Poetic injustice

Grosse Pointe took a humorous barb last week at the artistic hands of Detroit Free Press cartoonist Richard Guindon.

Guindon's drawing, which had a man in a leather jacket and punk rock haircut saying he "lived in the really, really tough section of Grosse Pointe," made most of us in the newsroom chuckle heartily.

What we want to know is where is the tough side of town - since Grosse Pointe is all on one side of the tracks so to

Planners, lawyers, they're all alike

The public hearing Monday night in the City to consider closing off a portion of Charles Street was not without its lighter moments. City planner Brandon Rogers, who was not able to attend, left his written evaluation of the proposal. Asked what his recommendation was, Mayor Lorenzo Browning replied that Rogers didn't define his position.

A resident retorted, "That sounds like a lawyer, not a city planner.'

In another instance, resident Hudson Mead drew a laugh when he referred to the partdirt, part-asphalt road as half-

Referring to the closing which was first proposed in 1963, Mead said, "A decade here, a decade there - it all adds up to years as you know.'

Later, Councilman Robert Nugent, examining petitions from both sides, dryly commented, "It's a little confusing same names on onne ing petitions.

In the end, however, the levity did not levitate the issue to resolution - it was tabled.

What do the Irish and German have in common - other than potatoes?

The answer is, concern over the future of Most Holy Trinity Church in Corktown. Two prominent Grosse Pointers, Michigan Supreme Court Justice G. Mennen Williams, and Joe Spieser, are heading up a committee to put on an Irish Oktoberfest at Eastern Market on Oct. 8. The Irish-German event is the first leg of Williams' and Spieser's job of raising more than $200,000 for the renovation of Most Holy Trinity Church before St. Patrick's Day 1987.

Most Holy Trinity has been designated a historical site at the national, state and city level. Until a massive renovation project was started last year, the more than 100-year-old church was falling into disre-

"Without the church, they can't help the poor," Spieser said. Most Holy Trinity has a long-standing reputation of helping anyone who comes to the door, he explained. The parish provides financial, housing, legal and counseling assistance to as many as 30,000 people a year.

"We've always paid our money to the poor as fast as we get it," said the Rev. Jay Samonie, pastor of the church. "It goes from one hand to the other. That's why we never have any money.

Construction boom on in the Pointes

By Nancy Parmenter

It doesn't just look like a construction boom in the Pointes. There really is one. Officials in all the municipalities are enthusiastic about the amount of activity in building permits for everything from family rooms to major office buildings. "Our economy's going full bore," said Grosse Pointe City Manager Thomas Kressbach. "I don't think we've been this busy in the last six or seven years. Every time we turn around, the phone is ringing. completed. The water and sewer work is finished, with road paving ready to start," Kressbach said.

Sycamore Place has four houses under construction by individual owners. The value of all the houses in the Sycamore and Dodge subdivisions is "rather substantial," Kressbach said. He estimated the prices to range from $250,000 to $600,000.

The City is also seeing renova-tion and remodeling of several commercial buildings and many private homes. "It's like the plug came loose," Kressbach said. These are probably projects people deferred.

Houses are going up in the Park as well. The four houses under construction include two singlefamily, a side-by-side and an upand-down two-family, one of which is the first new home construction on Maryland in 40 years, City Manager John Crawford said.

But it is the Park business activhave been percolating for years have burst to the surface this year.

"We haven't got an application on that yet," said Farms building department chief John Defoe. "It's in the design stage now." Defoe said the property owner had demolished a house and is expected to erect a commercial.

Meanwhile, "residential is going all the time," Defoe says. Building continues at the Ford and Briarwood projects and there are several individual projects under way. Defoe said that altogether there are 12 houses under construction in the Farms for a total value of $2,115,000.

"There's no question that it will add to the tax base," Solak said. 'Of course, it will mean extra services, too.

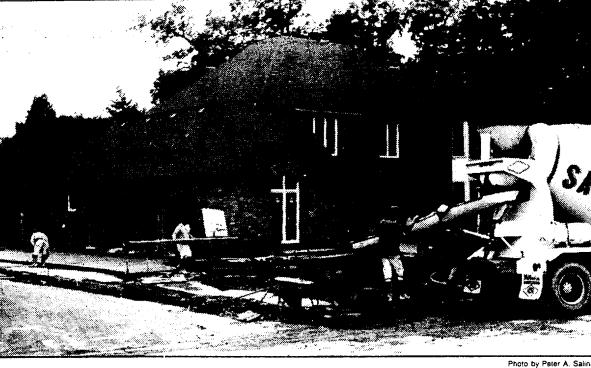

"It seems like all the available property is being utilized," Defoe said. "People are now building on extra lots they used to use for gardens. The scarcity of property made these pretty attractive."

Even in the Shores, where there are only about 15 lots left in the entire community, there is residential building activity. Building department head Fred Mac-Whirter said there are seven individual projects going on now, with an average construction cost of $226,000. The houses range from $130,000 to $475,000, he said. In the Woods, one of the biggest projects in recent years is on the way. The two-story office building built above ground-level parking will require demolition of a large part of its block on Mack. Those buildings are scheduled to start coming down this fall, City Administrator Chester Petersen said.

According to building department head Earl Wakely, permits for the demolition of the old American Legion Post and the construction of a two-story office building on the site have run to $250,000. Renovation of the Sunoco station into a bank cost Empire of America $125,000. The Red Lobster renovation of the former bowling alley on Mack ran to $673,000, with the one end still to be renovated for office space, Wakely said.

Voters in the Woods will get a chance to cast their ballots on a $3.5 million proposal to upgrade both Lake Front and Ghesquiere parks Nov. 4, but not before the entire question is aired by a public hearing Sept. 22.

The hearing is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe North Performing Arts Center. The hearing was moved to the high school in anticipation of the large number of interested residents expected to attend.

Improvement proposals at the park have been solidified, but are not beyond being changed based upon the results of the hearing. A public hearing was held this past spring, when James C. Scott and Associates, landscape architects, completed its original concept for improvements at the parks.

Following that hearing, Scott refined the concepts, and made recommendations to the Woods city

The council had originally considered asking voters to approve a millage increase to be levied over a period of years, but after study, determined that spreading out the funding of the improvements would be time-consuming and

Officials noted that constructing major improvements such as boat dock improvements and a new vehicular bridge over the Milk River would take years given the limited annual funds generated by a millage levy.

The council then decided to ask voters to approve a general obligation bond issue - not to exceed $3.5 million. This would enable the city to start on the major park improvements quickly, without having to wait several years to accumulate enough funds.

The ballot proposal will read: Shall the City of Grosse Pointe Woods, County of Wayne, State of Michigan, borrow the principal amount not to exceed Three Million Five Hundred Thousand Dollars ($3,500,000) and issue its general obligation unlimited tax bonds therefore, for the purpose of paying the cost of acquiring and constructing improvements to the Lake Front Park and the Ghesquire Park of Grosse Pointe Woods, YES () NO ().

The council decided that the maximum increase in city property taxes would not be increased more than one mill in order to meet the principal and interest payments on the bonds.

A resident who owns a home valued at $100,000 would pay about $50 per year more in city property taxes if the full mill were levied. Proposed improvements at the two parks are extensive.

Lake Front plans call for rebuilding boat docks at the city marina, adding a vehicular/pedestrian and pedestrian bridge, six racquetball courts, six tennis courts and warming station, a hard foot path around the park, a fishing pier, extensive landscaping and other recreation projects. A large open pavilion would be constructed for utilization as a gathering place and for concerts. It would include a viewing tower. The main improvement at Ghesquiere Park would be a 5,400 square foot multi-purpose community center with a covered porch. The center would be located at the northern end of the park near the existing parking lot.

Recreation additions would be added throughout the park area. A gazebo and band shelter would be constructed adjacent to a new Magic Square. The square would be a large area of concrete which would have multi-use capabilities for basketball, volleyball, square dancing and could be flooded in the winter for ice skating.

Extensive landscaping would also be completed at the park.

City officials have constructed large information boards which have been at the Lake Front Park and at city hall. Officials are encouraging all those interested in the improvements to attend the laire cracks open cornerstone

By Mike Andrzejczyk

On a scale of Al Capone's vault to King Tut's Tomb, opening the cornerstone at Maire Elementary School probably rates as the same as opening the safes of the Andrea Doria; interesting, but no George Plimpton.

Students, staff and principals past and present — watched the proceedings Wednesday morning, Sept. 10, on a closed-circuit hookup from two screens set up in the school's gymnasium. Also looking on were other guests, school board trustees and central office administrators, including Superintendent John Whritner.

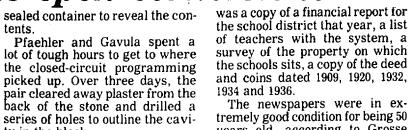

It took Maire head engineer Karl Pfaehler and skilled maintenance staffer Ron Gavula about 30 minutes to extricate the copper time capsule from the school's cornerstone, laid in 1936. After taking it to a table in the gym, they sawed off one end of the solder-

Pfaehler and Gavula spent a lot of tough hours to get to where the closed-circuit programming picked up. Over three days, the pair cleared away plaster from the back of the stone and drilled a series of holes to outline the cavity in the block.

Pfaehler narrated while Galuva used a saw to cut off the rear of the stone, using the drilled holes as a pattern. They pried away the section to reveal the box inside.

The contents of the capsule were held up for inspection by celebration committee co-chairs Helen Obermeyer and Mary Ellen Floer and school Principal Jay Flowers.

Inside the capsule were front pages from the Detroit News, Times and Free Press from May 1936, a front page from the Grosse Pointe Review of that year and a copy of the Tower, South's student newspaper. Also in the capsule years old, according to Grosse Pointe Historical Society Curator Jean Dodenhoff, who was on hand for the ceremony. The contents of the capsule will be displayed at the school for the duration of the school's 50th anniversary celebration. Some of the original memorabilia may be sealed in the new time capsule to be resealed in the cornerstone.

Pfaehler was able to find where the rear of the cornerstone abutted a restroom from blue-prints he found in the attic of the school. A masonry company had offered to handle the moving of the capsule, but school employees checked the texture of the 4½ inches of the stone that needed to be cut and decided it was soft enough for them to use stanard tools, Pfaehler

Officials knew the time capsule existed, because a film was found that showed the school's construction and dedication.

A copy of the film, reproduced on video-tape, and a video-tape of the proceedings during the rededication, will also be sealed in the cornerstone.

People at the school were very excited about what they might find in the box. More than one person joked that the opening was not unlike the opening of Al Capone's

"I wanted to open it up (the day before)," Pfaehler said.

Woods November ballot gets longer

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Woods voters face a crowded November ballot. Besides being asked whether to sell bonds for park improvements, voters will also be asked to amend the city's liquor license ordinance and clean up charter language.

The city will seek approval to issue $3.5 million worth of general obligation municipal bonds to cover improvements at Lakefront and Ghesquiere parks. A public hearing on the improvements will be held Monday, Sept. 22, at 7:30 p.m. at North High School.

ferred to her by their teachers, Demeulemeester was busy all day Monday with students and a half-dozen 1986 graduates who came in. The support services will continue to be available on an as-

"Her close friends are feeling a powerful lot of sorrow," Herschel-mann said. "There's also a lot of bitterness and anger that has to come out.'

Those students with parental permission were to be allowed to miss school to attend Scherz' funeral, but Herschelman said she hoped to avoid a "mass exodus." She said the counseling seemed to be having its desired effect.

"A lot of kids who were crying this morning left with their arms around each other this afternoon,'

Voters will also have to decide whether the city should be allowed to issue six Class C liquor licenses and one tavern license. An initiatory petition drive by Da Edorardo's proprietor Edward Barbieri collected 1,647 signatures within the three-week time limit to put the matter on the ballot.

Barbieri, who currently holds a tavern license, has tried to have it upgraded to a Class C, which would allow the restaurant to sell other alcoholic beverages in addition to the wine it may now dispense with the tavern license. Currently the ordinance allows the city to approve issuance of five Class C and two tavern licenses. Approval of the ballot question will allow issuance of an additional Class C and, should a tavern license holder be allowed to upgrade his or her license, the city's quota of tavern licenses would be filled, and one issued.

But, city attorney George Catlin told council, were someone not currently holding a tavern license in the city to request and receive the Class C, the number of tavern licenses would not be cut to one. A grandfather clause in the ordinance would allow the city to have eight licenses, even though the ordinance limited the number to seven.

Barbieri, who has held a tavern license since 1980, says voters should look at the amendment as a chance for a local business to upgrade its license.

At least one councilman was upset that the ballot language will not be able to clearly state the intention of a local business to upgrade a license.

'I think we've done something

Wilson said. "I'm going to sit down after the meeting to find out how we did this to one of our local businesses.

Also going before voters will be five proposed changes to the city charter. State Attorney General Frank Kelley sent a letter to the Woods earlier this month approving the language of the changes for submission to the county clerk for inclusion on the Nov. 4 ballot.

Voters will be asked to amend the city's pension system provisions to provide a plan for administrative officers and employees. The existing pension system had changed over the years because of changes in state statutes and collective bargaining agreements and the charter doesn't accurately reflect the way the system now operates, according to

Two other provisions proposed to be changed are those covering sale of park property and handling of purchasing. The ballot question will ask whether the charter should be amended to provide that the council establish detailed procedures for purchase and sale of property and to delete provisions that provide that no contract - except an agreement of employment or one for purchase or sale of goods less than $1,000 — shall be made unless certain conditions are met.

Voters will also be asked to lift residency requirements for administrative officers, make an organizational change so the comptroller works under the supervision of the city administrator and not the city council and repeal a clause that allows the city council to appoint a representative to the now-defunct county Board of

Parents complain classes are too large

By Mike Andrzejczyk

Class sizes are down this year, but that didn't stop irate parents from packing the Sept. 8 Grosse Pointe Board of Education meeting to complain of overpacked elementary school classrooms.

The board authorized hiring a couple of part- and full-time teachers and several aides to alleviate some of the problems at Kerby, Defer and Ferry schools. Superintendent John Whritner said he will report back to the board in October about the problem.

At Kerby, a teacher will be hired to split second grades classes that have 29 and 28 students. At Ferry, a third-grade teacher will be added to create a third section in that grade. The two current sections have 29 students each.

Aides will be added to kindergarten classes at Defer and Kerby, where sections have 28 and 26 students. A part-time art teacher will be added at Ferry as well.

At the middle schools, where a number of classes have 30 or more students, a part-time instructor is to be added at Parcells. One health aide will be hired for South to assist physically handicapped stu-

Cost of the new staff will be about $100,000, Whritner said.

The administration will also watch closely the Defer kindergarten, where a second section has 27 students, Whritner said. Traditionally, kindergarten enrollments at the school increase over the year, he added.

That decision didn't sit well with one Defer mother, who complained that a teacher was being added was being added at Defer. After several requests for an explanation from the board and administration about the rationale for the hiring, she turned away from the microphone.

Class sizes overall were very close to those projected before the start of the school year, according to David King, director of support services. Thirty-eight more elementary school students showed up for school than originally expected, but in general, the total of students showing up for given classes were just one or two more than originally figured, according to data provided by the depart-

In projecting the number of students who will appear in school at the start of a new school year, the department takes the number of students enrolled in the previous grade and uses a multiplier worked out to represent the traditional increase or decrease for that schools' grade-to-grade move,

King said. While some of the changes in enrollments may be because of brisk real estate sales in certain areas of the school district much of the change may have been caused by students coming to the public school system from non-public schools, King said.

this year, he added.

Overfilled classes at the secondary schools were also worrisome to some of the audience Sept. 8, including Doris Cook, president of the Grosse Pointe Education Association.

There are too many classes with 30 or more students at the secondary level, Cook said. More importantly, some large class sections are in areas like home economics, art, or industrial arts classes, where potentially injurious tools are being used, she added. One teacher can't properly supervise 30 or more children in a class of that kind, Cook told the board. While helping one group of students, a teacher's attention will not be on other children in the classroom and a serious injury may occur, she added. The possibility of injury in the classroom in a time of increasing litigation and liability insurance should be of concern to the board, she added.

Another problem is the middle school schedule, where some electives are offered on an odd-even day schedule, Cook said. A section one day may have 32 students, while 17 are scheduled for that period the next day. The district needs to balance those numbers. she added.

A solution to that may be as easy as not giving the middle school student his or her first choice for elective activities, Cook added.

Some of the problem may indeed be caused by the six-period schedule at middle schools, which means juggling required courses and students' electives, Robert Welch, director of secondary curriculum, said.

One part of one of the board's 10 goals this year will be to look at the middle school schedule to see if there isn't some way to improve it.

Figures presented to the board Monday night represent only oversized sections, Welch said. Many classes at both the middle and high schools are well under the 30-student mark, he added.

In some cases, large class sizes represent trade-offs made by inpared and will be presented later structors, Welch said. Also, some instructors have asked students to specifically enroll in their classes, he added.

Some changes in class sizes will occur over the next month, according to school officials. Early enrollment figures often change at the secondary level when students decide to drop or add classes.

The district has "made tremendous strides" in reducing class size, Superintendent Whritner said. "I'm impressed with the board's move in that direction," he added.

Part of the budget process last year was projecting class size for each building, Whritner said. A fine line the district has to continually walk is that between small class sizes and fiscal responsibility, he added.

One option open to parents this year — one being emphasized to Defer kindergarten parents — is enrolling children in buildings other than their neighborhood schools.

The school board last year liberalized its enrollment policy, making it easier for parents to enroll children in any school in the system. Parents of Defer kindergarteners are being told about open enrollment and that sections of kindergartens at Maire and Trombly schools are at almost ideal numbers, Whritner said.

The option to enroll in other buildings is available to all parents but is only being highlighted for Defer kindergarten sections, he added. While class sizes are better overall at the elementary level, they are not as good as anticipated,

Cook said. The district is anticipating there will be more students in its buildings this year on the Fourth Friday census day than there were last year, according to King. Fourth Friday counts last year showed 7,346 students in school; 2,793 elementary, 1,477 middle and 3,076 high school students. Projections for this school year show a possible 7,452 students, 2,911 elementary, 1,539 middle and 2,902 high school enrollees.

Why not more debates?

The conventional wisdom supports the view that political incumbents, and especially those leading their challengers in public opinion polls, should ignore requests for public and televised debates during the campaign.

Thus Gov. James Blanchard is following the conventional wisdom in ducking proposals for TV debates and accepting only two October debates before the Detroit and Grand Rapids economic clubs. So far the governor is running ahead in the polls and obviously does not want to say or do anything — or even run the risks of head-on TV debates — that might give his challenger, GOP nominee William Lucas, any benefit in his campaign to become the nation's first elected black governor.

Yet the governor ignores the public interest which is best served when potential voters get as much information as can possibly be obtained about the candidates and their stands on the issues. Even if TV debates aren't always as exciting and newsworthy as some politicians and news people wish them to be, they do help inform the public and, if handled properly, can give viewers and listeners new perspectives on the candidates.

In this newspaper's view, both incumbents and challengers have a responsibility to make their records and their campaign issues as clear as possible. Anything that detracts from achieving those goals should be assessed against the candidate responsible. Thus the governor loses at least a couple of Brownie points for his disparagement of the debate process and his refuctance to go toe-to-toe with challenger Lucas.

In a recent Channel 56 "Off the Record" program as well as in a Hugh McDiarmid column in the Free Press, political writers and broadcasters seemed to be saying the debates do not inform the public well anyway. They also tended to accept the conventional wisdom that a front-running governor does not need debates and should, in fact, avoid them because they tend to benefit the challenger.

Yet these political pundits also have overlooked the public interest in having the two major candidates face each other and exchange views on the issues. Reporters usually favor the dissemination of as much information as possible about political contests and all other issues. It is surprising to find them agreeing with the governor and dismissing debates, whether on TV or before luncheon audiences, as boring and not very informative. Even when that description is accurate, new information or a new basis for comparison of the two candidates could arise during a series of debates.

In preparing for the Oct. 20 debate, the Detroit Economic Club has recommended a format that would limit the discussion to an hour but would offer more time than earlier allotted for each candidate's rebuttal of the other's opening statement. Under this format, each opening statement would be limited to 10 minutes, with seven minutes allotted for the rebuttals, 20 minutes devoted to questions from the audience and answers from both candidates, and three minutes left for each closing statement.

That format still may not elicit the headlines that the critical news people seem to crave but a debate under those rules ought to bring out a good deal of information that will be helpful to potential voters in November. It is disappointing, however, that up to this time none of the commercial TV stations has expressed an interest in broadcasting the two economic club debates live, but it is encouraging that arrangements are now being made for some TV stations to broadcast tapes of both programs.

Subject: Open letter to the new Grosse Pointe Hockey Association Board of Directors.

First of all, I congratulate each of you on your selection and wish you the greatest of success on the upcoming season. There are some things that occurred last season that should be called to your attention. 1. I call your attention to the picture which appeared in the May 15, 1986 edition of the Grosse Pointe News. But let's go back to the playoffs of the division which consisted of the Seals, Talons, Major Magics and Chiefs. Somebody selected the Seals and Talons for championship playoffs when the Major Magics had already beaten the Seals 2-0 in the first round. Since the Seals and the Talons wound up in a tie in the "championship game," it sort of threw the final outcome up in the air. The final total would show the Talons and the Seals both wound up with a 2-1-1 record and Major Magics' record was 3-1. As a result of this oversight, they (Major Magics) were given "Medals of Achieve-ment" which they didn't want and some of them wouldn't take or threw them away. They all knew their won and lost record was better than the teams that were given cups and their pictures in the local paper. As a suggestion, maybe there should be provisions in case of a tie in a playoff by having a shoot out, such as they have in soc-

warning to Lucas & Go

Now that the Detroit News public opinion poll has shown Gov. James Blanchard to be leading GOP challenger William Lucas by a 2 to 1 margin, GOP leaders will have to rid themselves of the euphoria that followed Lucas' victory in the primary and get down to serious campaigning for their nominee.

Despite President Reagan's promise to attend a Lucas campaign rally later this month and the start of a new series of TV commercials keyed to the Lucas theme, "Together we will make Michigan history," the poll shows that the GOP challenger is going to have an uphill fight to unseat the Democratic incumbent.

Lucas said at the recent GOP state convention, "I will be judged on the strength of my character, not on the color of my skin," and is using that appeal in his TV ads. So far race appears to be having little impact, according to the poll, but that has not benefited Lucas.

As the News reported, "Whites indicate (in the poll) that they aren't likely to vote against Lucas because he is black. Blacks, conversely, indicate they don't plan to vote for him based

In the poll, blacks chose Blanchard over

Lucas by a 66 to 21 percent margin while whites chose Blanchard over the GOP nominee by 60 to 31 percent. Since 14 percent of the blacks described themselves as Republicans, there does appear to be a small crossover of black Democrats but hardly enough, at least at this stage, to affect the outcome. Some of the crossover apparently comes in Detroit, where Blanchard leads Lucas 62 to 26 percent, as contrasted with 1982 when Blanchard carried 82 percent of the Detroit vote.

The poll would indicate, however, that Lucas' major problem is in failing to win stronger support from self-described Republicans. Only 57 percent of those GOP members said they were committed to Lucas while fully a third said they would vote for Blanchard. For such Republicans. Lucas as a recent convert to the GOP obviously still has some distance to go to prove his party loyalty.

True, the campaign is just under way and it isn't over until it is over in November. Yet the poll ought to serve as a warning to Lucas and the state GOP about the obstacles that must be overcome if the GOP nominee is to become the first elected black governor in U.S. history.

Watching the removal of another tree felled by Dutch elm disease is a bit like attending a funeral for an old friend. Both deaths tend to remind us of happier times and of associations running back many years. Yet both are sad events to which we cannot easily adjust and which we long remember.

Edna St. Vincent Millay probably paid the ultimate tribute to trees but all of us have our own reasons for appreciating our trees. They provide shade from summer's sun, protection against winter's winds and snow, privacy from inquisitive passersby and haven for birds, wild game and, on occasion, even children. And they tend to beautify our property as well.

Yet the elms keep toppling to Dutch elm disease in the Pointes as elsewhere in Michigan and most of the northern, eastern and midwestern states. In the Pointes, a report in the Grosse Pointe News last week indicated that total elm losses in the Park, Woods and City had declined slightly from 1985, but the good news was the optimism of Gerald Lanier, the Park's tree specialist, that his integrated Dutch elm disease management plan is working.

He urged, however, that the war must be fought on all fronts if the disease is to be controlled. Members of the Grosse Pointe Shade Tree Council support that view and are recommending a coordinated program to attack and control Dutch elm disease. That means use of injections, spraying and possible other methods of treatment, along with early removal of diseased trees to reduce infection of healthy Grosse Pointe always has been known as a community of homes. But it also has been known for its beautiful shade trees that add so much to the appearance of its homes, its streets and even Lake St. Clair. So any communitywide moves to preserve our remaining elms and prevent further losses to Duch elm disease deserve the support of residents and official bodies in the Pointes.

That isn't enough, of course. Reforestation projects also are needed to replace the many trees already lost. Fortunately, both private property owners and public agencies in the Pointes have been planting new trees for some years and many of the downed elms already have been replaced. But the battle must continue on both fronts. We must try to prevent further losses, but also make sure we plant sturdy new trees to replace the friendly giants already felled by Dutch elm disease.

Objects to cartoon

What provoked the cartoon opposite the editorial page in the Sept. 4th issue of the Grosse Pointe News? Has an abortion clinic in the area been bombed? If so, I haven't heard of it.

I am pro life and I venture to say, literally hundreds of your readers who pay to read your paper share my belief that although we are pro life, we certainly do not wish harm to come to those who are pro abortion. Besides, we do not go around bombing abortion clinics or condone the action of those who do. Your cartoon inferred that all of us belong in the same category. This I object to strenuously!

Sept. 4 cartoon was inappropriate

My subscription runs to Jan. 30, 1989, and I do not intend to threaten to cancel it because of a recent faux pas. My family has enjoyed your paper for some years and we hope to continue to do so. I must, however, register a protest regarding the cartoon on page 7-A of the Sept. 4 paper, which demonstrated an obvious lapse in the good taste usually shown by your staff.

"Kill the @#$*& abortionists" was a cheap shot! As one who supports the right to light for human beings of all ages and all stages of development, I found it demeaning to me. How many pro-life people do your staff members know? Are any of these people, as far as your know, of the frame of mind depicted by the cartoon? I have been active in the Right-to-Life movement for several years, and I have yet to meet anyone in that group who has the attitude expressed by your cartoon. What was the point

It was as inappropriate to publish this as it would be to publish a similiar cartoon generalizing about women, blacks, Catholics, Jews, Poles, or other racial, To the Editor: religious, or ethnic group, and no one should have to tell you that. To young boy becomes disillusioned.

make it more specific, publishing tax dollars. Is this appropriate for this cartoon is as wrong as publishing one, for example, showing some black teens saying, "Let's got to Grosse Pointe and steal some bikes." It reflects the same kind of bigotry. Does your cartoon truly indicate your opinion of those opposed to abortion? If it does, do you think it is proper to use this approach to smear those with whom you disagree, although your opinion may be at variance with the

The issue of abortion raises some serious issues that your approach avoids.

1) To my knowledge no one has been killed or even injured as a result of any of the misguided vio-lence directed toward abortion centers. Apparently the intent was to deter abortions, not by killing the abortionists, as your cartoon states, but by putting the facility out of business. The intent of the abortionist, however, is to take human life, which is done with government approval and often with an elective medical procedure?

2) What responsibility does a citizen have when human life is legally being destroy in the community? I believe that it is wrong to engage in violence of the communities where Nazi extermination camps were located to engage in violence to stop the killing, rather than looking the other way? What is the difference between the two situations, and how does one draw the line between when it is permissible to break the law and use violence to stop violence? (Armed teams are used to rescue airline hostages and the like, but these are not ordinary citizens, so this is another category of using violence to stop violence.)

It is unusual for editors to acknowledge that they made a mistake. I will be interested to see whether you do or if you will de-fend your action of if you will just ignore the whole thing.

Maria Dinen

I am so disappointed in Grosse Pointe's Red Barons football coaches. Why do they allow every boy to sign up and pay the $25 fee and never let them play? Is this a way to make money for the team? Because when a boy quits, they keep the money and they drive the boys to quit.

My boy is no better a player than anyone else on the freshman team, but he is not worse either. He sadly told me that it was so much fun. But it stopped being fun when they made him practice 15 hours a week and let him play five minutes a week. In a four-hour scrimmage last Saturday, my son played a total of five minutes. He quit football this week.

Do Grosse Pointe coaches really expect boys to practice two hours a day and never get put into the action? I know this is an age-old parental complaint, but all the complaints don't seem to matter, because it continues. I am sorry our first experience with the Red Barons ended like this. I am very disappointed the Red Barons can take a small boy's enthusiasm and smash it right into the ground. I know this happens a lot in the high schools, because I've been that route, but I never thought the Red Barons pulled this, too.

Hats off to you, Red Baron coaches. I think you stink and don't bother to send my son a letter next year. You'll get no more money out

We are about love, not hate

To the Editor:

It was with much sadness and frustration that I saw your cartoon in the Sept. 4 issue of the Grosse Pointe News, depicting very unfairly the pro-life movement as rabid and fanatic.

For many years I have been volunteering with Pregnancy Aid (Mack near Cadieux), which offers women alternatives to abortion. Our help is free, non-discriminatory and non-judgmental and is composed of material as well as emotional assistance. Never have I heard any such sentiments expressed by any of our members or by the many other sensible people I have met through our work.

Have you ever visited a pregnancy service? Ever talked with us in an in-depth manner? Tried to understand what we are all about? If you had, you would never have heard a word of hate, only of love yes, even for the abortionists, God help them all. Your cartoon does us all a disservice and maligns a movement which for the vast part is loving and caring.

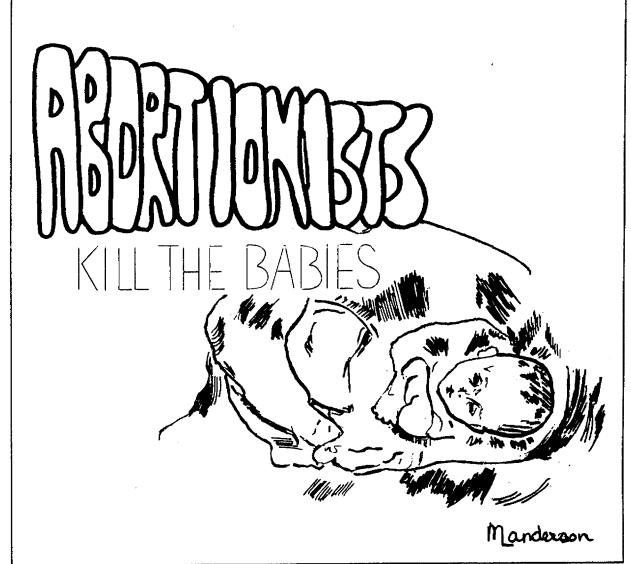

One must conclude that your editorial policy concurs with the cartoon's message which has done us irreparable harm. Since many of our volunteers and honorary board members are Grosse Pointers, and since we are advertising in the Grosse Pointe News, I believe that you owe us an explanation and an apology.

Foods may owe $16,000 for architect's math error

By Peter A. Salinas

Grosse Pointe Woods may have to dole out almost $16,000 to cover a mathematical error which led to an underestimate of modernization and beautification project costs on Mack Avenue in the Bournemouth/Newcastle area in November 1985.

The project, which was approved by both the city council and the city Community Development Block Grant Commission, was paid for with federal funds through the CDBG program.

City attorney George B. Catlin told the council Sept. 8 that the project bid documents were prepared by John Prote, an architect hired by the city.

Catlin sent a letter to the council indicating that Prote made a mathematical error in the bid documents underestimating the number of material units necessary to complete the job.

The council was also informed that Prote said such an error would be covered by errors and omissions policy, but he did not have insurance.

Catlin said he believes the city owes the contractor, Warren Con-

The council unanimously passed a motion made by councilman Robert Novitke, to authorize Catlin to negotiate a settlement with the construction company, and that any agreement on a sum would be paid for out of the 1986 CDBG fund.

Catlin said if it is permissible for the funds to come out of the 1986 grant, then the city would do it. City comptroller Gerald McNamara said he doesn't believe that's

'I don't believe you can pay that out of those funds," McNamara said. "I do not believe it is consistent with the regulations of the block grant program.

Prote, who now has his office in Traverse City, said if there is someone to blame for all this, it is

The project which included demolishing concrete, replacing it, and putting in curbs, bike racks and small landscaped islands, was to cost about $29,100 by Warren Contractors low bid — but based on Prote's figures.

The actual cost of the project, according to the contractor's final invoice sent the city was $44,875.

"It was human error," Prote said. "It's as simple as that. I had a one-man operation and I couldn't afford the insurance. I had moved and had no daily supervision at the site. I think I visited the site twice during the construction."

Prote said the mathematical error occurred by not adding in the measurement of an area of concrete that had to be removed and replaced.

McNamara said that had the block grant commission known of the high cost of doing the project, it would have likely chosen an alternative way of modernizing the

"We would have rejected the bids and sought another solution, McNamara said. "There are almost always ways to bring a job under budget by controlling the amount of work or materials."

While Prote accepts full blame, he says the contractor is partly responsible. He notes that with the bid specifications in the hands of the contractor, there should have been a halt put to the job when the workmen noted there was almost 50 percent more work to do.

"It was my fault initially," Prote said, "but the whole thing snowballed. I'm only human and I make "The contractors never called anyone. I'll take blame for the initial error. Other things should have happened after that, that

Tom Maliszewski of Warren Contractors, Inc., said Prote can say whatever he wants, but his company did the job and did it very

He said the job wasn't all that extraordinarily large, and the cost overrun occurred when the job first started. His workmen had already completed the job of tearing up cement and replacing it in a week's time.

"It's not our practice to catch his error," Maliszewski said. "They (the city) wanted it done, and we did it.

In any event, Catlin said he would negotiate with Warren to arrive at an agreeable settlement. The city will have to find the funds to pay the bill if it is not an allowable expense under the terms of the block grant program.

"There is a certain amount of blame on every level," Prote said, "except, of course, for the city. The contractor should have caught the error and work shouldn't have proceeded."

At the council meeting, council-man William Wilson, asked Catlin and City Manager Chester Petersen to make sure that the city does not run into a situation when one of its contractors does not have an error and omissions liability insurance policy.

Both Catlin and Petersen agreed the point was well-taken, and said they would make efforts to ascertain a contractor's liability status in the future.

Hospital chief works for unity between doctors, faculty

By Elsa Frohman

Donald Austin of the City is a third generation physician. His father and grandfather were general practitioners in and around Bloomington, Ind.

Austin, however, has chosen a more specialized and urban focus for his medicine. His specialty is neurosurgery, but for at least the next year, Austin will be seeing fewer patients and working more with other physicians. On June 1, he took over as chief of staff at Harper-Grace Hospital in the Medical Center of Detroit.

The chief of staff is the leader of the medical staff at the hospital.

"I conduct the activities of the medical staff, I am chairman of the medical board and the executive committee. I appoint medical committees and I am in charge of the credential committee," he explained.

The post of chief of staff is for a term of one year. The chief may be re-elected annually, however, Austin isn't looking past his first year in office, yet.

"Before I was in private practice as a neurosurgeon," Austin said. "I was the vice chief of the neurosurgery department. I'll have to cut back on my practice, but I'm still keeping it going. I like to keep in touch with what the doctor on the street is doing. I want to know how to better represent him as the chief of staff."

Austin says he believes he was chosen as chief to help the private physicians on the staff and the teaching faculty form a more comfortable union. Harper-Grace, like its partners in the Medical Center, is a teaching hospital dedicated to providing an educational environment for medical students and residents of Wayne State University.

"These five hospitals have merged to be the teaching hospital for Wayne," Austin said. However, the Medical Center is a very different kind of teaching hospital than those affiliated with most medical schools. In most cases, the teaching hospitals are founded by, and completely under the control of the college or university. "Here, each of the five private hospitals has its own autonomy, Austin said. "We have sort of a 'town and gown' division.'

Austin, as a private physician, rather than a university man, in the position of chief of staff, will be acting as a bridge between the private practitioners and university faculty at the hospital.

The five hospitals in the Medical Center operate in a system of cooperative competition.

"We're now in a process of further unifying the center," Austin said. "We have a Blue Book, our master plan based on the concept of centers of excellence. Hutzel excells in obstetrics and gynecology; Children's in pediatrics. Harper is the center for major medicine and surgery and Grace is a community hospital. The idea is to bring all the services together, so we don't compete, but share."

Harper-Grace Hospital has recently been presenting a highprofile advertising campaign featuring actor E.G. Marshall on television. Austin said he has mixed feelings about hospitals advertis-

City considers vacating portion of street

By Pat Paholsky

A hearing Monday night to close off part of a street in the City drew about 30 residents, both for and against the proposal. After one hour and 15 minutes of discussion and testimony, the city council voted to table the matter.

The recommendation to close Charles between Roosevelt and Washington was first made in 1963. The matter was brought to the fore again by nearby residents who claim the half-dirt, half-asphalt road attracts youthful high speed drivers and motorcyclists, and along with it, unsafe conditions.

The residents of Charles and some of their supporters say the problem is not the fault of the street. The answer lies in paving and maintaining the road and better police enforcement, they say. Both sides submitted petitions to support their positions. Urging the council to close the street was John Kim, who lives on Washington between St. Paul and

'We feel the city will save the taxpayers money instead of maintaining a useless and unwanted portion of Charles Street," he said.

Don Landers, representing a condominium association on Mau-mee, said paving the section in dispute was the members' first choice and barring that, they would like to have the street closed.

The owner of one of the three houses on the portion of Charles in question, Dr. Alfred Large, said, We should be mainly considered because we are the ones who live in this street. The others have selfish interests. Our property values would decrease.

One woman suggested that the city erect temporary barriers to determine if closing the street would help the traffic flow.

The traffic was on the mind of Gordon Sorenson, who lives on the corner of Charles and Rivard. "If Maumee. He offered a slide pre- you close Charles off, it will get rid ing.

about six — spoke for each side. City Manager Thomas Kress bach said he hoped there would be some kind of consensus. "It costs money to maintain.'

If the street portion were closed, the land would revert back to the property owners on each side of the right of way. The property would then go on the tax rolls as unimproved property, like front lawns, Kressbach said.

Residents now are able to enter or exit their street by Rivard. Washington or Roosevelt. The closing would leave them two access

Safety program gets new signs

By Peter A. Salinas

A child sees a stranger following him home from school. A dog chases two small girls. Three kids are being chased by some older boys. Where does a child turn?

Grosse Pointe public schools and the various law enforcement agencies throughout the Pointes and Harper Woods have long had an Emergency E program.

The children are taught in school by the various youth safety officers who visit them regularly, that if a house has a special large "E" in the window, it is safe for them to go there if they are in trouble.

James Smith, an officer in the Park, said those residents displaying the "E" are not asked to necessarily take the child into the home or give assistance. They are asked to quickly call police or emergency medical personnel to the

Some 1,000 signs were recently purchased with money from a special fund set up two years ago by the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge No. 102. The Community Oriented Program Fund, or COP Fund, is designed specifically for local projects.

Dave Hiller, president of the local F.O.P. Lodge, said though the "E" program is a continuing project, it emphasizes what the C.O.P. Fund is all about.

The fund is generated out of donations, dues and fundraisers. Hiller said. "We are always looking for something to fund throughout the year. Our goal is to keep whatever money we make through charity fundraisers local."

For instance, the C.O.P. fund is being used to send 50 kids from the Foundation for Exceptional Children to a Detroit Tigers game before the season is over.

The F.O.P. also has an associate organization of private citizens. There is a joint board that rules on where the donations for C.O.P.

Will the organization now be besieged with requests?

"That is what the fund is for," Hiller said. "But the rule is it must be a local program or project."

The new "E"s are large and red and larger than the old ones. The signs are printed on both sides so that if one side fades from exposure to the sun, it can be simply flipped over for continued use.

Smith said before a residents can get an "E" for their home, they must fill out an application. Filling out that application also allows police to run a check on the person.

Smith said that officers get to know the neighborhoods they patrol, and if an "E" appeared where it shouldn't, they would notice it.

He added that the person offering his home for refuge to a young child is requested to be home when the children are going to or coming home from school — the times when the safe harbor program

These students are among 15,000 semifinalists. They will have an opportunity to advance in the competition for about 6,000 Merit Scholarships valued at more than $21 million, to be awarded in the spring of 1987.

More than one million students from 19,000 secondary schools entered the competition last fall by taking the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test in their junior year. Those who qualified as semifinalists include the highest scorers in all 50 states and represent the top half of one percent of this year's senior class.

To become one of approximately 13,500 finalists who will be considered for awards, semifinalists must document their high school academic performance throughout high school, receive the recom-mendation and endorsement of their principal, confirm their earlier qualifying test scores on a second examination and provide information about their interests, accomplishments and goals.

About 40 percent of the finalists cause of a limitation of funds. Three distinctly different types of awards will be provided, of which at least 1,800 will be National Merit

Winners of these awards will receive $500 to $8,000 for each undergraduate year of college.

The remaining 2,800 four-year Merit Scholarships to be offered next spring will be sponsored by some 200 colleges and universities that reserve the awards for finalists who will attend their universities. The Detroit Community Music School has formally changed its name to Center for Creative Studies/Institute of Music and Dance.

In announcing the name change, institute president Steven J. Nelson said, "While we are proud of our roots as Detroit Community Music School, it became obvious to us that our name did not adequately reflect who we are. We wanted our constituents to understand our affiliation with the Center for Creative Studies, and we needed to reaffirm our commitment to outstanding dance instruction in addition to our fine musical program-stitutions, the Detroit Settlement School and the Detroit Institute of Music Arts. The institute affiliated with the Center for Creative Studies in 1985. Study shows seat belt use pays off

Surveys and studies in Colorado and Utah indicate that it costs from three to nine times as much to treat car accident victims who were not wearing seat belts.

In Salt Lake City, a hospital survey of 159 patients involved in automobile accidents showed that the 87 percent who weren't wearing a seat belt incurred charges of $3,105 on the average. The minority who wore their belts were charged an average of $298.89, according to Buckle-Up Clearinghouse. A Colorado study of 1,036 auto accident victims at 24 hospitals gave similar, but less dramatic results. Only 195 of the patients had been wearing a belt. Their average hospital cost was $441. The unbelted patients ran up average charges of $1,390. Source: "Monday Comments,"

Park officer wounds suspect

A Grosse Pointe Park public safety officer shot and wounded a suspect of a car theft on Sunday, Sept. 14, the department said. Police are not releasing details while an investigation continues.

About 1 p.m., a one-man patrol unit responded to a call that a car was being stolen on Pemberton. When it reached the location, two cars drove away at a high rate of speed. The officer chased them down Alter Road until one of the suspects crashed his vehicle into the fence surrounding the Windmill Pointe Park, Lt. William Furtaw said.

City police arrest thief after chase

A Detroit man faced a preliminary examination in the city of Grosse Pointe on Tuesday for allegedly stealing a car, City police said. He and two companions were caught on the afternoon of Sept. 8 after a chase. The other two were not charged.

A City scout car on routine patrol noticed an unreadable month sticker on the license plate of a 1975 Thunderbird leaving the Social Security office parking lot. A computer check showed that the car had been stolen in January 1985.

Police activated the scout car lights and pulled the Thunderbird over, but as Public Safety Officer James Fox approached the car, it drove away. Fox jumped back in the scout car and gave chase, first east on Mack, then west.

As the Thunderbird made the crossover on Mack, it hit a 1973 Dodge at about 25 miles an hour. Fox determined that the Detroit woman driving the Dodge was not hurt and continued the chase.

The Thunderbird turned down Warren and ran the light at Cadieux at about 50 miles an hour, according to the report. It then hit another car at Chalmers. That driver was unhurt.

The car led police around several side streets in Detroit until all three suspects "bailed out" on Maynard. Fox gave chase on

The suspects were taken into custody by four Park officers and Detroit police who had joined the

Office building planned for Mack Ave. in Woods

A new office development and parking structure is being planned for the strip of Mack Avenue south of Anlta by the George P. Johnson Company, an industrial display and design

The building, according to Grosse Pointe Woods building inspector Earl Wakely will be two stories with the entire first floor being an enclosed parking structure housing 27 parking spaces.

Elevation levels were approved by the Woods' planning commission earlier this summer, and Wakely said the next step for the project is to securing a demolition permit to raze the buildings on that stretch of block. Working drawings of the project will then have to be approved by the building department.

The plan is to construct an enclosed first floor parking structure which covers about 60,000 square feet and having about the same amount of office space on the second floor.

The building, which once was the Lochmoor State Bank,

WSU to offer

is now a group of stores hous-ing an electronics store and printing and dog grooming shops.

Wakley said that the city's ordinance regarding off-street parking required the project to include parking as a condition of approval. With its own in-house parking, it meets the city's rules concerning the number of parking spaces per businss.

City Manager Chester Petersen said that offices at that location are permitted under the zoning ordinance.

George P. Johnson's attorney, Eric Biretta of St. Clair Shores, said the businesses located on the block have until the end of September to move

There was some question about the historical nature of the block since the old Lochmoor State Bank is the oldest building in the city. According to Petersen, the building was never designated as an historical site, nor does the city have an ordinance which would allow for such a designation.

Screening program catches infant hearing loss early

By Nancy Parmenter

Try to get a baby to sleep when he or she isn't ready and you can appreciate the very first challenge facing volunteers testing newborns for hearing loss at Hutzel

Hospital. "They have to be asleep. If they wiggle around, it just ruins the data completely," said volunteer coordinator Wayne Middleton of Grosse Pointe Woods. "Sometimes we have to hold them in our arms to keep them quiet." It didn't take long for the babies to teach the testers that they sleep better on a full stomach.

Middleton and his 14 volunteers are members of the Telephone Pioneers of America, telephone company employees — working and retired. The Wolverine Chapter has more than 11,000 mem-

The Telephone Pioneers are focusing on problems of the hearing-impaired during their 75th anniversary year.

"There's a connection there," said Middleton. "Alexander Graham Bell was looking for a (hearing improvement device) when he invented the telephone."

Middleton, who said he began looking for worthwhile volunteer projects a little over a year ago after he retired and his wife died, worked with Hutzel's Dr. George Lynn to implement the testing program devised by Infant Hearing Assessment of Denver. IHA provides the plan and the equipment, the hospital provides the space, the training and the babies, and the Pioneers provide the manand womanpower. Dr. William Rintelmann, chief of the Wayne State University audiology department, now oversees the program.

The test screens babies for auditory brain stem-evoked response. Electrodes placed on the infants' scalps monitor brain waves evoked when the babies hear a series of rapid clicks. The technique was developed about eight years ago, Middleton said.

Some people tend to wait until their children are in school," he said. "They can be helped better if the problem is discovered earlier."

Six teams of volunteers work half a day a week administering the tests. "The test itself only takes eight minutes," Middleton said, 'but by the time you find the nursery, scrub up, quiet the baby, it can take up to an hour and a half. And you can't go much over an hour and a half or it's feeding time

In the average hospital, only about two percent of babies are at high risk of hearing loss. Because of Hutzel's reputation as a maternity hospital, high-risk pregnancies are attracted there. A hospital representative said 60 percent of Hutzel's yearly 6,500 babies are at high risk. That doesn't mean all those babies are deaf. But factors that could contribute to hearing loss — genetic abnormalities, Rh incompatibility, prolonged labor, fetal distress, or family history of diabetes or hearing loss — trigger Hutzel doctors to refer these newborns to the screening test.

"The volunteers are taught to read the charts in a general way, so we can tell if the technique was accurate, but we don't interpret them clinically," Middleton said.

The test is administered four times on each ear, twice at 70 decibels and twice at 40 decibels. Accuracy of the screening depends heavily on good electrode connection and the more hair the baby has, the tougher it is to at-

The double run of the test helps increase accuracy. The doctor averages the results. The graph of the brain waves is supposed to show five peaks and valleys and, ideally, the two readings will correlate closely. Often they don't, but that's one of the hazards of working with babies.

"If they don't track, maybe the baby yawned or wiggled," Middleton said. "Or maybe it has gas.'

Some early hearing loss is transitory, so babies who show a loss are asked to return in three months for a repeat test.

Working with babies is a pleasure Middleton said he had not expected. "They're just little dolls," he said. "I get a great feeling. Here you see a person who has the potential for being helped and you have the potential for being important at the be-ginning of someone's life." For 39 years, Middleton worked for Michigan Bell, retiring two years ago as the district manager for personnel in the company's engineering department. He was trained as an electrical engineer, but said he liked people better than figures 'because they're so much harder to figure out."

When he retired, he spent a year caring for his wife, then needed "a way of belonging

'So many people are uneasy in retirement and they can't figure out why," he said. "This is more challenging than a lot of volunteer work. It's difficult and I like difficulty. I can identify almost as much with this as I did with my job."

Middleton is responsible for recruiting and scheduling volunteers. In between, he also administers screening tests, is a lay preacher, drives cancer patients to therapy, plays bluegrass banjo and is writing a book on the lessons he has learned from life.

'I've never written a book before, and maybe I won't finish it, but my children say at least they'll know my philosophy of life," he said.

"There's hardly anything in life that I don't like. Nearly everything is interesting. And the most important thing I'll do in my life, I haven't done yet. I'm really starting to believe that.

Volunteer coordinator Wayne Middleton of the Woods, left, looks on as Christina Fyfe prepares a baby for tests and Alan Fyfe checks the medical charts. The Fyfes, of Birmingham, are two of the 14 volunteers running Hutzel Hospital's infant hearing loss testing program.

Resident begins musical tour

Anne Franco of Grosse Pointe Park has just begun a year-long tour with Cast B of Up With People, the international, educational and cultural program headquartered in Tucson, Ariz.

For the past six weeks, Franco has been participating in a demanding schedule of rehearsals for Up With People's musical production, "Beat of the Future."
During the tour, she will be responsible for every aspect of the production from technical setup and strike, to costumes and advance

Throughout the year, students' participation in Up With People will earn them valuable career skills in marketing, counseling and guidance, and other fields. They will live with 80 different host families and participate in community service projects.

During these activities, the students develop an awareness for the special needs of the handicapped, elderly and others they meet. This interaction leads to the development of a stronger sense of self confidence in their own potential for understanding.

Franco, 21, attended the University of Michigan. Cast B represents 131 students from 15 countries and will begin their year with an extensive tour of the Northeast. Featured performances include Bosch Corporation's 100th Anniversary Celebration in Detroit, and Boston Edison's Centennial Celebration in Massachusetts. Following the cast's semester break in December, they will tour Scandanavian and European countries.

Up With People is a nonprofit, educational organization whose aim is to encourage understanding among people everywhere.

Grosse Pointe house tour to feature architectural jewels

The Detroit chapter/American Institute of Architects and the Michigan chapter/American Society of Interior Designs Tour will be held in Grosse Pointe on Sunday, Oct 5, beginning at noon.

This year's tour will appeal to home tour buffs of all persuasions. Most of the places were designed by prominent architects, there is a mix of old and new, the interiors are incomparable, many of the gardens are horticulture dreams, and two sites are not houses at all.

The first stop will be at the Grosse Pointe Shores Municipal Building on the corner of Vernier and Lakeshore. It was designed by Albert Kahn to be a community center. In 1983 it was brought back to life by Robert Wakely Jr., AIA. Wakely won two important design awards for his work.

A house designed by Paul Rudolph in 1967 and situated on the shore of Lake St. Clair is a real art work. show stopper. It is an early example of International design, one of the few in the Pointes, and it is stunning.

Webber Place was designed by Leonard B. Willeke, AIA, in 1927. He designed many fine residences, including one for Edsel Ford, and the Webber House has been called the finest example of Tudor residential architecture in the

If you have ever wondered how an interior designer does his own home, this is the chance to find out. This local designer has owned his home on Lincoln Road for 10 years, and in this time he has added extensive built-in cabinets, recessed lighting and interior shutters on all the windows. This house has it all. When a third generation builder built his own dream house in 1984, he chose the spirit of a French country manor. It houses a growing family in an eclectic blend of traditional and antique furnishings complimented with contemporary

This tour may also have a bonus. The Brownies III has agreed to participate with one proviso; the boat is not sold before the tour date. The interiors were designed in 1983 by Tamara Kessler Wagner in a high tech contemporary style. The 110 foot yacht has two guest staterooms with their own private marble baths. It is one of the most luxurious yachts in the country. Tour tickets are $12 and may be purchased in advance by contacting the DC/AIA at 965-4103 or purchased at Hudson's, Northland and Eastland Interior Design Studios, and Pierson Interior Design Studios at Somerset Mall. They may also be purchased the day of the tour at the Grosse Pointe Shores Municipal Building.

Strohs links with LINC

Operation LINC, a 15-year-old non-profit organization which links donors of new and used goods with needy service organizations in metropolitan Detroit, has completed its largest project to date in conjunction with goods donated by the Stroh Brewery Company.
Operation LINC distributed more than 750 items of Stroh furniture and equpiment to 40 community organizations. Stroh supplied Operation LINC with the furniture that had been in storage following relocation of its headquarters to River Place.

According to Martha Brosky, president of Operation LINC, the project was completed in approximately two weeks.

"We had an overwhelming response," Brosky said. "We were able to meet many office equipment needs of a variety of community agencies so they can continue to offer their services to the disadvantaged."

Some of the organizations receiving items were the American Indian Services, Boniface Community Action Center, Calvary Senior Center, Capuchin Community Center, Children's Center, Detroit Rescue Mission, Easter Seal Society of Wayne County, House of Hope and the Michigan Cancer Foundation. In addition, donations were given to Neighborhood Services Department of the City of Detroit, St. Vincent de Paul, Sobriety House, State Fair Senior Citizens Center, Visiting Nurses Association and World Medical Relief.

This project was our most ambitious," Brosky said. Operation Linc completed inventory from July 11-15, moved the equipment to the Loop Warehouse in the Eastern Market July 16-18, started distributing on July 28 and had all items taken by Aug. 15. 'The Neighborhood Services Department was delighted to be contacted by Operation LINC to receive furniture donations," said Cassandra Smith Gray, executive director of NSD. "Contributions such as these enabled us to carry out the agency's mandate; to service families and organizations who are in need. Our agency, the NSD, the emergency food providers and families, benefitted from these gifts."

Operation LINC was formed in 1971 and has 40 current members. The organization's opprating costs are obtained through corporate donations or fundraisers such as a Sept. 20 cruise on the Wayward Princess. The $30 per person tickets will help Operation LINC continue to link businessesd with community agencies.

"In addition to corporate contribution like the $3,000 given by Stroh to help in distribution costs, we rely on fundraisers to help us meet our operating costs." Brosky

Second Gallery Gala promises to be more and better from Council of Sponsors

The Grosse Pointe War Memorial Council of Sponsors are out to prove that an event can be just as exciting the second time around. The week of Sept. 26 through Sept. 30, the council will be presenting its second annual Gallery Gala.

The Council of Sponsors is a group of Grosse Pointers interested in bringing alternative programming to the community. The council was founded in 1979 as a volunteer unit of the War Memorial. The stated goal of the organization is to supplement the War Memorial's programming with en-richment seminars, lectures and courses which meet the educational, cultural and civic needs of the community.

Each member of the council suggests, then arranges programs. The Gallery Gala is the brainchild of council members Margot Kessler and Audrey Platt.

Last year's gala began with a black-tie preview and continued with a gallery display of art from the Robert L. Kidd Associates Gallery in Birmingham. The art was for sale and a portion of the sales price on every piece went to benefit the programs of the War Memorial. Ray Fleming, manager of the Kidd Gallery, was on hand throughout the week, and gave a lecture on understanding contem-

Beaux Arts Ball brings arts together

It has been a long time since architects and other artists have come together to celebrate their common creative natures, but they will have the chance once again on Sept. 27 at the Beaux Arts Ball.

To create an elegant backdrop for the evening's festivities, the Beaux Arts Ball 1986: "An Age Nouveau'' will be held at Minoru Yamasaki's McGregor Memorial Center on the campus of Wayne State University. Sponsored by the Detroit Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, the ball is billed as a celebration for all those who are involved in the production and interpretation of art and arch-

The Beaux Arts Ball originated in France where revellers adorned themselves in black and white costumes — architectural students later included colorful headpieces. In recent years, the balls have been centered around a particular artistic theme. This year, the Detroit Beaux Arts Ball's theme is: An Age Noveau - A New Age, which describes a period in which we can pursue higher artistic aspirations and create new artistic goals. It is a theme ripe for interpretation and some fantastic costumes are anticipated.

The McGregor Center was designed by the internationally renowned architect, Minoru Yamasaki in 1958. The flowing marble and glass cathedral-like building emobies the spirit of An Age Nouveau. It was awarded the 25 Year Award last year by the A.I.A. as building that has withstood the test of time. A special tribute to the architect will be held at 8 p.m. prior to the ball and there will also be an exhibition of his work.

The Beaux Arts Ball 1986 is the second such event of its kind committed to manifesting an artisticinterrelative experience. The last Beaux Arts Ball was held in 1979 and held at a McKim Meand and White Building, presently the Silver's World Headquarters.

Tickets are $25 per person which includes hors d'oeuvres, valet parking and two drink tickets after which a cash bar will be available. The Fabulous Imperials, specializing in Motown, Jazz, and Big Band Swing, will provide the music for this perfect evening.

The Detroit Chapter of the A.I.A.

invites you to attend the Beaux Arts Ball 1986. Plan on celebrating with the artistic and architectural communities of Detroit as they celebrate An Age Nouveau, Saturday, Sept. 27, at 8 p.m. For tickets or additional information, contact the Beaubien House at 553 East Jefferson, Detroit, 48226 or call (313) 965-4100.

Calvary celebrates Adult Day Care Week will be observed Sept. 21-27. A relatively new service, adult day care consists of a variety of social and/or health-related services provided during the day in a group setting to older and chronically ill persons who return home in the eve-

"Adult day care allows people who are not totally independent to remain in the community and receive the support they need," explained the Rev. Dr. Rodney E. Hill, who administers Calvary Day Care For Adults, located at 4950 Gateshead at Mack Avenue.

While day care participates usually are not able to live without some assistance, they do not require 25-hour nursing care. Many life with relatives who work or need a respite from the responsibilities of caregiving. Others live alone and require periodic assistance or simply desire the opportunity for social contact they get through adult day care.

According to Hill, older people, their families and the community all benefit from adult day care for these reasons:

· Adult day care enables chronically ill or disabled persons to re-ing home placement.

• Day care offers the older person an opportunity to be with other people and provides an enriching education and social experience. · Day care gives family members accesss to counseling services and provides relief from the 24-hour responsibilities of caregiving. Calvary has a support group for caregivers which meets monthly.

· Adult day care reduces the potential for abuse, neglect or exploitation of the older and chronically ill person who may live in a difficult home environment.

Population trends and societal changes have influenced the demand for adult day care, Rev. Hill

"Smaller families, increased numbers of women who work and greater family mobility mean there are fewer people available during the day to care for growing numbers of older people," he ex-plained. "Adult day care helps fill that need. It enhances lives and helps the elderly stay socially active and involved in the commun-

September produce is bountiful

The bountiful supply of fresh, home-grown fruits and vegetables makes September one of the best months for food shopping.

Poultry and egg prices are already stabilizing now that the heat and drought have moderated in the southeastern United States.

Shoppers are already finding plenty of bargains at the meat counter in the form of beef. Beef production is being maintained by the liquidation of beef cows. The beef supply is being reduced and eventually supplies will bottom out to the point that prices will increase. Exactly when that will occur is uncertain, but many analysts are guessing it will be sometime in late 1986 or early 1987. One thing for sure: Lower food costs will help poultry producers more than beef producers. Pork prices have strengthened in recent weeks.

September is the month of Michigan purple plums. The plum crop is down both nationally and in the state, but they still will be readily available throughout most of the month. Both Michigan varieties have blue-black skins and greenyellow flesh. They offer one big advantage over other plums on the market now: Michigan plums come off the pit easily when ripe. They are also very sweet.

Peggy O'Connor

She's just 'falling' all over herself...

It's fall, and there should be just oodles of fall sporty stuff to write about, right? Right. But right now, I can't think of anything coherent. So I came up with:

"How nice it is . . .

... to hear that the Woods' Jimmy Carson is signed, sealed and delivered to the Los Angeles Kings' training camp in Victoria, British Columbia, Canada. I ran into Jim's dad, Chuck Carson, who says his pride and joy is happy with his recently-signed contract and enjoying the pace of his first National Hockey League training camp.

Carson's Kings will be in Detroit on Oct. 15 and I'm betting that there will be a couple dozen of his University Liggett School, Grosse Pointe Hockey Association and Compuware buddies down at Joe Louis Arena that night to watch him skate against the Red Wings.

. . and that another Pointe product, June Langs, is healthy and happy at the University of Wisconsin, according to her parents, Ed and Dottie Langs. June, who performed so well in her All-State-caliber years in South's varsity soccer team's backfield, isn't playing varsity soccer at UW. She's going out for the intramural team and take time out to enjoy school and her studies, the Langs say.

. and that still another local high school graduate, Joey Johnston, is knocking 'em dead at West Point. Soccer fans will remember Joey from her days as a Blue Devil soccer star. And just after she earned her way into West Point in the spring of 1985, she injured her leg playing for South and had to put things on hold for a year.

Well, Joey's fan, Col. Jerry A. Stonisch, reports that "Cadet Joey A. Johnston" is faring well as an academy "plebe" (freshman), playing soccer on the Corp Squad (a varsity level team), and that her knee is doing well and her attitude is "very positive."

Joey is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston, of Fisher Road. And if she sticks with the West Point program and Stonish says he will be sticked by the stone of the st she'll graduate in 1990 . . . as Second Lieutenant Joey Johnston.

I also gave some thought to . . .

... folks who wonder how they can get some coverage of their fall sports activities in the Grosse Pointe News. Actually, it's pretty easy, despite the rumors that a) you must know the sports editor; b) you must attend North/South (or whatever the sports editor's favorite school is that week); or c) that you must fork over your first-born son.

None of the above is true, folks.

Simply type (or print) up your school/ team/player/game information and get it to us by noon on Monday. You don't have to worry about double-spacing, fancy paper or complicated forms. It's as easy as that. (Are you listening, South and Harper Woods' schools fans?) We can't cover your event if you don't let us know what's going on.

... the Girls' Fall Sports Invitational at North High this Saturday. It's the seventh annual event and it's one of the few sporting events which is held solely for girls and does a great job promoting girls' prep sports in this area. North, South and a host of other schools will participate. It would be nice for the more than 400 girls who are expected to participate if they had big crowds cheering them on, so come on out. (And here's a hint: the varsity cross country competition at Vernier Hill, the swim competition and the tennis battle between the Lady Norsemen and Blue Devils should really be something to

... one of the facts I didn't doublecheck in my opus on youth sports programs in Grosse Pointe (Sept. 4 and 11). It had to do with the official title of Woods-Shores' Little League official Bob Waldeck. Seems I gave Bob a job he didn't have; the story should have noted that Waldeck is the Woods-Shores' league's secretary.

But, hey Bob, you're a vice president in my book any day.

Norsemen try for final Bi-County glory

By Peggy O'Connor

1986 is the Bi-County League's swan song; the league's teams will join the Macomb Area Conference in fall 1987, spelling the end of the BCL. So North's fall teams are anxious to wrap up one final league championship before taking on new challenges next season. Six year; here's a look at what some of those teams have planned for this season:

Basketball

For North fans, what could be better than veteran cage coach Ray Ritter joining Gary Bennett as co-coach of the 1986 girls' varsity that seven letterwinners return to a North line-up that wants to better the 8-3, second-place Bi-County finish it had a year ago.

"We've been looking forward to working as co-coaches for a long time," Bennett says. "I think we're going to enjoy it."

Bennett and Ritter would probshooting game. The Lady Norsemen shot only 30 percent as a team last ve. r. which is not the kind of stats necessary to compete against the likes of defending BCL champ Clintondale or L'Anse Creuse. "Scoring is the area of prime concern . . . we want to improve our shooting," Bennett says.

North is small, but very quick,

he adds. Defensively, the Lady Norsemen play well and combined with a speedy offense which he hopes will result in some easy baskets, North should move up a notch or so. "We'll put a lot of pressure on people and try to increase the tempo of the game to our advantage.

Among the returning players are All-Bi-County second team members Barbie Loeher, a senior point guard, and senior forward Leslie Talos. Senior Missy Preston will play the post and junior guard Robin Wheatley returns to the guard position; they earned All-Bi-County honorable mention a season ago. Senior Michelle Zrimec, juniors Monique Van Assche and Sue Nichols will be joined by newcomers Mary Lex, Heather Megos, Kelly Gianunzio and freshman Kim Reiter.

"We'd like to win the Bi-County, of course, but we've never won a district title and we hope to do well in the districts this year. I'd also like to see us be the best defensive team in the area," Bennett says.

'Most importantly, we want the girls to have a positive experience and learn basketball."

The last time University Liggett School's soccer team competed in Class D (1982) it won a state championship. And coach David Backhurst thinks that its possible for his Knights to do it again this season.

"I think we have enough to win the title," Backhurst says. "I'm optimistic about our chances.

Defense is ULS's strength this year, as it was last year. "We averaged only one goal against per game in 1985 and so far this year (ULS is 6-0) our goals against average is right down there," Backhurst says.

Leading the defense is 6-3 senior goaltender Brian Curtiss, who has (Continued on Page 2B)

Boating

Water skiing safety

Water skiing, tubing and sucba diving - three popular pleasure boating spinoffs - carry their own set of federal and state laws as well as some hazards and some common sense

Federal laws concerning water skilers are minimal. A person flotation device (PFD) is required for the skier, but the law merely says the PFD must be IN THE BOAT. The boat's

Michigan's state laws are a bit more stringent. The boat towing a water skier or tube rider must have a 170-degree rearview mirror so that the operator can steer that boat while observing the skier. There must also be a competent observer aboard the boat to assist the operator and the skier. In Michigan, water skiing is prohibited during the period of sunset through one according to Corporal Jerry Nichiow of the Macomb County Sheriff's Department, Marine Division. The skier should not toss his life jacket in the boat. He should wear a vest-type Coast Guard approved PFD. "Skiers shouldn't wear those swim belts," he said. "The swim belts (worn around the waist) won't hold the person's face out of the water. In fact, it holds his hips out of the Chief Petty Officer Eagar of the St. Clair Flats Coast Guard station added that skiers should wear bright colored PFDs, so that other boaters can spot them more easily if they fall into the water. Also, he said, "The boat operator should know the area where he's towing the skier. Know any obstructions. Be sure there's no blind turns or blind spots. Know about possible traffic that might interfere with the skier and avoid it. Stay away from swimming areas, the shore, anchored or drifting boats, and

Also, he said, the boat operator should remember that he and only he is totally responsible for the water skier's actions and whereabouts. If the skier gets too close to shore, sprays other boats or interferes with swimmers, the operator of the boat may be issued a violation for negligent operation. Such violations

Once the skier has fallen into the water, he should signal that he is O.K. and uninjured, by raising both arms above his head and clasping his hands. One ski, held upright is a signal to the operator to return and pick up the skier. If other boats are in the area, the raised ski also allows them to see the fallen skier more

Officer Eagar pointed out that a person being towed on an inner tube has no control over his own speed or direction swing 90 degrees to the side of the boat. It can throw a person onto shore or into the path of another boat," he said. "While bouncing along on a tube, it's usually impossible to see where you're going because of the vibration. When tubing, it's even Scuba divers also share the waters of our pleasure boating areas, and boat operators should be aware of laws and hazards regarding diving operations. Divers may need to come up quickly and should not be in danger of popping up near a boat propeller. State laws require boats to remain 100 feet away from the divers flag, which is orange with a 31/2-inch diagonal white stripe. The alpha international code flag-may also designate the location of diving operations. It's a blue and white swallow tail pennant divided in half vertically.

easily and decreases the chances that they'll run into him.

Tubing is a version of water skiing. The tuber is pulled behind a speeding boat while holding onto an inner tube or a life ring. The same rules apply to tubing as to water skiing: there must be an observer, a rear-view mirror, and a PFD in the boat.

Corporal Nichiow said he wouldn't even consider tubing without wearing a Coast Guard approved Type I or Type II PFD 'It's possible to fly into the air and get hurt by being slammed down into the water or onto another obstruction. Tubing is fun, but the water is hard.'

gotten much support from the senior-dominated backfield of Bob Jewett, Mike Fozo, Blasko Ristic and co-captain Steve Schmidt. The midfield is ULS's big question mark, Backhurst says, after a season-ending ankle injury suffered by midfielder Frank Karabetsos in the opening game last weekend. "But senior Ashu Nautiyal and junior Michael Trapp, an exchange student from Germany, have been playing well at midfield

. even though Ashu hasn't played soccer in two years and Trapp hasn't played for a year," Backhurst says. Alternating at the other midfield spots are freshman Doug Wood and Anthony Abiragi.

Up front are senior co-captain Bob Williams at center-forward, Karl Meyer on one wing and either junior Billy Jewett or senior Jeremy Belenky on the other wing.

Immaculate Conception, Ann Arbor Green Hills and Southfield Christian loom as ULS's most difficult Class D opponents; North, South and Cranbrook will pose a problem in the non-league portion of the schedule, Backhurst says.

"But as long as we continue to keep people off the board as well as we've been doing it, we should do well. We're excited about the season," he adds.

Tennis

Also excited about the season is second-year varsity tennis coach Bob Hartwick. He's got good reason to be, with most of the girls from the 1985 squad which won ULS's sixth consecutive Class C-D title returning, including two nationally-ranked players.

One of those two, sophomore Dawn Martin, returns to No. 1 singles where she won a state championship last year. Hartwick says that because of vacations, the tially, we've got a very, very girls haven't challenged for the top sports, but the line-up looks like junior Pam Ali at No. 2 singles, sophomore Elena Hunt at No. 3 and senior Amina Ali at No. 4.

In doubles, the duo Hartwick calls the "best No. 3 doubles in the state last year after beating South's No. 3 doubles team" -Cathy Bianchi and Karen Rahm will play No. 1 doubles. Juniors Leslie McLeod and Laura Rizzo are at No. 2 and three teams are vying for the final doubles spot.

"Our strength is the caliber of our singles players ... they're really just so strong," Hartwick says. South, Ann Arbor Huron and Bloomfield Hills Lahser are the toughest spots on the Lady Knights schedule, but Hartwick says the girls really feel no pressure in going after their seventh straight state title.

"Sure, our goal is to win the title. But if we could move up a notch in the overall state standings, it would prove that the girls worked hard this season. I know this team is good, but I didn't know exactly how good until we get into competition," he adds.

field hockey

What do you get when you win a league title in field hockey? A very, very interested and enthusiastic group of girls out for the squad the very next season. And ULS varsity field hockey coach Muriel Brock couldn't be happier. ULS, for the first time, will field varsity, junior varsity (coached by Suzanne Wanamaker) and reserve (coached by Nancy (Dau) teams, with substitutes on each squad. More than 45 girls came out for field hockey this season, Brock says.

"I'm very excited. And poten-

Among the more difficult competition South will face this fall, Prychitko says, are Lahser, Ann three games. "I and six-time Class C-D champ University Liggett. "North will be strong, too," Prychitko adds.
"But our girls like the competihear Fitzgerald will be good this year," he says. But he also admits that he thinks the race will probably come down to North and tion and they do well under pressure. The famous North-South rivalry South's girls won their eighth was never more evident than in the straight Eastern Michigan League varsity soccer games between the championship and finished a best-Blue Devils and Norsemen last ever third in the state Class A cross season — a 1-0 South win and a 3-0 country championships in 1985. "It'll be hard to duplicate, (last year) but I think this year's team is one of South's best teams ever,' he says. The girls are off to a 6-0 dual meet start

Although South lost the services of All-Stater Nancy Solterisch to graduation, Zaranek says he's got a couple of girls he thinks can push for that lead spot. Juniors Micha Song and Wendy Berger and sophomores Toni Tedesco and Traci Lee are South's top four runners.

Others who will help out include Rebecca Wasinger, Megen Smucker, Jenny McSorley, Reba burg, David Morinelli, Jeff Johnston, Bill Thompson, Steve McCann Uthappa and senior Mary Beth Hicks. "We've got 30 girls out -the biggest number ever — and that's nice, considering that it's are George Sparrow, Steve Trowern, Dutch exchange student been our goal to keep building the program," Zaranek says. "I think Jeff Van Geest, Mike Finch, Mike our real success is going to come from within. We've got a good combination of competitiveness and mutual respect. They're also a very intelligent group," he adds. No. 2 spot. Six girls were battling it out for the No. 3 doubles slot best season North has had in a Zaranek says he thinks South's strength will lie in its dual meet performances. "And we're favored to win the EML . . . I'm pretty confident we will. We may have to push when it comes to invitational meets, though. Because we don't have that one runner who can take command at invitationals, we need the whole team to sort of move up to that front spot. "I'm excited about the season. Our goal is to make it in the top 10 in the states for the third year in a row . . . and I think we can do it.'

Basketball

Call her squad young and competitive, says South girls' varsity basketball coach Peggy Van Eckoute. But whether that will be enough to repeat last year's success — when the Lady Blue Devils shocked two teams in district play and wound up in the district final for the first time in South history is another question.

'We've got to look at the fact that we are missing some kids who didn't come out for basketball and that we lost four seniors," Van Eckoute says. "But I think that we'll be competitive. The girls are enthusiastic and scrappy, and they want to win. That's a good sign."

South's lineup will have to contend with returning champ East Detroit and second-place finisher Port Huron. "East Detroit is hard to beat, especially with their size, Van Eckoute says. South finished third in the EML last season.

The only returning starter from that squad is point guard Carmina Amezcua. Junior Kelly Buchanan (6-3) will start at center, with junior Lisa Fromm and senior Patty Hess at the forward spots. Vying for starting sports are sophomore Christine Schulte, and juniors Stephanie Dinka, Patty Pentecost, Carolina Gaskin, Laura Linder, Meghan Keller and Barb Denler.

Van Eckoute says that South has a lot of offensive potential, but its success depends on "putting all the potential together.

'I've talked to the girls and told them that we have just as good a chance to win the EML as anyone. And we'd like to do as well in the districts as last year but that depends on whether we get Regina. Regina will be tough this year," Van Eckoute says.

"If we get Regina, we'll have to work pretty hard."

Boys' cross country

The way coach Thomas Wise sees it, the most direct way to an EML cross country title is through Port Huron Northern, Port Huron and Mount Clemens.

"It'll be a tough fight, but if we get by those three, we should have no problem in the league," Wise says. Last season, South was third in dual meets and second overall in the EML.

Thirteen runners on the 23-man squad return from the 1985 team, among them seniors Kevin English, (the Blue Devils' No. 1 man) Tony Murdock and Frank Unger. Other top runners are sophomores Lew Echlin, Phil Orton, John Blake and John Finucan and freshman David Kerfoot, who holds down the No. 2 spot on the squad.

South's weakness may be at invitationals, where experience usually plays a big role. "This is the youngest squad since I've been at South." Wise says. "So in terms of invitational meets, this will be a year of experience for some of the kids.'

Wise says he'd like to see the Devils win the EML and to grab a spot in the regionals by finishing in the top three in the districts.

and came in 11th in Class A. Those are nice numbers, but Gaskins and her squad are hoping for even better figures this fall, and a tougher schedule might just bring those

"This is the first year that we will not play our league teams twice. We have the toughest schedule ever and I think that will in turn toughen us up and get us ready for the states. I hope that it will make us a better team," Gaskins says.

The girls were still playing challenge matches for seeds last week, but right now senior Mary Garcia. sophomore Christine Biretta and freshman Jennifer Friedline are vying for the No. 1 singles spot. At doubles, it looks as though the duos of Beth Rayos and Nichole Lehman, and Andrea Thomas and Lynda Rayos will fill the top spots. Thomas made it to the state semifinals in doubles last season. Leading the Lady Norsemen this year are senior tri-captains Katie Beal, Christie Drummy and Sandy Smith. They are joined by returning seniors Krissy David and Terry Peek; juniors Shannon Andrews, Anne Finlan, Zara Dugan and Kate Koller; and newcomers Teresa Donahue, Becky and Emily Kolinski, Anne Thomalla and Lisa Bauer.

In his comments in the fall report, Buhagiar noted that North's goals include finishing in the top 10 in the states, compiling another fine dual meet mark, giving rival South a battle and closing out the Bi-County League with another championship.

Soccer

When the 1985 North High varsity soccer squad finished second in the Macomb Area Soccer League last fall, it marked the first time in the history of the league — and in North boys' soccer history — that the Norsemen hadn't captured the MASL crown.

Winning that title back is just one of coach Guido Regelbrugge's goals for his team this season. Another is performing well in the state tournament playoffs. But that might not be as easy as in past years, the veteran coach cautions.

"This year, the playoffs are set up a little differently. They're divided into districts, regionals and states and the teams are placed into geographical groups," Regelbrugge says. "What that has done is make it so only one team from the geographical group goes on to the regionals. In our district we have South, Fraser, Notre Dame, Warren Woods Tower, and one of the Roseville schools — in other words, some very good teams which we meet during the regular season. I told my players that I'd be very proud of winning just the districts."

The problem with the set-up, Regelbrugge, explains, is that the teams which play one another twice during the season must again face-off in the playoffs. "So you might have a situation where you've beaten a team twice, but then they get a lucky bounce and beat you once in the playoffs . . .

and once is all it takes," he says.

But that's looking ahead and Regelbrugge doesn't like to do that. He's got a senior-dominated lineup that he hopes will take North — one game at a time — far this season.

Three-year starter Brian Grieve returns to his goaltending duties for North. Backing him up on defense are seniors John Drummy, All-Leaguer and captain Ralph Barbier, Mike Farley and Greg Arends. Regelbrugge calls the defense North's strongest point, but says that his midfield should come through well this year. Right now, the midfield consists of Dan Regelbrugge, Chris Colfer and either John Secco, Brian Peltz, Brad Egan or Ben Black; Louie Melham is supposed to be in the starting lineup, but broke his collarbone in the first game and won't be available until playoff time.

Up front, John Andary, Dan Spitz, Glen Nadeau and John Cartwright will supply the scoring punch. "We're not prolific scorers, so our defense is going to be what carries us many times. We'll win our games 2-1 and 1-0 . . . and we'll lose them by those scores, too,' Regelbrugge says.

He counts South, Warren Fitzgerald and Mount Clemens as the tough teams in the league. "Fitzgerald has been the spoiler for the last two years, first for South and last year for us. But I think that it might come down to us and South again," he adds.

Norsemen, Miller pounce on l'Anse Creuse, 24-0

Fullback Mike Miller carried the ball 33 times in last Saturday's 24-0 win over L'Anse Creuse. Here's just a few of Miller's 166 yards; and it was one of his three touchdowns that day.

For once, Grosse Pointe North's varsity football team took mercy on its fans and won an easy game, topping L'Anse Creuse 24-0 last Saturday. Senior fullback Mike Miller bounced back from a tough Fraser game, gaining 166 yards in 33 carries and scoring three touchdowns to lead the offense.

Senior tailback Bill Smith complemented Miller well, carrying 13 times for 106 yards. The Norsemen totalled 292 yards on the ground, while the defense held L'Anse Creuse to just 35 total yards on offense, 27 in the air and eight on the ground.

'We went into the game intending to establish the running game," said coach Frank Sumbera. But the defense dominated early in the contest as neither team could put together a solid drive. Finally, North broke through early in the second quarter. Starting on its own 48, North drove to the L'Anse Creuse 25 behind Miller's running and a key pass from junior quarterback Bruno Giglio to senior tight end Rob Olds. The drive stalled, but senior Bob Belser booted a 42-yard field goal. The Norsemen held off the Lancers and took the ball from their own 25. A 40-yard ramble by Smith took North down to the L'Anse Creuse 18 and two plays later, Miller ran it in from the four to give North a 10-0 lead. The Norsemen continued to control the ball in the second half, taking their first possession 63 yards and finishing it off with a one-yard touchdown run by Miller. Senior Jamie Wheatley entered the game and engineered another successful scoring drive behind the running of Miller and Smith. Miller's three-yard jaunt for six points ended the scoring.

North's defense — which allowed 26 points in the opener against Fraser — was outstanding. "The defense was vastly improved," Sumbera commented. "We needed a strong effort from them.'

North has now won 18 consecutive regular season games. The squad travels to Waterford Kettering for a game this Friday at 7:30

North's JV football squad raised its record to 2-0 by defeating L'Anse Creuse in a massive rainstorm, 6-0. The Norsemen amassed 260 yards rushing in the victory. The defense was hot, stopping the Lancers twice in first-and-goal situations.

The freshmen were also victorious, decimating East Detroit, 33-0. Chris Meathe and Ed Barbler each scored twice and Dave Monette added another touchdown. Charlie Stump led the defensive effort with 10 tackles.

Cagers make history

North's varsity basketball team won twice last week, topping War-ren Woods Tower, 54-50 on Sept. 10, then beating Regina, 49-47, in what coach Gary Bennett called one of North's "biggest wins ever." Senior Barbie Loeher won the game for North—its first ever victory over highly ranked Regina—with three free throws in the last six seconds. She finished with 14 points. Against Tower, senior Leslie Talos had 18, junior Robin Wheatley had 11 points and Missy Preston added 10.

North's JV squad split a pair of games last week, destroying Warren Woods Tower, 54-30, but falling to Regina, 39-34. Against Tower, North held a slim lead after one quarter, but outscored Tower 15-6 in the second quarter and cruised to the win. Captain Kerry Peters led all scorers with 14 points. Freshman Pam Thomas added 10.

Kickers split

North's varsity soccer team capped a busy week by splitting a pair of games in the Troy Invitational on Saturday. Kalamazoo Central shut North out, 3-0, in the first game. In the consolation game, the Norsemen nipped Bishop Foley, 2-1, on goals by Dan Spitz and John Cartwright. Earlier in the week, North blitzed Roseville, 13-0, as Ralph Barbier and Spitz had three goals apiece. North's next action is at South today at 4 p.m. (By John Juibard).

The JV team edged Chippewa Valley, 3-2, to raise its record to 1-4. Chris Caldwell supplied the offense with two goals; Brian Metry also scored. The boys play today at South. (By John Juibard)

Harriers 12th

North's boys' cross country team finished 12th out of 24 teams in the West Bloomfield Invitational Sept. 6, and defeated South Lake. 15-50, on Sept. 9. In the invitational, No. 1 runner Tom Rice was 39th overall (17:31), Adrian Weyhing was 62nd (18:06) and Frank Mar-key was 64th (18:10). John Van Syckle, (17:23) Rice and Kevin Mack went one-two-three in the shutout over South Lake. (By Jamie Wheatley).

Golfers open

After a solid win over ULS, North's varsity golfers evened their record to 1-1 with a tough loss to Dearborn, 159-157. Tony Glumetti, described by coach Didur as a "pleasant surprise" and Ian Mac-Neil, each had nine-hole scores of 38. North's average was under 40 per man, but wasn't good enough for the win. Defending champ North plays in the Tri-County League with ULS, Cranbrook and Country Day. Didur expects Cran-brook to be North's toughest compeition. Playing in the top six are co-captains MacNeil and Mike Hitch, and Jay Messner, Brad Wilson, Giumetti and Bob Hetchler. (By John Laskarides).

Top-ranked soccer team unbeaten

By Mike Fozo ULS

The University Liggett School varsity soccer team upped its record to 7-0 last week with victories over Greenhills, Roeper and Lutheran Northwest.

On Sept. 9, the Knights traveled to Ann Arbor where they faced a supercharged Greenhills team. The Knights came out flat, allowing Greenhills to jump to a 2-1 lead at the half. In the second half, midfielders linked together more passes, while the defense played tighter. Anthony Abiragi tied the game one minute into the second half, and Karl Meyer added two more goals to give the Knights a 4-3 victory.

Roeper came to ULS on a windy Wednesday afternoon. Co-captain Bob Williams began the Knights' scoring with an aggressive run up the middle. Roeper countered to tie the game at the half. Ten minutes into the second half, freshman Doug Wood headed one to give the Knights a 2-1 lead. Williams scored again to give ULS 3-1 win.

ULS and Lutheran Northwest battled on Sept. 12. At halftime, the Knights led 1-0 on a goal by freshman Alex Tringali. The rest of the game proved to be a defensive struggle. Coach David Backhurst's defensive line was incomplete due to injuries to co-captain Steve Sch-midt and Mike Fozo. Chip Davis and Peter Hardy did an excellent job in mending the defensive wall and shutting down Lutheran Northwest. The game was a defi-nite lift for the Knights; they came off the field victorious for the seventh time, even with injuries to Frank Karabetsos, Michael Trapp, Schmidt, Bill Jewett and Fozo.

Ajiri leads rush

The ULS football team lost to Mt. Carmel on Sept. 13, 25-7.

Coach Bob Newvine commented that the Knights put in a good performance on offense, gaining over 300 yards. Mt. Carmel had less than 160 yards.

Dike Ajiri had an excellent day, rushing for 178 yards. Quarterback Bill Listman completed eight passes for 100 yards. Kevin Darby scored the Knights' only touchdown by catching a pass in the last seconds of the game. The ULS defense had an excellent pass rush, ied by Agu Nwosu with 19 tackles.

Schools fight forfeits

By Nancy Parmenter The Grosse Pointe school board voted unanimously Monday to ask the Michigan Court of Appeals to stop the state high school athletic association from penalizing Grosse Pointe for allowing a transferred student to play football last year.

The action stops a little short of a lawsuit, according to Superintendent John Whritner. "It is a motion to request a hearing, asking the court to intervene and stop the Michigan High School Athletic Association from taking this action," Whritner said.

If the MHSAA has its way, Grosse Pointe South will be stripped of four victories at the end of last season because player Duff Berschback, a transfer from De la Salle, was ineligible under MHSAA rules. Berschback played under an order from the court of appeals, which forms the basis for the school board's action.

"The court of appeals was the court that allowed Berschback to play and issued a restraining order against MHSAA to keep them from penalizing the school," said school attorney Douglas H. West.

It was also the court of appeals which considered a challenge to the constitutionality of the state's transfer rule. The question bounced to the state Supreme Court, then back to the appeals court, which upheld the constitutionality in an opinion issued aug. 18. Berschback's father, Donald, has now appealed that decision back to the state Supreme Court. Although the MHSAA says it is only enforcing its rules, school officials say the association's ruling is a clear violation of the court's intent. The MHSAA did not penalize the school until August, well after the 1985 football season was over - a point at which courts have traditionally considered the question moot, according to

"The MHSAA is giving a higher priority to their rules than to the court order," West said "we're being near , we're being penalized doubly for having been good public-spirited citizens in seeking the guidance of the court. Under MHSAA rules, a transfer student may play sports under an injunction unless it is found not to be justified. Implied in that rule, West says, is that a court must declare the injunction unjustified. Although the appeals court found the transfer rule constitutional, it did not nullify its injunction.

"Girl in the Picture" is beautiful, touching story

By Michael Chapp

A young couple living in co-habitation brood silently over their morning coffee. Both of them are unhappy with their relationship, but neither wants to be the first to admit it. A typical conversation between the two goes this way:

'What's wrong?

"Nothing. "Is that a nothing nothing or a something nothing? 'Nothing.

"Sounds like something to me." You've just got to love a movie with dialogue like that. Not only is what they say indicative of their rocky relationship, it's downright hilarious. And the careful mixture of the two elements throughout is what makes "The Girl in the Picture" top-notch entertainment. It's a drama about young love, yes; but it's also a very funny comedy.

male-half of the couple. She's an art student struggling to be creative. Alan thinks she's creative enough. She's already created more problems for him than he can

Throughout the first of the picture, Alan struggles to figure out a way to break things off with Mary without hurting her feelings. Mary solves the dilemma for him by moving out one day while he's away at work. No problem, he thinks, because now he's rid of her and can concentrate on the girl of his dreams — a beautiful blonde

Mary (Irina Brook) is the fe-

Alan (John Gordon-Sinclair) is the male-half of the couple. He's a who keeps crossing his path and melting his heart.

All performances will be held in the auditorium of the newly refurbished Sacred Heart Seminary, 2601 W. Chicago Blvd., Detroit. Ticket prices are adults, $4; students and senior citizens, $3.

For ticket information, call Mike Moseley, Ray Hillen or Barbara Urbiel at 963-7172 or Joe Mallia at Ah, but love works in mysterious ways, and, even in the midst of sexual adventures and hot pursuits of other women, Alan finds that the material emptiness Mary left in the apartment upon her departure is reflected in his heart. Consequently, the second half of the film highlights Alan's quest for self-understanding and getting Mary to

While all of this is going on, the movie takes two side trips. One is with Alan's co-worker, Ken (David McKay), an incurable romantic who falls in love with a different girl each week. Ken's fickleness draws a very pointed — if not sidesplitting - contrast between different notions of love.

The other subplot involves a couple, somewhat older than Alan and Mary, who are preparing for marriage. Alan is hired to photograph the wedding. He gets some clear pictures indeed about what is and is not important in a relationship through his dealings with the couple. These proceedings too, are as funny as they are dramatic. Maybe funnier.

By the end of the picture, nothing has changed. Then again, everything has changed. On the outside, everything looks the way it did when the movie began: Alan and Mary are living together, Ken is still a hopeless romantic and the couple that Alan was hired to photograph are still arguing over financial matters. On the inside though, everyone in the movie has grown in some way. Each of them is a little smarter. It's nice and refreshing really, to have such a beautiful and touching story told so subtly. Nothing earth-moving here, just down-to-earth.

The real draw of "Picture." though, lies not in its wonderfully handled drama but in its superb comedy. There are no blatantly funny jokes in this movie. Viewers won't hear any gags about flatulence or various other bodily functions as they would in a lesser film. Insteady, the comedy is understated. The humor in this movie follows a parallel tack to the drama; their paths don't cross. Those who concentrate only on the dramatic impact of the story will overlook the comedy. And that would be a mistake, because this is quite possibly the funniest movie to hit local screens in a long time.

Sinclair is an engaging screen personality, and is by far the most talented actor in "Picture." But McKay, who plays the Barney Rubble to Sinclair's Fred Flintstone almost steals the show with his zany and offbeat sense of humor. Based on what this film shows of his talent, he'll be getting lead roles of his own very soon. And Brook, as Mary, though her character is not nearly as complex as Alan, is still just as appetizing on screen.

Mary, by the way, is the girl in the picture in "The Girl in the Picture." You've just gotta love it!

Alan (John Gordon-Sinclair) and Mary (Irina Brook) resume their relationship certain that they definitely might probably be madly in love with each other in "The Girls in the Picture."

'Back to School' is 2 hours of laughs

By Marian Trainor

When a film that opened in June is still going strong in September, it's time to take a look at it. The film is "Back To School" and it's not difficult to see why it is still drawing audiences. It's funny, good-natured and made-to-order for Rodney Dangerfield's deadpan

In it, Dangerfield plays a selfmade retailing tycoon who has made a fortune selling clothes to the tall and fat. A dynamo of energy, he disposes of business concerns involving large investments of money quickly, easily and, being Dangerfield, wittily.

A widower, he gets trapped into a second marriage by a golddigging schemer who gives lavish parties trying to make it socially. Smart enough to lure Dangerfield into marriage, she is not smart enough to be faithful to him. It's been a disastrous marriage for him, not only because he has made a mistake and married the wrong woman, but also because she has created a rift between him and his son Jason (Keith Gordon).

It all comes to a crashing end when Dangerfield creates a scene at one of his wife's parties. Outraged, she demands a divorce and a big settlement. But he is one step ahead of her. He pulls out a set of divorce papers along with some incriminating pictures of her with her various male friends."

Free, Dangerfield sets out to visit his son at college and try to reestablish their former relationship.

What he doesn't know is that Jason is not happy at the university and wants to quit. He gives counters, "You can talk, you don't have to do it." Dangerfield rises to the challenge and persuades the dean to let a candidate, who never finished high school, enroll in a college of hand-picked students. He becomes the oldest freshman on campus and the fun begins. He arrives in a stretch limousine driven by his chauffeur bodyguard and he imports an office staff to take notes and to research and write his papers. Typewriters and copy machines work overtime. The staff is promised a raise for every A or B he gets. A+ rates a trip to Hawaii.

"Back To School" is a film that never stops. For two hours of laughs and entertainment, you can't miss with "Back To School," his son a pep talk and Jason an A+ comedy.

'Into the Light' opens Fisher's 25th season

By Marian Trainor

It is understandable that "Into the Light," which opened at the Fisher Theatre this past week and will run to Oct. 4, will be approached by playgoers as an event.

It is the premiere of the Fisher's 25th season. It is the first pre-Broadway tryout at the Fisher in years. It is produced by Joseph Nederlander with financial assistance from local backers, Richard Kuhn and Jerrold Perenchio, and it is a collaboration by newcomers to the Broadway scene - Lee Holdrige (music), John Forster (lyrics) and Jeff Tamborino

Add to this the use of laser, the literal manifestation of modern technology to dramatize the scenes that are meant to emphasize the central theme of the play — which is that there are truths that are

Color show to begin

Taken alone, although it is vividly presented and well worked out, the storyline would be more like a miracle play than the entertaining, lively presentation that it is.

What balances it out is another aspect of the book; the story of a father who is too busy to spend time with his son and a mother who desperately tries to convince him how much his son needs him. What makes the play special beyond the technology and the story are the solid performances of the cast and the musical score which works into the narrative without interrupting the action.

The music is not the traditional

Broadway show-stopping variety. It has great emotional undercurrent. At the same time, it doesn't hesitate to be lively as in vocal en-beyond the ken of science and must be accepted because they are. Taken alone, although it is vividthat so well conveys what it means to be parents.

Another memorable song is 'Neat/Not neat" which underlines the joy of easy solutions in both science and life and the title song, 'Let There Be Light.

While the audience becomes involved with the team of scientists who travel to Italy to analyze the Shroud of Turin, the famous burial cloth with the image of Jesus, a major part of their attention is devoted to the lonely son of the leader who invents an imaginary friend to keep him company and do all the things with him that his father has promised but never finds time to and mother, deliver outstanding performances.

Other noteworthy performers are William Parry in the role of a priest who is a steadying influence over the most frantic pursuit of the scientific pilgrimage and the resultant family crisis.

Alan Mintz, a mime, who plays Matthew's friend, invisible to all but Matthew and the audience, is memorable for his dancing and pantomimes.

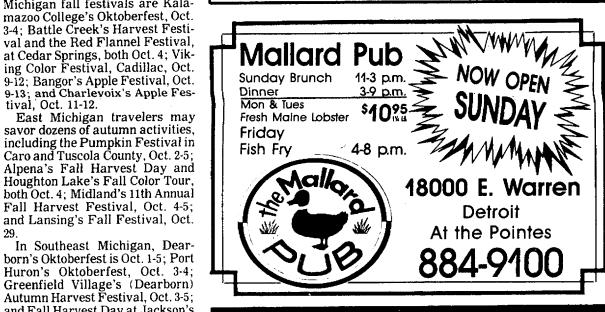

The one actor who stands out and is so charismatic that the audience wants to reach out and hug him, is nine-year-old Danny Gerard, who portrays Matthew.

"Into the Light" is indeed an event. It is also a thoughtprovoking play that manages to be alive with some memorable music and the startling and innovative use of lighting and scenery that floats into place.

Moon Festival Fantasy

will be presented at 3 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 28, at the Macomb Center for the Performing Arts. The program of music and dance gleaned from more than 2,000 years of tradition, ties in with the Chinese celebration of a bountiful harvest and the onset of autumn. It features more than 30 singers, dancers and musicians. Tickets are $8 for adults and $6 for students and senior citizens. Reserve on credit card at the box office, 286-2222. season, with Sunday hours. They will continue to offer the program at a reduced fee in order to attract the high school athlete, Deutsch says. In the first week the clinic was open this year, three injured athletes - one with a fractured elbow, one whose knee required surgery and one with a minor injury - took advantage of the service, she adds.

ning this fall is the CHAMP HOT-LINE. The HOTLINE is available 24 hours per day, seven days a week, at 884-3502. A certified athletic trainer will answer calls Monday through Friday from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., responding to sports injury management and prevention questions. At other times, the message will be recorded and a CHAMP trainer will return the call within 24 hours.

"This type of thing is new to the entire area," Deutsch says. "We're hoping that people will remember to call us with any question they may have regarding athletic injuries, treatment or prevenwins in three games Red Barons open 1986 football season with two opened the season by winning two of three games against the St. Clair Shores Green Hornets. The freshmen fell 39-0, the junior varsity won 24-13 and the varsity edged St. Clair Shores, 26-25.

Despite their loss to a seasoned strength and offensive power to St. Clair Shores frosh team, the dominate the Green Hornets.

The Red Barons football teams young Red Baron freshmen got Noseguard Alex Brinker scored pened the season by winning two good games from quarterback the Red Barons' first touchdown Paul Gentile and running backs Ryan Rouls, Derek Ottevaere and Tim Miller. Center David Pierno also played well.

The JV combined defensive when he recovered a fumble in the end zone after he and Tom Kolojeski sacked the Green Hornet quarterback. Scott Spada kicked a two-point conversion, his first of three in the game. The Hornets' Charlie Taylor put them back in the game with a 55yard scoring run; the point-after attempt failed. Following the kickoff, the Barons drove 65 yards before Drew Woodruff scored on a 12-yard run. The Barons led 16-6.

A strong defense kept the Green Hornets in check through the third period as Britt Stebbins and Ryan McCartney each intercepted passes. Eric Coddens, Jason Jaworski, David Applegate, Mike Haskell and Kolojeski were also strong on defense

In the fourth quarter, the Red Barons mounted another drive which culminated in Spada's run around the end for 11 yards and a touchdown. Good blocking from fullback Mike Miller and linemen Tony DiLaura, Steve Meathe, Chuck Heaphy, Tom Paquin and Tony Morgan was the key to the drive; Spada added the two-point conversion for a comfortable 24-6 lead. The Hornets scored once more on a long run by Taylor in the closing moments of the game.

The Red Barons varsity came out of a hard-fought, see-saw battle with a 26-25 win. Steve Craparotta's scoring run capped a long drive midway through the first quarter. The Green Hornets ran back the ensuing kickoff for a touchdown and in the second quarter the teams traded touchdowns to end the half tied at 13-13.

Led by quarterback Steve Herbst - who threw for over 200 yards and ran for more than 120 - the Barons came back for a touchdown in the third quarter and led, 20-13. The Green Hornets answered with a touchdown drive of their own, but missed the point after attempt. Trailing 20-19, the Hornets stopped a Red Barons drive with an interception and came back to take a 25-20 lead. As the clock ran down, the Barons used the running of Craparotta and Brad Kromar - to score with eight seconds left to take the victory.
