One woolly writer

The Grosse Pointe News publisher and an editor accepted an invitation from Mayor Coleman Young to tour Detroit and speak with some of its leaders. The event, billed as a Michigan Media Seminar, was the first of its kind for the city and it was favorably received by the outstate journalists who were invited.

Writers came from as close as Grosse Pointe and Hamtramck, which Karen Spang, general manager of the Hamtramck Citizen, reminded us is completely surrounded by Detroit. They came as far away as Escanaba which took Peggy Bryson, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press, seven hours to drive.

But the prize, if there had been one, for the journalist who traveled the farthest would have gone to Trevor Holm who hails from Australia. Trevor, who has been in the United States for one week, is working at a paper in Ann Arbor in an exchange program. He will be here until October when his wife will join him and they will spend some time touring this land.

His 100 acres, which he says is small by Australian standards, is populated with 300 sheep. Keeps him busy, he says. When you think about it, both fields have something in common — gathering wool and gathering words.

Damp and Circumstances

A little bit of rain didn't interfere with the festivities at the Children's Home of Detroit Sunday, when the home for emotionally and educationally impaired children in Grosse Pointe Woods celebrated its sesquicentennial. The ceremony was well-planned, well-attended and well... wet. It didn't just rain, it poured.

Lisa Mower Gandelot and Lorrie Howenstein, co-chairmen of the event, were ready, however. The ceremonies were staged under a huge tent, big enough to accommodate the 1st Michigan Colonial Fife & Drum Corps, numerous local and state dignitaries and a large crowd of well-wishers.

"We decided to plan for rain," Gandelot said. "Of course, we didn't plan on this."

Inside the tent, good spirits kept the proceeding from bogging down, so to speak. Early on, Joe Muer, master of ceremonies and chairman of the Michigan Sesquicentennial, slipped up and introduced Barbara Levin, there representing her husband, Senator Carl Levin, as "wife of Sander Levin." Muer got it for tat later when another presenter thanked "Mr. Chuck Muer."

Throughout the ceremonies, the rain stopped and started. Unfortunately, when the one part of the ceremony arrived that had to be done outdoors, it was pouring buckets. Muer and Jerry D. Roe, Michigan historical commissioner, ventured into the downpour under

Dr. Gerald Lanier tacks up an elm bark beetle trap to a tree on public property near Lake St. Clair. The traps are equipped with a pheromone which attracts the beetles.

Elm expert sets traps in Park, Detroit

Dr. Gerald N. Lanier, the entomologist from the State University of New York hired by the Park to control the spread of Dutch elm disease, was in town last week for four days.

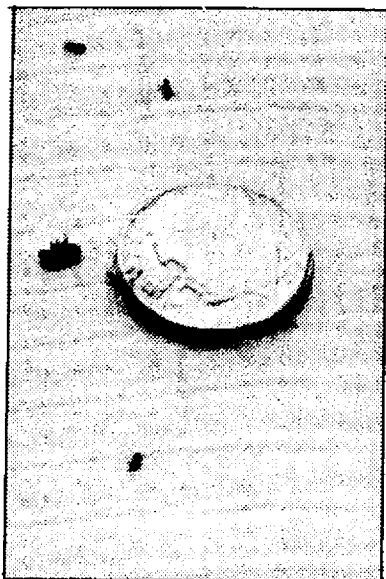

He surveyed the City's public and private trees with Bob Tarabula, a University of Michigan graduate and forester hired by the Park for the summer. They, along with city officials, met for foresters from Detroit and obtained permission to place some elm bark beetle traps in Detroit near the Grosse Pointe Park border.

A trap consists of a large piece of sticky paper holding a one-inch by one-inch piece of cardboard covered with a pheromone that attracts elm beetles. About 50 traps, in groups of four, were stapled to utility poles and non-elm trees, Tarabula said, with about one-half placed in the Park and one-half in Detroit.

Tarabula will inspect the traps on a regular basis and count the beetles that are caught.

Lanier is expected to return in June. At that time, he plans to inject cacodylic acid into diseased elms bordering the Park. The acid turns the tree into a trap tree, insuring that the beetles inside will not mature and infect other trees. Lanier, who has done pioneer work with cacodylic acid, has worked with other communities in the country setting up management programs for the control of Dutch elm disease.

A close-up of a trap — the black insect to the left of the dime is an elm beetle. The other black insects are gnats.

Honor the war dead

The community is invited to attend the annual Memorial Day service Monday, May 26, at 11 a.m., at the War Memorial.

The program will be held outdoors (indoors if it rains) and will include a concert by the First Michigan Colonial Fife & Drum Corps, a color guard and volley by the U.S. Marine Corps, and a jet flyover by the 127th Air National Guard from Selfridge Base.

The War Memorial, donated to the community by the Russell A. Alger family, honors residents who were in the armed forces during wartime. Hundreds of names — from World War II, Korea and Vietnam — appear on the bronze plaques that grace the walls of the center.

Today the non-profit center acts as a living memorial to the entire community by facilitating its cultural, educational and civic needs. In that vein, the War Memorial has held Memorial Day services for more than 30 years in honor of the men and women who sacrificed their lives in the defense of their country.

For information on the service, call the War Memorial at 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Amnesty officials wait . . . Barnes is location of one office

By Peter A. Salinas

Their slogan is, "Get to us before we get to you," — good advice considering the state will have stiffer fines, more auditors and a new computer system that will enable the Department of Treasury to catch and prosecute more tax scofflaws.

Michigan's tax amnesty program took effect May 12, and as of May 15, one Grosse Pointe had taken advantage of the program at an amnesty office located at Barnes School in the Woods.

Officials said there is no incentive for tax evaders to come in and pay their taxes at the beginning of the program, but noted if the taxes and interest owed the state are not paid before June 30, they will pay penalties two times greater. They will also be more likely to be caught because of a larger staff.

Robert Kolt, amnesty program media coordinator, said Governor James Blanchard encouraged legislators to pass an amnesty program which was proposed by state Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe.

The program allows those who owe the state back taxes to visit one of the amnesty offices (111 in 55 counties) and determine what they owe. Amnesty means paying back taxes including interest without penalty or prosecution.

Kolt said when the amnesty period ends June 30, those still delinquent will face fines and penalties double what they are currently.

Treasury people will give personal help," Kolt said. "They will check the individual's file, determine what you owe and the interest. They will walk through the process step by step to make sure (the person) gets amnesty."

Kolt said this will be a one-time only chance to get amnesty. He stressed that tax fraud could mean a possible prison sentence, but that by paying during the amnesty period, a person can avoid prosecution.

The state hopes to collect about $50 million in back taxes through the program. Kolt noted that the state legislature has already approved a tax rollback amounting to $50 million. The move lowers Michigan's tax rate from 5.1 to 4.6 percent.

"We obviously hope the program is successful," Kolt said. "We hope the $50 million estimate is a conservative one."

The state has authorized $2 million to implement the program. Kolt said $750,000 has been allotted for advertising, and the additional $1.2 million will pay for temporary help and forms.

"The majority of the $1.25 million will be used for purchasing and mailing forms," he said.

Yvonne Pointer, account examiner, and Joseph Watkins, auditor, Michigan Department of Treasury, are at the Barnes School location.

Pointer said while only one person has taken advantage of the program, there have been several inquiries.

The school is located at 20090 Morningside, Grosse Pointe Woods.

Other amnesty offices in the area include Harper Woods Community Center, 19748 Harper, Harper Woods, and Cannon Recreation Center, 5020 Cadieux, Detroit.

Woods goes Hollywood

There was lots of excitement on South Rosedale Friday night as cast and crew members of "The Rosary Murders" used the Woods home of Carol and Tony Alfonsi for a scene in the movie. More photos are on Page 11A.

Board discusses transfer policy

The Board of Education next month will take up a changed in-district student transfer policy that loosens up the rules for students to attend schools outside their attendance areas.

The policy began discussion of the policy last month, when Superintendent John Whritner prepared a draft for an open enrollment policy and argued the pros and cons of such a program.

The changes in the in-district transfer policy takes some of the language of the open enrollment document, according to school officials.

The biggest change would allow transfer for family convenience if class sizes at the school accepting the transfer aren't adversely affected. Those class sizes are tentatively set at 22 students for kindergarten through third grade rooms and 24 and under for fourth and fifth grade classes.

Teacher preference and athletics, however, remain unacceptable reasons for requesting a transfer, according to the new policy. Transfers may be granted if it is deemed in the best emotional and educational interests of a student, while not disrupting other aspects of the educational program under the proposed policy.

Teacher preference and athletics . . . remain unacceptable reasons for requesting a transfer . . .

Discussion of the policy has sparked a good deal of interest, according to school officials. Some parents have appeared at board meetings to voice their support for the policy and ask about when it would take effect.

A number of transfer requests that have already been made have been put on hold pending board action on the policy, according to school officials.

Donation

Two residents of Georgian East Nursing Home make a donation to Project Compassion. Elizabeth Diebolt, co-chairman of the Georgian East Residents' Council, at left, and Lucy Frazho, the other co-chairman, give checks to Chaplain Ed Einem. Project Compassion recently bought a $90,000 bus, which holds 14 wheelchairs and has room for six others. The bus can be used for field trips for nursing home residents. The Georgian East scheduled the donation to coincide with National Nursing Home Week, May 11-18. Frazho made a private donation of $1,000.

South cable club airs show

South High School's cable club will air its first program Tuesday and Thursday nights, May 27 and 29, at 8 p.m. on Grosse Pointe Cable Channel 19.

"Down South" has been in the works for the past two or three months, according to club adviser Julie Corbett. The show is the product of work by eight members of the cable club.

The program will feature an interview with David Steele, scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 96 at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, who will talk about the organization's 75th anniversary. The students have also prepared a music video, which they have lip-synched.

South's club had been active since January. A similar club was started at North later in the year, because the school had some trouble finding an adviser.

Access to equipment is provided by Grosse Pointe Cable, which trains students in its use. A group of students from North took part in an internship program at the company last school year.

The clubs are meant to train students to perform camera, production and technical work with an eye to using that expertise for program production for the school system to air on cable's education Channel 19.

The number of programs being aired about Grosse Pointe School has picked up the past couple of months. Concerts and student plays are standard fare.

The Grosse Pointe high schools' clubs were the last to form in Grosse Pointe Cable's coverage area. Harper Woods high school students have been producing Harper Woods Highlights for the last two years. Last fall, the Association of Non-Public Educational Community, representing the area's private and parochial schools, began producing "Something Original."

Car theft thwarted

A Farms resident woke up May 14 to find someone trying to steal his motorhome. A woman came in to the yard at 7 a.m., got in the 1982 Dodge motorhome parked in the circular driveway, and started to drive it away, according to Farms police reports.

When police arrived at the Kercheval Avenue house, the resident and the alleged thief were standing in the front yard. She told the police that she must have gone to the wrong address and that someone had threatened to kill her if she didn't take the vehicle, the report stated.

The motorhome owner told police that the vehicle had been left unlocked in the driveway overnight because when his wife drove it home the previous day, she had trouble taking the key out of the ignition. He said he would prosecute.

Student presses for solution to problem of Palestinian homeland

By Nancy Parmenter

Peace in the Middle East is more necessary than ever and the United States has the power to bring it about. That's the opinion of Dina Dajani. A college independent study project has convinced the Grosse Pointe Park resident that this country has the influence necessary to affect affairs in the eastern Mediterranean.

"If any country can help, it's the U.S.," Dajani said. "With the amount of aid we give, we have the ability to force both parties to talk. (Otherwise,) neither side will take the initiative."

Dajani, a spring graduate of Ohio's College of Wooster, spent hours during the last year reading, preparing, writing and defending an 81-page paper (plus appendices) on the growth of Palestinian nationalism. As a half-Palestinian, she grew up hearing stories of the Palestinian diaspora from her father, whose family was uprooted when he was about 12. Adnan Dajani grew up in Syria, studied at the American University in Beirut, and is now a pediatrician at Children's Hospital.

His daughter concedes that she sees the Middle East problems with an Arab eye. At a Wooster international affairs panel, she argued for the Palestinian point of view, while a professor with a Jewish background argued for Israel.

"We couldn't agree," she said with a wry smile. "Both sides are coming from different needs."

Nevertheless, the two sides could devise a working arrangement, either in a federated state with both sides participating equally or in two states side by side, Dajani believes.

The crucial issue is to directly involve the Palestinians. "Peace can't be built on the status quo — it has to include some Palestinian entity," she said. "But you can't use an Arab leader (like Jordan's King Hussein) to be a spokesman for the Palestinians."

Leadership by other Arab countries is one of the frustrations of the Palestinians, Dajani said. The Palestine Liberation Organization was formed in 1964 by Arab countries in order to defuse Palestinian nationalism. Egypt's Gamal Nasser wanted control of the group, according to Dajani, but within three years, nationalist segments came to dominate the Arab states representation.

Going back to the early years of the century, Palestinians have longed for control of their own destiny. Under British domination, they were not allowed to form their own government or prepare for independence in an organized fashion.

"Arab and Palestinian leaders were never consulted on the division of Palestine," Dajani said. "In 1946, Britain decided that (division) was the best way to control the two nationalisms . . . The British bailed out and left all their responsibilities behind. They had a lot to do with the whole mess as it is today."

An international group, which would include the United States, the Soviet Union, the affected Arab states, Israel and the PLO, is Dajani's solution to the current conflict. But it is the United States that wields the outside influence.

"One of the illusions Americans have to overcome is (their belief in) the influence of the Soviets in the Middle East," Dajani said. "The Soviet Union does not have (in Syria) the type of ally the U.S. does (in Israel). I think we give them too much credit."

From Dajani's admittedly pro-Palestinian viewpoint, American foreign policy is "blatantly pro-Israel." "One reason has to be the Israeli lobby," she said. "They have tremendous influence."

To counter that influence, the Arabs have established their own lobby. The goal of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, headquartered in Washington, D.C. is to lobby for a more even-handed approach in the Middle East. Dajani plans to work there as an intern this summer.

Most Americans have a misconception of the PLO, according to Dajani. They believe it is a terrorist organization, but the PLO consists of many different nationalist groups and operates schools, hospitals, clinics and the Red Crescent (similar to the Red Cross), she said. "It embodies the cultural, political and social aspects of Palestinian life," she said.

The most likely solution to the troubles is the formation of two states — a solution ironically similar to the one imposed by the United Nations in 1948. At that time, the Palestinians refused to participate because they had had no input into the plan. Further, Jewish commando operations forced as many as 700,000 Palestinians into exile, Dajani said.

"The Western press gives the impression that they left on their leaders' orders, but that's only partly true," she said. "They left because of Jewish terrorist activities. Deir Yassin (where 200 Palestinian villagers were slaughtered) is the best known."

In all those years, little has changed. Israel annexed the Palestinian portions of the division in 1948. Palestinians dispersed to Syria, Jordan, Lebanon and the occupied territories of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. With their high birth rate, they have outstripped population growth in their host countries.

Dajani worries about the consequences if a settlement is not reached. "It's important to find a peaceful solution — and soon," she said. "The situation could escalate."

Park property taxes to go up

By Pat Paholsky

The Park council narrowly approved a one-mill increase in property taxes May 12 with a 4-3 vote. It's the first tax increase in three years and for the property owner, it will mean $1 more for every $1,000 of assessed value.

Voting for the increase were councilmen Vern Ausherman, David Gaskin, James Robson and Mayor Palmer Heenan. Against it were councilmen John Prost, Carroll Evola and Mark Valente.

The action came after two hours of discussion — some of it heated — including votes on two motions to increase taxes by one-half mill instead of one mill, both of which failed 5-2.

A property owner with a house assessed at $45,000 paid 16.81 mills last year, or $730.21. The same property with the new rate of 17.34 mills will cost $775.15 this year or $44.94 more. The amount represents a 6.15 percent increase.

City Clerk Nunzio Ortisi said the hike is necessary to offset higher costs for public safety and liability insurance. Compounding the higher costs is the loss of some $70,000 in federal revenue sharing funds.

Andrews to run for commission

Philip M. Andrews II of Grosse Pointe Park has announced his candidacy on the Republican ticket for Wayne County Commissioner, 1st District.

Andrews, a local Realtor, serves on the Grosse Pointe Park Citizens Advisory Board for Wayne County Block Grants. His other memberships include the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association of Mack Avenue, the Grosse Pointe Park Business and Professional Association and the Political Affairs Committee for the Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors.

Windemere management dropped; major exterior revamping in works

By Nancy Parmenter

Amid reports that Henry Ford is disappointed with the lack of progress in developing and selling Windemere Place, a new Ford appointee appeared at the Farms council May 19 to request site plan changes at the project.

John Grissim, of John Grissim and Associates, landscape architects, told the council that his firm has been retained to make the property "more desirable . . . more intimate . . . and more secure." He detailed his plans to the council and said it would be brought in under budget, but declined to name any figures. A man accompanying him said it would cost "a ton."

Mayor James Dingeman said he had talked to Ford a few weeks ago. "Mr. Ford told me he was extremely disappointed and wanted to make a change," Dingeman said. "This is an expensive undertaking, but it's all to the good."

It has been rumored that the Windemere Place management was changing. Council speculation that Caldwell, Inc., has been dropped could not be confirmed, but Higbie Maxon confirmed that it is no longer handling the property listings.

Grissim told the council that he intends to change the ironwork and brick piers of the walls along Lakeshore and Kercheval. A stone cap will be added to the top of the wall, brick piers will be increased in height, and new separate gates for pedestrians and vehicles will be installed. The gate on Kercheval will be electrically controlled for security.

Cast-iron lighting fixtures with 100-watt bulbs for a "twinkle" effect will also add to the sense of security, Grissim said.

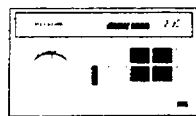

A meandering sidewalk will keep residents from having to walk in the street and new teak benches will afford a place to rest. Grissim said he plans to eliminate the boulevard entrance on Lakeshore and replace it with a single roadway to make the property look less commercial.

"We're working to give it a sense of community," he said. "The property is too commercial — there's too much paving."

The backbone of the new landscaping plan will be 200 "major evergreens" for year-round structure, Grissim said. Pear trees have already been planted along Lakeshore and an arbor vitae hedge is planned to screen the south side of the property. The wooden fence on the Provencal side which has prompted neighbors to complain will remain in place.

The Grosse Pointe North Festival of the Arts, to be presented May 27-28, will feature works by students including, from left, Kathy Osler, Tim Harkenrider, Jim Harkenrider and Sue Engelbrecht. Portfolios of the four were selected to go to New York for a competition.

North to celebrate Festival of the Arts

The 8th Annual Grosse Pointe North Festival of the Arts will be held Tuesday, May 27, and Wednesday, May 28, at the Performing Arts Center from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

This year's festival will feature exhibits of painting, drawing, sculpture, woodworking, commercial art and photography. Many of the works will be for sale. There will also be an astrophotography display featuring photos of Halley's Comet.

The choir of Grosse Pointe North, under the direction of Ben Walker, will present an evening of song and dance Wednesday. There will be performances by the North Band and Orchestra Tuesday.

Both musical events will begin at 8 p.m.

There will be a small cafe with assorted desserts, refreshments and fruit breads prepared by the commercial food classes open.

Admission is $2 for the concert. There is no charge for the exhibit. Tickets are available at the door.

Latchkey programs may get licenses soon

The Grosse Pointe public school system is in the last stages of preparing to request state licensing of its elementary school latchkey programs. The district and the state Department of Social Services have been negotiating on exemptions for the local programs since January 1985.

The final decision to be made is whether to add a part-time supervisory position for the programs, which will allow the system to avoid having to hire care-givers with specific education requirements set by the state.

The district hopes to be ready to receive licenses for the programs by the beginning of next school year, according to Elementary Curriculum Director Alfreda Frost. Except for the possible supervisory position and a ratio of one care-giver to every 20 students, the program will remain the same as it has, she added.

The licensing will end better than two years of dispute between the state and the district over the licensing of the programs.

DSS officials told the district in early 1984 that its latchkey programs would have to receive licensing from the state and conform to certain requirements. The district requested an opinion from the attorney general's office and was told that latchkey programs, like other child care programs, needed to be licensed.

The programs are self-supporting, so fees vary from $1 to $1.50 an hour, according to Frost. The programs normally run for an hour before school and for three hours after regular classes have been dismissed.

The hiring of a supervisor could affect the rates, according to Frost. The system is still debating whether to add the part-time position, or add the duties to the number that elementary school principals already have, she added.

The district's principals could qualify as supervisors of the programs, who must have 60 semester hours of education credit with at least 12 hours in child development, psychology, elementary education, physical education or recreation. Care-givers, on the other hand, need only be at least 17 years old with one year of training in a child care program.

The state requires that supervisors be on-site during the hours of operation of the program, so principals would be required to start their workday at 7 a.m. and leave with the last of the latchkey children at about 6:15 p.m., according to school officials.

The public schools have operated latchkey programs since 1979, responding to the growing number of families in which both parents worked. The programs offer structured educational and recreational activities for early elementary age students. The children aren't allowed to leave school grounds in the evening until a parent comes for them.

travel trends established from traffic count data and general economic conditions.

To better prepare the state highway system for holiday travel, State Transportation Director James P. Pitz has ordered a suspension of all highway construction activity beginning at 3 p.m. Friday (May 23) until normal work starting hours on Tuesday (May 27).

Only emergency work will be permitted on state highways and freeways over the holiday weekend.

City pool, tennis schedule

The city of Grosse Pointe will open its Neff Park pools for the season Saturday, May 24. Pool hours for the Memorial weekend will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The pool will be open from 3:30 to 8:30 p.m. weekdays while school is in session through June 12. Friday and Saturday closing will be 9 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday opening is at 10 a.m.

Swim lesson registration and information will begin Saturday, June 7, at the pool office.

Tennis court reservations at Elworthy Field will be taken at the courts beginning Saturday, May 24. Reservations must be made in person for play during the hours of 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Traffic expected to be high

If the weather is good, holiday driving in Michigan over the Memorial Day weekend will be the heaviest on record, the Michigan Department of Transportation predicts.

Department traffic technicians estimate motorists will log 780 million miles over the four-day holiday weekend, from noon Friday, May 23, to noon Tuesday, May 27. That's four percent more than the previous record of 750 million miles driven in Michigan over the 1985 Memorial Day weekend.

Psychologist to talk about 'hurried child'

Dr. David Elkind, noted author and psychologist, will speak about his theories concerning "the hurried child syndrome" Tuesday, May 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Performing Arts Center of North High School.

His April appearance was cancelled for health reasons, according to the school district.

Elkind is currently professor of child study and resident scholar at Tufts University in Massachusetts. His best-selling book, "The Hurried Child," offers insight and suggestions on ways to help children lessen stress. There is a companion book titled "All Dressed Up and No Place To Go," about teenagers in crisis. Forthcoming

Elkind's appearance is sponsored by the Substance Abuse Community Council.

Children of the 1980s are hurried children of hurried parents, educated by hurried school systems and bombarded by visual and audio stimuli from a hurried media, according to SAC. By examining the hurried society in which we live, parents may better understand the effects this has on growing children.

SAC has long been concerned with national data that indicates children are being introduced to alcohol and other drugs at younger ages and the social norm for high school students includes their use.

That information reflects society's trend to accelerate the social process and hurry children into adulthood, according to SAC.

SAC has invited Elkind, hoping he may help parents and educators alike to better understand the hurried child. The program is open to the entire community. A donation will be collected at the door. Refreshments will be served.

Community organizations helping SAC to fund the program include PTOs and the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment.

Schwarz is lab manager

Robert Schwarz of the Park has been named general manager of Metric Medical Labs of Southfield. He will be responsible for Metric's internal operations and marketing activities. Schwarz previously served as manager of plan administration at Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, where he was responsible for national implementation of health benefit and cost containment programs for automobile employees. He has an undergraduate degree from the University of Michigan and a master's in health services administration from Yale University.

Gordon is board president of Medical College of Pa.

Former Grosse Pointe Denny Edgar Gordon has been elected president of the 140-member national board of the Medical College of Pennsylvania. The board promotes and helps to fund the activities of the college, which was founded in 1850 as the first school for women physicians in the western hemisphere. The college is now co-educational and is known for being the first American medical center to establish a residency training program in emergency medicine. Gordon, a professional publicist, is president and owner of Denny Gordon and Associates of Vero Beach, Fla.

U of D offers scholarships for teachers

Beginning this summer all elementary and secondary Catholic school teachers, administrators and counselors are eligible for half-tuition scholarships to the University of Detroit. By instituting a scholarship for parochial school teachers, "U of D will increase its contribution to Catholic education by encouraging teachers at the secondary and elementary level to do advanced course work or earn master's degrees," said the Rev. Leo Lackamp, U of D's director of admissions. Lackamp estimates that only half of today's Catholic school teachers hold master's degrees. U of D anticipates that the scholarship will enable Catholic school teachers to afford advanced education since many of them earn lower salaries than their public school counterparts. Eligibility for the scholarship program remains as long as a person continues employment in a Catholic school. The scholarships may be used for all undergraduate and graduate coursework other than law, dental, MBA and doctoral programs. Teachers wishing to take courses during the summer should contact the U of D admissions office at 927-1245.

Deterrents work — so far

After a couple of rambunctious weekends by Farms' juveniles, things seem to have quieted down. Peace and quiet have prevailed most of the time on the Hill on the last couple of weekends. Police, merchants and other residents have breathed a collective sigh of relief.

Some people say that peaceful weekends show that the Farms Council overreacted by its passage of ordinances to set curfew hours and to pin more responsibility on parents for the misdeeds of their children. But we see it differently, and offer other explanations for the return of law and order to the Hill.

One is that the passage of the new ordinances alerted some parents to the need for closer supervision of their teenagers. Another is that the quick apprehension of a couple of juveniles believed responsible for setting the fire in a backhoe served as a warning to other youngsters. And the third explanation, and perhaps the most persuasive, is that the assignment of a couple of additional police to foot patrol offered visual evidence of a physical deterrent to trouble-making.

In the meantime, several community organizations are working on plans to improve and increase recreational opportunities in all of the Pointes. In the past, such plans often failed because the young people tended to see the proposed activities as the recommendations of adults, without much input from the youngsters themselves. Perhaps current plans will avoid that mistake.

In any event, the early reactions to the Farms incidents indicate some success with the control methods undertaken.

It's obviously too early to say that peace and quiet will reign on the Hill and elsewhere in the Pointes for the summer but it may be that early action in the Farms has served as an effective deterrent to more dangerous and destructive behavior. Let's hope it's not just the quiet before the storm.

A 'taint' on public funding

From the eminence of its editorial page and its political guru, columnist Hugh McDiarmid, the Detroit Free Press has judged County Executive William Lucas guilty of all those nasty things the state elections office has said about him.

In short, the paper contends it's Lucas' own fault that his application for matching state campaign funds has been rejected because, in the Free Press' opinion, the money he spent traveling around the state in 1985 was obviously intended to support his campaign for the GOP nomination for governor.

Well, maybe the Free Press is correct — but maybe it has fallen into the trap that the media often find themselves in. That is questioning people's motives when things just don't work out the way the media think they should.

When Lucas was traveling outstate, he said he did so to sell Wayne County and to get more public and legislative support to help overcome county problems. True, there were rumors that he was considering turning Republican and running for the party's nomination for governor but there was no confirmation until he announced earlier this year.

Since none of us can read another person's mind — or know his intentions — it is possible that Lucas had not decided to run for governor when he began touring outstate Michigan. Maybe he was just trying to win backing for the county, as he said then and as he still says now. And maybe he didn't really decide to run for governor until the warm reception he got outstate convinced him that a black Republican had a chance to be the next governor of Michigan.

Another point might be made about the Free Press' attitude. It has found Lucas guilty on the basis of a report from a partisan office. Lucas could still challenge the decision to bar him from public campaign funds by going to court or by taking some other action. At any rate, the decision presumably is not yet final and ordinarily it's not a good idea to find a person guilty until he is proven to be. And we think the proof is not yet completely acceptable.

Whatever happens to Lucas — and we suspect that even if he wins some state cash he won't get it in time to do him much good before the August primary — the current procedure calls for revision. It would be wise for the state to set up a bipartisan commission to make decisions such as the one made by state Elections Director Christopher Thomas that deprived Lucas of matching funds. Then candidates representing the "out" party would not have the question of whether they should or should not get state money decided by representatives of the "in" party.

In the meantime, we suggest that Lucas seek to raise enough money for his campaign without accepting any public funds, even if they should belatedly be offered to him. Then he would have the opportunity to make a major campaign issue out of his contention that the action of the state in denying him funds "taints the entire public funding process." In fact, if the taint of political manipulation remains, perhaps the state ought to get rid of the matching fund law entirely.

What 'good old days'?

Grosse Pointe is not known as a hotbed of Democratic politics — although a number of prominent Democrats do live here — but we think some of our readers might be interested in the comments of the retiring speaker of the House of Representatives, Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., in the New York Times.

In the article adapted from a recent speech, O'Neill took issue with the "new conventional wisdom" about the "good old days" which, he contended, weren't all that good for most people. He recalled, for example, that half the people were living in poverty, 25 percent of the workforce was unemployed, most people worked six days a week and the only time workers had to spend with their families was on Sunday.

In addition, in the world he knew when he entered public life in the 1930s, O'Neill said health insurance was out of the question, life was filled with uncertainty for the elderly, there was no such thing as Social Security and only the lucky few had pensions, and just a small elite of 3 percent went on to college.

In contrast, O'Neill said that today 65 percent of our young people are able to go to college, virtually all workers have some form of health insurance, and Social Security has made it possible for people to retire with a minimal, steady income, not to have to live in fear and dependency.

What caused what O'Neill termed "this massive improvement in American life?"

"It happened," he said, "because the American people made a national decision to develop energy, housing, transportation and every other sector of the economy. Most of all, we invested in the most vital of all national resources, the individual human mind.

"Through the years," O'Neill went on, "our society has accepted a strong role in caring for those who cannot take care of themselves: the sick, the handicapped, the elderly. We have provided a safety net for those who need protection, who cannot, for whatever reason, fend for themselves.

"But such achievements are rarely recognized today. There are those who speak to our young people and preach the gospel of gloom and doom. They go on to say how much better we would be without government."

And then he added his own view about government help:

"I believe it is wrong for the people who have made it up the ladder to pull the ladder up behind them. If the success stories of this country needed a helping hand up the ladder, why should we not give the same help to those young people trying to get ahead today? If government could offer opportunities to young people back in the 1950s and 1960s, why should we deny that same help to young people in the 1980s?"

O'Neill went on to argue that "our greatest goal is to give the average family the opportunity to earn an income, to own a home, to educate their children and to have some security in their later years." That, he said, is "the American dream" and "it is still worth fighting for.

"Today," he continued, "there are those who argue that the way to achieve this goal is to go it alone. The new morality says that the young should forget about the old, the healthy should ignore the sick, the wealthy should forget the poor."

But, he contended, this is "an alien philosophy," because "Americans believe in looking out for the other guy." And, he declared, "this is a country that has insisted from its earliest beginning that the individual human being is of fundamental value, that the humblest, meekest person has the right to be treated with dignity and respect."

Some of the speaker's comments no doubt reflect his personal Democratic liberalism, but he did contend that the improvement in American life was not the work of one political party and that it has been not only the president and Congress but the American people who have insisted on a fair deal these many years.

Whatever readers think of O'Neill's politics, they should find his views challenging and stimulating whether he is denigrating the "good old days" or challenging today's conventional wisdom that the country and people need less government.

Our readers say

Let the marathon pass through

To the Editor:

Shame, shame, shame — on the Grosse Pointe Christians and their pastors for forcing the Free Press Marathon to be run in another area. (Article in Free Press paper week of April 20th).

What a small inconvenience, difficulty getting in and out of church, to so few people compared to the joy of thousands of runners. Last year's marathon brought $97,000 to the National Multiple Sclerosis Society of Michigan. Is this not a worthy cause?

Imagine the thrill of coming up Jefferson to our area, with the leaves turning colors and our beautiful lake. The runners are beginning to feel the 12 and 14 miles they've run. They see and feel God's creation. It helps their minds and bodies.

Now, what about the remaining Grosse Pointers — the people who want to share our area and enjoy the excitement of the race. Did someone ask them if the route should be changed?

We have hundreds of people who line the route to cheer the runners, pass out water, ice, orange sections, treats, comfort aids of various forms. Everyone trying to help and assist the runners — offering encouragement over and over. The camaraderie experienced by the spectators is almost as nice as Christmas.

Somehow I find it difficult to believe that people can be so petty about a run that only takes a few hours, on one Sunday out of 52. Usually, when people go to church, they thank God for all the blessings received and ask assistance to live a better life. Yet, these same people are refusing an opportunity outside the church doors.

We, as a community, can be "ambassadors of goodwill." Hopefully, we can find a solution, so that the marathon may once again pass through our area. We should want to share because we've been more than blessed.

Clarification

To the Editor:

In the article "Nursing undergoes many changes," I was misquoted in reference to the Michigan Nurses Association.

While the Michigan Nurses Association does represent nurses in labor issues and functions as a union in some instances, it is one of the most powerful professional nursing organizations.

I clear up this misunderstanding because the article reflected that the Michigan Nurses Association was the only professional nursing group. Not so — in fact, in Michigan we have over 30 professional nursing groups.

Thank you for your interest in nursing during Michigan Nurse Week.

Open letter to parents of boys with motor scooters

Dear Parents:

I almost killed my middle school-aged son on Friday, May 9, at about 3:15 in the afternoon. My wife and I were driving on Charlevoix between Vendome and Touraine when your son, riding a small red motor scooter, shot down the hill on Touraine, full speed, and made no attempt to stop at Charlevoix. If he and I had not made drastic swerves, I would have hit him.

By the time I had driven around the block to confront him, he was gone, which leads me to believe he lives on Touraine or sped to the Brownell school property.

The hills on Vendome, Touraine, Cloverly, etc. have always tempted kids on skateboards and bikes. I urge you to save your children's lives by stressing the dangers of not following the rules of the road.

Prime Time for senior citizens

By Marian Trainor

It is a mitten-print on a map, placed on a sapphire-shaded setting of lakes. Across its palm may be traced lifelines of forest and fields, sand dunes and streams. Within its circulatory system beats the pulse of industry, manufacturing, business and research. The edge of its palm are graced with the jewels of art, education, music and theater.

It has gloves to match the season's raiment. It wears the snows of winter, the scarlet of fall, the Renoir mists of spring and the multi-colored cloak of summer.

It holds in its hand the bounty of earth; fruits and berries; dairy products, meat and grains.

It has held the reins of recovery in bad times and has mobilized its resources to help win two major wars. It is Michigan My Michigan.

It has known good times and bad but age and trouble have not tarnished its essential beauty since the time Alexis de Tocqueville visited Michigan in 1831.

In his "Journey to America," de Tocqueville tells of traversing the area on foot or horseback. Starting from Detroit, he set out toward Pontiac.

Just a mile from the Detroit River he found himself in a deep forest. That would be just about at Grand Circus Park today.

Arriving in Pontiac he found... a transparent stream... and the everlasting forests all around.

Determined to reach Saginaw against the warnings that Saginaw was the last inhabited point until the Pacific Ocean, he set out in a canoe on the Saginaw River. He describes it as:

... a flowering solitude, delightful and scented; a magnificent dwelling, a living palace built for man... the serenity of universal calm reigned around us... we talked less... finally we fell silent and both of us fell into a tranquil reverie.

De Tocqueville made other trips in Michigan but nothing stirred him half as much as his days and nights in the forests.

"At mid day the sun darts its beams on the forest and one hears in its depths something like a long sigh, a plaintive cry lingering in the distance. It is the last stir of the dying wing... the forest trees seem to form but one whole immense and indestructible edifice under whose vaults eternal darkness reign."

Michigan still takes pride in its trees. The Michigan Botanical Club contends that Michigan is the home of some of the largest trees found in North America. Our state has 90 recognized champion trees. Each national champion represents the biggest known tree of a particular species found in the United States out of approximately 900 varieties of trees growing in our nation. Among the significant records are the silver poplar in Charlevoix and a swamp oak on Grosse Ile.

But of all its attractions, the Great Lakes have to be Michigan's main source of pride.

Lakes Michigan, Superior, Huron and Erie — all the Great Lakes except for Ontario — give Michigan 3,251 miles of freshwater shoreline, more than any other state. These lakes bore the canoes of Indians and provided rich hunting, trapping and fishing grounds. European explorers, fur traders and Jesuits traveled their waters. In the 19th century, they made possible the booming lumber and mining industry.

The Soo Locks, opened in 1885, enabled sailors to move up the St. Mary's River to Whitefish Bay. The St. Lawrence Seaway, opening in 1959, enabled ocean vessels to enter all the Great Lakes.

Each lake served an important purpose in Michigan's history. Lake Erie made possible travel for new settlers to go from New York to Michigan when the Erie Canal opened in 1825. Lake Huron brought prosperity as it aided lumbering and shipping. It has some of the most beautiful recreation waters in all of North America. It is a lake of more than 30,000 islands and welcomes more family cruisers than any of the other lakes.

Lake Michigan carried lumber from Michigan to Chicago and midwestern grain from Chicago to the East in the second half of the 19th century. Today it offers recreation for all seasons. The tempering breezes off Lake Michigan create almost 300 miles of coast where fruit can be grown. And winter brings snow for the ski resorts. Lake Superior is the largest freshwater lake in the world and is a vital conduit of commerce and transportation.

The Great Lakes are Michigan's proudest attraction, but the countless inland lakes provide pleasure and recreation for vacationers also.

Swimming, boating, and fishing opportunities are within driving distance, and in some instances right at our front door. It is even possible to take a houseboat vacation on a chain of lakes in Antrim County.

Not one of the Great Lakes but great in the minds of Grosse Pointe residents is Lake St. Clair. It is a source of year 'round pleasure with its swimming, boating, fishing in summer and ice fishing in the winter.

Being so close at hand, it is possible to enjoy a walk or drive along its shores. And have you ever seen a prettier picture than those state-ly sailboats spreading their sails like graceful birds and spinning over the blue waters that dance in the summer breeze and are highlighted by the crimson rays of a setting sun?

In addition to Michigan week, our state has another occasion to celebrate its glories. To mark Michigan's sesquicentennial, there will be an 18 month celebration in communities across the state.

A Sesquicentennial Sampler will be held June 14 in Lansing. There will be parades and concerts and torch runners carrying the sesquicentennial flame. A special march composed for the occasion will be played. This in addition to dozens of other displays and activities.

Because of recent events, Americans are staying on home ground this year. Michigan will be a good place to come this summer. As for Michigan residents, why go anywhere else? It's going to be a fun-filled summer right here.

I say

This M.D. is A-OK

My sister came back from her most recent visit to her kids' pediatrician with the news that the doctor had inquired about my health, mentioning also that he reads the Grosse Pointe News and enjoys my work.

At first I was a little surprised that the doctor even remembered me, (and a little embarrassed, too, realizing that the man who used to see me in diapers was now reading my journalistic efforts) since I've been past the kid doctor age for, well, a while.

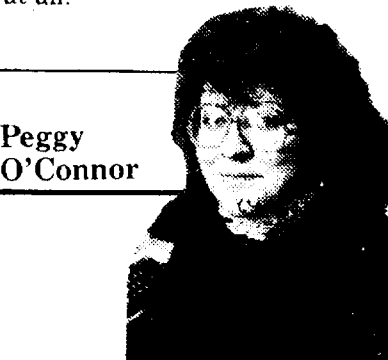

After I thought about it, I concluded that because this pediatrician is somewhat special, it really isn't all that unusual that he would remember me 12 or 14 years after I last opened my mouth and said "Ahhhh" for him.

I'd like to write about this doctor, tell folks what makes him so special to my family. And I will, because there are probably lots of kind, concerned capable doctors around. And I'm sure their patients think just as much of them as I do of my favorite pediatrician.

Dr. James Fisher has been our family pediatrician since my oldest brother was born, some 32½ years ago. He's seen us through everything from walking pneumonia to scarlet fever and is now tending to the aches and pains of a second generation of O'Connors. A family, which, by the way, has continued its time-honored tradition of hiding under the examining table and forcing the doctor to talk us out from under just to use a stethoscope on us.

My first memory of Dr. Fisher was when I was four and desperately in need of having my tonsils and adenoids removed to correct a hearing problem I had. He held me on his lap and carefully explained the entire procedure, right down to the ice cream. It was a wonderful gesture, especially since he was sending me to a specialist for the surgery and needn't have worried about my concerns at all.

But worry he did, even up to the time when I was 15 and hospitalized for what turned out to be a bout with juvenile rheumatoid arthritis. I was going to have to spend Thanksgiving Day in St. John Hospital's pediatric ward, and the doctor didn't want it to be too lonely for me.

So he came over, right about dinner time, read me a book, watched television with me and since I wasn't feeling too well, stayed long enough to feed me my supper.

Dr. Fisher made house calls long after most modern doctors had taken to joking about the practice; made a condolence visit when there was a death in my family; ignored our mounting bills all through one winter when money was tight and strep throat was rampant; and never failed to admit when a problem had him stumped and he'd need to call in the services of other doctors for some advice.

My favorite doctor even has a sense of humor — hard to believe when you figure he has to put up with screaming, crying, sick children all day, which isn't exactly the stuff chuckles are made of. But it seems he can always find something to smile about.

Like the time my parents took all four of us in for school checkups. My dad took the two boys in one examining room, my mom stayed with my sister and me in an adjoining room. The doctor saw the boys first, giving them syringes filled with water and instructing them to play a joke on us; telling them that when he was with the girls, he'd open the cabinet between the two rooms and have them squirt us with water. Only Doc had told us the same thing and when the cabinet door was opened, we all got a face full of water.

Years later, when my sister had her kids there, our favorite doctor was trying to make the kids laugh and told them the story of that water fight, forgetting that the kids' mother was one of the combatants. When my sister reminded him, he only laughed harder, calling in a nurse or two to share the joke.

I'm sure that lots of people have similar stories to share about their family doctors and I worry that they might think we're playing favorites. Only I've been to a lot of other doctors since then and none has been as flat-out nice as my favorite pediatrician.

Which is why I was a little worried when I heard Dr. Fisher had some major surgery last fall. I'm glad everything came out okay, only I'm not sure he'll stay in practice long enough to check my kids' ears and whisper, "Did you wash your ears today?" the way he always does.

If he doesn't stay in practice, would it be all THAT unusual for a 28-year-old woman to make an appointment to see a pediatrician, just to talk over old times and maybe get in a water fight or two? I'll keep my ears clean, just in case.

Christians are split over Nicaragua

By Nancy Parmenter

Christians are now lined up squarely on both sides of the Sandinista revolution in Nicaragua. On the one side are the liberation theologians, typified by the Maryknoll nuns; on the other are several denominations opposed to the revolution.

Increasingly, Christians opposed to the revolution are being pressured and even persecuted by the government, according to observers. May 16, an open episcopal forum met at the War Memorial to learn more about the reported persecution. The audience came from as far away as Toledo and Flint.

"It's not enough to abstain from criticizing the government; you must openly support it," said speaker Humberto Belli, formerly the editor of the editorial page of Managua's major daily newspaper, La Prensa.

The Sandinistas shut down Catholic church broadcasts in January because the station failed to air a speech by President Daniel Ortega. They dismantled the Campus Crusade for Christ, arrested its minister and confined him, naked, in a two-by-three foot cell, where they tormented him with cold water, Belli charged.

"This is just the tale of one Protestant minister," he said. "One hundred others suffered similarly." Conditions were repressive under the previous regime, but "in 42 years of Somocismo, we only had two priests expelled."

Ambiguity is the hallmark of what Americans see in Nicaragua. Many of the Americans supporting the revolutions are confirmed Christians.

"There are so many voices abroad in the land," Pennsylvania theology professor Stephen Smith told the audience. "There are two sets of evidence, two things people are looking for. Some people see things looking free — I see Cubans and soldiers."

Smith proposed that American Christians close ranks with Nicaraguan Christians in opposing totalitarianism.

But there is difficulty in determining the truth of the situation. Centers of liberation theology in Nicaragua are funded by the World Council of Churches. Americans visiting Nicaragua are often hosted by church groups — and learn information favorable to the revolution.

"The situation calls for a good deal of discernment," Belli said. "We must look behind the facade."

He charged that Americans are naive about Communism and the way "evil trends work in the world."

Belli, a former Sandinista, left the party, and eventually the country, over growing frustration with government censorship. What he called a personal experience with Christ gave him the final push he needed to cut Sandinista ties. As a former insider, he frequently speaks to American groups about the inner workings of the party.

"The Sandinista leaders have a long tradition of internationalism," he said. "They trained in poor," he said. "If you were against revolution, you were not only against the poor, but also against Jesus Christ."

According to Belli, the government conducts disinformation campaigns against people it wants to discredit. He said that one day some photographers met him at the front door of his newspaper building and went with him into his office. Reaching into his desk drawer to find some information they wanted, he found the drawer stuffed with pornographic material.

"I shut it quick before they could ragua. When the Sandinistas first took power, he said, they issued a series of general edicts governing newspapers.

No coverage of strikes, riots or high prices was permitted. The newspaper was not allowed to discuss the economy.

The rules were so general that whenever an article annoyed the censors, they could find a rule and bend it to fit the situation, Belli said. But the censorship grew stronger.

In March of 1982, complete censorship was imposed. La Prensa, a major metropolitan daily, had to be pasted up and carried every day to the office of the minister of the interior, where squads of censors read and marked every article and every advertisement. Every piece of copy had to meet the censorship standards or be deleted, according to Belli.

"They even read the classified ads," he said. "They suspected we were smuggling messages through the ads."

After the censored material was removed from the dummy pages, something had to be found to take its place. Belli tried to leave white space or fill the space with unrelated photographs to alert the reading public that something was wrong. But he said the censors were a step ahead of him.

"Everything had to be filled," he said. "And no pictures of movie stars."

There were days when the paper was carried back and forth from his office to the ministry of the interior several times — and five times when the censoring went on so long that the paper never went to print at all.

At the same time, the government was closing down radio stations and organizing the population to spy on each other, Belli said. "They formed block groups to be the eyes and ears of the revolution," he said. "They posted guards to question everybody who enters the neighborhood."

Belli's charges are in sharp contrast with the reports of many visitors to Nicaragua who say they found an atmosphere of democratic freedom. Belli thinks those visitors have been misled.

"There is a train of U.S. visitors in Nicaragua, usually as guests of pro-Sandinista church groups," he said. "I've been here four years and I'm not an expert on American politics, but these people who don't even speak our language come back as experts."

Russia and Cuba. But they knew that Nicaragua is one of the most Christian countries in South America. They made the strategic decision not to confront openly the religious tenets to support the revolution, Belli said. Jesus Christ is depicted on posters as a guerrilla fighter, wearing military camouflage fatigues and carrying an Uzi. He is shown as one of the first revolutionaries in history, killed by Roman imperialists for his political beliefs.

Religion and the revolution have become so intertwined that failure to support the revolution and its goals has taken on the significance of a religious sin, Belli said.

"The revolution was the giant event that was going to liberate the take a picture," he said. "It went wrong for them that time."

Photographers were also the weapon in a reported smear against Nicaraguan Archbishop Obando. Belli charged that the government used a woman, her supposed lover, and a corps of photographers to embarrass the archbishop. Piling coincidence on coincidence, he said, the archbishop was supposedly discovered cavorting with a woman by her lover. "Just by chance," photographers were on hand, and a picture of the naked archbishop ran on the front page of the local papers.

It was frustration with trying to run a newspaper under such conditions that drove Belli from Nica-

Historical Society seeks city support for grants

The Grosse Pointe Historical Society hopes to complete a survey of the area's historically and architecturally significant sites using graduate level and fourth-year students from Lawrence Institute of Technology and Eastern Michigan University.

To help pay for the program, the society is looking for letters of support from cities, individuals and community groups to include with the grant applications to the state and foundations.

Of 26 letters mailed out, responses have been received from Grosse Pointe Shores, Mayor Lorenzo Browning of Grosse Pointe City, St. Clair Shores Historical Commission, U.S. Sen. Carl Levin, Harper Woods and the Harper Woods Historical Commission, according to society secretary Patricia Colett.

Grosse Pointe Park also gave its endorsement of the society's efforts May 12, but its letter has yet to arrive, Colett says.

The society used volunteer help last year in photographing and documenting all pre-World War II homes in Grosse Pointe City, and the survey cards are now being prepared for that survey, Colett says. Using graduate students from the universities would greatly accelerate the process before more significant structures are lost, she adds.

The society is waiting to hear from the universities before it can set a final cost for the program and hopes to get its applications out shortly afterward, Colett says.

"We will hope to get a lot of community participation because a lot of information on homes is in the hands of homeowners," Colett said. Age alone doesn't make a home or building historic or significant, she adds.

Completion of the survey will help make the community more aware of the Grosse Pointe's history and what is lost when a major site is demolished, Colett says. The society is working to maintain and preserve the community's history and beauty.

"Preserving our past has a lot to do with the quality of our future," she adds.

Hertel schedules art exhibition

Congressman Dennis Hertel announced plans for his annual art exhibition, "An Artistic Discovery." The exhibition, featuring artwork submitted by high school students within the 14th Congressional District, will be held Saturday, May 24, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, 1100 Lakeshore Road.

Prior to the exhibit, one of the entries will be selected to represent the 14th District in a national, year-long exhibition in a corridor leading to the U.S. Capitol — an area dedicated to the artistic talents of young American artists. This year's judges are Dr. Fred Attebury of Wayne State University, Marie Henderson of Our Lady of Sorrows and Robert Lakin of Fern-dale High School.

Schools participating in this year's 14th Congressional art exhibition are: Adlai Stevenson, Bishop Gallagher, Center Line, Dominican, East Detroit, Finney, Fitzgerald, Grosse Pointe North, Grosse Pointe South, Hazel Park, Lamphere, Lincoln, Lutheran East, Notre Dame, Regina, St. Anne, St. Clements, St. Florian and Troy.

H.W. library hours

The Harper Woods Public Library will begin summer hours starting with the Memorial Day weekend and running through Labor Day.

The library will be closed on Saturday starting May 24. Summer hours will be Monday through Thursday 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m., Friday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., closed Saturday.

For further information, call the library at 343-2575.

Discussing plans . . .

. . . for "A Clear View II," a cabaret-style evening designed to create better understanding between the sighted and the visually impaired, are Margaret Smith of the City, who will emcee the event, and Neal Shine of the Park, a guest speaker. Listening in is Joshua, Smith's seeing eye dog. Smith is an instructor and counselor at Detroit Receiving Hospital and Shine is senior managing editor of the Detroit Free Press.

Sponsored by the Friends of Vision of the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology, the event is Thursday, June 5, 7 p.m. in the War Memorial ballroom. The public is invited. Admission is free. Refreshments will also be served. Reservations are necessary and can be made by calling 824-4710, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. by June 2. Seating will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

umbrellas to unveil the school's new historical marker.

Then they released the balloons. The balloons were meant to symbolize the soaring spirit of the Children's Home. They drifted to the pavement and sat there. Squee-pop! A car ran over one.

Gandelot had a technical explanation for the failure. "It didn't work," she said.

Remember Lisa, "It isn't raining rain, you know, its raining violets."

Who was he?

The front page photo two weeks ago of George Nichols, a senior at North High School, pounding massive quantities of ice cream was nice, but it lacked something in the outline.

Seems William Obeid, a freshman at North, sneaked into the picture. We were taking a picture of George, and didn't notice Bill at the time. Couldn't identify him, until his mother, Belinda, dropped off an advertisement and mentioned, that yes, that was her son.

Not just another pretty vase

Among the items pictured in the Channel 56 auction catalogue is a stoneware vase by Gene N. Pluhar, art teacher at South High School. He donated the 25-inch x 8-inch vase, valued at $250, to the station for its annual auction.

The fact that it was selected as one of the items to be photographed and featured in the catalogue is an added compliment to the artist.

Nice work, Teacher. Hope your piece brings in some big apples to the station's coffers.

ULS to present original musical

The worn trunk at center stage belongs to the Storyteller. He has been forgotten in modern days and he knows it. He will try just one more time to pass on tradition and legend to one more generation. In his words, "Once Upon A Nation" isn't America the Democracy, or America the Ideal, or even America the Nation — it's America the Story.

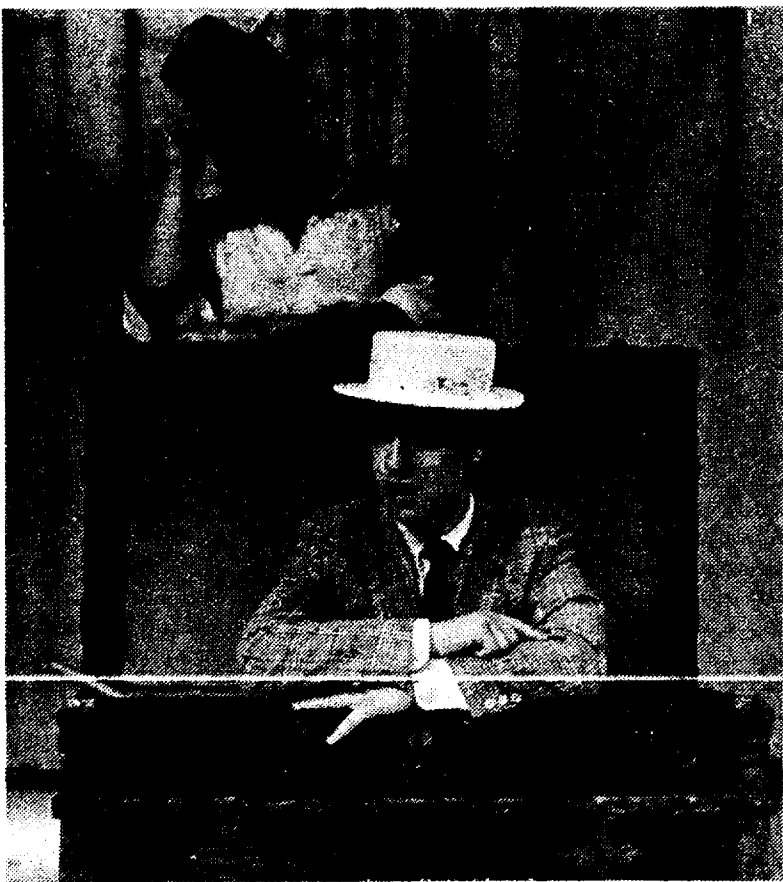

This original musical is written, performed, directed and musically arranged by University Liggett students. The process began with a time line on which teachers and students were asked to write the titles of their favorite works of literature, music, drama and art.

Condensed, the time line formed the outline of the show. Taped improvisations and rewriting brought the script into its final form, leaving the rest to the cast of nine.

It will be performed on Friday and Saturday, May 23 and 24, at 8 p.m. Call 884-4444 for further information.

Conquest

William Walker, a soldier of fortune from Tennessee, made himself president of Nicaragua in 1856, but was thrown out by armies from other Central American nations soon afterwards, says National Geographic.

John Hammond, top, and Chris Nesi are two of the nine performers in University Liggett's 'Once Upon A Nation' that will be presented Friday and Saturday, May 23 and 24.

$6 million budget adds Farms police

By Nancy Parmenter

The Farms council adopted a $6.2 million budget at the May 19 council meeting. One resident appeared at the public hearing to protest high taxes.

The budget is up from $5.9 million last year. Most of the increase resulted from a council decision last winter to add two police officers for traffic control.

"Their salaries — plus cars and equipment — account for the bulk of the increase," city Comptroller Carol Lock said earlier Monday.

Although the city's tax take will be up nearly $175,000 over last year, the tax rate has actually gone down. The rate last year was 12.85 mills; this year it is down to 12.85. However, property values have increased and property assessments with them, Lock said.

Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Fromm praised the city for its successful operation during the last year. "We're improving the security and appearance of the Pier Park entrance, we're repairing the harbor (from damage caused by high water), we've... bought new sidewalk snowplows, razed Kerby School... and with all that, we still had a surplus to carry over to this year," he said. The surplus of $757,000 is budgeted to be spent this year.

The biggest question mark in the budget continues to be insurance. Blue Cross is budgeted to each department, but despite predictions of increases, the city has yet to see the bill, Lock said.

Other insurance, including fleet, general liability and workers' compensation, will run the city about $250,000 for less coverage than it had last year. The cost of liability insurance has been an ongoing concern, Lock said, but so far, the cost has not forced the city to make cuts in any areas other than insurance coverage.

Federal revenue sharing is also a question mark. In previous years, the Farms normally received about $40,000, Lock said, but "this year we don't know what we'll get. We don't like to be vulnerable to the whims of other organizations," Lock said he anticipates about $10,000, but that the city will not have a financial problem if it fails to materialize.

The budget also includes $400,000 in a public improvements reserve fund, set aside for equipment purchases and street paving. Lock said the fund covers items like the current paving project at the city hall parking lot.

"It's not a revolutionary budget," Lock said. "It's an evolutionary budget."

Vandals damage new house

Vandalism May 12 in a house under construction at Newberry Place did extensive damage to both the interior and exterior of the house, Farms police reports stated.

Double doors leading to the family room were forced, damaging the door and its deadbolt lock. Once inside, the vandals found cans of paint and paint pigment, which they threw and poured around the house.

The worst damage was apparently done when white and blue paints were poured over a window, leaking out and running down the exterior brick. The wind fanned the dripping paint across the two-story wall, police said.

Paint was thrown or poured on walls, countertops and floors, according to the report. Obscene words were painted on the countertop in the kitchen, and a large can of paint was poured into the second-story bathtub.

No financial estimate of the damage was provided to police, who continue to investigate the case.

Woods goes Hollywood

Last week a quiet stretch of South Rosedale in the Woods was turned into a Hollywood backlot as a hundred or so technicians and actors — complete with movie equipment — descended on the home of Tony and Carol Alfonsi.

The Alfonsis, owner of Little Tony's in the Woods Lounge, agreed to have their home used as the location for a scene from the film, "The Rosary Murders."

Carol Alfonsi said her house was selected after a local Realtor gave their address and the addresses of four other homes to the moviemakers. Their home had just the right foyer for the scenes to be shot.

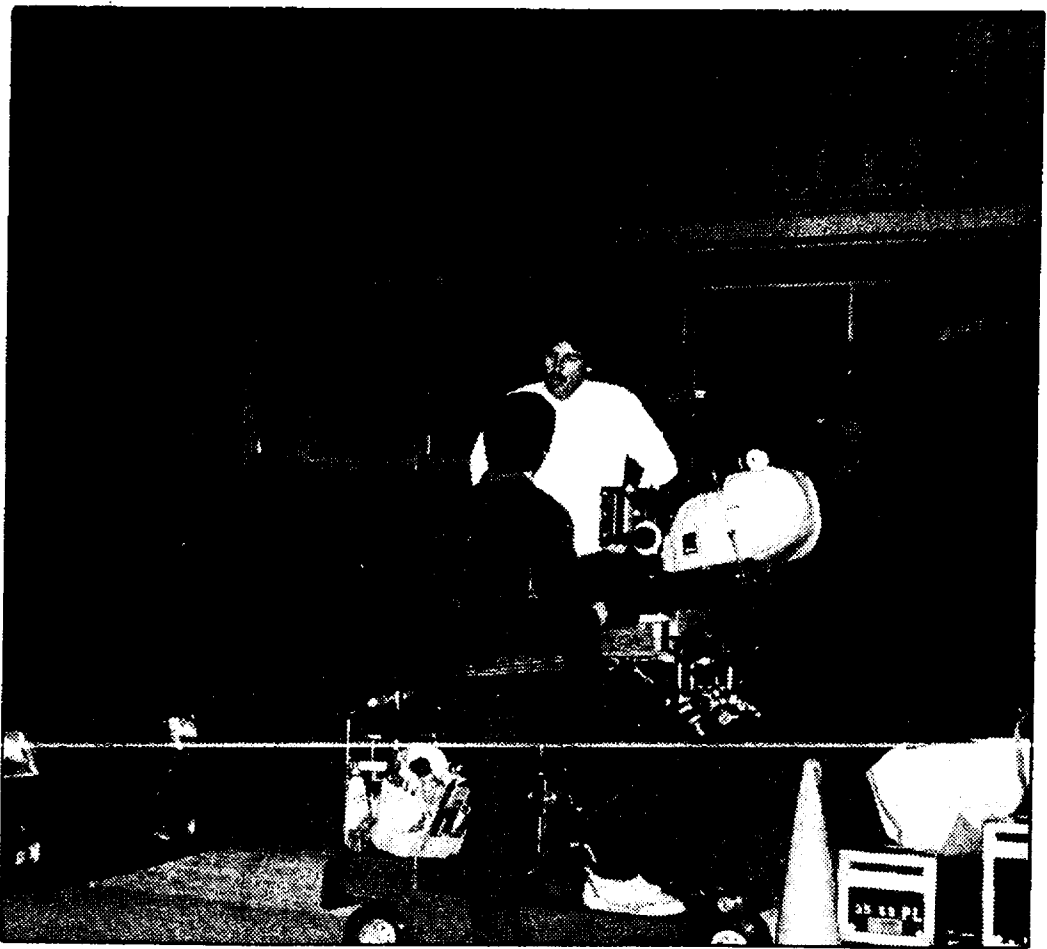

Donald Sutherland portrays Father Koesler, the lead character in the movie, opposite Charles Durning, who also plays a priest.

Tony Alfonsi, said the scene shot at his home did not include either star, but is used as the home of Robert Heller, who portrays the editor of a major Detroit daily newspaper. The scene also includes a female reporter who arrives at the editor's home.

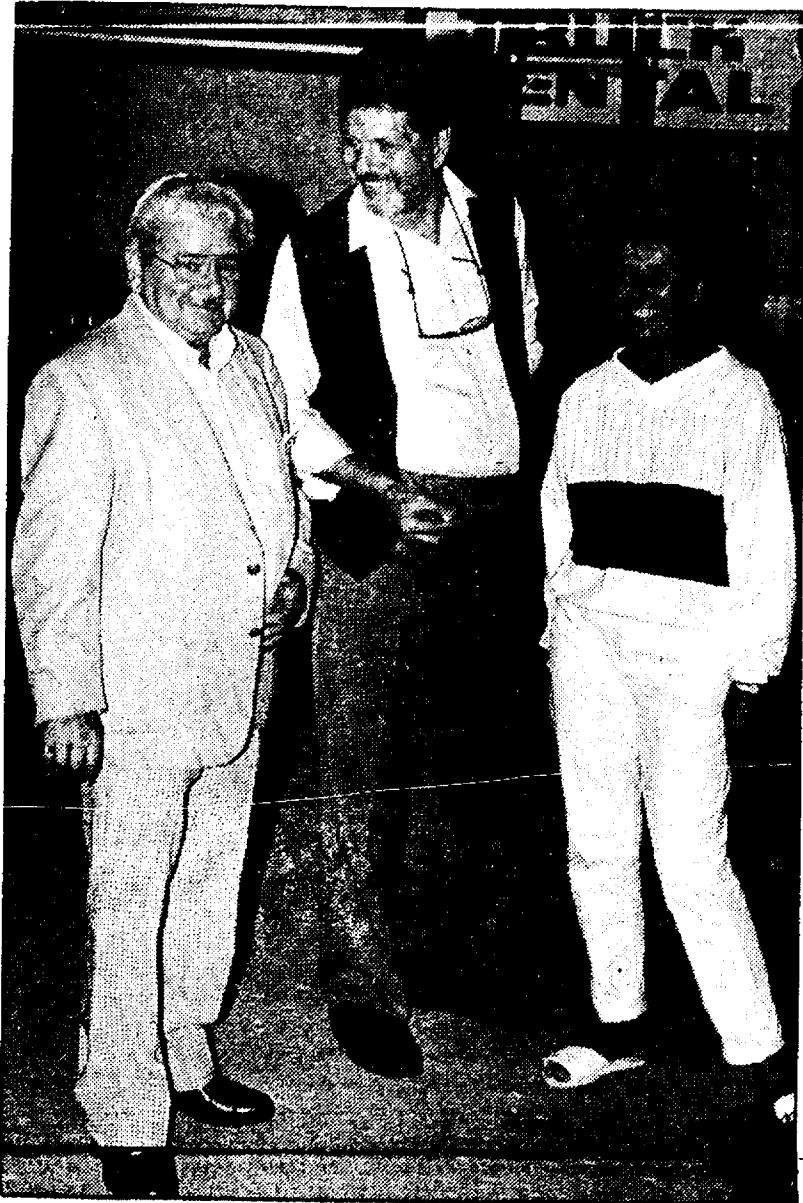

The Alfonsis were more than excited about having their home in a major motion picture. The couple and their children invited friends and relatives over for the evening and neighbors came out of nearby houses to witness the scene being shot.

The Alfonsis were paid for having their house used in the movie, and delays forced another day of shooting.

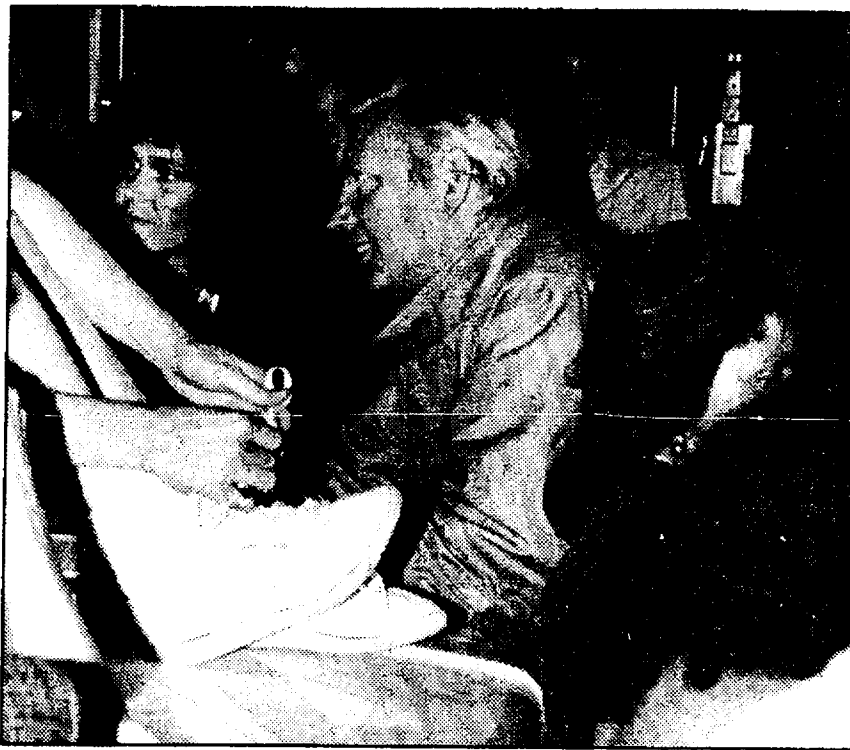

"This is great," Carol Alfonsi said. "We would have done this for nothing."

Camera men discuss a shot for the film. The car, an Escort GT, and the house on South Rosedale, in the background, will both appear in the movie.

Tony Alfonsi, left, and wife, Carol, pose with actor Robert Heller, who portrays a Detroit newspaper editor who lives at the Alfonsi home for the movie, "The Rosary Murders."

Although he was not in the scene shot at the Alfonsi home in the Woods, actor Donald Sutherland was on hand for the night filming.

High schools add reading program

Grosse Pointe freshmen who have trouble reading will find a new program in place next school year to help them.

Money has been allocated in the budget for next year to hire a reading clinician who will work half-time at each high school in a pilot program for students who are working hard at reading, but are frustrated by their progress, according to North's English department chairman Robert Reimer.

The program will have the reading clinician working with students during study halls during the first semester of the school year, identifying the problem each student has in reading and working to correct it. The student will remain in his or her regular classroom.

In the second semester, the reading clinician, with the help of an Introduction to English teacher, will identify those students most in need of help and work with them to apply the lessons from the first semester to the second semester English curriculum.

The program is meant as a support program for the first semester, but switches to application of the curriculum during the second, Reimer said.

Next year's alternative education program is meant as a pilot. Should it work, it could become cross-disciplinary in the coming years, with students receiving help in social studies and mathematics as well as in English, according to school officials.

The new program replaces the alternative education program at North and the core curriculum program at South, which had come under attack this year as not doing what they were supposed to do. A committee of administrators and teachers looked at the two programs and developed the new reading clinician class.

The reading clinician is a specialist in reading, Reimer said. The person will be able to determine what needs to be done to help a student and can work quickly to make those adjustments.

Coping with flooding

The Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service is offering a handbook to help homeowners contend with rising Great Lake levels and coastal flooding in southeastern Michigan and Saginaw Bay.

District Extension Sea Grant agent Steve Stewart and Macomb County Extension home economist Marilyn Rudzinski compiled the 50-page collection of tips on preparing for high lake levels, coastal flooding, survival and home clean-up.

The handbook covers 65 topics ranging from designing and building sandbag dikes, preparing to evacuate and helping children to prepare for an emergency, deciding which furniture to salvage, and supplies and equipment for home cleanup, to restoring electrical service after a flood and drying books and family papers.

It also contains information about national flood insurance, emergency home flood protection and emergency home relocation programs. Sources for additional information are also listed.

The handbook is available from the Cooperative Extension Service offices in Macomb, St. Clair, Wayne, Monroe and Bay counties.

The Michigan Sea Grant College Program is a cooperative effort of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University.

Volunteers sought

The Michigan Cancer Foundation is recruiting volunteers to serve as in-home companions to cancer patients in their own community to expand the services offered by the Home Care Program.

Qualified volunteers should be emotionally mature, sensitive to other people's needs and have good communication skills. Adequate transportation to serve the cancer patients in their local community is necessary.

Volunteers will go into the home to offer companionship, assistance with activities of daily living, respite care and help with shopping or errands.

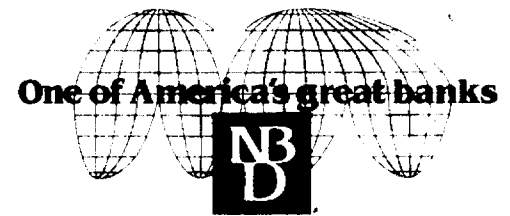

The training program, which begins in May, will include information about cancer and home care skills, communication and listening skills, spiritual, legal aspects and bereavement follow-up.

For more information, contact the program coordinator, Carol Munsell, at 833-0710, ext. 206 or 291.

ROTC rebuilding, gaining advocates

By Pat Paholsky

For some people, ROTC means high school and college students in military uniforms learning how to march. For those who are in the program, it's a career choice. And then there's another generation who never heard of it.

One of the casualties of the Vietnam aftermath, the Reserve Officers' Training Corps in some cases disappeared from high school and college campuses when the mood of the country became anti-military, but the program is on the rebound — a very strong rebound, according to the officer in charge of the Detroit Metropolitan ROTC — in this area as well as throughout the rest of the country.

Lt. Col. Mitchell E. Bonnett, a professor of military science at the University of Detroit, says more than 100 college students are enrolled in the program there. They come from schools throughout the metropolitan area — Wayne State University, Madonna, Mercy College, Lawrence Institute of Technology, Oakland University and a number of community colleges, he said.

"From a programmatic standpoint, if a person is interested in a military career, this is the way to do it," Bonnet said. "All cadets receive some sort of money and there's lots of benefits the army provides."

As one example, Bonnett said two cadets are currently in the Wayne State medical school, with the U.S. Army paying for their tuition and giving them each $600 a month besides.

Only a few select individuals have the opportunity to attend one of the service academies, said Bonnett, who is a West Point graduate, adding that ROTC offers a comparable experience. In fact, about 70 percent of the officers in the army completed ROTC, with about 20 percent from the service academies and the rest from Officers Candidate School and other sources.

A student who completes the program and is commissioned as an officer agrees to serve for a certain length of time, depending on the army's investment. A student who earns a bachelor's degree with an ROTC scholarship is required to serve from two to four years active duty and four to six years in the reserves, for a total obligation of eight years. A non-scholarship graduate may spend three to six months attending an officers basic course and the remainder of his or her eight-year obligation in the Reserves, enabling the person, in effect, to have two careers.

And that's the goal of Rebecca Forton of Grosse Pointe Park who is working for a bachelor of arts degree in psychology at Wayne State and has one more year in the ROTC program at U of D. She plans to go for a master's degree in psychology or recreational therapy. Her goal is to work in the civilian world with the mentally handicapped. At the same time, she plans to have another career serving in the National Guard.

"As a female, you always have this to fall back on," she said. "You don't have to give it up if you want a family."

She explained that a woman who wanted to stay home with her child could opt to serve two days out of each month and spend two weeks a year at camp and still earn about $5,000, depending on rank.

"They keep sending you to schools and it's something you can always progress at," she said.

Forton, who is a volunteer with the Foundation for Exceptional Children, first became interested in working with handicapped children when she was a student at South High. "I used to volunteer at Brownell and I really enjoyed that," she said.

Forton, who will be 23 in July, has served in the National Guard and already has 35 months of service to her credit. When she joined in 1983, she went through normal basic training and was recommended for West Point prep school, which candidates attend for a year and are then able to enter the academy without an appointment.

"I turned it down because I thought I was too old and I had too much invested in college — 2½ years — so I looked at the various programs. After looking at ROTC and OCS (Officer Candidate School), I decided ROTC offered more."

The 1981 South graduate, who was president of the theater guild in her senior year, said she feels ROTC is a good program.

"It gives you quite a bit of money for school, it looks good on your resume and it's sort of a social fraternity. There's a lot of camaraderie. The military always stresses the buddy system."

"The adventures training is thrilling," she added. "I could never say I would have gone rappelling or picked up a machine gun."

She is the daughter of Jean and Richard Forton.

Another South graduate, Wolfgang Petermann, also of the Park, has mapped out a 10-year plan after he earns a degree in political science at Wayne State in two years. He plans to serve on active duty for eight years in military intelligence, advancing to a position at an embassy or as a military attaché. Then he wants to get a job with the state department in the foreign service.

Petermann, who speaks German, is studying Russian now and plans to learn Spanish next.

The 1983 South graduate, who enjoys water skiing, snow skiing and hiking, just learned he is the recipient of a two-year ROTC scholarship. It will pay for his tuition and books and also give him $100 a month.

Some of the program's advantages, he says, are that it teaches management and leadership skills and goal accomplishment.

He visits his mother Annelisa, who lives in Germany, about once a year. Besides his father Claus who lives in the Park, he has a brother in graduate school at University of Michigan and a sister living in Denver.

Fred Spencer

Rebecca Forton

Fred Spencer of Grosse Pointe Woods learned about ROTC through some of his friends who were in the program. He will be commissioned as a second lieutenant shortly and he plans to serve in the National Guard part-time.

Spencer will earn a bachelor of science in psychology next year and then he plans to work toward another bachelor's degree, one in computer science.

The 1983 North graduate, who was a member of the cross country team, said that in addition to the 14 credit hours he carried at Wayne State this past semester, he spent eight to 10 hours a week in ROTC, because he's "always volunteering. I'm an extracurricular type of person," he said.

He is the son of Frederick S. Spencer of Detroit and Rose S. Spencer of the Woods.

"The good thing about ROTC is it makes you a well-rounded officer, because you get a degree and you're out in the real world at the same time," he said.

Judge is art winner

Kathleen Judge of Grosse Pointe Park, a student at South High School, has won an honorable mention in the 13th Congressional District art competition.

Awards were presented at a reception hosted by Rep. George W. Crockett Jr. at the Omni Hotel atrium. Judge won a $50 savings bond for her abstract watercolor. All participants in the competition received Congressional Arts Caucus certificates.

Nearly 40 men and women attended the Service League luncheon at the War Memorial during National Volunteers Week, including, lower left, clockwise, Grace Miles, Doris Erickson, Mary Ann Draper, Mary Jane Rousseau, Nancy Heenan, Patti Merritt and Ollie Burns.

Service League volunteers honored

National Volunteer Week was celebrated at the War Memorial at a luncheon to honor the members of the Service League who have donated at least 20 hours of service to the center in the past year.

After a lunch of Maurice salad and millionaire's pie, the group was thanked by Executive Director Mark Weber, who noted the importance of volunteers as a vital and energetic force in providing for the needs of the center and the community.

Jan Arndt, director of programming, presented corsages to committee chairpersons Irene Blatchford of the Docent Committee, Ruth McNamara, clerical, Nancy Heenan, House Committee, and Harriette Slowin, Tapestry Restoration. Paula Galvin, chairperson for the Host/Hostess Committee, was unable to attend the luncheon.

For information on membership in the War Memorial's Service League, call 881-7511.

High schools will add attendance help

Skipping classes undetected may not be as easy next year for high school students if provisions in next year's school budget remain after the June 2 public hearing. Provisions call for hiring a five para-professionals to aid in attendance overseeing.

Four of the five staff to be added — costing about $45,000 — will be assigned to assist principals at the high schools and give them a better chance of getting to students who take unexcused absences for single periods or entire school days.

Skipping has been considered a problem for years at the high schools, according to Secondary Curriculum Director Robert Welch. While not serious when compared to the problem in other districts, the local system has worked to develop a more sophisticated attendance system to help monitor the activities of students.

Through the budget process, the system has been trying to get a better handle on attendance, Welch said. The schools need to be able to quickly inform parents of a student's unexcused absence. Discovering a student skipped a class period a week late isn't much good, he added.

The system has been depending on the county intermediate school district's computer to help it with attendance, Welch said. The ISD system has been up and down, and attendance doesn't take priority over other computer activities.

The district is meeting with the county to discuss the use of the ISD's computer system, according to Superintendent John Whritner.

The district is working to develop an in-house computer program that will help it monitor attendance, Welch said.

The para-professionals at the high schools will have varied duties, because assistant principals to whom they are assigned have varied responsibilities under the administrative set-up at each school, according to school officials. Another para-professional will fill a half-time position at each school to help with student activity work.

Also being added at the high schools will be a director of guidance who will work half-time at each school and report directly to the building principal, according to Whritner. The directorship is something that's been needed for some time to help give a clearer direction to the guidance departments, he added.

The system is looking at the program as a pilot. Whritner said. Should it work, there may be a Request to sometime in the future make the position full-time at both high schools, he added.

The director of guidance, while not seeing students directly, will be able to handle much of the college placement and liaison work now done by other counselors, according to school officials. That should free up counselors' time for other duties.

Bologna building passes last hurdle

By Nancy Parmenter

With the final touches approved by the Farms council, the Bologna-Standard Federal Building has passed all the obstacles to construction. Developer Peter Bologna is promising a June 25 groundbreaking.

Bologna appeared at the May 19 council meeting to gain permission to exceed the height limitation by eight inches. Although the second story of his building is nearly two feet below the maximum height, gables and a skylight will protrude above the building line and crash the 39 foot, six inch height barrier.

"The whole purpose was to make them important, substantial-looking," said the representative of architect Neumann-Greager & Assoc. "They have no other function."

Mayor Pro-Tem Joseph Fromm expressed discomfort at granting a variance for aesthetic reasons. Bologna said that changing the plans now would be a hardship resulting in a construction delay.

Bologna has been coy about prospective leases in the building. He would release no details Monday. "We're close to signing up a national retailing chain," he told council. "I wish I could make an announcement, but it's too early."

The variance is the fourth granted to Bologna for the building. Two of the previous variances have been for height. One reduced the parking requirement.

District appoints election workers

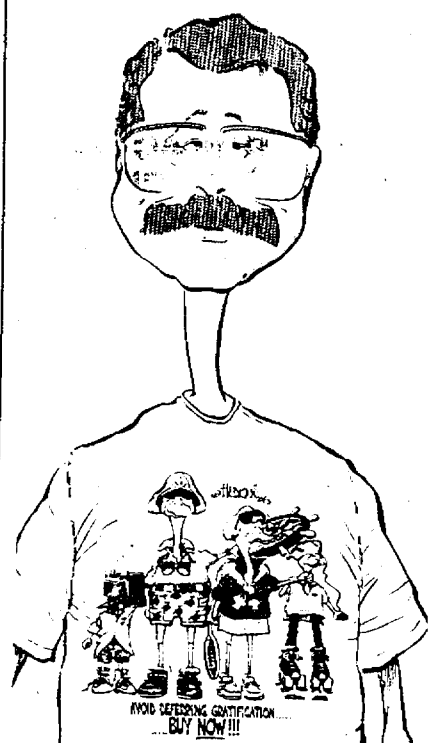

The Board of Education May 12 hired 33 election workers and eight alternates for precinct duties during the June 9 election.

At least four workers will be assigned to each of the six precincts for the election. Precincts in the Farms and Park will have five workers. The Woods will have nine.

The law requires that three workers be on duty at all times, according to Director of Personnel and Labor Relations Ronald Tonks. At smaller precincts, like the City, Shores and Harper Woods, the extra worker will fill in during breaks to maintain the mandated staffing, he added.

Because this is a school election, Woods voters will vote at Parcels Middle School, Farms voters at Brownell Middle School, City electors at Maire Elementary School, Park voters at Pierce Middle School, Shores voters at Vernier School, and Harper Woods voters will vote at Poupard Elementary School.

music for the ceremony. Color Guards from the Armed Forces, the Southeastern High School R.O.T.C., local scouting units and veterans organizations will be presented.

In case of rain or cold weather, the ceremony will be held in the council chambers at the Woods City Hall.

Band concert

Grosse Pointe high schools will present their Annual October Band Concert and Ice Cream Social on Thursday, May 29, at 7 p.m. on South's front lawn.

Both North and South bands will present their own selections during the first half of the concert. Following intermission, more than 200 students from both schools will perform National Emblem March, selections from The Music Man, Manhattan Beach March, and Bricusse and Newley on Broadway.

The concert is free, and will be held in the South gymnasium in the event of inclement weather.

Take a balloon ride this summer

The War Memorial will sponsor hot air balloon rides Fridays, June 6 (rain date June 20), June 27 (rain date July 11) or July 18 (rain date Aug. 1). All flights will depart from the Rochester flight area at 6:30 p.m. and will be piloted by an FAA licensed commercial balloon pilot.

Included in the $100 per person fee will be champagne and a souvenir pin. There will be no refunds. For personal safety, participants must be free from physical disabilities.

Flights will be subject to wind and weather conditions. A map to the flight area will be provided at the time of reservation. For additional information, call 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Car wash

To raise funds for the Neighborhood Club Teen Center, a group of young people will wash cars Sunday, May 25, from 1 to 5 p.m. in the parking lot. If it rains, the car wash will be held Monday, May 26. Cars are $2 and vans, $3.

Ice cream social

Michelle Schmitzerle and Patty Dallas, third-graders at Montith Elementary School, display two of the winning posters for the annual Ice Cream Social that will be held Thursday, May 29, from 5 to 8 p.m. More than 150 posters were submitted; 19 won first place stickers with coupons for free sundaes, 18 won honorable mention. There will be live entertainment, a drawing, games and a cake walk. Admission is free. The school is located at 1275 Cook Road in Grosse Pointe Woods.

North senior wins scholarship

Jennifer Patterson of Grosse Pointe Woods was recently chosen to receive a Presidential Scholarship from Mercy College of Detroit.

Patterson will graduate from Grosse Pointe North High School in June and plans to study nursing at Mercy. She has participated in Powder Puff Football, Campus Life, Focus: Hope and is active in several church groups.

Scholarship recipients were chosen on the basis of their grade point average and ACT scores. The scholarship is renewable for three years.

Mercy College is a co-ed liberal arts college that offers degrees in 50 programs of study.

Marsden, Morgan tops in business

Two students from North and one from South participated in the national Office Education Conference and Competition held in Columbus, Ohio over the weekend of April 25.

Tom Marsden, a junior at North, placed second in the nation in Accounting and Related II. Julie Morgan, a junior at South, placed in the top 10 in the nation in Receptionist II. Stephanie Harrington represented both high schools as a voting delegate, voting for the national officers for the 1986-87 school year.

Participating in the event were 2,200 students and advisors from as far away as Alaska. In addition to Grosse Pointe producing two winners, the state of Michigan took the most honors in the total program. Along with the competitions, the students also participated in leadership and career workshops.

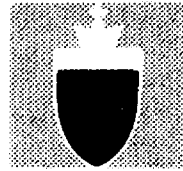

The students' advisers are Karen Clein and Andre Bechen.

Local teams place in tournament

Teams from Our Lady Star of the Sea and Grosse Pointe South high schools were among the eight semifinalists in the 1986 Michigan High School Mock Trial Tournament held in the Detroit City-County Building May 10.

Twenty-nine teams from around the state participated in the tournament sponsored by the University of Detroit School of Law and the Detroit Street Law Project of Wayne County Neighborhood Legal Services. The event was won by teams from Troy and Plymouth.

Star of the Sea was participating in the tournament for the first time. South was the first-place winner in 1984.

The tournament required the students to play the roles of lawyers and witnesses in a mock trial while actual judges and lawyers served as judges.

South's team was coached by debate coach Marjorie Dorman and attorney Mary Ball. Members were Anne Young, Brian Kelly, Eric Garr, Barbara Cho, Benjamin Hein, Marjorie Jacobson and Brian Wilson.

Star's team was coached by Detroit attorney Deborah Fish. Team members were Anne Caste, Sarah Langlois, Helen Bellanca, Roseanne Campbell, Jennifer Bourgoin and Kate Kennedy.

Lawn edger clips Park fire fighter

A Grosse Pointe Park fire department sergeant was injured Friday morning, May 16, by a lawn edger. Sgt. Anthony LaBonty, 53, was edging the lawn at city hall when the blade came loose from the edger, ricocheted off a nearby wall and struck him in the right forearm. Paramedics helped clean the wound and applied a dressing. LaBonty was taken to Bon Secours Hospital for further treatment and was released later that day.

Free skin cancer exams offered

The Michigan Dermatological Society, in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, will conduct free skin cancer screening examinations at various locations Wednesday, May 28. The site locally is the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo and exams will be given from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Screening programs are scheduled throughout the Tri-County area. For more information about other free examination sites, call the Skin Cancer Hotline at 557-2722, between 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Participants in the program will be given a painless, visual examination of exposed skin areas by local dermatologists — medical doctors specializing in prevention, diagnosis and treatment of skin problems, including cancer. Free brochures will also be available. Skin Cancer Detection and Prevention Day is part of National Older Americans Melanoma/Skin Cancer Detection and Prevention Week, which runs from May 26-June 1. All people, regardless of age, are encouraged to participate.

Special fitness program offered

There will be a special fitness program offered at Assumption Cultural Center Friday, May 30, at 6 p.m. The evening will include a Kalosomatic workout and merchants who will display and demonstrate equipment and athletic apparel as well as hair fashion. Dinner will be served.

The program will feature Dr. Lawrence Power and Dr. Charles Lucas who will discuss weight loss and how to keep it off.

Register before May 28 by calling 779-6111. The fee is $12 for the entire evening and $8 for the dinner and program only. The center is located at 21800 Marter Road, St. Clair Shores.

The Christ Church Grosse Pointe Antiques Show

May 30, 31, and June 1, 1986

A Benefit for the Christ Church Grosse Pointe

By Elsa Frohman

"Antique dealers have to be some of the friendliest people," said Susie McMillan, co-chairman with Wendy Jennings of the Christ Church Antique Show. The second annual show, benefitting the choirs of the church, will be held May 30, 31 and June 1 in the gymnasium of Grosse Pointe South High School.

McMillan and Jennings established the show last year, raising money that helped the Christ Church Boys' Choir make a tour of England and France, singing in some of the finest cathedrals in the world.

Next year, the Christ Church Girls' Choir hopes to make a trip.

"We hope to have a trip every other year," McMillan said. "This year's show and next year's will pay for the girls' trip."

The choir trips are a great honor and indicate the caliber of the singing groups and their director, Fred DeHaven.

"Mr DeHaven is very demanding," said McMillan, mother of a Christ Church choirboy. "This (the trips) is an incentive."

"It's a lot of work," Jennings added. "It takes away from other things the children do, like Little League."

McMillan came up with the idea for an antique show last year because many people have commented over the years that Grosse Pointe needs a show.

"Liggett had a show for about 15 years," McMillan said. "Then they dropped it and there was no antique show in the Pointes for about five years. In other years we've had rummage sales. But there were rumblings that there ought to be an antique show. My son is a choirboy and I love antiques."

"I'm not a parent, but my husband was a choirboy, once," Jennings added.

Jennings brought some special expertise to the antique show project. Before the issue of a show even came up, she had been working on a book about "Where To Antique in Southeastern Michigan."

"I had the research done," she said. "We just didn't put it together." Jennings was working on the project with two other women. "They were full-time mothers and I had a full-time job," she said. "It's still on the back burner."

Once they decided to put on an antique show, the first problem to be solved was when to have it.

"We had to find a time that would be good for the community and the dealers," Jennings said. "We had to Wendy Jennings, left, and Susie McMillan discuss their plans for the Christ Church Antique Show to be held May 30, 31 and June 1, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. The Friday night hours choose a date when there weren't any other shows, there was no graduation going on and the school wasn't using the gym."

The last weekend of May was selected and many of the dealers who came last year are now planning on making the Grosse Pointe show a regular stop on their tours.

With a date selected, the pair needed to invite a wide variety of dealers.

"We knew how we wanted the show to look," Jennings said. "Not all country, or all glass, or all expensive pieces."

"We wanted a wide range, some pieces expensive and some not so," McMillan added. "We wanted a nice show, but not like a museum."

The show will feature 39 dealers this year. Many are putting aside special items for the Grosse Pointe show. Many are from out of state and from distant parts of the state.

"Many of them don't have that many Michigan shows," Jennings said.

"They gear their merchandise to Grosse Pointe," McMillan said. "They change their mix of items for the market. People here like small collectibles, brass and porcelain. Many of the dealers have been saving items to bring to our show."

"But don't think that they raise their prices because they are coming to Grosse Pointe," Jennings said.

"Many of these prices are negotiable, maybe not on preview night, but come Sunday..." McMillan said.

Preview night is one of the highlights of the event. On Friday evening, there will be champagne supper for patrons. After a sumptuous cocktail buffet at the church, patrons will get first crack at all the best items in the will be a special preview for Silver and Gold Angel patrons. The show will raise money for the Christ Church Grosse Pointe Choirs.

There are two levels of patronage. Gold Angels pay $50 per person and get first admission to the show at 7 p.m. Silver Angels pay $25 per person and get second admission to the show at 7:30 p.m. All patrons have admission to the remainder of the show.

Throughout the show, food will be available in the undercroft of the church. Lunch will be served from noon to 2 p.m. on Saturday, and from 3 to 5 p.m. the undercroft will be transformed into an English tea room. Members of the Girls' Choir will be waitressing in the tea room.

"There will be a limited menu," McMillan said. "There will be scones, homemade jam and whipped cream." Along with a pot of tea, of course. There will be lemonade for the children.

Last year, many visitors to the show requested tours of the church. Unfortunately, the church was locked during the show. This year, to accommodate those who would like to see more of Christ Church Grosse Pointe, there will be regular tours at 1:30, 3 and 4:30 p.m. Marilyn Gilbert, a docent at the Detroit Institute of Arts will be the guide.

"There will also be gourmet bag lunches available at the school," McMillan said. "If it is a nice day, there will be picnic tables outside."

On Sunday, there will be an "After Church Lunch." Invitations have been sent to many other churches in the area. For $10, visitors will receive lunch, admission to the show and a complimentary glass of wine.

Another feature of the show will be a plant and herb sale. There will be herbs, herb recipes, miniature roses, herb baskets and a garden plants for sale.

Admission to the show is $3.

Grosse Pointe is the land of garden clubs

Did you know that there are more garden clubs in Grosse Pointe than in any other community in this country with the single exception of Stanford, Conn.?

This fascinating fact comes from Starr Hammen (whose sister-in-law's sister lives in Stanford), and who heads the Grosse Pointe Bonsai Association, affiliated with the Grosse Pointe Garden Center, as well as Bonasi Clubs International, the largest such group in the western world.

Bonsai is important at the Garden Center. The meeting held today, May 22, at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial will feature "Pines in Bonsai" with a demonstration and sale. All bonsai enthusiasts are cordially invited to join this group. Inquire at the Garden Center, located on the second floor of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

This week is planting time in the Trial Gardens on the lake side of the War Memorial. This year is the 33rd year that the Garden Clubs of Grosse Pointe who are members of the Garden Center are setting out seedlings and planting seeds in the wheel-shaped garden designed by famed landscape architect Eleanor Roche, centered by the original millstone from the 18th century gristmill located on the point of land which is now Windmill Pointe.

The gardens are supported by the DePetris Fund, established in 1979 in honor of Vincent DePetris, a world famous hybridizer of chrysanthemums, a landscape designer, florist and gardener, every aspect of their use in the and one of the founders of the Grosse Pointe Garden Center. Through community contributions to the DePetris Fund, more than $30,000 was raised for support of the Trial Gardens.

For the past 33 years the Trial Gardens have been the focal point of gardeners' activities in the Pointes.

This year a new feature will be added when a wildflower garden is planted under the flowering crab trees adjacent to the wheel-shaped plots. Members of the various garden clubs are indefatigable all through the summer in their care of the gardens, with the expert professional assistance of Robert Neveux, landscaper and member of the Men's Garden Club. Doris Woerner is this year's chairperson for the gardens, which have as their theme "A Palette of Color" with each plot displaying a different hue to complete the color wheel.

Incidentally, did you know violets contain more vitamin C than oranges, and that the leaves as well as the flowers can be an interesting addition to a salad? As the summer progresses some flower recipes will make their appearance in this column from time to time, coinciding with the new fashion for flower cookery.

Of course considering the idea of cooking with flowers leads one to think of herbs — and perhaps plan a visit to the beautiful Herb Garden maintained by the Grosse Pointe Unit of the Herb Society of America on the grounds of the Grosse Pointe Academy.

The library at the Garden Center contains a lovely collection of books on herbs and covers designer, florist and gardener, many volumes and the variety of pamphlets and publications including the Herb Society Newsletter, "Scent in Thyme."

"A Day With Herbs" is planned for Friday, June 6, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the War Memorial when the Grosse Pointe Garden Center hosts its annual membership party under the capable direction of Dottie Westfall and Kay Melick, both members of the Garden Center's Board of Trustees. Herbs will be largely featured in the food and punch and the color and scent of lavender will be all pervading. Reservations may be made by calling the Garden Center Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Question of the Week: Why have my hydrangeas failed to bloom for the past two years?

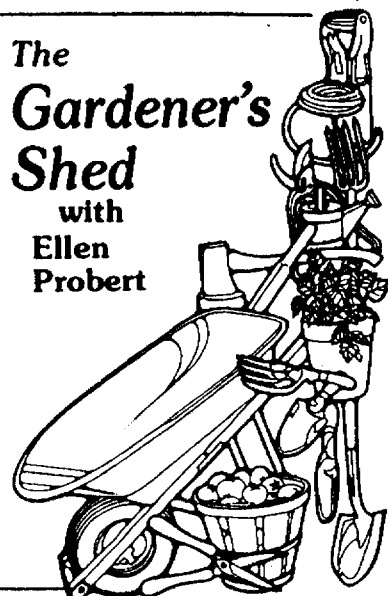

Answer: Hydrangeas produce their main flower clusters from the tips of shoots formed the previous season. If anything destroys the terminal buds of those shoots the plants usually fail to bloom, although a few varieties will develop side growths that bloom the first season from some little distance beneath the terminal buds should the latter be destroyed.

The chief causes of destruction of the terminal buds are winter cold and improper pruning. Plants should be in sheltered locations and wrapped in burlap in the winter. Pruning should be done in summer as soon as the flowering season is over.

Never prune hydrangeas in late fall, winter or spring if you want them to flower.

Remove all old flowering shoots down to a point on the stem from which strong new growths are developing. Retain the new shoots that appear from the base of the plant and from the lower parts of the old stems, which are the shoots that may be expected to bloom the following year.

The Gardener's Shed with Ellen Probert

Spring Flora

The Annual reports are out. The Early Proxy lifts its head. We push the printed leaves aside. And see, with fast declining pride, The Balance burgeoning with red.

But wealth we buried in the ground, forgot about, and left unseen, Returns our interest many fold: The Crocuses are lined with gold, The Jonquil spikes are long and green.

The 1986 Summer Garden Tour, sponsored by the Grosse Pointe Garden Club Council will be held on June 20, 21 and 22, 1-5 p.m., rain or shine. Seven locations are included on this year's tour, including the Grosse Pointe Rose Society Show at the Neighborhood Club, the Art Gallery at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial and five private gardens in the Pointes. Tickets are $5. For more information, call one of the following numbers: 884-0966, 881-7988, 884-2775, 886-2096, 886-9327, 886-4692, 774-5252.

Flower sale set at St. Paul's

The annual Teacher Parent Guild St. Paul School Flower Sale will take place May 22 and 23 on the school's front lawn on Grosse Pointe Boulevard in Grosse Pointe Farms. In event of rain, the event will be held under cover on the porch behind the school.

Sales will be made on Thursday, May 22, from 6 to 8 p.m., and on Friday, May 23, beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Pewabic plans a Spring Party

The board of trustees of the Pewabic Society will host "A Spring Party" on Friday, May 30, at the Pewabic Pottery, 10125 East Jefferson. The charge is $35 per person.

Running from 5 to 9 p.m., the party will feature cocktails, buffet and entertainment. Guests will be able to tour the gallery and may donate tiles with their names on them for the new floor which will be installed in the historic Jefferson Avenue studio.

The buffet will include dishes donated by leading local restaurants and gourmet chefs. The California-style pizza from Sparky Herbert's, baked on-site in the Pottery's own brick kilns, has won fans at previous Spring Parties and has come to be known, variously, as "Nouvelle Kilnsine" or "Pewabic Pizza." Elegant salads, cheeses and desserts come from Cafe le Chat, The Lark, The Money Tree, Traffic Jam and Van Dyke Place. Individual chefs include Marge Gilles, Dorothy Karpus, Mary Smart, Gayle Camden, Everything from alyssum and ageratum to impatiens, petunias and snapdragons will be on sale. Forty-eight-plant flats are $10 each, 72-plant flats and hanging baskets are just $8 each.

Because of the popularity of this important fund raiser, St. Paul School suggests you arrive early for best selection.

TPG volunteers will be on hand to assist in selection.

Joy Emery, Lanie Pincus, Audley Grossman and John Bloom.

All proceeds benefit Pewabic Pottery. Reservations may be made by phone, 822-0954, by mail, 10125 E. Jefferson, Detroit 48215, or at the Pottery, which is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day except Sunday.

The party committee is headed by Chrissie Zoufal and Melodie Scherer, both of Grosse Pointe.

Grosse Pointe Bonsai Association

The Grosse Pointe Bonsai Association will meet on Thursday, May 22, from 9 a.m. to noon in the Veteran's Room of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Rd.

Topic of discussion and demonstration will be pines as bonsai.

Workshops are free to members of the Grosse Pointe Garden Center. Everyone is welcome to join. Dues are $5.

It can happen. In the year 2010 the world is at peace and the threat of nuclear devastation has vanished. How has this come about?

$13.95 Through the imaginative ideas of forty men and women—lawyers, doctors, professors, conflict research specialists, and others who think about peace in a different way, who do not accept that war is inevitable. The wealth of original and workable approaches to peace presented in this book has been selected from entries to "Peace 2010," a contest sponsored by The Christian Science Monitor.

This book is available for sale in your local Christian Science Reading Room.

"The essays collected in this volume are sound ideas of what all nations of the world must do to make our planet safer for ourselves and for future generations."

Ronald Reagan

"The book is a superb reminder that people everywhere owe a duty to the children to safeguard the future." International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, recipients of the 1985 Nobel Peace Prize.

Preview set for Boucher exhibition at Detroit Institute of Arts

A black-tie preview reception and dinner will be held for the Francois Boucher exhibition slated to open at the Detroit Institute of Arts on May 29. The reception and dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m., Tuesday, May 27.

More than any other artist of his time, Francois Boucher epitomized aristocratic French taste in the mid-18th century.

The most comprehensive exhibition ever devoted to this important European artist will open at the DIA next Thursday and continue through Aug. 17. Approximately 80 paintings, 35 Sevres and Vincennes porcelains and six large Beauvais tapestries from public and private collections in Europe and the United States will be on view.

The preview party is being chaired by Mr. and Mrs. Basil Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. William Dance, Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford II and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Stroh. Chairman of the Women's Committee is Mrs. Ferdinand Hartz Cinelli.

Everyone Welcome

Meet a Royal Doulton Figurine Painter
May 23, 11 a.m.-1 p.m.
3 - 6 p.m., Gifts, Grosse Pointe
See a Royal Doulton tradition of imagination, beauty and style come alive through the artistry of Iris Edwards during her figure painting demonstrations. Since the first "Toby" character jugs were made by Royal Doulton in the 19th century, their fine craftsmanship has been recognized and collected as art to be treasured by every generation. Today, delicate brush strokes of the Royal Doulton artisans continue to give unique character and expression to each figurine. Iris Edwards will answer questions and sign the pieces you select to begin or add to your collection.

Weddings

Mr. and Mrs. David Patrick Foley
Grant-Foley

Laureen Jean Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grant of Grosse Pointe City, and David Patrick Foley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Foley of Applegate, Mich., were married on Nov. 30, 1985, at St. Paul's Catholic Church.

The Rev. Terence Langley officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony which was followed by a reception at Penna's of Sterling Heights.

The bride wore her mother's gown of ivory Chantilly lace over satin, with a high neck and long, lace sleeves. The dress featured a cathedral-length train and her veil fell from a small profile hat. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, cymbidium orchids and ivy.

The matron of honor was Charlene Louckes, sister of the bride, Virginia Beach, Va. Bridesmaids were Sheryl Grant, sister of the bride, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.; Karen Hawksley, cousin of the bride, Irving, Texas; Laurie Foley, friend of the bride, Watauga, Texas; Diane Hyman, friend of the bride, Detroit; and Anne Heymes, friend of the bride, Detroit. They wore ivory gowns of Chantilly lace with ribbon sashes. They wore wreaths of antiqued ivory baby's breath in their hair and carried handclutches of deep mauve catteleya orchids and ivy. The flower girl was Andrea Louckes, niece of the bride.

The best man was Douglas Wiencek, friend of the groom, Walled Lake, Mich. Ushers were Mike Foley, Southfield, Dan Foley, Plymouth, Steve Foley, Watauga, Texas, all brothers of the groom; Doug Herrington, friend of the groom, Boyne City, Mich.; Joe Kelly, friend of the groom, Southfield, Mich.

The ringbearer was Robert Louckes, nephew of the bride.

The mother of the bride wore a peach chaise A-line skirt with a camisole top.

The mother of the groom wore a two-piece dress in ice blue. Both mothers wore wrist corsages of cymbidium orchids.

The couple honeymooned in Los Angeles and Oahu, Hawaii. They will live in Southfield.

Loving-Basse

Melissa Ann Loving, daughter of Joseph H. Loving of Grosse Pointe Woods and Muriel Loving of Troy; and William Arthur Basse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Basse of Dearborn, were married April 5, at Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit.

The Rev. Dr. Robert H. Crilley officiated the ceremony which was followed by a reception at the Detroit Athletic Club.

The bride wore a traditional gown with an illusion neckline and a cathedral-length train. Her veil was fingertip-length with seed pearls on the headpiece and on the veil. She carried a cascading bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, and pink roses.

The maid of honor was Kathleen von Foerster of Bloomfield Hills. The bridesmaids were Molly Bull, Bloomfield Hills; Suzy Royce, Troy; and Barbara Basse, Denver, Colo. They wore floor-length pink satin gowns, and they carried bouquets of pink and white carnations accented with baby's breath.

The best man was Robert Basse, Denver, Colo. The groomsmen were Steven Loving, Charlotte, N.C.; Mark Loving, Birmingham, Ala.; and Bruce Burton, Grosse Pointe.

The mother of the bride wore a blue floor-length gown with a white orchid corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a floor-length lavender gown with a white orchid corsage.

The couple honeymooned in St. Maarten, in the Netherland Antilles.

The bride is a graduate of Smith College where she earned a bachelor of arts in government. She works at First Federal of Michigan in Quality Assurance.

The groom graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of arts in economics and Wayne State University Law School with a Juris Doctorate.

They live in Troy.

Witten-Herndon

Vonna Lynn Witten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vern Witten of Portales, N.M., and Capt. Russell Ray Herndon, son of C. Ray Herndon of Grosse Pointe Park and the late Lillian Herndon, were married on May 17 at the Air Force Academy Chapel in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The couple will live in Albuquerque, N.M.

The bride is employed at Sandia National Labs in Albuquerque as a member of the technical staff.

The groom graduated from the Air Force Academy in 1981. He is currently manager of advanced spacecraft electronics at Kirkland Air Force Base, Albuquerque.

Variety Club pledges a million to Children's

A $1 million pledge has been made by the Variety Club of Detroit to Children's Hospital of Michigan, according to Michael Marontate, chief barker (president) of the club. Announcement of the gift was made at a special press conference at Children's Hospital in the Detroit Medical Center.

The Variety Club of Detroit, whose membership is primarily from persons in show business and entertainment, is dedicated to helping needy children, particularly those with special health problems.

The club's $1 million gift, one of the largest commitments in the Hospital's 100-year history, will be recognized by naming a wing "The Variety Club Cardiology Center at Children's Hospital of Michigan." Funds will be used to purchase new equipment for the diagnosis and treatment of youngsters with heart problems.

Presentation of the initial $140,000 pledge payment was made to the Hospital at the club's annual celebrity ball on Saturday, May 10, at the Michigan Inn. Completion of the pledge will be made in seven years.

"The Variety Club of Detroit is pleased to recognize Children's Hospital of Michigan for its 100 years of providing outstanding medical care for sick and injured children," Marontate stated. "We are proud of the partnership we have established with the hospital and our club is committed to helping Children's as it enters its second century of service," he said.

In accepting the Variety Club's gift, Paul L. Broughton, hospital president and chief executive officer, said, "Children's is recognized as a leader in many specialties of pediatric medicine, particularly cardiovascular surgery and cardiology. The club's commitment will help sustain and strengthen our preeminence in these vital services."

Broughton explained that continuing advancements in technology have expanded opportunities for the development of new techniques and protocols for helping pediatric patients with cardiac problems.

"This magnificent gift from the Variety Club of Detroit will help with ongoing treatment as well as facilitate research and development of new procedures," Broughton said.

Medical specialists at Children's Hospital perform open and closed-heart procedures for the entire spectrum of congenital heart lesions. Cardiologists provide a full range of in- and outpatient diagnostic treatment and management programs for problems ranging from heart murmurs to complex congenital heart disease.

Complementing the team approach at Children's is the Hospital's "state of the art" capability in imaging technology, a key component in the delivery of cardiovascular and cardiology services. To retain this capability, Broughton said, the Hospital must continually update and enhance its diagnostic and treatment facilities. Support from the Club will help make this possible.

"The effect of the Variety Club's commitment is twofold," Broughton said. "First, it is meaningful in its own right by enhancing our cardiovascular surgery and cardiology departments. Second, the club's pledge will serve as an outstanding example to others in our community of the importance of private funding for one of Detroit's most important health resources — Children's Hospital of Michigan."

Children's Hospital is deeply grateful to the Variety Club of Detroit for its many years of support and for the Club's willingness to lead the way in establishing a new partnership with the Hospital as it celebrates a century of caring," Broughton concluded.

Children's Hospital of Michigan is a nonprofit, 290-bed facility founded in 1886. It serves as a major referral center and as a primary site of education and training in pediatrics for hundreds of doctors, nurses and health care specialists.

Civil War band to play at garden party

Plans for the Detroit Historical Society's June 1 Victorian Garden Party have recently been completed. The benefit will take place at the Grosse Pointe home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Scripps Wilkinson.

Victorian period food will be provided by The Merry Mouse catering firm of Grosse Pointe. Andrew Moquin is the culinary consultant.

In addition to traditional "high tea" delicacies, music of the Victorian period will be provided by Detroit's Light Guard Band.

Detroit's Light Guard Band is a faithful re-creation of a musical organization which performed in Detroit between the years of 1855 and 1885. During the Civil War, President Lincoln regularly requested the band to play on the White House lawn for his personal enjoyment.

Under the direction of Alexander Pollock of Detroit, the band uses original instruments of the Civil War period. Its selections are authentic arrangements of the mid-19th century. Band members wear original uniforms of the 1880s.

Artists' Market Garden Sale set locally

Sunny weather has been forecast for Wednesday, June 4, the date of the annual Detroit Artists Market Garden Sale.

Chairmen Mr. and Mrs. John B. Warren Jr. of Grosse Pointe Farms have selected a spacious, tree-lined garden in Grosse Pointe Farms to display the art work from the Detroit Artists Market. last week, artists submitted paintings, prints, photographs, sculptures, jewelry and works in glass, clay and fiber for jurying by art director Mary Denison. Additionally, the Artists Market has asked perennially popular artists to attend the sale, in order to be on hand to discuss their art work with interested patrons.

The Garden Sale, besides being a perfect excuse to spend a late afternoon in June viewing art work and visiting with friends, is one of the Artists Market's more illustrious traditions.

The first one was held on May 29, 1935, at the home of Mrs. Richard H. Webber, on Lakeshore Road.

With the exception of World War II, it has been held every year, and last year raised more than $7,600 for the market.

Heralding the Garden Sale was an invitation which featured Ann Arbor artist Julia Gleich's ink painting, "Three Flamingos." The original 10 1/2" by 8" artwork, resplendent in jewel-like colors and framed by three intricate borders, will be available June 4.

In discussing the event, Mrs. Warren said, "A new thrust of the Garden Sale this year is to encourage prospective members who may join at the door."

The Warrens have been busy with their committee heads the past few weeks to ensure that everything goes smoothly the day of the sale. There will be a tent again this year because of the slight, ever so slight, chance of rain. To add a festive touch, the garden will be decorated, and beverages and hors d'oeuvres will be provided by market volunteers.

Hadley Mack, patron chairman, discusses the June 4 Detroit Artists Market Garden Sale with Mr. and Mrs. John B. Warren, Jr., who are chairmen of the event. The Garden Sale, which will be held in a Grosse Pointe Farms garden, will feature paintings, prints, photographs, sculptures, jewelry and works in glass, clay and fiber from the Detroit Artists Market.

Hadley Mack, patron chairman, reports that the response is excellent to this year's request for Benefactors at $100 and Sponsors at $50. These contributions, along with corporate donations, help defray the expenses of the Garden Sale.

Additional persons on the committee include: William R. Chapin, Mrs. Alexander P. Gage, Mrs. Richard Goodyear, Mrs. A David Jones, Peter J. Kauffman, Mrs. Robin Lepard, Mrs. Frederick J. Schroeder, Mrs. V. Ives Short and Bethine S. Whitney.

Macomb Art Society to meet

The May meeting of the Macomb Art Society will be held on Tuesday, May 27, at 7:30 p.m., at Spindler Park Recreation Building, I-94 and Stephens in East Detroit.

Joe Lucido will do a demonstration. Everyone is welcome. Guest fee is $1.

SOC plans Garage Sale bargain booth

Services For Older Citizens board members are wearing new hats these days. They are poking around their own attics, basements and garages, and are asking friends, neighbors and you to do the same, in search of great bargains for the SOC booth at Grosse Pointe's annual Giant Garage Sale on May 25 and 26.

Jane Bodeau, chairman of the SOC garage sale booth, is looking for good used or new items from costume jewelry, accessories, and household bric a brac, to small appliances or furniture. Donations may be taken to Ferry School weekdays, or donors may call 882-9600 to arrange for pickups.

Two other fund raising efforts announced this week by SOC President Arthur Bodeau are the establishment of a SOC Memorial Fund, and the raffle of a hand-sewn quilt appraised at $1,000. Tickets are now on sale for a Log Cabin quilt which was made and donated by the ladies of the Eastland Village Activities Group. The raffle itself will take place on Independence Day.

Bodeau pointed out that SOC is increasing fund raising efforts because of declining funding of services by the government and an upswing in the numbers of older people in the area.

Frances Schonenberg, SOC chairman, explained that through these new activities, SOC also hopes to make people aware of how its programs benefit area residents. More than 5,100 people in the Grosse Pointes and Harper Woods are served annually by SOC programs.

Mother-Daughter Banquet set

This year's Mother and Daughter Banquet at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will feature a fashion show, courtesy of The Tailbots, in the Village. The banquet, which begins at 6 p.m., Wednesday, May 28, is sponsored by the Service Guild of the Memorial Church Women's Association.

Members of the Men's Association will enable the women to totally enjoy the evening, by serving the dinner.

Tickets are now available at the church office at $5 for adults and $2.50 for children five and under. At the door, tickets will be $6 for adults and $3 for children five and under. All tickets are non-refundable.

Planning the evening are Service Guild members Beth Ward Staniszewski, Susan Damos, Liz Aiken, Mary Leah Marshall, and Sharon Werthmann.

Mildred Carroll will give the blessing before dinner. Modeling in the fashion show will be Nancy Schulte, Julia Keim, Phyllis Brewster, Kris Kogel, Jane Warren, Nancy Burrows, Karen Winger, Janet Miller and Kathleen Petersen.

Free babysitting will be available for brothers and daughters too young to appreciate the festivities. Further information may be obtained by calling 882-5330.

Tribute Fund provides weekly DIA bouquets

Regular visitors to the Detroit Institute of Arts may notice spectacular bouquets at both the Farnsworth and Woodward entrances of the museum. The flowers are being provided by the Art and Flowers Tribute Fund, raised through the Art and Flowers Festival last year.

Several Grosse Pointers have been involved in this effort, including past chairman Marilyn Gushee.

The arrangements are designed by local flower arrangers, most members of area garden clubs. The bouquets are replaced with fresh flowers every Tuesday and the older bouquets, if still fresh, are placed in other locations for display.

The arrangements are often keyed to special events and exhibitions at the DIA.

Donations to the Tribute Fund are accepted for memorials, anniversaries and birthdays. For donation information contact Mary Stevenson of the DIA at 833-7965.

The Art and Flowers Festival of Spring will be held again this year. Announcements about specific events will be made soon.

Braille Transcribers offer instruction

A class for Braille Transcribers will be conducted at the Burnette Library, 22005 Van Dyke in Warren, Sept. 26, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Classes run from September through May, every Friday. There is no instruction fee. However a nominal charge is necessary to cover the cost of supplies. The class teaches sighted people to transcribe material into braille for the blind.

If you are interested in a rewarding and challenging volunteer project please call to register: 294-7664 or 398-9244.

Delta Kappa Gamma elects officers

Members of Alpha Mu Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma International Sorority, an organization of women educators, held their annual Founders Day Luncheon at Lochmoor Club on Saturday, May 10. Betty Durkin, chapter president, served as Mistress of Ceremonies in the three-part celebration.

First, new officers for 1986-1988 were installed, with Rachel Brake accepting the responsibility of the presidency. Other new officers are: first vice president, Barbara Grogan; second vice president, Julie Corbett; corresponding secretary, Mary Miller; and recording secretary, Julie Smart.

The Woman of the Year, recognized for service to the organization and the community, was Kerin Kopec, currently on leave of absence from the Grosse Pointe Public Schools. She has been treasurer of the chapter for seven years.

Two members are retiring from the Grosse Pointe Schools this June. Tributes were given to Lillian Goodwyn, a teacher consultant in the special education department, and Geraldine Bertovick, a counselor at North High School.

The 73 members of Alpha Mu Chapter represent many phases of education in both public and private schools from kindergarten through the university level.

Navy Ball

Lochmoor Club of Grosse Pointe will be scene for the annual Navy Ball, which will be held on Friday, June 13. The ball is sponsored by the Detroit Women's Council of the Navy League of the United States. Past president Clare Harter is the ball chairman, and Grosse Pointer, Gerry Fisher and Lois Nair are honorary chairmen. The official hostess will be Eileen Doyle, president of the council, second from the left. Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m. with dinner seating beginning at 8 p.m., following the color guard ceremony. Dancing will be to Jack Qualey's orchestra. Also pictured are Rose Brandsma, left, Betty Bradley and Capt. Ted Brandsma, all of Grosse Pointe.

Duane Arnold: Looking for another century

By Elsa Frohman

The Rev. Duane Wade-Hampton Arnold, pastor of First Congregational Church of Detroit, is a man with both feet planted firmly in the past.

"My greatest desire is to see the civility in language and manners of the last century brought back into this century," he said. "My greatest fear is of losing that."

An expert on the early history of the Christian church, an amateur fencer, a trap shooter and collector of rare and old books, Arnold's life focus is on bringing a little bit of the past into the present.

"I belong more in the late 19th century than the late 20th century," he said.

Arnold stands on the threshold of his doctorate in patristics, a study of the early Christian patriarchs. His thesis concerns St. Athanasius of Alexandria, a figure of the fourth century and the principal defender of the Council of Nicea.

"If you want to stop conversation, tell people the title of your thesis," Arnold said humorously. However, Arnold finds applications for his esoteric field of study in modern life.

"This is where we find the real roots of our common faith," he said. "It was an undivided church and it is our common inheritance. I've found there is a rich tradition within our Christian heritage. In America especially, we tend to divorce ourselves from it. We are so caught up with being current, thinking we have found something new, that we don't look back at what's come before us. That's what I really have gained."

True to his desire for deeper traditions and heritage, Arnold sought his doctorate at the University of Durham in England.

"I checked out a number of schools," he said. "I was accepted to several Ivy League schools and one in Toronto. But I chose the British system of doing things. I really love Durham. I don't think there is anyplace lovelier."

Arnold spent three years in Durham, where doctoral programs are based on seminar participation and a close relationship with an advisor. When he left England to come to Detroit last year, he had only to complete his thesis to earn his degree. He expects to finish that last step this summer when he returns to England.

"Living in Durham, you belong to a college," Arnold said. There are 14 colleges in the university. "There are formal meals where you go in academic gowns. My college has them three times a week. Others would have them every night. It's a marvelous experience."

Arnold speaks Latin, Greek, French and some German. He is currently learning Syriac, the ancient language of the region of Lebanon. At family meals, he carries on the traditions of the college by beginning with a Latin grace.

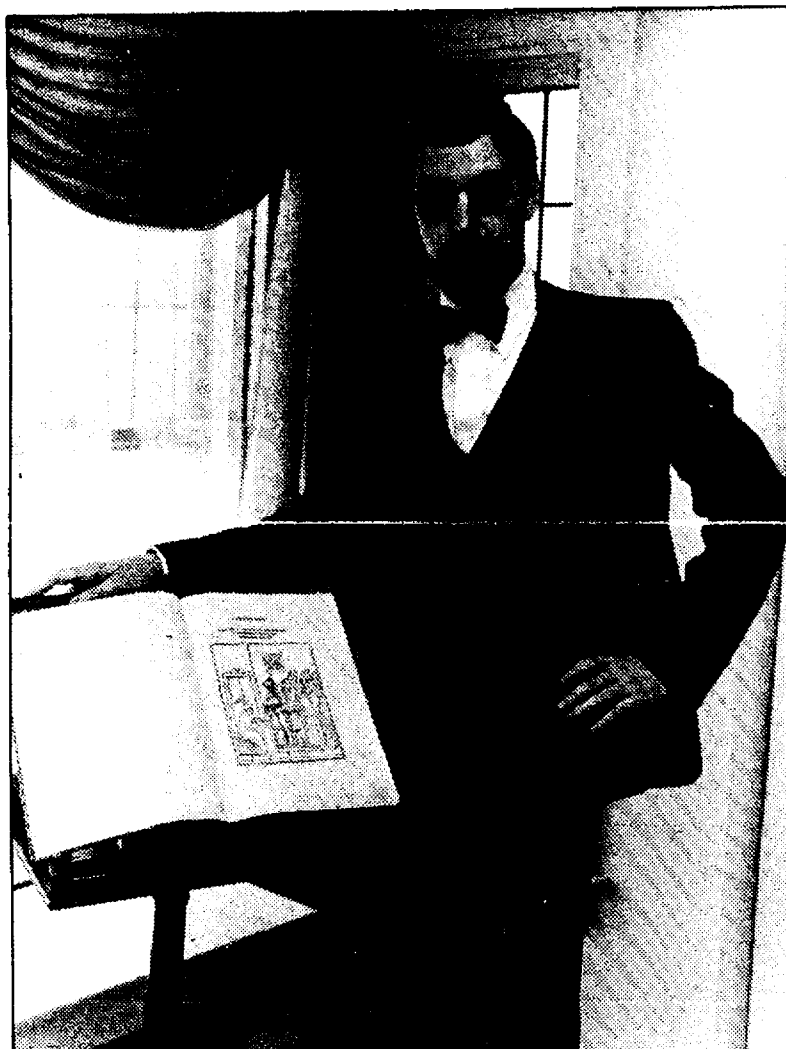

"I'm suffering a bit of reverse culture shock in returning," he said.

Arnold acknowledges that there are few opportunities to use his knowledge of St. Athanasius in his day to day work as minister of the First Congregational Church, but he feels the learning process improves his person.

"It keeps one mentally alert," he said. "It's so easy to become caught up with the difficulties of surviving, especially with the massive work load. Writing and study keep one intellectually alert and active. It keeps the mind open to the process of learning. You don't take it for granted."

Arnold's other great love is books. His collection includes several thousand contemporary volumes, in addition to another thousand in storage. The jewels of his collection are antiques, most from the 16th century. He brought out several and demonstrated the good condition of the paper and print after 400 years.

"I read them," he said. "Part of appreciating books is reading. They are like wonderful friends. If you had a wonderful friend, you wouldn't stick him in a booth with a glass front. Winston Churchill said, even if you don't have time to read, you should take a book down and flip it open and read a little. You should keep friendly with your books."

Arnold's fascination with the 16th century has defined the style of a portrait he is having painted by Nancy Proppitt, a Grosse Pointe artist.

"It's in the 16th century style," he said. "In my academic robes and hood with my family coat of arms. It's a modern portrait, but it is very much in the style of the 16th century."

It is no random chance that Arnold quotes Winston Churchill on the subject of books.

"Winston Churchill is my hero," he said. "The scope of his life... He is hard to classify because he was a national figure in the United Kingdom from the Boer War on. In the early '20s, he was the highest paid journalist in England. He was a 19th century man with a 21st century mind."

Arnold hopes to emulate Churchill, especially in his attention to the finer points of language.

"I'm very keen on the use of language," he said. "At times I think we are getting very sloppy with our sense of language and that bothers me."

A native of Cleveland, Arnold said he enjoys Grosse Pointe.

"Coming back from England to Detroit, we really suffered culture shock. There was just nowhere else we would live but Grosse Pointe."

Operation LINC Garage Sale booth planned

Summer for most is a time of relaxation from stresses and duties. But for the needy of the Metropolitan Detroit area, summer brings no reprieve from suffering and want.

Operation LINC faces the continuing challenge of aiding social agencies that help the less fortunate. And that means a continuing effort to finance LINC's operations.

In order to keep up with the constant flow of requests to the LINC office, a spring fundraiser, LINC's booth at the Greatest Garage Sale Ever, will be held on Saturday and Sunday, May 25 and 26, in the Jacobson's parking structure from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Among these garage sale-earmarked items LINC will sell will include new needlework items, new and used household and decorative items, collectible glassware, jewelry and baskets.

Also being sold are LINC's spring clean-up trash bags. Offered at $12 for a box of 100, "the best bag in town" remains LINC's ongoing fund-raiser and may also be obtained by calling the LINC office at 882-6100.

The recent annual LINC flower sale held last Saturday, May 10, was deemed a great success thanks to the hard work of co-chairmen Sue Smitka and Wendy Morales and their crew of volunteers.

Money raised from the flower sale and garage sale will help cover LINC's rent, telephones, insurance, office supplies, postage and professional fees for an accountant and attorney, equipment repair, dues and memberships in professional organizations and the salary of one full-time employee who handles daily operations of the LINC office.

As a thank you to the many volunteers who continue to make LINC viable, the spring volunteer luncheon will be held Thursday, May 29, at noon at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club. Bruce Anderson, owner of Moehring's Flowers on Mack Avenue, will give a demonstration of silk and fresh flower arranging. Guests are invited and reservation for the luncheon and babysitting may be made by calling 882-6100.

When doing your spring-summer cleaning don't forget to donate to LINC. Operation LINC needs your time and contributions. It is a non-profit, volunteer organization which helps numerous metropolitan area agencies and depends on your support. To volunteer or to donate useable items please call LINC at 882-6100, between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Be sure to look for "The Missing LINC" a weekly column of LINC needs in the Classified section of The Grosse Pointe News.

Organ recital at Old Christ Church

Joan C. Haggard, AAGO, director of music at St. Philip's Episcopal Church in Rochester, will perform an organ recital at Christ Church-Detroit, 960 East Jefferson Ave. at 1-375, on Friday, May 30, at 8:00 p.m. The event is open to the public and is free of charge.

Haggard will present a varied program on the church's Casavant organ, including works by Mendelssohn, Dupre, Brahms and Bach.

A graduate of Minnesota's Carleton College, Haggard studied organ at the University of Michigan under Robert Noehren and Marilyn Mason, and in France with Rolande Falcinelli. She has served churches in Livonia and Dearborn, and is a member of the Association of Anglican Musicians.

Haggard is general chairman of the 1986 National Convention of the American Guild of Organists, which will convene this July in Detroit. Nearly 2,000 American and European organists are expected to attend this gathering, along with featured performing artists from England, France, Germany, Spain and the United States.

You call it clutter, I call it a column

There comes a time in every sports season when I feel compelled to write a column just chock-full of little bits and pieces of information, loosely tied together and without a unifying theme; in short, a confusing but rather interesting potpourri of sporty stuff (can I turn a phrase, or what?). Some might say that I'm merely using this as an excuse to clean off my desk . . . and they'd be right.

First, let me clear up some misconceptions I may have fostered in my column of May 15. I credited the Grosse Pointe Soccer Association for producing much of the fine girls' soccer talent on the successful North and South squads and in the state select team tryouts this year. Several concerned soccer dads let me know that I was behind the times a little.

While several of the girls who play high school soccer this year were once members of the GPSA; more recently, many of them (in particular those participating in the select team tryouts) are products of the Pointe Girls Soccer Association, an organization born two or three seasons back, depending upon who you talk to.

The PGSA, under the guidance of Stewart Dow, has been providing girls' soccer since then, while the GPSA continues to serve the boys of the area, according to Dow. "The groups work closely together," Dow says, "and we hope that continues."

An item in the May 19 edition of Sports Illustrated describes the aluminum bat called Top Hand, introduced this season by Switch Hitter Baseball School of La Mirada, Calif., and used by some hot-hitting pros this spring. According to SI, the bat is designed to promote quick hands and improve specific hitting techniques when used in training and on-deck. It's a hollow bat with a sliding weight inside which supposedly simulates the feel of a solid hit.

Sounds like a great find for Detroit Tiger batters, many of whom have been simulating solid hits most of this season.

Speaking of great, it was fun to watch the South girls' soccer team — fondly known these days as the "Cardiac Kids" — enjoy their 2-1 victory over a rough Sterling Heights Stevenson team last week in the playoffs. It was big time excitement for the Blue Devils (who are continuing this week in the playoffs) as they got a chance to play on South's football field in front of a partisan home crowd.

The girls have gone farther than any South girls' soccer team and they look like they want to keep it going, if their new theme song, "Another One Bites the Dust," is any indication.

Last Saturday's bright sunshine and warm breezes were just the icing on the cake for the Class A regionals at South High. Lots of credit should go to the folks who made the event so nice, making sure everything — from the on-time running of meet events, to the carnival atmosphere, to the concise instructions given to excited runners — went the way it should.

My favorite sights of the day?

De La Salle senior and University of Michigan football-bound sprinter Allen Jefferson outdistance the field in the boys' 100-yard dash. (Is Jefferson for real, or what? The guy's got a physique on him that doesn't quit.)

Regina's 3200 meter team, which ran itself into exhaustion in a great sixth-place effort.

The excitement of South's girls' 800 relay team which finished in a state-qualifying personal best third (1:47.09) and found the strength to jump for joy upon learning the final results.

Osborn High School's lively cheering section.

Guys in funny hats who kept getting in the way of the official starters.

The big grin on South girls' coach Steve Zaranek's face for most of the afternoon. You deserve it Steve; South looked nice for all of its visitors from Denby, Finney, Kettering, Osborn, Pershing, East Detroit, Fraser, Notre Dame, Regina, Roseville, Warren Cousino, De La Salle, Warren's Lincoln, Mott and Woods Tower.

By the way, before I forget, please be advised that deadline for all sports copy this week is Friday at 5 p.m. That's FRIDAY at 5 P.M.! We're off — just like you — on Memorial Day, so anything submitted on Monday or Tuesday will be too late and will just end up cluttering up my desk until some other week.

And we all know what I do with clutter.

Blue Dolphins want to make a big splash

By Peggy O'Connor

The Blue Dolphins have practiced all winter for their moment in the spotlight . . . and that moment is now.

South High's synchronized swim team's moment is its annual show, which will be performed at 4 and 7:30 p.m. tonight, May 22, and 7:30 p.m. Friday, May 23. The show's theme is "On the Radio;" it will feature routines performed to popular music. Tickets are $3 for adults, $2 for students and senior citizens and may be purchased at the door.

"We think it'll be a good show," says Ellen Zaccardelli, a former competitive synchronized swimmer who, with Sharon Vasher and Jackie Locniskar, comprise the Blue Dolphins' coaching staff.

The seniors and officers of the 32-member team chose the music, choreographed the routines and picked out their own costumes, Zaccardelli says. The coaches helped smooth out the rough edges, kept things running well and operated the day-to-day tasks of a sports club, like making sure everyone is where she is supposed to be.

The show will feature a disk jockey — in keeping with the theme — as well as special lighting effects, underwater speakers and dialog. Another highlight will be two numbers performed by male swimmers chosen, as per tradition, by the senior girls to swim a solo and a "guy-girl" number, Zaccardelli says.

Some of the numbers are "Tainted Love," "I'm All Right," "Melt With You," "Axel F," and one to the "St. Elmo's Fire" theme. The entire cast will participate in a big finale.

The synchronized swim team has been around for decades at South, but this year's squad is relatively young, according to Locniskar. A number of freshmen tried out for the team and 10 remained throughout the season.

"That will help build for the future. You need a good, young base to build a club team like this," Zaccardelli says.

There is hope that the Blue Dolphins may even grow from a club team to a varsity-level sport. Most of the girls have basic instruction in synchronized swimming from years of lessons at the Farms' Pier Park. With several competitive-level teams on the west side — including Clawson, Lathrup, Ann Arbor Pioneer and Ann Arbor Huron — as possible opponents, varsity synchronized swimming is something Vasher, Zaccardelli and Locniskar say they'd like to see come about at South.

"We'd have loved to have had it this year, since we'd have been the eighth team in the state and that would improve competition, but we couldn't get it together. We need more training to be able to perform at the competitive level," Locniskar says.

"But it would be nice to see." Right now, the Blue Dolphins are concentrating on this show, their one public performance of the year. And a showy performance like the one they've planned, is far removed from the "schooling-type" stunts required in competition. And that means fun, for swimmers, coaches and spectators, Zaccardelli says.

"The girls seem to have got their timing down. We want them to have fun and put on a show they can be proud of. We think that's what people will see if they come. And we hope the spectators will have some fun, too."

South boys participating in "On the Radio," include Chris Van Antwerp, Donnie McKnight, Dickie Clarke, Scott Frame, Wally Guevara, Craig Bagnio, Matt Smith, Tim Groustra and Andy Bedsworth.

Boating statistics

The U.S. Coast Guard estimates that the number of recreational boats on the nation's waterways increased by 400,000 in 1985, bringing the total to over 16.1 million.

Over 8,300 vessels were involved in accidents resulting in 1,116 fatalities, 2,757 injuries, and more than $20 million in property damage. The Coast Guard believes almost all of the fatal accidents are reported, however, they estimate that fewer than 10 percent of the non-fatal one are reported.

	1982	1983	1984	1985
Fatalities	1,178	1,241	1,063	1,116
Fatalities rate (per 100,000 estimated boats)	7.5	8.1	6.8	6.9
Reported Accidents	5,377	5,349	5,700	6,237
Vessels Reported in Accidents	7,671	7,534	7,510	8,305
Reported Injuries	2,682	2,913	2,709	2,757
Reported Property Damage ($mil.)	15.34	15.73	19.19	20.04
Registered Boats ($mil.)	9.07	9.17	9.12	9.38
Total Boats ($mil.)	11.9	15.3	15.7	16.1

These and other statistics will be published in Boating Statistics 1985. Copies of this report will be available in June and may be obtained from Commandant (G-BP), U.S. Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D.C., 20593.

WHITE SOX-YANKEES
Scott McCain and Randy Aardema each hit two-run homers for the Sox, but couldn't combat the fine pitching of Matt Recht and reliever Kyle Hoyer as the Yankees took an 11-6 win. Recht also went three-for-three with two doubles and a single, batting in four runs and scoring two. Josh Christ had a two-run double and Carl Melchior had an RBI-double. Ron Wood, Sean Recht, Danny Minadeo and Chris Nixon also played well. McCain and Charlie Lickfold pitched for the Sox. Good plays by Christ, Brian Urso, Sean Recht, and Bramlage, Paul Hadad and Brad Kimmel highlighted the game.

YANKEES-INDIANS
The Yankees beat the Farms-City Indians, 9-3. Hoyer gave up no runs, allowed no hits and one walk in three innings to get the victory. M. Recht pitched the last three innings. Urso got the game ball for his second inning double. S. Recht, Minadeo, Hoyer, M. Recht and Urso scored. Brennen, Campbell and Kolojeski scored the Indians' three runs.

Park Minors

MICHIGAN-NOTRE DAME
Michigan outlasted Notre Dame,

12-11, as Steven Manire and John Ganshert had perfect days at the plate and Jason Jodway added extra base hits to the attack. Justin Braun had three doubles for ND; Chris Hyatt, Robert Bacon and Andy Crowley also doubled. Also playing well were Terry Holusta, Tanya Brewer, Ryan Hathaway, Valaire Van Slyck, and pitchers David Cusmano, Jodway, Braun, Cowley and Kevin Schroeder.

NOTRE DAME-ILLINOIS
Crowley (triple, two RBI), Cory Schroeder (double, two RBI), Mark Campbell (triple, two RBI) and K. Schroeder (triple, RBI) led Notre Dame to a 17-4 win. K. Schroeder's no-hit, seven-strikeout performance helped pace ND, along with fine fielding from Chad Andrew and Eric Prentiss. Playing well for Illinois were Mike Verlinden (double) Paul Unger (double), and fielders Doug Jabara and Tye Otto.

OHIO STATE-MSU
MSU edged OSU, 10-9, as Mark Dely pitched a complete game with 10 strikeouts, overshadowing the pitching of Chris Pote (seven strikeouts) and Paul Coyro (two strikeouts). John McNaughton's two-run triple and John Brook's two-run double helped pace OSU. Greg Miller hit a two-run triple for MSU; Charles O'Laughlin added a three-run homer.

MICHIGAN-OSU
Michigan outlasted OSU, 13-9, behind the pitching of Jodway, Cusmano and Ganshert. Paul Sippela pitched well for OSU. Dettmer, Chris Soher and Todd Havern had extra base hits for Michigan. Lisa Stevens, John Brooks and Pote hit for OSU. Brian Holliday, and Chris and Matt Millikin played well on defense.

ILLINOIS-WISCONSIN
Wisconsin beat Illinois, 12-3. Brian Brenner pitched a complete game and had a double and a home run, as well. Peter Feldman and Verlinden pitched well for Illinois. Richard Spencer (double), Shawn Flemming (homer), and Terry Campagna (double) helped pace Wisconsin, as did Ken McIntyre, Jeff Nyehuis, Sara Brenner and Andy Forster. Feldman (double, single), Mike DeFauw (double, single) and Brian Yirovec led Illinois' attack.

Park Instructional

MARINES-NAVY
The Marines edged Navy, 34-33. The Marines scored 22 runs in the first two innings, led by Russell Burch's bases-loaded triple. With the scored tied at 33-33, Billy Sumner (five-for-five) had a rally-killing double play. Brian Everham and Kelly Taylor were also perfect at the plate. Max Krause was five-for-five, including a homer, for Navy; Tom Franzinger added a double. Matt Debski, Ben Debski and Kevin Addy were also perfect at bat.

COAST GUARD-RANGERS
The Coast Guard beat the Rangers, 26-6. Hitting for Coast Guard were Jimmy Michael (homer), Tim O'Laughlin (triple), and Bill Faber, and Joey Williamson (doubles). Joe Calarco doubled and Ian Boyd, Kris Campbell, David Carnes, Matt Farr and Calarco scored for the Rangers.

NAVY-ARMY
Navy squeaked past Army last week. Ryan Berg had three singles and a double, Franzinger had two doubles and two singles, and B. Debski singled three times for Navy. Tom Chouinard, Tom Smith (four hits) and Douglas Fairbanks and Ryan and Jason Juif hit for Army. Berg made the play of the game when he pulled a fourth inning triple play.

AIR FORCE-MARINES
Air Force beat the Marines, 21-14. Peter Van Hock homered and Alex Bieri and Ryan Morrison played well in FitzSimons (double) and Tripp victory.

AIR FORCE-RANGERS
The Air Force topped the Rangers, 24-9, as Paul Garvey, Patrick Worrell and Liz Wudyka had hits in each at-bat. Dave Barnes, Michael Stines, Kimmel and Steve King led the Rangers. Bieri homered and played well in the field.

Farms-City Majors

TIGERS-DODGERS
The Tigers edged the Dodgers, 8-7, behind the complete game pitching of John Maycock. Andy VanDeweghe and Ken Prather pitched for the Dodgers. David Auld (three singles), and Scott Van Almen (double, single) led the Tigers' offense. Brad Dunlap and Colin FitzSimons (double) and Tripp Tracy (single) also had hits. Brian Crane (two singles), Jeff Osborne (double) and Prather, Tom Davis, VanDeweghe and Ryan Molitor also singled.

DODGERS-ASTORS
The Dodgers bounced back to top the Astros, 8-5, thanks to the work of Osborne and VanDeweghe. Also getting key hits were Andy Lee, Mike Miller, Prather and Davis. Jay Berschbach pitched five strong innings for the Astros; Dan LeFebvre, Josh Henry, Bill Albrecht and Britt Stebbins had singles.

Farms-City Class C

ROCHESTER-ALBANY
Ten Albany players hit safely as their team got past Rochester, 12-5. Aaron ZurSchmeide and Chance Wakefield homered for Rochester.

SYRACUSE-COLUMBUS
Columbus scored twice in the bottom of the eighth to take a 9-8, extra inning win over Syracuse. Tom Shumaker's two-run double scored Jeff Smythe and Peter Birgbauer with the tying and winning runs. Ian McMillan blasted a three-run homer for Columbus. Browe Merriweather gave Syracuse an 8-7 lead with his eighth-inning homer. Doug Fiedler and Daniel Tucker each ripped three hits for Syracuse.

Farms-City AAA

ANGELS-RANGERS
The Angels defeated the Rangers, 10-5, behind the strong pitching of Steve Stroehler and Brian Louisell. The Angels' Billy Scott were outstanding in the field and at the plate.

BREWERS-BRAVES
The Braves used the late inning long ball to take a come-from-behind, 10-8 win over the Brewers. Scott Cook homered and doubled for the Braves; Skye Ho added a homer. Paul Sandercott, Casey Ho and Mike Owens each ripped key triples during the Braves' fourth and fifth inning rallies. Tom Best pitched in relief. Ted Hill and Kris Erickson ripped two hits apiece for the Brewers; Kelly Sanders and Allan Leitch pitched well. Catcher Pat Brennan and infielder Chad Yates played sparkling defense for the Brewers.

BRAVES-RANGERS
P.J. Muer ripped two hits and scored three runs to pace the Braves to a 14-10 victory over the Rangers. Pat Alle and Owens had three hits apiece for the Braves; Jeff Adams and Scott Cook had two each. John Combs tripled and singled twice to lead the Ranger attack. Richie Reynolds blasted a two-run triple in the first. Nathan Kuhl singled and scored twice for the Rangers; Reynolds and David Reinke pitched well.

EXPOS-CUBS
The Expos scored four in the first and held on to beat the Cubs, 8-5. Pitcher Len Cugliari held the Cubs to one run in three innings; Jordan Jones got the save. Ricci, Terry Kavanaugh and Uznis pitched for the Cubs, giving up just two hits. For the Expos, Nick Kotsis played well at third, Chris Crain made a big catch in left and Dave Tappel had fine put-outs at second. Playing well for the Cubs were Kavanaugh and Kevin Elliot (perfect at the plate); R.C. Colombo did an excellent job at second base.

Kickers honored

The All-Catholic League soccer team included four girls from Our Lady Star of the Sea.

Center/fullback Tracey Walker was named to the first team. "She played very well for us this season," said Star coach Julie Uryasz. Earning second team honors was Dorreen Pellegrom, who scored seven goals for the Tunas. Beth Allor and Nancy Schulte earned All-Catholic League Honorable Mention.

Babe Ruth teams begin year

The teams in the Park-City-Farms Babe Ruth Leagues began play last week; following are highlights of some of the action:

The Brewers beat the Royals, 6-1, as pitchers Scott Schulz and Jim Bunn limited Royals batters to four hits and one run. The Royals opened the game with a run on Kevin Nesler's single and Jim Smith's double. But Fred Matvias scored on Bob Osborne's single to put the Brewers on the board; they took the lead in the fourth on hits by Brendan Henry, Matvias, Jim Huse and Chris Graves. Huse's triple after singles by Bunn and Dan Grundman scored the final run.

The Brewers then beat the Angels, 5-1, breaking open a tight pitchers' dual between Angel Bob Holostock and Brewers Schulz and Graves. Doubles by Mark Streibel and Joe Holostock put the Angels on top, but a double play ended threat of further scoring. Osborne's triple scored Graves, then fourth inning singles by Osborne, Brian Jenkins, Grundman and Keith Baer broke the game open. Graves shut the Angels out for the last three innings to preserve the win.

The Brewers and the A's battled it out in a slugfest eventually won by the Brewers, 17-5. The A's jumped out to a four-run lead in the first on singles by Mike Shrake, Mark Wimsatt, John Bednarchik and Dan Boxer. The Brewers closed that gap on walks to Matvias, Grundman and Graves and a three-run triple by Huse. The A's added a run on hits by Quinlan, Connell and Steves, but the Brewers took the lead for good on three walks, a double by Henry and a Schulz single for five runs. Schulz held the A's scoreless the rest of the way and Huse, Henry, Graves and Bunn singled for nine more Brewers' runs.

In the American League East Division, the Orioles came from behind to edge the Indians, 2-1, in extra innings. Brian Calahan held the Indians to seven hits, striking out seven in his pitching duel with Franko. The winning run scored on a squeeze bunt by Jason Betsworth.

The Tigers took an 11-1 victory over the Red Sox as pitchers Dave McCormick and reliever Joe Caldwell held the Sox to three hits. Dave Hall (three hits), Scott Adlhoj and Kevin Nesler led the offense. Brian Letscher knocked in the Sox lone run with a single.

The Red Sox beat the Yankees, 9-4. Barry Brookes led the hitting attack for the Sox with a homer; Rick Foley, John Whall and James Osborne added two hits each. Brian Downs, Woodruff, Roxas and Matthews were the hitting leaders for the Yankees.

The Orioles beat the Tigers, 9-6. Mark Jungwerth worked four innings of hitless relief pitching; Chris Markus provided the big hit, Hall, Caldwell and McCormick pitched for the Tigers.

The Red Sox made it two in a row with a 3-2 win over the Indians. Phil Orton went all the way on the mound for the Sox, giving up four hits. Matt McCalister gave up only five hits in a losing cause. Brookes had a two-for-four day; the Grambling brothers and O'Leary had Indian's hits.

The Tigers got back in the win column with a 10-5 win over the Yankees. The Tigers collected nine hits; the Yankees, five. McCormick paced the Tigers with five RBI on three hits. Ed Suzor and Billy Leins had two hits each. Renato Boxas had three hits and Leonard, Matthews and Sanders, two each for the Yankees.

Nautical terms

Once they're taken aboard a boat, many items instantly adopt new names. A kitchen becomes a galley. The bathroom becomes the head. Maps are charts. Ropes are lines or sheets. Stairways are companionways.

Some everyday words also have nautical meanings when used aboard a boat. Do you know what a pump out is? A knot? A fender? A boom?

Here's a list of some common sailing and power boating terms with simple explanations intended for those who might be guests aboard a friend's boat — those who might be novice sailors — or those who might be on-shore viewers of a sailboat race on a sunny Saturday morning.

Nautical names for boat parts: (These first few are the easy ones.)

Bow — the front of the boat. (Don't call it the "pointy end.")

Starboard — the right side of the boat, when you're facing forward.

Port — the left side of the boat, when you're facing forward. (A hint to help you remember: starboard has more letters than port; right has more letters than left.)

Transom — the flat outside portion of the stern. It is often varnished and it usually displays the vessel's name and home port.

Galley — the kitchen.

Head — specifically, the toilet. Head usually refers to the whole bathroom, if the boat has one. Don't say, "Where is the bathroom?" Say, "May I use the head?"

Halyard — a line used to raise a flag or a sail.

Hatch — an opening from the deck to the inside of the boat. The forward hatch is a deck-level trap-door affair on the bow that leads below the deck. On boats with aft staterooms, an aft escape hatch provides an emergency exit in case of fire.

Loran — an electronic navigational tool consisting of a small computer and a receiver. The receiver uses signals from fixed stations to calibrate the boat's position and the computer converts the information to latitude and longitude and prints it on a screen.

Berth or bunk — a bed. The V-bunks are two forward beds in the V-shaped bow of the boat.

Bilge — the space at the bottom of a boat hull, below the flooring.

Flying bridge or bridge — an open deck above the main deck on some boats. It's accessible by ladder and is equipped with a duplicate set of engine controls and navigational instruments.

Ensign — a nation's flag.

Fender — a cylindrical cushion-device used to protect the sides of a boat from damage while it's tied up next to a piling, a dock, or another boat.

Piling — wooden poles set vertically in a harbor.

Some terms specific to sailboats:

Boom — the bottom edge of the main sail is attached to the boom, which is horizontal to the deck. The boom swings back and forth when the boat jibes and can raise a nasty lump on your head — or even sweep you overboard. Keep clear of the boom; or, at least keep on eye on it.

Tack — to turn a sailboat's bow through the wind so that the sails fill on the opposite side.

Jibe — to turn a sailboat's stern through the wind so that the sail fills on the opposite side.

Sheets — specific lines — the ones attached to the edges of the sails.

Winch — the mechanical device used to wrap a sheet around a cylinder.

Heel — to lean over, away from the wind, as a sailboat does while reaching or beating. Sometimes, during heavy weather, the captain will "bury the rail," which means the boat is heeling so far that the deck rail is in the water.

Spinnaker — a very light, large sail used when running before the wind. Spinnakers are the colorful sails that make sailboat races such graceful, beautiful spectacles.

Spar — the mast.

Sloop — a one-masted sailboat with a mainsail and a jib.

Centerboard — a flat board which can be raised or lowered below the water, to reduce the sideways slipping motion (leeway) of the boat.

General boating terms:

Pump out — The discharge of sewage overboard is prohibited. Instead, heads are fitted with holding tanks. A pump out is a method of emptying the holding tank into an approved shore disposal unit.

Wake — the path of turbulent water that's left behind as a boat is propelled through the water. Incidentally, the boat's owner is responsible for any damage done by his wake.

Knot — a measure of speed indicating nautical miles per hour. A nautical mile is 6,080 feet — slightly longer than a land mile because it is equivalent to one minute of latitude on a chart. Don't ever say "knots per hour," because knots are, by definition, per hour.

Leeward — the direction opposite to that from which the wind is blowing.

Fathom — a measure of water depth equal to six feet.

Fend off — to push off, with a hand or a boat hook, from another boat, or dock, or piling, in order to avoid contact or a collision.

Deep six — nautical slang for throwing something overboard, as in "Do not deep six your nautical trash."

Softball teams sought

The Detroit College of Business in Dearborn is seeking teams for both of its Men's Saturday Open Softball Leagues.

The $225 entry fee covers all expenses for a 12-game season plus playoffs, including field rental, balls, umpire fees and trophies. League play begins May 31 and runs through August. All games are played on Dearborn city diamonds.

Fitness camp

The Assumption Cultural Center will offer a Fitness Camp Weekend in northern Michigan, near Rose City, Aug. 22 through 24.

The weekend includes transportation by motorcoach, accommodations in log cabins near a private lake, therapeutic massage, lectures featuring experts in sports medicine, nutrition and stress management; plus water sports, swimming and canoeing.

Barbara Otul, Kalosomatics fitness director, has lined up a three-day program which begins with a personal fitness evaluation and includes group Kalosomatics workouts for all levels of fitness.

To reserve a spot at the fitness camp or for more information, call the center at 779-6111.

Boat safety tests

The U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, Flotilla 12-01, will conduct free marine examinations for recreational boaters' crafts from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday, June 1 and Saturday, June 7, at the St. Clair Shores Recreation Center's boat launching ramp on Jefferson, between 9 and 10 Mile roads.

A U.S. Coast Guard CME Decal (seal of safety) will be awarded to boats meeting all requirements for safety equipment. Pamphlets will also be available explaining U.S. Coast Guard requirements and stressing basic safety equipment.

Baseball benefit

The St. Clair Shores Baseball Association will present a fund raising carnival June 4 through 8 at Kye Monroe Field, Harper and Masonic. The event will include a Wade Show midway beginning June 4, and a beer, bingo and Vegas tent which opens at 7 p.m. June 6; 5 p.m. June 7; and 2 p.m. June 8.

Baseball squad's league title hopes are questionable

By Stephen Ebner
South High

South's varsity baseball team won four out of five last week, but the loss left EML title hopes questionable. South beat Port Huron Northern, 8-3, and L'Anse Creuse North, 14-0, for league wins, but lost to last place Mount Clemens for a significant league loss. South also swept GP North, 7-4 and 9-2, in a non-league double-header.

"I would've gladly taken a loss to North for a league win," said coach Dan Griesbaum. South, 9-3 and one game behind EML leader

Port Huron, has two league games remaining, while Port Huron has three.

At Port Huron Northern, Rick Leonard (5-1, 1.89 ERA) pitched 5½ innings, striking four batters out, walking five, and allowing only three hits. In the batter's box, designated hitter Rico Cordova (team-leading 24 RBI, four homers) blasted a third inning pitch over the fence for a grand slam home run. Leftfielder Pete Muer (team leading .368) had two hits.

Against LCN, Cordova (5-2, two saves, 0.83 ERA) threw a one-hitter in six innings, on seven strikeouts and three walks. At the plate, catcher Steve Kinsley knocked a three-run homer over the fence, while third baseman Doug Lucas (.281) batted two home runs on three at-bats, and had four RBI.

Muer's two hits and two RBI, highlighted South's win in the first game of the North double-header. In the second game, North walked seven Blue Devils, and committed four errors. South led 8-0 after the second inning. Scott Tucker (1-3, 3.92 ERA) pitched a solid game; four strikeouts, six walks, and four hits. Outfielder Jason Colegrove and Lucas each had two RBI.

South, 16-9 overall, plays Denby in the pre-districts tomorrow, May 23.

Netters go to state

South's boys' tennis team will go to the state finals, after toppling North High and 10 other teams in the regionals.

"It was the best team effort of the season," said coach Don Zysk. South totaled 25 points compared to second place North's 23. The Blue Devils faced North in six of seven finals matches. Winners against the Norsemen were No. 2 singles Scott Watson (6-4, 3-6, 6-4), No. 3 singles Bill Wheeler (6-3, 1-6, 7-6), and No. 2 doubles Don McKnight and John Lamb (6-4, 3-6, 7-5). No. 1 singles Thad Angyal was also a finals winner, but lost to a ranked Cass Tech player, in a three-hour, 7-6, 6-7, 7-6 match.

Earlier in the week, South hosted its second four-team invitational. North took first followed by Grand Blanc, South and Chippewa Valley. Thad Angyal won the No. 1 singles. Also last week, South blew-out Mount Clemens 7-0, in a rescheduled match.

The Blue Devils (6-2) will travel to Midland on May 30 to try for the state championship. South has won the EML with its 6-0 league record.

Great softball week

Lynn Vismara and the varsity softball team had a great week, defeating Port Huron Northern, 2-1, L'Anse Creuse North, 3-0, and pounding Mount Clemens, 14-4.

The team's leading force, Vismara (11-8) pitched a three-hitter against PHN, and blasted a game-winning solo home run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

At L'Anse Creuse North, Patty Hess, Barb VanWingerden, and Holly Asmus all batted in runs in the shutout. Against Mount Clemens, starting pitcher Vismara allowed only two hits.

The Blue Devils (13-8, 8-3 EML) now stand in second place, tied with East Detroit, behind leader Port Huron.

Girls can't kick

By Jennifer McSorley
South High

The girls' varsity soccer team completed its regular season with a 3-2 victory over Utica Ford and conquered Utica Stevenson, 2-1, in regional competition. Junior Kim Wood scored the first and last goals of the game against Ford and senior Becky Steffes scored the other goal, assisted by sophomore Casey Steffes. Wood scored the opening goal in the Stevenson game; junior Jenny Smith scored the second goal.

Tracksters win EML

South's girls' track team clinched the EML title and finished a perfect dual meet season, beating East Detroit, 91-37, last week, while freshman Traci Lee set a new school record for the 200 (26.3).

In addition to this 10-0 record, the team placed third in the regional meet last Saturday. Senior Nancy Solterisch qualified for the state meet in both the mile and the two mile, and sophomore Reba Uthappa, the state regional champ, qualified in the 400, as did three relay teams.

The 800 relay team of senior Julie Boyl, junior Heather Imel, Uthappa, and Lee broke the record that they set last week, which for eight years before that was 1:50, with their time of 1:47.9. The relay team placed third in the meet.

The 400 relay team of junior Erin Kershaw, Boyl, Imel and Lee placed second and broke a seven-year-old record with their time of 52.2 seconds.

The other qualifying team, the 1600 relay team of junior Myreya Amezcua, sophomore Wendy Berger, Uthappa, and Lee, placed third and broke a three-year-old record (4:09.2).

Also, the 3200 relay team of senior Kelly Riehl, Berger, and sophomores Micha Song and Ellen Mayer placed fifth.

In addition to Uthappa, whose winning time was 60.2, Lee and Amezcua placed in the 400; Lee took second, (62.4) and Amezcua was sixth (63.1). In the distance races, three girls placed other than Solterisch whose second place time in the mile was 5:26.9 and whose third place time in the two mile was (11:42.1). Riehl took fifth place in the 800 (2:29.3); freshman Toni Tedesco was fifth in the mile (5:36.3); and Song, sixth in the two mile (12:37.5).

South's two 100 meter hurdlers, senior Carin Seyler and Kershaw, advanced through prelims and semi-finals and placed sixth and fifth in the finals. Also hurdling her way to a sixth place finish was Imel who ran the 30 hurdles in 49.9, only 0.7 away from the school record.

Sophomore Dunrie Greiling, who recently set a school record of 110 feet, 3 inches in the discus, took fourth place in that event.

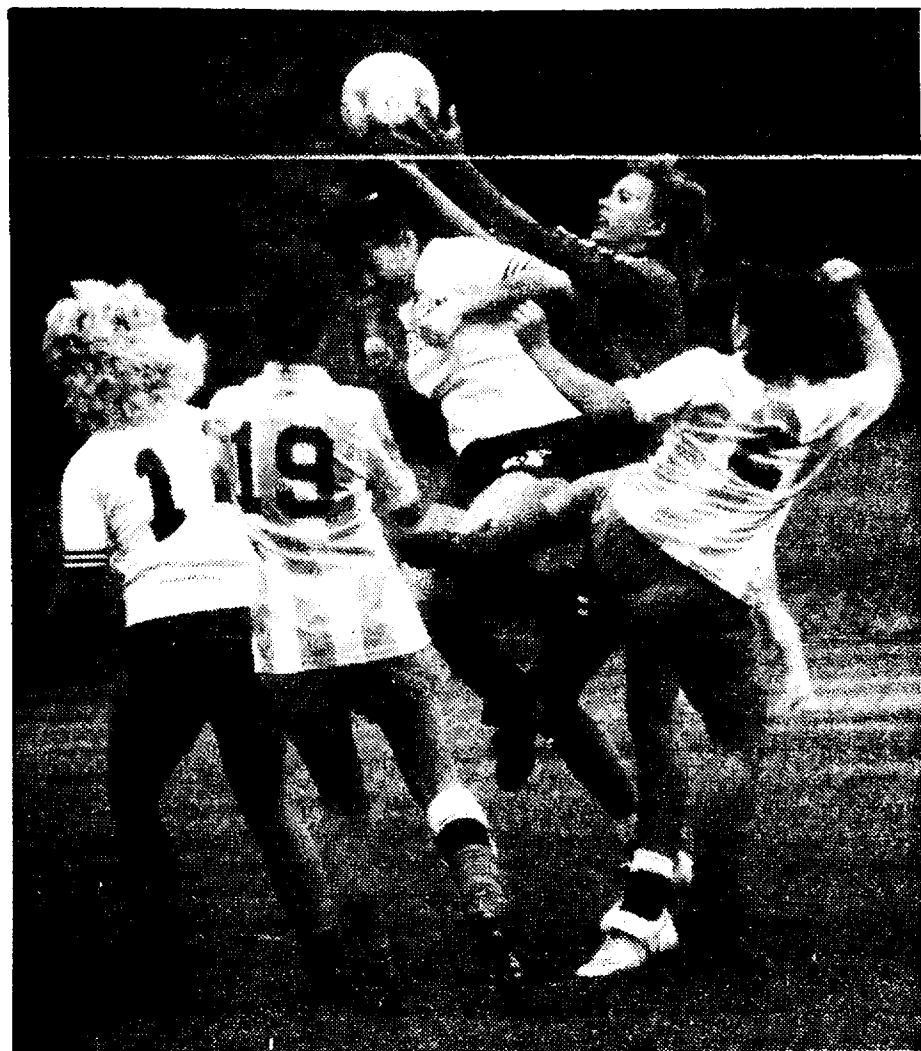

Boys fare well

South's boys' track team beat "much-improved" East Detroit last week 70-67, the freshmen conquered DeLaSalle, 80-59, and members of both teams competed in the regional meet.

Much young talent was displayed at the East Detroit meet as consistently strong runners senior Chris Astfalk and junior Brian Stratton were absent — coach Thomas Wise commented that "the younger members of the team made up the slack."

Wise also said that key people of the meet were seniors Mark Gall and Matt Winquist. Gall won the 200 meters and Winquist won the two mile run. Also victorious were the 3200 and the 1600 relay squads. Members of the 3200 team are sophomores Dave Nicholson and Dave Sultzman and freshmen Ethan Detmer and Lew Echlin; making up the 1600 team are junior Kevin English, senior Tom Arbaugh and freshmen Kyle Schomaker and Echlin.

In the regionals, Stratton won his heat, broke the school record, and finished third overall (50.7) in the 400. Stratton also took an overall fourth in the 100. (11.33).

Knight netters upset DCDS

For the 19th time in the past 21 years, University Liggett School has won the boys' Class C-D regional tennis championship. The Knights stunned Detroit Country Day School (DCDS), 18-17, last Friday. They were followed by Ann Arbor Greenhills, 5, Ann Arbor Gabriel Richard, 4, Pontiac Catholic, 2, and Ecorse, 0. In a dual match earlier in the season, DCDS had defeated ULS' 5-2.

Regional winners for University Liggett were Marc Hunt at No. 2 singles; Mike Fozo at No. 3 singles and John Birgbauer and Kirk Hagarty at No. 1 doubles. Regional runners-up were David Barlow at No. 2 singles, Frank Karabetos and Mike Niccolini at No. 2 doubles and Rob Glancy and Tony Malcoun at No. 3 doubles.

"What a great win," said coach Bob Wood. "I've had a good feeling about this team ever since our Florida trip. A lot of credit has to go to assistant coach Charles Wright. He has worked with the singles players all year and Mike Fozo at No. 3 singles and Ashu Nautiyal at No. 4 singles reversed earlier losses to DCDS," Wood continued.

During the week, ULS lost two tough matches to Catholic Central and Cranbrooke, 4-3, each.

This Friday, May 23, ULS will host the best team in Ohio, the University School of Cleveland. The University School will play Redford Catholic Central, ranked No. 2 in the state, at University Liggett's Cook Road courts at 1:30 p.m. on Friday and then play the Knights of ULS at 4 p.m.

Lacrosse wins

"Learning from our past mistakes and improving our play is exactly what I'm after," said ULS boys' varsity lacrosse coach John Fowler, describing the two recent victories his team registered over the University of Detroit and L'Anse Creuse North High Schools.

Against the University of Detroit high school on May 9, the Knights won 5-1 and took sole possession of third place in the league. Senior captains Ed Brady and Mike French led the Knights' attack; Brady netted three goals and French assisted on three. Cory Hoonhout and Brian Curtiss each scored a goal and goalie Adam Levinson played one of his best games to date.

Having lost badly to L'Anse Creuse North on April 18, the Knights played an inspired game May 16, winning 6-2 in front of a large home crowd. Again, Levinson played well, coming up with 14 saves. The Knights dominated every game of the game as LCN had a great deal of trouble clearing its zone. Brady and Curtiss led the attack with two and three goals, respectively.

The Knights will enter the opening round of the post-season tournament this week.

A Lacrosse Camp will be held during the week of June 16 to 20 at University Liggett for boys, ages 12-18. For more information about the camp, call 884-4444.

Alexander advances

The bus ride back from Caro on May 16 was a joyous one for the University Liggett School girls' track and field team. Almost every girl either scored points, notched a personal best or captured a school record. Tri-captain Lydia Alexander, with a school record time of 17.18, grabbed second place in the 100 meter hurdles and advanced to the Class D state finals at Hillsdale College on May 31. ULS, with 30 points, placed fifth out of 13 competing teams.

Other medal winners included Sophia Park (fourth, 100 hurdles), Sylvia Ristic (fourth, 300 hurdles), Miriam Mueller (fifth, 300 hurdles), and Nora Staebler (sixth, and a new school record with a 97 foot, 3 inch throw in the discus). All of the relays won medals. Tri-captains Paula Rodriguez and Charu Nautiyal combined with Diann Imbriaco and Mueller to take fifth in the 3200 meter relay in a school record time (11:24.32).

Park, Ristic, Elena Hunt and Jennifer Van De Graaf snagged sixth in the 800 meter relay, while Alexander, Priscilla Webb, Hunt and Van De Graaf took sixth in the 400 meter relay. Fourth place in the 1600 meter relay event went to Park, Mueller, Ristic and Van De Graaf.

Hunt and Webb ran personal best performances in the 100 meters, as did Van De Graaf and Kamina Brandon in the 200 meters, and Vara Samudrala in the 400 meters. Webb took seventh with a personal best in the long jump, as did Alexis Collins in the high jump. Laura Rizzo added a "p.b." in the shot put.

"It was a very exciting day for us," said coach Cathy Schmidt. "We have not scored any points in a regional meet since 1983. Last year, at the regionals in Napoleon, Mich., there were only three personal bests and no school records. The girls have had a wonderful 1986 season, peaking exactly on schedule. They are happy with their performances, and they certainly deserve to be."

On May 13, the Lady Knights finished their regular season with a 92-34 win over Michigan Independent Athletic Conference (MIAC) rival Lutheran Northwest. Alexander and Samudrala captured the 400 meters. Rodriguez took both the 1600 and the 3200 meters, while Nautiyal won the 800. In the 300 hurdles, Mueller snagged first, as did Staebler in the discus and Collins in the high jump. ULS won all the relay events.

Marc Hunt battled it out with Detroit Country Day at No. 1 singles, to help lead ULS to an upset regional championship over DCDS last week at ULS.

Track teams do well in regionals

By Josh Abbott and Jamie Wheatley
North High

North's track and tennis teams turned in outstanding performances in the track and tennis regionals at South High last week-end. The unbeaten boys' track team finished fourth with 37 points, the girls were fourth with 60 points and the netters captured second in their region with 23 points.

Senior Brian Bergeron took second place in the regionals and qualified for the states with 152 feet, 8 inches in the discus and 48 feet, 7½ inches in the shot. Junior Baik Hur finished fourth in the low hurdles with his personal best time of 40:03.

Earlier in the week, the boys finished a perfect 10-0 season with an 88.5-48.5 win over Lakeview in the Bi-County. Mike Wujek took first in the 100 meter (11.01), the long jump (19.3), the high jump (5 feet, 6 inches) and the 200 meters (23.01). John VanSyckle won the 1600 meters (4:41.06) and the 3200 meters (10:15).

The girls' squad won its third straight league title with an easy win over Lakeview on May 13. The girls' record was 10-1. In the Lakeview meet, North finished first in 14 of 16 events. Barb Labadie captured four firsts as the team dominated all the relays.

In the girls' regionals, North's 3200 relay team qualified for the states with a second (9:52.5); Barb Labadie was second in the 100 hurdles (16.4); and Barb Loeher was second in the 800 (2:26.0).

Led by Andy Coppa's first in discus and shot, North's freshmen beat Lakeview, 104-24. Pete Begin won the 200 meters (2:13).

Netters second, too

North's varsity tennis team capped a good week with a second place finish in the regionals. Chris Herman was runner-up in No. 2 singles, as was K.C. Gutow in No. 3 singles. Ralph Barber beat Tom Witt from South, 6-2, 6-1 in No. 4 singles.

In doubles, Drew McSkimming and Fred Kaleal beat Rob Hackman and Joe Mooney, 6-3, 6-2, at No. 1; Chris Colfer and Rob Eger were runners-up at No. 2 doubles; and Brad and Greg Cooksey topped Bourke and Huntington from South, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, at No. 3.

Earlier in the week, the boys finished second at the Chippewa Valley tourney, beating South, Grand Blanc and Chippewa Valley. They also picked up their seventh Bi-County title in a row, routing South Lake, 21-0. Herman was victorious at No. 2 singles.

Baseball victories

North's varsity baseball team won twice last week, beating Lakeview, 4-2, and Harper Woods, 6-1. Against Lakeview, Bill Miller pitched a one-hitter, striking out five. He also led the attack with two hits, including an RBI double.

Chris Dudeck, Steve Nieman and Mike Miller contributed two hits each as Ken Straske pitched a three-hitter and struck out seven to defeat Harper Woods.

The Norsemen face Notre Dame in pre-district action this week.

North's JV baseball squad routed Lakeview, 20-8. Todd Tyson and Josh Abbott had two hits each. Tyson was the winning pitcher, upping his record to 3-1. Russell Rice improved his record to 3-1 with a 5-3 victory over Brablec. Kris Kubalek contributed to that win with a great catch and a two-for-three day at the plate.

Girls split pair

North's varsity team split a pair last week, dropping their record to 5-4 in the Bi-County. The Lady Norsemen lost a tough 5-2 contest to Lakeview May 12. North trailed 5-0 by the fourth and was never able to recover. Lisa Van Hollebeke had a run-scoring triple.

Two days later, North won an exciting 10-8 game over Brablec, exploding for nine runs in the fifth inning. Julie Cook and Kerrie Trefzer led North hitters with three hits each; Amy Doniniek and Missy Preston had two apiece.

North's JV squad played six games, including three double-headers, winning four. On May 8, the Lady Norsemen moved into a second place tie in the league by splitting with Clintondale, winning the first game 11-8, dropping the second, 9-3. Janet Dunlop pitched a three-hitter and Lucy Barry provided four hits to key the win for North.

The next day, North handed a 10-2 and 8-4 sweep to Lakeview. The wins enabled the JV to move into first in the Bi-County with a 7-2 record, 13-8 overall. Dunlop pitched a two-hitter in the first game and a one-hitter in the second. Kelly Pappas and Katherine Sanom had four hits each to lead the offense.

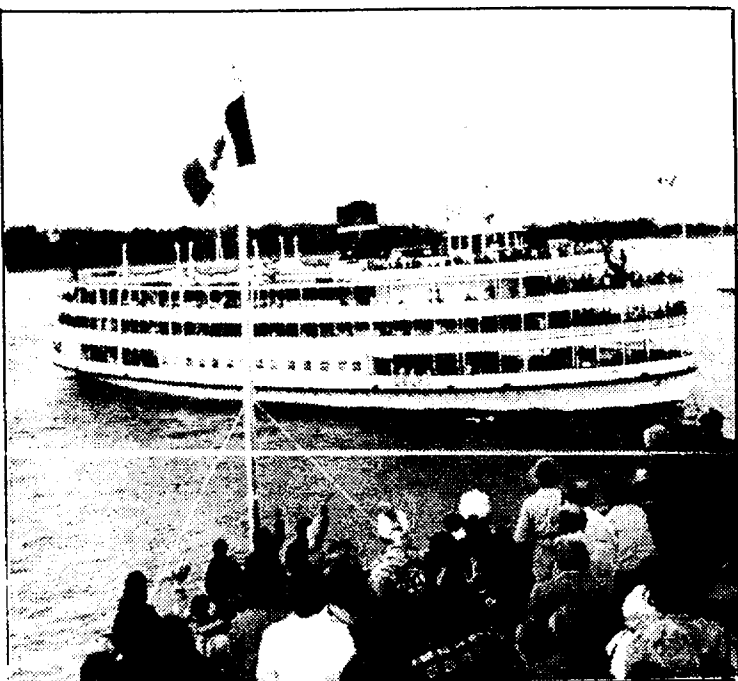

Referee/Director

The Grosse Pointe Hockey Association is presently seeking applicants for the position of referee/director. Good organizational skills and experience in ice hockey officiating are a must.

The GPHA also needs referees for the upcoming Fall season. Individuals interested in these positions contact Mike Anway at 881-5894.

Riverboat race

To benefit the Detroit Police Athletic League, the Great Detroit Riverboat Race will take place aboard the Boblo steamers Ste. Claire and Columbia Friday evening, May 23. Honorary Captains J.P. McCarthy and Bill Bonds will be at the helm in the 90-minute dash for the roses. Tickets are $5. Get them at selected Mini Stations, AAA Metro Area Branch Offices and the AAA RenCen Travel Center, or PAL Headquarters, 18100 Meyers. Call 935-3312.

'Mikado' is dinner theater offering

"The Mikado," Gilbert and Sullivan's witty musical satire, is the dinner theater season finale at the Golden Lion Restaurant which will run Friday and Saturday evenings through May 24. Set in late 19th century Japan, "The Mikado" tells the story of Nanki-Poo, the son of the emperor, who disguises himself as a wandering minstrel to escape an arranged marriage with Katisha, a very homely older woman. As he journeys, he wanders to Titipu and meets Yum-Yum, with whom he falls in love. Alas, Yum-Yum is engaged to her guardian Ko-Ko, Lord High Executioner to Titipu, and the series of plot twists, jokes and satire unravels from there.

Portraying Nanki-Poo is Robert Maniscalco, who recently appeared in The Theatre Company's critically acclaimed production of "Creeps" at the University of Detroit. Betsy Bronson, a member of the touring company of the Michigan Opera Theatre, takes on the role of Yum-Yum. Dan Castle, a veteran of many productions at the Golden Lion, Grosse Pointe Theatre and Stagecrafters, will portray Ko-Ko. Molly Dodge, who recently won critical praise for her performance as Big Julie in "Guys and Dolls," will portray Katisha. She will also take on another role in the production, that of Peep-Bo. Tom McCarter will also take on dual roles, portraying The Mikado and Fish-Tush. Also in the cast are Tom Sullivan, of Grosse Pointe Theatre, as Pooh-Bah, and Judy Hebda-Johnson as Pitti-Sing.

The chorus parts for The Mikado will be portrayed by "The Wickets" (The Wickline Performing Puppets).

Chicken Mikado will be the menu feature, with a seafood alternate available. Price for the evening is $19.95, which includes dinner, show, tax and gratuity. Cocktails begin at 7 p.m., dinner at 7:30 p.m., with the show following dessert.

Restaurant is located at 22380 Moross, near Mack. For further information and reservations, call 886-2420.

'Blue City' is fast-moving, mediocre

By Marian Trainor

A bit of Rambo, a touch of Miami Vice and a whole lot of violence has gone into turning "Blue City," Ross Macdonald's taut 1948 novel, into a fast-moving but mediocre movie of corruption in a small Florida coastal town.

"Blue City" is sin city incarnate. The police department is corrupt. Prostitutes ply their trade openly, gambling is big business and the drug trade flourishes.

Into this quagmire of social dissolution comes young Billy Turner (Judd Nelson), returning after five years of wandering around the far West. He has come back to be reconciled with his father, the former mayor of the city. But he's too late, someone has murdered him.

Billy is devastated. He had hoped to make up for all the grief he had caused as a teenager. Now he figures the only way he can make up for his transgressions is to hunt down his father's murderer.

His prime suspect are his beautiful stepmother, Malvina (Anita Morris), the chief beneficiary of his father's business operations, and Perry Ketch (Scott Wilson), his father's former business associate, who has moved in with Malvina and taken over as the ruling kingpin of the city.

Undaunted by warnings from every side that Ketch is a dangerous enemy, Billy is determined to go against the odds.

He enlists the help of his former high school buddy, Joey (David Caruso), who refuses to get involved at first. Joey has learned a lesson the hard way and has two broken knee-caps to remind him. In the end friendship triumphs over caution and the two set out to break Ketch and get a confession from him. They get some help from Joey's sister, Annie (Ally Sheedy), who is in love with Billy.

Written by veterans Walter Hill and Lukas Heller and featuring Nelson and Sheedy, who scored in the "Breakfast Club" and "St. Elmo's Fire," one wonders what went wrong with this film.

Scott Wilson as Ketch is suave and deadly. You can't see him rumpling his designer attire by mixing it up in any brawl, but you know he means business when he parades out his goons to impress

Paul Winfield as the amiable crooked police chief is convincing with his smooth manner that conceals a devious determination to beat the best at their own game. For a while he sees in Billy a means of achieving his end, but Billy's methods become much too outrageous.

The only endearing character in the film is freckled-faced, fun-loving Joey who lights up the screen with his bright smile and devil-may-care antics.

Ally Sheedy's role is comparatively small but she performs it well.

Judd Nelson's portrayal of Billy is strictly cartoon caliber. It is studied and lacks any sense of the strong feeling to match the violence of his actions. You get the impression that this kid didn't care much about his father before and he doesn't much care now. He just enjoys creating havoc.

Perhaps the major fault lies in the fact that this is a 1947 story played in modern dress. Back then the main character would be a black-suited man wearing a felt-brimmed hat and a grim expression. It doesn't play well with a 20-year-old on a motorcycle.

'Top Gun' is tops in cinematic excitement

By Michael Chapp

Is "Top Gun" almost completely predictable? Yes. Does "Top Gun" stretch reality beyond reason? No doubt about it. Does "Top Gun" lack a great deal of credibility? Certainly.

But is "Top Gun" one of the fastest-moving, most entertaining, most visually satisfying pictures of the year?

Absolutely! The fact is, all sorts of technical problems notwithstanding, "Top Gun" is a veritable bombshell of cinematic excitement. Nearly two hours long, the picture grabs its audience early and never lets go. Maybe it's the subject matter — lots of powerful flying machines and action; maybe it's the film's stars — Tom Cruise and Kelly McGillis. Or maybe it's a combination of both things which makes viewing "Top Gun" as enjoyable as it is. Regardless of the reasons, viewers will not be left wanting by this picture.

The film's title is borrowed from the slang of naval officers who teach at and attend the Fighter Weapons School in Miramar, Calif. Top Gun is where the top one percent of the navy's pilots are trained to be the best they can be.

Pete "Maverick" Mitchell

(Cruise) and his navigator/best friend Goose (Anthony Edwards) are chosen to attend Top Gun. Maverick is the hotshot son of a naval pilot. He's good and he knows it. So good, in fact, that after a routine exercise on his first day at Top Gun, he zips by the control tower at a heart-pounding speed to demonstrate his ability. That's the kind of guy he is — a natural-born pilot with a penchant for defying authority.

One of the authority figures at the school is an astrophysics teacher named Charlotte (McGillis). One can imagine the complications when the upstart Maverick falls in love with his instructor. The affair is long. The affair is not. The affair is predictable, as is most of the rest of the plot. Indeed, there are no surprises in the picture. One can see the high and low spots coming a mile away. Viewers know Maverick will have setbacks, they know how the affair with Charlotte will end, and they know how the story will end.

Viewers also sense that Maverick is getting away with a bit more than reality would allow. After pulling a few of the high-flying stunts at Top Gun, one knows he would have been out on his duff. In combat situations, he rivals Rambo in his win-loss ratio.

But it's very likely that viewers will overlook all of the faults with this picture and concentrate instead on its strong points. The photography is splendid — not only the ground level shots but the aerial shots of planes in action as well. A hard-hitting soundtrack compliments the visuals, setting mood and tension effectively.

Polish Country Fair

The Moms and Dads Club of St. Mary's Preparatory will sponsor the 1986 Polish Country Fair over the Labor Day weekend, May 23, 24, 25 and 26. It will be held on the lakeside campus located on the corner of Orchard Lake and Commerce roads. The four-day event boasts authentic Polish food, arts/crafts booths, Las Vegas casino games, a midway and amusement rides, and refreshments. Live entertainment includes bands, clowns and Polish dancers.

Fair hours are Friday, May 23, from 6 p.m. to 11 p.m., Saturday, May 24, and Sunday, May 25, from noon to 11 p.m. and Monday, May 26, from noon to 6 p.m.

Blood drive

The Bon Secours Hospital annual spring blood drive will be held from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., Wednesday, May 28, in the Science Hall. The hospital is located at 468 Cadieux at Jefferson. Call Jean VerHoye, R.N., at 343-1737 to reserve a place. Walk-in donors are also accepted.

Cruise is right on the money in his portrayal of the overconfident young pilot who learns a few things about life during his stay at Top Gun. Cruise is a cut above the so-called "brat pack" to which many of his Hollywood peers belong. One notices a very definite maturity in the young actor, and it is obvious that Cruise's talents will grow as he ages. Like a young Brando or Hoffman, Cruise has a definite presence on the screen, a sort of grinning aura that he carries from picture to picture.

McGillis, who played the young Amish woman in "Witness," is not challenged in "Top Gun" like she was opposite Harrison Ford. Here she appears very comfortable in a role which demands nothing but playing off Cruise. Still, it's undeniable that she looks good on the screen. And in this film, looks take up the slack that substance leaves. As the commander of Top Gun, Tom Skerritt is, much like McGillis, only reacting to Cruise, as opposed to acting on his own. And like Cruise, he looks the part of a navy man. But unlike Cruise, Skerritt seems old and worn out, ready to call it quits in the movies.

The film's pace though, makes up for any problems. And then some. There are at least a half dozen aerial sequences in the movie, all of which can't help but be fast and dazzling. But even the other material — the stuff that helps fill in the storyline — is presented quickly and lightly. The film never drags, never wears on the audience. Like the F-15s at the center of its story, the movie is sleek and shiny.

'Blue City' is fast-moving, mediocre

By Marian Trainor

A bit of Rambo, a touch of Miami Vice and a whole lot of violence has gone into turning "Blue City," Ross Macdonald's taut 1948 novel, into a fast-moving but mediocre movie of corruption in a small Florida coastal town.

"Blue City" is sin city incarnate. The police department is corrupt. Prostitutes ply their trade openly, gambling is big business and the drug trade flourishes.

Into this quagmire of social dissolution comes young Billy Turner (Judd Nelson), returning after five years of wandering around the far West. He has come back to be reconciled with his father, the former mayor of the city. But he's too late, someone has murdered him.

Billy is devastated. He had hoped to make up for all the grief he had caused as a teenager. Now he figures the only way he can make up for his transgressions is to hunt down his father's murderer.

His prime suspect are his beautiful stepmother, Malvina (Anita Morris), the chief beneficiary of his father's business operations, and Perry Ketch (Scott Wilson), his father's former business associate, who has moved in with Malvina and taken over as the ruling kingpin of the city.

Undaunted by warnings from every side that Ketch is a dangerous enemy, Billy is determined to go against the odds.

He enlists the help of his former high school buddy, Joey (David Caruso), who refuses to get involved at first. Joey has learned a lesson the hard way and has two broken knee-caps to remind him. In the end friendship triumphs over caution and the two set out to break Ketch and get a confession from him. They get some help from Joey's sister, Annie (Ally Sheedy), who is in love with Billy.

Written by veterans Walter Hill and Lukas Heller and featuring Nelson and Sheedy, who scored in the "Breakfast Club" and "St. Elmo's Fire," one wonders what went wrong with this film.

Scott Wilson as Ketch is suave and deadly. You can't see him rumpling his designer attire by mixing it up in any brawl, but you know he means business when he parades out his goons to impress

Billy with the futility of his mission.

Paul Winfield as the amiable crooked police chief is convincing with his smooth manner that conceals a devious determination to beat the best at their own game. For a while he sees in Billy a means of achieving his end, but Billy's methods become much too outrageous.

The only endearing character in the film is freckled-faced, fun-loving Joey who lights up the screen with his bright smile and devil-may-care antics.

Anita Morris as Malvina is sleek and wiggly and sensuous enough to capture the attention of the two top men in the town.

Ally Sheedy's role is comparatively small but she performs it well.

Judd Nelson's portrayal of Billy is strictly cartoon caliber. It is studied and lacks any sense of the strong feeling to match the violence of his actions. You get the impression that this kid didn't care much about his father before and he doesn't much care now. He just enjoys creating havoc.

Perhaps the major fault lies in the fact that this is a 1947 story played in modern dress. Back then the main character would be a black-suited man wearing a felt-brimmed hat and a grim expression. It doesn't play well with a 20-year-old on a motorcycle.

There are some nice shots, however, of the Miami coast in vivid colors.

Singing lessons

Adults who want to improve their singing skills and techniques can enroll in a voice class at the War Memorial. Cost is $55 for five weeks of instruction.

This is the inside story of '60 Minutes'

By Marian Trainor
60 Minutes-Minute by Minute
By Don Hewitt
Random House, 223 pages, $19.95
On Sunday evening millions of viewers turn the dials of their television set to "60 Minutes," a program that has been on the air for 20 years. Such faithful viewers will find much to interest them in Don Hewitt's book.

A large format, glossy-paged book, it is as fascinating to read as most of the interviews presented on the program. Hewitt, creator and executive producer, tells how "60 Minutes" came to be, how the correspondents pursue news and how an outstanding cast and crew bring the names in the news to the television screen. Attractive half-page, full-color pictures of many of the celebrities who appeared on the program along with memorable quotes enhance the book. Adding to the appeal is Hewitt's amusing style of writing. He doesn't take himself too seriously. Consequently while readers are interested in what he has to relate, they are equally entertained by his bright, breezy manner of presenting it.

Hewitt's communication career started in a rather traditional way. He was a $15-a-week copy boy on a newspaper. That background served him well when he joined the Merchant Marines where he landed a job on the "Stars and Stripes." After the war he got a job with the Associated Press. A chance meeting with a friend who worked for the local radio station alerted him to an opening at CBS for someone with picture experience.

"What does a radio station want with someone with picture experience?" Hewitt inquired. His friend answered: "Not radio, television."

"What-a-vision?" Hewitt asked. "You mean where you sit at home and watch little pictures in a box?" When he told his boss he was leaving for a job in TV, the comment was: "It's a fad — it won't last."

As a new industry, television jobs were not hard to get. The only drawback was the pay was low.

In the early days variety shows were popular. At CBS there was one news show "Douglas Edwards with the News." Hewitt was co-director.

News got a boost when Ed Murrow came on with "See It Now." Douglas Edwards was supplanted by "News With Walter Cronkite" and Hewitt was assigned to do documentaries — "snoozers," he called them.

To liven them up, he proposed a three part program and "60 Minutes" came into being. In September 1968, Mike Wallace and Harry Reasoner were chosen to launch this news program "with the personal touch."

One of Wallace's first interviews was with Richard Nixon. Hewitt gives a rundown on how it came about, remarking that "Nixon's encounter with Wallace didn't do either of them any harm. They both ended up with good jobs."

Some of the stories covered are remembered with pictures and quotes, but others get three or four pages of interesting comment of behind-the-scenes and the circumstances involved in getting them on the air.

In his reminiscences, Hewitt also includes stories of how Reasoner, Dan Rather, Morley Safer, Wallace, Ed Bradley, Diane Sawyer and Andy Rooney became part of the program.

'Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat' A rousing musical of a biblical story

By Marian Trainor
Bible history gets a swinging rewrite in a rousing "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" currently lighting up the stage at the Birmingham Theatre.

The play is a joyous presentation of the biblical story of Joseph, the favorite of the dozen sons of Jacob. Joseph, a handsome, exuberant young man who dreams of a beautiful future for himself, makes the mistake of relaying all the wonderful things that are about to happen to him to his brothers. They don't like hearing it one bit, and when Jacob presents Joseph with a cloak, the likes of which would make Liberace envious, they sell him to a Ismaelite who in turn sells him to the Pharaoh of Egypt.

Stripped of all his possessions, it is doubtful whether Joseph's dreams of greatness will come true. But like Aladdin with his lamp, Joseph has what it takes to turn bad fortune around — the power to interpret dreams. When he puts that skill to work for the Pharaoh and warns him to store up supplies against a 12-year famine, he becomes an instant success.

Meanwhile back at the ranch, his 11 brothers are starving. What to do? Contact Joseph and off they go to Egypt.

What Andrew Webber and Tim Rice have done with the score of this pop operetta is wonderful, but not surprising. This is the team that brought us "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Evita."

This take-off on the Book of Genesis is a musical treat. It is a kaleidoscope of songs parodying rock 'n' roll, ragtime, country western, calypso, mock-French ballads, even vintage disco.

Comic spirits and good voices enliven such songs as "One more Angel in heaven" and the lament of Joseph's 11 brothers intoning about the good old "Canaan Days" before the famine.

Don Goodspeed, who has played Joseph in more than 60 cities throughout the United States and Canada, brings a polished zest to his role. He is as big a hit with the audience as he is with the Pharaoh.

Carol Dilley, the bright singing narrator, belts out her songs in a manner reminiscent of Ethel Merman.

It is a superb cast that enters into the spirit of the musical and seems to be having as much fun as the audience.

There are show-stopping songs and dances all through the production, but one of the most memorable is the Pharaoh in a gold lame suit and a slicked down pompadour descending from the throne and gyrating a la Elvis while singing of his dreams to the beat of "Blue Suede Shoes."

Joseph is fun all the way. There are no villains, no messages, no need to ponder hidden meanings. It provides the best opportunity of the season to sit back, forget your troubles, enjoy and go away happy.

One warning: It is only here until June 6. Go early because seeing it once won't be enough. You're going to want to go back.

'The Gingerbread Lady'
Neil Simon's comedy will be performed at the Detroit Center for the Performing Arts from May 30 through June 14. The cast includes Bethany Carpenter as Evy, Jan Radcliff as Toby and Harry Carlson as Jimmy. The theater is located at 8041 Harper at Van Dyke. Call 925-7138 for ticket information and reservations.

'Critters' not flashy, but satisfying

By Marian Trainor
When the movie begins, "Critters" looks like a chapter out of an old fashioned story of life on the farm. There is the hard-working, beleaguered father, Jay (Billy Green Bush); his wife (Dee Wallace Stone) who keeps a neat kitchen and cooks great meals, including breakfast; his teenage daughter (Nadine Van Der Velde), a typical teenager, 16 going on 21; his son Brad (Scott Grimes), a freckle-faced 12-year-old who delights in teasing his sister.

There is a hired man who is never without his bottle and goes around telling anyone who will listen to him about messages he is getting through the fillings in his teeth. Brushed off as the town's favorite souse, no one pays any attention to his warnings.

And then one night, eight tiny creatures made up mostly of huge, fang-studded maws, escape from an intergalactic prison transport. They land in a small Kansas town and begin to scour the countryside, attacking any person or thing that crosses their path.

grow larger and fiercer. By the time they arrive at the farmhouse, they are formidable and terrifying.

As they begin their attack, the family fights back as best they can but it seems like a losing battle. They are up against an enemy that can break down doors and walls. There seems to be no escape.

But wait. Somewhere out in space, help is coming. Alien bounty hunters, who have the ability to transform their shapes into those of native life forms, are about to land. The leader (Terrence Mann), en route to earth, sees a rock video on TV starring a pop idol. He decides to take on the looks and manner of what he sees. He arrives looking like a clone of Mick Jagger.

The other half of the team has not decided on a model. He arrives faceless which gives him the opportunity to change his face during his stay.

As the two storm through the town looking for the Kryptes, as they call them, they raise quite a rumpus at the various places they visit. As they go, the faceless one takes on the appearance of the person who strikes his fancy at the moment. This is particularly disconcerting to the citizenry as his face changes from that of the deputy sheriff to the minister to the local looney.

"Critters" is a science fiction film as we used to know it. There are no dazzling special effects. It bypasses gimmickry, depending on suspense and humor to carry it.

If there is a star in the film, it is Scott Grimes who ends up pretty much the hero. He is a likeable ordinary boy who enjoys playing tricks on his sister, tries to get out of going to school and likes to hang out with the hired man. Even the taciturn ersatz rock star, who has trashed the town looking for the Kryptes, takes a liking to Brad. As a sign of his approval, he gives him an intergalactic communicator as he mutters, "Call me."

Although it's not flashy like recent outer space extravaganzas, "Critters" is entertaining. It has enough thrills and chills and surprise encounters to satisfy fans of scary films. It rates well in the escape film category. It is rated P.G.

Go north to Alaska

Space is still available on the War Memorial's summer adventure cruise to Alaska, offering a tranquil respite from a hectic world. The cruise is scheduled for July 5-15, and several price packages are open.

Surrounded by Alaska's majestic, snow-capped mountains, towering trees, glorious glaciers and unspoiled wilderness, passengers will cruise through the Inside Passage on board the Royal Princess, noted for its modern and luxurious amenities. Ports of call at Vancouver, Juneau, Sitka and Victoria will give travelers the opportunity to savor life in a section of the world often called "the last frontier."

To obtain a brochure with the itinerary and complete details, call the War Memorial at 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The Missing LINC

Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100 with your donation. KEEP IT MOVING!

CANNING JARS and NEW LIDS needed by the 4-H Growing Roots Urban Gardening Program. The 4-H workshops deal with organizing community gardens, working with youth in the garden setting, small space gardening and canning/preserving harvest targeted for persons of limited means.

HIGHCHAIRS, STROLLERS, MATERNITY CLOTHES, INFANT/TODDLER TOYS sought by Downriver Guidance Clinic. These items and more used in Parent-Infant Program relating to child abuse prevention. To supply material basics in hopes to relieve some stress which leads to abuse.

RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT — CHILDREN'S CENTER seeking out a working black and white TV, coloring books, baseball items, puppets and dolls. Agency provides counseling, with group homes for those that find it difficult to adjust to home, school and/or family.

METAL BLUE PRINT or MAP CASE desired by local Historical Society to preserve large store items. These could include maps, large photos, certificates from family genealogy to city charters.

UNIFORMS needed along with LAWN CARE and FOOD SERVICE supplies and equipment by Phoenix Job Development Services, Inc. Items used in job training programs.

ADULT WELL-BEING SERVICES is searching for a chair lift (for staircase). Individual can pull self up stairs but lift would help. A chair with a lifting support in seat is also needed to aid in independence in raising self from chair without assistance.

THANK you St. Jude for requests granted. R.M.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED MOTHER
Remember oh most gracious Virgin Mary. That never was it known. That anyone who fled to thy protection. Implored thy help or sought thy intercession was left unaided. Inspired by this confidence I fly unto thee oh virgin of virgins my mother. To thee do I come before thee I stand sinful and sorrowful, oh mother of the word incarnate. Despire not my petitions but in thy mercy hear and answer me. Amen. Always remember and pray to our Dear Lady. Thank you Dear Mother Mary. M.L.O.L.

AISG begins safe diving campaign

Beginning this Memorial Day weekend, hundreds of swimmers may be saved from tragic diving accidents by a safe diving campaign sponsored by Health Care Network, an affiliate of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, for the Aquatic Injury Safety Group (AISG). The public education campaign will generate flyers, brochures, feature articles and a special aquatic event all for the purpose of educating the public on safe diving.

"More than 85 percent of those injured in diving accidents are young men ages 15 to 29. The injuries result in lifetime quadriplegics due to spinal cord injuries suffered from dives into five feet of water or less," explains Grosse Pointe's Ronald Gilbert, chairman of the campaign and president of AISG.

Other factors contributing to diving accidents include inadequate markers or warning signs prohibiting diving, diving into unfamiliar waters with hidden obstacles not seen prior to the dive, and diving in above-ground pools too shallow for safe diving.

"Open bodies of water such as lakes are not any safer than in-ground and above-ground pools,"

Gilbert says. "According to national statistics, spinal cord injuries resulting from diving accidents occur evenly in both."

An important goal of the AISG is to promote legislation to require pool manufacturers and pool owners to provide depth markers and adequate warning signs about pool diving conditions. The group also hopes to enforce mandatory reporting of diving injuries so information can be shared with legislators to enforce these preventive measures.

"None of the spinal cord injury victims that I've met ever believed they could become quadriplegics just from diving into water," Gilbert says. "Tragically, these people realized the truth too late."

Those interested in more information on diving safety are urged to contact AISG, 1550 Penobscot Building, Detroit, Mich. 48226.

LSSC races begin

The first race of the six-race Lake Shore Sail Club's Sunset Series was sailed under brisk southeasterly winds on May 14. Fifty boats out of 99 registered participated in the event. Following are the top three finishers in each class:

PHRF A: Hokusai, D. Miner (first overall); Tigress, E. Niederbuehl (second overall); Sure, D. Naples.

PHRF C: Marksman, B. Lang; Time & Tide, G. Murry; Frency, F. Porter.

PHRF D: Cricket, T. Macro; Rough Rider, T. Balkwell; Magic, T. Podgorski.

PHRF E: Stormalong, R. Orr; Windy III, J. Rapelje; Clousseau, T. Hughes.

JAM: Omega, B. Clark; Mistral, D. Alles; Charisma, N. Mal-lory.
