Kennedy to run for sheriff

By Peter A. Salinas Staff Writer

Grosse Pointe City Public Safety Director Bruce Kennedy is considering running for the office of Wayne County sheriff, and has already put together a loosely-knit committee-to-elect.

"We are taking a good hard look at it," Kennedy said Tuesday morning.

He has not yet filed for the job currently held by Robert Ficano. Ficano has held the position since April 12, 1983, when he was appointed by a Wayne County committee to succeed William Lucas, who was elected Wayne County executive in mid-term as sheriff.

Ficano was then elected to the job in November 1984. His current term expires Dec. 31, 1988.

"I haven't got a campaign strategy organized yet, and I'm not sure how much I want to say right now," Kennedy said.

A fund-raiser, however, is currently being organized for Kennedy. Tickets are being and have been sold for the past month for a fund-raiser scheduled for late May.

Kennedy, a former Detroit police inspector, has been director of the City's public safety department for 10 years. He has 35 years of law enforcement experience.

A Park resident, he is married to Eddie. They have four children. One son is currently a police officer in Detroit.

Project to cost $1 million

Farms, county agree to resurface Lakeshore

By Peter A. Salinas

It should take most of the summer, but when it's over there should be a lot less bouncing along Lakeshore in the Farms.

The Farms council voted unanimously to enter into an agreement with Wayne County to resurface and recap curbs along Lakeshore from Warner Road to the north city limits for a total cost estimated at $1,035,000 to be shared between the county and the Farms.

In an agreement with the county, the Farms will pay about $320,000 and the county some $715,000 to resurface the welltraveled boulevard.

A proposed budget submitted to the council at its Monday meeting indicated that of the mills levied in 1987, about one-half of a mill will be attributable to Lakeshore Road construction, according to city Treasurer Carrol Lock.

estimate that one-half mill (50 cents for every $1,000 of assessed valuation) will generate about $150,000 in revenue to the city. Lock said the remaining $170,000 the city will pay for resurfacing the road would come out of existing city surpluses.

City Manager Andrew Bremer Jr. said he believes the agreement with the county is good for the city. He said the resurfacing would help with the flooding of Lakeshore near Provencal and Tonnecour by improving drainage, but that nothing could prevent the flooding of the road during times of storms or high winds. Bremer noted that he felt the county was cooperating with the

"I was very impressed with the cooperative spirit from the county," Bremer said. "It wasn't years ago.'

There was some concern that there would be problems with the construction occurring during the summer and its effect on ingress and egress into the Farms Pier Park.

"Well, we certainly don't want them working in front of Pier Park on July 4," Bremer said. "We will work with them to see that doesn't happen.'

There may be an additional $20,000 cost to the city if a lefthand turn lane is put in at Lakeshore and Moross. Bremer said it could be completed with the current project if the city determines it has enough money to cover the

at all what it was like six or seven lane is needed for safety reasons, and that it would cost about $20,000 for road surfacing and signaling at the intersection.

Thursday, April 9, 1987

There was no determination if that would be done this summer.

Both outside and interior curbs will be recapped as part of the project. Bremer said that tearing up and replacing the existing curbs is costly and would have made the project's cost prohibitive. He noted that the curbs are treated in a similar manner throughout the Mayor Joseph Fromm said that the city administration should be commended for its efforts. Bremer noted that Farms resident Kess McCracken was helpful in securing an agreement by Bremer told the council the working with the city and county.

Upon entering the house at the request of the youth, the officers discovered numerous minors consuming alcohol. Police confiscated more than 200 beer and wine cooler containers which they are holding as evidence.

According to Rumora, this is the first case where parents will be formally charged under the Farms party ordinance passed in November 1985.

Pinpointing ventilation problems is complicated, officials say

By Nancy Parmenter

Problems with the ventilation system at North High School are as old as the building, but for asyet-unexplained reasons, they seem to have become more serious in recent months. Some teachers charge the building is

"Just for the sake of argument, let's say the building is sick," said David King, director of support services, last week. "Compare a sick building to a sick person. The doctor doesn't do surgery right away — he does tests first. Surgery is a last resort. There are some people who want us to do surgery on the building.'

The ventilation problem was dramatized two weeks ago when 102 students flooded the school clinic on a day when maintenance staff was replacing a motor on an exhaust fan. But school nurse Lorna Vroom said this week that the number was not unusually high, by this year's standards.

'We had more in here the day before," she said. The clinic is routinely treating 90 to 120 students a day, up from only 60 a

It took almost an hour to reach Vroom by telephone Monday morning, because the clinic was full of students again. "It's a zoo in here this morning," Vroom said. "I don't know if it's the weather or the school."

She said she had seen more than 30 students in an hour and a half. On a normal day, the clinic is nearly empty until 10 a.m.

On March 25, the day the fan repair work was done, the fan in the office and library area was turned off all day, according to King. He said the fan in the classroom area was off for one hour, from 2 to 3 p.m.

According to Vroom's data, there were more students in the clinic that day in the afternoon than in the morning, with the biggest crush at the noon hour. The clinic treated about 30 headaches by 11 a.m. and 40 more between 11 a.m. and 2:30 p.m.

Everyone agrees that the ventilation has always been inadequate and that some periods have been worse than others. Janice McCloud, an English teacher at North for 19 years, said that teachers have complained about noise and stuffiness for years.

"It's been especially bad the last few years," she said. "They've replaced the motor in my room alone several times to try to get (the noise) to a reasonable level.'

But the complaints have not been directed to the same place all the time. "It depends who you can get ahold of at a particular time," McCloud said. "Some people just complain to each other."

North Principal and Assistant Principal John Kastran and Thomas Teetaert say they have heard complaints and have discussed the problem at building meetings. "I hear complaints from similar people in similar rooms,' Teetaert said. "I don't know if it's the individuals or the rooms." The district is trying to find out. In December 1985, it hired Aerodynamics Inspecting, Inc., to study the air balance in the school. It was on the basis of that study that the fan motor was replaced two weeks ago.

In February, on the basis of a complaint from athletic director Thomas Gauerke, an additional the office area. Administrators are still waiting for the results of that study.

"It was probably fumes from the copier," King said. He explained that new privacy partitions in the offices near the copier room may have reduced air cir-

There are actually three problems, King said: insufficient air circulation, noise and extreme temperature fluctuations. Each problem exists in a different area of the building and each has been dealt with - with varying degrees of success.

Ventilator motors have been replaced. The fan motor was replaced. An expert in heating and ventilation has been added to the staff. This summer, the system will be "balanced," pursuant to the Aerodynamics study recommendation.

"It's probably not possible to get it perfect to everybody's satisfaction," King said. "Seventy degrees is too warm for some people, too cool for others.'

King isn't happy at charges that the schools are using a 'Band-aid" approach to fixing the system. A grievance settlement last year suggested, for example, that the plastics covers on the thermostats should be removed for better air circulation.

"To me, taking off the vandalism covers would be a Band-aid,' he said. "We think the problem was that the wall and interior ventilator thermostats weren't in sync any more. We recalibrated them in March."

As a result of the same grievance, the fans began to operate an hour and a half longer every day.

King concedes that some mistakes have been made. No one noticed that the building humidifistudy was ordered - this one of ers had been turned off, in spite of complaints about the dry air. Attempts by North maintenance staff to deal with the temperature fluctuations were only partly successful. Maintenance staff failed to notice that a central fan located on the roof above a classroom was broken until the teacher working below it complained repeatedly.

During the last two weeks, circulation has improved, King said. "We're pulling a lot more air through now. It sucks paper up to

Schools, community brainstorm

By Nancy Parmenter

A community brainstorming session held last week on goals for the next school year provided a long list for consideration by the board. Top among them were values, addressing the needs of highand low-ability students, revamping the curriculum to include global education, and looking at issues of school finance.

While the schools have always established goals for the coming year, the community approach was new with Superintendent John Whritner when he came to the district two years ago. This year, approximately 100 people from community groups and school attended the March 31 meeting at South High School.

All but one of the small brainstorming groups listed emphasis on values as an important goal, a change from last year.

'The whole issue of values has come to the fore nationally over the last year," Whritner said later. "It's on people's minds."

Nationally, the question has been framed by a debate between factions which promote or oppose the teaching of values in school. This division was not apparent at the brainstorming meeting, where most groups treated it as a foregone conclusion.

'We suggest a heavy emphasis on values, ethics and morals." said one group spokesman. When another group proposed consideration of whether and how much the schools should act as parent, an audience member was heard to say, "They already are."

Whritner wouldn't speculate as to whether the schools are likely to implement a values-oriented curriculum. Programs from several districts that have a values curriculum are being looked at by administrators.

"There is concern over behavior," Whritner said. "There's a question of the school's response to it. I think values can be modeled, but whether they can be taught is a difficult concept to get a handle on. Schools traditionally do a good job with factual issues, but with moral and ethical questions, what position do you take?" Before the meeting split into

Petitions filed

Seven people have filed petitions for two school board seats, according to the school personnel office.

Alfred Fox of Grosse Pointe Woods, George Hawkins of Grosse Pointe Park, Joel Hickey of the Park, Vincent LoCicero of the Park, Margaret Monaghan of the Farms, Jane Nutter of the Park and Marie Wayman of the City filed petitions by the deadline at 4 p.m. Monday.

The seats are currently occupied by LoCicero and board Treasurer Dorothy Kennel, who announced in March that she would not run for re-elec-a world of change where it's estimated that they'll change jobs eight times in a lifetime. We need to throw out the traditions that hold us back and keep the ones that are positive forces.

He also said the district must take a look at the students at both ends of the achievement spectrum, "the losers on the Grosse Pointe scene " whose needs are not being addressed.

School finance is already being addressed by the board, which two months ago joined the statewide association of school districts that are outside the state per-pupil fitime of shrinkage (in enrollment), nancial aid formula. But Whritner suggested that looking at methods of paying for school operation may be a suitable goal for the district.

> "There is statewide concern over possible property tax reform (that could lead to) bringing the top down in order to bring the bottom up. I urge you to be vigilant' in this area, or our only goal will be survival.'

Estleman on detective writing

Estleman: You gotta be able to laugh

By Nancy Parmenter Staff Writer

Looking like a truck driver in an unaccustomed Sunday suit and articulating like an English professor, detective writer Loren Estleman came to Grosse Pointe last week to talk about the development of the detective novel.

Along the way, colorful phrases littered the speech, hinting at Estleman's shoot-from-the-lip hero, Amos Walker. Walker is a "twofisted, macho kind of guy with a curled lip and a bottle in the drawer - he says right away what you and I think of in the elevator on the way down," Estleman says. "He can do that because I sit all day at the typewriter thinking it up."

Don't believe that for a minute. He comes up with that kind of stuff without half trying.

The author of 23 books — the most recent, "Lady Yesterday," is coming out this month - Estleman pounds his 1923 Underwood practically nonstop, churning out westerns, detective stories and currently a long critical essay on the development of the western yet. novel, beginning with Owen Wister's "The Virginian."

Just last month, he won the Arts Foundation of Michigan Prize for Literature for 1987. He has been honored once for his western writing and twice for pri-

Not bad for a guy who isn't 40

"This Old Bill' (the story of Wild Bill Hickok and the Pulitzer nominee) is my best book yet," Estleman said. "It's also the only one that's still in the red.'

It's hard to tell which Estleman likes better — westerns or police into a discussion of the other.

What makes Detroit such a fertile ground for mystery writers, one man wanted to know.

"Detroit is tailor-made for this kind of story," Estleman said. "It has a violent history — coureurs de bois, the Purple Gang, Pinkertons, the Battle of the Overpass. World War II was won by Henry Ford at Willow Run. Race riots in part of its character.

"It's a hardboiled city, a city of working men, gritty, blue-collared...I love Detroit, I hate Detroit. What I like about Detroit is everything that Coleman Young does not - the warehouse district, the alleys, the Albert Kahn buildings. Detroit has character. Las Vegas doesn't have character. Turn off the lights and you've got nothing.'

Estleman even describes his style of novel in Detroit terms: freeway structure. (The detective enters an on-going case at an angle and spends the book speeding to try to catch up with events.)

The American detective story has changed from the detached British whodunit. Today's world no longer believes that society is orderly. The new, more violent and less trusting world needs a new kind of detective: tough, hardboiled, smart-mouthed and blessed with a sense of humor.

"They have to have a sense of humor - that's what keeps me from going crazy," Estleman said. He says it's also why women like tough-guy Amos Walker.

Poor Amos goes through "ritual cleansings" - beatings, druggings, jailings - with a wry smile on his face.

Basically, it's because he, like Estleman, likes what he's doing.

Raising 55 mph limit may cost state more lives

y the time this editorial is in print, it is possible that the legal speed on rural freeways in Michigan will have been raised to 65 mph. The Legislature seems determined to take advantage of the new federal law permitting states to set the higher limit on outstate freeways. But we still question the rationale of those who are so eager to make the change.

Anyone who drives on the Michigan freeway system, for example, knows that the average speed is often 65 mph or faster. Even in the metropolitan Detroit area, which won't be affected by the new regulations, anyone driving 60 mph off the peak traffic periods finds himself being passed by motorists doing up to 75 mph.

So with the present 55-mile-limit being widely disobeyed in Michigan and other states, what is the necessity for raising the limit to 65 or higher? The only reason we can think of is that the proponents of this legislation simply want to drive faster than 65 or 70 and think they can ease their own consciences if they are staying closer to the limit.

Some people who favor the increase complain that those driving 55 mph get in the way of those who are really in a hurry and driving 65 or better. Well, too bad. The next thing such speeders will be blaming the legal-speed drivers for their accidents.

We suspect that the trucking industry and those industries allied with it were responsible for the heavy pressure for the new legislation in Washington and the proposals under consideration in Lansing. Cross-country trips no doubt would take even less time than they do now for the long-distance lines, although how much time they would save is questionable in view of the fact that so many trucks now are breaking the current limit by 10 miles an hour or more.

So we go along with Secretary of State Richard H. Austin and State Police Director Gerald Hough who favor retaining the present 55-mph-limit. We agree with Hough that if the limit is raised to 65 on rural freeways, the speed will increase above that "with probably about 85 percent of the traffic going 70 or better." And many, if not most, such drivers will continue at the higher speeds even after they reach urban areas where the limit will remain 55.

But State Transportation Director James Pitz buys the argument that the spread in driving speeds can be more damaging than speed itself. Yet with the maniacs loose who will always exceed the limit, whatever it is, won't there always be a spread in driving

Secretary Austin has asked legislators to retain the 55 mph limit for heavy trucks, to increase state police appropriations in order to hire more patrol officers, to increase penalty points for drivers exceeding posted limits and to ban radar detectors. At the time of writing this editorial, these limitations did not appear to be attracting much support among legislators in Lansing but in our opinion they would help cut speeds, accidents and deaths on Michigan highways.

Bottle-busters are back ow that the snow has finally gone, as we assume that it has, we note that the bottle-busters are back.

We are referring to those people who toss pop and beer bottles onto the sidewalks of the Pointes, apparently in the hope that they will break and strew the immediate vicinity with shattered glass, as they so often

We really do not know the motivation of the bottle-busters, but it strikes us as a foolish and thoughtless act. It's childish, too, although that description normally would better fit the pop-bottle tossers than the beerbottle busters. Those who empty the beer bottles and break them on the sidewalks presumably are old enough to know better.

Whatever the purpose, the action endangers walkers, joggers and especially children who soon will be running barefoot on and off the sidewalks and risking severe cuts from the jagged remnants of the tossed bottles. But some danger is also involved when adults try to pick up the glass shards that hide in the cracks of the sidewalk or in the

It's bad enough for the bottle-busters to toss their containers into the street, but it's even worse to break them on the sidewalk. The practice, unfortunately, is one of the few unpleasant aspects of spring in the Pointes.

Is 'Home on the Range' out?

's the Reagan revolution over? Time magazine, Washington newspaper columnists and assorted other media representatives already are writing obituaries of the Reagan administration even though it will not bow out of the White House until Jan. 20, 1989.

The obituaries may be premature, however. The president did lose his fight to sustain his veto of the highway bill last week, but some of his supporters thinkit will be more difficult for Republicans to oppose him on less important issues in the future. So the president still may have some clout left.

If it is too early to write the complete history of the Reagan revolution, it is not premature to review some of the administration's accomplishments in its more than six years in office.

Time magazine and other observers have credited the Reagan administration with presiding over one of the longest periods of economic recovery in U.S. history, helping to initiate tax reform, improving the state of the nation's defenses and in general strengthening America's posture in the

In part because of these accomplishments, the nation did appear to join the president in singing a national version of "Home on the Range" where "seldom is heard a discouraging word and the skies are not cloudy all day." Yet there were national concerns that were swept under the rug in the 1980s and there now are indications that the American people want some of those problems addressed.

In a poll accompanying its story on the change in the U.S. political weather, Time reported that 78 percent of the poll's respondents favored increased health programs for the elderly, 73 percent backed more government spending to protect the environment, 71 percent wanted more aid for the homeless and the same 71 percent advocated more health services for the poor.

In short, a high percentage of the respondents indicated that the government should play a more important role in such areas as health, housing, education and help for the poor than it did during the Reagan years. What does this mean for the future?

It apparently means that the pendulum is swinging away from the social conservatism of the Reagan administration. The question is whether the American people are also willing to pay for the additional social services they appear to want. The Time poll seemed to indicate that they are. Sixty-nine percent of those questioned by Time - including 55 percent of the Republicans — said they would support increased spending for social programs even if it meant paying higher taxes. So as the Reagan administration serves out its final months, it appears likely that the Democrats who now control Congress will have more success in achieving modest increases in funding of federal social programs than they have had in the recent past. It also appears likely that the next president will be somewhat less conservative with respect to spending on social programs than President Reagan has been.

But even the Democrats' plan for "a new agenda for social programs" is being held hostage by the federal deficit which tripled under Reagan. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., says "America does not have to spend more to do more." And so Democrats are considering ways to shift more of the burden of achieving social welfare objectives onto the private sector.

That indicates, however, that at least one Reagan legacy seems likely to remain in place. That is the new resistance Reagan brought to Washington to the massive use of federal dollars to solve the nation's domestic problems at a time the federal government is still running a huge deficit.

Assign patrol car to back gate on school days

To the Editor:

I'm writing to complain about a Grosse Pointe Woods policeman. He parks his car right at the back gate of Grosse Pointe North High School. He doesn't do this every day, but when he is there, he's more concerned about yelling at parents who are letting their kids out of the car to go inside the school building, than he is in watching the kids who could possibly be dealing drugs behind the trees and bushes.

The parents are only there for a brief period of time, but some of those students are at the back gate constantly throughout the day. An officer should patrol the area throughout the day so the kids aren't loitering or bothering the residents. If there were a patrol car assigned to the back gate before and after school, there would be a great reduction in smoking, loitering and drug deal ings around the school.

Making the system more efficient

To the Editor:

Referring to the article written about Grosse Pointe Park public safety in the March 19 issue, it surprises me that the idea of training firefighters to be policemen and vice versa hasn't been thought of much earlier. Although the training process may be difficult or timeconsuming, the results down the road are well-worth the effort.

When no fires are taking place, the would-be firemen now can aid policemen in crime fighting and/or public safety. There would not only be more men doing the job, but no new personnel would have to be hired, because none would be needed, thereby making the whole system more efficient.

If only all the Grosse Pointes had this system, our whole community would run like clockwork. I, living in Grosse Pointe Woods, can only hope that my city will join Grosse Pointe Park's bandwagon and do something for the good of the community: Train the policemen and firefighters to be able to aid each other in their jobs.

> John Deacon Grosse Pointe Woods

Editor's note: Grosse Pointe Woods has had a public safety department since the mid-

President not isolated

To the Editor:

No wonder the editorial on page 6A of the March 12 Grosse Pointe News ("It's about time for downsizing the presidency") is unsigned. The author must be very embarrassed about his statement that Congress "comprises 50 senators"

The idea is interesting, but the president does have the cabinet and department chairmen with all the civil service support, so he isn't so isolated unless he chooses to be. Maybe the Tower Commission is correct. The problem is not with the system, but with the people who did not use the system, but sought to do their own thing and, knowing it to be improper, therefore had to keep it all secret. Betty Sulfridge Grosse Pointe Woods

What is truth?

To the Editor:

"What I have written, I have written" — Pontius Pilate. What C.S. Lewis has written, he has written.

The March 12 Grosse Pointe News church section had an article about C.S. Lewis, with the caption . . . "series on noted Christian author." What do you think of when you think of family vacations?

My family visited nearly every major tourist attraction in the West back when my age was in single digits. We went to Grand Canyon, Yellowstone, Rocky Mountain National Park, Glacier National Park, Mesa Verde, Pike's Peak, the Petrified Forest and a hundred other national monuments and parks.

We traveled by car, Mom, Dad and a backseat full of squirming kids. My parents resorted to unusual measures to keep us quiet on those long drives between attractions. They gave us comic books. That was the only time we were allowed to read Superman, the Green Lantern and any of the other superhero-monster comics. It was a rare treat and as a 7-yearold I may have looked forward to vacations as much to catch up on Marvel Comics as to see the grandeur of the Rocky Mountains.

I remember my younger brother, when he was about 5, running out of the restroom at a filling station carrying a handful of paper toilet seat covers.

'Look!,' he exclaimed.
'They're free! I got one for each of

I remember the year I was 16. I had just received my driver's license and was sharing the adult responsibility of driving - with a lot of supervision from my father.

"Turn here," he commanded.

"Here?" "No."

"Where?"

"I can't tell you yet."

I remember our impatience with the seemingly endless drives. "Are we there yet?" "Are we close?" "Is that Old Faithful?"

I'm remembering all this because I just got back from a vacation. I spent a week at Smoky Mountain National Park in Tennessee and North Carolina and in many ways, this vacation was more like those childhood vacations than any I have taken since I became an adult. (I'm not sure exactly when it happened, but I'm fairly certain that I am one.)

I stayed in Pigeon Forge, Tenn., about six miles north of the entrance to the park and undoubtSay edly the purest example of American kitsch on the continent.

When I say that Pigeon Forge reminded me of my childhood, that's not to say that my childhood vacation experiences were trivial. Not at all. Between the comic books and the backseat sibling rivalry, we squeezed in a lot of truly broadening experiences. I got a feel for the diversity of my homeland and learned a lot about native Americans, natural history and American history. There was a lot to see, but it was interspersed with those institutions of the American entrepreneurial spirit — tourist traps.

Some of those places turned out to be surprisingly nice. To this day I remember fondly a visit to a private attraction called the Reptile Gardens (I believe it was somewhere in Colorado) which featured a nice, if small, zoo, and a trained animal show.

But there is a certain ambiance to those tourist attractions that can only be described as kitsch. The fake Western-town fronts on modern buildings, the billboards along the interstate, the cement statue of a grizzly bear, the plastic tomahawks with day-glo orange feathers attached and all that merchandise that has the name of an American place written across it, with a smaller sticker that says "Made in Taiwan."

I went to the Smoky Mountains this year to hike and to appreciate spring. The weather was beautiful and the park was everything I in Gatlinburg, Cherokee and Pigeon Forge, I kept getting this feeling that I had slipped back to 1957 and was on vacation with my family.

Gatlinburg is the home of the Elvis Hall of Fame (A hall of fame with only one person in it?), the World of the Unexplained Museum (I have this awful feeling they are going to try to explain it to you), Xanadu, the foam house of the future (a small urethane igloo that looks as if it has seen better days), Hillbilly Golf (I never found out what this was, but I'm not sure I want to know) and Old Heidelberg Restaurant (Possibly the most bizarre attraction of all. A promotional videotape I saw showed a man in lederhosen bouncing on a trampoline to the music of a live oompah band, in the middle of the dining room.).

Cherokee, N.C., is the center of the Qualla Indian reservation, the home of the eastern band of the Cherokee (the western band was relocated to Oklahoma in the 19th century via the "Trail of Tears.") Situated at the main southern gateway of the park, it more or less takes up where Gatlinburg leaves off.

I sat in the Burger King in imagined. But outside the park, Cherokee one day, eating my lunch, watching the souvenir stand across the road. They had a man in a fake Indian suit (full headdress with bright orange feathers that went all the way down his back) standing next to a fake teepee (the Cherokee never lived in teepees). For a small fee, you could have your picture taken with "The Chief." The great irony is, the man was obviously a genuine Cherokee Indian. How strange it must seem for a real Indian to have to dress up like a comic book Indian to attract tourists to his shop.

I'm a great believer in vacationing in the off-season, when the crowds are thin and you can see what you came to see without bumping elbows with hundreds of other people. The Elvis Hall of Fame, not to mention Dollywood (a theme park that claims to be a "living museum" to countrywestern singer Dolly Parton) were closed for the season.

People were few and far between in the park, but of course, that was the way I wanted it. I just kept hearing faint echos of the carloads of children and parents that have come through in past summers and will come again this year.

A happy ending

Paula Walilko was planning on moving anyway, but when her car was broken into in the Park a couple of months ago, she decided to move sooner.

So move she did, minus a few treasures she had left in her car the night it was robbed.

As you may remember last week, Grosse Pointe News ad rep Ben Giuffre found an old family album in front of his Nottingham Road residence, and turned it over to the newsroom to see if we could find the owner.

...It took about a week, but Paula heard about the item in this column and stopped into the office. She had purchased the age-old album at an estate sale, and it was one of just several items taken in the theft.

It was six weeks ago when Carol Fischer from our classified advertising department entered St. John Hospital for surgery on her jaw. The surgery was a suc-

This made things tough. She couldn't very well answer the phone or take customers' ads when they came in the office, but in a couple of weeks she was talking through her teeth like a Grande Dame and handling nonverbal chores.

Everyone in the office has offered to take Carol out to dinner or invited her over for a homecooked feast when the wires came Carol was driving home with her sister in the car. She said she spotted a Cookie Factory about six blocks away, and made a beeline for the calorie shop.

"I left the flashers going and made my sister run in and get a dozen cookies," Carol said. "My joints were a little sore and the gums hurt a little, but it was worth it."

The New York Times reported that the administration, in a step to curb the spread of atomic weapons, was considering a proposal under which the nuclear powers would provide to non-nuclear nations a guarantee of protection against atomic attack. According to Times' special writer John W. Finney, the U.S. believed that one of the keys to curbing the spread of atomic arms rested in an international security system whereby non-nuclear powers would not feel compelled to develop their own atomic bombs. Communist China had exploded a nuclear device the previous October.

rest of the world? Will Russia be so generous?

I think Michigan could combine the need of the country to remain strong in basic industries with the tradition felt by the people of Michigan and commit to being a manufacturing force in the 21st

It would take a willpower, a desire, a commitment not seen now. It would take the people of Michigan deciding that is what they want for their state.

This is the kind of looking to the future we need to engage in this year. It is not part of the fun of a 150th year celebration. It's our future!

I have advocated to the governor the calling of a major statewide conference this year on the Future of Michigan followed next vear by detailed workgroups. I'm not encouraged at the prospects. The governor seems less interested in such things since his landslide re-election.

first things Christians had to believe was one particular theory as to what the point of this dying was. According to that theory God wanted to punish men for having deserted and joined the Great Rebel, but Christ volunteered to be punished instead, and so God let us off. Now I admit that this theory does not seem quite so immoral and so silly as it used to; but that is not the point I want to make. What I came to see later on

On Page 59, Lewis asked but did not answer the question: "If God was prepared to let us off, why on earth did He not do so? And what possible point could there be in punishing an innocent person instead?

Lewis admitted that it made more sense to talk of Jesus paying our debt rather than suffering our punishment. This shows that he was, like many Anglicans, more inclined to a theory of expiation rather than the Biblical doctrine of propitiation. He was somewhat inclined to the idea that Christ paid the price, but could not accept the idea that Christ had appeased the Father's wrath.

So, Lewis failed to understand the crucifixion at all. By labeling the central doctrine of the Bible a "silly and immoral theory," Lewis became an opponent of Christianity. He was working contary to the preaching of the forgiveness of sins for Jesus' sake. Unless Lewis later corrected his errors he must be revealed, in the final analysis, as an enemy of the gospel and therefore of the

The bottom line: Pilate, who sadly asked "What is... truth?" was unknowingly right in what he had written; Lewis, knowingly, was wrong.

Deeply offended

To the Editor:

I was deeply offended to see a matter which I consider sacred to be treated as an April Fool joke as it was in your Pastor's Corner of April 2.

The contributing pastor quoted from a list, "101 Things to do During a Dull Sermon" and said, "If you attend a more staid church, come forward to be born again after the sermon.'

I realize the remark was meant to be humorous, but for an ordained minister to use a public vehicle to belittle this great teaching of Christ is unacceptable.

I suggest the readers of The Pastor's Corner confer with John 3:3.

To the Editor:

In January, I was badly hurt in a fall on Kercheval in the Park. Two men driving by in a blue panelled truck stopped to help and stayed with me until the police and ambulance arrived. I'd like to offer my heartfelt thanks to these kind and courteous gentlemen who identified themselves as employees of the Grosse Pointe school system.

I am also most grateful to the Park policemen and ambulance personnel who arrived with their customary promptness and rushed me to the hospital.

Screening

Grosse Pointe Woods and Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan offered a free blood pressure screening for the city's 84 full-time and 30 part-time employees March 26. Helen Rogan, a registered nurse with the Wayne County Health Department, takes information from Woods DPW foreman Joe Ahee. The purpose of the screening is to help Woods employees stay healthy and to control health care costs for the city. The program was voluntary and many of the city's employees opted to participate.

Red Cross salutes Ford

John B. Ford's involvement with the American Red Cross is just one of his many fund-raising commitments. But the Farms resident also has a special personal tie with Red Cross.

In 1972, Ford's first wife had a mastectomy. The surgeons felt they had removed all the cancer, but in 1978, the cancer returned, reaching her lungs and lymph glands.

John B. Ford III

After surgery, the Fords went to Florida for her recuperation. As her condition worsened in 1979, she was hospitalized once again. She needed fresh platelets daily, and the supply had to come from the Red Cross in Palm

It was this experience that alerted Ford to the needs of the blood program.

Florence Muir, a member of the Southeastern Michigan Chapter board of directors, contacted him to ask his help in raising funds to build a new chapter headquarters for Red Cross in Detroit. He didn't hesitate. From working on the new building, his involvement with the chapter grew. He became a member of the board of directors and also first chairman of the Financial Development program. He also shared his interest in reaching younger persons to stress the need for training and water safety and CPR. The American Red Cross needs more volunteers like John Ford who are willing to make a commitment to service. For more information on becoming a volunteer, call 494-2860.

The total number of officers who quit from all of the Pointes was 21 with more predicted to resign, according to the article. Every officer who quit cited insufficient pay, inadequate pension and poor working conditions as his reason for quitting.

Children's Home adds new service

The Children's Home of Detroit has added a new experimental program - Preparation for Independent Living.

The program is for adolescent girls who are ready to leave the residential treatment program, but have no family resources.

The program prepares the youngsters for community living by providing living accommodations in an apartment located on the campus. Under staff supervision they assume responsibility for buying and preparing food, and for clothing and general household duties in the apartment. The girls continue their educational pursuits and may also hold part-time jobs.

A therapist of the home's Community Services meets regularly with them and coordinates the program. Due to current space limitations, only a few youngsters are enrolled in the program. Expansion will be considered if the on-campus experiment proves to be effective.

Children's Home of Detroit provides residential treatment services and short-time respite services at the Cook Road campus located in Grosse Pointe Woods, as well as a foster home program in surrounding communities.

Volunteers needed for allergy study

The Allergy and Clinical Pharmacology/Toxicology Divisions of the Department of Pediatrics at Wayne State University and Children's Hospital of Michigan are seeking volunteers to participate in a study of the effects of exposure to formaldehyde.

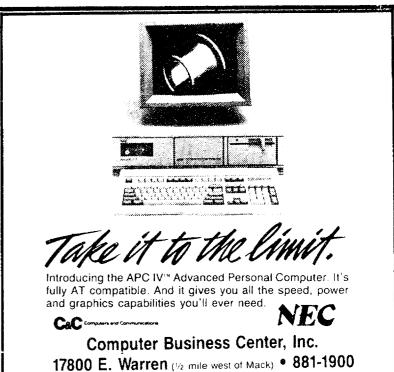

The study, sponsored by the Michigan Department of Public Health, is being conducted in response to numerous reported claims of adverse effects in individuals living in homes insulated with urea formaldehyde foam insulation (UFFI). It will determine if skin testing can be used as a means to identify people who may be sensitized to either UFFI or formaldehyde.

Individuals between the ages of 12 and 45, both who have and have not been exposed to UFFI in their home environment, are needed. Each participant will receive a free allergy examination that includes a history and physical exam, and a lung function, blood and skin test valued at $150. A physician will discuss the test results with each patient and make recommendations.

Interested persons should call the Children's Hospital's Pharmacology Department at 745-5873 for more information.

Contest to redesign the state flag

To encourage young artists and in conjunction with the Michigan Sesquicentennial, state Sen. John Kelly is sponsoring an art contest in the 1st District.

Redesigning the Michigan state flag will be the theme of the contest and anyone (young or old) is encouraged to enter. The new design should express Michigan's human and natural resources and the hope in the future of these programs. Special emphasis will be placed on schoolage entries.

The design should be prepared on a 81/2x11 sheet of paper and any medium is acceptable. Only six colors may be used - red or crimson — deep blue — medium dark blue - medium yellow or gold - black and white. All entries must also include a short explanation of what the design stands for. Contest deadline is Friday, May 8, and entries should be mailed to Sen. John Kelly, 15206 Mack, Detroit, Mich. 48224. A local panel of judges will select the winners during the week of May 12 at Eastland Center. The artwork will be on display in the mall during the week of May 19.

For further information, call Kelly's office at 881-2822.

Volunteers sought by Alzheimer's group

Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association (ADRDA) - Detroit Area Chapter has developed an in-home respite program for families who have a member afflicted with Alzheimer's or another irreversible dementia. This program is servicing Wayne, Oakland and St. Clair Counties.

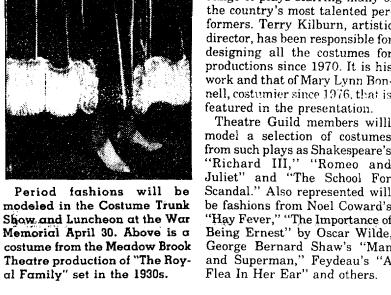

Families are allowed a designated number of service hours each week. Services are available between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and on Tuesday and Thursday from 9 a.m. until 10 p.m.

Volunteers donate their time for this service. They are provided extensive training by highly skilled professional people. Volunteers are also reimbursed for mileage during the training.

Working with a person with Alzheimer's can be a positive and rewarding experience. A volunteer is expected to (1) be a companion to the afflicted person, (2) provide simple recreational activities such as reading and listening to music; and (3) provide several hours of relief time each month for family caregivers.

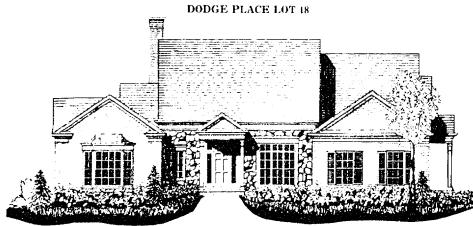

If you are interested in becoming a volunteer, call 557-8278. A training session is in the process of being scheduled.

purchasing, involving hundreds of millions of dollars annually. There are 14,000 vendors who are approved to do business with Edison. "Every year we place over 50,000 orders for everything from paper clips to equipment costing millions of dollars," she said.

This is the person who began her career at Edison as a file clerk. Fresh out of high school, looking for a summer job before she went to college, Kay applied for a position as a secretary. Instead she was placed in personnel where she filed payroll checks all day. She later learned she had flunked the typing test.

She entered the University of Detroit and earned a bachelor of science degree in industrial management.

Of the period when women were rarely seen in business classes, she says, "My father was a lawyer and my mother worked in a law office. It was just natural to go into business.

While she was at U of D, she worked for Edison part time. "It was wartime and they were desperate for help."

Kay continued to work in the personnel department, which she said was the one area that offered the most opportunities for women at the time. She then earned a master's degree in personnel psychology at Wayne State University while working full time. And 11 years after that, she graduated from the University of Michigan with an MBA.

It was during this period that she began her involvement with civic groups and professional and academic organizations. "I found this was excellent management training ground," she said. "You can practice all of these skills in an organization and it's literally a chance to practice the theory before there's a chance to do it on the job. That's why I encourage young women to join various organizations. It's very good train-

"The same thing applies in teaching," she adds. 'There's no better way to learn than to teach something.'

Kay's office on the 24th floor of Edison Plaza, the company's headquarters, has a large window that offers a panorama of downtown Detroit. Besides her desk and other office furniture, there's a round conference table with upholstered chairs. A separate sitting area is in another part of the office. And there's still plenty of

There are dozens of plaques on the wall. She has awards from the Boy Scouts of America, the Boys and Girls Club of Metropolitan Detroit, United Foundation and the Professional Panhellenic Association. In 1970, Kay was named one of the top 10 working women of Detroit.

From the University of Detroit. she has received the Alumni Tower Award and the Alumnus of the Year award. Wayne State presented her with an alumni achievementaward and the Women of

Wayne State gave her a Headliner award.

Also on her wall is a blue and white needlepoint that Kay, who insists she has trouble threading a needle, did. There are four panels in the piece that is titled, The Evolution of Authority. The first panel is a paw print, the second a human footprint, the third is an imprint of a man's shoe and the last panel is the print of a woman's shoe.

It's a neat commentary from this small woman who laughs easily and often and says that the opportunities early in her career were "very, very limited. I made progress but it was definitely slow until the early '60s, and that change came about not only because of legislation and the civil rights act, but also the realization that you couldn't exclude the qualifications and abilities of 51 percent of the population."

She said she was a prime candidate for management because she had been around for awhile. "From that time on, I moved from one responsibility to another. Timing was in my favor and luck. but it did mean education and experience." And she adds, she had the support of associates "who saw their daughters' or wives' or sisters' endeavors to move ahead or even enter the labor force.' Now there's a new breed of men in management, Kay says, who are accustomed to working with women. "It's a whole different world. It's been heartening to see this difference that's taken place through the years.'

More heartening, she adds, are the women who have proved they can handle the job. "The best way to change attitudes is the individual woman who is competent. You can write all the articles you want, and it's not nearly as key as that individual woman you can point to and say, yes, she's highly competent."

Kay said many of her friends and colleagues have been "Eves," women who have paved the way for other women. "If I can, by being the token woman, be instrumental in changing attitudes, that's fine," she says.

The changing management style has been in favor of women, Kay says. "It used to be that the authoritarian approach was successful and we have found that doesn't get the best results. Participation, bringing others into decisions about things that affect them are much more effective. In that role, women sometimes have had more background because they're used to being facilitators and that has contributed to their success.'

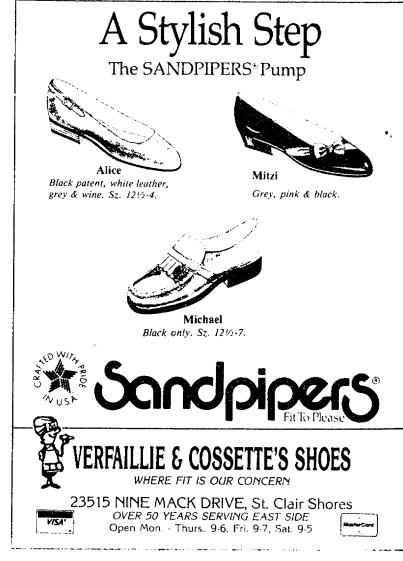

Kay is a lifelong Grosse Pointe resident. She attended St. Ambrose School for 12 years. Of her many associations, she says she is and I feel it makes a great contribution to the Pointes.

Kay also serves on the board of the Sisters of Bon Secours of Michigan and says the area of hospital administration is rewarding. Another area she singled out friends." as fascinating is her membership on the board of directors of the First of America Bank-Detroit.

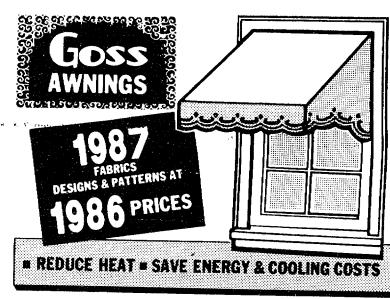

She's also been involved with the Michigan Women's Hall of Fame which will open this June in Lansing.

With all of her activities, it's no wonder that Kay says she doesn't care to travel, that just being at home is a treat. "I love to play golf and I thoroughly enjoy just having visits and dinner with

Kay also bowls at the country club, something she hasn't done for 30 years. "I'm so bad," she says. "I started out good. I've had the most movement in my average. That takes real skill," she

Navy Band concert

The United States Navy Band will perform in concert Monday, April 13, at 7 p.m. at the Hamtramck Community Center. Former Woods resident Guy W. Leslie will appear with the band. Leslie, a percussionist, has been in the band 15 years. He is the son of Marion and Bill Leslie of the Woods. Comprised of 169 enlisted musicians and three officers, the band includes a variety of specialty groups and is based at the historic Washington Navy Yard. Performing all styles of music, from ceremonial ruffles and flourishes to classical, jazz, pop and country favorites, the Navy Band continues the tradition set since its official designation in 1925.

Moving the mail

The Grosse Pointe branch of the U.S. Postal Service serves Grosse Pointe Shores, Grosse Pointe Woods, Grosse Pointe Farms and Harper Woods. Six supervisors, 18 file clerks and 119 mail carriers work out of the building on Mack Avenue between Kerby Road and Calvin, providing a full range of postal services for 22,000 customers. The Grosse Pointe branch sells stamps and has post office boxes, parcel post, express mail, passport service, and it handles all classes, registered and certified mail.

Work begins at 5 a.m. on days the office is open. Customer hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesdays; and 8:30 a.m. to noon Saturdays. For Post Office box customers, hours are 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays; 7:30 a.m to 8 p.m. Wednesdays; and 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays.

The Pierce school team has designed buttons with white doves on a blue background that say 'You can't fly if you're high.' The team members went to homerooms, gave short talks, and passed out buttons.

In addition, according to Maclean, the Pierce team students saw a film about decision-making and peer pressure. "We're trying to educate the kids of the team and they, in turn, educate their peers," she said.

The Brownell school team is just getting organized, according to chairwoman Dee Smrecsanyi. Our goal is to identify and respond to Brownell Middle School community concerns relating to substance abuse. We want to edu-

Wayne State University enrollment up

The official enrollment report for Wayne State University's winter semester shows an increase of 730 students, for a total of 27,581 registered in credit classes. The increase of 2.7 percent over the 1986 winter semester continues an upward trend begun with the fall semester, after years of declining enrollment.

Some of the biggest enrollment increases came in health and physical education, where enrollments were 48 percent above the excate parents and students."

The Brownell team consists of the principal, assistant principal, social worker, some parents and a counselor. They meet every month. Their main accomplishment so far, according to Smrecsanyi, was to begin publishing tips for parents in a section of the school's newsletter, The Brownell Reporter, about substance abuse things for parents to be aware of and to look for.

Sally Giacobbe, chairwoman of the Parcells school team, said that their team consists of two counselors, the assistant principal, a social worker, a handful of parents, and four students - two eighthgraders, one seventh-grader, and one sixth-grader. The team meets every other month to discuss issues relating to substance abuse, teen suicide, drunk driving, alcohol, tobacco and drug use.

Giacobbe said that so far, the school team at Parcells has sponsored a Say No to Drugs essay contest, and an after-school party. They're working on plans for an evening school party in May to which each child may bring a friend - and a poster contest with the theme: "Who Am I?" The object of the posters is to identify the uniqueness of each individual.

'Barefoot in the Park' opens

One of the most successful comedies in American stage history—"Barefoot In The Park"—will open Wednesday, April 15, at the Fries Auditorium of the War Memorial, produced by Grosse Pointe Theatre.

Written by Neil Simon, it concerns a pair of newlyweds who, after six days of marriage, are learning how to bicker as well as to love as they try to organize their lives in an inadequate apartment that is located five flights of stairs above ground level

Pam Montgomery and Gregg Watkins portray the flighty young bride and her earnestly trying-to-cope young groom (Corrie and Paul Bratter). Lois Bendler (Mrs. Banks) is the young bride's mother, a lady of unshatterable propriety which is shattered by her daughter's domestic arrangements. Clarke Scholes plays Victor Velasco, an aging but still-on-the-prowl upstairs neighbor, with an inclination toward exotic food and drink. Pat Bushey (Telephone Man) and Tom Gallagher (Delivery Man) complete the cast.

"Barefoot In The Park," Grosse Pointe Theatre's third production of the year, is directed by Mike Evans and produced by Emma Jean Evans. The show runs through April 25 with performances at 8 p.m. every evening except Sunday, when the performance begins at 7 p.m.

Tickets are available by calling Grosse Pointe Theatre's Ticket Hotline, 881-4004. An additional performance has been added on Tuesday, April 21.

Pam Montgomery of the Park and Gregg Watkins of the Woods are cast as Corrie and Paul Bratter, the newlywed couple in Grosse Pointe Theatre's production, "Barefoot In The Park."

Each week in this column, we will focus on the work of a student. It can be a poem, a drawing, a short story, a picture of a scientific experiment or a woodworking project, a book review.

The following poem was written by fourth-grader Wesley Waterston, a student at Defer Elementary School. He is the son of Donna and Jim Waterston of Grosse Pointe Park.

IT'S SIMPLE: YOU GET WHAT YOU PAY FOR.

Grammatically questionable, but how true! Some of the "Old Boys" might say of an independent school education, as of a yacht, that if you have to ask the price, you can't afford one. Indeed, the median tuition this year for 220 independent boarding schools is at least $10,000, and the tuition for a typical fifth grader in an independent day school approaches $5,000. Whatever the price, independent schools are winning a bigger public than ever. As reported in Money magazine. while public and parochial student enrollments have declined over the past 10 years, private independent schools, that are members of the National Association of Independent Schools (N.A.I.S.), have increased enrollment 15% over the same period. 45% of the students in independent schools are the first in their families to attend a private school and 57% of all students in independent schools have previously attended public schools. Today's independent school child is not necessarily a child of affluence. A good percentage of independent school children have moms who work, some specifically to earn tuition so their children can go to these educational institutions. Financial aid is available. This past year, N.A.I.S. schools awarded a record $44 million in financial aid at their 990 member schools.

The Grosse Pointe Academy is an independent school and a member of the National Association of Independent Schools. We offer a Montessori approach to education at the 2% year old through the kindergarten level. From the grade one level through grade eight, we continue to develop a child's strengths while attacking the child's academic weaknesses. Our class sizes are small, from 9 to 15 per class in grades 1-5. Our reading groups range from 1:1 to 6:1. In several public and parochial classrooms, reading groups have more students in them than we have in our entire classroom. Math groups are also small and, of course, our staff deals one to one with children in writing.

If you're looking for an excellent educational opportunity for your child, explore the opportunity of an independent school education at The Grosse Pointe Academy.

Library plans delayed, school board suffering from 'sticker shock'

By Nancy Parmenter Staff Writer

Preliminary plans for additions to the Central Library and both branches came in far above the anticipated cost and have set trustee Joan Hanpeter. "We'll

Parking

The Farms council held a closed session Monday for a look at the library proposals for expansion. No school or library personnel attended.

City Clerk Richard Solak said the city ordinance calls for a public hearing before any variance or determination on the parking can be granted.

The plans show 56 parking spaces along Kercheval and 49 more along the edges of the building, far from the approximately 330 required by the ordinance. It is expected that the council will ask the school for more information on anticipated usage of the expansion before a decision can be made on the adequacy of the parking provided.

Solak said the city has surveved surrounding communities on their library parking requirements and found they are "all over the map."

School and city officials say they expect informal talks to continue. It is not known whether the talks will be made open to the public. The state open meetings act allows for closed meetings to discuss the acquisition of real estate, but does not provide for closed discussions of variances

To assist consumers in determining the reliability of vacation certificates, the Better Business Bureau has released a new booklet, "Have You Won a Vacation?"

Vacation certificates may vary from "free" hotel lodging, airfare and cruises, to purchasing one airfare and getting the second one free. Coupons for restaurants, tours and attractions may also be included in the package.

Often there are requirements which must be met in order to be eligible to receive a "free" vacation. Consumers may be required to make a purchase or attend a sales presentation prior to receiving information about the trip. Companies may also require a non-refundable processing and handling fee or a deposit to hold a reservation.

Quite often, these vacations are offered as an incentive to draw customers to the sales site. Keep in mind, however, consumers usually do not get something for nothing. The company may make up for its loss in other areas.

For a copy of the new booklet, send a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope to the Better Business Bureau, 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, 48226.

cost. I'm sure this will be a welldesigned, super facility, but there may be some things we don't need.'

The plan calls for more than doubling the size of Central Library with an addition that would extend along Fisher Road to the South High School grandstand. Parking for the new facility would run along Kercheval and require moving the softball field back.

The original estimate placed spending for the project at about $5 million, but as architect David Milling wrote in a memo for the library committee, "that was then and this is now." The price tag is now up to $8 million.

"Now that we're getting more finite details, the cost has increased considerably," said Assistant Supt. Joseph Spagnoli. "I think the board needs additional time to study the issue before putting it on the ballot."

The board will have to decide about cost, dicker with Grosse Pointe Farms about parking requirements, mount an information campaign and figure out when to hold an election. Only four of the six communities in the school system are planning elections in November, so special elections would have to be held.

Parking could turn out to be a problem. Apparently no one on the committee realized until recently how many spaces will be required under the Farms ordinance.

"I can tell you honestly that I expected someone to be checking on that," said board President Vincent LoCicero. "I checked it — it was easy to find."

Under the ordinance, one parking spot is required for every 100 square feet of usable space. That means about 330 spaces, based on the preliminary plans, according to City Clerk Richard Solak. The city parking lot on the Hill, for purposes of comparison, holds about 200 cars.

Library and school officials say there is no way they can provide that much parking. City insistence would "wipe out the project," LoCicero said.

The city and schools have been talking "behind the scenes," according to LoCicero, who said he is hopeful that an arrangement can be made.

"We've told the Farms that that's as far as we're willing to go," he said, " and we haven't even decided that.'

South athletic department personnel are unhappy at the prospect of losing even part of the field. "Up until it became obvious that the Farms zoning would demand more parking, we thought we could protect (the field)," said South Principal Edward Shine. "We are very concerned. The athletic department would like to present their concerns (to the committee) so the board can weigh all thepossibilities.'

Shine said losing part of the field is probably inevitable. "Some inroads will be made, and it's going to affect the program," he said. "Half of the athleticprogram is now off-campus. It takes its toll on the supervision we can provide. We will have less than the less-than-adequate facilities we now have.

It is by no means clear that the Farms will be willing to grant a large parking variance. With completion of the Punch and Judy building and the Bologna building, both currently under construction, traffic in the Hill area can be expected to increase. Solak refused to speculate about the chances of a variance.

"Obviously, that's the council's determination," he said. "The intent is to work with the school board as much as we can.

Friends of library seek new members

The Friends of Grosse Pointe Library has begun its annual membership drive and the response has been excellent. More than 2,000 members signed for another year.

The Friends group is the largest in the country, however, members feel there are many more residents who would like to join. Members are entitled to free reserves on books, a discount on rental art and invitations to special events.

Annual dues are $15. Students pay $5.

The group meets once a month at Central Library on the fourth Tuesday in the evening. They support lecturers, book and computer services, artwork, children's services and generally help where there is a need.

Spring means baseball means Tiger Stadium

By Marian Trainor Special Writer

Spring is here and so is baseball. The Detroit Tigers are back at Tiger Stadium on the corner of Michigan and Trumbull. That's good news to long time fans. For them, going to see the games there is more than just seeing the Tigers in action — it's like going

They remember seeing their first big-league game there as a kid, an experience that made them confirmed fans. The old grey structure has a lot of memories for them. Games won, lost, World Series fever, heroes who could be counted on to slam in the winning run.

Just being there was delightful - the warm sun shining down on the green field, the smell of freshly cut grass, the excitement of being part of a cheering crowd, the hot dogs and root beer — all wonderful memories.

It was a special treat to attend a baseball game at Tiger Stadium and it still is. It's also reassuring. The Joe Louis Arena and the Pontiac Stadium are too recent to be a memory — only Tiger Stadium remains as a constant. In a city of change, it remains there to remind us of the important part it has played in the history of the to watch a baseball game, such a suggestion is sacrilegious.

Domes and artificial turf will never replace the attraction of grass and sun and open sky and the wonderful feeling of continuity of returning each year.

The Tigers played their first game on April 25, 1901 in a field on that corner. It was originally scheduled for the previous day but postponed because of unpredictable spring weather. A massive parade assembled at City Hall in the afternoon and began a march through the city's neighborhoods to the park at Michigan and Trumbull. The parade was spectacular, but it was over-shadowed by the game.

As the Tigers came up in the last of the ninth inning against Milwaukee, they trailed 13 to 4. By the end of the inning, the score was 15 to 13 in favor of the Tigers.

The site of that incredible opening day victory was Bennett Park named after Charlie Bennett, a Detroit catcher from the Nation-

The park was little more than wooden stands for about 8,500 and a treachorous field created by spreading two inches of loam over cobblestone on a site that had served as the town's haymarket.

Ty Cobb, obtained in 1905 for $750 and a pitcher, played on that field and became a legend.

In 1912 Frank Navin, who was president of the team and owned 50 percent of it, persuaded William Hoover Yawkey who owned the other 50 percent to join him in improving Bennett Park. The new facility was dedicated April 20, 1912. Christened Navin Field. of the best ballparks in America the new site was designed to hold

There was not date. It was a crucial step in esthe same exciting ending to the tablishing Detroit as one of the day, however. The Tigers lost to best baseball towns in the Unit-

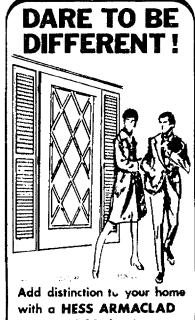

Cleveland 4 to 3. The Lions played their first game there also in 1938.

In 1956 John Fetzer became owner and the field was renamed Tiger Stadium.

These are statistics but the real story is the many stories of the greats in baseball who played there and the loyal fans who continue to experience such thrills as the historic 22 inning game against the Yankees in 1962 and the pennant in 1968.

Nideo outlets use titles, popcorn to entice movie buffs Frazho, and most other Movie fans have no shortage of stores to find their favorite actors and actresses on videos in the Grosse Pointes. There are at least seven video rental outlets in the immediate area. One opened just three weeks ago, several others within the last 18 months and there are probably a couple more stores in the works.

Still, the video market probably isn't saturated yet. Stores that sell VCRs are doing so at an impressive clip, and for every VCR sold there will be at least one person who spends the next six weeks round-eyed and stuffed with popcorn, as he watches every move Charles Bronson, Rodney Dangerfield and Sally Field has made in the movies in the past 10

Video stores are pretty much the same. There are huge colorful movie posters and stand-ups throughout the store, and a wall of videos behind the front counter in neat little numerical or colorcoded rows, but that's where the similarities end.

Some stores sell electronic products as the mainstay of their operation, and video rentals are a natural extension of the VCR sales business. They bring in foot traffic, and the profit margin in renting movies is also good.

Other video outlets cater strictly to the movie renter. The glass counter in front of the shop is filled with Snowcaps, Goobers, Raisinettes and other movie munchies. A large industrial-strength popcorn-maker sits at the front of the store and the smell of freshly popped corn fills the air. It is definitely time to sit back and watch "The Fly," "Goodbye Girl," or any of a thousand and a half other selections that the store has on hand.

Jim Bologna, owner of Magnetic Sights and Sounds in the City, has probably been in the video business longer than any of his competitors. He said he started his business in May 1981 as an extension of a hobby. He also had a sincere interest in providing his family quality entertainment at a good price.

Bologna said the secret to success in the video biz is to keep the customer happy. A rule true in any business, but even more so in movie rentals.

"After all, Jackie Gleason is Jackie Gleason in "Nothing in Common," the sameway at any of tape," Bologna said. "You have to buy enough tapes to keep the customers satisfied. If you know a movie is going to be hot, you have to go ahead and buy enough of them.

He said that he is never impressed to hear that some video store has twice as many titles as he does. In the video business, he noted, it is not the volume of titles, but the number of current ti-

Cable television directly effects the rentals of a movie.

"Back to the Future" is a perfect example," Bologna said. "It came out on cable last weekend, and it hasn't gone out of here since.

Down and across Kercheval from Bologna's business is Curtis Mathes Home Entertainment Center. Owners Ernest and son Gary Aita have been in the video rental business for about three Video shop manager Gloria Aita, Gary's wife, said the store rents out only VHS cassettes, because that is the only kind of VCR Curtis Mathes makes. She said she doesn't order many R-rated movies and absolutely no X-rated movies.

"We cater to mostly family people," Gloria said. "We always ask when we sign someone up if their children are allowed to rent an R movie or a PG-13. This is a family business and we keep that family

Gloria said she doesn't order the slasher-type or horror movies even though they often are popu-

"Our customers seem to like that and come back to this store because they know they are not going to be embarrassed when they're looking through our selec-

Starting out in the video business is not easy. It takes a sizeable investment and the store operation is labor-intensive. Several store owners estimated that the average wholesale price of a video is about $40. That would take into account a top-selling new release which could run as high as $65, and the less expensive titles which might run $25.

The new releases are the ones a shop may have to order 10 or 20 of to keep customers happy. Starting out with 1,000 to 1,500 titles is not uncommon, and that means an investment of $40,000 to $60,000 to start — not including cessities.

"Open up big or don't open up at all," advised Frank Buscemi, owner of the newly opened Show Time Video in Detroit at Mack near Seven Mile Road.

Buscemi owns three other video stores in St. Clair Shores, Mount Clemens and Warren, and said he was one of the first to get into the business some four and a half years ago.

"People thought I was crazy because I was the only video rental place on Schoenherr," Buscemi said. "I would say you need a minimum of 2,000 titles to open up.' He said he rents all ratings, including X.

Each stores operates a little differently. Some stores require that customers join a video club, and offer varying year-long or lifelong memberships ranging from $30 for a year to $50 or $60 for life.

The stores usually offer some kind of two-for-one coupon or a number of free rentals for joining the club. Other stores require no membership and charge at a reduced rate.

Joseph Kanakri, owner of AMJ Electronics on Mack in the Woods, has probably the lowest video price of any of the shops in the area, but it's for only a sixhour rental. From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the week, a customer can rent any movie in the shop for 99 cents. Overnight video rentals are more.

Kanakri said that his electronic sales are the mainstay of his business, but that to support his custhe stores where you can rent the the cost of store rent or other ne- tomers who have bought VCRs from him, he got into the rental business. He said he currently has about 1,400 titles and hopes to add another 1,000 selections soon. He too said that young families make up a large part of his business and he doesn't rent X-rated movies, because many people are store," Kanakri said.

Carleen Frazho, an employee at the Time Out Video at Mack near Vernier, said thestore, owned by Ray LeDuk and Jim Ellis, both of St. Clair Shores, celebrated its first anniversary on March 31.

"We like to keep it a family agreed, that the weekend evenings, both Friday and Saturday, are the busiest. None of the stores interviewed stay open on Sunday. Frazho said that when the business opened, they were told it Untreatable blindness. That was the diagnosis at an important national eve clinic. Then the patient, suffering from advanced glaucoma and cataracts, came to the Kresge Eye Institute at Harper Hospital. In an exciting procedure, the doctors at Kresge inserted tiny plastic intraocular lenses in his eyes. Today, at age 70, his corrected vision is almost 20/20.

This is not an unusual case. The threat of vision impairment by accident, birth, disease and aging is very close to all of us. Yet, cures and treatments are slow to develop because the process of vision is so very complex. Unraveling the mysteries is the job of the Kresge Eye Institute at Harper Hospital. Dedicated exclusively to the problems of vision, the Institute treats fifty-thousand patients each year, and also performs threethousand operations. Its research programs develop new paths of understanding. Its clinical practice brings new technology to medicine and refines pioneering treatment techniques for others to follow. This important Detroit Medical Center resource gives present hope to millions with impaired vision.

Bell mailing new charge cards

Michigan Bell is mailing 500,000 customers new plastic calling cards which can be used in public telephones including Michigan Bell's "Charge-a-Call Plus" card-reader phones.

Reggie Gibbs, local corporate affairs manager, said the new card will replace paper cards customers currently are using.

Magnetic strips on the back of the new cards contain billing information which will enable customers to use them in Charge-a-Call Plus phones at Detroit Metropolitan Airport and in other Ameritech Bell card-reader phones, Gibbs said.

Customers will have the same calling-card number and will be able to use the card in the variety of ways they always have, he

To use the card at a card-reader phone, the customer slides the card through a slot in the phone and dials the telephone number.

Customers using card-reader phones can make up to three consecutive calls without reinserting their card. At other public telephones, customers will continue to dial in their calling-card number, Gibbs said.

He said some 15,000 customers also will receive new plastic versions of a restricted-use "One Number Card," that can be used to call only the telephone number on the card. Gibbs said parents frequently use the cards for college students away from home.

Block grant funds to improve Mack

At a meeting March 25, the Grosse Pointe Park Citizens Advisory Board for the Wayne County Community Development Block Grant Program approved the continued participation in a plan that will provide approximately $73,000 in additional funds for street improvements on Mack between Wayburn and Maryland.

Used in conjunction with $71,000 in 1986 funds, the project calls for the closing of Mack Avenue at Wayburn to provide some additional parking for the business and residents of the area. Also included are the installation of new sidewalks, planters, benches, trash receptacles, lighting and landscaping on the same theme as the improvements at Mack Avenue and Somerset.

Charles Merz, of Shervish, Vogel & Merz, provided the board with details of the project. Merz noted that his company has been presented with an honor award from the Michigan Chapter of the American Society of Landscape Architects for the Somerset/Mack streetscape project funded with prior year block grant funds.

The board also approved the continuation of the minor home repair program through Services for Older Citizens, Inc. (SOC) and also approved the continuation of the housing rehabilitation program for major repairs to low and moderate income property owners' homes.

Event puts flower arrangers and artists into same arena

he Detroit Institute of Arts will literally bloom April 29-May 2 when "Art and Flowers: A Festival of Spring," is celebrated at the museum as a salute to Michigan's Sesquicentennial.

Outstanding members of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan have been invited to design artistic floral interpretations to complement 50 selected works of art from the museum's permanent collection. Guided docent tours of the exhibit will be offered free to the public throughout the festival.

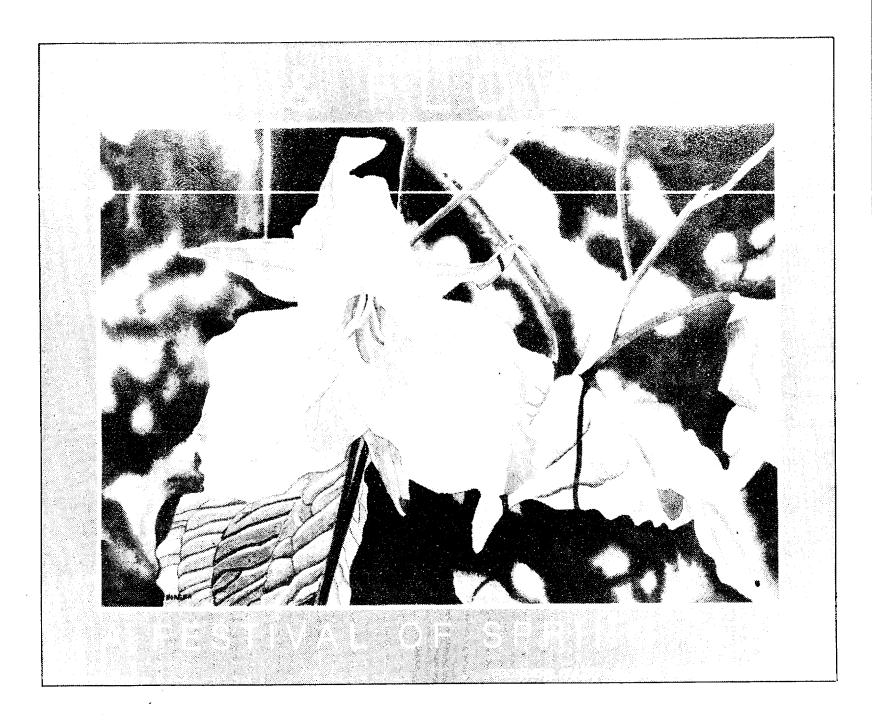

Additionally, daily packages which include lectures and demonstrations with internationally recognized horticulture experts, a tour of the exhibition and a fashion show by Saks Fifth Avenue will be available to the public for a ticket price of $30 per day.

Special guest speakers include: James Buckler, director of horticulture at the Smithsonian Institution, and Libbey Hodges Oliver, supervisor of the flower section at Colonial Williamsburg on April 30; Sean Driscoll, partner in New York's "Glorius Food," and Sheila Macqueen, flower arranger for Queen Elizabeth II, on May 1; and Ronaldo Maia, author of "Decorating with Flowers," and Viki Ferreniea, horticulturist at the New York Botanical Gardens, on May 2.

All proceeds from the festival will benefit the Art and Flowers Tribute Fund, an endowment restricted to the beautification of the museum. The first "Art and Flowers" festival, celebrated in 1985 as part of the museum's centennial celebration, drew nearly 17,000 visitors and raised more than $108,000. The effort is sponsored by the museum's Volunteer Committee, Women's Committee, and Activities Committee, which have a combined membership of nearly 600 people.

The festival will be launched the evening of April 29 with a gala preview which will feature the "Wants in a Lifetime" fantasy auction. Celebrity auctioneers J.P. McCarthy, morning host of WJR-Radio, and Ben Bidwell, vice chairman of the Chrysler Corporation, will auction off exotic prizes such as trips to Tahiti and Japan; an elegant dinner party with "Out of Africa" scriptwriter Kurt Luedtke in the museum's Great Hall, and a Wide World of Sports package which includes six days of baseball camp and Tiger Sports Fantasy in Lakeland, Fla., and tickets to the World Series, the Super Bowl and the NBA All Star game. Tickets to the preview, which includes cocktails and a buffet supper, are $35.

The official poster of the festival is titled "Trillim Grandiflora," by artist Noreen Jordan of Spring Lake, Mich. (Shown at the right.) Her painting was selected from more than 200 entries submitted in a contest for Michigan artists sponsored by the Automobile Club of Michigan.

Stairway to Paradise

Committee members for the first Opera Ball, to be held May 2 at Stroh River Place, had the delightful task of tasting a variety of desserts at the London Chop House recently, as one of the planning steps for the ball. Here, from the left, Henrietta Fridholm, and Shelly Cooper, cochairmen, Elaine Fontana and Lanie Pincus, menu committee co-chairmen; discuss the merits of the Stairway to Paradise, created by London Chop House chef Grant Brown. The dessert consists of frozen white chocolate Bavarian filled with a dark chocolate mousse, covered in fresh raspberry sauce and white chocolate creme anglaise, garnished with fresh raspberries. Catering for the ball has been awarded to the Gourmet House. Other committee chairs include: publicity committee, Tina Bassett and Liz DuMouchelle. Menu committee members are: Dede Booth, Joy Emery, Beth Sachs and Sharon Shaefer.

Sonoma County Wineries tasting tour to benefit Institute of Music and Dance

The Sonoma County Wineries Association seventh annual tour will include a Detroit wine-tasting stop on April 22. The 7-10 p.m. event at the Novi Hilton will benefit the CCS-Institute of Music and Dance.

More than 40 wineries from one of California's most prolific wine growing regions will be represented with new and exciting releases. Guests will have the opportunity to meet the winemakers in person to discuss their favorite vintages.

A silent auction featuring 22 magnums of Sonoma wine in specially designed wooden cases will be held from 7-9 p.m. The featured lot of a rare balthazar of Clos du Bois wine donated by J.P. Industries, Inc., of Ann Arbor. A balthazar is a single bottle containing 12 liters of wine.

As a special attraction, Larry Shade of Gibb's Worldwide Wines will host a blind-tasting contest. "Pick Your Own Grape" will challenge participants' palates to distinguish between six varying white or red wines. The winner will be awarded a cash prize drawn from the contest's entry

Hors d'oeuvres will accompany the wine. Music for the evening

Archives of American Art receives grants from Getty, Mellon foundations

The Archives of American Art has received grants from the J. Paul Getty Trust and the Andrew Mellon Foundation, each contributing half of a total $350,000 to support a project to make the organization's collections more accessible, archives director Richard Murray has announced. The grants will support staff and related requirements for a threeyear project.

"The result of the project," Murray said, "will be a far more inclusive data base of basic descriptions of all the collections and more detailed descriptions of selected major holdings. Information on the archives' extraordinary collections of documents, works on paper and oral history interviews and photographs will be more readily available to researchers.

> Material for the Community Section is due by 3 p.m. Friday

The archives, a bureau of the boxes — has prevented the ar-Smithsonian Institution, has assembled the world's largest collection of material documenting the history of the visual arts in the nation. More than 9 million items of original source material are available on microfilm.

Yet because the holdings have reached such an unprecedented size, much valuable information remains beyond the ability of staff to record and thus beyond the grasp of researchers, according to the grant proposal.

The Mellon/Getty grants will enable the archives to bring together pertinent sources of information, including accession files, inventories, the card catalog and reports from each of its six regional centers. The information will be placed in the computer database system in use at the Smith-

A typical example of a collection crammed with important letters but used by few researchers is the Carnegie Museum International Exhibition records. Between 1896 and 1940, the Carnegie directors corresponded with hundreds of American and European artists, among them Mary Cassatt (50 letters to and from), Degas (14) and Thomas Eakins (120). chives from making it useful to art historians and other scholars.

The automated system will be especially valuable for cross references. The Carnegie records, moreover, lend themselves readily to automated indexing because the Carnegie produced a card index to all correspondents.

The second objective of the project is to expand information on significant collections now seldom called for because they are inadequately described in the card catalog. Among the collections targeted by the Archives to receive additional analyses and descriptions before being placed in the data base are the records of artists, gallery dealers, critics and scholars, among them Peggy Bacon, Marcel Breuer, Clement Greenberg, Betty Parsons, Ad Reinhardt, Ben Shahn and David Smith.

The data compiled from the project will be available at the Smithsonian and at each of the Archives' centers located in Boston, New York City, Detroit, Washington, D.C., San Francisco and Los Angeles. The information will also be available at a future date on a national computer network outside the Smithsonian system. Counseling considerations

By the Rev. Paul Panaretos Our Lady Star of the Sea Parish

As a priest, I am an observer of human behavior. Often I play a bit part in the drama of an individual or family. The role that I end up playing is usually given me by others. Someone may hand me the part of listener, mediator, counselor, friend, instructor or target. Often, I am handed the role of counselor.

In counseling, I discern, discriminate and diagnose, among the varieties of human behavior in order to assist better the people I serve. I assist them to make choices, more often between good and good, than between good and bad.

Choices are most important in my counseling technique. Although I am not a very directive counselor, I do insist that people make their own decisions. I give back to people what I hear them saying to me. I try to illuminate their darkness by the light of my own experience, the light of the tradition of the church and its scriptures and teaching. I always respect the conscience of each person.

My conscience is not some part of me; my conscience is me. Via my conscience, I build a bridge between my urges and intentions, between other persons, including God, and between social ideals back to myself. My conscience allows me to discern, discriminate and diagnose my own behavior without thinking about it.

Many people ask me to affirm and sharpen their consciences and to help them incorporate their religious sensibilities in their daily lives. This incorporation, I believe, is what my counseling is all about. People come to me because their religious sensibilities and identity impel them. They perceive that their belief system is directly involved with their choices and need for help.

My first goal is to make an assignment of the person's situation as the person describes it to me. I have to discern what the person's situation is. Then I have to listen and prioritize the data the person gives me. I have to discriminate among all the data and key into the religiously significant data particular to the person. Finally, I have to respond to the person. I have to help the person to articulate his need and to work out a way to meeting that need. Together we make a diagnosis.

This is not always a simple process. What the counselees and I do in this process is often a long haul. My aim, over and above helping the people meet their needs, is twofold: to give them a unified perception of the human person and to instill a strong sense of self as simultaneously religious and daring, as a part of a creation and a shaper of it.

In my counseling, my empathy and the insight of the counselees are of a piece. It is my hope that the people who seek me out have a better understanding of themselves and of their religious identity in order that their lives may be more complete.

Local churches present musical passion play for next two weeks

"Unconditional Love," a musical passion play, will receive two debut performances in 'April at' two different Detroit-area churches.

The first performance is at 8 p.m. Friday, April 10, at Bethany Christian Church, 5901 Cadieux at Linville in Detroit. The second performance is slated for 8 p.m. Good Friday, April 17, at Our Lady Queen of Heaven Catholic Church, 8175 E. Lantz near E. Outer Drive in Detroit

"Unconditional Love" chronicles, in Scripture and song, the ministry of Jesus, including his passion, death, and resurrection. Thirteen original songs are included in the performance. Most of the cast and crew of 50 are affiliated with the Search for Christian Maturity young adult retreat group in metropolitan Detroit. They hail from Detroit's east side, East Detroit, Roseville, St. Clair Shores, Fraser, Grosse Pointe Park, Mt. Clemens, Warren, Royal Oak and Redford.

Admission to "Unconditional Love" is free. However, a freewill collection will be taken after each performance, the proceeds going to benefit pregnancy aid groups in the Detroit area.

For details, call director Mark Pattison at 372-3731

Elizabeth Ketchum Group

The Elizabeth Ketchum Group of Grosse Pointe Memorial Church will meet tomorrow, Friday, April 10, at 1 p.m., in the Grosse Pointe Park home of Dorothea Bush. Devotions will be led by Marion Wilson.

Christ Church-Grosse Pointe youth group members participate in day-long fast against teen violence

Realizing the need to work toward a solution in the handgun death crisis, the youth group at Christ Church Grosse Pointe will participate in a city-wide fast on Friday, April 10.

Youth group members will begin their fast after breakfast on Friday morning, drinking only liquids throughout the day and night, and will end the fast on Saturday morning.

To help members remain committed to the fast, as well as to stress the meaning of the fast, the youth group will meet at 6:30 p.m. on Friday at Christ Church and will stay overnight until the next morning, when they will finish with breakfast.

The event will be an opportunity for members to both enjoy themselves with games and movies, as well as to discuss deprivation and the problem of children killing each other.

This fast has three goals. The youth group is using the fast as God to help solve (and to help members make a difference in) the problem of handgun deaths. The fast is also a way to help each member confront his or her feelings about this problem, so that each may act on the crisis when the opportunity presents itself.

The last goal of the group is to show that the youth group at Christ Church Grosse Pointe is concerned about the problem of children killing each other. This a chance to invite the power of fasting is their way of linking themselves with the whole Detroit area in this problem.

The fast is part of a project sponsored by SOSAD (Save Our Sons And Daughters) is called "It's Time for Prayer." The project asks participants to pray and fast for one day during the Lenten season. The project includes people from all around the Detroit area, and it will culminate with a prayer breakfast on Saturday, April 11.

Woods Presbyterian Church presents Waldowskis in concert

The Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian Church, 19950 Mack Ave., will present Toby and Barb Waldowski in an "Evening of Music" concert on Palm Sunday. April 12, at 7 p.m., in the church

The Waldowskis have toured America since 1977 giving more than 1,500 concerts. They are regularly seen on the "Hour of Power" religious television program with the Rev. Dr. Robert Schuller and have been featured soloists with several Billy Graham crusades.

The concert is open to the public and the Rev. Dr. Irving Phillips, senior pastor, extends a cordial invitation to come and join the Grosse Pointe Woods Presbyterian congregation in an evening of Christian music. There is no admission charge, but a freewill offering will be taken.

Church Events

The Last Week

The 30-voice Chancel Choir of Grosse Pointe Baptist Church will present an Easter Cantata titled, 'The Last Week," by John W. Peterson, on Palm Sunday, April 12, at 6:30 p.m.

"The Last Week," is a cantata based on the final days of the earthly ministry of Jesus Christ. It begins with his triumphal entry into Jerusalem and ends with his resurrection.

The public is invited to attend and share in this Easter celebration which provides an hour of fine musical selections.

G.P. United Church

The Women's Association of the Grosse Pointe United Church (formerly Grosse Pointe Congregational/American Baptist Church) will meet at the church, 240 Chalfonte, Grosse Pointe Farms, on Tuesday, April 14, at 11 a.m., for the monthly business meeting. Immediately following the meeting, there will be a program luncheon, which will be a "Seder Service" - a typical Jewish family meal as celebrated on Passover. This program will be presented by Gwen Bates, who will describe the traditions as the meal progresses.

Reservations may be made at the church office by calling 884-3075. The church community is invited to share in this eccumenical experience.

This Palm Sunday, April 12, at 3 p.m., Fossenkemper will conduct his Detroit String and Harp Ensemble in the acoustical splender of Old Christ Church in downtown Detroit.

The group will play Ravel's hauntin "Pavane," Giordani's "Caro mio ben," Bach-Gounod's "Ave Maria," and Vivaldi's "Concerto in d minor," with harp soloist Mary Janchuk Bartlett.

The program will also feature the Cranbrook Kingswood Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Nina Machus. The singers will perform Robert Wetzler's "Three Songs of Innocence." Machus will also appear as soprano soloist in music by Ralph Vaughn Williams and Henry Parker.

Luncheon helps Little Sisters

St. Joseph Auxiliary to the Little Sisters of the Poor is planning the 29th annual Lilac Luncheon at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn on Tuesday, May 5.

Mrs. Carl Henrichs and Mrs. Neil Patterson, both of Grosse Pointe, are co-chairing the event, which will start at 11 a.m. with a social hour.

Following lunch, the spring fashions of Walton Pierce of Grosse Pointe will be shown.

Other committee members include Mrs. Richard Boyle and Mrs. John Cook, in charge of invitations. Heading the reception non-profit organization that links community needs with donated new and used goods and resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and or businesses into the hands of tri-county metropolitan Detroit non-profit agencies and grass roots organizations. These groups have requested particular items needed by them or the clients they serve. These requests include but are certainly not limited by baby clothes, home appliances, office equipment furniture and toys.

LINC conducts a series of fundraisers throughout the year to support its mission. Gearing up for its third annual flower sale on May 9. LINC hopes it will be as successful as in previous years. From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the First English Lutheran Church, 800 Vernier (east of Mack) in Grosse Pointe Woods, flowers will be available for purchase and pick-up by the pre-ordering customers.

There is a new look for this year's sale — more colors than ever before and many more bedding plants and hanging baskets to choose from. Chairmen Chris Burt, Joan Shirilla, along with Nancy Adams have been busy laying the ground work for the sale. "We are working on the quality of the flowers and satisfying our buyers," said Burt. The flowers will be from O. & A. Dehu.

The hanging baskets LINC has to offer will have a special touch of vinca, asparagus fern or Dusty Miller added to enhance the beauty of the arrangements. O. & A. Dehu supplies to other non-profit groups such as minor hockey leagues.

To ensure your specific spring planting needs are met LINC encourages you to take advantage of the pre-order process available through April 30. Either with the order form printed here or by calling the LINC office at 882-6100 to obtain the form necessary to place your order when planning your spring planting.

In preparation for the planting and spring clean-up outdoors, Operation LINC can offer you strong, 2 mil trash bags on an ongoing basis. These are available for $12/box, 100/box by calling the LINC office. Free delivery of trash bags is offered in some areas.

As your spring clean-up moves inside the house or business don't forget LINC there too. We accept donations all year round for your new and used goods. If you no longer have a need for a particular item we know someone who does.

The Detroit Review Club will be ending its 96th club year on April 15, at the Country Club of Detroit, at 220 Country Club Drive, (off Moross) in Grosse Pointe Shores, with a special luncheon planned by social chairman Sylvia Rutkowski. The luncheon will be honoring new members who have joined the club this year. In charge of presenting new members is past president Winifred Emery. The official hostess for the affair is President Blanche Kefgen of Grosse Pointe.

New members include Grosse Pointers and women from Huntington Woods, Detroit, St. Clair Shores, Harper Woods, Northville, Dearborn and Birmingham.

Following lunch, past president Betty Gerisch will introduce Dr. David DiChiera, director of the Michigan Opera Theatre. In 1962, DiChiera came to Michigan where he served as assistant dean for continuing education in the arts at Oakland University. During his 10-year association with Oakland, he took an active role in the establishment of the Meadow Brook Festival and also served as artistic advisor to the president of the university.

The Grosse Pointe Farm and Garden Club will meet in Miller Hall at Christ Church-Grosse Pointe, on Monday, April 13, at 1:30 p.m. Following a business meeting and luncheon, Scott Knunst of Old House Gardens, Inc., will present a program on Victorian gardens. Hostesses for the day are J. Crawford Frost, Mrs. J. Lawrence Buell and Mrs. Richard Hinks.

On Wednesday, April 15, the Detroit Boat Club Women's Committee will host a luncheon and program. All members and their guests are invited to attend.

This first program of the season will feature the theme, "Tips on Gardening," by Lonna Adams, a Master Gardener since 1979. For two years, Adams' home was on the Indian Village House and Garden Tour.

Come for cocktails at 11:30 a.m., followed by lunch at 12:30 p.m. Cards will be available for those who wish to play. The price is $10 per person. Reservations are a must.

The Southeast Michigan Knitters Guild will meet Wednesday, April 15, at 7:30 p.m., at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Chalfonte at Lothrop, Grosse Pointe Farms.

This month's program will be "What's New in Spring Yarn and Knitwear," by Connie Mahoney and Joanne Blenman of In Anyone interested in knitting is welcome to attend.

At the recent annual meeting of the Michigan chapter of the International Circumnavigators Club, Dr. Don McIntyre of Grosse Pointe passed the chapter's gavel to newly elected Circumpresident Leonard Barnes. Circumpastpresident McIntyre is the only two-term president of the Michigan chapter.

Other officers are: Alfred B. Thomas, first vice president; Helen Pierrot, second vice president; Don P. Luther, secretary-treasurer. Elected to the board of directors are H. Glen Bixby, Dr. Walter Percival, Joseph M. Moore, John R. Plautz and Virginia A.

The Circumnavigators Club was conceived in March 1902 when two Americans were crossing the Indian Ocean aboard the S.S. Barbarossa. They agreed on the need for a club of global travelers designed to extend points of friendly contact and invited friends to join them when they returned to New York. The club has become international and world-wide. It has chapters in Hawaii, Japan, the Philippines, Singapore, Norway and the United Kingdom, beside those throughout the United States. Membership is restricted to peple who have made a complete circumnavigation of the globe in one direction, crossing every meridian.

The Grosse Pointe Woman's Club members and guests will meet Wednesday, April 15, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Grosse Pointe War Memorial at 12:30 p.m. for the annual election and installation of new mem-

Rosemary Elias, vice president and program chairman will present Cecelia Webster, who will perform on dulcimer and Celtic harp. The dulcimer, an ancestor of the piano, was popular during the 1800s (particularly in Michigan) and is played by striking the strings with mallets.

The Celtic harp, smaller that the modern form of the harp, also goes back hundreds of vears to Ireland, Scotland and England. Cecelia's instruments were each handcrafted by her husband, William. Cecelia is a regular performer at Greenfield Village and the Henry Ford Museum.

Lucy Chielens, social chairman, has asked Betty McAllister and Dorothy Davis to serve as hostesses. Assisting will be Anne Zimmer, Fran Ahee, Pearl Linder and Carol Kerber pouring. Betty Haarz, Archie Marie Reed, Grace McGill and Marion Huegli will serve.

Members planning to invite guests are requested to make reservations by contacting hospitality chairman Aline Saverino or Irene Dettloff, not later than Saturday noon, April

The General Josiah Harmar chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution will meet at the home of Mrs. Walton M. Chalmers on Edinborough Ave., Detroit, on Saturday, April 11, at noon, for a luncheon and short business session.

The delegates and alternate will be discussing their trip to the 965 Continental Congress in Washington, D.C., on April 19.

The hostess, who is also the chairman of the Good Citizen awards has awarded winners of the award a Good Citizen pin and a certificate. Mary Arabia of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School was the local winner.

Basket plant holder workshop planned

Learn to create an attractive basket plant holder and give your potted plants a fresh, new look for spring at the War Memorial on Saturday, April 11, from 9:30 a.m.

Instructor Mary Herbert will will show you how to design baskets in your choice of shape and size, using flat reed splint and some round reed.

The course is just $15 per person, plus a minimal supply fee payable to the instructor. Supply list is available at time of registration. Students should bring a lunch. For further information, call 881-7511, Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The Rt. Rev. Bradford Hastings Bishop in residence

Beginning April 12, Palm Sunday, Christ Episcopal Church will have a bishop in residence. The Rt. Rev. Bradford Hastings will spend Holy Week in the community preaching, teaching and leading groups in prayer. Bishop Hastings is the retired suffragan Bishop of Connecticut. He has served parishes in Missouri, Minnesota, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

He will preach at the Palm Sunday services at 8, 9:15 and 11:15 a.m. His sermon is titled "God's Almighty Tenderness." During the week he will be giving morning meditations on the subject of "Themes of New Life." In the evenings he will be meeting in homes of parishioners leading reflections on "Approaching Calvary." On Maundy Thursday at 7:30 p.m., his sermon is titled "A Taste of Shalom." Following the Holy Eucharist, the altar will be stripped in preparation for Good Friday.

Bishop Hastings will preach the traditional three-hour Good Friday service beginning at noon. His texts will be the seven last words of Christ. Singing will be led by the Choir of Girls and Men.

The community is cordially invited to all of these events.

Good asparagus crop on horizon

The outlook for asparagus, Michigan's second crop of the year, looks favorable at this point.

The recent warm weather could have made the crop more vulnerable to the current cold snap if the 60 degree weather had been of longer duration. It looks like the crop will be on schedule for a normal year with the first of the crop due

Look for fresh home-grown asparagus to peak in supply around Memorial Day. Quantity packs of 10 to 30 pounds will be marketed in selected markets during this harvest peak. Inquire at your supermarket now if you're interested. The crop should be about 5 percent larger than last year's crop, weather permitting.

The maple syrup harvest is nearing completion. The sap stopped running freely when the night-time temperatures warmed up, so the harvest may be less than expected, but greater than last year's.

April means shopping for an Easter ham in many households. Look for features close to last year's prices. The just-released USDA Quarterly Hog and Pig Report showed hog numbers have increased slightly. This will have little effect on processed pork prices in the short run. Retails prices for fresh pork could be affected during the second quarter, especially if the trend continues.

Most retail beef cuts continue to be attractively priced. Look for prices of tender cuts to increase as the outdoor grilling season approaches.

Poultry, fish and seafood continue to set new per capita consumption records at the expense of red meats. Shoppers will find some fish and seafood features this month, but don't look for much discounting. The 1987 production of farm-raised catfish has increased 10 percent over 1986 production; prices are a tad lower.

lower.

Eggs are plentiful and prices reflect it. Pre-Easter April prices will be a little higher than March prices, but the difference will be less than usual. Demand will taper off after Easter, clearly putting wholesale egg prices below the cost of production.

Prices for frozen orange juice concentrate have increased since additional duty was added to the imported product.

April 9, 1987 Grosse Pointe News Community Watercolor is the distinctly American medium for artists

By David M. Maxfield Smithsonian News Service

During the bitter-cold weeks of Northern winters, generations of Americans have been warmed for a spell by the bright, silvery Florida sun. Artists, too, have seen the light, packing up their paint boxes and brushes for working holidays in watery scenic spots as distant as the spectacular sunsets of Key West.

The peninsula's white sands and multitudes of fish, its breezeswept coconut palms and mossdraped jungles, the coral-flecked birds and toothy alligators have long lured the artist's eye. As early as 1832, John James Audubon trekked southward. The famed naturalist created realistic renderings of exotic birds and beasts finely detailed watercolors, all highly celebrated today.

Winslow Homer, whose iconoclastic artistic career was preoccupied with the fleeting life of nature, made seven trips to Florida after 1885 - primarily to fish. Traveling south from New York, probably by steamship (given his love of the sea) rather than the new railroad, Homer on three trips worked in a bit of watercolor between bites. The artist's bloodtinged "Life-size Black Bass" remains a classic study of his theme of struggle against mortality's tide. Even Homer's "Fishing Boats, Key West" of 1904, bobbing on translucent washes of gray-blues, carries something of the artist's profound vision.

Watercolor, critics began noting in the 19th century, is an "American medium," adaptable and versatile. Whereas oil paints are most useful to the experienced, watercolors from tins or tubes can be enjoyed by Sunday painters and pros alike. As Homer's legacy shows, for viewers this is a "very human scale" to the medium, says Joann Moser, graphic arts curator at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American Art. "There is the appeal of its beauty — and an intimacy about watercolor that make people relate to it." On technical grounds, watercolor's special virtue seems to be its luminous transparency and the tactile appeal of textured papers.

A century ago, "artists in America achieved some of their greatest expression in watercolor," Moser points out. "There was an interest in capturing the immediacy of the moment outdoors. The intentions of artists coincided with what the medium offered.' For reasons of their own, such talents as the French impressionists, favoring oils, eschewed the American medium, although they shared with Homer's generation a strong interest in the effects of natural light, both dazzling and defused.

It is history's irony that Gauls take out their paint boxes in North America. One Jacques Le Moyne de Morgues, traveling with a French expedition in 1564 to the region that is now Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas, succeeded in showing those back home what the New World was were the very first Europeans to

"really" like. Jacques' view, historians see, was an idealized vision of the landscape and its Indian natives. It took the English love of watercolor and some time, however, before Americans were moved by the art. "The standard of excellence set by English watercolorists in America contributed to the sudden flourishing of the medium after 1830," according to Donelson Hoopes, a watercolor authority from Catskill, N.Y. Especially popular were the landscapes of William Henry Bartlett — the picturesque scenes of the day — that charted nearly every natural wonder and urban landmark between Niaga-

Boosting watercolor's popularity another notch was the ingenuity of the New York Water Color Society in 1854, the year of the nation's first world's fair. Alongside exhibition halls, the society managed to win an honored place for 31 pictures, mostly landscapes. "Few Americans," Hoopes says, "had ever before exposed their work to such a wide ra Falls and Washington.

and diverse audience."

By the 1870s, shows of 500 or more watercolors were being organized. More varied subject matter and styles were emerging. And artists of the stature of James McNeill Whistler and Homer were showing their work. After an 1879 exhibition, the Nation magazine declared "Mr. Winslow Homer goes as far as anyone has ever done in demonstrating the value of watercolors . .

As the history of American art has moved from one style to another, from realism to abstraction, from picturesque to modern subject, watercolor has reflected the changes. Within the past decade particularly, Hoopes says, there is a "reviving interest in watercolor," which seems to have reached a low point in the 1950s. Then, he adds, the medium's loyalists, thousands of representational artists, appeared "serenely out of touch" with the work of the decade's avant-garde "drip" painters.

The Worcester Art Museum in Massachusetts, recognizing the medium's rich, enduring history and the strength of its own outstanding collection of 200 works, has organized a traveling exhibit to survey the "American Traditions in Watercolor," as the show is named. Selected for the survey are dozens of artists, among them the American masters: Homer, sionist Childe Hassam - of the 20th, Edward Hopper and Andrew Wyeth, America's most popular realists.

Watercolor's beauty lies in its immediacy, its spontaneity and above all, perhaps, its simplicity. But "watercolor is a very difficult medium to master," explains the museum's paper conservator, Judith C. Walsh. The paper buckles when wet, the colors puddle and run into each other; fine washes laid on top of each other marry and become muddy; mistakes can't be painted out, and underdrawing shows through the washes of color. Working outdoors can make the task even more arduous, she says.

How have watercolor masters such as Homer achieved such remarkable results? In Homer's case, he struggled. An intensely private man, Homer left little to go on about his procedures, but "close inspection of his work may tell more about the man than he would have liked," Walsh says. Homer rarely destroyed a painting. This evidence shows that "for close to 40 years Homer persistently worked at developing his technique."

Homer, whose mother was a competent watercolorist, did not even open a watercolor box until he was 37 - some 20 years after he had become a professional art-

John Singer Sargent and impresist. His early painting of 1873, "Boys and Kittens," is charac-19th century - and from the teristic of his initial working method: The artist first drew in the figures and details, then applied color washes that seldom overlap and finished off the work with opaque highlights.

> Homer never ascribed to the idea that watercolors should look effortless," Walsh writes in the catalog for the exhibition. Many times, in fact, he made changes that often remained obvious to the viewer. "In a Florida Jungle," about 1885, the viewer can make out the outline of the snout of an alligator once placed on the beach but later moved to water's edge. The 'gator stares at its prey, a spoonbill on the sand.

> By this correction, suggests Homer scholar Helen C. Cooper of the Yale University Art Gallery in New Haven, Conn., Homer locates the viewer immediately next to the alligator. "We are thus forced to contemplate the last moments in the life of the innocent bird."

By 1895, Homer's work showed a versatility and breadth that far exceeded his earlier skill. He no longer relied on the use of opaque colors nor preliminary drawings. "With his profound sense of color and composition," Walsh continues, "Homer created works of beauty."

Sports

When asked to write this column for Peggy O'Connor while she is off getting married and participating in that age-old sport called honeymooning, I had to think quite hard about what I was going to write.

I thought I might relate the story about how I was defeated by a Cranbrook opponent while I was wrestling for University Liggett School. He later turned out to be the state champ in Class D in my weight division, and defeated me in about 18 seconds - I heard later that was a record.

Then I thought I would relate my football stories while I was on the Knight's junior varsity squad. I was called Mad Dog. It was more an inside joke than it was a description of my prowess on the gridiron.

To save Liggett's athletic programs a certain amount of embarrassment, I decided to forego the horrid details of my prep sports ac-

Instead I decided it would be much better to write a column from the perspective of a sports fan.

I love the Detroit Tigers. The excitement which comes from getting together with a few friends and heading down to Michigan and Trumbull is unsurpassed during the spring and summer.

I could tell you who was in first or second place in the American East, but I wouldn't know the batting averages of the players or who had the best ERA in the league. I am a baseball fan, not a baseball fanatic.

What bothers me about going to a Tiger game is that you can only buy a shot glass full of beer at a time, and it costs $2 for that privilege. You can go watch the Red Wings beat up on Toronto and purchase a bucket full of brew for $4. You can't tell me that hockey fans are more passive or able to hold their alcohol better than baseball fans. After all, hockey fans do things like throw octopi on the ice and scream and throw things each time two players square off for a fight.

Tiger Stadium hot dogs are far superior to those in either the Silverdome or Joe Louis Arena. Don't ask me why.

As far as I am concerned, and this is something all sports fans are concerned about there is nothing that can reasonably be considered parking at any of the metropolitan stadiums. I spent a very cold hour searching for my car in the Joe Louis parking structure after a game one January night. Parking at the Silverdome is ridiculous, and I just heard yesterday Detroit is finally going to allow Corktown residents to park in front of their own homes. Nice gesture, and it's about time for those people, but what the heck are they going to do now. It is already impossibile to find a snot of any reasonable distance from Tiger stadium.

Ī like parking over in Greektown, and catching a cab to the stadium. If you're lucky, you can find a spot there without having to pay, and the money spent on the cab comes close to what you would have spent on parking. If not, you have just purchased some convenience. Cabs are very easy to hail heading back to Greektown on Michigan Av-

I never cared much for hockey. I realize those are fighting words here, but before you skip off to the classifieds, let me say that I attended several Red Wing games this year. and numerous North, South and Liggett games in the past year. I can honestly say that hockey is a sport that I really like now...especially the large beers at Joe See COLUMN, page 2C Louis.

"Our No. 1 and No. 2 singles will equal . . . any

By Peggy O'Connor Sports Editor Just call them the new look

With four or five freshman in the starting line-up, the University Liggett School varsity tennis team promises to be one of the voungest totorea verild 14.8, read

"With the schedule we have, these kids are in for a shock. It's such a difference between junior high or middle school tennis,' said ULS coach Bob Wood. "The first month of the season is really going to be a learning experience but by May 1, they'll be hardened high school tennis players." The freshmen Wood talks about include Anthony Abiragi, Sean Byrne, Bill Schervish, Alex Tringali and Doug Wood. "I've never had more than two freshman on a varsity team in my 22 seasons here. It's exciting and it certainly bodes well for the future of this team," Wood added.

Tringali, in fact, was the No. 1ranked player in Sicily and the No. 3 in all of Italy in his age group last year. He'll challenge junior John Yancey - rated in the top 25 nationally in 16 and under - for the No. 1 singles spot this year. Byrne is penciled in at No. 3 singles, but challenge matches played on the team's annual Florida trip and some early competition in Ohio could change all of that, Wood warned.

"Our No. 1 and No. 2 singles players will equal any No. 1 and 2 in the state and nationally,' Wood said. They'll combine with returning lettermen Mike Fozo, a senior who was runner-up at the No. 3 singles spot in 1986; junior Frank Karabetsos, the No. 2 doubles runner-up a season ago; junior Gordie Maitland; Ashu Nautiyal, the No. 4 singles champ last year; and Karabetsos' doubles partner, junior Mike Niccolini.

'This team has the potential to be the best in my 22 years because those freshman are awfully good," Wood predicted. While the other doubles teams weren't quite set at press time, Wood said that Fozo and Nautiyal would most likely team up at the top doubles slot. Niccolini and Karabetsos will be back at No. 2.

There doesn't appear to be a single weak spot on Wood's roster this season, as his team seeks year's success, Backhurst said.

this spring, seems to have the to add its second straight state title after seeing its record-setting string of 13 consecutive championships ended in 1985. Fighting it out for the other spots on the squad are sophomore Dike Ajiri, juniors Ajay Nautiyal, Ryan Strowger and David Kim, and senior Andrew MacLeod.

"Basically, we just have a bunch of good athletes. We don't have a single player on the team who just plays tennis. I think that one of the keys to our success is that the majority of the kids we play, put their racquets away at the end of summer and our kids just start another sport," Wood said. "It makes them able to cope with the pressure situation we place them in in tennis. They've been to the foul line with three seconds left. They've been in overtime. So when they get to the point where they've got to compete with the best in the state and its 4-4 in the third set, they can handle the pressure.

"Now all we have to do is stay healthy and play like I think we can and we should be okay.'

Soccer

Varsity coach David Backhurst says he's "cautiously optimistic" about his team's chances this season. All but two players return from the team which more than held its own last year against tough Class A competition in the Expressway League. And with 36 kids coming out for the team necessitating a JV squad for the first time - all signs point to a season in which Backhurst might just throw caution to the winds and be all-out optimistic.

"The program has never looked better," Backhurst admitted. "We've got 16 on the varsity and most of those girls are three- and four-year players, like Laurie (Khelokian), Cindy (Paul), Shelley (Tibbitts) and Susan (Judge). It's a veteran, experienced team and that's nice to have," he

Senior center/forward and cocaptain Khelokian is a key to this

"She played midfield last year, but we're moving her up front and we hope she'll do more scoring. Not all - balanced scoring is important — but a little more." Sophomore Meghan Brady will join juniors Lynne Connor and Alexandra Lepard on the wings. At midfield, senior co-captain Paul will lend her well-developed ballhandling skills to help generate an offensive attack, her coach said. Freshman Sarah Haggarty and juniors Beth Birgbauer, Susie Davis or Kim Owens will also play at midfield; each possesses a strong leg and has the ability to score from outside. The backfield consists of senior sweeper Tibbitts and sophomore stopper Sylvia Ristic. They will be joined by seniors Eva Dodds and Kelly Bailer, junior Liz Prues and sophomore Alana Stark, all of whom are characterized by Backhurst as "hard-nosed and aggressive." Senior Susan Judge returns to her spot in goal, where she was outstanding in 1986.

ULS plays a tough regularseason schedule as a member of the Expressway League, facing Class A teams like North, South and Warren Fitzgerald, but Backhurst says that helps prepare the girls for the district and regional playoffs. "The state tournament splits the teams in Class A and then Class B-C-D, so the regular season toughens us up. We take a chance at having a blemished regular season record, but I'd rather get tough playing tough teams and win the state than have a pretty record.'

The girls open their regular season at Warren Fitzgerald on Friday, April 10, at 4 p.m.

Track is back at ULS.

With a total of 70 kids out on the combined boys'-girls' team, the message is that the track program is stronger than ever. According to girls' head coach Cathy Schmidt, the program's goals remain just as solid: to have fun and achieve personal success in See KNIGHTS, page 2C

Have you had a bad day, Captain? You say your crew called one at a time to say they can't make the race tomorrow beause of family commitments? You say your spouse is becoming annoyed at your lengthy absences and wishes for a spring snowstorm so you get the leaky faucets fixed? You say you got a letter in the mail that your rating has been changed? Is that the kind of day you've had, Skipper? Well, here is an idea for you.

The Doublehanded Sailing Association wants you to know that you don't need a boat load of crew to sail competitively and have fun. You can sail with just your spouse. You can have the challenge of a long distance sail or a Saturday round-the-buoy race with nary a cancellation from crew. You can join up with sailors from Michigan, Ohio and Canada who have created this new organization in our area just for you.

Many sailors find it difficult to recruit competent crew to forswear other Saturday activities and race. Some find the costs of campaigning a racing yacht prohibitive. Some find the time commitments required to face leaves little time to enjoy other aspects of sailing, like cruising the boat and seeing a bit of the Great Lakes. For these reasons and more, the Doublehanded Sailing Association was Phil LePage, the organizer of the DSA, found there was a need for this type of organization after the first Port Huron-Rodgers City Doublehanded Challenge in 1985, which the Great Lakes Singleincrease in participation and an exuberance among the competitors. This was not ordinary racing. This was fun. It was a different kind of competition that challenged a team of two people to sail their best for 215 miles in Lake Huron. There developed a cohesiveness and camaraderie that demanded that more doublehanded events be encouraged around the lakes, and so the Doublehanded Sailing Association was born.

Its statement of purpose reinforces publicly that they were formed "... for the purpose of serving those who enjoy the sport of making fast, safe passages under sail with minimum of crew. To that end it is the intention of the Association to encourage development of personal skills, suitable equipment, techniques and vessels for the purpose of shorthanded sailing by way of the personal exchange of information between its members and through the experience of competitive doublehanded sailing.'

The dream became a reality on April 5 when the first general membership meeting was held and the first slate of officers was presented.

Park residents Howard and Sharon Riley are founding members of the new organization. They got involved by competing in the first Port Huron-Rodgers City event. "It was exactly the kind of thing we were looking for," Howard Riley said. "We wanted to enjoy the boat as a couple and this gave us the opportunity to competitively sail the boat together.'

Sharon Riley saw an ad for the race and encouraged her husband to enter. "This race is just right for us," she urged. Howard confessed that he was a little reluctant because she had never sailed all night before, stood watch, or sailed that great a distance before. "Sharon told me she had a great deal of confidence in me. She felt she could do it. She just knew we would enjoy this."

Sharon was right and the Rileys sailed the following year as well. In fact they took a trophy both years. This year the event will be held over the July 4 weekend, Contact Ralph Ridge, race committee chairman, at 313-671-2338, for more information.

Howard has become very active in the new association and now serves on its board of directors. He has worked hard encouraging other clubs to offer doublehanded events. Riley reports that many clubs are now either sponsoring singlehanded and/or doublehanded events or are providing singlehanded and/or doublehanded starts on their race programs. He encourages everyone to check at their favorite ship's chandlery for information about upcoming events. or call him at 824-1967.

LePage, the DSA's new commodore, is never at a loss for words hen talking about one of his favorite subjects. "It was an idea whose time had come," he said. "It was spawned to meet the need of the doublehanded sailor. I know we have a good thing here and it will grow. There are so many really good people who have helped get this thing started tht I am sure this year we will have even greater participation in our sailing events. We will be interested to see how many folks participate in the May 9 Doublehanded regatta. It promises to be a lot of fun, especially seeing as we are having dinner in Belle River at the end of the race. This will be a great way to tune-up yourself and the boat. Come on out and join

More information about the first annual St. Clair Doublehanded Regatta being held May 9, is available by calling Louise or Mike Quinlan at 965-5087.

From the imagination of a few hardy individuals a new organization has sprouted, which seems to be meeting the needs of sailors and filling a void many have felt for some time, if the response the Doublehanded Sailing Association has received is any indica-

Boxing is one of my favorite sports. I was never very good at it myself, but I have enjoyed watching others beat up one another for many years. What I can't understand is why two guys who haven't fought for a combined total of seven years are going to earn millions of dollars - guaranteed.

Sugar Ray Leonard and Marvelous Marvin Hagler will have torn into one another by the time you read this. Probably hundreds of thousands of people will have filed into theaters around the country to watch two men, one who quit fighting five years ago, and the other who hasn't fought in two years, on closed circuit television.

I don't get it. I could understand a bout in which the winner was guaranteed millions and the loser would get a toaster. It would make for a much more lively contest, and I would drop $30 to see it on closed circuit. As it stands now, I'll wait for it to come out on Wide World of Sports in 1989.

A couple of years back I remember one such incident, when a sportswriter told Hulk Hogan that wrestling really wasn't a sport, that the houts were choreographed and wasn't it true that the outcome of the matches was predetermined? Hogan proceeded to give the guy a fat lip, head, eye, teeth and nose. What's a sportswriter to do? McMahons make it back

After injury and illness, the Pointes' premier brother-sister tennis duo seems to be on the comeback trail. Yale University senior Meghan McMahon has returned to her usual dominating force in both Ivy League and national tennis competition after suffering a severe ankle injury in NCAA competition last February. And 11-year-old Cullen McMahon, a Pierce Middle School sixth grader with a 3.6 average, bounced back from forfeiting two important holiday tournaments because of illness to win five of the last seven tournaments he has played in the last two months.

Cullen ranked No. 7 in the nation in USTA standings for returning under 12s;

he is the No. 1 C. MaMahon returning 12 in the Southeast Michigan Tennis Association and the Western Tennis Association. Cullen has been alternating his participation in both 12 and 14 divisions in order to gain experience against hard hitters.

athletics.

'We want to relate sports to a lifetime of setting goals, improving and feeling good about yourself for reaching your goal. We approach the sport in a way that hopefully teaches kids to take on a new situation and work on improving themselves in that situation," Schmidt said.

At the same time, however, ULS also seems to be able to put on a pretty successful team in terms of winning. "Well, we won the MIAC with a 7-1 record, but to be fair, remember that we were sleeted out of three big meets with Detroit Country Day, Green Hills and St. Clements. But we're pretty proud of what we accomplished, yes.'

The girls' squad features. returning lettermen at almost every position, including two returning All-MIAC 400 relay sprinters in Elena Hunt and Jennifer Van De Graaf. At the middle and long distances are Heather Diehl and Diann Imbriaco, school record-holder in the 800 and last year's most improved player. Senior Lydia Alexander, ULS's MVP and conference champion and state qualifier in the 100 hurdles, returns to that event, joined by Sophia Park, All-MIAC at the 100 hurdles and Miriam Mueller, All-MIAC at the 300 hurdles.

Shotputter Laura Rizzo, who is also All-MIAC in discus, and Nora Staebler, All-Conference champ, will take care of the weights. Alexander and Priscilla Webb are ULS's long jump hopes; Alexander and Alexis Collins, who won the All-MIAC spot, are the high hurdlers.

They'll have to be at their best to handle MIAC favorite Bethesda, which includes runners from last fall's state cross country championship team. "Lutheran East and Southfield Christian should be tough, too,' Schmidt said. "But we're looking forward to a really great spring.'

ULS'S BOYS' TEAM will be characterized by speed this season, says head coach Bob Newvine. "We've got some kids who can really go - like 'Mr. Speed' Ti Juan Kidd - and our strengths should be in the sprints and high hurdles. We need to improve a bit in the field, because we always seem to be down in the meets after the field events. But we're looking pretty good so far this spring," Newvine said.

He credited the assistance and enthusiasm of assistant coaches Tom Shields, Josh Schmidt, Ted Whatley and Peter Lutken, and the excellent starts by sprint/relay man Chip Davis and hurdler/sprinter Blasko Ristic, for this year's optimistic spring.

"Chip and Blasko will be two of our key kids. In fact, we may need to move Blasko around to the sprint relays. Right now, though, he's running neck-and-neck with (hurdler) Steve Schmidt and Agu Nwosu, so we'll have depth at hurdles." Other in key spots include Pete Hardy and Schmidt, who will also work the discus and shot; Lars Knudsen, who competes at pole vault, shot and discus; spring relay specialist Dan Shanle; middle distance man Brendan Dundas; and distance runner Paul Brigolin. New faces include Kidd, at sprint relay and long jump, and freshman Michael Barnes, who has looked good at distance running and in the pole vault, according to Newvine.

Others are Derek Van De Graaf, sprints and long jump; and Jonathan Davis, sprints, long jump and relays.

"I think we have a good chance to win the MIAC. We were 7-3 last year and Southfield Christian lost one of its top relay men, so we've got a shot. We'd really like to score a point at the Class C regionals. We didn't get a single point last year and we'd like to change that this season. I think we've got some kids who can do it," Newvine said.

The ULS track teams open their season today, April 9, at 3:30 p.m. against South Lake and Lutheran East.

Lose five pounds by May 3

I challenge you to lose five pounds by Sunday, May 3. If you accept this challenge, fill in the form at the bottom of the column and mail to the address as indicated. You have 24 days from today with a safe weight loss range of 1 to 2 pounds per week.

The starting point is NOW and the finish is The Cottage Hospital Annual Walk/Run on May 3. The course is five killometers, or 3.1 miles. You can run, jog, racewalk or leisurely walk the course, and the event is open to all ages. Medals will be given to runners for first, second and third places, male and female, and for the first six places in the walker category.

Free T-shirts will be given to the first 400 who enter, prerace stretches will be conducted by Vital Options Exercise, and a post-race party can be enjoyed by all. You'll look better five pounds lighter, and you'll feel better. Race applications are available at Cottage Hospital, Vital Options office, and the local libraries.

Begin today

Start practicing today. Make it a family affair. Don't try to do the entire three miles the first day. Gradually build up to that 3.1 goal. The high school tracks are a quarter mile to give you some idea of distance. Try once around and see how you feel. Then stop and do some stretches, particularly calf stretches, holding the stretch for about 20 seconds. If you feel good, try the next quarter mile. You've got three weeks to reach your goal. Go for it!

Diet Tips

1. Take the "die" out of diet. Quit agonizing. Think of your new eating habits as something which will help you look better, feel better and maybe live longer.

2. Plan something to do after dinner besides snacking until bedtime. Go for a brisk walk or jog before eating; it will help your appetite

3. Skipping meals can make you think you "deserve" to eat more when you do eat. Try to eat regular meals at regular

4. Count your calories. 3,500 calories equals one pound. To lose weight women should not eat less than 1,200 calories and men 1,800. It's a simple balance. To lose weight, the calories burned must be more than the calories consumed.

5. Deal with one meal at a time. The next meal you eat, make sure it's healthful. Then, make sure the meal after that is healthful. And so on.

6. Learn to eat like a thin person - eat when you're hungry, and stop eating when your hunger is satisfied.

7. Remember that oil, butter and margarine supply 100 calories per tablespoon.

8. Decide to lose weight because you are a wonderful person, not in order to be one.

An added Incentive

Do you still need an incentive? Those of you who accept this challenge and mail this form to the address listed will have your name put into a drawing for three free months at our Vital Options Exercise Studio. Only those who have lost the five pounds and enter the race will be eligible.

See you on the road. Mail to: Feeling Fit, c/o Grosse Pointe News, 99 Kercheval, Grosse Pointe 48230.

I agree to accept the "Five Pound Challenge." Please send me a race application and place my name in the drawing.

When it comes to your overall wellness, it is vital that you start with an honest evaluation. Only when you have recognized where you are at the present time, can you make the necessary improvements. Until then you will remain stagnant.

This evaluation has been designed to pinpoint your present position in nine areas of wellness. You will be able to assess visually which areas need immediate attention and which require less expediency in action. But the main objective is to make you aware of those areas in your life that you would like to improve.

On a separate piece of paper, rate yourself on each of the questions in each section. Give yourself two points for almost always, one point for sometimes/maybe, and zero points for rarely. Remember to use compassion when determining your rating. Total the points for each section.

Self-care principles

- 1. I take responsibility for my current level of health.
- 2. I honor the love inside me first, so that I am able to share it with others.
- 3. I trust my intuition, and am able to act upon it.
- 4. I know that I am a special person with many talents unique to my life plan.
- 5. I recognize my need for rest and am able to rest without feelings of guilt.
- 6. I trust my decision.
- 7. I enjoy learning life's lessons through my successes and also my failures.

Transformation

- 1. I allow time to experience the presence of a greater force guiding my life.
- 2. I do not feel others must accept my personal beliefs in order to validate my own.
- 3. I have a sense of joy and wonder as I contemplate the universe that surrounds me each day.
- 4. I understand that others may have ideals different from mine, and I am able to appreciate those differences.
- 5. There is a dimension beyond my five senses which cannot be clearly expressed and which often cannot be understood.
- 6. I expect to live a full and abundant life.
- 7. I appreciate the apparent coincidences which happen in my life.

Stress perception

- 1. I am aware of at least five clues which signify stress in the body.
- 2. I regularly take 10 to 15 minutes each day for quiet time to relax, and practice some form of visualization technique.

- 3. I recognize that while I cannot control the thoughts and actions of others, I am the one who can change my perception in a situation.
- 4. I realize that chronic, prolonged stress can set the scene for many degenerative diseases which can do irreparable damage and can actually shorten my life.
- 5. I enjoy taking walks, stretching, moving and using my body daily.
- 6. I participate at least three times a week in a formal exercise program, or I set aside that much time for my own work-out.
- 7. When I feel depressed or anxious, I listen to or read material that helps to remotivate me.

Work/play activity

- 1. The work I do for a living is fulfilling and satisfying to

- 6. I enjoy giving myself little presents or nurturing myself in other ways which work well for me.
- 7. I work and play in an environment that is healthful to my senses, (i.e., fresh air, natural lighting and pleasant surroundings.)

Well-being

- 1. I feel all right allowing my-
- self to cry when I need to. 2. I recognize that anger is a signal to change the circumstances, rather than to pretend I'm not angry or to take it out on others.
- 3. I have a few close friends with whom I can share my feelings and concerns, and seek their counsel when needed.
- 4. I like myself and am able to be compassionate with my shortcomings.
- 5. I am able to express my warmth and love for others. 6. I can say no when I need to,
- without feeling guilt. 7. I love to laugh and find it easy to do so.

Nutrition

- 1. I eat a variety of foods each day which includes vegetables, fruits, whole grains, lean meats, dairy products, nuts and seeds.
- 2. I am aware that when I eat

- foods as an escape or punishment, that I do not necessarily eat because I am physically hungry.
- 3. I avoid consuming large amounts of caffeine, alcohol, tobacco, sugar.
- 4. I eat sitting down to enjoy my meals, and void eating on the run with a sense of being rushed.
- 5. I am able to be compassionate with myself when I get into "junk food" and I do not experience feelings of low self-esteem afterwards.
- I feel exceptionally well and have plenty of energy.
- 7. I read food labels, and decide wisely, on any processed foods I buy.

Thought management

- 1. When I have a negative thought I am able to stop the thought, replacing it with a positive one I choose instead.
- 2. I am a knowledgeable and intelligent person with many things to share with
- those I come in contact with. 3. I am aware that I judge myself harshly when I experience a negative response
- from others. 4. I am aware that when I judge another individual I am revealing that quality in myself.
- 5. I am able to concentrate and focus on the work at hand or a recreation which is relaxing to me.

- 6. I recognize that my thoughts create my personal environment.
- 7. I understand that words like "don't", "try" and "should" are messages which speak my true intentions or feelings.

Communication

- 1. I am aware when I play psychological games with others in order to get what I want from them.
- 2. I am able to express myself clearly with friends and family.
- 3. I listen actively to what others say and do not interrupt them or finish sentences for them.
- 4. I enjoy and look forward to silent times.
- 5. It is okay for me to make mistakes and I am able to admit them and go on learn-
- 6. I am able to assert my feelings and needs, rather than become a victim who feels resentful.

Fun Run, Walk entry forms available

Hard core runners and leisurely walkers should start warming up for the 7th annual Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk, Sunday, May 3, starting gun at 1 p.m.

Entry forms for the 7th annual Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk have been mailed to all 1986 participants. Additional forms are available at Cottage Hospital (Information Window), local libraries, or by calling the hospital's public relations department at 884-8600, ext. 2454.

This year's event is sponsored by The Meade Group and CHAMP (Cottage Hospital Athletic Medicine Program). The Meade Group has sponsored the last three races. The Fun Run & Walk is held to benefit Cottage Hospital and the programs made possible by CHAMP.

The Cottage Hospital Fun Run & Walk is a five kilometer (3.1 mile) course which takes its runstreets of Grosse Pointe Farms. Beginning on Fisher Road, participants run up Grosse Pointe Boulevard to Kerby, down Kerby to Kercheval, back to Fisher and finish just outside the Grosse Pointe South High School (at the parking lot entrance).

The event, held annually since 1981, brought over 400 runners and walkers to the Grosse Pointe area last year. Race participants ranged in age from toddler to sen-

War Memorial offers jazz dancing

Jazz Dancing, taught by Sloan Suhy, begins Thursday, April 16, from 4 to 5:30 p.m. at the War Memorial, 32 Lakeshore Road. New students are invited to register prior to the first class, between 3:30 and 4 p.m.

The class is designed to help develop self-confidence through ners and walkers through the body stretches in combinations set to current music. A sense of rhythm, timing and coordination are encouraged as students get good exercise while learning creative movement.

Students will be grouped according to age, ability and previous gymnastic or dance experi-

Suhy has studied classical ballet, jazz and tap for 10 years and has performed extensively throughout Michigan as well as in Las Vegas and New York.

The class is $32 for a 45-minute session, once a week for eight weeks. For further information, call the War Memorial at 881-7511.

Police Academy 4' bilks the audience

By Michael Chapp Special Writer

The "Police Academy" saga is a perfect example of Hollywood at its greediest. The formula goes something like this: Take an idea that works - even a little bit and run it into the ground. New material for sequels is not a necessity; the only thing that matters is milking an idea and bilking an audience until someone finally says, "Enough al-

Well . . . enough already!

"Police Academy 4: Citizens on Patrol" is the weakest and least funny installment to date in the seemingly neverending string of "Academy" films. We get nothing new from the movie, only warm-

First there's Mahoney (Steve Guttenberg), playing practical jokes on the gullible Harris (G.W.

Indeed, the plot of "Citizens on Patrol" is nothing but an excuse to string together comedy vignettes. All that's all right when the vignettes are new and amusing. But "Academy" looks as if the filmmakers simply took sections of the first three films and tied them together. There's nothing fresh here; and very little to

Still, judging from the long lines at local theaters on the opening weekend, audiences don't mind seeing the filmic equivalent of a rerun. That's too bad, because as long as people keep paying to see stale material, Hollywood will continue to provide just that. It's called eco-

There is real excitement and fast-paced action. Gibson as Riggs is an intense character, ignited with energy, who commands attention with his forceful portrayal of a man on the edge seeking relief from pain through ac tion.

Glover's Murtaugh is the dignified, older cop who would rather not rush into danger, but rises to the occasion when it's necessary to protect the family he loves more than his own life.

Strangely, the two partners who are miles apart in temperment are a great comedy team. They needle each other with wisecracks and it's funny to watch Glover's amazed expressions at some of Gibson's antics.

Most of the violence in the film is perpetrated by Joshua (Garry Bussy) the leader of the goons. The torture he inflicts on Gibson is as cruel and inventive as any shown on film.

"Lethal Weapon" has been a top-grossing movie and much of its success is due to the big-league charisma of Gibson and Glover. Credit should also be given to writer Shane Black who pulled out all the stops when it came to

The Missing LINC

Linking Individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of Metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100 with your donation. KEEP IT MOVING!

LATIN AMERICAN FOR SOCIAL AND ECONOM-IC DEVELOPMENT (La Sed) is searching for a vacuum with a shampoo attachment for a client with a medical condition. La Sed is an information and referral center for those individuals who do not speak English.

REFRIGERATOR sought by Neighborhood Services Organization. Low income family's present refrigerator is marginally operating. Cost of repair is more than buying a new one. Therefore they are looking for a used refrigerator.

SIBLEY HOUSE has a very out-dated kitchen which they are trying to upgrade. Needs include a MICROWAVE, GAS STOVE with range and oven in one piece, and a COMMERCIAL COFFEE POT.

BOOK SHELVES of any type are desperately needed by many of our agencies. These would include wall mounts, or free standing units. 'GROWING ROOTS' PROGRAM - 4th Urban Gardening Program is requesting assistance for obtaining FOOD PRESERVATION SUPPLIES. They conduct classes for individuals of Hamtramck, Highland Park and Detroit to teach CANNING, FREEZING AND DRYING of FOODS. Supplies that would be helpful are pressure canners, water bath canners, large pots, commercial hot pads, hairnets, aprons, and plastic gloves (for food handling).

TYPEWRITER sought by People Community Services for volunteer to type reports to the Federal government. Present typewriter is barely functional and should be put to rest.

WITH FORD CREDIT GETTING THIS...

FROM ALLONG IS.

At AL LONG, we know getting that degree wasn't easy. But when it comes to a new car, we can help with pre-approved credit from Ford Credit. If you are working on an advanced degree or graduating with a Bachelor's Degree between October 1, 1986 and September 30, 1987, you may qualify for this special college graduate purchase program.

If you do, you'll receive a $400 cash allowance from Ford. Make your best deal on any qualifying vehicle and use the money toward your down payment.

or Ford will send you a $400 check after the purchase or lease. The money is yours whether you finance or not.

The amount of your credit depends on which of these qualified vehicles you choose:

Ford cars: Escort, Escort EXP. Tempo, Mustang, Thunderbird, Taurus, Ford trucks: Aerostar, Bronco II.

So hurry. If a vehicle is not in dealer stock you must order by June 1, 1987. and you must take delivery of any vehicle by August 31, 1987.
