Your friendly neighborhood Spiderman

A teenager "climbing his way to success" attracted some attention in the Woods recently, both the good and the bad kind.

Evelyn Frohman looked out her front window on Brys Drive one afternoon and noticed some unusual activity at a house across the street. A teenaged boy was climbing up the side of his mother's house - without benefit of a ladder.

"I really think he showed some enterprise," Frohman said. "We've lived across from that house for 25 years and nobody has figured out you could climb up that way before.'

The feat was possible because of some decorative brickwork some bumps on the bricks that gave just enough purchase for an "enterprising" young man to scale the wall, much in the manner of a bare-hands rock climber.

Grosse Pointe's answer to Spiderman went up and down the house several times, climbing in and out of his secondstory bedroom window, before deciding to get someone else in on the act. A friend joined the teen a little later and the two of them amused themselves climbing up and down the house.

Well and good, so far. About then, however, another neighbor noticed the activity and began to worry. Could these be cat burglars?

The Woods police were called and a squad car soon arrived to investigate.

There is a happy ending. The aspiring human fly and his friend are not serving time. Batman and Robin are free on their own recognizance.

The envelope, please

School board settles claim in Hoeh suit

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Grosse Pointe Board of Education has agreed to a $54,000 settlement with the estate of former Deputy Superintendent James Hoeh, who shot himself in the chest in September 1984 in Westland.

The district faced a potential liability of at least $162,000 under the state's workers' compensation law. Hoeh's widow, Julia, had filed a claim against the district in February 1985, claiming that working conditions led to her husband's Ronald Varga, representing Mrs. Hoeh, contended that the former deputy superintendent "was engaged in work activities which subjected him to excessive stress, traumatic anxiety, traumatic neurosis . . . and/or flair-up of an underlying . . . emotional and mental condition resulting in a mental injury which led to (his) death.

The district, represented by its insurance company's attorneys, Plunkett, Cooney, Rutt, Watters, Stanczyk and Pedersen, denied it was responsible for Hoeh's injury.

The case, which has been postponed at least twice, was ready to go to trial before an administrative law judge, according to a press release issued by the school system.

Part of the agreement between the two sides was to keep a low profile on the settlement, according to Varga. The statement issued by the school system, in which the plaintiffs had input, is all that will be said on the case, he added.

The final pieces of the settlement were pulled together last week, according to Superintendent John Whritner. The board had previously approved settlement in principal in the case, school officials said.

School board President Jon Gandelot is guoted in the release:
"This settlement represents the wisest use of board funds given a very difficult situation. The board also recognizes the extensive grief already suffered, and feels it best to bring this to closure."

Hoeh, who would have been 52 this year, was born in Royal Oak. He graduated from Sebawaing High School in 1952, served two years in the Army and began his education career in Birmingham,

He accepted the South High School principalship in 1974 and was selected for a central office post in 1977 by then-superintendent William Coats.

At the time of his death, he was deputy superintendent, but, in the absence of a top administrator for the system because of Dr. Kenneth Brummel's resignation, was fulfilling many of the duties of superin-

Hoeh's suicide was only one of a number of events that rocked the public school system that year.

The bitter debate over closing Barnes School to elementary students and moving sixth-graders into middle schools led to an at-tempted recall of three board members that June. Also that year, Superintendent Kenneth Brummel told the board he was leaving Grosse Pointe for a position in California.

Group says incinerator risks unacceptable

By Nancy Parmenter

New information on the cancer risk from the proposed Detroit incinerator has caused environmentalists to change their stance on the project. A month ago they were calling for use of the best available control technology — now they are saying the risks are uncontrollable and the plant should not be built at

An independent evaluation of Combustion Engineering's risk assessment has convinced the 6,000-member Detroit Audubon Society to ask the state for a oneyear moratorium on the construction of incinerators. The grace period would allow time to reevaluate, analyze risks and investigate alternatives.

Stephenie Ruttinger, a member of the DAS, but acting independently, obtained a copy of the risk Commoner and Thomas Webster to evaluate it.

'I made some phone calls and (Commoner) was suggested, along with a planner from Minneapolis," Ruttinger said. "The city planner in Minneapolis sent me right back to Barry Commoner."

Commoner, at no charge, evaluated Combustion Engineering's risk assessment, using CE's figures. He didn't like what he found.

"That was a very inadequate environmental impact statement," he said Monday in a telephone interview. "The project was developed in an irresponsible way." Commoner cited numerous "errors and inconsistencies" in the report. The two major findings in the

*The lifetime maximum risk is calculated assuming exposure through inhalation plus ingestion and dermal contact (computed at 5.1 times the inhalation exposure) for people exposed for a lifetime at the point of maximum ambient concentration to dioxins and furans.

Engineering underestimated the risk of death from cancer and that against dioxins, but he said tests of the Center for the Biology of Natural Systems, queens College of the City University of New York, control dixoins and furans.

"(N)o tested emission control methods are capable of reducing incinerator emissions to (the required) extent," the evaluation report stated. "Accordingly, if the Detroit facility is built, there is a serious risk that it would be unable to operate within legal emission requirements, forcing it to close." The baghouse/scrubber technology requested by the Department of Natural Resources doesn't work, Commoner said. "This isn't an opinion — all I know is what the facts are," he said. "No, there are no tested control methods that can reduce dioxin to acceptable levels."

Commoner conceded that there assessment and asked Dr. Barry evaluation were that Combustion are "rumors" that the scrubber/ don't bear the hopes out. Results from a test of a full-scale operating municipal solid waste incinerator in Japan found that seven times more dioxins and furans left the system than went into it.

'It cannot be regarded as an effective device," he said.

Commoner said he would have used different methodology if he had conducted the risk evaluation from scratch. His methods would have resulted in higher risk levels. But even working with figures and methods supplied by Combustion Engineering, Commoner found that CE's cancer death estimate was 42 times too low.

One of the problems in evaluating dioxins and furans is that they belong to a huge group of similar compounds, the effects of which are not all known. Eight different methodologies have been proposed — the EPA alone has proposed two — and the results vary widely. The accompanying chart illustrates the considerable differences among the eight procedures.

Further, Commoner wrote in his report, CE's assumption that inhalation is the most significant avenue of exposure is incorrect. Two other analyses "show that ingestion or dermal contact with set-tled dust contaminated with (dioxins and furans) can be far more serious than inhalation," he wrote.

Ruttinger said that she has sent copies of Commoner's report to the EPA, the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission, and to the governor's office, but not the City of Detroit. "Governor Blanchard once said that if the scientific evidence were strong, he would consider intervening," she said.

DAS, the Sierra Club and the Lung Association had been awaiting action by the EPA this week. but Virginia Donohue at the EPA's Chicago office said Monday that no action regarding the incinerator should be expected until at least next week. She said the agency feels no pressure to act before the May 9 deadline for starting construction.

"We're getting information from a lot of different sources," she said. "It takes time. The city knows we're concerned, Combustion Engineering knows we're con-

Park adopts party ordinance

By Pat Paholsky

The Park council unanimously adopted an open house parties ordinance April 28. The ordinance addresses the possession and or use of alcoholic beverages or drugs by minors at house parties. It places responsibility on the person in control of the

The ordinance, which takes effect May 23, has been under consideration for a while by the Ordinance Review Committee, city attorney Herold McC. Deason said. Adding impetus was the fact that next month is the season for graduation par-

Councilman David Gaskin said, "It's designed to get at what is the real problem in all of the Pointes and that is that these parties are getting out of hand. It's designed to permit the city to be able to prosecute without going through the rigamarole of having to go downtown to court.'

Police Chief Richard Caretti agreed that the main advantage of the ordinance is local control. Cases involving violations will be heard at the Park municipal court.

A violation is a misdemeanor, punishable by a $500 fine and/or 90 days in jail. "It just gives us another tool to use," Caretti

There has been only one complaint in the Park this year to date regarding a loud party with minors, Caretti said. "We are hopeful we'll have another year like last year. It was really quiet last year in the Park.

The key difference between this ordinance and one passed in the Farms in November is the interpretation of "the person in control of the residence." The Farms ordinance puts the burden on the parent, specifically the adult at whose house the party is held, even if the adult is on vacation or otherwise not at home at the time.

According to the language in the Farms, the adult is responsible if he or she "failed" to take reasonable steps to prevent the possession or consumption of the alcoholic beverage or drug . . . or where the adult knew or reasonably should have known that the alcoholic beverage or drug was in the possession of or being consumed by the minor

The Park ordinance does not use the word "adult." It attaches responsibility to the "person having control of a residence." That could be a minor, according to attorney Deason. "Control in our ordinance is not defined," he said.

He gave the example of an 18-year-old whose parents go away for the weekend and they are aware that he is going to have a party. "It strikes me that both the 18-year-old and the parents are in control and all three of them could be charged," Deason said.
"It's a question the courts will have to decide,"

he added.

Councilman Gaskin said it will depend on the circumstances of the situation. "It there's a track record that every time the parents leave home, there's a party," the parents could be held responsible. In other cases, the minor could be held lia-

"It could affect anyone who is in control of the residence who knew or should have known alcohol or drugs were being consumed," he said.

The Park is the second city in the Pointes to adopt such an ordinance. The Farms, which passed its open house parties ordinance about six months ago, has not prosecuted anyone yet, Police Chief Robert Ferber said. There are similar ordinances in Farmington Hills and East Detroit.

What's in a name?

The Punch and Judy. It's a fine old name that brings back fond memories for many Grosse Pointers. It does not, however, reflect the character of the building to come.

The old Punch is scheduled for a major interior renovation that will transform the vacant structure into a retail and business office complex. Work will begin soon.

In keeping with a sense of community, owner R.G. Edgar is giving readers the opportunity to name the building. The name should suggest the new character

- retail and business - of the structure. It should not have the name Edgar in it, he said.

The winner will receive $100 and the pride that comes with renaming a landmark building. There are no restrictions; enter as many times as you wish, but submit only one name per entry blank. The forms can be reproduced.

You have two weeks to come up with a winner. The deadline is Thursday, May 22. The forms can be mailed to the address shown or dropped off at the office.

Possible Blues rate hike has some cities seeing red

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Grosse Pointe municipal officials are waiting impatiently for Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan to notify them in writing of rates that could be as much as 31 percent higher than last year's.

The municipalities were told when they were starting budget formulation for the coming year that Blues rates could rise about 10 percent, according to Woods City Administrator Chester Petersen.

Petersen added that he built that increase into his city's 1986-87 budget and learned, only after calling the Blues again, that the insurance carrier was planning to hike rates by three times the original esti-

The extra cost could top $98,000 for the coming year — an amount that hasn't been figured into the budget he is sending to the council May 19 for approval, Petersen said. To raise the extra revenue, he may have to tack as much as onethird of a mill onto the city's tax rate for the coming year, he add-

But Petersen and other Pointe officials say they will be looking for another insurance carrier if they can't talk Blue Cross into softening the blow.

City Finance Director Dennis Foran called the proposed rate increase "a shocker," adding he had been told by the company that there had been some claims from the communities, which are in the same insurance cluster group, that are more than $200,000. All the details aren't in yet, he added.

The cost of the hike, about $56,000, may force the city to look for other health care providers who offer the same services at a lower rate that will be paid to the Blues, he added.

The news of the possible hike comes at a particularly bad time for the City, which is close to completing its budget process. The council is scheduled to hold a public hearing on the budget Monday night. Because this comes so late in the process, there's no time to realign expenditures to adjust for the increase, Foran said.

Village election to be held May 20

Shores Superintendent Michael Kenyon said the 30 percent hike could cost the village $36,000 more in Blue Cross payments next year.

The possibility of the higher rates, higher than expected bids and the uncertainty of outcomes of contract negotiations with three unions led Kenyon to recommend the village delay a $225,000 sewer project on Renaud Road. Trustees accepted that recommendation at their Tuesday, April 29, meeting. Because of the Shores' budget process, there's more time than in other communities to redirect funding, Kenyon added.

Farms assistant city manager Carrol Lock said "there's too much here to leap to conclusions' about the possible rate hike. While the city knows there will be an increase, it would rather wait until the official notification comes through, he added.

If the 30 percent hike is a reality, there's no guarantee the Farms will be insured through Blue Cross next year, he added.

The Park will also wait for official notification of any rate change, even though it had less time to wait. The city's budget comes up for public hearing May 12, according to city comptroller Nunzio Ortisi. Official announcement of the rate change will probably come after the public hearing, he added.

The public school system is also forecasting a 7 to 8 percent increase in its Blue Cross rates for the year beginning in April, according to finance director Christian Fenton. The district isn't part of the same cluster group as the for minor offenses which have ocmunicipalities.

Generally, employers with older work forces tend to pay higher rates for health care services in coming years, he added.

The Board of Education has the third of its scheduled three budget workshops tonight, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will only be held if the board hasn't completed the budget work in the first two meetings, held Tuesday and last

Eastside youth assistance program gets under way

By Nancy Parmenter

Police in three of the six cities involved in Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods Youth Assistance have already referred juveniles to the new program. Five young men and one young woman have been referred by youth bureaus in the Farms, the oods and the City.

The youths have been referred curred since the program started in February, Director Sandra Mignone said. Youth assistance will not handle any people who have committed violent crimes.

"These are offenses that the juvenile court is likely to dismiss," Mignone said. "They're so busy downtown with murders and sex offenses that the judges would just dismiss loitering on the Hill or malicious destruction of property."

Mignone maintains an ongoing liaison with the six police departments, all of which are represent-'ed on the program's advisory committee. The program's first crop of 10 volunteers has graduated from training and is in the process of meeting with clients. Nine women and one man participated in the first session.

Male volunteers may only councounsel clients of either sex. But Mignone would like more men to organizations to publicize the pro-

"We definitely need more volunteers," she said. "When we get clients, I don't want to make them wait months for a volunteer." A new volunteer training session will start in June.

The program was started with a grant from the Skillman Fund which will finance a year and a half of operation. No limit on the number of clients has been established.

Counseling is tailored to the individual. In every case, both family and youth will be involved, and all youths will learn skills like decision-making and communications, but the number of sessions will be flexible, Mignone said.

Most of the city parks have agreed to participate in community work-service, Work will not be required of every client, Mignone sequences. That's one of the skills said, but is seen as a valuable tool in many cases.

Police referrals are not the only way to get into the program. "This is a preventive program," Mignone said. "If parents refer early in the problem, maybe they can avoid seeing the police at all."

Mignone said the police anticipate referring people for violations of the teen curfew. Most of the infractions are minor, but she and the police take it more seriously when teenagers start fires or commit vandalism.

'Or this thing about the kids lying down in the street in front of cars," she said. "If they're really doing that, it's serious. Banging on the cars can cause damage." As to why teenagers would lie in the street in the first place, she said, "Lots of kids don't think about conwe teach in the sessions."

Mignone says she sees communications problems in most of the cases. "It's on both parts," she said. "Parents and kids both feel they can't talk to each other.'

In her observation of the Grosse Pointes, however, she has seen many concerned parents who really want to help. "We had one parent who wanted to go through our training just for her own benefit, so she could understand her family better. It's a good attitude. Without parents' support, these kids wouldn't be here."

People interested in volunteering with the youth assistance program or in having Mignone speak to their organization may call her at 885-3510. She would like to hear as well from non-profit organizations who can offer work-service opportunities.

GPEA proposes retirement incentive program

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Grosse Pointe Education Association received a decidedly cool response from the Board of Education Monday night when union officials presented a retirement incentive program that they say could save the district $3.2 million over the next 10 years.

Under the proposal, local teachers with at least 15 years experience and eligible for retirement under the state system who retire in June 1987 would be paid $400 a month by the system until they reach age 65. The supplemental payment will include life insurance coverage equal to that provided to active members of the bargaining unit.

Our proposal is one that will save the board of education money," according to GPEA President Doris Cook. "Of course, that is an attention-grabber for any board of education.'

Cook, vice president for negotiations Lynn O'Connor, and vice president Richard Underwood were among union officials who made the pitch to the board Monday

The GPEA presented to the board a rundown of plans offered by other districts, a breakdown on cost savings were a plan adopted in Grosse Pointe and rationale for adopting such a program.

"We have approximately 490 teachers. Of that, 372 are at the maximum salary level," O'Connor told the board. "What that demonstrates is that we have an educated, experienced and expensive with a master's degree, 60 hours of extra education with longevity pay earns about $43,800 a year. That teacher, induced to retire, could be replaced with one who would be paid approximately $24,400. With pay hikes and the incentive payment of $4,800 a year figured in, the district could save about $81,600 on one teacher.

Were the system to tempt 40 teachers into retirement with the early incentive program, savings in the first year would be $584,000. O'Connor said. Over the 10 years of the program, the district could save $3.2 million with the plan.

Saving money is only one of the reasons the board should consider the retirement proposal, according to union officials.

We think retirement incentives work. We think this is a very good

Greatest garage sale plans are under way

For the fifth straight year, Grosse Pointe's Greatest Garage Sale will take place over Memorial Day weekend in the Carriage House parking garage behind Jacobson's

Held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday and Monday, May 25 and 26, the garage sale features individuals selling household white elephants and treasures, craftsmen displaying their specialties, antiques, T-shirts, flea market fancies, and miscellaneous items.

In the past four years, church groups, hospital auxiliaries, neighborhood groups, service clubs and individuals from all over the Grosse Pointe/Detroit/suburban areas have gathered household goodies to display and sell. Thousands of shoppers have frequented this event.

Sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Village Association, the sale has a special aim: to raise enough money to sponsor Grosse Pointe's own Santa Claus Parade which is

In addition, an older staff has more serious illness requiring extended leaves. Retirements would reduce the problem, according the the union. Also, a more balanced staff representing all levels of experience and energy could be achieved.

Many districts have bargained retirement incentives into current teacher contracts, according to Cook, who presented a rundown of plans in place in other districts, including Livonia, Troy, East Detroit, Rochester, Romeo and North Muskegon.

Board members were skeptical that the retirement plan could be added to the contract with a letter of understanding which had been prepared by the GPEA.

Board Vice President Vincent LoCicero said he understood such letters were to be used to clear up ambiguities in contracts, not to add to contracts.

LoCicero is an attorney with the firm Berschback, Kerwin, LoCicero, Chilingirian & Brennan. Board president Jon Gandelot, another attorney, said the board would have to vote to open the contract and then adopt the letter of understanding language.

The district has offered an early incentive plan in the past, according to Cook. At that time, about 30 teachers opted out for lump sum payments offered by the board, but more would have retired had the incentive offered covered more than just retirees' increased health insurance costs, she added.

The improved pension system adopted by the state offers better health care benefits as well as building in a 3 percent cost-of-living increase into the pensions of retirees.

Board members, however, said the last retirement incentive was discontinued because teachers weren't using the plan.

'As I recall, when we had one, the reason for coming to a point where we said we were going to eliminate it was because it wasn't being used," LoCicero said. "We were holding money in a budget that could have been used else-

The plan that offered teachers a $300 monthly payment until age 70 were they to retire early had been in the contract for four years, according to school officials. Few teachers took advantage of the plan the first three years, but after t was to terminate, the district had about 30 teachers opt out in a single

'My feelings about incentives is, you hold out a carrot and someone has to come up and grab the carrot or else you take it away," Gandelot said. "If you're going to have an incentive, it's to get people who are thinking about retiring to retire. It it's a continuing, 10 year thing . . . that to me isn't much of an incentive.'

Concern over the possibility of December retirements again surfaced among board members and administration.

Superintendent John Whritner challenged Cook's contention that most teachers would benefit by retirement at the end of the calendar year instead of the school year. Trustees also asked her for details on how many teachers are considering a December retirement.

Cook countered that in individual cases, added Social Security benefits are large enough to have some teachers considering a December instead of June retirement. She added she has used the GPEA newsletter to try to disseminate information, but many teachers are not willing to make their plans known.

Teachers fear that being identified as being ready to retire could mean poor assignments in the coming first semester, union mem-

Cook added that the two years that would see the largest number of December - mid-school year retirements would be 1986 and

The retirement incentive would be one way of holding those teachers planning to retire in December in classrooms until June 1987, the end of the school year, Cook said.

Using union figures, the district could save almost $130,000 over 10 years were a teacher at maximum salary to retire and be replaced with one entering the system with five years experience.

The board will definitely look at the union proposal, according to Gandelot. The union should come back to the board with more data about savings, he added.

The group home issue

The investment that the average family makes in the purchase of a home often is the largest one it will make in the lifetime of the family members. So it is only natural that homeowners are concerned about proposed changes in zoning or living patterns in their communities that they fear may have deleterious effects on their investment. That is the major reason some people are worried about the opening of a group home for mentally retarded adults in a Grosse Pointe residential community.

Yet the legal battle against group homes appears to be over. Both the Legislature and the courts have held that establishing group homes is to be regarded as residential use of property. Occasionally, group homes have not been approved for one reason or another. It was a side issue that really halted the use of the home on Bedford in the Park when it was purchased as a group home five years ago. But the state's right to license residential facilities for no more than six persons has been confirmed "as a residential use of property for the purpose of zon-

That being the case, the road now appears to be open for the use of the residence on Lakepointe recently purchased by the Association of Retarded Citizens of Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods as a home for six retarded adults. The six will include four from the Pointes who currently are living with their parents. If, as expected, the state approves the application and the home meets state requirements, the Department of Mental Health will lease it from the owners and a private, non-profit agency will inform and educate the nearby property owners and other residents about the way in which the home will be operated and the residents supervised and cared for. In general, group homes are regarded as providing a more humane family-type atmosphere which enables the re-tarded to achieve their potential and in some cases to become self-supporting members of so-ciety. And surely the evidence to date indicates that group home care is preferable to the insti-tutionalized "warehousing" that was the traditional treatment of the retarded.

Information about these and other matters will be available at the information center at Trombly School from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday. Hosting the session will be representatives of the Group Home Advisory Council of Grosse Pointe-Harper Woods, Wayne Community Living Services and Community Administrative Services, Inc., the private, non-profit agency that will operate the home.

Experience in other communities indicates that the fears about the effects of a group home on property values and community activities have been exaggerated. It is the old story, of course, many of us fear change. But it is generally true that experience and education tend to quiet fears about any controversial proposal, and even one that people think may affect their investment, their living patterns or their community activities.

Furthermore, public understanding and support are important to assure that the communities in which group homes are located will provide the kind of atmosphere that will be condusive to the mental and physical health of those under care in those homes.

State to test Bush & Kemp

Will George Bush win the support of Grosse Pointe and Michigan in 1988 as he did in 1980 when he decisively defeated Ronald Reagan in the state's GOP presidential primary?

Nobody really knows the answer to that question, but it is not too early to ask it. Bush has been campaigning in Michigan for several months because the state's Republican presidential nominating process already is under way. Filing will close May 27 for the GOP precinct delegates to be elected in the state primary election Aug. 5 and Bush last week campaigned again in Grosse Pointe and a number of other areas of Michigan seeking people friendly to his cause to file for those jobs.

Election of those GOP precinct delegates is important because it will be the first step in the three-stage process to pick Michigan's delegation to the 1988 GOP National Convention. In the second step, precinct delegates in January 1988, will choose congressional district and state convention delegates. And in the third step, these district and state convention delegates will name the national delegation which will express Michigan's presidential choice or choices at the national convention in the summer of 1988. This three-stage process will replace the state's presidential primary, repealed several years ago, as the way to pick most of the dele-

Political observers so far believe Bush is ahead — but that he will face strong challenges. Perhaps the strongest will be mounted by Rep. Jack Kemp of New York who is regarded as the favorite of conservative Republicans who has campaigned extensively in Michigan in recent months. His organization is regarded as almost as experienced and professional as Bush's and he has a Grosse Pointe chairman, Clark Durant III whose family long has played a key role in state GOP politics, and especially in the 14th District. So the August primary could be an early test of the Bush-Kemp rivalry.

Sen. Robert Dole, the Senate majority leader from Kansas, and former Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee also have visited Michigan several times in recent months to press their campaigns for Republican support. In addition, a new threat to the front-runners seems to be developing from a fundamentalist Christian organization, the Freedom Council, which was founded by TV evangelist Pat Robertson, son of a former Virginia senator, chiefly to push his presidential candidacy. The council seems to be paralleling the efforts of Bush and Kemp to get citizens to run as precinct delegates in the state primary, with the council's major aim being seen as not only backing Robertson for the GOP nomination but also taking over the state GOP organization, as it reportedly has done in recent years in Minnesota and Alaska.

Both Bush and Kemp as well as Dole have organized political action committees in the interest of "party building," while in reality seeking backing for their presidential candidacies.

It apparently is also true, as GOP Chairman

Spencer Abraham stresses, that there is no requirement that precinct delegates make an early commitment to support a specific presidential candidate and that those who do so can change their minds later. But that hasn't stopped the leading candidates from trying to enlist the support of precinct delegates favorable to their cause at this time.

Bush was thought to have been given a serious blow when former Gov. William Milliken, in an interview with a Detroit paper, said he thought Bush had moved too far to the right. But the former governor, who had helped Bush win the 1980 presidential primary against Reagan, later was quoted as saying that Bush still was the best of the GOP candidates, although he didn't back away from his earlier criticism.

Whether Michigan Republicans eventually will back Bush, Kemp or someone else, the other major question is whether the 1986 presidential politicking in Michigan will increase public interest in the 1988 campaign — or result in greater public apathy because of the early start. It already seems to have increased interest in the 1986 primary, but coming events that nobody can predict are more likely to have an important impact on the 1988 outcome.

A cloudy crystal ball

More than five years ago, shortly after David Stockman became the federal budget director, the Grosse Pointe News took a look into its crystal ball and came up with an editorial forecast view that turned out to be, in the light of later developments, a bit cloudy to say the least.

In March 1981, the News pointed out that the former Michigan congressman had taken over "what is probably the highest risk job in the administration." The editorial then went on to say, however, that "Stockman's will be a name to conjure with if he succeeds in his task of curbing the federal budget."

Well, we were right so far, weren't we? But from then on it was all downhill, viewed from today's prespective. For example, we went on to add this additional opinion which seemed to express at least a possibility in 1981:

"For while he is young, relatively inexperienced with only two terms in Congress behind him and has spent his working career in government and academia, he could become a major factor in Republican politics if Congress buys most of the program he has drafted." And if the program works, we went on, "he probably could choose almost any career to which he aspires, whether in education, business, industry or politics.

Well, we wuz wrong about his possible future in politics, as even Stockman admits he was wrong about his economics. Speaking at an author's luncheon in Mount Clemens last week. he warned: "We're on a credit card spree and everyone can be prosperous for a while — until you hit the limit, and you have to pay it back.' That's not orthodox Reaganomics which contends that tax cuts so improve the national economy that business will boom, tax revenues will rise despite lower rates and everyone will live happily ever after. Yet that is what Stockman seemed to be recommending as budget di-

Now, however, he has publicly changed his tune. Now he says, "You cannot fund a $200 billion-a-year deficit out of some shoe box somewhere," and warned of stunted economic growth if the government continues to try to borrow its way out or a new round of inflation if the government prints money to finance the deficit.

One final paragraph from that 1981 editorial view through a clouded crystal ball:

"The Reagan administration concedes its economic program is a big gamble. For David Stockman it is a big personal gamble as well. We think most Americans hope he succeeds because their own economic well-being and that of the country as a whole are also at stake in this government venture into uncharted waters.

Well, Reagan loyalists will insist that the country hasn't done so badly - or at least the majority has profited — from the administration's economic policies. But many Americans will agree with Stockman's current warning that "we're simply living beyond our means" as a nation, that there really is no free lunch and that there'll be a day of reckoning yet.

More on the Farms curfew

To the Editor: (Re: the Farms curfew ordinance passed recently and a Grosse Pointe News article in which a parent was quoted as saying the ordinance would punish his teenage son) . . . Why must a fellow resident be punished as a result of a blatant disregard of several other ordinances which has gone on for years?

I refer to the Animal Excrement and the one controlling Guns, Sling Shots and Bow and Arrows. I have had to clean up animal excrement for years. Starting in early spring and then continuing until the first snowfall. Three spotlights on the house and garage have had to be replaced four times. The aluminum siding has permanent dents and holes also caused by the shootings. In addition a spool of fish line with a bolt attached was found in a flowerbed. This apparently caused the continuing damage for weeks to the shingles on the garage roof. Shingle corners were found on the lawn which appear to have been torn from the roof when the fishing line with the bolt on the end of the line was thrown onto the roof and then reeled back onto the spool. On several occasions the aforementioned was discussed. but to no avail. To pursue this legally would require witnesses, photo-

It did everything to remove the gangs of teenagers who had been harassing pedes-trians, drinking and setting fires. Since when is it the communities' responsibility to provide activities for its youth to teach them mature responsible behavior? I've always felt that this was in the realm of parental duties. Responsibility begins in the home. Youth does learn from examples that are exhibited in the home. Do 15-yearolds need to be out on the business streets in our community after 11 p.m.? I think not.

... patience is wearing thin

To the Editor:

since we have been leading the free world, after World War II, you ty never hurt anyone, not even a have enjoyed over 40 years of peace and propserity. And who has paid for most of it? The American people! You know, just maybe, if we had taken this kind of a stand against the other famous three nuts of our time, Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito, we may not have had World War II. Do we ever learn? Yes, I think we have, but I wonder about our allies.

We are asking the world to come to its senses, and join us in an honest and sincere effort to reduce or abolish nuclear weapons and live together free — democratically, by law, and in peace.

Mr. Gorbachev, Sir: We the people of the United States are wondering when, if ever, you are seriously going to make an effort to set a date, and sit down to discuss our common problems. Also why don't you, and your news media, tell the Russian people something positive about us. Like how the Americans supplied your country with ships, trucks, tools, food and medical supplies during World War II, when you were down on your knees, that you have never paid for or said thank you to us for our help. One thing the American people respect is honesty, and we deplore dishonesty and half truths I wish to remind our allies that just as much. Try it, it may be ty never hurt anyone, not even a Russian. I think this could be the beginning of a better understanding between our people and our governments and create an atmosphere of good will and willingness to really make some progress toward a better and safer world which is all either of us really

> As to our allies who do not see fit to support us I can only say, Walk out your front door and take a good hard look at all those new plants and buildings that our tax dollars built for you, and if that is not enough then take a long walk among the fields of white crosses that represent the American boys that really paid the price for you and your country. We have fed you when you were hungry, and rebuilt you when you were destroyed, and sent you medical aid when you were sick. We helped you up when you were down, and stood by you for over 50 years, and now you do not understand us or support us? Who or how much have you ever given us when we were in trouble? As I see it you will take our last dollar or drop of blood and kick us for not having more to give you . . .

Eye care available to needy seniors

To the Editor:
May I call your attention to the National Eye Care Project's Helpline, which begins May 5 in Michi-

The project's goal is to tell everyone age 65 and over throughout the state that medical eye care is available to those who cannot afford it.

The Helpline offers medical eye care to any U.S. citizen or legal resident age 65 and over who is needy, who does not have a medical eye physician, and who has a medical eye problem. Professional medical eye care will be offered to the disadvantaged elderly at no out-of-pocket cost to them. Information on eve diseases will be sent to anyone who calls the toll-free Helpline number, 1-800-222-EYES.

The National Eye Care Project is sponsored by the Foundation of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and the Michigan Ophthalmological Society.

The success of this public service project depends on reaching people over age 65 who believe that they have a medical eye problem, but who do not have resources to seek medical care.

Thank you for your help in calling attention to this project.

Addressing dropouts must be priority

By State Senator John Kelly The results of national studies, the narrative of newspaper articles and editorials, and discussions among educators in Lansing are raising some justifiable concerns about the problem of high school dropouts. According to those sources the problems that contribute to the high school dropout rate are not substantially different today than when I was in school. Problems at home, consistently poor grades, pregnancy and, in some cases, family poverty are all factors that influence a student's performance in school. What has changed significantly over the years is the rate at which teens are dropping out of high school.

If you have read the reports, I am sure you share my alarm over the number of high school dropouts in Detroit. While the national dropout rate is estimated at 25 percent, Detroit's is rated between 45 and 66 percent. Not only is Detroit's dropout rate higher than the statewide average, which is also 25 percent, but it is higher than the rate in other major cities. For example, one report predicts that only 33.5 percent of Detroit ninth graders will graduate from high school. That stands in sharp contrast to predicted graduation rates of 56.4 and 52.2 percent among teenagers in New York and Chicago respec-

While there are no easy answers to the dropout problem, we have a responsibility to do what we can to reduce the number of students being alienated from the system.
Alternative schools for students who need individual attention and work-study programs to give students a sense of self-esteem are two examples of what school districts in other parts of the nation are doing to encourage students to stay in school.

From an educator's viewpoint, some consideration must be given school boards understand their to the effect recent drives for academic excellence are having on those students whose academic performance is poor. As noted by the National Commission on Secondary Vocational Education there has been an assumption that more academics, which may be the best preparation for college, is also the best preparation for life. Unfortunately, that assumption is not always true. Perhaps more attention should be given to vocational programs that teach students job skills, along with the academic credits students receive for completing those classes.

Undoubtedly, lawmakers like myself have a role to play in reducing the high school dropout rate. It has been suggested that Michigan raise the legal age in which students can voluntarily drop out of school. While the law permits students to drop out at age 16, there are people who say that age requirement was established when students could reasonably be expected to find low skill job opportunities, which is no longer the

Also, it has been pointed out that financial incentives may be a way for the state to encourage programs designed to reduce the high school dropout rate. Just as recent state budgets have included financial incentives for reducing class size and lengthening the school day, future budgets could offer incentives for programs that encourage students to stay in

In addition I have expressed my willingness to be a plaintiff in a lawsuit started in the Redford School district to enforce the Board of Education's responsibility to produce literate students. If students cannot read they will surely drop out of school as well! Hope-

Any resolution of this problem is part of the state legislature, local educators, parents and the general public. After all, the dropout problem is one in which we must all be concerned. Statistics show that dropouts are more dependent on welfare, have a higher rate of unemployment and are more likely to turn to crime at some point in their lives. Obviously, those dropouts will comprise the men obligation. going to take cooperation on the

and women on our welfare rolls and in our prisons in the future. We have a vested interest in this problem and, therefore, we have an obligation to address it sooner than later.

Celebrity fever

I say

A Famous Person came to our town last month.

I wasn't home.

I read about it in the hometown paper, though. There it was on the front page: Pizer in town.

Yes, the Bob Pisor came to town to discuss politics with Mike, the owner/chef at the Village Cafe. At least, that's what it said in the paper.
I'm not real clear on why Bob wanted Mike's opinion on the state of things, but that's not the point. The point is, I missed still another opportunity to see a celebrity.

It's a lucky thing my life doesn't revolve around seeing big shots, because I always manage to be looking the other way. Once I saw Bill Russell in a waterfront crowd in Seattle. And I saw Jack Kennedy from the other side of Boston Garden at a rally in 1960.

But I work in Grosse Pointe every day and I've never seen Kirk Gibson or any of the Fords or J.L. Hudson. I shop in his store, though.

There is some glitter in my life. My cousin knows the governor of Colorado. My neighbor on the old street was related to Frankie Avalon. Once he came over to their house. I wasn't home.

Martha and Hicks Griffiths are hometown neighbors of mine.

paper there, too. One evening we went to the Vineyard airport to meet the latest contingent of arriving family. The plane was late and the tiny waiting room was packed. We hung around, alternately walking outside for a breath of air and going inside to check on the plane one

Suddenly my eye fell on a rather plain woman wearing a head scarf and big glasses, reading "The Color Purple." I grabbed Bob's arm. Discreetly.

"Do you know who that is?" I hissed.

He didn't, of course.

"It's Jackie Onassis!" "Nah!" he said.

Only when the rest of the crowd began discreetly hissing and pointing did he believe my eyes. "That's Jackie Onassis!" he told me.

When we got back to the house, we were full of our news.
"Guess who we saw?" They couldn't.

Hints followed. A famous woman with a recent connection in the literary field. A rich one with a huge saltbox house on the island. The biggest celebrity you can im-

Milestones

The librarian had lingered long enough. "The book goes to the man. We do not wait for the man to come to the book," she de-clared in the early 1900s.

So was born, in Hagerstown, Md., the first bookmobile.

That milestone, along with 55 others, chronicled in "Motor Vehicle Milestones," a collection of informative, and often unusual, motor vehicle historical events.

Assembled by the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, the milestones include:

- The goggle-wearing canine passenger on the first crosscountry car trip.

— The racer who used a rear-view mirror to win the first Indy 500.

The movie star onscreen in New Jersey when the nation's first drive-in opened.

 The grumblings which greeted the installation of the first parking meter.

"Motor Vehicle Milestones" is available free through MVMA's Communication Department, 300 New Center Building, Detroit, Mich. 48202, 872-4311.

This 'Oliver' is a real family affair

The lyrics of "Consider Yourself" from "Oliver" are: Consider yourself at home

And that's exactly what the latest Children's Theater product is - a family affair. There will be the children, their parents, grandparents, aunts, uncles, brothers and sisters sharing the boards when "Oliver" opens Saturday at the War Memorial William Fries auditorium.

'We have been having so much fun," Director Sally Reynolds said. "The little kids are helping direct their parents and they're having a ball. A couple of the fathers have said that this experience has given them so much poise.

Thirteen-year-old Mike Babel, who shares the title role of Oliver, has six members of his family working on the production. His father, Dr. Denny Babel, will sing and dance and between numbers, take care of the lighting. His grandmother, Ethel Babel, will play Old Sally. Mother Gail is one of the stage managers and Mike's Uncle Dave is a singer and dancer. His younger sister Kelly is a member of the workhouse and Fagin's gang. Brother John, a North High student, will help with the lighting.

There will be five performances -three matinees, two on Saturday, May 10, at 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., and another on Saturday, May 17, at 2:30 p.m. Evening performances are Friday, May 16, and Saturday, May 17, at 7:30 p.m.

The other Oliver, Luke Gianni, also has a passel of relatives working with him. There's his father Jerry who will be playing his grandfather, Mr. Brownlow. Mother Mary is assisting with the props and younger brother John is a member of the workhouse. Two older brothers, Matthew and Mark, will be working backstage.

'It's a tremendous experience for our kids to share scenes with adult actors and the adults have expressed the same view," Reynolds said. "Talent knows no age limit and working together is long overdue. We plan to do more of this next season.

Sarah Babcock, who is a member of the workhouse and Pagin's gang, counts three of her immediate family in the play. Mother Lynn is Mrs. Bedwin, father Chuck is helping with set construction and younger brother Charlie is part of the workhouse.

Tickets are $4.75 for adults and $3.50 for students and senior citizens. They may be reserved by calling 881-7511 or 771-5692. For information on group rates, call 886-6152 after 6 p.m. Birthday parties will receive special considera-

This year's chairperson, Aphie Roumell, with the assistance of Waldenbooks, will present three noted Detroit authors and publishing magnate Ian Ballantine.

After lunching on chicken salad on avocado, fresh fruit and raspberry fluff pie, the audience will settle in for an afternoon of mystery, memories and milestones. WJR Executive Director Hal Youngblood will moderate the program which will include Ballantine, mystery writers William X. Kienzle and Loren Estleman and sports writer Joe Falls.

Kienzle's "Deathbed," his eighth best seller with the shy, sly Father Koesler, is a story of madcap murder, bungling and burgling set in Detroit. Humor and horror mark the pages as Father Koesler stalks the killers who have singled zy nurse's aide keep the good Father guessing as Kienzle's plot twists and turns through a maze of missing drugs, mutilated medical instruments and malicious M.D.'s.

As with Kienzle's Father Koesler, Loren Estleman enjoys a loyal following in the character of Amos Walker, a classic private eye whose work takes him into the seedy side of Detroit. With four Amos Walker mysteries preceding, including "Motor City Blue" and "Sugartown," Estleman will discuss his latest whodunnit, 'Every Brilliant Eye." In this book, Amos Walker becomes emotionally involved in a case that finds him amid the world of organized crime, a car-theft racket, precinct police, headquarters of his own shrouded past where often the line between friends and enemy is hazy.

"Here is a book that talks about the joy of our games," writes Er-nie Harwell in the foreword of Joe Fall's book, "So You Think You're a Die-Hard Tiger Fan." A main-stay in Detroit sportswriting, Falls has covered the Tigers for 32 years and currently writes his own sports column for The Detroit News.

His book features facts, photos and tons of Tiger trivia including tidbits from the players, "best" and "worst" lists (such as Sparky Anderson's list of Best Swimming Pools) and an inside look at life on the road and in the clubhouse. Vintage photos highlight the chapter on "The Old Ball Park," which winds through the early years of the 1900s into the next several decades with facts, fish stories and frivolity. In "The Big Years" Falls recounts the Ty Cobb era beginning in 1907 and concluding with the World Series win in 1984. Publishing pioneer Ian Ballantine will add a change of pace to this year's Book and Author Luncheon with accounts from nearly 50 years in the publishing business. As representatives of the British paperbound house, Penguin Books, Ballantine and his new bride Betty started one of the first successful paperbound enterprises in the United States in 1939.

Ignoring skeptics, the couple decided to publish high quality books in paper, a move which was instrumental in creating the "paperbound revolution" in this country. Several years later the Ballantines left Penguin to form Bantam books. In 1952, they founded Ballantine Books and, for the first time in history, paper and hardcover versions of the same book were published simultaneous-Ballantine's wit and charm have made him a demanded speaker in publishing circles where he recalls celebrity anecdotes and tales of his uncanny nose for successful enterprises. He and his wife reside in Woodstock, N.Y.

At the conclusion of the program, the authors will be available to autograph their books which will also be on sale at that time. Tickets are $12.75 per person and should be purchased at least three days in advance. Those who wish to attend the 1 p.m. program only may pur-chase tickets for $6.50. Arson tip hotline established

Michigan's annual Arson Awareness Week observance, May 4-10, will be marked this year with the installation of a toll free hotline for arson fire tips.

The new toll free line will be in operation May 1 when arson tipsters will begin dialing 1-800-44-ARSON. The former number, a collect call, will remain in service for a limited time on an intercept arrangement.

The tip-line phone number is the mainstay of the arson control re-ward program, administered by the Michigan Arson Prevention Committee. The MAPC is comprised of state, federal, and local fire and police officials, representatives of the insurance industry and business.

The anti-arson action program developed by the MAPC includes: • Publicizing the MAPC arson reward program which pays up to $2,000 for tips which lead to the arrest and/or conviction of arsonists. Nearly $125,000 has been paid out to tipsters since the reward program was initiated in 1975;

• Constantly updating education methods on arson detection for fire and police officials;

· Promotion of anti-arson legislation at all levels;

· Continued emphasis on the latest scientific investigatory methods in sifting arson evidence by State Police crime laboratories; and Vigorous prosecution of ar-sonists and "tougher" jail sentences for arson crimes.

Fireworks behind in fundraising — again

By Mike Andrzejczyk You'd think that after three years, raising money for an event that draws about 10,000 people would be easy. Think again.

FIREWORKS,

Organizers of the Mack Avenue USA fireworks, set for June 29 at Parcells Middle School, say that with just eight weeks to go, they more than $15,000 needed for the have only raised two-thirds of the event. Organizers will continue circulating the bright-red firecracker canisters and hawking buttons, designed by a Parcells Middle School student, and showing a fourpage sample brochure that will be used as a program and a way to honor donors, Mack USA co-chair Kathy Forster said.

The pamphlet has a printing deadline of May 15, however, so only donors who have contributed before then will be listed, she added.

The organization has sweated out fundraising in the past, but, as the event caught on and became better and better attended, it was expected that raising money would be easier.

This year, the organization, in cooperation with the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue, sponsored a contest to design a button for the fireworks, to be used as a fundraiser. A contest was also held for design of a bronze plaque to honor a certain class of contributor. The winner of the button design was Shelly Miller from Parcells Middle School. It is available for $1. There are close to 5,000 to be sold.

Jim Mobley, an art student at South High School, was the winning designer of the bronze plaque. Plaques of his design will be presented to donors during ceremonies at the fireworks.

This year's festivities are to begin at between 8 and 8:30 p.m. June 29, with a rain date of July 3. The Austin Moro band will present a variety of music, and ceremonies honoring municipal officials and donors will be held before fireworks begin at full dark.

The band hasn't given a set program it will play that evening, Forster said. It will play a variety of tunes and make selections based on audience response.

Handling master of ceremonies duties this year will be Gene Taylor, who did yeoman's work last year when a full moon and cloud over delayed the firing of pyrotechnics for about 20 minutes, Forster said.

This year's event is scheduled a week after the June full moon. The display isn't fired from Lochmoor Country Club until technicians from the fireworks company decide it is dark and clear enough for the best viewing of the display, Forster said.

Contributions of the five Pointes in December kept planning going for this year's event, Forster said. All municipalities pledged money and the Woods donates police, fire and emergency medical protection. The school system offers use of Parcells grounds for the band and people viewing the display.

To make a contribution, put cash in a canister, buy a button or send a check payable to Mack Avenue USA to 17401 Mack Avenue, Detroit

Police unions endorse Hertel's candidacy

Presidents and executive directors of four law enforcement development. What has to be done tors of four law enforcement unions gathered Thursday, May 1, in the downtown office of county commission Chairman John Hertel to endorse Hertel's run for the county executive post in the August primary.

Jack Brown, executive director of the Michigan Fraternal Order of Police, which had between 7,500 and 8,000 members in the county, said Hertel "has the experience, background and track record . . . and that's what's important.

"Throughout our contacts with John, he's always been a very strong supporter of local control," he added.

Hertel, seen as running second in the Democratic race behind Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, said he was "honored and proud to announce the endorsements . . . The two major issues in represents Wayne County Sheriffs Samuel Turner.

is all law enforcement units have to be working in unison in a very strong cooperative effort" to battle crime in the county.

Also at the morning press conference were representatives from the Detroit Police Officers Association, Detroit Lieutenants and Sergeants Association and Gordon Gotts from the Michigan State Police Organization, who added his personal endorsement to the FOP's official one.

The troopers' association doesn't endorse candidates, but it is affiliated with the FOP and has input into selection of candidates by that organization for support, Gotts said, he added he wholeheartedly endorsed Hertel and the

Youths charged in Hill arson

Two youths will be charged with arson of real property in the burning of a backhoe in Grosse Pointe Farms April 19, police said this week. They will also be charged with setting a fire in a pile of cardboard behind Perry Drugs the same night. Both fires were started within five to 10 minutes of each other.

The boys, both 15, are students in the Grosse Pointe public schools, according to Farms Detective Daniel Jensen. Between $1,200 and $1,500 worth of damage was done to the backhoe, Jensen said. Perrys' building was not damaged.

Arson is a felony punishable by 10 years in prison. Jensen said the youths will not be channeled into the Pointes youth assistance program, which is set up to handle misdemeanors only. They will be dealt with through probate court.
Police are still investigating a suspected arson in a dumpster behind the Grosse Pointe News building two weeks earlier. The two youths charged in the backhoe incident do not match the physical description of the boy seen running from the scene of the dumpster fire, Jensen said.

Shores joins MML legal defense fund

Shores trustees decided Tuesday, April 29, to join the Michigan Municipal League's legal defense

Trustees voted unanimously to pay the $200 fee for entrance to the fund, in which 158 other cities and villages participate.

The village decided to join because the league is a good resource center for research and intervention in a variety of legal matters, including contract negotiations, according to Superintendent Michael Kenyon. The Shores is negotiating with three of its unions this year.

The legal defense fund was put together in 1983 by the MML to assist municipalities who face litigation that may be of interest to other municipalities, according to William Steude, assistant league attorney and legal counsel for

On petition by a community, the league's board of directors will review litigation against a community and, based on certain criteria, decide whether to inter-

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 7 OF THE CODE OF THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE PARK TO ADOPT BY REFERENCE CERTAIN BASIC BUILDING AND OTHEP CODES.

THE CITY OF GROSSE POINTE PARK ORDAINS:

1. That Section 7-1 of the Grosse Pointe Park City Code, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Pursuant to the provision of the Section 3(k) of Act 279 of 1909, State of Michigan, as amended, the Building Officials and Code Administrators, International, Inc., Basic Building Code/1984, 9th Edition; Basic Mechanical Code/1984, 6th Edition; Basic Plumbing Code/1984, 6th Edition as amended by Part 7, Plumbing Code Rules, promulgated by the Construction Code Commission, Michigan Department of Labor, being Rules 711 through 796; Basic Fire Prevention Code/1984, 6th Edition; Basic National Existing Structures Code/1984, 1st Edition; the CABO One and Two Family Dwelling Code, 1983 Edition; and the National Fire Protection Association, National Electric Code, 1984, are hereby found and declared to be acceptable codes for such purposes and are hereby adopted by reference as in this chapter modified for the purpose of regulating the erection, construction, enlargement, equipment, alteration, repair, moving, removal, demolition, conversion, use, height, area and maintenance of all buildings and structures in the

That Section 7-5 of the Grosse Pointe Park City Code, is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Sections ES 112.4, ES 301.4, ES 301.4.1, ES 301.4.2, ES 301.5, ES 303.3.2, and ES 704.2 of the Basic National Existing Structures Code, 1984 are amended as follows:

(a) Section ES 112.4. The number 15 is inserted in Section ES 112.4 of the Basic National Existing Structures Code/1984.

(b) Section ES 301.4. Insect and Rat Control. An owner of a structure or property shall be responsible for the extermination of insects, rats, vermin, or other pests in all exterior areas of the premises, except that the occupant shall be responsible for such extermination in the exterior areas of the premises of a single-family dwelling. Whenever infestation exists in the shared or public parts of the premises of other than a singlefamily dwelling, extermination shall be the responsibility of

"Section ES 301.4.1, Accumulation of Trash. No occupant of a dwelling or dwelling unit shall accumulate rubbish, boxes, lumber, scrap metal, or any other materials in such a manner that may provide a rat harborage in or about any dwelling or dwelling unit. Stored materials shall be stacked neatly in piles elevated at least eighteen (18) inches above the ground

Section ES 301.4.2. Multi-Dwelling Units. No owner of a dwelland containing three (3) or more dwelling units shall accumulate or permit the accumulation of rubbish, boxes, tumber, scrap metal, or any other materials in such a man-ner that may provide a rat harborage in or about the shared or public areas of a dwelling or its premises. Materials stored by the owner or permitted to be stored by the owner shall be stacked neatly in piles elevated at least eighteen (18) inches above the ground floor.

Maintenance, Sidewalks on public rights-of-way shall be maintained in accordance with the Grosse Pointe Park City Code. All other sidewalks and driveways and garage floors shall be maintained in a manner that prevents them from falling into a state of disrepair or becoming unsafe.

(d) Section ES 303.3.2. Bathrooms and Kitchen Floors and Counter Tops. Every bathroom and kitchen floor surface and counter top shall be constructed and maintained so as to be substantially impervious to water, and so as to permit such floor and counter top to be easily kept in a clean and sanitary

"(e) Section ES 704.2 Fire Alarms. All dwelling units shall contain two (2) or more smoke detectors which shall be placed in the basement areas and in or adjacent to sleeping areas on each floor and, in the case of multiple family dwellings, in or adjacent to sleeping areas for each separate living unit. Fire alarms and detecting systems shall be maintained and be suitable for their respective purposes.

3. That Section 7-6 of the Grosse Pointe Park City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Sections ES 803.1, ES 803.2, ES 803.3, and ES 803.4 are added to the Basic National Existing Structures Code, 1984 as follows:

"(a) Section ES 803.1. Certificate of Occupancy, Conformance with Minimum Standards. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to hereafter occupy or for any owner or agent thereof, to permit the occupation of any dwelling or structure or part thereof, for any purpose, unless a Certificate of Occupancy has been issued by the Building Department with respect to such dwelling or structure under a date which is not more than two (2) years prior to the date of such occupation. The Certificate of Occupancy shall state that the Building and the second s

Department has inspected the dwelling or structure and that said Department has determined that the dwelling or structure may be occupied. The Certificate of Occupancy shall bear this legend in capital letters or bold-face type:

> "THIS CERTIFICATE DOES NOT CONSTITUTE ANY REPRESENTATION OR WARRANTY AS TO THE CONDITION OF THE DWELLING OR OTHER STRUCTURES ON SAID PREMISES DESCRIBED HEREIN (OR ANY ASPECT OF SUCH CONDITION), AND INTERESTED PER-SONS ARE ADVISED AND ENCOURAGED TO MAKE THEIR OWN INSPECTION OF THE PREMISES IN ORDER TO DETERMINE THE CONDITION THEREOF."

"(b) Section ES 803.2. Application and Fee. Application for a Certificate of Occupancy may be made by the owner, or his designated agent, of a structure upon a form provided by the department and the payment of an inspection fee as established from time to time by resolution of the City Council.

"(c) Section ES 803.3. Inspection; Conformance with Minimum Standards. Upon receipt of the application and fee, an Inspector shall inspect the owner's structure within ten (10) days and, if such structure is in conformance with the minimum standards set forth in Articles 3 through 8 hereof, a Certificate of Occupancy shall be issued. If the structure is not in conformance with the minimum standards set forth in Articles 3 through 8 hereof, the Inspector shall request remedy thereof and a Certificate of Occupancy shall not be issued until such standards are complied with to the reasonable satisfaction of the Inspector.

(d) Section ES 803.4. Condition Certificate of Occupancy. In the event, for any reason, an owner requests that a Certificate of Occupancy be issued prior to correction of all defects noted by an Inspector and if such defects do not, in the judgment of the Inspector, constitute material health or safety hazards, a Condition Certificate of Occupancy may be issued upon the condition that such defects be remedied within thirty (30) days after the date of the Conditional Certificate of Occupancy and the owner's assurance that such defects will be remedied by deposit with the Department of Public Service of a cash bond in an amount not to exceed 150% of the estimated cost of remedying such defects. In the event of issuance of a Conditional Certificate of Occupancy, the owner shall notify the Inspector within thirty (30) days after date of issuance that the defects have been remedied, and a Certificate of Occupancy shall be issued and the owner's bond returned if the Inspector is satisfied as to the owner's compliance. If the owner fails to remedy the defects as agreed, the Department of Public Service may use so much of the cash bond as is necessary to remedy the defects and will return any balance to the owner. In the event the thirty-day period above provided is not adequate due to weather conditions or other circumstances, the Inspector may establish a longer period to remedy the defects.

"This Section 7-6 shall not apply to any lawful occupancy in existence at the time of adoption of this Chapter (July 26,

3. Section 7-7 of the Grosse Pointe Park City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

'The National Electrical Code, 1984, is amended to include the amendments adopted by the Reciprocal Electrical Council on March 25, 1981, adopted by this reference with the exception of Article 331 therein. A copy of said amendments is on file in the office of the City Clerk, available for inspection by the distribution to the public and is designated as "Amendments to the 1981 Edition of the National Electrical Code.

4. Section 7-8 of the Grosse Pointe Park City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Chapter 11, being Sections 1101-1, 1101-2, and 1101-3 is added to the National Electrical Code, 1984 as follows:

(a) 1101-1 Permits. Permits shall be required for the installation of all electrical equipment in the City of Grosse Pointe Park. Application for permits shall be made to the Director of Public Service upon forms prescribed by the Department of Public Service. Permits shall be denied or revoked in any case in which the electrical work covered thereby is in violation of the National Electrical Code, 1984, as adopted and amended by this chapter. Permits shall be issued only to:

(1) Licensed electrical contractors; or

(2) An owner of a single-family residence which is, or will be on completion, his own place of residence, and no part of which is used for rental or commercial purposes nor contemplated to be used for such purposes, provided that such owner performs the electrical work himself in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

(b) 1101-2 Fees. A permit for the installation of electrical equipment shall not be issued until the permit fee established by resolution of the City Council has been paid.

(c) 1101-3 Inspection. All electrical equipment in the City of Grosse Pointe Park shall be subject to inspection by the Director of Public Service or his representative for the purpose of determining compliance with this Ordinance

Shores may change to daytime court

The Shores village council tabled a proposal Tuesday, April 29, to change municipal court hours from evenings to days.

Municipal Judge Beverly Grobs bel said the move would allow more time for deliberation of cases, allow contact with state and county agencies if necessary and would give those using the court a more professional feeling about it. Tabling the proposal until the May 27 meeting will give the village time to work out the logistics of scheduling of public safety personnel and other questions, officials said. Grobbel, who also presides over a twice-weekly daytime municipal court in the Park, said the change from the Shores' court sessions, which begin at 7 p.m. twice monthly, to a daytime schedule has been discussed for a couple of years. She told trustees she hoped they'd consider making the change.

For mothers everywhere Prime Time for senior citizens -

By Marian Trainor

A mother starts life at an early age. Just about the time she is able to walk, she is handed a baby doll. "Love the baby," she is told. "Kiss the baby. Give her a hug.

If a new brother or sister hap-pens along, there are more little nudges in the mothering direction: "Be nice to baby. Babies are precious. If you're good, you may help me take care of baby." And on it

The future mother is also inducted into such household chores as dishwashing, dusting, vacuuming, cooking, etc

She may break out of the mold temporarily in school when she makes the basketball team, takes a shop course and elects science rather than the humanities.

She may even go on to major in fields formerly regarded as male territory such as medicine, law, engineering. But no matter how much she distinguishes herself in her chosen career, it can never take precedence over her role as mother.

Most working mothers who go off to work would like to stay home with their baby. No matter how much they enjoy their job or how much money they earn and contribute to a good life for the family, there is a nagging regret that they are missing a precious time that can never be recaptured. Not to be there at the moment the first tooth breaks through, the first step taken, the first word spoken is a loss that can never be regained. To build one's day around the growth of a child is a blessed privilege. To share their wonder, to experience their joy, to minister to their hurts, to be their world for the brief time of their childhood - who would willingly miss it? Once motherhood was a lifetime career. It still is, but with a difference - doors have been opened and horizons expanded by changing times, economy and expectations. Mothers who feel a need to expand their lives beyond the confines of the home have the approval and encouragement of society. Those who go into the job market to help out with family finances are lauded.

It is only when the mother who chooses to stay home is regarded as a lesser person, as one who doesn't live up to the expectations of being a helpmate financially or as a person of lesser abilities that this whole new set of values becomes flawed.

Yet mothers who work and care for a family are true pioneers, and like the mothers of years gone by who braved the hardship of traveling across the country to help carve out new territories where the family could prosper, these modern day mothers are blazing new trails also.

To begin with, they have made it an acceptable choice for mothers to work outside of the home. They have been part of a movement to make working conditions better for women. It is not too long ago that only the most menial, low-paying jobs, and oftentimes the most dangerous, were available to women.

Now they have not only gained entry to the professions but have distinguished themselves.

Equal pay for equal work is a battle not yet won. So also is the need for employers to establish day-care centers for children of working mothers.

This latter benefit looms high in the consciousness of mothers who work. No mother wants to spend her working day wondering if her child is getting the care, attention and happy tiems with a baby sitter he or she would enjoy if mother were home. Mothers worry about his in spite of statistics showing that children of working mothers do just fine.

Recent research shows children of working mothers develop just as well emotionally, intellectually and socially as children whose mothers stay at home.

The question remains: Do these children, knowing that the person closest to them will not be there to soothe and help, miss the security that should be part of their nurturing years and grow up a little too fast, a little too sophisticated, a little uninvolved and unable to establish close relationships?

This is something that will have to be dealt with along with the guilt that women feel about not measuring up to the "standards of mothering" of their own mothers.

Barbara Berg, who interviewed 1,000 women for her book, "The Crisis of the Working Mother,' (Summit Books) offers this comforting comment: "We will have to live with guilt but we'll have greater control over it once we

Another and more practical possibility is one that may put the working mother back in her home with her children. Some companies are providing mothers with computers, enabling them to work without coming into the office. Shared jobs are another possibility to relieve the tension and responsibility of juggling home and career. Two mothers would share one position, each working one half-day or splitting weeks.

Whatever, these modern-day pioneers will find ways and means to lighten the load of mothers who work and, forever afterward, new mothers will look to them as role models.

When that time comes, undoubtedly grandchildren will have questions to ask about what grandmother did with her time before mothers worked.

Well, not so long ago and in this century, mothers did not work. Most of them grew up with one goal in life: to marry and have children. Father and mother roles were sharply defined.

Fathers worked and earned money to support the home. They were not expected to shop, wash dishes, help with the housework or change diapers. That was mother's work. Just as today, there was washing to be done, but what is run through a washer in an hour's time now, was a day's work then - if it didn't rain. Then it was two days work. No, they didn't take the clothes to a stream and beat the dirt out with a stick, nor did they have to scrub their knuckles off on a washboard. They had an electric washer but the clothes had to be wrung out, rinsed in a tub of clear water, wrung again and carried out to the yard to be hung up. If you have ever carried a basket of wet clothes, you know how heavy it is.

Another day was devoted to ironing - wash and wear are modern inventions. Father's shirts, boys' pants and shirts, little girls' dresses and mother's housedresses all had to be ironed. A resourceful mother could get away with folding and smoothing the wrinkles out of sheets and towels with her

The list could go on, always in the context of different times and different circumstances.

Modern conveniences have made mother's life easier. At the same time the living standards of families has risen and instead of having more time to spend with her children, mothers have had to help with the family bills. Mothersat-home became mothers-who-work.

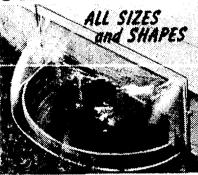

But there is one thing about mothers that never changes whether they follow the pattern of their mother and stay at home or join the modern movement of working mothers — their love and concern for their children.

Happy Mother's Day to each and every one of them!

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES The City Council of the City of Grosse Pointe Woods will hold a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, May 19, 1986, in the Council Chambers of the Municipal Building, 20025 Mack Plaza, to receive testimony and to discuss a proposed additional operating millage rate for the city of Grosse Pointe Woods. The City's 1985 operating tax levy was 11.29 mills ($11.29 per $1,000 SEV). Under the Michigan "Truth in Taxation" Law (Act 5 of 1982), the City's base tax rate is required to be reduced to 10.81 mills ($10.81 per $1,000 SEV) for 1986 which in effect would produce a tax revenue equal to the 1985 operating tax levy. However, it does not modify the City's complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied within its millage rate, as authorized by the City Charter.

Because of an increase in the City's State Equalized Valuation (SEC) and primary increases in cost of insurance, as well as salary/wages, the City proposes to levy an additional millagerate of 1.33 mills ($1.33 per $1,000 SEV) above the 10.81 mill base rate or a total operating tax rate of 12.14 mills ($12.14 per $1,000 SEV) in order to maintain basic City services and to properly fund the 1986-87 General Fund Budget. This millage increase will provide an estimated 13.00% increase in City operating revenues.

Park Woman robbed

A burglar surprised a Park resident in her home early Saturday morning, May 3, and escaped with cash according to police.

According to reports, the burg-lar entered the Wayburn home at about 3:45 a.m. through a basement window. He found the woman asleep in her bedroom, awakened her and asked her where she kept her money. After taking $100 from a dresser drawer, the thief left.

The woman was uninjured. Police are investigating.

IN 1972, THE VAIL POLICE FORCE AGREED TO TRY OUT FOUR SAABS. TODAY, THEY DON'T DRIVE ANYTHING ELSE.

Patrolling Colorado's tough mountain country demands a tough, reliable car. That's why Vail police replaced their fleet with 10 Saabs.

"At the end of a year, a patrol car may accumulate 23,000 to 35,000 miles," said Chief Curt Ufkes. "Except for occasional accidents, we have no downtime. For our department, the Saab has been the best answer for reliability."

It's probably the best answer for you, too. Let us show you why.

- Colonial Lamplighters, Inc. for 36 pedestrian-type streetlights at $174.95 each or $6,298.20 total. The lights will be installed on the 1400 block of Wayburn as a demonstration program to improve the aesthetics of the neighborhood and also to improve public safety.

The city is paying for the cost of the lights and their installation. According to the agreement that will be signed by the property owner and the city, the light will then become the property of the owner who will pay for the electricity. The owner will also agree to maintain the light.

Through the demonstration street, the city hopes residents throughout the Park, block clubs and neighborhood clubs, will decide to install similar carriage lights at their expense for the benefit of everyone who lives

Crawford said that all but five of the property owners on the 1400 block of Wayburn have been contacted and as soon as they sign agreements, the lights will be ordered and installed. He estimates that it will take about 30

150 years of caring

Children's Home marks sesquicentennial

By Elsa Frohman

One hundred fifty years ago, before Michigan became a state, before Grosse Pointe was anything more than a marshy farming area on the shore of Lake St. Clair, a group of concerned women met at a Detroit Presbyterian church to find a way to care for orphans left behind by a cholera epidemic.

On May 18, 1836, 13 women, led by Mrs. C.C. Trowbridge, met and drew up a constitution and by-laws for the Ladies' Orphan Association of Detroit. On May 18, 1986, the Children's Home of Detroit, the direct descendant of the Ladies' Orphan Association, will mark its 150th consecutive year of caring for children with special needs.

On May 18, the Children's Home, which has been a feature of the Grosse Pointe landscape since 1950, will open its doors to the public with an open house and a special dedication ceremony for a Michigan historical marker, the first in Grosse Pointe Woods, according to Children's Home historian, John Hammel.

Hammel's association with the home goes back to his years as principal of Monteith Elementary School. At that time, the principal of Monteith was also principal of Barnard School, a special school in the grounds of the Children's home for the residents. Hammel was principal of the two schools for 11

Hammel has written a comprehensive history of the last 50 years of the home. The board of directors compiled a history of the first 100 years in 1936.

The first home of the Ladies' Orphan Association was a house on Antoine Street, which took in seven children, Feb. 1, 1837. The home's first annual report, June 8, 1837, abodes of wretchedness and now exhibit most pleasing evidence of care and discipline. The strictest attention is paid to the moral and religious cultivation of the children and their improvement in knowledge is far beyond what might have been expected. The number will be increased with the augmentation of means at our disposal.'

The children were dressed in "uniforms of blue calico frocks and white caps, with gingham bonnets for common and light Shaker bonnets for Sundays — and the boys in jackets and trowsers of brown fus-

The home moved many times over the years. The first house was obtained with a one-year lease for no rent. Before the year was up, however, the group moved its charges to Fort Street.

In January 1840, a new building was completed on Jefferson Avenue and 15 orphans took up residence there. The building was "forty-two feet square with a high basement storey (sic), two other main stories and a commodious attic, and the addition of two wings whenever the means fo the Society will admit." The building cost approximately $5,600.

Though located on Jefferson Avenue, the home was "remote from town," according to the history of the first 100 years. Meetings of the association were often can-celled because roads were muddy and impassible.

In 1848, the home temporarily suspended operations. Two of the five remaining orphans had been placed in family homes and the group had hopes of placing the other three. The association was out of debt and it seemed that there was no further need for the home. Furniture and fixtures were sold children have been rescued from abodes of wretchedness and now Continued to meet, however, to keep its incorporation.

In 1852, the group decided to go back into active operation. Since the home on Jefferson was leased, a house on Centre Street was rented, and 13 orphans were taken in.

In 1859, the first of several name changes made the Ladies' Orphan Association the Ladies' Protestant Orphan Association. Hammel explained that while never formally associated with a church, religious values have always played a strong role in the organization.

The first ladies met at a Presbyterian church," Hammel said. "The group very definitely has a protestant church background."

Through the second half of the nineteenth century, funds for the home were raised through an anual Strawberry Festival, and through lectures and special events. In 1860, weekly expenses for the home were listed at 93 cents, caring for 28 children at one to three cents apiece.

The children contributed to their upkeep by doing handwork. The records for 1862 noted that "one eight year old boy knitted ten pairs of stockings during the winter and another boy eleven pairs; these two with the assistance of other children sewed and wound fortyfive pounds of carpet rags in five

In 1889 the group was re-incorporated under the name Protestant Orphan Asylum of Detroit.

The asylum made its first connection to Grosse Pointe in 1907 when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bewick gave the children a twoweek camping trip to Grosse Pointe Farms, then a rural area. A summer camp has been incorporated into the group's activities ever since. In 1909 the camp was property loaned by J.L. Hudson. In 1911, Henry Ford allowed the children to use his property in Dearborn for a summer camp. In 1920, Horace Dodge donated a 50-acre farm near Orchard Lake to be used as a summer camp for the or-

The home was re-incorporated as the Protestant Children's Home, a name it held until 1971, in 1932.

Hammel took up his historical research with the year 1936. There were 101 children in residence at the home at 3270 East Jefferson. But changes were happening, insociety in general, and in the home itself.

There came a time when there weren't so many orphans," Hammel said. "In the '30s, the home started taking children from broken homes, and children who just needed a home for some other

As the number of orphans needing shelter decreased, the home shifted its emphasis, until during World War II; it was decided that the future of the home lay in the treatment of children with special

Today, the Children's Home of Detroit serves primarily emotionally impaired children. The group offers aftercare for children coming out of the Michigan Mental Health system. The Children's Home came to Grosse Pointe Woods in 1950. The Woods was then just a village, not to be incorporated as a city until December of that year. The home was located in an open area where no development had taken place

As the home became a facility for disturbed children, the focus of

Spring Spectacular produces lots of winners

They called it a Spring Specta-cular, and for the 900 guests who attended the 21st Annual Saint John Hospital Fontbonne Fashion Show and Luncheon, the day was indeed spectacular.

Contemporary fashions, courtesy of Crowley's, were modeled by women, men and children as they danced, skipped and sashayed down the 134-foot runway at Cobo Hall's Riverview Ball-

"I was so overwhelmed to see how wonderfully everything turned out," said Victoria Keys, chairman of this year's show "Many dedicated women planned and worked together with Crowley's to ensure a big success. Everyone did a 'spectacular' job.'

All proceeds from the fashion show and raffle were donated to Saint John Hospital's Pediatric and Pediatric Intensive Care Units and the Neonatal Intensive Care

Winners of the raffle were: first prize, $5,000 cash, Genevieve Gralewski, Grosse Pointe; second prize, ladies' double-strand pearl necklace with amethyst and diamonds (donated by Edmund T. Ahee Jewelry Co.), Fran Leatherwood, Detroit; third prize, 18k Cor-um ingot watch (donated by Edmund T. Ahee Jewelry Co.), Cheryl Katzer, St. Clair Shores; fourth prize, JVC 19" remote control TV (donated by Radke's Hardware and Hockey Center), Raymond Modad, Detroit; fifth prize, Seiko brass and mahogany mantel clock (donated by Edmund T. Day
Surprise Mom this Mother's Day with one of the tempting desserts from Renaissance Cuisine:

Bob Hope's Lemon Pie (page 366)

- 1 8-inch pie shell, baked 1 cup plus 2 Tblsp. sugar
- 3 Tblsp. cornstarch 1 cup boiling water
- 4 Tblsp. lemon juice
- 2 Tblsp. butter 4 egg yolks (save the whites)

Pinch of salt Grated rind of 1 lemon

Combine the cornstarch and sugar; add the water slowly, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Remove from heat. Add smooth. Remove from heat. Add the slightly beaten egg yolk, butter and lemon rind and juice and salt. Cook, stirring constantly, for 2-3 minutes. Cool. Pour into baked pie shell. Top pie with a meringue made from the 3 egg whites, beaten stiff with 2-1/2 tsp. sugar. Bake at 350 degress for 15 minutes, or until lightly browned.

Serves six.

1 cup strong coffee 11/2 Tblsp. sugar 2 Tblsp Grand Marnier Vanilla wafers

1/2 pound sweet butter 2 large eggs, slightly beaten 12 ounces semi sweet chocolate

1/2 pint whipping cream Bread pan 9½ x 5½ x 2¾ inches Grand Marnier to taste

Mix and set aside coffee, sugar and Grand Marnier. Cream onehalf pound sweet butter, add eggs; then mix in melted semi sweet chocolate. Line a bread pan with enough aluminum foil to form a collar around top of pan. Arrange a layer of vanilla wafers on bottom of pan — sprinkle generously with the coffee liquid then spread with the chocolate cream. Continue in layers until the chocolate mixture is gone. Ending with a layer of wafers. Fold over foil to cover top. Set an identical pan or plate on top of cake and weight down with something heavy. Let stand in refrigerator at least 12 to 24 hours.

Adventure School gets gift from First Society

On March 25, the First Society of Detroit presented to the Adventure School for Children With Learning Disabilities the $2,000 proceeds of its March fund raising event held at the Detroit Boat Club.

The gift has been used to purchase a microfiche reader/printer for the Career Counseling Center, physical education equipment and reading program materials.

The First Society is a volunteer organization of professional single people who live in the metropolitan Detroit area. During its 23 years existence the group has raised more than $150,000 for diversified Michigan charities, all for the benefit of children. These funds are provided from four yearly social functions held on behalf of the selected organizations.

An executive committee of 12 members is responsible for directing the organization's charitable functions. Members of the commit-tee who made the presentation were: Frank Smith, president, of Troy; Bruno Ragan, Dearborn; Steve Briggs of Bloomfield Hills; Linda Eugenio, Grosse Pointe; Debbie Liedel, St. Clair Shores; and Cecily Freeman of Birming-

On hand at the check presentation were, left to right, Steve Briggs, Linda Eugenio, Gary Pedersen and Gerald Fitzgerald from the school, and Debbie Liedel, Frank Smith, Cecily Freeman and Bruno Ragan.

Gary Pedersen, Adventure School headmaster, and Gerald half of the Adventure School.

Fitzgerald, president, board of directors, accepted the gift on be-

Roast Turkey Breast

If your preference is for dark meat, substitute turkey thigh and leg meat for breast. There are so many marvelous ways to use cooked turkey.

5 pounds or more of turkey breast Garlic salt 4 stalks celery

4 to 5 sprigs of parsley or parsley

Place a 24-inch sheet of aluminum foil across shallow baking

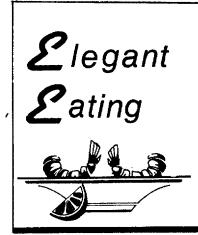

Wash turkey; cut off any excess skin or fat. Place bone-side-up (cavity) on aluminum foil. Sprinkle with garlic salt, then place celery across top. If you prefer, cut off about 6 inches from the tops of about 6 celery stalks instead of using the whole stalks. (Celery tops and leaves have a great deal of flavor in them.) Bring ends of aluminum foil together and seal, then tightly seal the sides.

Bake in preheated 300-degree oven for 2-1/4 hours or until tender, depending upon the size of the turkey piece.

Remove from oven and leave sealed in aluminum foil until cold, as this makes the meat very moist. Be sure to save the pan juices, they will add flavor to Turkey a la King or Creamed turkey.

The skin, bones and juices left make a marvelous base for Turkey Vegetable Soup.

A 3-1/2 ounce serving of turkey meat is about 176 calories, and 55 mgs. cholesterol without skin. The same size serving of dark meat is about 203 calories and 76 mgs. cholesterol without skin.

Bulgur Pilaf

2/3 cups finely chopped onion 1 cup bulgur

2 Tblsp. margarine 2-1/2 cups boiling water 1 tsp. beef bouillon

1/4 cup seedless raisins 1/2 tsp. pumpkin spice 1/4 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. garlic powder 1/4 tsp. pepper

Dash sweet paprika 2 Tblsp. margarine 4 cup toasted English walnuts

3 Tblsp. finely minced parsley Cook and stir onion and bulgur in two tablespoons margarine until bulgur is light brown, about 10

Stir in boiling water, bouillon, raisins, pumpkin pie spice, salt, garlic powder, pepper, paprika. Heat to boiling; reduce heat to simmer and cover. Simmer 15 minutes.

Stir in two tablespoons butter, the toasted walnuts and parsley; cover. Simmer until liquid is absorbed and bulgar is tender but firm, about 10 minutes. Makes six

Peggy O'Connor

And now, another installment of "Peggy's Believe It . . . Or Go Take a Hike:"

It wasn't Steve Smith's week. And I, as well as millions of other ESPN television viewers, watched as Smith, a rookie defenseman with the National Hockey League's Edmonton Oilers (the defending Stanley Cup champs, no less) assured himself of a place in the Goat's Hall of Fame. Up on the wall some place, twisting slowly in the wind.

Smith, for those who didn't happen to catch his act on last week's national news replays, played a crucial role in the Calgary Flames' victory over Edmonton in the divisional playoffs. With the teams tied at 2-2 and five minutes to go in the series' seventh and deciding game, Smith went to clear the puck out of his zone, but ended up bouncing it off his own goaltender's leg and into his own net.

But that wasn't the worst part. The fluke goal — which happened, by the way, to stand up as the winning goal — came on Smith's 23rd birthday. But that still wasn't the worst

No, the worst part is that Smith didn't even get credit for the goal. That went to the last Calgary player to touched the puck . . . and he was headed to the bench when the puck went into the net. (I just hope somebody took Smith's belt and shoelaces away from him for a couple of days).

Watching Smith turn 16 shades of red in front of the whole sporting world reminded me of a couple of other embarrassing — and amazing — sports stories I'd heard recently.

Column readers are by now familiar with the Grosse Pointe News' baseball expert JoAnne Burcar, (who happens to double as Assistant to the Publisher and Classified Manager). We were sitting around the office one day, discussing baseball, when Burcar recalled the day when she coached a girls' softball team out of the Neighborhood Club.

One day, the team played an exhibition game against an older, bigger and more experienced team of WAFs, out at Selfridge Field. Burcar's team had already batted, with nothing to show for it. The WAFs wasted no time, loading the bases in the bottom of the first inning.

"The No. 4 hitter came up and hit an easy grounder up the middle. Only my players missed it because they were standing there with their mouths open staring at a jet that was taking off. Now remember that this was in the 1950s and jets taking off were pretty big things then," Burcar said.

Except to the WAF's, who were busy clearing the bases and scoring four runs on an inside-the-park ground out/home run while Burcar was yelling "Field the ball, field the ball!" and her players were saying "Look at the jet, look at the jet!"

Not what you'd call your classic sporting event. But then neither was last week's Bloomfield Andover-North High girls' soccer

Seems that the Andover team which the Lady Norsemen beat, 12-0, wasn't the Andover varsity, but the JV squad . . . an error which was not discovered until after the game. But North coach Guido Regglebrugge had a sneaking suspicion that something wasn't kosher long before then.

"After three minutes it was 2-0 and it was obvious they (Andover) just didn't have it. I got all my subs in as for t as I could and it was still 9-0 at halftime. '. en I told the girls absolutely not to score any more. Well, we scored three goals in spite of ourselves. In fact, I took a girl out for scoring a goal. If I hadn't, the score could have been 30-0," Regelbrugge said.

The mix-up in teams was discovered after the game, when the game referee asked the Andover coach how long the JV game would run and was told by the coach that the previous game HAD been the JV contest, which of course, it had not.

Soooooo, it turns out — according to the central athletic office at Andover — that the game contracts did indeed specify that the varsity game start at 4 p.m. followed by the junior varsity contest. In Andover's league, however, the JV games precede the varsity's and the problem with the North game came about apparently because the Andover bus and coach were late and even when the game finally did get started, Andover's coach still wasn't there, according to North officials.

Andover's varsity beat North's JV, 4-2, by the way in a not-too-bad showing by the junior Lady Norsemen. Oh, and the scores of both games will stand, I'm told.

"To me, the game doesn't mean anything other than that we showed up and we killed 'em.' Regelbrugge says. "Why they did it is beyond me — we abided by the contract and I don't know why they didn't.

But Guido, if they had, we'd be out one great soccer story, wouldn't we?

Grosse Pointe moms make transition from spectator to soccer coach look easy

By Peggy O'Connor

When you're the mother of five boys, you spend a lot of time driving to and from practices and games and in between, watching them all play. After a while, you begin to pick up a thing or two about soccer. It's just natural that the next step would be coaching, right?

At least it was for Diane Karabetsos, coach of the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association's under 8 Cosmos for the past year. Karabetsos and fellow coach Mary Busse — currently at the helm of the under 8 Diablos - are the GPSA's only female coaches. Dr. Ingrid Sarnaik, a pediatric hemotologist at Children's Hospital, coached for several seasons until this spring.

Neither Karabetsos nor Busse ever played soccer as kids. But through their soccer-mad sons and daughters, both had been around it long enough to begin to appreciate the game's finer points. They combined the knowledge with some intensive coaching clinic experience to make the bold step into what for most women would be uncharted

"I'd watched the game for 10 years and I'd also managed teams. So I've put in lots of time around soccer, but I was unsure about being accepted as a coach because I hadn't played," Karabetsos explains. "Ingrid and Mary encouraged me to coach and the more I thought about it, I realized that as a former teacher, I had some of the qualities I think are necessary for a good coach. So I

And Karabetsos says she's loved it. As does Busse, who combined her busy career as owner and counselor at The Diet Center with her GPSA coaching duties four years ago at the request of former association president Dr. Jean-Claude Elie.

'I've always played sports never anything where I couldn't use my hands — but when Dr. Elie said one of the girls' teams needed a coach, all I could think of was 'Oh, God, can I do it?," Busse recalls.

"But I've enjoyed it. It's exciting to see the kids grow in the six or seven weeks you have them. Watching that progress is really what's rewarding.

Neither admits to receiving much flak because they are women coaching in a sport traditionally dominated by men - and European men, at that. "The first time, when I had both boys and girls on a team, there was a little hesitation on the part of some parents. I don't think they disapproved; I think I just surprised them," Busse says with a chuckle. "I wasn't what they were used to in a Karabetsos and Busse feel that because they are women who are not experienced soccer players, they can bring a fresh approach to coaching.

One of my beliefs is that people can be good at a sport but not necessarily good at coaching that sport," Busse says. "I think it's just as important to be a good communicator and make the kids feel good for their achievements as it is to be able to get out there and demonstrate certain moves.

"I tell the kids right off that soccer is not a natural sport for me but that by putting all the hours I do into going to clinics I can be a good coach. I may not be able to show them the moves, but I can teach them how to make those moves themselves."

Busse says that her lack of expertise in demonstrating the intricacies of the game comes in handy sometimes as a teaching tool. "I think the kids enjoy it if I try a move and mess up. They can see that playing soccer is fun, not something to be so serious about.'

Fun is, after all, the name of the game in youth sports. And that goes for the coaches, too.

"I really am having fun. How could I help it when things happen like last year, when a rabbit ran across the field and I lost my entire backfield," Karabetsos says.

'That, and when you see kids mature enough to get to the point where they will pass off and get the assist instead of the goal. That kind of makes all the time and effort worthwhile.'

Wood burning up league

To say that South High junior Kim Wood is playing well for her varsity soccer team would be an understatement; let's just let the figures speak for themselves.

the tools of their trade.

In four games Woods played in for the Blue Devils, she has scored 13 — count 'em 13 - goals. Wood was sidelined early in the season with a shoulder separation, but returned from the injury to have her most prolific afternoon for South: five goals against Kingswood. She had a pair of three-goal outings against Country Day and Andover last week, as well. Wood scored a pair against North High.

"She's a good striker," says South coach

John Case. "She can create her own space and take the shot. She also kicks the ball very hard . . . Kim is a very strong girl."

Wood doesn't take much credit for her recent scoring outburst. "I think it's the whole team. I know I have to do my job and I know that we have so many people on the team who can get the ball to me.

"We're really a good team," Wood says. "I think we can take the states."

South was 6-1-1 at press time and won the Expressway League's East Division. The girls played a state tournament game on Tuesday evening.

YANKEES-CARDINALS

The Cardinals came from behind on Danny Commer's sixth-inning homer to defeat the Yankees, 14-12 on opening day. Ed Dorda added two home runs and Brandon Lulis. Chris Holley and Donny DeSeranno also had RBI. Getting key hits for the Cards were Chad Schomaker, Ryan McCartney, Kevin Barnes, Dan Paull and Douglas Wolfe; Jim Dailey and Jason Kester also played well. Dorda started the game, was relieved by Paull and later, by Commer, who got the win.

The Yankees split the pitching duties between Kyle Hoye and Matt Recht. Hoye had six strikeouts in three innings. Josh Christ, Kevin Rauch and Hoye got Yankee RBI. Sean Recht walked five times and scored twice, Danny Minadeo had four walks and scored two runs and Chris Nixon, Peter Sullivan, Matt Recht and John McDonald also scored. Ron Wood, Carl Melchior and Brian Urso singled.

MARINES-RANGERS

The Marines outlasted the Rangers, 29-27. Alan Behler led off the game for the Marines with a triple: he was followed by Brian Everham, who doubled. Bill Sumner had two triples and made several fine plays at first base. Also doubling were Jason Glaser, Kelly Patrick, Tod McCain, Matt Weaver, Jeremy Price, Alex Werely and Jeff Winoker.

ARMY-AIR FORCE

Army got past Air Force, 25-24. Kyle McCartney led off the game with a three-run homer for Air Force, but Army came back with eight runs in the second. Air Force bounced back with eight runs on timely hits like Ryan Morrison's triple, but Army held on for the victory. Among the game's highlights were Jason Adzigian's tag outs at third, as well as his long throws to first. Jason Peralta turned in an excellent catching performance.

INDIANS-PHILLIES After taking first place in the Little League parade float decorating contest, the Indians went on to defeat the Phillies, 3-2 in the opener. Pitcher Dan Teranes threw three scoreless innings and scored one run himself for the Indians. Gary Campbell scored another on a hit by Tom Kolojeski and Chris Oliver came home on Riley McCormick's third innings single. The Phillies' Eric Lindsey drove home one run with a fifth-inning double. Denny Egan batted in the other run. Jamie Mertz pitched a scoreless second inning and pitcher Steve Young managed to hold the Indians close.

TIGERS-ASTROS

The Tigers defeated the Astros, 13-8, in extra innings on opening day. Tigers' starter John Maycock pitched three strong innings, helping his own cause with an RBI triple. The Tigers took a 7-1 lead behind the clutch hitting on Brad Dunlap, Scott Van Almen, David Auld and Colin Fitzsimons. Jonathan Morgan made one spectacular catch to end an Astros' rally,

Boating

'No Wake' law

"Some boaters pay about as much attention to their boat's wake as they do to the dust behind their speeding car," says Patrolman Larry Davis, of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, Marine Patrol.

High water is always a worry for property owners along the Michigan and Canadian shorelines. This season, their worries are well-founded. The Great Lakes have risen to their highest level since records have been kept. Dave Schweiger, hydraulic engineer for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said Lake St. Clair has set high water records since January and is expected to remain at record levels at least until September.

Doug Zande, of the emergency management branch of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, said as of the first week in April, Lake St. Clair was about one-half foot higher than the previous record high in June and July of 1973. Lake Huron's peak will probably be at the end of July when it will rise about four-tenths of a foot above the record, he added. Lake Erie's peak will be about onetenth of a foot above the 1973 record.

"As of April, we haven't had any severe storms with strong east winds," Schweiger said, "and as long as our luck holds out, damage will not be as great as feared.'

Property owners can deal with high water. Most are preparing for the inevitable by sandbagging, repairing existing seawalls, or erecting higher barriers against the water.

Wakes of careless boaters, however, is an additional worry one that is not necessarily inevitable — and one they'd like to

A boat owner is responsible for the wake thrown by his boat whether he is aboard or not. The marine divisions of Wayne, Macomb and St. Clair County Sheriff's departments are strictly enforcing 'no wake' laws this season. Michigan law says, 'Slow. No wake 100 feet from occupied areas. Occupied means shore property, beaches, harbors, narrow channels, anchorages, as well as areas were there are swimmers, water skiers, and fishermen

During the high water of 1973-74, many waterfront communities enacted local laws extending 'no wake' restrictions to anywhere from 200 to 1,000 feet from an occupied area. Most communities along the Detroit River and the St. Clair River still have these laws on the books.

Deputy Donald Bezenah, of the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department's marine division said that along the St. Clair River, local laws generally read, 'Slow. No wake' for 200 feet from shore or from the end of a dock — for boats under 26 feet and 'Slow. No wake' for 600 feet from shore or dock for boats over 26

"In the Black River, the Pine River, and the Belle River, it's 'Slow. No wake. Period.' "he emphasized.

The law will be enforced by sheriff's patrol boats, four in Macomb County, six in St. Clair, and six in Wayne County. Penalties are generally tickets and involve a court appearance, although the consequences vary from community to community. Fines are up to $100.

'A lot of boat owners are also shoreline property owners," said Lt. Tom Willhite, of the Macomb County marine division. "Everybody has to work together to protect property during this season of high water." He added that boat registration requirements are also going to be strictly enforced. Owners should be sure their boats' registrations are current.

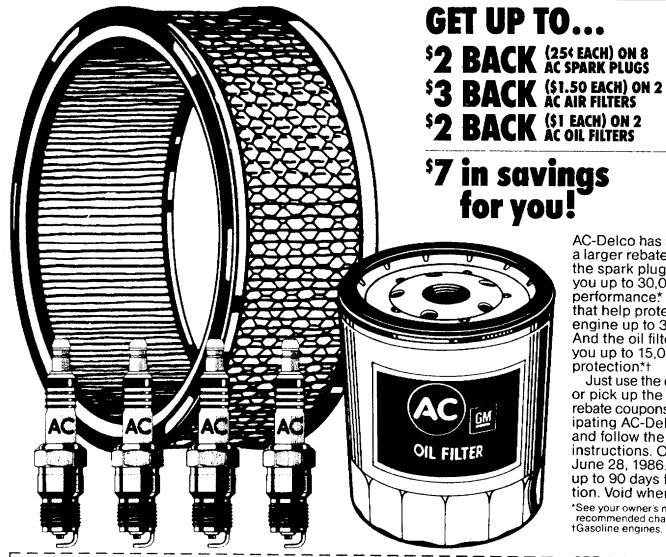

"In this high water situation, we have to remind ourselves to be very cautious," said Sgt. Larry Schmoekel, of the Wayne County marine division. "We've got to look out for each other."

Wayne County Patrolman Davis said, "We are not going to turn our heads on the wake law this year." Davis wrote 26 viola-tions within two hours' time back in 1973, when high water threatened property.

"After 26 violations, people began to believe us. We don't want to write violations," he said. "We want to protect property. Unfortunately, we have to write about 150-200 violations before the word gets out.'

Baseball squad keeps Alpena tourney crown; Como MVP

By Bill Hoover North High

The North High varsity baseball team defended its title as Alpena Invitational Tournament champion, winning games against Bay City Handy, 15-10, Cadillac, 6-0 and Alpena, 4-0, last weekend. The 13-4 Norsemen started things rolling with a 15-run, 11-hit barrage behind the pitching of righthander Ken Straske. In a game controlled by the batters, North's Craig Como (in action against Lake Shore last week) had a hot bat in North's Alpena Tournament victory last weekend. Como hit .545 in three games and was named the tourney's Most Valuable Player.

9-5, going into the sixth. But North ignited for 10 runs, starting with Pete Kilcline reaching base on an error. Then Straske singled and Craig Como — the eventual tour-nament MVP — single home both runners. Bay City pitching walked home two runs, before back-to-back singles by Pete Kilcline and Straske pushed across two more.

Como finished the rally by ripping a three-and-two pitch for a bases-clearing single. Junior Jack Williams, who relieved Straske, closed the door on Bay City. Straske finished the day with eight strikeouts.

The next day, North picked up where it left off, trouncing Cadillac, 6-0. Colin MacNeil pitched a one-hit shutout, striking out seven and was the game's real story. Coach Frank Sumbera said "Colin was overpowering." Offensively, Straske singled, stole second and scored on Pat Kilcline's sacri-

MacNeil helped his own cause with a solo homer in the second. Then Como singled home Chris Dudeck in the third before Mike Miller hammered a leadoff homer in the fourth. North added two runs on RBI from Dudeck and Pat Kil-

Sumbera called "outstanding pitching, good defense and timely hitting" as the key elements in the win . . . and they were again evident in the afternoon championship victory over Alpena. North blanked the host team, 4-0, behind the brilliant pitching effort of ace Craig Engel, who struck out four. North had excellent defense, with several double plays in key situations, and offensively, Steve Pochmara drove in a pair of runs Black had two goals.

and Pat Kilcline and Mike Farley added one RBI each.

Everything fell together for us. We played well under extreme conditions, received timely hitting, solid defense and outstanding pitching all tournament long. I'm really proud of the kids," Sumbera

As for Como, whose MVP award was the icing on the cake, Sumbera noted that "he's a senior, he's been there (Alpena) and he showed the way by his performance on the field." Como batted .545 for the tourney, with six hits, seven RBI, two runs scored and four stolen

Nice week for North

In addition to the varsity baseball tournament win, two other North High teams fared well last weekend:

The boys' tennis team competed in the Liggett Invitational, coming in second. Junior Eric Miller and sophomore Pat Hooper won at No. 4 doubles.

And at the Port Huron Invitational, the boys' track team finished third out of 18 teams. Junior Mike Wujek scored 13 of North's 53

Kickers win pair

The Lady Norsemen soccer team raised its record to 8-1 with a pair of wins, beating Country Day, 5-1, and University Liggett School, 1-0.

North beat Country Day on May 1, with senior Shannon Armstrong - the girls' leading scorer - scoring the hat trick. Junior Arabella

Two days later, North edged ULS. Armstrong notched the game's only goal and goalie Sue Bond blanked the Knights.

Softball victories

North's varsity softball team blew out Lake Shore, 16-6, last Wednesday, in the week's only game. The Lady Norsemen erupted for five runs in the third inning and rolled to the win. Junior Leslie Talos knocked out four hits and juniors Missy Preston and Julie Cook had three each.

Lynda Rayos, Ellen Gouin and Lisa VanHollebeck had two hits each; VanHollebeke's was a threerun homer.

North is 2-1 in the Bi-County League.

North's JV softball squad has begun to jell in recent weeks, with a doubleheader sweep to open the league season and a superb showing in the Sterling Heights Tourna-

The girls kicked off the league campaign with a sweep of Brablec, 23-13 and 5-1. Freshman Dawn Redmon banged out six hits in two games and sophomore Janet Dunlop fired a three-hitter in the nightcap. Two days later, North finished in a tie in its division at the tournament, defeating Lincoln, 12-2, and Sterling Heights, 19-18, before falling to Warren Cousino, Robin Wheatley led the hitters and Dunlop was the pitching star.

Unbeaten tracksters

The track teams at North are unbeaten in the league entering action this week. Victories over Regina and Clintondale helped the Lady Norsemen to a 7-1 record overall, 3-0 in the Bi-County. The boys' team is 7-0 overall, 3-0 in the North's girls dropped Regina, 87-41, as senior Jill Dornbrock starred with four firsts. Senior Barb Labadie and junior Barb Loeher had three firsts each. North dominated the relays, taking three out of four

Two days later, they dumped Clintondale, 85-63, sweeping all events 400 meters and up. Labadie won three to pace the girls. Junior

Mary Trybus also had three firsts. The boys beat the Dragons, 118-28.5. First place finishes included sophomore Jim DeYonker in the pole vault (11 feet), junior Tom Augustitus in the 200 meters (24.7), junior Alan Thomalla in the 400 (53.8) and freshman Bob Straske in the 800 (2:07).

JV baseball

North's JV baseball team took two out of three last week to raise its record to 8-2, 3-1 in the league.

The Norsemen rallied to defeat Brablec, 8-7, on April 28. Todd Tyson had three hits and three RBI, including the game-winner. Dino Vento (2-0) got the win on the mound. The next day, North handed Country Day a 21-6 loss, thanks to a 19-hit attack, including Josh Abbott's four hits and two each from Marty Pochmara, Tyson and Kevin McCarron. Tyson had three RBI and Pochmara, Vento and Dan Rashid, two each.

Lake Shore beat North, 3-2, on April 30. Rick Regalado struck out nine and Russell Rice scored both runs as North's seven-game win streak was broken.

Girls' varsity track team remains unbeaten and leads EML at 4-0

By Jennifer McSorley South High

South's girls' varsity track team ran its unbeaten streak to seven last week (4-0 in the Eastern Michigan League) with victories over L'Anse Creuse North and Port Huron Northern.

The Devils outscored L'Anse Creuse North 33-9 in sprints, 32-0 in distance and 14-4 in hurdles enroute to a 96-32 victory. LCN had the edge in the field events, 19-17.

In sprints, freshmen Traci Lee and Nicole Tocco took first and third in the 100, with freshman Lindsey Haddad close behind. Haddad and Tocco took second and third in the 200 and sophomore Reba Uthappa and junior Myreya Amezcua were one-two in the 400.

Finishing first in the 400 relay Julie Boyt and Heather Imel and Lee; the 800 relay combo of Boyt, Imel, Uthappa and Lee also won. South also took the 1600 and 3200 meter relays as seniors Toby Ott and Kelly Riehl and sophs Raquel Chapin and Ellen Mayer finished first, as did the team of Ott, junior Mary Beth Hicks and sophomores Rebecca Wasinger and Megen

Smucker in the 3200. Riehl, sophomore Micha Song and freshman Toni Tedesco went one-two-three in the 800 and senior Nancy Solterisch, Mayer and sophomore Stacy Stang finished one-two-three in the 1600. Sophomores Stephanie Dinka and Elizabeth Lazarowitz and freshman Michelle Brasseur finished in the top three spots in the 3200

Taking first and second in the 100 hurdles were senior Carin Seyler and sophomore Wendy Berger; Imel and Berger finished first and second in the 300 hurdles.

In the field events, Lucia Bridenstine earned a second in the high jump, in which Imel took third. Sophomore Dunrie Greiling was first in both the discus and the shot; sophomore Kellie Buchanan took a second in the shot put.

South outscored Port Huron Northern, 96-32, with a 32-10 edge in the sprints, a 29-3 advantage in the distance, a 13-5 margin in the hurdles and a 22-14 finish in field events.

Lee and Boyt took first and third in the 100, Lee and junior Erin Kershaw were first and second in the 200 and Amezcua and Uthappa finished first and second in the 400. South's 400 relay team of Tocco, Boyt, Imel and Lee lost on a judge's decision, but Boyt, Imel, Uthappa and Lee won the 800 relay and Chapin, Berger. Haddad and Song took the 1600. The 3200 relay went to the team of Ott, Dinka, Tedesco and Song.

Riehl, Song and Tedesco went one-two-three in the 800; Solterisch, Mayer and Wasinger finished in the top three in the 1600; Solterisch and Dinka were first and third in the 3200, with sophomore Stephanie Morreale close be-

Three baseball wins

By Stephen Ebner

South High The Blue Devils varsity baseball team won three close ones last week, beating L'Anse Creuse North, 3-2, Roseville, 6-4, and Lakeview, 4-2.

Pitcher Rico Cordova (2-1, two saves, 0.55 ERA) went the distance at LCN, striking out six, walking three and giving up hour hits. At the plate, rightfielder Jason Colegrove (.269) went two-for-two and stole three bases. Shortstop Sean Bruce (.286) batted in the winning run in the seventh inning.

Against Roseville, Rick Leonard (3-0, 2.30 ERA) walked six and struck out eight in 5% innings. Leftfielder Pete Muer (.438) had a hot bat, going two-for-four with four RBI. Third baseman Doug Lucas (.375) also went two-for-

In a night game against Lakeview, Jerry Joliet (2.27 ERA, 3-1) went the full seven linings, allowing four hits, walking four and striking out nine. Muer had two RBI in his three-for-four day. First baseman Tom Fellows (.286) had a two-run double.

Starting second baseman Rob Wood (.154) sprained his ankle Friday and is expected to be out at least a week. Third baseman Bill Adohoch (.250) will move to second and Doug Lucas will take over at South (9-4 overall) will face Port Huron at home tomorrow, May 9, then travel to the Fraser Invitational on May 10.

Netters fall

South went up against crosstown rivals North and University Liggett, losing 5-2 and 4-3, before blanking L'Anse Creuse North, 7-0, to finish fourth in last weekend's Liggett Invitational. No. 1 singles Thad Angyal (6-0, 6-2) and No. 2 singles Scott Watson (6-2, 6-3) were the only winners against the Norsemen, Against ULS. Angval (6-2, 6-3), the No. 2 doubles team of Don McKnight and John Lamb (2-6, 6-1, 7-6) and the No. 3 team of Jerry Bourke and Bill Huntington (1-6, 6-4, 6-2) were victorious.

In the match with LCN, South won six of seven matches in straight sets. Angyal, (6-0, 6-0), Watson (6-0, 6-0) and No. 3 seed Bill Wheeler (6-2, 6-1) won, as did No. 4 seed Tom Witt (6-0, 6-1). The top three doubles teams — Tim Groustra and Joe Mooney, Mc-Knight and Lamb, and Bourke and Huntington — also won.

Angyal was the singles champion at the Liggett Invitational, netting six points for South. Every player got at least one point.

Boys on track, too

South's boys' track team beat L'Anse Cruese North, 94-93, last week, lost to Port Huron Northern, 81-56, and finished seventh in the 17-team Sterling Heights Invitational.

Against the Crusaders, the 3200 relay team of senior Chris Astfalk, junior Kevin English and sophomore David Nicholson and Dave Sultzman won, as did the 1600 relay team of Astfalk, English, senior Tom Arbaugh and senior Mark Gall. Arbaugh also won the 300 hurdles and took second in the high jump. Brant Cosaboom finished second in both hurdles.

Highlighting the meet against PHN were Arbaugh's seconds in ine nign jump, nign nurdies and low hurdles and Stratton's first in the 400 and seconds in the high jump, long jump and 800.

'The Sportswriter' is thickly populated, has exquisite prose

By Marian Trainor The Sportswriter

By Richard Ford: Vintage Contemporaries 375 pages, $6.95

At $6.95, "The Sportswriter," a remarkable novel in paperback by Richard Ford, is the best book bargain of the year, particularly when it may also be one of the best books of the year.

It is a moving story of human unhappiness in contemporary life told in exquisite prose. As it pauses in the story to linger over descriptions of places and bits of philosophies, the reader is drawn into the innermost feelings of Frank Bascombe, the narrator. We share his moods of optimism and doubt and are pleased to note that he never succumbs to despair or regret.

He is haunted by the past but his profession has shown him how to disavow it.

He writes. "If sportswriting teaches you anything, it is for your life to be anything, you must sooner or later face the possiblity of terrible, searing regret. Though you must also manage to avoid it or your life will be ruined.

Frank's method of avoiding it is to retreat into a dreamy detachment. It is his way of neutralizing his past. His eldest son has died. His wife, whom he refers to only as X, has divorced him. He has given up a promising career in fiction to write sports because he sees in athletes what he hopes to achieve for himself: "The relinquishing of doubt and ambiguity and selfinquiry in favor of a pleasant, selfchampioning, one dimensionality which has instant reward.'

What he really wants is a life free of complication. He drifts but he doesn't seek, sure that every day will hold some surprise for

In his meanderings, Frank meets Vicki, a nurse. Vicki is a tough, modern realist. Frank looks upon her as a savior. He knows he has become too introspective and dreamy and thinks that marriage to her would put him once again in touch with the world.

He takes her to Detroit where he has an assignment to interview a former pro football hero, who lives in Walled Lake. It is to be an upbeat story of a former hero who is an example to aspiring youth. What he finds is a lunatic who has one aspiration in life — to commit murder.

This is a thickly populated novel. Although Frank is presented as casual, flexible, determined not to let go and sink into depression, the author manages to make us feel the pain and alienation that underlies his equanimity.
"The Sportswriter" is a book to linger over, to ponder the deep, long thoughts that occupy Frank's mind. But there is humor in his observations, too, and there is optimism — an optimism that he shares with all of us. He says, "You can never know what's coming next - always there is the chance it will be — miraculous to say — something you want."

When the star of a major motion picture comes to Detroit, chances are good that autograph-seekers and fans will stick to the star like glue, giving him little chance to relax and unwind.

His last seven movies include the "Ninja" series - "Enter the Ninja," "Revenge of the Ninja," "Nin-ja III: The Domination" and "Nine Deaths of the Ninja" — and other martial arts-based pictures. Kosugi also did a brief stint on television, co-starring with Lee Van Cleef in "The Master."

'Pray for Death," with its $3.5 million budget, is the biggest and most expensive project with which Kosugi has involved himself. The story, about a Japanese businessman who moves to America with his family and accidently gets involved in a life-and-death struggle, is also the most mainstream film Kosugi has done.

"I try to make a good quality action-adventure film," Kosugi says in his thick Japanese accent. "I don't want it to be just a martial arts film. It should appeal to a wide audience. I'm trying to change the image of martial arts. I'm trying to make it a little more

Indeed, most martial arts films are known for their sloppy lipsyncing and greatly exaggerated sound effects that don't match the action on the screen.

The diet pays off well. At 37 years old, Kosugi is in prime shape. His jet black head of hair is full, he's as svelt as a teenager and he walks with a bounce that indicates his fine condition.

Kosugi, who has been in American since 1969, speaks English very well. He understands all questions and pauses only briefly when choosing his words.

'Show business is very hard,' Kosugi says with a serious look wrapping across his face. "I happened to be in the right place at the right time. And I knew the right stuff — the martial arts.

But Kosugi also knows his own limitations. "I have to start thinking about my future because martial arts movies are so limited. I'm going to continue acting for a little while, but later I'd like to get into producing and directing."
The pictures, Kosugi stresses, do not have to be martial arts movies. He cites Chuck Norris as an example. Norris started by doing karate films and since has moved into a wider realm of projects.

But for now, with "Pray for Death" opening tomorrow, "Rage of Honor" — another martial arts picture — due out in late summer, and seven more movie offers pending, Kosugi is more than satisfied with his martial arts film career. And many critics see him as the next Bruce Lee.

Everybody compares me with Bruce Lee because I'm Oriental. But Bruce Lee had a charisma . . without him saying anything, I could get a feeling from him. That's amazing. Does Kosugi have any charisma? He smiles at the question and one cheek kinks in a deep dimple while his brown eyes dart about. "Me? Oh, I don't know. It's hard to say for myself."

Pryor settles debt with his creator

By Michael Chapp

Other than actually sitting down and talking with Richard Pryor, there's no way of knowing how much of "Jo Jo Dancer, Your Life is Calling" is fact and how much is fiction. Certainly there are elements in the picture which are unmistakably true — like the fact that it's a story about a young comedian who makes it to the top and then torches himself when he cannot deal with his success

But the content of reality in the story is not really at issue here. The point is, Pryor had some business to take care of - a debt to settle with his maker — and he chose to make a movie to do so.

Indeed, the metaphysical has a prominent place in this movie. Almost as prominent, in fact, as the physical humor and drama that mesh in this picture to drive home Pryor's point. And what a point it is!

The film opens in the present day. Jo Jo Dancer (Pryor) is in his mansion of riches, snorting co-caine, slamming alcohol and selfdestructing. In a moment of complete breakdown, Dancer begins to free base some more coke, knowing full well he'd be better off without the stuff.

Quick cut to Dancer being wheeled into the emergency room at the local hospital, completely covered with charred embers where his skin once was. It's here that Dancer, dressed completely in black, steps out of himself and goes back to look at his life. While the burned shell of a man named Dancer lies on the table being treated, the essentially wholesome spirit of that same man goes back to examine the crossroads of his tle Jo Jo is a good student and an adorable little imp. His mother (Diahnne Abbott) is a prostitute who's made a few bad decisions in her life, but loves her son. Still, little Jo Jo identifies not with her but with his grandmother (Carmen McRae). As the film later reveals, Jo Jo feels that his grandmother is the only person who ever really cared for and understood him. As time goes on, viewers met Jo Jo's father (Scoey Mitchell), who also had good intensions, but threw the boy out when he announced his aspirations for show business. As Dancer's spiritual self continues to look into the past, he recalls his first job — a five-minute stint at a dumpy hall. It was there he met one of the people who helped his career take off, a striptease artist named Satin Doll

First stop in his childhood. Lit- developed a friendship with a stutterer named Arturo (Art Evans), and began to get a bit racy with his material as a result of a heckler who wouldn't quit.

Dancer recalls his numerous wives, including Michelle (Debbie Allen), Grace (Fay Hauser) and Dawn (Barbara Williams). He could hold on to none of them and frankly, none of them cared much to hold on to him. By the end, he had become a doped-up zombie an entertainer whose success came faster than anticipated. Drugs became his only solace, and, eventually, his tragic and near-fatal flaw.

The whole time the spirit is taking Dancer on a guided tour of his past, the image of the present — Dancer's torn body lying nearlifeless in a cocoon of bandages keeps returning to the screen. It's (Paula Kelly). It was also there he a reminder to viewers that each of the little episodes they're viewing is leading somewhere; like to the end.

Literally Eventually, the past catches up to the present, the Dancer is watching himself in his house, preparing to commit suicide. From the outside looking in, Dancer sees the futility of the act. But the flame is lit, and the rest is history. It's obvious that Pryor is trying to teach viewers something with this picture. Not only did he star in "Jo Jo," he also wrote, produced and directed it. Hence the project is his and its something he feels strongly about.

In that respect, the picture works. The scene in which Dancer prepared to kill himself is one of the more powerful moments to be put on film this year. The drama is thick; the emotions intense. Viewers feel the overwhelming passion and confusion burning inside Dancer, and likewise feel the power of the flames that eventually lick at him from the outside.

On a strictly filmic level, the movie leaves a little bit to be desired. It lacks pointedness at times, and as a result may leave viewers wondering who's who and why. Many characters are introduced without explanation and many scenes are intentionally funny when the subject matter is not.

Still, one gets the impression that Pryor was not out to make a masterpiece film in "Jo Jo Dancer." he simply wanted to tell his story — one essentially similar - and have audiences leave the theater with a bit of the metaphysical insight he feels the experience of being near death gave him.

It's safe to say that they will.

'La Cage Aux Folles III' more than a comedy

By Michael Chapp

Like the first two installments in the series, "La Cage Aux Folles III - The Wedding" puts its central characters into the most impossible and hilarious of circumstances and lets them work their way out. Also like the first two films, this one is most than just a comedy.

For those who are unfamiliar with the antics of the characters perhaps the world's most popular fictional homosexuals, here's a primer: Albin (Michael Serrault) is the more effeminate of the couple. Heck, that's putting it lightly. Actually, he wears woman's clothes 24 hours a day, not to mention makeup and . . . uh, falsies. He is the main attraction at the nightclub bearing the film's name a club where only men dance, dressed in drag, to the delight of straight audiences.

Renato (Ugo Tognazzi) is the 'masculine'' half of the couple. In the first film it was discovered that he has a son from a brief encounter with a woman. Nevertheless, he loves Albin very much, and the two have managed to stay together for, lo, these past 25 years.

In that quarter of a century though, things have changed a bit. Renato has become more and more responsible for the management of the club, and a lot of bills have piled up. They are in dire financial straights.

That's where this film picks up. Albin has just received word that he's the beneficiary of an aunt's will. He will get an estate in Sweden and $100 million francs. Ah, and not a moment too soon,

But, of course, there's a catch. As a provision of the will, Albin must get married and have a child within 18 months of the will's reading or forfeit everything to his cousin Mortimer (Saverio Val-

Absolutely not, Albin says. He'd sooner die than marry a ... a woman. Renato, desperate for money, gets an idea. He'll pretend that he's become straight and needs an operation in order to get back to normal. Albin, in his love for Renato, agrees to look for a wife. "We'll do whatever it takes to get you back to normal," Albin says. "We'll even go to Lourdes if necessary.

Well, going to Lourdes isn't necessary. All Albin has to do is find, court and marry a woman. Easier said than done. This portion of the film contains the funniest sequences. Viewers will chuckle heartily as Albin, limp wrists and all, tries to take a woman's hand in his to kiss it. Things just don't work out, and Albin decides to go commit suicide.

Renato confesses that it was just a put-on to get Albin to marry for said, suffering from a double inly normal.

But the original problem is still there; they may be in love, but they're broke. As luck would have it, the girl who Albin ws going to marry, Cindy (Antinella Interlenghi), has fallen for Albin's cousin — the one who was going to inherit the estate if Albin couldn't find a wife. The group comes to an agreement: Cousin Mortimer can marry Cindy if he agrees to give half of the estate to Albin. They all agree and everybody lives happily ever after. Yep. This film's a farce. No doubt about that. But the film is also an interesting study of culture. Though its central characters are gay - almost too much exaggerated at times — they are first and foremost human. They fight, they make up, and they learn things about each other. They also are capable of dealing very humanly and naturally with other people. One of the most beautiful and insightful scenes from the movie is when Albin and Cindy share a heart-to-heart talk about their men-troubles. Like "Toot-sie," though not quite as blatantly, "La Cage Aux Folles" forces viewers to examine the meanings of masculinity and feminity. Is there not something more to being a man or a woman than just the physical characteristics? Isn't there some validity to possessing

'Turtle Diary' is story of freedom

By Marian Trainor

Quietly, yet intensely, "Turtle Diary" unfolds the story of two people, William Snow (Ben Kingsley) and Neaera Duncan (Glenda Jackson) who become passionately devoted to freeing three giant turtles from a tank in a zoo and letting them loose in the sea.

Without violence, screeching car chases or loud confusions, the film presents a panorama of suspense, passion and human comedy.

In the process we see two people free themselves from the confines of their mundane, measured existlaughs and she has an answer that will set her off on a dangerous mis-

They are both upset by the plight of these creatures who aimlessly and without joy have spent 30 years in a tank of water away from their standard habitat, the bound-

We see the deep concern in the intense eyes and set expression of William's face as he makes his daily pilgrimage to see the turtles.

He is a book store clerk who has dropped out of the pressure of corporate life, marriage and children to live in a boarding house, seeking what looks like a painless, numb existence. He apparently has no regrets and has shut out the past. Asked if he was a good father to his daughters, he replies: "They thought so. Of course, they were very young then.

Neaera writes children's books about tiny animals. A successful author, she has reached a blank wall — writer's block. She does however, purchase a solitary water beetle hoping it will inspire her. In the meantime, she goes to visit the turtles.

Outwardly quiet, Neaera has an air of contained ferocity waiting to spend itself. She asks the zookeeper if the turtles are happy. He turbulent sea, swimming with pur-

Others who add to this entrancing film are Harriet Walter who works in the bookstore with William and tries to entice him in the joys of sex. She is pretty, seductive and dicey enough to overcome his remonstrance of "I'm on a sabbatical." Michael Gambon is lovable as a panda bear in his role of the reluctant keeper of the turtles. He is so willing to help free the turtles that the viewer keeps thinking there is a catch here somewhere.

John Irvin, the director, gives a splendid view of what the indignities and small joys of life on the fringe are like.

Glenda Jackson and Ben Kingsley could not have been better as two people who come together for a common cause, take from the experience what they need to enrich and enlighten their lives, and with mission accomplished, go their separate ways.

Turtle Diary" is a fine film that will live in time long after the more bombastic and lavish presentations have toppled from the top of the movie charts.

1C. PRAYERS

PRAYER TO ST. JUDE To be said when problems arise or when one seems to be deprived of all visible help, or for cases almost despaired of. Most holy apostle, St. Jude.

faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the Church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost despaired of. Pray for me, I am so helpless and alone. Make use I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help and heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings, particularly - (Here make your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron and to greatfully encourage devotion to you. Amen. Thank you St. Jude. M.L.O'L.

WE thank you from the depths of our hearts, Holy Spirit, St. Anthony and St. Jude for answering our prayers. For being with us unceasingly in our time of

Netters tie for first in ULS tournament; face tough week

The University Liggett boys' varsity tennis team tied Ann Arbor Pioneer for first place in the 19th Annual ULS Invitational last weekend. North High finished third with 21 points; South, 17; Dearborn, 13; Ann Arbor Greenhills, 9; Edsel Ford, 6; and South Lake, 6.

ULS's individual flight winners were Mike Fozo at No. 3 singles and Ashu Nautiyal at No. 4 singles. Flight runners-up were Marc Hunt at No. 1 singles, David Barlow at No. 2 singles, John Birgbauer and Kirk Haggarty at No. 1 doubles and Jeff Buhl and Tony Malcoun at No. 4 doubles.

Last week the Knights split two dual matches, defeating South, 4-3 and losing to Detroit Country Day School, 5-2.

The Knights depart this week for Midland and the very tough Midland Dow Invitational on May 10. All teams involved are ranked fifth or higher in their class.

Khelokian leads ULS

On Tuesday, April 29, the ULS girls' varsity soccer team tied Flint Carman, 3-3. David Backhurst's team came back in the second half to tie after Flint led for most of the game. Leading scorer Laurie Khelokian scored all three

On May 1, the team traveled to Warren Fitzgerald, prevailing over the Class B team, 5-3. Junior Khelokian scored four of the goals and sophomore Kim Owens had the other goal.

Then on May 4, ULS took on North High. The ULS defense virtually shut down the offense of North but the final score was a 1-0 ULS loss. The tremendous defensive effort was supplied by cocaptain Cindy Paul, Shelly Tibbitts, Eva Dodds, Kelly Bailer and goalie Susan Judge.

ULS currently stands third in the East division of the Expressway League. The girls will play the asyet-undecided third team of the West division on Thursday, May 8. (By Susan Judge)

School record

The girls' track and field team improved its regular meet record to 6-0 by defeating Bethesda Christian School (BCS), Plymouth Christian Academy (PCA) and Lutheran Northwest (LNW) at home on April 29. The Lady Knights also took third at the prestigious "Blue-Gold Classic" at Macomb County Community College on May 3.

"Personal best" performances were recorded by Lydia Alexander, Miriam Mueller, Elena Hunt, Vara Samudrala, Kamina Brandon, Sophia Park, Sylvia Ristic, Alexis Collins, Jennifer Van De Graaf, Diann Imbriaco, Heather Diehl, Barb Herzig, Sharyl Stein, Laura Rizzo, Rachel Kneeshaw, Liz Gilbert and Wendy Willett.

First places, as ULS won with 105.5 points over BCS with 58, LNW, 35.5 and PCA, 25, were scored by Mueller in the 300 hurdles; Nora Staebler in the discus; the 3200 meter relay team of Phan Lam, Kavita Sood, Elizabeth Mannino and Diehl; the 800 meter relay team of Ristic, Alycia Giles, Hunt and Van De Graaf; and the 400 meter relay team of Alexander, Giles, Hunt and Van De Graaf.

Tri-captain Alexander was the star, tallying 19.5 points, and winning the high jump, long jump and the 100 hurdles in a new school record time of 17.8.

At the Blue-Gold Classic, third place was a dream come true for this young team, as the girls were edged by only Class C powerhouse St. Martin De Porres and host Bethesda, improving radically on ULS' eighth place showing at the 1985 Blue-Gold.

Alexander scored 26.5 of ULS' 80 points, taking second in both the long jump and the 100 hurdles. She also ran the lead leg on the fifth place 400 meter relay team with Giles, Hunt, and Park, and was the only competitor to clear the high jump bar at the first height.

Park picked up nine points with a personal best, third place performance in the 100 hurdles, and legs on the fourth place 800 meter and third place 1600 meter relay teams. Mueller-added 7.5 points (third in the 300 hurdles), and running a leg on the 1600 meter relay with Park, Ristic and Van De Graaf. Ristic totalled 5.5 points (fourth in the 300 hurdles), while Van De Graaf scored 2.5 with her leg on the 800 meter relay with Park, Giles and

Both tri-captain Charu Nautiyal and newcomer Imbriaco copped points in the 800 meters; Imbriaco picked up fourth and Nautiyal ran for sixth. Both girls also ran legs on the fourth place 3200 meter re-lay team with Rizzo and Diehl. Diehl notched a point with a sixth place run in the 3200 meters, and Rizzo scored seven points by securing fourth in the discus and fifth in the shot put. Talented discus thrower Staebler took second place for eight points. Freshmen Hunt and Brandon tallied personal bests in the 100 meters; Stein, also scored a personal best in the shot put. Sophomore Samudrala had a personal best in the 400 meters.

Improvement

Led by seniors Ed Brady, Mike French, Ian Jones and Marty Tibbitts, the University Liggett School boys' varsity lacrosse team improved its play over the month of April, upping their record to 3-8.

Two of the Knights' victories have come at the expense of L'Anse Creuse High School, 9-4 and 6-5. In the first game against L'Anse Creuse, co-captains French and Brady each tallied a goal and an assist. ULS dominated the entire contest by playing tough defense, dominating the ground balls, and getting a balanced scoring attack from midfielders like junior Jeremy Belenky (two goals and two assists). The Knights meet University of ULS travels to Michigan Inde- Detroit at home on Friday, May 9, Breeding tells. While trends in automotive design come and go, the 1986 Jaguar XJ6 remains defiantly ture to its heritage: lithe, graceful and utterly distinctive.

It is the nature of automotive styling to be transient. And it is the nature of Jaguar to create cars of classic grace: cars whose beauty endures long after the fads are forgotten. Such a car is the Series III. Combining beauty of form with quick response and notable luxury, the XJ6 rewards its driver in many ways. Come in and experience the pleasures that have been bred into the best Jaguar ever built.

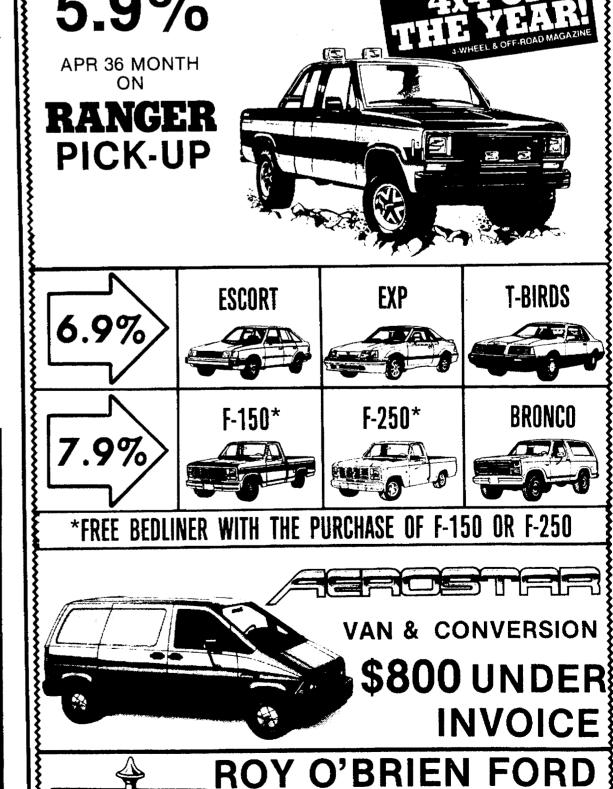

Substitute transportation now available. Falvey Motors will leave a vehicle for your use when we pick up your Jaguar at your home or office. After servicing your Jaguar we'll return it to your doorstep.
