattern of lights and roads that is the city.

My brother, currently a mathematics professor at the University of California, Santa Barbara, met me at the airport to guide me out of the maze of freeways that tangle through the city. We drove up the Ventura Highway to get to his home in Isla Vista, on the north side of Santa Barbara.

My brother lives about a block and a half from the ocean. If you stand in the street in front of his house, you can see the beach in one direction and a wall of mountains in the other. On my first morning in California, I woke up on Detroit time, 5:30 a.m., California time, walked to the beach, where the sun was rising over the steep cliffs that divide a narrow strip of sand and rocks from the town.

However, the beach is not the center of life in Isla Vista. Ocean currents make the water unpleasantly cold in Santa Barbara and even the surfers tend to wear wet suits. Few people swim at the beach.

Another hazard at the beach is tar. The horizon in the area is spotted with off-shore drilling rigs and leakage from those wells floats onto the beach at Santa Barbara and Isla Vista as black gobs of goo. They collect on your shoes as you walk. In my brother's words, he and his wife took a romantic walk on the beach one evening and came back an inch-and-a-half taller.

The environmentalists claim off-shore drilling is spoiling the coast. The oil men claim that tar always beach and the university. The vast majority of the housing in town is student apartments.

The students at UCSB seem to be wheeled creatures. Those who aren't on bicycles are on skateboards. The campus and town are navigated on color-coded walks, bicycle paths and skateboard paths. Heaven help you if you venture on foot onto the wrong kind of pavement. The skateboarders travel in herds that could flatten you into the pavement before you knew what happened.

As a native Michigander, sometimes my brother is less than sympathetic to California culture. He says that the worst thing a student can do when he comes to beg for a better grade is to lean his skateboard up against my brother's desk. It's flunk city, man.

On Sunday, my brother sent me out to the store for a newspaper. He should have known better.

He expected me to come back with a copy of the local paper, the Santa Barbara Something or Other. Instead, to my delight, I found the Sunday Los Angeles Times. My brother and sister-in-law reacted in horror when they saw what I had. "This is a small house," they exclaimed.

The Los Angeles Times is big. I should have had a trailer to bring it home from the store. We spent the next three days reading it.

Reading the letters to the editor, I found out what irks southern Californians. In Grosse Pointe people worry about air conditioners, but in Los Angeles they worry about leaf blowers. You know, those things with the long tube that solve the leaf problem by blowing them into the street or into your neighbor's yard. From the letters, I couldn't exactly tell why leaf blowers are going to cause the collapse of civilization as we know it, but that was the upshot.

One of the highlights of my trip was backpacking into the Santa Rafael Mountains for two days. It was wonderful — exhausting, but wonderful. At one point it looked as if my brother and sister-in-law were going to have to pack me out pieces, but in the end I made it and I'm glad I did it.

One thing irked me, however. A day-and-a-half into the wilderness, in a spot you can only get to on foot or on horseback, there were empty beer cans by the trail. Human beings are slobs and shouldn't be allowed in a lot of places.

I came back to Detroit on Tuesday night. It was snowing. Now let me see, what was it I was saying about I wouldn't want to live there?

leaked from the ocean floor and fouled the beaches. There is some evidence to support their claim — a point of land near Isla Vista has been known as Coal Tar Point for longer than there have been oil wells.

My brother refers to Isla Vista as the student ghetto. The town is neatly surrounded by mountains,

Students win scholarships

Five local students were among the 1,800 named last week by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation as winners of $2,000 national merit scholarships.

Winners are Oscar Alcantara of the Shores, John Birgbauer of the Farms, Bridget McKeever of the City, Carolyn Seydel of the City and Kai Soering of the City. Seydel attends Phillips Academy in Andover, Md. The rest attend University Liggett School.

Winners are named in each of the 50 states and every student who reaches the finalist level in the merit program has a chance to win one of the $2,000 scholarships.

National Merit $2,000 Scholarships are allocated on a state representational basis, according to each state's percentage of the total U.S. high school senior class. A committee of experienced college admissions officers and secondary school counselors selected the national winners from among a highly able group of some 13,500 finalists.

South scores in music

By Debby Cho

Continuing the tradition of excellence in music at Grosse Pointe South, the Towerbelles and Pointe singers both earned first division ratings at the state Solo and Ensemble Festival sponsored by the Michigan School Vocal Association April 12.

Also receiving first division ratings were soloists Kim Finger, 1986, and Kim Barnes, 1987. Carrie Jacques, 1988, and DeAnne Molinari, 1988, received first division ratings at the district festival and second division ratings at the state festival.

"It is quite unusual for two groups from the same high school to receive first division ratings at the State Festival," said Charles Gleason, choir director at Grosse Pointe South, "I am very proud of these students."

"Michigan Reading Month"

While participating in the program necessitated changing the daily schedule to accommodate the extra 20 minutes, Principal William Christofferson felt it was well worth it.

"We believe this was a fun activity that has lasting rewards. Our students looked forward to a short break in the morning to continue with materials they started the day before," Christofferson said.

The program was not an invitation to complete homework assignments or do required reading. "The program is designed around the goal of encouraging students to view reading as a leisure activity that has many benefits," he added.

Paul Kesman of Grosse Pointe Woods was inducted into the Bishop Gallagher High School chapter of the National Honor Society recently. He is a junior.

A guided walking tour through some of Cranbrook's 40 acres of casual and formal plantings will follow. Visitors will get a close look at the cascades and traditional sculpture that surround the house, as well as the Oriental and rock gardens, fieldstone terraces and pine walks.

There will be time to browse and shop at the plant sale where ferns, wildflowers, herbs and houseplants will be offered for sale along with colonial baskets and garden sculpture.

The bus will return to the center at 5 p.m. Tickets cost $29 per person and include lunch, garden tour and transportation. Comfortable walking shoes are a must on this trip which will go rain or shine. Reserve on a first-come, first-served basis at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore. The center is open Monday-Saturday, 9 a.m.-9 p.m. For information, call 881-7511.

Greenfield is site of Chautauqua

Baseball, hotdogs, apple pie and Chautauqua — the most American things in America. At least that's what Teddy Roosevelt said about Chautauqua, the traveling tent show that brought a potpourri of news, politics, religion, entertainment and song to turn-of-the-century, small-town America.

Greenfield Village will revive that great old tradition May 8-11 with a 1912 tent Chautauqua of its own. Special guest Teddy Roosevelt will glad-hand his way through crowds while he wheels and deals a second term as president. At the head of a rable-rousing band of Suffragettes will be Jeannette Rankin advocating women's right to vote. (Jeannette, herself, eventually became the first woman elected to the U.S. Congress.)

Paper boys

Couple chronicles history of the Marmon

George and Stacey Handley have a love affair going with an automobile, and that affair has given birth to a 600-page book which chronicles the growth, eventual demise and re-birth of the Indiana-based Marmon Motor Car Company.

The book, "The Marmon Heritage," published last year, is the definitive word on the Marmon automobile and the people who made the car.

Antique car buffs know the Marmon well. Others may not know that it was a Marmon that won the inaugural Indianapolis 500 in 1911. The story spans the entire history of the company, including the many changes it has undergone since 1851.

Hanley, a retired General Motors engineering executive, and wife, Stacey, a former teacher, spent more than three years painstakingly pouring over documents and writing and rewriting some 20 chapters of the book. It contains more than 900 photographs.

Local residents may remember Hanley's father, John, who resided on Lakeshore at Gaultier Pointe.

The book details Marmon and Marmon-Heritage, the two firms whose innovation provided crucial steps to the development of modern cars, trucks and all-wheel-drive vehicles. The story also chronicles the history of the city of Indianapolis and Speedway personalities.

The book has already earned a national literary award, the Thomas McKean Memorial Cup Award, given by the Antique Automobile Club of America.

The book is available locally at the Grosse Pointe Book Village for $60.

Ski season ends

When the books closed for this year's Ski Hi season, more than 500 youngsters in grades 6-12 participated in the program, which included a weekend trip to Collingwood, two day trips and five Friday, two-night trips to Pine Knob. For the most part, the weather cooperated and first-year skiers as well as seasoned schussers had a full year of winter fun.

Volunteer chaperones who helped make the season successful are: Larry Berquist, Dave Deacon, Tom Curto, Bonnie Woods, Andy Peterman, John and Amy Swartout, Dave Roy, Rich Montgomery, Debbie York, Charlene Skidmore, Chris Cullen, Tim Van Eckoute, Dee Ann Patanis, Betty and Joe Yanosak, and War Memorial staffers Jack Dotson, youth coordinator, Jan Arndt and Mark Weber, director.

Fun with a guitar

Pluckers, strummers and pickers can enroll in a six-week Fun Guitar class, Tuesdays, May 6 to June 10, from 7 to 8 p.m., at the War Memorial.

Colleen Lough will provide the musical instruction for beginners and experienced players alike, using the Laura Weber method. Students must provide their own classical, folk or electric guitar for the class which costs $22 per person, including music.

Mensa test open

A score in the 98th percentile on a varsity of I.Q. tests is required for membership in Mensa. If you would like to see if you qualify, a testing session, open to the public, will be held at 1 p.m. Sunday, May 5, at the Holiday Inn-Metro, located at 32100 Detroit/Industrial Expressway, Romulus.

Seating space is limited. To make your reservation, send a check or money order, made payable to S.E.M.M., in the amount of $20, to cover the test administration fee. Mail to Mensa Testing, c/o 3674 Oak Drive, Ypsilanti, Mich. 48197. Include your name, address and telephone number.

GPEA elects new officers

Members of the Grosse Pointe Education Association recently elected officers to head the union for the coming school year.

Doris Cook was re-elected to a two-year term as president, Richard Underwood was re-elected as vice president public relations for one year, and Lynn O'Connor was re-elected to a two-year term as vice president negotiations.

Serving as Michigan Education Association/National Education Association delegate to representative assemblies for two years is George Panarites. Alternate delegate is Ruth Barrett-Cook. Her term is two years. Continuing in office is Kay Mullaney, in the second year of her term as MEA/NEA delegate.

Elected secretary for a two-year term was Mary Ellen Floer. Elected treasurer for a one-year term was Carol Reitmeyer.

Elected as liaisons were Michael

Wasilewski, high school, two-year term; Roger McQueen, middle school, one year term; Darcie Livingston, elementary school, one-year term; and Helen Simpson, special education, two-year term.

The difference in length of terms is because the GPEA's newly adopted constitution calls for two-year terms of office and the union is in the process of changing from one to two years, according to Cook.

AN ORDINANCE TO PROHIBIT CHILDREN UNDER THE AGE OF 17 YEARS FROM BEING UPON THE STREETS OR OTHER PUBLIC PLACES OF THE CITY DURING CERTAIN HOURS: AND TO REPEAL ORDINANCE NO. 99

THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE FARMS ORDAINS:

Section 2. The provisions of Section 1 do not apply in the following circumstances:

(a) The minor is accompanied by his or her parent, legal guardian, or other responsible person who is over the age of twenty-one and authorized by the minor's parent or legal guardian to take the parent's place in accompanying the minor for a designated period of time within a specified area;

(b) The minor is on an errand as directed by his or her parent or legal guardian between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.;

(c) The minor is going to or from his or her place of employment or is in a public place during curfew hours in the course of his or her employment, provided that the minor is carrying a written statement from the employer attesting to the place and hours of employment;

(d) The minor is on the property of or the sidewalk directly adjacent to the building in which he or she resides between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.;

(e) The minor is going directly home from a meeting, school activity or an activity of a religious or other voluntary association, or a place of public entertainment between the hours of 10:00 p.m. and 12:30 a.m. provided that if the event is not commercial in nature or does not have a fixed, publicly known time at which it will end, prior notice of the activity and the place and probable time of termination has been given in writing to the Chief of Police or the officer in charge at the police station;

(f) The minor is in a motor vehicle with parental consent for interstate travel through the City of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Section 3. A police officer who has probable cause to believe that a minor has violated this ordinance shall take such minor to the police station and the minor's parents or guardian shall be immediately contacted. If after this contact there is still probable cause to believe that the minor was violating this Ordinance, the minor shall be held until the parent or guardian takes the minor home. When the parent or guardian arrives, he or she shall be given a copy of the Curfew Ordinance. If no parent or guardian arrives within a reasonable time, the minor may be turned over to the custody of the juvenile authorities and the Police Department shall send to the minor's parent or guardian written notice of said violation and a copy of the Curfew Ordinance.

Section 4. It shall be unlawful for any parent or guardian having custody of a minor to knowingly permit or by inefficient control to allow such minor to be on or remain upon any street, sidewalk, park, vacant lot or other public place in violation of this ordinance. The word "knowingly" includes knowledge which a parent should reasonably be expected to have concerning the whereabouts of a minor in that parent's legal custody and control.

Section 5. If, after the first violation pursuant to Section 3 by a minor, a parent violates Section 4 (in connection with a second violation by said minor), the parent's violation shall be treated as an offense by the parent. For such parental offense, the parent shall upon conviction be subject to a fine of not more than Five Hundred Dollars ($500) or imprisonment of not more than ninety days, or both, in the discretion of the Court.

Section 6. Any minor who commits a second violation of any of the provisions of the Curfew Ordinance shall be reported to a society or organization whose purpose it is to take charge of incorrigibles and delinquents and proceedings may then be taken before the juvenile court for the treatment, supervision and rehabilitation of such minor.

Section 7. If any provision, including any exception, part, phrase or term, or the application thereof to any person or circumstance is held invalid, the application to other persons or circumstances and the validity of the remainder of the ordinance shall not be affected.

Section 8. Ordinance No. 99 adopted February 16, 1983, entitled "An Ordinance to Prohibit Children Under the Age of 17 Years From Being Upon the Streets or Other Public Places of the City During Certain Hours; And To Repeal Ordinance No. 20" is hereby repealed.

Board approves short lay-off list for 1986-87

By Mike Andrzejczyk
It has become an annual occurrence in Grosse Pointe; issuance of permanent and temporary lay-off notices given to teachers.

This year, the Board of Education approved the shortest list of permanent lay-offs in at least eight years. Eight full- and part-time teachers will be pink-slipped as of June 13, with six more being laid off and recalled at reduced assignments.

To be issued permanent notices in June will be one library worker, a high ability teacher at an elementary school, an occupational therapist and an English teacher. Facing temporary layoff will be an English teacher at Pierce, a math teacher at North and a French teacher at South, along with a developmental preschool instructor.

Of the six people laid off to be recalled at reduced assignments, three are in vocational educational areas, reflecting continued fall-off in enrollments, according to director of secondary curriculum Robert Welch. One of the reduced assignments is because of a change in teaching responsibility. The other two affect a math teacher at South and a social studies teacher at North.

Grosse Pointe Education Association President Doris Cook said the union "was very pleased the lay-off list is as short as it is." Last year, the district laid off 23 full- and part-time teachers while reducing the assignments of 11 others. The year before, the district pink-slipped 19 teachers. Retirements and resignations between now and the end of year may reduce the number of lay-offs further, Cook said. The notices will not become official until the end of the school year.

Of those laid off, most will probably be recalled in the coming year, according to Ronald Tonks, director of personnel and labor relations. While the district handed out pink slips to 23 teachers at the end of 1984-85, it hired about 26 new teachers this year, he said. There are just a couple of names left on the district's permanent lay-off list, he added.

One bright spot for those being laid off is that the shortage of teachers will make finding a job in another district easier, Tonks said. Both he and Cook said they expected the number of lay-offs to decline in coming years when retirements catch up with districts.

Superintendent John Whritner said he told the board it was ironic that, at a time when teachers are in short supply, the district still finds it necessary to make lay-offs. This year's lay-offs were caused by reduced student enrollment in certain areas, he added.

While the district is expecting a small increase in elementary age students, population declines are expected at the high school level, he said.

Class sizes will be unaffected by the lay-offs, Whritner said. Class size for elementary school rooms is expected to decrease slightly for the coming school year, while it will remain about the same as this year at other levels, he added.

Facts on indoor air pollution

Amidst the problems of outdoor air pollution a new issue has emerged, that of indoor air pollution.

Except for minimal OSHA standards for some worksites, there are no federal regulations covering pollution indoors, which some environmental scientists believe is an even more serious problem than outdoor air pollution. A study by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has found that indoor levels of certain toxic pollutants were many times greater than outdoors, sometimes more than 100 times higher. Clean Air Week, April 28-May 4, is sponsored by the Lung Association to bring attention to this new issue by stressing that people have a right to clean and healthful air everywhere.

The average American spends at least 90 percent of his time indoors, of which 65 percent is at home. According to researchers, the air inside a home can contain as much, or even more, pollution than outdoor air since ventilation is limited. This could pose some health problems.

Home air pollutants include nitrogen dioxide, the gas emitted from fireplaces, stoves and gas appliances; carbon monoxide, the gas emitted from combustion sources such as gas engines running in attached garages, unvented kerosene heaters and tobacco smoke; formaldehyde, a pungent gas that is found in foam insulation, plywood paneling, resins in particleboard, carpeting and upholstery; asbestos, fibers that are airborne from roofing and flooring materials, wall and pipe insulation and cement; microbes and fungi, bacteria that are emitted from air ducts, humidifiers, plants and pets. Household and personal care items, as well as second hand smoke from tobacco smokers add to the indoor air problem.

"Sick building syndrome," a newly recognized problem, poses a health threat to millions of office workers.

"Sick buildings" contain high levels of air pollution that can cause increased complaints of illness from employees. These maladies can usually be traced to inadequate ventilation.

General health symptoms that can be attributed to indoor air pollution are: nasal congestion, sneezing, coughing, headache, fatigue, chest tightening, nausea and eye irritation.

The cause of such ailments has been attributed to heavy concentrations of contaminants, such as tobacco smoke, formaldehyde gases from foam and furniture, airborne viruses and bacteria, hydrocarbons from office copying machines, solvent fumes from paint and varnish, and carbon monoxide from building garages and outside traffic.

These contaminants have been present in the workplace for a long time, but they have become a greater problem in recent years because newer buildings are sealed and ventilation is often inadequate.

For more information on how to join the fight for clean indoor air, call the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan at 961-1697.

Eye care project to begin in state

Growing old does not necessarily mean going blind.

This is the message of the National Eye Care Project Helpline, designed to bring medical eye care to the nation's elderly, opening in Michigan on Monday, May 5.

The NECP, locally sponsored by the Michigan Ophthalmological Society, offers ophthalmological care to U.S. citizens and legal residents age 65 and over who have medical eye problems, but who don't have a medical eye physician.

By calling a toll-free Helpline — 1-800-222-EYES — an elderly person will receive the name of a volunteer ophthalmologist who will treat the patient, regardless of the patient's ability to pay, and will accept Medicare or insurance assignment as payment in full.

The purpose of the Helpline is to prevent needless eye disease and blindness among the elderly. Through the project, volunteer ophthalmologists will help those who do not have medical insurance and can't afford medical eye care, and those who have lost touch with an ophthalmologist for financial or other reasons.

For the bored

"How Not To Chair The Bored," a three-session class at the War Memorial, will be offered Wednesdays, May 7-21, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Instructor Eleanor "Coco" Siewert contends that new officers as well as long-standing board members will gain insight from her fresh approach to organizational amenities. Siewert is a professional registered parliamentarian of the National Association of Parliamentarians.

The first session will show how to be a good board member, chair a meeting and prepare an agenda. The second session will define the roles of officers, committees and boards and how to write minutes. The final session will cover by-laws, standing rules, ranking and non-ranking motions and voting procedures. Siewert suggests participants bring their organizational by-laws to the third class.

Registration is $20 for the series or $8.50 for a single session. Register in person at 32 Lakeshore or call 881-7511.

Charges to be filed in babysitting case

Farms police expect a Lothrop Road family to press charges in a case of malicious mischief allegedly perpetrated by a group of local teenagers invited over by the family's babysitter April 18.

A bicycle and tricycle belonging to the family's young daughters were damaged. Neighbors said the teenagers were loud and verbally abusive and were drinking inside and outside the house.

"We're still conducting interviews in that case," said Farms Detective Sgt. George Van Tiem. "It might take some time — we have to interview them together with their parents because they're juveniles. But the family does want to press charges." Reports indicated that as many as 20 to 30 teenagers may have been involved.

Money was reported missing from the purse of the wife. She told Farms police the next day that envelopes and other papers in the purse were untouched, but that $75 in an NBD envelope was missing.

According to police reports, the 16-year-old babysitter told friends where she was babysitting that evening. The word circulated, between 15 and 30 people showed up and the party got out of hand.

ULS camp schedule

University Liggett School, 1045 Cook Road, will again operate a day camp open to all residents. The camp season is Monday through Friday, June 23 through Aug. 1. Three-week sessions, June 23-July 11; and July 14-Aug. 1 are available.

The babysitter apparently called her father for assistance. He came from their home less than a block away and, with the help of a neighbor, sent the teenagers away.

The camp is held on the 43-acre ULS main campus in Grosse Pointe Woods. Facilities include two gymnasiums, eight tennis courts, several baseball diamonds, track facilities, two heated outdoor swimming pools and a bath house. Activities, however, extend beyond the school campus to outlying areas where woods and lakes provide an ideal setting for overnight trips, canoeing excursions and nature studies.

During the party, the contents of two chemical fire extinguishers were reportedly emptied on the family dog and on the furniture, carpet and clean laundry in the basement. Liquor bottles taken from the bar of the home were found in the trash and in the yard.

The Full Day Camp is for youngsters between 6 and 13. Campers are grouped according to age and grade and attend from 8:45 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. five days a week. There are two programs — the minimum three-week program or the full six-week camp session. The camp counselor/camper ratio is 1:10.

People helping people

Activities offered include swimming, tennis, archery, gymnastics, drama, music, trampolines, arts and crafts, golf, individual and team activities, nature studies, canoeing and sailing (grades 4-8), campcraft, field trips and overnight camping (grades 2-8).

The Junior Camp is structured for 4 and 5-year olds who have not yet completed kindergarten. It is in session half-days from 8:45 a.m. to noon, five days a week. Campers register for a minimum three-week program or a full six-week session. Counselor/camper ratio is 1:8. The camp is filled for the 1986 season and there is a waiting list only.

The American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter is looking for a few good kids. If you are between the ages of 14 and 17 and enjoy meeting and working with people, want to serve your community or explore career opportunities, Red Cross has a place for you in its Youth Services programs.

As a Red Cross youth volunteer with the Easter Seal Camps, you can work with handicapped children. Camp activities include assisting with outdoor games, crafts, or on field trips to places like Bobo Island, the Belle Isle Zoo or the Detroit Institute of Arts.

An Extended Day Program for working parents is available for the junior campers from noon to 6 p.m. For the Full Day campers, the Extended Day program is from 3:15 to 6 p.m. Supervised swimming is available. A week's minimum commitment is required for the Extended Day Program.

Do you like to clown around? As a Red Cross youth volunteer, you can be a member of a clown troop, entertaining people and inspiring smiles.

Transportation is available to campers living within any of the Grosse Pointes. Transportation outside the Grosse Pointe area will be provided based on need for service to other communities.

For more information, call the camp office at 884-4444.

Workers' culture school offered at U of M in Ann Arbor

The Labor Studies Center at the University of Michigan is sponsoring the first worker's culture school in Michigan June 26-29 on the university's Ann Arbor campus. Titled, "Arts In, Of and From the Workplace," the school is designed for working people who are non-professional artists.

A three-day residential school, "Arts" offers eight concurrent workshops: photography, video, labor songs and music, dance, drawing and painting, theater, creative writing, and the print media arts.

Professional artist/instructors from Michigan and other parts of the country will work with participants in small classroom settings where everyone will have an opportunity to share and develop their talents.

The school is open to anyone interested in workers' culture. The registration fee includes materials and meals. Class size is limited and early registration is encouraged.

Funding is provided by the Michigan Council for the Arts; the Michigan Council for the Humanities; and the Union Minorities/Women Leadership Training Project.

delia, who has been imprisoned in South Africa since 1962 for his resistance against apartheid.

Crockett has introduced a resolution in the House of Representatives calling on South Africa to begin meaningful political negotiations with that country's black majority. The resolution also urges the release of Mandela and the recognition of the African National Congress as a legitimate representative of the black South African community.

The Association of African Jurists, headquartered in Dakar, Senegal, is composed of lawyers from continental Africa. Some of the nations represented in the group are Nigeria, Ghana, Tanzania, Morocco, Algeria, the Congo, Ethiopia and Angola.

Crockett to receive Nelson Mandela award

Congressman George W. Crockett, Jr. has been selected by the Association of African Jurists to receive its first Nelson Mandela Award. The association made its decision during its recent meeting in Tripoli and is expected to present the award in May.

Crockett is the ranking member of the subcommittee on Africa of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the author of the "Mandela Freedom Resolution," which was passed by the 98th Congress in 1984.

He is also the national chairman of the Lawyers' Campaign to Free Nelson Mandela, an organization formed last October to encourage lawyers, jurists, legal educators, legislators and law students to unite in a call for the unconditional release of attorney Nelson Man-

Learn a language

The University of Detroit is registering for its summer intensive foreign language classes beginning May 12.

Japanese, Chinese, Spanish, Arabic, French, German, Italian, Portuguese and Russian will be taught at one or more of three locations: U of D's main campus at Livernois and McNichols, the Downriver Community Conference in Southgate, and Southfield-Lathrup High School in Southfield. Classes are two evenings a week for 12 weeks.

Instructors use the Dartmouth-Rassias method which creates a dynamic and animated classroom atmosphere where each student responds an average of 100 times per class. Individual practice in the classroom virtually eliminates the need for outside homework.

Seat belt tickets up

State Police ticketed nearly 10,000 drivers and passengers for failure to wear safety belts during the first six months that Michigan's safety belt use law was in effect, according to figures released by the Michigan Department of State Police.

Lt. James Downer of the Department's Traffic Services Division reported that from July 1 through Dec. 31, 1985, 9,254 citations were issued to motorists who did not comply with Michigan's safety belt use law. That figure does not include tickets issued by local police agencies and sheriff's offices.

Downer said that the number of tickets issued for safety belt violations is exceeded only by the number of tickets issued for speeding and for drunk driving. Downer also reported that the current ratio of verbal warnings to citations issued is two to one.

Shortly after the law's effective date, July 1, the ratio was three to one, according to figures from the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use. From the drop in the ratio of verbal warnings to citations, it seems that Michigan motorists are now more likely to receive a ticket for belt law violations than a verbal warning.

No bones about it! This is important

By Marian Trainor

If you want to start a lively conversation, don't talk about terrorism. That's too scary. Don't go into details about your exercise program. That's boring. And don't list the pros and cons of your diet unless you're prepared to go into great detail about the necessity of making sure you have included the recommended amount of calcium. Not too long ago fiber held the spotlight. A well-informed conversationalist on that subject could hold the attention of a health-conscious audience for hours. Having absorbed all there is to know on that item, those who are given to keeping up with the latest health findings on how to maintain a fit and energetic body are now weighing the benefits of calcium.

You know the subject is hot when marketing people jump on the bandwagon. Television and magazines are inundated with ads for calcium supplements.

Flyers in packages of flour point out how good the products you bake will be because calcium has been added to the flour. There is a calcium product that you chew like gum and, believe it or not, they have now added calcium to Coca Cola.

It is evident that no company is going to languish in the trenches, but will be right there where the action is in this major battle to save the bones of the women — and men — of America.

An indication of how calcium has become a consuming interest was demonstrated by the overflow crowd that gathered at the Assumption Cultural Center Wednesday, April 23, to hear Dr. Arthur Santora, assistant professor at Wayne University, speak on osteoporosis. Dr. Santora is an expert on bone and calcium metabolism at Harper Grace Hospital.

Not only was it a large audience, but it was a well-informed audience who took advantage of Dr. Santora's gracious invitation to stop his presentation at anytime to ask questions.

Concern over maintenance of calcium levels is not misplaced. Dr. Santora said that in a conference on osteoporosis held in 1984, it was revealed that 20 million to 30 million women over 60 were victims and that 15 percent of the men in our population would have osteoporosis. The disease costs the United States about $4 billion. In pain and suffering for those who have osteoporosis, the cost is inestimable.

More women than men are afflicted because men's bone mass is higher due to having larger skeletons and the need for larger bones to support it. Another factor that accounts for the higher incidence in women is the loss of estrogen during menopause.

Risk factors, in order of importance, are: a Caucasian female with a history of osteoporosis; low calcium intake; early menopause; a sedentary life style; alcohol; cigarette smoking; caffeine; and a high protein diet.

Dr. Santora emphasized that in citing alcohol, cigarettes, caffeine and protein, he was talking of excesses.

The importance of exercise was stressed, particularly exercise that involves putting weight on the bones, such as walking. Jogging was not recommended.

In talking about the loss of calcium through lack of exercise, Dr. Santora told of the loss of calcium by astronauts. Floating around in space, there was no opportunity for them to put needed stress on bones, and the result showed.

When it comes to being sure of getting the calcium needed to keep bones strong, the recommended intake is 1,000 milligrams. The average person takes only 500.

To improve that intake, Dr. Santora emphasized diet as the best means. The ideal source of calcium is milk, but drinking a quart of milk a day would also mean taking in added cholesterol and lead to increased weight.

But there is more to calcium than milk. Foods such as cheese, salmon, shrimp, sardines, spinach, broccoli and cottage cheese are good sources.

If you don't eat enough of these foods, then calcium supplements can be added to make up the difference. It should be taken with food.

Another point is after 40, calcium supplements are not absorbed as well and only one half of the calcium carbonate taken is retained by the body.

If you have some suspicion that you might have osteoporosis or if you just want to know what your bone density is, there are ways to find out. One of them is an X-ray. However, you must have lost one-half of your bone density before it is detected.

More precise is the single proton radiation through gamma rays. It will detect bone loss in small areas such as the arm.

Another is the Dual Proton which is used to detect loss of density in hips. The last is the cat scan which covers the entire body.

Once detected, it becomes necessary to prevent any further loss of bone density by diet, exercise and prevention. There are drugs that can be used, but should be avoided if possible because of side effects.

However estrogen combined with progesterone is used where there are no other complicating problems. Again, it is emphasized that estrogen will prevent loss but will not replace bone density.

Since bone density can be maintained but not replaced, it is important for women to follow preventive measures at an early age.

Older people who may have osteoporosis should be careful to avoid falls. For them, hip fractures are serious because of such complications as pneumonia.

A brief overview of the structure of bones is helpful in understanding why bones are in constant need of calcium replenishment.

Bones are living tissues. In some ways bone tissue resembles rock. Like rock it contains minerals. However it is not solid mineral. Bones have hollow spaces filled with marrow, arteries and veins.

The materials of the bones are constantly being dissolved and carried away by the blood. The food we eat replaces the bone which has been taken away.

The exchange of materials is important in the case of calcium. There is a constant exchange passage of calcium from the blood to the bones, from the bone to the blood. It has been said that the entire calcium in the bone is turned over in about 200 days. To build bones, calcium is needed.

And bones are of interest historically. Dug up by archeologists, they can tell us stories about early man before he learned to write, before he learned to use any tools except the simplest ones made of stone. There are some skeletons that have been discovered as old as 60,000 years.

So, besides taking care of your bones for your own sake, you don't want someone centuries from now looking at your bones full of holes from osteoporosis. Think what that would tell future historians.

Also, there is the possibility that you might want to follow the dictates of an old swinging song to — "Take off your skin and dance around in your bones."

That category of human being worldwide with the longest life expectancy is the slender New Zealand farm wife. With the shortest, the overweight Egyptian bachelor.

Changes made in Woods parks master plan

By Peter A. Salinas

Grosse Pointe Woods city council members unanimously accepted a modified version of the Ghesquiere and Lakefront parks master plan April 21 and agreed to discuss it at a committee-of-the-whole meeting to be scheduled.

Developer James C. Scott noted there were a number of changes in the plan that had been proposed at a public hearing in March.

Council members indicated there would be price tags placed on the projects, however, with the changes, prices and phasing to the whole.

Councilwoman Jean Rice made the motion to accept the proposals from Scott. She said the committee-of-the-whole would study the plan and determine costs and phasing priorities.

Mayor George Freeman said once the committee determined priorities, another public hearing would be held. Any changes in the plan would be addressed at that time, and a millage election would then be set.

Scott was hired by the city to develop a 10-year master plan. He said that after input from residents at the public hearing and further discussions with city officials, changes were made in the park plan.

Major changes at Ghesquiere Park includes scaling back the construction of an asphalt drive for a concession area, and expanding a proposed community center from 60x80 feet to 60x90 feet which would house a concession area.

An area adjacent to residential lots on the north end of the park, first discussed as the site for horse-show pits and shuffleboard courts was eliminated. Scott said opposition from adjacent property owners was well-founded since the lighting of those areas would be a nuisance.

Proposals for Ghesquiere Park improvements include: a major adventure playground area; new asphalt walking, bicycle and jogging path; an outdoor exercise area; a multi-use Magic Square area; and extensive landscaping.

Proposals for Lakefront were also changed after suggestions from residents. Originally, three skyway walking bridges over the Milk River were proposed in addition to a vehicular/foot bridge. Scott is now proposing two walking bridges and one vehicular/foot bridge.

Scott said emphasis on improving the boat dock facilities at Lakefront by Woods residents prompted a move to make improvements on the existing facilities and expanding about 40 docks from 10 to 12 feet on the west end of the river.

Other plans for Lakefront include scaling back some of the proposed tennis and racquetball court construction in exchange for leaving more green area for picnicking. Also changed was a scaling back of construction of new buildings, although there would be some additional service buildings.

Under the plan, Lakefront would undergo extensive landscaping. There would be at least 140 trees planted in the park with extensive pruning and other care given to existing trees.

Scott is proposing a 300-foot floating fishing pier and a system of floating boat docks. An adventure play area and construction of asphalt paths around the park would also be included.

Woods officials have not set a date for the committee-of-the-whole regarding the master plan, but it will likely have to be held soon, if the issue is to appear on the November general election ballot.

Amnesty information ready

Michigan taxpayers with confidential questions about the May 12-June 30 Tax Amnesty program can call a toll-free information hotline just installed by the Michigan Department of Treasury.

State Treasurer Robert A. Bowman said 16 specially-trained operators are available at 1-800-I.O.TAXES (468-2937) Monday-Friday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. to answer questions about the program.

Michigan's 50-day amnesty program will allow delinquent taxpayers to pay back taxes without penalty or prosecution. The theme of the Michigan Amnesty program is "Get to us before we get to you."

When amnesty expires, the Treasury Department will pull out all the stops to catch, convict and can tax cheats.

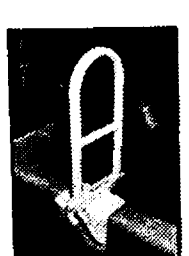

In another step to make amnesty as convenient as possible, the Treasury Department will accept payments by Visa and MasterCard during the program. Michigan is the first state to allow the use of credit cards during a Tax Amnesty Program.

All tax forms can be received from the Treasury Department by calling the toll-free number 1-800-FORM-2-ME, which is now available 24 hours a day Monday through Saturday.

CITY OF Grosse Pointe MICHIGAN
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES AND ON THE PROPOSED CITY BUDGET
 The City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe, Michigan will hold a public hearing at 7:30 P.M. on Monday, May 12, 1986 in the Council Chambers at the Municipal Offices, 17147 Maumee, on the proposed 1986 City tax levy and on the proposed 1986-87 City budget. Copies of the proposed budget are available for public inspection during regular business hours in the office of the City Clerk beginning May 9, 1986.
 Last year (1985) the City levied 16.2400 mills ($16.24 per $1,000 SEV) for City operating purposes. Because of an estimated increase in the State Equalized Value of existing property in the City, state law (Act 5 of 1982) provides that the base rate for 1986 City operating taxes be decreased to 15.35 mills ($15.35 per $1,000 SEV). This is 0.8900 mills ($.89 cents per $1,000 SEV) lower than the 1985 operating tax rate.
 To fund the City's proposed 1986-87 budget and to maintain the present level of City services, the City finds it necessary to increase its operating tax levy. An additional millage rate levy of 1.63 mills ($1.63 per $1,000 SEV) is proposed above the 1986 base operating millage rate. This provides an estimated 10.6% increase in City operating tax revenues. However, the NET INCREASE in total City tax is estimated at 5.8% or $0.89 cents per $1,000 SEV, because debt millage will be reduced 0.74 mills. It is proposed to transfer this debt millage reduction to the operating levy as stated above, for the repair, renovation and improvement of the City's capital facilities and infrastructure (street, sewers, etc.)
 Public comments, oral or written, are welcome at the public hearing on the proposed additional millage rate and on the proposed City budget.

11 Parcels students win language test honors

Eleven Parcels Middle School foreign language students were local winners in two national language tests.

The tests, one for French and one for Spanish, were administered by classroom teachers. They give students a fair measure of how they are progressing in language study as compared with other students across the nation at a similar level of study.

Students are tested on oral comprehension, grammar and reading at various levels, determined by how long they have been studying the language.

The National French Examination was taken by 30 Parcels students. Eight scored in the top 10 in the local area; taking half of the top 16 places. Brick Trickey finished first with a score of 69; Amy Phipps tied for second with a score of 68; Bradley Sisk scored 66 and won third place; Lisa Tenkel's 64 tied for fourth place; Carrie Rivard finished in fifth place with 62 and Dana Friesen, sixth place with a score of 61. Matthew Kim and Christine Snow earned honorable mentions.

Twenty-two students from Parcels took the National Spanish Examination and three were the top five from Parcels and South High School. Juan Ganum had a score of 75; Mary Connors, 64; and Tina Carbone, 60. The regional and national winners have not yet been announced.

At present, all middle school students have a brief introduction to foreign language even if they do not opt to take the year-long elective. A series of mini-courses, designed to introduce students to new subjects in which they might not recognize their talent or interest includes French, Spanish, Home Economics and Woodworking. From 20 to 24 days are spent studying each of the subject areas, getting acquainted with materials, techniques and terminology.

Middle school students who take French or Spanish as an elective in the seventh or eighth grade may go on to the second year class as a freshman in high school. This enables them complete five years of study in either of these languages. In addition, students may take Latin, German or Italian. Graduation requirements do not presently include language study, but counselors strongly recommend at least two years of foreign language for those students who plan to go to college.

Jaycees will wash cars Saturday

The Grosse Pointe Jaycees will sponsor their first car wash of 1986 Saturday, May 3, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event will be held at the Standard Federal Bank at Mack and Cook.

The group plans to wash cars at the site the first Saturday of every month except for July, when it will take place the second Saturday. Proceeds will go toward college scholarships for needy Grosse Pointe students.

Although the Farms' teen curfew has attracted the most attention, there are curfews in effect in all the Pontes. The City and the Park both use the state curfew of 10 p.m. for children younger than 12 and midnight for 16-year-olds.

The Shores and the Woods both have their own curfews of 10 p.m. for 11 years and younger and 11 p.m.

for 12-17 year-olds. The Woods' ordinance has a variety of special cases and exceptions.

The City's 1985 operating tax rate was 16.09 mills ($16.09 per $1,000 SEV). Under the Michigan State "Truth in Taxation" law (Act 5 of 1982), the City's base tax rate is reduced to 15.65 mills ($15.65 per $1,000 SEV) for 1986 which in effect will produce a total tax revenue equal to the 1985 operating tax levy. However, this does not modify the City's complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

In order to maintain basic City services and fund the 1986-87 budget, the City proposes to levy an additional millage rate of 1.00 mill ($1.00 per $1,000 SEV) above the 15.65 mill base tax rate, or a total operating rate of 16.65 mills ($16.65 per $1,000 SEV). This will provide an estimated 6.00% increase in City operating tax revenue.

Public comment on this proposed increase is welcome at the public hearing.

Maire celebrates 50th with mural

By Mike Andrzejczyk
Maire Elementary School will celebrate its 50th anniversary of dedication in October. Alumni of the school, including state Rep. William R. Bryant Jr., are expected to be on hand for the rededication ceremony.

To help it celebrate, the school's PTO has commissioned artist Dennis Orlowski to paint a mural on one wall of the school library. The work is expected to begin after school ends in June, with unveiling to be held in the fall.

Construction started on Maire in 1936. The slightly more than six acres of land on which the school sits was purchased in 1927. The cost of land, improvements and the building were listed in the school district's annual report last year as being worth a little more than $950,000 for the 475-student capacity school.

Orlowski, 42, a middle school art teacher with Detroit Public Schools, said he started as an artist's apprentice when he was 14. He would draw and make copies for a church painter in Hamtramck, he added.

Since then, he has completed about 50 murals, one dedicated last week in a Troy school in honor of a mother and child killed last year in an airplane crash which claimed 329 lives.

He likes murals because they "carry a message other than the picture," Orloski says. A mural combines good illustrative and narrative sense to get its message across, he adds. In the Troy mural, he used scenes from Rudyard Kipling's Jungle Book and used the faces of the slain mother and child in the crowd of villagers, he adds.

Murals, Orloski adds, are pieces of art meant for public viewing.

"It's out there in public, not hanging on some wall in a museum for an elite crowd," he adds. "It's out there to be seen."

He chose mural painting as his field of expression for a number of reasons, Orloski said. Its requirements challenge him to use all his skills to create within limitations, he adds.

Orloski spent a year studying fresco painting in Mexico with a former assistant to Diego Rivera and says he may use a Rivera-like theme in the depiction of the 50 years of Maire's history. He may also use a sequential depiction of Maire's construction and development played against the larger changes in world history, but hasn't decided yet.

Because he's still getting information to prepare the mural, he can't say for sure what design he may use. Something may come to light in the research by the school that will become central to the mural, Orloski adds.

Mark your calendar

Maire isn't the only school to have celebrated a 50th anniversary.

The oldest building in the district, the administration building, is 80 years old. It's doubtful any celebration is planned; the administration had been trying to decide for years whether to move administrative offices elsewhere.

Other schools more than 50 years are Defer, 63; Trombly, 59; South, 58; Mason, 57; and Richard, 56.

Next to turn 50 years old will be Pierce Middle School, built in 1939. Then will come Parcels, built in 1948, and Kerby built in 1949. Monteith and Poupard schools will celebrate 50th anniversaries together in 2001.

In 2002, the Central Library will be 50 years old, and two years later, Barnes and Ferry will have been standing for 50 years. It won't be until 2019 that North High can say it's been around for 50 years.

His training in fresco painting has taught him to think broad and have a good plan ready to put into paint, Orloski said. Fresco painting is normally done over wet lime plaster, requiring the artist to be fully prepared with full-size sketches and color schemes when he approaches the hardening plaster, he adds.

Maire's mural will not be as complex to paint, Orloski says. The school will put up a wall in the school library on which he will use acrylic paints.

Part of the planning stage was a presentation Monday for children and parents at the school to show them what a mural is and how it is created, Orloski says. He will also talk about what he is thinking of putting in it, he adds.

He will be ready to go as soon as he gets to the wall, Orloski says. The sketching and posing done by students and others will have been incorporated into a plan that will be sketched out before being filled in with acrylic. It should take about two months once he begins painting.

A portrait painter and sculptor, Orloski says painting murals is more work than most people think.

"You have to work at a good clip," he adds. "You come off the wall at the end of the day with a good feeling that you've really worked."

Unlike painting on canvas, there's no esoteric language that accompanies mural people, he adds. "There's less suffering involved. You know if it looks good."

That's one thing he finds important in his work; feedback from those seeing the mural, Orloski says. Part of his philosophy about art is that should be functional and beautiful. A mural that tells a story and is pleasing to those who commissioned the work is something he strives for, he adds.

Accused embezzler pleads guilty

By Nancy Parmenter

A former Farms city employee pleaded guilty to a reduced embezzling charge in Wayne County Circuit April 8. Frank William Sandercock had been charged with embezzling more than $10,000 in city funds. The reduced charge of embezzling agent trustee over $100 is a misdemeanor, applied usually to people who misappropriate an employer's funds.

Negotiations between the prosecutor, city officials and Sandercock's attorney resulted in the lesser charge, according to the prosecutor's report to Farms police. Because it was a first offense, under the terms of the agreement, Sandercock will be placed on probation and will be required to make restitution.

Sandercock, a resident of Grosse Pointe Woods, is to be allowed to take out an $8,000 bank loan to repay the city. He is to work during the period of his probation to repay the loan.

Sandercock was arrested in November 1985, when he attempted to cash an altered city check for $2,442 at a bank in Detroit. Additional check stubs found in his sock led Farms police to the embezzlement charge.

Police charged that Sandercock had diverted funds totalling $10,117 to his own account.

Sandercock was a six-year, part-time employee of the city, working in the accounting department, where he kept computerized records and prepared accounts payable. The city accounting department began to suspect a problem two weeks before Sandercock's arrest, when a check was missing from the city's bank statement. A duplicate revealed the alterations. It was thought that Sandercock was intercepting the bank statements and slipping out the canceled checks to avoid discovery.

Sentencing will take place May 7 before Circuit Judge William Cahalan.

Neighborhood Club celebrates 75 years

By Mike Andrzejczyk

In 1911, a group of women, led by Mrs. Russel Alger, met to discuss how to meet the recreational and social needs of Grosse Pointe's permanent residents.

Seventy-five years later, the organization they founded and incorporated serves the recreational, educational and social needs of a community of about 52,000 with programs offered throughout the five Pointes.

The Neighborhood Club is gearing up to celebrate its 75 years of service. While details haven't been completed, a June date is being chosen for a celebration.

In its years, the organization has grown from one offering manual training classes to young people throughout the sparsely settled region to one that offers recreational activities for all age groups, social opportunities for young people and educational programs, according to Executive Director John Bruce.

The original Neighborhood Club was located on what was then Oak Street, where Cottage Hospital now stands, Bruce said. After it built its community center on Maumee in 1928, the organization's board of directors helped build Cottage Hospital, the first in the Pointes, he added.

When a typhoid epidemic hit in the late 1910s, the Neighborhood Club trustees were instrumental in bringing nurses and doctors to the area. Trustees got involved in the hands-on helping of the sick and later helped with the club's health programs.

The organization's trustees have always gotten involved in programs, Bruce said. Trustees have tried to see what needs to be done and decide how best to meet that need.

The club continued to grow and in 1927 hired George Elworthy as its first executive director. The next year, the organization completed the construction of its community center on Maumee, which housed a gymnasium and other recreational facilities.

The organization's community center lasted until the mid-1960s when it was finally condemned as unsafe. It happened to be the first operating community center, Bruce added.

The Neighborhood Club has racked up a number of firsts over the years, he added. The club developed the area's first circulating library as well as the first hospital.

The completion of the hospital saw the club's board of directors split into two separate entities, one to operate the hospital, the other to control the club, Bruce said.

During the 1930s, the organization served as "the social welfare center for the area," Bruce said. During the Depression, the Neighborhood Club operated a food bank and gave money to those with nowhere else to go.

The war years saw the Neighborhood Club working as a USO center, serving the training areas around the community, Bruce said. Weekly draft parties were held for those shipping out, he added.

During the 1930s and 1940s, recreational programs remained a mainstay of the organization, Bruce said. During the Depression, the club's facilities were used by women's basketball teams and fencing clubs as well as by the Detroit Lions. During the war, the club became a type of boy's club, offering sports that offered solid male role models to counteract the lack of such models in homes, Bruce said.

It was during this time that the club developed a respectable boxing team, with competitors going on to Golden Glove competition.

In his 1946 annual report, Elworthy stressed the need to return to normalcy and the organization took up the challenge by developing a strong recreational program and becoming a largely young people's organization, Bruce said.

It was about this time the club hired Pauleen Masak as recreational director. She and Elworthy had the strongest influence on the development of Neighborhood programs, with two putting a total of more than 80 years into the club.

Under Masak's direction, the club helped found community football programs, little league baseball teams and tennis programs.

The '40s were "a real active time for the center," Bruce said. Besides athletics, social activities were being held in the community centers.

The '60s brought upheaval to the Neighborhood Club. After more than 40 years as director, Elworthy retired. At the same time, the facade of the community center was pulling away from the rest of the building because of settling of the building's foundation.

After a couple of years of trying to find a way around the problem, the board finally decided to vacate the center. The building was condemned and razed and the club was left without facilities to operate recreational and other programs.

During the months of trouble surrounding the club's building, the community had a chance to see how much the organization's programs meant, Bruce said. The Grosse Pointe Board of Education offered the club space at Brownell Middle School for its activities at a nominal rate.

From there was born a partnership that has expanded over the ensuing years. The Neighborhood Club found that it had more opportunity to schedule events because Brownell offered two gymnasiums instead of one. The club and the public school system expanded their partnership until at one point, the club offered activities at 13 of the district's 15 school facilities, either in gyms or on playfields.

Besides building its programs, the early 1960s saw the club build a new concept in community service, Bruce said. A teen center was built and the organization helped put together drug treatment and education programs with other community groups.

Those activities were part of the organization's tradition of stepping forward to meet its social responsibility, to identify a problem and, either singly or in concert with other organizations, put together a program to find a solution, Bruce said.

It was also during the mid-1960s that Bruce became active in the center, first on a part-time basis and in 1971 becoming executive director.

It was a time when the Neighborhood Club was looking to reaffirm its position as a front-runner in recreation, Bruce said. The club did just that, expanding adult programs for men and women and looking to other age groups in the community, both pre-school and older citizens.

Special older adult programs were added in 1978 and today, there are more than 800 active members in the organization's Village Club, Bruce said. Some of the participants remember the Oak Street beginnings of the club and pass on anecdotes, he added.

There's no end to the three-generation stories — families who have been active in the group for many years, Bruce said. What he finds satisfying is the family atmosphere that is maintained in many of the programs.

Besides looking back, the club is looking ahead, Bruce said.

"As we move into the 1990s, programs for older people will be every bit as large as our other programs," Bruce said. The club can touch the lives of people in all age groups, with programs available from pre-school on up, he added.

One tradition that has remained throughout its 75 years is that the club's trustees have always been women, Bruce said. Many have served for 25 years or more. Their record of achievements speaks to their dedication to the center, he added.

The club remains an independent non-profit organization that receives no direct tax dollar support. It stopped receiving United Foundation funding in 1970 and now depends on a variety of revenue sources, through membership and participation fees to its annual fundraising and thrift shop to keep it operating.

The Thrift Shop provides 20 percent of the center's operating budget, Bruce said. It began as a kind of garage sale that became so successful, it became a weekly and finally a permanent fixture at the center.

It may be a compliment that people still think of the Neighborhood Club as a small program, although it has more than 10,000 people either as members of participants in programs, Bruce said. People tend to see the bits and pieces of the organization, but not the full depth and breadth of the services offered.

"We've been here for 75 years ... and I can get excited about the next 25," Bruce said. The changes coming in the next few years "make me excited about our potential to be a vital community organization."

One thing the center will try to do is keep up with the changing demographics and needs of the community without losing the family feeling to programs, he added.

Smile winners

Justin and Matthew Lariscy, 6 and 8, of Grosse Pointe, were the first place winners in their age categories in the University of Detroit School of Dentistry's, "Smile America" poster contest held during National Children's Dental Health Month. Dean Charles King, center, of the City, presented the children with trophies during an awards ceremony in the Pediatric Dental Clinic. Dr. Deborah Studen of the Farms acted as chairperson for the activities.

Navy memorial to record names

Honor your father (or husband) who served in the Navy by enrolling him in the Navy Memorial Log, an integral part of the U.S. Navy Memorial now being built in Washington. A minimum $25 tax-deductible donation is required.

The U.S. Navy Memorial, authorized by Congress in 1980 and funded solely through private donations, is now under construction on Pennsylvania Avenue, halfway between the White House and the Capitol. Honoring the Navy and all its members, past, present and future, the memorial will include a large amphitheater for band concerts, fountains and waterfalls, the statue of The Lone Sailor and, eventually, a sculpture honoring the Navy family.

The Navy Memorial Log is a computerized repository of names which have been entered by individuals themselves, in memory of shipmates of relatives, or as commemorative gifts. The log will publicly display each individual's name, highest rank or rate held, branch and dates of service and date and place of birth. To date there are 45,000 entries. U.S. Marines and Coast Guard personnel who have served with the Navy are eligible for the log.

Specially prepared greeting card acknowledgements and log registration forms will be sent in time for Father's Day for requests with contributions received by Friday, May 30.

Donations payable to U.S. Navy Memorial should be sent to: U.S. Navy Memorial Father's Day, Box 12728, Arlington, Va. 22209-8728.

Send check or money order, or pay by VISA or MasterCard by mailing exact name, account number and expiration date appearing on the card.

Be it ever so humble

There's no place like the Junior League Designer Showhouse

By Elsa Frohman

Last Thursday it looked like it was going to be a photo finish. With just seven days to go before the first visitor would tour the Junior League of Detroit Designer Showhouse, there were still painters working in the second-floor bedrooms, there was no carpet on the three-story central staircase and the landscapers were still waiting for plants to be delivered for the front lawn.

"This is all supposed to be done by noon Friday (April 25)," said Libby Follis, Junior League chairman for designers, as she stood in the chaotic, half-finished front entry hall. "I'm convinced that they'll still be hauling things in at 11:59." She had to shout to make herself heard over a workman operating a power saw in the front powder room.

Follis had responsibility for coordinating the efforts of 18 designers who transformed Rosecroft, one of the Pointes' most stately older homes, into a showcase of interior design ideas as a fundraiser for the Detroit Junior League. The league expects more than 20,000 people to tour the house during the three-week event beginning today.

We picked our way over power-tool electrical cords and empty crates and boxes to tour the still incomplete house last Thursday. Visitors to the house today will find quite a different scene. The clutter, disorder and chaos will be gone. Despite the misgivings of the day before, at noon, Friday, April 25, the Designer Showcase was for practical purposes complete — just one more miracle in a long list of accomplishments of the Junior League.

The work began last January when 45 Detroit-area designers were invited to tour the house and submit proposals for the different rooms. The showhouse provides designers with an excellent showcase for their talents, while at the same time they can assist one of the metropolitan area's oldest and best organized volunteer organizations.

"Most of the money the league raises goes back into Detroit," said George Hawkins of Design Detroit Interiors. "I'm proud to be helping get Detroit back on her feet. This is a local project and I'm a local designer."

Follis praised the cooperation of the 18 diverse creative personalities that worked together to make the showhouse.

"This is the friendliest group of people I've ever worked with," Follis said. "They just can't do enough for us. I can't believe how generous they've been. There is a fantastic esprit de corps. They're working like a team."

The team spirit showed through when the group lost its designer for the three-story front hall stairway.

"The responsibility fell back to the committee," Follis said. "But when the designers heard about it, they volunteered to help." McQueen Carpets of Birmingham donated Karistan carpeting to go from the entry to the third floor and D.J. Kennedy of Kennedy and Company helped out with decorating the space which ties together all the other areas of the house. Several area businesses including DuMouchelle's donated antiques and accessories for the area.

"Every bit of this is at the designers' expense," Follis said. "And it is a high expense with all the furniture and labor."

But if the designers worked hard to make the showhouse a success, the Junior League members worked even harder. Several areas of the house, including the second-floor public bathroom, the stairwell, the second-floor sleeping porch and the basement fell to the league for decoration. Brass was polished throughout the house, walls were painted and floors were stripped and sealed. Wherever there was work to be done, league members were pressed into service.

"Members have really worked hard," said Stephanie Hampton, co-chairman of the showhouse. "Cynthia Ottaway (another of the four co-chairmen of the project) polished that wooden staircase from top to bottom."

Despite the diverse interests of the designers who worked on the house, it is surprisingly cohesive throughout. Designers working in adjacent rooms often consulted with each other to make sure their work wouldn't clash.

"It flows beautifully," Follis said. Attention to detail is a theme that runs throughout the house. Susan Zinger, head designer for J.L. Hudson's, which decorated the dining room and sunporch on the first floor, pointed to tradition as this year's major design trend.

"There is a return to elegance and an emphasis on traditional style," Zinger said. The dining room is decorated in blue and white with a combination of 18th century antique and Charleston reproductions. The table is set with Waterford crystal.

A special touch in the sunroom is a painted floral motif on the walls around the windows. The hand-painted flowers are echoed in the upholstery of the sofa in the room, and the curtains in the adjacent dining room. Zinger allowed that hiring an artist to paint flowers on the walls might be beyond some people's means, but explained that elegant interior design need not be outrageously expensive.

"It's a matter of priorities," she said. "Specialness is worth the expense. They might even try something like painting the flowers themselves, though they probably ought to practice on something other than the walls first."

D.J. Kennedy described his living room as having "an eclectic, traditional feel." Kennedy combined antiques, such as a spectacular mirror in a carved frame that came from the estate of the Countess Tolstoy, with an off-white Berber wool carpet and Rosecroft, at 266 Lakeland in Grosse Pointe City, has been transformed into a designer's dream for the 1986 Junior League of Detroit Designer's Showhouse. "dredge green" walls with vanilla trim. The upholstery is off-white silk and a corner of the room is dominated by an ebony piano from Evola Music.

Kennedy designed the room with elegance — and adults — in mind.

"It's not something (the silk upholstery) that I would use in a family room," he said. "It requires special care. But silk is the strongest natural fiber. This won't wear out."

Other parts of the house were designed with an active family in mind. George Hawkins of Design Detroit Interiors described his third-floor family room as a place where people can be comfortable and not look out of place.

"It's Country English," he said. "It's a very liveable, comfortable room. It's going to look just as well when people are in here. If you left your shoes up here, they wouldn't look out of place. It's basically professional disorder."

"It's a room not just for one person, but for the whole family," he said.

A detail seen over and over throughout the house is painted, textured walls. Some of the woodwork is distinguished with hand-painted marbling. In other areas, the walls are painted a base color, then layered with glazes that produce different textures.

Painter Michael Meda, working in James Evan Williams' master bedroom, explained that the woven textured walls in that room were not a quick project.

Meda painted for five days, layering and cross-combing the glaze over the green basecoat.

Other highlights of the house will be a raffle, to be conducted on the second-floor sleeping porch; the boutique of handcrafted items to be located in the basement; and the Greenery, selling plants and stoneware, located in the backyard. The Junior League cookbook, "Clockwise Cuisine," will also be on sale at the house.

Designers working on the house include: Mildren Fiedman Antiques and Interior Design, Sandy Baer, Perfect Closet, Kristine Carpenter Wills, James Evan Williams Interior Design, Hudson's Studio of Interior Design, Jacobson's Interior Design Studio, Brian Killian and Company, Flowers by Kimberly, Mutschler Kitchens, Kennedy and Company, Audrey Baenziger, Clutter Control Inc., Customcraft Construction, Design Detroit Interiors, Ginna's Gatehouse, Peach Street and The Pewabic Society.

Tickets for the showhouse are $4 in advance, available at the Junior League headquarters at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial Carriage House, or $6 at the door. Group rates are available. The hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Co-chairmen for the event are Cynthia Ottaway, Stephanie Hampton, Barbara Weiss and Patricia Kolojeski.

Alliance plans a program of French music and poetry

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe invites its members to attend a program of French music and poetry on Sunday, May 4, at 3 p.m., at the Unitarian Church on Neff Road and Maumee in Grosse Pointe.

Jointly organized by the Alliance and the French Institute of Detroit, this event promises to be enjoyable for all.

Internationally acclaimed flutist Ginka Gerova-Ortega will give a recital of works by Blavet, Poulenc, Roussel and Messiaen's "Le Merle Noir," a United States premiere.

French pianist Laurent Philippe will be her accompanist. They will perform the Detroit premiere of a work by Debussy for flute, piano and narrator, "Chansons de Bilitis," which has been played only twice in the United States before this performance.

The narrator, Magali Wilmot, is from the University of Clermont-Ferrand and has just completed a year at the University of Detroit Law School as an exchange teacher fellow. She will read the poetry of Pierre Louys.

Bulgarian born Ginka Gerova-Ortega has been praised by performers and critics alike for her sumptuous tone, artistic temperament and technical mastery. Since her New York debut in 1983, she has performed extensively in the United States, Europe and Mexico.

Thanks to the efforts of Ludmilla Von Taube, president of the French Institute of Detroit, and David Thoms, program chairman of the Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe, the audience will have an opportunity to hear a gifted artist at ease with the traditional repertoire as well as new or previously unknown music and composers.

For more information and reservations, please call Dorothea Vermeulen at 886-9102, or Ludmilla Von Taube at 644-4110 or 355-3186. Advance tickets are $5 for members and $6 for non-members. Tickets will be $7.50 at the door.

The Alliance Francaise de Grosse Pointe welcomes new members with an interest in the language and culture of France. To join, call Jean Van Bever at 881-7985.

Pro Mozart Society to present concert at Fries

The Pro Mozart Society of Greater Detroit will present its 27th annual concert at the Fries Auditorium, Grosse Pointe War Memorial, on Sunday, May 18, at 3 p.m.

These concerts have been held at the War Memorial for the last 20 years. The theme of this year's concert is Mozart and the Freemasons. Mozart became a Freemason in 1784 at the age of 28 and much of his greatest music stemmed from this period of his life. Marguerite Kozenn Chajes, the founder and artistic director of the society, will present a brief summary of this aspect of the composer's life.

The music director of the Society is Lawrence La Gore of Grosse Pointe. La Gore has held this position for 25 years and he has planned a most interesting and varied program of the music of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.

Two years ago La Gore was awarded the Magic Flute Medal from the International Foundation Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria, in recognition of his faithful service on behalf of Mozart and the Society.

Performing artists, besides pianist La Gore, will be Claritha Buggs, mezzo soprano; Earnestine Nimmons, soprano; Assen Vassilev, bass-baritone, from Bulgaria; Cathy Krinsky, piano; Ann Elliott, violin; Matthew Schiebold, cello; and Linda Borushko, clarinet.

The clarinetist will perform with Buggs in a seldom heard aria, "Parto, parto" from Mozart's late opera "La Clemenza di Tito."

La Gore and Krinsky will play an unusual four-hand piano arrangement of the ever popular "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik." Earnestine Nimmons will sing an aria which Mozart wrote for his sister-

-in-law, Josefa Hofer, to be interpolated in a performance of Paisiello's "Barber of Seville."

In the 18th century it was fairly common practice for singers to commission an aria by another composer as a showpiece to be inserted in the performance of an opera.

The Michigan Council for the Arts is one of the supporters of the concert. Tickets are $7. For seniors and students $3.50. For further information or for tickets in advance call 884-5113. Tickets available at the door at 2:30 p.m. before the concert.

Home, sweet home, was never like this

Showhouse is a domicile with style

What a difference a week can make. These photos were taken just eight days apart. D.J. Kennedy of Kennedy and Company has transformed the living room from a cavernous space to a warm, inviting room for entertaining and relaxing.

The dining room, furnished by the design studio at Hudson's, signals a return to traditional elegance. The sunporch, visible through the doors, is sparked by painted flower motifs on the walls that are keyed to the upholstery in the sunroom and the curtains in the dining room.

A lot of handwork went into preparing the Showhouse. Here, custom painter Michael Meda sands a wall in the master bedroom to prepare it for painting and glazing. Meda worked for five days to paint this room with a base coat and successive layers of glaze that were cross-combed for a textured effect.

The impressive, three-story stairwell is the centerpiece of Rosecroft. Here, looking down from the third floor, the original floor covering of the front entry hall is visible. Visitors to the Showhouse will walk on donated carpet, rather than the original tile. The league had the assistance of several of the designers in furnishing the entry and stairwell.

Elsa Frohman

This bedroom on the second floor was designed by Peach Street with a feminine touch. The bed features a silk canopy with an abundance of fabric. The designer used multiple floral prints and yards of antique lace to finish the room.

Neuro Muscular benefit planned

Pine Lake Country Club will be the scene of this year's 9th annual dinner-dance sponsored by the Neuro Muscular Institute Boosters, to help severely handicapped children. The date will be Saturday, May 3.

For nine years the boosters have selected an "Inspiration Child" to honor at their special party. This year's Miss Inspiration is Kathleen Barletta, of Sterling Heights, the daughter of Robert and Suzanne Barletta.

Kathleen, who came to the NMI at 1½ years of age, was diagnosed by the NMI group of experts, headed by Dr. Maurice Castle, who has been giving up his Wednesdays for 19 years to do surgery and consult with his staff for the multi-handicapped children who come to the NMI for help.

Although Kathleen was found to have cerebral palsy, and a spastic quadriplegia condition, she was first treated by Castle, the chief orthopedic surgeon at Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital, through braces and therapy. However many surgical trips have been made to Mt. Carmel and Castle throughout the years.

The boosters have raised funds for many things needed for children such as Kathleen. Each year, former 'Inspiration Children' and their parents are invited again to be guests at the NMI dinner dance. Each year shows the improvement that has been made.

For the past few years the NMI Boosters have honored someone in their organization with a Humanitarian Award.

Frank Stella, is this year's award winner. Stella, a graduate of the University of Detroit, has been the recipient of many awards in the United States as well as Italy.

Recipient of 1984 Mercy Award by Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital for significantly contributing to the Improvement of Health Care, he also received the highest award bestowed to a person who has distinguished themselves in Michigan and America.

Two others who will be honored on May 3. They are Mr. and Mrs. Sturgis Ducoing of Birmingham for their significant gifts to NMI throughout the years, and a special plaque to Lou Wilcox of Grosse Pointe, for her nine years of publicity for the NMI.

The boosters and their friends will meet at 7 p.m. at the Pine Lake Country Club on May 3, with dinner being served at 8 p.m.

Music will be the popular Pan-chitas Orchestra. John A. Kruse of Detroit will be master of ceremonies. Castle will introduce the "Inspiration Children" and Stella. Helen Castle will introduce the Ducoing's, and Wilcox.

The dinner dance is $100 per person, with Kathy Willetts, NMI coordinator of NMI taking checks and reservations. Donations or dinner reservation checks are to be made out to the NMI Boosters of Mt. Carmel Mercy Hospital. Willetts can be reached for further information at: 927-7012.

Windmill Pointe Questers install state's first male chapter president

When Gerald Ricard joined the Windmill Pointe chapter of Questers about a year ago, he didn't have trailblazing on his mind. However, today, he is a first. Last week, Ricard was installed as the president of the Windmill Pointe chapter. He took the gavel from Virginia Kasza, immediate past president.

"I've always been interested in history and antiques," Ricard said. "My main present interest is genealogy."

Ricard is a retired school teacher from Kerby School. He attended his first Questers meeting as a guest. "The ladies treated me so wonderfully that I kept coming back," he said. "One of the main things that impressed me was the diverse interests of the ladies and their intellectual curiosity. Questers have so much to offer."

The Windmill Pointe chapter, one of many Questers groups in the Pointes, was chartered on May 14, 1969. It was organized by Mrs. Pierre Palmentier, Easter Detroit representative.

The chapter is named for the point of land where the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair meet.

Junior League breakfast gets presidential approval

The Corporate Community Corps Committee of the Junior League of Detroit hosted a Corporate Volunteerism Breakfast on April 17, at the Omni International Hotel to provide a forum for discussion about the importance of forming a Corporate Volunteer Council (CVC) in Detroit. The League committee's co-chairwomen are Elizabeth DuMouchelle of Grosse Pointe Woods, and Trudy Rhoades of Grosse Pointe.

More than 100 representatives from Detroit area companies attended the meeting including Detroit Edison, National Bank of Detroit, AAA of Michigan, the Detroit Free Press, MichCon, Ford Motor Company, IBM, Michigan Bell, Jacobson's, Henry Ford Hospital, Burroughs and many others.

The featured speaker was Walter McCarthy, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Detroit Edison. One of Detroit's most dedicated corporate volunteers, McCarthy addressed the audience as to the importance of corporate responsibility and involvement in the community.

Mary Kathryn DuCharme, president of the Junior League of Detroit and resident of Grosse Pointe, read a telegram she received from President and Mrs. Reagan which endorsed the project and wished the group great success. In the telegram President Reagan said (in part):

Clothes from Jack Clark's Pro Shop were modeled by Carol Gneiser, Marcy Shannon and Mary Lou Beyer. Barb Durling organized the models and their apparel.

Bev Hanna and Marion Mauer were in charge of reservations. The beautiful decorations were chaired by Shirley Doetsch. Proceeds from the fashion lunch will go towards improvements for the ladies new lounge.

That is why the American Federation of Teachers has established a special fund entitled "Christa's Challenge."

Local garden clubs plan spring flower show

Four area garden clubs are co-operating to put on a "Celebration of Spring," a flower show, at the Jacobson's Store for the Home. There will be a preview party for sponsors on Wednesday, May 7, from 6 to 8 p.m., and the show will be open to the public on Thursday, May 8, from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The four groups working on the show are the Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club, the Grosse Pointe Garden Club, the Junior League Gardeners and the Garden Club of Michigan. The Garden Club of Michigan is organizing the show.

The show will have two divisions, one for artistic exhibits and one for horticultural exhibits. The artistic division will have six classes — Small Arrangements, Garden Statues, Pedestal, Basket, Abstract and Table.

The horticultural exhibits will feature spring flowers from gardens and homes throughout the Pointes.

"There is really no limit on the numbers for horticulture exhibits," said Nancy Heenan, past president of the Garden Club of Michigan.

The show will feature potted plants and "specimens" or branches or flowers cut from garden plants.

Judges for the show will be from out of town, belonging to the Garden Club of America. Ribbons will be awarded in the six artistic classes and the eight horticultural classes.

This year's show is the follow-up to last year's Valentine's Day show. The club decided to hold this year's show later in the spring so a wider variety of spring flowers would be available.

Sights and sounds of spring . . .

South's girls' softball squad didn't quite get what it wanted in its Eastern Michigan League opener against top-ranked East Detroit last week: an upset victory to match the one the Devils earned in last season's EML start against No. 1-ranked and eventual state champ L'Anse Creuse.

But they did get what South coach John Bruce calls a "good softball game," including making it close late in the game before finally falling, 5-2. "I was more pleased with our performance this time than I was when we played East Detroit the weekend before," Bruce said.

Pitchers Lynn Vismara and ED's highly-touted Gina Menta each threw well, but the best story of the game was the first inning duel between Vismara and ED catcher Colleen Hughes. Vismara had two strikes on Hughes and tried to come inside for the strikeout, but Hughes jumped on the pitch and tripled home two runs.

The funny thing was, a smile flickered across Vismara's face when Hughes notched her three-bagger. And after the inning was over, South fans saw Vismara huddle with her coach, letting him know that she'd come as close to making the right pitch as possible but Hughes had hit it anyway.

What spectators didn't know is that after playing summer league softball on the same team last year, Vismara and Hughes are the best of friends. They remain so despite a big rivalry between the two EML squads. And after the game Hughes and Vismara talked on the field, kidding each other over the afternoon's events. They'll play together again this summer, on a women's fast pitch team out of Richmond.

"That's one of the great things about sports," Bruce says, "that you can develop friendships like this. That's why Lynn smiled when Colleen tripled. The way she felt was that if anybody had to get the hit, it might as well have been Colleen."

Besides, Vismara struck her out the second time around.

It was a long time coming, but South's girls' soccer team finally overcame perennial league-leader North High in their annual match-up last week, 4-1. I didn't get there until the second half, but my spies tell me that some pretty good soccer was played by both squads as the Devils topped the Lady Norsemen for the first time in four years.

Especially tough was the South defense, which held North's Shannon Armstrong off the board despite her four goals per game average. Amy Hawkins, Sarah Dow, Sara Wasinger and Casey Steffes were drawing raves for their play from the big crowd on hand, too.

As far as I was concerned, the nicest sight of the day came after the game, when the two teams shook hands at midfield. Then a crowd of tired but happy South players — including All-Stater Kim Wood — climbed into the back of one of the Devils' Chevy Suburban van and went hooting and hollering back to South High, beeping the horn and flashing huge grins and "No. 1" signs to folks all along the way.

One of the not-so-nice sounds of spring has been the less-than-deliriously-happy sports fans complaining to me, via the telephone, about the time it takes to get their sports items published.

Hang in there, folks. It's the busiest time of the year and believe it or not, everybody thinks that the sports achievement/kudo/award/feat/derring-do pulled off by their precious Muffy, Buffy, Binky or Sid is the most important/fantastic/earth shattering/news-worthy item of the moment.

Know something? They're right. But that's the way we look at all the items submitted to us for consideration: as being equally worthy of fighting for the available space. And in this busy season, that means that it might take a bit longer to get in the paper. But sooner or later, they all get printed, so save your anxieties for something really critical . . . like the next time the Tigers' Jack Morris gives up six runs in the first inning.

Michigan's newest racquetball champion is — drum roll, please — Grosse Pointe Park Police Chief Richard Caretti.

Actually, Caretti's state title in the men's 55 and up bracket last month was his eighth consecutive state racquetball championship. But it wasn't an easy one for the Park's Top Cop.

"I was really worried this year because there are a couple of pretty good guys in my age bracket. There was a lot of tension. I'll tell you that," Caretti says.

In the end, though, it was business as usual, with Caretti coming out on top. He says he doesn't plan anything special, just getting back to playing racquetball whenever he can and staying in shape for a serious assault on title No. 9 next year.

'Completing a challenge'

Lake Huron doublehanded event offers sailors a chance to 'get back to basics'

By Peggy O'Connor

The first thing that should be understood about the 1986 Huron Doublehanded Challenge is that it is not — repeat, NOT — a race. The second thing is that for a non-race, the second annual Sarnia to Rogers City doublehanded sail is getting pretty popular.

"It's not a race," says Challenge chairman Phil LePage, of Dearborn. "It's a competitive cruise. In fact, the best way to refer to it is to call it 'completing a challenge.'"

Competitive doublehanded sailing is a relatively new to the area and was the brainchild of LePage, who had experienced the thrill and challenge of singlehanded sailing and wondered if he might present a similar opportunity to sailors who might not be quite ready to compete alone.

"I love to race singlehanded, but there might be people who like the aspects of shorthanded sailing but don't want to race singlehanded," he says.

So LePage broached the idea to the Great Lakes Singlehanded Society and in 1985, a "competitive cruise" was born. Fifty-four boats participated in the first event, enduring some of the nastiest weather in memory. A number of Grosse Pointers were in that first field, including division winners Howard Riley, on Charm; Greg Dunn, on Tangent; Chuck Riley, on Estrellita; and Richard Lootens and his daughter, Anne, on Asylum.

The Challenge is special, LePage says, for more than just its limited crew. "It's a matter of sailing from one nice place — Sarnia — to another nice place: Rogers City. It's the nicest, warmest town and most receptive to boaters.

"I see the future of this race as being a pilgrimage to Rogers City by people who love to do it year after year. That's why we're limiting the event to 100 boats. I don't know that we ever want it bigger because that might detract from the feeling of camaraderie we have now.

"And that's such an important part of this event."

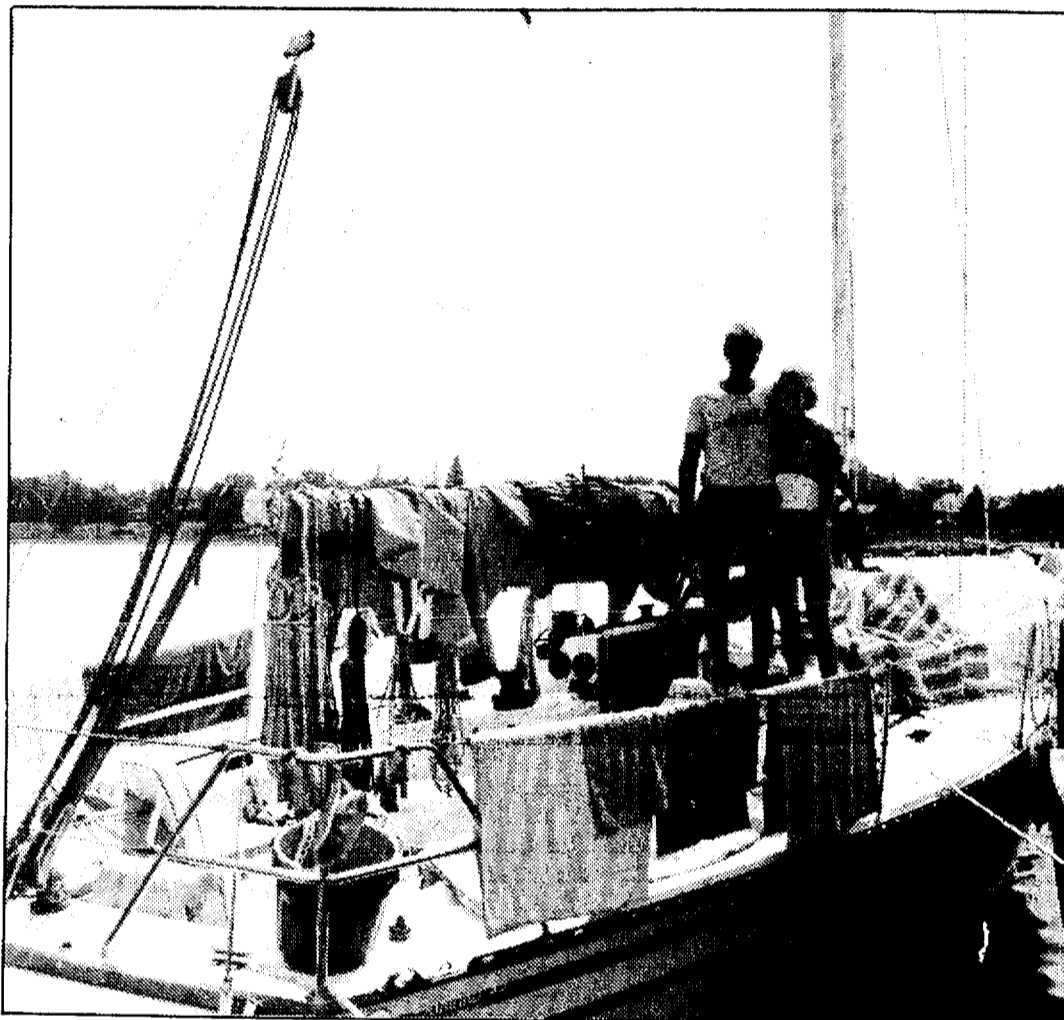

An indication of that camaraderie is the rule which requires participants to check in with another boat at least once every 12 hours in order that the whereabouts of every participant is known at all times. That's not common major Great Lakes competitive event practice, but it is for the Doublehanded Challenge.

As are equipment requirements or recommendations including a certified, self-inflating life raft, have made at least one nonstop passage of at least 100 miles under sail in a passage time of not less than 24 hours. Entrants also must be in satisfactory physical condition to withstand the demands of shorthanded sailing, LePage says.

"In a race like this you need to be. You tend to sail a bit more cautiously because you can't afford to take chances in any area. But that's what is so special about this event — that it permits all-around seamanship, a return, if you will, to the basics of sailing."

The event is not a money-maker; LePage says they broke even last year after expenses. Organizers wouldn't mind if sponsors would like to participate, LePage says, but chipping in $25 to cover the specialized awards (bronze porthole trophies) like those Richard and Anne Lootens of Grosse Pointe participated in the inaugural Huron Doublehanded Challenge last July.

"It's not a race. It's a competitive cruise." — Phil LaPage aerial flare with launching device, and a safety harness for the man on deck. An autopilot is not required, but recommended because "it makes sense," LePage says.

Race classifications are structured so that boats are "raced" on a level within the monohulled divisions and the one multihulled division. The PHRF rating is used, LePage says, but mostly as a guide for rating. "We'll try to group the boats by their speed potential," he adds.

"It doesn't always work the way we want it to. Last year, we had three boats with similar ratings finish within 10 minutes of one another. After 55 hours, the boats were still that close."

ENTRY FEE is $75 per boat. Entrants must detail their sailing experience; each skipper must have 1,000 miles sail experience as skipper and must given for Estimated Time of Arrival and Parent/Child honors.

Sponsors or those who want more information about the July 5 event may contact LePage at 604 Montrose, Royal Oak, Mich., 48073.

"Basically, we want this to be an enjoyable event. Ninety percent of those who sailed last year have responded positively to this year's event. And as of now, there are two other doublehanded events scheduled for this summer, so I guess the idea is catching on," LePage says.

"We want sailors to do it because it's a decent sailing challenge. It's an event that makes sense...heck, we don't even put first, second or third on our flags. For you and your crew member just to finish is an accomplishment."

Detroit River Yachting Association

ORCD assigns ratings so PRFs and IORs can sail DRYA races

A headline like that sounds like alphabet soup is simmering; actually it means that serious competition is taking place on Lake St. Clair every Saturday morning from May 17 through Oct. 11. Earnest, gung-ho sailors in 28 classes of sailboats push off early in the day and head into the lake to test their own and each other's skills, determination, concentration, strategies, stamina, and (sometimes) patience.

The Detroit River Yachting Association (DRYA) has been involved in the promotion of such sailing competition since 1912. It will celebrate its 75th year next season.

Actually, DRYA is an advisory organization, an association of 25 member yacht and boat clubs that range all the way from Sarnia and Port Huron to Toledo. DRYA is affiliated with the United States Yacht Racing Union (USYRU), an even older national organization.

DRYA provides race equipment, judges, committee people and timers to individual member clubs, which take turns sponsoring the weekly competitions. DRYA designs standard courses and handles protests and appeals. The individual sponsoring clubs provide committee boats and an awards ceremony following the day's race — usually including a cocktail party, dinner, and a dance.

Most Saturday events draw 250 boats and five times as many sailors to compete for awards on three courses, in as many as 28 different classes. Some classes are one-design boats such as Tartan 10s, Santana 35s, Cal 25s, Ensigns, Tornados, Cal 20s, North American 40s (NA 40s) and a new class this year: Express 27s.

Two classes, PRF and IOR, are groups of boats that are not alike, yet are able to race against each other because they have been assigned handicaps or ratings. Handicaps are given at the beginning of each season by the Offshore Racing Club of Detroit (ORCD), and are expressed in seconds per nautical mile. Handicaps take into account such variations as boat length, beam, type and size of sails, and year of construction. PRF stands for Performance Racing Fleet. IOR stands for International Offshore Rule. These groups are again subdivided into groups A, B and so on.

Beginning May 17, weekly races will again be run on three courses. This season, the A and B courses have been separated, with the B course moved farther north, near Gaukler Point, off Nine Mile Road. "We hope by moving the course, we will attract more sailors from the Anchor Bay area," says George Gerow, A-B Course Representative. "The A course will be a modified Gold Cup course this year," he said.

For more information about weekly races or about the DRYA, call 778-1000.

Norsemen nine open league year

By Josh Abbott
North High

The North High varsity baseball squad won two out of three games last week while opening the Bi-County League season.

On April 23, the seven-time defending Bi-County champions kicked off the league season by downing South Lake, 7-1. Senior righthander Bill Miller spun a three-hitter, striking out seven enroute to the win. Juniors Chris Dudeck, Pete Kilcline and Mike Miller each had two hits to pace the North attack. Kilcline drove in three runs and Dudeck, two.

Three days later, North broke even in a doubleheader with Warren Lincoln, winning the first game 6-1, and dropping the second, 7-5. Junior Mike Farelly starred for North with five hits and two RBI in the twinbill. Senior Steve Pochmara hit a grand slam for the Norsemen in the finale.

North travels to Alpena for the annual Alpena Tournament Friday and Saturday, May 2 and 3.

Sophomore Russell Rice fired a no-hitter and helped the North High JV squad to two victories last week.

On April 23, North won a high scoring affair, 15-7, over South Lake. Dino Vento got his first win of the season with 4 1/3 innings of excellent relief pitching. Marty Pochmara went two-for-three, had two RBI, four runs and four stolen bases. Vento drove in three runs and Dan Rashid, Josh Abbott and Scott Schorer had two RBI apiece.

On April 25, the JV dropped Lakeview, 5-1, as Rice held the Huskies hitless to win his second of the season. Vento had two hits to lead the offense.

North, 6-1 overall and 2-0 in the league, had won five straight going into action this week.

A mercy win

North's girls' varsity softball team defeated South Lake, 16-4, in five innings April 23. North exploded for 10 runs in the third inning and went on to "mercy" South Lake for its Bi-County-opening victory.

Mary Lex led all hitters with two doubles; senior Virginia Sanders had two hits, also. Amy Dominek and Denise Kowalke combined for a two-hitter to get the pitching victory. North closed out the week with a 5-0 loss to Lakeview on April 25.

Kickers second

Despite falling to crosstown rival South High, 4-1, last week, the girls' varsity soccer team bounced back, placing second in the Troy Invitational last weekend.

Alexa Parmentier had North's only goal against South on April 24. In the Troy Invitational, North defeated host Troy, 2-1, in the opening game as senior Shannon Armstrong and junior Bridget Brierly scored. In the final, the Lady Norsemen bowed to top-ranked Livonia Stevenson, 5-0.

In JV play, North tied rival South, 0-0, as sophomore Sue Nichols got the shutout in goal.

Tracksters 6-0

With a pair of wins last week, North's boys' varsity track team raised its record to 6-0, 2-0 in the Bi-County League.

On April 22, North opened the league season by dropping Brablec, 110-26. Junior Tom Augustus highlighted the win with first place finishes in the 100 and 200 meters. Two days later, North destroyed L'Anse Creuse, 110.5-26.5. Junior Mike Wujek captured three firsts: in the long jump, high jump and 100 meters. Senior Brian Bergeron won the shot and the discus for the fifth time in six dual meets. Sophomore Ted Stephens pole vaulted 11 feet to win that event.

On April 22, North competed in the Anchor Bay Invitational, running up 64 points and tying for first. Bergeron and sophomore Marc Demanigold each had four firsts, including Bergeron's top finishes in shot and discus.

The Norsemen host league foe

Clintondale at 4 p.m. today, May 1.

North's ninth grade track squad won a pair of easy dual meets last week over Fraser and East Detroit Kelly.

On April 23, the frosh defeated Fraser, 89-48, behind the first place finishes of Andy Coppa in the discus, Craig Kent in the shot, Derek Lawson in the 200, Brad Bartos in the 100 and 400, and Greg Donahue in the 110 and 300 hurdles.

Two days later, North destroyed Kelly, 104-32, as Rocco Maiolo won the mile, Bartos, the 100 and 400, Lawson, the 200 and the high jump; and Donahue, the 110 and 300 hurdles.

North hosts East Detroit Oakwood on May 2.

Girls on track, too

North's girls' varsity track team began the Bi-County season on a strong note, defeating Roseville Brablec, 113-15, and L'Anse Creuse, 86.5-41.5.

Against Brablec on April 22, senior Jill Dornbrock won four events and senior Barb Labadie was involved in four first place finishes. And against LC on April 24, North dominated the distance events, winning the one-half, mile and two-mile and taking three of the four relays.

Sophomore Monique Van Assche participated in three events. The victory upped North's record to 5-1. The girls face Clintondale today.

Penciled in at an outfield position for the Albion College men's varsity baseball squad is freshman Harold Colby. Colby, a 6-0, 180-pound University Liggett School graduate, is one of several players being counted on to help the Britons improve last year's 7-5 league record and third place finish in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

by a sprained ankle. He throws hard and relies on a good breaking ball. Babcock had a 4.63 ERA last year, striking out 24 and walking 25 in 46.2 innings pitched.

A trio of Pointers turned in top finishes in the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO Track and Field Meet at Cobo Arena recently. Grosse Pointe Academy student Peter Donaldson finished fifth (5:29) in the boys' 13-14 one mile run. And Pointers Peter McDermott (:07:74) and Lamor Wilson (:07:78) finished fifth and sixth, respectively, in the boys' 13-14, 60-yard dash.

Western Michigan University freshman Stephanie Schulte, of Grosse Pointe won her No. 6 singles match in the team's 9-0 win over Northern Illinois on April 12. The win gave Schulte, a South High graduate, a 4-10 singles record this season. She and her partner also took their No. 3 doubles match, to run that mark to 2-2.

Getting it right (as in Wright, not Rajt)

Occasionally, we goof. But never as seriously as in the last two editions of the Grosse Pointe News when we called the talented (and unfortunately, injured) South High girls' varsity soccer goalie Marcia Wright, Marcia Rajt.

Soooo, to put things right, we now note that Marcia's name is indeed Wright and not Rajt. Even though Rajt would have been right in the case of a number of kids who have played high school sports in Grosse Pointe in recent years, but wasn't nearly right in Marcia's case.

Albion College senior pitcher Dave Wittwer of the Woods, allowed just one run and four hits in his pitching stint against the Michigan State University Spartans; Albion went on to win, 7-1. Fourteen games into Albion's varsity baseball season Wittwer had a 1-1 record, a 3.74 ERA and 15 strikeouts in 24 innings pitched.

Sophomore tennis player Amy Leverenz, of Grosse Pointe, had a 4-3 singles record and was 4-2 in doubles for the Albion College women's varsity tennis team after seven matches.

Senior golfer John Briski, of Grosse Pointe, had an 80 average and was a medalist once for the Washington University in St. Louis men's golf team after three matches and two invitationals.

While we're at it, we'd also like to apologize for misspelling University Liggett School baseball coach Glynn Conley's name recently. We hope that we haven't inconvenienced Conley or Wright too much.

Correction

Margie Reins Smith's Boating column of April 17 should have identified Tony Ban as safety officer for the Grosse Pointe Power Squadron and past officer of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 12-12.

Righthanded pitcher Dave Babcock, of Grosse Pointe Woods, returns to the Western Michigan University varsity baseball lineup this spring, after compiling a 4-3 record for the Broncos as a sophomore in 1985. The 6-1, 195-pound communications major did not play baseball as a freshman, but lettered last season. He had four consecutive wins in May before being hindered

It's all in the wrist

They make it look so easy, do South softball pitcher Lynn Vismara (in her windup, follow through and delivery at the top) and her East Detroit counterpart, Gina Menta (above), rated the state's No. 1 hurler. (Both were in action last week at South) And maybe it is, compared to the task of those batters who have to face Vismara and Menta.

Devils hit batting slump, drop three games in a row

By Stephen Ebner
South High

South High's varsity baseball Blue Devils started the week out great, beating East Detroit 5-0 and 6-4, and topping Port Huron, 8-1, but ended it with losses to Port Huron Northern, 5-3, and De La Salle, 8-4 and 5-1. South is 6-4 overall, 3-1 in the Eastern Michigan League.

"We're not hitting," said coach Dan Griesbaum. "Although we've won six games overall we haven't been hitting as well as we should be." Performing well at the plate despite the team slump were Doug Lucas (3-for-3 at De La Salle) and Pete Muer (three hits against PHN). Rico Cordova hit South's only homer last week.

South did have outstanding pitching last week. Ted Kolp threw a two-hitter against East Detroit, striking out eight and walking two. Cordova had 11 strikeouts and gave up four hits against Port Huron.

South travels to Roseville and to Lakeview, Friday, May 2.

The JV squad used excellent pitching to sweep East Detroit, 5-2 and 3-1 and beat Port Huron, 6-0, and Port Huron Northern, 5-4, last week.

Mark Wysocki went the distance against Port Huron, striking out eight and giving up four hits. At East Detroit, Reuben Ascensio had seven strikeouts and Nick Saros had a no-hitter for six innings in the second game. South pitcher Andre Bielski held PHN to just one run through six innings.

The JV is scheduled to play seven games this week, including a contest against Roseville May 2 and a home doubleheader with Fraser on Saturday, May 3.

Net problems

South's boys' tennis team topped Port Huron Northern (5-2) and Port Huron (6-1) but had problems at the Ann Arbor Invitational, finishing eighth among eight teams.

Winners against Port Huron Northern were Thad Angyal at No. 1 singles, 6-4, 1-6, 6-2; Scott Watson at No. 2, 6-2, 6-1; Bill Wheeler at No. 4, 6-2, 6-1; Joe Mooney and Tom Witt at No. 1 doubles, 6-7, 6-0, 6-2; Don McKnight and John Lamb at No. 2 doubles, 6-4, 7-6; and Bill Huntington and Jerry Rourke at No. 3 doubles, 6-1, 6-1.

Match winners against Port Huron were Angyal at No. 1, 7-6, 3-6, 7-5; Watson at No. 2, 6-4, 6-7, 7-5; Witt at No. 4, 6-2, 6-3; Mooney and Rob Hackman at No. 1 doubles, 6-0, 6-1; McKnight and Lamb at No. 2 doubles, 6-4, 6-0; and Rourke and Huntington at No. 3 doubles, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3.

Witt (No. 4 singles) and Wheeler (No. 3 singles) scored South's only points at the invitational. The Devils host L'Anse Creuse at 4 p.m. today, May 1, and play in the Liggett Invitational this weekend.

Softball squads busy

By Jennifer McSorley
South High

The varsity and JV softball squads had a busy week, with seven games each. The varsity is 5-5 overall (2-1 in the EML) and the JV is 4-3 overall.

South's varsity topped Port Huron, 5-1, as senior hurler Lynn Vismara allowed three hits, struck out six and walked one. Junior Barb Van Wingerden and sophomore Holly Asmus were the game's top hitters.

South dropped one to East Detroit, 5-2, despite Vismara's six strikeouts and her triple at the plate. The girls bounced back to beat Port Huron Northern, 6-0. Vismara allowed just two hits and one walk; juniors Katy Turner (two singles), Patty Molloy and Patty Hess (tripled) and Vismara (home run) were leaders on offense.

In the Sterling Heights Invitational, South bounced back from a 12-0 loss to Warren Cousino to beat Lapeer East, 7-2, and Birmingham Groves, 10-0. Vismara won both the games; Turner and Molloy had base hits. South finished seventh overall out of 16, losing to East Detroit, 5-1, and Regina, 9-7. JV pitchers Erin Bruce and Mary King saw action against Regina.

South's JV softball team opened with an 8-3 win over Port Huron. Pitchers King and Bruce struck out six each; King got the win and Bruce, the save. Patty Pentecost, Lisa Fromm and Lori Van Tassel were offensive leaders.

The squad also beat East Detroit, 5-4. Bruce and King struck out four apiece, with Bruce winning and King earning the save. Pentecost went 3-for-3 and stole four bases; Van Tassel had two hits and two RBI.

South lost to Port Huron, 12-2, and in the invitational beat Stevenson, 20-10, (Bruce won and King got the save); and topped Romeo, 19-17 (King's win and Bruce's save). In the championship round against Chippewa Valley, South lost, 26-13, but every player got a chance to play and sophomore Laura Grego did a fine job on the mound, according to coach Glenn Williams. South took home the second place trophy after losing the final to Cousino, 8-3.

Top performers in the tourney included sophomore Sarah Dajani (seven-for-nine, .777 average, a triple, five RBI and six stolen bases); Lisa Van Tassel (six-for-10, .600, a double and eight RBI); sophomore Laura Linder (five-for-eight, .625, a double and four RBI); Pentecost (three-for-six, .500, six stolen bases); Lori Van Tassel (five-for-11, .454, four RBI); and Asmus (three-for-eight, .375, six runs scored, six stolen bases).

Pitchers Bruce and King did well, throwing 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ and 6 $\frac{2}{3}$ innings, respectively.

Kickers fare well

South's soccer teams did well against last week's only opponent: North High. The varsity won, 4-1 and the JV game ended in a 0-0 tie.

Senior Becky Steffes, senior Suzanne Saad and junior Kim Wood (two) scored for the varsity.

Girls 5-0 in track

South's girls' track team improved its record to 5-0 overall, 2-0 in the EML with an 84-44 win over Port Huron last week. The Devils also placed well at the 46th annual Central Michigan University Relays, against some of Michigan's top teams.

Against Port Huron, South outscored the Big Reds, 32-0, in distance events and 32-10, in sprints. They tied PH, 18-18, in the field and were beaten, 16-2, in hurdles. The Devils won three of the four relays, thanks to the sprint team of junior Erin Kershaw, sophomore Reba Uthappa, freshman Traci Lee and senior Julie Boyd.

Senior Nancy Solterisch won the mile and half-mile runs and junior Mary Beth Hicks took first in the two-mile. Other first place finishes for South came from junior Myreya Amezcua (400), sophomore Dunrie Greiling (discus) and junior Lucia Bridenstine (long jump).

Lee was victorious in the 100 and 200 dashes; senior Heather Imel placed in the 100 and 300 hurdles; and in the long jump, freshman Toni Tedesco earned points in the 400 dash and long jump. Sophomore Kellie Buchanan placed in the shotput. Scoring points in the distance events were seniors Kelly Riehl and Toby Ott, and sophomores Ellen Mayer, Micha Song, Wendy Berger, Rebecca Wasinger, Megen Smucker and Stephanie Dinka.

At the CMU Relays, South took two firsts: Solterisch won the two-mile (11:47.7) and Greiling won the discus with a personal best (103 feet, 11.5 inches). Also taking home a medal was the 3200 relay team of Riehl, Berger, Mayer and Solterisch.

Boys drop one

South's boys' varsity tracksters lost to Port Huron, 101-35, last week.

Senior Chris Astfalk took firsts in the mile and two-mile; junior Brian Stratton was second in the 100, the 400 and the long jump. Also, seven freshmen moved up to the varsity and are doing well, according to coach Thomas Wise.

Wise noted that the squad looked forward to three meets this week: against Port Huron (after press time), L'Anse Creuse North at home May 1 and the Sterling Heights Invitational on Saturday, May 3.

After having two meets cancelled, South's ninth grade track team was "up" for last week's meet against Bishop Gallagher, coming out on top, 97-16. The team took first in every event except the 300 hurdles and the half-mile.

In the mile, Lew Echlin, Phil Orten and John Finucane finished one-two-three in the mile; Andy Cox took first in the 200 run and anchored the winning 400, 800 and 1600 relays.

In the field, Pat Bruce was first in the high jump, Brad Van Tiem finished first in the long jump, Jeff MacCagnon, first in the pole vault, and Jeremy Dixon and Chris Marchesi went one-two in the shotput and discus.

North needs help

North High is in need of cheerleading sponsors for the junior varsity and ninth grade cheerleading squads. Tryouts are being conducted this week for those teams.

Interested persons should contact North athletic director Thomas Gauerke at 343-2214 as soon as possible.

South's Kim Wood, back from a shoulder injury, scored two goals in leading the varsity soccer squad to a 4-1 win over rival North April 24.

Actors shine in '8 million ways . . .'

By Michael Chapp
Corruption in the big city: It's a fact of life in these United States and despite efforts made by local and national law enforcement agencies, some wrongdoing will always exist.

Hollywood, in its ongoing effort to mirror the mores, attitudes and situations in society, has been serving up a plethora of what-a-corrupt-world-it-is pictures. In just the past few months, for example, audiences have been given "To Live and Die in L.A.," "Year of the Dragon," and the current "Band of the Hand," not to mention many others.

Latest in this genre is "8 Million Ways to Die," a movie that has more drug-abusing, violent, foul-mouthed hoodlums than your average prison.

On the positive side, it also has Jeff Bridges and Rosanna Arquette, whose performances make "8 Million Ways" a little better than most of its counterparts.

But only a little bit. Bridges plays Matt Scudder, an alcoholic sheriff who loses his job and family because of his condition. Six months later, Scudder gets involved with Sunny (Alexandra Paul), a prostitute who asks him to intervene between her and her pimp, Chance (Randy Brooks). Sunny claims she wants out of the "business," and asks for protection.

Scudder agrees and goes to Chance to work something out. Chance tells him that Sunny is free to do as she pleases. Chance will not interfere.

Piano concert

Pointe pianist and teacher Alice Ellison will join Oak Park resident Muriel Hoptman in a performance at the Oak Park Library Sunday, May 4, at 7:30 p.m. The program, part of the fine arts series at the library, is dedicated to the memory of the late Professor Glenn McGeoch of the University of Michigan and the late Miriam Meckler, mother of pianist Ruth Laredo.

The program, "What's This I Hear?" is divided into two sections. The first half will be a demonstration recital by Hoptman, including works from Bach to Bernstein. After intermission the two pianists will present a short program of music for four hands by French composers.

The concert is free. The Oak Park Library is on Oak Park Boulevard, two blocks north of Nine Mile Road and one block west of Coolidge. There is ample lighted parking adjacent to the library.

But then Sunny is brutally murdered, and Scudder takes it upon himself to figure who did it and why.

His investigation leads to Angel (Andy Garcia), a drug pusher who's built an empire for himself by selling cocaine. In the meantime, Scudder falls for Angel's girlfriend Sarah (Arquette) and the two become close.

This sets up the final conflict. Scudder wants Sarah from Angel; Angel wants the coke that Scudder has confiscated from him. And neither are in any mood to play games for what they want.

The screenplay, based on the novel by Lawrence Sanders, is not particularly unique. Nor is anything in "8 Million Ways to Die." It's a formulaized urban drama with nothing special worth recommending.

Except, that is, for Bridges and Arquette.

Bridges' portrayal of the hard-nosed, bite-the-bullet cop is wonderful. One scene that will especially stick in viewers' minds is when Scudder wakes up in a detox ward after drinking himself into unconsciousness. With frizzled hair and an unshaven face, Bridges looks the part perfectly. But it's his mannerisms — slurred speech, distant eyes and hobbled walk — that hit the hardest.

Arquette, meanwhile, turns in a brilliantly subdued performance. Her character is not called upon to do much talking, or even thinking for that matter, but in the scenes where she is given a chance to do so, she shines.

A major faux pas in the film is the unlikely fact that Scudder would have gotten involved in this situation in the first place. Viewers sense trouble from the very start. Surely an ex-cop such as Scudder could do the same.

But of course, if he had, there would have been no movie. And no movie means no money. And no money means . . .

Yep. There will also be some wrongdoing in society.

English castles featured in film

"Come to the Castle," a travelogue that uses an historic story line to dramatize a tour of stately English homes and palaces that have stood for centuries, will be presented by platform veterans Howdee Meyers and Lucia Perrigo at 8 p.m. on Thursday, May 8, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts.

The presentation will be the ninth in the 10-part travel series, coordinated by lecturer and TV personality Dennis Glen Cooper and sponsored this season by the Automobile Club of Michigan. Cooper will present the final program of the series, "Caribbean Islands in the Sun," on June 12. Known as story-tellers-with-camera, Meyers and Perrigo bring a background of media experience to their filmmaking. Meyers was a broadcaster and producer for Mutual and NBC before forming his own production company in Chicago. Perrigo was a feature writer and movie critic for the

'Wise Guys' teams DeVito, Piscopo

By Marian Trainor
In a comedy that races from one outrageously funny situation to another, Danny DeVito and Joe Piscopo pair up as one of the funniest duos to hit the screen since Laurel and Hardy.

DeVito, best known for his roles in "Taxi" and "Mean Street," is a fast-talking comic dynamo. Piscopo, a "Saturday Night Live" character, is a perfect foil for him with his trusting good humor. They even look funny together as they mug their way through their roles as two bumbling gangsters in Newark.

Short, plump and squarely built DeVito barely reaches lanky Piscopo's armpit. Nevertheless it is the little guy all the way, as DeVito engineers one disaster after another.

Harry Valentine (Danny DeVito) and Moe Dickstein (Joe Piscopo), friends from boyhood, live in Newark. Their dream is to open the world's first Italian-Jewish delicatessen.

To get the money for their knish and cannoli venture, they join up with a group of local mobsters because as Harry points out, "Crime is the fourth biggest industry in the state. It's a growth industry."

Their life as would-be gangsters is not an auspicious one. They are assigned to such tasks as picking up the boss's laundry and starting his car to make sure there are no explosives attached to the ignition.

Another one of their chores is to transport the boss's bets to the racetrack. Up to now they have just been the butt of cruel jokes but when Harry puts the money on the wrong horse, life gets precarious.

These guys are mean. Planning what to do with the culprits, the head of the mob ponders: Do we really hurt them by killing them? His chief contractor replies, "It's a start."

From this point on, all stops are pulled out. The errant pair are ducked in a tank of water to drown, hung over a pit of snarling, murderous dobermans, shot at in a chase that ends in St. Lucy's Cathedral, and tracked down to a hotel in Atlantic City run by another mobster.

Director Brian De Palma, best known for such thrillers as "Carrie" and "Dressed to Kill," scores a hit in his switch to broad comedy. He takes advantage of every possible angle. Even the quieter scenes showing the misbegotten characters in their home settings have humor.

Although the twists and surprises of the plot keeps the film moving at a brisk pace, the amusement comes from the cast of characters. But it is DeVito and Piscopo as the winning pair of losers, floundering through one set-up after another that puts the film in the category of first-class comedy.

Netters tie for second in annual tournament; tracksters still unbeaten

The University Liggett School boys' varsity tennis team tied for second with East Grand Rapids at last weekend's Tournament of Champions.

On April 21, rain interrupted a match against North High on the Knights' courts, but not before No. 1 singles player Ray Tumacder defeated North's Patrick Hopper.

This Friday and Saturday, May 2 and 3, ULS will host an eight-team invitational. Teams participating include Grosse Pointe North, Grosse Pointe South, Dearborn, Edsel Ford, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Ann Arbor Greenhills, South Lake and ULS.

On April 24, Cranbrook blanked ULS 7-0 and on April 25, Redford Catholic Central shut out the Knights 5-0.

at approximately 1:30 p.m.

The ULS boys' junior varsity tennis team saw its season record slip to 1-4 last week with three straight defeats.

On April 21, rain interrupted a match against North High on the Knights' courts, but not before No. 1 singles player Ray Tumacder defeated North's Patrick Hopper.

Brother Rice defeated ULS 5-2, April 23. The only winning Knight netmen were No. 2 singles player Dike Ajiri, who upset Rice's Dan Sullivan 6-3, 7-6, and the No. 2 doubles team of John Shanley and Ryan Strouger.

On April 24, Cranbrook blanked ULS 7-0 and on April 25, Redford Catholic Central shut out the Knights 5-0.

Tracksters at 3-0

The University Liggett School girls' varsity track and field team improved its record to 3-0 (2-0 in the Michigan Independent Athletic League) with an 82-46 win over visiting Southfield Christian School on April 25.

For the third meet in a row, tri-captain Lydia Alexander was top scorer with 14 1/2 points. Alexander won the long jump and the 100 hurdles, took second in the high jump, and participated in the winning 400 meter relay team's unopposed victory with Elena Hunt.

Freshman Diann Imbriaco stunned the crowd with an outstanding victory in the 800 meters, taking 18 seconds off her previous best time.
