There were probably a few smashed thumbs, some tired and aching muscles and a lot of blisters, but nine local volunteers are anxious to get those same ailments here as they did near Boston, where they participated in a volunteer housing construction project for the needy this July.

Eight members of the Grosse Pointe chapter of Focus, a Christian ministry, and its Grosse Pointe director, John Wienshienk, participated in a sevenMass. near Boston.

More than 350 volunteers from Habitat for Humanity, an $35,000. Those families are reinternational organization; Christians for Urban Justice, a Boston-based organization; and Focus, formed three shifts and worked around the clock for the week to build 11 homes.

Wienshienk said the project was a total community effort. Land was donated for the project from the city, and construction companies donated heavy equipment and labor.

$130,000 each. "Each shift had a foreman who instructed us in what to do," Wienshienk said. "Our volunteers hammered, painted and did just about everything on the Grosse Pointers who participated in the volunteer effort were Doug and Elizabeth Sutherland, Beth, Patrick and Nell Mercier, Vicky and Stephanie Morreale and Patricia White.

"I think they did great," Wienshienk said. "It was really neat to watch them work. Many of them had never done anything like that. It is one thing to watch what your labor can do, and another to just give money to welfare.'

Two of the nine local volunteers worked on the morning to 7 a.m.

The group stayed together at the Eastern Nazarene College dormitory near where the project was located. The volunteers bused to work together and spent whatever free time they had together.

Kennel appointed to board

Dorothy Kennel, eight-year veteran of the Grosse Pointe Board of Education, was appointed to the board Monday night to fill the vacancy created by trustee Joan Hanpeter, whose resignation became effective Kennel was first elected to the school board in 1979, and served two consecutive four-year terms. She did not run in the June 1987 school election.

Superintendent John Whritner said Kennel, who was board treasurer, will fill in as a trustee until Hanpeter's term expires in June 1988.

"At this point, with the critical issues of negotiations and the library coming before the public," Whritner said, "I am glad someone with her experience has been appointed to serve for the remaining year."

Faircourt's fairest

Some of the littlest residents of Faircourt in Grosse Pointe Woods were treated to a picnic last Saturday, complete with hot dogs, potato chips, cupcakes and a real live clown. "These little kids have had to play on dirt piles all summer long because the street was being repaved," said Diane Barnard, a neighbor. "They haven't been able to ride their bikes on sidewalks." Because they were such good kids, Bob and Diane Barnard had a picnic for them. Burglary suspect caught

By Peter A. Salinas Staff Writer

Park police arrested a 29-yearold man Monday, Aug. 24, who was walking out of a rear yard of a Barrington Road residence carrying a VCR. Along with the VCR, the man also carried an amazing memory and has supplied officials with detailed infor- was taken, the point of entry mation regarding dozens of and in some cases, even de-

The man, Michael Parks, was arraigned in Hamtramck District Court Tuesday, Aug. 25, and is currently being held in the Wayne County Jail in lieu of $100,000 bond.

"We think this arrest has taken into custody one of the major burglars operating in Grosse Pointe Park and surrounding areas in the last few years," Capt. William Furtaw said.

Break-ins were becoming more and more frequent in the area south of Jefferson in the Barrington, Lakepointe and Pemberton area this summer. In one two-week period in August, some 12 break-ins were reported. As part of an intensified effort to locate the burglar or burglars, Park officers were assigned to special surveillance, and in some cases in the early evening, patrolled areas of the city on 10-speed bicycles. Officer Kenneth Evancho was in an unmarked car on surveillance duty when he decided to patrol on foot. He spotted Parks walking out of a yard, called for back-up officers and closed in for the arrest.

Another suspect was located standing on a sidewalk, near where Parks was arrested. Furtaw said it is believed the man was an accomplice, or perhaps another burglar working the same area.

Police believe Parks is responsible for numerous other breakins, because he has admitted to "We also did all the mantels them. Furtaw said Parks dein the White House. And we dec-scribed many of them in detail, orated the Oval Office exclusione several years ago. He gave break-ins in the Pointes since scribed being chased and the route he used to escape.

"He either committed those crimes, or was given the information by the actual burglar, which is not very likely," Furtaw said.

Though police knew the VCR was stolen, no one had reported the theft and around 9:20 a.m., a Barrington resident called to report the loss. Officials were pleased to tell the resident they had the VCR, and a culprit in custody.

Police also learned of another break-in from Parks that had not been reported. The residents of the dwelling were on vacation and when police checked Parks' story, they found evidence of a burglary.

We now have information that confirms past arrests for possession of stolen property that puts Parks near the scene of other burglaries in other cities," Furtaw said. Though no property, other than the VCR he was carrying, was recovered, police say Parks' memory is both extensive and very clear.

"We have turned over information to the other Pointes and Harper Woods, and we have information that Parks may be responsible for a number of breakins elsewhere," Furtaw said.

City Police Chief Bruce Kennedy said his detectives believe Parks is responsible for at least two break-ins there, and officials are investigating further ties.

Commendations due to the arrest have been requested for several Park officers.

Four break-ins were reported in the Park the week Parks was arrested, and officials have evidence that tie him to all four.

Teachers continue bargaining

Teachers and school officials are meeting every day this week in an effort to agree on a contract before school opens Sept. 9. Both sides say they are optimis-

Last week the board established a date for school opening - although the calendar is a negotiable item. "We felt we had to make a commitment to opening day," Superintendent John Whritner said.

Waiting until after Labor Day to start school was a disappointment to the teachers, who had hoped to start early enough to allow time for a midwints leady child the midwints for the second of the second second of the second the teachers' bargaining team. "We were having trouble agreeing, so they declared an impasse on that issue."

Although some minor issues have been settled, both sides say the progress on major issues has been slow. Still to be hashed out are class size, guidelines for mainstreaming and some economic issues, including health insurance, Whall said.

"It's no secret that this is the critical week," he said. "I hope both sides can remain calm and let the process work for them. I still think there's time, and everybody's rights can be protected.'

Whritner was even more positive: "If I had kids, I'd be out buying their new school clothes."

Teachers were expected to. take a vote on an undisclosed 'important issue" at their general membership meeting tonight (Thursday). Although no one would comment, it is considered possible that they are to decide whether to agree to start school without a contract.

Kids not kicked out

The severely multiply handicapped students living at Cottage Hospital have not been placed elsewhere because Cottage decided to end the program, as was implied in a story in the Grosse Pointe News two weeks ago.

The state has stopped funding the program as of the end of September in an effort to take children out of an institutional setting and place them with families, says Kathleen Maslanka of Cottage. Most of the 23 children have been placed; 10 remain in another wing of the hospital and will eventually be placed.

Cottage is currently remodeling the wing where the students lived for use as a rehabilitation unit for stroke and accident victims.

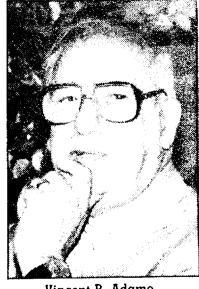

Pointer of Interest Vincent P. Adamo

By Margle Reins Smith Staff Writer

If anybody should stop and smell the roses, Vincent Adamo should. Adamo is co-founder of Conner Park Florist, 21142 Mack Ave., as well as Morang Drive Greenhouses, the Green Scene at Eastland Mall, and Conner Park Florist at 9830 Conner in Detroit. He works surrounded by lush green growing things, bright splashes of color and a mixture of delightful fragrances.

"People think it would be so nice to be working with flowers." said Adamo. "We don't even smell the flowers because we're working with them all the time.'

Two walls of Adamo's office on Conner are crowded with plaques, framed certificates, photographs and awards. There's one from Paula Blanchard, one from the Miss America Pageant committee, several dozen from organizations like the Society of American Florists, the Florists' Transworld Delivery Association, the Michigan State Florists Association and the Allied Florist

Association. Adamo will be particularly busy during the next few weeks because he has been assigned by the Rev. George Charnley of the local Catholic archdiocese to direct floral settings for the pope's visit to Detroit Sept. 18 and 19. He is directing the arrangements for flowers and greenery at Ford Auditorium, Hart Plaza, the Hamtramck site and the airport.

Adamo has had previous experience with important assignments, large-scale arrangements and people in the public eye. One of the biggest jobs he ever undertook was in 1985, when he was general chairman of the FTD convention at Detroit's Cobo Hall. "Floral conventions are big jobs. There are lots of rooms, banquets, meetings; they're all highly decorated with flowers," he said. In 1982 and 1983, while president of the Society of American Florists. Adamo directed Christmas decorations for the White House. "We decorated about 20 Christmas trees," he said. "Also about 60 wreaths for the windows. The wreaths were decorated with pink bows, and were almost entirely finished when Nancy Reagan's interior decorator decided they were the wrong shade of pink. Woods looks at day care

Grosse Pointe Woods city attorney George Catlin has been asked to draft a sample ordinance amendment permitting home day care under some circumstances. The draft amendment will be discussed at the Sept. 22 meeting.

The planning commission originally intended to set a date for a public hearing on the issue, but at the August meeting decided to ask for the draft amendment instead. "If we were going to move toward a public hearing, we ought to have a proposed amendment (for consideration)," said commission Chair Peter Gilezan. "If we weren't going to propose an amendment, we wouldn't have a need for the hearing.'

Preparing a draft is no guarantee that the commission will recommend any changes to the council or that the council will adopt the changes. Catlin was asked to prepare a draft that takes into consideration the letters and comments from residents, Gilezan said.

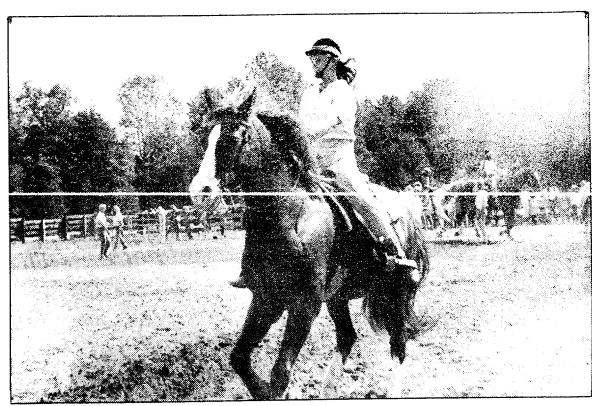

In September, the commission will discuss it - and could propose further changes. Only after planning commissioners are satisfied with the proposal will it face a public hearing.

Name, grade changes mark schools' high ability realignment

By Nancy Parmenter Staff Writer

The high ability classes offered in elementary school will undergo a name change this year in an effort to more clearly reflect the program's philosophy. At the same time, the formal high ability classes in kindergarten and first grade will end.

"It's very difficult to identify (the young students with unusual ability)," said Rosalie Bryk, a high ability teacher at Trombly and Defer and chair of the committee that studied the program this year. "It's like trying to draw a line up to the end of the sky. They change from week to week. There are no tests that are valid and reliable at that age.

The program, newly named the Program for Academic and Creative Education, will serve second- through fifth-graders.

This is the fourth name and format change the program has undergone since it was introduced in 1974. This change actually signals less of a change in philosophy than the previous changes did, according to Alfrieda Frost, director of elementary curriculum.

The Skills Talent program lasted for five years and was based on specific units of interest. Talented and Gifted came along in 1979 and followed a similar format, with the addition of a unit for the exceptionally intellectually gifted, Frost said.

But the Talented and Gifted program served so many students that critics wondered whether it was targeted properly. "Across the country, schools were serving 1 to 5 percent of their students," Frost said. "Ours was more of an enrichment program, serving one-third of the students. The kids liked it, and so did we, but it wasn't truly a gifted program." So emphasis was added on the top few.

But that created a perception of elitism that worried some people. The name was changed to High Ability - with mixed feel-

'The real change was to discontinue the elementary program and make it more selective," Frost said. A curriculum based on children's interests served 10 to 15 percent of stu-

"There was a feeling that we needed to get away from arts and crafts and tie it closer to the curriculum," Frost said.

elitism? Is elitism a bad word?

"My personal bias is that heterogeneous grouping is better," she said. "Students learn more from each other than they do from the instructor. That's also what we experience in the real world. We have to learn to get

"But people with special talents need special opportunities. There are real sound arguments on both sides.'

Frost said the elementary program is a compromise, with students of varying levels mixed together most of the time. The students with special abilities come together twice a week for about an hour and a half.

The main concern is that participating students not allow the special ability label to go to their heads. "We don't want kids to grow up thinking they're better than others," Frost said.

"We want them to grow up knowing that even though they're talented in one area, everybody has their strengths and weaknesses and something to contribute."

One problem is that Grosse Pointe students are so strong. "With our gifted, we're talking who can't get in.'

The schools rely on recommendations from classroom teachers and on demonstrated achievement on standardized tests to select the participants in the special classes. But officials know the criteria aren't infallible.

"You can argue forever about how to measure ability and what

Bryk said an important factor is attitude.

"To be truly gifted, you need above-average ability, commitment and creativity," she said. "It's all in how you look at things. You have to open your mind. Don't ever discount something, because you might be able to use it some other way."

The change from High Ability to PACE will be greatest at the kindergarten level, where there will no longer be any advanced classes. First graders will not have a formal high ability program, but enrichment opportunities will be available to the top 20 percent of the class, starting in the second semester.

"It's a compromise," Bryk said. "We want to have something for these little tykes. This will be a short, quick shot, not as critical to their egos. (Under the old program,) they didn't understand if they got dropped. It wasn't necessarily that they lost ground, but maybe that other kids got stronger (as they ma-

Kastran's eye healing; psychological scars remain

By Peter A. Salinas Staff Writer

His eye is healing and there won't be any permanent damage, but John Kastran said he is leery of driving on the expressways now.

Kastran, principal at North High School, considers himself lucky. He was heading to his Grosse Pointe Woods home with his sister-in-law Aug. 21, when a brick exploded through his windshield as he drove east on I-94 between Conner and East Outer Drive

Kastran, 57, suffered minor cornea damage to his right eye and his sister-in-law Barbara Goulding was cut on her face and arms as the windshield glass burst into the compartment

"It was like an explosion," Kastran said. "I almost hit the wall, but was able to keep the car under control. I looked over and could see my sister-in-law was bleeding about the face and arms. "I have a bad heart, and she was really concerned about Kastran drove to St. John Hospital where both were treated and released.

"The car was repaired and the windshield was replaced," he said. "I didn't miss a day of work. We were really lucky.

The day before Kastran's incident, a Southfield doctor was killed when stones were thrown onto the Lodge Freeway, and the Jeep the man was driving slammed into a barrier. The doctor's wife and daughter were also injured.

"I'm really leery of driving on expressways now," Kastran said. "If I have to go downtown, I use Jefferson or Mack. I'm afraid to drive across town now. I have a daughter who lives on the west side, and I don't think I'm going to drive over to see her anytime

He said the eye was treated, has been re-examined and there was only minor cornea damage.

Normally, Kastran would have been traveling with his wife, but she wanted to drive home from the restaurant where they dined with a relative who had just bought a new car.

"Ĭt's a good thing," Kastran said. "My sister-in-law wears glasses, so her eyes were protected. My wife doesn't wear Adamo also directed the floral arrangements for seven of the inaugural balls for Ronald Reagan. The Republican Party paid for most of the merchandise, but Adamo's crew donated their time, talent and transportation costs.

Adamo is donating his staff and time for the pope's visit, but said the local members of the FTD, Roses Inc., local growers and wholesalers are donating much of the flowers, plants, materials and supplies. The local FTD district is also supporting the effort financially.

The last few weeks Adamo has been poring over scale drawings of the sites he'll decorate, coping with last-minute changes, finetuning details and logistics, ranging transportation, coordinating schedules and assembling itinerary of the pope's schedule the necessary supplies.

As coordinator for the Hamtramck site of the pope's visit, Adamo will be decorating the area with 250 flower arrangements. The 6,000 carnations will be colors chosen especially to blend with the colors of a giant icon of the Madonna and Child which will form the background. Twenty-five FTD florist members will make up the flower arrangechurch on the day before the pope's appearance. The logistics setting the flowers in place is a complicated process, according to Adamo. Security will be tight. A half-million people are expected to gather in Hamtramck. Adamo has to arrange for his supplies, crew, work area, flowers and greenery to be in place long before people begin to gather. He has to anticipate the solutions for hundreds of details: how much work space his crews will need, how long they'll take, where they'll get water, and so on. Transportation will be an important consideration because of security regulations. "The Se--cret Service has to clear every single person who is working on the project," he said.

To prepare for the pope's appearance at Ford Auditorium, Adamo has detailed drawings of the stage, a minute-by-minute

Play bridge

Once again this fall the Department of Community Education of the Grosse Pointe schools will offer a full complement of classes for adults interested in learning, or in brushing up on the intricacies of Contract

Classes are scheduled to begin the week of Sept. 21 at Barnes school, 20090 Morningside Drive. A "Beginners" class will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 22, an opportunity to "Play Bridge" will be afforded from 1 to 3 p.m. on Wednesday, while "Intermediate" sessions have been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday evening and for 1 p.m on Thursday, Sept. 24.

A beginners class is for the novice where the fundamentals of Basic Point, Count Bidding, scoring, and play are stressed. An intermediate class is for players with some knowledge of the game and is ideal for refreshing and brushing up one's game. The "Play Bridge" sessions provide an opportunity to play in a non-competitive basis with assistance given on bidding and play of hands if desired. Fee for each 10-week session is $36.

In addition to the class sessions, this fall the Department of Community Education has scheduled a series of six Friday morning "Bridge Clinics" beginning on Oct. 2 with "Defensive Bids." Topics for each succeeding clinic are "Pre-Emptive Bids" on Oct. 9, "Penalty Double" on Oct. 16, "Slam bidding" on Oct. 23, "Play of the Hand" on Oct. 30, and "Popular Conventions" on Nov. 6. Fee for each clinic is $4.50.

Bridge expert Pauline Bontekoe will instruct all classes and clinics.

For information on space availability, contact the Department of Community Education at 343-2178.

Vincent Adamo stands near some of the awards he has received over the years. Conner Park Florist is one of four floral shops he co-founded in the Detroit and Grosse Pointe area. Adamo is in charge of the floral arrangements for four of the sites that will be visited by Pope John Paul II in September.

and plans for the seating arrangements in the audience. He's been putting the finishing touches on his floral designs, which will be yellow and white - the papal colors. He's planned for 100 grape ivy plants in front of the orchestra pit; green plants to camouflage the TV monitors; lots of greenery with yellow and white mums flanking the stairways on each side of the stage, ments at nearby St. Florian's and two large arrangements on either side of the pope, who will be seated center stage. Adamo of preparing, transporting and estimates he'll use about 1,000 yellow and white roses, 1,000 yellow and white carnations, 300 white Fuji mums, 300 yellow lilies and an additional 400 green and blooming plants. The green room - the backstage room where the pope will wait — will be decorated with a special arrangement of yellow sweetheart roses. Adamo will also design floral decorations for the lobby of the auditorium and the wide stairways leading to the auditorium's balcony and lower level.

At the Hart Plaza site, Adamo said his crew will assist landscape architect Jim Scott in planting 150 mums. At the airport site, Adamo will provide flowers for the passage lounge, the papal room, and the stage where Vice President the pope.

Adamo is also making arrangements for vans and trucks (provided by the Society of St. Vincent De Paul and local FTD retail florists) to pick up all the floral arrangements used for the papal visit. They'll be distributed to local convalescent homes, hospitals and nursing homes. Adamo said about one-third of his staff will be involved in preparations for the pope's visit; the other two-thirds will be minding Adamo has been in the floral business since Nov. 2, 1946. He remembers the exact day. "Nearly 43 years," he said. "I cofounded Conner Park Florist with my cousin, Agnes Loweke." Adamo was president of the corporation until two years ago, when he turned it over to his son, John. Two other sons, Peter and Mark, are in the business, as is his wife, Rosemary, and several cousins. His children often pitch in during holidays and busy seasons.

Adamo's education was as a mechanical engineer at Lawrence Institute of Technology. After serving in the Army during World War II, he went into the floral business because it looked like a challenge. Fortythree years later, the business has expanded to four shops and 60 employees. "The challenge is still here," he said. He said today his flowers come from all over the world. "It's an international market today. We get supplies from South America, Amsterdam, Italy, Africa, as well as local growers and growers in California and Colorado. Technology, growing processes and transportation have improved. No longer, for instance, do we only see mums in the fall."

On the downside of the business, Adamo said, prices are often unpredictable. Because of weather conditions, prices fluctuate like the stock market. Crop failures, unexpected freezing weather in Florida, all sorts of climate variations affect the floral market. "When Florida has freezing weather," he said, 'we all hear about the orange crop. But flowers are affected Adamo's busiest season is Christmas, because the season is so long. Mother's Day and Valentine's Day are also busy times, he said. "Valentine's Day has surpassed Easter in our business now. Also, we have a lot of orders on Secretary's Day and Sweetest Day.'

Queries about library plans need answers

Tow that the Farms council has granted a necessary zoning variance, plans for a Nov. 3 vote on a bond issue of $8.625 million to expand Grosse Pointe's library facilities can pro-

It appears, however, that the board of education, which operates the public libraries in the Pointes, still will not be able to set the date formally until its Sept. 21 meeting. What will be required before that date is the formal approval of the state Department of Education which is not expected until at least Sept. 15.

Earlier the board was required to get approval of the special election from the county; the cooperation of both Grosse Pointe Shores, which lacks a municipal election in November, and of Harper Woods, where city and school board precinct boundaries do not correspond in all instances, and the variance from the Farms, because plans for the new Central Library addition do not meet current zoning requirements in all respects.

With the completion of the formalities, school district voters will be asked to approve the issuance of the bond issue to build a $6,255,000 addition to Central Library in the Farms; a $1,480,000 expansion of the Woods branch, and a $250,000 improvement of the Park branch. The additional $625,000 is accounted for by interest and costs in connection with issuing the bonds.

Voters also will be asked to more than double the current millage rate from 1.3 mills to 3 mills to repay the increased indebtedness and to finance the additional manpower and services to be provided by the central library expansion.

But the school board still will have to provide satisfactory answers to a number of questions before it can expect to win community approval at the Nov. 3 election. Among such questions might be the follow-

1. In its planning for the future usage of the library, has the board of education taken into account the fact the school district's population declined during the decade from 1970 to 1980?

2. If the bond issue is approved, and the library facilities improved, what is the estimate of the years into the future that the three libraries would meet the community's needs?

3. Is the proposed $8.625 million bond issue the lowest amount that can be justified for the expansion and improvement of facilities at all three libraries for this future period?

4. What are the conditions of the bond debt repayment both in the number of years and the tax rate required?

5. Will it really be necessary to more than double the millage rate in order to service the debt and finance expanded services?

There are, we know, sound answers to these and other questions that prospective voters may have in mind. But the point is that the information must be circulated as widely and in as complete a fashion as possible in the two months now remaining before the bond vote.

A bond issue committee, headed by three co-chairpersons from the Friends of the Library board, already has been named and begun planning its campaign with the help of a public relations specialist, J.D. Owens, formerly with Ross Roy. The committee cochairs are Jeffrey Lenz, Mary Krueger and Frank Huster.

Grosse Pointers are strongly supportive of their schools and libraries, as they have shown many times in the past. They also are committed to excellence and have demonstrated that commitment by their willingness to vote tax increases to maintain high standards in public services in the

Yet like voters everywhere, Pointers do not want to buy a pig in a poke. They want to be sure they know the essential facts. And when they have them, including the answers to any questions they have in their minds, they can be counted upon to make the correct decision.

In this case, if the board and the newly appointed bond issue committee do their jobs well, the outcome on Nov. 3 will not be in doubt. The bond issue will be approved, contracts will be let for the start of construction about April 1, 1988, and the library improvements will be completed about August 1989.

Finding old friends in books ulling old books out of one's library is a trying task, even if it serves the interests of the annual book sale sponsored by the Grosse Pointe branch of the American Association of University Women. True, in the personal library under review here, many of the books culled out were of no particular interest to anyone any longer. But others recall old friends, either the authors or characters or both, that bring back memories of other times, places and people.

Like other book lovers, news people buy books and get them as gifts. Who sent "The Tide at Sunrise," a history of the Russo-Japanese War in 1904 and 1905? Nobody knows.

Another dated book, "George Romney, Mormon in Politics," was written by an old friend, Clark Mollenhoff.

Another book that went into the discard was William F. Buckley's 1959 effort, "Up From Liberalism." It was one of the early books setting forth the conservative views of the prolific author, editor and columnist.

One of the books that survived the culling was "Kelsey the Commentator, the Affirmations and Dissents of a Distinguished Columnist." Kelsey wrote an editorial page column for the Detroit News for many years, and the book was a collection of those columns compiled and edited by Orville F. Linck of Wayne State University and published by the Wayne State University Press in 1963.

Linck described Kelsey as a citizen of the world, and he was that as well as a distinguished commentator on local, state and many other matters for a great many years. He often took issue with his own newspaper's editorials, to the discomfiture of the writers and to the delight of the News' critics. And some of his pieces are as timely today as they were then.

For example, his discussions of what democracy is, and isn't, as well as his tributes to the U.S. Constitution are well worth reading this year on its 200th anniversary. His comments on the 150th anniversary on Sept. 17, 1937, are also timely as the Senate faces the confirmation of another nominee to the U.S. Supreme Court.

"Beware of any man who preaches the sanctity of the Constitution. If it is sacred, it is unchangeable; and if it unchangeable, we are being governed by dead men and are ourselves politically dead. The chief threat to the Constitution . . . comes from those who lift their hands in holy horror and their voices in reprobation, when someone proposes to change it in order to make it conform to modern ideas."

Whether one agrees with Kelsey's view or not, it is one of the arguments being circulated today about whether the Supreme Court should interpret the Constitution in strict conformity with the views of the Founding Fathers or in the light of changing times and needs. Kelsey obviously supported the latter argument.

A political maverick himself, Kelsey would have had something to say about today's presidential hopefuls in both parties. In fact, we're sure he has written something that would fit the 1988 presidential race - if we could find it.

Motorists entitled to know ow that the rock-throwing incidents on the freeways have been brought home through the injury of John Kastran, Grosse Pointe North High School principal, it is appropriate to ask whether the public is not entitled to know about each and every one of these incidents.

The question is raised because of the published comments by a Michigan State Police officer and a Wayne State University psychologist that publicity about the rock-throwing incidents would encourage other would-be vandals.

Maj. Jim Daust of the State Police was quoted as having said he had not seen any increase in this type of incident. Daust said these are isolated incidents and then added, "and sometimes the publicity brings on another one."

His reaction was echoed by Dr. Gerald Rosenbaum, professor and director of clinical studies at WSU's psychology department, who said the rock-throwers were just angry pre-teen-agers who were "trying to have an impact," who didn't want to kill anyone and who "just wanted to be noticed." Then he added, in a comment to the

"The publicity is not good. I'm afraid it could be similar to the situation in California." He was referring to the recent wave of shooting incidents on the traffic-clogged Los Angeles freeways and the comments of some officials that publicity had encouraged "copy cats."

The question we pose to both of these gentlemen is whether motorists are not entitled to know about these threats to their lives and automobiles from rock-throwers and drivers firing guns.

We think the public is entitled to know about these incidents so that people can exercise extra caution while driving the freeways. Furthermore, neither Daust nor Rosenbaum has offered any proof that the youngsters throwing the rocks and bricks were encouraged by publicity about previous incidents.

We prefer the observations of Dr. Martin Gold, research scientist with the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, who expressed hope that the recent death in a rock-throwing incident on the Detroit area freeways would make other would be vandals realize how dangerous throwing debris can be.

It is true that fencing overpasses has helped to curtail freeway vandalism in recent years but while all pedestrian bridges over area freeways have been fenced, many street bridges remain to be covered. While this task goes on, we think the public is entitled to know that at least four people have died in recent years, many others have been injured and dozens of cars damaged by debris-throwers on Detroit area freeways.

Keep a cool head

To the Editor:

The issue of providing Grosse Pointe child care in local residential settings should be resolved in a timely, dispassionate manner by our own local government agencies, not by outsiders in the Wayne County courts. The issue essentially involves a realistic look at the ever-increasing need of Grosse Pointe families in the 1980s for safe, controlled, humane, non-institutional care of our young people.

Personally, I can attest to the oustanding quality of Ms. Sheila Temkow's responsible, family-analogous supervision. Hers is representative of the current concept of local, small group, early childhood care rendered with intelligence and flexibility. This is not a commercial business, but a quietly important, seriously needed local asset.

It is time our Grosse Pointe government agencies began to legally recognize state-licensed neighborhood child care on a case by case basis so that reasonable concerns such as the logistics of non-disruptive pick up and delivery of children can be developed in a sound, equitable framework.

Someone once said that the only certainty we have is the inevitability of change; a community of people like ours who rightly take pride in a vigorously attractive residential character, with an excellent school system continually drawing in new families, must be willing to update traditional thinking about community caring so that the protection of all our residents is thoughtfully considered.

Marjorie A. Parsons Grosse Pointe Woods

We need day care

To the Editor:

This letter concerns the child care crisis that is occurring in the City of Grosse Pointe Woods. As you know, there is an ordinance in all of the Grosse Pointes prohibiting businesses in residential areas. Child care, as deemed by the city, is a busi-

The number of two-career families and single mothers, even in our community, is ever increasing. Every week in the Grosse Pointe News there are at least 20 ads of parents looking for babysitters. Good babysitters, whether they are licensed or unlicensed, are in short supply. So what about our day care centers?

In 1984, we organized a Day Care Information and Referral Service. During that time we visited and evaluated over 20 day care centers in Wayne and Macomb County. Some of these centers were good and some bad. However, at that time we decided not to send our child to any day care center for two major reasons: 1) the incidence of infectious illness is extremely high because of the high turnover and the large number of young children, and 2) parents are unable to choose who takes direct care of their child they can pick the center, but the center hires the workers. In this day and age of child abuse, many parents are not willing to take that risk. Therefore, a day care center is not an alternative for us. We chose a home because of See LETTERS, page 9A

Searching for an answer

In the newsroom a while back, we were having a discussion about what it would take for the killing to stop. We were talking in particular about the youth of Detroit, who are dying and suffering injuries by handguns in record numbers. It wasn't one of my better days, because I think I spat out something about how it wouldn't matter how much was written or said, or how many prayers were prayed; the kind of world where killing has become casual is here to stay.

It wasn't a very well-received statement. And looking back, I think I just said it out of frustration, out of a sense of hopelessness. It seems sometimes that there really isn't anything that can be done to stop the killing.

Despite the fact that I'd read about countless kids being wounded or killed in Detroit over the past year, it really didn't hit home until the death in July of TiJuan Kidd. I knew TiJuan, although not very well. I met him last year when he was a University Liggett School freshman football player and I was covering sports.

He was quiet and soft-spoken... until the conversation turned to the upcoming football season. "I love football," he told me, his eyes shining. "I can't wait for the season to start."

I ran into TiJuan a few more times during the school year, exchanging smiles and nods, like I did with most of the athletes I covered. I still see TiJuan's slow smile and I still wince when I drive past ULS these late sumPeggy O'Connor mer mornings and think of how he loved.

But he's not. And it hurts not to understand why he's not.

What hurts even more is that it took the death of someone I seem to care so little about life. seemingly oblivious to the mean-

I heard an interesting story he should be out on the field last week. A woman told me practicing or playing the sport about a friend's experience in a downtown courthouse. The friend watched as a young mother sat in the hot, overcrowded waiting room awaiting the disposition of a case. As her baby cried in his knew to get me really interested little infant carrier seat, the in what is going on in Detroit, mother sang what she apparreally, everywhere these days. ently thought were comforting But I am interested and wonder- words. "I'm gonna beat you up, ing, as so many others are, why I'm gonna beat the pretty, little people, especially young people, baby up," she cooed to her child, ing of her words.

The woman relating this story to me was still shaken, days later. "Don't people care about themselves anymore?" she asked me. "Whatever happened to selfesteem? Will that baby grow up and sing a similar song?" didn't have an answer for her any more than I had one for my young niece last week.

Last week, I took my 9-yearold niece to the Michigan State Fair. That day, the amusement rides at the fair were free. Naturally there was a great response to the offer and hundreds of kids and parents crowded at every ride. And at every ride we waited for 20 to 30 minutes, only to see groups of two or more kids run up and push their way into the line without waiting.

'How can they do that?" my niece asked. I couldn't answer except to shake my head in wonder. An older woman in front of us had an answer. "They just don't care. They don't care about anybody else in this world."

I realize that it's a big step from taking cuts in line to shooting down your neighbors, but I get the idea that the principle is the same. Maybe if kids were taught to care more about themselves and to treat others the way they want to be treated, things would change. But I don't know that it's all that simple. We've spent a lot of time not caring about anything except how to get ahead, make money, satisfy whims.

I picked up my weekend paper to find that a boy I'd gone to school with, a boy who had grown into a generous, kind man with the reputation of going out of his way to help others, had been viciously stabbed to death in his own bed.

And I'm back to wondering aloud if we're simply stuck with the world we've made.

Take your chances

We all do it. We drive a little faster than the speed limit, perhaps change lanes without signaling or ease though a stop sign after almost coming to a complete stop. We do all these things - unless we see. a police car.

One unlucky driver got a surprise Sunday night when he made an improper turn with no patrol car anywhere in sight.

Park Sgt. John Schulte was driving the fireladder truck when a car illegally turned right in front of him.

Schulte turned the truck around, pulled the driver over and issued an improper turn

Officials were smiling over the incident, saying that the Park's move to public safety made such tickets possible.

Learn to make books and prints

Among the new-for-fall adult offerings in arts and crafts classes scheduled by the Department of Community Education of the Grosse Pointe Public School System are "Bookmaking" and "Printmaking: An Introduction." Both will be taught by Ursula Moustardas.

"Bookmaking," an eight-week class which starts on Monday, Sept. 21, provides students an opportunity to put together their own stories, drawings or paintings in a wonderful, handmade book by learning the art of accordion-bookbinding. List of supplies (about $20) available in class. Fee is $28.

"Printmaking: An Introduction," a 10-week class starting on Thursday, Sept. 24, offers students the opportunity to become acquainted with art of printmaking by exploring the creative possibilities of linoleum-cuts, both black and white and color. List of supplies (about $35) available at the first session. Fee is $43.75.

Moustardas, an artist and adjunct professor of art at Wayne State University, is a native of Germany who holds her MFA degree from Wayne State Uni-the other day from Cathy Schmidt, who heads up University Liggett School's public relations department. Note the name of Schmidt's employer, which has been spelled out so carefully, and above all, properly. Schmidt's press release thanks the media for its efforts over the years, but wanted to remind us of the proper name of the school.

It is University Liggett School or ULS - that's it, nothing else will do.

She noted the school's name is not The University Liggett School, Liggett, U.L.S., University-Liggett School, The Liggett School, The University School or University School.

As a person who has spent some time in and around Grosse Pointe, I am surpised Cathy didn't include one of the names that ULS is frequently called, Gupus. Grosse Pointe University School was its name until it merged with The Liggett School, to form the name of ULS. Cathy noted in her press released that Detroit University School alumni (one of the names of the school before it became Gupus, - are you still following?) get a mite testy when they see ULS football players referred to as Liggett athletes. The Liggett School was always a school for young Ladies only and never, to anyone's knowledge, graduated a single football player.

If you'd like a judicious shrimp curry or an informative baked fish recipe, you're in luck, because they are two of the 100 recipes featured in the Easter Seals Celebrity Cookbook.

One of the Easter Seal Society of Wayne County directors, Edward Deeb, of the Shores, said the idea was a unique fundraising program to generate funds to help disabled children and adults.

Among the many government, business and media personalities are a number of Grosse Pointers. Former Governer and state Supreme Court Chief Justice G. Mennen Williams submitted his recipe for shrimp curry, and Woods resident Joe Weaver, newsman for WJBK-TV Channel 2, offered his baked fish recipe, La Poisson D'Angela, named after his wife.

Deeb, chairman of the Michigan Food and Beverage Council, offered a Syrian-Lebanese appetizer or salad called tabouleh. WDIV weathercaster Mal Sillars of the City offered his patio salad, and WDIV news anchor and Farms resident Mort Crim contributed a ham and asparagus roll au gratin.

Some of the national celebrities who contributed recipes are Bob Hope, former President Jimmy Carter, Willard Scott, Connie Chung, Dr. Benjamin Spock and Lee Iacocca.

The cookbooks can be purchased through the Wayne County Easter Seals office, phone 722-3055. Price is $12.95 with special rates for quantity purchases.

Oh, by the way, former Grosse Pointer Tom Selleck also submitted a recipe. The star of the television show Magnum P.I. submitted a recipe for chicken and wine with vegetable.

the family atmosphere, the close relationship with the caregiver, and our ability to get to know the other children and their parents.

If the Grosse Pointe Woods ordinance continues to be enforced as written, our babysitter will be forced to stop caring for children. We will be forced to find another woman in Grosse Pointe Woods to babysit. This will not be easy on our child or the other children because of their close attachment to our babysitter. But wherever we go, what assurance do we have that this will not happen again? This "problem' will not go away. There are babysitters and family day care homes on almost every street in Grosse Pointe Woods. Which one will be shut down next?

We truly hope the Planning Commission and the City Council will amend the ordinance to legalize child care. If an amendment could be made to the ordinance that permits child care within the strict guidelines of the Department of Social Services, our children could be cared for without disrupting the neighborhoods. We don't believe in unrestricted child care or commercial businesses in residential areas. However, child care should be allowed to continue in Grosse Pointe within guidelines established to protect the neighbors, the babysitters, the children and the parents. The ordinance could be altered to allow licensed and unlicensed child care in residential areas under specific criteria such as:

1) compliance with the Department of Social Service regulations for family day homes (which allows one to seven children and many other specific guidelines),

2) restriction of children to the babysitter's and public property,

3) restriction of noise, 4) restriction of traffic to not interfere with neighbors daily activities.

We are confident that accommodations can be made that will allow the proper care of our children to con-

Rethink daycare

To the Editor:

As a Farms resident and irritated over the looks of Mack Avenue in our city, in contrast I used to marvel at the Woods beautification effort and the outstanding job that has been done in their city. But now, I'm glad not to be a Woods resident.

The old saying that "beauty is only skin deep" has hit home. For driving along the beautifully landscaped main streets in the Woods, one might assume that this is a city of peace and contentment - the flowers, a symbol of tranquility.

But I've come to the realization that Grosse Pointe Woods is much more concerned with its looks than with the real needs of its con munity. For when the Woods made Sheila Temkow quit babysitting for seven children just because of a traffic complaint, it sent a statement to all of its residents that it is against "quality" day care for working moms in its city.

Instead of fully investigating whether the few excess cars were really an intolerable situation, or whether the complaint itself was absurd, the city took what appeared to be the easy way out. The Woods has taken away the rights of one of its residents, and the excellent service (not business) that she provided for working moms. The fight for what is right has begun.

If a daycare home (of seven or less children) is considered by Grosse Pointe Woods as a business and since there is a city ordinance against having a business in a home, then as I see it, the planning commission and/or city council have two alternatives to this problem (the first being my choice):

1.) Exempt daycare homes from the zoning ordinance,

Section 5-4-1 with an amendment to this ordinance. Then, if need be, a limit to the number of such homes could be set. I believe the initial intent of the ordinance was to protect residents from unreasonable traffic, noise, signs, equipment, etc. and I agree with that. But a daycare home does not fall into this category.

2,) When Sheila Temkow received a cease and desist order to stop her day care, then all businesses run from homes in Grosse Pointe Woods should get the exact same order immediately: piano teachers, tutors, Tupperware salesladies, beauticians, make-up consultants, seamstresses and the list goes on and on. And wouldn't that be a shame? And yet, what is fair for one is fair for all. Otherwise. Grosse Pointe Woods is discriminating against only one out of many businesses.

This is the '80s, not the '50s, and out of necessity, a good majority of moms with young children work. And although there are a few other choices in day care, I, for one, chose the best -Sheila Temkow - as my daughter's babysitter because of the loving quality care my daughter receives and because she has a small group of children her age to play with.

A home which provides babysitting is undistinguishable from a home which merely has a large family or perhaps teenagers who drive or a family active in school activities with meetings at

Aside from the Grosse Pointe Woods beautification effort, they've got a long way to go before I'm convinced that it is the city that it "appears" to be. Surely the Woods can have a happy mix of flowers, residents from all walks of life, and a few daycare homes scattered throughout its city.

Foreign language classes offered this fall

In cooperation with the University of Detroit, foreign language classes in French, German and Japanese will be offered at the War Memorial beginning Tuesday, Sept. 22. A free demonstration of the drill session methods and textbooks, using the Dartmouth-Rassias technique, will be held at the Center on Thursday, Sept. 17 at 7:30 p.m.

This program of foreign language instruction was first introduced at New Hampshire's Dartmouth College by John A. Rassias, former consultant to the Peace Corps and a member of President Jimmy Carter's Commission on Foreign Languages and Information Studies. It is an intensive, vigorous technique that utilizes carefully trained instructors (Master Teachers and Drill Instructors).

A rapid-fire dialogue between student and instructor is employed, enabling a response rate reaching 100 times per hour per student in controlled groups. Students develop spontaneity of expression and creative use of the language. This method of teaching eliminates the learner's natural self-consciousness and inhibitions, common among adults.

The method is ideal for professionals who plan to work or travel abroad and their families. One year of college level study condensed into a much shorter session with emphasis on the spoken language, comprehension, reading and writing. The course also offers an extensive cultural orientation and minimizes the customary dependence upon excessive homework.

The classes are introductory level and are recommended for students with some knowledge of the language. Pre-program, mid-program and post-program evaluation of results, utilizing Foreign Service Institute criteria (U.S. State Department) will be given.

Classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays, Sept. 22 to Dec. 15 (omit Nov. 26), 6 to 9 p.m. Students may register in advance or from 5 to 6 p.m., prior to the first class. Class fee is $375 for 24 sessions, plus $15 to $32 for textbooks (checks payable to University of Detroit).

Her sister, Vicky Morreale, who is also a junior volunteer with Casa Maria, is one of the group leaders of the local Focus chapter.

"I would like to see a Habitat program done locally," Vicky Morreale said. "It was a great experience to go out and do something on our own like this. It was great to learn how other people live outside of Grosse Pointe."

Elizabeth Sutherland, 20, a junior at University of Michigan, said it was a fabulous experi-

"We had the night shift," she said. "It is really neat to see people get together to do something like this.'

She said she learned a lot about people, and what was possible when people put their minds and bodies together in a single effort.

"We did everything. We put up walls, insulated, painted or whatever we felt we could handle."

Though she couldn't go out tomorrow and build a house or put on an addition, she does know how to use power tools and how to measure things.

"A lot of us went in and didn't know anything about construction or carpentry," Sutherlandsaid. "People were very willing to take the time to show you how to do something. I'd love to do it again."

Part of the requirements in getting one of these houses was that the recipients had to help with the house's construction. Sutherland said she worked alongside the people who were getting one of the houses, and it was a good feeling to see them work with all the volunteers. Wienshienk said that Focus is in the process of looking into the possibility of a similar project in this area, perhaps in Detroit.

In the meantime, he is exploring the possibility of sending his group to do a similar project in a foreign country. Several of the participants have said they would be interested.

Pre-school kids should learn how to learn

As a record number of American 4-year-olds head off to school this fall, the National Association for the Education of Young Children is advising against placing too heavy an emphasis on academic instruction in preschools.

"This year, for the first time, approximately half of the country's 4-year-olds will be enrolled in pre-school - that's a jump from 43 percent who were enrolled just four years ago," says Dr. David Elkind, NAEYC president. "Pre-school can be a wonderfully enriching experience when the program is specifically geared to this age group. Unfortunately, an increasing number of little children are being taught as though they were in first or second grade, and that is totally inappropriate."

During the pre-school years, he notes, teachers should focus on helping children learn how to learn - how to pay attention, how to follow instructions, how to get along with other children.

'At this age, children lack the social and mental development needed to profit from formal academic instruction. A heavy emphasis on it frustrates the child and weakens his curiosity and natural excitement for learning. Moreover, it consumes valuable hours when a child should be learning the skills that will permit him to be successful at home, at school, and with friends," Elkind says.

Elkind gives these examples of teaching practices which are appropriate for pre-schoolers and which parents should look for in selecting an early childhood program, whether pre-school, nursery school or kindergarten:

Lifeline Counseling Center will again present its 15-week crisis counseling course. This is a series designed for those who want to effectively communicate their skills either on the phones as a counselor or in their everyday lives.

The classes meet at Ebenezer Baptist Church, 21001 Moross at I-94, and are held in conjunction with William Tyndale College. They meet Tuesdays, Sept. 8 through Dec. 15, from 7 to 9

Instruction will focus on answers to problems arising from substance abuse, child and spouse abuse, self-image, youth counseling, rape, emotional disturbances, grief and bereavement, suicide prevention, marriage counseling, Biblical counseling and others. These classes are conducted by specialists such as psychiatrists, psychologists, certified social workers, pastors and counselors.

als. "At this age, children learn structional time. best by hands-on activities," Elkind says. "They will more quickly learn about 'three', for instance, by handing out three cupcakes to friends than by coloring in three balloons on a ditto sheet.'

When the teacher talks mostly to children individually rather than to the class as a whole.

When children are allowed to select their activities from a variety of areas - blocks, music, art, puzzles - rather than when the teacher initiates and directs all classroom activity.

When vigorous outdoor activity is recognized as a valuable part of the child's learning experience, rather than as worthless play that interferes with in-

When children have ample opportunity to interact with other children in ways that help them learn to co-operate, negotiate, help, and solve problems rather than when they spend most of their time working individually at desks or tables.

Parents may obtain more detailed information on what to look for in a pre-school by requesting NAEYC's free brochure, "Good Teaching Practices for 4- and 5-Year-Olds." Interested parents can write the NAEYC at 1834 Connecticut Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20009, and enclose a business sized self-addressed, stamped envelope.

South class schedule

Grosse Pointe South High School will use a special bell schedule for the first five student attendance days of this school year.

The special bell schedule is designed to permit freshmen to attend the freshman seminar, during which they will be given a comprehensive orientation program.

The freshman seminar will begin at 8:15 a.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 9, and conclude at 8:58 a.m. First period class will begin at 9:04 a.m. for all students. All classes will meet for 40 minutes each during the first five student attendance days.

The special bell schedule will continue through Tuesday, Sept. 15. On Wednesday, Sept. 16, first period class will begin at 8: 15 a.m. and all classes will meet for 47 minutes.

Upperclassmen may meet with counselors or teachers or work in learning centers such as the library or computer centers during the freshman seminar period.

Children win magazine awards

Four local children have won five awards in contests from Cricket Magazine. Four of them were winners in a competition to write a poem about a giant farmer.

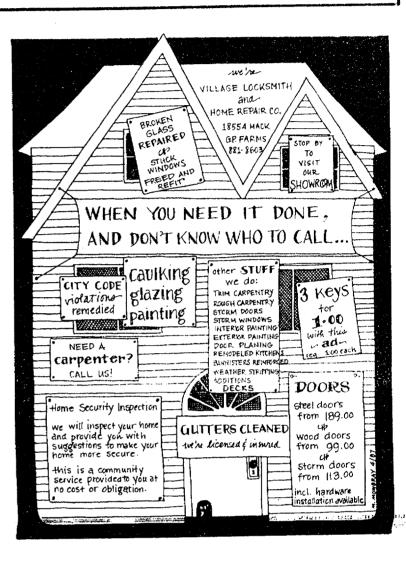

Bridget Ziegenhagen, 11, of Harper Woods, won first prize in the contest. Her poem, "Paul," appears in the September issue of the magazine. Nina Misuraca, 12, of Grosse Pointe Woods won second prize in the same competition. Her poem, about a mythical farmer named Clay, will also appear.

Kristine Kaiser, 11, and Ken Priebe, 12, both of the Woods, won honorable mentions. Priebe also won an honorable mention for a drawing of his ideal vacation spot.

Award winner

Reba N. Uthappa, Grosse Pointe South High School junior, was awarded the Princeton Book Award. The award is given to only 10 outstanding juniors in the state by the Princeton Club of Michigan. Congratulating her are South assistant principals Russell P. Luttinen, left, and Bernard W. LeMieux.

Before Ollie

Ed Barbiere, 15, of Crosse Pointe Woods, ponders the possibility of getting an "Ollie" haircut at Woods Men's Styling on Mack. The barber shop advertised Ollie haircuts when Oliver North's popularity was at its peak during July's congressional hearings.

During Ollie

Barber Gasper Landa delivers the advertised product with a flash and snip of scissors. Barbiere looks doubtful.

After Ollie

Barbiere admires his Ollie haircut in the mirror. His reaction: "Wow." Will the real Oliver North please stand up?

Proposed library project is now in the voters' hands

By Peter A. Salinas Staff Writer

An average homeowner with a $100,000 home and an S.E.V. of $50,000 would pay an estimated $85 more a year in taxes if a one-mill increase for library operations and a proposed $8 million library expansion project is approved by voters this Novem-

Board of Education officials and school administrators have been working to get the project off the ground, and now have a public relations job before them to get voters to approve the millage and bond issue requests.

Major barriers were dismantled last month when the Farms city council approved two separate variances for parking and street setback, paying the way for a major renovation and addition to the school district's Central Library at Kercheval and Fisher roads.

The expansion of Central Library has been drawing the most attention, since $6.26 million of the proposed $8.625 million bond issue will be spent there.

Plans are to construct an 8,000-square-foot addition to the 18,000-square-foot Marcel Breuer-designed building. Also a 10,000-square-foot basement would be added to the building, making the total Central Library square footage 36,000 square feet.

The $6.26 million will include construction costs, site work, furniture, equipment, electronics and architectural fees.

Osler Milling Architects Inc. of Ann Arbor has been contracted to handle the design work of construction and renovation at all three libraries. Architectual costs for all three projects combined are estimated at $495,000. The project was accepted on a contingency basis. The school district, however, has committed itself to paying the firm 15 percent of the total costs, about $74,000, regardless of the proposal's outcome.

Expansion and renovation of the Woods Public Library, located at Parcells School, will consume about $1.48 million if approved. Plans are to construct a 6.200-square-foot addition to the existing 4,900-square-foot building. Costs would include construction, furniture and site and parking preparation.

Charles Hanson, library director, said plans for the Woods library have not yet been decided.

"We still have to meet with the Woods planning commission and city council," Hanson said. "We will build around the existing facility on three sides."

David Osler, of the architectual firm, said the plan at the Woods library is to give the facility its own identity.

"We want people to look at the building and say there is the library," Osler said, "not just look at it and say there is a school, and I think there is a library there, too.'

The smallest of the three projects will be at the Park Public Library located at Pierce School. Some $250,000 would be spent there to convert one and a half brary. Renovation would also take place in the existing facil-

Bond costs are responsible for $625,000 of the $8.625 million bond issue request. Those costs would include payments to the rating agency, bond counsel, capitalized interest, discount on bonds, advertising, payment to the school bond loan fund and printing.

Christian Fenton, the district's business manager, said the board of education has requested one additional mill for library operations. The district currently collects 1.3 mills for library operations. A home with a $50,000 S.E.V. currently pays about $65 for those 1.3 mills, and the additional mill would cost $50 more.

Fenton estimates that given that same $50,000 S.E.V., an additional .7 mills for debt retirement on a 20-year bond issue would cost a taxpayer about $35

"We are looking at a four-year time period for the one additional mill for operations," Fen- windows, and a double door exit.

classrooms into part of the li- ton said. "The board could decide to roll back that mill at any time if the need for it wasn't there."

> He added that the district has no way of knowing for sure what the interest rate will be on the bonds, but the current estimate is somewhere between 7.3 and 7.5 percent.

The election on the millage and bond issue questions will be Monday, Nov. 3, giving supporters of the library projects about 60 days to explain their point of view to fellow taxpayers.

One point of contention has already been raised, albeit a fairly minor one.

Farms Councilman John Crowley noted a concern at an Aug. 17 meeting. The Farms voted 5 to 2 that night to approve a variance on the city's setback requirement for the proposed facility which will face Fisher Road. Crowley said he had strong reservations about the facade of the proposed addition on the Fisher Road side. That facade will have only two

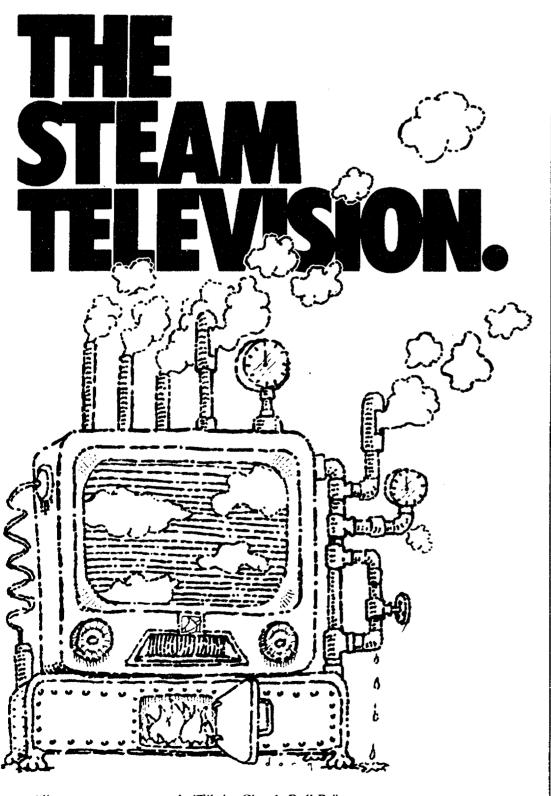

Crowley strongly requested that more consideration be given to the design of that facade, to make it more aesthetically pleas-

Hanson said he feels that that particular facade will enhance the attractiveness of the area, but stressed that the current drawings and plans are only preliminary, and that the working drawings won't be completed until after voters have approved the plan.

Osler echoed those sentiments, but said that if the current design is undesireable, it could be changed, depending on what the board of education wants.

"We are going to do the best building we possibly can," Osler said. "His (Crowley's) is a serious question, and one that we will take seriously. We will make every attempt to please

One of the reasons for the limited window space, Osler said, was to cut down on the amount of bright light that would shine over to the residential district across Fisher Road.

Grads

Ten students recently entered the healthcare field by graduating from the Grosse Pointe schools Medical Aide Co-Op program. The two-and-a-half week session is offered on the nursing center campuses of Cottage-Belmont in Harper Woods and Cottage-Rose Villa in Roseville. Students participating in this year's program are Keri Johnston, Cindy Kotsonis, Kim Stema, Bessie Burgoyne, Stacy Perkins, Ginger Deacon, Alexis Magnotta, Rohit Krishna, Stephanie Macey and John Wack. The program gave the students the opportunity to practice preliminary training in a healthcare setting.

Travelers to Marshall for the city's historic home tour Sept. 12-13 will be able to take the train this year. The Bluewater Michigan Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society has arranged for Amtrak trains to stop in Marshall at 10 a.m. for a full day's walking tour before 6:30 p.m. departure.

The trains won't be old, but they will run as part of the state's sesquicentennial celebra-

The Marshall home tour includes seven historic houses built in the mid-19th century. Museums and other festivities will also be open.

Roundtrip fares from Detroit are $49 for adults and $28 for children. For departure times from Detroit, Dearborn and Ann Arbor and for tickets, call 455-4455, 272-5848, or 264-4418. Tickets for this special excursion are available only through the Bluewater Chapter.

Man held up at knifepoint

A 40-year-old Park resident was held up at knifepoint near Mack and Balfour Tuesday, Aug. 25, and robbed of his wallet and $6, according to Park officials.

Officials said the suspect was a black male, about 25 to 30 years of age, 5 feet, 1 inch, and 120 pounds with close cropped hair.

Storytellers to spin their tales here

Storytelling as an art predates the invention of the wheel. People have never outgrown the need for stories, but today the form is predominately intricate and mechanized. Now, stories are frozen, like much of our food. We still need stories, but we look for them on film, video or the printed page.

Storytelling survived civilization and contributed to it, continuing as a family entertainment through the 19th century.

In the 20th century, these voices from our past began to fade away as the volume of the radio was turned up.

Cecil B. DeMille told stories using casts of thousands and the lone storyteller rode off into the sunset. Or so it seemed.

Storytelling, no artificial additives, was kept alive, but was sent to the nursery, the sole domain of kindergarten teachers and children's librarians.

The, 11 years ago, two young librarians from North Carolina, who were cousins, left the security of regular pay and benefits, bought a pick-up truck and hit the road as "The Folktellers."

They were Barbara Freeman and Connie Regan-Blake. And it was the beginning of what many call the American storytelling renaissance.

"We felt that there were two people doing it full time - that was me and Connie . . . we had no role models so we just invented the job," Freeman said.

Now they fly to their engagements. They've performed in 40 states and 12 countries, taken awards at major festivals and produced three notable records, "White Horses and Whippoorwills," "Chillers" and "Tales to Grow On.'

They perform alone on an empty stage without a light show, props or scenery. Large audiences are amazed by the sense of closeness, warmth and intimacy that The Folktellers establish in every performance.

Addressing this special magic, Regan-Blake says, "Storytelling is a real link to our past. To say our ancestors told stories is one thing, but to really know and feel that it was an integral part of all our lives is another. When I'm doing it and the story is just right and the listener is just right and the moment is just right, there is very much a sense of timelessness.'

The Folktellers will arrive in Grosse Pointe Monday, Sept. 14, to perform for students at Poupard School in the afternoon. Tuesday morning and afternoon they will perform at Pierce Middle School Auditorium for the students of Defer and Trombly. At 7 Tuesday evening, Sept. 15, they will perform at Parcells Middle School Auditorium for adults and students of all ages.

The Folktellers are being brought to Grosse Pointe through the Friends of the Grosse Pointe Public Library, a division of the Grosse Pointe Public School System. For further information, contact Helen Gregory at 343-2074.

CITY OF Grosse Hointe Farms Michigan NOTICE OF HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT the Zoning Board of Appeals will meet in City Hall, 90 Kerby Road, Grosse Pointe Farms, Michigan on

at 7:30 p.m. to hear the following:

a. The appeal of Mr. & Mrs. E.L. Wise, owner of the premises located at 59 Mapleton, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for a dormer addition to the rear of his existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that the residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the front, side and rear yard provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance

The appeal of David Jones, owner of the premise located at 37 Beverly Road, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for the construction of an addition to the rear of his existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that:

1. The residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the front and side yard provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

2. The proposed addition on the rear would further infringe upon the minimum side yard requirements of 15 feet, leaving a side yard of 10.8 feet thereby requiring a variance from the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

c. The appeal of Barb and Lee Thomas, owners of the premises located at 102 Handy Road, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for the enclosure of an existing porch at the front of his existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that the residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the setback provisions of Article II, Sec. 200, Item 51 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-a of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

d. The appeal of Mr. Robert Zeff, owner of the premises located at 388 Provencal, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for the construction of an accessory structure in the side yard of his property located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that Section 1503, Item 2 of the City's Zoning Ordinance prohibits the erection of an accessory building in a front or side yard, thereby requiring a variance from such provision to permit said construction in the side yard.

e. The appeal of Mr. Richard Landuyt, owner of the premises located at 466 Calvin, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for an addition to the rear of his existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that the residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the side yard provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

f. The appeal of Dr. William Fulgenzi, owner of the premises located at 1 Provencal Road, from the provisions of the Zoning Ordinance requiring that paved drives placed in required front open space shall not exceed 30% in coverage of the required front yard. Provision of such a drive as shown on the submitted plot plan results in a front yard coverage of 50% thereby requiring that a variance be granted from Section 1400, Item 6 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

The appeal of Mr. & Mrs. John Danaher, owners of the premises located at 34 Moross Road, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for an addition to their existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that:

1. The residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the side and rear yard provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

2. The proposed addition would further infringe upon the minimum side yard requirements of 15 feet, leaving a side yard of 2.8 feet, thereby requiring a variance from the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

3. The proposed addition would further infringe upon the minimum rear yard requirements of 40 feet, leaving a side yard of 21.25 feet, thereby requiring a variance from the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

h. The appeal of Mr. & Mrs. Sid Girardin, owners of the premises located at 425 Hillcrest, from the denial of the Building Department ot issue a Building Permit for the construction of a porch and vestibule to the front of their existing dwelling located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that:

1. The residence located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the front and side yard provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance, and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

2. The proposed addition would further infringe upon the minimum front yard requirements of 25 feet, leaving a front yard of 14 feet thereby requiring a variance from the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

3. The proposed addition would also infringe upon the minimum side yard requirement of a total of both side yards of 14 feet, leaving side yards of 7.8 feet and 3.1 feet, thereby requiring a variance from the provisions of Article XIII, Section 1300 of the City's Zoning Ordinance.

The appeal of Mr. Mazon Khalidi, owner of the premises located at 483 Chalfonte, from the denial of the Building Department to issue a Building Permit for an addition to his existing garage located at the foregoing address. Such permit issuance was denied for reason that the garage located on the foregoing premises is non-conforming for reason that it is in violation of the side yard provisions of Section 1503, Item 3 of the City's Zoning Ordinance and in accordance with the provisions of Article XV, Section 1502, Item 4-A of the City's Zoning Ordinance, no such structure may be enlarged or structurally altered unless a variance is granted.

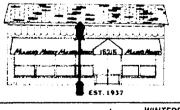

The Hearings will be public. Interested property owners or residents of the City are invited to attend.

If it is possible to create life in a test tube, why then can't scientists make it possible to extend that life to the limit of human life span which, according to some experts, is around 110 years?

Scientists are working on it. Each day they learn more about changes in the human body as it ages. But why these changes occur is still a mystery. Most scientists believe that aging is a complex process involving many body systems.

However, they still keep working towards extending the human life span. Joseph Meites, a neuroendocrinologist at Michigan State University, believes that a human growth hormone, gerentech, used in treating children with growing deficiencies, may be effective in increasing immune function and protein synthesis in older people.

It is widely believed that the shriveling of the thymus gland in adulthood which produces the body's disease fighting T-cells is a natural part of aging.

Keith Kelley, professor of immunophysiology at the University of Illinois in Urbana, contends this is not true. He says, "There is nothing wrong with the old thymus that can't be reversed. That body has that kind of potential.'

In another recent study, growth hormone restored the body's ability to synthesize new protein. Protein is essential to maintain tissue structure and function throughout life. But the rate of protein synthesis slows

ALS to meet

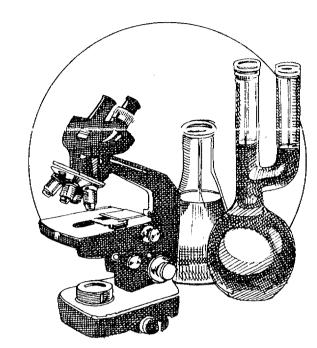

Dr. Donald Molder of the Mayo Clinic will speak on "ALS - How Shall We Obtain Specific Therapy" at Ford Hospital next cure. The meeting will be held foods. on Saturday, Sept. 12, 11 a.m. at Henry Ford Hospital, Room 2055, E & R Building, 2799 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit. For more information, call 876-7046.

down with age.

There are other theories about why aging and death occur. One suggests that aging is due to a built-in genetic program. Just as early growth and development follow a set timetable, so do maturity, aging and death. In other damage would cause cells, then body tissues and organs, to break down or die.

Supplements containing DNA which are being sold to slow aging, cure senility and treat skin and hair changes are useless because the body cannot absorb words, each individual — barring disease and accident - has his or her clock ticking away until it finally runs down.

Another theory assumes that aging is caused by damage that occurs in various body systems throughout life. Harmful substances that we breathe and eat, natural processes within the body, can shorten life.

This damage theory has opened the way for treatments that scientists do not endorse, such as the theory that aging is caused by free radicals. These chemicals are produced naturally in animals that use oxygen. They bounce around inside body cells, often damaging their membranes and vital proteins and fats within them.

To protect itself, the body uses antioxidants, compounds which block much of this free radical damage.

Based on this theory, some people suggest that you can extend your life by taking large amounts of antioxidant suppleweek. ALS (amyotrophic lateral ments. There is no evidence that sclerosis) is commonly known as this will work. The body's needs Lou Gehrig's disease. Its cause for antioxidants can be met by in unknown and there in no eating a variety of nutritious

Another theory says that aging results from a slow build-up of damage to the DNA in body cells. DNA directs the machinery of every cell. Eventually, DNA

It may turn out that drugs are not the only way to go to restore the decrements of old age. The immune system, which is the body's weapon for fighting disease, becomes less effective as people grow older. This opens the way for viruses, bacteria and other disease-producing organisms. As the immune system ages, it also tends to lose the ability to tell the difference between the body's own tissues and foreign substances. As a result, cells of the immune system that once would attack invading organisms attack the body itself, producing diseases.

A way to extend life by delaying aging changes in the immune system was proposed recently. The technique involves reducing the amount of food eaten so that a large percentage of body weight is lost over a period of years.

Scientists are studying all of these aging theories, but even if they discover which one is correct, there is no guarantee that a way to extend life will result.

Population figures show that ev have had some success hecause people are living longer, but whether there is a set point beyond which years cannot be added is not known.

All things in life are a gamble, even its length.

"Seminar for Seniors," now in its 10th year, begins a four-session "Sampler" series on Friday, Oct. 2. "Body Recall," an introductory session on a new approach to physical fitness, will be conducted by Sue Smith.

"Birds & Other Wildlife in Michigan and Windsor," a comprehensive illustrated lecture on nature in the Detroit metropolitan area, will be presented by Betty and Al Simek on Oct. 9.

"Introduction to Art 'History" will give senior citizens an opportunity to understand the underlying principles of great art. It will be presented by June Nelson, an authority in the field, on "Resources & Techniques for Caregiving for the Elderly" will assist in learning how to cope effectively in the home. Marlys Craig is the instructor for the Oct. 23 class.

In addition to the four free "Sampler" Seminar for Seniors classes, others are available at a 25 percent reduction in fee, except for co-sponsored activities. Of possible interest are: "55/ Alive Mature Driving," taught by Robert Trinklein, is designed to improve the driving skills and prevent accidents. This course is recognized by all 50 states as an approved driver improvement course, and 22 states have mandated the automobile insurance carriers in their province to grant rate reductions to all who complete this course.

"Aural Rehabilitation and Lipreading," co-sponsored with Patti Kaires of the Deaf, Hearing and Speech Center, will introduce the participant to the principles of speechreading and communication strategies for hard-of-hearing adults. Discussion will include types of hearing loss, benefits and limitations of hearing aids, and area services for the hearing impaired.

"Independent Living" is de-

Furtaw promoted

Calling William Furtaw the backbone of the Grosse Pointe Park Public Safety Department, Director Richard Caretti presented him with a captain's badge and bars.

Furtaw, 48, becomes the only captain in the five Grosse Pointes. He moves up from the position of lieutenant, which he rose to in July 1986.

"This is a just reward to someone who has really earned it,' Caretti said. "This is an accomplishment. He is the backbone of the operation here, and I am pleased to have someone of his caliber here."

Furtaw started with the Park police department in November 1961. He was promoted to detective in 1973, earned his corporal

Bereavement support group to meet

Parents who have suffered the death of a child are invited to attend a support group at St. John Hospital, 22101 Moross.

The hospital offers "First Sunday," a parents' bereavement group headed by the Rev. Lawrence DuCharme, director of pastoral care, and Sister Beatrice Monforton, chaplain at St. John. The sessions are free and open to any parent who has experienced the death of a child.

According to DuCharme, the type of grief a parent faces with the death of a child is a lasting one. It is something they need to live with, although they can never forget the loss. The next sessions will be held Sept. 9 and 23, from 8 to 10 p.m. in the sisters' dining room at the hospital.

For more information, call 343-3695.

Alzheimer's volunteers needed

Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Associations is seeking volunteers to assist with an adult daycare program for people with Alzheimer's disease. The program, located in Birmingham, provides services on Saturdays from 10 a.m.-2 p.m. and is open to and used by residents of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and St. Clair counties. People interested in this program should call 557-8277 for further information.

Late Labor Day to boost tourism

Michigan's Sesquicentennial summer tourism will be the best ever, due mainly to a week longer season, the highest number of 90-plus degree days since 1963 and an expected 6 percent spending rise this Labor Day over last year, reports AAA Michigan.

The Michigan Travel Bureau expects state tourism to increase 6 percent this summer over last year's record and hit $8.7 billion. Among the factors pointing to Michigan's record summer season continuing through Labor Day weekend are:

• Mackinac Bridge crossings at an all-time high in 1986 are up 12 percent so far this year, with July's 503,047 crossings setting a one-month high.

• The Michigan Travel Bureau predicts 52.7 million person trips (defined as a trip taken by someone from his permanent residence for recreational activity) will be taken in Michigan this year, up 6 percent. Travel information requests are up 20 per-

• The state's Sesquicentennial "Family Reunion" campaign, which encourages Michiganians to invite relatives back to the Great Lakes state this year, generated 100,000 inquiries.

• AAA Michigan requests for state travel routings are up 4 percent over a year ago.

· Combined overnight camping and day-use visits at state parks were up 20 percent in June over a year ago, the most recent figures available.

West Michigan Tourist Association officials say the opening of at least 15 new bed and breakfast facilities and additions of rooms at many hotels in the Grand Haven, Saugatuck and Holland areas contributed to a 9 percent surge in summer tourism over last year.

A recent survey of members of the Southeast Michigan Travel and Tourist Association showed many of the businesses with at least a 6 percent increase in summer business.

East Michigan Tourist Association officials credit a 20 percent increase in regional festivals and events so far this year for their 6 percent hike in summer tourism.

While Upper Peninsula officials report tourism is up, they are concerned that the pre-Labor Day start of school in many areas will prompt visitors from large population areas to head for closer-to-home Labor Day holiday destinations.

Whether headed for a nearby destination of a longer journey to a summer resort, Labor Day weekend motorists will log a record 835 million miles, 3 percent more than 1986, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

Among the biggest attractions Jazz Festival and Romeo's Peach drawing visitors this holiday weekend will be the 30th annual Labor Day Walk across the

Business Company hitches its star to a yellow wagon

By Pat Paholsky

News Editor A funny thing happened to Al Bolden and his son while they were on their way to establishing a small engine component business: They saw a dealer at a trade show hauling his stuff around in a homemade cart and an idea was born.

Now — a year later — they are on the brink of introducing their product nationwide by way of the powerhouse marketing strategy of K mart.

Their product - the Pop Kart — is a collapsible, folding utility cart with an infinite number of uses. It can be used to haul things around the house or outside for lawn work or gardening, taking supplies to the boat, carting groceries or laundry -- wherever there's a need to transport things from one point to another. It can be folded up and put in the car and it can be stored on the garage wall to save space.

It also has myriad industrial uses, particularly with additional interlocking collapsible baskets that can be snapped on to carry a variety of tools or parts from one work station to another.

Behind this deceptively simple product is a lot of planning. Bolthe Woods, has an engineering background that stretches over 47 years.

After he earned a degree at University of Detroit and served an engineering apprenticeship, he got a job at Packard Motors during World War II manufacturing Rolls-Royce aircraft engines. From there he went to Ford Motor Co. as a manufacturing engineer and then chief manufacturing engineer at Continental Motors.

Bolden struck out on his own in 1957 as a manufacturer's representative and then bought the small engine division at Continental Motors and sold engines throughout the world.

He sold the company and he and his wife began to travel. It was out of this that he eventually became involved in the travel business, specializing in arranging tours for church groups. When his wife died, he returned to being a manufacturing consultant, and the travel business that grew out of a hobby prospered.

He and his son, Ron, a 1961 graduate of Grosse Pointe High. decided to get into the small engine component business. They den, who runs the Al Bolden and were attending a trade show and Co. Travel Agency on Mack in it was in the parking lot when they saw a man transporting his things from the car that they got the idea.

"We thought this product is so intriguing, we could sell thousands and thousands and enhance our cash flow," Bolden said. "We did a market study and found we could get cash one year ahead."

So began the process of developing a product and marketing it. The molded baskets in which the sides fold in and collapse were only available in Taiwan. Bolden traveled there and bought the dies to make the bas-assembling is done at a plant in Santa Ana, Calif. where two of Bolden's four children live. The corporate headquarters is in Houston where son Ron lives. The research and engineering is done at the Mack Avenue office.

The family had a booth at the Power Equipment Show in Louisville in July, which Bolden said is the largest in the world. They also exhibited their product at the National Hardware Show in Chicago several weeks ago.

Bolden said the Pop Kart received honorable mentions at both shows. "We were absolutely swamped and we assigned many dealers and districts throughout the United States," he said.

They have manufactured 20,000 carts and Bolden said the company has commitments for 50,000 a month beginning next air, from which viewers can order. Bolden said the chain is in the process of filming the cart for the show.

It will sell for about $30 and separate baskets that snap on will cost about $12. It's relatively lightweight and can hold 100 pounds of cargo.

There is a spin-off from the cart and the product line is growing, according to Ron Bolden. The marine version will be stainless steel and non-corrosive. There will be a toy chest set atop small wheels so it can be moved easily from room to room and there will be a red wagon that also collapses. There will also be a cart that hooks on to the back of a riding mower.

Besides K mart, Target is testing the cart in 10 of its stores, Bolden said. The cart will be available beginning in late fall, year. K mart will be launching a and by next spring, it should be TV program, a catalog on the as ubiquitous as the budding and their families can be deducted so long as the deduction does not exceed the business' net earnings. The law says you cannot qualify for a deduction in any year you are eligible to participate in a subsidized health plan of another employer or through your spouse's employer. Reform Act, although with a new restriction. As a general rule, to take a tax deduction for using part of your home for business, that part must be used exclusively and regularly as:

• the principal place of your business or

• a place where you meet or deal with your clients, customers or patients.

Under the new law, deductions for business use of the home are allowed only to the extent of the taxpayer's net income from the business — that is, gross income less deductions attributable to the business. Expenses that would be deductible irrespective of business use, such as mortgage interest and property taxes, are disregarded for purposes of this calculation. Thus, expenses for items such as depreciation and utilities are subject to gross income limitations. If deductible expenses exceed gross income, a carryover is provided. The net effect of this new limitation is that home office deductions may not be used to create or increase a net loss from the business activity conducted in the home.

The complicated tax laws governing home office deductions are closely scrutinized by the Internal Revenue Service, so you may want to consult with a knowledgeable tax professional before proceeding.

Business equipment can still be depreciated over a number of vears, although the tax act generally stretches out the depreciation terms of most equipment. But the lengthened periods are somewhat offset by the new law's increased acceleration method, allowing you a faster rate of depreciation in the initial years. In general, automobiles, which were depreciated over three years under the old law, now use a five-year depreciation period. For other depreciable business assets including machinery, equipment and office furniture, the write-off period generally extends from five to seven years, while the depreciation period for computers remains at five years. Other business assets may be depreciated over a longer period of time.

Some business owners forgo depreciation and choose "expensing" instead. With expensing, you take an immediate tax deduction for equipment purchases, writing off up to $10,000 worth of equipment the first year. This $10,000 cap became effective on Jan. 1, 1987; prior to that, $5,000 was the most that could be expensed. The $10,000 limit applies as long as your business equipment purchases are less than $200,000 for the year. The $10,000 amount is reduced dollar-for-dollar where the cost of equipment put into service during the year exceeds $200,000.

Community Churches 4B Grosse Pointe Board of Realtors 8-12B Grosse Pointe No Then seem to the fire: Portrait of a sculptor

By Peggy O'Connor

Feature Editor aint and paint brush in hand, Janice Trimpe spent hours in her kitchen as a young mother, painting and perfecting her oils for sale. It was a hobbyturned-prosperous business ... until her young daughter accidentally splashed turpentine in her own eyes and Trimpe put the tools of her craft away.

The incident spelled the end of Trimpe's long-time fascination with painting and the beginning of her life as a sculptor. She picked up a ball of clay at a neighborhood art shop and a career was born.

"I touched that piece of clay and loved it. It felt as though an involuntary energy started flowing from me to the clay. I was hooked," the former Grosse Pointe resident wrote in her biography.

Trimpe may have been hooked, but she wasn't landed until Center for Creative Studies instructor Florence Kaufman got hold of her. Trimpe took two classes from Kaufman, who spotted her artistic talent immediately. She insisted that Trimpe enroll at CSS.

"I told her 'no way, I've got little kids at home and no time for school.' But Florence, bless her, wouldn't hear of it. She told me I had to go to school to get the discipline I lacked," Trimpe recalls today.

"And she was right. You can be the best artist in the world and still need discipline. I went to CSS and it was hard. You lose your creativity there because they make you work within a framework. But it was worth it. It gave me the discipline I use in my work today.'

That work is as a designersculptor, which is what Trimpe calls herself, but it takes in so much more. She works on commission for clients from New York to California, Canada to Puerto Rico and England to Japan. She is also an exhibitor, with showings at the Scarab Club, the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Troy Design Center and recently, a one-woman show at the Dynamic Energie Studio in Birmingham to her credit.

And Trimpe is a teacher. She will conduct two classes this fall at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial, which is also the site of her next showing: as guest artist for the 28th annual Grosse Pointe Artists Association's Fall Art Festival.

Teaching is her social life, Trimpe says. "I love helping people learn to create, to experience the joy I've had when creating a work of art."

Fairs and festivals, she admits, bring publicity. "And when you don't deal with galleries, you need publicity," she says with a laugh.

Trimpe likes to work with designers, architects and builders. She says it gives her a feel for what the home or business owner wants in terms of sculpture. When she receives a commission, she will go into the clients' home, see what they already have and what their "style" is and sit down and talk about what they want. From there, she makes a small model, then gets to work on the finished project.

Recently, she spent a hectic day making sure that a piece was matched to its finished pedestal, then delivered to the client in Bloomfield Hills. "The woman who commissioned the piece how that made me feel? Great!

"I love to create beauty and have people enjoy it." Trimpe gets her ideas from everywhere and nowhere, she says. "Sometimes I wake up in the middle of the night with a notion of what I want to sculpt; other times it comes to me like it did the day I got an idea in the grocery store. I saw two chickens in a bag and came up with a human-like form of a couple embracing ... like two people on a spit," Trimpe says with a chuckle.

cried when she saw it. You know I know the joke and that's shop. Then came the recession enough. Let everybody else figure it out in 100 years or so."

Where Trimpe gets her motivation is another story.

TODAY, SHE IS a self-confident, assured artist. It wasn't always that way, despite her early artistic successes. "I had to go through a lot to get where I am today. I had some pretty low points and I think back to those when I need inspiration," Trimpe explains.

After her graduation from "My trademark? Sensualism. CSS, Trimpe opened "Jan's Art-Most of my pieces are sensual, istry", a downtown Detroit sculpnot erotic. Some of them have ture shop. Over the next six humor, but the humor is subtle. years, she sold more than 200 And I'm not going to explain it. pieces of sculpture from the and art stopped selling in downtown Detroit. So she closed up shop and went to work for her father, a businessman.

Section B

"That Detroit experience gave me a wonderful opportunity to be a businesswoman. Even if I had to learn the hard way, it was nice to learn how to run a business, how to be organized. When I got into it, I had no idea what I was getting into. I figured it would be easy. I just set up my studio, put up a sign and started working.

"I remember that my dad came in and brought me a book for my credits and debits. I asked him, 'what are those?'," Trimpe recalls. She learned soon enough, as she also learned how to handle the robbery of her store, among other things.

By 1985, though, the store was closed and she'd had enough of working in the family business. "I told my dad: 'I've gotta do what I've gotta do.' It was scary, striking out on my own by doing commissions. But I've had help."

That came in the form of her kids telling her to hang in there. that as long as their mother had guts, the money would come later. And it came from her belief in the teachings of the Unity Church.

"I'd had two operations, the store was closed and I was pretty low. A man from the Unity Church visited me in the hospital and asked me to write down a list of things I wanted to do, have and be. That was in 1983. I just looked at the list for the first time since then. You know what? Three-quarters of those things have come about for me without me even realizing it," Trimpe says.

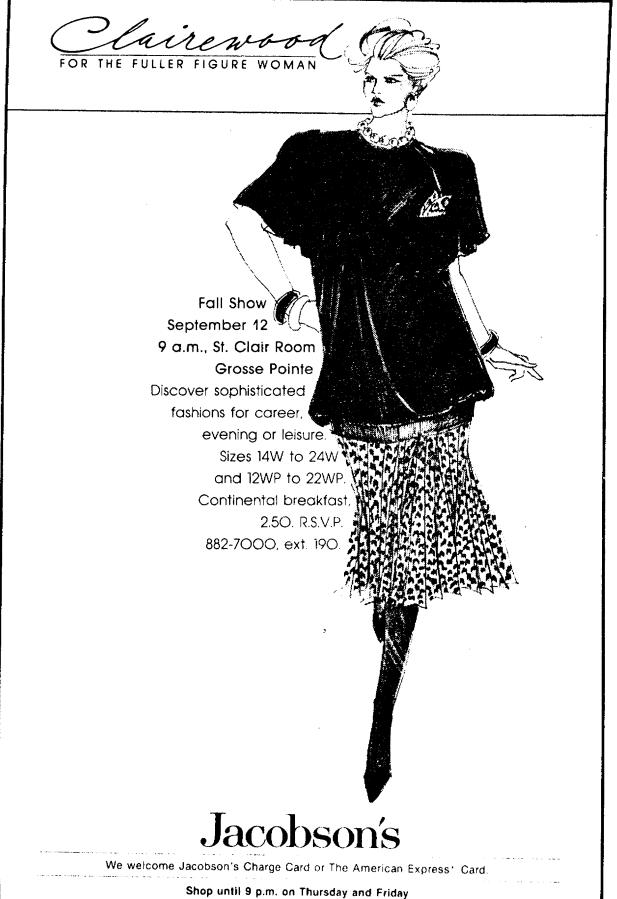

These days she's filled with ideas of new media to work with, including computers which will enable her to design softsculpture projects.

"I'm happy. I've got my debts paid and money in the bank and I'm working at what I want to See SCULPTOR, page 2B

This is the wonderful season of harvest and if you are the proud possessor of a successful vegeta- and pears. ble garden, or a frequenter of country roadside vegetable and fruit stands, or a regular visitor to Eastern Market, you may be remembering with nostalgia the your grandmother's kitchen at reveal their bounty until you dig canning and pickling time . . . or even re-creating them in your own kitchen.

Digging potatoes reveals a reward for diligent gardeners. Unlike most vegetables which grow above ground and whose progress you can watch all through activity and delicious aromas of the growing season, they don't them up. They are actually the where food that is manufactured by the leaves is stored.

Although they are usually

"pickling cukes" signs. Crabap America. Only after the white potato was introduced into Ireland in the mid-1500s was its food value recognized. After that it was extensively cultivated.

It is no wonder that it quickly became a staple food, since potatoes contain not only starch, but niacin, vitamins B1, B2 and C, as well as traces of vitamin A and minerals such as calcium, magnesium, phosphorus, potasunderground stem of the plant sium and sodium. Of course early on, no one knew about all these things, but they certainly knew that the potato was not only good to eat but sustaining

American homes but they are not often grown in home vegetable gardens because they take up so much space. A 100-foot row will yield about a bushel and one-half of potatoes, so growing a winter's supply required more room than most small gardens can provide. However, growing some of your own potatoes is fun and pretty easy to do.

Unlike most vegetables, potatoes are not grown from seed but are grown from "seed pieces," or "eyes" which are dormant buds cut from the potato. Seed pieces should be about the size of an egg or you can even plant the whole potato.

Potato plants don't have to flower to develop tubers. The small green fruits that sometimes develop from the flowers of. potato plants are true fruits containing potato seeds, but if you plant them these seeds would produce a wide variety of plant types - none of which would be like the parent variety.

Potatoes should be stored in a dark place. Exposure to light causes a green pigment to form under the skin and the potato becomes bitter and unfit to eat. Temperature is important in storing them, too. Above 40 degrees they may sprout and shrivel and below 35 degrees, the starch content will be converted and the potatoes will taste

Blossoming exuberantly on windowsills, the African Violet has become nearly as much a part of the American home as the coffee pot. There is no doubt that the African Violet is by far the most popular house plant. The annual propogation of violets commercially is in the millions and no one can even guess how many are propogated by the simple home method of sticking a leaf in a glass of water.

This tremendous popularity is all the more amazing since the African Violet was only introduced in cultivation in the 1890s. No one had ever heard of them before. The first named and patented varieties came on the market as recetnly at 1935. Today, there are hundreds of varieties registered with the African Violet Society, with many more awaiting certification. Today, blossoms - single or double - may be purple, pink, reddish, shape except square and come in a variety of sizes.

To see African Violets before 1890, you have to journey to the Republic of Tanzania, in northeast Africa where in the beautifaul Usambara and Uluguru hills, rivers dropping to the sea pass through a region of cliffs and shady glens and patches of forest. Here the violets grow wild in masses covering several hundred square feet. Today, visitors tell about the wonderful displays of violets at the foot of waterfalls where they benefit from the most and where more than 20 natural species grow.

Almost from the moment when it reached Europe, the African Violet was an overwhelming success after it made its official debut at the International Horticulture Exhibition of 1893 gium, and where it stole the show. After that, every late Victorian and Edwardian "conservatory" featured African Violets.

Late summer roses are at their loveliest and most fragrant now and potpourri fanciers should be gathering a bountiful harvest. Incidentially, did you know that the American Rose Society has more than 350 chapters and many affiliated societies, and a total membership of more than 30,000. The Society is creating an 118-acre complex in Shreveport, La., which will be the largest park in the United States devoted primarily to ro-

A nifty 150: Michigan's 150th birthday celebration got another go-round, this time on Aug. 19 in the person of the Detroit Boat Club's gala Wednesday Adult Night party. Balloons with "Michigan 150" printed on them were at every table, anchoring the bottles of wine which served as table prizes. White straw hats, Michigan memorabilia - maps, state capitol pins and a special birthday magazine were favors for all.

Artist Bill Szaro drew caricatures of guests to the delight of those who watched. Co-chairpersons Ella C. Lewis and Marilyn McCafferty did a fabulous job on behalf of the D.B.C.'s Women's Committee. Assisting them were committee members Ginny Adams, Winnie Ingram, Mary Helen Yost, Jan Engel and Kay Baird.

The Pastor's Corner What the Pope brings

If you don't know that Pope John Paul II will visit the Detroit area Sept. 18-19, you must have been on a safari to the inner depths of Africa or perhaps on some secret trip into space.

Churches

Some people understandably complain that the media are flooding us with excessive coverage, even before the event. But realistically, Pope John Paul is quite unique in his own magnetic personality - like Mother Theresa - and equally unique as the only pope in the world, the 263rd successor of St. Peter.

We Catholics are naturally excited by his coming to Detroit. We revere him as our spiritual leader, supreme teacher of our faith. We are quite impressed by the vast number of people throughout the world who perceive him as a voice and embodiment of the highest ideals of our human experience. All of us need public personalities who project the best and finest of our human aspirations. I suggest we're all a bit cloyed, a bit disallusioned by the idols of sports and entertainment who fill the media.

As we recognize our president as a link with the foundations of our country, as the personification of the ideals of our country, so we Catholics see the pope in the same light and we are honored to realize that people of all faiths - and none - see him in a similar light: a human being who expresses in word and action. reaching out to all people, our most earnest effort to realize in the lives of all people what is just and fair and decent in human life.

As we Catholics will readily admit, not all popes have personified these ideals. Historic, cultural and even internal political forces have determined how earlier popes have shaped the papacy in ways that at a later date we have recognized as out of harmony, even contradictory to the gospel of the Lord.

We Catholics easily live with our history, like any family that realistically knows their forebears have not all been saints. It's the human predicament, as true within the Catholic Church as within any other human situation.

But we truly believe that the Holy Spirit keeps us together in spite of human foibles and follies. We truly believe that all believers in the Lord Jesus are somehow a part of us, pilgrims on a journey back home to God.

John Paul has made 32 trips around the world. In him, many people of many faiths hear a voice for social justice, for a better distribution of the wealth of this world, especially for the Third World; a reduction in nuclear arms; a sincere effort for genuine peace. They hear a voice for the supremacy of spiritual values that transcend the pre-occupation we have for the self-indulgence and materialism that permeates society at large, yes, even our own lives as we often give lip service in Sunday worship to the gospel.

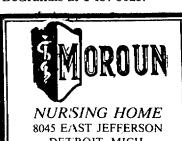

No, not even all Catholics accept the pronouncements of Pope John Paul II, as reported in a recent Gallup poll in a local paper and in a recent issue of the New York Times. But we as Catholics, and I suggest, many non-Catholics, still revere and respect him for jolting us out of our petty self-concerns, out of sheer selfishness to envision a world where all people will share the riches of this small globe, where together we can be brothers and sisters to one another, sons and daughters of the God who created us, who invites us all to share in the banquet of His creation as a for-etaste of a heavenly gathering of all who really believe in Him.

Bike blessing

They came on their Hondas, their Harleys and their mopeds to St. Ambrose Church in Grosse Pointe Park last Sunday. The occasion was the first "Blessing of the Bikes." The Rev. Timothy Pelc officiated at the blessing, which organizers say may become an annual event at the church. Pelc took a chariot blessing out of the Bible for the occasion. Below, some of the participating bikers get set to hit the highway after having their rides blessed. And at left is Detroiter Ray Chesney, a member of the Detroit Police Department's Traffic Division. Pelc is blessing Chesney's Harley Davidson. The bike was owned by the late Giacomo Buffa, a Detroit police officer killed on duty. It was purchased by Chesney in a special auction. It's a 1972, 1200 cc. full dress model, painted and rebuilt by Buffa. Chesney added the chrome and windshield.

If you are among the many thousands of American women having babies after 35, you may be wondering about the problems of mid-life motherhood. The good news is that the chances for a safe pregnancy and a healthy baby are higher than you may think. And, if you are generally fit and trim, your pregnancy can be as normal as if you were 20. The advantages to delayed motherhood are many. You are probably more financially and emotionally secure. You have had time to finish your education and to develop a career. Chances are your marriage has stabilized and you will feel mature enough to handle the responsibilities of child rearing.

But pregnancy may pose some slight risks, too. For instance, if you are over 40, your baby is more likely to have birth defects like Downs Syndrome.

As an older mother, you may be more prone to certain medical conditions, such as high blood pressure, kidney trouble and diabetes. Pregnancy puts an added strain on your body, so you run a higher risk of miscarriage, complications during pregnancy or labor and premature labor. Also, because your fertility gradually decreases as you age, you may have problems getting preg-

Architectural Diversity As the great variety of home sizes and styles suggests, growth has continued slowly over many years. It continues even today. Old estates are subdivided for building contemporary homes, making the mansions that still survive (and many do) all the more treasured by their owners and tradition-minded residents. At the same time, the area includes homes of just about every style and size-from townhouses, twofamily units and other small homes to gracious English Tudors, colonials, executive mansions, contemporary ranch styles and a variety of modern designs, including condominiums.

This diversity has helped make Grosse Pointe attractive to all who value well-maintained quality which far exceeds its price.

Okay folks, grab those seat cushions pull over your favorite sweatshirt and plant yourself in the bleachers of your respective schools.

Football season is upon us and within the next three months your chin strap is going to have to remain buckled as the jarring hits and screaming passes whiz through the air as well as your mind.

It's the time of year that I get really excited about. I enjoy the look of the teams as they scamper around the 100-yard gridiron hoping to wind up in the stadium on Opdyke Road in Pontiac.

Saturday afternoon football games will be a new and unique opportunity for me, but at the same token it's going to be fun. I always thought prep football should be played under the glow of the beaming lights at the top of the towers, but who cares? Football is football and if you can't get excited about it then a football transplant is needed.

Your mind is going to be invaded by footballs, field goals, points and tackles within the next three months. Don't fret though, if you've got a good pair of spectator cleats the rubber tips shouldn't wear out. If they do, then I suggest you toss them aside and become a bare-foot specta-

Your chance to clap, argue with the officials and even coach from the bleachers is right around the corner. With at least nine games packed into the schedule at the Grosse Pointe schools, you could become a 'football zombi."

Just think, if you run yourself to each game, bouncing back and forth like a ball in a tennis match, you could be swept away by the football aroma. Consider the possiblity because it's one of the most fascinating things to encounter.

Local teams gear for successful fall season

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

Tradition. Competition. Rivalry. Success.

All of the Grosse Pointe schools share every inch of the four words listed above.

They want the start of the 1987-88 school year to be one of the most successful seasons they'll have and it may come easier for some than it does for others.

Within the next few months, football, basketball, soccer and everything else will be the topic of conversation at dinner. Here, we take a look at the local schools and their outlook on the fall season.

At University Liggett School this fall, one will find teams packed with talent, and others in need of a rebuilding season.

Like any new season, the loss of graduates has left some vacancies as well as the opportunity for some others to step right in and do the job. At ULS, it promises to be a highly successful sea-

Bob Newvine embarks on his third year at the helm of the Knights' football program and according to the coach, it is a promising year.

"This is the best team I've had in three years," said Newvine. "It's also the biggest team I've Big they are. Across the frontoffensive line they average 210 pounds. Quite impressive for a Class C school.

220 pounds, will step in at center. The big boy on the line is rookie, Olbun Dickerson. Dickerson, who will see action at the tackle slot, weighs in at 270 pounds, and according to Newvine, this kid is a tough one.

"Olbun is a big load to move," said Newvine. "He is a great player to have on our line and I'm sure he's going to help us out a lot."

Sophomore John Ellis, who will play offensive and defensive tackle, is a 210-pounder. At the guard positions will be seniors Greg Davis (5'11" 175 pounds) and and Ted Evans (6'4" 180

Although Davis is only 175 pounds, Newvine says he's one of the best hitters.

"He plays like he's 210 pounds," said Newvine. "He hits anything that moves.'

Some new kids on the block who should help out are Adimbola Afariogun (6'2" 200 pounds), Chris Carroll (5'7" 150 pounds) and Mike Barnes (5'8" 130 pounds). Afariogun, who probably needs a nickname, is a speedster who moves his frame to the beat of a 4.7, 40-yarddash. Carroll is a speedster, according to Newvine and Barnes is an intense athlete who is an intelligent player.

James Dobrzechowski, who packs 160 pounds into a 5'5" frame, will be the sophomore fullback.

"He is a little fire plug," said Newvine. "He has really picked up his intensity since last year."

The field general for the Knights will be junior, Lex Smith. Smith, who has good abil-

Senior Lars Knudson, 6'2" and ity to roll out and toss the quick pass, is going to be the main wheel in the ULS offensive car.

"Lex is the key," said Newvine. "He's going to help our offense out a lot because we'll be able to pass more. We are going to try and stretch defenses and force them to make the plays. If we can cause havoc up the middle and force them to concentrate on that, then Lex will be able to step into the pocket and deliver some good passes.'

Since Newvine took charge, the schedule has never favored the Knights, but this year's turnabout seems to be fair play.

"We've finally got a schedule that we can play with," he said. "In the past we were in over our heads, but now I feel we're playing good teams and schools our

In order to remain competitive in the independent setup, ULS will need to stay away from the injury bug and nobody knows that better than Newvine.

"We are going to be highly competitive," he said. "We've got to stay healthy and avoid injuries because we're very thin, we simply lack depth.'

Because ULS has approximately 22 guys, nine of which will be playing both sides of the line, Newvine fears running out of gas.

"If we can stay in the game up until the final quarter, then we'll be okay," he said. "We have got to be conditioned in order to get that chance in the fourth quarter. I hope we just don't run out of gas.'

Last season the Knights were

GOLF

In a rebuilding season, after losing three seniors, first-year head coach Josh Schmidt is hoping that Charlie Roby and Gordie Stewart can produce in their final year at ULS.

Roby and Stewart, who return from last season's 6-6-1 team, will be joined by a sophomore tandem of James Combs and Tip Quilter; both of whom lettered as freshmen.

Jene Gargaro, a junior letterman, will be striking the ball hard as will sophomore Chris McCormick. Freshman Andrew Stewart, who looks good, according to Schmidt, should be quite an asset.

"Charlie and Gordie are really strong players who are consistent and have played a lot of golf," said Schmidt. "That's what makes them good competitors.'

With a blend of youth and experience, Schmidt feels the kids will teach one another.

"There is a mix of older kids and newer ones," he said. "They seem to be pushing one another. It puts the older kids in a teaching situation and the newer ones in a learning situation," said Schmidt.

ULS will be competing in an extremely tough Class C setup, but Schmidt is hoping the athletes can concentrate on their

"I'm going to let the kids set their goals," he said. "Golf is such an individual sport that it's difficult to set team goals. Sure we want to be successful, but

Sailing away

Traveling is half the fun of summer, and being a stalwart sailor, putting together the opportunity to travel and sail in an area new to me was an opportunity too good to pass up, so I accepted an invitation from a friend to sail in Galveston Bay near

Houston, and its environs, is host to the Lyndon Johnson Space Center, as well as the hottest, most humid summer weather I have ever endured

Michiganders, 20 days of over 90-degree weather sets a record. For Houstonians it is remarkable for the temperature to drop below 90 in the summer. They comment about our cool cli-

The Houston area is a low coastal plain. There are few trees taller than six feet. Just about the time a tree gets a wee bit taller, a hurricane comes along and blows it down. Houses are built upon stilts and basements are unheard of along the Bay.

Galveston Bay is about the size of our Lake St. Clair, but very shallow. The average depth is about eight feet. There is a shipping channel that is dredged to about 40 feet. Sailors there have to contend with tides, but it is not a serious problem. Of course, they are used to contending with the tides and associated currents as an everyday part of boating. Most harbors and marinas are built with floating docks, actually minimizing problems.

So far, nothing out of the ordinary — about what I expected. What I was not prepared for were the oil platforms and shrimp

I was startled to see structures built in the bay and asked about the nature of these. Some were oil wells. Some were separating stations where various gases were separated. Some were well heads. I have no idea what a well head is, but there were a lot of them in the Galveston Bay. At night each platform was lit with no less than one red light, some had many more. The pleasant view one expects when going "down to the sea" was obstructed, and for me, unpleasant.

The shrimp boats were everywhere. I am told there is a season on shrimp and that these boats are only this dense during that season. They set their nets with a big flat "door" to scrape along the bottom disturbing the shrimp and permitting them to flow back into the net, causing the Bay to become brown and murky from the constantly unsettled bottom.

These omnipresent vessels operate at all hours of the day and night. Their distinctive rumble could be heard around the clock as they slowly proceeded back and forth collecting their harvest.

It was explained to me that they are involved in a dredging operation and consequently are the privileged vessel. All other vessels must give way to them - even sailboats. They showed no day signals or night lights other than the standard green and red; which were often obscured by their bright working lights. Really, though, they didn't need them. There was no mistaking what they were, and the extreme caution skippers needed to exercise when approaching one.

My reaction to all of this after a short time of sailing was that here in Michigan we take so much for granted that we really need to be thankful for. I hope that we continue to clean up our Great Lakes. The boats on Galveston Bay are not equipped with holding tanks, and it shows. We have beautiful blue water here; cystal clear, cool and sweet. Our air is never sticky from the salt spray, and our vistas are obstructed only by aids to navigation. We do have to play dodge em with some commercial fishing enterprises and freighter traffic on the larger of our lakes, but they are easily avoided, and their nets are deep enough for most pleasure craft to glide over.

Because of the varying depths of our lakes, commercial fishing is not everywhere. We have beautiful cruising areas within our own state and close by in Ontario with vast tracts of unspoiled wilderness. We have become accustomed to all of this.

One only has to go away to realize how great we have it here. Of course I did bring home some of those fresh bay shrimp.

SOCCER

With 11 seniors gone to graduation and only five returning lettermen, coach Dave Backhurst has got his work cut out for him.

Leading the way will be seniors Bill Jewett and Frank Karabetsos.

Karabetsos, who missed the majority of the season last fall after shattering his ankle, is the key for the Knights.

"The key for us is if Frank can come back from last year's unfortunate injury," said Backhurst. "If he doesn't have any implications with it, then we should do just fine.'

Sophomores Doug Wood, Anthony Abirigi and Johnathon Davis return and minding the net will be junior goalkeeper Brian Schmidt. Although it's too early to speculate on this year's team, Backhurst is just hoping the team will gel. "It's early yet," said Back-hurst. "We will have a young and inexperienced team and we are hoping to fill some key spots with some jayvee players from last year's team.'

Before they can think about the playoffs, they have to muster through a tough schedule.

'We have a schedule that is going to be tough," Backhurst said. "It can work for or against us. If we get shellacked too much too often then the kids could get down. On the other hand, it could prepare us for the state playoffs.

TENNIS

The newest face on the girls' tennis court will be a wellknown face to the ULS tennis system. Bob Wood, who has coached the boys' team, will be taking charge for the first time on the court for the girls' program.

"I'm excited about it," Wood said about his first year, but 23rd overall. "It's going to be a lot of fun.'

With only three girls back from last year's team, the jockeying for positions has become a heated thing.

"The competition for positions is very stiff," said Wood. "We'll be carrying 12 girls so now it's a matter of who.'

The returning letter winners, all of whom played singles last year, are Dawn Martin, Pam Ali and Elena Hunt. These three girls are pretty much the top three guns in the single's department, so the log jam comes in number four singles and all the doubles spots.

"I would have to say that Dawn will remain at number one singles because she could be the best player in the state in high school," claimed Wood. "But number four singles and all the doubles teams remain wide

Vying for those spots are Laura Rizzo, Leslie MacLeod, Shirley Kim, Lexie Crain, Ali Frederick, Katrina Litka, Lynn Sinkel, Moon Chung.

If they don't make it, according to Wood, they will shoot for doubles along with Kelly Bailer, Holly Wagner, Lynne Connor, Vanelslander, Kendall BethMeade.

"This is a very enthusiastic group who's goal is to win the regionals and state championship," Wood said.

CROSS COUNTRY

Each new season begins with hope, but the cross country team is placing a lot of hope on senior Gordie Maitland.

Last year's captain, Maitland will be looked upon to carry the team, somewhat. "Gordie is obviously our great hope," said coach Eric Linder. "He has a lot of ability and a great amount of experience that will be depended

This year's team will be trying to repair the damage graduation

"We have two or three returning hopefuls and we've basically got a nucleus of eight or nine runners who will help out," said

New to the team this fall are Paul Brigholin and sophomore Mehul Patel David Allen, Dave Clifton, Chris Fredrickson, Steve Grant, Tony Hill and Jeff Pruce are hoping to score points.

"This is a rebuilding year for us," said Linder. "I've always pushed the individual side of the game. Whether we win or lose, it's always possible for the individual to beat a time.'

FIELD HOCKEY

It's not how you play the game, it's how many goals you

The ULS field hockey team, according to coach Muriel Brock, will have to take advantage of scoring strikes in order to be successful.

"Our scoring potential is going to have to be stronger," she said. 'The girls have got to be quick in releasing the ball. We have a lot of speed, but we don't release the ball quick enough when we're inside the circle.'

Brock says it's too early to set a line up, but returners like Cathy Petzold, Meghan Brady, Sylvia Ristic, Beth Birgbauer, Dana Warneg, Kim Owens and Susie Georgi, will carry the squad.

"Overall we have a lot of experience and strong halfbacks,' Brock said. "They have got to work together. I think a good working relationship and utilizing individual skills is good for a team. If we play well and are effective the ultimate ending will be based on how effective we are. "Each girl has got to give 100 percent in order for us to be successful."

BASKETBALL

After losing only one girl to graduation, fourth-year coach Shelley Owens is hoping the returning athletes can do the job.

"We lost Susan Kleek and she was our key," said Owens. "It will be interesting to see how well we adjust and play without her. "I'm really counting on everyone returning to have a good year."

Sarah Kleek, sophomore, is a returning player who, according to Owens, is a fine player. Diann Imbriaco, junior, will be the general of the court. She sees the floor well and is quick, said Owens. Seniors Miriam Mueller and Sophia Park are the experienced athletes who should help Owens

"Without Susan, a lot of people are going to have to step in and do the job," said Owens.

Freshman Martina Jerant, a 6-foot 2-inch center, has impressed Owens with her nice shot and potential.

"I'm looking to her to step in immediately and work hard for us," Owens said.

Experience, tradition to carry South's fall teams

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

In the Eastern Michigan League, the Grosse Pointe South Blue Devils are a force to be reckoned with; again.

With championships dripping from the rafters in the school, the Blue Devils are looking for continued success and happiness as the E.M.L. pushes on for yet another year.

It should prove to be a year of the Blue Devil in the E.M.L. as each team sets goals of taking the E.M.L. and then moving into post-season play where they can possibly continue their success.

FOOTBALL

It may not be an obvious new look, but the Blue Devils' football team has been doing something new this year.

First-year Coach Jon Rice has put forth the effort to install a conditioning program that has seemingly taken effect.

"We have consciously tried to work on our conditioning toward the end of practice," said Rice. "We are really in pretty good physical condition and I am happy with that. We really have worked hard at staying conditioned and as the year wears on that will become a big factor."

Probably the biggest factor that will carry the team into the start of the season is the senior class. With 25 seniors dressed in blue and gold, Rice feels the knowledge and experience will rub off onto the younger kids.

"I really feel we'll be successful and what it's going to take is the leadership from the seniors," said Rice. "Twenty-five of the 29 seniors have been in the program for four years so they know what it takes to win. They believe very strongly in their possible success this year and that has rubbed off onto the juniors on this team.'

Group is the key word for the Devils. Rice, who emphasizes "team" play, doesn't foresee any one player making or breaking the season.

"I have always stressed teamoriented play," he said. "I'm not looking for one person to carry our team. We strive for team football."

Last season the Blue Devils were 5-4, with the majority of losses being close ball games that left a definite scar. This year they are hoping to reverse that, but the schedule surely didn't get any easier.

"Our two non-league games are against state playoff teams," said Rice. "Besides that, our league is very tough and wellbalanced. It is a great possibility that four or five teams will have a shot at the championship.'

Speaking of balance, a continuous display of running and passing should add excitement to the South gridiron.

"We are going to be very balanced offensively," claimed Rice. "We can attack with power and finesse and we can run right at people. When it comes to shove and we have to grind it out, we believe we can do it.'

A lot of offensive pressure will be put on offensive coordinator, Bob Schroeder who will be callinng the plays.

At the tight end slot will be Mike Paull. Tackles Joe Reynolds and Dale Wilson will surround guards Jamie Pangborn and Rob Crane. Snapping the ball to senior quarterback Bryan Jones will be center Jeff Fin-

"I'm extremely confident in our offensive line because they have been with the varsity since they were sophomores," said

Carrying the offensive backfield load will be Ted Mills, Steve Rice, Roger Hunwick and Matt Aldrich.

Defensively, which South prides themselves on, is once again a possible steel curtain.

"Our emphasis is always defense," said Rice. "We tend to put most of our better athletes on defense because you need outstanding athletic ability to hit someone and then find which way the ball is going.'

The linebacker crew of Doug Lucas, Lance Harding, Mike Calcaterra and Pete Astfalk will be the second four in the four/four defense. In front of them will be Tom Smith, defensive end, Chris Lask, end, and Ty Saft, Andy Housi and Barry Brooks at tackles. "We're going to use all three of those guys at the tackle spot," Rice said. "They will all be moved in and out.

be Richmond McCloud, Marcus Wysocki and Marty Saad.

"We've got the reputation for being hard hitters on defense, and the kids like that and want to keep it going.'

The offensive alignment will consist of a Wishbone and Wing-T formation. Line coaches will be Hank Lewandowski and Dan Wyers.

GOLF

Last year's 9-1 season is going to be hard to repeat, according to Harvey Richardson who embarks on his 14th season as coach.

With only three letter winners back from last season, the Blue Devils are a youthful bunch.

"We are young and inexperienced," said Richardson. "However, this team has a good attitude that I really like.

According to Richardson, this vear's team isn't worried about wins and losses and that pleases

"I like a team like this," he said. "They are a fine group of kids who are enthusiastic and are out to have fun.'

Returning from last year's first-place team are David Hall, Mark Cervenak and Sean Von-Schwarz.

"These guys are my bread and butter because they are experienced and have been with the program for a while," Richardson said.

A fourth-spot hopeful is last year's number seven man, Kevin Kneugget. Also being looked upon to help out is Eric Armbruster. However, Armbruster has recently suffered a broken finger and that could put a hold on things for him.

"Kevin is a strong player who will hopefully fill the number four spot and I'm also hoping Eric can recover from the in-"They jury," said Richardson. will help the program."

SOCCER

With the majority of last year's team on its way back to the Blue Devils' lineup this fall, John Case is hoping his eighth year as coach will be successful. "We should be just fine," he perience that will definitely help us out."

Returning from the 1986 season are Jeff Johnston, David Morinelli, Bill Thompson, Mike Disser, Dino Markus, Mike Finch, George Sparrow, Jimmy Ryzewski, Sam Steinhebl, Rudy Cruz and Cal Attie.

"I'm expecting big things from this group because they have confidence and experience," said Case. "I'm also hoping some of them have improved over the summer.'

What's the key to success?

"If we all play a certain system and nobody deviates from that," said Case. "If we all know what to do, then we'll beat a few teams."

Although they may be young and inexperienced, Case knows his team will be tough.

"Any team we play we will give them a good game," he

Although the lineup is still volleying up in the air, the tennis team is showing promise and enthusiasm.

"We have a large number of girls out for the team this year, so we don't really know the lineup because they are still challenging one another," said Stephanie Prychitko, who will be coaching for the 34th year. 'Most of the girls have improved since last year and are showing nice enthusiasm."

Returning will be state champion Kathy Rajt, Cathy Wachter, Ellen Mayer and Michelle Nault, who was a state-runnerup.

"Even though these girls will play varsity, there are a lot of opportunities for the other girls to play varsity," said Prychitko. "We have a lot of promising youngsters who can play varsity if they are ready to work hard."

For the past 11 years straight, South has been crowned state champions. Currently, Prychitko doesn't know if this year will bring the same result.

"We've had great success in post-season play, but I don't know how we'll do until we start playing," she said. "Right now In the defensive backfield will said. "Most of last season's team our goals are to win the E.M.L.

What they lack in height, they make up for in speed.

Six runners out of nine return from last year's 7-3 team, but there is also a blend of new guys. who may push South into the top spot in the league instead of second place, where they've finished the past two seasons.

"This is the smallest, yet fastest team I've ever had," said Tom Wise who starts his fourth season as coach. "They are a hard-working group and I really feel they are going to have their best season ever.'

Senior captains Chris Sherwood and Dave Nicholson head the list of returners. Phil Orton, who Wise says is the most experienced runner, and Paul Heymes should be helpful.

Sophomores David Kerfoot and Mark Sonnenberg, who Wise feels are "phenoms" will be adding a nice dimension to the lineup. Sherwood Nicholson will also score points as could Jamie Nevison, Jeff Kerfoot and Billy Staats.

"I've got a feeling we're finally going to bust through the barrier that has kept us in second place," said Wise. "We want to win the league, get to the state finals and finish in the top 15 and we also want to beat North (something we've only done once in 17 tries)."

CROSS COUNTRY

With all the key people back from last year's E.M.L. championship team, Coach Stephen Zaranek is quite hopeful.

'We have all our key people back from last year so the season should be successful," he

This season one other aspect that should contribute is the senior class. Led by Micha Song and Wendy Berger, Zaranek is looking for the senior class to be the leaders.

"This year's senior class is probably the best group we've had come through here in four years," he said. "I am looking for Wendy and Micha to help out the team with experience and ability."

Junior Toni Tedesco, who "was consistently our top runner last year," is in her third year and she should be carrying a load for Zaranek.

"She was the top runner in the E.M.L. last year so I think she knows what's expected of her," he said.

New to the South program is Elizabeth Kraft who Zaranek thinks will contribute. Also, Jenny McSorley, Alexandra Andlewicz and Vicki Groustra will be fighting for a top-seven spot.

A strong sophomore athlete, who should be among the leaders, is Debbie Solterisch. "We have a nice blend of experience and youth so that should help us shoot for another title," said Zaranek. "I feel very confident we can grab our ninth straight E.M.L. championship.'

BASKETBALL

In the land of the green giants, speed may be the biggest factor and the Blue Devils are hoping to run to an E.M.L. championship.

According to fourth-year Coach Margaret VanEckoute, speed will be the name of the game for South.

"We are a short team, but we're quick," she said. "We have the advantage of speed, but our biggest disadvantage is lack of height.

The starting lineup sports four seniors and one junior; all starters on last season's 13-9 team.

Carmina Amezcua will be running the offense and her counterpart will be Patty Pentecost. Junior forward Chris Schulte and forward Megan Keller will flank center Lisa Fromm.

Stephanie Dinka, Sarah Heck and Lorrie Geist will be seeing time off the bench, as will any number of people.

"Press and fastbreak will have to be our game," said Van-Eckoute. "If we go half court, we may get eaten up inside.'

Another day another dollar, but another year and hopefully another playoff berth.

After a highly successful 1986 season, which ended in the second round of the playoffs, the Norsemen look to equal, if not surpass their 10-1 record. Also, their regular-season win streak of 25 is also something they'd like to keep in tact.

"In order for us to repeat the performance we had last year we are going to need an all-over team effort," said Coach Frank Sumbera, who is going into his seventh year.

Size, agility, speed and strength is how Sumbera sums up his crew that returns from last season. Heading the list of letter winners is Marc de-Manigold, Karl Schultz and Dave VanDale. This crew will be the building block this fall.

"When you can build from these three guys and put them tough team as far as I'm concerned," said Sumbera. "The experience on the squad is good, but I want and need the junior class to come up and make a challenge.' Schultz, deManigold and VanDale will start offensively as well as defensively. Also returning from last year will be Jay Tobias (fullback), Jim DeYonker (cornerback), and wide outs Chuck Thomas and Marty Pochmara. Bruno Giglio returns at the quarterback position to run the pro-set offense where he tossed for 1,040 yards and 10 touchdowns a year ago. Kevin McCarron will see plenty of duty at the offensive halfback slot.

"We've got to get the ball to the wide outs and let them run,' said Sumbera, "that's what we like to do.'

The major repair job defensively comes in the backfield. Vying for jobs there are Brian Maniere and Matt Brady at the corners and John Applegate and Domenic Martilotti at defensive

"We are inexperienced back there due to graduation," said Sumbera. Safety Ted Stephens has earned a job as did Matt Stephens at tight end. Gerome Guest and and Schultz will step in at linebacker.

After recording back-to-back 9-0 seasons, the Norsemen squad is the team to beat,

"Everyone will be shooting to knock us off, but I am confident our kids are ready for any situation they'll be put in," said Sumbera. "However, we do have to be ready the first month of the season because we are facing some good teams and we could go from 9-0 to 0-4.

Sumbera would like to win the White Division of the MAC along with recording a thirdstraight undefeated season, but he also wants the kids to enjoy the season.

"Sure we want to do all that with the other talented players and make it to the playoffs, but I year of football," he said. "For a lot of them this is their final high school year and it should be important to enjoy it. This team is capable of going undefeated and winning the league."

GOLF

Despite swinging into the American Division of the MAC, the North golf team still has a shot at repeating last year's 7-2 record.

"We've got a good shot to repeat last year's success, but it will be a little tougher because of the competition," said Coach Dick Didur. "I've requested to go we have a strong, competitive team.'

Brad Wilson returns as the only senior letter winner from last year's team. Juniors Bob Hetchler and Tony Giumetti return to the lineup as well. Golfers who are expected to score well are Steve Langs, Matt Ciaravinno and Mitch Nies.

We have a lot of talent and ability. The kids have been scoring in the low 80's in practice, so I hope they can continue to shoot well," said Didur. "What we want to do is win a division dual match trophy and we also want to win our division and then have a high finish in the confer-

Light weights. Are they effective?

You're in shape and you're wondering whether or not to add hand held or wrist weights to your aerobic exercise program. What to do?

You see them advertised and yet you don't want to harm your joints, ligaments or back. They can be of benefit if you follow some guidelines. You'll want to remember to begin with light weights, no more than 1 pound in each hand, and gradually work toward more weight, preferably in 1/2 pound increments only as your goals require it. Light weights won't add bulk to the muscle but will increase the general work capacity of the muscle. If one of your goals is to burn more calories in less time, then go for it!

Hand held & wrist weights

Recent research shows that the upper extremities can be trained to be excellent oxygen consuming muscle groups when weighted and used in conjunction with the lower body. When the total body is used in the work load it not only feels more comfortable, but produces a more complete and balanced fitness effect. Reasons for using weights:

- 1) To maintain the aerobic target zone while reducing the mechanical stress placed on the hip, knee and ankle
- 2) To increase the amount of total muscle mass involved during aerobic exercise, particularly by involving the muscles in the arms and torso in the overload.
- 3) To burn more calories in less time.
- 4) To correct upper/lower body imbalances. (This can also enhance participation in ports such as tennis, golf, bowling, where both upper and lower body are important).

5) To challenge more advanced students.

Hand held or wrist weights increase the workload and oxygen consumption throughout the body.

The use of weights in an aerobic program differs from a weight training program in that the primary goal is the effective consumption of oxygen rather than strength training. Because the weights are light and are used in conjunction with aerobic movement (such as an easy jog or walk) involving many repetitions, endurance develops in the muscles used and (more relative to our goals) the general work capacity of the muscles is increased. Muscle bulk does not occur.

Remember the cardinal fitness rule, "Listen to your body" and always use control. Have fun and enjoy the benefits!

By Rob Fulton Sports Editor

It's the type of medicine you don't swallow, but it is a self-induced process that becomes physically important for the road to recovery.

The Detroit metro area is known for the People Mover and the Renaissance Center, and something that is becoming a giant as well, is physical medi-

According to Joseph Femminineo, M.D., physical medicine is a process which involves the ability to deal with the "after surgery" aspect of the injury.

"Physical medicine is the specialty that deals with the nonsurgical approach to musculoskeletal and neuromuscular disease processes," said Femminineo. "It's basically pain and motion problems that occur from overuse syndromes such as tendini-

Once an injury inhabits the body, a diagnosis is in order. After discovering the cause of injury and the extent of it, the process of surgery may be next. If surgery is needed, the only way to maintain its effectiveness is to be diligent in a proper rehabilitation program.

"In order for the surgical process to be effective, you have to have a good, strong program for rehabilitation," said Femmini-

However, once the injured area has been corrected through surgery and rehabilitation, the process is not completed.

"When an injury occurs, your neuromuscular system needs to go through a change and discover what happened to your body," said Femminineo. "Once you've strengthened the injury up again, you still have to make the rehabilitation process. sure the injured area is not predisposed to an injury re-occur-

"First of all, when rehabilitating an injury, a person needs to be using strengthening, endurance conditioning and stretching," he said. "These are the three primary aspects used in rehabilitating.

"When the injury occurs, the muscles around it need to be reeducated," said Femminineo. The muscles have got to be contracting or functional in order to prevent any further injury. In other words, the muscles around it will be called on more to "pull together" when the injured area is going to be used again after

Although Femminineo is involved in the rehabilitation after Femminineo states there are injury, he does have ways to de- sure they are working all the tect any possible injury before it occurs.

"There are programs available in a pre-screening nature that can detect any potential imbal-ance," he said. "We would evaluate a person several months before the sport or activity is to begin so there is plenty of time to strengthen it before they get started.

Today, more and more individuals are starting a sport at an early age when their bodies are not mature. If that is the case, they are more susceptible to injuries; especially if their training involves weightlifting.

"What I recommend for young people getting started in a sport is low weight and high repetition," said Femminineo. "People have a tendency to grab heavy weights first, thinking they can become stronger quicker. That's not true. They have to make muscles and not just a few.'

In older people, the case remains the same, but a new dimension is added.

"Overall treatment for everyone is needed," said Femminineo who received his degree from Wayne State University. "As we put more miles on our bodies, we are opening ourselves up to more possible injury. What you need is a nice, continual pull on the muscles. That's why stretching is good.'

Rehabilitation can be avoided if injuries are avoided, but in order to steer clear of them, the three steps are vital. Femminineo is a true believer that strengthening, along with endurance conditioning and stretching are vital options needed in order to maintain an injury-free body.

Nature's Bounty

Summer's end brings with it a rush of outdoor activities. The Labor Day weekend signals the final days of summer and the return of school schedules, renewed activities in the business world, and the start up of all those volunteer groups, club meetings and personal endeavors we had put on hold during the lazy days of summer. Our already hectic lifestyles seem to get even busier. Unfortunately, the first thing to suffer is usually our diets. Nutritious. well-balanced meals fall vic-

With a little planning and preparation we can eliminate. or at least cut down a number of these meal problems. We are fortunate in today's world of rapid, cross-country transportation to be able to choose from a variety of fresh foods, even in the "dead of winter." Coupled with this continuing availability of nature's bounty, is the array of modern appliances that help to make meals from "scratch" not only quick and easy, but also economically competitive to all those processed foods. And the one big bonus that can not be over-looked is the superior nutritional value fresh and natural foods bring to our bodies.

tim to fast-food restaurants.

The 1980's, nutritionally speaking, may well be remembered as the time the natural foods market firmly gained a foothold in America's marketplace. Fresh produce markets, farmer's markets and roadside stands provide us with an abundance of homegrown goodness from which to choose. We have returned to the inquisitive natures of our younger selves, asking, "where did it come from, and oh, Lord, what did the food industry do to it now?"

To cook, using fresh, natural foods, shows our desire to be in control of our own wellbeing. Prefabricated, precooked, refined foods put the food processors in charge, as if they were our surrogate mothers. It is true that preparing foods from their natural state does take time, but with a little planning we can eliminate this problem.

Begin by creating a menu plan for an entire week, including a variety of all types of food. With a week's worth of meals written out ahead of time, our shopping trip will go that much faster. Next, prepare as many foods ahead of time as possible. Hardboiled eggs, chicken breasts, (off the bone) are two good examples of foods that can be cooked and kept on hand to facilitate a "quickie" meal.

Wash all fruits and vegetables thoroughly when you get home. Create your own "salad bar" in your refrigerator by washing, cutting and placing the hardier vegetables in individual zip-lock type bags. At meal time, place these bags on the counter, unzip, roll down, and each member of your household can make their own personally selected salad. Keep plenty of fresh fruits on hand for those in-between meal snacks. Concentrate on foods high in fiber and low in refined sugars, such as whole-grain breads and crackers, fruits and vegetables, and low-calorie, high protein fish and poultry. The more these buying, preparing and cooking habits are put into practice, the easier and quicker they will become. With a little bit of thought, we can rival any food-processor in preparation time and taste. Trendy health claims for individual foods mean nothing, unless each of us becomes knowledgeable about our particular dietary needs. What we do know are the basic nutrients necessary for good health. These nutrients are abundantly available in a diet of whole grains, legumes, fruits, vegetables, lean proteins, and dairy products.

Mother Nature continues to provide us with a rich and bountiful harvest. It is up to us to choose in what form these gifts from the earth reach our tables. Do we wish to sustain our lives or do we wish to enhance our lives? Mother Nature also provided us with one of her best handiworks, our intricate and beautiful bodies. Our bodies were the first, the original food processors! So let us make a renewed commitment as the autumn season begins, with all of it's hustle, to make time to eat healthfully.

Detroit's own 'Rosary Murders' is thought-provoking

By Michael Chapp Special Writer

There are a number of elements that make William Kienzle's "The Rosary Murders" such a good novel: mystery, comic relief and a theological dilemma with which the main character must make peace. So screenwriter Elmore "Dutch" Leonard and Director Fred Walton had a formidable task when they set out to bring "Murders" to the screen. Bless them, for they knew not what they were doing.

Walton's film, shot entirely on the streets and in the churches of Detroit, can boast an attention to aesthetic detail that belies its small budget. The film is almost entirely dark and gray, oppressive shadows loom everywhere, and long, dark corridors wind through ancient cold structures. For all its visual impact though, "Murders" lacks the irreverent comic edge and the double-sided mystery-theology conflict that make the novel so appealing.

Despite its title, "Dirty Dancing" is not vulgar. The dancing is evocative and in some sequences mesmerizing in its display of body language, but the movie kick.

Instead of being a whodunit with religious undercurrents, "The Rosary Murders" concerns itself almost exclusively with the priorities and methodologies of the Catholic Church. The murder mystery is secondary. "Murders" is not a bad movie; far from it. It is, however, a movie that lacks the sizzle of the novel on which it is based.

The main plot is intact. Priests and nuns from the Detroit area are being killed, and the only thing tying the murders together is the killer's calling card — a black rosary wrapped in the hands of the victims. Father Bob Koesler (Donald Sutherland), priest at Holy Redeemer Church and editor of the Detroit Catholic, is an avid mystery fan. Many of the victims the argument quickly ceases.

'Dirty Dancing' integrates dance, drama perfectly

were personal friends. And the killer recently admits to his wrongdoings in Koesler's confessional. So while Koesler is trying to solve the mystery, he is also faced with a problem of much heavier proportions — how does one keep more people from being killed without breaking the confidence of priest and penitent in the confessional?

The mystery eventually gets solved - some would say almost simplistically. While we wait for this, though, the film analyzes. by way of subplots, the rationality and usefulness of the Catholic Church in the modern world. Koesler represents all that is liberal and open-minded in the church, while his pastor, Father Nabors (Charles Durning) represents its strict, dogmatic hierarchy. "Everything the church stands for is based on law," he argues to Koesler. And as he stares down the younger priest,

It's not uncommon for a film adaptation to lack some of the detail and descriptiveness of the novel on which it's based. That Koesler manages to solve the mystery almost accidentally as opposed to methodically as in the novel - is acceptable. That Walton chose to make Free Press reporter Pat Lennon (Belinda Bauer) a romantic interest for Koesler instead of a reporter as she was in the novel is also acceptable. But to make a film which comes very close to being a piece of propaganda for the church's left wing is a bit disturbing. Not because that's bad in itself, but because that's not the point of the story.

Here, too, a movie is not a book, and it's possible to argue that there is no obligation on the part of a filmmaker to retain the original intent of the source material. On that point, there is no argument from this corner. But when a good novel becomes only a mediocre film because it lacks Swayze is more than an actor taking on the role of a dancer. He learned to dance before he could walk and studied dance with the Joffrey Ballet.

Up to now, "Saturday Night Fever" and "Flashdance" have been noted for astute synchronization of dance and story. But "Dirty Dancing," with its emotionally charged love story played out against a background of spectacular dance routines, puts it at the top of the class.

even the most basic and implicit elements of the book, perhaps it's fair to say that those making the film should have spent a little more time reading between the lines.

"The Rosary Murders" should not be written off as a bad film. It shows an artistic flair and a gritty realism that is seldom matched in modern cinema. Too, Detroit looks better than it ever has at the movies. Yes, the Downriver factories blanketed in smoke are still on the screen, but this time we also get to see some beautiful and diverse architecture - everything from the Renaissance Center to a bevy of churches - and a long scene at Greektown's Pegasus Restau-

"Murders" is subtle and it's thought-provoking. And though it loses a little in the translation, it's still a very acceptable piece of work.

The Missing LINC(

Linking individuals to Needs in the Community is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to coordinate needs with resources. This is accomplished by placing goods no longer needed by individuals and businesses into the hands of Metropolitan Detroit charitable agencies. Operating since 1971, LINC is proud of the accomplishments it has made and strives to increase its resource base. If you have recyclable items, no longer of use to you, Operation LINC knows who can and will use them. Please call LINC at 882-6100 with your donation. KEEP IT

DETROIT AMERICAN INDIAN HEALTH CENTER is seeking office equipment and furniture; VCA; STACKING CHAIRS, conference table, BOOK-CASES, TV and filing cabinets. This would greatly enhance their office and counciling center where they provide assistance in dental and medical services, substance abuse.

ARTS & CRAFT ITEMS, Board GAMES, and outdoor PLAY EQUIPMENT sought by UNITED SISTERS OF CHARITY. These and more items would be used in their summer program for ages four to twelve and in the latch key program during school year. Any EDUCATIONAL MATERIALS such as story books, tapes, records and materials for math and reading can also be put to good use here.

CYSTIC FIBROSIS FOUNDATION is desperately in need of a "heavy work load" COPIER. Operating budgets are cut and most funds generated go to research in finding a cure. An ELECTRIC TYPE-WRITER and inexpensive office space in being sought.

CEILING FANS, large wall MIRRORS (4x6) and latex flat wall PAINT would be put to good use at the PARADIGM DANCE THEATRE where teaching the arts of dance and performances are held regu-

PEOPLE IN FAITH UNITED, a housing cooperative, is searching for any items to update homes for their Beautification Project. PANELING, HOT WATER TANKS AND LUMBER are especially important to the program's success

ASEBALL BATS. SOFTBALLS, GLOVES, CRO-QUET SETS, WATER TOYS, BOARD GAMES for all ages and CRAFT SUPPLIES desperately sought by CHILDREN'S HOME OF DETROIT CURTAIN for a theatre stage would also be greatly appreciated.

TO A GOOD HOME Tiger cat out that is declawed and completely litterbox trained and very affectionate. However, she was pregnant and in the last week of July had 5 kittens - 2 Tigers, 2 Morris's (orange) and 1 Calico. They will be old enough to adopt the second week of September, I do not have the heart to take them to the Humane Society or Anti Cruelty because they will put them to sleep if no home is found for them. I simply can't keep 5 cats! I'm single and not home much. you give the kittens a home, I will pay the veterinary bill to have them spayed or neutered which ever the case may be to whoever gives them a good home. Please call 831-2156, ask for Jay and leave your name and number and I will call you as soon as possible. After 7 PM 882-1746.

Invaders capture second place at Special Olympics

The Invaders from the Grosse Pointe Neighborhood Club traveled to the 1987 Michigan Special Olympics State Softball Tournament in Midland and they brought home a secondplace trophy in Division III.

The tournament, which was sponsored by Thorne Apple Valley, sported 33 teams.

Screening and team evaluations were held from 1-4 p.m. on the first day and were followed by opening ceremonies at 6:30 p.m. Eight divisions were established according to team abili-

The Invaders won their firstround game against the Northland Tigercats (from Roscommon) 20-17, but dropped the second contest 21-20 to host, Midland Warriors.

The Invaders finished their regular season with 10 wins, one loss and one tie. They played in the Northeast Special Softball League with teams from Warren, Sterling Heights and Rose-

Team members include, Vince

CHIMPS: A Capital Idea On behalf of everyone affiliated with the Detroit Zoo, thank you for supporting our campaign to build a new, world-class chimpanzee exhibit at the Zoo.

As we head into the final days of the fundraising drive, it's the As we head into the final days of the fundraising drive, it's the contributions from small businesses and ordinary folks that mean so much. By contributing $25 to the Chimpanzee Exhibit Campaign for every new vehicle you sell or lease, Al Long Ford is providing a true community service. You are giving your customers and their families, the zoo-goers in this community, a chance to learn about the new chimp exhibit and an opportunity to feel a part of it. This is important because the Detroit Zoo is everybody's zoo.

When open in 1989, the new chimp exhibit will contain the largest collection of chimps in the most natural setting ever developed for these special animals by a zoo. It will provide education and enjoyment to millions for years to come and be a source of community pride at our revitalized zoo. It's clear from your enthusiastic response that you and the staff of h1 Long Ford agree wholeheartedly.

Thank you for opening your doors to the Zoo and taking the lead among the auto dealers of this community. We look forward to seeing you on September 26th for "Al Long Ford Day at the Zoo."

ACURA SHIFTS INTO FIRST

Last year, the first Acura automobiles came to America. This year, they arrived. First, the Acura Legend Coupe was named the 1987 Motor Trend Import Car of the Year.

And now, Acura has just been named number one in customer satisfaction as reported by the respected J.D. Power and Associates Customer Satisfaction Index:

Rarely does an automobile enjoy such recognition. And never in its first year of existence. But then, rarely does an automobile offer so much. Advanced technology. Exhilarating performance. Precision craftsmanship. Contemporary design.

Take an Acura automobile for a test drive today. It's time you shifted up, as well.

Treasons To go to Windsor next Caturday

Like beaches? There's over a dozen of them in Windsor's Essex County. In fact, there's over 25 miles of beachfront on our Lake Erie coast and Lake St. Clair. Get a great tan. Watch the waves roll in. Or just wiggle your toes in the sand. Where else are you going to find beaches like these?

Kids of all ages love Bob-Lo.
When you take the boat from Amherstburg, the ride's a little shorter and costs a little less.

Imagine a place where lush tropical vegetation grows in profusion. It's not the Amazon, it's not deepest Africa, it's Colasanti's Tropical Gardens.

4.

Go to Windsor for the the nightlife. Like jazz? Like rock-n-roll? How about bluegrass or bagpipes or pops or symphony? If you're looking for a little night music, you've come to the right place: Windsor.

You can have lunch or dinner right on the water at places like Windsor Hilton, Smitty's-on-the-River or Lakeshore Terrace Hotel down in Kingsville. Because Windsor Essex County is practically the world capital of waterfront restaurants.

Actually, there are more than five reasons to go to Windsor next weekend. In fact, no one really knows how many there are. Go to Windsor for a walk along the beach, a stroll in the park or take a ferry ride to Pelee Island. It's more than a way to get out of the house. It's a way to have a good time. Just say...

Let's go to Windsor!

COME, HARVEST ESSEX COUNTY'S CORNUCOPIA

LDTIMERS IN ESSEX County say the only corn grown here decades ago was field corn, dried and ground to make a hearty breakfast food.

But thanks to agricultural research, one of today's tastiest vegetables is sweet corn on the cob.

"The season is ahead by about 10 days," says Bruce Beggs, fruit and vegetable inspector with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food. "We'll still have lots of sweet corn through late September. We seem to have a good crop this year of green beans, red beets, broccoli and cabbage."

He says cabbage, carrots and cauliflower will be available in the area well into October and November. Plenty of egg plant, field tomatoes, hot and sweet peppers and Spanish and cooking onions are expected at roadside stands and produce markets throughout the fall.

The peaches and cantalope season is finishing up, Ben says, following an exceptionally hot summer. But there are still plenty of other fruits to choose from. A wide variety of fruits are harvested during the autumn season, including plums and several varieties of pears.

If the plums you purchase are on the tart, less-ripe side, leave them to ripen in a cool room. Pears ripen from the inside out. Eat them soon if they are soft to the touch.

Late September is the time for a delicious apple.

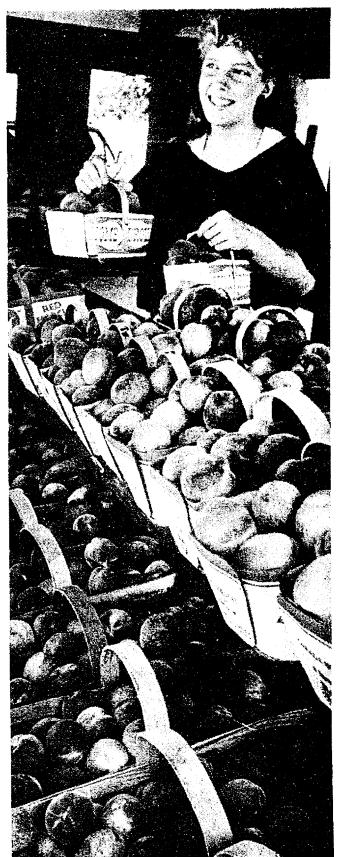

The MacIntosh apple originated in Eastern Ontario more than 178 years ago and is found all over the world today. The Cortland, a cross between MacIntosh and Ben Davis apples, is a favorite for its bright red fruit.

THOPPERS SHOULD Dalso look for Northern spy. Ontario harvests this large, red-striped fruit in October and it's considered the best cooking apple.

Blue berries are plentiful late into September with some pick-your-own facilities and at the stands.

The concord-blue table grape will start to ripen at the end of August. This fruit should be stored in a refrigerator and eaten or preserved within four or five days of purchase.

Honey may not be a fruit, but this Ontario product is easy to find in Setember. It comes in various colors indicating the flavor.

A FALL FILLED WITH FESTIVALS, CELEBRATIONS

IF YOU HAVE ever paid a summer visit to Windsor and Essex County, then you know the area offers some of the best beaches and parkland around. And while the warm days of summer are quickly coming to an end, activities around the area are still in full swing.

Fall means harvest time a cause for celebration as hundreds of county farmers get ready to celebrate a season of hard work.

Festivals abound with fun. food and harvest-time activities.

SEPTEMBER STARTS with Colasanti Tropical Gardens' annual Septemberfest, Sunday, Sept. 6, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Colasanti's can be found in Ruthven, Ont., just off Highway 3.

This annual event marks the return of the school year in a big way, with clowns, a magic show, a spaghetti-eating contest, miniature train displays, a family barbecue and more.

Admission is $2 Cdn for adults; free for kids 12 and under. For more information, phone (519) 326-2387.

CLASSIC AUTOMOBILE

fans will want to include Heritage Village in their plans, Sunday Sept. 6, from 11 a.m. The village will display a collection of rare and exotic vehicles during its annual Fun On Wheels day, sponsored by the Historical Vehicle Society of Ontario.

The village can be found on the Arner Townline, near Essex, Ont. For more information phone (519) 776-6909.

IN CELEBRATION of the area's annual grape harvest and to commemorate Italy's traditional wine-making season, Windsor's Italian community will sponsor its annual Grape Festival, Sept. 17-20, at the Giovanni Caboto Club, 2175 Parent Ave. Highlights of the four-day festival include a spagnetti-eating contest, a bocci ball tournament and a Monte Carlo room.

For more information on activities and admission, phone the club at (519) 252-8383.

THE ESSEX COUNTY Historical Society will sponsor its annual Antique Show and Sale, Sept. 18-20, at the Teutonia Club, 55 Edinborough See EVENTS, CN6

THE END of September means the start of the annual Monarch butterflies' southward migration, a favorite event with area nature-lovers and best viewed at Point Pelee National Park, just south of Leamington.

Each year, thousands of Monarch butterflies cluster on trees near the tip of the park, waiting to start their long journey to Mexico. Migration usually covers a three-to four-week period and is dependant on weather conditions. For a Monarch report, phone the park at (519) 322-2365.

what would october be without a traditional Bavarian Octoberfest? Windsor's German community plays host to this festive event the weekends of Oct. 2-4 and 9-11. Traditional German dancing, food and music are highlighted at the event that has become a Windsor tradition.

The event is held at the Teutonia Club, 55 Edinborough St., (519 969-3815). There will be an admission fee of about $2.50 Cdn.

COLASANTPS in Ruthven will also host its annual Ciderfest, Oct. 3 and 4, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The whole family is invited to take part in this event; a return to yesteryear, featuring outdoor games, a blacksmithing display, antique steam engines, apple cider, hayrides and more.

For more information, phone Colasanti's at (519) 326-3287.

ANOTHER OLD-TIME event is the annual Harvest Festival to be held Sunday, Oct. 4, at the John R. Park Homestead and Conservation Area, County Road 50, in Oxley.

ONCE THE CANADA geese arrive, it's celebration time during Kingsville's annual Migration Festival, Oct. 17 and 18.

This festival celebrates the traditional return of the Canada goose to Jack Miner's Bird Sanctuary, one of their many stops on their annual southward migration. Events include a parade, a double-decker bus tour, arts and crafts displays and children's games. For more information, phone the Kingsville town hall, (519) 733-2315.

10,000 EXPECTED TO WATCH BIKE RACES

A BOUT 10,000 spectators are expected at the Erie Street Circuit bicycle race in Windsor on Labor Day, Sunday, Sept. 6, says club president Gordon Way.

The annual race will commence at 1 p.m. (The street will be closed to traffic at noon.) Racing teams from New York, Florida and even Belgium and Australia — about 300 bikers in all — will compete for cash prizes.

Competitors will follow a square circuit from Erie Street to Giles Boulevard and Howard Avenue, totalling about 80 km. There will be several different categories, including a junior group for kids.

"Cash prizes will help some of the racers defray the cost of their travel and their expensive equipment," Gordon says. His club has more than 250 members who raise Windsor money for causes such as the Heart and 948-7824.

Stroke Fund.

Gordon's 22-year-old daughter, Kelly Ann Way, was one of Canada's top riders in the famous Tour de France bike races, held in July. She finished 33rd out of 85 of the top women riders from around the world.

"Some of our members have won silver and gold medals in the recent Ontario championships," Gordon says. "We also compete with many Michigan clubs and have a good relationship with them."

The Windsor Bicycle Club originated in 1959 under a different name.

The club is competitive, although it has a group of older riders who stays for social functions. One regular rider is 69 years old. Also, it like to travel.

Anyone interested in the tours can phone Windsor cyclist Christine Davies at (519)

FALL IS FESTIVAL TIME IN WINDSOR

THE 16TH ANNUAL Grape Festival of the Caboto Club in Windsor is set to open Thursday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m. More than 10,000 people are expected for the celebration of the fruit of the vine organized by the 62-year-old club, says secretary Toni Fotuna.

There will be a $2-Cdn admission charge. Festivities will continue Friday, Sept. 18, from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. and Saturday, 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday, the festival will close at 9 p.m.

The festival includes live music, wine and beer, sausages and barbecue meats indoors and outdoors at 2175 Parent Ave.

Proceeds from the club will help its 1,050 members sponsor local sports, including its own winning soccer team.

In October, Windsor's German community club, the Teutonia Club, 55 Edinborough St., (519 969-3815), will celebrate Octoberfest on two weekends, indoors and outdoors.

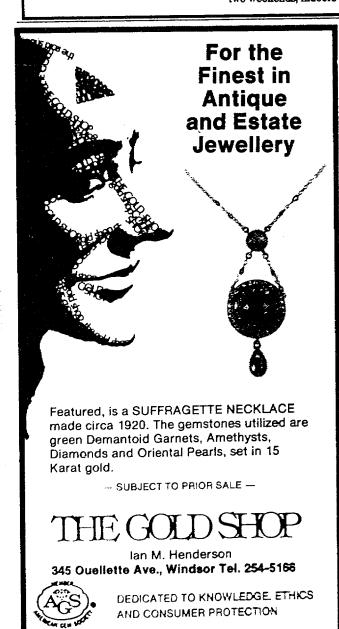

Mark Brown, president of the 1,000-member club, says there is an admission fee of about $2.50 Cdn.

The event opens Friday, Oct. 2, and runs through Sunday, Oct. 4, and resumes Friday, Oct. 9, to Sunday, Oct. 11. Hours are from 6 p.m. to 1 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays and 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays.

Three German orchestras and German folk-dancing groups will entertain. Brown says he expects a crowd of 10,000 to 15,000 people, who will enjoy ethnic foods such as sausage and sauerkraut.

"Sunday is our family day," Brown says.
"We hope to see families here for our good food. We are a non-profit club that promotes the German culture, especially our dance groups."

The club was registered in 1935 as the German Society of Windsor.

ANNUAL BIRD MIGRATION TAKES FLIGHT

FOR BIRDWATCHERS, few months get a higher rating than September and October in Essex County.

With early fall temperatures still on the mild side, thousands of bird enthusiasts flock annually to Point Pelee National Park to watch what has been called the most impressive migratory view in North America. Point Pelee is located south of Learnington.

Because of it's location, Point Pelee has become a favorite stopping grounds for a wide variety of birds looking for a final rest before their long trip across Lake Erie.

Parks Canada naturalists say September is an ideal month to view the migration of land birds, such as the sharp-skinned hawk, rubycrowned kinglet and hermit thrush. Late September brings the orange-crowned warbler, water pipit, and the occasional peregrine.

As temperatures fall, migratory travel is stepped up and naturalists say any cold front from mid-to late-September will prompt a large migratory wave of broadwinged hawks and blue jays.

In October, watch for white-winged scoters, eastern bluebirds, hairy woodpeckers and evening grosbeaks, to name a few.

In all, Point Pelee has recorded 322 species of feathered visitors, which have been attracted by the park's mild climate and trees.

Point Pelee naturalists suggest early morning at the southern tip of the park for the best view.

They say the migrant birds prefer light, southerly winds, humidity and overcast conditions for their southern flight from dawn to 9 a.m.

To protect the park's vegetation from auto exhaust, a free transit system is available for visitors wishing to use the Tip Trail.

While visiting the tip, stay only on designated trails and boardwalks. This not only ensures safety but also helps preserve plant and wild life.

During birding season, the park's visitor centre, located 10 km from the park gates, offers films, lectures and guided tours for beginner and advanced observers.

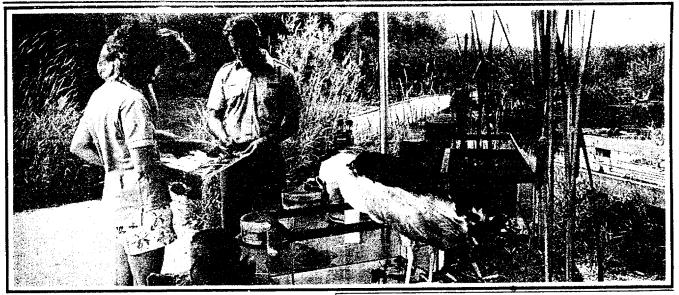

While the tip is considered the best migratory observation point, Point Pelee offers a 2.75-km Woodland Nature Trail and the one-km Tilden's Woods Trail. Both trails lead from the centre.

Mrs. McDowell of Northville, Michigan is the lucky winner of last month's "Canadian Neighbours Contest". Her prize is a dinner for 2 at the Top Hat, one of Windsor's finest restaurants.

CHRIS LEMIEUX, a naturalist at Point Pelee National Park, shows visitors examples of wildlife found in the federal park's marshlands. Point Pelee is one of the best stops in Essex County to see the annual fall butterfly migration.

BUTTERFLIES ARE FREE

CALLING ALL nature lovers: the end of summer and early fall provide a great opportunity to explore Windsor and Essex County's parklands and conservation areas.

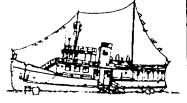

One of the highlights is the annual Monarch Butterfly Migration, best viewed at Point Pelee National Park.

The Monarchs store up energy at Point Pelee before making their strenuous Lake Erie crossing towards Mexico beginning in mid-August. This makes for a magnificent spectacle, as thousands of butterflies cling to tree branches at the southern tip of the park prior to their seasonal migration.

Canadian Ministry of the Enviroment officials say Monarch butterflies are produced in two cycles — the first from mid-July to August and the second from mid-August to September. Only the butterflies in the second cycle will make the 6,700-km return journey to Mexico's Sierra Madre Mountains, where they will stay until February.
