A heavenly proposal

It was a Saturday at the ball-game, the Tigers were playing the White Sox, it was the fifth inning and Lance Parrish was up at bat. Parrish is Amy Frakes' favorite player and her eyes were riveted on the play. She heard boyfriend Tom Shimmel snap his camera toward the sky and as she looked up, he said, 'Don't scream, don't make a big deal.'

And up there in all its glory was an airplane pulling a ban-ner that read: Amy, will you marry me? Love, Tom.

"I looked at it and I first wondered if it was for me and I looked at him and said, 'Are you asking me?' and he said, 'Yes.' People were pointing and looking and the man next to us said, 'I don't know any Amy and Tom.'

The plane circled the stadium about eight times. "I got to look at it quite a bit and I felt that was my time of fame." Amy said. "It was so neat. I was really excited.

The couple met and graduated from Albion College. Tom is currently attending Wayne State University law school and Amy is a teacher at St. David's. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. John C. Frakes of Blairmoor Court and Dr. and Mrs. Robert A. Shimmel of Grosse Ile.

Their wedding will be in August 1987.

And what was the score? Amy said she knows the Tigers lost, but "to tell you the truth, I didn't think about the score.

Welcome back

In other nuptial news, a wellknown former local newscaster will be in town next week for the wedding of his son.

Vic Caputo has been delivering the news in Tucson, Ariz., lately, but will be hosting a different kind of program, a rehearsal dinner, on June 19, before the June 20 wedding of his son, John, to Debbie Andris of Grosse Pointe. Debbie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom

All-State pair make prep sports history wins."

By Peggy O'Connor Folks who say that nice, friendly, polite teenagers who are top athletes and good students - not to mention always on time for din-ner — sound too good to be true, have probably never met Rob and Kim Wood.

Rob, 19, and Kim, 17, are all of that and more: last week, they be-came part of Michigan high school athletic history when they were discovered to be the first brothersister combination named to All-State teams in the same year (as far as high school athletic recordkeepers can determine).

Rob was named to the Class A All-State team in hockey this past winter, the 5-foot-9 South High senior forward was the Michigan Metro League's leading scorer in 1985-86, earning a spot on the league's first team, East Division and finishing up as the east's Most Valuable Player.

Last week, Kim was chosen for the Class A All-State team in soccer after leading South's varsity squad in scoring with 18 goals and several assists. At one point, the suntanned, sturdily-built forward had scored 15 goals in just four games.

'We've never had anything happen like that at South before," said South High athletic director Chuck Hollosy. "We're pretty proud of both of these kids."

Neither Kim nor Rob are much for blowing their own horn. Each is quiet and self-assured, but they just can't seem to recite their own point totals, or any or their athletic achievements, for that matter. And they tend to get a little embarrassed when asked to try.

"I've never really thought much about it (being the first brother-Sister All-Staters in the same year) until my dad mentioned it,'' Rob Wood said.

"Dad" is University Liggett School athletic director and tennis coach Robert Wood. He's been around the pair since, well, the beginning and he doesn't mind talking about their sports successes.

'Sharon (Wood) and I are pretty proud of both of them. I guess as parents we're proudest of the fact that they are just great kids both on and off the athletic field," Wood said.

Kim and Rob are typical brother and sister, he added. "They have their disagreements, but they also confide in each other a lot and help each other athletically.

"Athletically, the only input that Sharon and I have had is to expose them to lots of sports, because we feel that sports teach some of life's greatest lessons. Mainly that you have to learn to depend on other people. "I'm also proud of the complete emotional control they both have.' Wood added. "Robby has never spent more than 8 or 10 minutes in the penalty box in a season, yet he has excelled. And Kim has never been red-carded in soccer, but she is able to play aggressively. That says a lot.

Bush, Kemp supporters file early

By Wilbur Elston

Grosse Pointe Republicans will be faced with unusual competition for GOP precinct delegate posts when they go to the polls in the Aug. 5 primary, which opens the 1988 presidential race in Michigan.

Slates of delegates unofficially supporting Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp have been filed in all or most of the 32 precincts in the Pointes. Unpleaged delegates or delegates pledged to the Rev. Pat Robertson also may be among the total of 84 candidates filed for the delegate posts. No formal commitments are required from precinct delegate candidates and there will be no ballot designation indicating whom the delegates support, but Bush, Kemp and Robertson as well as other potential GOP candiates for president in 1988 have been campaigning in Michigan for several months seeking delegate support. They are doing so because the precinct delegates chosen in August will select delegates to county conventions which in turn, will name delegates to the state GOP conventions which, eventually, will elect delegates to the 1988 national GOP convention. Overall, 3,700 delegates supporting Kemp have been filed throughout the state, according to Clark Durant, a Grosse Pointe lawyer who is state chairman of the congressman's campaign. That would indicate a strong statewide challenge to Vice President Bush who won the 1980 presidential primary in Michigan and whose supporters are claiming more than 4,500 delegates filed on his behalf. In the Pointes, the Kemp forces filed candidates in all 32 precincts while the Bush people reported 29 candidates after the failure of two of their candidates to file their petitions.

A number of challenges to precinct delegate candidates have been filed with the Wayne County election division, but only one has gate candidates in the city of De-troit have been filed by Richard Durant of Grosse Pointe, veteran Republican congressional leader, who is the father of Clark Durant. Election officials said a number of other challenges also have been filed and that about 50 delegates have been disqualified as a result. Apparently none of those disqualified are from the Pointes.

Clark Durant welcomed the ecord number of filing for GOP down individual accomplishments and focus on the team aspect of their sport, he added. Both their coaches, hockey's Tim Zimmerman and soccer's John Case, praised the pair during the season for their team spirit.

Rob and Kim have played together since they were small, their father says. Rob would play goalie so that his sister could practice kicking soccer balls and Kim, even today, gives Rob tips on his game. She's had to master the finer points of boys' sports since she's out-numbered in the Wood home by Rob and younger brothers Doug and Jimmy.

"We help each other out, tell one another when we've had a bad game," Kim said. "And we get game. pumped up when the other one plays well and when their team

They try to see as many of each other's games as possible, but with Kim playing soccer and volleyball while Rob is busy at baseball and hockey, it's not always easy.

"Somebody (from the family) always manages to get to our games," Rob said. "Dad says that when we play Liggett, he has to side with Liggett. But he tells us to do our best, no matter what," Kim added.

It's obvious they've done just that . . . and with great results. And lest anyone think that Michigan's All-State teams have seen the last of the Woods, they should know that Kim is just a junior.

Oh, yes. Brother Doug, 15, lettered in three sports this year at ULS.

Gandelot re-elected

By Mike Andrzyczyk

In an election that ended as quietly as it had been run, Jon Gandelot retained his position on the Grosse Pointe Board of Education Monday, June 9. The two-term incumbent outpolled Cynthia Pangborn 1,660 to 1,106.

With only about 8 percent of the registered voters heading to the polls, Gandelot was able to take four of six precincts and handily win the absentee balloting.

Gandelot said he "felt very good" about his re-election, adding he was "really pleased the community supported me again." The results show "support for what I've been doing and what the board's been doing as well," he added.

Pangborn, a Farms resident and mother of three, said she was very positive about taking 41 percent of the votes.

"That shows support . . . and gives credence to some of the things I've been talking about,'' she said.

When she called to congratulate him on his victory, Pangborn said she told Gandelot that if might be time for the two sides they represent to begin working together for the system.

The suspense was over about 15 minutes after the polls closed, as a small group of board members, their families and administrators watched the results come in. Whiel the 496 vote plurality that Gandelot held to the end was not Gandelot outpolled Pangborn in the three communities by 512 votes. Results in the Park were Gandelot 395, Pangborn 234; in the City, Gandelot 225, Pangborn 91, and in the Farms, Gandelot 472, Pangborn 255.

Pangborn did carry the Woods, 431 to 350 for Gandelot. She also won in Harper Woods, 49 to 30.

Gandelot took the absentee balloting 113 to 44. He also won in the Shores, 75 to 60.

Pangborn said she was disappointed by the turnout, which she called pathetic and dismal. "There's no excuse for it," she

Dedicated

John and Christine Mc-Naughton of Grosse Pointe Park received a singular honor recently. They had a sculpture dedicated to them at the new Riverfront Apartments.

The sculpture by Detroit ar tist Lester Johnson is a 15-unit, mixed media, totemic sculpture titled "McNaughton Place." It is part of an impressive art col-lection unveiled recently at the apartment complex.

Johnson dedicated his work to the McNaughtons because of their lifelong commitment to the support and encouragement of Michigan art and artists.

'We've collected several of his (Johnson's) works," John McNaughton said. "He's a Michigan artist and we appreciate his works.

Durant vs Nugent

Clark Durant, head of the presidential campaign for Rep. Jack Kemp in Michigan, will be facing a challenge himself from a supporter of Vice President George Bush in a contest for GOP precinct delegate in Precinct 4 of Grosse Pointe City in the primary election Aug. 5.

Durant, who has served as the GOP delegate in his home precinct since 1982, will be facing Robert Nugent, a 15-year veteran city councilman who is a backer of the vice president.

precinct delegates in the Pointes and elsewhere in the state on the grounds that is arouses public interest, attracts more people to the party, helps define the issues and raises the party's hopes for victory in Michigan contests in November.

A spokesperson for the Bush forces in Michigan said the Bush delegates in the Pointes were active people with political experience and names that will be recognized by the voters. She predicted the Bush forces would do well on Aug. 5 because Grosse Pointe is a moderate Republican community.

She added, however, that the early presidential campaign in Michigan has helped divert attention and money away from the 1986 Republican campaign for governor. She said many people who otherwise would be working for GOP candidates are spending much of their time on the presidential campaigns. While the national campaigners have raised money for the state GOP coffers, their fundraisers have diverted money away from the GOP gubernatorial candidates, she said.

Former employee wins lawsuit against Farms

By Nancy Parmenter

A former municipal employee of Grosse Pointe Farms has won a lawsuit against the city for wrongful dismissal. Robert Doman, 35, of the Farms was awarded $90,000 plus interest and costs on May 29 by Wayne County Circuit Judge Henry J. Szymanski.

The city plans to appeal the judgment, according to attorney Timothy Howlett of Dickinson Wright Moon Van Dusen & Freeman.

"We haven't decided whether to file a motion in the same court or go directly to the court of appeals," Howlett said. "But we will appeal

Howlett said he was reluctant to discuss the case while it is still in litigation. "Obviously we disagree with the court's decision," he said.

The suit charged failure on the part of the city to follow the terms of the Michigan Handicappers Act. Doman, a full-time employee in the Department of Public Service for eight years, took a six-month leave of absence for treatment of a mental illness in 1981. When he attempted to return to work in April 1982, the city refused, saying he had been absent without leave, according to the suit.

Doman was represented by attorneys Charles R. King and George A. Jones. "The Farms is kind of in the dark ages as far as handicappers go," Jones said. "His mental illness is controlled by medication.

Jones said Doman was put on the leave of absence for the purpose of obtaining treatment. Doman had also been hospitalized in 1974. Expert witnesses in the trial disagreed as to whether he suffers from schizophrenia or manic depression, Jones said, "but as long as it can be controlled by medication, it doesn't make a difference.

Doman has been working "successfully," according to Jones at a tobacco shop where he is required to deal with 125 customers a day.

Doman said he is satisfied with the outcome of the case, but that he had not been satisfied with the actions of his union during the time he was trying to go back to work. "They filed a grievance, but it was filed a day late and then the union couldn't do much," he said. "That's when I decided to see a lawyer.'

Doman said the city had not treated him fairly in regard to other time off as well. He was the guardian of an autistic sister and typically took Fridays off to visit her.

'The boss gave me the time off, but now they're complaining out it," he said.

At issue in the case was whether or not Doman had been told to send the city a letter formally stating that he wanted six months off for medical reasons and that he wanted to return to work afterward. Doman says he never was told that the letter was required. Because the letter wasn't sent, the city took the position that he had been absent without leave, Jones said.

The judgment of $90,000 also carries interest of $52,000, Jones said. 'They also were ordered to pay attorney's fees, which might be very significant," he said. Symanski did not order that Doman be reinstated in his old job.

Center tries for license again

By Nancy Parmenter

A liquor license for the War Memorial will be up for considera-tion again June 16. The question will be framed in terms of whether the city of Grosse Pointe Farms should increase the number of liquor licenses it now allows to operate actively.

The last time the issue was before council, the members divided 5-2 against the license. Membership is still divided.

"I don't see any reason for changing our policy," said Farms James Dingeman. Mayor "There's no new information. Several councils have acted on it - it's been before us five or six times in the last 10 or 12 years."

Mayor Pro Tem Joseph Fromm thinks some of the issues have changed. "Since the last meeting, I understand that some of the people renting their facilities have been running into insurance prob-lems," Fromm said. "That's something that has changed since last year. "There's one other big factor, and that is that the most vocal person against increasing the number of licenses now owns one himself." Fromm referred to Paul Marco, who is now the sole owner of the Bronze Door.

Fromm said he had opposed increasing the number of liquor licenses last June because he wanted the issue brought to a vote of the residents.

"I couldn't get support on a vote of the people, so I would be favorably inclined to increasing the number of licenses now," he said. "The majority of residents either favor the license or have no option. Most of the opposition has been from a small group that has made itself known through the media."

Councilwoman Gail Kaess' position hasn't changed. "I'm in favor of it — everybody knows that," she said.

Councilman John Crowley, the new member, could not be reached for a comment. He has not been known to reveal his leaning on the issue.

In May 1985, the War Memorial conducted a mass-mailing poll on how Farms residents felt about the liquor license. The returns were heavily in favor of a license, center officials said.

Petitions against granting the license have been circulating in the Pointes during recent weeks. Gwendy Lambrecht, the originator of the petitions, said last week that she has already collected "quite a few hundred" signatures, with a week to go.

"I think if people really understand this, they won't go for it," Lambrecht said. "The War Memorial is a cultural and educational place — it shouldn't be commercialized."

Lambrecht said she had been inspired to become involved politically by conversations with Dingeman and Paul Marco, who opposed the license a year ago.

"They were telling me about this and what it means," she said. "I don't usually get involved, but it's important to the community."

Dingeman said his involvement with the petition drive had been limited to advising Lambrecht's group to "make your voices heard.

War Memorial officials also feel that once understood, their position will garner public support. The main issue is liability insurance, according to director Mark Weber.

'Our insurance agent is encouraging the board to keep moving toward a license," Weber said. "We need it to protect War Memorial assets in case of a lawsuit especially in Wayne County. The change is in the 'deep-pock-ets' rule in recent years." Studies have found that Wayne County juries tend to award large settlements.

Based on the number of drinks served at the War Memorial, the cost of liquor liability insurance has been quoted at $7,500 a year for $500,000 of coverage, Weber said. Currently, each group holding a function at the center buys a one-day liquor license and has the option of buying one-day liability insurance at $1,500. Most of them go uninsured because of the expense, according to Weber.

If the Farms refuses to grant the center a license, the board will have two options. "We could require each group to buy insur-ance," Weber said. "We hate to do that — they're mostly nonprofit groups and don't have the money. They'd probably take their meetings somewhere else. Or the board could ban alcohol at the War Memorial. The board could refuse to take the risk."

If the council grants the license, residents should expect the program at the War Memorial to go on exactly as it does now. Weber said. "We don't have an open bar and we never will," he said. "But the board does have the responsibility to pursue the license to protect our assets.

Cities are allotted liquor licenses according to population. A de-clining population caused the Farms to lose one of its eight licenses this year. Of the seven remaining licenses, four are active, one (formerly belonging to the old Bronze Door) is in escrow, and two exist only in theory. The War Memorial would like to be allowed to use one of those two.

The War Memorial has been seeking a license for more than a decade. During the last year, it has applied for one of the two inactive licenses and attempted to transfer a Class C resort license from a bar in Hillman, Mich. It was turned down both times. The center also tried to purchase the Bronze Door's liquor license during proceedings in federal bankruptcy court in November, but was stymied when Standby No. 5, a corporation headed by Grosse Pointe attorney Paul Marco, bought the bulk assets, including the license.

Study says merger can save money

By Pat Paholsky

To bolster its contention that a merger of the police and fire departments in the Park would result in improved services and a cost savings, the city released a study Friday made by an associate professor at Wayne State University. The report concludes that the city, under specific circumstances, would provide more services at a lower cost with a cross-trained public safety department.

Dr. Kenneth Chelst, of the Department of Industrial Engineering and Operations Research at Wayne State, said the city could realize an annual savings in about five years of up to $111,000 a year or 4.5 percent of the budget with the following:

• The current total of 49 uni-formed officers (30 police officers and 19 firefighters) will be reduced to 45 personnel. "The major savings in a merger are due to reduc-ed personnel," Chelst wrote.

• Salaries remain at current levels. "Often a merger plan is ard 7710 the ديد بيني بينوناذ فلاذو and essential total a ancoli prognizatic salary increases ... (which) rapidly eat away at annual savings," the report said. Police Chief Richard Caretti said that the city, at Chelst's suggestion, has offered a one-time bonus of $750 to officers who volunteer for cross-training. The police officer's union has accepted the offer. The bonuses represent a onetime expense of about $40,000.

Salary levels are not known at this point, since the police contract expires at the end of this month and the firefighters have been working without a contract since last June. In the Park, each one precent increase in salary would reduce the $111,000 annual savings quoted by Chelst by $15,000.

The sole purpose of this plan is to improve service," Caretti said. 'If we save money, that's fine.' The report concluded that service levels, under a combined de-partment, would improve in the following areas:

• The response time to get an emergency medical technician or fostered by offering permanent a firefighter to an emergency salary increases ... (which) would be reduced from two minutes to one minute.

• Another detective could be added to the current staff of three. • With the additional patrol, police response would improve by 10 percent.

The report said: "The above improvements are not meant to imply that current performance levels are poor. On the contrary, response to all types of emergencies is excellent, averaging 2.2 minutes for fire and medical and under 1.5

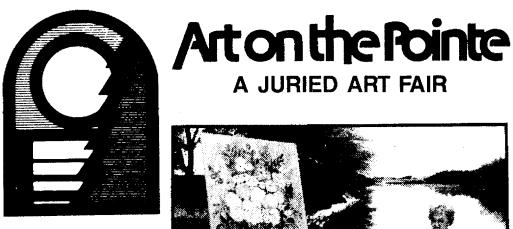

minutes for police." It should be noted, however, that response times were determined under separate circumstances. The average response time for fire and EMS runs were taken from the 1985 annual report based on 947 runs. Of this total, 681 were ambulance runs, some to Grosse Pointe City which is serviced by the Park department. Therefore the ambulance response time within the Park is "probably some-what lower than 2.2 minutes," the report concluded.

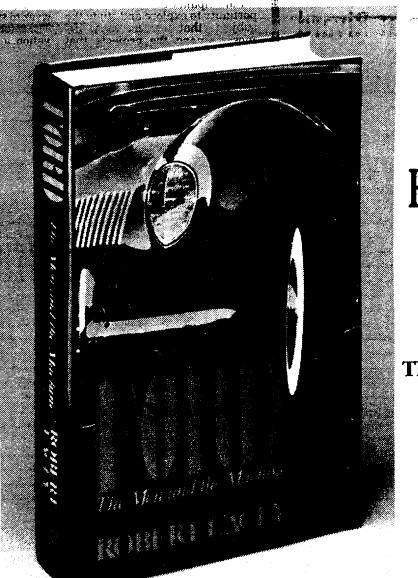

The average response time for police calls was based on 44 runs made during four weeks in May. Prior to that time, the police log did not record the arrival time of officers at the scene of a call, so a new recordkeeping procedure was established May 1.

Chelst said that each city sets its own standards before consolidating departments, which could be saving money or increasing police patrol. There is a trade-off and he said it's up to the city to determine if it's worth it.

He said when he is asked if public safety will save money, he answers that the question should be: Will a specific public safety plan save money?

Chelst, who said he has been working day and night to complete the report before the June 17 election, said the role conflict between police officers and firefighters "isn't that great." He added that a city preparing to merge depart-ments that "doesn't have a real commitment to training would be my greatest fear.

chool board begins planning for fi

By Mike Andrzejczyk The Grosse Pointe Board of Education spent a weekend getting its goals and priorities in line for the coming school year and beyond.

About 90 people — including board members, administrators, teachers, staff and parents - were invited to participate in the board's Friday, June 6, long-range planning conference at North High School, which lasted close to five hours.

Participants received briefings from the administration on enrollment, finances and academic achievement expectations over the next five years before being split into groups of 14 to hammer out what should be five to 10 priorities for the system. The board met the next day at Wayne, and spent a good part of the day discussing the findings of the committee before coming up with 10 general topic areas, for which goal statements will be prepared. The board's general topic areas were fairly consistent with committee findings of the evening before, according to school officials.

Four of the areas are continuations of work begun this year, according to Superintendent John Whritner. The board hopes to continue work in curriculum development - on which it received a report June 2 - staff development, supervision and evaluation of substance abuse.

The board is expected to receive a copy of the substance abuse report at a special meeting Monday, June 16, according to Whritner.

The 'Report of the Master Plan Advisory Committee on Drug and Alcohol Abuse" was developed by Deputy Superintendent for Instruction Joseph Spagnoli, five parents from the Substance Abuse Community Council and Gail Erickson the district's director of substance abuse prevention.

While not yet in general circulation, those who have seen the committee's report say it is extremely board in scope and impacts on students, teachers and curriculum.

The board's continuing interest in the problems of substance abuse in the coming year will see its address and implement the recommendations in the report, accord-ing to school officials.

New areas for which goal lan-guage will be developed include the need for staff recruitment, defining the library's services and role, the role of guidance of a "think tank" to help in future planning and direction, and a resolution of organization issues and facilities questions. Early childhood issues that need to be looked at include day care, latchkey and pre-school programs, developmental kindergarten, and balancing the concepts of "teach-them-young" and "hurried child syndrome.

Organization issues and ques-tions about facilities include energy efficiency programs at school buildings, maintenance of facilities and the ability to keep strong programs in the face of de-clining enrollment at the high schools

Jon Gandelot led off the Friday conference with some welcoming comments. At one point, he told participants, "What I say here won't be remembered for long, but what we do here will have a lasting effect on our school system." During the briefings Friday night, Dave King, director of support services, said the system anticipates having an enrollment in five years about 130 students fewer than this year.

The biggest drop will come at high schools, while elementary schools will actually see an overall increase in the next five years, he said

As part of his presentation on finances for the next five years, Fenton said the library expansion could cost about $4.5 million, which may be covered through the bond issue. Energy programs would mean another $1.5 million expense that could be covered by selling bonds, he added.

Board members had good reviews of both the process and results of the two days of work.

Trustee Carl Anderson said the Friday night conference was "a very good opportunity for dialogue." The diversity of groups allowed for input for a diverse group of interests and helped the board "zero-in" on some specific topics the next day, he added. Anderson said he was pleased with Whritner's comments Friday night, in which he candidly addressed strengths and weaknesses of the school system.

A youthful GOP dean

When an incumbent seeking re-election does not attract opposition from his own party, it can be regarded as evidence of satisfaction or apathy on the part of his constituency and his party.

In the case of Rep. William R. Bryant Jr. of Grosse Pointe, who has just filed for his ninth term in the state House of Representatives, we think the lack of opposition in the Republican primary Aug. 5 illustrates the satisfaction of both his constituents and his party with his record of 16 years of service in Lansing.

True, in November, Bryant will face opposi-tion from Nancy Resowski of Grosse Pointe Park, the only Democrat to file for his seat, but, given the Republican strength in his district, his re-election is almost a foregone conclusion.

If and when Bryant returns to Lansing next year, he will be the senior member of the entire Republican delegation in the House. Yet he is only 48, a rather young age at which to earn the title of dean.

He has held a number of other titles, too, in his years in Lansing. He was the Republican house leader from 1979 to 1982, currently serves as GOP vice chairman of the House Taxation Committee and is also a member of the Education and Urban Affairs committees.

As one of the acknowledged tax experts in the Legislature, Bryant proposed both the income tax rollback provision and the tax amnesty plan that were accepted this year by the Democratic state administration and adopted by both houses of the Legislature. The rollback re-turned the income tax to the 4.6 percent level as of April 1 and, if excess revenues reach a total of $150 million from current taxes and the amnesty, Bryant's plan could bring the income tax down to the 4.6 percent level for the full year.

The Grosse Pointe legislator also organized and has been active in the legislative educational development program which since 1983 has provided skills training for legislators and their staff members. And in 1984, he was named to the Republican National Republican Legislative Association as one of 10 outstanding Republican legislators in the entire country.

There is still an outside chance Bryant might not seek re-election but run for another post in November. One of the candidates for the GOP nomination for governor, Rep. Colleen Engler, has talked to him about the possibility of serving as her running mate if she wins the nomination. She is not the front-runner for the nomination but she might still win it if the three male candidates divide the popular vote. Bryant concedes that even if she wins and asks him, he doesn't know at the moment whether or not he would accept the offer to run for lieutenant governor. But the speculation is further evidence of the high regard in which he is held in GOP circles.

It also helps explain why Bryant so well satisfies his constituency and why he faces no opposition in the primary for re-election as state representative from the 13th District.

State an '88 launching pad?

Whatever the result when the competing claims of presidential aspirants are sorted out, the Michigan Republican party leadership may well have shot itself in the foot with its efforts to start the 1988 GOP presidential race in the 1986 Michigan primary. Why do we say that?

Because a new political force, the Freedom Council, and a new presidential aspirant, the Rev. Pat Robertson, a TV evangelist, claim to have qualified about 4,500 precinct delegate candidates to run in the Aug. 5 primary for the almost 10,000 slots to be filled. If a majority of these candidates win, they could give a big shove to Robertson's presidential hopes and play an important role in future Michigan Re-publican political activities

When filings closed last week, supporters of both Vice President George Bush and Rep. Jack Kemp disputed the claims of the Robertson backers. Bush people claimed to have filed about half of the 9,000 and more precinct candidates, while Kemp's forces said they had filed about 3,500. Obviously someone is exaggerating his claims, or, understandably, some presidential candidates are claiming the same precinct delegate candidates. It is true that the precinct delegate candidates do not publicly declare their preference for president but Bush, Kemp and Robertson all campaigned in Michigan to persuade people to file as delegates in support of their individual candidacies. The precinct delegates will become important in 1988 when they will name delegates to the state convention who, in turn, will pick the national convention delegates who will vote for the GOP candidates for president.

In short, electing the precinct delegates starts the presidential nominating process in Michigan.

Originally it was thought that the Michigan primary would provide an early test of strength for Bush, Kemp, Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, former Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee and possibly other GOP aspirants for the presidency. But the unexpected emergence of a strong Robertson candidacy has upset these plans and, instead, has given the religious right wing a new clout in the Michigan GOP.

Robertson, educated at the London School of Economics and Yale University, is a member of a prominent Virginia family. His father was a U.S. senator from Virginia. Robertson's Christian Broadcasting Network reportedly reaches 16 million households a month and brings in more than $200 million annually in donations, according to the New York Times. Robertson is the host of "The 700 Club," a religious talk show that appears four times a day and is seen on at least two Detroit area TV stations as well as a cable TV network.

It is true that the biggest test of Robertson's

Mayor Coleman Young just won't take no for an answer on casino gambling in Detroit, despite the overwhelming votes against it in two non-binding referendums in 1976 and 1981. He's now gearing up for another attempt to legalize casino gambling on Belle Isle or somewhere else in Detroit.

Yet he still faces formidable opposition. City Council President Erma Henderson said last week she would fight any casino gambling plan. Thomas Barrow, the defeated candidate for mayor, also joined the opposition, along with a group of ministers who fear that legalized gambling would increase crime in Detroit.

Even the mayor of Atlantic City, James L. Usry, in an appearance on radio station WJR last week, raised questions about the benefits of casino gambling. His city's casinos employ 40,000 people - the same number Young projects for Detroit - but Usry said that less than 8,000 of the total are Atlantic City residents. He advised Mayor Young to "exercise every caution" and make sure he had "written guarantees" about employment and other promises being made by casino backers.

A much tougher picture of Atlantic City's experience with gambling was reported in the May 11 issue of Parade magazine circulated with the Sunday Free Press. Ovid Demaris, an author who has written books about the effects of casino gambling in Las Vegas as well as Atlantic City, charged that the promises made to sell Atlantic City on casino gambling were not kept, and claimed that off the Broadwalk, the city is "a wasteland."

The author contended that property taxes and water, sewer and utility bills have "soared along with street crimes, prostitution and drug abuse." And he added that thousands of residents had been "forced out of their homes and out of town" and more thousands are "living like gypsies, two steps ahead of land speculators, as they shuttle from one festering slum to another . .

Perhaps the most serious of the many charges made by the author against casino gambling in Atlantic City is that most of the money being wagered "is coming from the poor and lower-income class senior citizens who can ill afford to lose any money." He pointed out that most visitors to Nevada's gambling centers have to travel long distances to get there, while Atlantic City is much more accessible to people who travel on buses from Philadelphia, New York and Newark, only 100 miles or less distant. Many of the poor and lowerincome groups make the trip from those cities at Atlantic City, even though they cannot afford it.

Mayor Young and other backers of casino gambling talk about the jobs to be created, the use of revenues generated from gambling to benefit park, neighborhood and recreation programs, and various other benefits. But he and other supporters of casino gambling tend to ignore the social costs and the loss of present recreational uses of Belle Isle if the casinos are located there.

Author Demaris concluded that gambling "leaves in its wake corruption, debasement, despair and the subversion of moral authority, and warned, "That is the real bottom line that states should assess before plunging into the maelstrom created by the gambling craze."

Those words ought to be taken seriously by Michigan state legislators who would have to legalize casino gambling and authorize another referendum of Detroit voters before casinos could open in Detroit.

Yet a new poll of Detroiters by the Free Press revealed last Sunday that nearly three out of five city adults 18 and older — actually 56 percent - still oppose casino gambling with 34 percent favoring it and 10 percent undecided. That division of opinion is roughly the same as the margin by which two previous referendums on the subject were rejected - and offer a strong rebuttal to the mayor's view that Detroiters have become more favorably inclined toward legalizing gambling in their city than they were in 1976 and 1981.

Tired of being deceived

To the Editor:

It amazes me the way Mayor Heenan manipulates figures. The mayor states that with public safety we will have 36 patrolmen, 38 EMTs and 45 trained firefighters; that's 119 employees. The simple truth is that we will have one man trying to fill all three professions. Also, according to the cities operational plan, there will be fewer men on duty to respond to an emergency than we have today.

The mayor also states that after only two weeks training, we now have 21 trained firefighters in the Police Department. Detroit's academy is seven weeks and then additional 24 weeks of "on-the-job training" before a cadet is considered a firefighter. The Macomb cademy is seven weeks and then cadets are considered firefighter trainees. Yet our mayor says that the fire chief has accomplished in two weeks what qualified instruc-

The Police Department and the Fire Department are the community equivalent of the military on the national scale. tors and professional educators take 32 weeks to achieve.

The two weeks of training does not make our police officers professional firefighters any more than giving Mayor Heenan a pipe wrench makes him a professional plumber.

Approved schooling and state testing is required for EMTs and for police officers. Who will protect our city during this training period, and how does the city plan on paying for the schooling and paying the men to attend? How does the mayor know that all current employees will be able to qualify for their new, forced professions, and what happens if they don't?

I'm tired of being deceived by our elected officials. Vote Yes on June 17, and help defeat public safety.

Financial, human resources are issue

To the Editor:

On Tuesday, June 17, I will be voting "no" on the Grosse Pointe Park firemen's proposed charter amendment to maintain separate police and fire departments. I urge my fellow Park residents to do the same.

The Park government has developed a sound plan that should be implemented. By providing per-sonnel trained in all aspects of public safety, the combined Public Safety Department will give us better police protection, better fire protection, and better EMS service.

Unfortunately for most of the firemen, public safety also means an end to their traditional 24-hourson/48-hours-off schedule and easy access to extra income from second and third jobs. To me, this loss appears to be the real reason behind their frantic anti-public safety campaign. Now all of us appreciate the years of dedicated, and sometimes heroic, service that the firefighters have provided. But that does not excuse their misrepresentations of the facts in an attempt to frighten Park residents into abandoning public safety.

The firemen's union tells us that, with public safety, the Emergency Medical Service will somehow automatically stop or, at least, be rendered ineffective.

Reason for concern

• In fact, the Park has made careful provision for retaining this important life-saving operation. Furthermore, under public safety, there will be more EMS trained officers which will make the service even better than it is today. It seems simply irresponsible for the firemen to attempt to scare our residents, especially older citizens, by explaining that public safety places their lives at risk.

The firemen's union explains that "seconds count" when responding to emergency calls. The union is right! But it attempts to deceive us with the insinuation that response will be slower with a combined department.

• In truth, we should neither expect nor tolerate slower fire/EMS response with public safety. And in truth, with public safety, lifesaving and property protection efforts begin when the first officer arrives at the scene - usually in a patrol car. From the experience of other communities, we can actually expect more fire and EMS emergencies to be under control before an ambulance or fire truck arrives from the central station.

The firemen's union tells us that the residents of Hazel Park voted against public safety — as if an operating Public Safety Department was thrown out with voters demanding a return to separate fire and police staffs.

• In truth, the issue was the same that we now face in the Park - Hazel Park's city government was attempting to establish a Public Safety Department. And in a similar campaign, the Hazel Park firemen managed to have their special interests prevail over the general welfare of the community.

Now consider what the firemen's union chooses to ignore:

· Our highly respected fire and police chiefs support the plan.

 Three other Pointes have public safety - Grosse Pointe Shores for something like 60 years.

· The mayor and council unanimously support the plan. Given their deep splits on so many issues over the years, their agreement on public safety is remarkable. It confirms my belief that the only disadvantage is to the firemen and their union — not to us.

The real issue is how the financial and human resources of Grosse Pointe Park can be best employed - with separate police and fire departments or with a combined Public Safety Department.

Public safety offers us the rare opportunity to improve city services without increasing their cost

There is just one last thing for the Park residents to do - they need to vote "no" on June 17. In Hazel Park, public safety lost by just a few votes. Hopefully, that will not happen here.

To the Editor:

Enough is enough - Throughout the last two years I have watched and listened as the governmental, judicial and electoral processes have attempted to operate in the Grosse Pointe Park public safety issue.

After the editorial and article in last week's Grosse Pointe News, I find myself compelled to write this letter. The amount of information which has been circulated by the pro-public safety opposition has been voluminous, cleverly written, misleading, inconsistent and often inaccurate. The difficulty encountered by the Grosse Pointe Park firefighters in getting factual information to the residents has been monumental.

In March of 1984 Mayor Heenan appointed a 13-member commission to study the feasability of a Public Safety Department for Grosse Pointe Park. One year later the commission rendered its findings. Of the 13 members appointed 11 out of 12 picked by Mayor Heenan voted for public safety and the one member submitted by the firefighters voted against public safety.

fighters, 36 patrol officers, and 38 trained emergency medical technicians. How they propose to staff all that manpower from a 44-man Public Safety Depatment is truly creative bookkeeping. The logistics of a man providing police, fire and EMS protection simultaneously with any degree of competency are at best risky. Grosse Pointe City is provided with EMS protection by Grosse Pointe Park's Fire Department. Grosse Pointe Woods EMS Service is fund-

To the Editor: As one of only three resident firefighters in the Grosse Pointe Park fire department, I would like to express my opinion on the public safety issue that faces the voters on June 17, and would like to urge my fellow citizens to vote for what's in the best interest of the community and not what's best for the firefighters' union of whom the majority of its members do not even live in the community. That is to vote no! I have been with the Park Fire Department for close to two years and have not yet been called to fight a fire in our city. Public safety will offer a more effective way to utilize available manpower. I am looking forward to the program as it will enable me to serve the Park in a more productive

Will the people sit back?

To the Editor:

It has been estimated that only 25 percent of the eligible voters in the Park will turn out for the June 17 special election on public safety. Is it really possible that 75 percent of the citizens in our community don't care about improving our police, fire and EMS? Will these people be content to sit back and let the firemen's union run the city?

This is what will happen if the union gets its way and changes the city charter to prevent combining the police and fire departments. Even though the city council has studied the public safety issue for over two years and has unanimously approved its use, the oppo-sition has used scare tactics and falsehoods to frighten some citizens into supporting its cause. Why? So the union can protect a wasteful, featherbedding concept that is 40 years out of date.

It is a proven fact that police and fire protection including EMS will be improved by going to public safety. The firemen's union, which will lose the right to represent public safety officers when the departments are combined, is only interested in saving its own skin. Only four out of the 18 firemen even live in Grosse Pointe Park. Still the union will do everything it can to keep police and fire departments separate which is why responsible citizens must vote no on Tuesday, June 17.

After the public safety commission submitted its majority and minority reports, City Manager John Crawford began work on a operation plan which has been altered so many times it may no longer be workable.

From this plan combined fire departments and police department staffing would be reduced by 8 percent - 48 current to 44 projected. In house fire department personnel would be added to patrol. Not at one time though. At best this would mean only one more police officer on the road at any given point in time. Quicker response time - this is highly questionable. Sudden adolescent death report goes to board

By Mike Andrzejczyk The best way to prevent suicide is for the community, families and schools to work together.

That's one of the statements made in the 63-page Sudden Adolescent Death report sent for discussion to the Board of Education Monday, June 2, with a set of 11 recommendations by a 21-member committee that studied the problem.

The report comes after four months of meetings by community leaders, school professionals, parents and students. The committee was formed in December at the request of Superintendent John Whritner and was chaired by Special Education Services Director Claire Hunt.

"The real beauty of this group is the composition itself," Whritner said. Representatives were selected from public, private and parochial schools, the Ministerial Association, the Catholic church, service organizations and health agencies.

The diversity of the group shows the depth of concern the community has for the problem, which has plagued the community for the past year, Whritner added.

Among its recommendations, the committee suggests its booklet be made available free to administraors, community organizations, churches and other agencies throughout the area. The booklet will also be available for $6.

Other recommendations include suicide awareness workshops for staff members; training for counselors, social workers and administrators to detect potential suicides; formation of a curriculum committee to review and recommend incorporation of information about suicide in elementary and secondary curriculum; and programs to be held on effective parenting.

The committee also recommends that media be encouraged to continue the education of the community about the problem; that procedures to ease transitions of new students be developed and instituted and Teen Helpcards containing phone numbers of groups to call for help be distributed to students.

The book maps out a plan for prevention and reaction to suicide among students. It also puts together some general information about who attempts suicide, some of the clues to look for and a list of organizations that offer help.

According to the report, about 2 million young people between 15 and 19 attempt suicide; 5,000 are successful. Girls account for nine out of 10 attempts, but boys are 70 percent of the actual suicides.

A recent study also said many of the suicides are by young people who have a history of alcohol or other drug abuse, the committee said. The reports also quotes a doctor who says teenagers who attempt suicide are often high achievers "desperately trying to meet perceived expectations."

Predicting which teen may at-tempt suicide is difficult, even for mental health professionals, according to the report. Teens have typical reactions to problems and students have three qualities in common: rapid growth with chaotic mood shifts, external and internal pressure, and a distorted sense of time, the report says. To balance those, the family must provide responses based on clear-cut rational grounds, ac-cording to the report. "The burden of structure and stability is clearly a family obligation.

To balance the pressure to achieve, students need to be encouraged to work to their own level, the report says.

The last factor to be considered is time, according to the report. Solutions need to be immediate and interventions quick if only temporary and should address the rapidity of change, pressures and time immediacy for teens. Prevention can't be a burden on the school system alone, according to the report.

"Just as suicide among young people is a community concern, the solution must come from the community," according to the report. "Schools are part of the community and are pledged to address the issue, but prevention cannot rest solely on the shoulders of educational facilities.

"The only effective response to suicide must be a holistic approach," the report continues. Good parenting, firm support systems, strong organizational affiliations and an educational system which is sensitive to the needs of young people are all important components of a prevention program.

The report outlines what counselors or social workers should ask of students and how to handle a potential suicide victim. Schools can also provide educational programs which cover a range of issues and concerns in adolescents' development.

However fine programs might be, it must be stressed that the best way to prevent suicide is through mutual efforts of the community, family and schools," the report concludes. "Working together for a brave new world may seem a monumental task, but why not reach for the stars? What else is a heaven for?"

The report's reaction sections calls for all elements of the community to "reach out to a family that has experienced a suicide.

"The family can better make (its) way through the grieving process with openness and support from others," the report says. "Healthy interaction will start the healing process.

In the initial four days following a suicide of a student, the school principal will call all staff to the building 30 minutes early to tell them of the death after verifying details, the report says. Such meetings eliminate a teacher being totally unprepared.

Support groups are offered for teachers particularly close to the student who died. Administrators also share their feelings during phone conferences the next day. A single school spokesman is chosen to handle contacts with the media. Sensitivity to parents' feelings needs to be exercised to insure honest reporting and to respect the family's wishes.

A crisis center is established that day at the school, with additional personnel called in if necessary. Teachers are to allow time in their classes for students to express grief. The principal, guidance counselors and clinical staff meet with students and individual classes to dispel rumors and encourage students to express their reactions, ask them to be supportive of each other and to reassure them that anyone in the school is available for help.

Peer counselors are identified and assembled and offered guidelines for helping their friends and to escort them to a crisis center as well as work through their own feelings.

On the second day, outside consultants are called in to help in a variety of situations. The third day after a student's death. parents of students identified as high risk are called and invited to a special meeting conducted by school staff and outside professionals, the report says.

On the fourth day after the death, guidance and clinical staff continue their crisis intervention, answer phone calls of anxious parents and meet with staff, according to the report. Front-line staff who have been involved directly with the crisis meet with a consultant to express their feelings.

Also, shortly after the funeral, a memorial service during school may be conducted. the report said. The service is to be voluntary and should help serve as a signal that mourning is over.

Ongoing prevention and reaction will include contacts with parents, students and staff, and the establishment of support groups will help them share grief with others in the community. Community resources for support should also be publicized, the report says.

The outline for reaction should be treated as a guideline that can be adapted to fit the situation, the report says.

The outline was put together from several New York school district responses to student suicides and was modified by the Grosse Pointe committee, according to the report. The outline may be modified to address suicide attempts or other events considered emotionally coatastrophic by the administration.

Liquor liability quotes

To the Editor:

I am aware that the War Memorial Association is attempting to obtain a commercial Class C liquor license.

Having been in the insurance business since 1966 with considerable experience in the placement of liquor liability coverage, I decided for my own satisfaction to check the present market for liquor liability quotes.

Apparently there are only two companies in Michigan willing to quote liquor liability. These companies indicated they were only willing to quote on primary coverage up to $500,000. This amount of coverage, in my opi-nion, would be inadequate for the War Memorial and its officers and directors, and I would recommend in addition, an excess policy of at

Letters Day of specialist is gone day of the specialist in industry

To the Editor:

The letter that was distributed by the firefighters association is a typical example of what some individuals will do to save their soft, lucrative jobs. It is ridiculous for these people to say that they want to protect us and the only way that this can be done is to maintain a separate EMS/Fire Department. You can be sure the only thing they want is to protect their jobs. They don't give a damn about us and to imply that they do is ludicrous.

I thought that Mr. Bialk's comment about wages and benefits was amusing. Who is he kidding? If Mr. Bialk is serious when he states that wages and benefits are not the issue, I wonder whether his group would accept reduced wages which would be commensurate with the amount of work that they actually do in a day. This would be one way to ease his conscience. Whether they know it or not, the ing it. We, as taxpayers, can no longer pay eight hours wages for one hour of work. The combining of the Police Department and the EMS/Fire Department will allow us to have the services that we need at a cost that we can afford. I, for one, intend to vote for the merger and hope that my friends and fellow citizens will also support the merger.

I feel compelled to respond to Palmer Heenan's typical political maneuver (the June 5 issue of the Grosse Pointe News) to turning his commission's example of a perfect, smooth operating public safety department in Durham, North Carolina, and attempting to ex-plain away total failure of this department, which has now returned to the traditional, and admittedly more efficient, separate police, fire and EMS departments.

On January 13, 1986, the mayor and the entire city council of Grosse Pointe Park unanimously supported the findings of a 13-member fact-finding committee by voting to combine the police and fire departments into one, efficient public safety department.

This merger was carefully and thoughtfully studied for over a year. Not everyone agreed with the findings. In fact, it is being opposed by the Grosse Pointe Park Firemen's Union.

You, the taxpayers of Grosse Pointe Park, will settle the issue at a special election to be held on Tuesday, June 17th.

As concerned Grosse Pointe Park taxpayers, we feel that a "NO" vote is appropriate for the following reasons:

1. IMPROVED POLICE SERVICE

The merger will provide us with 36 PATROLMEN (versus 30 now). This increase means that our city will have a minimum of 2 additional officers available on each shift -24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days of the year. It will also give us the extra staffing to help implement other much-needed police services including: (1) scooter patrols; (2) foot patrols; (3) unmarked car programs; (4) more "uniform" visibility on the streets of Grosse Pointe Park.

2. IMPROVED FIRE PROTECTION

, k

The merger will also provide a staff of 45 TRAINED FIREMEN (versus 18 now) to fight fires and handle other related emergencies. This means that Park residents can expect: (1) Faster response time to all calls thanks to increased staffing; (2) More comprehensive training for all staff members; (3) More efficient use of firemen's time; (4) More people to respond to emergenices.

3. IMPROVED EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICE

With the merger, there will be 38 FULLY-TRAINED EMS TECHNICIANS (versus 12 now) to respond to EMS needs. Also, there will be faster response time to EMS calls. Presently, we have only 2 EMS vehicles available per shift. With the merger, we will be able to expand EMS coverage to 6 vehicles (2 EMS vehicles plus 4 squad cars) on every shift, each manned with EMS-trained public safety officers.

4. MORE EFFICIENT USE OF TAXPAYER'S MONEY

By putting all three resources under "one-chief" --police, fire and EMS - - it has been demonstrated that a community like ours can operate with increased efficiency at no additional cost to taxpayers. Public Safety is working successfully in our sister communities --Grosse Pointe Woods, Grosse Pointe Shores and Grosse Pointe City.

DIO establishes memorial library for Dr. Marshall

The Board of Directors for the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology voted to establish the J.R. Marshall Jr., M.D. Memorial Library. The library will be located at the soon-to-be renovated DIO building, 15415 E. Jefferson in Grosse Pointe Park.

Space has been allocated and plans developed for this ophthalmic education center dedicated to the co-founder of the DIO. This area will also be used as a lecture hall and meeting room for DIO and Friends of Vision boards.

James R. Marshall Jr., M.D. was an ophthalmologist. A caring, committed individual, he was concerned that people not only have access to excellent eye care but that assistance also be available to those who were visually impaired.

With those goals in mind, he teamed with other ophthalmologists and laymen to establish the Detroit Institute of Ophthalmology, a non-profit institute dedicated to research and education pertaining to quality eye care and to support for the visually impaired. Ten years later, the fruits of their efforts are seen as the DIO's renovation of its own building begins in July 1986.

Contributions to the J.R. Marshall Jr., M.D. Memorial Library are tax-deductible and may be sent to DIO, c/o the J.R.M. Memorial Library, 15415 E. Jefferson, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich. 48230. Memorial contributions may be made in another's name with an acknowledgement made in a special Contributor's Album. Access to the J.R.M. Memorial Library will be available to professionals and students in the field of ophthalmology for research and review purposes.

Carnegie report gets praise, criticism

By Mike Andrzejczyk Some of the issues raised in "A Nation Prepared; Teachers for the 21st Century," released last month in San Diego by the Carnegie Forum, are already being addressed in Michigan, according to Grosse Pointe Education Association President Doris Cook.

Cook is a Region One delegate for the Michigan Education Association who serves on the Periodic Review/Program Evaluation Council formed earlier this year by the state Department of Education to look at teacher education programs in Michigan.

The Carnegie report was prepared by a 14-member committee of government, education and business leaders formed by Carnegie Corp. of New York.

The report said a coming crisis in teaching threatens the nation's quality of education and it put out a number of recommendations to improve the salaries, education and working conditions of teachlers.

The report said teachers need both "a command of the subjects they teach" and "a sound grasp of the techniques of teaching those subjects, information about research on teaching and an understanding of children's growth and development.

"Without a profession possessed of high skills, capabilities and

"What is Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease?" will be the topic at this month's Breather's Club, the support group for chronic lung disease patients sponsored by the American Lung Associa-tion of Southeastern Michigan.

The group will meet at 2:30 p.m., Monday, June 16, with Mark Kurzawa, M.D., leading the discussion in Classroom 3 of Bon Secours Calvary Senior Center, 4950 Gateshead.

aspirations, any reform will be short-lived," the report continued. Cook said she agreed with Na-Cook said she agreed with National Education Association President Mary Hatwood Futrell, a member of the forum, who criticized the report for implying that teachers now weren't well trained. Teachers are doing the best job they can given the myriad tasks they are asked to perform in classrooms at their rate of pay, Cook added.

Among the proposals from the Carnegie Report, a year in the making, are:

 Creation of a national Board of Professional Teaching Standards, which would issue teaching certificates and work in conjunction with state licensing boards.

• Restructuring of schools to increase teachers' decision-making responsibilities and professional autonomy

• Replacement of undergraduate teacher programs with graduate-level programs.

· Significant increases in salaries to make them competitive with other professions while improving continuing education opportunities, including teacher-run, district-based staff development centers

• Restructuring the profession to include "lead teachers" who would have a voice in policies and enforcing standards on junior teachers.

Another proposal in the report calls for using market approaches student choice programs and teacher entrepreneurism - to improve school productivity.

The NEA sharply disagrees with the open enrollment policy pro-posal and the creation of lead teachers as part of a three-part reclassification of the profession.

Creating lead teachers would essentially make some teachers more equal than others in the profession, Cook said.

Things she liked about the report included the call for more professional autonomy and more funding for schools as well as more rigorous standards for teacher certification, Cook said.

The state already has a board of teacher certification and is now looking at the possibility of upgrad-

Such a provision by Michigan is critical, particularly when one considers the number of administrators who will be eligible to retire over the next five years, Cook said. The nearly-half of the administrative staff that could retire may mean "a significant movement into the administrative ranks" by teachers, she added.

By making sure new administrators are certified, Michigan can be sure that those moving into front offices are quality people, she added.

Teachers need more support so they have more time to practice their craft, Cook said. Often, teachers have to handle clerical duties, supervise study halls and perform a number of tasks that take away from teaching time.

One way to improve teaching almost immediately is to give each teacher an aide to handle clerical and other tasks, Cook said. Such a move would vastly increase the amount of time teachers could have to spend with students in individual or classroom settings.

Having an aide would take some etting used to for some teachers, Cook said. They wouldn't be able to imagine not having to handle looking at training of teachers by studying the education departments at universities throughout the state, Cook said. Her subcommittee has been looking at only one portion of the question: student teachers.

The subcommittee is looking at the possibility of development of a four-year program for student teachers that would have them in schools observing teachers at a number of schools, watching the various functions at a single school, taking on a teacher's responsibilities and finally returning to campus to strengthen their skills or take remedial work.

More important than the Carnegie report is one expected in August from the National Governors Association. That report is considered by the NEA to be the most significant one since the 1983 'A Nation At Risk'' report that focused public awareness on problems in the education system, according to Cook.

The governors' report will feature a set of recommendations that governors throughout the nation can use to build a foundation for their state's education reform, according to the NEA

Kindertalk offers language development

Helping children learn to master the intricacies of language is the primary goal of the Grosse Pointe Public School System's new program, Kindertalk. Utilizing the skills of a teacher trained in speech as well as primary education, Kindertalk offers a kindergarten ex-perience with intensive language emphasis to those children who have demonstrated difficulty in the use of language. Dr. Alfrieda Frost, director of elementary education, anticipates there will be approximately 25 students to participate in Kindertalk this year.

"Our regular screening offered to four-year-olds helps us identify those beginning students who would benefit from this program. And we've learned from experience that early remediation is most beneficial in fostering future success at school," she said.

The two sections, one morning and one afternoon, will be at Richard School in a kindergarten classroom.

Anne Speicher Basco has been chosen to teach the newly formed class. A speech teacher in Grosse Pointe for 17 years, she's en-thusiastic about the opportunities Kindertalk offers. Several of the children with whom she'll be working in the fall have been in her twotimes-a-week pre-school speech classes already.

the traditional curriculum and expand it for these children helps them develop vocabulary, gram-mar and auditory memory skills," she said. Of particular benefit to both Basco and her students will be the addition of an aide in her classroom. "This will free me to work with children in small groups when the aide directs art projects and other activities," she added.

The idea for Kindertalk originated in staff discussions during the development of the new five-year plan for the school system. A recurring need seen by school psychologists, social workers, consult-ants, speech and learning disabiliteachers was for early ty language remediation. A part of the general education program, Kindertalk has been designed to ay's police roots are in the Old West

By Nancy Parmenter When John Paul Day graduated from the police academy at the top of his class Thursday, he followed in the law-enforcing footsteps of two great-grandfathers. — a West-ern sheriff and a Detroit cop. But he said it isn't exactly a family fradition.

"It's more of a coincidence, really," Day said last week at his parents' home in the City. "Once I started studying criminal justice (at Northern Michigan University), everybody in the family started to mention my greatgrandfathers.

Day has only been on the job for two weeks (work starts before the formal graduation), so he hasn't had time yet to handle any exciting crimes. He has been detailed to work Hart Plaza and Greektown, where there has been gang activity this spring.

A four-year career as an M.P. in the Marines had its moments, though. Day, a graduate of the Grosse Pointe Schools, once transported Charles Ng, now in-famous as a mass-murder suspect in California, then wanted for stealing grenade launchers and automatic weapons from a naval base for sale to drug dealers in Hawaii.

"I never figured out why he was free in California," Day said. "Once you're sentenced in the Marines, you don't get out. He must have escaped - the papers never went into that.'

His most dangerous moment came when he stopped a woman for speeding on base and she tried to run over him with her car. "She pulled a gun on me," Day said, "and when I took it from her, she turned her car around and tried to run me over."

Times like that, or the time Day's detail discovered the scene of a mass ax murder, would make some people want to get as far away from law enforcement as possible. But Day says it firmed his resolve to be a policeman.

'I want to do something I can look back on and feel I accomplished something," he said. That must have been the feeling of great-grandfather John J. Downey, who ran away and joined the Eighth Michigan Infantry as a drummer boy when he was young enough to have to lie about his age.

Downey fought at Gettysburg, Chancellorsville and in the Wilderness Campaign. He was wounded twice, once when a spent musket-ball lodged in his temple. He was taken prisoner. He got a battlefield promotion at Second Bull Run -and had it taken away again while he languished in a battlefield hospital.

"He was a colorful guy," said Downey's grandson, Clarence Day. "I wish I had known him.

When he got out of the army and grew up, Downey joined the Detroit police force - 101 years ago this month. He eventually became superintendent of police. The family still has his ceremonial nightstick with the gold braid.

They have great-grandfather John Francis Mettlach's Colt .45, too. The one with the short barrel prized by gunfighters because it was so easy to draw. This one is the sheriff's model, called the Peacemaker.

Mettlach was the sheriff in Medicine Lodge, Kansas, a town known for the cowardice of its citizens. The place had been terrorized by "swaggering ruffians," wrote the local editor. The desperadoes so frightened the residents that they were known far and wide as white-livered.'

That is, until the day Sheriff Mettlach decided to crack down.

A gang of desperadoes rode into the town they perceived as an easy target. They held up the bank and shot the clerk and the bank presi-dent. But the dying clerk foiled their plans by locking the vault. In a rage, the gang rode out of town, soon pursued by the sheriff and a posse. The lawmen cornered the outlaws in a box canyon and

The Board of Education Monday, June 2, added an additional teacher to handle the duties of a third all-day kindergarten section next year.

The system has received 54 enrollments so far, more that it feels comfortable with having in two sections, according to Dr. Alfrieda Frost, director of elementary curriculum. The starting of the third section will allow for additional growth should enrolliments be made during the summer, she said.

The district will offer the all-day program at three schools, instead of two. The program will be con-tinued at Defer and Ferry and added to Kerby, making it more con-

There could be a number of reasons for the increased enrollment in the program, Frost said. Popularity, the increasing number of two-income families and the number of children already used to a full-day program are all possibil-ities, she added.

The all-day program uses the same curriculum as the half-day kindergarten class, with the extra time used to reinforce lessons. The program is paid by tuition. Half the cost of the new kindergarten teacher will be paid for by tuition payments, according to the district.

School taxes may go up 4.9 percent

Some more unanticipated revenue is expected to allow the Board of Education to keep a tax increase for the coming year below 5 percent.

Superintendent John Whritner said he recommended the board use excess revenue from cost-ofliving payments the district doesn't have to make and $143.000 from the state to cut the proposed tax increase from 6.6 percent to 4.9 percent.

Also, Whritner said he recom-mended the board approve funding for full-time assistant principals at the middle schools, adding fulltime counselors at the middle schools and paying $5,000 to send 50 staff members to a Lansing conference on staff development and supervision.

The $143,000 was an adjustment for state reimbursements, according to Chris Fenton, director of business affairs.

The improvements will cost about $46,000, according to school officials.

Because of the election Monday, the board put off its regular meeting until Tuesday, June 10, after press time.

The next step, after approval of the budget, is the Truth in Taxation hearing, which will be set for August. The tax levy won't be officially set until mid-September. according to the district.

The Michigan Lottery annually pro vides players with millions of cash prizes, but it is those prizes of a million dollars or more that most intrigue people. We surveyed nearly 100 Michigan

Lottery millionaires to see what it is like to win such a large prize. The results were interesting.

Q: Do the big winners usually go on spending sprees?

A: Few winners, if any, reported going on spending binges. In fact, most sought professional financial counseling to make plans for their newfound wealth.

Q: What type of plans did most

A: Most said the best part about winning was the financial security it pro-vided. The majority got involved in investment programs. Others estab-lished trust funds for children or began savings programs

Q: What did most of the millionaires do with their first annual payment?

A: Purchasing a new car was the most frequent response. Paying bills, sharing the prize with family members and making charitable donations followed.

Q: Is it true that most of the winners quit their jobs?

A: No. Most planned to continue work ing, though a significant portion planned early retirement. Some were retired at the time of their win. The smallest portion retired after winning.

Q: Do lottery millionaires usually relocate after winning?

A: Nearly a third reported buying a new home in the same community or a nearby city. Most others remained in the same dwelling. Only three percent moved out of state.

Q: How did winners feel about their contact with news media?

A: About two-thirds of the respondents reported their experience to be

Q: If that is so, then why don't we see or hear more about local winners?

A: The Lottery releases at least the name, home city and prize amount for winners of $5,000 or more in the instant. Lotto and Super Lotto games. It is up to individual media whether they use this information. If you want to read or hear more about winners in your area. let your local media know.

Q: Is there an average lottery millionaire?

A: No. They are young, old, men and women. They're single, married, retired and employed in almost every job field. In other words, they are just like YOU.

Foundation will unveil Lakeshore plan

By Mike Andrzejczyk

The Grosse Pointe Shores Im-provement Foundation will hold its second fundraising party Sunday, June 22, from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Ed-sel & Eleanor Ford House. The foundation will unveil its plans for the beautification of Lakeshore for its length through the Shores.

The plantings and landscaping along the medians and shorelines will cost about $500,000, according to foundation members

The beautification of Lakeshore has already begun, according to foundation President Kurt O. Tech. Through its fundraising efforts, the foundation has been able to finance landscaping of recurbed medians from Vernier to Hawthorne and hopes to extend the work to Roslyn.

The foundation is supported through tax-deductible donations of residents. While everyone knows how much they pay in taxes, few people are aware that only about 25 percent of those dollars actual-ly support community services, with the rest going to schools and county parks, according to event chairman Ron Lamparter.

"Particularly in small communities like the Shores, that doesn't leave any money for projects like this," he added.

The plan, developed by architect John Grissim and Associates in conjunction with the Shores Beautification Commission, will include the prices for each planting, grouping and island to be worked on, according to foundation members. It is hoped that residents will aid the project by donating the cost of a tree or plant grouping. Because a number of residents have co-hosted the party, all of the $50 ticket price will go to the foundation, officials said.

The evening will include cock-tails and buffet. Music will be pro-vided by the Johnny Trudell Or-chetra. House tours will run from 5:30 to 7 p.m. during the outdoor reception.

While Lakeshore is the most noticable of the foundation's projects, there are others. Work should begin soon on the landscaping of the island around the Oxford Road shelter, officials said. There are 487 families who are members of the foundation, ac-cording to membership committee chairman Paul Naz. About half the families in the Shores are now members, an increase of 20 percent over last year, he added.

That 20 percent jump could be because residents are seeing the foundation's work, according to Barbara Willett, vice chairman of the membership committee. "The membership has gone up because residents have seen the visual impact of what the foundation has done," she added.

Tickets for the event are in the mail to residents. An RSVP is re-quired by Monday, June 16.

'Spotlight on Books'' is the theme for this year's Summer Reading Program at the Grosse Pointe Public Library. The pro-gram runs to Aug. 21 at all three libraries in the Pointes, and is open to "anyone who reads and loves books," according to Blaine Morrow, chief of Children's Services.

Children must register for the program at the library, and they're given a graded bookmark with suggested reading for their grade level. They can then visit the library anytime afterward to activities:

Shores approves budget

Some Shores homeowners may see a small reduction in their tax bills this year. The village council adopted a formal budget May 27 for the current fiscal year and set a tax rate.

The tax rate was rolled back under the Headlee Amendment to 15.54 mills, according to Village Superintendent Michael Kenyon. Home values in the Shores increased by more than $7 million this year, but depending on each taxpayer, the increase may mean a larger or smaller tax bill, he said.

The village's $2.8 million budget was achieved by deleting a couple of projects. The Shores made a reduction in its contribution to major and local streets fund, while putting off a $225,000 Renaud road $2,858,680.

sewer project, Kenyon said. Village President Gerald Schroeder called the 1986-87 budget

"a tight... but adequate budget," at the meeting. The village's fiscal year runs from April to March. Because of state law, the Shores needs a budget document in place by the end of March, but the final document is approved and modified when the tax rate is set.

The council originally passed a budget in March totalling $3,106,485, but the paring of the sewer and street project, along with some other water and sewer work, delaying purchase of scout cars and putting off renovation of Vernier School, cut that to State a launching pad?

Robertson, of course, has as much right to run for the presidency as any other qualified citizen. The problem is that the Christian conservatives who are in his corner tend to narrow the parameters of the GOP to those people who agree with them on such social issues as abortion, tax credits and religious schools, pornography legislation and other matters.

The reaction of regular Republicans in two other states is instructive. Mary Louise Smith, a former Republican National Committee chairwoman, was elected a precinct delegate in her native Iowa only after a bitter fight with the Iowa Christian movement. Afterwards, Mrs. Smith said she objected to the "exclusionary" efforts of her opponents who sought "almost a kind of unreasonable imposition of their views — moral and religious views — on the political system and a lack of willingness of discuss these issues on the floor . . ."

In Indiana, a GOP leader whose candidate lost the party nomination for a congressional seat to a Christian-backed pastor from Indianapolis, warned: "If their (the Christian movement) intent is to drag or push the Republican Party so far to the right that we lose the center, then they are dooming themselves to failure because they will lose the election."

The same warning could be issued to the Michigan Republican Party about the efforts of the Robertson backers and other Christian conservatives to dictate party policy and take control.

Shopping for Father's Day

By Peter A. Salinas

Each year all over America, fathers everywhere are treated to a tie they won't wear, a shirt that doesn't fit or a cologne they find repugnant.

Don't worry Pop, this Father's Day there may be something you'll love in that hard-to-find masculine wrapping paper. Local retailers are saying mothers and children have one-size terrycloth bathseveral weeks, and wait until you see what they've picked out for vou

Traditionally men have been the recipients of shirts and ties, and Dick Rohrbach, president of E.J. Hickey Co., a meanswear shop in the City, says that will likely continue to be his biggest seller.

Neckties are our biggest seller at Father's Day," Rohrbach said.

Peter Ahee, of Edmund T. Ahee Jewelers in the Woods, says watches are traditionally the jewelry selection for Papa on his day.

"Watches have always been more popular, but lately jewelry like gold and diamonds have become a more common gift,' Ahee said.

"We have sold more diamonds for men in the last year than ever before." he said.

Diamond studs for tuxes and diamond cufflink sets are popular gift items right now. Ahee said round diamonds for men's rings are also a great gift.

Several retailers said the Father's Day shopping spree began weeks ago, in sharp contrast to Mother's Day shoppers who tend to buy gifts at the last minute.

If educating the man in your life is a goal, he can become bi-, tri- or multi-lingual with the aid of language tapes he can pop into the car cassette player on his way to

For the athlete, Metro Ski and Sports' Dick Matzka, says sailboards are very popular, but if you had something under $400 in mind, beach shorts like Ocean Breeze, Mistral and Life's a Beach are very hot merchandise.

Matzka said Reebok footwear is also very popular, as are the casual-look sportswear like tennis shirts, he says, are now acceptable dresswear, just about anywhere.

"They probably always will be, and we're loaded for bear if that's what they want to get Dad."

But if Dad's a sailor, there is an alternative. Rohrbach said they have one-size terrycloth bathrobes with nautical flags printed on them. And if you think the man around the house has more adventurous tastes, Rohrbach suggests colorful India madras slacks. They are made from handwoven cotton and are "great for golfing."

Morrow wins award

Blaine Morrow, chief of Children's Services for the Grosse Pointe Public Library, is one of four children's librarians in the country to receive a 1986 Putnam Award. The award, which includes a check for $400, is given to a first-time attendee to the Annual American Library Association Conference, which is to be held in New York City this year.

Linda Albrecht, co-owner of the Ship's Wheel in the Woods, said her nautical motif gift items are always big sellers at Father's Day. This year the shop has a brass power boat for sale - usually, brass sailboats are the norm. Ties, sailing caps, sweaters and belts, all with a nautical theme, make the biggest part of her Father's Dav sales.

Maryanne Harvey, owner of Harvey's Compleat Traveler in the City, said that, historically, business cases, billfolds, desk and traveling accessories are the big sellers.

She said however, that when Dad comes to mind, there are endless gift possibilities. For the father who has almost everything, Harvey's carries a line - a line of hand-carved wooden trains, that is. The set costs more than $500, but every car from the engine to the caboose can be purchased separately.

"There is also a darling bulldozer," Harvey said.

AN OPEN INVITATION TO THE CITIZENS OF GROSSE POINTE

On Monday, June 16 at 7:30 p.m., the Grosse Pointe Farms Council will review the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's request for a Class C Liquor License at the Farms Council's office on Kerby Road.

We hope to see you there.

There has been much written. Much said about whether the War Memorial should have a license. Yet, it is apparent that the citizens of Grosse Pointe support such action. Last year, over 2,000 households from the Farms alone took the time to fill out a card supporting this action, stamping it and then mailing it. That represents more than half of the 3,441 homes in the Farms.

Why?

Because they believe, as we do, that the use of Liquor at the War Memorial MUST BE CONTROLLED... and about the only way to do so is through a license. Then ONLY the War Memorial will be allowed to provide alcoholic beverages on the premises. Currently, as long as a group is allowed to bring alcohol on the grounds, the War Memorial, by law, may not prevent any individual from doing so.

IMPORTANT FACTS

- 1. Alcohol has been served at the War Memorial for more than 25 years in response to requests by members of the community. Last year, over 50 community groups and over 130 wedding receptions for the families of Grosse Pointe Veterans were served alcoholic beverages.
- 2. Today, the cost of insurance for just one such event is up to $1,500. As a result, most groups are not taking out coverage, accepting significant risk.
- 3. If the War Memorial had a license, together with a blanket insurance policy (which cannot be purchased without a license to sell alcoholic beverages), the cost saving benefit to the community and all participants would be in excess of $200,000 per vear.

4. Licensure prohibits service to minors.

5. The War Memorial Board has adopted and filed with the Farms Council a policy statement for the service of alcohol. This policy limits service . . . it limits hours ... it prohibits an open bar ... it invites review by an independent group IT IS MORE RESTRICTIVE THAN THE POLICY CURRENTLY IN EX-ISTENCE.

*One of the most important responsibilities of a community center is to meet the requests of the community it serves. The War Memorial has been described as Grosse Pointe's living room. It provides a home for community groups and wedding receptions for Grosse Pointe families.

Please help us to serve our community better and to control the use of alcohol on our premises. Join us on Monday night ...

This year's Grosse Pointe Garden Tour will delight all horticultural enthusiasts. Five private gardens will be featured, in addition to the Grosse Pointe Rose Society Show at the Neighborhood Club, 17150 Waterloo, and a floral art exhibit in the Art Gallery at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. The tour is scheduled for June 20, 21 and 22, 1 to 5 p.m.

Above is the dramatic fountain that will first greet visitors to the Boll Garden at 930 Lakeshore Dr. A beautiful arbor leads guests around to the visitors as they leave the Hill Garden.

Two other private gardens are included on the tour — The Blackwood Garden, 77 Stephens Rd., a garden that salutes Canada; and the Vyletel Garden at 17 Belle Meade Rd.

LIPPINE STORES

Garden Sale

The Detroit Artists Market held its annual spring Garden Sale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Beardsley on Provencal Road on June 4. The sale is the market's annual membership event and doubles as a marketplace for many Michigan artists.

This year's chairmen were Mr. and Mrs. John Warren.

"This spring sale is quite a tradition," Warren said. "It has long been supported by Pointers and is very popular.'

Many new members of the Detroit Artists Market are signed up at the sale, which encourages members to bring a friend and increase the membership of the organization.

'It's a nice afternoon," Warren said.

The Detroit Artists Market is a non-profit gallery which has provided a showplace for Michigan artists for the past 50 years

At the right, Bill Chapin, who was in charge of the bar, and Jane Gage, who coordinated the food for the event, pause near the hors d'oeuvres table. Above, a selection of ceramics is displayed by the Beardsley's pool.

Other committee members for the event included Connie Goodyear, Heather Jones, Peter Kauffman, Robin Lepard, Hadley Mack, Janet Schroeder, Ginna Short and Bethine S. Whitney. Mary M. Denison is art director for the market. Sharon Zimmerman is the gallery manager.

Some Saturday for special team

It was some Saturday. South's girls, unranked and by their coach's own admission, inexperienced, beat the state's No. 1- and 2-rated softball teams to earn a spot in the state semifinals.

Unusual? By some standards, maybe. But this team is special. This team has chemistry. That's what coach John Bruce says. I'm not sure what Utica Ford and Fraser, the squads which enjoyed those lofty rankings before last Saturday, are saying. Some-thing about failing chemistry, perhaps.

"It's an unbelievable feeling. When I went out to the mound in the seventh inning of the game against Utica Ford, part of my brain was saying 'this is it, this is when the magic happens;' while the other part was saying 'no way.

The magic did happen. Lynn Vismara, who has been only a part - albeit a big part - of South's success this season, helped make it happen by winning both games. And by knocking in the winning run, with nobody out

Heidi Albrecht made it happen, with her steady play all season. And Katy Turner make it happen, doing things like last Satur-day, when she dropped a pop-up, picked it up and turned to a teammate with a big grin on her face.

"That's symbolic of this team," Bruce says. "They are really, truly in this to have fun. If I try to put pressure on them, they tell me, "hey, coach, we're doing all right. We're having fun."

Which is just what the Blue Devils have done all season long, he adds. They went into this season knowing that after last year's 17-victory success, they'd be short a few faces after graduation and that the name of the game would be learning . . . and remem-bering to have fun.

Despite their success (a 20-9 record is nothing to sneeze at even if it doesn't earn a spot in the rankings) in tying for first the the Eastern Michigan League and in mak-ing it farther in the playoffs than any pre-vious South softball team, having fun still re-mains the main purpose of this squad, their jovial coach says.

"This sounds like what a lot of coaches might say, but I really, really mean it: Nothing - NOTHING - can outdo what has happened already this year." Bruce says. "

Bad day for the Blue Devils

Lake Erie Metropark

Lake Erie Metropark is just south of Grosse Ile and Gibraltar, at the mouth of the Detroit River. It's one of the newest in the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority's family of 13 metroparks which dot the southeastern Michigan landscape. The parks include over 21,000 acres of land set aside to serve the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties. Only two have marinas: Metro Beach Metropark and Lake Erie Metropark.

The 1,572 acres of Lake Erie Metropark offer a convenient destination for pleasure boaters in the Lake St. Clair and Detroit River areas as well as those in nearby Lake Erie. It's a convenient overnight stop for sail and power boats under 35 feet that are headed for Cedar Point or other stops in Lake Erie. The park is about a half day cruise from Lake St. Clair - a destination in itself.

Although it's existed for a few years, the park has only recently been developed for a wider variety of recreational activities. Last year a wave-action pool was installed, and this year a playscape is slated for construction.

Lake Erie Metropark's entrance is just north of Point Mouillee State Game Area, south of Edmond Island and the southern tip of Grosse Ile. The entrance is marked with buoys. Depending on wind direction and the state of dredging activities, the canal is 3 to 4 feet deep. Keep an eye on your depth sounder, just to be sure.

Over 100 boat wells are available for transient boaters. Charges are by the week or by the day. Launch facilities are available if you're towing a boat. The park entrance is off Jefferson, south of Meyers Road in Brownstown Township.

The wave pool - always a popular attraction for children - is open Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. Sundays and holidays: 9:30 a.m. until 8 p.m. Charge is $2.50 per person. A special twilight fee of $1.50 allows use of the pool from 6 p.m. until closing.

There's also a bathhouse, showers, lockers, restrooms and a beach shop. Snacks, sandwiches, ice cream and soft drinks are for sale at the food service building. The park has a large picnic area and space set aside for shore fishing.

Special musical programs featuring local bands are planned for Saturday evenings during the summer, beginning June 28 and running through Aug. 16. A fireworks display will be featured Friday, July 4 at 9:45 p.m.

All entertainment and special events are free. Park entry price is $2 per vehicle per day or $10 per vehicle annually; $5 for senior citizens.

The marina is open to transient pleasure boaters on a firstcome, first-serve basis. Weekly rate for 25-foot boats is $27.50; 30-foot boats: $30; 35-footers are $32.50. Overnight docking is $10 per night.

For more information, call the park at 379-5020, and ask for the marina office. Or call 1-800-552-6772 (toll free).

Meet an Asti

Tom Temrowski's dream has come true.

The 25-year-old South High alumnus was drafted by the National's League's Houston Astros last week. He signed a pro contract on Monday and reported to the Astros' A-level farm team in Auburn, N.Y. that same day.

"He's really excited," said Tem-rowski's mother, Mary Temrowski, of Lochmoor Boulevard. "He had sat by the phone all day and had just left to buy some stamps ... when the scout called. When he got back, I told him, 'congratulations, you're an Astro.' He told me not to kid him. When I finally got him to believe me, he got tears in his eyes.

"This has really been a dream come true for him."

Temrowski began his baseball career in the Grosse Pointe Little League program, advancing through the Babe Ruth and Adray Leagues and into the Detroit Amateur Baseball Association. He lettered in baseball at South High and received a scholarship from Florida Southern College in Lakeland, Fla.

The first baseman credits Florida Southern head coach Chuck Anderson and assistant coaches Mike Coombes and Mike Gaski for his development into a fine hitter and first baseman.

Florida Southern College won the College World Series in 1985. Temrowski hit .588 in the series, hitting for the cycle and ending up as the Most Valuable Player. His name will be placed in the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown for that achievement.

Temrowski set the school record for most career home runs and this year, set a record for RBI in the Sunshine State Conference. He finished his FSC career with a .348 career batting average. He graduated from the school with a Bachelor of Science degree.

"He will continue to play first, the Astros say," Mrs. Temrowski added. "And they've told him that if he works hard, he'll be at the AA level by next year.'

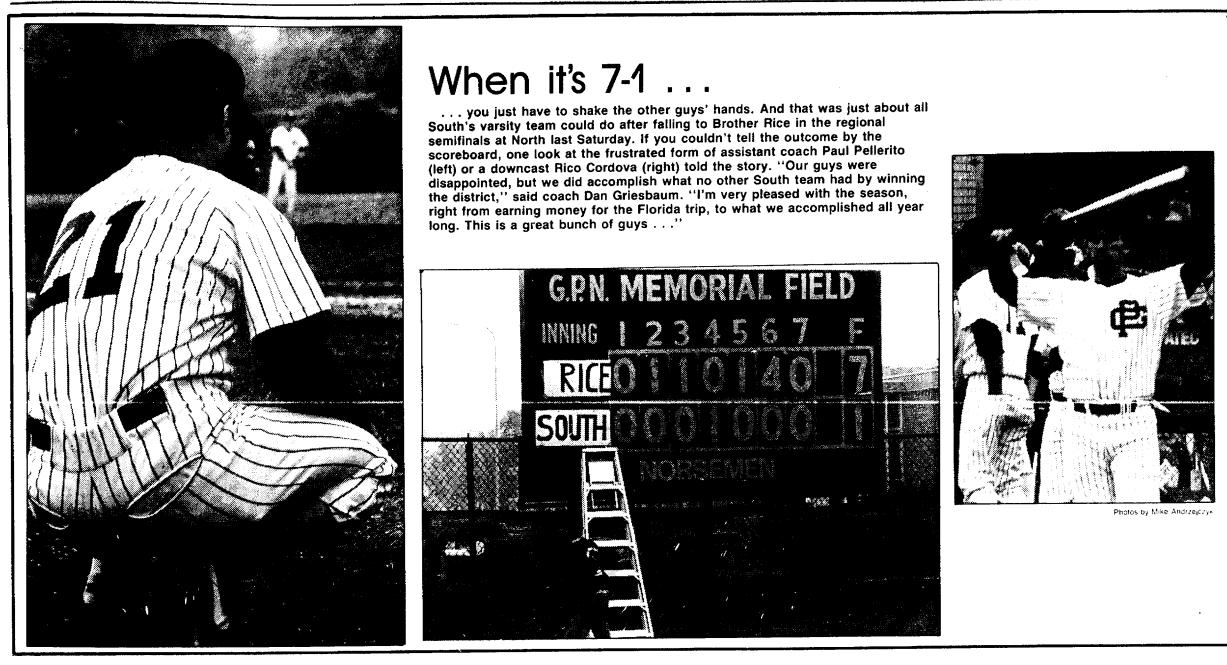

Travel baseball team formed

Grosse Pointe will field a new travel baseball team in the Mickey Mantle Division of the Macomb Amateur Baseball Federation this summer.

Sixteen year-old players living in Grosse Pointe and playing junior varsity baseball at North, South and De La Salle, will come together on one team and participate in this highly-competitive travel league. Manager-coach Mike Johnson has organized the squad and processed the entry fee required for the Grosse Pointe team. This is the first time Grosse Pointe has fielded a travel team in the Mickey Mantle Division. Last summer, South High coach Dan Griesbaum led a squad in the Con-nie Mack Division of the M.A.B.F. GROSSE POINTE NEWS

But he psyched himself up anyway and when all was said and done, it was the wiry 19-year-old South senior who stood in front of the cheering crowd, waving the plaque he'd received for winning the lightweight single sculling title in the "Schoolboy" championships in St. Catherines, Ontario, last week.

win."

Pfaendtner is fairly new to the sculling scene and was certainly not among the favorites in the championships. In fact, the rower who finished second had beaten him quite handily in competition just a few weeks before the St. Catherines' meet.

Pfaendtner is the first Detroit Boat Club rower in many years to win the event and one of only a few Americans ever to take the prize. He credits his

As a youngster, Pfaendtner lived in Germany, where rowing is as popular as baseball is in the United States. He competed for three years there, but sat out for five years when he returned to the U.S. because he hadn't been aware of the Detroit Boat Club-South High program. Dr. Rick Bell coaches the senior team there; Chuck Kreiger is in charge of the junior squad. 'My coach in Germany -

Erich Dorn - taught me to row. I owe him a lot," Pfaendtner says. Pfaendtner says that despite the fact he lacks the training skills necessary for great rowers, the technique he learned in Germany puts him ahead of most of his competition, style-wise.

He hopes that he'll pick up some of those much-needed training skills at the University of Pennsylvania, where he'll head this fall to attend school and participate on the Ivy

While many of the Formula One drivers are familiar with Detroit's 2.5 mile street course, they'll all face uncertain weather and wave conditions when the fifth annual Detroit Sailing Grand Prix gets underway at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club the evening of June 19.

Sponsored by Detroit's J. Walter Thompson Advertising, the unique event detours Grand Prix race teams from the city's narrow street course to the wide expanses of a 6.2 mile sailing course on Lake St. Clair

As in past years, each Formula One team participating will help sail a North American 40 offshore racing sloop with a seasoned Great Lakes crew. Among the teams returning are Brabham, McLaren, Williams, Benetton, Minardi, Ligier and RAM. Rookies for this year's regatta include Zakspeed and Team Haas.

Honorary starter for the Sailing Grand Prix will be Peter Schweitzer, newly-appointed general man-

Before that, he'll participate in a meet in Cincinnati, at the U.S. Nationals in Indianapolis and at the Canadian Henley Regatta, one of the biggest races in the rowing world. And Pfaendtner will do it mostly on his own, as he has been since taking up the sport here. He drives to all the competitions himself and trains - mostly running to improve his cardiovascular ability - alone as well.

What that has made him is highly motivated, Pfaendtner says. And that's something that every rower needs to be. "The first 500 meters is easy; you need to be tough so that when the pain starts, you can handle it and finish the race."

Even the pain is worthwhile, he adds, when you can stand in front of a cheering crowd, waving your prize and smiling.

"I had my grandparents there, cheering for me. That was nice.'

ager of JWT's Detroit office. "It's great to be able to step in and continue with this traditional event which JWT started in 1982, Schweitzer says. "From what I've heard, the competition is as intense on the water as it is on the streets.'

Since all boats are identically prepared, no team has an advantage over another. "Teamwork, which plays an important role on the track, is just as critical on the water ," Schweitzer says. "It's the small mistakes that cost a team the race.

Last year just 15 seconds separated winner Team Renault aboard Sundance from the secondplace finisher.

Race time is slated for 7:25 p.m., and, depending on the wind, the winning team should cross the finish line an hour and a half later. An awards presentation, along with a barbeque, will follow.

'SpaceCamp' is worth seeing

By Michael Chapp Film, at its very best, is a magical medium. Embodied in the flickering frames of a motion picture is the ability to transport viewers to scenerios which, in reality, are far out of reach. It's a special quality called escapism, and a movie which pulls it off successfully is a movie worth seeing.

cessfully is a movie worth seeing. "SpaceCamp" is just such a film. It has its faults, yes. But, more importantly, it's a 90-minute escape from the pressure of the world. And, moving at an incredible G-Force, its a heckuva lot of fun to boot!

The fiery explosion of the Challenger is still fresh in everybody's mind. Because of the similarities between that tragedy and the plot of this film, there's bound to be some added interest at the box office. But to the film's credit, not once is the Challenger incident exploited. Instead, "SpaceCamp" is a tastefully handled fantasy about reaching for the stars — and getting handful of life in the process.

Most people have dreamed about going into outer space, and Andie (Kate Capshaw), an astronaut with NASA, is no exception.

But her yearnings have been repeatedly thwarted, and she takes a temporary job at SpaceCamp to pass time. SpaceCamp is a summer camp for those who have propensity for doing more than shooting arrows and make clay pots. Here, the youngsters become actively involved in the day-to-day lifestyle of an astronaut.

"We're going to train you just like NASA trains astronauts," the campers are told as they arrive. "You'll notice we didn't say real astronauts," the announcement continues, "because here at Space-Camp you are real astronauts."

Those words become unintentionally prophetic when the shuttle Atlantis accidently takes off with a small group of the campers, and Andie, aboard. With no means of communication with Earth, and a rapidly diminishing supply of oxygen, the group is forced to learn not only the technical aspects of piloting a shuttle, but teamwork as well. It's a task they find difficult at first, but one they eventually handle with all the professionalism and maturity of those who do these things for a living. The kids must do it to remain living. There's a big difference, and the audience feels the difference. Indeed, "SpaceCamp's" greatest strength is that it propels viewers into space right along with the characters. And it does so simply, with no delusions of grandeur.

The first hour of the movie is spent introducing each of the characters. There's Kathryn (Lea Thompson), a studious type who aspires to be the first female shuttle commander; Tish (Kelly Preston), a beauty queen who remembers everything — everything — she reads; Rudy (Larry B. Scott) a lover of science but a hater of science grades; Max (Leaf Phoenix), a pre-teenager who lives in a world of "Star Wars," and Kevin (Tate Donovan), the cool-guy who came to SpaceCamp only because his father give him a jeep as a reward. All of these characters are developed thoroughly before the cockpit of the shuttle is ever seen. Consequently, viewers care about them. There is a rooting interest in the film, which makes everything that follows more palatable.

And, to be sure, what follows is more than a little bit farfetched. The kids must rescue Andie from floating off into space, figure out a way to get enough oxygen to last until they can land, pull themselves out of a fiery spin and pilot the shuttle home.

Throughout the adventure though, viewers do not take time to evaluate the likelihood of each of these occurences. Instead, one finds himself vicariously experiencing the thrill of being in space for the first time. It's not that the picture is any less outrageous or any more believable, it's just that it covers the tracks extremely well. The acting is credible all the way around, and the special effects, supervised by Barry Nolan, are breathtaking.

It's true that the film is full of teenagers. It's true as well that the story is unbelievable and a bit trite. But it's also true that this film is pure escapism from start to finish. And there's a lesson to be learned about life and teamwork at its center. The positives outweigh the negatives. The yeahs outweigh the nays.

And the 'G' in G-Force stands for great.

The cast

Sally Reynolds, right, founder and producer of Grosse Pointe Children's Theater, and Stelene Mazer, musical director for the company, were the recipients of the 11th Canadian Club Break A Leg Award. Reynolds began the children's theater some 33 seasons ago, and said she was honored by the prestigious theatrical award. She and Mazer join such esteemed company as Anthony Quinn, Mickey Rooney and Ann Miller and others for their contributions to theater. The award is a bottle of Canadian Club tucked away in a real plaster cast of a leg. They also received a scroll honoring them for the production of "Oliver" performed May 16 at the War Memorial Fries Auditorium. Next season's production could be one of the following: "Peter Pan," "The Velveteen Rabbit," Tom Sawyer," or "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory," says Reynolds.

'Raw Deal' doesn't lack action

By Marian Trainor

Viewers coming to see "Raw Deal" can't say they aren't warned. If they don't like violence, they have an opportunity to leave before the movie begins. Before the credits even roll, hit men arrive by Amtrak, car, helicopter, taxi, etc. to gun down witnesses to a murder rap against a big-time gangster. It's a gory mess and an apt synopsis of what's to come.

No one dies neatly or nicely. They are blown away by powerful weapons at close range. The pace never slows. Victims are riddled, buildings are firebombed and go up in massive flames, gambling joints are ripped apart, bodies are bounced off walls. This film definitely doesn't lack action.

Yet for all its bloody gore, "Raw Deal" is not that offensive. No one is tortured, no one suffers. They die quickly. And no one is killed out of meaness. Victims die because they deserve to, or because it is expedient for them to be wiped off the map.

are basically a modern version of cowboys and Indians; good guys and bad guys. In those earlier films, the villians and heroes rode horses and carried guns or bow and arrows. They left the prairies and fields littered with bodies.

In today's films, the heroes and villains drive fast cars or motorcycles and leave their victims lying in the streets or highways. Technology being what it is, their deeds are portrayed in a more spectacular fashion, but the end result is the same. The heroes win, the bad guys die.

In both instances, the intention is the same -- escape entertainment. The patron does not come to see brilliant acting or a moving, mean-ingful story. They come to see a super-hero character perform spectacular, impossible deeds, violent or otherwise.

On this count, "Raw Deal" fits the bill. The hero Mark Kaminski (Arnold Schwarzenegger) never loses. Flanked by a dozen gun-

Actually films like "Raw Deal" shooting gangsters, he still wins, over and over and over.

Despite his rather wooden expression, Schwarzenegger is impressive in the role. He's a cool character who moves easily, never raises his voice and is quite striking in his tailor-made suits that show off his physique, but he is also quite deadly. He mows 'em down without blinking.

Schwarzenegger's foray into the world of crime and violence begins when a friend, who is an FBI agent, wants him to infiltrate the gangs who were responsible for the murder of his son.

No one cheers when he punches, kicks or machine-guns his way to victory over crime and vice. Schwarzenegger just doesn't have that same oomph that Stallone has.

But he's not doing badly. "Terminator" and "Com-mando" have grossed more than

Close finishes mark Cottage fun run/walk

Ken Price, 28, of Mount edged out Mount Clemens, Edmond resident Clemens Gauvreau, 28, to finish first in the sixth annual Cottage Hospital FUN RUN & WALK on Sunday, May 4.

The Best of Run time of 16:09 was just 21 seconds behind the record set by Sidney Bass, Jr., of Detroit in 1985. Janice Dean of Harper Woods, 30, was the first female to cross the finish line. Her time was 18:47.

The biggest field ever - 416 runners, walkers and race-- competed for 94 walkers medals in the 5-kilometer (3.1 mile) event. The top male and female each also received a gift certificate for running gear at Running World in Grosse Pointe Woods. The Cottage Hospital FUN RUN & WALK is presented by the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary and sponsored for the past three years by The Meade Group. Proceeds from the entry fees benefit the hospital.

People came from all over the metropolitan Detroit area and Canada to participate in this fund raising event. A mime troupe added to the fun by performing among the crowds and passing out balloons. Vital Options instructors warmed up the racers with a pre-race stretch and helped to cool them off by manning the water stations. Raffle prizes were donated by Running World, Vital Options, Inc., and the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary.

Runners, walkers, racewalkers and spectators were treated to refreshments after the race, complements of the Coca-Cola Company. In addition, CHAMP ---Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program - presented videos on injury prevention and management and a certified athletic trainer was on hand to talk to the athletes.

The JV members of the squad (sixth grade and under) took first place honors in the CYO Junior Varsity Championships held at South High last month. St. Clare's JV has won that meet every year since its inception five years ago.

AAA says Strong camping season expected,

A continued upswing in state tourism, improved facilities and summerlike early May temperatures should help propel Michigan to one of its strongest camping sea-sons ever, reports AAA Michigan.

Increased campground use last year helped contribute to Michigan's record $12.6 billion in travel revenues and should play a strong role in another record travel season in 1986. Good weather also is warming the season's start as temperatures through mid-May were 200 degrees above normal, including temperatures in the 70's for much of early May.

Advance state park reservations were up 16 percent through mid-April over the near-record year of water hook-ups, trailer sanitation disposals and other amenities.

Private campgrounds included in the guide have from 25 to 2,400 sites. Most have access to a pool or lake and accept telephone reservations.

State park campsites have dropped slightly to 14,317 sites since last summer, due primarily to park improvements and expansion of adjoining facilities. Prices remain the same as 1985, but all parks now take advanced reservations; in 1985, six did not. In addition, the minimum number of nights needed to reserve a campsite has been dropped from four to two.

State park fees are: $8 nightly for a site with electricity; $6 night-ly, semi-modern site; $4 nightly, rustic site; $4 reservation fee; $2 daily entrance; and a $10 annual park entry permit.

To reserve a state park site, campers should either mail a check and form to the park or call in reservations at least one week in advance. Reservation forms are available by contacting the Department of Natural Resources Information Services, Mason Building, Box 30028, Lansing, Mich., 48909

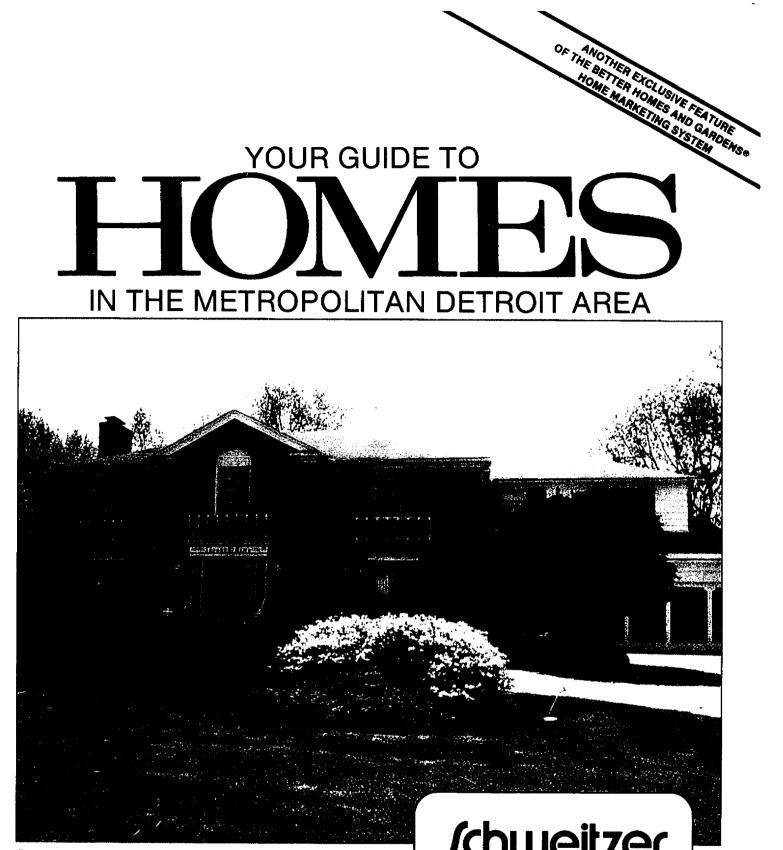

Most of Michigan's 3,000 state forest campsites have access to boat launches or fishing and generally offer more privacy for campers who like to "rough it." Fees range from $1 to $4 nightly, but free camping is available to those who volunteer to be a campground host.

More information on the campground host program can be ob-tained by writing: Volunteer for Natural Resources, Department of Natural Resources, Box 30029, Lansing, 48909.

According to the National AAA Campbook, the National Forest Service has 1,760 campsites at 63 Michigan locations. Prices run from $3 to $6 per night for families and all sites are on a first-come, first-served basis. The maximum stay is 14 nights.

The beautiful state of Florida has everything to offer. Mother Nature has seen to that. And now Trafalgar has created outstanding resort communities that have captured the essence of this golden state so that you may enjoy the Florida features that you love the most.

Trafalgar Developers of Florida is a subsidiary of General Electric Company. Since 1976, this relationship has thrived due, in great part, to a shared philosophy of high quality and a common, bright outlook toward the future.

Our communities criss-cross the state from the southern extreme of Miami north to Orlando, and from the Atlantic Ocean west to the Gulf of Mexico. Some are charming country club communities, some secluded yacht club communities, some exclusive cosmopolitan communities. Each is devoted to a different way of living but every Trafalgar community is a total way of life with common land, lakes, clubs, marinas, bike and jogging paths, beaches . . . whatever helps the residents share in the enjoyment of their own special Florida.

Don't just read about us, come visit us! Let us show you first hand just how wonderful Florida living Trafalgar style really is. We invite you to take advantage of our Vacation Inspection Program, a three day, two night visit that allows you to experience the Trafalgar community of your choice.
